MEASSONS every one should deposit their Savings Banks.

I. If money is kept in a private house it attracts thieves. If thieves come to take money they may take lives as well,

a. If money is kept in a house or in a hole in the ground the porsesses carns no interest. On all money deposited with Banks. a depositor receives interest which is paid half-yearly.

3. Money deposited in Banks is more readily available and gives the owner less trouble than money kept in a house or buried: because If he wants to make a payment, instead of opening boxes and counting coins and notes, he writes a cheque and the Bank takes all the trouble for him. Similarly if a depositor receives paymen by a cheque, instead of going a journey and collecting the money himself, he sends the cheque to his Banker who saves him the trouble without charge.

Keeping money on Deposit with a Bank costs nothing but on the contrary yields a bi-annual return Money kept in a house or buried costs much time and trouble, and if strong rooms or vaults are built or Iron Safes purchased the expense is considerable.

5. If the custom of depositing savings with Banks were generally adopted by natives of India, I calculate that they would in the aggregate be richer by about Rs. 1 crore per annum. This is computing deposits an at average of Re. 1 per head only, and allowing for an average return of interest at 3 per cent.

6. The Commercial Bank of India Limited,

makes provision for all classes of investors. This Bank has the largest capital of any of the Banks in India which allow interest on similar terms and has Branch establishments in Bombay Calcutta, Karachi, Londn, Murree, Rawal Pindi, and Rangoon, the Head office being Madras.

Three centuries ago, Sree Sreenivasa Acharjya, one o the greatest devotees of Lord Gauranga, had a portrait prepared of the Lord and his Bhaktas, which descended to his pious family as perhaps the most precious heirloom. Sree Sreenivasa's great-grandson was Radha Mohun Thakur, the guru or spiritual precept-or of Maharaja Nanda Kumar. The Maharaja, him? self a pious Baishnava, was so captivated with the portrait that he interceded with his guru and obtained it from him. The painting was removed to the Maharaja's palace; and it may still be seen at the Kunja Ghata Rajbati.

The Gauranga Samaj has had a photograph of this ancient painting, taken by a celebrated artist of the town; and copies may be had at the under-mentioned

The Board has placed water hydrants in every lane and byelane to impose the water-rate but it has hardly made provis ons for the proper discharge of water. The result is that the water which escapes from the ripes collects itself inco streams s and sflows perpetually into the mohallas to the great detriment of mealth and clear liness. In many places these streams have a become wide and deep enough to obstruct the passage of conveyances and prove dangerous to footpassengers in the dark. The first duty of the Board ought to have been to provide for the proper discharge of water. Now, for remedying this state of things the unreasonable reply is given that the people themselves are to blame for allowing too much water to escape from the pipes when drawing water. The other reply is that this complaint being common to many mohallas there are not funds to provide for all! So this is the way our City. Fathers dispose of public complaints! But the beautyof the whole thing is that while there are no funds for such abominably insanitary objects, the Board can afford to maintain a costly Health Officer who is unpopularity personified; can provide for luxuries by erecting troughs on roads for horses which are not wanted; can engage a large staff of Bhistis to water the co ners of well swept Troads which looks ridicu'ous; and can find money to carry out the

THE TIMES" (LONDON)

TO RESIDENTS

IN INDIA.

The sale of The Times Reprint of the Encyclopædia Britannica, 9th Edition, at the remarkable prices which now obtain, cannot continue later than Tuesday. It is unnecessary to say anything more about The Times Reprint of the Ninth Edition of the Encyclopædia Britannica. Readers of this paper are already well acquainted with this remarkeable offer of a standard work at 50 per cent. reduction from the established price.

Those who have intended to take advantage of the opportunity, and who have not yet acted, have only three days more in which to profit by the greatest bargain in the history of bookselling. Perhaps to-morrow, certainly on Tuesday, the last of the sets of the Encyclopælia Britannica reserved by The Times for India at the present low price will all be taken, and then the offer must close. This is the end of the opportunity to secure this wonderful publication upon the special terms now offered.

SIR, -Oa opening your issue of the 27th -January I turned with the greatest interest to gentlemen of intelligence with whom I converse positions in life." That was the opinion of the remarks of the Catholic missionary in Northern India communicated in your correspondent's letter on "Unrest in India." Catholic missionaries mix with the people, live among the people, and, as your correspondent says, spend their lives "for the welfare of some of the poorest of our Indian fellow-subjects: land t is a distinct gain to know the impartial views of such observers uninfluenced alike by fact, the whole fabric of our educational system; effect on the country at large. I admit official optimism and gross popular pessimism. Of course there are tion, and from trade returns to prove that "the people are now better off than they were before." But he does not allude to and does not explain facts which he must have witness-In succeeding to the government of this which will redound to our discomfiture. I do ed with his own eyes—facts which every country, we did not inherit from native rule not pursue that view here. I content myself missionary, merchant, and official in India has witnessed and regretted—the chronic indebtedness of the cultivators, and the famine succeedlof Indian civilisation as Delhi, or Agra, or all the ways in which it manifests itself, perhaps ing every year of bad harvest. Within my life time I have witnessed and I vividly remember five desolating famines (in some of which I acted as a relief officer) - I mean the attained to great distinction. It is also true tion and reverent respect now being paid famines of 1860, 1866, 1874, 1877, and 1897, and these famine are estimated to have carried been least affected by political disturbance, and in the comb ned efforts which are being off ten mil ions of the people. Figures can be made to prove almost enythin, but figures will not prove the prosperity of the people of India in the face of these terrible columities, unexampled in any other part of the world tion under native rule. I presume we may takes to weigh our educational endeavours in enjoying a civilised rule. The words of John Bright are as t ue now as they were when he uttered them, many years ago, that "if a country be found possessing a most feit le soil and capable of bearing every variety of production, and that not withstanding the people are in a state of extreme destitution and suffering, the chances are there is some fundamental error in the government of that country." It is necessary to seek ou the fundamen al error in Indian administration.

No one will deny the benefits of a country's foreign trade, but when the increasing foreign trade of India is adduced to prove an improvement in the material condition of the cultivators I consider it necessary to point out (as I have pointed out in my work on "England and India, 1785-1885") that this increase in foreign trade is largely n owing to Indian home manufactures and indus-tries being killed and replaced by English manufactures and industries. No one again, will deny the vast de lof good which has been done by the construction of canals and of useful railways, but canals and railways will not improve the condition of cultivators if they are not allowed a fair and sufficient margin of profit out of the produce of their lands. The over-assessment of land is the root of the poverty of agricultural India, and the Catholic missionary might have found ample evidence of this in backward parts like Madras and the Central Provinces. The old Hindu laws embodied in the Institutes of Manu permitted the State to demand one sixth (162-3 per cent. of the gross produce as land revenue. In Bengal, where the lind revenue is pernot obtain more than this from cultivators, while the share obtained by the State is much less. Now turn to Madras. The State demands as land revenue one-half the net produce of the soil, and we learn from official records that this comes to about 33 to 40 per cent. of the gross produce of the soil. I do not tion, and I do not beleve that any peasantry pay such an enormous land tax. In the Central Provinces, in some parts 60 per cent of the rents collected by landlords is demanded from the latter as Government revenue, and this was admitted by the Secretary of State for between Anglicists and the Orientalists, described. You cannot teach to-day the India in his replies to questions put by Mr. decided and in my humble judgment decided truths of geography, or astronomy, without it Samuel Smith, M. P., last year.
