A. Information regarding the protection for the wounded

Those who have been given physical handicaps on account of wars, calamities, injuries, and accidents are as per indicated in annex. Most of them are not only in narrow circumstances but kept harassed mentally. Although all the eligible among them have been provided with protection within the purview of Daily Life Security Law in the same rating with the needy in general either at their own home or at the mass housing camps by which they have been given housing priority, from the special nature of the wounded it is impossible to warrant their living satisfactorily only by furnishing them with material or pecuniary assistance unless some other measures as will enable them to stand on their own feet are taken in the future. So that these measures for these unhappy people may be materialized as early as practicable, Fukushima-ken Wounded Persons Protection Measures Commission was established to make them supply us with proper recommendations based on their specialized knowledge and experience in coordination with the central commission vested with the same mission.

In this connection, the welfare law re the injured which has been passed by the national congress this time is to be enforced on and after 1 April 1950.

B. Information on the establishment of consumers cooperatives:

In this prefecture there has been a move among the general consumers to form the consumers cooperative to protect themselves against the social and economical confusion caused after the surrender, and there has been an increasing tendency in the arrival of the cooperatives formed on their initiative with a motive of mutual assistance with a view to promote the stabilization of national life and cultural improvement. It is natural that the necessity caused by the after-war situation should have compelled them to form some type of organization on the cooperative basis.

The national government has also clarified their intention to renew the ways of administration over the matters concerning the consumers cooperatives by enforcing the consumers cooperative associations regulations since 1 October 1948. Whether the aim intended by the regulations will be attained or not is contingent on our efforts to lead the general public so that they may be well informed of the ways of promoting the cooperatives on the basis of integrity by let them realize the spirit as well as the essence of the law.

The cooperatives formed with the purview of the law are as follow; there are also some making preparations to apply for authorization.
