C. E. KIMLIN BACK HOME FROM TRIP THROUGH EAST

Sanitarium Business Head Tells Some Experiences on Inspection Tour

C. E. Kimlin resumed his local duties this morning after a tour of a month's duration inspecting hospitals and gathering ideas for the new plant of the Glendale sanitarium and hospital.

Dr. H. G. Westphal of 337 North Isabel street, B. M. Emerson of 441 Salem street, and W. D. Salisbury of LaCrescenta accompanied Mr. Kimlin on the trip east. Mr. Salisbury left the party at Washington to return to Watertown, New York to visit relatives and Dr. Westphal and Mr. Emerson remained a few days longer in Chicago. Upon their return a meeting of the board of directors of the Glendale sanitarium and hospital will be called and final plans approved for the new plant.

Mr. Kimlin's itinerary included Denver, Chicago, Lafayette, Indiana, Battle Creek, Michigan, Buffalo, Montreal, Boston, New York city, Baltimore, Washington, Chicago, St. Louis, Kansas City, Missouri, and Salt Lake City.

Pays to Advertise

The Battle Creek sanitarium was re-visited by the party. Before coming to California nine years ago Mr. Kimlin was connected with this institution and knows both Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Kellogg. He was cordially received by his friends and the local party was taken on a personally conducted tour of the Kellogg Corn Flakes plant which has spent $20,000,000 in the past few years in advertising and now does a business of about $12,000,000 a year.

Noise impressed Mr. Kimlin more than anything else in the home plant of Henry Ford at Highland Park. He said that it was the noisiest place he ever got into and that he had a headache when he came out. He commented on the fact that a Ford is put together in half an hour and that every minute a new one is run off the plant.

The hospital in connection with the Ford plant impressed the party greatly. Mr. Kimlin remarked that it has been lavishly fitted up, apparently without regard to investment.

Very Latest Ideas

The last thing in hospital construction is the new $3,000,000 (Continued on Page 20)

Local Elks Plan Benefit for Band

Monday night, August 14, has been set aside by the local Elks' lodge as "band" night. The entire meeting to be turned into a special "jinx" and entertainment, the proceeds of which will go toward outfitting the Glendale band in the coming state convention at Santa Monica in October. The program, which will be announced to the members within the next few days, will include vaudeville, boxing, wrestling and other features.

Mrs. C. W. McFadden Is Here From Taft

Mrs. C. Wilbur McFadden, formerly of Glendale and who with her husband and family recently moved to Taft from Bakersfield, is spending the summer with her mother, Mrs. A. J. Nowhall, at 701 East Colorado street. Mr. McFadden motors down to spend the week-ends. Mrs. Wilbur Stamps of 436 West Colorado street entertained with a picnic luncheon at Brookside park yesterday afternoon in honor of Mrs. McFadden and children.

Mr. and Mrs. Kinnan Entertain at Cards

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Kinnan of 358 West Patterson avenue entertained at 7:00 at their home Monday night in honor of Mr. Kinnan's mother and aunt. Mrs. Sarah Kinnan and Mrs. Georgia Murphy of Indianapolis, who are their house guests. Those present included Mrs. Sarah Kinnan, Mrs. Murphy, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Dennis, Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Fuller, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Stephenson, Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Card, Mrs. Walters of Jersey City, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Kinnan.

Mrs. W. M. Crawford Given Surprise Party

A party of friends of Mrs. W. M. Crawford, 800 South Central avenue, delightfully surprised her at her home Monday night in celebration of her birthday anniversary. The evening was spent at cards and dancing and later birthday cake and ice cream were served. Those present included Mr. and Mrs. Charles Judt, Luman Judd, Mr. and Mrs. James Goodrich and son Edward of Burbank, Mr. and Mrs. George H. Herald, Tuck Chapin, Roy Selover, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Crawford and Miss Margaret Crawford.

C. E. KIMLIN, business manager of the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital, who has returned from a tour of eastern hospitals.

MRS. FRED HAGIN ARRIVES IN CITY FROM JAPAN

Leaves With Husband Today to Visit in Michigan; Returned Missionaries

Glendale friends of Mr. and Mrs. Fred M. Hagin, who formerly resided in Glendale, have had the pleasure this week of greeting Mrs. Hagin, who arrived Friday from Japan, to join her husband and leave today for Water-vliet, Mich., to visit until September. They have been away five years this time and Mrs. Hagin states that she sees many changes, particularly in Glendale.

Here Three Years

Previous to their last period of service the Hagins lived in Glendale for three years and their children attended and graduated from the Glendale Union High school. Their daughter, Miss Edith, is now teaching in the girls' school at Tokio, Japan. After her graduation from the local high school she attended the Los Angeles Normal school, taking training for her missionary work.

The son, Dan Hagin, is also an alumnus of the Glendale Union High school, and he is now taking a medical course at Northwestern university, with a view to serving as a medical missionary. The other daughter, Fannie Alice, is a student at Eureka college, near Chicago, where she is studying piano and special Sunday school methods. She also intends to enter mission service in the orient.

Mr. and Mrs. Hagin plan to return to California in September and to locate permanently in Glendale.

Rev. C. A. Cole at Annual Conference

Rev. C. A. Cole, pastor of the Central Christian church, this week is at Long Beach attending the annual conference of the Christian Church of Southern California.

Over 4,000 delegates are in attendance. This number includes ministers, laymen, members of the Christian Endeavor and others connected with all Christian churches in this section of the state.

The principal speaker of the convention is Rev. E. H. Miller, pastor of the Independence Boulevard church of Kansas City, Mo.

Classes for church workers are being held each morning during the convention. These are divided into two classifications: First, those for Sunday school teachers; and second, those for missionary workers. About seven classes are in session simultaneously.

SPECIAL PROGRAM AND SOCIAL TIME BY D. OF V.

Very Pleasing Entertainment Is Given by Tent for Big Number of Guests

Over seventy-five daughters and daughters-in-law and sons of Civil War veterans, W. R. C. and G. A. R. members and guests were entertained last night in the American Legion hall on East Broadway by a specialty program and informal social time arranged by members of the Mary Jane Gillette tent No. 18, Daughters of Veterans. Those arranging for the affair were Mrs. Susie Peck, president of the tent; Mrs. Queen Danner, chairman of the entertainment committee, and Mrs. J. V. Griffen.

Bouquets of dahlias, carnations, hollyhocks and other summer flowers were used in decorating the halls for the program and informal hour following.

Community Singing

Preceding the program C. H. Clark of the local G. A. R. post led community singing, with Charles Parker at the piano.

The program included some enjoyable musical and dramatic numbers, among them being a vocal solo by Mrs. Dorothy Van Wise, accompanied by her 11-year-old son, Spencer; a piano solo by Rosemary Gribble, 8 years old, who made her first public appearance; a group of readings by Mrs. R. E. Nerr; a piano solo by Audrey Haines; a reading by Mrs. Pearl Moore and more community singing.

Hold Spelling Match

Following the program Charles Parker and Charles Stuart chose sides for an old-fashioned spelling match and Mr. Parker's supporters were finally successful in spelling down the other side, the lucky word being "piece."

Another feature of the latter part of the evening was the awarding of a home-made rug to Fred Pugh of the W. S. Rosecrans Sons of Veterans of Los Angeles.

In addition to the Glendale people present there were representatives received from the Ida McKinley tent of Denver, Colo., from San Pedro, Los Angeles, Seattle and Walnut, Kan.

J. W. Lawson Family to Attend Marriage

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Lawson and daughter and son, Edna and Jack, of the Castle apartments, 225 North Brand boulevard, left this morning for San Francisco to attend the marriage Saturday of their son and brother, Lieut. Lawrence Lawson, to Miss Edna Davis of Chicago.

Lieut. Lawson, who is in the aviation service of the United States army, has been stationed during the past two years at Honolulu. Miss Davis is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Davis of Chicago, Ill. After their marriage the young couple plan to come to Glendale for a visit with Lieut. Lawson's parents.

Lyman Clark Heads Santa Barbara Party

Fifteen members of the Glendale Kiwanis club left at 9 o'clock this morning with Lyman P. Clark, president of the local organization, for Santa Barbara to sponsor the opening of a Kiwanis club in that city. They will return for the club banquet here tonight. Last week the Glendale members were sponsors for the opening of the Kiwanis club at Alhambra and secured sixty-one members. Next week the local organization will sponsor the opening of a club at Burbank.

Dancing, Games and Music Are Enjoyed

Miss Dorothea Vogel and aunt, Mrs. Elizabeth Bray, of 408 North Wood street entertained a group of forty guests at a dancing party given at their home last night. The evening was spent in dancing, games and music. Refreshments were served the latter part of the evening.

Strike Denial

CHICAGO, July 26.—E. F. Grable, president of the 400,000 railroad maintenance of way employes, this afternoon denied a report from Detroit to the effect that his men will go on strike because of the movement of a number of eastern railroads to form company organizations.

Continue Drive

DUBLIN, July 26.—Turning from their drive southward, the free state troops this afternoon are lunging westward to clean up the rebels in the western counties. Free states have captured Castle Bar. The rebels have abandoned Swineford, Charlestown and Kiltimah. Some of the irregular troops are reported to have mutinied. One irregular mutineer was said to have been tried by court martial and executed.

Second Game

NEW YORK, July 26.—With the pennant race still a nip and tuck affair—less than a game separating the Cards from the Giants for first place—the leaders engaged in the second game of their crucial five-game series today. A victory by St. Louis today would place them in a virtual tie for the leadership. A crowd estimated at 18,000 was on hand. Phil Douglas was the pitching choice of the Giants and was opposed by Sherdell of the Cards.

Depends on Russia

LONDON, July 26.—"It solely depends on Russia's actions whether The Hague conference represents the final solution of the Russian problem," Premier Lloyd George announced in the house of commons this afternoon.

"Europe must proceed gradually by conferences toward peace," the premier stated. He expressed himself as amazed at the progress the world has made since the armistice. A settlement with Russia would be advantageous to the world, Premier Lloyd George added.

Mrs. E. Seidenglanz Home From Nebraska

Mrs. E. T. Seidenglanz of 426 Burchett street returned Tuesday from Omaha, Neb., where she has been visiting friends and relatives.

About a month ago Mrs. Seidenglanz left for Manitowoc, Wis., where she took the body of her mother, Mrs. Katherine Hajek, the victim of a paralytic stroke. After the burial in Manitowoc, their old home, Mrs. Seidenglanz visited there and then went to Omaha.

Although under considerable nervous strain Mrs. Seidenglanz stood the trip well, and her many friends will be glad to know that she is again enjoying her usual good health.

Girl Scouts Troop No. 3 Is Organized

Troop No. 3 of Glendale Girl Scouts was organized yesterday afternoon at a meeting held on the playground of the Intermediate school.

Miss R. C. Horner will be lieutenant of the new troop, which will be under her direction, until the return of Miss Frances Jackson, who has applied for commission as captain. Rebecca Brant was elected patrol leader and Janice Brown, corporal.

Other members of the first patrol are Helen White, Virginia Horner, Nellie Jopson, Dorothy Forbes, Beatrice Case and Betty Glade. A second patrol will be filled in the near future.

Assisting Mrs. Horner in organizing were Miss Gladys Sharpe, captain; Mary Stanley, senior patrol leader; Lucile Beach, FredERICA Browne and Frances Betz, scouts of troop No. 1. At the close of the meeting punch was served by the senior scouts.

Summer Home Is Scene of Gathering

The summer cottage at Coronado beach belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Harry M. Bennett of Grand View avenue, was the scene of a merry Friday to Monday house party, given by Harry Bennett and Robert Frazee, formerly of Glendale, and chaperoned by Harry's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bennett.

Mr. and Mrs. Bennett entertained the young people with a dinner dance Saturday evening at the Hotel del Coronado. During the rest of the time swimming, dancing, motoring and beach parties were enjoyed.

The guests were Winifred Parker, Katherine Stofft, Dorothy Houston, Margaret Longley, Dorothy Syms, Ralph Van Hoorbeke, Thomas Wood, Evert Smits,

ONLY THREE DAYS REMAIN IN WHICH TO REGISTER

List of Candidates; High Spots on Information Concerning Voters

Only three more days in which to register if you desire to vote at the primaries to be held August 29th.

Mrs. Opal Greenwalt will be at the Glendale Evening News office tomorrow, Friday and Saturday from 1 to 5 o'clock in the afternoon and from 6 to 9 o'clock each night, to take registrations.

Remember, only three more days in which to register!

Much interest being manifested in the coming primary election to be held on August 29, considerable activity is taking place among the candidates for the various offices to corral enough votes to assure their names being placed on the November general election ticket.

The registration problem is vexing many voters in that there seems to be doubt in the minds of those persons who is the right procedure. All persons should have registered last January when the call for general registration of everyone was issued. Those who did not register at that time and have not registered since, should register before next Saturday if they wish to vote at the primary election.

Anyone who has registered in January of this year, or since then, need not re-register unless they have moved since the last registration. Three days remain in which to register for the primaries.

Following are the candidates for the principal offices to be voted on at the primaries. Only those persons who have stated their party affiliation can vote for the candidates following:

Governor:
Friend William Richardson, Republican.
W. D. Stephens.
Thomas Lee Woolwine, Democrat.
Mattison B. Jones, Democrat.
William D. Stephens, Prohibitionist.
Mattison B. Jones, Prohibitionist.
Alexander Horr, Socialist.
Lieutenant-Governor:
Joseph A. Rominger, Republican.
C. C. Young, Republican.
William B. Shearer, Democrat.

L. A. RAILWAY CARS COLLIDE; 75 PANIC STRICKEN

LOS ANGELES, July 26.—Seventy-five persons were panic stricken today when shortly before 9 o'clock two Los Angeles Railway street cars collided with a terrific crash at the intersection of Pico and Flower streets. None of the passengers was seriously injured but the police reported that a number of them were badly bruised and shaken up.

NON-STOP GOVERNMENT SEAPLANE IS WRECKED

AMERICUS, Ga., July 26.—One of the government seaplanes attempting a non-stop flight from Pensacola, Fla., to Washington, fell and was wrecked while turning somersaults in the air near Ellaville today. The pilot, Lieutenant Lee and his mechanic, were shocked but not seriously injured. Lieutenant Elliott, driving the other plane, descended.

GIGANTIC METEOR FALLS INTO CANADIAN LAKE

WINNIPEG, July 26.—Reports of a gigantic meteor falling into Big Quill lake near Wynard, northern Saskatchewan, late yesterday, reached here today. According to these reports the meteor fell with an explosion, the force of which was felt twenty miles around. Further meteoric disturbances were reported from Vancoey, Sask., where residents told of hearing five or six loud explosions.

SIX-CAR SPECIAL TRAIN JUMPS TRACK WITH 300

MARION, Mo., July 26.—Six cars in a special train at the "river route" division of the Missouri Pacific railroad bearing 300 highway boosters en route to a road hearing at Jefferson City were derailed and several persons were slightly injured near here shortly before noon today. The train was running about thirty miles an hour when it jumped the rails. The engine and five coaches were ditched.

"GOOD WILL DELEGATION" OF WOMEN TO FRANCE

NEW YORK, July 26.—When the French line steamer France sailed for Havre today, she carried with her eighty-seven young women from thirty American cities, members of the "good will delegation," who will tour France for the purpose of promoting friendship and better understanding between the two nations. Among them are four "gold star" mothers, whose sons died on European battlefields.

MINERS, OPERATORS WATCH EMERGENCY MOVES

WASHINGTON, Pa., July 26.—Operators and striking miners in the coal fields of southwestern Pennsylvania anxiously awaited today efforts of the first peace time declaration of a national industrial emergency. Thousands of tons of soft coal have been standing in these fields and in cars which have idled on tracks for months are expected to be moved immediately under priority shipment rights granted by the government. No trouble is anticipated should movements be put under way. Quiet prevails throughout this entire district.

MARTIAL LAW IN TEXAS RAILWAY DISTRICT

DENISON, Texas, July 26.—The railroad district in this city went under martial law at 4 o'clock this morning. National Guard troops arriving in the city are going into camp. Colonel Charles W. Nimon is in command of the guardsmen. Striking Missouri, Kansas & Texas railroad shopmen have announced they will lend every assistance in their power to the guard troops to get into quarters and any other work they may be called upon to perform. One hundred and forty strikebreakers, for whose protection the troops were ordered here, have arrived in the city. Their coming was marked by no disorder on the part of the strikers.

EXAMINE CITIZENS FOR JURY DUTY IN KLAN CASE

LOS ANGELES, July 26.—While a special panel of 100 citizens was being examined before Superior Judge Houser to qualify for jury duty today preparations were being made in the court room for seating arrangements for the thirty-seven members of the Ku Klux Klan raid staged in Inglewood, who are to be tried for alleged participation in the Inglewood mob raid and threats against the life of Fidel Elduayen. The trial of the raiders is to open on August 7. One of the defendants is a son of Constable Mosher, a member of the band who was shot and killed by Deputy Marshal Werner, who endeavored to rout the raiders while they were at the Elduayen home.

ACTING ILLINOIS GOVERNOR CALLS STRIKE PARLEY

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., July 26.—The immediate return to work by Illinois miners was proposed today by Acting Governor Fred E. Sterling in a telegram to Frank Farrington, president of the Illinois miners. Under the acting governor's plan, the miners would go back to work for the wages and under the working conditions obtaining before the nation-wide strike started April 1, "pending a readjustment of the same by an agreed tribunal." In the meantime representatives of the miners and operators of Illinois are invited to meet at once at the governor's office, "thoroughly review the situation and endeavor to arrive at just terms of settlement of all points in controversy."

COAL OPERATORS, MINERS TO MEET IN CONFERENCE

CLEVELAND, July 26.—Whether or not a joint conference of operators and miners, having in view the settlement of the coal strike, will be held here next Saturday is still undecided today, notwithstanding the authoritative but unofficial statement of President Lee Hall of the Ohio miners, made at Martin's Ferry yesterday that such action would be taken. Thus far it has proven impossible to confirm the report from any other source, but that unofficial and under the surface efforts to end the long tie up of the coal industry are under way is well known and that Cleveland operators are the most friendly of all to the miners' organization is also an undisputed fact.

DETAILS IN MEADOWS CASE ARE BEING ARRANGED

LOS ANGELES, July 26.—With the principal points of its attack clearly defined, the prosecution in the case of Mrs. Clara Phillips, accused of beating Mrs. Alberta Tremaine Meadows to death with a hammer on July 12, was devoting its attention today to arranging the minor details of the case which it expects to present to the jury when Mrs. Phillips is placed on trial on September 18. The principal points, as the prosecution sees them, are that Mrs. Meadows was slain in a peculiarly brutal manner by a woman who believed the young widow to be her rival for the love of her husband and that the crime was premeditated and deliberately planned. In an attempt to prove this contention it will present the testimony of Mrs. Peggy Caffee, who says she was an eye witness of the murder, and a young girl, formerly a clerk in a Broadway store, who says she saw Mrs. Phillips the fatal hammer and that Mrs. Phillips, in making the purchase, asked: "Is this hammer heavy enough to kill a woman?"

DISCUSS OPENING AND IMPROVING OF PATTERSON

Property Owners Decide to Have Committee Secure Further Information

Heated discussion of the proposed opening and improving of Patterson avenue began at the opening of the meeting of property owners of that district held last night in the Columbus Avenue school.

The opposition to the project, it seemed, did not lie so much in the cost as in the fact that streets in the district already opened have not been improved as it is considered they should be.

C. V. Stone, assistant city engineer, explained the proposed work to the several hundred owners who attended the meeting and illustrated his talk with maps. No one can say what the definite cost per lot will be, he explained, since the cost of the entire project is not known, and the apportionment per lot consequently not yet fixed.

About 400 lots in the district, however, will not be assessed more than $10 each, while some will probably run as low as $1 each, he stated. Of course, the property fronting on Patterson where the improvement is to be made would, in many cases, be assessed, he estimated, at perhaps several hundred dollars per lot.

Express Opinions
Patterson avenue, it is understood from Mr. Stone's talk, will take care of its own improvements, the district helping to pay only for the opening of the street.

W. P. MacMullin and J. R. Gray, local realtors, each addressed the acquisition of their views on the question and bearing out Mr. Stone's explanation. They were both in favor of the opening of Patterson avenue through to Brand boulevard, and a large part of the assemblage was influenced to change their minds in some degree, it is stated.

Patterson avenue is now open between Central avenue and Kenilworth, and it is understood that property for its opening is either deeded or a promise of deed made through to San Fernando Road. It was the opinion of some that this land already secured should be opened and the entire street from Central avenue to San Fernando Road then improved. Others favored the acquisition of land (Continued on Page 20)

Officers Named by Girl Scouts, Troop 1

Glendale Girl Scouts, troop No. 1, met last night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Beach, 327 Riverdale drive. The scout ceremony took place on the lawn, and the latter part of the meeting in the home. Frances Betz presided at the business session, at which a new amendment to the constitution was adopted, which will require election of officers to take place semi-annually, instead of annually, as has been the case heretofore.

New patrol officers were elected as follows: Eagle patrol, Marie Hart, patrol leader; Frederica Browne, corporal. Oriole patrol, Beryl Goodale, patrol leader; Katherine Bender, corporal. Woodthrush patrol, Lois Naudain, patrol leader; Sarah Chandler, corporal. Bluebird patrol, Amy Brainbridge, patrol leader; Alexander Bagley, corporal. New officers of the troop will be elected at the next meeting. At the close of the meeting refreshments were served by the members of the Eagle and Oriole patrols.

Mrs. Hattie Potter Goes to San Diego

Mrs. Hattie B. Potter of San Diego, who has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Nichols of 910 East Elk avenue, returned to her home in the southern city today.

Mrs. Potter, who is a sister of Mr. Nichols, came up with the couple when they returned to Glendale Sunday from a short trip to San Diego and Tia Juana. Yesterday they motored to Long Beach where they visited Mr. and Mrs. Grant Potter and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Potter.

Before leaving, Mrs. Potter inspected a number of residence and investment properties here, and it is possible that she will dispose of her San Diego holdings and move to Glendale. She was impressed both with the town as a place to live, and with the opportunities for investment here.

L. A. Lewis, Former Resident, Is Visitor

Many friends of L. A. Lewis, formerly connected with the California Gas company and the Ford agency here, who knew him when a resident of this city a couple of years ago, will be pleased to know that he is visiting in Glendale for about two weeks, having arrived here yesterday.

Mr. Lewis is now engaged in the publishing business and has offices in New York, Chicago, with another opening in San Francisco. While here he is staying with relatives at 118 North Louise street.

AUTO COP REFUSES LENIENCY PLEA OF EX-OFFICER

Eagle Rock Speed Chaser Is Not Affected by Alibis; All Treated Alike

Motorcycle Officer Harry Williams plays no favorites. A Ford or a Rolls Royce look all the same to Harry when they begin to roll over twenty miles an hour. Whether the driver happens to be a movie star or a truck driver he gets exactly the same brand of bad news handed to him.

Yesterday a big five-ton oil truck was coming down Colorado boulevard in excess of the speed limit. Williams caught up with it and the truck drew along side the curb. The driver, W. N. Gregg, of Los Angeles, offered all the customary alibis and ended up by showing evidence that he used to be a Los Angeles county motorcycle cop himself and was just about to go back on the force again. It made no difference whatever with Williams as he went right on with his penmanship and handed Gregg a summons.

Gregg's experience as a motorcycle cop has not been all for naught, however, as he drove right up to the city hall and deposited $10 bail. This, as he explains, not only saves him $10 cash—the fine for this offense generally being $20—but answers for his appearance in court, and saves him considerable time, so he states.

Johnson Opens Up In Senatorial Fight

SAN FRANCISCO, July 26.—Plunging into the senatorial campaign with his old-time vigor and announcing his intention of making the fight for the nomination in which he is being opposed by C. C. Moore, a "two-fisted fighter," Senator Hiram W. Johnson was back home today for the final month of the primary battle which will end August 29.

"It's the same old fight with the same old gang," he told crowds who greeted him from the time he entered the state until he arrived at his home here and "we will do the same thing we have done in every campaign since 1910," he added, prophesying a sweeping victory.

You might not guess it to see her on the street, but the flapper is very charming in gingham apron and dust cap.

Rain Saves Taylor Family From Being Caught by Cave-in

A. E. Taylor, genial bookkeeper in the city hall, returned Sunday night with his wife from an automobile trip through the Yosemite. The couple left here a week ago Saturday noon and enjoyed a pleasant outing, according to Mr. Taylor.

With their son, Arthur, Jr., they drove up via Fresno and took the Wawona route into the valley. The roads, says Mr. Taylor, are in good condition, and although there is considerable mileage on heavy grades, it is not hard driving, especially for one used to mountain driving.

They camped out during the trip and report that the Yosemite is full of tourists and Californians who are spending their vacations there. The resorts and camps are full to overflowing, and Mr. Taylor says that rangers report this to be a record year.

A peculiar coincidence which occurred was that the Taylor party met Sol Gans at a filling station in the Yosemite. Sol was about to start back for Eagle Rock at that time.

A heavy rain which fell during Wednesday night probably saved the lives of the Taylor party, says Mr. Taylor. They had intended to hike up the Ledge trail, which ascends the sheer face of the cliff, climbing 3,300 feet in two miles. This trail leads from the bottom of the valley to Glacier point, from which one may look all over the valley and is dangerous at all times.

It was their intention to hike up this trail on Thursday morning, and on Wednesday night the heavy rain caused them to postpone the trip. The next morning another party started up the trail, and when part way up encountered an avalanche which swept part of them from the trail, severely injuring some of the hikers.

"The Yosemite is certainly an ideal place in which to spend a vacation," says Mr. Taylor, "and I advise anyone who is undecided as to the place to go need look no farther."

Diet Kitchen Cuts Baby Death Rate

NEW YORK—The New York Diet Kitchen association yesterday reported the lowest infant mortality rate in the history of the organization. According to the statement issued by Miss M. L. Daniels, director, only forty-four deaths occurred among the 6815 babies registered.

Last year, the report continues, 681,530 quarts of milk were dispensed at cost in connection with a general health program, one which was carried on for the benefit of the mothers and babies.

Lumberman, Bride At Big Bear Lake

Mr. and Mrs. William Sturgeon, who were married last Saturday in Eagle Rock, are spending their honeymoon at Big Bear Lake, according to Emil F. Swanson, proprietor of the Eagle Rock Lumber Company, where the two were employed.

Mrs. Sturgeon, who was formerly Miss Cora Turner, of 126 West Park avenue, was employed as a bookkeeper in the Eagle Rock Lumber Company. Mr. Sturgeon, who lives at 141 West Park avenue, was a yardman at the same company.

The two told no one of their intentions, and last Friday they took a day off, went to Los Angeles and secured the license. Friends guessed their motives, and on Friday evening they were treated to a real old-fashioned charivari, but protested that they were not married—as yet.

On Saturday, it is understood, the couple were married, and left for Big Bear Lake, where they will spend this week.

PARTY OF THIRTEEN MAKE YOSEMITE TOURING TRIP

Local Residents Find Valley Popular With Many Residents of This Section

Mrs. Isabelle A. Baker and her daughter Edith of 236 Ellenwood drive have just returned from a two-weeks' motor trip in the Yosemite. The party was made up of eleven other out-of-town guests and made the trip in three automobiles.

The start was made from Eagle Rock on the morning of July 8, and instead of taking the customary route via Fresno and Merced, the party went via the Mojave desert, through Red Rock canyon to Bishop, on in to Convict lake and thence into the park over the famous Tioga pass.

Forced into Low Gear This pass at the west entrance to the park opened July 15, and their party was the third one of the season to negotiate it. It was covered with snow and ice and for a time it appeared as if the party would have to turn back. Due to these high altitudes the power of all automobile engines is much reduced and 50 per cent more gasoline is required, and a car that would ordinarily make a grade on high gear at a low level is forced back into low gear in these mountains.

Mrs. Baker states that when they finally did get over the pass and into the park they were immediately surrounded by a great number of tourists who had been waiting to see if any automobile could get through and to get first-hand evidence as to the possibility of the road.

Meets Eagle Rock People

"What surprised me more than anything else was the large number of Eagle Rock people I met in the park," states Mrs. Baker. They camped along the way and stopped over whenever the notion overtook them, she says. "The party fished in Convict lake and in the streams around Mammoth. The fishing was wonderful. "There were no long waits for bites," she says. They would all catch their legal limit in a very short while.

The return trip was made from the park via Wawona, on into Merced. The weather was wonderful in the park and the entire party wore hiking suits and had no occasion to notice the heat while there. "The heat in and around Merced was almost unbearable," states Mrs. Baker, "and the minute we landed in Merced all the womenfolks couldn't get into the hotel quick enough to change into light, summery clothes."

Girl Comes to Visit But May Stay Here

Miss Katherine Moore of Detroit, Mich., is the guest for the summer of her niece, Miss Margaret B. Harding, of 118 West Myrtle avenue.

Miss Harding is arranging many scenic trips and other entertainment for her aunt, in an attempt to persuade her to give up her eastern home and live in Eagle Rock. A party, including the two, recently visited Catalina and have been to a number of the beaches of Southern California.

In the near future, Miss Harding expects to take her aunt on a trip to Mount Lowe, where she may look over this entire section of the country. It is expected that Eagle Rock will figure prominently in the points of interest to be seen from the top of that famous mountain.

Miss Moore is considerably impressed with Southern California and especially Eagle Rock. After a few more weeks of this climate, her niece predicts that she will give up all idea of Michigan and decide to live here.

If the prediction turns out to be true, Miss Moore will probably make a trip back to Detroit in the fall to dispose of her holdings there and then return to make her permanent home and investments in Eagle Rock.

Dancer Will Press Whitney Suits in N. Y.

LOS ANGELES, July 26.—Evan Burrows Fontaine, musical comedy star and Oriental dancer, is going to go through with her two suits filed in New York against Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney, son of Harry Payne Whitney, wealthy race horse owner, involving the paternity of her 19-months-old baby boy, and young Whitney's alleged refusal to marry her.

"There is but one thing that can keep me from halting this thing," said the petite young dancer today in making it clear that she is fighting the Whitney millions in open court, "and that is if the young gentleman decides upon a wedding ceremony."

"And when those honey-toned love letters of 'Sonny' Whitney are read they will be very, very interesting," she added, after a second's pause.

Miss Fontaine has offered young Whitney his choice of either marriage or financial settlement, but so far he has not taken advantage of his option.

"It is not money that I want, but a name for the boy, I am able to care for him as far as money goes," she repeated again today.

The former Follies star also announced that she was going to have the youngster—whom she calls "Sonny," as young Whitney is also known—brought to Los Angeles to be with her.

Hubby on Jury Is Wife's Divorce Aid

ATLANTA, Ga.—The fact that a husband got on a jury that granted his wife a divorce, has been brought to light here in the case of Mrs. Sara Almand, who was granted a divorce from Albert Almand several months ago. Mrs. Almand did not attend the divorce being granted on depositions taken in Newark, N. J., where she now resides. The decree is valid, according to attorneys.

Start Erecting New $4,000 Home Soon

H. M. Dumos of Sierra Madre is to build a $4,000 home in Eagle Rock, work to start immediately, it is announced.
Mr. Dumos owns property at 241 Summer street, and at this location the four-room home, modern in every respect, is to be created. A garage is also included in the proposed building operations, the permit for the two structures having been taken out at the Eagle Rock city hall yesterday.

"Ad" in the News Is Responsible for Sale

L. B. Wilson, local realty man of the east end, walked into the News office this morning and said, "I want to change that classified ad I have running with you, sold the property yesterday afternoon; your classified columns certainly pull." This makes the fourth home-builder that has been brought to Eagle Rock through Mr. Wilson's efforts within the last two weeks. The lot sold yesterday by Mr. Wilson is located in Dahlia Heights and was sold to Mrs. L. C. Walker of Los Angeles, who will take immediate steps toward the erection of a dwelling house, and when completed will make her home here.

Carney Home Being Repaired for Lessee

Mrs. Gertrude L. Carney of Los Angeles is having extensive repairs made on her bungalow at 206 North Highland avenue. Improvements call for an entire new roof, painting and decorating and many other repairs. When completed, the home will be leased to Milton T. Hancock.

Don't Slouch Men, So Actress Advises

PITTSBURGH, Pa.—Men, as well as women, should wear corsets, asserts Amelia Bingham, actress. "Trimness," she said, "is desirable not only in women but men as well."
"All women should avoid slouchiness by wearing corsets. Why shouldn't the men wear flexible ones for the same reason?"
She opposed censorship of plays and films, declaring that "if they were not thus hampered," they would develop into one of the greatest educational factors for America.

CENTRAL OFFICES ARE CHOSEN BY SCHOOL BOARD
 Grammar Department Takes Headquarters In Building at 107 1-2 S. Brand
 Lease for central offices upstairs at 107 1/2 South Brand boulevard for $75 a month was signed last night by the grammar school board of education.
 Richardson D. White, superintendent of schools, believes that the grammar school system can be more efficiently managed from a central location.
 The new quarters will include offices for Mr. White and David Black, business agent for the system, and reception rooms.
 Negotiations are now in progress for the installation of a switchboard to connect all of the twelve grammar schools by telephone. This will be ordered if the price is not considered excessive for the service.
 The new offices will be occupied as soon as furniture can be moved into them. The owner of the building is W. W. McElroy of 510 South Adams street. Mr. White considers the rental quite reasonable.
Bids Are Referred
 No bids were accepted by the board but all those submitted were referred to J. D. Hibben, Dr. P. O. Lucas, Mr. White and Mr. Black for investigation.
 School desks will cost 40 per cent less than estimated, according to bids submitted. Added competition in the field is believed to be the cause.
 Lucian G. Broyles of Louisiana was selected for the faculty of the Wilson Avenue Intermediate school.

DATE OF SCHOOL'S MASS MEETING IS CHANGED
 Trustees Decide to Hold the Gathering on August 10; Select New Teachers
 The date of the next high school mass meeting last night was changed from August 8 until August 10 by the high school board of trustees.
 Five teachers were added to the faculty of Glendale Union High school for the next term.
 Mrs. Vera Holloway Downing of Phoenix, Arizona, who before her marriage had charge of the millinery department here, will instruct the girls in millinery construction for the first two months of the term until Miss Wilhelmina Hobusch returns from Paris.
 Miss Evelyn Haney, who taught last term at the Watsonville High school, has been selected for the Latin department. She is a graduate of the University of California and has been attending summer school at Berkeley.
 Mrs. Fannie Ford Sloan of 512 North Louise street will teach biology and general science. She is a graduate of the New Mexico Agricultural college and took post-graduate work at the University of California. She is reported to be one of the best-informed persons on bird life in the southwest.
Comes From Scotland
 Miss Mary Rigg, who spent her girlhood in the lake region of England and graduated from St. Andrews university, Scotland, will be a member of the local English department. She has taught in Canada, Michigan and Wisconsin.
 Miss May G. Corry, who was head of the English department last year at Madera High school, will teach English and public speaking. She was most highly recommended by the University of California where she graduated.
 Requests for leaves of absence were granted to Miss Daisy Wilson, last term's study hall teacher, and to Miss Hilda Smith, English teacher, who desires to spend a year in Europe.

The baby had been ill about two weeks with double pneumonia and whooping cough. Dorothy Mae La Rock was the twin of Kenneth Ervin La Rock.
Wholesale Arrests Threatened In Strike
 LOS ANGELES, July 26.—Extra precautions to prevent new outbreaks of violence and a warning that repetition of the rioting at San Bernardino will bring wholesale arrests of strikers, was expected to result today from a conference in the federal building here between government officials and representatives of the striking shop crafts.
Ask State Railroad Commissions to Help
 WASHINGTON, D. C., July 26.—Co-operation of the state railroad commissions of the various states in carrying out the emergency plan of giving priority ratings to shipments of food and fuel was asked today by the Interstate Commerce commission in a communication addressed to the state commissions.

Governors of Mining Districts May Meet
 WASHINGTON, D. C., July 26.—A conference of the governors of the states in the central competitive field, embracing western Pennsylvania, Illinois, Ohio and Indiana, is being considered to formulate plans for re-opening the idle mines of those states if the mines are not able to resume operations within a week, according to advices reaching government sources here today.
SEEK FOUR BANDITS
 LOS ANGELES, July 26.—A city-wide search was made today by police for four bandits who held up the Koffee Kup Cafe, in West Pico street, and escaped after a revolver duel with Arthur Goldsmith, part owner of the establishment in which the cafe man was shot in the leg and one of the bandits suffered an apparently serious wound. The held-up men obtained $850.

Byron P. Glenn Is Out for Supervisor
 According to an announcement made by Byron P. Glenn, resident of the Lincoln Heights district, who is a candidate for election to the office of supervisor of the fifth district, a local organization will soon open a campaign here to support him in his fight for the nomination. Mr. Glenn maintains headquarters for his campaign at 2601 1/2 North Broadway, Los Angeles.

L. A. Bank Seeks to Change Its Name
 Herman Nelson, manager of Glendale avenue branch of the Los Angeles Trust & Savings bank, states that application has been made to have the name of the Los Angeles Trust & Savings bank changed to the Pacific Southwest Trust & Savings bank. He states that the reason for the application on which immediate action is anticipated, is that the present name of the banking institution is no longer descriptive of the entire territory in which the bank now is operating the various branches, as it is now doing business in all parts of the southwest.

Dying Mother Halts Accused Girl's Trial

LOS ANGELES, July 26.—The cry of a dying mother for her daughter saved Anna Fulton, accused as the "queen" of a bandit gang of automobile thieves, from going on trial on a charge of grand larceny before Superior Judge John W. Shenk today.

Receiving word that her dying mother was pleading for her presence at her bedside, the young woman appealed to the court and obtained permission to go to Cleveland, Ohio, to see her mother.

In addition to this, it was stated by Deputy Public Defender Scott that he would ask that the charge against the young woman be dismissed on the ground that there is insufficient evidence to connect her with the operations of the gang of automobile thieves.

May Never Find Out 'Roma' Crash Cause

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 26.—The exact cause of the fatal plunge of the giant airship "Roma" which crashed to earth near Norfolk, Va., last February, may never be known, the investigating board announced today.

"If the Roma had been inflated with helium instead of hydrogen, undoubtedly the loss of life in this accident would not have been so great," the report declares.

Doctor Has Gland Farm; Produces Cure For Senility, Claim

Actual Transplantation of Glands Unnecessary to Restore Youth

By THOMAS HORGAN For International News Service. WEST DENNIS, Mass., July 26.—Cape Cod, the land of the Pilgrim fathers, now offers to the tourist and summer visitor in addition to its antiques, historic dwellings and picturesque natives the added attraction of a modern gland farm.

On a twenty-five acre farm here Dr. J. Leo Hanson, director of the Massachusetts Clinic for Diagnosis, who has long been a specialist in glands, says he has established a fountain of youth that would have satisfied even the Spaniards, explorers, who vainly searched the western hemisphere. Goats and guinea pigs in large numbers have been brought to the farm. The doctor, with crates of small animals in his automobile, is a familiar sight.

Operations Unnecessary

Dr. Hanson differs radically with some of the best-known specialists in gland treatment. He declares that in many cases surgical operations are unnecessary and that youthful vigor may be restored without the actual transplanting of glands. He contends that the effect produced by new glands is not as lasting as that produced by treating the old glands, if they are given attention in time. Soon, he says, a person will have his, or her, for that matter, glands tuned up with little more concern than that attending the adjustment of the carburetor of the family flivver.

Sixty per cent of Massachusetts men would be greatly benefited by gland treatment, and even a larger proportion of the women, according to the doctor.

Senility, he says, is a disease, just as much as tuberculosis or cancer, and should be treated as such. Dr. Hanson maintains that the glands transferred to Harold F. McCormick, millionaire Harvester magnate of Chicago, did not constitute a sacrifice of his youth on the part of the man furnishing the glands. The glands were not taken in their entirety and the missing portion would be replaced by nature.

A solution for "mannishness" in women and "effeminess" in men is to be found in gland treatment, according to Dr. Hanson.

Railroads Are Now Regulated by U. S.

WASHINGTON, July 26.—The nation went back to war-time regulation of the railroads today while peace in the industrial chaos brought on by the paralyzing rail and coal strikes appeared almost as far distant as ever.

For all practical purposes the railroads with their 250,000 miles of tracks, were merged into one gigantic system today, with interchangeable equipment and operating under orders to move food and fuel above all else. The interstate commerce commission, with its broad powers derived from the transportation act, became overnight a miniature railroad administration empowered to suspend all rules and regulations and to enforce its fuel and food carrying orders under heavy penalties.

The national emergency declared by the commission and the priority ratings accorded shipments of fuel and food on all railroads will, government officials believe, reduce public suffering and inconvenience to the minimum, while at the same time affording the government a breathing spell to figure on new methods of settling the strikes.

That the action through the interstate commerce commission is only a palliative applied to the aggravated situation and not a cure, was generally recognized by administration officials. The cure can only come through a resumption of mining on a large scale in mines now idle for four months and through expert labor being attracted into the repair shops of the railroads to work on cars.

Grocer Dying From Bullets of Bandit

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 26.—M. A. Hedrick, 72, a grocer, was reported dying in a hospital today, having been shot through the stomach this morning by a bandit who attempted to hold him up in his store. Hedrick a month ago frustrated a robbery at his store by opening fire on two negroes with a revolver. When he attempted to reach for his gun today the bandit fired first and then escaped in an automobile.

FRENCH SKETCH IS OFFERED TONIGHT AT T. D. & L.

Parisian Comedy Drama and Richard Barthelmess In Film Great Show

"Oh! Frenchy," the Parisian comedy drama, and Richard Barthelmess' film success, "Sonny," proved to be a very happy combination last night at the T. D. and L. theatre and those who failed to enjoy the initial performance are to have the opportunity of seeing the program tonight.

The French sketch, offering twenty minutes of comedy-drama, is a bit of real vaudeville and is well worth its Orpheum circuit reputation. Headed by Mademoiselle Liane Salvor, Parisian actress, the cast includes artists of excellent talents, who do some clever character work. Mademoiselle Salvor is particularly clever and her foreign temperament and accent contribute greatly to the success of the act. "Oh! Frenchy" will be presented for the last time at 8:30 o'clock tonight.

Joy, Pathos and Love

It is needless to say that Richard Barthelmess is great in "Sonny." One film fan has described it as "one feature in a thousand." It is full of homely joy, deep pathos and love and all combine in just such a play that is long remembered. It touches one's heart and goes deep into the expression and feeling of rich human emotions.

At regular prices the T. D. and L. management is offering Glendale people a high-class entertainment and an unusual treat.

Flirtation Attempt Results In Shooting

CLEVELAND, July 26.—An attempted flirtation with Mrs. Mabel Barnett, 22, young and pretty, in the Downing restaurant in the heart of the Euclid avenue theatre district, resulted in the killing early today of Edward O'Connell, 31, whose home is said to be at Geneva-on-the-Lake, Ohio, according to the police.

A man giving the name of Clifford Barnett, 28, of 728 East Sandusky street, Kansas City, Mo., and a woman who is registered at police headquarters as Mrs. Mabel Barnett and refuses to give her home address, are held for questioning at police headquarters, after they had attempted to flee the scene of the killing in a Cadillac touring car bearing two Texas license numbers.

The woman asserts that she is the wife of Barnett, while he declares that he met her for the first time yesterday afternoon. She states that her husband's father is a wealthy Texas oil operator and that they have been touring New York and other eastern cities and stopped for a few days on their way west in Cleveland.

Scores of diners in the restaurant early this morning saw the wickedest jimmy ever used by a burglar. This is the substance of a talk on "Check Forgery," delivered by Detective William J. Flynn, formerly head of the Secret Service, and broadcast from the Radio Corporation's station in Newark. Detective Flynn said carelessness in handling checks exacts an annual toll of $40,000,000.

Rich Manufacturer President of China?

PEKING, July 26.—Tang Yao Yi, wealthy manufacturer near Canton, a former minister in the cabinet of Yuan Shi-Kai, may succeed Dr. Yen as premier of China. President Li Yuan Hung today renewed his offers to get Tang to come to Peking as the first step towards adjusting the trouble between North and South China. The cabinet is slated to change about August 1. The difficulty over assembling a quorum of parliament apparently has been solved through an arrangement for substitutes to take the place of regular members unable to be present.

Railway Officials to Confer With Harding

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 26.—W. W. Atterbury, vice-president of the Pennsylvania lines, and considered the most avowed opponent of concessions to the striking railway workers, went to the White House today for a conference with President Harding. He was accompanied by Secretary of Commerce Hoover and James Davis, director-general of railroads. The Pennsylvania lines and its subsidiaries will be called on to transport a large part of the coal from the non-union producing fields.

French Soldiers Die In Syrian Outbreak

CAIRO, July 26.—Thirty-four French soldiers have been killed in widespread disorders throughout Syria following receipt of news that the League of Nations council has ratified the French mandate for Syria, according to advices received here today. The situation in Syria is described as being "extremely serious."

Four Shots Fired In Strike Disorder

CHICAGO, July 26.—Disorder during which four revolver shots were fired in the air broke out near the shops of the Illinois Central railroad at Burnside today. The riot occurred as Paul Miske, a non-union mechanic, was stopped on his way to work by a group of strikers. "You've got to quit work," he was told. Miske was quoted as making a sharp retort. The men beat him about the head and face, and he drew a revolver and fired. No one was struck. Fifteen policemen rushed to the scene and restored order with their clubs. Joseph Gendi was arrested as the leader of the strikers.

Marilyn Miller to Marry Next Sunday

LOS ANGELES, July 26.—There were two happy young celebrities in Los Angeles today. Jack Pickford and Marilyn Miller, his fiancée, who arrived from New York yesterday to become his bride within a few days—next Sunday, Mr. Pickford said. Plans for their wedding is the most interesting subject in the world to the couple just now. Much more interesting than the Flo Ziegfeld-Billie Burke domestic skirmish which is reported to have developed as a result of statements made by Miss Miller in regard to Ziegfeld's attitude toward her. "It's their fight. I have a wedding to plan for now and am much too busy to be bothered," Miss Miller said.

WASHINGTON TO ESCAPE HEAT

Bar Harbor Is Favorite Resort of Vacationists From Embassies

By WEBSTER K. NOLAN
For International News Service.
WASHINGTON, July 26.—Diplomatic immunity is a grand thing. Immune from arrest while enjoying freely the late lamented spirit waters, the habitues of Embassy Row now seek immunity from the oppressive heat that blankets Washington mercilessly these summer days. They have fled the capital for the north coast, leaving behind them only the Americans of official life who must continue to grind away at the legislative mill and the executive grindstone.

Immunity is an almost unknown thing to congressmen, senators, cabinetiers and government officials generally. True, the house is taking a month's respite, but August is no friend of an Eskimo in Washington.

The diplomatic circle has transplanted itself from the staid and dignified setting of Washington to the primeval wonders of the Maine woods. Ladies of the diplomatic colony have temporary exchanged the appealing aroma of the sachet for the moving perfume of the pines that pepper the northern woods. A generous portion of Embassy Row has selected to while away the summer at Bar Harbor, the seacoast haven of fashion.

While Newport may be recognized as the somewhat isolated dowager of summer playgrounds, the majority of Washington's embassy folks prefer the pleasant resorts on the seacoast to Maine. Another favorite appears to be York Harbor, on the rugged south coast of Maine.

Hardings to Bar Harbor
President and Mrs. Harding may go to Bar Harbor for a short while later in the summer. The Edward B. McLeans maintain a summer home at Bar Harbor and the President and Mrs. Harding may be persuaded by the McLeans to spend a week or possibly a fortnight at Bar Harbor, the trip to be made aboard the Mayflower, the presidential yacht.

Lady Geddes, the wife of the British ambassador, Sir Auckland Geddes, and her children are installed at Dark Harbor, near Islesboro, and the ambassador will join them there when he returns from his six weeks' visit to England.

Chicago's bathing beauties are up in arms against the recent edict banning abbreviated bathing suits on the beaches. When some of the fair bathers appeared in striking costumes, defying the order, they were immediately taken into custody. But not without battle, as graphically pictured here. "Up in arms" is certainly the correct phrase.

The minister of Switzerland and Mme. Peter have also selected Dark Harbor for their summer home. Mme. Peter will spend the entire summer there and will be joined by the minister whenever he can break away from the medium of Washington.

Bar Harbor Is Choice
The minister of Portugal, Viscount d'Alte and the minister of Denmark, Constantin Brun, two of the veterans of the diplomatic corps in point of service, will be established again at Bar Harbor, a custom they have followed for years.

The legation of Sweden is to be established for the summer at Bar Harbor. The second secretary of the Swedish legation and Mme. Sager are already installed at the Bar Harbor legation and will be joined shortly by J. De Lagerberg, counselor of the Swedish legation.

Countless other members of Washington's brilliant diplomatic set plan to go to Bar Harbor later in the season and in addition a great many of the society folk of the capital have already gone to the Maine seacoast or are intent upon leaving within a fortnight.

Shade Trees Slowly Dying on Boulevard

PARIS — Paris' world-renowned shade trees, which contribute more than any other single factor to make the famous boulevards distinctive, are dying a lingering death.

The motor car, especially the coughing, spluttering taxi-cab, is responsible, report has been made to the municipal council.

The Parisian atmosphere, formerly filled merely with odors of garlic, cheese, frying fish and other delicacies, has been contaminated by gasoline, oil and dust.

These foreign substances are killing the shade trees, says the report, in consequence of which the municipal council has ordered stricter enforcement of the law against "smoking" exhausts and muffler cut-outs.

High School Youth Wins Hearn Contest

NEW YORK—Dr. Norris A. Brisco, director of the School of Retailing of New York university, announced the awards in the James A. Hearn essay contest. The first prize of $250 and a gold medal went to John D. Graves, Boys' high school, for his essay on "The Position of the Retail Merchant in the Economic Field."

Jacob B. Rabkin, Textile High school, won second prize of $150 and a silver medal, writing on the same subject. The third prize of $100 and a bronze medal was won by Fred Bauninger, Newton High school. The fourth and fifth prizes were won by Agnes Daly of Flushing High school and William Schulmenson of Stuyvesant High school. They consisted of $50 each and a bronze medal.

WORK WILL SOON START ON ROAD IMPROVEMENT

San Fernando Boulevard to Get $35,000; News of Glendale's Vicinity

Work will soon begin on the improving of West San Fernando boulevard through the city of Burbank, according to word given out by Supervisor Henry W. Wright, who stated that $35,000 has been allotted by the board of county supervisors for the work.

The Burbank trustees have been anxious concerning this matter for some time, but recently were practically assured that the appropriation would be made.

This announcement means a great deal to Burbank; it means that in the next year the streets of the city may be improved with the money which has before gone to West San Fernando boulevard.

Burbank Gets Oil Branch
The coming to Burbank of the plant of the Associated Oil Company is now an assured fact. They have taken out a permit approximately $20,000 from Inspector Dale and say they will begin construction work in about thirty days. They have taken a lease on a tract of ground 175x510 feet on the Southern Pacific's right of way at the southwest corner of the tracks and Olive avenue.

Associated C. of C. Meeting
The Associated Chambers of Commerce of the San Fernando Valley will hold its next meeting at Tujunga on the night of September 19, according to a letter from Secretary U. E. McClary read by Secretary Baker at the meeting of the Tujunga Chamber of Commerce.

Announcement was made by D. A. Johnston of the entertainment committee that extensive preparations are being made for a program for that date which will include a taking of motion pictures which may make Tujunga famous all over the country.

Object to Mail Change
After the rural delivery carrier had placed notices in the mail boxes that Los Angeles rural delivery No. 11 would be changed to Tujunga rural delivery No. 1, notice was received from Washington holding the order for the change in abeyance until October 1st.

Unofficial explanation of the new order is that strenuous objection was made by people of La Crescenta against having their letters addressed to "Tujunga, Rural Route 1," and that residents of Verdugo Woodlands, which is part of the city of Glendale, were even more vociferous in their protest against getting their letters via "La Canada, Rural 1."

Moon Festival Planned
Cordial assurance of support of the American Legion in its plans for the Moon Festival of the Tujungans to be held at the Garden of the Moon on September 2, 3 and 4 have come from all organizations and individual citizens alike and the unanimity of sentiment displayed gives every promise that the success of last year's festival will be repeated, minus some of the mistakes which inexperienced on the part of everybody concerned made inevitable last year.

Realtors Adopt Rule
By unanimous vote of all members present at the Tujunga Realty Board at its meeting last week adopted the exclusive listing plan.

Under this arrangement only one realty firm connected with the board will list the same piece of property for sale. Other members, however, may have access to the listing and may find buyers for the property on the condition that the sale be closed by the firm originally listing it and the commission be divided equally between the two firms.

Steam Shovels Halt Old Indian Slumbers

WASHINGTON, July 26.—The slumbers of prehistoric Indians buried in the Southwest before the time of Christ will be rudely disturbed this summer by the raucous growl of the modern steam shovel.

Self-dumping cars, trackage, derricks and other up-to-date paraphernalia will be used for scientific excavation in the ancient Pueblo Bonito in Chaco Canyon by Dr. Neil M. Judd, curator of American archaeology of the Smithsonian Institute.

Dr. Judd left Washington to conduct this work under the auspices of the National Geographic Society. He thinks his work may result in connecting the period in which these Pueblo Indians lived with the Mayan race in British Honduras, of whom there is record as far back as 95 B. C.

OPERA IN OUR LANGUAGE
Endorsement of the "opera-in-our-language" movement is to be made by the League of American Pen Women, and an active endorsement, too, if the campaign undertaken by Mrs. Grace Geldert, national president of the league, is carried out according to the plans made by that official. Mrs. Geldert is touring the middle west and the north, enlisted the support and co-operation of the associations of the league, and considerable interest is already aroused in the movement.

SAVE THE SEEDS
Nasturtium seeds are splendid substitutes for capers in sauces. They will also add flavor to the chow chow or sweet pickles.

Monoplane Carries Asparagus to Mayor

NEW YORK, July 26.—A monoplane carrying a thousand pounds of asparagus arrived at Mineola yesterday from Mullica Hill, Gloucester County, N. J. It took on gasoline and started half an hour later for Framingham Field, in the outskirts of Boston.

William N. De Wald was pilot. The asparagus is an experimental shipment and may result in other such shipments.

The monoplane was engaged by the Gloucester County Board of Agriculture. Packages of asparagus were sent to Governor Cox of Massachusetts and Mayor Curley of Boston.

Awning Breaks Fall; Saves Woman of 74

NEW YORK, July 26.—Awnings which broke the force of her fall probably saved the life of Mrs. Rose Creighland, 74, who fell to the sidewalk from a window of 297 Pleasant avenue. In Harlem Hospital she was found to be suffering from lacerations and contusions.

How Mrs. Creighland happened to fall was not learned by the police. Relatives said she was seated at a window in her sitting room when she plunged outward.

PETROLEUM SHIPMENT
Argentina recently made its first shipment of petroleum to Europe, sending about 57,000 barrels to Germany.

Russia Places High Tariff Upon Cattle

MOSCOW.—The United States may have its tariff troubles, but soviet Russia has just issued new export tariffs which have thus far failed to create any political storm which can correspond to that aroused in the United States by Senator McCumber and his demand for high protective tariff.

The new Russian export tariff law places the highest tariff upon the exportation of live cattle and furs, making the exportation of these products almost impossible.

The lowest tariff has been placed upon the export of timber, fuel and lubricants.

The free list includes crude and refined oil, an item which is of considerable interest to the rest of the world at this time when American and British interests are vying with each other for the right to develop the Russian oil supplies.

Iron ore and scrap iron are also upon the tariff free list issued by the soviet.

The exportation of arms and explosives, telegraph and telephone instruments, automobile parts, art and antique treasures and pre-revolutionary securities or property documents is forbidden.

A temporary ban upon the exportation of grain has been laid.

Late for Dinner, His Wife Secures Divorce

AKRON, O., July 26.—After witnesses testified that her husband, Carl S. Glover, was so late in arriving at his wedding anniversary dinner that there was danger the meal would spoil, Judge H. C. Spicer granted Mrs. Glover a divorce and authorized her to resume use of her maiden name.

Witnesses declared that after dinner was finally served late, he ate hurriedly, seemingly paid no attention Mrs. Glover nor to the guests and departed, explaining that he was "very busy."

Mrs. Glover, daughter of W. B. Miller, former local capitalist, now living in New York, charged gross neglect and said she was compelled to live on her personal income.

The couple have no children. They were married in October, 1910.

Many Silver Dollars to Be Turned Out

PHILADELPHIA — Orders to speed up the coinage of silver dollars to replace part of the 300,000,000 sold during the war as bullion to England, have been received at the Philadelphia mint. Fifty thousand are to be coined daily and shipped to Washington for deposit in the treasury vaults.

Silver certificates will be issued against them. The mint has approximately 45,000,000 ounces of silver bullion on hand.

THIS OLD ENGINEER PILOTED FUNERAL TRAIN OF LINCOLN

Letter Addressed to the 'Oldest Engineer' Is Delivered to A. J. Wemple of Fort Worth

FORT WORTH, Tex., July 26.—Addressed to "The Oldest Engineer in Captivity, Fort Worth, Texas," a letter received at the postoffice here recently was delivered without hesitation to the person for whom it was intended, A. J. Wemple of this city. It is probable that no one will dispute the title with him when the statement is made that he had been a full-fledged engineer for eleven years when he piloted Lincoln's funeral train over his run.

It was in February, 1851, that Alonzo John Wemple, then a lad of seventeen, got his first taste of railroading, hauling iron and ties, getting a berth as fireman in September of the same year. The road, which connected Schenectady and Troy, is now a part of the great New York Central system, along with half a dozen other short lines, the consolidation having been made in 1878.

Railroading in those days was not what it is now. To begin with, the engines were dinky affairs, with one pair of four-and-a-half foot driving wheels, and burned wood. It is reported that many a mile of good rail fence along right-of-ways of the period disappeared mysteriously, until the farmers learned to watch the trains go through. Wemple has seen wood supplanted and peat, soft coal, blacksmith coal, hard coal and oil burned at different times since, with electricity now looming as their final successor.

But electricity was unheard of in those days, as far as railroading was concerned, and so, of course, were the telephone and telegraph. "Dispatching" was an art unknown, Wemple relates, and trains were run by "time cards." If an engineer was thirty minutes behind schedule he had to stop and let the first approaching train pass him. Sometimes he waited until he saw the smoke of his fellow engineer's engine in the distance and then "scouted" for a siding. It was an exciting life.

Engines were not numbered in those days, but bore names, after the maritime fashion. Wemple's first charge was the "Buffalo." There was nothing sordid about the "iron horse" in those days either. They were lubricated with a profusion of nickel and brass work, all of which was kept burnished until it looked like a piece of jewelry in the sunlight, and it is not likely that the captain of the ship felt any more pride in the appearance of his craft than did the old-time engineer in the high-stacked engine over whose throttle he presided.

It was in 1854 that Wemple became an engineer, on his transfer to the Greenville & Miami line, running from Dayton, Ohio, to Union City, Ind., a distance of forty-seven miles. Later the road was extended to Indianapolis, making the length of the line 130 miles. He remained there until March, 1855, when he went to the Illinois Central at Centralia, Ill.

Wife Stands Guard While Mob Seeks to Secure Husband

Copyright Underwood & Underwood.

Mrs. Julia Gebel and the revolver with which she held a mob of strikers away from her home in Chicago after her husband, a loyal worker in the Illinois shops, declared that he would stick to his job. "My husband isn't a scab," Mrs. Gebel said. "He has been working in the Illinois Central shops for twenty-eight years and he's worked every day of his life except when he was sick."

larger record than his, Wemple would like to hear from him.

Wemple's second wife, whom he married in 1900, was Miss Pearl Williams, a Fort Worth girl. She is with him and their son, J. N. Wemple, at this time. She is a great-niece of the late W. B. Tucker, prominent in the early history of the city.

It is a far cry from the old hand brakes and unstandardized gauge of the roads on which Wemple first worked to the air-controlled monsters of steel that now pull the nation's freight and passenger traffic across the continent, yet Wemple has one regret.

When they chose between the various gauges of track width which then obtained, ranging from three feet to six feet, the experts decided on a width not much greater than the minimum of that day, he declares. He has recently tried to visualize the present size of rolling stock, in comparison with the Rocky Mountain giants of today, had they adopted the six-foot gauge as the standard.

At least it would not be necessary to hook up seven of them to one snowplow, as he saw done in one New York blizzard.

MAN SHOOK HANDS WITH TWO KINGS LONG DECEASED

Weird Tale of Valet of Archbishop Deals With Henry VIII, Charles I

LONDON.—There is a man alive today who has shaken hands in the flesh with King Henry VIII and with King Charles I.

This is not fiction but absolute fact. How this near-miracle came about has never before been told in any newspaper or magazine, indeed, there is in England today but a handful of people who know the weird story.

To appreciate it properly, it is necessary to go back to that fateful day when Charles I, King of England, was executed with the headsman's axe outside his palace in Whitehall, London.

Relations claimed the body and one of their party, a devoted partisan of the king, cut the little finger off his right hand as a keepsake of the dead monarch.

In due course the retainer died, and the finger passed to his heirs. They, in turn, handed it down until, twenty-odd years ago it was in the possession of the late Archbishop of Canterbury.

For several years the archbishop had been troubled with dreams. He would wake up with a feeling that the long dead king wanted something which was in his possession.

Then one day he realized that it was the finger of the monarch that was at the root of the trouble. As a devoted churchman the archbishop believed that the spirit of the dead king was unhappy at the loss of the finger. He applied for an audience with the late Queen Victoria, and one fine morning found the archbishop seated at her side, requesting permission to open the coffin and replace the finger.

Victoria gives consent. Now Victoria realized that to open a royal coffin meant a special act of parliament, and that such an act would cause no little stir among the members of the house, who have always been against the opening of tombs. So, officially, she refused permission, but unofficially she gave her consent to the grave being opened.

A few weeks later, one winter night, a closed carriage drew up outside the burial chapel at Windsor of the kings and queens of England. In the carriage were the archbishop, his confidential valet (at this day), one of the king's chambermaids, and the heir of the archbishop (now also dead).

The carriage rolled away and the little party climbed the snow-covered steps of the chapel, shut the great linen-fold paneled door behind them and descended into the royal vault.

They soon found that which they had come to seek—a short wooden coffin, beautifully carved, screwed into the top a golden plate bearing the royal arms and the inscription of the name and titles of King Charles I of England. The little party were confused. Charles I, they knew, had been a tall man and here was a squat, stout coffin, utterly unadaptable to a man of Charles' stature. They decided, however, after a short consultation, to open the coffin. They lifted the lid.

There, lying on his back, little velvet cap on his head, ermine cloak, bearded, robed with the garter, and, just as Holbein had painted him, lay Henry VIII, that famous monarch of many wives.

Hands Crumbled. The party leaned forward, scarcely able to believe their eyes. The body, mummified, was in apparent perfect state of preservation. One of the men, the archbishop, lifted one of the hands, and, while he did so, the valet shook the valet, to see if the finger was in place. The hands crumbled to dust.

They closed the coffin after the archbishop had read a prayer over the body of the dead king. Meanwhile the queen's chamberlain attracted their attention to a corner of the vault. He had found a long coffin resting on a beautiful alabaster slab, inscribed with the titles of King Henry VIII—a long coffin such as should have been that of King Charles.

They Open the Coffin. Before them lay the figure of a handsome cavalier, long haired, his wrists and shoulders covered with Mechlin lace. But this man, they thought, could never have been King Charles I, for he had a head. Then they noticed that around the neck of the sleeping man was a black velvet band. The head had been placed close to the neck after being severed by the executioner's axe, and covered with the velvet band.

The valet, meanwhile, called the archbishop's attention to one of the fingers of the right hand, which was missing.

Missing Finger. The old archbishop produced the missing finger from his silver case and while the valet held the hand of the dead monarch, endeavored to lay the finger close to the hand. It was not late. While the valet held the hand, it crumbled away.

The explanation, of course, lies in the mistake of some long dead sexton, who, in cleaning the golden name plates of the coffins, screwed that of Henry VIII on to the coffin of King Charles, and that of the decapitated monarch onto that of "Bluff King Hal."

Today there lives an old man, the one time confidential valet of the late archbishop. His name may not be mentioned, but, if you gain his confidence over a glass of melon wine he will tell you, with pride, how he once shook hands with two kings of England both dead nearly three hundred years.

Police Teach Mexican Some Lessons In Love

ATLANTA, Ga.—Loving-making in the land of the "Hot Tamale" and the same thing under Uncle Sam's flag are entirely different things.

Down in Mexico if a young swain sees a woman on the streets he is most rightly afraid of the prowling of some animal, said to be a panther, which makes nocturnal raids on pigsties, goat herds and now is attacking chicken roosts. One family reports the loss of seven head of geese recently, the remnants of the carcasses having been strewn generally over the landscape after the unidentified animal had evidently satisfied his appetite. Pigs have been heard to squeal at night, and that is the last of them.

Persons who have tried to get within range of the animal have failed so far, and some who have caught sight of the beast describe it as one of varying hues. Someday it is black, others tawny, while fishermen declare it is spotted.

Occasionally a small boy wonders how Adam and Eve got along without somebody to run errands.

Mysterious 'Killer' Appears In Florida

Toy Balloon of Ohio Boy Goes 300 Miles

CINCINNATI.—A toy balloon, of the common or street corner variety, filled with illuminating gas and released on the afternoon of July 4 by Clifford Usinger, journeyed 320 miles to Cookeville, Tenn., in 18 hours and was picked up by Gilbert Hatfield, a nineteen-year old farmer. The balloon was one of a score sent up by the Cincinnati man with his name and address attached to them, and the letter which he has received from Hatfield states that it was first sighted by him while he was plowing corn near his home. So far the other nineteen balloons have not been reported.

A ship 600 miles off the coast of Washington recently picked up a number of grasshoppers more than three inches long. Hundreds fell on the deck and the sea was dotted with them. It is presumed that they came from an island in the Pacific Ocean.

Brother and Sister Meet After 28 Years

GRIDLEY.—Mrs. J. P. Shaoffer of Gridley and Edward Aulman of Miami, Ariz., brother and sister, met for the first time in 28 years last week when Aulman stopped over in Gridley while touring the state, and learned that his sister was residing here.

Mrs. Shaoffer had not heard from her brother during the 28 years and had supposed that he had met with foul play. Aulman is accompanied by his wife and after visiting here will proceed to Roseville to visit his niece, Mrs. Glenn Gillespie. He then will go to San Francisco to visit his brother, Lieut. George L. Aulman, who also believed his brother dead.

TO SERVE WITH SALAD. A pretty touch is added to the salad course if cream cheese is shaped into small balls and then rolled in paprika until thoroughly covered.

The Key to "$ Day"

While "Dollar Day" in the sense that it will be applied in Glendale tomorrow, Thursday, July 27, is comparatively new here, it has nevertheless been celebrated, so to speak, in the east and middle-west for some years, in many of the larger little cities it is looked forward to as though it were a legal holiday, taxing their resources to accommodate the visitors from the nearby villages and surrounding country. The merchants and, in fact, everyone having wares for sale co-operate in giving the public as many and as great values for a dollar as they can afford—thus the name "Dollar Day."

Glendale merchants will probably celebrate "$ Day" from two to four times a year in the future. The bargains in different lines of merchandise that our customers may take advantage of will be many. For instance here is a partial list of the wonderful values WILLIAMS DRY GOODS STORE have to offer you:

FAIR FOLK INVAD
MEN'S STORE FOR THEIR DRESS

Women Good Customers, Is Declared by Manager of
New York Shop

NEW YORK, July 26.—Once upon a time the dictionary definition of a haberdasher as "one who keeps a men's furnishing store for supplying collars and cuffs, underwear, hats, etc." was true, but the changes wrought by time and seekers after equal rights have made it necessary to substitute "and women's hats" for "etc."

For the haberdashery, treasured refuge of the shy male, has suffered the same revolution that came over the voting booth and the barber shop. Ballots, hair and headgear now share a common fate where gender has no place, and women's "tailored straws" daily take a bit more window space from the lids of the masculine gender.

For a true philosopher on feminine psychology consult a hat salesman. One of the increasing number of that hybrid genus which caters to women in men's shops is authority for the opinion that man has not only slipped from the post of equality lately conceded him, but has lost the last shred of reputation that stood between him and definite inferiority.

The Difference
In brief, man does not know what he wants when he wants a hat. And women do.

Casual canvass of the hat shops on lower Broadway proved the opinion general.

"Men are more choosy, vain, know their own minds less, take longer to make a decision, and haggle over the price more than women," said one hat store manager.

"I have a man in mind who buys four hats a season from me regularly. He uses every mirror in the store. For a long distance view he walks to the rear, strolls slowly up to meet himself, then turns around and repeats. Then he takes a hand mirror and pees up and down, viewing the back of his head, glances in the side glasses, tilts the hat back and forth, and finally asks for another model."

Let Friends Decide
"Of course, that fellow is an extreme. Most men come in with a friend, put on a hat without looking in a mirror, ask the friend how it looks and walk out on the friend's say so."

"The women don't do either way. They see a hat in the window, try it on, possibly require another size, but make up their own minds quickly and buy on the spot. In other words, they use judgment, more than the men do."

All this in reference to the woman buying for herself. When she comes in with her husband to buy the poor creature a hat the color of the horse changes, said the salesman.

"Then," he declared, "there is trouble. We always play to the wife. The man may want to avoid the appearance of being henpecked, but nine times out of ten he takes the hat she picks. And the queer thing is that a woman is a very poor judge of a hat on her husband's head. The poor fellows who come in here with their wives generally go out with a hat that will make them ashamed to appear in public."

Ah Yes! Yours Truly
"But, poor judgment or not, it shows will power. The man thinks he knows what he wants, but his wife knows she knows. And there you are."

In this particular men's hat shop the women's trade in tailored straws and beavers is fixed at about 10 per cent of the men's trade, and the proportion of women's hats sold is increasing. So is the proportion of men's shops entering the women's hat business. One manager said he was forced into it by the number of women who came to buy men's model hats without special solicitation.

Only a few of the most conservative shops remain true to their last. Soon the sole refuge of the timid male will be the swimming pool in the Y. M. C. A. or the billiard parlor. And keen sports followers would hardly be astonished at an announcement any day that a lady Willie Hoppe was claiming the bakline championship.

Former Slave, Age
131 Years, Is Dead

SPRINGFIELD, Ky. — "Aunt" Millie Mullean, former slave who died in Louisville recently, was actually 131 years old. She was purchased by the family of Richard Mullean, father of W. H. Mullean, aged 90, who still lived here when she was grown. She had fifteen children, forty grandchildren, fourteen great grandchildren and three great-great grandchildren.

Pope Appeals for Aid Behalf Russians

ROME, July 26.—A letter written by Pope Pius XI appealing to the whole world to aid the starving Russians was made public today. The pontiff commended the splendid response of the United States to the early appeals for Russian relief, declaring that the Americans "had gained recognition of all humanity." A high tribute was paid to the American congress for voting large sums for Russian assistance.

DEVELOPMENT OF SITUATION IN RUSSIA BEING KEENLY WATCHED

Events of Next Six Months Will Decide Fate Of Nation, Belief of U. S. Officials

By HARRY L. ROGERS
By International News Service.
WASHINGTON, July 26.—The events of the next six months should tell the tale of Soviet Russia, at least so far as the present phase of its existence is concerned, according to administration officials in closest touch with the situation.

Whether Lenin continues in power, or whether by reason of illness, death or otherwise he should lose control of the machine he has created, officials believe developments between now and the first of the year will have clarified the situation sufficiently to warrant this government in taking a new account of stock.

There is an almost unanimous conviction here that Lenin himself, if free to follow his own bent, would be willing to make such concessions as practical to meet the conditions laid down by Secretary of State Hughes as essential to the resumption of relations between the United States and Russia. The soviet delegation at Genoa, according to the most reliable information here, was obviously seeking some graceful way of deserting the more radical principles of communism, but were forced to proceed slowly on account of the strength of the orthodox communist element at home and the opposition of communists all over the world.

Leaders May Desert Radicals
During The Hague conference there were evidences that the more astute bolshevist leaders were working in this direction, notwithstanding occasional outbursts from radicals, who waved the red flag with old-time vigor. Should Lenin remain in power it is believed here that he will be able to accomplish something definite during the next six months, either in the way of modification of soviet policy to meet the demands of the outside world, or at least he will have satisfied himself that conformity with the views of such nations as the United States and France is a concession too radical for the cohorts of Bolshevism to accept.

If events prove that Lenin is really out of the running, as has been intimated in some of the reports concerning his physical condition, then it is thought likely that six months will prove a sufficient time for the readjustment which must inevitably follow the elimination of Lenin from the affairs of Russia.

Speculation Regarding Trotsky
With Lenin out of power officials here believe some other "strong man" will appear, regardless of any technical machinery that may be established for the government of Russia. Trotsky has been most frequently mentioned as Lenin's successor, and there has been much speculation as to how he would conduct himself in a position of supreme power. Any triumvirate or coalition that may be formed, it is believed, would be subordinate to some individual, even though he did not hold the office of premier. With the tremendous personal influence of Trotsky it should be a matter of indifference to him as to who chances to have the name of premier, especially so long as he can retain control of the army.

While it is true Trotsky has been perhaps the most radical of all the bolshevist chiefs, at least so far as speech is concerned, observers here argue that he probably would become much more conservative if he were placed in a position of supreme power.

Troops Don't Want War
Should he attempt to carry out some of his more radical suggestions, especially those involving foreign conquests by the Red armies, it is believed that his organization would fall like a house of cards, for those whose business revolution or merely on behalf of a government? In Russia today the dictatorship of the proletariat has degenerated into the dictatorship of a tiny band of demagogues, linked together by their own petty personal interests, who are clutching at power like limps and want only power for themselves.

"Comrades of the west, if you carefully analyze the tactics of the Third Internationale for the last few months, if you carefully follow the policy of the Russian Communist party, you will see that both these organizations are merely slaves of the soviet government. You will realize that all these congresses, resolutions and declarations are merely a farce enacted to fool you. All these resolutions, etc., are infallibly fabricated in the secrecy of various soviet commissariats, in order to support and prop up the collapsing building of the Russian soviet government.

Leaders Are Accused
"We, a group of independent workers, members and ex-members of the Russian Communist party, openly accuse the leaders of this soviet government of having deliberately and knowingly betrayed the revolution, and of having sold the interests of the Russian working masses and the word proletariat, in order to obtain power and retain it. We accuse them of being the leaders of the new bourgeoisie, which is much more greedy, avaricious and brutal than the old bourgeoisie, of inspiring the most cruel and bloody measures and reprisals against the workers, whom they are mercilessly exploiting.

Humans Become Brutes
"Human beings were transformed into wild brutes," the appeal continues. "And the happy moments of the first months of the revolution gave place to orgies of blood when the bayonets of the maddened mob did not discern between guilty and innocent. This was the period of civil war, the blackest, vilest and most miserable page in the history of the Russian revolution and humanity in general."
The "Reds" were infinitely more to blame in this civil war than the "Whites," the appeal asserts, because "one could not expect any other attitude from the latter."
"One can justify the creation by the revolution of the mailed fist for purposes of self defense," the document continues. "One can justify the fact that sometimes the mailed fist crushes with equal effect both open and hidden foes. But the mailed fist is permissible only in the sphere of defense of the revolutionary creed; if it begins to suppress also the free thoughts and free speech of the workers, if it destroys together the best forms of revolutionary individualism, then we ask, in whose interest is this mailed fist working?"
Document Asks Questions
"Is it working on behalf of the

Near East Relief In Need of Funds

Would you let your children starve to death? If you were no longer on earth, would you want your friends to let your children starve?

The parents of approximately 2,500,000 orphans in Armenia and Syria were killed during the war, and the following famine and pestilence.

These orphans are dependent upon American generosity for life. If food is withheld they will starve.

Rev. R. W. Mottern of 211 North Adams street, representative of the Near East Relief, is confident that the generosity of Glendale will not fail.

Fifteen dollars per month provides food, clothing, shelter and school for one orphan. Ten dollars a month provides food, clothing and shelter for one orphan. Five dollars a month provides food for one orphan.

E. Guy Talbott, regional director of the Near East Relief, has issued a statement showing that 9,197,694 pounds of food and clothing valued at $1,099,232 have been from Pacific Coast ports to the Near East during the fiscal year ending June 28, 1922.

Mud Massages Very Popular In England

LONDON.—English society women in search of beauty and white shoulders now sit for thirty minutes to an hour every day in the hairdressing departments of London hotels, with their faces, arms and shoulders covered with mud.

The mud massage goes round, seeing that no one is suffocated, taps the mud and, when it is quite hard, breaks the crust and washes it off. The seeker after eternal health then emerges white and healthful.

This process, it is claimed, is one of beauty's most valuable secrets, and the treatment, though newly introduced to London, is already becoming a cult. The mud comes from the continent and is not chemically treated in any way.

Managers of hairdressing saloons declare that the effect of this mud on the skin is astonishing, and women with poor complexions and wrinkled skins have derived surprising benefit from it. Many women are said to be having these mud baths several times a week, in their search for eternal health and youth.

Find Regular Home for Hobo Goldfish

PRINCETON, Ind.—Fifty gold fish, some of them a foot long, brought here from Washington, Ind., by C. G. Taylor, secretary of the Princeton Chamber of Commerce, and Dr. M. P. Hollingsworth, have a history. The two men found them in a pond on the premises of the Hincer Manufacturing company, where, according to Taylor, they have been thriving ever since 1913.

High water forced the fish into the pond. Literally, they were rescued from an aquarium car, on its way from New Jersey to California, which was stranded in the Big Four yards, when the White river bridge was washed out. The fish then were minnows, dull in color. Only the fact that they were shipped by the government gave any indication that they were unusual.

Slayer's Accomplice to Appear in Movies

PARIS.—A French film company has signed up Pauline Jacques, daughter of Madame Basserabo, recently convicted of her husband's murder, to star in a film portraying, in a romance, details of the crime. Pauline was acquitted of complicity in the murder, although she admitted she helped her mother pack the body of the slain Basserabo in a trunk and ship it to Nancy. On the grounds that there is a mystery which neither she nor Pauline have as yet divulged, Madame Basserabo has appealed for a new trial.

DAMP WEATHER
Often the oil stove will rust in summer time. If so, apply linseed oil with a damp cloth and sandpaper any remaining spots.

Detroit Nurses Lose Jobs for Bobbing Hair

DETROIT.—"Indefinitely suspended until your hair grows long again."

That is the punishment meted out to each of the five student nurses at Province hospital who had the temerity to bob their hair—flapper fashion—in violation of the rules of the hospital.

Among them are Frances Greka and Miss Edna Martin, of Buffalo.

Five Children Born to Mother of Triplets

Ohio Farmer Owner Of 5-Legged Duck

POWHATAN, Ohio.—Paul Ramsey, farmer, residing near here, has a five-legged duck. It was hatched a few days ago on Ramsey's farm. The duck is healthy and walks on the usual two legs as readily as does any normal duckling, and is not handicapped by its excess of pedal extremities.

Homeless Girl! Soon to Have Her Mother

SPRINGFIELD, Mass.—Margaret Schener, of Syracuse, N. Y., may see her mother and have a home for the first time in seventeen years. The young girl's parents separated when she was an infant and she was reared in various institutions.

Policewoman O'Connor found her sick and penniless in a downtown rooming house. She had been deserted by a crew of traveling magazine solicitors after her arrival here recently. Margaret is staying at the House of the Good Shepherd until her mother can be communicated with.

He Laughs at Joke, Loses False Teeth

BOSTON, July 26.—An elevator operator in a Boston office building enjoyed his first laugh in twenty years yesterday, but it cost him his upper set of artificial teeth, and probably his vacation.

Talking with a passenger on the top floor, he laughed uproariously at a joke, opening his mouth much too wide.

It was fatal! His "uppers" slipped their moorings, fell between the car and the platform, and crashed to bits in the basement of the elevator shaft, five stories below.

Now it may take his vacation money to restore the grindings to running order.

Carpet Sold for $30 Now Worth Fortune

LONDON.—When some forty years ago, the master of the Torigliani Palace sold Mr. Bardidi a somewhat dilapidated carpet for the paltry sum of $30, he probably had no idea that Bardidi would shortly thereafter sell it to one of the Rothschilds for the equivalent of $7000. And even the wise Mr. Bardidi little dreamed that this self-same carpet would be later appraised by world-famous experts as worth a half million dollars.

This transaction will undoubtedly stand forever as the world's record for an increase in rug value.

None the less, many people in this country who bought rugs within taste and judgment twenty or thirty years ago lived to see some of their pieces fetch ten times their original value. Despite the lamentations of some of the veteran dealers that the good old days, when rugs could be bought with expertness and good luck have, even in recent years, made some astonishing transactions. One rug that cost only $40 not so very long ago is now conservatively appraised at $5000; another which was bought for $21 was promptly resold for $800, and was below the market price at that. But the changes in rug values are not always consistently upward. Many unwary purchasers have found that their "priceless" rugs would bring only painfully low prices when again offered for sale. Moreover, the open market value of certain excellent types has actually shrunk markedly in the last few years.

Such famous rugs as the Ghiordes have temporarily declined, damaged by the scorn of Martin and Valentiner, as well as by a diversion of interest of many collectors to earlier types. Even the Bokharas, once the most popular of all rugs, have, since the decorators declared the color red taboo, also joined a falling market. In contrast to these, other types, such as the Ispahans, continue to rise in value. It is probable that some of the lesser known kinds, such as the early Oushaks are, through sheer artistic merit, destined for a considerable advance as they come to be better understood.

PARAGUAY GAINS STANDING AFTER HARD FIGHT

South American Republic Is Revived; Women Exceed Male Population

WASHINGTON, July 26.—A country whose population was almost wiped out of existence, but which has "come back" successfully; where women outnumber men several times over; where cattle graze the year round under palm trees, and where bearded cowboys wear bloomers—such is the Paraguay of today pictured in a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. Headquarters of the National Geographic Society. The bulletin was issued following news dispatches which state that a revolution has broken out in the little South American Republic.

Paraguay, which has refused the offered mediation of foreign diplomats and has announced that its army will take care of the country's latest revolution, rifles and cannon, is living up to the military traditions which have given it the most tragic history of all the countries of the Americas' says the bulletin.

POSTAL RECEIPTS DISPLAY GROWTH OF VAN NUYS

Large Increase Is Made During Year; Notes of San Fernando Valley

With the postoffice receipts for the fiscal year ending June 30 showing a total of $14,857.21, the Van Nuys postoffice record has been broken as the report just compiled shows that never in the eleven years of the existence of the Van Nuys postoffice has so much business been done. For the year 1920-1921 the total business amounted to $12,148.34, or 25 per cent. less than for the year just closed, according to D. M. Gibson, postmaster.

This report is taken as the best criterion to judge the expansion of Van Nuys and the growth of the town. Bank clearings and school enrollment and building records have shown like increases and business men in general are very enthusiastic over the showing.

IF KIDNEYS ACT BAD TAKE SALTS

Says Backache Is Sign You Have Been Eating Too Much Meat

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it generally means you have been eating too much meat, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and lousy. When your kidneys get sluggish and you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels; removing all the body's urinous waste, else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells, your stomach sour, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water scalds and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is a life saver for regular meat eaters. It is inexpensive, cannot injure and makes a delightful, effervescent lithia-water drink.—Advertisement.

Paris Students Will Use Pershing Park

PARIS—French school children are to have the benefit of the Pershing Stadium, built by the A. E. F. Work has been started on the big field, which is near Joinville-le-Pont, to reconstruct the stadium itself and to convert the arena into drill ground and track space for boys and girls. The Paris Municipal Council, doing the work, is following a suggestion made by the international committee on Olympic Games.

War Affected Land

Next to the smallest republic in South America, with an area of about as large as that of the state of Wyoming, Paraguay in 1865 had a population comparable to that of extensive Argentina and huge Brazil, and thanks to the military ambitions of its dictator, Francisco Lopez, the most powerful army in South America. Lopez believed himself destined to be the Napoleon of the Western hemisphere, and in 1865 confidently led his army of his little country against the combined forces of Brazil, Argentina and Uruguay.

The five-year conflict was so bloody and the Paraguayans were defeated so signally that between two-thirds and five-sixths of the population perished. Of a population that may have passed the million mark, only about 200,000 women and less than 30,000 men—mostly old men and young boys—were left. The losses were heavier, probably, than those suffered by any other nation in modern times. Even today Paraguay is largely a land of women, the men being greatly in the minority.

Want Better Mail Service

The Van Nuys Chamber of Commerce and the Merchants and Manufacturers' Association have petitioned the postoffice authorities to establish direct mail delivery between Van Nuys and San Fernando. Under present regulations, pouches between the two cities are carried through Los Angeles, which greatly delays the delivery of mail matter.

Apricot Shipments Heavy

Sunday night when a train of twenty-seven cars of apricots rolled out of Van Nuys consigned by Chatsworth Reservoir and northern canneries, the apricot shipping record from San Fernando Valley and Southern California was smashed.

It is believed that never in the history of the southland has such a heavy shipment of cots been made to the north or to any other point. And this was only one shipment. Prior to this same firm has been shipping from six to a dozen cars daily.

France Has Only Two Phone Directories

PARIS—In France, with a population of 40,000,000 people, the telephone is so poorly developed that two telephone directories will contain the names of all the subscribers.

The government, which operates the service, issues one directory for Paris and one for the rest of the country.

San Fernando Business

A thirty-five per cent. increase was indicated in the postal receipts for San Fernando for the fiscal year ended June 30, according to the report of the San Fernando postmaster.

Building permits jumped to $115,285, or an increase of $13,056 over the preceding fiscal year, according to San Fernando's city clerk. The month of June was the greatest in the city's history when permits to the amount of $67,875 were issued. A tremendous increase is also shown in the banking and business interests of San Fernando.

Reservoir Fishing

Followers of the rod and reel are dead anxious to fish in the Los Angeles aqueduct reservoirs in the San Fernando Valley. A couple of Sundays ago some twenty-five citizens were arrested at Chatsworth reservoir and that seemed to start something, for on behalf of the 50,000 citizen-sportsmen of greater Los Angeles, the state fish and game commission forwarded to the city council, over the signature of Edwin L. Hedderly, assistant-in-charge of the commission's office in Los Angeles, a communication urging a repeal of the city ordinance which forbids fishing in the city reservoirs.

Like an Inland Florida

"Paraguay of today is a sort of inland Florida of fertile soil, equable climate, and an abundance of fruits and food products. On its rich grass lands vast herds of cattle graze the year round, under palm trees tended by cowboys who instead of the 'chaps' of our western plains, wear loose, baggy bloomers. Only Argentina with its more extensive plains surpasses Paraguay as a cattle country. Recently a number of packing plants have been established by North American interests.

"The Parana river has a greater flow than the Mississippi, and Asuncion, the capital of Paraguay, though nearly 1000 miles from the sea, is a busy port for trade with the outside world.

"Paraguay had its 'after-the-war problem' a long time before it was forced upon the rest of the world; and the little republic has largely solved it. It was necessary for the women left after the war of 1865 to bring the country back to prosperity, and their marked industry did it. Today there is a degree of general prosperity in the republic that compares favorably with that in most other countries. But it still has its revolutions. The present one is the seventh since 1907."

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories

BY HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE LEMONADE.

"Uncle Wiggily, you'll come, won't you?" asked Baby Bunty, the little rabbit girl, one day, as she stood holding paws with Susie Little, another rabbit girl. They were on Uncle Wiggily's front stoop, just then the coolest and most shady part of the hollow stump bungalow. "Susie said you'd come," went on Baby Bunty. "Well, it all depends," spoke Uncle Wiggily, with a funny little wrinkle of his pink nose. "If you want me to come to the den of the Fox or the Wolf, or even the Skeezicks, I'm afraid I'll have me to a party, why, that's a different thing." "It's almost like a party!" eagerly said Susie. "Baby Bunty and I are going to have a lemonade stand, Uncle Wiggily." "Will the lemonade stand by itself, or will one of you have to hold it up?" asked the bunny gentleman. "No, no," laughed Baby Bunty. "That's one of your jokes, I suppose, as Nurse Jane would say. You know what we mean, Uncle Wiggily."

7-26 "Ah! Ahem!" exclaimed the bunny.

"I'll tell him!" quickly offered Susie. "You see Baby Bunty and I are going to make some lemonade and we're going to make a little stand, or table, out in front of my house, and we're going to sell glasses of lemonade for a penny a glass."

"And we want you to come and buy lemonade from us," went on Baby Bunty. "Cause you'll be nice and polite. But the boy animals they won't buy any of us, and

"Even if they would we don't want 'em to," broke in Susie. "Cause they're so funny, they keep saying what stinky glasses, and that it isn't sweet enough, or that it isn't strong enough, and they drink the last drop in the glass and beg for more."

"Boys aren't any good at all when we have a lemonade stand," declared Baby Bunty. "So we want you to come, Uncle Wiggily, and buy a lot of lemonade."

"Cause we're going to take the money we get and buy ourselves some ice cream soda," added Susie.

"Why don't you drink some of your own lemonade?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"Oh, 'cause that isn't any fun!" said the two little rabbit girls.

"Now, you'll be sure to come, won't you Uncle Wiggily?" begged Susie, as she and Baby Bunty hurried off to make the lemonade.

"Oh, yes," promised Uncle Wiggily.

Susie and Baby Bunty squeezed out the juice of the lemons, put the juice in a pitcher with some water and sugar, and then Mr. Whitewash, the kind polar bear gentleman, gave them a large chunk of ice to cool the lemonade.

"Now we're all ready for Uncle Wiggily to come and buy from us," said Susie, when they had set the pitcher of lemonade and some clean glasses on the stand, which was made from a grocery box covered with white birch bark for a cloth.

Susie and Baby Bunty looked up this path and down the other path for a sight of Uncle Wiggily, but, for a time, they did not see the dear old rabbit gentleman.

But pretty soon, however, Uncle Wiggily came hopping along, his pink nose twinkling like a flash lamp at the rag doll's party.

"Ah, Ahem!" exclaimed the bunny, as he saw Susie and Bunty. "Selling lemonade; are you?" he asked, just as if he was as surprised as anything. "I'll have a glass," he went on.

Susie and Bunty tried hard not to giggle as they poured out the cool, sweet drink, and, just as Uncle Wiggily was sipping it, all of a sudden along came the Woozie Wolf, looking very warm and very cross—oh, as cross as the letter X, he was.

"Well," growled the Wolf, as Uncle Wiggily's paw shook so he could hardly hold the glass of lemonade. "Well?"

"Not very well—quite bad, I should say," spoke the bunny. "Bad for you—good for me!" growled the Wolf. "Your ears are good to nibble, I mean," he said.

"Oh!" cried Susie. "Oh!" cried Baby Bunty.

"Don't be afraid, my dears," grumbled the Wolf, trying to be kind and polite, but not knowing how, for he didn't try it often enough. "I'm not going to harm you—I'm only going to nibble Uncle Wiggily's ears."

"Will you grant me one favor before you start nibbling?" asked the bunny.

"Yes, one, and only one!" grumbled the Wolf. "What is it?"

"Let me drink one more glass of lemonade," begged the bunny. "It is so good lemonade and I am so warm I want one more drink."

"All right!" growled the Wolf. "I'll pour it out for myself," went on Mr. Longears, as Susie reached for the pitcher. Taking the pitcher in both paws Uncle Wiggily suddenly poured all the lemonade in it over the Wolf's head. It ran down his nose and into his eyes.

"Oh, wow! Oh, trolley cars, Oh, gasoline," howled the bad chap; "I'm drowning, I'll have to swim home!" and then, hardly able to see where he was going, he rushed away, bumping his nose hard against a tree.

"Now I'm safe!" laughed the bunny.

"Oh, but our lovely lemonade!" sighed Susie.

"Never mind, I'll pay for all of it, and you can make more and give it to the animal boys!" laughed the bunny gentleman, and the animal girls did. So everything happened for the best.

And if the carpet tack doesn't tickle the foot of the stairs and make the parlor rug slide down the banisters backward, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the bubbling spring.

RADIO EXPLAINED

BY E. H. LEWIS
INSTRUCTOR NEW YORK Y.M.C.A. RADIO SCHOOL

COMBINING RADIO AND AUDIO FREQUENCY AMPLIFICATION

It is quite desirable in many cases and is also very possible to eliminate the outside antenna and use what is known as a coil or loop antenna in its stead. Ordinarily, the energy in a coil antenna is not sufficient to properly operate a vacuum tube detector without amplification at radio frequency. In some cases, however, the energy is sufficient, and the customary regenerative receiver, with detector and two stages of audio frequency amplification, will function quite well. In any case, however, the loop antenna does not pick up much energy as a well arranged outside antenna. Since the energy abstracted by the loop from the passing radio waves is usually very small, the voltages applied to the detector grid may have to be amplified, as may be done with the circuit illustrated herewith. Two stages of radio frequency amplification are shown feeding into the grid circuit of a detector tube. The energy in the plate circuit of this tube will not be sufficient to give loud enough signals in a pair of head receivers unless audio frequency amplification is used. Two stages of audio frequency amplification may be used if head telephones are desired, but a great many loud speakers will require greater power to operate satisfactorily. A third audio frequency stage is, therefore, shown, and may be designed for power amplification.

Four tubes are required for amplification and should be amplifier tubes having as high amplification constants as possible. One detector tube, which may be of the "soft" or gaseous type, and one five watt power amplifier tube are also required. If reception is to be accomplished on only a rather narrow band of wave lengths, the air-core radio frequency transformers are suitable and are shown in the diagram. Separate filament rheostats are somewhat to be desired, even for the amplifier tubes, since tubes vary in characteristic. This complicates the operation to some extent, however, and it is permissible to use one rheostat for the two radio frequency tubes and one for the two small audio frequency amplifier tubes. It is necessary to have separate rheostats for the detector and power amplifier tubes. The latter rheostat should be capable of carrying a current of three amperes without heating unduly. Since all the tubes except the small power tube are operated from the same filament or "A" battery, the capacity of this battery should be at least 100 ampere-hours to avoid too frequent recharging. The five-watt tube should be operated from a separate ten-volt battery, since the voltage across its filament is usually required to be higher than can be had with the six volt battery. The plate battery voltage for the five watt tube should be around 300, and if it is desired to operate all tubes with the same battery taps may be taken as shown. A stabilizer (potentiometer) is shown, which is used for adjusting the potential on the grids of the first two tubes. The tendency of the radio frequency amplifier to howl may be overcome by adjusting this stabilizer.

They Say That

Education, not age, should determine the right of the citizen to vote. So argues Horace M. Rebock of Santa Monica, president of the California High School Teachers' association. He says that the age requirement of 21 years is a legal fiction, arbitrarily fixed before modern education had its birth. Mr. Rebock urges that all high school graduates, regardless of age, should be allowed to vote in national, state and municipal elections. He asks that an initiative proposal of this nature be submitted to the voters of California. He thinks that if California would adopt this plan, it would be taken up by other states and soon would be general throughout the country. He maintains that any high school graduate is far better fitted to vote intelligently than many foreigners admitted to citizenship.

It's A Fact

CHURCH TO GIVE PLAYS

A New York church has organized a dramatic company and produces plays with the pastor often appearing in the leading role. It is sort of backfire against the indecencies staged in New York theaters. A play called "The Upper Room," a dramatic production of what occurred among the followers of the Saviour during and after the crucifixion was put on first, but it was only by accident that a play with strong religious feeling was selected. The church players intend to present any wholesome play, even "comedies and musical comedies and musical extravaganzas. The enterprise is not so novel as it seems, for history records that dramatic productions were first presented in churches.

VETERANS BROUGHT TEARS

At San Francisco during the convention of disabled American veterans of the world war there was a novel parade in which the "greatest hero" of every state, a man picked by its governor, marched with his disabled comrades, each to honor the other. As the ranks of the disabled veterans passed up Market street, the scene of many a thrilling parade, tears were shed by the spectators. The ravages of war were painfully apparent in missing limbs, limping gaits, crutches, or the presence of the hospital pallor. It was a peace lesson which ought to last a good while.

TOUR IN HEARSE

If you have trouble going to sleep says Frank Remlinger, make your bed in a hearse. Mr. Remlinger is touring the country with friends, in his motor hearse. Part of the glass sides have been replaced by board panels and a floor put in to divide the hearse into decks. Two of the party sleep "upstairs" and all supplies are carried below. Three others sleep in a tent. It is mighty restful, says Mr. Remlinger. No ghosts have been encountered so far, even when the party camped next to a cemetery, and no matter how storms blow the hearse is snug. Notwithstanding, no motor manufacturer, it is believed, will fashion his 1923 touring model after Mr. Remlinger's car.

TO HANG SHEETS

To hang sheets in a way that will prevent whipping the corners and lessen wear and tear, shake them well while wet and hang them with the hems together and the hem edge pinned to the line.

AVOID BOILING OVER

A small piece of butter added to the water in which rice or lima beans are cooked will prevent bubbling over.

SH-H-H!

"An old colored woman in Alabama was on her sick bed and, fearing the worst, essayed to make preparations for her departure."

"Willum," she said to her devoted spouse, "yo' gottor promise to bury me in de old place in Bummin'ham near mah mammy. Ah ain't gwine to rest in peace among all dese strange folkses hyah."

"Dat'll be all right," assured Willum, "we is gwine try yo' hyah fust, an' den, does yo' start raisin' a ruckus, we is gwine try yo' in Bummin'ham."

IT WAS EASY

A gracious southern woman was entertaining guests at dinner. Each dish outshone the preceding one in exquisite taste and appearance. At last a wonderful lemon pie was served, heaped with golden meringue beautifully decorated with dainty scallops, row upon row. The guests were lavish in their praises and finally the hostess called for the colored mammy cook, who appeared, round, black and glistening.

"How did you ever scallop that wonderful lemon pie so beautifully, Mammy?" asked one enthusiastic lady.

"Law, honey, dat's easy," beamed Mammy, "I done it wif ma false teef!"

OLD STUFF

Sophomore: "Teachers are worse than immigration authorities at Ellis Island nowadays." Alumnus: "How come?" "They've swiped the slogan: 'They shall not pass.'"

WORTH IT

Brown: "The price of eggs is out of sight. I hear they're a dollar a dozen in some of the swell places." Green: "That's nothing. I overheard a man at the show last night say he would give five dollars for just one, if it was bad enough."

KNOW THYSELF

Smith: "Holy smoke! What happened to your face?" Brown: "I boxed six rounds with the Battling Kid last night." "I didn't know you were a boxer." "I guess I ain't."

The TURNING POINT

THE price of Fontana vineyards planted in April last is still $450 per acre. Some day, before long, the price will be $500, and the price of vineyards to be planted next spring will be $550.

You may gain a year, in a day, by investing NOW.

Takes only six years for a vineyard to grow to full production. Prices of grapes promise to stay high indefinitely. Nice little profit there—one year's crop.

First come, first served. The sooner you investigate, the more you get for your money.

HAVE A BARGAIN

Are you a bargain hunter? If you are I can tell you of a bargain that really ought to delight your heart.

I refer to the large quantity of popularity that can be purchased with the small change of small courtesies and graciousness. Almost everyone loves to be popular.

Not Beyond Your Means

But many people think the price is beyond their means. They think it is beauty or brilliance or great charm. And of course popularity can be bought with such qualities as these. But a measure of popularity altogether disproportionate to the expenses can also be bought by small courtesies and gracious ways.

When I was riding in a machine the other day we met another machine on a narrow road. We drew over to give it passage and the driver of the other machine smiled and waved his hand in acknowledgment.

Cheerily Bought

"I like that young man," said the driver of our machine. "I'd like to know him."

So swiftly is liking won by a small courtesy!

Recently I was staying in a small inn where there was a young man who had a ready smile for everyone and an easy affable manner. No one knew him very well

Lack of Home Life for Children Is Cause Of Crime, So This Famous Woman Says

RACE FOR MONEY BRINGS PROBLEM

Young Folks Should Not Be Bread Earners Too Early, Asserts This Expert

ATLANTA, Ga., July 26.—The modern woman's race for money has caused present criminal conditions and social problems, because children now do not know what home is.

So says Mrs. Grace Kirkland, herself a physician, politician, poet, editor, social worker, stenographer, lecturer and more recently a lawyer—a participant in about all the chief businesses in which man engages.

"The mother is away, earning a living," she says. "The children grow up without training and themselves become bread earners before they are old enough to be out of the play stage. The result is crime. The children have not been taught at home."

Although active for years in several professions Mrs. Kirkland is not an enthusiast on the question of professions for women. Women ought to stay in the home, she believes.

Mrs. Kirkland recently was admitted to the bar. Known to hundreds of her former patients as a kindly physician, to whom the picture of her pleading the cause of criminals is an anomaly, she soon is to be sworn in as a full-fledged attorney.

"Am I going to practice law?" she asked. "What's the use of letting the men do all the work? I'm going right into the courtroom—Police Court, too—and bounce on 'em like a band of wild Indians."

Mrs. Kirkland says she intends to continue her poetry and fiction writing, by which she is probably the best known. She has turned her literary talents to use in her medical work and is a regular contributor to several medical journals. With the experience she will gain in court practice it is predicted she will rival Conan Doyle.

Diet and Health

By Lulu Hunt Peters, M.D. Author of 'Diet and Health, with Key to the Calories'

MECHANICAL EXERCISE

The importance of exercise: It accelerates circulation. Activates the ductless glands. Tones and strengthens the flabby muscles, both voluntary and involuntary. Invigorates the nervous system. Prevents fat forming. Enough said?

If you are very fat, perhaps your heart will not take kindly to active exercise, and it will be better to reduce a bit before undertaking. If in doubt, consult a heart specialist.

For those who are so afflicted, some of the mechanical devices to give exercise are often recommended by the medical profession.

After I was released from duty with the American Red Cross in the Balkans, I visited several of the capitals of Europe to see what they were doing in the child welfare line.

Naturally, I wanted to sample the characteristic dishes of the different nations I visited, and I did. Also, naturally, I did not count my calories, me thinking like a small boy I'm fond of, Gosh G, what's the use? I can always count calories and I cannot always consort with native dishes on their native heaths.

The result was, of course, that I converted considerable of those delicious delectable viands into my own particular undelicious, undeleterious brand of anatomical upholstery. Oft and frequently I had to protest that while there was a food shortage in Europe, it really wasn't because I was there. However, as I have told you, I dislike myself when I am overweight. So it behooved me speedily and promptly to get rid of my importation.

Along with my home exercising and dieting, I took a course of electric vibratory chair treatments, those where they put mountains of sand bags on you and, connected with the electric vibration, your muscles automatically work to beat the orchestra.

Between us we took off the 15 pounds of foreign fatfulness, and I was my usual 100 per cent. American.

There is also a rolling machine which I patronized once and had a couple of inches moved off my hips. It was much more fun than floor rolling for that purpose.

I believe these mechanical devices fill a very great need for those who are unable to exercise, and also for those who are too indolent to exert themselves (sometimes the effect of fat is to make one stupid) and I know of excellent results from them.

But, as in active forms of exercise, it is very wise to begin lightly and to heed the attendant's warning when you, in your zeal, want things speeded up.

I must not forget to speak of good deep massage. This is also excellent.

None of these things can take the place of active exercise, however, when you are able to take it. Nor will they take the place of dieting, for you can go right out after a treatment and eat more than you have taken off.

You must diet, with any exercise, if you want to reduce. Of course if you do get a lot of vigorous exercise, you can eat a lot more than you could otherwise; but you probably will not keep up the exercise to that extent, and so you must know something of dietetics.

Don't follow any advice that tells you to cut out all starches, all sugar, all fats—in fact, all the things you like to eat. We will teach you something of dietetics in this column as we go along, and meanwhile you can get at any public library good books on the subject.

Tomorrow—Active Exercise.

BEAUTY CHATS

SUMMER CREAMS

Dimples:—The juice from cucumbers will bleach the skin after a simple case of tanning. If a stronger bleach is needed make an extract from the cucumbers. To do this you cut the vegetable into small pieces, cover with water and steep gently until all becomes a pulp. Strain this matter through a fine white cloth. If the extract is to be kept for any length of time, either alcohol or some other preservative will have to be added to it. At this season it is best to make it fresh, whenever needed. Make the year's supply at the end of the season when cucumbers are plentiful.

Tomorrow—Results of the Permanent Wave

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes in care of the "Beauty Chats" in these columns will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor.

PRACTICAL HOUSEKEEPING

by Florence Austin Chase

CHINESE DISHES

It is in summer when the appetite needs coaxing that we welcome the out-of-the-ordinary dishes, and with this in mind I am offering a few of the really good Chinese dishes that I have served in my own home.

Almost all of the Chinese recipes call for Chinese sauce. This can be bought from any of the Chinese groceries, but where it is unobtainable, Kitchen Bouquet can be used and it really seasons the dishes very nicely.

Chinese Eggs—Wash one cup of rice in cold water and cook in rich chicken stock; place on platter. Poach six eggs and trim neatly; sprinkle with salt, pepper, chopped parsley, and lemon juice. Put the eggs on the rice and pour a little hot tomato sauce, to which has been added a small portion of Chinese sauce, over base of platter and serve.

Chinese Chop Suey—Cut two pounds of fresh pork into thin strips and let fry in boiling hot olive oil for ten minutes. Add one large onion, sliced thin, and let fry until tender; then add one cup of sliced mushrooms, two stalks of celery cut fine, one-fourth of a cup of Chinese sauce, and a dash of black pepper. Moisten with one-half cup of hot water. Cover and let simmer until tender. Add one-fourth cup Chinese sauce and three tablespoons minced parsley. Serve with shredded pineapple.

Chinese Chicken Chop Suey—Cut all the meat of a chicken into thin strips; season with pepper, and cayenne and fry in hot olive oil. Add two tablespoons minced ham, two stalks of celery, chopped, and one-half cup of mushrooms, cut fine. Add one-half cup of Chinese sauce; cover and let simmer until tender. Thicken the sauce with flour; add two tablespoons cream and one tablespoon minced parsley. Serve hot with boiled rice.

Chicken Noodle Soup—Boil a large hen in three quarts of water. Add one cup of chopped ham, one slice onion, half cup sliced mushrooms, two stalks of celery cut fine, two tomatoes and one tablespoon minced parsley. Let simmer three hours and strain; then bring to boil. Add fine noodles and let cook ten minutes.

Chinese Cabbage—Chop a small head of cabbage and then fry one onion and two sliced sour apples. Add the chopped cabbage, one-half cup of stock or hot water, and the juice of one-half lemon; sprinkle with salt and cayenne pepper; add one-half teaspoon curry powder. Cover and let simmer until tender. Serve hot on a border of boiled rice.

Chinese Salad—Cut equal portion of celery, apples and truffles in fine shreds and mix with nasturtium flowers and stems; season with salt and pepper. Put into salad bowl and cover with mayonnaise dressing. Garnish with hard boiled eggs and olives.

Chinese Noodles—Break one egg into a bowl, add one-fourth teaspoon salt and enough flour to make stiff dough. Roll dough very thin and leave on pastry board, which has been covered with a cloth, to thoroughly dry. When dry, roll up closely and cut in very fine shreds. Again let dry, turning and tossing noodles in the meantime. (The finer the noodles are shredded the more delicious the noodles will be when done.) When ready to serve, cook in boiling salted water ten or fifteen minutes.

Mother-in-Law Cash Ends Her Happiness

CHICAGO, July 26.—A large inheritance, received by her mother-in-law, was the beginning of the end of the domestic happiness of Mrs. Geraldine Mittleman, according to two bills she filed recently in the Circuit Court.

"Money spoiled our happiness," she said. "We were married in May, 1920. A year ago the inheritance came into the family and the mother immediately sought to turn my husband against me, telling him he should marry some girl with more social prestige now that he is to be a lawyer."

Prayer is powerful if it is mixed with equal parts of sweat.

Boy, 9, Hobo Since 6, On Trips 30 Times

KANSAS CITY, July 26.—Frank Neely, 9 years old, of Muskogee, Okla., today claimed the runaway championship of the world.

Frank, found asleep in an automobile here, after riding the rods of a freight train from Muskogee, admitted it was his thirtieth adventure.

"He has not been at home three months since he was 6 years old," his dad wrote the sheriff.

A man in Kansas City got thirty years for stealing 30 cents worth of groceries. We Americans have our faults but we do hate a piker.

Covington Citizens Form Alimony Club

CINCINNATI, July 26.—Covington, Ky., has organized an Alimony Club, with eleven charter members, and each year, when the memory of National Independence Day is fresh in their minds they will gather to celebrate their Domestic Freedom. New members are to be admitted from time to time, but a requisite of admission is that none shall be taken in who at any time during his family troubles failed to conduct himself as a gentleman.

Each initiation night is to be a jubilee occasion, with much feasting. Before being taken in the candidates are required to recount as humorously as possible the details of their marital difficulties. The motto of the club is, "We have found freedom from the matrimonial sea."

Parisians Opposed to Yank Traffic System

PARIS—Should the great cities of the world grow alike or each try to keep its individuality? Upon the answer to that question will be based the decision of the city of Paris whether to adopt the red-green-white light system of traffic guidance now in use on Fifth Avenue, New York.

Opposition to the acceptance of a proposal made by Dr. John A. Harris, designer of the Fifth Avenue signals, to put such lights along the Avenue de l'Opera is based upon the feeling that they will give visitors to Paris a stereotyped impression—that Americans will forget the beauty of the broad avenue and say, "Isn't that just like Fifth Avenue?" This would hurt the pride of the French.

TALCUM POWDER PROFITS

Talcum powder sells for $10,000 a ton retail, while tale at the mine is priced at $25 a ton. Coal dealers still have a lot to learn.

Men aren't interested?

In seeing their women-folks spic-and-span in complexion, hair and nails?

Perhaps not. Or perhaps so!

But the woman of good judgment believes that her beauty is an excellent investment in self-respect, at least.

So Marinello serves, as for 18 years, thoroughly.

Noted Relics In Need Of More Protection

WASHINGTON, D. C.—If the Declaration of Independence should be destroyed by fire or time, the country would mourn, but not collapse. If the Liberty Bell should disintegrate or break in two, America would regard it as a national loss, but would not cease to be a nation.

But the sentiment which surrounds historic documents, buildings, objects and locations, made sacred by association, is the very life blood of patriotism. If the Declaration of Independence be destroyed by the slow action of time the nation could bear the loss, glad that the historical document lasted long enough to be so enshrined in American hearts that its influence could never die.

At present the 146-year-old document, with its faded ink, its only partially decipherable signatures and its slowly yellowing parchment is in the custody of the Library of Congress. Here, doubtless, it is perfectly safe. But this document is but one of a long list of papers, all historic, all unique and non-replaceable, scattered all over Washington, D. C., and housed in all manner of non-fireproof buildings.

Paris Bans Fees for Use of Park Benches

PARIS—As a tribute to the shopgirl, the "midinette" of French literature, fees for the use of seats in municipally controlled parks have been abolished during the two-hour "dejeuner" period, from 12 to 2 o'clock. Effort is being made to obtain the same privilege for the lunching shopgirl in the nationally controlled parks—the Tuileries, the Jardin des Plantes and the Luxembourg.

FOR JIGGS AND DINTY Secretary Wallace says 54,780 acres of cabbage were planted up to July 1 this year, compared with 44,560 acres harvested last year. This is an estimated increase of 17,834,561,877 forkfuls. An expert record on the corn beef crop will now be anxiously awaited.

Asphalt deposits have been discovered near oil fields in the Argentine Republic. The deposits contain considerable quantities of vanadium.

Movie Causes Youth to Lose His Pants

CINCINNATI, July 26.—George Mayberry, 10, saw a piece of motion picture film sticking from the hip pocket of Leonard, his 12-year-old brother, and struck a match to it to see what would happen.

In a flash it was all over but the shouting, and Leonard refused to stop that. Physicians at the hospital found the boy to be suffering with burns on his hands and hips, but said he would recover. They expressed no hope for the trousers.

SUGGESTION FOR CURTAINS

When one has the same style curtain throughout the house, it is a good idea to make an extra pair when all the curtains are made. Then, as necessary, the extra pair can be hung and a soiled pair taken down and laundered. It would mean very little work and one would always have immaculate curtains.

Powder Puffs Get Taboo of Rumanians

CINCINNATI, July 26.—Corsets, lipsticks and powder puffs are rapidly becoming taboo among the women of Rumania as the result of their adoption of universal use among the army officers, according to letters received from Nicholas Klein, Cincinnati attorney, now in Bucharest. Mr. Klein left here several months ago for a protracted tour of Europe.

He writes that the streets of Bucharest are thronged with officers in dress uniform who show no hesitancy about taking out jeweled dories and powdering their noses in the most public places. He says that militarism is strongly entrenched, while the peasants are overburdened with taxes.

As we "get" it, the American merchant marine can't hope for full passenger lists unless it has full passengers.

French Theatre Heads Complain of High Tax

PARIS—Unless a bill now before the Chamber of Deputies to decrease theatre taxes by 8 per cent is passed within a few weeks Paris theatre managers threaten to go "on strike." Even the managers of motion picture theatres say they will close their doors.

BIG LOSS ON MARKS

The bankruptcy of Germany will mean a loss of 200 million dollars to 300 million dollars to Americans who have bought German marks on speculation all the way down from 2 or 3 cents. Of nearly 170 billion paper marks outstanding at this date, London financial newspapers estimate that 70 billions have been taken outside of Germany. America is credited with holding more than half of these and to be buying still.

Mother Cat Retrieves Her Kitten From Well

PUNXSUTAWNEY, Pa.—An old cat's mother love was greater than her aversion to water. Under the rear porch of Mr. and Mrs. C. K. McCartney's house is an old abandoned well. The water is sixteen feet below the ground surface and is several feet deep.

While the mother cat was watching one of her kittens at play another little toddler gave a "yip" as it tumbled into the well. The old cat heard the "S. O. S." of her offspring, tore under the porch and without any hesitation jumped into the depths of the well, sixteen feet below. In a couple of minutes she came from under the porch dragging the wet kitten by the scruff of the neck.

Aluminum films have been invented by a German. They will wear longer than the transparent cellulose film. They have the added advantage of being 40 per cent cheaper.

Americans Becoming Great Milk Drinkers

WASHINGTON.—Call for Mr. Volstead! America is fast becoming a milk-drinking nation. In 1921 every man, woman and child in the United States consumed an average of forty-nine gallons of milk, or nearly a gallon a week per capita.

BLUDGEON OF VOTERS FALLING HEAVILY; CONGRESS TO CHANGE

Many Leaders From Both Houses Meet Defeat At Hands of Their Constituents

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
By International News Service.

WASHINGTON, July 26.—The next congress is going to be a totally different institution from the one that is now perspiring, swearing and wrestling with the bonus and tariff tangle through these sultry weeks of a Washington summer. That much already is assured by developments to date, regardless of what the whimsical voter decides to do in November.

The leaders of the present congress, who have been attacked as leaders of other congresses seldom have been, are going. Some of them are already gone. Familiar figures around the legislative halls of congress for the last two decades will disappear after this session, and the frosty winds of November promise to bring a new deal all around at Capitol Hill.

Some of them have been cut down in primaries already held; some will suffer the same fate in the primaries yet to come; others will in all probability feel the ax of popular displeasure in November, and still others have gone out via the retirement route.

Seldom has an off year in politics witnessed so many upsets and changes as this year. The best-laid plans have gone awry, long political shots have come home, and favorites have been beaten. And this is only July, with the primaries not half completed.

House Reflecting Changes
The house already is reflecting the changes Frank W. Mondell, of Wyoming, the Republican leader, who has seen twenty-six years' service, is retiring. He will try to come back to Washington, though in the senate. He will seek the Republican senatorial nomination in Wyoming on August 22. Should he be successful there he will have a stiff fight on his hands in November against John B. Kendrick, the sitting Democratic senator from Wyoming.

In some political quarters in Washington it is said that Mondell has little chance of beating a man of Kendrick's strength next fall, even should he get by the primaries, but Mondell thinks he has. Kendrick is a cattleman, born and bred, and he has a big following in the state. He was served until he resigned to come elected governor in 1914, and to the senate in 1917.

Republicans Retain Control
Who will succeed Mondell as majority leader in the house is a question that already is causing considerable agitation—for it is assumed that the Republicans will retain control of the lower branch. There are plenty of candidates—James R. Mann, of Illinois; Sidney Anderson, of Minnesota; Martin B. Madden, of the same state; Philip Campbell, of Kansas; Joseph Walsh, of Massachusetts, are a few of them—all this, of course contingent upon those named being re-elected.

Joseph W. Fordney, of Michigan, chairman of the all-powerful ways and means committee, author of a tariff and a bonus bill at this session, is retiring, and this highly prized position will go to William R. Green, of Iowa.

Brockhart New Member
The brilliant Kenyon, of Iowa, will be gone. He resigned to accept a federal judgeship, and his successor, Senator Charles B. Rawson, did not try to succeed himself. In his place doubtless will come Smith W. Brockhart, proclaimed in advance as a legislator of the La Follette type. The spectacular "Jim" Reed may be among the missing next session. He is having the fight of his life in the Democratic primary in Missouri against Breckenridge Long and, if successful in this fight, must win again in November in order to come back.

The volatile John Sharp Williams, of Mississippi, last of the old-style southern statesmen, will be missing. He is retiring of his own accord, after twenty-eight years of congressional service, sixteen in the house and twelve in the senate. There is a strong possibility that John Sharp may be succeeded by a woman from Mississippi. Miss Belle Kearney is seeking his seat, and, according to reports in political circles in Washington, she stands a good chance of getting it.

"Uncle Joe" Retires
There is regret at the passing of many of those prominent figures from Washington official life, but there is genuine, non-partisan sorrow over the retirement of "Uncle Joe" Cannon. "Uncle Joe" is rounding out forty-six years of service in the lower house. He has passed his eighty-sixth year. He thinks he has had enough. He will be missed by the Democrats no less than by the Republicans; but perhaps most of all he will be missed by the hundreds of visitors who daily flock through the capitol and who never fail to thrill when the ballyhoo man throws out his chest and levels his forefinger and says: "There, lade-e-e-z an' gentelman, is 'Uncle Joe' Cannon!"

Collectors of Stamps Make Big Purchases
WASHINGTON, July 26.—Stamp collectors have purchased more than $12,000 of stamps from the Postoffice department since the philatelic (stamp collecting) agency was created January 1.

This represents the actual face value of the stamps, and not the intrinsic value placed on them because of rare issues or peculiar markings that enter into the collector's valuation. During the month of March sales reached $6,500. January sales were between $1,500 and $2,000. Postmasters throughout the country have been called upon to send to the philatelic agency all remaining lots of old or rare issues they have in stock to supply the requests of collectors. The Shanghai Postal Agency has been directed to send back all stamps with the Shanghai overprint, which are in great demand by collectors.

Missouri Soon May Have State Police

ST. LOUIS, Mo.—Agitation has been started in this city for the creation of a state police in Missouri to be equipped with motorcycles, automobiles, airplanes and horses. The provision for such a Missouri police will be made in a bill to be introduced in the next session of the legislature, which convenes in January, 1923.

Alphus Stewart, together with several other residents of St. Louis, is organizing a committee to introduce and advance the bill. Stewart pointed out that there are ten states in the Union that have a state police. They are: Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey, West Virginia, Massachusetts, Michigan, Tennessee, Texas, Colorado and Connecticut.

Several other states, he says, have semi-state organizations, but they are not patterned after the Pennsylvania and have very small forces. These include Delaware, Nevada, Idaho, Maryland and Washington. The good roads system and high-powered automobiles, Stewart says, make it almost an impossibility to combat the work of the crooks. With state police all roads could be placed under surveillance to cut off escaping criminals.

Hickory is getting scarce on account of the big demand for golf clubs. That isn't the reason hickory was scarce in our young days.

Dentist Asks $50,000 From Hotel Owner

NEW YORK, July 26.—Frank C. Hurley, proprietor of the Hotel Hermitage, near Broadway and Forty-second street, was named defendant in an action for $50,000 yesterday, brought by Dr. William A. Heckard, a dentist.

Dr. Heckard alleges that he advanced Hurley money for six years to defray his living expenses in order that the hotel man could acquire an interest or ownership of a hotel. The complaint states that Hurley was to give the plaintiff a half interest in any property acquired, which has not been done.

FREIGHT RATES HELP

The 10 per cent cut in freight rates, which is now in effect, will reduce the nation's freight bill 20 million dollars a month, or 240 million dollars a year, says Julius S. Parmelee, director of the government's bureau of railway economics. Last winter's cut on agricultural products, he figures, reduces the bill nearly another 200 million, a total reduction of 400 million dollars annually from the high charges of 1920.

Parmelee estimates this means a saving of $22 for every family in the United States. To a man building a house the rate reduction means a saving of about 1 per cent in the total cost, according to contractors.

Germany Important Market for Jewels

BERLIN.—The Berlin jewel market soon will assume world importance, says the Berliner Tageblatt. Several billion marks worth of jewelry were brought to Germany by Russian refugees after the overthrow of the Kerensky government. These rich Russians, among the members of the highest aristocracy of the Czar's court, partly sold their jewels in order to be able to live here and partly kept them for better times to come.

While for a long time secret jewel dealings have been going on in Berlin cafes and restaurants and a great many precious stones were smuggled abroad, the German government now has established an official jewel market here in co-operation with about three hundred foremost Berlin jewelers. An enormous amount of money is thus raised by taxation.

Foreign customers come here by the hundreds to make purchases, as it is said that diamonds of good quality can be bought here much cheaper than at the hitherto almost exclusive jewel markets of Antwerp, Amsterdam, London or New York.

Youth Makes Record In Work at School

ROCHESTER, July 26.—Gerald H. Davis, a member of the graduating class of the Olean High School, went through the schools of that city without a mark, for being tardy or absent, against his record. He was always present on time from his first day in the kindergarten to his first day in high school.

Another record made by the graduate was the obtaining of forty Regents' counts, or the equivalent of more than two years' high school work in his senior year. Seventy-two counts are necessary for graduation, and eighteen are held as one year's work.

WHEAT CUT 37 MILLION

A wheat crop of thirty-seven million bushels less than the forecast of a month ago, is the July estimate of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The loss is entirely in winter wheat due to excessive heat during the ripening period. The total is twenty-two million bushels more than the final estimate of the 1921 crop, but combined with farm reserves leaves the total supply three million bushels less than the preceding year. A crop 221,000,000 bushels less than last year is predicted for corn.

All of London Anxious to Please Americans, There in Large Numbers

LONDON, July 26.—London, Ltd., caterer to the United States. That is the latest role which said old London is playing today, and playing, according to visiting Americans, very well at that.

There have been many record "seasons" of visiting Americans to London, but this year's "season" beats all the others.

Hotel managers, big store owners, theatre managers, owners of motor hire companies—all of them will tell you that the invasion from America this season far outnumbers all previous ones.

London at the moment is packed. The Strand is a diminutive Broadway. Bond street does duty every morning from 11 until 12:30 o'clock for fashionable Fifth Avenue. Piccadilly might well be Times Square. Everywhere one goes one is confronted with Americans.

European-visiting Americans are already looking on London as their temporary home. Here, they know, is a town where their own tongue is spoken, where they can read the ads on bus tops and subway station walls, and to top all, where they can get chicken a la king, club sandwiches, apple pie a la mode, soft shell crabs and tartare sauce, anything, in fact, from a dill pickle to a nickel's worth of chewing gum.

Steamers are crowded. Every liner from New York brings thousands of Americans to Europe. At the present moment, it is estimated that 75 per cent of the Europe-bound passengers from New York land either at Southampton, London or Liverpool.

The hotels are packed to bursting point. The Savoy has a waiting list as long as that of a highly exclusive club. The Cecil has ordered in two extra bands to play at the popular dansants. The Ritz has ceased to advertise, so great is the influx.

The dansant has caught on with Americans here more than it does with them over in New York. In the first place the English "hot" weather is, in reality, cool, and in the second, you don't pay extra for the exercise if you are a hotel resident. The Savoy, determined to top the list of tea dancing hotels, told the United Press that it was spending $250,000 this year on music alone.

The five bands, which now bare almost incessantly from the shade of its many palm courts, are but a side issue compared with the operatic stars and dancers who are paid nightly to entertain visitors.

Study of Americans

In the department stores, highly trained women are detailed as rhapsodes to American women shoppers. In the men's departments there are enough American cut clothes (made of the best cloth) to fit out a battalion.

And then, just to please America, the big hotels have made a study of water. They have, after many years, come to the conclusion that Americans have a certain fondness for iced water, and they are not letting their visitors forget it.

Water, formerly, you had to be a

Irish Irregulars In Continuous Fight

DUBLIN, July 26.—Activities on the part of republican irregulars have steadily increased in this city during the past twenty-four hours. There were two bomb outrages in the center of the city early today.

Revolver and rifle fire was almost continuous. Seven persons were arrested as snipers.

The situation throughout southern Ireland continues favorable for the free state troops.

The lord mayor of Cork is heading a delegation to Dublin, which will try to bring about an armistice. They will propose that the new Dail form a peace committee to work out the terms of settlement between the rebels and the free states.

Members of the Irish provisional government said that the resignation of George Gavan Duffy as foreign minister would not alter the strong policy to Michael Collins. Collins is determined to clean up Ireland once for all and to bring about a definite decision between the supporters of the free state and the rebels.

Hotel managers, big store owners, theatre managers, owners of motor hire companies—all of them will tell you that the invasion from America this season far outnumbers all previous ones.

Asks $500,000 for Breach of Promise

NEW YORK, July 26.—Baron James Henry De Rothschild, son of the multi-millionaire Paris banker Baron Henri De Rothschild, and, therefore, heir to one of the greatest fortunes in the world, was sued today for $500,000 damages for alleged breach of promise by a young French woman, Marie Porquet, in the supreme court here. Both the young woman and the baron have been in the United States since last spring, but in the baron's answer to the young woman's allegations, made by his counsel, it is stated that he is not now in the state of New York. He came here in April to spend three years in the United States to study banking as it is carried on in this country.

Harding Gets Plea Of State's Shippers

SACRAMENTO, July 26.—Governor W. D. Stephens in a telegram today to President Harding presented the plea of California growers, shippers and producers that action be taken to bring about an understanding in the railroad strike "irrespective of merits." The telegram pointed out that the prospective inability of the railroads to supply the 45,000 to 50,000 needed refrigerator cars during the next three months to move California's perishable fruit crops "is bound to bring about serious and irreparable losses to the farmers of California."

And bluster and bully, and browbeat for a glass of water with a minute speck of ice in it, today you get real ice water with every meal. Some of the better class restaurants have followed suit.

Steamship officials declare that already between 20,000 and 30,000 Americans have arrived in London this season. More are on their way.

And to show the extent of the invasion, Londoners are already learning to say, "Ice cream, please," to a waitress in a cafeteria, instead of the old formula, "I say, miss, would you mind bringing me an ice?"

A man too practical to believe in the saving power of faith usually can be counted on to cash the stranger's check.

CLOTHES OF GRANDMOTHER'S DAY, WHEN WORN BY FLAPPERS, ARE GIVEN HEARTY HA-HA-HA!

Wearing Laces and Frills, Girls Try to Buck Mob Rushing For Street Cars; It Is Sad Story, the Way They Tell It, and They Get Merry Laughs From Mere Men

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 26.—"This week," the leader of Kansas City's flappers went on, "Miss Craig and I put on our grandmothers' dresses—great fluffe of the prettiest printed things, with lace and hoops and— and everything."

"Then we started out."

"Briefly, our experience was: 'We couldn't get through modern street car doors. When we bent our hoops and, with the aid of a cussing conductor, got into a car aisle we did not dare sit down—hoopskirts are too revealing.'"

"When we tried to get into a street car at the rush hour our laces and frills were torn by the punning, pulling mob of men who were fighting their way to seats."

"Say," a conductor told us, "you dames go rent a taxi—there ain't room for both of you in one of these cars!"

"We couldn't crowd into a movie theatre seat with the bustles and everything we wore."

"In the office where I work the boss told me I was immoral, wearing such an outfit when I had to climb up on our pulley ladder to the top filing cabinet."

"But our dresses were pretty, and if we were just seeking men all us flappers would dress just like grandmother did in her day."

"Why the modern flapper flaps as she does is but the girl of today fitting herself for the conditions of today."

"Our clothes now are designed for comfort and to take away part of the handicap a girl meets in the business world."

"The man who criticizes us the most—the staid business man—wouldn't hire us in grandmother's costume to serve as his stenographer, or filing clerk—even to clerk in his store. We couldn't get around fast enough—'nice girls, but no pep,' he would say."

"Flapper clothes are just 1922 clothes—a skirt in which we can fight our way to a street car seat with any man; those which stay up in comfort without the chains of woman's slavery—the corset—sweater coats which will withstand the dirt and dust of city street and business office—hair that can be put up without the girl getting up at five o'clock in the morning."

"We flappers have stood about all we are going to stand from those who attack us. We are banding together, and when we have our society fully organized we are going to demand just one thing—"

"That the public call us just what we are—the 1922 girls, dressed for conditions of 1922—business women." Miss Williams concluded her defense of "Eve's Frails," while Miss Craig muttered her full approval between puffs of her cigarette.

"Both girls have extensive plans for the promotion of their society."

"It has nothing to do with boys—particularly with the cake-eater and jelly bean," Miss Craig explained.

"We seriously consider putting a ban against all youths who wear oil-smeared hair, hats set on a level with the eyebrow, and jazz-bow ties and bell-bottom trousers."

"Eve's Frails" will have no social features for some time at least.

"What we hope to accomplish is to list all merchants who are heard making remarks about girls who wear the flapper dress. Then we'll establish a boycott against these hypocrites."

"We're going to do a lot of other things, too—go into politics, maybe. We already have a candidate for Governor of Kansas—Miss Helen Pettigrew. We're going to ask all the flappers there to support her. Then maybe we'll show them just why and what the flapper is."

"Sweet mamma" is the designation of the "cakes" and "jelly-beans" on the corner.

"But they are all wrong," says Miss Marie Williams. "High roller"—that's "flapperant" for "president"—of the "Eve's Frails"—translated it might be "Eve's daughters," in Kansas City.

For Miss Williams with Miss Hazel Craig whose title of "low roller" signifies she is the secretary of the organization, has enlisted 2,000 of Kansas City's flappers into their organization.

"And we are not just a silly crowd of bobbed-haired girls out man-chasing. Miss Williams announces.

"That's right," Miss Craig interrupts. "Anything Marie says is the bee's knees. We've proved the flapper isn't silly, or bad, or anything like folk say."

Miss Williams and Miss Craig submitted their "proof" to Kansas City by actual demonstrations. "Folks are always attacking the flapper. Some seem to think us immoral because we bob our hair—others because we seek to be comfortable by rolling our own," Miss Williams explained, crossing one knee over the other and demonstrating where the title she bears—"High Roller of Eve's Frails"—originated.

"Why aren't the girls of today like the girls of grandmother's time?" is the question we hear asked every day.

"We'll tell you why," Miss Williams declares:

"The situation throughout southern Ireland continues favorable for the free state troops."

The lord mayor of Cork is heading a delegation to Dublin, which will try to bring about an armistice. They will propose that the new Dail form a peace committee to work out the terms of settlement between the rebels and the free states.

Members of the Irish provisional government said that the resignation of George Gavan Duffy as foreign minister would not alter the strong policy to Michael Collins. Collins is determined to clean up Ireland once for all and to bring about a definite decision between the supporters of the free state and the rebels.

Hotel managers, big store owners, theatre managers, owners of motor hire companies—all of them will tell you that the invasion from America this season far outnumbers all previous ones.

London at the moment is packed. The Strand is a diminutive Broadway. Bond street does duty every morning from 11 until 12:30 o'clock for fashionable Fifth Avenue. Piccadilly might well be Times Square. Everywhere one goes one is confronted with Americans.

European-visiting Americans are already looking on London as their temporary home. Here, they know, is a town where their own tongue is spoken, where they can read the ads on bus tops and subway station walls, and to top all, where they can get chicken a la king, club sandwiches, apple pie a la mode, soft shell crabs and tartare sauce, anything, in fact, from a dill pickle to a nickel's worth of chewing gum.

Steamers are crowded. Every liner from New York brings thousands of Americans to Europe. At the present moment, it is estimated that 75 per cent of the Europe-bound passengers from New York land either at Southampton, London or Liverpool.

The hotels are packed to bursting point. The Savoy has a waiting list as long as that of a highly exclusive club. The Cecil has ordered in two extra bands to play at the popular dansants. The Ritz has ceased to advertise, so great is the influx.

The dansant has caught on with Americans here more than it does with them over in New York. In the first place the English "hot" weather is, in reality, cool, and in the second, you don't pay extra for the exercise if you are a hotel resident. The Savoy, determined to top the list of tea dancing hotels, told the United Press that it was spending $250,000 this year on music alone.

The five bands, which now bare almost incessantly from the shade of its many palm courts, are but a side issue compared with the operatic stars and dancers who are paid nightly to entertain visitors.

Study of Americans

In the department stores, highly trained women are detailed as rhapsodes to American women shoppers. In the men's departments there are enough American cut clothes (made of the best cloth) to fit out a battalion.

And then, just to please America, the big hotels have made a study of water. They have, after many years, come to the conclusion that Americans have a certain fondness for iced water, and they are not letting their visitors forget it.

"Both girls have extensive plans for the promotion of their society."

"It has nothing to do with boys—particularly with the cake-eater and jelly bean," Miss Craig explained.

"We seriously consider putting a ban against all youths who wear oil-smeared hair, hats set on a level with the eyebrow, and jazz-bow ties and bell-bottom trousers."

"Eve's Frails" will have no social features for some time at least.

"What we hope to accomplish is to list all merchants who are heard making remarks about girls who wear the flapper dress. Then we'll establish a boycott against these hypocrites."

CERTAIN TEST
Two fishermen were angling in a river when one suddenly dropped his rod.

"Say," he ejaculated. "Did you see that feller fall off that cliff over there into the river?"

"Don't get excited, Bill," soothed the other. "Mebbe it was a movie actor makin' pictures."

"Well," consoled the judicious one, "if he drowns, he ain't."

Jap Tennis Player to Develop In U. S.

TOKIO—S. Fukuda, tennis coach at Waseda university and a graduate of that school, who won the singles tennis championship of Japan last week, and will his partner, M. Ogino, also won the doubles title, will leave in the fall for the United States, where it is hoped competition will develop his play further, if plans of the Japan Lawn Tennis Association materialize.

The boom to send Fukuda abroad and develop him into a Davis Cup player, came when he upset the dope twice in the tournament, first winning from the man who was considered next to the best player in the country and one who might take the championship, and again when he defeated S. Nomura, the title holder, in three straight sets, two of them going by love scores.

Fukuda has everything in the world but a service, but it is thought that a year in California will develop one for him. His greatest assets are a clever head and deadly accuracy. Friends are now trying to persuade his family to send him abroad, and it appears as if they will succeed. In such event Fukuda will be at least the third man on the Davis Cup team in the 1923 tournament.

Policeman Dies of Kick; Hold Dealer

NEW YORK—August Warns, 25, mineral water dealer, of 102 South street, Jamaica, was arrested and held without bail on a homicide charge, after Patrolman William Deans of the Flushing police died recently from a kick in the groin.

Patrolman Deans had arrested Warns for obstructing traffic after his truck had broken down on the Fresh Meadow road. Warns kicked the policeman, who took the prisoner to the station house and collapsed.

FREEDOM FORCES U. S. NAVY BALLOON WILL COMPETE IN BIG RACE

WELL EVIDENCED BY CARNIVAL

Vivid Description of Big Event Given; Historic Import Related

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 26.—The Czech-Slovak school festival held recently in Bethlehem, Pa., attracted wide attention because of its artistic and artistic quality, but to the Czechs the Sokol is far more than a carnival or a convention, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic society.

The Sokol is the gesture of Czech nationality and now has become a symbol of the Sokol, and a vivid description of this event in Prague is contained in the following bulletin: "Two generations ago, national spirit in Bohemia was almost dead, although in America the serf was being freed from age-old bonds. Then the subject nationalities in Austria roused themselves once more against oppression they had almost come to love.

Forged Forces of Freedom "The occasion produced the men. Tyrns and Fugner soon found themselves at the head of a large and growing organization which, through fostering the physical and spiritual forces that make for manliness, simultaneously forged the national forces that make for freedom. Discipline was established without destroying individual courage or initiative.

"Two years before the war, at the sixth congress, many a spectator saw the makings of a mighty army that would one day be wrath against the Hapsburg power. Sensing their danger in the hiss of drilling feet, the Austrians tried to limit the growth of this well-knit group of manly men and spirited women. But all their efforts were in vain.

"The inspiration that was to bring forth from the malarial regions of Turkestan and from the prison camps of Russia volunteer legions bearing the banner of Bohemia and starting them on their matchless trek from war to war around the world, was already planted in a hundred thousand hearts. All this was suggested in the wonderful pageant which was the most moving spectacle of the Seventh Sokol Slet.

Panorama in Prague "All the afternoon heavy showers have fallen, without dampening the ardour of the close packed crowd surrounding a stadium in which an army corps might drill. To our right, President Masaryk and his friends occupy the place of honor. Beyond, with the sharp spires of St. Vitus piercing heavy clouds through which the setting sun occasionally shows its face, is the long line of the Hradecny, in which this modest professor occupies rooms where monarchs lived before and after the fall of Bohemia.

"Across from us, in the middle of the other long side of the rectangular Sletiste, is the band shell. Flanking this, long grand stands massed with people, but so distant that their individual forms cannot be seen. Distance has likewise softened the brilliant colors of the gaily dressed throng so that all the scarlet of the Garibaldi shirts is necessary to make the massed slope of humanity resemble a hillside blazing with the glow of close-massed poppies.

"Slowly and majestically, a single figure in flowing white enters the arena and the music, which has hitherto been softly played, now rises with a slightly more insistent note. This queenly form is Patria, the spirit of nationalism.

Mighty Men Are They "She is soon joined by a group of maidens also clad in white, who beseech her to kindle into life the embers of patriotism which have almost ceased to glow. She consents, and from the entrance at the left there enter the builders of the state, sturdy men, stripped to the waist and bearing with them the broad foundations from which the freedom of a nation is to rise.

"As they work at their task, their movements, seen from a distance, seem lazy and slow. But close inspection reveals the dogged force with which they toil and one realizes that laying the foundations of statehood is not a holiday venture. Heavily to be done. The musical background is one of measured slowness, almost a dead march. But gradually the foundations assume shape and from the side entrance a group of gaily dressed people come in bearing a banner on which a double-tailed lion is seen. These are the peasants of Bohemia, ready to keep alive the half-forgotten language of their race.

"Then follow Silesia and Moravia with their respective banners and tumultuous applause sweeps the stadium as Slovakia, freed from Magyar domination, joins her sister groups.

Group of Airy Dancers "Then there enters a group of airy dancers, led by a young woman who is the embodiment of life and grace. Bare of leg and dressed in bright red skirts and snow-white waists, these charming spirits of a promised statehood weave in and out among the different groups, dancing lightly to strains of music in which are already faintly suggested the melodious anthem of the gallant Czechs and the warlike hymn of the peace-loving Slovaks.

"The form of Liberty is slowly taking shape and as a note of greater joy sounds in the music,

The U. S. balloon, which will represent the United States in the great international balloon race which starts from Geneva, Switzerland, on August 6. The navy balloon, while not winning the recent Milwaukee balloon race, showed so well that it was selected by the Aero Club of America as representative of the country. Insert, Lieut. William F. Reed, who will be chief pilot.

Governor of Texas Orders Martial Law

AUSTIN, Texas, July 26.—By proclamation of Governor Pat M. Neff, martial law became effective at 5 o'clock this morning in the Missouri, Kansas & Texas railroad area at Dennison and certain portions of Grayson county along the tracks of the Houston & Texas Central railroad.

Rangers have been ordered to Sherman and Childress.

The different national groups start to dancing.

No stage has ever held so grand and colorful a scene. The girls in solid ranks, lightened by scarlet hose; the bright, rich reds of Moravia, the gold-trimmed blues of Silesia and the yellow of Slovakia are only prevailing hues of masses in which every tint of the rainbow and some too bright for any heavenly scene, are combined in gladsome groups that radiate good will and jollity.

"But this gay spirit, light as an Asutra's mood, is soon cut short by martial strains as the Sokols, backed in solid ranks, enter the arena. The dancing sprites, never at rest, have woven their white and scarlet line back and forth among the several groups without uniting them, but with the coming of the Sokols there is evidence that the national groups will blend into one imposing whole.

"Once more the white-clad forms advance onto the field and Patria comes forward to music in which the note of hope predominates. The figure of Liberty now lacks only hands and head.

Hymn of Hope "Suddenly the hymn of hope crashes into harsh discord. Guns boom. The noisy rattle of musketry assails the ear. Brazen music mounts higher and higher like the shriek of a hurricane through the cordage of a foundering ship. Machine guns gnash their dragon teeth to left and right, and blood-red war, mounted on a night-black horse, dashes across the field, followed by a company of hooded fiends bent on destruction.

"Workers and peasants alike are stricken to the earth and only the Sokols stand defiant amid the sounds of deadly war. With one foot thrust boldly forward, they face the form of Liberty, so near complete. Harsh sounds of brass give way to the mournful plaints of the wood-winds and suggestions of the scented ranks of warring men are supplanted by the sobbing of suffering women and their young. Patria is bowed to earth, her heart heavy with despair, while all about her desolation rules.

"Then a note like the sweet song of the lark, greeting the rosy-fingered dawn, creeps into the music and chubby-legged boys and girls, dressed in light tan, edged with red, come in. They are the fledgling falcons—the heirs of the future—and they refuse to be ignored.

Dance in Delirious Joy "Advancing slowly, they go to Patria and bid her raise her head. Their song grows spirited. The setting sun, as though responding to a cue, now bathes the scene in a glorious benediction. Patria first slowly rises to her knees, then stands upright. A clarion call is heard. Bells ring and muzzles surfeited with death, sound forth the victory. Workers and peasants start quickly to their feet, but stand confused till realization of their happy heritage swings them into a dance of delirious joy.

"The gleeful children run to all the groups and with the aid of the Sokols and the light spirits of patriotism all the hands are joined. Then Victory, mounted on a milk-white mare, advances to the center of the scene and a military band makes all eyes turn to watch the entrance of the Czech-Slovak legionnaires, carrying the triumphant colors of the Allied arms.

"One group wears the drab Russian uniform glorified in far Siberia, another the forest green that stood the shock of war with Italy's best troops, and a third the horizon blue immortalized in France. There they stand in glad array, while the symbolic status is finished and the national hymns of the reborn Bohemia and emancipated Slovakia carry the message of joy and patriotism to a hundred thousand hearts."

NELLIE WARNER IS GUEST OF HONOR AT RECEPTION

Bride-Elect Is Honored by Her Friends at Gathering In C. of C. Hall

Miss Nellie Warner of 320 North Orange street, who is to be married to Rev. Fred W. Hoffman of Ashland, Ky., was the guest of honor at a reception given by the members of the Business and Professional Women's club and the executive board of the Chamber of Commerce at the Chamber of Commerce auditorium last night.

Dr. Laura Brown, president of the Business Women's club, and V. M. Hollister, president of the Chamber of Commerce, with members of the executive board of each of these organizations, greeted Miss Warner and her friends at the reception which preceded the program for the evening. There were about 100 people present. After the reception an interesting musical program was given, including vocal solos by Miss Elizabeth Mottern, "Serenade" (Toselli) and "Fancies" (Cox); piano solo, Mendelssohn's "Wedding March" by Miss Gertrude Champlain; vocal solos by Mrs. Virginia Freeman, "Because" and "Oh, Promise Me." Miss Ethel Preston had arranged an interesting stunt called "Lessons in Housekeeping for Miss Warner," various members of the club demonstrating various phases of the kitchen art—Dr. C. Howson at the wash tubs, Mrs. Anita K. Anderson at the ironing board, Miss Sara Pollard at the kitchen table, Mrs. Mary Baxter at the mop and vacuum cleaner.

Enjoy Social Evening At the close of the program punch was served and a social evening enjoyed. The executive committee of the board of the Chamber of Commerce presented Miss Warner, who has been a member of the office staff of that organization for the past year, with a chest of silver. The Business Women's club presented a set of table linen and the bride-to-be was the recipient of numerous gifts from intimate friends who were present.

A very strenuous effort was made on the part of V. M. Hollister, James M. Rhoades and other members, comprising two automobiles full of people, to kidnap the bridegroom-to-be and bring him to the reception, but he refused to be kidnapped and the party continued without his presence.

Dynamite Used to Destroy Huge Still

GREENVILLE, S. C.—What is declared to be the largest and most complete distilling plant ever seized by raiding officers was captured here by a group of federal prohibition officers.

The outfit was too large to be destroyed with axes, and two sticks of dynamite were set off under the apparatus, blowing it to bits.

The plant consisted of a large brick furnace base, over which was a steel riveted boiler having a capacity of approximately 400 gallons. Two copper condensing outfits were connected with the boiler, each having a capacity of ninety gallons. Five thousand gallons of rye beer was pumped out by the officers. No arrests were made.

U. S. Nation of Big Spenders, Is Claim ST. LOUIS.—"We are a nation of spenders," said Mrs. Mary E. La Rocca, head of the Supreme Forest Woodmen Circle, one of the largest women's organizations in the country.

School Recital Wins Praise of Audience

Standing room was at a premium on Monday night when the students of The Emerson School of Self-Expression appeared in their usual weekly recital, which has grown so popular with the friends and patrons that it is becoming a problem to find space in which to seat the crowds which attend.

Miss Nora Wing acted as impresario for the evening, and announced the program in a very natural and easy manner. Dorothy Kennedy and Guerdon Wattles represented the piano department and executed their numbers most creditably.

The boys' department of expression, under the direction of Mrs. M. S. Labadie, director of the school, presented Robert Rhodes, Wayne Nelson, Jim Rhodes and Charles Saxton in some especially pleasing readings. These boys are showing remarkable progress under Mrs. Labadie's training, and are great favorites with the audiences.

Mrs. Verna S. Mitchell, assistant teacher of expression, presented Misses Earle Kennedy, Marcelle Nelson and Evelyn Foskles in children's stories, and a quaint bit of verse portraying the bashful country girl and her impatient lover, entitled "Oh, I Dunno!"

Some exquisite dancing numbers were given by the Misses Ash and Miss Eunice Boere. This department has brought some delightful work before the patrons, and deserves much commendation, it is stated.

Dr. Pearl Anderson, Mrs. Frank Chambers and Miss Virginia Ash represented the adult class in expression, and their numbers were thoroughly enjoyed.

"Bridget," a one-act play, concluded the program, and in this Henry Biederman, Miss Lilla Litch and Miss Elsie Whitney kept the audience convulsed with laughter. The play is full of life, and Mr. and Mrs. Bol and their stupid servant were so realistically enacted by these talented young people that the audience quite forgot they were not listening to professionals.

Mrs. Mitchell acted as hostess for the evening, and was assisted in serving punch and wafers by the boys and girls of the various departments of the school.

The final recital for the summer will occur next Monday evening, and it is anticipated that the studio will be crowded to capacity. While classes will not be resumed until early in September, private instruction in the department of expression may be had during the month of August.

Wife Away He Is Cook; Alarm of Fire

PHILADELPHIA, Pa.—A tenderloin steak tried to a crisp and a suffocated parrot were the chief figures in a fire alarm turned in by an excited neighbor of Joseph Mixer, a red-headed policeman, who lives at 615 North Thirty-eighth street. The alarm brought seven companies of fire apparatus from almost every section of West Philadelphia.

Mixer's wife is at the seashore. In the role of amateur cook the ex-cook placed a juicy steak on a skillet, turned on the fire, and then went to the front door to get a breath of fresh air.

Political Cards Are Put to Very Good Use

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, Ohio.—A new use has been found for the campaign cards handed out by Belmont county candidates for political offices.

A Bellaire picnic party, pitching horseshoes late in the evening, was unable to see the pegs when dusk arrived, so someone thought of the candidates' cards, which were tucked about the park. The cards were forced down over the pegs. The white surface of the cards rendered the dark pegs visible.

Juror Paid 50 Cents After 49-Year Wait

CHICAGO.—For forty-nine years, C. G. Dixon, 1221 West Austin avenue, kept a voucher entitling him to pay for service as a petit juror in July, 1873. He presented it yesterday to County Treasurer Patrick J. Carr and received 50 cents, which Mr. Carr paid from his own pocket. Mr. Dixon said he had not needed the money heretofore, but as he was passing he thought he would drop in and collect. Under the law, Mr. Carr was not compelled to pay the voucher, but rather than disappoint Mr. Dixon paid it from his own funds.

Sunburn Is Costly On Holland Beach

SCHIEVENINGEN, Holland.—Sunburn is being sold here at about 75 cents a burn. A sandy part of the beach has been roped off and admission is charged persons who wish to lie, semi-nude and bake themselves brown in the sun.

Despite their many and obvious faults our colleges turn out a few good pitchers every year.

LEONARD TO FACE CAREER CRISIS WITH TENDLER

Consider Challenger Logical Successor to Lightweight Division Throne

FIGHT FACTS
 Principals—Benny Leonard and Lew Tandler.
 Place—Jersey City Arena.
 Weight—135 pounds at 2 p. m.
 Forfeit—$15,000 each.
 Time—Main bout, 10 p. m., July 27.
 Seating capacity—100,000.

JERSEY CITY, N. J., July 26.—The crisis of his career will be faced by Benny Leonard in the arena here tomorrow night when he crawls through the ropes to defend the ownership of his crown against the hard-hitting aggressive Mr. Lew Tandler.

Tandler, the younger of the two maulers by three years, is looked upon as the logical successor to the throne of lightweight. Without doubt he is the toughest opponent now seeking to have Leonard abdicate from his exalted position.

Benny, however, is a none-such champion. He has eluded tenacious pursuers by his speed and has met practically all challengers who have disputed his right to continue in public acclaim as the lightweight champion of the world.

Forty thousand fight enthusiasts are expected to jam the stadium tomorrow night. The advance seat sale, according to promoter Tex Rickard, has been heavier than was anticipated.

In points of physique Leonard and Tandler are almost evenly matched. Tandler, if either, has a slight advantage as they stack up in ring regalia.

Measurements of the two men follow:

Tender	Age	Leonard
23	26	26
5 ft. 7 in.	5 ft. 5 1/2 in.	5 ft. 5 1/2 in.
125	135	135

Sport High Spots

Southern California's mild mid-winter climate is still luring eastern football coaches in attempting to arrange post-season games with local colleges. The latest mention who has been reported to be on the trail of a Southland grid machine for a December fracas is in the person of E. J. "Doc" Stewart, high mogul of football doings at the South Carolina Agricultural college. Stewart will be remembered by some as the agent who led the Nebraska university squad through numerous successful seasons.

While the two major leagues go merrily on their way in establishing homerun records and races between the various players, the Pacific coast leagues are also having its fun in slugging races. Until yesterday the lead in the circuit swats was being held by Henie Sand, the Salt Lake infielder, with a record of seventeen. Second place honors are shared between Art Griggs, Los Angeles' man-of-war, and Maurice Schiek, Salt Lake, with sixteen each. Paul Strand and Manager Duffy Lewis of Salt Lake, who are holding down first and second places respectively, in the percentage columns, are next, with fifteen apiece.

In glancing over the homerun records for the various teams it is observed that the Salt Lake Bees, with a team total of ninety-nine, is far in the lead. This is accountable, to a certain degree, to the fact that the high altitude of the Utah city prevents the pitchers from putting anything on the ball. Other team totals, in their order of succession, are as follows: Portland, sixty-eight; Vernon, forty-six; San Francisco, forty-two; Seattle, forty; Los Angeles, twenty.

Tagging All Bases

The Giants and Fred Toney barely lasted to the wire when the Cards flashed a four-run rally in the ninth and had the tying run on base when Mueller grounded to Rawlings for the final out.

Shocker shut the Yanks out, 8 to 0, and the Browns increased their lead on first place.

The Indians got an even break with the Athletics, 4 to 0, and 11 to 4, Morton pitching the Macks dizzy in the first game.

Ty Cobb celebrated the Tigers' 8 to 5 victory over Washington by getting four ringing hits off Johnson and proceeded to forge ahead of the leader of the American league batters.

Betting Continues to Favor Leonard

NEW YORK, July 26.—Benny Leonard and Lew Tandler have finished their training for their twelve-round bout that may decide the world's lightweight championship at Jersey City tomorrow night. Both men are down to 134 pounds, according to reports from their training camps.

Phil Glassman, manager of Tandler, has decided to request Referee Harry Ertle to permit his man to hit as long as both hands are free. This is an unusual request in view of the fact that the international boxing code permits a fighter to hit as long as he himself is not holding. He, however, must break at the order of the referee.

Both men will leave their camps tomorrow afternoon. The articles of agreement require them to make 135 pounds at three p. m.

The betting continues in favor of Leonard at odds as high as 3 to 1 with little Tandler money in sight.

Giants Beat Cards In Opening Battle

NEW YORK, July 26.—The Giants defeated the Cardinals yesterday in the first game of the crucial series by a score of 9 to 8. The Cards staged a ninth-inning rally, which netted them four runs, but with the tying run on base, Mueller grounded to Rawlings for the third out.

The Giants won the game in the fifth when they scored seven runs on six hits, aided by errors by Plack and Stock. Eleven men went to bat in this inning. Young hit a circuit smash in the second inning. Outside of the first and last innings, Toney pitched effective ball, while Doak, who started for the Cards, was relieved in the fifth by North.

RACING TITLE TO JIMMY MURPHY, FIGURES SHOW

Put Far in Lead of His Nearest Competitor in 1922 Speed Bursts

Jimmy Murphy's romping speed chariot again shoved him farther up the 1922 driving championship ladder at Tacoma on July 25, and his point standing now places him far in the lead of his nearest competitor, Harry Hartz.

Murphy's racing career during 1922 has been the most spectacular in the history of the racing game, and certainly no more consistent winner has ever manipulated a throttle and steering wheel on an American foreign car better advantage over a period of less than six months.

First at Fresno

First place finishes at Fresno, Cotati, Indianapolis, Uniontown and Tacoma—five first places in seven starts—brought him this commanding lead. Today he stands so far in the lead that no other driver has even an outside chance to snatch away his honors. When Murphy finishes the season here on Thanksgiving Day in the Los Angeles Speedway 250-mile classic his season's victory will be acclaimed the most popular in the history of the game, for Jimmy Murphy has won his way into the hearts of the race fans from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and his victory last year in the French Grand Prix only served to add to that popularity.

Many Break Record

Murphy has still to drive at Cotati next month, and then in the big event in L. A. In all probability, without the strain of the championship standing in his way, there is every reason to believe he will better the world's record for the 250 miles, and may even make it better than Tommy Milton's present mark of 115.2 for the 150 distance.

The present standing of the drivers is given on the A. A. C. Contest Board, follows:

Murphy	2850	Halle	109
Halle	1222	Thomas	99
Milton	940	Fetterman	88
Elliott	375	Wilcox	59
Hearne	394	Alley	35
Charles	280	DePaola	28
Wondrich	243	Miller	25
Bordino	126	Vail	25
Klein	162	Koziara	25
McDonald	155	Morton	15
DePalma	155	Morton	15

Still another long distance swimmer has failed to conquer the English Channel. Last Friday the French navigator Georges Michel after being sixteen hours in the water had to give up the job.

This is Monsieur Michel's maiden attempt to swim the Channel and he should not be discouraged. William T. Burgess, the English swimmer, essayed the task fifteen times and on his sixteenth he crossed. That was in 1911. Prior to that in 1875 Captain Matthew Webb crossed the Channel, he being the first to make it, but he tried three times before he eventually won out. Jabez Wolfe has tried twenty-one times without success; Montague Holbein has tried it seven times; Henry Sullivan of Boston, Mass., has tried five times; and Annette Kellerman twice tried it. Under these conditions we presume the Frenchman will try again, probably many times.

Charles Comiskey, owner of the Chicago White Sox, evidently has more money than he knows what to do with. Announcement has just been made that Comiskey has parted with fifty thousand dollars for Frank Mack, a pitcher with the Seattle club. Just how much of this sum is honest-to-goodness money we don't know, neither are we in a position to guarantee that the San Francisco Seals received the fortune announced for O'Connell and Kamm. The latter two, however, have shown themselves brilliant ballplayers, but, to date, Mack has not. Here is Mack's pitching figures up to the day he was purchased:

Two games won, 7 lost, .222 per cent, 51 runs responsible for, and here is his batting for the same period: Twenty-two games 27 at bat, 4 runs, 8 hits for .296 per cent.

Mack was bought as a pitcher. Probably Comiskey's scouts see into the future and has discovered something about Mack that is worth fifty thousand iron men, but his figures would not bring that price.

Fifteen thousand dollars has already been guaranteed by members of the Duluth Rowing club for a presentation to Walter Hoover in honor of his victory in the Diamond Sculls race two weeks ago at London. Honor where honor is due and this is being more and more adopted in recent years in this country. There was a time when one of our U. S. citizens won an international event that his performances were forgotten the next day. We are now approaching a new era and if it keeps up with such presentations as were recently given to Barnes, the golfer, now the one for Hoover, one some years ago to Kahanamoku when he won the Olympic title, it looks as though we will soon rank with ancient Romans and Greeks who used to honor their heroes by making them wealthy and independent for life.

The Short Crucible

NEW YORK, July 26.—A great race horse is great, primarily, because his mental equipment is geared to clearer and quicker thinking, says Sam Harris, and forthwith picks Benny Leonard to beat Lew Tandler at Jersey City on Thursday night. Harris is now one of the most prominent theatrical promoters in the country, but has kept in close touch with affairs. He hasn't missed a championship bout in years.

Leonard is his choice in the impending bout. Speed, experience, the punch and that other obsolete asset known as brains will prevail over Tandler's body attack, declares the theatrical magnate.

However, let Mr. Harris tell his own story. He tells it rather well. "Leonard, in my opinion, is the greatest lightweight since Gans was at his best," he informed the "Kid Climate" of California has been given a lot of credit for developing a regiment of star tennis players, but, according to Bill Dinwoodey—himself a racket wielder of no mean ability and a native son—this "Kid Climate" has been stealing a lot of stuff that doesn't belong to it.

Anyway, Bill insists that one Doc Marvin of San Francisco, beloved by every Pacific Coast tennis player, is the boy that should be patted between the shoulder blades. For it has been through the efforts of Dr. Marvin that McLaughlin, Johnston, Strachan, Griffin and, lastly Roberts, have been developed.

Marvin organized tennis clubs, furnished rackets and balls to youngsters on the free courts of Golden Gate Park, coached the boys and arranged tournaments.

Most of these children came from the cities' poor and from them came the West's great court men. Marvin took these boys one by one and sent them East to win laurels. Nothing tickled the old fellow more than when a new protegee of his defeated an old one.

In Roland Roberts, Marvin has turned out a product who has all the ear marks of Bill

Johnston's successor. Last year this boy defeated Bill in the finals for the Central California Championship and he then won the men's singles in that state. Every year finds his game improved and he is not yet 25 years old.

Possessing a fast serve, a good net game and a temperament that carries a smile through the most trying game,

Roberts' only weakness is his back hand. But, strange to say, this is true of nearly every California player with the exception of Johnston.

Roberts is a fine looking chap, standing six feet, one inch—an ideal build for the game. He clouts 'em hard and smiles—smiling's his forte.

Don't get into a poker game with him!

Joseph O. Tobin, than whom there is no more ardent lover of the game of a more constructive exponent of it, has written an interesting letter to a friend in this country from England where he was a witness of the British open championships recently played at Sandwich. Tobin, for many years was president of the California Golf association and has done much for the furtherance of the sport on the Pacific coast. He writes in part, as follows:

"Having followed golf for so many years it was a source of great interest to me to meet and converse with the greatest golfing personalities of the Old World. The world-wide harmony of golf was a topic of long conversation he had with Nelson Whitney, Harold Hilton and Henry Gullon, secretary of the championship committee of the Royal and Ancient Golf club of St. Andrews. The restoration of the stymie, and the use and abuse of the ribbed clubs were among other things discussed. After having listened to all the pros and cons, Tobin wrote:

"I am satisfied that the restoration of the stymie the world over is a good thing for the game, and I also believe that ribbed clubs should be abolished in the United States as has been done in Great Britain."

With regard to the American tour of the two veteran players, John Henry Taylor and Alex "Sandy" Herd, Tobin writes: "I met and talked with them both at Sandwich, and they are a pair of grand old golfers. They both are well over 50 years of age, and in making this tour of the United States, they desire to say a foreword. They realize that at their age it will be impossible to meet and beat the young American golfers. They are anxious to emphasize that their purpose in coming to America is to see our courses, to play the game, meet their friends and have as good a time as possible."

Incidentally, it is interesting to note that the 1922 California amateur championships to be held early in September will be the first Tobin will have missed in twenty years. He does not expect to return until November.

Nothing could be better to promote the "contente cordiale" among golfers than these frequent trips of American golfers to England and vice versa. Certainly nothing could be better to keep to a common understanding of the game so the dangerous possibility of different rules to govern the game can be eliminated. A uniform code in every line of sport is an important essential for its promotion and preservation. It is paramount for the perpetuation of international competition.

GEORGE ARLISS IN RULING PASSION WINS PRAISE

Noted Actor In 'Something Different' on Glendale Theatre Screen

George Arliss and "Disraeli" have always been synonymous in the minds and vocabularies of the world's theatre goers and Mr. Arliss' screen successes have but accentuated the ovation America accords him of being the greatest character actor on the American stage. Mr. Arliss is being greeted today and tomorrow on the screen of the Glendale theatre in his newest film feature, "The Ruling Passion" and those who have seen the picture are unanimous in naming it another Arliss success. "The Ruling Passion," a United Artists feature, is a comedy drama and Mr. Arliss has the role of "James Alden," a millionaire automobile man, whose failing health compels his retirement from business. He retires, for him, means a deadly idleness, and he bridges the gap by taking a half interest in a small garage. His partner is a young chap who emerges from war work with just enough funds to go into business, and the fascinating love story is worked out through Alden's daughter, a beautiful girl (Doris Kenyon has this role) who falls in love with her father's partner. The plot is very simple but the artistry of Arliss lifts the whole work to a high level.

Something Different Mr. Arliss' portrayal in "The Ruling Passion" is so different from anything he has done before that there is no way of making comparisons with his previous successes. This is his third photoplay, and it stands in a class by itself for sheer entertainment value. It is possible in this story for Mr. Arliss to wear overalls and evening clothes—and excel at both. Edward J. Burns has the role of the young partner and does well. At moments his work is very artistic. Miss Kenyon shines with her smiles and gowns and pantomime.

Ida Darling, the role of the wife and mother, is exceptionally clever. The cast includes J. W. Johnston, who needs no introduction to film stars; Ernest Hilliard, member of a famous family of actors; Harold Waldridge, a delightful young screen and stage comedian; and Brian Darley. The direction by Harmon Weight, leaves nothing to be desired and the cutting and assembling is perfect. Harry A. Fishbeck has given us some splendid photography and Clark Robinson, art director, furnished a number of pleasing sets for the picture.

Use Grasshoppers As Food to Relieve Stranded Aviator

Cadet R.A. White. Cadet White Has Hardships When Forced to Land in Florida Everglades

TAMPA, Fla., July 26.—Losing his sense of direction while flying 4,000 feet in the air, Cadet R. A. White was compelled to alight when his gasoline tank went dry. His plane, in which he was flying from Okechobee City, Florida, to Carlstrom Field descended in the Florida Everglades, miles from civilization. For two days he marched through the swamps, often in mud knee deep, he declares, making many detours to avoid alligators and snakes.

Driven to desperation by hunger, the flyer was compelled to subsist on grasshoppers until finally found by a Seminole Indian boy who guided him back to civilization. While he was undergoing these experiences airplanes from Carlstrom Field, Arcadia, Florida, and Montgomery, Ala., circled over the territory in which he was believed to be, combing the Everglades and swampy regions from above. They finally located him after he had been rescued and while being taken in an automobile towards Immokalee. Although ill from drinking swamp water and with his face swollen by mosquito bites, he remained in the field hospital only one day, then declared his intention of making another practice flight from Carlstrom Field to Okechobee City and return. Cadet White's home is in Pritchett, Texas.

Borah Says Capital Planned Labor Scrap

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 26.—Destruction of union labor, deliberately planned by capital upon the termination of the world war, was declared by Senator William E. Borah, chairman of the senate labor committee, today, to be the fundamental, underlying cause of the existing coal and railroad situation.

Senator Borah recalled that he had charged when he fought the last army appropriation bill that the "real danger of a big military establishment" was that capital hoped and expected to employ it against union labor. "Recent developments certainly seem to justify the view I took for a large army then, and which I still hold now," Borah declared. "One reason certain big interests supported and encouraged the presidential aspirations of General Leonard Wood in 1920 was that they were confident if he were elected to the White House he would place a battalion of soldiers at the doorway of union labor wherever those interests deemed the use of armed force necessary to crush union labor."

Living Cost Not at Peak, Claimed

WASHINGTON, July 26.—The cost of living in the United States has risen 66.6 per cent since 1914, according to figures made public today by the department of labor. In spite of this rise, however, prices now are not at the peak, the figures showed, as the cost of living in June, 1922, was 23 per cent lower than it was in June, 1920.

Irregulars Tearing Up Railroad Lines

BELFAST, July 26.—Irregular soldiers are tearing up the railroad lines in the Malahide region to cut communication between Belfast and Dublin, according to word from that region today. Rail communication had been interrupted between the two cities during the battle of Dublin, but subsequently was restored.

General Moseley Hits Insulters of Uniform

BATTLE CREEK, Mich.—Sharp criticism of the "unthinkable disrespect" which Battle Creek girls evinced for the United States army uniform was made by Brigadier-General George Moseley, camp commander. "Can I be the uniform of the man of the United States army, especially when it covers the body of a fine upstanding enlisted man or a selected student, is a badge of shame or reproach?" asked the general.

Aaron Quickly Gives Definition of Stoic

NEW YORK.—That proverbial brown derby, if it can be found quickly, should be worn, without hesitation, to Aaron Sokolski, "East Side" student. "Who can give me the definition of stoic?" Aaron's teacher is reported to have queried. "I can, teacher," Aaron is said to have replied. "A stoic is said to be what brings de babies."

There are still others in sight of the century mark and to them this paper extends greetings and expresses hopes of acquaintance. The News has been responsible for wide interest in Glendale residents past 90 and many suggestions have come from readers and friends. Several have suggested a photograph of the old people, while one reader has had the plausible and possible idea of the formation of the "Sunset club," to be composed of Glendale folk past 85 years of age.

Here Are Seven Of course the past 85-year-olds are to be included but first honors must be accorded the past 90-year-olds, and surely Glendale has more than seven.

Among the first seven Glendale folk eligible for the "Sunset club" first place must go to Mrs. Susanna Hagey of 372 Burchett street, who will be 97 years old September 18, 1922.

The other six according to age are:

- Mrs. Esther Smith, 94, 410 East Broadway.
- Mrs. Lucinda Houghtaling, 92, 137 West Acacia avenue.
- Ezekiel McCall, 92, 426 South Adams street.
- Charles Bock, 92, 122 North Castle avenue, Eagle Rock.
- Mrs. Melissa Otterman, 92, 109 East Laurel street.
- Charles Mallett, 91, 1111 East Lexington drive.

Eccentric Will Dated From 'River Styx'

AKRON, Ohio.—A cello and a few other musical instruments constitute, it is said, the personal property making up the estate of the late Melville F. Wilson Wadsworth, an eccentric musician, who died his life in New York some weeks ago. The will, dated "River Styx, August 27, 1907," has just been filed for probate. A cousin, Mrs. Hallie Harpley, of this city, was named as sole legatee of Wilson's personal property.

Awaken From Sleep To Get Automobile

MILFORD, Mass.—Patrolman Wallace A. O'Brien was awakened from a sound sleep by a heavy sounding at his front door. O'Brien grabbed his revolver and clad only in his pajamas crept slowly to the door. Patrolman Thomas F. Malloy stood at the front doorstep. An automobile was at the curbstone. "You're a lucky guy, Wallace, you've won the $1,000 auto at the Franklin G. A. R. raffle," O'Brien was informed.

Duddy Didn't "Dud" In Baseball Contact

BIRMINGHAM, Ala.—In a game with Pratt City, John Duddy, of the Jordan Park Club, hit a screamer toward the outfield. The ball, relayed hurriedly by the Pratt City center fielder, and Duddy's dome reached the same point in the vicinity of third base at the same instant. Contact! Duddy states that he remembered nothing for ten minutes afterward until he was revived by teammates. In the meantime, though, he had crossed the home plate with the run that tied the score. But—said ending to an otherwise happy yarn—Duddy's team

Russian Letter Laden With Various Stamps

AKRON, O.—A letter, containing 391,000 rubles' worth of stamps, has just been received from Russia by Jacob Umansky of this city. Before the World War these stamps would, normally, have cost about $195,000, or a little more than 50 cents each. The 391,000 rubles' worth of stamps today are valued at about thirty-five cents.

Eliminate All Bad Habits, Plea of Girls

MADISON, Wis.—The transparent blouse, the scant short skirt, the use of powder puffs in public and of cigarettes at any time were outlawed by Madison high school girls. Resolutions also were adopted against unseemly familiarity with boys, and boisterous talking. The girls endorsed resolutions passed by the boys calling for elimination of bad habits.

Official Information

A brief resume of registration requirements as officially given out by D. E. Lyons, county registrar of voters, is as follows:

Everyone must be registered since January 1, 1922, to vote at the primaries.

All who have moved since registering after January 1 must re-register.

Only those stating party affiliation when registering can vote where party affiliation is given, but every registered voter can vote for the non-partisan candidates, whether party affiliation is stated or not at time of registering.

If a person has registered since January 1, stating his party affiliation and wishes to change over to another party, it is not necessary to re-register but merely advise one of the deputy registrars to that effect and the change will be made so you can vote the party ticket desired. The deputy will give you a slip recording the change.

Should you re-register merely for the purpose of changing your party affiliation, the second registration becomes void and is thrown out when checked up by the registrar's office.

Saturday is the last day on which voters may register or change party affiliations for voting at the primaries.

There are grocers who collect their bills promptly, also those that sell to prominent families.

MEMORIAL IS UNVEILED BY KING DISCUSS OPENING AND IMPROVING OF PATTERSON

Property Owners Decide to Have Committee Secure Further Information

for the opening also between Central and Brand, and the consequent opening and improvement of the street from San Fernando Road through to Glendale's main north and south business street.

Property which would have to be acquired by the city for the opening of the street between Central avenue and Brand is considered valuable, and this project would necessarily involve considerable expense, it is pointed out. On the other hand, it is contended that when a street such as Patterson avenue is being opened into the city from San Fernando Road, it should be extended to Brand boulevard, bringing traffic through the heart of the city.

The final action taken at the meeting was the appointment of a committee of three to make investigation and report as to the Patterson project. These three, H. H. Parker, J. R. Gray and Frank B. Leslie, were to go to the city hall today to arrange for an audience with the city council.

This committee plans to secure information as to the size of the district which will be assessed for the opening and improvement of the avenue in question, and get some idea of the cost per lot for lots two or three blocks away from the street affected.

Another meeting of the property owners of the district is to be called as soon as the committee has met with the council and secured the information. It is expected that this meeting will be called within a day or two, and possibly this evening.

Rabbi Is 105 Years; Doesn't Boast of It

CHICAGO. — Rabbi Solomon Mills is 105 years old, he has admitted, but does not want his wife to know he is old.

"She thinks I am only 90," he said.

"I should boast about my age and get an 'ain horo,'" said the rabbi, explaining that "ain horo" literally means a "black eye." He is confident that he will live to be 200 years old.

C. E. KIMLIN BACK HOME FROM TRIP THROUGH EAST

Fifth avenue hospital in New York city, according to Mr. Kimlin. This is located not far from Grant's tomb. Some ideas were secured from it for use in the new plant.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Burnham, formerly of 908 South Central avenue, were visited by Mr. Kimlin in Baltimore. They sent best wishes by him to their friends in Glendale.

Boston did not make a favorable impression upon the local party. They arrived at the North station and no matter which way they started they seemed to return there on account of the crookedness of the streets which seemed to them to loop the loop for spite. On one occasion they went into a bank to cash travelers' checks and were coldly informed that the bank didn't cash them. At another bank they were bluntly accused of coming from west of the Mississippi river.

"We began to feel like foreigners," remarked Mr. Kimlin.

New York made a much better impression. They found the transportation system there both speedy and efficient. Mr. Kimlin commented upon the fact that this was the only large city they visited where the street car fare still remains a nickel. He said that they had ridden from Bronx park to the Aquarium for five cents—a considerable distance.

Lack of Congestion

"The lack of congestion in the streets of New York was quite noticeable," remarked Mr. Kimlin. "This seems to be due to the fact that so much of the traffic is taken care of below ground. I think that is the thing that Los Angeles is going to come to. I don't think there is any doubt about it."

A terrific thunderstorm was staged in New York for the benefit of the Glendaleites. In walking thirty-five feet from a car line to a shelter they were completely drenched. The thunder rumbling over the tops of the skyscrapers and re-echoing in the street canyons was quite awing.

Mr. Kimlin's return trip was somewhat influenced by the railroad strike. At Bloomington, Illinois, he took snapshots of infantrymen sent out from Chicago to quell any disturbances. His train was delayed 45 minutes at Kansas City for lack of an engine. This train ran late all the way along. At Salt Lake City the train should have left at 8:30 o'clock in the morning and did not pull out until noon. About 3 o'clock the next morning the engine got stalled in the desert and it was necessary to telegraph ahead to Las Vegas for a freight engine. This pulled the passenger train for four or five hours and then departed down the track to do some freight work before returning.

Scenic spots visited by the party were Bountiful, Colorado, Niagara Falls, the Thousand Islands of the St. Lawrence, and the Hudson river at New York city.

The heat was quite oppressive everywhere, according to Mr. Kimlin, who said that he longed to return to California and enjoy the cool nights once more. He said that the trip was very strenuous and quite profitable.
