

TELLS OF SCHOOL CONDITIONS AT EXCHANGE CLUB

Richardson D. White, City Superintendent, in Plea for More Bonds

"One of the most necessary things in good city planning is provision for a good school system!"

Richardson D. White, city superintendent of schools, made this assertion yesterday noon at the Broadway Inn, 637 East Broadway, at the weekly luncheon of the Glendale Exchange Club.

"I want to tell you that a good school system doesn't just grow," he continued. "If you are going to have a good school system, you have got to plan for it."

Mr. White commented on the fact that many towns in the middle west are the same size today that they were ten years ago and likely to be almost the same size ten years from today. He said that they had had a hundred years in which to grow whereas Glendale's growing pains have been experienced in the past three or four years.

On Village Basis "Owing to the fact that we have jumped all of a sudden from a little village to a city, we still have our schools organized on a village basis," reported Mr. White.

"The Glendale city school system was organized in 1892 with one school. I understand that this was located out in Verdugo Canyon and that some of the citizens didn't like its location and went out there one night with a team of horses and hauled it down here. However, that is a matter of history."

According to Mr. White, when a high school was needed, the grammar school district wasn't rich enough and so more territory had to be added to it and a union high school district formed.

"Prior to fifteen years ago," he continued, "practically all the school systems in the United States were organized on the basis of eight years of elementary school and four years of high school or secondary school. Just why they were so organized is hard to tell. I think it was due largely because there were few high schools and it was desired to keep the children in school as long as possible or until they were (Continued on Page 10).

Increases Protection In Residence Section

Three new police beats were established yesterday by Col. J. D. Fraser, chief of police.

The new arrangements will permit more patrolling to be done in the residential districts of the city both in the north and south side of the community.

Statistics show, according to Chief Fraser, that most of the robberies reported in the past few months, have occurred between the hours of 7 and 11 o'clock in the evening. Therefore, more men have been put on duty during these hours.

Glendale is now blocked out into eight districts. No. 1 includes all territory south of Park avenue and Palmer street. No. 2 is the southwest section of the city bounded by Brand boulevard and Broadway. No. 3 is the southeast section bounded by Brand boulevard and Broadway. No. 4 is the northeast section bounded by Brand boulevard and Broadway. No. 5 is the northwest section bounded by Brand boulevard and Broadway.

The new posts include the following: No. 4A north of California avenue from Brand boulevard west. No. 5A north of California from Brand boulevard east. No. 1A, the outside section of posts 1, 2 and 3.

Records at the public service department in the city hall show that ninety-seven water meters were installed last month and 1314 light meters. This makes 6932 water meters and 8390 light meters in service altogether.

Although the number of meters installed last month was smaller than usual, the number is considered satisfactory owing to the fact that this is vacation time.

Asks Great Probe WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—One of the most sweeping investigations ever proposed in the senate and involving practically the entire press of the country, was asked today by Senator Gooding, Republican, Idaho, chairman of the senate tariff "bloc," as a result of charges that members of the "bloc" were financially interested in tariff rates upon which they had voted.

It is urged Glendale people have Glendale banners on their machines and also to preach the gospel of Glendale to the delegates. All having automobiles for use either Friday or Saturday, or both days, are urged to be at the designated place.

PETITION TO SEEK ADEQUATE DEPOT ON S. P. HERE

Railroad Commission to Be Urged to Take Action for New Station

The Glendale Exchange club yesterday noon at its weekly luncheon in the Broadway Inn, 637 East Broadway, endorsed a petition requesting the railroad commission of the state of California to take such action as necessary to compel the Southern Pacific Railroad company to provide adequate depot facilities for Glendale.

This petition was presented by E. D. Yard of 646 North Jackson street, who is taking an active interest in the location of a new station as near the center of the city as possible.

"In looking over the situation and inquiring among different men," remarked Yard, "it seems to be the consensus of opinion that the new station should be located as near Broadway as possible."

Technical reasons, involved in the placing of the station too near a grade crossing, prevent it being placed either at Broadway or Colorado street, according to Mr. Yard. He called attention to the site opposite the end of Milford street, and said that, while it was not the best site in the city, it seemed to be the best available under the circumstances.

Action is Suggested "Trying to get something voluntarily out of a corporation is almost an impossibility," asserted Dr. Henry R. Harrower, who has taken a keen interest in this subject also. He agreed, however, that all methods and means should be taken to cause the Southern Pacific Railroad company to construct the desired station.

Councilman C. E. Kimlin expressed an opinion that more could be accomplished by sending a committee to confer directly with the railroad officials upon the subject.

The petition endorsed follows: "To the honorable board of railroad commissioners of the state of California, Gentlemen: On the 27th day of February, 1888, R. W. Morse, George Bogart, L. D. Malthus, A. L. Teele, F. Minott Ward, Walter R. E. Ward and Ben E. Ward, parties of the first part, did grant, lease and sell to the Southern Pacific Railroad company, a corporation, a party of the second part, two and eight-tenths acres of land for the sum of one dollar with depot buildings and platform erected and to be known as West Glendale station as per the copy of the map and deed inclosed upon the express condition that the said Southern Pacific Railroad company should at all times keep and maintain said land and said buildings for passenger and freight depot purposes.

Great Inconveniences "Because of the failure of the said Southern Pacific company or its assigns to use said land and said buildings for purposes aforesaid, having abandoned them and in consequence thereof, the people of Glendale now numbering 30,000 suffer and will continue to suffer great inconvenience and hardship from totally inadequate railroad accommodations.

"We, therefore, pray your honorable board, as our representatives, for such relief as will in your opinion be just and adequate. And that you will ever pray."

The petition, it is stated, is now in general circulation and a number of signatures have already been obtained.

CRISWELL FAILS TO MAKE GOOD GRAFT CHARGES LOS ANGELES, Aug. 3.—Grand jury investigation of the charges of Ralph L. Criswell, president of the city council, that gamblers are paying to "outside persons" from $12,000 to $13,000 a day for protection, was abandoned today, following what was said to be Criswell's complete failure to make good his accusations when he appeared before the inquisitorial body.

According to statements made by members of the grand jury when Criswell appeared in response to a subpoena he gave no information upon which to base further investigations.

FEDERAL RECEIVERSHIP PLAN GAINING IN FAVOR WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—While the government sat tight today and awaited developments in the railroad strike, it became known that the plan of the federal receivership of those roads unable to fulfill their duties to the public is steadily gaining favor in high administration quarters. This plan will be adopted, however, an administration spokesman said, only in the event of a complete breakdown of all efforts to compose the differences between the railroads and their erstwhile employees.

The decision as to when these efforts can be deemed to have collapsed rests with President Harding, who thus far has not given any indication that he considers peace hopeless.

REED TO BE DEMOCRATIC NOMINEE FOR PRESIDENT? WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—Reputation of Woodrow Wilson as leader of the Democratic party by Missouri Democrats in their re-nomination of Senator "Jim" Reed, the fiery anti-Wilson leader, was looked upon in senatorial political circles today as heralding an attempt to make Reed the Democratic nominee for president in 1924.

With Missouri formally in the Democratic column, Republican and Democratic senators today admitted Reed's chances of re-election to the senate in November were "very bright." His fight for another six year term in the senate, it was contended, was won last Tuesday. Some of his more ardent admirers on both sides of the chamber, even predicted his election by an overwhelming majority.

MARRIED TWO BROTHERS BUT IS WIFE OF NEITHER LOS ANGELES, Aug. 3.—Involved in one of the most unusual marital mix-ups ever to come before the local superior court, Mrs. Gertrude M. Ford, who had married two brothers but is the wife of neither, today endeavored to get rid of both of them in order that she might, possibly, remarry one of them. As the first step in the procedure, the woman, through her attorneys, sought to obtain certification that a decree divorcing her from Walter H. Ford has been signed by an eastern court.

When this is accomplished, Judge Summerfield said that he would grant an annulment decree of Mrs. Ford's marriage to Perley H. Ford, the brother of the first husband. A strange feature of the case was revealed when it was learned that the woman and the two brothers have been residing here happily together. The woman fell in love with Perley Ford when he returned from the war while she was married to his brother Walter. She applied for a divorce from her husband, but married Perley Ford before her first divorce had been made final.

REALTY BOARD TO HAVE BARBECUE AT WOODLANDS

Dinner to Be Served Next Tuesday; Civic Matters Under Consideration

The Glendale Realty Board is to be the guest of W. L. Twining of the F. P. Newport company at a barbecue dinner to be given next Tuesday night at the pavilion in Verdugo Woodlands. The invitation extended by Mr. Twining at yesterday's meeting of the board was accepted enthusiastically.

After various business matters had been settled the realtors yesterday heard a communication from the union high school board of trustees, offering to send a speaker to address the board on the school situation here. It was decided that the speaker should be heard at the meeting next Wednesday.

The joint session of the realty boards of Eagle Rock, Burbank and Glendale did not materialize as expected. C. W. Young, charter member of the Eagle Rock Realty Board and C. W. Jones, were the only visitors from either Eagle Rock or Burbank.

Mr. Young told of his own viewpoint with regard to the co-operation of Glendale, Eagle Rock and Burbank in working out common problems together.

Have Friendly Feeling "While there are sometimes some things said by the usually friendly people of Eagle Rock and Glendale which might cause one to think that considerable feeling exists," he stated, "I believe that on the whole the people of my city have a friendly and cooperative feeling toward Glendale."

"I see no reason why Eagle Rock has to go into Los Angeles on account of the sewer system and I see no reason why she has to go into Glendale on account of the union high school. However, the only way one can tell the dividing line between the two cities is to drive along with his eyes shut, and feel the difference in the pavement. But I do believe that we should all work together for our common interests, and to prevent our individual absorption by Los Angeles."

Mr. Jones bore out in the main Mr. Young's statements. City Manager Reeves addressed the board on various matters of (Continued on Page 10).

Weekly Band Concert Now Being Planned Glendale is to have an official band—the local Elks' band will be "it."

Maurice Burke, manager of the Elks' band, has offered its services for the dedication of the new park August 16.

Negotiations are now in progress whereby a subscription list of about $50 a week will be collected from local merchants and an additional $50 a week paid from the city treasury for the expenses of one concert a week.

The Elks' band is directed by R. E. Kenny. L. E. Wilber is its solo cornetist, G. H. Holmes and L. F. Hummel are its solo clarinetists. Among members of the band are: C. K. Aston, E. E. Benge, J. A. Hughes, W. A. Minger, Frank Woolard, T. F. Johnson, Herbert Henning, A. G. Boone, E. Spanier, J. F. Bryne, Frank Prouty, Arthur Fryer, Eddie Moniot, R. R. Railroads, Strikers to Abide With Board WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—With both the railroads and their striking shopmen definitely on record as pledging future adherence to decisions of the rail labor board, President Harding and his cabinet advisers faced the critical industrial situation hopefully today with more confidence.

Both sides have now admitted the supremacy and the authority of the board to determine wages and working conditions and have faithfully observed its findings.

With this as a basis on which to proceed, administration leaders said the situation was not as "hopeless" as it would seem to appear.

Glendale Gives Rousing Reception Last Night To Senator Hiram Johnson

Four Of a Kind

And yet they are different. These four pictures are of U. S. Senator Hiram W. Johnson—one man, four characteristic facial expressions. Did he "let 'em" at the high school last night? He did! Emphatically.

California Leader Says He Has Nothing to Apologize For In Long Record

Fighting his old foes in their field here in southern California, Senator Hiram W. Johnson spoke at Glendale Union high school auditorium last night to a crowd which filled the room to overflowing with the same old enthusiasm which has marked each successive visit of California's great statesman to this city.

The same old game was the target of his attack. The same philosophy of politics—a government of the people, by the people and for the people—was the topic.

It was the old Hiram Johnson, only older, who stood before the people on the street corner in Glendale in 1910 and addressed them from the back seat of a "divver." It was the same man who toured the country with Teddy Roosevelt in 1912. It was the same man who was re-elected governor in 1914. It was the self-same person who was sent to the senate in 1916 by an overwhelming majority and the same speaker who followed Wilson in 1919 and 1920 and defeated the League of Nations covenant in the greatest political victory of all time.

While the drum corps played outside at 7 o'clock last night, John Henry Lyons, who holds a national record as a song leader, had the crowd crooning campaign melodies. John Henry hails from Tacoma where he has had 50,000 voices in unison. Earle Towne played the piano.

Inspiring Scenes John Hyde Braly, chairman of the local Johnson-for-Senator club, presided and on the arrival of the senator the crowd sang and cheered until it looked as though precious minutes of golden words were going to waste. J. H. Franklin was called upon for a few introductory words and he stated that Senator Johnson was "a man not to be intimidated by the subsidized press" and there should be no hesitancy on the part of patriotic people in casting their votes for him.

As Mr. Braly introduced the senator the drum corps, composed of Civil War veterans, marched in bearing the flag, following the singing of the national anthem. Altogether it was inspiring to see such a splendid spirit.

It was, however, beside the story which the eminent statesman brought with him. He tore the mask from his traducers. He told of the opposition's vain endeavor to gain some excuse for his removal and pointed to the fact that they now are on the horns of a dilemma.

Ever Ready to Fight Senator Johnson said that he had hoped that he had seen enough service for his state and gotten old enough in years to have one campaign without vilification and abuse against him which has characterized former campaigns. He said that his hope had not been fulfilled, but that he was as ready as ever to fight.

"I know what the result will be," he declared. "It will be just the old result as before in the state of California when we have (Continued on Page 10)

Senator Johnson In Address to Women Glendale supporters of Hiram W. Johnson, who accorded him such a hearty welcome last night at the high school, might have viewed him with more interest had they known that the senator had faced the Los Angeles Trinity auditorium full of women yesterday afternoon. Each woman was privileged to come armed with a question to hurl at the candidate and the speaker might well be said to have been at their mercy had he not gathered here about as unassuming as for him as any assemblage he has yet addressed.

The only thrilling moment was when Mrs. W. P. Cunningham, president of the Women's City club, faced the senator and asked, "Do you stand for a modification of the eighteenth amendment?"

Before Senator Johnson could answer the audience broke into shouting cheers as if anticipating his answer to it and when he finally spoke he said, "Make no mistake, my friends, as to where I stand upon the subject of law enforcement. Like every other man or woman elected to public office who realizes the responsibility of their position, I am for the Constitution to the letter; and if my public record has not proclaimed as much, then I should not come before you again asking for your suffrage."

Mrs. H. Roeder and C. L. Roeder at Home Mrs. H. Roeder and son, C. L. Roeder, have returned to their home at 344 North Maryland avenue, from an extended motor trip to the state of Oregon. They left Glendale three weeks ago and en route north they picked up Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Maag of San Francisco and took them on north with them.

Their destination was Lake View in the southern part of Oregon and after transacting business there they took a pleasure trip clear around the Cascades. They encountered ideal weather conditions and experienced no trouble with their car. They say the roads in Oregon are terrible, with the exception of the Columbia highway, which they say far surpasses any California highway.

VISITS ANAHEIM Mr. and Mrs. Albert G. Wirelton of 453 West Ivy street were recent visitors with friends in Anaheim.

ADMIT MADALYNNE TO BAIL, URGES J. M. RHOADES

Juror In Recent Trial Says He Stands In No Fear Of Any Threats

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 3.—James M. Rhoades of Glendale, Dr. F. H. Sanborn of Buena Park, and Sol Deeble of Long Beach, three jurors who voted for acquittal in her recent trial, have offered to aid Madalynne Obenchain in her fight for liberty from the county jail on bond, it was declared today. The jurors, it was said, have offered to furnish property bonds.

In a statement issued today by James M. Rhoades, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce at Glendale, and one of the jurors in the Obenchain trial, when interviewed this morning regarding the above dispatch, he stated that he has never been asked to go on her bail, nor has he offered voluntarily to do so. Whether or not Dr. Sanborn and Mr. Deeble have made any moves in this direction, he does not know. He also states that he has not called upon this defendant, nor communicated with her in any way at any time before or after the trial.

Not Afraid of Threats "But if I am asked to go on her bail, and am in a frame of mind to do so, no acts or threats of punishment from any power would prevent me from doing as my mind dictated," said Mr. Rhoades. "I firmly believe she should be admitted to bail, for the reason that her health is impaired, and further confinement in the county jail might result in her untimely death. Furthermore, this jury voted unanimously that she was not guilty of murder in the first degree. They also voted unanimously that she was not guilty of murder in the second degree. And in view of these facts she should be admitted to bail."

Mrs. McKee Hostess at Out-Door Lunch

Mrs. C. S. McKee of 427 West Wilson avenue was hostess Tuesday afternoon and evening at a very charming out-door affair at the Sunset Canyon country club when she entertained the members of the G. C. A. club. A number of the guests indulged in swimming, while others followed the picturesque trails up the hillsides, feeling well paid for the exertion by the beautiful view. They returned quite ready for the delicious picnic supper.

Permits Yesterday Make Total of $6200

A four room residence is planned by R. B. Morton of Los Angeles, to be built immediately on a site at 166 North Townsend avenue, Eagle Rock. The work is to be done by day labor, and a garage is included in the proposed work. The cost will be about $3350.

Permits for this and three other building projects were taken out at the Eagle Rock city hall yesterday, making a total valuation of permits for the day $6200.

Spanish War Men Meet at Social Gathering, Relate Some Experiences

Reminiscences of Cuba, Porto Rico, the Philippines and the training camps of '98 were told with much relish last night in American Legion hall, 610 East Broadway, at the monthly speaker of the Glendale Post of Spanish War Veterans.

The national encampment, which will be held in Los Angeles August 21 to 26, was discussed also. Ed F. Shultz of Los Angeles, member of the national committee on arrangements, and members of the hotel and automobile committee from Roosevelt Post in Los Angeles were present to explain some of the details for caring for the several thousand delegates. Arrangements have been made with a downtown garage in Los Angeles to care for about 400 automobiles without cost to their owners.

Executive Board of Tuesday Club Meets

The members of the executive board of the Tuesday Afternoon club held an all-day business session yesterday at the summer home of the president, Mrs. Daniel Campbell, at Hermosa Beach.

Discussion of the new section of the club which is to be formed also took up part of the time at yesterday's meeting. This section is to be known as the "Maid's and Matrons' Section," and will take up various lines of study and also some form of social life.

Those present got quite a "kick" out of the error.

Friendship for W. S. Perrin Causes Nebraska Man to Use His Influence

Glendale residents are far famed for their insistent and enthusiastic boosting for their city, but Glendale boosting isn't confined to Glendale, says Frank A. It was through a life long friendship with W. S. Perrin, president of the Glendale Savings bank, that Mr. Harrison became acquainted with Glendale and when Glendale "pioneers" recall the years of hoping and waiting for an independent postoffice and then consider that it was a resident of Lincoln, Neb., who was an influential factor in the realization they will know that Glendale boosters are not alone found within the city limits.

DOES HE TRY EXPERIMENTS?

There is something that I want to write about today that some of my readers may think irrelevant. I wish those whose bump of reverence is easily bruised would turn to some other portion of the paper because I really don't feel irrelevant and this thought has been boiling around in me so long that I feel as if I must write about it.

Here's what started me thinking in this direction. I know a pretty woman whose pretentiousness has made her what I call a "taker." She has a husband who is very proud of her and who does everything from him and takes not a fair return. Furthermore, she has a very good mind but, because she is pretty and charming and does not need to use her mind, she has let it lie fallow.

I had been thinking about her one day when this thought came into my mind: "How interesting it would be to see what would have been the development of that woman's mind and character if she had had the same mental and character endowment and had been plain instead of pretty."

And then came the thought which some may call irrelevant. I should think it would be interesting to God to put exactly the same original endowment of mind

WOMEN SEEK TO ELECT ONE OF SEX TO OHIO HIGH COURT

MANY NAMES ON PETITION NEEDED

Myra Hills Is Striving to Get Signatures to Aid Florence E. Allen

CLEVELAND, Aug. 3.—Myra E. Hills of Cleveland has been chosen to head the work of getting the 20,800 petition signatures necessary to nominate Judge Florence E. Allen, non-partisan independent candidate for judge in the Supreme court of Ohio.

A graduate of Western Reserve University and an active worker in the Cleveland Women's City Club and in the League of Women Voters, Miss Hills is, by virtue of her work on Judge Allen's petitions, to have a hand in making history, since the judge is the only woman in the United States on the bench in the Court of Common Pleas and candidate for a place on a state Supreme court bench.

Judge Allen's position in her present place in the Court of Common Pleas of Cuyahoga county has brought her exceptional judicial experience. She has presided in a number of celebrated cases.

MISS MYRA E. HILLS

Men as well as women, republicans as well as democrats, are uniting to put into this important public office a trained representative of the integrity and ideals of American women. Her committee includes the names of five prominent citizens, former Appellate Court Judge Frederick A. Henry, William L. David of the Cleveland Bar; Mrs. Malcolm L. McBride, republicans; Mrs. Kent of Lima, and Miss Marion Brogan of Cincinnati, democrats.

"A clean personal record and high professional standing are Judge Allen's best planks," says Miss Hills. "She will stand for law enforcement, justice for all; business methods applied to the courts; efficient work by public servants; respect for law, order and the courts; and moral standards actively functioning in government."

Diet and Health

CONSTIPATION, CONCLUDED

For the last three days I have been giving you some articles on constipation. If you have missed them and are interested in the subject, you can undoubtedly get the numbers that have just preceded.

Before we talk about the remedies for constipation, let us talk a little bit about preventing the condition. One of the first things is this: A child should be taught very early that it is important to have evacuation of the bowels at the same time of the day if possible. Defecation is partly voluntary and partly involuntary. As soon as the contents reach the anal there is a desire to defecate. If that desire is not fulfilled regularly the nerves are blunted and the stimulus is lost. It is just as important to keep the system clean of the refuse from food and the refuse from the body cells as it is to eat the food to build up the body cells. The children will understand the comparison if you tell them that the ashes of a stove have to be cleaned out regularly or else the fire will not draw well. If the habit of going to the toilet at a regular time is established, and its importance impressed upon them—not over-impressed, you understand—the habit is likely to continue throughout life and perhaps this is one of the most important factors in regulating the bowels.

Now, in order to tell of the treatment of constipation, we will review briefly the causes of ordinary constipation, which are in general: (1) irregular habits; (2) improper diet, or insufficient diet, or too sufficient diet; (3) insufficient exercise; (4) nervous influences; (5) physics.

(1) Irregular habits. We have explained that.

(2) Improper diet. A diet should contain enough bulk so that the bowel has something to work upon. The green vegetables and all vegetables and fruit not only contain cellulose, which is not ordinarily digested, but they contain the important mineral substances and vitamins necessary for health. Bran is not digested ordinarily and that can be taken in sufficient quantities to increase the bulk. Dr. Kellogg says it is nonsense to say that the bran is sharp and will irritate, for it is thoroughly softened by the fluids of the intestinal tract. (Count about 50 C. to a small cup of bran.)

HOT WEATHER FEET

This is the time of year when one's feet seem to give the most trouble. In the hot weather they seem to swell so every pair of shoes is too small and no pair is comfortable. The feet tire easily and the ankles ache. Here are some suggestions for cooling and refreshing foot-baths.

Generally there is nothing so refreshing as a bath of sea water. Bags of rock salt or sea salt can be purchased at almost any shop and are never expensive. A very strong solution of sea salt and hot water should be made whenever you reach home tired, with aching feet. This should be put in a basin on the floor and the feet soaked for 15 or 20 minutes. They should then be rinsed with cool water and low-heeled slippers or heeled sandals worn.

If you have any tendency to rheumatism soak the feet in a strong hot solution of epsom salts, then rinse and dry and wear heeled slippers for a time. If you haven't the time for this, when you come in tired and with aching feet, rub the soles and toes with a cut lemon, wipe dry and wear loose, low slippers for a while. If you have plenty of time give your feet the hot salt bath, then lie down with the feet still bare, turn on the face and stretch the feet out on a pillow, soles upward. This is particularly effective if there is great pain in the insteps.

It always rests and protects the feet to give them a pedicure, which

RULES FOR SERVING

I have had so many questions come to me regarding the proper serving of meals, I am sure a few simple rules will be welcome at this time.

There are certain rules that always hold good. With these as a foundation any woman can teach a maid of average intelligence to serve acceptably within a short time.

Serving Company Luncheon or Dinner—The first course is usually on the table before the guests are seated. This course usually consists of fruit or fish. If a soup follows the appetizer, the soup dishes are filled in the kitchen and placed upon service plates. Passing to the right of each person, the maid removes the dishes of the previous course as she replaces them with the soup. The plates of the soup course are removed in rotation as warm ones for the meat course are substituted.

*If the meat is carved in the kitchen it is passed, on a platter which has been provided with a fork for service, to the left of each person. In like manner the vegetables and sauces are passed. The meat and vegetables should be returned to the kitchen to be kept warm for a second helping.

As the plates of this course are removed they are replaced by plates containing the individual salad. As soon as all are served with the salad, the wafers are passed to the left of each person. Before dessert is served, all dishes, silver, and salt and pepper are removed (nuts and candy dishes being retained), and the table is crumbed, brushing with a folded napkin on a plate.

If the dessert is to be served in individuals such as moulded dessert, the silver fork or spoon as the case may be is placed for each person, then the dessert is brought in and served. If the dessert be brick ice cream, for instance, it should be placed on is, of course, always more easily done after hot soaking. The more the feet are rubbed and massaged the more rested they will become and the more strength they will have to resist fatigue. Spraying them with toilet vinegar or toilet water is also very refreshing. Talcum powder is always cooling and soothing.

Bobby—At 14 you have, at least, six more years in which to grow taller. Freckles can be bleached but you cannot get rid of them, since they are natural to you and will be coming out on the skin during the spring and summer months.

A Male—With dark blue eyes and Auburn hair your selection of colors in ties will be first, green, then brown especially in a henna shade, violet, cream color and after these any colors except vivid shades in red. The advice given, for selecting colors of a darker shade than the eyes, is for the purpose of strengthening the color or in types of people that need this help.

Mrs. J. A. R.—Your request for a list of foods suited to a person with diabetes will be included in a "Chat" in a short time.

Tomorrow—Avoiding Freckles

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes in care of the "Beauty Chats" column will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor.

a platter and passed to the left of each person, then cake or wafers are passed in like manner. The demi-tasse cups are filled in the kitchen and the maid places one at the right of each person, then the sugar is passed.

A few general rules:

Serve everything that one drinks—tea, coffee, water—at the right.

Exchange individual plates at the right.

Pass to the left all dishes from which those at the table serve themselves.

(Every dish should be provided with a spoon and fork for service.)

See that the maid walks quietly and places the dishes on the table gently.

See that anything used for liquids are not so full that there is danger of spilling while carrying.

Never overfill dishes from which those at the table are to serve themselves.

Have the maid remain in the dining room as much as possible to see that glasses are never empty and that everyone is kept supplied with bread and butter.

When passing water, milk, cream, etc., hands should never get around mouth of pitcher.

See that maid looks neat and that her hands and nails are clean.

The centerpiece for the dinner table may be as elaborate as one wishes, the luncheon table centerpiece being more simple. Do not have the flowers arranged in a tall vase unless the table is very large. It is most uncomfortable to be compelled to talk around a high vase of flowers.

The placards lie on the napkin or are placed at the head of the plate.

The silver for all courses up to the dessert is placed one at a time when laying the table. The silver is laid in order of use; one always begins with the silver farthest from the service plate.

Health Endangered by Garbage Force

DETROIT—Health and sanitation of this city is threatened by a strike of practically the entire force of the city's garbage collectors and drivers. Two hundred and fifty-four of the 260 men on the job are out protesting against a recent cut in their wages from $5.50 a day to $5. The garbage collectors of the city recently organized and affiliated themselves with the American Federation of Labor.

This Man Does More By Remaining Quiet

LONDON—Attention, members of the congress of the United States!

This is the tale of a man from whose book many members of the congress of the United States might take a leaf and bring joy to the American public.

John Hope has been a member of the British house of commons for twenty-two years and has not yet made his maiden speech.

Hope is a regular attendant at the house of commons and has the rare record of having won out in seven contested elections, in which he has fought every political party.

"Why don't I speak in the house?" echoed Hope when he was questioned. "Well, I have found that I can do more by not talking."

"When I entered the house first of all I had no idea of never making a speech."

"But time went on, and the maiden speech was still undelivered—although I have been tempted to do it more than once, and friends have urged me to break the record—and now I am afraid it will never be delivered."

Hope's reluctance to speak is not because of any inability to do so, for he can orate effectively. He is not shy. When he wants anything he goes directly to the responsible minister of the cabinet and generally gets what he has never attempted to browbeat the cabinetiers across the chambers of the house of commons.

Hope bids fair to keep his word and be the one speechless member of the house of commons, and if he does so he will take away the record created by William Gerard Hamilton, who in the eighteenth century gained for himself the name of "Single Speech Hamilton," because he is supposed to have never made but one speech in commons.

We don't care how much a man says if he only says it in a few words.

Golf Courses Make Dandy Bird Refuges

WASHINGTON—A golf course in many respects makes an ideal community bird refuge and golfers, says the Department of Agriculture, should co-operate in the preservation, encouragement and increase of useful birds.

The broad expanses of short grass on the fairways, officials point out, furnish excellent feeding grounds for robins, meadowlarks, starlings, flickers and killdeers. In rougher spots there is an abundant insect population for bird food. Most golf courses have water hazards at which birds can drink and bathe and many are protected to a large extent from trespass and are relatively free from natural enemies to birds.

Thus, officials assert, birds are afforded ample protection, food and water. But nesting sites may be lacking and must be supplied by artificial nest boxes or trees and shrubbery along the sides of the course.

FOREIGN TRADE GROWS

American foreign trade, both imports and exports, showed a material increase for June. Department of Commerce figures show. Exports totaled $334,000,000, an increase of $27,000,000, while imports were placed at $260,000,000, approximately $8,000,000 higher than the total reached in May.

The only sure things of life are the things that have already happened.

Huge Amount Mail Carried by Planes

WASHINGTON—During the year just closed the air mail service of the postoffice department carried a million and a quarter pounds of mail, aggregating forty-nine million letters, on the various laps between New York and San Francisco. This body of mail was carried with no grave accident, with no loss of life, and with an increase over the previous year of "trips completed" of almost 10 per cent; 92.5 per cent this year against 83 per cent last year.

The flying time between New York and San Francisco is at present three days. When a sufficient number of lighthouses are erected to guide night fliers, this time may be cut in half; in other words, mail, via airplane, between New York and San Francisco, is now predicted to be as rapid as our present Chicago-New York mail, which averages a day and a half between posting and delivery.

Congress has "starved" the air mail service to a large extent by a failure to provide money enough to permit the extension of the service. It is being freely predicted in official Washington circles that with the showing the air mail service has just made, it will be impossible for even the most rabid economists in the Capitol to continue much longer the "do-nothing" policy which prevents air mail routes from being extended, and its quick-service blessings given to the other great commercial centers of the nation.

Days of '59 to Be Observed in Colorado

IDAHO SPRINGS, Col.—Idaho Springs, nesting amid some of the highest peaks in the Colorado Rockies, will celebrate the "days of '59" early in September, in observance of the discovery of gold in Colorado.

For three days—September 2, 3 and 4—natives and hundreds of visitors will stage scenes familiar to the "wild and woolly West" of more than half a century ago, when the red shirt and high boots were in vogue and "six shooters" swung from the belt of every good citizen during the early rush for gold up Chicago Creek.

With the challenge of Mayor Moscript that "I can grow 'em faster than anybody in creation" already flung to the world, many old-timers are beginning to grow a crop of whiskers, and a suitable prize will be awarded the best prize display on September 2.

The "hanging tree," where old-time lynchings were held, will be fenced off, and the new generation will get a glimpse of how justice was quickly meted out by frontier vigilantes—with effigies for victims in the re-enactment.

A feature of the celebration will be an underground race, 3,000 feet below the earth's surface, through gold mines that long since been worked to exhaustion.

Prizes of real gold—to be weighed out in the precious yellow dust itself—will be awarded winners in the numerous races and contests to be held during the three-day event.

In 1859 George A. Jackson "prospected" up Chicago Creek, at a spot less than a quarter of a mile from what is now the main thoroughfare of Idaho Springs, and made the first discovery of gold in the Centennial State. Within a week the struggling little frontier town was alive with excited prospectors, gold hunters and fortune seekers. News of the discovery spread rapidly, and "prairie schooners" freighted with whole families came bustling into the hills about Idaho Springs. Great fortunes in gold were wrung from the mountains in this vicinity during the next half century, and Idaho Springs is going to renew the events of those stirring times in its celebration of the "days of '59."

Financial Guardian Named for Drunkard

AKRON, Ohio—A vivid reminder of pre-Volsteadian days was noted in probate court here a few days ago, when Judge L. D. Siusser appointed a guardian for a drunkard for the purpose of preventing him from squandering an inheritance aggregating several thousand dollars.

It was stated that the inebriated heir became acquainted with a bootlegger who learned of the inheritance.

Although from now on the bootlegger will have to deal with the guardian, probate court officials voiced the opinion that the chances for the illicit liquor vendor meeting with success are "very slim."

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories

BY HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE JUMPING DOLL

Uncle Wiggily, hopping around in the woods one day, looking for an adventure, heard some jolly laughter behind the sassafras bushes.

"Well, now," thought the bunny gentleman to himself, as he twinkled his pink nose. "That doesn't sound very scary! I don't believe the Fuzzy Fox, the Woogie Wolf, nor yet the Shillery Scallery Alligator would laugh like that. I think I shall be safe looking to see who it is. I'll do it!"

Carefully, on his tippy tiptoes, Uncle Wiggily went to the screen of bushes and looked over. On the green, grassy ground the bunny uncle saw sitting Lulu and Priscilla Applecake, with only one shoe button for an eye, suddenly began jumping about here and there on the green, grassy place, almost as well as Uncle Wiggily himself could jump.

"Well, I never would have believed it if I hadn't seen it!" exclaimed the bunny uncle. "She's a jumping doll! Is there something inside her you wind up when you want her to leap like that?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"Not unless you wind me up!" laughed a voice.

And seemingly out from inside Priscilla Applecake where, to tell you the truth, he really leaped from, came Bully No-Tail, the frog boy.

"Oh, Bully! Was that you inside Priscilla Applecake jumping around?" asked the bunny.

"Yes," croaked the frog boy. "It's just a little trick, Uncle Wiggily. I'll do it again."

Then the bunny saw that all there was left of the rag doll, which was a very old one, was a dress and her face, with the one shoe-button eye.

"We were going to throw her away," explained Lulu, when Bully Frog said he could make some fun by getting inside the dress and making believe the doll jumped.

"Like this!" croaked Bully. Once more the frog boy crawled inside the rag doll's dress, hiding his hind paws under the skirt and his front paws in the sleeves. He then hopped here and there and everywhere. It looked as if Priscilla Applecake really was jumping.

"Very clever, I call it!" laughed Uncle Wiggily. "Very clever, indeed!"

"And perhaps you'll call me clever," suddenly snarled a voice, as Bully, inside the doll, stopped jumping. "I think I am quite clever to have sneaked up on you, as I have, to nibble your ears!" growled the voice, and there stood the bad Dushy Bear.

"Oh, dear! Please don't nibble my ears!" begged Uncle Wiggily.

"Yes, I shall," grumbled the Bear. And just then Priscilla Applecake began dancing about, as Bully, inside her, leaped here and there right in front of the Bear.

"Oh, my! Oh, what do I see! A jumping doll! She must be a fairy and she'll turn me into a briar bush!" cried the bad, scratchy Bear. "This is no place for me." He jumped Bully, bumping the Bear on the nose, and then the bad creature was so frightened that he ran away without nibbling the bunny's ears at all.

"Very, very clever I call that!" chuckled Mr. Longears, as Bully crawled from inside the rag doll's dress. And Lulu and Alice said the same thing. Priscilla Applecake said nothing, but she looked very wise with her one shoe-button eye.

And if the ice pick doesn't try to take lemons from the apple tree to make a strawberry shortcake for the gas stove, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's shower bath.

APPARATUS AND DEVICES

By RALPH BROWN, RADIO ENGINEER

A SUBSTANTIAL AND REASONABLY PRICED VARIOMETER

A reasonably priced variometer and a very efficient one is this. All metal parts are nickelled. The finish is of dark mahogany. Stator and rotor windings are connected by a spring and make a good permanent contact. Bronzed notched washers are used to do this and the rotor, stator and rotor blocks are tested for dielectric strength. No detrimental or non-insulating paint is used. Two styles are made wound with No. 18 and No. 20 wires. Size over all, 4 1/2 by 4 1/2 by 3 1/2 inches wide. Stator comes ready for mounting and rotor has the usual form of 1/4 inch brass rod so that it can be secured to it. Construction is strong and windings are well turned out. A small air space between stator and rotor parts assures maximum current strength. The usual bearing is used on the rotor on each side, giving free movement with no catch. As plate and grid variometers these instruments give fine satisfaction and are inexpensive.

RADIO EXPLAINED

By E. H. LEWIS, INSTRUCTOR NEW YORK, Y. M. C. A. RADIO SCHOOL

THE PRODUCTION OF OSCILLATIONS

It is a well-known fact that a vacuum tube may be used in a suitable circuit to generate sustained or undamped oscillations. The diagram illustrates one fundamental schematic arrangement.

Suppose that a disturbance is created as, for example, by increasing the coupling between the two coils shown in the diagram. This disturbance which varies the potential on the grid starts an oscillation in the tuned circuit comprising the grid coil and the condenser shunted across it. If the coupling between the coils is sufficiently great the variations of plate current started by the oscillations will react in the customary manner for regeneration upon the grid circuit and will constantly supply energy to replace that lost in the grid oscillatory circuit. The degree of coupling necessary is found by experiment, but it will be noticed that upon increasing the coupling gradually a click or thump will be heard if a pair of headphones are connected in the plate circuit and the oscillations start suddenly at that instant. If the coupling is still further increased and the plate also is furnishing more energy to the grid oscillatory circuit than is lost the oscillations will build up in strength until the losses in the grid circuit balance the amount of energy furnished by the plate circuit. The frequency of the oscillations will be determined by the capacitance and inductance of the grid oscillatory circuit. That is, by the capacity of the variable condenser and the inductance of the grid coil since they are usually far greater than any distributed capacitance and inductance in the circuit.

The coils should be placed in the proper relation to each other which will insure the maintenance of oscillations or the oscillations will quickly die out after once being started. Or, at any rate, increasing the coupling will result in their dying out. When the coupling, having been made in the proper manner, is increased to greatly the potentials on the grid will swing through comparatively large values which will not produce corresponding proportional variations of plate current. The strength of the oscillations will, therefore, cease to increase and the coupling should be reduced. The energy for the oscillations is, of course, furnished by the plate or "B" battery so that continuous oscillations may be maintained practically as long as the battery lasts. In the case of oscillation generators for transmitting, however, a generator is usually provided to replace the battery except in very low power portable sets.

Fuel Shortage May Dock Detroit Ships

DETROIT—Shortage of fuel, due to strikes in the bituminous fields, will send many passenger steamers operating out of Detroit to the docks this summer, transportation officials predict. Stocks of coal are rapidly diminishing and several companies have only enough on hand to operate their vessels another week. Freighters likewise have had trouble obtaining bunker coal and owners believe many vessels will have to be docked soon.

In America a coat of arms counts less than a pair of strong arms in a coat.

Radio Organization Formed In Brussels

BRUSSELS—An international federation of radio operators has been founded here. It will have its chief office in London.

Belgian, English, Dutch, Italian and Swedish operators were present at the charter meeting. Resolutions were adopted:

First—That radio operators aboard ship be not asked to do other duties than those which directly concern radiotelegraphy.

Second—That the radiotelegraphic service aboard ship be placed under direct and sole control of an authorized operator under the immediate authority of the commanding officer of the ship.

They Say That

A wonderful telescope, costing nearly a quarter of a million dollars, is being built for the Wesleyan university at Delaware, Ohio. The story of its giving is as interesting as anything it may hereafter tell of worlds beyond ours.

Professor Hiram M. Perkins, nearly 89 years old, whose salary never exceeded $1500 a year, and who is now living on a small pension, is contributing nearly $200,000 of the money necessary. His sister and brother-in-law are giving the rest.

The old professor saved, even on his small wage, and happened to make some very fortunate investments. Instead of altering his way of life when his wealth increased, he lived on as simply as before, saved and reinvested and still saved on always dreaming of the great telescope for his new college. Now, at the end of his life, he is able to bestow it. He did not wish his name known and it was only with great difficulty that it was finally learned.

Once in the course of his long life he inherited some money from the sale of his father's old farm. This he invested in a home in Delaware. Later, just after his retirement from active teaching, he and his wife dissipated wildly with a winter in Mexico, a visit to Europe and a trip around the world. Then they came back and lived quietly on.

There are two requirements as to the use of his gift. First, it is to be used for the instruction of all the students of the university. Second, it is to be turned over at regular intervals for the use of the outside public. After that, if there is any time left, it may be used for research. Professor Perkins believes that "Astronomy is the queen of sciences. It outclasses all other studies in teaching the majesty and power of God. There is nothing that will give young people such a conception of the greatness and power and beauty of the Creator as the study of the infinite bodies that fill the heavens."

A kindly gift, indeed, from a kindly soul.

It's A Fact

SELECTED INDUSTRIES

The Department of Labor in its last monthly report concerning the volume of employment in representative establishments, determines that comparing the figures of June, 1922, with those for identical establishments for June, 1921, it appears that in 8 of the 12 industries there were increases in the number of persons employed, while in 4 there were decreases. The largest increases were 22.1 per cent in iron and steel, 20.5 per cent in car building and repairing, and 21.2 per cent in automobiles. Cotton manufacturing shows a decrease of 25.1 per cent and silk a decrease of 19.3 per cent.

During the period May 15 to June 15, 1922, there were wage changes made by some of the reporting establishments in nine of the twelve industries.

TRYING TO MAKE DESERT

A treeless country is on the way to become a desert. Mesopotamia, once a garden, is now a desert. No other country since time began, has been so quickly denuded of its forests as the United States. Instead of slowing up, this destruction is gathering speed. We have not yet begun any adequate, organized attempt at restoration. Secretary of Agriculture Wallace urges early congressional action providing for federal co-operation with states in growing or distributing forest seeds or trees for planting, also the extension of the national forests.

Wars between men are bad enough but when man has nature for an enemy he is fighting a relentless and implacable foe. We must get right with nature or be exterminated.

AIR MAIL'S FINE RECORD

Mail service by airplane is no longer an experiment. Last year the air service carried mail 1,800,000 miles without serious accident, and with a regularity of schedule as high as 98 per cent. As a commercial project aviation has been completely demonstrated but this country lags far behind others in putting it into service.

CUT OUT RAILROADS

Stage and bus motor cars now cover all the main highways in California and many rough mountain roads. In California the railroads probably have lost most of their passenger business forever and may thank their high rates for this. These motor busses make thirty-five miles an hour or more on the fine highways between California towns. One company is now building busses with individual cushion seats to prevent sliding around on the seat.

"Oh, what do I see?" cried the bad, scratchy Bear.

Alice Wibblewobble, the ducks. On the ground between them was what seemed to be an old rag doll, with one shoe button eye left, and all the red paint rubbed off her nose.

"Isn't she the dearest thing!" quacked Lulu to her sister Alice.

"Yes, and such a good jumper!" added Alice. "I just wish Uncle Wiggily could see her!"

"Well, I do see her and I see you duck girls, also!" suddenly spoke the bunny over the top of the bush.

"Oh, my!" quacked Alice, and being somewhat more romantic than her sister, Lulu, added: "I think I am going to faint!"

"Oh, please don't," begged Lulu, and Alice didn't.

"Don't be afraid!" called Uncle Wiggily, over the sassafras bush, for it was his voice, coming so suddenly that had startled the two duck girls.

"Oh, we're so glad it's you!" quacked Lulu, when the bunny gentleman came to the cool, green, grassy place where they were sitting.

"Excuse me for listening to what you said," spoke Uncle Wiggily, with a low and polite bow of his pink, twinkling nose. "But I could not help hearing. And I can't imagine," he added, looking at the not very clear rag doll, with one shoe button eye, "I can't imagine why you call that doll the 'dearest thing.' Nor yet why you speak of her as such a good jumper. I never saw a jumping doll."

"Oh, but Priscilla Applecake is the dearest doll; isn't she, Lulu?" quacked Alice.

"She is, indeed," answered Lulu. "And would you like to see her jump, Uncle Wiggily?"

"It would give me great pleas-

Book Reviews

In spite of the fact that hearts may break while waiting for it, idealists still cry for the moon; and as most idealists are young and youth is particularly anxious to obtain that which is nearest and most unfamiliar, such young persons are as slow to realize as they are willing to combat, "the width of the world between."

This fair, far moon is the theme chosen by the author of "The House of Dreams Come True" and "The Splendid Folly," in her latest book, "The Moon Out of Reach." "Out of Reach," yet shimmering tantalizingly before the yearning eyes of idealistic youth (sometimes with a cloud between)—how old, and yet how new a topic! In the case of "Nan" Pedler, it is love which seems so near and yet so far, the man being separated from her by a marriage as transparent, and a moral code as translucent as both of these are solid barriers to her happiness.

But having finally despaired of the moon Nan at last takes to flight, a flight wherein she learns, as others have before her, that the moon, at its best, is but an elusive reflection of the sun. With this discovery the plot untangles, and the thread of its story stretches smoothly to an end.

FALSE ALARM

Down along the Miami river in Florida the natives are not usually easily scared, but one night the conversation turned to spirit manifestations and one man spoke up:

"Don't believe in them," he stated, "but I did once. One night I wakes up in my cabin and hears somethin' slooshin' across the floor. Spooks, I thinks it was so creepy-like. Scared? Well, I reckon. But I gets the nerve to crawl out of bed an' to light a match and then I'm cert'nly plumb ashamed of myself an' I ain't never believed in spirits since."

"Why, it weren't nothin' in the world except jest a big, common, mean, sneaky rattlesnake."

WHOO!

A patient, escaped from an insane asylum, was at last discovered in earnest conversation with a colored guard at a military encampment. By means of signs behind the man's back, the attendants were at last able to capture him. Then one of them happened to glance toward the guard and demanded in astonishment:

"Why, man, what's the matter with you? You're trembling and the sweat is pouring off your face."

"Yassir," gulped the negro. "Boss, after dat feller been talkin' to me five minutes I knowed one of us was crazy, and now I've found out it's him, I see so relieved—so relieved!"

U. S. POST SERVICE HUGE CONVENTION FORCE TO MEET MANY DRAINS

Many Peculiar Problems Are Brought to Department to Be Acted Upon

By J. E. JONES Special to The Evening News WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—H. B. Thayer, president of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, calls attention to a fact that must have been known to most people though it is questionable whether very many have stopped to mentally digest its tremendous significance. "The Bell System is the only organization, outside the federal government, which carries the whole responsibility for national service," says Mr. Thayer. He defines the difference in the case of the telegraph service by showing that there is more than one company. The railroads, he points out, cover only certain sections of the country. Just as the post office department reaches into every section of the country so does the Bell system serve the most populated as well as the most remote regions. In accepting its responsibility for national service the post office department places its facilities within the reach of all. Practically every annual report made by a postmaster general has contained an explanation for the postal deficit for the period it covers, and a complaint from the head of the department that such should not be the fact. But the case is different with the telephone company. Listen in: "Every business enterprise must make money if it is sound," observes President Thayer.

Is There Any Difference? Imagine what the 240,000 stockholders of that company would say to their executives if there was a deficit year after year, as is the case with the post office. "Is there any difference in interest between the public and our stockholders?" asks Mr. Thayer. "I cannot see any," he answers in the next sentence. "If we serve our stockholders wisely and efficiently, we shall render the largest benefits to the public. The success of the company depends upon the measure of good will of the community which it can get and hold." After recounting how the company must keep pace with every need of the country for telephones, he added: "We must make our charges low enough to enable every person who ought to have a telephone, to have one, and at the same time we must earn enough to attract capital to take care of this growth."

"It requires no supporting proofs to make it certain that the Bell system does all the things that are stated above. It sounds simple enough, but it is really a body of less than half a hundred executives in control of a private business like the telephone. Why, then, cannot the government do as well? Echo answers—why? Dame Experience points to the shipping board, with its boats wallowing in stormy financial seas that are threatening to wreck the whole American nation unless it is rescued. It can be unloaded onto private ownership by aid of a ship subsidy. And history fairly cackles at the mention of Mr. Burleson, who, as postmaster general, ran the telephone and telegraph lines at a loss; and Mr. McAdoo, who kept on raising rates and running farther and farther in the hole all the time that the government operated the railroads. The "responsibility for national service" is filled with peculiar problems, and it is interesting to find out how private concerns are able to meet their responsibilities to the public.

In contrast to this optimistic document from private business life are the floods of cases wherein congress is constantly being told of the failure of the political system. It seems to all harken back to a sentence in one of President Harding's first messages in which he agreed that "what we need is more business in government and less government in business."

Post Office Rent The postmaster general rounded up his inspectors the other day, and among other things in the way of instructions imparted to the sleuths was the warning that "great pressure must be brought to bear to keep the rentals within bounds until such time as the government, by appropriation and enactment, shall entirely do away with the policy of leasing."

At the present time there are several considerations that influence the location of a site and the building of local post office buildings. Receipts of the office must total a sum sufficient to put the office in a certain "class." After that the congressman needs a certain amount of cajoling, and then he proceeds to exercise whatever pull he may possess in order to get a bill through congress. If he belongs to the majority party there is a probability that he may work the bill past the legislative pitfalls and keep the proposition from being buried in the pigeon-holes of the post office, treasury and other departments.

But that is not all of the story. The custom is to build all new post office buildings "in keeping with the dignity of a rich government."

Chamber of Commerce Is Back of Erection of Giant Structure

By HORACE M. COATS For International News Service. INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 3.—Indianapolis, "logical convention city," within the next few years will have a $4,000,000 hall to be used by various organizations which select the Hoosier capital for their conventions, if plans formulated by the Indianapolis Chamber of Commerce are carried to completion.

A plan has been suggested and is being considered seriously by the city administration and the officials of the commerce chamber whereby the city would stand one-half the cost of construction of the hall, the other half to be financed through the sale of bonds to various citizens of Indianapolis.

It is planned to have bonds retired in twenty years, paying them off from rental received from organizations using the building as their meeting place. As soon as the bonds have been retired use of the building would be tendered for conventions free of charge.

Four Stories Planned Tentative plans for the convention hall call for a four-story building to be situated within five minutes' walk from Illinois and Washington streets, the city's busiest corner, and easily accessible to all hotels and railroad and interurban stations.

The first floor of the building would be used as an exposition room for industrial displays and automobile shows, while the other three stories would be devoted to dining rooms and private meeting places, with one large room, seating approximately 20,000 persons, occupying one entire floor.

According to commerce chamber officials, if the city declines to carry through the proposed program of paying one-half the construction costs, an effort will be made to finance the proposition through sale of bonds for the entire amount.

Construction of such a building has become necessary, according to officials of the Chamber of Commerce, following selection of Indianapolis as the site of an unusually large number of national and state conventions.

Old Hall Inadequate Experiences in the past have demonstrated the lack of proper facilities for handling conventions—costly renting such halls as are available being almost prohibitive. Historic Tomlinson hall, scene of many a turbulent political convention, followed by church and lodge gatherings, is being passed up now for other sites more modern.

More and more Indianapolis is becoming known as the "Convention City." Although the Chamber of Commerce has expended very little effort toward obtaining construction of a city, due to lack of funds for operating a convention bureau, each delegate from Indianapolis to conventions in other cities takes it upon himself to boost for the Hoosier capital for the next meeting place.

A glance backward for a period of one year and a glimpse into the future of the city, taking its place among the larger cities of the nation in extending real Hoosier hospitality to visitors.

Some of the gatherings scheduled for Indianapolis in the future are:

July 18 to 20, State Firemen's Association; 1600 visitors expected.

August 7 to 9, National Association of Piano Tuners; 500 visitors expected.

September 13 to 14, Indiana Bankers' association; 1000 visitors expected.

October 17 and 18, Improved Order of Red Men Great Council; 1400 visitors expected.

January, 1924, United Mine Workers of America; 2000 visitors expected.

CHANGE IN RETAIL PRICE OF FOOD IS REPORTED

Increase of One to Three Per Cent Is Shown by Figures Compiled

By U. S. Press Association WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—The United States Department of Labor has completed the compilation showing changes in the retail cost of food in twenty-two representative cities of the United States.

During the month from May 15, 1922, to June 15, 1922, eighteen of the twenty-two cities increased everywhere from one to three per cent.

For the year period, June 15, 1921, to June 15, 1922, nineteen of the twenty-two cities decreased as follows: Norfolk, 8 per cent; Providence, 6 per cent; Bridgeport, Manchester and Pittsburgh, 5 per cent; Cincinnati, Portland, Maine, 4 per cent; Dallas, Kansas City and Washington, D. C., 3 per cent; Chicago, Fall River, Newark, and New Haven, 2 per cent; Atlanta, Baltimore, New York and Scranton, 1 per cent. In Richmond there was a decrease of less than five-tenths of 1 per cent.

Rochester and Milwaukee, however, increased 2 per cent, and Philadelphia, 43 per cent. As compared with the average cost in the year 1913, the retail cost of food on June 15, 1922, was 55 per cent higher in Richmond; 50 per cent in Washington, D. C.; 47 per cent higher in Scranton; 46 per cent in New York; 45 per cent in Baltimore and Chicago; 44 per cent in Cincinnati and Philadelphia; 43 per cent in Milwaukee; 41 per cent in Atlanta, Dallas and Providence; 40 per cent in Fall River; 30 per cent in Pittsburgh; 28 per cent in Kansas City and Manchester; 27 per cent in Newark and New Haven. Prices were not obtained from Bridgeport, Norfolk, Portland, Maine, and Rochester in 1913.

Hence, no comparison of the nine-year period can be given for these cities.

England Faces Drought Grave fears are being expressed that the serious drought of 1921 will be repeated this summer, in southern and eastern England, American Commercial Attaché Walter S. Tower has informed the department of commerce.

Foods Along Baltic By the time a 15 cent can of tomatoes reaches Riga it sells for 60 cents, and this is the reason why American canned vegetables are not more widely used throughout the Baltic states, reports Trade Commissioner H. Lawrence Groves.

Promise Rich Harvest Nothing but encouragement comes out of the Ontario crop report for May, and the prospects are favorable for fairly good crops throughout the province, according to the department of commerce.

Wish They Had Groves Cuban orange and grape fruit planters are repenting in leisure. If an orange or a grape fruit tree grew as fast as sugar cane, there would be less remorse. When sugar prices in the United States began to rise and then skyrocket to the well-remembered thirty cents vast stretches of Cuban orange groves were torn up and planted in sugar cane; other groves were abandoned entirely and have received no care for the past three or four years, says Consul Horace J. Dickinson at Antilla, Cuba.

Sicilian Lemons The annual production of lemons in Sicily is about 8,000,000 boxes, each containing 300 or 360 lemons. Approximately 20 per cent of the entire yield is exported to the United States.

Needs American Sugar A decree has been issued by the German government discontinuing the necessity of import licenses for foreign sugar and providing for its free admission. American Consul Donigan, Konigsberg, has informed the department of commerce. A great scarcity of sugar exists at present throughout East Prussia, and local wholesale dealers believe that an excellent chance exists for American exporters to sell sugar if they can compete with English prices.

COMMENT THAT'S ALL

Tia Juana is Disgusting Coronado Most Delightful Hitting the Trail of Hiram There's Only One Spreckels

By Gil A. Cowan DID you ever visit Tia Juana, alias Tijuana? Well, we did, and here's how. Stopping on this side of the line to register at the U. S. customs office there a car was piloted across the boundary into Old Mexico and it never stopped until back in this country.

Don't for a minute think it was fear of anything that kept the motor running. Simply sheer disgust of the louisiest town in this neck of the woods. Some day California is going to get the United States to buy that southern end of the peninsula and bring it to life.

Nothing but graft exists in Tia Juana, believe me. Even the bartenders in the dives live on this side of the line. Returning from the ridiculous to the sublime we visited Coronado Tuesday afternoon and there you have a real, refined beach with an altogether different class of people than you find at some of the favorite resorts around Los Angeles.

There is a charm about Coronado that makes one wish it was part of Glendale. It has the same class of people as those living here, possibly a little wealthier, but of same high caliber. And there are no undesirable at Coronado, while lots of kiddies play around in the sand. Strange to say there were three ministers disporting themselves in the water the afternoon I visited there.

One of them remarked after a short swim that he was short-winded. His congregation ought to appreciate that! It affords a person a great deal of pleasure to follow in the footsteps of a great politician and hear the public comment on his speeches.

That was the case of our trailing Hiram Johnson. Some places he had not arrived. Others he had been and spoken. At Sacramento there were more than 2000 people out to cheer him at the train. In San Francisco he was warmly welcomed.

In Los Angeles, of course, he received a tremendous ovation, while at San Juan Capistrano there was a delegation of Santa Ana folks ready to greet him as he returned from a great conquest in San Diego.

With the Spreckels interests in the southern city opposing him, the senator is carrying practically all of the population for Spreckels exacts his toll from everything in San Diego, it would seem. Actually, if Mr. Spreckels appreciated the humor of all of this we think he would change his name to John Smith. Then he could claim it was some other Smith. As it is there is only one Spreckels.

Hiram Johnson knows there is only one Spreckels and that is the reason he single shots on him and one or two others in this campaign. People know whom he means when he mentions their names. They know, too, what interests these men have to protect.

Yet, for all of that, one must admire the zood in each person as it is evidenced. Mr. Spreckels is responsible for Coronado. He gave Balboa park its great organ besides arranging the finances for the San Diego exposition.

Then there is the Spreckels Theatre, the Spreckels building the Spreckels industries and the Spreckels newspapers, all of which have aided the building of San Diego. All of which makes it seem that fortune favors some people! THEIR MONTHLY FUNERAL A new collector was sent with a bill to the Spender family's home. "Did you get the money?" asked the boss, when he came back. "No, sir," said the new collector. "I saw a piece of crap on their door and I didn't want to intrude on their grief." "Grief, hell," said the boss. "You go right back there and get the money. Those people hang a piece of crap on their door the first of every month."

GREAT PICNIC ON ADMISSION DAY IS PROPOSED

Glendale Exchange Club to Stage Monster Gathering at New City Park

Admission Day, September 12, will be observed in this vicinity by a gigantic picnic in the new un-named municipal park under the auspices of the Glendale Exchange Club.

This organization yesterday noon in the Broadway Inn, 637 East Broadway, endorsed this project which was recommended for their approval by George Whitaker of 400 East Broadway, chairman of a committee to raise funds with which to send Capt. W. B. Kelly of 106 West Broadway, president of the club, to the national convention in Louisville.

Mr. Whitaker suggested a monster carnival, which might be attended by 4000 or 5000 people and in which all other organizations of Glendale would be invited to participate.

"I believe we can make this one of the biggest things that Glendale has seen for a long time," declared President Kelly. That the banks seem to be unanimously opposed to remaining open after 12 o'clock on Saturday afternoon was the substance of a report made by G. C. McConnell of 623 East Broadway, chairman of a committee which was appointed to investigate.

James Howarth stated that the banks had come to the conclusion that very little money is now going to Los Angeles because the banks here are not open Saturday afternoon. He said that George H. Thomas of the Brand Boulevard Branch of the Los Angeles Trust & Savings Bank had informed him that only seven pay checks cashed in Los Angeles last Saturday and coming back to Glendale from the clearing house had been signed by Glendale employees.

Dr. Henry R. Harrower moved that a postcard questionnaire should be sent to each merchant in Glendale to ascertain their opinion on the subject.

Old Guard Leads Supporter of Wets ST. LOUIS, Aug. 3.—Overcoming his opponent's early lead, R. R. Brewster, "old guard" Republican candidate for the United States senatorial nomination in Tuesday's primary today was leading William Sacks, the "wet" candidate, by approximately 10,000 votes.

Brewster's lead was expected to be maintained as the precincts missing are in the country, where he showed his strength. United States Senator James A. Reed was leading Breckenridge Long by a similar majority and was practically conceded to have won the Democratic nomination.

The senator maintained his lead throughout the count of the votes. First results were announced in St. Louis and Kansas City, where Reed established a 50,000 plurality—too great for Long to overcome.

The tabulated vote today with 10 counties lacking complete figures was: Reed, 171,068; Long, 158,281; Reed majority, 12,787. In many of the country districts, Long ran so far ahead of Reed that it kept the result in constant doubt throughout the count. The returns came in slowly and it was not until this morning that an accurate indication could be determined.

Man on His Way to Work Fatally Beaten CHICAGO, Aug. 3.—Robert Johnson, a carpenter working in the Illinois Central shops at Burnside, was beaten to death today by four men who attacked him while he was on his way to work. After slugging Johnson, the four men fled, leaving him dying in the street. When police arrived, he was dead.

Young American Is Applauded by Rulers

LONDON—Weyland Echols, a young American who first discovered he had vocal ability while serving in the A. E. F., has started London by making his debut before the King and Queen and winning their applause. Echols, whose home is in California, stood in the wings at Daly's Theatre during a charity matinee hoping that some performer would fail to appear and that he might be given an opportunity to make his debut in London before the King and Queen. Fate was kind, and Sir Charles Hawtrey was unable to appear. On a moment's notice young Echols was substituted and won instant fame.

No Signs of Peace in Railroad Strike

CHICAGO, Aug. 3.—The strike of railway shopmen lapsed into the "drifting" stage again today following the latest attempt by President Harding to bring about a settlement. No signs of peace are evident, and so far as is known here, no important moves are contemplated. Every indication here today pointed to a battle to the bitter end. Although the policy committee of the shop crafts unions has accepted President Harding's settlement proposal, which the rail executives rejected, the acceptance was not without reservations. In the reply dispatched to the president at the close of the committee's two-day session, the shopmen made it plain that their acceptance was conditional upon recognition of the union's interpretation of the plan's provisions. One interpretation of the plan is that the Pennsylvania railroad would be required to abandon its plan of "company unions" among their employees and deal with the regularly established craft unions. Another was the assumption that national adjustment boards would be established to relieve the United States railway labor board of all disputes except those relating to wages.

J. C. Pollock Tells Of Oldsmobile Sales

J. C. Pollock of J. C. Pollock company, Oldsmobile and Columbia dealer at 208-210 West Broadway, says "that he is selling Oldsmobiles in spite of the fact that he is unable to get enough cars to supply the demand. "Deals just made," he states, "are Charles W. Kent of 107 Arden avenue, who purchased a new super-sport model, and Mrs. J. L. Clark, 525 North Maryland avenue, who purchased a four-passenger twin four coupe. Mr. Kent is pleased with his car and says "it is the nicest performing car he ever drove."

New Premier and His Cabinet Upon Strike

PEKING, Aug. 3.—Wang Chung Hui, newly appointed premier, and his cabinet have gone on a strike. President Li Yuan Hung will adjust the matter by submitting to parliament late this week the name of Tang Shao Yi, southern leader, as premier. Wang Chung Hui has agreed to serve in the interim. Tang Shao Yi is now at Canton. Dr. Yen, who resigned as foreign minister, is said to desire appointment as minister to the United States, and Alfred Sze, former representative at Washington, is proposed as foreign minister.

CLEARY TEAM AND LOCALS BATTLE NEXT SUNDAY

Glendale Has Tough Fight Ahead; Lefty Herman to Join With Merchants

The toughest game so far on this year's schedule is set for Sunday afternoon, 3 o'clock, at Park and San Fernando road, according to John A. Cobb, manager of the Glendale Merchants' Baseball club.

Next Sunday the Merchants are to tackle the Cleary Athletic club team of Los Angeles which, as Cobb expressed it, is "walking away with most everything they run up against."

It is probable that Wes Aageson will pitch for the locals, although Walt Heidler may be selected. Trautwein, former pitcher on the Lincoln High school team of Los Angeles, is expected to hurl for the visitors, and for this reason Cobb will probably send his long time rival, Aageson, against the Los Angeles boy.

Get Fast Company The Clearys are the team which gets several of the big leaguers when the season closes. Bobby Meusel is one of the standbys of the Los Angeles team during that period, and other big-time boys join up for the winter months.

It is rumored that Buck Weaver, one-time star player on the Chicago White Sox, is playing with the Clearys. When a team begins to sport such material as that, there is tough going in sight for the opposing team, and Cobb is getting his Merchants all keyed up for a real battle.

One of the recent developments which brightens the horizon for the local team is the fact that Lefty Herman, now with Omaha in the Western league, is said to have signified his intention of joining up with the Glendale Merchants for the winter, as soon as the present season ends.

Lefty Herman is a former Glendale boy. Year before last he played with Glendale Union High school, making a brilliant showing. Last year he was with the Edmonton team, Western Canadian league. After that he went to Detroit, and was sent to Omaha.

Some Stick Record In his present position as first baseman or outfielder with Omaha he is making the willow weep to the tune of a batting average of .490, being classed as the premier swatter in the league.

Next year Lefty may have a run for his batting average. Ira King, local catcher, who is to join the Tulsa, Oklahoma team next fall, will be in the same league, and King is a mean baby with the stick. Last Sunday he got five hits out of five times at bat, and this 1000 per cent record raised his batting average to something above .500, according to Manager Cobb.

The Merchants have now won twelve games out of fourteen played, and are beginning to be recognized all over the southwest as a dangerous opponent. They are spreading the fame of Glendale as a baseball center, it is claimed, just as it is already known as the ideal place to live.

"The team is a good advertisement for Glendale," says Cobb, "and deserves your support. We are hoping for a big crowd next Sunday."

C. of C. Receives Additional Members The Glendale Chamber of Commerce has received the following new members in the past few days:

Ken Williams Takes Lead In Home Runs

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 3.—Ken Williams took the lead among major league home run hitters Wednesday afternoon when he knocked out his twenty-eighth round trip blow of the season. The run was made in the fourth inning off Pitcher Rommell of the Athletics. It was Williams' sixth home run in as many days.

BENNY LOSING HIS GRIP, DECLARES EX-CHAMPION

Jack M'Auliffe Says Leonard Has to Dry Out Too Much for Weight

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—Benny Leonard is still the lightweight champion, but he is slipping back to the "outpointing" type of title holder in the opinion of many of the experts who saw him shade Lew Tendler.

"As long as Leonard can defeat all his contenders on points he will be the champion, but he will not rank with the slugging champions who held the title ahead of him," Jack McAuliffe, the retired undefeated champion, said today. He is not strong enough at 135 pounds to knock out a rugged fighter of the Tendler type.

"Jack Britton hasn't a punch left, but he gets by on his brains and a skilled pair of boxing hands. Leonard can do the same thing until he meets an opponent who can't be rattled by a line of demoralizing chatter.

"Tendler is the only outstanding contender in the lightweight division and Leonard will have to fight him again if he wants to earn more big money.

Judge Landis Gives League Explanation SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 3.—Directors of the Pacific coast league in session here were addressed in a telegram from Judge K. M. Landis that the league need not sever relations with the Portland baseball club because of the decision of Judge Landis barring William H. Klepper, Portland magnate, from baseball, so long as Klepper's activities are confined to "purely corporate administrative affairs."

The rule was in answer to a request from Pacific coast magnates for a definition of Klepper's status. The telegram said:

"The decision of May 24 (barring Klepper) dealt with baseball matters as distinguished from purely internal corporate administrative affairs. It prohibits all players, officials, agents and employees of all leagues and clubs from recognizing Klepper, and dealing with him in respect to such baseball matters and in this respect it applies to officials, agents and employees of Portland and to players on the Portland team.

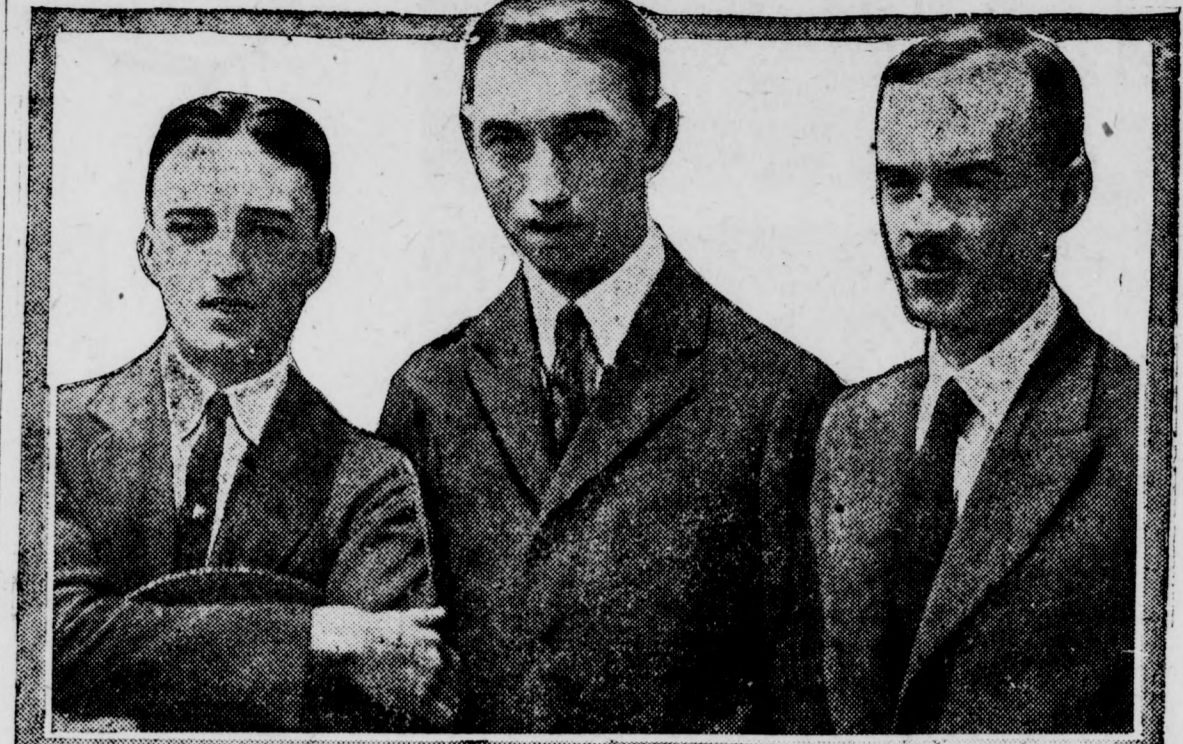

Therefore the Pacific coast league is not required to cease relations with Portland if Klepper's activities as president are limited to purely corporate administrative affairs."

The World Over

By FRANKLIN B. MORSE. PACIFIC SPORTS SERVICE

The seventeenth week in the Pacific Coast league was played through without any changes in the relative standings of the eight teams, although the Los Angeles club succeeded in slightly diminishing the gap that exists between it and the Vernon team just ahead.

A comparison of the standings with the same time last season shows the following differences:

Table comparing Pacific Coast League standings from 1921 and 1922.

It will be noted that the San Francisco club has a bigger lead last year at this time than they have at present, and yet they managed only to barely finish in the first division when the final dash for the pennant was over.

The managers of the Seals have learned a lesson by which they seem to be guarding against a repetition.

Last season the San Franciscans feeling safe in their lead decided to depend on the prowess of a couple of pitchers to pull them through to the end. As it turned out, these two supposedly dependable moundsmen failed to stand up under the final strain and the team went to pieces as no provision had been made for the emergency, and then it was too late to call for outside help.

The Seals now are fortified as to their pitching staff and the work will be divided and no particular strain placed on one or two pitchers as was the case last year.

Under this policy the San Francisco management expects to stay out in front, or at least always keep in trailing distance of it. It has it all figured out that the way is clear to the winning of the 1922 championship.

If things work out as they are expected to do by the time Sunday night rolls around, the Seals are expected to have materially fattened their averages and percentages during the 18th week of play at the hands of Sacramento which has been the weakest link in the coast chain.

Los Angeles should have its hands full against Salt Lake City providing the latter plays up to its known capabilities, but like the Oaklanders, the folks from Utah have shown a disposition on occasions to play ducks and drakes with the so-called "punch."

Some of the series being played this week are of primal importance unless one of the first division teams should utterly fall down, which is not at all likely.

A number of Los Angeles county swimmers are planning to enter the annual national senior driving championship meet to be held at Coronado Beach on Sunday, August 20. The affair, which will be conducted under the sanction of the Amateur Athletic Union, is to be staged by the Coronado Tent City Athletic club.

Coronado will also be the scene, on August 26 and 27, of the Pacific Coast Swimming championship meet, which is also to be run under A. A. U. rules. Applications for entry in either of the above named events should communicate with M. C. Pfefferkorn, First National Bank, San Diego.

Art Griggs, Los Angeles' fence busting first baseman, continues to "stick around" with the leaders in the Coast league in home runs as well as in the batting percentages. He is now tied for first place in the matter of smacking out circuit wallpops with the Salt Lake crew—Sand, Strand and Schick—with a grand total of eighteen. It is estimated that, were Griggs playing in Salt Lake where the pitchers become woody and the fence is near, his mark would be at least thirty. He is easily the hardest hitter in the circuit. At present Sandow is sixth in the league's official batting list with .359.

ACCEPT NO SUBSTITUTES A small boy entered the grocery store and demanded in shrill tones: "Ma wants two pounds of butter exactly like what you sent her last. If it ain't exactly like that, she won't take it."

"Some grocers," remarked the proprietor of the store blandly, turning to a group of onlookers, "some persons in my business don't like customers who are particular, but I delight to serve them."

"Be sure you get the right kind," reiterated the boy, while everybody listened. "A lot of pa's relatives are visitin' at our house, and ma doesn't want 'em to come again."

COBBLER WAS HONEST A Warsaw, Ind., man sent a shoe to the cobbler for repairs. The cobbler found a hundred-dollar bill hidden beneath the insole which he returned to the owner when he called for the shoe, thus maintaining the century-old reputation of cobblers for honesty. The owner had hidden it there, then forgotten it.

Business Property

Last Opportunity to Get In
On South Brand

Pacific Electric tracks on S. Brand to be lowered to street level. Street to be paved from curb to curb. Improvements to start at once. Big advance in prices on South Brand business properties will take place at once. Already a number of properties on South Brand have increased several thousand dollars. South Brand is the logical direction for Glendale's business growth. Natural trend to be toward Los Angeles which is Glendale's greatest magnet.

Because you have seen South Brand property unused for business for years, do not think it always will continue so. This is why the original holder seldom makes any profit from real estate.

"THE VALUE IS SO CLOSE TO HIS NOSE THAT HE DOES NOT SEE IT"

8 REAL VALUES AT OLD PRICES

These values present wonderful opportunity for handsome profits at quick turnover. Unusual terms for business property.

We have a corner 3 blocks from Broadway on Brand, 50 ft. frontage—the best corner buy in Glendale, $14,000, $3000 down and long terms on balance. That surely has an appeal to the quick profit taker. Imagine where the price will go on that one with the Brand improvements.

An inside 50 feet adjoining lot, $10,000.

A 50 ft. lot with dandy house for $12,000, only five blocks from Broadway; will rent for $50.

We also have a corner on Colorado and Brand at $150,000.

The first glance will convince you, Mr. Profit-Taker, that you are the rightful owner. The only thing between yourself and a nice little five to ten thousand profit this fall is your "John Henry."

Give us a ring on the phone or drop in at 508 South Brand boulevard, and while you are making out your check we will tell you of a few conditions that will make South Brand the ultimate business center of Glendale.

MUNICIPAL POOL POPULAR PLACE FOR YOUTHS

One Big Splash All Day Long in City's Plunge at Patterson Park

The liveliest place in Glendale right now is the municipal swimming pool at Patterson Park. Here each day several hundred youngsters are having the time of their lives. The sound of their splashes and shrieks may be heard all over the city park.

The fact that the bathhouse will not be completed for at least a week and that carpenters are all busy about the premises does not seem to interfere with the enjoyment of its youthful patrons.

Manager Roy W. Biddlecom of 718 Virginia Place is finding it necessary to work about fourteen hours a day in an attempt to catch up with the work. He has not only been supervising the "dishing out" of the bathing suits and towels, but has been acting as an inspector on the job for the city—thereby saving the city about $175 a month.

George Shell of 718 Virginia Place also has his hands full as a life guard. No, his professional services are not expected to be called for during the season, but he is quite busy finding a place in the small plunge for all who wish to be accommodated. He is thinking of getting them in with a can opener.

Leave Valuables Behind
 The plant laundry is not yet in operation and probably will not be for about a week. Meanwhile, the Glendale Laundry, which is only a few blocks away, had made a special price on the laundry work and is returning it in a few hours.

So far the twenty-five dozen men's and boys' suits and the fifteen dozen women's and girls' suits have proved adequate. Many of the boys have their own suits and prefer to save 5 cents by bringing them along. Adults who bring their own suits also will save a nickel. Regular prices are 15 cents for those under 16 and 25 cents for those over 16 years of age.

A special request has been issued by Mr. Biddlecom that youngsters, who use the bathhouse, should wear all of their clothes home and not leave some of them behind. An assortment of garments is starting to accumulate already. A collection of watches, rings and jewelry also is being started. It has been requested also that patrons should take their valuables home with them.

It is a long way from the wigwam to the congressional li-

REALTY BOARD TO HAVE BARBECUE AT WOODLANDS

 He mentioned the city picnic to be held on August 16 to which every one in Glendale is invited. He then brought up the baseball team which, he said, is a wonderful advertisement for Glendale. It is his expectation that the team will soon be recognized as the best semi-professional team in southern California, or in the entire southwest, and he believes that it should have proper support from the local people.

Discusses Sewer System
 In speaking of the sewer system which is now under considerable discussion by various organizations, Mr. Reeves stated that an extensive street improvement campaign is planned by the city, and that in his opinion, a sewer system should be laid before the paving is put in, to avoid tearing up the pavement within a few years to lay pipes.

It is his wish to expect Los Angeles to provide for its sewer program," he stated, "and I want to ask the support and cooperation of you people in securing a system of our own."

The poor condition of Glendale boulevard into Edendale was mentioned and after considerable discussion, a motion was made and passed providing for the appointment of a committee to take up the matter and try in some way to get the condition remedied.

W. L. Twining of the F. P. Newport company then told the board of the glories of Verdugo Woodlands.

"We have the only sewer system in Glendale," he declared. "That is, the pipes have been laid along the length of Canada boulevard. Some day we'll have our disposal plant and then we will be able to use the system."

After discussing the activated sludge system as a means of sewage disposal, and his hopes for its immediate installation for the Verdugo Woodlands, he spoke of the new city park.

"You people don't know what you've got us through," he said. "If you've got us through, you have a source of water which is enough to supply the city of Glendale. I don't care how low it grows, but a gravity system which will not require lifting the water."

Invitation to Barbecue
 It was then that Mr. Twining invited the reators to be the guests of the Newport company at the barbecue, which will be held next Tuesday evening. Every member of the board, who was present, signified his intention of being there.

J. F. McClish then brought up the project of the proposed electrification of the steam railroad on Glendale avenue, forming a connecting link with the Los Angeles yellow car line. Glendale people who are interested in the project, he said, are invited to attend a meeting of the Montrose-La Crescenta Improvement association to be held tonight at the La Crescenta school house.

About $5000 had been pledged for the electrification of the road up until last Thursday, he stated, and by now a total of nearly $10,000 has been reached, according to his estimate. Twenty-five thousand dollars is necessary to finance the scheme, it is stated.

His talk provoked a considerable discussion of rates and the proposed zoning, and P. L. Hatch, general manager of the Glendale & Montrose railway was reached by telephone and asked to explain the situation to the reaty board.

Mr. Hatch then appeared at the Chamber of Commerce hall, where the meeting was in session and explained in detail the zoning plan and the fares to be charged, both cash and by book, subject to the approval of the railroad commission. These figures, he stated, were what had been decided upon by the railroad officials, and were subject to approval or change by the commission.

No decision was reached by the board as an organization as to any part they might or might not take in the electrification project.

Bible School Work Proves Interesting
 On Tuesday night the closing exercises of the Daily Vacation Bible School were held at the Presbyterian church. The program had been planned by the teachers of the school and was in charge of Miss Anita Fletcher, the principal of the school. The exercises were most interesting and gave to the audience a portrayal of the work of the school as it is actually carried on.

TELLS OF SCHOOL CONDITIONS AT EXCHANGE CLUB

Richardson D. White, City Superintendent, In Plea for More Bonds

 fourteen or fifteen years of age and would have to go out to work.

Tells of Organizations
 "About ten years ago the National Educational Association, which is the big organization of teachers and educators in the United States, decided that school systems were not organized on the basis of the development of the child. A committee was appointed, consisting of very prominent educators about whose opinion there could be no question."

Mr. White digressed a little here to explain the fact that children between the ages of 12 and 15 are undergoing a physical, mental and spiritual change which makes them different from children under 12 and different from juveniles over 15. He said that the committee had taken the fact into consideration and had recommended a re-organization of all school systems on the basis of six years of elementary school, three years of junior high school, and three years of the senior high school.

Mr. White paid tribute to the progressiveness of his predecessors in office by calling attention to the fact that they had tried to follow the lead of many other communities throughout the country and adopt this recommendation for the reorganization of the school system but had met a stumbling-block in the fact that the high school district included Rock and other territory outside the grammar school district.

Predicts Crowded Schools
 According to Mr. White, 7000 or 8000 more pupils have come to Glendale since the $260,000 grammar school bonds were approved by the voters. He predicted that most of the school buildings in the elementary system would be crowded again when schools open.

Three recommendations were made by Superintendent White: First, that enough additional bonds should be voted to provide accommodations for 2500 students at the new high school plant on East Broadway and Verdugo Road; second, that a high school site should be acquired in the northwest section of Glendale; third, that steps should be taken to consolidate the grammar and high school boards of education and to operate the present high school plant as a junior high school.

In Mr. White's opinion this change would permit the present Wilson avenue intermediate elementary school and relieve the congestion at the Colorado street school and the Doran street school which otherwise will need additions before long.

"We have reached the crucial period," remarked Mr. White. "We have reached the crisis. We are going to decide either correct or wrongly. We can build a school system as it is, or we can look back with pride upon our handiwork. Glendale is a city of homes and children. If we are going to build a large city, we have got to look at things in a large way. I think that you can see that this problem is vital in the development of Glendale."

Settlement of Street Car Strike Looms

CHICAGO, Aug. 3.—Officials of the Chicago surface lines were expected to submit a proposal for the settlement of the street car strike to union officials at a conference to be held this afternoon.

Assumption of negotiations gave rise to the hope that the strike which began at 4 o'clock Tuesday morning may end within forty-eight hours.

Details of the proposal to be submitted by the company have not been learned, but it is said to provide for a wage scale of 68 cents per hour which would be a reduction of 12 cents an hour as compared with the scale in effect before the strike was called. Certain concessions as to hours of labor and working conditions also were expected to be proposed.

Union chiefs were not optimistic as they entered the conference. "I am not very hopeful of a settlement," said William Quinlan, head of the street carmen's union. "I shall listen to the company's offer today and carry it back to the men. They will cast a referendum vote. I don't look for a resumption of car service by Saturday, but if the terms are accepted we can resume service within twenty-four hours."

The first move by shop employees now at work on the railroads to gain attention of the labor board was made today when shopmen, supervisors and stationary engineers, firemen and oilers of the Santa Fe lines, in a telegram from Topeka, addressed a resolution to the board asking that they be guaranteed their jobs and seniority when the strike is over.

The telegram said that the strikers have "openly threatened to run out of the various shops all men now employed therein," and asked that the labor board insure protection against such an eventuality.

California Leader Says He Has Nothing to Apologize For in Long Record

 come up against the opposition newspapers and their timid echoes."

According to Senator Johnson, if he paused to vindicate himself before all the malicious attacks made upon him by his opponents, he would have no time to accomplish constructive work.

The United States senate is the most powerful legislative body in the world, in the opinion of Senator Johnson. He remarked that it was the most peculiar legislative body of its kind in the world because its members were alternately opposing and assisting each other.

Never Rubber Stamp
 "I believe a man who accepts a public office accepts a public trust to which he should give himself without stint," declared Sen. Johnson. "I believe that he can only do this by following the dictates of his own conscience. You can make no mistake about my attitude at all. I have never been a sounding board for popular clamor. While I remain in the United States senate I will never be a rubber stamp."

With the fervor that marked his battle against the League of Nations, the senator told of his fight against the four power pact, but since that it is a closed incident he hopes that it will be all that its proponents claim. Certainly, it is not a political issue now, he said.

Of interest to his hearers was his statement on international relations. The senator from California clearly showed his desire for peace, remarking: "Every normal man hates war and every normal man prays that there may never again be intestine strife. I cannot conceive of the human being who does not hate with every fibre of his body, war."

Difference of Opinion
 Senator Johnson remarked that there was some difference of opinion as to the best method of bringing about permanent peace and that statesmen of the world were now thoroughly vindicting his stand against the Versailles Treaty and the League of Nations.

"One of the most singular things is that some of the people, who talk about peace, talk about it in such war-like terms," he remarked.

"When the time comes that civilization calls, when humanity calls, we again, you and I and the American people will decide whether we will act and no European nation shall decide for us."

"If you ever want to know how varied the resources of California, all you need to do is to deal in the making of a tariff bill," said Senator Johnson. "During the time that we have been dealing with the tariff bill, it became evident that California has more items involved than any other state in the Union."

Senator Johnson made it plain that he had thought it essential to remain in the nation's capitol while California's interests in the tariff bill were at stake and had taken up the issues of the campaign after he had been assured of their protection. He said that he had arrived in the best protected state in the Union and that substantial tariff increases had been granted by the senate on many items protected by the House. He said that this had been brought about only by the joint work in Washington of all the representatives of the people of California. He characterized the formation of this tariff bill as "the greatest constructive work that has been done in congress for our state in many, many years."

Southwest Development
 The Colorado river project is one of the most farsighted and worthwhile undertakings which has been brought up for some time, according to Senator Johnson. He said that it would furnish untold power to the southwest, would not cost the taxpayers one-quarter of a penny after the profit had been received and would provide a million acres of farm land, some of which could be given to the ex-soldiers.

Senator Johnson commented upon the proposed amendment to the constitution of the United States, introduced by him, to regulate child labor. He said that this document should not be altered for trivial causes but that he regarded the exploitation of the bodies and souls of children of more than sufficient importance for a constitutional amendment. He predicted that in good time this will be approved.

"This fight is just the old fight where two philosophies of government have come together," asserted Senator Johnson. "One side believes in exploiting men, women and children. One side believes that this government is for the few and the other that believes that this government belongs to all its people and should be maintained in behalf of all of its people."

AUTO DEALERS MEET
 The Glendale Automobile Dealers' association held its monthly meeting yesterday noon in the Broadway Inn, 637 East Broadway, and discussed matters of interest to the trade. About ten members were present. It was decided to abandon plans for a local automobile show.

DeValera Making Final Battle Stand

DUBLIN, Aug. 3.—Eamonn de Valera, chief leader of the republican irregulars, with his back to the wall, is favoring a last stand against the free state army at Clonmel, according to information received here today.

De Valera, at a council of war, urged that the irregulars give decisive battle to the free states, staking all their hopes upon this engagement. The republican chieftan was overruled by his advisers and the irregulars decided to fall back from the Clonmel sector towards Carrick-on-Suir. De Valera was described as being greatly downcast over the situation.

Free state troops are advancing on Cashel from the east and already have captured Chaor, nearby.

The free state advance continues in two directions: southward and westward.

Several civilians in Dublin were wounded early today by the explosion of a bomb.

"YOUR BEST FRIEND" FINAL SHOWING AT GLENDALE

Vera Gordon Plays Principal Role in Picture of Heart Throbs and Laughter
 "A drama of suspense, laughter and heart throbs," is the way one film connoisseur describes Vera Gordon in "Your Best Friend," to be shown for the last time tonight at the Glendale theatre.

Because of Miss Gordon's success in interpreting mother roles many motion picture enthusiasts are of the opinion that she is at least fifty years of age. However, she solemnly declares that having been born June 11, 1886 in Ekaterinosloff, Russia, she can't possibly be by the grossest exaggeration, not more than thirty-five.

In "Your Best Friend" Miss Gordon essays the role of a mother who is thrown into the maelstrom of two socially ambitious women endeavoring to climb the social ladder at her expense.

A good laugh is sunshine in a home.
 A little bird wants but a little nest.
