GLENDALE (LOS ANGELES POSTOFFICE), LOS ANGELES, COUNTY, CAL., FRIDAY, APRIL 18, 1913

NO. 52

TRUSTEES' INTERESTING SESSION.

The Trustees of the City of Glendale held an interesting session in the City Hall Monday evening, April 14, 1913. One of the principal items of business coming before the Board was the Pacific Electric Railway franchise. T. W. Watson, president of the Board, and Trustees Tower, Coker, Thompson and Lane were present, as were also Mr. Evans, city attorney; H. B. Lynch, superintendent of lighting department; O. W. Tarr, street superintendent; H. M. Miller, city marshal, and G. B. Hoffman, city treasurer.

After the reading of the minutes of the previous meeting, Attorney F. L. Muhleman, in behalf of certain property owners on Broadway, addressed the Board, asking that the Board rescind a motion carried at the previous meeting, giving H. M. Overton the right to move a building to another point on that street. The citizens concerned presented their request in the form of a petition, which was referred to a committee of the whole. However, the question was taken up later in the evening, at which time the request of the petitioners was granted, on grounds that to allow the building to be moved would be in violation of a city ordinance.

A request from the W. C. T. U. organization asking the right to suspend a banner across the street at the time of the county convention, was granted.

A communication concerning removing certain watering fountains from the streets of the city was referred to the committee on public works.

The question of granting City Recorder J. Whomes a three months' vacation and appointing a substitute to fill the office during the time of his absence came up. It was the opinion of the city attorney that Mr. Whomes would not have the power to name a judge to perform the duties of the office during the time of his absence. The discussion on that question was closed, to be taken up at the next regular meeting of the Board.

The Pacific Electric franchise was now read by Trustee Tower, and after an hour's discussion the same was adopted and ordered published in four issues of the Glendale News. The same appears on another page of this issue. Some of the questions that were discussed with considerable enthusiasm by the Trustees in behalf of the city and representatives of the P. E. company were—number of years for which franchise should be granted; giving of transfer tickets, and allowing school children to ride for half fare. Reference to the franchise as published will explain how these questions of difference were finally settled. Those of the citizens who participated in the discussion on the franchise question were Messrs. Blackburn, Vesper and Robinson.

To Trustee Coker belongs the honor of making the motion that the charter be adopted with changes as agreed upon. The motion was carried, all members of the Board voting aye.

The Board adjourned.

"CIRCLE V" IN GLENDALE.

On Tuesday afternoon, Mrs. Mattison B. Jones of Orange street presided as hostess in her artistic home, at a gathering of the members of Circle V of Temple church. Twenty-five guests from Hollywood and Glendale were present to enjoy the pleasant event.

Plank roses and ferns, prettily grouped, brightened the rooms. Sewing and music formed the afternoon's occupation, at the conclusion of which five o'clock tea was served.

Mrs. F. W. Pigg of Brand boulevard aided her sister in receiving and serving.

HIGH TEA.

In compliment of Miss Marian Patrick of Santa Barbara, Mrs. Mary Howard Gridley of 205 Brand boulevard presided as hostess of a high tea on Friday evening.

A mound of Jacquemont roses centered the beautifully arranged table. Individual favors were button-hole and corsage bouquets of roses.

Aside from the honor-guest, special guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Wash. Hunt of Pomona and Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Bartlett of 101 Brand boulevard.

The evening was devoted to an informal musical.

LECTURE ON ALASKA.

There will be a lecture on Alaska by Rev. Wm. Davies of Los Angeles, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of the First Congregational church of Glendale, Friday, April 25, at 8 p. m. A musical program will be given, to be followed by a social hour in which refreshments will be served. There will be a silver offering.

HOMKRAFT FAIR.

The Fair given Tuesday evening, April 15, was very successful, both financially and socially. A nice sum was raised for the Carpenters' Benefit Fund.

The Kraft articles which were later auctioned by Mr. L. F. Kerri were on exhibition and were examined and admired by those present. Some of the articles especially commented on were a library table made by Mr. James Dustman and bought by Mr. C. W. Ingledue. Mr. Ingledue also purchased a magazine stand made by Mr. Joe De Mueth. A telephone table made by Mr. W. M. Moore was bought by Mr. E. S. McKee. Two beautiful boxes were exhibited; a birdseye maple glove box made by Mr. E. W. Farrand was purchased by William May and a black walnut jewel box made by J. A. Tone was purchased by Miss MacDonald.

Delicious punch was served throughout the evening by Mrs. E. W. Farrand, who was assisted by Miss MacDonald and Mr. Farrand. The candy booth was very attractive and a large amount of candy was sold. The booth was in charge of Mrs. George Cleland, Mrs. John Cleland and Mrs. J. E. Jeter.

The most interesting feature of the evening was the grab sale, which was conducted by Dr. Moore. He was assisted by Mr. George Cleland, Mrs. R. S. Henry, Mr. Jeter and Mr. John C. Cleland. Many of the articles in the grab sale were donated by the merchants and many excellent values were received. Mr. Henry, the president of the Carpenters' Union, felt he had a real grievance when he "grabbed" a "no splash" cap for his hydrant, when he had just fitted his hydrants with caps a few days before. He tried again and received—a "no splash." Very careful search of his pockets brought forth another dime, which he recklessly spent for another ticket. He was a very happy man when he exchanged his ticket for a can of pears. Being very fond of pears he thought all evening of the feast he would have when he got home. When leaving time came he began looking for his pears. They could not be found, and careful inquiry brought forth the information that there was one ticket for which the duplicate could not be found and the pears being near by with no ticket on, they were given out as the missing article.

Should some of the residents be seen with queer wearing apparel, please know that they are only trying to utilize some of their purchases from the grab sale and do not have them "sat on" by a lunacy commission. Mr. Kerri was quite peeved because the baby's cap was not a good fit and Mr. Berger seemed very sorrowful for just getting a haircut so that he was unable to make use of his handsome new back comb. The lady who drew the briar pipe expects to learn to smoke. Mrs. C. B. Brace expects to begin farming in order to make use of the handsome pair of overalls which she drew.

The Grand Prize was won by Mr. J. M. MacMillan; the lucky number was drawn from the box by Mildred, the little daughter of E. S. McKee.

P. E. O. THIMBLE PARTY.

Among the pleasantest of the week's events was the thimble party given by Chapter L, P. E. O., at the home of Mrs. H. E. Bartlett, 101 Brand boulevard, when forty-five P. E. O.'s and their guests assembled there.

Numerous shower bouquets of beautiful hot-house blossoms added to the artistic appearance of the handsome rooms.

A long, pleasant afternoon of needlework was enjoyed, during which Mrs. Warren Roberts delighted her fellow-guests with a brilliant piano selection.

Dainty refreshments were served out-of-doors on the spacious veranda. The hostess was aided by Mrs. Elizabeth Brown, president of Chapter L, and by Mrs. Frank Campbell and Mrs. Robert Blackburn.

ILLNESS OF W. N. CARTER.

W. N. Carter who has been a member of the firm of Carter & Lyons, dealers in groceries, 572 West Broadway, Glendale, for some time, was taken suddenly ill the first of this week. He is now at his home in Santa Ana. The new member of the firm is Ed Johnson of Santa Ana. Mr. Johnson will move with his family to Glendale. The name of the firm will continue under the old name, Carter & Lyons.

EMILY B. RUMMELL.

Mrs. Emily Rummell of Burbank was born in England, April 15, 1840, and died at her home, Tuesday, April 8, 1913, at the age of 72 years, 11 months and 23 days. The funeral services were held Thursday morning, April 10, at 10:30 from the late residence. Interment was made in the Grandview cemetery.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE MAKES BIG GAIN.

The Chamber of Commerce of Glendale is truly one of the real live organizations of Southern California, the present membership being 410. Not many cities of a 6,000 or 7,000 population can boast of a larger membership than this. Two hundred and sixty citizens of Glendale became members of this body at the annual monthly meeting held in the Odd Fellows' Hall, Friday evening, April 11. On that evening a very spirited contest for membership came to a close. At the regular meeting on the second Friday of March it was decided to divide the membership into two divisions—one division called the "Boosters," with M. P. Harrison as captain, and the other division called the "Join Us," with T. W. Watson as captain.

As soon as these gentlemen were named as leaders of the divisions as mentioned above, work was commenced in good earnest. Harrison argued that the name "Booster" is a very appropriate one, as it suggests pushing ahead—lifting up and making progress. On the other hand, Watson argued "Join Us" signifies to lead,—to follow; unite with us; and in union there is strength. However, both captains, with their active assistants, worked early and late and did nobly in securing applications for membership. At the time of the final count Friday evening the Harrison division reported 174 new members, and the Watson division reported 236 new members.

Messrs. Harrison and Watson made timely remarks, explaining just how they set about to get applications. Watson declared that Mr. Harrison got the start at the very first of the contest, but he (Watson) continued to work hard enough to keep his opponent worried some. Harrison said the greatest inducement he and his colleagues had was that when good luck came their way they could taste chicken. The "Boosters" corrected their captain and said it was turkey we could taste. All the rivalry engaged in was of a friendly nature, and with a union of purpose to increase the membership of the Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Watson, in compliance with the original conditions of the contest, appointed a committee of five to make arrangements to prepare a banquet, which the "Join Us" bunch will furnish to the entire membership. The date and the place of this important feast will be announced later.

Refreshments, comprising lemonade and cake, were served under the direction of J. H. Livingston. Adjournment was made to meet on the second Friday of May.

BRAHM VAN DEN BERG RECITAL.

Music lovers of Glendale and vicinity received a rare treat last Thursday evening when they were permitted to hear a concert by the famous Dutch pianist, Brahm van den Berg. We are indebted for this opportunity to Mr. Spencer Robinson, Mrs. Pulliam and others who were able to secure this unusual attraction for Glendale. Brahm van den Berg was all and more than our musical votaries had looked forward to. His renditions appealed to all. A true artist, he plays with skill, ease, charm and brilliancy. The program given by Brahm van den Berg last Thursday evening was one of the greatest ever played on a concert platform and his renditions were no less than wonderful. The program follows:

SHAKESPEAREAN FESTIVAL.

The three hundred and forty-ninth anniversary of the birth of William Shakespeare will be celebrated in this city on Wednesday afternoon, April 23, when an elaborate Shakespearean Festival, similar to that staged at the Temple Auditorium last year by Mr. Frank C. Egan of the Egan School of Music and Drama, will be held.

The event will, it is understood, be given upon an even more elaborate scale than that of last season, while one year hence it is Mr. Egan's plan to have the occasion take on the magnitude of a great open-air event, similar to those presented in Chicago and other large Eastern cities each year.

ODDS AND ENDS FROM GLENDALE LODGE NO. 388.

Acting upon circulars sent out by the Grand Master of the State, calling upon all Odd Fellows lodges to be of assistance to the "flood sufferers," Glendale Lodge No. 388, came forth with a most generous donation at their last meeting, Monday evening.

Two applications for membership this week. Members of the Degree Team, take notice and be on hand Monday evening—important.

Don't forget to pack your lunch-box and join the merry throng at Echo Park on Sunday, to help Brother Roper and wife celebrate their 60th anniversary.

Mrs. Moore is quite seriously ill with pneumonia at her home, 1614 West Sixth street.

Residents of the Valley, View Street, near the San Fernando road, were quite badly alarmed over the "mad dog scare" of late. A dog belonging to Mrs. Bradley recently went mad and had to be shot, and a cow in the same vicinity met the same fate. The family had been using the milk right along. A valuable horse belonging to Mr. Kibourne, the grocer, went mad and the owner was obliged to have it killed. As this part of the valley is very thickly settled great precaution should be taken in this matter.

MISS MCCONNELL ENTERTAINS THE J. O. C. CLASS.

The regular meeting of the J. O. C. class of the First Methodist church was held Tuesday evening at the home of Miss Lila McConnell, 135 Orange street.

After a brief business session, the evening was devoted to the rendition of a literary and musical program, the talent being almost entirely confined to the class.

Miss Soper gave a very inspiring talk, which was duly appreciated by the class. At a previous special meeting it was voted that the class should give a miscellaneous program four times a year at regular intervals, that of Tuesday evening being the first of the series. These meetings promise to enhance the intellectual as well as the social standards of the class.

A very dainty luncheon was served by the hostess and the meeting was adjourned to meet with Miss Stickerman on Louise street in two weeks at which time the election of officers will take place.

SAMUEL ROTTNER.

Samuel Rottner passed away Thursday, April 10, at his home, 1545 Myrtle street, at the age of 38 years and 27 days, being born in New York, March 13, 1875. The funeral services were held Sunday morning at 10:00 from the Pulliam Undertaking Parlor. Interment in the Home of Peace cemetery.

H. H. LOUTZENHISER.

H. H. Loutzenhiser of Los Angeles died at the Glendale Sanatorium, Friday, April 11, 1913. The services were held Monday afternoon at 2:30 from the Pulliam Undertaking Parlor, and the remains laid to rest in the Forest Lawn cemetery.

GLENDALE HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

On Saturday evening the girls of the Glendale Union High School and their friends, numbering one hundred and eighty, gathered together for that jolliest of occasions, the "Girls' annual stunt party."

In costumes fantastic, some ridiculous, some artistic and some macabre, they formed for grand march about the large auditorium, after which each class presented its stunt.

The Seniors gave a vaudeville song and dance act, followed by the prize-winning stunt given by the Junior class, a clever charade illustrating the song, "O, you Beautiful Doll," followed by Mother Goose Rhymes, presented by the Sophomore class, and an illustration of "Young Lochinvar," by the Freshman class.

The next thrilling event was a basketball game, which took place in the gymnasium between the Senior class and the Faculty, the Senior class winning with a score of 11 to 3.

After which refreshments were served by representatives of the various classes. The remainder of the evening was merrily passed with dancing and music.

The committee in charge comprised Miss Ethel Flood, faculty member, and Miss Rae Davis, Miss Edna Lawson, Miss Alice McCoy and Miss Georgia Moreland, of the A. G. S.

Last Saturday afternoon, a couple of hours before the sun set over the western horizon, commenced one of the worst battles in the annals of baseball, when Coach Darsie's Glendale High School boys crossed bats with the University of Southern California Preparatory School on the local diamond. The game was well at

ROSES AND HEARTS.

Mrs. Rebecca McDonald presided on Saturday at a charmingly appointed luncheon given in honor of her daughter, Miss Marie McDonald, at their home on Colorado street, Eagle Rock.

Quantities of Cecil Brunner rosebuds were effectively arranged with garlands of pink hearts, throughout the rooms.

A pink and white, six-course luncheon was served at a beautifully arranged table. A bowl of exquisite Cecil Brunner rosebuds grouped with ferns centered the table, while daintily scattered over the white cloth were tiny pink hearts, rosebuds and petals. During the dessert course Miss McDonald pulled the end of a pink satin streamer, which led from her place and was attached to a pink canopy overhead. The result was a shower of myriads of pink hearts, which fluttered to the table, each bearing the date, "May 29th," the date upon which Miss McDonald's marriage to Ralph Bourne of Eagle Rock will be solemnized in the Church of the Angels.

Appropriate rose-adorned place-cards marked covers arranged for Miss Ruth Brown, maid of honor; Miss Alpha Clement and Miss Marie McDonald, bridesmaids, and the following invited guests: Miss Emily Elias, Mrs. Russell Farrar, Miss George Duffel, Miss Leeta McCoy, Miss Bernice Williams and Mrs. William Livingston of Glendale and Mrs. Frank Stenstrom of Los Angeles. Assistant hostess of the day was, Mrs. H. S. Bourne.

APPRECIATES A LIVE CITY.

W. J. Clendenin, who is now one of the hustling citizens of Glendale, was formerly a business man in Baltimore, Md., in which place he is still a member of the firm, Clendenin Bros., prominent copper merchants in that city. Mr. Clendenin will reside permanently in Glendale, having built himself a bungalow at 216 Orange street. He has joined the Chamber of Commerce and is wearing the Booster button, which signifies he is ready to aid in all that tends to add to the city's prosperity. He is the owner of choice vacant lots in Glendale, and he also owns business properties in Tropic. He is at present building a garage, 50x30 feet, in Tropic, near the San Fernando road. This building will soon be equipped with all modern improvements. Mr. Clendenin is the secretary of the Charter Oak Investment Company, which is located in the Savings & Trust Building, Los Angeles. Mr. Clendenin is a shrewd business man who appreciates the advantages gained by living in a wide-awake, growing city such as Glendale.

A LA JAPANESE.

On Tuesday afternoon the thirty-two girls of the A division of the Seventh grade of the Intermediate school entertained in honor of the birthday anniversary of Miss E. Maud Soper, their class teacher. At the close of school hours Miss Soper was invited to the dining-room of the cooking department, where light refreshments were served. The room was artistically decorated with quantities of roses. A long table, beautifully decorated with pink and white birthday cake, which the girls had made and baked themselves. As Miss Soper has spent many years in Japan, having arrived in this country very recently, her guests seated themselves Japanese fashion, sitting on the floor in an immense circle around the table.

The class presented their honor guest with a half dozen handsome silver salad forks, for which she graciously thanked them, in the Japanese manner, bowing three times to the floor and expressing her gratitude in the correct form of Japanese.

A number of merry games made the remainder of the afternoon pass quickly. Before her departure the girls showered Miss Soper with myriads of spring blossoms.

FIRST BIRTHDAY ANNIVERSARY.

Master Harold Parker of 412 North Louise street entertained his friends on Monday afternoon in honor of his first birthday anniversary.

Out-of-door games made a happy and joyous afternoon for the little guests, at the end of which a pink-tea party was the climax of the afternoon's pleasures. At a table charmingly decorated in shades of pink, covers were laid for sixteen. From a mound of pink flowers centering the table, pink satin streamers led to each place, hidden under the flowers was a quaint and fantastic favor for each, which added greatly to the fun and excitement.

A clever and appropriately worded speech was made by Mrs. A. W. Beach, in behalf of the other guests, presenting the host and his mother, Mrs. Harry Parker, with a handsome water color sketch of the "First Birthday Party."

NEW HOME OF FIRST NATIONAL BANK.

One of the evidences of Glendale's prosperity and growth may be seen in the new home of the First National Bank, which will be occupied some time in May, at the corner of Broadway and Brand boulevard. When completed and equipped the building will represent an outlay of between $35,000 and $40,000. The bank will occupy the main floor of the building, the second floor will be used for office rooms and the third floor for apartments. The building is modern and will be equipped in keeping with the latest methods in banking.

The building is beautiful and imposing. The exterior finish is entirely of white enameled brick, producing an excellent effect. The angle front on Broadway and the corner entrance on Broadway and Brand add much to the effect. The main entrance leads to a handsome and spacious lobby with tile floor and finished in Colorado Yule marble and mahogany. The lobby is provided with check desks and cushioned seats and communicates with the various offices. Facing Broadway are the directors' room and the president's room. In the rear of the directors' room are the cashier's private and public offices, both of which open from the lobby. In the rear of the five wickets which are used for paying and receiving is the working room, with book-keepers' and typewriters' desks and office rooms. At the south end of the lobby is the vice-president's office, ladies' rest room, which will be elegantly and comfortably furnished, and the safety deposit lobby.

What is of especial interest to the patrons of the bank is the safety deposit system being installed. Those who have watched the building of the bank and the installation of the vaults have been impressed with the security of the vaults in the construction of which ten tons of steel have been used. Banking experts have complimented the officers of the First National on the safety and convenience of the system, which is unusually good for a city of this size. The vault is really three vaults in one. It is two stories, 12x15 feet. Entrances from the public lobby and from the work-room lead into the safe deposit lobby, from which open the safe deposit vault and the coin vault. In the work-room are stairs leading to a balcony from which opens the storage vault.

On the south and east of the banking rooms are halls opening into the various offices and leading to the toilets.

The officers and directors of the First National who are being congratulated upon their enterprise in the matter of a new building are: W. W. Lee, president; M. P. Harrison, vice-president; Ed M. Lee, cashier; H. E. Francey, assistant cashier; M. P. Harrison, Dwight Griswold, E. U. Emery, W. W. Lee and W. H. Holiday, directors.

The work has been done by Glendale contractors, May Bros. being the general contractors and H. C. Betts the brick contractor. The architects who designed this beautiful structure are Tuttle & Hopkins, Mr. Tuttle being a resident of Glendale. Butterfield & Pierce had charge of the plumbing and L. W. Choby installed the electric work. In every way the building is a credit to the builders and to the officers of the First National, and adds much to the beauty and attractiveness of the Jewel City.

COMPLIMENTARY LUNCHEON.

In compliment to Mrs. Charles Hubbard of Omaha, Nebraska, and Mrs. Lawrence Ellis, recently of Seattle, Mrs. A. W. Tower of Damasco Court entertained at her home on Tuesday.

A bowl of exquisite pink and white roses centered the table, and daintily decorated rose place-cards marked covers for ten.

Music and sewing were enjoyed during the afternoon.

Aside from the honor guests those who passed the pleasant afternoon were: Mrs. John Hunchberger, Mrs. Wilbur McFadden, Mrs. Edward Lynch, Mrs. J. H. Webster, Mrs. A. W. Randolph, Mrs. W. C. Wattle and Mrs. Ross Boyd.

ROSE LUNCHEON.

Beautiful white roses grouped with branches of rose foliage formed the exquisite decorations of the perfectly appointed rose luncheon given on Thursday at high noon by Mrs. Joseph Webster and Mrs. Edward M. Lynch, at the latter's home, 907 Damasco Court. Complimented guests were Mrs. A. W. Tower and Mrs. William C. Mabry.

Covers were laid for twelve, and quaint hand-painted cards marked places for Mrs. Edith Ellis, Mrs. John Hunchberger, Mrs. J. J. Burke, Mrs. Ernest Morgan, Mrs. William Wattle, Mrs. A. W. Randolph, the honor guests and the hostesses.

During the afternoon music and guessing games were enjoyed.

SHENANDOAH

A Stirring Story of Military Adventure and of a Strange Wartime Wooing, Founded on the Great Play of the Same Name.

Amid the horrors of that retreat— in which were included thousands of sick and wounded who could not have stirred but for the dread of the tobacco warehouses in which the southerners penned their prisoners of war—a young lieutenant clad in the remnants of a blue uniform which at first opportunity he exchanged with a dead soldier for a suit of dingy gray, crept off into the thickets of the Willis Church road along the slope of the hill.

Paraded with fever and crippled with a wounded foot, he lay there all night in the feverish damps, then pressed on at daybreak in what he thought to be the direction in which the Federal troops had moved off the night before.

As he drew near what looked like a deserted cabin in a lonely gulch, an old, dilapidated looking negro ran out, and, glancing at the fugitive's uniform, implored him to "jest send a 'spatch to Charlestown that old marster was sick and los' in de wilderness, an' den mebbe somebody would send or come to git him."

The young wayfarer would have been glad to get off a dispatch somewhere else in his own behalf, but that signified nothing. He followed the gaunt old negro into the cabin.

There, on a bed of juniper boughs, lay gasping and choking a Confederate soldier with a ghastly bullet hole in his forehead, and the stamp of death on his livid face. An elderly gray-haired man, evidently a surgeon, knelt on the ground and made feeble efforts to minister to the comfort of the dying one, while his own teeth chattered and his hands shook with age.

"Dat's Dr. Ellingham," the negro whispered, "and he's one of de richest men in Charlestown, when he's home. But he ain't got no money now, an' here's poor Sam Pinckney shot—I reckon de Yanks have done for him, sho'. De doctor's a little bit out of his haid, too, on 'count of de fever, but he reckoned he'd stick to Sam, an' 'of course I sticks to de doctor."

"Pete," said Dr. Ellingham in his dazed way, "you might ask the gentleman if he has anything besides water in his canteen."

The young man drew a small wicker flask from his pocket and handed it over. The surgeon reached out a shaking hand, then said:

"You had better give him a little; you are staidier than I am."

Here the wounded man made a sound as if choking.

"Mebbe it's phlegm in his throat," said the faithful old slave. He poked a black finger into the poor fellow's mouth and pulled out a quid of tobacco that must have been there ever since Sam was shot. Then a small quantity of liquor was poured between the pallid lips, but the case seemed hopeless.

At that instant loud voices were heard outside, and then a Confederate captain and two soldiers rushed into the cabin.

"Ah, here they are!" shouted the captain. "Major Ellingham, I've been searching for you everywhere. You shouldn't have left the ambulance in your condition. Pete, you black scoundrel, is that the way you take care of your master?"

"I am glad you have come, Captain Thornton," said Dr. Ellingham, feebly. "Here is Sam Pinckney, in very bad shape."

"And whom have we here?" asked the captain, staring at the young stranger who had proffered the flask and paying not attention to the wounded man.

"Great God! Ed Thornton—I thought I knew you!" exclaimed the young man addressed, peering into the insolent, scarred face of his questioner. "And I presume you know me as well."

"I know you're in a pretty ticklish position with that Union belt on under a Confederate uniform and inside our lines. Men, search your prisoner. He's a Yankee spy."

"That's a lie, Thornton, and you know it. I was in the fight, open and fair, and I wouldn't be here now only that I stopped to try to help your comrades. Let me alone, I say."

He struggled so fiercely, despite his weak condition, that the efforts of the two soldiers were required to hold him while Thornton minutely searched his person.

"Letters—Washington and New York postmarks—and—ah! What have we here? Pretty little sentimental keepsake, eh? Where have I seen the lady's face? Pardon me if I read this inscription on the back of the case."

What he had found was a miniature, the portrait of a lady, carefully protected in a morocco case. The owner realized so desperately the taking of this treasure that he finally sank to the floor, livid, panting, foaming and cursing, as Captain Thornton mockingly read the lines inscribed on the back of the picture:

The flashing light may live thy form in living lines of breathing grace, May give each tint a tone as warm As that which melts o'er thy dear face;

But in my soul and on my heart With deeper colors, truer aim, A loftier power than meager art Hath graven thy image and thy name.

"He is dead," said Dr. Ellingham, letting the hand of poor Sam Pinckney, which he had been holding, fall limp and lifeless to the ground.

"Well, major, that relieves you from duty here. I'll have an ambulance sent around at once. As for the Yankee gentleman, I will take good care of his valuables while he is escorted to Richmond and put up at the Hotel de Libby."

With these taunting words Captain Thornton laughed diabolically, then lit a cigar and stood in the doorway of the cabin gazing reminiscently upon the miniature which held the fair features of Mrs. Constance Haverill.

The old warehouse of the Libbys, down on Carey street, near the James river, was the largest structure of its kind in Richmond. It was a vast, dingy, four-storied red brick building, with nothing but naked walls, bare timbers and low-rattled drying rooms, whose small windows were not intended primarily to admit light. A few iron bars on these windows and a flimsy partition here and there to divide the floor space into "rooms," had sufficed to transform the pungent smelling old shell into a capacious prison for Federal captives whose official rank saved them from the unsheltered pens and stockades of Belle Isle or of Salisbury and Andersonville farther south.

Only officers were immured in Libby prison, and most of the time there were from 1,500 to 2,000 motley, ragged, pale-faced men pining there, cramped and squallid and liable to be shot down relentlessly if they crossed a "dead line" within two or three feet of the barred windows. Some of these poor fellows listlessly carved crucifixes and wooden toys with their jackknives; others played cards squatted on the floor or checkers on boards marked off in rude squares on these same rough, unswep planks. All hoped against hope and conversed endlessly on two topics—"exchange" and "escape."

Letters from home were rare, gifts and provisions still rarer. Nevertheless some fortuitous combination of circumstances and outcropping of ordinary human kindness did on certain memorable occasions permit a suit of clothes or a box of sweets and other creature comforts to escape Confederate confiscation and get past the drawbridge of the military bastle.

One of these occasions that brought seasonable rejoicings to a certain lot of Libby occurred just before the date of national thanksgiving, in the latter part of November. The blood-red rays of sunset were streaming through the one small, high, grated window that lighted a bare room where some men were dejectedly playing cards for scraps of tobacco, while others sat around on rough benches and watched or smoked or dozed. One who was either sick or wounded lay on a couch, with a coarse blanket over him. Two or three of the card players joined their unmelodious voices in crooning an old-fashioned Methodist hymn.

"That's right, boys," said the hymn leader, an unctuous looking Hoosier whom they addressed sometimes as "chaplain" and again as "deacon," "cheer up a bit. If you can't be cheerful, be as cheerful as you can. Think—think of your heavenly home."

"Too far off," muttered Captain Cox, a Kentuckian.

"Letters—Washington and New York postmarks—and—ah! What have we here? Pretty little sentimental keepsake, eh? Where have I seen the lady's face? Pardon me if I read this inscription on the back of the case."

What he had found was a miniature, the portrait of a lady, carefully protected in a morocco case. The owner realized so desperately the taking of this treasure that he finally sank to the floor, livid, panting, foaming and cursing, as Captain Thornton mockingly read the lines inscribed on the back of the picture:

The flashing light may live thy form in living lines of breathing grace, May give each tint a tone as warm As that which melts o'er thy dear face;

when you left it, of the afternoon sunlight fallin' on it this minute out there in Kentucky or Ohio or wherever it is. Mine's in Indiana, thank God. I remember when I was—

"Deacon," protested the sick man, "I'm not feeling very chipper today."

"Oh, you'll come round all right Tomorrow's Thanksgiving. As I was sayin'—"

"That's what poor Ralph's afraid of, deacon," interposed Captain Cox. "Monotony is what's killing him, and I'll leave it to you if the novelty isn't long since worn off those endless reminiscences of the time when you used to be—"

"Rear admiral on the Wabash canal," chimed the chorus.

"All right, boys, poke all the fun at me you like; smite me on the other cheek. You know I'm meek and lowly. Darn this hand o' cards anyway. But with all your cuteness I'll bet $5 none o' you can tell how we used to take in sail out there on the Wabash, eh?"

"Well, sir, they go out aloft on the towpath and knock down a mule."

"Ho, ho! How's that, Ralph?" laughed Cox, rising and going over to the sick man's couch. "Come, brighten up. Are you sick in mind too?"

"Hunt sighed impatiently. Deacon Hart rallied again.

"Look on the bright side, what may happen any minute. Suppose first thing you know, you git called out and exchanged, jest as soon as our army captures some of the Johnnies, if it ever does. Then you can go home on crutches, and the neighbors'll bring in a dozen different things at once to kill or cure you."

"I don't seem to care about anything," said Ralph Hunt, gloomily. "If I can't die on the field it may as well be here as anywhere else."

"It's a good thing I'm here to give you spiritual counsel," interjected Deacon Hart, turning away from his cards for a second. "Oh, is it my deal?"

CHAPTER VIII. Libby Prison.

Captain Cox sat beside Hunt's couch and conversed with him in low, earnest tones.

"There are other places," said he, "besides the field of battle, where a man can be brave."

"Oh, no doubt," was the bitter reply. "You find it easy to keep up your courage when I am in despair."

"What do you mean?"

"You know. We were boys together, and I have always put up with second best. You've always stood in front of me. Tom Cox—at school, at sport, in business, in love."

"Tell me one thing," urged Cox. "Have I ever played you false?"

"No, you haven't. You haven't needed to. Your cursed fatal good luck does it all for you."

"Now you talk like a whining child."

"No, I don't. At this moment your heart's inmost thought is identical with mine. Marie Marson—great God! How my heart beats at the speaking of that name! Marie—she was the one woman in all the world to me. Why did you cross my path there, too, when it was as sure as fate that her preference would fall on you?"

"If it was fate, what's the use of talking about it now?" retorted Cox doggedly. "And to what avail to either of us now can that girl's favor be? You know she is an irrevocable southerner, like all the rest of her family. You know that I came out for the Union, as you did, when the first gun was fired on Sumter. Perhaps you don't know, but I will tell you now, that when I left Lexington she—Marie—Marie—said she would rather see me lying dead on the battlefield wearing the southern gray than marching against her people in the blue uniform of the north. That was our parting. Well, you and I have drunk from the same canteen. We have fought side by side in the same battles; we have both won our captain's swords—and lost them. Now, in misfortune, we are still together. And yet, on the petty pretext of disparity in our lots, you would banish the one ray of sunshine penetrating these prison walls—our old comradeship."

"You are well and strong; I am ill," pleaded Hunt.

"I don't forget that, either," murmured Cox, softening.

"I've talked too much, I suppose. It's all over now. Here's my hand, if you will take it."

Cox did not take it immediately, but answered:

"It's all right, Ralph. Only give me a little time to get over it, for you cut deep, old fellow."

At this moment a sudden silence fell, and a general movement and whisper made themselves manifest. Enter Captain Jason Warner, the prison commissary.

"Evening, Yanks," was his gruff but not unkindly greeting. "What devilry are you up to now?"

"Talking over old times and old comrades, captain, that's all," replied Cox gently.

"Well, you may have an opportunity of seeing some more o' them 'ere old comrades o' yours, I reckon, before long."

"What? Are we going to get out?"

"You know. What's the news?"

"Oh, some more fighting in the valley, you know. Yanks licked out o' their boots again, as usual. More prisoners, more hard luck stories."

"What's that?" cried Deacon Hart. "Another fight? More prisoners? Oh, Lord!"

"You're on the religious, aren't you?" inquired the commissary scoffingly.

"I'm a shouting Methodist these forty years, thank the Lord," answered the deacon, holding his hand of cards behind his back.

"Well, your shouting hasn't benefited Abe Lincoln nor yourself very much so far. You'd better swing around and pray for Jeff Davis, I reckon, and be on the safe side."

"Never, till this right hand"—putting out his left with the cards, then jerking it back and holding up the right—"shall lose its cunning."

"Oh, go ahead, deacon, and pray for Jeff Davis if they want you to," suggested Cox. "He'll need it before this war's over."

"You can talk with your friends just from the front about that," retorted Warner gruffly. "Here's one o' 'em coming upstairs now."

A measured tramp was heard approaching outside. The commissary opened the door, and the new Union prisoner was marched in between two guards. He saluted and introduced himself.

"Gentlemen, permit me. I am Colonel Cogswell of the Forty-second New York."

"The Tammany regiment of New York City!" exclaimed Lieutenant Bedloe, sotto voce.

Captain Cox returned the newcomer's salute and responded:

"We have heard of you, colonel, and we are right proud of to meet you. My comrades here are Captain Hunt of Kentucky, Chaplain Hart of Indiana and Lieutenant Bedloe, from—why, from your own state, I believe. I am Captain Cox of the Tenth Kentucky."

Colonel Cogswell shook hands all around and said:

"I am fortunate to have the honor of sharing your quarters. I don't suppose you find it exactly lonesome here."

"The place is quite populous. It seems as if the fortunes of war had picked out the flower of our army to pine away in infernal holes like this. Oh, for an hour of action!"

"Just wait till the exchange," said the hopeful Hart. "With a dozen men like us they might redeem a whole Confederate regiment."

"I understand," said Ralph Hunt gloomily, "that their idea is to get the well-kept Confederate prisoners back from the Union camps and send us as living skeletons in exchange."

"Do you think, Colonel Cogswell," asked Cox, "that things are going as badly with us in the valley and elsewhere as they try to make out?"

"Yes, and a sight worse, I should say, at the present moment."

"Then," interposed Hart tragically, "all is lost save honor."

The colonel drew himself up proudly, glanced around to make sure that the commissary and guard had retired, then with a superb dramatic gesture opened the coat of his uniform, which had been tightly buttoned up to his chin, and displayed the stars and stripes wrapped around his body.

"Not all lost, sir. Our colors, by God!"

The prisoners rushed forward, their eyes bulging and cheeks glowing with patriotic ardor. Even poor Hunt rose excitedly from his couch.

"Under these circumstances," continued the general, "the Confederate States government has felt constrained to give notice that we will hold an equal number of Union men of corresponding rank, chosen from among the prisoners at present in our hands here in Richmond as hostages, to be dealt with in the same manner as Mr. Lincoln shall decide to deal with those of our compatriots now in his power."

"My requisition calls for six officers out of perhaps four times that number from this division. Are there six among you who, knowing the gravity of the situation—and I do not deceive you as to its import—are there six among you, I say, who are willing to offer themselves as hostages?"

Every Union man in the room stepped forward, including Ralph Hunt, who arose feebly from his couch.

General Winder was visibly affected at the manifestation, but he pretended to be only perplexed and annoyed.

"What! All of you? But I only asked for six. I see that some definite plan of selection will have to be followed. You shall draw lots."

He took out his notebook, tore some slips of paper from it and directed Captain Warner to pass them around and have each man write his name on one. The slips were then all placed in a hat, from which Captain Cox was unanimously chosen to draw out six names. He did so, one at a time, handing each slip to Captain Warner without looking at it. Warner read the names aloud, and the general repeated them after him, at the same time writing them down in his notebook. They were as follows:

"Major Paul Revere, Thirtieth Massachusetts.

"Colonel Alfred Wood, Fourteenth New York.

While General Winder was deliberating his reply a woman's scream was heard outside the door, and Marie Mason rushed wildly in.

THE DAY'S OPPORTUNITY.

Have you a charm, my friend, That you can recommend To bring glad dreams again To dreamless hearts of men?

Have you a recipe? Compounded wondrously With skill of touch expert, To heal a soul's deep hurt?

Have you a certain lure Whose power can insure Glad song where song is done, And sorrow's night begun?

Have you a merry word That mortal never heard To rouse gay laughter's thrill In lips forever still?

No charm, no recipe, No lure, no word of glee, Can reach the days once dead, Or speak the thoughts unsaid.

But in tomorrow lies The charm and lure we prize, The magic recipe, The wondrous word of glee!

SOME FACTS ABOUT TIN CANS.

Poisoning by canned goods will not occur if care is exercised in their selection. Never purchase cans with two lumps of solder as this shows that the contents had worked and so had to be boiled over and resealed. If top of can bulges outward do not take the can, as the contents are fermenting and, if finger is pressed on can and dent falls right back in place as soon as the finger is removed, the same is true, as if the gas which quickly pushes the tin back in place, if a can is bent or dented one may be assured that the contents are in fine condition. Always empty the contents of can as soon as possible, as leaving the contents in tin, after exposing to the air, will be apt to make them spoil.—Housekeeper.

DELICIOUS ARGYLE SALAD.

One can of apricots; twelve chopped marshmallows; one-half cupful of chopped pecan nut meats; some lettuce leaves; yolks of four eggs; four tablespoonfuls of vinegar; one tablespoonful of sugar; one teaspoonful of salt; one teaspoonful of dry mustard; one teaspoonful of butter; a few grains of red pepper; one cupful of whipped cream. Drain the apricots and lay them on crisp lettuce leaves. Put the egg yolks into a double boiler, add the vinegar, sugar, salt, mustard, red pepper and butter, and stir them over the fire until they have cooked for five minutes. Allow to cool, then add the whipped cream and beat all thoroughly together. Next add the nuts and the marshmallows. Place a spoonful of the dressing on each plateful of salad. This is an excellent recipe.

DEVIL'S FOOD CAKE.

Beat half a cup of butter to a cream; gradually beat in one cup of sugar; beat the yolks of four eggs until light; beat in one cup of sugar; then beat into the butter and sugar; add, alternately, one cup of milk and two cups and one-third of flour, sifted with four level teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Add two squares of melted chocolate, a teaspoonful of vanilla, and, lastly, the beaten whites of four eggs. Bake in a sheet about forty-five minutes.

TIT FOR TAT.

"What kind of a summer do you think we are going to have?" queried a passenger on the back platform of a car to another.

"You want my opinion, do you?" was the reply.

"Why, I simply asked you a question."

"I know you did, and if you'll get off and come to my office I'll answer it. I'm a lawyer, sir."

"Humph!" snorted the other. "You have a red spot on the back of your neck. If you'll get off and come to my office I'll tell you whether it's going to be a cancer or a carbuncle. I'm a physician, sir."

Another precedent has been established. Think of the second lady of the land, Mrs. Marshall, saying, "I can't afford it." That is exactly what she said in referring to the fact that she could not have a private secretary, because she would be living beyond her means. That declaration ought to put many American women to shame who are continually trying to outdo their neighbor and making life anything but happy to the head of the family who likely toils hard from early to late to keep his family in luxury. If a lady who holds such an important position in the national capital as Mrs. Marshall does not hesitate to make such an acknowledgment, women in the middle class certainly should not.

In the coming glory of the day when molten gold is poured from the black furnaces of the night, even the most doubtful must feel the spirit of the world's creator; and it is then that the heart takes fresh confidence.

Common sense always commands respect, for nearly every rule that governs the conduct of man is founded upon it.

THE CROCUS.

By Agnes Lee.

"We perish, groping in the ground!" Wept pilgrim-flowers of night. The crocus called, "Ye weary-bound, Press upward to the light!"

The primrose sighed, "If light for— get To shine, why labor we?" The crocus said, "Now labor yet, All they that trust shall see."

Called buttercup, "What power has led Our blindness through the slow And hidden hours?" The crocus said, "Press on, and you shall know!"

"We shudder in the dark and mold," Whispered a bellflower blue. The crocus said, "Your God knew cold And utter darkness, too."

Then all took heart and scrambled up Through earth with one acclaim. Came primrose, bell and buttercup. But first the crocus came.

And summoned every little flower That peeped above the sod; "Now gather, gather, greet the hour! The light has come! Praise God!"

HELPFUL ODDS AND ENDS.

The latest garnish for grapefruit is mint leaves—with some chopped and scattered over the top.

Baking soda, a soft cloth and water make an excellent combination with which to clean enamel.

Clean combs and brushes in warm water to which a few drops of ammonia have been added.

To keep ornaments from marking a highly polished surface, paste soft blotting paper on the bottoms.

Lemons hardened from long standing may be made usable by covering a few minutes with boiling water.

To keep breakfast food after cooking, cover with cold water, and avoid the crust which would otherwise form.

A whisk broom is excellent for dusting door facings, or any wood-work that has grooves in which to lodge dirt.

Buy dripping pans and bake pans with rounded corners; the square cornered pans are almost impossible to clean.

To Remove Skin From New Potatoes—and leave on your hands—rub potatoes with coarse cloth or vegetable brush.

Wet adhesive plaster with alcohol before attempting to remove and it will come away readily. Soaking in water does little or no good.

A dish that retains the odor of cooked foods such as onion or cabbage can be cleaned by boiling in a strong solution of baking soda in it.

When dishes begin to get discolored, they may be whitened by scouring with common baking soda which will not scratch the most delicate china.

Powdered French chalk, rubbed on oiled lace, permitted to stand for half an hour and then brushed off will clean the fabric and save laundry bills and damage.

Know the size of your oven, and buy pans which fit in combination. Waste room often means heat wasted in keeping up a fire longer than would otherwise be necessary.

To mend overshoes, get a roll of strong surgeon's plaster, and when an overshoe becomes torn or worn, cover the place with the plaster; go over it with black shoe polish.

Tar stains may be removed from dress goods by moistening with olive oil. Let stand a half hour, then wash with tepid lather. Do not wring but let the water drip as it hangs up.

If a buttonhole tears lay a piece of closely-woven tape back of it, stitch firmly in place, hem the old buttonhole to it neatly. Then cut and work in the tape a new buttonhole of the proper size.

If grease is spilled on the carpet, a piece of blotting paper should be placed over the spot, an iron heated, not too hot, and set on the paper and grease will be absorbed in the blotter.

For sprinkling clothes for ironing, try a clean whisk broom, dipping it into the water, then shaking it over the clothes. If the water is warm, so much the better. The fine spray of warm water moistens the clothes quickly and evenly.

A good use for worn-out hot water bag is to fill with hot sand or salt when a hot bag is needed. These have often given great relief in sciatic rheumatism, and afford rest and comfort to a lame back.

To Test Heat of Oven—Place a piece of white paper in oven. If it burns immediately it is too hot for anything. If it turns a delicate brown it indicates pastry heat. For cake it should turn dark yellow. Light yellow shows the proper heat for biscuit and sponge cake.

Don't throw away an old newspaper until it has done duty as a cleaner. Rub out the greasy frying pan with a newspaper before you put it in the dish pan. Then drop the paper in the stove. When something is spilled on the floor instead of using a cloth that will have to be washed out, use a newspaper, then burn.

GOOD-BY TO "HAND-ME-DOWNS."

Selma Yorke Tells How Little Tots Can Have New Clothes Stylish, Well-Made and Economical.

Through Local Store, Expert Gives Free Advice to Mothers on Making Children's Garments.

"Children are as good as their clothes—better. Dress them well, and they behave well. Dress them in hand-me-downs or old ill-fitting things and they don't care what they do," says an expert on children's clothing. "Make their clothes at home, using good styles, and you'll be surprised how cheaply and with what little trouble you can give them a greater pride in themselves."

Acting on this advice, the Tropic Mercantile Co. have added to their fashion service a special department to give free advice to mothers of Glendale and Tropic on all problems connected with the dressing of children. In the current issue of "Good Dressing," the fashion magazine issued free by Tropic Mercantile Co. to callers, appears an announcement of this department. Selma Yorke, known by newspaper and magazine readers the country over, is the expert in charge, with headquarters in New York. Her department will answer free all inquiries from the customers of Tropic Mercantile Co. and of other merchants in all parts of the United States, who by co-operative arrangement are also issuing "Good Dressing" as a guide in all dressmaking matters.

This May issue of "Good Dressing" solves a big dress problem in an article headed "The Dress That Trims Itself." In making really artistic clothes, the trimming is often the most expensive item, frequently costing more than all the rest of the garment. So we think the women of Glendale and Tropic will read eagerly how the designers of "The Ladies' Home Journal" patterns have created gowns suitable for both street and formal wear in which the material is used with charming effect to furnish practically all the trimming. These gowns are not merely graceful and beautiful, they are decidedly chic and fashionable. Ladies will be surprised that self-trimmed dresses can be made so appealing.

"Good Dressing" for April also contains many other interesting features—illustrations of spring gowns which the wife of the President, Mrs. Wilson, and her three daughters have selected as the most appealing; illustrations of the gowns the great grand opera singer, Chase, has selected as the most becoming for young girls; illustrations of What New York Women Are Wearing, and illustrations of adaptation of the best from Paris. Besides all this, the many pages of fashion and dressmaking helps, color-harmony chart, directions for making over hats, etc., will be invaluable. This magazine can be secured free of charge from Tropic Mercantile Co., and every woman in Glendale or Tropic should call for it.

W. C. T. U. NOTES.

Regular meeting of the W. C. T. U. will meet at the home of Mrs. D. T. Keim, 1420 West Second street, Friday, 2:30 p. m., April 18. Final plans for the entertainment of County Convention will be the business of the day. Mrs. Kate L. Evans, County Superintendent of Mercy, will give a short talk on the subject.

We need the co-operation of every citizen and home in Glendale, Chamber of Commerce Boosters, church organizations in opening their homes for the entertainment for three nights' lodging and breakfast for 115 delegates who come to us from all over this county. We feel that every one in Glendale feels as we do, that "the Jewel City" of all the county is a city of hospitable homes, and that these ladies will go home boasting our town. Now, with an accord, let every one who has a couch or bed, phone Sunset 307 J, and say you will accommodate one or more.

GLENDALE NEWS, APRIL 18, 1913

PLAYGROUNDS FOR GLENDALE.

All nature teaches us that childhood is the natural playtime. We are now beginning to realize that the wise course is not to repress the child's God-given faculties by placing upon him the burdens of life, but to stimulate and guide the child in harmony with the divine impulses within.

Our ancestors lived chiefly in the country, but in the latter part of the 19th century conditions began to change by a movement toward the village and town.

Cities appeared and grew as though raised by magic, in all parts of the country. A large percentage of the population became urban, which brought a great change into the life and customs of the people. The children especially suffered from being crowded into tenement houses on narrow streets.

People are gradually awakening to realize that care should be taken for the general welfare of posterity. Many cities are now endeavoring to provide means by which to conserve the sanity and vitality of their men and women of the future. Playgrounds are now being established quite generally throughout our entire country.

The bond election which has been called in our city for some time in May, is in harmony with this movement, as it provides for the enlarging of three school grounds and the purchase of another good site. Some of the school committees were much in favor of securing the other four lots at the intermediate school, with an idea of using it as a central playground on Saturdays and during the summer vacations.

This, of course, may be done at some future time, so it was perhaps wise to defer until the people of our vicinity more generally realize the advantages of such a provision for our children. Many neighboring cities of the same class as Glendale are awakening to realize the advantage of ample school playground, and are providing the same at a considerable cost.

Alhambra has five Grammar school grounds, ranging in size from four and one-half to seven acres, and in cost from $6,000 to $45,000 each.

Monrovia recently paid more than $25,000 for a 4-acre Grammar school site.

Last summer Redondo Beach bought an addition of three acres for their central Grammar school, which cost them $36,872.28.

The opinions of three prominent public men regarding the value of play and grounds are given below:

Ex-President Theodore Roosevelt: "Play is at present almost the only method of physical development for city children, and we must provide facilities for it, if we would have the children strong and law abiding."

Newell Dwight Hillis, D.D.: "One thing, therefore, is vital—the playground. Given a dozen blocks of houses and stores, there should be one block, not for a park, but for play. A schoolhouse for the mind, with no playground for the body, is a form of folly."

Luther Halsey Gulick, M. D.: "A fundamental condition for the development of a free people is, that they shall in childhood learn to govern themselves. Self-government is to be learned as an experience rather than taught as a theory. Hence in a permanent democracy adequate playgrounds for all the children are a necessity."

GLENDALE BOY SAVES POWER PLANT.

Bishop, Cal., April 5, 1913. News has been received of a narrow escape from destruction of plant No. 5 of the Nevada-California Power company, on Bishop creek, six miles west of Bishop, Inyo county, Cal.

On March 31, at 2:45 p. m., Clarence Edwards, an old resident of this place, and well known amongst the young folks, who left two years ago to take up a desert homestead, was working on signal lights on the dam with another boy called "Alex." When Edwards heard the generator groan with a heavy "short," he said to his partner, "It's a 'short,' Alex," and started for the plant on a run.

Entering the big door he saw flames and sparks shooting from the 6,000 volt line, which supplies Bishop and the surrounding country with light and power. Edwards turned to the board ready to pull the switch, calling as he did so for his partner to throw sand. But Operator Huntington, who already had the water shut down, was just in reach of the switch. So Edwards not seeing any more shovels around grabbed a bucket and began throwing sand on the already burning transformer. The wire was soon burned off between transformers Nos. 1 and 2, a large arc followed. The brightness and colors were very beautiful, and it acted as an X-ray on the eyes of the boys, and with the fumes of the melting copper they were working blindly. A hole was soon burned through the cast-iron case of the first transformer, which relieved the danger of an explosion; but the second was also burning, and it soon became apparent that there was only a chance to save it. Still the two kept on pouring sand like "badgers," forgetting their own danger. Meanwhile the operator was ringing hard on the phone for P. No. 4, the "governing station." But the ringing was of no use; the line was off. The operator then came out and called to the top of the hill for his daughter to saddle the horse and run to P. No. 4, a distance of one and three-quarters miles. But the answer came back that the horse was away. There was no other means of getting P. No. 4. Edwards asked the operator, "What now?" as he straightened up, rubbed his burning eyes and caught a breath of fresh air. "The horse is away," said Huntington, "the phone is off, and we've got 60,000 volts pouring in here from the big line." (The big line is the transmission line just completed from Bishop to San Bernardino.)

"I can beat a horse, any way," said Edwards, at the same time starting up the hill to the road on a fast run. Three minutes after he left the third transformer started burning and the steel work of the building was charged.

"It's no use, Alex," cried the operator, "P. No. 5 is a goner. Help me on my tool box." They removed the box and deserted the plant. Soon several of the heavy timbers were showing a small flame, caused by the charged steel, which formed arcs in many parts of the plant. Edwards was soon up to P. No. 4 and staggered to the operator, calling out, "Pull all the load off of 5; they are burning up!" then sat down on a cement coping for three minutes before he could say more. Then he walked quietly back to P. No. 5 and found that he had made it just in time to save a complete loss. Five minutes more would have been too late.

"My heavens!" said Alex, "you made a fast trip. It was just seven minutes from the time you left the top of the hill till all was dead. How do you feel after that?"

"Oh, I feel all right," said Edwards, laughing. "I used to do that every day down below, catching cars. But I'm a little out of practice now, and this high altitude gets my wind."

But the day was not over, and Edwards and Alex were soon busy again, repairing the Bishop line, while the operators and electrical engineers were fixing up for temporary running, and at 8:30 p. m. Edwards phoned the superintendent that the line was ready for juice, and soon all was running quiet and regularly again. Although the boys were obliged to work without supper and in the dark, they were glad, for the darkness relieved the torture of their burning eyes, and the Glendale boy, after drinking the three cups of strong coffee turned in and slept soundly, being satisfied that he had done his duty to the company. It is understood he will pay Glendale a visit this summer.

WEST GLENDALE.

Mr. A. J. Klein arrived home from Taft Wednesday. Mrs. S. E. Burton and friend, Mrs. Roberts of Los Angeles were in Glendale Sunday looking after property. Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Kelly, Sr., with their daughter, Mrs. Baxter, and son George, spent Sunday at the Beach.

Mrs. Laura Scamman enjoyed several days at Redondo with her niece, Miss Elsie Ludlow, of Burbank, who is spending some time at the resort. Mr. and Mrs. Moon of San Diego made a flying trip to Glendale in the interest of their property here.

We happened to overhear several gentlemen speaking of our city recently, and one made the remark that Glendale is a fine place, all right, but nothing doing; "too dead." The poor, benighted creature must surely be wrong somewhere, and most assuredly in his opinion is, if nothing else, for at this same time—Saturday evening—the streets were unusually crowded, all stores filled, clerks on the jump, theaters packed to the limit, cars crowded with residents going into Los Angeles for the evening, and everybody on the "go." Nothing dead about Glendale in the least.

Building is certainly not on the wane. Mr. W. P. Francy is building a very pretty $1500 residence on Ivy street, near Pacific avenue, which, on completion, will be quite attractive. Mr. A. W. Martin is having a $3000 building erected at 445 Pacific, near his own home. This will contain two flats of four rooms and bath, and modern in every way. The exterior will be very artistic in appearance. Quite a few residences are going up all through the Valley View Tract, and many additions and improvements made to others north of Broadway and between Central and Remington. The homes seem to spring up like mushrooms—all of very good class. These are all filled about as soon as completed, which speaks well of the rapid growth of Glendale.

Manager Fred Deal of the Pacific Telephone Co., with two assistants, were busy this week distributing the new telephone books to the numerous subscribers. Close to 500 books were taken out both morning and afternoon, and the delivery lasted over three days. It can readily be seen that the company has "a few subscribers" in our neighborhood. This includes Burbank, Tropic, Glassell Park and Glendale.

Mr. Charles H. Toll, who has been slightly indisposed, is again at his post of duty at the Bank of Los Angeles.

Mr. Charles H. Fenstermaker is making extensive improvements to the property recently purchased on Central avenue.

Mr. Brice and family have moved into their new home on Second and Central avenue.

Mr. Frank P. Wilkin, proprietor of the Bungalow Grocery, is having two bungalows built at the corner of Ivy and Central avenue.

GRAMMAR SCHOOL NOTES.

The baseball teams of the Intermediate, Broadway and Sixth street schools have formed an indoor baseball league. Three out of a series of six games have been played with the Broadway school team in the lead. In the first game Broadway defeated Intermediate with a score of 31 to 5; in the second game Broadway was victorious over the Sixth street team, 26 to 13; the third game, with Intermediate again, the Broadway team scored 30 to 10.

GLENDALE HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

From the start of the game, the determination of both teams to win was easily seen and the batteries on both sides did amazing work. The "Preps" left-handed pitcher kept so many noughts on Glendale's score-card that for a time it looked as though a calamity might befall the home boys, but Farnier, Glendale's big pitcher, got under steam and sent the balls so fast across the plate that its sizzling hotness burnt holes through the opposition's bats. The game went on and "Stellar Sophomore" "Hasty Bidwell" replaced Farnier in the box and held down the score to 3 to 3 for the locals for the rest of the twelve long innings and then put his name in the H. S. hall of fame when Glendale was at the bat the last half of the twelfth inning. He knocked the ball out into center field, and through a series of over-throws by the opposition, made a home run, which won the game, 3 to 4 in favor of Glendale. All the Glendale boys played excellent ball, and as much can be said of the "Preps," except for the over-throws, which won the game for Glendale. The line-up was as follows:

U. S. C. Bonelli 2nd b. Brown 3rd b. Thomas 1st b. Booth Snively 1st b. McComber Bidwell 4p. Maurer Farnier p. Kitchen McNutt i. f. Griffin Blackington r. f. Mixer Melver c. f. Runs—Goode 1, Fischel 1, Brown 1, Bidwell 1, Bonelli 1, Maurer 1, Kitchen 1.

Struck out—Farnier 8, Bidwell 4, Maurer 15.

First base on balls—Farnier 9, Bidwell 1, Maurer 1.

Two-base hits—Bidwell, Brown and Thomas.

Three-base hit—Farnier. Bidwell got a home run on errors. The game was one of twelve innings, and was ably umpired by Bus.

The Glendale Student League Body won second place in the Attendance contest at the Dr. Steiner lecture in Los Angeles some time ago. The following is the official result of the attendance of the various schools of the league. The percentage is taken as the proportion of boys present compared with the male enrollment of the school: Hollywood, 43 per cent; Glendale, 41 per cent; South Pasadena, 40 per cent; Polytechnic, 21 per cent; Manual Arts, 16 per cent; Los Angeles, 8 per cent.

There is some talk of the High School chartering two interurban cars to take a bunch of rooters over to Pasadena, where Jennie Borling will represent the Glendale High in the County Oratorical Contest, Friday evening, April 25.

A large crowd of Glendale baseball enthusiasts are expected to accompany the H. S. team over to South Pasadena, where one of the hardest games of the year will be played, as both teams have 1000 per cent standing in the league.

The Freshman Stylus will soon be ready for distribution.

The quarterly tests are now taking place.

The tennis team went over to South Pasadena and as usual came back with another victory to its credit. Sadler and Nelson as usual won their doubles and Robertshaw and Balthis lost their doubles after a terrific match of three sets. Next Saturday the team plays the U. S. C. Preps here and a large attendance will be fully appreciated.

The German club of G. U. H. S. are making preparations to give a German play in the near future.

The Sophomore class were declared winners in the spelling match last Thursday. How did it happen, Seniors?

Dr. Trundle of the Highland Park Christian church addressed the Assembly Monday afternoon for twenty minutes on "Left Handed Men." This was under the auspices of the Student League.

The Student League will hold their annual election of officers Friday, April 18.

The High School baseball team was defeated in a practice game Thursday with Verdugo Park, score 3 to 1. The Park's professional Indian pitcher kept the boys guessing. Bidwell and Blackington pitched for the High.

FRUIT GROWERS' DEPARTMENT

DO IT NOW.
Some time you mean to mend your ways.
Why don't you do it now?
You've always read in prose or rhyme,
"The present is the golden time."
If you are ever going to climb,
Why don't you do it now?
Successful men are never late;
You'll fail if you procrastinate;
If you have vowed to conquer fate,
Why don't you do it now?

NO BETTER TIDINGS.
The editor of this page knows of no more interesting and valuable news, to present to the fruit growers of the San Fernando Valley than the fact that a company, with H. H.
Lyche as president and manager, has been organized under the name of Pure Fruit Juice Company, and are operating their plant at the corner of Glendale and Lomita avenues.
This company, by means of the proper kind of machinery, is extracting from oranges and lemons the juices and preserving them in their natural state. The crop of oranges and lemons injured by January's freeze is being utilized. The juices (100 per cent pure) from these fruits are put up in bottles, packed in cases and placed upon the market. The methods by which the juices are extracted from the fruits seem to be known only to the persons operating this plant. This new enterprise promises to be one that will prove beneficial to the fruit-growers in the vicinity of Glendale.

MUST COUNT THE COST.
Until farmers know what their crops cost they cannot work efficiently for reforms. The grain, fruit or root crop carried to market should have,
in the farmer's book, a cost mark.
He should figure into the cost, interest on his investment, what he paid for borrowed money, depreciation of machinery and stock, depreciation of any of the land, the labor of himself and members of his family, the cost of hired labor, taxes, seed, fertilizers, oil, harness grease, horseshoes, spray cure and other remedies, irrigating boats and other special equipment needed and part of the crop wasted because of inferiority and all other items.

ROADS FOR ORANGE COUNTY
The county highway commission proposes to get down to business as soon as possible in the building of 197 miles of good roads for Orange county.
By a fact agreement the commission has concluded to build roads with a five-inch concrete base with a covering of an inch or more of asphalt. Recently the board of supervisors was requested to call for bids for the erection of a rock crusher in the bed of Santiago creek. From that plant it is proposed to furnish crushed rock for the road work. The county will spend $1,270,000 in building the system of roads.

SUCCESSFUL MAN'S POLICY.
I have tried to make all my acts and commercial moves the result of deliberate consideration and sound judgment. There were never any great ventures or risks. I practiced honest, slow-growing business methods, and tried to back them with energy and good system.—Marshall Field.

THOUGHT WINS.
A sound body is essential for physical exertion, but it should be accompanied by a well-disciplined mind in order to attain the best results in any profession, business or sport. A New England college President is endeavoring to stimulate mental activity among his students for the purpose of making them better equipped for their future calling. This educator's belief is that the best way to make an athlete is to teach him first to think, and that the best way to make a good man is to train his mind so neither he nor another can make the worse appear to him the better reason.
Intellectual attainments are necessary in every calling. The student who neglects his opportunities to develop his mental powers is very foolish, for when he goes out into the world to earn a livelihood he will find that the thinking man is the one who gets ahead. On the sporting fields the clear-thinking athlete is the most successful, easily outstripping his slower comrades. Whatever is worth doing at all is worth doing well, and the thinking student soon learns to be thorough in all his efforts.

Professor—"You say you are engaged in some original research.
Upon what subject?"
Sophomore—"I'm trying to discover why the ink won't flow from my four-ain pen unless I place it in an upright position in the pocket of a light fancy vest."
Analysis is the dagger that lets the life-blood out of fiction's heart.
Analyze a passion—pick it to pieces, and it blows away. We must not analyze an oil painting, but must be satisfied with art, with deception, for all art has been termed sublime deception.
Too much humility is pride.

THORNYCROFT FARM, GLENDALE
Deep in shade and emerald lawn
Far from dust and din withdrawn,
With harmonious curves of green
Sleeps in golden light serene,
Birds one round as if to say,
"Here is peace for once today!
Here amid this green repose
Let the weary eyelids close;
Let the too-tense brain grow slack,
Dream thyself to Eden back."

WHITE AND BROWN LEGHORNS.
Professor M. E. Jaffa, poultry expert of the University of California, discussing the relative value of white and brown eggs, says in "Orchard and farm" for April:
"The white egg commands the higher price, but there is no reason why this should be so. Careful and comprehensive examinations of white and brown shelled eggs at the University laboratory have indicated that the variations between the chemical composition of the two varieties are so slight that they might even occur in two distinct analyses of the same sample.
"it has been said by some that the brown eggs are richer than the white. This statement is not borne out by chemical analysis, and physical examination proves that the main points of superiority, although extremely slight, are possessed by the white eggs. The minute differences that are found between the two groups are exceeded by variation between the varieties within the same group.
"Therefore, both from a chemical and physical point of view, there are practically no differences as far as the food value is concerned between white-shelled and brown-shelled eggs.
"it is stated by some commission-ment that if the brown-shelled eggs are carefully selected, clean, properly packed, etc., they will pay the same price for brown as for the white-shelled egg, but such is not the rule.
"Probably the reason white-shelled eggs are to be preferred is because in the early days, when there was no such ruling against the brown-shelled eggs, eggs were shipped into the San Francisco market of all colors, sizes, shapes and degrees of cleanliness,
and in consequence a broad, general rule was made as indicated. It is to be hoped in the near future that the prejudice against the brown-shelled egg in most of the California markets will be wiped out, as it certainly should be, and, when it is, there will be a greater incentive for raising those varieties which lay the brown-shelled egg. It is generally conceded that those fowls laying the brown-shelled egg make the best table fowls."

MODERN TOYS.
Modern toys for children are mar-vels of ingenuity. The latest is a model yacht, about three feet long, which runs by electricity. It has a motor and storage battery with a speed of 188 feet per minute. The motor is reversible, and it is steered from the wheel on the bridge. There are search lights and running lights, which are operated by a switch. Naturally there are no sails, and only one deck.

TRUE REFORM.
Reform, like charity, must begin at home. Once well at home, how it will radiate outwards, irrepresible, into all that we touch and handle, great and work-kindling ever new spreading in geometric ratio, far and wide, doing good only wherever it spreads, and not evil.—Carlyle.

Section 8. That said grantee, its successors or assigns, shall have the right, subject to such regulations as are now or may hereafter be in force, to excavate and remove portions of streets necessary to properly construct said road.

Section 9. That the Board of Trustees, in granting said franchise, expressly reserves the right to pave, macadamize, oil, sprinkle, gravel or otherwise improve, renew or sewer any of the said streets, or to lay gas, water or other pipes therein, said work to be done so as to injure said road as little as possible.

That cars shall be run over the road constructed under said franchise every day, unless prevented by the elements, riots, strikes or unavoidable causes; provided, also, that cars shall be run over and upon said road at intervals of not more than one (1) hour from seven o'clock a. m. until seven o'clock p. m. of each day, and as much oftener as may be necessary to properly accommodate all persons who apply for transportation over said road, except in times of extraordinary and unforeseen amounts of travel; provided that cars shall be run up to as late as 11:30 o'clock p. m. of each day.

Section 11. That persons under the age of eighteen years who attend the public schools of said city shall be required to pay but half single trip fare; provided that said pupils purchase their tickets in quantities of at least a dollar's worth at a time, such tickets to be available only between the hours of eight o'clock a. m. and six o'clock p. m., in actual passage to and from school, and the said grantee, its successors or assigns, shall sell such tickets whenever requested so to do, when schools are in session, by a pupil who shall present a certificate from a teacher, approved by the principal of such school, that he or she is a pupil of the said school.

Section 12. That the cars upon said road shall not be allowed to stand upon any street or any street intersection in such a manner as to obstruct the use of said streets by vehicles or pedestrians.

Section 13. That the said grantee, its successors or assigns, shall, during the life of said franchise, pay to the City of Glendale, in lawful money of the United States, two per cent. of the gross annual receipts of such grantee, its successors or assigns, arising from the use, operation or possession of said franchise. No percentage shall be paid for the first five years succeeding the date of said franchise, but thereafter such percentage shall be payable annually, and said franchise is to be forfeited by failure to make the payments provided for. Provided, that if the road for which said franchise is granted is to be an extension of an existing system of street railroad, then the gross receipts shall be estimated to be one-half of the proportion of the total gross receipts of said system which the mileage of such extension bears to the total mileage of the whole system; and such estimate shall be conclusively as to the amount of the gross receipts of said extension.

And it shall be the duty of the grantee of said franchise, or its successors or assigns, to file with the Clerk of the Board of Trustees at the expiration of six years from the date of granting of said franchise, and at the expiration of each and every year thereafter, a statement verified by the oath of said grantee, its successors or assigns, or by the oath of the manager or presiding officer of said grantee, or its successors or assigns, showing the total gross receipts and gross earnings collected or received by said grantee, or its successors or assigns, during the preceding twelve months from all traffic over any part of the line for the construction and operation of which said franchise is granted, or over any part of the system of railroad of which it may be an extension, and from all other sources, and within ten days after the time for filing the aforesaid statement it shall be the duty of said grantee, or its successors or assigns, to pay to the City Treasurer of said City the aggregate sum of said percentage upon the amount of the gross annual receipts arising from the use, operation or possession of said franchise, determined and computed in the manner hereinbefore provided.

And any neglect, omission or refusal by said grantee, or its successors or assigns, to file said verified statement, or to pay the said percentage of the gross annual receipts at the times or in the manner hereinbefore provided, shall ipso facto work a forfeiture of said franchise and of all rights thereunder to the City of Glendale.

Section 14. That the work of constructing said road shall be commenced in good faith within not more than four months from the date of the granting of said franchise, and shall be continuously prosecuted thereafter in good faith and without unnecessary or avoidable intermission or delay; that said work of construction shall be completed within not more than three years thereafter; that said work of construction shall be commenced and continuously prosecuted so that at least one-third of the work of construction of said road shall be completed within one year from the time of commencement, and that if said work be not so commenced, prosecuted and completed within the time or in the manner specified, said franchise shall be forfeited.

Section 15. That any neglect, failure or refusal to comply with any of the conditions of said franchise shall thereupon immediately ipso facto effect a forfeiture thereof, and the said Board of Trustees may thereupon declare said franchise forfeited and may exclude said grantee, or its successors or assigns, from further use of the streets under said franchise; and said grantee, or its successors or assigns, shall thereupon and immediately surrender all rights in and to the same, and said franchise shall be deemed and remain null, void and of no effect.

Notice is hereby given that sealed bids in writing will be received at the office of said Board of Trustees for said franchise up to 8 o'clock p. m. of the 9th day of June, 1913.

That the bids received will be opened at that time; that all bids must be for the payment of a stated sum in gold coin of the United States; and that the franchise will be struck off, sold and awarded to the person, firm or corporation who shall make the highest cash bid therefor; provided, only at the time of opening said bids, any responsible person, firm or corporation, present or represented, may bid for said franchise a sum not less than ten per cent. above the highest sealed bid therefor, and that said bid so made may be raised not less than ten per cent. by any other responsible bidder, and said bidding may so continue until finally said franchise shall be struck off, sold and awarded by said Board of Trustees to the highest bidder therefor in gold coin of the United States, and provided further that the Board of Trustees reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

Each sealed bid must be accompanied with cash, or a certified check, payable to the City Treasurer of the City of Glendale, for the full amount of said bid, and no sealed bid will be considered unless said cash or check is enclosed therewith; and the successful bidder must deposit at least ten per cent. of the amount of his bid with the clerk of said City before said franchise will be struck off to him, and if he shall fail to make such deposit immediately, his bid will not be received and will be considered as void; and said franchise will then and there be again offered for sale to the bidder who shall make the highest cash bid therefor, subject to the same conditions as to deposit above mentioned. Said procedure will be had until said franchise is struck off, sold and awarded to a bidder who shall make the necessary deposit of at least ten per cent. of the amount of his bid, as herein provided. Such successful bidder shall deposit with the City Clerk within twenty-four hours after the acceptance of his bid the remaining ninety per cent. of the amount thereof, and in case he or it fails to do so, then the said deposit heretofore made will be forfeited, and the award of said franchise will be void and said franchise will then and there, by said Board of Trustees be again offered for sale to the highest bidder therefor, in the same manner and under the same restrictions as hereinbefore provided, and in case said bidder fails to deposit with the City Clerk the remaining ninety per cent. of his bid within twenty-four hours after its acceptance, the award to him will be set aside, and the deposit heretofore made by him will be forfeited, and no further proceedings for the sale of said franchise

Notice is also hereby given that the successful bidder for said franchise must, within five days after the said franchise is awarded to him or it, file with said Board of Trustees a bond running to said City in the penal sum of five hundred dollars ($500.00) with at least two good and sufficient sureties, to be approved by said Board of Trustees, conditioned that said bidder will construct said railroad and shall well and truly observe, fulfill and perform each and every term and condition of said franchise, and that in case of any breach of condition of said bond, the whole amount of the penal sum therein named shall be taken and deemed to be liquidated damages and shall be recoverable from the principal and sureties upon said bond.

If said bond be not so filed, the award of said franchise will be set aside, and any money paid therefor will be forfeited.

Complaint is the largest tribute heaven receives, and the sincere part sureties upon said bond. If said bond be not so filed, the award of said franchise will be set aside, and any money paid therefor will be forfeited.

CHAPTER IX. A Bold Escape.

"You shall not do it, Tom!" she cried. "It is not to freedom, but to death, they would take you. Don't go, Tom! The lots decided it fairly, and your name was not drawn. You shall not!"

Here the silent Confederate officer, Captain Thornton, who had followed closely after her, caught her in his arms as she sank back fainting and, at a sign from the general, carried her, with the assistance of Warner, out of the room. Then, turning to Captain Cox, General Winder said:

"Your proposition is out of order, sir, and I cannot consider it. The six men whose names have been drawn will report at once in the commissary's room."

The general and his staff officers retired, while Captain Warner and the guard took up their positions at either side of the doorway.

Hunt, the sick man, who had been helped by Lieutenant Bedloe to a chair, now got up again and grasped Captain Cox's hand, saying:

"Tom, you are the better man of us two—you have proved it in every way. I'm glad Winder wouldn't take you, as it is far better that I should go. All the same, you meant it, old fellow, and it was sublime."

"Why, Ralph," said Cox chokingly, "we are comrades—old comrades. Say no more, but I wish to heaven I could go in your place."

"Attention! Fall in!" commanded Warner.

The six doomed men fell into line, after silently shaking hands with those left behind, Hunt leaning on the arm of young Bedloe, and followed Warner into the outer darkness, for night had fallen and the fitful glare of a couple of lanterns intensified rather than dissipated the surrounding gloom.

Cox paced up and down the forlorn room, with bowed head and hands clasped behind his back, for full fifteen minutes in the awed silence.

Then he muttered: "This is the last blow. Deacon, do you ever despair of what they call Providence?"

"Never did yet," protested the sturdy Hoosier. "I can't and won't believe they are going to sacrifice those boys in cold blood. Such things ain't in the bounds of civilization."

"I don't know. How about war itself? Here you have it, the deadliest kind—brother against brother. I tell you, Hart, we haven't seen the worst yet, though God knows there's enough to make the angels in heaven weep already."

"Well, one thing is certain—these hostages won't be sacrificed unless the Confederate prisoners are executed first—so our side will have the first move anyhow."

"What sort of consolation is that to the fellows who get shot or hung?" Here another violent commotion interrupted. Marie Mason entered—a lone, disheveled, bright-eyed apparition.

"Oh, Tom!" she gasped breathlessly. "What—you poor child, are you still here?" Cox exclaimed, his time gathering her unreservedly into his arms. "You must leave this accursed place or you will go mad—if you don't drive us so."

"I've come back to tell you there's more news."

"Of what? Of whom?" "From Washington—of the Confederate prisoner, General Winder has just received a dispatch."

"Great Jehosaphat!" ejaculated Hart. "Didn't I tell you so?"

"What does the dispatch say?" asked Cox.

"I don't know, but it is favorable, I am sure—that is, there aren't going to be any executions. I heard the general say that much."

"Here comes the commissary," announced Hart.

"For God's sake, Captain Warner," said Cox, as that official reappeared, "don't keep us in this horrible suspense another minute! What's the latest news?"

"There's a woman about—what more do you want?" replied Warner. "She overheard a secret about a minute ago and as a natural result it's all over the place by this time."

"I beg of you, cap, on my bended knees," pleaded Hart, suiting the action to the word.

"Well," said the commissary captain, very deliberately taking a paper from his pocket, "I suppose you-uns may as well be put out of your misery. Here's a copy of the dispatch General Winder has got from Abe Lincoln. I thought the Washington government would back down."

He handed the paper to Cox, who read eagerly aloud:

"President learns from New York trial of Confederate cruiser prisoners resulted in disagreement of jury. Leniency to be shown. Proposed holding of Union hostages in jeopardy at Richmond unnecessary. Question of exchange referred to separate negotiations pending on that subject. SIMON CAMERON, Secretary of War."

"You see, I was right this time," said Marie triumphantly.

"Hooray! Here come the boys back!" cried Deacon Hart. "What did I say about faith in Providence? This is going to be a blessed Thanksgiving, even if we ain't exchanged yet."

"Oh, Tom, this is your last chance!" whispered Marie as the tramp of approaching footsteps was heard outside.

"Last chance for what?" asked Captain Cox, with exasperating stupidity.

"Why, to kiss me."

Such was life, as it wore along in the Libby warehouse prisons. Sometimes, as in the instance just related, the emotions of years were crowded into a single hour. Ordinarily, the heavy days dragged so that each one seemed a weary lifetime. The hope of exchange was ever hope deferred. Plots and plans of escape served to beguile the intolerable ennui of captivity and to bring a passing flush of excitement to wan cheeks—and that was about all.

A warm, brotherly affection had sprung up between Captain Ralph Hunt, the weak but courageous consumptive, and Lieutenant Frank Bedloe, the youthful spirit of that sad community, who was more or less a mystery to his closest comrades, yet who bore a sort of "daredevil" reputation even among those who knew him but slightly or not at all. Bedloe fairly burned to be free and fighting again, and he lost sleep straining at the idea of escape. He had been in every forlorn hope of the kind since his arrival and was under special surveillance, perhaps on this account, perhaps at the instance of a certain Confederate secret officer, Thornton by name.
