The Legislature of Louisiana animables at Baton Bouge to day. We trust that the secation will be an active one, devoted exclusive; to the accomplishment of the important public daties devolving upon the members. Unfortunately experience proves that the General Assembly of our State does not differ materially in wisdom, energy and patrictum from the law-making power in other commonwealths; that the Representatives frittler away one-half their time, is verbose discussion, and in the passage of private hills and resolutions, and rarely go seriously to work until the closing days of the seedlow, when measures of the highest moment are apt to be burried through with unseenly haste, and without due deliberation. Such being the normal character of our Legislature, it would be exciting false hopes to say that we anticipate any veat amount of benefit to the State to result from its proceedings; yet we cannot refrain from suggesting one or two objects of legislature, touching which public opinion has been so clearly manifested as merally to compel our legislature to bestow upon them some attention.

Protection from inundation should claim the carnest consideration of the General Assembly. The calamities of the last year, its walving the loss of millions of dollars, the run of many small cultivators and the financial embarrassament of larger ones, admontals agree distinctly with a very large proportion of the citizens in heartily endorsing the claims of Mr. Benjamin to re-election, believing him to be pre-eminently qualified for the office. We do not admire his politics certainly, bug that does not blind us to his merita. As for Mr. Sandidge's genius, we have thus far failed to discover that he has any whatever. The entire scope of our article of Saturday was to enforce and maistains the propriety of keeping Senator Benjamin in the station he has siled worthily and honorably for the past six years. orably for the past six years. A VALUABLE BOOK.—Mr. Samuel Colman, general agent for the Appletons, has laid us under obligations by presenting us with two large and handsome volumes bearing the following title: "American Eloquence: a Collection of Epseches and Addresses by the

Some expression of opinion touching the slave trade would seem to be demanded of the Legislature. Since the last adjournment the press throughout the State has spoken out very generally, and ohiefy in opposition to every project tending directly or indirectly to commit the State to the policy of sanctioning the re-opening of the trade. If the Legislature thinks with the majority it should put a quietue on such speculation by a formal declaration of sentiment: if it entertains differquietus on such speculation by a formal de-claration of sentiment; if it entertains differ-ent views, it should have courage enough to
