Ross Watson Testifies At His Trial In Nanaimo Assize Court

WATSON TELLS JURY HE WAS NOT IN NANAIMO DAY BANK WAS ROBBED BY GANG OF MEN

Ex-Detective of Seattle accused of complicity in Coal City crime says Victoria, Vancouver and New Westminster only cities in Canada he ever visited; Says People saw him in Seattle on December 12.

Nanaimo, June 1.—When the trial of Ross C. Watson, former Seattle detective, accused of participation in the $42,000 robbery of the Royal Bank of Canada here December 12 last, was resumed this morning, the accused was called to the witness stand to give evidence in his own defence.

Watson stated he was born in the State of Washington and was thirty-four years of age and had spent the greater part of his life in Washington. He recited the history of his life up to the time of the robbery and admitted having been dismissed from the Seattle police force following an accusation made in connection with the robbery of the Ben Marche department store in Seattle.

BEAUTIFUL GIRLS DAZZLE DIRECTORS AT BOARD MEETING

Six Charming Princesses Make Bow at Chamber of Commerce Session

Six beautiful Princesses, like a breath of Summer, invaded the meeting of the directors of the Chamber of Commerce towards the end of a protracted session dealing with foreign trade, foreshore rights and other weighty business problems and wound up the meeting like a rainbow after a storm as they made their bow to the directors.

The enterprising Queen Contest manager, Dr. Clem Davies, introduced the Queen candidates to the meeting in his inimitable style. They were, he told the directors, the embodiment of all that could be desired in womanhood. Some had said that if Venus de Milo were alive she would be merely a dumbbell. The candidates had the honor to present to them with such pride their striking beauty and charm. They were both charming and educated. They had poise and grace. They had everything Victoria could desire in its representatives. They were modest, but not foolishly so. They were reluctant to stand the bold gaze of publicity, but not ridiculously so. A vision of service and self sacrifice had led them to allow themselves to become candidates in the Queen contest.

He urged every support for the contest. The Princesses made a smiling bow to the directors and gracefully retired.

Four Killed in Latest Outbreak; Police Fired Into Crowd in Street

Shanghai, June 1.—Outbreaks in the Japanese spinning mill strike agitation continued to-day and resulted in the killing of four more Chinese students, bringing the total dead to sixteen—since rioting started in the streets Saturday.

The afternoon outbreak came after sporadic disturbances had been reported from many sections throughout the morning, during which police, armed with sabres and rifles, marched through the streets of Shanghai.

NUMBER WOUNDED During the morning the crowd spread to the main business section. A clash between police and the disturbing elements resulted in the wounding of more than twenty agitators. (Concluded on page 2) up the Mediterranean Sea and fringed into Egypt and Palestine, India was the next country visited and here Dr. and Mrs. Grenfell spent considerable time.

While at Bombay, Dr. Grenfell picked up a hand loom which he claims is a much better hand loom than the average and which will be used as a pattern for the looms used by the industrious fish wives of Labrador. There are no more industrious people in the world than the people of Newfoundland and Labrador. Fishing is the chief industry with practically the entire male population engaged in occupations of the sea.
The women spin and weave, make toys, perform their household tasks and are happy in their simple life.

FISHING INDUSTRY
Dr. Grenfell was particularly interesting in the fishing industry in the various countries he visited, as fishing is the principal means of livelihood for his people.
"I was greatly impressed by the fishing methods of the Japanese," said Dr. Grenfell. "In Japan they make a thorough study of all fish resources and frame their plans for fish conservation with meticulous care."
Last night, Dr. Grenfell gave a lecture on Labrador before an audience which crowded the saloon of the Empress of Canada.

T. R. MARSHALL DIED
Death laid its hand on him suddenly. He passed away without a word and without evidence of pain as he was sitting propped up in bed reading a passage from the Bible.
Tentative plans were made for a funeral in Indianapolis, under the auspices of the Masonic fraternity, in which he held high degree. Burial probably will be at Marion, Indiana.

Coming from Virginia about 1840 by a steamer, Thomas Riley Marshall, while a successful lawyer, never courted national prominence until it was thrust upon him in 1908 by his nomination as Governor of Indiana and again later when he was selected as President Wilson's running mate in 1912 and 1916.
Mr. Marshall was born in North Manchester, Wabash County, Indiana, March 14, 1854, the only son of Dr. Daniel M. and Martha A. Patterson Marshall. He attended the public schools and his mother had dreams of him becoming a famous preacher, but the trials of a circuit rider in those days were repulsive to him, and after being graduated from Wabash College at Crawfordsville, Indiana, at nineteen years, he read law and was admitted to the bar at Columbus City, Indiana, upon his twenty-first birthday. The story of his life from then on until he was elected Governor of Indiana which opened the way for him to become a national figure, is a plain narrative, his entire time being devoted to the practice of law.

FIRST MET DEFEAT
Shortly after taking up law, Mr. Marshall was nominated for prosecuting attorney in a Republican stronghold, but defeated. His next

READ GREAT DEAL
Mr. Marshall was an omnivorous reader, but as he once expressed to a friend, "not at all a thoughtful reader." He had a penchant for detective or mystery stories and frequently sat up all night to complete the reading of a tale. He also was a Bible student and often-times while seeing a student in his office reading from the little "vest-pocket Testament" which he always carried. Of moderate financial circumstance, he was deeply interested in educational, church and charitable work.
There are so many views as to what constitute true success, I have no suggestion of my own, he once wrote to a friend in reply to an inquiry. "My views of success are not generally accepted, I think any man is successful in that he is successful well with regard to the rights of others in the particular thing God fitted him to do."
Mr. Marshall was a Presbyterian, an active member of the Phi Gamma Delta and the Phi Beta Kappa fraternities. He also held the honorary degree of LL.D. from several colleges and universities.
His public career ceased when he retired as Vice-President of the firm of his and President Wilson's term in 1924. Since then he had lived quietly.

political venture did not come until early in 1908, when friends suggested he become a candidate for Congress in the Twelfth Indiana District. He declined, however, explaining he was afraid he might be elected. When it was suggested he seek the Democratic gubernatorial nomination in Indiana, Mr. Marshall replied that while his one ambition was to be elected to the United States Congress, he would do nothing to attain the nomination although his friends could do what they pleased. When the state convention was held in Indianapolis later, he was elected as a compromise candidate between the forces of Thomas Taggart, former United States Senator, and the anti-Taggart forces, and won in that bitter 1908 campaign, in which he carried the state by 10,000 while President Taft carried it by 15,000.

HELPEE-UNFORTUNATES
During four years as Governor his administration was criticized, especially by the enactment of legislation looking to the moral and physical welfare of the state's unfortunate. One policy inaugurated by him was that of never allowing a child to be born in prison or a person to die behind the bars if there was a home to which they could go.
Mr. Marshall was nominated for the vice-presidency of the United States in Baltimore in 1912, after his name had been before the convention for a number of ballots as a presidential candidate with the Indiana delegation solidly behind him. He was again renominated with President Wilson at St. Louis in 1916.

Mr. Marshall prided himself on the fact that he had always been "a plain every-day average American citizen," democratic and unassuming, and to his neighbors in Columbia City was always affectionately referred to as "Tom."
He married on October 2, 1895, Miss Lee Annsey Angola, Indiana. Because of his deep love for his mother he did not marry until she died. The same devotion always existed toward his wife, and he always accompanied her on campaign or lecture trips. With the exception of never missing an opportunity to assist a fellow man, Marshall was not an enthusiast over outdoor sports.

ADOPTED A SON

SASKATCHEWAN ELECTION
SIXTY-THREE MEMBERS
The Legislature of Saskatchewan is composed of sixty-three members. In the Legislature just dissolved the Government party numbered forty-six.
Two of the constituencies of the province will not vote in tomorrow's polling which is deferred because of their remoteness.
AN AFTERNOON MANOEUVRE
Regina, June 1 (Canadian Press).—The New Standard, an election newspaper published by the Conservative Party organization in this city, reported this afternoon the text of an agreement drawn up on the legal paper of Cross, Jones, Hugs and Forbes for the pooling and sale of liquor stocks. The document is being used as the vehicle of an attack on the Government of Premier C. A. B. Ross personally with the transaction has been published.
Publication of the document, coupled with the earlier reproduction of a cheque for $50,000 drawn in favor of E. B. Jones, another member of the legal firm, and signed by E. B. Jones in 1924, has created much discussion the political camps here.
The Conservatives say they want a royal commission to investigate the connection of the Attorney-General's firm with the transactions mentioned.
QUESTION PUT FORWARD
With the publication of these documents and other questions have been put forward in the closing hours of the election campaign.
E. B. Jones this afternoon issued a statement with regard to the alleged royal commission to investigate the settlement of a dispute which Natan-son advised me had for some time been outstanding between Z. Natan- son and H. Brownman in regard to liquor and other matters. The proceeds of such cheque were held by the trust and every dollar was paid out to H. Brownman and Z. Natan- son in accordance with the settlement made between them, in which I took no part. Not a cent of such amount was retained by me."

The statement adds that neither Hon. J. A. Cross nor any other member of the firm had anything to do with the transaction.

DEATHS IN SHANGHAI
The total number of wounded as a result of street fighting thus far is given as twenty-six. Included are several known to be mortally wounded.
Three Russian agitators were arrested near the scene of the outbreak in the business district in morning. The police charged after the first outbreak on Saturday that Bolsheviki propaganda was responsible for the demonstration by students.
Dispatches from Shanghai Saturday declared that six Chinese students had been killed by the Sikh police during anti-Japanese riots.

WATSON TRIAL
Several visitors
Watson stated that the same evening a number of persons visited his home.
The following morning he drove his wife to her work at the Balcum Lumber Company, later returning home. At 12:15 noon he drove back to the home, and started to take her to a dentist, but she felt so ill he took her home instead. During the afternoon a number of persons called on the home, including George MacLellan of the Seattle police force; a Mr. and Mrs. Jackson, Glen Decker, a Mr. and Mrs. Newman and a Mr. Nelson.

DINED AT CAFE
In the evening Watson invited the party to dine downtown, and while on the way was stopped by Constable Weeden, a motorcycle officer, for driving too fast, but the constable did not make any arrest. Dinner was taken at the Grand Cafe, the party leaving after dinner for the Watson home, where a number of persons spent the evening, including Mr. and Mrs. Newman, Mr. and Mrs. Boyd and Glen Decker.
Witness stated he had never been in any city in Canada outside of Vancouver and Victoria, except his passing through New Westminster. Mrs. Agnes Riddell of Seattle stated she knew the accused. She talked over the telephone to him on December 22, inquiring as to the health of Mrs. Watson.
Edgar Hazelwood, engaged at the Colonial Garage, Seattle, said he saw Watson on December 11, when he left his car to be washed.

OTTAWA DEATH
Ottawa, June 1.—A Gaullin, for many years an alderman of Ottawa, died suddenly here yesterday, aged fifty-two.

RECORD ATTENDANCE
Hamilton, Ont., June 1.—Early registration for the annual convention of the Canadian Manufacturers Association here gave every indication that the attendance will exceed all previous records. Montreal and Quebec province points are well represented and there is an unusually good delegation from the Maritime Provinces. Several members have arrived from the Western provinces and there are many arrivals from Toronto and other Ontario points by motor.
Manufacturers of Canada are evidently keenly interested in the business here it is to come before the convention and which will be introduced through various committee reports.

EAST INDIAN PARTY IN NATIONAL COSTUME AT VICTORIA TO-DAY
Or considerable interest on board the C.P.S.S. Empress of Canada, which docked at Victoria this morning, was an East Indian party in native costume, mother and son, coming to Victoria to join their family here after many years apart. Of the Mohammedan faith the woman was garbed from head to foot in white and kept her face averted from the bolder Western eyes. They were met at the dock by the husband and other relatives in a gaily-turbaned reunion that presented an unusual show of color.

WHAT TRADE AND COMMERCE HAVE TO PAY FOR

ONE THREE-LINE DISPATCH FROM LONDON ON SATURDAY IS A FAIRLY CONCLUSIVE EXPLANATION OF THE REASON WHY THE RATES FOR FREIGHT AND PASSENGERS ON THE NORTH ATLANTIC ARE AS EXPENSIVE AS EVERYBODY IN THIS COUNTRY NOW KNOWS THEY ARE.

London, May 30—Twelve large liners arrived at Southampton to-day, bringing close on 4,000 visitors.

Among these arrivals was the giant Leviathan, capable of carrying considerably more than two thousand passengers.

It is also to be noted that the Majestic—the biggest ship in the world—with a similar amount of accommodation, arrived at Southampton on Friday night.

None of the eleven other vessels would be much less in size and carrying capacity than the liners of the Canadian Pacific fleet which use the port of Victoria.

It is also to be remembered that only the Southampton arrivals are mentioned in the dispatch to which we draw attention.

Since the McMaster Committee commenced its inquiries into the operation of the North Atlantic Shipping Conference the people of this country have learned a good deal about ships and their carrying capacity.

But it did not require such an investigation as is now going on to inform them that if twelve great steamships could get no more than four thousand passengers between them—and no doubt the freight was proportionate—at this time of the year, something is radically wrong somewhere.

The fact of the matter is: There is altogether too much equipment on the seas at the present time. That is why passenger traffic and trade and commerce, particularly the trade and commerce of this country, have to bear disproportionate charges.

"OVER-GOVERNED AND UNDER-POPULATED"

AT THE ANNUAL MEETING OF THE CANADIAN MANUFACTURERS' ASSOCIATION WHICH COMMENCED ITS BUSINESS IN HAMILTON THIS AFTERNOON COLONEL ARTHUR HATCH, ITS PRESIDENT, SAID THAT "CANADA IS OVER-GOVERNED AND UNDER-POPULATED."

Whether the country is suffering from an excess of government may reasonably be put under the heading of debatable questions. All will agree that Canada is under-populated.

Opinions may differ as to the most effective means of correcting this condition. Colonel Hatch very probably has his own view. He is, however, the president of an organization whose resolutions usually favor an increase in the duty on all those articles which are used by the settler.

That is to say, he and his colleagues would ask the farmer to pay more for his agricultural implements, the fisherman more for his equipment, the prospector more for the tools which are essential to his calling, the lumberman more for the paraphernalia that he uses in the forest, and for no other reason than that such an increase in the amount of these duties would put a little more money into the pockets of the few—most of them members of the Association over which Colonel Hatch presides—a course which would keep Canada under-populated.

If we are over-governed, we can soon balance it by bringing in more people for the rural areas. One way to get them is to assure them that they may obtain their implements of production at a reasonable rate. This has been and is the aim of the King Government.

GENERAL MORRISON

IN THE PASSING OF Major-General Sir Edward W. B. Morrison the newspaper realm of Canada has lost a brilliant and successful figure and the military life of the country a fine soldier.

In both departments of national service he achieved fame and success.

From The Hamilton Spectator, on which well-known newspaper he obtained his training and gained much experience, Sir Edward went to the editorial chair of The Ottawa Citizen and in that capacity established a reputation which placed him in the very forefront of the calling of his choice.

Possessed of a keen news sense, a capacity to express himself in the clearest and most convincing phrase, he long ago won his spurs in the higher realms of the Fourth Estate. As the editorial director of The Citizen

SANITATION

To the Editor.—There recent articles in your paper when placed side by side demand the attention of the electors of Victoria. The articles are as follows: (1) May 28, "Fighting the Plague." It says, "The plague takes three forms, all due to the same germ. Primarily it is a disease of rodents—rats, squirrels and their like. I presume many bears, dogs, cats, etc. The rodents have fleas. When a rodent dies of plague the infected flea desert the body. If no other rodent is nearby they make for a human being. Thus plague passes from rodent to man. It is upon the extermination of rodents and other rodents that the United States Public Health Service centres its efforts in its constant anti-plague warfare."

(2) May 27, "Council Revivita Against Continued Sewage Trouble." Alderman Todd gravely, "I wonder why 'gravely' was forced in there?" introduced to the council a letter from the health officer, Dr. A. G. Price. This wonderful report practically releases Saanich from criticism. It states, "Conditions are stated to have been better in many complaints in past years, and were investigated by the sanitary inspector of the Provincial Health Department, but nothing has been done by Saanich, and conditions have remained the same." The inference is that the Provincial officer found no reasonable cause of complaint, and Dr. Price's report is a mere flourish.

What we mean by this remark is that they are subject to the human frailties. At a public meeting, once called on me, and as he lit his cigar and drank some cognac brandy in his coffee after dinner, he said, "I am glad to see a man who has a few redeeming virtues."

Most of us regard vice as evidence of brotherhood. They show that a man is done on our plane and is not removed from us. We should remember, however, that while it is human to err, as Pope said, it is not human to be conscious of error, to reject it and struggle against it.

The human thing is to have a temptation, to be subject to it. That is one part of our humanity. Another element of our humanity, however, is to struggle against evil.

We go for comfort and help to the men who have overcome weakness, not to the men who have yielded.

Give us a fellow feeling for a map to know that he is subject to the same temptations as ourselves. But his advice and example are more helpful than his own. He has successfully combated with these temptations and overcome them.

It is said of the Master that He was not without sin. It is this very fact of His being without sin, of His having had the temptations and of having overcome them that renders Him a source of strength to humanity.

On the one hand we do not get any benefit from one who has never felt the urge that we have felt, the propensity to evil; on the other hand we do not get any help if he has yielded to it.

The fact that another man has felt the same temptations that we have makes him an inheritor of our common lot, gives us a firm ally, allows feeling, but we must remember that he is of no assistance to us unless he has successfully combated these temptations.

There are many examples of those who have gone wrong, who have yielded to the same attacks that are made upon us, but there are a few examples of those who have successfully resisted them.

We all know how to yield. We all do not know how to resist. And the power to resist is what we most desire.

HEALTH & DISEASE FEAR

In every human being fear is an inborn emotion. Very wisely has nature provided it as a means of adjustment to the sense of self-protection, but like all other emotions it must be governed by intellect. The unknown is frequently a potential cause of fear, and in the early years of life, at this time also imagination is stronger and frequently the child is a terror-stricken prey to its own ignorance.

In order to be a healthy, happy, and constructive citizen, he must become a destructive emotion, parents, guardians and teachers must assume a grave responsibility.

To frighten a child as a means of enforcing obedience is little less than criminal. Telling them that the policeman will take them away, that some animal will cause grievous bodily harm, or that some unknown creature which roams the earth looking for bad children will carry them off creates in their imaginative minds, complexes of which the adult has no conception.

Is it any wonder that children will not go to sleep in the dark when the night is filled with such terrors, or that they fail to exercise their natural freedom when all out-doors is replete with baby-sitting bears?

This practice, only results in keeping the child in a constant state of anxiety and harmful excitement, to say nothing of the perpetual unwholesomeness of the child's mind in nature years, unconvincable dread of certain things, to terrors inspired in their infancy by misguided parents.

Naturally this gruesome waste of emotional energy vitiate a nervous system which thereby may be handicapped throughout life. By all means teach children to guard against those menacing things which may do them harm—teach them to fear nothing if you would have them face life with equanimity and let instruction and knowledge supplant fear.

BOAT THIEF TOOK PROPERTY FROM HOMES AND YACHTS

Boaty Discovered by Holiday-makers in Telegraph Bay

A boat thief of wide versatility is being sought by the Saanich Police, and an arrest is hourly expected to be made, as a result of the discovery of a rowboat, laden with multitude of stolen articles, yesterday afternoon at Telegraph Bay.

A party of holiday-makers, headed by Stanley Lawrie, yesterday afternoon observed a rowboat, perched high upon the rocks of Telegraph Bay foreshore, in a position only noticable from the sea. Similarity to descriptions of a rowboat reported stolen being noted, the party landed and discovered that the boat was the missing vessel owned by H. E. Beasley, with the rowlocks, muffled, and equipped with oars from D. C. Andrews' skiff shed.

Examination showed that the boat was heavily laden with clothing, blankets, fishing equipment, cooking utensils and such impedimenta as a tin of ketchup, a tin of marmalade, a tin of applesauce, and a tin of jam. The boat was also found to contain a number of stolen articles, including a watch, a pair of shoes, a hat, a bag, and a number of other articles.

The Saanich Police Department was notified and Constable Brown took charge, being later joined by Chief Hastings. Inquiries showed that a great number of Summer cottages in the nearby district had been burglarized and rifled of their portable contents.

CHAMBER AGAINST FORESHORE RIGHTS

The objection to the granting of foreshore rights at the Gorge registered by the tourist group of the Chamber of Commerce following discussion on the Victoria Amateur Swimming Club's application to rope off certain areas in the water at their quarters opposite the Gorge Park were discussed by Chamber of Commerce directors this afternoon. The directors voted against foreshore rights on the Gorge following the remarks of Mr. Campbell, in which he explained that if foreshore rights were granted the whole waterfront was liable to be studded with buildings. It would not be possible to interfere with the operations of the club.

RUSSIAN COUNCIL CLAIMS EXEMPTION

William McHugh, new consul and diplomat plenipotentiary for Russia, visited the Parliament Buildings today to make his official call. Mr. McHugh, who is a member of the Russian team, but his venerable bearing, his ambassadorial frock coat and his perfect speech give him an air of being a representative of an aristocrat, rather than of a diplomat.

The only thing Bolshevik about his appearance was the red carnation in his button-hole, which, it was explained, is worn by all members of the Russian corps diplomatique.

He expected to pay his respects to Premier Oliver, he said, but the Premier was out of town. However, Mr. McHugh started in for business right at once, thereby causing something of a stir in departmental circles. The first thing he moved for was an understanding with the Government that he, as the Russian member of the corps diplomatique, was exempt from any court action or arrest while representing his nation in this country. Officials were unable to pass upon his proposal until the Premier returns, and he will have to deal with the new "Russian ambassador."

DOMINION ACADEMY PUPILS IN FINAL RECITAL OF SEASON

On Saturday evening the pupils of Madame Webb and Miss Mylam again delighted a capacity audience at their studio with vocal and instrumental selections.

A feature of the entertainment was the first appearance in public of several of the students and their very creditable performances under those conditions.

Another item of much interest was the ensemble trio (three pianos) entitled "Valse" (Curwen) in which nine little girls took part. Their very excellent team work was a tribute to the painstaking tuition which they receive.

In the same class might be mentioned the piano quartet (Bartlett), the piano solos "Hungarian Dance" (Brahms), Sonata C Minor, first movement (Beethoven), and Polish Polka (Chopin).

At the close of the recital the certificates awarded by the Trinity College of Music, London, Eng. were distributed by Dr. Hudson who, in a brief and cheery speech, called for the cheers for Madame Webb and Miss Mylam, who will be leaving for a short trip to England at the end of the present term.

NO MOTION AGAINST TAX STAND SIGNS

Tourist Group Motion Calling For Removal Defeated

Directors Opposed to Disfiguring Signs in General Without Discrimination

The new tax stand and signs on the corner of Government and Belleville Streets are not an eyesore and should be allowed to remain, the committee of the Chamber of Commerce headed by Mayor Allan Lyons, M.P.P., reported to the directors of to-day. The committee recommended the business be not interfered with. Major Lyons added that as long as other signs were not being ordered torn down he did not see the necessity of a protest against the particular one should be picked upon. Dan W. Campbell, chairman of the Tourist Trade Group, repeated his objections. J. L. Beckwith, supporting him, pointed out that the Canadian National Railway, owners of the property, had offered to cancel the lease, which had been granted on the condition that the sign be taken, if the signs were found objectionable. The City Council had voted for the sign to be torn down.

C. C. Nicholas suggested the directors register a protest against all disfiguring signs, with no discrimination against the sign in question.

The report of the committee was laid on the table, and the chamber went on record as opposed to disfiguring signs in general.

LABORITES MAY RULE NEW SOUTH WALES

Final Election Count Comes Slowly, as Preference Voting Used

Sydney, Australia, June 1.—(Canadian Press Cable, via Reuter's)—It is possible the next Government of New South Wales will be a Labor Government, with J. Carlton as Premier, in succession to the administration of Sir George Fuller, Nationalist leader, as a result of the general election on Saturday, although so far there seems to be considerable doubt as to the result of the election. Both parties claim victory, but as many votes have yet to be counted under the preference system of voting, it is impossible to state definitely which party is in the lead.

DEATH OF CHICAGO MAN INVESTIGATED

Wealthy Broker Was Burned; His Wife and Policeman Injured

Chicago, June 1.—A police inquiry was under way to-day into the mysterious death of D. R. Parsons, a wealthy broker, who was found burned to death in his apartment here yesterday following a fire the origin of which had not been explained. Firemen found the body of Parsons partly clothed in the burned drawing-room of his home.

In the apartment at the time were Mrs. Parsons and James King, a policeman, who said he had accompanied the broker home several hours previously.

Mrs. Parsons, an amateur singer and known to her friends as a motorist and horsewoman, suffered slight burns on her face and hands, while King was severely burned and also injured when he fell from a second-story window.

Many persons about to attend service at a nearby Michigan Avenue Church and millionaire residents of the Gold Coast were attracted to the scene of the blaze.

CANADA POPULARITY WANES IN LONDON, SAYS BANK PRESIDENT

Montreal, June 1.—"The return of Great Britain to a free gold market constitutes one of the most important financial events of recent years," declared Sir Vincent Meredith, Bart., president of the Bank of Montreal, just returned from a visit to England and France, during an interview here to-day.

"Viewed in a cold-blooded, analytical sense, it is an experiment. No one can dogmatize and say what the result will be. There are those who advocate Canada following Britain's lead and at once declaring herself on a gold basis but I am not one of them. I am strongly of the opinion that Canada should await the evolution of the only true gold basis, viz., a less unfavorable balance of trade with the United States or some other at present undisclosed condition which would render it safe and desirable for Canada to return to a gold basis."

"From my observation, I am sorry to find that Canada is not as popular in financial circles in London and Paris as was the case on my last visit."

BERLIN UNDISTURBED BY PROTEST THREATS

Berlin, June 1 (Associated Press)—Reports from America that holders of German securities intend to issue a protest against the Dawes plan, and the German Government's revaluation plan have not disturbed the cabinet.

At the Foreign Office it was stated to-day the Dawes plan itself constitutes a safe guaranty against agitation of this nature. Germany's creditors have every reason not to disturb the equilibrium which Germany may wish to maintain, which has established, it was stated.

To attempt to force Germany to pay a higher percentage of the government's obligations than provided for in the revaluation law would mean rendering it impossible for Germany to meet the payments called for under the Dawes plan, Foreign Office officials said.

PROVINCIAL W.B.A. COMPLIMENTED ON BENEVOLENT WORK

Rev. Clem Davies Welcomes Delegates to Women's Convention Open To-day

Delegates from all parts of the Province gathered in the Chamber of Commerce auditorium this morning for the Provincial convention of the Women's Benefit Association. Mrs. Minnie Aydelotte, supreme lieutenant-commander of the order, who is here from Oakland, Cal., was present, and Mrs. Nellie Pettipiece, provincial deputy for British Columbia, and Mrs. Margaret Cameron, district deputy, were among the distinguished guests.

In the unavoidable absence of Mayor Pedray, an address of welcome was given by Rev. Clem Davies, who said in part: "I know of no more beneficial service in the world than that of undergirding, as you are doing, the homes of women and children with friendship and financial aid during the period which follows bereavement. The Women's Benefit Association has now become recognized the world over for the fact that it has welded into a great body women in all walks of life, not only for the alleviating of the burdens which necessarily follow in the train of sickness and death, but for the opening to women especially channels of splendid and useful service. Formerly a woman was looked upon primarily as a housekeeper, but you have discovered to your women's place—has, in the past, been too largely circumscribed by the little concerns of the home, such as the butcher, the baker and the candlestick maker, and without realizing it, as you have shown, women have, in the past built around themselves a little false room. Family and clothes and kitchen can easily become the whole world to a woman. While there is need for good housekeeping, there is also need for efficient city-housekeeping, and province-wide housekeeping and national housekeeping, and you have projected by your activities and education the place of woman as a home maker into the larger sphere of the common life and welfare. You have found that as women and mothers you have crouched too long at the little man-made hearth, and you are going forward to the great work of kindling the hearth of the world that man has left desolate."

HOUSE WEDDING WAS PRETTY CEREMONY

Miss Elsie Hetherington of Marinello Parlors Married Sunday

The home of the bride's parents at 459 Belleville Street, was the scene of a very pretty wedding Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, when the Rev. Clem Davies united in marriage Miss Lucy Hetherington, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hetherington, and Mr. Horace Malden, son of Mr. and Mrs. Malden of Manchester, England. The bride was prettily decorated with a profusion of early summer flowers, and the ceremony was performed under an archway of Spanish daisies, delphiniums and roses.

The bride wore a lovely gown of white crepe chiffon trimmed with bebe satin ribbon and tiny lace ruffles, and wore a coronet of French orange blossoms in her hair. She carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses. Mrs. A. Hetherington, matron of honor, and Miss Elsie Hetherington, sister of the bride, as bridesmaids, both wore frocks of shell-pink charmeuse with hats of pink trimmed with gold, and carried sheaves of delphinium tied with pink tulle. Mr. Carl Pearce acted as best man. Two little children, Edith Hetherington and Horace Philby, acted as train-bearers for the bride. As the bride entered the drawing room, two violinists played the Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin, the players being Miss Anita Holt and Mrs. G. Heatherbell.

After the ceremony a buffet luncheon was served, the handsome three-tier wedding cake occupying the centre of the table. A large number of friends extended their felicitations to the young people, who left later for a honeymoon in the United States. They will later make their home in Victoria.

TO-MORROW'S HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

TUESDAY, JUNE 2

The augury of this day is an auspicious one, judging by the mutual and lunar figures, but the good fortune may be negated by a tendency to rash and impetuous actions and quarrels or disputes. Writings, publications or contracts may also be a cause for anxiety. However, industry and application should be rewarded, and those in the employment of others, who qualify, are in line for promotion, performance or increase of salary.

Those whose birthday it is are under the augury of a year of success and advancement if they check the tendency to impetuous and quarrelsome demeanor and be careful in the handling of all writings and documents. If in the employment of others, industry and application may be recognized. A child born on this day should be clever, industrious and ambitious and should rise to important position, but it should be trained to control its tendency to rash and tumultuous conduct and quick tongue.

BEDTIME STORY

Uncle Wiggily and the Sneezing Flower

Copyright, 1925, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate
(By Howard R. Garis)

Weezy and Wizzie, the little rabbit girl and boy twins, were out in the fields not far from Uncle Wiggily's hollow stump bungalow, gathering flowers one day.

"There's a pretty yellow blossom over by that big rock," said Weezy. "Please pick it, Wizzie, for my paws are filled with blue blossoms."

"All right," answered her brother. So he hopped across the green grass and picked the yellow flower. "I will take it home to our new daddy, Uncle Wiggily," decided Wizzie. "He likes yellow blossoms."

"I wish he had come out with us to-day," laughed Weezy. "Maybe, then, we would have had an adventure."

"Well, if we take this—a-ker-choo flower to Daddicus, maybe he will make an adventure for us," said Wizzie, laughing.

"Why do you call it an a-ker-choo flower?" asked Weezy. "To me it looks just like a dandelion."

"I didn't call it an a-ker-choo flower," answered Wizzie with another laugh. "I just sneezed when I picked it—that's all."

"Oh," said his sister, and they hopped on over the fields and through the woods until they reached the hollow stump bungalow, where

"Let me see your tongue!" began Dr. Possum.

Uncle Wiggily lived with his new rabbit wife and all the forty-seven or more little rabbit boys and girls she had brought to him.

"Here's a yellow flower for you, Daddy, Uncle Wiggily," said Wizzie, as he handed Mr. Longears the yellow blossom. "Weezy and I picked it for you."

"Oh, thank you, ever so much!" cried Uncle Wiggily with a jolly twinkle of his pink nose. Weezy put the flower in a case of water near her new daddy, who was sitting in his easy chair reading the paper.

Then the little rabbit boys and girls hopped off to school, and Mr. Longears, having read the paper on both sides, was about to hop out and look for an adventure when all of a sudden, he gave a loud sneeze, "A-ker-choo, ker-choo!"

"My goodness!" cried his wife, hopping in from the kitchen, where she was preparing a turkey. "You are catching cold, Wiggy, my dear! You mustn't think of going out!"

"I'm not catching cold," laughed the bunny. "I just sneezed."

"That's a sure sign you're catching cold," went on Mrs. Longears. "I must send for Dr. Possum at once!" She hopped to the telephone and though Uncle Wiggily insisted that he was all right, and had no cold, his wife called in Dr. Possum.

"I'm 'Lem me see your tongue!" began Dr. Possum. "Ah, yes!" he went on when he had looked at it. "You have the zoo choo zip ker foot!"

"Oh, what a dreadful disease!" exclaimed Mrs. Longears.

"No, No!" quickly said the animal doctor. "That isn't what Uncle Wiggily has. I just sneezed, that's all! I meant to say he had a cold!"

"Then you must be catching one also!" laughed the bunny gentleman, "for you sneezed yourself!"

"So you did," said Mrs. Longears. "I'm not sneezing myself. You went ker foot ker choo!"

"That was a good imitation of how I went," laughed Dr. Possum.

"I wasn't imitating you," said Mrs. Longears. "I was ker sneezing myself. Oh, do you think I am getting cold also?"

Dr. Possum was just going to give Uncle Wiggily some bitter medicine for a cold when the animal doctor happened to see the yellow flower which Weezy and Wizzie had brought home. Dr. Possum went to the flower and smelled it. Then he sneezed again—"ker-choo zip!"

"Everybody is catching cold," laughed Uncle Wiggily.

"No," said Dr. Possum. "It's just this blossom. It is a sneezing flower. The petals are filled with yellow dust, called pollen, and from it the bees make wax baskets to hold their honey. But when this yellow pollen gets up any one's nose it makes them sneeze. That is what has been making us sneeze. If I put the flower out of the room we will sneeze no more. And, surely enough, when the flower was taken away they all stopped sneezing."

"I'm glad," laughed Uncle Wiggily, as Dr. Possum put the bitter medicine back in his bag. "I'm glad it was only a sneezing flower. And if the June bug will take a piece of mosquito netting and make a ham-bag for you next about Uncle Wiggily and the wise hen."

MILTON SILLS LEFT CHAIR OF PHILOSOPHY TO TAKE UP CAREER IN MOVIES

Former University Professor Leads Cast in "I Want My Man," First National Drama Showing This Week at Capitol Theatre.

"Every man, once in his life, stands before the Rubicon of his desire. Either he plunges across to the victory of following his inner ambitions or he loses by turning his back from the course he longs to follow.

"In either case, victory or defeat is irrespective of success or failure in the choice he makes.

Milton Sills, former University of Chicago professor, thus accounts for his leaving the chair of philosophy for the life of a strolling player. He is now appearing with Doris Kenyon at the Capitol Theatre (this week in his latest First National drama, "I Want My Man.")

Sills took many a knock from cold theatre audiences that made him rue temporarily his abandonment of college class-room audiences. But his philosophy was one of self-expression. His heart was in the theatre, and his feet were in the theatre, and his feet always led him back there to try again.

Finally in 1909, he opened in New York in "This Woman and This Man," by Avery Hopwood. He scored a big hit. Sills had found himself.

After that came seasons on Broadway in "Servant in the House," with Henry Miller; "The Fighting Hope," with Blanche Bates; "The Wreck," "Diplomacy," "Mother," "The Governor's Lady" and others.

In 1914 he made his first picture, under Maurice Tourneur, in "The Phil," followed by "The Deep Purple." Then he played in "Under Southern Skies," "The Honor System," then a series, "Patria," with Mrs. Vernon Castle, and numerous other films.

Then he was engaged by First National to be featured with Colleen Moore in "Flaming Youth," which was followed by a series of First National, including "Flowing Gold," "The Sea Hawk," and "As Man Desires."

In "I Want My Man," adapted from the Struthers Burt novel, "The Interpreter's House," Sills is co-featured with Doris Kenyon. It is the story of a man who returns after eight years abroad seeking a cure for blindness and finds on regaining his sight that the world is in the grip of an after-war pleasure-debauch.

The drama was produced by Earl Hudson and directed by Lambert Hillier. The supporting cast includes Phyllis Haver, May Allison, Paul Nicholson, Kate Bruce, W. Howard, Charles Lane, Theresa Maxwell Conover and Louis Stern.

How much is a screen star worth—dead? The question seems paradoxical, but the fact remains that should Constance Talmadge die to-day the Joseph M. Schenck Productions estimates its loss would aggregate $1,000,000. For that reason the film producers, though the Beland Levy Company of Los Angeles have taken out policies for that amount on the lives of both Constance and her sister, Norma.

Other policies also were taken out to cover accidental injury or disfigurement of the stars which would preclude their future appearance on the screen. In addition to this, both Constance and Norma carry personal policies of large amounts.

These stars, perhaps oftener than any others, submit themselves to danger in the making of pictures. In the filming of her latest First National, "Learning to Love," at the Coliseum Theatre all this week, Constance had a narrow escape from death. A heavy bank of electric arcs, temporarily placed, crashed to the studio floor, narrowly missing her as she worked.

The picture, which portrays Constance as a girl graduate trying to select a husband will be shown at the Coliseum Theatre all this week.

Music Lovers' Night at Capitol

The following inviting programme has been prepared by Mr. A. Prescott, director of the Capitol Theatre orchestra for Music Lovers' Night to-night. A very varied programme of selections has been arranged in conjunction with the feature picture "I Want My Man," including the following: Overture, "Poet and Peasant" (By request); Burlesque selection, "Lady Be Good"; Youmans; valse, "Poudre"; Popey; selection, "Oh, My Dear"; Gershwin.

Explorer to Make Long Journey in Northern Canada

Edmonton, June 1.—Jack Hornby, well-known Barren Lands explorer, will essay the long overland journey from Great Slave Lake East to Chesterfield Inlet on Hudson Bay this Summer, according to word received here.

A party which left Fort Reliance, included Mr. Hornby, Malcolm and Allan Stewart of Peace River and Capt. Critchell Bullock.

The Stewart brothers expect to reach Edmonton by July with a large shipment of furs, but long before that Mr. Hornby will have started his Northward trip.

The delayed word from the party indicates the group of adventurers lived in a hole dug in a sand bank during the winter. This primitive abode was restored to because high winds prevented the erection of a tent or any other structure. Fish caught below the ice and caribou hunted far out on the Barrens formed the winter diet of the party, while fuel was hauled to the dug-out at times from a distance of thirty miles.

The long trek across the Barrens will be largely through unexplored territory, and the data gained by the adventurers is expected to prove of great value and importance.

$15,000 Fire Seen In Rock Creek, B.C.

Grand Forks, B.C., June 1.—The general store of the Rock Creek Co-operative Association, with its contents, and Arthur Busch's garage at Rock Creek, were destroyed by fire Saturday morning, the loss being estimated at $15,000, partly covered by insurance. Two adjoining buildings were dynamited in order to stem the path of the flames, which seriously threatened the entire village.

"The Scarlet Lily," Starring Katherine MacDonald, Screen Feature

When Frank Morton presented "Maggie and Jiggs in Society" at the Playhouse a few weeks ago, the bill with such success that it was decided to secure the entire series of the famous cartoon musical comedies.

"Maggie and Jiggs in London" is the second of the series, and will be presented by the Morton Company all this week. Frank Morton and Gladys Vaughan will again be seen in their famous roles, but aside from the two principal characters, everything is different from the first "Maggie and Jiggs" production. The action, this time, takes place in London town, with "Maggie" and "Jiggs" as members of the best society. New song hits, specialties and numbers, with special stage settings and costumes are important features.

The power of the press, one of the most potent forces of present-day life, is vividly portrayed in "The Scarlet Lily," a First National picture produced by B. P. Schulberg and starring Katherine MacDonald which is showing at the Playhouse Theatre. The photoplay was directed by Victor Scherzinger from the original story by Fred Sittenham.

Colorado Mountain May Slide Once More

Denver, Colo., June 1.—Charles W. Henderson, mineral geographer of the United States Geological Survey, points out that even a mountain cannot engage in "galloping" without pausing to "catch its breath."

He believes the "moving mountain" on the highway between Meeker and Rifle, Colorado, may be resting for another slide into the Rio Blanco valley.

A number of large cracks have appeared across the base of the mountain, and this, according to Henderson, indicates the base of the peak is weakening. If this base, a stratum of sandstone, gives way, the mountain is expected to slip farther into the valley.

Geologists attribute the movement of the mountain partly to a "physical amputation" of its base, made for the construction of the highway. This slicing of the peak's toe apparently upset its equilibrium, they say.

Price of Bread in Vancouver Raised

Vancouver, June 1.—The price of bread here is up again. Commencing this morning, Vancouver bakers went back to a standard eighteen-ounce loaf to be sold for ten cents straight in stores or delivered from baker's vans. The wholesale price to the storekeeper is eight cents.

For a couple of months past the standard loaf has been sixteen ounces and sold retail at two loaves for fifteen cents or eight cents for the single loaf. That was a slight increase over the previous price.

New York, June 1.—Charles B. Lawlor, seventy-two, who in 1894 wrote "The Sidewalks of New York," favorite song of Tammany Hall, died yesterday of heart disease.

Outlaws' Cabin is Now Radio Church

Tonopah, Nev., June 1.—In the hills near the new gold camp of Gilbert, thirty miles from here, is an old-stone structure known as the Outlaws' Cabin. It has stood for fifty years or more. Many tales are told of this rendezvous of the desperadoes who once infested the desert country. It was here they gathered to plan their stage hold-ups and periodic raids on the scattered settlements—or to divide the booty on an occasion that often ended in a bloody fight. Many bullet scars in the walls and dark streaks on the floor testify to the former character of the place.

Now the name of the cabin has been changed to the Radio Church. The discoverers of gold in the surrounding hills lately, bringing a stampede of prospectors, provided a new use for the old landmark.

Every Sunday evening it is filled with those who listen in on a sermon delivered several hundred miles away.

Some of the grizzled old-timers are a bit bewildered at the rapid march of progress, but gradually they are becoming used to radio talks and concerts in remote places, to prospecting with an automobile instead of with a string of burros.

Carrier Pigeons Flew in Germany

Munich, June 1.—Fifteen hundred carrier pigeons on Saturday flew from Munich to Frankfurt with the news of the opening of the German Traffic and Communications Exposition, said to be the first of its kind devoted exclusively to the demonstration of the science of travel and communication.

The carrier pigeons were loaned by the Frankfurt Bird Fanciers' Society. After being released the birds circled over the exposition before winging their way towards Frankfurt, 200 miles distant, arriving in the afternoon.

The exposition, which is sponsored by the federal government and by the German states, will remain open until October 1.

Jackie Coogan At His Best in "The Rag Man"

Child Genius in Story of Comedy and Pathos at Columbia

Back to his "enduring rags" once more, Jackie Coogan will be at Columbia Theatre to-day for three days, ending Wednesday, in his latest Metro-Goldwin picture, "The Rag Man." Those folk who have been demanding to see the Jackie they first loved in "The Kid," will have their opportunity, for he is said to have a similar role that gives him just as much chance for pathos and even more for comedy.

The story was written especially for the child star by Willard Mack, and this distinguished playwright has constructed a humorous and thrilling tale as only he can do full of activity, but not crowded with complications.

BETTY BALFOUR, "BRITAIN'S QUEEN OF HAPPINESS," NOW STARRING IN "REVEILLE"

Film Career of Artist, Who Has Been Acting Since Babyhood, Like a Fairy Story; Pictured as "Mick," The Flapper, at Dominion Theatre.

Betty Balfour is at the Dominion this week. Beyond the fact that as a child she was a very clever mimic, there have been few revelations, concerning the early life of Betty Balfour, Britain's greatest film star. Her earliest memories are of a visit to a theatre at the tender age of three to see "The Duchess of Dantzig." From five onward she was in great demand at parties and "ag-homes"—and became a regular lion, consulting her audiences with impersonations. At ten she was singing and dancing at charity concerts, and was hailed by the press with a unanimous chorus of approval. One of her big hits was her spirited rendering of Fragon's "En Avant" at the great Palladium. Later she played a season of French plays at the London Ambassador Theatre with M. Max Dearly, and here Charles Cochran saw and engaged her for a revue, in which she made a great hit.

Her film career reads like a fairy story. One film—the comic slaver in "Nothing Else Matters"—and then a jump straight to stardom in "Wee MacGregor's Sweetheart." The famous Squibs series, and "Love, Life and Laughter" followed, and now in "Reveille," as Mick, the flapper, she has created a character of exquisite light and shade, with its phases of great emotion and comic relief. This picture will be shown at the Dominion Theatre all this week.

Sent to Oakalla

Nelson, B.C., June 1.—Pat Hanley, recently tried here for the murder of Miss Mildred Nelson, Trail nurse, the jury disagreeing, left Saturday night for Oakalla Prison. Oscar Olson and John Sierma to serve two and three years, respectively, for statutory offences, also left for Oakalla.

"What brought about the trouble between young Angus and his sweet heart?"

"He thought a quarrel was cheaper than a birthday present."

'An Artist's Model' Hincks' Offering At the Coliseum

For this week the Hincks Company announce another big musical success for their stage bill. "An Artist's Model" needs little of any introduction to Coliseum patrons in that it is one of Jones' masterpieces of music set to a most amusing story, which contains just the right elements for a good interesting tale embellished with plenty of hearty laughs. It is particularly interesting to note that an old favorite, Peggy Lewis, is to be in the cast this week, after an absence of some five weeks, due to illness.

ION PERDICARIS DIED IN ENGLAND

His Capture by Moroccan Bandit in 1904 Created International Incident

New York, June 1.—Word was received to-day by Dr. Talcott Williams, Professor of Journalism, in Columbia University, of the death of Ion Perdicaris in England. Perdicaris, whose capture by the Moroccan bandit Raisuli in 1904 created an international episode, with the United States Government demanding of the Sultan his release, was a guest in his home after his release. Raisuli captured Perdicaris and his stepson, Crumwell Varley, an Englishman, in their home on the outskirts of Tangier, holding them for a ransom of $5,000, and also demanding certain political immunity from the Sultan.

PRESBYTERIANS TO MEET IN TORONTO

Last Session of General Assembly to Begin Wednesday; Church Union Near

Toronto, June 1.—The fifty-first and last Assembly of the Presbyterian Church of Canada as constituted at present will open in College Street Church here next Wednesday evening with the election of the new Moderator, who will be, it is expected, Rev. Dr. George C. Pidgeon of Toronto. The present Moderator, Rev. Principal Clarence Mackinnon, will then present his report. The final session of the Assembly will be held on Tuesday afternoon, June 9, and the following day the church will enter the United Church of Canada. For final discussion of union parts of the session of Friday have been set aside. It is thought unlikely any contentious matters will be introduced, but that discussion will centre on ways and means of amalgamating the various enterprises of the uniting denominations.

On Monday evening, June 8, there will be a general presentation by various speakers of the contribution of the Presbyterian Church to the United Church.

SCOTTISH ASSEMBLIES

Edinburgh, June 1 (Canadian Press Cable).—The Assemblies of the Church of Scotland and the United Free Church which have just finished their labors are regarded as having been especially memorable.

According to the view of impartial participants, they revealed a wide-spread prospect of consummating a reunion of the two church bodies, although the discussions indicated the CANADIAN KILLED BY AGENTS OF U.S.

Guards Near Quebec Line Say A. Bilodeau Had Quantity of Narcotic Drugs

Colebrook, N.H., June 1.—The fatal shooting of Anton Bilodeau of Sherbrooke, Que., by a United States federal narcotic agent on the Quebec road at the international boundary line Saturday is being investigated by federal authorities.

Five thousand dollars' worth of narcotic drugs were seized in a car in which Bilodeau and two companions were riding. His companions charged he was shot while on Canadian soil. The agents claim he was shot on the United States side of the line, but staggered across the boundary before he fell. He was trying to escape from the officers.

HIGH TARIFF IS TO BE DISCUSSED

Government Gives Meighen Opportunity to Bring Resolution Before House

Ottawa, June 1 (Canadian Press).—The House of Commons will spend Tuesday in debate on the subject of a high protective tariff. Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, Conservative leader, will, by special arrangement with the Government, make a resolution, which has been standing in his name on the Order Paper since the beginning of the session. The resolution states that in the opinion of the House there should be "an immediate revision of the Canadian tariff on a definitely and consistently protective basis." It states that such revision should apply to natural products and manufactured goods, that steps should be taken to conserve for Canadian development resources of material and power, and that no Empire preference should be given at the expense of the Canadian workers.

Mr. Meighen will bring the matter before the House by moving the resolution on a motion to go into committee of supply. He will be followed by other speakers from the Conservative Party, and although the debate probably will not be carried to a division, it will likely last throughout the afternoon and evening sittings.

It is stated certain Liberal members may contest the right of the committee of the Opposition to bring his resolution before the House for debate in this manner by raising a point of order.

BUFFALO HERD IS TO BE MOVED NORTH

Winnipeg, June 1.—Preparations are now complete for the transportation of 1,000 buffaloes from Wainwright, Sask. to the Lesser Slave Lake area, planned for this month. These animals will be taken from the herd, at present in the Wainwright National Park, consisting of approximately 8,000 head. They will be moved in the first place from Wainwright to the end of steel at Waterways, Alta., and then shipped by scows, specially built at Edmonton, down the Athabasca River to Smith Landing.

At the present time there are two herds of buffaloes—the only ones on

Relief Urged For Soldier Settlers

Calgary, June 1.—Declaring land in Alberta was being sold to new settlers at a much cheaper rate than to returned soldiers who took advantage of the Soldier Land Settlement Act, members of the Alberta provincial command of the Great War Veterans' Association went on record Sunday as being in favor of full measures of relief for soldier-settlers either by revaluation of land, stock and equipment, or by waiving of interest. It was claimed a large number of soldier settlers never would be able to pay the Government the principal or even the interest on their holdings, and that if the Government could afford to sell land to new settlers as cheaply as it was reported to be doing, it was time soldier settlers received some measure of relief.

ECONOMISTS STUDY PLANS TO FACILITATE PURCHASE OF FARMS

Roseman, Mont., June 1.—An agricultural experiment of nation-wide interest, whereby well-known economists, agriculturalists and realty men hope to find the most practical solution of the landlord-tenant problem on the farm, is under way in the Northwest this Spring. Backed by funds loaned through the Laura Spellman Rockefeller Foundation, and under the guidance of economists, successful farmers and realty men, the Fairway Farms Corporation secured farms and engaged tenants in the Northwest to start operation of an experiment in the interest of agricultural science in the United States.

FOUR ANSWERS

The announcement of the new corporation and its backing by the Laura Spellman Rockefeller Foundation was made in Montana by M. L. Wilson and J. L. Humphrey, directors of the corporation. The corporation, they explain, seeks to establish four fundamental answers in its experiment with farms in the Northwestern Great Plains region. Through these experiments they will seek to demonstrate as follows:

First, that sound landlord-tenant relations can be established whereby a capable tenant with limited capital may, within a reasonable time, become a farm owner if he is given proper guidance and working capital by an intelligent landlord.

Second, that workable plans can be developed for the settlement and development of privately owned lands under competent guidance and direction, with reasonable interest on invested capital.

BEST TYPE OF AGRICULTURE

Third, that there can be developed a type of agriculture best suited to the Northern Great Plains area.

Fourth, that there is a field for private capital in the formation of farm companies which will purchase or contract for purchase of farms, and reorganize, lease under terms which will resell them to capable young tenants who have demonstrated character and industry, but who lack capital to buy land.

The Fairway Farms Corporation will select competent agricultural experts to advise with the tenants, so that each tenant will have the advice of a trained specialist who is, in turn, backed by the experience and judgment of economists, successful farmers and realty men. Because a number of these farms will be in Montana, a working agreement has been made with the Montana State College extension to use them as a basis for educational work and for the purpose of distributing over the country valuable information which will develop in the experiments.

TO BUY FARMS

One of the essential points in the system is that each tenant who enters upon a farm does so in the expectation of buying the place at some time in the future, and at the price named in his original tenancy contract.

Backers of the Fairway Farms Corporation believe successful results from their experiment will open a new era of land settlement in the Northwest with landlord-tenant relations established on a sound economic basis; investors will be certain of a fair return in invested capital, while tenants will be assured of farm ownership with payments extended over a period of years, and also assured of the highest possible chance of success through intelligent advice and direction from experts employed by the landlord.

TWENTY AUTOS WERE SOLD FOR $58.62

Los Angeles, June 1.—Automobiles were purchased for from $2 to $4 and motorcycles for 50 cents at a sale held by the Los Angeles police department in disposing of unclaimed machines. The lowest price paid was 25 cents for a battered chassis of a popular make of car, while the high mark was reached when an anxious motorist bid $15.50 for an antique motor-driven conveyance that was guaranteed to run.

In all, twenty cars were sold, a majority of which were ancient model and some with romantic records. They brought in a total of $58.62. The lowest price paid for a complete automobile was $1. Motorcycles were sold at prices ranging from 50 cents to $2.

Buyers were obliged to move the cars from the stocks and police department officials say most of them left at the end of two ropes.

HOLIDAY CROWD WAS SEARCHED FOR LIQUOR

Amherstburg, Ont., June 1.—Detroit and Windsor Ferry Company passengers numbering about 4,000 United States holiday makers were subjected to an unusual experience Saturday before being allowed to land on the soil of Detroit's most popular pleasure resort. Customs and immigration officials conducted a vigorous search of two of the company's steamers, which carried three bottles of wine, one bottle of gin and one of whisky, but owing to the small official staff at the dock some of the offenders were able to sneak their moonshine and gin to the crowd.

It was the first day of Amherstburg's reprisal against the ferry company for springing up of the liquor, which in former years piled between that town and the island.

SIX MINERS LOST LIVES IN ALABAMA

Birmingham, Ala., June 1.—Six white miners were killed last night in a mine accident at Piper, Ala., resulting to the Little Capital Coal Company, owners of the mine here, said. The deaths are believed to have been caused by an accumulation of black smoke in an unlined heading of the mine, which men were exploring. There was no explosion.

The heading where the men met death had been sealed for two months following a fire in March. It was opened Sunday and the six men went in to see if the fire was out. Attempts had been made to ventilate the shaft and when the men went in, officials believed the heading was safe.

British Legion Meets in London

London, June 1 (Canadian Press Cable).—In his presidential address at the opening of the annual conference of the British Legion in Queen's Hall Saturday, Field Marshal Earl Haig welcomed Viscount Jellicoe, who was present, as a valuable reinforcement to the legion.

He regretted that a resolution which was passed at the conference of the Inter-Allied Federation of ex-Servicemen in September last, urging the collaboration of all the Allied ex-Servicemen's organizations with former enemy organizations, had not met with the whole-hearted support of the Allies. He emphasized the legion's enormous power for doing good by convincing the Allies that the only way to secure the peace of the world was by agreement, co-operation and mutual good-will, and also by binding the Empire together by a chain of mutual good will and understanding.

Earl Haig mentioned there had been an increase of 103 branches in the legion, which was now the largest non-party organization in the country.

Amid great cheering Prince Arthur of Connaught presented Earl Haig with the Legion's royal charter.

Viscount Jellicoe stated he would devote himself to helping that class of immigrant who was willing to work on the land. It was a class for which there was every opportunity.

FIVE OF FAMILY KILLED IN CRASH

Hamilton, O., June 1.—Five members of an Indian family of six were killed and the sixth, a boy of ten, was injured severely when their automobile was struck by a train near here yesterday morning.

Those killed were: H. C. Hutchens, forty-five, Willow Branch, Ind.; Mrs. Maisie Hutchens, forty-three, his wife; Donald Hutchens, eight, and Margaret Hutchens and Gladys Hutchens.

The son, Earl, the only surviving member of the family, is in a critical condition. He is suffering from a fracture of the skull.

If you are troubled with indigestion, here is a suggestion that may help you.

Simply eat a few peppermint Life Savers after meals. You will be surprised to see how these delicious little mint circles ease away indigestion distress.

They'll make two smiles grow where there was only one frown before.

Local Yachtsmen Open Season With Splendid Regatta

Seattle Power Boats and Sailing Craft Were Here For Big Day on Saturday

Fine Weather Attends Opening; Kay Dee and Imp Win Races From Seattle

With a large number of Seattle yachtsmen present the Royal Victoria Yacht Club held its opening regatta of the season on Saturday afternoon.

The local club is looking forward to the greatest season in its history. Not only does the club regatta give promise of providing new and keener competition in view of the new boats that have been secured, but the big Pacific Coast regatta in July will greatly stimulate interest in the sport here and give new impetus to the club.

In the races on Saturday afternoon Major Buck and H. Payne won in the Smith class after three heats, while in the cruiser class Major Langley's Dorothy was the first across the line.

The Kay Dee was the first boat away from Seattle, and the Williams kept her in the lead, finishing half an hour ahead of the Mary. The Kay Dee was eight hours making the run.

IMP BEST SAILER The Imp, with Frank White and Henry Sanders aboard, walked away with the sailboat race from Seattle to Victoria.

All the Seattle boats turned their noses back to Seattle yesterday. The visiting yachtsmen enjoyed Saturday night at the Royal Victoria Yacht Club at the inaugural dance of the season.

Inter-club Bowling Gets Underway and Victoria Teams Win

Inter-club bowling by selected teams representing clubs in the Victoria district opened on Saturday.

The Greater Victoria Bowling League in the course of a few years promises to be an important body, typical of the younger and more aggressive element who follow the art of the biased bowl.

Several senior members put in good work for their respective sides on Saturday, but they recognized that they have passed "the championship" in the bowling game, and expect to have a strenuous time playing up to their positions on the "blue card team" as the league ranks are called.

Hornsby Starts Off With a Win; Red Sox Beat Yankees and Giants Lick Vance

New York, June 1.—The New York Yankees enter to-day upon a home series against the champion Senators with new hope growing out of the expected return to the lineup of Babe Ruth and his mighty bat.

Improvement in the club's morale and attack are looked for by Manager Huggins, although he does not expect much of Babe in the way of home runs for two months of illness have left the batting champion still weak.

The Huggins made a desperate effort yesterday, but after twelve innings they bowed to the Red Sox 9-6 as Boston bunched his off-shawkey Philadelphia dropped one to the Senators, 4-3. Bucky Harris's single with the bases full in the ninth driving home the winning counter.

Gibbons and Tunney Meeting Next Friday Night; Story on McTigue Fight

New York, June 1.—Tom Gibbons has come from Atlantic City to complete his training for his fifteen-round heavyweight fight with Gene Tunney here Friday night.

Discussion of the Gibbons-Tunney match to-day was merged with speculation on the ability of the newly-crowned light heavyweight champion, Paul Berlenbach, to defend his crown for any period of a length against three strong challengers.

SLATTERY IS A MARVEL Other challengers are Young Stribling, who won a newspaper decision over McTigue last winter in Newark and Jimmy Slattery, of Buffalo, who won a quick knockout of Jack Burke at the Stadium Saturday, stamped him as one of the fastest and hardest hitting contenders in the division.

PAUL BEGAN FURIOUSLY Berlenbach opened his bid for the championship on Saturday with a rush, tearing in at McTigue with left jabs for the body and head, and right jab for the head.

HIS FINAL STAND McTigue's backers sent him out to make a final stand in the fifteenth. The champion gamely went to the task. He rushed at Berlenbach and backed him into the ropes as he piled rights and lefts. The Astoria fighter leaped back at his foe, and for the first time in the contest the two men battered away at each other without attempt at defence.

Victoria Retains Its Place at Top Of Cricket League

Defeated Cowichan Saturday Without Much Effort; Five C's Surprise Incogs

No Out-of-the-Ordinary Hitting Feats; Incogs Showing a Disappointment

Victoria retained its lead in the "A" Division of the Victoria and District Cricket Association by disposing of the Cowichan eleven, which last year won the championship on Saturday afternoon.

The biggest surprise of the afternoon was the way the usually hard hitting Incog side crumpled up before the bowling of the Five C's. Leo Quantin and Atwell had the Incogs at their mercy and took wickets so cheaply that the side was all out for a mere 89. Reg Wenman topped the side with a 25, while seven wickets went down for fifteen runs.

COWICHAN FAILS For the second time this season Cowichan failed to win a match. The champions were unable to get going properly and outside of Horsfall's 49 the side hit very feebly and the total score was 116. Jukes with four wickets for 24 runs, and Cocks with two-for-ten, led the Victoria bowlers and made the path uneasy for the visiting batsmen.

Wall Street TO DAY

Last Minute News on Stocks and Financial Affairs

New York, June 1.—(By R. P. Clark and Co., Ltd.)—The turnover was smaller to-day and the market a very irregular one. The oils and the major portion of the industrials were heavy, a great part of the session, although considerable of the selling seemed to be representatives of professional to bring about a reaction. There was nothing disturbing in the way of news and the reaction in the departments seemed to be but a natural one. Some of the metal stocks, especially American and Canadian, were rather strong. Some talk is in circulation that an increase in American Smelters dividend will be ordered at the next meeting, if not an extra dividend which probably will be offered, the earnings of the company in the first quarter were extremely satisfactory and at favorable prices prevailing for lead, especially the company's quarterly earnings will probably shape up very well.

The oils stocks were rather heavy, selling at 133% on expectation of heavy buying in the downward tendency in the industrial section. The rails also were affected in a moderate manner. We see no alteration in the fundamental factors contributing to the stability of prices, and therefore we believe we are in a bull market, with of course, usual reservations that grow out of profit taking sales.

New York, June 1 (By B.C. Bond Corporation's Direct Wall Street Wire).—The Wall Street Journal's stock market edition this afternoon, which was published at 11:30 a.m., from the holiday expected a strong market, and most of the market leaders suggested no reaction should be looked for. Tobacco stocks were the week. As usual the majority opinion of the market started churning, with no headway being made, and the occasional comment on picking up of the sports like Bethlehem Steel and some of the industrials, and gradually the declines in these effected the entire market and prices slid off, some more readily than others. It was noticeable, however, that stocks which had been advanced on company developments retained good markets and were supported on the way down. Most of the drop in some instances as a result of a few price cuts.

Tobacco stocks all sold off fractionally. Western Union was strong, selling at 133% on expectation of favorable developments. Int. Tel. and Tel. sold at 117, a new high, but lost six points in this subsequent decline. Traction shares were strong as a result of weakness of Hyland stock. With money renewing at four per cent owing to June 1 payments and much of the holiday spirit apparently still in effect, the market was in small attendance in commission houses, the market developed a decidedly irregular trend toward the end of the first hour and numerous stocks lost their initial gains. Included in these were Baldwin, which reacted a point to 113, Mack at 180 1/4 was down nearly two points from previous session, and Reading, which reacted to 89 1/2, more than a point from earlier prices.

Earnings continued to help Brooklyn Manhattan Transit to a new high for the year at 49 1/2, while it and the Interboro benefited from development in New York political situation. International Tel. continued to advance up to 117, where a lot of profit taking encouraged rapidly carrying the stock down to 113, but this reaction was due entirely to the fact that the stock has advanced 25 points in the last two weeks. While the Interboro dividend, twice over, the 1924 showing of better than $18 was attained in part through non-resident income. Western Union was strong, selling at 133% as a result of the re-capitalizing of America District Telegraph Co.

Chicago, June 1 (By R. P. Clark and Company).—Wheat: Prospects for showery over wide areas of the belt led to free profit-taking in the session and early gains were more than wiped out. Outside buying failed to follow the early advance and the market was rather unsteady. Dry weather dominates over the major portion of the belt, and a good soaking is needed according to best advice, but the market has had an extended advance lately and reactions at this time are to be expected. A local export estimate totals wheat yield for this year at 663,000,000 bushels, or 110,000,000 more than harvested last year. The foundation in wheat seems fairly bullish, the crop outlook is anything but favorable in this country, and on the dip we favor the buying side.

Corn: Prices reacted with wheat in the last hour more than forfeiting early gains. Volume of trade was moderate and scattered selling through commission houses, some with Eastern connections, found the buying power on the weak. Many of the early buyers were dislodged, demand for cash corn was active with elevator interests, shippers and industries taking hold. Corn is in need of rains, and the seasonal temperatures. On the weak spots we recommend the buying side.

London, June 1.—The feeling increased here to-day, the eleventh since the Amundsen-Ellsworth expedition hopped off for the North Pole, that the explorers would not return by air but be forced to undertake a long weary land trek back to civilization. Considerable satisfaction was expressed here at the alacrity displayed by explorers in various parts of the world who want to engage in rescue expeditions. Wheat Turns Heavy As Crop Improves Winnipeg, June 1.—Restricted demand and favorable weather throughout Western Canada imparted a heaviness to trading on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange to-day. Shortly after the opening, the market underwent a sharp decline and after minor rallies the new crop future closed 4 1/2 cents under Saturday's price at 174 1/2, October finishing 2 1/2 down at 147 1/2.

The general undertone was weak with a tendency on the part of the trade to liquidate, the market dropped under its own weight. Trade volume was light. More bullish crop reports from the United States wheat belt failed to strengthen sentiment here.

Winnipeg, June 1 (By R. P. Clark & Co.)—Wheat: The market was very heavy to-day prices losing considerable ground and closing near the low spot. July final figures showing a loss of 4 1/2 cents and October 2 1/2 cents. With the lack of export business, millers doing winter wheat situation throughout the Canadian West, extremely favorable with good rains received in all districts of the three prairie provinces, local sentiment has turned decidedly bearish. All the orders of the day, both by locals and by houses with wire connections to the South, while there was little buying power, the market was holding up support on the extreme break. Export business was practically nil over the week-end and this must be on a much broader scale of winter wheat conditions be greatly used, if present levels are to be maintained. We believe the spread between July and October will narrow considerably and think that American markets should be relatively stronger than Winnipeg. Unfavorable crop reports continue to come from the United States, and Cromwell places the condition of wheat in the West at 6.4 indicating a crop of 413,000,000 bushels, considerably less than his figures of May 1. Spring wheat condition was placed at 9.3 indicating a crop of 249,000,000 bushels. The decrease in the United States visible was disappointing, being only 2,505,000 bushels, white shipments from North America that week were 6,482,000 bushels with world's shipments 11,114,000 bushels. The Liverpool market was closed to-day, on account of the holiday there and the Winnipeg market will be closed on Wednesday, June 3, the King's birthday.

Course grains: There was a small trade in course grains to-day. The market held firm in the grain part of the session, but sold off later, oats closing 1 1/2 cents lower, barely 5-8 cents to 1 1/2 cents lower, and 1 1/2 3/4 cents lower to 5-8 cents higher for the October. Flax tendency throughout, final figures around the low spots and showing a loss of 3-8 cents to 7 1/2 cents for the July and October, respectively. Trade very small at a little scattered selling.

Winnipeg, June 1 (By B.C. Bond Corporation's direct pit wire).—Wheat had easier tone due to professional selling induced by good rains over week-end in Western Canada. There was fair class of buying at times, but offerings continued heavy and closed around low points. Apparently those who have been consistently supporting market have taken profits and are allowing the market to sag before reinstating. Cromwell's estimate has been construed as bullish, but his Spring wheat estimate was larger than anticipated. Export business continues dull but with weak cash demand. Continue to favor purchases on setbacks, such as to-day, but would be satisfied with moderate profits.

Cross-word Puzzle 2328

HOW TO SOLVE THE CROSS-WORD PUZZLE

Every number in the form represents the beginning of a word, reading either horizontally or vertically. If there is a black square to the left of the number, the word is horizontal; if above it, the word is vertical. The same number may of course begin both a horizontal and a vertical. The definitions for the correct words to fill the form are found below, with numbers corresponding to those on the form. Run through the definitions till you find one that you recognize, and put it in its proper place on the form, one letter for each white square. This will furnish several cross-clues to the words linking with it at right angles. Continue in this manner till the form is completely filled. If you have solved the puzzle correctly it should read both horizontally and vertically with words corresponding to the definitions. The correct solution of to-day's puzzle will be printed in the next issue of THE TIMES.

NEW SERIAL STORY

"The Steadfast Heart"

By Clarence Budington Kelland

Dave Wilkins paused in the door long enough to locate Mary Trueman, and then, with perfect calm, walked down the aisle, followed by Angus and stopped at the end of the pew where she sat.

"Here he is, Miss Trueman," he said. "Better give me a receipt for him." With that he turned and walked with elaborate nonchalance out of the church.

Mary made room for Angus beside her. Crane, whose genial smile had slipped from his face at Angus's entrance, recovered himself, and went on with the announcement he was making, but his smile was gone for that day. The school arose to sing, but few eyes were on the books. Whispers flew from child to child, from teacher to teacher, from class to class. The place of worship rustled; a tenseness of waiting fell upon it. Angus had been recognized at once.

Mary saw how her boys had drawn away from Angus, crowding themselves as far as possible to the other end of the pew, whence they gazed at her and at Angus with that vacancy of expression which, in the active boy, conceals thought and portends action. Angus noticed the commotion and the drawing away, for he pressed closer to Mary and looked up into her face uneasily. She smiled and circled his shoulders with her arm.

"I'm glad you came, Angus," she said. "You didn't forget."

"No," he said, glancing at the boys quickly, apprehensively, and then back to her face.

"You feel a little strange at first," she said. "That you must remember that everybody is glad to have you here. You're going to enjoy Sunday school."

He shook his head slowly.

"What? You won't enjoy coming? It ain't that. I dunno. He looked again at the boys and cast a glance at a little girl who was standing on tiptoe to peer over the back of a seat at him. "They," he said, pointing, "don't want me here."

"Of course they want you. I'll introduce you and then it will be all right." She motioned to the boys.

"Come closer. This is Angus Burke, and he's going to be in our class. Shake hands with him, and we'll get acquainted before the lesson begins."

They hung back with faces which became stubborn.

She singled out a fresh-faced boy.

"Harold Cuyler, won't you come and shake hands with Angus?"

Harold drew down his lip sullenly and put his hands behind him. "No," he said stubbornly. "I don't want nothing to do with him. He's a murderer."

"Shame!" Mary's voice was sharp. "He's not a murderer. He's just a little boy like yourselves. Only he hasn't had the good things and the good times you've had. He's been very unfortunate and unhappy, but that's all over now. He's going to have a fresh start and grow up to be a good man. . . . I'm ashamed of all of you."

"He's going to be in our class," Harold demanded.

"Yes."

"Then I ain't, I ain't goin' to be in any Sunday school with a murderer. My grandfather said I want to play with him or to have anything to do with him."

"Then your grandfather ought to be ashamed of himself," said Mary, with more heat than diplomacy. She turned, conscious that someone was behind her and saw Malcolm Crane standing in the aisle. He pointed to Angus and his face was forbidding.

"Do you see that face this exactly like he asked coldly."

"Why not?"

"Why—ah—it seems hardly proper to have this boy—fresh from jail—mingle with these others."

"Nonsense," said Mary with acerbity.

"He's ignorant and dirty. Think of his stupid family. It's not right to bring him here where he can taint these other little fellows who come from Christian homes."

SCHOOL DAYS By DWIG

"You can see for yourself that he's clean," said Mary, "and as for the rest—let's be just the sort our Sunday school ought to reach."

"There is a proper way of doing it—not by bringing him here. I object to having my son sit in class with him, and so will other parents."

"You are perfectly at liberty, Mr. Crane, to take your son away."

Harold lacked the courage to stand by his prejudice to that point. Mary waited, but he did not reply.

"I have asked Angus Burke to come into my class," she said. "It is right that he should come, and I shall do all I can to see that he stays."

"I don't think much of the Christian of folks who would deny the Church to the unfortunate."

Crane turned on his heel and strode to his place in front of the pulpit. Encouraged by his example, Mary's boys rose in revolt.

"I ain't goin' to stay," said Harold Cuyler. "Not with him."

"Nor me—nor me," cried others, and they began to scramble out of the school.

"If you go," said Mary, "you can't come back. I sha'n't be your teacher again. Remember that."

They scuffled off silently, leaving Mary alone with Angus and her brother Jimmy. She arose and took Angus by the hand. "Come on," she said chokingly, "I guess they don't want us here. Come on, Jimmy."

"I won't," Jimmy muttered. "I won't go walkin' out beside him."

Mary passed down the aisle holding Angus's frightened hand, and out of the church. As she stepped through the door a hubbub broke out behind her which could not be curbed. . . . It is doubtful if that day's lesson was of profit either to pupils or to teachers. . . . It was a lesson which burned deep into Angus Burke's soul, and perhaps was not without its benefit to him. Malcolm Crane alone felt that there had been something of success in it.

CHAPTER VI

At the end of the printing office, Jake Schwartz, printer of the old school which, even in the early eighties was already on the decline, was engaged in the unpleasantly odorous occupation of moulding rollers for the antiquated press on which the Weekly Observer was printed. Jake was inky, glaucous, savage of temper, and a perpetual atomizer giving off the fumes of strong drink. . . . But he knew his trade, and his loyalty to Dave Wilkins was of the sort which hits first and never stops to inquire at all.

Nearer to the front, where the light was stronger, a boy who looked to be fifteen years old faced a case, distributing type. He too, was inky and grubby and unkempt to a degree which bespoke genius for that art. It was a matter of pride with him—and he was painstaking in his efforts. This person was none other than the office devil, who was known by the name of Bishwhang. This title had been bestowed by Dave Wilkins as euphonious and descriptive. It was a word which gave pleasure to the speaker, and Dave liked that sort of word. What other name or name Bishwhang might once have possessed had been lost in the mists of history.

This pair constituted Wilkins's staff with the almost negligible exception of Nellie Ramsay, who did little, and that incompetently, in the office. That is to say they had constituted the entire force until that very morning when another hand had been put on—when, at precisely eight o'clock Dave Wilkins led Angus Burke to Jake Schwartz and told that disagreeable individual to teach him as much of his basket would hold.

Jake blinked at Angus, rolled the detestable quid—in his mouth, scratched his head, and asked huskily, "Kid that about Bates?"

Wilkins nodded.

"Goin' to learn the trade?"

"If he can,"

"That is to say they had constituted the entire force until that very morning when another hand had been put on—when, at precisely eight o'clock Dave Wilkins led Angus Burke to Jake Schwartz and told that disagreeable individual to teach him as much of his basket would hold."

Large Families Are Mistake, Says Bishop in England

Brighton, Eng., June 1.—"Human welfare is now menaced by human fecundity," declared Bishop Barnes of Birmingham in a sermon last evening before delegates attending a health congress here.

The bishop suggested that the crowded state of Europe was probably the main underlying cause of the Great War, and that the catastrophe would recur "unless that altruism which limits the increase of population can be made to prevail."

Large families were a hindrance to health progress—the assurance—and civilization is dangerously weighted by the reckless reproduction that may submerge it.

CROPS SPEEDING UP IN SAANICH DISTRICT

Loganberries Doing Well, But Winter Injury Has Been Considerable

Cool Weather May Delay Ripening of Strawberries

Berry and garden produce crops in the Victoria, Saanich and Island district are coming on fast now, according to today's crop report issued by experts of the Department of Agriculture under Hon. E. D. Barrow.

The weather has continued moderately warm and fine during the past week and growth has been satisfactory, the report says. It turned cooler during the early morning of May 27, and there was a light rain over the district. Any moisture is welcome at this time, and the rain, though light, will do good. If the cool spell continues, however, it will have the effect of delaying the ripening of strawberries.

It is reported that some ripe local strawberries have been picked already, but they are very scarce as yet.

Loganberries and raspberries, are at the height of their bloom. Loganberries are looking particularly well in a number of plantations. In other patches considerable winter injury is in evidence.

The Himalaya blackberry, which is the variety most largely grown in the Saanich district, is not yet in bloom, as it is a late variety.

Garden vegetable crops are making good progress. Garden peas have been in bloom for some time, and new green peas should be on the market in the near future. New local carrots are already available. Early potatoes have been on the market.

Excellent crops of rye six to seven feet high have been cut for hay during the past week.

Planting of late potatoes is pretty well completed.

A number of growers are making preparations to plant out a considerable acreage of broccoli this summer.

The scene was a restaurant, and as a man and woman rose from the table at which they had been dining they turned and bowed to two men who were sitting not far off.

The latter gazed after them for a second, then one of them turned and said to the other: "How long have they been married?"

"Oh, three years or so," came the reply.

"And do you think she has made him a good wife?" went on the first.

"Can't say," answered the other. "But I do know she's made him a very good husband."

COURT OF APPEAL USHERS IN RUSH OF JUNE ACTIONS

Twenty-two Appeals Listed For Hearing in Court Convening To-morrow

Assize Sessions and Civil Courts Will Tax Courthouse Accommodation

Some twenty-two cases are set for hearing in the present sitting of the Court of Appeal, to open Tuesday at 11 a.m. in the Court-house, Bastion Street. Proceedings to-morrow will be limited to a formal convening and an immediate adjournment until Thursday, it is understood, by reason of the fact that Wednesday, June 3, is the birthday of His Majesty the King, a court-holiday.

As usual in this term the appeals are mainly those from Mainland actions with the addition of one Victoria matter, an appeal from the criminal courts in the case of Rex vs. Vye.

The opening of the B.C. Court of Appeals ushers in one of the busiest months in the local courts. The Assize Court sessions with the Bory G. murder trials and two manslaughter charges, will open on June 15.

In addition there will be three or four major actions in the Supreme court and a full list in the County Court. Accommodation at the court-houses will be taxed to the uttermost to supply the necessary space for the courts intending to sit.

The list of appeals set for this hearing is as follows:

Rex (R.) vs. Vye (A.); S. Henderson for appellant; W. D. Carter, J.C.C. for respondent.

Colles (R.) vs. Mayo Singh et al. (A.); J. W. deB. Farris, K.C. for appellant; C. P. Davie for respondent. An appeal from Mr. Justice W. A. Macdonald.

Morton (A.) vs. Brighthouse et al. (R.); C. W. Craig, K.C. for appellant; E. P. Davis, K.C. for Mr. W. Brighthouse, and J. G. Gibson for trustees. An appeal from Mr. Justice D. A. McDonald.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO TO-DAY

Victoria Times, June 1, 1900

The steamer Islander arrived from Vancouver yesterday with a full list of passengers and freight.

A fire broke out in the roof of the shooting gallery on Government Street near Cormorant Street, last night. The damage was slight.

The first shipment of fruit arrived from Up-Island points yesterday for the local market.

Sailor (concluding fantastic narrative): "An' every word o' that's the truth, sir, though it may take a bit o' swallowin'. Have a pinch?"

Visitor: "What is it?" "Snuff, o' course." "Oh, I thought it might have been salt!"

Impressive Scenes At Funeral of Late Mrs. James Sclater

Vancouver, June 1.—Filling St. Andrew's Church to capacity, a large number of friends paid their last tribute to Mrs. James Sclater, wife of the former Prohibition Commissioner for British Columbia, at the funeral held at 2.30 p.m. on Saturday.

The services, which were conducted by Rev. E. D. McLaren, were simple. In an impressive sermon Dr. McLaren eulogized Mrs. Sclater's life.

There was a profusion of floral tributes from her many friends both here and in Australia. Covering the casket was an exquisite spray of flowers from the North-South-Orphanage of New South Wales.

Another beautiful wreath from members of the family was placed at the head of the casket.

While hundreds stood with bowed heads the body was borne from the church by six personal friends of Mrs. Sclater. General J. Duff Stuart and Messrs. D. Nalmsmith, F. S. Loulet, D. C. Blaser, Robert Heddle and G. L. Smellie acted as pallbearers.

Following the service, an exceptionally large cortege proceeded to Mountain View Cemetery. The last rites were also conducted by Rev. Dr. McLaren.

One of the pioneers of Vancouver, Mrs. Sclater was well known here. Colonel and Mrs. Sclater left Victoria for Sydney some years ago, where Mr. Sclater went to assume the position of special representative of the Canadian Pacific Railway. Mrs. Sclater died suddenly on April 19. The body was brought to Vancouver on the Asarangi, accompanied by Col. Sclater.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Sclater is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Allan Harvey, Vancouver; Mrs. P. L. Hingay, Seattle, and Mrs. J. Miller, Sidney, Vancouver Island, also two sons, John and William, of this city.

FAREWELL DINNER TO SIDNEY MINISTER

Board of Trade Pays Tribute to One of Members

Special to The Times
Sidney, June 1.—The Sidney Board of Trade on Friday evening gave a farewell dinner to one of its members, the Rev. T. Griffiths, who is leaving this week for North Vancouver. About twenty-four sat down to dinner, which was held at Beach House. The president, Mr. McKillop, was the toast master for the evening. Mr. McAuley gave the toast to "Our Guest," and said how much they all regretted Mr. Griffiths' leaving them, but were very glad he was going to a better post.

Mr. Griffiths replied in a few well chosen words, and saying how sorry he was to leave.

Mr. Barlow and West Cornell sang several solos. Silvia White accompanied them on the piano. Dr. Manning and the Rev. T. M. Hughes and others also spoke.

Mr. Fraich and Mr. Simister gave some recitations, which received great applause.

The dinner table was decorated with red and white roses. Mrs. Simister and her daughter poured coffee and waited on the guests.

He was married with great ceremony—lights, music, flowers and so on.

A few months later he approached the minister who had performed the ceremony and said, "You deceived me. You said I had reached the end of all my troubles."

"You are right, my friend," said the minister, "but I didn't say which end."

CHATEAU LAKE LOUISE, LARGEST IN THE WORLD, FORMALLY OPENED FOR THE SEASON SATURDAY

Lake Louise, June 1.—With two English Lords, Mayor Carl Penderay of Victoria, B.C., and nine western newspaper editors as the first guests to place their names on the register sheet, the new three-million-dollar Chateau Lake Louise was formally opened Saturday night with a guest list of one hundred persons. As the first guests signed the register a beautiful June snowstorm was sweeping its way across the glacier-crowned peaks of Mount Vancouver, which stands 2,000 feet above the famous lake.

The Lord and the Lady Alfreds of London, England, were the first to write their names on the guest list; the Lord and the Lady Belfour and Hon. W. Wilson of London followed, with Mayor J. C. Penderay of Victoria third. Then came N. Alfred Casalberg and wife of Mantota, New Zealand; Frank N. Hault, Winnipeg; N. J. Barrington, Los Angeles; Ma and Mrs. Nolan Gomery, Montreal; Arthur H. Redington, San Francisco; and Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Requeson of Calgary.

WESTERN EDITORS

Among the eighty guests who followed the couples, thirteen states of the Union and six provinces of Canada were represented. Then came a special party of prominent Western newspaper editors, including Capt. A. E. N. Coe, city editor of The Winnipeg Free Press; C. A. Hayden, managing editor of The Calgary Herald; F. J. Workman, news editor of The Moose Jaw Times; H. C. Galbreath, city editor of The Winnipeg Tribune; A. B. Watt, editor of The Edmonton Journal; H. G. Long, news editor of The Lethbridge Herald; F. E. Trautman, press representative of the Canadian Pacific Railway Western lines; and E. F. Longhance.

The chateau Lake Louise, which is now the largest in the world, measures 600 feet long by nine stories high; it has 60 rooms, six baths and a dining capacity of 500 at one sitting.
