CONSUMER PRODUCT SAFETY COMMISSION

BANNED TOYS AND OTHER ARTICLES INTENDED FOR USE BY CHILDREN

List

On May 14, 1973, responsibility for enforcing the Federal Hazardous Substances Act (15 U.S.C. 1261 et seq.) was transferred to the Consumer Product Safety Commission by section 30(a) of the Consumer Product Safety Act (86 Stat. 1231; 15 U.S.C. 2079(a)).

Section 2(q)(1)(A) of the Federal Hazardous Substances Act (74 Stat. 374, as amended 80 Stat. 1304, 83 Stat. 188; 15 U.S.C. 1261(q)(1)(A)) provides for the banning of any toy or other article intended for use by children that is a hazardous substance or that bears or contains a hazardous substance within the meaning of section 2(f)(1) of the act or as determined by regulation under section 2(f)(1)(D) of the act (15 U.S.C. 1261(f)(1)).

Under authority of the above-named acts, the Consumer Product Safety Commission hereby issues the following list of banned toys and other articles intended for use by children.

This list is intended to put retailers on notice of banned toys and other articles intended for use by children so that such toys and articles may be removed expeditiously from the marketplace. The Commission emphasizes that retailers have major responsibility for insuring that such articles do not come into the hands of the consuming public.

For each banned toy and article intended for use by children, the Commission lists:

1. The name and principal place of business of the responsible firm (if the article is of domestic origin, the manufacturer's name appears; if the article is of foreign origin, the importer's name appears).

2. The name of the article and any available identifying data, including the country of origin if the article is imported.

3. The date the responsible firm was notified that the article is a banned hazardous substance.

4. A summation of the hazard presented by the article.

Articles appearing on this list have been confirmed as banned by the Consumer Product Safety Commission. Similar, or even apparently identical, toys or other articles intended for use by children are to be considered different articles and have not been confirmed as banned. A manufacturer will frequently revise a banned article to bring it within safety requirements and distinguish the revised item with a slight change in its identification. The modified identification may be in the form of a number, letter, asterisk, or other symbol added to the original identification.

Banned toys and other articles intended for use by children which are found in interstate commerce are subject to seizure proceedings by the Commission pursuant to section 6 of the Federal Hazardous Substances Act (15 U.S.C. 1265). Any person who offers for sale such an article is subject to a fine and/or imprisonment under section 5(a) of the act (15 U.S.C. 1264(a)).

Retailers, distributors, manufacturers, and importers should also familiarize themselves with the regulations promulgated pursuant to the Federal Hazardous Substances Act (16 CFR Parts 1500, 1505; 38 FR 27012). Toys and other articles intended for use by children which are defined as banned hazardous substances by these regulations are to be considered as banned even though they have not yet been reviewed, confirmed as banned, and added to a list of banned articles published by the Commission.

The list of banned toys and other articles intended for use by children is set forth below.

Dated October 17, 1973.
