On 23 April 1945 four P-51 of VC-33, piloted by Lt. Mueller Lt(jg) J. C. Rylands, and Lieutenants H. L. Cannon and H. D. Carrithers, were assigned a direct support mission over southern Okinawa. Eight TB1 of VC-33 accompanied them. The VT bombed and rocketed Japanese reported under a large rock in target area 7777 H. The VT were assigned areas of Yonabaru but were called off. They were sent over to the Eastern Islands where landings of a limited nature were being made but were again called off. Finally they were instructed to hit supplies, AA positions and miscellaneous targets in 7363 H, 7364 and 7365. Rocket and strafing runs were made against a variety of aiming points in these areas: caves, trenches, emplacements, ridges and buildings. Other than starting several fires of unknown origin and damaging several houses, no conclusive evidence of damage was noted.
