PANORAMA EXHIBITION.

THE great Panoramic picture of the City of Paris, the Capital of the Kingdom of France is now exhibiting in the building on the public square, Rue Royale-street.

This view is taken from the roof of the second end of the palace of the Tuileries; the spectator takes ... himself placed on the ... which commands a grand ... prospect over the whole city. ...

Immediately under the eye of the spectator is a southern ... in the roof of the ... and on the right that of the long picture gallery stretching eastward as far as the Louvre; —This gallery bounds the place de Carrousel on the south side and the same gallery on the north; in the centre of this square is seen the triumphal arch. On this square Bonaparte was wont to review his battalions previous to their departure for their respective destinations, and here the walls resounded with the clang of martial music. On the westside of the palace the spectator looks down on the Garden of the Tuileries, and beyond that in the distance is seen the palace of the ... de Meublon, and the woods of the ... Elysian fields. ...
