

MEMORANDUM

To: Graham Allison, James Smith
From: Timothy Sandole
Date: April 26, 2013
Subject: 4/22/13-4/26/13 Weekly Wikipedia Research

Last Week: Due to unfortunate events at the Boston Marathon, I did not fill out a Wikipedia memo. I spent the majority of last week preparing for my "Anyone Can Be a Wikipedia" presentation and I have attached the PowerPoint I created specifically for the presentation to the email.

Monday, April 22

- Researched offensive realism and the concept, 'buck passing' (3 hours).
- Wrote a draft on buck passing in MS Word. Coded/authored the stub, "Buck passing," on Wikipedia: http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Buck_passing (6 hours).

Tuesday, April 23

- Researched offensive realism and the concept, "bandwagoning" (3 hours).
- Wrote draft on bandwagoning in MS Word. Cleaned up citations in the Wikipedia stub, "Bandwagoning" and coded/authored the majority of the article. Still needs added citations in order to satisfy Wikipedia's secondary sources guidelines: <http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Bandwagoning> (6 hours).

Wednesday, April 24

- Started researching the work of liberal internationalists/institutionalists Robert Keohane, Lisa Martin, Alexander Wendt, John Ruggie, (8 hours).

Thursday, April 25

- Drafted Wikipedia contribution heading for neoliberalism in MS Word. Edited neoliberalism draft, coded/authored work on Wikipedia: http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Neoliberalism_%28international_relations%29 (8 hours).

Friday, April 26

- Downloaded and research scholarly work from the American Institute for Contemporary German Studies at Johns Hopkins University (AICGS) (8 hours)

For Next Week:

- Considering the creation of a stub for German foreign and defense policy in the 21st century.