RUN-OFF ELECTIONS FOR GOVERNOR IN TOKUSHIMA AND MIYAZAKI PREFECTURES
18 May 1951

1. In run-off elections held on 18 May 1951, Kunilchi ABE, Liberal, with 55.7 percent of the votes cast, defeated Shigendo KAGAYAMA, Independent with Socialist support, for governor of Tokushima Prefecture; and Nagashige TANAKA, conservative Independent, polling 55.9 percent of the votes, won over Fusami YOSHINO, Independent endorsed by the Liberal Party, for governor of Miyazaki Prefecture. Both ABE and TANAKA led their opponents in the 30 April gubernatorial contests with pluralities of 34.1 and 35.1 percent, respectively, but fell short of the 37.5 percent required by Article 95 of the Public Office Election Law for election. The rate of voter participation in Tokushima was 65.4 percent, in Miyazaki, 78.7.

2. For comparative purposes, results of previous elections held in Tokushima and Miyazaki Prefectures are shown on the attached sheet.

ANALYSIS OF LOCAL ELECTIONS HELD ON 23 AND 30 APRIL 1951

1. The local elections held on 23 and 30 April 1951 marked the eighth and ninth times respectively during the Occupation that Japanese voters under the new system of universal adult suffrage have selected their own leaders, high and low. On two election days in April 1947 they initially filled 183,000 local government posts for prefectural governors and assemblymen, city mayors and assemblymen, and town and village heads and councilmen; at each of three elections -- 1946, 1947, 1949 -- they picked members of the House of Representatives; and in 1947 and 1950 they balloted for members of the House of Councillors. From this accumulated voting experience, the following conclusions may be drawn:

a. The ballot as a means of registering the popular will is generally utilized.

b. Political parties and office-seekers have come to recognize their dependence on grass-roots support. Success increasingly attends the efforts of those political aspirants who most accurately gauge and reflect the voters' desires concerning vital local, national, and international problems. Unrealistic platforms, vague generalities, and empty catch-words fail to lure the voters as they once did.

c. The traditional ability of incumbents to succeed themselves has given way before the capacity of the electorate to discriminate between the bad and the good public servants.

d. While major political parties dominate national elections, personalities and local issues more often determine local election results, resulting in a preponderance of independents.

2. The results of the recent local elections expressed statistically are as follows:

a. The rate of voter participation in the 23 April election for municipal heads and assemblymen was 91.1%, in the 30 April election for prefectural governors and assemblymen, 82.9%, breaking previous records. Comparable figures in the 1947 local elections were 81.8% in the election for prefectural, city, and town assemblymen and 72.2% in the election for prefectural governors and municipal heads. This year for the first time more women voted than men. England and the United States record but do not attach special importance to the rate of voter participation; Japan pays particular attention to the subject. This reflects an attitude developed in pre-war elections when a high abstention rate was generally interpreted as a form of protest against the existing administration. The abstention rate this year reflects: (1) popular interest in the conduct of public affairs, (2) success of the democratically-managed election system in reaching the voting public, and (3) greater civic responsibility at the local community level resulting from implementation of the Local Autonomy Law of 1947 and the Local Tax Law of 1950.

b. The following table lists the percentage of seats won by partisan and independent candidates in the April 1951 elections, with the corresponding 1947 figures shown in parentheses for the purpose of comparison:

	Lib.	Dem.	Soc.	Comm.	Minor	Indep.
Town & Village Counsilmen, 160,954	2.1% (2.2)	0.4% (2.6)	1.0% (2.6)	0.3% (0.2)	0.5% (0.8)	95.7% (91.6)
Town & Village Headmen, 6,557	3.2 (3.5)	0.8 (3.6)	0.6 (2.5)	0.0 (0.1)	0.3 (1.0)	95.1 (89.2)
City Assemblymen, 7,626	17.8 (11.0)	5.0 (10.0)	6.8 (10.0)	0.6 (0.6)	2.0 (3.9)	67.8 (64.5)
City Mayors, 178	9.0 (9.1)	2.8 (11.5)	6.7 (5.3)	0.0 (0.0)	0.0 (4.3)	81.5 (69.8)
Prefectural Assemblymen, 2,616	41.0 (19.7)	11.0 (24.2)	13.0 (16.5)	0.3 (0.1)	5.1 (7.1)	29.6 (32.4)
Prefectural Governors, 31	12.9 (8.7)	0.0 (10.9)	9.7 (10.9)	0.0 (0.0)	9.9 (8.7)	77.4 (60.8)

The most significant figures in the above table are those for prefectural and city assemblymen, which roughly measure the Liberal Party gain at the expense of the Social Democrat and People's Democrat parties (see attached charts). This gain is attributable to (1) improvement in general conditions, for which the party in power receives credit, and (2) popularity of its unequivocal position on the question of a peace treaty. The Socialists, after making perceptible gains at the House of Councillors election in June 1950, paid the penalty last month for espousing the so-called over-all peace slogan.

3. Leaders of the respective political parties concede that (1) the Liberal Party together with sympathetic conservative elements decisively won the local elections of 23 and 30 April and (2) the Socialist Party and other left-of-center factions lost because they advocated "over-all peace, permanent neutrality, and denial of military bases to the United States." Convinced that its foreign policy position is unpopular, the Socialist leadership must revise the party platform or face a split in the party. The Liberal Party, confirmed in its popular support, will adhere to its program of an early peace and friendly relations with the United States, in the realization of which it may be expected to receive the support of the Democrats and eventually a large fraction of the Socialists.

ANALYSIS OF HOUSE OF COUNCILLORS BY-ELECTION IN OSAKA-FU
16 May 1951

1. Fukuzo NAKAYAMA, Green Breeze Society,* and Haruji MIZOBUCHI, Liberal, won the Osaka-fu by-election contest for two seats in the House of Councillors held on 16 May. The distribution of votes for the six candidates was as follows:

Candidate	Party	No. Votes Received	Percent of Total
Fukuzo NAKAYAMA	Green Breeze	279,537	34.1
Haruji MIZOBUCHI	Liberal	201,899	24.5
Shoichi YAMAGUCHI	Socialist	179,455	21.7
Kanichi KAWAKAMI	Communist	149,803	18.1
Shigeru SANO	Independent	8,157	0.9
Toshiyo ODA	Minor	6,127	0.7

2. Of the prefecture's 2,196,164 eligible voters, 838,059, or 38.2 per cent, went to the polls, a sharp drop from the 80.4 percent voting record set in the local election on 23 April. Voter participation in elections for national positions seldom equals that in elections for local offices, and popular enthusiasm on this occasion naturally subsided following the two intensive local election campaigns last month.

3. The two left-wing candidates received 39.8 percent of the total vote, nearly half of which went to the Communist. By comparison, on 30 April the Socialist gubernatorial candidate in Osaka-fu received 41.3 percent of the vote to 1.3 percent for the Communist candidate, an obvious instance of Communists backing a Socialist. Reversing the procedure, Communist Kanichi KAWAKAMI this week attracted many Socialist voters. Popularly acknowledged to be second only to famed Sanzo NOSAKA as the brains of the post-war Japan Communist Party, KAWAKAMI, a writer of national repute, achieved martyrdom in the eyes of left-wingers, and much free pre-campaign publicity, less than two months ago when he was dramatically expelled from the House of Representatives for refusing to apologize publicly for an anti-American speech delivered

Capt. Josephs

* The Green Breeze Society (Ryokufukai) was organized by independent members of the House of Councillors in 1947 soon after the first election for that body. It has no platform, no national organization, no grass-roots support. The name implies avowed desire by the members "to inject a breath of fresh air into Japanese politics."

on the floor of the House. Although left-wing elements are relatively stronger in Osaka-fu than in other large cities, and despite the high abstention rate which might have been expected to favor them, their combined showing this week was poorer than that made in Osaka-fu on 30 April.

4. Conservatives polled 58.6 percent of the vote this week; on 30 April in the same prefecture they received 57.4 percent of the ballots. Those factors which accounted for the admittedly conservative sweep at last month's local elections — improved general conditions and popularity of the Government's position on the peace treaty — were also responsible for this month's success of the Green Breeze and Liberal candidates.

5. For comparative purposes, election results in Osaka-fu at previous general elections are shown on the attached sheet.

MEMORANDUM FOR: Dr. Williams

SUBJECT : Gubernatorial Election Run-Offs

1. As a result of the inability of any candidate to secure the necessary three-eighths of the total vote required for election in Tokushima and Miyazaki prefectures during the 30 April gubernatorial elections, run-off contests were conducted in those prefectures on 18 May betwee the two candidates in each case who polled the greatest number of votes.

2. Initial reports of the voting from the National Election Administration Commission show that 306,146 of the 468,777 qualified voters in Tokushima cast ballots for an average voter participation rate of 65.3 per cent. In Miyazaki prefecture 433,181 of a possible 550,374 votes were cast, or 78.7 per cent. In consideration of the anticlimactic aspects of yesterday's elections, these percentages compare favorably with the 85.8 per cent participation recorded in Tokushima in the 30 April election and the 88.4 per cent registered in Miyazaki on the same date.

3. Incomplete tabulation of votes in each prefecture indicate that the success of Liberal Kuniichi Abe in Tokushima and depurgee Nagashige Tanaka running as an Independent with conservative support in Miyazaki is virtually assured. Tabulation of votes as of 1100 hours (50 per cent complete) is as follows:

TOKUSHIMA			MIYAZAKI
Candidate	Party	Vote	Candidate	Party	Vote
Kuniichi Abe	Lib	80,131	Nagashige Tanaka	I-Cnsv	241,986
Shigendo Kageyama	I-Soc	59,857	Fusami Yoshino	I-Lib	189,246

4. Attached tables showing results of past elections in which a comparable number of votes were cast indicate clearly the inherent conservatism of the electorate in these prefectures and may be of value in an analysis of yesterday's voting.

MEMORANDUM FOR: Colonel Napier

SUBJECT : Hirose of Chitose Takes Lethal Dose

1. According to Mainichi Shimbun of this date, 61-year-old Shigeru Hirose, newly-elected head of Chitose-mura, Oita prefecture, took his life on the day following his election.

2. Hirose, before taking a stiff dose of mercuric chloride at 1400 hours Wednesday, left a note in which he stated that he chose to die because he felt he could not shoulder the burden of the village's administration.

3. Hirose's act is yet another example of success in the political reorientation of Japan.
