EUROPE MUST DISARM OR GO INTO BANKRUPTCY, SAYS LEAGUE ASSEMBLY DELEGATE

Britain Ready to Accept Compulsory Arbitration if Acts of Navy or Army in Carrying Out League Sanctions Not Made Cause of Disputes; MacDonald Anxious for Progress.

Geneva, Sept. 12.—"Europe must disarm or go bankrupt." This was the declaration of a prominent European delegate attending the sessions of the League of Nations Assembly here in enumerating reasons why the nations striving to prevent war by compulsory arbitration should be backed by a system of penalties.

Great Britain's dramatic announcement yesterday of her readiness to accept compulsory arbitration on the condition that she should not be brought into court because of some act of her navy in attempting to maintain or restore peace in pursuance of sanctions taken under the League of Nations continues the supreme topic among the delegates.

London, Sept. 12.—When the British Prime Minister made the proposal at Geneva that the League of Nations should call an international conference on armaments, to take place in Europe, the British delegation had no intention of interfering either directly or indirectly with campaign issues in the United States.

DEFENCE DAY IN THE UNITED STATES

Forces That Would Respond to National Defence Call Are Given Test

Thousands of Men Parade in Seattle and Other Cities of Other

Washington, Sept. 12.—Defence machinery of the United States intended for actual use only in the event of a war emergency was given its first test to-day, accompanied by patriotic demonstrations in every part of the United States and its possessions.

PARADE IN SEATTLE. Seattle, Sept. 12.—To-day is National Defence Day—a day on which the United States is testing her alertness, trying out her military mobilization machinery, to see what she can do should a call of war come—a day of preparedness by way of warding off another war.

Thousands of men taken from the city's industries, stores, offices, clubs, from everywher—yet disturbing the routine of daily business but very little—answering the Defence Day call to arms in full quota, paraded in military formation through Seattle's principal downtown streets this afternoon for the first time in history.

Each of the men had signed a pledge stating his belief in a system of national defence and that, in time of war, he would be willing to serve the nation under arms.

COMMUNIST UPRISING IN PORTUGUESE CAPITAL WAS QUICKLY DEFEATED

Lisbon, Sept. 12.—Another unsuccessful attempt at revolution has been made here by Communists. With civilians and soldiers the Communists attacked the Ministry of War, the telegraph station and the customs house. They failed and the leaders were arrested. The capital is now calm.

The revolutionists occupied the customs house, but were driven out by Government forces. Among those under arrest are numerous officers, soldiers and sailors.

EXPECT END OF CONTROVERSY ON SALE OF TIMBER

MacLean Satisfied With Situation; Woodward Not Coercing Government

That there is no likelihood of an open break between the Government and its followers in Vancouver over the proposed sale of timber in the Capilano watershed reserve was indicated by Hon. J. D. MacLean, Acting Premier, when he returned to the city to-day after spending yesterday on the mainland.

While Dr. MacLean did not wish to discuss the matter at this stage, it was apparent that he was well satisfied with his mission to Vancouver and the Premier's handling of the matter, who are vigorously opposed to the proposed timber sale.

"There is nothing to worry about," the Acting Premier remarked when newspapermen questioned him on the watershed controversy.

The time which Charles Woodward, Liberal Member for Vancouver, allowed Premier to call off the watershed sale or face his resignation, elapsed at noon to-day. While he had received no reply from the Premier to his ultimatum, Mr. Woodward made it clear in a statement issued at 2 p.m. to-day that he was not attempting to force the Government.

"I am not attempting to coerce the Government," Mr. Woodward declared emphatically. "I am merely taking what I think is the stand that any honorable man would take after he had been elected to represent the whole of the people, and I hope the Premier will understand it in this light. I will not, of course, bind the Premier to reply within an hour or two of the time which I have set for my resignation to become effective should the watershed timber be sold."

Meanwhile preparations for the North Okanagan by-election are proceeding apace in the Conservative camp. R. H. Pooley, Conservative House leader, plans to leave here to-day for Vernon, where he will speak in support of Arthur Cochran, the Conservative candidate, who was nominated yesterday.

Hon. S. F. Toimie, Federal organizer of the Conservative party, will assist in the organization of the North Okanagan campaign. It was announced last night. He will leave for the Okanagan immediately. Dr. Toimie declared last night that he had no intention of going into Provincial politics at this time.

PATHFINDERS ARE HONORED GUESTS OF CANADIAN CLUB HERE

Austin F. Bement and Capt. E. S. Evans, Canadian Highway Medallists, Tell of Highways and Highway Development at Big Luncheon To-day.

To the accompaniment of ringing applause honors were accorded at a well attended Canadian Club luncheon at the Empress Hotel to Austin F. Bement and Capt. E. S. Evans, the two Canadian Highway pathfinders who have just won the Victoria Canadian Highway Association medals for blazing the all Canadian trail from Winnipeg to Victoria.

A large audience numbered many besides Canadian Club members, including members of the City Council, Publicity Bureau, Chamber of Commerce, service organizations and B. C. Automobile Club. A ringing ovation was given the pathfinders when Alderman A. E. Todd, vice president of the association in the absence of the president J. L. Beckwith, handed over the gold medal to the two intrepid autoists.

Mr. Bement touched on the vital importance of good roads and the uphill fight for the Lincoln highway started ten years ago in the face of considerable criticism and without the support of the press and public organizations which Canada had in its project. There were 2,905,000 automobiles in the United States when the project was mooted, and 2,500,000 miles of highway. The country was spending $175,000,000 a year on highways and with the increase in the number of cars being turned out the Highway Association set out to sell the idea that the highway development was not in accordance with the automobile output. The idea of the highway from coast to coast was to bring about a realization of the importance of road construction.

COAL MINES IN ALBERTA CLOSED BY STRIKE MAY BE OPENED SOON AS TEST

Calgary, Sept. 12.—The non-union miners of Alberta are producing a record quantity of coal because of the increasing demand as cool weather approaches. Manitoba is worried by the situation and is trying to get an augmented supply.

Reliable information is to the effect that the operators whose mines have been closed by the strike since April 1 will make an attempt to reopen them under police protection and thus precipitate a decisive conflict with the United Mine Workers of America.

COLLISION OF TWO SMALL JAPANESE NAVY CRAFT LED TO DROWNING OF SAILORS

Practically All Aboard Vessels Lost Lives When Accident Occurred in Yokosuka Bay; Sailors Were Returning to Battleship Nagato After Spending Day Ashore.

Tokio, Sept. 12.—Scores of Japanese sailors were drowned following a collision between two torpedo boats in the Yokosuka naval harbor at 7.30 a.m. to-day, according to first official reports. The torpedo boats were attached to the warship Nagato and were returning to the ship with 200 sailors who had been spending the day at Yokosuka, they collided and both sank off Tobigahama Point, practically all the sailors being drowned.

ANTI-RACING CAMPAIGN CUTS WAGERS BUT LARGE AMOUNTS STILL BET ON B.C. TRACKS

Growing realization that horse racing is a serious drain on the resources of this Province is reflected in a big drop in betting at the second Hastings Park race meet in Vancouver. Figures issued at the Parliament Buildings to-day show that wagers at the second Hastings meet, just concluded, amounted to only $844,710 as against $952,294 at the first meet. This is all the most significant in view of last year's racing wagers when the second Hastings meet produced much heavier wagers than the first meet.

So far this year $6,022,240 has been wagered on British Columbia race tracks or about $11 a head for every man, woman and child in British Columbia. With wagers of the second Hastings meet, which will open to-morrow, the total wagers for the year will run close to $6,500,000. This is a slight drop from the total expected by officials in charge of pari-mutuel taxes and is explained by the widespread campaign against racing which has been carried on during the last few weeks by retail merchants and others whose business is suffering from excessive racetrack betting. This year's wagers have been made up as follows:

First Brighouse Meet, $700,334. Second Brighouse Meet, $551,574. First Lansdowne Meet, $737,833. Second Lansdowne Meet, $865,398. First Hastings Park Meet, $952,294. Second Hastings Meet, $844,710. First Colwood Meet, $246,145. Second Colwood Meet, $330,826. First Willow Meet, $429,723. On these wagers the gross pari-mutuel tax amounts to $255,879 and the net tax, $252,416.

NEW YORK ZOO IS EAGER FOR VICTORIA CUB

Continental-wide Interest Rages Over Little Ursus Kermodei

Francis Kermodé Gets Stirring Appeal by Aeroplane Mail

New York is so anxious to secure Victoria's white bear, little Ursus Kermodei, for the famous zoological park of the United States metropolis that William T. Hornaday, Sc.D., director, has sent an S.O.S. message by aeroplane to Francis Kermodé, curator of the Provincial Museum. "It's a battle for the supremacy of this species. For heaven's sake send it or I shall perish of disappointment. Two or a half million people will see it every year. There will be a great fuss in the New York newspapers. Its species and British Columbia as a whole will get volumes of wonderful free advertising," Mr. Hornaday states.

The letter was sent from New York September 5 and was delivered by Aerial Post to Vancouver, unless Victoria within four days and a few hours after being relayed from Chicago, San Francisco and Seattle. SAYS IN LETTER.

The snowy cub with the appealing brown eyes will not, however, leave British Columbia, although it may save Victoria for Vancouver, unless this city provides better accommodation for it. M. B. Jackson, K.C., chairman of the Game Conservation Board, has ruled that it shall remain in the province—and the New York director must perish.

As the only bear of its kind in captivity in the world it is the centre of a controversy on the existence of the species. Its status has been openly flouted, and the American Museum has the temerity to show color phases of the black bear in which, it is claimed, appears an Ursus Kermodei. Its friends resist the theory of Albinism. As Mr. Hornaday says, "Nobody saw an Albinus with black or brown eyes, and if the bear reaches New York the Great American Republic must arrive at the opinion that the white color is not due to Albinism."

"The whole theory of Albinism would be knocked into a cocked hat if it is claimed it is an Albinus," remarked Mr. Kermodé. In the meantime Ursus contentedly shambles around his cage at Beacon Hill Park while the City Council, unaware of his fame, indulges in banter which may mean he will move to Vancouver, where they are anxious to build him a royal residence.

RECEPTION TO CANADIAN HIGHWAY ASSOCIATION MEDALLISTS

At the Parliament Buildings on Wednesday afternoon, on the arrival of the Lincoln Highway Association officials from Winnipeg to Victoria. In the above picture, left to right are: Thomas Pillsbury, Fred J. Elkins, Secretary of Automobile Club of B.C.; Alderman G. D. Christie, Capt. C. I. Harris, Col. A. W. R. Wilby, J. L. tain to the welfare and future of our Dominion. I hope this will be taken as an invitation and hope to meet many of you personally," he concluded, in returning hearty thanks for the fine reception accorded himself and Mrs. King.

NORTH OKANAGAN
That Hon. K. C. MacDonald, recently appointed Provincial Secretary, would win his by-election in North Okanagan with a handsome majority was the prediction of Dr. King in the course of a brief interview. He had spent some time in the riding, and while a contest was a practical certainty, there was no doubt in his mind as to the result.

YALE BY-ELECTION
Questioned regarding the Federal by-election in Yale, Dr. King was equally optimistic.
"I found the feeling of the people in Yale toward Premier King and his Government to be distinctly friendly, and I should say that the prospects of the Liberals are more than good for that contest when it comes," he said.
He would make no statement as to the probable date of the Yale by-election.

DR. KING HAD ONLY TWO ENGAGEMENTS for today call the conference. Mr. MacDonald, partly at least, changed his mind about taking the initiative in such a move. Previously he had always said he would like to have a conference, but he believed someone else should make the first move, which always was interpreted as meaning he would have desired to see Washington issue the call.

IT IS UNDERSTOOD it had been pointed out to the Prime Minister that any agreement at Geneva to call a conference on his initiative might have an adverse effect on the conference itself owing to the fact that it was an issue in the American presidential campaign. That feature, it appeared did not present itself to the minds of the delegates at Geneva, and now that it has become a possibility no responsible official wants to emphasize it by further preference to it.

DESIRES PROGRESS
Mr. MacDonald is extremely anxious to make some headway towards cutting down the European land armaments with the purpose of removing as far as possible that cause for suspicion and distrust, and also in the hope that the money now going into military equipment may be directed towards more remunerative ends.

two boys was suddenly seen to weave abruptly to the right, dive into the unballasted tracks of an electric railway, suddenly right itself and bounce fifty yards down the centre of the right-of-way before it was stopped.

STEERED INTO RAILS
The brakes on the car ahead of the boys burned and stuck, bringing it to an immediate stop. To avoid smashing into it the driver of the Loeb-Leopold car gambled with death for the principals of the drama and steered at a right angle into the rails and ties.

TO HIS COOLNESS and judgment officers of the party attributed the aversion of a more serious result. The boys were not hurt, though badly jarred.

DEPUTY SHERIFFS shouldering shotguns and quickly leveling them at the principal car of the convoy, ordered a quick halt of the procession for an inspection. An electric car which came into view just as the machine left the road way was halted and its glaring searchlight focused upon the prisoners' car.

TAKEN INTO PRISON
When the prisoners' car arrived at the main prison gate it was surrounded by a cordon of armed deputies, the heavy gates opened wide enough to admit a man's body and less than a half-minute the two young intellectuals were within the walls of the penitentiary with the doors closed behind them.

MOTOR ACCIDENT
Special to The Times
Ladysmith, Sept. 12.—A motor accident which might have been much more serious took place yesterday afternoon. Edgar Bailey, local hardware merchant, his wife, and Mr. Allan Porter were driving home from attending the Ladysmith Fall Fair and at the point of the Island Highway just opposite the Eastern Lumber Company's mill, something went wrong with the steering gear and the car, a truck, crashed through the fence and into a small ditch on the other side and overturned. Mr. Bailey was pinned underneath, his wife partly clear and Mr. Porter was thrown completely clear of the machine. Mr. Bailey is suffering with shock and slight bruises but is able to be back at business this morning. Mrs. Bailey is slightly bruised and Mr. Porter escaped without injury.

struction and to an application of the principle in every state of the Union. By the formation of organizations, and publicly the associations drove home the need of a better highway system for the United States.

NAME OF SIGNIFICANCE
They gave a name to the organization that would have some significance. They wanted to get away from the abstract as to call a Good Road organization was something like a Good Moral League. Ask a man if he is interested in Good Roads and he will say 'yes,' but you have not tied him down to anything. The name of Lincoln Highway Association was adopted to make the road a memorial to the late president. They kept in touch with every state, and gradually the transcontinental road route took shape of the map, and they had a concrete object before them.

PUBLICITY CAMPAIGN
A campaign of publicity was then launched. In the last half year $1,500,000 was raised, ninety per cent. of it for publicity. One of the things done to arouse interest in improvement was to pave odd miles of road. After the farmer had ploughed along the road with the horses struggling along with the wagon in the mud up to the hubs he came to a fine piece of paved road. He immediately asked himself why the whole road could not be so passed and his interest was aroused. Something which made news was kept moving over the highway all the time.

A. F. BEMENT

TRAIL OF DOLLARS
Tourist traffic was originally a product of road construction, but had now assumed an importance greater than the original economic something to offer tourist. No less than 150,000 cars traveled over the highway last year to California from the points east of the Mississippi, leaving a trail of dollars all along the route.

FAITH IN CANADA
He suggested Canadians show a little more faith in what they had. If they realized what they possessed and spoke of it accordingly they could expect a little more faith in them from the people South of the line. For beauty and grandeur he had never seen anything to compare with the scenery of British Columbia and Alberta. He declared emphatically that the roads from Winnipeg to the coast were excellent. Their only danger was when they were forced to take to the railroad tracks. In one instance they went through a thousand-foot tunnel with a freight train due whilst they were in the tunnel. They pulled out about four minutes before the train.

SPOKE IN DENVER; JOHN W. DAVIS

DAVIS INDIRECTLY ATTACKS THE KLAN

Democratic Candidate for Presidency Speaks in Denver of Liberty

Refers to Charles G. Dawes as Spokesman of the Republican Party

Denver, Col., Sept. 12.—Disregarding the advice of his board of strategy to avoid the Ku Klux Klan issue, J. W. Davis, Democratic candidate for the presidency of the United States, yesterday came to Denver, where the order proved its domination of the Republican Party in Tuesday's primaries, and immediately took an indirect slap at the Klan.

The defiance of the Democratic candidate was hurled in a speech before the Associated Civic Clubs of the city, where all stripes of political belief were represented. It was in the way of a preface to his main speech here Thursday night at the Municipal Auditorium, in which he flayed Charles G. Dawes, Republican vice-presidential candidate, for his views on reclamation and irrigation projects.

Davis' advisers, who sat about him, were taken aback at the bold manner in which the Democratic standard-bearer struck out at the Klan and flayed it with biting sarcasm.

PASSPORT FRAUDS ARE TRACED DOWN

United States Consular Officers Are Kept Busy in Europe

New American Immigration Restrictions Cause Many Attempts

Paris, Sept. 12.—Since the new United States immigration law went into effect Europe has seen an outbreak of attempted passport frauds. So great has been the desire to reach the shores of the United States on the part of would-be emigrants that they are easy prey for unscrupulous traffickers in false documents. American consular officers are engaged in running down frauds in Warsaw, Berlin, Hamburg, Brussels and Paris.

A favorite but futile device among Italians has been the "Argentine dodge." The quota from that country, into America, is far from being exhausted. Armed with a false Argentine passport, and a false birth certificate, purchased from swindlers at a cost of $250, many an Italian has seen his hopes fade rapidly under the expert scrutiny of American consular officers.

TARIFF QUESTIONS PROMINENT ISSUE

Will be Much to Fore Before U.S. Presidential Election Is Over

Washington, Sept. 12.—Apparently the tariff question will become of much prominence before the presidential campaign is over.

One evidence of this is that the extreme high tariff interests are already attacking the position of the Democratic Party and of Mr. Davis on the tariff. It is the understanding that Mr. Davis is not a radical low tariff man but that he believes in greatly moderating the duties and in such rates as will enable that degree of competition from abroad as will tend to prevent monopoly in this country. In other words, he does not favor prohibitive tariff rates.

Naturally his opinion is not satisfactory to the ultra high tariff elements and they are already firing at him through the American Protective Tariff League and otherwise.

Senator La Follette, as is well known, though he is by no means a free trader, has long fought excessive tariff rates and there is no doubt will stand against them in the campaign. His recent statement charging that the tariff commission report on sugar duties was being unduly delayed is an indication of this.

HYDRO-ELECTRIC POWER

On the question of hydro-electric power, Davis declared himself in favor of government development of the Colorado River, but said he was in favor of private enterprise operating the power plants after the necessary dams have been constructed, thus taking direct issue with La Follette, who favors government ownership and operation of the projects.

Throughout his speech Davis assailed the Republican administration and policies and dwelt on his "Common Honesty in Government" issue, and asked the voters of Colorado and the West to hold the Republican Party, as a political organization, to the strict accountability "which is its due."

Vernon Magistrate Dismissed Charge Against J. L. Hopkins of Armstrong

Hearing Followed Death of W. H. D. Ladner in Automobile Accident

Vernon, Sept. 12.—Magistrate Hoggie yesterday dismissed the charge against James L. Hopkins of Armstrong, that "being in charge of a motor vehicle on August 26 at Vernon, he did not have the same under proper control."

The case arose out of an accident on the Vernon-Armstrong road, when W. H. D. Ladner was killed. The magistrate, in giving his decision, said the evidence which the prosecution had advanced was to his mind insufficient to justify putting Hopkins on trial. He dismissed the case without calling for the evidence of the defence.

WILL NOT RETURN BOOKS TO LIBRARY

Pacific Electric Railway at Los Angeles Balks Plans of Delinquents

Pasadena, Cal., Sept. 12.—People who have been using the Pacific Electric Railway as a medium for returning overdue books to the public library in the future must employ other means of sending the librarian's fines.

President Coolidge's whole course while in the White House has left no doubt that he holds the New England idea of high duties. Under his administration the flexible tariff has been practically a nullity so far as the lowering of rates is concerned.

As another piece of evidence that the tariff is to be in the campaign, the high tariff leaders are hastening to take advantage of the recent increases in the prices of grain and hogs in this country. They are trying to show that the tariff on farm products is not a failure and that for natural economic reasons the prices of the farmers' products are being equalized with those of manufactured products. In other words, they are seeking to allay the feeling of the farmers that they are getting the worst of it under the existing tariff arrangement. One purpose of this effort of the high tariff interests is to hold back the farmers from bolting the Republican ticket in this campaign and another purpose is to try to block the idea of enacting such legislation as that proposed in the McNary-Haugen bill, which would encourage exportation and practically shut off importation of farm products.

partment of the railway has been returning to the library books picked up in street cars and buses. The number gradually grew until one man's time was chiefly occupied in returning books from the car buses. When railway officials noticed that no one forgot to leave any privately owned books on the cars, they came to the conclusion they were being "worked," and now they announce there will be no more books returned to the public library.

FINISH THE ROAD

THE famous garden developed by Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Butchart and generously opened by them to the public is a publicity promoter of the first magnitude. It is a striking advertisement of the fertility of our soil and the excellence of our climate. As a show place it is known all over the world and has become a Mecca for tourists who come to this Coast, not a few of whom make the trip to Victoria for the specific purpose of visiting it. Nor is the effect of the publicity gained from the genius and public spirit of Mr. and Mrs. Butchart merely local. It operates to the advantage of British Columbia as a whole.

MEIGHEN'S FALLACIES

ACCORDING to The Kingston Standard's report of a recent speech Mr. Meighen is credited with saying that the country got freer trade in 1922, a little more in 1923, and still more this year, "so it will go on if the Progressive-Liberal-Free Trade Government has its way."

This comes strange from the leader of the Conservative Party. Until a very short time ago Mr. Meighen's principal charge against the administration of Mr. Mackenzie King was that it had entirely ignored its pre-election pledge to make reductions in the tariff. In fact the Liberals were virtually charged with talking against protection while out of office and with practising protection while in office.

The Kingston paper's report of Mr. Meighen's remarks, however, is intended to show that the tariff has been going down ever since the present Government's policies began to operate. How else can it be argued if there is an intention to prove that freer trade has worked an injury to the industrial life of the country? The charge, therefore, against the Administration at Ottawa at this stage is not that it is not keeping the promises which the Prime Minister made before the election in 1921, but that those promises are being kept too well.

It is apparently the intention of the Conservative leader to describe freer trade as a loadstone round the neck of industry, a suggestion that trade needs to be taxed, tariffed, fined, hampered and hobbled if it is to be saved from perishing of excessive growth and expansion.

It will also be recalled that Mr. Meighen told several audiences in Montreal recently that Mr. King did not seriously alter the tariff until he had been two years in power; that is, until 1924. But Mr. Meighen also told the electors in the St. Antoine constituency that "one of the largest implement concerns," which he said "had last year but sixty per cent, of the business of the year before, did this year but forty per cent, of the business it did last year." Presumably he intended the implication to remain that these reductions in business were due to the Government's policy of tariff reduction.

One is left to inquire why a forty per cent. reduction in business in 1924, if due to the change in tariff, was preceded by a sixty per cent. reduction the year before? To put it briefly Mr. Meighen is trying to blame the King tariff for all the business failures which have taken place during the two years in question—in 1922 and 1923—when the tariff was practically unchanged. The Conservative leader will have to admit that the changes in implement duties did not go into effect until this year.

When Mr. Meighen says the country is going from bad to worse he should really arrange his statements so that they would harmonize a little better than they do at present. Riding two horses going in different directions is a feat of political equestrianism which not even he can perform with dignity or safety.

SELL CANADA IN EUROPE

IT IS gradually dawning upon the people of this country that Canada's scenic beauty and unlimited holiday facilities ought to be sold more extensively on the other side of the Atlantic than they are being sold at present. The Dominion Government obviously had this in mind when it planned its Pavilion for the British Empire Exhibition. There, in the Main Court, that section of the Rockies which includes Banff, with its famous hotel and golf course, forms one of the most attractive and realistic tableaux that the hands of man could fashion. This is progress; but it is not enough. The Financial Post, to whose comments we referred yesterday, very properly argues that the tourist business is becoming one of Canada's most profitable "industries" and contends that it ought to be developed on national lines. So far the average United Kingdom holidaymaker seldom gives this part of the world a thought when he arranges his annual respite from toil. If the suggestion of a holiday on this side of the Atlantic should enter his head it is more than likely that he dismisses it because of the amount he imagines it would cost. To many it would, of course, be out of the question; but there are thousands of others who religiously cross the Channel every year and pour out large sums in an effort to get new experiences in scenes which are almost as familiar as home. Millions of dollars go into the tills of Continental hotels.

Happily our railway companies and such organizations as the American Express Company are taking the initiative and are beginning to persuade parties to cross the Atlantic in small groups for tours of six weeks up to three months. How cheaply, cheap even compared with relatively short stays and tours in the South of France and Switzerland, such highly interesting trips can be carried out is illustrated by one conducted excursion which left London on August 2. This was a six weeks' tour and its cost per head was just a fraction less than $350. The itinerary embraced New York, Philadelphia, Atlantic City, Baltimore, Washington, Pittsburg, Chicago, Detroit, Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Toronto, the St. Lawrence, and Montreal. Local sight-seeing trips by motor car or pleasure steamer were scheduled at every place visited, and the price of the tour included all essential expenses and the services of a qualified leader.

As The Financial Post rightly points out, therefore, if Canada can get $150,000,000 worth of business from the "industry" as originating on this side of the Atlantic, it should surely be possible to double the turnover by a more energetic and concerted effort to capitalize her scenic appeal in Great Britain and Europe generally.

THE FAR WEST COAST

STORIES of discovery and exploration have an irresistible attraction for everybody, whether the scene of the adventurous activities of the discoverers and explorers be in Thibet, the Polar Regions, Africa or our own vast continent. A short time ago The Times reviewed the proof sheets of "The Far West Coast," a book dealing with the discoveries of the Pacific Coast, by V. L. Denton, an instructor in the Provincial Normal School here and published by J. M. Dent & Sons of Toronto, which should have a place in every library in this section of the Dominion. It is a splendid compilation of the achievements of the intrepid navigators of whom most people have heard but of whose operations comparatively little is known except by students who have delved into the archives. It tells of the voyages of Bering and Chirikoff, of Cook, Juan de Fuca, Meares and Vancouver in a manner so interesting as to hold the attention of the reader from cover to cover. The book is admirably printed and illustrated and we congratulate Mr. Denton upon his fine contribution to the literature on exploration on the Pacific Coast.

Information reaching Mr. Pooley leads him to suggest that the Conservatives in North Okanagan have excellent prospects of defeating Dr. MacDonald because it is going to be a straight two-party fight. He ought to remember, however, that the three-party opposition which he set up against the Premier at Nelson was somewhat of a fiasco.

Dr. Tolmie says that the Conservative Party is not the least discouraged by the results of the two by-elections in Quebec. Will he say, then, that the verdict in St. Antoine, where the fiscal policy of the Government was on trial, where Mr. Meighen campaigned harder than he has campaigned for many a day, was a pleasant surprise for the Conservatives?

Whether Mr. Meighen shall continue to lead the Conservatives or whether a convention shall be called to find another chieftain is a subject which is now agitating the minds of Tories all over the country. The Kingston Standard and its Conservative contemporaries in Montreal differ very considerably on the subject and are saying nasty things about one another.

ONLY ONE GUESS NEEDED

From The Kingston Standard
Judging from the press dispatches there need be no difficulty in saying who is universally acknowledged to be "the glass of fashion and the mold of form."

YES, WHAT WOULD HAPPEN

From The Owen Sound Sun-Times
In some places in Europe the churches are barring out women who are held to be not sufficiently clothed. But if the women should retaliate by going on strike, what would become of the churches?

LEGISLATION FOR MOTORISTS

From The St. Catherine's Standard
Motor car drivers are to be licensed in Ontario. The new law is coming for the protection of the people in general. Except for the few who are not fit to drive high powered vehicles, drastic legislation would not be necessary.

MOUNTAIN AIR

Berton Braly in Forbes Magazine
The guys who have climbed to the summit Or up on the heights, anyhow, will often remark, "Oh dad gum it, I doubt if I was down in the valley when I was down in the valley." With which I was formerly, the highest of whom, secured, with the highest. When I spent two jitters for lunch. The guys who have made big successes Will sigh for the "glorious days" When life had few worries and stresses And humble and plain were my ways. They turn their minds far from the present. And wander on Memory's track. To "times that were frugal and pleasant." But how they would hate to go back! The guys who are wealthy and famous Will sob as they brush off a tear—"Although the great world may acclaim us I'm frequently lonely up here." They say that the white light is glaring Which beats upon folds of renown. That life on a pedestal's wearing—But gosh, how they hate to come down!

Dr. Frank Crane on "Partisanship"

IT is a question whether partisanship is not like the breaking up of the atom. There is no stopping it. And there is developed a party of parties the same spirit that motivates the party itself.

Partisanship is attached to parties from personal reasons as well as traditional and customary ones. No one is attached to a party by his intelligence, for a little sound thinking would revolt from his party as often as he clings to it.

It has been said of Protestantism that being the spirit of revolt, it is in danger of constant schism and that it is very difficult for a body of Protestants to hold together. Since they began upon the principle of the resistance to authority it is very difficult to curb that principle, as it is now established.

We therefore see Protestantism breaking up into an infinite number of sects and divisions, once it has broken away from the mother church.

In the same way, we see that parties find that it is increasingly difficult to hold their people together once they admit that loyalty to party is a greater thing than loyalty to the country itself.

It has been well said that we hate no one so much as our neighbor.

The party system is founded upon discontent and dissatisfaction. It is always a more telling argument when it speaks of the defects of our own party than of the merits of our own, and it is always easy to find defects in anything. Campaign literature and oratory, therefore, may be depended upon more to view with alarm what the other party does and has done than to point with pride to one's own party.

Doubtless this party system will be cured by its own inherent viciousness. It will destroy itself by its own principles.

Canada's Fateful Night

SEPTEMBER 12, 1759—fateful night for Canada. All day the brave and competent Montcalm in his trenches down at Beauport had wondered uneasily about Wolfe's army. Two brigades, he knew, were at St. Nicholas, thirteen miles above Levis. They were safe, for the trusty Bougainville marched his forces regularly up and down the weary miles of heights which they were facing. Point Levis and the Island of Orleans, with their camps of redcoats he could see, and Admiral Saunders with his fleet was right out there in the St. Charles Basin, though he seemed exceptionally industrious laying buoys to serve as guides in landing an attack, perhaps that night, on Wolfe's third brigade—it had eluded all intelligence.

Montcalm was uneasy. There was one weak spot. The nine miles from Cap Rouge, where ended Bougainville's long "beast," was watched by Vergor, who had disgracefully surrendered Beaujour in Acadia. But Vergor was the friend of the Governor, the Marquis de Vaudreuil, and of the attendant Bigot. The Governor could not hear of his removal. In this nine miles there was one possible landing place, the Anse de Foulon. Only one week before, Montcalm had sent some of his best regulars to reinforce this cove. They stayed there only a bare two days, for the Governor, when they were not needed, struck the cliff line was impregnable, and ordered them back to Beauport.

Now, mentally scanning all the possibilities, Montcalm remembered Vergor. He knew that, of his hundred men at the top of the cove, this officer had given fifty leave of absence to work their farms in the St. Charles valley, on condition that they put in as much time on the farm there. Wolfe knew this, and he knew that Wolfe knew. He begged the Governor to recall Vergor. The Governor refused.

From the very first days of the siege in the possibility of a surprise attack on the part of the Plains at the Anse de Foulon. It was the most desperate and the most brilliant way. From a letter written by Major Holland to Col. John Graves Simcoe in 1792, which is now preserved at Wolford, Honiton, Devonshire, and which was published recently in the Canadian Historical Review, we learn that Wolfe had many reconnoissances made of the spot, by Holland, and by others, secretly, for he never took his three Brigadier-Generals into his confidence in this matter. Possibly his councils with the Brigadier-Generals had a habit of becoming army property, and then French property. At any rate he said to Holland, whom he had just recently seen, "My friend, speaking after one such reconnoissance, in French, 'There, my dear Holland, you have my last resort, but my other schemes must first be carried through and fail. I am speaking to you in confidence; meanwhile my idea must be concealed from everyone, no matter whom, and I want you to approve the belief that the effort is impossible the scale.'"

Apparently Wolfe had determined that both armies should be deceived as to this possibility, as essential to his plan. He even wrote dependently to Pitt. Moreover, all the Summer's fighting at Beauport and Montmorenci and up and down the river simply contrived to lull the French and clear the way for the great and final stroke. Adding the information from Major Holland's letter to the facts already commonly known, we realize that Wolfe's conduct of the siege of Quebec was one of the most brilliant actions in the history of British Arms.

During the afternoon of the twelfth, Wolfe made his last reconnoissance of the great plain. He was wasting with disease, and he knew though the others did not, that he was about to stake his reputation and that of the British forces on a high and daring throw.

The evening came, the end of three days and nights of masterly manoeuvring with fleet and army perfectly combined. As usual the upper fleet went down the river with the tide. As usual Bougainville's worn out forces trapped the weary miles along the cliff-tops abreast of them. Admiral Saunders, with the main fleet, was thundering a cannonade which presaged a landing at Beauport. The batteries at Levis were blasting at dawn. As darkness fell, and the tide turned to ebb, from the river the river they fell away the landing boats full of picked men, in the lead the boat containing the twenty-four volunteers who were to scale the sheer, rocky precipice, a thousand yards below the cove.

SCHOOL BOOKS To the Editor:—Thanks for your article "School Text Books." It is true that a great number of parents find it hard at the beginning of the school year to purchase the books for each child.

Why should parents have to buy books at all? This is a country with a so-called free education. But my knowledge of it is that it cost a great deal more for the parents of the present day child, in school books, than it did for my parents to provide me with an education, and that was before free education, when we had school fees to pay every week. Certainly they take more subjects today than they did in the past, but are the present day children any better for it? Would not the three R's well grounded in be better for them?

Why can't the schools buy all the books that the Education Department consider necessary, and keep them at the school, the property of the school, as they are in the Old Country?

This giving of readers, etc., to each child as it enters the different grades finally chatters up a house with school books. We came from Saskatchewan here five years ago and brought all the school books with us from there, to be sold in the Old Country. The result is we have both British Columbia and Saskatchewan school books on our shelves. If the schools were to buy all the books for the children it might bring down the taxes, as it would only be a first cost.

The free education of the Old Country provides everything that a child wants during his stay in school. That is what I call free education. This is what I call expensive education. Another thing that needs looking into is the home work question. Why can't they stay at school till 4 p.m. and do the work there instead of bringing home an hour or two of work to do at home? A child's brain needs some rest and sleep, and it can't get the necessary recreation and sleep when it has so much home work to do.

75 Per Cent. of Man's Ills Have Origin in the Stomach, Says Expert, Often Affects Kidneys, Blood and Nerves

HEALTH EXPERT FIGHTS DISEASE WITH SIMPLE ROOTS, HERBS, BARKS AND LEAVES

MANY PEOPLE TESTIFY

Right in this section there is going on a wonderful sale of an old-fashioned medicine—just pure, plain liquid extract, carefully and skillfully compounded from the roots, herbs, barks and leaves of the woods and fields. A highly efficient stomach medicine that contains also good things for the nerves, blood, kidneys and bowels. Thousands lack of sufficient vital force and don't know why. They think they need a tonic, a vacation or a change of scenery, but they don't. Ten to one the underlying source of all the trouble lies in the stomach or vital organs affected by it and a six days' test of Dreco ought to prove it in almost any case. An invalid woman is always a sad sight—sadder even than that of an invalid man, because of her greater capacity for suffering. Stomach trouble, backaches, fits of depression and headaches compel her to think or work with half her brain, while the other half throbs as if it would go to pieces. There are no more striking examples of the great practical value of Dreco, the wonderful herb medicine that has been heard from the lips of women who have been made well. Its ability to relieve those ills that are due to a weak or diseased stomach is overwhelmingly proven by innumerable testimonials.

Dreco is being specially introduced in Victoria by The Vancouver Drug Co., Ltd., corner Fort and Douglas Streets. Go there to-day and ask for Mr. Vaughan, the Dreco Expert, and let him explain the merits of this great remedy. There is no charge and he will tell you honestly if he believes Dreco will benefit you. Dreco is also on sale in New Westminster and Vancouver by the Vancouver Drug Stores and in other towns as follows:

Port Haney—Campbell's Drug Store. Port Moody—Graham Knight. Hammond—H. G. Betts. Port Coquitlam—J. O. Neave. Abbotsford—E. T. Weir, Chilliwack—H. D. Hipwell. Langley Prairie—R. A. Royston. 5000 New Customers

One of our many new customers, recently returned from New York, remarked the other day that in all her travels she had never experienced more courteous attention than she had received from our sales clerks.
She remarked, too, that our values and assortments were even better than she had found in many of the big New York stores.
This last remark is hardly surprising because we have at our back one of the most powerful buying organizations on the continent, buying as we do for eleven large retail establishments and hundreds of trading posts.
Half a million dollars' worth of New Fall Merchandise has already been secured for our Fall and Winter selling, all of which has been marked at a low margin of profit in expectation of a largely increased volume of business.
If you want more value for your money, if you appreciate a store service that is thoroughly up-to-date shop at Hudson's Bay.

GAS IN THE STOMACH IS DANGEROUS

Recommends Daily Use of Magnesia to Overcome Trouble Caused by Fermenting Food and Acid Indigestion

Gas and wind in the stomach accompanied by that full, bloated feeling after eating are almost certain evidence of the presence of excessive hydrochloric acid in the stomach...

Acid stomachs are dangerous because too much acid irritates the delicate lining of the stomach, often leading to gastritis...

It is the worst of folly to neglect such a serious condition or to treat with ordinary digestive aids which have no neutralizing effect on the stomach acids.

RUTH DOCKED LATE

The steamship Ruth Alexander arrived in Victoria this morning from the South with a passenger list of over 200 aboard...

ing houses of cast iron plates as an alternative to the plan for building steel buildings.

The plans which have been prepared are for semi-detached dwellings. Each would have front and back ground-floor rooms twelve feet by twelve feet by nine feet and twelve feet by fifteen feet by nine feet, respectively.

The walls would be built of standard size cast iron plates, bolted to steel frames.

It is estimated the actual erection, apart from the finishing processes, could be done by unskilled labor, under the supervision of one skilled erector, at the rate of one pair of houses a week for each four men employed.

TANKER REPORTED HOPELESS WRECK

Orowoiti Breaking up, is Latest Word; Cannot be Salvaged

San Francisco, Sept. 11.—The Union Steamship Company's tanker Orowoiti, which went ashore on Point Sal on August 13, has been abandoned and is reported breaking up.

Owing to the unfavorable weather conditions and with a high sea running practically the whole time the ship has been on the rocks, it has been impossible to attempt to salvage the boat.

At a hearing before two British masters in San Francisco Capt. Walter Smith, who was in command of the vessel when she struck, was exonerated.

The Orowoiti will probably slip into Davy Jones's locker before many days have elapsed.

The Orowoiti was one of the fleet of tankers operated by the Union Steamship Company of New Zealand.

New Pay Agreement Now Being Negotiated For Street Car Men Here

Automobile competition is blamed for the move for readjustment of salaries of street car employees here.

Day and night crews have been holding meetings during the last week to discuss the proposed new salary agreement with the B.C. Electric Railway. The agreement under which the men have been working expired on August 31. The new proposal is to sign up Vancouver employees for one, two or three years at the same rate of pay, which has been in force for a number of years, it is understood.

HIGHER PAY HERE

Victoria street car operators have been getting six cents an hour higher pay than Vancouver men because of the extra work involved in the operation of the one-man car system. The proposal of cutting their pay to two cents an hour is now being considered. It is likely that it will be put before the men in the form of a plebiscite.

Victoria operators said this afternoon that they were not anxious to sign up for any extended period under an unchangeable agreement, as with sudden spurts in business here, as was experienced at the start of the boom before the war. It would be impossible for one-man operation on the heavy routes of the city to cope with the business.

COMPETITION

Instances of how the street car company here has been hard hit by automobile competition were given today. The cut this week of taxicab rates in the city, which makes it almost as cheap for a party of three or four persons to ride by automobile and spend the money on a party of street car. Prevalence of automobiles here and the regular use of them made possible by good roads and good seasons has curtailed street car traffic greatly, it was explained. On one route of the city, instances quoted to-day, show private automobiles using the sidewalks morning more than half as many passengers as are carried by street cars. Private cars, it was explained, coming to a halt on the main streets pick up passengers waiting for street cars and give them free rides to the city, thus doing the street railway out of so much business.

The proposed cut in wages here, it was intimated this afternoon, was proposed partly in place of a curtailment of street car service on certain routes of the city, which is necessary by the free automobile rides. Automobile bus competition has already forced the abandonment of Saanich interurban line, it was pointed out.

OBITUARY

Funeral service was held at the Thomson Funeral Home, 1625 Quadra Street, yesterday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock for the late Mrs. Edith Maria Mills, who passed away at the Royal Jubilee Hospital at an early hour Tuesday morning. The Rev. Dr. Clem Davies, of the City Temple, gave a very impressive address. His hymn sung was "Abide With Me"; also a solo song, "Beyond the Dawn." The following acted as pallbearers: Messrs. J. Mantou, R. Canbow, F. Mulline and J. Pollock. Interment was made in Ross Bay Cemetery.

The funeral of the late Gilbert Edwin Jones, who passed away at the family residence of Tuesday, September 9, took place on Thursday afternoon from McCall Bros' Funeral Home, 1111 J. Sippell, D.D., conducted the service, which was attended by a large number of friends, who, by their floral offerings, gave testimony to the esteem in which Mr. Jones was held by them. The hymns, "It is Well," and "Shall We Gather at the River?" were sung; also E. C. Wilderspin sang very feelingly, "Lifted Me." Mrs. Wilderspin presiding at the organ. The remains were laid to rest at Ross Bay cemetery, the following friends being the pallbearers: Rev. W. J. Knott, Rev. Thomas Sandall, Messrs. Albert Holland, E. C. Wilderspin, E. Bent and W. E. MacIntyre.

The death took place at an early hour this morning at the residence of her son, George T. Brown of 2173 Fair Street, aged eighty-five years. Born in the County of Fermagh, Ireland, she had been a resident of this city for the past three years. The funeral will take place on Monday at 2 o'clock from the Sands Funeral Chapel, and the remains will be laid to rest in the Royal Oak Burial Park.

The death took place Thursday evening at the Royal Jubilee Hospital of Mrs. Ellen Elizabeth Gilling, beloved wife of George G. Gilling, superintendent of the public works of Saanich. She was born in England sixty-eight years ago, and had been a resident of Saanich for the past twelve years, residing on Ralph Street. The late Mrs. Gilling is survived by her husband, four sons and three daughters. The remains are resting at the Sands Funeral Chapel, and the funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Cummings as Houseowner had Lax Memory, City Council Learns

The tangled web of George Cummings' short residence in Victoria has enmeshed the sober dignity of the corporation of this city, and all because Cummings was ambitious and apparently neglectful of his bills. It appears that Cummings, fugitive from justice, bought a house from the city when in Victoria. It is located on the corner of Yates Street and Vancouver Street, and had re-verted to the city at a tax sale. It was to be purchased on agreement of sale, and a payment had been made.

Cummings appeared to have asked a contractor to carry out certain work there in the way of repairs, and this was done. The contractor has placed a mechanic's lien on the property and claims $182.

City Solicitor Pringle took the opinion of the City Council on the matter this afternoon, at the council session.

WIDE ROADS ARE ULTIMATE ECONOMY, SAYS G. W. BOWEN

A plea for wider roads and gradual extension of the highways of the Island and at least a few miles each year is made by G. W. Bowen, vice-chairman of the Western Fuel Corporation of Canada. Nansaimo, who is in the city to-day, says that the enthusiastic motorist declares the province would ultimately benefit from making the roads wider, particularly in dangerous places, and he makes a plea for the extension of new highways into the forest. His argument is that the tourists who come to see new territory, and that they will not return again unless circular routes are established so that they may see changing scenery all the time.

Mr. Bowen was not inclined to say much with regard to the coal situation on the Island, except that he takes the view that the production is meeting requirements, and that the companies are not inclined to much development work in the face of the competing prices of fuel oil. Operators, he said, are satisfied that the business conditions are fairly stable, with considerable number of orders coming in.

CHINESE WAS KILLED BY BULL IN FIELD

Farm Worker Met Terrible Death Near Ladner; Animal Was Shot

Ladner, Sept. 12.—Terribly mangled, apparently by the horns and hoofs of an enraged bull, the body of Lee Sing, Chinese, was found yesterday afternoon in one of the fields of the farm of Harry Mitchell, half a mile east of here. Before the body could be brought to the field the bull had to be shot. It is believed the body lay in the field for at least two days, as it was partly decomposed when found.

Sing was an employee on a neighboring farm, and it is believed he was taking a short cut across the field when attacked.

BRITISH PREMIER IS NOW OWNER OF COMPANY SHARES

MacDonald's Holdings in McVittie and Price Company Worth $150,000

Reported Sir A. Grant Aided Him Because of Expenses of Office

London, Sept. 12.—Since he became Prime Minister of Great Britain, Ramsay MacDonald, according to the public records of Edinburgh, has become the owner of $150,000 worth of stock in the McVittie & Price Company, a Scottish biscuit firm.

The holder of the record is reported to have preferred stock of a nominal value of $5 per share. They were allotted, according to the register, on March 12 of this year to James Ramsay MacDonald, 10 Downing Street, London, S.W., a member of His Majesty's Privy Council.

Far from signifying that the Labor Premier has been operating successfully as a capitalist, it may mean he has generous friends or nominally accepted the shares on behalf of some Scottish trust. The McVittie & Price Company is owned by the family of Sir Alexander Grant, who has long been a friend of Mr. MacDonald and is well known for his benevolence. A workingman's son born near Lossal, he started his own business as a baker and since he attained wealth has been noted for his philanthropy. Recently he gave $500,000 to endow the Scottish National Library.

It is assumed by Mr. MacDonald's friends that Grant may have come to the rescue of the Prime Minister in the same way Andrew Carnegie did for Lloyd George to help him meet the heavy expenses of office.

The shares probably yield around $10,000 a year.

CHURCH UNION IS OPPOSED IN CALGARY

Calgary, Sept. 12.—A Calgary branch of the Presbyterian Church Association was organized last night to oppose church union.

"The union forces do not want any more voting," he added. "What we resent is being coerced into this union."

Rev. Theo. A. Jansen, who became pastor of the Grace English Lutheran Church early in the Summer, will be formally installed at the 10.30 service, Sunday morning.

Rev. Dr. T. W. Kretschman of Seattle, Wash., will officiate at the ceremony.

Firpo Never Had A Chance With Wills

Negro Battler Raised Welts on Luis' Body That You Could Hang Your Hat on and it is Miracle How He Stayed on His Feet; Firpo Failed to Show Any Form and Was Beaten in Twelve Clumsy Rounds; Fans Can't See Argentine as Heavyweight Contender

Boyle's Thirty Acres, Jersey City, Sept. 12.—Harry Wills, the New Orleans panther, made Luis Firpo of Buenos Ayres look like a veritable sucker in twelve clumsy rounds here last night. How in the name of thunder that man from the Argentine ever reached the point where he should be considered as a contender for heavyweight honors was more than a puzzle to the 90,000 spectators.

Firpo never had a round and for that matter never landed an effective blow during the entire journey.

There were times during the bout when the crowd laughed at Firpo's ludicrous efforts to fight back at the colored boxer who ripped and tore the South American all over the place.

In the second round Wills dropped Firpo with a right hand chop in the chin and it looked like curtains for the visitor but he managed to struggle to his feet at the count of five.

Firpo should never have lasted the entire trip and it is a reflection on Luis to have the clumsy giant from the Argentine around there at the end of those twelve fumbling rounds.

Firpo CAN'T FIGHT To be absolutely on the level about it, Firpo can't fight a lick. He kept pegging a right hand at Wills' head but never landed on the mark once. At one time he sailed Wills with a right-hand uppercut which was about the only effective blow he landed during the entire proceedings.

It did seem as though Danny Sullivan, usually a most capable referee, was a referee of the fust last night. Dan refused to allow Wills to ride rough with his famous stuff of hold- ing his opponent in a vise-like grip with his left hand while he whaled the body with his ponderous right hand.

It was apparent that Sullivan's waning affected Wills and made him doubly cautious against losing on a foul.

As an excuse for not stopping Firpo, Wills' manager, Paddy Mullins, told the newspapermen as he stepped out of the ring that Wills had busted his right hand in the first round and had to be replaced by a member for the remainder of the bout.

GOING WAS ROUGH Every round was a repetition of the other, Wills pegging away to the body without a return and forcing Luis to hold on at every point. Those who saw the fight made Luis grudge the money he was getting to referee Sullivan every time the going got rough.

The fight was more or less of a job for Wills dropped Firpo in the second round. Firpo never had a look in and it was surprising that Wills did not stop him when he did a round that could be called close and near the end it looked as though Firpo was looking for mercy.

As Harry banged him mercilessly about the ribs with both hands, Firpo's body was a sight from the fierce drubbing he was subjected to. There were not a few who even thought you could hang your hat when the show was over and it was miraculous how Luis stayed up there under the savagery of Wills' blows.

Round eleven—Wills rushed to meet Firpo, who fell into a clinch. Firpo landed right jaw and right to body, but the blows lacked steam. There was much wrestling, Firpo landed right to the jaw twice, but Wills' body, which was pink from blows, Firpo was getting his famous right over better, but taking many body punches in return.

Round twelve—They shook hands and immediately clinched. Firpo hung on desperately, Wills continued his relentless body attack. Wills landed two rights to the head. Wills did not cease smiling even when Firpo landed his right straight in the face. Some commentators suggest that Firpo got the worst of an exchange, and the men were clinched at the bell.

THE PRELIMINARIES In the first preliminary McKenna defeated Mike Ferrera, by a slight margin on points. The men are heavyweights.

Carl Johnson defeated Joe Silvani in four rounds heavyweight clash. Bill Tate caused Joe Cassanova to take a nose dive early in the first round.

DISAPPOINTMENT! Buenos Ayres, Sept. 12.—Newspapers in the Argentine express disappointment at the defeat of Luis Firpo at the hands of Harry Wills last night. Some commentators suggest that deportation proceedings against Firpo caused depression and express the hope that another meeting under more favorable conditions can be forthcoming. It is generally conceded however, that Wills put up a brilliant fight.

BEAUTIFUL DANCING
BY LOCAL ARTISTS AT ROYAL MONDAY

One of the features of the forthcoming production of "To-night's Night" at the Royal Theatre next week will be the beautiful dancing of that most charming of local artists, Roberta Balcom. Miss Balcom's work is well known to the Victoria public and is sure to be a big drawing card. Ernie Fetch is going to be at his best as far as comedy is concerned and it's a certain bet that he will keep the house rocking. Will Marshall and Peggy Lewis both are to have excellent parts which are right in their line. A newcomer to the ranks of the Company is Miss Helen Starr who is blessed with a beautiful mezzo soprano voice.

"EMPTY HANDS" IS FURNISHING GREAT EXCITEMENT HERE

"Empty Hands," is the latest cinema opus from the Paramount organization at the Dominion Theatre. The story, which Carey Wilson adapted from the novel of the same name by Arthur Stringer, furnishes the nth degree of excitement, is filled with dramatic contrasts and conflicts, and is the type of outdoor stuff that Victor Fleming can do to perfection. Briefly it deals with the cinema find themselves lost in the wilderness miles from civilization. Their struggle for existence, the hardships they endure, and finally their love for each other are all grippingly and sympathetically portrayed. The picture is one of daring situations and contrasts the viciousness of life in certain fast social sets is truthfully depicted and is placed for startling comparison against the cleanliness of life in the Northern woods. The featured role is in the capable hands of Jack Holt who is ably supported by lovely Norma Shearer. Not all the acting honors fall to the lot of these two; the other members of the cast do very good work. Among those who are deserving of honorable mention are Gertrude Olmsted, Charles Clary, Ward Crane, Ramsey Wallace, Hank Mann and Hazel Keener. The fact that Victor Fleming is responsible for the direction is a guarantee of its worth from a production standpoint. There are some very elaborate sets, those showing the ballroom and swimming pool sequences are very much out of the ordinary. All in all, "Empty Hands" is the kind of picture that film fans are sure to enjoy.

FLYNN DIRECTED PICTURE VERSION OF PLAY ROMANCE

Emmett Flynn, whose work as director and scenario writer, has brought him into prominence in the motion picture world, directed the William Fox version of "The Man Who Came Back" adapted from the novel by John Fleming Wilson. It will be recalled that Jules Eckert Goodman based his stage success on the book, the play being produced by William A. Brady in 1917. Mary Nash and Henry Hull had the principal parts and the play remained on Broadway more than a year. It played Chicago for twenty-one weeks and in another production Conrad Nagel had the leading role with equally successful results. George O'Brien and Dorothy Mackall have the leads in the picture version and are supported by a notable cast which includes Cyril Chadwick, Ralph Lewis, Emily Fitzroy, Harvey Clark and others equally well known. The story concerns a wealthy New Yorker who goes wrong and by a process of degradation becomes a beach comber in the Orient. The love of a woman awakens his self respect eventually, but not until a romantic story of pathos and action has been unfolded step by step. The picture comes to the Capitol Theatre next week for six days.

BESSIE LOVE HAS SPLENDID ROLE IN
"SLAVE OF DESIRE"

Bessie Love is called out in Hollywood, where she is well loved, "the little girl who has come back." Back in 1915 when Bessie, a demure little girl scarcely out of high school entered motion pictures, it appeared that she was destined to become one of the biggest stars. A wonderful future loomed for this dainty little girl, but, as has been the case of other well known players who have left the Griffith tutelage, Miss Love fell a victim of poor casting, and, probably, unsympathetic direction. The result was inevitable. Several poor pictures, badly suited for her quiet type, caused her to go into a voluntary retirement.

Now she has come back strong. Her services have been constantly in demand by various companies. Miss Love was cast for the feminine leading role in "Slave of Desire," a picture which is showing at the Playhouse.

When George D. Baker, who directed "Slave of Desire," was seeking an actress for the role of Pauline, the heroine of Balzac's story, he gave several well known picture leading ladies tests, including Miss Love, and both he and Gilbert E. Gable, the producer, were delighted to learn that not only had Miss Love read the Balzac story several times, but that she was a deep admirer of the great French novelist.

EARN THEIR MONEY IN FILM REALM

The life of a motion picture "extra" is not one of limousines, soft cushions and refreshing drinks. More than 500 "extras" were recruited from the ranks of motion picture aspirants in San Francisco for a scene in "Dorothy Vernon of Haddon Hall" while Mary Pickford and her company were in that city filming exterior "shots." Any "extra" person used in "Dorothy Vernon" would testify to the following reasons as to why this life is not one of reclining chairs and footstools.

"Big Ben" buzzing an unkind melody at 4 o'clock in the morning. Riding "midst strange elbows and stranger feet, four and one-half miles in the crowded street cars to the property room to be costumed in the vogue of the Elizabethan period and "made up" in order to be at the set at 6 o'clock.

Garbed in this apparel, fit to be presented to Queen Elizabeth in person; another ride of one mile to location. Lining up for hours, feeling the make-up, which took hours to put on, dribble down the cheek bones, while waiting for the director's call to be used in a scene.

"Dorothy Vernon of Haddon Hall," a United Artists release, will be shown at the Dominion Theatre, beginning next week, according to the manager of the show-house.

CONWAY DIRECTED
MIX'S NEW FILM
NOW AT COLUMBIA

John Conway, who directed "Fleming Passions," has been added to the Fox staff and directed the new Mix picture, "The Trouble Shooter," now showing at the Columbia Theatre. This is an original story by Frederick and Fanny Hatton and presents Mr. Mix in a character new to the screen. Neither Mr. Mix nor any other player has ever portrayed. It is plentifully punctuated with thrills. Never before has the renowned star been given such opportunity for daring and flirting with death, all of which naturally delights the intrepid Mr. Mix and the always willing Tony.

EXCELLENT CAST IS APPEARING IN
"THE LAW FORBIDS"

The importance of a good cast is demonstrated at the Pantages Theatre, where "The Law Forbids," with Baby Peggy in the stellar role, is playing. Such well known favorites as Elinor Fair, remembered for her work in "Treason" and "Kismet"; Winifred Bryson, who played the tropical charmer in "Thundering Dawn"; Robert Ellis, long a leading man; Hayden Stevenson, the genial fight manager of the "Leather Pushers" series; James Corrigan, William E. Lawrence and Eva Thatcher are some of the others who are familiar to stage and screen audiences for many years.

KNOW-ALL AUTOMOBILE—C. S. Bruce of the United States Bureau of Standards, operate the government-owned flyover, which consists of ninety pieces of apparatus, which tell the complete story for the first time, of what happens to the car and what the car does during the tour. This car has been dubbed "Bruce's Chariot." The apparatus constructed tells such things as the number of explosions in each cylinder as well as the number of revolutions of each wheel, the weight of the air used by the engine, how much work the piston does in sucking in air and gas and many other things. The stove-pipe apparatus is used to measure wind velocity.

BLAZE WORKS HAVOC IN INDUSTRIAL PLANT—Damage estimated at over $200,000 was done by fire at the Cookville Shale and Brick Co. plant near Toronto, throwing 140 men out of employment and totally destroying the machine shop and partially consuming the huge mill. Above is shown a fallen wall, and a view of the mill looking northward, after the Port Credit and Cookville fire brigades had waged a valiant fight.

The girls of wealthy families in the East are now having their funings with the Prince of Wales being entertained on Long Island. Whenever he appears the girls flock around him so enthusiastically that they almost mob him. Here he is shown with his slouch hat "cutting up" for a few of them.

The Prince of Wales seems to be having a lot better luck with his riding now. Anyway he managed to stick in the saddle when he participated in an informal polo game at William R. Grace's country place at Old Westbury, L.I.

KLANSMEN PRESENT WREATH TO JEW—The Ku Klux Klan in Fairfield, Ill., called on Emanuel Steiner, Jewish clothing merchant. But it was a friendly visit. The Klansmen came to present him with a wreath of American beauty roses on the occasion of the 50th anniversary of the opening of his store. The presentation was made by Rev. Herbert G. Markley, pastor of the Fairfield Presbyterian Church, secretary of the Fairfield branch of the klan.

The Prince of Wales went to the races at Belmont Park, L.I., as plain "Edward Windsor." The heir to the British throne was having a wonderful time surrounded by a corps of society women and admiring girls until an army of cameramen took up his trail. He is seen here conversing with his hostess, Mrs. August Belmont, looking all the world like a bashful schoolboy.

JACK INTRODUCES ESTELLE TO THE FAMILY—Jack Dempsey, world champion heavyweight prize-fighter, who is in the movies now, has just made a trip north to visit his home folks in Philadelphia. He is shown above with Estelle, also of the movies. His mother, Mrs. Celia Dempsey, met him on the train, and, after a while Jack and Estelle dropped around to see "Pa" Dempsey, who, despite his nearly four score years, has just taken on another wife. Jack has been bashful about admitting that he and Estelle were engaged, but as a result of the news that came from Philadelphia yesterday he may now admit it. The news was that Kenneth Peacock, husband of Estelle, would drop his suit for $1,900,000 against Jack for alienation of Estelle's affections, because his attorney reminded him that he took $1,500 from a rich dairyman of Wilmington, named Sharpless, in 1919 on the grounds that this gentleman had bribed the fair Estelle loose from her household moorings. Now Kenneth is only going to sue for divorce and then Jack will be able to marry Estelle. This picture shows Jack with his re-made nose.

Last Minute News on Stocks and Financial Affairs
New York, Sept. 12 (By B.C. Bond Corporation)—Less irregularly was noticed in the general list to-day, although there was no continuous strength displayed except in blue-chip shares such as National Biscuit and Looney-Wiles, which stocks scored substantial advances, selling at new high levels for the year.

LITTLE CHANGE IN STOCK PRICES

New York, Sept. 12 (By R.P. Clark & Co., Ltd.)—The market was somewhat smaller, but the tone of the general market very firm. A little selling in the oil stocks was promoted by reports of some new price cuts in gasoline, but the volume of selling was small and price depreciation almost negligible.

WHEAT MARKET STRONG AGAIN

Chicago, Sept. 12 (By British Columbia Bond Corporation)—Higher Liverpool cables and an accumulation of overnight buying orders caused a strong and higher opening for wheat. Uncovers of stop-loss orders resulted in a further advance of one cent early, after which the market became dull and reacted to the opening level. Export demand reported less urgent and in view of the recent sharp upturn in prices of eleven cents, sentiment is inclined to expect a healthy reaction.

FIRMNESS PREVAILS THROUGHOUT SESSION

Chicago, Ill., Sept. 12 (By R.P. Clark & Co., Ltd.)—Wheat—Profit-taking was heavy to-day, checking the advance and there was a seaboard according to late reports. On the other hand news continued bullish with Liverpool 2 1/2 to 3 1/2 higher.

BEDTIME STORY
Uncle Wiggily's Brick Dust
 (Copyright, 1924, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate)

can come out under the shady apple tree with me and listen to a bedtime story.

What are you doing? growled the Bear.

By Howard R. Garis
 "Come and sit out under the apple tree, Nurse Jane, and I will tell you a bedtime story," promised Mr. Longears. "Don't you believe me? Cross my ears!"
 "Oh—you and your bedtime stories!" laughed Nurse Jane. "Really I will—I'll tell you a funny bedtime story!" promised Mr. Longears. "Don't you believe me? Cross my ears!"
 "Nonsense!" laughed Nurse Jane. "Of course I believe you. But I don't want to hear a bedtime story now. If I did I could tune in on the radio. But I have something else to do, thank you."
 "What?" asked Uncle Wiggily, winking his pink nose thoughtfully.
 "I must wash the dinner dishes and polish the knives," said Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy. "The knives are as black as your Sunday hat. They need polishing very much."
 "Then—let me help!" begged the abbit eagerly. "You wash the dishes and I'll polish the knives. Then you

Jane. "I take an old brick, and shave off a little of the red dust. Then I lay the knife on an old board and rub on some brick dust with a rag. It polishes the kitchen knives beautifully. Of course I don't use brick on my parlor knives which we use when we eat in the dining-room on Sunday."
 "Oh, of course not!" agreed Uncle Wiggily, just as if he knew all about it—which he didn't.
 "All right, Jane," said the bunny to his muskrat housekeeper. "I'll get some brick dust and polish the kitchen knives."
 Over the fields and through the woods hopped the bunny gentleman, hoping he might have an adventure before he cleaned the knives. But nothing happened except that he saw a little red ant lady fall in the brook, and he helped her out on his red, white and blue striped barber pole rheumatism crutch.
 Away crawled the little red ant lady, thanking the bunny gentleman. Then he found a red brick, almost the color of the little red ant lady.
 "Ha! This is good luck!" laughed Uncle Wiggily. He hopped home with the red brick, and scraped off some dust as Nurse Jane told him to do. Then wetting a cloth, and

BLACK BEAR SEEN NEAR LADYSMITH ON ISLAND HIGHWAY
 Special to The Times
 Ladysmith, Sept. 11.—Quite a lot of excitement is being caused by the visit of a big black bear in the vicinity of Saltair on the Island Highway. This morning early a motorist noticed Mr. Brain calmly walking across the road about 100 feet in front of the car and scrambling into the underbrush on the other side of the road. Apparently the dry weather and fires have driven him from his haunts, because it is unusual to see bears so close to habitation. This one in particular is seen regularly every morning somewhere near Saltair, and will frighten the children on their way to school unless he is done away with.

SHAWNIGAN FARMERS' INSTITUTE SHOW
 Successful Gathering is Held at Cobble Hill; Good Entry List
 Cobble Hill, Sept. 11.—Shawnigan Farmers' Institute held a successful show here yesterday, in spite of the abnormally dry weather. The entries were the largest and much admiration was expressed for the display put on by the Sidney Experiment Station. The examples of cut flowers, not for competition, were remarkable.

MONTHLY MEETING OF HOSPITAL BOARD
 (Special to The Times)
 Duncan, Sept. 12.—The monthly meeting of the King's Hospital Board was held on Wednesday from the many applications received for the position of matron, the board decided to appoint Miss Black late of the Prince Rupert Hospital where she held a similar position.
 The house committee's report showed a moderately busy month, sixty-nine patients were treated, twenty-three medical cases, forty-six surgical, four births and five deaths. The treasurer's report showed rather a falling off in receipts, the total only reaching $1,045.56, while the payments amounted to $2,648.68. Accounts passed by the board for payment totalled $2,641.13. The turnover for the month was $2,183.30.
 Additions are urgently needed for the X-Ray machine, involving an outlay of $300 to $400, but the board felt unable to sanction any further expenditure for this purpose, at present.
 The secretary and treasurer both gave a brief resume of happenings at the B.C. Hospital Association Convention held recently in Victoria.
 Those present at the meeting were:

NEW ACQUINTANCES
 Several weeks had gone by—weeks in which Blake had been absorbed night and day in clearing away accumulated duties—before he became aware of Julie's depression.
 They were breakfasting one morning when he noted, with a swift sense of contrition, her pallor and the listless expression of her eyes.
 "What is it, Julie? Feeling a bit homesick?"
 She made swift denial, with a shake of her head. Not for the world would she let him think her ungrateful.
 But she was, horribly, horribly so. Blake had remained late at his desk in the House of Representatives office building many evenings. There had been other demands upon his time, and even a hurried trip to New York on his own personal business, so Julie invariably dined alone in her own room. As yet there had been no opportunity to purchase the promised evening frocks. On the occasions when they had had dinner in the restaurant downstairs, they had chosen an unfashionably early hour when street dress was de rigueur.
 Blake was conscious now of a sense of neglect. Poor little Julie, marooned in a strange city amid strange surroundings! He had supplied her lavishly with books and magazines, but they couldn't make up for the lack of human companionship.

 "You miss Mrs. Ames, don't you?" he asked kindly.
 "And Peter," supplemented Julie. In spite of herself, her eyes filled with tears and she lowered them hastily.
 "Could I—would it be possible to have Peter?"
 "No pets are allowed here," he told her gently. "I'm sorry, but you couldn't keep a cat in an apartment."
 "Some of the women have dogs—those horrid little fuzzy creatures."
 "They are only transient guests. Special quarters are provided for their dogs, and the bell boys take them out for airings."
 Julie sighed, but obediently relinquished the subject.
 "Don't feel badly, Julie. I'll make it up to you some other way. The social season is just beginning. People are very busy now, but soon the wives of other congressmen from our state will call on you and you will have social duties of your own to dispatch. Mrs. Haines, the wife of a particular friend of mine, is coming to see you shortly. She knows all the shops, and I'll see that accounts are opened for you so you can buy appropriate clothes."
 Julie was secretly terrified at the prospect. But she had told herself that she must overcome her shyness and not shrink the responsibilities which devolved upon her as a wife to a man of Blake's position.

AUSTRALIAN CENSUS FIGURES PUBLISHED

Population is Close to 5,500,000; Ninety-eight Per Cent of British Extraction

Melbourne, Sept. 12.—Some interesting figures are disclosed in the latest Australian census. They show that the Commonwealth has a total population of 5,435,734, and that more than ninety-eight per cent are of British extraction. Of the total population, eighty-four and one-half per cent were born in Australia. The remarkable homogeneity of the Australian population is shown by the fact that the foreign population consists of only a few thousand Japanese, 15,000 Chinese, 8,000 Italians, 22,000 Germans, 4,000 Americans and 3,000 Swedes.

ELK LAKE SCENE OF DROWNING TRAGEDY

Mission City Man on Visit to Saanich Relatives Lost Life Yesterday

Collapsing in the water while swimming in Elk Lake, Thomas Mitchell, aged twenty-four, a resident of Mission City, B.C., despite an early rescue and medical aid, failed to respond to the efforts to revive him, and died yesterday afternoon after he had been out of the water an hour. He was on a visit to relatives at Saanich, and with his younger brother and a girl friend decided to take a swim. They entered the water from a shore raft moored to the north beach and swam a distance of about sixty yards to a diving raft. The girl led the return swim, the younger brother following, and the victim of the tragedy was in the rear. About thirty yards from the raft he collapsed, and sank immediately, the other two swimmers not knowing what had happened until they reached shore. The younger brother immediately returned and tried vainly to dive and recover his brother from the water.

George Y. Simpson and John Richardson, who were eating at the Elk Lake restaurant when the cries for help were heard, rushed to the lake side. Mr. Simpson first tried to get out in a boat which was lying on the beach, but there were no oars in the craft. He improvised an oar and paddled out. Mr. Simpson dived for the body and recovered it, but at great danger to himself, as he had just completed eating a meal. In the meantime Mr. Richardson got in touch with the Saanich police. He phoned to the city for the pulmotor at 1:10 p.m., and the police patrol arrived on the scene as quickly as possible, although some time elapsed before the pulmotor was available. Henry Stokes with Chief Brogan worked hard in an effort to revive the man, but without avail. It is believed that Mitchell collapsed in the water through heart trouble.

Messrs. Simpson and Richardson expressed the view this morning that the body should be taken to provide more adequate facilities for the saving of life at Elk Lake. Mitchell was taken to the diving raft and artificial respiration was tried. Dr. Manning was sent for and arrived within half an hour after the man had gone down. Dr. F. R. Pollock, of the Saanich Health Centre, and Chief Brogan, of the Saanich police, helped in the administration, but after nearly an hour life was pronounced extinct. Examination by Dr. Manning showed that deceased had a greatly enlarged thyroid gland, and he believed that his collapse was due principally to that abnormality. Very little water was taken from deceased's lungs, the doctor said.

FAMOUS FINLAYSON RESIDENCE IN RUINS

Housebreakers, on City Orders, Remove Early Landmark

One of the most historic frame buildings in this city dating from the days when the Saanich road ran by it in fields and bush, the Finlayson residence, 2412 Douglas Street, is no more. It had fallen on evil days after it ceased to be used for the Corona boarding house, and its destruction was recently decreed after it reverted to the city. In fact it was on the present list of condemned buildings, further consideration of which was taken in hand this afternoon. The premises, after their decline, passed through various uses little by little, keeping with their former grandeur, and at one time it was planned to use them for the Children's Aid Home, but the plan was abandoned. The substantial character of the older part of the premises, built at a time when the city was in its infancy, was disclosed in the hands of the housebreakers, while the latter extension of the building indicated the method of subsequent work. Among the premises listed for attention is the building at the corner of Government and Superior Streets, at the present location of the city hall, which is expected to be the site of a modern apartment block later. The site has already been optioned to a local man, who is seeking to raise the necessary capital.

TO HAVE SERVICE ALONG WEST ROAD

Great interest was naturally aroused along the West Saanich road last Wednesday when subscribers learned from the columns of The Times that the Saanich Interurban Division was to be closed at the end of next month. Announcement can now be made that the Cameron and Calwell Taxi Service will proceed with the plan for which application was made to the Saanich Council recently, to put a motor stage service on the West Road by way of Burnside Road, Wilkinson Road, out to the West Road at Royal Oak, and thence along the West Road to the end of the paving at the junction of the Tod Inlet Road. The exact location of the balance of the route to Moodyville, where the connection will be made by ferry to Mill Bay, has not yet been determined, but the management will make a definite effort to give service for the cement workers on Saanich arm. This service will start when the interurban lines cease operation. It is not proposed to run north of Moodyville, because existing stage routes operated by other interests serve that territory. The service is profitable a freight service may follow the passenger service, but nothing definite has yet been determined, the management of the taxi service announces.

DEAN TELLS HOW ENGLAND CHANGES

Snobbery Rather Less; Still Drinking Too Much; Admirals Labor Party

Several hundred people listened with deep interest to an address by the Very Rev. Dean Quinton in the new Memorial Hall last night. "The Land Changed?" and in the course of a most interesting talk the Dean dealt with his subject from many angles to be visited in England, he said, contrary to all his instincts of a life-long Conservative, he believed he would vote for the Labor Government. Because of his ideal to improve the social conditions of the masses he was a convert to it. "Is England changed? In one sense she has; in another she has not. She has still her snobbery, her class distinctions, she has still—I hope—her honesty, although there is petty thieving in the garage, in the hotel, since the war. She is still the same in her patient way of bearing a heavy burden, in her dislike of tall-talk, and the Englishman is still the same in his knack of scrambling in and out of still playing cricket in England, and in this connection please remember that Yorkshire won the cricket championship."

"THE NEW RICH" The speaker dwelt on the changes in social status in England since the war. "The new rich and the new poor," he said, "the new rich he thought would be two or three generations acquire the ideals of the older landed gentry, who he said had been both strengthened and weakened by additions from those who are spoken of as the lower classes."

"I am inclined to think there is rather less snobbery in England than before the war," said the speaker. Cambridge and Oxford men were going to America in order to learn modern business methods, and then returning to the Old Land to enter the life of the younger generation. The loose sloppy clothes of to-day for which the younger generation acquire the ideals of the older landed gentry, who he said had been both strengthened and weakened by additions from those who are spoken of as the lower classes.

"If I were a young person to-day, I would call a public meeting and condemn the sins of the elderly people; their pessimism, their faint-finding, their aversion to the profession of business, their frequent appearances in the divorce courts. I don't believe the young people of England are any worse than the older people of my own time. I think there are as many earnest and sober-minded young people as there ever were. To-day they have the same respect for temptations—albeit brought about by the war, by the freedom of the new age. But their faults are on the surface. We have the young people of to-day, less of a doll and more of a comrade."

Over-drinking was still one of the Englishman's sins, although he was becoming more temperate, said the speaker. "England was becoming more temperate without prohibition because there was less strength in the liquor now manufactured."

HIGHER EDUCATION The democratization of the higher education, the increased facilities for education among all classes, scholarships open to any who had the ability to win them, movements tending to the extension of school age, all these were in the best direction, and it was increasingly recognized that better education would not make poorer the better ploughmen and ditch-washers. And it was notable that this was the first time in history that the demand for better education had come from below. He expressed a great sympathy for the Labor party owing to their great passion for social reform. As a party they were learning the difference between destructive criticism out of office and constructive criticism in office. They were learning that they could not escape the historic part of England; that in a single night heaven and earth could not descend without some connection with the past. Appreciation was expressed for Ramsay MacDonald.
