HAMILTON, DUKE OF HAMILTON.

THE most noble DOUGLAS HAMILTON, Duke of HAMILTON in Scotland, Châtelherault in France, and BRANDON in England; Marquis of Hamilton, Clydesdale, and Douglas; Earl of Angus, Arran, and Lanerk, Lord Macanshire, Polmont, Abernethy and Aberbrothick, Baron of Dutton, hereditary keeper of the King's palace of Holyrood-house at Edinburgh, succeeded his brother, the late Duke, July 7, 1769; married April 4, 1778, Elizabeth-Anne, daughter of the late Peter Burrell, Esq. and sister to the present Viscountess Percy.

This great and noble family is paternally descended from the House of Douglas, one of which obtained the title of Duke of Hamilton, by marriage with the sole heiress of the Hamilton family in 1661, as hereafter will appear.

The first of this name on record is Sir William de Hambleden, or Hambleton, in the county of Bucks in England, of which manor he was possessed, who was third son of Robert Earl of Leicester, descended from the Earl of Mellent in Normandy; for Robert Blanchmain, otherwise called Belamain, or Bellomont, after the death of his uncle, Hugh Earl of Mellent, was by King Henry I. of England, created Earl of Leicester 1103, and was the first Earl of that place after the conquest. He married Elizabeth, daughter of Hugh the Great, Earl of Vermondois, son of Henry, King of France, and by her had

ROBERT surnamed Bossu, who in the year 1118 succeeded him, and was also Chief Justiciary of England. He married Itta, daughter to Roaldo de Wacit Earl of East Angles, and by her had

ROBERT Blanchmain, who in the year 1168, became the third Earl of Leicester; and he marrying Pernel, or Petronilla, daughter and coheir to Hugh de Grantsmill, with her he had the honour of Hinkley in the county of Leicester, and was Steward of England; and by her had ROBERT the 4th Earl of Leicester, Sir WILLIAM de Hambleden above-mentioned, and Roger Archbishop of St. Andrew's, Chancellor of Scotland.

About the year 1323, the said Sir William speaking in the praise of Robert Bruce King of Scotland, one John Spenser, gave him a blow, Sir William thereupon challenged the said Spenser

Spenser, and for refusing to fight him, he killed him the next day. The friends of Sir William advised him to abscond, and accordingly he fled into Scotland, where he was kindly received by King Robert, who rewarded him with the lands of Kedfow, and others in the county of Lanerk, which lands were afterwards called Hamilton. It is said, that when this Sir William fled from England, he was closely pursued into a wood, where he and his servant changed coats with two woodcutters, and took a frame-saw, with which they were cutting through an oak tree when the pursuers passed by, and that seeing his servant take notice of them, he spoke hastily to him, THROUGH; which word became the motto of the family, and the saw cutting through the oak is the crest. He married the only daughter of Gilbert Earl of Strathern, and was succeeded by

GILBERT his son; who marrying Isabel Randolph, sister to Thomas Earl of Murray, by her had two sons, Walter his heir and Sir John Hamilton of Rossaven.

WALTER, who married Isabel, daughter to William Earl of Ross, by her had two sons, of which the youngest was named John, and from him descended the present Earl of Hadington; and

Sir DAVID, who succeeded his father, and served King David II. in his wars against the English, was summoned to Parliament by Robert II. He married Margaret, daughter to Walter Lesly Lord Ross, by Eupheme his wife, daughter and heir to William Earl of Ross, and by her had

DAVID his successor, who married Janet, daughter to William Keith, Marshal of Scotland, and by her had five sons, whereof Sir John the eldest continued the line, and from Robert the 3d son sprung the family of Bruntwood, from which branched the Lord Belhaven.

Sir JOHN, who succeeded, and was Lord of Kedfow, married Janet, daughter to Sir James Douglas of Dalkeith, ancestor to the Earl of Moreton, by whom he had Sir James Hamilton, who succeeded him; a second son named David, and Thomas the third, from whom is descended the Earl of Clanbrazil, of Ireland.

(1st. B.) Sir JAMES, who was heir to his father, was sent into England as an hostage for the payment of 40,000l. sterling, for the ransom of King James I. and was afterwards knighted by the said King and made one of his Privy Council; and in 1445 all his lands were erected into a Barony called Hamilton, and he created Baron thereof by King James II. He married to his first wife Janet, daughter to Sir

Alexander Levingston of Calender, by whom he had James the 2d Lord Hamilton, and three more sons; and by his 2d wife, who was Eupheme, daughter to Patrick Graham, Earl of Strathern, and Countess Dowager of Douglas, he had one daughter married to David Earl of Crawford, afterwards Duke of Montrose.

(2d Lord.) JAMES, the 2d Lord Hamilton, was one of the Privy Council to King James III and in 1474, marrying the Princess Mary, eldest sister to that King, and widow of Thomas Boyd, Earl of Arran, by her had James his successor, and a daughter Elizabeth; who being married to Matthew Stewart, Earl of Lenox, by him was grandmother of Henry Lord Darnley, father of King James VI. the first monarch of Great-Britain.

(3d Lord, 1st Earl of Arran) JAMES the 3d Lord Hamilton, who succeeded his father on the 6th of November, 1479, was by King James IV. sent into England to negotiate the marriage between that King and the Princess Margaret, eldest daughter of King Henry VII. for which the King gave him the county or Island of Arran, and created him Earl thereof. He married to his 1st wife Beatrix, daughter to John Lord Drummond, by whom he had no issue. His 2d wife was Janet daughter of Lord Home, who also died without issue. His 3d wife was Janet, daughter of Sir David Beaton, by whom he had a son named James, who succeeded him; Sir John Hamilton of Clidsdale, whose daughter Margaret married David Earl of Douglas, and one daughter Helen, the wife of Archibald the 4th Earl of Argyl. This 1st Earl of Arran died in 1530, and was succeeded by James his son.

(2d Earl.) JAMES the 4th Lord Hamilton, and 2d Earl of Arran, was in 1543 declared by the three Estates of the realm, tutor to the young Queen Mary, and Regent of the kingdom during her minority, as also declared next immediate heir to the crown, failing the Queen and her lawful issue. He was afterwards by Henry II. of France created Duke of Châtellerauld in Poitou, to him and his heirs, in the year 1552; but neither he nor his descendents ever enjoyed the duchy: But in 1571, for his great adherence to Queen Mary and zeal for her cause, he suffered both imprisonment and forfeiture. He married Margaret Douglas, daughter of James the 3d Earl of Moreton, and dying on the 22d of January, 1573, by her left four sons and four daughters, whereof Ann the eldest was first married to George the 5th Earl of Huntley, and 2dly to James Lord Fleming.—Joan was married to George

the 5th Earl of Huntley.—Christian to Hugh Earl of Eglington.—Jane to Alexander Earl of Glencairn Of the sons, James died without issue.—John succeeded his father.—Claud Lord Pafely, was ancestor to the Earl of Abercorn.—David died young.

(3d Earl, 1st Marquis.) JOHN the 3d Earl of Arran, whose estate and titles were forfeited by his father as aforesaid, to avoid the storm that threatened him, fled on foot in a seaman's habit into England, from whence he escaped into France. In the reign of James VI. he was restored to all the titles and estates, lost either by the attainder of himself, or of James Earl of Arran his father; and was also, in 1599 created Marquis of Hamilton, being the first in Scotland who bore that title. He died in the year 1604, and left issue by Margaret his wife, widow of Gilbert the 4th Earl of Cassils, and daughter to John the 9th Lord Glamis, ancestor to the Earl of Strathmore;

(2d Marquis.) JAMES his successor, and a daughter Margaret, who was married to John Lord Maxwell, elder brother to Robert the first Earl of Nithsdale. In June—1606, in a Parliament held at Edinburgh, Aberbrothick was created into a Lordship, to be held of his Majesty in free Barony, by James the 2d Marquis of Hamilton; and on the 16th of June 1619, the 17th of James I. he was created Baron of Eaversdale in Cumberland, and Earl of Cambridge in England. He married Ann Coningham, daughter of James Earl of Glencairn, and dying in England on the 3d of March 1624, aged 36, left two sons, both Dukes of Hamilton, and three daughters; whereof Ann was married to Hugh Earl of Eglington.—Margaret to John Earl of Crauford.—Mary to James the 2d Earl of Queensberry. Of the sons, James and William; the eldest succeeded his father.

(1st Duke.) JAMES, who was third Marquis of Hamilton, and by Charles I. was created Duke of Hamilton; but being defeated by Cromwell, at Preston, his Grace, with Sir Marmaduke Langdale and others, having fled into Staffordshire, were taken at Uttoxeter, and carried prisoners to London; and on the 9th of March 1648, the Duke was beheaded in Old Palace Yard, in the 43d year of his age. He married Mary Fielding, daughter to William Earl of Denbigh, by Susannah his wife, sister to George Villiers the great Duke of Buckingham; and by her had three sons and three daughters. The sons, Charles, James, and William, died young; as did the eldest daughter Mary; Ann lived to be Duchess of Hamilton; and Susanna married John the 7th Earl of Cassils. He was succeeded by his brother

(2d Duke.) WILLIAM Earl of Lanerk, who was born in December 1616, and had been created Earl of Lanerk, Lord Macanshire and Polmont. He married Elizabeth, daughter and coheir to James Maxwell, Earl of Dirleton, and had four daughters; Ann married to Robert Earl of Southesk.—Elizabeth to James Lord Kilmaures, son to the Earl of Glencairn.—Mary married the Laird of Blair.—Margaret died single. His Grace having raised a troop of horse for the service of Charles II. and marching to the fatal battle of Worcester on the 3d of September 1651, he received a shot in his leg, of which he died. Upon the decease of this Duke without surviving male issue, their estates and titles descending by the several patents to the heirs general, he was succeeded by his niece

ANN, Duchess of Hamilton, eldest surviving daughter of his brother, Duke James. She married

(3d Duke.) WILLIAM Douglas Earl of Selkirk, eldest son of William the 1st Marquis of Douglas, by his 2d wife Mary Gordon, daughter of George the 1st Marquis of Huntley; which William, according to the usage in Scotland in marrying the heiress of an ancient family, took the name of Hamilton, and was created Duke of Hamilton in 1661. This Duke dying in 1694, left issue by the said Ann Duchess of Hamilton, seven sons and three daughters; James Earl of Arran, who succeeded him.—William who died in France.—Charles Earl of Selkirk.—John Earl of Ruglen.—George Earl of Orkney.—Basil, drowned in the Ford of Minnock, by trying to save his servant.—Archibald, who was Governor of Jamaica, and married Jane Hamilton, youngest daughter of James Earl of Abercorn, and dying April 6, 1754, by her, who died in 1752, at Paris, had issue two sons, of whom Frederick the 2d, was Vicar of Wellingbrough in the county of Northampton; also two daughters, Elizabeth married to Francis Earl Brooke, and Jane to the Lord Cathcart. Of the Duke's three daughters, Katharine was married to John Duke of Athol.—Susanna, first to John Earl of Dundonald, and afterwards to Charles Marquis of Tweeddale—and Margaret to James Maul Earl of Panmure. Katharine, daughter of Basil, married Thomas Earl of Dundonald.

(4th Duke.) JAMES Earl of Arran succeeded his father. In the year 1698, his mother the Duchess made a surrender of her titles, and a patent was past, creating him Duke of Hamilton, with the same precedence as if he had succeeded thereto thereto by his mother's death. On Sept. 10, 1711, he was created Baron of Dutton, and Duke of Brandon in England; but Charles Lord Mohun and his Grace fighting a duel, were both killed on Sunday morning, the 15th of November that year. His Grace's mother, Anne the Duchess Dowager, died at her seat in Lanerkshire 17 October, 1716, aged 80.

This James Duke of Hamilton married to his first wife Ann Spencer, daughter of Robert Earl of Sunderland, by whom he had two daughters, Ann and Mary, who both died young. His second wife was Elizabeth, daughter and heir to Digby Lord Gerard of Bromley, by Elizabeth, youngest daughter of Charles Gerard the first Earl of Macclesfield, by whom he had the following children: Elizabeth, who died young—Katharine died in a week after her father.—James Marquis of Clidfdale, who succeeded as Duke of Hamilton.—Charlotte married Charles Edwin, Esq; and died Feb. 5, 1777.—William, who died in 1734, having married Ann, daughter and heir to Francis Hawes, Esq; after whose death, without issue, she married William Viscount Vane of Ireland.—Susan married in August 1736, Anthony Tracy Keck, of Great Tew in Oxfordshire, Esq; and died June 3, 1755.—Ann, so named, Queen Ann being his godmother, married Mrs. Pownal, an heiress, and died on Christmas day 1748.

(5th Duke.) JAMES, who, on the death of his father, Nov. 15, 1711, succeeded as Duke of Hamilton, married first Anne Cochran, daughter of John Earl of Dundonald, by whom he had only one son, James, his successor; and she dying in August 1724, in the eighteenth year of her age, his Grace married, in 1727, Elizabeth, daughter and co-heiress of Thomas Strangeways of Dorsetshire, Esq; who dying in Nov. 1729, without issue, he married thirdly Elizabeth, daughter and heiress of Edward Spencer, Esq; of the county of Suffolk, by whom he had a daughter Anne, born in 1739, married to the Earl of Donegal, and two sons, Archibald, born July 27, 1740, married May 25, 1765, Harriot Stuart, daughter of John Earl of Galloway, and has issue, a son born Oct. 20, 1775;—and Spencer, born June 1742. Her Grace married 2dly, Dec. 24, 1751, the Hon. Richard Savage Nassau, 2d son of Frederick Earl of Rochford, and died March 9, 1771, leaving issue the present Earl, and other children.

(6th Duke) JAMES, succeeded his father in March, 1742, and married Feb. 14, 1752, Elizabeth, second daughter of John Gunning, Esq; by his wife Bridget, daughter to John Viscount Mayo of the kingdom of Ireland; by whom he had issue James.—George, the late Duke; and Douglas Hamilton, the present Duke; also one daughter Elizabeth, born Jan. 26, 1753, married in June 1774, to Edward now Earl of Derby. The Duke died 1758, and her Grace married secondly, March 3, 1759, to the Marquis of Lorn, now Duke of Argyl, by whom she hath issue. On May 3, 1776, her Grace was created a Baroness of Great Britain, by the title of Baroness HAMILTON, of Hameldon, in the county of Leicester; and the dignity of a Baron to her heirs male.

(7th Duke) JAMES-GEORGE, was born February 18, 1755, succeeded his father, Jan. 17, 1758, and succeeded to the titles of Marquis of Douglas, and Earl of Angus, on the death of Archibald, the late Duke of Douglas, who died July 21, 1761, without issue; his Grace being lineally descended of William, Earl of Selkirk, eldest son of the second marriage of William, first Marquis of Douglas; and his Grace dying July 7, 1769, was succeeded by his brother.

(8th Duke) DOUGLAS, the present Duke.

CREATIONS.] Summoned to parliament in 1374 in the 4th of Robert II. created Earl of Angus April 9, 1389; Earl of Arran, in the county of Bute, Aug. 10, 1503, the 15th of James IV. Duke of Chattelherault, in Poitou in France, 1552, by Henry II. of France; Marquis of Hamilton, in the county of Lanerk, April 19, 1599; Marquis of Douglas, June 17, 1633; Baron of Aberbrothick, June 1606; Earl of the county Lanerk, Lord Macanshire and Polmont, March 31, 1639; Duke of Hamilton, April 12, 1643; and Baron of Dutton in Cheshire, and Duke of Brandon in Suffolk, Sept. 10, 1711, the 9th of Queen Anne.

As to the titles of Baron Dutton and Duke of Brandon, the validity of the patent being solemnly debated in the house of Lords, Dec. 30, 1711, it was then adjudged that no Peer of Scotland could be created a Peer of England, as it was declared inconsistent with the articles of the Union, which made all the Peers of Scotland Peers of Great Britain, with the same dignities and privileges, except sitting and voting in the house of Lords, otherwise than by Sixteen representatives, and therefore to admit more than Sixteen was contrary to the treaty; but the same claim was re-debated and admitted in 1782, and his Grace took his seat accordingly.

SCOT, DUKE OF BUCCLEUGH.

THE most noble HENRY SCOT, Duke and Earl of BUCCLEUGH, Earl of Dalkeith, Baron Scot of Buccleugh, and Eskdale, in Scotland; and a peer of England, by the title of Baron Tindal in Northumberland, and Earl of DONCASTER in Yorkshire, and Knight of the most ancient Order of the Thistle; was born Sept. 2, 1746, and succeeded his grandfather Francis, the late Duke, April 22, 1751. He married, March 20, 1767, Elizabeth, daughter to George Duke of Montagu, by whom he had issue, George, born March 25, 1768, died May 29 following.—Charles William, Earl of Dalkeith, born May 24, 1772.—Mary, born May 19, 1769, died in 1782.—Elizabeth, born Oct. 10, 1770.—Caroline, born July 10, 1774.—Henry.—James, born Dec. 16, 1776.—A son Jan. 15, 1777.—A Daughter born Dec. 1780.

In the reigns of Alexander III. and Robert I. we find this family of Scot very powerful on the borders towards England, of which they were often wardens; and in 1269,

Sir ROBERT SCOT, Knight, (who then swore allegiance to King Edward I. of England, as Baron of Lanerkshire) marrying the heiress of Murdiston in Clidisdale, by her obtained that Barony; and thereupon laid aside his paternal arms, which were argent, three lions heads erased, gules; and took the arms of Murdiston, as borne by the present Duke. He was succeeded by another Sir ROBERT SCOT, who was of Murdiston and Ranelburn, in the reign of Robert II. and he having a son,

WALTER, who performed many actions of honour and courage in the service of the crown, was nobly rewarded by the said King, who gave him the barony of Kirkude, and made him a knight, 1390. In 1426 he obtained from the

Earl

Earl of Douglas a charter of the lands of Lempetlaw, for his service done to that Earl; and afterwards, in 1446, exchanged his lands of Murdiston, with Thomas Inglis of Manner, for the lands of Broxholm. He left two sons, David his heir, and Alexander; which Alexander in 1488, was slain with King James III. in a battle fought against his Nobles. In this reign, and that of James IV. the said

DAVID made a figure in the public transactions; he had a daughter, Janet, married to James Lord Drumlanrig, and one son who died before him; and dying in 1492, was succeeded by

Sir WALTER his Grandson, who married to his first wife a daughter of the family of Carmichael, and by her had Sir William Scot; And by Janet his 2d wife, daughter to John Bethune of Crich he had a daughter Jane, who was married to Sir John Cranston.

Sir WILLIAM married Grisel, daughter to the said John Bethune; and dying before his father, by her left Sir Walter, successor to his grandfather, and three daughters; whereof Jane was married to Sir Thomas Ker of Fernherst, Margaret, to Sir John Johnston; and Elizabeth to John Carmichael of Meadowflat.

Sir WALTER, who succeeded, married Margaret, daughter to David Earl of Douglas and Angus, by whom he had Walter his heir, and a daughter of her name; who was married to Robert Scot of Thirleston.

(1st Lord) Sir WALTER, who was heir to his father, being in great favour with King James VI. by him was advanced to the dignity of Lord Scot of Buccleugh. He married Mary, daughter to William Ker of Cesford; and dying in 1611 by her left Walter his successor, and two daughters; of whom Margaret was married to James Lord Ross, and Elizabeth to John, son of William Lord Cranston.

(1st Earl) WALTER who succeeded, and was the 2d Lord Scot, was created Earl of Buccleugh in 1619. He married Mary, daughter to Francis Earl of Errol; and by her had Francis the 2d Earl of Buccleugh, and two daughters; Mary married to John Earl of Mar, and Jane to John Marquis of Tweeddale.

(2d Earl) FRANCIS the 2d Earl, married Margaret Lesley, daughter to John Earl of Rothes, and widow of the Lord Balgony, and by her had two daughters, whereof MARY the eldest was Countess of Buccleugh; and she marrying Walter Scot of Haychester, he was thereupon created Earl of Terras for life; but she dying in 1662 without issue, her estate and honour came to her sister, ANN Scot, who in 1665 was married to (1st Duke of Buccleugh) JAMES Fitzroy Duke of Monmouth, eldest natural son of King Charles II. by Lucy daughter of Richard Walters, of Haverford in the county of Pembroke, Esq. This Duke was born at Rotterdam in Holland the 9th of April 1649, and bore the surname of Crofts till his marriage with the said Ann Scot; and hence it was that he had also the titles Duke of Buccleugh, &c. and took the surname of Scot, according to the usage of Scotland in marrying the heiress of an ancient family. In July 1662 he was brought into England, his mother being then dead, and was received by the King at Hampton Court with great demonstrations of joy and affection. On the 14th of February following he was created Baron of Tindale in the county of Northumberland, Earl of Doncaster in the county of York, and Duke of the county of Monmouth, to him and his heirs male, and took his seat in the House of Peers the next session of parliament; and marrying, as before mentioned, they were jointly created Duke and Duchess of Buccleugh. Having shewed himself very zealous in prosecuting a full discovery of the Popish plot, and joined with those who dreaded Popery and a Popish successor, he by these means had so much gained the affection of the people, that some leading men inspired him with notions of his right to the crown; and the more to flatter his hopes therewith, a report was spread through the kingdom, that King Charles had been lawfully married to Mrs. Walters, the Duke's mother, that his Majesty thereupon caused the following declaration to be entered in the Council book.

‘ Whitehall, 3d March, 1678.

‘ THAT to avoid any dispute which may happen in time
 ‘ to come, concerning the succession to the crown, he ‘ declares in the presence of Almighty God, that he never ‘ made any contract of marriage, or ever was married with ‘ Mrs. Lucy Walters, alias Barlow, or ever was married to ‘ any Woman whatever, but to his present wife Queen Ka‘ tharine now living.

‘ Charles R.’

Notwithstanding which the Duke of York, then at Brussels, grew so jealous of his new competitor, that in the beginning of September 1679, he prevailed with the King not only to divest the Duke of Monmouth of his great places, but to oblige him likewise to depart the kingdom, whereupon he retired to Utrecht. Before James II. was settled on the throne, throne, this unhappy Duke being persuaded to attempt the crown, sailed from the Texel in Holland on the 24th of May 1685, with one man of war and two tenders, accompanied by Ford Lord Gray, afterwards Earl of Tankerville, a German Count, and about 6 or 700 men and officers, who had fled to Holland for refuge in the late reign; and after having been 19 days at sea, they landed near Lyme in Dorsetshire on the 11th of June. The Duke immediately led them by a backway into the town, and set up his standard in the Market-place without opposition; then he mustered his small force, who were well armed and clothed; and being asked whom they were for, they declared for the Protestant religion, the laws, rights, and privileges of England, inviting all people to come and join with them; after which the Duke's declaration against King James was read in form. On Saturday the 13th of June, the King receiving this news by express from the Mayor of Lyme, he immediately sent it to the Parliament; whereupon both Houses voted an address of thanks to his Majesty; and the Commons ordered in a bill to attain the Duke of high treason, which on the 16th passed the royal assent; and though the parliament had promised to assist the King against the Duke and all his adherents, yet the country people flocked to him in great numbers, so that he had an army of five thousand horse and foot, with which he marched from Lyme to Taunton, where he was received with unusual demonstrations of joy: from thence he marched to Bridgewater, where he was proclaimed King; and from thence to Bath, where being denied entrance, he proceeded to Philips Norton, and by surprise defeated a troop of the King's horse. After this success he marched within two miles of Bristol, where a council of war being held, it was resolved not to enter the city, but to retire to Bridgewater; for the Earl of Feversham being encamped with the King's army at Sedgemore near that town, the Duke resolved to make one desperate push for all, and on Monday the 6th of July, about four in the morning, attacked the King's troops, when he was entirely routed, 300 of his men being killed in the fight, 1000 in the pursuit, and as many taken prisoners. The Earl of Feversham having sent out several parties in pursuit of the Duke and his adherents, the Lord Gray was apprehended the next morning by the Lord Lumley's men; and the day after the Duke himself was likewise taken, and being brought to Lord Lumley was conveyed under a guard to the Tower of London; and July 15, 1685, he was beheaded on Tower-hill, in the 37th year of his age, leaving

James Earl of Dalkeith, before-mentioned, who was 2d son of James Duke of Monmouth, married Henrietta, 2d daughter of Laurence Hyde Earl of Rochester, by whom he had four sons, and two daughters unmarried; and died in March 1704.

LENOX, DUKE OF LENOX.

THE most noble CHARLES LENOX, Duke of LENOX, in Scotland, RICHMOND in England, and Aubigny in France; Earl of March and Darnley, Baron of Settrington and Turbolton, &c.

An account of this noble family is given at large in the Peerage of England as DUKE OF RICHMOND.

GORDON, DUKE OF GORDON.

THE most noble ALEXANDER GORDON, Duke of GORDON, Marquis and Earl of Huntley, Earl of Enzie, and Baron Gordon of Strathbogy, Knight of the Thistle, succeeded his father Cosmo-George, the late Duke, in Aug. 1752: he married, Oct. 18, 1767, Jane, daughter to Sir William Maxwell, Bart. by whom he has issue, George Marquis of Huntley.—Charlotte.—Madelaine.—Susanna.—And a son born Dec. 1776.

Of this great family, which took their surname from the barony of Gordon in the county of Berwick, there have been,

been, beside those in North Britain, several of great distinction in Moscow.

In the reign of Robert Bruce, ADAM Gordon got from that King the Lordship of Strathbogy in Aberdeenshire, which was then in the crown, by the forfeiture of David de Strathbogy; and some say he strengthened his title by marrying the daughter; but upon that occasion they removed thither from Berwickshire, their first county, where the family and their branches possessed many considerable baronies, among which is the Lordship of Gordon. This family had also many lands bestowed upon them by their Princes; but suffered much by their adhering to Queen Mary, King Charles I. &c.

To this Adam Gordon succeeded his son ALEXANDER, who lost his life at the battle of Durham in 1346, in behalf of King David II. and was succeeded by Sir John Gordon his son, who, in the 28th of the said King, obtained a charter for uniting all his lands into the entire barony of Strathbogy. He was succeeded by his son Sir Adam, who was the second Baron; and he being slain in the year 1402, at the battle of Halidon Hill in Northumberland, left issue by Elizabeth his wife, daughter of the Lord Keath, an only daughter Elizabeth, who was his heir; and she in the year 1408, marrying Alexander Seaton, second son to Sir William Seaton of that Ilk, (to whom Robert Duke of Albany, in the third year of his government, gave a charter and confirmation of the lands and baronies of Gordon, Huntley, Strathbogy, and several others) by him had Alexander Seaton, who succeeded, and William Seaton of Meldrum.

(1st Earl) ALEXANDER, who was heir to the baronies aforesaid, and the third Baron thereof, in the reign of James II. by authority of parliament took the surname of Gordon, to preserve the memory of the family, and placed the arms of that name in the first quarter; he was created Earl of Huntley; and had also divers manors given him.

This Earl marrying to his first wife Honora, daughter and heir to Robert Keith, grandson of Sir William Keith, Marshal of Scotland, by her had no issue; but by his second wife, who was Giles, daughter and heir to John Hay, Baron of Tillybody, Touch, and Enzie, he had Sir Alexander Seaton, Knt. who was the first of the family of Touch; and by his third wife, who was Margaret, daughter of William Lord Crichton, Chancellor of Scotland, he had a son named George, and three daughters; whereof Jane was married to James Dunbar Earl of Murray, Elizabeth to William Keith Earl Marischal, and Christian to William Lord Forbes.

To Alexander Earl of Huntley succeeded his son

(2d Earl) GEORGE, by the third wife, the honour being so limited. He married to his first wife the Lady Jane Stuart; daughter of King James I. and after her decease he married Agnes, daughter of William Hay Earl of Errol; and dying in the year 1507, by her left three sons and four daughters; of the sons Alexander succeeded his father; Adam, the second, was the thirteenth Earl of Sutherland; and Sir James was Admiral of Scotland: And of the daughters, which were Katharine, Janet, Agnes, and Mary, the eldest in 1496 was married to Perkin Warbeck, who counterfeited the person of Richard Duke of York; the third to Sir James Ogilvy of Findlater; and the youngest to Sir William Sinclair of Westraw in the county of Caithness.

MURRAY, DUKE OF ATHOL.

THE most noble JOHN MURRAY, Duke, Marquis, and Earl of ATHOL; Marquis, and Earl of Tullibardin; Viscount Glenalmond, Lord Murray, and Lord of the Isle of Man. His Grace was born June 30, 1755, and succeeded his father, the late Duke, Nov. 4, 1774. He married, Dec. 26, 1774, Jane, daughter of the late Lord Cathcart, and has had issue, Charlotte, born Oct. 23, 1775.—Mary Louisa, born Dec. 11, 1776, and died June 1777.—John, Marquis of Tullibardin, born June 26, 1778.—Amelia Sophia, born July 5, 1780.—James, born May 29, 1782.

Athol is the north division of Perthshire.

Tullibardin is in Strathern division of Perthshire, two miles south of the river Ern.

Glenalmond is a district in Strathern, on the river Almond, which is a branch of the Tay.

This noble family of Murray is of antient settlement in the county of Perth, and were descended from Sir Malcolm Murray, whose son, Sir William, in the year 1282, marrying Adda Moravia, daughter to Malys Seneschal of Strathern, thereby became possessed of the barony of Tullibardin. In 1292, he was one of the barons summoned to Berwick by King Edward I. of England, when that prince was to determine the controversy about the succession to the crown of Scotland, then disputed between John Baliol and Robert Bruce. By the said Adda his wife he had

Sir ANDREW MURRAY, his heir, who, in 1332, was joined in the government of Scotland with Robert Stewart the regent, while King David with his Queen were obliged to retire into France: dying in the year 1338, he left a son, William, the father of Walter Murray, whose son David was knighted by King James I. and founded the collegiate church of Tullibardin; and he dying in 1446, left Sir William his successor, successor, and a daughter, Marion, married to Malcolm Drummond of Cargill, ancestor to the Earl of Perth.

Sir WILLIAM, the next heir, was knighted by King James III. made Steward of Strathern, and he marrying Mary, daughter to the Earl Marishal Keith, by her had four sons and one daughter; Andrew the youngest son was ancestor to the Viscount Stormont; and John the eldest dying without issue, William the second became heir; and the said daughter, whose name was Christian, was married to John Lord Seaton.

WILLIAM, the second son, who succeeded, married Catharine, daughter of Sir Duncan Campbell of Glenorchy, and by her had three sons and four daughters; of which Annabel was married to John Erskine, Earl of Mar; and Jane, to Alexander Duke of Gordon.

William, who was heir to his father, was one of the Privy Council to Queen Mary, and Master of her household. In 1572, he was joined in commission with Sir Alexander Erskine to be keeper of the castle of Stirling; and dying in 1583, left issue by Agnes his wife, daughter of William Graham, Earl of Montrose, Sir John his successor, and a daughter Margaret, married to Sir Robert Bruce of Clackmanan.

(1st Earl.) Sir JOHN, who succeeded, was one of the Privy Council to King James VI. by whom he was created Lord Murray, and Earl of Tullibardin; and marrying Catharine, daughter of David Lord Drummond, by her had three sons; William, his heir.—Sir Patrick, Knight of the Bath.—Sir Mungo, who succeeded pursuant to the limitation of the patent as Viscount Stormont. The said Earl having also four daughters, Ann the eldest was married to Patrick Lyon, Earl of Kinghorn, ancestor to the Earl of Strathmore.

(2d Earl.) WILLIAM, who was the 2d Earl, having rescued his Majesty from a tumult of the citizens of Perth, in 1660, when John Earl of Gowry their Provost was killed, had thereupon a special grant of the sheriffship of Perthshire, which continued in his family till the suppression of all heritable jurisdictions, by act of parliament in 1747. He married Dorothy, daughter and coheir to John Stewart, the 5th Earl of Athol, by Mary his wife, daughter of William Ruthwen, the 1st Earl of Gowry; and by her had a son.

(3d Earl.) JOHN, who succeeded to the title of Earl of Athol, being by that match related to the Royal Family. He was a faithful friend to King Charles I. from the beginning of his troubles in 1640, when he raised a body of near 2000 men for his service. He married Jane, daughter of Sir Duncan Campbell of Glenorchy; and dying in 1642, left a son.

(1st Marquis.) JOHN, the 4th Earl, who, in the year 1653, when but 18 years of age, took up arms in defence of King Charles II. and had several encounters with the English in the north of Scotland; for which his Majesty, after the Restoration, made him Justice General, Lord Privy Seal, Captain of his Guard, one of the extraordinary Lords of Session, and created him Marquis of Athol. On the 11th of June, 1685, the first of James VII. he defeated a party of the Earl of Argyl's men, after which he was constituted Lord Lieutenant of the county of Argyl; and dying in May, 1703, left issue by Amelia-Sophia, daughter of James Stanley, Earl of Derby, and Baron Strange of Knockyn, who was beheaded in 1651, four sons and one daughter; John the eldest succeeded.—Charles was created Earl of Dunmore.—James married Lillie Drummond, daughter of John, the 2d Earl of Perth, and left a daughter, married to Andrew, Lord Rollo.—William was Lord Nairn, having altered his name by marrying the heiress of Robert Nairn, Lord Nairn. (1st Duke.) JOHN, who succeeded his father, was made Secretary of State in the reign of William III. High Commissioner to the Parliament, Chancellor of the University of St. Andrews, and in 1697, created Earl of Tullibardin, and Viscount Glenalmond. On the 30th of April, 1705, the second of Queen Anne, he was created Marquis of Tullibardin, and Duke of Athol; and in 1706, when the 22d article of the Union came to be debated concerning the number of representatives for Scotland in the Parliament of Great Britain, his Grace protested against the number as insufficient and unreasonable. In answer to which it was said, that the number of representatives ought strictly to be equal with such proportion of land-tax as Scotland was to pay jointly with England; for it was agreed when South Britain raises two millions, North Britain should add only 48,000*l.* which is not a fortieth part, about a penny in the pound to four shillings. The English Peerage at the Union was 180, Bishops included; therefore 16 Peers for Scotland is above three times the proportional number; for a fortieth part, according to the quota of land-tax, is not quite five; and the English Commons being 513, a fortieth part doth not amount to 13 members. And notwithstanding 5 Peers and 13 Commons are above the due proportion, yet England was willing to admit 45 Commoners and 16 Peers. He married, first, Catharine Hamilton, daughter of William and Ann, Duke and Duchess of Hamilton, and by her had four sons, and one daughter, Susanna, married to William Gordon, Earl of Aberdeen. Of the six sons, the first called Marquis of Tullibardin, was a Colonel in the Dutch service, and perished at the battle of Taniers, in 1709.—William, Marquis of Tullibardin, was attainted in 1716, for being a party in the rebellion of that time; and being taken in the other rebellion, in 1746, was sent to the Tower, where he died the year after.—James, succeeded as Duke of Athol.—George, married an heiress of his own name, by whom he left issue, three sons and two daughters; 1. John, who succeeded to the title on the death of his uncle James, in 1764, and was the 3d Duke; 2. James; 3. George; 4. Amelia, married first to John, Lord Sinclair, and secondly, after his death, to James Farquharson, Esq. 5. Charlotte, who died in August, 1773; but their father was attainted in 1746, and died in Nov. 1760. To his second wife, John, Duke of Athol, married Mary, daughter of William, Lord Ross, by whom he had a fifth son, John, a Lieutenant-General of his Majesty's forces. The sixth and youngest son, Frederick, was a Captain in the Royal navy. He had also one daughter, Jane, married to John, Earl of Crawford. His Grace dying in 1724, was succeeded by his third son, James, on whom the titles forfeited by his brother were settled by act of parliament.

(2d Duke.) JAMES, Duke of Athol, was at his father's death a Commoner for the said county of Perth, and a Colonel in the third regiment of guards. In 1726, he married Mrs. Jane Lanoy, widow of James Lanoy, of Hammersmith, in Middlesex, Esq. and sister of Sir John Frederick, of Westminster, Bart. By her he had a son in 1735, who died the same year; and two daughters, Jane, married to John, Earl of Crawford, and died without issue, and Charlotte, the present Duchess Dowager of Athol. The Duke married, secondly, Jane, daughter of John Drummond, of Megginch, Esq. which Lady is since married to Lord Adam Gordon, uncle to the Duke of Gordon.

His Grace became an English Peer by the title of Lord Strange, as also Lord of the Isle of Man on the decease of James Stanley, the 10th Earl of Derby, who died without issue on the 1st of February, 1736; which dignities he derived from his grandmother, Amelia-Sophia, daughter of James, Earl of Derby, beheaded in 1651, as above recited. His Grace died Jan. 8, 1764, and was succeeded by his nephew,

(3d Duke.) JOHN, son of Lord George Murray, who married Charlotte, youngest daughter of James, late Duke of Athol, his uncle, and upon her father's decease, she became a peeress

GRAHAM, DUKE OF MONTROSE:

THE moft noble WILLIAM GRAHAM, Duke, Marquis and Earl of MONTROSE; Marquis and Baron of Graham, Dundaff, Kincarn, Mindock and Kinaber, in Scotland; and Earl and Baron Graham of Belford, in the county of Northumberland, in England; succeeded his father in 1741, as Duke of Montrose; but succeeded to the English honours on the death of his brother David, in 1731. He married in October, 1742, Lucy Manners, daughter of John, the 2d Duke of Rutland, by whom he had a son, James, Marquis of Graham, born Feb. 8, 1755, and a daughter, Lucy, born in July, 1751; married in June, 1771, to Archibald Douglas, Esq. nephew and heir to the late Duke of Douglas, by whom she had issue, a son, born March 2, 1773, who died 1780.

According to the Scots writers, this noble family is descended from the renowned Greme, who in the year 404, was General of King Fergus II's army; and in 420, making a breach upon the trench or wall, which the Emperor Severus had made between the rivers Forth and Clyde, as the utmost bounds of the Roman Empire, to keep out the Scots from molesting them in their possessions, the said trench has ever since been called Grame's Dyke; and during the minority of Eugene II. the son of Fergus II. he was Governor of Scotland, and married a Lady of the Royal House of Denmark.

In the year 1225, WILLIAM de Grame or Greme, now spelt Graham, was one of the witnesses to the foundation of the Abbey of Holyrood House, by King David I. and Sir David Graham obtaining from King William the Lion, a grant of the lands of Charleton and Burrowfield near Glasgow, and the Lordship of Kinaber, in the county of Kincardin, was therein succeeded by Sir David his son, who had also a grant from Maldwin, Earl of Lenos, of the lands of Strathblane, in Stirlingshire, and Mindoc, in Lenos, and from the Earl of Dunbar, got the lands of Dundaff. His son David succeeding, obtained particular charters of his whole lands, and had them ratified to him under the great seal of Alexander III. and afterwards marrying Annabel, sister to Malyfs, Earl of Strathern, with her had the Barony of Kincarn, or Kincardin of Strathern, in the county of Perth, and by her had Sir Patrick, who succeeded, and was the Sheriff of Stirling, and Sir David Grame. In the year 1296, Sir Patrick, strenuously asserting the independence of his country against King Edward I. of England, was killed at the battle of Dunbar, and left issue two sons; whereof Sir David succeeded him, and Sir Nicol the youngest, marrying the heir of Robert de Avenel, with her had the lands of Eskdale in the south. He was also progenitor of the renowned Sir John Graham, who was slain at the bloody battle of Falkirk, 1298, when the famous Wallace was defeated by the said King Edward.

Sir DAVID, who succeeded his father, being also a very great patriot, and zealous in behalf of King Robert Bruce, he, upon the King's accession to the throne, had a grant of divers lands, for his good services before that time performed; and in the year 1320, was one of the Barons who wrote that notable letter to the Pope, asserting the independence of Scotland, and extolling the said King as the nation's deliverer; to which record his seal now remains intire. His son, Sir David, succeeded; and in the year 1346, when King David was taken prisoner at the battle of Durham, he was one of the Barons of Scotland appointed to treat with the English for the King's redemption. He left a son, Sir Patrick, and a daughter, married to William, Earl of Ross.

Sir PATRICK was Lord of Dundaff, and one of the hostages for the said King's ransom. By his first wife he had William Graham, Lord of Kincarn; and by his second, who was daughter of Sir John Stewart, brother to King Robert II. and sister to Walter Stewart, Lord of Raleston, he had Patrick, from whom descended the Earls of Menteith; as also Robert, David, Alexander, and a daughter, Maud, married to Sir John Drummond of Concraig.

Sir WILLIAM GRAHAM, of Kincarn, who succeeded, was joined in embassy to King Henry IV. of England, with the Earls of Crawford and Mar, to negotiate and settle a peace. He married, first, Mariot, daughter of Sir John Oliphant, by whom he had two sons, Alexander, who died before him, and John. His second wife was Mary Stewart, daughter of King Robert III. widow of James Denure, and of George, Earl of Douglas and Angus; by her he left four sons, Robert, who was father to the Grahams of Fintry.—Patrick, who was Bishop of St. Andrews; from which two last are the Grahams of Garveck, Balgoun, and Knockdolen: and dying in 1424, was succeeded by Patrick, son of Alexander, by his first wife.

PATRICK, Lord Graham, was chosen one of the Governors of the Realm, during the minority of King James II. and died in 1467.

WILLIAM, his son and heir, married Jane, daughter of George Douglas, Earl of Douglas and Angus; and dying in 1472, left Jane, married to John, the 2d Lord Ogilvy; and Christian, married first to Sir John Hadden of Gleneagles, and secondly to Sir Thomas Maul, ancestor of the Earl of Panmure; also two sons, William, who succeeded, and George, from whom came the branch of Callender in Menteith.

(1st Earl.) WILLIAM, the next Lord Graham, adhered to the party of King James III. against that of the nobles, and was a Commander for him at the battle of Bannockburn, 1488, wherein the King lost his life. In return for his loyalty, King James IV. was pleased to create him Earl of Montrose, on March 3, 1503. He married first, Annabel daughter of John, Lord Drummond, by whom he had a son and heir, William. His second wife was Jane, daughter of Archibald Edmonson of Dundteath, by whom he had Margaret, the wife of John Stewart, Earl of Lenox; Elizabeth, married to Walter, the grandson and heir of John, the 1st Lord Drummond; and Nicola, married to William Murray, of Abercarny. His third wife was Christian Wavane, by whom he had Patrick, progenitor to those of Inbraco and Gorthy; and Andrew, who became the first Protestant Bishop of Dunblane, 1572. This Earl was, with King James IV. and many other nobles, killed at the battle of Flodden, 1513.

(2d Earl.) WILLIAM, by his first wife, succeeded. He was appointed Governor to King James V. by the Regent, John, Duke of Albany. He married Jane, daughter of William Keith, the 1st Earl Marishal; and by her had Robert, who was killed at the battle of Pinky, a pensioner in Cambus Abbey; Mungo and William, from whom the Grahams of Killen, and Orchil in Strathern, are descended: also five daughters, Margaret, married to Robert, Master of Erskine, who was also killed at the battle of Pinky.—Elizabeth, to George, the 3d Earl Caithness.—Agnes, to Sir William Murray of Tullibardin, ancestor to the Duke of Athol.—Janet, to Andrew Murray of Balvaird.—Katharine, to John Graham of Knokdolan, and died in 1571. He transported himself into France, in August, 1646. The Marquis having procured a supply of money from Denmark and Sweden, he got together five hundred men, with arms and ammunition, which he sent from Hamburgh to one of the Orkney Islands, and immediately followed with about one hundred officers, in April, 1650. From thence he landed at Caithness with his regiment, and after securing a certain castle, he sent about to his friends to come and join him. He was defeated by Colonel Strahan, condemned by the Scotch Parliament; and on May 21, 1650, hanged at the Cross, on a gibbet thirty feet high, for the space of three hours; then beheaded and quartered, and his head fixed on Tolbooth Prison. JAMES, his heir, who was in great favour with King James VI. who made him Warden of the Marches; but in 1608, being in a family dispute with Lord Maxwell, he lost his life. He married Sarah, daughter of Lord Hennis, and by her had

(1st Earl.) Sir JAMES, his heir, who, by King Charles I. was created Lord Johnston, and Earl of Hartfield, but afterwards for his loyalty to the King, he suffered imprisonment, and the sequestration of his estate; and dying in 1656, left by Margaret, his wife, daughter to William Douglas, the 1st Earl of Queensbury, James, his successor, and three daughters; whereof Mary was married to Sir George Graham, of Netherby,

In the reign of Queen Ann he was made Secretary of State, President of the Council, one of the extraordinary Lords of Session, and one of the Commissioners for the treaty of Union, and died in February, 1720. He married to his first wife, Sophia, daughter and sole heir to John Fairholm, of Craigiehall, in the county of Stirling, Esq. by whom he had two sons, James, his successor, and William, who died in 1722, and a daughter, Henrietta, who was married to Charles Hope, Earl of Hopeton: and by his second wife, Charlotte, daughter of John Vander Bemp, of Westminster, Esq. he had one son, George, born in 1720, and John, who died in 1742. (3d Marquis.) GEORGE, now Marquis of Annandale, who has been declared a lunatic ever since the year 1745, by commissioners appointed for that purpose.

The patents of creation to the honours of this family, extending them not only to the heirs of the body, but the heirs general of the family, it will be necessary to continue the line of the family of Westerhall, being the undoubted heirs in failure of issue to the present Marquis.

SUTHERLAND, COUNTESS OF SUTHERLAND.

THE Right Honourable ELIZABETH SUTHERLAND, Countess of SUTHERLAND, and Baroness of Strathnaver, in the county of Sutherland, succeeded her father, June 16, 1766.

50 COUNTESS OF SUTHERLAND.

According to the traditional account of some Scots writers, this family in the Peerage is older than any in North Britain, if not in all Europe; for in the reign of Corbred II. and in the year of Christ 76, a colony called Catti, coming from Germany to Scotland, and there dividing themselves into two parts, from those in the north, the country was called Caithness, and from them in the south, Sutherland; and were Thanes thereof before the title of Earl was used in the kingdom.

ALLAN, who was Thane of Sutherland, gave a very signal defeat to part of the Danish army who had invaded his country, and afterwards was treacherously murdered by the usurper, Macbeth, for adhering to his rightful Sovereign, Malcolm Canmore, the son of King Duncan. He was succeeded by his son,

(1st Earl.) WALTER, who by the said King Malcolm was created Earl of Sutherland; and

(2d Earl.) ROBERT, his son, built the castle of Dunrobin, which he called after his own name, and is still the principal seat of this noble family.

(3d Earl.) HUGH, the son of Robert, slew the Danish General, who had invaded his country of Sutherland, and was succeeded by

(4th Earl.) WILLIAM, his son, who was one of those great men summoned to Berwick on the part of Scotland, when the competition happened about the succession to the crown, between John Baliol and Robert Bruce, which was determined by King Edward I. of England. He was also one of those Peers who, in the year 1320, wrote that memorable letter to the Pope, asserting the independency of Scotland. To him succeeded his son, (5th Earl) KENNETH, a person very faithful to King David Bruce, in whose service he lost his life, at the battle of Halidonhill, against King Edward III. of England, in 1333, leaving two sons, William his heir; and Nicol, from whom descended the family of Sutherland, Lord Duffus.

(6th Earl.) WILLIAM, who succeeded, was one of those Peers who accompanied King David to the battle of Durham, where, with his Majesty, he was taken prisoner; but afterwards being released, he sent his son Alexander to England, as one of the hostages for the ransom of the said King. He married the Princess Margaret, sister to the said King David, and by her had two sons, whereof Alexander the eldest was the hostage; and the said King obliged all the nobility to acknowledge knowledge him as his successor to the throne; but he dying in England without issue and under age, (7th Earl.) JOHN, his brother, succeeded to the Earldom. He married Mabel Dunbar, daughter to the Earl of March; and dying in 1389, by her left issue,

(8th Earl.) NICOLAS, whose wife was a daughter of the Lord of the Isles, by whom he had Robert, his successor, and John Sutherland, of Berindale; which

(9th Earl.) Robert, was at the second battle of Halidonhill, near Berwick, 1402. He married the daughter of Thomas Dunbar, Earl of Murray, and by her had (10th Earl.) JOHN, whose wife was a daughter of Sir William Bailey, of Lamington, in Clidisdale, and by her he had three sons and two daughters.

(11th Earl.) JOHN, the eldest son succeeded; and he marrying Elizabeth, daughter to Alexander, Earl of Ross, by her had John, who succeeded him, Alexander who died under age, and a daughter, Elizabeth, who was married to Adam Gordon, of Aboyn, second son of George Gordon, Earl of Huntley.

(12th Earl.) JOHN, succeeded his father, and dying without issue, the said

(13th Earl.) ADAM GORDON, before-mentioned, in his wife's right, became the 13th Earl of Sutherland; and by the said Elizabeth, his wife, had a son, Alexander, who dying before his father and mother, left issue by Jane, daughter of John Stewart, Earl of Athol, John, his heir; and Margery, the second wife of William Sinclair, Earl of Orkney and Nithsdale, ancestor of the Lord Sinclair, and the Earl of Caithness.

(14th Earl.) JOHN, who succeeded his grandfather, was, in the reign of Queen Mary, made Governor and Lieutenant of the kingdom, from the river Spey northward; and attending the said Queen into France, was there, by King Henry III. of France, made a Knight of the Order of St. Michael. He was likewise made Governor of Murray and Ross, by the Queen Regent, and supported Queen Mary in her marriage with the Lord Darnley, against the opposite party; especially her brother Murray; but afterwards, in 1567, both he and his Lady had the misfortune to be poisoned. By his said Lady, who was Helen, sister to Matthew Stewart, Earl of Lenox, he left

(15th Earl.) ALEXANDER, who married two wives, Beatrix, daughter of George Sinclair, the 3d Earl of Caithness; and Jane Gordon, daughter of George, the 4th Earl of Huntley, and Countess Dowager of Bothwell, and had three sons and two daughters; whereof Jane was married to Hugh Mackay, and had issue, Donald created Lord Rae. Of the sons, (16th Earl.) JOHN, the eldest, succeeded to his honours, and procured a new enfeoffment of the said Earldom, with several additional privileges; he married Ann, daughter of Alexander, Lord Elphinston, High Treasurer of Scotland; by her had John, who succeeded him, and two daughters.

(17th Earl.) John, strenuously opposing the innovations that King James VI. would have made in the church of Scotland in 1616, was, by the party whom he joined, made Lord Privy Seal; and marrying Jane Drummond, sole daughter and heir of James, Earl of Perth, by her had John, Lord Strathnaver, who died an infant.—George, his successor;—and Robert.

(18th Earl.) GEORGE, who succeeded his father, dying in 1703, left by Jane his wife, daughter of David, Earl of Wemys, John, his heir; and a daughter, Ann, married to Robert, Viscount Arbuthnot.

(19th Earl.) JOHN, was one of the Privy Council to King William III. during whose reign he had the command of a regiment of foot; and in that of Queen Ann, was one of the Commissioners for the treaty of Union; and having at all times strenuously maintained the Protestant succession in the house of Hanover, his Majesty King George I. upon his accession to the throne, made him President of the Board of Trade and Manufactures. He was also by that King made Lord Lieutenant of the counties of Inverness, Elgin, Nairn, Cromarty, Ross, Sutherland, and Caithness, with the Isles of Orkney and Shetland; and in the year 1715, when the Pretender invaded Scotland, his Majesty wrote him the following letter, signed with his own hand:

St. James's, 13 January, 1715.

“ My Lord, Earl of Sutherland,
 “ HAVING been informed from several parts, of the good “ services you do me, and of the wise dispositions you
 “ have made to maintain the important fort of Inverness, I “ would not omit this opportunity of assuring you, that I am “ very sensible of so useful services, and which you may de“ pend I shall not forget: I hope you will continue them “ with more attention than ever, now my army is upon the “ point of marching against the rebels. I do not doubt that “ the ship which brings you arms and money, hath reached “ you

“ you by this time : So I pray God to have you, my Lord of Sutherland, in his safe and holy keeping.”

His Lordship marrying to his first wife, Ellen, daughter of William, Lord Cochran, son of William, the 1st Earl of Dundonald ; by her had William, his heir apparent, and two daughters, Jane and Ellen ; whereof the eldest married John, Lord Maitland, son of John, Earl of Lauderdale. To his second wife, his Lordship married Catherine Tollemache, sister to Lionel, Earl of Dysart, and widow of James Stewart, Lord Down, eldest son to James, Earl of Moray ; and in August, 1727, he married his third wife, the widow of Sir John Travel, a lady of great fortune.

WILLIAM, his heir apparent as above-mentioned, dying in 1720, left issue by Catherine, daughter to William Morrison, of Preston Grange, Esq. two sons, John and William ; the eldest died in the same year as his father.

(20th Earl.) WILLIAM, succeeded his grandfather in 1733. In 1734, he married Jane Wemys, daughter of David, Earl of Wemys, and by her, who died in 1747, he had William, the late Earl ; and Elizabeth, who married in September, 1757, James Wemys ; and other children. In the eighth British Parliament, he was also one of the sixteen Peers, and for some time the first Commissioner of Trade and Manufactures at Edinburgh ; but dying in France, December 1750, was succeeded by his son,

(21st Earl.) WILLIAM, then about fifteen years of age, who, in April 1761, married Mary, eldest daughter of William Maxwell, of Reston, Esq. by whom he had issue, a daughter, Catharine, who died an infant ; and Elizabeth, the present Countess of Sutherland. The Countess their mother, died June 2, 1766, and his Lordship dying June 16, 1766, and his honours being entailed on the heirs general, his only daughter, (22d Earl.) ELIZABETH, succeeded, and is Countess in her own right.

Note, The family of Sutherland chose the surname of Gordon, and quartered their arms ever since Adam Gordon married the heiress ; but John the 19th Earl, quitted the name of Gordon, and resumed the old name of Sutherland.

CRAWFORD, EARL OF CRAWFORD.

THE Right Honourable GEORGE LINDSAY CRAWFORD, Earl of CRAWFORD and Lindsay; Viscount and Baron Garnock; Baron Crawford and Spinzy, succeeded his father, George, the late Earl, June 25, 1781.

Of this antient and honourable family of Lindsay, which came first to Scotland with Edgar Atheling, and Margaret, his sister, Queen to King Malcolm Canmore, there were two principal branches, the one of Crawford aforesaid, and the other of Byres, in the county of Haddington.

In the reign of David I. about the year 1140, William de Lindsay, was a person of great note, as was David his successor who lived in the time of King William the Lion, about 1200; and he marrying the daughter of John de Crawford, with her got the Barony of that name, in which he was succeeded by his son, David, who lived in the time of Alexander II. and had two sons, David his successor, and John, who was Chamberlain of Scotland to Alexander III.

DAVID, who succeeded, had two sons, William, who was Chamberlain of Scotland to King Robert I. and David, his heir; who, marrying the daughter and coheir of Alexander de Abernethy, they from thence quarter the arms of that family; and having three sons, David; Sir Alexander, the second, who was of Glenesk; and Sir William, the youngest, of Byres, which line afterwards succeeded to the title of Earl of Crawford, and the eldest succeeded as Lord Crawford.

DAVID, Lord Crawford, was one of the Commissioners of the treaty for the redemption of King David II. who was a prisoner in England, and was succeeded by James, his son, whose wife was Giles, daughter of Walter, High Steward of Scotland; but by her having only a daughter, named Margery, who was married to Sir Henry Douglas, of Lochleven, ancestor to the Earl of Moreton, the Barony of Crawford, and his other estate, came to his cousin, (1st Earl.) Sir DAVID LINDSAY, of Glenesk, son of his uncle, Sir Alexander, who, by King Robert III. was created Earl of Crawford. He married Jane, daughter of King Robert II. by whom he had a daughter Elizabeth, married to Sir William Keith, and was mother of William, created Earl Marshal, and

(2d Earl.) ALEXANDER, his heir, who in 1423, was one of the hostages for the ransom of King James I. who had been eighteen years confined in England; and dying in 1445, left a son, (3d Earl.) ALEXANDER, who in the reign of James II. left David, his successor; Alexander Lindsay, of Achtermonfy; and a daughter, Elizabeth, married to Sir Thomas Maule, ancestor to the Earl of Panmure, in Ireland.

(4th Earl.) DAVID, who succeeded, was Master of the Household, and Chamberlain to King James III. and by him created Duke of Montrose for life; and he marrying Elizabeth, daughter of James, Lord Hamilton, by her had John, his heir; and Elizabeth, married to John, the 1st Lord Drummond.

(5th Earl.) JOHN, who succeeded, was slain on the 9th of September, 1513, at the battle of Flodden with King James IV. and dying without issue, his estate and honours came to

(6th Earl.) ALEXANDER LINDSAY, of Achtermonfy, his uncle, who married Marion, a daughter of the family of Dunbar, and by her had

(7th Earl.) DAVID, the next Earl, who married first Catharine, daughter of Sir William Sterling, of Keir; and secondly, Elizabeth Lundy, of that ilk, by whom he had a son Alexander, and two daughters; Margaret, married to James Lord Ogilvy, and Elizabeth to John Erskine, of Dun; but the said Earl their father, being provoked by the folly and insolence of his son to disinheret him, he, with the approbation of the crown, settled his estate and title of Earl upon

(8th Earl.) Sir DAVID LINDSAY, of Edzal, in Angus, who, upon his decease in 1562, accordingly succeeded therein. He married Lillie, daughter of David the second Lord Drummond; but dying in 1570 without issue, generously resigned the estate and honour in favour of

(9th Earl.) Sir DAVID LINDSAY, the son of Alexander that was disinherited. He married Margaret, natural daughter of Cardinal Beaton, Bishop of St. Andrews, and by her had three sons, David, the tenth Earl; Sir Henry the twelfth

Earl; and Alexander, who married Jane, daughter of John, the tenth Lord Lyon, widow of Robert Lord Douglas, son of William, the sixth Earl of Moreton. He was Gentleman of the Bedchamber to King James VI. who in 1590, honoured him with the title of Lord Spinzy.

(10th Earl.) DAVID, the eldest son succeeded, and married Grisel, daughter of John Steward, Earl of Athol, and had a son

(11th Earl.) DAVID; but he dying without issue, his estate and honour descended to his uncle

(12th Earl.) Sir HENRY LINDSAY, who married Margaret, daughter of Sir James Shaw, of Souchy, in the county of Clackmannan; and by her had (13th Earl) LODOWICK, his heir in the honour, who, in 1643, commanded a regiment of horse at the battle of Landdown, for King Charles I. but he likewise dying without issue, made an intail of his honour, on John, Earl of Lindsay, of the line of Byres, which, in 1661, was ratified by act of parliament.

The progenitor of the family of Lindsay, of Byres, was Sir William de Lindsay, third son of David Lindsay, of Crawford, who, in the time of King David I. raised his fortune by marrying Christian, daughter and sole heir to Sir William Muir, of Abercorn, in the county of Lithgow; for having with her that Lordship, and several others, he thereupon added to his arms, being gules, a fesse, cheque, argent and azure; the arms also of Sir William Muir; and afterwards changed his lands of Dunotter, in the county of Kincardin, with Sir William Keith, Marshal of Scotland, for his lands of Struthers, in the county of Fife, which from thenceforth have been the principal seat of this noble family. He was succeeded by his son John, who, in the twentieth of James II. was constituted Chief Justice North of the river Forth, and one of his Majesty's Privy Council; and marrying a daughter of the Lord Lorn, by her had five sons and two daughters; whereof Christian was first married to John, son to George, Lord Seton, and afterwards to Robert Coningham, Lord Kilmaurs. The sons were David, John, Patrick, George, and Walter; the youngest was made Lord St. John, and George was knighted; and in 1480, David succeeding his father, assisted King James III. at the battle of Bannockburn; but in 1492 dying without issue, John his brother became heir; who dying also without issue in 1498, Patrick, the third son succeeded, and by James V. was made Sheriff of the county county of Fife; which office he had till 1531, when it was heretably conferred upon George Lesley, Earl of Rothes. He married Margaret, daughter of the family of Pitcairn, by whom he had a son John, and a daughter Catharine, who was married to Sir Alexander Seton, of Parbroth; and John his son, marrying Elizabeth, daughter of Sir Andrew Lundy, of Balgony, by her had a son John, who succeeded his grandfather, and married Helen, daughter of John Stewart, Earl of Athol, by whom he had Patrick, his heir; and five daughters; of which Isabel was married to Norman Lesley, son to George, Earl of Rothes; Marian to Cuthbert, Earl of Glencairn; and Jane, to Henry, son of Henry, Lord Sinclair. Patrick, who succeeded, and was active for the reformation of religion, and on the King's side in the minority of James VI. marrying Eupheme, daughter of Robert Douglas, of Locheven, by her had James his heir, and a daughter Margaret, married to James, Lord Lesley, eldest son of Andrew, the fifth Earl of Rothes.

JAMES, who in 1589, succeeded his father, married Eupheme, daughter of Andrew, Earl of Rothes, and by her had two sons and two daughters; whereof Helen was married to John, son to William, Lord Cranston. Robert the eldest son succeeded, and marrying Ann, daughter of Laurence, Lord Oliphant, by her had a daughter, who was married to Alexander Falconer, the first Lord Halkerton, but having no male issue, his brother John succeeded to the estate. He married Christian Hamilton, daughter to Thomas, the first Earl of Haddington; and dying in 1616, by her, who married to her second husband, Robert, Lord Boyd, left (14th Earl) JOHN, his heir, who by King Charles I. was created Earl of Lindsay, and succeeded to the title of Earl of Crawford, as above-mentioned, the first Lord in the rolls of parliament of Scotland.

After the death of the said King, he adhered to King Charles II. at whose coronation at Scoon, on the first of January, 1651, he carried the scepter; but the same year receiving a commission from his Majesty to raise forces for his service, in order to his restoration, he, with several other Lords, was surprized at Elliot in Angus, by the English, and sent prisoner to the Tower of London, where he suffered a tedious imprisonment, till the Restoration, 1660.

He married first Margaret, the second daughter of James, the second Marquis of Hamilton; secondly, Amelia, daughter of James Lord Down, son of Alexander the sixth Earl of Morray, widow of Mr. Frazer, of Strichen, and dying in 1676, left two sons, William and Patrick; and four daughters; Ann married to John Lesley, Duke of Rothes.—Christian to Thomas Hamilton, Earl of Haddington.—Elizabeth to David Carnegie, Earl of Northesk.—Helen to Sir Robert Sinclair, of Steventon, Bart. Of the sons, Patrick, the youngest, married Margaret, daughter and heir of Sir John Crawford of Kilbirny, and had issue John, created Viscount Garnock, of whom hereafter.

(15th Earl.) WILLIAM, who succeeded, married Mary, daughter of James Johnston, Earl of Annandale, by whom he had two sons, John, his heir, and James, who was a Colonel, and unfortunately slain at the battle of Almanza, in 1707: And by his second wife, Henrietta, daughter of Charles Seton, Earl of Dumferling, and widow of William Fleming, Earl of Wigton, he had a son Thomas, and six daughters.

(16th Earl.) JOHN, who was by his first wife, and succeeded his father, chusing a military life, on the 5th of May, 1710, was made a Lieutenant-General, and in 1713, was appointed Colonel of the second troop of Horse Grenadier Guards, and one of her Majesty's Privy Council; but dying on the 4th of January, 1714, left issue by Amelia his wife, daughter of James Stewart, Lord Down, eldest son, and heir apparent, to Alexander, the sixth Earl of Moray, two sons, John and William; which last died in the post of a Captain in the royal navy.

(17th Earl.) JOHN, successor to his family, betook himself to a military life. In 1734, he was a volunteer in the Imperial army on the Rhine; and also in the Imperial army in a battle against the Turks in 1739. In 1740, he had the command of the second troop of Horse Grenadier Guards, after which he was Colonel of the royal Scots Dragoons. His Lordship died in the year 1749, having married in 1747, Jane Murray, youngest daughter of John Duke of Athol, who soon after died without issue, and the several dignities of Earl of Crawford, &c. devolved on George Viscount Garnock, descended from Patrick Lindfay, who married Margaret, the heiress of Sir John Crawford, as aforesaid.

The first of this family was Malcolm Crawford, of Garnock, who in the reign of King James III. marrying Margery, daughter and sole heir of John Barclay, Laird of Kilbirny, with her had those lands; and Malcolm their son marrying Mary, daughter of Robert Crichton, of Sanquair, Esq; ancestor to the Earls of Dumfries, by her had two sons, Robert, his heir; and John.

ROBERT, who succeeded, married Margaret, daughter of Sir Thomas Semple, of Ellerston, and by her had a son, Laurence. He married Helen, daughter of Sir Hugh Campbell, of Loudon, ancestor to the Earl of that title, by whom he had six sons and two daughters; whereof Hugh, the eldest, succeeding, and marrying to his first wife Margaret, daughter of John Colquhan, of Lufs, by her had a daughter Marian, married to John Boyle, ancestor to the Earl of Glasgow; and Malcolm, his heir, who marrying Margaret, daughter of John Coningham, of Glengarnock, by Margaret his wife, daughter of John, Lord Fleming, by her had two sons, John and Alexander.

JOHN, who succeeded, married Margaret, daughter of John Blair, of that ilk, by Grisel his wife, daughter of Robert, Lord Semple, and by her had a son, John, who marrying Mary Coningham, daughter of James, Earl of Glencairn, by her was father of another John, who was Colonel of a regiment under King Charles I. He married Magdalen, daughter of David, Lord Carnegy, and by her had Margaret his heir; which daughter being married to the Honourable Patrick Lindsay, second son to John the fourteenth Earl of Crawford, her father intailed his estate upon her, and her heirs male or female by that marriage, they taking the surname and arms of Crawford.

The issue of the said marriage being three sons, and as many daughters, of whom, Margaret was married to David Boyle, Earl of Glasgow.—Ann was the second wife of Harry Maul, of Kally, father of the present Earl Panmure. The sons were John, Patrick, and Archibald, (1st Visc.) JOHN, succeeding, was, by Queen Ann, in 1703, made one of the Privy Council, and created Viscount Mount Crawford, which he changed to the title of Garnock; and dying in 1709, left issue by Margaret Stewart, daughter of James Earl of Bute, five sons and three daughters. H A Y, E A R L O F E R R O L.

THE Right Honourable GEORGE HAY, Earl of ERROL, Baron Hay of Slanes, hereditary High Constable of Scotland, born May 13, 1767, and succeeded his father June 3, 1778.

This noble family is of antient extraction, and likewise famous on account of their rise and arms; for in the reign of Kenneth III. in the year 980, when the Danes had invaded Scotland, and prevailed in the battle of Lancarty, near Perth, the Scots were worsted and gave way; and in their flight through a narrow pass were stopt by a countryman and his two sons, who encouraged them to rally and renew the fight; telling them, it was better and more honourable to die in the field fighting for their King and country, than to fly and be afterwards killed by the merciless Danes; and upbraided those who would fly like cowards, when all lay at stake: The more timorous stood still, and many of the stout men, who fled more by the desertion of their companions, than want of courage, joined with the old man and his sons to stop the rest, till there was a good number together: The countrymen, who were armed with only what their ploughs furnished, leading them on, and returning upon the Danes, made a furious onset, crying aloud, Help is at hand; the Danes believing that a fresh army was falling on them, the Scots thereby totally defeated them, and freed their own country from servitude.

The

The battle being over, the old man, afterwards known by the name of Hay, was brought to the King, who assembling a parliament at Scoon, gave to the said Hay and his sons, as a just reward of their valour, so much land on the river Tay in the district of Gowry, as a falcon from a man's hand flew over till it settled; which being six miles in length, was afterward called Errol, and is still possessed by the family of Hay, which is lineally descended from the said valiant Hay: And the King being willing to promote the said Hay and his sons, to the rank of nobility, he assigned them a coat of arms, which was argent, three escutcheons gules, to intimate that the father and the two sons had been the three fortunate shields of Scotland.

The particular state of this family, from the reign of Kenneth III. to that of Robert I. is not clear upon record: Length of time and accidents of war having obscured the history; however, there are two charters extant, granted by William the Lion, of the lands of Errol to William de Haya, and David de Haya; and in the charters of Malcolm IV. William, and Alexander II. frequent mention is made of Gulielmus de Haye, and Johannes de Haye, as witnesses; and at Berwick, in the dispute between John Baliol and Robert Bruce, before King Edward I. of England, Nicholas de Haya is one of the arbitrators; but since the beginning of King Robert Bruce's reign, in 1306, the pedigree is uninterrupted:

GILBERT DE HAY, Lord of Errol, adhered to King Robert I. whom he assisted in retrieving the independence of his native country, then subject to the English; and in consideration of his great loyalty and faithful services, he had a grant of divers crown lands: and his Majesty was pleased, by a charter bearing date the 12th of November, 1315, to grant unto him and his heirs for ever, the office of High Constable of Scotland; which for several generations had been held by the family of Quincy, being then forfeited. This Lord Gilbert died in the year 1330, and was buried in the abbey church of Coupar, where several of his successors were likewise interred; and

NICHOLAS, his son, was the second High Constable of Scotland. On the 11th of August 1332, he, with 280 gentlemen of his family, were killed in the service of King David Bruce, against Edward Baliol, with his English allies in the battle of Dupplin, near Perth; so that the family of Hay would have been quite extinct, had not his Lady been with child, and supported it with the birth of a posthumous son.

DAVID,

DAVID, his son, born as above-mentioned, by reason of his nonage, is not mentioned for a long time.

THOMAS, his son, married the Princess Elizabeth, daughter to King Robert II. in whose reign he became possessed of the Barony of Instuthil, in the county of Perth, at which place he died in the year 1406, leaving issue William his heir, and a daughter of her name, married to Sir George Lesley, ancestor to the Earl of Rothes. Of this family is descended the present Earl of Kinnoul.

WILLIAM, who succeeded, was one of the Commissioners deputed by the estates of Scotland, to treat with the English court touching the redemption of King James I. who was detained prisoner in that realm; which being effected in 1424, he thereupon was knighted. He married Margaret, daughter to the Lord Graham, and dying at Turriff, in 1434, left two sons, Gilbert and William.

GILBERT, the eldest succeeded, and marrying Alice, daughter of Sir William Hay, of Yester, ancestor to the Marquis of Tweeddale, by her had William his heir, and five other sons, and died in 1436.

(5th Earl.) WILLIAM, who in the year 1510, was Sheriff of Aberdeen; but on the 9th of September, 1513, was slain with King James IV. and 87 gentlemen of his own family name, at the battle of Flodden. He married Elizabeth, daughter

daughter of William, the 1st Lord Ruthven, and by her had William, his heir; and two daughters; of whom Isabel was married to Sir William Forbes; and Marianne, to William, Earl of Crawford.

(6th Earl.) WILLIAM, was one of the Privy Council to King James V. and his particular favourite: and he marrying Eleanor Stewart, daughter to John, Earl of Lenox, by her had William, who died in his father's life-time unmarried, and Jane, married to Andrew, who became the 8th Earl of Errol; and the Earl, dying without male issue, his estate and honour devolved upon Sir George Hay of Logie, son and heir of Thomas Hay, who was second son to William, the 3d Earl of Errol, as aforesaid.

(7th Earl.) GEORGE, the 7th Earl of Errol, married Margaret, daughter of Sir Alexander Robertson, Laird of Strowan, and by her had four sons and three daughters, whereof Elizabeth was married to William, Lord Keith, son of William, Earl Marshal, who died before his father; and Margaret, to Laurence, Lord Oliphant. The sons, which were Andrew, John, George, and Thomas; the latter was Minister of Turriff, in the county of Aberdeen; the third dwelt at Adelthun, the second succeeded to an ancient family of the Hays, of Murchil.

(8th Earl.) ANDREW, the eldest, succeeding his father in 1563, was the 8th Earl of Errol, and one of the Privy Council to Queen Mary. He married to his first wife, Jane, only daughter to William, the 6th Earl of Errol, and by her had three sons, and a daughter, Eleanor, who was married to Alexander Levingston, Earl of Linlithgow; and by his second wife, who was Agnes, sister of George Sinclair, the 4th Earl of Caithness, he had Sir George Hay, of Killour, in the county of Perth. The three sons of Andrew, Earl of Errol, by Jane, his first wife, were Alexander, Francis, and Thomas; the eldest died before his father; as did Thomas, the youngest, without issue; whereupon

(9th Earl.) FRANCIS, the second, became the 9th Earl of Errol, his father dying at Slanes, in 1585. He married to his first wife, Mary Stewart, daughter to James, the 2d Earl of Murray; and his second was Ann Stewart, daughter to the Earl of Athol; but having no issue by either, he married thirdly, Elizabeth, daughter of William Douglas, Earl of Morton, and by her had three sons, William, his heir; George, and Francis, who both died without issue; and eight daughters; Ann was married to George Seton, the 2d Earl of Winton.—Jane, to William Erskine, Earl of Mar.—Elizabeth, to Hugh, Lord Semple.—Mary, to Walter Scot, Earl of Buccleugh.—Sophia, to John, Viscount Meldrum. Francis, the 9th Earl, dying at Bowness, in Buchan, 1631, his eldest son, (10th Earl.) WILLIAM, succeeding in the honour; he married Ann Lyon, daughter of Patrick, the 1st Earl of Kinghorn, ancestor to the Earl of Strathmore, and by her had Gilbert, his heir, and a daughter, Margaret, who was first married to Henry, Lord Kerr, son of Robert, Earl of Roxburgh, and afterwards to John Kennedy, Earl of Cassils.

(11th Earl.) GILBERT, who was the 11th Earl, was very active and serviceable in the restoration of King Charles II. He married Catherine, daughter of James Carnegy, the 2d Earl of Southesk; but dying at Slanes, in 1674, without issue, we return to Sir George Hay, son of Andrew, the 8th Earl, whose son, Sir Andrew Hay, married Margaret, daughter of Patrick, and sister of George, the 1st Lord Kinnaird, and had issue, (12th Earl.) Sir JOHN HAY, who succeeded in the Earldom. He married Ann Drummond, daughter of James, the 3d Earl of Perth, and by her had three sons, Charles, his heir; James, and George, who both died unmarried; and two daughters, Mary, who succeeded to the Earldom of Errol, and Margaret.

(13th Earl.) CHARLES, who succeeded, being one of the Peers who, in the Parliament 1706, dissented to every article of the Union, he entered a protestation as follows:

“ I Charles, Earl of Errol, Lord High Constable of Scotland, do hereby protest, That the office of High Constable, with all the rights and privileges of the same, being longing to me heretably, and depending upon the monarchy, sovereignty, and ancient constitutions of this kingdom, may not be prejudiced by the treaty of Union between Scotland and England, nor any article, clause, or condition thereof; but that the said heretable office, with all the rights and privileges thereof, may remain to me and my successors, intire and unhurt by any votes or Acts of Parliament whatever relating to the said Union; and I crave that this my protestation may be recorded in the registers and rolls of Parliament.”

In April, 1708, he was brought prisoner to London, with many other Lords and Commons, on account of the French invasion, and dying unmarried, was succeeded by

(14th Earl) MARY, his eldest sister, who married Alexander Falconer, a younger son of Sir David Falconer, Lord President of Session 1682, brother to Lord Halkerton, who, on his marriage with the Countess of Errol, took the name of Hay, but died in 1758, without issue. The title descended to the son of her sister

MARGARET, who married James, Earl of Linlithgow and Calender, and had a daughter Ann, who married William, Earl of Kilmarnock, who by her had three sons; but the said Earl was attainted and beheaded in 1746, upon which the title of Kilmarnock became extinct; but the Earldom of Errol descended upon the death of Mary, Countess of Errol, in 1758, to

(15th Earl) ANNE, Countess of Kilmarnock, who, dying in April, 1761, was succeeded by her eldest son

(16th Earl.) JAMES BOYD, Lord Boyd, who took the surname of Hay. LESLIE, COUNTESS OF ROTHES.

THE Right Honourable JANE ELIZABETH LESLIE, COUNTESS of ROTHES, Baroness Lesley, and Bambreigh, succeeded her brother John, June 18, 1773; married first in 1776, George-Raymond Evelyn, Esq; by whom she has one son, George-William, Lord Leslie, born March 28, 1768: Her second marriage was in 1772, to Dr. Lucas Pepys, Physician Extraordinary to his Majesty, by whom she has a son and daughter; Charles born in September, 1774, and Harriot, born June 1, 1777, who died 1780.

The origin of this noble family is Hungarian, taking their name from the castle of Lesley, in that country; but are since dispersed into many other nations, so that there are few countries in Europe, wherein some of them have not raised their characters, and borne considerable offices and honours; and their family is now so increased in number and honour, that besides the Earl, of whom we are speaking, there are the Earl of Leven, the Lord Lindores, and the Lord Newark; though it must be observed, that this family of Rothes is now paternally of the name of Hamilton, as hereafter will appear.

There were also at one time three general officers of this name, to three several crowned heads; Count Walter Lesley to the Emperor; Alexander, Earl of Leven, to King Charles I. of England; and David Lesley, afterwards Lord Newark, to Gustavus Adolphus, King of Sweden.

In the reign of King Charles I. there were likewise three Bishops of the name of Lesley, in Ireland; whereof John, who was first Bishop of the isles in Scotland, was Bishop of Raphoe, and lived above 100 years, 40 of which he was Bishop, and died in 1641; and he leaving two sons, John and Charles, the eldest was Dean of Dromore; and the youngest, who was Chancellor of the cathedral of Conner, was author of the Snake in the Grass.

There are at present several Counts of the name in Germany, beside many families in Scotland, France, Moscovy, and Poland; and one of this name governed the kingdom of Hungary, as the Emperor's Viceroy, he having some time before married that Emperor's daughter.

The first of this name in Britain, was Bartholdus Lesley, one of the first rank of nobility in Hungary, who, in the year 1068, attended Margaret Atheling, the wife of King Malcolm

Malcolm Canmore, in Scotland; where his services to that Princess were thought so considerable, that king Malcolm, gave him his sister to wife; and besides many large possessions which are still in the family, made him Governor of Edinburgh castle, as a peculiar reward of honour, for having first fortified it, and then bravely defended it against the King's enemies; and soon after he was made Lord Lesley, and Earl Rofs.

In the reign of King Robert I. Sir Andrew Lesley, the sixth in descent from the said Bartholdus, marrying Mary, daughter and coheir to Alexander Abernethy, with her got the Baronies of Rothés and Bambreigh, of which he had a charter from the said King; and thereupon his descendants have quartered the coat of Abernethy with their own. In the year 1320, he was one of those Barons who signed that memorable letter to the Pope, asserting the independency of Scotland. Walter his successor, married one of the daughters and coheirs of William Rofs, Earl of Rofs, her other sister being married to Alexander Frazer, of Salton. And in 1390, lived another Sir Andrew, who then resigned the Barony of Bambreigh, into the hands of King Robert III. and was succeeded by his heir of intail Sir George Lesley, who first assumed the title of Rothés. He married Elizabeth, daughter of Thomas Hay, ancestor of the Earls of Errol, by the Princess Elizabeth, daughter to King Robert the IIId, and by her had

NORMAN, his heir, who, in 1423, was one of the Barons sent to England to attend King James I. in his return from his captivity in that kindom; and dying in 1439, left issue by Christian, daughter of William, Lord Seton,

(1st Earl.) GEORGE, his successor, the first Earl of Rothés, who married Christian, daughter of Sir William Haliburton, Laird of Dirleton, and by her had a son Andrew, and two daughters; Christian, married to Robert Sinclair, and was mother of Henry, the first Lord Sinclair; and Elizabeth married to William Hay, the fourth Earl of Errol; and his said son

ANDREW, dying before him, left by Elizabeth, daughter of William, Earl of Orkney and Nithsdale, ancestor of the Lord Sinclair, and the Earl of Caithness, two sons,

(2d Earl.) GEORGE, who succeeded his grandfather; but he dying without issue, quany, and left two fons, George, his heir, and John Lesley, of Parkhill.

(4th Earl.) GEORGE, who succeeded, being a nobleman of great wisdom and prudence, was much esteemed by King James V. who, in 1537, took him over to France with the Earl of Mar and others, when he espoused the Princess Magdalen, a daughter of that crown; and afterwards he was sent Ambassador to Denmark. In 1557, he was one of the Commissioners sent to the court of Paris to conclude the marriage between Mary, Queen of Scots, and the Dauphin of France; and the next year died of a fever at Dieppe, in his return for Scotland. He married Nichola, daughter of Sir John Somervil, of Camnethan, and by her had two fons, Andrew his heir; Norman who married Isabel, daughter of John Lindsay, ancestor of the Earl of Crawford; and two daughters, Agnes, married to William Douglas, the sixth Earl of Morton; and Grisel to Mark Ker, ancestor to the Marquis of Lothian.

(5th Earl.) ANDREW, who succeeded to the Earldom, was very faithful to Queen Mary, to whom he was one of the Privy Council, and was much esteemed by her son King James VI. He married Jane, daughter to Sir John Hamilton of Evandale, and had two fons and four daughters; of whom Isabel was married to James, Master of Sinclair; Elizabeth to James Ogilvy, the first Earl of Finlater; Mary to Sir Robert Lesley, Lord Melvil; and Eupheme to James Lindsay, ancestor to the Earl of Crawford. He married Margaret, daughter of John Erskine, the sixth Earl of Mar, and by her had John, his successor, and two daughters; whereof Margaret was first married to Alexander Lesley, Lord Balgony; secondly, to Francis Scot, Earl of Buccleugh; and lastly, to David, Earl of Wemys; and Christian the youngest, was married to Hugh Montgomery, Earl of Eglintoun.

(7th Earl.) JOHN, who succeeded his father, carried the Sword of State when King Charles II. was crowned at Scoon, 1651; but on the 3d September, the same year, being in arms for his Majesty, was taken prisoner at the battle of Worcester, and confined till the Restoration; after which, his Majesty

Majesty, to reward his merit and sufferings, was pleased to make him President of the Council, and General of the forces in Scotland: And in 1680, as a farther mark of his Majesty's favour, he was honoured with the titles of Duke of Rothes, Marquis of Bambreigh, Earl of Lesley, Viscount Lugton, and Baron of Achmuty and Cascuberry, and to the heirs male of his body for ever. He married Ann, daughter of John Lindsay, the fourteenth Earl of Crawford, by whom he had two daughters, Margaret and Christian; of which the youngest was married to James Graham, the third Marquis of Montrose; and

MARGARET became Countess of Rothes, her father having no male issue; she married Charles Hamilton, the fourth Earl of Haddington, and by him had a son John, who took the arms and surname of Lesley, and was the eighth Earl of Rothes, (8th Earl.) JOHN, who succeeded, held many great offices in the kingdom. DOUGLAS, EARL OF MORTON.

THE Right Honourable GEORGE DOUGLAS, Earl of MORTON, and Lord Aberdour, in Fifeshire, succeeded his father, Sept. 27, 1774; married Miss Hamilton, daughter of John Hamilton, Esq;

The first of this collateral branch of the family was Sir James Douglas, of Loudon: He obtained from the King a grant of the lands of Kincavel and Calderclers, and to his heirs; and was succeeded by his son, Sir William, the Laird of Lidsdale, who for his bravery was called the Flower of Chivalry; but he dying without issue, his brother, Sir John Douglas, became heir, and was Captain of the castle of Lochleven, in Fife, the property of which was 300 years in the family: And herein was imprisoned the unfortunate Mary, Queen of Scots. He married Agnes Monsfode, and had two sons, Sir James, his heir in his paternal estate, and Sir Henry Douglas of Lugton and Lochleven, who married Margery, only daughter and heir to James, Lord Crawford, and was progenitor to the Earl of Morton.

Sir JAMES, who succeeded his father, succeeded also his uncle, the Laird of Lidsdale, in the Baronies of Dalkeith and Aberdour; and marrying Agnes Dunbar, daughter to the Earl of March, by her had a son, James, who married the Princess Mary Stewart, daughter of King Robert III. and by her was father of another James, whose wife was Elizabeth Gifford, by whom he had two sons, (1st Earl.) JAMES, the next heir, who, by King James II. was created Earl of Morton; and David, of whom is descended the family of Tulliquilly, near Kincardin.

The said James Douglas, who married the Princess Mary, had a second wife, daughter to the Lord Borthwick, who had a son, first of the house of Whitingham, of whom was descended Robert Douglas, who went into the service of Gustavus Adolphus, King of Sweden: His son, who was Governor of East Gothland, married a sister of Count Steinbock, by whom he had three sons; the eldest, William, who was Count Douglas in Sweden, was Aid de Camp to Charles XII. and taken prisoner at the battle of Pultowa, 1709; the second had a regiment at that battle, and was taken prisoner, but not being ransomed, he entered into the Muscovite service, where he was a General Officer; the third was a Captain in the King of Sweden's Guards.

James, the 1st Earl of Morton, married the Princess Jane Stewart, daughter of King James I. by whom he had John, his heir. He also married a second wife, Margaret, daughter of James Douglas, the 7th Earl of Douglas, and had a daughter, Jane, married to Thomas Erskine, the 1st Earl of Mar.

(2d Earl.) JOHN, the 2d Earl, married Jane, daughter of this family of Crichton, and had two sons, James and Richard, and two daughters; Elizabeth, married to Robert, Lord Keith, by whom she had William, the 3d Earl Marshal; and Agnes, to Alexander, the 5th Lord Levingston.

(3d Earl.) JAMES, the eldest son succeeded, and married Catherine, natural daughter of King James IV. and by her had three daughters; of which, Elizabeth, the eldest, was married to James Douglas, of Pittendrich, brother to the Earl of Angus; and Margaret, to James, the 2d Earl of Arnan; and the said Earl, her father, having no male issue, made a conveyance of his estate and honour to the said James Douglas, his son-in-law.

(4th Earl.) JAMES, who thus became the 4th Earl of Morton, dying without issue, made an intail of the Earldom in favour of his nephew, Archibald, Earl of Angus, and in case of failure of male issue, to William Douglas, of Lochleven, a relation to the 3d Earl of Morton, which settlement afterwards took place upon the death of the Earl of Angus.

In the reign of Queen Mary, the said James, 4th Earl of Morton, who succeeded his father-in-law, was one of the Privy Council, and by her Majesty sent Ambassador into England, and made Lord High Chancellor of Scotland; but in the same reign, the Earl of Bothwell having a design to murder Henry, Lord Darnley, the Queen's husband, in order to marry the Queen, and craving the Earl of Morton's assistance therein, the Earl left the court and retired into the country, during which time that scandalous and bloody tragedy was acted; and many years after, he was beheaded for being privy thereto, though he had no other guilt than concealing it.

When the Earl of Bothwell had married the Queen, it greatly alarmed the nation, as suspecting the Earl to be the murderer of her former husband, and that by such an union the young Prince was in great danger; whereupon the Earl of Morton was one of the nobility who made an association to preserve him; and on the 29th of July, 1567, which was the day of his coronation, took the oath to the infant King.

In this new turn of affairs, the Earl of Morton's share was very considerable; and he was soon after declared High Chancellor of Scotland, then High Admiral, and on the 24th of November, 1572, Regent of the kingdom, during the King's minority; but being disagreeable to the other party, who had the young King in their hands, they at length brought about his ruin; for by accusing him as accessary to the murder of the King's father, he was thereupon sent prisoner to Dunbarton-castle, from whence, on the 1st of June, 1581, he was brought to his trial at Edinburgh, where he was found guilty by his Peers, of being a party in the said murder, by not revealing it when the Earl of Bothwell proposed it to him, and was sentenced to be hanged and quartered; but by the favour of the King, he was next day beheaded at the Market-cross of Edinburgh, and what was remarkable, the execution was performed by an engine of his own inventing for that use, called The Maiden, and he was the first who suffered by it.

Upon the death and forfeiture of the Regent, the title of Earl of Morton was soon after settled by the Parliament on the Earl's nephew,

(5th Earl.) ARCHIBALD, Earl of Douglas and Angus; but he dying without issue, it then came to

(6th Earl.) WILLIAM DOUGLAS, of Lochleven, before mentioned, as heir of intail; and he marrying Agnes, daughter of George

THE Right Honourable JOHN BOWES LYON, Earl of STRATHMORE and KINGHORN, Lord Lyon and Glamis, succeeded his father, the late Earl, in April, 1776.

The origin of this noble family is said to be the same as that of Lyon in France, which derives itself from the noble house of Leoni at Rome, a branch whereof came from France into England with William the Norman, in 1066, and from thence in 1098 to Scotland with King Edgar, the fourth son of Malcolm III. This Lyon was a great favourite with that Prince; and for the good services he had done against Donald Bane, the usurper, had a grant of considerable lands in Perthshire, which from him received the name of Glen Lyon.

Afterwards JOHN DE LYON, obtained a grant from King David II. of the Baronies of Forteviot and Fergundeny in the said county, with Drumgawan, and others in the shire of Aberdeen, and the grant was confirmed by King Robert II.

(1st Lord.) Sir JOHN LYON, son of the said John, was Secretary to the said King Robert II. who in the year 1379, granted him the Thanedom of Glamis, in Forfarshire, and not long after preferred him to be Great Chamberlain of Scotland. He also advanced him to the degree of a Lord of Parliament, by the title of Lord Glamis, and gave him in marriage Jane Stewart, his third and youngest daughter, by Elizabeth Mure, his first wife, together with the Barony of Kinghorn in Fifeshire, and from that match his family surround their arms with a double tressure. He had likewise several grants of lands from the crown, to which he made additions by the purchase of many Baronies, and was also made Governor of Edinburgh castle during life, and Lord Chancellor of Scotland. In 1382, he was sent Ambassador to England; but in his return having the misfortune to quarrel with Sir James Lindsay, of Crawford, was by him murdered at the Moss of Balhall, which was highly resented by the King, who ordered the corpse to be buried in the abbey of Scoon.

By the said Princess Jane his wife, the King's daughter, he left an only son John, who being very young, the King, his grandfather took him under his royal patronage, strictly prohibiting any harm to him, under the highest penalty the law could inflict.

(2d Lord.) JOHN, the second Lord Glamis, married Mary, daughter of Patrick Graham, Earl of Strathern; and dying, was buried among the Kings at Scoon, leaving a son, (3d Lord.) PATRICK, the third Lord, who was one of the hostages sent into England in 1421, for the return of King James I. and was one of the Privy Council to King James II. and Master of his Household. (4th Lord.) ALEXANDER, the eldest succeeded, and married Agnes, daughter of William, Lord Crichton, Chancellor of Scotland; but dying in 1437, without issue, his estate and honour descended to his brother.

(10th Lord.) JOHN, who succeeded his father, was, in 1575, constituted Lord Chancellor of Scotland. He married Elizabeth, daughter of Alexander Abernethy of Salton, by whom he had Patrick his heir, and several daughters; whereof Jane was first married to Robert, Lord Douglas, heir apparent to William, Earl of Morton; secondly, to Archibald Douglas, the fourteenth Earl of Douglas; and lastly, to Alexander Lindsay, Lord Spinzy, youngest son of David, the 9th Earl of Crawford; and Elizabeth was the wife of Patrick, Lord Gray.

The descent of this noble family is to be found under the title of Duke of Hamilton; and that James, the 2d Earl of Arran, marrying Margaret Douglas, daughter of James, the 3d Earl of Morton, by her had four sons, James, John, Claud, and David.

(1st Lord P.) CLAUD, was progenitor of the Earls of Abercorn. In 1553, he was promoted to be Commander of the Abbey of Paisley, upon the resignation of John, Archbishop of St. Andrews, which was ratified and approved by Pope Julius III. and upon the breaking out of the civil war, he, adhering to the interest of Queen Mary, was by her constituted one of the principal Commanders of her army at the battle of Langside, 1568, where he performed the part of a brave and valiant General; and resolutely persisting in her Majesty's service, his estate was thereupon forfeited and continued in other hands, till James VI. in 1585, restored it, and also created him Lord Paisley. The third was long resident at Rome, from the Queen Dowager of England, and in his old age married Jane, daughter to Alexander Colquhoun, Laird of Lufs, and widow of Allan, the 5th Lord Cathcart, but left no issue. Sir Alexander the youngest son, was father of Count Hamilton, who settled first at the court of Philip-William, Elector Palatine, who sent him envoy extraordinary to King James II. of England. He accompanied the Elector's daughter Eleanor-Magdalena to Vienna, who married the Emperor Leopold, and by the favour of the Empress was created a Count of the Empire, with a grant of the County of Newburgh near Passaw, and other estates in Moravia and Hungary. He had issue a daughter, maid of honour to the Empress Emillia, consort of the Emperor Joseph; and a son, Count Julius, Chamberlain to the Emperor, who married Maria Ernestina, born Countess of Starenburg, who died in 1724, and had issue three sons and several daughters.

But he being amongst the first of note who embraced and favoured the reformed religion, was, by Dr. Beaton, Bishop of St. Andrews, and others, accused before the King of heresy; which not taking effect, they, on pretence of a treasonable correspondence with the nation's enemies, found him guilty, and in 1549, beheaded him. He married Eleanor, daughter of Sir Alexander Napier, of Merchinston, and left five sons.

(1st Lord M.) Sir ROBERT, the eldest, betook himself to the Court of France, where he was placed in an honourable station by King Henry II. and therein continued many years. Upon his return to Scotland, the great character he had acquired soon inclined Queen Mary to call him to her Privy-Council, who afterwards sent him Ambassador to London; as he was again, by King James VI. who also made him Vice-chancellor of Scotland, Treasurer Depute, and one of the Lords of Session; and at last, to reward his services and merit, created him Lord Melvil. (2d Earl of L.) ALEXANDER, her brother, marrying Margaret, sister to Charles Howard, Earl of Carlisle, by her had two daughters; but dying without male issue, his estate and honour devolved upon

MARGARET, his eldest daughter; and she dying in 1674, the honour descended to her sister

CATHERINE, which lady dying unmarried, the estate and title, by intail, came to

(3d Earl of L. 2d Earl of M.) DAVID MELVIL, Esq. her cousin-german, second son to George, Earl of Melvil, before-noted; and the said David, thus in his mother's right, became Earl of Leven, and succeeded his father as Earl of Melvil. In the reign of King William, he was made Governor of Edinburgh Castle, and one of his Majesty's Privy Council; and was continued in his former posts by Queen Anne, who made him Master of the Ordnance. THE Right Honourable JOHN DALRYMPLE, Earl, Viscount, and Baron of STAIR, and Baron Dalrymple, of Newliston and Stranrawer, succeeded as Earl of Stair, upon the death of the late Earl of Dumfries and Stair, July 27, 1768. In the reign of Robert III. James Dalrymple was Clericus Regis, and John Dalrymple was sent Ambassador by James II. to the Duke of Burgundy. But the first of this name, who was Lord of the Barony of Stair, was William Dalrymple, who married Agnes, a daughter of the family of Kennedy, and heiress of the said Barony, and had a son William, who married Marian, daughter of Sir John Chalmers, of Gadgirth, and had a son William, who died before

In the reign of King Charles II. he was appointed one of the Judges of the Court of Session, and created a Baronet; and being very instrumental in the Revolution, was by King William III. made Secretary of State, and created Baron and Viscount Stair. He married Margaret, eldest daughter of James Ross, of Balneel, with whom he had a good fortune in lands, and thereupon quartered her arms with his own; he left five sons, John, James, Hugh, Thomas, and David, and four daughters; whereof Elizabeth was married to Allan, Lord Cathcart; and Sarah to Charles, Lord Crichton, heir apparent to William, the second Earl of Dumfries.

(1st Earl.) JOHN, the eldest son succeeded his father, and in 1690, was made Lord Justice Clerk, afterwards Lord Advocate and Secretary of State; and succeeding his father as Viscount Stair, in 1695, he was, in 1703, created an Earl by Queen Anne, and sworn a Privy Counsellor. He was one of the Commissioners in the Treaty of Union, for the success of which he was so zealous and active, that his great application had impaired his health: And in the Scots Parliament Jan. 7, 1706, during the long debate on the twenty-second article, he exerted himself with so much vigour and elocution, that as he died the next day, it was believed a great waste of spirits was the cause of his death. He married Elizabeth, daughter and heir to Sir John Dundas, of Newliston, in the county of Lithgow, and left three sons; and one daughter, Margaret, married to Hugh Campbell, the third Earl of Loudon. The sons were John—William—and George. William married Penelope Crichton, Countess of Dumfries in her own right, as appears under that title, and died in December, 1744: He had a daughter Margaret, married to the third Earl of Loudon; and three sons, William, Lord Crichton, who died in October 1744.—John, Earl of Dumfries.—James, Earl of Stair. In 1702, he was appointed Lieutenant-Colonel in the Foot Guards; and serving as a volunteer in Flanders, under the Duke of Marlborough, he there signalized himself in the actions of greatest hazard and consequence, particularly at the taking of Venlo and Liege, in 1702. He was likewise employed by the General as his Aid de Camp, and made Commander of the Royal Scots Dragoons, and commanded a brigade of foot at the battle of Ramellies; after which, in June, 1706, he was made Brigadier, and in that post served at the battle of Oudenard, in 1708. At the battle of Tanier and taking of Mons, in 1709, he commanded as Major-General, and at the taking of Doway, in 1710, as Lieutenant-General. In the last of Queen Anne's reign he detesting the schemes and alterations at Court, was obliged to sell his regiment to the Earl of Portmore; but on the accession of King George I. he was appointed one of his Majesty's Privy Council and Bedchamber, restored to his regiment, and sent Ambassador Extraordinary to the Court of Paris. During the dissentions at Court in 1733, he resigned his places and retired to Scotland. In 1741, his Lordship being reinstated, was appointed a Field Marshal of the Forces, and sent Ambassador to the States-General; after which he had the government of Minorca, and was Commander in Chief of the Allied army in 1743, till his Majesty took the command at the battle of Dettingen, and died at Edinburgh in May, 1747. He married Eleanor, the widow of James, Viscount Primrose, and daughter of James Campbell, the second Earl of Loudon, but, by her, who died in December, 1739, had no issue. His Lordship assigned his title, which he thought he had a right to do by the patent, to John, son of his brother George; but the same being contested in the House of Peers, their Lordships determined it in favour of

THE Right Honourable GEORGE BOYLE, Earl of GLASGOW, Viscount Kelburn, and Lord Boyle, of Stewarton, born March 26, 1756, succeeded his father, the late Earl, March 12, 1775.

That this family has been of great antiquity in Airshire, and there possessed of a fair inheritance, undeniably appears from several old deeds still preserved among them.

In the reign of Alexander III. B A R O N S.

SOMERVILLE, LORD SOMERVILLE.

THE Right Honourable JAMES SOMERVILLE, Lord SOMERVILLE, succeeded his father in 1766.

The first of this name on record is Sir Walter de Somerville, Lord of Wichnore, in the county of Stafford, who came into England with William the Conqueror; his son William de Somerville, was a frequent witness to the grants of King David I. to religious houses.

About the beginning of King William, in 1170, the Somervilles were possessed of a good estate in the county of Lanerk and elsewhere; and at the marriage of Alexander II. who began his reign in 1214, William de Somerville was one of the Barons appointed by that King to exercise in a tournament at the Castle of Roxburgh.

In 1306, Sir John Somerville, marrying a daughter of Douglas, of Loudon-hill, in Coningham, with her had the lands of Carnwath, and therein was succeeded by Walter their son, who married Giles, daughter of Sir John Herrings, of Edmonston, with whom he had the lands of Gilmerton and Drum, lying between Dalkeith and Edinburgh.

To the said Sir Walter succeeded his son Sir John, who married Margaret, daughter of Sir John Edmonston, of that ilk, with whom he had the lands of Camfnethan, near Lanerk; and by her had Sir Thomas his heir; and a daughter Elizabeth, married to Archibald, son of Duncan, Lord Campbell, and was mother of Colin, created Earl of Argyl; Sir Thomas was one of the hostages for the ransom of King James I. from his captivity in England. He married Mary Sinclair, sister to the Earl of Orkney, and had a son,

(1st Lord.) WILLIAM, who was created a Baron by King James II. He married Janet, the eldest daughter of William Douglas, fourth Baron of Drumlanrig, from whom descended

WILLIAM, Lord Somerville, who married Margery Montgomery, daughter of Hugh Eglington, and

HUGH, Lord Somerville, who married Jane, daughter of William Maitland, and from him descended (7th Lord.) HUGH, the seventh Lord Somerville, who marrying Eleanor, daughter of George, the fifth Lord Seton, by her had Gilbert, his heir; Hugh Somerville, of Drum; and a daughter Elizabeth, married to John Carmichael.

(8th Lord.) GILBERT, the eighth Lord, having by excess of living wasted his estate, and leaving no issue, the honour, in 1618, descended to his brother,

(9th Lord.) HUGH, then Page of the Bedchamber to King James IV. who had nothing to support the dignity: Wherefore the title from thence lay dormant till the year 1722, when at the election of the sixteen Peers

JAMES SOMERVILLE, of Drum, the twenty-fifth in a lineal male descent from the said Sir Walter, who came into England with King William I. putting in his claim, his vote and claim were allowed by the Court of Session. He married first the widow of Henry Rolt, of Spypark, in Wiltshire, Esq. and by her, who died in May, 1735, had issue; James, the present Lord.—Hugh, married to Miss Elizabeth Lithbridge, of Lydeard, in Somersetsshire, who died in 1776; and he married secondly, April 21, 1778, Miss Mary Digby.—Anne-Wichnour, married to George Burges, Esq. He married, secondly, in 1736, Frances, daughter of John Rotheram, Esq. by whom he had one daughter, who died six years old.

THE Right Honourable JAMES FORBES, Lord FORBES, succeeded his father in 1761. He married Catharine, only daughter of Sir Robert Innes, Bart. by whom he has issue; Margery, now unmarried.—Mary-Elizabeth, now unmarried.—James Ochonchar, now an officer in the Coldstream, or 2d Regiment of Foot Guards.—Robert-Alaster-Cam, a Lieutenant in the Royal Navy.—Andrew-Francis, now educating at Glasgow for the church.—William, now in the Navy. His Lordship married secondly, June 1779, Selina Rawdon, the youngest daughter of the Earl of Moira.

The antiquity of this numerous family, is sufficiently attested by a grant from King Alexander II. about 1230, to Fergus, the son of John, of the lands and tenements of Forbes, in the county of Aberdeen; and from thence is derived the surname, according to the mode of those days as it was in South Britain.

The first of this name on record was Alexander Forbes, who, in 1303, resolutely defended his castle of Urquart, near Elgin, against King Edward I. which being taken by storm, he, and the whole garrison were put to the sword; and by that fatal stroke his family had been extinct, if his wife had not preserved it by Alexander, a posthumous son; which Alexander, in compensation of what his father had lost in the service of his country, had a grant from King Robert I. of divers lands; but he inheriting the principles of his father, and adhering to King David Bruce, against Edward Baliol, was slain at the great battle of Dupplin, 1332.

In the reign of Robert II. Sir John Forbes, of that Ilk, the son of the aforesaid Alexander, acquiring from Thomas, Earl of Mar, several lands in the county of Aberdeen, was therein confirmed by the charter of that King; and in the fifth of Robert III. was constituted Justice and Coroner of that county. He married Elizabeth Kennedy, a daughter of the family of Dunure, and had three sons, all knighted; and of those Sir John the youngest, was founder of the family of Tolquhon, from whom descended those of Culloden, Waterton, and Foveran: Sir William the second was ancestor to the Lord Pitligo: Sir Alexander the eldest, was heir to his father, and married Elizabeth, a daughter of the family of Douglas. He obtained a grant from John, Earl of Buchan, to himself, and the said Elizabeth his wife, of the lands of Milkie, Fintry, Blackton, and Balcrofs; he had issue a son Sir James, and a daughter Annabel, married to Sir Patrick Gray, of Foulis, near Dundee, ancestor to the Lord Gray.

(1st Lord.) Sir JAMES, who succeeded, was knighted by King James II. in whose reign he was also created Lord Forbes; and by Edigia, his wife, daughter of William Keith, the first Earl Marshal, had two sons, William his heir; and Patrick, from whom descended Sir Arthur Forbes, Knt. and Bart. father of Arthur, the first Earl of Granard, in Ireland.

(2d Lord.) WILLIAM, who succeeded, marrying Christian, daughter of Alexander Gordon, the first Earl of Huntley, had three sons,

(3d Lord.) ALEXANDER, the eldest, succeeded his father, and dying without issue, was succeeded by

(4th Lord.) ARTHUR, his brother, who also dying without issue, the honour descended to his youngest brother, (5th Lord.) JOHN, who married Christian, daughter of Sir John Lundy, of that Ilk, and had a son William, and three daughters.

(6th Lord.) WILLIAM, succeeded, who marrying a daughter and coheir to Sir William Keith, of Inverugy, by her had eight daughters, (of whom Jane married James, the sixth Lord Ogilvy) and six sons, from the youngest of whom the family of Forbes, of Blackton, is descended.

(7th Lord.) JOHN, the eldest son succeeding, married Jane, daughter of James Seton, of Touch, by whom he had (8th Lord.) ARTHUR, his heir, who married first Jane, daughter of Alexander, Lord Elphinston, and by her had a son William, who succeeded him; and a daughter Barbara, who was married to George Mackenzie, the second Earl of Seaforth. He married secondly, Margaret Gordon, daughter of George, the fourth Earl of Huntley.

(9th Lord.) WILLIAM, who succeeded, served under the Great Gustavus Adolphus, King of Sweden, against the Imperialists, where he attained the degree of a Lieutenant General; and at the beginning of the civil war in Great Britain, returning to his native country, was one of the commanders in the army sent from Scotland into Ireland to suppress the Irish rebellion, in 1643. He married Anne, daughter of Sir John Forbes, of Pittligo, and had (10th Lord.) WILLIAM, his heir, who married Jane, daughter of John Campbell, of Calder, by whom he had three sons, William, Arthur, and Archibald, and two daughters; of whom Mary was married to William Sutherland, son of James, the second Lord Duffus.

(11th Lord.) WILLIAM, the eldest son succeeded his father, and was made one of the Privy Council by King William III. and Colonel of a regiment of dragoons. In the beginning of Queen Anne's reign, he was Lieutenant Colonel of the horse guards in Scotland, commanded by Archibald, Duke of Argyl, and continued a Privy Counsellor. He married two wives, Margaret, daughter of Alexander, Earl of Kellie; and Anne, daughter of James Brody, of that Ilk, and had had two sons, William and James; and one daughter; and dying in 1716, was succeeded by

(12th Lord.) WILLIAM, his eldest son, who married Miss Dorothy Dale, daughter of William Dale, Esq. by whom he had two daughters, and one son

(13th Lord.) WILLIAM, who succeeded him; but dying a minor in 1734, was succeeded by his uncle

(14th Lord.) JAMES, who married Mary, sister to Alexander Forbes, Lord Pitfligo, by whom he had a daughter Sophia, married to Cumming, of Kininmount, Esq. two other daughters, and two sons; he was succeeded by

(15th Lord.) JAMES, who married Mrs. Mary Forbes, sister of Alexander, Lord Pitfligo, and widow of John Forbes, Esq. by whom he had issue, James, the present Lord.—Sophia, married to Charles Cummin.—Mary, married to James Gordon, Esq.—Anne, married to Thomas Erskine, Esq. His Lordship married, secondly, Elizabeth, daughter of Sir James Gordon, (which Lady died Nov. 5, 1777) by whom he had no issue; and dying in 1763, was succeeded by his son,

THE Right Honourable ALEXANDER FRASER, Lord SALTOUN, and Abernethy, succeeded his father George, July 18, 1781, was born 1758, and is now on his travels abroad.

About

About the year 807, in the reign of Achaius, King of Scotland, Pierre Frafer, Seigneur de Troile, was sent Ambassador to Scotland from Charlemain, King of France, and married Euphemia, only daughter of Raham, King Achaius's great favourite; and their children the Frafers were settled in Tweeddale, or county of Peebles.

In the reign of Malcomb III. called Canmore, Alexander Frafer was donator to the abbey of Kelso, as was also Simon, in the reign of Malcomb IV. called the Maiden, about the year 1157.

But since the year 1214, in the reign of Alexander II. there is a distinct account of the Frafer family, that is, of the predecessors of the Lord Saltoun, who, when Lairds of Philorth, in Buchan, became heirs to the Thanes of Cowie, their ancestors in Kincardineshire. For, about this time, John Frafer, who was called Sheriff of Tweeddale, and Laird of Oliver-castle in that county, had a son, Alexander, called Thane, or Steward of Cowie, who, in the year 1247, by marrying Elizabeth Cumming, daughter of Sir Walter Cumming, with her acquired lands in the counties of Kincardin and Aberdeen. He had three sons, the famous Sir Simon Frafer.—William.—Gilbert: among whom he divided his lands. Sir Simon Frafer was born in the year 1256, in the reign of Alexander III. and was taken and carried prisoner into England by King Edward I. but in the year 1297, being set at liberty, and returning into Scotland, he joined Sir William Wallace. In the year 1302, he was a Commander in the Scots army; with his cousin Sir John Cumming, and the said Wallace, when they gained a notable victory at Roslin, near Edinburgh, over the English commanded by John Segrave. This Sir John Cumming made peace with King Edward, which Sir Simon neglecting to do, was banished for three years, not only Britain and Ireland, but also France, till the time of King Robert Bruce, when he returned home; And at the battle of Methuen, 1306, though he thrice saved that King's life, yet he could not save himself; but being taken prisoner, was carried to London, and there put to death, leaving only two daughters; Mary, who, about the year 1340, married to Sir Gilbert Hay; the other to Sir Patrick, second son of Sir Robert Fleming, ancestor of the Earl of Wigton.—William Frafer, the second son, never married, being Archbishop of St. Andrews; and in the reign of Alexander III. was Chancellor of Scotland, upon whose death, in 1285, he was Governor of Scotland.—Gilbert, the third son, had no more estate than his lands in Stirlingshire, where he was Sheriff, and some lands near Kincardin. He had two sons, John and Andrew: John, the eldest, had no male issue, but left a daughter Honora, who was married to Robert Keith, ancestor to the Earls Marshal, from which marriage came only a daughter, who was married to Alexander, the first Earl of Huntley, who got thereby the mother's estate; whence it comes, that the Duke of Gordon's family bears the arms of Frazer. This John Frazer was also called John of Tweeddale, after the manner of his predecessor.
he

ANDREW, his brother, married Eleanor, daughter of Sir Hugh Douglas, by Margery his wife, daughter of William Abernethy, Lord Saltoun, and had by her

ALEXANDER FRASER, Thane of Cowie, who was made Lord Chamberlain of Scotland during life. When a youth, he was, with his uncle, Sir Simon Frazer, at the aforesaid battle of Methuen; and still adhering to the interest of King Robert Bruce, was honoured with the marriage of Lady Margery Bruce, the King's sister, widow of Sir Niel Campbell, of Lochow, ancestor to the Duke of Argyl, and by her had two sons, Alexander, his successor; and Andrew, of Touch, whose son, Sir Simon, marrying the daughter and heiress of Sir John Bisset, got their estate, and laid the foundation of the family of Lovat.

ALEXANDER, who succeeded, behaved with great bravery at the siege of Perth, 1332, and had great share in the troubles of David II. and of those about the Baliols; for which services he got charters granted him for his lands of Cowie, Durres, and others, but was slain at the first battle of Halidonhill, 1333. There are now extant some of his letters, complaining, That the Lords Abernethy of Saltoun, had done so much in the interest of King Edward I. of England. In 1313, he married Elizabeth Hamilton, daughter of Sir William de Hambleden, or Hamilton, Laird of Kedzow, predecessor to the Duke of Hamilton, and by her had two sons, Alexander his heir; and Andrew, father of the first Laird of Durres.

ALEXANDER, the fourth of that name, Thane of Cowie, was a faithful servant to King Robert II. and obtained valuable charters from him, which argue the lawful birth of King Robert III. whose bastard brother, named John, is also inserted with him as a witness. He married Jean Ross, one of the coheirs to William, Earl of Ross, and had with her the lands of Philorth, Faithly, Pitligo, Aberdour, and others. Walter Lesley, ancestor to the Earl of Rothes, having married her sister, got the other lands of that estate. Alexander took took into his coat armorial the lion, argent, of the said Earl of Ross, which is now quartered by the Lord Saltoun; and by the said Jean Ross, had Sir William Fraser, his heir, who married Mary Douglas, daughter of Archibald, the third Earl of Douglas, and sister to Margery, the wife of David, Prince of Scotland, elder brother to King James I. This Sir William had two sons, Sir Alexander, his heir; and John, to whom he gave the lands of Meamzie; and a daughter Margaret, with whom he gave the lands of Pitfligo, in marriage to Sir William Forbes, ancestor of the Lord Pitfligo. Sir Alexander Fraser, Laird of Philorth, who was served heir at Kincardin to his grandfather, Alexander Fraser, Thane of Cowie, and first Laird of Philorth. The service and retour of date, 13 September, 1461, is still extant: where, among several others, the Frasers, Laird of Lovat, and Laird of Durres, are two persons upon the inquest, which testifies and declares Fraser, of Philorth, to be the heir of his grandfather, the Thane of Cowie. Sir Alexander Fraser, son of the former, married Margery, daughter of Sir Gilbert Menzies, predecessor to the Lairds of Pitfoddles; and his son

Sir ALEXANDER, married Margaret Hay, daughter of William, the first Earl of Errol; and being slain with King James III. at the battle of Bannockburn, 1488, was succeeded by his son,

Sir WILLIAM FRASER, who married Elizabeth Keith, daughter of Sir Robert Keith, of Invergule, in Buchan, by whom he had

Sir ALEXANDER, who succeeded him, and was sent Ambassador into France, by King James V. and about the year 1540, died there. He married Catharine Barclay, daughter of the Laird of Gartley, by whom he had Alexander his heir, and a daughter Jane, married to Alexander Ogilvy.

ALEXANDER FRASER, of Philorth, married Alison Keith, daughter of William, the third Earl Marshal, and was succeeded by his son,

Sir ALEXANDER FRASER, of Philorth and Frasersburgh, who went twice Ambassador from King James VI. to the Court of Denmark, and conveyed him into England on his accession to that Crown: After which he obtained from that King a charter of regality, and freedom to build a castle at his town of Frasersburgh, which town, harbour, and castle, he erected at his own charge. He was twice married, first to Magdalen Ogilvy, daughter of Sir Walter Ogilvy, of Dunlugas, predecessor to the Lord Bamff; and secondly to Helen Gordon, daughter daughter of the Laird of Lochinvar, ancestor to the Viscount Kinmure, and had a numerous offspring by both.

ALEXANDER, the eldest son, succeeded his father, and married Margaret Abernethy, daughter of John, Lord Saltoun, who proved the heirs of that family.

(1st Lord.) SIR ALEXANDER FRASER, of Philorth, in right of his mother, became heir to his grandfather, the Lord Saltoun, and accordingly had the honours and dignities of Lord Saltoun and Abernethy granted to him and his heirs by King Charles I. and ratified by the parliament. He married first, Mrs. Forbes, daughter of William Forbes, of Tolquhon, by whom he had no male issue; and secondly, Elizabeth Seton, daughter of Seton, Laird of Meldrum, by whom he had

ALEXANDER FRASER, Master of Saltoun, who died before his father, in 1683. He married three wives, first, Anne Kerr, eldest daughter of William, the third Earl of Lothian, by whom he had William, Lord Saltoun; secondly, Mary Coningham, daughter of William, the eighth Earl of Glencairn, widow of James, the first Earl of Findlater; and lastly, Sophia Erskine, daughter of Alexander, the third Earl of Kellie.

(2d Lord.) WILLIAM, who succeeded his grandfather as Lord Saltoun, married Margaret, daughter of Dr. Sharp, Archbishop of St. Andrew, by whom he had; Alexander, Lord Saltoun.—William Fraser, of Frazerfield, married to Catharine Erskine, daughter of the Earl of Buchan, and by her, who died in 1732, had issue.—James Fraser, of Lonmay, married to Eleanor Lindsay, daughter of Colin, the third Earl of Balcarras, and left one son.—A daughter married to Sir James Gordon, of Park.—Another to William Dalma-hoy, of Cairnby, Esq.

(3d Lord.) ALEXANDER, Lord Saltoun, married Mary Gordon, daughter of George, Earl of Aberdeen, sometime Chancellor of Scotland; and by her, who died in February, 1753, had Alexander, his successor.—William, who died without issue.—George, the late Lord.—Anne.—Sophia.

(4th Lord.) ALEXANDER, succeeded his father, and died 1751, without issue, whereupon his next surviving brother succeeded.

THE Right Honourable FRANCIS NAPIER, Lord NAPIER, of Merchiston, succeeded his father William, Jan. 2, 1775.

This family is said to be descended from the antient Thanes or Stewards of Lenox; but took the surname of Napier from the following event:

King David II. in his wars with the English, about the year 1344, convocating his subjects to battle, the Earl of Lenox sent his second son Donald with such forces as his duty obliged him, and coming to an engagement, where the Scots gave ground, this Donald taking his father's standard from the bearer, and valiantly charging the enemy with the Lenox men, the fortune of the battle changed, and they obtained the victory: Whereupon every one advancing and reporting their acts, as the custom was, the King declared they had all done valiantly; but that there was one among them who had næ Pier, no Equal; upon which the said Donald took the name of Napier, and had in reward for his good service, the lands of Gosfield, and other estates in the county of Fife.

Sir ALEXANDER NAPIER, of Merchiston, was made Comptroller of Scotland, by King James II. and Vice Admiral by King James III. and marrying Elizabeth, a daughter of Lauder, of Hatton, by her had

JOHN, his heir, who was Provost of Edinburgh; and made a noble and beneficial alliance by his marriage with Margaret Menteith, who was heir to the line of Menteith, Earls of Lenox, by whom he had two sons, Archibald, and John.

ARCHIBALD, who succeeded, marrying Elizabeth, a daughter of Douglas, of Moreton, by her had a son,

Sir ALEXANDER, who, in September, 1513, lost his life at the battle of Flodden with King James IV. He married Jane, daughter of Edmund Chisholm, of Cromlis, and by her had a son Alexander; and a daughter Eleanor, married to John Lesley, ancestor of the Earl of Leven.

ALEXANDER, who succeeded, married Margaret, daughter of Sir Duncan Campbell, of Glenorchy, and left two sons, Sir Archibald his heir; and Alexander, whose son Sir Robert Napier, of Luton-Hoo, in the county of Bedford, Knight, was created a Baronet in 1611, ancestor of the present Sir John Napier, Baronet.

Sir ARCHIBALD, who succeeded, was knighted by King James VI. and made Master of the Mint; and marrying to his

his first wife Jane, daughter of Francis Bothwell, one of the Judges of Session, had a son John; and, by his second, who was Elizabeth, a daughter of the family of Mowbray, he had a son Alexander; and two daughters; whereof Margaret was married to James Ogilvy.

JOHN, by the first wife, arrived to very great knowledge in several useful branches of literature; and his great abilities in mathematical learning, rendered him eminent, especially his Logarithmick tables, and his numerical rods, called Napier's Bones, which will ever be esteemed as the masterly product of a great genius. He died in 1622, in the 67th year of his age; marrying to his first wife Margaret, daughter of Sir James Stirling, of Keir, by her had Archibald, his heir; and by his second, who was Agnes, daughter of Sir James Chisholm, of Cromlis, he had five sons, and several daughters.

Sir PATRICK MACLELLAN, of Bomby, nephew to the Lord Grey, by his mother, happening to take part with his near kinsman Lord Herris, against the Earl of Douglas, he was besieged in his own castle of Raeberry, by that Earl, and put to death: Whereupon his relations, without authority, making great depredations on the Douglas lands in Galloway, their office of Sheriff, and Barony of Bomby, were forfeited to the Crown; and the said office, which was erected in the Sheriffry of Wigton and Kirkcudbright, was given to other families; but as tradition goes, the Barony was recovered in the following manner:

In the reign of the said King James II. a company of gypsies coming from Ireland, and infesting the county of Galloway, that King issued a proclamation, that whoever would disperse them, and bring their Captain dead or alive, should have the Barony of Bomby for his reward; and in this attempt the Laird of Bomby's son, being the fortunate person that slew him, brought his head to the King on the point of his sword; from whence, to perpetuate the memory of that brave action, he took the same figure for his crest, with the motto, Think on. KEITH, EARL MARSHAL.

THE Right Honourable GEORGE KEITH, Earl MARSHAL, Lord Keith, Lord Marshal of Scotland, and heritable Sheriff of the county of Kincardin, succeeded his father William, in 1712; but joining in the rebellion, in 1715, with the Earl of Mar, his estate and honours were forfeited by an act of attainder, in 1716, with the Earls of Mar, Southesk, Linlithgow, Panmure, and Seaforth. He died at Neufchatel, June 17, 1778, and the title became extinct in this branch, but was claimed September 8, 1782, by George Keith, Esq. of Northfield, a descendant of Sir Robert Keith, which claim was examined before a respectable Jury of noblemen and gentlemen, of which the Earl of Buchan was Chancellor, to examine the validity of his claim to the title, dignity, and honour of Earl Marshal of Scotland; when the Jury unanimously found, that the claimant, George Keith, is lineally descended as heir male of the body of Sir Robert de Keith, Great Marischal of Scotland, in the reign of King James II. which Robert left several sons, William, the first Earl Marshal, and John de Keith, of Troup, ancestor to the claimant, immediate substitute in the honours, failing issue of the said William, by which Mr. Keith claims as remainder man, and heir of tailzie, conformable to a charter granted to his predecessor, in the reign of King Robert Bruce. Such a connected chain of evidence, from 1413, is without a parallel even in the annals of the Scotch nobility, much more in those of this country.

According to history, this family derives its origin from one Robert, a chieftan among the Catti, from which it is said came the surname of Keith; and he and his followers having joined Malcolm II. King of Scotland, at the battle of Pan-bridge, in 1006, were very instrumental in gaining a great victory over the Danes, where Camus, their General, was killed by the hands of this Robert, which King Malcolm perceiving, dipped his finger in Camus's blood, and drew long red strokes or pales on the top of Robert's shield, which have ever since been the armorial figures of his descendants. In

In the year 1010, he was advanced by the said King to the heritable dignity of Marshal of Scotland; and afterwards, for his services, rewarded with a Barony in Lothian, which was called Keith Marshal, after his own name; likewise the isle of Insketh, in the gulph of Edinburgh, which was then bestowed on him also. The successors of this Robert continued to be among the most eminent men in Scotland. Robert Keith, in 1292, had a charter from John Baliol, of his lands of Keith, &c. and by King Robert Bruce, in 1325, was sent Ambassador to France, but was slain at the battle of Dupplin, in the defence of his country; and his son Robert, who succeeded him, was, for his wisdom and valour, knighted by King David II. His son, Sir Edward, was slain at the battle of Durham, when King David II. was taken prisoner, in 1346, leaving a son, Sir William, who, in 1369, was one of the Commissioners who concluded a peace between England and Scotland. He was ancestor of another Sir William Keith, who was one of the hostages for the ransom of King James I. when he was a captive in England; and his son, Sir William, being a favourite of King James II. was, in 1455, created Earl Marshal, or Marishal of Keith, in the county of Haddington.

George, the fourth Earl Marshal, was one of the Privy Council to King James VI. by whom he was sent Ambassador to the Court of Denmark, where, at his own expence, he espoused the Princess Anne, a daughter of that crown, in the name of his Majesty; and, in the year 1593, founded the Marshal College, in the city of Aberdeen; and in 1609, was High Commissioner to the Parliament.

William, the sixth Earl, in the time of the civil war, levied, at his own charge, a troop of horse for the King's service; but being taken prisoner, and sent to the Tower of London, remained there ten years; and, then being released, was made one of the Privy Council to King Charles II. and Lord Privy Seal.

William, the eighth Earl Marshal, succeeded his father, George, in 1694. He married Mary, daughter of James Drummond, Earl (called Duke) of Perth, by whom he had two sons, and two daughters, viz. George, the late Earl, Governor of Neufchattel.—James, followed his brother's fortune; and after their disappointment in Scotland, engaged in the service of Peter the Great, Emperor of Russia, who gave him the rank of Brigadier-General: afterwards he entered into the service of Frederick III. King of Prussia, who raised him to the rank of Field-Marshal; but, after many signal services, he was unfortunately killed, Oct. 14, 1758, when the right right wing of the Prussian army, where he commanded, was surprized, at Hochkirchen, by the Austrians, under Marshal Daun, who, after the action, buried General Keith with great military honours: but the King of Prussia, who cannot sufficiently regret the loss of so great a commander, had his corpse taken up, and sent to Berlin, where a superb monument is erected to his memory.—Mary, married to John Fleming, Earl of Wigton.—Anne, married to Alexander, Earl of Galloway.

The annual rent of this estate was 16761.

E R S K I N E, E A R L O F M A R.

THE Right Honourable JOHN ERSKINE, Earl of MAR, and Lord Erskine, of Alloa, was by Queen Anne made Secretary of State, in 1713; but being joined by several noblemen and gentlemen with their followers, to the number of 600, and setting up his standard, and proclaiming the Pretender, a battle was fought at Sheriff-moor, near Dumblain, Nov. 13, 1715, between John, Duke of Argyl, commanding the royal troops, and the Earl of Mar, who commanded the rebel troops, and both armies withdrew, leaving the victory undetermined; the one to Stirling, the other to Perth, where they passed the winter; but some discord arising in the Earl's army, and their friends in England being defeated the same day at Preston in Lancashire, he was forced to take refuge in France, with the Pretender, and who had come over and joined him some time after the battle. From thence he went to Italy, where he continued till he was taken prisoner at Geneva. After he was set at liberty, he stayed some time at Paris, but he retired to Aix la Chapelle, where he died.

This Lord was twice married, first to Margaret, daughter of Thomas, Earl of Kinnoul, by whom he had Thomas, Lord Erskine, who is now in possession of his father's estate, which was purchased from the government by James Erskine, of Grange, and David Erskine, of Dun: he married Charlotte, daughter of Charles, Earl of Hopetoun. The Earl's second
Lady

Lady was, Frances Pierepoint, sister to Evelyn, Duke of Kingston, by whom he had Frances, married to the said James Erskine, of Grange, Esq. who died Jan. 20, 1754. She died June 21, 1776.

The forfeited estate was valued at 1678 l. a year.

Although it is not much above 300 years since the Erskines, who took their name from the castle of Erskine, in the county of Renfrew, had any title to the Earldom of Mar, yet this noble family in itself, has been sufficiently eminent, if we consider the many stations and preferments they have been honoured with for four centuries. In the reign of Alexander II. 1226, lived Henry de Erskine, who was witness to a gift which Amelick, brother to Maldwin, Earl of Lenox, made to the canons of Paisley; and to him succeeded Sir John Erskine, the father of another Sir John, whose son William succeeded in the Barony of Erskine, and was father of a third John, and he again of William, who lived in the time of Robert Bruce, and was a faithful adherer to the interest of that Prince. In the year 1322, he was knighted. His son and successor Robert, was very stedfast and loyal to King David II. for, in the year 1346, when his Majesty was taken prisoner at the battle of Durham, the Lord Erskine, (as he is called in the record) was one of the Commissioners employed in that honourable negotiation of the King's redemption, and gave his eldest son as one of the hostages for the performance of the treaty. After his Majesty's return, he was made Justice-General of the North; Lord Chamberlain to the King; Ambassador to France; Sheriff of the county of Stirling, and Governor of that castle, and the castles of Edinburgh and Dumbarton; and, at the King's death, he declared for Robert II. and contributed much to the bringing him peaceably to the throne.

Sir Thomas, who succeeded him, married Jane, daughter to Sir Edward Keith, of Sinton, by Christian his wife, daughter and heir to Sir John Menteith, and Helen his wife, daughter to Grantney, Earl of Mar, and by her had Robert, the next Lord Erskine, who, in 1436, upon the death of Alexander, Earl of Mar, laid claim to half of that Earldom, and assumed the title on account of the aforesaid marriage; but the Crown interfering, it was not ended in his days: However, his son Thomas, who succeeded, prosecuting his father's claim to the Earldom of Mar, had a decree of the committee of estates in his favour, and was Earl of Mar.

John, the fourth Earl of Mar, had the care and tuition of the young King James V. in the castle of Stirling, of which he was a Governor. In the year 1534, when the King came of age, he was sent ambassador to France, to propose a match between his Majesty and the Princess Magdalen, a daughter of Francis I. which having performed, he was sent in the same quality to Henry VIII. of England; and, in 1537, was one of those Peers who attended his master into France, where he espoused the said Magdalen. In 1542, upon the death of the King, he had the keeping of the young Queen Mary, who was also committed to his care in Stirling-castle; and that great trust his Lordship discharged with the same fidelity he had done her father's minority; for in 1548, notwithstanding the endeavours of King Henry VIII. of England, and the party that was for him in Scotland, to get her out of his hands, he carried her safe to France.
he

John, who succeeded him in 1553, was a person of noble and generous qualities, as well as his father; and though he was then very young, the Queen Regent appointed him Governor of Edinburgh castle, and one of her Majesty's Privy Council; and when Queen Mary was happily delivered of the young Prince, afterwards King James VI. she committed him to the guardianship of the Earl of Mar, in the castle of Edinburgh, which trust he discharged so well, that when the Earl of Bothwell had married the Queen, they could not prevail with the Lord Mar to deliver up the young Prince to them, till he had solemnly set the crown upon his Majesty's head. Having been elected Regent for Scotland in 1571, during the minority of the said King James VI. he, in the time of his sickness, when his son was a minor, appointed the Laird of Tullibairden and his own brother Alexander Erskine, to be Governors of his Majesty, and Keepers of Stirling-castle.

John, the sixth Earl of Mar, was also in great favour with King James VI. who committed to his care the tuition of his young son, Prince Henry; and, by a letter under his own hand, charged his Lordship, in case his Majesty's demise, not to deliver the Prince either to the Queen or estates, till he was come of age. In 1601, his Lordship was sent Ambassador to Queen Elizabeth, where, in his negotiations, he deported himself with such prudence and conduct, that his Majesty gratefully owned his peaceable accession to the Crown of England was, next to the goodness of God, to be ascribed to the Earl of Mar; and thereupon made him a Knight of the most noble Order of the Garter, one of his Privy Council in England, and Lord Treasurer in Scotland.

THE Right Honourable WILLIAM MAXWELL, Earl of NITHSDALE, and Lord Maxwell and Herris, in Jan. 1716, being brought prisoner from Preston to London, for the rebellion against King George I. was tried, and condemned to be beheaded on February 24, following, with the Lords Derwentwater, and Kenmure; but the night before execution, he made his escape out of the Tower; and, in the year 1744, died in his exile at Rome. He married Winifred, youngest daughter of William Herbert, Marquis of Powis; and by her left William, (who died August 15, 1776) Lord Maxwell, who married his cousin-german, Catharine Stewart, daughter of Charles, Earl of Traquair, by whom he had two daughters, Mary, who died young; and Winifred, married to William Constable, Esq. — Anne, married to John, Lord Bellew, of the kingdom of Ireland.

The rental of this estate, as reported by the Commissioners, was 809 l. a year.

The first on record, who used this surname was Herbert de Maefwell, in the time of Malcolm IV. 1160, to whom succeeded John de Maefwell, who was one of the Commissioners sent to England, to treat of a marriage between Alexander II. and a daughter of that crown, which having concluded, he was thereupon made Great Chamberlain of Scotland. From him descended Robert, who, in 1457, was dignified with the title of Lord Maxwell; and Robert the eighth Lord Maxwell, was, October 29, 1581, created Earl of Nithsdale. He suffered much by sequestration and imprisonment for his loyalty to King Charles I.

SETON, EARL OF WINTON.

THE Right Honourable GEORGE SETON, Earl of WINTON, and Lord Seton, of Tranent, in the county of Haddington, succeeded his father George, the fourth Earl of Winton, in 1703; but, being unhappily engaged in the rebellion, in 1715, was brought prisoner to London, from Preston, and committed to the Tower. In March following, being tried, he was found guilty of high treason, and received sentence of death; but, in August following, by some secret management, he made his escape, and ended his days at Rome, in 1749.

This estate, as discovered by the Commissioners, was 3393l.

This family of Seton, or Seaton, is one of the noblest in North Britain, from which many families of antiquity are descended. The name is derived from their ancient lands of Seaton, in East-Lothian; the first whereof was Dowgal Seaton, who lived in the reign of Malcolm III. 1060, and was succeeded by Secher his son, who also inherited the lands of Winton and Winsburgh, from whom descended Sir Christopher Seton, who in the time of Robert I. bravely stood up for the freedom of his country against English usurpation, and was one of those worthies, who at the battle of Methwin, near Perth, in 1306, rescued the King from the English party; whereupon, for that singular piece of service, the King gave him in marriage his sister the Lady Christian Bruce; but at last he had the ill fortune to be taken by the English, and carried to London; where with his brother, John Seton, and Nigel Bruce, the King's brother, he was put to death. His son, Sir Alexander, made a great figure during the reign of his uncle, King Robert, from whom he obtained fundry grants of lands, and a charter for erecting his lands of Seton into a free Barony.

The first Lord Seton was John, who was one of the hostages for the ransom of King James I. to whom he was afterwards Master of the Household. He attended the Princess Margaret, that King's daughter, into France, in order to her marriage with Louis the Dauphin, eldest son to Charles VII. King of France.

George, the sixth Lord Seton, being Governor of Edinburgh castle, during the Regency of Queen Mary of Lorraine, was, in 1557, commissioned by the estates in Scotland, to treat with the French King about the marriage of Queen
Mary

Mary with Francis, the Dauphin; and his son, Robert, the seventh Lord, being much esteemed by King James VI. his Majesty, on November 10, 1600, raised him to the honour of Earl of Winton. George, the second Earl was one of the Privy Council to Charles I. whom with his whole retinue, in the King's progress to Scotland, he entertained at his house of Seton, with great splendor and magnificence, and was very faithful to that Prince during the time of the civil wars.

LEVINGSTON, EARL OF LINLITHGOW.

THE Right Honourable JAMES LEVINGSTON, Earl of LINLITHGOW and Callender, and Lord Almond, while fourth Earl of Callender, succeeded his uncle George, the fourth Earl of Linlithgow, in 1695; and married Anne, daughter of John Hay, Earl of Errol, by whom he had a son of his name, who died in 1715; and a daughter Anne, married to the Earl of Kilmarnock. His Lordship joining the Earl of Mar, in the rebellion against King George I. was attainted of high treason, and his estate, which was given in by the Commissioners, at the yearly rent of 1296 l. was forfeited to the Crown.

The first of this name is said to be one of the gentlemen that accompanied Queen Margaret, wife of King Malcolm Canmore, from Hungary to Scotland; where, in the reign of David I. he got lands in West-Lothian, which he called Levingston,

Levingston, after his own name, and was succeeded therein by his son Thurstan, the father of Alexander, whose posterity enjoyed the Barony of Levingston above four hundred years, which was to the reign of James IV. that Bartholomew Levingston dying without issue, with him that family became extinct. Others, with more reason, suppose Levingston to be rather a modern Scots name, derived from Levin, which is the name of a town, lake, and river in Fifeshire, Perthshire, and Lenox.

In the reign of David II. Sir William Levingston, the immediate ancestor of this noble family, marrying Christian, daughter and heir of Patrick de Callender, Lord Callender, with her had that Barony, and afterwards obtained a royal grant of the lands of Kilsyth, lying west of Callender, then in the King's hands. In 1346, he was one of the Commanders at the battle of Durham, where he was taken prisoner with the King; but being released, he was commissioned to treat with the English about the redemption of his royal master, which being agreed to, he delivered Sir William, his son and heir, as one of the hostages for the payment of the King's ransom.

Sir Alexander Levingston was one of the hostages for the ransom of King James I. when he was relieved from his captivity in England; and upon the decease of his master, was made choice of by the three estates of Scotland to be Governor to the young King James II. till he was fourteen years of age. James his successor, was created Lord Levingston, and for his great prudence and ability, was made Captain of Stirling-castle, where he had the custody of the young King committed to him by his father, when he was the King's Governor; which great trust he faithfully discharged, and was afterwards appointed Master of the Household, one of the Privy Council, and High Chamberlain of Scotland.

Alexander, the seventh Lord Levingston, who succeeded; was much esteemed by James VI. who in recompence of his care in the education of his daughter, the Princess Elizabeth, afterwards Queen of Bohemia, created him Earl of Linlithgow, Nov. 15, 1600. He dying in 1622, left two sons, Alexander, who succeeded him; and James, who having acquired honours and riches in the wars abroad; was after his return, by Charles I. in 1633, created Lord Almond, and in 1641, Earl of Callender; which Earl dying without issue, left his estate to Alexander, his nephew, second son of his brother Alexander, Earl of Linlithgow.

DRUMMOND, EARL OF PERTH.

THE Right Honourable JAMES DRUMMOND, Earl of PERTH, and Lord Drummond, and hereditary Steward of Strathern and Menteith, succeeded his father in 1675, and was the fourth Earl of Perth. In 1678, he was, by King Charles II. made one of the Privy Council; in 1682, Justice-General; and, in 1684, Lord-Chancellor of Scotland; in which station he was continued by King James VII. till the Revolution in 1688; and then following that Prince into France, was, by him made a Duke and a Knight of the Garter; but was outlawed in Parliament, and died at St. Germain in France, in the year 1716. James, his heir-apparent, died in his father's life-time, and left, by Jane his wife, who died 1773, daughter of George, Duke of Gordon, two sons and two daughters; James.—John.—Mary.—Henrietta. James, the eldest, would have succeeded his grandfather, were it not for the outlawry. Both these brothers were in the rebellion in 1745; and next year at the battle of Culloden, John commanded the center, and James the left wing; but the latter, being mortally wounded, died in his passage to France. John, the youngest, married a daughter of Charles, Earl of Traquair, and died 1781.

The forfeited estate was valued by the Commissioners at the yearly rent of 2566l.

The first of this family who took the name of Drummond, was Maurice, son of George, a younger son of Andreas, King of Hungary; which Maurice quitted England with Edgar Athelin, the rightful heir to that crown; but unjustly deprived thereof, first by Harold, and afterwards by William, Duke of Normandy, who seized the kingdom in 1066.

Maurice commanding the ship in which Edgar Athelin, his mother Agatha, and his sisters Margaret and Christian were embarked, and meeting with a violent storm at sea, which drove them to Scotland, they put into the river Forth, and landed at a place called Queen's Ferry, from Margaret, the said Edgar's sister. This Princess married Malcolm III. King of Scotland, who rewarded Maurice Drummond with a considerable share of wealth and honour, particularly a large estate in the county of Dunbritton or Lenox, and the stewardry thereof, which estate and office were enjoyed by his successors.

John the seventh Stewart of Lenox, having lost the lands which he had in that Sheriffdom, retired into Perthshire, and married Mary, the eldest daughter and coheir of Sir William de Pontefax, with whom he had divers lands in the said county, besides the Baronies of Strobhal and Cargil, near Perth; and by his said wife had several sons and daughters. Of the daughters, the beautiful Annabel, the eldest, was Queen to Robert III. and mother of James I. King of Scotland; and by that marriage, the houses of Austria and Burgundy, and many crowned heads in Europe, who married the King's daughters, are allied to the Drummonds.

Malcolm, son and heir to the fore-mentioned John Drummond, at the battle of Otterburn, or Chevy-Chace, in 1388, joining his own men with his brother-in-law, James, Earl of Douglas, to fight the English, he then took prisoner Sir Ralph Percy, brother to Henry, Lord Percy, called Hotspur, who, in the same rencounter, had killed Earl Douglas. His son John, was the father of Walter; and his son Malcolm, the father of John, who was made Stewart of Strathern, Justice-General of Scotland, and created Lord Drummond by King James III. He did great service to King James IV. having routed the Earl of Lenox and the Lord Lisle, as they were upon their march to join the Earl Marshal and Lord Gordon, in order to seize the King, under pretence of revenging the death of James III. after which, he was sent Ambassador into England, to conclude a peace with Richard III. but after the death of James IV. he forfeited all his offices and estate, for giving a box on the ear to Lyon King at Arms, who was sent to summon him before the Parliament, to give an account of the Queen's marriage with the Earl of Lenox; but by the Queen's interest, and the intercession of some great men, he was soon afterwards restored to his honour and estate. He had issue William his heir, who being at open defiance with the family of Murray, among other feuds between them, there were several several gentlemen of the house of Murray, barbarously burnt in a church, by some of Drummond's party; for which crime, notwithstanding he pleaded innocence, he was condemned to lose his head, and the sentence was executed accordingly. Of the daughters of the said Lord John, Margaret was privately married to King James IV. by whom she had a daughter Jane, who was married to John, Lord Gordon, eldest son of Alexander, Earl of Huntley; and a son James, who was Earl of Murray.

James, who was the fourth Lord Perth, being much in favour with James VI. was, by him, sent with Charles Howard, Earl of Nottingham, Ambassador to Spain, and, after his return, was created Earl of Perth.

MACKENZIE, EARL OF SEAFORTH:

THE Right Honourable WILLIAM MACKENZIE, Earl of SEAFORTH, Lord Mackenzie, of Kintail, and hereditary Constable of Donen-castle, succeeded his father Kenneth in 1701; and, in 1715, married Mary, only daughter and heir to Nicholas Kennet, of Cuxhow, in Northumberland, Esq. and by her, who died in France, in 1739, had a son Kenneth. But being a party in the rebellion in 1715, against King George I. he made his escape; and, in April 1719, landed in the North-west of Scotland, with the Marquis of Tullibairden, the Earl Marshal, and some Spanish forces, to carry on a second rebellion; but they were soon defeated at Glensheil, by Major General Wightman. He was attainted in 1716, with other Lords; but through the King's clemency, in 1726, he obtained a pardon, and returned home, where he remained in a quiet retirement till his death. Kenneth, or, as he was commonly called, Lord Fortrose, married Mary, daughter of Alexander, Earl of Galloway, by whom he had Kenneth, who was created Viscount Fortrose, and Earl of Seaforth, in Ireland, (now extinct,) and had six daughters.

Kenneth, the fourth Earl of Seaforth, and the father of the late Earl, succeeded his father Kenneth, in 1678; and, by King James VII. was made one of the Privy Council, and a Knight of the Thistle; and following that King into France and Ireland, after the Revolution, he was created a Marquis, though that honour was not allowed here.

The first of this name is said to be Collin Fitzgerald, of the family of Kildare, in Ireland, who, with a few volunteers, in 1263, came from that kingdom to the assistance of Alexander III. King of Scotland, against the Norwegians and Danes; and then behaved so well at the battle of Largs, in Coningham, that the King, by his charter, dated at Kincardin, 1266, gave him the Barony of Kintail, in which he was succeeded by Kenneth, his son, who, having a numerous offspring, each was called Mackennie, after the highland manner, denoting the son of Kenneth, and afterwards varied into Mackenzie.

Kenneth, a Baron of Kintail, was slain at the battle of Flodden, in Northumberland, with King James IV. in 1513, and Collin, his great grandson, being a firm loyalist to Queen Mary, during her troubles, had a son Kenneth, who was created Lord Kintail, by patent, in November, 1609; and his son Collin was created Earl of Seaforth, in Dec. 1623, both by King James VI.

This noble family of Wemys is said to be descended from the great Macduff, Thane of Fife, who was the chief instrument of subduing the tyrant Macbeth; for John, the younger son of the said Thane, being Lord of the Barony of Wemys; from thence his descendants assumed their surname.

In the year 1290, Sir David Wemys, and Sir Michael Scot, were sent to Norway by the Lords of the Regency in Scotland, to bring over their young Queen, Margaret, who, to the universal misfortune of the nation, died at the Orkneys, and thereupon happened the competition between Baliol and Bruce, about the right of succession. This James, who was the fifth Earl of Southesk, was attainted of high-treason, for being concerned in the rebellion 1715. Sir James Carnegie, of Pittarro, Bart.

is the representative of this family, since the death of the said Earl, which happened at a convent in France, 1729.

His estate, as reported by the Commissioners for the forfeited estates, was 3271 l. a year.

This noble family were anciently proprietors of the lands of Balinaird, in the county of Forfar, which were long possessed by them; and in the reign of David II. John de Balinaird, obtaining a grant of the lands of Carnegy, in the Barony of Panmure, he, from thence, took his surname.

John de Carnegy, who was slain at the battle of Flodden, in Northumberland, in 1513, with James IV. left a son Robert, who was promoted by the regent, James Hamilton, Duke of Chatelraud, first to be one of the Judges in the Court of Session, then Ambassador to England; and after his return, was knighted; he was also sent Ambassador to France by the said regent; but, dying in 1565, he was succeeded by his son John, for whom Queen Mary had a great esteem for his fidelity and prudence; but dying without issue, the estate descended to his brother David, who being bred to the law, and a person of great reputation, was by James VI. made one of the Lords of Session, one of his Privy-council, and a Commissioner of the Treasury. THE Right Honourable JOHN OGILVY, Earl of AIRLY, and Lord Ogilvy and Lentrathin, succeeded his father David, and married the heiress of Ogilvy, of Cluny, by whom he had a son, David, who, in 1745, came over from France; and joined the rebels in Scotland; but making his escape, after the battle at Culloden, was attained by act of parliament, 1746. He commanded a regiment in the French service, called by his own name.

David, the third Earl, married Grisel, daughter of Patrick Lyon, the third Earl of Strathmore, by whom he had two sons; James, who when he was Lord Ogilvy, about twenty years of age, was attained for joining in the rebellion of 1715; but the estate not being in his person was saved, and went to his brother John. Some time after this, he obtained a pardon for life, came home, and married Anne, daughter of David Erskine, of Dun, Esq. one of the Judges in the Court of Session; but dying about a month after the marriage, was succeeded by his brother John, the late Earl.

The Ogilvies are said to derive their descent from Gilbert, brother of Gilchrist, Earl of Angus, who, living in the time of King William the Lion, obtained from him the Barony of Ogilvy, in the county of Forfar, and from thence took his surname. In the reign of Robert I. Sir Patrick Ogilvy had a grant from the King of the lands of Caithness, and was succeeded by Walter, his son, who, in the time of Robert III. was Sheriff of Angus; and Alexander, his son, marrying the daughter and heir of Sir William Ramsay, of Auchterhouse, with her had that Barony, and was slain at the battle of Harlaw. By the said Lady he had Sir Alexander Ogilvy, Sheriff of Angus, and Sir Walter, the ancestor of the Earls of Findlater and Seafield, and the Lord Banff; and John, the son of Alexander, had a son James, who, by King James IV. 1495, was created Lord Ogilvy, of Airly, in the county of Forfar.

James, the eighth Lord Ogilvy, was, April 2, 1639, created Earl of Airly, by Charles I. He had two sons, the youngest whereof was slain in the civil war, and the eldest, James, who succeeded him, being also very zealous in the royal cause, was taken prisoner at the battle of Philipshaw, in 1645, when Montrose was defeated, and condemned by the Parliament to be executed; but escaping the night before in his sister's habit, he engaged again in the same service.

DALZIEL, EARL OF CARNWATH.

THE Right Honourable ROBERT DALZIEL, Earl of CARNWATH, and Lord Dalziel, being concerned in the rebellion of 1715, was, in January following, brought prisoner from London to Preston, in Lancashire, and was, with six other Lords, condemned for high treason; but had both life and estate remitted to him, and died in 1737.

This Earl was Sir Robert Dalziel, son of Sir John Dalziel, of Glenay, Bart. who, upon the death of John, the fifth Earl of Carnwath, without issue, succeeded to his honour and estate. He married, first, Grace Montgomery, daughter of Alexander, the ninth Earl of Eglington, by whom he had a daughter Margaret. He married, secondly, a daughter of Alexander Urquhart, of Newhall, Esq. by whom he had a son Alexander, who would have succeeded, were it not for the attainder. He married, thirdly, Miss Margaret Hamilton. His fourth wife was Miss Margaret Vincent, by whom he had a son, Robert.

This noble family was of great antiquity in Clydesdale, and inter-married with many worthy families there, before they moved to the county of Dumfries, where they settled; and Nisbet gives the following story concerning the origin of their surname. In the reign of Kenneth II. a near kinsman and favourite of that King, being hung up by the Picts, it so exceedingly grieved his Majesty, that he offered a great reward to any of his subjects that would dare to rescue his corpse; but none would undertake that dangerous enterprize. At last, a certain gentleman came to the King, and said, Dalziel, which, in the old Scots language, signifies I dare; and he effectually performing it to the King's satisfaction, his posterity took for their surname the word Dalziel, and for their armorial ensign that remarkable bearing, which has continued to the present time.

In the year 1365, Sir Robert Dalziel, who faithfully adhered to King David Bruce, during his captivity in England, obtained a grant of the Barony of Selkirk.

MIDDLETON, EARL OF MIDDLETON.

THE Right Honourable CHARLES MIDDLETON, Earl of MIDDLETON, and Lord Clairmont, succeeded his father John, and was Secretary of State for Scotland, from the year 1684, to the Revolution, when he followed King James into France, and was attainted by the Scots Parliament in 1695. He married Catharine Brudenel, daughter of Robert, Earl of Cardigan, by whom he had two sons, John, Lord Clairmont, and Charles Middleton, who were both taken at sea by Admiral Byng, in the descent which the French intended upon Scotland, in 1708; but by the Queen's orders they were soon released. Their father was also aboard in that armament.

The first of this family was John Middleton, Esq. who was a Colonel belonging to the royal party; and, in 1648, attended Duke Hamilton into England, when he led the army to Preston. At the battle of Worcester, 1651, he commanded as Lieutenant General of Horse, when he, and most of the principal Officers were made prisoners; but he had the good fortune

fortune in a short time to escape out of the Tower. Soon after the Restoration, he was appointed the King's High Commissioner in Scotland, and General of his forces in that kingdom; and, in 1660, created Baron Clairmont and Earl of Middleton. BOYD, EARL OF KILMARNOCK.

THE Right Honourable WILLIAM BOYD, Earl of KILMARNOCK, and Lord Boyd, entering into the rebellion of 1745, was taken prisoner at the battle of Culloden; and being committed to the Tower of London, was tried, and condemned; and August 18, 1746, was beheaded on Tower-hill, aged 42 years. He married Anne Levingston, daughter of James, Earl of Linlithgow and Callender, who was attainted for the rebellion of 1715, which Lady succeeded her aunt as Countess of Errol; and by her, who died in 1747, he left three sons, viz. James, Lord Boyd, who married Rebecca Lockart, daughter of Alexander Lockart, Esq. and succeeded as Earl of Errol, upon the death of his mother.—Charles, who died July 31, 1782.—William.

The first of the surname of Boyd, is said to be Robert, the son of Simon, the third son of Allan, Lord Stewart of Scotland; and a descendant from him was Sir Robert Boyd, who, in 1263, signalizing his valour at the battle of Largs, in Cuninghame, against the Norwegians, had thereupon a grant of several lands in that district, wherein he was succeeded by another Sir Robert, who, in the second year of King Robert I. for his loyalty and merit, was rewarded with the lands of Kilmarnock.

Robert, the first Lord Boyd, married Mary Maxwell, daughter of Sir Robert Maxwell, of Calderwood, by whom he had two sons, Thomas and Alexander; and a daughter, Elizabeth, married to Archibald Douglas, Earl of Douglas and Angus, and was, in Oct. 1466, constituted Regent of Scotland, in the minority of King James III. and then marrying his son Thomas to the Princess Mary Stewart, the King's eldest sister, the said Thomas was thereupon created Earl of Arran, and afterwards sent Ambassador to Denmark, to treat of a marriage between his brother-in-law the young King, and the Princess Margaret of that crown; but while he was absent, his enemies contrived the ruin of his family, by representing their ambition as too dangerous for the condition of subjects; and so far prevailed with the King, that he called a Parliament, before whom the Lord Boyd, his son, the Earl of Arran, and his brother Sir Alexander Boyd, being summoned to give an account of their administration, the old man fearing the power of his enemies, fled into England; but Sir Alexander was condemned for high treason, and executed. The Earl of Arran arriving with the Queen at Leith, and being informed of these melancholy circumstances, immediately retired into Denmark with his lady, from thence into France, and, dying at Antwerp, in 1476, was honourably interred by Charles, Duke of Burgundy.

By his said Lady, who, in 1474, was arbitrarily divorced and married to James, the second Lord Hamilton, he left a son, James, who was the third Lord Boyd, and the second Earl of Arran; but dying without issue, the title of Earl of Arran became extinct; but the title of Lord Boyd descended to his uncle Alexander, the second son of Robert, Lord Boyd.

William, the eleventh Lord Boyd, was created Earl of Kilmarnock, in Coningham, of the county of Air, Aug. 27, 1661, by Charles II.

DRUMMOND, VISCOUNT STRATHALLAN.

THE Right Honourable WILLIAM DRUMMOND, Baron and Viscount STRATHALLAN, and Baron Maderty, joining in the rebellion in 1745, was slain in the battle of Culloden. His eldest son James being engaged in the same rebellion, was attainted by act of parliament, in 1746, by the name of James Drummond, son of Lord Viscount Strathallan, though he was then himself Viscount Strathallan, by which misnomer, the titles we are informed will be claimed.

James Drummond, commendator of Inchaffery, the second son of David, the second Lord Drummond, ancestor of the Earl of Perth, the Duke of Roxburgh, and the Lord Ballenden, was created Lord Maderty, in 1607, by King James VI. and marrying Jane, daughter of Sir James Chisholm, of Cromlix, by her had John his heir; Sir James Drummond, of Machony, ancestor of the last Viscount, and several daughters.

Henry, Lord Sinclair, lived some time after his son's attainder, and settled his estate on the General his second son; who having interest at court, obtained his brother's pardon for life, and then put him in possession of his father's estate; and were it not for the attainder of this brother, would himself have succeeded to the title of Lord Sinclair.

The descent of this ancient family is the same with that of the Earl of Caithness. William, Earl of Orkney and Nithsdale, marrying to his first wife Margaret, daughter of Archibald, Earl of Douglas, and Viscount Turenne, in France, by her had a son and heir, William, from whom descended this Lord Sinclair; and by his second wife Margery, daughter of Alexander Gordon, son to the thirteenth Earl of Sutherland, he had another son christened also William, who was created Earl of Caithness.

THE Right Honourable SIMON FRASER; Lord LOVAT, being engaged in the rebellion, 1745, was taken prisoner in June, 1746, when he was sent to London.

In March following, he was tried before the House of Lords in Westminster-hall; and after seven days trial, was found guilty, received sentence of death, and, on the 9th of April, 1747, was beheaded on Tower-hill, in the 80th year of his age.

Hugh, the ninth Lord Lovat, marrying Amelia Murray, daughter of John, Marquis of Athol, had four daughters, whereof Anne the eldest, assumed the title of Baroness of Lovat, and married Alexander Mackenzie, of Frazerdale, by whom he had a son Hugh, the 10th Lord Lovat.

The said Alexander Mackenzie, having been attainted in 1716, Simon Frazer, of Beaufort, heir male of the family of Lovat, got possession of the estate, by a gift from the crown; of the life rent escheat of the said Alexander Mackenzie, sued for the title, and obtained a decree in his favour from the Lords of Session. His first wife was Amelia, the widow of Hugh, Lord Lovat, and only daughter of John Murray, Marquis of Athol. For this marriage he was condemned and outlawed, it being unjustifiably obtained; but he found out ways to escape the penalties, till at length the said Lady died.

His second Lady was Janet, daughter of Sir Ludowick Grant, by whom he had two sons and a daughter; Simon, Master of Lovat, who was attainted with many others in the parliament, 1746; but it appearing that he was over-ruled, and compelled by his father, after obtained his Majesty's free pardon, was a General in the army, and died in 1782.—Alexander, who was an Officer in the service of the East India Company.—Janet, married to the Laird of Cluny, chief of the Macphersons.

His third wife was Primrose, daughter of John Campbell, of Mammore, father of the Duke of Argyl, by whom he had one son Archibald, a merchant in London.

In the rebellion of 1715, this Simon, Lord Lovat, did the King great service, in securing the important fort of Inverness so suddenly, that Sir John Mackenzie, who kept it for the rebels, not suspecting the Frasers as his enemies, was forced to deliver it up; for as the Lord Lovat had always been in the other interest, his turning about on that critical occasion, was a surprize to many; but in the next rebellion of 1745, it appeared that he was deeply concerned, and employed all the interest of his own clan to render it successful.

Sir Alexander Frazer, Thane of Cowie, and Lord Chamberlain of Scotland, marrying Lady Mary Bruce, sister to Robert I. and widow of Sir Niel Campbell, ancestor of the Duke

Duke of Argyl, by her had two sons, Alexander, his heir, from whom descended the Lord Saltoun; and Andrew Frazer, of Touch, whose son, Sir Simon Frazer, marrying the heiress of the family of Bisset, with her he had the Barony of Lovat, and many other possessions; and in the reign of King James I. This Lord chusing a military life, had a commission in a regiment of foot, during the reign of Queen Anne. In the rebellion, 1715, he disliking the service of King George, resigned his Captain's commission to the Duke of Argyl, and immediately joined the Earl of Mar; but that rebellion being suppressed, he had the good fortune to obtain a pardon; after which he went into the French service, and, in the next rebellion, commanded a troop of horse at the battle of Culloden, April 16, 1746, where he was taken prisoner, and brought to the Tower of London; with the Earls of Kilmarnock and Cromartie, in May following. They were tried before the House of Lords in Westminster-hall, in July; and on the 1st of August, received sentence of death; and, on the 18th of that month, this Lord and the Earl of Kilmarnock, were beheaded on Tower-hill.

John, the fourth Lord Balmerino, was, by Queen Anne, made General of the Mint; and in the two last parliaments of her reign, was one of the sixteen Peers of Scotland. He married first Christian Montgomery, daughter to Hugh, the seventh Earl of Eglington; by whom he had three sons

Sir James Elphinston, youngest son of Robert, the third Lord Elphinston, having studied the law, in a short time became so highly esteemed for his abilities, that King James VI. made him one of the Judges of Session, Secretary of State, a Commissioner of the Treasury, Lord President of the Session, and April 24, 1604, created him a Baron.

THE Right Honourable KENNETH SUTHERLAND, Lord DUFFUS, succeeded his father James, the second Lord, in 1705; and being engaged in the rebellion, in 1715, he made his escape, and was attainted by act of Parliament: after which he was taken at Hamburgh, brought to London, and committed prisoner to the Tower in 1716; but the next year being released by the Act of Grace, he withdrew into foreign parts, and served as a flag officer in the Russian fleet. He married Charlotte, daughter of Erick de Sioblade, Governor and Admiral of Gottenburgh, in Sweden, by whom he had a son Erick, who married Miss Dunbar, daughter of Sir William Dunbar, of Hemprigs, Bart.

James, the second Lord Duffus, married Margaret Mackenzie, daughter of Kenneth, the third Earl of Seaforth, by whom he had three sons; Kenneth, the late Lord.—Sir James Sutherland, who by marrying Mary, daughter and heir of Sir William Dunbar, of Hemprigs, Baronet, changed his name to Dunbar.—William Sutherland, of Roscomen, who married Mary, daughter of William, the tenth Lord Forbes.

This noble family is descended from the Earl of Sutherland. Kenneth, the fifth Earl of Sutherland, having lost his life at the battle of Halidon-hill, in 1333, left two sons, from the youngest of which sons, Nicol, descended the Lord Duffus; for this Nicol, by his brother's grant in 1360, having obtained the lands of Terboll, had the same confirmed by King David II. and marrying Jane, daughter and heir to Renald de Chene, Lord Duffus, by her had Henry, his heir, who was father of Alexander, that married the heiress of Chisholm; and having an only daughter, named Christian, who was married to William Oliphant, of Berindale, the Baron of Duffus descended to William Sutherland, of Querelwood, near Elgin; from whom in a direct line, descended Sir Alexander Sutherland, who was created Baron Duffus, December 8, 1650, by King Charles II.

heir to Robert, the first Lord Nairn, in right of his wife was Lord Nairn, and changed his name from Murray to Nairn, and took the arms of that family; which William, being engaged in the rebellion of 1715, was taken at the battle of Preston, in Lancashire, and being tried, received sentence of death; but his Majesty, out of his great clemency, not only included him in the Act of Grace, in 1717, but gave him back his estate. By the said Lady Nairn he had four sons and eight daughters. Of the daughters, Margaret was married to William, the third Viscount Strathallan; and Catharine, married William Murray, the fourth Earl of Dunmore.
