The Young Widow.

She is modest, she is bashful,
Free and easy, but not bold—
Like an apple, ripe and mellow,
Not too young, and not too old.
Half inviting, half repulsive,
Now advancing, and now shy,
There is mischief in her dimple,
There is danger in her eye.

She has studied human nature,
She is schooled in all her arts,
She has taken her diploma
As the mistress of all hearts.
She can tell the very moment
When to sigh and when to smile.
Oh, a maid is sometimes charming,
But a widow all the while.

A Successful Swindle.

Mine is a case that should appear in the police reports rather than in the pages of this publication. My money has been obtained from me under false pretences; my feelings have been most cruelly lacerated, and assault and battery committed on my heart. Is there, in this free and enlightened country, no redress for wrongs like these? I ask this repeatedly, and am as repeatedly assured there is none. All I can do, therefore, is to write a clear statement of the circumstances under which I suffer, in the hope that my fate may prove a warning to other young bachelors, and lead them to beware of bazaars and of young ladies behind a counter.

I am a young man of good family, with a handsome allowance, and first rate expectations. I suppose I should be called a catch by match-making mammas and their daughters. I am a captain in a captain in a crack regiment, my height is six feet, my whiskers are unexceptionable. Altogether, till misfortune overtook me, I was as pleasant, good-looking a young fellow as ever flirted at a waltz, or made love at a picnic.

One morning last July, while lounging in my quarters at Dover, and doing nothing in particular, I received the following pink note:

"DEAR CAPTAIN BRANTHWAYTE: We have all been very busy here getting up a fancy fair in aid of the endowment fund of a new church at Clay-cum-Stickle. The Rev. Augustus Needall has kindly consented to undertake the responsible duties of the incumbent, but his principles will not allow him to enter on his new and arduous sphere until the endowment fund is completed. The dear man says so wisely and feelingly: 'How can I administer to the wants of a numerous and starving flock, when so many of the bare necessities of life are wanting to myself?' So we want about £2,000 more to make up a nice little income, and build him a commodious parsonage, and then we shall do charmingly. His excellent wife is aiding us, heart and soul; and you, I am sure, will likewise contribute your mite, and bring over some of your brother officers to do the same. The day is fixed for next Thursday. Bring your friends to lunch at my house, and do not fail me. Yours, sincerely,
CECILIA PRYOR.

PLUCKWELL, Saturday.
P. S.—There will be a ball in the evening at the Assembly Rooms for the same object. Tickets, £1 Is. How many will you have?"

Now, I knew Mrs. Pryor was a busy meddlesome person, but I also knew that pretty girls were generally to be met at her house; besides, old Pryor had a bin of still champagne in his cellar that was by no means to be despised. So I wrote off forthwith, promising to bring over half a dozen friends, for whom tickets might be secured. Thursday being fine, we set off in high spirits, and reached Pluckwell in time for a good lunch at Mrs. Pryor's, after which we started for the scene of action.

We soon reached the large field in which the tents were pitched—entrance 2s. 6d., which we paid cheerfully, it being the first demand. In the field, we found the usual wheel of fortune, gipsy's tent, refreshment stall, and one large marquee with gaily dressed counters, and still more gaily dressed girls behind them. Crowds of people moved about the field, looking as miserable as English folks always do on festive occasions. Suddenly one of my companions exclaimed: "Hallo! Capt. Branthwayte, look at that little creature there standing on the chair." I looked round, of course, little thinking what would be the consequence, and my gaze was spell-bound by the sweetest little fairy eyes ever looked upon. There she stood on a chair, before a looking glass, trying on a pink hood, which she was endeavoring to persuade some idiot to buy.

Never before had I seen such charming unconsciousness, such naivette, such grace. I don't know what she had on; it was something white, and cloudy and angelic. But much clothing seemed superfluous in her case, for clouds of golden curls fell showering to her waist, and they were brushed back from the sweetest, gentlest, and withal most piquant face in the world. (I am aware that I am using a great many adjectives, but really the occasion demands them.)

My first feeling on seeing her was that I had never truly loved till then; my second, an almost irresistible inclination to knock down that driveling maniac, who was actually hesitating about buying the hood. He said it would be of no use to him. Fool!

In a moment I was beside the chair, and, speechless with emotion, I tendered a sovereign for the precious article.

"Ah! that's capital," she said, with the sweetest look of gratitude. "Why, Mr. Screwker has been doubting whether he would give me fifteen shillings for it. I hope you don't want any change?"

"Change!" I gasped; "never."
"Then come to our stall," she said, jumping daintily down from her elevated post, "and I will find some of my very best work for you."

I, of course, followed her to large stall, where three charming girls and a hand some mamma presided; and of course I gave a fabulous price for a cigar-case, which she said she had worked. (I don't believe she had, for it was hideous.) Of course, too, I had to buy something quite useless of all three sisters, and to put into all the raffles, winning at last a large wax doll, several sizes larger than a child of six months. As this last acquisition embarrassed me a good deal, I gave it back to her, and afterwards saw her sell it over again for a considerable sum to a good-natured old gentleman.

"You make a capital shopwoman," I said.

"Ah, yes, I have some tolerable dodges. I did a good business before you came in faded sixpenny bouquets, which I sold for five shillings. They were so worthless that a good many gave them back to me, and I sold them over again. I sold one nine times, and made forty five shillings by it!" and she gave a merry little laugh "at the folly of some people," with a sly glance at me. I ventured on a tender reproach:

"And nothing whispered to you to keep a bouquet for me?"

"No, indeed; but I can get you a rose bud, a beauty, if you like," and off she danced, waving me back, when I would have followed; and beckoning to an elderly grave-looking person, who stood by the stall, and who was to all appearance the father of the charming quartette.

She soon came running back, breathless, her hands full of lovely rosebuds. On the way she attacked that stingy Mr. Screwker who would not buy the hood, and whom she now tried to tempt with a half-opened Glorie de Dijon.

"How much do you want for it?" said he.

"Whatever you please," was the demure reply.

He pulled out a handful of silver, and was, I suspect, looking for a sixpence, when in a moment she pounced on the whole handful, with an "Oh! thank you; you are too generous," and swept it into her pocket. The fellow's dismay was delicious to behold; but he could only submit, for she was off again directly, and distributing her floral favors right and left, till, when she reached me, there was only one left.

"Now, what will you give me for this?"

"Anything, everything all the money I have left," I cried, thrusting my hands into my pockets. But alas! they were empty; nor could all my searching bring to light more than one miserable fourpenny piece. Imagine my dismay.

"My dear girl," I stammered, "you see this is all I have left."

"Oh, you surely can't intend to be so mean? when I ran all the way up the garden to fetch them, and pricked my finger, and made it bleed;" and she held out a little white punctured forefinger, to verify her words. "You have your watch," she added, "and you can redeem it to-morrow." I own I felt rather staggered at this. My watch was a valuable family relic, set with brilliants, and on the safety of which depended the favor of an aged and gouty uncle, of crabbed disposition and enormous wealth. But the blue eyes were fixed on me, and seemed to wonder at my delay. All prudent considerations vanished. I placed the watch in one outstretched hand, and received the rosebud from the other.

"Wear it to-night and I will dance with you," she whispered, as our eyes met for a moment.

She turned away with a faint blush, and I left the field to dine and dress for the evening. Dine, did I say? and dress? I suppose I performed those operations, but I have no recollection of anything of the sort. I could only dream of the past and hope for the future. If it had been for any one else in the world, I should have said that I was going to make a fool of myself. But any infatuation for her, so far superior to all existing creatures, could not but elevate and honor any man whom she might choose to accept. So I started for the ball at ten o'clock, fully determined to propose at once. She was late, but at last I saw her coming up the stairs, followed by her three sisters, with the mamma and the clergyman I had seen with them in the forenoon. I fancied her eyes rested on the rosebud in my button-hole, and that they beamed with a soft approbation. Cheered by this tacit encouragement, I seized hold of the first steward I met, and begged him to introduce me to "that young lady," pointing her out. I thought his face wore an amused smile as he complied with my request, but I took little heed of surrounding circumstances, so anxious was I to catch her name. The usual formula was pronounced: "Captain Branthwayte—Miss Nevill." Was that the name? I could not be sure. I had no time to think about it, for the waltz began at once, and I seemed to be floating in a sea of bliss an angel in my arms, keeping time to the music of the spheres. At last we landed on an out of the way sofa, where I resolved to ask her to be mine forever. I don't remember how I began; I must have been rather unintelligible at first, for she looked puzzled, and seemed trying not to smile. But when I managed to stammer out that I knew I was "quite unworthy of her, yet if the devotion of a lifetime," etc., she said quietly: "I think you must mistake me for one of my sisters." I assured her such a mistake was quite impossible. "Then you cannot have heard my name."

"Oh, yes," said, "Miss Nevill. I listened particularly for your name and heard it quite well."

"My name is Mrs. Needall. You must have seen my husband standing by my stall. The bazaar was for the endowment of our church, and to build us a vicarage. Of course I worked con amore, and took more money than any one, and I think you were my best customer," she added, with a triumphant toss of her little head that completely maddened me.

I rushed from the room, took the next train back to Dover, and here I have been ever since, a most miserable man! I had not the heart to redeem my watch; so that, in addition to my other troubles, I may have incurred the lasting displeasure of my uncle, and lost the chance of some thousands a year. All this because I was fool enough to go and be swindled at a fancy fair.

WHAT I HAVE NEVER KNOWN.—I have never known a poor man to obtain a premium at a fair where there was a rich man to compete with him.

I have never known a naturally dishonest man to become morally honest by becoming a member of any church.

I have never known a minister to be called from a high to a low salary.

I have never known a really poor man elevated to an important office, let his intellect be ever so brilliant.

I have never known a man to be respected because he was poor.

I have never known a rich man but what was respected on account of his riches.

I have never known a Temperance, or any other Society, to make an example, for neglect of duty, by ousting a rich man when there was a poor cuss unfortunately liable.

It is almost a sin to be poor. D—n a poor man.—Ex.

REVENGE.—The following is somewhat old, but will bear repeating:

During Jackson's term an application was made for the removal of some Postmaster or deputy Postmaster in one of the northern States, and it was urged upon the President with a great deal of earnestness, first by letter, and then a special Committee came to Washington, and remonstrated with great bitterness against the continuance of this violent opponent of the President. To cap the climax, as the committee supposed of the Postmaster's offenses, and insure his removal, they told the President that the obnoxious officer had called Gen. Jackson a "d—d gray headed ———."
"Did he?" said the General.
"He did."
"If I am not mistaken," said Jackson, "that man stormed Stony Point under Wayne, and any man who did that has my permission to be a Postmaster, and curse me for the balance of his life."

ARE WE SECURE?—Several complaints have lately been lodged at the Police Office by target shooting Germans and tom-tit shooting Frenchmen of their jaggers and double barreled guns having been stolen. What does it mean? Who steals the shooting irons, and for what purpose? Are they robbers, privateers and pirates of "seesh" proclivities, and if so, are we secure? We would suggest as a means of quieting the fears of A, B and C, that our uniformed policemen be armed with mountain howitzers, and mounted on their shoulders, so as to be prepared for any emergency. Let it be done and done quietly, and with swiftness—and with lighted matches—but above all don't forget the swivels.—San Francisco Journal.

NECESSITY has no law.

The Polish Insurrection.

The gallant Poles are making a noble stand against their oppressors. Berlin letters continue to be filled with observations on the events in Poland, and the attitude which the Prussian government is taking. The belief is general that a military convention has been formed between Russia and Prussia to stay the Polish movement. The Prince Royal of Prussia, who was to leave on the 20th inst. for England, has put off his journey until the 5th March, in consequence of Polish events. Advices from the theater of the war speak of sanguinary contests, but the version of these affairs are contradictory, according to the Russian or Polish source from which they emanate. The Prussians are ranged along the Polish frontier ready for military intervention. At Posen, which however is quiet, the most rigorous precautions have been taken. Officers even are not admitted into the forts and barracks which command the town without a special authorization. It is not yet stated what are the particulars of this co-operation or secret understanding, but it is represented to give for the present a free passage to the Russian troops across the Prussian soil wherever such a step becomes necessary. It is affirmed that the French government is about to address the Prussian cabinet a strong remonstrance against the violation of the principle of non-intervention. Some important Russian dispatches have been captured by the rebels, from which it would appear that Russia has been finding fault with Austria and accusing her of encouraging the insurrection. Meanwhile the insurrection appears to spread and progress, and numbers of Poles are leaving Paris and several German university towns to lend their aid to their countrymen. A cotemporary thus tersely describes the course and limits of the revolution:

"It runs like a fire along the Gallician frontier, burns fiercely between the Warta and Vistula, and more fiercely between the Vistula and the Bug. It has crossed this river and has approached the Niemen, and has run down the banks of the Pripet and its affluent into the formidable forests and marshes of Pinsk. It is in the heart of Lithuania, and threatens to set the Ukraine on fire."

May it burn out the heart of the Russian tyranny. Later news states that the insurgents attacked Minchow, and were repulsed with loss. Minchow was afterwards set on fire. Last night a body of insurgents entered Germa, in Austrian Poland, probably in consequence of being pursued by Russian troops. No resistance was made by the inhabitants. It is said that Langiewicz has beaten the Russians and captured some cannon. The Nord Deutsche Zeitung says:

"The negotiations between Prussia and Russia had reference only to the insurrection in Poland, and not to any settlement of the Polish question in general. Much less, also, had these negotiations any bearing upon general European policy. No negotiations whatever have taken place between Prussia and Austria in reference to Poland."

From Paris we get the following:

"The Patrie says that the insurrection is spreading throughout all parts of the kingdom of Poland. The military commanders of the provinces of Lithuania and Volhynia have refused to send the reinforcements demanded from them by the authorities in Poland, as they consider it impolitic to diminish the number of their troops, seeing that they may have soon to defend their own provinces."

A SETTLER.—Some years since a black man called upon a clergyman in Western New York, avowing himself a fugitive slave, and asked for food and shelter, which was freely accorded.

Two or three persons being cognizant of the fact, called to see the "runaway nigger," when the following dialogue took place:

"Spouse you had plenty of hard times down South; licking a plenty?"

"No—never was whipped."

"Want? Well, you had to work most awful hard?"

"My work was light."

"I guess your clothes were not very nice?"

"I was well clothed—a good house servant."

"I reckon your victuals were not uncommon fine?"

"As good as I desired."

"Well, I should give it as my opinion that you were a mighty big fool for running away from such a place as that, just for the sake of sharking for yourself."

"Gentlemen, my place down South is vacant. Any of you can have it by applying for it."

CAUGHT.—The real and genuine sea serpent is said to have been caught on the coast of South America. He was 150 feet long, with a head and tail like a lizard, and it took six men to carry one of his ribs.

SATURDAY, APRIL 18TH, 1863.

THE absence of the Editor must be the excuse for the lack of the usual amount of interesting local matter and news items. We (of course "we" is assumed in his absence) have not had the time to bestow the attention on the paper which he usually does, therefore the readers must make all due allowance.

FLOWER SALE.—On Monday next there will be a sale of the finest variety of flowers and garden plants. See advertisement.

In another column we publish a letter from Dr. Bellows, President of the U. S. Sanitary Commission, to the officers and members of the Soldiers Aid Society, at Woodland, complimentary of their gift in aid of said Commission.

THE WEATHER.—Our farmers, we have no doubt, feel very much relieved since the late fall of rain, as their hopes for anything like fair crops were almost at the freezing point. The rain that fell on Wednesday afternoon and in the night, appeared to be very general, and judging from the amount that fell here, we are of the opinion that there has been sufficient to bring forth good average crops. We are of the opinion that our farmers are too easily frightened. It is a good rule never "to cry before we're hurt;" but we most certainly congratulate the farmers that Providence has again showered his blessings upon them, and consequently upon the country at large.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT.—On Wednesday night last a man by the name of Furgyson, who stopped at the Union Hotel in this place, arose during the night for some purpose and went out of his room, and on attempting to return, mistook the door, opening one leading into the dining hall below, supposing it to be the one leading to his apartment, the consequence of which was, that he was precipitated headlong down a flight of stairs, and he is so severely injured about the head that it is supposed he will not recover. He arrived here from Colusa.

Since the above was put in type the man has died; he died at six o'clock on Thursday evening. Coroner S. F. Rodolph held an Inquest on the deceased, and the evidence elicited went to confirm the above statement. From what we can learn, the deceased was on his way to Forrest Home, Amador county, where it appears from a letter found on his person, he has a sister.

VIGILANCE REWARDED!—Our readers will recollect that some time since the peace, quiet and safety of the people of the Bay City, and indeed of California, was threatened with violence, and the dominion of the traitor Jeff was about to be proclaimed in this loyal State, by warlike Secessionists, and that a piratical craft was being fitted out at the Port of San Francisco—so ran the sensation reports—but, by the vigilance of our Federal appointees, and the authorities at the Bay, both schemes were most timely frustrated. As report goes, the officials at the Custom House spent almost nights of sleepless watching and—we were going to say prayer, but we guess prayer and frauds don't go well together—and for their reward they secured the pirate Chapman, and also saved all the Government property at Benicia, Mare Island, etc., from falling into the hands of two hundred men who were about to appropriate everything, and defy the thousand or more men stationed there to help themselves! and now, after all their finely concocted sensation plans to impress the President with their faithful vigilance, it is strange indeed he "don't see it;" but for all this, and perhaps more, the Federal officers of the Bay have been removed and others appointed. We rather guess the President "sees it" as others do—a trick to retain office, cover up frauds and make political capital. Tempus omnia revelat.

SENTENCED.—F. M. Burnett, the person who rode through the town of Red Bluff, exhibiting a secession flag, was taken to Alcatraz on Saturday last, to labor on the fortification for ten years, or until the close of the war, with a ball and chain on his leg. Gen. Wright approves the sentence of the Court Martial at Camp Union.

DENIES IT.—Frank F. Fargo, Clerk of the Supreme Court, denies on oath that he has sold any offices in the San Francisco Mint, Custom House or Postoffice.

Topics of the Day.

No matter what the topic of conversation may be in the family circle, on the street, or in the bar room, it will inevitably turn or lead to the subject of the great struggle now going on at the east, and more particularly the operations before Charleston. Meet a friend upon the street, and if he is a farmer, ask him how his crops look, and he will ask you "what is the news from Charleston?" Go into the family circle and talk for five minutes if you can without alluding to Charleston, or the course of the war in general. But step into the bar room, not only here but everywhere (for all have a right to talk there) and there you will hear the cause, the progress, and the inevitable result of this mighty struggle; there you will hear the great principles that underlay our Government discussed with statesman-like lore; there you may hear the probable result of a great battle won or lost to our cause on future generations; there you can hear the policy of our government animadverted on, according to the political complexion of the speaker, and all, eventually, winding up with an inquiry—"What do you think of the news from Charleston?" and then the topics alluded to are discussed backwards. We, the American people, are pre-eminently a reasoning as well as acting people, and anything we say or do is hugely satisfactory, if not to others, it is at least to ourselves.

Another question that is now agitating the politicians of California, is the ensuing campaign in this State. The Douglas Central Committee met on the 15th, and the State Central Committee of the Breckinridge wing of the Democracy will meet on the 5th of May next at Sacramento; the Republicans having called their Convention to meet on the 17th June, 1863. We may look for exciting times during the campaign which is being inaugurated at this early day. The subject of uniting the two wings of the Democratic party is eliciting a considerable amount of discussion. This topic is already receiving its full share of attention on our streets, and in the by-ways.

From all parts of the State, and Nevada, comes the news of almost fabulous mines of minerals being discovered—mines of gold, and gold and silver bearing quartz—mines of copper, mines of quicksilver, mines of salt, and mines of other varieties which we cannot now call the names, or if we could, "too numerous to mention," all forcing us, like so many hungry wolves on the track of their prey, to rush on to the newly found mines, leaving good wages, pleasant work, for the sake of exemplifying the old adage, that "risks make merchants," etc. Californians are certainly the most excitable, and the most care-for-nothing people in the world; they make and break quicker than any other people, but never think of giving up the chase after wealth. Every man that is footloose is making preparations to start for some of the various mines, where he at least thinks he can make his "pile." California suffers from all this; for it not only takes the laboring class from among us, but it takes a vast amount of money from our midst. It is very probable that farm hands will command good wages on account of the exodus to the mines.

SOLDIER'S LAW.—It has been decided by the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania that the legislative act of April, 1861, providing that no civil process shall issue against a soldier during the term of his enlistment, is constitutional, and that proceedings on mortgages, executed prior to the act, are within its limits.

The oldest postmaster in the Union is dead—John Billings, of Trenton, Oneida county, N. Y., who was appointed by President Jefferson, more than 54 years ago. He held the office without intermission until his death, a short time since.

DIED.—W. H. Temple, member elect of Congress from Delaware, died a day or two since. He was a Democrat, elected by 37 majority over Fisher, Union member of the last Congress.

AN EXCUSE.—It has been decided by the highest court in England that ill health is sufficient excuse for breach of promise of marriage.

FLAX RAISING.—Ex-President Buchanan has been buying land in Chester county, Pa., and is going heavily into the cultivation of flax.

The Savannah Republican says there is reliable information that a general Indian war is in contemplation in the north-west on the opening of spring. The intelligence comes directly from Ft. Pierre, Upper Missouri river.

Letter from Dr. Bellows.

AGENCY U. S. SANITARY COM., }
NEW YORK, March 9, 1863. }
DEAR LADIES: Our Treasurer will send you a formal business receipt for your welcome and generous benefaction of $1,222 70, just received. I desire only to add a brief expression of the gratitude which the women of the loyal Atlantic States owe and pay to their patriotic sisters of the Pacific coast. We rejoice to find, from the daily testimonies of devotion we are receiving from California, that neither mountains can divide, nor seas and plains separate, the widely scattered, but still united people of our beloved country. You, dear sisters of the nation, are doing your part to keep the robe of our inheritance, a seamless one! You will not permit traitors to tear our flag in twain, if your gentle hands can sew its tatters together, or lifted in prayer, can avail with God, to forbid its partition. In the name of our sick and wounded soldiers I thank you for your loving contribution. While the war lasts, we must continually need the means of alleviating the distress of battle fields and hospitals; of discharged soldiers, and the ten thousand wants, which Government with all its best efforts (and they are noble and constant) cannot fully consider.

During the month of February the Sanitary Commission averaged 450 soldiers a night, thrown exclusively on its care, in Washington alone; and supplied 1,800 meals a day to convalescents, discharged without means of reaching home, from the Hospitals. We send these men home, and take care of those who are not well enough to go until they are ready. But this is but one out of a thousand opportunities of help and service, rendered by our Commission. Doubtless thousands of lives have been saved through the means furnished by California alone. Bless God, then, for her timely aid! and thank Him for your part in this gracious opportunity of mercy and patriotism.

Your obliged friend and fellow citizen,
HENRY W. BELLOWS,
President.

To Mrs. C. W. Lewis, Pres.; Mrs. F. S. Freeman, Treas.; Mrs. G. D. Fiske, Sec. of Woodland Soldiers Aid Society.

THE REASON WHY.—A Philadelphia correspondent of the New York Tribune gives the following as the reason why General McClellan did not communicate with the General in Chief Scott in 1861. The writer states that letters were not sent to the President direct until some time after it had been discovered by Gen. McClellan that General Scott's office was not the safest place for him to expose his plans or make known what he was doing. It is known that Gen. McClellan's plans had been several times, in a very mysterious way, made known to the rebels, almost as quickly as they were to our commanders in the field. Gen. McClellan found out the individual; it was General Scott's son in law, Henry L. Scott, who was with Gen. Scott in Washington as an Inspector General, with the rank, pay, etc., of a Colonel of cavalry. Gen. McClellan went to the President about the extraordinary demerit, and Col. Scott and Adjutant General Thomas, who was also suspected of treachery, was summoned to the White House to be confronted on the charge. Col. Scott confessed his guilt! What was done? Why, Colonel Scott, instead of being shot for his treason, was allowed to be placed on the retired list for life, and to receive the pay and emoluments of a Lieut. Col. of cavalry! He immediately went to Europe, where he is doing all he can for secession. General Scott will not publish anything. He knows the reason why Gen. McClellan did not report his plans and Gen. Scott will not stir up a matter that would be of no advantage to one of his family who is a traitor living upon a Government which he basely betrays.

NICARAGUA ROUTE.—The movement for reopening and establishing this competing route of trade and travel between California and the east is progressing steadily and in the most healthy manner. Moses Taylor, John J. Phelps and M. O. Roberts have gone into its Board of Directors, and other men of like stamp are to be elected within a few days. Moses Taylor is the new President. This means business, and so it is viewed by the old line, whose leading men begin to realize (though publicly they scot the idea) that they are about to have the most formidable competition which they ever yet encountered. Still they keep the Pacific Mail stock up to very high figures in the market, because they have a "corner" in it, and see that they can make the large number of "short" sellers pay extravagant prices to buy stock to settle their contracts. The operations in Pacific Mail just now furnish a marked lesson of the debasing influences of stock gambling, even upon the press of New York, as well as upon men who stand highest on the list of "honorable gentlemen" in the mercantile and financial world. The managers of Pacific Mail Steamship Company know perfectly well that the opposition now threatening them must greatly reduce their profits.

BY OVERLAND TELEGRAPH.

The following dispatches are from the Sacramento Union of April 15th:

NEW YORK, April 13.—The Tribune's account of the Charleston fight says: The squadron arrived off Charleston on the morning of April 5th, and spent the day in examining the bars and channels, the wind being too high to cross that evening. The Admiral's plan was to sail directly up and attack the northwest face of Sumpter, at from six to eight hundred yards. At 8 o'clock on Monday morning the signal was given for the advance, but in consequence of the fog we were obliged to postpone the intended attack until the next day. During the afternoon one of Gen. Turner's brigades worked its way up Folly Island and established communication with the fleet; but no portion of the land forces got into the attack on the 7th. At 4:15 p.m. the fleet got under way and passed Morris Island batteries without being fired upon, pushing right towards Sumpter. The Ironsides worked badly in consequence of the current, and was obliged to anchor two or three times.—Moultrie opened first on the Weehawken which was then within 500 yards of the Cummings point battery. Sumter and the battery immediately followed, and the action became general and terrific. The Monitors still pushed on, replying vigorously, and passed the northeast face of Sumter, when they discovered three lines of obstructions, holding torpedoes, one of which exploded but did no great damage. Finding it impossible to pass the obstructions, they turned and steamed down the harbor. The Patapsco's two hundred pounder became disabled, the turret of the Passaic was so bent that the vessel was practically out of use. The other boat also continued their course to the northeast face of Sumter, and were also stopped by the obstructions and turned back, after being under fire three-quarters of an hour. All the monitors were ordered back, and at five the entire fleet was out of range and the action ceased. Dupont intended to renew the attack next day, but ascertaining that the Keokuk and Passaic were entirely disabled and three others partially so, he concluded to desist, in which he was sustained by all the commanders. There are eleven large holes in the side of Sumter, apparently extending through the walls. The entire firing only amounted to 150 rounds when the correspondent left. Two Monitors sailed for Port Royal, and others were to follow.

The Herald's correspondent says a rumor was in circulation at Port Royal on the 6th, that our troops were rapidly gaining the rear of the city of Charleston.

The Times says the result of the reconnaissance at Charleston shows the utter insufficiency of the iron clad fleet to take Charleston alone. The Nahant received 30 wounds, several being bad fractures. The Passaic was also wounded severely in the turret and pilot house. The Nantucket's turret was so jarred, that a port could not be used, rendering her 15 inch gun useless. None of the other Monitors were disabled. The Keokuk received 70 shots, 19 of them penetrating her at water mark. She kept afloat until the next morning, and sunk on the bar with colors flying.

BOSTON, April 13.—A special dispatch to the Herald, dated Newbern (N. C.), April 9, says:

A reconnoitering cavalry force, sent overland, on the 7th, encountered a strong force of rebel pickets, ten miles from here, and drove them in for five miles. Yesterday a large force went over the Neuse river, on an overland expedition to the relief of Gen. Foster. The transportation train was across the river last night, where the expedition encamped. Preparations are being taken against surprise here. It is expected there will be some hard fighting up the road. The rebels are reported in immense numbers.

NEW YORK, April 13.—The gunboat Valley City, which passed the rebel batteries below Washington, N. C., to Gen. Foster's assistance, was struck by 63 shot. Her fate subsequently is not known.

Sterling firm at 171@172. Gold higher and irregular; extremes, 56@59, closing weak at 57.

FRANKLIN (Tenn.), April 12th.—All quiet in this vicinity. Van Dorn has fallen back two miles south of Spring Hill, and manifests no disposition to make another attack.

LOUISVILLE, April 13.—The rebels captured with the train at Antioch on Friday a large amount of money belonging to the Government, and robbed the passengers of all they had. The same party went to the Cumberland river and fired into a freight train for this city, and destroyed the engine, a cannon ball passing through the boiler.

NEW YORK, April 14.—Advices by the Arago say the ironclad Patapsco went to Port Royal, was repaired and again returned for service. None of our vessels but the Keokuk was seriously injured. The fleet lay inside of Charleston bar on Saturday evening, April 11th. Part of the land forces had sailed for Port Royal. The confidence of our naval officers is reported to be in no degree shaken.

Sterling dull and lower, at 168@170; Gold dull, opening at 58 and closing at 54@55.

The Tribune learns through private channels that Longstreet attacked our forces under Keyes, near Yorktown, on Saturday, the 11th. The rebels were repulsed, and fell back to Williamsburg. The rebels under Pryor at the same time assumed an attitude of threatening us at Suffolk. The object is supposed to be to prevent our sending reinforcements to Foster.

It is stated that an engagement near Suffolk is not improbable, and the repulse of the rebels in such an event is considered certain.

The Arago, from Port Royal April 11, has arrived. The Purser says nothing of consequence had transpired since the 7th. Hunter and army were to leave Port Royal the day after the Arago left.

The gunboat Washington ran aground on the 8th in Broad river, near Port Royal Ferry. Assistance was sent to her, but to no purpose. The rebels, having bro't down a light battery, commenced firing on her. One shell struck her magazine, causing the destruction of the boat. Two persons were killed, two mortally wounded and eight slightly injured.

NASHVILLE, April 13.—By a flag of truce sent from Franklin yesterday we learn that the rebel General Crosby was wounded; also Van Dorn's Aid. The rebels lost heavily in wounded. We captured many horses. Van Dorn expected to capture the town, and had received information that the Federal force was only 2,500 strong.

CAIRO, April 14.—The rebels in the vicinity of Fort Donelson have been for some time gathering up all the horses fit for cavalry service. To stop this Rosecrans has ordered all the good horses in the neighborhood to be taken up by the Federal forces. While on this business, on Friday 70 men fell in with about the same number of rebel cavalry near Waverly. A skirmish ensued in which 21 were taken prisoners.

No news from Vicksburg.

NEW YORK, April 15th.—A special Washington dispatch says:

A report is current in English circles that Seward sent on Saturday, April 2d, a dispatch to the British Government, in which he said, more emphatically than in previous dispatches, that unless that Government prevented the rebel vessels of war now constructing in its ports from sailing out, it would be a breach of faith and the friendly relations existing between Great Britain and the United States, of which this country could hardly fail to take notice.

The Herald's Washington dispatch says:

It is reported that the forces at Fairfax Court House, under Gen. Stahl, were attacked on Sunday last by a rebel force of cavalry, while the pickets were being called in. Skirmishing is said to have been going on at intervals ever since. Nothing of importance, it is believed, has taken place.

Intelligence reached Fortress Monroe on April 13, that the enemy retreated 4 miles (from Washington, N. C.), and that the gunboats sent to Foster's assistance had succeeded in running the rebel batteries on the Pamlico river.

The Times' New Orleans letter says: General Banks is fortifying all the approaches to the city. The enemy is believed to have 75,000 (?) men who can be concentrated near the city at twelve hours notice. There are some apprehensions of a raid from Mobile against Ship Island.

The steamer from Havana, April 9th, reports that Admiral Wilkes was a paroled prisoner, and would continue so until the affair of the Vanderbilt firing into a Spanish coasting vessel was explained.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.—The Concord Democrat of March 21st gives the returns from all the towns in that State, except two, making the majority against Eastman 615. The two towns not heard from gave 12 republican majority last year. The representatives foot up so far, 186 republicans and 139 democrats. Four more are to be heard from. In the Congressional districts, Rollin's majority is about 300; Patterson's 350, and Marcy (dem.) probably somewhere near 50.

STATE of California, County of Yolo.

In Probate Court Yolo county.

In the matter of the Estate of James Morrow, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition of Robert Roberts, administrator of said estate which is hereto annexed. It is ordered that all persons interested in the estate of James Morrow, deceased, be and appear before the Probate Court of Yolo county on the 25th day of May, 1863, at 2 o'clock p.m. of that day, then and there to show cause, if any they can, why an order of distribution should not be made of the residue of said estate among the heirs and devisees of the said James Morrow, deceased, according to law.

It is further ordered that a copy of this order be published for four successive weeks in the KENTON'S LANSING NEWS, a newspaper published in Yolo county, before the said 25th day of May, 1863.

Done in open Court 17th March, 1863.
L. R. HOPKINS,
Probate Judge Yolo county.

STATE of California, County of Yolo: I hereby certify the foregoing to be a true copy of the original order as the same appears of record in this office.

Witness my hand, and seal of Probate [L. S.] Court, this 14th day of April, 1863.
E. GIDDINGS, Clerk.

SOUTHWESTERN MISSOURI.—Very frequently in the last two months has attention been called to the suffering condition of the people of Southwestern Missouri. Their position now is more alarming than ever. For two years past, the country has been traversed by the rebel and Union armies, and wherever they have gone desolation has marked their course. It is no use to attempt to conceal it—the depredations of one army has been as great as those of the other. The whole country has been laid waste. Houses, fences, horses, cattle—everything used about a farm, and everything necessary to the subsistence of a family have been swept away—and, what is equally as bad, the male members of families are all abroad either in the Federal or rebel armies—and the women and children are starving. We have the assurance of Col. Found, who has been in command at Springfield, that, unless something is speedily done by the State or Federal Governments for the relief of the Southwestern section of the State, great numbers of the people must die from actual starvation. They have not the means of procuring a living in any way. They have been robbed of everything, and it is out of their power to raise enough for their actual subsistence. Our sympathies are greatly excited for the starving thousands of England, and ship loads of provisions are sent to them, but here are thousands of women and children absolutely in a state of starvation, and yet neither the State, nor the Federal Governments, nor our own people, who have until now enjoyed profitable intercourse with them, seem willing to lend them a helping hand. When it is considered that our own troops, as well as rebel armies, have robbed them of everything, we assume that it presents a case which demands instant relief at the hands of one or the other Governments. We feed, clothe and provide for the runaway negroes of disloyal as well as loyal owners. The Missouri Hotel is appropriated to the use of some five hundred of these negroes, fed at the expense of the Government, and thousands of others are employed by the same authority in and about the city; and is it possible that we will longer close our eyes to the fact, thousands of white women and children are starving in the Southwest, and this mainly, because our armies, as well as the rebels, deprived them of the means of earning a subsistence by their own labor and on their own farms?—Missouri Republican, 16th March.

BEATEN.—At the late election in Newport, Ky., a negro beat the Union candidate for town trustee.

THE THOROUGHBRED HORSE RIFLEMAN,

PATRONIZE HOME INDUSTRY!!! CALIFORNIA MARBLE.

HAVING been awarded the First Prizes at the different State Fairs for Monumental work, we would respectfully call Particular Attention to our specimens of California Marble, and Workmanship now on hand. It is the best Marble ever found in the United States, and is not excelled in Europe for general purposes. It is free from flint or iron, more compact, of finer texture, and susceptible of as high a polish as the best Italian. As we quarry our own Marble, and are practical workmen in it, we can furnish anything in our line cheaper than the Cheapest.
And as Good as the Best! To satisfy yourselves of the fact, please call at our

THE Knight's Landing News.

"TALK about your hereditary patriotism," cried X, "why, my father fought under General Jackson!"
 "I thought they were deadly enemies," said the gentleman of the Old School.
 "So they were," responded X, "and the only time they ever fought, Jackson was on top."
 "Will you—will you take something?" murmured the old gentleman blandly.

MANY persons have their best society in their own hearts and souls—the purest memories of earth and the sweetest hopes of Heaven; their loneliness is not solitude.

JUDGE FIELD has written a letter to his brother at the East in which he states that a reversal of the Dred Scott decision is all that is wanted now to complete the emancipation of the country.

A LADY well advanced in maidenhood at her marriage, requested the choir to sing the hymn commencing:
 This is the way I long have sought,
 And mourned because I found it not.

THOSE who have resources within themselves, and can dare to live alone, want friends the least, but know how to prize them the most.

WHATEVER busies the mind without corrupting it, has at least this use—that it rescues the day from idleness; and he that is never idle, will not often be vicious.

PUBLIC applause is ever jealous of its own verdict, and thus the men who have been most abused have been generally those who have been most praised.

GENERALLY the office-seeker who gets nothing, gets what is good for him, and exactly what he is good for.

BAKER & HAMILTON, IMPORTERS AND DEALERS IN Farming Implements & Machines, J STREET, BETWEEN FRONT AND 2D, SACRAMENTO.

VIZ: Threshing, reaping and mowing, machines; horse hay rakes, cast and steel plows, plow castings, cultivators, harrows, harrow teeth, churns, cheese presses, grain cradles, seed sowers, corn planters, corn shellers, hoes, horse hoes, shovels, spades and trowels, garden shears, reels and lues, garden rakes, straw cutters, sugar mills, fan mills, hay and manure forks, hay knives, axes, hatchets, ax-handles, sickles, scythes, snathes, bush scythes, road scrapers, grind stones, wheel barrows, sausage cutters and stuffers, ox yokes and bows, patent bow pins, binding and pruning knives, well wheels and buckets, etc., etc.

PATENT COMBINED GANG PLOW, SEED SOWER AND HARROW.

We have purchased the right this great labor-saving implement for the State of California, and are having a number made in the Atlantic States for this market.

With this combined Machine one man, with six horses, can do the work of three twelve inch plows, besides sowing the grain, and harrowing it in as he proceeds, thus finishing his work in the best manner possible, without being obliged to travel over the plowed ground. This Machine was very thoroughly tested by the farmers of Santa Clara county, where some eighty are now in use; also, by the Messrs. Hensel & Kethley, of this county, and Messrs. Hoppin Brothers, near Cacheville, Yolo county. It is made very substantial; is not liable to get out of order, and being on large truck wheels, the Gang Plow, Seed Sower and Harrow, runs lighter than three plows would, cutting the same amount of land.

We are desirous of having these plows generally introduced throughout the State, and are therefore prepared to offer very favorable inducements to farmers and the trade. The following are some of the names of our customers who have used them for the past two seasons:

Sacramento county—Hensel & Kethley.
 Yolo county—Hoppin Brothers, L M Curtis, Caleb Davis, C Travers, A J Scroggins.
 Sutter county—M Boulware, A L Chandler.
 Colusa county—James Timothy, J Crouch.
 Butte county—Major J Bidwell.
 Placer county—E Miles.

IMPROVED FARMS TO LET OR SELL GREAT INDUCEMENTS TO EMIGRANTS AND FARMERS!!

THE undersigned has several Thousand Acres of Land to Lease or Rent to parties wishing to cultivate. The land is of the richest and most fertile in the Sacramento Valley, and produces the finest crops of wheat, barley and oats in Yolo county. The land is all under good board fence, and it will be let in quantities to suit.

All improvements put on the land by cultivators or renters, will be taken at their appraised valuation at the expiration of the term of the lease.

The land will be rented at a cash rent of $3 00 per acre per annum, or one-fourth of the crop, at the option of the renter, with the reserved privilege of buying at an agreed price.

Parties wishing to make division fences, the lumber will be furnished free for the purpose.

When parties Rent the land, the pasturage is reserved after the crops are secured.

 Cure Cough, Cold, Hoarseness, Influenza, any Irritation or Soreness of the Throat, relieves the hacking cough in Consumption, Bronchitis, Asthma, Gout, Rheumatism, and gives strength to the voice of PUBLIC SPEAKERS and SINGERS.

Few are aware of the importance of checking a cough or "slight cold in its first stage, that which in the beginning would yield to a mild remedy, if neglected, soon attacks the lungs. "Brown's Bronchial Troches" are a most valuable article, especially so at this season of the year, when coughs, colds, Bronchitis, Influenza, Hoarseness and Sore Throat are so prevalent. The Troches give sure and almost immediate relief. Sold by all Druggists in the United States, at 25 cents a box.
