Enclosure no. 16 to Despatch no. dated December 12, 1945, from the American Embassy at Buenos Aires, Argentina.

Contents of Trunk No. III Entrusted Under Seal by Ex-Japanese Embassy to Swiss Legation in February 1944. Examined November 30, 1945 by Allied Authorities.

This trunk contains folders nos. C-1 through C-20, inclusive, containing mainly information of a consular nature such as registration and passport records; also six black-bound books consisting of accounts ledgers and records of communications sent and received by the Consulate since 1934.

A report of February 1944 contained in folder no. C-12 indicates that at the time the Japanese handed over charge of Japanese interests to the Swiss Legation there were 8000 Japanese residents in Argentina. The report gives a break-down of the community by employment as well as by numbers of men, women and children in each category.

It is believed that a detailed examination of these records would be of value in obtaining information about members of the Japanese community in Argentina.

List of Contents of Index Card Cabinets Nos. 18-26 Inclusive, entrusted by the Japanese Embassy to the Swiss Legation, November 1944. Examined December 1, 1945 by the Allied Authorities.

These index cards comprise a ready reference to the registration and passport status of Japanese nationals in Argentina. The small cards are filed alphabetically in chronological order, the names being written in both Japanese and Roman letters. The card also sets forth the date of registration, registration number, passport number, date of birth, occupation, legal residence in Japan, and local residence in Argentina together with comments by the registration office. These small cards are kept in two sections, one of live registrations and the other a dead registration file. The dead cards are crossed with a line of red ink.

The live registrations are filed in alphabetical order (more or less). Cards contain the name of the applicant in both Japanese and Roman letters and in addition give the date of birth, passport number, date of arrival in Argentina and route taken in coming to this country, permanent residence in Japan, family data, including names, birth dates, and family relationship, also local address and dates of change in such address, and notations of interest by the registering consul.

An examination of a number of names of interest has revealed information of value in connection with the investigation of Japanese in Argentina. For instance, a notation on one registration card states that the applicant entered Argentina secretly from Paraguay, having originally come from Brazil via the Matto Grosso to Paraguay and crossed the river from Encarnación to San Ignacio, Province of Misiones, Argentina.

No. 1557

Subject: A Cursory Examination of Former Japanese Diplomatic and Consular Archives in Argentina.

SECRET

The Honorable
The Secretary of State,
Washington.

Sir:

I have the honor to refer to the Embassy's despatch no. 1317 dated November 14, 1945, entitled "Transfer by Swiss Legation of Former Japanese Diplomatic and Consular Property and Archives in Argentina to Allied Control", and to previous telegrams on the subject of assumption of custody from the Swiss Legation of such property and archives by the American and British Embassies on behalf of the four Allied Powers.

In this connection are enclosed 17 memoranda regarding a cursory examination of the archives acquired from the Swiss Legation, as made by Second Secretary Gerald Warner of this Embassy over a period of two weeks before his departure on transfer.

1-12/ Enclosures nos. 1-12 list the contents of 12 wooden boxes containing mainly books used by the former Japanese Embassy and Consulate. Box no. 12 contains several consular records of possible interest.

13/ Enclosure no. 13 lists the contents of a steel cabinet which contained numerous confidential Japanese Embassy and Consular records for the years 1932, and 1936-1943 inclusive. A registry of Japanese in Argentina listed as being included in this cabinet was not found when the cabinet was opened.

14-16/ Enclosures nos. 14, 15, and 16 list the contents of three trunks given to the Swiss Legation by the Japanese under seal for custody. These three trunks contain the records of most interest of all those examined, and the Department might wish to have these records sent to Washington for further detailed study. The British Embassy has no objection to the despatch of these records for this purpose. The records of accounts and registrations of Japanese citizens and records of communications sent and received by the Japanese Embassy for past years are perhaps of interest in connection with further investigations of Japanese activities in Argentina.

17/ Enclosure no. 17 notes the file of Japanese registration cards. These cards contain up-to-date information about Japanese registered with the former Japanese Consulate, and has been maintained by the Swiss since they took charge of Japanese interests in February 1944. The cards are required by the Swiss Legation in order to continue their routine protection work for Japanese nationals resident in Argentina. In preparing the list of Japanese proposed for deportation, in accordance with the Department's confidential instruction of September 25, 1945, entitled "Submission of Lists of Obnoxious Japanese for Possible Repatriation", use was made of the cards in order to obtain up-to-date information on each person considered. The Offices of the Legal Attaché and the Military Attaché plan to cooperate with the..appropriate officers in the British Embassy in completing the final list to be submitted within the near future.

The Swiss Legation rented offices at R.S. Peña 636 and moved in on November 19, 1945, in order to continue its work of protecting Japanese nationals. One room in these offices is being set aside for the storage of the ex-Japanese Embassy and Consular archives, where examination may be made by the interested Allied authorities when they wish. In accordance with instructions from the Department, the Argentine Foreign Office has been granted access to the archives for examination.

In addition seven file cabinets were acquired from the Swiss Legation. Those which have been opened thus far have contained no records of interest, but mainly nearly empty file folders and miscellaneous office equipment.

Respectfully yours,

John M. Cabot

Enclosure no. 14 to Despatch no. dated December , 1945, from the American Embassy at Buenos Aires, Argentina.

Contents of Trunk No. I Entrusted Under Seal by Ex-Japanese Embassy to Swiss Legation in February 1944. Examined November 30, 1945 by Allied Authorities.

This trunk contains numerous confidential files and records of communications sent and received by the Embassy. A cursory examination of folders nos. 1-28, inclusive (no. 18 being divided into three parts, a, b, and c) indicates that the folders may contain information of further interest along the lines set forth. In addition the trunk contains thirteen black-bound record books giving lists of despatches, reports, instructions, and telegrams sent and received by the Embassy since 1933. These records give the date, number and subject of each communication and a detailed examination might reveal items of interest.

Folder No. 1

Letter marked secret from the Japanese Legation in Montevideo, dated September 25, 1941, states that telegrams in Roman letters for May 1935 had been destroyed by burning in accordance with instructions.

Accounts from Montevideo set forth entertainment expenses for first and second periods for 1941, showing less than 100 pesos per month spent for entertainment.

Secret Embassy report of November 4, 1941, sets forth Japanese-Uruguayan trade balance as of November 30, 1941.

Buenos Aires Embassy's secret report of November 12, 1941 sets forth propaganda expenditures for September 1941, revealing many payments of interest, as follows:

a 500-peso subsidy to the newspaper El Argentin Djijo, Uspallata 981.

Payment of 70-peso subsidy to E.C. Gunawardana in connection with his book "Ceylon y sus Derechos".

$100 (pesos) to Transocean for receipt of Domei news in July.

$50 (pesos) to Japanese lawyer Tsugimaru Tanoue for services during September.

$100 (pesos) to Argentine publicist Albino Pugnalin for services in September.

$500 (pesos) to Saporiti News Agency for September service.

$785 (pesos) to Accinelli Hnos., printers, for 1500 copies of the magazine Oriente y Occidente for September, printed on order of Dr. Albino Pugnalin.
$100 (pesos) to Elena Sakamoto for September salary.
$200 (pesos) to Ilsabe von Arenstorff for September salary.

Secret Embassy report of November 14, 1941 gives same information for Japanese-Argentine trade for 1940 and first 10 months of 1941.

Secret Embassy report of November 17, 1941 gives propaganda expenses for October 1941, duplicating some of those for September but also showing that staff members were granted funds for entertainment of newspapermen, specifically in this case for those representing Caras y Caretas and Libre Palabra and a Spanish newspaperman named Góngora.

Embassy's secret despatch of November 20, 1941 reports destruction of "overseas" secret code book and regulations for its use.

Secret Embassy reports of November 24 and 25, 1941 brings up to date the Japanese-Uruguayan and Japanese-Argentine trade balance statements setting forth names of firms involved in this trade.

Embassy accounts of propaganda expenses for December 1941 included:
$46 (pesos) for entertainment of three members of personnel of Customs at Morón.
$46 (pesos) to Yoshio Shinya for expenses of flower exhibition.
$500 to Dr. Pugnalin for investigation work.
$575 to Restaurant Aguila for catering at Embassy residence for cocktail party to 28 Argentine Army and Navy officers, including the Navy Minister, by the Japanese Ambassador, December 4, 1941.
$265 (pesos) to Casimiro Polledo for wine for the Embassy.
$323 (pesos) to Calvet y Cía. for sherry purchased by Embassy in October 1941.
$80 to Tadashichi Yamada, florist, for flowers presented to Admiral Domecq García on December 4.
$100 (pesos) to Genji Sugano in charge of news as a present to use in paying the news messenger.
$100 (pesos) to Juana Bailina for messenger work in connection with the delivery of war news bulletin.

Enclosure no. 16 to Despatch no. dated December , 1945, from the American Embassy at Buenos Aires, Argentina.

Contents of Trunk No. III Entrusted Under Seal by Ex-Japanese Embassy to Swiss Legation in February 1944. Examined November 30, 1945 by Allied Authorities.

This trunk contains folders nos. C-1 through C-20, inclusive, containing mainly information of a consular nature such as registration and passport records; also six black-bound books consisting of accounts ledgers and records of communications sent and received by the Consulate since 1934.

A report of February 1944 contained in folder no. C-12 indicates that at the time the Japanese handed over charge of Japanese interests to the Swiss Legation there were 8000 Japanese residents in Argentina. The report gives a break-down of the community by employment as well as by numbers of men, women and children in each category.

It is believed that a detailed examination of these records would be of value in obtaining information about members of the Japanese community in Argentina.

dated December , 1945, from the American Embassy at Buenos Aires, Argentina.

List of Contents of Index Card Cabinets Nos. 18-26 Inclusive, entrusted by the Japanese Embassy to the Swiss Legation, November 1944. Examined December 1, 1945 by the Allied Authorities.

These index cards comprise a ready reference to the registration and passport status of Japanese nationals in Argentina. The small cards are filed alphabetically in chronological order, the names being written in both Japanese and Roman letters. The card also sets forth the date of registration, registration number, passport number, date of birth, occupation, legal residence in Japan, and local residence in Argentina together with comments by the registration office. These small cards are kept in two sections, one of live registrations and the other a dead registration file. The dead cards are crossed with a line of red ink.

The live registrations are filed in alphabetical order (more or less). Cards contain the name of the applicant in both Japanese and Roman letters and in addition give the date of birth, passport number, date of arrival in Argentina and route taken in coming to this country, permanent residence in Japan, family data, including names, birth dates, and family relationship, also local address and dates of change in such address, and notations of interest by the registering consul.

An examination of a number of names of interest has revealed information of value in connection with the investigation of Japanese in Argentina. For instance, a notation on one registration card states that the applicant entered Argentina secretly from Paraguay, having originally come from Brazil via the Matto Grosso to Paraguay and crossed the river from Encarnación to San Ignacio, Province of Misiones, Argentina.
