

southern campus

It is now 1972. Southern Campus had been around for a long time. It seems that each year it is exceedingly more and more difficult to publish this type of yearbook. It used to be that the spirit of the school drew everyone together and the yearbook served as a journalistic and photographic chronicle of the gatherings of the past year. The basic question seems to be that of priorities. The ultimate question for the fraternities and the sororities stems not from the thought of which house has the most members or the greatest amount of activities, but rather the debate of whether these institutions are officially dead. Sports is still very popular here, but it is reaching the point where UCLA sports is on television too much. It is getting very difficult to buy a better seat than the one in your living room. Publications on this campus are in a continual fight for survival, if not for lack of adequate funds, for lack of personnel. These used to be the items that brought everyone closer together. There used to be the things that would make conversation. What has happened? The problem is one of priorities. It would seem that UCLA "life" has slipped from the top five.

It used to be that when one opened a yearbook, the fun came from the fact that you knew most of those pictured in the book. Unfortunately, this cannot be said for any of the recent UCLA yearbooks. It is for this reason that the editors of this year's book have decided to put together a second "yearbook" in addition to the more traditional one. In this second book you will recognize many of the old friends that you grew up with. We believe that these old friends are very much a part of the way most of us think now. These are people who we met every day after school or friends we saw at the ballpark. In any case these are our friends and if you think about it, you really can't ignore them . . .

The staff responsible for the production of this book respectfully request anonymity .

SPEAKERS

IT WOULD SEEM THAT THE SHOES OF THE CHAIRMAN OF THE ASSOCIATED STUDENT SPEAKER'S PROGRAM WOULD BE VERY DIFFICULT TO FILL. LAST YEAR, BOB ELIAS PRESENTED UCLA WITH A PROGRAM OF SPEAKERS THAT WAS SUPERB NOT ONLY IN QUALITY, BUT IN QUANTITY. FORTUNATELY FOR UCLA ANOTHER ELIAS HAS UNDERTAKEN THE CHAIRMAN'S DUTIES. GABE ELIAS SHOULD BE COMMENDED FOR THE DIVERSITY OF HIS PROGRAM. IT WAS EQUALLY REFRESHING TO SEE PROGRAMS WHERE MORE THAN ONE SPEAKER WAS FEATURED. THE DIFFERENT REPARTEE BETWEEN THE SPEAKERS THEMSELVES AND THE AUDIENCE ADDED A NEW DIMENSION TO THE HERETOFORE ONE-TO-ONE SETUP.

In past issues of Southern Campus, the programs of the Fine Arts Productions have been ignored to a great extent. Only passing mention has been made of the talent that has appeared on the stages of UCLA. This year, more than ever before, there has been a monumental amount of performances here in almost every field. Besides the fantastic Great Artist series, which included such monumental talents as Van Cliburn, Yehudi Menuhin, and Beverly Sills, UCLA was treated to performances by David Crosby and Graham Nash, The Grateful Dead and the Riders of the Purple Sage, Procul Harum, Randy Newman, Country Joe McDonald. This year's program had enough variety to please virtually anyone. There always seemed to be more than one performance to see on any given weekend ranging from art films, modern dance performances, theater productions, as well as programs of Symphonic Orchestration. However it seemed that the major portion of the student interest centered around the pop series and that was over too early in the year. Even when students wanted to purchase tickets to other events, the one dollar student tickets that were made available were too few and were often gone very quickly. But not even these small problems could in any way mar the tremendous success of this year's program.

BLACK (LIGHT) THEATRE OF PRAGUE

Blacklight in the American entertainment industry has from its first use in acid-rock light shows become incorporated into legitimate theatre. The Black (Light) Theatre of Prague in its debut performance here proved to be a visual experience long to be remembered. The use of black light in extended mime troop bring live animation to the stage. The troupe employs every trick of the trade to create daring flights of fantasy — mad, funny, exhilarating dreamlike farcical situations. The result: euphoria.

In speaking of the art of dance series this year, I must admit that we were treated to a superb program of variety and creativity in the dance motif. As far as publicity and performances are concerned, Maurice Béjart's Ballet of the Twentieth Century received the most attention. I guess the performances were built up to an exorbitant magnitude, for I was not highly impressed with the overall performance of the troupe. There were a couple of numbers that seethed with Béjart's creative genius but on the whole I was ho-humming the event.

The other performances included the Rudy Perez dance theater. Here was a unique group combining tape-sound collages, films plus experiments in dance. A fascinating visual exhibition into inner tension.

The highly touted Royal Winnipeg Ballet played to a SRO audience and exhibited a program ranging from the classical to the avant garde. Personally, I would like to see the movement a little more sensual, but that only to arouse my purient senses. Rounding out the program, the Louis Falco Dance Company presented a fine program utilizing holograms, optical and acoustical, laser beams, infinity boxes and taped voices. All this to pursue Mr. Falco's vision of dance within a contemporary context in a way that is physically demanding and highly individual.

Also in the same theme but yet from the same theory, the Terra Leone National Dance troupe. We were treated to a spirited and supremely accomplished company of dancers, acrobats and musicians from West Africa. Featured in the performance were many exotic effects, ranging from the legendary "devil dancer's" contortionists, singers, a battery of unique percussion instruments, and even a gentle political satire based on the timely "democratic process" of choosing a new chief.

The Louvre, the Metropolitan Museum of Art, the Chicago Art Institute, the British Museum, the Los Angeles County Museum, the Museum of Arles, the Palace of Knossos—these and many others have opened their doors to the creators of the unique international art experience, Museum Without Walls. This remarkable film which was four years in the making, transcends the limitations of the conventional museum, utilizing the flexibility and artistry of the motion picture camera to present disparate but interrelated bodies of works by giants in art history. Under the supervision of internationally renowned art historian and author Douglas Cooper, the series also features narration by art lovers Edward G. Robinson, Ricardo Montalban, Richard Carlson, Richard Basehart, and Barry Sullivan. What emerges is a visual treat of gigantic scope—faithfully and sensitively representing in overwhelming profusion the great masterpieces of the ages, as well as portraying the underlying passions of the men who created them.

JOHN FAHEY

This year Monday nites were better than ever with the Coffee House Concert Series in operation. Every other Monday Nite informally was the key as students came to a cozy room in the Recreation Center to watch and listen as various programs were presented. The coffee was free and the atmosphere was relaxed as folk-singers and comedians went through their acts. Among the performers were songstress Dory Previn and guitarist John Fahey. However, the highlight of the season was a San Diego based mime & music troupe. Don McCleod and his mime & music machine presented a unique program of mime, deftly interwoven with rock music from an unbelievably fine drummer and a superb keyboard man. The music enhanced McCleod's excellent performance and the audience was delighted. Although the audiences were obviously limited due to space and proximity to the event on a Monday nite it is hoped that the future of the Coffee House Concerts will not grow cold.

— NO ONE UNDER 18 ADMITTED —

Yes, we really did a few things that were unique. One of them included this horror expo. The all nite affair was highlighted by a monster contest. The trick was to be the most true to death monster. Monster Notables were on hand as judges and award presenters and the evening was sheer unbelievability. The thing in the lower left hand corner of this page took first place and rode off on his new first prize — a motorcycle.

Keep those free noon concerts coming. David T. Walker (above, left) had everyone jumping, Mary Clayton had everyone singing, Big Brother & the Holding Company had everyone shouting and Willie Bobo & his group had everyone clapping. There is nothing like a free noon concert to make the lunch go down smooth — with rhythm.

The organic sandwich poked its head out of the soil and into the mouth for the first time this year. V^gy good.

The 1971 football season was a transitional year, one which saw Franklin "Pepper" Rodgers (left) take over as head coach after Tommy Prothro accepted the Los Angeles' Rams' job. The Dummit era had vanished and Rodgers went through one offense during spring practice, only to change to the option in mid-season as a result of ineffective results, injuries and the conspicuous absence of James McAlister, declared ineligible by the NCAA. The Bruins finished with a 2-7-1 record with victories over Washington State and Arizona, both on the road. The tie — a 7-7 deadlock with USC — will be most remembered.

FOOTBALL

Big plays did not abound during the season, but fleet Reggie Echols (left) scored on a 42-yard pass from Mike Flores to give UCLA an early 7-0 lead against Texas. It didn't last.

Terry Vernoy (above) peers into the focus of quarterback Mike Flores against Oregon State. Vernoy was the Bruins' top pass catcher with 17 receptions and should move into the top 10 on the UCLA receiving list next season and often held for placekicker Efen Herrera. Bruce Barnes (lower right) led the conference in punting two seasons in a row, averaging 40.8 in 1970, then 41.9 in 1971. Flores (lower left) readied to fire in the Texas game, won by the Longhorns, 28-10. Mike was used almost exclusively in passing situations as the season progressed and threw out of a shotgun formation in the tie against USC.

"It is not the critic who counts, not the man who points how the strong man stumbled, or where the doer of deeds could have done them better. The credit belongs to the man who is actually in the arena; whose face is marred by the dust and sweat and blood; who strives valiantly; who errs and comes short again and again
. . . who knows the great enthusiasms, the great devotions and spends himself in a worth cause; who, at the best, knows in the end the triumph of high achievement; and who, at the worst, if he fails, at least fails while daring greatly, so that his place shall never be with those cold and timid souls who know neither victory nor defeat."

—Theodore Roosevelt

Ron Carver (upper left) was the Bruins' chief punt returner, but suffered through the season with various injuries. Marv Kendricks (upper right) chased a loose ball against Washington, but had an 80-yard run against Washington State and scored the Bruins' touchdown in the USC deadlock.

Mike Flores (lower right) checked signals against Texas and began the season as the No. 1 quarterback. Craig Campbell (77 lower left) and Paul Moyneur combined their talents to cream a Husky ball carrier.

With 15 catches in 1971, All Pac-8 tight end Bob Christiansen now ranks tied for eighth on the all-time receiving list with 48 catches in his career. He averaged nearly 17 yards per reception this past season. Randy Tyler (above) had his best game against Washington, gaining 102 yards, but Efen Herrera's toe was the only scoring punch in a 23-12 defeat. James McAlister (below) was spoofed by the Stanford band in what many including Pepper Rodgers thought was a tasteless move. It was typical, however, of the way the football season progressed without him. His case left many questions unanswered and caused the 1.6 rule to be one of the more controversial topics of recent athletic eras. It also left many Bruins wondering what the season might have been like had McAlister been able to play.

Bill Walton was named college basketball's player of the year by the basketball writers, but it was just one of the many honors he received, including first team Pacific 8 and first team All-American on nearly every conceivable poll. He was also the outstanding player of the NCAA and western regional and Bruin Classic tournaments. Teammate Henry Bibby, too, was honored by several media and was selected to the all-tourney team at the western regionals along with Walton. Not a ball-handler as much as he had been the previous two years, Bibby was nevertheless the fans' favorite, giving the fanatical Pauley Pavilion crowd plenty of opportunities to go stark-raving mad when he threw in the long jumpers, leapt for rebounds among the giants and most of all, never, never stopped hustling. The standing ovation he received at his last game in Pauley will long be remembered. Perhaps the one to recall it most will be the man himself — Henry Bibby. He should.

TRACK

& FIELD

Jim Bush (right), probably the most respected quartermile coach in the country, put together another tremendous track team in 1972. James Butts (above) triple jumped over 53 feet and Jean Pierre Corval was a crack intermediate hurdler. The Bruins were strong in many events and added high hurdler Charles Rich and triple jumper Milon Tiff as midseason point-getters, considerably strengthening the Bruins' position for the dual meet against USC, the Pac-8 conference meet and the NCAA competition. John Smith's early season performance wasn't indicative of his ability as he was saddled with hepatitis during fall quarter, but he came back to run 45.9 in the Meet of Champions.

Fosbury Flopper Dwight Stones (opposite, top) was a frosh sensation, clearing seven feet or better on several occasions. Joe Balasco and Ron Johnson (opposite, left) specialized in distance runs with Balasco's kick often making the difference between victory and defeat. Assistance coach Tom Tellez (opposite, lower left) tutored mostly in the field events, but never received due credit. Rory Kotinek (opposite, right) was UCLA's first decathlon hopeful since Russ Hodge and scored 7,270 points in competition in conjunction with the Meet of Champions. Seymour Silverstein (above left) was the No. 3 javelin thrower while Roger Freberg's specialty was the discus, but he occasionally doubled in the shot put.

Sprinter Warren Edmonson (film strip left), a junior college transfer a year ago, was a busy man, often competing in both relays as well as the 100 and 220. Benny Brown (below) led Ron Gaddis around the turn in the quarter. Brown (a freshman) ran a 44.7 relay leg and consistently improved his time in the quarter. Ruben Mejia and Bob Weaver (opposite, left) cleared the steeplechase barrier while John Smith, the world record holder at 440 yards, cruised to another win (right). Charles Rich (below, center) led teammates Rory Kotinek (far left) and Duane Johnson (far right) over the shot putter Dale Gordon (p. 85) were all valuable members while half-milers Paul Williams, Rick Tschudin and Ricco Sanchez (p. 84) led against Kansas. Harry Freeman went over 53 feet in the Meet of Champions while Francois Tracanelli started slowly in 1972, an Olympic year. John Smith nipped Benny Brown in a battle of youthful quartermilers.

UCLA's rugby team overcame the country's toughest schedule to bring home its third unofficial national championship in the last five years. The ruggers had to deal with such powers as UC Berkeley, Stanford, UC Davis and the Peninsular Ramblers, but challenges seemed to bring out the best in this year's contingent.

In addition, Dennis Storer's team regained the coveted World Cup by upsetting the heavily favored University of British Columbia, 22-7, and also brought home both the Nisbet Cup and the first place trophy from the Monterey Tournament, which saw in its field the top 14 teams in the country.

1972 National Championship . . . 1972 World Cup

FROSH BASKETBALL

WRESTLING

UCLA's wrestling team had a tough time in the 1971-72 season as the Bruins had little depth. The grapplers had good front-liners, especially in the lower weights. But most of the time, the heavyweight matches had to be forfeited and three lettermen counted on for much action during the season never wrestled at all. The Bruins did all right in triangular meets, invitationals and big meets because they did have quality wrestlers in several positions. Jim Bishop (top) used a grapevine with a half-nelson to combat his opponent while Bob Swanson (lower left) stalked his foe. John Meikle (below) was the team's outstanding wrestler and was the conference champion at 126 pounds for the second year in a row. John Abad, Craig Wallitz and Miles Matsumoto also stood out.

John Zenith rode his opponent with a tight waist ride. John Meikle (center), the team's outstanding wrestler, put a move on his counterpart while Greg Coleman (right) used a whizzer.

Gone was Jeff Borowiak through graduation. He signed with the pros. Gone, too, were sparkling youngster Jimmie Connors and Pakistan's Haroon Rahim, victims of the continuing tennis war among rival professional outfits. It figured, then, Glenn Bassett's tennis team couldn't match that of the 1971 and 1970 teams that won NCAA crowns. It didn't. Stanford was able to defeat UCLA in dual match competition for the first time in 30 years, 5-4. But the next week UCLA bounced back to defeat USC by the same score. Jeff Austin (shown here) assumed most of the burden left by the departees, playing No. 1 singles. Opposite page: the Kreiss Bros, Mike (upper left and far left) and Bob (upper right, center right and below center). They teamed as a doubles tandem and played singles as well. Page 95: Ron Cornell (upper and lower left) served as captain. Other team members included Compton Russell (center) and Spencer Segura (upper and far right). Coach Glenn Bassett (lower right) is the man who molded the team. Many people fail to realize that UCLA tennis teams have won more NCAA titles than the basketballers.

Though ineligible for NCAA competition, Paul Becskehazy (cover) was the Bruins' top scorer with 51 goals. Scott Massey (upper left) chipped in with 18 scores. Eric Lindroth (below) scored three goals in the championship game against previously undefeated San Jose State in the Bruins' 5-3 victory. UCLA finished with a 19-1 record, the only loss going to USC in a non-conference game. Jim Puffer (lower left) was a top defenseman. The Bruins were without its usual home pool at Sunset Canyon, which was closed during the fall for repairs to damages caused by the earthquake.

Water polo coaches Buzz Thayer (left) and Bob Horn have compiled a 124-12 mark in the past eight years at UCLA, including eight straight Pac-8 championships and two national titles. The Bruins captured their second NCAA crown in three years and have not lost more than five games in a season since 1964. In the past three seasons, UCLA has not lost a league game. Garth Bergeson (below) scored 24 goals in his freshman year while Carl Thomas (below right) garnered the most improved award.

something to cheer about

Nobody was counting on the 1971 freshman football team to accomplish anything when the season began. Yet, by the time the short, three-game campaign was over the team had lent at least some respectability to the UCLA grid program. In a year when the varsity was floundering, the Brubabes' exceptional team efforts provided a positive outlook for the future. New head coach Ron Noy (left), said character-wise players sounded great, but even Noy admitted, "We didn't get any 'big' names," and the big question was whether they had any ability. Berkeley's Cubs became the first victims of the stress on defense as UCLA humiliated its "big brother", 34-0, with six starters going both ways. The offense worked out of the wishbone and in Palo Alto the freshmen Indians had more than a little trouble detaining the Brubabe advancement (above). The wishbone gained 591 yards in the 62-6 destruction of Stanford, with alternating backfields taking turns pasting the Tribe. Highly-regarded USC was the next foe and some 2,000 fans turned up in the Coliseum to see the unbeaten frosh teams clash. The Trobables won, 25-21, on a late touchdown, but the Brubabes, in only three games, had acquired the same number of victories as the varsity. And the varsity had 10 tries.

S O C C E R

It was quite a season for the UCLA soccer team. Just consider the following: a 19-2 record, three All-Americans in Shoa Agonafer, Sergio Velazquez, and Fesseha Wolde-Emanuel, and advancing to the finals of the Far Western regional soccer playoffs.

There's only one problem. The UCLA kickers lost in the regional finals. That meant they couldn't play for the NCAA championships held in Miami. The stopper was USF. On December 6 in slippery Kezar Stadium, the Dons handed the Bruins a decisive 6-2 setback. Ironically, it was the same Dons who gave the Bruins their only other loss, 1-0, at — you guessed it — Kezar.

But the Bruin booters under the leadership of coach Dennis Storer, had their bright moments. The come-from-behind 5-3 win over San Diego State, the 3-1 thrashing of then nationally-ranked San Jose State, the 5-1 defeat of Chico State in the first round of the regional playoffs, and the 4-0 whitewashing of USC.

The Bruins had one of the most intimidating front lines in the nation with Agonafer, Velazquez, Solomon Terfa, and Tekede Alemu. The defense of goalkeeper Steve Burnside, George Erdelyi, George Jurica, Jose Lopez, and Bob Thrusell terrorized opponents. And the midfield of Yaregal Gebreyesus, Terry Scott, and Wolde-Emanuel was domineering.

Though you wouldn't know it from the start of the Pac-8 championship (above), a cross country runner's path is long and lonely. There are no fans in the stands cheering his moves and few can appreciate the agony that goes into a distance run. Ruben Chappins (cover and below center), however, was third in the conference race. Ron Johnson (right), Jim French (below left), and Joe Balasco (lower left) are familiar to past track followers. Robert Weaver and Dudley Godoy, also pictured here, comprised the remainder of the regular Mike Ramey (above left) and Kelly James (above right) were the leaders of the UCLA Band, which made various basketball trips, accompanied the footballers to Arizona and played at the Ontario 500 before school began in the fall. The all-male contingent also had a good time heckling opponents in Pauley Pavilion. Clarence Sawhill, escorted by song girls Meg Meager and Jody Hammond, retired in June after 20 years of teaching at UCLA. He constantly worked for a refined sound in the bound, whether the performance be in the concert hall, on the football field, or in the classroom workshop.

"Streaky" best described the Bruin baseballers of 1972. The Bruins, who started poorly, won nine straight games for a 20-8 mark. But then UCLA lost five of its first six games in Pac-8 play. Nevertheless, four batters — Earl Altshuler, Bob Adams, Mike Gerakas and Eric Swanson — kept their averages above the .300 mark. Coach Art Reichle (above) visits the mound for a conference on the mound. Firstbaseman Tim Doerr (below) nips a Cal runner, but unfortunately the Bears topped the Bruins thrice at Sawtelle Field. It was Pupil vs. Master in the 1972 NCAA basketball semifinals at the Sports Arena, and, as usual, the Master prevailed. Louisville coach and ex-UCLA assistant Denny Crum congratulated John Wooden on yet another NCAA title after the Wizard of Westwood had won his sixth straight national championship and eighth in the last nine years. The Bruins were criticized by some for taking the title as nearly blasé, but Wooden all along insisted he had much fun coaching this team. It went 30-0, Wooden's third undefeated season at UCLA and now the Bruins can take dead aim on USF's 60-game win streak. Someone said UCLA could win 105 in a row if Bill Walton remains in school through his senior year, but that seems a little out of the question. Not impossible, however.

Crew.

They have signs at the boathouse that read "3,000 miles to the I.R.A." Well, the Intercollegiate Rowing Association regatta is held in upstate New York and may very well be 3,000 miles away, but that isn't what is meant by the sign.

UCLA oarsmen will have rowed a grand total of 3,000 miles before I.R.A. competition begins. Only a minimal amount of that distance will be spent in actual racing. The bulk is accumulated in those daily workouts after school which begin in October.

Pretty soon the oarsmen get to know all the berths at Marina Del Rey as they cruise by in their sleek, custom-made shell.

It's down to Charley Brown's Restaurant and back and then down to the breakwater and back until one is all too familiar with those locals, too.

Ordinarily a week at Big Bear in early April would be a delightful experience. But coach Jerry Johnsen always seems to bring a couple of shells with him so that his oarsmen have something to do. Like rowing continuously.

Women and other distractions are banned from the premises. When oarsmen get down to business, there's no fooling around. At least for the time being.

After one has rowed himself weary, he is sufficiently prepared for racing season. After all 2,000 meters is only a hop, step, and jump compared to the endless scenic tours around Big Bear Lake.

Six months of pull-ups, weight-lifting, running stairs, climbing rope, sit-ups, and other supplementary work in addition to the endless rowing has molded the oarsmen into a veritable gladiator of the waters. Now he has to prove it's all worthwhile.

A half-dozen races will be what he has to show for his efforts. Races in a sport that as a freshman might have seemed as foreign as cricket but are now an integral part of his life.

As a UCLA oarsman he will be among the best at his trade. The Bruin boatmen are always among the finest on the West Coast.

Yet, it will be those October workouts, those marches up to Charley Brown's and back, and the "Hell Week" ritual which will eventually prove whether he is a champion.

And that, of course, means the Western Intercollegiate Sprints and, hopefully, the I.R.A., which early in October was 3,000 miles away.

VOLLEYBALL

UCLA, winner of the NCAA volleyball crown in 1970-71, began its 1972 campaign against stiff competition, losing soundly to Chart House and dropping the competition to Santa Monica YMCA. The Gauchos of UCSB also handed the Bruins a loss, but UCLA was successful against other collegiate competition until the pivotal match against San Diego State. The Bruins dropped that contest in five games after leading in the rubber game, 14-8. The Aztecs thus grabbed a spot in the nationals in Muncie, Ind., home of the infamous Ball State. The Bruins would have to win a regional tournament to qualify for the NCAA tourney. Olympic coach Al Scates used Larry Griebenow (55) and Bob Thomson (35) as setters most of the time. Spikers included Dick Irvine (34), Jeff Jacobs (52), John Zajec (33), Ron Coon (45) and Bob Leonard (24).

SWIMMING

& DIVING

UCLA's swim team, again under the leadership of coaches Bob Horn and Buzz Thayer, finished the season with a 7-2 record in dual meet competition, losses going to Tennessee and USC. The Bruins were second in the Pac-8 meet and fourth in the NCAA finals, won once again by Indiana. The nationals saw several school records broken. Steve Genter (200, 500 and 1650 freestyles), Carl Thomas (200 and 400 individual medleys), Tom Bruce (200 breaststroke) and the realy teams in the 400 medley, 800 freestyle and 400 freestyle all shattered existing school marks. Kurt Krumpholz and Tim McDonnell were named the outstanding freshmen swimmers at the team banquet. Thomas grabbed the most improved award, as he had done in water polo, while Rob Clarke was the most inspirational. Steve Gentes had the highest scholarship for a senior and to nobody's surprise, Tom Bruce was the outstanding swimmer. Genter (lower left) was the national AAU champion in the 200 freestyle while Tom Barry swam (above). Thomas (top, p. 137) had an outstanding water sports year while Sonny Gossick (center) teamed with John Balent as divers.

Perhaps it was best summed up by a girl getting out of her car at 11 p.m. one night last fall quarter, meandering through Parking Lot 6 toward this structure near the athletic field. "This has got to be the most insane thing I ever did," she mumbled. A few minutes later, she was inside Pauley Pavilion with her sleeping bag as she and 1,499 others waited for season basketball tickets. Fifteen hundred had waited in line the same manner the night before. Lines, lines, lines — it was nothing different. But nobody had a realistic solution to the paradox whereby you spend more time waiting in line than you do watching the game. It goes for football, if you're a fanatic, and want the best seats; it surely continues during basketball season.

For eight hours you sleep, or try to, as the cold cement in Pauley greets you with little respect — unless, of course, you're fortunate enough to be inside a co-ed sleeping bag. You wait for 16 little orange tickets that allow you to see 16 games during the season. All, obviously enough, turned out to be victories. Nobody knew it then. And if they could have predicted the Walton Gang or the Bibby Bunch, depending on your preference, would have gone undefeated during the campaign, the result of the annual sleepout would have been the same. If you come down to the morning of season ticket sales, miss breakfast and stroll down at the chilly 7 a.m. hour when tickets go on sale, sorry. You lose.

Pizza Man arrived every 15 minutes with more flavoring spewn on dough. Marathon card games continued for hours. Some try to study, but the smart ones drink. They're going to have a peaceful night one way or another. The camera crews of the local television stations are called but they never show.

But the sleeping in Pauley is just the beginning. Those 16 little tickets give you the distinct privilege of standing in line 16 more times, so that you can get good seats. After all, what good does it do if you have those tickets books and can't get decent seats? Then, you root, root, root but you don't have to very hard because the Bruins are winning by an average of 30 points a game.

Fortunately or unfortunately, depending on your viewpoint, the rest of the 1971-72 sports wasn't as hair-rising.

Special thanks to Ed Harris, Joanne Jubeller, and the members of their staff, whose enthusiastic response made possible a great portion of this book.

This is the last page of the book. In most other yearbooks, the last page of the book is devoted to the INDEX. We are not so bold as to delete an INDEX from our book, but nevertheless, we question its validity. Anyone with a partially wet thumb can do just as well as an INDEX, and with less time involved. But alas, the wet thumbs of the world are either too lazy, or in someone's mouth. So, in case you were wondering, STUDENT SERVICES and GOVERNMENT are contained in the first few pages of the book. Not to be outdone, the SPEAKERS have their say starting on the twenty-first page, and if the boredom is too great the section on the FINE ARTS PRODUCTIONS starts on page 36. The jock section, fondly known as SPORTS, makes its pre-game warmup on page 65 and the season is finally over on page 140. Our Mickey Mouse Club section, fondly remembered as ORGANIZATIONS opens its doors on page 142. Fear not, GRADUATING SENIORS, we have saved the last for last. Your visages are firmly etched into history starting on page 198. By the way, if you are looking for the INDEX, I think it's on the last page.
