Cartsairian system of Commanship.—No 8 Chartres street.—Messrs. Dolbear & Brothers take pleasure in informing their friends and the public generally, that they have returned and reopened their writing establishment, and respectfully invite ladies and gentlemen to call. All those who previously engaged, and had not time to acquire as finished a style as they desired, are respectfully invited to attend without any extra charge, as they wish all persons to acquire a good and rapid business style of writing before they consider their lessons completed. By this system the use of the whole arm is firstly given: secondly, a use of the fore arm: thirdly a movement of the wrist (which is the only movement given by the usual method): lastly, a combination of all these movements, which enable a person to write with ease, elegance and rapidity.

Hours of attendance will be such as to accommodate all who may wish to avail themselves of their instruction.

Ladies who prefer it, can receive lessons at their own residences.

From his excellency Governor [illegible]

I have examined with attention the system of writing taught by Mr Dolbear, and it is with pleasure that I [illegible] its superiority over any other method with which I am acquainted. Mr Dolbear having given lessons in my family, I consider it but justice to add that I believe him as much worthy of public patronage on account of the correctness and kindness of his character, as on account of the rapid improvement of those who received his lessons.

A. B. ROMAN.

New Orleans, June 1832.

New Orleans, Monday, 1832.

On the invitation of Mr Dolbear, the teacher of Penmanship in this city, upon the Cartsairian system, we have examined specimens of the writings of the pupils of [illegible] ages range from 8 to 50 years, who [illegible] the entire course of instruction; and after having done so, it is with the highest satisfaction that we testify to the rapid if not unparalleled progress which they have made.

From the specimens seen and the examination of the system made, we cannot withhold [illegible] our decided opinion that the system of Mr Dolbear is the most correct and rapid, and in good taste, be an acquirement useful or desirable it is upon the principles of [illegible] that it is to be acquired. We therefore [illegible] it to the favorable notice of the public a liberal patronage in favor of an [illegible] whose qualifications are of the [illegible] and whose labors promise
