means of reparations and therefore fall on the victor.
How many students of the problem of reparations have ever taken the trouble to ascertain the extent whereto the maintenance of the Allied armies of occupation have already drained the resources of Germany!

PLEADS FOR GERMANY
It is not without significance now that Germany is being trampled upon for what the American representative in Paris termed her technical default to recollect that between the expense of army occupation and contributions already made towards reparations, Germany has already paid the Allies three times the amount of the total exacted by Bismarck in 1870.

WHAT GOOD WILL COME OF IT?
But what good will it bring devastated France or her overtaxed allies? The additional cost that will be wrung out of Germany will barely cover the direct cost of collection. Although Germany bears the extra cost, the expense of these punitive measures must all in the end diminish the

BARTHOU DECLARES FRENCH DETERMINED

Speaking of Ruhr, He Says Germany Must Give in
No Hostile French Attitude Toward Britain

Paris, Jan. 20.—Assurances that the stand of France in the Ruhr district is no less determined than Germany's were seen to-day in the address last evening of Louis Barthou, president of the Reparations Commission.

“Germany must give in; we will not,” he said. “The bailiff has been called in at a late hour and it can not astonish anyone he be inexorable.”

Referring to Germany's programme of moral resistance as the sophistry of those who with appalling cynicism violated the neutrality of Belgium and now seek to shelter themselves behind their national sovereignty, President Barthou said: “These sophisms will fall of their own weight.”

London Chronicle Publishes Lloyd George's Ruhr Article
Opposite Course Taken by London Daily Telegraph

Special to The Times. London, Jan. 20.—The Daily Telegraph published the following announcement this morning: “To-day the seventh of a series of articles which Mr. Lloyd George, contributing to The Daily Telegraph on current political questions of national and international interest, was due to appear in our columns. It deals with the action which the French have already taken and will take in the Ruhr and condemns it in unsparring language.”

“Mr. Lloyd George, as is well known, is taking a holiday in Spain, and in the interval which has elapsed since he wrote his article the gravity of the situation in the Ruhr has manifestly deepened hour by hour. In view, therefore, of the delicacy and difficulty of the international situation and of the importance of maintaining, notwithstanding present difficulties, the friendship sealed by the common service of the two nations in the war, the editor of The Daily Telegraph has decided not to publish the article.”

The Daily Chronicle, however, published Lloyd George's seventh article in addition to the editorially written article to-day. Mr. Lloyd George, he believes, has rendered a service to his countrymen and the world. He has written frankly and fearlessly, too frankly, some people will say, but have those who say it realized how vital are the British interests sacrificed by France's action in the Ruhr? Take our interest in reparations. The British taxpayers, large and small, are to-day under such a strain that we were never borne before. We are arranging to repay our debt to the United States. France makes no gesture to repay hers to us and now our only hope of relief, that of reparations from Germany, is destroyed by the French action, for though the pretext for the invasion of the Ruhr was to get more reparations, its effect, no serious person can doubt, must be to diminish enormously the amounts the Allies can ever obtain. It is the ally of the goose and the golden eggs.

RUHR BANKING TO BE DONE OR DIRECTORS ARE TO BE PUNISHED

French Commander Replies Quickly to Refusal of Officials of Reichsbank Branch in Dusseldorf; Pay For Ruhr Workers Now a Great Problem.

Dusseldorf, Jan. 20.—A pointblank refusal from the directors of the Reichsbank branch here to reopen the bank's door was delivered to-day to General Degoutte, the French Commander-in-Chief in the Ruhr district.

“The bank will remain closed as long as there is a single French soldier in or around the premises,” the directors declared. General Degoutte, in replying, held the directors personally responsible and informed them that the military guard would be removed only after the bank had reopened.

A majority of the private banks, which were also closed yesterday, were doing business this morning. Their managers said they would continue to do so until the supply of marks was exhausted.

CALLS COUNCIL TO DECIDE ON ELEVATOR VOTE

Hayward Asks Aldermen to Consider By-law to Aid Grain Scheme

That the city submit to the electors at an early date a by-law authorizing extensive taxation and other concessions to the Canadian National Railways in return for the establishment of a grain elevator at the Ogden Point Piers is the proposal which Mayor Reginald Hayward will discuss with the City Council at a special informal meeting Monday afternoon.

This announcement was made by the Mayor to-day after he had been urged by R. T. Elliott, K. C., who first advanced the grain elevator scheme, to take immediate action on the grain project. Unless an early start is made a grain elevator, the Mayor was told, Victoria will not be able to get its share of the western grain movement next fall.

“It will be up to the Council to decide whether such a by-law should be passed,” he said.

Problem of Wages

Essen, Jan. 20.—Pay day in the Ruhr district brought labor to the fore as one of the most formidable obstacles in the path of the French and Belgian experts, who in their firm determination to exact reparations payments by force have already seized some of the Prussian state mines and arrested several magnates.

To the murmurs of discontent at the presence of French bayonets before several of the pits, there was added to-day an atmosphere of unrest and uncertainty as the workmen began to wonder where their pay envelopes were coming from.

Delegated from the unions were informed last evening by the French that France was unwilling to assume responsibility for the wage payments. On the other hand, Krupp and Thyssen gave the workers to understand that to-day's envelopes would probably be this.

Made Protest. Five thousand workmen in the state mines and ovens in the Reiklinghausen district protested last evening against the confiscation of the properties there and the imprisonment of Rochstein, the director. They framed an ultimatum to the French military authorities, demanding the release of Rochstein and the withdrawal of the French soldiers and the release of the workers within twenty-four hours. The latter request was refused pointblank whereupon the workers adopted a resolution which threatened a strike on Monday unless the troops were withdrawn and the director set free.

The manifesto, signed by A. H. MacNeill, K. C., W. E. Burns, J. D. Johnson, Dr. Burnett, Dr. Kwinn, L. A. James, W. Bouthlet, W. C. Woodward and several others. Crawford stayed over at Sydney on the last outbound trip of the Makura and took the opportunity to spend a couple of weeks in Tasmania. The Niagara, Capt. Crawford stated, ran into a strong southerly gale which lasted for two days after the ship had cleared from Honolulu. The sailing vessel Bianca was reported in distress off the Hawaiian port. Her sails split, her forward pumps wrecked, her hull leaking and with fire fuel on board she was held. The vessel was towed to shelter of Barber's Point, near Honolulu. The mishap to the Bianca happened about the same time the topmasts of the sailing barquentine Simon F. Tolmie were carried away, forcing the vessel to put into Honolulu. When off Cape Flattery the Niagara was signalled by the sailor Forest, which made the request for the vessel to be towed to Barber's Point. Purer Mowat this trip succeeded Purser Ward, who remained behind on the voyage to Australia. Of the 2,900 tons of cargo carried by the liner, 10 tons of butter from New Zealand was put ashore here.

Clark was so elated at his release that he laughingly shook hands with every one within his reach at the city hall. He expressed gratitude for the courteous treatment accorded him by the police.

IMMIGRATION CHANGES URGED - Ottawa Labor Council Suggests Better Supervision - Ottawa, Jan. 20.—Denouncing the immigration policies of both the Federal and Ontario Governments on the subject of immigrants, the Ottawa Trades and Labor Council went on Monday last night as opposed to the existing immigration system. Recommendations were passed calling upon the Canadian Governments for better supervision of immigrants and control of booking offices in Great Britain, better information as to the possibilities of finding work here, abolition of grants or bonuses to agencies, closer co-operation between the Immigration Department and the Employment Service of Canada, exclusion of Orientals, and medical examination previous to embarkation for Canada. The suggestion was made in a resolution that to relieve congested industrial areas a land settlement scheme for Canadian city dwellers should be put into force.

FEWER SALOONS IN OLD COUNTRY - Scheme of Reducing Number of Public Houses Is Proceeding - London, Jan. 20.—(Canadian Press Cable)—While it is presumably a far cry to prohibition in England, reduction of the number of drinking houses is proceeding steadily, mainly by means of closing houses deemed redundant and the granting to owners thus closed-out compensation from the fund which is supported by the licensed trade itself. The chairman of the Manchester Licensing Committee said this week that the committee had spent every penny available for compensation, including part of the forthcoming year's income, so was unable to close more houses, but he wished, until the Treasury was able to do so, to have every 187 of public houses closed. The chairman admitted that he had been criticised for his attitude toward the licensees, who were permitted only to sell more for consumption away from the premises, but he declared that if the small licensees must have their licenses sold under a barrel each week, they will have to do so, and they will be adopting the least harmful method of distributing drink.

VIROL is a Food for the Seven Ages of Man

From early infancy to old age, Virol is a "building up food." It rescues babies from wasting; protects at the critical school age of growth; makes the weak man strong; fortifies expectant mothers; prolongs youth and vitality into later years.

And Virol does all these things because it contains just those essential food elements which are often lacking in the ordinary diet. They are present, too, in an easily digestible form, so that Virol is particularly valuable to infants and old people.

PREMIER TASCHEREAU SPEAKS IN QUEBEC

Says No Farmer Movement Possible in Quebec Province

Quebec, Jan. 20.—(Canadian Press)—"We need no better proof of the success of our agricultural policy than the utter failure of the Farmers' movement in this province," declared Hon. L. A. Taschereau, Premier of Quebec, speaking at a Liberal rally here at which major operations of the Liberal party for the forthcoming provincial election were opened.

"While the same movement is carrying everything before it in the West and also in Ontario," the Premier continued, "it collapsed miserably before the sound common sense of our farmers. The farmers of Quebec have fully realized the necessity of co-operation between all classes—between the laborers, the professional classes and the farmers—to weather the storm of pernicious doctrine."

"Fruit-a-lives" Brought Her Health and Strength

Kelowna, B. C., Jan. 20.—Exclusion of the Orientals from Canada, and a more favorable policy of frontier settlement, were among the principles endorsed by the British Columbia Fruit Growers' Association at its annual convention here yesterday. Milder operation of the dumping clause was also urged, in the interest of the fruit business. Control of the Codling Moth was discussed.

Chairman delegates successfully sponsored a resolution opposing a tax sufficient to pay for control work. That the work of exterminating the pest must be kept up, however, was the gist of another resolution proposed by W. R. Corner, Kelowna, and S. F. Freeman.

Voted Down. A resolution proposing that all fruit importations from infested districts in other countries be a tax sufficient to pay for control work was lost. It was pointed out by a number of speakers that this might lead to retaliatory measures by the United States Government, which would be detrimental to British Columbia growers, who export large quantities of fruit into the United States.

TAKE SALTS IF STOMACH ISN'T ACTING RIGHT

Says Indigestion Results From an Excess of Hydrochloric Acid.

Undigested food delayed in the stomach decays; or rather ferments, the same as food left in the open air, says a noted authority. He also tells us that indigestion is caused by hyperacidity, meaning there is an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach which prevents complete digestion and starts food fermentation. Thus everything eaten stays in the stomach much like garbage in a closed tin, forming acid fumes and gases which inflate the stomach like a toy balloon. Then we feel a heavy, lumpy misery in the chest; we belch up gas; we eructate sour food or have heartburn, flatulence, water-brash or nausea.

He tells us to lay aside all digestive aids and instead get from any pharmacy four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and drink Frezzone if it afterwards, and furthermore, to continue this course. While relief often follows the first dose, it is important to help neutralize the acidity, remove the gall-making mass, start the liver, stimulate the kidneys and thus promote a free flow of pure digestive juices. Jad Salts is inexpensive; and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and sodium phosphate. This harmless salts is used for many stomach disorders with excellent results. (Advt.)

COBBLE HILL FARMERS MEET

Cobble Hill.—The annual meeting of the Cobble Hill Farmers' Institute was held in the Community Hall on Thursday evening. The vice-president, Mr. Bonford, was in the chair. The secretary, Mr. Calman, read the minutes of the last annual meeting, and they were adopted.

After the reading of the financial report some discussion arose about the secretary's salary and the balance on hand of $65 odd. The minutes recorded that the secretary's salary should be $25 for secretarial work, and $25 for show work. The discussion closed with the decision that the secretary should remunerate himself with the salary called for in the minutes, leaving a balance on hand of $115.

The secretary stated that five directors' meetings and two general meetings had been held during the year. The two general meetings being called for lectures. A discussion arose as to whether the Government experts' lectures were of any benefit to the farmers. Mr. T. Keene, with a few pitiful remarks, argued that the farmer should use his own judgment and experience as to what was best fitted to grow in his own soil.

Before adjourning new officers for the next year were elected by ballot, the majority of carrying on with the Farm-

London, Jan. 20.—(Canadian Press Cable)—The Daily News announces that it has discovered that Lord George has nominated Lord Birkenhead as Leader of the Opposition in the House of Lords.

Lord George continues with curious stubbornness to pursue the phantom of a Centre or National party which has no more activity however, than the dead coalition."

SIR HENRY LOOKS LIKE A WINNER.

Out of the well chosen observations which Sir Henry Thornton employed for his address to the Chamber of Commerce yesterday it is possible to select sufficient material to convince the most pessimistic that the new chief of the Canadian National Railways is a man with a purpose and not easily to be deterred when he has made up his mind.

It may be assumed that while yesterday's distinguished visitor made no promises to Victoria, or to Vancouver Island, that his future policy will not ignore investments which the country has made in this part of the Dominion and which can be made to contribute their share to the developing process that is the actual solution of problems under whose handicap the system itself is at present laboring.

LLOYD GEORGE AND FRANCE.

Mr. Lloyd George's remarkable career and striking achievements, particularly during the war, will command a conspicuous place in the history of this troubled generation. It also will be recorded that he made his full share of mistakes and more than one serious blunder since the war will be charged to his account.

"HARBOR AND SHIPPING" MISSES MARK.

Readers of a monthly journal, published in Vancouver, which goes by the name of Harbor and Shipping will have observed on its cover that its reason for existence is its aim to develop the import and export trade of Canada in general and improve Canada's Pacific ports and maritime interests in particular.

WHAT MR. BOWSER COULD DO.

Now we know what is the matter with British Columbia. Mr. Bowser has let the cat out of the bag. The country wants tranquility and stable government and that desirable condition can only be created by his own party.

to insure that modicum of food and raiment necessary in these days of uncertain weather conditions.

With Mr. Bowser in charge of affairs across James Bay British Columbia would immediately become an El Dorado. All would be well, The Pacific Great Eastern would pay dividends at the end of the first year under his management.

In fact the whole countryside would be turned into a Garden of Eden and industrialized centres of the Province would instantly become involved in discussions of how to treat the smoke nuisance that would be the profitable result of greater manufacturing activity.

COUNCILMEN SING FOR UNEMPLOYED.

Britain rather prides herself upon her stodgy but reliable methods of tackling problems which confront her from time to time. What is true of the larger agencies of government is often applicable to the various institutions throughout the country.

LET FRANCE GO ON.

Great Britain is convinced that France will not take kindly to any offers of mediation in her present programme and other nations may just as well save themselves time and trouble in trying to alter the course of events in Germany.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Any time Sir Henry Thornton thinks he needs a holiday he now knows where he can get enjoyment that will beat his present job all hollow.

Dr. Coue is merely presenting another aspect of a very ancient science. The transcending power of mental suggestion was realized and put into practice many centuries ago.

Sir Henry Thornton's square jaw suggests that when he encounters the Beasts of Ephesus, to wit, the political patronage hounds, in connection with the operation of the Government railroads, there will be a rare scrap.

Sir Henry Thornton receives $50,000 a year for running 22,000 miles of railroad, 68 steamships, a group of hotels and other auxiliary enterprises connected with the vast national transportation system.

SUNDAY GOLF.

To the Editor—I see the Lord's Day Alliance object to golf on Sunday. Well, you may "tear a horse to the water, but you cannot make him drink."

A KICK.

To the Editor—A little space, please, for a good old-fashioned kick all around.

Very few of these same unemployed pay any taxes whatsoever, so why should we keep them? We didn't bring them here. We had better get a K. K. K. and see that they go.

This is no time, or place, for sponges.

2nd—C. P. R. Hotel Concessions. Why should the City Council think of such a thing as giving the C. P. R. money that belongs to the taxpayers?

3rd—Why should we have so much money to run the city, if any concessions are given, so it can come out of our money?

4th—Why should we pay the B.C.E. Co. twenty cents per month meter rent?

BOTH WRONG.

To the Editor—I wish to draw your attention to certain inaccuracies in the recent accounts published in your newspaper of the meeting held by Professor Armand in the Chamber of Commerce Hall when he demonstrated the Coue cure by auto-suggestion.

Now I have no recollection of ever having made any such statements at the meeting on Wednesday evening, and I fail to understand how the reporters should have made such mistakes. As a matter of fact, I have never had any reason to be other than grateful and appreciative of the services rendered to me by the medical profession, and never, any time I had any interest in the medical profession, and I would be very loath indeed to make such a statement as that imputed to me in the papers.

So far as my treatment by Professor Armand is concerned, I also wish to say that I have been considerably relieved as a result, and following out his directions, I believe that I can ultimately obtain total relief from my present trouble.

NEWS AND NOTES FROM THE MINES

DOMS MOUNTAIN.

Complete financial arrangements have been made by T. E. Jefferson to lift the options on some fourteen claims on Doms mountain, upon which work was creditably performed last season, says the Interior News, Smithers.

This is an all important feature for the future of Doms Mountain, as it places the property absolutely in the hands of the purchasers, and thereby eliminating any question of controlling interests so often met with in mining camps.

The purchasers will form a new company to handle the property to their advantage, and as soon as conditions warrant it, will have their engineers on the ground to lay out the development work.

The claims are situated on the north-east side of Doms Mountain, about twenty-two miles from Telkwa, and were staked in 1910 and 1911 by such old-timers as Ira McLean, T. Healy, George Hazelton, Dick Rogers and Bob Robertson.

Exceptionally good values of gold were given on all samples taken from the outcrops, and although the past year has only been performed on the surface the character and age of the rocks give every confidence that the values will go down.

Mr. T. E. Jefferson has been a persistent optimist for the last sixteen years in this district and has been associated with Frank Dookill, Harry and Jack Howson in the Telkwa Mining and Milling Company, with the Santa Marie property on the Telkwa River and the Prince Rupert Coal Fields, Limited, situated on the Morrice River.

GOODENOUGH GROUP

O. A. Lovell, A. McDonald, H. Jackson and J. Nolan, owners of the Goodenough Group on Wild Horse Creek, about three miles from Ymir, have returned to town, after spending several weeks at the property doing development work. They brought in several large samples of very good-looking ore from a body they had encountered, and which is about six feet across, giving promise of increasing in both width and depth.

The property consists of three claims. The Goodenough fraction, Dermasocote and Little Neil, and have recently been crown granted.

They are among the earliest locations in the camp, and adjoin the famous Ymir mine, the big ore shoot of which is said to run through the property, together with a strong vein running parallel with it, which would indicate the making of a heavy producer in the near future.

It is the intention of the owners to continue development work in the Spring.

West—What do you really think of these film actors? East—I don't think they're half as bad as they're pictured.

OWEN SOUND TO HAVE ONE PAPER

Owen Sound, Ont., Jan. 20.—Owen Sound will have only one newspaper after February 1, it is announced. The Advertiser, which for sixty years has served this district, has been purchased by the Fleming Publishing Company, publishers of The Daily Sun-Times, and will be amalgamated with that paper.

Sir Henry Thornton Has Conference With Business Men Suggests Victoria as Good Site for Textile Industry

An assurance that everything possible would be done to meet the wishes of the people of Victoria was given yesterday afternoon by Sir Henry Thornton at the close of his conference with the business men of the city at the Chamber of Commerce. As to the propositions placed before him, there were several, he declared, which would require thought. Particularly was this true with reference to the development of terminals and the lumber differential.

"I don't want to say anything about it now," said Sir Henry, "but it will be considered from the point of view of seeing how far we can go to meet your wishes." He added that the position of Victoria on an island was something that had to be recognized. The disadvantage existed, but might be overcome.

Sir Henry declared that next time he came to Victoria he would stay longer. "I am going to tell the people back east," said he, "that if they really want to enjoy life, they should come to the Pacific Coast. If Victoria were just a little further west I would have no difficulty in deciding where to put the headquarters of the railway."

The views presented to Sir Henry were the same as those set out in the pamphlet prepared under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce. The situation regarding harbor and terminal facilities was explained by Wm. Ivel, who urged especially that the C. N. R. on the island be made a separate division. C. P. W. Schwengers spoke briefly on the development of the mineral resources of the island.

Argument for Grain Elevator

The argument by R. T. Elliott, K.C., in favor of a grain elevator at Ogden Point, was listened to by Sir Henry Thornton with close attention. After reviewing the whole situation, Mr. Elliott urged that an engineer be appointed without delay to look over the ground and to draft plans and specifications. While this was being done, the city could put through the necessary by-laws as to the granting of a free site and free water and exemption from taxation. There was already about $435,000 earmarked by statute for work of this kind, and the whole project ought not to cost more than $600,000. He suggested that if the engineer found it could be done at this figure, it be gone on with. In order for Ogden Point to be made a paying proposition it must be a three-way terminal, for lumber, grain and general freight.

In answer to a question by Sir Henry as to whether private capital might not establish a grain elevator here, Mr. Elliott replied that it could not do so owing to the peculiar nature of the proposition, since the grain, the lumber and the general merchandise must be handled as parts of one transportation proposition. Mr. Elliott asked that action for the appointment of an engineer be taken at once, as delay would mean the loss of two years in getting the project completed. Sir Henry repeated that he was opposed to the idea of the railway engaging in the grain elevator business, but under the special circumstances the attitude of the company would be determined within a short time.

J. O. Cameron referred to the enormous lumber business that might be developed on this island by the National railway. Not only would there be the short haul from the mills to the dock, but there would be in addition the carrying of the output to outside markets. Mr. Cameron called special attention to the two cents per hundred pounds arbitrary on lumber from the island and declared that this rate was regarded as an unjust discrimination. It had been imposed by a sort of historical accident and ought to be abolished. This extra charge was made on lumber only, and it handicapped Victoria as compared with Washington ports to the extent of $12 per thousand. He predicted that some other road would seize this traffic if the C. N. R. did not get it first. Only the other day the President of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul had consulted him as to establishing a here service to carry lumber from here to some Washington port.

J. L. Beckwith referred to the benefit derived from the abolition of the lighterage charge on lumber because of the storage facilities at that point and suggested that similar facilities might be provided here in order to encourage the lumber industry to ship through Victoria.

Suggests Textile Industry. Sir Henry, in the course of the discussion, took occasion to remark that the island ought to be a good place for a textile industry. He thought the moisture here seemed about right for cotton weaving, and the Orient would provide a market.

The Party. The chair at the conference was occupied by C. P. W. Schwengers. Among the railway officials present were Vice-President S. J. Hunsford, Assistant Vice-President C. S. Gzowski, and General Manager A. E. Warren.

Victoria business men present included J. W. Spencer, president of the Chamber of Commerce; J. O. Cameron, vice-president of the Chamber of Commerce; E. C. Nicholas, Gen. R. P. Clark, W. A. Jameson, Stephen Jones, J. L. Beckwith, J. C. Pendray, E. H. Wilson, director of the Chamber of Commerce; Mayor Hayward and Aldermen A. E. Todd, David Leeming, George Sangster, R. H. L. Kay, J. C. Dewar, John Harvey and E. S. Woodward. R. H. Pooley, M.P.P., Revoe Alex. Lockyer, John Jardine and Capt. R. P. Matheson represented the Equilmalt Board of Trade; R. T. Elliott, K.C., P. R. Brown, J. L. Tait, W. H. Munroe, H. J. Scott and Managing Secretary George I. Warren, of the Chamber of Commerce.

The memorial from Equilmalt was presented by R. H. Pooley.

The Equilmalt Board of Trade requests your serious consideration of the question: Would it be profitable to the National Railways to develop the area contiguous to Lyall Street as an industrial area by providing connection with the Outer Dock?

The following points bear upon the problem of developing freight traffic. The old C. N. R. survey runs through this area. Half the land between Lyall Street and the sea, owned by the Hudson's Bay Company, Part of it is a golf course. It does not produce revenue to pay taxes. Both the Hudson's Bay Company and the municipality would produce a large volume of freight. "It seems probable that free port areas will be established at American ports. In that event Canada must follow suit. If, as we believe, West Bay is a suitable location for docks, Work Point Barracks would make an excellent free port area. The imports of the Pacific trade routes would supply a constant flow of freight from free port area warehouses to inland points in Canada. "The desire to help the new dry-

NO OPERATION FOR HER

She Took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Escaped the Operation Doctor Advised

Louisville, Ky.—"I wish to thank you for what your medicine has done for me. I was in bed for eight or nine days every month and had a great deal of pain. The doctor said my only relief was an operation. I read of Lydia E. Pinkham's medicine and tried the Vegetable Compound and the Female Regulator and they surely did wonders for me. I feel fine all the time now, also am picking up in weight. I will tell any one that your medicines are wonderful, and you may publish my story if you wish."—Mrs. Ed. BOEHLER, 1130 Ash St., Louisville, Ky.

Backache, nervousness, painful times, irregularity, tired and run-down feelings, are symptoms of female troubles. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound should be taken whenever there is reason to fear such troubles. It contains nothing that can injure, and tends to tone up and strengthen the organs of the body, so that they may work in a healthy, normal manner. Let it help you as it has thousands of others. It is now selling almost all over the world.

dock to secure business would also be a factor in influencing the Canadian Government to allow free port areas to Equilmalt. The value of the free port area in shipbuilding, ship repair work and outfitting was proved in Hamburg, where, in 1913, seventeen shipyards were located within the free port area.

The rapid industrial development of the Pacific ports of the United States leads us to hope for similar development here, and we have the advantage of the British connection in China, India and elsewhere. "A member of the Equilmalt Board of Trade, John Jardine, is familiar with the history of the C. N. R. project on Vancouver Island. He would be glad to give information in regard to harbor and other plans which were investigated, and to present the Equilmalt Board to the possibilities of the Lyall Street area."

Prior to the conference with the business men, Sir Henry spent an hour with Hon. J. MacLean, Provincial Minister of Railways, discussing the railway situation in British Columbia. In the evening Sir Henry was the guest of the Lieut.-Governor at dinner. He and his party left on the midnight boat for Vancouver.

CHOIR WILL GIVE CONCERT TO-NIGHT

The Equilmalt School Choir will give a concert in the High School to-night under the auspices of the School Teachers' Association. In addition to selections by the choir, several well-known Victoria musicians will take part in the programme. Among them: Mrs. Ira Dilworth, pianist, and Mr. Drury-Pryce, violinist. F. Waddington will conduct the choir.

GYRO CLUB AT NANAIMO CHOOSES OFFICERS

The local Gyro Club held their regular weekly luncheon, this week and during the course of the evening installed the new officers for the ensuing year. Gyro Victor B. Harrison as installing officer performed the installation, the following members being sworn in: President—Harry McIntyre, Vice-President—Dr. McIntyre, Secretary—C. N. Wright, Treasurer—W. H. Philpott. After the business before the Club had been disposed of a programme was rendered to which the following persons contributed: Boxing Bout—G. Wilson vs. Walker. Recitals—Stan Walla, R. Walla, O. Wardill, Doug Manson and Herb Bate. Comic Song—John Clark. Gyro Bert Miles proved a very efficient master of ceremonies for the evening.

NERVOUS EXHAUSTION

The Only Sure Relief Is to Enrich and Build Up the Blood. Nervous exhaustion is the cause of headaches and dizziness, and it is due, almost always, to conditions of impoverished blood. Tablets and powders for headaches should never be taken; they cannot possibly reach the root of the trouble, and are often most harmful. All that is needed to bring relief is a tonic that will enrich and purify the blood, and the very best tonic for this purpose is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These pills enrich the blood, and in this way the headaches, dizziness and other bad symptoms rapidly disappear. Mr. Mark P. Taylor, Genby, Que., tells what this medicine did for him. He says: "I had severe headaches which would be accompanied by vomiting spells. These would last for two or three days at a time. I would take one of these pills every three or four weeks, and it is almost impossible to describe the misery that I endured. I tried a number of medicines without getting relief, until one day my mother brought me six boxes of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. When they were used I was feeling much better, and I got a further supply, and under the continued treatment every symptom of the trouble disappeared. I cannot speak too highly of this medicine for it certainly has done wonders for me. You can get these pills through any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Que. (Advt.)"

PRAIRIE VISITORS HELD BIG RE-UNION

Attractive Programme at the Caledonia Hall Under Prairie Club Auspices

Visitors from Alberta, Manitoba and Saskatchewan, as well as former residents of the prairies, met under felicitous conditions last evening at the Caledonia Hall when the Prairie Club of this city held its annual social reunion. The affair was attended by about three hundred and fifty, the president, W. Lothian, acting as chairman.

An unusually attractive programme included songs pleasingly sung by Mrs. Styles Sehl, Miss Anna Wright, Miss Vivian Moggey and J. McCull; violin solos by Mr. N. Griffin, piano solo by Miss Jessie Smith.

B. Jackson, K.C., M.P.P., in an amusing address, welcomed the prairie visitors to Victoria, and Henry Dorrell, as a former prairie resident in this city, added his note of welcome. Mr. Dorrell assured his audience that, in spite of the heavy rainfall of the past few weeks, visitors to Victoria could find consolation in the fact that Vancouver had even more rain. Answering the often-expressed criticism to the effect that Victoria was slow, he averred that in one respect Victorians were not slow, and that was in writing letters to the press. George Bell, M.P.E., voiced the thanks of the visitors for the excellent entertainment provided. An announcement was made of the weekly entertainments which the four "service" clubs of the city are providing at the Chamber of Commerce for the benefit of prairie visitors, and appreciation was expressed of the friendly spirit displayed by the clubs in question. Some disappointment was occasioned by the absence from the programme of the Mayor and members of the City Council, who were unable to fulfill the engagement to address the gathering.

At the conclusion of the formal part of the programme refreshments were served, when social amenities and reminiscences were exchanged. The evening concluded with dancing until a late hour.

ALL READY FOR BURNS CONCERT

Is Set for Wednesday to Avoid Clash With Dinner

Wherever Scotsmen make their abode there are three occasions which are duly celebrated, these are the Hallowe'en festival, St. Andrew's Day, and the anniversary of the national poet, Robert Burns. Of the three occasions there can be no doubt that the anniversary of Burns is by far the most widely celebrated. For many years in Victoria the poet's birthday was celebrated by a Scottish concert directed by J. G. Brown, Victoria's veteran concert manager and entertainer. A lapse of several years has occurred, but a great many people will be pleased to know that Mr. Brown has again taken charge and under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of First Presbyterian Church, will give one of the old-time Burns' concerts in the Panopticon Theatre on Wednesday next, the eve of the poet's birthday. As far back as the beginning of October Mr. Brown announced to the Burns' Club of this city that this entertainment was to be given, but that it would not be given on January 25, so as not to clash with the annual dinner which is held on that night.

Those who were in the habit of attending the Burns' concerts a few years ago will remember with pleasure the delightful singing of the Scottish part songs by the First Presbyterian Church choir under the baton of Mr. Brown. While not in charge of any choir or choruses at present, this feature will be renewed at the coming concert by a choir of selected voices under Mr. Brown's leadership, and an even better rendition of these lovely choruses will be given because all of the voices in the select choir are trained and cultured singers and have been under Mr. Brown's direction for some little time.

In addition to the choir an array of soloists will assist providing a variety of songs, duets, trios and quartettes among whom will be recognized some of the very best talent in the city. The assisting vocalists are as follows: Mrs. Jessie Longfield, and Mrs. S. M. Morton, contraltos; Mrs. W. Edmonds, Mrs. D. W. Ogilvy, Miss Beatrice McDonald and Mrs. W. H. Wilson, sopranos; Mrs. Lewis Hall, accompanist; Mr. G. H. Guy, tenor; Mr. Robt. Morrison and Mr. J. McCall, baritones, Mr. D. W. Ogilvy, bass.

Robert Burns Law, the well-known violinist, will render a selection of Scottish airs, and James Walker, whose humorous recitations are always welcome, will also contribute. A four little girls taught by James Macfarlane will give an exhibition of Highland dancing.

As if the foregoing was not sufficient variety the services of Robert Sloan, poet, author, lecturer, and Scottish entertainer, has been secured and he will present one of his delightful Scottish sketches. A male quartette consisting of Messrs. D. W. Ogilvy, J. Petrie, Bob Morrison and G. H. Redman will render a humorous selection entitled "The Wee Cooper o' Fife" and as a climax to this plethora of good things Mrs. Longfield, Bob Morrison and J. G. Eryon will give the humorous musical sketch, "The Barrin' o' the Door."

It is safe to say that the Panopticon Theatre will be taxed to its utmost capacity on this occasion not only because it is the anniversary of Burns and that's reason enough for any Scot, but because of the excellent entertainment itself. Those intending to be present should not fail to secure their tickets at once, from members of the Ladies' Aid Society or at Ivel's and Cochran's Drug Store and Straith's Clothing Store.

NARROWLY ESCAPED DEATH.

Sustaining concussion of the head when he fell from a wharf at the Cameron Lumber Mill yesterday and pitched headlong to a boom of logs in the water below Frank Broughton, 947 Cloverdale Avenue, is making a slow recovery from his critical state, it was reported to-day. Dr. Vye is attending, and states Broughton to have passed a good night and to be climbing back from the danger point of his injuries. Broughton had a very narrow escape, his head striking a log while he was in the act of falling into the water, being rendered almost unconscious. The prompt action of fellow workmen saved Broughton's life as the dazed man was sinking. He was rushed to the Royal Provincial Jubilee Hospital, Broughton regained consciousness during the night.

The dispute between R. E. Ward and John Hopp over the property formerly belonging to the Cariboo Mining Company at Cloud Forks has been settled.

The contention of Hopp was that by failure to take out a certificate the Guggenheims forfeited all right to the property.

TO INVESTIGATE LAKE COMBINE

A Commission Appointed to Look Into Question of Grain Freight Rates

Ottawa, Jan. 20.—As a result of information obtained during an investigation which has been going on for the last few months, action has been taken by the Government to further investigate an alleged combine among steamship companies having Lakes Superior, Erie and Huron as a base of operations.

An Order-in-Council, approved and made public last night by Premier King, provides for the appointment of a Royal Commission to inquire into the alleged combine of shipping interests in its effort to dominate and control the freight rates and terms under which grain has been carried from the harbors of Fort William and Port Arthur.

Charges were made some time ago that the lake shippers had combined to enhance rates on grain, and that they were also discriminating against Canadian ports and in favor of American lake ports.

The officers of the 5th Regiment, C. G. A., headed by Col. F. A. Robertson, O. C., were the hosts at a delightful dance last evening at the Armouries. Dancing took place in the rooms adjoining the officers' mess, a profusion of carnations, chrysanthemums and violets transforming the quarters into a charming setting for the dancers who numbered about one hundred. Supper and sitting-out rendezvous were arranged in the officers' mess. Through the kindness of Mr. Willis, of the Willis Piano Co., the excellent dance music was supplied by a magnificent Ampico electric reproduction piano, the very latest dance numbers from New York being available for dancing. Altogether the affair proved one of the most successful affairs ever organized by these popular hosts.

B. C. TOO GREAT FOR PESSIMISTS, PATULLO SAYS. Hon. T. D. Pattullo, Minister of Lands, will leave to-morrow for Prince Rupert and Central Interior points. "There is a general feeling that every man is a prejudiced witness in respect to his own district," Pattullo said. "I very much wish all of the people of B. C. fully realized just what all of B. C. is like. If they did, there would be few pessimists. Let me illustrate. British Columbia has approximately 400,000 head of stock, Switzerland has 3,000,000; two valleys in Central and Northern B. C., known as the Bulkley and Nechaco, will support as many head of stock as all Switzerland. This is not mere rhetoric. It is a statement of fact and is illustrative of the future of British Columbia. Mr. Pattullo will be in the north about three weeks."

Memories of school days will be recalled to many pioneer women of Victoria by the death to-day of Miss Clara Elizabeth Dupont, former principal of the now defunct Angela College which several decades ago was the premier girls' school on Vancouver Island. Miss Dupont passed away this morning at the advanced age of 79 years, at her home, 1421 Stadacona Avenue. Clara Elizabeth Dupont was born in Quebec on November 12, 1845, the daughter of William Dudley and Mary Ann Dupont. She came to Victoria fifty years ago and some years after her arrival took over the Bishop's School, which was endowed by the late Baroness Burdett-Coutts and stood on the site now occupied by The Angela, Burdett Avenue. Under her regime the name was changed to the late Baroness Burdett-Coutts and she received her early education at this school, in which all the traditions of the high-class English schools for girls were maintained. Miss Dupont conducted the school with outstanding success for twelve years, until it was finally closed about thirty years ago. About eight years ago she suffered the first of a series of paralytic seizures which have confined her to bed ever since. During the whole of her long illness she has been devotedly nursed by her niece, Miss Schellie Dupont, to whom the sympathy of a wide circle of friends will be extended. The late Miss Dupont is survived by her niece, one sister, Miss Clara Elizabeth Dupont, of Toronto, who is now visiting Mrs. Fred. B. Pemberton; two brothers, Major Dupont and Mr. E. Dupont, of Victoria. The remains are reposing at the B. C. Funeral Chapel and services will be held at Christ Church Cathedral on Monday at 2.30. Dean Qualton officiating. Interment will be made at Ross Bay cemetery.

HOSPITAL TO RECEIVE CONSIDERABLE SUM. Further $50,000 From the Estate of Late J. B. Greaves. Sum of $20,000 in Additional Will Follow. That a further distribution from the estate of the late J. B. Greaves in favor of the Royal Provincial Jubilee Hospital will be made shortly in the sum of $50,000 was intimated to the Board of Directors in regular meeting at the hospital last night. The late Mr. Greaves died at the hospital in the year 1915 and left a considerable sum of money to that institution. By an arrangement now with other legatees the trustees of the estate, Messrs. P. B. Pemberton, Curtis Sampson and Greaves, have provided for the $50,000 payment to the hospital within the next few days. The money had been realized from mortgaging and other investments and is part of the legacy left by Mr. Greaves to the institution where he passed the remaining days of his life. To-day the hospital will have benefited to the extent of $120,000. This will be followed at some later date by the payment of $10,000, and later still by a further $10,000, which will wind up the hospital's interest in the estate and complete the handsome legacy. Pemberton & Sons, agents for the estate, notified the board to that effect last night. At the meeting of the board last night, Messrs. Ismay and Bolston were re-appointed auditors for the current year. President George McGregor presided at the meeting, which was mainly to discuss tenders for various portions of the work in the new building. Will Call Tenders. Specifications were approved by the board for the tiling, plastering, carpentry work, plain and ornamental iron work and elevator doors in the new building, and tenders will be called at once for these contracts. The tenders of Parfitt Bros. for an extension to carry a bridge between the old and new buildings was approved at the sum of $2,941, and the installation of two fireplaces at the figure of $125 each in two rooms of the maternity ward. The Daughters of Pity are to be notified that the board has decided upon two semi-public wards in the new edifice, Nos. 228 and 229, as the children's ward, which that organization has sponsored in furnishing. Correspondence was read from the City Council dealing with the suggested modification of the Isolation Hospital agreement under which the city formerly paid an honorarium to pupil nurses from the Jubilee who took their training in the Isolation Hospital. The day cost per patient at the Jubilee for the month past was cited at $4.51. It was reported that $600 had been received from the Purple Star Lodge, L.O.B.A. James Forman, chairman of the committee, reported satisfactory progress in furnishing. In voluntary subscriptions to the new building. Dr. E. M. Pearce was welcomed, assuming his duties in succession to Dr. Edwin S. Hasall.

ASSURANCE FUND SUIT TO CONTINUE MONDAY. Involves Liability of Crown For Shortage in Survey. The hearing of the appeal of the Registrar of Titles from the judgment of Mr. Justice D. A. Macdonald awarding $12,284 to Leo M. Kow against the fund established by the province for the assurance of indefeasible land titles, was not finished yesterday. The argument for the Crown was completed by J. B. Pattullo, and that for the plaintiff-respondent was opened by W. J. Taylor who will continue Monday morning. The point at issue is of considerable importance to owners of land, as it involves a determination of the extent to which the assurance fund is liable for mistakes made in the Land Registry Office. The suit arose through an error in a survey made in 1909 of lots at Bay and Mt. Stephen Streets. There were two sets of plans of these lots and, after some correspondence between the Registrar of Titles and the then City Surveyor, the Registrar ruled that both of sets had been properly filed. The property passed through several hands, and in 1915 the B. C. Electric Company obtained judgment compelling its ownership of part of the property. By this judgment Leo M. Kow not only lost the land but was compelled to return money to several other purchasers. He then brought suit against the assurance fund and obtained a decision in his favor. The contention of the Crown is that the assurance fund is not liable for shortage of area in properly covered by a certificate of title. As against this, the trial court held that there was liability when the Registrar had specific notice of the mistake in the plans. The case derives a large part of its interest from the fact that it is the first suit brought against the assurance fund although the fund has been established for about twenty years.

CONDUCTED PIONEER GIRLS' SCHOOL HERE. Miss Clara E. Dupont Died To-day; Was Principal of Angela College. Memories of school days will be recalled to many pioneer women of Victoria by the death to-day of Miss Clara Elizabeth Dupont, former principal of the now defunct Angela College which several decades ago was the premier girls' school on Vancouver Island. CONSIDER NEW HIGH SCHOOL FOR OAK BAY. A proposal that Oak Bay should build a new High School to accommodate a rapidly increasing student list, and turn the present High School into a primary school was given some consideration by the Oak Bay School Board in its initial meeting. It was stated that accommodation at the present High School was growing limited. Even the exclusion of outside pupils would not satisfy the demands for accommodation. It was found that the projected new building may be built in all probability on a site owned by the municipality at the corner of Fort Street and Cranmore Road. Monterey Avenue School is full, with one spare room reported at the Willows School. The use of the present High School building and the construction of a new one would satisfy the requirements for many years, it was thought. The project is to be further discussed at the next meeting of the Board. The addition to Monterey Avenue School of a combined gymnasium and auditorium was considered. The structure would cost in the neighborhood of $10,000, it was stated. Trustee Edwin Tomlin was re-elected chairman of the Board. The trustees decided to meet the Oak Bay Council shortly on both projects. URIC ACID. Does NOT Cause Rheumatism. Furthermore, I claim that Uric Acid is a NATURAL and NECESSARY constituent of the blood—that it is found in the body of every new-born babe—that with-out it we could not live. Strange statement? Yes—to you, perhaps, because you have always been told differently. But my book, "The Inner Mysteries of Rheumatism," just published, tells you the real truth about Rheumatism. Tells what actually DOES cause it and how it is now being successfully treated in all its different forms and stages by entirely new, advanced scientific methods. The writing of this unusual book is the result of my twenty years study, experimentation and research in this disease, and I want every sufferer of RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, SCIATICA, GOUT, Etc., to read it. Therefore, although valuable, I will gladly send one complete copy, only of the book absolutely free if you will send your address or that of any sufferer you may know, plainly written, to H. P. Do Not Underestimate Opponent or Practice Too Much, Warns Gene
I thought that good advice and I followed it to the letter. To my great surprise I won easily. But Hutchison, who had been playing a lot of golf, was badly off his game. And right there I was badly deceived. My easy victory made me over-confident. I strutted about proudly and I felt then I was going to go right through to the title. But the next day I had a bad awakening when Cyril Walker trounced me. Now, take a little more—never underestimate your opponent.

THE NATIONAL open championship at Washington was a wonderful affair. By far the best feat that had ever gathered for any golf tournament was on hand. The final round was featured not only by Jim Barnes' splendid victory but also by the appearance of President Harding, who was my second appearance in the National meeting. After my previous experience, though I did not feel to be bothered by anything like nerves. But I found myself getting excited as soon as I arrived on the scene. Again I thought I would do well if even I qualified.

My next move was to polish off the round which I tried to do at Miami Beach. I spent much time with the chip shot. This is such a delicate stroke that it requires considerable practice to perfect it. Then I left for the San Antonio tournament. I arrived there two weeks in advance of the meeting. What between practice and various matches with the other professionals I was completely played out when I made the start. Consequently I made a poor showing. You must go into a tournament feeling keen for the game if you want to win. It is not enough to practice, but that shouldn't be done just before the tournament. You should practice well in advance of the competition starts so that you will be feeling right.

In the third frame they increased their lead by two more tallies making their win more secure. The next game in this league will be played on next Thursday evening at 7:15 between the Crusaders and the Colonets.

FOUR SUNDAY SCHOOL HOOP GAMES TO-NIGHT
Four games are billed for to-night at the Trades Hall gymnasium in the Sunday School basketball series. James Bay Methodists who appear to be the class of the intermediate "A" League, will meet a speedy team from First Presbyterian. The Falcons should put up a hard fight against the Jays. St. Andrew's Bluebeaters have a hard job to tackle when they meet the Axioms, who are about the speediest team in the Junior Girls' Division. Crusaders' "B" team will have work to do when they endeavor to down Jim M'Evans' Centennials. This game should be a close one. St. Mary's Senior Five, who downed the Mets in an overtime game last Wednesday, look to be the team to beat in the Senior "B" Division. They have a very fast line-up, every man on the team being a good shot. St. Paul's will, however, make them step lively to win to-night. This game should provide the most excitement of the evening, both teams being able to stand a fast pace.

See You're Going to Play the Hutch to-morrow? He said: I added with a sly grin. Play Your Own Game. Then Hagen did something I have always appreciated. He sat down and said to me: "Don't let yourself think you're going to be beaten. Just go out tonight and play your own game. The mind what happens. Just keep plugging. Take pains with all of your putts. Study the line carefully and don't hurry. But never let up."

ROYAL VICTORIA

The dynamic personality of Priscilla Dean has never been given fuller expression on the screen as in "Under Two Flags," the production of Ouida's famous novel, which will be shown for the last time to-day at the Royal. The spirited girl, Cigarette, idol of a French regiment at Algiers, is the type Miss Dean portrays so well.

The excitement with which the film crowds was felt by every member of the huge company at Universal City participating in the production of this classic of the screen. They all lived in the atmosphere of Algiers, where the action of the story takes place.

A portion of the town of Algiers, with a faithful reproduction of the French barracks there, was built at the big studio. Members of the cast lived "in character" for several months. Miss Dean herself became so accustomed to the costumes of the play that it was difficult for her to readjust herself to habits of normal life when not actually working before the camera.

Several companies of French soldiers, properly uniformed and armed, were recruited by Tod Browning, the director, for use in various scenes. The harem of an Arab chief was reproduced in all the splendor that is a savage potentate's. Every reel of the film teems with color and dramatic action.

Some of the best players of the screen were engaged to appear with Miss Dean in "Under Two Flags." James Kirkwood, John Davidson and Stuart Holmes, all noted actors, were selected for prominent parts. This splendid photo-play will be shown all next week at the Royal Victoria Theatre.

MEIGHAN TO SHOW IN "BACK HOME AND BROKE" HERE

More than one record was broken in the photoplay, "Back Home and Broke," which George Ade wrote for Thomas Meighan, and which comes to the Capitol Theatre next week. The picture is said to have more laughs to the reel than any film ever made by Paramount. It also has more well known small town characters crammed into it in true Ade style than most pictures of a more or less rural type.

And it has a banquet, not the Broadway variety with professional dancers and cigarette-smoking women, but a small-town home-coming to Bradford, Tom Redding, having proved himself a success in spite of the gloomy predictions of his townspeople, has invited all his friends and enemies to a feast, so that he may celebrate the occasion with a banquet. The assembly, however, is the newly appointed Chief of Police, the town banker, the leading merchant, the friendly newsboy, the editor of the town paper, the local news gatherer, Aggie Twaddle, the fickle sweetheart and her new "crutch," the factory foreman, and Tom's faithful sweetheart, Mary Thorne.

His guests are comfortable or uneasy according to their treatment of Tom before he became a millionaire, but when the food is served by the colored waiters brought in for the occasion, all apprehension is forgotten in the pleasure of eating and having a wholesome, small town good time. Lila Lee is leading woman.

RURAL LIFE STORY IS NEXT DOMINION OFFERING

Lou Chaney, whose portrayal of the crooked lawyer, Obadiah Strout, in the Metro-Sil production of "Quincy Adams Sawyer," which plays at the Dominion next week, seems certain to add to his fame as a character actor, concedes all credit for his success to the fact that circumstances have been favorable for him to learn a dead and dumb language as a child.

Mr. Chaney's mother and father were both deaf and dumb, and little Lou learned the sign language before he learned to talk. His grand-mother found him a character actor, and his father, who was deaf and dumb, was a character actor. It was only natural that Lou should learn to express his thoughts unusually well by a few motions with his fingers or by the pleasure of resting his hand, which made me so ill at times I almost became unconscious. Four months I suffered day and night. I took three boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills and returned to good health.

"My daughter also suffered from nervous sickness and after taking Dodd's Kidney Pills found great relief." "I shall tell of this remedy that saved my life, so that others might get relief." "Dodd's Kidney Pills act directly on the kidneys. They put the kidneys in condition to strain the uric acid out of the blood. With no uric acid in the blood, there can be no rheumatism or neuralgia. paratively speaking. One glance conveys a whole paragraph. "Just try to carry on a wordless conversation with someone and you will soon learn that it takes endless patience to perfect gestures and facial expressions—and the worst fault of all, to my way of thinking, is over-acting or exaggeration of gesture." Clarence Badger directed "Quincy Adams Sawyer." Bernard McConville wrote the screen adaptation from Charles Felton Pidgin's novel.

LEO ORNSTEIN TO APPEAR HERE IN A RECITAL

Leo Ornstein, the remarkable pianist, is coming to Victoria on Friday, February 2.

It is safe to say that Mr. Ornstein at present is the most interesting pianist before the public. And this holds good not only in regard to the playing of his own colorful, vivid and original compositions. His rendering, for example, of the familiar compositions of Chopin, has been proclaimed a revelation by critics and audiences alike. Mr. Ornstein breathes a new life into these compositions; while by no means trying to "improve upon Chopin," he gives the music as he feels it. He is unconventional, poetic nature.

No matter whether he plays Chopin, Schumann, Ravel, Debussy or his own compositions, Mr. Ornstein at all times is the individual pianist, expounding as he feels it. He is unconventional. But so is the storm; so is the Spring breeze; so is the sea; so are the woods. Leo Ornstein, the composer, gives you the honest expression of his moods, emotions and ideas—Leo Ornstein, the pianist, gives you his honest and untrammeled interpretation of other masters.

Mail orders are now being received by George J. Dyke, care of Willis Pianos, under whose direction this pianist comes.

Failure of Roman Republic

Octavian and the Fate of Cleopatra

But the trend of things was overwhelmingly toward monarchy. For thirteen years more the struggle of personalities went on. One single man is to be noted as inspired by broad ideas and an ambition not entirely egotistic, Cicero. He was a man of modest origin, whose eloquence and literary power had won him a prominent place in the Senate. He was a little tainted by the abusive tradition of Demosthenes, nevertheless an effective figure, pleading with the now utterly degenerate, base and cowardly Senate for the high ideals of the republic.

Problems in History

Do You Know—

What Roman emperor, in the days of Rome's decline, strove to replace her prestige through religion?

Do You Know—

What had political condition, sometimes reflected in American elections was one of the main causes of Rome's decline?

Answers in to-morrow's instalment of H. G. Wells' "Outline of History"

Here we cannot trace out the tangle of alliances and betrayals that ended in the ascendancy of this Octavian, the adopted heir of Julius Caesar. The fate of the chief figures is interwoven with that of Cleopatra.

After the death of Caesar, she set herself to capture the emotions and vanity of Antony, a much younger man than Caesar, with whom she was probably already acquainted. For a time Octavian and Antony and a third figure, Lepidus, divided the Roman world just as Caesar and Pompey had divided it before their final conflict. Octavian took the harder part, and consolidated his power; Antony, the more generous east—and Cleopatra, to Lepidus fell that picked bone, Carthaginian Africa. He seems to have been a good man of good traditions, set upon upon wealth or personal vanities, upon the restoration of Carthage rather than upon the mental equilibrium of Julius Caesar. In the company of Cleopatra he gave himself up to love, amusements and a dream of sensual glory, until Octavian felt that the time was ripe to end these two Egyptian divinities.

In 32 B.C. Octavian induced the Senate to depose Antony from the command of the east, and proceeded to attack him. A great naval battle at Actium, 31 B.C., was decided by the unexpected desertion of Cleopatra with sixty ships in the midst of the fight. It is quite impossible for us to decide now whether this was due to unpremeditated treachery or to the sudden whim of a charming woman.

The departure of these ships threw to life, and perhaps to the hope that she might reduce Octavian to the same divine role that had already been played by Julius Caesar and Antony. She had an interview with Octavian, in which she presented herself as a beauty in distress and very lightly clad. But when it became manifest that Octavian lacked the godlike spark, and that his care for her comfort and welfare was dictated chiefly by his desire to exhibit her in a triumphal procession through the streets of Rome, she committed suicide. An asp was smuggled into the Roman entourage, concealed in a basket of figs, and by its fangs she died.

Octavian seems to have been almost entirely free from the divine aspirations of Julius Caesar and Antony. He was a man, he was a man of far greater breadth and capacity than any other player in this last act of the republican drama in Rome. All things considered, it was perhaps the best that could have happened to Rome at that time.

He voluntarily resigned the extraordinary powers which he had held since 42, and to quote his own words, handed over the republic to the control of the Senate and the people of Rome. The old constitutional machinery was once more set in motion; the Senate, Assembly and magistrates resumed their functions, and Octavian himself was hailed as the "restorer of the commonwealth and the champion of freedom."

It was not so easy to determine what relation he himself, the actual master of the Roman world, should occupy toward this revived republic. His ambition, in any real sense of the word, would have simply thrown everything back into confusion. The interests of peace and order required that he should retain at least the substantial part of his authority; and this object was in fact accomplished, and the rule of the emperors founded in a manner which has no parallel in history. Any revival of the kindly title was out of the question, and Octavian himself expressly refused the dictatorship. Nor was any new office created or any new official title invented for his benefit.

But by Senate and people he was invested according to the old constitutional forms with certain powers, as many citizens had been before him, and so took his place by the side of the lawfully appointed magistrates of the republic; only, to mark his pre-eminence, as the first of them all, the Senate decreed that he should take as an additional cognomen that of Augustus, while in common parlance he was henceforth styled Princeps, a simple title of courtesy, familiar to republican usage and conveying no other idea than that of a recognized primacy and precedence over his fellow citizens.

The ideas sketched by Cicero in his "The Republic," of a constitutional republic, of a free republic was apparently realized; but it was only in appearance. For in fact the special prerogatives conferred upon Octavian gave him back in substance the autocratic authority he had resigned, and as between the restored republic and its new princeps the balance of power was overwhelmingly in his favor.

Monday—"Why Rome Returned to Monarchy?"

SCARAMOUCHE

INSTALMENT NO. 11

BY RAHEL SABATINI

Dressed in the close-fitting suit of a bygone age, all black, from flat velvet cap to ruffled shoes, his face whitened and a slight up-curling mustache glued to his upper lip, a small sword at his side and a guitar slung behind him, Scaramouche surveyed himself in a mirror, and was disposed to be sardonic—which was the proper mood for the part.

He bowed to his reflection in the mirror.

"Buffoon!" he apostrophized it. "At last you have found yourself!"

Ten minutes later the three knocks sounded, and the curtains were drawn aside.

And Scaramouche was assailed with nausea, in that dread moment. He attempted to take a lightning mental review of the first act of this scenario of which he was himself the author-in-chief; but found his mind a complete blank. His arm was clutched, and he was pulled violently toward the wings. He had a glimpse of Pantaloon's grotesque face, his eyes blazing, and he caught a raucous growl:

"Climene has spoken your cue three times already."

Before he realized it, he had been bundled on to the stage, and stood there foolishly, blinking in the glare of the footlights, with their tin reflectors, so wretchedly foolish and bewildered he looked that volley upon volley of laughter welcomed him from the audience, which this evening packed the hall from end to end.

"Name of a name," M. Binet groaned, "what will happen when they discover that he isn't acting!"

But they never did discover it. Scaramouche's bewildered paralysis lasted but a few seconds. He realized that he was being laughed at, and remembered that his Scaramouche was a creature to be laughed with, and not at.

A ripple of laughter from the audience had been steadily enheartening him. It was clear they found him comical.

When at last the curtain fell for the last time, it was Scaramouche who shared with Climene the honors of the evening, his name that was coupled with hers in the calls that summoned them before the curtains, it seemed to Andre-Louis in those days that he had found his real career, and not only was he beginning to like it, but actually to look forward to a career as actor-finally came was, naturally, the only one possible in the fact of so firm a resolve as that of Andre-Louis, who held the trump.

In the end the matter was settled, and the announcement duly made to the assembled company. There were, of course, jealousies and resentments. But these were readily swallowed when it was discovered that the lot of the entire company was to be materially improved from the point of view of salaries.

The one exception was Climene. Her failure to bring to heel this interesting young stranger had been gotten in her a malice which his persistent ignoring of her had been steadily inflaming. She had remonstrated with her father when the new partnership was first formed. She had lost her temper with him, and called him a fool, whereupon M. Binet—in Pantaloon's best manner—had lost his temper in his turn and boxed her ears. She piled it up to the account of Scaramouche.

One day she threw herself in his way as he was leaving the theatre.

"Will you tell me what I have done to you?" she asked him point-blank.

"Done to me, mademoiselle?" He did not understand.

"Given the inspiration that is given Leandre, it is possible that I might be convincing."

"Why, what inspiration do you mean?"

"The inspiration of playing to so adorable a Climene."

Her lazy eyes were now alert to search that lean face of his.

"You are laughing at me," said she, and swept past him into the theatre on her pretended quest. There was nothing to be done with such a fellow. He was utterly without feeling. He was not a man at all.

Yet when she came forth again at the end of some five minutes, she found him still lingering at the door.

"Not gone yet?" she asked him, superciliously.

"I was waiting for you, mademoiselle. You will be walking to the inn. If I might escort you..."

"But what gallantry! What condescension!"

"It amuses you to be cruel," said Scaramouche. "No matter. Shall we walk?"

They set out together, stepping briskly to warm their blood against the wintry evening air. As they went in silence, yet each furtively observing the other.

"And so, you find me cruel?" Climene challenged him at length.

Andre-Louis looked at her with a half-smile.

"You have grown weary of your part of cruel madam—a dull part, believe me, and unworthy of your talents. Were I a woman and had I your loveliness and your grace, Climene, I should disdain to use them as weapons of offense."

"Loveliness and grace!" she echoed, feigning amused surprise. But the vain baggage was mollified. "When was it that you discovered this beauty and this grace, M. Scaramouche?"

"One morning when I beheld you rehearsing a love-scene with Leandre."

"Why, that was the first time you saw me?"

"I did not earlier occasion to re-

Ninety per cent. of all diseases are caused by a run down condition of the human system.

At no time of the year is it so necessary to keep fit than the present. The man or woman who is run down risks the chance of catching cold with its often fatal consequences—pneumonia, influenza, tonsillitis, bronchitis.

The same thing applies to the kiddies—keep them well and strong and while they won't be immune from colds, they will quickly throw them off if they are kept fit and healthy by taking Carnol.

There is no finer preparation known to keep the system in perfect health than Carnol.

It has accomplished wonders in building up run down constitutions. Thousands of bottles of Carnol have been prescribed by the leading physicians in Canada because they know its formula and know the value of every ingredient in it.

Carnol is one of the very few preparations containing glycerophosphate salts, commonly known as the "blood salts."

These glycerophosphate salts, in combination with iron, are universally recognized by physicians as positively the best blood builder and nerve invigorator yet discovered.

While these "salts" are the principal and most important ingredient in Carnol, it also possesses other excellent properties.

To stimulate and nourish the system, Carnol contains the soluble nutritive properties of fresh beef.

To complete this preparation, we have put in the extracts of cod livers with all the nauseating and bad tasting elements removed—it has been demonstrated beyond a doubt, times without number, that cod liver oil is not only a food but a flesh-builder, increasing the bodily resistance against all forms of disease, especially consumption.

As a specific for consumption in helping to stay this dreaded scourge, Carnol has accomplished the seemingly impossible.

Carnol is pleasant to take and children like the taste of it.

Carnol is a blood and tissue-builder and should be taken in cases of anaemia, consumption, as well as all diseases of a wasting nature, the result of impaired nutrition, poor and insufficient blood supply and wherever the system requires building up.

Carnol provides food for the nerves and food for the body, it increases weight and builds up the whole system.

Carnol has been especially beneficial in the treatment of rickets—a very common disease among ill-nourished children.

Never before in the world's history have there been so many cases of run-down constitutions, where the nerves of both men and women show the need of an upbuilding tonic.

The curse of the age is neurasthenia, or nerve troubles, which give you the "blues", make you feel miserable and depressed.

Unless this condition is checked, it may lead to serious consequences.

In some cases a few bottles, or even a bottle of Carnol will produce good results, but permanent results can only be obtained in advanced cases by taking a Course of Carnol.

Remember, with every bottle of Carnol sold, we make the following guarantee, that, "If, after taking your first bottle of Carnol, according to directions you find that it has not helped you, that its action is not already recognizable and you can say so sincerely, take back the empty (or partly empty) bottle and get your $1.00 back. Remember we refund the druggist the purchase price—he loses nothing."

Price $1.00 a bottle

Your Druggist! (No one in your community knows the merits of Carnol better than your druggist. Every druggist is a highly intelligent and highly trained man and you can absolutely rely upon his advice—ask him what he thinks about Carnol.)

PRICE MOVEMENTS WERE LIMITED

(By Burdick Bros., Ltd.)
New York, Jan. 18.—Reports touching on the foreign situation seemed to indicate that there was an increasing amount of friction in evidence in the Ruhr territory, and this was reflected in a lower foreign exchange market. In the stock market price movements were limited and much of the turnover was representative of financial trading operations. Goods buying power seems to be very small at this present time, and this, coupled with the uncertainties confronting the market at this juncture, has fastened the belief in many quarters that the general list will probably seek lower levels before long.

TO-DAY'S TRADING IN WINNIPEG MARKETS

Winnipeg, Jan. 20.—There was little demand from any source on the wheat market here to-day. Exporters were just of the go, and the trade was confined to await European developments. The market closed unchanged for both May and July. There was no interest in the futures market. In the cash market, displayed in cash wheat or coarse grain spreads, there were no changes. Inspections totaled 245 cars, of which 195 were wheat.

FRESH ARRIVALS EXPECTED MONDAY

Imperial Valley Lettuce on Market; B. C. Fresh Eggs Lower a Point

In addition to many fluctuations on the wholesale row this morning some new arrivals were announced while the situation of some of the markets were outlined. A fresh consignment of finnan haddies have just arrived, it was stated by wholesalers this morning, who at the same time announced that a car of Gold Elephant navels will reach Victoria on Monday. A car of Sunlight oranges, also due to arrive on Monday, will keep wholesalers busy when they commence their winter trading session. It was stated that the butter market was firming up and prices are expected to advance within the next few days. The onion market was also very firm, wholesalers said, and an advance in prices is expected soon. A notable feature in the revision of dairy products was the advance of one cent denoted on Ontario solids and twines and also on Stilton cheese. A further reduction was given out to B. C. fresh eggs, which are now demanding 25 to 30 cents a dozen. The mild weather, it is thought, is the cause of this fact. The fresh arrival of haddies has reduced the price two cents. This is the first lot of Imperial Valley head lettuce was marked on the produce list at a quotation of 35 a crate while the Los Angeles shipment is selling out at $4.50 per crate. Among the apple list Northern Spys, Lemon Pippin and Ribston Pippins were struck off and Russets and Staveland Winesaps substituted. Kings were placed at a quotation of $1 and $1.25 after being listed at market price. The wholesale market has been revised as follows:

STRANGE INCIDENTS IN WRITING WILLS

Tongue of Boot Used on One Occasion; Egg Shells and Wallpaper Also Used

A few weeks ago a will was admitted to be legal which was written on the back of a one-pound Treasury note. A shipwrecked sailor made his last will and testament on a floating plank of wood. He was drowned, and this strange "exhibit" was duly admitted. A stranger will was actually tattooed on the back of an obliging shipboard steward. Recently a man who died rather suddenly made his will on a small piece of wallpaper torn from the wall of the room in which he was taken ill. Boot Spoons. Will has been proved that have been written on envelopes, postcards, dance programmes, visiting cards, shirt fronts, cuffs and egg shells. One was even written on the tongue of a boot. Not long ago a case occurred in Switzerland in which a will written in chalk on a piece of sheet iron was duly proved and admitted to be legal. In America a will was recognized as valid which the testator had scratched with a diamond on a pane of glass. A sailor, drowned while traveling

TOYTOWN CIRCUS IN THE LAND OF NOD

IN the mystical country in the heart of the Land of Nod there is a city called Toytown where all toys go to seek a rest from their labors during the day. Here as midnight strikes come dummies, kewpies, golliwogs, teddy bears, tin soldiers, and all the toys of the world. The toys arrive in train loads, toy locomotives and toy automobiles bringing them in from all corners. They come sliding down moonbeams to play while the little owners are fast asleep.

Now it does not always happen; but one night the toys forgot to close the gates of toytown after they were all inside and one mortal slipped in, too. So it is that we are able to tell you what happened at the toytown circus on that occasion. The mortal would have been found and put out only she had taken the precaution to come attired in a cougar rug and was mistaken for a toy.

In a tin arena, which was scarcely any larger than a diningroom table, the circus was in progress. On one side was the band composed of toy drums and tin bugles, while on the other was an orchestra of mouth-organs; but the music was not confined to these two bodies for every toy was supplied with a comb and a piece of tissue paper and joined in the rollicking choruses. The guests were as interesting as the performers, for here golliwogs, dummies and check by low with golliwogs, elephants side by side with tin mice, and even toy cats and dogs in friendly companionship.

The proceedings opened with the grand march, which was led by Buster Brown. Buster was followed by a bevy of rag dollies, while behind trailed all the performers, and indeed all the audience for all seemed to take part in the fun. A fashion parade by the mannequin dolls was next presented, and what a gasp went up from the lady dolls present. It was with a series of "ah's" and "oh's" that the mannequin dolls were greeted. Gracefully they pirouetted around the sawdust arena displaying the latest fashions of toyland.

A tumbling display by a band of trained Teddy Bears followed, in which the shaggy little brown fellows tumbled and rolled over one another to the delight of the gathering. The band struck up a lively air as the tin lancers came in for a musical ride. The toy horses cantered and danced as if they enjoyed the music quite as much as their tin riders. Handsome fellows these tin lancers, and how they captivated the ladies!

Blindfold boxing between four golliwogs and two stuffed giraffes came next. The golliwogs won, for the giraffes could not find them at all, and began to box one another. As the toys laughed and rocked on their seats in delight the two giraffes discovered their mistake and shook hands while the golliwogs carried one another out of the ring.

Elephants rumbled, and waited to the strains of the merry organ orchestra on the top of toy tubes. Then they danced a hornpipe with energy and finally climbed over the railings to sit with the audience and munch peanuts, provided for them by their trainer, a small white pierrette. A gymnastic display by jumping jacks and a game of tag between two pussy cats and two puppy dogs had just taken place when a loud gong sounded and all the toys trooped away from the circus to the refreshment booths.

Here there were street after street of toy grocery stores, and a fine meal everybody had. At last, just as daylight was about to break, three whistles went and every toy made a rush for the gates of toy town. Here trains, automobiles and even skooters were parked awaiting their owners. It was a laughing, jolly, stream of toys who rode home to their respective houses, and as daylight grew and the first rays of the sun shot over the earth the toys were back in their places.

Teddy Bears found themselves in odd corners of the nursery. Golliwogs were camped on the floor in all corners of the house. Grand dollies, especially if they were brand new, were to be found safely tucked away into toy cots; while elephants, mousy cats, doggies, and all manner of other toys were piled in confusion all over the place. The rooster crowed three times in the garden and all was still.

Now the mortal who smuggled herself into Toytown itself began to fade away. Even the landmarks that made up the Land of Nod became less distinct until the first rays of the sun looked down upon the every-day world we know. So it happens that the mortal has never been able to find out where Toytown is, and what happens to the Land of Nod in the daytime.

The toys know, but in daytime they sleep and sleep, and will not answer when they are questioned. True, blue-eyed Betty sometimes closes an eye, which might be taken for a wink, but beyond saying "Mama" and "Papa" she will not tell. So when your toys are sleepy and will not play be sure they have been the "heat" or toytown circus and have made themselves so tired that they are glad to be back home again with you; for they are very faithful and always come back.

Radio Fans Are Emitting "Strays"

THE complaint has gone out from many sources locally that amateur wireless operators tuning in for the nightly concerts are permitting their receiving sets to oscillate. "Oscillating," of course, means that the receiving circuit has become so closely coupled that the local waves generated are regenerating in their own circuit and this emits a distinctly audible series of continuous waves. It is audible to others tuning in or in tune about the same wave length for, as you know, the "beat" or heterodyne effect of continuous waves is what creates the sound in the telephones.

Proof of this may be had any evening about the time that wireless concerts are commenced. A listener, say on 400 metres, will get nicely in tune with the broadcasting station when all at once three or maybe more other receiving stations will swing their condenser around searching for the wave length of the transmitter. The net effect of this is that those already in tune are blocked from hearing the broadcast station by a series of squeaks and rumbles that can easily be avoided.

If you are interested in radio work and like to hear wireless concerts, little reader, be sure that your receiving set is not one of those creating the interfering oscillations. As now transmitted the wireless concert signals do not need a self-oscillating circuit for their reception, and to have yours set in this condition is creating a nuisance that you would wish others to avoid. The air is clear enough if all operators play a like courtesy one another—in this respect. If you are in doubt on this point, get in touch with your nearest radio friend and listen in some evening when "tuning-time" comes.

Rainy Days Are Good For Reading

ONLY two brief months now until the first harbingers of Spring bring back the charm of out-of-doors. Then there will be no more reading and indoor games, and all will want to get out in the open air to enjoy the freshness of Spring-time. While the Winter lasts book-lovers should make the best of the severe weather by reading at least one good work that they have so far neglected.

Tastes differ widely as to what is a good book, but if, little reader, you were to take the advice of your parents, your teachers, and the librarians combined you could not go very far wrong. There are a great many books that all children should read, and the pity of it is that many of us grow up to adolescence before we have had taken the opportunity of reading works that have delighted the children of many generations.

Why not commence to-night by making a list of books to read in the next two months. Ask your mother and your father what would be worth your while in this connection. Then seek out your teacher and get his or her opinion. You will find that your parents and instructors agree in many cases and then you will have a list of books that are sure to be profitable reading for you. Many years have passed since the first books were written, and in all those years authors have been adding works that form a valuable contribution to the literature of the age. All good books are not "prosy" nor "dull." Indeed many of the so-called classical works are often the very best of reading and thoroughly entertaining.

In humor alone a list of books could be compiled that would keep you busy reading for many years to come. The art of reading, for reading intelligently and appreciatively is an art, can only be acquired by practice, and the best practice is the best literary works. Cheap "trashy" novels and the like are neither worth while nor very instructive to the mind, old or young. Make a start on your book list to-day.

Victoria Scout Association

REQUIREMENTS for the Scout Second Class Tests in signalling, and the Wolf Cub First Star Tests are here detailed as given out by the local association of Victoria Boy Scouts. The tests follow, a separate portion of the requirements being dealt with each week:

Scout Second Class Tests—(c) Signalling. This is not a speed test, consequently you can take any reasonable time over each letter. You must, however, know them all and no examiner should pass a boy who is not 100 per cent. perfect in this. Most Scouts take this test first in Semaphore, and the following points must be noted. First, your angles must be absolutely correct, or it is impossible to read your signals.

Secondly, you must not lean over when turning to one side, but must stand straight up all the time. Thirdly, when one of the flags is straight up, as in making D, K, O, T, J, etc., your hand must be held above your head, as high as possible. Many Victoria boys hold this hand in front of the face, or just level with the top of the head; this may be good enough for some people, but it is not good enough for scouting. Always remember that in an emergency, you may have no flags at hand, and unless your hand is held well up, T will be read as C, and J as F. It is most important that no Scout be passed as Second Class until he has this corrected, as a bad start in Signalling is very hard to correct afterwards. In the Morse Code, no pause must be made in the middle of a letter, as this makes it read as two separate letters. Every Scout should learn both codes as soon as possible, because, while Semaphore is much the quickest for daylight work, it is not good at all in the dark. Practice your Semaphore without flags, with the light behind you, and your shadow on the wall will show whether your angles are correct. The best book to learn your Signalling from is "Signalling for Scouts," published by Pearson's, London, England, at 1s. 6d. by Imperial Headquarters, Victoria, and by Imperial Headquarters, London.

Wolf Cub First Star Tests—(c) Athletics. The only part of this test which bothers most Cubs is the ball-throwing and catching, especially left-handed. This should always be done with a cricket ball, or ball of the same weight. Most Cubs require a much harder test than four times out of six at ten yards. Some make it seven times out of ten, with each hand, at fifteen yards, and this can easily be done if you practice. Try and train your left hand for everything you do, besides throwing; make it as good as your right hand.

(d) Exercises—Imperial Headquarters have changed this test altogether. The new tests are: "Skip your toes, both feet together, 50 times, turning your own rope; this should be done backwards and forwards," and "Carry three books, each the size of 'Scouting for Boys,' balanced on your head while you walk ten yards, slowly." You should learn the exercises, and their objects, but they are not now part of the test.

who was still asking questions about the strange sight he had seen.

"No, we were not running away from anything or anybody," answered Stubby Tail at last. "We were trying to catch somebody."

"To catch somebody?" repeated Mr. Fox. "Who in the world did you want to catch?"

Stubby Tail shook his head. "That we do not know," he said. "We only heard the sweet music that he plays, little piping strains of the sweetest music you ever heard."

Mr. Fox stood still now, looking at Stubby Tail. He was certain he was crazy but Stubby did not seem to notice Mr. Fox at all.

"I heard it just before the dawn came," Stubby went on saying. "I ran out as fast as I could but he had passed. I could hear the soft sweet piping down the path."

"So I called the other rabbits and began to run after him, but I only saw his footprints. I guess no one has ever seen him."

Mr. Fox looked along the path. "Do you mean those foot prints?" he asked, pointing to small hoof marks.

Stubby Tail nodded his head and Mr. Fox burst into a loud laugh. "Those are the foot prints of Billy Goat and I know he does not play on a pipe or make sweet music—ever hear his voice?"

"It was not Billy Goat," said Stubby Tail. "It's some one who loves all of us animals and comes playing tunes in the soft early morning."

Mr. Fox looked at Stubby in a way that plainly showed he was disgusted with him and shook his head and then he ran toward home to get his breakfast.

He told Mr. Coon about Stubby Tail and what he had said, later in the day. "Crazy," every last rabbit in this woods was crazy this morning just before sunrise," said Mr. Fox.

"I am not so sure about that," replied Mr. Coon. "I have heard that there is a creature half man and half goat called Pan, who plays on little pipes made of reeds very early in the morning; but no one ever sees him, though some say they have heard the piping."

"Have you?" asked Mr. Fox.

"No," replied Mr. Coon.

"Neither have I," replied Mr. Fox, "and I don't believe a word of such foolish talk."

But Mr. Fox was wrong, for in a mystic hour just before the dawn Pan passes with his pipes and calls the world to awaken.

FOR CHILDREN

The Sandman Story For To-night

WHAT THE RABBITS HEARD.

IT was the first grey dawn of the morning that Mr. Fox was awakened by the sound of running feet. He jumped out of bed and went to the window.

Peeking through the shutters he could see a long line of rabbits running down the path through the woods that led to the meadow. "What in the world is the matter with all the bunnies?" thought Mr. Fox as he began to dress. "Wonder if the woods is on fire?"

There was nothing the matter with the woods, he found out as soon as he was outside. The sweet smell of early morning filled the air. Not even the chirp of a bird was to be heard, only the faint sound of the little feet in the distance did Mr. Fox hear, and the last rabbit as it disappeared through the trees did Mr. Fox see.

But he must know what was going on. Down the path he sped. He reached the edge of the woods just as the last rabbit ran into the meadow.

Just before he caught up to them, Mr. Fox saw that the rabbits were running along by a pond, and when the head rabbit, who was named Stubby Tail, reached the far end of the pond, instead of keeping straight on with his run he turned, coming down on the other side of the pond.

The rabbits that were following did not notice this. Each one seemed intent upon following the rabbit in front, so when Stubby Tail came to the side of the pond nearest Mr. Fox he followed the end rabbit, who was, of course, beginning his run along the bank of the pond.

"Crazy," exclaimed Mr. Fox, every one of them! Running around the pond in a circle like a lot of mad creatures!

"What in the world is the matter with you all?" called Mr. Fox when he reached the running rabbits. "Here, you stop running or you will be so dizzy you will tumble into the pond."

For a second all the rabbits stood still and blinked their eyes in a dazed sort of way and then they all sat down. "What is the matter?" asked Mr. Fox of Stubby Tail. "Were you running away from something?"

Stubby Tail blinked, shook himself, and called to his mates, "We won't find him now; we had better go home." All the Rabbits got up and hopped along after Stubby and Mr. Fox

HAVE YOU EYES AND EARS FOR NATURE?

"DID you hear that?" The speaker was an old man, who puffed contentedly at a shaggy old pipe as he sat on top of the stile in the lane. His audience was a six-year-old boy and a small black spaniel, the latter getting a little grey about the head, but with a pair of large brown eyes that seemed to be capable of almost human understanding.

"I did not hear anything," returned the boy, Billy.

"Well, listen carefully now and see if you do not hear something." The pair sat silently for a moment, even the spaniel seemingly attuning his ears to catch the sound. It came again, the low sweet thrilling of a thrush. There isn't it fine to hear him? There isn't it fine to hear him, withdrawing the pipe from between his lips and looking gratefully at the bush from whence the sound came.

"It's only a thrush," remarked Billy, somewhat disappointedly; he had expected something more exciting to tell the truth. "That's just it young man; to you it's only a thrush, but it should be more. It should be a message of happiness, and a promise of fine days and open fields." The old man paused to re-light his pipe, which he had allowed to go out while listening to the song of the thrush in the hedgerow.

"When I was a boy," he began reflectively, "long before you and Michael (here the spaniel looked up and wagged his tail) were born, I knew every bird that lived in the country. I could tell their notes, and a little of what they tried to teach mortals like us. For instance, the thrush just now was telling us to be thankful for the sun; that's what he is only a moment with us; and to leave our mark of gratitude upon each day's work."

"There, do you see him?" continued the old man, stopping his discourse to point out where the thrush twittered and rocked in the bushes. After a moment the boy saw the bird, and watched it with interest. "He is only a little fellow, isn't he Uncle Dan?" "Yes, he's young, but he is thankful to be alive, and grateful for the good times that are coming," continued the old man, resuming his tale.

"Now, children of to-day do not pay much attention to the beauties of the world in which they live. Michael does not allow the note of a single bird to pass unnoticed, do you laddie? Here the spaniel rose and came over to the feet of the old man, where he lay down again with another wag of the stump tail. "Michael and I," continued the old man, "ramble through the lane every morning. We listen to the birds, and we look for the first signs of life awakening in the hedges after the winter's cold. We follow the leaf as it buds and blossoms into fullness and coats its bush with a green that is Nature's own."

"I see all this, Uncle Dan, but I see it every day and it's always the same," protested the lad. "That is where you make the mistake that most little people of to-day are making, child," continued Uncle Dan, "you see it but you do not notice what it is you see." Interestingly the boy listened as the old man rambled on, here telling of the rabbits of the field, and there about the life of the squirrel in the woods. Finally he promised Uncle Dan to watch out for these little bright spots of the days and to make a report in the evening.

It was not long before Billy began to take a more active interest in the many things of the day's round that before had escaped his attention. He learned, little by little it is true, to use his eyes to see nearly all that came within their range.

In time he fell to noticing people on the street—their ways and customs; their walk and speech. From this he learned to distinguish those he liked and the reasons for which he liked them. He found he was fond of those who were kind to others. He began to like animals in a way that before he neglected. Billy soon found that even stray dogs on the street had eyes that begged for a kind word, and tails that would wag as rapidly as Michael's when that word was forthcoming. From being an ordinary, happy-go-lucky boy he grew to be observing, and the more he observed the more he understood.

And all that was many years ago, and to-day Billy has grown up to be a fine man, trusted and beloved by all with whom he comes in contact. He is head of a large business which annually employs many juniors for its business. Billy is the final court when the question of engaging a boy is to be considered, and he has one test of whether a lad is worth while or not. He opens the office door and calls in a black spaniel dog. The dog is the descendant of the Michael that we knew in years before. If the lad likes Michael he is worth while, and the system seldom fails.

Notice the birds in the bush, little reader; pet the stray dog in the lane; and watch for the bud on the thicket. These are little things, but they are the road to greater things; to a fuller understanding of the worth-while in life, and to a happier and more deserving career.

Sea-Going Canary Now "Landlubber"

THAT not all birds in captivity are unhappy may be gleaned from the following true circumstances which was recently reported by a mariner on this coast. The narrator was one of the ship's officers of a large ocean liner plying between here and Japan. It chanced that he fell heir to a canary that had been the special pet of the master of that ship. The new owner and the canary were soon on friendly terms and it was not long until they were firm companions. The canary would sing as the officer moved about his cabin, and would even copy the officer's whistle as that official piped the men to work.

Now for sprightly good humor it would be hard to surpass the contentment of the canary, which found plenty to sing about, even though seas ran high and the wind howled along the decks outside. The mariner would place a dummy canary in the cage of the real bird every day and then would follow the battle royal. The canary would fly at the dummy and literally box its ears. The dummy would be picked up and thrown to this side of the cage and that, and the real canary would assume a pose of intense anger and beat the dummy with great energy.

The canary loved the play, and soon got so expert that he would seize the dummy and lift it clear of the cage entirely by pushing it through the bars. The dummy would be picked up and put back only to be ejected again. With each fresh eviction the canary would chortle and sing in triumph. If a day went by and the dummy fight was not forthcoming the canary would call and call until the mariner introduced the dummy for the mimic warfare.

This canary was permitted to come out of his cage every day and would jump on top of the mariner's bunk and sit on the edge of the bars. Then would commence the game of catch, around the cabin, with the canary flying to perch after perch. It would even perch on the shoulder of its owner and would sit here contentedly while the latter read a book. After a while it would grow tired and would fly back to the cage itself; there to re-commence the game of catch that makes the canary so cheerful a little friend to have in the house. It is interesting to note that the canary knew its master and did not come out of its cage for anyone else. Some time later the canary was brought ashore to the home of the mariner where it resides to-day, just as contentedly as if it still swung in its cage aboard ship. It has not forgotten the bo'sun's piping, however, and the shrill high-pitched note of the whistles resounds through that house at frequent intervals during the day.

A Newspaper Horse

FOR sixteen years "Dick" has been pulling a cart for carriers on a Joplin Globe route through East Joplin, Kansas, says Our Dumb Animals. Carriers come and go, but Dick always is sold with the route, his newspaper hands more than once during his newspaper "career."

Persons to whom the route is sold demand that the horse be included in the deal. There is a reason for this. Dick knows the route. His intelligence in this respect is almost human. The driver never has to touch the reins or to tell him when to stop or start, and he knows when and where to pull close to the curb.

There are more than 600 subscribers on the route and Dick has every one placed on his cart about new subscribers? Just once does the horse have to be guided to one. After that he goes there without direction.

An average of 600 papers, six days a week for sixteen years, makes quite a large number of deliveries. The route is about six miles long. So the number of miles covered by the horse is about 30,000 or several thousand miles more than the earth's circumference. Dick has missed a morning that The Globe has been published since he began his service. His present master believes the horse is good for many more years.

A Friend In Need

TO all with the full faculties of sight and hearing the song birds are friends indeed, but imagine what a companionship they are for those not blessed with the vision which makes daily life a succession of incidents witnessed with the eyes. This is what a blind girl, Annie Denham, living in the State of Mississippi, thinks of the song birds, as printed from "Our Fourfooted Friends":

"THANK YOU, LITTLE BIRD,"
 "O, thank you, bless you, little bird,
 For sweetest notes I ever heard!
 You say so much without a word;
 You never sing and sing so loud;
 Without my window all day long,
 Do you suspect my thoughts are wrong
 And seek to right being by your song?
 The song you sing so sweetly?"

"I'm sure you have a message true
 Which God Himself has entrusted you
 Before He sends you through the blue
 To so reflect His glory.
 Repeat that message, you are free
 To spend the season in my tree;
 And never fear that harm from me
 Will spoil your nesting by my tree."

"You sing a bar, you get a trill,
 A tone of sky, or vale, or hill,
 That makes a human soul be still,
 And catch the joy of heaven in flight,
 I hear you warbling in your nest,
 Your heart is better tuned to rest;
 While all the day you give your best,
 And never know you're giving!"
 —Annie Denham.

Artist Finds Lenine Is a Mighty Worker

Cesare Is Admitted to the Office of the Soviet Premier in the Kremlin.

"If Lenine is a sick man, I never saw a well one," says Oscar E. Cesare, the distinguished artist of The New York Times, who after great difficulties was admitted to Lenine's office in the Kremlin, a privilege rigidly denied now to "interviewers."

Many guards were passed, and Cesare had reached the moon. He tells what he saw: "I was taken to a draped door at the end of the council room. I passed through it—there was Lenine. Before me was the most discussed, interesting and mysterious man in the world today.

His beard, which had been sandy red, was now sprinkled with grey, but his hair at the sides showed no traces of white and was of a darker color. His eyes were brown. He wore a dark sack suit and soft collar. He stoops a little and peers up at you with an interested and animated look. When he smiles his face lights up vividly.

Lenine asked me to choose a seat and I sank down into a deep leather chair. He asked whether he could go on with his work—everybody works in Moscow—I said I preferred that he should. Foteva, his secretary, had allowed me twelve minutes. As Lenine worked away among his papers, read newspapers and telephoned to everybody in Moscow, it seemed, the minutes slipped by and Foteva came back as I looked at my watch.

Lenine noticed it and asked me to go ahead until I was quite finished. (I have forgotten to say before that he speaks English.) So I started again making sketches of his nose, eyes, whiskers, after having made a general head. I wasn't in the room as far as Lenine was concerned and he seemed to redouble his efforts at work. I'll admit it became too much for me, I couldn't follow him. When he telephoned he closed his eyes to better concentrate, and made gestures and notes with his free hand. In place of a bell there was a light signal on the Swedish telephone box. Foteva would appear every little while with more papers, but I took care not to look her way.

Lenine's room is a large comfortable one, done in a soft blue, with bookcases, the flat-topped desk with green reading lamp and several leather chairs, are the main objects. It has two large curtained windows facing the inner courtyard.

When I thought I could not decently stay any longer I got up to go, and Lenine rose to ask me questions (they say that is his habit)—so many questions that I couldn't answer at all. How I liked Moscow—and about America. I told him Moscow was a pleasant surprise after the lurid and wild yarns I had heard—that everybody seemed happy and everybody doing their bit.

What I said pleased him very much. And Lenine had a sense of humor which is almost American. I asked him to autograph one of the pictures, which he did, looking at his calendar for the date, and it happened to be Friday, the 13th, but I said nothing about my luck. I said good-bye and he asked me to call again when in Moscow.

Afterward I passed out through the council room, and in the anteroom the soldier, he of the bayonet, stopped me for my pass. There was something wrong, and I went back to Foteva, who vied it. It worked. I came out and lit a cigarette, for in Lenine's office you cannot smoke. That's orders. It was hard to realize that I had accomplished something, no other foreigner had managed—at least for a year. My friends in Moscow were much surprised, especially the correspondents who stay at the leaves.

Author of "Spirit Lake" Is Given a Spirit Flat

Mr. Heming Took Mr. Fudger's Startling Spirit Message Quite Seriously As Gospel Truth.

THE late Dick Fudger whose untimely death a few years ago cast a gloom on Canadian art circles, once played an amusing, if somewhat cruel, practical joke on Arthur Heming, the well-known writer and illustrator.

Sir William Orpen once painted a very stately portrait of Mr. Fudger. He represented him as a sort of Percy Bysshe Shelley sitting on a rustic bench in face ruffles and a poetical negligee. No one looking at that canvas would suspect Mr. Fudger of the authorship of a hoax.

Mr. Heming is a strong prohibitionist. He once drew a famous cartoon, "Is that you, daddy?" which represented a little child like the winner of The Star's competition gazing in surprise at his inebriated father, who had just been thrown out of a saloon. Mr. Fudger conceived the idea of presenting a spirit flat to the author of "Spirit Lake."

Mr. Fudger sent a proof of this startling spirit message to Mr. Heming, who was on his summer vacation at the time in the Metagama district. The artist accepted it all as gospel truth and took the first train for Toronto to surrender himself to the police and vindicate his character. The hoax proved only too successful, and Mr. Fudger had a bad quarter of an hour presenting his excuses to his victim. For years afterward there was, to say the least, a slight coolness between them.

Pachmann Actually Danced on the Stage

The quaint mannerisms of M. de Pachmann, the great pianist, have caused great amusement to audiences in Notts and Derbyshire towns in England, where he has been giving Chopin recitals. At Chesterfield the audience was so large that some pupils had to be accommodated on the platform, and after the first item M. Pachmann left his seat, and asked that a man sitting near the piano should be removed. "He is not in sympathy with Chopin," declared the pianist. The offending auditor had to be found another seat before the recital was resumed. At Mansfield the maestro chided the audience for applauding prematurely, told them when they could express their feelings, and after performing a mazurka in G major, he was so carried away with the gaiety of the piece that he actually danced.

A Most Courageous Man

He recently asked the question: "Have Women Souls?" But everybody appreciates Col. Geo. Harvey's sense of humor, even King George, who likes good wit and has a warm place in his heart for the popular United States ambassador, who is back now in his own country to talk over European problems with President Harding and Secretary Hughes. The ambassador's famous question at the Authors' Club dinner was really a championship of equal rights for men and women. But from the DeCalogue, he proved that there is no recognition of the possession of souls or inherent rights by women. By inference, he showed women that even the commandments did not apply to them, nor were they under any obligation to obey them. His conclusion was that the commandments would have to be revised or a new DeCalogue prepared quickly for the exclusive guidance of women.

Plucky Obstinacy of Sir Thomas Lipton May Yet Find the Four-Leaved Shamrock

The Tea Knight is Jolly, Witty, and the Author, Perhaps, of More Good Stories Than Any Other—Illumined by a Great Idea of Advertising.

"No play like work," Sir Thomas Lipton once wrote in the album of a fair autograph hunter. Unkind critics have hinted that the motto might well be reversed to read "No work like play." In view of the tremendous boom of Lipton products which follows every attempt to lift the cup from America. In reality this seems hardly fair. Sir Thomas has never liked his pleasures the less that they were useful to him. His yachts have made him the friend of kings and queens, his haronemy is said to be the result of a tactful gift of £25,000 to Queen Alexandra's pet charity.

That he is a true sportsman is, however, admitted by those best able to judge, the world over—not least amongst whom we must place Aemilius Jarvis, Esq., the foremost Toronto yachtsman, and an old friend of Lipton's. Indeed, Sir Thomas has friendly recollections of Toronto, altogether. This fact as well as the essential gentility of the man are well expressed in an anecdote given by a former member of the C.E.F.

"One day," he says, "I was, when off duty, cycling on the beach below the Folkestone cliffs. Suddenly I noticed that it was getting very late, and made a dash for one of the lifts to the upper cliffs. On entering, I rubbed my bicycle tires against an old gentleman sitting just inside the door. He accepted my apologies in the most genial fashion; and, motioning me to a seat beside him, commenced a friendly chat. He commented upon my being a Canadian, and asked from what part of Canada I came. When I said Toronto, his whole face lit up. "In that case, perhaps you'll know me," said he, straightening up. "Take a good look." His face seemed very familiar indeed. I was quite sure that I had seen those keen, good-humored eyes, and that broad smile, framed by white moustache and imperial; but I could not, for my life, have placed them. "Well," he asked, "what is the first thing you see, on entering the harbor at night?" There flashed on me the memory of the great illuminated sign—I believe that it is gone now—that one used to see, coming in on the Niagara boats, in fact you couldn't see anything else at first. "Lipton's Tea!" I cried. "That's me," he laughed. "I'm Lipton." He was simply delighted, and, before I left him, had invited me to bring some of the boys to tea at his hotel."

Notorious Millionaire Mother and Daughter Wed Father and Son.

Three years ago Mme. Lebaudy, shot her husband, the eccentric self-styled Emperor of the Sahara, who led an expedition unsuccessfully to take possession of an unclaimed section of the African coast, and who shared in the $30,000,000 estate of his father, the wealthy sugar magnate of France. Her plea of protection for her daughter was sustained by the United States courts. Mme. Lebaudy caused a second sensation last year when she moved to annul the marriage of her seventeen-year-old daughter, Jacqueline, with Roger Sudreau, the young son of her former secretary detective and adviser, Henri Sudreau. The third sensation is the double marriage now of Jacqueline, who was married only in name to the son, and her mother to the father of her daughter's husband, whom six months ago she was accusing of trying to capture the Lebaudy fortunes.

Sir Arthur's Sausages Prepared Like Fish

One Time When Canada's Serious Commander Was Bathed in Smiles at the Front.

THE reputation of Sir Arthur Currie as a serious man still persists. But as a matter of fact, he has a well-developed sense of humor, which breaks forth into a smile sometimes as he sits ruminating at his desk at McGill University, and the adventure of the sausages pops into his mind. One day, when General Currie was on one of his many tours of inspection to the front line, he happened to go down into one of the cook-houses. Encountering the cook on the steps of the dugout, he asked him to prepare for him a meal of sausages. When the cook asked him how he would like them done, Sir Arthur told him to cook them the same way as fish.

Half an hour later he returned and put down before the general a plate of skin. Very much surprised, Sir Arthur asked for an explanation. The cook rather nervously told him he had done what he was told and cleaned them out first. Sir Arthur smiled.

Houses Even Moving When Baxter Passed

Hens, Dogs, Urchins and Houses All Took to the Road When New Brunswick Began to Motor.

John Babington Macaulay Baxter, B.C.L., K.C., member of parliament for St. John County, New Brunswick, is undoubtedly most popular in his native city of St. John. One of the reasons for his popularity is his ability and sportsmanship to see and relate a good joke on himself.

Here is one over which his fellow citizens chuckled, knowing the thoroughness with which this eminent lawyer, golfer and politician attacks each undertaking, be it learning to jazz or making an eloquent campaign speech. It seems that Mr. Baxter purchased a motor and was learning to drive. The car sped a sort of zig-zag course as the driver held the wheel tightly, his eyes glued on the white ribbon of road—every nerve tense.

front of the car, narrowly escaping the wheels; a dog leaped from sudden death, and several urchins startled the motorist by running too close to the automobile for his comfort. All at once on the driveway was seen the spectacle of a house being carted on wheels from one side of the road to the other. This was too much for Mr. Baxter. "Great Scott!" he exclaimed, or words to that effect; "are the very houses moving to-day?"

Titled Explorer Finds Fortune

After sixteen years of patient toil and search, Lord Carnarvon, shown above, and that distinguished excavator, Mr. Howard Carter, have been rewarded by a marvelous find in the Valley of the Kings near Thebes. Together, they opened the sealed doors of a hitherto unnoticed tomb. There, before the eyes of the astounded excavators, spread out "Gilt couches, inlaid with ivory and precious stones; innumerable boxes inlaid and painted with entrancing hunting scenes; a wonderful throne; a chair encrusted with precious stones and hundreds of other almost priceless ancient articles." A tentative estimate values the treasures at $40,000,000. And in a third chamber, unopened yet, the explorers hope to find the mummy of King Tutankhamen, of the Eighteenth Dynasty, who reigned in Tel-el-Amarna and Thebes over three thousand years ago.

'A Very Human Man' Is Mr. Lloyd George

'He Hasn't Forgotten How to Be Plain Mr. Lloyd George,' Says His Wife.

HOW did Lloyd George and his wife really take the defeat that meant their moving from No. 10 Downing Street? An English lady was curious to know, and this is what she discovered when she called.

"Dame Margaret comes in, brisk, smiling, simply dressed in a dark blue gown. I felt that I was shaking hands with the least dismayed, least apprehensive lady in the political world. Other women may be hysterically putting on their rather rusty spurs." Dame Margaret looked rather as though she had descended thankfully from a long and exciting journey. "But I thought you wanted to talk about my husband," she protested, when I asked a question about herself. What woman, after all, wouldn't be rather eager to talk about a husband who, on this day after many years, was at last just a husband again instead of a Prime Minister.

"I shall be glad if he does get a rest," she said. "He is not a political machine, caring only for politics. The Prime Minister, I mean Mr. Lloyd George—it is hard to remember to call him that now after so long—is a very human man. He loves music. He likes to go to the opera. He likes to play golf. And all these years he has had so little time for his own life. On a fine morning he would say he would like to get some golf. Then he would go down and find so much important work that he could not get away. He is not a man who would have anything to do outside political life if he were to leave it.

"He has the power of throwing things off. Yesterday was so dramatic that many people may have wondered how he felt at the end of it. But he did not sit up and go over things again. He went to bed early and slept well, and to-day is well and cheerful. He hasn't forgotten how to be plain Mr. Lloyd George?"

Lloyd George's newly built "cottage" at Churt, in Surrey, to which he made such touchingly modest reference during the election, is really a compact house of moderate size, with a considerable extent of pleasantly wooded grounds attached. His pathetic talk of finding his future joy in rearing "a rhododendron" and "a new snow-drop" on these fairly extensive premises was only another illustration of his rare ability as a serio-comic actor. Though Lloyd from the polls retires hurt, He's very much on the alert. And keener, no doubt. To knock party-foot out Than to cultivate snowdrops at Churt!

THE ALTERNATIVE

The neighbor woman, Mrs. Smith, had given little Marjorie cake, candy and cookies until Marjorie had come to look upon Mrs. Smith as a sure source of supply. One lonesome morning when Marjorie could find nothing to do, she observed to her mother: "Mamma, I believe I will go over and ask Mrs. Smith for some cookies." "Why, Marjorie!" mother exclaimed. "You mustn't think of such a thing! It isn't nice for you to ask Mrs. Smith for cookies." Marjorie was dejected, but offered an alternative: "Well, then, mamma, I will go over to Mrs. Smith's and stand around and look like I wanted some cookies."—Kansas City Star.

WHERE IS DE VALERA?

Is de Valera, the Irish rebel president, paying a visit to Tenby, the premier seaside resort of Pembrokeshire, Wales? An entry in the visitors' book at the parish church of St. Mary the Virgin reads: "E. de Valera, President I.R., Dublin." The whereabouts of the notorious Irish leader has been kept a close secret for some time past, so that it is by no means impossible that he may have been in Tenby and made an entry out of bravado. If not, it is a joke in rather bad taste on the part of someone. The Soviet Government has declined to publish nineteen volumes written by Lenine. What a country!—Punch.

PART III

JIMMIE DUGAN, PUDDINGHEAD DUFFY AND BUMP HUDSON WERE TALKING TO AGGIE RILEY AND ALONG CAME THE PEACHEST GIRL YOU EVER SAW IN YOUR LIFE. THE FELLERS SAID SHE WAS A DOLL BABY, A LOLLYPOP AND A LALLAPAZA BUT AGGIE SAID SHE COULDN'T HELP IT IF THEY WERE SO IGNORANT AS TO THINK THAT THE GIRL WAS PRETTY. SO THE FELLERS APOLOGIZED AND BUMP HUDSON SAID 'I THINK SHE'S AWFUL UGLY, WHEN ARE YOU GOIN' TO INTRODUCE US AGGIE?' THAT WAS THE STRAW THAT BROKE THE CAMEL'S BACK. AGGIE SLAMMED THE DOOR RIGHT IN THEIR FACES. THE BOYS DECIDED TO STAY RIGHT WHERE THEY WERE, THINKING THE NEW GIRL MIGHT COME OUT AGAIN AND WERE PASSING SUCH REMARKS AS 'SHE'S TWICET AS PRETTY AS AGGIE' AND 'AGGIE'S ONEY JELLIS' ETC. BUT AGGIE OVERHEARD THEM AND REPLIED WITH A PAIL OF WATER FROM AN UPPER WINDOW. NOW THE FELLERS ARE TRYING TO GET THEIR CLOTHES DRY.

UPHOLDS BY-LAW ON HORSE RACING

Judgment of Mr. Justice McPhillips in Important Case

Clearly of Opinion Legislation Is Within Provincial Powers

Mr. Justice McPhillips, whose judgment upheld in the Court of Appeal the validity of the Oak Bay by-law prohibiting horse-racing within the municipality, has pronounced a written decision in which his views are set forth. He says in part: "I am clearly of the opinion that the impugned legislation is intra vires, as being a power within the exclusive jurisdiction of the Provincial Legislature relating to 'Property and Civil Rights' (92 (13) B.N.A. Act), but if I were wrong in that, the legislation is supportable as being within 'Generally all matters of a merely local or private nature in the Province' (92 (16) B.N.A. Act)."

"My conclusion is that the legislation is intra vires under both subsections of 92, viz. 'Property and Civil Rights' (92 (13) and 'Generally all matters of a merely local or private nature' (92 (16))."

Property and Civil Rights. In the course of his argument, Mr. Justice McPhillips sets forth that, in his opinion, "the enactment authorizing the passage of by-laws for preventing or regulating horse-racing cannot be held to be other than legislation in relation to property and civil rights, and being of that nature is within the exclusive jurisdiction of the Provincial Legislature."

Residents of the whole Sooke district will meet in the Sooke Hall to-night to hear addresses by Alderman A. E. Todd, Alderman David Leeming and Major Cuthbert Holmes on the inter-municipal water scheme.

On account of the importance of the project to the Sooke country, it is expected that a large number of people will attend the meeting in order to familiarize themselves with all phases of the proposed joint municipal water control system. Reeve Watson, replying at St. Mark's, on Thursday, to statements which had been made regarding his stand on the matter, stated: "I have been in favor of the principle behind the Water scheme since it was first suggested. We have tributary to the area in which this Board is going to operate, a certain amount of water, and I do not think that it is fair that that water should be in the control of any one community. It should be administered by representatives of the people living in the area to which that water is tributary. I have heard to-night a considerable amount of opposition to this Bill, and even towards the scheme itself. The suggestion has been made that it is going to cost $500,000 to repair the flow lines of the present Victoria water-works system. Supposing it does cost that amount? The municipalities of Saanich and Oak Bay will have to bear their proportion of the cost of those repairs. Can you see any way of getting out of the cost of it? I don't. If Saanich is going to use the water which goes through those flow lines, in some way you are going to pay the cost of those repairs."

Matter of Purely Private Nature. "It would seem to me that race meetings and horse-racing in the local or private nature in the Province, and that the language of Mr. Justice Duff is applicable to the present case. It is a matter which is substantially of local interest in the Province and which in itself is not of any direct or substantial interest to the Dominion as a whole, and is further indicated by Mr. Justice Duff. We may leave out of consideration any of the indirect or collateral effects. One indirect and collateral effect dwelt upon at this Bar was that if the legislation was intra vires it affected Dominion legislation, as section 6 of an Act to amend the Criminal Code, being C 43, 10-11, Geo. V. (1919 second session, 1920), implicitly authorized horse-racing, in admitting of the pari-mutuel system in race meetings and horse-racing."

"The answer to this submission I think is complete, when it is considered that it is the enactment of criminal law and is declaratory of what shall not be held to be within the purview of the Criminal Code—in regard to betting, pool selling and book-making—and effect is in no way trenchant upon the challenged legislation. It is true all concerned in race meetings and horse-racing are governed by the provisions of the number of days of racing and the number of race meetings in the year are obligatory, otherwise there will be an infringement of the Criminal Code, but this does not mean that it is said to amount to substantive legislation that horse racing is lawful in any particular Province or municipality. Its effect is in no way where horse-racing is carried on, the provisions of the Criminal Code apply."

Sovereign and Exclusive Power. "It is peculiarly a matter of local conditions, that would impel prohibitive legislation as affecting property and civil rights, or the governance of matters of a merely local or private nature in the Province, such as horse-racing, and the Legislature of the Province with the amount of its constitutional powers is best fitted to deal with such matters, and that was the conception of the framers of the British North America Act and the Sovereign Parliament enacted the measure, conferring what is in effect sovereign and exclusive powers in relation thereto; and it is not within the power of any Court to declare otherwise."

SOOKE PEOPLE TO HEAR ABOUT WATER PROJECT

To Learn of Joint Municipal Control; Watson Explains His Stand

If Saanich is going to use the water which goes through those flow lines, in some way you are going to pay the cost of those repairs."

"It has also been suggested that a large portion of the distribution system of the City of Victoria is in a bad state of repair. I do not know anything about that; but I do know that along certain of the large earthen lines a large amount of repairs have been undertaken. On the other hand, I have a piece of pipe taken up on the Saanich Road which was put there close on fifty years ago, and after making a close inspection of that piece of pipe, I am prepared to say that it was as good as the day it was put down. That simply means this: that I do not think we should worry about the fact that a certain portion of the distribution system of the City of Victoria is not as good as it ought to be. About sixteen years ago, the city bought a fairly large amount of steel pipe. I do not think they will buy steel pipe again; but that only represents a small proportion of the distribution system of the City of Victoria."

"I am one of those people who take credit for being progressive in a small way, and I do not think I am going to depart from that policy of conservative progress. We have laid eighty miles of water lines in Saanich, and if it is possible to supply water to areas outside the present water system in the Municipality of Saanich, at the same cost that it is being supplied to other areas in the municipality, I think we ought to do it, because it is simply going to add to the benefits of more ratepayers in the municipality. I do not think we should knock this scheme entirely. There are some features which I myself do not like personally, but we cannot have everything our own way. But in the meantime, I would like you to look into this Act, digest it, and take considerable time over it, and if you do that, I think you will come to the conclusion that, so far as the principle behind this scheme

FARMERS' INSTITUTE.

The usual monthly meeting of the South Saanich Farmers' Institute was held at the Temperance Hall, Keating, on Thursday evening; there was an exceptionally good attendance.

George A. Robinson, seed grower, of Elk Lake, gave a very interesting address on the Growing of Flower Seeds, defining the method of planting, mode of cultivation, and harvesting of the many different varieties. Mr. Robinson is a specialist in this branch of horticulture, and made a very impressive talk on the subject. The assessment of the land in Ward Six was openly discussed, when it was thought advisable to leave the matter for further discussion to the Ratepayers' meeting to be held at the Temperance Hall, Keating, on Wednesday next at 8 p. m. sharp.

MISS STEWART APPEALS TO STRUGGLE ON

Nanaimo Library Threatened to Close in Two Weeks

That the citizens of Nanaimo will have but two weeks longer to decide whether or not the Public Library shall remain open, was the decision of the annual meeting of the Nanaimo Library Association. The meeting, which only numbered fourteen, took up the problem of keeping the Library going if possible, regardless of the adverse vote on election day, and the fact that the financial standing of the institution had forced the Board of Directors to make definite plans for the future, whereby the necessary sum for carrying on during the coming year, could be realized.

Miss Helen Stewart, chairman of the Provincial Library Commission, rose to speak to a motion which was before the meeting, to the effect that the Library be closed for one year. Miss Stewart thought that for the small number of fifty-one votes by which the by-law was lost, the Association should become heartened rather than discouraged. She had supervised campaigns in towns smaller than Nanaimo and under similar circumstances, and she had succeeded in putting their Library on a permanent basis. With a little further effort on behalf of the Association, she thought the people of Nanaimo would soon awaken to the advantages to be gained by having access to a means of self-education on local, provincial, Dominion and world-wide problems. They were gaining knowledge rather than information, and she thought another appeal should awaken an interest in a specific way. All phases of opinion were voiced, and a suggestion included appealing to the Canadian Western Fuel Company, the Board of Trade, and other organizations who, it was felt, would manifest interest to the extent of a healthy donation. The meeting generally thought that if the Association was to carry on, it would be necessary to make a charge of one dollar per annum to persons qualifying to take one or more books. In view of the fact that according to legislation enacted, the Board of Directors would be responsible for any deficiency in funds, and with no definite assurance that the carrying on expenses would be met, it was decided that the annual meeting should adjourn to meet two weeks hence, and in the meantime, the committee would make a final appeal for financial support, and report then.
