U O the Seven Thousand loyal men and women of Albany who entered active service in the Great War, sacrificing the peace of civil life for an ideal of Liberty and in the cause of Mercy—and to those of the second line trenches, those at home who gave their dollars and their energy freely and patriotically that those over there might be victorious, is this History of the World War dedicated.

Albany's War Mayors

Mayor JAMES R. WATT

Former Mayor JOSEPH W. STEVENS

Preface by Mayor James R. Watt

A FOREMOST city in the history of four principal wars, Albany has emerged through the clouds of another, the fifth and greatest, with a record of patriotic sacrifice and loyalty unsurpassed by any other city of its size in the United States. Through the Revolution, the War of 1812, the Civil War, the Spanish-American War, Albany has passed with a glowing record of patriotic achievement, but her proud part in the World Conflict surpasses even the war accomplishments of our forefathers.

She has given her millions of dollars to the cause of Democracy and to the cause of mercy; she has given thousands of her sons and daughters, the bravest and best, to the cause of Liberty and Righteousness; she has maintained her home fires with tremendous sacrifice; her industries have ground out their grist of war munitions and materials undaunted by gigantic obstacles—in short, she has “carried on” in keeping with her glorious past.

The cost has been great. Our people have suffered. Our youths have died that humanity might live; and it is to our heroic mothers, who have borne their burdens of suffering and sorrow with supreme courage, that great praise should be given. The whole-hearted gratitude of Albany is due those thousands of our men and women who unflinchingly followed the steps of their fathers and grandfathers through the red furnace of war for an ideal of Liberty.

War Declared Between United States and Germany

DECLARING, before a joint session of Congress on the night of April 2, 1917, that the Kaiser and his autocracy were a menace to the peace of the world, President Wilson delivered his powerful address in which he arraigned the German empire, and urged that the United States enter the conflict for the protection of the rights of humanity.

In asking Congress for a formal declaration that a state of war existed between the United States and Germany, President Wilson said:

"With a profound sense of the solemn and even tragical character of the step I am taking and of the grave responsibilities which it involves, but in unhesitating obedience to what I deem my constitutional duty, I advise that the Congress declare the recent course of the imperial German government to be in fact nothing less than war against the government and people of the United States; that it formally accept the status of belligerent which has thus been thrust upon it and that it take immediate steps not only to put the country in a more thorough state of defense, but also to exert all its power and employ all its resources to bring the government of the German empire to terms and end the war.

"We have no selfish ends to serve. We desire no conquest, no dominion. We seek no indemnities for ourselves, no material compensation for the sacrifices we shall freely make. We are but one of the champions of the rights of mankind. We shall be satisfied when those rights have been made as secure as the faith and the freedom of the nations can make them.

"I have said nothing of the governments allied with the imperial government of Germany because they have not made war upon us or challenged us to defend our right and our honor.

"We enter this war only where we are clearly forced into it because there are no other means of defending our rights. It will be all the easier for us to conduct ourselves as belligerents in a high spirit of right and fairness because we act without animus, not in enmity towards a people or with the desire to bring any injury or disadvantage upon them, but only in armed opposition to an irresponsible government which has thrown aside all consideration of humanity and of right and is running amuck.

"It is a distressing and oppressive duty, gentlemen of the Congress, which I have performed in thus addressing you. There are, it may be, many months of fiery trial and sacrifice ahead of us. It is a fearful thing to lead this great peaceful people into war, into the most terrible and disastrous of all wars; civilization itself seeming to be in the balance. But the right is more precious than peace, and we shall fight for the things we have always carried nearest our hearts — for democracy, for the right of those who submit to authority to have a voice in their own governments, for the rights and liberties of small nations, for a universal dominion of right by such a concert of free peoples as shall bring peace and safety to all nations and make the world itself at last free.

"To such a task we can dedicate our lives and our fortunes, everything that we are and everything that we have with the pride of those who know that the day has come when America is privileged to spend her blood and her might for the principles that gave her birth and happiness and the peace which she has treasured.

"God help her, she can do no other."

The formal declaration by Congress that a state of war existed between the United States and Germany followed on April 6, 1917.

Complete History of Albany's Share in the Great World War.

FIRST official cognizance was taken of the likelihood of America's being drawn into the World War on March 26, 1917, when Mayor Joseph W. Stevens appointed a Mayor's Advisory Committee, composed of Benjamin W. Arnold, Arthur L. Andrews, George D. Babbitt, Mortimer G. Barnes, William Barnet, the Rev. Roelif H. Brooks, the Rev. William R. Charles, Dr. Erastus Corning, J. Sheldon Frost, the Rev. S. H. Goldenson, Max Kurth, John J. Maas, James H. Manning, Edward N. McKinney, the Rev. J. V. Moldenhawer, Filadelfo Mondello, William L. Schupp, James F. Tracey and Charles M. Winchester. The committee organized immediately. Mr. Arnold was elected Chairman and Walter L. Hutchins was elected Secretary. Sub-committees were appointed to promote co-operation and harmony of all citizens, on protection of vital points and property, on information from foreign centers, on industries and surveillance of employees, on home defense, on resources and men, on the press and on finance.

On April 2, 1917, Mayor Stevens sent a special message to the Common Council, advising that body of his appointment of the Committee, in which he expressed his reason as follows:

"Feeling that the gravity of the conditions confronting our country demanded that the Mayor have the advice and assistance of a few men of acknowledged ability and experience in handling such problems as may confront our people in the event of war, I appointed a committee, known as the Mayor's Advisory Committee. In appointing that committee I followed the precedent established at the outbreak of the Civil War. * * * I had no definite ideas as to what service the committee could perform, but I considered it the duty of the people of Albany to be prepared for eventualities."

The Mayor asked for an appropriation of $5,000 for the Committee's use, which the Common Council made.

Albany's plan in this regard met with approval of the cities of the State and led to the organization of Home Defense Leagues in all parts of the State.

The sub-committee of the Mayor's Advisory Committee on Home Defense, of which Colonel James H. Manning was Chairman, brought about the organization of the Albany Defense Corps, which has performed splendid service for the city of Albany as an auxiliary of the Police Department.

Speeding up of Navy recruiting dates from March 30, 1917, when the local recruiting station received a telegram from Washington assigning to the Albany station a quota of 800 men to be recruited by April 20th. County Attorney Ellis J. Staley was selected to take charge of this patriotic service. Very gratifying results were attained under Mr. Staley's management. The city was widely lithographed and many appeals were made by speakers both indoors and outdoors. Mr. Staley subsequently was placed in charge of all recruiting work for the county of Albany and was made Chairman of the sub-committee on recruiting of the Albany County Home Defense Committee.

On February 7, 1917, two months before the United States entered the world conflict, Albany units of the Tenth Infantry, New York National Guard, marched away to war service. Sent to guard the Catskill aqueduct, the first battalion of the Tenth, which included Companies A, B, C and D, and Headquarters company and the Supply Company, started out on the long trail which ended with victory on European soil.

There were about four hundred and fifty men in the six companies. The battalion was commanded by Major Gilbert V. Schenck and the company commanders were: Captain Reynolds K. Townsend, Company A; Captain Edward R. Thorne, Company B; Captain Harry B. Anderson, Company C; First Lieutenant M. G. Crosby, Company D; Captain William F. Wheelock, Supply Company. Captain Pancoast Kidder was regimental adjutant; the Rev. Francis A. Kelley, regimental chaplain, and Major Sylvanus Purdy, regimental surgeon, all under the command of Lieutenant Colonel Albert Saulpaugh.

ALBANY'S PART IN THE WORLD WAR

Ordered to New Paltz a few days after the United States broke diplomatic relations with Germany, the First battalion was one of the first units to begin war service in this country. On August 5, 1917, the battalion was taken into federal service. The outfit was sent to Camp Meade and later to Spartanburg, S. C., where it trained with thousands of troops. Through the process of transferring officers and men the battalion became dissolved and lost its character as a unit. But officers and men, in the struggle that preceded victory, proved they were true to the traditions of Albany and New York State and the superior of the enemy's best warriors.

On April 6, 1917, Albany was plunged into the World War, a giant conflict which had then drawn the greater part of the civilized world into its bloody maw. Dazed and staggered by the shock of war after years of prosperous and contented peace, the Capital City recovered almost immediately and celebrated America's entrance into the terrific conflict with a city-wide outburst of patriotic demonstration.

The night of April 6th, a monster street parade, with thousands of Albany men, women and children in line, acclaimed the entrance of the Nation into the war. Scores of fraternal, church and civic organizations, with State, county and city officials, took part in the celebration and in the giant mass meeting which followed in Harmanus Bleecker Hall. Former Governor Martin H. Glynn, County Judge George Addington and William E. Fitzsimmons aroused the audience to fighting pitch with denunciation of the enemies of humanity.

Immediately the wheels of organization began the work of forging Albany into an active unit in the national war machinery. Scores of war relief organizations were formed; recruiting began; war relief funds were subscribed and national loans floated; the citizens of the city coming to the fore in enthusiastic and united effort for the winning of the war. Thousands of her men took up the sterner work of actual warfare while those at home labored unceasingly that these men should have everything necessary for victory.

Through more than eighteen months of war-time sacrifice and accomplishment, Albany struggled with a record unblemished. When the armistice, denoting the conclusion of the vast struggle, was signed, Albany found itself a smooth-running, beautiful and efficient machine fit and worthy for its place as one of the staunchest cogs in the national organization. From the day war was declared until peace came, Albany presented a steel front to the enemy.

The following record of the most wonderful period in the history of the city gives clearly and concisely the great war-time deeds of those at home. Day by day, from the hour war was declared to the great day when the armistice was signed, the war-time history of Albany is set forth with the names of those who were leaders in the magnificent accomplishments.

ALBANY'S WAR DIARY.

An intensive campaign for navy recruiting was launched on April 7 and scores of Albany boys were accepted, breaking the recruiting record of years.

A sweeping recruiting campaign for the Fifteenth Infantry and for companies of the Tenth Infantry was started with success. "B" Troop of the First Cavalry, N. G., N. Y., Albany's famous horse troop, left April 13th for Croton aqueduct, 104 men strong, in command of Captain Ernest L. Miller. This same day, all alien enemies in Albany were ordered to surrender arms and ammunition. A great patriotic mass meeting took place in Harmanus Bleecker Hall April 15th with a monster attendance and patriotic addresses by nationally known figures.

Society folk fired the first guns of their share in the war, April 19th, when Mrs. Henry Manning Sage began the organization of Red Cross classes and Mrs. Leo Muhlfelder organized Jewish women for relief work. On this day, too, Henry E. Crouch, Superintendent of the Albany County Farm Bureau, started the work of mobilizing farmers for war production. General W. W. Wotherspoon, head of the Albany County Home Defense Committee, announced the following prominent Albanians as members:

Gerrit Y. Lansing, J. Frank O'Marah, Donald McDonald, Arthur D. Hecox, J. Sheldon Frost, Sheriff James D. Patton, County Attorney Ellis J. Staley, Charles D. Niver, Patrick E. McCabe, Edwin Van Wormer and G. William McEwan.

The Fuld and Hatch Knitting Mills, later engaged in war work, set an example for Albany industries on April 25th by giving employees a ten per cent increase and group insurance due to increased cost of living.

Four days later, a navy recruiting station was opened in the Dolan Building, Broadway, with a large staff of naval officers, for an active recruiting campaign.

WAR ORGANIZATIONS FORMED.

The first of scores of war organizations was formed April 29th, when Italians of the city organized as Independent Sons of Italy for the prosecution of the war and organization of the Catholic Boys' Brigade was planned.

May 6th, Ensign Philip Hamsch, in charge of navy recruiting station, announced that 640 Albany boys had enlisted since the declaration of war, which placed the city in fifth place among naval recruiting districts of the Nation.

Albany's unit of the Naval Militia had virtually filled its quota of sixty-five men on May 7th. Dr. Charles Lee Bailey, lieutenant, acted as examining physician and Charles Bentley, William Martin and Thomas P. Bissell acted as instructors in drill. May 6th, plans for increasing the National Guard by 10,000 additional men were announced. A few days later, the mounted division of the Albany Defense Corps was organized with Charles P. Wagner as president.

The war telegraphy class was organized at this time by the Western Union officials.

Marshal Joffre, war hero of France and in America on a war mission, passed through Albany the morning of May 14th, remaining in the city for ten minutes.

Ledyard Cogswell, Chairman of the Liberty Loan Committee by virtue of his designation by Mayor Stevens as Chairman of "4 Minute Men" of Albany and his selection by the Federal bank of New York, started preliminary work on the Liberty Loan Campaign with Charles H. Bissikummer, E. C. Swanson, Charles E. McElroy, Gardner B. Perry and Wallace Roe as active leaders.

Thirty-two negro recruits for the Fifteenth Negro Infantry left for New York following an enthusiastic demonstration.

Y. M. C. A. LAUNCHES CAMPAIGN.

The Albany Young Men's Christian Association launched a campaign for $10,000 for war work May 17th, with John T. D. Blackburn, Ledyard Cogswell, Charles Gibson, William McDonald, Henry Rodgers, A. Page Smith, Frederick B. Stevens and William J. Davison, as campaign leaders. On this day, sixty Albanians were mustered into Federal military service as the Albany unit of the Naval Militia. The pledging for Liberty Bonds in Albany also began to hit its pace.

May 20th, it was announced by naval officials that Albany physicians, working without compensation, had saved the Government $41,000 in the examination of recruits. Thirteen recruits for "B" Troop, then on duty in Westchester county, left Albany for service.

Officials of the Albany County Home Defense Committee announced May 22nd that the organization stood ready to meet all emergencies. Peter G. Ten Eyck, heading the Transportation Division; Dr. J. N. Vander Veer in charge of the Medical Division; Chauncey P. Williams in charge of emergency organization, and W. R. Adams, heading the telephone unit, were leaders in the work. May 22nd, the Albany County Suffrage Organization went on record as ready to respond for war service.

The First Liberty Loan campaign was actively opened on this date. The quota was $7,891,000.

Boy Scouts of Albany pledged their aid to the campaign of the First Liberty Loan on May 25th. Claude D. Nuckols, President and General Manager of the Consolidated Car Heating Company, left his desk to become a major in the Ordinance Department. Major Harold D. Cochrane, Captain Edgar A. Vander Veer and Captain Otto Eichel, prominent Albany physicians who had been commissioned, were ordered to report.

REGISTER FOR DRAFT.

Tuesday, June 5th, was Registration Day under the first draft of the Selective Service Law. Exactly 10,523 young Albanians between the ages of twenty-one and thirty-one years registered in the city without disturbance or resistance. The great majority signified their willingness to serve when called to arms.

On June 7th, the Women's Guild of "B" Company of the Tenth Infantry, N. G., N. Y., was organized by relatives and friends of the soldiers for relief work among the men. Albany Lodge of Elks pledged $50,000 to the First Liberty Loan Campaign. The lodge voted this amount, to be subscribed by members. Many other fraternal, religious and social organizations also pledged large sums to the campaign on this day.

The Liberty Loan campaign closed June 15th with the city subscribing $8,368,000, or $477,000 more than the quota.

ALBANY'S PART IN THE WORLD WAR

Officers of the National Guard in Albany received orders June 8th to prepare Albany troops for immediate mobilization. June 9th found the Albany Chapter of the Red Cross active in Albany with Mrs. Martin H. Glym, Mrs. Isaac Vanderpoel, Mrs. George Porter Hilton, Mrs. Albert Hessberg, Mrs. Henry Manning Sage, Mrs. James C. Farrell, Mrs. F. Ward, Mrs. B. W. Arnold and Mrs. William Gorham Rice as leaders.

June 11th, the taking of the State military census was started in Albany, with Donald McDonald in charge. Dr. Arthur W. Elting, Director of the Albany Base Hospital, announced on this day that the unit of Albany medical men was ready for service at call.

Sergeant E. L. Stark, in charge of Albany marine recruiting, opened a campaign June 11th and enlisted seventeen Albanians the first day. The enlistment of brothers, Thomas and John B. Cantwell, of 876 Broadway, completed the quota of the Albany Division of the Naval Militia, comprising ninety members.

The first big food conservation meeting in Albany took place June 17th in Harmanus Bleecker Hall, where a Federal official, with State and county leaders, urged the imperative need of food saving to forestall a shortage. June 20th, the Red Cross in Albany opened a campaign for $250,000 for war work, with Senator Henry Manning Sage as chairman of the General Committee. Mrs. Ledyard Cogswell organized sewing circles in Albany for war relief work.

RECRUITING SUCCESSFUL.

Governor Charles S. Whitman announced June 19th that recruiting for the National Guard had been successful. The Public Celebrations Committee of the Common Council on this day decided to eliminate fireworks in the Fourth of July Celebration, "saving the powder for the Germans and the money for the Red Cross." Albany, it was announced then, was fifth in marine recruiting for the Nation. June 21st, the Albany section of the United States Navy League opened headquarters in the City Hall. This organization, in charge of James Fenimore Cooper, organized knitting for the sailors.

The Women's Auxiliary of the Tenth Battalion was organized June 21st for the work of providing comforts for soldiers of the Albany Battalion. June 24th, Miss Katherine Stinson, aviatrix, flying to aid the Red Cross Campaign, landed on Westerlo Island. The Red Cross Campaign ended June 28th with an oversubscription of more than $5,000.

July 1st, Albany clergymen preached on food conservation.

The Patriotic League, for caring for the dependents of Albany soldiers and sailors, was organized July 2nd with members of thirty Albany organizations as workers. County Judge George Addington was appointed leader. July 5th, draft boards for Albany were announced with Charles H. Turner, Theodore C. Hailes and Dr. J. A. Cox comprising the first; Dudley Olcott, Peter D. Kiernan and Dr. J. F. Barker, the second; William Barnet, Lewis R. Parker and Dr. James F. Rooney, the third, and Frank B. Graves, Franklin M. Danaher and Dr. William H. George, the fourth.

Albany Council, Knights of Columbus, made tentative plans July 5th to raise a war fund of $2,200 for soldier welfare work. July 10th, the Catholic Women's Service League was well organized in Albany, several parish divisions having taken up welfare work for soldiers and sailors of Albany.

July 11th, the first list of draft registrants was announced with the serial numbers.

On Sunday, July 15th, prayers for the safety and comfort of soldiers and sailors in service were offered in Albany churches in compliance with a proclamation issued by Governor Whitman. Special sermons were delivered at services attended by thousands of Albanians.

ALBANY SAILORS LEAVE.

Albany Battalion of the Naval Militia left the city July 15th for Kingsland Point in command of Lieutenant William L. Martin. Sixty Albany boys in the unit were given a rousing send off.

In response to a proclamation of Mayor Joseph W. Stevens, many prominent Albanians reported at the Washington Avenue Armory to escort the sailors to the station. Heading the procession was a delegation of Civil War Veterans who were followed by the citizens' escort, which included delegations from Albany clubs and fraternities. Ensign Thomas T. Bissell accompanied the unit as second in command.

Bishop Thomas F. Cusack, head of the Albany Catholic Diocese, presented a motor truck to "C" Company of the Tenth Battalion, July 20th, through the National Guard Recruiting Committee of the Albany County Home Defense Committee. On the same date, Captain James E. Roach was elected chairman of a committee composed of members of the Old Guard of "C" Company, to plan for co-operating with the Women's Auxiliary in providing comforts for the men of the unit. Police Captain William C. Coogan was named treasurer and Albert E. Denison, former Major of the Battalion, was elected secretary.

GUARD ENTERS FEDERAL SERVICE.

On July 16th, the National Guard of New York was formally made a part of the Regular Army. Albany furnished 2,064 men to the national service, it was estimated by officials of the Special Recruiting Committee of the Albany County Home Defense Committee at this time. The Second Field Hospital and the Tenth Battalion were taken into Federal service under this order.

An appeal for nurses was issued by Albany Base Hospital July 20th. Between sixty and 100 additional nurses were needed Dr. Arthur W. Elting, director, announced. Lieutenant Samuel Crump, recruiting officer for the Tenth Infantry, opened a drive the same day for 400 men to fill vacancies in the unit. Captain George C. Broome of "B" Company and Lieutenant Jonathan W. Stott of "A" Company were placed in charge of recruiting headquarters in the City Hall.

July 20th was the historic day when Albany draft numbers were drawn in Washington. Eleven Albany men, members of the Naval Militia, left July 21st for Kingsland Point to join sixty other members of the battalion who entrained July 15th.

DRAFT BOARDS ACTIVE.

The four city draft boards began work July 24th preparing the list of men to report for examination within ten days. Official lists of draft numbers were received July 25th. Word received from France on this day told that the Albany ambulance had left for the front June 30th.

Lieutenant John H. Baker, with a staff of five physicians, began the work July 28th of examining applicants for the Second Officers' Training Camp, to open at Fort Oglethorpe, Georgia, in September. About ninety applications were received at this time. July 29th, the physicians examined 125 applicants for the commissions. August 1st, word was received in Albany that William Gorham Rice, Jr., had been cited for the French War Cross for bravery in removing wounded under shell fire.

Two of Albany's fighting units left the city August 8th. The Albany Division of the Naval Militia, comprising forty-two members, left for Kingsland Point. Seventy members of "B"

Troop entrained for Highland to establish a patrol along the Ashokan Reservoir.

Thirty-six Albanians were given commissions after training at Madison Barracks, according to announcement August 12th. "B" Company of the Tenth Battalion, 130 strong, left Albany August 11th, in command of Captain Edward R. Thorne, for Harrisburg, Pennsylvania. On August 25th, it was announced that Albany's first draft quota was complete.

Announcement was made August 27th that "B" Troop, the Albany unit of the old First Cavalry, N. G., N. Y., commanded by Captain Ernest L. Miller, would go to France as a machine gun company. The company was later designated as the 106th Machine Gun Company.

ALBANY HONORS DRAFTEES.

Albany consecrated her young manhood to the cause of democracy at two monster mass meetings in Proctor's Grand Theater and in Clinton Square the night of Sunday, September 2nd, when State, county and city leaders joined in bidding the drafted men to uphold the traditions of the city, and assuring them that the civilian population would support them with an undivided strength. The meetings drew more than 10,000 people, several thousand packing the theater while twice the number attended the out-door gathering. Forming at the Washington Avenue Armory and headed by Mayor Joseph W. Stevens and members of the Citizens' Committee, more than 1,000 persons marched in a parade preceding the exercises.

William E. Fitzsimmons, as chairman, opened the meeting in the theater, introducing as speakers, Governor Charles S. Whitman, Commissioner of Education John H. Finley, Mayor Stevens, County Judge George Addington, the Rev. Dr. George Dugan and the Rev. William R. Charles. Governor Whitman, Judge Addington and the Rev. John F. Glavin of Rensselaer, addressed the out-door meeting.

FIRST HONOR MEN LEAVE.

It was on the morning of Saturday, September 8, 1917, that Albany sent away her first contingent of Selective Service men. Thousands lined the curb to bid farewell to the nineteen draftees from Albany city and twenty from Albany county, who left for Camp Devens at Ayer, Mass., to begin the training which was to fit them for service in France. As the first of nearly a score of such farewells, it will be remembered as the most impressive.

ALBANY'S PART IN THE WORLD WAR

The men met at the Albany County Court House at 7.30 o'clock and marched to the City Hall, where the Rev. Dr. George Dugan, Chairman of the District Board of Appeals, wished them Godspeed. In the line that escorted them to Union Station were Mayor Joseph W. Stevens, James R. Watt, President of the Common Council; Adjutant General Charles H. Sherrill, former Governor Martin H. Glynn and representatives of civic and fraternal bodies, as well as twenty-five women members of the Red Cross in uniform, carrying a large American silk flag presented to the City of Albany by the men of the Cruiser Albany, Mrs. Martin H. Glynn leading. The line of march was from State street, through North Pearl street to Clinton avenue and to Broadway. Ten thousand people crushed into the railroad yards to bid farewell to Albany's first contribution of men under the Selective Service Act.

Hundreds visited the headquarters of the Catholic Women's League at 160 State street on September 13th to view the war exhibition of the Catholic Women's War Service League. The display of bandages and other hospital necessities, as well as the soldier comforts made by the women, showed that substantial progress had been made in a campaign that was to continue until the war ended, and even afterward.

The appointment of Captain Charles E. Walsh to Major of Albany Battalion of the Tenth Infantry, to succeed Major Charles H. Van Benthuyzen, resigned, was announced on September 14th by Adjutant General Charles H. Sherrill.

A meeting in School 14, arranged by the Jewish organizations of Albany, to pay tribute to the Jews of the city in war service, was conducted on September 18th. The speakers were: County Judge George Addington, Commissioner of Charities Alwin C. Quentel, Rabbi S. H. Goldenson and Simon W. Rosendale.

SECOND DRAFT CONTINGENT.

Albany sent away 123 men in the second draft contingent on September 22nd. Officials of Albany, Watervliet and Cohoes joined in the farewell. Marching at the head of the parade with Governor Whitman were Mayor Joseph W. Stevens of Albany, Mayor Edward A. Foley of Watervliet and Mayor James S. Calkins of Cohoes. At Columbia street and Broadway the Governor and the city heads reviewed the parade and Governor Whitman made a stirring address.

On the evening of September 22nd a "Wake Up America" meeting took place in the State Education Building. Former United States Senator Charles A. Towne of Minnesota, Supreme Court Justice William P. Rudd, Miss Mabel Boardman, Chairman of the Relief Committee of the American Red Cross, and Carl S. Vrooman, Assistant Secretary of Agriculture, appealed for complete co-operation in the great problem America was facing, and urged every person to do his or her full share in the winning of the war.

One hundred and twenty-five bronzed sailors, comprising the Albany Battalion of the New York State Naval Militia, arrived in Albany on September 29th from Kingsland Point to say farewell before leaving to enter actual war service. Led by their commander, Lieutenant William Martin, the men marched to the Washington Avenue Armory where luncheon was served by the Women's Auxiliary, and each man was given a kit of tobacco. Miss Alberta E. O'Connor, Secretary of the Auxiliary, presented the battalion with a goat for a mascot. The goat was the gift of the Journal Company. The men were home over Sunday and left Monday, October 1st.

SECOND LOAN OPENS.

Albany's Second Liberty Loan Campaign was given a good start October 2nd, when $1,250,000 was subscribed by the banks.

Albany's third draft contingent of 135 men left for Camp Devens October 6th. Mayor Stevens and former Governor Glynn bade the men farewell at a meeting at the Albany County Court House, and the draftees were escorted to Union Station by members of the Tenth Infantry, the Red Cross, Albany Defense Corps and other organizations. As the train drew out of the station, sentries of the Fifteenth Infantry, stationed on the Maiden Lane bridge, fired a salute.

Italian societies formed an organization October 7th to stimulate the sale of Liberty Bonds, and on October 21st a mass meeting was conducted in the State Education Building in the interests of the drive. Cheering news was published October 24th, Liberty Day, when $1,500,000 was subscribed. On the final day of the campaign, October 27th, it was announced that the city had passed its quota of $11,836,500 by nearly $2,000,000.

An impressive out-door service was held October 28th at the Blessed Sacrament Church, when a service flag was raised in honor of thirty-nine members of the parish. The speakers were the Rev. William F. O'Connor, pastor; Alderman

New York's Governors During War and Reconstruction Period

Former Gov. CHARLES S. WHITMAN

Governor ALFRED E. SMITH

Charles S. Whitman, New York State's war Governor, participated in many of Albany's campaigns during the period of hostilities, and was one of the hardest workers in the movement to make this city efficient for war service. Governor Whitman directed the activities of the State throughout the war, but, despite his many duties, found time in which to aid the patriotic movements in Albany. He spoke at scores of meetings, marched in parades and served on various committees for war work. Governor Whitman was responsible for stimulating many campaigns at the critical juncture.

Alfred E. Smith was elected Governor of New York State shortly before the signing of the armistice ending the war, and assumed office on January 1, 1919, to direct the important work of reconstruction. Governor Smith embarked upon a program which aimed to maintain in the reconstruction period the same high degree of efficiency that marked the State's activities relating to the war. His administration began at a time when the country faced the great task of returning to a peacetime basis, when the needs of both labor and capital had to be considered carefully and provided for.

ALBANY'S PART IN THE WORLD WAR

Elmer D. Gunn, County Judge Addington and Police Justice John J. Brady.

Collector of Internal Revenue Roscoe Irwin began collecting liquor taxes under the War Revenue Bill on November 1st. Gardner B. Perry, Treasurer of the Camp Devens Fund, announced November 3rd that $716 had been raised for soldier comforts. A Tag Day for the benefit of the Syrian Relief Fund was held November 10th.

A campaign was opened in the Albany Catholic Diocese November 11th to raise $80,000 for the maintenance of Chaplains with American Soldiers and Sailors.

Twenty-four members of the E. J. Barker Association, who had joined the Colors, were honored at a flag raising November 15th. Speakers at the exercises were: City Judge Daniel H. Prior, William V. Cooke, William T. Byrne, William E. Fitzsimmons, Ellis J. Staley, Alexander Selkirk and City Judge Edward J. Halter.

The joint drive of the Young Men's Christian Association and the War Camp Community Service for $104,000 was oversubscribed by $802 at a dinner in the Hotel Ten Eyck, November 19th.

Several hundred boys entered an "Earn and Give" Campaign for the benefit of the Young Men's Christian Association November 25th.

A drive for $5,000 as Albany's quota of a $1,000,000 fund was opened by the Salvation Army December 1st. The following day a service flag with 130 stars for members of the Old Guard of "B" Company was raised at the headquarters of the Women's Guild, 221 State street.

OPEN RED CROSS CAMPAIGN.

With former Congressman Peter G. Ten Eyck as director, the Red Cross launched a drive in Albany county for 25,000 members December 10th. The same day the army recruiting station broke a record by sending 200 men to training stations.

Former Governor Glynn spoke at an enthusiastic meeting in St. Joseph's Hall, December 13th, when a service flag with 150 stars was raised.

On December 16th, the Rev. William P. Brennan, pastor of St. John's Church, held final services before leaving for Spartanburg, S. C., to enter the Army as a chaplain.

George William McEwan was appointed Food Administrator for Albany county December 22nd. The day before Christmas it was announced that Albany county had responded to the Red Cross appeal for members by returning 30,000 membership cards, 5,000 more than the quota.

There was nothing lacking in Albany's observance of Christmas, 1917. Many Albany boys in training camps were enabled to come home for Christmas through the activity of Mayor-elect Watt in procuring leaves and through the generosity of citizens who subscribed to a fund for that purpose. The boys participating in the fund had to register at the Mayor's office where each received his pro rata share of the fund to reimburse him for the money he spent for railroad fare. Despite the war which had drawn many Albany men from their homes, the spirit was that of "Peace on earth, good will toward men." Special services were conducted in the churches; Christmas gifts were distributed among the destitute, in the orphanages and other institutions. Although it was meatless Tuesday, there was abundance of holiday cheer.

On behalf of the Albany Rotary Club, President Edgar M. Griffiths, at the regular weekly luncheon of the club, December 28th, presented the city with a service flag in honor of its men under arms. Mayor Stevens received the flag, which represented 2,767 men.

NINETEEN EIGHTEEN.

The first news of importance after January 1st was the announcement of the forming of a committee of 100 members at a meeting in the Hotel Ten Eyck, January 3rd, to stimulate the sale of Thrift and War Savings Stamps. James H. Manning, director of the campaign in Albany county, presided at the meeting.

The Fidelis Class of the First Lutheran Church presented a service flag to the Church January 13th, in honor of eleven men in the country's service. Albany entertained the Serbian Mission January 17th. The first of a series of heatless days, to conserve coal, came on January 21st.

Plans were made February 1st by the Albany Rotary Club for the sale of Smileage Books for Soldiers and Sailors, and on February 4th the police began the work of registering German aliens. Thirty drafted men were given a rousing send off February 23rd, when they entrained for Camp Devens. Supreme Court Justice William P. Rudd spoke at a meeting at the Albany County Court House.

Colonel James H. Manning, director of the War Stamps Drive, started March 1st the $1,000 Club of Albanians and by March 3rd had, with the co-operation of committees, established 1,242 Thrift Stamp Agencies throughout the city. Three days later, the Chamber of Commerce opened negotiations with Washington to obtain a Government war contract for the Rathbone-Sard plant.

WAR PLANTS CONSTRUCTED.

March 10th, the Albany Perforated Wrapping Paper Company started excavation work on the site of four new buildings to be used as war plants. Several large Government war contracts had previously been awarded the company. The buildings, of modern industrial type, were erected in the Lumber District.

The British war tank, Britannia, fresh from the Flanders battle fields, visited Albany, March 11th, and gave Mrs. Whitman, wife of Governor Whitman, a ride. The same day, Mrs. Whitman, unshaken by her trip in the giant war machine, opened the Overseas Hospital Campaign with a meeting in the Executive Mansion. The next day, recruiting for the Coast Guard opened in Albany. The Paulist Choir of Chicago gave a concert in the Vincentian Auditorium March 14th for the French War Fund.

The American Library Association opened a campaign for books in Albany, March 17th, with successful beginning. The same day, Mrs. E. L. Post of 497 Western avenue, was appointed Navy Relief representative for the district.

On March 24th, Governor Whitman reviewed the New York Guard unit in Albany, commanded by Colonel Charles E. Walsh. The review took place in the Washington Avenue Armory. That night, Albany Chapter of the American Institute of Banking unfurled, at the sixth annual banquet, a service flag with forty-four stars. The next day the Albany Rotary Club pledged united aid to the American Library Association Campaign for books.

RELIEF DRIVES SUCCESSFUL.

Under the leadership of Mrs. William Gorham Rice, the drive for the Belgian Relief Fund was well under way at this time with every one aiding the movement.

On March 26th, the Red Cross Melting Pot, into which Albanians dropped old jewelry and valuable metals, yielded $2,201.05 to the fund. Mrs. Aaron T. Lovett and her Committee publicly thanked all those who assisted in making the Red Cross Melting Pot a success.

On March 27th, Albany's War Gardens had their start.

William Gibbs McAdoo, Secretary of the Treasury, telegraphed Albany Bankers at this time, thanking them for co-operation in the Liberty Loans.

In a rousing patriotic address, Jacob H. Herzog of the Liberty Loan Committee, won women of twenty-five organizations to aid the drive at a meeting of delegates in Eastern Star Hall, Lark street. A historic day in the war history came March 31st, when clocks of the city were turned back one hour to conform with a Congressional resolution. The radical change in time was made without serious confusion.

More than 150,000 income tax reports were returned to the office of the Internal Revenue Collector in Albany April 2nd.

THIRD LIBERTY LOAN LAUNCHED.

On April 6th, the Third Liberty Loan drive opened in Albany with a monster parade and mass meeting. More than one hundred organizations — civic, fraternal, benevolent and military — were in line and thousands of citizens turned out to start the campaign on its way. The day was also the first anniversary of America's entry in the great war and was made a day of patriotic enthusiasm.

Former President William Howard Taft visited Albany April 12th and spoke before thousands of Albanians on the war, calling for millions of American fighting men on the European battle fronts. He addressed the throng in Chancellors' Hall, Education Building, being introduced by Dr. John H. Finley, Commissioner of Education. The Rotary Club announced the purchase of $102,500 worth of bonds on this day.

Emmy Wehlen, a moving picture star, came to Albany April 18th and induced Albanians, by appeals at the theaters, to buy $52,000 worth of Liberty Bonds. The opening plans of Albany's War Chest were announced April 20th by Mayor Watt, following a conference with President Edmund N. Huyck of the Chamber of Commerce, and a committee of foremost citizens was appointed.

HISTORIC FEATURES AID LOAN.

Colonel Charles E. Walsh started recruiting April 21st for the Women's Motor Corps of the County Defense Council. On April 24th, the Liberty Ball and Liberty Coach visited Albany after a tour of the State. The ball was escorted through the streets by soldiers of the New York Guard, students of the Albany Boys' Academy and the Christian Brothers' Academy and was rolled along by Boy Scouts.

When the Liberty Coach was driven through, it contained as passengers, Governor Whitman, Mayor Watt, Ledyard Cogswell, Charles B. Lyon and Maurice Howlett. Two days later, Liberty Day was celebrated in compliance with a Presidential proclamation. The day was a continued Liberty Loan Rally with scores of speakers and meetings. On this day alone, Albanians subscribed $2,000,000 worth of bonds.

April 26th, the Central Federation of Labor placed itself solidly behind the War Savings Stamps drive and post-office employees also took steps to push the campaign. Members of sixty unions were thus added to the force of workers.

The citizens committee appointed by Mayor Watt met in Chancellor's Hall, April 28th, and enthusiastically endorsed the War Chest project. Mayor Watt was made permanent chairman, Edwin T. Coffin, Secretary and William S. Hackett, Treasurer.

The Mayor and his Committee elected the Executive Committee, consisting of Henry M. Sage, Chairman, Judge Muhlfelder, Daniel J. Dugan, A. Page Smith, George Smallman, Thomas Van Antwerp, James C. Farrell, Frederick P. Gutelius, Robert M. Chalmers, Mrs. Martin H. Glynn and Mrs. Asa J. Wynkoop.

Nineteen negroes, honor men of Albany county, were given a rousing send off when they left April 29th for Camp Devens. A parade and farewell demonstration featured the day.

Eighty-one men, comprising Albany's second draft contingent under the new regulations governing conscription, left for Camp Dix, Wrightstown, N. J., at noon, April 30th. The Rev. Alexander H. Abbott, pastor of Emmanuel Baptist Church, was the speaker at a farewell meeting at the Albany County Court House. City employees, led by Mayor Watt, and members of the Albany Defense Corps escorted the draftees to Union Station.

Announcement that Albany had oversubscribed its Third Liberty Loan quota of $7,994,000 was made at a mass meeting in Washington Park, May 3rd, when $225,000 was raised. Before the meeting, 5,000 Catholic women marched in a parade in the interest of the loan.

The Rev. Dr. George Dugan spoke at a meeting of the St. Andrew's Society May 9th, when a service flag with ten stars was unfurled.

Thirty-five draft men left May 11th for Fort Slocum to enter the Regular Army. The Rev. James E. Kelly, Pastor of St. Francis de Sales Church, spoke at a meeting at the Albany County Court House, and the men were escorted to Union Station by members of the Tenth Infantry and the Albany Academy Battalion.

WOMEN PARADE FOR WAR CHEST.

Seven thousand women, led by Mrs. Charles S. Whitman, marched May 18th in a parade arranged by the directors of the Albany War Chest. Boy Scouts escorted an honor division of women with relatives in service. Twenty-five floats depicting war relief work were in the procession. Mayor Watt and Senator Henry M. Sage, President of the board of directors of the War Chest, reviewed the parade.

Albany's drive to raise $1,000,000 for the War Chest, a budget from which all war organizations would be given allotments, was opened May 20th at a meeting on the steps of the State Capitol. More than 1,200 men and women of the Loyal Legion, organized in every ward for the purpose of putting the War Chest over, began the campaign on that day.

The largest contingent of drafted men to leave Albany since the outbreak of the war, entrained for Camp Wadsworth, Spartanburg, S. C., May 25th. Three hundred and forty-seven men heard a farewell address by Harold J. Hinman, president of the Board of Education, and marched from the Albany County Court House to Union Station through streets thronged with cheering people.

Albany's War Chest was filled to overflowing May 27th. There were more than 50,000 subscribers and the quota of $1,000,000 was passed by more than $100,000.

On Memorial Day, May 30th, the city paid tribute to the soldiers and sailors of previous wars and to the men who had gone forth to conquer autoeracy. Veterans of the Civil War and of the Spanish-American War marched in a parade with units of the Tenth Infantry, Boy Scouts and other organizations.

"WORK OR FIGHT" LAW.

The law requiring every able-bodied man between the ages of eighteen and fifty, to engage in a useful occupation for the winning of the war became effective June 1st. Six hundred men who had attained their twenty-first birthday since the first registration day registered for the draft June 5th.

One of the biggest days of the war for Albany was Flag Day, June 14th, when the city had as guests, Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels, James W. Gerard, former Ambassador to Ger-

Two Leading Men in Albany's War Activities

Former Governor
MARTIN H. GLYNN

Senator
HENRY M. SAGE

Former Governor Martin H. Glynn was a leading figure in many of the more important war activities in Albany. He aided the Liberty Loans and other campaigns not only through subscriptions, but also by devoting much of his time to the work of making them successful. Governor Glynn's patriotic addresses added fresh vigor to these war movements and were an important factor in making Albany's record perfect. Great service was given through his newspaper, which, with every other Albany publication, devoted columns to all patriotic campaigns inaugurated in this city after the country entered the war. Publicity was given freely to every drive opened by the City, State or Nation. Governor Glynn was one of the Albanians who made Albany's every war movement a success.

Foremost among the Albanians who took leading parts in virtually all of the worthy war campaigns and projects, was Senator Henry M. Sage, known throughout the State as an organizer of merit. Senator Sage was one of the big leaders in the War Chest campaign, the Liberty Loan drives, and was also active in recruiting nurses and workers in the Women's Land Army. He served as chairman of the War Chest executive committee and directed the drive of the Red Cross for funds and nurses. Not satisfied with these activities as his "bit," he subscribed heavily to all of these projects and has won the commendation and gratitude of Albany for his truly great part in the war.

many; Justice William R. Riddell of the Superior Court of Ontario, and soldiers of the Allied nations, including a group of the famous Blue Devils of France.

Arrangements for the events of the day were made by Albany Lodge of Elks. Twenty-five thousand people marched through streets crowded from building to curb; ten thousand were at a meeting in Lincoln Park, where addresses were given by Secretary Daniels, Governor Whitman, former Governor Glynn, William E. Fitzsimmons, Exalted Ruler of Albany Lodge of Elks, and the Rev. Dr. George Dugan.

Speakers at a dinner in the Hotel Ten Eyck were Secretary Daniels, Ambassador Gerard, Governor Whitman and Justice Riddell. Former Governor Glynn was the toastmaster.

Secretary Daniels remained over night in Albany, and spoke the next morning in Trinity Methodist Church. Registration of German alien women was begun by the Albany police June 17th.

With James C. Farrell as manager, a special campaign for the sale of Thrift and War Savings Stamps was opened June 23rd at a meeting in the State Education Building, arranged by the Catholic Women's Service League.

Three hundred and seventy-one Selective Service men, the largest draft contingent to date, left Albany for Camp Upton, L. I., on June 27th. The men were addressed by Rabbi Samuel H. Golden-son at a meeting at the Albany County Court House, and escorted to Union Station by nearly 100 Veterans of the Civil War. Ten thousand people bade them farewell at Union Station.

Bishop Cusack, head of the Albany Catholic Diocese, announced June 29th that he had offered the Government the use of Helderberg Inn, which had been acquired by the Diocese, as a home for convalescent soldiers. Bishop Cusack died July 12th.

Recruiting for "B" Troop, cavalry unit of the New York Guard, was begun July 1st under the direction of Captain Frank M. Van Nouhuys.

JULY FOURTH QUIET.

July 4, 1918, was the quietest Independence Day in the history of Albany. Instead of having a noisy celebration, the city passed the day peacefully, the Police and Fire Departments reporting few accidents and no fire alarms. Pearla S. Kling, President of the Common Council; Nicholas J. Barry, Deputy Commissioner of Public Safety, and Police Justice John J. Brady spoke at patriotic exercises in Sacred Heart Park. At a meeting under the direction of the Arbor Hill Improvement Association, the Thornton Athletic Club presented the city with an American flag.

A campaign to sell $2,000,000 worth of Thrift Stamps was brought to a close at a mass meeting in Washington Park July 6th. Patriotic addresses were given by County Judge George Addington, the Rev. Joseph A. Dunney, Superintendent of Parochial Schools in the Albany Catholic Diocese, and the Rev. Dr. George Dugan. Under the direction of Frank A. Tierney, $3,500 worth of stamps were sold at the meeting and announcement was made of the lucky-dollar numbers in the $1,000 prize contest.

Albany observed Bastille Day, the French holiday, July 14th, with special services in the churches.

MANY HONOR MEN LEAVE.

The eleventh and largest draft contingent, comprising 408 men, left Albany for Camp Meade, Md., July 22nd. The Rev. William R. Charles, pastor of St. Vincent de Paul's Church, addressed the men at a meeting at the Albany County Court House and thousands of people escorted them to Union Station. The War Chest Minstrels, with Mayor Watt as interlocutor, gave its first performance.

A service flag with forty-five stars was raised July 23rd by the F. J. Witt Association. Addresses were given by City Judges Edward J. Halter and Daniel H. Prior. They also spoke the next day at a flag raising in honor of twenty-eight members of the Morning Star Social Club.

Announcement was made July 24th that Mrs. Asa Wynkoop had been named Chairman of the Albany County Committee of the Women's Division of the State Defense Council to succeed Mrs. George Curtis Treadwell.

RED CROSS OPENS DRIVE.

Headquarters were opened in the Red Cross rooms of the Albany County Court House July 29th for the enrollment of student nurses. Mrs. Martin H. Glynn, of the Albany County Red Cross, had charge of the registration.

The Rev. T. S. Slattery of St. John's Church and City Judges Prior and Halter spoke July 29th at flag-raising exercises in Westerlo street in honor of twenty-four men of the neighborhood who were in service. Sanford Camp, Modern Woodmen of America, raised a service flag with nine stars July 30th.

The Rev. Dr. George Dugan spoke at a meeting at the Albany County Court House August 1st, bidding farewell for the city to thirty-one negro draft men who left for Camp Upton. The draftees were escorted to Union Station by National Army men, stationed at the State College for Teachers, and members of the Tenth Infantry.

Announcement was made August 6th that "B" Troop of the New York Guard had been brought up to the required strength with sixty members.

DRAFT MEN ENTRAIN.

Seventy selective service men left August 9th for Fort Slocum to enter the Regular Army. Sixty Red Cross workers, dressed as nurses, led by Mrs. Martin H. Glynn, and members of the Tenth Infantry, escorted the contingent to Union Station, after a meeting at the Albany County Court House, where the Rev. Frank W. Creighton spoke.

Edmund N. Huyek, President of the Chamber of Commerce, was notified August 10th that he had been appointed by the War Industries Board to serve in the textile division. Police Justice Brady gave an address the same day at a meeting of employees of the Albany Car Wheel Company, when a service flag, with ten stars, was raised.

Charles M. Winchester was appointed Federal Director of Labor for the Fifth District August 21st.

Seventy-five men without registration cards were arrested in a wholesale raid conducted the night of August 22nd by the Department of Justice, the Albany police, the American Protective League and soldiers of the Tenth Infantry.

Albany entertained General Guglielmotti, Military Attache of the Italian Embassy, on August 24th. One hundred and thirty-nine men who had reached their twenty-first birthday since June 5th, registered for the draft. Fifty-seven draftees left for Camp Gordon, Ga., August 27th.

FIRST AUTO-LESS DAY.

Albany's first autoless day came on September 1st, when orders of the Fuel Administration forbidding the unnecessary use of gasoline on Sunday went into effect. Strict observance of the order manifested the city's willingness to co-operate with all Government edicts. One hundred and ninety-two drafted men left the city September 3rd for Syracuse, the first contingent to leave without a celebration, the Adjutant General having a few days previous recommended to the civil authorities throughout the State the discontinuance of demonstrations at the entrainments of selective service men in the interest of public safety.

Eighty-three more honor men left two days later for Camp Jackson, S. C., the departure being without demonstration. The next day a campaign was launched in the city for the gathering of peach pits and nut shells used in the manufacture of carbon for gas masks. Charles McEwan later took charge of the drive, which was successful.

September 12th, approximately 13,000 Albany men, between the ages of eighteen and forty-five, registered for the draft. In honor of boys of the section in service, the North End Patriotic League, on September 14th, unfurled a service flag bearing 150 blue stars and two gold stars, following a parade, speaking and general demonstration. Police Justice John J. Brady and the Rev. Dr. George Dugan took a prominent part in the observance.

WOMAN'S LAND ARMY CAMPAIGN.

The campaign for members of the Woman's Land Army opened in Albany September 18th with Mrs. William T. Byrne and Mrs. Isaac Vanderpoel as leaders. The campaign for the Fourth Liberty Loan opened in Albany September 28th with $15,886,000 as the quota. The first day of the campaign netted approximately $2,000,000. Ten boxes of clothing for destitute Belgians were contributed September 30th by Albanians. The campaign was conducted by Mrs. William H. Sage.

A service flag bearing seventy-five stars for members in military service was unfurled the same day by Albany Lodge of Moose, with Timothy E. Roland, Assistant District Attorney, as speaker. At this time the Honor Star Brigade, made up of women relatives of soldiers, was doing distinguished work for the Liberty Loan drive. The next day, the famous Garde Republicaine Band of France, composed entirely of French war heroes, played in Albany to stimulate bond sales.

FRATERNAL BODIES AID LOAN.

October 9th was Elks' Day, when a parade and "stunts" took place in charge of William E. Fitzsimmons and John F. Donovan of Albany Lodge of Elks. The Masons had charge of the campaign October 11th. The next day Albany Lodge of Moose paraded with the Cleft Club Band of New York for the loan. On the following day the Knights of Columbus and Albany Italian Societies campaigned, and October 13, the famous Great Lakes Band, made up of sailors, played in Albany before an audience of more than 2,000 people. The concert, conducted by John Philip Sousa, was given on the steps of the Capitol.

The New York Central Band of Avis, Pennsylvania, drew the support of railroad men to the loan October 18th, and the night of October 19th the loan went "over the top" with a substantial surplus. A monster rally and parade preceded the successful conclusion of the drive. Residents of the Twelfth Ward raised a service flag bearing 425 blue stars and five gold stars for its soldiers and sailors.

Seventy-six additional honor men left Albany October 24th for Camp Wheeler at Macon, Ga. The same day, Major George Fletcher Chandler, head of the New York State Constabulary was appointed a Major in the Medical Corps. Twelve thousand people turned out the night of October 29th to honor 415 boys of the Fifth Ward in military service. A huge service flag, bearing in addition five gold stars for those who died in uniform, was raised at Madison avenue and South Pearl street with County Judge George Addington and Judge Henry Hirschfeld as speakers.

DR. GEORGE DUGAN HONORED.

The Rev. George Dugan, Chairman of the Appellate Draft Board, resigned October 31st to take up work with the War Camp Community Service. Dr. Dugan was pastor of the Fourth Presbyterian Church. Miss Pauline E. Mandigo, newspaper woman, was appointed the same day to be Publicity Director of the Eastern District for the United War Work Campaign. Major William G. Anderson, Albany Salvation Army worker, returned this day after fifteen months at the battle front.

On November 4th 2,000 Italians of the city paraded and conducted a mass meeting in celebration of the Italian victory over the Austrian armies. At the mass meeting, in Sons of Italy Hall, the speakers were Assemblyman John G. Malone, Consul G. P. Baccelli and T. Barton Chafee of the High School. November 7th a premature peace rumor threw Albany into a wild celebration, but November 11th, at 2.55 o'clock in the morning, accurate announcement of Germany's fall came with the word that the Huns had signed the armistice.

How Albany Observed Armistice Day

A seething, leaping fire of joy, consuming alike all ages and both sexes, burst forth in Albany, burning away the fetters of doubt, sorrow and sacrifice that had held it in check for 19 months.

Conditions never before experienced gripped Albany as news of the Kaiser's surrender spread with lightning speed. Mercantile and industrial activities stopped for the day; street car and trolley service was demoralized for nearly twenty four hours, every business agency in the community, except the railroads, telephone service and newspapers, were crippled too seriously to even make a pretence of normal activity.

Even the Albany postoffice "closed up shop" for the day. No deliveries were made and Postmaster William A. Murray gave out orders early in the morning that the inside work should be handled with the least possible number of men.

The day was in every way the greatest in the history of the community. Locomotive and shop whistles screeched out the news to the thunderous accompaniment of bells and the undertone of torpedoes, clappers, cow bells, rattling metal cans and horns. Parades, organized and spontaneous, marched through the streets, while crowd records were shattered everywhere.

Notwithstanding the fact that thousands of men, women and children took part in the demonstrations in Albany, the entire day passed without disorder.

The few bulletins announcing that the armistice had been signed kindled a flame which swept through the city, lightening the hearts of its thousands with a warmth of thanksgiving that has not yet grown cold. The first tongues of flame to reach the city came in the crackling sparks of the telegraph at 2.55 o'clock in the morning.

A panorama of the city would have revealed, at 4 o'clock, a vast stretch of buildings, dimly illuminated in the hazy lights of a thousand twinkling bonfires, and sparkling and glowing far into the distance with a myriad of flashing lights, as the news spread to the sleeping thousands, waking them to the glorious day.

The sun rose clear and bright, looking down on the wildest, noisiest, most joyous and most historic day in the history of Albany and the world.

This crowd is typical of those that gathered continuously for almost twenty-four hours while Albany was celebrating victory.

DEMONSTRATION BEGINS.

Shortly after 3 o'clock the din of a score of locomotive whistles sounded from the Rensselaer railroad yards. A few seconds later the tremendous scream of hundreds of locomotive and shop whistles rent the air, as the West Albany yards and shops joined the chorus. Again church and other bells leaped into brazen, crashing accompaniment.

A bonfire leaped into a crimson glow and, rising higher, threw huge shadows along the Ten Eyck Building and far up State and Pearl streets. The blended paeon of triumph from bells, whistles, voices and every noise-producing agency, continued with a rising note of delirious joy.

CROWDS COLLECT.

In miraculously short time, beginning with a few running figures, scores of men and women began to pour into the streets, then hundreds — and then thousands lent their voices and beings to the common feeling. Figures clad in humble garb, and figures clad in fur coats, danced arm in arm around the bonfires and shouted, screamed.

Up Central avenue, Washington avenue, Madison avenue — in almost every street, avenue and lane in the city, there sounded the short, staccato bark of torpedoes, the impudent blast of horns and the ever-increasing roar from human throats. Homes, factories, shops, railroad yards and hotels speeded forth their thousands into the streets, the whole leaping, running, shouting mob heading with a common impulse for State street and Pearl street.

The crowd, pouring like a huge waterfall into the main stream of business, presented the most variegated gathering ever assembled in Albany. Old couples, their eyes dim with tears, plodded along in the crush, solicitous only for the safety of the sacred flags they carried; children running, half dressed and with eyes staring, skirted the crowds in the street, dashing along; men and women of all classes, creeds and color were mingled in the throngs that swept irresistibly along through the streets.

CREWS ABANDONED TROLLEY CARS.

At 4 o'clock in the morning, there were more than 20,000 men, women and children united in a laughing, crying, shouting, delirious crush near State and Pearl streets. Automobiles, crowded to the running boards, darted through the street, miraculously escaping pedestrians. A few trolley cars, in the early morning, clanged along, vainly attempting to make up time lost. At 7 o'clock there was not a trolley car in operation, the crews having joined the throng.

A beautiful, Indian summer day, which ordinarily would have drowsed along in peaceful content, was transformed into one of great tumult.

At 7 o'clock, 50,000 persons were in the streets, and at 8 o'clock the down town district was a sight without parallel. It seemed that every man, woman and child in Albany was taking part in the demonstration, assisted by thousands of visitors.

SIGHT WITHOUT PARALLEL.

As far as the eye could reach, great crowds filled the streets. A sea of flags, bunting, everything bearing the National Colors, met the eye on all sides. A score of spontaneous parades were twisting, dodging and plowing their way through all the down-town thoroughfares.

The greatest carnival could not excel the demonstration. The crowds surged aimlessly at great speed, brushing aside policemen and order without realization. A storm of confetti, paper torn into bits, yards of streamers, waste and cards, fluttered like a deluge of vividly-colored snow upon the throng from the windows and roofs of buildings.

The West Albany shops of the New York Central, the Delaware & Hudson Shops, every industrial plant, and almost every store, shop and business house, with the exception of hotels and restaurants, drug stores and cafes, were closed tight throughout the day. A few made half-hearted attempts to open, but the sweep of the celebration, which knew not eating hours, business or social or commercial appointments, was not to be gainsaid. Employees simply would not report for work, or if they did, would not work.

DIN INCREASES.

Like tiny midgets, boys ran wildly about, dragging tin cans and bells attached to ropes. The crowds tooted horns, rang bells, whistled, buzzed clappers, shouted — anything to drown the strident rasp of countless automobile sirens.

Far down South Pearl street there was a greater tumult, and looking down the thoroughfare one saw the glint of the early sun flashed on bayonets. A closer look revealed the khaki garb of soldiers, as they swung along to the crashing march of a band. This was the first organized attempt at a parade. At noon the greatest procession of triumph ever formed in Albany, though disorganized, assembled at State and Eagle streets.

Arranged by Mayor Watt, this demonstration for victory swung into a semblance of a parade shortly before 1 o'clock. There were more than 25,000 marchers, Colonel Charles E. Walsh, marshal, declared. Impressive it was, though lacking in the perfect order and trimness of the usual procession.

City officials and Chamber of Commerce men, with the Tenth Battalion of the New York State Guard, led the procession. Following came the Elks, the Training Detachment of Soldiers at the State College for Teachers, Boy Scouts, Red Cross units, units of the Albany Defense Corps, workers of the West Albany and the Delaware and Hudson railroad shops, the Ludlum Steel Plant, girl employees from scores of stores, the A. P. W. Paper Company and many industrial plants.

IMPULSIVE ENTHUSIASM.

The huge column passed through lanes of humanity so densely packed, movement was almost impossible. Down State street to Broadway they went, up Broadway to Clinton avenue, to Pearl street, to Hudson avenue, through cheering thousands to the Plaza, where they disbanded. It was a procession born of common impulse and had the enthusiasm of such a gathering.

Three hours were required for the parade to pass a given point. Fluttering flags and making noise with every conceivable device, the marchers swung proudly along to the lilt of music by seven bands and drum corps. Through streets an inch deep with paper and debris of every sort, they trudged, none faltering with the effort. Their arrival at each crowded point was accompanied by a roar that could be heard for a score of blocks.

The greatest crowd ever assembled in the Plaza filled every square foot when the column swung into the square. The assembled thousands were unable to extricate themselves from the crowd tangle for more than an hour.

LARGE AND SMALL DEMONSTRATIONS.

Mayor James R. Watt, President Edmund N. Huyck and Charles M. Winchester, of the Chamber of Commerce, with Colonel Walsh and a staff of the New York Guard, promoted and conducted the procession of victory. After the disbanding of the parade the main column broke into scores of small parades and continued the spectacle until hours later.

In the smaller demonstrations were trucks of the Montgomery Coal Company, carrying the effigies of the kaiser, John Bull, Liberty and Uncle Sam; wagons of the American Railway Express system, crowded to the roofs with cheering men; telephone operators riding on a truck from which a figure representing the kaiser was hung; four men carrying a coffin representative of the kaiser as a corpse. The workers of the North Albany shops were out in hundreds, taking a prominent part in the celebrations days and night.

Night brought a greater pandemonium than the day. Lights flashed in every sign and home window, gay crowds of thousands surged and wound through every street in the down-town section. Restaurants, theatres and every place of entertainment were crowded with gay revelers, and restaurants and cabarets were crowded until late in the morning.

The celebration attained its greatest intensity in the down-town section, but in every part of the city there were smaller demonstrations. Red fire glowed in all the principal streets and hundreds of persons gathered at corners in different parts of the city. Brightly colored electric lights were festooned on the porches of many homes in the western residential sections, and service flags, Liberty Loan and other war posters were displayed. Pictures of Wilson, Foch, Pershing, Diaz and Haig were displayed all over the city.

Very much in evidence, too, were burlesque imitations of ex-Kaiser Bill, trundled along in baby carriages, hung from poles and burned in bonfires. The kaiser was much battered up throughout the city, being hung, burned, shot, dragged and assaulted in effigy at least a thousand times.

Nearly every theater crowd saw some sort of demonstration. In the Grand Theater war films and the news weekly, showing soldiers, were greeted with wild enthusiasm. In Harmanus Bleecker Hall, the Empire and in other theaters and movie houses similar scenes were enacted.

CHURCHES JOIN IN OBSERVANCE.

The churches conducted services of thanksgiving. The more notable of these services were conducted in the Cathedral of All Saints and in St. Peter's Church, where patriotic music and prayer took place. In almost every Catholic church services of thanksgiving were conducted.

Albany Over-subscribed Victory Loan Quota

Albany rounded out its war record in the Victory Loan by over-subscribing its quota and also passing the $60,000,000 mark in subscriptions to the five bond campaigns. Opening with a great parade and a sham battle afterward in Lincoln Park on April 21, the drive got off to a good start, and although it was feared for a time that the movement was lagging dangerously, an appeal to the people resulted in a great number of sales and assured success.

On May 10, 1919, the day of the campaign's close, Ledyard Cogswell, general chairman, was enabled to announce that the city had passed its quota of $11,917,300 by approximately $2,000,000.

With the close of the Victory Loan, Albany's record for war service was perfect.

Throughout the campaign the earnest efforts of hundreds of men and women were given to make the movement a success. There were street and theater meetings, booths were built in the downtown section to aid in canvassing, and special attractions were devised to arouse interest. During the closing days of the drive Mayor James R. Watt organized a committee which boosted the total by more than $2,500,000 in a whirlwind finish. Albany met the government's appeal in the reconstruction period with the same generous response it showed in time of war.

Albany Defense Units and Their Record During War Service

TO members of the Albany Police and Fire Departments, the Albany Defense Corps, the Department of Justice, the New York Guard, and to kindred organizations, must be paid the highest tribute for the faultless protection of Albany in war time—when an insidious enemy made war chiefly by attacks upon a civilian population through inciting to disturbance and destruction of property.

That the reader may best grasp the immensity of the task accomplished by these men during the months of the war, the following salient accomplishments are set forth:

The tireless guarding of industries supplying munitions and war materials; of bridges and public buildings and of public thought, threatened by propaganda.

The handling of gigantic crowds, which gathered for demonstrations on virtually every day of the year, without disturbance.

The detection and arrest of German agents who sought to agitate labor, burn and destroy buildings and bridges, and incite the people to rebellion through printed propaganda.

The indexing of every German alien enemy in the city and the disarming of these people.

The surveillance of those of this class who were branded as dangerous.

Enforcement of the Selective Service Act with detection and capture of delinquents.

Hampered by the enlistment of many of their best, the City Police and Fire Departments, under the leadership of Police Chief James L. Hyatt and Fire Chief William W. Bridgeford, established a lasting record for efficient service during this time. Dangerous criminals of war-time character were arrested and homes and public property guarded in this time as never before. Dangerous fires in munition and war material plants were extinguished with exceptional efficiency.

Perhaps, the greatest service performed by a civilian volunteer organization was that done by the Albany Defense Corps. This unique body was suggested at a meeting, early in the war, of the Mayor's Advisory Committee and a subcommittee was formed in charge of Colonel James H. Manning to organize a body of patriotic Albanians to aid the police in the maintenance of law and order. Twenty-five hundred men answered the call for duty.

Two hundred and fifty of these were selected for active service and the others placed in reserve

Fisher, S. Cooper, C. Hammann, P. Linden, E. Keeler, M. G. Rooney, J. Gallagher, R. Rosoro, L. Marx, H. R. Collins, T. C. Mason, H. Kindt, A. Pasquini.

In charge of United States Commissioners John J. O'Neill, Borden H. Mills and Samuel Caplan, Federal officers made scores of arrests growing out of Draft Law violations. These men had charge of prosecuting, for the Government, the cases of men guilty of Federal crime and handled their complex work with greatest efficiency. Charles E. Brennan, agent of the Department of Justice, succeeding Roland Ford, was also active in the work of eliminating German influence in the city.

WARD MAJORS WHO CONDUCTED ALBANY'S SUCCESSFUL WAR CHEST CAMPAIGN.

Albany War Chest Campaign Raised $1,110,000 for War Relief Organizations

The War Chest was incorporated May 20, 1918, with Senator Henry M. Sage as President, William S. Hackett, Treasurer and Edwin T. Coffin, Secretary. The central committee which directed the campaign served as directors following the incorporation, and under their direction allotments were made to various war relief organizations. Senator Sage and Mr. Hackett were also made directors.

Large meetings preceded the campaign, and afterward, the War Chest minstrels, staged in Harmanus Bleecker Hall with Mayor Watt as interlocutor, raised $5,000 which partly defrayed the expenses of the drive. The central committee directing the campaign, which closed May 27, included:

Senator Sage, chairman; Mayor Watt, David Muhlfelder, Daniel J. Dugan, A. Page Smith, George Smallman, Thomas I. Van Antwerp, James C. Farrell, F. P. Gutelius, Robert M. Chalmers, Mrs. Martin H. Glynn and Mrs. Asa Wynkoop.

Led by Mrs. Charles S. Whitman, wife of Governor Whitman, 7,000 women marched May 18 in a parade in the interest of the campaign, Boy Scouts escorted an honor division composed of women with relatives in military service, and there were twenty-five floats, depicting war relief work, in the line. Leaders in the parade besides Mrs. Whitman were: Mrs. Henry M. Sage, Mrs. M. J. Mandelbaum, Mrs. Peter Delaney, Mrs. Eugene Sporborg, Mrs. Asa Wynkoop, Mrs. James E. Glavin, Mrs. William Bayard Van Rensselaer and Mrs. Edmund N. Huyck.

The drive was launched under the direction of nineteen battalion majors at a meeting of 1,200 workers on the steps of the State Capitol, May 20. Each of the majors was in charge of a city ward. They were:

Charles C. De Rouville, Ward 1; Judge Edward J. Halter, Ward 2; Charles M. Stern, Ward 3;

Alexander R. McKenzie, Jr., Ward 4; William E. Drislane, Jr., Ward 5; Chauncey D. Hakes, Ward 6; W. R. Adams, Ward 7; Judge Henry Hirschfeld, Ward 8; Judge John J. Brady, Ward 9; Henry H. Kohn, Ward 10; E. Vincent Stratton, Ward 11; Colonel Charles E. Walsh, Ward 12; William A. Humphrey, Ward 13; Edgar C. Leonard, Ward 14; William J. Rice, Ward 15; George W. Van Slyke, Ward 16; John T. D. Blackburn, Ward 17; Harold F. Andrews, Ward 18; Isaac La Grange, Ward 19.

Albany proved in the War Chest Campaign that it was ever ready to back its patriotism with its dollars, when it raised, during the week of May 20, 1918, $110,000, in excess of the $1,000,000 sought as a budget from which to make allotments for war relief organizations.

The campaign was directed by Senator Sage, and was well supported by practically every organization in the city as well as by thousands of individuals. That the entire city favored the project is shown by the fact that more than 55,000 subscriptions, ranging from $28,000 to twenty-cents, were received.

Previous to the founding of the War Chest there were many drives for funds for various war activities. The War Chest, which was incorporated, eliminated these campaigns, and all the needs were provided for by the one fund. The merits of each request were passed upon by a representative committee and allotments made as they were needed. Greater efficiency resulted from this method and assurance was provided that the public would not be deceived by unworthy organizations.

The three largest contributions were $28,000 from Mr. and Mrs. James C. Farrell, $25,000 from William H. Sage and $14,000 from Senator Henry M. Sage.

What Albany Gave in Dollars

SECOND only to the heroic record of Albany's uniformed men and women is the record of those thousands of Albanians who worked ceaselessly that these uniformed warriors might not lack for any comfort money could buy. While Albanians were represented in the front-line trenches, those at home were aiding as loyally and as effectively in the struggle against autocratic Germany.

Official announcement by Ledyard Cogswell, general chairman, at the close of the fifth loan showed that Albany had subscribed more than $60,000,000 in the five bond campaigns. Every loan was oversubscribed, and the total of oversubscriptions amounted to more than $5,000,000. In all, the government asked Albany to raise $55,524,800 and the city responded with $60,711,950. Following are the figures:

	Quota	Subscription	Over Subscription
First Loan . . .	$7,891,000	$8,368,000	$477,000
Second Loan..	11,836,500	13,709,500	1,873,000
Third Loan...	7,994,000	9,020,000	1,026,000
Fourth Loan..	15,886,000	16,013,600	127,600
Fifth Loan . . .	11,917,300	13,600,850	1,683,550
Totals . . . .	$55,524,800	$60,711,950	$5,187,150

This table shows that Albany cheerfully gave to Uncle Sam $5,000,000 more than the huge sum asked. The Liberty Loan Campaigns in Albany were a tremendous expression of the city's unity in time of national stress. Every fraternal organization, every church denomination, every political body, and men and women of all races, creeds and color, blended into a huge and resistless machine for the winning of the war.

The few weeks of each loan were observed in the city in almost carnival spirit, the able leaders of the loans bringing before the citizens in every conceivable manner the necessity of subscription. Parades, mass meetings, contests and "stunts" of every description were conducted to keep Albanians in the humor of "making their money light."

Ledyard Cogswell, President of the New York State National Bank, headed the thousands who worked for the success of the campaigns.

THE ALBANY WAR CHEST.

Perhaps the most popular and the most noteworthy of all of Albany's campaigns was that for the War Chest. This innovation was suggested and developed in May of 1918 for the purpose of maintaining a city fund for mass subscription to worthy war charities. The campaign was launched May 20th with thousands of workers of the Loyal Legion, headed by Senator Henry Manning Sage.

The city-wide advertising "stunts," street tag days and mass meetings, brought this campaign to a victorious close a week later with the quota of $1,000,000 over subscribed by more than $100,000. Every war charity which campaigned following this date was given the sum requested from this city fund, in charge of William S. Hackett. The great United War Work Campaign quota was taken from this exchequer.

The city also subscribed, before this fund was established, $104,802 to the combined Y. M. C. A. and War Camp Community Service Campaign; $5,000 to the Salvation Army Campaign; $251,061.60 to the Red Cross Campaign in June, 1918; $10,000 to a previous Y. M. C. A. Campaign, and thousands of dollars to smaller campaigns for foreign relief.

Another great drive in Albany, the campaign for the sale of more than $2,000,000 worth of War Savings Stamps, was conducted during the year of 1918 in charge of Colonel James H. Manning, President of the National Savings Bank of the City of Albany and Director for Albany County. This campaign was waged with great success. Gardner B. Perry was named Director in January, 1919.

Colonel Manning, with Gardner B. Perry, Mayor James R. Watt, Thomas Degnan, William L. Austin, W. R. Adams, M. T. Donohue, James S. Farnham and thousands of others equally enthusiastic and able, carried this campaign into virtually every Albany home. The stamps were distributed in Twenty-Five-Cent Thrift Stamps and Five-Dollar War Savings Stamps. A feature of this campaign was the small building, "Liberty Hall," operated at State and Pearl streets by labor unions of the city for stamp sales.

In the Liberty Loan Campaigns, outstanding leaders were Mr. Cogswell, Charles H. Bissikummer, Edward C. Swenson, Charles E. McElroy, Gardner B. Perry, Wallace Roe and Frank A. Tierney. The greatest praise is due the labor organizations, the fraternal bodies, the civic organizations, women's clubs and the Loyal Legion for the glorious record established in the city. Of this record, Mayor Watt declared, shortly after the armistice was signed:

"Albany, in view of her glorious and unblemished war record, is one of the most patriotic cities, if not the most patriotic, of any in the United States!"

Leaders Who Took Part in All War Activities

MAYOR JAMES R. WATT.

The work, which had been started by Mayor Stevens, was extended and furthered by Mayor James R. Watt when he took office January 1, 1918. The city had attained a high standard under the previous administration, but the demands of war were ever increasing and it remained for Mayor Watt to meet the problems as they arose and establish Albany as one hundred per cent efficient.

Mayor Watt gave much of his time to matters relating to the war. He aided the various Liberty loans, thrift stamp campaigns and other drives, particularly the Albany War Chest campaign, in which $1,100,000 was pledged to provide for war needs. He acted as interlocutor in the War Chest minstrels, given to defray the expenses of the campaign; gave the city's farewell to nearly a score of draft contingents and spoke at many meetings for war work. Mayor Watt was particularly active in the campaign to float the Victory loan in this city. When it appeared that Albany inevitably would fall short of its quota, he immediately swung the full power of his influence into the movement and appealed directly to the people to respond to the government's request for funds. The record shows that Albany's war mayor led the city to a high place of achievement.

EDMUND N. HUYCK.

As President of the Albany Chamber of Commerce, Edmund N. Huyck took a leading part in a majority of the city's war activities. Following its reorganization early in 1918, the Chamber gave its support to all of the patriotic campaigns and officers of the organization participated actively in many of them. Mr. Huyck so directed the work of the Chamber that war activities were provided with every encouragement and given the full support of the body.

Called upon to serve the government as an advisor in the textile division of the War Industries Board, he made frequent trips to Washington and provided the Board with data on the textile industry in the Capital District. Mr. Huyck holds a high position among the war leaders of the city of Albany.

COLONEL JAMES H. MANNING.

For a score of years a pioneer in virtually all worthy projects in Albany, in wartime Colonel James H. Manning, president of the National Savings Bank of the city of Albany, maintained his place in the van of those working for victory. Colonel Manning, among other activities, directed the complex War Savings Stamp campaign throughout Albany county.

Facing the task of pushing a campaign extending more than one year, Colonel Manning hurled himself and a small army of devoted workers into the task. The nature of the campaign constantly delayed by intensive drives for other funds required constant attention and carried months of discouragement, but the quota, in comparison to returns from throughout the nation, was a big victory for Albany in the hands of Colonel Manning.

He assisted materially in organizing for the great campaigns for the sale of government securities.

During the campaigns a booth was erected in the entrance of the National Savings Bank, attended by women volunteer war workers, and through this means thousands of dollars worth of bonds were sold. Colonel Manning was also instrumental in many ways in making this city efficient along war lines.

MRS MARTIN H. GLYNN.

While the dark war clouds hung over Europe, casting their shadow upon the United States, Mrs. Martin H. Glynn was one of Albany's most active war workers. She served as Chairman of the Supply Committee of the Albany County Red Cross Chapter, and was in charge of the work room in the County Court House from 10 A. M. to 5 P. M., daily.

In the summer Mrs. Glynn went to her summer home at Cedar Hill, motoring to town each day to direct the making of thousands of garments and hospital supplies. By this means she spurred on the workers and kept the output of supplies up to the usual standard, when the heat was so intense that many of the regular workers sought refuge at the mountain and seaside resorts, thus depleting the regular working force.

Red Cross work alone did not occupy all of Mrs. Glynn's attention during the war, for she found time to engage in many other war-relief activities, lending her support to all war charities and aiding wherever her services were needed.

Albany Banks Rendered Vital Service in Floating Liberty Loans

The overwhelming success of the Liberty Loan Campaigns in Albany is due, in large part, to the patriotic and unselfish service of Albany bankers. Every time the Government asked for funds, Albany responded with its full quota and more. This was possible because the banks of the city let their own affairs take second place while they used every effort to push the loans to victory.

Not only did these institutions buy large quantities of bonds, but they handled thousands of sales and maintained information bureaus without charge. Albany banks were put into government service throughout the war and during the drives the patriotism and efficiency of the bank workers united to push the city over the top in its quotas. Every officer and clerk in every bank was enlisted in the war.

Among the bankers who had a conspicuous part in these campaigns were Ledyard Cogswell, Chairman of the Liberty Loan Committee, and President of the New York State National Bank; James H. Manning, President of the National Savings Bank; William S. Hackett, President of the Albany City Savings Institution; Walter W. Batchelder, Jacob H. Herzog and Gardner B. Perry, Vice-Presidents of the National Commercial Bank.

Following are the institutions and their officers responsible, in large degree, for the raising of more than $60,000,000 in five Liberty Loan Campaigns:

National Savings Bank, President, James H. Manning; Vice-Presidents, Charles Gibson and Edward J. Hussey; Treasurer, Frederic B. Stevens.

Albany City Savings Institution, President, William S. Hackett; Vice-President, George H. Thacher; Vice-President, James W. Cox; Secretary-Treasurer, Frank H. Williams; Assistant Treasurer, Louis F. Hartmann.

Albany County Savings Bank, President, Seth Wheeler; Vice-President, Frederic C. Curtis; Vice-President, William P. Rudd; Secretary, Henry H. Kohn; Treasurer, William N. S. Sanders; Assistant Treasurers, Charles E. Byron and Mills Ten Eyck.

Albany Exchange Savings Bank, President, Martin T. Nachtmann; Vice-President, Alden Chester; Vice-President, Matthew J. Wallace; Treasurer, Lemuel B. Wilmarth; Assistant Treasurer, Carl M. Cronk.

Albany Savings Bank, President, Marcus T. Hun; First Vice-President, Ledyard Cogswell; Second Vice-President, Thomas I. Van Antwerp; Secretary, Frederick Townsend; Treasurer, Henry D. Rodgers; Assistant Treasurer, Edward J. Toole.

Albany Trust Company, President, Charles H. Bissikummer; Vice-President, George C. Van Tuyl, Jr.; Vice-President, Jacob S. Friedman; Vice-President and Treasurer, Alonzo P. Adams; Treasurer, Philip Fitzsimons; Assistant Secretary, James H. Wallace; Assistant Treasurer, Samuel C. Harcourt.

First National Bank, President, John A. Becker; Vice-President and Cashier, Hugh A. Arnold; Assistant Cashier, Clifford J. Beckett.

Home Savings Bank, of Albany, President, Thomas Austin; First Vice-President, Samuel L. Munson; Second Vice-President, Howard N. Fuller; Treasurer, Arthur H. Geer; Secretary, J. Edward Poole; Assistant Treasurer, Frederick W. White.

Mechanics and Farmers Savings Bank, President, Dudley Olcott; Cashier, Robert Olcott; Assistant Cashier, Clarence W. Stevens.

National Commercial Bank, President, Robert C. Pruyn; Vice-President, Walter W. Batchelder, Gerrit Y. Lansing, Jacob H. Herzog and Gardner B. Perry; Cashier, William L. Gillespie; Assistant Cashiers, R. C. B. Adams and Herbert J. Kneip.

New York State National Bank, President, Ledyard Cogswell; First Vice-President, Donald McDonald; Second Vice-President, Ledyard Cogswell, Jr.; Cashier, George A. White; Assistant Cashiers, William Bruce, J. M. Russum, Edward R. Thorne and William T. Van Atten.

Union Trust Company, Chairman of the Board, Grange Sard; President, Thomas I. Van Antwerp; Vice-President, Edmund N. Huyek; Secretary-Treasurer, MacNaughton Miller; Assistant Treasurer, Leo K. Fox; Assistant Secretary, Charles M. McGarvey.

Two Albanians Deserving of Recognition for their Untiring Efforts to Sell War Bonds and Thrift Stamps

JAMES F. FARNHAM

FRANK A. TIERNEY

For indefatigable efforts to make the Liberty Loan and Thrift Stamp campaigns in Albany successful, recognition must be given Frank A. Tierney and James F. Farnham, the champion salesmen of government securities.

When the nation called for men to put over the big selling campaigns with which to finance the war, Mr. Tierney and Mr. Farnham were among the first to respond. Persistently adhering to their task, they performed invaluable service in all the great war drives and established an unequalled record for individual patriotic achievement.

Mr. Tierney served as director of publicity in the great bond drives and conducted scores of meetings where he directed the sale of bonds. Hundreds of sales were made through his enthusiastic manner of auctioning the securities. But for his efforts Albany would not have had a perfect record for war service.

Mr. Farnham spoke at many meetings in this city, stimulating the sale of war bonds and thrift stamps. Perhaps the greatest service he rendered was in conducting street meetings under the direction of the Central Federation of Labor when thousands of dollars worth of thrift stamps were sold.

Albany Lodge of Elks, No. 49

No history of the war activities of any city in the United States would be complete without an account of the part taken by the Elks, and in a history of Albany particularly, there must be recorded — even though the sketch be comparatively meager — a statement of what the Albany Lodge of Elks did to aid the Nation, State and City.

From the day America entered the war to the day Germany acknowledged her defeat the Elks of Albany were in the fight to the last man. They enlisted in the army, the navy and the marines; they bought Liberty Bonds by the hundred and Thrift and War Savings Stamps by the thousand; they helped in every patriotic campaign or movement in the city, not only by giving of their means, but by getting actively into service and assuring the government that no appeal would go unheeded in Albany if work and money would spell success.

It is difficult to mention specifically all the services performed by the Elks of Albany because they were so manifold and diversified. However, two of the most important events during 1918 were Elks' Day in the Fourth Liberty Loan when more than $150,000 was subscribed, and the Flag Day observance on June 14.

Flag Day, 1918, was recorded as one of the most inspiring events in the city's history. Arranged under the direction of the Albany Lodge of Elks, the day's events, which were witnessed by thousands, drove home in a most forceful manner the lesson that America was engaged in a mission of the utmost importance and the government needed and deserved the whole-hearted co-operation of every citizen.

Thousands of people thronged the streets to view the parade in which marched representatives of all the Allied Nations, and other thousands were at the meeting in Lincoln Park, opened by Exalted Ruler William E. Fitzsimmons, to hear the stirring addresses of Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels, Governor Charles S. Whitman and former Governor Martin H. Glynn.

More than 400 persons attended the dinner given in honor of distinguished visitors in the Ten Eyck Hotel when Secretary Daniels, Governor Whitman and Governor Glynn again spoke with James W. Gerard, former ambassador to Germany, and Justice Riddell of the Ontario Supreme Court.

One of the greatest patriotic events in the history of a city rich in tradition, Flag Day brought an inspiration to thousands of men and women. High tribute must be paid the Albany Lodge of Elks for the efficiency, unselfishness and devotion to the country's service which characterized the efforts of its members. Officers who directed a majority of the Lodge's war time activities were:

William E. Fitzsimmons, Exalted Ruler; Frederick A. Schobel, Esteemed Leading Knight; Thomas F. Nolan, Esteemed Loyal Knight; Pierce F. Chartres, Esteemed Lecturing Knight; Edward P. Hanlon, Secretary; Fred Wander, Treasurer.

Masonic Organizations of Albany

Unswerving support was given the government throughout the war by the Masonic organizations of Albany, which stood shoulder to shoulder with other fraternal units of the city in the fight to make the city the equal of any in the country for war service.

One of the outstanding features of Masonic patriotism in Albany was Masonic Day, October 10, 1918, when the Fourth Liberty Loan was increased by more than $165,000. Thousands crowded about a platform at State and James street at a noon day meeting when patriotic addresses were given by Mayor James R. Watt and County Judge George Addington, and another great crowd attended a meeting in the evening at the Plaza.

Captain James A. Keith was grand marshal of the parade which preceded the meeting and James H. Millard commanded the Arab patrol. Addresses were made at the meeting by the Rev. David Lee Jamison, pastor of the Memorial Baptist church, and Representative Rollin B. Sanford.

Officers of the Masonic bodies who directed many war activities include: Frank H. Evans, Master, Mount Vernon Lodge; Lester William Herzog, Master, Masters' Lodge; Jerry B. Badgley, Master, Temple Lodge; Harry Bookstein,

Albany Council, Knights of Columbus

Participating in every patriotic activity launched in Albany during the war and co-operating to the fullest extent in the effort to make these movements successful, Albany Council, Knights of Columbus, achieved a high place in the list of those organizations which helped the city discharge its obligations with a perfect record.

The Albany Council listed among its membership men upon whom rested the burden of fulfilling Albany's promise to meet every demand by the government. As individuals its members took part in virtually every war campaign and as an organization the Knights, by their invaluable services, were instrumental in bringing success to more than one activity as it was threatened with defeat.

As soon as the United States entered the war plans were made for supporting the American soldiers at the front. A National drive for $1,000,000 to be expended for the benefit of the soldiers was launched in July, 1917, and the Albany Council, with a quota of $2,100, raised this amount and a substantial over-subscription in a membership canvass conducted by 100 members. Thomas J. McMahon was secretary of the fund and Professor James E. Glavin, treasurer.

Co-operating in all the early Liberty Loans, the Albany Council participated as an organization in the Fourth Loan Campaign and despite inclement weather, which handicapped the efforts of the workers, succeeded in raising more than $200,000 at a meeting conducted before the Council Home on the night of October 12, 1918. Grand Knight

James H. McKiernan presided at the meeting, and stirring addresses were delivered by Daniel J. Dugan and City Judge Daniel H. Prior. The subscriptions received at this meeting gave fresh impetus to the loan and Albany went over the top again.

Realizing that the campaign for the sale of Thrift and War Savings Stamps was lagging, members of the Albany Council enlisted in the drive and not only sold hundreds of dollars worth of these securities among members but increased interest and sales generally by a special campaign of education.

The Albany Council did not hesitate when it received the appeal for men to serve at American camps and overseas as secretaries and physical instructors to look after the comfort and welfare of the American soldiers. Dennis A. Casey and George A. Murray, members of the Council, went to France as secretaries and John A. Gates served the organization at Camp Merritt and other army posts. Additional volunteers were about to enter the service when the armistice was signed.

The important war work of the Albany Council was directed first by Grand Knight Dennis B. Kinsley and Deputy Grand Knight James H. McKiernan. In October, 1918, Mr. McKiernan was elected Grand Knight and carried on the work efficiently. Associated with him were these officers: William V. Cooke, Deputy Grand Knight; William A. McKenna, Chancellor; Thomas D. Riley, Warden; Joseph H. McTigue, Financial Secretary, and Joseph A. Johnson, Recording Secretary.

Peter G. Ten Eyck, Active Leader in Albany's War Movements

Peter G. Ten Eyck, former congressman and foremost citizen, broke even his own record for patriotic sacrifice and service during the war. When the call for men of executive ability to direct all forms of campaigns was sent out, Mr. Ten Eyck became a leader in many patriotic projects. While hundreds of men remained dazed from the shock of war, he leaped to the fore and became an active leader in the vast army that supported our fighters.

Mr. Ten Eyck was chairman of a Red Cross membership campaign in 1917, when 36,000 persons were enrolled in Albany county. Even before America entered the war he had a leading part in the movement which sought preparedness for the nation. As president of the Albany Automobile Club he organized an automobile unit of 160 cars which carried the Civil War veterans in Albany's Preparedness parade under the auspices of the Elks. How valuable were the services rendered by Mr. Ten Eyck may be judged from a glance at his war record, which follows:

Member of the executive committee of the Chamber of Commerce Soldiers' Relief; member of the executive committee of the City of Albany Soldiers' Relief unit; member of the executive committee of the Albany County Chapter of the American Red Cross; member of the executive committee of the first Red Cross campaign for funds; chairman of the Red Cross campaign when 36,000 members were enrolled; Regional Director of the National Highways Transport Committee of New York and Connecticut under the Council of National Defense; chairman of the New York State Highways Transport Committee; chairman of the committee on transportation of the Albany County Home Defense Committee; chairman of the committee of one hundred business men in the first Liberty Loan campaign.

Member of the Speakers' Bureau in every war campaign; chairman of the committee on extension and co-operation in the War Chest drive; chairman of the committee on extension and co-operation in the second Red Cross campaign for funds; member of the executive committee in the third Red Cross campaign for members; member of Albany Local Draft Board No. 4; chairman of the housing committee of the Chamber of Commerce to provide houses for workmen at the Watervliet Arsenal; member of the Woman's Land Army, organized to assist farmers; member of the committee to increase food production in Albany county; member of the League to Enforce Peace and of the Army and Navy League; helped organize the Citizens' Committee on Naval Enlistment, of which he was elected an active member and distributed posters throughout the county; officially designated as an expert in the Council of National Defense at Washington.

George D. Babbitt

Among the men heading the roster of war activities stands the name of George D. Babbitt. Through his efficient leadership as president of the Albany Automobile Club, many greatly needed motor cars were secured for war work; and as chairman of the War Camp Community Fund, $14,000 was secured by him for that fund.

In other branches of personal service during the great war Mr. Babbitt was a member of the Y. M. C. A. Executive Committee which secured funds to the amount of $97,000; member of Mayor Stevens' Advisory Committee, and of the Executive Committee of the First Liberty Loan, and chairman of the Merchants' Committee for the War Chest, also raising a fund for the Salvation Army.

For a score of years since coming to Albany Mr. Babbitt has spared himself neither time, trouble or expense in keeping the Capital City at the head of the procession in every undertaking which eventuated during those years. He was one of the organizers of the Albany Chamber of Commerce, has been a director since its inception, and is first vice-president of that body.

Good Work Done by the Women of Albany During the War

The Woman's Club of Albany, under the direction of Mrs. Asa Wynkoop, president, had a large share in Albany's relief activities during the period of the war. When the United States entered the war the scope of the work of the club was broadened in order to cover a wider territory, and the members did everything within their power to help win the war and to assist organized war relief agencies.

WORK FOR LOANS.

The club members took an active part in the Liberty Loan campaigns and Mrs. Wynkoop assisted materially in Americanization work in Albany and outlying districts. As chairman of the hostess committee at the Soldiers, Sailors and Marines' Club, in State street, which she was instrumental in organizing, she kept herself closely allied with the needs of the men as they returned from overseas. She was a member of the board of directors of the club, the Albany Council of Girl Scouts, the Albany committee to aid the fatherless children of France, and was active in the campaign of the Woman's Land Army for supporting members. As a member of the Albany War Chest committee, Mrs. Wynkoop took an active interest in all of Albany's war relief agencies. She was Albany county chairman of the State Home Defense Council and chairman of the committee on records in the Blue Triangle campaign waged by the Young Women's Christian Association.

Mrs. Gardner C. Leonard, chairman of the Liberty Loan Committee of the Woman's Club, during the fourth campaign, was instrumental in the sale of 422 bonds, amounting to $254,200.

Mrs. Newton Russell Cass, chairman of the War Savings Stamp Committee, and her co-workers have sold a total of $20,659 worth of War Savings stamps.

MEMBERS OF THE CLUB.

The members of the club who were actively engaged in war service were:

Mrs. Martin H. Glynn, Mrs. Elmer Blair, Mrs. Alexander Anderson, Miss Dorothy Treat Arnold, Mrs. Hugh A. Arnold, Mrs. G. Sanford Atwood, Mrs. Ella Colegrove Avery, Mrs. James Q. Barcus, Miss Helen Hoit Betsinger, Mrs. Frederick D. Bidwell, Mrs. LeRoy Blatner, Mrs. James P. Boyd, Mrs. Warren L. Bradt, Miss Julia Newton Brooks, Mrs. Edward M. Cameron, Mrs. Frederick W. Cameron, 2d, Mrs. Clarence B. Cutler, Mrs. Russell Headley, Mrs. Charles J. Herrick, Mrs. Albert E. Hoyt, Mrs. Alexander McEwan, Mrs. A. B. Merkel, Mrs. William A. Murray, Miss Minnie Talcott Marsh, Mrs. Helen Shaw Rider, Mrs. William C. Rose, Mrs. Arthur Merrill Root, Mrs. Henry L. K. Shaw, Dr. Anna Hedges Talbot, Miss Lillian Tonner, Mrs. George Curtis Treadwell, Miss Margaret C. Tucker, Mrs. Isaac Vanderpoel, Miss Anna G. Voris and Miss Margaret Woodworth.

When the Albany county branch of the Red Cross was organized soon after the outbreak of the World War, Mrs. Isaac Vanderpoel was appointed supply chairman, which office she held until the spring of 1917. She served as chairman of the women's committee in the War Chest drive in May, 1918, and was local director in the Woman's Land Army membership drive, as well as chairman of the woman's executive committee in the Red Cross Christmas roll call drive.

The success of the War Saving Stamp drive in June, 1918, was largely due to the efficient work of Mrs. Henry J. Sporborg, general chairman of the committee. She devoted much of her time to working for the Red Cross, both at Albany County headquarters in the County Court House and with the Council of Jewish Women, of which she was a member. She served on the Christmas Roll Committee, and worked untiringly in compiling the list of Albany's honor men.

Through the efficient leadership of Mrs. Frederick W. Cameron, 2d, the women of Albany did their bit in sending the city over the top in the second, third and fourth Liberty Loan drives. Mrs. Cameron was appointed chairman of the women's division for the second drive and was reappointed chairman for the third and fourth campaigns. She was also chairman of the war finance committee of the Woman's Club of Albany, and took an active part in all branches of war relief work.

Miss Pauline E. Mandigo, for many years a local newspaper woman, was appointed a member of the War Work Council of the Young Women's Christian Association, in August, 1918, and was made publicity director for New York State in the Blue Triangle campaign, conducted by the Young Women's Christian Association, one of the seven war relief organizations in the United War Work drive.

When the Y. W. C. A. allied itself with the other relief organizations in the United War Work drive Miss Mandigo was appointed publicity director of the eastern department, with headquarters in Albany.

MRS. LEDYARD COGSWELL.

During the four years of the war, Mrs. Ledyard Cogswell was one of Albany's most active war relief workers. She organized the National Thrift Bag League, the Battalion Auxiliary and the Army and Navy Book Club.

The National Thrift Bag League was granted a charter May 28, 1918, for the purpose of rendering patriotic service to the Nation by conserving waste material and turning the same into money, to be used for American War Fund Relief work. From the time the State charter was granted up to November 27, 1918, 51 campaigns were launched; 214,600 thrift bags distributed, sending the message of national thrift to the same number of homes; 586,143 pounds of waste material reclaimed and $12,109.89 was made and distributed to the various war relief organizations. Later, Mrs. Cogswell was appointed chairman of the Albany County Waste Reclamation Council by Mayor Watt, and also served as chairman of the Conservation Committee of the Albany County Chapter, American Red Cross.

In July, 1917, the Battalion Auxiliary was organized for the purpose of providing comforts for the 65 soldiers in Companies A, C and D, of the old Tenth Battalion. The members of the organization included the mothers and sisters of the other men in the companies.

During the period of the war, more than $6,000 was spent for these men. The battalion supplied each company with a Ford motor truck until it went overseas. Knitted garments were sent them, together with smokes and sweets. There were 465 men in all who came under the care of the Battalion Auxiliary.

After these men were sent abroad, the members turned their efforts to Red Cross work. Over 2,000 garments were made and donated to the Red Cross for the refugees of Belgium and France. The sum of $500 was realized from the sale of rugs made by the members from clippings of the Red Cross cutting department.

In May, 1917, the Army and Navy Book Club was organized and incorporated under the direction of Mrs. Cogswell, who raised the money to finance the movement. Through her efforts 1,500 books were collected and distributed by the club to soldiers and sailors from New York State.

As chairman of the Finance Committee of the Albany Anti-Suffrage War Relief Work, Mrs. Cogswell raised more than $5,000 for the organization. She was active in all the Liberty Loan drives and War Savings Stamp campaigns.

MRS. OTTO R. EICHEL.

When the United States entered the war, Mrs. Otto R. Eichel of Albany, then publicity director for four counties for the New York State Suffrage Party, volunteered to assist in the organization's war program.

During 1917, Mrs. Eichel aided the food conservation work by publicity in 42 newspapers to which she was a daily contributor. Early in 1918 she served as Albany County representative of the Women's Overseas Hospital, directing the campaign in which Albany contributed the highest percentage of funds of any up-State city, and securing young women technical experts for service at the front.

In the spring of 1918, Mrs. Eichel was appointed Albany County chairman, and later up-State chairman, of the New York State Woman's Land Army, and immediately took steps to establish two camps in the county, organizing a local committee to maintain oversight and financial support. These camps became famous as the "Colonie" and "South Bethlehem" units. Conspicuous features of their work were the Motor Corps and the large number of "farmerettes" who served—over 200 for the season. The County Committee consisted of Mrs. Frederick Townsend, Vice-Chairman; Mrs. Henry M. Sage, Mrs. John Manning, Mrs. C. Herbert Cone, Mrs. Edmund N. Huyck, Mrs. Samuel Hessberg, Mrs. Benjamin Mann, Mrs. Benjamin Thanhauser and Mrs. William T. Byrne. In October, 1918, Mrs. Eichel organized the first State-wide drive for supporting Land Army members, through which funds were raised to establish 200 camps in 1919. Following this she was appointed executive director of the State organization, which post she retained when the National Woman's Land Army was taken over by the United States Government in December, 1918, as the Land Army Division of the Department of Labor.

During the war Mrs. Eichel served as a volunteer also in many other activities. In August, 1918, she was appointed by the government as head of the Albany County War Risk Insurance Bureau, being ably assisted by a number of volunteer Albany women. Her personal aides were Miss Mary Marsh, Mrs. Lewis Lansing, Miss Edith Waite and Miss Caroline Crane.

RED CROSS CANTEEN.

The work of the Red Cross Canteen was introduced in Albany on September 17, 1917, when Dr. John H. Finley, at that time chairman of the Albany County Red Cross executive board, appointed Mrs. William A. Murray chairman of the Canteen service of Albany County. During the winter of that year Mrs. Murray and her co-workers answered all emergency calls.

A Canteen booth was opened in the Union Station on May 21, 1918, and a corps of 200 volunteer workers was mobilized. Almost immediately a need for a workroom and headquarters was felt, and during the first week in June such a place was opened at 562 Broadway, directly opposite the Union Station. These headquarters were made possible through the generosity of Mr. and Mrs. Parker Corning. The booth at the Union Station was financed by Mrs. Charles S. Whitman and Mrs. Murray.

During the summer of 1918, on the average of 50,000 men en route to ports of embarkation were served with refreshment. On account of many of the troops being sent over the West Shore, Mrs. Murray organized a branch of the Canteen in the town of Ravena, with Mrs. T. C. Slingerland, as chairman. All of the food served at that point was prepared at the Albany Canteen and transported by means of the Canteen's auto truck. It was in Ravena that the Canteen brought the last touch of home into the lives of the men before they sailed for overseas, as it was the last stop the troop trains made before reaching Camp Merritt or other ports of embarkation.

In enlisting in the service of the Canteen each worker was obliged to take an oath of allegiance and service for the period of the war. All of the work in connection with the Canteen was done by volunteers. In the winter of 1918, Mrs. Albert Hessberg was appointed second in command, and Miss Frances McDonald, third in command.

The Canteen in Albany served a double purpose during the war, it cheered the men on their way to the front and welcomed them upon their return.

To Miss Dorothy Treat Arnold, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Walworth Arnold of 465 State street, belongs the distinction of being the first Albany girl to go abroad as a volunteer war relief worker.

The Arnold family was represented in the war by their two daughters, Miss Dorothy Treat Arnold and Miss Katherine Van Rensselaer Arnold. In the early fall of 1916, Miss Dorothy Arnold sailed for France, having enlisted in the service of the American Fund for French Wounded. For a period of ten months she served as an ambulance driver, distributing hospital supplies from the organization's headquarters in Paris to the hospitals and dressing stations back of the firing line. Because of her efficient work, Miss Arnold was sent to Noyon in the Northern part of France, which had been laid waste by the Germans and later retaken by the French. This location was directly back of the firing line.

In the summer of 1918, Miss Arnold organized the Albany Girl Scouts, serving as director of the organization until she returned overseas late in October of the same year, where she was engaged in canteen work under the direction of the Y. M. C. A.

In July, 1918, Miss Katherine Arnold went to Camp Upton, where she served for four months as a secretary in one of the Y. M. C. A. huts. On

ALBANY'S PART IN THE WORLD WAR

December 21, in the same year, she sailed for France, to engage in canteen work with the Y. M. C. A.

MISS KATHERINE VAN RENSSELAER ARNOLD

During the war and the period of reconstruction the work of the Americanization Committee of the Home Defense Council of Albany County proved far reaching. This Committee was organized in the spring of 1918, with Mrs. A. B. Merkel, chairman; Mrs. Charles L. A. Whitney, vice chairman; and Miss Katherine Drislane, secretary. The members of over 65 women's organizations in Albany County were actively interested in the work.

The scope of the Americanization work in Albany County included the maintaining of information centers in the foreign quarter of the city, the opening of classes in the factories where foreign born were employed and the conducting of courses of civic lectures in all the foreign languages.

Miss Margaret Tucker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert M. Tucker of 304 State street, served for nine months during the year 1918, with the Y. M. C. A. canteen service in France. She sailed for overseas on January 9, 1918, returning to Albany on October 14 of the same year. While in France Miss Tucker served for two months at the Canteen Station at Minorville, north of Toul, and five miles back of the firing line.

The first Albany girl to enlist as a Yeoman in the United States Naval Reserve forces was Miss Alberta E. O'Connor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. A. O'Connor. On November 23, 1917, she enlisted as a Yeoman, First Class, and on June 1, 1918, was appointed a Chief Yeoman and placed in charge of the publicity for the Capitol district. During that time she also acted as secretary to Captain C. N. Walbridge, U. S. N. R. F., Naval Recruiting Officer.

Miss O'Connor, during the month of April, 1917, served as executive secretary of the Citizen's Enlistment committee, and later assisted William L. Martin in recruiting for the Naval Militia of New York State.

Record of Albany Women's Organizations in Liberty Loan Campaigns

Albany is justly proud of its women for the part they played in the Liberty Loan drives. The women's committee was organized during the last two weeks of the second drive, under the direction of Mrs. Frederick W. Cameron, 2nd, chairman, and was kept intact all during the war and for as long a period following as its services were needed.

During the second loan this committee secured 1,614 subscriptions, amounting to $364,100; third loan, 3,785 subscriptions, totaling $1,129,600; fourth loan, 9,029 subscriptions, amounting to $2,485,200.

The following organizations sold bonds through the women's committee:

The Anti-Suffrage Association secured 8 subscriptions, amounting to $4,000, in the second loan and 66 subscriptions, totaling $13,650, in the third loan.

In the second loan the Central Christian Mothers' Union secured 55 subscriptions, amounting to $26,550; third loan, 86 subscriptions, amounting to $8,350; fourth loan, 66 subscriptions, totaling $10,100.

Order of the Eastern Star.—Second loan, 112 subscriptions, amounting to $15,650; third loan, Ella Nicholson Chapter, 20 subscriptions, amounting to $1,350; Albany Chapter, 24 subscriptions, $2,750; Fort Orange Chapter, 15 subscriptions, amounting to $5,650; fourth loan, all chapters, 116 subscriptions, amounting to $13,300.

Council of Jewish Women.—Second loan, 157 subscriptions totaling $49,050; third loan, 161 subscriptions, amounting to $190,600; fourth loan, 316 subscriptions, amounting to $382,300.

The Woman's Club of Albany.—Second loan, 21 subscriptions, amounting to $9,500; third loan, 195 subscriptions, amounting to $23,450; fourth loan, 422 subscriptions, amounting to $254,200.

Two Daughters of Captain Edgar C. Leonard in the Service of their Country

The family of Captain Edgar C. Leonard and Mrs. Leonard was ably represented in the war by Miss Ruth Woolworth Leonard, a member of the Medical Corps, U. S. A., and Mrs. John A. Perkins (Katherine Leonard), First Class Yeoman in the Navy.

On October 21, 1918, Miss Ruth Leonard was called into service as a reconstruction aide in occupational therapy. She joined Unit No. 10, and the unit was outfitted for service abroad. The passports had been obtained and all details for overseas service had been completed when the armistice was signed on November 11th, and the orders were cancelled.

With the demobilizing of Unit No. 10, Miss Leonard was ordered to Fort Snelling, Minn., where she was engaged in occupational therapy in the United States General Hospital No. 29, during the period of demobilization. Her work consisted of teaching crafts to wounded soldiers and was preliminary to the reconstruction work which the army had in hand for men who either lost limbs or were permanently incapacitated for engaging in their former occupations.

The day Mrs. Perkins, then Miss Katherine Leonard, graduated from Barnard College, June 5, 1917, she offered her services to the Navy department as a translator of foreign cables. She was enlisted in the Navy as a First Class Yeoman on August 6, 1917, and worked in the Cable Censor's office, New York city, until April 18, 1918, when she was honorably discharged.

Catholic Women's Service League

The Catholic Women's Service League was organized on June 3, 1917, for universal war service, the Rev. Joseph Scully acting as spiritual advisor; Mrs. James C. Farrell, president; Miss Helen J. Delehanty, chairman; Mrs. John J. Ryan, vice-president; Mrs. Benjamin F. Mulderry, secretary; Mrs. Thomas Fitzgerald, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Frank P. Dolan, treasurer.

The League is composed of 24 units with a chairman in charge of each unit. The central headquarters are at 160 and 162 State street.

This organization during the period of the war worked for the Red Cross, sending all finished articles to the headquarters of the Albany county chapter in the County Court House. The members neglected no opportunity to render war relief service. The relief committee co-operated with the Patriotic League in caring for soldiers' and sailors' families made dependent by the war. During the Christmas holidays the League members distributed food and clothing to poor families, and during the influenza epidemic in October and November its members rendered invaluable service to the sick. A trained nurse was engaged by Mrs. James C. Farrell to work through the League, making 800 visits. The religeuse of the various parishes also rendered great assistance to the League in this work of mercy, giving generously of their time.

Since the organizing of the League the members have completed 20,000 pieces of sewing and over 1,500 knitted articles for the Red Cross. They have also made a number of afghans for convalescent soldiers.

The League co-operated in every national drive and all movements of importance authorized by the United States government. The members secured subscriptions amounting to $1,500,000 in Liberty bonds, and about $100,000 worth of Thrift Stamps.

During the Christmas holidays in 1918, the League supplied 2,000 boys in service with boxes, and at Easter time in the same year 2,200 cards were sent the boys. Outfits were given 47 nurses who left Albany and were assigned to duty in a base hospital. A number of outfits were also given to chaplains. In response to an appeal from an Albany chaplain in behalf of the boys of his regiment 800 pairs of socks and 2,000 handkerchiefs were forwarded by the League to relieve a trying situation.

The chairmen of the units included St. Mary's, Miss Mary Tobin; St. John's, Miss Mary Flynn; Holy Cross, Mrs. Catherine Cook; St. Joseph's, Mrs. Benjamin F. Mulderry; Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception, Mrs. William F. Murphy; St. Ann's, Miss Rose Martin; St. Patrick's, Mrs. Robert Coughlin; Church of the Assumption, Mrs. S. E. McEvoy; Our Lady of Angels, Mrs. James J. Maas; St. Francis de Sales, Mrs. James E. Glavin; Our Lady Help of Christians, Mrs. August Webber; St. Vincent de Paul's church, Mrs. Peter Bridget Dempsey; St. Casimir's, Mrs. Frank Culkowski; St. Anthony's, Mrs. J. A. Spadaro; St. James, Mrs. Frank Hickey; St. John's, Rensselaer, Mrs. William Guilfoil; St. Joseph's, Rensselaer, Mrs. Harry Young; and St. Thomas, Delmar, Mrs. John Connor.

Other units include the Sacred Heart Academy, Kenwood; Academy of the Holy Names; House of the Good Shepard; and St. Vincent's Female Orphan Asylum.

Many of Albany's war activities were conducted under the direct management of the Albany Chamber of Commerce and strong support was given others. Following the reorganization of the Chamber of Commerce in January, 1918, every effort was made to bring success to war campaigns in the city and county. That Albany's war record was one hundred per cent perfect is due in large part to the men in active charge of the Chamber: President Edmund N. Huyek, Executive Director Roy S. Smith and Secretary Edwin T. Coffin.

The Chamber of Commerce's record as a body follows:

Reorganization campaign held in January; 1,600 members secured and new quarters established. Old membership increased from 800 to 900. New quarters established on the ground floor of the Ten Eyck building.

Conducted city-wide house-to-house housing survey for the United States government and its arsenal at Watervliet, securing quarters that would be available for thousands of workmen.

Through establishment and equipment of Information Bureau for the government arsenal at the Union Station, with information telephone and employees, the incoming employees were met at trains, directed to the arsenal and their families given information and taken care of. Official statement made by the government housing expert at the arsenal at that time is that approximately 3,600 hours of labor were saved through this bureau for the arsenal.

Headquarters for the Third and Fourth Liberty Loan campaigns for Albany were established and maintained in the Chamber of Commerce offices for the entire period of the work. In addition to the city campaign the work for Albany county, and also the campaign for the Liberty Loan for the entire Fifth district, extending from the Pennsylvania State line up through the Hudson valley to Canada, were also directed from the Chamber of Commerce offices. The old offices of the Chamber of Commerce were utilized for the noon meetings during the First and Second Liberty Loan campaigns. Many millions of dollars were raised through these offices.

Initiated the movement in favor of and conducted the campaign for the Albany War Chest, raising the sum of $1,100,000 signed up annually for the period of the war, with about 55,000 individual subscribers. Permanent executive and administrative offices for the War Chest, with the entire counting, collection and administrative work located in the offices of the Chamber of Commerce from the time of the start of the campaign, with the secretary of the Chamber of Commerce as the secretary of the War Chest Organization.

An outgrowth of the War Chest campaign was the organization of the Albany Loyal Legion, with more than 1,248 citizens, thoroughly organized and pledged to render any service asked of them by the government for the period of the war.

In conjunction with the War Chest campaign directed the largest women's parade ever held in this section.

Actively participated in and assisted in the Albany War Savings Stamp campaign for the city and county.

Co-operated with government agents in securing 150,000 square feet of space in local warehouses for the storage of government supplies, during the war.

Entertained at a war luncheon the delegates from the County Councils of Defense and Commercial organizations of the entire State called together in this city to discuss the draft and other war matters.

Held a series of patriotic "Win the War" educational meetings which were addressed by notable speakers including Daniel A. Reed, Congressman Walter Chandler, Aviator Stehlen, Dr. Thomas Adams, W. H. Manss, of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, and others. These meetings were all in addition to the many notable mass meetings held in connection with the War Chest educational campaign, the Liberty Loan campaigns and the various meetings in connection with the war work and war relief drives.

Stimulated interest in the United War Work by holding a monster mass meeting in Harmanus Bleecker Hall with speakers from the various branches of work included in that drive and also the Red Cross.

Held a mass meeting to show the necessity for providing the proper housing facilities for the new employees at the Watervliet arsenal, addressed by Lawson Purdy, housing expert, Fred C. Butler of the ordnance department, and others.

Arranged the financing which made possible the location in Albany of the Technical Military Training camp for soldiers at the State College for Teachers.

Assisted in the location of the local branch of the Women's Land Army.

Actively engaged in a city wide Americanization campaign. This campaign was based upon a city wide survey and study of the conditions existing in the city made by Dr. Joseph Jasin, an expert in Americanization in the employ of the Chamber of Commerce and working under the direction of the Chamber Americanization Committee.

Tendered a dinner to Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels on the occasion of his visit to Albany in connection with the Flag Day Celebration.

At the request of the U. S. War Industries Board established in the Chamber of Commerce offices the headquarters of the chairman and executive committee for the Albany subregion of the resources and conversion section of the War Industries Board. This bureau handled the resources and conversion work for nine counties with Albany as headquarters and the chairman was also a member of the executive committee, handling the work for the entire State outside of New York city. Many contracts were secured for manufacturers in this section and special services rendered others as well as rendering service to the government.

Established the headquarters of the Albany Branch of the Military Training Camp Association, handling applications of candidates for all officers' training camps in the country and also applications for all army and navy staff positions, hundreds of applicants being examined and given information.

Rendered special service to the government on recruiting, special recruiting officers from government branches establishing headquarters in the Chamber of Commerce offices.

Sent representatives to conferences at the request of the production division of the ordnance department and established a war educational committee to work with this department in conducting educational meetings in the manufacturing plants in this section to speed up production. Discussed the labor situation following the war with special representatives of the United States department of labor as speakers.

Sent representatives to conferences called for the purpose of bringing about the utilization of the barge canal system to its maximum capacity, and also secured contracts from the government for the construction of barges in Albany yards.

Organized a Return Load Bureau to aid local shippers.

Through negotiations with the officials of the United States Housing Commission at Washington, brought about an arrangement by which the federal government paid half the fare of the arsenal employees between Albany and Watervliet, thus equalizing the electric car fares for the employees between Albany and the arsenal with the other communities in the vicinity of the arsenal, inducing workmen to live in Albany who otherwise would not have come here.

Planned and directed in co-operation with the city authorities the celebration of the signing of the armistice.

Established a registration bureau for those returning from service and co-operating with U. S. Employment service to secure positions for applicants.

Provided in Chamber of Commerce offices headquarters for the American Red Cross Second War Fund drive for New York State and for the district of 14 counties including Albany; for the Albany district for the Christmas Red Cross Roll Call for Albany County; for the committee preparing the honor roll; district headquarters for the campaign for the Armenian and Syrian relief; the Idle Record Committee; provided motor trucks to move the Base hospital to the depot when it left Albany.

Albany's Enterprising Newspapers Shouldered Their Share of Burden to Help Win the War.

The minute word was flashed from Washington that the United States had entered the great world struggle, every newspaper of Albany, irrespective of political affiliation, pledged loyal support to President Wilson in the prosecution of the war. Due to the great increase in the cost of every article that enters into the make-up of a great newspaper, the increased cost of labor, general unsettled business conditions that came with war's clarion alarm and the demands made upon the newspaper corps by the draft after many workers had volunteered their services, the dailies were greatly handicapped but the head of every newspaper corporation gave the word that his newspaper must labor for Uncle Sam, day and night.

Every editor and every business manager brushed aside his daily cares and with determination entered into the business of the nation — that of pushing the war to a successful conclusion. Every worker in every department of Albany's enterprising newspapers shouldered his share of the burden uncomplainingly and took the order, "Full steam ahead for Uncle Sam," that came from the sanctums of the heads of the papers — Martin H. Glynn, of the Times-Union; William Barnes, of the Evening Journal; Charles J. Tobin, of The Argus; Judge Lynn J. Arnold, of the Knickerbocker Press, Leo M. Doody and Herbert E. Hill, of the Sunday Telegram.

Almost the minute Uncle Sam plunged into the war, word came from Washington that every piece of war news would be censored, and not once did an Albany newspaper violate a confidence, notwithstanding the fact that frequently "stories" every editor knew the people of the city longed for ticked over the wires or otherwise entered the editorial rooms. Then came the plea of Uncle Sam for help in floating his Liberty Loan Bonds and selling his War Saving Stamps, and ungrudgingly every newspaper gave freely to the government at every call valuable pages of advertising space, and trained reporters were assigned to "cover" the drives. The same plea came later for various other war activities, and "We're here Uncle Sam," was the same ready response that was made by the papers.

Anxious to supply their readers with all war news that the government would allow to pass the censor, the papers went to great expense to report the doings of Albany warriors in training camps in the United States, aboard the great war vessels that patrolled the seven seas and on the firing line in France. The Argus, for instance, made special arrangements with the New York Herald to get the splendid stories cabled from Europe by Don Martin, and furnished its readers with them until word came that death had claimed the gallant war correspondent.

The other papers also arranged for similar cable service and at the same time made efforts to cooperate in every way between the folks at home and the boys "Over There." James H. Gaylor, city editor of the Evening Journal, originated a weekly letter to the Albany warriors, in the form of a miniature Journal, which always carried with it a message of cheer from some prominent Albanian. This feature proved popular and brought commendation from George Greel, chairman of the Committee on Public Information.

Albany's Conservation Directors

GEO. WILLIAM McEWAN

GERRIT Y. LANSING

AMONG the Albanians who were leaders in war-time activities, sacrificing their time and means that the business of winning the war might continue unhampered, were two men whose names must stand prominently in any narrative of what this city did in support of the country's cause. They are George William McEwan and Gerrit Y. Lansing, Food and Fuel Administrators for Albany county.

As members of that vast army having to perform the prosaic task of keeping the stream of supplies flowing smoothly to embarkation point and training camp, to war factory and household, theirs was the less spectacular duty of administering the affairs of two vital organizations in an important section of the Empire State.

Mr. McEwan was appointed Food Administrator December 22, 1917, and from that moment the greater part of his time was taken up with the affairs of his new office. With his assistant, William Creifelds, Jr., he conducted efficiently and with smoothness the work outlined by the Government for the conservation of food, instructing hotel and restaurant men, bakers and grocers and the general public on matters relating to the problem that America faced in feeling not only her own army and civilian population, but the people of the Allied nations as well. Orders were interpreted and announced, hoarders of food and other violators of the administration's orders were brought to task, weekly lists of fair prices to be charged by retail dealers were issued and a score of other details, incident to the office, were discharged with ability.

Mr. Lansing was appointed Fuel Administrator October 26, 1917, his duties being in general similar to those of Mr. McEwan. During the winter of 1917-18 the fuel problem was a serious one, and much work devolved upon Mr. Lansing and his assistant, Guy D. Hills. Heatless days and lightless nights had to be enforced, conferences with fuel dealers were numerous, great care was taken that no one suffered from a lack of coal, a fuel questionnaire was distributed among dealers and constant advice and instructions were given. The work of supervising the fuel situation in the entire county during a critical period is the accomplishment that made Gerrit Y. Lansing one of the war leaders of Albany.

History of Albany Enriched by the Efficient Work of Draft Boards

COUNTY JUDGE GEORGE ADDINGTON

Rev. Dr. GEORGE DUGAN

EVERLASTING lustre was added to Albany's name during the war, principally because the most important of war-time activities, that of supplying the army with men through the draft, was accomplished without disorder or delay from the time the first contingent left for Camp Devens, Ayer, Mass., on September 8, 1917, until the Draft Boards were directed to demobilize following the signing of armistice terms.

To the members of the boards, and scores of volunteers, who responded to every call for assistance, is due the credit for the record Albany established in administering the provisions of the Selective Service Act. When it is understood that more than 25,000 men were registered with the four boards, that the majority of these were classified for service, and approximately 3,000 sent into the Army, it may be realized how vital a part the Draft Boards took in keeping Albany one hundred per cent efficient for war work.

County Judge George Addington was chairman of the Advisory Board of patriotic Albany lawyers, and the Rev. Dr. George Dugan chairman of the District Board of Appeals. The personnel of the four city boards was:

Board 1.—Theodore C. Hailes, chairman; Charles H. Turner, Dr. D. V. O'Leary, surgeon, and John Murphy, chief clerk.

Board 2.—Peter D. Kiernan, chairman; Thomas S. O'Brien, Dr. James F. Barker, surgeon, and Martin V. B. Quinn, chief clerk.

Board 3.—William Barnet, chairman; Robert E. Whalen, Dr. James F. Rooney, surgeon, and James Ostrander, chief clerk.

Board 4.—John A. Delehanty, chairman; Peter G. Ten Eyck, Dr. William H. George, surgeon, and Frank H. Decent, chief clerk.

Mr. Delehanty succeeded Frank B. Graves, first chairman of Board 4, and Mr. Ten Eyck succeeded Judge Danaher. On Board 3 Mr. Whalen was named to take the place of Lewis R. Parker, who resigned.

The boards were organized early in July of 1917 and soon thereafter began the work of classifying the 10,500 Albanians between the ages of twenty-one and thirty-one, who registered June 5th. Nineteen men comprised the first contingent which left September 8th. Three registrations days followed the first, the second being June 5, 1918, when 600 enrolled; the third, August 27th, with 139 registering; and the last on September 12th, when 13,000 men between eighteen and twenty-one, and thirty-one and forty-five years of age, enrolled.

This was the largest single task handled by the boards. A Central Registration Committee was named, including William Barnet, chairman; Mr. Whalen, Mr. Turner, Mr. Delehanty and Mr. O'Brien. The services of the city aldermen, as well as those of election employees, and the use of election machinery was commandeered, and the work proceeded without trouble.

During the war Board 1 registered 9,000 men and inducted 1,000; Board 2 registered 5,922 and inducted 800; Board 3 enrolled 5,500 and inducted approximately 500, and Board 4 registered 6,912 and inducted 555.

At a meeting of the Common Council December 16, a vote of thanks was extended in recognition of the excellent work done by the Women's United Service Alliance, of which Mrs. Samuel L. Munson is head, at the suggestion of Mayor James R. Watt, who called attention to the efforts that these women had put forth in securing the names of 7,000 soldiers, sailors and others who had given their services to the government during the war. The formal resolution, which was adopted, also praised the chairmen of the four local draft boards.

Distinguished Service Men.

WHATEVER part they were called upon to take in the World War, whether in trench or training camp, aboard ship or at shore station, Albany's Soldiers and Sailors kept the faith, performing with merit not only the duties imposed upon them, but volunteering for any special service, however arduous, that might arise.

Perhaps no other city of equal population has had so many of her sons cited for extraordinary valor as the Capital City of New York State. The list of those who have been decorated includes: First Lieutenant William Gorham Rice, son of Civil Service Commissioner William Gorham Rice and Mrs. Rice; Henry Johnson, Albany's negro war hero; Lieutenant W. B. Baldwin, of 291 Lark street; Franklin Colville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Colville, of 282 First street; Raymond Ricketts; Captain Frank A. McNamee, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank McNamee, of 690 Madison avenue; Corporal Charles G. Morahan, Jr., son of Charles G. Morahan, of 61 Bertha street, Private Parker C. Dunn, of 111 South Hawk street, and Cook Peter Manns, of Company A, 107th Infantry.

One of the most notable deeds of the whole war was the heroic action of Henry Johnson of the Fifteenth (Colored) Infantry, who, on May 15, 1918, with a companion, repelled an attack by a German raiding party of twenty men. News of the action thrilled the entire country, demonstrating as it did, that the American Soldier, be he black or white, is the superior of the best that Germany could produce. Johnson's heroism is best related by the uncolored phrasing of the official statement from General Pershing for May 19, 1918. It reads

"Section B.—Reports in hand show a notable instance of bravery and devotion shown by two soldiers of an American colored regiment operating in a French sector. Before daylight on May 15, Private Henry Johnson and Private Roberts while on sentry duty at some distance from one another, were attacked by a German raiding party estimated at twenty men, who advanced in two groups, attacking at once on flank and rear.

"Both men fought bravely in hand-to-hand encounters. One (Johnson) resorting to the use of the bolo knife, after his rifle jammed and further fighting with bayonet and butt became impossible. There was evidence that at least one and probably a second German was severely cut; a third is known to have been shot.

"Attention is drawn to the fact that the colored sentries were first attacked and continued fighting after receiving wounds and despite the use of grenades by superior force. They should be given credit for preventing, by their bravery, the capture of any of our men. Three of our men (including Johnson and Roberts) were wounded, two by grenades. All are recovering and the wounds in two cases are slight."

ALBANY'S PART IN THE WORLD WAR

Lieutenant Rice was decorated with the French war cross for extraordinary bravery and devotion to duty in removing wounded under shell fire during the second battle of the Chemin des Dames. Lieutenant Rice was with an American ambulance unit, attached to a French outfit.

Leading a small detachment of cavalry in a brilliant dash over a shell-swept road to a point 200 yards from the German lines, where they could locate machine-gun nests which had held up an American advance north of the Vesle, early in August of 1918, Lieutenant Baldwin, by his absolute lack of fear and adherence to the task in hand, safely executed the manoeuver for which he was cited. In full view of the enemy he led his men through a storm of shells, marked the gun positions and accomplishing the return trip, brought back the information which enabled the artillery to wipe out the gun nests while the American troops advanced.

Raymond Ricketts, a member of a regiment of American engineers, was decorated by the British for supreme courage in saving five cars of ammunition despite the imminent danger to his own life. Ricketts was on a train carrying ammunition to the front in Northern France, when a German shell set the cars on fire. Ricketts ran the blazing train to a water spout and himself extinguished the flames.

Franklin Colville, a member of the Forty-third Company, Fifth Regiment of American Marines, was given the French war cross for his courageous conduct during an offensive in June, 1918.

Captain Frank A. McNamee, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank McNamee, of 690 Madison avenue, was decorated with the American Medal of Honor for his efficient conduct under fire on the St. Mihiel front. He was given the French war cross June 18, 1918, for meritorious service and cited for gallantry at the second battle of the Marne.

Corporal Charles G. Morahan, Jr., son of Charles G. Morahan, of 61 Bertha street, was cited in divisional orders, June 2, 1918, for his bravery in action on the Picardy front April 21st. Corporal Morahan was a member of a patrol of three men which attacked a German patrol of five men and two officers. Though wounded, he continued to fight until the enemy unit was driven back, and the officers killed. Valuable papers were found on them.

Dunn, Parker C. (2941321), private, first class, First Battalion, 312th Infantry (deceased).

Home address: Miss Mary Minniny, aunt, 111 South Hawk street, Albany.

For conspicuous gallantry and intrepid duty in action with the enemy near Grand-Pre, France October 23, 1918.

When his battalion commander found it necessary to send a message to a company in the attacking line and hesitated to order a runner to make the trip because of the extreme danger involved, Private Dunn, a member of the intelligence section, volunteered for the mission. After advancing but a short distance across a field swept by artillery and machine gun fire, he was wounded, but continued on and fell wounded a second time. Still undaunted, he persistently attempted to carry out his mission, until he was killed by a machine gun bullet before reaching the advancing line.

Private Dunn was named by General Pershing among the 100 men of the American Expeditionary Force whose deeds stand out as the most conspicuously gallant and intrepid.

Cook Manns' citation reads: Cook Peter Manns, No. 1209780, Company A, 107th Infantry.

For fearlessness and disregard of personal safety in the evacuation of wounded under severe enemy machine gun fire and sniper fire. During the operations in the Dickelbusch sector, near Mt. Kemmel, Belgium, August, 1918.

How Albany Service and Honor Rolls were Compiled

The 7,000 names of Albanians in war service, included in this volume, constitute the official list, prepared under the direction of the Women's United Service Alliance. Scores of persons co-operated in the work of gathering the names, and many others aided in the task of compiling them. They were then submitted to Mayor Watt and became the official list of Albanians in war service.

It was unavoidable that so stupendous a work should contain inaccuracies and lack some names. In order to eliminate as many imperfections as possible and increase the value of this record, the General Publishing Company went to considerable expense in gathering information which was the basis for corrections. This information, together with the names of men who died in war service, was procured by means of newspaper advertisements and through personal investigation.

Albany Chaplain Decorated for Bravery

The Rev. Father Francis A. Kelley, Albany's fighting chaplain, better known to the men of the Twenty-seventh Division as "O'Ryan's fighting priest," left Albany, February 4, 1917, with the Tenth New York Infantry, and then Major General O'Ryan appointed him chaplain of the 104th Machine Gun Battalion, while in camp at Spartanburg. He started for France with this battalion on May 18, 1918, and remained with it until July 13, when, during the battle of Mont Kemmel, he was transferred to the staff of Major General O'Ryan. He was in every battle, every engagement, the Twenty-seventh took part in from their arrival in France until the armistice was signed.

Father Kelley went over the top three times on September 27 to reach the wounded lying in shell holes in "No Man's Land."

On January 21, at Montfort, before the entire division, General Pershing pinned the Distinguished Service Cross on the breast of Father Kelley. He had won it on October 28. On November 8, King George bestowed the British Military Cross on him. Father Kelley was mentioned seven times in special orders, three times by the British, twice by the Australians and twice by the Americans. The awards cited him for exceptional bravery in the face of the enemy, in caring for the wounded in the front line trenches and assisting in their evacuation.

Father Kelley was awarded the Distinguished Service Medal by General Pershing, in the name of the President of the United States, for repeated acts of extraordinary heroism in action near Ronsay, France, September 26-30, 1918, and east of Le Selle River, October 13-20, 1918.

During the operations of his regiment against the Hindenburg Line and later east of Le Selle River, Chaplain Kelley was constantly at the front, caring for the wounded and supervising the burial of the dead, often under heavy shell fire.

NATHAN HATCH

For conspicuous individual service in floating the various Liberty Loans great credit must be given to Nathan Hatch. Not only was he the largest individual subscriber, but his enthusiasm was contagious, and whenever interest lagged, or whenever doubts arose as to our ability to subscribe the tremendous quota assigned to Albany, it was also Mr. Hatch who lead the renewed appeal to the patriotism of our people with such generous subscriptions that it proved an irresistible incentive to other workers.

In the Fourth Liberty Loan, when it seemed impossible to get enough subscriptions, Mr. Hatch proposed to organize a Million Dollar Club, and guaranteed to consummate it within forty-eight hours. Donald McDonald was assigned as associate with Mr Hatch in this undertaking, and within the time specified the club was completed. When the details of the Fourth Loan were completed, it was found that Mr. Hatch had subscribed more than one million dollars.

IRA H. SHOEMAKER

Ira H. Shoemaker on September 23, 1918, was appointed district organizer, U. S. Employment Service, U. S. Department of Labor for the Fifth District of New York State, and investigator for the Community Labor Board, one of the principal functions being the enlisting of man power in eight counties in essential occupations. These Counties were, Albany, Columbia, Fulton, Greene, Montgomery, Rensselaer, Schenectady and Schoharie.

Prior to the signing of the armistice the government was making every effort to transfer men from businesses listed as unessential to those having a direct relation to war activities. America was driving ahead at top speed and required the services of every individual if the army in France was to attain its greatest efficiency.

Mr. Shoemaker succeeded so well that he was made Special Agent, U. S. Employment Service, U. S. Department of Labor with increased jurisdiction in the State on January 15, 1919.

In War Service

Responding to the country's call for men, L. R. Mack, president of L. R. Mack, Inc., distributors for Packard transportation vehicles, enlisted in the 102nd Engineers train as a private in June, 1917, and left shortly thereafter for Spartanburg with the 27th Division. He was later transferred to the aviation section, commissioned as First Lieutenant and went to France in September, 1917.

For several months, Lieutenant Mack was actively connected with the organizing of airplane assembly, also salvage and repair plants and was later made assistant chief of the Transportation Division, air service, A. E. F. In this position he had charge of all air service transportation and personnel at base shops. He also had charge of convoys and transportation supplies. Thousands of vehicles were kept in this reserve park for emergency call. The shops were among the most completely equipped.

Lieutenant Mack served overseas for one year and was discharged shortly after the armistice was signed.

The Empire Theater

A unique feature of the Fourth Liberty Loan campaign in Albany was the diving exhibition given October 5, 1918, in a huge tank at State and Chapel streets by six members of the "Hip Hip Hooray Girls" Company, which was playing at the Empire theater. The exhibition, which drew a crowd of 10,000 people and stimulated the campaign to a remarkable extent, was made possible through the courtesy of The Columbia Amusement Company, co-operating with the Albany Loan Committee.

The tank was erected by stage employes of the theater. It was 12 feet long, five and one-half feet wide and six feet deep. When filled it weighed 16 tons. A platform surrounded the tank. Despite the inclement weather and the protests of those who had arranged the exhibition, the young women insisted upon doing all they could to aid the loan. Thinly clad, they disappeared before overcoated crowds which jammed the streets and blocked all traffic.

On the platform were Mayor James R. Watt, Representative Rollin B. Sanford, former Governor Martin H. Glynn, Ledyard Cogswell, Frank Tierney, Publicity Director; Jacob H. Herzog, chairman of the publicity committee, and Roy S. Smith, executive manager of the Albany Chamber of Commerce. Mayor Watt paid a high tribute to the young women in which he praised them for their patriotism and declared they had greatly aided the loan. He then presented each with a silver bar pin.

The event was one of the most successful of any arranged by the loan committee and resulted in heavy subscriptions toward Albany's quota. The diving girls were given official credit for having a direct part in pushing the loan over the top. Their exhibition was given not in Albany only but in many other cities where they played while patriotic war campaigns were in progress.

Ludlum Steel Company's Products Met Urgent Need of United States Munition Factories

The tremendous problems faced by munitions manufacturers when the United States entered the war related to securing sufficient tool steel to maintain top speed production of guns, bullets, shells, airplane parts and other things required by the army in enormous amounts. The Ludlum Steel Company, of Watervliet, met this need, not only by developing new steels, formerly made only in Austria or Germany, or unknown up to that time, but turned out more tool steel than any plant in the world by producing 2,000 tons a month.

EDWIN CORNING, President

Without tool steel, no shell can be produced, no gun bored, no cartridge cases made; in fact the country would have been absolutely powerless to carry on its activities, but for the tool steel manufacturer.

To turn out 1,000,000 three-inch shells, the approximate size for a 75 mm. gun, it requires between thirty and forty tons of the highest grade high speed steel. The largest producing plant in this country making this particular size of shell used entirely the Ludlum Steel Company's brand of high speed steel known as Mohawk Extra. If there had been a slight letting up in the high quality of this steel, it would probably have taken sixty to eighty tons of high speed steel to do the same work, therefore, it is readily seen how very important it was, during the tremendous demands made on the company for output, that the quality be maintained.

The Watervliet Arsenal, which is the largest large gun ordnance plant belonging to the United States Army, used exclusively the company's Mohawk Extra for turning the big guns. So very efficient was this steel that it was more powerful than the magnificent machine tools with which the Arsenal was equipped.

Without doubt the Watervliet Arsenal could not have turned out the very large quantity of munitions and war material if it had not been for the Ludlum Steel Company's full support in the supply of this very high grade of tool steel.

Cartridge drawing represented one of the great problems; prior to the war the tool steel for this very exacting requirement was almost exclusively made in Germany and in Austria. The company was fortunate in having in its service men experienced in the manufacture of these foreign grades of efficient tool steel. The work of investigation was intensely carried on with the result that there was produced a grade of tool steel which was greatly superior to any German or Austrian made cartridge die steel. Longer runs and more accurate work were possible with this particular type of tool steel. The very large plants distributed all over this country, which were making cartridge cases, one after another applied to the Ludlum Steel Company for this particular steel, and without a doubt the majority of the brass cartridge producing factories, operating on government material, were using this special form of tool steel.

The making of the sheaths for bullets for machine gun and rifle fire represented another big problem. The same condition was present here as with the cartridge cases, but unfortunately the steel suitable for drawing the three-inch cartridge cases was not adaptable for the sheaths for bullets. A new steel, an alloy combination, had to be worked out for this. The company immediately put its energies on this new demand and was able to produce a steel which far exceeded any that had yet been produced for this class of work. The majority of the cartridges and bullets used by our soldiers in France were made in dies which were constructed from tool steel supplied by the Ludlum Steel Company's plant.

This peculiar type of steel was used in very small quantities prior to the war. In this country, probably ten or fifteen tons would represent the country's demands, yet the improved product, as ultimately developed for this work, was supplied by the company in hundreds of tons. As is well known, the rifle and machine cartridge was supplied in millions upon millions. The operation is more or less automatic, and had the tool steel failed in any of the operations, it would probably have ruined hundreds of thousands of cartridge and bullets, hence the material had to be of extraordinary strength, hardness and efficiency.

It is perhaps not appreciated that the simple tool, known as the twist drill, should be an important factor in the production of munitions, yet in the manufacture of rifles, millions of holes had to be drilled; in the manufacture of shells, the same thing; and everyone of these holes was drilled by a twist drill. Thousands of tons of this high quality steel had to be supplied for the manufacture of twist drills.

The Ludlum Steel Company supplied, during 1917 and 1918, more twist drill steel to the manufacturers in this country than any other concern. The extraordinary strength of the product was realized and this grade of steel was specified by the manufacturers of drills as being practically the only one which would enable the twist drills to be used to their utmost capacity without breaking.

Many of these twist drills, in fact the major quantity, are used in gang machines, drilling twenty, thirty, and perhaps many more holes at the same time in a combination machine. If one drill broke, it would mean that every drill in that head would break. The machine might be put out of action for hours, days, probably weeks, depending entirely upon ability of obtaining new parts. The piece it was drilling might have had a thousand dollars or more work done on it up to that stage; it might be irretrievably ruined. Therefore the simple twist drill was no longer an ordinary tool but had to be made with the same exactitude and high quality as other grades of tools of this character.

General Pershing notified the government that the cars and trucks that were supplied in France should be fitted with magneto's as far as possible, not because the battery ignition was not as good, but due to the peculiar condition under which these trucks operate. The Ludlum Steel Company produced a grade of chrome magnet steel which was so extremely satisfactory for this type of instrument that nearly all the magneto's that were supplied for trucks, automobiles and aeroplanes were made from the Ludlum Steel Company's own magnet steel.

It is very important that the magnets retain their magnetism. It can be appreciated that when a man is flying, chasing or being chased by an enemy's machine, that his engine should operate without fail. This high vibratory work of a tremendously high powered quickly revolving engine has a peculiar effect upon the magnetic properties of steel, causing it to gradually lose its magnetism. If the magneto failed, then this generally meant that either the quarry was lost or in the event of a chase, the pilot and his artillerist were killed. To obviate this one phase of the difficulty it was essential that the magnet should have unusual properties. Great care and much research work was being done and exercised so as to produce a magnet steel that was capable of withstanding these unusual requirements. The company takes a great deal of pride in knowing that it was able to produce such a grade of steel.

Motor launches of the mosquito fleet, motor boats, gasoline launches, were all fitted with magneto's and here again, even though the conditions were not quite so exacting, the high state of efficiency was demanded and the same grade of magnet steel was used.

The efficiency of the celebrated Liberty engine could never have been reached or maintained had it not been for the high grades of tool steel used for machining these parts and actually used in the engine itself. The boring of the cylinders has to be done within very close limits, the fitting of the valves, the turning of the crank shafts, the boring of the connecting rods, all had tolerances no thicker than a hair, therefore, the cutters that drilled these microscopically accurate holes had to maintain their very keen cutting edge and size. This called for the highest grade of tool steel of this type that could be produced. Many hundreds of tons of this form of high speed steel were used in turning out the Liberty engine and the Ludlum Steel Company produced very large quantities of it.

In the manufacture of ships, thousands of tons of chisel steel and rivet set steel are used for chipping portions of the steel work and driving the rivets. Millions of rivets are driven on these ships. It was recognized that if the loss and waste of time caused by broken chisels and rivet sets were to be removed, a new tool steel was demanded, having properties which had been realized as necessary but considered as ideal, if not unattainable.

The Ludlum Steel Company, after having solved so many of the difficulties presented by war problems, then decided to produce, if possible, a steel which was practically unbreakable for chisels. After a large number of experiments, a steel was produced which could be made so hard it could cut glass, yet could be bent, removing once and for all the difficulties of broken chisels and broken rivet sets.

The person who is familiar with tool steel products would smile, and justifiably so, at a steel that could be made so hard as to cut glass, yet could be bent; in fact from the face of it, it seems ridiculous, but such a steel was produced. This steel had never before been produced in the written history of the world.

Ball and roller bearings represented one of the difficult features to manufacturers. Every truck, automobile, aeroplane and revolving part, where high duty was the demand, had to be fitted with ball and roller bearings, chiefly ball bearings. Prior to 1914, fully ninety per cent of the ball bearings used in this country were made in Germany and from German and Sheffield steel, but due to the war and the cutting off of supplies from Europe, this country was forced to manufacture ball bearings.

Two things had to be done: one, find out how to make a ball bearing satisfactorily and two, but by no means the less important, to obtain supplies of steel suitable for making ball bearings. When it is understood that the ball in the average size ball bearing has to carry a load of something like 250 tons per square inch, it can be readily realized that a very special steel is called for.

One of the pioneers in the development of this steel was the Ludlum Steel Company and at the present time the largest quantity of high grade ball bearing steel supplied in this country is made by this company. Hundreds of tons of this very fine grade of steel have been manufactured and turned into ball bearings. If it were not for these beautifully made and accurately measured and finished ball bearings and suitable steel, then the methods of transportation, flying machines, etc., could not have been used in the great war.

In fact, as far as the aeroplane is concerned, even though a correctly constructed plane were made and fitted with the Liberty engine, it would not work or fly for any time at all, if it were not for the ball bearings fitted to the revolving parts, and no matter how well these bearings were made, they would not work if it were not for the steel developed and manufactured here.

The orders received and requests for delivery during 1917 and 1918 were so enormous that not more than one-third of the total amount of orders received could ever be entered on the books; in fact, the company had to adopt the policy of setting aside or reserving a certain portion of its monthly tonnage for old established customers and then pick out from the new orders those industries and jobs which were of national importance in supplying only that tool steel. This caused a great deal of hardships among the users of tool steel, but it was unavoidable.

The officers of the company are: Edwin Corning, President; Parker Corning, Vice-President and Treasurer; P. A. E. Armstrong, Hiland G. Batcheller, Leonard Kennedy, Vice-Presidents; E. Palmer Gavit, Secretary.

Albany Concern Assisted in Developing Material for Gas Masks

Top speed work at the task of turning out elements of picric acid, high explosive for use against the Hun armies, was the tremendously important task assigned the Albany Felt Company plant when war manufacturing was organized. The plant manufactured woolen filter cloth, which was sold to largest manufacturers in the country for use in picric acid.

Warm, woolen blankets of best quality for laundry blanketing at various cantonments throughout the nation and at camps in France of the American Expeditionary Forces, felt for the United States artillery and materials for manufacture into government requirements were turned out in great quantities.

The slogan of "Make way for government work," was obeyed to the closest detail. Working in conjunction with the Chemical Warfare Service, Gas Defense Division, the plant helped to develop a material for gas masks that would overcome the fumes of the deadly German mustard gas and at the same time permit sufficient oxygen for breathing.

Employees of the huge plant emerged from the war 100 per cent patriotic. Every employee was ranked a subscriber to the Liberty Loans and to the War Savings Stamp campaigns. In addition, a large percentage of enlistments completed the patriotic service rendered by this concern to the nation in the greatest war.

Bacon, Stickney & Company

FIRST LIEUTENANT HERBERT W. STICKNEY, JR.

FIRST LIEUTENANT SAMUEL N. BACON.

One of the patriotic business units of Albany helping to hold the "first and second line trenches" during the war was Bacon, Stickney & Company, of 650-660 Broadway, patriotic both in their generous subscription to all liberty loans and war fund campaigns, and in the personal service of H. W. Stickney, Jr., and S. W. Bacon.

First Lieutenant Herbert W. Stickney, Jr., a member of the firm, who entered an officers' training school at Fort Niagara, August 27, 1917, was assigned to the 305th infantry of the Seventy-seventh Division at Camp Upton, December 15, 1917.

The division sailed for overseas April 16, 1918, and saw five months' active service in several sectors of the front, the most notable of which was the Argonne Forest.

First Lieutenant Samuel N. Bacon, son of Allen H. Bacon, won a second lieutenancy at the Plattsburg training camp for officers in 1916 and the next summer he was promoted to first lieutenant at Madison Barracks. Ordered to Camp Dix in May, 1918, he went overseas with the 310th regiment of the Seventy-eighth Division, taking part in all the major operations of the A. E. F.

Simmons Machine Company, Inc., Supplied Allies with War Machinery

As manufacturers of machine tools, the Simmons Machine Company, Inc., supplied their products during the war to the American and Allied governments. The company was organized in 1915, succeeding the Modern Machine Tool Company, and has established branches in New York, Cleveland, Buffalo, Detroit and San Francisco.

The company deals in large machine tools, manufactured and rebuilt, running from 100 pounds to 100 tons. It has supplied all the Allied governments with machines for manufacturing war supplies. Under the slogan "The World Is Our Market" the company has sent its products to Great Britain, France, Italy, Japan, China, Vladivostock and Archangel.

The company manufactures and rebuilds large tools such as: drills, grinders, lathes, millers, planers, shapers, turret lathes and automatics which are used in all parts of the United States, Canada and the Allied countries.

The industry was founded by Charles A. Simmons and is probably the largest in the United States to-day. Starting in a small factory, 20 by 100 feet, it has grown to the present large shop situated at Broadway and Tivoli street.

Mendleson Corporation Played Important Part in Frustrating German Plans

Probably few Albany people knew that the Mendleson Corporation, of 40 Broadway, had an important part in the fight to frustrate Germany's campaign of barbarism. As the German armies were forced to retreat they laid waste the country through which they passed, wrecking homes, destroying orchards and poisoning wells and placing hidden bombs to harass the on-coming troops.

One of the serious problems which the Allies faced was to purify the water in captured territory in order to supply the soldiers. This was done by dropping chemicals into the wells which eradicated the poison and made the water fit for drinking. The chemicals were contained in tubes—the substance was chlorinated lime—and millions of these tubes were manufactured by the Mendleson Corporation for the United States Government.

The tubes were used by the United States troops wherever the water was unclean. Pure water for the soldiers was hard to obtain in many places but the use of chemicals assured them of a clean supply whether in France or in training camp. At the beginning of the war the cost of these tubes was five cents each, but the Mendleson Corporation was enabled to reduce the price to one cent, thus saving the government thousands of dollars.

The corporation, during the four Liberty Loans bought more than $400,000 worth of Liberty Bonds and encouraged its employees to assist the government in all its bond and thrift stamp campaigns. These activities were carried on under the direction of Jerome Mendleson, President. Other officers of the corporation are: Ira Mendleson, Vice-President; Leon Mendleson, Secretary and Treasurer; Nathan Myers, Superintendent of Plant; S. W. Eckman, General Sales Agent.

Albany Garage Company and its Officers Active in War Work

The Albany Garage Company, of which Gerritt V. Lansing is President and Chauncey D. Hakes General Manager, were prompt in making its splendid facilities and services available for limitless sorts of war activities in Albany and surrounding country.

The tireless endeavor and practical work performed by Mr. Hakes and the company's staff during the influenza epidemic merits the gratitude of every Albanian. Were it not for their efforts in keeping the nurses and physicians supplied with automobiles far greater fatalities would have resulted, as the scarcity of medical assistance made the efficiency of everyone engaged of vital importance.

For the recruiting of Red Cross ambulance drivers for service overseas, both men and women, the Albany Garage was used as headquarters. As in this branch of service, repairing as well as driving experience was required, the company gratuitously furnished instruction to all applicants. In the closing days of the war it was also headquarters for the recruiting of the Motor Transport Corps, more familiar as "Pershing's Gas Hounds."

The automobile played a tremendous part in bringing victory, in the local field, the Albany Garage Company is deserving of boundless praise for the effectiveness and liberality of its response to the cause.

War Record of the International Harvester Company of America

One of the great American corporations which aided materially in the prosecution of the war was the International Harvester Company of America, which sent 4,815 men into the service. Engaging actively in war work, the Albany branch of the company co-operated with the government in every possible way and helped win for Albany a reputation for being one of the most efficiently patriotic cities in the country.

In the spring of 1917, the Albany branch of the International Harvester Company of America plowed, harrowed and cultivated with one of their tractors a field of about eight acres on the outskirts of the village of Slingerlands. This was done for the benefit of the Slingerlands' Red Cross Organization.

A crop of corn was raised on this land, which was cut with an International corn binder operated by one of the company's tractors. More than $500 in cash was realized from the crop grown on this land which otherwise would have remained uncultivated. In this manner the company gave material assistance to the Red Cross and enabled it to increase its efficiency as a war unit.

During the season of 1918 the International Harvester Company of America co-operated with the Food Commission and Farm Bureau Associations throughout New York, Massachusetts and Connecticut; assisted at eleven tractor demonstrations, eight county fairs and a number of private demonstrations at which the estimated attendance was 50,000 people. These demonstrations were promoted for the purpose of educating the farmers in the use of the latest improved farm machines, implements and tractors, which would enable them to produce a greater amount of crops for the United States and the Allies during the serious period when the world faced a shortage of food. The Harvester Company acted from patriotic impulse and entirely in a spirit of co-operation, furnishing men and machines without remuneration of any kind.

At Christmas time the company sent to every employee in service, both in this country and abroad, a Christmas box containing many useful and appropriate gifts. Among the contents of these boxes were the following: Wool socks, olive drab handkerchiefs, pipe, smoking tobacco, cigarettes, candy, chewing gum and other articles which were much appreciated by the men.

The International Harvester Company chose this means of expressing its appreciation to the boys in service, and wanted them to feel that the company was patriotic and willing to do its bit to enable the soldiers to discharge their duties efficiently. More welcome than this, however, was the announcement by the company that every employee who had entered the service would find a job waiting for him when he returned. The Harvester Company showed its willingness to do its duty and help during the reconstruction period when it issued this notice:

"As soon as this vast number of employees have been released from service they will find a place waiting for them in the ranks of the International Harvester Company which they were forced to vacate in support of so worthy a cause."

Officers of the Albany branch of the company are: A. J. McIntosh, Branch Manager; E. P. Atkins, Assistant Branch Manager.

How the United Traction Company Assisted in Advertising the Liberty Loans.

NO other commercial organization took such successful and patriotic part in advertising the four great Liberty Loans and other patriotic war drives as did the United Traction Company. In every campaign of note the services of all equipment and employees were cheerfully given that the public be inspired to co-operation in the project. During the Liberty Loans every street car operated in Albany carried a huge sign of cloth along its side, ever keeping the necessity of subscription in the public eye.

The employees of the company, too, took prominent part in every patriotic project. In addition to the sign division of its program of co-operation in the patriotic projects, the company organized and furnished the equipment at great cost for patriotic pageants of decorated cars, the most inspiring ever seen in the city. Credit for these patriotic achievements is due largely to Harry B. Weatherwax, Vice-President of the patriotic company.

Activities of the Municipal Gas Company

N. F. Brady, President of the Company, devoted a great part of his time to war work and took an active part in the various campaigns. He was commissioned a Major and was a member of a commission which was appointed by the Government to make investigations of conditions on the French and Italian fronts and spent about three months in Italy and France during the war on this work.

Carl H. Graf, Vice-President and General Manager of the Company, acted as Chairman of the American Red Cross Campaign in Albany County in May, 1918, and as Chairman of the United War Work Campaign in Albany County in October, 1918, and he was also Chairman of the Committee on Industries of the Albany County Home Defense Committee.

Wm. G. Furlong, Secretary and Treasurer of the Company, was actively engaged in all the various campaigns held in the city in connection with the war work and spoke in the theatres and other places on behalf of the liberty loans and other activities.

Alexander Anderson and F. S. Dunn served in the various campaigns and were members of the committee on steam boiler plant efficiency of the County Fuel Administration. Many of the other employees of the Company served in the war activities in the city.

Every employee of the Company contributed to the War Chest, payments being deducted from their wages and the amounts being paid by the Company to the Treasurer of the War Chest.

Every employee became a member of the Red Cross, contributed to the Y. M. C. A. and other campaigns, subscribed to the various liberty loans.

Subscribed $6,000.00 to the War Chest, $300,000.00 in the four liberty loans.

In conjunction with the U. S. Government, erected plant at the gas works of the Company for the extraction of Toluol from the gas to be used for the purpose of manufacturing T. N. T.

Erected electric sign at the head of State street for the purpose of advertising the various war activities.

Maintained an agency for the sale of Thrift Stamps and a great many of these stamps were sold to the public and also to the employees.

The Frank B. Graves Company

FRANK B. GRAVES

THE outbreak of the war in 1914 found many of the European nations greatly in need of war munitions of all kinds, and naturally they turned to the United States to supply their wants. Among the necessities were absorbent and non-absorbent cotton for use in surgical dressings, and owing to the enormous casualties the demand was unprecedented.

Early in the conflict the American National Red Cross, from the national headquarters in Washington, asked the Frank B. Graves Company to furnish one hundred thousand pounds of non-absorbent cotton in one week for shipment to Europe. This order was so successfully executed that the company secured a large part of the subsequent contracts given by the Red Cross.

When the United States entered the war in 1917 the same shortage of supplies as had afflicted the Allies was apparent, and there came an increased demand for surgical dressings. Again the Frank B. Graves Company was called upon, and turned over practically its entire plant to the manufacture of absorbent and non-absorbent cotton. To fill the orders as needed, it was necessary to employ an extra force of men and to run their mills continuously twenty-four hours per day without a stop. In addition to the orders from the National Red Cross and the United States government, came orders from over a thousand local Red Cross Chapters situated in every State in the Union, from Maine to California. The total quantity shipped, up to the signing of the Armistice, was about five million pounds. How many surgical dressings this made is hard to estimate.

It is interesting to note that the first one hundred thousand pounds shipped was destined to be carried in the famous Red Cross ship, the first of its kind to sail from America, carrying with it large supplies of everything needed for the care of the sick and wounded. Another consignment went to Palestine, where our fellow townsman, Dr. Finley, was working. Still another went to Italy and several to Cuba, while the last was made under the auspices of the Belgian Relief Committee.

William Barnet & Son

Important service was rendered the American and Allied governments during the war by the firm of William Barnet & Son, which manufactured millions of pounds of reworked wool used in making blankets and overcoats for the armies.

Large orders for this material were filled before the United States entered the war and afterward a force of 125 employees was engaged in the work of speeding up the production to help clothe Uncle Sam's fighting men. From the time America entered the war until Germany was humbled the firm manufactured 10,000,000 pounds of reworked wool for the government, and nearly this much had been made previously for the Allied countries. The plant of William Barnet & Son was one of the most important in the Capital District.

Perfect harmony prevails among the employees and this in a measure is due to the excellent results obtained. There has never been a strike during the twenty-one years the firm has been in business, nor a labor disturbance of any kind. Truthfully a record to be proud of. Free medical attendance is not only given the employees of the plant, but to their families as well.

William Barnet, senior member of the firm, served as chairman of Albany Draft Board No. 3, and was supervising chairman of all local draft boards during the last registration which directed the enrollment of thousands of men for military service. The concern supported actively all liberty loans and other patriotic campaigns. Its members are: William Barnet, Henry B. Barnet and Charles M. Stern.

The business of William Barnet & Son was originally started in Albany, N. Y., in a small building located at Broadway and Westerlo street. The concern moved to Rensselaer N. Y., in 1906, and erected a mill in the north end of that city. In the year of 1915 the plant was completely destroyed by fire, and upon the same site a new reinforced concrete mill was built, completely equipped with modern machinery and power plants. The new mill was started January 1, 1916, occupying 85,000 square feet of floor space.

The A. P. W. Paper Co. is another of Albany's big industrial plants that played an important part in the great war. The Honor Roll speaks for itself. Forty-five men left this company to enter the country's service.

Besides producing on government contracts twenty thousand cases, representing two million rolls of toilet paper, the A. P. W. Paper Co. supplied hundreds of industrial plants and office buildings with paper towels and toilet paper. The amount produced in this way for thousands of workers engaged in war work, greatly exceeds the large amount produced directly for the government on contracts. A very large part of the toilet paper supplied on government contracts was for shipment directly to the American Army in France.

Owing to the heavy demands of the government for a particular size and type of toilet paper, it was necessary to withdraw this kind from the market and shift all machines possible to production of this size and type.

Because of its large and modern plants, the A. P. W. Paper Co. was in a position to be of particularly great assistance to the country's fighting forces directly and indirectly. In spite of the number of men who left to enter the service, the production was kept up to top speed and every government contract was finished on time.

America's War Leaders

HERE ARE SOME OF THE MEN WHO GUIDED AMERICA'S GREAT WAR MACHINE TO VICTORY.

President Wilson and a group of his chief aides who met with him every Wednesday to make all plans. Left to right, standing: Herbert Hoover, Food Administrator; Edward N. Hurley, Chairman of the Shipping Board; Vance McCormack, Chairman of American War Trade Board; Harry A. Garfield, Fuel Administrator. Left to right, sitting: Benedict Crowell, First Assistant Secretary of War; William McAdoo, Secretary of the Treasury and Railroad Administrator; President Wilson; Josephus Daniels, Secretary of the Navy; Bernard Baruch, Head of the War Industries Board.

President Wilson's Historic Address Delivered at Mt. Vernon, July 4, 1918.

GENTLEMEN of the diplomatic corps and my fellow citizens: I am happy to draw apart with you to this quiet place of old counsel, in order to speak a little of the meaning of this day of our Nation's independence. The place seems very still and remote. It is as serene and untouched by the hurry of the world as it was in those great days long ago, when General Washington was here and held leisurely conference with the men who were to be associated with him in the creation of a nation. From these gentle slopes they looked out upon the world and saw it whole, saw it with the light of the future upon it, saw it with modern eyes that turned away from a past which men of liberated spirits could no longer endure.

It is for that reason that we cannot feel, even here, in the immediate presence of this sacred tomb, that this is a place of death. It was a place of achievement. A great promise that was meant for all mankind was here given plan and reality. The associations by which we are here surrounded are the inspiring associations of that noble death which is only a glorious consummation. From this green hillside we also ought to be able to see with comprehending eyes, the world that lies around us and conceive anew the purpose that must set men free.

It is significant — significant of their own character and purpose and of the influences they were setting afoot — that Washington and his associates, like the barons at Runnymede, spoke and acted, not for a class, but for a people. It has been left for us to see to it that it shall be understood that they spoke and acted, not for a single people only, but for all mankind. They were thinking not of themselves and of the material interests which centered in the little groups of landholders and merchants and men of affairs with whom they were accustomed to act, in Virginia and the Colonies to the north and south of her, but of a people which wished to be done with classes and special interests, and the authority of men whom they had not themselves chosen to rule over them. They entertained no private purpose, desired no peculiar privilege. They were consciously planning that man of every class should be free and America a place to which men out of every nation might resort who wished to share with them the rights and privileges of free men.

And we take our cue from them — do we not? We intend what they intended. We here in America believe our participation in this present war to be only the fruitage of what they planted. Our case differs from theirs only in this, that it is our inestimable privilege to concert with men out of every nation what shall make not only the liberties of America secure but the liberties of every other people as well. We are happy in the thought that we are permitted to do what they would have done had they been in our place. There must now be settled, once for all, what was settled for America in the great age upon whose inspiration we draw to-day. This is surely a fitting place from which calmly to look out upon our task, that we may fortify our spirits for its accomplishment. And this is the appropriate place from which to avow, alike to the friends who look on and to the friends with whom we have the happiness to be associated in action, the faith and purpose with which we act.

This, then, is our conception of the great struggle in which we are engaged. The plot is written plain upon every scene and every act of the supreme tragedy. On the one hand stand the peoples of the world — not only the peoples actually engaged, but many others also who suffer under mastery but cannot act; peoples of many races and in every part of the world — the people of stricken Russia still, among the rest, though they are for the moment unorganized and helpless.

ALBANY'S PART IN THE WORLD WAR

Opposed to them, master of many armies stand an isolated, friendless group of governments who speak no common purpose but only selfish ambitions of their own by which none can profit but themselves, and whose peoples are fuel in their hands; governments which fear their people and yet are for the time their sovereign lords, making every choice for them and disposing of their lives and fortunes as they will, as well as of the lives and fortunes of every people who fall under their power — governments clothed with the strange trappings and the primitive authority of an age that is altogether alien and hostile to our own. The past and present are in deadly grapple and the peoples of the world are being done to death between them.

There can be but one issue. The settlement must be final. There can be no compromise. No half-way decision would be tolerable. No half-way decision is conceivable. These are the ends for which the associated peoples of the world are fighting and which must be conceded them before there can be peace:

1. The destruction of every arbitrary power anywhere that can separately, secretly and of its single choice disturb the peace of the world; or, if it cannot be presently destroyed, at the least its reduction to virtual impotence.

2. The settlement of every question, whether of territory, of sovereignty, of economic arrangement or of political relationship, upon the basis of the free acceptance of that settlement by the people immediately concerned, and not upon the basis of the material interest or advantage of any other nation or people which may desire a different settlement for the sake of its own exterior influence or mastery.

3. The consent of all nations to be governed in their conduct towards each other by the same principles of honor and of respect for the common law of civilized society that govern the individual citizens of all modern States in their relations with one another; to the end that all promises and covenants may be sacredly observed, no private plots or conspiracies hatched, no selfish injuries wrought with impunity, and a mutual trust established upon the handsome foundation of a mutual respect for right.

4. The establishment of an organization of peace which shall make it certain that the combined power of free nations will check every invasion of right, and serve to make peace and justice the more secure by affording a definite tribunal of opinion to which all must submit and by which every international readjustment that cannot be amicably agreed upon by the peoples directly concerned shall be sanctioned.

These great objects can be put into a single sentence. What we seek is the reign of law, based upon the consent of the governed and sustained by the organized opinion of mankind. These great ends cannot be achieved by debating and seeking to reconcile and accommodate what statesmen may wish, with their projects for balances of power and of national opportunity. They can be realized only by the determination of what the thinking peoples of the world desire, with their longing hope for justice and for social freedom and opportunity.

I can fancy that the air of this place carries the accents of such principles with a peculiar kindness. Here were started forces which the great nation against which they were primarily directed at first regarded as a revolt against its rightful authority, but which it has long since seen to have been a step in the liberation of its own people as well as of the people of the United States; and I stand here now to speak — speak proudly and with confident hope — of the spread of this revolt, this liberation, to the great stage of the world itself! The blinded rulers of Prussia have roused forces they knew little of — forces which once roused, can never be crushed to earth again; for they have at their heart an inspiration and a purpose which are deathless, and of the very stuff of triumph!"

ALBANY'S PART IN THE WORLD WAR

Outline of Great War from First Attack to Day of Germany's Collapse

A CONFLICT which shook the world for more than four years ended in the triumph of democracy and civilization over autocracy and barbarism.

Looking broadly at the military operations one may classify them as Western, or Franco-Belgian; southern, or Italian; eastern, or Russian; the Balkan, Asiatic, African and naval campaigns. The entry of the United States in the war on all fronts was a major influence in the final decision and this country will undoubtedly have a large share in framing the conditions of peace. The western front from the beginning has been the vital field of the struggle, although the original impulse to war arose in the east, in a Balkan question, growing out of Pan-German ambition in the direction of the Orient.

THE WESTERN FRONT.

Instigated by Germany, Austria, on July 28, 1914, declared war on Serbia, thereby inaugurating the most tragic drama of human history. Declarations followed fast throughout August. Luxemburg was overrun by the Germans in a day and Belgium invaded, the Huns meeting their first resistance from the forts of Liege, which held up their advance several days. After the last fort fell, the Germans moved across Belgium in an irresistible flood, occupying Brussels on August 20, and burning Louvain on August 25.

British troops hurriedly landed, tried to oppose them, but on September 6th, followed the Battle of the Marne, and the Germans were pushed back to the Aisne.

Then there was a race for the sea, British troops moving north, trying to outflank the Germans, who kept pace with them, until finally the Allied front was established from the North Sea to Switzerland. The British on November 14th occupied Ypres, against which successive waves of Germans dashed in vain for four years. Even the attack of April 22, 1915, in which gas was used for the first time, failed to drive the British out.

During the rest of the year 1915 the western nations stood still, watching the great Russian campaign, but in 1916 the British extended their lines on the Somme and on July 1st a joint Anglo-French attack was begun, in which 70,000 Germans were taken prisoners. The British extended it north toward the Ancre, capturing Thiepval on September 26th and Beaumont-Hamel in November, and forcing the Germans to retreat along their whole line from Arras to St. Quentin, while the French in the south drove them out of the Noyon salient. The battle of the Somme was one of the turning points of the war.

The situation then remained quiescent until February 25, 1917, when the Germans began a retreat between the Somme and the Ancre. The British followed them up, capturing Bapaume on March 17th and Peronne the next day. On April 9th the Canadians took Vimy Ridge.

The British on June 7, launched an offensive in Flanders against the heights southeast of Ypres. They blew up the Messines-Wytschaete ridge and drove a wedge toward Roulers into the heart of the German positions in Belgium, threatening both the submarine bases on the North sea coast and the German occupation of Lille. Passchedaete, four miles from Roulers, was captured on November 6.

General Byng on November 20 began his drive on Cambrai, in which the famous tanks played a conspicuous part. The great Hindenburg line was broken and 8,000 prisoners taken. Fighting was in the open for the first time in months. In five days the British had captured Burlon Wood and were within three miles of Cambrai. Then the Germans on December 1st launched a powerful counter attack on both sides of the salient General Byng had created and pushed him back to his old line.

VERDUN.

Before the Battle of the Somme in July, 1916, which was intended in part at least to relieve the situation at Verdun, the German crown prince began a drive on that fortress on February 21st, which culminated on June 23rd and lasted into December, by which time the French had regained every important point and the Germans had lost half a million men, so that Verdun came to be known as "the Allies' slaughter house."

Fort Douaumont fell on February 26th, Fort Vaux on June 6th and by June 23rd the Germans had gained Thiaumont and Fleury, which was the nearest point they ever got to Verdun. Then the reaction began. On August 3rd the French recaptured Fleury and by October 24th had regained Thiaumont and Douaumont fort and village, taking 6,000 prisoners. On November 2nd the Germans evacuated Fort Vaux.

On April 16, 1917, the French began an offensive over a twenty-five mile front between Soissons and Rheims. Auberive was taken and a bridgehead south of the Aisne at the junction of the Vesle, which the Germans had held ever since the battle of the Marne, was obliterated. Fort Conde, opposite, fell on April 20th, and the Germans retired to the crest of the Aisne heights, along which runs the Chemin des Dames. On May 4th Craonne was taken and the French began a new offensive by which the Germans were finally pushed back to the northern bank of the Ailette river. Here they remained until the drive on the Marne was begun.

The forces on both sides were stabilized during the greater part of last winter, but in December rumors began to float about of a great offensive that Hindenburg would launch which would defeat the Allies, push the British into the sea and end the war, with Germany and her copartners triumphant and the dominating power in two continents. The rumors grew more and more persistent and dates were mentioned, only to be passed without action, until some keen observers began to doubt that an attack was coming.

GERMAN DRIVES IN 1918.

All doubts, however, were set to rest on March 21st, when the Germans began an offensive on the Somme front, extending a distance of fifty miles, between the Scarpe and the Oise, lengthened later beyond both rivers until it had a front of sixty-eight miles. Vimy Ridge, in the north, at once prevented its widening, but the Germans pushed forward on the south, until they reached a depth of forty-seven miles, from the vicinity of La Fere to within six miles of Amiens. This took fifteen days, during which time there was considerable nervous tension abroad.

At once military men recognized the object of Hindenburg's manoeuvre. It was to capture Amiens, cut the British and French communications there and push on to Abbeville at the beginning of the wide estuary of the Somme. This would divide the Allies, and, while making a barrier against the French in the south, the Germans could concentrate in the north, drive the British to the coast and capture the Channel ports. Then, with the North Sea for a barrier, they could turn south, finish the French armies and capture Paris at their leisure, dictating peace. Like many another ambitious scheme of conquest, it failed within sight of the goal.

Rather crestfallen, but still determined, the Germans recognized that their drive had not been wide enough to compass the vital points of the British front and began in April a new offensive in the north to remedy this omission, striking west of Lille from the canal of La Bassee to the neighborhood of Ypres. If they could flank Lens and Vimy Ridge and join with the salient below they would have a base big enough to take Dunkirk and Calais. But although they took Messines ridge, in the north, the Ypres defences held firm and in the west they failed to reach Hazebrouck, blocked by the forest of Nieppe.

So they halted for a month to think it over, and in May decided that after all, the Channel ports were sour grapes and Paris was the preferable objective. This accounted for the Aisne-Marne drive, which, in many respects, was their most powerful offensive, although its extent was much less than that of the Somme.

In a day they swept up from the Ailette Valley, over the Chemin des Dames on the heights north of the Aisne, and crossed the river in a rush. Next they took Soissons and reached the Vesle with the point of their thrust at Fismes. On they went to the Marne, extending their front on the river from Chateau-Thierry to Verneuil, and almost overwhelming Rheims in their advance. But Rheims and Epernay held, buttressed by the great forest of the mountain of Rheims, while the forest of Villers-Cotterets barred their path to Paris on the west, and the drive came to a standstill. Again they fell short of their objective.

But if they could only unite the Somme salient with that of the Marne by a straight line from Montdidier to Chateau-Thierry they would have a magnificent base for a move on the French capital. So they tried this during June, coming south along both sides of the Oise from Noyon, but were checkmated at the Matz and the forest of the Aigle within two days, and although there was desultory fighting as far south as Anthenil, they were never nearer to Compeigne than six miles.

They tried once more early in the morning after the French national holiday, attempting a drive along a front from Chateau-Thierry to Massiges, 30 miles east of Rheims, and failed most signally, the offensive being stopped on the third day.

MARSHAL FOCH STRIKES BACK.

Then Marshal Foch, on July 18th, developed his magnificent strategy. On the line east of Rheims, which had been scarcely moved, General Gouraud restored the original positions. Southwest of Rheims, where the Germans had gained a couple of miles, Italians, French and British pushed them back. On the south of the Marne, which the Huns had crossed, nearly reaching Conde, French and Americans drove them back. On the west, where the Germans also had made gains of two or three miles, the whole side of the salient was bent in by Americans and French co-operating, forcing the Germans to begin a disastrous retreat to the Vesle, their losses aggregating 200,000 men, or more than one-quarter of all the troops engaged.

At the same time, Marshal Foch, by a powerful local attack north of Montdidier, captured some villages, and the Heights of Mailly-Reineval, which overlook the valley of the Avre from the south, a complement to the earlier British thrust further north between the Avre and the Somme at Villers-Bretonneaux and Hamel, causing the German dream of capturing Amiens to fade still further.

Then one series of hammer blows after another smote the Germans, giving them no rest. Soissons was recaptured on August 2nd, and the Americans, co-operating with the French, crossed the Vesle two days later. Further north, the British smashed the Hindenburg line and forced the Germans to begin a retreat from the Lys salient. On September 4th the Germans evacuated Lens.

While this was going on in the west, the Americans at the eastern end of the line north of Toul, on September 12th, began a brilliant action, wiping out the St. Mihiel salient in three days. They gradually advanced east of the Meuse, then extended their operations on September 26th west of the river, and on November 2nd inflicted a severe defeat on the Germans in the woods of the Argonne, clearing the whole front between the Meuse and the Aisne.

Once out of the woods they rapidly advanced toward Sedan, above the junction of the Meuse and the Chiers, whence two railways branch off, one to Verdun and the other to Metz, by way of Montmedy and Longuyon, at which the latter road connects with one to Luxemburg. The Americans had the latter under bombardment by long-range guns for some days, and at Sedan they cut them both.

ITALY'S DRIVE IN THE EAST.

Equally great success attended Italy's efforts in the war after the disaster of 1917. Italy declared war on Austria on May 23rd, 1915, but waited until August 27th, 1917, to proclaim hostilities against Germany. Her early operations were directed toward Trieste, around the head of the Adriatic. Gorizia, on the Isonzo, was captured on August 9th, 1916, and the Italian troops pushed on into the Carso over mountain ranges that had heretofore been considered impassable. The drive was continued in 1917, General Cadorna unfurling the Italian tricolor on Monte Santo on August 24th. Monte San Gabriele fell on September 14th, and the Italians were preparing in October to open the road to Laibach when a great disaster befell them.

German propoganda was in part responsible. Russia had just celebrated her first half year of freedom under the socialistic regime, and exaggerated accounts of the liberty achieved there and the comradeship existing between the soldiers on both sides had weakened the morale of the Italians. Moreover, although the latter had cleared the Upper and Lower Isonzo of Austrians, there was one point where the enemy still held a front of about four miles on the western side of the river.

Here the Austrians broke through on October 24th, entered the Venetian plain, took Cividale and Udine, together with 180,000 prisoners and hundreds of guns. General Cadorna was forced to retire along his whole eastern line. He reached the Tagliamento on November 5th, and the Piave, only fifteen miles from Venice, four days later. In less than a month Italy's work of two years was destroyed. Austrians on the north advanced through the mountain passes between the Piave and the Brenta. Belluno fell on November 11th and Feltre a few days later. The Italians, however, managed to check the drive by December 1, and the rigors of winter kept both sides immobilized until last spring.

The disaster to Italian arms had one good result. It awoke the Allies to the necessity of unity of action. French and British troops were rushed to the northern Italian front in forty-eight hours to hold the mountain passes while Italians guarded the Piave line. Allied statesmen met in Italy and decided to create a Supreme War Council, to have charge of all military affairs in the west. This council, in which America was included, during the Somme drive named Marshal Foch, one of the heroes of the Marne, generalissimo of all the allied forces. The effect was immediately apparent. The result in France is noted above.

In Italy the Austrians, at Germany's dictation, on June 15th, began a drive across the Piave, reaching a small fringe of territory on the western bank. They were checked immediately and thrown back across the eastern bank. Their enormous losses seriously crippled Austria's fighting power for the rest of the war. Italy began a counter offensive on October 25th, driving the Austrians from the Piave region, regaining almost all of the territory they had lost and forcing Austria to beg for an armistice, which was granted on November 1st to take effect next day.

RUSSIA IN AND OUT OF THE WAR.

Russia was the first of the great Powers to enter the war, and the first to leave it. Her participation throughout was most spectacular. She replied to Germany's declaration of hostilities on August 1, 1914, by invading East Prussia. General Pennekampf's troops were treacherously led to disaster in the Masurian Lake region. They were defeated near Tannenberg and literally cut to pieces or drowned in the marshes.

Success attended the Russian arms further south. Grand Duke Nicholas crossed the Galician frontier and occupied Tarnopol, which the Russians were destined to hold for nearly three years. Sweeping onward he captured Lemberg, capital of the Austrian province, on September 2nd; crossed the San River on September 19th and invested Przemysl three days later. Tarnow was taken on October 3rd.

Then the Russian advance was checked by heavy Austrian reinforcements from Cracow, and the Germans made a diversion in Poland. They had reached the outskirts of Warsaw, when they were defeated and driven back after a ten days' battle, on October 24th. The Russians pursued them and recaptured Ivangorod, Lodz and Radom. The Germans were out of Poland by November 7th, and the Russian armies reached Pleschen, in Silesia, 185 miles from Berlin, the nearest that any of the Allies have ever got to the German capital.

The Russians renewed their Galician campaign in the retire behind the Dneister. Przemysl fell on June 3rd and a six months' siege. Lupkow Pass, in the Carpathians, was taken and by April 9th, the Russians held the crest of the mountains above the Hungarian plains for more than 70 miles. On May 2nd came the disastrous battle of the Dunajec, forcing the Russians to evacuate Galicia and retire behind the Dneister. Przemysl fell on June 3rd and Lemberg on June 22nd. The Germans then began their second drive through Poland, capturing Warsaw on August 4th, Ivangorod on the next day and Kovno on August 17th. Novo-Georgievsk, next to Kronstad, the strongest fortress in Russia, fell two days later, forcing the evacuation of Brest-Litovsk on August 23rd. Grodno and Vilna followed in September. These reverses were brought about by treachery at home. Supplies were withheld and the soldiers were fighting with the butts of their rifles. Grand Duke Nicholas at the conclusion of the campaign was transferred to the Caucasus.

A few months later the Germans had invaded the Russian Baltic provinces. They captured Libau on May 8th and reached the Gulf of Riga, where they established themselves on the line of the Dwina River from the marshes between Riga and Mitau, remaining inactive until 1916. In January of that year the Russians renewed their offensive in Bukowina and Galicia and began a drive in Volhynia in June. They captured Dubno on June 11th and by the end of the month had overrun all Bukowina and reached the borders of Hungary again. Brody was occupied on July 29th, and by August 13th they were overlooking Halicz and threatening Lemberg. Their drive was stopped by a defeat between Kovel and Lutsk, and the fighting ceased until the spring of 1917.

THE RUSSIAN REVOLUTION.

Then revolution swept over Russia. On March 12th the Duma resisted an order of the czar for its dissolution. Nicholas was imprisoned and the empire was overthrown. Prince Lvoff and Professor Milukoff formed a provisional government. Germany took advantage of the situation to make a peace drive, beginning by destroying the morale of the Russian army. Socialist pamphlets were circulated at the front and the German soldiers fraternized with the Russian troops. Disorganization began, and every racial unit in Russia attempted to set up independent governments.

Alexander Kerensky, Minister of War, tried to stem the tide. He put himself at the head of the Russian troops, and on July 1st began a drive against Lemberg from the direction of Tarnopol. General Brusiloff, south of the Dniester, co-operated with him. General Korniloff's army captured Halicz on July 10th and Kalucz the next day. They had taken 36,000 prisoners in two weeks and were in a fair way to substantial victory.

Suddenly all was changed by another revolution in Petrograd. Five thousand Soldiers and Sailors from Kronstad entered the capital and demanded a more radical government. Four ministers resigned and Kerensky became premier.

The Germans, while aiding the disorganization of the country by their agents, resumed the offensive at the front, recaptured Kalucz on July 16th and attacked General Brusiloff near Zloczow. Russian troops ordered to the front held meetings and voted to disband. Their defection involved the retreat of the entire army. The Germans occupied Tarnopol on July 22nd and pushed further into Russia than ever before, entering Podolia, crossing the Pruth and only halting before Chotin.

In the North on September 1st they began an offensive, crossing the Dwina at Uxkull. Here, too, the Russian soldiers refused to fight and the Germans entered Riga on September 3rd and captured Jacobstadt on September 21st. Early in October they began naval operations landing on Wesel Island, in the Gulf of Riga, occupying several other islands and threatening an attack on Petrograd through the Gulf of Finland.

Kerensky on September 15th, proclaimed Russia a republic, formed a new coalition government and invited the Allies to make peace with Germany. This was seized upon by Berlin as an opportunity to detach Russia from the Entente. Nicholas Lenine, a notorious anarchist, was sent back to Russia by Germany for the purpose of further disorganizing the country. In Petrograd he met Leon Trotzky, a visionary anarchist, who dreamed of a communistic organization of all mankind. Together they worked to overthrow the democratic government and brought Russia to the brink of ruin.

BOLSHEVIKI MAKE PEACE.

Returned Soldiers and Sailors and workmen in the cities, declaring themselves Bolsheviki, or "majority," everywhere seized power. They brought about another revolution in Petrograd. Kerensky fled from the capital and Lenine assumed the premiership with Trotsky as foreign minister. These two proposed a general peace on the basis of "no annexations or indemnities" and signed an armistice with the Central Powers on December 15th.

The Russian army melted away. Soldiers were withdrawn from all the fronts. The armistice was renewed on January 18th. The Ukraine, a rich part of Southern Russia, seceded and set up an independent republic with which the Germans made a treaty of peace on February 9th. But the Bolsheviki had not yet taken steps to that end, so the Germans resumed their invasion of Russia, on February 18th. The German armies reached Luga, within a hundred miles of the capital, thus forcing the Bolsheviki to resume negotiations at Brest-Litovsk, where a treaty of peace was signed on March 3rd.

The Bolsheviki delegates say they signed the treaty without reading it. By it the Bolsheviki recognized the independence of the Ukraine, Poland and Finland, and agreed to the separation of Esthonia, Livonia, Courland and Lithuania, cutting off Russia entirely from communication with Europe, and ceded to Turkey part of Transcaucasia, including Batoum, the Black Sea port of the oil district of Baku. Thus Russia passed again into the ranks of nominally neutral nations, but the Bolsheviki government continued to be completely dominated by Germany.

This was a terrible blow to the Allies, for vast numbers of German and Austrian troops were sent to the western and Italian fronts, despite Germany's promise not to use any soldiers from Russia against her former Allies in the west. German and Austrian prisoners were also released, many of them remaining in Russia and Siberia, fraternizing with the returned Russian soldiers and endeavoring by all means to make trouble for the Allies.

But this had its compensations. Among the prisoners released were a large number of Czecho-Slovaks, who had been forced to fight for Austria. These retained their arms, refused to return to Austria, and announced themselves ready to fight for the Allied cause. Others of the same race from the disbanded Russian armies joined them and 14,000 journeyed by the Trans-Siberian railroad to Vladivostok, where they sought transportation to the western front to offset the treachery of the Bolsheviki. The Czecho-Slovak troops in Russia numbered nearly 150,000.

CZECHO-SLOVAKS SAVE SIBERIA.

Those who failed to reach Vladivostok seized parts of the Trans-Siberian railway and began fighting the Bolshevik Red Guards on their own account. Some anti-Bolshevik Russians also gathered at the Bolshevik frontier ready to confront the Germans if they could receive Allied support. British, French and Japanese detachments

NOVEMBER 11, 1918, the day the armistice was signed, Secretary of State Lansing issued the following statement:

"The American people can rejoice that their patriotism, their loyalty and their splendid spirit of service and sacrifice have been rewarded. Prussian militarism is ended; it no longer menaces liberty and justice. But before us lie new tasks and new burdens, which we must assume with the same unity of purpose, the same devotion and zeal, as have characterized the republic during this great war. Let us, while we celebrate this day of victory, look forward to the future, conscious of our supreme duty to humanity and confident in the united will of the nation."

ALBANY'S PART IN THE WORLD WAR

and some American marines were landed in Vladivostok early in April to protect the stores of supplies and ammunition sent to Russia months before, which were in danger of being seized by the Bolshevik or of falling into German hands.

The Czecho-Slovaks there were strong enough to oust the Bolshevik city government last July, and the entire administration of the local affairs of Vladivostok is now under control of the Allies. Large sections of the Trans-Siberian railroad are under Allied control. In response to the appeals of the Czecho-Slovaks and Russian sympathizers the Allies sent an expedition consisting of Japanese, British and American troops, which, acting in concert with the Czecho-Slovaks, now occupies the greater part of Siberia. On October 21st the Czecho-Slovaks were recognized as a nation and their forces joined the Allies.

One direct result of the Czecho-Slovak movement was the end of the Romanoff dynasty by the murder of the Tsar. The deposed monarch, at first held in captivity in Tsarskoe-Selo, was sent to Tobolsk, in Siberia, when the German invasion of Russia was renewed. Later the Bolsheviks transferred him to Yekaterinburg for safe keeping, but when the Czecho-Slovaks threatened that city, fearing he might fall into their hands, the Bolshevik soviet, or government, of the Urais thought the best way to solve the problem was to kill him, and the weak, misguided unfortunate man who for nearly a quarter of a century had been the head of the most autocratic government on earth, was put to death on July 16th; his passing away, like that of the Sultan of Turkey, in June, being merely a minor incident of the great war.

At the other end of Russia, on the Arctic shores, Allied intervention had become a fact. It was undertaken to save the supplies sent to Russia more than a year ago and neglected during the Bolshevik regime. French, British, Belgian, American and Serbian forces were landed at Kola, on the Murman Peninsula, and occupied 400 miles of the railroad to Petrograd. They have since considerably extended their gains.

THE BALKAN STATES.

Russia's collapse forced Roumania out of the war, which she had entered on August 27, 1916. Her thrust into Transylvania in the autumn of that year was parried by Mackensen and Falkenhyn. The capital was removed to Jassy and Bucharest was occupied by the Germans on December 6th, Bralia, the grain center near the mouth of the Danube, fell on January 5th, 1917, and the Roumanian forces were immobilized with more than half their country occupied by the enemy. Completely surrounded and threatened with extinction as a separate state, Roumania was forced to agree to a German peace on May 6th, ceding the Dobrudja to Bulgaria.

Serbia, after driving the Austrians from her soil twice, was completely crushed in 1915 by a combination of German, Austrian and Bulgarian forces. Nish was captured on November 5th, Monastir fell on December 2nd and the conquest of Serbia was complete.

Pushing westward, the Austrians occupied Cetinje, the Montenegrin capital, on January 13, 1916, and reached San Giovanni de Medua, on the Adriatic coast of Albania, by the end of the month. The remnants of the Serbian army were assembled at Aviona by the Allies and taken to Corfu for reorganization, afterward reappearing with the Allies on the Macedonian front, where they have since been fighting.

Greece, bound by treaty to old Serbia, remained idle, although her people were strongly pro-Ally, because the court party, headed by King Constantine, the Kaiser's brother-in-law, favored the Germans, Eleutherios Venizelos, the Greek premier, invited the Allies to aid Serbia, and French and British forces landed at Salonica on October 5th, 1915. They began slowly to retake parts of Serbia, Monastir being captured on November 18, 1915. King Constantine threw every possible obstacle in the way of the Allies, and finally was deposed by them on June 12, 1917, being forced to abdicate in favor of his younger son. Mr. Venizelos, who had set up a provisional government at Salonica, returned to Athens, became premier and Greece joined the Allies.

There was then a united front across Macedonia. The Italians, after defeating the Austrians on the Piave, extended their lines in Albania from Aviona to the Voyusa river, linking up with the French. On July 6th they began an offensive between the coast and the Devoli river, regained 600 square miles of territory and captured Brest, the Austrians retreating toward Elbasan and Durazzo. They continued this movement in co-operation with the Allied drive from Salonica and have entered Montenegro.

After the Allies had crushed the German resistance in the west, General Franchet d'Esprey, who had succeeded General Sarrail at Salonica, began an offensive from Macedonia on September 18th, easily pushing north and inflicting disastrous defeats on the Bulgars and Austrians in Serbia. Bulgaria was forced to surrender in twelve days, and in the armistice which she signed gave the Allies control of all her railways and means of communication, thus opening a path for the Allies to attack on the Danube front. The Allies immediately moved forward, occupying Bulgaria and Serbia and establishing a front along the Danube. The Serbians reentered Belgrade on November 3rd.

THE DARDANILLES AND PALESTINE.

With the idea of opening the Dardanelles so as to aid Russia with supplies and munitions and tap her vast harvests for the benefit of the western nations, the Allies launched two ill-fated expeditions. An Anglo-French fleet bombarded the forts on both sides of the straits on February 19, 1915. Unsupported by infantry, the venture proved a costly failure. The second attempt was made with a large army of British, Australian and New Zealand troops, which landed at Gallipoli on April 25th at two points. More troops were landed on August 6th at Suvla Bay, on the northern side of the Gallipoli peninsula. It became evident, however, that the task of forcing the straits would be too costly and the British troops were withdrawn.

Turkey had begun war on the Allies by bombarding Russian Black Sea ports. As a reprisal, Great Britain annexed Cyprus on November 5, 1914, and on December 17th proclaimed Egypt a British protectorate. She sent an expedition up from the Persian Gulf, which occupied Bassorah on November 21st. Little was then done against Turkey until the autumn of 1915. Russians from the Caucasus in 1916 conquered nearly all of Armenia, and, entering Persia, joined hands with the British coming up from Bassorah.

The latter expedition, under General Townshend, proceeding up the Tigris, defeated the Turks at Kut-el-Amara on September 28th and again at the ruins of Ctesiphon, 18 miles from Bagdad, on November 22nd. The force, however, was inadequate. A large Turkish army defeated the British, drove them back to Kut-el-Amara, surrounded them and forced General Townshend to surrender on April 29, 1916. A relief expedition was almost in sight when the British army was obliged to yield.

A much larger force was then sent up the river. It captured Bagdad on March 11, 1917, and reached Samara on April 23rd. In the autumn it advanced to Tekrit and last April took Kirfs, heading for Mosul. The summer heat then halted operations for the season. A sad incident of the expedition was the death from cholera of its brilliant commander, General Maude, last November. All the world knows of the gallant advance this year of the British armies under General Allenby, which occupied Palestine, broke up the Turkish armies, captured tens of thousands, and ultimately helped to put Turkey out of the war.

Reverting back to the first Palestine expedition, it may be said that this was the most formidable sent against Turkey up to that time. The Turks had made a few sporadic attacks on the Suez Canal, and it was partly to render these impossible that the project of invading Palestine was started.

First the Turks were cleared out of the Sinai Peninsula. Then a railroad was built across the desert and a pipe line laid to supply the troops with water. The Turks were driven from El Arish, the last Egyptian village, on December 21st, 1916. Then the British captured Rafa on January 9, 1917.

They took Beersheba early in November. Another column along the Mediterranean coast captured Gaza on November 7th. Askalon was taken on November 11th, and Jaffa, the port of Jerusalem, on November 18th. Jerusalem fell on November 8th, after being in the possession of the Mohammedans for 730 years, with two brief interludes.

Jericho was captured on February 21st, and on March 17th Es Salt, 35 miles northeast of Jerusalem, was occupied. The English, however, withdrew in May to the east of the Jordan, until they followed up their successes this year, captured Nazareth on September 22nd, Damascus on October 1st, and Aleppo on October 26th, forcing Turkey to surrender four days later.

Great assistance was given to the Palestine campaign up to the time of the surrender of Turkey by the King of the Hedjaz, who, in June, 1916, had revolted against Turkey and captured Mecca and the Red Sea littoral. His new Arab kingdom has been recognized by Great Britain, France and Italy, and its ruler has the support of all the Arab tribes between the Tigris on the east and Syria on the west. A large part of the Hejaz railroad remained in possession of the Arabs, preventing the Turks from outflanking the British on that side.

JAPAN'S PART.

Japan entered the war as an ally of Great Britain and to prevent German aggression in the Far East. She bombarded Tsingtau, the colony which Germany stole from China, on August 23, 1914, and occupied it on November 7th. Then she proceeded to a methodical conquest of the German islands in the South Pacific, handing them over to the Australians on November 18th. The Australians captured the Solomon Islands, New Guinea and the Bismarck archipelago, and the New Zealanders occupied German Samoa.

Japan in the spring of 1918, in co-operation with the Allies, began a campaign to rid Siberia of the Bolsheviks.

CAMPAIGNS IN AFRICA.

Germany's colonies in Africa also were attacked. Togoland falling to the British and French within a week of the declaration of war. Windhoek, the capital of German Southwest Africa, was occupied by General Botha on May 12, 1915, and the conquest of the colony was completed by the middle of July. The Cameroons held out until February 18, 1916.

Southeast Africa, larger than the whole German empire, was invaded on September 27, 1914. A territorial force, assisted by native troops, held out in the vast interior. They were gradually hemmed in by Belgians from the Congo, Portuguese from the south and British from the north. By December 1, 1917, the colony was completely cleared, only a small German force remaining, which fled into Portuguese East Africa, where they were surrounded.

NAVAL BATTLES FEW.

Great Britain showed her supremacy on the sea immediately after the declaration of war, forcing the German navy to run to cover behind the Heligoland Bight and in the Kiel Canal and compelling German merchant vessels to seek neutral harbors all over the world. The only German victory was that in which five German cruisers defeated a British squadron in the South Pacific on November 1, 1914, sinking the Good Hope and the Monmouth. These cruisers, under Rear Admiral von Spee, in turn were defeated and sunk off the Falkland Islands on December 8, 1914. The cruiser Emden, after spectacular raids in the Pacific was finally caught and destroyed at Cocos Island on November 10, 1914.

The chief naval exploit of the war, however, was the battle of Jutland, which took place on May 31st and June 1, 1916, off the coast of Denmark. It was the first and only fleet action of the war, and the honors were asserted by each side to be theirs. Three German battleships, six cruisers and five destroyers were sunk. The British lost six cruisers and eight destroyers. No battleships were sunk on the British side, and the Germans withdrew to their home ports. There were several German raids of light cruisers with occasional bombardments of English coast towns among the exploits of the German navy and two or three channel steamboats were captured. Among the latter was the Prussels, whose master, Captain Charles Fryatt, was shot for having attempted to ram a German submarine, an act which aroused almost as great indignation as did the murder of Edith Cavell, an English nurse, who was shot by order of a German court-martial in Brussels on October 12, 1915.

The last German fight in which British vessels were engaged, was that at the entrance to the Dardanelles in January, 1918, in which the former German cruiser Breslau was sunk and the Goeben driven ashore. A brilliant naval exploit was that carried out by two Italian officers. Commanders Rizzo and Milazzo, who on June 10th entered the harbor of Pola in two small torpedo boats and sank one Austrian dreadnought and damaged a second. Another fine naval feat was the blocking of Zeebrugge and Ostend harbor by the British on April 22nd. German mines sank a few British vessels, among them the armored cruiser Hampshire, in which Lord Kitchener and his staff perished while en route to Russia on June 5, 1916.

German submarines, however, caused the greatest destruction, only a small part of which was legitimate, most of their victims being neutral or non-combatant vessels. Among their legitimate prey were the cruisers Aboukir, Hogue and Cressy, sunk in the North Sea on September 22, 1914. Germany's object in sinking neutral and British merchant vessels was to prevent supplies reaching England.

Frightfulness in the air was the natural accompaniment of German ruthlessness at sea. Frequently the raiders came to grief. One made by eight Zeppelins on October 20, 1917, was particularly disastrous. Returning to their bases against head winds, four were destroyed or captured. There were more than forty air raids over London and other parts of England by Zeppelins and aeroplanes. More than 800 persons were killed and 2,000 injured by bombs dropped, the victims being mostly women and children.

The Germans, in March, set up a long range gun in the forest of St. Gobain from which they bombarded Paris at a distance of more than sixty miles. On Good Friday, 1918, they made a direct hit on the Church of St. Gervais, killing ninety worshippers. These bombardments lasted until the middle of August, when the advance of the Allies from the Aisne stopped their ruthlessness. In return the Americans brought long range guns up to the Meuse front, whence they shelled the important Montmedy-Metz railroad near Longuyon.

It was the cutting of these communications as well as the general advance of the Allies from the North Sea to the Meuse, combined with the internal situation at home that finally forced Germany to beg for an armistice, preliminary to making peace on the Allies' terms.

November 11, 1918, at one o'clock in the afternoon, Congress assembled in the hall of the House, where nineteen months before senators and representatives heard the President ask for the declaration of war, they heard him speak the words which heralded the coming of peace.

The strictly military terms of the armistice were embraced in eleven specifications, which included the evacuation of all invaded territories, the withdrawal of the German troops from the left bank of the Rhine and the surrender of all supplies of war.

The terms also provided for the abandonment by Germany of the treaties of Bucharest and Brest-Litovsk.

The naval terms provided for the surrender of 160 submarines, 50 destroyers, six battle cruisers, 10 battleships, eight light cruisers and other miscellaneous ships.

All Allied vessels in German hands were to be surrendered, and Germany was to notify neutrals that they were free to trade at once on the seas with the Allied countries.

Among the financial terms included were restitution for damage done by the German armies; restitution of the cash taken from the National Bank of Belgium, and return of gold taken from Russia and Roumania.

The military terms included the surrender of 5,000 guns, half field and half light artillery; 30,000 machine guns, 3,000 flame throwers and 2,000 airplanes.

The surrender of 5,000 locomotives, 50,000 wagons, 10,000 motor lorries, the railways of Alsace-Lorraine for use by the Allies, and stores of coal and iron also was included.

The immediate repatriation of all Allied and American prisoners, without reciprocal action by the Allies, also was included.

In connection with the evacuation of the left bank of the Rhine, it was provided that the Allies should hold the crossings of the river at Coblenz, Cologne and Mayence, together with bridgeheads and a 30 kilometre radius.

The right bank of the Rhineland, that occupied by the Allies, was to become a neutral zone, and the bank held by the Germans was to be evacuated in 19 days. The armistice was for 30 days, but the President spoke of the war as "coming to an end."

German troops were to retire at once from any territory held by Russia, Roumania and Turkey held before the war.

The Allied forces were to have access to the evacuated territory, either through Dantzig or by the River Vistula. The unconditional capitulation of all German forces in East Africa within one month was provided.

German troops which have not left the invaded territories, which specifically include Alsace-Lorraine, within 14 days were to become prisoners of war.

The repatriation within 14 days of thousands of unfortunate citizens deported from France and Belgium also was required.

Freedom of access to the Baltic sea, with power to occupy German forts in the Kattegat, was another provision. The Germans were to reveal location of mines, poisoned wells and like agencies of destruction, and the Allied blockade was to remain unchanged during the period of armistice.

These were the "high spots" of the terms as the President read them to Congress. Germany's acceptance of them, he said, signalized the end of the war, because it made her powerless to renew it.

All ports on the Black sea occupied by Germans are to be surrendered, and the Russian war vessels were taken by the German naval forces also were to be surrendered to the Allies.

The President made it plain that the nations which have overthrown the military masters of Germany would not attempt to guide the German people safely to the family of nations of democracy.

Besides the surrender of the 160 submarines, it was required that all others should have their crews paid off, put out of commission and placed under the supervision of the Allied and American naval forces.

The President spoke as follows:

Gentlemen of the Congress:

In these times of rapid and stupendous change it will in some degree lighten my sense of responsibility to perform in person the duty of communicating to you some of the larger circumstances of the situation with which it is necessary to deal.

The German authorities who have at the invitation of the supreme war council, been in communication with Marshal Foch have accepted and signed the terms of armistice, which he was authorized and instructed to communicate to them. Those terms are as follows:

I—Military clauses on western front:

One—Cessation of operations by land and in the air six hours after the signature of the armistice.

Two—Immediate evacuation of invaded countries: Belgium, France, Alsace-Lorraine, Luxemburg, so ordered as to be completed within fourteen days from the signature of the armistice. German troops which have not left the above mentioned territories within the period fixed, will become prisoners of war, occupation by the Allied and United States forces jointly will keep pace with evacuation in these areas. All movements of evacuation and occupation will be regulated in accordance with a note annexed to the stated terms.

Three—Repatriation beginning at once and to be completed within fourteen days of all inhabitants of the countries above mentioned, including hostages and persons under trial or convicted.

Four—Surrender in good condition by the German armies of the following equipment: Five thousand guns (2,500 heavy, 2,500 field), 30,000 machine guns, 3,000 minenwerfers, 2,000 aeroplanes (fighters, bombers—firstly D. Seventy-three's and night bombing machines.) The above to be delivered in situ to the Allies and the United States troops in accordance with the detailed conditions laid down in the annexed note.

Five—Evacuation by the German armies of the countries on the left bank of the Rhine. These countries on the left bank of the Rhine shall be administered by the local authorities under the control of the Allied and the United States armies of occupation. The occupation of these territories will be determined by Allied and United States garrisons holding the principal crossings of the Rhine, Mayence, Coblenz, Cologne, together with bridgeheads at these points in 30 kilometer radius on the right bank and by garrisons similarly holding the strategic points of the regions. A neutral zone shall be reserved on the right of the Rhine between the stream and a line drawn parallel to its 40 kilometres to the east from the frontier of Holland to the parallel of Gernsheim and as far as practicable a distance of 30 kilometres from the east of stream from this parallel upon Swiss frontier. Evacuation by the enemy of the Rhinelands shall be so ordered as to be completed within a further period of 11 days, in all 19 days after the signature of the armistice. All movements of evacuation and occupation will be regulated according to the note annexed.

Six—In all territory evacuated by the enemy there shall be no evacuation of inhabitants; no damage or harm shall be done to the persons or property of the inhabitants. No destruction of any kind to be committed. Military establishments of all kinds shall be delivered intact as well as military stores of food, ammunitions, equipment not removed during the periods fixed for evacuation.

Stores of food of all kinds for the civil population, cattle, etc., shall be left in situ. Industrial establishments shall not be impaired in any way and their personnel shall not be moved. Roads and means of communication of every kind, railroad, waterways, main roads, bridges, telegraphs, telephones shall be in no manner impaired.

Seven—All civil and military personnel at present employed on them shall remain. Five thousand locomotives, 50,000 wagons and 10,000 motor lorries in good working order with all necessary spare parts and fittings shall be delivered to the Associated Powers within the period fixed for the evacuation of Belgium and Luxemburg. The railways of Alsace-Lorraine shall be handed over within the same period, together with all pre-war personnel and material. Further material necessary for the working of railways in the country on the left bank of the Rhine shall be left in situ. All stores of coal and material for the upkeep of permanent ways, signals and repair shops left entire in situ and kept in an efficient state by Germany during the whole period of armistice. All barges taken from the Allies shall be restored to them. A note appended regulates the details of these measures.

Eight—The German command shall be responsible for revealing all mines or delay acting fuse disposed on territory evacuated by the German troops and shall assist in their discovery and destruction. The German command shall also reveal all destructive measures that may have been taken (such as poisoning or polluting of springs, wells, etc.), under penalty of reprisals.

Nine—The right of requisition shall be exercised by the Allies and the United States armies in all occupied territory. The upkeep of the troops of occupation in the Rhine land (excluding Alsace-Lorraine) shall be charged to the German government.

Tenth—An immediate repatriation without reciprocity, regarding to detailed conditions, which shall be fixed, of all Allied and United States prisoners of war. The Allied powers and the United States shall be able to dispose of these prisoners as they wish.

Eleven—Sick and wounded who cannot be removed from evacuated territory will be cared for by German personnel who will be left on the spot with the medical material required.

II—Disposition relative to the eastern frontiers of Germany:

Twelve—All German troops at present in any territory which, before the war, belonged to Russia, Roumania or Turkey shall withdraw within the frontiers of Germany as they existed on August 1, 1914.

Thirteen—Evacuation by German troops to begin at once and all German instructors, prisoners and civilian, as well as military agents, now on the territory of Russia (as defined before 1914), to be recalled.

Fourteen—German troops to cease at once all requisitions and seizures and any other undertaking with a view to obtaining supplies intended for Germany in Roumania and Russia (as defined on August 1, 1914).

Fifteen—Abandonment of the treaties of Bucharest and Brest-Litovsk and of the supplementary treaties.

Sixteen—The Allies shall have free access to the territories evacuated by the Germans on their eastern frontier either through Danzig or by the Vistula in order to convey supplies to the populations of those territories or for any other purpose.

III—Clause concerning East Africa.

Seventeen—Unconditional capitulation of all German forces operating in East Africa, within one month.

IV—General clauses:

Eighteen—Repatriation, without reciprocity, within a maximum period of one month, in accordance with detailed conditions hereafter to be fixed, of all civilians interned or deported who may be citizens of other allied or associated states than those mentioned in clause three, paragraph 19, with the reservation that any future claims and demands of the Allies and the United States of America remain unaffected.

Nineteen—The following financial conditions are required. Reparation for damage done.

While such armistice lasts no public securities shall be removed by the enemy which can serve as a pledge to the Allies for the recovery or reparation for war losses. Immediate restitution of the cash deposit, in the National Bank of Belgium, and in general immediate return of all documents, specie, stocks, shares, paper money, together with plant for the issue thereof, touching public or private interests in the invaded countries. Restitution of the Russian and Roumanian gold yielded to Germany or taken by that power. The gold to be delivered in trust to the Allies until the signature of peace.

Here the President interrupted his reading to remark that there evidently had been an error in transmission, as the arithmetic was very bad. The "further period" of 11 days is an addition to the 14 days allowed for evacuation of invaded countries, making 25 days given the Germans to get entirely clear of the Rhine lands. All movements, etc.

V—Naval conditions:

Twenty—Immediate cessation of all hostilities at sea and definite information to be given as to the location and movements of all German ships. Notification to be given to neutrals that freedom of navigation in all territorial waters is given to the naval and mercantile marines of the allied and associated powers, all questions of neutrality being waived.

Twenty-one—All naval and mercantile marine prisoners of war of the allied and associated powers in German hands to be returned without reciprocity.

Twenty-two—Surrender to the Allies and the United States of America of 160 German submarines—(including all submarine cruisers and mine laying submarines), with their complete armament and equipment in ports which will be specified by the Allies and the United States of America. All other submarines to be paid off and completely disarmed and placed under the supervision of the allied powers and the United States of America.

Twenty-three—The following German surface warships which shall be designated by the Allies and the United States of America shall forthwith be disarmed and thereafter interned in neutral ports, or for the want of them, in allied ports, to be designated by the Allies and the United States of America, and placed under the surveillance of the Allies and the United States of America, only caretakers being left on board, namely: Six battle cruisers, ten battleships, eight light cruisers, including two mine layers, 50 destroyers of the most modern type. All other surface warships (including river craft) are to be concentrated in German naval bases to be designated by the Allies and the United States of America, and are to be paid off and completely disarmed and placed under the supervision of the Allies and the United States of America. All vessels of the auxiliary fleet (trawlers, motor vessels, etc.), are to be disarmed.

Twenty-four—The Allies and the United States of America shall have the right to sweep up all mine fields and obstruction laid by Germany outside German territorial waters and the positions of these are to be indicated.

Twenty-five—Freedom of access to and from the Baltic to be given to the naval and mercantile marines of the allied and associated powers. To secure this the Allies and the United States of America shall be empowered to occupy all German forts, fortifications, batteries and defense works of all kinds in all the entrances from the Cattegat into the Baltic, and to sweep up all mines and obstructions within and without German territorial waters, without any question of neutrality being raised and the positions of all such mines and obstructions are to be indicated.

Twenty-six—The existing blockade conditions set up by the allied and associated powers are to remain unchanged and all German merchant ships found at sea are to remain liable to capture.

Twenty-seven—All naval aircraft are to be concentrated and immobilized in German bases to be specified by the Allies and the United States of America.

Twenty-eight—In evacuating the Belgian coasts and ports, Germany shall abandon all merchant ships, tugs, lighters, cranes and all other harbor materials, for inland navigation, all aircraft and all materials and stores, all arms and armaments, and all stores and apparatus of all kinds.

Twenty-nine—All Black Sea ports are to be evacuated by Germany; all Russian war vessels of all descriptions, seized by Germany in the Black Sea are to be handed over to the Allies and the United States of America; all neutral merchant vessels seized are to be released; all war-like and other materials of all kinds seized in those ports are to be returned and German materials as specified in clause twenty-eight are to be abandoned.

Thirty—All merchant vessels in German hands, belonging to the Allied and associated powers, are to be restored in ports to be specified by the Allies and the United States of America without reciprocity.

Thirty-one—No destruction of ships or of materials to be permitted before evacuation, surrender or restoration.

Thirty-two—The German government will notify the neutral governments of the world, and particularly the governments of Norway, Sweden, Denmark and Holland, that all restrictions placed on the trading of their vessels with the Allied and associated countries, whether by the German government or by private German interests, and whether in return for specific concessions such as the export of shipping materials or not, are immediately cancelled.

Thirty-three—No transfers of German merchant shipping of any description to any neutral flag are to take place after signature of the armistice.

VI—Duration of armistice.

Thirty-four—The duration of the armistice is to be 30 days, with option to extend. During this period, on failure of execution of any of the above clauses, the armistice may be denounced by one of the contracting parties on 48 hours' previous notice.

VII—Time limit for reply:

Thirty-five—This armistice to be accepted or refused by Germany within 72 hours of notification.

The war thus comes to an end; for, having accepted these terms of armistice, it will be impossible for the German command to renew it.

It is not now possible to assess the consequences of this great consummation. We know only that this tragical war, whose consuming flames swept from one nation to another until all the world was on fire, is at an end and that it was the privilege of our own people to enter it at its most critical juncture in such fashion and in such force as to contribute in a way, of which we are all deeply proud, to the great result.

We know, too, that the object of the war is attained; the object upon which all free men had set their hearts, and attained with a sweeping completeness which we even now do not realize. Armed imperialism such as the men conceived who were but yesterday the masters of Germany is at an end, its illicit ambitions engulfed in black disaster.

Who will now seek to revive it? The arbitrary power of the military caste of Germany which once could secretly and of its own single choice disturb the peace of the world is discredited and destroyed. And more than that—much more than that—has been accomplished. The great nations which associated themselves to destroy it have now definitely united in the common purpose to set up such a peace as will satisfy the longing of the whole world for disinterested justice, embodied in settlements which are based upon something much better and more lasting than the selfish competitive interests of powerful States. There is no longer conjecture as to the objects the victors have in mind. They have a mind in the matter, not only, but a heart also. Their avowed and concerted purpose is to satisfy and protect the weak as well as to accord their just rights to the strong.

The humane temper and intention of the victorious governments has already been manifested in a very practical way. Their representatives in the supreme war council at Versailles have by unanimous resolution assured the peoples of the central empires that everything that is possible in the circumstances will be done to supply them with food and relieve the distressing want that is in so many places threatening their very lives; and steps are to be taken immediately to organize these efforts at relief in the same systematic manner that they were organized in the case of Belgium. By the use of the idle tonnage of the central empires it ought presently to be possible to lift the fear of utter misery from their oppressed populations and set their minds and energies free for the great and hazardous tasks of political reconstruction which now face them on every hand. Hunger does not breed reform; it breeds madness and all the ugly distempers that make an ordered life impossible.

For with the fall of the ancient governments which rested like an incubus on the peoples of the central empires has come political change not merely, but revolution; and revolution which seems as yet to assume no final and ordered form but to run from one fluid change to another, until thoughtful men are forced to ask themselves, with what governments and of what sort, are we about to deal in the making of the covenants of peace? With what authority will they meet us, and with what assurance that their authority will abide and sustain securely the international arrangements into which we are about to enter? There is here matter for no small anxiety and misgiving. When peace is made, upon whose promises and engagements besides our own is it to rest?

Let us be perfectly frank with ourselves and admit that these questions cannot be satisfactorily answered now or at once. But the moral is not that there is little hope of an early answer that will suffice. It is only that we must be patient and helpful and mindful above all of the great hope and confidence that lie at the heart of what is taking place. Excesses accomplish nothing. Unhappy Russia has furnished abundant recent proof of that. Disorder immediately defeats itself. If excesses should occur, if disorder should for a time raise its head, a sober second thought will follow and a day of constructive action, if we help and do not hinder.

The present and all that it holds belongs to the nations and the peoples who preserve their self-control and the orderly processes of their governments; the future to those who prove themselves to be true friends of mankind. To conquer with arms is to make only a temporary conquest; to conquer the world by earning its esteem is to make permanent conquest. I am confident that the nations that have learned the discipline of freedom and that have settled with self-possession to its ordered practice, are now about to make conquest of the world by sheer power of example and of friendly helpfulness.

The peoples who have but just come out from under the yoke of arbitrary government and who are now coming at last into their freedom, will never find the treasures of liberty they are in search of if they look for them by the light of the torch. They will find that every pathway that is stained with the blood of their own brothers leads to the wilderness, not to the seat of their hope.

They are now face to face with their initial test. We must hold the light steady until they find themselves. And in the meantime, if it be possible, we must establish a peace that will justly define their place among the nations, remove all fear of their neighbors and of their former masters, and enable them to live in security and contentment when they have set their own affairs in order. I, for one, do not doubt their purpose or their capacity. There are some happy signs that they know and will choose the way of self control and peaceful accommodation. If they do, we shall put our aid at their disposal in every way that we can. If they do not, we must await with patience and sympathy the awakening and recovery that will assuredly come at last.

The President was back at the White House at 1.48 o'clock, having made the trip and read an address of more than 4,000 words in a little over an hour.
