1. Office of Alien Prop vested assets Bank of Japan pursuant vesting order number 345. Assets consist bank acct in Fed Reserve Bank, NYK, aprx $10,000, not yet reduced to possession by OAP. Five creditors claims presently on file in OAP. Three of them, totaling aprx 17 and one-half million dollars, filed by Guaranty Trust Co and International Gen Elec Co arising out of pmts allegedly made by Jap cos to Bank of Japan for pmt by bank of principal and interest on dollar bonds of Jap cos. Very likely such claimants would institute attachments proceedings if new balances created within US jurisdiction in name of Bank of Japan. Very unlikely that defense against suit and attachment on basis sovereign immunity would succeed, in view of AMTORG Trading Corporation V US, 71F (second) 524 and cases cited therein, and Coml Pacific Cable Co. 1. Has revival of Jap economy hampered by denying Japanese community of use of administrative, organizational, entrepreneurial and tech capabilities of persons who have been considered exponents of militarism and militant nationalism under programs implementing directives to exclude such exponents from positions of responsibility?

2. Will Japans attainment of self-support status be jeopardized if present program is continued?

B. Property subj to treatment in this paper should include all property in Japan which while in Japan was in possession or under the control of agencies or personnel of the regimes in A above, including property of individuals in any way officially connected with such regimes and the dependents of such persons.

C. Property specified in B above which can be identified as having been brought to Japan by puppet regimes or by persons specified in B above shall be turned over to the successor govts. The burden of proof that property was, in fact, brought to Japan and not acquired in Japan should be placed on the successor govt. No presumption that property was, in fact, brought to Japan should be inferred from the mere fact of apparent title resting in the puppet regime or in persons officially connected with such regime. All other property specified in B above, except property which is found to be subj to restitution as looted property and except as provided in D below should be considered as Japanese property.

D. As an exception of the foregoing and as a measure of assistance to the successor govts, real property owned directly by puppet regimes and used by them for diplomatic and consular purposes may be utilized by successor govts when not now required by the SCAP for purposes of the occupation. Transfer of title is not now contemplated and will be considered in reparations decisions and peace treaty previsions."

Paras B and C were drafted so that they would furnish a basis for your decisions respecting such instances as Mrs Jose P Laurers jewelery. When SWNCC final action has been taken you will be advised.

From WDSCA ES. Restitution of Netherlands Vessel SS Reael is subj.

Re political advisers unrestricted dispatch No 691 of 7 Nov 46 which quotes CPCS reply of 18 Oct 46.

Netherlands Embassy has informed State that disagreement has arisen between Netherlands Mission and your Hq on restoration of vessel to condition "Substantially similar to that at time ship came into Japanese hands." Netherlands alleges that you maintain this provision does not apply because ship not sunk or damaged and accordingly it will be outfitted with minimum equip necessary to proceed to NEI.

Considered here third para CPCS statement referred to above to the effect "The Jap Govt is being directed to take steps to repair and refit the SS Reael in order that the vessel may be returned in a condition substantially similar to that at time she came into hands of Jap Govt." Cable in 2 parts.

Part 1.

Now before SWNCC and JCS is "Proposed policy statement on Japanese public finance." Conclusions of same transmitted herewith in part 2. Your comments and recommendations requested soonest. Preliminary WD reactions are that: Section headed "Democratic control" should show auth of legislative bodies refers first, to enactment of basic legislation; second, to implementing legislation; and third, to appropriation of funds to carry out such legislation. Need is not apparent to WD for para under "Public expenditures" pertaining to disapl of subsidies to increase productive capacity in war supporting industries. Need not apparent for words "different classes" first sentence sect on "Public debt." Terminology "accumulating sizeable funds" in sub para on corporation taxes under "Taxation" possible should read: "Accumulating excessively large funds."

Part 2.

Conclusions

"4. Democratic control. The discretionary auth of the Minister of Finance, and of other national and local officials, with respect to Japanese public finnace should be reduced, and the auth of national and local legislative bodies over such public finance should be increased. To this end:

A. The type and amount of natl and local taxes to be levied, and the manner in which they are to be collected, should be fully specified by the appropriate natl and local legislative bodies after public hearings. Executive officials should have no auth to modify tax directives which they receive from such legislative bodies, and should furn a detailed accounting of the implementation of these directives to such bodies.

B. All public expenditures, both at the natl and local level, should require the apl of appropriate legislative bodies, and should be accounted for to such bodies. Natl and local govts should submit clear and detailed budgets to their respective legislative bodies, in sufficient time to allow for full hearings and legislative discussion before the beginning of the fiscal year. Such budgets should contain no accts which are to be spent in a manner or for a purpose, not explicitly stated, and no proposed expenditures should be omitted from such budgets. Executive agencies having cognizance of such budgets should report fully to the appropriate legislative branch during the course of the fiscal year concerning the expenditure of funds auth in such budgets. In add, an independent agency, whose head is appointed by, and directly responsible to, that legislative branch, should conduct such audits as may be deemed necessary to assure that expenditures are made in accordance with, and for the purposes specified in, the budgets, and should report its findings to the legislative branch as required. The provisions of this para should also apply to the expenditures of enterprises owned in whole or in part by the govt. Such expenditures should be subj to legislative scrutiny and control.

"5. Public expenditures. Japanese public expenditures should be effected only for peaceful ends related to the well being of the nation as a whole. They should not be effected for any purpose inconsistent with the objectives of the occupation. As one of the means of carrying out this policy, all direct and indirect governmental subsidies should be subj to review by SCAP. He should disapprove such subsidies in at least fol cases:

A. Where they are being granted in order to increase productive capacity in any industry termed "war supporting" in SWNCC 302 (SCAP may grant exceptions to this provision where necessary to meet the minimum needs of the Japanese economy).

B. Where they would have the effect of supporting the monopolistic growth or pos of any firm or firms, or of increasing the profits earned by such firm or firms beyond that generally earned by similar enterprises throughout the economy.

"6. Public debt.

A. The Japanese Govt should make every effort to distribute holdings of the natl debt as widely as possible among different classes of the population as a whole. A vigorous campaign to increase popular bond purchases and postal savings deposits should be inaugurated. Bonds should be sold, in so far as practicable, directly to the ultimate holder thereof, rather than through an intermediate agency such as the Bank of Japan.

B. The Japanese Govt should not pay a higher rate of interest on its debt than is necessary to attract funds into govt bonds. At least 2 types of issues should be floated, therefore: The first type to attract the savings of persons of limited means--to be purchased only by indivs, in limited amts, and to pay a relatively high rate of interest; the second type to attract the funds of institutions and of wealthy persons--to be purchased by indivs and institutions, in unlimited amts, and to pay a lower rate of interest. Interest on existing govt bonds should be regulated in accordance with the principles stated above.

C. Inflationary methods of financing govt expenditures should be abandoned in so far as possible. In line with subpara (A) above, the use of overdrafts at the Bank of Japan should be replaced by direct sales of bond issues, as soon as practicable. Policies similar in purpose to those specified above should be pursued by the local govts, as well as by the natl govt.

"7. Taxation. The Japanese Govt should be required to revise its taxation laws and enforcement procedures in such a manner as to conform much more closely than heretofore to standards of tax legislation and admin in effect in other industrialized nations. Among the objectives of such a revision should be a properly qualified application of the principles of taxation in accordance with ability to pay in order to effect a more equitable distribution of wealth and income than that currently prevailing in Japan, collection of adequate revenue to meet gen expenditures and to liquidate a reasonable portion of the natl debt, establishment and admin of tax laws in such a way as to remove elements of uncertainty and arbitrariness, and to afford maximum protection against evasion through maladmin and collusion between tax payers and tax assessment and collection auth. To this end:

A. The pers income tax should exempt or fall only nominally on income in the lower brackets (in so far as is possible without depriving the Japanese Govt of an indispensable source of revenue), and should be more steeply progressive than hitherto in its application to incomes in the upper middle and higher brackets. In any reorganization of the income tax system along pay as you go lines, care should be taken to avoid granting substantial tax advantages to upper bracket income recipients through complete forgiveness of tax indebtedness.

B. A highly progressive death duty (gift and estate tax) should be instituted.

C. A professional, centralized system for the effective admin and enforcement of income taxes and death duties should be brought into being. All info necessary to the full collection of these taxes should be secured, without legal hindrance, by the govt. Consideration should be given to eliminating the use of holding companies and similar means of evading the pers income tax. Criminal penalties should be imposed on all persons seeking to evade these taxes.

D. Effective corporation taxes should be applied in such a way as to prevent large corporations from accumulating sizable funds, in excess of proper reserves, by withholding profits from distribution to stockholders. While it is desirable from the standpoint of deconcentration policy thus to compel large corporations to seek funds for expansion from outside credit or investment sources, deconcentration policy does not make it desirable to so restrict smaller corporations.

E. Taxes whose incidence is regressive, such as excise and consumption taxes on articles of common and necessary use, should be abolished or reduced to nominal rates (in so far as this is possible without depriving the Japanese Govt of an indispensable source of revenue). Consumption taxes should, however, be applied to luxury goods.

F. The fact that inflation has created new types and classes of wealth should be recognized in taxation policy, which should aim at tapping these sources through such means as steep capital gains and excess profits taxes.

G. Any funds assigned to Japanese natls or enterprises in compensation for assets seized as reparations should be derived from the proceeds of a special tax which would not have been devised or applied had it not been for the necessity for procuring such funds.

"Local govts in Japan, as well as the natl govts should not be limited in so far as types of taxing power are concerned.

but should be directed to devise and apply taxes whose incidence is in line with the principles of progressive taxation. Your initial request limited number of members of each nations mission to 5 individuals and specified duties of mission to act on behalf of its govt on routine matters pertaining to reparations removals restitution or any other matters which would otherwise require visit of individual missions. Establishment of accredited permanent representation would require high standard of responsibility and competency on part of US Mission to represent this govt in diplomatic or consular capacity. specialized tech qual you also request would be extremely fortuitous. You indicate highly specialized tech capabilities in your request for persons able to act on any matters otherwise requiring visits of individual missions; for persons expert on holding of special industries such as electrical, petroleum, communications, automotive and others (see urad C 66989 Nov); for advisors on prevention of deterioration and dissipation of assets, and to assume other responsibilities relating to preservation and protection such assets. It would seem that reparations and restitutions missions of each govt may require assistance of tech aides.

Part 4.

Persons comprising highly specialized tech advisors are hereinafter termed tech aides. No way is seen to furn you all competencies you specify in 5 individuals. It is suggested that tech aides to come from US to assist you work under guidance of OUSRRM and come to Japan in limited numbers intermittently or in rotation as needed, but their entry to Japan subj to such overall limitations as you consider necessary. Tech aides from other govts assume would be accorded same treatment as tech aides from US. Composition of tech aides group under study but members would presumably be govt employees on dollar a yr or similar basis and nominated by property owners or regular govt pers cognizant of American property holdings in Japan. Preliminary survey revels that number latter category very limited who are avail for project and competent to serve as satisfactory representatives industrial and commercial interests.
