INTRODUCTIONTABLE OF ORGANIZATION AND EQUIPMENTCHINESE COMMUNIST FORCES IN KOREA

The following organizational charts of Chinese Communist Forces (CCF) in Korea were compiled through analysis of prisoner of war interrogation reports and enemy documents. The majority of the prisoners and documents were captured during the enemy "Fifth Phase Offensive" and represents the latest information available. It is expected that, as additional weapons and equipment are provided the CCF by the USSR, more changes will occur in the tactical organization of the CCF. Noticeable recent changes are the addition of an organic 120mm mortar battalion to the infantry division; the addition of an organic 37mm anti-aircraft gun battalion to the army artillery regiment; the addition of an organic motor transport company to the Army Rear Services Section; and the addition of an organic motor transport regiment to the Rear Services Section of the Army Group. Other augmentations that are indicated but not yet confirmed are: (1) an organic artillery battery to each infantry regiment; (2) an organic 37mm anti-aircraft gun battalion to the infantry division, (3) heavier artillery, to include the recently identified 132mm multiple rocket launchers, for each army; and (4) additional anti-tank weapons for combat units, to include 3.5 in. rocket launchers (Chinese) recently uncovered on the battlefield.
