Con mucha satisfaccion hemos oido antes de aver al Se. Ortiz en la camara de representantes, fundar estas tres proposiciones. Primera: El general Pedraza no tiene derecho a la presidencia de la república. Segunda: Fué nula la eleccion del general Guerrero & la misma. Tercera: Fué válida la del general Bustamante á la vice-presidencia. Ya no otros nos hemos ocupado tambien en nuestros números au teriores, de resolver estas cuestiones en el mismo sentido, y deseariamos que se pu blicase el discurso de aquel diputado, para ratificar sobre ellas la opinion.

En cuanto al Sr. Quintana Roo, nos pa rece que se convencerá de que la estupidez y la locura sun cosas diferentes, y sin em bargo producen ambas una incapacidad moral para hacer la felicidad de un gran pueblo, al paso que este tiene siempre el derecho de procurarse aquella por cuautos medius pueda. Mr. Mallary's bill tor alterating the El honorable congreso numbre ayer para mode of appraising imported woollens gobernador y vice, a los ciudadanos Pedro is the more unequivocally condemned José Echeverria, y general graduado José the more it is examined. We take it upon us to say that a more unjust measure was never laid before Congress. The whole design of the bill from one end to the other is evidently to entrap the importer. Observe how artfully its provisions are contrived for this purpose. In the first place the owner or consignee of the goods is obliged to ninguno ecsisten causas legales. ¿Lo serán furnish to the Coilector an invoice of their prices at the place where bought For what purpose is this invoice to be furnished? That the Collection may compute the duties on the goods at the prices there sat down? No, for he uses the estimate of the appraisers to compute the duties. To guide the appraisers in their estimate? No, for they are not permitted even to know its contents. For what purpose then we ask again is it furnished? Simply then to entrap and ruin the owner of the cloths simply that it may be compared with abraza una gran variedad de cosas, egecu- the ejumate of the appraisers, and if tadas por ei or. casion, and to which you give no credit. Yet if this account does not agree with the conjecture of your appraisers you make it a pretext to seize my cargo, and to mulet me in addition with the gnormous duties which you impose on importation. Why then do you not excuse me from producting a paper to which you pay no need, except as you can make it the instrument of my ruin?" How the Committee on Manufactures could find it in their conciences to present such a bill for the adoption of the house is almost impossible for us to conceive.-We can apologize for them in no other way than by supposing that they were under some unhappy and sinister influence. The provisions of the bill are such as could be dictated only by the most deadly hostility to commerce, and we are willing to believe that they were adopted by the commistee at suggestion of some of its mulignant enenties, rather than devised by themselves. The passage of the bilt will prove the destruction of all fair (Ev. Post.) commerce.
