Entered according to Act of Congress, in the year 1847, by EDWIN HALL, in the Clerk's Office of the District Court of the United States, for the District of Connecticut.

ADVERTISEMENT TO THE READER.

THE design of the compiler of this work has not been to write a History of Norwalk; but to copy from the Records whatever matters appeared to be of any historical interest; and in all cases to let the Records speak for themselves.

The genealogical registers are very imperfect; and if any families are omitted, it is because they were not put upon the public records; and because the compiler, after repeatedly advertising, and after some months' delay, has failed to obtain them.

It was the compiler's design, strictly to limit these registers to the families of such as were married before the year 1800; but during his absence some names were forwarded directly to the printer; and among them a very few families of later date, which were inserted and printed before the compiler had an opportunity to correct the error.

The compiler is aware that much more might have been accomplished, by searching through the numerous volumes of records of later years; by copying the monuments in the burying grounds; and by researches after the old records and registers of private families. But he has had no time for such an extended research; he did not consider the patronage sufficient to warrant the additional expense; and if he had not failed in his efforts, for several years, to enlist some one else in a labor which he deemed so desirable, he would himself never have undertaken it at all. He therefore trusts that all concerned, instead of complaining that no more is given them, will be thankful that so much is rescued from the oblivion to which it was hastening; and will use whatever efforts they deem proper, to secure what is yet left behind.

HISTORICAL RECORDS OF NORWALK.

INTRODUCTORY.

THE TIME OF SETTLEMENT.

TRUMBULL, in his History of Connecticut, vol. i., p. 115, says, that in 1640, "Mr. Ludlow made a purchase of the eastern part of Norwalk," "Capt. Patrick bought the middle part of the town," and that "A few families seem to have planted themselves in the town about the time of these purchases." On p. 202, under the date of 1651, he says, "Though the eastern and middle parts of Norwalk had been purchased more than ten years, yet there had been only a few scattering inhabitants within its limits." Trumbull is minute and accurate in his dates concerning the purchases, and in the date of the order of the General Court for the settlement [1650]. In addition to the public records, he had access to other sources of information, which are now lost, viz. the "Manuscripts of Rev. Moses Dickinson," to which he refers, p. 202. But on what authority he says that "A few families seem to have planted themselves in the town about the time of these purchases" [1640], and that at the time of its regular settlement [1651], there were "a few scattering inhabitants" within the limits of the town, I know not. I find no recognition of the presence of such prior inhabitants on the town records. On the 15th of February, 1651, the planters were here, as appears from the deed from RUNCKINHEAGE. Some of them, at least, were probably here the year before. There is a tradition that several of them spent the winter here.

THE FIRST MINISTER.

In the great Bible of Capt. Hezekiah Betts, who died in 1837, aged 77, I find, among other historical memoranda, entered by his own hand, that THOMAS HANFORD began to preach to the people of Norwalk about the year 1648. As Capt. Betts was so curious about such matters, and so accurate, I had entertained no doubt that his record was correct, and so published it; but as the people who agreed for the settlement with Mr. Ludlowe, in 1650, engaged to "invite an orthodox and approved minister with all convenient speed," it is clear that Mr. Hanford was not here in 1648. Trumbull is doubtless correct, when he says, p. 299, "the same year [1652] Mr. Thomas Hanford began to preach at Norwalk, and some time after a church was formed in that town, and Mr. Hanford ordained pastor."

THE NAME.

The common tradition concerning the name, is the account given by Barber in his Historical Collections, p. 392, that the name NORWALK is derived from the one day's "North-walk" that limited the northern extent of the purchase from the Indians. It is wonderful that so awkward and improbable a fancy ever gained credit. Norwalk is the old Indian name. The Indians were called "the Norwake Indians" and the river bore the name of "Norwake River," when the English first came to these shores. Mr. Ludlowe's purchase in 1640 was from "The Indians of Norwalke," and the land is described as lying between "the twoe rivers, the one called the Norwalke, the other Soakatuck."* In the earliest town records the name is written Norwalke (the w probably silent, as in Warwick). Our aged people retain the ancient (and probably true) pronunciation, Norruck. Bradley's Register says that the early Colony Records call it Norrwake.

THE RECORDS.

The first record of town proceedings is under the date of 1653. The first book of grants and deeds is entire; but it was evidently not begun till some 20 years after the first settlement. From 1653, the record of town proceedings appears to be full and complete. The first books are much worn, and in some places the writing is so much defaced as to be illegible. The remaining books are in a good state of preservation.

The early Church Records are irrecoverably lost. Phebe Comstock, aged 83 years, informs me that she used often to visit at Dr. BURNET'S, and at one time desired to see the Church Records. Dr. BURNET threw open a book-case, and said: "There: whenever any of my parishioners wish to consult the Church Records, there they are at their service." She often consulted them. There were three large folio volumes, one kept by each of the three ministers, Mr. HANFORD, Mr. BUCKINGHAM, and Mr. DICKINSON; each volume filled with writing. She says that after Dr. BURNET's death, in 1806, these volumes were left in a basket in the old parsonage, and were gnawed and eaten through and through by rats, and quite destroyed. The TOWN RECORDS* are invaluable.

PLAN OF THE ANCIENT SETTLEMENT.

The ground-plot (except the river and salt-meadows) is taken from an actual survey by THOMAS BENEDICT, 3d.† The division of the lots I have made out from the "TABLE OF HOMELOTS," compiled from the records. As these records were not made till some twenty years after the settlement (some of them much later) during which time several changes had occurred; as neither the length nor breadth of any lot is mentioned, and the quantity given only by estimate; and as some of the original grants were never put on record, and are mentioned only incidentally in the boundaries of the other lots, it will readily be seen that there was no small difficulty in making out the plan with desirable accuracy. There are, however, several fixed landmarks: the roads and the coast are the same. The site of the meeting-house is certain. The lots correspond with the description in the "Table;" they fill up the space assigned. There are other corroborative evidences of the accuracy of the plan. I showed to an aged descendant of the Fitch family, the lot which THOMAS FITCH bought of

* But they are kept in a wooden building, without any security against fire; and should a conflagration occur in that long and hazardous range of wooden buildings, they will, in all likelihood, be destroyed.

† The map of the parts east of the river up to the churches is from a survey of Mr. BENEDICT's.

EDWARD CHURCH. "Oh, now I remember," said she, "that my grandfather used to call it 'the Church lot,' though I had entirely forgotten it." In making out the plan I found it impossible to fill out the space south of MATTHEW SENTION'S and GEORGE ABBOTT'S lot, without making some proportionably too large. I took the plan to several aged people, who at once told me that the open space below these lots lay open to common even within their recollection. Mr. SAMUEL FITCH went with me on to the ground, and pointed out the boundaries. I flatter myself that whoever will compare the plan with the "TABLE OF HOMELOTS," and then go over the ground with the plan open in his hand, will be satisfied with its general accuracy.

“THE DIREFUL SWAMP FIGHT.” [See p. 63.]

[This was in king Philip's war. After some successes of Philip, there was a general rising of the Indians against the English, for an extent of nearly three hundred miles. The Indians were perfectly acquainted with the situation of every English settlement. They lurked at every unguarded pass—crept by night into their barns, gardens, and out-houses—concealed themselves behind fences—laid in wait in the fields. The whole country, save some few towns, was a wilderness. Parties of Indians would plunder and burn a town, carry the inhabitants away captive, and then retire into the forests and swamps. Brookfield had been burnt; Hadley, Deerfield, and Northfield had been attacked, and numbers killed: Captain Lathrop and ninety or a hundred men had been ambushed and slaughtered between Hadley and Deerfield. Springfield had been attacked and partly destroyed. The Narragansetts, who had made a treaty with the English, now harbored their enemies; and many of their warriors, after having been engaged in these marauding expeditions, had returned wounded. There was the clearest evidence that the Narragansetts were preparing to join openly in the war. They could muster two thousand warriors, and had a thousand muskets. Should the Indians all engage in the spring, in such a warfare as they had hitherto carried on, there was scarcely any hope, but that nearly all the English settlements must be cut off in detail, without the possibility of successful resistance.

It was therefore determined to attack them in the winter, though such an enterprise was full of hazard. Should any disaster befall the troops of the colonies, it might be difficult or impossible to send them succors or supplies, on account of the deep and pathless snows, and the exposures of the winter and the wilderness, besides the danger from the Indians. But dreadful necessity compelled them to make the attempt.

Massachusetts furnished 527 men, Plymouth 158, and Connecticut 300 men, and 150 Mohegan and Pequot Indians. The Connecticut troops had marched from Stonington to Pettysquamscot. Here they expected shelter, but the Indians had burned the buildings and killed the inhabitants only a day or two before. This was on the 17th December. The weather was cold and stormy. The next day they marched, and formed a junction with the Massachusetts and Plymouth forces. Here again they were obliged to spend the night uncovered in the open field. The next morning, at break of day, the army marched towards the Narragansett fort, which was in a deep tangled swamp, fifteen miles distant. The snow was deep, and the weather extremely cold. At one o'clock they reached the enemy's fort. It was on rising ground, in the midst of the swamp, surrounded with palisades, and, outside of these, with a hedge of brush a rod thick. The only entrance which appeared practicable, was over a log which lay five or six feet from the ground; and this entrance was defended in front by a fortress of logs, "and on the left by a flanker." The Massachusetts troops, who were in front, mounted the log and rushed on. A few entered the fort. The fire from the loghouse and flanker was so hot, that a sufficient number could not force their way through to support them, and those who had entered were cut down. The deep snow, and the tangled thicket, rendered it impossible for the whole body of troops to come up at once; and it was a considerable time before all could be brought into action.

At length, the Connecticut troops, who formed the rear, mounted over the log and rushed into the fort. Some others forced their way to the opposite side of the fort, and succeeded in making good their entrance, while the attention of the enemy was engaged in front. A long, bloody, and dubious conflict ensued; but the enemy were at length overcome; and what were not killed in the battle fled to the swamp. Three hundred Indian warriors perished on the spot. Many were wounded, and perished from their wounds and from the cold. Nearly the same number were taken prisoners. It was a dreadful day.

The victory was dearly bought. Six captains fell in the action, and eighty men were killed or mortally wounded. One hundred and fifty were wounded, who afterwards recovered. After burning the fort, and all that it contained, the little army, just at the setting of the sun, carrying about two hundred dead and wounded, marched back to their head-quarters: The night was cold and stormy. It was midnight before they got in. None could have their wounds dressed till they reached their head-quarters. Many died, who might otherwise have recovered. Many perished with cold and fatigue. Well might the fathers of this town call it "The dreadful swamp fight."

Blackleach Jesup was chosen to supply the families of ye soldiers of the Continental army, in addition to the former committee.

Whereas his Excellency the Governor, on receipt of the articles of the confederation published by Congress, for the approbation of the several assemblies of the United States, sent a copy of the same to this town, in order for the town to show their sense relative thereto.

It is voted by this town, that they are sensible of the great difficulty of concerting any plan of union with so many different states, under so many different circumstances, free from objection, and without being liable to exceptions; yet the articles contained in said confederation generally appear to this town to be well framed, and calculated to form a union for the general benefit of the whole; yet, notwithstanding, this town beg leave to submit to ye consideration of the General Assembly whether the method of supplying the common treasury, contained in the eighth article, and the mode of raising a continental army, in the ninth article, is so just and equitable as may be devised.

Comstock, & Matthew Merwine, were chosen a committee to purchase cloathing for the soldiers belonging to this town in the Continental Army; ——— and directed to hire money on interest to purchase the same; and the town engages that the same shall be made good to them, with interest, as the same was at the time of hiring.

A Guard for the Defence of Norwalk.

Feb. 18, 1782. Voted that a sufficient number of men be raised, by inlistment, for a sufficient guard in this town.

Col. Thos. Fitch, Col. Matthew Mead, Capt. James Richards, Capt. Eliph. Lockwood, & Mr. Hooker St. John, were chosen a committee to ascertain the number of men wanted for a guard, and lay a plan for raising the same.

To the inhabitants of the town of Norwalk now assembled in town meeting: We the subscribers being appointed a committee to lay a plan for raising a number of guards sufficient to defend this town, with a sum of twelve hundred and forty pounds lawful money granted to this town by the General Assembly for that purpose; beg leave to Report: That there be forthwith raised by inlistment for the town, of six months unless sooner discharged, ninety men including corporals; and that there be appointed one Captain, and one Ensign for the purpose of defending this town; and that a Captain have £6 lawful money per month; an Ensign £3 5 0 per month, a Corporal £2 4 0, and a Private £2 0 0 per month; and that we find that the said sum will amount, for six months, to the sum of Eleven Hundred and fifty three pounds Ten Shillings: and that 18 be stationed at the lower end of the town on the East side of the river; and 18 at Ketchum's, one half thereof to keep centry at the going on at Stephens Island; and 18 at the Old Well, and 18 at Flax Hill, and 18 at Middlesex; and that officers or privates, at their election, have one half of their wages in provisions at the following prices, vizt.: fresh beef 3½d, salt beef 4d, flour at 2½d per pound; and that there be a Corporal to each class; and that the officers be appointed by the authority and select men; all of which is submitted by your most obed't humble serv'ts.

Increase of Wages to the Guard.

Aug. 1, 1782. Whereas the wages given by this town to the Guard to serve for the defence of this town for the term of five months unless sooner discharged, are found insufficient to induce a sufficient number to engage in s^d service, it is therefore voted and agreed by this town, that the officers already engaged in said service receive, in addition to the wages given, the usual rations for such officers hereafter; and that the soldiers already engaged, receive from this time, in addition, rations as usual, and that those who shall hereafter enlist into s^d service to the 20th of August next, shall receive 40s per month to that time, unless sooner discharged, and rations; and that such a number of s^d guard do duty, in the day time, as the Captain shall judge proper; and at all times when he shall judge it necessary for the safety and defence of the town.

Hiring Soldiers.

May 6th, 1782. Voted that there shall be a committee appointed to hire three soldiers to serve in the continental army for the term of one year.

Applying for Relief on account of the burning of the town by the enemy.

Aug. 11, 1783. This town taking into consideration the many and great distresses, difficulties, and losses a number of the inhabitants have sustained, met with, and are reduced to, by means of the enemy's burning up, destroying and plundering them of their most necessary property during the late war with Great Britain; and the very great injury and damage done to the town by means thereof; and that the same was brought on the town during the course of a war undertaken by the direction and order of the inhabitants of this State united with the other States, and the common consent of the inhabitants of this State, for the defence and security of the common liberties, privileges, and freedom of this State; in which war it was then understood and fully expected the misfortunes accidentally thrown on any particular part during the course of the war, as it was undertaken for the defence and security of the whole, and considering that it is altogether just, equitable, and righteous so to be:—have thereupon agreed and voted that Col. Stephen St. John, Esq., be agent for the town, to make use of such measures as he shall judge proper, by memorial in conjunction with other suffering towns, or separately, to the General Assembly, or otherwise, in order to obtain redress of the town's grievances sustained and met with during the course of the war, and for a repair of the damages done by the enemy, to be made to the individual sufferers; excepting to those sufferers who are known to be inimical to the liberties and independence of the United States of America.

SOCIETY RECORDS.

EXTRACTS FROM THE RECORDS OF THE FIRST CONGREGATIONAL SOCIETY.

Calling the Society Meeting apart from the Town.

To Lt. Matthew Seymore in Norwalk Greeting, &c.

Pursuant to an act of ye Generall assembly, passed in Oct. 1726, Entitled An act for directing how societies shall meet and form themselves after other societies are drawn off from them.

In his Majestie's name you are hereby required to warn all ye inhabitants of ye Prime Ancient Society in ye township of Norwalk, to meet together on ye first Fryday of March next ensuing ye date hereof, at eight of ye clock in ye morning, then and there to act any thing proper and lawful for them to act when so met together.

JOSEPH PLATT,

Dated at Norwalk, Feb. ye 27,

Justice Ps.

Annoque Domini, 1726-7.

(The society met according to the above warning,) made choice of ye Worshipfull Joseph Platt, Esq., Moderator.

At the same meeting it was proposed to the society whether any thing should be done about obtaining a suitable person to supply ye vacancy of our pulpit. Voted in ye affirmative.

The society considering ye awfull frowns of heaven upon them for months past, and are still obvious, concludes it their incumbent duty to set apart a day for the humbling and abasing their souls before the Lord by fasting and prayer for redress; By their major vote do appoint Wednesday, ye 15th of this instant March for that solemnity; and desire Rev. Mr. Davenport, Mr. Cook, Mr. Sackett, Mr. Hauley, and Mr. Sturgeon, to grant us their presence and assistance in carrying on ye work of s^d day.

(Mr. Buckingham's rate due last year voted to be paid as heretofore, "any act of ye town to ye contrary notwithstanding.")

Association of Ministers.

March 16, 1726. The society determines to have an Association Quorum, at least of ye Ministers of this county called, and to associate with us on Wednesday ye 22d of this instant, March, to advise, direct, and guide us in ye weighty affair before us.

Questions for Advice.

March 23, 1726. According to adjournment ye society met. The Revd Mr. Cooke, Mr. Chapman, Mr. Sacket, & Mr. Hauley associated with the society.

The society, by major vote, desires ye Revd. Association to give them an answer to ye following question, viz. Whether it be proper or expedient that ye Revd Mr. Buckingham be introduced into ye work of ye ministry in this society or not.

The answer from y^e Revd. Association.

The Prime Ancient Society in Norwalk moving this Question for resolution to us ye subscribers associated at their desire in Norwalk March 23, 1726—7, viz. Whether, &c.—We are of opinion that inasmuch as ye Revd Mr. Buckingham hath resigned his pastoral charge here, considering ye distressed circumstances of ye place, and that under the countenance of ye late Council in this place, who also have signified themselves persuaded that the interest of religion and edification of souls are the great ends of ye Gospel ministry, and sorrowfully affected with the consideration of those ends in this place being greatly obstructed and disadvantaged, We are of opinion that it is not proper or expedient that the sd Revd. Mr. Buckingham be introduced into ye work of ye ministry in this society, for ye reasons above alleged.

SAML. COOKE,
DANIEL CHAPMAN,
THOMAS HAULEY,
RICHARD SACKET.

Advice about procuring a minister.

There was nominated by some persons in the meeting, viz. Mr. John Curtice of Wethersfield, Mr. Gilbert Tenant in ye Jerseys, Mr. Dunbar of Boston, and Mr. Chauncey, Jr., of Hadley ; and ye Society crave of the Revd. Association their particular direction concerning them, or any other that they shall see meet to direct to us as a person to be applyd to, with an invitation to a probationary improvement among us in ye ministry.

The return from y^e Revd. Association.

We ye subscribers associate at Norwalk March 23, 1726—7, being applied to by ye Prime Ancient Society in sd Norwalk for advice and direction, &c. * * * We are of opinion that as to Mr. Tennant now in the improvement in ye ministry in the New Jersey, it may not be so proper to make application to him for the supply of a vacancy here for this reason, viz. Because of ye paucity of Gospel labourers in those parts ; which requires us rather to wish their increase than to take any methods for ye decrease of their numbers ; especially considering our ministry from time to time earnestly solicited to send Gospel labourers unto those parts, more than we have been capable of supplying them with ; and do advise that this society would soon as may be, endeavor to inform themselves whether there may be a probability of obtaining Mr. Dunbar of Boston; and upon such a probability attained, to make application to him for ye purpose afore sd; and if there shall not be a probability of obtaining the sd Mr. Dunbar, we advise that the society make application either to ye said Mr. Curtice or Mr. Chauncey, as upon consulting the ministers next neighbouring either of them, they may be encouraged.

SAML. COOKE,

Sending for a minister.

May 10, 1727. The Society * * determines to send a meet person to Mr. Chauncey Jr. of Hadley, as upon consulting ye ministers neighbouring to him he may be encouraged; and in case Mr. Chauncey cannot be obtained, then to apply himself to ye sd ministers for advice to some other suitable person to apply to, and that he do his utmost endeavor to obtain one according to such direction, or to act about ye whole according to the best of his discretion, to supply ye vacancy in our pulpit, at least for a probationary improvement in the ministry among us.

* * Mr. James Brown to proceed upon ye business as above expressed.

Revd. Moses Dickinson invited.

June 26, 1727. The Society by major vote agree to give the Revd. Mr. Moses Dickinson a call to supply the vacancy in our pulpit.

* * Made choice of Capt. Joseph Platt, Esq., to go to ye Revd. Gentleman, and endeavor to obtain him pursuant to s^d vote.

Made choice of Mr. John Bartlett, Capt. Joseph Platt, and Mr. Thos. Fitch Junr., to provide for, & to treat with y^e s^d gentleman when he comes.

Call to Mr. Dickinson.

July 19, 1727. The Society having had report made from y^e late Committee of y^e circumstances of y^e Revd. Mr. Moses Dickinson, who hath been with us upon a probationary improvement, with which report they are well satisfied as to the gentleman's circumstances; and do hereby give the s^d Revd. Gentleman a call to y^e work of y^e ministry among us; provided y^e Revd. Elders now convened in this place give their approbation thereunto, voted in y^e affirmative 75, Contra 39.

Advice asked of the Association.

The society determines to move to the Revd. Elders for a resolve respecting the circumstances of y^e Revd. Mr. Dickinson, and whether they advise to the call above s^d.

There being severall persons of this Society under scruples respecting the relation they stand in to y^e Revd. Mr. Buckingham, that is to say, whether s^d gentleman be regularly discharged from his pastorall relation to y^e Chh. and people of this place; the Society taking this matter into consideration, do move to y^e Revd. Elders convened, that they would give their opinion in y^e premises, that such persons may receive satisfaction in that matter.

Answer of the Association.

July 20, 1727. The society receiving from y^e Revd. Elders associated, an answer to y^e foregoing matter of scruple, and it was read off as followeth:

A Quorum of Fairfield Association Occasionally convened in Norwalk July 19th, 1727.

Whereas it is Signified to us from ye records of ye Society that there are severall persons of this Society under Scruples respecting the relation they stand in to ye Revd. Mr. Buckingham. That is to say whether ye said Gentleman be Regularly Discharged from his pastorall Relation to ye Church and people of this place ; and that our opinion in this case is desired.

In answer whereunto we Declare this to be our Opinion that the Revd. Mr. Buckingham hath been regularly Discharged from his pastorall Relation to ye Church and people of this place ; And offer upon it as followeth ; viz. (1) The Condition of this Church and people hath been for a considerable time grievously perplex^d & Divided ; whereof a very great part have been so distanced in affection from their Late pastor, that the Cure of it after a Considerable time of Tryall, hath appeared even to be Dispaired of ; Whereas also it appeared to us, that Saveing Ends of ye Gospel Ministry here may not generally be attained, which in ye Judgment of ye late Counsel and in our Opinion is Cause Justifying ye pastor's Resigning his pastorall Office, as to ye Exercise of it in ye place of his Improvement ; We propose the following Scriptures to be well Considered. Ephe. 4 : 11, 12, Our ascended Lord gave ye gifts of y^e Ministry to men for y^e Edifying y^e Body of Christ : Where y^e Edifying y^e Body is expressly Set down as a main End of Gospel Ministry. Now the principle End being Generally Obstructed and that after a Convenient Time of Waiting, may be well interpreted as a call from above to y^e Minister that hath been improved, Humbly to yield himself to ——— that Christ our Lord and ye Interest of immortal Souls may increase and flourish ; John 3d, 30th. We have also considered James 3d, 16th, Where envying and strife is, there is Confusion and every evil work. Now this we have thought ye Malancholly Condition of this Place ; & have been Ready to account the Method of ye Council in their late Doings accepting ye Revd. Gentleman's Resignation, & supplying the Sanction of their authority thereunto, to be a proper and probable Remedy of ye unhappy Distemper of this place. (2) The Revd. Mr. Buckingham, as we understand, appearing in the late Council, affected with ye Sorrowful state of ye place and ye improbability of his future service here, Did Seriously, Solemnly, & willingly resign his pastorall Relation to ye Church and people of the place ; which was in his power to Do so far as Concerns an act of his. And the s^d Resignation being willingly made by him, we apprehend no injury Done him, Because an injury to a willing mind cannot be Done. We propose John 3d, 30th, he must increase, but I must Decrease. Which example of that Great man, than whom a greater was not Born of Women, We do understand presidential even to ye ministers of ye Gospel in our Times, when this continuing in the exercise the Gospel ministry may be justly thought to interfere with the Generall Spirituall good of Precious Souls.

3. The Resignation of ye Revd. Mr. Buckingham in ye presence of ye society's com'tee, before ye council, ye authority whereof we suppose not proper for ye good people of this place to question, who have come into our ecclesiastical constitution and accepted our articles of administering Chh. discipline ; yet for ye satisfaction of any of our people of this place, we mention ye fifteenth Chapter of ye Acts; and thence observe, that ye council at Jerusalem (ye pattern for Chh. councils in Gospel times) in the difficulties that had arisen, in ye church of Antioch, &c., did undertake to determine that difference, in authoritative way. Acts 15: 2. "To whom we gave no such commandment." Now commandment is a word necessarily implying authority—see also verse 28. "It seemed good to ye Holy Ghost & to us to lay no greater burden," &c.; which expression to us implies authority, carrying an obligation in it on ye Chh. and people that applyd to ye council, see also verse 29; "From which if ye keep yourselves ye shall do well;" whence followeth yt ye Chh., which applied to the council at Jerusalem, if they did not observe the order of council, they should not do well, for that ye conclusion of council were ye highest authority, not to be controlled or disputed.

4. The Resignation of ye Revd. Mr. Buckingham being authorized by his proper judges, that is to say, ye council of ye elders & Chhs. of this county, the bond of his relation to this society, as pastor, is dissolved & ceaseth: (whereupon it followeth that ye bond of ye relation of this Chh. and every member thereof to ye sd Mr. Buckingham, their late pastor, is also dissolved and ceaseth.)

Unto ye above we only add as ye Rev. Mr. Buckingham hath formally declared himself willing to be directed by ye ministers of this county; now then as we account it on his part a good observance of order, for the future to forbear the exercise of ye pastoral office, to say, preaching and administering any sacraments in this place; so also, ye good & Christian people of this place will, in our opinion, show themselves men of order to contribute their part to such a direction of our association.

Our thoughts in relation to ye motion of this society to the Revd. Mr. Moses Dickinson, we offer as followeth, vizt :

That we are all glad of an opportunity now to signify the great respect and value we have for ye Revd. Mr. Moses Dickinson, and the satisfying prospect we have of his well answering ye necessities of this destitute society, and with all cheerfulness assure ye good people thereof, of our good approbation of this society's having their eyes upon the Revd. and valuable gentleman for ye work of ye ministry here, whensoever it appears to us that ye condition or proviso of ye Presbytery releasing him from a pastoral relation to ye people of Maidenhead, &c. appears absolutely & in fact to be by judgment of that Presbytery completed.

The society by a vote of Eighty eight, none appearing in the negative, do invite and call ye Revd. gentleman to ye work and labor of ye ministry among them.

Agreed and concluded to defray the charge of transportation of ye sd Mr. Dickinson and family, whensoever he may be obtained to move unto us.

(A committee appointed for this purpose and to provide a house, &c.)

* * Appointed ye Worshipfull Joseph Platt, Esq. to attend ye Revd. Mr. Dickinson home into ye Jersies, and also to endeavour the obtaining from ye Revd. Presbytery there, the Revd. Mr. Dickinson's discharge from ye Chh. and people of Maidenhead.

(On the society book is recorded at length the minutes of the Fairfield Association, in a meeting at Wilton,

Aug. 29, 1727, in which they approve of the doings of the council at Norwalk; and it appearing that Mr. Dickinson was now dismissed by his Presbytery, the association advise the society of Norwalk to repeat their call; which they did in full form on the 1st of Nov. 1727.

Difficulty with Mr. Buckingham.

Jan. 10, 1727-8. The society grants ten pounds to Mr. James Brown, for his service at ye General Court, in answering ye memorial against the select men, preferred at New Haven in October last to the General Court by Mr. Stephen Buckingham. (Also granted 20s. to Lt. Samuel Comstock, which he paid to Mr. Fowler, lawyer, to assist in ye cause abovesaid.)

May 10, 1728. Made choice of Joseph Platt, Esq., to represent the inhabitants of ye said society, to answer ye memorial of Mr. Stephen Buckingham. Made choice of Thomas Fitch, Esq., Mr. James Brown, and John Copp, Committee to prepare what is needful to be sent to Capt. Platt, who is now at ye said Assembly; by a safe hand, if such can be obtained, or else to send a man directly from hence to Capt. Platt.

At a meeting of ye Prime ancient Society of ye Town of Norwalk, convened May 7, 1729, * * Made choice of Mr. James Brown and Thos. Fitch, Esq., to appear in behalf of the society at the General Court, to be held at Hartford this present month; there to answer a Petition exhibited to sd court against the town of Norwalk, by the Revd. Mr. Stephen Buckingham.

The society impowers Mr. James Brown (that if he finds ye abovenamed Mr. Fitch engaged on ye petitioner's side), to employ or improve (if he see it needful) an attorney at Hartford to aid and assist him in ye premises.

Rev. Mr. Caner of the Church of England.*

Dec. 22d, 1729. The society, by major vote, determines that a receipt from under the hand of ye Revd. Mr. Caner, brought by any of ye church of England in this society (so declaring themselves, and attending as ye law* in that case mentions) for so much paid him as

* At a General assembly held in Hartford, May, 1127, it was enacted * * That, "If it so happen that there be a society of the Church of England, where there is a person in orders according to the Canons of the Church of England settled, and abiding among them, and performing divine service, so near to any person that hath declared himself of the Church of England, that he can conveniently, and doth attend the public worship there; then the collector, having first indifferently levied the tax as aforesaid, shall deliver the taxes collected of such persons declaring themselves, and attending as aforesaid, unto the minister of the Church of England living near unto such persons; which minister shall have full power to receive and recover the same, in order to his support in the place assigned to him."

(The same Act gave power to any society of the Church of England to levy on themselves greater taxes at their own discretion, for the support of their minister.)

"And the Parishioners of the Church of England, attending as aforesaid, are hereby excused from paying any taxes for the building meeting houses for the present established churches of this Government."

The General Assembly held at Hartford, May 8, 1727, enacted, "That where there are such dissenters as are commonly called Quakers, whodo attend the worship of God in such way as is allowed by said act [in the 7th of Queen Anne, A. D. 1708], within this colony, or are so situated that they may and do attend the service out of the limits of this government, in any such meeting aforesaid; and shall produce a certificate from such a society, of their having joined themselves to them: and that they do belong unto their society; that he or they shall be excused from contributing to the support of the established ministry, and from contributing or paying any tax levied for the building any meeting house or houses, in the society where they dwell."

The General Assembly held at New Haven, Oct. 9, 1729, also granted, "That for the future, the same privilege and exemption from the charges aforesaid as was granted by this assembly in May last unto the people called Quakers, is hereby allowed unto them [the people called Baptists], under the like regulations; any law, usage, or custom to the contrary notwithstanding.

"At this time," says Prof. Kingsley, p. 95, "there were in Connecticut, but two or three congregations of Episcopalians, and two of Baptists, all of which were small; and no congregation of Quakers."

* The schools were managed by the Prime Ancient Society; their votes concerning districts, school houses, &c., at their annual meetings being put on record from time to time.

A colleague for Mr. Dickinson.

[In Feb. 1764, the society, with the concurrence of Mr. Dickinson, voted to take measures to procure a colleague; provided that means for the support of such colleague could be furnished by subscription, without laying any burden upon the society as such. In March report was made to the society that such subscriptions were furnished.]

Rev. William Tennent.

[Mr. Tennent having preached some Sabbaths on probation, the society by vote, unanimously invited him to settle as colleague with Mr. Dickinson, Nov. 13, 1764.]

Mr. Leaming's Rate.

Dec. 17, 1764. Thomas Hanford appointed to collect Mr. Leaming's rate.

The Presbytery of New Brunswick.

[Mr. Tennent wished to retain his connection with the Presbytery; which the society, by mutual understanding, allowed, provided Mr. Tennent should "unite with us and with the Association in the Ecclesiastical constitution of the colony." The Presbytery, however, understood it otherwise, and appointed a time, and a committee of their own, for the installation. Whereupon, June 12, 1765, after a suitable preamble, the society voted thus]:—"This society, by a copy from the minutes of the Presbytery, are informed, that Mr. Tennent declared his acceptance of the call of the society, upon condition that he shall still continue a member of the synod of New York and Philadelphia, and of New Brunswick Presbytery ; * * * but at the same time professed his desire and intention to hold communion, and be in connection, with the Revd. association aforesaid, as far as is consistent with his continuing in his relation to said synod : and that thereupon the said Presbytery had presumed that this church and society complied with the condition annexed by Mr. Tennent, to his acceptance of their call (which was made on very different terms) ; and accordingly have assumed to themselves a right to appoint and did appoint the time of installment, and a committee of their own to officiate therein. On consideration of all which, this society is of opinion, that the annexing the condition aforesaid to the acceptance of the call aforesaid, is a proposal subversive of the foundation on which the agreement and proceeding of the society were predicated ; and the proceedings of the Presbytery in consequence thereof is an attempt to draw the church and society off from the constitution in which they are united, and to lead them to renounce the relations they stand in, and esteem too sacred to be violated ; and do also view such appointment of the time and persons for installment, as an imposition on the society ; and therefore is to be treated with neglect. Therefore, the society do declare, that they cannot comply with the abovesaid conditions and appointment ; but are obliged to look on Mr. Tennent's annexing such embarrassment to his acceptance, tantamount to a denial of the invitation made him, &c., &c. [In consequence of this, the society appointed a committee to rent the House and land which they had purchased as a parsonage for the Colleague pastor. An explanation followed: Mr. Tennent declared that he never expected or intended that the society should be under the power of the Presbytery ; and signified his readiness to accept the call, if this explanation should prove satisfactory. Whereupon the society voted their approval and desired his settlement, adding, in their vote, June 19, 1765, that “ Nevertheless, it is expected, that before his installment, a certificate be produced from the Revd. Presbytery aforesaid, of Mr. Tennent’s being released from them, agreeably to the tenor of the above proposals, in order to make way for a regular settlement here, and a full union with the association here, on the constitution of this colony.]

Repairing the Meeting House.

Dec. 11, 1769. Put to vote, whether the society will repair the meeting house according to the report of those persons desired to view the same; that is to say, to put on a new roof, and new side the house, and to make new window frames, so far as should be necessary. Passed in the affirmative.

Dec. 15, 1771. The committee heretofore appointed to repair the meeting house, are requested to do the same in the month of May next, &c., * * and then to colour ye sd house.

Mr. Tennent called to Charleston, S. C.

Jan. 8, 1772. Whereas the Rev. Mr. Treat of New York, applied to the committee of this society, desiring them to call the society together, that he might inform them that a call is presented to the Rev. Mr. Tennent in Charles Town in South Carolina, and to acquaint the society with the reasons for the application made to Mr. Tennent, and also to know whether the society will concur with Mr. Tennent in calling a council to deliberate upon the affairs of the call; and also further signified that it was the earnest desire of the Revd. Mr. Tennent that the society should be convened for the purpose aforesaid; and whereas the society being now convened in consequence of sd requests; and the Revd Mr. Treat having informed this meeting of the call from sd church in Charles Town, &c.

The question was put whether this society will concur with the Revd. Mr. Tennent in calling a council for the purpose aforesd. The society having taken these matters into consideration, and seriously deliberated upon them, are of opinion, that as there doth not appear any cause arising in the society, or any matter subsisting between Mr. Tennent and the society that makes it necessary or expedient for the society to desire a council, Therefore the society Resolve the above question in the negative.

The Consociation.

Jan. 14, 1772. Whereas the Consociation of the Western District of Fairfield County, now met in this society to consider and determine a case of no less importance than the expediency of the Rev. Mr. Tennent's dismissal from the pastoral relation to this church and society, in consequence of a call, &c., * * * * have notified this society of sd meeting, so that they may have an opportunity to be heard if they have any thing to offer in the case. * * * * Voted and agreed by this society, that the reasons offered for Mr. Tennent's dismissal are altogether insufficient, &c., * * * and that they are entirely against Mr. Tennent's being dismissed, and do not consent to the sd Mr. Tennent's dismissal from us; and that a copy of this vote be presented to sd council speedily, to signify our minds in ye aforesaid case.

Mr. Tennent dismissed.

Jan. 22, 1772. [The society considering at length the reasons offered by the Consociation; and] “Having seriously weighed the several matters and proceedings” with “the effects and consequences which may probably follow a non compliance,” “are of opinion that considering the same, and the steps taken to effect it, has rendered Mr. Tennent’s usefulness in this society much less than it otherwise might have been, if not altogether at an end, Therefore, in compliance with his earnest request, and in deference to the opinion and advice of the venerable Council, &c. * * do signify that if he desires the council to be convened, or shall convene the same for their approbation thereof, or for his discharge from any other relation or connexions, this society has nothing to object.

Supplies for the Pulpit.

[In Oct. 1773, Mr. Cotton was employed to preach till the next annual meeting; and on Dec. 13, 1773, “The committee appointed to look out for another minister, to preach on probation, are desired to return the society’s thanks to Mr. Cotton, for his good service here, and to pay him honorably for the same.”]

[In Dec. 6, 1776, Mr. Kittletass was preaching here. In May 11, 1778, The society voted to invite Mr. Fenn to preach; in Dec. 1778 to invite Mr. Robinson. April 1780, The committee were directed to hire Mr. Mourdock; Aug. 27, 1782, to invite Mr. Tullar; Dec. 9, 1782, voted that Mr. Tullar shall be invited to settle here as a minister in this society; but Dec. 26, 1782, this vote was reconsidered and made void, "by reason there were but few people at the former meeting."

Sept. 5, 1783, desired the committee to invite Mr. William Lockwood to preach in the society. June 17, 1784, Mr. Spalding had been employed, and was desired to preach two or three months longer. Dec. 13, 1784, The committee were directed to invite Mr. Sherman to preach on probation.]

[The above was furnished by a member of the Episcopal Church, and by him derived from the most authentic sources in possession of the Church. It will be seen that there is a slight inaccuracy in the date concerning Rev. Henry Caner. It is here supposed that he commenced his labors in 1737. The records of the 1st Congregational Society already given, show that Mr. Caner was here in 1729.

The record of the organization of the Prime Ancient Society, shows that sundry persons had withdrawn and organized themselves into another denomination, i. e., as Professors of the Church of England prior to 1726.]

THE METHODIST CHURCH.

THE REV. CORNELIUS COOK preached the first Methodist sermon in Norwalk, near the New Canaan parish line, in 1787; the Rev. Jesse Lee preached the next sermon, on the 17th of June, 1789, in the highway, near the centre of the town.

The first society or class was formed, probably, in 1790. The numbers, however, and precise date cannot be given, as the earliest records are lost.

The first church edifice was erected in 1816. This building was taken down in 1843, and the present neat and commodious one erected on its site.

From 1790 to 1834, Norwalk was an important appointment on the Fairfield, Redding, and Stamford circuits.

REMINISCENCES.

Mrs. PHILIPS, widow of Ebenezer, aged 84, Feb. 5, 1847. Her brother was in the army, and died of the camp distemper, at Bergen Point, N. Jersey. Her father went to his relief, took the disease, and died soon after returning home.

Her mother moved to South Salem soon after the burning of Fairfield.

Rev. Mr. LEAMING was a strong tory. He went off with the British when the town was burnt.

COL. BUCKINGHAM LOCKWOOD says that he always understood that the first meeting-house stood on the corner north of Dennis Hanford's house; that is, on the south corner of the lot now occupied by Rev. Mr. Ellis. He remembers when the space was all open to the common.

The second meeting-house stood where the widow of John Mallory now lives. He remembers when that lot was all open.

The third meeting-house stood very near the site of Charles Thomas's present residence, on the highest spot between him and Storrs Hall's. The whole lot, including the three lots south, lay open. He remembers the old foundation of the meeting house that was burnt.

At the burning of the town his mother and five children were in Wilton; and on an alarm fled with her children to the woods. This he remembers. His mother spoke of her distress when her children cried for something to eat.

MISS PHEBE COMSTOCK, aged 83 years, Sept. 26, 1846, lived in New Canaan, at Canoe Hill. Used to go over to her uncle's, where they used to climb an apple-tree and see Norwalk very distinctly. Went to meeting at New Canaan. In cases of alarm, which was given by firing three guns in succession, the men left all and hastened to the parade. Such alarms often came. Her father would run in and say, "Now, girls, unyoke the oxen and turn them out," and in less than five minutes would be off to the parade. They used to carry their guns to meeting; no more thought of going to meeting then without their guns, than we do now without our psalm books. "They never had an alarm without repairing to the parade; and they did not go slow neither." The alarm at the burning of Norwalk came about day-break. Went to the apple-tree; saw the flames; heard the guns. Her father and four brothers were engaged in the defence; the "dreadfullest day she ever saw;" the guns kept firing a long time; "a dreadful fight." She saw the "Red-coats" take up several of their dead or wounded, and carry them to their boats; saw the steeple of the meeting-house fall in.

ONESIMUS, the colored man, who lives with Miss Comstock, and lived with the former Phebe Comstock, was 84 years old Dec. 4, 1846. When continental soldiers were quartered in town, the chaplain was at Miss Phebe's; his waiter died, and Onesimus took his place. The soldiers were billeted round, but assembled for roll-call every day. Onesimus was enrolled.

Onesimus, at one time after the town was burnt, went down to get salt hay at Miss Phebe's meadow, not far from the old potter's shop, sometimes called "The Village," below Old Well. Miss Phebe went with him to look out, as the enemy were always lurking round for cattle, horses, and prisoners. Onesimus saw some "Red-coats" stealing along up a creek, and gave the alarm to Miss Phebe. "We put on; we had good horses then, and we ran; we did not go slow." They escaped—gave the alarm at the Old Well—the guard pursued, and took two "Red-coats" prisoners.

PHEBE COMSTOCK used to visit Mr. Hezekiah Hanford's girls down town. At one time, old Mr. Hanford said, "Now, Phebe, I will take you to the spot where the first of your ancestors used to worship God, when they first came to this country." "Pshaw!" said Mrs. Hanford, "what do you want to take the girl down there for?" "Because," said Mr. Hanford, "she takes an interest in these things, and will remember. Our people care nothing about it." He then led her down to the place where the old meeting-house stood, near Dennis Hanford's, and said, "Here your fathers used to worship God: and when the first old shanty became too small, they built another house up there;" pointing to the spot where John Mallory since lived. She remembers well the meeting-house that was burnt in the Revolution. It was larger than the present house, and had two tier of galleries.

Often heard people speak of Mr. Buckingham; he was an excellent preacher, but it was said that he drank too much; and that was the reason that he was dismissed.

THOMAS BENEDICT, aged 82, March 14, 1847. After the burning of Fairfield, the enemy was expected here. They came Saturday, while the people were harvesting. While he was driving the team, John Saunders, one of the Tories, came along and said, "O, boys, you are too late to harvest." Saunders had finished his harvest.

The sun was about two hours high, and Saunders was in high spirits at the coming of the enemy: as one of his sons was with the enemy, and he expected his property would be spared. But it was all burnt; and the other son with his negro went off with the enemy.

Our soldiers were collecting fast, and stopped at his father's house, which stood where Mrs. Phillips now lives. A tub of wine and a bowl stood on the stoop; as they came along, they stopped and drank, and were very merry. His father's family hastily packed up what goods they could; put them on the cart, which he drove that night up to Belden's Hill, to Thos. St. John's. He and the oxen had worked hard that day, and were very tired. At Mr. St. John's, a party of light-horse came in the night. He fell asleep; some of them took out his silver brooch, and carried it off. Saw the first smoke of the burning of Norwalk in the morning. Heard the guns "pop, pop, pop, a good while." The first house burned was where George Day now lives. The house where Mr. Benedict now lives was occupied by the British as a hospital for the wounded, and therefore was not burnt at first. When the British retreated, they set it on fire, but our people rallied soon enough to put it out. The house was built by Mr. Benedict's grandfather. On his return to Norwalk, saw a British soldier that had been killed; Seth Abbott shot him as he was getting over a wall. "Now," says Abbott, before he fired, "if I kill him, it will go right through his heart." He fired, and the soldier fell backward, dead. The British, when they landed on the west side, marched up to near where Capt. Danl. K. Nash now lives. A tall British soldier was shot there.

Mr. Leaming used to preach on the wickedness of resisting the king; and most of the tories were of his congregation. According to his creed and preaching, we "were only a parcel of rebels." There would not have been so many tories, but for his preaching up such doctrine. He went off with the British.

MRS. BENEDICT, wife of Thomas, aged 81, Nov., 1846, daughter of Phineas Waterbury; lived at Roton river, at the head of the pond;—saw the British fleet when they came from Long Island, to the burning of Norwalk. There were 26 sail, sloops. The enemy used to come every little while to the place where she lived, to drive off cattle. One night she heard the cows low and the dogs bark; and some one hallooing, "The Tories are after the cattle;"—"The Tories have got all our cows." Her mother raised the window and called out, "Turn out the Guard—Turn out the Guard!"—so loud, that people a mile distant heard her in two places. One of the tories called to her to be still, or he would shoot her. "I am not afraid of you," she answered; and called out again, "Turn out the Guard—Turn out the Guard!" The man fired, and Mrs. B. heard the ball whistle; but the tories ran for their lives; frightened off by her mother's call for the guard.

A month after this, one night while her brother, aged 20 years, was on guard with others, she heard the dogs bark; and then a challenge, of "Who comes there?" The answer was, with an oath, "A friend to King George;" and immediately guns were fired; and there was a trampling of steps down the road. One came and said that her brother was wounded; and presently he was brought in dead—shot through the head. Three were killed, who were all in their 20th year—two wounded.

One night the enemy entered her father's house when they were in bed—seized her father, and carried him a prisoner to New York; they would not stop to let him dress. They came into her room; she told them they were only children there. “D—n her,” said one, “lift up the bed.” They thrust their bayonets under the bed, and went off.

DANIEL NASH, aged 77, son of Daniel, son of Micajah; was told by his grandfather, that his grandfather was the first male child born in the town. What his name was, he does not know. [It is among the genealogical records, John Nash.] His sons' names were John and Nathan. From the last John proceeded all the Nash families in this region. Nathan had no children. He was the first Churchman in the family. This account Daniel Nash had from his grandfather, who was brought up by said Nathan. The reason of his change was this: he had been brought up in great abhorrence of religious forms; and when at a meeting of ministers one of them read a portion of the Bible, Nathan much disliked it; and so resented it, that he went occasionally to Church, saying that they might just as well read prayers as read the Bible;—and so turned Churchman.

When the Revolution broke out, Daniel Nash was a boy, about 4 years old, at Patchogue, L. I. Remembers the time when the tea was thrown overboard at Boston. Remembers hearing, before Norwalk was burnt—and afterwards, what was the reason why Gov. Tryon burned it. Some of the Long Island people were refugees on the Connecticut shore; [Long Island was in possession of the British.] These refugees used to pilot the Americans, when they went in whale-boats to Long Island for plunder. Gov. Tryon said, if the people on this side did not stop that, he would come over and burn the town ; and he did burn it.

NATHANIEL RAYMOND, aged 94, MAY 1, 1847. Has lived near the Old Well wharf all his days ; was a corporal in the guard ; a revolutionary pensioner ; lay often on the rocks at Belden's Point ; was at New York among the Connecticut troops when the British landed at Flatbush ; and in the lines across the island after the British crossed into New York. When the British came to burn the town, they landed at Fitch's Point Saturday night. He carried such of his household effects as he could, down near the pottery called the village, and hid them in a swamp ; then carried his father and mother and some of their effects back some three miles, in a cart ; returned, and with fourteen others, volunteers, under their own command, took arms, and went up to the hill where John Raymond lived. In the night the British fired a ball at them, at random. It struck the ground near them. Sunday morning the harbor was full of boats. They landed at the Old Well : chased the fifteen volunteers over John Raymond's hill, by where Capt. D. K. Nash now lives, and so over to Round hill ; dragging a field-piece, which they fired at the volunteers from the top of Round hill. When the British landed, the volunteers fired at them from John Raymond's hill. Saw Grummon's Hill " all red " with the British : there was " old Tryon and all his tribe." The two parties of the enemy met near Grummon's Hill, and went up to France Street, where was a skirmish. There were about thirty American Regular soldiers in town. Jacob Nash (the grandfather of Capt.

Danl. K. Nash), was killed there. He was a regular soldier at home on a furlough. Our men had an old iron four-pounder at the rocks, which the British took and spiked. The Rev. Mr. Leaming was "as big a tory as ever there could be on earth." He continued praying for the King in public worship, till the inhabitants forbade him. Very many of his congregation were tories; but the people never molested such as did not commit any hostile act. The violent tories were seized and shut up in Pudding-lane; some carried to jail. The tories were the informers and pilots of the enemy; and those who went off, often came back with parties, plundering, driving off cattle, and carrying away such men as they were able to lay their hands on.

MRS. MARY ESTHER ST. JOHN, (widow of WILLIAM), aged 94, in November, 1846. When Fairfield was burnt, her father was harvesting down in the Neck. Expecting the British to come here immediately, they left the harvest; but when the British crossed to Long Island, her father rallied hands and went down to his harvesting. Saturday, near night, the alarm guns fired. Her husband rode down to the Neck, and returned; his horse was wet with sweat, as though he had been in the water. She was about putting some bread in the oven. A woman who lived with Mr. Belden (where Gov. Bissell now lives) came running in and asked, "Are you going to stay?" "No, I am going out of the way." "Well," said the woman, "I shall stay; I will go to Gov. Tryon, and plead for the house. When he was Governor he stayed with us one night, with his attendants and horses. I will tell him of that, and we are friends to the government." Mrs. St. J. said, "If you are going to stay, take my dough."

She took it, and presently came running for the oven-wood. Mrs. St. J. and her husband and family, with what effects they could carry, went up into the woods, at the East Rocks. They had a bedstead, which they set up; milked the cows which they drove with them, drank the milk, and stayed there that night. In the morning, the guns were firing; the smoke of the burning houses rose. Her husband said, "The work is begun; they are burning the town." The woman succeeded in saving Mr. Belden's house. She told Mrs. St. John that she went up to Grummon's Hill, where Gov. Tryon sat, with chairs and a table, writing his orders. She begged for the house; he wrote her a protection, and sent with her a file of soldiers. When she reached the house, it had already been set on fire in two places, but the soldiers put it out.

The Town House, which stood where the present one stands, was in the Revolution occupied as a guard-house. The troops, on their passage to New York, used to lodge there. She saw many of them, not more than 15 or 16 years old. Mr. Leaming she knew well. She attended his church. He continued to pray for the King as long as he dared to. He went away with the British. It was sad to live in the midst of war; but what was the most unpleasant of all, was the difference of sentiments among neighbors and kindred. Mrs. St. John lived, in the Revolution, on the old St. John place, nearly opposite Gov. Bissell's. Her house that was burnt in the Revolution, stood between the site of the present house and the widow Buckingham St. John's, at the foot of Grumman's Hill. The latter place was then occupied by a family named Grumman.

THE GENEALOGICAL REGISTER.

“THE RECORDS OF MARRIAGES AND BIRTHS AND DEATHS.”

[The Genealogical Registers are taken almost entirely from the Town Records, and have been transcribed in the same form as they are recorded. A few have been copied from family Bibles; some have been furnished by the families concerned. A large number of families were put on record about the beginning of the present century; and the names of the children born after that record was made, have not been supplied, except in a few instances. I have advertised repeatedly, and in some cases have made personal application for the means of filling out these records; but almost entirely without success. A singular apathy seems to prevail with regard to such matters. Such families must not complain that the records which so nearly concern them are left incomplete. I have used all reasonable diligence to obtain them.]

[The name of JOHN BOUTON appears on p. 17, as among the first settlers of Norwalk. At what time he came to this country the family have no record. He was a French Protestant, and it is said there are many of the same name still living in France and Germany, and that a great similarity exists between the families there and here. He had five children after his marriage as here recorded, viz. JOHN, Matthew, Rachel, Abigail, and Mary. He must also have had children by a previous marriage. (See record of marriage of Daniel Kellogge to Bridget Bowten, in 1665, p. 187.)

His son John had two children, JAKIN and Joseph, and perhaps more, although no others appear on the record.

His grandson JAKIN, had two children by his first wife, Joseph and Sarah; and by his second wife, two sons, Esaias and Moses, and seven or eight daughters.

JOSEPH, his great-grandson, married Susannah Raymond, August 25th, 1748, daughter of Joshua Raymond, and had eleven children, six sons and five daughters. The sons were WILLIAM, Joshua, Joseph, Seth, Ira, and Aaron. The daughters were Rebeckah, Betty, Nancy, Susannah, and Deborah. He was an officer in the expedition sent against the French Provinces in 1758, '9, and kept a journal of the service, which was unfortunately lost in pulling down the old family mansion, a few years since, which stood on the spot where Dea. JOHN BOUTON, his grandson, now resides.

WILLIAM, the son of Joseph, the 5th descendant from the 1st John, was married to Sarah Benedict, February 15th, 1769, by whom he had fourteen children, viz. Isaac (who died), Isaac, William, Betty, ESTHER, Sally, Clara, Seth, Joseph, Susannah, John, Mary, Ann, and Nathaniel.

Joseph, the son of Joseph, was killed at Red Hook in the revolutionary war. Seth, his brother, was killed by falling from a tree. Joshua listed in the army at the age of 14, as a drummer, was taken prisoner, and kept on board a man-of-war till the peace, and arrived home just in time to see his father before he died. He afterwards followed the sea, and was a skilful and able captain.

The descendants of the fourteen children of WILLIAM are very numerous. See Appendix A.]—Communicated by S. W. Benedict.

* Bela St. John's father used to say that he had been to school down town, when his grandfather, Matthias, was living. Bela also remembers hearing his father and aunt often tell, when he was a boy, that one woman came with the pioneers (in 1650), into cook for them, before their families came on. They pitched near the site of the first meeting-house; (another tradition says that they spent the winter of 1650-51, in a hollow directly back of the house, now occupied by Rev. Mr. Ellis; which agrees with the account of Mr. St. John). When the men went down to the meadows to work, the woman refused to stay behind at their quarters unless they would leave the dog with her. She tied the dog that he might not leave her. The Indians came and began to molest her; she let the dog loose, when he flew at the Indians, and pulled some of their blankets off. They ran into the swamp, (the present hollow near the road on Mr. Clark's lot—the one originally laid out to Nathaniel Eli), and climbed the cedar trees to escape from the dog.

APPENDIX B, pp. 184, 5.

GENEALOGY OF THE BENEDICT FAMILY.

[In the year 1755, Dea. JAMES BENEDICT, of Ridgefield, grandson of THOMAS BENEDICT, sen., of Norwalk, wrote a genealogy of the family, from which, and from a manuscript prepared by ERASTUS C. BENEDICT, Esq., of New York, a descendant of James, the leading facts relating to the first six generations have been derived.

Dea. James Benedict learned the particulars he gives of the early history of the family, down to his own memory, from his grandmother, MARY BRIDGUM, the wife of Thomas Benedict, sen., with whom he lived in his youth. In 1768 this record was copied by his grandson, Rev. ABNER BENEDICT, while a member of Yale College, and by him sent to Thomas Benedict, of Norwalk. Other copies have been made for other branches of the family.

The record here given is confined to a single line, viz.: 1. The children of THOMAS, sen. 2. The children of JOHN, his 2d son. 3. The children of his grandsons, JOHN and JAMES*. 4. Of his great grandson, NATHANIEL. 5. Of NATHANIEL 2d, his fifth descendant; and 6th, of NATHANIEL 3d, the sixth descendant; which brings it down to the present generation, and to the writer of this introductory note. Were the descendants of each of the children and grandchildren to be traced and recorded the list would make a volume of itself.

FIRST GENERATION.

WILLIAM BENEDICT, is the first of the family of whom any trace has been found. Tradition says that he resided in Nottinghamshire, England, about the year 1500, and that he was the only son of his father. He had also but one son, who was also called William.

SECOND GENERATION.

WILLIAM BENEDICT, who also resided in Nottinghamshire, and had an only son, also called William.

THIRD GENERATION.

WILLIAM BENEDICT, who also resided in Nottinghamshire. He also had an only son, who was named THOMAS.

* See Appendix C., p. 320.

FOURTH GENERATION.

THOMAS BENEDICT and MARY BRIDGUM, his wife.

He was born in England, 1617. He was an only son, and when he left England, tradition says, the name had been confined to only sons for more than one hundred years, and that he did not know another person of the name in existence; from which it would seem that his father was then dead. He lost his mother early, and was put apprentice to a weaver during his minority. His father married a second wife, who was a widow, a Mrs. Bridgum, who had a daughter named MARY BRIDGUM. When Thomas became of age (1638), he and Mary Bridgum came to New England in the same vessel, and first settled in "The Massachusetts Bay." Not long after "the said THOMAS BENEDICT was joined in marriage with said MARY BRIDGUM, and from these have arisen a numerous offspring"—the Benedicts in America.

They lived some time in the Massachusetts Bay, and then removed to Southold, Long Island, where their children were born—five sons and four daughters—THOMAS, JOHN, SAMUEL, JAMES, DANIEL, BETTY, MARY, SARAH, REBECCA. From Southold they removed to Huntington, where they resided several years. They were residing there in June, 1656. They removed thence to Jamaica, on the same Island, where Thomas, the eldest son, married Mary Messenger of that place.

The eastern part of Long Island being at that time considered a part of Connecticut was of course principally settled by the English pilgrims, who gradually extended themselves westward, and rather encroached upon their Dutch neighbors of New York, with whom they were not much disposed to coalesce. The Long Island settlements (except the extreme west), were principally English, and when on the 27th August, 1664, the Dutch Governor, Stuyvesant, capitulated to Col. Richard Nichols, the change of government was highly acceptable to the English settlers, and they immediately set about extending their settlements. On the 26th September in the same year, John Bailey, Daniel Denton, and Thomas Benedict, and others, made a written application to Col. Nichols for liberty to settle a plantation upon the river called Arthur-Cull Bay, in New Jersey. On the 30th of the same month he granted the petition and promised encouragement. That place is now Elizabethtown. The principal petitioners were in Jamaica in 1665. It is therefore to be presumed that they sent out a colony.

Governor Nichols issued "To the magistrates of the several townes upon Longisland," an order of election, dated James fort, in New York, 8th February, 1664, reciting that the inhabitants had for a long time groaned under many grievous inconveniences and discouragements occasioned partly from their opposition to a foreign power, in which distracted condition few or no laws could be put in due execution, bounds and titles to lands disputed, civil liberties interrupted, and from this general confusion private dissensions and animosities had too much prevailed against neighborly love and Christian charity, and in discharge of his duty "to settle good and known laws," requiring two deputies to "a general meeting," to be chosen from each town "by the major part of the freemen," and recommending "the choice of the most sober, able and discreet persons, without partiality or faction," to meet "on the last day of February at Hempstead." The delegates from Jamaica were DANIEL DENTON and THOMAS BENE-DICT. This is believed to be the first English legislative body ever convened in New York.

In 1665, he was commissioned by Gov. Nichols as a Lieutenant "of the Foot Company of Jamaica." His commission was dated at "Fort James in New York, the 7th day of April, 1665." Whether he accepted the commission is not known. It is certain, however, that he did not hold it long, as during the same year he removed from the State to Norwalk, in the Colony of Connecticut, with all his family. There they lived together, and thence they scattered abroad in little colonizing parties to let in the light on other parts of the neighboring wilderness, or to swell the numbers of the pioneer bands who had already planted settlements in the vicinity.

In 1666, February 19th, he was chosen town clerk and selectman of Norwalk

In 1669 he was again chosen town clerk, and the list of freemen of Norwalk contains his name as one of 42 of which the list was composed Oct. 13, 1669. In 1672 he was again chosen town clerk, and held the office for many years afterwards. The records, in his own hand writing, are still preserved and are legible, properly attested by his own signature, a fac simile of which, as here given, it may also be interesting to preserve.

Thomas Benedict Senior.

This primitive pilgrim pair are thus described in the manuscript of Dea. James Benedict already referred to :

“They walked in the midst of their house with a perfect heart. They were strict observers of the Lord’s day from even to even. It may be said of them as it was of Zachariah and Elizabeth, that they walked in all the commandments and ordinances of the Lord blameless, and obtained a good report through faith. Their excellent example had a good effect through the blessing of God upon their children. He was made a deacon of the church in Norwalk, and used that office to good satisfaction of that church to his death, which was in the year of our Lord 1690, in the seventy-third year of his age, and was succeeded in his office as deacon by two of his sons, viz. John and Samuel, who used that office until old age and its attendants rendered them unable to serve ; and there are at this time seven of the family and name which use the office of a deacon, and I trust some of them, at least, to good acceptance both to God and man.” His wife survived him and lived to the age of one hundred years.

FIFTH GENERATION.

(The children of Thomas Benedict and Mary Bridgum)

THOMAS BENEDICT, 2d, was born at Southold, Long Island. From Southold he went with his father to Huntington and thence to Jamaica, where he married MARY MESSENGER of that place. He conveyed his property in Norwalk February 3, 1685, to Samuel Betts. He is described as of Paquiack, formerly of Norwalk. On Sunday morning, April 27th, 1777, the British under Governor Tryon, burned Danbury—excepting the houses and the property of the Tories. Dr. Matthias Burnett, January 5, 1804." He was named after the pioneer missionary of Western New York, the Rev. SETH WILLISTON, now of Durham, N. Y. At the commencement of the tide of emigration to what was then called "the west," his father and Andrew, an older brother, settled near the banks of the Chenango River, where they resided for some time, but not liking the location, they relinquished their settlements, Andrew going farther west, and his father returning to his native town. It was there the family enjoyed the labors of that indefatigable missionary, whom his mother regarded as her spiritual father, and whose name she gave to her first and only child.

At the age of fifteen, he entered the office of the Norwalk Gazette, then just established in his native town, to learn the art and mystery of printing. Four years after he purchased the paper and continued to publish it until January 1, 1833, when becoming interested in the New York Evangelist, he removed to New York, and published that paper till September, 1837. Since that time he has devoted himself mainly to his profession as a printer.

APPENDIX C.

The descendants of Dea. JAMES BENEDICT, of Ridgefield, form a distinct branch, which it does not come within the design of this work to give at length. He was the father of PETER BENEDICT, of North Salem, who was Deacon of the Church there for many years; also of JOHN BENEDICT, of Ridgefield, the fifth Deacon of that Church.

His son PETER was the father of Rev. ABNER BENEDICT, who graduated at Yale College in 1769, and was settled in the ministry at Middletown (Middlefield Parish), for fourteen years, during which time, by his address and efforts he procured the emancipation of all the slaves held by his people. He died at Roxbury, November 19, 1818. He was also father of Rev. JOEL BENEDICT, D. D., who graduated at Princeton, 1765, and was settled in the ministry at Lisbon, Conn., eleven years, and afterwards at Plainfield, Conn., where he died February 13, 1816: also father of Lieut. PETER BENEDICT, an officer under Gen. Washington in the Revolutionary war.

Rev. ABNER BENEDICT (grandson of James), was the father of Rev. JOEL T. BENEDICT, who was born September 6, 1772, and admitted to the bar in Fairfield Co., in 1794. After six years practice he changed his profession, and was settled in the ministry in Bethlehem, N. Y., and afterwards in Franklin, from whence he removed to Philadelphia, to take charge of the operations of the Pennsylvania Branch of the American Tract Society, where he died in October, 1833. He was also the grandfather of Rev. JOEL TYLER HEADLEY, author of several of our recent popular works.

Rev. JOEL TYLER BENEDICT was the father of Prof. GEORGE WYLLIS BENEDICT, of the University of Vermont, and of ERASTUS C. BENEDICT, Esq., and of ABNER BENEDICT, Esq., both members of the present bar of the City of New York, and of ADIN W. BENEDICT, Esq., of Huntingdon, Pa.
