LOVEY MARY'S GARDEN

Now that the annual flower show is over and a very pleasant memory, the question has naturally arisen "What next?" This query the Women's Auxiliary is endeavoring to meet in the preparation of Lovey Mary's Garden.

This wonderful garden is to be denominational and latest reports reveal the fact that the Methodists have their seeds all sown and plans made for a most interesting display. The Presbyterians and Baptists are following right after, though we do believe that the Baptists will probably have the daintiest plot in the whole garden, all "baby" blue, pink and white blooms, which are so dear to every woman's heart.

The Episcopalians and Catholics are aiming to please the young folks, and we have every reason to believe that the men of our home town will be especially pleased with the beautiful array of Quaker ladies.

The Community Club under the able direction of Mrs. C. P. Fowler, president, has kindly volunteered to interest the children, while the Sorority girls will take care of the young men.

We look for something unusually artistic from the Suffrage party under the supervision of Mrs. W. Arthur Cole, and last, but very important, the Scouts, with Mrs. C. S. Smith as their leader, have a very great secret, on which they are working hard.

Lack of space will not permit the writer to go into further detail in this issue, however, when you meet an Auxiliary woman in the near future, and she inquires with which particular plot you wish to become identified, won't you give her a great big smile, and just as big a donation, remembering that the Y. M. C. A. can very readily use the several hundred dollars which these women hope to realize, when this wonderful garden is offered for public sale early in October?

Y. M. C. A. NOTES

It is of great importance to both young and old that since exercising special abilities is ordinarily play for their possessor, it frequently happens that enabling an adult to play is enabling him to keep on growing. The slogan therefore is "JOIN NOW." Full membership, $5 per year; limited membership, $2 per year; boys, 7 to 16, full membership, $3 per year. Support the association and sign up now for fall. Please do not forget to return the books that have been taken from the association library so that everything will be in first-class order before the fall season commences.

There were 137 in attendance on Sunday to hear the Rev. Dr. Atkinson, pastor of the First Baptist Church in Leavenworth, Kansas, preach at the Union Twilight services. This is a splendid showing of appreciation by the church-going folks of Narberth, and it is to be hoped that a great many others will be able to attend the services next Sunday, the 12th, at 6 P. M., when the Rev. W. L. Steck, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church of Cynwyd, Pa., will preside. Everybody come, there is a chair and a hearty welcome awaiting you.

BOOKS FOR YOUNG PEOPLE

Children and young people may find books to their taste at 101 Dudley avenue, where they will be rented for a few cents.

The profits will be devoted to relief work among our soldiers.

Library hours: Mondays and Wednesdays, from 8 to 11 A. M.; Fridays, 2 to 9 P. M.

Prof. and Mrs. Carner, of S. Narberth avenue, have left for a month in the Catskill Mountains and elsewhere.

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISEMENTS

FOOD CONSERVATION

When on all sides we hear the cry "conserve food" and at every turn the housewife is admonished to do her share, I sometimes wonder if most of us realize what a really important part our efforts in this direction can play in this country's present crisis.

It has many times been stated that "food" and not men would win this war. The amount necessary to supply ourselves and aid our allies in this dreadful conflict to me seems most appalling and often strikes terror to the heart and makes one wonder if we are as efficient as we could be and are doing all we should.

We having lived in a land of plenty so long, whose resources seemed unlimited, can hardly conceive that we may actually be facing if not want at least great curtailment in our food consumption possibly in a very near future. Abundant crops seem by no means assured, so it behooves us one and all to bulk our energies to do all we can to preserve the fruits and vegetables now available.

A recent magazine article revealed to me what a science Germany has made of this food conservation, with what an efficiency she set about to eliminate waste and to conserve their limited resources to such a degree that after three years of isolation from the world's market they are far from starvation.

The revival of an almost lost art, that of drying vegetables and fruits, was from the beginning of the war employed by Germany to a marked degree. This process has many advantages especially in storage and shipping. In Germany all left over perishable fruits and vegetables were at the end of each day gathered and sent to the municipal drying plants established for this purpose. Itinerant dryers on wheels were sent through the farming districts and any fruits and vegetables in danger of becoming over ripe were conserved in this way.

Community drying centers were established in small towns and villages to which the inhabitants were bidden to bring at the end of each day all fruits and vegetables that were in danger of going to waste. By the foregoing methods much has been accomplished to sustain the German population and aid materially their efforts against the Allies.

Likewise a great deal is being done along similar lines in our own midst. Have you visited or in any way aided at your own community canning center at the Merion High School at Ardmore?

A graduate instructress is in charge and only too glad to impart information to you as to the ways and means of conserving vegetables and fruits. One may also avail themselves of drying methods referred to as dryers has been installed.

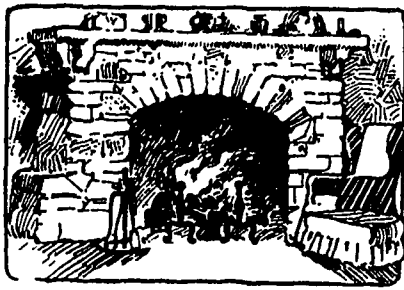

The Women's Community Club of Narberth have made themselves responsible for the assistance supplied on every Friday and the canning committee feel very much gratified at the ready response of the leaders of Narberth so far, but we don't want to impose on good nature and feel there should be no limit to the number of ladies who can assist at some time in this work.

You may feel you are placing your endeavors along other lines equally as important, but none seems to be quite as urgent at this time of the year as food conservation. For, needless to say, without good sustaining food our men cannot fight. We can take a lesson from our Canadian sisters whose work of this kind has been marvelous; for instance, in a small town, of some 15,000 inhabitants, at which place I was a recent visitor, I learned that the ladies last year

WANTED—RED CROSS WORKERS

The Narberth Branch of the American Red Cross has a workroom in the Y. M. C. A. which is well equipped and comfortable. More workers are needed—give of your time and talent any day that suits your convenience. No special invitation should be expected or required—this humane work is your work. Report anytime between 9.30 A. M. and 5 P. M.

HOLIDAY HOUSE NOTES

Two small girls at the Holiday House were curiously inspecting a May apple. One said "I think that's a green pear." The other looked doubtful and then remarked, "No, that looks like it came off a pickle tree."

Mamie Mezziano, aged six, enjoyed her visit at the house so much that she thought out this argument to stay longer: "Did uh know we got six children home, and me father's dead and I only got one mother?"

Four little girls with a "teacher" left Holiday House on Friday morning; through the arm of one of these maidens hung an empty basket. Shortly after leaving they met Mr. Haws, of the post office, who took the interested group to his garden and carefully explained to them how corn, tomatoes, beans, etc., grow. But the basket was no longer empty, for in it lay freshly cut squash, not to mention string beans which the youngsters were allowed to pick with their own hands. To bring a much enjoyed morning to a fitting close, Mrs. Hopper's machine relieved the group of its heavy basket, and gave them a thoroughly appreciated ride back to the Holiday House.

BOY SCOUTS IN CAMP

Thirteen Narberth Boys Went to Camp Delmont Last Saturday

Thirteen boys from Troop 1, Narberth, Boy Scouts of America, left on the 8.34 train for Villa Nova last Saturday morning en route for Camp Delmont, the scout camp "somewhere" near Green Lane, Pa.

Most of these boys had never before enjoyed a camping experience—only a few were "veterans." So they left Narberth with mixed emotions, wondering whether or not they would be homesick, whether or not the camp initiation was as bad as had been described, whether or not they would be assigned to "table and kitchen duty" the first week as well as estimating how many hours there would be for swimmin'. Most of the boys were yet to experience their first treasure hunt and camp fire, so a world of pleasure and profit awaits them.

Of the boys who went Herbert Krell and John Wilson are to remain for three weeks. Practically all of the following are to remain at camp for two weeks: Charles Kremer, Thomas McAuliffe, Edw. Martin, Merritt Davis, Warren Speakman, Donald Faile, Geo. Stanley, Merritt Bond, Baird Caldwell, Roscoe Smedley and Robert Ward.

TO PUBLISH EXEMPTION CLAIMS

General Crowder took action to reduce the number of applications for exemption. He sent the following telegram to all Governors:

"The names of all registered men are on a list arranged in the order in which they will be called for military service. Wherever any registered person imposes upon a local board and improperly secures a certificate of exemption or discharge, he advances the time of call of all other uncalled persons on the list.

"For this reason every registered person and, to some extent, every person in the community, is more or less directly interested in seeing that the true facts are brought to the attention of the Government. For every local board a person has been designated who will receive information of such cases and take appeals to the district board or inform the local board.

"For this reason, the public is entitled to know the ground upon which claims for exemption or discharge are being asked by registered men.

"Local boards should therefore be instructed immediately to make available to the press from day to day the names of persons claiming exemption or discharges, the ground on which such claims are based, and in general, the number of cases that are being disposed of by the boards from day to day. This instruction does not apply, of course, to discharges on the ground of physical disqualification."

Officials believe the effect of this order will be to curb applications for exemption to a large extent. Men who do not have legitimate excuses are not expected to court the scorn of neighbors, who would recognize the weakness of their pleas when published.

A SUGGESTION FOR THE RED CROSS

Over in the York road section, the Jenkintown and Abington branch of the American Red Cross has started a movement to have every man of that section who is now in the U. S. Army or Navy Service, register with the Red Cross. They request the families of those who have already gone to send in the information and they desire to keep a correct record of the location of each man until the end of the war so as they can aid the men from their section by sending them supplies from time to time.

Is this not a good suggestion for the branches of the Red Cross along the Main Line? Our boys will appreciate the little things we can do for them when they are 3000 miles from their old home town.

SELF-RECOMMENDATION

Lady—I should like to look at a flat which I see is to let in this building, but no one has answered my bell.

Man—I'll show it to you. Come this way, mum.

"Well, this something like. The rooms will suit, I am sure. What sort of a hall porter have they here?"

"The very best in London, mum."

"Obliging?" queried the lady.

"The kindest-hearted gentleman to be found anywhere, mum."

"Honest?"

"As the day is long, mum."

"Is he attentive to his duties?"

"He's just workin' himself to death, mum. Always thinkin' up some new thing to make folks comfortable."

"Well, I declare! I wouldn't lose this flat for the world. Where is the hall porter now?"

"I'm him, mum!"

AMERICAN LIBERTY AT STAKE

Honorable Elihu Root just returned from Russia, makes the following statement: "Don't argue about why we are in the war, but realize that the time has now come when American liberty, American justice, American independence and freedom are the stake for which we must fight."

THE FIRESIDE

bor, Me., and in Newburyport and North Chelmsford, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. Donnelly and some friends will take a motor touring trip to Buckhill Falls and other Pocono points next Saturday, returning in about a week.

Candidates for Narberth Council and Burgess will be shortly announced. Now is the opportunity for good men and true to come forward and announce their willingness to serve the borough.

Next Sunday, August 12, Rev. L. M. Keim will occupy the pulpit of the Narberth Presbyterian Church. Mr. Keim is a forcible and convincing speaker, whom the congregation are always glad to hear.

A few additional names have been handed in to Mr. Haws by those desiring to take advantage of the drill of the Home Defense Unit of Narberth. A membership of at least 100 is the desired goal.

Narberth was glad to welcome Rev. Emerson L. Swift, formerly pastor of the Baptist Church of the Evangel, now of Fredericksburg, Va. He was entertained by Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Shinn, Saturday and Sunday.

Montgomery and Bucks county juries have assessed damages for the Telford pike, which is the county line, and Main street in Telford, at $1400, one-half to be paid by each county. It is said there will be no appeal.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles K. Imbrie, formerly of 209 Merion avenue, visited Narberth this week. Mr. Imbrie, since graduating from Auburn Theological Seminary, has made a fine record as a preacher. They will also visit Harrisburg, Mrs. Imbrie's former home.

Work on Haverford avenue by Contractor A. C. Shand, Jr., is progressing finely. The road bed has been graded, and perfectly rolled. It is nearly ready for the concrete, laying of which is only delayed by delay in arrival of the mixer, ordered long ago. Haverford avenue bids fair to be the best laid street in the borough.

A gentleman who heard Rev. John VanNess, pastor of Narberth Presbyterian Church, preach last Sunday at Norristown, said that the congregation was deeply impressed, following every word with the closest attention. Many expressions of approval were heard at the close of the service, and Mr. VanNess was warmly congratulated by those present.

The pictures which the Ledger photographer took of the Home Guards on Sunday, July 22, were also taken by Mr. Charles W. Schaeffer, secretary of the Y. M. C. A., who will only be too glad to order whatever photos the members may desire without charging for the use of the negatives. Stop in the association and see which pictures you want and leave your order as soon as possible.

The amateur vegetable gardens within the borough limits have been a great success. A splendid crop of vegetables has rewarded those who have so faithfully worked this summer, and there is no doubt that much benefit in health will be gained by the outdoor exercise by many whose sedentary occupations do not afford much opportunity for open air work.

Mrs. Dana Bartlett, who is stopping with her daughter, Mrs. W. R. Smith, Jr., 108 Maple avenue, recently received a letter from England which was what is fast becoming nicknamed a "fifty-fifty war letter"—fifty per cent. of the message is made up of words from the writer and fifty per cent. of the letter is made up of erasures by the censor. Poor censors must have to work hard digging off so much paper!

The regular meeting of the directors of the Narberth Y. M. C. A. was held Monday evening of this week. Arrangements were made to give Mr. Schaeffer, secretary, a vacation of two weeks, from August 13 to 27, to enable him to take some special advanced work at Silver Bay, Lake George, N. Y., under the auspices of the Eastern Association School of the Y. M. C. A. Mr. Schaeffer's many friends will be glad to learn of this opportunity that has come to him.

JAPANESE EYES

You think that it is impossible to mistake a ap on account of his almond eyes peculiar to the yellow race. Do not be so sure, for it is quite likely you are wrong.

Of recent years a curious fad has taken root in Japan. This is nothing more or less than the alteration, by the surgeon's knife, of the shape of the eye, so that in future the Japanese will not be distinguished as one of the "almond-eyed" races. The operation is said to be simple and quite painless.

The surgeon takes a scalpel in his right hand and, scratching the skin with the forefinger of his left hand, makes an incision on the outer point of the eyelids in a straight line for the barest part of an inch. The lashes are then drawn into shape and held firmly by a piece of chemically-prepared sticking plaster. The wound needs no further dressing, and the subject of the Emperor of the Flowery Kingdom goes on about his business as if nothing had happened. In a few days it is entirely healed, when the surgeon is visited and requested to remove the plaster, and with the plaster comes the fee.

The Japs say that their Eastern, not to say Mongolian, appearance is a disadvantage to them in their commercial and other relations with Western races. Whether this is so or not, it is a positive fact that some of the highest officials in Chrysanthemum Land have fallen in with the popular fancy, and European medical men out there are making pots of money by the use of their scalpels. One authority states that the Mikado himself has had his eyes "Westernized."

REMARKABLE CLOCK

Among the many beautiful presents received by the Royal Family of Japan on the occasion of the recent coronation is a clock given by residents of Washington, Montana, and Alaska, and built according to the order of the Japanese Association of North America.

The clock stands 4 feet 9 inches high, and has four sterling-silver dials. Its frame is made of steel, the ornamentation of bronze, and three panels in the standard are of onyx. A fourth panel is of bevelled glass, through which practically all the mechanism can be seen. The four dials show, respectively, the time at Tokio, Puget Sound, New York, and Greenwich. Surrounding the timepiece is a globe which makes one revolution every twenty-four hours. The sun's position in relation to the earth is indicated by a gilded ball mounted at one side of the globe. The clock was made in Seattle, and its works are operated by weights.

GENERALS ON THE ROCK PILE

When the late President Leconte of Haiti set about to reduce the size of his army a few years ago, many of the generals whom he mustered out of the service were put to breaking rock on the street. At one time, says the National Geographical Magazine, there were more officers than men in the Haitian army.

In former times the pay of a Haitian soldier was small at best, nothing at worst, and at all times insufficient to keep the warrior fed decently. The days for loading coffee on departing ships were great days in Haiti. They were days when the army got a square meal, thanks to the stevedore wages that the men were able to earn.

The army officers of Haiti were as fond of gold lace as a mountain girl of bright colors. Small wonder, then, that the regalia of a field marshal was everywhere in evidence. Times have changed, however, and now the American marine in quiet khaki takes the place the Haitian fire eater in his resplendent costumes.

Feeding the Haitian armies in the days before the American "Big Brother" movement was not a difficult job. Garrison rations consisted of a sugar-cane stalk two or three feet long, and whatever else the soldier could beg, borrow or steal!

LOOK ON THE BRIGHT SIDE

There is a proverb, "He who has never made a mistake has attempted little of difficulty or value." The worst use a man can make of his mistakes to to brood over them till he becomes melancholy, or grows bitter at their natural consequences. If a mistake is repairable, let him never cease his efforts till he has repaired it. If, as is too often the case, it is incurable, let him bear the consequences manfully and cheerfully, devoting no more time or thought to his mistake than is necessary to help him from falling into it a second time.

Nature has her moral as well as her physical hyponchondriacs, and to brood too much over our mistakes is as bad for the healthfulness of the mind as brooding over our ailments is for the healthfulness of the body. Nay, even when our misfortunes seem to come from no fault of our own; when, so far as we can learn from self-examination, we need not reproach ourselves with any consciousness of mistake; when it seems as if circumstances were really too strong for us; even then, if our misfortunes are past cure and inevitable, let us not add to our misery by vain regrets.

If we cannot alter our fate, let us alter ourselves. As the Spanish proverb says, "If we cannot get what we like, let us try to like what we can get." A great authority has told us that "He that is of merry heart hath a continual feast." Cheerfulness, like other qualities, has the faculty of growing by what it feeds on.

First schoolboy—I wonder why do fire flies have fire in their stomachs.
Second schoolboy—Why, they eat their food raw, and that's where they cook it.

PETRIFIED FOREST STUDIED

Samples from the "Petrified Forest" of Arizona furnish beautiful objects for study. When thin slices are carefully ground down to a thickness of 0.003 inch or less and placed under the microscope they show perfectly the original wood structure, all the cells being distinct, though now they are replaced by chalcedony.

By studying the sections scientists have found that most of these araucarian trees were of the species Araucarioxylon arizonicum, a tree now extinct. It is known to have lived at the same geologic time also in the east central part of the United States, where the remains of some of its associates have also been found.

These included other cone bearing trees, tree ferns, cycads, and gigantic horsetails, which indicate that at that time the rainfall was abundant. The logs are the remains of giant trees that grew in Triassic time, the age of reptiles.

The trees were of several kinds, but most of them were related to the Norfolk Island pine, now used for indoor decoration. Doubtless they grew in a nearby region and, after falling, drifted down a water course and lodged in some eddy or a sand bank. Later they were buried by sand and clay, finally to a depth of several thousand feet.

The conversion to stone was effected by gradual replacement of the woody material by silica in the form called chalcedony, deposited by underground water. A small amount of iron oxides deposited at the same time has given the brilliant and beautiful brown, yellow, and red tints which appear in much of the material.

MIGHT BRING IN SOME BUSINESS

A young country doctor whose business was not large sat in his office reading when his henchman appeared. "The boys is a-stealin' of your green apples agin, sir. Shall I drive 'em away?"

The doctor considered a moment and then, leveling his eyes at his servant, responded: "No."

Two men were hotly discussing the merits of a book. Finally one of them, himself an author, said to the other: "No, John, you can't appreciate it. You never wrote a book yourself." "No," retorted John, "and I never laid an egg, but I'm a better judge of an omelet than any hen."

C. M. SCHWAB AND HIS MILLIONS

The gigantic American Steel Works, founded by Mr. Andrew Carnegie, are said to have seen the cradling of more than a hundred millionaires, and the statement, incredible as it may seem, is probably well within the truth. Never has the world seen such a fever of industry as followed the foundation of the Carnegie Steel Company a quarter of a century ago. It was a mad race for riches unparalleled in history, in which every man was strung to the highest pitch of rivalry with his fellows, and the goal was wealth almost beyond the dreams of avarice.

"Every superintendent," we are told, "was pitted against each other. The heaven of a partnership and the hell of defeat and dismissal gaded the bosses and sub-bosses into a furious activity, and put the Carnegie Company far in advance of all its competitors." No matter how hard the sweltering furnace-men toiled, no matter how amazing was the achievement of to-day, to-morrow it must be eclipsed.

The cry was ever more—more! And the more was always achieved.

And in this frenzied race for gold the strong and ruthless forged swiftly ahead of their weaker and less capable fellows. The young man who was a clerk on a few dollars a day within a very few years blossomed into a millionaire, with more gold than he knew what to do with. How dazzling and meteoric the career of one of Mr. Carnegie's young men could be is shown by the story of Mr. C. M. Schwab.

In 1881 Schwab left a grocer's counter at Braddock to drive stakes for the Carnegie Company at a dollar a day. Six months later he was drawing a thousand a year as superintendent of the Edgar Thomson Work, and before he reached his thirtieth birthday he was earning the salary of the President of the United States, with an army of 8000 men under him.

A few years later he had climbed to the very summit of the towering steel pyramid, the victor among 200,000 competitors. He was supreme head of the great American Steel Trust, with a salary of $500,000 a year, and owner of $40,000,000 in stock and bonds. And he was still in the thirties.

"The first time I saw Schwab," says Mr. Long, a former president of the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange, "he was a barefooted boy at Loreto. The next time I saw him he was in his $10,000 private car."

And Mr. Schwab is only one of many whom the Carnegie Works have raised dramatically from poverty to millions in a few frenzied years of work. There are dozens of men today in the States, owners of palatial houses and with incomes many kings might envy, who were working as clerks or shop assistants when Andrew Carnegie caught them in his golden net and made Croesuses of them. One such man, who has to-day more millions than fingers on his hands, was clerk in a Pittsburgh linen store when his courtesy and intelligence so impressed Mrs. Carnegie that she persuaded her husband to employ him. A place was made for the quick-witted young man in the sales department, and before long he was "neck-deep in the stream of gold."

ORIGIN OF SOME WORDS.

The lemon, it is said, takes its name from the city of Lima.

Loadstone is a corrupt translation of Lydius lapus, the stone of Lydia.

The words money reminds us that the coinage of the Romans was struck at the temple of Juno Moneta, the goddess of counsel.

"Dollar" is from the German thaler, which is derived from Thal, the valley of Joachim, in Bohemia, where the silver works were situated that made this coin.

The word "panic" has a curious origin. According to Herodotus, the god of Pan was supposed to have assisted the Greeks at the battle of Marathon, 490 B. C., striking such a terror into the Persian host that they fled to their ships in perfect dismay. From that time the Greek word panikon was used to describe unreasonable or sudden and overpowering fear.—Argus.

A man that whispers down a well,
About the goods he has to sell,
Can't reap so many golden dollars,
As one who climbs a tree and hollers.

HAPPY ELEANOR

Eleanor was light-hearted and merry over everything. Nothing appealed to her seriously. So, one day, her mother decided to invite a very serious young parson to dinner, and he was placed next the light-hearted girl. Everything went well until she asked him:

"You speak of everybody having a mission. What is yours?"

"My mission," said the parson, "is to save young men."

"Good," replied the girl, "I'm glad to meet you. I wish you'd save one for me."

COMPLETE MODEL OF A HUGE HOTEL

In connection with the colossal Commodore Hotel which is now in course of construction at Lexington Avenue and Forty-second street, New York City, and which when finished will be twenty-six stories high, is a model made of wood pulp, the cost of which is said to have been equal to that of a good-sized cottage in one of the suburban sections. The model is said to be the first of its kind ever made of a gigantic hotel and will be the first to be sent to the principal cities in the United States for exhibition purposes. This will afford architects, builders and others interested an opportunity to see what New York's largest hotel will look like. Some idea of the magnitude of the work may be gathered from the statement that the model has over 1000 windows and is perfect in every detail. The work was done under the direction of Francis T. Gilling, a painter and sculptor, and required the services of himself and six workmen for a period of six months.

A Montana forestry official has devised a light and compact telephone instrument which is portable and will be part of the equipment of all government rangers in the future.

MILLAIS'S "TRUST ME"

A lady and gentleman were standing before a picture by Millais, called "Trust Me," in which an elderly squire confronts his daughter, who holds a letter behind her back.

The picture admits of more explanations than one, for Mr. Millais has that rare faculty of putting blended expressions into his faces which puzzle us, as the expressions of real faces do.

But the one this gentleman was overheard giving his companions is as new, we will be bound to say, to the painter as to our readers. "You see," he said, "she has got a letter in her hand which she is keeping back from the man in the red coat. Well, he is the postman, and has just given her the letter; I suppose it's from abroad. She hasn't the money to pay the postage, so she says 'Trust me.'"

The explanation was given with perfect gravity, and in apparent good faith. It was gratefully accepted in the same spirit, and the lady seemed proud of her companion's intelligence in so rapidly reading the riddle.

KEEPING HIM QUIET

The benefits of education were the topic of conversation at the village club, no, not pub, please! Old Farmer Ricks was asked to give his views on the matter, as his son had been to college.

"Well, I don't know much about eddycation," replied the sturdy old chap; "but I do know as when Robert came back from that college place he started to teach me agriculture. But I soon settled him," the remark ended, in a chuckle.

"What did you do?" asked a listener.

"Set him to round up a swarm of bees," was the brief reply.

"Was the experiment a success?"

"Well, partly. It didn't hurt the bees, and it kept Robert out of the way for nearly two weeks."

Some people marry for love and remain married for spite.

GOOD HEALTH FROM FRUIT AND VEGETABLES

There is not the slightest doubt that, as a nation, we have been in the habit of eating far too much meat.
 Many people who have cut down their consumption of meat say that they are already feeling an improvement in their health.

The fact that no standard work has pronounced in favor of flesh as food is significant. There is a consensus of opinion that the chief poisons are contained in meat and in every kind of stimulant; the differences between vegetarians and fruitarians are comparatively slight, but among none-meat-eaters generally there appears to be a higher standard of health.
 There is also a marked improvement in health when moderation has taken the place of over-indulgence.

It is surprising how little food is actually necessary in order to maintain a good state of health. Sir Henry Thompson gives the case of Cor-nario, the Italian, who, at the age of forty, finding the doctors unable to cure him, took his case in hand, diminished his food little by little till it reached but one poached egg a day, and lived in excellent health until the age of 103.

Here is another typical case of the excellent health which can be enjoyed by abstainers from meat. A Mr. William Aird, his father and daughter, all live on salad and fruit, and enjoy absolute freedom from ill-health. Mr.
 Aird and his daughter, twelve years old, spent their holiday last summer in the South of England; they each carried a rug and a bag, and walked twenty miles a day.

Another gentleman, a former martyr to sciatica, who is now in perfect health, claims that for two years he has eaten nothing but fruit. He finds it as easy to sleep in his garden wet or dry, as in his own bed.

Very interesting, too, is the case of a West Malvern young lady, who, having been for years a sufferer from terrible headaches, started eighteen months ago to live on two meals a day. She takes no breakfast or afternoon tea, and eats salad at midday and fruit only in the evening. She is 6 feet 4 inches in height, and has usually been assured that, being so tall, she required extra food. She has enjoyed perfect health since she changed her diet.

Some of our readers may remember that about ten years ago Mr. Sydney Barraclough, the well-known actor, left the stage on account of illness.
 His case was diagnosed by well-known physicians as one of advanced consumption. By a most rigorous dietary, however, he is now in excellent health.
 Since this "hardening process" he was able all last winter to take his daily morning bathe in the Serpentine.

The United States Government needs, and needs badly, great numbers of stenographers and typewriters, both departments at Washington, D. C., and the situation in Federal offices outside of Washington is scarcely less urgent. The supply of qualified persons, on the commission's lists for the demand, and the commission urges, as a patriotic duty, that citizens with this special knowledge apply for examination for the Government service.

 Service in Washington, D. C., for both men and women are held every Tues-

IN NEED OF FUNDS

The King's Daughters Holiday

 told you through the columns of Our Town.

We want to tell you how much we appreciate our paper and to tell you through reading our notice in your paper one of our good friends has made us a very substantial offer. This friend will give us $1 for each $1 we raise, and another very good friend has given us $50 to meet this offer, which will mean $100 in our treasury.
 Can we interest you, dear reader,
 to help us in this worthy work?
 It costs us $100 a week to keep the house open and these new contributions will keep the work going until the middle of August, as we have enough money to meet July bills and one week of August.

canned 52,000 cans of vegetables and fruits for the Government.

If you are a member of the Main Line Community Canning Center, the fee of which is only $1, you are privileged to bring your jars and fruits, etc., and cap or dry them at your Center.

Anyone having tried this will, I am sure, be obliged to admit its superiority over canning at home. I know from experience, having done it myself. At the Canning Center one has all the facilities and ample space, as rooms are much larger and more airy and more free from the oppressive heat than the average home kitchen.
 Further, you have no consumption of gas and have available at all times expert advice.

The automobile leaves the postoffice every Friday at 9.30 A. M. and 1 P.
 M. Come along and do your share and at the end of the day I am confident you will experience great sat-aided in conserving Uncle Sam's resources.
