GRUGAN AND ROSS WIN CHAMPIONSHIP IN FOURTH OF JULY TENNIS TOURNAMENT

Defeat Newell and Philler in Hard-Fought Four-Set Match. Thomas and Dawson Furnish Big Surprise in Consolation Finals—Meet a Big Success in Every Way

In a thrilling, well played match that wasn't won until the very last point was scored, the team of Grugan and Ross won the championship in the annual Fourth of July doubles tournament of the Narberth Tennis Association on the courts at Essex and Elmwood avenues last Saturday afternoon. Philler and Newell, the defeated team, lost the tournament, but they certainly didn't lose reputation as star tennis players. They pursued the champions to the very end, contesting every point.

In many respects the finals were the most interesting played on the local courts in several years; in fact, there hasn't been as good tennis as this match since Justice and Grugan defeated Kirkpatrick and Staples in a 3 to 2 match several years ago.

The fact that Messrs. Grugan, Ross, Newell and Philler, in addition to being good players, have all had considerable experience in tournament playing, enabled them to put forth their utmost, unaffected by the nervousness which so often mars the work of a really good player.

At first it looked as though Grugan and Ross might win in straight sets, for they took each of the first two sets by 6-3 scores. But then Newell and Philler braced and carried off the third set by the same score. In the fourth set Grugan and Ross got a big lead at the start, but this was quickly tied up and then it was nip and tuck until they reached 5-5. The last two games were full of hard, brilliant playing, with Grugan and Ross showing their superiority in the pinches and finally scoring the necessary points.

The Surprise of the Day

In the meanwhile the consolation matches were working up to the finals, and when the championship contest was finished, the finals consolation, which had started on one of the upper courts, was moved down to the first court. The players, Thomas and Dawson, the winners, and Simpson and McKell, then proceeded to treat the members of the club and the spectators to as exciting a match as has been played on the courts in years.

You will get an idea of what kind of a match it was when you understand that at one time Simpson and McKell led by two sets and 5-1 games in the third set, with the score in what every one believed would be the last game in the match, 40 love in their favor. It certainly looked as though it was all over but the shouting, like one of those occasions back in the "gone-but-not-forgotten-days" at Shibe Park, when everybody got up along toward the end of the ninth inning and started for the exits. You remember—two out, and Socks Seybold at the bat with two strikes and one ball. And then—and THEN something happened!

This is a good many miles away from tennis, but you get the idea. And you may believe it or not, but Thomas and Dawson won that seventh game in the third set, and they won five more in straight and rapid succession. Jim McKell says it was entirely too rapid. And then, as though to pile a real climax on the big championship match that had just been finished, they proceeded to win the fourth and fifth-sets, and the consolation championship.

So all and all it was a decidedly successful tournament, affording three days of excellent playing and lots of fun and good sportsmanship for players and spectators alike. The summary of all the matches follows:

Regular Tournament

First round—Grugan and Ross defeated Harris and Shulte, 6-0, 6-2; Kirkpatrick and Staples defeated Donnelly and Muschamp, 6-3, 6-4; Foote and Scanlon won from Shaw and Warwick by default; Newell and Philler defeated Dawson and Thomas, 6-1, 6-2; Humphreys and Watts defeated Redifer and Wright, 6-2, 6-4; Pattison and Hall defeated Hartly and Bowen, 6-0, 6-0.

Second round—Grugan and Ross defeated Simpson and McKell, 11-9, 6-2; Kirkpatrick and Staples defeated Foote and Scanlon, 6-1, 6-1; Newell and Philler defeated Watts and Humphreys, 6-1, 7-5; Pattison and Hall defeated Burkhart and Loos, 6-2, 11-9.

Semi-finals—Grugan and Ross defeated Kirkpatrick and Staples, 6-4, 7-5; Newell and Philler defeated Pattison and Hall, 6-3, 7-5.

Finals—Grugan and Ross defeated Newell and Philler, 6-3, 6-3, 3-6, 7-5.

Consolation Tournament

First round—McKell and Simpson won from Harris and Shulte by default; Burkhart and Loos defeated

Main Line Branch, No. 1, Bryn Mawr, Pa.

The following instructions from the Southeastern Chapter have just reached the wool department of this branch: 50,000 socks, 22,000 sweaters, 1000 helmets, needed from the chapter before October 1. Notice! No other knitted articles are asked for.

With this large demand on the chapter each branch has to do its own inspection, and thus relieve the chapter and division entirely of this work. We, therefore, must pass things on in absolutely perfect condition.

This letter has been sent to each group to ask each director to pass the word on to each and every knitter. It will mean hard and steady work all summer, with double attention in the inspection.

Socks—Inspection of socks—absolutely no knots (not even in the ribbing). No dropped stitches. Top of ribbing must stretch 7 1/2 inches. Kitchener toe preferred. Foot length 10 1/2, 11 or 11 1/2. Width of leg, 4 1/4. Machine knit socks (with hand knit top) accepted—also hand knit toe if possible.

Sweaters—Length, 21 inches to 23 inches. Width across chest 16 inches to 20 inches. Necks must stretch 12 inches. Armholes open down 9 inches. No dropped stitches nor knots.

Helmets—Knit by directions. See that face opening is good size, not too large nor too tight for face. No knots. Sides sewed securely.

If any one desires lessons, either for machine or hand, there is nearly always some one at headquarters to teach, or appointments will gladly be made.

The perfect garment goes right on to the men, but the faulty one takes many weeks and much wasted time and energy.

Will not every one try to send in the perfect article?

CUTTS—ALKER

Vacation School Enrollment Advances to One Hundred and Thirty-five

The eighty-five scholars who enrolled in the Daily Vacation Bible School at the Y. M. C. A. Building on July 1 were only forerunners of the large interest that this school is now attracting. New scholars are coming every day, and undoubtedly the total enrollment will be much larger than one hundred and thirty-five by the time this issue comes from the press.

Change of Time For School Session
The teaching force have decided to revert to the hour of opening first announced, i. e., 9.30 A. M., adjourning at 11.30 A. M. They did this to enable them to have a full hour to prepare the work for the morning and a like time for conference at the close of the session. The four members of the teaching force are deeply interested in the possibilities of this school and are giving their best efforts to make it a success.

Visitors Are Welcome

Parents and those interested in children are invited to drop in any morning and see the school in action. Stay through one whole session if possible and hear the fine singing of the kind of hymns and songs that last; hear the drilling in memory work; witness the interesting hammock making, wood work, knitting, (Continued on Third Page)

A NOTION FOR "NOTIONS"

How "Notions" starts to have a go,
 To help the "Critic's" holy show,
 Misquotes a word and throws a line
 Outside of sense, to rubbish fine.

Lor', honey, are yer feeling bad,
 A romping round and gitting mad,
 By making yer sarcasm hum,
 In space of half a col-y-um?

Not feeling jest as right as rain,
 You give in somewhat spleenish vein,
 A fascinating little speech,
 Quite comprehensive and a peach.

A quaint old sport? Who, it is true,
 Goes fussing round with much ado,
 Gets all het-up bout this and that,
 With things that ain't worth jumping at.

Lor' love yer, don't yer knows the ire
 That poets have, their frenzied fire?
 I tell you, so you won't be blind,
 My beard floats out upon the wind.

I live on berries and on roots,
 And sometimes nibble juicy fruits,
 A full blown "pote" with a rhyme,
 For morn or eve or any time!

"CRITIC" HAS A "GO" AT POETRY

Dear Long-Suffering Editor:
 It is a pleasure to know that my mild criticism of "C. D.'s" poetical effusions did not crush him entirely, but that he rises to the occasion with renewed vigor. Moreover, he has found a valiant defender in "Notions," who points out unsuspected depths of meaning in these gems. He even challenges me to approach the "master touch" of "a Narberth song," and although not a poet, I'll shy my castor into the poetical arena, and see what I can do with C. D.'s identical phrases, or nearly so:

A Narberth Song

The night time cometh from afar,
 Wheeling in darkness, star by star,
 And twilight winds stir peacefully,
 While Narberth drowns neath yon tree.

The old day passes with a rush
 To deepening gloom and perfumed
 mush;

With moments soft as C. D.'s head
 It sneaks into its little bed.

And yet, not many months ago
 These ways looked very much like those;

Those hedges looked akin to these
 And wailing winds froze many a nose.

Yet what cared we for ways of snow,
 If only we our nose could blow?
 Fair hours are these, not lean nor fat,

With Narberth talking through her hat.

As far as Notions' other challenge is concerned, I admit I cannot accept it. If I were to stand on my front lawn, with wife, children and other sorrowing relatives standing about me, and quote lines or verses from C.
 D.'s gems in loud and soulful tones, the woozy wagon would come and bear me shrieking away to the nut factory. No, no, Notions! Spare me this test!

Critic.

CUB'S WEEKLY LETTER

To the Editor of Our Town:

Why does Notions try to get me mixed up in this awful controversy over the merits of C. D.'s poetry? A master of verse I may be and then again, I—but never mind, poetry is quite beyond me, even the brand that has caused all the trouble. Besides we all owe a debt of gratitude to C. D. and his cruel critic, if only for the reason that they have again brought Notions out of his cave to please our ears with the tunefulness of his ever melodious Gaelic harp, which, alas, we have so few opportunities to enjoy.

What puzzles me is the similarity between the initials of C. D. and those of Narberth's Ruler, the man who runs the garage near the executive mansion. Can it be that our Poet Laureate and Chief Burgomaster are one and the same. Nothin' doin', say I. They are not the same. To each shall we give his full meed of praise and honor and glory. As Lincoln was the Great Emancipator, so is our Burgess the Great Proclamator and C. D. our Poet Laureate.

And begorra here I was thinkin' that Notions had a kind heart, but devil a bit do I think so now after the cruel thrust he gave the coal yard man.

Poor old John! Here he went and traded in a piece of land for a second hand Packard and he hasn't been able to budge the blooming thing, excepting with a tow rope. Somebody got stuck, that's certain. Some people, slanderously inclined, maintain that it was the man who got the land. Others say that John got the short end of it, but you can take your choice. Anyway, if you should happen to be in the market for an automobile and are willing to make a wild gamble on the chance of its moving on its own gas some of these days, I recommend you wait a week or so. The price of the Packard, which by the way is now in the market, has steadily declined from $1200, and at the present writing has touched $700. Things look even more bearish for the car just now. Incidentally scrap metal is high and going higher. There's a tip for some one with a little nerve.

The carload of springling carts that the P. R. R. delivered at our local freight yard the other day gave a decided shock to certain citizens of the South Side living adjacent to the station. They considered the thing in the light of a bad omen or as a forerunner of the rapidly approaching day when they would be forced to climb aboard the water wagon, whether they favored the idea or not.

Constable Walzer, manager and heavy hitter of the Narberth Baseball Club, prospective Justice of the Peace and ex-candidate for Governor, has a new car. So would you have a new car, if you had his job. He only works at it one day a week, but that's enough. You can see him any Sunday morning or evening on Wynnewood road spotting speeders and other violators of the automobile laws. The more law breakers, the more mazuma for Fred, see?

The Fourth of July ball game, I understand, netted about $10 for the Red Cross. One liberal handed spectator when called on for his contribution handed a $2 bill to the collector, asking the amount of the tax. "Anything you want to give," was the reply. "Very well, give me $1.95 change," said the patriot. And would you believe it, he was too modest to give his name.

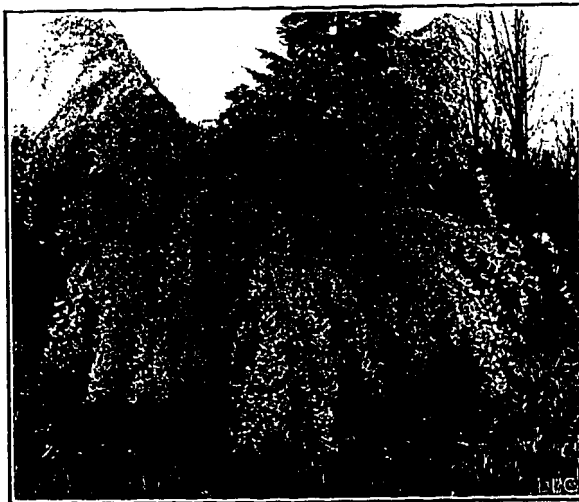

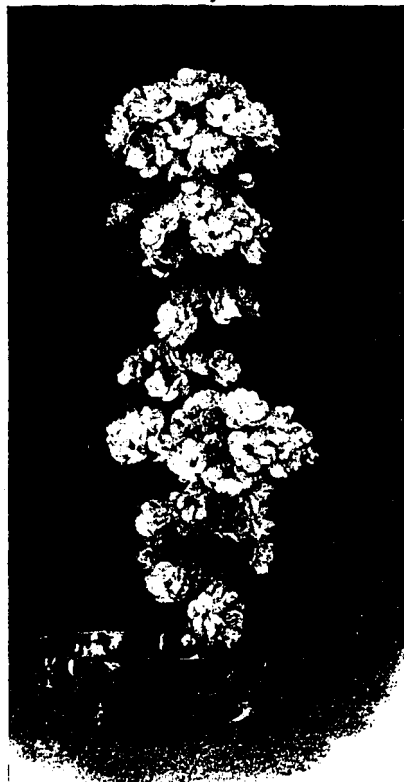

Keep the glo in "Old Glory"—buy Thrift Stamps.

ORIGIN OF PUNCTUATION

The present system of punctuation was introduced in the latter part of the fifteenth century by Manutius, a Venetian printer who was responsible for our full stop, colon, semi-colon, comma, marks of interrogation and exclamation, parenthesis and dash, hyphen, apostrophe and quotation marks. Most ancient languages were innocent of any system of punctuation. In many early manuscripts the letters are placed at equal distances apart, with no connecting link between, even in the matter of spacing, an arrangement which must have rendered reading at sight somewhat difficult.—Good Literature.

and you are urged to come and worship with us. Church 'busses leave Narberth and Wynnewood stations at 10.40 on Sunday mornings.

THE 7.29

I've been readin all them pomes bout the beauty of this town, When the birds are singin gaily, when the sun is settin down, Where the stars is shinin brighter than the eyes of maidens fair, And the greatest joy of livin is just smellin of the air. But to me there's one thing greater and nothin quite so fine, As to see the folks all hustlin for the seven twenty-nine.

Some come walkin, some come runnin, some come toddlin along, Some come whistlin, some come thinkin, some come hummin of a song, Some is dressed and lookin finer than a tailor's fashion plate, Others seem to think of nothin but the pain of bein late; Saint and sinner, Jew and gentile, men from every state and clime, Come a rushin, come a runnin, for the seven twenty-nine.

There's a reason for this hurryin to the station every day, There's a reason for this going off to work instead of play, Can I tell it, sure, it's easy, ask that family of mine Says the man who rushes daily for the seven twenty-nine.

So I'm proud of all them fellers, an the wimmin workers, too, Who instead of simply loafin an a huntin things to do, Who are cheerfully carryin burdins, never whinin, always fine, As they go each morning early to the seven twenty-nine.

GENERAL PERSHING INSISTS THAT LETTERS BE WRITTEN HOME

"Duty to one's country does not end on the parade ground, nor even on the battlefield, but consists in doing everything in one's power to help win the war," says an order issued by General Pershing, a copy of which has been received by the War Department.

"To write home frequently and regularly to keep in constant touch with family and friends is one of the soldier's most important duties. Mothers and fathers will suffer if they do not hear often from sons fighting in France. In the present large companies it is not possible for officers to write letters for their men, and every man must do it for himself."

The girl's idea of an industrious young man is one who is too busy to propose.

Mr. Suplee and Mr. Harris Furnish Equipment

Mr. George B. Suplee has not only offered to furnish some very necessary equipment but will haul the chairs back and forth each week from church to Y. M. C. A. and from Y. M. C. A. to church. He claims this to be a partial repayment for the opportunity of sending his son to the school. Mr. William T. Harris willingly came to the rescue of the main school department when it was found that a piano was needed. The piano he loaned was in use by the school one hour after the need was made known to him.

Many Give Financial Assistance

Supplies and teachers' expenses will total about $225. The sub-committee in each of the three churches supporting the school is striving to raise $75. Nearly $100 of this amount has been turned into headquarters, and more is in the hands of the committee. If you have not helped so far, turn your donation in to some committee member in your church, your pastor, or the Y. M. C. A. secretary. Although the committee expects an over subscription, it states plainly that if the money stops coming in before expenses are guaranteed, the school will close before August 9, the time set for closing exercises. If you are not sure of the worth of this movement, observe it some morning within the next week, then write your check in favor of the Narberth Daily Vacation Bible School No. 217.

Privileges Offered to Members of the Narberth Y. M. C. A.

Boy Members

Swimming at the Ardmore Y. M. C. A. every Tuesday, 4 to 5 P. M. and Saturday, 10 to 11 A. M.
Your Narberth membership ticket admits you without further cost. No admission without your blue ticket. This is a very generous offer of the Ardmore Association and should be appreciated by our boys.

Men and Boys

The use of the pool at Central Branch, Philadelphia, is offered at the rates charged their own members. If you have not received a circular giving these rates, you can get one from Mr. Bowen.

Women and Girls

The West Branch, Philadelphia Association, will admit Narberth women and girl members to their swimming pool and showers at the same rate charged their own members. Mr. Bowen has several circulars explaining these rates.

WAR ECONOMY CARRIED RATHER FAR

A news item tells us that as there are no right or left to boudoir slippers, a person can make them wear about twice as long by changing them from one foot to the other. Things have indeed come to a pretty pass when war even obliges us to conserve our boudoir slippers, even though we have twelve or fifteen pair of such Christmas presents that we never had on our feet.—Liberty Press.

SUFFRAGE NEWS

The July meeting of the Narberth Branch of the Woman Suffrage party will be held on Friday afternoon, July 12, at 3 o'clock at the home of Mrs. William H. Pugh, 501 Haverford avenue, Narberth. Any one interested in suffrage is cordially invited to be present.

"Woman's place is in the home" has been the cry for many years of the anti-suffragists, but if women stayed in the home these days, what would the world do? Most of those "antis" are out of the home; in fact, some of the leaders are spending more of the time in Washington trying to place the United States in the back line of civilization with our enemies by stopping the passage of the Federal amendment.

"Again the Prussian lower house has refused to approve the equal suffrage provision of the franchise reform bill. But the Prussians have nothing on the United States Senate."

"We shall fight for the things which we have always carried nearest our hearts—for democracy, for the right of those who submit to authority to have a voice in their own government."

GRUGAN AND ROSS WIN CHAMPIONSHIP

Donnelly and Muschamp, 3-6, 6-0, 6-2; Dawson and Thomas defeated Redifer and Wright, 8-6, 6-2; Foote and Scanlon defeated Hartley and Bowen, 6-2, 6-4.

Semi-finals—McKell and Simpson defeated Burkhardt and Loos, 6-4, 7-5; Dawson and Thomas won from Foote and Scanlon by default.

Finals—Dawson and Thomas defeated McKell and Simpson; 3-6, 4-6, 7-5, 6-3, 6-4.

Tennis Tournament Notes

Ross' "anti-aircraft" attacks on his opponents' attempts at lobbing were one of the sensational features of the three days' playing.

Just to make sure that the championship finals were pulled off according to the very best form, President W. R. D. Hall officiated as referee or umpire, or whatever it is that sits up on that individual reviewing stand, ably assisted by the following linesmen: Messrs. Kirkpatrick, Staples and Shaw. Official A. A. U. Record, please copy.

The members all missed Secretary Warwick, who has been ill, but were glad to hear his neighbor and team mate, Walter Shaw, report that the "Sec" was improving. Hurry back, Mr. Warwick, and "welcome to our courts."

Strange as it may seem, the moment of greatest suspense did not occur during either the regular or consolation championship matches. It happened when Perry Redifer, who, with Ponce Burkhardt, holds the all-winter championship, turned to his brother champion at about 5.15 and said: "Ponce, how about just one more game?" And to the surprise of every one, Ponce replied: "Well, since you urge me, Perry, I will play just one more."

THE FIRESIDE

has been a steady increase each month for some time.

Rev. F. M. Gray, of the Methodist Church, has volunteered his services at Camp Meade for the summer, in assisting with the religious work. He will be at his church in Narberth on Sundays.

Montgomery avenue is being repaired and two feet added to each side. This avenue has been in a very dangerous condition, many automobile accidents having occurred between Narberth and Woodbine avenue recently.

Friends of Arthur Cole were glad to see him in Narberth on the Fourth. Mr. Cole expects soon to leave for his vacation, which he will spend on his newly purchased estate in Vermont. Mrs. Cole and Miss Piggott are already located there.

Artistic beauty and a fine sentiment of a religious character are the strong features of "Cecilia of the Pink Roses," to be shown at the Palace Theatre, Ardmore, next Wednesday afternoon and evening. Marion Davies, the star of many Broadway successes, and who plays the part of Cecilia, is sweetly attractive in the title role.

All who stand behind our Red Cross unit, both financially and as helpers in the work room—and no one should be excused from both of these duties—should back up to their utmost ability the Y. M. C. A. whose building shelters this fine active unit. If you are not an annual contributor, get your name on the list now.

Sergeant John T. Odell, Company B, 35th Engineers, in France, has been appointed master engineer and transferred to headquarters No. 1. Sergeant Odell's two brothers, Oscar and David, are also in the service. Oscar is in the Marine Corps, stationed at Bear Mt., Iona Island, New York, and David is in the Medical Department, at Colon, Panama. Two younger brothers at home are awaiting the call.

"SOME" WEDDING CAKE

Quite a novelty in wedding cake was seen at a recent American wedding. The cake weighed about 300 pounds, and was surmounted by a representation of a white cathedral done in sugar, through the open doors of which came the notes of Mendelssohn's "Wedding March" and "Tales of Hoffmann," played by an electric musical box.

This reminds one of a wedding cake novelty introduced at another wedding, when an automatic figure of Cupid was made to march from the dome on top of the cake and discharge a packet of arrows in the direction of the bridesmaids, who were delighted with this pretty idea.

HAVE YOU HAD SUCH LUCK?

A story is being told of a wheelwright in Essex who, having executed a small job for some troops encamped near his workshop, sent to the authorities his account, which amounted to the modest sum of 9 shillings 5 pence. To his amazement he received in payment a check for 95 pounds.

Being the possessor of a conscience, however, the wheelwright wrote pointing out that his account was for 9 shillings 5 pence only, and asking what he should do with the check sent to him. In reply he received another check for 95 pounds. Not knowing what to do, he consulted a solicitor, who advised him to bank the money and let the authorities apply for its return.

When this story was told to the manager of a Surrey dairy he was able to relate a similar experience. Last summer the military authorities commandeered the entire stock of hay on a farm, paying money down for it. Only a portion of the stock was required to be delivered at once, however, and instructions were given for the remainder to be retained until further orders.

As nothing more was heard, the farmer wrote to the military authorities, and an officer came down, inspected the hay, and explained where it was to be sent. Some time afterwards the farmer received a check for 170 pounds for the hay, which had been left on the farm. He sent the check back, with the reminder that the hay had been paid for once, but it was returned to him, and it has since been paid into the bank.

AN EXTRAORDINARY TEMPLE

Probably the strangest structure in Burma is the Kyaik-Ti-yo Pagoda at Kelasa. The pagoda, including the long tapering top, is about twenty feet high and, like all others in Burma, is modeled after the great gold-topped, jewel-bedecked Shwe Dagon Pagoda in Rangoon. It is a white tapering shaft with an opening near the base to serve as an altar.

The situation of the pagoda is, however, the thing that distinguishes it from all others, for it is on the top of a rocking-stone, the end of which protrudes over the verge of a precipice some thousands of feet high. A little bridge leads to the base rock, and ladders lead to the balancing-stone, from which there is a remarkable view of the tree-clad precipitous valley as deep as that of the Yosemite, with pagodas on every crest. On the altar is a great mass of hair clipped from the heads of devout pilgrims and placed there as an offering to Buddha—probably because the rock is said to balance on a hair of Buddha beneath it. Scientific men say that the great rock was left in its precarious position by a retreating glacier.

Another cliff in the same valley is crested with a more securely-placed balancing-stone, which is topped with a similar temple, known as the Sampan Pagoda. The popular belief concerning this one is that whenever a pilgrim rocks the stone all his prayers are answered.

NORWAY'S GOAT GIRLS

A Norwegian goat girl is able to take care of a large flock of goats. She watches them while they graze, milks them and salts them. The last task is interesting. She takes a little bag of salt, and the goats crowd about her, leaping over each other's backs for the privilege of licking her hand after each dip in the bag. She loves her goats and makes pets of the young kids.—Argus.

CHIPS FROM CHINA

Bret Harte is chiefly responsible for the American belief that the Chinese are peculiar for ways that are dark and tricks that are vain, but that they are peculiar all travelers agree. It may be that they are right in their ways and we are wrong, but that is a matter of opinion. For instance, can any one tell why the Chinese wear cotton-cloth shoes? They are not more comfortable than leather, nor cheaper, nor as healthful. They cling to their old shoes because they have always worn them, and because they always stay indoors when it rains. A Chinaman dreads water more than fire, and a steady stream of cold water disperses the most violent mob in China in five minutes' time. Rain will ruin his cotton shoes and soak his cotton clothes, and therefore the Chinaman goes indoors, and stays there until the rain ceases.

The Chinese are very practical in their religious ideas. If a god whose business it is to bring ruin overdoes it and causes a deluge, they take him out of the Joss house, and set him down in the shower. If this fails to make him dry up, they go to the extremity of towing him behind a boat in the river to convince him that too much of a good thing is as bad as too little.

In China, artificial oyster culture is largely practiced. Bamboo oyster fields are constructed by attaching old shells to poles which are planted on mud-flats between high and low water mark, but subject to strong tidal currents. The oyster spat adheres to the shells and soon develops into tiny oysters. Then the bamboos are transplanted. In six months they are found to be covered with well-grown bivalves, which are then marketable.

MISTAKES ARE HUMAN

Whenever I meet men and women who are willing frankly to acknowledge their mistakes I find my regard for them immediately growing and I feel that they are worth while.

Of course, there is no one in this big, round shiny world who hasn't made mistakes, yet occasionally we find those who never acknowledge them and who, in their hearts, feel their mistakes, if they have made a few, are too trivial to think about or confess to any one.

And that type of person never amounts to very much, for whoever does anything in this world is sure to make mistakes, from the doing of the little every day task and duties to the great, big, vital issues of life.

Our mistakes are, to my way of thinking, one of the very best things which ever happen to us, as they serve to develop us in a way that nothing else could.

Just the other day I heard a woman say that she had never made one in her life.

Of course, she didn't expect any one to believe so extravagant and silly a statement, yet, I dare say, she belongs to the class who have made few—and done very little as they've gone along the highway of life.

It isn't a sin or a disgrace to make a mistake—it is the most natural thing in the world, and only those who are willing to admit them and profit by them will ever be able to accomplish very much.

Mistakes occasionally are good for us—one and all—and we prove ourselves big when we frankly say: "I was mistaken."

BJORNSON AND THE BIRDS

Bjornson, the Norwegian poet, loved animals. In a lecture delivered by him when abroad he said: "At home in Norway we do not murder any of our song birds. Our children have for years banded themselves together in clubs to protect the birds' nests. But what we gain by this for our fields, gardens and woods is as nothing in comparison with what we gain for the education of our children in weaning them from cruelty and making them the protectors of the little birds. It teaches them to control their feelings and awakens enthusiasm for worthy causes. Their love of destruction we change to magnanimity. In Norway it is the school that teaches children their duty to song birds, and in the schools they form their societies for bird protection."—Animal Friend.

THE TWO LOBES OF THE BRAIN

In the ordinary working of the brain one half is more active than the other and exercises a superiority on its neighbor lobe. This lobe—in ordinary persons the left, of course—is the cerebral master. Heredity, education, or what we will—all the combined influences in short, which mold human life—have tended, by some process of physiological selection, to place one lobe over the other in point of importance. The other (right) lobe is the servant of the left in a measure. Its education has been neglected, and it requires the control of its better cultured neighbor in order that life may be conducted in a sensible and sane fashion. The most hopeless cases of insanity, Wigan would have held, would be those in which both hemispheres were affected. If one was alone ailing, the other might exert more or less control over it, and the extent of the control would depend on which lobe exhibited the diseased action. All degrees of insanity or mental derangement could thus be accounted for on this supposition of the relative control of one hemisphere by the other. The perfect life is that in which the better and higher half controls the weaker and less responsible.—Harper's.

UNITED STATES LEADS IN COAL PRODUCTION AND CONSUMPTION

The United States is, by far, the biggest coal producer, as well as coal user, of all the countries of the world. A comparison of the production and per capita consumption for a period just preceding the war shows that the annual production in the United Kingdom—England, Scotland and Wales—was 260,416,000 tons; Germany, 172,065,000; France, 39,740,000; Belgium, 22,603,000; Austria-Hungary, 16,813,000; Russian Empire, 25,998,000. The per capita consumption of the various countries shown was: United Kingdom, 3.83; Germany, 2.12; France, 1.48; Belgium, 3.35; Austria-Hungary, 0.52; Russian Empire, 0.19.

For the year 1913, which was immediately preceding the war, the total production of the United States was 569,960,219. Of this amount 22,141,143 tons was exported. The per capita consumption was 5.52 tons.

The great bulk of the coal produced in the United States is consumed by the railroads, the manufacturing, and public-service corporations.

A lucky man, on being asked how it felt to be engaged to a great heiress, replied:

"Fine! Every time I kiss her I feel as if I were clipping a coupon off a Government bond."

Wife—Percy, if a man were to sit on your hat, what would you say?
Husband—I should call him a confounded silly ass.

Wife—Then, don't sit on it any longer, there's a dear.

The above department should be of the greatest use to the community, the list contains the name of every professional man, tradesman, mechanic, shopkeeper, etc., who does or can in any way serve his fellow-townsmen, and who is progressive enough to add name to list of Register. As it is difficult for those contributing their time and efforts to the production of "Our Town" to personally either know or interview all such, it would be most helpful if those not now found in the printed list would send in a memo of their names, address, phone numbers and businesses or professions for listing. This will cost as follows: 10 cents each issue for 2 lines; 5 cents for each additional line.
