Department Store Advertisers Know

Department store advertisers are on the ground. They know conditions—they know newspapers. They check results from day to day and base their selection of media on their own proven records.

Year after year the leading dry good and department stores of Chicago have consistently used more space in The Daily News than in any other Chicago paper. Why? Because they know The Daily News produces the greatest volume of business at the minimum cost.

These advertisers base their selection of The Daily News on knowledge—not guess work; on practical results—not theoretical assumptions. Follow them.

OHIO FIRST

LOOK at this list of live, up-to-the-minute communities in the State of Ohio.

The city population alone in these cities amounts to 2,500,000 people. Two and a half million city folks—good, bad and indifferent—with the good way in the lead.

These newspapers have a daily circulation of 672,434 copies. Considerable over half a million home newspapers a day—and the combined circulation may be bought for $1.2062 per line.

In the Sunday field one may buy 453,952 copies for $.8014 per line.

AND IT IS ALL IN OHIO

Ohio in common with every State in the Union is a prosperous State—but prosperity is such a usual proposition in Ohio that it is more of a habit than an event, and Ohio people are used to it.

At that, Ohio is buying heavily of everything.

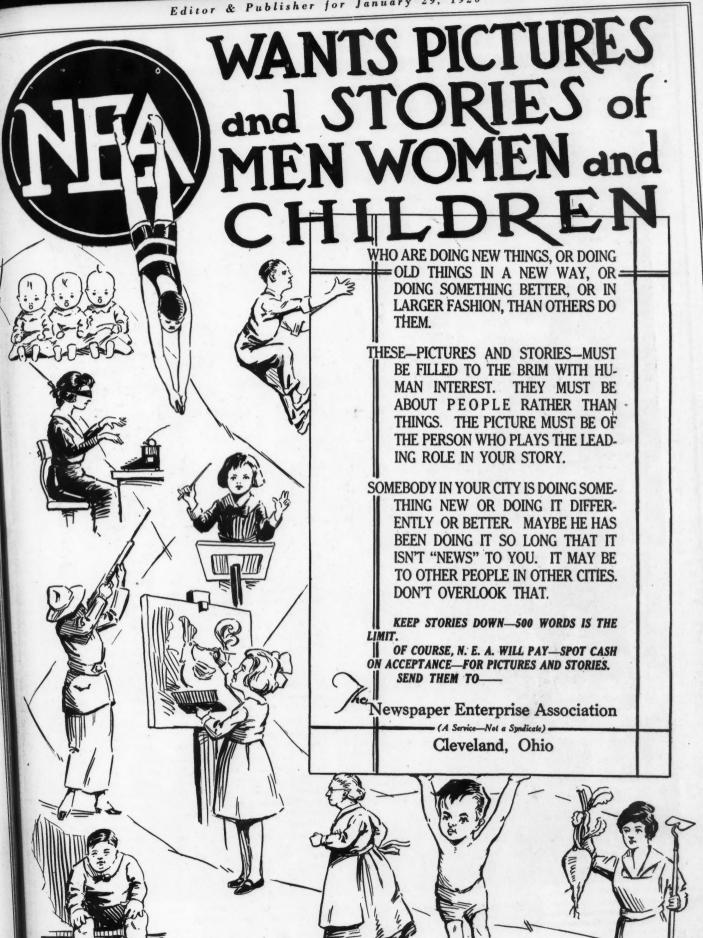

People with money insist upon good clothes, upon good automobiles—good everything.

Ohio manufacturing establishments insist upon the best and most up-to-date labor saving machinery.

Ohio people demand and receive daily newspapers a bit above the average—and these newspapers reach home. They are good advertising. Try them out to reach the people who buy the goods your agents handle.

PRINTING ART ENTERS NEW

N answer to the question: What are the mechanical developments 1919 in newspaper production? est of necessity be brief. If you add to this question: What are possiimmediate developments due to thoughts and incidents of 1919? nch can be said.

We will deal with the subject in e order of the cycle of newspaper oduction.

Composing Room: Nothing new or artling has happened here. Mahine composition is steadily increasng and the multi-magazine is slowly fishlacing the obsolete single-magaine machine. There is a growing endency to see the value of the individual typesetting machine for spe-cial ad work tabulations, sorts, rules, eads, borders, etc. In spite of all hese labor- and time-saving accesries, composing room costs are oaring steadily upward and the in-reased cost of labor is not the only actor contributing to this.

Intaglio 4,000 Years Old

For many years it has been apparit to the student of printing mechanics that printing is a lost art.

That relief printing is a compara-ive recent development is certain. In the British Museum and in its annex, he South Kensington Museum, are specimens of intaglio plates 3,000 to 4,000 years old, and, what is most exraordinary, matrices for reproduc-ion of these plates. To all appearince the characters and designs are agraved, but some designs, in duplicate, are so exact in every detail ome method of transfer must have been used. No one has ventured an explanation how the matrices were

Many firmly believe that a great dvancement is coming by means of system of composition without sing metallic characters or type in production of an original from which to produce printing plates for lanographic, rotogravure and relief rinting presses.

Uneven Printing Surfaces

So far in the modern art of printing metallic characters or type in ome form have been used for an original composition, whether in the form of type, line bars or typewritten latter, as recently employed by the Literary Digest and other periodicals. All printers know that the chief dif-ficulty in printing plates is a lack of in even printing surface, which requires much time to overcome before igh-class printing is possible. This evenness is due to imperfect metallic type, whether type, linebars or typewritten matter.

At present all kinds of printing resses obtain their printing plates from these imperfect metallic characters. This imperfection appears in planographic, rotogravure and relief plates. In newspaper printing these and let the sum total of these charof real printing.

Knowing these things to be true, and knowing that the production of gives truer printing surfaces than those obtained from the metallic characters in use, some inventors have endeavored to overcome the difficulties. If pictures can be so accurately reproduced by means of photoetching, the question arises: "Why not consider each character a picture imperfections are so glaring that the acter-pictures become the original result is a kind of "embossing" in lieu from which to make printing plates for planographic, rotogravure and relief printing presses?"

Such was the question Vincent F. half-tones by photo-etching processes Lake, a well known composing machine inventor, put to himself over twelve years ago. After many years' effort, he has designed machines to produce a product to be known as a "phototype product," meaning that no metallic characters are used in producing it.

He has devised means for rapidly photographing individual characters to give any desired original in phototype form, and also means for rapidly producing printing plates for planographic, rotogravure and relief printing presses. Special attention has been given to rapid composing and automatic elimination of errors at the time of composition, and many details have been designed to give rapid automatic phototype action in justified columns. Experts, who have carefully investigated these designs, predict a great saving in cost of composition and in press output, no matter what method of printing is used.

Time Element Too Acute

The "phototype method" dispenses with metallic characters in composi-It also dispenses with stereotyping and electrotyping, and gives in lieu thereof, even-faced photo-etched surfaces in printing plates.

No one but a dreamer would venture its utility in newspaper production at present, as the time element is too acute. To the magazine and book publishers it offers an excellent opportunity for combined economical production, and with the newspaper it may eventually lead to a slow evo-lution from its present cumbersome methods.

Stereotyping: Nothing new has been discovered. The use of the dry mat has not advanced as it should, due solely to the fact the manufacturer has not produced a mat equal to the German or English mat, and at a price not prohibitive. This must come, as the time-saving, elimination of steam tables and gas bills to heat them: the convenience of cold forms for corrections and make-overs and the much better printing obtained from plates cast from an integral dry mat, makes it almost a necessity. That the dry mat, to obtain the best results, must be made integral, and not laminated, is the real solution; apparently the American manufacturer has not discovered the proper

Press Room: The growing circulations and size of papers the past two years have put a great strain on pressroom facilities, and the press building shops being commandeered by the Government for over two years has put the press builder so far be-hind with his orders, that he has no thought other than to get the work out and follow his standard design, which, by the way, has passed down through the ages like the steam roller.

encouraging sign, however, stands out in the gloom of stagna-tion: two of the large press manufacturers have adopted roller bearings as a standard for plate, impression, folding and cutting cylinder. What a relief this will be to the conscientious pressman who is continually confronted with cylinder streaks

Some progressive, courageous publisher, sooner or later, will let his mechanical department design newspaper press along sound engineering lines. Practically all rotative parts chain driven, and that inferno of noise-the pressroom-will become reasonably quiet, the continual smashing of gears eliminated, better and faster printing obtained, less power used and a press more compact and accessible. A New York pressroom now has many of its important press parts chain-driven, and unwieldy gear drives that were continually smashing the gears have been replaced with chain drives, to the great relief of all concerned.

The continuous feed conveyor is being rapidly adopted and present designs, lending themselves to practically any condition of location of pressroom and mailing and delivery room, make it a simple proposition to install.

Paper Reels Not Advancing

The magazine-reel is not advancing as its merits warrant. This is no doubt due to the necessity of a new building or very radical alterations in old buildings.

Two large Eastern publishers have new press equipment ordered to be installed with magazine-reels.

Quite extensive experimenting with rubber rollers in lieu of the timehonored composition rollers is going on throughout the country. At present these experiments have been mainly in fountain and distributing rollers, although in some instances form rollers have been tried. It is too early to determine their efficiency, as the first cost is so much in excess of the old type of roller that a very long life of the rubber roller is necessary to offset this.

After 15 years' rest a new cork blanket has made its appearance. This blanket is made along more substantial lines than Linoleum, Rexine and Pantasole blankets that were very extensively experimented with in 1904 and 1905. Many attempts have been made to find substitutes for rubber and felt blankets, and, luckily, the automatic blanket has dispensed with the necessity of a tympan sheet, as the present price of cotton goods would make the use of tympan very expensive.

Rotogravure: This form of printing is becoming so popular with Sunday magazine sections for the large daily papers that it is becoming a part of newsprint machinery equipment, although many of the publishers are having their rotogravure sections printed by commercial houses. Rotogravure development has been slow owing to the fact that it is practically impossible to get the machinery built. Although the ink cost is one-half of the ink cost when rotogravure was first introduced in this country, it is still much too high for commercial production. This can undoubtedly be overcome by the introduction of rotogravure offset. Little is known of this other than for color work, and very little of that is being done. Some extensive experiments will shortly be conducted and we will then have some idea as to the quality, efficiency and ink reduction costs of intaglio offset. If the experiments prove successful, we can look for much quicker drying, which will mean greatly increased speed. The ink man will have to rise to the occasion and make an ink suit-

also will have to produce etchings necessary to obtain equally as good results as we are now getting from the copper cylinder direct. Both these achievements should not be difficult.

Printers and Writers Want Raise

SCRANTON, PA., Jan. 29.—Request for a further increase in wages has just been filed with the Scranton newspaper publishers by members of Typographical Union, No. 112. The printers are now receiving $34 days and $37 nights. They ask for a day rate of $45 and a night scale of $47.50 to $50. Members of the Newswriters' Union of Scranton also contemplate asking the publishers to agree to open up their present wage scale which has over a year to run.

the moment he attempts any fast able for offset work, and the etcher GRAVURE ADVERTISING licitors for the rotogravure section MADE BIG STRIDES

Newspapers in 35 States, With Three Million Circulation, Expect 1920 to Equal Unexpected 1919 Record

By AL SEIFFER,

Rotogravure Department, S. C. Beckwith Special Agency

The advertising manager of a metropolitan paper made the statement some time ago that his chief worry regarding rotogravure advertising was to diplomatically turn away the excess which he was receiving over what he could carry. While I have not heard a similar statement from advertising managers of other newspapers, I feel safe in saying that this in the case of many papers throughout the country.

It is only natural that during the 1919 "orgy" of spending money for advertising that rotogravure should increase. However, it was the opinion of many that prior to 1919 the quantity of rotogravure advertising was at a low enough ebb to be able to stand most any kind of an in-crease. Most advertising men did not see that the time was so near at hand when rotogravures would have to turn away advertisers desirous of getting their messages to the public through this medium.

Covers 35 States

The biggest factor in increasing the number and size of rotogravure appropriations has been the addition by many papers throughout the country of rotogravure sections. So long as advertisers were obliged to consider rotogravure as a purely local proposition the quantity of rotogravure advertising was very limited .. Today national advertisers can buy 3.500,000 circulation and over, distributed quite conveniently in 35 states. Also, every addition of the rotogravure section to a Sunday newspaper meant that this newspaper would advertise the section, which kept the word "rotogravure" constantly before the advertiser.

The increase in rotogravure advertising has been felt particularly along the following lines:

Larger copy is being used, with attractive pictures, thereby taking full advantage of rotogravure possibilities. Advertisers are using rotogravure more than ever during the outof-season months. Manufacturers of products selling to the men, as well as manufacturers selling to the women, have been awakened to the power of rotogravure advertising.

Local Accounts Grow

At the beginning it was largely the national advertisers who bought and used rotogravure space. Today local stores are beginning to see the light.

Were we never to look at a rotogravure paper or even look at statistics showing the amount of rotogravure advertising, we could not help escaping the fact that rotogravure is What newspaper on the incline. would spend $50,000 advertising the addition of a rotogravure section were this not a fact? Would you find a large special agency adding a special rotogravure department and another special agency formed for the purpose of representing rotogravure Would we find any sections only? newspapers employing separate advertising managers and corps of so-

alone

It is hard to say just what increase in quantity of advertising will be made in 1920 over 1919. It is pretty safe to say this increase will not be great as the increase in 1919 over 1918, for the reason that most papen would find it impractical, regardless of the quantity of advertising they might receive, to increase their roto gravures much above the present size. To look at most rotogravure would prove the point that unless they increase the size not much more advertising could be accepted. Once a paper gets to a point where it i publishing a 24 or 32-page rotogravure, it is going about as far as it can go, and some of our papers would find it impractical and almost impossible to publish anywhere near a 21 page section.

However, rotogravure did make m precedented and rapid strides during 1919. It will be quite interesting to watch it during 1920.

It may surprise many of you, then, to hear that the Detroit News took its telegraph editor-still a young man and able with six copy readers to handle the Associated Press, United Press, Intenational News Service, Chicago Daily

FLOYD J. MILLER

News Service and the paper's own bureau stories from Washington, New York and London-gave him an increase in salary and placed him in charge of what is now known as its reference department.

Something's up! What?

A new department of newspaper work has come into being. And this department is the one which today, to my mind, offers a greater opportunity for development, a larger chance for the pioneer, than any other branch of the editorial side of daily newspapers. A new specialty is being developed. Newspapers are following the example of the great manufacturing plants in setting up this laboratory, where the research for truth may be carried on side by side with the getting out of a many-editioned daily.

Developing Hunches

It was this fact which attracted me from the news room. But when I took the position I had only a general sense, rather than a distinct realization of the possibilities of and absolute necessity for this specialization,

Moreover, the Detroit News planned to go a step farther than any other paper of which we knew. The work of myself and my five assistants was to be active as well as passive. That is, we do not content ourselves with the collection, classification and filing of material to await calls, but we follow the paper from edition to edition and anticipate de-

A bulletin in one edition serves as a hint on which I may develop a threeem follow, a character sketch, a map, diagram or art layout, based on my own knowledge of the needs of our news room and also of the material available in this department. One more head is added to the battery of the managing

An Intimate Description of What Is Possibly the Most Modern Information Filing System of Any American Newspaper.

BY FLOYD J. MILLER

Director Reference Department, Detroit News

very often it can develop hunches which they miss, in the pressure of edition matter.

What does the modern reference department do?

It endeavors to gather and have ready for immediate reference all the information which its director and the paper's executives believe will be of use in expanding, explaining and interpreting the news stories as they reach the various editors' desks.

There are variations of the system. Probably fewer than 20 papers in the United States, however, really are developing this department to the extent and in the systematic manner necessary to obtain its full value. As long as any newspaper continues to use its "morgue" as the dumping ground for men who have slowed up or for incompetents who have failed everywhere else, it will have a department which is adequately described by its grave-like title.

No More a Dumping Ground

But when it puts in trained newspaper men and women to conduct this work, gives them the moral and financial support and adequate space and equipment, and insists that the staff "produce," it will have something startlingly new, and which it is a sorry insult to label with the old mortuary name.

Some papers keep all photographs and cuts in the art department. We keep all these in the reference department. But we do make one division different, I believe, from that of any other newspaper. Many papers which are developing modern systems now call this deeditor, news editor, telegraph editor and partment the "library." With the Detroit News, owing to the exceptional facilities of the library proper, we have two separate, but closely co-ordinated departments, the reference department and the library. The general rule is that all bound volumes go into the library.

The Detroit News library, by the way, has no parallel in the United States. Its 13,000 volumes, all bought within the last three and a half years and includ-ing absolutely none of the "junk" with which so many shelves are cluttered up, is under the supervision of a veteran editorial department man, who has three assistants.

Only Two Places to Look

In the reference department we cover cuts, photographs, clippings and pamphlets. Simplicity governs the system of filing.

In the first place, there are only two places in which to look for material; the cut cases and the general cases.

Secondly, the keynote of the entire system is straight alphabetical filing, with no sub-groupings or other special arrangements to split up the material and cause greater confusion.

My predecessor, Harry Pence, now modernizing the Cincinnati Enquirer's system, and who started the present system of the Detroit News, explained the plan thus:

The encyclopedia and the dictionary. which list more subjects than any other volumes, follow a straight alphabetical arrangement, without any division into departments. Simplicity, absence of confusion and speed in finding things result. The same plan is followed here."

Since that time I have inspected the plants of many newspapers, but I have seen no other plan which seemed as completely satisfactory.

Perhaps it will be a little more clear if I explain how this alphabetical arrangement works.

As an example:
"Abbas, Philipp", "Aborigines", and
"Absent Voting" are filed in order in the same drawer.

Under some systems it is necessary to remember that your "biographical' mat-ter is in one part of the room, "places" in another and other "subject matter" or "miscellaneous matter", as it is called, is in other special groups.

The alphabet alone determined the arrangement of any of our envelopes in a single general file.

A tremendous advantage in this plan is that it is adapted to the use of a news-paper having a single filing case or one having two hundred. It can be expanded or contracted at will.

For reasons of its own, and which would not apply on every paper, the Detroit News files photographs and clip-pings together. Thus we go a step further in our plan of "everything in one place." If it is a cut, it is in the cut cases.

If it is a clipping, a photograph or a pamphlet, it is in the general cases.

If unusual size (photographs) or bulk (pamphlets) makes it advisable, material is transferred to the large photograph file or the special pamphlet file. But the record is kept by a card in the general file, so that this general file al-ways tells what material is available, thus saving a hunt in three or four divisions.

The positive uses to which we put the reference department may be summed up under five heads:
1.—Obituaries. This was the main purpose of the old morgue, but is only a secondary function of the modernized department.

2.-Interviews. Reporters consult the files, before going after interviews, and get light on the interests, achievements and characteristics of the person to be interviewed. The leads thus obtained often develop front page stories from what might otherwise be mere twaddle.

3.-We want information about people more for its value in connection with some new achievement or sone new publie interest in them today, while they are alive, than for the single and final use

4.—Through our clippings we are able to follow the progress of any political, economic or other movement, and to present a history of this movement while it is still growing and before it is either old enough or stabilized sufficiently to be presented in bound volumes.

5.—The Detroit News believes particularly that it is the function of the present-day newspaper to explain and interpret the news, as well as merely to report it as it reaches the desks of the various editors. It has a large staff of special writers, much of whose time is spent on stories which develop the personality of some figure prominent in the day's news; or gather scattered threads of many months and weave a coneise account of a labor, political or scientific situation; or use the knowledge of the past to point out the possibilities the future regarding certain firstof newspaper work, including at least page happenings.

What the Staff Does

With the uses of the material thus briefly described, we may turn to the question of the staff and what it does to gather and prepare the material. work to the fullest advantage, the director should have had a number of years copy desk work, if not executive direction, on both local and telegraph copy.

The head of the department should have the imagination and the initiative necessary to develop new ideas. Today, more than will be the case ten years from now, he is a pioneer and must work out most of his own problems. The director is called on continually to exercise news judgment. There is no more of the automatic about his work in handling material than there is about the work of the telegraph or news editors. A sense of system likewise is indispensible.

The director should be subject to as little regular daily routine as possible, as he must be available at all times to jump to a news story or to carry out the rearrangements or subjects and material which he discovers each hour are necessary to meet changing news conditions

Deciding What to Keep

The work of each member of his staff, however, may be laid out along certain definite lines. Each worker should specialize in one duty, while being familiar with all the work of the department. After the rather brief period of my own service in this line, I am inclined to believe that young women, with little or no experience in the editorial department, but with intelligence, a pretty fair education and a sense of system, are best adapted to the work. Reportorial experience, strange as it may seem, often proves a detriment.

In continually kicking the system into better shape, the head of the department finds his greatest task, at least as far as bulk is concerned. He must first as bulk is concerned. He must first decide what to keep. On our paper we index (something after the manner of the New York Times), and then file all the news in each day's paper. This includes only part of the society and sports. We also clip generously from twenty outside papers thoroughly, as well as the magazines. The general rule in the office is that nobody shall throw away anything, but send it down to me and let me pass judgment on it. The result sometimes is distressing to the nervous system, but the results are large.

Having decided what to save, one must then decide where to put it. This classification problem is vital, for on its solution depends the coherency of a system and the certainty and readiness with which material can be produced when demanded. In addition to the individuals' envelopes, we have 7,000 general subjects.

The subject "Army, U. S." has nearly 200 sub-divisions

"Aeronauties" has half as many.

So the task of deciding how to mark and where to file a story often is diffi-For it must be classified and filed so that it can be found, often when only the vaguest idea of the story sticks in the mind of the inquirer.

Glaneing back over the above paragraphs, I fear I may have indicated that myself and a few other intrepid young men have just gone out in the last few months and discovered this great and hither-to unknown journalistic territory.

Far be it! Although these younger men still are pioneers, the real deepin-the-woods pioneers were the few men who really have attempted to do something along this line in the last twenty years. But they were handicapped in many ways, principally because newspapers had not developed enough efficiency in their editorial departments to realize the vital necessity of a live reference department.

been lacking. Now for the first time, newspapers in general are becoming awake to the situation and offering some inducements to the men and women who wish to become experts in this special

All Pioneers

Getting back again to the fundamentals of the system-there are two distinet plans of filing material.

Several papers, including the Indianapolis News, Brooklyn Eagle and St. Louis Post-Dispatch, file each clipping from their own paper in a separate envelope, about 6½ by 4 inches. outside of the envolope contains the classification, as "Aeronautics—Atlantic Flight—NC-4," in the upper left hand corner.

To the right and under this is written a brief summary of the story, so other Detroit papers and go over about that is is unnecessary to look into the envelope to tell what the clipping is

> Obviously this is an advantage, but it appears to me that this is over-specialization; that the time and labor spent are too great to pay for themselves, especially when there are so many things crying to be done.

> I am a firm advocate of thoroughness, but what observation has been permitted me has indicated that the same number of workers, under a different system, can file almost 50 per cent more mate-And with most newspapers the question of building up an adequate department is one whose solution will take > years. There is no time to lose.

> The "different system" to which I refer is the one most papers use. velopes ranging from 61/2 by 4 to 91/2 by 111/2 are used, but a number of elippings are placed in the same envelope, which bears the classification and sub-classification, but does not attempt to summarize the contents.

Thus "Aeronautics-Aces." "Aeronauties-Atlantic Flight, 1919-American Entries-Photos" are some of the titles.

It is true that the small index envelope system described above saves some time in finding a clipping; but I believe this is more than counter-balanced in our system by the greater amount of material that can be filed in the general envelopes in the time saved by not devoting so much attention to each single elipping.

The "Different" System

The disadvantages of the large envelope system, however, are apparent. But they are so apparent that it should be possible to avoid them. Matter in Both moral and financial support has the larger subjects should be divided and sub-divided constantly to prevent any envelope becoming too bulky. Bulky envelopes mean torn clippings and much work in looking for a single story. The remedy is continual sub-division.

By adopting the index system used by the Philadelphia Bulletin and the Philadelphia Public Ledger, the Detroit News has gained one advantage denied the small envelope system.

Under any filing plan there is danger that material will be lost, torn, worn out or misplaced. By indexing our paper daily (the Philadelphia plan is really an adaptation of the New York Times index) on loose leaf sheets which at the end of the year can be bound into a volume, we prevent any story being sunk without trace. Our own index, although only five months old, is of daily use in locating stories we have printed.

There are a number of other check which go to make the large envelope sys. tem more air-tight.

A eard catalogue of 7,000 cards lists the titles of all envelopes, except his graphical, which obviously have only one possible place in the files. This subject list shows at a glance, without a trip to the large cases, whether there is an envelope on a certain subject or just what the wording of the classification is.

We also use the New York Times index, the International Year Book, the file of our Questions-and-Answers column man, the 13,000 books in our library and other material for checking up constantly.

BETWEEN November 15, 1919, and January 19, 1920, 617 daily newspapers raised their foreign general minimum space rates, and four daily newspapers decreased their rates. The net increase in the minimum agate rate is $5.51. Of these increases the changes in sixty-four papers, amounting to .785 per agate line, are not effective until February 1, or thereafter, so that the actual increase in the minimum space rate of all our English-language daily newspapers amounts to but $4.725 per agate line, an increase in the total rate of 6615 per cent since November 15, 1919; 13.59 per cent since July 1, 1919, and 23.53 per cent since January 1, 1919.

During this period the net paid circulation of the English-language daily newspapers decreased approximately six and one-half per cent. On January 1, 1919, the minimum agate line rate per million circulation was $2.15. On January 19, 1920, the minimum rate per line per million circulation was $2.85. An increase of seventy cents, or 32.56 per cent.

In other words, the cost of daily newspaper advertising space during the past twelve months has advanced less than thirty-three and one-third per cent, in the face of increased manufacturing costs ranging from fifty to over one hundred per cent, and a newsprint shortage which has forced many publishers during the past sixty days to leave out page after page of advertising.

Compared to the increased costs during 1919 to the manufacturers and consumers of America, and the increased costs of all other forms of publicity, the increased cost of daily newspaper advertising is small agate line rates during the past ten weeks. In this period twenty-eight per cent of the English language daily papers, with fifty per cent of the total net paid circulation, increased their minimum rates 20.90 per cent over their previous minimum agate line rates. Three papers made two increases during this period and twenty-six included adjustable cancellation clauses as a part of all contracts.

On these pages are given in detail the actual changes in the minimum

Advertisers, agents, publishers and representatives desiring to see just what changes have been made can quickly get the facts they desire by referring to the itemized lists, arranged for their convenience by states and cities on the following pages.

"AC," following the name of a paper, indicates adjustable contract clause. The circulation figures are the net paid for the six months' period, ending September 30, 1919, as reported to the A. B. C. or to the Government. In a few cases it has been necessary to estimate the circulation which has been indicated by the abbreviation "Est." in parentheses, preceding the circulation figures. Where rates are flat an asterisk has been used to indicate the fact.

This is but one of the many important and timely compilations prepared for Editor & Publisher by Barbour's Advertising Rate Sheets, Inc., giving to the newspaper and advertising industry the real condition of the rates and circulations. While the essence of this data is given in but a few words, and the detailed information occupies but a few columns, they represent weeks and months of tedious, trying work, in order that vital, correct facts may be available and the true costs and scope of daily newspaper advertising may be made known.

I. N. S. Leased Wire System Grew to Over 26,000 Miles in 1919

BY MARLEN E. PEW

Editor and General Manager, International News Service.

F DITOR & PUBLISHER requests L a statement on International News Service achievements in 1919 for publication in the New Year review. All right, happily!

The I. N. S. family, numbering 422 men and women, and scattered over the entire world, wrote, handled or transmitted approximately 10,950,000 words of public information—the equivalent of 438 average size novels, or 12,166 average newspaper columns.

That's a heap of "stuff," but I. N. S. does not boast of mere volume.

During the year there were added more than 1,500 miles of leased wire to the I. N. S. system. The total wire length of the I. N. S. system now exceeds 26,000 miles. I. N. S. now maintains 24 bureaus in as many cities, in addition to hundreds of correspondents and many connections with important independent news-gathering agencies here and abroad covering every field of interest.

Automatic Circuits

The Washington bureau, under direction of William Philip Simms, employs eighteen high-class news writers; the New York bureau, under Barry Faris, employs a staff of twenty-six men and women; there are six men in the London bureau; three men in the Paris bureau; two men at Berlin; six men at Chicago; four men at San Francisco,

During the year a total of 258 additional newspapers subscribed to I. N. S. service. Of this number 42 take the full leased wire report; the bal-ance are new "pony" and special service clients. Some of the best newspapers in the country have contracted for I. N. S. full service during the year and service is now being sold in England, France and Germany.

Two new automatic news printer cir-, with 300 miles of wire, have been established. Our printers deliver as high as 14,000 words in 8 hours, with as erfect copy, as high speed and reliability as through Morse operation.

The cardinal rule in I. N. S. is accuracy of statement. Insofar as it is humanly possible to do so, the I. N. S. family has reported the naked truth. We want speed, good writing and thorough covering of the day's spontaneous news, but never at the expense of accuracy and nothing but disinterested reporting is tolerated.

Honor and Honesty

Every American editor of experience is humble in the matter of maintaining perfect accuracy-news is a slippery article. The best anyone can do is to employ honorable reporters and instruct them to deliver an honest product. I. N. S. has made no severe blunder: it has attempted to deal in all candor with telegraph editors.

It has paid its way; has sought to maintain honorable relations with its rivals as with all individuals in the news field and its news achievements speak for themselves.

Thus, papers from Alaska to Argentina and from Manila to Havana are included in this world's largest newsgathering organization of over 1.250

With the conclusion of the war, it has been necessary to broaden rather than restrict foreign news-gathering and today the Associated Press has its staff men not only once again in Germany and Austria but in many countries of Europe where before the war it was not necessary for them.

At home, at a period of many newspaper consolidations, membership continues to grow, and experience teaches us that the basic principle of our organization—mutual exchange of news among members-is an asset of utmost value to our members. No-membership.

Since we continue our satisfactory exchange relations with the Canadian Press, Ltd., an organization based upon the same principles of co-operation as our own, the newspapers of the entire western hemisphere are now linked in a union which knows no other purpose than the conscientious effort to report news as it happens without fear or favor, without bias and partisanship, and without any other opinion than is attributed quotation marks to men hold it.

Perhaps it is no exaggeration to say that the Associated Press is the most striking instance of co-operative effort extant. Although its members include publishers of papers not only in the English language, but also in Spanish, French, Italian, Portuguese and German, and although every shade of political, racial and social opinion is represented, in newsgathering they are united in the simple effort to ascertain the truth disseminate it as expeditiously as is consistent with accuracy.

U. P. Serving Nearly 100

BY KARL A. BICKEL

Business Manager United Press Associations

THE year just ended probably was productive of more vital and varied news than any similar period in the history of journalism. Among the outstanding news events were the signing of the peace treaty, President Wilson's tour of the country in support of the treaty and the league of nations, the treaty fight in the senate, the first trans-Atlantic and transcontinental flights, the adoption of the federal prohibition amendments and the great steel and coal strikes. The world struggle to restore normal social, industrial and commercial conditions presented an unique news situation, and one bristling with possibilities.

In these big events and in the handling of the day's routine the United Press established a record of speed, accuracy efficiency and foresight that made 1919 stand out as a banner year of achievement.

During the year the domestic and foreign news-gathering machinery was greatly developed and strength-Staff personnel was increased at home and abroad and plans for 1920 laid in anticipation of the vast flow of news that will result from the new community of interest with Europe and the portentous news situain America.

All former records for growth in clientele and in the extension of leased wire mileage for the United Press were broken in 1919. More than 6.121 miles of wire was added to the United Press systems.

One of the notable improvements in the transmission system of the United Press was the establishment of an express trunk wire system between New York and Chicago with but one drop located at Cleveland, This trunk is probably the fastest wire operated by any press association in America. This arrangement has permitted a general reorganization of the United Press wire system resulting in the organization of a number of new state and regional district circuits affording an increased opportunity of giving each publisher a superior state service.

THE CANADIAN PRESS LIMIT-ED, which serves practically every daily Canadian newspaper with a news service on a mutual and cooperative basis, experienced a very successful year in 1919. Like other news agencies, increased cost entered very largely into the story of its achievement. Operating as it does achievement. Operating as it does some 12,000 miles of leased wire from Sydney, Cape Breton, to Victoria, on Vancouver Island, it has had to expend a greatly increased sum in wages to its telegraphers, and increased cost of living has found reflection in a general increase of salaries to the editorial staff. # The Sun and New York Herald

THE SUN is the oldest morning newspaper in New York. It was founded in 1833. The Herald is the next oldest morning newspaper in New York. It was founded two years later, or in 1835. Each of these newspapers has played a great part in American journalism. Each was a pioneer on different lines.

Together they overturned and revolutionized American journalism and were the pathfinders and pacemakers of our present day journalism. Each has builded bigger in its special field than any other American newspaper.

The success of the amalgamation of THE SUN and The New York Press is an outstanding record in the history of American journalism. The success of the amalgamation of THE SUN and The New York Herald ought to be immeasurably greater.

These two newspapers are of the same world, the world of intellect and law and order. And each newspaper has something to bring to the other that will make the amalgamated papers better than either has ever been on its own.

shock to many of you, most of you in fact, who have clung faithfully to the Herald while other New York newspapers have been more vigorously handled, have been better nourished, and as a consequence have steadily forged ahead of the old leader in circulation and in earnings.

But in spite of this fact you have never wavered in your allegiance to the Herald. The reason for this, I assume, is that the Herald has never lost its atmosphere of refinement. A newspaper reflects the soul of the man who owns it and puts himself into it. Mr. Bennett was a man of good breeding, a man of refined contacts, a man of the world.

The Herald has covered as no other American newspaper has ever covered the doings of the social world, dramatic world, musical world and world of sports. Its sporting news has had a peculiar Herald flavor, more refined in theme and in handling than such news in other newspapers.

Because of these outstanding characteristics, the Herald has been an extraordinary favorite with women readers everywhere—women of education, position and refined taste. In later years the Herald has lacked manly vigor. It has depended largely on its specialtics, whereas it should have added to these specialtics more of the strength of the vigorous morning newspaper of to-day. It had these vigorous qualities in big measure in its early days and they were still outstanding characteristics of the Herald when its great editor and owner, the late James Gordon Bennett, was in his prime, his journalistic vision then stretching out to the furthermost parts of the world.

Without his hand to guide it, without his genius to vitalize it, without his generous purse to finance it, it has given place in the race for supremacy. But in spite of all this the prestige and power and world fame of the New York Herald remain undimmed. They are an asset of inestimable value. No newspaper can be great without them. I want to tell you, you stanch friends of the Herald, that I was no less unhappy than perhaps you are to-day when my analysis of the situation in the Herald office convinced me that it should be combined with The Sun. I had hoped it might wisely be continued as an independent entity. If I had yielded to sentiment and pride I should have entered upon the fight so to continue it. Because of these outstanding characteristics, the Herald has been

But pride has no place in economics. To have continued the Herald as an independent entity would have been in opposition to all the laws of economics, all the laws of sound business.

Its printing plant is archaic and worn to the breaking point. There is no machinery there of any practical value. A new equipment could not be installed under a year and a half, and then at a cost of $1,000,000 and more.

THE SUN does not need the Herald in combination, but the Herald needs THE SUN. THE SUN has a wonderful mechanical equipment, enormous in size and thoroughly representative of the very last word in printing machinery. THE SUN has acres of floor space for its printing plant, for its editorial rooms and for its offices—a magnificently equipped newspaper shop in all particulars.

The Herald not only has no printing machinery but has no home, or will have no home in another fifteen months. The ground lease on which the Herald Building rests terminates at the end of April next year and then the Herald Building will become the property of the owners of the ground.

owners of the ground.

While The Sun is in an impregnably strong position and does not need the Herald in combination, yet it cannot help benefiting from taking on the Herald atmosphere, the Herald circulation and the Herald prestige. The Herald, on the other hand, will benefit enormously from combining with The Sun. It will have the advantage of The Sun's fine organization and of The Sun's great mechanical equipment. Moreover, it will get from The Sun the vigor and energy and initiative that the Herald has lacked in recent years. It will get, too, as great a measure of prestige as it gives, for The Sun's reputation for cleverness, for earnestness, for courage mounts quite as big in the aggregate as the far famed reputation of the New York Herald. Together, in one entity, these two newspapers ought to make one very in one entity, these two newspapers ought to make one very great newspaper.

The foregoing tells you why I am amalgamating The Sun and the Herald. It is a long statement, but the occasion merits it; it is your right to have this statement.

One word more and I have done. The New York Herald, your Herald, is not going to die. My purchase of the Herald and this merging bring it back to its own again, bring it back to the days of its youth when it was a very great newspaper, a very great force in our nation.

RECORD MACHINERY DEMAN

Larger Number of Pages Are Overwhelming

BY OSCAR ROESEN

THE year of 1919 has certainly been exceptional in the newspaper publishers' business, as well as in the press building industry. Ever since the signing of the armistice last November the call for new presses and new machinery has been extraordinary and as far as R. Hoe & Company is concerned has taxed their large factory to its utmost. In fact, they have at present more orders on their books now than at any one time the history of their existence, which is over 100 years, and the orders are still coming in.

It is not only here in the United States that this prosperity exists, but their London works have had more orders than they have been able to turn out, which forces the New York works to take the overflow. At the present time they have under construction 125 large presses, none less than quadruple size, besides many magazine and rotogravure machines.

This large amount of business is naturally due to the stopping of press construction during the war, giving preference to the needs of the United States Government in building gun mounts. The extraordinary advertising, coupled with the interest taken in the news of the day on the League of Nations, Prohibition and reconstruction, has taxed newspapers to the utmost, forcing them to run a larger number of pages. Where the equipment was limited to a certain number of pages and the publishers were forced to collect, thereby reducing their pressroom capacity by half, naturally they looked for more equipment, especially for presses printing a larger number of pages.

It might be well to note that oc-tuples, which began to be favored several years ago, seem now to be the standard machine, and in many cases publishers of large newspapers the large cities have been compelled to run beyond 32, and in some instances up to 40 and 48 pages.

In the last 30 years there has been several periods:

First, one for four- and eight-page presses; second, one for 10 and 12 pages; third, for 14 and 16; fourth, 24 pages, the sextuple capacity, and now, up to 32 pages, octuple capacity, with a leaning toward decuple, or 40-page capacity.

After 40 pages it seems wise to business. again revert to the sextuple princi-ple, collecting for 36, 40, 44 and 48 orders that passed through the Mer-adaptation of six-roll machines up to 48 pages, with 96 plates and six double width rolls of paper up, seems like tying up too much in one machine where time is so limited. The liability of one web breaking and causing delay makes impracticable such a large machine on an afternoon edition.

All newspaper publishers naturally suffered on account of poor quality paper that they have to run with, especially when they are forced to go outside of their usual mills to get the surplus amount of paper required for their larger editions, taking any kind of paper that they can This, of course, reduces the get. capacity in the press room, and in-creases the waste, and has been a most serious feature in most press rooms

Treating the business of the two companies as a whole, this year's business shows an increase of about 60 per cent, over last year, with a very bright prospect for 1920. The demand among publishers for im-proved methods of mailing seems to be increasing. Especially where high speed handling of newspapers in the mail room is required an appreciation of the multi-mailer system is expressed.

In the plants of newspapers where requirements are not large enough for the Speedaumailers, which address, fold and wrap automatically, there is a keen appreciation of pasted labels, printed from Speedaumats of zinc, on which the address is written in embossed letters by the Typograph. A considerable number of installations of these smaller machines has been made during the present

The past year saw the accomplishment of this hope in the form of Linotype typography which arms the owner of every Linotype for composition of any quality, including a use of ornament hitherto impossible except by inordinately expensive handwork.

Another important Linotype facility in 1919 was the Model 20, which makes straight machine matter of display up to 30-point, and even larger in some of the condensed faces. This expansion of machine-economy eliminates at least 80 per cent. of hand composition for display in 18-point and larger, making a great improvement in the field of head-lines, as well as advertising. The latitude in general composition has also been extraordinarily increased by the installation throughout the country in not only large offices, but in the smaller ones, of multiple-magazine Linotypes. # Typograph Manufacturing Capacity Will Be Fifty Machines Monthly

BY C. J. JOHNSTON

THE Ludlow Typograph Company held its annual convention in Chicago, December 29, 30, 31, the members of the installation and sales forces from all parts of the country taking part in the program.

The convention showed that the Ludlow Typograph Company has just completed the most successful year in its history. Their production and sales of display type equipment to the trade surpassed all records.

The present officers of the company William A. Reade, president; George O. Cromwell, vice-president; H. J. Poppenhagen, treasurer; H. H. Muir directs the sales and installation forces in the western district, and C. J. Johnson is in charge in the East. Production is in charge of A. H. Hed-

Plate-Gothic Composition Unit Newest Feature of the Monotype

BY DANIEL BAKER

THE year 1919 has been notable in the progress of the Lanston Monotype Machine Company, because dur-ing this year the new Plate-Gothic Composition Unit was completed and put on the market. This adds a most important new unit to the Monotype machine, already so flexible that the printer may start with a machine to set one face in one point-size and by simply adding aditional units increase its capacity to the handling of composition in all point-sizes from 41/2 to 18-point, in all measures up to sixty picas, and in every class of intricate tabular and blank form work; type for the operation of complete Non-Distribution in the hand room. The Plate-Gothic improvement is revolutionary in that it provides for machine up to 50 per cent of all the job composition now being done by hand in the commercial plant. Seven complete series of Plate-Gothic are now available and other job faces are being added.

As a culmination of six years of te-ing craft that they are now able to supply Electro Display Matrices, in Roman and Italic, of the original Caslon of the English foundry in all of the sizes from 14-point to 36-point body, inclusive, with the single exception of the 22-point body.

The year has also recorded a great advance in the Monotype System for newspaper ad composition. This system is complete, including composi-tion for everything from 4½ to 18-point, the casting of all display type up to 36-point and the manufacture of all other material for use by the hand men.

Many other improvements and refinements have been completed or are under way, among which is a new tabular device which makes the setting of intricate box heads and reading matter in parallel columns as simple and easy to handle as plain straight newspaper and book composition. Following the policy of the company, this device can be applied to any Monotype in use, permitting Monotype owners to have the benefit of new improvements without the necessity of buying new machines.

Since the close of the war business has been greater than ever before, and, for 1920, it promises to be the largest in the history of the company. Contracts have been received for over eight hundred Monotypes for export during 1920, while domestic orders are already being booked for May and June delivery.

HE year 1919 will be a milestone in the success of the Intertype, both at home and abroad. A volume of business has come to us far beyond expectations, high water mark for one month's sales being reached during August, when we sold 216 machines. Repeat orders show the hold the Intertype is gaining, and the many customers which had not heretofore bought Intertypes indicate the popularity of the machine throughout the trade generally.

We highly appreciate the encouragement and support given us by publishers and printers, and we see so many evidences of the continuance of this support in increasing volume that plans are already under way to double our factory facilities during

Alternating Current Auto. matic Control System Proving Practical

BY C. F. SCOTT

Of the Cutler-Hammer Company

WE have equipped a greater number of ber of printing presses this year than in any one previous year in our history and experienced also a very large increase in volume of sales over any previous year.

The outstanding features of the business are the universal prevalence of push-button control, on the small as well as the large equipments, and a very great extension of the alternating current system and continued demonstration of the successful performance of alternating-current automatic control, which a few years ago was thought impossible.

In the newspaper press field there is pronounced tendency for small offices to call for the full-automatic system, which a few years ago was confined only to the large metropolitan dailies.

Among improvements which we have instituted are the successful application of the predetermined speed, push - button - controlled, alternating current system on small newspaper presses, giving practically the features of the full-automatic system, but at a lower cost and without the complications of the latter. We have also simplified and im-

The prospects for 1920 are excellent. Radical changes are not to be expected, owing to the great demand for standard articles, but improvements will have to be made, the general nature of which will be trade simplification, reduction of first cost, and reduction of maintenance expense to the minimum.

Owing to the great demand, deliveries are fairly long, but our facilities are such that in the now comparatively small number of cases where presses are offered for immediate delivery we can match up the delivery requirements of the motor drive with those of the presses.

The demand for Cline-Westinghouse linotype motor drives with silent helical gear, from the small newspapers as well as the large newspapers, would indicate a greater activity this year than ever before in the composing rooms. We have done a larger business this year than ever before and have on our books orders scheduled for delivery up to late into the year 1920. # FEATURES AND THEIR PART

War Reading Is Dead-Cartoons and Comics Increase in Popularity

BY V. V. McNITT

Manager, Evening Mail Syndicate and Central Press Assn.

THE first ten months of 1919 were the most favorable, probably, that we have ever known in the syndicate business. The newspapers wanted good features to keep up reader interest, feeling a real need for something to take the place of war news.

The year was remarkable chiefly for the successful sale of personal stories of the war as related by some of its dominant figures. We found a ready demand for high-class sport page features, due to the tremendous revival of interest in sports following the war. Serials and short stories also did well in 1919, and undoubtedly will continue in high favor. Fiction is always good for a family paper. The war period and the succeeding months have to my mind proved conclusively the enduring and paramount value of two classes of fea-tures. The first comprises cartoons and strip comics, which far surpass everything else in solid and unbreakable popularity. The other class includes special news features and correspondence by able writers, bearing on important news events.

There is an elemental appeal in pictures, which is universally felt. Pictures humanize a newspaper. During the printers' strike in Paris, when all the leading dailies combined in issuing a single four-page sheet, they reserved plenty of space in it for current illustrations. Pictures convey ideas and impressions to average minds far more graphically than is Hence, the most possible with text. effective medium for humor is the comic cartoon.

Despite the print paper shortage, or rather despite the difficulties in getting paper on account of the enormous consumption by our prosperous newspapers, 1920 ought to be a good year. There is a steady demand to-day for features of the first order. War material is dead, but news features on domestic affairs, the presidential campaign, and sporting events, as well as comics and woman's page material, should sell well.

KEENEST EDITORIAL JUDGMENT REQUIRED

By P. C. EASTMENT

Vice-President McClure Newspaper Syndicate

THE year 1919 has been a most successful one in the syndicate business. Syndicates, as well as sharing in the newspapers, occasioned by an unprecedented amount of advertising, have had unusual opportunities to secure features of unsurpassed interest and importance. The last year of the world war, and afterward, made possible for publication features so expensive that they could be obtained only by syndicates, and through them released to newspapers throughout the

Toward the end of the year the shortage of newsprint hit the newspapers, and such newsprint as could be had was obtainable only at unheard of prices. We expected, naturally, that not only would it become difficult to place new material but that there would be considerable cancellations of material already placed.

We are gratified to find, however, that while it has not been easy during the last three months to launch new services that features of compelling merit can still be placed successfully by intelligent salesman-ship and that, in most cases, established features are being retained.

This condition we believe to be a distinct tribute to the judgment and common sense of publishers and editors. They realize that the shortage in newsprint cannot be met successfully by eliminating features which distinguish each paper from its competitor. It is to be presumed that every paper carries the news and handles it with reasonable effi-The special appeal to readers (and this applies particularly to the home circulation that means so much to the advertising columns) of one paper as against another is the features. It would be, therefore, very short sighted of editors to curtail to any great extent, during a temporary stringency in newsprint, the publication of features which have made their distinctive position in their territories.

We feel that there is every reason to expect a most successful year during 1920. We are using our best editorial judgment in the selecting and offering of features that will show absolutely the best results for the space used. We are studying the individual needs of our individual customers that we may obtain for each the greatest and most permanent returns. With this building-up policy we do not fear the effect of the shortage of newsprint.

The reduction or entire elimination of enormous scare first-page headlines in so many leading papers we consider to be a decided move in the right direction.

It is the very sameness of the news printed in our newspapers that makes features of such prime impor-tance. Much of the news today is standardized and it is the features, comics, cartoons and text, that makes a newspaper differ from its competitor. In all the agitation for the reduction in the use of news print little is heard on the subject of eliminating features. Space requirement may result in the "survival of the fittest" among comic strips and cartoons and mediocre features may go to the discard but that newspapers, which have educated their readers to the entertainment and profit that comes from well-selected features, seriously would consider giving them up is unthinkable.

Features are vital to the well-being of the successful newspaper. The most prosperous and the most widely circulated newspapers are those that use the best features. Without features a newspaper is a heavy proposi-

BY JOHN N. WHEELER.

VE have found a distinct demand for humorous features. On the whole, I should say that humor proved to be the most popular during the past year which was a natural reaction after the strain and seriousness of the wartimes.

My idea is that the feature is a fundamental of newspaper circulation. Big successes have been built on big features. I look for a relief in the newsprint situation the first of the year. Of course, much of the vast amount of advertising has been due to the excess profit tax, and I don't think this will continue after January 1st, until the advertisers ascer-tain whether this law will be repealed.

I believe that the feature is the basis on which the day in and day out circulation is built, and I think that conditions will adjust themselves so that there will always be a market for good features which will attract circulation daily. That has been the Bell Syndicate's experience.

Individuality and Appeal Are Especially Essential in "Tightening Up"

BY J. D. GORTATOWSKY

WHILE the business of International Feature Service and Newspaper Feature Service, for both of which King Features Syndicate is sales agent, was much larger in 1919 than ever before, we are confident that the demand for high class features in 1920 will exceed the 1919 record. This prediction is set forth with full knowledge of present con-

The increasing value of the syndi- Opportunity for Good Service Greater Than Ever

BY HAZEN CONKLIN.

AFEW days ago "The Inquiring Re-porter" of the New York Globe asked this question of a number of people: "What do you think the newspapers could best leave out?" Every answer was the same—

"Leave out a lot of the murder stuff."

Big events and big features are always sensational, but we believe that this experience of the Globe Reporter is indicative of a growing tendency to frown at obvious attempts to manufacture sensational news from events of little importance. Space has become too valuable to waste, either on cheap news or on poor features.

In this connection it seems to us that there has never been so great an opportunity for good syndicate work as at the present time. During the next year editors will apply, more than ever, the acid test on the quality of service supplied them. In the aggregate, we do not believe that the inevitable reduction in the number of pages will materially affect the amount of space now devoted to features, although we do think that many of the larger features now running will be replaced by two or three

Thompson Feature Service was established on the belief that the day of the blanket service is passing, and that the papers which are making the biggest strides forward are those that have preserved their individuality through the use of a wide variety of feature material.

T HERE is no doubt that publishers have recognized the value of features and now appreciate more than ever before the unique stamp of attractiveness and individuality which the better material creates.

The present day advancement in journalism is indicated probably in no stronger degree than the popularity of our Blue Ribbon series of Short Stories. These stories were written exclusively for The Chicago Tribune by well known authors, and including the special art work, cost us approximately $75,000. It was a new, and considering the expense, a bold venture, but to our editors there seemed no reason why the better literature should be confined to the higher priced magazines. The enthusiastic response to our offer from other editors was most gratifying.

AM just completing a country-wide AM just completing a country frip, covering thirty of the principal purpose of cities, with the special purpose of studying present conditions and learning what changes in newspaper features are desirable for the coming year.

From my talks with editors and publishers I conclude that next year will see a scarcity of space, with more reduction in feature use than in news space. There will be a tendency to maintain the established features and avoid starting new ones, except that I look for the use of more women and children matter and humor. The Associated Newspapers increased its membership last year and forecasts a larger increase in 1920.

The newsprint scarcity has been exaggerated in many cases, but no matter how serious it may be, sensible publishers will adjust themselves to new conditions.

Big City Mat Services Are Now Available for Small Dailies

BY SAM T. HUGHES.

THE Publishers' Autocaster Service Company, which today serves rural town newspapers with an edi-torial and ad art service is an offshoot of the Newspaper Enterprise

Association.
N. E. A. found many possible pony clients without stereotyping facilities. One day the Autocaster machine, a invention combining metal pot and casting box in one piece, was brought to B. H. Canfield, then president and general manager of N. E. A. Mr. Canfield instantly realized the possibilities this machine opened to the rural town newspaper for twentieth century progress. Out of this realization grew the Publishers' Autocaster Service Company.

This company, which was incorporated in Ohio, purchased patent rights to the Autocaster machine and at once established an editorial and ad art mat service for rural town newspapers, dailies, semi-weeklies and weeklies. When a franchise was sold the new client was furnished with a machine and the news service followed regularly.

The service proposes to build up a prfitable business by bringing twentieth century editorial progress to the rural town publishers, who have been longing for it for a long time because they know progress is profitable. Speed with news is the chief principle of Autoeaster policy. This company buys the material for its editorial service exactly as if it were buying for daily newspapers.

Features Are Necessary to Daily Newspaper Success

BY V. C. GARDNER

WE do not anticipate any serious reduction in 1920 in the amount of newspaper space given to In fact, we are looking for record breaking year. Features are just as essential to a well-rounded newspaper as its telegraph and cable and local news. There has been a general increase in subscription and advertising rates, and in order to hold its circulation and give its advertisers their money's worth, the newspaper of today must be a better paper than at any time in history. No newspaper can make a radical cut in real features without injuring its reputation, prestige and pulling-power.

We believe the print paper short-age will necessitate careful editing. Editors will undoubtedly scrutinize their news and feature columns very carefully, eliminating both news items

Conservation Demands That Paper Space-Wasters Go in 1920

BY C. McD. PUCKETTE

THE market for syndicate material in the first half of 1919 was undoubtedly a very strong one; but white paper conditions began to make themselves felt in the autumn, and the present time exercise a strong influence. The Evening Post main tains a syndicate limited both in the number and character of its features, but we expect to enlarge our syndicate department considerably in the coming year. Our daily and weekly financial syndicate clients have increased in number during 1919.

I think that editors throughout the country probably will reduce their purchases of ordinary syndicate ma-terial considerably in 1920. This re-duction will affect chiefly, I believe, certain space-wasting features. Prob. ably the syndicates will be harder put to it than ever to find salable material. But features which really are big and important and full of news are likely to succeed, as always

Shortage Means Increasing Power and Quality of Material

BY MAXIMILIAN ELSER

THE white paper shortage will react to the ultimate good of the syndicates. It means increasing the power, pull and quality of features no matter how good they are already. The idea is to make features so appeal to editor and to reader that even the tightest papers can't afford to be without them. It is also obvious now that the shorter a feature in comparison to its pull, the better the editor likes it. The net results will be holding down space, and boosting the quality.

That any appreciable number of papers should dispense with syndicate material does not seem at all probable. It would appear that editors and publishers, intent on putting out

In Six Years Interests of Publishers, Agents and Advertisers Have Been Made of Common Accord

BY STANLEY CLAGUE

Managing Director, Audit Bureau of Circulations

STEADY, substantial progress sums up the work of the Audit Bureau of Circulations during the past year. If I were to use the language of communications from advertisers, agents and publishers received in my office during the holiday season, the work of the year would be described in much more flattering terms; but here at headquarters we feel that while the year has yielded wonder-ful results, we are only at the threshold of realizing the results the founders had in mind when it was conceived less than six short years

For I believe five or six years is a short period in the life of an institution the continued success of which means so much to the publishing and advertising world.

Big Strides in Six Years

I believe, as I did six years ago,but now more firmly than ever,that the Bureau can contribute to the welfare and progress of the advertising and publishing world to an extent that few even yet realize. Its accomplishments already may be considered remarkable. It has done away with even the imaginary line between Canada and the United States, making the interests of advertisers, agents and publishers of common accord.

It has aroused interest throughout the entire world in the subject of placing advertising on a commodity basis. England, Australia, France, Holland and other countries have asked for information on how to establish Audit Bureaus of Circulation. A. B. C. record books, forms and all data necessary to the establishment of such bureaus have been gladly contributed, and the day seems not far distant when an International Association of Audit Bureaus can be formed, for mutual world-wide information.

Has Saved 10 Years' Cost

It has saved advertisers in the United States and Canada more money than it would cost to maintain the Bureau for ten years. It has saved advertisers, agents and publishers alone, in time saved in re-hearsing and listening to stories of how pure one publication is and how utterly unreliable its competitor, many thousands of dollars. For every fifteen minutes heretofore taken in solicitation concerning the merits of publication's circulation only one is now necessary in presenting the publisher's statement and audit report of the A. B. C.

It has saved publishers money that cannot be measured, by enabling them to realize the uselessness of forced and gross circulation.

The cutting down of free copies, bulk circulation, subscription arrearages, circulation derived from questionable schemes and contests, has not only conserved advertising expenditures and made possible the use of appropriations in publications of solid worth, but it has made publish-made because of substantial reasons for an advance, and as a good merchant he is willing to pay the advance when he knows all the facts. get real money for circulation, but a more substantial rate from the advertiser.

A few publishers still believe that the Bureau goes too far in its investigations; that the advertiser should pay the whole cost of auditing, or that their word is just as good as any bureau's findings. The number is very small in comparison with the large majority of publishers. advertisers and agents who realize that the more circulation facts are brought into the open, the greater the results will be for all concerned.

Some Misunderstanding

Eventually these publishers will see the benefits to be derived from the association with this mutual cooperative institution. In the meantime, in the case of honest misunderstandings, this attitude is being construed as opposition, with the in-evitable results. Advertisers and agents are daily realizing more and more the benefits to be derived from placing business on an A. B. C. basis. Recently nearly two thousand of the leading advertisers and agents who place business in magazines, newspapers, agricultural papers and in the business press authorized the bureau to announce that their business was placed wholly on an A. B. C. basis or that A. B. C. data largely influenced their selection of mediums. These advertisers and agents expend considerably over $100,000,000 each year in advertising space. Additions to Oregon Forces Translation the list are being constantly received.

Auditing conditions in the Bureau were never in better shape. In spite of many consolidations and discontinuances of publications, its membership is the largest in the history of the Bureau. Applications for new memberships and reinstatements are being received in constantly increas-Financially, the Buring numbers. eau is in position not only to carry on its work effectively, but has a substantial reserve fund to meet unforeseen contingencies.

Editor & Publisher's Aid

In conclusion may I take this occasion to pay tribute to two factors in the present splendid condition of the A. B. C.:

First to EDITOR & PUBLISHER for its splendid loyalty, encouragement and helpfulness to the bureau during the past year.

Second, to the directors of the A. B. C .- the twenty-one advertisers, agents and publishers who have given freely of their time and helpful counsel in guiding its destinies without one dollar of recompense. The attendance at a regular monthly meeting of the directors shows not infrequently over ten thousand miles travelled by these directors.

In the name of the President, L. B. Jones, and the 1,366 members of the bureau, I thank both you and PORTLAND, ORE., Jan. 29 .- No more foreign language newspapers or magazines are to be published in Oregon unless they shall contain complete translations in English of all matter printed in any other tongue. This is the gist of a measure passed at the extraordinary session of the Oregon Legislature held in January consider emergency legislation, The bill has been signed by Governor Ben W. Olcott and has become a law.

Introduction of the measure in the Legislature was prompted by the American Legion, which has been very active in its fight on foreignlanguage publications. It was introduced by A. W. Norbland, State Senator from Astoria, where there has been considerable trouble with a Finnish daily, whose chief officers were convicted of sedition several months ago. The bill went through both houses of the Legislature by heavy majorities.

Under the new law literal translations must accompany all articles in a foreign tongue. They must be of the same type and as conspicuously displayed. Violation of the law is punishable by imprisonment not exceeding six months or by fine.

Mills Set New Production Records During December, and Publishers Used 9,565 Tons Less Than in November

December's figures for production and consumption of newsprint are encouraging both to its makers and users, according to statistics just made public by the Newsprint Service Bureau and the Federal Trade Commission.

The 39 companies reporting to the Newsprint Service Bureau produced 164,051 tons of newsprint and shipped 165,038 tons during December. Shipments exceeded production by 1,387

The average daily production of newsprint paper by the mills reporting for December amounted to 104 per cent. of the average daily output during the three months of greatest production in 1918, and the average for the entire year 1919 was in excess of the production during the best three months of 1918. The actual production per working day in De-cember was the greatest of any month in 1919 except November. Production by the United States

Production by the United States mills reporting during the entire year 1919 was 81,292 tons, or nearly 8 per cent. greater than during the same period in 1918. Canadian production by the 15 reporting companies during this period exceeded that of the year 1918 by 66,866 tons, or more than 9 per cent., making combined production of the 39 reporting companies 148,158 tons, or nearly 9 per cent. greater than during the entire year of Stocks during December decreased 57 tons at United States mill points and 1,293 tons at Canadian mills. This made total stocks 1,450 less on De-cember 31, 1919, than on November 30. The total of 19,285 tons on hand at all reporting mills December 31 amounted to slightly more than three days' production.

United States mills produced 104,262 tons of standard newsprint during December, according to the Federal Trade Commission, representing an increase of 2,098 tons over November, 1919. The increase over December, 1918, was over 18 per cent.

Production of standard news by American mills for the year 1919 was 1,227,180 tons, compared with 1,125,086 tons made in 1918.

Mill stocks increased 548 tons at United States mills, the commission states, not counting 859 tons on hand at terminal and delivery points.

Consumption Fell During Month

Tonnage used in December was 151,937 tons, 9,565 tons less than was used in November.

Publishers' stocks decreased 4,061 tons during December, which was offset by an increase of 3,572 tons in transit over that at the close of November, 1919. The 115,047 tons on publishers' hands and the 47,907 tons in transit on December 31 represented about 33 days' consumption at the existing rate of 4,938 tons a day.

The weighted average price of contract deliveries from domestic mills tract deliveries from domestic mins during December, f. o. b. mill in carloads of standard roll news was $3.825 per cwt. # MADE PROGRESS

Estimates 1919 National Advertising in Newspapers Will Amount to $120,000,000-Faces Bright Future

BY THOMAS H. MOORE

Associate Director, A. N. P. A. Bureau of Advertising

THE volume of national advertis-ing carried by the newspapers in the year 1919 just closing, will break all records. Exact figures are not obtainable at this time, but it is safe to write down that it will reach over $120,000,000, against about $75,000,000 or $80,000,000 for the previous largest year.

volume has swelled to such a point that the problem of the newspaper is no longer how to get advertising but how to find white paper to print the advertising that is flooding in from every agency in the country As the year closes the newspapers are facing a critical condition not only as concerns paper, but all other manufacturing costs. are not only announcing raises of advertising rates ranging from 15 percent to 40 percent, but in a large number of instances are refusing to make rates fixed in advance for any period longer than three months.

Notwithstanding the unusual increase in rates, the volume of national advertising shows no signs of diminishing. There will be of course, readjustments in many campaigns. There will probably be changes on the parts of advertisers whose previous policy has been to use big space in one or two papers in the direction of curtailing the amount of space in these papers and increasing the number of papers on their lists. More advertising will go to the smaller newspapers and into the smaller cities. In other words there should be a better distribution of advertising which, in the end, will be of benefit both to all publishers and all advertisers.

From the standpoint of the Bureau only a tremendously busy year, but a very productive year. The Bureau many large newspaper campaigns, roads. and has to its credit the actual development of much new advertising. It has particularly been honored in the Providence Journal, has joined the ADVERTISING BUREAU ment departments in the matter of advertising.

A year ago there was no Govern-ment advertising. This year there been campaigns from have United States Railroad Administration: from the War Department: from the Navy Department and now at the close of the year comes another campaign from the War Department that will run well into 1920. The aggregate of the Government campaigns of paid newspaper advertising will exceed $1,500,000.

The year has been a prosperous one for the Bureau and its close finds it with a larger membership, a larger income and a brighter future than any year in its history.

During the year the basis of membership was changed and the new dues based on advertising rates instead of population, not only brought in an increased membership but a much larger income. In addition to this they equalized the cost to newspapers and put the burden on those publishers best able to bear it.

The increase in membership has enabled the Bureau to carry out its long cherished plan to open a Chicago office at 841-842 Marquette Building, Chicago, which is just being equipped as the year draws to a close. This office will be in full running order after the first of the year should be a material factor in the development of national business newspapers from the great middle western section of the country.

It is visible evidence that the Bureau of Advertising is rising to its opportunities and moving forward. If New Year's resolutions are in order, the Bureau's resolve for 1920 is to try and bring the volume of national advertising in newspapers to the quarter million mark. That's setting a hot pace, but these are times when the world moves fast.

In the cases of many of the smaller dailies one man holds every executive position on the paper. For the sake of accuracy, in all such instances the name of such man has been repeated under the various official designations—publisher, editor, managing editor, general manager and business manager.

The compilation is of such obvious value to all who ever have occasion to do business of any nature with newspapers that no comment is needed. The fact that it has been possible to assemble these names as of practically current date—by means of a system of verification through a questionnaire—is matter for satisfaction.

Of course, the accuracy of any newspaper personnel list is affected by the inevitable changes that are taking place all the time in all organizations, particularly in the offices of the larger newspapers. Yet, for all practical purposes, this list is quite as dependable as a telephone directory.

Set your display in slugs with the speed and economy of Linotype straight-matter and meet the present-day insistence upon dispatch, labor-saving, and the maintenance of high quality standard. One operator producing display direct from the keyboard of the Model 20 Display Linotype will do the work of at least three good men setting type by hand.

type Bodoni Bold cast on the Model 20 Display Linotype. Aside from greater economy in the production of display composition, consider the savings effected in the handling of slugs instead of movable types. This is an important Model 20 advantage which deserves the thoughtful attention of every newspaper publisher.

A Nation-Wide Service

for Users of

Great Western Superior Type Metals

Experience, personal care and skill are embodied in every detail of the manufacture of GREAT WESTERN SUPERIOR Type Metals. Users are therefore assured of uniform high quality with a guarantee of satisfaction.

But the best type metal in the world would be of no use if the manufacturers could not give service. Through our national distribution we are able to anticipate your needs and promptly care for them, and our map—the GREAT WESTERN SMELTING AND REFINING STATES OF AMERICA—shows you how we are able to care for your interests.

Our prices are fair and reasonable and commensurate with the quality and service we offer. In the final analysis, good dependable type metal and an efficient system for supplying the trade mean lower costs to printers and publishers.

Send out a trial order and be convinced that, due to Quality, Service and Price, GREAT WESTERN SUPERIOR Type Metals should find a place in your establishment.

The WORLD'S Highest Paid Woman Writer

This strikes a new note in politics It is the flesh and blood expression of the growing power that women are gaining in Government.

The conventions of 1920 are going to stir up more interest than ever before. Woman's influence in them is no longer indirect and vicarious. It is an organized force that may turn the tide.

The following extract from the General Federation Magazine for December - The Official Organ of the Woman's Federation of Clubs — indicates the compelling interest and growing intelligence of women in national affairs:

> "There are over 2,000,000 club women in the United States. We have had a generation of training in civic consciousness, and organized work, and now we are getting the weapon of political power. Club work takes on the aspect of a sacred obligation to train ourselves and our community to wise citizenship. Remember that no community is so remote and no club so small that it is outside of this obligation.

With this determination to KNOW expressed by women throughout the country, it is very evident that daily reports of the proceedings in Chicago and San Francisco by a Woman of Dorothy Dix's popularity and ability will be read with intense interest — by women because Dorothy Dix will voice their point of wiew, by men because she clarifies the New Power in Politics that can not be ignored.

THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION

DAILY. SUNDAY. TRI-WEEKLY.

ATLANTA. January 12,1920.

Mr. B. Wood. Wood Flong Corporation. New York City.

Dear Mr. Wood:

The Constitution was the first Georgia newspaper to adopt the dry mat system, and after having used it for nearly a year and a half my only regret is that we did not put it in years ago.

Coincident with the adoption of dry mats we changed our column width measurement to a 12-em basis, thus enabling the Constitution to print an 8-column paper on a 68 inch roll, whereas, heretofore it took a 67 inch roll to print a 7-column paper.

By adding one inch to the roll we were enabled by the use of dry mats to get another column to the page.

Our saving in white paper with that growing out of other economies incident to the change netted the Constitution something like $50,000 for the year 1919.

An in addition to this benefit of the dry mat system, the general appearance of the paper has been greatly improved.

With best wishes, I am

Sincerely yours,

The Atlanta Constitution, in all of its editions, uses more white paper than any newspaper in the South Atlantic or Gulf States. To the $50,000, saved in 1919, should be added a considerable saving in freight, postage, etc.

By so cleverly taking advantage of the innumerable economies of the Wood Dry Mat in changing its size, in accelerating production and in bettering printing for its advertisers and readers, The Atlanta Constitution, has given the newspaper profession a new mark to shoot at.

BETWEEN

THE FRENCH WORLD AND AMERICA

Through its publications and newspaper service, the ATLAS-PRESS has brought home to the American business world the true significance of the French field, which consists of more than 7,000 new papers scattered through the French World.

The "Greater France" World Field

By speaking of the French field we mean a good deal more than just France; it includes the following countries who French is mainly spoken: Belgium, Luxembourg and Switzerland in Europe; Egypt and Tunis, Algeria and Morocco in Not Africa; Asia Minor and Canada. This means 60,000,000 French-speaking people.

In addition must be added the French colonial Dominions in Africa, India, Asia, Oceania and America. This represents population of 60,000,000 natives, living on a figurative territory as wide as the North American continent.

The Atlas-Press Bureaus

In this huge French World field, the ATLAS-PRESS is recognized as the leading medium. By 1915, despite the ware restrictions of cabling, mailing and censorship, the ATLAS-PRESS had obtained a large circulation and was preparing to link in with the American press field. The American Ambassador to France in a letter warmly commended this idea. In 1917 the find American Press Bureau started the connection in Paris, and a year later the French Press Bureau was established in New York.

The Atlas-Press Services

The ATLAS-PRESS news services, through the connected French-American Press Bureaus, is furnishing news interest to the American press. It endeavors to promote closer trade relations through the presentation of essential information about reconstruction opportunities in both countries. The news is handled by both American and French editors and is accurately prepared for American papers.

The 1920 Extension Program

The ATLAS-PRESS will publish in 1920 a "Greater France" Special Number now under preparation with circulation of over 10,000 copies.

Another publication, the American Press Book, will be issued in French, outlining the possibilities of the American field.

Three new ATLAS-PRESS Bureaus are to be organized for providing the French-American services with specific information from Northern Europe, Latin America and Japan. This program will be developed within the year 1920.

And accurate news upon political subjects is of the utmost importance in holding the interest and confidence of

There will be the usual crop of "roorbacks," rumors, colored or false reports.

Special correspondents and press agents will "keep their finger upon the public pulse," will give grave counsel from swivel chairs-hundreds or thousands of miles distant from scenes of

But this is not the year for that sort of Political News.

For there have been few years when the "average citizen" has been so interested or so affected by the political situation.

The Press has a duty to perform.

Through unproved charge and unretracted countercharge the average citizen feels he has lost his perspective on "Public Men."

Just as many public men have come to feel that integrity is no defence,-that facts play but a small part in attacks made upon them.

There are sincere men in every party and this is no time to be anything but sincere Americans.

If required a World War to awaken us, as a whole, to the fact that without a sense of individual responsibility to the Community, State and Nation, there can be no representative government.

The people want facts; they deserve them-they have earned them.

The New York Evening Post is independent, neither for any party nor against any party. It is for the United States-and against anything subversive of its best interests.

The addition of features in accordance with "Post Quality" is no easy matter.

The selection of a man to cover the Political Year-to swing twice around the circle from coast to coast, to attend Conventions and Presidential Primaries State by State is not an easy task.

But to select a man so sincere, so well qualified, so dependable that the New York Evening Post could say, "Go to it, you have no instructions save to be independent and to give the best there is in you"—that man must be a man indeed.

-And he is just such a man. His ability, his vision, his knowledge of human reactions and twenty years of Political study are coupled with unquestionable sincerity, plus 100 per cent. of rugged Americanism.

Mark Sullivan needs no introduction to any circle of American readers-from Maine to California.

The management of the Post is glad to let the engagement of Mark Sullivan be taken as an indication of intention.

An indication of intention to hold and merit a foremost place in public confidence-"A Newspaper You Can Trust."

This service will be syndicated. Louisville, Minneapolis, Houston, Syracuse, San Francisco, Atlanta, St. Louis, Baltimore, Philadelphia, Birmingham, Boston, Lexington, Worcester, Sioux City, Des Moines, Detroit, Buffalo, Cincinnati, Cleveland and Youngstown already closed. Newspapers in other cities should wire W. A. Frost, Syndicate Manager, New York Evening Post, 2011, Vesey Street, New York.

ROTOGRAVURE

TRADE MARK REGISTERED U. S. PATENT OFFICE

AMERICANIZED AT LAST

ccasionally Europe starts something I that America has to finish. A certain recent unpleasantness is one example and a very pleasing graphic process now appearing in millions of homes is another. England, France, Italy and Germany, we might say, dabbled in Rotogravure. They produced some very beautiful effects in art subjects — no gainsaying that. But not until an American of vision cast it into the field of the great American daily did Rotogravure become a great human servant of enlightenment and visual entertain-This same American, Julius ment. Herman, foresaw that the presses of the New York Times, Chicago Tribune, Philadelphia Ledger, Boston Herald and Cleveland Leader, which he imported and installed, would give the process such impetus that Europe could not adequately supply our wants. After securing the essential patent rights of the Germans who had brought the process to its highest development, he set about to Americanize Rotogravure. Joined by Frank Hyman who was the first to make syndicated gravure available to American Newspapers, and John L. Zogg, who brought back to America the first knowledge of Rotogravure technique, this object has been realized through the undersigned corporation, of which the men mentioned are respectively, President, Treasurer and Secretary.

The broad plan upon which this organization has been projected is to build machinery bigger and better than Europe did, to organize and technically train the man power necessary to operate it, to join the sources of supply with the sources of demand, to actually start plants fully equipped, fully manned and rightly directed. Such plants may now be erected on short notice in any part of the United States, Canada and Mexico.

Thus is Rotogravure liberated from foreign limitations and put under the direction of American business men who know the art, the technique, the science, the economics of the subject. For these pioneer American Rotogravure men to underwrite a Rotogravure project is to insure its success and relieve the investor of problems bothersome and insuperable.

"One-Set"
Rollers

"ONE-SET" Automatic Suction Ink Distributing Rollers are all temperature, all climate Rollers. In the greatest extremes of heat and cold, "ONE-SET" remain unaffected. Speed your presses to the utmost, they're impervious to frictional heat.

No changing the year around. No bothersome, time-consuming wash-ups to worry you. Water will not affect them in the least.

"ONE-SET'S" dogged resistence to wear, is truly remarkable, for example, "ONE-SET" have been in constant service on the presses of a leading newspaper for over two years—and have not shown wear yet. Even now, over one hundred publishers have ordered "ONE-SET." The tremendous economy of time, labor and money, makes it imperative that you, also install them.

Write us for prices, stating core diameter, finished diameter, and length of cover face—or, better yet, send us a core to cover for you, and put "ONE-SET" to the actual test on your own presses.

CANADA IS IN THE MARKET

Canada has just completed the recapitulation of the greatest commercial year in Canadian History.

Canada looking ahead, visualizes prosperity in even greater volume for years to come.

Last year's great crops must sink into insignificance in comparito the crops which are to be grown during the next few years.

Impoverished Europe must look to Canada for tremendous tonnage of foodstuffs and raw material of all kinds.

Canada must produce more. Canada must have machinery of all kinds—more tractors—more automobiles.

Canadian people are good customers for merchandise manufactured in the United States, and Canadian daily newspapers carry the advertising message just as they carry the up-to-date news of the world's activities.

It is a good idea, in bidding for Canadian business, to study Canadian people and write your copy from the Canadian customer's viewpoints.

Canadian business is worth going after.

Canadian daily newspapers reach Canadian people.

These daily newspapers cooperate in helping National Advertisers become International Advertisers.

A. A. C. W. DESIRES AID OF NEWSPAPERS

President E. T. Meredith, New Secretary of Agriculture for the U. S., Outlines Ideas for Co-operation

BY HON. E. T. MEREDITH

In discussing the progress of advertising in 1920, my mind turns first to the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World, because, these days, I am thinking association work.

I am especially glad to prepare this statement because Editor & Pub-& PURpaper can do to help promote the eause of advertising.

In 1919, we witnessed a marvelous increase in the prestige of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World,

This growth of association prestige has been most natural. The work has become better known, and as it has become better known it has gained additional support. The business of an association is a good deal like the business of a private institution. Momentum generates still greater momentum.

War Showed Needs

At the same time, the growth of the prestige of this association has been aided materially by the fact that in all lines, the value of organization was stressed during the war period, and in almost as large a degree, the problems of these days following the war emphasize the necessity for organization, also.

The Associated Advertising Clubs of the World have adopted the biggest program in their history.

In their own behalf and in behalf of advertising, newspapers everywhere should get behind this work. It is a time for prompt and vigorous action.

The newspaper, which gets its bread and butter from advertising, must not forget that one of the largest factors in the growth of the advertising business has been the fact that advertising has been organized. Some months ago, I read with much interest "An Appreciation of George Batten," in which occurred the statement that Mr. Batten entered the advertising business when it was not uncommon to see such signs

"Beggars, peddlers, and advertising men-keep

Those signs have disappeared. They are gone because the people who represent the advertising business have adopted high ideals of service. Such ideals have been fostered through the organization Through of the advertising business. this organization, the public has been educated and business men have been informed, of the fact that advertising does stand for that which is good.

There was a time when the man who had space to sell in a newspaper confined his thought with reference to newspaper.

But advertising men progressed as the result of education and the exchange of ideas at meetings, through advertising trade papers and in many other ways, and the space seller began to learn that his interests were so closely allied with the interests of the advertiser that a better thought for him was to know that the advertisement was not good for him to sell unless it was good for the advertiser to buy. Therefore, he became interested in the advertiser. He thought in terms of the advertiser's interests.

The Advertisers' Interests

But now, we have come to a third and still broader and better basis.

We realize that the interests of the consuming public must come first. Advertising space, employed in a manner which does not help the public, is not good for the seller to sell, nor the advertiser to buy. In the long run, unfavorable reaction would be the inevitable result.

Because the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World do stand for this proposition, this organization has enoyed the support of men in high places in government, in business, in the world of publishing, and in every other field legitimate endeavor.

It is interesting, for example, to observe that the work of this association has such support from advertisers, that we now have more than 500 Sustaining Members, who are standing behind us with their funds as well as their willingness to render direct and personal ser-It is no longer unusual for a Sustaining Member to pay $1,000 a year, or more; and one national advertiser is paying $4,000 a year.

These members have got behind this movement on a basis of "for value received." We are making their advertising dollars go further by making all advertising more effective.

Publishers' Co-operation

Through our vigilance committees, which have had the strongest indorsement from advertising managers of newspapers, we are eliminating frauds from advertising. In our educational work, we are making advertising more effective. We are helping to teach the advertiser how to make the truth attractive

Publishers should get behind this work

They should make the policy of their apers comply with the practical idealism for which this association stands.

They should not stop short of the strictest possible compliance, simply because the things for which this association stands are things which are best for advertising, for this association merely reflects the viewpoint of the most progressive and most capable people connected with advertising today.

The newspapers should stand behind the local advertising clubs.

The New York Herald will pass out of existence as an individual journalistic institution on January 3I and the following day, next Sunday, will appear as a part of the Sun with the consolidated name, "The Sun and New York Herald," according to the announcement of Frank A. Rumors persist that the Evening Telegram may again change hands after its Associated Press membership becomes the property of the Evening Sun. For the present least the Telegram will be published in Herald Square. Meehanieal diffieulties resulting from moving and installing of new machinery would make it impossible to print both the Evening Sun and Telegram in the great publishing plant of Mr. Munsey at 280 Broadway immediately, if this was even contemplated, experts point to give publicity to the works of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World and of the local clubs.

They have tremendous power to help in the work of educating the public to a realization of the value and impor-tance of advertising to the consumer.

out. Mr. Munsey's statement, white appears in this issue of Editor & Ph. one of the newspaper show of the country, is merely a shell a surprise to many persons.

Among the things that Mr. Mu secured when he purchased the l ald and Telegram is a paper con for 17,000 tons for 1920 at 41/2 c for the first quarter.

Dummies leading from the advertising and news departments on the floor below carry the copy to a point in the composing room central to either of the two banks, and from these points distribution becomes a simple problem. Distribution of ad copy to the ad frames or to the ma-chines is simplified by the clustering of the linotypes used exclusively on advertising matter and the ad frames, about the ad bank, and the same is true of the machines used on news copy relative to their position and the position of the news bank.

Each linotype is equipped with an individual motor. Individual red lights are mounted on the top of each machine used to attract the attention of the machinist whenever a machine is in need of repair. This system of call is preceded by the ringing of a bell and avoids a visit sometimes to called into play when the changing of a magazine becomes necessary, for the machines are equipped with fonts ranging from 51/2-point to 36-point.

All of the ad frames are plainly marked with cards indicating the contents of each case, the kind of type and its size, an innovation of inestimable value to the newcomer. Proper lighting is provided for each frame, these being placed at the top as well as others specially shaded over the fonts in the lower section of the frames. Sufficient space is allowed for the placing of a form table between any two of the frames to facilitate the assembling of half and full-page advertisements.

The set matter in turn requires but a step or two to deposit it upon either of the two banks, news or ad, beside which are Wesel electric proof presses. The proofs made, it becomes an easy matter, by reason of a copy-carrying system, to send the proofs to the proof-reading department, which is on an unobstructed line from the correcting banks. Revise matter is removed on galleys from these banks to the make-up benches running horizontally to the copy and advertising, or otherwise referred to here, as the correcting

ANOTHER UNUSUAL SERVICE-STUNT

HOSE who do business with newspapers will particularly appreciate the outstanding feature of this issue of EDITOR & PUBLISHER. This feature is a compilation of a character not before attempted. It lists the names of the chief executives-publishers, editors, managing editors general managers, business managers—of 2,000 daily newspapers of the United States.

It would be folly to claim that a compilation of this sort is 100 per cent accurate, for changes occur every day in the staff organizations of newspapers. But the information given is the latest to be obtained and is as accurate as painstaking effort can make it.

In addition to the value of this compilation to those who have business relations with daily newspapers, and who are convinced of the advantage of direct, personal communication with the executives immediately concerned, the feature will have great interest to newspapermakers themselves. By reference to it old friends may be located. It will foster that better acquaintanceship which is so desirable among men engaged in the same line of effort.

It may be that it is better that the general public should have little interest in the individuals who make their newspapers. At any rate, that theory prevails widely. Owners prefer that the public should always think of their newspapers as institutions, divorced from personalities. But there is no good reason why newspaper executives should shirk personal relations with each other or cultivate an indifference as to "who's who" in the great field.

So, gentlemen of the craft, here are the names of your contemporaries throughout the country. Get better acquainted!

ONE by one the stock themes of the jokesmiths disappear. Who now thinks of imputing to our British friends a slow or a slack sense of humor? Time was when this theme always struck fire. But that time has passed. Americans have come to realize that perhaps the cleverest humor of the war period was British-made. One of the Britons who have had much to do with this revival of the old John Bull primacy in humor is Captain Bruce Bairnsfather, creator of "Old Bill," the most human soldier of the world's war. Captain Bairnsfather is paying us a visit and is finding that Americans appreciate his genius quite as warmly as his home people.

THERE is something regrettable, if not pa-thetic, viewed from the sentimental angle, in the demobilization of a staff of men such as that maintained by the New York Herald. link this organization dates hack to the first days of the paper, 85 years ago. Throughout all those years the traditions of the office were cherished and handed down by successive generations of workers. The human chain held true and strong. Then comes the big change. The paper is merged with the Sun and its staff scattered. It is life, of course. It is the inevitable. But somehow one feels a twinge of regret that these things have to happen in the course of events.

THE sale of the Omaha Bee recalls the long services to journalism of Edward Rosewater, its founder. He was of the group of state builders conspicuous in the development of the central west from frontier-land to that high state of civilization which we like to think of "typically American." In his hands the Bee was a living force for progress and enlighten-ment. He built so well that his work still lives in a newspaper which enjoys wide influence.

SOME of the most interesting of the current promotion advertising deals with the amount of copy that is crowded out day by day. That sort of advertising has a news value. It is constructive, because it leads advertisers to think.

FOR THAT BETTER BALANCE

HAT advantage is to be won by an advertiser in "squeezing into" an issue of a newspaper which is heavily overloaded with advertising? This habit has grown until in many instances evening newspapers find it impossible to preserve a rational balance in advertising volume throughout the week.

Thursday or Friday issues, bulky to the point of unwieldiness, and of necessity hurriedly made up, earry advertising which would have greatly more force and a much surer appeal if published in an issue having a normal volume of business.

The psychology of all this is simple. It is the old urge to "follow the crowd." It recognizes the laws of the herd, the impulse to stampede. "The crowd must be right." But it is a faulty psychology. It will not stand the light. It will not justify itself by experiment or analysis.

People buy and sell every business day of the People are influenced by advertising every day of the week. But they do not yearn for an over-ration of advertising on particular days and for little or none on other days. They do not live on that plan, nor buy and sell according to any such program.

E. R. Davenport, manager of the Rochester Times-Union, writes to ask if the plan has ever been tried of charging a higher advertising rate for Friday evening papers than is charged for other days of the week. If it has, the matter has never come to the notice of Editor & Publisher. In fact, no such drastic rule should be needed in order to secure a better run of copy throughout the week. The self-interest of advertisers should be a sufficient incentive.

UT where the sun goes down" they do the unusual so frequently that the element of surprise is somewhat discounted. The San Francisco Ad Club is now pushing a proposed amendment to the city charter which would provide each year a fund for advertising the city nationally-a fund to consist of one per cent. of the taxes. Only in a city where civic pride is the ruling passion could such a movement gain even consideration. But who shall forecast its failure in the city which has just captured a great national political convention-regardless of geographical factors?

HE national advertiser who leaves the matter of the days of insertion and of position to the best judgment of the newspaper's advertising manager will profit through such a policy in almost every instance.

LASSIFIED advertising is quite as advertisable as any other service or utility.

FIXING THE GUILT

DV

MOSES, publisher of the Man R. (Mich.) Chronicle favors Editor & Pura with an original theory as to the resp bility for the newsprint shortage. Charges counter-charges have been freely made on head, the manufacturers holding the unani view that the fault is that of the publishers, a majority of the publishers having pretty sh convictions as to the part the manufacture have played in the economic tragedy.

But, if the reasoning of Mr. Moses is to accepted, the responsibility belongs to ne the manufacturer nor the consumer.

It is to be saddled squarely on to the sh ders of the Audit Bureau of Circulations! Mr. Moses stands willing to guarantee that the A. B: C. were discontinued for two n there would be a surplus of newsprint.

His argument is simple. "Every publisher to maintain his A. B. C. circulation year in year out, in spite of changing conditions, in of the fact that in so doing he takes sen losses himself and likewise inflicts serious k upon others and makes the newspaper busin a rather hazardous occupation from the suppoint of finance," writes Mr. Moses.

To maintain circulations, Mr. Moses assepublishers resort to various illegitimate dem such as price cutting, loading up dealers extra supplies, etc. One newspaper in his su he claims, sends daily to outside towns a mumber of papers of which but a small pera age are ever sold. He does not know how it plan is "camouflaged," but he is sure that it's by" in the A. B. C. reports in some manner.

Mr. Moses knows one publisher, he says, w is today carrying at least 500 rural routes scribers who are not in his territory and are a dead loss to him, but he claims that cannot afford to drop them because of the eff it would have on his A. B. C. report.

Mr. Moses, it may be safely asserted, has covered a wholly novel reason for the p shortage.

Who would have suspected, until he urged the point, that the Audit Bur which claims to have been a potent factor bringing about paper economies, had in rea forced upon publishers a policy of wastel will be disconcerting news for Stanley Chapter who feels that the policies of the Bureau h all tended to the elimination of waste circulation It will come with something of a shock to members of the Bureau, who realize that A. B. C. puts a premium upon NET PAID C CULATION and penalizes in the eyes of adv tisers all other forms of distribution.

Incidentally, it may be guessed that Mr. Me is not a member of the A. B. C. In fact, he sures us that he never expects to be. And if theories about the working of the organization were unassailable he would, obviously, be in justified in holding aloof.

THE Manufacturer's Record urges strong position to Federal control of newsp seeing in such an expedient a confession on part of publishers that they are not str enough or wise enough to manage their own fairs when faced by economic difficulties, of mon to all other industries. The Record of as a solution the routine business practice of or stant readjustment of selling prices to me changing costs of production. It believes the newspaper business is the only line in which this rule is not already absolute.

THINGS have changed, journalistically, in Grands. The President was cartooned, together with members of his cabinet, the artist picture them as zoo animals. They brought suit for li The court dismissed the complaint. In the days the offenders would have been dungeon for life.

By properly facilitating the business needs of the department, the management has in no one particular overlooked the comforts of the composing room force, which numbers about 45. Lighting of the room has been made an important adjunct. By day the room is flooded with a nat-ural light from windows close to-gether on three sides of the room. Artificial light when needed is provided by 25 200-watt Stransky lights so suspended from the ceiling of the room as to shed soft, brilliant rays upon the entire field.

"Smudge" from the melting pots on the linotype and casting machines is carried into the chimney by a cleverly devised piping, the machine melters being connected to the main ex-haust by a single length of pipes extending from the machines in such a way as not to interfere with any of the mechanism of the linos or casters. Throughout the building cards are tacked upon the walls bearing the name, address and telephone numbers of three physicians, subject to call in more urgent cases.

This room is also equipped with an outside as well as inside telephone and a private house phone service. Speaking tubes are used almost exclusively between the composing room and stereotyping room. The building is also equipped throughout with a Grinnell automatic sprinkling system in line with the general pre-cautions taken against fire, for every utility of the composing room is constructed of steel instead of the oldfashioned wood frames and banks.

Oil Burning Equipment

All machinery in the plant of the Evening Express Publishing Company is generated with oil, the supply being maintained by a 4,000-gallon tank, and the average daily consumption is set at 300 gallons. This is used in generating light, heat and power. The engine room of the plant contains three boilers, two being always in use. The steam from these direct is used for light and power, with the exhaust from the engines being devoted to heating purposes.

By the foregoing we have endeav-ored to set forth what is intended to be a model composing room from the viewpoint of the publishers of the Express-Advertiser and Portland Sun-Telegram; showing its modern equipment, the maintenance of that equipment in line with the plan of accuracy and dispatch, and at this time at least it is filling the wants of these two publications in a manner most satisfactory.

tives whose practice coincides with Mr. Boughner's belief. Others willing to go part way and use light face type up to 36-point or larger, but do not agree that black type, illustrations and broken column rules are advisable in classified. Many others are confident that all classified should be set in agate type.

While the position of this latter group seems more logical, there are successful classified mediums using limited display and a few with almost unlimited display. However, the fact that some newspapers are successful using display in clasified is no reason for saying that they could not carry a greater volume of this business if they made their classified sections true Directories of Wants.

Built Strength on Agate

The Chicago Daily News became a strong classified medium while using pure agate type. It has, however, in the past year permitted the use of outline type. There are some other newspapers that agree with Mr. Boughner, as is evidenced by the fact that they have opened their columns to various forms of display type. Generally speaknig, however, these papers are not classified leaders in their field and the change to display type was made with the idea of creating immediate volume and not with an idea of building permanent classified.

On the other hand, many newspapers, taking advantage of the present large volume of advertising and the scarcity of newsprint, have eliminated display typography—some-thing which they had always been afraid to do under normal circumstances.

Display and classified are two entirely different kinds of advertisingeach with a separate function and purpose.

Reader Division

People buy newspapers primarily to read the news. While they are reading the news, display advertising, with its illustrations, headlines and strong typography, attracts their attention. If the advertisements are well written they create good will or desire—depending upon the purpose for which they were written. In other words, people, generally speaking, do not buy a newspaper to read the display advertising, but are forced to read it.

Classified advertising gets attention from a different group of people and by a different method. It is as a rule or probably should be, set in small type without display features and on pages without news. Therefore, in the great majority of cases it is read only by those persons who have a want which they believe can be satisfied by reading the classified columns-people who turn there for a

There are other newspaper execu- they are considering the purchase of a home.

And the person who is in the market for a house will read every adver-tisement under that heading. Therefore the three line solid agate liner will receive just as great reader attention as the three-column advertisement with all its display. In either case it is the "copy" and not the size of the advertisement or the amount of ink used that produces the results.

The advertiser gains only two points by using large space and display type. First he gains a certain prestige with the reader. The other advantage is that the displayed advertisement is apt to be read first first impressions may stronger.

But the prestige created by using more space than actually needed can be gained by using single column space and agate type. An advertiser can as easily secure dominance on a page of agate type as he can on a page of displayed classified since domination is merely a matter of rel-ative prominence. A ten-inch single column advertisement set in agate with liberal white space can be made to stand out just as strongly on an agate page as a five-inch double column advertisement, with black type and illustrations, on a display page. Therefore the only two advantages of display in classified can be gained just as effectively without the use of black type, illustration, etc.

Against Display

Against the use of display typography there is one particularly strong argument—the fact that displayed advertising cannot be highly classified and arranged so that the reader can quickly and with the least effort find the advertisements of those persons or firms who can satisfy the particular want he is endeavoring to satisfy.

The following letter recently re-ceived by a certain newspaper gives small advertiser's idea, and which is reflected in the opinions of many classified managers:

"I didn't have a single applicant for the position advertised. I looked up my ad and found that you put it between a lot of large type ads, which made it very inconspicuous."

Elmer E. Strain, classified advertising manager of the Nebraska State Journal, Lincoln, Neb., writes:

"When a neighboring newspaper comes out with a full column classified ad in large type and you have the same copy but can't get it into more than a fifteen-inch space without giving the advertiser the idea that he is being stuck by paying for a lot of useless space, a fellow sort of wavers and wonders why he doesn't use that sort of make-up. Then you take a look at your classified pages and see the vast number of 'little fellows,' and you say to your-self, 'Now these are the backbone of definite object. People do not read my classified pages. These are the the "House For Sale" columns unless ads that make my Want Ad pages honest-to-goodness pages of wants, the basic reason for the pages. It is up to me to take care of them, to classify them clearly so that they will be read. I simply cannot do this by placing an agate lower case 'a' in the back or front yard of a 36-point 'A' even if there is a rule between.'

H. I. Parish, classified advertising manager of the Birmingham (Ala.) News, expresses the following opin-

"All agate by all means. I have studied carefully the question classified typography and I believe my conclusion for strictly all-agate composition is the most logical viewpoint. Undoubtedly this plan builds volume for the reason that it caters to the small man just as it does to the large commercial advertiser, and it is my opinion that the Want Ad section of any newspaper is distinctly a department for the masses of the people.

"Up until November of last year the Birmingham News accepted agate, 10-point and 12-point type in its classified columns. Since that time we have adhered to all agate and are now running about 165 per cent more separate ads and approximately 100 per cent more space. This unusual gain is in spite of the fact that up until March we carried double-column display pyramided upon the last classified page."

A. L. Shuman, advertising manager and treasurer of the Fort Worth (Tex.) Star-Telegram, says:

'Our rule for classified advertising is no type larger than agate, with agate caps double rate. Our experience with classified advertising is that to permit larger type on classified pages is to discriminate against small advertisers. This is our principal reason for setting our classified in solid agate."

Lee Smith, classified advertising manager of the Omaha Daily Bee, writes:

"The ideal classified page is the one wherein no, type larger than agate caps is used, and no borders or cuts of any kind allowed. The classified section depending solely on the use of white space for effectiveness is the most striking example of the full meaning of the word 'classified.' It does not necessarily follow that every publication carrying want aus should immediately change their present policy to conform to this standard. This change must be brought about gradually. Competition for space is so keen that the smaller paper is often forced to use larger type to keep a representative amount of space, but space in classi-fied does not indicate volume.

"The Want Ad pages should be so conducted that the man with an occasional two-line ad has the same chance for attention as the regular professional advertiser. The small advertiser creates volume much as the regular. It follows, of ment than other newspape course, that the smaller advertiser most pronounced display.

who gains attention will also gain results, and he is the man who MUST gain results to make a successful growing Want Ad medium. If large type is allowed the professional advertiser will dominate to the extent that the small space used will be buried."

Many newspapers compromise on the question by allowing limited diplay. An example of this is the Kansas City Star. R. G. Shryock Want Ad Manager, explains the Star's policy as follows:

"No type larger than agate describes one extreme of classified make up; black face type, cuts and borders represent the other extreme. Realizing that the classified section must primarily be a Directory of Wants, but believing that some means of expressing the importance of the want should be allowed the advertiser, the Star follows the following compromise in typography:

"No black face type, cuts or borden are permitted in the classified section, All ads set single column. space and open face type as large as 36 point is allowed. The result of the Star's plan is a clean page, easily read. It has the advantage of the pure agate page, yet gives the advertiser some range of expression. From the paper's standpoint, the use of open-face display gives an additional #### revenue." W. E. Douglas, classified manager of the Atlanta Georgian-America, writes:

"Agate type over all other kinds is the very best that can be used. I became convinced of the fact during my connection with the Dallas News The agate type not only gives the style to the pages, but it affords the small advertiser an equal opportunity to get results."

C. B. Robertson, business manager of the Springfield (Mo.) Republica,

"The largest type we use in ou classified is ten point for which we charge double rate. I am looking forward to the day when we can eliminate anything larger than agate as I believe it will make a much more attractive section by having the type uniform."

A logical conclusion is that, the use of illustrations, broken columns, borders and large black type makes efficient classification impossible and is detrimental to the small advertiser. Their use means fewer advertise-ments and thus fewer readers.

However, it is possible that light face type up to a certain size in single column advertisements, without borders and cuts, does not affect reader habit. The question is where to draw the line-how large can the type be without injuring the foundation of the classified section? This is of course a matter of opinion and the writer's belief is that type larger than 10 point is harmful—that a 10 point and agate combination may be very practical in some fields but that not even 10 point is essential to the selling of large space. This is proven by the fact that some newspapers using agate only secure from their professional or regular advertisers larger average lineage per advertisement than other newspapers with the

NEWS IN BRIEF of the NEWSPAPER AND ADVERTISING WORLD

The Sacramento Bee has discontinued its custom of many year's standing of requiring members of the staff to write signed articles for the editorial page on Saturdays of each week. While the writing of such articles no longer is obligatory, those who are spurred by occasion to express their thoughts in an editorial fashion are not restrained from so doing. The main reason for breaking away from the custom was the conclusion that forced articles, to be ready at a certain time, are not always the writer's best.

Newsdealers of Albany, Troy and Schenectady, N. Y., have formed a protective association to promote the sale of local Sunday papers and to protest against the one-cent increase in price of the New York Sunday editions. George F. O'Brien was elected president, William J. Coulson, treasurer, and Matthew P. Flood, secretary.

Charles Conway Stone has become news editor of the Peoria (III.) Transcript, succeeding George W. Barrette, formerly city editor. The position is a new one, created for Mr. Stone, who was promoted from telegraph editor. Rurick K. Anderson was promoted from copy reader to city editor. M. M. Adams succeeded Mr. Stone on the telegraph desk.

Doris Metcalfe, formerly on the local staff, has been appointed editor of the children's section of the Winnipeg Free Press.

Miss Kathleen Randolph, until recently telegraph editor of the Nashville American, has been made telegraph editor of the Mobile News-Item.

John Ross, recently state editor of the Sioux City Journal, is now on the copy desk of the St. Paul Dispatch, succeeding H. P. McBride, transferred to the Farmer's Dispatch. Mr. McBride takes the place of E. L. Roney, who now represents the Dispatch-Pioneer Press in South St. Paul.

Benjamin Waxelbaum, for the past fourteen years connected with the New York Jewish Morning Journal, has resigned as advertising manager to take effect February 1. He will become associated with Meyer Keilson in representing Jewish newspapers and rendering service to advertisers. Their offices will be at 1400 Broadway and 77 Bowery, New York.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Must Seek Government Aid

Must Seek Government Aid

To Editor & Publisher: The appeal of Mr. McCormick in your issue of January 15 that publishers refrain from seeking government assistance in securing news print at fair prices suggests to me that Mr. McCormick is not speaking from the viewpoint of the country publisher. He fails to take into account the fact that some small town dailies are paying 8 cents and 9 cents a pound for their print paper; that such prices are ruinous; that they are fictitious and all out of proportion to the cost of manufacture. And the publisher paying such prices has no other recourse but to appeal to the Government for a correction of the condition which makes it possible for him to be so criminally exploited by those who have news print to sell.

Is it not the Government's province to protect the country publisher, or any other representative body of business men, from the destruction of their business by methols so harmful and so inlinical to the public good as the methods by which eight and nine cents a pound are being extorted from the small-town publisher?

BUFFALO, Jan. 29 .- The second week of Buffalo's afternoon newspaper war was marked by skirmishes between the publishers of the four papers. The Commercial continued to accuse the other three papers of conspiracy to force it from the streets." None of the other papers made answer to the charges. Wholesale prices of the Sun. day papers have been reduced from 7½ to 7 cents. The privilege of returning unsold copies was also granted dealers, having heretofore been denied.

Something to Blow About

Two hundred and fifty-seven years ago it only took two weeks for a letter to make the journey from New York to Boston, said EDITOR & PUB-LISHER last week in commenting on the establishment of postal service on this hemisphere.

"Dear Friend and Constant Reader" from Eau Claire, Wis., the town in which the slug line "Add Holy Junk" was circulated among the church people-and others-a few Saturdays ago by the Telegram, as recorded in these columns, sends the following:

$100,000 FIRE LOSS TO NASHVILLE BANNER

ASHVILLE, TENN., Jan. 23.-Fire originating from an overheated melting pot in the stereotyping department destroyed the building and equipment of the Banner, on January 22. The total loss of equipment is estimated at $100,000. The amount of the Banner's insurance was $90,000.

The entire operating equipment with the exception of the two presses in the basement was destroyed, as were the files of the paper, together with all office equipment. Subscription lists and advertising contracts were saved from the flames.

The big presses were water-soaked, but will be in operating condition shortly. The Banner appeared in all editions on time as usual today, through the courtesy of the Tennesseean.

Definite decision has not yet been made as to the location of the Banner's permanent headquarters, but it is thought that the plans for a new plant, drawn several years ago, but held up on account of the war, will be followed out and a handsome new home erected on the Banner's own property at the corner of Eighth Ave. and Commerce St.

(STAFF CORRESPONDENT)

Boston, Jan. 26 .- The meeting of the New England Association of Circulation Managers at the City Club, on January 21, was well attended, considering the inclemency new members who presented themselves at the meeting. As stated in the telegraph report in EDITOR & PUBLISHER fast week, the topic uppermost in the discussion were new prices and paper-saving plans. Those present who had successfully established proper selling prices were besieged by the others for explanations of the methods employed, and considerable relief was afforded in the explanation that no perceptible losses resulted.

F. S. Hoy, circulation manager of the Lewiston Sun, in an address entitled "Open Towns vs. Closed Shops; Should There Be More Than One Agent in Towns of From 1,000 to 10,000 Populaspoke in part as follows:

"Agents handling newsboys or other dealers cannot or will not get the same results that you can get from direct contact. Agents who handle boys cannot pay the boy enough in the first place, and therefore, even if they desire, they cannot push them as they ought to. You cannot expect the dealer to have the same interest to push your sales as you have. If the dealer hasn't the interest, how is he to stir up enthusiasm and interest in the boys? Agents in many cases have boys deliver other papers will benefit.
"On the other hand, boys handled direct get will benefit.

To the other hand, boys handled direct get all there is in it. They get their chance at your prizes, they feel better about the paper, they are more loyal, and you know whether or not they are on their job as they ought to be."

W. S. Mitchell, circulation manager of the Portland Express, on "Best Methods for Securing Mail Subscrip-tions Without the Use of Roadmen," said:

"In the case of the Express, we have of late been getting away from the local happenings except in city and strictly suburban territory, and the aim of the editorial department is to get through its corps of correspondents special current as well as semi-news matter that is beaded up in an attractive way. We find that this method greatly broadens our field as well as being of particular interest to our city readers. The plan has not been in use long enough to judge the full scope of its strength, but present indications are that this will be the very best means of extending our circulation into the strictly mail subscriber field."

Baltimore Ad Club Moves to Unite Capital and Labor by Publicity

BALTIMORE, Jan. 29.-A great deal of attention is being given here at this time to what is called "The Baltimore Plan" of reconciling the differences of capital and labor. The idea is the conception of Frank D. Webb, advertising manager of the News, and was presented by him to the Advertising Club in a recent address previously printed in EDITOR & PUBLISHER. Various committees have been named by the club to promote interest in the plan, and through the activity of these the matter has been presented to organizations of business men, bankers and employes. The educational committee, headed by Norman, president of the Baltimore Business College, has among its members, John H. Ferguson, president of the Federation of Labor, and W. J. Chapman, president of the School Board.

The advertising committee, which proposes to raise a large fund for presenting the plan to the public through newspapers, is headed by E. Lyell Gunts. The publicity committee consists of J. Hampton Baumgartner, Ben Barber and Dwight Burroughs.

LIBEL VERDICT REVERSED

in the Surrogate's Court, New York, Actual Damages Only Count, Rules N. Y. Court of Appeals

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 27.—An important legal point on the fixing of libel damages is involved in the reversal by the Court of Appeals here today of the $25,000 verdict that had been awarded to Magistrate John F. Corrigan of New York in his suit against the Bobbs-Merrill Publishing Company and George Bronson Howard. an author. The action was sent back for retrial.

The verdict was reversed on the ground that the jury was without right to award punitive damages against the publishing company and should have confined its verdict to an amount in keeping with the actual damages suffered by the plaintiff. The publishing company withdrew the book causing the suit from circulation after it had been advised of the libel

To Mr.

N. E. Man:

If you would have your goods KNOWN in New England, advertise them in the newspapers,—circulation over 2,000,000 daily!

By Reports

Monthly Purchases

are Up in New England, nearly 250% and the demand for KNOWN goods exceeds the supply!

ALL national wares are not known—SOME very meritorious specialties have YET to make their bow to the New England purchasers! NOW is the time of YOUR Life to break in. Tell the merits of your goods in the papers, and BOOST your trade marks while the boosting pays the biggest rewards.

The papers listed above, can make you RICH, if used skilfully, advertising your goods.

The New York Globe

Demonstrates the Extraordinary Pulling
Power of Its Advertising
in Rather Unusual Ways

WEEK or so ago Alfred W. McCann, the Globe's Pure Food Expert, offered his readers in The Globe a car-load of granulated honey in sixty pound tins at 23 cents a pound.

Within three or four days he had received checks and cash amounting to over $32,000, paying for 140,000 pounds of the honey—over four car-loads of it.

¶ People might be expected to rush for honey at 23 cents a pound in small packages, 1 to 5 pounds, but here came nearly 2,500 purchasers of a 60-pound tin apiece, at $13.80 to each customer.

They had no chance to see samples, for the honey was not in New York. They had faith in The Globe and Mr. McCann.

¶ And the prettiest part of the story still remains to be told.

¶ By reason of the offer the price of honey in the New York market dropped, and Mr. McCann is using the profit to buy about 15,000 pounds of honey for free distribution among the orphan asylums and day nurseries of New York.
