THE 1774464

PREFACE.

HE Nature of this Work feeming to render fomething of a Preface necessary, I shall, for that Reason, intirely dedicate it to the Service of the Reader, in as few Words as possibly I can.

Having formerly written a short Essay upon the Royal Family of STEW ART, to an Historical Account and Description of which was prefixed an Historical Account and Description of the Shire of Rensrew: I had no sooner published that little Book, than several Persons of eminent Distinction for their Learning and Knowledge in the Antiquities of the Nation, for whose Judgment I had the most prosound Regard, set upon me to write APeerage of SCOTL AND, a Book very much wanted; which at length, by their Importunity and promised Assistance, I was prevailed with to undertake.

When I first set about this Work, as I did entirely devote and dedicate my Time to the Study of Antiquities, particularly those of our own Country, so I made it my Business to collect all those Historical and Genealogical Tracts that had been done on the Nobility, that I could come to the Knowledge of. The Oldest of that Kind I have met with, was a few loose Sheets on the Genealogies of our Nobility, said to be done by James Lord Ochiltree, in the Hands of my very worthy Friend, and one of our best Antiquaries, Mr. Baillie of Castlecary; but the Accounts even of the tew Families that Lord treats of, are very lame; and I observe where he goes much higher than his own Time, they are purely traditional, and therefore I could not depend on them.

I perused also the large Genealogical Collections concerning the Nobility, by Sir James Balfour, who was Lord Lyon King at Arms, in the Reign of King Charles I. but they are written so very loosely, and I have seen them contradicted so frequently by Writs and Charters, that I give them but little Credit. I suppose Sir James never intended these Papers should have gone surther than his own Closet, for he was a Learned and Curious Gentleman, as appears from his Annals, in which he is much more exact, especially as to what occurred in his own Time.

I procured likewise a Copy of the Hiltorical Eslay on the Principal Families of the Kingdom, Alphabetically digested, by the learned Lord Advocate, Sir George Mackenzie of Rosehaugh; but I apprehend these Papers have been only some first Draught of a greater Work Sir George intended, which he lived not to sinish: Of this there are many Copies in several Hands, the most exact by very far of any of them I have seen, was that which I had the Use of from Thomas Crawfurd of Cartsburn, my Brother, who by his own Reading and Knowledge in the Antiquities of the Nation, has rectified a great many of Sir George's Mistakes, at least of his Amanuensis, and has with great Accuracy, embellished his own Copy with a vast deal of fine Historical Remarks, that it well deserves the Character of a curious Manuscript.

I had moreover a Sight of the Genealogies of the Nobility, collected by Mr. Dunlop, the late Principal of the College of Glafgow, who was Hiltoriographer for Scotland, a Gentleman of great Integrity and Learning, and an excellent Antiquary. I understand he intended to have written A Peerage of SCOT-LAND, and for that End made very full Collections on that Subject: But I observe that most of Mr. Dunlop's Accounts are composed of those Genealogical Descents that the Nobility have in their own Families, and are handed about by their Friends; and that ingenious Gentleman did with great Accuracy and Judgment radd Historical Memoirs to the Genealogies, which give rhem a great Ornament; and he is very exact as to his Authorities. The M.S. was communicated to me by my very worthy Friend, Mr. Dunlop, the present Professor of Greek in the Univerfity of Glafgow, the Principal's Son.

But after I had made all those Collections I have mentioned, and a great deal more of that Kind, I cannot stay to particularize, I found I had not any tolerable Foundation for the carrying on the Work I had undertaken; for the Honour of the Country, (the Design it was principally for) or my own Reputation; and therefore, by the Advice and Direction of my ingenious Friends, who had engaged me in the Design, I did with as much Humility and Modesty as I was Master of, address every Peer by myself or some Friend, for the Assistance of their own Charters and Writings; to enable me to do their Families Justice in this Undertaking.

Such Helps as I fought, were very generoully afforded me by the greater Part of the Nobility, who allowed me the Perufal of their Charter-Chefts and original Writings, from which I composed the Accounts of their Families as they stand in my Book. Severals indeed I did not see; some were unwilling to shew their Family. Writs for divers Reasons, some were Minors, others were Abroad, and out of the Country; and even to such I have done all the Justice was possibly in my Power. But if the Accounts of such Families, whose Charters I have not had Access to; be shorter and less connected than others, that was what cannot be supposed I could help: I took Care timeously to advertise every Body, concerned, and if they did not incline to shew me their Writs, the Blame cannot be laid on me.

But that I might be the better able to carry on the Work I had indertaken with Advantage, and to form Accounts of those noble Families whose Writs I had not seen, and to supply, if a Hiatus did happen, (as it frequently did) in such Families whose Writings I had perused I searched all the Publick Offices and Libraries about Edinburgh (a), and noted every Thing as exactly

⁽a) By the Fublick Offices I mean the Registers of the Great Scal, which I perused from the Charters of King Robert I, down to our own Times, in the Laigh Parlament-House, and in the Chancery, I look'd over also the Records of the Justiciary, and all the Chartularies in the Lawyers Library.

actly as I could; and the Keepers of these Offices were so obliging as to allow me Access at all Hours, ordinary and extraordinary, whenever I call'd, and to whom therefore I do, with all due Gratitude, return my most humble and hearty Acknowledg-

But after all my Labour, I am fo far from being fo vain as to imagine this Essay is not capable of any further Improvement. that on the contrary I am fensible, I have, thro' Inadvertency. and the Errors of the Press, especially in Dates and Proper Names of the present Age, fallen into many Mistakes; but I beg the ingenious Reader will pardon these Omissions, which are inevitable in fuch Books, and where he discovers an Error, he

Perhaps some may think, that I have been fuller upon some Families, (even some that are extinct) than on others who are much more ancient than those I enlarge more upon. The Reason is plain, the Representatives, Kelations, or Descendents of those noble Families how'd me their Writs, and encouraged my Defign. If others had done so, I doubt not but I should have been able to have done them as full; and vouched them as well. For I can fay, and do here declare on the Word of a Gentleman, That I had no Regard in the doing of Justice in my Province as an Author, to the Encouragement I received from any Man, otherwise than to reckon myself very much obliged to fuch; and I own I did not spare either Time or Pains to discover any Particular, I thought could give an Ornament to the Antiquity, or a Lustre to the Honour of their Families.

But where I have been affifted from the Publick Records or Authentick History, I have been as full on those Families who never incouraged the Defign, as I have been upon those who gave me the greatest Assistance every Way; and for the Truth of this, I can and do appeal to feverals of the Nobility themfelves, who will find very long deduced, and well vouched Defcents of their Families, in this Peerage, who never encouraged my Undertaking in any Degree. But as I faid before, That I had had no Respect to; for my chief and only Regard was, and shall be Truth, and the Honour of our Country, as far as I am capable to discover the one, or defend the other.

As to the Work it felf, I shall say nothing: But after so great Labour, and Expence of Time, the Essay (being new and never before attempted) how defective soever it may be, I cannot but hope, will meet with a favourable Reception from the Ingenious, and more particularly have the Approbation and Countenance of Persons of Distinction, who frequently read such Books, and know how useful and acceptable Undertakings of this Kind have ever been accounted in all the Polite Nations of Europe.

STEUART,

Duke of Albany.

HE First who enjoyed this Title, was Robert Stewart, third Son of King Robert II. by Elifabeth Mure, who in Right of Margaret his ful to the Crown in the Time of the Wife, Grandchild and Heir of Allan Earl

Earl of Menteth, came to that Honour, and had the Barldom of Fife, by the Refignation of the Countels of Fife; both which Titles he used, till he was rais'd to a higher Honour.

The Earl of Fife and Menteth was a Person of great Parts and Spirit, which he manises and War. His Father the King had so great an Esteem of his Abilities, that in his old Age, he made him Governor of Scotland; and he continued in the Administration till the Death of the King.

Upon the Accession of his Brother Robert III. to the Crown, the King being aged and valitudinary, thought fit to continue the Earl of Fife his Brother in the Regency, and further dignified him with the Title of Duke of Albany, Anno 1399; and he discharged that great Trust very well throughout the Whole of his Brother's Reign; and the Prince King James I. being a Prisoner in England at the Time of his Father's Death, the Duke came of Right to be Governor of the Kingdom, and he enjoyed the Office till his Death, September 3d. Anno 1420.

He married first Margaret, Daughter and Heir of the Earl of Menteth aforesaid, by whom he had Murdack his Successor, and several Daughters, Isobel married to alexander Barl of Ross, and again to Sir Walter Halliburton of Dirleton, Marjory to Sir Dancan Campbell of Lochom, and Elizabeth to Sir Malcolm Fleming of Biggar; next, Mauriella, Daughter of Sir William Keith Mareschal of Scotland; by her he had John Earl of Buchan, and Sir Robert Stewart Kt.

The Duke of Albany was fucceeded by Murdack his Son, both in his Estate and in the Government of Scaland, but he came very far short of his Father, for being a weak Man, and of small Parts, was scarce able to govern his own Family, much less the Kingdom: But that which should attone for all his Overfights, and preserve his Memory from all unkind Reflections, was the glorious Part he acted, in conducing so much toward. the Restauration of King James I. in which he was the great Inftru-Not long thereafter, the King growing jealous of the Duke's Power, which no doubt was very great, and discovering some treasonable Intrigue in which he was concern'd, he was first put under Arrest, and sent Prisoner to the Castle of Carlaverock; and being shortly after brought to his Trial, he was found guilty of High-Treason by his Peers, for which he loft his Head on the 19th May 1425.

This great but unfortunate Duke, married Ifobel, Daughter and Heir of Duncan Earl of Lennox, by whom he had Sir Walter, and Alexander, who being found acceffory to their Father's Treason, both suffer'd Death for the fame, and Sir James who fled to Ireland, where he spent the after. Part of his unfortunate Life, and lest a Son behind him, Sir Andrew Stewart of Stratheven, who came over to Scotland in the Time of King James II. who asterward rose to great Wealth and Honour, and laid the Foundation of the Family of Evan-dale and Ochiltree.

The next illustrious Brench of the Royal Family who enjoy'd this Title, was Alexander of Scotland, fecond Son to King James II. who was created Duke of Albany, Anno 1452, which he afterwards forfaulted for his unnatural Rebellion against his Brother King James III: and all his Meafures being broke, he retired to France, where he liv'd till his Death. He left Isfue by Katharine, Daughter of William Earl of Orkney, from whom he was divorced, a Son Alexander, who was declared illegitimate, and thereupon he enter'd into Orders, and was made Bishop of Murray. Also, by Anne his fecond Wife, Daughter to the Count de Bulloign, the Duke lest a Son.

John Duke of Albany, to whom the Administration of the Affairs of the Kingdom was committed in the Minority of King James V. and he discharged that great Trust with invincible Constancy and Courage, till the King came to Age, that he retired into France, where he had a fair Fortune in Right of his Wife. In the Service of that Crown he exercifed the highest military Commands under Francis I. with great Honour and Reputation, even till his Death, Anno 1536. The Title by Reason he had no lawful Issue, did extinguish with him:

The next who had this Honour by Creation, was that comely and graceful Prince, Henry Lord Darnly, whom Queen Mary, a few Daysbefore she took him to be her Husband, did with great Solemnity invest in the Title of Duke of Albany; which ceas'd again upon his Marriage, that he was proclaim'd King of Scotland, and had his Name put upon the Coin with the Queen's; Henricus & Maria

Rex & Regina Scotorum.

Prince Charles, the second Son of King James VI. was in the Third Year of his Age, Anno 1601, created Duke of Albany, and he bore the Title till by the Death of that incomparable Prince, Prince Henry his elder Brother, he became Prince and Steward of Scotland, Anno 1612; after which this Title lay dormant, till his Majesty King Charles II. on the Reflauration, did create his Royal Brother James Duke of York, Duke of Albany, by Letters Patent 31st of December 1660 (a): And this Title his Royal Highness always us'd till by the Demise of the King his Brother, he came to the Crown by the Name of King James VII.

He married first Elifabeth; Daughter of Murray of Blackbarrony, by whom he had William Earl of Lothian ; next, Anne, Daughter of William Earl of Darby, to the Heirs of which Marriage the Honour was limited; by her he had ... Charles his Son, Earl of Ancrum, who died without Isfue, and thereby the Title became extinct.

CAMPBELL,

Duke of Argyle.

HIS noble antient Family is deriv'd from a Series of illustrious Ancestors, who posses'd Lochon in Argyle-Shire, according to the traditional Accounts by the Bards and Sana. chies, as early as the Time of King Fergus II who restor'd our Monarchy, Anno Christi 404.

The first Appellation they us'd was ODubin, which, according to an early Cultom they assum'd from Diarmed ODwbin, one of their Ancestors, a brave and warlike Man; who flourish'd under King from whom they are in the Irilb Language call'd to this Time, Scol Dearmed, that is, the Posterity and Offspring of Diarmed.

From this Diarmed ODirbin, the Bards have recorded a long Series of the Barons of Lochow (a), whose Actions they tell us, were very renown'd both for Valour and Courage.

Paul ODwhin Lord of Lochow his Successor, call'd Paul in Spuran, so deno minate from his being the King's Treafurer, having no Male Issue, his Estate went to his Daughter Eva, who married Gilespick ODwbin, a Relation of her own, who got the Name first chang'd from O Divbin to Cambel, to preserve and pe-petuate the Memory of a very noble and heroick Piece of Service perform'd by him in the Service of the Crown of France, in the Reign of King Malcolm Canmore. By his Lady he left a Son Duncan, who was Lord of Lochow; He was the Father of Colin, and He again of Archbald, called Gilespick, and he of Duncan, Baron of Lochow,

This last mentioned Duncan was the Father of another Gilespick Cambel. Kr. Lord of Lochon, whose Son and Heir Sir Colin More, call'd Dominus Colinus Cambel, Miles, Filius quondam Domini Gileaspick Cambell, did acquire from Sir William Lindlay, Kt. the Lands of Symontoun in Air-Shire; the Reddendo of which he made over to the Monks of Newbottle, Die Martis in crastino beati Clementis Marteris & Pontificis, Anno 1293 (b). I find he was also one of the great Men who were fummon'd to Berwick upon the Part of Robert de Bruce, in the Competition with John de Baliel for the Crown, on the Demile of Queen Mirgaret (c); which is all I have found memorable of him in our pulick Records.

The particular History of the Family of Argyle does represent this Sir Colin More to have been a very renown'd and warlike Chieftain, they tell us, . That he was flain, in a Conflict with a great Neighbour of his own, the Lord of Lorn; that after he had defeat his Adverjary, pursuing the Victory too eagerly, he was flain at a Place called the String in Cowall, and there interr'd, where a great Obelisk was erected over his Grave (d).

His Death occasion'd great Bloodfhed in those Parts, and kindled such a Flame betwixt the Two Families

(a) I have feen a very ancient Manuscript History of the Family of Argyle, that derives them from a very long Train of Ancestors, much farther back than can be vouched by Writings or Records, and feems to be founded upon the traditional Accounts of the Sanachies and Bards, whose Office confifted chiefly in recording the Actions and Atchievements of the great Men of the respective Families to whom they were attached... (b) Register of Newborts, also of the Abbay of Cambuskenneth, tradium'd under the Subscription of the Clerk of Register, in the Reign of King James V, Amous (15), new in the Lawyer's Library at Edinburgh, (c) Mit Rymer's Federa Anglie, lately published, (d) Historical and Genealogical Descent of the illustrious Family of Argile, 18, penes me.

of Lochow and Lorn, as was not extinguished for many Years thereafter, even fo long as the Argadii, Lords of Lorn, existed.

From this Colin it is that the Head of the Family of Argyle are call'd by the Irish, MackCallan More even to this Time. By his Wife, a Lady of the Family of the Sinclairs (a), he had Two Sons, Sir Neil his, Successor, and Sir Donald Campbell of Redhouse, of whom the Family of Loudon (b), and the other Cadets of this illustrious Branch of the Campbels derive themfelves.

Sir Net his Son was honoured with Knighthood, by King Alexander III. in the End of his Reign (c). but from the Silence of our Authors, I can particularize none of his Archievements, till the Year 1292, that upon the Demise of Queen Margaret, he was one of the Magnates Scotiz fummon'd to Berwick, upon the Part of Robert de Bruce, when he and all the other Competitors for the Crown had referr'd the Decision of their respective Claims to Edward I. of Engalid (d); and when that Prince did declare in Favour of John de Baltol, Sir Neil Campbel did fo far acquiesce in the Decision, as to continue faithful to King John, till that unhappy Prince did unking himfelf by an inglorious Surrender of the Independency of the King of England, whom he acknowledged Superior and direct Lord of Scotland (e).

But no fooner did King Robert Bruce affert his Title to the Crown. and form a rational Project of recovering his own Right, and of tedeeming his Country from the Subjection it was under to a Foreign Power, than Sir Neil Campbel was among the earliest Patriots, who first resorted to him, own'd his Title. and gave quickly to many Proofs of his Zeal and Merit, for the Liberty and Honour of his Country, and of his Loyalty to that heroick Prince; infomuch that he was thought most worthy, and pitched upon to command a Party of Loyalitts that were fent to Argyle-Shire, to curb and overawe the Lord of Lorn (f), who was a declared Enemy to his Country, and of Confequence to the Bru. cian Title; and he perform'd that Service committed to him with Honour and Success, insomuch that in a short Time he recovered the Countries of Argale and Lorn, and brought them to fubmit to King Robert, notwithstanding the joint Efforts of the Lord Lorn, and his numerous Accomplices on the contrary (g); which shews him to have been a very resolute and hardy Patriot: After which Sir Neil stuck close to Crown to a Foreign Potentate the King Robert, and was among the few Scots

Scots Patriots. who accompanied him to Scoon, and affifted at the Solemnity of his Coronation, anno 1306. After which he gave many fignal Inflances of his Stedfastness and Loyalty to that Monarch, even in his worst Circumstances: For when he was very far from being firmly established on the Throne, Sir Niel Campbel entered into an Affociation with Sir Gilbert Hay, and Sir Alexander Seton, wherein, in a most solemn Manner, they bound themselves to defend, till the last Period of their Lives the Liberties of their Country, and Right of Robert Bruce, their King, against all Mortals, French, English, and Scots, to which they appended their Seals at the Abbay of Cambuskenneth, 9 Sept. 1308.

Anno 1314, he was one of the Commissioners upon the part of Scotland, authoris'd to Treat with the Englifb for a Peace, which at that Time, took not its desir'd Effect: And the next enfuing Year, he was one of the Barons at the Parliament, held at Air, where they made an Entail of the Crown to King Robert and his Heirs (a). About which Time, in Confideration of his good Services, and fignal Loyalty, he obtain'd a Grant of feveral Lands, then in the Crown, by the Forfaulture of those who adhered to the Interest of the Baliol; and to oblige him the more, the King beflow'd upon him the Lady Mary Bruce, his Sister in Marriage. departed this Life, in the latter End of the Year 1315, leaving Islue two Sons, Colin his Successor, and

He continu'd no less stediast to King David his Son : for whose Service, even when his Affairs were lookt upon to be loft, he rais'd 400 Men, and took the Castle of Duncon, then in the Hands of the English; for which notable Service. when that Prince came to be established upon the Throne, he made him hereditary Governour, which his Descendants still enjoy (c).

Alicea, his Daughter, was married to Allan Lauder of Hatton (e).

He had a natural Son, Niel, of whom the Campbel's of Melfort derive their Descent.

He departing this Life about the Year 1340, was succeeded by Arch-bald his Son, who constantly adhered to King David, during his Captivity in England, after the Battle of Durham, and that Prince, upon his Return, to reward his Loyalty, bestow'd upon him several Lands then in the Crown, by the Forsaulture of Sir Dougal Campbel, his own Brother; anno 1357 (f).

In the Parliament 1706, which concluded the Union of the Crowns, he was one of the Peers who made a very strong and vigorous Opposition to it, and on the 4 November, when the first Article of the Treaty, was Enacted and Ratised, his Grace enter'd this Protestation, which from the Records of Parliament I transcribed.

I John Duke of Athole, Protest for my felf and all others who shall adhere to this my Protestation, that an Incorporating Union of the Crown of Scotland with the Crown of England, and that both Nations should be represented by one and the some Parliament, as contained in the Articles of the Treaty of Union is contrary to the Flonour, Interest, fundamental Laws and Constitutions of this Kingdom, the Birth-right of the Peers, the Privileges of the Barons and Burgesses, and Act 10. Parl 8. Ja. 6. it is ordain'd, that none of the Leiges presume to take upon them to impugn the Dignity and Authority of the Three Estates of Parliament, or to seek or procure the Diminution of the Power and Authority of the Said Three Estates under the pain of Treason, and is contrary to the Claim of Right, Property and Liberty of the Subject. And the 2d. Act of Her Majesty's Parliament. 1702, it is thereby declared high Treason in any of the Subjects of this Kingdom to quarrel or impugn, or endeavour by writing, or malicious and advised Speaking, or any other open Ad or Deed to innovate the Claim of Right in any Article thereof.

Likeas on the 7 January, 1707, when the 22d. Article of the Treaty of Union in relation to the Number of Representatives for Scotland in the Parliament of Great-Britain, came to be debated, the Duke gave in this Protest, which in Justice to his Grace I could not forbear to insert.

Forasmuchas the Peers of this Realm who are Hereditary Members of Her Majesty's great Council and Parliament do hereby become Elective, and so Her Majesty is deprived of Her born Counsellours, and the Peers of their Birth-right: And whereas at present they are 160 in Number, they are by this Article reduced to 16, which 16 are to be joined with the House of Lords in England, whose Number at present confists of above 180, whereby its plain, that the Scots Peers share in the Legislative and Judicative Powers in the British Parliament is very unequal, to that of the English, the the one be Representative of as Free and Independent a Nation as the other, and is therefore a plain Forfaulture of the Peerage of this Kingdom, contrary to the Honour of the Monarchy, diffraceful to the Kingdom, and prejudicial to the Barons and Burrows of this Realm.

This noble Lord married first the Lady Katharine Hamilton, Daughter of William and Anne Duke & Dutches of Hamilton, a Lady of incomparable prudence, and a singular example of Virtue and Piety, by whom he had Issue.

John Marquels of Tillibairn, a Youth of great Hopes and Expectation, who was killed at the Battle of Mons. 31 of August 1709, to the great Grief of his noble Relations,

ALL our Scots Historians make mention of the Moravii as a bold and Warlike Tribe, who about the middle of the first Century were very affistant to King Corbred I. in his Wars against the Romans, Captain Roderick and a great many of his followers were flain in that famous Expedition of Queen Baudicea related also by Cornelius Tacitus. But that I may proceed to my Defign in giving a Historical and Genealogical deduction of the antient and noble Family of the Murrays properly fo called, I shall begin with their Ancestor one Friskinus, who was a great Man in the Northern parts in the Reign of King David I. Anno 1124: For it's certain he was not only possessed of the Country of Moravia now called Moray, but likewise that of Sutherland, which he divided betwixt two of his Sons, and from whence they took their respective Sirnames. (a) and his Descendents even to this Time carry the fame Coat of Arms. viz. Three Molets differing only in the Tincture.

William de Moravia Filius Friskini. feems to be a very great Man about the Court of King William, as appears from the frequency of his Wirnessing the Deeds of that Prince to the Cathedral Church of Moray, and to the Bishops of that See, (b) to which this great Man was likewise himself a Benefactor.

Andrew de Moravia Panetarius Sco. tiæ & Dominus de Bothwel was just fuch a Patriot as his Father, whom he did not long survive; for he lost his Life in the Attempt at Stirling to redeem his Country from the Subjection and Slavery it was under to the English on the memorable 13th September 1297(b) leaving Sir Andrew his Son and Heir, who tracing the Steps of his noble and loyal Father in a firm and refolute Adherence to the Interest of his Country, of which he had given such pregnant Instances, and of his eminent Courage and Conduct in diverse Encounters with the opposite Party, that he was thought worthy to be joined with Sir William Wallace, in the Command of the Army which Anno 1298 entered England, and performed fuch Actions of wonderful Courage, that they became very terrible to the Enemy; and thereafter when Robert the Bruce took upon him the Title of King of Scotland, and declared his Purpose of do.

Redemption of his Country, and the retriving of the Independency of the Nation, no body appeared more hearty in his Interest than Sir Andrew Murray, or stood more firm to that Glorious Monarch in all the Vicifitudes of Fortune that befell him: And it was no doubt in Reward of his great Merit. that the King bestowed upon him his Sifter, the Lady Christian Bruce, in Marriage, (c) and gave him diverse Lands of great Value and Extent.

As he continued most faithfull to King Robert, he was no less so to his Son King David the II. to whose Interest inviolably adhering, he was one of those Patriots who joined the Governour and came to his Affiftance before the Battle of Duplin, where he fignalized his Courage, infomuch as he was upon the Death of the Earl of Mar, the Governour, unanimously elected Regent in his Room, and he held that great Office (except a little time he was a Prisoner in England) with the universal Approbation of the whole Nation, and the Applause of all Men, even till his Death ing all was in his Power toward the Anno1338,(d) whose Character drawn Admirality was bestowed on the Duke of Lennox, and most of his Estate in Lidfdale given to the Lord Buclugh. Lord of Brechin.

SIR David Barclay, Lord of Brechin in Right of his Wife the Heir of David de Brechin, was a Person of very signal Fidelity to the Brucian Interest, and is famous in the Wars of King Robert Bruce, to whom he did many remarkable Services.(e) This Sir David and Margaret his Wife gave in pure Alms to the Monks of Balmerine a Fishing upon the Water of Tay, for the good of their Souls; (f) and lest Issue Sir David, and a Daughter Fean, married to Sir David Fleming of Biggar, by whom he had only one Daughter, Marion, married to William Maule of Panmure, Ancestor to the Earl of Panmure. Whereupon SirThomas Maule of Panmure laid Claim to this Lordship, as nearest Heir to Margaret Barclay Counters of Athole to whole Heirs it was provided, failing Heirs of her own Body (a) and accordingly he took an Instrument in the Tolbooth of Edinburgh, upon the Earl's Declaration immediately before his Execution, wherein his Right and Proximity of Blood to the Lords of Brechin is fet down (b). And Thomas Biffet of Balwylo, judicially declares, That Dame Jean Barclay, Wife to Sir David Fleming, was Grandmother to Sir Thomas Maule, who was killed at Harlaw (c). Notwithstanding of all which, the Council of King James the II. in his Minority, having in fundry Cases procured Decisions to be made in Favours of the Crown. when the Competition run betwixt the Sovereign and the Subject, the Family of Panmure were baulked of their Right, and the Lordship of Brechin, in regard the Earl of Athole died possessed of it, was with the rest of his Estate annexed to the Crown. CAMPBEL

Farl of Bradalbin

HO none of this Family arriv'd to the Dignity of Peerage till the present Earl, yet were they Barons of great Account long before, and were dignified with the Title of Baronet at the Institution of that Honour, Anno 1625. Their first Ancestor Sir Colin Campbel, was a fecond Son of the Family of Lochow, near three hundred Years ago, who by his Marriage with Margaret, one of the three Daughters and Co-heirs of John Stewart Lord Lorn, obtained a third Part of that Inheritance. From which Sir Colin they have continued remarkable in a dired Line, down to the prefent Time, foreading themselves into several eminent and flourishing Branches by the Way, as are the Campbels of Lawers (forung from a Son of a fecond Marriage of the first Sir Colin, by a Daughter of the Family of Keir) Glenlyon, Achriny, Lochbuskie, Mochaster, Monzie, Glenfaloch, Carqubin, Kilpont, Aberuchil. Glendarual, &c.

The Family of Glenurchie has been remarkable in our Scots History on feveral Occasions; nor need I be at much Pains to shew the several Matches they have made with some of the most noble Families of this Kingdom, fince the whole Course of this Book sufficiently makes mention thereof, only I shall take notice, that John, now Earl of Bradalbin, is Son of Sir John Campbel of Glenurchie Baronet, by Mary his Wife, Daughter of William Earl of Airth and Monteith. For as the Story goes, the King being exceedingly grieved that the Body of of his Minion and Friend Bould be fo disgracefully treated, he profer'd a confiderable Reward to any of his Subjests who would adventure to rescue his Corps, from the Difgrace his Enemies, had put upon him; But (adds he) When none would undertake this hazardous Interprise, at last a certain Gentleman came to theking, and fail, Dalziel, which signifies I Dare, and actually did perform that noble Exploit to his immortal Honour: And in Memory of it, got the forefaid remarkable bearing, and afterward his Posterity took the Word Dalziel for their Sir. mame, and the Interpretation of it. IR William Dugdale in his Batronage of England, makes mention, that among the many valiant and noble Normans who accompanied William Duke of Normandy in his Expedition into England, was one Robert de Bruce, who had by the Grant of that Victorious Prince the Lordship of Skeltonn in Tork Shire, and other Lands in that County of great Value and Extent. A Descendent from him, another Robert de Bruce obtained from King David 1st of Scotland, the

But the Right of Succession being adjudged against him, by Edward the I. of England, to whom all the different Competitors had referred the Decision of their respective Claims, he absolutely resused even in the presence of King Edward, to acquiesce in it: Nor did he ever do Homage to, or acknowledge John Baliol as King, and to avoid making any fuch acknowledgement after the definitive Sentence was pronounced, he gave up all his Lands in Scotland, to Robert Earl of Carrick his Eldest Son, and dying anno1295, (b) left Issue by Isabel his Wife, Daughter of Richard de Clare Earl of Clare and Hartford,

Upon his return he obtained the Sole Daughter and Heir of the Earl of Carrick in Marriage, in whose Right he was Stiled Earl of Carrick, and by that Title he was one of the Peers who in 1284, bound themselves in the most solemn manner, that in case King Alexander should die without Heirs of his own Body. to own and acknowledge Margaret of Norway his Grandchild, as their Sovereign & Queen of Scotland. (c) Upon the Decease of that Princess, when the Succession to the Crown was determined against his Father, he disowned John Baliol as King, and was an irreconcileableEnemy to him. After the Death of his Father, he afferted his own Title to the Crown, and resolved to profecure his Right, but was prevented by Death before a favourable opportunity offered anno 1303 (d), leaving Issue by Margaret Countess of Carrick his Wife, Robert and Edward both Earls of Carrick, Neil, Thomas and Alexander, who all three lost their Lives in the War against the English; likewife fix Daughters:

To Robert Earl of Carrick succeeded Robert his Son, who upon the Death of his Father revived his pretentions to the Crown, and being joined by fuch of the Nobility, and others who were willing to redeem their Country Irom the Subjection and Slavery it was under; bravely fought his way through innumerable Difficulties to the Crown, into which he was folemnly inaugurated on the 27 of March 1306, by the Name of Robert the first, and that with the universal applause of the whole Kingdom, who thought themselves bound in gratitude, to run the fate of that brave Prince, who had fo glorioufly redeemed them from Tyranny, Slavery and the Yoke of a Foreign Power. This fignal Appearance for his distressed Sovereign, probably feemed one Cause that upon his Majesty's Restauration, when he constituted a new Set of Judges in the 1661, he named him one of the Senators of the College of Justice, and one of the Lords of his Privy Council. Anno 1678, he was constituted Justice General upon the decease of Sir Archibald Primrofe, and three Years thereafter he was made Lord Clerk Register, in which Station he continued till the Death of King Charles II, Anno 1685.

RAMSAY

Earl of Dalhousie.

A Mong those who were Witnesses to the Grant of the Church of vingi to the Monastery of Holy Roodhouse, in the time of King David I. 600 Years since, Simundus de Ramesie, is there taken notice of for one, from which Simund did Sir. William de Ramefie of Dalhoufie Knight descend, who firmly adhered to King Robert Bruce, and upon his Accession to the Throne, did Homage for his Lands in Edinburgh Shire. Likeas, he was one of the many Scots Barons who wrote and feal'd that memorable Letter to the Pope, declaring the Independency of the Kingdom of Scotland, Anno 1320, which is all I have found on Record concerning him. To this Sir William, fucceeded Sir Alexander Ramfay of Dalhousie, who fignally raifed the Grandeur of his Family, by his great and loyal Services to King David Bruce, against Edward Baliol, who then call'd himfelf King of this Realm; in Consideration whereof, he was by the said King David constituted Warden of the Middle Marches, and Constable of the Castle of Roxburgh, Anno 1342; which he had by his Valour taken from the English. This brave Man, who well deserves, and I know will have a Place among the Scots Heroes, was flain by William Douglass of Liddesdale, 7 July 1348, and to him fucceeded

Sir William Ramfay his Son, who tracing the Steps of his loyal Father; took up Arms for the Service of his King and Countrey, was in the Wars of England, and acted a very noble Part, in Recompence whereof. no doubt, it was, that he obtained a Grant to him, and Agnes his Wife, of the Lands of Nether Libertoun, Anno 1370, by a Charter still extant under the Great Seal. This Sir William was fucceeded by

Sir Alexander his Son, who came nothing behind his Ancestors for Loyalty, Courage and Conduct, which he manifested in a very eminent Degree, in the Battle of Nishet ugainst the English, and afterwards at Livingstoun, by Thurstanus filius .Li- Homildon in Northumberland, in which

Sir Alexander Ramfay of Dalhousie his Son, was one of the Barons of this Realm, who obtained Letters of fafe Conduct from the King of England, to come into that Kingdom, to accompany King James I. home to Scotland, Anno 1423, he being one of the Barons on whom he conferred the Honour of Knighthood, for the greater Splendor of his Coronation, Anno 1424. To this Sir Alexander succeeded Alexander his Grand-son and Heir, Son of George his eldest Son, who This Sir Alexandyed before him. der was (according to common Fame) a Man of prodigious Stature, and of Strength answerable to his

Hight.

By Douglafs his Wife, he had Issue, Nicol his Son and Heir, who succeeded him upon his Death, which happened the 9th September 1513, at the Battle of Flowdon.

HIS Family is one of the most ancient in the Shire of Renfrew, and was of great Repute there, long before the Time of King Robert II, insomuch, that we find Ronnaldus de Denniston, is a Witness to the Inquifition, which David Prince of Cumberland made of the ancient Possessions of the Church of Glasgow, Anno 1116, when John Achaian was promoted to that See. Hence descended Sir John Denniston, Knight, who flourished under King David Bruce, he married Daughter of Malcolm Fleeming Earl of Wigton (a), Z 2 by whom he had Sir Robert his Son and Heir, who obtain'd a Grant from King Robert II. of the Barony of Glencairn, Anno 1370, and dying without Male Issue, in the beginning of King Robert III, his Estate went to his Daughters, and Co-helrs,

Margaret, married to Sir William Cuningham of Kilmaurs, Ancestor to the Earl of Glencairn, who thereby acquired the Baronies of Glencairn,

KEITH,

Lord Dingwall.

Collateral Branch of Keith Earl of Marishal, was Andrew Keith Efq; In the Time of King James VI. who coming to Court, he foon grew fo popular, that he was first Knight. ed, and then by his Majesty's special Favour attained to the Dignity of a Baron of this Realm, by the Title of Lord Keith of Dingwall, before the Year 1584 (a). Being a Person of excellent Parts, he was with George Earl of Marishal sent Ambassador to Denmark, to Treat about a Marriage betwixt King James and Annea Daughter of that Crown, which was happily concluded in 1589, but he dyed foon after, without either Wife or Issue that I find.

PRESTON,

Lord Dingwall.

THIS Sirname was first assumed from the Lordship of Presson, in Vicecomitatu Edinburgi, where they have been seated as early as the Reign of Alexander III. The first of whom I have sound upon Record, is Six William Presson Knight, who was one of the Barons of Scotland, who were summoned to Berwick in the 1291 (b), when the Controversy run high betwixt Robert Bruce and John Baliol, for the Crown of this Realm.

The principal Family of the Name feems to have been Craigmiller: Sir Henry Presson Knight in the 2d of Robert III, is joined in Commission with Sir John Swinton, Sir Henry Douglass, and Sir John Dalzies (c) to treat with the English, touching a Peace betwixt the two Crowns.

Of this Family.

Sir Richard Preston was a younger Son in the Reign of James VI, whose high Advancements to Honour, added no small Lustre to this worthy Family. He was educated at the Court, and being of an agreeable and winning Deportment, he foon grew into his Majesty's special Favour, attaining first the Honour of Knighthood, and e're long, was made one of the Grooms of the Bed-Chamber. Upon King James's attaining the Eng. lish Crown, he accompanied him into that Realm, where he received further Honour, being made one of the Knights of the Bath, at his Majesty's Coronation the 30 of July 1603 (d). Also in 1607, he was further dignify'd with the Title of Lord Dingwall, the Constabulary of which Castle, the King then bestowed on him. His faithful Services, together with the King's Counte-

Countenance, procured him the Marriage of Elifabeth. Daughter and Heir of the Earl of Desmond in the Kingdom of Ireland, into which Dignity he was created, by Letters Patent, bearing date 24 July 1619, and departing this Life Anno 1622, Irish Honour expired, but the Title of Lord Dingwall being to the Heirs of his Body whatfoever lawfully begotten, devolved upon the Lady Elifabeth his only Daughter and fole Heir, married to James Duke of Ormond, by whom she had Issue, Thomas Earl of Offory, Richard Earl of Aran in Ireland; also two Daughters, of Chestersheld, by whom he had only one Daughter Elisabeth, married to John late Earl of Strathmore.

2. Mary, to William Duke of Dewonshire in England. But to return to Thomas Earl of Offery (the eldest Son) he being fummoned to the Englifb Parliament by the Title of Lord Butler of Moor-Park, was made Knight of the Garter, and Rear-Admiral of his Majesty's Fleet; and being a Person of singular Worth, gave many eminent Proofs of his Prudence and Valour both by Sea and Land, but was fuddenly fnatched away by Death in the flower of his Age, Anno 1680. He married the Lady, Æmelia de Nas. Tau, Daughter to Lewis de Naffau, Lord Beverwart, Son to Maurice Prince of Orange, by whom he had,

James now Duke of Ormond, Charles Lord Butler of Westoun, also three Daughters,

1. Elisabeih, married to William Earl of Darby.

2. Æmelia, unmarried.

3. Henrietta, to Henry Earl of Grantham.

His Father surviving him eight Years, then gave way to Fate, his Estate and Honour devolving upon the present Duke his Grandson, a lively Example of the Valour and Gallantry of his two great Ancestors. In 1689, his Grace was constituted one of the Bed-Chamber to the King? Captain of the second Troop of Guards, and Knight of the Garter. On the Accession of her present Majesty to the Throne, he was appointed Generalissimo of the Forces sent against Spain; in his Return from whence he had a large share in the Service of destroying the French Fleet in the Harbour of Vigo, and was afterwards sent Lord Lieutenant into Ireland; also he was named Generalissimo of her Majesty's Forces in Flanders; upon the Removal of John Duke of Marleborough.

In 1710, he laid Claim to the Honour of Lord Dingwall, as being the Heir gradually and lineally defeending from Richard Lord Dingwall: Being found to have Right, his Claim was allowed, and accordingly he Voted by his Proxy in the Election of the Sixteen Scots, Peers, (who by the Treaty of Union areto fit in the House of Peers of Great Britain) 10th November the same Year.

He married first Anne, Daughter of Laurence Earl of Rochester, who deceased without any surviving Issue; and to his second Wise Mary, Daughter of Henry Duke of Beausort, by whom he had Thomas Earl of Osory; who dyed in 1694, Elisabeth and Mary, both living unmarried.

DOUGLASS,

Duke of Douglass,

In 1689, his Grace was conflituted of which there is a particular History

wrote by a very learned Pen, who the Lombard's, he performed many equalizes them to any of the ancient Roman Families, and gives them the preference to all other in Europe, those of crown'd Heads excepted. They have been particularly famous for great Generals, there having been more of this Name, than any other that is to be met with in History; neither was it their native Countrey alone that was indebted to their Valour, but they fignaliz'd themselves in most places of Europe, and particularly in France, where they have had great Commands and Titles, as Duke of Turrin, Count de Longoville, &c. In fhort, this Family exceeded all the rest in the Kingdom, for the Number of Nobility and Gentry of their own Name, according to those old Lines,

So many fo good as of the Douglaffes have been, Of one Sirname was ne'er in Scotland feen,

The Origin of this illustrious House is derived from one Sholto, who in the Reign of Solvathius King of Scotland, Anno Christi 770, having been the principal Man that routed Donald Bane and his Forces, who invaded the Countrey, and being a Dou glass, or a black pale Man, as these Words signify (says my Author) both in old British and Irish, the King royaly rewarded his Services, and made him a Grant of large Possessions in the County of Lanerk, which either he or his Successors called Douglass, and from thence took the Sirname of the Family. This Sholto was the Father of Hugh, of whom there is nothing memorable. He was succeeded in his Inheritance by his eldest Son Hugh II. whose younger Brother William, being fent by Achaius King of Scotland, pursuant glorious Actions, and became the Root of the Family of Scoti at Placentia.

But to leave the Family of the Scoti in Italy, William is supposed to be the Son of Hugh Lord of Douglass, and the Father of John, who was the Father of William, the next Lord of the Family, who is Witness among others to the Charter of King William, whereby he confirm'd the Lands of Dalgarnac given by Adger the Son of Dovenald, to the Church of the Holy Cross at Edinburgh, in the former part of that Reign: He left Isluetwo Sons, Archibald, who fucceeded in the Lordship, and Bricius, first Prior of Lismahagoe, afterwards Bishop of Murray (a).

Archibald first of the Name, married one of the Co-heirs of the Baro. ny of Crawfurd of the same Sirame, (b) and was fucceeded by William III, the Father of Sir Hugh de Douglass, who lived in the Time of Alexander III, and did fignalize himfelf at the Battle of the Largs, where the Scots obtained a glorious Victoryover the Norvegians, Anno 1263. He married Marjory, Daughter of Alexander, and Sifter to Hugh Lord of Abernethy (c); but having no Children by her, at least that survived him, his Brother William, for Distinction called the Hardy, succeeded him. In the time of the War with England, upon all Occasions he distinguished himself in the Service of his Country. In the 1295, he was chosen Governor of Berwick, then in the Hands of the Scots, which he defended with great Resolution and Courage; but afterwards falling into the Enemies hand, he dyed there Prisoner, Anno 1303 (d), leaving Issue by his Wife, Daughter of to his League with Charlemaign, with Keith of that Ilk, James Lord of 4000 choice Men into Italy against Douglass, and Hugh; also by Marga-

Which James Lord Douglass, commonly called The good Sir James, laid the Fundation of the Grandeur of the House of Douglass: He was famous all the World over for his Valour and glorious Actions in the Service of his Country, for which his Memory will still be honoured : He entred early into the Service of King Robert Bruce, and in 1313 (b) he affaulted and took the Castle of Roxhurgh from the English, and the next Year he commanded the left Wing of the Scots Army, at the famous Battle of Bannockburn, where he behav'd fo well, as to merit the Honour of Knighthood in the Field (c), after which, he was constituted Warden of the Marches toward England (d), and entring Cumberland, wasted that County. In Consideration of his good Services before that time perform'd, he had a Grant of the Castle, Vil. lage, and Forrest of Jedworth (e), then erected into a free Forrestry, Cum indictamentis latrociniorum & ministrationem earundem in omnibus terris suis infra regnum nostrum; & si aliquis de hominibus suis per justitiarios nostros fuerint judicati, volumus quod dictus facobus, bæredes fui, &. eorum ministri babeant liberam earundem mi. nistrationem cum omnibus libertatibus. commoditatibus ad predicta indicta. menta pertinen. in feudo & bæreditate perpetuo, salvo tantum communi auxilio pro defensione regni nostri contingenti. And the Scafin is declared to be the giving him the King's Ring with the Emerauld Stone.

Now tho what is above recorded of this noble Lord were alone fufficient to preserve his Memory, yet cannot I omit adding this Epitaph which Mr. Hume gives him.

Sir James was succeeded by his Brother Hugh, but an unactive Man. of whom there is little on Record. having no Issue of his own Body. In 1343, he refigned the Lordship of Douglass, in favours of Sir Williams his Nephew (Son of Archibald Lord of Galloway, who was flain at the Battle of Halydonhill, fo fatal to the Scots, Anno 1333) whereupon he obtained from King David Bruce a Charter De omnibus terris reditus & possessiones per totum regnum Scotia, de quibus quondam Jacobus Dominus de Douglass avunculus suus & Archibaldus pater suus obierunt vestiti, cum regalitate & lilera warena, integre Thonorifice, una cum ducatu hominum Vicecomitatum de Roxburgh & Selkrig. Much about the same time he was dignified with the Honour of Earl of Douglass; for I find him intituled Willielmus comes de Douglass, when he's joined in Commission with diverse Lords to treat with English Commissioners about King David's Inlargement (c). This Earl was deeply engaged on the French side, in the memorable Battle of Poilliers (where John King of France was taken Prisoner by the Black Prince) and very narrowly escaped, being then Ambassador from King Robert II. to the French Court, where the ancient Alliance betwixt the two Crowns was renewed and As for his Works of confirmed. Piety, I have only discover'd, that he gave in pure Alms to the Abby of Melrofs, and the Monks ferving, and perpetually to ferve God there, the Patronage of the Church of Cavers, with its Tithes, for celebrating Divine Service there, according to the Tenor of a special Ordination by him made, viz. for certain Priests, who

In 1357, he was one of the Commissioners on the part of Scotland, authorized to treat with the English about field in the 30th of his Reign.

He married first Margaret, Daughter of Donald, Sifter, and at length sole Heir of Thomas Earl of Mar (d), by whom he had James his Son and Heir, and Isabel, a Daughter, after the Death of her Brother Countess of Mar, who became first the Wife of Sir Malcolm Drummond of Cargill, who in Right of her was intituled Lord Mar (e), and thereafter of Sir Alexander Steuart Knight, in whose favour she resign'd the said Earldom. Anno 1404, Causa (says she) Matri. monii contracti inter dominum Alexan. drum Senescal & nos dictam Isabellam (f), which Honour he enjoy'd till his Death.

This Earl William's fecond Mariniage (having Divorc'd his former Wife) was with Margaret, Daughter of Patrick Earl of March (g), by whom he had Archibald Lord Galloway, afterward Earl of Douglafs: And his third and last was Margaret, Daughter and Heir of Thomas Steuart Earl of Angus, by whom he had George Douglafs first Earl of Angus of that Name: He departed this Life in 1384, and was interr'd in the Abby Church of Melrofs, according to Mr. Winton, whose Words are these.

(d) Here I take the liberty to differ from Mr. Hume, who fays, this Earl's first Marriage, was with the Earl of March's Daughter, and that he had by her James Earl of Douglas's killed at Otterburn, which is a Mistake, for I have seen a Mortification by Margaret Countes of Douglas's and Mar, to the Church of St. Mary of Garrioch, for the Soul of William Earl of Douglas's and Mar, to the Church of St. Mary of Garrioch, for the Soul of William Earl of Douglas's her Son and Heir: Also there's a Confirmation by the same Earl James to the Monks of Melros's of the Church of Cavers, wherein he's designed Coinges of Mar. Moreover, 'tistobe considered, that upon the Decease of Earl James, Isabel his Sister, of the whole Blood, succeeded him in the Honour of Mar, when the Earldom of Douglas's devolved upon Archibald their Brother of, the half Blood. (c) Charta penes Ducem de Douglas's. (f) Charta in Rotulis Robert ill. (g) This is with greater Probability, than that he was Brother by the same Mother to James Earl of Douglas's, killed at Otterburn; for when he succeeded to the Honour and Estate of Douglas's, he made no Claim's to Mar, which descended to Isabel, Earl James's Sister, as is above narrated,

To Dougladale as I heard fay,
An Sicknefs took him by the way,
And there he dyed in fiber way,
I it is the state of the state of the state
To McIrose then they took his Body,
And there is burgis right honourably.

This Earl was succeeded by James his Son, between whom and Sir Henry Percy there were glorious Feats of Arms performed in Honour of their Country. He was killed at the Battle of Otterburn, 31 of July 1388, fought betwitt him and Sir Henry Hotfpur, Son to the Earl of Northumberland, an Encounter, says one, managed with that unparallelled Courage on both sides, that it was hardly to be matched in History, and was the Occasion of an old Rhime, of which this is a part,

Is fell about the Lammas Tide,
When Yeoman win the Hay,
The doughtie Douglass gan to ride
In England to take a Prey.

Mr. John Johnston, 'our famous Poet, has endeavoured on his Part, to perpetuate his Memory by the following Elegy,

Queritis 8 quid agam? en animam jam ago: fata

This Heroick Earl was married with the Lady Ifabel Steuart, Daughter to King Robert II (a), but dying without lawful Islue, he was succeeded in the Earldom by

Archibald Lord Galloway, his Brother, commonly called Archibald the Grim. In 1381 he was fent Ambassador to France, which Negotiation he managed with Success and Honour. This Earl added to his ancient patrimonial Inheritance the Lordship of Bothwel, in Vicecomitatu Lanerici, by Marriage of Elisabeth, only Daughter and sole Heir of Thomas Murray, Lord of Bothwell, and thereupon had an Augmentation sto his ancient Arms, viz. Azure, three Mollets within a double Treffure, Or. He founded the Collegiate Church of Bothwell, establishing Maintenance for a Provost and eight Prebends, out of the Lands of Osbairnstoun and Nether-Urd; who were continually to perform the Offices of the Church for the Soul of him and his Successors, of the Date 10th Octob. 1398 (b), and departing this Life in the Month of February 1400 (c), he was interr'd at Bothwell Church, without any Epitaph on his Monument, leaving Islue by the faid Elifabeth his Wife, Arshibald his Successor, and a Daughter Marjory, married to David Prince of Scotland; elder Brother to King James I.

Which Archibald was a Nobleman of great Valour, and much addicted to Arms. In 1401, he had a Command in the South against the English, ravaged the Country as far as Newcalle, carried of the Stores, and then returned Home without any manner of Loss.

This Earl was in such Esteem for his Conduct, Valour, and other bright Qualities, that he was made Captain General of all the Forces then designed to be transported into France, in behalf of the French against the English, where he did such signal Service to that Crown, that King Charles VII. invested him in the Dutchy of Turrin, and to his Heirs Male for ever, and made him Marishal of France (c): He had the chief Command in the Battle of Vernoil, where he lost his Life, 7th of August 1425, and was interr'd in St. Gratians Church in Tours.

This Earl had Issue by his Wife Margaret, Daughter of King Robert III.

Archibald, next Earl of Douglass, his Son, was a Person of great Accomplishments either for Peace or War: I find him in 1424, appointed to go upon a solemn Embassy into England to treat upon the Redemption of King James I. Henry Bishop of Aberdeen, and Sir William Hay of Erroll, were appointed to accompany The him, and to be his Collegues: first mention of his Martial Actions is in 1420, the first of the Government of Murdack Duke of Albany, when he, with his Brother-in-law, John Earl of Buchan, were fent into France with 7000 Auxiliaries, wherewith they perform'd many fignal Services against the English: He gave way to Fate on the 26 June 1438, and was buried in the Church of Douglass, with this Epitaph on his Monument, Hie Jacet Dominus Archibaldus Douglas Dux Turroniæ, Comes de Douglas & Longoville, Dominus Gallovidie, & Annandiæ, Jocum tenens Regis Scotiæ, obit 2.6 June, Anno Dom. Millessima quadringentessimo Trigessmo estavo.

This Earl had no Issue by his first Wise Matilda (b), Daughter of David Earl of Crawfurd: But Eupham Graham (c), Daughter of Patrick Earl of Strathern, his second Wise, bore him two Sons, viz. William, who succeeded him. 2d. David, and Margaret a Daughter, first Countess of Douglass, and thereafter the Wise of John Steuart, Earl of Athole, Uterine Brother to King James II.

To Archibald Earl of Douglass succeeded William his Son, a Youth of great Expectation, of an high Spirit and a fweet Disposition, but the Vanity of his followers, and his own want of Experience, led him into feveral Misdemeanors, and being on his Journey to a defigned Parliament, he was met, and sumptuously entertain'd by William Lord Crichton, then Chancellour, who minded him of the Greatness and Merit of the Family, and his own Duty to the Crown; the Earl in Return acknowledged his Fault lay in his Youth and Ignorance, blaim'd his evilCounfellors, chided his Dependents, promifed Obedience for the future, and gave all the Marks of a fincere and generous Resolution: But after all this, he was invited to the Castle of Edinburgh, and being fer at the King's Table, was suddenly remov'd, and instantly murdered, in the 16th Year of his Age, together with his younger Brother David, and Sir Malcolm Fleeming of Cumbernald, Friend, Anno 1441.

To William last mentioned, succeed? ed James Lord Abercorn, his Uncle. for Distinction called The gross Earl. of whom I find nothing remarkable, fave that he was Warden of the Marches toward England, in the Reign of King James II. He married Beatrix Sinclair, Daughter to the Earl of Orkney, who bore him fix Sons, viz. William, who succeeded him. James Douglass, Knight, who took one of the two to Wife Mary, Daughters and Coheirs of Fames Dunbar Earl of Murray, in Right of whom he came to possess that Ho-Sir Hugh Douglass 4th Son; was Earl of Ormond. in Vicecomitatu de Aire (a).

This Earl died the 24th of March 1443, and was interr'd at Douglass-Church: Upon his Tomb ye may read this Epitaph, Hie jacet magnus & potens Princeps Jacobus Comes de Douglass, Dominus Annandiæ & Gallovidix, Liddalia, & Jedburgh-forestia, & Deminus de Balvenia magnus Wardanus Regni Scotiz versus Angliam, Ec. qui obiit vicesimo quarro dia mensis Martii, Anno Domini millesimo quadringentesiono quadragesimo tertio.

William, Son and Heir of the former Earl, being unwilling that fo great an Inheritance as the Earldom of Douglass was, should be divided, married Margaret, Daughter of Archibald, and Sifter and Heir to William Earl of Douglass his Cousin, A Marriage (fays one) made bim as much hated by bis Friends, as feared by his Enemies. This Earl profecuted Revenge on Chancellour Crichton, as the Author of his Coufins Death with more Violence than Success, his Affectation of a mighty Pomp and Splendor, procur'd him Envy: His Contempt of the Courtiers begot Hatred, and incurr'd him their Difpleasure. They improv'd his Faillings, magnified his Defigns, plotted his Ruine; His Power and haughty Conduct rendred him fuspected to his Sovereign K. James II, whose Hand and Dagger put a period to his Life in Stirling Castle, the 13th of February 1452.

Fames succeeded to William his Brother in the Earldom, he took up Arms against his Prince; and coming to a Battle, he was intirely routed by the Earl of Angus, the King's Lieutenant, Anno 1455. Retireing then to the Court of England, he was intertain'd by King Edward, who made him one of the Knights of the most noble Order of the Garter: but

4. Elisabeth, to Wallace of Craigie with the Duke of Albany, affisted from England, Anno 1483, he was taken Prisoner, and confined in the Abby of Lindores, where he took upon him religious Orders, and con-tinued in Devotion till his Life's End, which happned to fall out on 15th of April 1488: He was inter'd before the high Altar, under a Marble Stone, to which was affixed a Tablet of Brass (1) containing this Inscription.

This Earl is thus Characteriz'd by a good Historian (c), who says, He was a Nobleman of a Majestick Pre-Sence, Valiant, Learn'd, and Wife, but. of a resolute and precise Temper, yet Somewhat over distrustful of his own Power, and other Performances, and if he had been either a more resolute Adventurer, or a more complying and submissive Subject, he might have made Peace on his own Terms. I shall conclude with Mr. Hume's Epitaph on him, as Follows, Quid rides rasumque caput, cellaque recessium? Quad que cucullatis Fratribus anumeror? Si fortuna volvente vices fiet modo Princeps. Plebeius: Monachus sæpe Monarcha fuit.

English'd,

The principal Branch of the Illustrious Family of Doug-Is, thus expiring; I'fhall at prefent confine my Memoirs to the House of Angus, the next great Family of the Name, who, tho invading the Kingdom again with inferior to that of the old Earls of Douglass

yet exceeded most others for Royalties, Greatness, number of Vassals, and Military Glory, They had many Privileges inherent in their Fassily,

the Crown in Riding of Parliaments, to be the King's hereditary. Lieutenant, and to have the leading of the all which were confirmed by King

James VI. to William Earl of Angus
Anno 1591.

George Douglass, first Earl of Angus, was only Son of William first Earl of Douglass, by Margaret his 3d Wife, Daughter and Heir of Thomas Steuart Earl of Angus: He was invested in this Honour upon his Mother's Refignation by a Charter, of which this is

Hay of Lockhart (b), Ancestor to the present Marques of Tweddal. All that I have sound in History of this Earl, is, that he accompanied the Earl of Donglass to the Battle of Homildon, where he was taken Prisoner, and there falling Sick, he dyed Anno 1402, his Lady re-marrying with Sir James Kennedy Knight, after that she became the Wite of Sir William Graham of Kincardin, whom surviving, also she was a fourth time married to Sir William Edmissor of Duntreath (c).

William, second Earl of Angus, in the 1423, was fent to England one of the Hostages for the Ransom of King James I. his Uncle (d), at the Solemnity of whose Coronation he had the Honour of Knighthood conferr'd on him, an Honour much more valued in ancient Times than we have fince found it to be : And in the Year 1424, he was one of the Peers that fat upon the Trial of Murdock Duke of Albany (e), and the 29th of the faid Reign he was appointed Warden of the middle Marches toward England, and the next Year after, had a special Grant of all the Mannors, Castles, and Lands descended to him from his Ancestors, in as ample manner as they held the fame.

In 1436, the English making several Incursions upon the Borders, under the command of the valiant Percy, he was sent against them, where he destroyed several Towns upon the Marches, and routed them at Piperdeen. Sir George Douglass his Uncle (b), a Man of great Parts, and much esteem'd for Wisdom, Loyalty, and Valour. The first notice of him, is in the 1449, that he was one of the Commissioners on the part of Scotland, who met with feveral English Lords at Berwick, and there concluded a League of stricter Amity, as they termed it, betwixt both Nations: and foon after he was constituted Warden of the East and Middle Marches (c). Archibald his Son and Heir fucceeding, commonly defigned The great Earl, he made a confiderable Figure in the Reigns of James III, and IV. In 1488, he was one of the affociating Lords who at Lawder-Bridge, in presence of the King seized on Thomas Homil and Robert Cochran the mean Favorites of that Prince, and caused Execute them as the Authors of the Milmanagement of the publick Affairs, tho I don't find he was in the Prince's Army at Bannockburn, where the unfortunate King loft his Life. In the 24th of James IV, Anno 1492, he was made Warden of the Marches, also one of the King's Privy Council, and the next Year conftituted Lord high Chancellor of Scotland, then void by the Decease of Colin Earl of Argyle, from which he was removed in 1498, George Earl of Huntly being put in his stead.

His first Wife was Elifabeth, Daughter of Robert Lord Boyd, Lord high Chamberlain of Scotland, by whom he had three Sons.

her were three Sons,

1. Archibald, who succeeded his Grand-father.

2. Sir George Douglass, who by Elifabeth his Wife, Daughter and fole Heir of David Douglass of Pittendrich (d) had Issue David, afterward Earl of Angus, James Earl of Morton, Regent of Scotland, in the Minority of King James VI. Margaret, to Robert Crawfurd of Achinnaims, in Vicecomitatu de Renfrew. This George behaving himfelf very gallantly at Flowdonfield, there lost his Life, with two hundred Gentlemen of his Name and Family, 9th September 1513; which Difaster so affected his aged Father, that he retired from the World to prepare himself for Death, which he was senfible was approaching, and it happened in the Beginning of the next Year 1514.

To Archibald the great Earl of Angus succeeded Archibald his Grandfon, a Person of great Accomplishments, either for Peace or War. This noble Person in his Youth travelled into France and other Foreign Parts, where he received great Honours from the Princes themselves of these respective Countrys, particularly from Henry II. of France, who made him a Knight of the most noble Order of St. Michael. About the Time of his Return, Anno 1515, Scotland was then afflicted with the Death of King James IV. who left his Son very Young, and the Regency to the Queen Mother, who for her better Support married this Earl.

Upon the Refignation of the Government by the Duke of Albany, he together with the Earls of Aran. Lennox, and Argyle, by a special Act were made Counsellours to the young King James V. Anno 1521, and the Year after constituted Lord high Chancellour of Scotland; he held the Office till the Year 1528, at which time, upon a Difgust taken against him by the King, he was removed and out-law'd, whereupon he retir'd into England, where he was James Douglass of Drumlanrig, An- nobly entertain'd by Henry VIII.

Then returning home, he was Parliamentarily reftor'd to his Estate and Titles of Honour, and at the satal Battle of Pinkiefield he commanded the Van-guard of the Army against the English, where he behaved very worthily, and living peaceably the remainder of his Days, he departed this Life at his Castle of Tantallon, in the 1557, aged 64, and was interr'd at Abernethy.

This gallant Earl married thrice, his first Wife being Margaret Hepburn Daughter of Patrick Earl of Bothwell, by her he had no Children. he had the Honour to marry Margaret of England, Widow of Fames IV. of Scotland, eldest Daughter of Henry VII. and Sifter to Henry VIII. Kings of England, who bore him one Daughter, the Lady Margaret Douglass, married to Matthew third Earl of Lennox, Mother by him of Henry Duke of Albany, Lord Darnly, &c. Daughter of John Earl of Mar. Next, Margaret Daughter to the Earl of Rothes, but by neither of these had he any Isiue. 3dly Jean, Daughter of John Lord Glammis, who bore him a Daughter Elisabeth, who dyed a Maid.

The first time I find this Earl in publick Business, is in 1573, he was constituted Sherist of Berwick, and one of the Wardens on the Borders, which he exerced with an universal Reputation for five or fix Years, Justice never being better administred.

Upon the fall of his Uncle the Earl of Morton, the King grew jealous of him, whereupon he retir'd to England, where he was bountifully entertained by Queen Elifabeth, and there he had Opportunity to contract a Friendship with the famous Sir Philip Sidney, very much to their mutual Satisfaction: But after some Years, upon better Information, his Majesty not only restored him to his former Favour and Familiarity; but appointed him Lieutenant on the Borders, which he defended with great Reputation for several Years but at last being seiz'd with a Sickness, which was thought to be Sorcery, he languished under his Distemper till about the end of July 1,88; at which time he gave way to Fate, with the Character of being a good Man in all respects, well versed in Learning, and tho endowed with many excellent Qualities, his Piety was allowed to be the reigning Vertue in him. He was interr'd at the Collegiate Church of Abernethy; upon him I find this Epitaph,

By which more Honour is obtain'd,
Than is in greatest Triumphs gain'd.

The Male Line of George Master of Angus terminating in this Earl, the Honour and Estate, by reason of the entail upon the Heirs Male, devolved on Sir William Douglass of Glenberry.

Glendervy is a Barony in the Shire of Kincardin, which was the Possession of the Melvil's: As far back as the Time of Alexander II. Philip de Melvil Knight, executed the Office of Sheriff of Aberdeen, in the beginning of that Reign(a). In his Line the Barony continued till the the 8th of James III, Anno 1468 (b), and then determined in Elisabeth, Daughter, and at length fole Heir of Alexander Melvil of Glenbervy, married to Sir John Achinleck of that Ilk, an ancient Family in Air Shire (c) by whom he had Tames his Son and Heir, who marrying Giles Daughter of Sir John Ross of Halkhead, Knight (d), left a Daughter Elisabeth his fole Heir, whose Ward and Marriage falling to the King, James IV. he affigned it to Sir William Douglass of Braidwood, Knight, Son to Archibald Earl of Angus (e), Anno 1492: Whereupon there happned a Contest betwixt the said Elisabeth and James Achinleck of that Ilk, her Coufin German, about the Right of Succession: The Matter at length, after long Dispute, was referred by both Parties to cer- on till the 1689,

2. John Douglass, second Son. To Sir Archibald Douglass of Glenberwy, fucceeded Sir William his Son and Heir, to whom the Honour of Earl of Angus devolved Anno, 1588.

This Earl, while a private Gentleman, accompanyed Queen Mary in her Northern Expedition, Anno 1562, and was active in the Fight at Corri chie, where Alexander Earl of Huntly was flain. Upon the turn of the Reformation, in the memorable Year 1560, when both the Doctrine of the Church, and Authority of the Bishop, of Rome. was parliamentarly abolished; he did eminently fignalize himfelf by his firm Adherence to, and zealous Profession of the Protestant Religion, of which he was a very great Promoter, and of Confequence was a mightySupporter of King James VI's. Authority during the Administration of the Regents Murray, Lennox, Mar, and Morton; which in that Prince's Minority, very much to his Detriment, he maintained, affifling both with his Money and Counfel; but having no Opportunity of fignalizing himsely by Arms, we hear no more of moment concerning him, till the time of his Death, which happened 14 April 1591, leaving a numerous Family by Giles his Wife, Daughter of Sir Robert Graham of Morphie, in Vicecomitatu de Kincardin;

the 30th of May 1625, being the fixth in Number of Precedency in that Honour. His Wite was Elifabeth, Daughter of Sir George Auchinleck of Balmanno, by whom he had Sir William his Successor, and Dr. George Douglass Rector of Stepney, Grand-father to Sir Robert Douglass now of Glenbervy, Baroner.

and Son Gavin Douglass of Bridge ford.

 Ath. John Douglass of Barras. "

Margaret, eldest Daughter, married to John Forbes of Monimusk, in Vicecomitatu de Aberdeen. Elisabeth the lecond, to Sir Alexander Gordon of Cluny. Fean the third, to Fame's Wishart of Pittarow, in Vicecomitatie de Kińcardin. Sarah fourth youngest, to Sir Alexander Strachan of Thorntoun Baroner, and after his Death to Sir George Auchinleck of Balmanno.

William his eldest Son, succeeded in the Honour, was a Nobleman well versed in the Antiquities and History of his Country, especial. ly in that Part relating to Genealogies; and from the Scots History, and the Documents of his Family, he wrote a Chronicle of the Douglasses, a much more elaborate Work than that put out in the Year 1644, Dedicated to the Marquis of Douglass. This Earl, in the latter part of his Life, made Defection to the Romillo Faith, which put him fo much under the King's Displeasure, that with leave he retired into France, where he foun out his Time in the Devotions of that Church till his Death. in the Year 1616. His wife was Elifabeth, Daughter of Lawrence Lord Oliphant, by Margaret his Wife; Daughter of George Earl oi Errol, by whom he had three Sons, and two Daughters, William Lord Angus his Successor, Sir James Douglass afterward Lord Mordingtown, Sir Francis Douglass of Sandilands, Knight.

Mary, lecond Wife of Alexander

Earl of Linlithgow, Margaret, to Sir Alexander Campbel of Calder, in Vicecamitatu Moraviæ, and had Iffue.

To this Earl succeeded William his Son, who as he was Master of a most pleatiful Fortune, so he kept up the old Scots Hospitality and Grandeur at his Cattle of Douglass, where he usually resided, having perhaps a more numerous Family and Attendance than any Nobleman in the Kingdom. King Charles I, tuted him chief Commander or Lieutenant on the Borders (a), and created him Marquis of Douglass on the 17th of June 1633, the Day immediately preceeding his Majesty's Coronation. Upon the commencing of the Civil War, in that Reign, I do not find this noble Lord engaged much on either fide, but kept himfelf out of the Broils of these times, as much as any of his Quality in the Kingdom, till the 1645, perceiving the hard Usage of the King, and the Miseries that threatned his native Country he took up Arms in Defence of both, and joining-his Forces with these under the Command of the Great Marquis of Montrole, his Majesty's Captain General in Scotland, He accompanyed him to the Battle of Philiphaugh, where he behaved himfelf with great Valour and admirable Courage. Upon the loss of the Day, he had the Misfortune to be taken Prisoner; and notwithstanding all the Disadvantages and Dangers he lay under from the ufurping Powers of these Times, continued steady in his Loyalty to his first Earl of Stirling. Prince King Charles II, tho in Exile, to the frequent hazard of his, Life, and Detriment of his Fortune, Olivan Cromwell impoling a confiderable Fine upon him in the 16

Abercorn, by whom he had two Sons and four Daughters.

I. Archibald, Lord Angus, who upon the breaking out of the Civil War, in the Reign of King Charles I, was on the Parliament's side for some time, but afterward disliking the Service; and finding. Things carried on to Extremities, he left them, and appeared very forward to testify his Loyalty to King Charles II, at whose Coronation, which was folemniz'd the first of Fanuary 1651, his Lordship was constituted Lord high Chamberlain for the Day. He married first Anne, Daughter of Esmae Steuart Duke of Lennox, by whom he had James who succeeded his Grandfather. 2 dly Fean, Daughter of David Earl of Weems, by whom he had Archibald Earl of Forfar, and Margaret fourth Wife of Alexander Viscount of King-Coun. This Lord dyed in the prime of his Age, Anno 1655, his Wife furviving him, re-married with George Earl of Sutherland.

2d. James the 2d Son, whose Genius leading him to the Wars, he went over to France, where he fignaliz'd himfelf in the Service of Lewis XIV, on every Occasion that offered, and more particularly at the Siege of Doway, where he was killed, his Death preventing his being honoured with a Marshal's Batton. these Sons, he had also three Daugh-

Jean, married to William Lord Alexander, Son and Heir of William

Margaret, to Sit John Hamilton, who was created Lord Bargany by King Charles I.

Grisel the third, to Sir William

Carmichael.

His first Marriage was with garet Daughter of Claude Ham of Lord Mary Daughter of George Marquis of Pailly, Sister to James & Earl of Huntly, by Henrietta his Wile, Daughter of Esmae Duke of Lennox, by whom he had William, created Earl of Selkirk, Anno 1646, and afterward Duke of Hamilton 1661. The second, George Earl of Dunbarton; Colonel James Douglass, third Son, dyed unmarried; likewise four Daughters,

1. Henrietta, married to James Earl of Annandale.

2. Catherine, to Sir William Ruthven of Douglass, in Vicecomitatu de Berwick.

3. Isabel, to William the first Duke of Queensberry.

4 Jean, to James 4th Earl of Perth, Lord high Chancellour of Scotland, in the Reign of King Charles II. and King James VII.

5. Lucy, to Robert Earl of Nithf-

dale, and all had Iffue.

My Lord Marquis furviving all our intelline Commotions, which were not a few, the detail of which, I need not at this time enter into, he at last gave way to Fate in a good advanced Age, in the Spring of the Year, 1660 (a).

Fames succeeded his Grandfather in the Honour, he was fworn one of the Privy Council to King Charles II. about 1670, and fo continued to two succeeding Kings, for the space of to Years, even to his Death. He married first Barbara, Daughter of John Earl of Mar, by whom he had a Son, James Lord Angus, a very brave Youth, who engaging early in the Wars, fignaliz'd his Courage upon every Occasion that offered it self. especially at the Battle of Stenkirk. where he was unfortunately flain, 3d. of August 1692, in his 21 Year, generally lamented, being a Nobleman of great Hopes and Expectation, and would have been an Honour and Ornament to his Country, had not an untimely Death too foon depriv'd his illustrous Family of the great Advantages it might have reaped by his Enjoyment of a longer Life. His Lordship married to his second Wise, Mary, Daughter of Robert Marquis of Lothian, by whom he had Archibald his Son and Heir, and a Daughter Lady Jean. He departed this mortal Life in a most Christian manner, and with an entire Resignation to the Will of the Creator, on the 25th of February 1700, at the Age of sifty sour, and was interred at Daughas without any Funeral Solemnity.

Archibald the present Duke, a young Nobleman of great Hopes, succeeded his Father at six Years old, and Her Majesty's Queen Anne was pleased in the nineth Year of his Age, to augment his Lordships Honours, by creating him Duke of Douglass, on the 18th of April 1703: The Reasons for bestowing the Honour upon him, is thus fer forth in the Preamble to his Patent.

SUTHERLAND,

Lord Duffus.

THE Murray's were the first Proprietors of the Barony of Duffus, in the County of Murray, and that as early as the time of King William the Lyon, Hugh de Moravia, being Brother to William de Moravia, who first assumed the Sirname of Murray: He's Witness in several Grants made to the Episcopal See of Murray, by his Brother, therein designed filius Willielmi filii Friskini (a).

This Hugh left Isfue Walter de Moravia, who cedes his Right of the Wood of Spiny to Archibald Bishop of Murray (b), in pure and perpetual Alms, Anno-Dom. 1226. He was Succeeded by Frsikinus de Moravia his Son, who designs himself Dominus de Duffus, in a solemn Contract bebetwixt him and the Bishop of Murray, relative to feveral Lands that had been in Dispute between Sir Walter his Father, and the former Bishop of that See, dated on St. Cuthberts Day 1248. By Jean his Wife, he left Islue two Daughters his Coheirs (c), Mary married to Sir Reginald le Chien, Knight, and Christian Christian to William de Federeth, who divided the Inheritance.

The Lands of Duffus falling to the Share of the eldest Sister, Sir Reginald de Chein, and Mary his Wife foresaid, they gave a Donation to the Cathedral of Elgin, 1st May 1269, for the good of their Souls. After some Descents this Barony was transferred by the Marriage of Mary Daughter and Heir of Rynald Chine, Knight, to Nicel a younger Son of Kenneth Earl of Sutherland, who was flain at the Battle of Halydonhill, Anno 1333 (a), he obtained by his Brother's Grant on the 30th of September 1360, the fourty pound Land of Therboll, to be holden of the faid Earl, which King David II, confirmed by his Charter under the Great Seal, in the 1364 (1), and by reason of this Marriage, the Sutherlands of Duffus added to their paternal Coat, the three Cross Croslets, the Arms of Chine, which is still in their Atchivement. This Nicol was succeeded by Henry Sutherland of Duffus, his Son and Heir (c), as he was by Alexander, who obtain'd aCharter of theLands of Therboll from John then Earl of Sutherland, his Superior, dated the 12th of July 1444. He added much to the Wealth of his Family by the Marriage of the Heir Female of Chisholme of that Ilk, (d) and thereupon affumed into the Center of his Coat of Arms a Boars Head coupe. Alexander Sutherland of Duffus, Successor to the former, dying without Male Issue, in the Reign of James IV. (e) Christian his only Daughter and Heir, was married to William Oliphant of Berrindale: the Barony of Duffus after a long Dispute, came to William Sutherland of Querrelwood (f) as Heir Male. He departing this Life in 1529, left Issue by Janet his Wife, Daughter of Alex. ander Innes of that Ilk(g), William his Successor, and Alexander a Clergyman, who was Dean of Caithness (b).

As to the Descendents of this William, seeing they did not stand in the rank of Peers, tho a considerable family, I shall not trace them, but come down to the Reign of King Charles II. in whose Time Sir Alexander Sutherland of Duffus, was one of the Barons, who by Reason of his special Merit was advanced to the Honour of Lord Duffus, 8th December 1650, some Days preceeding his Majetly's Coronation:

He married to his first Wise, Jean Daughter of Colin Lord Kintail, Widow of William Lord Berrindale, Edly. Daughter of Sir Robert Innes of that Ilk. And next, Margaret Daughter of James Earl of Murray, by whom he had James his Successor, and Henrietta a Daughter married to George Earl of Linlingon.

James late Lord Duffus, married Margaret Daughter to Kenneth Earl of Seaforth, by whom he had Kenneth the present Lord; who succeeded his Father in the 1705. His Lordship had ving acquired great Knowledge in Maritime Affairs, was meritorioufly advanced to the Command of The Advice, one of her Majesty's Ships of War, in which Character, in feveral Expeditions he has behaved with admirable Courage and Bravery. He married Charlota Christina, Daughter of Erick de Siobladhe Governour and Admiral of Gottenburgh in Sweden, by whom he has a Son Erick, Mafter of Duffus.

The present Lord has two Brothers, James Sutherland Esq; who changed his Name for that of Dunbar, by reason of his marrying Marry, Daughter, and Heir of Sir William Dunbar of Hemprigs; he was created Baronet 10th of December 1706, and William Sutherland of Resemmon.

THAT the Study and Practice of the Law, has raised many to great Wealth and Honour, is evident enough from fundry Examples of that kind; amongst which Sir Alexander Seton, the first of this Family is not the least; he was a Younger Son of George Lord Seton, by Isobel his Wife, Daughter of Sir William Hamilton of Sorn, Knight, Lord high Thesaurer of Scotland, in the Reign of Fames V. he was educated in Italy, where he studied the Laws, in which Profession he became so great a Proficient, that King : James VI, upon his return home, constituted him one of the extraordinary Lords of the Session, 12th of March 1585, that he might thereby come to the knowledge of the Forms here used: After which, in February 1587, he was admitted one of the ordinary Senators of the College of Justice, and on the 3d of August 1591, his Majesty advanced him to the Dignity of a Lord of this Realm, by the Title of Lord Urguhart; and that he might the better support the Honour he had conferred on him, that Prince took the first. Opportunity to augment his Fortune, and in the 21st. of his Reign, upon the Dissolution of the Monastries, made a Grant to him and the Heirs of his Body, lawfully begotten, of the whole Lands and Tithes of the rich Priory of Pluscarden in Murray; his Lordship ascending still higher in Esteem, in Respect of his eminent Knowledge, was preferred to be Prefident of the Session, in theRoom of William Baillie of Provan, deceased 12th of May 1593; as also in 1595, to be one of the Commiffioners of the Thefaury. Rifing by these Gradations, in the 36 of the faid to that eminent Post of Lord high Chancellour of Scotland, and upon the 3d of March the Year after dignified with the Honour of Earl of Dumfermling, he was likewise appointed one of the Commissioners to treat of a nearer Union betwixt Scotland and England, which was not compleated at that time; after which continuing in the Chancellours Office with much Honour, for the full Term of 18 Years, He departed this Life 16th of June 1622, and was interr'd at the Paroch Church of Dalgaty in Fife, with great Funeral Solemnity.

His first Wife was Lilias, Daughter of Patrick Lord Drummond, by whom he had four Daughters,

1. Anne, married to Thomas second Earl of Kelly.

inz. Ifabel, to John first Earl of Lauderdale.

3. Margaret, to Colin Earl of Seaforth. 4. Sophia, to David first Lord Balcares.

His fecond Marriage was with Grifel, Daughter of James, Son and Heir of Andrew Earl of Rothes, by whom he had only a Daughter Fean, married to John first Earl of Twedale.

He married to his third Wife, Margaret Daughter to John Lord Teffer, by whom he had Charles his Son and Heir, and a Daughter Grisel, who dyed unmarried.

Alexander, Earl of Dumfermling? was succeeded in his Honours and Estate by his Son Charles, who upon the breaking out of the Civil War, in 1638, was at first on the Covenanters fide: However, fuch was his Prudence and Moderation, that he endeavour'd to advance all Motions toward a Peace, and was the first Lord in the King's Commission to treat with the English, in order to compose the unhappy Differences between his Majesty and his Subjects in Scotland, which was by his Endeavours happily concluded in the Year King, Anno 1604, he was advanced 1641. And that he might be further able able to ferve the King with the Church, he was appointed Commissioner to the General Assembly, Anno 1641, wherein he proposed very temperate Counfels, and earneftly recommended to the Clergy, that in return of all his Majesty's Favours toward their Church, they would make Confcience by their Doctrine and Example to keep the People in their Duty to God and the King, during the fucceeding Times of Anarchy and Ufurpation. as This noble Lord affecting to lead a retired Life, I find no Account of him in any of the publick Transactions that ensued, but upon the Dawn of the Restauration of King Charles II. he appeared very forward to express his Loyalty, and to re-cstablish the old Scots Constitution, to which he firmly adhered, not long after, he was constituted one of the Lords of his Majesty's Privy Council, and in 1671 made Lord Privy Seal, in the Room of William Earl of Marshal deceased; whichOffice he enjoy'd till his Death, Anno 1674. Which James Earl of Dumfermling, in his Youth, having a Genius to War, he betook himself to Arms in the Service of the States of Holland, and was in several memorable Expeditions under the Prince of Orange; but quiting those Military Imployments, upon his Accession to the Honour, the lived at home in great Splendor, till the Revolution, in 1688. Upon the Capitulation of the Highlanders, when there was no probability of supporting King James's Interest any longer in Scotland, he retired to the Court of St. Germans in France; where the faid King, to alleviate his Misfortunes, was pleased to honour his Lordship with the most noble Order of the Thiftle, as a distinguishing Mark of his royal Favour (and as he faid) An Earnest of what he intended to do for him and his Family, when it would please God to restore him to the peaceable Possession of his own; here he sojourned till his Death, in' the Year 1694, leaving no Issue that survived him by Jean his Wife. Earl of Dunbarton.

ROM this royal Burough, none derived any Title of Honour till King Charles II. raised Lord younger Son of George Douglass, William first Marquis of Douglass, to the Dignity of Earl of Dunbarton, the 9th of March 1675.

This noble Person served Lewis XIV. of France in the Quality of one of his Pages of Honour; afterward taking himself to the Profession of Arms, he rose gradually to be Colonel Bri-

He was present in most of the Sieges and Actions betwixt the French and the Confederates, wherein he acquired immortal Honour by his unparalleled Valour, in 1678. Upon the Conclusion of the Peace with the States of Holland, by the Treaty of Nimiquen, He was called over to Britain, and resided most at Court during the remainder of King Charles's Reign.

Upon the Accession of King James VII. to the Crown, in the 1685, he was constituted General of the Forces in Scotland; and in that Station he' commanded against the Earl of Argyle upon his Invasion of this Realm, whom he so closely pursued, that his Men were foon dispersed, and himfelf taken Prifoner, whose Fate I need not re-count here. Alfo in the 1687, he was elected one of the twelve Knights, Companions of the most noble Order of St. Andrew of Scotland, which his Majesty was then pleased to revive, after it had Iven dormant for 145 Years.

Upon the landing of the Prince of Orange in England, his Lordship fluck closs to King James, and together with the Earls of Aran, Salifbury, and Leitchfield, attended his Majesty to Rochester, from whence he fet Sail for France, whether my Lord Dunbarton foon followed, and dyed at the Court of St. Germans, Anno 1692, leaving Iffue by his Wife, Sister to the Dutchess of Nor-

SCRIMGEOUR,

Earl of Dundee.

A Ccording to the Authority of our Historians, this noble and ancient Family derive their Origine from one Sir Alexander Caron, a brave and valiant Knight, who in the first of Alexander I. Anno Dom. 1107, fignalized his Valour against the Northern Rebels, who had attempted no less than the Murder of the King, for which (continue they) he had his Name changed to Scrimgeour, that is a Sharp Fight;

Wherefore he had a special Grant from the King to himself, and the Heirs Male of his Body, to be hereditary Standard bearers to the Kings of Scotland, and for his Coat of Arms, Gules, a Lyon rampant, Argent, holding in his dexter Paw a crooked Sword Proper, and the word Diffpate for his Motto. Mr. Johnston the Poet, has left us the following Verses to the Honour of his Memory, Quid trepidai?da signa mihi, superabimus amnem; Terreat an pavidos nos sugitiva cobors 3 Dixis, Gareptis signis nuis acer in hoslem, Nil rapidi metuens agmina tovoa vadi; Hina decut sugyllo surgis superiore, ab armis Scrimgeta genti sama decusque manens. Arma alim jastet, nos scimus fortibus armis Utier, band dici, malimus esse viri.

This Name has been remarkable in our Scots Hiftory on feveral other Occasions, particularly Sir Alexander Scrimgeor, was among the first who took the Field for King Robert Bruce, and saithfully adhered to him; in Consideration whereos, when that valiant Prince came to be established on the Throne, he gave him sundry Lands about the Burgh of Innerkeithing, then in the Crown, by the Attainder of Sir Philip deMoubray, Knight. Also Sir John Scrimgeor was killed at the statl Battle of Halydonbill 1333; and another Sir James Scrimgeor Constable of Dundee, his Successor, was flain in the Governours Army against Donald Lord of the Isles, at the Battle of Harlaw, Anno 1411. I need not be at much Pains to show the feveral Matches they have made with some of the most noble Families of this Kingdom, fince the whole Course of this Book makes mention thereof, only I shall take notice, that in process of Time, after having flourished long in the State of Barons, they came to the Honour of Peerage the in Person of Sir James Scrimgeor Constable of Dundee, who was raised to the Honour of Viscount of Duddop, by King Charles I. in the Year 1641. Upon the breaking out of the Civil War, he accepted of a Command in those Forces that were sent from Scotland to the Aid of the English Parliament, against the King, and lost his Life in the Battle of Marstoun Moor, 2d July, Anno 1644, A Person (fays one) who for the Nobleness of his Extraction, and many personal Endowments. deserved a better fate, at least to have dyed in a better Cause. He left a Son John, by Mary his Wife, Daughter of Robert first Earl of Roxburgh, who fucceeded him in the Houour.

This Lord put himfelf in Arms in behalf of King Charles II, and marched with him to the Battle of Worcester, 3d September 1651, after which he fuffered much for his Loyalty, but living to fee the Restauration, he received some part of amends, being created Earl of Dundee, Anno. 1661, and made one of the Privy Council. His Wife was Mary Daughter of William first Earl of Dalhousie, but dving without Issue, in 1668, by reason of an Entail of his Estate, which (purely thro' Inadvertency)terminated in the Heirs Male, the King fucceeded thereto as ultimus hares, and the Honour became extinct, and lay dormant till the Year 1688, that the Title of Viscount of Dundee, was bestowed on General Graham.

GRAHAM,

Viscount of Dundee.

HE Family of Fintry anciently feated in Stirling shire, of which the Viscount of Dundee was fprung, descended from Sir Robert Graham eldest Son of Sir William Graham of Kincardin, by the Lady Mary Steuart his fecond Wife, Daughter of Robert third King of Scotland. This Sir Robert Graham of Fintry's fecond Son John Graham of Balargus, was Founder of the Family of Claverhouse: He obtain'd from Archibald Earl of Angus a Grant to himself and Marjory his Wife, Daughter of Sir Fames Scrimgeor of Duddop, Constable of Dundee, of the Lands of Balargus in Forfar-shire, Anno 1482 (a), where he fixed his Residence, tempore Jacobi Tertii, from whom descended in a direct Line, William Graham of Claverhouse, who marring Anne, Daughter of Robert Lundy of Balgony, in Vicecomitatu de Fife, had Issue by her William his Successor, and Walter first of the Branch of Duntroon. The next, William by his Vertue and good Conduct, much bettered the Condition of his Family, acquiring a great Estate, he obtained the Honour of Knighthood. His Wife was Marion, Daughter of Thomas Fotheringham of Poury, in Vicecomitatu de Forfar, by whom he had William his Son and Heir, who taking to Wife Jean Carnegy, Daughter of John Earl of Ethy, Sifter to David Iff. Earl of Northesk, he had,

Margaret, married to Robert Graham of Morphie.

Anne, to Robert Toung of Auldbar. Which John, after he had gone through the Courfe of his Studies at the University of St. Andrews, he went into Foreign Parts to accomplish himself by Travels, betaking himself to a Military Life, he ferved at first Volunteer in the French Service, where he learned the Rudiments of War, after fome time he engaged in the Service of the States of Holland. 1672. His first step to Advancement was, a Cornet's Commission in the Prince of Orange's Guard of Horse; in which Character he did eminently fignalize himfelf in the Battle of Senef, lought betwixt the Confede. rates, under the Command of William Prince of Orange, and the French under the Prince of Conde, in August 1674; after this he was immediately preferred to be Captain of a Troop of Horse; in which Station he served with the highest Reputation for his Valour. Leaving the Dutch Service upon fome difgust given him, he came over to Britain, by a particular Character from the Prince of Orange, t) his Royal Highness the Duke of Tork, he was recommended to King Charles II. who was pleased, as a Testimony of the Esteem he had for Mr. Graham, to nominate him one of the. Captains of the three independent Troops which were raifed to force the Dissenters in the Western Shires to comply with the Constitution of the Church, as established by Law, Anno 1678, the Earls of Hume and Airly, having the Command of the other two.

When the Troops came to be regularly modell'd, 1684, he was constituted Captain of the Royal Regiment of Horse, the late Duke of Queensberry, then Earl of Drumlanrig, being his Lieutenant Colonel.

King James ascending the Throne on the Decease of his Brother King Charles II. 6th February 1685, he was fworn a Privy Councilour, and made a Brigadeer in the beginning of 1686, which was his higest Preferment, till the 1688. Upon the Prince Prince of Orange's landing in England, he marched with his Regiment thither for King James Service: Then his Majesty was pleased to advance him to the Degree of Major General, and on the 12th of November, the 4th Year of his Reign, raised him to the Honour of Viscount of Dundee (theConstabulary of which Burough, together with the Barony of Duddop, being some time before bestowed on him.) This Dignity, his Patent mentions, was granted him, Propter egregia servitia & præclara admodum officia & nobismetiplis & cariffimo nostro Fratri Carolo secundo sempiternæ memoriæ in singulis maneribus a & publica fiduciæ provinciis tum civilibus tum militaribus multis retro annis fidei suæ demandatis fideliter præstita & peracta, fidemque ejus intemeratam; quodque omni occasione sibi data coronæ nostræ juribus firmus semper adhæserat ; Hisce igitur multisque aliis magni mementi rationibus præviis, durabilem quandam nostri regii favoris tesseram in ipsum & famimiliam suam conferre; Noveritis igitur Nos creasse fecisses inaugurasse Majorem Generalem Joannem Graham de Claverhouse, Vicecomitem de Dundee, Dominum Graham de Claverhouse, & hæredes Masculos ex ejus corpore legitime procreatos seu procreandos; quibus dificientibus in alios ejus hæredes masculos, &c.

In the beginning of the Year 1689, his Lordship came down to Scotland, and fat some Days in the Convention of Estates, which the Prince of Orange had called, till he discern'd the House disposed by a great Majority to declare the Throne vacnat, and Forfault King James ; as also a Design the Mobb had to Asfassinate him, of which he informed the Meeting, but his Complaint not being regarded; and Justice denyed him, he absented from the Convention; and after having had a private Conference with the Duke of Gordon, at the Postern-Gate of the Castle of Edinburgh, which held out for King James, he retired to Linlithgow with a fmall Party of Horse, and so by the Way of Stirling Bridge, home to his House in the Country, whereupon the Convention voted him an intercommuned Person, and fent a Messenger to require him to appear before them at Edinburgh; but his Lordship excusing himself upon pretence of Danger, there was a Party fent to apprehend him. This necessarly obliged him to go into the Highlands for Refuge, where he raifed the Clans by King James's Authority, and having got a Reinforcement of 300 Irish, Headed by Colonel Cannon, with a Body of about 1600 Horse and Foot, he engaged Major Geneneral Mackay, who was advancing toward him with 4000 Foot, and fome Troops of Horse and Dragoons at Kilicrankie in Athole, 27th of July 1689. In the first Charge, his Lordship received a Shot of a Musket-Ball in his right Side, of which he instantly expired; and not withstanding this Discouragement, his Men Fought like Lyons, and routed Mackay; yet the Death of my Lord Dundee did more than overballance the othersLoss of 2000Men killed on his fide. After the Battle, his Body was found and deposited in the Vault of of the Family of Athole, within the Church of Blair, where I leave him to his Rest, and shall only add this Epitaph done on him by the learned Dr. Archibald Pitcairn, of very great Antiquity, and the none of the Family arriv'd not to the Dignity of Peerage till the Reign of K. Charles I. yet its undeniable that they were Barons of special Account for many Ages before, and indowed with large Possessions in these Parts, and elsewhere.

HIS Family, which original-ly took its Sirname from the

The first of whom I have found upon Record, is Waldenus de Coveran i. c. Cochran, who in the 1262, is Witness to the Grant which Dungal the the Son of Suayn made to Walter Steuart Earl of Monteith, of fundry Lands in the County of Argyle (a). which came in After-times to be transmitted to Forrester of Carden. Another William de Coveran is mentioned by Pryn, as a Person of a Account in this County, who makes his Submission to King Edward I. Anno Dom. 1296 (b) in the Ragman Roll; also John de Coveran is Witness in the regular Election of James Abbot of Pailly 17th of David II, Anno 1346 (c). The next remarkable Person of the Family, is Gostline de Cochran, who flourished under King David Bruce, he is Witness to several Grants made by Robert lecond, when Earl of Strathern, to the Religious of Paifly, an Abbacy he assumed into his particular Patronage, wherein his Ancestors Donations being made to the Glory of God, are particularly narrated. He left Iffue, William de Cochran of that Ilk, his Son, who obtained from King Robert II. a Charter of the Lands of Cochran to be held in as ample a manner as any of his Progenitors held the same of the Lord high Stewart of Scotland, dated on the 22 of September 1389; as he stood in special Favour with this King, fo was he in no less with Robert 3d his Son, to whom it feems he had been serviceable, for when he came to the Crown, he had fo greatful at that in the second Sense thereof, Barony of Cochran in Renfrew-shire, is | Year of his Reign, Anno 1392, he made made him a Grant of fourty Shilling Sterling in Annuity arising out of the Profits of the Burgh of Rutherglen(a). He was succeeded by Robert his Son, who refigned his Estate in favours of Allan his Son, Anno 1456. This Allan, in 1.152 is Witness to the Mortification which Robert Lord Lyle made to the Abbot & conventwal Brethern of the Monastry of Pailly, of the Fishing on the River of Clyde, at the place called Crokatshot, for the help of there Prayers to advance his spiritual Estate, in in which Deed he's designed Allanus Cochran Armiger, his Father being then alive, and to whom he succeeded before the 1480. He married Daughter of by whom he had Robert a Son, who was Father of John Cochran of that Ilk, who immediately fucceeded his Grand-sather, upon his Death.

Which John, for some Considerations, I know not, obtained a Licence from his Sovereign Lord King James IV. under the Great Seal, impouring him to dispose of either his Lands of Easter Cochran in Renfrew.fhire, or his Lands of Pitfour in Perth shire, Accordingly he alienated a part of his Lands of Cochran to James Arch-Bishop of Glasgow, Anno 1519, to which Deed he appends his Seal, the Impression bearing Three Boars Heads eraz'd, and circumscribed, Sigillum Johannis de Cochran. His Wife was Elisabeth Daughter of John Semple of Fullwood (b), who bore him a Son John, who was served and retoured Heir to his Father on the 12th of May 1539, he dying in the 1557; left Issue by Maryhis Wife, Daughter of Lindsay of Dunrod, in Vicecomitatu de Renfrew, a Son.

William, who succeeded him. In 1593, he crecked from the Foundation, at Cochran the ancient Seat of his Family, a very high Tower of Free Rone, and adorned it with large Plantations, he marrying Margaret Daughter of Robert Montgomery of Skelmurly, in Viceomitate de Air, by Mary his Wife Daughter of Robert Lord Semple, had a Daughter Elifabeth, his fole Heir.

He wifely confidering the proper way of supporting his Family, was to settle his Daughter in his own own time, and declining to Marry, her into a richer Family than his own; he made a prudent and difcreet Match for her with Alexaader Blair, a younger Son of an ancient and genteel Family in Air shire (c), whose Ancestors had been seated in the County forefald for many Ages before, fo that beside a noble Alliaance, and a competent Patrimony, he yielded to change his Name to Cochran, which was almost the only Condition the old Gentleman required. This Alexander fo taking upon him the Sirname of Cochran, was a vertous and frugal Man, and studied as much the good of the Family, as if he himself had been born the Heir thereof. In 1622, he acquired the Lands of Cowdoun, with an Intention to unite them to the ancient patrimonial Inheritance of Cochran; but he afterwards fold them to Sir William his fecond Son, as a Fund to provide his younger Children; for beside Sir John his eldest Son, he had fix other Sons and two Daughters.

Upon the Murder of the King, he attended King Charles II. into Foreign Parts, and in the 1650, was fent into Polland to crave Aid of the Scots Merchants there; but before his Return theKing and the Scots Army were defeated at Worcester, he continuing with the King, during his Exile, dyed about the time of the Restauration without Issue; so that his next Brother Sir William became his Heir.

Which Sir William was very carefully educated in Grammar learning in his Youth, whence he was remov'd to the University, where having applyed himself indefatigably to his Studies, and highly improv'd his natural Endowments with Academical Learning, he removed from thence after he had taken the Degree of Master of Arts, and studied our Laws; in which Profession he attained to an uncommon Perfection. Soon after his entering on the Stage of Business, he became much fam'd for his prudent Management and Conduct, by which he acquired a fair Estate, both in the Shires of Renfrew and Air, for the last of which he had the Honour to ferve as a Member in the Parliament, 1647, wherein his Abilities were foon discovered by the great and leading Men of the House, and he shewed himself thro' the Course of the Sitting of that Parliament, a good and even Patriot, wholly Intent upon the Honour and Safety of the King, whose Interest he did visibly advance, and the Welfare and Tranquillity of the Nation, then in no fmall Ferment. He appeared very forward to raise the Army for the Relief of his Majesty, then under Restraint, in Confideration whereof, he was by Letters Patent, bearing date at Scarfborough, 27th December 1647, created Lord Cochran of Cowdon. Increasing still more and more in Wealth and Honour, not long after he acquired the Lordship of Pailly, where he fixed his Seat, and lived with great Splendor and Hospitality for many Years. After the barbarous Murder of the King. his Lordship contributed his best and hearty Endeavours toward bring. ing home King Charles II. to inherit the rightful Possession of the Throne of these Realms, which no doubt was the Caufe, when Oliver Cromwel came to be called Protector, he fined my Lord Cochran among other Loyalists, in 5000 Pound Sterling, by a special Ordinance of the Commonwealth of England, the 12th of April 1654 (c).

BRUCE,

Earl of Elgin.

THAT the ancient and noble Family of Clackmanan, is branched from the Earls of Carrick, all our Antiquaries do agree, tho they do not deduce the Line of that Descent in each Point alike, to the intent that it may clearly appear that it is, I thought sit to take notice; that King David II. made a Grant to Robert Bruce, dilecto confanguineo fuo, of the Castle and Barony of Clackmanan, the 39th Year of his Reign (a), which is sufficient to show he was of the said King's Kindred.

Sir Edward Bruce of Shires-Mill, a younger Son of Sir Edward Bruce of Clackmanan, by Margaret Daughter of Sir Patrick Blackader of Tilliallan in the Time of King James V. acquire ing feveral Lands from John About of Culrofs, in 1541(b), he raifed to him felf a fairFortune. By his Wife, Daughter to the Lord Semple (c), he had Robert Bruce of Blairhall, Edward Bruce of Kinlofs, and George Bruce of Carnock Ancestor to the Earls of Kincairn. Of these his Children, Edward the second being being the Person of whom I'm chiesly to speak here, I shall deduce what I sound related of him from unquestionable Authority.

This Edward being bred a Lawyer, was first made one of the Commisfarrs of Edinburgh, and after that preferred to be one of the Senators of the College of Justice by King James VI. 2d December 1597, by the Title of Commendator of Kinlos: And being a Person of great Parts, was by the faid King, with the Earl of Mar sent Ambassador to Queen Elisabeth, Anno 1601, to Congratulate her upon her good Success in repreffing that Audacious Attempt of the Earl of Effex; and upon the Death of that Queen, being eminently instrumental to the peaceful Entrance of King James to the Crown of England, by the Intelligence, which he held privately in her Lifetime with Sir Robert Cicel, one of her principal Secretaries of State, and accompanying the King into Eng. land, Anno 1602, in Recompence of his faithful Services, he had the Office of Master of the Rolls conferred on him during Life; and as a further Testimony of his Majesty's Favour, he had a Grant of the distolved Abbay of Kinlofs in Murray erected to him and his Heirs in a Temporal Lord. fhip, by Letters Patent bearing date 8th of July 1604 (a), being of the Privy Council to his Majesty in both Kingdoms, he departed this Life in the 62 Year of his Age, on the 14th of January 1610, and was interred in the Chapel of the Rolls in Chancery Lane, London, where there is a fair Monument erected to his Memory, with this Inscription upon it,

MURRAY,

Lord Elibank.

IS a Cadet of the Family of Blackbarony: His Ancestor was Sir Gideon Murray Son of Sir Andrew Murray of Blackbarony, by Grifel his Wife, Daughter of Sir John Beaton of Crich (a), Relict of Sir Walter Scot of Buclugh. From a short Abstract of his Life, I find that Mr. Murray in his Youth, refolving to follow the Ministry, while he was a Student in Divinity, he happened unluckily to kill a Man by Accident (b), which made him relinquish that Profession,& become Chamberlain to the Laird of Buclugh; which Trust he managed with great Prudence, and confiderably improved that opulent Fortune. He was first brought to Acquaintance with the Court, by means of his Nephew Robert Earl of Somerfet, once the great Favourite of King James VI. who procured him first the Honour of Knighthood (c), Anno 1605: and upon his Lordships Promotion to the Thesaurers Office, on the Decease of George Earl of Dunbar, in the 1611 Sir Gideon Murray was constituted Thefaurer Depute, which Office he managed fo much to the Ad-

Advantage of the Crown, that beside the Charge of the Government, he both repaired and enlarged the Palaces of Holy-rood-house, Falkland, Linitegew, Dumsermling, and the Castles of Edinburgh, and Dumbartoun, and had the Treasury so full at the King's coming to Scotland 1617, that he destrayed the whole Charge of the Court, his Majesty appearing with as much Splendor at Holy rood-house as at White-bast. H A Y, Earl of Errol.

BOTH our ancient and modern Historians say, that this noble Family had its Rife Anno 980, tempore Kennethi Tertii, when the Danes invaded this Nation, and gave Battle . to the Scots; whom they had routed near Perth, but for the Courage and Conduct of a certain Labourer, who perceiving his Country-men flying before the conquering Enemy, he and his two Sons stopped them with their Plow Gear in a certain Defile, and upbrading them for their Cowardice, obliged them to rally : whom the Danes supposing to be fresh Succours, he became thereby the means of transferring the Victory to the Scots fide : Ard King Kenneth advanced him into the first Rank of those about him, and rewarded him with as much Land as a Falcon flying from a Fift, should measure out before he settled: To which Exploir, the Arms, Crest, and Supporters of the Family of Errol, are allufive. The praife of this illustrious Person and his Sons are celebrated by the polite Poet Dr. John Johnston, as follows,

Quoruitis civet? Hcia! host i obvertite vultus $

SIR Henry Cary Knight, Son and Heir of Sir Edward Cary of Aldenham, an Englishman, Comptroller of the Houshold, and one of the Gentlemen of the Bed-Chamber to King James VI. was by his Majesty's special Favour created a Peer of Scotland, by the Title of Viscount Falkland, 10th November 1620 (2). Afterward, he was constituted Lieutenant of Ireland; in which Government he behaved himself with much Prudence, and dying Anno 1633 (f), by Elisaleth his Wife, Daughter of Sir Laurence Taunsfeld Lord chief Baron of the Exchequer, he had a Son Luciur and a Daughter, Ann married to James Earl of Hume.

Which Lucius Lord Viscount Falk land, was a Person singularly well accomplished with Learning, and other excellent Parts: He was chosen Member to the Parliament, Anno 1641 (g) for the Burgh of Newport. in the County of Southampton, where he merited fo well of the King, that he was worthily advanced to be one of the Principal Secretary's of State, upon the removal of Sir Henry Vane; which Office he executed with great Applause. Shortly after which, out of his great Zeal to his Majesty's Service, venturing himfelf in the Battle of Newberry, 20th September 1643, he there lost his Life in his 34 Year. His intimate Friend, no less a Man than the Earl of Clarendon, in his History of the Rebellion, characterizes him thus, That he was a Person of such prodigious Parts, of Learning and Knowledge, of that inimitable Sweetness and Delight in Conversation, of so flowing and obliging a Humanity and Goodne's to Mankind, and of that primitive Simplicity and Integrity of Life, that if there were no other brand upon this odious and accurfed Civil War, than that one fingle loss, it must be most infamous to all Posterity.

He was married with Letice Daughter of Richard Morison of Tolay-Park, in the County of Leicester E(q; (h), by whom he had Henry his Son and Heir, a Person of the highest Accomplishments, excellently vers'd in Learning and good Letters; and not only a great incourager of Poetry, but a principal Ornament of it himself (i). MACKDUFF, Thane, afterward Earl of Fyfe.

Thane in Ancient Times, is thought by the learned Spelman and Selden, to have been the King's principal Minister in a Province, no doubt invested with a Power of Administration of Justice, to which certain honourary Priviledges were annexed. 'Tis thought it was not at the first Institution, properly a Title of of the Royal Armies.

Dignity, but of Service. They were of two kinds, either fuch as ferved the King in greater Places of Eminency, who were called Thani Ma. jores, or Thani Regis, as the Thanes of Fife, Caithness, Argyle, and Murray were, these that served under them were termed Thani Minores : But when the Title of Comes and Dux became Hereditary (fo the Learned) are of Opinion) the Title and Privileges of Thani Majores did descend with the Lands from Fathers to their Children, tho the leffer did not, yet they still retained the old Name of Thanes and Thanedoms, as the Baronies of Boyn in Banff shire and Calder in Murray, &c. are called to this Time: And perhaps the Difference betwixt the two confifted in this, That the greater Thanes derived their Power and Authority immediately from the King, and held them of the Crown in capite, for Knights Service, which by a certain Constitution made them Hereditary, and were of the fame kind with them that afterward came to be Parliamentary Barons. The leffer Thanes, had only Commissions from them, and were held in the ordinary way for Services done, and to be done. All our Histories do agree, that Mackduff, formerly Thane, was created Earl of Fyfe, by King Malcolme Canmore, Anno 1057(d), and that in Confideration of his extraordinary Services to that Prince, in affifting him to revenge his Father's Death upon Mackberb, and to recover his Crown, for which he gave him and his Heirs these great and noble Privileges,

I. That his Posterity should have the Honour to place the fucceeding Kings in the Chair of State, at their Coronations.

II. That they should lead the Van

III. That, if any within the 9th. Degree in Relation to his Family, should be guilty of the unpremeditated Slaughter or casual Homicide of a Gentleman, he should pay twenty four Merks of Silver, and but twelve if a Plebeian, for Expiation of the Crime; flying to a Sanctuary near Newburgh in Fyle, on the Confines of Strathern: Which was much the fame Privilege granted to Mackduff's Kindred, as the Cities of Refuge were to the Isralites, Joshua 20. At the Place of Girth, there was an high Cross erected, containing an Infcription of old Macaronick Verses, a Mixture of Latin, Saxon, Danish, and old French Words, to this Purpose, Maldranalum dragos, Mairia, laghfita, Lagos, Spalando spados, sive nig sig knighthite gnaval Lothea leudiscos laricingen lairia liseos Et Colovurtos sie sit tihi bussia burtus (brum Exitus, & bladadrum sive lim sive lam sive la Propter Magridin & hoc oblatum (brum, Accipe smeleridem super limthide lamthida la.

This last Privilege was observed as long as the Family existed, and was clauned and enjoyed by feverals within the Degree of Confanguinity to the Earls of Fife afterward. The learned Skeen in his Verborum Significatione, remarks, that Spence of Wormistoun enjoyed this Benefit for the Slaughter of one Kinninmonth : Sir George Mackenzie mentions another, whereby Sir Hugh Abernethy was affoilzied for Slaughter of John Melvil of Glenbervy: and I have feen an Instrument in the Year of God 1397, wherein Sir Alexander Murray of Abercarny did plead the Privileges of Clan Mackduff, for the Slaughter of one John Spalding, as standing in the ninth degree of Kinto the Earl of Fyfe.

To Mackduff Earl of Fyfe, succeeded Duffgan Comes, his Son, who is one of the Comites affenting to the Charter of Alexander I. to the Trinity-Church at Scoon (a), He left a Son

Constantine (b) Earl of Fyfe, who is one of the many Witnesses to King David's Charter to the Monastery of Dunfermling, Anno Dom. 1126. The next Earl to Constantine, was Gillemichel, who is Witness in the Foundation Charter of the Abby of Holy. rood-house, and dying 1139 (c), he was fucceeded by Earl Duncan his Son, who is a frequent Witness in Charters by King David to religious Persons and Places; and dying 1154 (d). Duncan his Son was his Successor: He was Justiciary of Scotland in the time of King William, and a constant Witness in Donations by him to the Church, to which he also himself was a liberal Benefactor: For besides, his erecting the Nunnery of North-berwick; He gave many Donations to Churchmen, which was then believed to be the most compendious way to fave the Soul. He gave way to Fate in 1203 (e) leaving Malcolm his Son to inherit his Estate and Honour, who in the 1217 founded, and richly indowed the Abbacy of Culrofs in Perth-shire, in Honour of St. Servan the Confessor (f); and departing this Life Anno Christi 1230 (g), his Estate devolved to Malcolm his Nephew (b), who was Father of Colban Earl of Fyte who died in 1270 (i) leaving Duncan his Son to succeed him. This Earl of Fyfe was elected on of the fix Guardians of Scotland, upon the decease of Alexander III. in the 1286, and died before the Accession of John Baliol to the Crown. Duncan Earl of Fyfe his Successor, was slain in the Service of his Country at the Battle of Falkirk, Anno 1298 (k); and to him succeeded Duncan his Son, who was killed at the Battle of Durham, Anno 1346; the Honour and Privileges of the Fa. mily devolving to Isabel his Daughter, who brought the Honour first to Sir William Ramfay Knight, her Husband, and afterwards to Sir Thomas Biffet,

THE Sirname of the Family of Kilbirny was first Barclay, descended of SirWalter Barclay, who executed the Office of Lord high Chamberlain of Scotland, the 9th of King William the Lyon (a) Anno Dom. 1174 (b). From this noble Person the several Ancient Families of that Sirname in the Counties of Aberdeen, Fyfe, and Air, derive themselves. The first Person of Note of this Branch, was Sir Hugh Barclay of Kilbirny Knight, who flourished under King David II. in the 18th of whose Reign, he gave to his Vassal John Mackmoran, his Lands of Haymore, for Services done by him, and to be done (c). Sir Hugh was succeeded in his Inheritance by Hugh his Son, who obtain'd the Honour of Knighthood from Robert III. For I have found him designed Hugo Barclay de Kilbirny miles, Anno 1397 (d). He lest behind him, but by whom I have not

He was succeeded by John his Son, who dying without Male Suc- . cession the 10th of King James III. 1470 (g), with him the Male Line of the Barclay's determined, after having flourished in great Splendor for a confiderable space, the Barony of Kilbirny devolving to Marjory his Daughter and fole Heir, married to Malcolm Crawfurd Esquire.

Tho the Crawfurds have not posfessed Kilbirny above 243 Years, yet were they a very ancient Family before. He was the same Year one of the Barons who signed a Bond for Defence of the Queen's Majesty, against all Persons whatsoever, and against all deadly, (as they speak) and

The Revolution coming about in 1689, upon his first Appearance in the World, he engaged with the Party who were active in it. I find he was one of those Persons to whom the Militia of Air-shire was intrusted (b). and which on a furmife of an Invafion from Ireland(if I be not mistaken) he once commanded. After the Convention was turned into a Parliament, He was in the 1693 chosen to serve for Air-shire, which he did without Interruption, till the Dissolution there-Daughter of Robert Lord Burleigh, of upon the Death of King William, Sf2 Sth

Tho this Lord was one of the Commissioners for the Treaty of Union, Anno 1702, yet I don't find his Name among those appointed for that Affair in the 1706, to which however his Lordship being in the Measures of the Court, contributed, when the Articles came to be confidered in Parliament. which he continued in the Council till its Diffolution. In the Month of March 1708 he was taken ill with an Asthma and a Cough, the Malignity of which all the Art of his Physicians not being able to remove, it put an End to his Days on the 24th of December thereafter, and upon the 13th of January 1709, he was deposited in a Vault within the . That the Lord Gray in Scotland has his Descent from some of these, cannot be doubted. Mr. Camden the great English Antiquary, and others of our own Country also, are mistaken as to the Time of their Ancestors coming to Scotland, as will appear afterward; but they affert, and with great Probability, That the first of this most noble Family was a Son of the House of Chilingham (indeed the Armorial Bearing of both Families are still the same); and 'tis observable, that the Lands of Browfield, the first Inheritance of the Grays in Scotland, ly in the County of Roxburgh or Teviot dale, at no great Diftance from Chilingham in Northumberland, which Lands were given off in the Reign of King Robert I. to Sir Andrew Gray his Son, who, and his Posterity enjoyed France, and in most Parts of the same for several Generations, till Europe, derive their Sirnames from Andrew Lord Gray, who was Justicethe Lands which their Ancestors pos- General in the Time of King James III. exchanged them with the Earl shionable; so 'tis not to be doubted, of Angus for Brughtie-Castle, Bagilo, but the Sirname of Gray has the same and the Fishings thereof. Now, Derivation: Some are of Opinion, every Body knows, that some Northat it took its Rile from a City in thern Counties of England, and Northe Franche Compte, which is still so thumberland in particular, were some named; others, and among those Times possest by the Kings of Scor-Francis de Bellowforest derives the Sir-land; and 'tis well known, that some name of Gray from the Castle of of those who held Lands of the Crown Gray in Picardy; and adds, That one of Scotland, in the Northern Coun-

Thus it is probable, that Sir Andrew Gray, the first whom we find on Record with us, adhered to King Robert the Bruce, whose Subject he was, upon the Account of his This Sir Andrew was Stots Estate. undoubtedly a brave Man, and a great Favourite of that glorious Monarch Robert I. from whom he had a Grant the 12th of February, the 5th Year of his Reign, Anno 1315, of the Barony of Long forgan, in the Shire of Perth, and of many other Lands in Forfar-Shire, for his good and faithful Services, as the Charter bears (a). He also acquired the Lands of Broxmouth in the County of Roxburgh, Sir Alexander Fraser Kt. and these Two Records which I my felf have feen and perufed, tho' there were no other extant, do fufficiently confute a very gross Mistake of Boethins, Buchanan, and Camden, who fay, That the first of this noble Family came only to Scotland with King James I. when he was relieved from his Captivity out of England, Anno 1424, whereas the Chief of this Family, another Sir Andrew Gray was by the Estates of Scotland sent to England, one of the Hostages for that King's Ransom; but of this afterward. With whom this gallant Sir Andrew was married it does not appear; but from the Archives of the Family of Gray'tis evident he left a Son Sir John Gray, who fucceeded him in his Ettate, who in feveral Records is still'd Lord of Broxmouth, as are feveral of his Descendents after him.

This John Gray de Gray, Dominus de Broxmouth, had a Grant of the Lands of Craigie, in the County of Forfar, from William de Troup, for a very valuable Confideration mentioned therein, and that Grant was confirmed to him by King David II. the 8th of September, the Twenty Seventh Year of his Reign, Anno 1356, with whom it would appear he was no less in Favour than his Father had been with the great King Robert. find this noble Person had very great Superiorities beside his own proper Estate, as a Proof of which there is a Charter granted to him by Hugo de Giffard, whereby he acknowledges Sir John Gray to be Superior Lord to Henry de Fotheringham, of the Lands of Laurenston and Huheuman, now call'd Littleton, of the Date at Langforgan, ultimo Februarii 1355 (b). find also, that John Gray was Custos Rotulorum & Registri, in the Reign of King David Bruce, and likewise of his Successor King Robert II. who had for Pension during Life ducentos solidos Sterlingorum, out of the Profits of the Court of the Chamberlain and Justiciary (c), a Sallary that has been observed by a learned and judicious Person, to amount to as much as the Constable or Marischal enjoyed as the Fees of their Offices in those Days. To whom Sir John Gray, the Lord of Broxmouth, was married, it does not appear from any Record of the Family, but 'tis clear that he left Two Sons, John the eldeft, who was one of the Hostages for the Ransom of his Royal Sovereign King David, Anno 1357 (d), with whom he had been made a Prisoner at the Battle of Darham in the Year 1346, and Sic Patrick who fucceeded him in his great Estate, and in the Royal Favour, for King Robert II. in a Charter to this Sir Patrick Gray, designed Lord of Broxmouth, and to Margaret his Wife, of fundry Lands in the Barony of Longforgan, the King gives Y y 2

HAMILTON,

Duke of Hamiltoun.

S this illustrious and most noble Family is the first of the Peerage of Scotland, fo it is one of the most considerable, whether we Refpect the Nobleness of its Extraction, the Multiplicity of its Branches, or the Grandeur of its Alliances; and tho' they are not of fo long a Con-

House has been established by an undenyable and uninterrupted Succession of full Four Hundred Years, and had the Honour to be grac'd with the Intail of the Crown, and imperial Dignity of this Realm, One Hundred and Sixty Years ago, which was ratified in a full Assembly of the three Estates of Parliament, to which all of them fet their Seals.

I must acknowledge I have not had the Honour to peruse the more ancient Writes of the Family of Hamiltoun, wherefore I am obliged to rely upon the Account given me from Mr. Hamilton of Wifhaw, an Antiquary of no little Fame, who fays, " That Sir Gilbert Hamilton, " the first of this illustrious Race " who transplanted himself from the " Kingdom of England, was extracted from the ancient Earls of Licefter, of whose Grant his Progenitor " had Lands in that County, called Hamilton, from whence they affum-" ed a Sirname, and that the oc-" canon of his coming to Scotland is " delivered by Historians, after this " manner: Sir Gilbert (fay they) at the Court of Edward II. chanced to talk with Honour and Respect of the great Merit of King Robert the Bruce, whereupon one John del Spencer gave him a Blow, which arrogant Treatment he resented so highly, that encountering him the next Day, he killed him; and to avoid punishment, fled to Scotland, where he was well received by King Robert: Who to make amends for what he had forfaulted on his account at home, generously rewarded him with the Barony of Cadzow, in the county of Lanerk, then an appendage of the Crown. He was a very brave Man, and to him are afcribed a vast many great Exploits, particularly, tinuance in this Realm, as some o- that he distinguished his Valour and thers mentioned in this Work; yet 'tis Conduct in the decifive Battle of

To Sir Gilbert's Memory this Epitaph was composed by a lamous Author.

Iure ego delerui patriam, veteresque penates; Nempe fidem, jus, fas deferit illa prius. Jam nova jura libens inii lub rege benigno. Qui profugo patriam qui potiora deait. Hinores, at que decus fortunaque lata secuta est, Hinc regum thalamis nobilitata domus. Esto, folum verti, at patriam inveni, bec dedit auxit, Que modo perdideram : que fotui, illa dedi.

Sir Walter his Son was a Man of great Fame and Character, he had feveral M.litary Commands in the Service of Robert I. which he perform'd with great Diligence and Success, in Consideration whereof, he had by that Prince's Grant a Charter of the Barony of Cadzow, to be held in as ample manner as Sir Gilbert his Father field the fame: Also in the great Merit and acceptable Services, of Kinneil, Larber, Brimage, and Auldand Favour arriving to great Wealth and Honour, he strengthened his Family by a very noble Alliance, taking to Wite Isobel Daughter of William Earl of Ross (a), and Neice to the King by her Mother, by whom he had two Sons, who furvived him, Sir David, and Sir John Hamilton, from whom the Families of Innerweek Ballinerieff, and the present Earl of Had-

To Sir Walter Hamilton succeeded Sir David his Son, who ferved King David II. in his Wars against the English: He was with the King at the unfortunate Battle of Durham, Anno 1348; where he was taken Prifoner with his Master (b), but paying a Ransom: he was released. That he had great efleem from that King, is plain enough, for in the 40th of his Reign, he had a special Grant of all the Lands which belonged either to Sir Gilbert his Grand-father or Sir Walter his Father in any part of the Realm; (c) and at the same time the King was pleafed to discharge for ever to him and his Heirs, a Feu duty that had been formerly payable to the Exchequer out of the Barony of Cadzow, a Sign of the Prevalency of his Interest. at that Prince's Court, where Men of Merit were only imployed. In the oth of the same Reign, to reward his 4th of King Robert II. Anno 1373; he had Summons to Parliament, and he had a Grant of the Barony of appends his Seal to the Act recogniz-Machan-shire in the County of Lanark, ing his Majesty's Title to the Crown, which formerly belonged to John and in fettling the Succession upon all, Cumin Knight. Further, in the 1324. the King's Children lawfully begotten. the King bestowed on him the Lands either by Elisabeth Mure his first Wife, or Euphame Ross then his Queen (d). cathie in the Shire of Linlithgow, and What is further remarkable of this the very same Year the Lands of Sir David, is, That according to the Kirkinder and Kirkowen in the County Devotion of that Age, when Dongof Wigtoun, for good Services done tives to the Church could fanctifie and to be done by him, as the Charter and merit for any Person, he gave in bears. But to return to Sir John Hamilton Lord of Cadzow, who appears to have been a Person of special Account, but living in a Time of no great Action under Robert III. a peaceable Prince, I could not procure any Memoirs of him proper to be inserted here. Fourty Thousand Pound Sterling was agreed on, as the Ranfom of King James I. He was fent-into England as one of the Hoftages for the payment thereof (a), an Evidence he was then looked upon as one of the most, confiderable Barons of Scotland. Soon after which, King James conferred on him the Honour of Knighthood, and called him to his Privy Council. In the Reign of King James II. when our Constitution of Parliaments came to be modelled according to the Frame they are now in, this noblePerson was in the 8th of the same King, Anno 1445, entred among the Lords of Parliament, all his Lands being then erected into a Lordship in all time coming, to be called the Lordship of Hamilton(b). NOTA,

Here it will, I apprehend, be neither improper nor ungrateful to my Reader, to offer. fome Confiderations to obviate that Affertion of George Buchanan, and other H florians who have copied and translated from him, who infinuate, the reference translated from him, who infinuate, the reference translated from him, who infinuate, the reference to the King's Sifter, was forced by her Brother to marry James Lord Hamilton, when Thomas Boyd Earl of Arran her-Husband was alive: And this is generally believed by everyBody, who reads George Buchanan's Hiltory, and enquire no more about it, but depend on our Affairs as wrote by him, who indeed, to do him Justice, was a very learned and polite Person, and has wrote the History of Scotland not much inferior in Style to the best Roman Authors. I shall here offer what I have observed in relation to this Affair. All Histories commend the Lady Mary's Affection to her Husband, and tell us, That she could not be prevailed with to for-sake or defert him when he fell into Disgrace, but transported her self with him into foreign Parts to share with him in his Misfortunes, and sojourned with him in Denmark and Flanders for some time, till she understood from Scotland, that her Presence and Solicitation with her Brother might prevail with him to fuffer my Lord Arran to return home to his Native Country, and accordingly she came to Scotland: . But the King continuing inexorable, and the Lady detaind from going abroad, the poor unfortunate Earl of Aran foon after died of Grief at Antwerp: She continuing a Widow till the 1474. is then, I find, married to James Lord Hamilton. Moreover, I'm told by Mr. Hamilton of Wishaw, that the Contract of Marriage is still preferved among the Archives of the Family, but I have not seen it; but there is a Charter in my hands dated the 12th of July 1474, to James Lord Hamilton and the Lady Mary Stewart the King's Silter; of the Lands of Kinneil, &c. Morecver, I think the Testimony of Mr JohnBallendenArch Dean of Murray, who was Co temporary with the Lady whom we find alive in the 1515, and for ought I know lived much longer, ought to be regard. ed, He at the Command of King James V. translated Hector Boethius Hiltory of Scotland into English printed in the Year 1536, under this Title, The History and Cronicles of Scotland compleated, and newly corrected and amended by the reverend and noble Clerk Mr. Hector Boeis Canon of Aberdeen, translated by Mr. John Ballenden Arch-Dean of Murray and Canon of Ross. And there he fays, Book 12. Cap 5. The first Daughter of King James II. was married to the Lord Boyd, of whom was begetten a Son, while was stain by the Lord Montgomery, and a Daughter married to the Earl of Cattlis; and after the Death of the Lord Boyd, this Daughter of King James II.
was married on the Lord Hamilton, and that way the House of Hamilton is Decerit in the King's Blood. I fay. I think the Authority of this learned and ingenuous Author should determine any Man of Judgment more than a posterior Party-writer, such as every one knows George Buchanan was, with all Deference to his Character otherways For every Body may perceive, who reads his Book, that he takes all Opportunities to blacken and mifrepresent this noble Family, fometimes with very great Inconfiftency with himself, as a judicious Historian; and if this be not sufficient to disprove this part of Buchanan's History, take also the Testimony of a very ingenious Foreign Historian Ralph Holinshed; who wrote a History of Scotland, wherein he fays, "That after the Death of the Lord Boyd, the Daughter of King James II. was " married to the Lord Hamilton. But how far will not an Author depart from Truth, who is the devoted Servant of any Party, as Buchanan was, who wrote the latter part of his History to ferve a particular turn, well enough known?

(b) Charter of Erection of the Earldom of Arran in favours of James Lord Hamilton, in the publick Register of Charters. This may likeways ferve to correct the Mistake of those Historians, who say, That when James Lord Hamilton married the Silter of King James III. that he got with her the Earldom of Arran, which Marriage I have made evident, was in the 1474, and yet this Grant of the Earldom of Arran was not to him, nor his Son for Twenty Nine Years after the Marriage of his Father and Mother. From this we may remark how George Buchanan, and other Historians who copy from him, are to be relyed on, who take Materials and Vouchers of their Histories from other Authors who have wrote before them. and never looked into the National Records, where proper Materials for a Historian are to be found: For I cannot imagine that Mr. Buchanan ever gave himfelf the Trouble to turn over one Roll in the publick Archives of the Kingdom, otherwise he could not but have discovered the Error of Robert III's Illegitmacy, and many other Things relating both to the Royal Family, as well as to this Noble Family I now write of; for fince the Time of King Robert the Bruce the Records are pretty full, so that if diligently perused, would have rectined many very groß Errors all our old Historians have fallen into, whom Buchanan, as to the Hiltory, has followed exactly; for he only turned their Books into that ornate Latine Fames his Son, a Person of singular Prudence and Integrity, as will appear in the whole Conduct of his Life. In the 1536, when he was but a very young Man, he was one of the Lords who attended King James V. by his special Appointment in his Voyage to France, when he espoused Magdalen Daughter to Francis I. (a), afterward in 1539, when the forefaid King had a Prince born to him by Mary of Lorrain his next Queen he had the Honour to fland God-father to him (b. His Lordship was very forward in offering the King his Service toward the suppressing the Incursions of the English under the Command of Sir Thomas Wharton, and had the Commend of that Body which was fent, to Defend the East-Border, where he foon heard the mortifying News of the Lofs of the Army at Salmay, which was not long after arrended with the Death of that Monarch, who yielded his last Breath on the 14 of December have taken much notice of, That the 1942: Then my Lord Arran was, by the unanimous Confent of Parliament chosen Protector to the young Queen Mary, and Governour of Scotland, which was ratified by an Act of the three Estates, in which, The Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commiffioners of Burghs, declare James Earl of Arran Lord Hamilton, Second Perfon of the Realm, and nearest to succeed to the Crown of the same, failling of our Sovereign Lady and the Bairns lawfully to be begotten of her and none others ; and by Reason thereof Tutor lawful to the Queen's Grace and Governour of the Realm, and he to use the faid Office in all things until the perfect Age of our faid Sovereign Lady, and all the Leiges of this Realm, to Answer and Obey the faid Earl as Tutor lawful to her Grace, and Governour forefaid, in all things concerning the faid Office, conform to the try and his own Reputation and Ho-Act made bereupon (c).

This Earl giving way to Fate in! the 1530, was faccueded by

As foon as the Earl was in Poffeffion of the Government, he fent the Earl of Glencairn, Sir George Douglafs, William Hamilton of Sangubar, James Learmont of Balcomy, and Mr. Fienry Balnaves of Hall-hill, Secretary of State unto England, in order to treat both about a Peace, which was become necessary, by reason of the King's Death, and other concurring Circumstances, and a Match betwixt the Infant Queen and Edward Prince of England. Accordingly a Peace, or at least an Abstinence, as it was then termed, and a Marriage betwixt the Queen and Prince Edward were agreed to, and ratified by a greaf Majority in the Parliament, which met at Edinburgh in August I543.

I need not mention in this place, how this advantagious Union was fpoiled by the then Clergy and the French Faction, it being so fully treated on by Eishop Lefly and Mr. Buchanan, only I shall add what neither of them Earls of Huntly, Argyle, Montrofe, Bothwel, Monteith, Lord Fleeming, and a great many more of all Ranks, entred into a most tolemn Bond'; and notwithstanding of the Act of Parliament, bound and obliged themselves to oppose the inrended March with England, and confequential Union, with all their Power, tho' with the hazard of their Fortunes and Lives, at the fame time they endeavoured all they couldto bring the Governour into a Complyance with the breach of the Treaty, and the more effectually to win him over to them, they proposed to fecure the Crown to his Posterity, by bestowing the Infant Queen upon the Lord Hamilton, his eldeft Son, But for invincibly was he attached to what he thought the Interest of his Coun-Ccc 2

nour in the Observation of a Treaty he himself had caused to be ratified in Parliament, that he kept it inviolated on his part, till King Henry VIII, not only refused to ratify it on the other Part, but also caused his Officers to seise upon a great many Scots Ships that had failed to England loaden with French and Scots Commodities, upon the Faith of the Treaty of Peace before concluded. This undenyable Breach of the Articles condescended on, the Governour refented to that degree, that he called a Parliament in December 1543, and in it declared the Treaty to be void and null, in regard the English had broke it first. Then he applyed himfelf with the utmost Diligence to carry on a War, and immediately raifed whatForces he could, to oppose the English Army that had invaded Scotland, under the Command of the Lord Evers, whom he encountred at Ancrum in Teviotdale; and the' they were 7000 to not above 800, put them to the rout with confiderable Loss on their Side, and scarce a Man on his Lordship's. Not long after this, he was join'd by Monsieur de Lerges Count of Montgomery, with 3500 French Auxiliaries, and marched toward England in search of the Earl of Hartford, who to retrieve the former Lofs, had entred Scotland. and had already laid waste a great part of the Merse and Teviotdale, but retir'd upon the approach of the Scots Army. The Governour in his Turn invaded England, beat the Enemy where ever he found them, ravag'd the Country, and return'd with the Glory of having defeated one Army, and given the Chase to another in one Campaign. Neither am I to forget, that at this time King Francis I. fent him the Enfigns of the most noble Order of St. Michael. To proceed, in the 1547, when the

of England, and Tutor to Edward VI. upon the demise of Henry VIII. in Profecution of the War, he invaded Scotland upon the head of a mighty Army, feconded by a Fleet by Sea. His Grace hastning to raise all the Force he could to oppose him, so advancing toward Pinkie-cleugh, where the Enemy were incamped, the English obtained the Victory on the 10th of September 1547, and left Eight Thousand Scots killed on the Field. After which they ravaged the Country five Miles round, facked Leith, and made an Attempt upon Edinburgh, but by the Activity of the Governour they were repulsed with Lofs. After which his Lordship repaired to Stirling, where he had appointed the Nobility to meet him. In this Affembly he appeared not at all dejected or dispirited, but addresfed himself in this Speech, that Monfieur de Larrey has thought fit to infert in his French History of England, translated by an ingenious Author, from whom I have prefumed to bor-

This Speech fo lively, and fo admirably well adapted to the Humour of the Nation at that time, had its defired Effect : The Nobility applauded his Design, they talked of nothing but of Means to profecate the War; and whatever the Event might be, they resolved to hazard all, rather than submit to the English. So it was agreed to have recourse to the King of France, who they thought alone able to retrieve their Losses, and to transact with him about marrying the Queen when fit for a Husband, to Francis the first his Son the Daul-"'tis certain however, that as we phine. He was again declared to be the presumptive Heir of the Crown, of Assistance from England, and knowfailing Queen Mary and the Issue of her Body, and this at a Time when he had devested himself of all Authority, delivered up the Regalia, and confequently was not in a Condition to influence the Members, nor byass the Judgment of the Nation; after which his Grace liv'd much at Home in a State fuitable to his Quality, imploying himself in the Service of his Country upon all Occasions with untainted Honour.

When Oueen Mary returned Home from France, Anno 1561, her Majesty was pleafed prudently to make choice of a new Privy Council, all or most of whom were Protestants, the better to conform her felf to the present posture of Asfairs; and confiding much in the Duke of Chattlerault, he was chose one of that Number, wherein he worthily served her Majesty in fettling the Kingdom, then in no finall Ferment, always showing a great steddyness to the Interest of his Country and the Protestant Religion. TheQueen having found the benefit of his faithful Services at Home, was pleased in 1 = 66 (a) to send him over to France to take care of her Interest there, where he did all the Service he could that was confistent with his Honour and the Protestant Cause. Here he continued till the Queen was forc'd to make the Resignation of the Government in favours of her Son the Prince: Then the Duke of Chattlerault was called home to be the Head of the Loyalits (b). So foon as he came to Scotland, his Grace used his utmost endeavours to have had the Earl of Murray then Regent, degraded from his usurped Authority, Queen reponed to the Exercise of her royal Power, and the Peace of the Country restored; and for that end by vertue of a Commission from her Majesty, he gathered together what Forces he could raise in so short a time; but feeing no manner of hopes ing that a Civil War was just breaking out in France, he refolved to make no other use of his Arms than to obtain to himself and his Friends honourable Conditions of Peace, and the benefit of living quietly at Home, till indulgent Providence should afford him an Opportunity of ferving his Queen and his Country, for which End the Bishop of St. Andrews his Brother, was fent to the Regent to procure a fafe Meeting, in order to bring their Differences to an Accomodation; and the Time and Place being agreed to, after many Disputes on both Sides, the following Articles were drawn up, and mutually figned, which I shall set down in the primitive Style.

T is defired for the part of my Lord Regent, that my Lord " Duke and his Adherents, shall re-" cognosce the King and his Authority, and acknowledge themselves to be his Subjects, and promife unto him Service, Obedience and Fidelity, in all time coming, as their " Sovereign.

"T is required on the part of the Duke's Grace and his Adhe-" rents, that every Nobleman be " admitted to have his Place in Council, as their Predecessors have been in all time of other Princes of this Realm? And my Lord Regent bearing the King's Authority, thall be fworn folemnly, from that time forward, to behave himfelf uprightly and indifferently to them, as the remanent Noblemen of this Realm, in all their honest and just Causes, without Particularity, or remembrance of any Offence, conceived amongst them during the time of their Contraversies.

" Item, That all these who shall be " content in time coming to behave, " themselves as faithful Subjects to Ddd 2

And for the Security of the coming of the Nobility foresaid, my Lord Regent promises on his Honour, that they shall be Skaithless, and without Danger, in their Coming, Remaining, and Returning.

Item It is agreed that my Lord Duke Chattlerault, nor his Adherents, shall not Challenge, Use nor Execute, no Authority of Lieutenandry be any Commission of the Queen, or that any Impediment. be made be them, against the King's Authority in the mean time; and ordains Forces of fensible Men on all fides to be dissolved, that no Injury be done to any Subject be way of Deed.

"The Regent promifes to perform upon his Honour, fo far as concerns his Part; and therefore Wills the Duke's Grace, the Earl of Cassilis, and my Lord Herries to enter sufficient Pledges presently. for performance of their Parts; to wit, for the Duke, one of my Lord Duke's Sons, for the Earl of Caffilis, the faid Earl's Brother, and for my Lord Herries, the faid Lord's eldeft Son.

According to Articles, most of the " together at Edinburgh, in quiet and Persons concerned met at Edinburgh; on the 10th of April 1569, to treat: " lowing, They are to fay, my Lord at large of a thorow Agreement, and " Regent, my Lord Duke, the Earls especially of such Points as related to " of Huntly, Argyle, Athol, Mortone, the banished Queen. Being all in one Room, the Regent first rose, and drawing out a Paper, asked the Duke, "And in case of Absence of any if he would instantly subscribe an Ac-" of thir Nine Persons, be Sickness knowledgment of the young King's or other lawful Impediment, ane Authority, or not, to which he other Nobleman of that Party modefly replyed, That he and his shall be chosen to supply his Place. thefe Conditions, the Regent at the same time should grant what might be reasonably demanded in behalf of the distressed Queen, and therefore hoped be would not proceed to Alls of Force and Fraud too. fince not only he and his Friends, but their Hostages likewise, were in his Hands, defiring him to remember that they had religiously observed every Article of the late Treaty, and had come Secure and unarmed as to a Friend, faithfully relying on his Honour, and those offurances of Safety he had given them in the most Jolemn manner under his own To this easie Remonstrance Hand. of the Duk's, Murra ymade no manner of return (fays my Author) (a) but against all the Laws of Flonour fent him to the Castle of Edinburgh (b), where he was kept close Pritoner till the Regent was murdered by James Hamilton of Bothwell-baugh on the 23 of Fanuary 1570, then he had his Libera. tion, after having purged himfelf by Oath from all manner of Suspicion in that Affair.

What a loyal and honest Part my Lord Duke of Chattlerault acted for the Interest of his Sovereign Queen Mary in the time of her greatest Distress, is fo well known & was to frequently own'd & acknowledg'd, by her Majefty, that I don't think it necessary to be further infifted on here (c), and that his Loyalty was not easie to him, is evident from the manifold Sufferings and Hardships he underwent during the continuance of the Civil War; for as foon as the Earl of Lennox was elected Regent, he burnt down the Castle &Town of Hamiltoun; and that these honest Patriots might be heartily humbled, not so much as the Corn-Fields and Trees belonging to a Hamiltoun were spared, the Duke himself with his two Sons, and most of the Gentlemen of the Name of Hamilton were Hamilton. all forfaulted for their Rebellion against the young King; notwithstand- of Abercorn. ing he refolutely perfifted in the Lord David who dyed a young Man.

Queen's Service, and had a large share in the Missortunes of that unfortunate Queen, but being aged, for the better Security of his Person from the violence of his Enemies, he retired into France, where he flayed fome time during, the Rage of the War, which had reduced his Country to the last extremity; and returning home he gave way to Fare on the 22 of January 1575. As for his Character, notwithstanding the Envy of some, and the Malice of others, it shone very bright, in that great and difficult Trust of Governour of Scotland, which he held in the most difficult Times, so he discharged it for twelve Years with no less Prudence and Dexterity than Honour and Reputation, a Praise which few of his Enemies ever denyed him in any time. For in his Court, fays a reverend Historian (d), There was nothing to be seen the severest Eye could censure in the publick Administration such a Moderation was kept as no' Man was heard to complain. And continues my Author, He was a Nobleman well inclined, plain and without all Dissimulation and Fraud, that by the goodness of God, who always favoureth the Upright, he was carryed thro many Difficulties, and died in Peace and Flonour, well advanced in Age.

His Lordship's next Care was to bring his Majesty and the Committee of Estates to a happy Peace and Accommodation (a); and as he earnestly endeavour'd to have them fatiffied with the Kings Concessions, so he dealt fervently with his Majesty to yield to the abolishing of Episcopacy in England, as he had in Scotland, as the only way to induce the Presbyterian Party to declare for him, but the good King could not be be prevailed on to confent to buy his Peace, as he faid, at so dear a Rate as the peace of his Conscience, so the Treaty at that time had not its defir'd effect.

When it came to be confidered in Parliament what way his Majesty's Person should be disposed of, still in the Scots Army, my Lord Duke finding that the House by a Majority were inclin'd to deliver him up to the English Parliament, his Grace took an Opportunity that he might declare to the World his abhorrence of an Action attended with fo much Infamy, and spoke against it to this

But notwithstanding all the Op. position the Duke and his Friends could make against it, yet the same was carryed upon the 16th of January 1647, That the King should be delivered up into such Hands as the English Parliament had appointed to receive him (b), to the great Grief of the Duke, and all true hearted Scots-Men, and that his Grace might again in any Degree retrive the Dishonour the Nation fuffered in the giving up that excellent Prince, he endeavour'd all he could to infuse a sense of Shame and Horror in all People for the lateAction, which might prepare them to a Reparation of it by a generous engaging in the King's Quarrel, and in doing fo, most of the Year 1647 was spent even till the meeting of the next Parliament. which fat down the 2d of March 1648 (c), at the opening of which my Lord Duke did all he could to inflame the People with Zeal for his Majesty's Relief, & against the Army of England who he faid, " had forced the Par-" liament there to break the Treaty " between the two Kingdoms in their ill usage of the King, who was Im-

Upon the decease of William Duke of Hamilton without Issue Male of his own Body, the Estate and Honour of the Family, did devolve on his Niece the Lady Anne, eldest Daughter of James Duke of Hamilton. a Lady, who for constancy of Mind, evennels of Temper, folidity of Judgment, and an unaffected Piety, will leave a shining Character, as well as Example to Posterity, for her Conduct as a Wife, a Mother, a Mistress and in all other Conditions of Life. Grace married William Douglass Earl of Selkirk eldest Son of William the first Men he pretended to be, and in truth Marquess of Douglass, by Mary his fecond Wife, Daughter of George Marquess of Huntly, who by the Marclear and ready Expression, and the riage Articles yielded to change both bad been driven into several unwarrant- his Sirname, and the Sirname of all.

When King James VII. came to the Throne in the beginning of the 1685, he found more Favour with the Court than he had done in the former Reign, for he was not only a Lord of Council, but also of the Treafaury, and Seffion, an extraordinary Lord; Also on the 14th of Offober 1687, he was fworn a Privy Councellour for England (b), in all which Offices he continued till his Majestv retir'd into France, the end of the 1688. On the grand Revolution of the Government, upon the Prince of Orange's coming over to England, the Duke being at London at the Head of diverse of the Scots Nobility and Gentry, who were then in Town, waited on his Highness the Prince, who received them with great Respect, and foon after, making choice of the Duke their President, they addressed the Prince to take upon him the Administration of all Affairs Civil and Military, the disposal of the publick Revenue and Fortresses of the Kingdom, that he would do every thing that was necessary for the Preservarion of the Peace of the Kingdom, until a Meeting of the Estates of the Nation, which they desir'd his Highness to Call, to be holden at Edinburgh the 14th of March 1689.

Their next care was to publish a Proclamation requiring all Persons from the Age of Sixty to Sixteen to be ready to take Arms upon Advertisement from the meeting of Estates, for securing the Protestant Religion, the Laws and Liberties of the Kingdom (e). At length on the 11th of April they proceeded, and came to the following Refolution, viz.That King James VII. being a profest Papist, did assume the regal Power, and acted as King without ever taking the Oath required by Law, and hath by the Advice of evil and wicked Counsellours. invaded the fundamental Constitution of the Kingdom, and altered it from a legal limited Monarchy to an Arbitrary despotick Power, and hath exercis'd the same to the Subversion of the Protestant Religion, and the Violation of the Laws and Liberties of the Kingdom, inverting all the Ends of Government, whereby he hath forfaulted the Right to the Crown, and the Throne is become vacant. Upon which the Estates ordered a Committee to bring inan Act for fettling the Crown up. on William and Mary King and Queen of England, and likewise to prepare an Instrument of Government to be offered with the Crown. for redressing the Grievances, and fecuring the Liberties of the People, in pursuance whereof the Committee drew up an Act (f) reciting, in fourteen Articles, the method by which of Orange's Letters, meeting at the King James had invaded the Consti-Day appointed, began with the tution of the Kingdom, and in o-Hhh 2

When King James VII. came to the Throne, my Lord Arran was no less that Prince's Favorite than he had been his Brothers, for his Majestv named him one of the Grooms of the Bed-chamber, Master of the Wardrobe (e), and conferred on him the Command of a Regiment of Horse (f); also in April 1687, he elected him one of the twelve Knights of the most noble Order of St. Andrew called The Thistle (g), which his Majesty was then pleafed to revive. At the Revolution his Lordship firmly adhered to his unfortunate Master, and never left him till he attended him to Rochester (b), where his Majesty embarked for France, 23d December 1688. In the beginning of January 1689, when the Prince of Orange defired the advice of the Scots Nobility and Gentry then at London, what was fit for him to do in reference to the Affairs of Scotland, this occasioned a free Conference among them, and my Lord Arran offered his Opinion in these Words (i), I have all the Honour and Deference for the Prince of. that which I cannot forbear believing is the King my Masters Right, for his pre-Sent absence from us in France can no more affect my Duty, than his longer absence from us has done all this while, and the Prince desiring our Advice, mine is, that we should move his Majesty to return and call a free Parliament for the securing our Religion and Property, which in my humble Opinion, will at last be found the best way to heal all our Breaches.

His Lordships Constancy to the Interest of King James, even after the Prince of Orange was declared King of England, occasioned such a Suspicion of his Conduct, that he was fent Prisoner to the Tower (a), but being discharged some time after, he retir'd for a time into Scotland. his Father's Death happening in the 1694, brought no Accession either of Honour or Estate to the Earl, the same being hereditary to the Dutchess his Mother, who nevertheless, with the Confent of King William, before the end of that Princes Reign, refigned that Title to him (b), whereby he became a Peer.

His Grace for many Years after was not engaged in any publick Affairs except Parliamentary ones as they occurred, where he ever on all occations thow'd a tender Concern for the Honour and Prosp erity of Scotland, more particularly in the great Opposition he made in the Union of the two Kingdoms, which as it did demonstrate his entire Affection to his fo on that account it challenges a just Esteem and honourable Remembrance of his Memory as a noble Patriot by all the Lovers of their Country to perpetuity.

The Matter of the Union being concluded in Parliament, his Grace retir'd to his Country House in the Invasion from France Anno 1708, he was by Order of the Council taken into the Custody of a Messenger upon Suspicion of his being privy to that Expedition; but his Grace was admitted to Bail, the Duke of Newcastle, the Earl of Whartoun, the Lord Hailyfax being Surities for him. Whatever finister Opinion some in England might entertain of the Duke at this Juncture, it's certain the Scots Nobility had quite different Sentiments of him, for on the 17th of June, at a solemn Election of the Peers, to testify the Honour and Esteem they had of him, he was nominated and chosen one of the Sixteen. Peers to the enfuing Parliament.

When things came to take a new turn at Court, upon her Majesty's change of her Ministry, his Grace was on the ift of Odober 1710, appointed Lord Lieutenant of the County Palatine of Lancaster (d) in the room of James Earl of Darby, and on the 13th of December thereafter, he was fworn of the Privy Council (a), and accordingly took his place at the Board; Also in the Month of June 1711, the Queen was pleased to make him a Peer of Great Britain by the Titles of Baron of Dutton, and Duke of Brandon, and the Preamble to his Patent runs thus. Cum generis claritate promeritorum præstantia, con-Stanti & immaculata fidelitate, vel ad mortem usque & Sanguinis etiam propinquitate, Majores perquam fideles & intime admodum dilecti Consanguinei & Confiliarii Nostri Jacobi Ducis Hamiltonii, Machionis Clidsdalia, Comitis Arraniæ & Lanarci, Domini Polmontiæ, Avenniæ, Manchanshiriæ & Innerdalia, sese Pradecessoribus Nostris Regiis Gloriosissima Memoria plurimum commendaverint: Nos animadvertentes quod prædictus Jacobus Dux Hamiltoni Staffor Ashire (c), upon the News of praclaris nobilissima sua Familia

He was a prodigious Benefactor to the Church. when the Faith of the Age was, That whatever was given to the Church and the Clergy, did not a little Merit with God Almighty, for he founded the Abbey of Sandale within his own Territory of Kintyre for Cistertian Monks (c), and mortified thereunto the Lands of Glassaddill and Baltebean. together with the Lands of Casken in the Island of Arran (d): and to the Monastery of Pailly he gave very great and ample Donations that he and Fonia his Wife be entitul'd to all the Privileges of Brotherhood in that Convent, and of the whole Rights and Order of Cluny (e), when or where he passed from this to another Life, does not appear to me; but he left | Title, to which he fet his Seal in a

Accordingly, when the Crown was decreed to John de Baliol, he owned his Title, submitted to his Authority, and flood by him as long as that unworthy Prince could think any honest Scots Man was bound to adhere to him. As he was a most loyal, so he seems to have been a very Devout Man, according to the Piety of the Time, for he ratified to the Monks of Sandal the Donations and Concessions of his Anadding also several more of his own to that Convent for the ordinary Performances that Gifts were then given to the Church for; (c) and to the Abbacy of Paifly he ratified his Father's Grant of the Church of Kilkeran, to which he appends his own Seal, together with the Seals of · Laurence Bishop of Argyle, and Ro-bert Bruce Earl of Carrick, for the more fure Verification of his Deed(d). He made his Exit out of this Life in Son the 1303, and was fucceeded by King Robert the Bruce. He was among the first who did engage himself with the Royal Party, and raised a Body of two thousand Men, and on the Head of them charged at the Battle of Bannockburn against the English, with as much Courage and Gallantry as Man could do, which the venerable Mr. Barber has recorded as follows.

MACLELLAN.

Lord Kirkeudbright.

ANY who reads the History of the Scots Nation, will plainly perceive the Antiquity as well as the Grandeur of this Family: That they were likewise Sheriffs of Galloway in ancient Times, is past Dispute; which Office continued in their Family till the fented by his Relations of the Sirname Reign of King James II. that by a of Mackelellan, that they committed Forfaulture it came to the Crown. great Depredations upon the Douglas's Then it was erected into two distinct Lands within the bounds of Galloway, Jurisdictions, viz. The Sherifship of Wigtoun, and the Stewartry of Kirkcudbright, both these Offices being given to other Families. . It was at ... that time likewise, I'm told, that the Writs and Evidents of Bombie were destroyed, which is the Reason I have not feen much concerning them before that Period, tho by the Tradition they were then fo numerous and well spread in Branches, that there were no fewer than twelve Knights 's of the Name, concerning some of whom I have feen Writings which? make them very confiderable in the Government of Murdoch Duke Albany. (c)

Sir Patrick Maclellan of Bombie, Nephew to the Lord Gray by his Mother in the Reign of King James II. happening to take part with the Lord Harris his near Ally against the Earl of Douglas, Maclellan was belieged by the Earl in his own Castle of Raebery, which at last he forced him to furrender; and notwithstanding the King's Interpolition, he put him to Death; which Deed afterwards cost the Earl his Life. Patrick Maclellan was interr'd in the Abbey Church of Dundrenan, under a Monument of Free Stone, containing his Effigies, as big as the Life, with this Infcription in great Roman Capitals.

Hic jacet vir honorabilis Dominus Patricius Maclellanus Dominus de Wigtoun, & Vice comes Gallovidia qui obiit Anno Demini millesimo quadringentesimo quinquagesimo secundo, cujus anima requiescat in pace.

(4) Ibid.(b)Ibid. (c)I have seen a Charter in the Hands of Robert Maclellan of Barclay in the 1422, wherein there is mention of Sir John Maclellan of Gelstoun. The rest of the Knights of the Maclellans before the Forfaulture, the Tradition fays, were Raventtoun, Kilchrichie, Sorby, Glenhinnock, Troquhain, Barholm, Kirkonell, Kirkormock, Kirkgaunan, Bardrochat, Borg, Coven and Barfcob, all extinct fave the last, which of consequence is an ancient Family.

without any Warrant or Authority; for which Action, the Laird of Bombie himself, and most of his Friends who were engaged in that Enterprize were forfaulted in the Reign of King James II. The Barony of Bombie was again recovered by the Maclellans, as the Tradition goes, after this Manner. In the same Reign, says an Author of Thomas Maclellan of Bombie, who was no small Credit, (a) it happned that killed by the Barons of Drumlanrig a Company of Saracens or Gipfies and Lochinvar his potent Neighbours, from Ireland, infested the Country of Galloway; whereupon the King emitted a Proclamation, bearing, That whoever should disperse them, Son Sir Thomas to succeed him, then in and bring in their Captain dead or alive, should have the Barony of Bombie a Charter from Queen Mary, of all for his Reward. So it chanced that a brave young Gentleman the Laird of Bombie's Son fortun'd to kill the Perfon for which the Reward was promised, and he brought his Head on the point of his Sword to the King, and thereupon he was immediately feized in the Barony of Bombie; and to perpetuate the Memory of that brave and remarkable Action, he took for his Crest a More's Head on the point of a Sword, and THINK ON for his Motto.

His Successor Thomas Maclellan of Bombie, in the Reign of King James IV. was active and serviceable to the Crown on fundry Occasions, and feems to have been a very confiderable Man in the account of that Age. By Agnes his Wife Daughter of Sir Fames Dunbar of Mochrum, (b) he had three Sons, Sir William his Succeffor. Gilbert the fecond Son was Ancestor of the Maclellans of Barmagachan in the Stewartry of Kirkcudbright (c), and John Mackelellan of Achlean, which Branch is long ago extinct.

William Maclellan of Bombie, Son to the former Thomas, was knighted by King James IV. who likewife gave him many Lands in the parts of Galloway. He was flain with the faid King his Master at the Battle of Flowdown 9 Sept. 1513. leaving Islue by Elizabeth Mure his Wife (d) a Son with whom he had a Feud at the time on the high Street of Edinburgh the 11 of July 1526, (e) leaving a Minority, who in the 1542 obtained the Lands which he held of the Crown, belonging either to Thomas Maclellan of Bombie his Father, or which Sir William his Grandfather died poffessed of, (f) which in those Days was a very fair Fortune. He made a prudent and discreet Match with Helen Daughter of James Gordon of Lochinvar, (g)to reconcile and agree a Feud betwixt the Families; and after her Death Grifel Daughter of John Maxwel Lord Harris, by whom he had Sir Robert Maclellan the first Lord Kirkeudbright, William Maclellan of Glenshinnoch, and John Maclellan of Bourg. He departed this mortal Life Anno 1607, and was interred in the Vault of the Family, within the Church of Kirkcudbright, with this Infcription on his Tomb,

His Wisdom and his uprightness of Heart, His Piety, his practice of our State; His quick Engine so verst in every Art, As equally not all were in Debate. Thus justly hath his Death brought forth of late An heavie Grief in Prince and Subjects all. That Vertue, Love, and Vice do boar at hate, Though vitious Men rejoices at his Fall. As for himfelf, most Happy doth he die, Though for his Prince it most unhappy be.

cellors Place falling vacant by the Discretion, that he made considerable Deprivation of Sir James Stewart, then Additions to his Fortune. He was much favoured by King James VI. who created him first Viscount of Lawderdale, and thereafter honoured him with the Title of Earl of Lawderdale, by Letters Patent bearing date 24 of March 1624 (c). For what I know he had no State Imployment, fave that he was some short time Prefident of the Council and one of the ordinary Lords of the Seffion. from which he was removed Anno 1626 (d). I think it not foreign here to remark of this noble Lord, that he was fo very well acquainted with his own Affairs, that he made exact Inventars of all his Charters and Writs. which was very happy for the Family afterwards, for the Charter Cheft being concealed under ground for Preservation in the time of the Civil War, the Writs were fo intirely defaced at the Restauration, that they were become illegible, but by reafon of the Character this Earl had of Integrity, thele very Inventars were by Order of Parliament appointed to supply the place of the ancient Records and Evidents of the Family the Clerk Register signing every Page of the Book in which they were written. This worthy Lord departing this Life in February 1645 (e), was interr'd at the Church of Hadingtown with his Ancestors; and the learned Mr. Drummond of Hawthornden made this Epitaph upon him.

John Earl, afterward Duke of Lawderdale, in the beginning of the Civil War was among the most forward for the Covenant, and profecuted it for Tome time with the most eminent Animolity (a). He was much trusted by that Party in the management of Affairs both in Church and State. When he was a very young Man his Lordship was sent one of the Commissioners from the Church of Scotland to the Affembly of Divines who met at Westminster Anno 1643, for the framing a new Model of Government in the Church. The next Year he was appointed one of the Commiffigners from the States of Scotland to treat with the King at Uxbridge (b), but that Treaty ending without the Effect defired, he was again commissioned from the Parliament to treat with his Majesty at Hampton Court in the Year 1647 (c), the Conclusion of which was the raising an Army from Scotland toward the rescue of his Majesty. He was first constituted fole Secretary of State Anno 1661, President of the Council, one of the extraordinary Lords of the Seffion, first Commissioner of the Thefaury, when the Thefaury was land, his Lordship was sent over to turned into Commission, and one of Holland to require that the Prince of the Gentlemen of his Majesty's Bed-Wales might repair to the Scots Army, Chamber: Also in the 1660 he which was agreed to in the Treaty, was appointed high Commissioner

Which John was appointed one of the Lords of the Regency by King James V. Anno 1524, but the Earl of Angus taking upon himfelf the whole Administration, and detaining the young King upon the Matter a Prifoner, this Earl with diverse others of the Nobility endeavouring his Majefty's Enlargement, was flain in the Attempt by Sir James Hamilton," at a Conflict near Linlithgow-Bridge, on the 4th of September 1526 (e). By Anne his Wife, Daughtet of John Stewart, Earl of Athole, he had Matthew the next Earl, Robert Bishop of Caithnefs, thereafter Earl of Lennox, John Lord d' Aubigny, who was Captain of the Scots Gens d' Arms, and Governour of Avignon, of whom descended the late Dukes of Lennon; likewise a Daughter Helen, married first to Andrew Earl of Errol, and thereafter to John Earl of Sutherland.

Matthew Earl of Lennox, like other great Men of that Age betook himfelf to Arms, and ferved the Crown of France in the Wars of Italy, where his gallant Behaviour procured him a very great Name and Reputation. He was always in very high Esteem with his own Prince, King James V. for his Father's Sake, after whose Death he was fent over from France, to prevent any Detriment to that Crown by the Minority of the young Queen. but being a frank and open-hearted Person, he sell into the Snare laid by Cardinal Beaton Bishop of St. Andrews for him, and in a little Time loft the French King's Favour; and when it was come to that Pais, that he could neither stay at Home, nor return to France with Safety, he went into Eng. land Anno 1543, and put himself under the Protection of Henry VIII. who generously received him into his Favour, and gave him his Neice Lady Margaret Douglas in Marriage, and an Estate in England, to the Value of Seventeen Hundred Merks Sterling per Annum, as an Equivalent for his own Fortune, which was forseited in Scotland; and this Agreement the Earl made with that Prince, that he should deliver into his. Hands the Castle of Dumbartous, with the Isle of Bute. and the Castle of Rothefay (f), which tho' the Earl refolutely undertook; yet the Success did not answer. He lived at the Court of England till the 1563; he was called Home by Queen Mary, and his Forseiture repealed by Act of Parliament, after he had been banished from his Country for 20 Years, his Son Henry Lord Darnly foon following him, who being a young Nobleman of Illustrious Birth, extremely handsome, and of a Temper as well mix'd as his outward Proportions, Queen Mary at first Sight became so enamour'd of him, that neither the Menaces of Queen Elizabeth, nor any other Considerations. could deter her from marrying him. when, to render him the fitter Match for her, the rais'd him to the Dignity of Duke of Albany. After this, when he had not been above Five Months in Scotland, and did not exceed his Nineteenth Year, she married him, and with the Confent of most of the Peers declared him King, of which happy Marriage upon the 19th June 1566, to the perpetual Advantage of all Britain, her Mejefty was delivered of a Son King James VI. First Monarch of Great Britain.

But tho' the Queen's Love to the Lord Darnly at first had been very warm, yet it began soon afterwards as much to cool toward him, the Unkindness between them being chiefly fomented by one David Rizio an Ita lian, her Secretary for the French Tongue; which Indignity the King revenged, by entering into the Cabal with those who contrived and and murdered the poor old Man, with Circumstances that were not at all allowable; and 'tis probable that it was in Resentment of Rizio's Death, that the Earl of Bothwel and Others, officiously as thinking it might gratity the Queen, most inhumanly murder'd this levely Prince, in his own Lodgings as he lay a Bed, on the 9th of Feburuary 1567; tho' Bothwel who was the Murderer did maintain the Queen's Innocency to his last Mo ments: And I think there was no other Ground for believing the Queen to be concerned in that foul Action, but her imprudent marrying that profligate Person so soon thereafter, who, by common fame, was reputed to be the Murderer of her Husband.

Upon the Death of King Henry, the Earl of Lennox; his Father, profecuted the Earl of Bothwel as the Regicide, but that Earl's Interest at Court so over ruled the Jury, that he was formally acquitted of all Suspicion as well as Action in the Murder, which Lennox was forced to acquiesce in, and from that Time forth he lived in Retirement till the Death of the Earl of Murray the Regent, that he was unanimously chosen Regent to the young King James VI. his Grand fon; which great Trust he executed for 13 Months, till he was murdered by a Party of the Queen's Friends, on the 4th of September 1571 (a). He was interred in the Chapel within the Castle of Stirling, with this Inscrip- Lennox, against the Earl of Arran the tion on his Tomb, Lo here a Prince and Potentate, Whose Life to understand Was good, he Just and Fortunate, Though from his Native Land. His Enemies Thrice did him out-thring. He Thrice return'd again ; Was lawful Tutor to the King, And Regent did remain, While he with Rigor Rebels rackt, They wrought his fatal End. Lo this Respects the Death, no Might; When GOD permits the Time Yet shall the Vengeance on them light That wrought this curfed Crime.

Mr. George Buchanan his very humble Servant, who had a great Attachment to his Lordship and his Family, has left us the following Epitaph on the Regent, in a more polite Strain;

Regis avus, Regis Pater, alto e sanguine Regum Imperio quorum terra Britanna subest. Matthaus : genuit Levinia, Gallia fovit, Pulso anglus thalamum, remque decusque dedit. Capi invicta manu, famam victute refelli, Arma armis vici, consilioque dolos. Gratus in ingratos, patriam juffeque pieque Cum regerem, hostili persidia cecidi. To Matthew Earl of Lennox fucceeded Charles his Second Son in his Estate and Honour, he took to Wife Elizabeth Daughter of Sir William Cavendish, Sifter to the Earl of Devonfbire, by whom he had one Daughter the Lady Arabella Stewart, who was, married to William Marquis of Hartford, but had no Issue. He died a young Man at London, Anno 1576, where he was interred with this Inscription over his Grave;

To Charles Earl of Lennox succeeded Robert Bishop of Caithness his Un-This noble Person being at first a younger Brother, applied himfelf to Learning, and devoting himself to the Service of the Church, entred young into Orders. He was elected Bishop of Cathness Anno 1542 (b), but taking Part with his Brother the Earl of Uuu 2 Gover-

He did not long retain the Title of Earl of Lennox, but voluntar. ly refigned it in Favours of Esme Lord d' Aubigny his Great Nephew, and in lieu thereof had the Stile and Title of Earl of March conferred on him by King James VI. his Nephew, together with the Priory of St. Andrews, which he enjoyed till Death took him away on the 29th of August 1586 (a), leaving no no other Issue than a natural Daughter Margaret, married to Robert Algee of Easter Walking shaw.

When Robert Earl of Lennox refign. ed the Earldom, as before mentioned, his Majesty King James VI. erected it into a Dutchy in Favours of Elme Lord d' Aubigny his Coufin, Son and Heir of John Lord d' Aubigny, Bro ther of Matthew Earl of Lennox, who coming over from France Anno 1579, his Majesty King James embraced his Lordship with singular Kindness, admitted him into his inwardest Councils, and made him Duke of Lennox, and Lord High Chamberlain of Scot. land, Anno 1580. This extraordinary Favour of his with the King, procured him Envy from many who fecretly mutter'd that he being a Man most devoted to the Romish Religion, was fent from France to subvert the true Religion, and that which increafed the Suspicion the more, was, that he applied himself, and gave Countenance to those who were most in the Interest of the King's Mother; so that William Earl of Gowrie and Others imployed all their Wits to remove him from the King, and thus they went to Work.

The Duke having gone from Perth Negotiation he behaved very well, where the King then lay, to Edinburgh; to exercise his Jurisdiction as pon the King's Accession to the

The Duke being a Man of a very mild-Spirit, did for the Publick Quiet's Sake; and at the King's feeming Perswasion (which they had forced him to use with him) return to France, where, he foon after contracting Sickness, died at Paris 26th May 1583, and at! the Point of Death openly professed, as he had done before; the Protestant! Religion, confuting thereby the Malice of those who had falsly defamed him to be a Papist. He was married with Katharine Daughter of William Seigneur d' Antrague; by whom he had Lady Elizabeth his eldest Daughter was married to Thomas Howard Earl of Arundel.

Lady Anneto Archibald Lord Angus. Son and Heir to William first Marquis of Douglas

Lady Frances to Ferome Westoun Earl of Portland.

James Duke of Lennox, as he was of the noblest Extraction, so his Majesty King Charles I. took great care of his Education, and fent him to France, Italy and Spain, where he was created a Grandee of that Kingdom (a), and as foon as he returned, tho he was scarce one end twenty Years of Age, made him a Privy Counfellor: And as he had many great Offices by Inheritance, so his Majesty, out of his abundant Kindness to him, made him Master of the Houshold, Lord Warden of the Cinque-Ports, and Knight of the most noble Order of the Garter.

When the War began in 1642 he X x x adhered adhered to the King's Interest with slowed the Estate of Lennox upon fignal Fidelity and Affection, and the Lord Charles Lennox one of his made so entire a Resignation of him- Natural Sons, whom he so sirnamed the Prejudice of those, who, how powerful foever, failed in their Duty to the King, and therefore he was purfued with all imaginable Malice by them, as one that would have no Quarter; and as he had received great Bounties from the King, fo he facrificed all he had to his Service, as foon as his Occasions stood in need of it; and he lived with unspotted Fidelity some Years after the Murder of his Master, and was suffered by those that then governed to pay that last Duty to him of putting him into his Grave, and died without the Comfort of feeing the Restauration of the Crown on the 20 of March 1655 (a). By Mary Daughter of George Duke of Buckingham his Wife, he had Esme who succeeded him, and died in his Minority Anno 1660, and a Daughter Mary married to Richard Butler Earl of Arran of the Kingdom of Ireland.

To Fine Duke of Lennox succeeded Charles Earl of Lichfield his Coufin German, who being fent Ambassador extraordinary from King Charles II: to the Crown of Denmark, his Grace died at Elsenure in that Kingdom 21 December 1672 (b), leaving no Issue by Frances his Wife Daughter of Walter Stewart Efg; Son of Walter Lord Blantyre, fo that the Honour of this princely Family became extinct, and his great Fortune and Hereditary Offices came to King Charles II. as his nearest Heir Male, the King's a younger Brother, he entred early in-Great Grand-father's Father and the Duke's being two Brothers.

He married Anne Daughter of Frances Lord Brudnell, by whom he had Charles Earl of Darnly his Son and Heir, Lady Lovila married to James Earl of Berkly, and Lady Anne Lennox.

LESLY,

Earl of Leven.

IR Alexander Lefly first Earl of J Leven, was the Son of Captain George Lesty, extracted from the House of Balquhain in the County of Aberdeen, one of the most illustrious Families of the Leslies (d). Being to the Life and condition of a Souldier upon that Stage, where fome of all Europe then acted between the Spainard and the Dutch, in the Lord Vere's Regiment in Holland, where greatest General of that Age, Gustavus Adolphus King of Sweden against the Imperialifts, where he performed fuch great Actions as procured him a King Gustavus, under his Daughter general Estimation, and thereby gained so much Honour, that the King promoted him to be Lieutenant General and then Velt Marshal of his Armies, with general Approbation, as a Person who well deserved the Preferment. Yea, that King had fogreat an Opinion of Sir Alexander Lefly, that in the 1628, when the Emperor had reduced all Germany except Stralfund, which was then invested by Count Walstein, the Citizens having a lealoufy of their Governor, at the defire of some of the German Princes, made application to the King of Sweden, to fend them an Officer to command in that place, which he willingly granted, and pitched upon Sir Alexander Lefly, as a Person fit for that Station, and he acquitted himself with so much Conduct and Gallantry, that the the Plague was | in the City, the out-Works in a very ill condition, and Count Walstein the Imperial General before it with a formidable and victorious Army, he obliged him to raife the Siege with confiderable lofs; tho 'tis reported the Count was fo confident of Success, that he swore: Tho Stralfund were hung in Chains, betwixt Heaven and Earth he would have it; and General Lelly's behaviour was fo agreeable to the Burghers, that they made him a rich Present in Gold, and struck several glorious Medals upon that Occasion, some of which they presented him with (a).

In the 1630; General Lelly was fent by the King of Sweden, to make an Attack upon the Isle of Rugen, in order to drive the Imperialists out of it; which he effected: And his Conduct and Bravery on this occasion was fo very remarkable, that it drew upon him the greatest Encomiums both from Friends and Enemies that could and entred into the Service of the a Way for the King of Sweden's marching into Germany.

General Lefly continued in the Swedish Service, after the Death of Queen Christiana, till the Year 1638, that the Troubles began in Scotland, he returned to his Native Country upon an Invitation from the difaffected Nobility, and as foon as the Covenanters began to lift Men toward the raising an Army under the Obligation of the Covenant, he was chosen to be their General, to which he was by all Men held very equal, having had good Experience of the molt active Armies of that time, and a Courage very hotorious: But that Enterprize ending without any Action, by reason of a Pacification, which was then agreed to; the General had no Opportunity to fignalize himfelf at that time: But the Peace being of a short Duration; and a new War breaking out the next Year, Sir Alexander Lesly was again constituted General of the Scots Army, which entred England in August 1640, who, having routed a Party under the Lord Conway at Newburn, took possesfion of Newcastle, where they kept their head Quarter. Soon after which a Cessation was agreed to, and a Treaty appointed at Rippon, and afterward carried to London, where a Peace was happily concluded. The particular Articles whereof were ratified by his Majesty in the Parliament 1641, at the Conclusion of which General Lefly was created Earl of Leven.

The Irish Rebellion breaking out at this time, his Lordship was appointed General of the Scots Forces that were raifed and transported into that Kingdom upon the Charge of England, for suppressing the Rebellion there; in which Service he continued till the 1643, he was called over by the Parliament to form and command the Scots Army that was fent into England, to affift the Parliament bedevised, by which means he opened against the King, by whose help the Parliament's Forces obtained their great Victory at Marston-Moor 16 July 1644, where a noble and judicious Memoirist of the English Nation, I mean the Lord Hollis, does General Lefly the Honour as well as the Justice, to acknowledge that his Lordship who commanded the Scots Horse, and his Country-man Major General Crawfurd, who was Major General to the Earl of Manchester's Bri. gade, were the Persons who did the principal Service that day, quite contrary to what another celebrated Historian of the same Nation says of the General's Conduct in the Battle: Only it is to be observed, that that Author's Account of this Affair is wrote with fo much Rancor and Prejudice, and with fuch Circumstances of Inconfishency, that the manner of the Narrative takes off much of the Credit of what he wrote in that Matter.

In the Year 1648, when the Estates of Scotland raised an Army for the Relief of King Charles, when he was made a Prisoner in the Isle of Wight, General Lefly to well preferved his Reputation with those of his own Country, who wedded the King's Interest most, that he had the Command of the Army offered him; but he thought fit to decline it upon Account of his Age and Infirmities; which was happy for him, confidering the unfortunate Isfue of it.

After the Murder of the King, his Lordship appeared mighty earnest and forward for restoring of King Charles 11. and the Re-establishment of our Old Constitution, and frankly entred into thôse Designs and Meafures that were fet on foot for the raising an Army for his Majesty's Service, and was at the Battle of Dumbar in Person, in the Quality of a Volunteer. After the defeat of the Scots Army there, and when another Delign was fet on foot, for railing an Army to march with the King into England, no Body appeared more | Vall, and had Issue. forward in that Service than his Lordfhip; but while General Monk lay before Dundee, the old General with feveral other Noblemen, having appointed a Meeting at Eliot in Angus, to consult of Means to relieve the Town, and other Matters concerning the War, of which Monk having got Advertisement, sent a strong Party of Horse and Dragoons, commanded by Colonel Morgan, to furprise them : Which he did in the Night; and the old General and the Principals of them being taken, were fent to London, and committed Prisoners to the Tower. And notwithstanding all the Services he had done English Parliament, his Lordship did not receive the least Favour from them, nor from Cromwel; but underwent Sequestration, and all other Severities the most loyal of his Country men suffered: Butthe Crown of Sweden having entred into an Alliance with the Parliament of England, her Swedish Majesty, calling to Remembrance the great Services performed by General Lefly to the Crown of Sweden, was pleafed to interpose by her Resident then at London for his Liberation; which being obtained, his Lordship was so sensible of the Honour that Princess had done him, that to shew his Gratitude for fo fingular a Favour, he went over in Person to Sweden, to return her Majesty his humble and hearty Thanks. At which Court his Lordship was treated with all the Civility and respect due to his Quality and Merit, and returning thence to his Native Country, lived mostly at his Seat of Balgony in a voluntary Retirement, till Death put a Period to his Life, fome time of the Year 1662, leaving Issue by Agnes his Wife, Daughter of Rentoun of Billy, Alexander Lord Balgony, likewife five Daughters.

Time second Son of George Lord Melvil.

Which David, in Imitation of his Ancestors on the maternal Side, dedicated himself from his Youth to the Profession of Arms, and transporting himfelf Abroad Anno 1585, entred into the Service of the Duke of Brandeburgh, where his Lordship first served in the Quality of a Captain of Horse, and then was made Collonel of a Regiment of Foot by his Electoral Highness, which he brought over with the Prince of Orange in 1688. Upon that Prince's Accession of Aberdeen.

Frendraught 1st Viscount of Fren- to the Crown, my Lord Leven was fworn of the Privy Council, and made Constable and Governor of Edinburgh Castle, on the 4th of July 1689 (b). His Majesty King William repoling great Trust and Considence in his Lordship's Affection to his Service, was pleased to join him in Commission with Major General Mackay, and Major General Sir George Monro, to model the Forces in this Kingdom, which were to be employed in the Reduction of the Highlands : and accordingly his Lordship was present at the Head of his Regiment in the Action at Gillycranky on the 27th of July 1689, where his Courage and Conduct was very fignal and brave. Also in 1692 he carried over his Regiment to Flanders, where he continued during the Campaign. Sir Alexander Fraser, called Brother to Sir Simon, was one of those worthy Men who strenuously adhered to the

But to return to Sir Alexander Frafer the younger Son of Sir Alexander the Chamberlain; this noble Person treading in the Steps of his loyal Father, faithfully served King David II. and it could not well choose to be otherwise, considering the Nearness of his Alliance to the Crown, in Consideration whereof he obtained, no doubt, in Reward of his Loyalty and Merit, as well as his near Relation in Blood to that King, a Grant of the Thanedom of Dores, by his Royal Charter under the great Seal (a).

From this Sir Alexander Fraser is Sir Peter Fraser of Dores Baronet descended in a lineal Course of Succession, as appears from his Writings, which proves the Family beyond Dispute to be one of the most ancient and best extracted Families in the County of Kincardin, where it hath still remained, and, except for a short Interval, still continues with Lustre. A more particular Account of which may be deduced in the subsequent part of this Work, whereby it will appear to be very honourable, as well considered in it self, as in its illustrious Alliances and Branches.

The Family of Lovat, which this Title leads me more particularly to treat of as it is one of the best extracted, so it is one of the most noble and most numerous of all the Frasers. They are derived from Sir Simon Fraser Son of Sir Alexander Fraser, and Nephew to King Robert I. who obtained the Barony of Lovar, and other fair Possessions in the northern Parts, by Marriage of the Heir Female of the Bisets, in the latter end of King David II. whose Arms he thereupon took into his own, and which is still bore by his Descendants. The Wealth and Reputation of the Lovat Family was not a little advanced thereafter by the marrying of a Lady of the Fentonns, whom Hugh Fraser of Lovat took to Wife in the Reign of King James I. (b) fince which time they have been accounted among the Number of the greater Barons, who were called Lords of Parliament. He left a Son, Hugh Baron of Lovat, who married Janet, Daughter of Thomas Dunbar Earl of Murray by whom he had Thomas Zzz

LIVINGSTON.

Earl of Lithgow!

IT is clear from the Records of Holy-rood-house Abbey, that in the Time of King David I. one Livingins was then possessed of that Barony in West-Lothian, which he called Livingfour from his own Name, according to the Custom of that Age, for he makes a Donation to the Monks of the Holy-Cross at Edinburgh, de Ecclesia de Livingstoun cum dimidia carrucata Terræ ad dictam Ecclesiam pertinente, prosalute animæ suæ(d). He was fucceeded in the Barony of Living flours by his Son Thurstanus, called filius Livingii in a Charter of Confirmation to the Convent of Holy-rood-house of the Church of Livingstoun, with the Lands and Tithes thereunto belonging for the Prosperity of his Soul, both here and hereafter (e). He lest a Son Alexander filius Thurstani, as he is defigned in a Charter of King William's, who being Lord of the Barony of Livingstown, allumed first that Appellation, and transmitted it to his Posterity for a Sirname, in whose Line it continued above 400 ter of Patrick Lord Gray, by whom he Years, till the Reign of King James had John his Successor in the Hon- IV. that Mr. Bartholomew Living stoun our. 2dly ... The immediate Ancestor of this Merks Sterl. Money (e), for which Noble Family was Sir William Livingston, who in the 17th of King David II. had a Grant of the Barony of Calendar in the County of Stirling, then in the Crown by the Forfaulture of Patrick de Calendar (a); whose only Daughter and Heir Christian he took to the better to fortify his Title thereto: Likeas in the 34th of the faid King, they had a Grant to themfelves and their Heirs, of the Lands of Killyth, then in the King's Hands, by the Decease of Margaret Daugh ter of Rolert De la Wall, (b).

This Sir William was a brave Man, and one of the Scots Barons who were taken Prisoners with King Dawid Bruce at the Battle of Durham, on the 17th of October 1346, (c): But being alterward releas'd, the next enfuing Year, when a Treaty was fet on foot for the King's Redemption, he was one of the Commissioners employed in that honourable Negotiation (d), the without Success at

Sir William Livingston's Son and Heir was delivered one of the Hostages.

By the foresaid Christian de Calendar his Wife, he had Sir William his Son and Heir, Father of John Livingfloun of the Calendar; who wasflain in the Service of his Country at the Battle of Homildoun against the English on the 4th of March 1401 (f). His first Marriage was with Monteith Daughter 10 Monteith of Carfe (g). By her he had Sir Alexander, and two younger Sons, Robert Pregenitor of the first Branch of the Livingstons of Westquarter, of whom sprung the House of Kinnaird, first raited to the honour of Viscount, and then Earl of Newburgh; and John Livingfon Esquire. His second Wile was Agnes Daughter of Sir James Douglas of Dalkeith (h), by whom he had Sir William Livingflon first of the House of Kii(yth (i), and a Daughter Agnes Wile of Sir John Gordon of Gordoun.

kept by him contrary to Law : feems very much to correct all our Wherefore that Sir Alexander Living- Historians, even the very latest Wrifton on whom the Parliament had conferr'd that high Trust might get the King's Person into his own Custody, he fell upon this Stratagem to bring it about.

The Queen Mother was intirely in Sir Alexander's Interest, and to effectuate her Purpose cometh from Stirling to Edinburgh, pretending a friendly Visit to her Son, which the Chancellor very willingly allowed her in the Callle feveral Days: During which Time she cajolled the Prince into an Obedience to her Will, and the Chancellor into a Behef that she designed nothing but what she own'd: At length she told the Chancellor, that she would but stay one Night longer in the Castle, being the next Day to fet out for Whitekirk in Buchan, to perform a Vow which she had made for the Health of the King, whose Person she earneftly recommended to his Care till she should return. He assured her of his Fidelity both in that and all o ther respects, and so left her. Thus all Eyes, but those of a trusty Few being afleep, the young King was carefully put up in a Chest among his Mother's Furniture, and then convoyed to Leith, and from thence by Water to Stirling; where Sir Alex ander Livingston, and those of his Party received him with great Joy.

But notwithstanding this great Favour of the Queen's to Sir Alexander Livingston, yet, for some Regions of State, not long thereafter, he and fome of his Friends did restrain her Majesty in the Liberty she had some while enjoyed of the Company of her Son. Which her Majesty refented as a very high Indignity: But on the 4th of September 1439, the Business was fettled betwixt the Queen and Livingston by a solemn In- "

Sir Alexander Livingstoun having thus got the young King into his Custody, in order to countenance his after Actions; he began to carry with a very high Hand, as being affured that none would dare to controul him, in so much that he created many Enemies to himself, and among the rest the Queen Mother, whom upon Sufpicion or Pretence that she and Sir James Stewart her Husband were carrying on some Intrigue with the Earl of Douglas, committed Sir James to Prison, and the Queen her felt to a narrow Apartment in the Castle of Stirling, which fo much incenfed. her, that the refolv'd upon Revenge, and being as yet Mistress of her Son's Inclinations, very foon brought about a fecond Turn of Affairs at Court: For while Sir Alexander Livingston was at Perth, employed in the publick Affairs, (a) She carried on 2 Plot fo closely and dextrously with the Chancellor, that one Morning as the King was Hunting in the Park of Sirling, his small Retinue were on a fudden furrounded with a Body of about 4000 Horse commanded by the Lord Chancellor in Person, so that the King was carried off, without any Opposition, to Edinburgh, where he was welcomed by the Acclamations of the People.

Sir Alexander Livingston, upon Advice of what had happened, came to Edinburgh, and wifely confidering that the Chancellor could not more probably stand his Ground amidst fo many Difficulties without him, than he had done without his Affistance, he thought the best way was to endeavour to bring him to Terms of Accommodation, which by the Mediation of the Bishops of Aberdeen and Murray was at length effected; the Chancellor continuing in his Office as formerly, and the Custody of the King's Person was again committed to Sir Alexander, which high Trust he executed with great Fidelity, till the 1444, that the King now arriv'd to the Age of 14 Years, began to govern in some Measure by himself. Soon after which. the Earl of Douglas became the principal Favourite at Court, who bearing no good Will to Sir Alexander Livingston or any of the former Miniingly met at Perth (a). Thither 1 and others of his Party were Summon'd to Answer to fuch Accusations, as should be exhibited against them. Sir Alexander was accufed of having alienated the Crown Lands, wasted the Royal Revenues. and feized upon the King's Jewels, the Furniture of his Houles, and what else he could divert to his own private Use: In consequence of which he was declared Rebel, his Estate confiscated, and sent Prisoner to Dunbartoun, there to remain during Pleafure. This Treatment of Sir Alexander's was thought very hard: But the Fate of William Livingston his fecond Son, Sir Robert Livingston of Drumray lateLord Treasaurer was much harder; for they were both beheaded in the Castle of Edinburgh, where Authors fay that Mr. Living flon being a young Man of admirable Parts and great Eloquence made fuch a moving Discourse upon the Vanity of the World, and the Viciffitude of humane Affairs, as drew Tears from the Eyes of all that were prefent. But after some time of Imprilonment, the King was pleased to restore Sir Alexander Livinglion to his Estate, call'd him to his Council, and constituted him Juflice General of Scotland, Anno 1449 (b). The same Year he was appointed one of the Plenipotentiaries to treat with the English anent the Prorogation of a Truce betwixt the two Nations. He married 'Dundas Daughter to Dundas of that Ilk, (c). By her he had James Lord Living flon his Successor, William, and Alexander of whom the House of Duni- Issue, his Estate and honour of Lord pace and its Cadets (d): Also two Daughters, Janet married to James Lord Hamilton, and Elisabeth to James Dundas of that Ilk, (e) and had Iffue.

To Sir Alexander Livingston Lord Calendar succeeded James, itil'd Lord Livingston, his Son, who being a Nobleman of great Courage and Prudence, was constituted Captain of the Cafile of Stirling, and had the Cuftody of the young King committed to him by his Father, when he was the King's Governour (f). Which great Trust he faithfully discharged, and I have Ground to believe that when his Father was discourted, the King still retain'd a Favour to Sir James, perhaps for his Civility to him when he was Governour of Stirling (g). In 1452 he made him Master of his Houshold, and one of the Lords of his Privy . Council; and two Years thereafter rais'd him to be Lord High Chamberlain of -Scotland, in which great Office le continued even till his Death Anno 1467, leaving four Children behind him, viz.

CAMPBEL,

Earl of Lowdon.

A Coording to the Custom of Families of the greatest Antiquity, this of Lowdon feems to have taken its Surname from the Lordship of Lowdon in the County of Air, where it flourished in the earliest Ages, as one of the most considerable in that Shire: for 'tis certain from very clear Accounts, that in the Reign of King William called the Lyon, Richard Morvil Lord H gh Constable of Scotland, gave the Barony of Lowdon Jacobo filio Lambini (a), who ailum'd a Sirname from thence, and left it with his Lands to his Posterity: But it did not last a full Century in the Male-Line, for it be- 'judged to Baliol, and afterward havcame extinct in James de Lowdon, ing extorted a Superiority from the

whose Heir Female was married to Sir Reynald Crawfurd Knight, a Branch of the Family of Crawfurd in the County of Lanerk, who besides the Barony of Lowdon, had Possession of many other Lands in Lanerk-Shire the paternal Estate of his Ancestors, and had the Honour to execute the Office of high Sheriff of the County of Air in the 17th of King Alexander . II. Anno 1228 (b); by which Title he's a frequent Witness to the Grants of that Prince to the Religious of Kelfo Abbey, which is all I can find in History concerning him proper to be inserted here. He left a Son

Hugh his Successor, who added to the Barony of Lowdon the Lands of Crosby, and a Portion of the Village of Stevinstoun in Cuningham by the Donation of Alan of Galloway high Constable of Scotland his Superior Lord, Grand-child and Heir to the forementioned Richard Morvil, to be held of him and his Heirs for ever. This Hugh together with Malife Earl of Strathern, Alexander Lord high Steward of Scotland, with divers other Barons of the first Quality, Letters of fafe Conduct and Prote-Ction from the King of England Anno 1255, to come into that Realm, but upon whatOccasion or for what Cause the Record doth not mention (c).

Sir Reynald Crawfurd high Sheriff of Air was his Son and Successor, so much celebrated in the History of, these Times. In the grand Competition for the Crown betwixt Bruce and Baliol, of which King Edward I. of England was made Arbitrator, he was one of the Barons chosen on the part of Robert de Bruce, who met at Berwick on the 2d of June 1292 to be a Witness to the Decision which was then to be made of that Affair (d); which 'at length that King having adin Forfar. Shire in Favours of Sir Rolect Stewart Knight, which is all I have found memorable of him. By a support of his Wife he left Iffue, Sir Hugh his Son and Heir, who made a very great Figure in the Reign of King Robert III and in that of his Son and Succeffor James I. I find in 1423 he was one of the great Barons who were appointed to attend and wait on King James from Durham to Scotland, when he was relieved from his Captivity out of England (A) By Daughter of . his Wife he had Issue,

Sir George his Son and Heir, who was one of the Hostages for the Ranfom of King James I. (e). By his Wife Daughter of ... Stewart of Darnly (f) he had

Sir George his Son and Heir, who had the Honour of Knighthood conferred on him by King James II. in the ray of whose Reign he resigned the Sheriffship of Air Shire in the Sovereign's Hands for a new Gitt in Favours of himself, which he obtained, and to his Heirs Male for ever. By this Wise Daughter of . . he had

Sir George his Son and Heir, who had a new Grant of the Sheriffship of Air-Shire from King James IV. Anno 1489 (g). By his Wife, Daughter other Lord Kennedy, he had Issue Hugh his Successor, George first of that Branch of the Campbels of Killoch (b), likewise a Daughter Elizabeth, married to Robert Lord Eraskine, Ancestor to the Earl of Mar.

When the Troubles broke out in the Year 1637, the Earl of Lowdon was one of the most leading of the Peers, who testified a Dislike of the Ways and Methods had been taken in Reference to the Liturgy, and the other Innovations, then, brought into the Church; and affoon as the Party, who pressed for Reformation, did resolve themselves, into Societies, his Lordthip was one of the Nobility who were chosen to conduct their Affairs, and to represent their Grievances, which he did in a Speech before the Council on the 21st of December, to this Purpose. " That by the Methods " lately taken, it appeared there was " an entire new Model of Government " in Church and State intended : That 66 the late Service Book, and the Book " of Canons, which were then fet " out and imposed on the Nation, had " passed no Approbation of the As-"fembly, nor any Convocation of " of the Clergy, nor had been so much "as communicated to the Privy-". Council, but appeared to be fo ma-" ny new Laws imposed on the King-" dom by the King's fole Authority, " contarary to the established Laws " of the Land, merely contrived by " the Bishops, on whom he craved " Iustice in a legal way.

When his Majesty had raised an Army against the Covenanters in 1639; and was advanced as far as the Borders, my Lord Lowdon was one of the Peers who figned an Address to the King, " Lamenting their ill Fortune, "that their Enemies had fo great Credit with his Majesty as to per-" fwade him to believe that they were or could be disobedient to him ; a ".Thing that could never enter into "their loyal Hearts; that they defired nothing but to be admitted into the Presence of their gracious Sovereign, to lay their Grievances at his "Royal Feer, and leave the Determination of them entirely to his own Wisdom and Pleasure, at

The Humility of the Stile wrought fo upon the King's Nature, who thought it great Pity that any Blood should be spilt in a Contention which he himself might put an End to by his own Royal Word, as foon as he should hear their Complaints. That he eafily confented to bring the Bufiness to a fair Treaty, to which the Earl was named one of the Commissioners up. on the Part of the Covenanters, and who accordingly met with fuch English Commissioners as his Majesty was pleased to appoint at the Berks, where they entred upon, and concluded a Pacification, whereby " The Armies "were to be disbanded ; an Act of ".Oblivion pass'd; the King's Forts " and Castles to be restored, and a Parliament and a General Affem-" bly to be called, for a full Settle-" ment, & that thereby all Factions "& Animolities might be reconciled and composed. Zeal against the Bishops and the Liturgy, having likewise entred a Protestation " That they did not intend " by any Thing contained in the " Treaty to vacate any of the Pro ceedings which had been in the late " General Assembly of Glasgow: By these Proceedings the Breach became greater and wider, and Preparations for War began to be renewed on both Sides with more Vigour than ever. But before Things should come to the last Extremity,, and that, if possible, Matters might be composed without Blood, his Majesty thought fit to require the Covenanters to fend fome Persons intrusted by their Body to attend him, to give an Account of their Proceedings, and which was the Thing they always most defired. Accordingly certain Commissioners were named, of which Number the Earl of Lowdon was one. At this Time when the Commissioners repaired to London there happened to be a Letter intercepted, and transmitted to his Maje. fly, that had been figned by the Earl of Lowdon and the chief of the Covenanters, written to the French King, & directed Au Roy, a Stile only used by Subjects to their natural King: "In " which they complained of the Hard-" ness & Injustice of the Government " that was exercifed over them, put him in mind of the Dependence " Scotland formerly had upon that " Crown, and defired him now to " take them into his Protection, and " give them Affistance (a). This Letter being feen and perused by the Lords of the Council of England, and the Lord Lowdon being examined, and refusing to give any other "Answer than, "That it was writ " before the Agreement; and there-" upon referved, and never fent, that " if he had committed any Offence, " he ought to be questioned for it in " Scotland, & not in England; & infift-

" ed Liberty to return. But notwithstanding all the Defences the Earl was able to make, he was committed Prisoner to the Tower, and tho his Commitment was highly refented by the Parliament, as a Breach of the publick Faith, yet he continued in Prison some Monthsthereafter, till, by the Interpolition and Intercession of the Marquis of Hamilton, he was enlarged on the 27th of June 1640 (b), when his Lordship renewed all Professions of Duty to the King, and a Readiness to engage in his Service, as toon as he should return to his native Country, (where his Power & Interest was as great as any Mans,) which he did by disposing all those upon whom he had Influence to hearken to all Over tures for a Peace with his Majesty. But notwithstanding all the Endea vours of the Lord Lowdon and others. who heartily defired an Accommodation, Matters came to a fecond Rupa ture, and upon a Party of the Covenanters having routed the Lord Conway at Newburn, who appeared for the King, and having taken Newcastle: they thought fit after that to prefent a humble Petition and Address to the King for a new Treaty, which his Majesty condescending to, and Rippon being named the Place of Meeting, the Earl of Lowdon was appointed one of the Commissioners for the Treaty: But all they they did there was only to agree to a Cessation of Arms, a tafe Conduct being granted to his Lordship and the rest of his Collegues for going to London to carry on and conclude the Treaty there : Which they did with all possible Diligence, and which his Majesty confirmed, and the Lords of the Privy Council were made the Conservators of the Peace, during the Interval of Parliaments.

should be ratified by the Parliament of Scotland, which in the 1641, his Majesty was pleased to hold himself in his own Royal Person, for the full Satistaction of his People, and wherein all Particulars that had been in Dispute were adjusted to the seeming Joy and Satisfaction of every Man, and the Security of all that was then established was sufficiently provided for. In the End of the Session his Majesty was pleased to bestow Honours and Offices on some principal Perfons, who had merited well at his Hands, and who were best able to ferve him ; fo the Chancellour's Place was bestowed upon the Lord Lowdon, during Life, and that with the full Confent and Approbation of the Parliament (a), who looked on him, as he was throughout the whole Kingdom, as a very wife Man, excellently fitted and qualified for the Discharge of that great Trust, as the Exigence of Asfairs then stood.

When the Civil War broke out in England, the Chancellour repaired to the King at Tork (b), when his Majesty did fo fully farisfy his Lordship with the Justice and Horour of his Carriage toward his English Parliament, that he wrote to the Scots Commissioners at London, in the Name and by the Direction of the Lords of the Secret Council: " That they should present to the " two Houses, the deep Sense they had " of the Injuries and Indignities which " were offered to the King, whose ust " Rights they were bound to defend, " and that they should conjure them " to bind up those Wounds which " were made, and not to widen them " by Sharpness of Language, and to " give his Majesty such real Security " for his Safety among them, by an " effectual declaring against Tumults, " and fuch other Actions as were just-" ly offensive to his Majesty, that he " might be induced to refide nearer to " them, and comply with them in fuch "Propositions as should be reasonably, made (c). Soon after which, taking leave of the King, his Lord ship renewed all imaginable Professions of Duty to his Majesty, and a Readiness to ingage in his Service; which the King was very well assured he could do.

In the 1643, the Chancellour was. fent Commillioner from the Privy Council of Scotland, who called themselves the Conservators of the Peace between the two Kingdoms, to his Majesty, while he was at Oxford, defiring to pass as a Mediator betwixt the King and the two Houses in England, when his Lordship used all Importunity and Arguments to perswade the King in private to confent to the Alteration of the Government of the Church of England, affuring him that it would be a Mean not only to hinder the Subjects of Scotland from adhering to the English Parliament, but that it would oblige them to affift his Majesty to the outmost, in the Vindication of all his Rights: But he found the King too strongly fixed to be sway'd, in what he thought a Case of Conscience, by a Confideration of Convenience,

He then betook himfelf to his own proper Errand, which confifted of two Parts; the one, to offer the Mediation of the Conservators of the Peace of the Kingdom, for the Composure of the Differences between his Majefly and the two Houses; the other, to defire his Majesty that he would fummon a Parliament in Scotland. Answer to the first Demand of Mediation; His Majesty told him, " That he could not find any colour or " pretence of Authority granted by the Act of Pacification, by which the Commissioners for Scotland could conceive themselves interested in a Faculty of Mediation; that the Clause mentioned by them related only to the Differences that might grow between the two Nati-" ons, which his Majefly faid had Dddd " been been and should be inviolably obferved by him; and therefore he could not admit of any fuch Mediation as they proposed. For the Other Demand, of a Parliament in Scotland: The King told him and the rest of the Commissioners, against the Time by which they " could legally demand a Parliament, " naming the Day, which was to be " on the first Tuesday of June 1644, " he would iffue out his Writs, and " there being no emergent Cause to do it fooner, he would forbear to put his Subjects there to that "Trouble, which those Meetings " (how necessary soever) would naturally carry with them. So his Lordship perceiving that he should not receive Satisfaction in either of these Proposals, at last returned home re infecta.

In the 1644, when his Majesty did renew his Offer of Peace to the two Houses of Parliament, which they likewise agreeing to, and Uxbridge being assigned for the Place of Meeting, the Chanceslour, the Earl of Lawderdale, Sir Charles Erskine, and Mr. Robert Barclay Member of Parliament for the Burgh of Irvine, and Mr. Alexander Henderson (in Matters only which related to the Church) were sent Commissioners from Scotland: But that Treaty unhappily coming to nothing, a bloody civil War thereupon ensued.

When the King put himself into the Scots Army before Newwork, and the English positively demanded the Delivery up of the King's Person, the Earl of Lowdon was appointed to treat with the Parliament of England about that important Assair, where, in a free Conference with the two Houses, he publickly declared, "That an eternal Insamy would by upon the whole Nation, if they should deliver up the Person of the King, the securing of which was equally their Duty, as it was the

"Parliament's, and the Difpotal of his Person in order to that Security, did equally belong to them as to the Parliament: However he faid, he would use all the Personal in the mount of could with the King, that his Macient is the propositions the Parliament had fent to him.

In the 1647, the Lord Chancel: lour was one of the Commissioners appointed to attend the King from the Parliament of Scotland, while he was at the Isle of Wight, to treat with his Majesty anent a full Accomodation on with that Kingdom, and which they at last concluded on Terms of great Advantage to the Nation; in Recompense of which, the Chancellour and his Collegues undertook to raife an Army to rescue and relieve his Majesty from the Captivity he was then under, and to restore him to his just Rights, and that no Time might be loft, as foon as the Treaty was figned, the Chancellour departed for Scotland, where (at first) he used his outmost Endeavours to procure such Persons to be elected Members to the Parliament, as he knew to be most inclined to the Service in hand, in which the Honour of the Country was so much concerned.

When the Parliament met on the 2d! of March 1648 (a), the Lord Chancels lour was chosen President of the Convention, wherein he employed all his Power and Interest to bring the Parliament to comply with the Engagement & declare for the King; & tho the Affair met with great Opposition, yet the Resolution was carried in putting the Country in a Posture Defence, and raifing an Army to relieve the King. I need not here recount the Fate of that Army which marched into England under the Conduct of the Duke of Hamilton, nor how unfuccesfull it proved for the Defign it was in.

tended. All I shall further observe is, that as there had been a Party in the Parliament whom the King's Conceffions did not fatisfy, fothey declared against the Engagement as unlawfull and ungodly, and the violent Party of the Clergy joining with them, they passed an Act against the Engagers, that was, all those who had been the Promoters of it, ranking them into feveral Classes, whereby they were excluded from all Offices of publick Trust, and vote in Parliament till they had fatisfied the Church by a publick Pro fession of their Repentance, for their Accession to the unlawfull Engagement as it was called.

When the Parliament met, after the Murder of King Charles I. the Lord Chancellour was chosen President of that Seffion, who by their 14. Act, proclaimed King Charles II. 'Tis beyond all Doubt the Chancellour gave all imaginable Affiftance he could to bring over the King from Holland, and to raise the Army that marched with his Majesty into England, but that Army being unhappily deleated at Worcester, and the Usurpers absolutely prevailing over all the three Kingdoms; the Chancellour was not only outed of his Office, but was forced. for the Security of his Person, to fly to the Highlands, where he lay concealed, till the Earl of Glencairn by vertue of his Majesty's Commission drew together a fmall Body of Horse and Foot for his Majesty's Service, that the Earl of Lowdon repaired to him, for which he was forfeited by the Powers that then prevailed; and thereafter when Cromwel granted an Indemnity to the People of Scotland, both the Earl of Lowdon & the Lord Ma. chline his Son were particularly excep-After which his Lordship the Chancellour continued in the Hills till Retirement, till it pleased God to bring back King Charles II. to his Throne, which the Lord Lowdon did not long furvive, for he died in the Beginning of the 16631. This noble Lord left Issue by Margaret Baroness of Lowdon, his Wife atorefaid, James his Successor, Lady Jean married to George Earl of Panmure, Lady Anne to John Lord Balmerino.

Which James married Margaret Daughter of Hugh Earl of Eglingtoun, and dying Anno 1683, left Islue, Hugh his Successor in the Honour, Colonel John Campbel of Shankstoun, and Colonel James Campbel, Colonel of the Royal Gray-Dragoons, likewife four Daughters.

Hugh Earl of Lowdon being a Noble? man of Parts and Abilities, was first constitued one of the Lords of the Privy-Council to King William, and then named one of the Extraordinary Lords of the Seffion Anno 1600.

In 1704 his Lordship was made one of the Lords of the Thefaury, and one of her Majesty's Knights of the most noble Order of the Thistle: and the next enfuing Year her Majesty Queen Anne was pleased to prefer him to be one of the principal Secretary's of State: In which Station his Lordthip ferved first in Conjunction with the Marques of Annandale, and thereafter with the Earl of Mar, to the general Satisfaction of all Men, and the univerfal Approbation of the whole Nation, till after the Union of the all Hope of ferving the King was given Kingdom, that in the 1708 the Scots over, that he capitulated to lay down Secretary-Office was taken away; in his Arms, and live quietly at his own Lieu of which, his Lordship was made House, which he did in a Country Lord Keeper of the Great Seal, which

After the Accession of King George to the Crown, the Earl of Lowdon was made Lord Lieutenant of Air (bire, Anno 1715. And I cannot but remark that this noble Lord has ever been fince the Union, and now is one of the most honourable Privy-Council of Great Britain. LYLE, Lord Lyle.

Some who have enquired into the Antiquity of Sirnames with much Curiofity, think that the first Ancestor of this Family was one of those Scotsmen who sted from the Usurpation of Mackbeath into England, and returned with Edgar Atheling and his Sister the Princess Margaret, afterward Wife to King Malcolm Cammore, upon the Invasion by William the Conqueror, and got Possessing in the Isle of Bute, in the Western Parts of this Realm, from whence they took the Demonation of Le Isle, which they kept after they came to be fettled upon the Continent at Duchal-Castle in Renfrew shire. Tho I have not seen directly any Mention of them till King William's Time, that William de Isle is one of the Winesses to that Deed, which Walterus Dapiter Regis made to the Monks of Paisles, when he sounded that Convent of the Lands of Espinder (a). He is the same Person, as I take it, who is one of the Barons taken Prisoner with King William at the Battle of Alnwick (b) on the 13th July 1174.

The next in order of Succession, if not his Son, to be taken notice of is Radulphus de Isle, who is a Witness to the Donation, which Baldwin de Bigris, Sherist of Lanerk made to the Abbot and Convent of Paisley, and to the Monks serving GOD there, as the Gift bears, in pure Alms, Ecclesian de Innerkip cum tota illa terra inter tumulos ubi Ecclesia est fundata, ita libere sicut di-Richard in Monachi possident reliquas Ecclesias deStrath-Griet, ex dovo Walteri filii Alani Dapiferi Regis Scotia.

The next of this Lineage is Alanus de Isle, who is a Witness to that Excambion which Walter High Steward of Scotland made of the Lands of Kylingtown for the Lands of Innerweek, the Tithes of which he made over to the Abbot of Paisley, for the Welfare of himfelf and his Successors, both here and hereafter (c). He is also to be found in the Consistant which Alexander High Steward of Scotland made to the Monks of Paisley, of all the Donations made by himself or his Ancestors down to that Period of Time, in the Year of our Lord 1151.

Radulphus de Isla, Insula, dominus de Ducbal, probably the Son of the former, is Witness to the Vendition of the Lands of Alding soun to the Abbot of Paisley, and his Title being added to the Sirname, is an undoubted Evidence that he was then a very remarkable Person; for I cannot but observe, that this is the very sirst time I have sound any in the Western Parts adding a local Title to the Sirname.

In the grand Competition betwixt Bruce and Baliol for the Crown, Sir Walter Lyle was upon the Bruce's Side, as his Friend and Namesake; Sir. Allan Lyle was upon the Baliol's afterward, and adhered to the Interest of Edward Baltol, in all the Turns of the Times: In Consideration whereof, upon his coming to the Crown, he made him Sheriff and Governor of Bute, and Lord High Chamberlain of Scotland (a). But whether this Sir Alan Lyle was the Head and Representative, or only a Branch of the Family, I do not know; however it is certain, that John Lyle of Duchal was in Favour with King David Bruce, in the 39th of whose Reign he had a Grant to himself and Margaret de Vauß his Wife, of the King's Lands of Buch: guhan, in the County of Stirling, and to their Heirs (b): After which he obtained the Honour of Knighthood: for I have found him designed Joannes de Lyle Dominus de Duchal Mi les, in a Charter of Confirmation by Alan Erskine of Baruchan to Sir Ro bert Erskine, of the Lands of Dunerbook and Achintorly, in the End of King David's Reign. Heleft a Son

John, whom I have found design'd Filia & heredi apparent Joannis Lyle de Duchal, militis, in Charters of King Robert II. when Earl of Strathern, He married a Lady who was one of the Co-heirs of the Earldom of Mar, tho' I know not precifely who she was: But in her Right the Lord Lyle, in the Time of King James II. laid Claim to a Part of that Estate, and from thenceforth added the Coat of Mar to his Paternal Arms. This John was succeeded by his Son

Robert Lyle, filled Chevalier de Duchal, in the Letters of fafe Conduct that were granted by the King of England, to a Number of great Men of Scotland, to come into his Dominions in the 1422, to wait on King

James home, when he was relieved from his Captivity out of England. I find he was also one of the Hostages for the King's Ranfom (c). the King possessed himself of the Earldom of Mar, upon the Death of Alexander Stewart Earl of Mar, who was not born in lawful Marriage he put in his Claim as one of the Heirs of that Earldom, to which he and the Lord Erskine should have fucceeded by Right and Proximity of Blood, as Fordon's Continuator fays, Anno 1438, Obiit Alexander Stewart Comes de Marr, & quia Bastardus erat, Rex illi successit, quamvis jure hareditario Domini Erskine & Lyle successisse debuissent. 'Tis probable the King componed with Sir Robert Lyle about his Right, for in all the Disputes betwixt the King and the Lord Erskine about his Claim to the Half of the Earldom of Marr. there is no Mention made of his Title. He married Daughter of Sir William Stewart of Castlemilk; (d) by whom he had Robert his Son and Heir, who in the Reign of King James II. was raised to the Peerage of this Realm, by the Title of Lord Lyle: For in a Charter of Lands by him to Sir John de Ross of Haulkhead, Anno 1445, he is designed Do minus de Douchal; and in a Confirmation of the fame Charter, under the Great Seal in the Year 1458, he is designed, Dilectus Consanguineus Noster Robertus Dominus Lyle, which doth plainly show the Time he was rais'd to the Honour; after which he had fundry Grants from the Crown, particularly of the Royal Castle of Resfrew, with the Orchards and Meadows, for the Payment of a Tack-duty of FivePounds yearly to the King's Exchequer (e). He founded a Hermitage at Syde, within the Barony of Duchal, and a Chantry within the Abbey Church of Paifly, for celebrating Divine Service Ееее

In the 1472, being then one of the King's Privy Council, he was joined in Commission with diverse Lords and Barons, to treat upon a Truce with the English; which being concluded, he was again named one of the Ambassadors on the Part of Scotland, to treat of a Marriage betwixt the Prince of Scotland, and Anne Daughter of John Duke of Suffolk: At which times a Truce was agreed on between the two Nations, from the 29 September 1484, for the full Term of three Years thereafter (c). he being named one of the Confervators thereof. Likewise in May 1488 he was one of the Commissioners lent into England, to treat with that State, anent the keeping of a firm and lasting Peace betwixt the two Crowns. Before their return Home, the King being killed at the Battle of Stirling, his Lordship was by Act of Parliament appointed one of the Privy Council to King James IV. (d). and constituted Justice General by South the River of Forth (e).

But notwithstanding of these Promotions, his Lordship being districted with the Measures that had been taken in Reference to the late King, he together with Matthew Master of Lennox took up Arms, in order to revenge his Death, but was defeated in the Attempt by the Lord Drummond 5 for which he was forfeited; But again restored upon the general Indemnity. Anno 1491, and reftored to be Justiciary by South the Water of Forth (f). MAR, Earl of Mar.

E shall look no further back in to the Antiquity of this noble illustrious Family, than the Reign of King Alexander I. in the feventh Year of which 1114, Grainach Comes Earl of Mar was one of the Nobles who gave their Assent to that Prince's founding the Priory of Scoon for Augustine Monks (a), which is all I have difcovered of him.

This Earl imitated the Piety of the King in his Liberality to the Church; for he gave Deo & Ecclefia Sancti Andrea & Canonicis ibidem Deo servientibus & servituris Ecclesiam fancti Mathulnoth de Thartulend, cum decimis & oblationibus eidem Ecclesia pertinentibus cum Molendino in eadem terra fundato, Gunam carrucatam terra que dicitur Gochilftoun. pro salute anima sua, & Agnetis Comitissa sponsa mez omnium antecessorum & successorum meorum in perpetuum (c). By the faid Agnes his Wife he had three Sons, Gilchrift and Duncan, successively Earls of Mar, & Malcolm who ratified and confirmed the Grant of the Church of Mulnoth, to the Priory of St. Andrew's (a). In which Deed he's designed Malcolmus filius Morgundi Comitis de Mar.

Gilchrift Earl of Mar made a considerable Figure in the time of King William, he is a frequent Witness in the Deeds of that Prince to the Episcopal See of Marray, to which he was himfelf a Benefactor by his Gift of the Church of Aberdour, which had been formerly in dispute between him and Brice Bishop of Murray, they both making over their respective Claims to the Monks of Dumfermling at the King's special Instance (e). Earl of Mar.

Ltho 'tis not above three hundred Years fince the Erskines had any Title to the Earldom of Marr, ver this illustrious Family confidered in it felf is very great and eminent, if many great Employments and Perferments they have been honoured with these four Hundred Years past, and tho I cannot show the precise Time when, or by whom the Name was first assumed, yet 'tis certain, it was derived from the Barony of Erskine in the Shire of Renfrew, and so being a local Sirname, is of Confequence very ancient; tho the first mention I have found of them, is no higher than the Time of King Alexander II. in the 12th of whose Reign Henry de Erskine is Witness in the Gift which Amelick Brother of Maldwin, Earl of Lennox, made to the Chanons of Paifly of the Patronage of the Church of Roseneth, with the Tithes thereunto belonging; for the welfare of the King his Sovereign Lord (b). Sir John de Erskine Knight his Successor is a Witness to that Donation, which Walter Stewart Earl of Montieth made to the Abbot of Paifly of the Church of St. Colmonel, for the Good of his Soul, according to the Devotion of those Days (c). He was the Father of Sir John de Erskine, and he of William, who fucceeded him in the Barony of Erskine, and of John who obtained a Grant from James High Steward of Scotland of fundry Lands within his Tenement of Largis; in which Deed he's defigned Joannes de Erskine filius Joannis de Erskine filii 🕄 beredis Joannis de Erskine Militis (d). referving the Lands which William the Son of Sir John Erskine, held of him there.

Sir William Erskine the next of this Noble Family, was a forward Afferter of the Right of King Robert Bruce, to whose Interest faithfully adhering, he we respect either its Antiquity, or the was one of those Patriots, who in the

Which Sir Robert Erskine of Erskine being a Person well versed both in Peace and War, was no less conspicuous for his firm and stedfast Loyalty to King David, than his Father had been to King Robert, even when his Interest was at the very lowest, and the Usurper Baliol upon the Throne: for as foon as the Loyalifts took the Fields, and Declared for their lawful Sovereign, Sir Robert Erskine joined the Lord High Steward and other Patriots, who fought with, and defeated the Rebels, and thereby recovered a great part of the Country to the King's Obedience; for which he was afterward rewarded as his fingular Merit deferved.

When a Treaty was fet on Foot for redeeming King David from Captivity, when he was taken Prisoner at the Battle of Durham Anno 1346, Sir Robert Erskine Lord of Erskine, as he is called in the Record, was one of the Commissioners employed in that honourable Negotiation (b); but that Treaty not taking effect, he was always one of the Plenipotentiaries that were appointed for the same pur-

1357, that Robert Lord High Steward, Guardian of Scotland, then commissioned Sir Robert Erskine and other Noble Persons to treat about the Redemption of the King, and a final Peace with the English Nation, who at length agreed, that King David should be released, set free, and ransomed for 100000 Merks Sterling Money, to be paid Yearly by 10000 Merks, till the whole Sum was paid; to which no Man feems to have contributed more frankly than Sir Robert, and gave his eldest Son one of the Hostages for Performance of the Treaty (c). This fignal Loyalty to his diffressed Sovereign could not fail to be nobly rewarded; and therefore his Majesty. no fooner returned home, than he constituted him Justiciary for the Northern District of Scotland Anno 1359 (d), and the fame Year he was appointed to go upon a folemn Embaffy to France, to renew the ancient League betwixt the two Crowns, Sir John Grant and Norman Lefly Efg: being his Colleagues (e). Also in the 1364 he was appointed one of the Commissioners to treat about a final Peace with those named by the King of England for the same effect, when a Truce was prorogued betwixt the two Nations (f); not long after which. Sir Robert Erskine was constituted Lord High Chamberlain, in place of Mr. Walter Biggar Parson of Errol (g), in the 40th of his Reign, and made High Sheriff of the County, and Governour of the Castle of Stirling during Life (b), likewise of Edinburgh and Dumbartoun. All which he had under his Command at the Death of the King Anno 1371 (i), when he declared for King Robert II. which Contripose, and renewed every Year, tho buted not a little to bring that Prince all of them were unsuccessful till the peaceably to the Throne, and to extinguish

John Lord Erskin was a Person of fucli noble Nature generous Difposition, and other bright Qualities, as rendred him very capable of acting the Part of a most consummate Statesman, which he did afterward in the highest and most eminent Stations a Subject could attain to. Being at first

his Claim was allowed and ratified by Act of Parliament: And tho' my Lord Mar was a very zealous Protestant, 'tis worthy our Remark, Queen Mary trufted him as much as the could have done any of her own Profession, which she did eminently manifest by the Confidence she repo. fed in him, for as foon as the was happily delivered of the Prince, James VI. her Majetty committed him to the Tuition and Cultody of the Earl, in the Castle of Edinburgh, then under his Command, and he discharged that great Trust so well, and was so much fuperior to all Tentations of Infidelity that when the Earl of Bothwell had married the Queen, he could not prevail with my Lord Mar, either by Promifes or Menaces, to deliver up the Prince to him, which was the Thing in the World, that wicked Earl had fet his Heart most upon, when 'tis known his Lordship could have made his own Terms: In the End, when Bothwell found all his Offers rejected, he was glad to allow the Earl to carry the Prince to Stirling. My Lord Mar bore no publick Office in the State till the 1571, that upon the Death of Matthew Earl of Lennox, the Regent, the Earl of Mar, was a Nobleman fo generally well effected, that he was, by the unanimous Confent of the King's Party, chosen Regent of Scotland, in his Room, Sept. 5, 1571. In which great Office he had, fays one, Less Satisfaction than he expected, for when he had strugled no less under the turbulent Councils of his own Party, than the Infolencies of his Adversaries, died for very Grief, after he had governed only Thirteen Months, upon the 28th of October 1572, and left behind him jo unblemished a Reputation, as cannot be very easily parallel'd in the like Circumstances: He was interr'd in the Vault of his Family, among his Ancestors, in the Paroch Church of Alloa, under a plain Monument, without any other Infeription, than fignifying him to be the Person there interr'd.

To John Earl of Mar succeeded 1582; his Lordship being then either Side, for his particular Province that he would remove Sir James Stewart, who then stiled himself Earl of Arran, from his Councils, being a Person of evil Fame, and Disaffection to the publick Peace of the Kingdom, and an Instrument of Discontent between the King and his Nobility: But the Way and Manner of that Enterprize being afterwards adjudged treafonable, the Earl was obliged to give up the Command of Stirling-Cattle, and to leave his Majesty's Dominions, which he did, and transporting himfelf into Ireland, from whence he came over to England, and joined the the Lord Hamiltoun, and others who had been outlaw'd during the Regency of the Earl of Mortoun, with whom he returned to Scotland Anno 1585, when he obtained his Majesty's Pardon, was restored to his Command of Stirling-Castle, and to a more than ordinary Share of his Majesty's Favour, which his Lordship never afterward forfaulted by any undutiful Behaviour.

In the 1593, when it pleased God to blefs his Majesty with a Son, Prince Henry, the King reposing full Confidence in his Lordship's Fidelity, committed the Tuition of his Royal Highness to him, and his Majesty was at the fame Time pleased to write with his own Hand the following Letter to

TAMES, by the Grace of GOD, King of Great-Britain, France. and Ireland, &c. Whereas it is not unknown, that upon just and necessary Con. siderations, we did commit in the Year of our Lord 1596, the Custody of the Prince our Son, to our Right Trusty and wellbeloved Coufin and Councellor, the Earl of Mar, as well in Regard of our Secuvity, which consisteth in his Security, as in Respect there was none more fit to take that Charge than the Earl, of whose Sincerity in Religion, Affection and Fidelity to our Person, to our State, together with his Discretion and Judgment, we have had so good Experience, having now otherwise resolved to dispose of him, and considering how just and necessary it is for us to give as ample a Discharge to our Cufin, the Earl of Mar, as may be. We do therefore first declare to all Persons what soever, by these Presents, That we have very great Caufe most graciously to allow of that great Care which he hath shewed in providing for his vertuous Education. Next, That he hath observed our Directions for his Delivery. And lastly, That he hath been received in so good State of Health and Constitution of Body and Mind, that we have Occasion not only to take Comfort in God's Favour thereby, fo confirmed to us, but do now testifie and declare by Vertue of these present Letters, that we do discharge, acquit, and exonerate against us, our Heirs, and Successors, our Jaid Cousin, the Earl of Mar, concerning the Education and Delivery of our Son, as foresaid, and do hereby notifie to the World, that we have received full, and intire Satisfaction, answerable to the Trust reposed in him, and are resolved to lay it How the Earl discharged this up in Memory, as a Record of his congreat Trust, will best appear from stant Love and Duty towards us, and taking Neither are we to forget, That in the 1601, his Majesty sent him Ambassador to Queen Elizabeth, to congratulate that Princefs, upon her fuppressing the audacious Attempt of the Earl of Esfex: In which Negotiation, his Lordship deported himself with fuch Prudence and Conduct, that he brought the Principals of the English Ministry to favour his Majesty's Succession to that Crown, which took Effect in less than Two Years there after; which, upon another Occasion, his Majesty did very gratefully acknowledge, and own, that next to the Goodness of God, he ascribed to the Earl of Mar's last Negotiation in that Kingdom, his peaceable Accession to the Crown of England.

His Majesty, upon his Accession to the Crown of England, did not forget to dispense his Royal Favours to his Lordship: More particularly, he began with conferring the Garter u pon him, the Enfigns of which he was invested with on St. George's Day, April 23d, 1603, and shortly thereafter caused him to be sworn of his Majefly's most honourable Privy-Council of England, and made him a Grant of fundry Abbacies and other Church-Lands then dissolved from the Crown. But his Majesty being still more and more delirous to confer Honours on his Lordship, graciously pleased to constitute him Lord High Freasurer of Scotland, upon the Removal of Sir Robert Ker, Earl of Somerfet, and had the White-Staff delivered to him, on the 2d of December 1615, in which Office he demean'd himself so well, that he did his Master much Service, and preserved himself in the good Opinion and Acceptation of the whole Nation; and horn.

he had the Treafury fo full at the King's coming down to Scotland, in 1617, that the Court were entertain'd with the greatest Magnificence imaginable, out of the Profits of the Crown, and it was observed by the English Nobility, who attended the King in that Progress, that his Majesty appear'd with no less Lusture at Holy-Rood-House than at Whitehall. He continu'd in the Treasurer's Place till the 1630, his Lordship being grown aged and infirm, he refigned the Office, which was immediately put into the Hands of the Earl of Mortoun, and declining to be put into any other publick Employment, he retired to his Scat in the Country, where Death pur a Period to his Days, on the 16th of December, 1635, aged 79.

Lady Martha, to John, Earl of King-

Haddingtoun.

John, Earl of Mar, was made One of the Knights of the Bath, at the Creation of Henry, Prince of Wales, on the 30th of May, 1610, and thereafter, July 20th, 1615, he was fworn of his Majesty's most honourable Privy-Council, and named One of the Senators of the College of Juffice: Which Station he prodently and faithfully discharged till the 1626, his Lordship was removed upon a general Statute That no Peer could be an Ordinary Lord of the Sellion. Whether it was this or any other A& of Unkindness he met with from the Court, I cannot fay, but'tis certain, upon the first Appearance of the Troubles in 1638, his Lordship being then Governor of Edinburgh-Castle, his Majesty did not feem to be absolutely satisfied of the Affection of the Earl to his Service, and therefore removed him from that Command, and put the Castle into the Hands of Major General Ruthven, as a Person on whom he could firmly rely, and yet his Majesty was willing that his Lordship's Remove might not be attended with any Act of Difobligation, and therefore gave him 3000 lib. which the Marquis of When Hamiltoun gave Security for. the Civil War broke out, he apply'd himself with great Resolution and Fidelity to the King's Service, and therefore was reckon'd among the first Rank of Malignants, and fuffer'd accordingly.

He married Jean, Daughter of Francis, Earl of Errol, by whom he had John, his Successor in the Honour, and a Daughter, Elizabeth, married to Archibald, Lord Napier; and departing this Life in the 1654, was fon of Bannockburn, Bart.

In 1708, the Queen named his Lordship of her most honourable Privy Council, and striking in with the Earl of Oxford, on the Change of the Ministry, he was in 1713, prefer'd to be Third Secretary of Great-Britain, which had been vacant from the Death of the Duke of Queensberry; in which eminent Station his Lord ship continued till after the Death of his Mittriffs the Queen. The King, in Confideration of a Competitors did, but kept up his great Sum of Money, say they, a Part of which he actually received, had contracted his eldeft Son, the Prince, to Elizabeth Dunbar, the Earl of March's Daughter: But Archbald, Earl of Douglas, having endeavoured all he could to obstruct the Marriage, and having great Interest with the King at the Time, prevailed with his Majesty to rescind the former Contract, and to land befouth the River of Forth, upon substitute the Lady Marjory Douglas, his own Daughter, in Place of Elizabeth Dunbar. George, Earl of March, his Son, was one of those noble Persons employ'd to treat with the Englifb, Anno. 1423, about the Relief of King James I. which at last was successful, and happily terminated in the King's Re demption, (b) at the Solemnity of whose Coronation he had the Honour of Knighthood among other Noblernen conferr'd on him : But afterward the King calling to Mind the long and obstinate Rebellion of the Earl's Father against his Father, committed him Prisoner to Edinburgh-Castle, and gave Orders to feize his Castle of Dunbar: And to shew, that he meant to do nothing contrary to Law, he ap pointed a Parliament to meet at Perth. the 10th of January 1434. The next Day, both the King as Purfuer, and the Earl, stilled Sir George Dunbar, as Defendant, compeared by their Procurators. Yet fuch was the King's Bounty towards the poor Earl, that commiserating his low Condition, his Majetty was graciously pleased to give him a Pension out of the Earldom of Buchan, which supported him according to his Quality, during his Life.

The Earldom of March being thus annexed to the Crown, it therein remained till the 1478, King James III. gave it to his Brother Alexander, Duke of Albany; which he having forfaulted by his unnatural Rebellion, it was again unite in the Crown, where it continued till King James VI. revived the Title, and bellowed it upon his Uncle, the Bishop of Cathness, in Liew of the Earldom of Lennox.

HUME.

Earl of Marchmont

Surnames given for Difference of Families, and continued as hereditary, were used by no People antiently but the Romans. This Custom, the Learned observe, they took up after the League with the Sabines, and call'd fuch Names Nomina, or Nomi. na Gentilitia. The English and we call them Surnames, not as if they HE Title of Earl of March, lay were the Name of the Sire or Father. dormant for the Space of One but because they are superadded to the fame Sense, as Oven Ap Harry; and He married Jean, Daughter of John, our Ancestors made Use of Mac to the first Marquis of Twadel, and depar- same Purpose as Donald MacDonald, and fo on. About the Year of our! Lord 1000, Surnames began to be taken up in France; in England about the Time of the Conquest, and with us in Scotland, not before the Time of King Malcolm Kanmore. And I have observed, at first Surnames were only us'd by the better Sort, and that they were not fully fettled among the common People till about the Time of King Robert I.

The most ancient Surnames are local, with de before them, as Patrick de Dunbar, Archibaldus de Douglas, Willielmus de Hume, Reginaldus de Crawford, Patricius de Polworth, (a) having been either the patrimonial Possessions or Birth-Places of great Persons. In Scotland infinite Numhers of Families have had their Surnames from Places; for it is a fufficient Proof, fays Mr. Camden, of antient Descent, when the Inhabitant hath the Name from the Place he inhabiteth. According to this Custom, the Proprietors of the Barony of Polwarth, in the County of Berwick, affumed a Surhim from Sir Alexander Seatoun of Patrick Hume, Efq; Son of Sir Da-Wintoun, in frank Marriage with Eva vid Hume, first Baron of Wedderburn, his Sister, as the Deed yet extant younger Son of Sir Thomas Hume doth confirm (b). He left Issue Patrick of that Ilk. With her he got the his Successor in the Barony of Polwarth, Barony of Polwarth, and thereupon and Adam, who by a folemn Deed took a Cross ingrail'd, Azure, the Coat cognato suo, totum tenementum illud quod frater suus Patricius de Polworth dedit sibi in faudo de Dunipace, in excambium quatuor accrarum terre in faudo de Wedderly (c). From this Time the Family of Polwarth continued in the direct male Line till the Reign of King Robert II. that Sir Patrick de Polwarth, Kt. having no Heir male of his Body, married his only Daughter Elizabeth to Sir John Sinclair of Herdmanfoun. Kt. the Heir of a very ancient and nobly ally'd Family of the Sinclairs, in whose Favours he resigned his Lands and Barony of Polwarth, on the 12th of November 1377 (d). By her he had Sir William Sinclair of Herd. manstoun and Polwarth his Son and Heir, Father of another Sir John Sinclair of Herdmanstoun, whose Son and Heir apparent John Sinclair Efg; obtained a Charter from King James II. on the 27th of July, 1444, to himfelf and Catharine Hume his Wife, Daughter of Sir Thomas Hame of that Ilk, of the Barony of Polwarth, and to their Heirs: But he dying without Male name from their own Lands, when Issue, the Barony of Herdmanstoun, local Appellations were first assumed, by Reason of an Entail to Heirs Male, tho' I have not found any Mention of fell to Sir William Sinclair his Brother, them sooner than the Time of King and Polwarth and Kimmergham to his Alexander II. in the End of whose Two Daughters, Marion the elder Reign, Adam de Polworth de Polworth, marrying Sir George Hume of Wed-Kt. had the Lands of Beeth given derburn, and Margaret the Younger made over Domino David de Grame of Sinclair, and three Piles ingrail'd Kkkk

⁽a) Many curious and judicious Remarks have been made by Patrick the first Earl of Marchmont, in an Essay by his Lordship on Surnames in Mr. Collier's Dictionary, wherein is interspersed an unusual Variety of useful and curious Observations worthy so noble and celebrated an Author. and which the Reader will find to be very diverting as well as instructing; and in both Respects highly deserving his diligent Perusal. The first Ancestor of the Sinclairs of Herdmanstoun in Lothian, as appears from the Writs of that Family, was Henry de Sancto Claro, who got the Lands of Herdmanstoun from Richard Morvile, Constable of Scotland, before the Year 1162, whose Successor was Sir William Sinclair, who by Margaret his Wife, Daughter of Sir William Sinclair of Roslin, Sister to Henry, first Earl of Orkney, had Sir John his Son and Heir, who married Elizabeth, Daughter and Heir of Sir Patrick de Polwarth of that Ilk.

This Sir Patrick Hame being a warlike Man, gave many fignal Proofs of his Valour, on feveral Occasions; more particularly he fignaliz'd himfelf at the Siege of Roxburgh, where King James II. was flain, and in most of the other Actions betwixt the Scots and the English in his Time. By the foresaid Margaret Sinclair his Wife, he had Patrick his Son and Heir, who inherited his Father's Valour and martial Qualities, as well as his Fortune. Being a Baron of great Power and Authority on the Borders, the Duke of Albany, when he was forming his unnatural Rebellion against his own Brother King James III. thought to fecure the Laird of Polwarth to his Interest, by giving him Lands and other Favours (a): But the Duke no fooner invaded his native Country by the Assistance of an English Army, than he joined the King's Forces, and did his Majesty so notable and eminent Services, that he had the same Lands confirmed to him by a Charter under the Great Seal, wherein his Services in relifting the English Invasion are fet forth in very honourable Terms (b). He made a very great Figure in the Time of King James IV. was much in that Prince's Favour, who bestowed upon him many Lands in the Counties of Stirling and Perth, and at last preferred him to be Comptroler of Scotland in the 1499 (c), which Office he discharged with sin-Ilk, and Isobel Abbess of North Bergular Ability and Integrity, till the 1502. Being aged, he was removed, Lady to the Family. and John Stirling of Craigbarnet put in his Room; and departing this mortal married Elizabeth, Daughter of Sir Life Anno 1504, was interr'd with his Patrick Hepburn of Wauchtoun (1). By Ancestors in the Collegiat-Church her he had Three Sons, Patrick, who of Dunglass.

He married first Margaret, Daughter of Sir John Edmondstown of that Ilk (d), by whom he had Alexander his Successor; Secondly, Helen, Daugter of Sir James Shaw of Sauchie (e), Widow of Archbald Halibarton, Efg; Son and Heir apparent of George Lord Dirletoun: By her he had George, first of the Line of the Humes of Argathy in Stirling-Shire; likewife four Daughters, Alison married to Sir James Shaw of Sauchie (f), Janet to Sir Andrew Kerr of Ferniehirst, Ancestor to to the present Marquis of Lothian (g), Marion to Sir William Baillie of Lamingtoun, and Margaret, who render'd herself religious, and was Abbess of the Nunnery of North-Berwick.

Alexander Hume, 3d Baron of Polworth, of that Name, by his good Occonomy and other virtuous Means, very confiderably augmented his Fortune, which he made a Fund for the Provifion of his younger Sons, and took care to let his paternal Inheritance descend intire to the Heir of his Family. His first Wife was Margaret, Daughter to Robert Lord Crichtoun of Sanquhar, Ancestor to the Earl of Dumfries (b): 2dly, he married Margaret, Daughter of Robert Lander of Bass; and departing this Life in the End of the 1532, as appears from the Probate of his Testament, he left Issue, Patrick his Son and Heir, Alexander, of whom fprung the Humes of Heugh, Gavin Hume, first of the Branch of Rhodes; alfo Three Daughters, Margaret, married to Patrick Hepburn of Craig (i), Catharine to Robert Pringle of that wick (k), who was a very bountiful

Patrick Hume the next Baron of Polwarth, was zealous for the Reformation of Religion. I find he was one of those who in the 1560, entred into a mutual League and Bond of Affociation to promote the fincere Preaching of the Word, and to defend the Teachers thereof (d). When the Civil War broke out, he was on the young King's Side, as most of the Professors of the Reform'd Religion were. and was unfortunately flain in a Conflict by a Party who appeared for Queen Mary, at Cairny, 2d June, 1571 (e), leaving Isfue by Agnes his Wife, Daughter of Alexander Hume of Mander stoun, Ancestor of George Earl of Dumbar, Lord High Treasurer of Scotland, in the Reign of K. In the 1665, he was chosen Knight of the Shire for the County of Berwick to the Parliament, wherein he ferv'd with distinguishing Zeal for the Liberties of his Country, and upon every Occasion oppos'd and contradicted all Taxes and Impolitions on the Subjech, that were not exactly according to Law.

In 1676, the Privy Council having arbitrarily imposed a Tax upon the Shire of Berwick, that was not altogether legal, Sir Patrick Hume was chosen to remonstrate against it, and to apply to the Lords of Seffion for Redress in the ordinary Course of Justice; which was so highly resented by the Council, as an Act of Infolence, and a Contempt of their Authority, to fubmit to their Sentence: But Sir Patrick infifting on the Legality of the Throne, Sir Patrick Hume having what he had done, and absolutely refor what he thought so solemn an Act | ceffor to the Crown, which was the of his Duty, his Attendance was Sourse of all his Troubles, and King continued from Day to Day, to his James having made open Profession of tained his Liberty.

After this, Sir Patrick went to Engin all Vertue, took great Care of his land; but the Malice and Animofity of the chief Ministers of State was fo great against him, that assoon as the Court had Notice of his being at London, it was refolved he should be apprehended and imprisoned as a Man worthy of their Fear; tho' they could not charge him with any Practices that were not precifely agreeable to the Duty of a good and faithful Subject, but only a Suspicion of his Difaffection to the Government from the Company he haunted, the Principals of whom were the Barl of Shaftsbury and the Lord Ruffel, his near Relation. But Sir Patrick having got timeous Warning of the Defign of the Court, thought it his most advisable Course, to step out of the Way, and travelling beyond Sea he retired to Geneva, from whence he came down to Holland, where he was received with great Kindness and Generofity by the Prince of Orange, who looked on him as a Confessor for the Protestant Religion, and the Liberties that he was ordered to crave Pardon of his Country. Here he fojourn'd in the most submissive Manner, and till the Death of King Charles II.

The Prince had so great an Esteem of his Sincerity to the Protestant Religion, and of his Fidelity and Affection to his Highness's Design, that he thought fit particularly to confult with Sir Patrick in that difficult Juncture: And when the Government was dissolved, upon King James's withdrawing into France, Sir Patrick Hume was one of the most leading and forward in the Address from Scotland to the Prince of Orange, to take upon him the Administration of Affairs both Civil and Military, till a Meeting of the Estates should be call'd to fettle the Nation; which his Highness having call'd, Sir Patrick was chosen a Member thereof for the Shire of Berwick, wherein he became very instrumental in bringing about the Revolution, and in procuring the Settling of very Patent creating his Lordship in-

And that his Lordship might have the more Interest in his own County, and appear the more confiderable there, their Majesties King William and Queen Mary, were pleased to constitute him Sherisf Principal of Bernick-Shire, on the 2d of Octob: 1692. And to aggrandize him more and more, he was named one of the Four Extraordinary Lords of the Seffion, and took his Place accordingly the 28th of November 1693, But these Employments being mostly honorary, that his Lordship might a little more effectually tafte of the Royal Bounty, his Majesty was pleased to prefer him to be Lord High Chancellor of Scotland, on the 2d of May 1660 (b), upon the Removal of the Marquis of Tweddale; and the Title of Lord Baron, being thought too low a Degree of Honour for the Lord Chancellor, before his Lordship had continued one whole Year in the Place, his Majesty was pleased to augment his Honours, and therefore advanced him to be an Earl, by the Stile and Title of Earl of Marchmont, Viscount of Blassonberry, Lord Polwarth of Polwarth, Redbrays and Greenlaw, by Letters Patent, 23d of April 1697 (c), and the next enfuing Year was named High Comissioner to represent his Majesty's Person in Parliament, and was likewife one of the Commissioners both of the Treasury and Admiralty. After which he held the Chancellor's Place above Four Years, with the univerfal Approbation of the whole Kingdom, and the general Applause of all Men, for his Juffice, Integrity. found Judgment, and eminent Sufficiency in the Discharge of that Office, a Praise which none of his Enemies ever denied him in any Time. And the King his Master was so fully fatisfied with his faithful Discharge of that and all the other great Employments committed to him, while he was the first and prime Minister of State, that he was pleased to give him a very ample Approbation of his Services, under the Great Seal. His Commission being determined by the Death of the King, her Majesty Queen Anne, the very Day she came to the Crown, granted a new Commission to the Lord Chancellor to represent her Royal Person, and hold her Place in the Assembly. But tho' the first Overture did not at that Time take, the Parliament having a View of an Union with England, yet the last carried, and was approved by a great Majority: And when the Treaty of Union came before the Parliament, his Lordship there, as well as in the Commission of the General Assembly of the Church, us'd his utmost Endeavours to have it brought about, as the only Means he thought could fecure Religion, and establish a firm and lasting Peace betwixt the Two Nations; a Protestant Successor to the Crown being thereby fecured, which was the Thing his Lordship long'd most passionately to see before he should leave this World. And when that Settlement took Place by the Accession of King George to the Throne, his Majetty was pleafed to restore the Earl to be Sheriff of Ber wick-Shire, on the 16th of November 1714, in the Room of the Earl of Hume, who had been made Sheriff in the End of Queen Anne's Reign. KEITH,

Earl Marischal,

A Ccording to our Historians, this noble ancient Family derives its Origin from a certain brave. Man who fignaliz'd himself in the Battle of Barry against the Danes, in the Reign of King Malcolm II. where Camus the Danish General was slain (f). His noble Services were rewarded by that Prince with the Barony of Keith in Lothian, from whence his Posterity took their Surname; and either he or some of the first who descended from him, were dignified with the hereditary Title and Office of Marischal of Scotland; for we don't find by our History,

William de Malevile, who was Progenitor of the Melvils of Melvil, which ended in an Heir Female married with Sir John Ross of Haukhead, Kt. Ancestor to the Lord Rofs; whereupon he took her Arms into his own, which is still quartered in the Atchievment of that noble Family.

Philip de Malevile, Vicecomes de Merns, in the Time of King Alexander II. Walter de Malevile, another Son of Galfred de Malevile (d) was the Root of the Melvils of Raith, the only remaining Branch of that ancient Family, whose Successor Sir John de Malevele, Kt. of the County of Fife, is one of those Barons who swore Fel-John Melvel of Raith, Kt. in the Time of King James II. who married Marga-

For the King, finding him a Person of Wisdom and Integrity, made him General of the O dnance (i), and Captain of his Majesty's Cattle of Dunbar (k), and a Knight; and to the very Hour or his Death, profecuted him with all Manner of Kindness and Respect. This worthy Man was among the first of Note, in those Parts, who embraced and favoured the Reformed Religion, which made him the Object of the Hatred and Malice of the Ramifle Clergy: Billiop Boaton of St. Andrews, and Mr. Durie, the Abbot of Dunfermling, his Neighbours, did particularly own it. He was a Gentleman who eminently fignalized his Loyalty in the Time of King Charles II. And, when the Parliament raised an Army, Anno 1650, to oppose the Invasion of the English under the Command of Oliver Cromwel, the Earl of Airth being then infirm, and not able, by Reason of his Age, to lead out his Men, his Lordship reposed so much Confidence in Garamore's Loyalty and Sufficiency, that he directed a Commission to his well beloved Cousin, William Graham of Gartmore, to call together and command all the Earl's fencible Men, whenever he should judge it necessary for the Service of the Country: And his Majesty King Charles II. placed so greet Considence in Gartmore's Loyalty, and Assection to his Service, that on the 12th of July 1651, he gave him a Commission to guard the Passes on the River of Forth, and to apprehend and secure all Deferters from the Army: And he discharged the Trust reposed in him with such Fidelity and Diligence, that William Duke of Hamilton wrote him a Letter of Thanks in the King's Name, dated at Stirling the 22d July 1651, a few Days before the King march'd into England, wherein his good Services are very thankfully acknowledged. After the Return of the King, in Reward of his Loyalty and Merit, he was made a Knight Baronet, by Letters Patent, bearing Date, 28th June 1665. He married the Lady Elizabeth Graham, Daughter of John Lord Kilpont, by whom he had Sir John his Son and Heir, who died unmarried on the 12th of June 1708, and was fucceeded by Robert Graham of Gallangad, his Confin-German, who is now the Heir Male and Reprefentative of Sir John Graham, Son to Malifs, first Earl of Menteth, for his Bravery, call'd, Sir John with the bright Sword, the first Cadet of this noble Family.

Which William Earl of Menteth, being a Man of excellent Parts, was by King Charles I. call'd to his Majesty's Council, and made Justice General of Scotland, upon the Surrender of that Office by the Earl of Argyle, in 1628, and in little more than a Year thereafter, constituted President of the Council; and he discharged all the Offices committed to him with great Honour and Sufficiency; But while his Lordship was in the Height of his Greatness, and very much in the King's his Son and Heir, Robert Graham of Favour, he ferv'd himself Heir to his Gartmore, who died without Iffue, Ancestor David Earl of Strathern, and and was fucceeded in his Estate by thereupon applied to his Majesty, to Gilbert Graham his Brother, whose have that Title confer'd upon him; and the King, without confidering any Inconveniency that might attend that Creation, gave him a Patent, ratifying and approving him in that Dignity. But 'tis reported, being very much exalted with that Title, his Vanity first Earl of Stirling. Beside these three was not a little supported with the Sons, this Earl had also a Daughter, general Error of our Historians of Da-Margaret, married to Archbald Earl of vid Earl of Strathern's being the eldeft Son of King Robert II's first Marriage with Eupham Rofs his Queen; and fome high Expressions in Reference to his Right to the Crown, having inad. vertently dropt from the Earl, the Matter came to be talk'd at Court. and his Majesty was pleas'd so far to take Notice of it, that he deprived his Lordship of all the Offices he held under the Crown, and gave Order to Sir Thomas Hope, Lord Advocate, to raife a Decreet of Reduction of his Title, whereby he was not only deprived of the Title of Earl of Strathern, but alfo of that of Menteth: But his Majesty was graciously pleased, foon thereafter, to make him Earl of Airch, with Precedency due to the Creation of Malis Earl of Menteth, his Ancettor, by King James I. MIDDLETON, Earl of Middleton.

F this Ancient Family; which originally took its Surname from the Lands and Barony of Middleton, in the County of Kincardin, was Humphredus de Middleton, who in the 24th of Alexander III. is a Witness to the Grant which Robertus Filius Warne baldi de Cunningham, & Sponsa ejus Richenda, Filia & Hæres Humphreds de Barclay, made Ecclesia sancta Thome Martyris de Arbroath, de toto feudo juo in Parco de Fordun, pro salute Ani-

Gilber: Middleton of That Ilk, did execute the Office of Sheriff of Forfar, the 3d of King James V. (c). In the 26th of whose Reign John Middleton of Meddleton, disposed of the Lands of Middleton to David Falconar of Halkerton; after which his Successors, I think, went by the Title and Defignation of Cadham, in the County fore-

Lieutenant General John Middleton was the Son of John Middleton of Cadbam, by Helen his Wife, Daughter of John Strachan, of the Family of Thornton, who being bred a Scholar, intended to have made his Fortune that Way, but the Civil War break. ing out, he laid afide that Refolution, and betaking himself to the Profession of Arms, engaged in the Service of the English Parliament, where the Eminency of his Courage made him fo much taken Notice of, when he was not above the Degree of a Captain of a Troop of Horse, that by the Time Sir William Waller was fent with an Army into the West of England, dithinch from the other commanded by the Earl of Effex, Captain Middleton was made his Lieutenant General (d); and he continued in that Service with fingular Reputation, till the Parliament cashier'd the Earl of Esfex, and made their new Model; he quit all Command there, and betook himfelf to the Service of the Estates of Scotland, where he gave frequent Testimonies of fignal Courage and Valour, in feveral Actions, infomuch as when he Parliament, Anno 1647, rais'd an Army for the Rescue of the King, upon his being made Prisoner in the Isle of Pppp2

Charles II. arrived in this Kingdom, where he was received by his Friends with great Joy, to whom fuch a brave Officer, and of fuch intire Affections to his Majesty, could not at fuch a Seafon but be very acceptable, and when the Parliament had raised another Army to march into England with the King (c), whereof his Majesty himself was General, Lieutenant General Middleton had the Command of the Horse; and at the Fight of Worcester, 3d of September 1651, at that Part where Middleson commanded there was a very brave Refistance made, and he charged the Enemy fo vigoroufly, that he beat that Body that charged them, back in great Disorder, and with great Loss (d): But in the Action he received feveral Wounds, whereby he fell into the Enemy's Hands; and affoon as he was fit to be removed, was fent Prisoner to the Tower of London (e), and destin'd to be sacrificed by Cromagainst whom he thought he might more warrantably proceed, than against any other of the Scots Prisoners, because he had heretofore, in the Beginning of the War, ferv'd the Parliament; and to that Purpose he erected a high Court of Justice, for the Tryal of some Persons that had been troublefom to him, espe-

of this noble Person.

Lieutenant General Middleton con. tinued to attend on the King till the 1653, his Majesty being importun'd by many Expreiles, as well from the Scots Lords who were Prisoners in England, as from those who were at that Lieutenant General Liberty, Middleton might be fent over to the Highlands with his Majesty's Com. mission, and with some Supply of Arms; and that by the next Spring they would have an Army ready, strong enough to meet with General Monk; and tho' the King did not (fays the Lord Clarendon) expect that any notable Service would be performed by his Friends in Scotland, for his Advantage, or their own Redemption; vet did not think fit to feem to undervalue the Professions and Overtures of those who had, during his being among them, made all Professions of Duty to him, and therefore gave fuch a Commission and Instructions to the Lieu. tenant General as were necessary, and dispatched him to Scotland, where he arrived with some few Officers, and fuch a Supply of Arms and Ammuni. tion as could be got upon his own Credit and Activity, in the Winter of the Year 1652, when the Earl of Glencairn delivered up the Command of the Troops to him, and he continucially Major-General Meddleton: And ed at the Head of them for a whole the Time approaching that he was to Year thereafter, but never getting any

any. Supplies from Abroad, he was at length totally routed and suppress d by General Monk, after which he found. Shelter in some honest Mens. Houses, where he was conceal'd, till Opportunity ferv'd to transport him beyond Sea; that he came to the King at Cologn, 1655, and attended his Majesly's Fortune throughout the rest of the Exile.

Upon the Restoration, his Majesty, in Commemoration of the long and faithful Services of General Middleton. was pleased to raise him to the Degree of an Earl, by the Title of Earl of Middleton, by Letters Patent, bearing Date Ist of October 1660 (a), made him Commander in Chief of his Majesty's Forces in Scotland, Governor of Edinburgh Castle, one of the Lords of his Majesty's most Honourable Privy-Council; and appointed him Lord High Commissioner to the 1st and 2d Sessions of the Parliament 166x and ✓ 1662. But being impatient to be the fole Favourite, in his last Session of Parliament, he procured an Act to pass, by which certain Persons were to be incapacitated from all Offices of Honour or Trust, and that by a very new and unheard of Way of Billoting: By which Act the Secretary of State the Earl of Lauderdale, the Treasurer, the Earl of Crawfurd, the Justice-Clerk, Sir Robert Murray, and Others, who had given very fignal Testimony of their Affection and Fidelity to the King, were particularly levell'd at : But his Majesty finding the Earl had very far exceeded the Limits of his Commission, in the framing and pasfing of that Act; and that it was highly derogatory to his Majesty's Juflice and innate Goodness he had such a deep Refentment of the Indignity, that he gave Orders to rescind the A& of Billoting, and it fell heavy on the Earl himself, for he was immediately removed from all the Offices he held burgh was given to the Earl of Landerdale, and the Command of the Forces to the Earl of Rothes, who had contributed very much to his Overthrow. But his Majesty calling to Mind the great Merit and Services of the Earl of Middleton during the Exile, thought it improper he should be dismis'd with any further Marks of the Royal Difpleasure; and therefore, that he might be out of the Way, and never more in a Condition to compete with, or controul the Earl of Lauderdale, who had the Ascendant of the other in the King's Affections, he was made Governor of the new English Fort of Tangier in Africa, which was little other than a more decent Exile; there he liv'd till the 1673. Death overtook him in that remote Corner of the World, where his Body was committed to its Rest. He married first Grifel Daughter of Durhamof Pitkaro, Sifter to Sir Alexander Durham of Largo, and again Martha, Daughter of Henry Earl of Monmouth (b). By his first Wife, he had Charles his Son and Heir, and Two Daughters, Helen married to Patrick Earl of Strathmore, and Grifel to William Earl of Morton.

Which Charles was bred up at the Court of King Charles II. But whe? ther he had any Preferment there bea fore the 1682, I cannot take upon me to determine. But at that Time (c) his Majesty made Choice of his Lordship to go Envoy-Extraordinary to the Emperor, where he proved fo fuccessful in his Negotiation, that upon his Return he was made conjunct Secretary of State for the Kingdom of Scotland with the Earl of Murray, 26. September the same Year (d), also, on the 11th of July 1684, he was fworn of his Majesty's Privy-Council of England, and upon the 24th of August next ensuing, was promoted to be one of his Majesty's Principal under the Crown, the Castle of Edin- Secretaries of State for that Kingdom

A CCORDING to our Historians, this noble illustrious Family, is as ancient as the Restauration of our Monarchy by King Fergus II. and derive their Origin from no meaner Person than the renowned Greme, who govern'd Scotland during the Minority of his Grandchild King Eugene II. sought with the Britons, and by forcing that mighty Rampart they had rear'd up between the Rivers of Forth and Clyde, immortaliz'd his Name so much, that to this Day that Trenchis call'd Graham's Dyke.

But should the Rise of the Grahams be of a more modern Date, 'tis certain, they are as ancient as any in the Nation now upon Record, for Wisliam de Greme is one of the Witnerselestothe Foundation of Holy-Rood-House Abbey, by King David I. Anno Christi 1125 (c); and thereaster, at the special Instance of the said King, he perambulate to the Monks of Hadingtoun, the Lands of Clerkingtoun, when Adda, Countess of Northumberland laid the Foundation of that Converte:

Sir David Greme, Kt. Pater. the direct Ancestor of the illustrious Family of Montrese, obtained from King William a Grant of the Lands of Charltonn and Burrowsseld, infra Vic. de Fortar, cum Dominiis & Tenendariis Thanagi de Kinaber (e). He lest Issue.

Sir David his Son and Heir, who had a Grant from Maldwin Earl of Lennox, of the Lands of Strathblane and Mugdock; and from the Earl of Dumbar he got the Lands of Dundaff and Strathcaron, quod fuit forreflum Regis, in Exchange with Sir David for his Lands of Gartonqubar in Galouva. By Agnes his Wife he had.

Sir David, the Third of that Name, his Son & Heir, who obtained distinct Charters of his whole Lands, which were all ratified to him under the Great-Seal of Alexander III. He got the Barony of Kincardine in the County of Perth, from Maliß Earl of Strathern, whose Sister Anabella he married (g), and by her he had Two Sons, Sir Patrick the Heir of the Family, and Sir David Greme Knight (b).

Which Sir Patrick did execute the Office of High-Sheriff of the County of Stirling, in the Time of King Aleander III, in the 35th of whose Reign, Anno 1284, he was one of the Magnates Scotiæ, who in a most folemn Manner bound themselves by their Oaths and Seals, that in case King Alexander should die without Heirs.

He was afterward kill' d at the Battle of Dunbar, against the English, Anno 1296 (a), strenuously afferting the Honour and Independency of his Country, leaving Issue Sir David his Successor, Sir Nicol Graham, Kt. who got the Lordship of Eskdale in the South, by the Marriage of the Heir Female of Robert de Avenel (b); and was the Root of the Grahams of Abercorn, and the Progenitor of Sir John Graham, that, renoun'd Patriot who loft his Life in his Country's Service at the Battle of Falkirk whom all our Historians do celebrate as the bravest Scotsman, next to Sir William Wallace, in the Age he liv'd.

Sir David Graham, the next of this noble Family, was a great Patron of the Liberties of his Country, after the Abdication of John Baliol, and a strenuous Opposer of the Incroachments made upon our old Constitution by King Edward I. of England, for which, when that Prince made an Offer of Indemnity to fuch of the Scots Nation as would submit to the Yoke he had imposed on them, Sir David had the Honour to be one of those few Patriots who were particularly excepted (c). As he was a great Patriot of his Country; so he was a very zealous Loyalist in Behalf of King Robert the Bruce, upon whose Accession to the Throne, he had divers Grants of Lands, in Confideration of his good and faithful Services before that Time performed. He exchang'd his Lands of Cardrofs in Dumbarton Shire with King Robert, for the Lands of Old Montrofe in the County of Forfar.

The fame Sir David was one of those Barons who in 1320, wrote that noble Letter to the Pope, afferting

Bruce, as the Nation's glorious Deliverer, and the Preserver of the Liberties of the People; in which famous Record the Seal of this Noble Person, I observe, is still intire (d). By Daughter of 1..... his Wife, he had

Sir David. his Son, was one of the Magnates Scotic appointed to treat with the English touching the Redemption of King David Bruce, when he was taken Prisoner at the Battle of Durham, Anno, 1346, by Daughter of his Wife, he had Iffue, Sir Patrick his Son and Heir, and a Daughter married to William Earl of Ross(e);

Which Sir Patrick de Grame Lord of Dundaf, as he is defign'd was one of the Hostages for the Ransom of King David, when the Terms of his Redemption were concerted by the Commissioners of both Kingdoms, who were apointed for that Effect, Anno 1357 (t). Upon the Accession of King Robert II. to the Crown. when the two great Entails were made in Favours of the King's eldest Son the Earl of Carrick, Sir Patrick's Name is inserted in the one, and his Seal, I think, is appended to the other.

He married first Matilda Daughter of by whom he had William Lord of Graham his Successor; And again Eupham, Daughter to Sir John Stewart, Brother to King Robert II. Sister to Walter Stewart, Lord of Railston (g); by her he had Issue Sir Patrick Graham of Elieston, the Progenitor of the Earls of Menteth (h) 2. Robert, 3. David, 4. He married first Mariota Daughter of Sir John Oliphant of Aberdalgy, by whom he had Alexxander his eldest Son, who died in the Lifetime of his Father, and John; next the Lady Mary Stewart, Daughter of King Robert III. Widow of George Earl of Angus, and of James Kennedy of Dennure (b), by whom he had Sir Robert Graham of Strathcaron, fitst of the Branch of the Grahams of Fintrie and Claverhouse (c). Second, Patrick, who being educated a Church man, and entring into Orders, was first promoted to the Episcopal See of Brechen. and translated thence to the Bishoprick of St. Andrews, then void by the Death of Bishop Kennedy, Anno 1466. Third, William, of whom came the Grahams of Garvock (d) and Balgoun. Fourth, Walter Graham of Wallacetoun (e), who was the Ancestor of the Grahams of Knockdolian and its Cadets: And departing this Life in 1424 (f), his Estate and Honour devolved to

Patrick his Grandson and Heir, who was appointed one of the Lords of the Regency in the Minority of King James II. and he prudently and faithfully discharged that Trust for several Years thereafter. He died in the Month of January 1467 (g), leaving Issue by Elizabeth his Wife,

William Lord Graham his Son and Heir, who married Jean, Daughter of George Earl of Angus (b), and giving Way to Fate in the Beginning of the Year 1472, left Issue, William his Successor, George, of whom is the Branch of the Grahams of Callender (i); and a Daughter, Christian, married to James Halden of Gleneagle (k), and thereatter to Sir Thomas Maule of Pammure.

Which William Lord Graham, adhered firmly to King James III, in the Time of his greatst Distress; and when that misfortunate Prince was forced to take the Field, and raise an. Army in his own Defence, the Lord Graham reforted to him, and cheerfully took a Command in the Army, in which he continued till the Death of the King. He was also in great Favour with King James IV, who was graciously pleased, by Letters of Creation to raise him to the Dignity of Earl of Montrose, March 3d, 1504 (1). He married first Annabella, Daughter of John Lord Drummond (m), by whom he had William the Heir of the Family ; next. John his Grandson, Son of Robert Master of Montrose, by Margaret Daughter of Malcolm Lord Fleeming. Upon the Fall of the Earl of Goury the Lord Treasurer, this noble Lord got the White-Staff on the 1st of May 1582, which he did not hold long, for upon another Turn at Court, the Earl demitted the Treasurer's Place to Sir Thomas Lyon of Auldbar in the End of the Year 1585; after which the Earl of Montrole continued in the Council, tho he had no other Office in the State, till the Chancelour's Place falling to vaik, by the Demise of John Lord Thirlstane, he was preferred thereunto in January 1598, in which Station his Lordship continued till the 1604, that it being judged necessary that the Chancelour should be a Lawyer, his Lordship did resign the Place: But it was far from being done but with all imaginable Respect to his Lordship; for upon the Lord Fivie's being made Chancelour, the Earl of Montrofe was made Vice. roy of Scotland during Life (b), which great Office he accordingly enjoyed till his Death, November 9th 1608 (c), leaving Issue., by Jean his Wife, Daughter of David Lord Drummond, of Innermeath, Sir William Graham of Braco; and a Daughter Lilias, married to John 1st Earl of Wigtoun.

John Earl of Montrofe, being a Perfon of great Parts and Abilities, was after the Accession of King Charles I. to the Crown, named President of His Majesty's most honourable Privy Council, and he enjoy'd the Office even till his Death, November 24th 1626. By Margaret his Wife, Daughter of William Earl of Gowrie, he had James his Son and Heir, the first Marquis of Montrole; also Four Daughters, Lilias married to Sir John Col. guhoun of Luß, Bart, and had Iffue; Margaret to Archibald first Lord Napier ;. Dorothea to James first Lord Rollo; Beatrix to David Lord Maderty.

James Earl, afternam'd Marquis of Montrose, was born in the 1612, having had the Missortune to lose his Father when he was young, and being I think the only Son of the Family, his Friends, in order to raife up Heirs to his illustrious House, prevail'd with him, when he was but a Youth, to marry, which he did into a very noble Family : This Marriage broke off the Course, and gave a great Interruption to his Studies, but quickly finding the Lo's he should sustain if he did not go thro' with his Education, he got good Masters at Home, and enter'd into a close Course of Study, wherein he made fo great a Proficiency and Progress, that in a very little Time he became not only a great Master, but a Critick in the Greek and Latin, after which, for his greater Improvement, and giving an Ornament to his hopeful Person, the travel'd into Foreign Parts, where he fpent some Years in attaining the Language, and in learning the Exercifes then in Vogue, in which he excel'd most Men, and came over to England, by the Time he was Twenty two Years of Age.

till his Death, November 9th 1608 Hethenbetook himself to the Court, (c), leaving Islue, by Jean his Wife, intending to live there in a View of ser-Daughter of David Lord Drummond, ving the Crown, and of raising himself Honours and Imployments to those Honours and Imployments Rrrr both both his Birth and personal Qualifica- ly withdrew out of Scotland, and tions did intitle him to; but in his Attendance there, meeting with fome Discountenance of the King, which was very artfully brought about, he left the Court, and returning to Scotland, just before the breaking out of the Troubles, he joined with the difcontented Party, who appeared most forward for the Redress of Grievances of the Church, which was all that was at that Time pretended, infomuch as he foon became one of the principal and most active Lords for the Covenant and Reformation: But after the first Expedition of the Covenanters into England, the Earl upon his Observation of the unwarrantable Profecution of the Ends of the Covenant, he gave over that Party, and his Command in the Army; and made a full Tender of his Service to his Majesty, which brought him fo much into the Jealoufy of the Party he had formerly been of, that there was no Room left to doubt of his Sincerity to the King. The Earl of Clarendon does very unjustly infinuate in his History of the Civil War, that while the King was in Scotland, the Earl of Montrose offer'd to make away: Two Great Men, he thinks, were not fo cordial in the King's Interest as could have been wish'd; but as this Calumny is most false, as I am fully able from Original Writs and Papers to justify him from that Asperfion, so I shall offer no more here for his Vindication, but to declare to the World, and which I'm able to demonstrate, that the Marquis of Montrofe was a Prisoner in the Castle of Edinburgh, for corresponding with the King from the Month of June 1641 till January thereafter, and the King came down in August and returned in November; fo 'tis clear he was a Prifoner all the while his Majefly was in Scotland(a). After his Releasment heliv'd most part privately at his Seat in the Country, till the Meeting of the Convention 1643, he private-

came to the King a few Days before the Siege was rais'd from Glocester, and gave his Majesty the first clear Information of the Proceedings of the Convention, of the Refolutions would be there taken, and of the Posture the Kingdom would speedily be in; and made fome Propositions to the King for the Remedy; which there was not, fays the Earl of Clarendon, then Time to confult of: But affoon as his Majesty return'd to Oxford, after the Battle of Newburry, he was very willing to hearken to any Overture the Earl should make in Reference to what could be done, to prevent the Mischief was like to enfue to his Majesty's Affairs, by a Combination betwixt the Scots Covenanters and the English Parliament; wherefore, that his Majesty might have this important Affair brought to a full Resolution, he was pleas'd to hold feveral Conferences with the Earl: But all the Advances which were made toward the Execution of any Attempt for the King's Service, were check'd by his Majesty's not being able to give any Troops to the Earl, by the Protection whereof, the Loyal Party of the Kingdom might come to his Affistance, and discover their Affections to his Majesty, notwithstanding of which, the vigorous Spirit of the Earl of Montrofe, ftirred him up to make fome Attempt, which he thought might be of Service to the King: And therefore proposed that his Majesty should give a Command to the Earl of Antrim, to raife, and fend over a Body of Two Thousand Men, into the Highlands of Scotland, to be a Foundation for raifing Forces there, and that if his Majesty would grant him a Commission to command that Army he would himfelf be in the Highlands to receive them, and run his Fortune with them; and that if no Time were loft in profecuting that Design, he did hope that by the Time the Scots Army himfelf fecure in the Border of the should be ready to take the Field, from their own Country, as should hinder their Advance into England (a). Upon this Overture the King confer'd with the Two Lords, and finding the Earl of Antrim forward to undertake the railing as many Men as should be desir'd, his Majesty refolv'd to encourage it all he could; and therefore, that the Earl of Montrole might depart with the better Character, and Testimony of his Ma jesty's Favour and good Opinion, and be thereby the better qualified to perform the great Trust reposed in him, his Majesty was pleased to give Order for a Warrant to make the Earl Marquis of Montrose (b), and gave him a Committion, constituting his Lordthip Captain-General, and Commander in Chief of all the Forces to be rais'd in Scotland for his Majesty's Service; and fo taking his Leave of the King, accompany'd with feveral Gentlemen, he began his Journey, as if he meant to make his Way in Company with them into Scotland; but after he had continued his Journey two or three Days in that Equipage, which he knew could be no Secret, and that it would draw the Enemies Troops together, for the Guard of all Passes to meet with him, the Marquis was found missing one Morning by his Company, who after fome Stay and Enquiry returned back to Oxford, whilst this noble Person with incredible Address and Fatigue, had not only quitted his Company and his Servants, but his Horse also, and found a fafe Passage, most Part on Foot, thro' all the Enemies Quarters, rill he came to the very Borders (c); from whence, by the Assistance of Friends whom he trufted, he found ly defeated; fo that his future Triumph

After the Battle of Kilfyth, his Excellency the Marquis mareh'd Eastward, took the City of Edinburgh (f); and advancing his Course toward England, he was unexpectedly attack'd by Major General David Lefly, with the whole Strength of the Scots Horse, at Philiphaugh, on the 13th of September 1645(g), where he was total-

Thereupon his Excellency left france, and made a Jour-Court; and thence to Bruffels, where Murther of the King, that he came to the Hague, and prefented himself to King Charles II, with the Tender ceived that it was not possible that of his Service (c); and his Majesty the Lords of the other Parties would received him with a very good Countenance, and as a most gracious Tellimony of his great Pidelity and Merit, ly bring fome Prejudice to his Service. presented him with the Ensigns of he therefore propos'd, that his Mathe most noble Order of the Garter.

But when the Marquis clearly perever unite with him, and that his Attendance on the King might possibjesty would give him Letters and While the King remained at the Credentials to feveral Princes in Gerthe Duke of Hamilton, and others of Arms and Ammunition, to enable him to profecute his intended Descent into Scotland; and the King, fays my Author the Earl of Clarendon, glad that he did not press for ready Money, which he was not able to supply him with, gave him fuch Letters as he defir'd, and a Commission to gather such a Force together, as by the Help of those Princes he might be enabled to do: Upon which the Marquis went for Hamburgh, which he appointed for the Rendezvous for all those Troops, which he expected from Germany, and from whence he could in the mean Time visit such Courts of the Neighbour Princes, as he should be encouraged to do, and keep fuch Intelligence with his Friends in Scotland, as should provide for his Reception. In a Word, he sent or went in Person, both to Sweden and Denmark, where he found the Performance very disproportionable to the Hopes and Encouragement he had received from thence; fo that the Marquis was obliged to return to Hamburgh, with very small Supplies, from either or both these Kingdoms; and there he received no better Account from those Officers whom he had fent to Germany; and therefore. concluding upon the Whole, that all his Hopes from Germany and those Northern Princes would not increase the Strength he had already, which did not amount to above Five Hundred, he caus'd those Soldiers he had drawn together, to be imbark'd for Scotland, and fent Officers with them, who knew the Country, with Directions that they should land in such a Place, and remain there till he came to them, or fent them Orders; and then in another Vessel commanded by a Captain very faithful to the thought necessary, to join with him; King, he embarked himself, and near and he received Answers from many an Hundred Officers, and landed in of them, by which they defir'd him another Creek, not far from the other to advance more into the Low-Lands, Thither he convoy'd the Arms, Ammunition and Troops, which he had brought with him; and then he published his Declaration, That he came with the King's Commilsion, to affist those his good Subjects, and to preserve them from Oppression: That he did not intend to give any Interrup. tion to the Treaty that he hear'd was enter'd into with his Majesty; but, on the contrary, hoped, that his being in the Head of an Army, how small soever, that was faithful to the King, might advance the lame. However, he had given sufficient Proof in his former Actions, that if any Agreement were made with the King, upon the first Order from his Majesty, he (bould lay down his Arms, and dispose himself according to his Majesty's good Pleasure. these Declarations which he fent to his Friends, to be featter'd by them, and dispersed among the People, as they could be able, he writ likewise to those of the Nobility, and the principal Heads of the Highland Clans, to draw fuch Forces together as they SIII with great Sincerity.

The Alarm of Montrole's Landing startled the Parliament, which was then sitting at Edinburgh, in so much, that it gave them no Leifure to think of any Thing elfe, than of fending Forces to hinder the Recourse of others to join with him; and therefore, fent Colonel Strachan with a choice Party of the best Horse they had, to make all possible Haste toward him, and to prevent the Infurredions which they feared would be in feveral Parts of the Highlands; and within few Days after, Lieutenant General Lefty followed with a stronger Party of Horse and Foot. Encouragement the Marquis received from his Friends, and the Unpleafantness of the Quarters, in which he was, prevail'd with him to march with these few Troops more into the Land; and the Highlanders flocking to him from all Quarters, made him undervalue any Enemy who thought was yet like to encounter him; and the Marquis being without any Body of Horse to discover the Motion of an Enemy, but depending upon all necessary Intelligence from the Affections of the People; Strashan made fuch Hafte toward him, that he was within a small Distance of him, before he heard of his Approach, a Company of good Officers, and Five received and treated as a common or Six Hundred Foreigners, Dutch and Malefactor. Germans; with these he betook him. felf to a Place of some Advantage, by brought before the Parliament, where and affured him, that they would re- there they made a Defence for fome fort to him, with good Numbers of Time with notable Courage; but the their Friends and Followers, which Enemy being so much superior in many of them did prepare to do, Number, the common Soldiers being all Foreigners, after about a Hundred of them were kill'd upon the Place, threw down their Arms: And the Marquis seeing all lost, threw away his Ribband and George, and found Means to change his Clothes with a Fellow of the Country; and fo after having gone on Foot Two or Three Miles, he got into a House of a Gentleman, M'Leod of Affint, (a), where he remain'd conceal'd about Two Days; but whether by the Owner of the House, or any other Way, the Marquis was discovered, and became their Prisoner, and was the next Day or foon thereafter delivered to the General, who was come up with his Forces, and had now nothing left to do, but to carry him in Triumph to Edinburgh,

When he came to one of the Gates of Edinburgh, he was met by some of the Magistrates, to whom he was delivered, and by them prefently put into a new Cart purposely made, which there was a high Chair, Bench, upon which he fat, that the People might have a full View of him, being bound with a Cord drawn over his Breast and Shoulders, and fasten'd thro' Holes made in the Carr. When he was in this Posture, the Hangman took off his Hat, and rode himself before the Cart in his Livery, and those Highlanders who had feem'd and with his Bonnet on; the other to come with much Zeal to him, Officers, who were taken Prisoners whether terrified or corrupted, left with him, walking Two and Two him on a sudden, or threw down their before the Cart; in this Manner he Arms; fo that he had none left but was carried to the common Goal, and

Within Two Days after, he was the Inequality of the Ground; and the Chancellor made a very bitter and virulent Speech against him, told him, He had broken all the Covenants by which the Nation stood obliged, and had improufly rebelled against GUD, the King and the Kingdom; that he had committed many horrible Murthers, Treafons and Impieties, for all which he was now brought to suffer condign Punish. ment; with all those Reproaches, says my Author, against his Person and his Actions, which the Liberty of that Place gave him Leave to use.

Permission was then given him to foeak, and without the least Trouble in his Countenance, or Disorder, upon all the Indignities he had fuffer'd, he told them, Since the King had own'd them to far as to treat with them, he had appear'd before them with Reverence, and bare headed, which otherwise he would not willingly have done: That he had done nothing of which he was alham'd, or had Caule to repent; that the first Covenant, he had taken, and comply'd with it, and with them who took it, as long as the Ends for which it was or. dain'd were observ'd; but when he difcover'd, which was now evident to all the World, that private and particular Men design'd to latisty their own Ambition and Interest, instead of considering the Publick Benefit; and that, under the Pretence of reforming some Errors in Religion, they rejolv'd to abridge, and take away the King's just Power, and lawful Authority, he had withdrawn limself from that Engagement: That for the League and Covenant, he had never taken it, and therefore could not break it: And it was now too apparent to the whole Christian World, what monstruous Mischiefs it had produced: That when, under Colour of it, an Army from Scotland had invaded England in Assistance of the Rebellion that was then against their Lawful King, he had, by his Majesty's Command, received a Commission from him to raise Forces in Scotland, that he might thereby divert them from the other odious Persecution: That Obedience and Duty he ow'd to the King; and in all the Circumstances of it, had proceeded like a Gentleman; and had never suffer'd any Blood to be shed but in the Heat of the Battle; and that he faw many Persons there, whose Lives he had saved: that when the King commended him, he laid down his Arms, and withdrew out of the Kingdom; which they could not have compelled him to have done. He faid, he was now. again enter'd into the Kingdom by his Majesty's Command, and with his Authority: And what Success loever it might have pleafed GOD to have given him, he would always have obeyed any Commands he should have received from him. He advised them, to cousider well of the Consequence before they proceeded against him, and that all his Actions might be examin'd, and judged by the Laws of the Land, or those of Nations.

Assoon as he had ended his Difcourse, he was ordered to withdraw; and, after a short Space, was again brought in; and told by the Chancellor, That he was, on the Morrow, being the one and Twentieth of May 1650, to be carried to Edinburgh Croß, and there to be hanged up on a Gallows Thirty Foot high, for the Space of Three Hours, and then to be taken down, and his Head to be cut off upon a Scaffold, and hanged on Edinburgh Tolboth ; his Legs and Arms to be hanged up in other publick Towns of the Kingdom, and his Body to be buried at the Place where he was to be executed, except the Kirk should take off his Excommunication, and then his Body might be buried in the common Place of Burial. And 'tis admirable to confider with what Magnanimity & Firmness of Soul he heard the Judgment that condemned him to be quartered, concerning which he faid to the Chancellor that pronounced it, That he was prouder to have his Head set upon the Place it was appointed to be, than he could have been to have had his Picture hang in the King's Bed-Chamber: That he was fo he had executed that Commission with the far from being troubled, that his Four SIII2

Limbs were to be hang'd in Foar princtpal Cities of the Kingdom, that he heartily wished he had Flesh enough to be fent to every City in Christendom, as a Testimony of the Cause for which he Suffer'd.

He defir'd after the Sentence to have faid fomewhat to the Parlia. ment, but was not fuffer'd, and fo was carried back to Prison; and the next Day every Part and Circumstance of the Sentence was executed upon him with all the Inhumanity imaginable; and he bore it with all the Courage and Magnanimity, and the greatest Piety that a good Christian could manifest. When he had ended all he had to fay, and was expecting to expire, they acted yet one Scene more of their Barbarity upon him; the Hangman brought the Book that had been published, of his truly Heroick Actions whilft he commanded in the Kingdom, which, together with his Declaration, was tied in a small Cord, that was put about his Neck. At this new Instance of their Malice the Marquis smil'd, and thanked them for it, and faid, he was glad it [bould be there, and was prouder of wearing it, than ever he had been of the Garter. and so renewing some devote Ejaculations, he patiently endured the last Act of the Executioner.

Montrole, after he had given, fays the Earl of Clarendon, in his Character of him, 'as great a Testimony of Lov-' alty and Courage as a Subject can do, and performed as wonderful Actions in feveral Battles, upon as ' great Inequality of Numbers, and ' as great Disadvantages in Respect of Arms, and other Preparations for War, as have been performed ' in this Age.' And he adds, 'That

' thro' with it, but exceedingly affected those which seem'd desperate to other Men, and did believe somewhat to be in himself above other Men, which made him live more eafy towards those who were, or were willing to be inferior to him, toward whom he exercifed wonderful Civility and Generofity, than with his Superiors or Equals. He was na. ; turally jealous, and fuspected those who did not concur with him in the Way, not to mean fo well as he. He was not without Vanity, but his Vertues were much superior, and he well deferved to have his Memory preserv'd and celebrated amongst the most illustrious Per-' fons of the Age in which he liv'd.

His Body was interr'd at the Place of Execution, where itrested till the Refloration of the King, that by his Majesty's special Appointment, his feattered Parts were gathered together and deposited in the Abbey-Church of Holy-Rood-House, where it remained till the 14th of May 1661, his Corps was with the greatest Magnificence and Solemnity that could be devised, carried to the Cathedral Church of St. Giles, and interr'd in the Isle belonging to his Family (a), being accompanied by the Lord High Commissioner, the Earl of Middleton, and all the Members of Parliament, to Thus died the gallant Marquis of the Grave; over which this Infeription was intended to be fet up, which I have for the Satisfaction of the Curious, here insert.

The noble Marquis married Magdalen, Daughter of David, first Earl of Southesk, by whom he had James his Son and Heir.

This noble Lord was too young to have had a Part in the War under his Father: After whose Death being direfted of his Estate, he liv'd quietly and privately under the Powers that then prevail'd, retaining his Affection and Fidelity to the Crown, which he made manifest in performing all the Offices of Fidelity and Duty to the King, throughout the whole Courfe of the Usurpation, that a generous and worthy Person could find any Opportunity for; with which his Miajesty was abundanty satisfied and pleas'd.

Upon the Return of the King, the Marquis was restor'd to his Estate, and the Act of his Father's Forfaulture repell'd, and he was nam'd one of the Lords of his Majesty's Privy-Council: But that which was thought strange, and administred much Difcourfe, both then and afterwards, was, that his Lordship was not preferr'd to any of the great Offices of the Crown, confidering the transcendent Merit of his Father, and the great Value and Effeem the King had of himself, as a Nobleman of great Honour and Integrity; but the Reason I have ever hear'd affign'd for it, was, that the Marquis did not affect any publick Character, a Life of Privacy Ægidio sacras comitata, impensis suis and Quiet being really his own Choice, Regtis fab hoc Monumento magnifico, cum and what was more fuited to his Hu-Avo Juo nobili, quondam Scotiæ Prorege, mour and Nature; and dying in the sepeliri mandavit Augustissimus Regum Month of February, in the 1669 (a), Imperio |uo divinitus was upon the 23d of of April there-

He was a Nobleman of great Honour and Probity, fo great a Lover of Justice, and so strict in the Observation of his Word and Promise, that no Man was ever more worthy the Title of, An honest Man.

He married Isobel, Daughter of William Earl of Morton, Widow of Robert, first Earl of Roxburgh, by whom he had James his Successor, and Lord Charles, who died a young Man of great Hopes and Courage; like

James Marquis of Montrose his Son was a Nobleman of great Parts, which were improved by a good Education. Upon the Death of his Father the King took him into his immediate and eminent Care, made him first, Captain of the Guard; and then, that he might fit him by Degrees for the greatest Truft and Employments, preferr'd him to be Prelident of the Privy-Council; but Death overtook him not long thereafter, in the Prime of his Years, upon the 25th of April 1684 (a), to the general Regret of the whole Nation, and the particular Sorrow of his own Relations, who lamented his Death exceedingly, as a great Loss to his Family. By Christian his Wife, Daughter of John Duke of present Duke of Montrose.

This noble Lord being a Person of very bright and distinguishing Parts, and the Head of a very noble Family, that had in no Time fwerv'd in its Fidelity to the Crown, her Majesty Queen Anne, soon after he came to Age, called him to her Privy Council, made him first, Lord High Admiral of Scotland, in the Beginning of the 1705 (b), and then Lord President of the Council in little more as a Year thereafter (c); in which Station, and in all other Capacities, his Lordship did exert himfelf with the most ardent Zeal and Vigour, in promoting the Succession to the Crown in the Protestant Line, and on that Account did all he could to confolidate the Two Kingdoms in an incorporating Union, and thereby giving a Sanction to the Title of the most serene House of Hanover, to the Crown of this Realm; in Confideration whereof, as well as in Respect of his Lordship's personal Merit; and in Honour of his noble Family, for which the Queen did always profess a very great Value and Regard, her Majesty was pleas'd by Letters Patent 24th of April 1707, to make the Marquis Duke of Montrofe id); and 'tisto be observed as a special Instance of her Majesty's more immediate Favout, that the Honour was not restricted to the Heirs Male of the Duke's own Body; but was to defeend to his Heirs of Entail.

His Grace continued Lord Prefident of the Council, till the Parliament of Great Britain thought fit to diffolve the Scots Privy-Council fome Time after the commencing of the Union, that the Duke of Montrofe was made Lord Privy-Seal, upon the Removal of the Duke of Queensberry, the 28th February 1709; and he held that Office, till the 1713 (e), he was laid Rothes, he had only a Son James, the afide for not complying with the Measures of the Court during the

James Lord Dalkreth, his Son, married the Lady Elizabeth Stewart, Daughter of King Robert III. (a), by whom he had Tames his Successor; and after her Death, Janet, Daughter of William Lord Borthwirk, by whom he had William Douglass, the first of the House of Whitingham (b).

Which Tames married first Marga. ret, Daughter of James Earl of Douglass; and after that Elizabeth, Daughter of Giffird of Shireffhall, by whom he had Jomes, thereafter Earl of Morton, and Henry Douglaß, first of Corhead (c) and Larg Niddry.

Which James was, by the special Favour of King James II. rais'd to the Dignity of Earl of Morton, in Parliament on the 14th of March 1457 (d). He married the Lady Jehn, Daughter of King James I. Dawager Countels of Angus (e), by whom he had

John his Successor, who married Janet, Daughter of Crichton of Cranton-Riddle. By her he had James his Son and Heir, Richard Dougloß, Esq; Elizabeth married to Robert Lord Kieth, and Agnes to Alexander Lord Living Ston.

Which James married Catharine, Natural Daughter of King James IV. by whom he had Three Daughters.

Margaret married to James Earl of Arran, thereafter Duke of Chattlerault. Beatrix to Robert Lord Maxwell.

Elizabeth to James Douglaß, Son of Sir George Douglass of Pittendrich.

This Earl having no Male Issue of his Body, made an Entail of his Estate and Honour to Robert Douglass of Lochliven, a Male Relation of his own, which was ratified by a Charter under the Great-Seal of King James V. Anno 1540(f), But after the Death of that King, the Earl having it still in his Power to alter that Destination any Time in his own Life, thought fit actually to change the Settlement, and to make a new Convoyance of his Estate and Honour to James Douglass his Son-in-Law; by Vertue of which he came to enjoy both on the Death of the old Earl, in the 1553, but he having no Issue by his Lady the Earl of Morton's Daughter, in the 1567, made an Entail of the Earldom of Morton, in Favours of Archbald Earl of Angus his own Nephew, and in Case of Failure of his Issue Male, to William Douglass of Lochliven, Son to the before-mentioned Robert, had been flain in the Service of his Country, at the Battle of Pinky; which Settlement thereafter took Place upon the Death of the Earl of Angus.

In the 1558 the Earl of Morton was one of the Peers who entered into a Bond of Affociation to promote the Reformation of Religion, and the Year thereafter was fent Ambassador to England to treat with Queen Elizabeth, about the maintaining a firm and latting Peace betwixt the Two Crowns, when he established himself so much in the Favour of that Princess, that her Friendship was never in any Degree diminished toward him till his dying

After Queen Mary returned home from France in 1561, her Majesty made Choice of the Earl as one of her Privy Council, and in less than a Year thereafter, he was fent Ambaifador to the Queen of England, in which Negotiation he behaved himself with great Prudence and Dexterity, infomuch as upon his Return he was prefer'd to be Lord High-Chancellor; and he continued in the Office till the 20th of March 1565, he was deprived, and forced to flee to England, for alledged Accession to the Murder of David Rizio, the Queen's French Secretary:

But in a short Time thereafter, by the Mediation and Interpolition of the Earl of Bothwell, he obtained his Pardon, which he paid dear for afterward; for that Earl thought by this Favour, to bring the Earl of Morton over to his Interest; but he foon found himself mistaken. For the' he had all Duty and Gratitude to him as a Friend. yet the wicked Earl Bothwel did no fooner propose to him the Delign, and craved his Assistance, toward the Murder of the Lord Darnly, the Queen's Husband, as a Piece of Service which would be very acceptable to her Majetty; but he conjuced him to lay aside the Thoughts of so base and unworthy an Enterprize; and which would be attended with fo much Infamy and Danger: And when he could not prevail in that Point, in Testimony he did abhor so detestable a Defign, he left the Court, and retired to the Country, when that bloody and barbarous Tragedy was to be acted. And I think the Earl of Morton's Circumstances at this Time. cannot but be pitied; for if he had revealed the Earl of Bothwel's Design of taking away the King's Life, it had coft him his own; and his concealing it then, brought him to die upon a Scaffold many Years thereafter.

After the Murder of King Henry, when the Nation, both Protestants and Papists, began to be alarmed with the Queen's Marriage with the Barl of Bithwell, who was shrewdly suspected as the Murderer of her former Husband, and the Danger the young Prince was in by such an Union; the Barl of Morton was one of the most forward among the Nobility, who enter'd into an Association for the Preservation of the Prince; and when the Queen resigned the Government to the End her Son might be invested in the Sovereignty the Earl of Morton took the Coronation Oath for the Infant King, at his Inauguration, on the 20th of July 1567

the 29th of July 1567.

In this new Turn of Affairs the Earl of Morton's Share was so considerable, that assoon as the Earl of Marray had accepted the Regency, the Earl of Morton was declared Chancellor, upon the Removal of the Earl of Huntly, who adhered to the Queen, and made heritable Lord High Admiral of Scotland, and Sherist Principal of Edinburgh-Shire (a). He held the Chancellor's Place till the 24th of November 1572, he was by the unanimous Choice of the King's Party, elected Regent, a Month after the Death of his Predecessor in Office, the Earl of Mar.

I shall not here enter upon the Detail of the Earl of Morton's Administration during his Regency; that would not confitt with the Brevity of this Work; and generally his Proceedings are complaind of on one Side, or commended on the other, as Opinions and Party lead Men to, I shall only take Notice, that the first Motion he made to relign the Government in the 1578, was accepted in a general Convention of the Nobility, where. in it was agreed to, that the young King should take upon him the Administration, when he was not full Thirteen Years of Age; and yet the new Court kept fair with the Earlfor they procur'd a Parliament to be call'd, wherein the late Regent obtain'd a Remission and Exonetation during his Regency, in the most ample Manner he himfelf could devife; and after that he play'd his Game fo well, that he was in a short Time again made President of the Council, and was in great Credit with his Majesty (b); but that being what was not at all acceptable to the other Party, who had the young King in their Hands, and who were willing to be

Upon the Death and Forfaulture of the Regent, the Title of, Earl of Morton was bestowed upon the Lord Max. well; but his Majesty having recalled and revoked that Deed, and being afurther willing and defirous, that all Animolities and Grounds of Contention among the Nobility might be removed, for that End a Parliament was call'd in the 1585, wherein his Majetty pas'd an Act of Oblivion, whereby every Body who had been forfaulted during the Troubles in the King's Minority were indemnified, except Grandfather. RANDOLPH,

Earl of Murray.

HE Earldom of Marray is of a very ancient Erection, for in the Reign of King David I. Angus Earl of Murray, rais'd a Rebellion in the Northern Parts, Anno 1330 (a), which ended in the Ruin of himfelf and his Abettors.

King Robert the Bruce, in the 1321 gave the Earldom of Murray, to his Favourite Nephew, the renown'd Sir Thomas Randolph, comprehending omnes Terras suas in Moravia, sicut fuerunt in Manibus Domini Alexandri Regis Scotorum, Predecessoris nostri ultimo defuncti (b). This noble Earl was upon the Death of his Uncle, King Robert, by the unanimous Confent of the Estates, as well as by the Destination of the King, named Regent to the young King, David II. but before he had continued two full Years in that exalted Station, which he very worthily discharged, he was taken away by Death in the 1331, leaving Isfue by Isobel his Wife, Daughter of Sir Alexander Stewart of Bonkil. John his Son and Heir, and several Daughters, Agnes married to Patrick, Earl of March, and Isobel to Sir William Marray, Kt.

Which John did eminently fignalize himself in his Loyalty to King David, and in his Affection and Duty to his Country, during all the Attacks were made upon our Constitution, either by Romish Church, which behoved to own Country-Men, who adhered to Edward Baltol at that Time.

He married Eupham, Daughter of Hugh Earl of Rols, but was flain fighting gallantly in the Service of his Country, at the Battle of Durham, in 1346 (c), leaving no Issue, so that his Estate and Title devolved to the Countefs of March his Sifter, in whose Right, or by the Courtefy of Scotland. the Earl her Husband defign'd himfelf Earl of March and Murray.

DUNBAR,

Earl of Murray.

IN the 1373, King Robert H. did by his Royal Charter under the Great Scal, erect the Earldom of Murray in Favours of John Dunbar, the Earl of March's Son, and Marjory his Wife, the King's Daughter (d), and to their Heirs.

They had Issue, Thomas Earl of Murray, and Alexander Dunber of Fren. draughs. This Thomas was the Father of another Earl of the Name of Thomas, one of the Hostages for the Ranfom of King James I. but dying with. out Issue Male, his Estate and Title fell to James Dunbar of Frendraught, his Cousin, who espoused first I/obel. a Lady of the Family of the Inneses, who bare him a Son Sir Alexander Dunber, who was thereafter Sheriff of Marray: But this Lady dying before the Marriage could be confummated according to the Rites of the the English or a disloyal Party of our proceed upon a Dispensation, by Rea-Xxxx fon of Confanguinity betwixt the Care of his Father as of all the rest of The Earl married again 7anet, Daughter to the Earl of Huntly, by whom he had Two Daughters, Janet the Elder, marry'd to the Lord Crichton's Son, and Marion the Younger to Archbald Douglass, Son to the Earl of Douglass, who in Right of his Wife was Earl of Marray, but unhappily taking Part with his Brother the Earl of Douglass, in his Rebellion, in the Reign of King James II. was forfaulted with him and others his Adhe. rents, in 1455.

STEWART, Earl of Murray.

ROM the Time of King James III, the Earldom of Marray continued in the Crown, and there remained till the Reign of King James V. that that Prince by Letters Patent, bearing Date on the 20th of Jane 1501 (a), gave it to James Stewart his Natural Son, whom he had by Jean Kennedy, the Lord Kennedy's Daughter, his Paramont.

He married I/obel, Daughter to the Earl of Argyle, and dying 12th of June 1544, left only one Daughter Mary married to John Master of Buchan, so the Earldom of Murray went back again to the Crown; and being in the Sovereign's Disposal, Queen Mary on the 18th of February 1548 (b), gave it to George Earl of Huntly: But her Majesty recalling that Deed, she was afterward graciously pleased to bestow the Earldom of Murray upon James Prior of St. Andrews.

He was the natural Son of King John Lord Erskine, who being by the his illegitimate Sons were, bred to the Church; he was when very young provided to the Priory of St. Andrews, Anno 1539, then void by the Promotion of Patrick Hepburn, to the Epifcopal See of Murray; but by Reason of his Non-age, Dr. Alexander Miln. Abbot of Cambuskenneth, and President of the College of Justice, was appointed Administrator of the Benefice. (c), both with Respect to the Spiritual and Temporal Discharge of the Function.

By Reason of the Prior's Youth, I have met with nothing memorable of him, till the Beginning of the Reformation, he was among the first who embraced the Protestant Reform'd Religion, tho' he was far from giving any Countenance to the Popular Reformation, as is manifest from the many and frequent Addresses he and others of the Protestant Nobility, made to the Queen Regent, that she would please to concur by her Authority in reforming of the Church.

But the Queen peremptorily refufing not only to comply with their Supplications, but having also violated fome Articles of Pacification, she had very folemnly enter'd into with the Protestant Lords, of which the Prior of St. Andrews himself stood Guarantee; he thereupon left her, and join'd himself with the Lords of the Congregation, as they were call'd, whereupon the Prior, the Lord James, was fummon'd before the Council, but he did not think fit to answer the Charge otherwife, than to return this Answer to the Messenger, That her Majesty had broken the Conditions with the Lords of the Congregation, which by Warrant from herself, he had made and entred into with them, he would have no more Meddling in Such dishonest Courses, and James V. by Margaret, Daughter of would do the best to repair Things he

This Answer gave Occasion to the Queen to fignifie to the Prior, the greatest Favour with the Queen, That the suspected that Religion was the without any Interruption, till the 1565 least Thing he or his Party had in their that her Majesty declared her Refolu-Thoughtsirand that she did not doubt, tion to marry the Lord Darnly, that the mean Time disowns the Charge, gion and to the State by that Union, other View or Defign in what he had done, than the Advancement of the true Reformed Religion, and the Prefervation of the Liberties of his Coun try, which he could not but bewail he faw fo fignally invaded by her, at least by those who pretended to act by, and derive their Authority from her; after which he was fo hearty a Promoter of the Reformation, that he became the Head of the Protestant

When Queen Mary became a Widow by the Death of King Francis II. the Prior of St. Andrews was fent by the Protestant Nobility, to invite the Queen home; and foon after her Arrival, her Majesty having nam'd a new Privy Council, the Lord James her Brother was appointed one of the Number, and not long thereafter he was fent with a Commission of Lieutenancy to the Borders, to suppress an Infurrection that was threatned in those Parts; and he discharged the Trust reposed in him with such Courage and Fidelity, that upon his Return the Queen was graciously pleas'd to bestow upon her Brother the Earldom of Mar, then in the Crown; but the Lord Erskine being found to have Right to the Earldom of Mar, that Lord was by Way of Justice restored to that Honour, in Lieu whereof the Prior of St. Andrews was made Earl of Murray, 10th February 1562 (a).

After this the Earl continued in but that under the Covert and Pretext my Lord Marray and many others did of Religion, he intended to make an At oppose the Match, upon Pretext of tempt upon the Crown. The Prior in the Danger that might arise to Reliand thought himself obliged for his forasmuch as it had not been practised further Vindication, to make a very at any Time, to impose a King upon folemn Protestation, that he had no the Nation without the Advice and Confent of Parliament; and in order to put a more effectual Stop thereto, They made, fays Sir James Melvil, an Essay to take the Lord Darnly in the Queen's Company at the Raid of Baith, and as they alledged, to have fent him to England: But failing in their Enterprife, they were fo closely purfued by the Queen's Troops, that they thought it the fafest Course for them to flee to England, where they met but with a very cold Reception from Queen Elizabeth, tho' she had very much encourag'd them under-hand to enter into those Measures, to disturb the Peace and Tranquillity of Scotland, and to fully the Glory of Queen Mary's Reign.

After the Queen's Marriage with the Lord Darnly, a Parliament was call'd, before which the Earl of Murray and his Affociates were fummon'd to answer a Charge of High-Treason, which was prepar'd against them, and the Earl would have undoubtedly been denounced Rebel, and forfaulted, had not the Murther of David Rizio prevented it, which happen'd Three Days before the fitting down of the Parliament. At the Day appointed the Earl of Murray returned home, and went straight to the Parliament House, and took Instruments that he was ready to answer the Summons of Treason; but such was the Confusion of Asfairs, that no Evidence came against him, and the Queen believing him innocent of Rizio's Murther, was pleased to give him a gracious Pardon, restore him to her wonted Favour, and to place an unsuspected Confidence in him; but the Broils of the Country still increasing more and more, especially aster the Murther of the Lord Darnly, he obtain'd the Queen's Leave to travel, which he did, first into England, and thence into France, where he remained till the Queen had made a Refignation of the Government, and the Prince King James VI. her Son, fet upon the Throne, that he was call'd home to be Regent to the young King: to which Office he was chosen by those of the Nobility who adhered to the Prince in his Absence, on the 22d of August 1567. In December thereafter he call'd a Parliament, wherein the Pope's Authority was abolished, and the true Protestant Religion receiv'd a new Sanction; thereafter having fettled the Government, and feeming fecure in it, he was on the 23d of Ja. nuary 1570, unexpectedly, as he was riding thro' the Street of Linlithgow, far from apprehending any Danger, That from a Window with a Musket. in the lower Part of his Belly, James Hamilton of Bothwel-haugh, in Revenge of a private Injury the Regent had done him, and in the Instant falling from his Horse, died the same Evening. Few Days after his Body was removed to Edinburgh, and with great Funeral Solemnity interr'd in St. Giles's Church, where a Monument was erected over his Grave, with this Infeription upon it.

As to the Regent's Character Mr. Buchanan his old Tutor and faithful Friend, draws a very fair and bright one of him; and fome later. Writers, whosePens perhaps have been directed as much by Malice as Truth, have endeavoured to give the World a very ill Impression of him; and I observe that generally Men passtheir Judgments upon him according to the Party they are of ; for these Reasons I shall not take his Character from any Party Writer, either of the one or the other Side. And therefore shall rather choice to recite that given by Bishop Spotiswood, than add any of my own. His Death, fays that Reverend Author, was by all Men greatly lamented, especially by the Commons, who loved him as their Father, whilf he liv'd, and now mourn'd grievously at his Death, the great Things he had wrought in his Life (having in the Space of one Year and little more, quieted the State which he found broken and disorder'd) made his very Enemies speak of him with Praise and Commendation, above all his Vertues which were not a few, he shined in Piety toward GOD, ordering himself and his Family in such Sort, as it did more resemble a Church than a Court; for therein, besides the Exercise of Devotion which he never emitted, there was no Wickedneß to be leen, nay not an unleemly wanton Word to be heard, a Man truly good, and worthy to be ranked a. mone the best Governors that this Kingdom bath enjoyed; and therefore to this Day is honoured with the Title of, The Good Regent.

The Regent married Agnes, Daughter of William Earl Marifchal, by whom he had Two Daughters, Margaret Countels of Murray, the Heir of his Honour and Estate, and Mary married to Francis Earl of Errol.

Which Margaret was married with James Stewart Lord Down, who in Right of her, his Wife, became Earl of Murray. He was a Person of great Parts, Magnanimity and Courage, and wanted nothing but Age and Ex- | vantage of him: But in the mean Time perience to have render'd him a most accomplish'd Nobleman. Upon some Maters of Interest there fell a Misunderstanding betwixt him and the Earl of Hantly, which grew into fuch an Animofity between them, that the King very much apprehended the Danger of those Divisions, there ha ving been some Blood shed, and Men kill'd upon their private Contests, so that the Country was paffionately divided between them; his Majesty therefore, in order to fettle the whole Dispute, upon the hearing all that could be faid by either Party, and being defirous to accommodate the Mater himself, caus'd summon them before the Council, and both the Earls obeying the Charge, it was determined that the Earl of Huntly should be ordered home to the Country, and my Lord Murray to stay at Court for fome Time. NAPIER, Lord Napier.

LTHO' the Napiers be a very ancient Family, yet I have not found any of them upon Record before the Time of the Competition between the Bruce and the Baliol for the Crown, that John de le Napier, was one of the Free-holders of the County of Dumbarton, who swore Fealty to King Edward I. of England, when the general Submission was made to that four and Picknot in the County of ton Shire (b), then in the Disposal of the Crown, by the Forfaulture of Dornagaile de Montefix.

The first conspicuous Person of this noble Family, was Sir Alexander Napier of Merchistoun, Kr. who being a Man of great Activity and Prudence, was by King James II, made Com. ptroller of Scotland, Anno 1450 (c), and the next enfuing Year was one of the Commissioners fent to England, to treat with the Deputies of that Crown, anent the keeping of a Peace betwixt the Two Realms (d).

Upon the Accession of King James III. to the Crown, he was made Vice Admiral of Scotland, and joined in Commission with divers other great Men, to treat with the Commissio. ners, of the Crown of England, about the keeping & maintaining of a Peace and Amity betwixt the Two Kingdoms (e). He married Elizabeth. Daughter of Lauder of Hatton (f),

by whom he had

John his Son and Heir, who was Provost of the City of Edinburgh in the Year 1484(g), and being a Person of great Wealth and Reputation, he made a very noble and advantagious Allyance by his Marriage with Margaret Menteth, Daughter and Coheir of Murdack Monteith of Rusky, and one of the Heirs of Line to Duncan Earl of Lennox (h). By her he had Archbald his Successor, and John Napier of Balerno.

Which Archbald married Elizabeth Douglass(i), a Lady of the Douglasses of Morton, by whom he had a Son.

Sir Alexander, who lost his Life Prince, Anno 1296 (a). Another with King James IV. and the Flower William de Napier had by the Grant of the Kingdom, at Flowdown-Field,

Which Alexander took to Wife Margaret Daughter of Sir Duncan Camplell of Glenurchy, Ancestor to the pre ent Earl of Brodalbin (c), and was slain at the Battle of Pinky, in Desence of his Country, 10th September 1547 (d), leaving Two Sons, by his Wite aforesaid, Sir Archibald his Successor, and Alexander who transported himself in to England, and settled at Luttenhoe in the Country of Bedford, where his Successors still continue in Lustre.

Sir Archibald succeeded his Farher in his Estate, and went generally by the Title of Edinbelly. He was much ho noured and respected by King James VI. who made him a Knight, and Master of the Mint, Anno 1587 (e): He married first Janet Bothwel, Daughter of Mr. Francis Bothwels one of the Senators of the College of Justice, in the Reign of King James V. Ancestor to the Lord Holy-Road House (f); by her he had John his Son and Heir: And again, Elizabeth Moubray, Daughter of Moubray (g), of Barn-Lougal, by whom he had Sir Alexander Napier of Lawriestoun, one of the Senators of the College of Justice in the Time of King Charles I. Margaret married to James Lord Ogilvy; and Agnes to Sir Patrick Gray of Innergowrie (b), and departing this Life on Whitfunday 1608 (i), was succeeded

John his Son and Heir, who being a Man of great natural Parts, he took Care to improve them by a good E ducation in the Schools of Learning, first at Home, and then by travelling abroad into Foreign Parrs, where he fpent some Years. Upon his Return he declined the Court, tho' he liv'd near it, and might have found a very easy Admission to it; and enter'd into a most vehement Course of Study, infomuch as in Time he arrived to that immense Knowledge in all the Parts of folid and useful Learning, that few have equall'd him in the Agé he liv'd; and his great Experience and Abilities in Mathematical Learning, hath render'd him so conspicuous and eminent. especially his Logarithms, that they will to his great Renown, remain to the World's End a Monument of his being a Scholar of the most sublime Parts and Penetration; and the Learned have not been wanting to celebrate his Memory, and preserve him in the List of those who by their great Learning have render'd themselves Ornaments to the Country they were of, as well as to the Family they sprang from. He was also the same Year named one of the Senators of the College of Justice: Soon after which he refigned his Place of Justice-Clerk, which was thereupon given to Sir George Elphinston of Blythswood, oth of August 1624.

Upon the Accession of King Charles I. to the Crown, his Majesty was pleas'd to continue Sir Archibald Napier both in the Treasurer-Depute's Place and in the Session, till the 1626, that fome new Regulations were made in the College of Justice, whereby all Peers and Officers of State were declared incapable of being ordinary Lords

But the Lord Napier did not think, as too many in that Time did, that his Removal did absolve him from all Obligations to the Crown; for affoon as the Troubles broke out in that Reign, his Lordship adhered with great Firmness and Fidelity to the King: And tho' he was a Nobleman of unblemished Reputation, yet being known to be of eminent Affection to his Majesty, he was scized by the Covenanters for no other Reason, but declaring himself distatisfied with their Proceedings; and without ever being charged with any particular Crime, they committed him Prisoner to the Caftle of Edinburgh, and afterwards fent him to the common Goal at Linlithgow (b), where he remained till he was fet at Liberty by the Marquis of Montrose after the Battle of Kilfyth; and tho' he was then very old, yet he ioined the Marquis, and accompanied him to the Battle of Philiphaugh. He married Elizabeth Daughter of John Earl of Mar, by whom he had Islue, Archibald his Son and Successor, John Napier, Esq; a young Gentleman of great Honour and Courage, who lost his Life in the great Seafight against the Dutch, May 28th 1672; also Three Daughters, Jean married to Sir Thomas Nicolon of Carnock; Margaret to John Brisbane, Esq; Secretary to the Royal Navy, and Resident from King Charles II. to the Court of France; and Mary who dy'd umarried.

And the' neither in the March, nor yet in the fatal Day, at Worcester, did he perform the Office of a General, with that Vigour and Spirit as he had done formerly on other Occasions; yet the King did not believe he had been false to him : For upon all the Enquiries that were afterward made, when most of the false and treacherous Actions which had IEUTENANT General Da-and Late was the Son of Paris : been committed were discovered, vid Lesty was the Son of Patrick, there appeared no Cause to suspect, first Lord Lindores, by Jean his Wife, that the Lieutenant General had been unfaithunfaithful in his Charge; and as it was not a little Vindication to him, that from the Time of his Imprison. ment that he was taken after Worcefter, till the Restauration of the King, he never received any Favour from the English Parliament, nor from Cromwell; but underwent the fame Hardships and Severities the most loyal of his Countrymen fuffered (a): And that which put his Fidelity to the King beyond what the utmost Calumny of his Enemies could invent, was, that his Majesty after his Return immediately created him a Peer of the Realm, by the Title of Lord Newark, 31st of August 1660 (b); and thereafter wrote him a Letter in his Vindication, in these Words.

Although we have upon all Occasions both abroad and since our happy Re. surn, declared our felf fully satisfied with your Conduct and Loyalty in our Service; and although in Consideration of the same we have given you the Title and Honoar of a Lord, with other Marks of our Favour and Esteem; yet seeing we are told, that Malice and Slander do not give over to persecute you, We have thought fit to give you this further Testimony, and to declare under our Hand, that while ye was our Lieutenant General of our Army of Scotland, you did both in Scotland and England behave jourfelf with als much Conduct, Resolution and Honestyas was possible, or could be expected from a Person in that Trust; and as we told you, so we do again repeat it, that if we had Occasion to levie an Army, fit for our self to command, we would not fail to give you an Employment in it, fit for your Quality. &c. MAXWEL,

Earl of Nithsdale,

THAT this most noble Family, which originally took its Surname from the Lordship of Maxwel, of old called Macaswel in Dumfries-Shire, hath been of great and eminent Antiquity, doth manifestly appear even from the Authorities our Publick, National, and other Records have furnished me with; and no doubt had I had Access to peruse the Writings of the Family of Maxwel as I have done most others, I should have been able to carry up the Antiquity of the Name to those Ages, when

The first using this Sirname was Herbert de Macuswell, who in the Time of King Malcolm IV. gave in pure Alms to the Monks of Kello, Ecclefiam suam de Macuswell (a), pro salute Anima

John de Macuswell, upon the Accesfion of King Alexander II. to the Crown, in 1215, was one of the Commissioners sent to England, to treat about a Marriage betwixt King Alex. ander and a Daughter of that Crown, which they then concluded (b). was thereafter by the fame King constituted Lord Great Chamberlain of Scotland; and he held the Office for many Years, even till his Death in Then

By her he had Henry his Heir, Elizabeth marcied to Sir John Drummond of Stob. hall (e), Ancestor to the Earl of Perth, and Mary to Sir Thomas Somervel of Carnwath.

Henry fecond Earl of Orkney, made a very great Figure in the Time of King James I. in whose Reign he was Lord High Admiral of Scotland, and Governor to that Prince in his younger Years. He married first Margaret, Daughter of Archbald Earl of Douglaß, by whom he had William Sinclair of Ravensheugh, the lineal Ancestor of the present Lord Sinclair, his eldest Son, whom he difinherited, and a Daughter Catharine, married to Alexander Duke of Albany: next, Marjory Daughter of Alexander Mafter of Sutherland: by her he had William, in whose Favours he resigned the Earldom of Caithness; whereupon the King confer'd it de nove on him, by a Charter under the Great Seal, 8th of December 1476 (k), Sir-Oliver Sinclair of Roslin (1), Sir David Sinclair, Kt. VALONIIS, Lord of Panmure.

N the Time of King William flourished Sir Philip de Valonius, who in the 11th of that Reign executed the Office of Lord Great Chamber-Iain of Scotland (b); and he held the Place under that Prince for many Years: As the Lord Chamberlain feems to have been in the highest Favour with that Prince, fo it appears he made a very confiderable Figure in the Publick Transactions of those Times, for when King William had the Misfortune to be taken Prisoner by the English at the Battle of Alnwick, Anno 1174, Sir Philip de Valoniis was one of the Hostages sent to England, for the King's Ransom (c). Upon the Return of the King to reward and faithful Services, his Master made him a Grant of the Baronies of Panmure and the Honour on the Viscountess his Benven in the County of Forfar, out of which he gave a Donation to the Monks of Coupar, in pure and perpetual Alms, Pro falute Animarum quondam Regis David, Comitis Henrici Filii sui, Regis Malcolmi, nec non pro salute Anima Regis Willielmi David Comitis Fratris sui, & falute sui ipsius, Antecefforum & Successorum suorum in perpenet, whereto a Chain is affixed; and on tuum (d); and departing this Life 5th the Sinister with a Bull, Sable, colour. Sir William de l'aloniis, who had a Grant from King William, in the Lifetime of his Father, of the Baronies of Panmure and Benvin, bearing to be made Willielmo de Valoniis, Filio Philippi de Valoniis de Terris illis in Scotia quas eidem Philippo Patri ejus dedi, soz. This Sir William being a Man of Parts and Merit, King Alexander II. was pleas'd to make him Lord Chamberlain of Scotland, a Place his Father had long and worthily held in the former Reign (g), upon his Fa. ther's Demise; and he discharged that great Office for the Space of Four Years, even till his Death in the 1219 he was buried at Melroß beside his Father (b), leaving Issue one Daughter, Christian his sole Heir, brought the Baronies of Benvin and Panmure to her Husband, Sir Peter de Maulia, Kt. the lineal Ancestor of the present Earl of Panmure, and the other commemorate Sir Philip's good and Branches of that most noble Family.

do reckon, that the first Ancestor of this ancient and noble Family, came from Hungary to Scotland, in the Reign of King Malcolm III. in the Retinue of Edward the Out-law of England, and of Margaret his Sifter, thereafter Queen of Scotland. But as this Affertion of Mr. Bois's is without Authoritt, or even fo much as Probability; to I rather incline with fome modern Antiquaries, who have enquired with great (uriofity into the Origin and Progress of Sirnames among us, to think the first Ancestor of the Maules to have come from France, and extracted from the noble Family of de Maulia, lo call'd from a fair Lordship of that Name in the Dutchy of Normandy; the first of whom I have found using the Sirname, was Petrus de Maulia, Filius Anfoldi, Filii Guarini, who gave, Anno 1076, to the Monks of Uttica, the Churches of St. Mary, St. Vincent, and St. Germain, in villa que nuncupatur Maulia, for the Salvation of his Soul (a), according to the Devo. tion of these Times, when good Works were believed to be meritorious with Almighty GOD; and departing this Life in January 1101 (b), was interr'd in the Cloister of Uttica, with an Epitaph over his Grave, of which this is a Part,

Which zielold was a very warlike Man, and did eminently fignalize himself in the Wars of Italy (c), particularly in the Battle where Alexius the Emperor of Constantinople, received a fignal Overthrow; likeas in 1106. he ratified to the Monastry of Uttica the Rights his Father had made to that Church; and afterward retiring from the World, for the better disposing himself, as he thought, to Devotion, he took upon him the Habit of a Monk of St. Bennet, in that Cloister, where he ended his Days not long after, and was there interr'd with this Epitaph upon his Tomb, writ by Odo of Monstrewel, Si quis crit si scire velit, dum vivus adesset Quis suerat quem Tumba tegit, quod nomen haberet; Ansoldi nomen suit huic, & Militis omen, &cc.

By Oldenine his Wife, Daughter of Radulphus de Malevicine, he had seven Sons, Petrus, Radulphus, Guarinus, Liscardus, Guido, Ansoldus, and Hugo.

Which Petrus de Maulia married Adda, Daughter of the Count de Ghifne, but being a turbulent Man, Louis the Gross, King of France, for his infolent Demeanour, demolished his Castle, and deprived him of his Lordship of Maulta; and tho' he was afterward fo far reconciled to his Prince, as that he accompanied him to the Battle of Breunivil, against Henry I. of England, in the 1119(d); yet for what I have found, he never recovered fo much Favour as to be restored to the Possesfion of his Estate. And 'tis highly probable, at least much more, so, than Boethius Story, that upon the falling low of the Family of De Maulia in Fffff France.

As the King had a great Regard for Sir Thomas Maule, fo the Churchmen profess'd a more than ordinary Honour and Esteem of him; for the then Abbot of Coupar, with full Confent and Approbation of his Convent made him Baily of their Barony of Barry, a Jurisdiction, the' of no great Value of itself, yet was fuch as the great Men before the Reformation affected to exerce, that they might be thought friendly to the Church, which was then no ill Politick, all Things confidered. He was afterward one of those Barons who made that loyal and dutiful Attempt to refue King James V. from the Earls of Arran and Angus, who kept him in little other Condition than that of a Captive, and in order to his Liberation, joined the Earl of Lennox at the Fight at Linlingow-Bridge, in 1526 (c). Tho' this generous Defign prov'd abortive, and the young King still detain'd by those who had him in their Hands, and the Laird of Panmare oblig'd to take a Remission for it, as it had been the foulest Treason; yet the King when he came to Age, retained a very lasting Sense of that Service, as a very loyal Appearance; and ever afterward treated Panmure on that Account with the greatest Re-

At the fame Time the Laird of Panmure was a strenuous' Opposer of the intended Match betwixt Queen Mary and Edward VI. of England, from an Apprehension his Country might fuffer, not only in its Freedom and Independency, but alspect and Esteem, insomuch as after so in its other valuable Privileges, by his Majesty assumed the Government such an Union. . He wrote likewise a History of the noble Family of which he was a Son, and in which, no Doubt, there were feveral great Men; as also another Treatise De Antiquitate Gentis Scotorum, in a tolerable pure Latin Stile, which he fays, was written contra Anglorum Calumnias & Mendacia, and feems to be plainly levelled against the English Antiquary Mr. Cambden, who about that Time, I think, had published his Britannia, wherein he afferts fome Things that the Scots Antiquaries were mightily displeas'd with, and none more than Commiffar Maule, who was one of the most strenuous Asserters of the Freedom and Independency of Scotland, and among the first who attacked Cambden; in which he was seconded by Mr. Hume of Godscroft, and afterward by the learned Mr. Drummond of Hawthornden. Beside other very judicious Remarks on the History of his Country, I observe from the little I have seen of Mr. Maule's MS. that he hath happily hit upon a better Notion of the ancient Culdees, than any Author before him; and when I have Occafion to peruse more of his Book in Relation to that Matter, I shall not fail to do his Memory all imaginable Justice, and frankly own the Helps I had from him in a Differtation concerning the Caldees I have by me, and which I intend, GOD willing, to communicate to the World.

Thomas Maule of Pitlivie the fifth Son married Mary Daughter to Lighton of Wlifhaven, by whom he had two Sons, Thomas and Robert Maules, Elquires, which last was Gentleman of the Privy-Chamber to King Charles I. Thomas Maule the elder Brother, transported himself to the Kingdom of Ireland, where he established a Family, which fill continues in that Kingdom with Lustre, and being a gallant brave Man, and a most hearty Loyalist in the Service of King Charles I. in the Time of the Civil War, was Lieutenant Colonel to the Marquis of Ormond's own Regiment, when he acted as Lieutenant General for the King in that Kingdom. The Colonel left behind him two Sons, William Maule, Efq; Surveyor General of the Customs of Dublin, and Thomas Maule, Esq; one of the Grooms of the Bedchamber to Prince George of Denmark, and Lieutenant of the Yeomen of the Guard in England: a Gentleman of Honour and Merit.

Which Patrick being a Person of good Parts and Qualities, and of a Family which had always been firm to the Crown, in his Youth betook himself to the Court of King James. and being of a pleafant Humor and Disposition, of a notable Affability in his Behaviour, and well qualified by his Breeding for any Service his Master should think fit to employ him in, he quickly grew to be very acceptable to the King, and into a general Esteem with the Court, infomuch as his Majesty in a short Time made him one of the Gentlemen of the Bedchamber, about the Time or a little after his Entrance to England in 1603, and as he attended his Majesty into that Kingdom, so he lived upon his own Fortune, without any other Support than the Profits of his Place, and his Majefty's Favour. Mr. Maule liv'd always decently, and in a fair Intelligence with the Favourites, having always Credit enough to provide for his own Interest, without troubling himself with that of other Men. And that which made him exceedingly beloved in the Court, was, that he never defired to get that for himfelf which others laboured for, but was ever ready to use his Interest with his Master, to promote the Pretences of worthy Men. As this his Behaviour made him many Friends, fo few or none had the Confidence to avow themselves to be his Enemies: And as he had always a full Share in his Majesty's Esteem and Favour, who looked on him as a wife and faithful Servant, fo he was graciously pleased to give many Testimonies thereof, particularly in a new Charter to him, under the Great Seal, of his ancient Barony of Panmure in 1610. The Narrative bears the Grant to be made by his Majesty, in Consideration of the good, loyal and acceptable Service done and performed to Us, by Our intirely beloved, familiar. faithful and domestick Servant Patrick Maule of Panmure, one of the Gentlemen of Our Bedchamber, in his faithful and diligent Attendance upon Our Royal Person for these many Tears past, even from his Touth, and his ready Disposition and Capacity to do Us all laudable Service at all Times and on all Occasions, as he shall be commanded by Us, of which his most faithful and acceptable Service, We have full and sufficient Experience. Moreover in the new Gift of the same Charter, whereby the King dispones to him the Patronage of the Church of Panbride; His Majesty declares his Motive to the Grant, to be upon His own Sufficient Experience of the Wildom, Discretion and Judgment of the said Patrick Maule of Panmure, and his prudent Manage-

Management of his own Affairs, and of the ardent Zeal and Affection which he has for the Propagation of the Gospel. For King James was ever most folicitous, after the reftoring of Epifcopacy, to have the Laick Patronages in the Hands of fuch Persons as were Friends to the Church as then established by Law; and his Son King Charles of ever bleffed Memory, who did not come short of his Royal Father, but rather exceeded him in his Zeal for the Church, being fully fatisfied of Mr. Maule's Affection that Way, and of his unblemished Integrity in the Protestant Religion, his Majesty gave his Royal Consent and Approbation to the Transaction, which paffed betwixt him and the Earl of Dyfart, by which he purchafed the Abbacy of Aberbrothock, which was erected into a temporal Lordship, with the Right of Patronage of the Churches of Aberbrothock, Arbirlot, Monikie, Muirhouse, Dunighton, Maynes, Lunan, Inverkilor, Ethie, Monifuith, Clova, Ruthven, Glamis, Kirriemuir, Kingoldrum, Newtyle, Gaval, Dunbug, Abernethy, Invernels, Aberchirdor, Bamff, Glamrie, Langlie, Guildie, Kinernie, Banchorie Trinity, Betbelvie, Forgie, Fyvie, Tarves, Nig and Feterangus (a), all formerly belonging to the dissolved Monastry of Abertrothock, which besides the old Patronages of his own Family, made him among the greatest Patrons of any in Scotland. 1 11 10 The Shot

As Mr. Maule of Pannure liv'd in the greatest Favour and. Esteem with King James, who had always a very good Opinion of him, so at his Death he commended him to his Son King Charles, as a Person to be relied on in Honour and Fidelity, of which that Prince himself was also very well fatisfied and pleased, for he not only continued him in his Bedchamber, but made him also Sheriss-Principal of

Forfarshire, when the Crown acquired the Hereditary, Right of that Office from the Family of Gray in 1632 (b), the King always lodging, these new acquired Jurisdictions in the Hands of such Persons as he could confide in

When the Troubles broke out, Mr. Maule, being a Person of most eminent Affection and of intire Devotion to the Crown, adhered to the King with great Honour and Fidelity, was with him in all lie Battles in which his Majesty was ingaged in his own Royal Person, and thereafter went with him to Oxford, where he stay'd till the first War was brought to an End, by his Majesty's putting himself in the Scatt Army before Nemark felf in the Scots Army before Newark. Affoon as it was known where the King was, Mr. Maule repaired to him and waited on him thence to Newcastle, when his Majesty thought fit to put a lasting Mark of his Favour on his old faithful Servant, and made him a Peer, by the Title of Earl of Panmure, August 3d 1646 (c), with as great Circumstances of Grace and Favour as could be expressed: For in the Preamble to the Patent, his Majesty was graciously pleased to call to Remembrance his Lordship's Services to his Father, and his Fidelity to himself, which he declared in these Words, WHEREAS We have particular Knowledge of the long and faithful Service of Our well beloved Patrick Maule Baron of Panmure, one of the Gentlemen of Our Bedchamber, both in the Reign of Our most dear Father of ever bleffed Memory, and also ever fince Our Accession to the Throne, now these one and twenty Tears, by a close Adherence to Our Sacred Person; and seeing We are most ready to bestow some Mark of Our Royal Favour on the Said Patrick, now that he is turning old: KNOW YE THERFORE, That We have created, &c.

The Earl of Panmure was with his Majefty, when Cornet Foice came on the 3d of June 1647, with a Troop of Horse, and violently seized on the King's Person, and carried him from Holmby to the Army, and after to Hampton-Court; his Lordship having Liberty to attend his Master in all the Removes he made, which was to his Majesty's great Satisfaction: And the at first the King enjoyed city himself to have appeared in any

It was not long before the chief Officers of the Army feem'd more regardless of the King, and treated his Servants with less Civility; infomuch as his Majesty (from an Apprehension they had some secret Delign upon his Life) made his Escape upon the 11th November 1648 from Hampton Court (b), and unhappily went to the Island of Wight, which prov'd fo fatal to him. Thither his Lordship, so soon as he had Intelligence where the King was gone, repaired to him, having no Reafon to doubt but that his Presence would be very acceptable to his Master (c): And his Lordship attended in his Office in the Bedchamber, till his Majesty having resused to give his Royal Assent to the four Bills the Parliament had then fent to him, which he said did divest him of all Sovereignty, that Colonel Flamond the Governor of the Place, by Order from his Masters, caused all the King's Servants to be immediately put out of Carisbrook caftle, and forbid any of them to repair thither any more upon their Peril (d); whereuponthe Earl, after the King had used many gracious Expressions of his Lordships faithful Services, kiffed his Majesty's Hands, and took a fad Farewell of his Master, appearing to have little Hope ever to fee him again in this World, and departing for Scotland. lived quietly at his own House in the Country, keeping his Heart and Afa fections always intire for the King.

Sterl. (a), for no other Reason, but his being a Person of known Loyalty, and having his Sons engaged in the King's Service.

After which he lived with Eafe and Plenty in his Fortune, which was very great, and in great Reputation with all those who wished well to the Crown: the Restoration of which, as no Man more heartily wished, so he had the Comfort of feeing it brought about, by a most surprising Act of Providence, when there appeared least Hope of it, and least worldly Means to bring it to pass, which was the Thing his Lordship had longed most passionately to see before he fhould leave the World. He died on the 22d of December 1661, and was inter'd in the Vault of his Family at Panbride Church, with his Ancestors.

This noble Earl married three Wives, first, Frances Daughter of Sir Edward Stanhope of Grimstoun, of the County of Tork, Knight, of the same Family with the Earl of Chesterfield in England; by whom he had four

Colonel Hary Maule of Balmakelly, who in the End of the Reign of King Charles I. betook himself to the Service of the King, and had a Regiment bestowed on him in the Army, that was raifed in order to redeem his Majesty from Prison, and restore him to his Freedom and Liberty: but being taken Prisoner at the Battle of Preston, he found Means to make his Escape into Scotland, and with the same Affections the Colonel engaged by the Time King Charles II. arrivagain in the Service of King Charles II. and had the Command of a Regiment of Foot, at the unfortunate Battle of Dunbar, where he gain'd the Reputation of a stout and active Officer.

He married sirst Jean Daughter of John Earl of Weems, by whom he had a Daughter Mary, who died at Panmure Anno 1693; and again Margaret, a Lady of the Douglasses of Spot, by whom he left only one Daughter, Margaret married to Alexander Cochran of Barbachly, and had Islue, and dying in the Spring of the Year 1667, was on the 8th of April (b) interred in the Abbay Church of Holy rood-

The Earl married to his fecond Wife Mrs. Mary Waldrum, one of the Maids of Honour to the Queen; and after that the Lady Mary Erskine, Daughter of John Earl of Mar. Lord High Treasurer of Scotland, by the Lady Mary Stewart his Wife, Daughter of E/me Duke of Lennox, Widow of William Earl Marshal; but by neither the other Lady, nor the Countels Marshal, had he any Children that came to Age.

To Patrick Earl of Panmure fuci ceeded George Lord Brechin his Son. This noble Lord was too young to be engaged in the War when it first broke out, during which Time he had his Education in France and Italy: But

ed in Scotland in 1650, pursuant to the Treaty of Breda, his Lordship being now of Age, of Parts, and undoubted Loyalty and Affection to the Crown, waited on his Majesty, his Father the old Earl being now ftruck in Years and troubled with the Infirmities of Age: And affoon as the Parliament raifed an Army for the King, the Lord Brechin being a Nobleman not only firm to the Principles of Monarchy, but also of great Duty and Affection to the Person of the King, heartily engaged in the Service himfelf, and endeavoured to dispose all those, upon whom he had Influence, to take the same Resolutions; and it foon appeared his Interest in the Country was very great, for his Lordship being appointed Colonel of the Forfarshire Regiment of Horle, many of the principal Gentlemen engaged themselves in the Service, and came to his Regiment out of Devotion and Respect to his Lord fhip, as well as Duty to the King, and ferved under him as Officers. His Lordship was at the Head of his Regiment at the unfuccessful Battles of Dunbar and Inverkeithing, at both which he fought with very remarkable Courage, and at the last of these his Regiment behaved fo well, and fuffered to much, that he himfelf was wounded, his Lieutenant Colonel and Major and many other of his Officers killed; and when the Action was over, his Soldiers were fo difperfed, that scarce fixty of them could ever be got together again. But that Missortune did not in the least discourage him from being every Way as active and forward again in advancing and conducing all he could toward his Majesty's Service, for after the Coronation was over. in which his Lordship assisted as a young Peer (a), when the Parliament appointed another Army to be raised for the Recovery of his other two Kingdoms, Scotland being intirely united in his Majesty's Service, no Body appeared more forward to advance the Work in Hand than the Lord Brechin, in order to which his Lordship was one of those who met with old General Lefly Earl of Levin, and feveral other Peers and Officers of Note, at Eliot in Augus, as a Place which was thought very favourable for making Levies, which they all intended; but they had not stay'd long there, when the Lord Brechin gave it as his Opinion, that the Place where they were had nothing for Defence, and advised the General to draw further into the Country for their Security, and told the General, that he was not fure, that if a Detachment from the Garrison of Dundee should make a brisk Attempt, they might not be all surprised and taken out of their Beds: But the General being of another Mind, his Lordship, who better knew the Country than any of the other Lords, and so more sensible of the Danger, to fecure himfelf left the Committee, and retired to Sidlawhills; and it was foon evident what the Lord Brechin had advised was right, for the very Evening of the Day, or foon after he had left them. the whole Committee was furprifed and taken Prisoners by a strong Party of the English, and fent to London. and committed to the Tower, where all of them except General Lefly underwent a long Imprisonment, even till the Restoration of the King.

The Lord Brechin being at Liberty in the Hills, the Loyalists, from all Quarters, reforted to him, after the Fight of Worceffer, and put them-felves under his Command; and his Lordhip behaved in that Station very worthily, and made often Skirmi-

thes with the Enemy, and sometimes with notable Advantage, and made frequent Incursions in the Night into the English Quarters, which gave General Monk some Trouble; But being convinced of the Impossibility of keeping up an Attempt, which at last must prove ruinous to himself, and could do the King no Service, he made his Peace with the General next Year, without any other Compliance to the present Powers than the laying down his Arms, and thereupon retired to his own House, where he remained quietly, prepared and disposed to run the Fortune of the Crown, to which he was most entirely devoted, in any other Attempt.

When the King came Home in 1660, his Lordship repaired to London, to congratulate his Majesty and the Royal Family upon their happy Restoration; and the his Majesty received his Lordship with a very good Countenance, yet he was not rewarded with any great Dignity or Preferment, as was expected, and with which some others were, who had not been so faithfull to the King, as the Earl of Panmure. But as that was the Fate of very many of the loyal Party, who had ferved the King with the utmost Fidelity, as well as his Lordship, so it was much more to be imputed to the Ministry than to the King himfelf: For 'tis reported, that some in great Credit with his Majesty endeavoured to instill into the King's Mind a Principle, that he must prefer his Enemies, and advance them, to gain them to be his Friends; and for his old Friends, it was no matter how he used them, for they would be so still: And indeed it fell out fo, that very many, who had fuffered most in their Persons and Fortunes for the Crown, were not recompensed upon the Restoration, according to their Merit, or confidered as they deferved: Of which Number this Noble Earl, I may truly fay, was one of the most eminent Instances; which mistaken Politick of the then States-men, as it was obferved thro' that whole Reign fo many great and wife Men have thought, that its being followed, did bring no fmall Prejudice and Inconvenience to the Crown thereafter. But notwithstanding his Lordship was overlooked as to any Preferment, yet he did not on that Account, as many others did, oppose himself to the Court; but in all the Parliaments and National Conventions, which were called while he lived, and on which his Lordship constantly attended, he always distinguished himself by a hearty Concurrence in whatfoever was proposed for advancing the Honour of the Crown, and the Welfare and Happiness of the Kingdom, which he made manifest by his several Speeches, whereby he left behind him lafting Monuments of his great Knowledge in our Constitution and Laws, of his unshaken Loyalty to his Prince, and his intire Love to his Country, infomuch as I have heard fome eminent Men, who were his Contemporaries, tpeak of him with great Honour, as a Nobleman in as high Reputation for his great Abilities and eminent Integrity as any Man of his Time, and dying 24. of March 1671, he was interr'd at Panbride with his Ancestors.

This Noble Earl married Jean eldest Daughter of John Earl of Lowdown, Lord High Chancellor of Scotland in the Reign of King Charles I.

N. B. When the Government was first alarmed by an Insurrection in the South in 1666, so foon as the Resolution was declared to raise an Army to suppress it, they who had the chief Direction of Affairs did repose such considers both in the Earl of Pammer's Loyalty and Skill in military Affairs, that he was appointed to command the Gentry of Forsar-shire; but the Deseat at Pentland by General Dalziel prevented the raising that or any of the Northern Counties, the Peace of the Kingdom being thereby secured.

by whom he had three Sons and a Daughter, viz.

George, Lord Maule, his Successor in the Honour,

James Maule of Balumby now Earl

of Panmure,

Hary Maule of Kelly, who in his younger Years travelled into foreign Parts, and spent much of his Time at the Courts of France and England. At the Revolution he was a Member of the Convention of Estates, which he left when he perceived they would forseit King James, and has never fince been concerned in any publick Affairs, having always continued a Non-juror; but in his Retirement has greatly improved his natural Parts, by a close Application to the History and Laws of his Country. He married first Mary, Daughter of William Earl of Wigton, by Henrietta his Wife, Daughter of Charles Earl of Dumfermling, Lord Privy-Seal in the Reign of King Charles II. by whom he had George, who died an Infant, Fames Maule Elg; William Maule Elg; and two Daughters, Henrietta, who died young, and Jean. He married to his second Wife, Anne Daughter of Mr. Patrick Lindsay of Kilbirny, and of Margaret his Wife, Daughter and Heir of Sir John Crawford of Kilbirny, and Sister to John first Viscount of Garnock: By her he had Patrick, John, Thomas, and a Daughter Margaret, all young, and David and Charles who died Infants.

Lady Mary Maule, only Daughter of George Earl of Panmure, was married first to Charles Earl of Mar, and thereafter to Colonel John Erskine, Son of Sir Charles Erskine of Alva.

George Earl of Panmure being a young Nobleman of very bright and confpicuous Parts, was by King Charles II. when he came to Age, call'd to his Majesly's Privy Council, as he was likewite of the Council to King James. He married Jean, only Daughter of John Earl of Wigton, by Anne his Wife, Daughter of Henry Lord Kerr, by whom he had a Son, George Lord Maule, who died an Infant, whom the Earl himself did not long survive, for Death overtook him on the 1. of February 1686 (a), to the great Grief, not only of his own Relations, but of all those who had the Honour to know him, who exceedingly lamented his immature Death, as a great Loss to his Country. He was interr'd in the same Vault with his Father and Grandsather, at the Church of Panbride, the Estate and Honour of the Family devolving on

James Maule of Balumby his Brother, who after having paffed the Course of his Studies at Home, together with his younger Brother, travel'd abroad into foreign Parts: He serv'd as a Volunteer at the Siege of Luxemburgh, where he eminently signaliz'd his Courage, infomuch as his Valour was very particulary taken Notice of.

Upon his Accession to the Honour he was named one of the Lords of his Majesty's Privy-Council, from which he was foon thereafter removed, for not complying with the Defign of the Court, in taking away the penal Laws against Popery. But the' his Lordship did always shew himself very firm to the Protestant Interest thro' the whole of that Reign, yet in the Convention of Estates he vigorously appeared for the Interest of King James; and when the Crown was fettled on King William and Queen Mary, he left the Meeting, and has fince continued a Non-juror.

When the great Affair of the Union with England came to be confidered in the Parliament, tho' his Lordship did not think fit to qualify himself by taking the Oaths enjoined by Law, to enter his Diffent against it in a Parliamentary Way as a Peer, yet no Body was more heartly averse to it, as appeared both from his meeting with the Principals of those who were

were the most zealous Opposers of the Lands of Culkelly, within that of it, and in promoting and influencing Addresses against it, from ging it against the Honour and Interest of the Nation, and subversive of the Sovereignty and fundamental Conflitution of the Kingdom. His Lordthip married the Lady Margaret, third and youngest Daughter of William and Anne, Duke and Dutchels of Hamilton, but hath no Isfue.

IN the Time of King Alexander II. flourish'd Malcolm Beg Drymen, who was then possess'd of the Lands of Drymen in the County of Stirling, from which no doubt the Sirname was first assumed, and was Seneschal to Malduin Earl of Lennox, the Paternal Ancestor to all our British Kings of the Stuartine Family, whose Daughter Adda he married (a); and by her he had Malcolm his Successor, the Father of another Malcolm, who is defign'd Malcolm de Drymen Filius Mal-Heriot, Jeweller to King James VI. and Founder of that great Hospital at Edinburgh, which bears his Name, and which he endowed with great Lands and Revenues; and Margaret to Mr. Thomas Toung of Lainie.

Which Archbald being a Person of excellent Parts of Nature, his Father took great Care to breed him in the Study of the Law; and in which he made a very notable Progress by an early Eminence in Practice and Learning, infomuch as he was by the Choice of his Majesty King Charles I. and the full and hearty Approbation of the Council, preferred to be Clerk to the Privy-Council, on the 2d of September 1641 (a), a Place his Father had long and worthily fill'd; and the King had fo good an Opinion of juncture. Mr. Primerole's Fidelity, Judgment and Difererion, that by a Letter under his own Royal Hand, bearing Date 18th December 1641, he ordered him to transmit to Court an Account weekly of what was transacted in the Council, as his Father had done; and which he continued to dotill all private Correspondence with his Majetty and all about the Court, was discharged upon the highest Penalty. During the Civil War he was a great Loyalist; and after the Battle of Killyth repair'd to the Marquis of Montrofe, at the Time when he was join'd by divers of the Nobility and Officers of State (b), and continued with him till the unfortunate Bittle of Philiphaugh, he was made Prifiner, and try'd, and found guilty of High Treason by the Parliament at St. Andrew's 1646; and tho' feveral others who were not more guilty than he were put to Death, yet by the Intercession and Interpolition of his Friends, particularly the Marquis of Argyle, who was his Lady's near Relation, his Life was spar'd; yet he continued a Prisoner till the Marquis of Montrese and the Committee of Estates came to a Capitulation, whereby the Marquis was to depart the Kingdom, which he did; and thereupon feveral of his Friends were fet at Liberty, of which Number this worthy Person, whose Memoirs I write, was one. Thereafter when the Parliament declar'd for the King, and rais'd an Army to relieve him, when he was a Prisoner in the Isle of Wight, no Body appear'd more forward in a prudent Way, to advance that Enterprize, than Sir Archbald Primerofe, which was afterward very gratefully remember'd by the Crown upon a more favourable Con-

When Sir Archbald had the Honour of Knighthood confer'd on him, I cannot fay, but, I apprehend it was in the End of 1646, when he was fet at Liberty, that he waited on his Majesty when he put himself into the Hands of the Scots Army before Newark, tho' I have not found him fo designed in any Write for some Time after.

Sir Archbald having continued his faithful Services to King Charles II. the Time he remained in Scotland, he likewise marched with him into England, when his Majesty, by a Patent under his Royal Hand, bearing Date, At Woodhouse, in our Royal Army on the South Borders of Scotland, 1st of August 1651 (c), made him a Baronet, In Consideration of the many good and faithful Services performed to us and our Royal Father of bleffed Meinery, in our most special Affairs, by Sir Archbald Primerofe, Clerk to our Privy Council; and being defirous to gratify the Defervings of so faithful a Servant, with some special Wark of our Royal Fa-L11112 vour, therefore &c. After the Defeat ample, which indeed bath already been at Horcester, that the Royal Party were totally suppress'd, Sir Archbald Primerole being reckon'd among the first Form of Malignants, his Estate was not only fequelirated, but even what Sums of Money could be difcovered to be owing him in private Hands, were discharged to be paid him; for Sir Archbald being a great Creditor upnn Sir John Johnston of Elphing froun's Estate, I have seen an Order from General Disborough, ftraitly inhibiting and discharging Sir John to pay to the faid Sir Archbald any Sams of Money he might be oning him, spon his Peril.

During the Remainder of the U furpation, Sir Archbald liv'd in a private and retir'd Manner till the joyful Restauration of the King, tha he received the Reward of his Merit, for his Majelly in August 1660, did appoint him Lord Register of Scotland (a), and one of the Senators of the College of Juttice, where he fat many Years, and discharged the Office with great Judgment and Learning.

The great Services he did his Ma fter the King, and his Country when he was first made Lord Register, were acknowledged not only by Letters under his Majesty's own Royal Hand, but by feveral of the great Men in England, particularly the Earl of Clarendon, then Lord Chancel. lor of England, who wrote him a very civil Letter, wherein he has thefe re markable Words, I cannot, my Lord, but congratulate you for the meritorious Part you have had in restoring the King and Kingdom (meaning Scotland) ther with the Duke of Hamilton, the to its primitive Floneur and Interest | Earls of Drumfrieze and Kincardine, (b); and concluding, he fays, I wish the | and the Lord Cochran, all in one fame good Spirit may poffess you to the Day turn'd out of the Council; but End, and with the Jame Success while the Refentment was carried further we here endeavour to follow your Ex- against the Lord Carringtoun, and of great Use to us.

He was a great Lover of his Country, which he alwise manifested; for in the Matter of the Billoting in Parliament, tho' he was the Earl of Middleton's Friend, yet he could never be brought to favour that Proicat, but opposed it with all his Power: Which the Earl of Middleton did not refent against Sir Archbald, well knowing, as he himself owns, that the Lord Register's opposing him in the Project of the Billoting, did not proceed from any Diflike to his Lordthips Person, but from his known Principles of Moderation, and the Earl did not only then acknowledge the Sincerity of the Register's Friendhip to him, but even afterwards, at a Time when Professing to be the Lord Middleton's Friend, was not thought very meritorious.

Thereafter, when the Ministry in that Reigndid, as was thought, outface the Law by many bold Preffures upon the Subject, Sir Archbald Primeroje, tho' he was courted to enter into a strict Union with them, and that on his own Terms, yet could never be induced to concur in any Thing that had not a fufficient Found dation in Law, but rejected all Offers that were made for his own private Advantage, that were not confiltent with the Good of his Country, and therefore he joined with those Lords who appeared most zealous for the Redrefs of Grisvances, which brought him so much into the Jealoufy of the Court-Party, that upon a very trivial Account, he was, toge-many and very powerful Efforts were and Sir Archbald Primerofe being made to get him turned out of his Place too; but his Majefty, who had a great Effeem of him, as a very wife Man, and very worthy the Trust he had reposed in him, could not for a long Time be prevailed with to hearken to any Overture that could be made for his Removal, till the Court Party, which the King refolved to support, did represent that it was necessary to have a Person in his Post, in whom they could confide, and that Sir Archbald being ftruck in Years, he himfelf defired to exchange his Office with another of an eafier Nature; and upon this very Supposition, and on no other Confideration, did the King give Order for his Removal from the Register's Place, and at the same Time prefer'd him to be Instice General: But he continuing still firm to his Party, the Torrent against him ran so high, that his Ma-Kindness for, and Esteem of him, thought fit at length to take his Place 16th of October 1678.

bly petitioned the King for a Hearing petual Credit. in his own Royal Presence, that the Sir Archbild thinking he had now Matters in Difference might be more a fair Opportunity of advancing the clearly understood, and more freely publick Good, and doing all those transacted; and his Majesty having Offices to his Country he had ever so look'd on as a Person of the greatest Wildom and Experience, and one who throughly understood the whole Frame and Constitution of the Go. vernment in Church and State. The Duke of Hamilton, the Marquis of Athole, the Earls of Caffils, Perth, and Kincardine, Lieutenant General Drummond, and the Lord Cochran, well knowing how very useful Sir Archbald would be in the prefent Extgence, did all conjunctly write very preffingly, That he fhould haften up to London, to be present at the Conference which was to be in his Majefty's Prefence; and the Earl of Perth wrote him a most pathetical Letter, lively representing the Dangers which threatned, and were like to overwhelm the Nation, if not prevented by a fpeedy Remedy; that now they had an Opportunity of making their Country happy, by removing all jefty, who fill retain'd a very great Grievances, it he and others would do their Duty; and therefore conjured him by many Arguments no from him, to which Sir George Mac- longer to defer his Coming up; and kenzie of Turbat, a Person of great concludes with these Words, My Lord, Honour and Worth was prefer'd the you fee how Scotland is, you fee how your Friends Reputation lyes at Stake; Thereafter, when the Differences you fee there is but this Pull for it; run high betwixt the Two Parties, and you fee how fairly it lyes at your the Duke of Hamilton, the Marquis Hand. The Duke his Father departing this Life as aforefaid in 1695, he laid afide all Thoughts of Military Employments, quitted the Command of the Guards, and was thereupon made Lord Privy Seal, and one of the Extraordinary Lords of the Seffion.

His Majesty in 1700 was pleas'd to make him Lord High Commissioner to represent his Royal Person in Parliament, where he held Two Seffions by virtue of Two diffinct Patents; and upon his Return to Court, his Majesty on the 18th June 1701, was pleas'd to honour the Duke with University of Glasgow, he went into a distinguishing Mark of his Royal Foreign Parts, to accomplish himself Favour, for that Evening, a Chapter by Travels, Anco 1680, and upon being held of the most noble Order his Return in 1684, was by King of the Garter at Kenfingtonn, where Charles II. made one of the Privy the Sovereign was present, the Duke Council, and Lieutenant Colonel of was then elected a Companion of a Regiment of Horiz commanded by the Order, and install'd at Windfor Lieutenant General Graham, there- the 10th of July thereafter. He was flain at Flowdoun, leaving Issue by Christian Daughter of Archbald Edmonstoun of Dantreath, Ninian his Successor, who married first Janet, Daughter to the Earl of Lennex, and again Elizabeth Daughter of Williams Lord Ruthven, Dowager-Countefs of Errol, and had Robert Master of Rols, who was fliin at Pinky-Field 1544, leaving a Daughter Elizabeth his Heir, married to John Lord Fleming, James his Father's Successor, who by 'fean his Wife, Daughter of Robert Lord Semple, had Robert his Son and Heir, and Sir William Ross, Kt. In the 1705, her Majesty was pleafed to appoint his Lordship to be one of the Commissioners for the Union between Scotland and England; for the accomplishing of which he was very zealous, by Reason that the Protestant Succession to the Crown was thereby fecured, to which he always shew'd himself a firm and hearty Friend.

LESLY. Earl of Rothes.

N regard I had not an Opportunity of doing the Justice to this noble Family, by peruling their Writings, as I could have wished, it cannot be reasonably expected, but that my Memoirs of the House of Rothes should be less connected than others, whose Line and Descent I deduced from the in Germany, of the Name of Lefly, he counts of the Families he treats of except Balquhain, whose Writs it would appear he had feen and perufed the rest, especially Rothes, is such a Mass of confused unchronological Stuff, that no Man now a Days, will venture to cite him for an Authority's if he think he himself is to be believed; and therefore I shall proceed to mention such Writs and Charters, without Respect to the Laurus Leslaana, I either observed from our national Archives or otherwife, as are proper to illustrate the Honour and Antiquity of this most noble Family.

'Tis certain that the first Possessions of this illustrious Family was in Aberdeen-Shire, the Barony of Lefly in the Garrioch; and from whence, without all doubt, the Sirname has been assumed; for in the Reign of William the Lyon, David Earl of Huntingtoun and Garrioth, the King's. Brother, made a Grant, Malcolmo filio Bartholf, de terris suis de Leslyn, sicut perambulate fuerunt ei coram A. Episcopo Aberdeen, per prohis hominibus fuis, & Hachengart, & Mailiæ, per rectas divisas Juas (b). This Malcolm left a Son Norman, filius Malcolmi (e), who obtained a Charter from John Earl of Huntingtoun, de terris de Leflyn, sicht Charta Patris sui inde testatur.

The Family of Rothes took Beginning in the Reign of King Robert I. Sir Andrew Left, Kt. one of the Barons in the Letter to the Pope Anno 1320, wherein the Independency of Scotland is very fully afferred and vindicated, which is all I have found memorable of him. Successor of Sir Andrew was another Sir Andrew Lefty, who in the First of King Robert III. 1390, refign'd in the Sovereign's Hands, the Lands and Barony of Banbrech in Fife, the Lands of Lour and Dulopy in Forfar, the Lands and Barony of Rothey-Norman, and Cucychne, in Aberdeen-Shire, referving the Liferent of the whole to Andrew de Lefly his Father (a), but he dying without Issue Male of his Body, was succeeded by

Sir George Lefly, Kt. his Heir of Entail (b), who first assumed the Title of Rothes(c). He married Eli. zabeth, Daughter of Sir Thomas Hay, Lord of Errol (d), by whom he had Norman his Heir, who in the 1423, was one of the Barons fent to England, to attend King James home, when he was relieved out of his Captivity from England (e); and dying Anno 1539, lest Issue by Christian de

Which George being a Nobleman of great Wisdom and Prudence, was much esteemed by King James V. who carried him over to France in the 1537, when his Majesty was espoused to Magdalen a Daughter of that Crown : After whose Death, during the Regency of the Duke of Chattlerault, he was fent Ambassador to Denmark, in which Negociation he behav'd himfelf with great Prudence and Dexterity; and being look'd on generally throughout the Kingdom as a very wife Man, he was named one of the Commissioners to go to France, to the Queen's Marriage with the Dauphine, where he died at Deip, on the oth of November 1558, not without Suspicion of being poifoned.

I'm heartily forry, there are not fuch Documents in my Hands as should fully enable me to set the Marriages of this noble Earl in a true Light. Mr. Lefly gives the Preference to Lady Margaret Crichton, as the Earl's first Lawful Wife, tho' I think his Authority is little to be valued : for 'tis clear from a Charter of George Earl of Rothes in the 1528, wherein he gives both Nicolas Somervel and Margaret Crichton a Liferent out of the fame Lands; Mrs. Somervel is expresly call'd his Wife, and is first mentioned before the other Lady, who is no otherwise designed than by her Name, tho' she was of much greater Quality of Birth than the other: Yet 'tis also clear by another Charter, in the 1542, That Lady Margaret Crichton is designed, Counteß of Rothes (h), and then is cer-For the Wife, Daughter of Michael Balfour, clearing this Matter, I shall humbly

The Cale I take to have been Justice settle it upon his Son Andrew. could not be valid without a Dif- thes. penfation, or the Children confidered as begot in lawful Marriage, tho' himself; for when Norman his Son by her, was a very young Man, he put him in Fie of his Estate, and in all the Transactions afterwards about it, upon his Forfaulture, he's never defigned the Earl's natural Son, but only his Son simply, and Fiar of the Earldom of Rather,

Which John being a Nobleman of very good Parts, and great Address, was one of those Peers who were most forward and leading for the Redress of Grievances, when the the Earl being the Person of the greatest Parts, Interest, and Experience, in all the Popular Party, it cannot be denied, but he came to be generally look'd on as the Principal and governing Person of the Nation at that Time; and after the Treaty of Rippon, at which he was the first Commissioner, when the Pacification was concluded, his Majesty resolved and actually did adjust all his Business with that Party by the Earl, who undertook that Scotland should rest satisfied with the Concessions! which were in the Treaty; and his Majesty was well farisfied, fays my Author (a), 'with the Promises made to him by the Earl: And 'tis certain | the King expected by his Help and Interest, to have found fuch a Party in Scotland, as would, headds, 'have been more tender of his Honour, than 'they after expressed themselves; and 'did alwife impute the Failing there. of to the Absence of the Earl, who falling fick, at the King's coming 'down to Scotland, within Six Weeks ' thereafter, died at London, in August '1641', which his Majesty thought an irreparable Loss to his Service.

John Earl of Rothes was too young to have been concern'd in the War dy of incomparable Piety and Good-

He married Anne, Daughter of John Earl of Crawfurd, by whom he had Margaret Countess of Rothes, and Christian married to James Marquis of Montrofe, and again to Sir John Bruce of Kinroß, Batt.

D AVID Prince of Scotland, eldest Son of King Robert III. was the first dignissed by his Father with this Title in the 1399. He was a young Prince of great Courage, and of a Spirit that desir'd to be in Action, yet it was his Misfortune to indulge himself in Pleasures of all Kinds, in too exorbitant a Proportion; and Complaints being daily carried to his Father of his Excesses, the good old King, with a View to reclaim his Son, gave Orders to put him under Arrest: And the ambitious Governor his Uncle, laying hold of this Opportunity of cutting off all that flood in his Way to the Crown, did, in Purfuance of these Orders, first arrest the Prince, and then confined him a close Prisoner in the Castle of Faulkland, where, by his Uncle's Command, if we may believe our Historians, he was starved to Death, Anno 1401: Since which Time the Prince and Stewart of Scotland, the King's eldest Son is born Duke of Rothsay, Earl of Carrick, and Lord of Ren-

Richard Rutherfoord, Lord of That-Ilk, made a very bright Figure in the Reign of King Robert III(a), and James Rutherfoord of Rutherfoord was frequently imployed by King James II. in managing and concluding Treaties with England, as an Ambassador, and in particular was one of those who concluded the Treaty with that Crown, Anno 1457. He ferv'd in that Army with fingular Reputation for Courage and Conduct till the Conclusion of the Peace betwixt the Two Crowns in 1659. Upon the Restauration of King Charles II. General Rutherfoord came over to England, with a very fair Reputation, and a very good Testimony from the French King; whereupon his Majesty, to countenance his Merit, was pleased to create him a Peer of Scotland, by the Title of Lord Rutherfoord, January 19th, 1661 (b), but having no Issue of his Body, the Honour was to his Heirs or Affignies, or whomever he should name in the very Article of his Death. Soon after which the, Lord Rutherfoord was made Governor of Dunkirk, and he managed that Trust so much to the Satisfaction of the British Court, especially in the Sale of that important Place to the French, which he transacted, that upon his coming over to England, his Majesty, to express the due Sense of his Merit, and of his acceptable Services, did raise him to the Honour of Earl of Teviot, and

Lord Semple.

HIS noble Family is very ancient in the County of Ren frem, where they had great Poffesh ons, and held an Office which made them very confiderable there; for when the illustrious Family of the Stewarts, long before they came to the Crown, held that County by the Tenure of a Barony, the Ancestors of this ancient Family were their hereditary Bailiffs and Stewarts. The first remarkable Person of this noble Family, at least that has come Semple, Senefehal. Earonia de Renfrew. who is Witness in a Grant which James Lord High Stewart of Scot-

He was succeeded by William his Son, and he again by Sir Thomas Semple, the fieft I have observed, who was defigned Dominus de Elliotstoun, who feems to be a Man of Mettle and Spirit, and a great Favourite with Robert Stewart of Scotland, and Earl of Strathern, after King Rober: II. as appears from many Evidences, and particularly the Frequency of his Witnessing the Earl's Donations to the Monastry of Paifley (c). He left a Son John, who obtained from John Earl of Carrick, upon his Father's coming to the Crown, the Lands and Barony of Glasford, of which, in the 4th of King Robert II. Anno 1375, he had a Charter of Confirmation, under the Great Seal, whereby the King ratifies Donationein illam quam Primogentius noster Joannes Comes de Carrick, fecit & concessit dilecto & fidelt nostro Joanni Symple, silio & baredi D. He had also from the same Prince a Grant of the Lands of Suthennen on his own Refignation (a), in which there is this remarkable Claufe, Que Terre fuerunt quondam Joannis de Baliolo; from which I prefume thefe Lands were given originally by King Robert the Bruce, for fome very notable and eminent Service performed by Sir Robert Semple against the Baliol, the fidelium defunctorum in perpetuum (d). Which Sir John being a Person of excellent Parts; and standing highly in the Favour of his Prince King James IV. was by him first dignified with the Title of Lord Semple. He | from Motives which he thought ten-

As this noble Lord was alwife very faithful to his Prince in his Life, fo 'tis certain he went with him to the Battle of Flowdoun, where he was flain, fighting gallantly in the Service of his Country, on the memorable 9th of September 1513. After the Battle his Body was brought off the Field, and buried in the Collegiate Chuch of Semple, where a Monument is erected over him, em. bellish'd with his Arms, without any other Inscription, than signifying him to be the Person there interr'd. His first Wife was Margaret, Daughter of Sir Robert Colvil, Lord of Ochiltree, by whom he had Two Sons, William his Successor, and Gabriel Semple of Ladymure (e) the Ancestor of the Semples of Catheart. He married again Margaret, Daughter of James Crichton of Ruthvendeny (1), Glanderstoun, Son to John first Earl of Reliet of Sir William Stirling of Keir, but by her he had no Issue.

William Lord Semple his Son, the next of this noble Family, was a Nobleman of very good Parts, and of great Wildom and Prudence, and alwise very well esteem'd both was very devoted to the Church, for in the Court and in the Country.

Witness to the Grants of King David 9th September 1513. His lineal Heir I. to the Religious of Dumfermling in a direct Succession is Somervile of and Melrof. Willielmus de Sumervilla, Estate dispersed, their Writs are in consilio Willielmi Patris sui, gave to the Episcopal See of Glasgow, Ecclesiam de Carnuad, i.e. Carnwath, pro falute Anima sue & Haredum in perpetuum (a). Sir John Somervile was very fignal in his Fidelity to, and Service of the Crown in the Time of King Robert I. and Sir Thomas de Somerville was no less faithful to King David Bruce his Son; for when a Treaty was fer on Foot to relieve the King, after he had been taken Prisoner at the Battel of Durham, William de Somerville, Sir Thomas's Son and Heir, was nam'd one of the Hostages for the Ransom (b) of the King. Another Sir Thomas Somervile of Carnwath was one of the Commissioners on the Treaty for the

HIS noble Family were anciently Proprietors of the Lands of Balenherd, in the County of Forfar, which was for a long Time possessed by them. In the Reign of King David the II. Walterus de Maulia then made a Grant Johanni Filio & Heredi quon. dam Joannis filii Cristini de Belenherd, of the Lands of Carynegy in baronia de Panmure, infra vic. de Forfar, from whence he took the Sirname of Carnegy; for the Charter hath these remarkable Words, Tenend. & habend, eidem Joanni de Carnegy filio & haredi pradicti quondam Joannis filii Joannis filii Cristini filii Joannis de Belenherd, & haredibus suis in feudo & hareditate of the Granter Sir Walter Maule, which was confirm'd under the Great Seal of King David II. but the precise Time is not set down (a). Duthacus de Carnegy, a Descendent from him, did in the 1401. acquire a Part of the Lands of Kinnaird from Richard Air, and thereafter on the 1st of February fucceeded by

John de Carnegy of Kinnaird, who on the 4th of November 1479, had a Grant from David Earl of Crawford his Cousin, of a Liferent out of the Earl's Barony of Glenesk (d), and dy-

In the 1551, the Governor repoling great Confidence in Sir Robert's Abilities, was pleased to send him upon a folemn Embassy to France, when the French King first discover'd to him the Design he had that the Duke of Chattlerault should resign the Regency in Favours of the Queen-Mother of Scotland, which was afterward brought about to the general Satisfaction of the whole Nation, in which Sir. Robert Carnegy, whom all Menknew to have a very great Interest with the Duke, had a very confiderable Hand (a). He was again in the Year 1555, together with Sir John Ballanden of Auchinoul, fent Plenipotentiaries to England, to conclude a Treaty about Commerce and Trade, which was fettled to the general Satisfaction of both Nations: and Two Years thereafter (b), he was one of the Commissioners sent to England to treat with that State about the keeping of a firm and lasting Peace betwixt the Two Nations (c), and which was inviolably preferved for many Years thereafter. Likewise I find Sir Robert Carnegy and Mr. David Borthwick of Lochhill were fent over to France in the 1559, from the Lords of the Congregation, to wait on the Queen their Sovereign, to endeayour to remove the Prejudice she seem'd to entertain against them and their Proceedings; but what was the Success of this Negotiation, I have not been able to discover. He died in a good advanc'd Age, on the 5th of January 1565 (a), leaving Isfae by Margaret his Wife, Daughter of Guthry of Lunan in vic. de Forfar (e), Sir John his Successor, Mr. David Carnegy of Collathy, John Carnegy of Leuchland, Mr. Robert Carnegy Preceptor of the Maisen Diu of Brichen, James, of whom the Branch of Balmachie, Her- that Reverend Author, a wife, peace-

Sir John Carnegy was a Gentleman of great Parts, and a firm and fredfast Friend to Queen Mary, when she fell into her Troubles; and her Majesty had so great an Esteem of his Fidelity and Prudence, that in the 1570, when a Cessation was obtained by the Bishop of Ross, she wrote to Sir, John Carnegy, craving his Advice there-He married first Agnes, Daughter of David Wood of Craig, Comptroller of Scotland in the Reign of King James the V. by whom he had only one Daughter, married to Patrick Kinnaird of That-Ilk, and had Issue. 2dly, Dame Margaret Keith, and dying without Issue Male, his Estate devolved to

Date at Holyroodhouse the 22d of Time 1633 (e). In the Preamble to the Patent, the eminent and remarkable Services of Sir Robert Carnegy his Grandfather to Queen Mary, and in Lord Abercromby. the Service of his Country, and the Services of his own Father to King James, are very fully illustrated and able and Jober Man, in good Credit and fet torth: When the Troubles broke Estimation with the King, and taken out in that Reign, he approv'd himinto his Privy Council, for his Skill and felf a very faithful and loval Subject Knowledge in Civil Affairs. He married to his Majetty, for which he was imfiell Eliz. Thereafter when the Times grew worse, he liv'd retired at his Seat in the Country, keeping his Heart and Affections intire for the King: But all this Caution was not sufficient to fecure him from Trouble; for when Cromwel prevail'd, and made himfelf Protector, he very arbitrarily fin'd the old Earl of Southesk in Three thousand Pound, for no other Reason but wishing well to the King, and being inclined to the Monarchy. He married Margaret Daughter of Sir David Lindfay of Edzel, by whom he had Four Sons and Six Daughters,

When Queen Anne came to the Crown, the Viscount of Stair was named on of the Lords of the Privy Council; and as a further Testimony of her Majesties Favour, was raised to the Honour of Earl of Stair, by Letters Paient the 8th of April 1703 (a).

The Earl of Stair had from his Youth entertained an Opinion, That an intire Union of both Kingdoms was the most likely Way to procure the lasting Tranquillity and Happiness of Britain, and for that End very readily concurred in the Session of Parliament 1702, that Power should be given to the Oueen to name Commillioners to treat of an Union; purfuant to which, Commissioners were named by her Majesty, of which Number the Earl himself was one: But that Treaty breaking off without coming to any Conclusion, it had no other Effect than to let both Nations fee it was practicable; and it being again refumed in the 1705, by new both Kingdoms, his Lordship was by lows to it, yet he was never found

Service, who had been the greatest her Majesty named one of the Commissioners upon the Part of Scotland; in the carrying on of which he had fo considerable a Share, both in the Time of the Treaty, and in the Parliament of Scotland, that many have thought that without the Earl of Stair it could not have been brought to a Conclusion, considering the many Difficulties were raifed against it, all which he just liv'd to see overcome; for being exceedingly follicitous to have the Union perfected, he affifted the Day before his Death at the Debates on that Subject in the Parliament, pressing the Point with great Earnestness: And tho he walked home, and dined very chearfully with Company, yet about Four next Morning he fell into an Apoplexy, which in a few Hours put an End to his Days, the 8th of January 1707, aged 59.

He married Elizabeth Daughter and Heir of Sir John Dundas of New-Lifton, by whom he had John the prefent Earl, of Stair Colonel William Dalrymple of Glenmure, George Dalrymple Efq; one of the Barons of Exchequer; also a Daughter, Margaret, married to Hugh Earl of Loudown.

John the present Earl of Stair was born at Edinbergh the 20th of July 1673. He gave very early Marks of a lively and great Genius, having fucceeded beyond his Fellows in his first Studies of Latin and Greek, both at home and in Holland, whether, at the Defire of his Grandfather then at Leyden, our young Student was fent. when he was about Eleven Years old. on his Way the feveral great Cities, Republicks and Courts in Italy. At Rome he applied himself to the Knowlege of Antiquities, Architecture, and other Things which are taught there, studying with much Application the Italian Language; and because he could not then go into France, during the War then between King William and that Crown, he studied the French very carefully by the Help of a French Abbé, whom he sound at Rome, that he might enter deeper into the Strength, Genius and Beauties of that Language so universally in Use.

Having made the Tour of Germany and Italy, he returned to England in the 1701, and that Year came to Scotland with his Father, where he continued until the 1702, at which Time there being new Regiments to be raifed in Scotland, he went to Court, to offer his Service upon the Appearance of an approaching War. The King received him very graciously, but a Scheme of Officers was formed for these Regiments leaving him out. His Majesty having observed it, told, that he was refolved to provide for Mr. Dalrymple, who by that Scheme was neglected, and for that Reason his Majesty resolved to make him Second Licutenant Colonel of his Regiment of Foot Guards in Scotland. But King William's Death happening just then, his Commission as Second Lieurenant Colonel of the Regiment of Foot Guards was figned by Queen Anne, on one of the first Days of her Reign.

Being how in the Army (where his Inclination had ever led him to ferve) he embraced the first Opportunities to appear in that Way, which soon happened: For the late Queen being engaged with the Confederates in the Second War against France, and having sent over an Army under the Command of the Duke of Marlborough, the Earl made the very first Campaign as a Volunteer, and diftinguished himself in the Actions of greatest Hazard and Consequence, as at the taking of Venlo and Liege, and at the Cannonade of Peer. He was also imployed by the Duke as his Aid de Camp! It was in this Campaign that he laid the Foundation of that Friendship with which that great General has constantly honoured him since.

The Account of the Earl from that Period is so interwoven with the great Events Civil and Military, that have happen'd, that the all the Materials for going thro' with a just and exact Hiftory were at Hand, yet the Nature of this Undertaking would not admit of pursuing it, or the Share he had in these great Actions; which besides has been remarkable enough by many, very confiderable Circumstances well known. I have therefore contented my felf in a plain Way, and without enlarging on Particulars, to fet forth what concerns his Youth and Education, which has been one constant Series of Application to those Things

* Earl of Strathern.

The fame Earl Malife Comes Stradarnia fignaliz'd his Valour very eminently at the Battle of Standard (c), which the Abbot of fue sponse diete Domini Foannis. Revel in his History hath taken particular Notice of. He was succeeded by Fereth, Comes de Stradern, his Son, who is a Witness in a Grant by King Malcolm IV. to the Convent of Scoon. He left Issue Three Sons, Robert his Successor in the Honour, Gilbert thereafter Earl of Strathern, and Malife to whom King William gave the Lands of Kincardine in the County of Perth, to be held de Comite Roberto fratre (uo (d).

In the 1200, this pious Earl, by the Periwasion of the then Bishop of Dumblain, erected a Convent at Inchaffery, and endued it with a sufficient glish Crown: But the Combination annual Revenue for the Support and Maintenance of a certain Number of Religious Persons to attend the Service of the Church, for the Soul of himfelf and his Successors for ever (e). Which Malife made a great Figure in his Time, and was a very warlike Man: By Mary his Wife, Daughter of Sir John Cummin of Badenoch, he had Malife his Son and Heir, and a Daughter Mary, married to Sir John Murray of Drumsbargard, Knight; with her he obtained the Lands of Ogilvil, Aber-

Malife the next Earl of Strathern was a most hearty Afferter of the Honour and Liberty of his Country in the turbulent Times of the Bruce and Baliol. He married one of the Co-heirs of the Earl of Orkney, by whom he had one Daughter, Joanna Countels of Strathern, who married the Earl of Warren an English Lord, which engaged the Lady into Treasonable Practices against her Country; for with fundry unnatural Scotimen the entred into a Conspiracy with the English to depose King Robert, and subject the Independency of this Nation to the Enbeing happily discovered, the Countels and her Affociates were forfeited. and the most considerable of the Party, as the Lord Brichen and the Lord Souls, suffered Death for the same.

The Earldom of Strathern being thus vested in the Crown, it was in 1543, bestowed by King David the II. upon his great Favourite Sir Maurice Murray of Drumsbargard (k), not of Bothwell, as our Hiltorians have mistaken.

SUTHERLAND,

Earl of Sutherland

HERE is a particular History written of this noble ancient Family in English, by a very able Pen, the Learned Sir Robert Gordon of Gordonftoun, Baronet; and very accurately epitomiz'd by Mr. Rofs, in Latin the Author of the Pansebeia; wherein both Sir Robert and Mr. Rols have been at much Pains to youch the Antiquity, and illustrate the Descent of the Earls of Sutherlands, and they have done it so well, and instructed it so clear, that the Peerage of this illustrious Family is not only one of the oldest with us in Scotland, but for what I know of any other Nation of Europe. And I can't but remark, that our Historians do make mention, that the Family of Sutherland were Thanes before the Title of Earl was introduced among us; for not only Sir Robert Gordon and Mr. Rofs, but even our publick National Historians do take Notice; That Allan Thane of Sutherland, a brave and warlike Man, gave a very fignal Defeat to a Detachment of the Danish Army who invaded the Country of Sutherland, and that he was cruelly put to Death and murdered under the Usurpation of Macbeth. for his firm Adherence to his rightful Sovereign King Malcolm Canmore, King Duncan's Son, and for endeavouring to fet him on his Father's Throne; and when in Providence that was happily brought about, that heroick and generous Prince thought it but just to restore the Children of fuch who had been forfeited on his Account during the Usurpation; and therefore, Walter, the Son of Allan Thane of Sutherland, in Memory of his Father's Merit, as well as his own fignal Services in contributing toward Dddddd

the Restoration, was not only resto- Issue of the King's Body, to acknowred to his Estate and Honour, but was likewise one of those whom that King further dignify'd with the then introduc'd Title of Earl 1057 (a), and dying 1097, was succeeded by,

Robert his Son and Heir who built the Castle of Dunrobin, which he called after his own Name, which is still the principal Seat of this noble Fami-This Earl was imployed to apprehend Harold Earl of Caithness, who had committed a very horrible and barbarous Murder upon the Bishop of Caithness, whom he brought to exemplary Justice. He was tuccceeded by,

Hugh his Son, call'd for Distin-Aion Hugh Friskin, i. e. Hugh with the ready Whinger, because he was a bold daring Man. He attack'd the Danes when they invaded his Country, whom he defeat in Battle at Embo in Sutherland, and flew their General.

To Hugh Earl of Sutherland fucceeded William his Son, who died 1248, and was succeeded by William his Son who in the Reign of King Alexander II. enter'd into a folemn Agreement with 'Archibald then Bishop of Caithness, wherein both Parties narrate, That there had been a long Dispute and Controver-Ty inter venerabiles Patres Predecessores nostros, Gilbertum, Willielmum, & Walterum, bonæ memoriæ, Episcopos Cathania, ex una parte, & nobiles viros Willielmum claræ memoriæ, & Willielmum ejus filium, Comites Sutherlandia, relative to the Lands of Skilbo, Pronsie, Therbolt, and Others claimed by the Chapter of that See, which after a long Dispute was amicably composed by a solemn Agreement, dated decimo Kalendarum Octobris 1275 (b). This Earl the younger made a very great Figure in the Reign of A. lexander III. in the 1284, he is one of the Magnates Scotiae, who folemnly bound themselves with their Oaths ledge and receive Margaret Daughter of Erick King of Norway, King Alexander's Grandchild by his Daughter, as their Sovereign and Queen of Scotland (c). And when the Succession did take Place in the Person of that young Princess, thro' the Demise of her Grandfather, this noble Earl was one of the Peers who addressed King Edward I. of England, That a Treaty of Marriage might be fet on Foot betwixt his Son the Prince of Wales and the young Queen of Scotland, whereby the Two Kingdoms might be for ever unite under one Sovereign; but the Death of the young Princess falling out foon thereafter, the Treaty which was concluded, had no Effect. When the Competition happened about the Succession to the Crown betwixt Robert Bruce and John Baliol, the Earl of Sutherland was one of those great Men who were appointed to go to Berwick to hear King Edward's Decision of that grand Affair; the Determination of which had been referred to him. Upon the breaking out of the War thereafter, he was firm to that Side which did most regard the Honour, Interest, and Independency of his Country, and was very affiftant in bringing King Robert the Bruce to, and maintaing him on the Throne. He did in a very eminent Manner fignalize his Valour and Courage at the famous Battle of Bannockhurn, whereby the Slavery and Usurpation under which Scotland had long ground, was gloriously redem'd and retriev'd. The same Earl is one of the Peers, who, with other great Men of the Kingdom, wrote that memorable Letter to the Pope in 1320, to which all of them put their Seals; a rare Piece of Antiquity. The learned Mr. Anderfon has with great Exactness and Cu. riofity caused finely engrave it on Copper Plate in his elaborate Treatife. De Rebus Diplomaticis Scotiæ, collected and published by him at the and Seals, That in Default of Male | Command of the Parliament of Scotland, under the Title of Litera Communitatis Scotia ad Papam, A. D. 1320.

To William Earl of Sutherland succeeded Kenneth his Son, who was very faithful to King David Bruce, as his Father had been to King Robert, in whose Service, and in that of his Country (for they were inseparable) he lost his Life sighting gailantly at the Battle of Halidon-hill, where he commanded the Van of the Army, on the 19th of July 1333(c), leaving Issue, William his Son and Heir, and Nicol, of whom the Sutherlands of the Family of Dusting are derived.

Which William was one of those valiant and loyal Peers who accompanied King David to the Battle of Durham Anno 1346, and was taken Prisoner with him. After the Earl's Releasment he was one of the Scots Plenipotentiaries, authoriz'd to treat with the Engish anent the Redemption of the King; and when that Treaty prov'd successful, Alexander the Earl of Sutherland's Son and Heir was fent to England one of the Hostages for the Ransom, and how soon the King took Journey for his own Dominions, he was met and attended by certain of the Nobility with a great Retinue, of which Number this noble Earl, who had the Honour to be his Brother-in-law, was one. married the Lady Margaret Bruce, Daughter of King Robert I. and Sister of the full Blood to King David the II. from whom he obtained a very noble Charter, on the 10th of November 1347, to himself and his Wife the Lady Margaret the King's Sifter, which is still preserved in the Annals of this illustrious Family, as well as our national Records, Willi. elmo Comiti de Sutherland, & Margareta sponsa sua, carissima sorori nostra, quod ipsi & bæredes legitimæ inter issos procreand. babeant, tenean. & possideant totum Comitatum Sutherlandia, in liberam Regalitatem in perpetuum. By the Lady Margaret Bruce aforesaid his Wife, he had Alexander his his eldest Son, who died in England one of the Hostages for the Rantom of the King his Uncle, in the Lifetime of his Father, and John, called John born out of Time by the Highlanders, his Succesfor in the Earldom. This noble Earl John fignalised his Courage during the War betwixt the two Nations, in the Reign of King Robert II. particularly in the 1380, together with the Lord Galloway he entred England, spoiled Cumberland, and returned with a great Booty, and dying Anno 1389 left Issue by Mabella his Wife, Daughter to the Earl of March, Nicolas his Successor, and Hestor, of whom the Sutherlands of Dalrite.

Which Nicolas was a Person of great Courage and Conduct, which he manisested very much in those turbulent Times in which he lived. He married Daughter to the Lord of the Isles, by whom he had Robert his Successor, John of whom the Sutherlands of Berindale, and Kenneth, of whom came the Sutherlands of Forse, and departing this Lise Anno 1399, was succeeded by Robert his Son, who fignalized his Valour and Courage at the Battle of Hamildon againft the Englift, Anno 1401. This Earl had many Contests with his Neighbours the Mackays, which prov'd stall to the Latter; and tho he lived in very turbulent Times, he had the Happines, by his Prudence and Conduct, to preserve his Country both from Faction and Invasion. He marrid Daughter of Thomas Dunbar Earl of Murray, by her he had John his Successor, and Kenneth Sutherland of Torish, and dying Anno 1442, was succeeded by

John his Son, who married Margaret Daughter of Sir William Baillie of Lamingtown, by whom he had Alexander Master of Sutherland, who died in the Lifetime of his Father, leaving no Islue save a Daughter Marjorie, married to William Earl of Orkey and Caithness, John the next Earl, Nicolar and Thomas; also two Daughters, Jean
