“We expect these partnerships to become an ever-larger component of the Digital Department's work. We're privileged to serve over 30 million visitors on our website each year, which we see as the canonical source for information about the collection; but if we want to connect the collection to three billion individuals around the world, we know that they're never all going to come to metmuseum.org.”

To look at the impact of the Open Access initiative only through the lens of metmuseum.org is to focus on just the tip of the iceberg.
