HOUNDS HUNT WRECKERS OF TRAINS

Fast Mail Goes Into Ditch Causing One Death and Injuring Fifteen

AVISTON, Ill., Oct. 4.—With bloodhounds ordered from Saint Elmo, Ill., Sheriff William Ragen of Clinton county, today was organizing a man hunt in this vicinity for the person or persons who last night cut a switch, causing fast mail train No. 12 of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad to be derailed, with the resulting death of Engineer Carl Van Allan of Washington, Indiana, and the injury of fifteen passengers.

Eight coaches and the engine went into the ditch. Fireman Purcell, also of Washington, Indiana, jumped and was badly hurt.

First reports stated that bandits had attempted to hold up the train. A large shipment of currency was reported to have been the object of the robbery.

Train Is Speeding The train was traveling fast when it struck the cut switch. The open switch jerked the big locomotive from the rails, spun it from which it came and overturned it. The coaches that followed, with the exception of the Pullmans, piled on top of the engine.

The train left St. Louis at 9:30 o'clock last night and was en route to Washington, Indiana. Avis-ton is about forty-five miles east of St. Louis. No list of the injured could be obtained here today, nor at East St. Louis.

I., in March, 1921, and defense attorneys will vigorously oppose a reading of them in court.

Thomas C. Callaghan, department of justice agent, who was present when the three statements were made, was to resume the witness stand again this morning.

The lady both giving their ages as 18, were calm under examination, which was made by Chief of Detectives Riley M. Beckstead.

PRESIDENT IN OUTLINE OF EUROPEAN PROGRAM

Coolidge for Peace Pacts But Will Insist Upon U. S. Independence

By H. K. REYNOLDS For International News Service. WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—Standing in the shadow of the great gray sate, war and navy building, President Coolidge this afternoon dedicated a magnificent monument in memory of the 5000 dead of the first American division in the world war, and took occasion to outline his foreign policy with a declaration opposing any alliances or international combinations which would keep the United States from charting its own course in world affairs.

"We do not propose to entrust to any other power or combination of powers to make up our own mind for us," the president declared. "If there is anything which is dear to Americans—which they are bound to preserve at all hazards—it is their independence."

"We recognize that we are a part of the great brotherhood of mankind, that there are mutual duties and obligations between nations as there are between individuals. America has every wish to discharge these obligations. We wish to recognize these requirements for the promotion of peace. War and destruction are unnatural; peace and progress are natural. It is in that direction that the people of the earth must move."

"I am in favor of treaties and covenants conforming to the American policy of independence to prevent aggressive war and promote permanent peace, but they have little value unless the sentiment of peace is cherished in the hearts of the people." (Turn to Page 7, Column 1)

BIG TEMPEST SWEEPS ON BASEBALL LEADERS

Clash of Magnates Certain To Follow Conclusion Of World Series

By GEORGE BARRY For International News Service. WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—Storm clouds, black looking and ominous, hang today over the citadel of big league baseball.

There was not one of the game's leaders in the capital today for the opening game of the world's series who did not believe that once this series is out of the way the national pastime is due for a tempest of foundation-shaking proportions. It was just such a tempest following the 1919 series that took away from the league heads much of their authority for the conduct of the game and placed it in the hands of the czarlike figure of Kenesaw Mountain Landis.

Johnson on Warpath What this new tempest may bring forth is problematical, but it was the subject of discussion wherever baseball men gathered today, to the exclusion of all other subjects.

Ban Johnson, the peppery head of the American league, who was shorn of much of his authority in 1919, is on the warpath again. Using the unsavory O'Connell-Dolan scandal as a club, he has apparently started a renewal of his bitter warfare with Judge Landis. It was announced in Chicago yesterday that Johnson would not attend the world series because, in his own words, the Giants were "unfit to take part in it."

With this vicious slap, Johnson also took occasion to criticize baseball's high commissioner for (Turn to Page 11, Column 6)

HUGE CROWD GOES WILD AS SENATORS, M'GRAW'S MEN BATTLE 12 INNINGS

Home Runs By Kelly and Terry and Young's Pinch Hit With Bases Full, Followed By Kelly's Sacrifice Annexes Contest

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—In spite of the fact that Walter Johnson's worthy right arm was wafting them plate-ward for the first time in world series history, the New York Giants got the decision over Washington Senators 4 to 3 in the premier game of the season classic.

Home runs by Kelly and Terry into the conveniently adjacent left field bleachers and Young's pinch single to center with the bases filled in the twelfth, followed by Kelly's sacrifice fly decided the issue. But the Senators accounted defeat only after tying the score with a sensational rally in the ninth, Bluege's infield scratch being followed by Peck's double to center field on the hit and run play. It took five minutes to clear the field of flying cushions and wild fans flew through the diamond.

Senators Score The remaining Senatorial tally was furnished by McNeely's double and successive infield outs in the sixth and Harris' single in the twelfth after Jackson had staked Shirely to two bases on a rank muff.

Subsequently Rice singled to center, sending Harris to third. But Rice was nipped trying to move up on Southworth's fumble and then with the tying run tearing toward the plate, Kelly retired Goslin on a close play at first.

Coolidge Pitches It was Washington's first taste of world series baseball and the savor was not altogether toothsome to the sympathetic but slightly pained assemblage of nearly 40,000 including some of our very best people.

The president and Mrs. Coolidge were there. Mr. Coolidge had perfect control of his first one and threw out the first ball in sensational style. The occasion was a long awaited one for Johnson—seventeen years to be precise—but fate was not kind. He declared that the field bleachers here should be too adjacent and the bats of Kelly and Terry too hard. Except for Kelly's shot into the bleachers in the second inning and Terry's duplicate blow in the sixth, the giant attack was without tangible effect against the pitching of the human siege gun until the fateful twelfth.

All told Sir Walter was socked for 14 hits but struck out twelve men, getting Ross Young thrice in a row.

Armed with cowbells, sirens and brass lanterns, the local citizenry cheered the Senators' every move and went into a seance of mild hysterics as Walter Johnson, king of pitchers, went out to warm up his good right arm for his long awaited appearance in a world's series.

The Giants may have some friends, but apparently there were none at the scene of action. It was a distinctly partisan crowd, the kind they rear in Cleveland, St. Louis and kindred spots, where a New York ball player is not an individual to be highly esteemed. The further fact that the Giants were involved in the unsavory mess whereby Cozy Dolan and Jimmy O'Connell were convicted of attempting to bribe a rival player, did not commend the New York outfield to the crowd's fancy. The Giants seemed to sense the fact that they were pretty much alone in this section of the world and they were a grim-looking lot when they took the field.

The boys in the bleachers looked down their collective nose at the ball club of Mr. McGraw and here and there an admonishing hoot rent the air. Many of them outwaited the night in order to get the choice, if any, among the open seats, and probably they reckoned they were entitled to one hogger for their money.

One and all, however, were greatly heartened by the appearance of a moon day sun that cut through the fog and cast a mellow glow upon the proceedings. This was taken as a good omen for the Giants who had begun to feel that they would have to face Walter Johnson on a dark day. This is tantamount to an attempt to read a spade flush in a tunnel.

Hugh McQuillan and Arthur Nehf warmed up for the Giants who went into the game a short end choice at 6 to 5.

The Jockoe Altrock was the first player on the field, accompanied by A. L. Schicht, his "straight" man and a derby hat of the Weber and Fields vintage. Nick embellished the headgear with a collegiate hat band of subdued Alice blue.

Wilson Soccer Team Defeats Pasadena M.A.

The Wilson soccer team scored a victory over Pasadena Military academy on their home field today. It was the opening game of the season. The score was 7 to 1.

Wilson players were: Wendell Sherman, Waldo Forester, Steve Pierry, Douglas Germain, Elmer Clark, Norman Girard, Bobbie Morrison, Denny Tatlow, Jack Farmer, Richard Shuch and Dwight Peirce.

In the last half Bert Shook, Daniel Gribben, Joe Danamit and Charles Hustis played as substitutes.

Mr. Dunn was referee. The Wilson school will probably play a return game next week.

That daily newspapers consti-ice consumption apparently needs little pushing. The outstanding aim of the local display advertis-

have been educational.

The association has in many other ways raised the standards of the entire industry to a point unsurpassed by any other industry and every member is pledged to maintain a high standard of pro-

The tremendous importance of ice in the preservation of the nation's food

Kansas City Doctor Invents New Truss

New Discovery Heals Rupture
Without An Operation
A new discovery which, experts agree, has no equal for curative effect in all rupture cases, is the latest accomplishment of the well-known Hernia Specialist, Dr. Andrews, 5978 Koch Bldg., Kansas City, Mo. The extraordinary success of this new method proves that it holds and heals a rupture. It weighs only a few ounces. Has no hard gouging pads, no elastic belt, no log straps, no steel bands, and is as comfortable as a light garment. It has enabled hundreds of persons to throw away trusses and declare their rupture absolutely healed. Many of these had serious double ruptures, from which they had suffered for years.
It is Dr. Andrews' ambition to have every ruptured person enjoy the quick relief, comfort and healing power of his discovery, and he will send on free trial to any reader of the News who writes him. He wants one person in each neighborhood to whom he can refer. If you wish to be rid of rupture for good, without an operation, take advantage of the doctor's free offer. Write him today.

as an ordinary traveler and attempt to stay that way. He will register alone at a hotel.

England has twelve licensed women airplane pilots.

This little model home specially created for your consideration, reflects details and competent execution not usually found in home plans as small as this. Not only has every department of the exterior been carefully considered, but the rooms themselves are just as compact and convenient as it is possible to arrange them.

The wall construction calls for stucco over brick, tile, composition plaster board, metal or wood lath—while the roof is shown in tile, composition or slate shingles would be practical.

There are many features incorporated in the interior arrangement which will make strong appeals. The specially detailed fireplace with bookcase and writing desk with cabinets occupying one entire side, the spacious closets connecting bed rooms, the well arranged bath and modern kitchen showing every conceivable convenience—breakfast nook, ironing board, cooler closet, cabinets, hood over range, and on the back porch is located ice box, heater and stationary tubs.

It's a little dream home and you can't help but like it.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S BIBLE COURSE

Conducted by REV. C. H. CHRISMAN GOSPEL TABERNACLE CHURCH
Lounge and Chestnut
Sunday Nights, 6:30 to 7:30 o'clock

IV—INSPIRATION PROVED BY UNDESIGNED COINCIDENCES

The Bible is a divine library comprised of sixty-six books, written by nearly forty different writers living during a period of 1600 years. If the Bible were a clever bit of fiction, then there would be serious discrepancies, disagreements and contradictions between the writers. If the Bible is a narration of facts, then the details of one book will corroborate the details of another. If the facts in the life of Jesus did not occur, then why are there so many undesigned coincidences in the respective statements of the various writers of the four Gospels? We believe that these undesigned coincidences furnish ample proof of the inspiration of the Bible. Observe the following examples:

I—The Feeding of the Five Thousand. The miracle was an incident of a contemplated time of rest, "for there were many coming and going."—Mark 6:31. How there came to be so many coming and going through Capernaum at that time Mark does not tell us. Neither does he tell how they hoped to escape the inconvenience by resting "awhile." Now John writes of the same miracle. Observe that he says nothing of the proposal of Jesus to "come apart," but he does say that "the Passover, a feast of the Jews, was nigh." This additional detail explains why so many were coming and going. The confusion which prevailed throughout the Holy Land at this time can easily be imagined when we read in the works of Josephus, that, for the satisfaction of Nero, his officer, Cestius, on one occasion, computed the number of people present at more than two and one-half millions! In this connection note again that in the sixth chapter of John, Jesus says, "Philip, whence shall we buy bread that these may eat?" Why should the question be directed into Philip in particular? John gives us the hint. The writers of the other Gospels make no mention of the question being expressly directed to Philip. But Luke informs us that the desert place where the miracle was performed "was belonging to Bethsaida" (Luke 9:10). There is nothing remarkable in this alone, but, in quite another connection, John tells us that "Philip was of Bethsaida." What, then, would have been more natural than for Jesus to have asked him, who, being of the immediate neighborhood, was most likely to know where bread was to be bought?

II—"Prophecy, Who is He that Spoke These Things?"—Matt. 26:67. There is an important omission here, making the passage imperfect, yet in its imperfection of detail it becomes a perfect gem of inspiration. One who invents a story is careful to supply every essential detail, that the story may hang together and have on it the marks of credibility and authority. On the other hand, one telling the truth states his facts and leaves them to their fate. It does not occur to him that particulars of detail are necessary to make his story credible. Why does Matthew say that they asked Christ to prophesy who smote Him when he had the offender before His eyes? Luke gives us the missing detail, and tells us that the man who held Jesus "blindfolded" him, and that they proposed this as a test of Deity.—Luke 22:64.

III—The Boldness of Joseph of Arimathea. "Joseph of Arimathea went in boldly to Pilate and craved the body of Jesus.—Mark 15:43. It is evident that the courage of Joseph on this occasion both surprised and impressed the evangelist, Mark. But why should it be surprising? What were the mental processes of Mark when he mentioned the boldness of Joseph? He does not tell us. John 18:38, however, makes it perfectly clear when he informs us that Joseph of Arimathea was a disciple of Jesus, but "secretly, for fear of the Jews." Thus for Joseph to so boldly claim the body of Jesus would be surprising to any who knew him. Tradition says that Nicodemus led Joseph of Arimathea to the Lord. The inference is strong. They were friends, and they were both members of the Sanhedrim. Three times Nicodemus is described as the man who came to Jesus by night. In the Sanhedrim he is quickly silenced. (See John VII.) Nicodemus could, therefore, lead him no farther than he himself had gone. Joseph, like Nicodemus, had no power among men, because of his timidity. There certainly was some risk in asking for the body of Jesus, and well could Mark be surprised at the courage of one who had established a reputation for timidity. John associates Nicodemus with the transaction, and uses the descriptive phrase, "which came to Joseph by night" (John 19:38, 39.) Where did these men derive their courage but by witnessing the scenes attending the crucifixion? Mark's use of the word "boldly" is an undesigned coincidence which verifies his honesty and proves the accuracy of his statements. If he is right about such an unimportant detail, can he not be fully believed in reference to the main subject matter?

IV—Was Peter Married? This has been denied in some circles. However, the inference would seem to be strong enough in Matt. 8:14 when Matthew, the writer of the first Gospel, tells us that "Peter's wife was here." The important matter here, is of course, the miracle of healing and but by the merest accident it is established that there was such a woman as Peter's wife's mother. This fact, however, is fully proved by the Apostle Paul in 1 Cor. 9:5. Paul uses the name Peter showing that the one passage was written without any reference to the other and that the coincidence was without design. Had Matthew not been quite sure of his ground and that the miracle would bear examination he never would have fixed it upon a person who certainly did live and who might, therefore, contradict the alleged fact had it never occurred.

AIN'T GONNA RAIN NO MO? LOOK OUT!

For, Folks, Quail NESTED Early This Year and That Means Showers

If everything goes according to quail, "it ain't gonna rain no mo" will soon prove an erroneous prediction. For, say the Indians, the fact that the quail nested early this year is a sure sign that the coming winter will be a wet one.
In short, it appears that if the mythic "rainmakers" are to get in their work before old Jupiter Pluvius takes matters in his own hands, they had better start things pronto.

It may well be that "it ain't gonna rain no mo." For, declares Mrs. H. E. Bartlett of 333 West Broadway, who for many years has kept tabs on the little raindrops anointing Glendale, if it would rain as much this winter as the average, the southland could have no just complaint, as from 1880 to 1890 that average was 18 inches, the average from 1890 to 1900 was 11 inches and the average from the beginning of the century to the present time was better than 15 inches. So Glendale has better dust off the old rubbers and overhaul the trustworthy umbrellas.

BEAUTY IS WORTH AT LEAST $100,000

Frank Meline Co. Obtains Disability Policy for Gloria Swanson

"My face is my fortune, sir,"
she said.
Certainly Mother Goose, or whoever it was that is responsible for that much used phrase had no idea that so much as a small scar or permanent blemish on any pretty girl's face would be worth $100,000.
It remained for Gloria Swanson to make this phrase literally true.
First of kind
The Frank Meline Co., through its insurance department, recently placed with Lloyd's of London, a policy for $100,000 which covers Gloria Swanson against any scar or blemish or permanent disability which might disfigure her in such a way as to prevent her taking the star part in any motion picture.
The policy is an unusual one, and the first of its kind ever written by Lloyd's of London, it is declared.

FROM EAGLE ROCK

EAGLE ROCK, Oct. 4.—It was

This furnishes a novel angle on the rising population curve of this community, according to Mrs. J.
C. Reller, who in addition to be-

P. T. A. is secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, succeeding Don-morning, November 5, after an all-day session yesterday in the Justices' court of Judge Harry W.

Chase. The suit was started by W. E. Howell and other property owners of East Acacia avenue.
The specific charge is conducting a nuisance at 614 East Acacia avenue, the location of Mr. Ferry's grading camp and mule corral.
Ten witnesses for the plaintiffs were examined yesterday, the star witness being Frank Veitch, state sanitary inspector, who declared on the stand that on two different occasions he had inspected Mr. Ferry's premises on East Acacia avenue and had reported that they constituted a nuisance.
Peter L. Ferry and his attorneys will produce five witnesses when the case re-opens November of yesterday's session.

Flashes by Watchman Mistaken for Burglar

A confusion between two protective forces guarding the city of Glendale caused neighbors in the vicinity of 1004 South Brand boulevard to believe that the Jellison Motor Co. was being robbed last night. Someone saw a flashlight against one of the windows and phoned the police. They arrived to find that Gordon D. Pip-pitt of the Glendale Patrol & Fire dispatch had looked in to see that all was well.

THIRD PARTY DENOUNCED BY WOMEN

Mrs. Florence Porter Speaks At Political Tea Given By Mrs. W. E. Evans

Frankly declaring the third party to be a "menace" to the United States and earnestly and eloquently urging individual and united support of the Republican party and its candidates, Coolidge and Dawes, Mrs. Florence Porter, Mrs. O. P. Clark and Mrs. Helen Mathewson Laughlin, the trio of California women who attended the Republican national convention in Cleveland, were speakers yesterday at a tea given by Mrs. W. E. Evans at her beautiful foothill home on Cumberland road.

Mrs. Porter, who is an outstanding figure nationally, though past 71 years of age, is possessed of a keen mind and ability to present the cause of her party. She enjoyed the honor four years ago of having been the first woman in the United States sent as a delegate to the national Republican convention. She was a delegate again this year and had the privilege of seconding the nomination of Calvin Coolidge as candidate for president. She gave an inspiring talk yesterday, denouncing the third party and calling Glendale women to rally under the Republican banner for the best interests of the government.

Sharing honors with Mrs. Porter is Mrs. Clark, national Republican committee woman from California. She had the honor to be the first national committee woman elected by a national convention. Previous to that time the committee women were appointed. Carrying on the thoughts given by Mrs. Porter, Mrs. Clark made a plea for a bigger vote. She outlined briefly the main points in the platforms of the three parties and concluded with intimate sketches of President Coolidge and his family and Mr. Dawes. Glendale has a very close feeling for Mrs. Laughlin, for when she spoke to the Glendale College

Era Of Prosperity For Glendale Seen As Fall Months Are Approaching

Glendale business will ride on the wings of prosperity during the coming fall and winter months and the prosperity of the community will be reflected in the merchandise local merchants will offer.

The progressive merchants of Glendale, ever awake to the needs and demands of the shopping public and foreseeing months ahead business conditions that are interpreted only in amount of volume and turnover, are stocking their shelves with the class of goods that will be called for by Glendale buyers and generally preparing for a season of prosperity.

Coming Into Own
Babson, considered by all business men and laymen who seek the pulse of the business world, as the nation's leading statistician, has said that a careful study of merchandising conditions in the United States today shows but one thing—that the suburban stores are coming into their own and that stores located in suburban cities which are communities of homes are destined to surpass in proportionate volume the amount of business done during the next two or three years by the merchandising firms of large cities.

On the basis of volume and turnover, stores with direct buying connections located in a community of homes, such as Glendale is classed, will be able to follow a progressive policy such as established by Pendroy's store. Judged by Daily Average Values, under the progressive policy plan, can be offered which will compete with larger mercantile institutions, and commodities such as seldom found in stores outside of large cities can be offered.

The progressive policy plan, interpreted for the buying public, means that a store is judged by the daily average of its values rather than its special efforts to quote low figures spasmodically, to make the store an institution where courtesy is paramount and the buying public desires to trade, and to maintain at all times a fair price on merchandise.

This is the policy under which the Pendroy store will be conducted and a policy that progressive merchants throughout the United States who are awake to the needs of the public and the coming prosperity are establishing.

George Dahlman Fined For Reckless Driving

George J. Dahlman, son of Alexander A. Dahlman of 1108 North Jackson street, was sentenced this morning by Judge Frank H. Lowe of the Glendale police court to pay a cash fine of $100 or spend fifty days in jail, his operator's license was suspended for a period of thirty days and in addition he was given a suspended sentence of thirty days in jail.

This sentence followed a verdict of guilty rendered by jury at 6:25 o'clock last night, after an all-day retrial of young Dahlman on a reckless driving charge brought following his arrest August 16 for speeding on Vine street. The first trial was held September 10 and resulted in a disagreement of the jury.

The testimony brought out that Dahlman had been brought before the Glendale police court four times within the last two years on speeding charges and that last month he had been haled before the Burbank police court for doing forty-five miles an hour in a fifteen-mile zone.

Kindergarten Club of Acacia School Meets

The Better Homes, Better Foods school conducted this week at Hahn's auditorium by Mrs. Florence Austin Chase under the auspices of The Glendale Evening News closed yesterday afternoon. It was a complete success in every detail, the big crowds unite in declaring.

It was really "Glendale Evening News Day" yesterday, for not only was it the final session of a very inspiring and successful course under the direction of Mrs. Florence Austin Chase, nationally known home and food expert, but also a program of features, from the farewells lecture and demonstration of Mrs. Chase to the awarding of various prizes by The News and exhibitors and the taking of a picture group.

G. Smith of 1909 Gardena street, won the gas heater, given by the Elwood Gas Appliance Co. There was also a drawing for a fireless cooker given by the Wilson-Bell Hardware Co. Mrs. A. R. Lee of 514 North Chester street held the lucky ticket.

Glendale men and women actively engaged in the Y. M. C. A. campaign for a building fund of $257,000, have set next Tuesday night as the time for raising the balance of $35,916.40, left last night after $6304 had been reported by the various divisions at the dinner at the Glendale Presbyterian church.

Army Mechanic Talks To Boy Scout Troop
Sergeant Duvall, regimental mechanic of the Eighty-Ninth division of the United States army, attended the meeting of Troop J, Boy Scouts, held last night in the Central Avenue Methodist church, and gave an interesting talk of his experiences during the World War. This organization of Boy Scouts meets once each week, and Hal Leedom, of the Knights of Pythias, is the scoutmaster, with Mrs. Walter D. Ripley Jackson, who, with Dr. Henry E. Harrower and Roy L. Kent was appointed to secure information sought by the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce. Following a visit in the southland by a government official, the Los Angeles body assumed the leading role in gathering information to present to the government.

Must Assure Business
In order for airplanes to be assigned for mail service for the south it will be necessary to assure the government service that sufficient mail will be sent to enable the service to break even on the project. San Francisco and Northern California has had the service for some time now and are sending out a large quantity of mail.

Glendale would be the ideal landing place for the air mail ships, Postmaster Jackson points out, and here again would be a strong point for keeping the Glendale Airport. In event the south is granted air mail service a strong bid will be made for this city as the landing place. Wide boulevards leading into Los Angeles would enable quick delivery of the mail on its arrival, Mr. Jackson states.

DATA ON AIR MAIL TO BE GATHERED
Bid for Glendale as Landing Place to Be Made By Committee

Preliminary work of securing data for the government on the proposed air mail service for Los Angeles will be started by the committee named by the Chamber of Commerce at its luncheon Thursday night, according to Postmaster D. Ripley Jackson, who, with Dr. Henry E. Harrower and Roy L. Kent was appointed to secure information sought by the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce. Following a visit in the southland by a government official, the Los Angeles body assumed the leading role in gathering information to present to the government.

When Two Cars Are More Thrifty Than One
The used car has established its good character, and is coming into a more universal use every day.

Many a man is finding that it is real economy to own two cars. The big car stays in the garage or else the wife uses it while the used roadster that cost but a nominal sum does most of the running around. Especially is this true of the man who uses automobile transportation in his business.

On the other hand, here is the man with a small car which he originally bought because there were only himself and wife to use it. Occasionally it is nicer to have a sedan. He bought a used sedan and it cost him so little that it is a good investment even if used only once in a while.

We guarantee our used Nash cars.

Head Sanitarium Corporation

MRS. ALLIE W. ANDERSON-ROBERTS, secretary-treasurer and proprietor of the Golden West Sanitarium, Inc., a woman who by her unbounded faith has in the past seven years made hundreds of friends and built up a large and representative Glendale institution.

FRED REED, vice president of the Golden West Sanitarium, Inc., well known Glendale capitalist.

CHARLES F. STUART, president of the Golden West Sanitarium, Inc., prominent Glendale druggist and property owner.

$30 CAPITAL AND FAITH GROW TO SUCCESS

Mrs. Allie Anderson-Roberts Wins Big Success In Sanitarium Work

Ground will be broken soon for a 200-bed hospital, as an addition to the rapidly growing facilities of the Golden West Sanitarium at 1100 East Windsor road, announces Mrs. Allie W. Anderson-Roberts, proprietor and superintendent.

This important and typically Glendale institution, founded seven years ago on a basis of $30 cash and unlimited faith, was recently incorporated for $500,000.

The incorporators are Charles F. Stuart, proprietor of the Glendale pharmacy, 638 East Broadway; Fred Reed, capitalist, 437 South Central avenue; Owen C. Emery, prominent local attorney, 610 West Myrtle street; and Mrs. Allie Anderson-Roberts. Mrs. Stuart has been elected president and Mr. Reed vice-president of the corporation. Mrs. Anderson-Roberts retains control of the Golden West Sanitarium, Inc., and will continue as its superintendent.

Small Beginning
Behind these four incorporators is an intense human story that goes back to that day in November seven years ago, when Mrs. Anderson, then a widow with three small children, arrived in Glendale from Greenville, Texas, where she had been a trained nurse; and with her little $30 "stake" began with one patient in a five-room house at 1312 East Harvard street.

Her father was Walter E. Taylor, a direct descendant of Zachary Taylor, twelfth president of the United States, and it is probable that from that honored strain this remarkable woman gets her "fighting blood." It was Mr. Stuart who advanced her the first $4 of credit to buy needed supplies for her humble cottage sanitarium, and later it was Mr. Reed who bought that East Harvard street home for her. Mr. Emery acknowledging the option to purchase.

At La Crescenta
Mrs. Anderson-Roberts never forgot those early friendships, which have now been cemented into the $500,000 institution recently incorporated. Just a little over a year ago, May 21, 1923, the proprietor of the Golden West Sanitarium, Inc., bought out the Thornycroft interests at the present location at the southeast corner of Windsor road and Adams street. And recently she has established the La Crescenta Sanitarium, Inc., on West Honolulu avenue, La Crescenta, a tuberculosis institution. A number of the cottages at the Golden West will be moved to the latter institution, she states, to make room for the new 200-bed hospital soon to rise on the premises.

The plan of the incorporators of the Golden West Sanitarium, Inc., is to erect the hospital in three stages, the first containing fifty-two beds, the second a similar number and the third making up the balance of the 200 beds.

Daily Greeting To News Readers

I NEVER HEARD—
—That Lincoln ever complained about lack of opportunity.
—That Gladstone knew too much to be religious.
—That Edison ever worried about long hours.
—That Roosevelt was afraid of criticism.
—That Herbert Hoover ever asked how much there was in it.
—That General Grant ever quit because there were difficulties.

TOO INTELLIGENT TO LAUGH

In a world where there is so much to be done and so much to be learned it is inconceivable that any one should take the time to propound such philosophy as that put forth by Dr. Charles Gray Shaw, professor of philosophy at New York university, who says the time is soon coming when we will know too much to laugh, and that jokes are being kept alive by professionalists who resemble doctors administering oxygen.

"We used to laugh at the old maid," he says, "but bobbed hair, feminine emancipation and new light on matrimony are making the joke out of date. Then we had our laugh at the drunkards but the eighteenth amendment killed that joke."
Dr. Shaw forgets that the "new light on matrimony" has brought the divorce joke, and a good many take marriage itself as a joke. The eighteenth amendment may have eliminated the comical squibs about the drunkard, but it ushered in the boot-logger, who is excruciatingly funny.

It is quite possible to conceive, as this learned doctor says, that a few centuries from now we will maintain museums to preserve our jokes and comic strips just as we now keep alive the relics of the stone age. If the hackneyed efforts of the joke writers and the comic strip artists were all we had to laugh at, the world would have stopped laughing long ago. But there are other things besides fads and customs that bring laughter to the lips that will never pass away and never be housed in a museum. The one who has so much joy in the heart that laughter bubbles spontaneously to the surface may not be able to recognize a philosophy textbook when he sees it, but he has a philosophy of his own that makes life pleasant for him and for those around him.

"The laugh is going fast. Primitive man did not know enough to laugh, since wit involves a certain amount of intelligence. The men of the future will know too much to laugh." And the man who evolved this principle is a professor in one of the large universities of the United States.

Stephen Leacock says, "Whoever laughs is on vacation; he has escaped the usual, he has a large, free moment of release. And, though the last thing that a genuine jester thinks of is to be useful, the first thing that he does is supremely useful—a clown is a physician; he makes men laugh."
Heaven help us when we have become so intelligent that we no longer laugh.

WOMEN AS CITIZENS

Women as voters, politicians and office holders, come in for their fair share of criticism when results are not as they should be. The attitude taken by some before the enactment of the suffrage amendment, that women, as voters, would automatically purify politics, was absurd. It is equally foolish to arraign women as being more negligent in their duties as citizens than men, and to charge that no good has come through granting the ballot to women.

In states where it is possible to do so, some one is always busy compiling statistics to show the per cent of men and women who voted at elections. There was great glee in certain circles when it was announced that at the last presidential election a larger per cent of the women than of the men of Illinois failed to vote. But, the suffrage amendment did not become a law until August of that year, and a great many women did not awake to their privilege until it was too late to register.

Miss Jeanette Rankin, Miss Alice Robertson and Mrs. Winifred Mason Huck are brought forward to prove that law-making is not woman's sphere, since these three women made no outstanding records as congresswomen.

But nothing is said of the hundreds of congressmen of whom the country never hears, and who accomplish nothing for their constituents and little for themselves.

Women have made good in state legislatures in a number of instances, as city officials and on the bench. With less experience than men, the records would seem to prove that women are neither more nor less able and interested than men.

INTEMPERANCE IN EATING

One of the worst sins of the day, and one to which more people are addicted than any other, is the sin of gluttony. People who would not think of tasting intoxicating liquor are intemperate in their eating as a matter of course. A man who lived to a ripe old age and retained his faculties wonderfully had for his motto throughout his life, "Moderation in all things." It is a motto that anyone might well adopt, for intemperance in anything indicates either a lack of judgment or of self control. Over eating more often than not is a sign of lack of self control.

Aside from those who have suffered illness from intemperance in eating and so have adopted more sensible habits, there are very few people who do not eat more than is necessary to sustain life, repair the waste of the body and give strength for the daily task, which is primarily why we eat.

The appetite is the big thing today. It is not what we need but what our taste demands. And we go on catering to our appetites, heedless of the certainty that over eating will lead to disaster.

Many a man who prides himself on keeping all the ten commandments has his appetite and his stomach for his gods.

SAFETY ON THE ROAD

Driving between Los Angeles and Monrovia the other day a man consumed a quart of whisky, and, strangely enough, ran into some obstruction and wrecked his car. He was fined $50 for driving while intoxicated. Perhaps the law was at fault or maybe the judge was to blame, but such a trivial punishment for so flagrant an offense is absurd, and would not deter this man or any other from drinking or driving while intoxicated if he felt inclined to do so. This man is dangerous, and that he killed no one, not even his own precious self, is no guarantee that the public will be so fortunate another time.

The only punishment commensurate with the offense in such a case that will not work a hardship upon others is to take the license away from the offender for a couple of years. This is real punishment for him and a safeguard for the public.

More care in issuing licenses and withdrawing them when the driver is found to be incompetent, and less persecution of competent drivers would make for greater safety on the road.

Teach children to obey and respect the law—all law.

Thought

By DR. FRANK CRANE

The question arises in many minds whether it is worth while to get people to think. In order to acquire the desired stage of thought, one must escape from the drifts of the unthinking ages. These are compact of the accumulations of customs and culture. Every item of this culture was practically selected for survival because it supported the autocratic social organization of these ages and helped to subordinate the masses of mankind to the few.

So that one who has an ambition to escape from custom and to live a life of intelligence faces the necessity of being constantly a rebel. It is safe to say that at no time has a group or a people ever demonstrated that it lives thinkingly and that it is conducted solely by thought. It is rather dominated by long stages of custom, interspersed with episodes of passion. Once in a while we get tired of customs and find that they contradict each other. Obedience is not easy. Sometimes the orders are ambiguous or impractical. We rebel against them and ask the question, "Why should I do this thing at all?" But sooner or later it becomes necessary for everyone to stick to the rules of the game.

For instance, the last war would not have occurred if there had been found a sufficient group able to think for themselves. And it is a curious phenomenon of our modern civilization that it is governed by those who appeal to party spirit or to passions rather than to intelligence and independence.

The very fibres of our body are the roots of habit, the fibres which are the structure of the group. We find it in wresting ourselves free when we are in danger of extinction.

All the forces around us are arranged for the conservatism of reaction. Society itself is a network of social relationships and antagonisms. These may be of old customs and attitudes of mind inherited from the past.

The primitive tragedy is that of the individual struggling against habit. Intelligence is the last of all in the scale of social evolution and one who gives himself wholly to it finds that he is out of touch with his fellow men.

Just how far intelligence should guide us is a matter for everyone to decide for himself as intelligent action has its danger quite as much as the adherence to social conditions around us.

Horoscope

Many kindly stars rule today, according to astrology. Mars, Venus and Saturn are all in benefic aspect.

Contractors, engineers and all who undertake large projects have the best possible direction today.

Venus is in a place presaging for women initiative in many public enterprises, especially those of a philanthropic or community welfare order.

This should be a very lucky wedding day, making for the old-fashioned ideals of constancy and devotion.

Merchants should benefit at this time when there should be a lively trade. Importers, modistes and milliners have an especially promising sign.

Theatres today are subject to the best possible influence. The spoken drama is to return to supremacy.

Again the seers prophesy that there are to be high ideals of life and literature preached.

In view of the recent visit of the Prince of Wales it is of interest to know that London astrologers have predicted that he may have an accident or a narrow escape from one before the late autumn.

As long as the Sun is close to the trine of Mars in his horoscope the Prince will enjoy much activity and will desire to travel.

In the horoscope of the King and Queen of England are aspects denoting domestic anxiety and this is interpreted as indicating increased concern about the delay in the marriage of the heir to the throne.

Sudden and unusual storms again foretold. It is well to be wise in choosing dates for ocean travel.

Earthquakes are certainly indicated for many places that have not been previously affected.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a prosperous year in business. The young will court and marry.

Children born on this day will be active, persevering and much respected. These subjects of Libra usually have a keen sense of justice and are able to win lasting friends.

Palestine will install modern plumbing.

Today's Poem

MY APRIL LADY

When down the stairs at morning
The sunbeams round her float,
Sweet little rivulets of laughter
Are rippling in her throat;
The gladness of her greeting
Is good without alloy;
And in the morning sunlight
I think her name is Joy.

When in the evening twilight
The quiet book-room lies,
We read the sad old ballads,
While from her hidden eyes
The tears are falling, falling,
That give her heart relief;
And in the evening twilight
I think her name is Grief.

My little April lady,
Of sunshine and of showers
She weaves the old spring magic,
And breaks my heart in flowers!
But when her moods are ended,
She nestles like a dove;
Then, by the pain and rapture,
I know her name is Love.
—Henry Van Dyke.

NOW WILL YOU BE GOOD?

Little Jack had been so persistently naughty that mother just had to give him a good spanking, and all afternoon a desire for revenge rankled in his little breast.

At length bedtime came, and kneeling down, he said his evening prayer, asking a blessing upon all the members of the family individually—except one. Then, rising, he turned to his mother with a triumphant look, saying as he climbed into bed, "I 'spose you noticed you wasn't in it."

JUST SO

A Defending Counsel—"You say that the fence is eight feet high and that you were standing on the ground—not mounted on a ladder or anything?"

Witness—"I do."
Counsel (triumphantly)—"Then perhaps you will kindly explain how you, a man little over five feet, could see over a fence eight feet high and watch the prisoner's action!"
Witness (calmly)—"There's a hole in the fence."

Who's Who

Another step along the same political path his illustrious father trod has been taken by Col. Theodore Roosevelt for governor of New York state who will oppose Governor Al Smith in the fall campaign. He took his first important step in his dad's footsteps, when he climbed into the World War as did his dad in the Spanish-American skirmish.

Young Roosevelt emerged from the war a Lieutenant colonel. Thus accelerated he entered politics and won a seat in the assembly in Albany, N. Y. Roosevelt returned from France in command of the Twenty-sixth infantry. Not all his experience in France was gained in the line, however, for he spent considerable time in Campment with General Pershing.

He is 37 years old, a graduate of Harvard, a lawyer and possessed of many of the characteristics of his father. He was married to Miss Eleanor Butler Alexander of New York in 1916. They have three children.

Roosevelt captured a degree at Harvard in three years and then set out to learn the carpet business. In 1912 he abandoned carpets for a clerkship in the brokerage offices of Berton, Griscom & Jenks, Wall Street. Two years later he became a member of the firm of Montgomery, Clothier & Tyler, bankers and brokers of Philadelphia. He managed that firm's New York office.

He was as active as anybody in organizing the American Legion, but refused to compete for the national chairmanship of that organization because it had been nominated about that he might benefit politically. He made vigorous denial of such intent at the time he declined to run for chairman.

Roosevelt went up and down the country campaigning for President Harding after his nomination and indulging in acrimonious political controversy with Franklin D. Roosevelt. He was named assistant secretary of the navy by President Harding, a post held by his dad before the latter ascended to the presidency.

Nearly one-fifth of the 30,000,000 women in this country over ten years of age are gainfully employed.

Making Presidents

By H. Irving King

IN 1824

When the time approached for Monroe to go out of office there was, it is true, only one political party in the country. But there were a host of statesmen and near-statesmen who aspired to lead that party. The most prominent candidates for the presidential nomination were John Quincy Adams, Secretary of State; W. H. Crawford, who had been peacefully bidding his time as secretary of the treasury; John C. Calhoun of South Carolina; Henry Clay "The Great Pacificator"; Andrew Jackson, "The Hero of New Orleans"; and De Witt Clinton of New York, "The Father of the Erie canal." Monroe designated Crawford, his old antagonist for the nomination in 1816, as his successor, and a congressional caucus was called at which Crawford was nominated. But "King Caucus" had become intensely unpopular and the nomination was a hindrance rather than a help to its nominee. Adams, Calhoun, Clay, Clinton and Jackson were nominated by state legislatures and by mass meetings. The result was that in electoral college Andrew Jackson received 99 votes, John Quincy Adams 84, W. H. Crawford 41, and Henry Clay 37. No candidate having a majority the election was thrown into the House which elected Adams. As, according to law in cases of this kind, only the names of the three candidates highest on the poll can be voted on, Clay was barred from consideration. In this election, for the first time, it is possible to give some record of the popular vote though the record embraces, of course, only those states where electors were chosen by popular ballot; and even in those it is incomplete. Something like 356,000 votes were cast in these states and Jackson received 153,544 of them, his nearest competitor being Adams who got about 45,000 less. Clay beat Crawford by about 1,000 votes; but Crawford, as stated, beat in the electoral college, Jackson and his friends were indignant. He had been highest on the poll, both in the electoral college and in the popular vote, and yet he had not been elected. Old Hickory went on the war path from that day. The "Era of Good Feeling" was at an end. The disappointed Crawford was stricken with apoplexy, which put an end to his presidential aspirations; though he lived for ten years after. Calhoun had early dropped out of the race for the presidential nomination and gone in for the vice presidency, to which he was elected with flying colors.

Plans for New Improvements Make Future of Section More Optimistic

By GIL A. COWAN
For Southland News Service.
LOS ANGELES, Oct. 4.—Structural activity and subdivisions have made Southern California famous, perhaps, in the last few years, but there are other factors in the development of this section which should be chronicled.

First and foremost is the shipping at Los Angeles harbor—San Pedro, if you please. It has become the nation's foremost oil exporting point and second only to New York in the matter of tonnage handled. Of course, it must be admitted that a great deal of this tonnage is held to intercoastal trade, yet it employs just as many people and is just as large a factor as though it represented imports from foreign countries.

Air Base Planned
Other considerations in the way of industry include the fruits, mineral and studio wealth of this immediate section of which little need be said. Like the tourists they are with us all the time.

But aside from manufacturing and giving employment to thousands of people directly and indirectly are public projects. A large air base for the navy is planned at San Pedro, for instance. The Pacific fleet is permanently established in southern waters with thousands of sailors contributing to the material prosperity of this section.

And then the county is entering into a $35,000,000 flood control campaign over a period of several years which will be augmented by local conservation work.

Street Improvement
The City Council of Los Angeles now is preparing to submit a $100,000,000 street improvement issue to the public to care for traffic conditions and there isn't the slightest doubt in the world but what a major portion of this will be carried to an early conclusion.

PROGRAM OF CONVENTION OUTLINED

Committees Arrange for Many Events at State Meet in Pasadena

Twenty years ago a group of far-seeing real estate brokers gathered at the Hotel Lanfershim in Los Angeles and organized, at the first convention, the California Federation of Real Estate Boards. There were less than 100 in that group, among them being Henry P. Barbour of Long Beach, who, on the morning of October 8, at the Maryland hotel, Pasadena, will, as president of the California Real Estate association, officially open its twentieth annual convention. Registrations this year will exceed 1500. There are now more than 3000 realty brokers members of the state association.

Governor Richardson; State Controller Ray L. Riley; John Willis Baer, vice-president of the Pacific Southwest bank; Dr. R. B. Von Kleinsmid, president of the University of Southern California; Ralph W. Merritt, president of the Sun Maid Raisin Growers' association; E. E. Kaufman, crop statistician; B. A. Madson, department of agriculture, University of California, Berkeley; S. M. Kennedy, vice-president of the Southern California Edison Co.; Al C. Joy, publicity director, San Joaquin Light & Power Co.; C. L. Seagraves, colonization agent of the Santa Fe railway; Benjamin F. Bledsoe, federal judge, and Edwin T. Kelsner, real estate commissioner, are among those not in the business of real estate, who will address the realtors some time during the four days of the convention.

Of Vital Interest
The Pasadena Realty board has been two years preparing to handle the greatest gathering of real estate men California has ever seen. From north and south motor caravans are coming, due to arrive at Pasadena on the evening of October 7. The convention will be held with general sessions in the morning and divisional meetings every afternoon.

H. Robert Ennis, president, and Herbert U. Nelson, executive secretary of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, are coming from Chicago to attend the convention and to address the brokers of California. Bert L. Clogher, chairman of the home-builders' and subdividers' division of the national association, a Los Angeles realtor, is the chairman

New Hotel To Be Imposing Structure

The appearance of North Brand boulevard will be enhanced by the new hotel building which is expected to be ready for occupancy not later than April 1, 1925. Plans call for 150 rooms with bath, spacious lobby and mezzanine for guests, thirteen stores and a garage on the first floor, service department in the basement, and the entire building fitted with the latest and most modern appointments. The exterior will be of buff brick with terra cotta trimmings, while construction will be of reinforced concrete throughout, making the building fireproof in every respect. The cost of the edifice is given as $500,000.

Final Plans and Specifications Prepared And Contract Awarded to Firm of Mann-Walker Co. of Los Angeles

Construction is to start at once on the new hotel to be erected at the northwest corner of Brand boulevard and California street, according to an announcement made by Boyd W. Doyle and Leslie P. Mick, capitalists and investors of Los Angeles. The building will cost approximately $500,000 when completed, it is said.

Final plans and specifications for the structure have been prepared and the contract let to the Mann-Walker Construction Co., prominent members of the Southern California chapter of Associated General Contractors of America. The site for the hotel was purchased from Dr. E. H. Parker, of Glendale.

The hotel portion of the building will contain 150 rooms, each room having a connecting bath trimmed in white tile. The latest and most modern appointments and furnishings will be installed, while the interior decorations planned for the new building will be the last word in beauty.

The plans for the building were prepared by the construction company. According to Herbert J. Mann, president and general manager of the company, the completed structure will embody artistry, utility and a style of rare grace.

Construction will be of reinforced concrete throughout, making the building absolutely fireproof. The total area covered by the four floors will be 15,000 square feet. The exterior will be of buff brick with the trimmings in terra cotta of an attractive design. It will take about six months to complete the building, according to Mr. Mann, and the structure will be ready for occupancy about April 1, 1925.

The most outstanding feature of the apartment-hotel will be the spacious lobby and mezzanine for the convenience of hotel guests. There will be thirteen stores and a garage on the first floor besides the imposing hotel entrance. The basement will consist of a service department and other needs.

Leslie P. Mick was formerly from New York and Chicago, where he took an active part in the building and financing of many large buildings. Since making his residence in California, he has become associated with Mr. Doyle, of Pasadena, who is heavily interested in several prominent hotels of Los Angeles. These two men are also subdividers, having sold several large tracts in and around Los Angeles during the past few years.

They have just recently completed the William Penn hotel in Whittier, a four-story structure costing $400,000.

Messrs. Mick and Doyle state they are placing the floor plans of the stores in the hands of R. N. Stryker, local realtor, of 215 North Brand boulevard, who has handled the transaction of this property. Mr. Stryker will look after the leasing of these stores.

Members of the Glendale Realty board plan to attend the state convention of the California Real Estate board en masse Tuesday, when the four day session opens in Pasadena.

One hundred per cent attendance is the goal set and from advance registration this goal will be reached, according to President Peter Hanson.

The part to be taken by the local organization starts Tuesday afternoon when a delegation of fifteen members of the board go to Burbank to meet the huge auto caravan from Northern California. Advance reports state that between 300 and 350 motorists will be in the parade and the line will be escorted through the city.

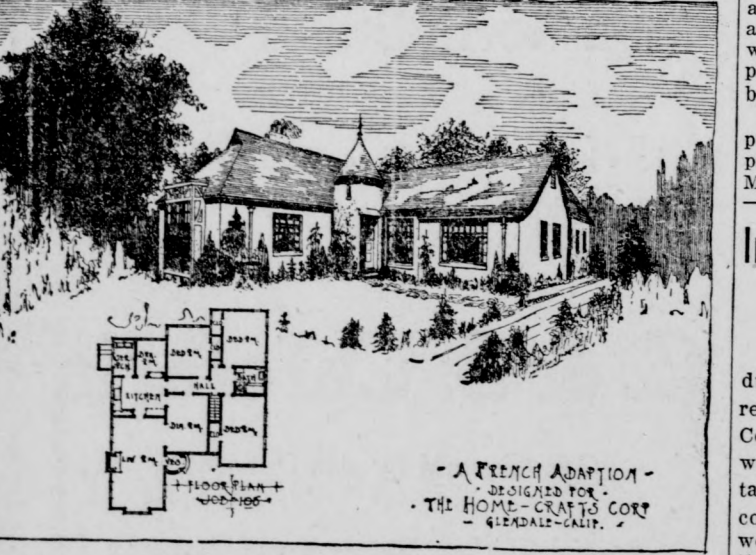

To Invade Glendale
Lloyd Myers, chairman of the caravan committee, will announce the line of march and local residents may see friends from the northern part of the state in the caravan.

At the convention President Peter Hanson will be the chief spokesman for Glendale. Having attended a meeting of a special committee of thirteen at Fresno last week, where he learned of some of the business matters to come up before the convention he will be well versed in the problems to be decided. Winnifred Traver, secretary of the Glendale Realty board, will also take part in the program of the paid secretaries.

Income Tax Receipts For September High Fruit Shipments From California Set Record

In the face of a 25 per cent reduction authorized by the new revenue act signed by President Coolidge on June 4, 1924, and which was allowed on income taxes payable on September 15, income tax receipts for September were $1,703,476.72 greater than the collections for September of last year. Collector of Internal Revenue Rex B. Goodell announced that total collections for September were $9,925,454.42 compared with $8,403,044.40 for September, 1923, an increase of $1,522,750.02.

Income receipts were $9,158,439.67 as against $7,454,962.95 for September of last year, an increase of 20 per cent.

The state of California last year shipped a greater amount of fresh fruits and vegetables than the entire group of fourteen Southern states inclusive of Texas, Georgia, Kentucky, Virginia and Florida, according to figures made public by R. N. Wilson, director of the agricultural department of the California Development association.

Wilson's statement shows that 246,500 carloads of fresh fruits and vegetables were shipped in California in 1923. The United States Department of Commerce figures give a shipment of 237,756 carloads for the Southern States.

The total shipment of fresh fruits and vegetables in the entire forty-eight states amounted to 913,136 carloads, placing California in the enviable position of having shipped more than 25 per cent of the entire national output.

Trophies to Be Given At State Convention BRINGING BALL TEAM

Appreciating the high order of volunteer service rendered by the unpaid secretaries of many real estate boards in California, the California Real Estate Magazine, official journal of the California Real Estate Association has announced an achievement plaque to be awarded at the twentieth annual convention in Pasadena.

An achievement trophy cup offered by Past State President C. C. Tatum was won in the following order: San Jose, Oakland and San Francisco. The Tatum trophy will be awarded again this year. The magazine plaque will be offered annually and will be competed for this year by about twenty-five realty boards throughout the state.

AT LA CRESCENTA

LA CRESCENTA, Oct. 4.—The business of the La Crescenta Improvement Association at its first meeting of the season, was mainly road reports, fire reports and discussions of the various projects under way for the year. Harvey Bissell stated that the county has not enough equipment to take care of all the roads needing dragging. Mr. McGinnis spoke on the work needed on Rosemont avenue. H. Fowler of Verdugo City reported that contracts have been let for street improvement on Hermosa avenue. O. Diesel has the contracts to lay cement curbs and pavements on Honolulu avenue west of Los Angeles avenue. The widening of Los Angeles paving from Montrose avenue to Sycamore street is to start at once.

Mark Collins, president of the association, spoke on appropriate road signs. Bringing the territory of West La Crescenta back to this district was discussed. Mr. Collins stated that reports must be in the county office not later than February. This portion of La Crescenta was loaned to the Tujunga district to enable them to form a school district. Mrs. Mary B. Darrow asked the secretary be instructed to write the Automobile Association to place speed-limit signs through the residential district of Montrose avenue.

Upon a motion made by Mr. Bissell, Mr. Collins appointed a nominating committee to present names of candidates for president, secretary and treasurer. These names will be presented at the annual election of officers on the first Thursday in November. Dr. E. N. Nettleton, Fred Pinkus and Harvey Bissell will act on this committee.

C. P. Waste, head of the La Crescenta branch of the Angeles Fire Protection Society, spoke on the work the local boys did and are doing as crew leaders in the San Gabriel canyon fire. According to Mr. Waste and Mr. Bissell, the boys are in need of proper equipment, such as canteens, lanterns and knapsacks, which will be taken care of by contributions. To date there are sixteen members in the association. The fund which is being raised will also provide the boys with their badges.

Mr. Bissell gave an outline of the work he has mapped out for building fire breaks on the north hills of the valley which will extend from the Arroyo Seco to Elsa peak. This road will cost in the neighborhood of $3000 for the five miles.

Twenty-six members were present.

On Monday the pupils of the La Crescenta school will elect officers for the athletic association. Miss Allen is to have charge of the school playgrounds for two nights a week. The supervisor, T. A. Blandford, is planning to erect a lath house, where plants as well as young shrubs for the school grounds may be taken care of until ready for planting. The boys are at present helping to clean up the school grounds.

The Oak Mount service station was in charge of George Justin during the absence of the two proprietors, Milo Giese and Bob Payne. Mr. Giese has now recovered from his illness and Mr. Payne has returned from his eastern vacation. Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Cox enter-heads of the people. Peace is the result of mutual understanding and mutual confidence exemplified in honorable action.

Must Be Paid

"What we need now is to cherish the motives for which we made peace (after the world war). We want to see Germany restored to a condition of productivity and progress, under which she will be able to take up the burden of civilization."

The president called attention to the Dawes reparations plan, "the essence of which was that it should be carried out by private citizens unhampered by political considerations."

"That was done," he said. "The American government was the architect. The experts, unconnected with any government, built the structure known as the Dawes plan. The allies and Germany have adopted it. It remains for private enterprise in this country and Europe to do the finance it."

Revival in Europe

With the operation of the Dawes plan, Mr. Coolidge said he believed there would be a revival in Europe, "and that we shall receive the benefit of a larger market for the products of our farms and our factories."

"Above that," he continued, "we shall have the satisfaction of knowing that we have done what we could to help the hatreds of war, restore the destruction it has wrought and lay a firmer foundation for industrial prosperity and a more secure peace. To promote these ends, reserving complete jurisdiction over its own internal affairs and complete independence to direct its own actions, America should always stand ready. I have already indicated many times my wish for an international court and further disarmament."

Campaign Issues

Turning to the campaign issues raised by Senator La Follette in demanding substantial changes in the constitution and government ownership of railroads and other utilities, the president said:

"You want your rights protected by the constitution and the flag which is its symbol, not only because it represents to you the homeland, but because you know it is the sole source of American freedom. You want your rights protected by the impartial judicial decisions of the constitution. You want to have your earnings and your property secure. You want a free and fair opportunity to conduct your own business and make your way in the world without danger of being overcome by government monopoly.

"No one can compel. When the government really starts into a line of business, that door of opportunity is closed to the people. It has always been an American ideal that the door of opportunity should remain open."

Tribute to Heroes

The president paid tribute to the deeds of the First division, declaring that the nation recognizes toward all its war veterans a "debt which it can never repay, but which it will never repudiate."

"We cannot claim," Mr. Coolidge said in concluding his address, "that we have reached perfection, but we are justified in saying that our institutions are the best for the promotion of human welfare that the ingenuity of man has ever been able to devise. We cannot claim that our government is perfect, but we have the right to believe that it is the best that there is. We do not claim that we have been able to discharge our full duty toward the other nations of the earth, but we have a right to believe that we have been an effective agency in helping to restore Europe.

America has dedicated itself to the service of God and man."

Brilliant Spectacle

The unveiling of the monument was preceded by a brilliant military spectacle, when units of the First division, led by Major-General C. P. Summerall, marched along Pennsylvania avenue, from the capitol to the treasury and were reviewed by the president.

The actual unveiling was performed by Private Daniel E. Edwards of Company C, Third Machine Gun battalion, after the national salute had been fired by Battery C of the Sixth field artillery—the unit which fired the first American artillery shot in the world war.

The divisional memorial is a granite monument 75 feet high, surmounted by a gold statue of victory. The names of those who died while fighting with the division are inscribed on the granite base.

Comment

By GIL A. COWAN

The world series started today with the baseball world focusing its eyes on Washington. There the New York Giants compete with the Senators.

In words of sports writers, the bribery incident should be closed unless something more tangible than Coach Dolan's bone-headedness is exposed.

And fans should enjoy the games all the more, for it is a pretty safe guess that there will be nothing but simon-pure baseball displayed.

Glendale has many baseball enthusiasts, as witness the interest displayed in today's game. And why shouldn't the national pastime be popular? From the time a boy is knee-high to a grasshopper, he aspires to some position on a team.

Playing the game, be it baseball, banking or farming, is all the joy to be obtained in life. Money is useful, not essential. Prestige is coveted, yet it is only to be worn on occasion.

Many a baseball game, as well as a business, has been saved by a utility man who rests on the bench the livelong day, only to step forth at the crucial moment and put over the winning play.

Football season is in full swing, also, which brings many budding youth before the public with chronicles of his achievement on the gridiron.

It has been truthfully said that famous people are made more so by newspapers. Overnight now an unknown person can ride to fame in pictures and telegraphed news. Equally as quickly the infamous find oblivion.

Business of local merchants is good and getting better. The fall shopping season is in full swing to look at Glendale's stores today. Yet the trade is but a small part of that to be expected in the coming weeks. Glendale is a live shopping center. Its merchants are alert and the progress of the city along this particular line is most remarkable to one who has noted conditions for more than a decade.

No better barometer of business here may be found than The Glendale Evening News advertising columns. And the past week has revealed great activity on the part of the merchants who know their public.

SECURE SPEAKER FOR C.C. LUNCHEON

Oscar A. Berman Will Talk On Glendale's Future In Industry

Oscar A. Berman, president of Ironall Industries, Inc., at Ontario, will be the first speaker at the initial meeting of the Chamber of Commerce luncheon club next Thursday noon, at the Alley Inn, according to Secretary Howard I. Wood of the Glendale body.

Mr. Berman spoke at the meeting of the Southern California Secretaries' association at Whittier last Saturday, and it was there that Mr. Wood heard him and asked him to speak in Glendale.

Mr. Berman, recognized as the best-known industrial man of Southern California, will speak on "Glendale's Future Industry—what shall it be?" The speaker is a most interesting man to listen to, Mr. Wood states, and a real treat is promised those who attend.

Wood, secretary of the Ontario chamber, will accompany the speaker here. George Karr, second vice-president, will be acting president at the meeting.

New Venture Here

The Chamber of Commerce luncheon club is a new venture in Glendale. It was formed with the idea of providing a luncheon and meeting for members of the Glendale chamber who are not affiliated with luncheon clubs at the present time. Those who do belong to other organizations are not barred, however, and reservations may be made by calling Glendale 1262, the secretary's office. Accommodations will be made for sixty at the first meeting.

Rebekah Sewing Club Change Office Rule

Members of the Rebekah Sewing club met at the I. O. O. F. hall at 201-A West Broadway yesterday morning for the regular all-day meeting. The business meeting was under the direction of Mrs. W. U. Ertle, president. The members voted to rescind the rule that officers would maintain their office for one year and adopted the rule that elective officers hold office for six months, beginning February 1 and August 1. In the contest which is held at each meeting Mrs. Evelyn Hall was awarded the traveling prize.

The afternoon was spent in making dresses for Margaret Fancher, who is at the Rebekah Orphan Home at Gilroy and members are planning to send her a box for her birthday which is October 22. Any member wishing to contribute some article to this box is requested to bring it to lodge Tuesday night and the box will be packed at the home of Mrs. Sadie Bronenberg at West Harvard street Wednesday morning. The Circle will meet again October 17 at the hall.

Nebraska Judge Will Speak at Club Meeting

Ex-Judge R. M. Flowers of Nebraska, will deliver the main address tonight at the meeting of the La Follette club at 108 North Brand boulevard. A meeting of the executive committee and of the campaign committee was held last night at 133 North Glendale avenue when plans for the five and drums corps parade tonight were worked out. Tickets have been received by the club for reservations for the speech to be delivered by vice-presidential candidate Wheeler on October 13. A message was also read stating that plans are being arranged for La Follette to deliver a speech at Los Angeles the latter part of the month.

New Pastor to Preach At First Methodist

Rev. Lindstrom Ferris, of San Diego, who was recently appointed pastor of the First Methodist church of this city, will preach his first sermon here tomorrow. Rev. Ferris was not expected to arrive here for a few weeks but came earlier than he thought at first.

City Officials Leave Today for Meeting

There will be a dearth of city officials in Glendale the next few days. This afternoon Mayor Spencer Robinson, Councilmen S. A. Davis and S. S. Gilhuly, H. C. Vandewer, building superintendent, and A. J. Van Wie, city clerk, left in the mayor's car for Monterey, where the twenty-sixth annual convention of the League of California Municipalities assembles on Monday, October 6, for a four-day session.

Virgil B. Stone, city manager, and Peter Diederich, superintendent of plant and production, left this afternoon in another car. Ray L. Morrow, city attorney, had planned to go but pressure of work in connection with placing the Civic Center proposition before the voters on November 4 will keep him in Glendale. Councilman Davis carries to the convention Mr. Morrow's prepared address on "Joint Outfall Sewers by Two or More Cities," which he will read before the gathering.

When Palestine was taken over by the British in 1918, Jerusalem's 65,000 people got their water supply from rain accumulated from roofs of houses, court yards and street surfaces, and methods to improve the unsanitary conditions now are under consideration.

Here's a name with Something in it!

"What's in a name? That which we call a rose by any other name would smell as sweet."—Shakespeare

LET us speak of the appropriateness of names. Consider the Pacific-Southwest, a great area of unbounded resources, with many cities... some, producing centers, others peculiarly suited to manufacture and still others, excellent shipping points.

Consider its financial needs... its need of a Bank, small enough in its various units to understand and serve the individual communities, yet strong enough in its unified system to render outstanding financial service to the area as a whole.

It has such a bank, serving through branches in 46 cities. By what more appropriate name could such an institution be called than Pacific-Southwest Trust & Savings Bank?

Diet And Health

By LULU HUNT PETERS, M. D.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS

Goitre
F. I.—The chocolate iodine tablets which we have mentioned in the column, are used both as a cure and as a preventive of goitre; that is, the goitre known as "simple" goitre, which is due to a deficiency of iodine in the system. This deficiency may be due to the fact that the foods and water are deficient in iodine, so, naturally, the diet would not contain sufficient of this element. (In certain localities known as goitre belts, this is true.) Or, it may be due to something that disturbs the iodine absorption even when sufficient is taken.

We know the absorption of iodine may be disturbed by putrefactive conditions of the intestines or by taking too much fat. These iodine tablets must be prescribed by your physician, who will determine if your goitre is a simple goitre. If it were the type known as exophthalmic goitre, they might be harmful instead of beneficial.

The periods of life during which goitre is most apt to develop are pregnancy and nursing, fetal life (then the child is born with a goitre) and adolescence. Iodine given medicinally will prevent these from forming. This has been proved too often to be questioned. In some states, notably Michigan, notably, the salt is being iodized; that is, an infinitely small amount equal to the amount that is usually purified out of the salt when it is prepared for market, is added. In the goitre regions this will undoubtedly be of great benefit.

We have an article on goitre, which you may have by sending a self addressed, stamped envelope (s. a. s. e.) with your request. Your physician may have the name of the tablet which is used so successfully in Switzerland and Ohio by writing me on his official stationery.

A Beautiful Complexion
Dear Doctor: I have gained five pounds by following your instructions. I am not conceited, but I want to tell you how much better looking I am becoming. Will you please tell me if there is a special diet to follow to improve a faulty skin? Mine is dreadfully dry.—M. F.

If you have gained from following our instructions to eat more, that shows you were eating too little before, and your skin as well as the rest of your organs, was suffering from your undereating. I predict now that you are getting enough to eat that your skin will clear up. You know how beautiful a baby's complexion is, and what a baby's chief diet is? Yes, milk. So—drink a quart of milk in some form every day and get enough fruit and vegetables which will supply a lot of roughage, so that you will have good bowel movements each day. Add some bran or agar or mineral oil, if the fruits and vegetables are not effective.

If your skin is dry you should use a very mild soap, if any. Perhaps you had better wash your face with glycerine and rose water—glycerine one part to four parts of rose water. Three or four drops of carboic acid to eight ounces of the mixture sometimes seems to make it more effective. Or you can pour a little pure glycerine in your hands, smear over your face and wash it off with water. That is the method often used by the person you say was described as having a beautiful complexion. (She drinks milk, too,—at least two glasses a day.)

St. Vitus Dance (Chorea)
Mrs. H.—I do not fully know what the cause of chorea is, but prolonged undernourishment, unhappy, irritable home surroundings and prolonged over-excitement are predisposing causes. It is not infrequently associated with rheumatism. In fact many physicians think it is a form of rheumatism. The regime I have often given for the malnourished child, and the attention of a skillful physician are necessary. We have a list of modern books on feeding children which you may have by sending the s. a. s. e. with your request.

Mr. X.—We have an article on blood pressure. Stop worrying about it and reduce your weight. It'll go down then, I assure you.

My Dear Followers:—When sending for material which we offer you please remember to enclose a stamped envelope bearing your full name and address. The pamphlet on reducing and gaining is the only one of which you must enclose four cents in stamps extra. Address your letters to me in chief of this paper. Make them as brief as possible, not over 200 words, and type clearly. I will reply with ink. Please sign your name as evidence of good faith—we will not use it in any way. Remember, it is impossible for me to diagnose for you or to answer you personally. I appreciate very much the beautiful letters you send me and regret it is impossible to give you individual answers to every question. You will be answered in the column as soon as possible; if they are of general interest. Don't forget to send me if you expect me to send you the information I have offered.

She also had charge of the club session with thirty women present. The lesson was a review in the form of a question box and proved very interesting. The club voted to give $50 to the Y. M. C. A. drive, and also voted to apply for application in the General Federation of Women's Clubs, Shawnee, Okla., parliamentarianism of the fifth district federation of Women's Clubs in Oklahoma, a delegate to the biennial held in June, gave an interesting talk on the federation and stated that there were only six states having parliamentary law clubs with a direct membership in the federation and that she was proud to know that Oklahoma was among these. Report Pickpockets

A team of pickpockets operated successfully at the corner of Brand boulevard and Harvard street, just before 6 o'clock last night, as the crowds were pouring out of trolleys, shops and stores, Jostling B. S. Orion of 118 Lancaster street, Pasadena, and relieving him of $150 cash and a receipt for $1500 worth of oil securities.

"I didn't know pickpockets were still at it," was the nonchalant comment Orion made to the police, in reporting his loss. One of the men he described as six feet tall and heavy set, the other as just under six feet and of a lighter build. Both went north on Brand boulevard after relieving him of his wallet, he said. The police have been unable to catch the light-fingered pair so far.

Relieved Him of $150

Chats On Beauty

By EDNA KENT FORBES

NEW EVENING FROCKS

Shop windows, and, consequently, feminine minds, are filled with autumn and winter dresses. Some of us can go cheerfully into the nicest stores and order what we like; some of us have to take last winter's gowns, which have done duty for this summer's dances as well, and make them fresh and smart for next winter's affairs. And how wiled they look when they come out of the trunks after one's summer holiday!

Now then, what about the new styles and what about their becomingness? It's my belief that the Directorate influence will grow stronger and that for a season or so we'll be going in for skimpy, high-waisted bodices, short, puffy sleeves and clinging skirts. They've tried, not very successfully, a revival of the non-pleasing styles of the 1880's; the Directorate fashions will be much more artistic.

Can you wear them? If you are tall and slim, yet with rounded arms and shoulders, you are ideally fitted for them. The shoulder line is cut wide across the front, often, indeed, it drops below the curve of the shoulder, and the sleeve begins part way down the arm, for them. This you are hopeless, choose another style altogether! Fashion cruelly ignores the fat. If you're too thin, all is well, for you can raise the neckline so high in front that the completely hides the bones and hollows, and then cut it quite deep in back either to a V or a U shaped finish. In that case, you edge your neckline with silk or velvet or ribbon and let a bow hang from the décolletage of the back.

Or you adapt the scarf to the evening frock, using tulle or chiffon of some becoming color, either to match the frock or to contrast sharply, bringing it from one shoulder seam, and throwing it over the other shoulder after winding it about your throat.

Worried—Children about your age are often troubled with pimples and they disappear in a few years without any special treatment. You can keep them from getting worse, and may rid yourself of them entirely, if you do not overeat of rich foods, especially a great deal of candy between meals.

C. A.—Extract the coarse hairs with tweezers every time they show above the surface of the skin and bleach the finer hair with peroxide. This will keep

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes in care of the "Beauty Chats" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. The inexperienced housewife is likely to neglect her sink through ignorance of the proper preventive measures which keep it in good condition.

To prevent clogging of the sink-drain by grease, to say nothing of the needless labor in caring for it, it pays to scrape all soiled dishes and cooking pans into a pail before washing them. A rubber-edged plate-scraper is excellent for this task. At the end of the dish washing, pour the water from the dish pan through a sink strainer, to eliminate any crumbs which may still have clung to china or cooking utensils.

Enamel or porcelain sinks are kept clean by washing with soapy water and wiping occasionally with a cloth moistened with kerosene oil. The dishpan should be mounted on rubber feet to prevent scratching the porcelain. Or, better yet, buy a rubber mat to lie in the bottom of the sink, for all pots and pans to stand on. Any fine abrasive may be used on porcelain (such as sifted whiting) when scratched or soiled. Kerosene is best to use in removing the curd-like deposit left on the enamel sink, especially if it is stained. It is necessary to use the following cleansing agent: Buy from a drugist a little muric acid (this is a poison, so should be carefully handled). To one part of this acid add ten parts of water. Apply this mixture with a swab of cotton tied to a skewer (never with the hands). Then rinse the porcelain well with ammonia and water. The ammonia, which is an alkali, will check the action of the acid on the glazed finish of the porcelain.

Slate and iron sinks require an occasional cleaning with some form of abrasive also. Kerosene is also useful here to remove greasy deposits. On an iron sink kerosene will remove rust. Steel wool, moistened with linseed oil will keep iron sinks smooth and clean.

To clear a sink drain when stopped—Dissolve one-quarter of a pound of copperas in two quarts of boiling water, and pour this down the drain, then flush with clear, hot water. Or, if preferred, use one pound of lye dissolved in six quarts of boiling water, to flush the drain, followed by the boiling water. Another method is that of pouring one gallon of boiling water down the drain, followed by one cupful of kerosene in emulsion with the boiling water. After ten minutes flush with boiling water. Never use washing soda (sal soda) to clear a sink drain, as it combines with the grease to form a hard soap.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Kirkman, in care of the "Housekeeping" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question. Be sure to use YOUR full name, street number, and the name of your city and state.—The Editor.

BUTTERFLY

By KATHLEEN NORRIS. Copyright, 1924.

CHAPTER LXIX
 "A mistake!" she whispered again. "I wanted only to sleep. You believe me, dear—sis, you believe your Butterfly! You're both—I've been so bitterly sorry! Oh—I can't—bear it!"
 "Don't try to talk—it hurts your throat!" Craig directed, holding her tightly, as if to still the paroxysms that shook her like loquacious shudders. "You took the disinfectant; in the same sort of bottle! Just keep quiet, Butterfly!"
 "It's that horridly inky taste," she breathed, looking up at him childishly. "Water."
 Mrs. Spaulding gave her water, but she drank only a little.
 "Oh, such a pain!" she whispered, relaxed in Craig's arms. And suddenly her white face wrinkled, and she began to cry piteously, and raised his big hand to press it to her distorted lips. Hilary, holding her free hand and kneeling on the other side of the bed, burst into bitter tears, and laid her wet face against her sister's soft fingers.
 Doctor Bertheau walked quietly and unannounced into the room, his nurse, a gray-haired woman, with him.
 "Poison!" he said, briefly, in an undertone. "We'll see what we can do. I can ask this girl for everything," he said, glancing at the tearful Emma, "and I think you had better wait elsewhere. If you please, Miss Collier! You understand that we shall have to use radical treatment."
 "Dora, who was drowsy, merely opened startled eyes when Craig laid her down; Hilary gave the doctor one imploring glance."
 "Now, Mrs. Spaulding, we'll have to see just how much of a start this thing has gotten," the doctor said, kindly, taking Butterfly's hand. "Get me that bottle, Miss Butters." He headed, one faintly frowning, had the effect of taking Hilary, Craig, and his mother out into the hall.
 How she lived through the next twenty minutes Hilary never knew. All thought was suspended. The familiar rooms, chairs, voices, seemed glaring and strange.
 "Butterfly—dying," she said over and over again in her heart. "Butterfly—dying." The words had no meaning. She sat in the padded seat of the great curved front window, with the hall lights twinkling upon her shining slipper, and slowly twisted and studied that slipper, as if it possessed some rare interest.
 Craig, motionless, voiceless, stood with folded arms in the shadow of the big curtains. Mrs. Spaulding sat in a great carved English chair, her hands firm upon its arms, her eyes shut.

 Twenty minutes. Then Doctor Bertheau stepped quietly out, and nodding gravely, beckoned them with his gold eye-glasses to a position farther down the big hallway.
 "Oh, my God—my God!" Hilary said, half aloud. Sick with apprehension, she and the others followed him.
 "She is comfortable, much easier," said the doctor, putting his glasses carefully away. "The pain may return. In that case I would not recommend an opiate."
 "Doctor," Hilary faltered, "will she suffer? Will it be long?"
 "Oh, no," the doctor answered, comfortably. "Her throat may give her some little restlessness tonight. I would advise her staying in bed for a day or two."
 "In bed for a day or two?" Craig echoed, hoarsely, gripping his arm. "Is she—is she going to get well?"
 The old man looked at him in amazement. His expression became apologetic.
 "I supposed Miss Butters had come out to tell you," he said, concernedly. "I am sorry to have had you alarmed. No, Mrs. Spaulding took what she was supposed to take for wakefulness; but she took too heavy a dose. In her nervous condition the effect of the drug was exactly opposite what it should be. We never use it in surgery for that reason; the patient's condition is too often a natural antidote. She felt her throat burned and became naturally frightened. There is an asthmatic effect, in some cases."
 "Oh, my God, I thank Thee!" Craig heard Hilary whisper, and the next moment she was sobbing in his arms.
 "Why, here, here, here!" Craig said, patting her shoulder, his own eyes watering, and his voice thick. "Don't, dear!"
 "I can only warn you," the doctor said, smiling in a fatherly fashion, "that in Mrs. Spaulding's condition there will naturally be excitement, nervousness, a tendency to enlarge trifles, possible hysteria—" Hilary's wet eyes and Craig's suddenly widened gray ones met his in one astonished question.
 "You are of course aware, Craig," said old Bertheau, who had discussed this same question with Craig's father a generation ago, "you are of course aware that your wife is to become a mother?"
 "Butterfly!" Hilary whispered.

Theatres

THE GATEWAY
 Many women have brought back the latest styles from Paris. Some have returned from abroad to show us what is worn by the well-dressed Englishwoman. But it was Alice Terry, the Metro star, coming back from colorful Africa who introduced the vogue for Tunisian fashions.
 Miss Terry plays one of the leading roles (Ramon Navarro plays the other) in Rex Ingram's newest production for Metro, "The Arab," which the noted director filmed in Africa, particularly in Tunis. When Miss Terry returned with Mr. Ingram, her husband, she brought back the complete wardrobe of the aristocratic Arab woman of the harem.
 There are lovely gondras of silk, cashmere and rich embroideries. These are the top garment of the Arabian woman—long and straight—but Miss Terry uses them as negligees and robes for the boudoir, and in their beautiful colors and unusual silks they are fascinating to the feminine eye.
 Then there are burnouses of black, French Blue, and Sphali Red—all elaborately embroidered in gold, which make gorgeous evening wraps. The ordinary wraps that have adorned women bound for the opera, theatre or dance—sink into insignificance beside these bright and startling evening coats.
 "The Arab" is coming to the Gateway Theatre on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.
THE DOBSON PLAYERS
 "A Prince There Was" will be presented at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon at the Tuesday Afternoon clubhouse, corner of North Central avenue and Lexington drive, and again tonight at 8:15 o'clock tonight, states Miss Eva Daniels, business manager of the Dobson Players.
 Mrs. Florence Dobson, general manager, has long been identified with the Shakespearean drama. She has a broad knowledge of dramatic literature and has trained for the stage many actors and actresses who have won distinction. For a season or two she has presented plays at universities and as part of important club programs.
 This association between women's clubs and theatrical productions is full of promise for future amusements. Since communities have taken an interest in producing plays and in fostering them, there is new promise of the development of what is best on the American stage.
 Tickets for this play may be obtained at 113 South Brand boulevard during the day time or at the Tuesday Afternoon club box office at night, Miss Daniels states.
THE GLENDALE
 "In Past Company" with Mildred Harris concludes today at the Glendale Theatre. "One Night in Rome" opens Sunday.
THE T. D. & L.
 "The Sea Hawk" concludes today at the T. D. & L. Theatre. Sunday "A Girl of the Limberlost" opens at this theatre.

Uncle Wiggily

By HOWARD R. GARIS
UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE BUTTER
 "Do you think, Uncle Wiggily, you can remember to bring me a pound of butter from the store?" asked Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy, the muskrat lady housekeeper, of the bunnny rabbit gentleman one day.
 "Why, of course I can remember to bring you butter," he replied with a twinkle of his pink nose. "I can remember harder things than that. I can remember the last time you made me a strawberry short cake, and that's a long time ago."
 "Don't be silly!" advised Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy. "How can I make you strawberry short cake when there aren't any strawberries?"
 "I only said that for a joke," laughed the bunnny gentleman. "I wanted you to know that I could remember things."
 "Well, then, remember the pound of butter," begged Nurse Jane. "And don't buy it and then leave it on some stump in the woods and come home without it and tell me you forgot, or a bear chased you or something like that! Don't!"
 "I'll try not to!" said the bunnny, and then he hopped over the fields and through the woods to the place where Mrs. Moo Cow sold butter, which she churned out of her milk by jumping over the moon.
 "Here you are, Uncle Wiggily," said Mrs. Moo Cow, as she wrapped the butter in a clean, green leaf for him. "Now how will you remember to take it home with you?"
 "I'll slip it in my back trousers pocket," said the bunnny.
 "Be careful you don't sit on it!" laughed Mrs. Moo Cow. "If you sit on the butter when it's in your pocket you'll squash it!"
 "I'll be careful," promised the bunnny.
 "And you had better hurry home with it," went on the lady cow. "For it is a very warm day and the butter may melt."
 "I'll hurry, thank you," said Mr. Longears.
 He hopped along as fast as he could, for he wanted to get the butter business over with and go on to an adventure. He was going through the woods, and hopping rather slowly, for it was up hill, when, all of a sudden, the bunnny heard a rustling in the bushes.
 "That's the Bob Cat after me, I'm sure!" thought Uncle Wiggily. "I must run." So he began running up the hill. It was hard work and he began to feel hotter and hotter. Then a voice behind the rabbit cried:
 "Stop! Wait a minute!"
 "Oh, ho! Indeed I'll not stop for any Bob Cat!" cried the bunnny, and he ran faster and faster, and grew hotter and hotter. Pretty soon he felt something running down his legs. "Oh, I must be melting and coming apart like a candy rabbit in front of the fire! Oh, what shall I do?"
 And just then his feet slipped from under him and he fell down. "Oh, hunk!"
 "Oh, now the Bob Cat will get me, surely!" thought Uncle Wiggily. But when he looked up, after hearing feet running near him, he saw only Jackie Bow Wow, the puppy dog boy.
 "Didn't you hear me call after you to stop?" barked the doggie. "Nurse Jane sent me to take the butter from you for fear you might hop off with it. Give me the butter and you may go adventuring."

 "Oh, Jackie!" sighed Uncle Wiggily. "I'm so glad you aren't the Bob Cat. But—" and he put his hand to his back pocket—"there isn't any butter!"
 "No butter?" barked the doggie boy. "No butter?"
 "No, I ran so fast and grew so hot that I melted the butter and it ran down my legs and made the ground slippery. That's why I fell!" said Uncle Wiggily.
 And so it had happened. The butter was all melted. But Uncle Wiggily bought more, and instead of putting it in his pocket, he gave it to Jackie, who took it to Nurse Jane, so everything came out all right after all.
 And if the dining room table doesn't try to play with the ball of yarn, and get all tangled up around the legs, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the falling leaves.

Value of Michigan's Crop Is Big Amount
 DETROIT, Oct. 4.—The total value of all agricultural crops in Michigan this year is placed at $247,776,000 by federal authorities. This is an increase of $5,304,000 as compared with last year. The value of the corn, winter wheat, oats and sugar beet crops is approximately $20,000,000 more than in 1923, but the hay, apple and peach crops slumped $10,000,000 in value. Corn is valued at $55,586,000 or $10,000,000 more than last year, and the value of winter wheat increased about $3,500,000. Beans, Michigan's prize crop, are higher in price, but lower in volume.

Script Says Hair of Henna, No Easy Task
 LOS ANGELES, Oct. 4.—If black is fast, henna is hasty, opines John Bowers, matinee idol of the films, after two weeks' experience with his newly transformed crowning glory.
 John had to henna his hair for an important role, but the henna will not hold color under the atmospheric changes, he finds. This morning he was re-bleaching his hair while the cameras waited. It's a case of "the shades of night were falling fast," he says.

NEW CONTRACT TO PROTECT OWNERS

Contractor Named Trustee of Money Received In Proposed Change

Home owners are to be protected against unscrupulous building contractors under the terms of a new standard building contract being drafted by J. J. Hill, Jr., deputy district attorney, with the co-operation of Paul F. Langworthy, secretary of the Los Angeles Builders' exchange.

The new contract names the contractor a trustee for all monies received, thus making the misapplication of such funds an embezzlement, according to Mr. Langworthy, who calls attention to the fact that previously unscrupulous contractors frequently operated without capital, applying money received from one job on another, in the end becoming hopelessly involved and fleeing town.

With contractors bound by law to act as trustees for their clients, and subject to criminal prosecution for misapplication of any funds, it is the belief of Messrs. Langworthy and Hill that the general public will now have full recourse against "fly-by-night" parasites on the building trade.

NEW CONTRACT TO PROTECT OWNERS

Contractor Named Trustee of Money Received In Proposed Change

Home owners are to be protected against unscrupulous building contractors under the terms of a new standard building contract being drafted by J. J. Hill, Jr., deputy district attorney, with the co-operation of Paul F. Langworthy, secretary of the Los Angeles Builders' exchange.

The new contract names the contractor a trustee for all monies received, thus making the misapplication of such funds an embezzlement, according to Mr. Langworthy, who calls attention to the fact that previously unscrupulous contractors frequently operated without capital, applying money received from one job on another, in the end becoming hopelessly involved and fleeing town.

With contractors bound by law to act as trustees for their clients, and subject to criminal prosecution for misapplication of any funds, it is the belief of Messrs. Langworthy and Hill that the general public will now have full recourse against "fly-by-night" parasites on the building trade.
