Space is now well taken in the non-competitive trade section of the Grand Floral Festival, to be held in the Coliseum, November 9-14. The few good locations remaining will be sold to the first applicants. The rate for space is very low, 30 cents per square foot in the main hall and 20 cents per square foot in the annex, the minimum for space being $25. Applications for space in this section should be addressed as early as possible to A. Henderson, 369 River street, Chicago.

The jurors for the show thus far appointed include E. A. Kanst, superintendent of Lincoln park, chairman; J. J. Hess, Omaha, Neb.; James S. Wilson, Des Moines, Ia.; W. A. Kennedy, Milwaukee, Wis.; J. E. Matthewson, Sheboygan, Wis.; John Reardon, Ames, Ia.; A. J. Smith, Lake Geneva, Wis.; Donald McNaughton, Lake Forest; Edward Boulter, Winnetka; August Koch, west park system; H. N. Bruns, A. Lange, Ernst Wienhoeber and Chas. A. Samuelson.

A large array of special prizes in the form of cups, trophies, etc., has been secured including a magnificent series donated by the greenhouse building concerns located in this vicinity and valued at $500.

H. B. Howard and James Morton have been added to the executive committee and both were on hand at the last meeting, October 14.

MICHAEL BARKER,
Chairman Publicity Committee.

Houston Flower Show Premium List.

The premium list of the Texas state flower show, which will be held at Houston, November 17-20, has been completed and provides for awards in nearly 100 classes in plants and cut blooms. The prizes in the classes open to all will consist of blue ribbons, red ribbons and certificates of merit, while in 20 classes, open to amateurs only, the awards will be in cash varying from 50 cents to $10. In the sweepstakes, both for local and out of the state exhibitors, cups and medals are offered.

Milwaukee, Wis.

LIVELY DEMAND AND PRICES ADVANCE.

Market conditions the past week were just opposite of those of a year ago. With a good demand, especially for funeral work, everything suitable, short or long, good or indifferent, kept a-moving. Toward the end of the week money could not buy desirable stock for certain occasions. The supply of short roses is far from satisfactory, while the longer grades are not over plentiful. The way carnations sell reminds one of the good old holidays—supply scarce and prices going up. The supply of chrysanthemums is fair and they move well, due no doubt to the shortage in other lines.

NOTES.

Prof. J. G. Sanders, state entomologist of Wisconsin, made a personal inspection of the trees in this city a short time ago. From his report just published, we are informed that the trees in Washington, Kosciusko, Mitchell, Humboldt and Soldiers' Home parks and three of our largest cemeteries, are infested with the San Jose scale. He promises to begin spraying as soon as the leaves have fallen. He further recommends that the city appoint a city forester, also pass an ordinance licensing tree experts in order to prevent the damage done by the so-called tree doctors.

Richard Lietz, of 1433 Fond du Lac avenue, took a flying trip to his Cedar Lake summer home October 15. He must have been going some, for he made the round trip distance of 80 miles, plus the time spent there, in two and three-quarter hours; left the store at 2 p. m., was back in town at 4:45.

The population of Brown Deer, Wis., has been increased by another carnation grower, although he still has to grow some, in the form of a baby boy, which now brightens the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gust C. Mueller, manager of the Mueller Greenhouse Co. No wonder Gust wears that big smile; it's the first born.

Otto Wilke, formerly with Fred Kaiser, has leased the F. Schmeling greenhouse plant on the Blue Mound road for a period of five years. Mrs. F. Schmeling will devote all her time to the Winnebago street store from now on.

From a reliable source comes the news that Raymond Ritzler of the Aug. F. Kellner Co.'s force, was quietly married to Miss Laura M. Breske, September 25. We extend our best wishes.

At the J. M. Fox & Son store they have several large orders booked for the near future. Among same is the decoration for the annual charity ball to be held early in November.

Gust Rusch & Co. report the arrival of fine roses from the Cudahy plant, only the supply is too short. Their American Beauties are mostly long stemmed at present.

H. W. Koerner, who was fortunate enough to still have gladioli last week, received as much per hundred as he realized for a thousand during the summer glut.

The Holton & Hunkel Co. featured their first own grown Chrysolora chrysanthemums last week, which owing to their fine quality, moved right along.

C. C. Pollworth Co. reports local and shipping trade very brisk. Their chrysanthemums are coming right along now.

We are pleased to report that J. F. Baerman, reported sick with pneumonia last week, is well enough to be up.

The Grunewald Bros. of North Milwaukee are bringing in a nice lot of really good carnations.

The M. A. McKenney Co. had exceptionally good business all last week.

E. O.

St. Louis.STOCK ARRIVES IN BETTER SUPPLY.

Warm weather during the past week helped to bring on the stock. Chrysanthemums Smith's Advance, Golden Glow and Polly Rose are the chief varieties. Carnations are quoted at 2½ cents to four cents, roses from two to eight cents, a few fancy at 12 cents. Packed heads of bloom even 25 in a bunch dampened arrive much more satisfactory than those loosely packed. American Beauty are of good color and quality. It is entirely too warm for violets. Cooler nights would greatly improve their blooms. Greens of all kinds are selling well.

NOTES.

The regular meeting of the florists' club was held October 14, at the Bourdet Floral Co.'s grounds, the home of the president, who called the meeting to order. There were about 80 members present and a number of visitors. Fred Ammann, of Edwardsville, Ill., chairman of the American Carnation Society meeting, made a report and asked for further time to appoint sub-committees, until the December meeting. They will announce the Cleveland Florists' Club invitation to their show and there will be a transportation committee of H. G. Berning, David Geddes and W. Pilcher. Vice-President Wells and H. W. Ohlweiler, trustee, were installed. Messrs. Janicke and Windler will report on the spring flower show at the next meeting. Fred Frow and Tom Carr were elected to membership and Arthur Waldmann, E. D. Cernie and H. L. Warner made application for membership. After the meeting refreshments were served and a tour of inspection made through the greenhouses. A rising vote of thanks was extended to President Bourdet for his entertainment of the club, which will be long remembered.

Sam Seligman was a visitor last week. He seems to like this city. He also attended the club meeting and gave a short talk on what the Cleveland publicity committee was doing to further the interests of the Cleveland flower show.

Foster, the Florist, on and after October 20, will be located on Sixth street, opposite the Barr building. This should prove a good location.

Jos. L. McCloskey, formerly with Grimm & Gorly, is with McCloskey Bros., on North Grand avenue.

Grimm & Gorly had a special sale of ferns the past week.

The Ayres Floral Co. has added Fred Strohmeier to its staff.

The Retail Florists' Association met October 18. W. F.

Cincinnati.DEMAND ABSORBS LIBERAL RECEIPTS.

Taken as a whole business is very satisfactory. Receipts are fairly large and the demand sufficient to take up most everything that comes into the market. Shipping business is pretty heavy. Chrysanthemums are in a good supply for early ones and include a good assortment of varieties and sizes. Roses are meeting with a very active demand. The good carnations sell very well. Easter lilies are fairly plentiful and enjoy an excellent market.

Last week E. G. Gillett attended the state conclave of Knights Templars at Toledo, Ohio, with the Hanselman commandery of this city. Mr. Gillett has been getting in some excellent yellow chrysanthemums from C. P. Dietrich, Maysville, Ky.

Ech Bros., one of whom was formerly with Fred Gear, have opened a retail flower store at 1227 Vine street.

C. E. Critchell has been having a very fine assortment of early chrysanthemums.

L. H. Kyrk left the first of this week on a business trip.

Visitors: J. P. Keller, Lexington, Ky.; Fred Rupp, Lawrenceburg, Ind.; Rudolph Lodder, Hamilton, O.; J. T. Nichols, Cleveland, O.; J. W. Crismore, Chicago, and Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Ruch, Richmond, Ind. H.

Washington.

The local market is short of almost every line of stock. American Beauties have taken a jump and cannot be had in any quantity, and red roses of any variety are not procurable at any price. A few corn-flowers are to be seen but the price is beyond mentioning. A few good chrysanthemums are arriving, but they are picked up as soon as they reach the market.

NOTES.

The S. S. Pennock-Meehan Co. is receiving some extra fine Mrs. Moorfield Storey roses which find ready sale. Some splendid dahlias are also to be seen here, being sent in by R. Vincent, Jr., & Sons Co., White Marsh, Md.

Mrs. McCabe is sending in some especially fine chrysanthemums, in fact, the best that have been shown locally this year. Among them is a new white, that has called forth much favorable comment.

George C. Shaffer's force has been exceptionally busy with decorations and a heavy demand for funeral designs.

The DuPont Floral Co. reports the fall business far beyond expectations.

Visitors: Charles Meehan, Philadelphia, Pa.; Messrs. McKissick and Perry, Baltimore, Md. G. C. D.

Rochester, N. Y.

There has been great scarcity of stock the past two weeks, and the market was cleaned up daily. Things have changed, however, and great quantities of roses are coming in and also a fair supply of dahlias in red, pink, white and yellow. There are a few cactus dahlias arriving. Carnations are a little more plentiful but very short stemmed. Winsor, White Wonder and Beacon are all good in color. In roses, Killarney, Ophelia, Maryland and Sunburst are the best varieties. Wards and Hadleys are small. Francis Scott Key is off color. Mignon and Sweetheart roses are scarce. Chrysanthemums are late this year and Golden Glow and Pacific in pink and white are being cut, but in small quantities. There are a few pot plants to be had just now. Lily of the valley is small in size, but there is considerable demand for it. There are few gardenias at present. Boston ferns are selling well.

NOTES.

The Rochester Florists' Association held its monthly meeting October 11 with an attendance of 20, President Chas. H. Vick in the chair. John Dunbar was speaker of the evening and described his trip to Boston, giving an interesting account of the Arnold Arboretum, which was greatly enjoyed.

The bowling club met at the Central Park hotel for bowling last week, and are getting into trim for the match with Buffalo at Cleveland in November.

H. P. Neun has just returned from a trip to Boston and New York where he spent a few days.

J. M. Keller is doing considerable outdoor planting of shrubs and perennials. CHESTER.

NASHVILLE, TENN.—A flower show in January under the auspices of the Tennessee State Florists' Association and the local florists' society is being planned.

Pittsburgh.SHORTAGE EQUIVALENT TO FAMINE.

Everybody is wondering what has happened to the flower market in Pittsburgh for the past week or two. It is rather a hard question to answer, as it happens that very few of the growers' crops look good for anything but good promises for later cuts, and the situation certainly is a queer one. It seems that none of the plants have matured as early this season as in former years, and true, some of the growers did not plant as early this season as is customary. The result is that there is practically nothing in the local markets, excepting some roses and what is left of the late dahlias. Carnations are completely out of sight, it seems, and chrysanthemums were never so slow in making their appearance. A few Golden Glow, Smith's Advance, October Frost, Early Snow, Frick and Golden Wedding 'report' from day to day, but they remain as scarce as frog hair. The quality of local roses is splendid, Killarney, Ophelia, Maryland and Hilda being the leaders. The newer, small novelty roses do not get very good treatment here, but it is hoped they will take better after colder weather sets in, and they undoubtedly will, but the season has not quite arrived for such stock to bring paying returns. It seems a shame that the efforts of growing this stock must be wasted, when so much more satisfaction could have been realized from more staple flowers. Dahlias are hanging on quite well, and some magnificent blooms are still being received by the local wholesalers. American Beauties and Lily of the valley are good and plentiful, but Easter lilies are still on the narrow end. Large shipments of florists' supplies are being shipped in every direction daily by the local dealers. This branch of the business has made great strides here in the past few years.

NOTES.

John Murchie of Sharon has moved his greenhouses to a nearby location, besides erecting two more this fall, and is very well situated for the winter, having excellent new facilities for heating, handling coal and packing. His houses are heavily stocked, mostly with palms, ferns and bedding stock.

Wm. A. Murdoch, Titusville, was married October 6, and has just returned from his wedding trip.

George L. Graham has moved his Bradford store next door, 95 Main street, and is now in a much larger and more convenient location.

Barnett's Flower Shop, of Sharon, is now out of business.

Visitors: Chas. P. Haas and wife of Meadville, Pa. G. M.

The Late C. B. Chase.

C. B. Chase, the well known retail florist of Chicago, died Wednesday, October 13, at the age of 46. He was born in Kenosha, Wis., and came from a family of florists who were in business there as early as 1869. He came to Chicago at an early age and for many years conducted a retail store at 2205 South Michigan avenue. Mr. Chase had not been in good health for some time and was doctoring for kidney and heart trouble, but was up and around almost up to the time of his death. The funeral was held from the Western Casket Co.'s undertaking parlors at Twenty-second street and South Wabash avenue, Friday, October 16, and the burial took place at Grace-land cemetery. He leaves a wife, who will continue the business with the assistance of Edward Kidee, who has been connected with the late Mr. Chase for many years.

THE price of lead in 1906 averaged 5.7 cents per pound; in 1914, 3.9 cents, and at the present time it is about 5.8 cents, hence the advance of tin foil.

OCTOBER weather has been favorable for digging and handling outdoor stock, but all growers and nurserymen should remember that we are nearing the date when all such operations are attended with freezing risks and will do well to provide nightly against damage from stiff frosts and arrange for warm refrigerator cars for transportation.

Personal.

Frederic William Taylor, Denver, Colo., former chief of agriculture of the Philippine Islands, passed through Chicago for the east, October 18. Mr. Taylor is now interested in irrigation problems of the great west.

BRILLIANT STAR is said to be a good red forcing tulip for Christmas bloom.

THE Philadelphia North American of October 18 gives an interesting account of Anton Wintzer, of the firm of Conard & Jones Co., West Grove, Pa., and his work among cannas, with illustrations and portrait.

Azaleas Arrive.

The steamers Ryndam and Oosterdyke, arriving at New York October 17 and 18 respectively, brought large quantities of azaleas and other Belgian plants. The Holland shipments are also coming forward in large volume.

Gladiolus Society of Ohio.

An adjourned meeting of the above society will be held at Cleveland, O., Friday, November 12, in connection with the Cleveland flower show. Election of officers, naming of time and place of the next exhibition of the society and other matters of importance are to be disposed of at this meeting and every member is urged to be present.

Father Schoener Burned Out.

To My Fellow-Florists:

Will not our fellow florists give a helping hand to a deserving fellow craftsman, who has met with an overwhelming calamity, whose work of a lifetime has been wiped out in a single night, and he left penniless?

Rose growers know Father Schoener as an indefatigable hybridizer, whose collection numbered species from every continent, and who has produced as high as 120,000 hybridized rose seeds in one season. The subjoined from Father Schoener tells the pitiful story.

Send your contributions to S. S. Pennock, president of the American Rose Society, 1618 Ludlow street, Philadelphia, Pa., who will acknowledge and forward same. May your response be prompt. Thank you.

ROBERT PYLE.

Brooks, Oregon, Oct. 10, 1915.

My Dear Mr. Pyle:

I have to let you know the terrible news that my house, church, plants and roses burned last night, October 9. I am penniless. I do not know what to do for the present. I had just cut the last seedlings to send to you. Would there be any way to interest the people in my behalf? I ask this consideration to enable me to go on with my work. All that I had is gone; a value of about $10,000 is lost. Mr.

sent me a check for $5, but it also burned. He was in company with the governor of Pennsylvania on his trip west. Could not some newspapers take up the matter to come to my rescue?

I will be ever thankful for any kind of help in this terrible affliction.

FATHER SCHOENER.

Ontario Exhibition Deferred.

The directors of the Ontario Horticultural Exhibition, at a largely attended meeting in September decided to defer the fall show usually held in November owing to abnormal conditions still existing in Ontario due to the war. All buildings on the exhibition grounds are occupied by troops in training, and no other suitable location is available in Toronto. Aside from this the risk of putting a great deal of work and expense into the show at this time would be great, as the gate receipts might not justify the hazard, and a grant will be therefore given the Red Cross Society from funds in the hands of the treasurer.

Ft. Smith Flower Show.

George Rye, the well known Plaza florist, of Ft. Smith, Ark., has been appointed manager of the flower show to be held in that city, November 5-6, in the interest of local charities and solicits exhibits from growers and others. Mr. Rye is an enthusiastic worker in the cause of floriculture and deserves the support of the trade in his efforts to increase the popularity of flowers. Express charges will be paid on exhibits of cut flowers. For further particulars address George Rye, The Plaza, Ft. Smith, Ark.

New York Happy.

George M. Reynolds, president of the Continental and Commercial Trust & Savings Bank, Chicago, who recently returned from New York, says he has not seen business interests there in such a happy mood for years. Stock market activity has caused this change. Although banking interests feel that so-called war specialties are encroaching on dangerous ground, they still accept them with other more stable collateral in making loans, but with greater discrimination.

Hort. Society at Purdue University.

Plans are being made for the organization of a new society for juniors and seniors in the horticultural department of Purdue University, Lafayette, Ind., to be known as the Horticultural Society. During the year it is planned to have nearby or visiting horticulturists address the society on topics that will be of interest to the members. A large increase in the horticultural department following the erection of the new horticultural building has resulted in the reorganization.

Lily of the Valley Pips.

Some time ago it was reported that German lily of the valley growers had received instructions from their government to plow up two-thirds of the lily of the valley fields and use the land for food crops. From a reliable source we now learn that such government orders are not known to lily of the valley growers there.

Detroit.

SUPPLY EXTREMELY LIMITED.

Never before has this market experienced such a shortage of flowers as at present. Even in midwinter or Christmas holidays of years in the past, available flowers were far more plentiful than now, and singularly the same conditions seem to prevail in the east and middle west as those markets were appealed to during the past week, but to no avail. Accordingly the prices on all items were and are yet very high and the margin of profit to the retailer is small indeed. Chrysanthemums were never so late maturing and the few that are coming in could well remain uncut for many days and be improved thereby. Carnations are small, short-stemmed and unattractive and yet they find a ready sale at prices really excessive. The quality of the roses coming in is splendid for the season, but their numbers are wholly inadequate. To add to the trying situation, lilies that have been a glut all summer and fall, are now also scarce and the few to be had are high priced.

CLUB MEETING.

The club meeting Tuesday evening, October 12, was well attended and the proceedings most interesting. Acting on THE AMERICAN FLORIST suggestion, the club addressed a letter to Secretary Redfield of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, Washington, D. C., urging him to include bulbs, roots, greenhouse plants and nursery stock in the impending bill, making it a legal offense to deal in articles "dumped" on this market by foreign countries. It developed at the meeting that a large party will attend the Cleveland flower show from here next month. A special car will be chartered, probably, for the purpose. Michael Constantine, having a flower stand in the Majestic building, was elected to membership in the club. President Frank Danzer is indefatigable in his efforts to make the club proceedings highly interesting the coming season and all his committees are working hard to that end.

SPECIAL CLUB MEETING.

At a special meeting of the florists' club, October 18, Elmer D. Smith & Co., Adrian, Mich., displayed four of their chrysanthemum novelties, among them being Golden Queen, a clear yellow, and Crystal Gem, a pure white, both very large fine flowers, eliciting much praise from those present. These varieties were disseminated last spring. The other sorts shown were Niza, an early pink pompon, and Early Rose, a large pink variety of the A. J. Balfour type. These latter varieties will be sent out in 1916. Elmer D. Smith was present at the meeting and was the target for many questions fired at him by growers. He stated that chrysanthemums this year, due to the cloudy and rainy season, made such a continuous growth that the blooms will be much delayed, and those intended for the fall exhibitions might be too late in developing to be seen at their best.

NOTES.

A. Miller, of A. Henderson & Co., Chicago, gave a wild duck dinner, October 9, to a few of his many friends in this city. The party consisted of Philip Breitmeyer, Harry Breitmeyer, Walter Taepke, Robt. Rahaley and J. F. Sullivan. The game came from Albert Lea, Minn., and was forwarded to Mr. Miller by his friend, G. A. Clausen.

Gus H. Taepke's store on Gratiot avenue has, during the past few weeks, undergone a great transformation. Two large show windows and the displacing of the regulation counters and the adoption of separate tables for display are noticeable features of the improvements.

A. J. Stahelin, Redford, Mich., is bringing in a heavy cut of fine roses from his new rose house. He is pleased with the remunerative prices realized.

Sidney Tinkler, Mt. Clemens, Mich., suffered considerable damage to his chimney by lightning recently. His carnations are looking fine and he expects a good cut the coming season.

Fred Breitmeyer's new sport of Rose Ophelia is very promising and maintains the beautiful clear pink shown in the first flowers seen of it. He will disseminate the novelty next spring.

It is reported that many of the Holland bulbs are arriving in poor condition. Beard Bros. received a consignment that was seriously damaged.

E. A. Feters' new store on Woodward avenue near Pallister, is fast nearing completion and will soon be equipped for the season's business.

John Breitmeyer's branch store near the Hotel Statler is showing some unique window decorations. Harry Taylor is the genius here.

A. Pochelon never neglects an opportunity to boost the good work being done by the Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association.

The L. Bomb Floral Co. is displaying a large stock of bulbs for fall planting and report a good call in this line. J. F. S.

STOCK IS A TRIFLE MORE PLENTIFUL. Business has been very good the last week as far as the wholesale florists are concerned and the sales so far this month in actual dollars and cents are in general about 25 per cent ahead of those of the corresponding month last year. Stock has been very scarce the past week and it was impossible to fill all the orders that were received. Prices have been rather high and carnations easily brought $3.00 and $4.00 per 100 in the fancy grades and cleaned up quickly at those figures. While stock is cleaning up well each day it is a trifle more plentiful, especially as far as chrysanthemums are concerned, and it appears as if the market is beginning to weaken. Pompons have made their appearance in larger supply but are in good demand. New York violets are arriving in good supply and some very choice stock is obtainable in this line. Sweet peas and lily of the valley clean up at an early hour but orchids are not selling any too well. Lilies are none too plentiful. A few pansies, daisies and snapdragons are included in the daily shipments now but this stock is in good demand and there is no surplus in these line. American Beauty roses of fine quality are reaching the market but clean up well each day at good prices. Roses in general are of fine quality, and, taken all in all, they have been cut rather tight and cleaned up almost as quickly as they reached the market. The shipping trade has been holding up well and the local demand the past week has been principally for stock for weddings, funerals and store openings. Considerable wild smilax and boxwood are being offered and green goods in general seem to be in good supply. A few gladioli and asters are still seen but do not cut any figure in the market, although at times during the past week they came in handy when no other stock was obtainable. The retail florists are making magnificent displays in their stores and nearly everyone is looking forward toward an unusually brisk season. The supply houses are busy filling orders and the wholesale plantmen are enjoying a brisk shipping trade.

NOTES.

S. Freund has resigned his position with the Morris Paper Mills and will devote his entire time to managing the greenhouses of the National Plant & Flower Co., which his firm purchased from C. V. Abeele, 1249 West Sixty-first street, several weeks ago.

C. W. Johnson left for the Panama-Pacific exposition, San Francisco, Calif., October 16, where he will officiate as juror at the chrysanthemum show, to be held there October 21-26.

Chas. W. McKellar's right-hand man, Frank Ayres, is laid up this week with carbuncles.

Kyle & Foerster are handling a large supply of fancy orchids in addition to their regular line of stock.

The retail florists will be well represented at the Grand Floral Festival, to be held in the Coliseum, November 9-14, in the trade exhibits and those who have already contracted for space are: O. J. Friedman, 132 square feet; W. H. Kidwell & Son, 180 square feet; George Wittbold Co., 180 square feet; Schiller, the Florist, 180 square feet, and the Ernst Wienhoeber Co., 210 square feet. Many others have also signified their intention of making an exhibit and there is no question but what the retail florists will occupy more space at this show than they have on any previous occasion, and that every square foot of floor space set aside for them will be sold long before the doors open. Each exhibitor will receive an admission ticket good for the opening day for every square foot of space contracted for, which, as one retail florist says, "brings the actual cost of the space, down to a nickel a square foot."

E. C. Pruner started out on another business trip for Pochmann Bros. Co. this week and will attend the Houston flower show, at Houston, Tex., November 17-20.

Randolph 2081. BEAUTIES-ROSES-CARNATIONS

Peter Reinberg has had an unusually busy month and Felix Reichling says that the total sales up to October 14 were greater than the total sales for the entire month of October last year. Roses are in better crop with them now and some especially fine Mrs. Chas. Russell are now reaching the store. Emil Reichling, superintendent of the Reinberg greenhouses, is making preparations to make a number of entries in the competitive classes at the coming fall show, which promises to be one of the best ever held in this city.

A. Miller, with A. Henderson & Co., has returned from Detroit, Mich., where he entertained a number of his friends with a duck dinner at the Harmony Club one day last week. He had such good luck on his hunting trip and bagged so many ducks that he decided to surprise the Detroit boys with a feast and succeeded in doing so to a queen's taste. Those present at the spread were Albert Pochelon, Philip Breitmeyer, Harry Breitmeyer, J. F. Sullivan, E. A. Fetters and Robert Rahaley.

C. G. Anderson, manager of the Minneapolis Greenhouses, Minneapolis, Minn., was in the city this week on business. Mr. Anderson and wife will attend the Grand Floral Festival in the Coliseum next month and from present indications it appears as if a great number of other florists from the Twin Cities will do likewise. His son George is now with the International Harvester Co. at the Minneapolis office.

O. J. Friedman will make a number of changes at his store on Michigan avenue, among which will be the enlargement of his refrigerator and the adding of a new ribbon case. A splendid line of new ribbons has just been added and Victor Bergman will have something unusually fine in this line to show his customers at their retail booth during the Grand Floral Festival to be held in the Coliseum, November 9-14.

W. P. Ward, representing the D. Hill Nursery Co., Inc., Dundee, is calling on the local trade and nearly everywhere one goes he finds some of Hill's hardy evergreens on display now. The D. Hill Nursery Co. will have a large exhibit at the Grand Floral Festival, to be held in the Coliseum, November 9-14, and have contracted for 320 square feet of floor space.

Miss Gertrude Arnold and Robert Brenth were married at Des Plaines Saturday, October 16, and have the best wishes of their many friends for a successful voyage on the sea of matrimony. The bride is a daughter of Henry Arnold, the well known florist, and has been in the employ of Joseph L. Raske, 170 West Jackson boulevard, for many years.

Buchbinder Bros., 518 Milwaukee avenue, has just sold a complete store outfit to George Valker, of Minot, N. D., and a refrigerator to each of the following concerns: Shotwell Floral Co., Fargo, N. D.; Deakin & Martin, Helena, Mont.; Minnehaha Floral Co., Sioux Falls, S. D., and the West Side Greenhouses, Great Falls, Mont.

has accepted a position with the A. L. Randall Co. and will have full charge of the basket department. J. E. Quallich, who has charge of the plant department, was also formerly engaged in the florist business in Cleveland.

Fred Dietsch says that A. Dietsch Co.'s factory has been running overtime all summer up to October 18 and business in their line has been very satisfactory. This firm has added a Fargo truck to their delivery system, which enables them to get the material on the ground much quicker.

A. T. Pyfer & Co.'s shipments now include a good supply of pompons which are in good demand at the store. When the stock from V. Bezdek's range at Wilmette starts to come in right they will have something unusually fine in this line to offer their customers.

Wietor Bros. are starting to cut heavily in chrysanthemums, which is one of their leaders, and the shipments now include Chrysolora, Ramapo, Solomon Gold and Halliday. Carnations are arriving in good supply now and the quality is steadily improving.

The board of directors of the Chicago Flower Growers' Association held a meeting at the Michigan avenue store Tuesday, October 19. They are making preparations to move and expect to occupy their new home in the Le Moyne building by November 1.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Brenstock announce the engagement of their daughter Hortense to Sidney Buchbinder. Mr. Buchbinder is well known to the trade as the manager of the firm of Buchbinder Bros., manufacturers of florists' refrigerators.

Zech & Mann are now offering double violets in quantity, the first shipments arriving Monday, October 18. Allie Zech says that the shipping trade is keeping up fine and stock of all kinds continues to clean up well each day.

The Atlas Floral Co. decorated a large passenger automobile for the wet parade held last week and made a grand showing, considering the scarcity of stock and the material that they had to work with.

Frank Oechslein is planning on building a new home on West Jackson boulevard in the near future on his property adjoining his greenhouses.

The opening of the new retail store of the Idlewild Greenhouses at Memphis, Tenn., this week called for a large supply of stock from this market.

Mrs. J. W. Turbeville, of the Flower Shop, Memphis, Tenn., who has been visiting here for several weeks with her son, left for home October 18.

Fuhrmann & Ronge have fixed up their establishment at 941 Wrightwood avenue in great shape and are now all set to handle the fall business.

C. B. Chase, 2205 South Michigan avenue, died Wednesday, October 13, an account of which appears in the obituary column this week.

Schiller, the Florist, has a large exhibit at the second annual Home Exposition, which opened at the Coliseum, Wednesday, October 20.

Wm. Lubliner has returned from Milwaukee, Wis., where his firm will open a new store in the near future at 222 Grand avenue.

Victor Young, who has been on the sick list for several days, is again on the job at Ronsley's store in the Westminster building.

Hoerber Bros. are in good crop with both roses and chrysanthemums, and fine stock in both lines is to be seen at their store.

A. I. Simmons, 242 West Sixty-third street, attended the Dunne-Corboy wedding at Springfield, Wednesday, October 20.

A. E. Hunt & Co., of Evanston, who dispose of their stock at D. E. Freres' wholesale store, cut their first daisies this week.

The E. F. Winterson Co. is receiving some very fancy chrysanthemums from the Mt. Greenwood Cemetery Association.

Joseph Ziska & Sons have just received a large shipment of doves, which are always a leader with them.

Adolph Malchow, 3745 North Clark street, is mailing a handsome 1916 calendar to all of his customers.

Philip L. McKee, of the John C. Moninger Co., has returned from a business trip to Lincoln.

Arthur Cowee's gladiolus fields were exploited at one of the local nickel theaters last week.

A. L. Vaughan & Co. report business during October unusually brisk, with the sales so far this month over 25 per cent ahead of those of the corresponding month last year. Boxwood has made its appearance at this establishment in large supply and is selling well. Mr. Vaughan has increased his force which enables him to visit his growers more often, which he considers is more in the nature of a vacation, for it gives him a chance to give his new auto a little exercise now and then.

Joe Bieber has had a crew of men busy all week hanging up banners for the Grand Floral Festival to be held in the Coliseum, November 9-14, and is doing the work in the regular Barnum & Bailey circus style. He is managing to get them up where they will do the most good, and the way he decorated up the Atlas building, in which many of the wholesale florists are located, shows that there are tricks in all trades, for they can be easily seen from both the street and elevated trains.

Fred Longren, with Poehlmann Bros. Co., has returned from a business trip in the northwest with the report that many of the florists in that section will attend the Grand Floral Festival to be held in the Coliseum, November 9-14. Mr. Longren is on the publicity committee and has done a great deal of missionary work while he was on the road.

F. W. Timme is at the German-American hospital. Mr. Timme is a civil war veteran and his greatest regret is that he was unable to attend the recent Washington 50-years-after celebration with the few scattered comrades who yet remain.

Martin Reukauf, representing H. Bayersdorfer & Co., Philadelphia, Pa., called on the trade here this week.

Miss Rosamond Fannie Garland and Robert William Schwass were married at the Congregational Church at Des Plaines last Thursday evening, October 14, at seven-thirty o'clock. A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Solomon Garland, about 300 guests being present. The home and reception hall were beautifully decorated for the occasion by the George Wittbold Co. and the affair was one of the greatest social events of the season in Desplaines. A large number of people in the trade were present at the wedding and reception, when the happy young couple were the recipients of many beautiful presents and received the best wishes of those in attendance for a pleasant and successful journey on their matrimonial voyage. Miss Marion Garland, a sister of the bride, acted as bridesmaid, and H. Van Gelder was best man.

Bassett & Washburn have had a very good shipping trade this week and stock of all kinds continued to clean up well each day. Pompons are becoming more plentiful and one variety in white that is attracting the attention of the buyers is that called Acto, which appears to be head and shoulders above the rest. This firm is now booking orders for cuttings of their new red seedling carnation, Belle Washburn, which is a most promising variety.

August Poehlmann celebrated his forty-sixth birthday anniversary October 21. John Poehlmann, who has been confined to the German hospital for the past week with an attack of appendicitis, is feeling much better and was taken home October 20. Mr. Poehlmann's many friends are pleased to hear that he is better and sincerely hope that he will soon be able to be about again.

Pretty little Marilynn Miller, of the Passing Show Company at the Garrick, tied up the traffic in busy Monroe street, October 19, when she dropped in at the Bohannon Floral Co., at 57 East Monroe street, to see the fall opening of flowers and birds. She picked out a canary in a small cage, which she wore on her wrist, and attracted so much attention that Bohannon has been receiving a lot of complimentary write-ups since.

Miss Margaret McNulty, who keeps the Peter Reinberg books, has a flower booth at the St. Jerome's church bazaar, which is helping considerably to make the affair a success. Among the florists who contributed stock for her booth were John Didier and Ed. Siebrecht, of the Rosery Flower Shop, North Clark street.

The Mangel opening in the Palmer House this week was a great success and kept Mr. Mangel and his able assistants, Miss Lewis, John Canger, Tony Rocca and N. Lempere busy showing the many visitors about. Mr. Lempere has charge of the conservatory, which is the only one of its kind in the loop.

Leonard Vaughan, of Vaughan's Seed Store, inspected the firm's product of gladioli at its Michigan bean farm, October 16, and says the forcing kinds in size and shape of bulbs have produced the finest crop the firm has ever harvested.

J. A. Budlong is in good crop with chrysanthemums and will have a good supply for their southern customers for All Saints' day. This firm will probably have an announcement to make next week which will be of interest to the trade.

Kennicott Bros. Co. is showing a fine line of stock, especially American Beauty roses. F. F. Bentley, who sells his stock at this establishment, is showing some very fancy Mrs. George Sawyer roses.

The John Kruchten Co.'s plant department, which is in charge of Miss Agatha Greeley, is gradually building up a good business and new orders are arriving each day.

Percy Jones is featuring a large supply of chrysanthemums this week, the shipments of which are gradually increasing.

Visitors: George Pandell, Ft. Wayne, Ind.; E. S. Thompson, Benton Harbor, Mich.; S. Swartley, Jr., of Swartley & Sons, Sterling.

HIGH PRICES IN ALL LINES.

On Sunday night, October 10, the frost nipped the dahlias, the open flowers and some of the foliage being damaged in the exposed fields; at other places where they were somewhat protected the damage was slight, but the very cool weather that followed, held the crop back. Real summer heat has been our portion the last few days and the dahlias are now plentiful again, as good, in fact, as at any time this season. There is good demand for them as everything else has taken a big jump in price. All kinds of stock which was so scarce early in the week is becoming more plentiful with the warm weather and all lines are now about normal as to supply and demand. The Ophelia rose is meeting with great favor; all customers appear to like it and as the stems get longer, and the flowers larger and more double, it should have no trouble in holding its own. American Beauties are now fine and in good demand, but Chrysanthemum Chrysolora, at the same price, gave them a good race as the flowers of this variety coming in the past week have been superb. Unaka, Comoleta, Polly Rose and Glory of the Pacific are also offered, the quality being very good and prices rule higher than usual at this season. Carnations are rapidly improving with the shipments moving out as fast as received. Some very fair single violets are seen, but the flowers are small as yet. Lily of the valley has been very scarce, the shipments not being offered for sale, but divided among the various stores, so as to avoid as much friction as possible. Fall cosmos is just commencing to arrive and helps out when the demand is for something showy at low prices.

NOTES.

The debutante teas are now in full swing, being a most important factor to the business. While all the leading retailers make a bid for and get a portion of this business, at least half the commissions appear to go to one house, while the rest of the trade divide the balance more or less evenly between them. At a recent debutante affair, not considered very large or above the average, the number of bouquets, baskets and vases of flowers sent by friends totaled 183 pieces, the leading house furnishing 115, while the other 63 came from competing firms.

Voller's House of Flowers is making some great improvements. A new tile floor, together with an eighteen-foot show refrigerator, is being installed. These, together with a rearrangement of cases and counters and the addition of garden furniture, give the store a very attractive and up-to-date appearance.

The October meeting of the Pennsylvania Horticultural Society was held in the lecture room, October 19. There were fine exhibits of cosmos and chrysanthemums for the Samuel T. Bodine and H. F. Mitchell Co., Inc., prizes.

The Leo Niessen Co. has been strong the past week on very fine Chrysolora chrysanthemums—they were magnificent flowers. American Beauty roses are also a feature.

The Wanamaker fern is making a great hit. The Robert Craig Co. had faith in it, notwithstanding the competition of its many relations and have a very large stock in all sizes. Splendid cyclamens are also a leader.

Carl Cortis, of the Joseph Heacock Co.'s force, reports an unusual demand for the season on all varieties of roses. To him the season looks very promising. Special Killarneys are a feature here.

The tables of the Berger Brothers market have been gay the past week with all the early chrysanthemums and they sell up to the last flower before the day is out.

Killarney Brilliant roses are a feature with the M. Rice Co. The factory force is largely augmented on account of greatly increased business.

Edward Reid's version is that business is all right, but the question is how to get the stock. A fine state of affairs, truly.

BUSINESS GOOD ON AVERAGE.

Although business became a little slack toward the middle of the past week, the general average was good. Clear and warm weather is bringing in more stock and there is not likely to be a scarcity of anything in the weeks between now and the holidays. While there is an increase in the supply of chrysanthemums there is no surplus, and we doubt if there will be. The early varieties must now be nearly cut out, and while there will yet be very heavy shipments, we believe the market can take care of them. There is not much change in the rose and carnation situation since our last notes were written. There is some increase in the supply, but prices remain firm. In orchids, the tendency of prices is upward. The first violets of the season appeared during the past week. Being friendly to the modest and shrinking violet, we refrain from sarcastic remarks, but if what are now here shrink any more there will be nothing left of them. Heavy rains and frost up-state have had their effect on dahlias and other outdoor stocks and their finish will not be long delayed. The market opened Monday, October 18, under fair conditions with an increased supply of stock and the tendency of prices was downward, especially in American Beauties, chrysanthemums and lily of the valley. The arrival of chrysanthemums is quite heavy and as the weather is fair and warm a further increase in the supply of stock is looked for throughout the week.

October 20.—There is a marked decline in prices. Special tea roses that were quoted at $8 per hundred are now offered at $4 and $6, and carnations have fallen one dollar on the hundred. All chrysanthemums have declined in price.

NOTES.

President Welch of the S. A. F. was a visitor October 15, and was accompanied by W. R. Nicholson of Boston and Framingham, Mass. The genial president looked fine and was in a very cheerful mood. He intends to organize an excursion to Houston, Texas, for the next convention and it is expected to go through with a rush. W. R. Nicholson was also cheerful over the outlook. Excepting that he is younger and taller, he seems to us to be getting more like his father, the much esteemed William Nicholson of Framingham, and we are glad of it. John Henry Small, Sr., of J. H. Small & Sons, Washington, D. C., was another visitor during the past week. Mr. Small was looking extremely well. He has nearly reached three score years, but looking at him, it is hard to believe.

"The man who loves his wife must love her always; a show of affection between outbursts of cruelty do not condone the cruelty in the eyes of the law." So said Justice Morschauer in the supreme court at White Plains, N. Y., October 15, when he awarded a separation and $50 per month alimony to Mrs. Marie De Carillo, wife of Luis De Carillo, an orchid collector and grower of Mamaroneck, N. Y. "As I have said before," added the justice, "you don't have to knock your wife down or blacken her eyes to create cruelty in the eyes of the law." It appeared that Mr. De Carillo was absent most of the time and his wife took care of the greenhouses.

The following is current news: A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against Julius O. and J. Frederick Hanft, composing the firm of Hanft Brothers, florists, 684 Madison avenue, by these creditors: New York Cut Flower Company, $2,009, and Joseph J. Levy, $447. The business is one of the oldest in the city, having been established in 1850, and the present partners succeeded to it in 1893. They catered to a society trade. Assets are estimated at $3,000. We learn that this firm will make no effort to resume in the florist business.

The irrepressible C. C. Trepel now has his greenhouse-on-the-roof of his store at Broadway and 89th street completed, and it is well stocked with palms, ferns and other foliage plants. It is a model house of its kind, the construction being by S. Jacobs & Sons of Brooklyn, under the supervision of Wm. Currie, their able foreman. A grand electrical display makes this conservatory exceedingly attractive by night.

Alex. S. George has recently opened a fine retail store at 42 Richmond Terrace (St. George), Staten Island. The new store is admirably arranged for business and display, having large plate glass show windows and being otherwise fitted up in the most modern style. Mr. George also has the flower stands in both the St. George and Manhattan terminals of the Staten Island ferry.

The Bell Rosary Florists is the name of a new firm that has taken the store at 2654 Broadway, formerly known as Hartmann's Rosary. The members of the firm are Ralph A. Bell and Nathan Sternberg. The former looks after the business features, while the latter is an experienced designer and decorator. Their store looks very attractive and they should be successful.

The United Floral Co., of which William Frank and G. Brembras are the proprietors, has taken a fine stand in the new market, Broadway and 95th street. This is one of the most finely equipped markets in the city and is a show place for the section in which it is located. The United Floral Co. has another good store at 2163 Broadway.

The Claremont Florists, who have a store at 3185 Broadway, Manhattan, and greenhouses at Clifton, N. J., have recently opened a fine store at 48 Flatbush avenue, Brooklyn. These young men seem to be hustlers and will doubtless be successful.

Mallon's Flower Shop, Fulton street, corner of Lafayette avenue, is now a show place for that part of Brooklyn. The window and other decorations of chrysanthemums, autumn foliage and other seasonable features are very artistic.

Peter Bounakas, who for a number of years has had a retail store at Fourth avenue and 23d street, will soon open another fine retail store at Fifth avenue and 23d street, near the

W. G. Badgley has taken his former bookkeeper, Waldron M. Bishop, into partnership, the firm name being Badgley & Bishop, Inc. They have just put on a new automobile for delivery and are well equipped for the wholesale business.

There are quite a number of Johnsons in Brooklyn, but Johnson, of 29 Nevins street is Johnson, the Florist. He has been there quite a number of years and has a nice store and is doing a good business.

W. F. Schoeller & Son, of Allenhurst, N. J., are sending fine chrysanthemums to market. Fred Schoeller, the "son" in this firm, is active as an agent for the Underwood typewriter, when he is not busy in horticultural pursuits.

The agent of K. J. Kuyk, of Ghent, Belgium, advises us that their first shipment of azaleas, 44 cases, arrived at this port during the past week.

Young & Nugent have recently been busy with funeral work and basket and bouquet trade.

Frank Manker, Jr., whose father, Frank Manker, Sr., is one of the leading growers of Brooklyn, has bought and taken charge of the range recently erected by Kramer Brothers at Farmingdale, L. I. This range comprises 25,000 square feet of glass and young Mr. Manker has a great stock of chrysanthemums.

In another column John Stokes, of 413 Gates avenue, Brooklyn, advertises his retail business for sale. Mr. Stokes has an excellent reputation and is strictly on the level.

William H. Kuebler and his brothers, Louis and Charles, of Brooklyn, continue active in the wholesale business, also carrying a good line of florists' supplies.

S. Masur, of Fulton street, reports business as greatly improved and he is kept busy with wedding decorations and funeral work.

At the stores of Robert G. Wilson, Brooklyn, we have noted great activity; he has a good trade and is strictly up to date.

Bonnet & Blake, Brooklyn wholesalers, report business improving and an increase in the supply of stock.

The first good violets we have seen are the single "Gov. Herrick" at M. C. Ford's.

The Seed Trade

American Seed Trade Association.

J. M. Lupton, Mattituck, L. I., N. Y., President; Kirby B. White, Detroit, Mich., First Vice-President; F. W. Bolgiano, Washington, D. C., Second Vice-President; C. E. Kendel, Cleveland, O., Secretary and Treasurer. Thirty-fourth annual convention, June, 1916.

W. ATLEE BURPEE, who has been seriously ill, is improving.

SIoux CITY, IA.—A warehouse costing $5,000 is being added to the plant of the Sioux City Seed & Nursery Co.

ERNST BENARY'S list of novelties for 1916 has been received from Erfurt, Germany, also that of Haage & Schmidt.

CHICAGO.—Prices for grass seed on the Board of Trade, October 20, were as follows: Timothy, $5.50 to $7.75 per 100 pounds.

SALT LAKE CITY, UTAH.—The largest crop of sweet clover ever grown in this section is anticipated, according to the Vogeler Seed & Produce Co.

A. H. GOODWIN, of the W. W. Barnard Co., Chicago, is considering a European trip via the Mediterranean, Malaga, Spain, or Bordeaux.

REPORT of condition of clover seed October 1, issued by the bureau of crop estimates, United States department of agriculture, shows a decrease of 14 per cent since the September report.

UNDER a law passed by Argentina, effective January 5, 1916, all importations of alfalfa or other forage plant seeds, containing more than 10 grains of dodder per kilo, will be returned to the country from which shipment was made.

MAIL advices confirm cable news of the imprisonment of nine Southern France seed growers for selling seeds to Germans through Switzerland and Holland. It is further stated that no seeds from these firms can be shipped while sentence is being served.

CONTRARY to the natural conclusions in the United States, writes a European correspondent, it may be said the business men here are not rushing to dispose of their goods. There are no presents to be had. The labor question is to be reckoned with and doubly so when stocks come from countries involved in war.

DUTCH salesmen are reported as trying to cover their gladiolus contracts for the coming season by purchases in America. It is thought doubtful if first size bulbs can be secured to meet the low prices made early for Holland stock. One Hollander is reported to have paid a buyer $50 in cash to be let off on his contract for 50,000 bulbs.

ONION SETS in the Chicago district are being taken in from the growers on a basis of giving the contracting buyer an increased number of pounds in excess of the normal 40 pounds to the bushel. This percentage is varying according to the condition of the individual lots, 20 to 30 per cent. Many lots of whites are being received and stored at the risk of the grower.

TOLEDO, O.—The clover crop will be short and of poor quality. Prices have advanced to the highest point ever reached at this time of year, and speculation will govern the price all winter according to local dealers. Some predictions place the total season's receipts here at 30,000 bags, as against the largest receipts on record, 199,000 bags in 1897.

EUGENE SCHAETTEL, of Vilmorin, Andrieux & Co., Paris, France, who is calling on the American trade, as noted in last week's issue, says his stay in America this year will be brief on account of the home demands upon his time. Mr. Schaeffel's address while in this country will be care of the H. Frank Darrow Co., 26 Barclay street, New York.

HILLEGOM, HOLLAND, October 3.—The Dutch government has notified the seed growers of this country that spinach, carrot and purslane have been added to the prohibited list. Farmers are now giving considerable attention to the growing of vegetables for shipment to Germany, and it is believed that this state of affairs will affect the seed acreage and that higher prices for 1916 may be expected.

Canary Islands Onion Seed.

Teneriffe, September 4.—The 1915 export season for Canary Island onions and onion seed closed, so far as shipments to the United States are concerned, August 28, showing a small reduction from last year's figures in the quantities of seed exported. However, a slight increase in prices has made the values approximately the same, so that shippers and growers are well satisfied with the general results. Onions for Porto Rico made a decided gain.

As declared at the Teneriffe consulate, the value of the onion seed exported to the United States in 1915 was $40,828, against $43,293 in 1914; to Porto Rico $973, against $2,548; or a total of $41,801, against $45,841. Onion shipments to Porto Rico (there being none to the United States) were valued at $13,435, as compared with $7,963 last year, this gain being sufficient to offset the loss on the seed exports and leave a favorable balance of $1,432 for the present year.

The question of securing the necessary bottoms for shipments to the United States turned out to be the most serious problem of the 1915 crop.

Maine Potatoes.

The Bangor & Aroostook railroad is hauling about 100 cars of potatoes a day, which is considerably less than normal for this season. September shipments aggregated only 1,155 cars, compared with 2,200 cars in the corresponding month of 1914. Within a few days price of potatoes in Aroostook county has advanced to $1.75 a barrel, while in a few sales at Mars Hill as much as $1.90 was paid.

European Seed Crops.

Seed crops in Europe this year leave very much to be desired, and in the case of some items, such as turnip, swedes, radish, celeriac, onion and cabbage the results are rather disastrous. The yield of others, like carrot, beet, dandelion, kale, brussels sprouts, celery, chicory, etc., was a little better, but the acreage planted was much smaller than usual. The fields could not be given the necessary care owing to the great shortage of labor or receive the required manures which resulted in a great deficiency in the yield. Many crops such as beet in order to give satisfactory results for the production of seeds require so much labor during their growth that the work might be called gardening rather than field culture, and when such labor is not afforded at the right time or in a sufficient way the yield is very inferior. If we consider that the best growers are now at the front, that the work has to be done by old men, women or children, and that we had a very erratic season, alternating periods of very dry and wet weather, rendering the work of cultivation and harvesting doubly difficult, we can but praise the poor peasants for what they have done under the most trying circumstances. How will things turn out next year? Nobody knows except the Creator above us, but my opinion is that as long as the present terrible conditions continue seeds will not be cheap. On the other hand, American buyers must endure some hardships before receiving their seeds, the growers meanwhile doing everything possible to minimize these difficulties.

PARISIAN.

New York Seed Trade.

A man who travels for one of the best known seed firms of this country was in this city during the past week. He has been noting seed crop conditions and his reports are reliable. In his estimate the outlook for beans is about the worst, with corn, squash and cucumber seed all short on account of the wet season. The price of potatoes has recently taken a jump with prospects of higher prices.

While there is no great change in the local situation, all the seed stores seem to have as much business as they can handle. The shortage in Paper Whites, hyacinths, Chinese lilies and some varieties of tulips has been previously noted. That, of course, is dissatisfying to the seedsmen, but it is viewed with equanimity by the cut flower dealers.

American Association of Nurserymen.

E. S. Welch, Shenandoah, Ia., President; John Watson, Newark, N. Y., Vice-President; John Hall, 204 Granite bldg., Rochester, N. Y., Secretary.
Forty-first annual convention will be held at Milwaukee, Wis., June, 1916

LIMA, O.—The Zetlitz Floral Co. has been awarded a contract for beautifying the grounds at the high school.

ALBANY, GA.—The National Nut Growers' Association will convene in this city October 27-29, for its annual convention.

NORFOLK, VA.—Special plantings of shrubs and flowers to provide uninterrupted succession of bloom in certain sections of the cemeteries of the city are being considered.

It is said neglect of years' standing in the upkeep of Boston's playgrounds has resulted in conditions that will require an expenditure of $1,000,000 before they are again in proper condition.

DE KALB, ILL.—De Kalb county will probably be the first county in the country to attempt the beautifying of the Lincoln highway, plans having been made for the planting of one mile of shrubbery on the highway west of Malta.

PORTLAND, ORE.—The Western Walnut Association will hold its first convention in this city, November 3-4. An interesting program of papers and discussions has been arranged. J. C. Cooper, McMinnville, Ore., is president and H. V. Meade, Orenco, Ore., is secretary-treasurer.

PENN YAN, N. Y., September 29.—When Benton Grange met Thursday evening a paper by R. L. Edmond on "Advertising the Apple," brought clearly to mind one of the main troubles in the apple business. "It Pays to Advertise," but the farmer has heretofore failed to take this statement seriously. Mr. Edmond told several stories to illustrate his point.

Nurserymen's Counsel.

Secretary John Hall, of the American Association of Nurserymen, calls attention to the fact that Curtis Nye Smith, the well-known expert on horticultural law and legislation, has been employed by the association as counsel for members of the association. Mr. Smith advises members of the association on all trade legal matters free of expense. For further particulars address Secretary John Hall, 42 Stone street, Rochester, N. Y.

Pernet Memorial.

We learn from the June-July issue of "Les Amis des Roses" that Admiral Aaron Ward and Mrs. Ward gave a garden party June 8 at their admirable rosary, at Willowmere, Roslyn, Long Island, for the benefit of the American Ambulance Society at Paris. The committee received about 6,000 francs, which will be used for the purchase of an ambulance to be named after a victim of the war, Claude Pernet, son of our colleague Pernet-Ducher, rose grower at Lyons, whose superb productions are known everywhere.—Journal French National Horticultural Society.

New Oaks.

In the proceedings of the American Philosophical Society, January-April, 1915, William Trelease describes two new varieties of oaks remarkable for their large acorns, Quercus Chiapasensis, found in the state of Chiapas, Mexico, like Q. Skinneri, having a hemispherical acorn 35 millimeters in diameter with a cupule 45 millimeters in diameter, and Q. Cyclobalanoides, also of Mexico, like Q. insignis, with an ellipsoid acorn 50 millimeters in diameter.

Apple Market Investigation.

During the season of 1914-15, the office of markets and rural organization of the United States department of agriculture studied certain phases of apple marketing and distribution, and Bulletin No. 302, entitled "Apple Market Investigations, 1914-15," under date of September 15, 1915, published by the department, while not a comprehensive treatise of the above subject, is a report of such investigations as have been made up to the present stage of development and contains much valuable information for the apple grower.

Effect of the war upon export prospects as well as upon home markets, retail methods and costs, market preferences for varieties, grading, package laws, cold storage holdings and movements, Pacific northwest apples via the Panama Canal, export markets, etc., are among the subjects treated upon. The bulletin contains 23 pages, with numerous illustrations.

The Greatest Handicap.

American Florist Co.,

Gentlemen:—The greatest handicap I know of is for a Nurseryman or Florist to try to do business without the American Florist Co.'s Trade Directory. I haven't one. Send me a copy.

Yours truly,

JOHN WATSON.

BELLE WASHBURN

Winner of the Silver Medal at the last Exhibition of the American Carnation Society, Buffalo, N. Y., January 27th and 28th, First Prize at the Illinois State Fair at Springfield, Ill., Sept. 22nd and 23rd.

It has never been beaten at any exhibition. The color is a most brilliant red. The size of the flower $8\frac{1}{2}$ to 4 inches. Stems 24 to 36 inches long, strong and stiff. We have never had a burst calyx, all flowers grading firsts and best of all it is a constant bloomer giving a steady run of flowers equal in number to the Enchantress family. It has a very spicy odor much greater than the average Carnation. It comes in full flower by the 1st of December and then continues steadily through the balance of the season.

The present sharp competition in business requires the grower to plant a variety that always produces high-grade flowers, never bursts the calyx, has strong, long stems, is steady and continuous bloomer, no cropper. The color is the most brilliant red of any Carnation now in market. We have grown this variety for five years, it being one of our own seedlings, and we now have 30,000 plants benched in our greenhouses at Greggs of which 12,000 are for the cut flowers and 18,000 devoted to rooted cuttings.

We will have 100,000 strong, well-rooted cuttings guaranteed all first-class ready for delivery during December. The price of the rooted cuttings will be $12.00 per 100; $100.00 per 1000.

New York, October 19.—Celery, per bunch of 12 stalks, 12 to 40 cents; cucumbers, 50 cents to $1.25 per basket; mushrooms, $1.00 to $2.50 per 4-pound basket; tomatoes, $1.00 to $2.00 per package; radishes, per 100 bunches, 25 cents to 50 cents; lettuce, per 2 dozen strap, 50 cents to 75 cents.

Greenhouse Soil Supply.

Forethought in the matter of soil preparation is of the greatest importance. Too often we find that the desired kind of soil is not available at the desired moment, or is in no condition to handle. This past season has been an extremely trying one owing to the frequent showers. We have recently seen an example of poor management that was amazing, as the parties to the job are men of national importance. In order to fill a new carnation house ground was hauled from an old orchard. This ground was a dark sandy loam of ideal texture, lacking humus; it was moved when a little too wet; was loaded into dump wagons and dumped in front of the greenhouse doors. It was not moved as fast as hauled, hence the teamsters kept on driving over the fresh soil piles at one end and over the ground in the orchard at the other end; when finally it was delivered to the benches it resembled more a lot of brick-bats than greenhouse soil.

Market gardeners are too often caught in the winter months when starting hot-beds, there being no ground available. This condition is inexcusable. We have for years practiced a method that has given good results. We select the desired piece of land; put on what manure we want and also some phosphatic fertilizer; disc this ground until in desired condition. By discing a piece of land continuously on a windy, sunny day, we can reduce the moisture content to a low point. The ground is then immediately shoveled up into "A" shaped piles and protected by lapped boards. In this condition it can wait until we need it or are ready to move it to the soil shed. European market gardeners are extremely careful to keep wagon wheels off their garden lands, especially during wet spells, preferring to carry their produce out instead of hauling it out; they realize that the grinding motion of a wagon wheel produces clods that last for years on heavy soils. They know that a soil in poor condition cannot produce the largest crops.

MARKETMAN.

Losses and Preservation of Manure.

According to Circular No. 26 issued by the Michigan Agricultural College experiment station, East Lansing, entitled, "Losses and Preservation of Barnyard Manure," 25 to 50 per cent and often even more of the plant food found in manure is lost under the present system of farm management.

A large number of farm animals are stabled several months during the year. Many of the stable floors are the ground itself, a few being carefully puddled with clay, but most of them being left with such compacting as they get from the animals standing on them. A large number of stable floors are made of planks which usually allow the liquid to escape and are no better than the ground itself; some are made of cement and are practically impervious to water. It can readily be seen that unless animals are kept on a water-tight floor and the liquid run into a tank or cistern, or absorbed in some way, a very large proportion of the best part of farm manure is unnecessarily lost.

To insure against loss of the liquid part in the stable, the barn floor should be tight and a trough impervious to water should be placed back of the animals. From this the liquid should be absorbed by means of a good litter, or led to a tank or cistern where it may be collected for future use.

Boston:

BUSINESS ABOVE THE AVERAGE.

The past week has been the best week of the season; in fact, one of the best for the season for some years past. The dark, cool weather caused a shortage, and the suffrage parade October 16 created an unusual demand for yellow flowers and red roses. Prices on every line of stock have advanced. Carnations sold readily at from $3 to $5 per 100, according to quality. Roses also found a good market, with prices ranging from $4 to $35 per 100. There was a good demand for 9-inch stock at $6 per 100. Chrysanthemums are becoming more plentiful, but prices have advanced. From $1 to $4 per dozen was received. Good average yellow varieties brought $2 per dozen while fancy kinds sold for $3. The plant trade is very good. Boston ferns, rubber plants and begonias are in demand.

NOTES.

Patrick Welch reports business as being far above average for the season. Very fine blooms of Chrysanthemums White Pacific and Halliday were noted, as well as an extra fine lot of Liliun longiflorum. One of the large shippers of pansies to the Boston Flower Exchange is W. E. Turner of Billerica. His flowers are of unusual size and color.

One of the most talked of events of the week is the market flower show of the Boston Co-Operative Flower Market, which will be held at Mechanics building, October 23-30. There is a good list of prizes and the committee has received an encouraging number of entries.

William H. Elliott is cutting very fine roses at present. One of his new novelties is the semi-double polyantha rose, Old Gold. He is shipping pot Pompon Bon-Ton and will soon have a large variety of colors ready for market.

Robert Montgomery and wife, of Natick, and James Murray and wife, of Lynn, spent an enjoyable week end at Buster's Island, Maine, October 16-17. They motored down in Mr. Montgomery's new car.

C. S. Andem, of Putnam, Conn., is cutting very fine flowers of the bronze chrysanthemum, Tint of Gold. He also has fine flowers of Carnations Matchless, Enchantress Supreme and Philadelphia.

The Boston florists' bowling league met October 14 at the Boston alleys. Neal Casey, rolling for the Co-Operative Market, won the highest 3-string pinfall with 288. The Wax Bros.' team has dropped out and their place was taken by McAlpine and McDonald's team. The standing of the teams is as follows:

Flower Market	6	2
Galvin	6	2
Carbone	5	3
Pansies	5	3

With the arrival of seasonable autumn weather, a decided impetus has been noted in all branches of the trade. Greenhouse stock is in fine condition and numerous varieties of the later chrysanthemums are making their appearance and find a ready market and excellent Hoosier Beauty, Russell, Sawyer and Sunburst roses are in evidence. October weddings have been numerous and have helped materially in the general improvement in business conditions.

NOTES.

The Flick Floral Co. reports excellent business at the greenhouses. Stock is looking unusually fine, especially in the chrysanthemum and rose houses.

SHORTAGE OF STOCK RETARDS TRADE.

A scarcity of seasonable stock has retarded business to some extent. Roses have shortened up considerably and chrysanthemums have been backward with the result that the supply is quickly absorbed. Carnations are very good stock at present. American Beauty roses and lily of the valley are both scarce. There has been a large amount of profitable funeral work, supplemented by a demand for table decorations, corsages and high grade flowers, occasioned by the opening of the social season.

FLOWER SHOW.

Plans are going forward satisfactorily for the flower show which will be held at the Art Museum, under the auspices of the local florists' club, November 7-10, and a meeting of the various committees will be held every Tuesday evening until the show. Emil Kuhnke has been appointed a committee of one to arrange the premium list and Arthur C. Kneisel, secretary of the club, will enthruse the retailers and have charge of the publicity in connection with the exhibition. Motion pictures accompanied by lectures, depicting various forms of plant life, will be a feature of the show. Mr. Steffens, well-known landscape architect, engaged in the "city beautiful" campaign, will assist the florists in making the show a complete success.

NOTES.

Metz & Bateman had charge of the decorations for two hotels as well as the convention hall during the Knights Templars' conclave. They arranged over 100 table decorations for the banquet as well as many corsages for the grand ball.

Among many attractive windows arranged by florists during the Knights Templars' conclave, a display artistically arranged by Mr. Balke of Mrs. J. B. Freeman's establishment attracted much attention.

Arthur G. Imoberstag has been elected to membership in the florists' club. He is installing a new boiler and making repairs at his establishment and reports good business.

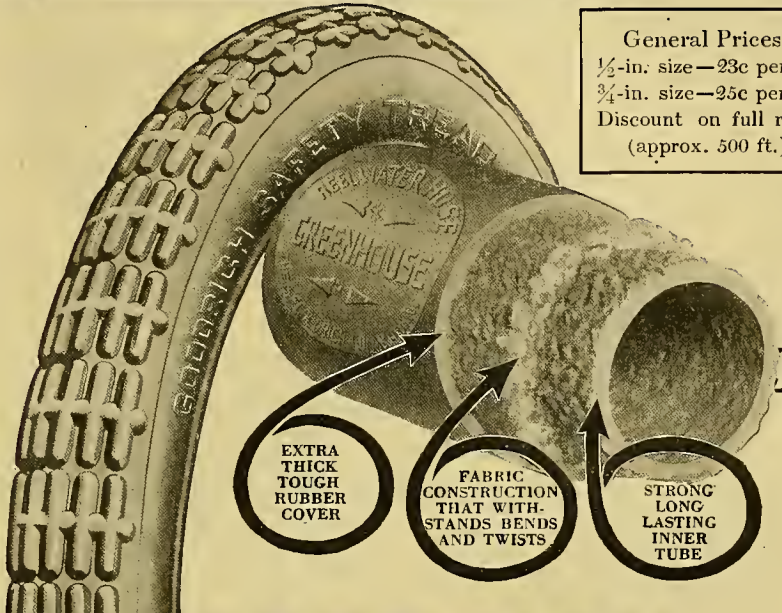

Schramm Bros. are always planning to take care of increasing business. Two new houses are nearly completed at their range.

S. N. Peck is busy with funeral work. He has a fine stock of cyclamens and poinsettias coming on for the holiday trade.

Feniger's Flower Shop is now graced with an attractive electric sign, the only one employed by local florists.

EXTRA THICK TOUGH RUBBER COVER

FABRIC CONSTRUCTION THAT WITHSTANDS BENDS AND TWISTS

STRONG LONG LASTING INNER TUBE

GOODRICH "GREENHOUSE" HOSE

Try Goodrich "Greenhouse" on your next order! That extra thick, extra tough wear-resisting cover—compounded to endure by the world's largest factory, the factory that builds the road-resisting treads found on Goodrich Automobile Tires—is giving months of service where other hose lasts but weeks.

Then, too, "Greenhouse" is not readily affected by kinks, twists, sharp bends—that cause other hose to leak, crack, break, split apart.

"Greenhouse" is, in addition, flexible and easy to work with. It saves time in use. Withstands high pressures, too. Any length desired in one continuous piece.

Massachusetts Agricultural College.

The department of floriculture is making plans for its annual fall flower show, which is to be held November 8-9. The entire first floor of the building, about 5,200 square feet, will be used for the show. Last fall the department received many favorable comments from men in the trade, not only for the arrangement and variety of exhibits but for the general excellence of the stock. Mr. Whiting, the gardener, produced some of the finest chrysanthemums in this part of the state. This year it is planned to make the show a bigger, better and busier one. There will be exhibits of interest to the florist and gardener as well as to the general public. The department wishes to extend to all a hearty invitation to attend.

There will be a large showing of chrysanthemums; both single stem and bush plants in variety. They will be used in named collections, in masses, in groups of foliage and flowering plants and in floral arrangements. Although the chrysanthemum will be dominant, roses, carnations, violets and other florists' flowers and plants will be freely used. For the students in floriculture, there will be competitions in floral arrangement. The competition in table decoration will be limited to the junior class, with 14 entries. The seniors will have a competition in basket arrangement. There will be 10 entries in this class. In addition to these competitions, there will be vase, plant baskets and box arrangements, bouquets and corsages. There will also be exhibits of pottery, baskets and various other types of containers, together with other accessories of the florist.

The Northampton and Holyoke Gardeners' and Florists' Club is to cooperate with the M. A. C. Florists' and Gardeners' Club for a joint meeting one evening of the show, at which time some outside speaker will talk upon floral arrangements and exhibits.

CHRYSANTHEMUMS IN GOOD DEMAND.

There was a noticeable increase in the demand for all kinds of flowers during the past week. Chrysanthemums were a feature, and with plenty of sunshine and good weather, we will soon have more than the market can absorb. While the demand is steady a heavy supply could not be disposed of. There have been no heavy frosts as yet and asters are still arriving in good supply. Carnations have shortened up, but as the demand for them is light, they are not missed. Floral work holds up remarkably well and is of course welcomed by everyone in the trade. Rose prices have increased, but the quality of the cut is very good.

Willis S. Pino, seedsman, reports business as being very good. He is carrying a very attractive line of Japanese novelties this year.

Albert Holcher, of Johnston, R. I., is cutting some of the finest chrysanthemums seen in this market this season.

SUPPLY OF STOCK LIMITED.

The market experienced an unusual shortage of stock during the past week, the receipts not being sufficient to supply the city trade let alone the shipping orders, but everything was of excellent quality and brought fancy prices. Chrysanthemums took the lead at prices varying from $3 to $7 per dozen. Roses and carnations were practically off the market. Some asters and gladioli are still seen.

NOTES.

The Alpha Floral Co. have been very busy with funeral work and have been fortunate in having enough stock to meet the requirements. Out-of-town business is on the increase at this establishment.

Scarcity of stock has interfered with shipping trade at T. J. Noll & Co.'s establishment. Roses and carnations have been so scarce they have had to rely to quite an extent on chrysanthemums.

Miss Edith Roberts, formerly with the Costello-Moore Floral Co., has opened a flower shop at 11 East Eleventh street. Her many friends wish her every success.

Henry Kusik & Co. report stock very scarce, although chrysanthemums are more plentiful. Supplies are moving well. Henry Kusik has started on a three weeks' trip.

Geo. M. Kellogg Flower & Plant Co. reports stock at their range looks very promising. Good quality roses, carnations and chrysanthemums are being cut at present.

Dahlias at the Chandler Greenhouses have been protected from the frost by their foliage and about 8,000 were cut last week.

W. J. Barnes has been having a record breaking week of funeral business. His greenhouses were able to meet the requirements.

Since Al. Sexton has taken charge of the greenhouses at St. Mary's, the stock has shown much improvement.

W. L. Rock Floral Co. is having a good trade, both local and shipping. Stock is arriving in better supply.

Ed. Ellsworth, of The Rosery, reports business very good. His poinsettia plants are sold out.

Beiderman & Son report good business, with excellent future prospects.

Adolph D. Mohr is cutting some very fine yellow chrysanthemums.

TRADE SHOWS IMPROVEMENT.

Business during the past week has brightened up considerably, with the result that one at times hears the old expressions, "We had a very good day", or "We have been very busy today", and these busy or very good days help the florist over an otherwise hard time, for if all were known trade is not nearly what it should be. Slight frosts have cut down the outdoor flowers and indoor stock is arriving in meager quantities. Chrysanthemums have made their appearance but in limited numbers and carnations are still scarce. Roses are fairly plentiful, but are small in size. There is little demand for the services of the landscape gardeners this fall as everybody seems inclined to put off this work until after the war. Shrubs and perennials are in consequence not in demand.

CLUB MEETING.

The Montreal Gardeners & Florists' Club had one of the best attended meetings for some time at its last session, there being present quite a array of the "veterans." G. A. Robinson made his first appearance since his recovery from his recent severe illness and was congratulated on all sides. Jas. Bennett of Lachine, while not an entire stranger, is always welcomed as a visitor, not as a regular attendant. John Walsh, Tim Martell and John Eddy, who are looked upon as more than ordinary members, honored the meeting with their presence. Wm. Cotter, who has just recovered from a severe illness, was also present. The essayist for the evening, J. Theule, spoke on the subject, "Outdoor Culture of Carnations for Cut Blooms," which proved an interesting theme and several florists and gardeners may be led to adopt the speaker's method, which consists of taking cuttings in September and October, growing in pots during the winter and planting out early in May. Handled in this way they will flower all summer. His splendid exhibits at various meetings in the club rooms as well as at the Montreal Horticultural Society's September show, where he carried off first honors in competition with flowers grown under glass, speak well for his method.

The number of automobiles in use in the trade in this city is steadily increasing. William C. Hall and C. A. Smith are the latest additions to the list.

Panama-Pacific Flower Show.

HELD AT SAN FRANCISCO, OCTOBER 21-26, UNDER THE AUSPICES OF THE PACIFIC COAST HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY, THE CHRYSANTHEMUM SOCIETY OF AMERICA AND THE PANAMA-PACIFIC EXPOSITION DEPARTMENT OF HORTICULTURE.

Chrysanthemums the Feature.

This exhibition, conducted under the auspices of the Pacific Coast Horticultural Society, in conjunction with the Chrysanthemum Society of America and the department of horticulture of the Panama-Pacific exposition, was held in the Palace of Horticulture on the exposition grounds, San Francisco, October 21-26. The show opened auspiciously, Thursday, the first day having been designated by the exposition authorities as "Horticulture day" and the splendid display of plants and cut blooms in many classes attracted throngs of pleased visitors and filled the large building to its capacity from the opening until the closing hours. Souvenirs in the shape of cut flowers, packages of seeds, a large number of small ferns and samples of canned goods, etc., were presented by exhibitors as appropriate mementoes of the occasion. George A. Dennison, H. Plath, Eric James and T. Taylor worked indefatigably to make the exhibition the splendid success it proved to be and a number of exhibitors worked through the whole night previous to the opening to have their displays in perfect shape.

Chrysanthemums being one of the principal features of the show, a grand array of blooms was staged, the average being well up to the best eastern standards, and some of the specimens were worthy of front rank at any show. Percy Ellings, of the Lynch Nursery Co., Menlo Park, displayed some wonderful blooms as did the Hillsborough Nurseries of Burlingame, while the Japanese growers, Shibuya & Ishida, Menlo Park; Fred. Y. Agari, San Mateo; M. Sarubo, Mountain View; T. Yamaguchi, Redwood City; T. Etow and M. Tamura staged excellent showings.

The competition in the class for 25 chrysanthemums in not less than 20 varieties, not over 18-inch stems, brought forth a collection equal to the best exhibited at any eastern show, prominent in the collection being the following varieties: Mrs. Gilbert Drabble, Wm. Turner, Maud Jeffries and Mrs. A. S. Watt, white; Odessa, the best bloom in the show; Marigold, Mrs. R. C. Pulling and Nakota, yellow; Mendon, Glen Cove, Nerissa and Elberon, pink; Mrs. H. Stevens, Ongowa, Kara Dow and Tekonsha, bronze; J. W. Mollineaux and Flamingo, red. The largest bloom in the show was a wonderful specimen of Wm. Turner, for which first prize was awarded to the Lynch Nursery Co.

H. L. Goertzchain, of the Redwood City Nursery, exhibited 50 blooms of the variety Ongowa, and finer blooms of this variety the writer has never seen—large flowers on long stems, and foliage perfect. The exhibit of the Lynch Nursery Co. made a grand display of the varieties, Wm. Turner, Odessa, Nerissa and Flamingo. The showing of specimen plants was not very extensive, M. Sarubo having the largest specimens, while the Hillsborough Nurseries showed some nice plants, smaller in size, but splendidly finished.

The display in the miscellaneous plant section was not as extensive as might be desired, but the quality was of the very highest degree. The display of orchid plants arranged for effect, exhibited by J. A. Carbone was wonderful both as to variety and quality of the blooms, the flowers being excellent. This exhibit consisted of 20 varieties of cypripediums, cattleyas, oncidiums, dendrobiums, laelias, stanhopeas and phalaenopsis in many varieties, arranged on stems of tree ferns and around the base of the ferns. This display was the leading feature of the show and well deserved the gold medal awarded for it.

Eric James, of Oakland; H. Plath, Domoto Bros. and the commissioners of San Mateo were the principal contestants in classes for ferns and foliage plants, the specimen plants of nephro-lepis, staged by Mr. James, as well as his hanging basket of ferns and a basket arranged with foliage plants, being especially worthy of the first honors awarded to him. The group of ferns exhibited by H. Plath was splendid in both variety and quality of the plants, and very few growers in the United States can equal the number of varieties represented in this display. Some especially fine plants of Primula obconica, with large trusses of giant flowers, were also a feature of this exhibit and the writer has never seen a better lot of cyclamen at this season of the year, and in fact they would be hard to beat at any time, as would the plants staged by H. Hayashi & Co., Elmhurst.

The most striking feature of the show from the standpoint of an eastern visitor was the exhibits of dahlias and tuberous rooted begonias such as seen here, the baskets of Minna Burgle, red; Delice, pink; Geisha, yellow and red, and Mrs. Kittlewell, crimson, all of them magnificent, were an exhibition in themselves, as was the collection shown of other types, noteworthy being the display of the Bessie Boston Dahlia Farm, San Mateo. There were two exhibits of tuberous rooted begonias, one from Henry E. Bothein of Ross Valley and the other from the Vallance Nursery Co., Oakland, the Bothein display being a decided show feature. The flowers were all grown by James Niven of the Bothein establishment, the coloring being of the most beautiful shades and some of the flowers being more than six inches in diameter.

The exhibits of roses and carnations did not line up with the other varieties either in quantity or quality of bloom, and while nice clean stock was shown it would be classed in the east as good commercial stock, the leading exhibitors being Adachi Bros., Stege; Domo to Bros., Oakland; Ferrari Bros. and E. W. McLellan & Co., San Francisco.

The jurors were as follows: Wm. Munro, San Mateo; Ed. Schwerin, Chas. Abraham, Wm. Eldred, J. W. Bagge, San Francisco; Geo. Walters, Ross Valley; C. W. Johnson, Chicago; John Gill, West Berkeley; Sidney Clack, Mayfield; Mrs. Myrtle Shepherd Francis, Ventura.

THE RETAIL TRADE

Conducted by Robt. Kift, Philadelphia, Pa.

Pricing the Goods.

As long as there are stores, and men and women to run them, there will be different ideas as to how they should be conducted, how best they can serve the public, and at the same time insure a good profit for the proprietor. The retail florist's business is a particularly hazardous venture, in that his stock is so perishable; it must find a quick sale or loss is inevitable. It is with this fear constantly before them that makes many florists sell at times for a very small profit, or at cost or even less.

The question of the gross profit, how large it should be, and whether it is right to ask one customer more than is charged to another, are questions that seemed destined to be never settled. The most successful stores in other lines, like the large department houses, have long ago adopted the one price system. All goods are marked in plain figures so that customers in a measure wait on themselves. Quite a number of flower shops have adopted this plan, a plainly marked price on all articles, even the vases of flowers in the case bearing price cards of roses or other flowers, stating the price per dozen.

OPINIONS OF STOREKEEPERS.

At a recent meeting of the Philadelphia Retail Florists' Association this question of pricing goods came up. In the discussion which followed the results showed that there was much difference of opinion as to the best course to pursue. Those who had tried the one price system were satisfied that it was the best, while there were others who thought it all right to get at all times the best price they could. One dealer, who employed cheap labor, priced all his goods so that they could be handled intelligently without too much watching of the assistants. In order to meet the ideas of some of his customers who judged values by the prices asked, a number of his $1 plants were priced as well at $1.50, and purchased by customers who expected to pay about that price. While this is in effect having two prices, yet there the plants are, and the customer is free to make his selection. One who did not put prices on his goods was frequently in hot water in giving a price on a plant when another customer has had it priced by an attendant at a lower or higher figure almost in their hearing. It appeared that most of the fraternity believed in getting all they could, while the minority felt sure they were on the right track in treating all alike, with prices displayed. It begot the confidence of their customers, who felt they were being rightly treated. A system of a large retail dealer was cited in pricing cut flowers. A shipment of the same grade of roses was placed in three jars, each jar priced differently, flowers being offerred in this way to all alike, but those desiring a higher grade rose could pick them out by the price they desired to pay, while at the same time the frugal customer found in another vase just what suited his purse.

PRICES AT RUSH TIMES.

The busy seasons of Easter and Christmas are cited by some as times when high prices should prevail, and that at such periods a salesman should take advantage of the wants of his customers and get four dollars for an azalea or similar plant marked three, if he can get away with it. Making one price, having it plainly marked and placed in the pot or on the plant, and sticking to it, is the safest plan, and best to use as a foundation for future business building. To make reductions at the final wind-up is sometimes good business, but only to people looking for bargains, as an inducement to make the sale larger. Very often regular customers come in late and are quite relieved to find good stock still on hand. It would be very bad business to offer such trade as this low prices, as they want good things, are able and expect to pay for them.

Honesty is the best policy in the flower business as well as in all others. Giving, if possible, a little more than is expected makes pleased customers; as a rule, these will not go elsewhere, and always have a good word for the store to flower buying friends.

Fourth National Flower Show.

The work of preparation for the fourth national flower show, Philadelphia, Pa., March 25-April 2, 1916, received a great impetus through the three-day visit of the national flower show committee, October 18-20. With the exception of W. N. Rudd, Morgan Park, Chicago, the entire committee, with President Patrick Welch of the S. A. F. and O. H., was present.

On the morning of October 18, the members of the committee were greeted by Chairman George Asmus of Chicago at the Bellevue-Stratford hotel, and the sub-committee on schedule consisting of Chairman Asmus, C. H. Totty, Thomas Roland, Adolph Farenwald and Secretary John Young, at once adjourned to Parlor 215, where the preparation of the second preliminary schedule was at once proceeded with. President S. S. Pennock, of the American Rose Society, was also present. Secretary John Young presented a list of special prizes offered for various exhibits, and the disposition of them through the schedule occupied considerable time. In the section for private growers, a class was added covering a group of flowering and foliage plants, arranged for effect, to occupy 25 square feet, the stock shown to be produced from 2,500 square feet of glass or less, the exhibitors to be members of the Florists' Club of Philadelphia. This class will be appreciated by private gardeners who are limited to a very small area of glass for their products.

In the commercial section a class was added for a group of crotons, arranged for effect, to cover 100 square feet, with prizes of $150 and $100. The premium list for the carnation section was approved, and many other matters settled.

The sub-committee on schedule was again in session in the afternoon, and at this meeting there were present many of the chairmen of the local committees, and the gathering eventually merged into a meeting of the local executive committee, W. P. Craig, Arthur Niesen, secretary and treasurer of the local executive committee; Robert Craig, E. J. Fancourt, W. F. Therkindson, Fred Cowperthwaite, Chas. Grakelow, S. S. Pennock, John P. Habermehl, Louis Burk, Wm. Kleinheinz, C. H. Fox, J. Otto Thilow and Franklin Barrett, all making reports for their respective committees, which showed the work of the show was progressing in a most satisfactory manner. W. F. Therkindson, as chairman of the committee on publicity, presented samples of advertising "stickers" for use on stationery, packages, and in other ways, 250,000 of which had been ordered, and which could be obtained by anyone who could use them to advantage. He also displayed samples of large posters, and two sizes of card posters, all of which were approved by the committee and adopted. Mr. Therkindson's report was very interesting, and covered in detail the work and plans of his committee. In closing, he appealed to all who could do so to furnish him with articles and photographs covering floricultural subjects, and adapted for use in his campaign of publicity. J. Otto Thilow, for the committee on lectures, reported that his programme was practically complete; it provided for moving pictures each afternoon and illustrated lectures each evening. Chas. Grakelow, for the committee on special features, outlined what his committee aimed to achieve, and some novel show features are now expected to evolve from the committee. Franklin Barrett, for the committee on aquariums, promised a very extensive line of exhibits in the aquarium section.

The following morning there was a full meeting of the national flower show committee, at the Bellevue-Stratford, there being present Chairman George Asmus, Secretary John Young, Treasurer W. F. Kasting, A. Farenwald, C. H. Totty, Thomas Roland, Wm. P. Craig and President Patrick Welch. Local Executive Secretary Arthur A. Niessen was also present. Secretary Young reported that the guarantee fund was practically complete, that space aggregating over $6,000 had been already reserved in the trade section, and that advertising contracts amounting to over $1,200 had been booked for the official souvenir programme. In all probability, he said, every available foot of space for trade exhibits would be sold. The committee voted that a call for 50 per cent of the amounts subscribed to the guarantee fund be made February 1. The recommendations of the various committees made at the meeting of the local executive committee were considered, and appropriations made to cover the requirements of such committees. The local executive committee was authorized to secure an office in a central location, and to employ the necessary clerical help for the committees. The price for trade tickets was fixed at 25 cents each, not less than 25 tickets to be sold to anyone at this price. C. H. Totty, Madison, N. J., was appointed chairman of the board of jurors, and Wm. Graham, of Philadelphia, Pa., was appointed manager of the show.

In the afternoon the committee, with many of the chairmen of the local committees, visited Convention hall and inspected it thoroughly. With the information now available as to the requirements of the competitive exhibits in point of space, it was obvious that more room would be required than was afforded by the present lay-out, so it was decided to move the trade exhibits a little distance from the marked central area of the hall, to increase the room for the competitive exhibits. The secretary was instructed to notify any exhibitor who had made a reservation whose plans might be affected by the change, that the rearrangement was made necessary by the great number of competitive exhibits promised, and the elaborate scale on which many of them are to be staged, all adding to the attractiveness of the exhibition. If found necessary, the secretary was authorized to issue a new plan. Space was allotted for booths for the Pennsylvania Horticultural Society and the garden clubs of Philadelphia and vicinity, for the lecture room, and for the exhibits of aquaria.

Tuesday evening the members of the national flower show committee were guests of the Florists' Club of Philadelphia at a special meeting of the club held in its rooms, President Burton of the club surrendering the gavel to Chairman Asmus of the flower show committee. The forthcoming fourth national flower show was, of course, the whole subject of the program, and tremendous enthusiasm in the project was evoked. The spirit of optimism prevailed, and if there was a pessimist anywhere in the neighborhood who wished in any way to throw cold water on the enterprise, he very discreetly kept away. It was a "get together" meeting, if ever there was one. Speeches came fast and thick, and applause was unspared. It was a meeting long to be remembered, and spoke volumes for the success of the show.

JOHN YOUNG, Sec'y.

PLANT NOTES.

Antirrhinums.

The antirrhinums for winter and spring blooming should be planted out in the bench at once if this has not been done already. To have good long large spikes the soil should be rich, fully as strong as that used for rose and carnation culture. Set the plants 12 inches apart each way and as soon as the long shoots begin to grow place a strong stake to each plant and keep the plant tied to it as fast as it grows. A night temperature of 50° is the best for the winter culture of this plant; if grown much cooler than this they will not bloom until early spring, and if warmer the spikes and flowers will be of inferior quality. While the white antirrhinum is the most in demand, for it cannot only be used as a decorative flower but also arranges beautifully in sprays or funeral work, yet the pink is also much in favor for both purposes; the yellow also is very popular as a cut flower and in decorations, but the reds and other colors should be grown in small quantities, for they are not popular with many of the customers. With the exception of keeping the plants tied erect they will not require much attention until they begin to bloom.

Outdoor Roses.

The hybrid perpetual roses should now be made ready for the winter. Many growers lay the canes down and cover them with earth. While this may be necessary in extremely cold sections, yet in the majority of places in the country it will not be required. Under no circumstances cut the canes back, but leave all the wood that has been made on the plant, for it will winter kill to some extent, and it is but six or eight inches at the base that is wanted for next year's growth. This six or eight inches should be well protected from the freezing weather. If the bushes are planted in rows, the earth should be spaded out between them and thrown around the bushes, making ridges about 10 inches above the level of the soil. This will make a trench between the rows about 18 inches deep, which should be filled with manure. The manure should be barnyard manure with more or less straw in it, and will make a fine covering for the ground. Where the bushes are planted individually the soil should be banked around them in a similar manner and the trench around the bush filled with manure, allowing some of the manure to come up around the bush. In the spring the manure will have almost all disappeared and the soil can be spaded back into the trenches and remaining manure spaded in. This will carry the rose bushes through almost any winter and give them a good manuring for the next season's growth.

Azaleas.

The imported plants of azaleas will soon be received, and preparations should be made to pot and care for them upon their arrival. The plants have been out of the soil now for four or more weeks, and although all the attention possible is given in the packing and shipping, yet the plants suffer considerably and should be handled at once upon their receipt. Have a stock of azalea pots on hand of the different sizes to meet all requirements. The full-sized pot is no longer used to grow azaleas, the plant making a much better appearance in the azalea or half-size pot. Any kind of soil will do, but if the plant is to grow on after blooming a fibrous peat is to be preferred. When the plants are unpacked they should be immediately carried to the potting shed. Some will probably have too large a ball for pots that will look best with the size plant. The roots can be cut off with a sharp hatchet to fit the pot. Have a tub of water in which the ball of earth can be stood until thoroughly soaked. Many growers neglect this, deeming it unnecessary, but in our experience if not done the water runs down the outside of the pot in the new soil and it takes many waterings and considerable time to soak up the old ball, and the plants are meantime suffering for moisture. Pot very firmly, ramming the soil down hard and after potting the soil should be thoroughly watered until all the soil in the pot has become saturated. The inclination is to place the early varieties immediately into the heat, but six weeks in a house at 65° or 70° will bring them into bloom for Christmas and if the plants are received by November 1 ten days in a cool house will enable them to recover from the effects of the long shipment and become re-established and they will force much more readily and successfully. The dropping off of buds is often attributed to this placing them in the very hot houses before they have become settled in the new soil. Frequent syringings will be required after being placed in the warm house. The later varieties should be placed in cool houses or pits until the time to bring them in to the warmer temperature.

Chrysanthemum Early Rose.

The illustration herewith shows a seedling from Smith's Advance, rose color as the name implies, of a bright pleasing shade under all conditions of light. Form incurved, size six inches, stem and foliage excellent, dwarf habit, 2½ to 3 feet high. Best bud August 25, producing a fully matured flower in six weeks. Early pinks are very scarce and it is thought this variety will supply the long looked for October pink.

Cleveland Flower Show.

The Cleveland Rotary Club is to have a day set aside in its honor at the flower show, Thursday, November 11, having been selected, this being the regular meeting day of the club, and it is planned to have the entire membership attend the show in the Coliseum immediately after the club meeting and luncheon. It is anticipated that many of the Rotarians from other Ohio cities will attend on this occasion, invitations having been sent to Rotary clubs at Akron, Canton, Cincinnati, Columbus, Dayton, Lima, Piqua, Springfield, Toledo, Youngstown and Zanesville. Other invitations in the middle western cities include Detroit, Indianapolis, Pittsburgh, Erie, Buffalo and Rochester. The flower show committee will have special decorations in honor of the visiting Rotarians and souvenirs will be presented to all who attend. The Cleveland Rotarians who are taking an active interest in the management of the Cleveland flower show are: H. B. Jones, of the Jones-Russell Co., member of the publicity committee; H. P. Merrick, manager Lord & Burnham Co., chairman trade displays committee.

The honor of being the first to make entries in the Cleveland show belongs to the Cottage Gardens Co., Queens, N. Y. Many other entries have followed at a rapid rate, indicating that the entry list will be a big one. A new class, No. 162A, is announced for Thursday entry. This will be for 150 lily of the valley, foliage or greens allowed, arrangement to be considered, grown and arranged by exhibitor, who may furnish his own. Chas. Schwake & Co., Inc., New York, have offered three prizes, $12, $8 and $5 in this class. All committees are meeting daily at the Coliseum under direction of H. P. Knoble, general chairman.

President Woodrow Wilson is to participate in the Cleveland flower show to the extent of naming a new variety of chrysanthemum, specimen blooms of which have been sent to him at the White House, by Elmer D. Smith & Co., Adrian, Mich., the president having assured E. Prentiss Baldwin of the executive committee of the show that he will take pleasure in christening the new flower. The announcement of the new variety named by President Wilson will be made before the opening of the show, November 10. The flower show committee at Cleveland has received samples of this chrysanthemum and are enthusiastic in its praise. It has a rich, golden color, with the shade deepening at the center of the blossom. The lower petals are larger and longer than in similar types, giving a dome-shaped appearance rather than round as in many other varieties. Developments during the past week add to the enthusiasm of the Cleveland florists. A large attendance of delegates to the several organization meetings to be held during the show are indicated. How well the local committees have prepared for the entertainment of the visitors is revealed in the following programme:

All meetings of the societies will be held in the rooms of the Cleveland Florists' Club in the Hollenden hotel.

Greenhouse Builders' Chicago Show Prizes

An item of unusual interest in connection with the Chicago Grand Floral Festival, to be held in the Coliseum, November 9-14, is the 25 silver cups being donated by the greenhouse manufacturers of Chicago. Instead of taking space in the Coliseum annex and making trade exhibits of greenhouses and greenhouse appliances, as is usually done at the annual convention of the S. A. F., the greenhouse manufacturers of Chicago suggested that the space be sold to others and that a contribution of $500 be collected among the manufacturers and donated to the show to be used as prizes.

Prior to the meeting the manufacturers had luncheon. The following were on hand to represent the various firms:

P. J. Foley, Foley G'nhouse Mfg. Co.
Fred Sykes, Lord & Burnham Co.
Fred Dietsch, A. Dietsch & Co.
E. F. Kurowski, J. C. Moninger Co.
D. B. Dulmage, Garland Mfg. Co.
P. L. McKee, John C. Moninger Co.

All of those at the meeting were entirely in accord with the idea to help out the Chicago show this year. It was the general opinion that this being the first Chicago show for some years, it was very necessary to make it a success and that the greenhouse manufacturers of this city ought to contribute to it on account of it being a local show and of direct interest to the Chicago firms. Carl Ickes of the Ickes-Braun Mill Co. was unable to attend, but telephoned that he fully agreed with every detail of the plan.

A subscription was taken and a fund of $500 was made up for the purchase of the cups. The premium committee has been notified and a complete list of the cups will be made up shortly. It is expected that the action of the greenhouse manufacturers in getting together in this way and making a bulk contribution will set a precedent for others of the allied trades and the future may bring more concerted action in this direction.

P. L. McKee was given authority to collect the funds, arrange for publicity and the distribution of the prizes. The cups will be made shortly and it is expected that they will be exhibited in one of the prominent downtown stores prior to the opening of the show. When the show opens, the plan is to have the cups in a large glass case on exhibition. The names of all of the donors will be engraved on the cups as well as the name of the prize and a space left for the name of the winner. Winners of the prizes can have their names engraved on the cups without any charge being made, as this has all been arranged with the manufacturers of the cups. More complete details as to classes in which the various cups have been placed, kind of cups, values, etc., will be given later.

JOHN C. MONINGER CO.

Washington.

Market conditions at the present writing are very satisfactory, plenty of good stock to be had in a range of prices. Chrysanthemums are quoted at from $4 to $20 per hundred and roses are plentiful and bring good figures. Richmond, Ophelia, Hoosier Beauty, Radiance, Taft, Russell, Ward, etc., bring from $3 to $8 per hundred. Carnations are plentiful and of good quality, and are selling at from $1.50 to $2 per hundred. Lily of the valley is improving and is priced at $4. Easter lilies are $12 per hundred and the price of orchids varies from $3.50 to $5 per dozen for the best.

NOTES.

Fred Kramer's store has the appearance of a chrysanthemum show. Quantities of this flower in variety extend from the front door to the rear of the conservatory.

This is the season for palms and ferns, as evidenced by the windows of the downtown florist shops, these plants being featured at prices from 39 cents up.

The Washington Floral Co. is cutting some extra fine Russell, Sunburst and Double White Killarney roses. Good orchids are seen here.

Geo. H. Cooke reports trade very good and is looking forward to one of the best season's business he has had in many years.

The Leo Niessen Co. is receiving some excellent chrysanthemum plants for which there is a good demand.

The window boxes which go around the Z. D. Blackistone store attract much attention.

Marche & Co. report a heavy run of funeral work during the past week.

SPECIAL CLUB MEETING.

A special meeting of the florists' club was held in the club rooms on the evening of October 18, the occasion being an address by ex-President Philip Breitmeyer covering his observations on his extended trip to the Pacific coast. Accompanied by Mrs. Breitmeyer, he left Chicago, August 10, taking the southern route, with San Francisco as the objective point. The first place of great interest en route was the Grand Canyon of Arizona, the wonderful natural scenic beauty here making a strong impression and the many features of interest defying description. Aside from the many other attractions, the great abundance of mistletoe naturally attracts the attention of the florist. The berries were yet green, but the abundance of it growing in such lofty situations made it a feature of unusual interest.

On the way to Los Angeles, which was the next stop, the reputed fields of cactus were looked for in vain, although the section where it may have been growing might have been passed during the night. Mid-summer is not the time to see the flora of lower California at its best, and the meager display seen at Los Angeles was both a surprise and a disappointment. The weather was hot, and the grass and other vegetation was dried up and anything but attractive to one coming from a part of the country where such conditions never prevail. The roads, however, good, wide and smooth, are the delight of motorists, and many beautiful and costly bungalows were seen throughout the city and environs. Hollywood and Pasadena are both beautiful suburbs, the speaker said, but distressingly devoid of the floral ornamentation that a visitor would naturally expect to see. The flower shops in Los Angeles were found to be numerous, but the majority of them were small and not as up-to-date in equipment, as he would like to have seen, notable exceptions, however, being the establishments of the Redondo Floral Co. and Wright's Flower Shop, Inc.; also Fremont & Lewis' store, San Diego. Great forests of nut trees were noticeable. The native phoenix was seen here in great numbers and of immense size and the olive and pepper were much in evidence.

San Francisco impressed him as being a wonderful city, showing the result of great American enterprise in the restoration of its damaged sections to an amazing degree of structural magnificence. Among the flowers seen in the streets and parks, lantanas and pansies were the most conspicuous varieties and were a grand sight in themselves. Belladonnas, too, were numerous and the dahlias were of a quality that had never been surpassed. The establishments of the San Francisco florists were highly commended by Mr. Breitmeyer, all being well equipped, large and clean, with good stock offered by genteel, intelligent, courteous clerks, who were well posted in the wares handled. In these stores many fine specimens of celosia were seen in variety and the rose and carnation stocks were surprisingly good. Many greenhouse and nursery establishments were to be seen and particular reference was made to the MacRorie-McLaren Co.'s range, where good land and excellent general arrangement were noticeable. The electrical display in this city, the vim in the movements of the people and the spirit shown, reminded one of New York more than any other American city.

The Panama-Pacific exposition, the speaker termed as highly successful, and he stated he could not account for the animus prompting the statements made by some critics, which one occasionally hears. The Palace of Horticulture was described as very fine, but the interior arrangement is not in keeping with the size and splendor of the structure itself. Canada is represented by an immense building, and the display therein, consisting of the various products of the Dominion, including those of mining and forestry, together with manufactured articles, reflects great credit on the enterprise and skill of the exhibitors, and unfolds to many surprised visitors the marvelous resources of this northern country. The Japanese buildings contain wonderful exhibits of manufactured products of that interesting country, and as one examines them and associates their merit and cheapness in price as compared with similar American wares, the peril of that country's competition is apparent. The Panama canal in miniature is a most interesting reproduction, reflecting vividly the master minds responsible for this great engineering feat and its great commercial importance. Italy was well represented, it was stated, and that country's display of paintings and statuary easily bears out the reputation it deservedly enjoys.

Golden Gate Park was described as containing 1300 acres, and its evergreens and other wonderful plantings deserving of unstinted praise, the sight of these alone justifying a long journey. The big surprise, however, came when thousands of acres of cabbages near the city, all grown for the New York market, were seen.

Portland, Ore., was next visited, and here the most conspicuous thing noted were the hedges of Mme. Caroline Testout roses, this variety appearing to thrive outdoors better than any other. Immense trees, so often heard of, were seen here and in fact all along the route from San Francisco, fully measuring up to the wonderful size accredited to them. The drives about the city are many and beautiful and lead into the extended boundaries, where are to be seen sub-divisions far in excess of the probable needs for future growth, but due to the energy and enterprise of enthusiastic real estate dealers. The florists here were found to be most affable and eager to extend trade courtesies, and the stores were as large and well equipped as those of eastern cities. Seattle and Tacoma were found to be alike in these respects. Tacoma has a stadium with a seating capacity of 25,000 persons which proved a point of interest. Seattle presented the appearance of an immense park. It is a fast growing city and has great shipping interests and facilities. Then followed a visit to Butte, Mont. Here the Columbia gardens presented a great display, 25,000 pansy plants being seen in one bed. During the flowering season the school children are allowed to pick the blooms each Friday. The city is barren of trees and impressed the speaker as a most desolate place in comparison with the other cities visited on the trip. The Butte Floral Co. has a large and well appointed establishment here.

Arriving at Lewistown, Mont., a small town 250 miles distant, Mr. and Mrs. Breitmeyer spent a few weeks with their married daughter, and enjoyed what seemed to them the most delightful and interesting of all Montana scenery, with pure air and refreshingly cool water, both keenly relished. The Dakotas were found most barren and uninteresting, and his return to Michigan and "dear old Detroit," after viewing such an expanse of western country, awakened in him anew his appreciation and love for his native city—Detroit, Michigan.

A hearty vote of thanks was given the speaker for his interesting address, which was enjoyed by 25 members of the club and two visitors, J. J. Cairns, of Philadelphia, Pa., and Elmer D. Smith, of Adrian, Mich. J. F. S.

Kansas City.

SUPPLY PLENTIFUL; PRICES FAIR.

Due to fine, sunshiny weather, there was an increase in supply during the past week and prices dropped accordingly. Carnations are very plentiful and are reasonable in price. Chrysanthemums are arriving in larger quantity and are better in flower, and retail from $3 to $6 per dozen. American Beauty roses are not to be seen in any great number and sell readily at $5 a dozen and up. Some very fine lily of the valley is now seen on the market. Funeral work is still holding the pace, orders for decorations are more plentiful and plant orders are on the increase.

NOTES.

Juvenal & Son, formerly in business at White Church, Kan., have announced the opening of their greenhouse in the rear of their store in this city, October 30 to November 6. Both greenhouse and flower shop are nicely arranged and good stock is displayed. A souvenir will be given to each visitor.

Henry Kusik & Co. report trade in general very good, with an increase in shipping orders. Their carnations are excellent, and roses, while not seen in quantity, are of fine quality, and the same may be said of American Beauties. This firm is receiving some very fine lily of the valley.

T. J. Noll & Co. report trade, both local and shipping, as being very good during the past week. Carnations, chrysanthemums and roses are more plentiful and the quality is improving.

Arthur Newell reports general trade very good, with plenty of funeral work and a good sale of filled baskets, which are always a good seller at his establishment.

The W. L. Rock Flower Co. has a large crop of carnations at the greenhouses, and chrysanthemums, especially in white and yellow, are looking fine.

W. J. Barnes is cutting some excellent chrysanthemums and his carnation stock is of good quality. Orders for decorations have been numerous.

August Luther, Jr., is cutting very good chrysanthemum stock. The demand for pot plants is also good, cyclamens selling especially well.

The Peterson Floral Co. have remodeled their store and it presents a very attractive appearance. Their stock is well displayed.

Miss Lou E. Boggess reports business very good. She is kept quite busy with funeral work.

Mrs. T. A. Mosely, on the Kansas side, has had several very good decorations lately.

Alpha Elberfield will probably attend both the Chicago and Cleveland fall shows.

J. Hepting is cutting carnations of good quality.

Visitors: Carl H. Vaughan, representing Vaughan's Seed Store, Chicago and New York; E. C. Pruner, Chicago; M. Simanton, Falls City, Neb.

Cincinnati.

CHRYSANTHEMUM RECEIPTS HEAVY.

Heavy receipts in chrysanthemums and the holding on of outdoor dahlias and cosmos have resulted in the market crowding up somewhat and has caused the prices to lower slightly. Local demand is fair and steady while shipping business is very good. The supply of choice blooms in chrysanthemums up to this time has been rather limited and they have sold very well. The shorter stock is very plentiful and more than able to take care of all present needs. Pompons have been selling very well. Roses are very plentiful. Enough American Beauties are to be had to take care of all present needs. Carnations have only a fair market. Easter lilies continue to be plentiful, but the demand for them has slackened considerably, and they have dropped a few points in price. Other offerings include lily of the valley, orchids, cosmos, dahlias, rubrum lilies and single violets.

NOTES.

C. E. Critchell has been having a good call for his wild smilax.

Geo. Lampert motored to this city from Xenia, Ohio, October 24.

Visitors: Frank Farney, of M. Rice Co., Philadelphia, Pa.; Henry Ehrhardt, Sidney, Ohio; A. Miller, of A. Henderson & Co., Chicago, Ill. H.

Kroeschell Books Large Orders.

Kroeschell Bros. Co., 452 West Erie street, Chicago, is having a very busy season and has booked several unusually large orders recently, among which is that of the Albert Dickinson Co., which calls for a 600 H. P. water-tubed boiler to be used in heating their new establishment at 2750 West Thirty-fifth street, Chicago. This firm has just shipped two of its new patented water tubed and fire tubed steam boilers, each 225 H. P., to Omaha, Neb.

WAVERLEY, MASS.—The W. W. Edgar Co. has been successful in a suit against John L. Condon, formerly connected with the American Auxiliary Heating Co., Boston, Mass., to recover the proceeds of the sale of a boiler belonging to the W. W. Edgar Co.

The Late George Economopolus.

George Economopolus, one of the proprietors of the Alpha Floral Co., 146 South Wabash avenue, Chicago, died suddenly at the University hospital Wednesday morning, October 27, at 6 o'clock from ptomaine poisoning. He was out to dinner on Monday evening, October 25, with a party of friends and was taken so sick the next day that he was removed to the hospital for treatment, but his condition was not considered serious and even the attending physician was surprised when he passed away so suddenly on Wednesday. Mr. Economopolus was 37 years of age, and was born in Zoraphona, Greece, coming to this country at an early age and locating in Chicago. He has been engaged in the florist business for nearly 15 years, and for a time had charge of the stand in the Union Depot. He later opened a place in the basement at 106 South Wabash avenue, where he met with such good success that he and Gus. Pappas of Des Moines, Ia., opened a new store upstairs where he was in active charge up to the time of his death. He had an operation for appendicitis recently, and was only out of the hospital for a few months, but was feeling in the best of health, and his sudden death came as a surprise to his many friends in the trade. He was a bachelor and the only relatives he has in the city are a brother, Gus. Economopolus, and a cousin, Peter Duris. Mr. Economopolus, or George, as the trade knew him best, was a man of good habits and had a host of friends in the trade here as well as elsewhere. No arrangements have been made as yet for the funeral, as the relatives are awaiting the arrival of his business partner, Mr. Pappas, who has charge of the Des Moines, Ia., store, and who is expected to reach here Thursday, October 28.

Lily of the Valley Pips.

Reports from Hamburg and vicinity are that the season has been favorable for lily of the valley and that an unusually good crop of forcing pips has been harvested.

Shaw's Garden Banquet.

The annual banquet given to horticulturists by Shaw's garden, St. Louis, Mo., will be held November 19 this year, when J. K. M. L. Farquhar, of Boston, Mass., will be one of the speakers. The meeting of the Missouri Botanical Garden Alumni Association will be held at 10 a. m. the same day in the Graduate Lecture room.

American Dahlia Society.

The executive committee of the American Dahlia Society will meet at the society's office, Saturday, November 6, at 10 a. m., to make settlement of all premium bills and plan for the work of the coming year, including arrangements for one or more exhibitions, invitations having been received from several cities. The society is making rapid growth, additions to the membership list being a daily occurrence.

San Diego Exposition In 1916.

Los Angeles, Calif., October 21.—Continuation of the Panama-California exposition at San Diego throughout the year 1916, was practically decided upon at a meeting at the chamber of commerce, attended by representatives of nearly a 100 commercial and civic bodies of Los Angeles and by 20 leading citizens of San Diego, provided enough money is pledged. It is estimated a fund of $178,000 will be necessary. The conference voted that the exposition, enriched by the accession of the choicest of the foreign exhibits at San Francisco, should be kept open during all of 1916.

Gas Damages Awarded Donaldson.

The suit of John Donaldson of Patchogue against the Newtown Gas Company for damage to his greenhouse stock in his greenhouses at Elmhurst, L. I., has been settled. The company paid Mr. Donaldson over $2,700 in settlement. William H. Siebrecht, Jr., of Long Island City, was Mr. Donaldson's attorney.

The settlement of this suit is of more than usual interest inasmuch as the gas main which caused the trouble was practically new, having been laid only two years prior to the damage and, furthermore, no one ever smelled gas in Mr. Donaldson's greenhouse. Nevertheless, the growth of his stock of Easter lilies was stunted and his calla lilies destroyed. Experts who were called into the case pronounced illuminating gas as the cause of injury to the plants and flowers, and this was substantiated by certain experiments which Mr. Siebrecht caused to be conducted.

Shortly after this leakage Mr. Donaldson sold his property in Elmhurst and moved to Patchogue. His son, Alexander Donaldson, now conducts the florist business at his father's old place. The first winter that the son used the same house, there was another leak, or a continuation of the same leak, which resulted in another suit against the same gas company.

State Florists' Association of Indiana.

The November meeting of the State Florists' Association of Indiana will be held at Richmond, Tuesday, November 2, instead of Monday, November 3, as announced at the Anderson meeting. Please make due note of the above change and arrange to spend the day with our Richmond friends. Indianapolis florists will leave the Union station at 7:05 a. m., via the Pennsylvania R. R. Buy tickets to Easthaven, which stop in directly opposite the plant of the E. G. Hill Co.

O. E. STEINKAMP, Sec'y.

Potter Buys McCallum's Branch.

We are pleased to announce that Wm. Q. Potter has purchased our Cleveland branch and from this date on will conduct it for himself, entirely independent of the Pittsburgh store, from which he has severed his connections. All accounts due the Cleveland branch are payable to Mr. Potter, who will also pay any obligations of the Cleveland branch. Mr. Potter has made a success of the Cleveland venture and our hearty wishes go with the sale that he may make it still a greater success.

Southern Appreciation.

Vice-President-Elect Kerr, of the Society of American Florists, in tendering his resignation as a director of the society, writes President Welch as follows:

"Please accept my resignation as a member of the board of directors of the Society of American Florists, to become effective January 1, 1916, due to my election as vice-president of the Society of American Florists at San Francisco, which office becomes effective at that time. In resigning this office I want to express to you my gratefulness for being appointed on said board. I certainly have felt greatly honored. It has been the means of the southern florists coming in for recognition in this great organization. We have felt the need of this society for many years, but failed to develop enough interest in the south or to take sufficient interest in its affairs to deserve recognition in the past. If I could show you the many letters received from the florists throughout the south it would prove to you their appreciation also in this matter."

Price of Gasoline Advances.

The Standard Oil Co. of Indiana advanced the price of gasoline October 25 one cent to 12½ cents per gallon. In 100-gallon lots the price will be 11½ cents. Refined oil prices also will advance one-half cent per gallon to seven cents.

Florists' Telegraph Delivery.

The meeting of the Florists' Telegraph Delivery will be held November 11, at nine a. m., Hotel Hollenden, Cleveland, O., instead of the Hotel Statler as stated in previous notice.

ALBERT POCHELON, Sec'y.

Boston:

CHRYSANTHEMUMS RULE THE MARKET.

Business has fallen considerably from its high standard owing to the larger quantities of chrysanthemums which are being shipped to the markets. The season is now in full swing for this popular fall flower and they are the largest factor in the trade at present. Such varieties as Halliday, Polly Rose, Pacific Supreme, Early Snow and October Frost are most commonly seen. Pompons have commenced to become plentiful, both in cut blooms and as pot plants. Carnations have fallen off in price, $2 per 100 being about the average. The demand is light, white and pink varieties being the best sellers. Roses, also, have fluctuated in price somewhat, but the demand is fairly good considering the general depression of business. Violets are becoming more plentiful, as are yellow marguerites. The plant trade runs mostly to chrysanthemums, cyclamens and ferns, the market being very good for them.

MARKET FLOWER SHOW.

The exhibition of flowers under the name of the Market Flower show, held in Mechanics' building, October 23-30 under the auspices of the Boston Co-operative Flower Market, did not prove to be the success that it was anticipated it would be. The affair seemed to suffer from lack of attention on the part of the growers, and in the chrysanthemum section the prizes offered were so small that few entries were made. The most notable feature of the show was the table decorations, which as usual attracted much attention from the public. Wm. Elliot had a fine display of roses, Hadley, Ophelia and Sunburst being of especially good quality. The carnation exhibit brought out the keenest competition. A. Roper of Tewksbury showed a variety of seedlings. M. A. Patten, of the same city, also made a creditable display; Edward Winkler, of Wakefield, displayed a vase of his new seedling, Morning Glow; E. K. Farr, A. E. Eaton and James Wheeler also had exhibits. Norris Comley staged good Chrysolora and Pacific Supreme chrysanthemums, and also showed roses, violets and carnations. A very interesting display of dahlias was arranged by E. F. Dwyer & Son, Lynn, Mass. The classes for flowering and foliage plants brought out two contestants, Wm. W. Edgar Co., Waverley, Mass., and Mrs. M. Flood of Woburn, Mass.

NOTES.

It is well known that W. R. Nicholson, of Framingham, always has as fine a quality of chrysanthemums as is shipped to Boston, but this year his flowers are even better than ever. Saturday, October 23, he had a dozen Ramapo, which were the finest of any variety seen in Boston this year. His October Frost, also, were remarkable for their size and vigorous appearance. He is also cutting fine flowers of Mme. Touset, Chieftain and a buff sport from Mme. Touset. His pompons are coming in, Skibo being the leader at present.

E. H. Wilson, of the Arnold Arboretum, gave an interesting lecture on Japan, with stereopticon views at Horticultural hall, October 19. Some fine dahlias were displayed by W. A. Manda, Inc., South Orange, N. J., represented by Eber Holmes. Buddhaia magnifica grandiflora was also represented in a fine vase.

Penn, the Florist, is contemplating opening a branch of his Bromfield street store at the corner of Tremont street and Hamilton place, the store which was a short time ago occupied by Thos. F. Galvin, Inc. The advantage of this location can readily be seen as Tremont street is one of the best "flower" streets in the city.

One of the most thrifty and vigorous looking houses of chrysanthemums in the vicinity of Boston is that of Carl Streiferd of East Braintree. He grows only the newer and best varieties, every plant of which is a credit to his skill as a grower.

A. Roper, of Tewksbury, is cutting a nice lot of carnations. He has two new dark cerise seedlings, which look very promising. Alice Coombs is just commencing to bear, and he will have a good crop of this beautiful pink variety within a short time.

Wm. Ward, of Waterford, Me., who a short time ago retired from the pansy growing business, sends word that he has shot a bear, two deer and has had good partridge shooting all fall.

The annual meeting of the Massachusetts Horticultural Society will be held at Horticultural hall November 13. The principal business of the meeting will be the election of officers.

Libbe, the Florist, of Lynn, Mass., has sold out his business to Hart of that city. Mr. Libbe was one of the pioneer florists of Lynn, having been in the business 20 years.

The Florists' Bowling League held a meeting at the Boston alleys October 21. It is well to state that the teams roll candle pins. Bresnahan, of Galvin's team, had the high score for three strings, with 307. The standing is as follows:

Business is rapidly taking on the usual peace volume and is well up to the average in all sections of the country, notwithstanding war conditions. Stocks of plants and supplies in the hands of retailers are said to be unusually low and with the demand almost normal this seems an unusually good time to interest the buyers.

Rates as usual, $1.00 per inch, single column width; $30.00 per page of thirty inches. Usual discounts on time contracts.

CHRYSANTHEMUMS MORE PLENTIFUL.

Stock is more plentiful this week than it has been for some time and the market is beginning to weaken as the writer predicted it would in last week's market report. Chrysanthemums are arriving in larger quantities and are not bringing the prices that they have been, although very good stock is being offered. Pompons are also in large supply and are quite a factor in the market now. Roses are none too plentiful as yet, and while there is plenty in nearly all the varieties with the exception of Mrs. Chas. Russell to go around a few brisk days would find the market completely cleaned up in this line. Carnations are in good supply, and while they have been selling at greatly reduced prices the past week an advance may be expected before the week is over, for several dealers have large orders booked for them for All Saints' day, and the same holds good for chrysanthemums, and if the demand is anywhere near like it has been in former years the market will be pretty well cleaned up in all lines before the week is over. Orchids are in large supply and some very fancy stock is obtainable at very reasonable prices. Lily of the valley is more plentiful but is in good demand, and there is no surplus to speak of when the day's sales are over. Lilies are in large enough supply to fill all orders. Violets, both single and double, are more plentiful and in good demand. Sweet peas are reaching the market in larger numbers and the same holds good for snapdragons, daisies, calendulas and mignonette. Smilax is seen in large supply at many of the wholesale stores but is not moving as well as it should. A few asters and gladioli are still seen but they do not cut much figure in the market now. The demand has been very erratic the past week, and at times stock is cleaned up well each day and then accumulates to such extent that one expects prices to drop still lower, when suddenly the demand sets in again and the stock again disappears. Prices in general are not as high as they were last week but may advance considerably before the week is over on account of the heavy southern demand for All Saints' day. Greens of all kinds are plentiful and some very fancy boxwood and wild smilax is being offered. Many of the retail florists are featuring hegonias and cyclamens in their window displays the past week. The supply houses are very busy and the large supply of ruscus, red frieze, etc., that one sees displayed on the counters reminds one that the holidays are rapidly approaching.

years, commencing May 1, 1916, but they expect to be located there as soon as possible and probably about November 8. New fixtures will be added and when the store is complete Manager Schupp's firm will have one of the finest wholesale establishments in the Great Central Market.

R. E. Kurowski, vice-president of the John C. Moninger Co., moved into his new home at 221 Woodbine avenue, Wilmette, this week.

BEAUTIES-ROSES-CARNATIONS

John Poehlmann is again on duty at Poehlmann Bros. Co.'s this week, but weighs 40 pounds less than he did before he was suddenly taken sick about two weeks ago. He is feeling as well as can be expected and his many friends are pleased to learn that he is able to be about and that an operation was unnecessary. Thos. Conlon, superintendent of the plant department, at Morton Grove, reports that his firm has received 6,000 azaleas this week from abroad, which will enable them to supply their customers at the holidays as in former years. It is rumored that Tony Gabel, foreman of the carnation range, will join the ranks of the benedicts in the near future, but the writer has been unable to learn who the lucky young lady is unless it be one of the charming young assistants in the Morton Grove office.

Miller & Musser, who were one of the first wholesale firms to locate near Lake street, on North Wabash avenue, are pleased with the fact that other wholesale firms are leasing space in the new LeMoine building, which is directly opposite their present location, for it means more business for them. N. P. Miller is very busy with work pertaining to the Grand Floral Festival, to be held in the Coliseum, November 9-14, for he is secretary, and is doing all he can to make the big event a success which it is going to be.

At Wieter Bros.' store the supply of chrysanthemums is steadily increasing, and among the varieties now offered are some especially well grown White and Pink Chieftain, Golden Salomon and Chrysolora. Elmer D. Smith & Co., of Adrian, Mich., sent two new seedling chrysanthemums to this house last week, one a white and the other a yellow seedling, to be judged and both appear to be in keeping with all the Smith introductions, and of which more will be heard of in the future.

H. C. Wullbrandt, proprietor of the Globe Greenhouses, 5315 West Madison street, is in Albany, Ga., where his pecan groves are located, so Mrs. Wullbrandt is looking after the store during his absence. The crop on his twenty-six acres promises to be as large as last season, notwithstanding the unusually dry season, when it did not rain for 90 days. He will be back in time to attend the Grand Floral Festival to be held in the Coliseum, November 9-14.

Old Joe Osborne, hermit, who was murdered last week for his supposed wealth, was an uncle of George Osborne, well known retail florist at 5813 South Hermitage avenue. The police have not yet located the murderers, but are working on several clues and are confident that they will soon be able to lay their hands on the gully parties.

O. A. Tonner is showing a good supply of chrysanthemums at her store and says that her returns to her growers last week included one of the largest checks that she ever mailed to any one party since she has been in business, which is due principally to the fact that stock brought unusually high prices during October.

Peter Reinberg is cutting from a good crop of White Killarney roses which are good property and clean up nicely each day. This firm has donated two cash prizes, $15 and $10 each, for the best arranged vase of Richmond roses at the Grand Floral Festival to be held in the Coliseum, November 9-14.

Chas. W. McKellar is offering some pumpkins at his store this week which were grown by Mrs. McKellar on her farm in Niles township and which are in good demand by the local retail florists, who slice them open and use them to good advantage for basket work in their window displays.

Bassett & Washburn are cutting some very fancy pompons, which are selling well at their store this week. This firm has fitted up their new office in grand style by equipping it with the latest office fixtures which are in keeping with their new salesrooms.

C. H. Bookedis, proprietor of the store in the Claypool Hotel, Indianapolis, Ind., was in the city, October 25, buying stock for a large decoration he has on this week. He was formerly in the employ of John Mangel and is well known in the local market.

Hoerber Bros. are starting to cut Hoosier Beauty roses quite heavily, which were added to their list last season and are reaching their store in splendid condition. Chrysanthemums are one of the chief offerings at this house this week.

H. B. Kennicott says that business at Kennicott Bros. Co.'s store has been very good all this month and that stock is cleaning up well in all lines with the exception of chrysanthemums, which are rapidly becoming more plentiful.

The Chicago Flower Growers' Association is receiving some exceptionally fine Killarney Brilliant roses from the Willworth Farm Greenhouses at Downers Grove and which are in good demand at the store.

Miss Mabel Curran, daughter of James Curran, 2909 Archer avenue, and Charles Quinlan were married in this city Wednesday, October 27.

T. E. Waters, manager of Poehlmann Bros. Co.'s supply department, has his right hand bandaged as a result of blood poisoning, but he is on the job as usual at the store.

Erne & Klingel are showing a fine grade of pompons which one of their growers produced in cold frames this season and which are fully equal to greenhouse grown stock.

Kyle & Foerster have never regretted the change in location that they made last year and like their present quarters on the ground floor a little bit more each day.

Nick Thinnies' son Joe is the latest addition to the John Kruchten Co.'s store force and promises to become as good a wholesale man as his father is a grower.

George Perdikas, 407 South Wabash avenue, who recently underwent an operation, is able to be about again and is attending to his duties at the store.

L. Hocckner entertained Peter Bauman and Herbert Hansen of the Peter Reinberg store force at his home at Crystal Lake, Sunday, October 24.

Robert Northam says he has not had so many roses to handle at George Reinberg's wholesale store in a long time as he did this week.

Miss L. A. Tonner will leave in a few days for Georgia to visit her pecan grove, which is proving to be a very good investment.

Walter Lagerlof, formerly with the A. L. Randall Co., has opened a new restaurant at West Washington street and Fifth avenue.

Robert Newcomb, of the W. W. Barnard Co., returned last week from Wisconsin, where he made a tour of the trade.

Ernest Rober, of Wilmette, reports the arrival of a carload of azaleas this week which came through in good condition.

The Lawndale Floral Co., 3212 West Twenty-second street, is sporting a new White delivery truck.

Weiland & Risch cut their first indoor gladioli this week and report a ready demand for same.

BUCKBEE'S BIG 'MUMS

ARE HERE

Buckbee's chrysanthemums need no introduction to the buyer for they are recognized as the leader in this market and are head and shoulders above the rest as far as quality is concerned. We have a good supply of all the stock listed below and are splendidly equipped to handle rush shipping orders.

John Mangel has rented additional floor space on the second floor of the building he occupies at 17 East Monroe street, which will come in very handy during his busy season. He is also thinking seriously of enlarging his main store, further particulars of which will be announced later. His new conservatory continues to be a great drawing card and a fine line of chrysanthemum plants has been added to the display this week. Miss Lewis is enjoying a few days' vacation, which is being spent down state.

The Fleischman Floral Co. has a very attractive farm window this week in which pumpkin baskets artistically filled with cut flowers and stacks of corn placed here and there as it came from the field plays an important part. Mr. Edgar, of Lancaster, Pa., who joined the Fleischman force recently, likes his new surroundings first rate and thinks there is no place like Chicago.

Fred Nelson, manager of the George Wittbold Co.'s retail department, reports business very good with unusually large numbers of wedding orders. He is busy getting the Wittbold display, which will cover 180 square feet of floor space, ready for the Grand Floral Festival to be held at the Coliseum, November 9-14.

The Venetian Flower Shop, located in the basement at 15 East Washington street, owned by Peter and Willie Sgoros, will move into the store directly above them on the main floor about November 1.

W. A. Jacob, who is now representing the Illinois Pipe & Manufacturing Co., 2113 South Jefferson street, reports business as good with many new orders arriving each day.

Ronsley, 106 South Dearborn street, has two large wedding orders booked for this week.

CHICAGO, ILL.

Joseph C. Craig, 120 South Wabash avenue, had a large number of orders for the Racey funeral, October 21, which included one from the city council that called for a beautiful large standing wreath of White Killarney roses, orchids and lily of the valley. Quite a number of people are under the impression that Craig does not do a very big business because he is located in a basement, but they are very much mistaken, for he filled one of the largest funeral orders that was ever placed in this city when Archbishop Quigley died several months ago. In addition to the many orders for floral pieces he used over 12,000 yards of bunting to decorate the tomb at Mt. Carmel cemetery, which cost on an average of eight cents a yard to drape. Mr. Craig's son, Herbert, who assists his brother Arthur at the store, has been confined to his home for several weeks with a severe attack of pneumonia, but is getting along as nicely as can be expected and is now reported to be out of danger.

A. Lange had a flower show of his own at his East Madison street store last week when he had on display an exceptionally fine assortment of specimen dahlias and chrysanthemums. Some of the bronze chrysanthemums he offered measured fully eight inches across and attracted much attention, as did the Bonnaffon, which were the first of the season. Mr. Lange has just added a new line of decorated artware which is proving to be a good seller and looks very attractive when filled with flowers.

A party representing several California violet growers has been calling on the local retail florists the past week, but owing to the arrival of the heavy shipments of double violets from the east early in the week he did not do as well as he expected to. He left for New York, October 23, to call on the trade, but how he will be able to compete with the stock grown there is a problem. He has the goods shipped direct to him and fills all orders from the stock that he carries around with him in a basket.

At A. T. Pyfer & Co.'s store pompons and chrysanthemums are the principal offerings, although the supply of roses and carnations is nearly sufficient to meet the demands. The shipping trade is very good at this house and the demand for stock for All Saints' day is very encouraging.

The poster for the Grand Floral Festival is attracting a great deal of attention and is one of the finest that was ever gotten out. Many of the retail florists are featuring it in their window displays and the Chicago Tribune reproduced it in their issue of October 25.

Percy Jones' store force is busy bunching boxwood, which they are handling in quantity, and making up magnolia wreaths, which are being sent out on approval two in a carton and on which H. Van Gelder agrees to pay express both ways if they are not satisfactory.

A. L. Vaughan & Co. are receiving regular shipments of chrysanthemums this season as usual from the H. W. Buckbee greenhouses, at Rockford, that include some unusually large bronze ones which many of the loop stores are featuring in their window displays this week.

P. W. Peterson and Wm. Kelsner, of the J. D. Thompson Carnation Co., Joliet, and Allie Zech, of Zech & Mann, visited several of the growers at Maywood last Saturday, October 23, making the trip in Mr. Peterson's auto.

Curtis Kindler, of the Raedlein Basket Co., says that the demand for stock has been very brisk all month and that they have added several expert basket makers to their force to handle the increased business.

Friends of J. C. Butler, cashier for Poehlmann Bros. Co., held a surprise party in honor of the anniversary of his nineteenth birthday at his home, Saturday, October 23, when a delightful time was had by all.

The Payne-Jennings Co. has added the youngest advertising expert in existence to its force, the seven-and-one-half-pound youngster arriving at the home of Mr. Jennings Tuesday, October 26.

The Chicago Florists' Club will meet at the Hotel Bismarck, Thursday, November 4, at 8 p. m. As this is the last meeting before the Grand Floral Festival, a large attendance is expected.

Ed. Klamm, the popular young florist of Whiting, Ind., stole a march on his many friends in the trade here when he was quietly married, October 15.

The A. L. Randall Co. is painting the interior of its new store, which greatly improves the general appearance of the establishment.

The new warehouse that Vaughan's Seed Store is building at Morton Grove is practically completed, the erection of which was directed by Albert Erickson.

Joseph Ziska & Sons are very busy in their wire department, and will soon start work on the rings for the holiday wreaths.

Harry Rowe will open a new store at 125 North Wabash avenue, opposite Marshall Field & Co.'s store.

It is rumored that a large range of greenhouses will be erected in this vicinity in the near future.

Visitors: Thomas Knight, of the Knight & Struck Co., New York; J. Karins, representing H. A. Dreer, Inc., Philadelphia, Pa.

Chicago Bowling.

The team representing the trade in the North Chicago League is making a very good showing and from last reports was tied for first place with two other teams. Following are the scores for last week:

Players.	1st Game.	2d Game.	3d Game.
Huebner	179	230	193
Lorman	133	147	171
Zech	177	183	166
Price	171	180	157
Olsem	192	191	167

Totals 852 931 854

The team representing the Florists' Club and leading in the Mercantile league has been stirring things up in the alleys and a glance at the scores will show that every one of the players bowled over 200 in at least one of the three games played. Allie Zech was high man of the evening, and averaged 203 for each of the three games. He started off with 241 pins in the first, 205 in the second and 183 in the last. The scores for the evening were as follows:

Players.	1st Game.	2d Game.	3d Game.
Huebner	157	174	208
Lorman	183	203	121
Zech	241	205	183

DEMAND LIGHTENS AND PRICES DROP.

In the business race of the past week, demand punctured a tire, while supply, which has lately had a hard struggle to keep within hailing distance, caught up and even forged ahead. Almost every line is now full to overflowing, particularly chrysanthemums, and how prices have dropped; the $3 a dozen chrysanthemums of last week lag a bit at $2, and from a third to a half is the reduction from last weeks' prices for the same quality of flowers. The reason for this is that there is much more stock offered, and for the time being there is a halt in the demand. The roses are fine and improving daily and the newer sorts, Ophelia, Hadley and Hoosier Beauty, look quite able to hold their own. Ophelia is certainly making good. American Beauties are excellent and are first selection for the choice gift. Carnations are improving each week, but were a bit slow at one-third below the top prices. Dahlias are about out of it; they were splendid last week but Saturday and Sunday frosts wound them up for this season. Cosmos can now be had by the wagonload, and 50 cents buys the first hundred, with low figures for quantity lots. Many street men are making Christmas money out of this flower. Callas have appeared, Easter lilies have been good stock, bringing very fair prices, lily of the valley returns are good looking, while cattleyas are becoming more gilt edged. Snapdragons and lupines are choice goods, being especially fitted for debutante bunches and baskets. They are snapped up quickly. Take it all in all, the business may be said to be satisfactory, but a little speeding up at the selling end would be appreciated by the growers.

NOTES.

The essay committee of the florists' club evidently want the members to loosen up, oil their tongues, speed their thinking gear, etc., as they have provided a three months' "gabfest." Just glance over this list of explosives. Bang one—"Is it good for the business to keep flower vendors off the streets?" Bang two—"Is it wise for the producer to depend entirely on the enterprise of the retailer for marketing his products?" Bang three—"Is a grower or his agent entitled to sell both at wholesale and retail?" In these battles, should the negatives win, the club will bury the dead, care for the wounded and arrange the terms of peace.

All the trade are delighted with the prospects of the coming national show. When so many of the national flower show committee, from all parts of the country, take time to attend their meeting here, it shows what a country-wide interest is being taken. All the committee are agreed to a man that for preparedness this exhibition is ahead of any previous effort. The committee spent a busy day after the sessions looking over some of the large places around this city.

The Robt. Craig Co. is having a run on crotons, which are being used by the best trade in connection with choice chrysanthemums in bouquet Connecticut Horticultural Society.

This society held its regular meeting October 22, and after routine business had been taken care of, the committee appointed at the last meeting to arrange for a chrysanthemum show reported progress. Several places were suggested in which to hold this show, but no decision has been arrived at thus far. The committee and members are heartily in favor of making the exhibition free to the public of Hartford and vicinity. Much interest was displayed by the members, and if all is well, the coming show will be one of the best ever given by the society. The meeting was well attended, one new member being elected.

ALFRED DIXON, Sec'y.

TARRYTOWN, N. Y.—Secretary E. W. Neubrand of the Tarrytown Horticultural Society announces that the John D. Rockefeller prizes in class 32, covering arranged basket of cut chrysanthemums, any foliage permitted, will be: First prize, $10; second prize, $6; third prize, $4. The awards in this class will be made the first day of the exhibition, November 3. Entries must reach the secretary on or before October 30.

SLOW BUSINESS WITH INCREASED SUPPLY.

Compared with the first two weeks of October, the business of the past week was rather slow for the wholesalers. The reasons were almost unseasonably warm weather and a great increase in the supply of stock. The supply of chrysanthemums is constantly on the increase and they loom large, not only in the wholesale district, but also in the public eye. Every retail store now features the chrysanthemums, and their window decorations with liberal accompaniments of autumn foliage, are striking reminders that the "Queen of Autumn" reigns. The supply of roses has also been considerably on the increase. There is always a demand for roses, but with so many of the other big sisters about, it is a case similar to what the Irish poet, Tom Moore, wrote of: "I could be happy with either, were the other dear charmer away." The supply of carnations is also on the increase, and some very good ones, for the season, are arriving, but they are also overshadowed by the chrysanthemums. Lily of the valley is again plentiful enough to supply all demands and the price has fallen off. There are some good single violets on the market, but the doubles are yet of a very inferior quality. Dahlias are yet on the market, but failing.

October 25.—It usually happens in the wholesale cut flower district that in the week before election day, business is dull, and from what we have seen of the opening, this week gives no promise of being an exception to the rule. The big parade for female suffrage, October 23, seems to have scared the brewers, saloonkeepers and their sympathizers stiff, and they are not buying flowers. Temperature, 10 degrees below the corresponding date of last year.

NOTES.

At the retail store of Thomas F. Galvin, Inc., 561 Fifth avenue, Manager Frank L. Deery has within the past week shown very good window decorations. Mr. Deery is a fine artist and has had good material in a great stock of the prize winning dahlias of George L. Stillman of Westery, R. I. Mr. Stillman has been at the store and taken a number of large orders for roots.

There are but few sweet peas, comparatively speaking, on the market, but William P. Ford, 107 West 28th street, has very fine stock of the orchid flowered varieties from the range of George T. Schunemann, Baldwin, L. I. Though Mr. Ford carries a good variety of stock, he specializes in sweet peas, bouvardia and lilacs. He is likely to have lilac for Thanksgiving.

C. B. Hanft, A. A. Hanft and E. G. Hanft, announce that they will open a retail store at 692 Madison avenue, near 62d street, as soon as alterations in the store are completed. This will be a different firm from the Hanft Brothers that recently failed in business.

At the retail store of Pappas Brothers, 2216 Broadway, we have recently noticed fine effects in window decorations. Chrysanthemums and dahlias with autumn foliage, all artistically arranged, make their windows noteworthy Broadway attractions.

At the range of Dailedouze Brothers there is a great stock of carnations coming on. The roses, Ophelia, Hoosier Beauty and Mignon, are also very successfully grown. They are also cutting fine blooms of the yellow chrysanthemum, Eldorado.

S. Masur, of Brooklyn, has recently been busy with decorative work at the Gedney Farm hotel, White Plains,

A. L. YOUNG, Pres. and Treas.
H. R. SCOMMODAU, Vice-Pres.
F. LIGHTFOOT, Sec'y.

54 West 28th St.,
NEW YORK

We are pleased to announce the incorporation of A. L. Young & Co., which has been organized with a broad charter to conduct a Wholesale Florist business and any other business appertaining thereto, on co-operative principles, and which will therefore not be a close corporation. It will be open to all interested in the florist business, growers, retailers, etc., to become members and participate in the conducting of a business which they are all more or less interested in and thoroughly acquainted with, offering all an equal opportunity for promoting the welfare, progress and prosperity of their own business, and sharing in the benefits and profits of their own enterprise and industry.

We believe this the ideal method of conducting a wholesale florist business, especially under present conditions. It is desirable to secure a number of practical co-workers, therefore the capital stock has been divided into preferred shares at the popular price of $10.00 each. Full paid and non-assessable.

The President is reliable and capable and has conducted a profitable business successfully for over ten years and will continue, together with the co-operation of other members thoroughly trustworthy and reliable, to conduct this business even more successfully, which started July 1, 1915, entirely free from any liability or debt of any kind.

No officer shall receive any salary for his services as such until a minimum dividend of at least 6 per cent. has been earned on the stock. Systematic audits and reports compiled by competent accountants will be made at regular meetings.

The earnest support already given is gratifying, and is a sufficient guarantee of the success of the company and an assurance of the still greater success it is destined to become.

Only people interested in the florist business are invited to join us and become members. Send for particulars. Do not put this off until next month or next week. DO IT RIGHT NOW.

Yours for business,

A. L. YOUNG, Pres.

James J. Coogan, proprietor of the Coogan building, Sixth avenue and Twenty-sixth street, in which the New York Cut Flower Co., the Cut Flower Exchange and other wholesale florists are located, died suddenly of heart disease, October 24, in his seventieth year. He is survived by his widow, one daughter and three sons.

At the store of the Boulevard Floral Co., 2391 Broadway, we have recently noticed artistic window decorations in chrysanthemums and other fine stock.

Richard Wenham, well known as a buyer in the wholesale district, is again buying for Wadley & Smythe.

One of the finest auto delivery cars recently noticed in the wholesale district is McGovern's of Brooklyn.

Charles Matthews, of E. C. Horan's staff, is in poor health, and has gone to a Sullivan county, N. Y., resort, accompanied by his father.

A goodly number of yellow chrysanthemums were seen in the great suffrage parade, October 23. We trust our friends elsewhere will not think we exaggerate in calling the parade great. Everybody, even including the "antis," concedes it.

The quality of violets arriving has greatly improved during the past week. Percy W. Richters, manager of the United Cut Flower Co., Inc., is handling excellent stock. Much cooler weather has put snap into the violets.

Edwin J. Van Riper, for the past three years with the Growers' Cut Flower Co., has resigned and taken a position with Riedel & Meyer, Inc. "Van" is an experienced salesman and the soul of good nature, and popular in the street.

Walter Hunter, of Hunter & Sons, Englewood, N. J., was recently in this city. He stated that his father, John M. Hunter, who has been in California for some time, for his health, has recovered and will soon return home.

Joseph Levy, proprietor of the Brooklyn Wholesale Cut Flower Market, 356 Fulton street, is about to open another store at 408 Fulton street. Joe is attentive to business and deserves success.

Badgley & Bishop, Inc., are receiving exceptionally fine stock of the yellow chrysanthemum, Ramapo, and the white, Beatrice May.

At H. E. Froment's we have noticed exceptionally fine Hoosier Beauty, Ophelia and Sunburst roses.

P. J. Smith is handling very fine Hadley roses, chrysanthemums and lilies.

INCREASED SUPPLY LOWERS PRICES.

Bright, warm weather continues and with it an increase in supply, which has a tendency to lower prices. Some fine chrysanthemums are seen, but it seems very hard to get $4 per dozen for blooms that sold two years ago for $6. Carnations are now coming in more freely as well as roses. Violets are moving slowly and their keeping qualities are poor. The wholesalers are getting in novelties and preparing for the holiday rush. Smilax and all varieties of greens are moving fairly well.

NOTES.

Some nice Boston ferns are being raffled off at the Salsbury street fair and carnival. Ed Pieper and the official King's Jester are running booths. Paddy Patton is acting as clown.

Chas. H. Angermuller has been showing some fancy stock in roses, but these are not moving as well as they should owing to the influx of chrysanthemums.

The H. J. Weber & Sons Nursery Co. are consigning some fancy chrysanthemums, Chadwick variety, to the Wm. C. Smith Wholesale Floral Co.

Kalisch Bros.' aquarium is a beauty. They expect to raise many varieties of gold fish this winter. Ed. is also a very successful grower of orchids.

The Retail Florists' Association met October 18. Important business was transacted and an effort is being made to increase the membership.

Alex. Siegel will soon begin his bargain sales. He is always on the job when he can advertise a bargain to the public.

The annual chrysanthemum show at Shaw's garden will take place next week. A large attendance is expected.

Fred Alves, of George H. Angermuller's, occupies his spare moments inspecting florists' supplies.

Ostertag Bros. are making a fine show in house plants as well as chrysanthemum plants. W. F.

Newport, R. I.

At a regular meeting of the Newport Horticultural Society, the matter of merging the society, the Newport Garden Association and the Garden Club was discussed, but it was decided that such action would not be advisable. It was voted to hold a summer show jointly with the Garden Club in July, 1916, during the summer meeting. James Watts exhibited some splendid spikes of Amaryllis belladonna, for which he was awarded a cultural certificate of merit. This fine lily, of a reddish hue, comes into bloom when flowers are scarce. J. J. B.

THE Western Canners' Association held its annual meeting at the Hotel Sherman, Chicago, October 27-28.

EUGENE SCHAEFFEL, representing Vil-morin, Andrieux & Co., Paris, France, expects to reach Chicago about November 15.

"BUR CLOVER" is the title of Farmers' Bulletin No. 693, recently issued by the department of agriculture, Washington, D. C.

WAKEMAN, O.—Invitations are out for the wedding here of Miss Esther Marie French to Chas. S. Clark, Jr., October 30.

CHICAGO.—Prices for grass seed on the Board of Trade, October 27, were as follows: Timothy, $5.50 to $7.75 per 100 pounds.

ST. LOUIS, MO.—The St. Louis Seed Co. reports the receipt of nine bags garden seed and one case flower seeds from Europe.

CLEVELAND, O.—It is currently reported that the Stumpp & Walter Co., of New York, will soon locate a branch store in this city.

LOMPOC, CALIF.—Ant. C. Zvolanek, sweet pea specialist, contemplates retiring from business, and has offered his establishment for sale.

OVID, MICH.—Vaughan's Seed Store, of Chicago and New York, has purchased a brick building here, which will be used for storage purposes.

SAN FRANCISCO, CALIF.—Reports of October 15 indicate that the MacRorie-McLaren Co. and the Luther Burbank Co. are engaged in a legal controversy.

BOUQUET GREEN in northern districts is reported as coming forward in good supply and with continued bright, mild weather prospects are for average or lower prices for the season.

FALL BULB stocks are cleaning up fast. Nearly all jobbers are making inquiries of other jobbers for surplus lists and generally buying everything offered. This results in an evening up of odd lots which helps materially.

LOS ANGELES, CALIF.—Miss Helen Drew, daughter of O. H. Drew, who was formerly in the mail seed and plant business at Hibernia, N. Y., was married October 21, to Atlee Vail, of New York state, where the couple will reside.

J. S. MICHAEL, of the Sioux City Seed & Nursery Co., Sioux City, Ia., writes under date of October 20: "Late varieties of sweet corn will require a good drying season to put them in shape for seed purposes. Earlier sorts are practically safe."

A. HENDERSON & Co., Chicago, will move to a new location on State street, just north of Lake street, in November, where a retail seed business will be added to their present line. It is reported a west side house is seeking a retail store in the loop.

BOSTON, MASS.—Business has been very satisfactory with the seedsmen and the recent fine weather has made an unusually good demand for bulbs and lawn grass seed. In the case of bulbs the supply is running short on some items. Bulb planting has begun in the Public Garden, the order this year calling for 50,000 tulips.

VISITED CHICAGO: Lester L. Morse and wife, San Francisco, Calif.; O. L. Coulter, San Francisco, Calif.; Chas. Loehner, of Loehner & Co., New York; A. J. Brown, of the A. J. Brown Seed Co., Grand Rapids, Mich.; J. A. Schrenker, Jr., of the J. Chas. McCullough Seed Co., Cincinnati, O.; A. Mathers, with the Everett B. Clark Seed Co., Milford, Conn.; Chas. P. Guelf, with the Jerome B. Rice Seed Co., Cambridge, N. Y.; C. F. Wood, Louisville, Ky.; C. W. Scott, of the Yokohama Nursery Co., New York.

Hunter Wheeler.

L. W. Wheeler of the Pieters-Wheeler Seed Co., Gilroy, Calif., After Hunting Trip.

Dutch Bulbs.

Hillegom, October 3.—Tulip prices were again high at the close of the shipping season on forcing varieties and Darwins. The demand has been heavier than expected. England has been a heavy buyer of the forcing kinds. Germany has also been buying more than the growers expected. The demand from these two countries is attributed to their prospective inability to purchase the usual shipments of cut flowers from France and Italy.

The gladiolus crop is very poor indeed and prices will be 100 per cent higher. Large bulbs will be very scarce. The acreage was much reduced last spring, the small growers preferring to throw some of their planting stock away and turning their attention to vegetable culture.

The growing of vegetables for shipment to Germany is now occupying the attention of the farmers. The prices obtained for all produce is so high that growers find it more profitable than bulb growing. Moreover they can touch their money at once when a deal has been made and the cost of labor for this produce is less than for bulbs.

Spinach Seed Embargo.

Concerning the embargo which the government of Holland has placed on spinach seed, referred to in our issue of October 23, taking effect September 30, it seems many dealers in America have contracted for spinach seed for shipment to be made from Holland during October and November, and that this embargo will seriously interfere with their trade. It has therefore been suggested that they write to the secretary of state, also their congressman, requesting that they take the matter up with the proper authorities and endeavor to have the embargo raised as promptly as possible.

German Goods.

HOW IMPORTERS MAY OBTAIN THEM.

Washington, September 29 (Special).—Sir Richard Crawford, commercial attache of the British embassy, has indicated to the foreign trade advisors of the state department the procedure to be followed by their office in submitting claims for the issuance of permits guaranteeing the unmolested shipment from Rotterdam of goods of German, Austrian and Turkish production.

It was said at the state department today that a close observance of the requirements will aid in the prompt handling of cases at the embassy. In presenting the claims the importers should furnish the following information:

Name and address of applicant (United States citizen or corporation, unless otherwise stated).

Nature.

Quantities and value of goods.

Name and address of vendor.

Date on which order was given; or date on which contract for delivery of goods was concluded.

Place at which it was stipulated in the contract that on delivery of the goods there the importer would be liable for payment.

Proof of the date on which payment was effected and through what channel.

Are the goods now lying at Rotterdam (or if not, where) awaiting shipment to the United States, and who are the forwarding agents at the ports of sailing?

How are the goods packed and what marks do the cases, etc., bear?

How many cases are there? Are the applicants' statements substantiated by depositions in the form of affidavits?

Does the applicant submit in support of his application sworn copies of contract, originals of contracts or proofs of payment through American banks, in each case dated prior to March 1?

The Foreign Trade Advisers state if, upon examination, it is found that these proofs conform to requirements above indicated, they will be unofficially submitted by them to the British embassy. Unless the case conforms to all of the provisions required, and comes within the general terms of the cases which the British embassy indicates its willingness to receive, it would not be of aid to the importers to submit their cases to the Foreign Trade Advisers. The submission of incomplete cases would delay their consideration.

Clover Seed Acreage and Condition.

The acreage for clover seed in the United States this year is estimated to be about 114.5 per cent of last year's acreage, based upon reports to the bureau of crop estimates of the United States department of agriculture. The condition of the crop on September 1 is estimated at 80.3 per cent of normal, which compares with 77.4 per cent a year ago, and 79.7 the average of the past 10 years on September 1. These figures forecast a moderately larger crop this year than last year.

The acreage this year as compared with last year, and the condition on September 1 of this year and of last year, in percentage of normal in important states, are estimated respectively as follows:

States.	Acreage,		Condition
	1915.	1914.	Sept. 1, 1915.	Sept. 1, 1914.
New York	125	88	78	73

Halesia Tetraptera, Var. Monticola.

The silver bell tree of the southern states, Halesia tetraptera, has long been cultivated in northern gardens. It is usually shrubby in habit with several stout wide spreading stems, and here at the north, rarely grows more than 15 to 20 feet high. It is an inhabitant of the southern states from West Virginia to southern Illinois, northern Florida and eastern Texas. It grows at low altitudes and does not appear to ascend to the slopes of the high Appalachian mountains, although the halesia of those mountain forests was long considered identical with the lowland tree. The halesia of the high slopes, however, is a tree often 80 or 90 feet high, with a trunk three feet in diameter, sometimes free of branches for a distance of 60 feet from the ground. It is apparently only in recent years that this mountain tree has been introduced into cultivation by the Biltmore nursery. From Biltmore it was sent to the parks of Rochester, N. Y., and from Rochester it came to the arboretum with a description of its peculiar habit, large flowers and fruit. The mountain tree which has lately been distinguished here as var. monticola grows as a tree from the time the seed germinates and the seedlings show no variation of habit. Young trees are clean stemmed with short branches which form a narrow pyramidal head. The leaves are of rather different shape and less hairy than those of the lowland tree; the flowers are fully a third larger and the fruit is nearly twice as large. Trees less than 10 feet produce flowers and fruit in abundance. There is now every reason to believe that the mountain halesia will prove one of the handsomest flowering trees of large size which it is possible to cultivate in this climate. Its tall trunk and narrow head suggest that it may prove a good street and roadside tree. Two young trees now covered with fruit are growing on the upper side of Hickory path near Centre street; growing with them is a plant of the lowland form, also covered with fruit, so that it is possible to compare these two forms as they appear at this season of the year.—Arnold Arboretum Bulletin.

Jackson & Perkins Co., Newark, N. Y.

A meeting of the directors of Jackson & Perkins Company was held this week, following the return of the president, C. H. Perkins, from California. The resignation of John Watson as director and secretary, which had been tendered Sept. 23, was duly accepted and regret was expressed by the other directors over the termination of his connection with the company's affairs.

George C. Perkins was elected to the vacant secretaryship. He will fill both that office and the one of treasurer, which he already held, and will resume the more active participation in the management which he partly relinquished some years ago because of being, at that time, in ill health.

Chas. H. Perkins, second, a nephew of the president, was made a director and was also elected vice-president. He is well known to the trade, having been for a number of years the company's efficient and energetic traveling representative. During the growing season he also has a general supervision of the various nursery farms. His election as a director and officer is felt by the other directors to be a well deserved recognition of his services.

Paul Fortmiller, who has been Mr. Watson's chief assistant for the past four years, was promoted to the position of office manager, and will have charge of a considerable part of the correspondence.

The outdoor organization of the company remains unchanged, and Jackson & Perkins are to be particularly congratulated on having built up and maintained a corps of such loyal and efficient employes. The heads of the greenhouse department and of the shipping department have each worked for the company over twenty-five years; in fact, both of them grew up with Jackson & Perkins, and neither man ever worked anywhere else.

Vegetable Growers' Association of America.

M. L. Ruetenik, Cleveland, O., President; Howard W. Selby, Philadelphia, Pa., Vice-President; S. W. Severance, Louisville, Ky., Secretary; E. A. Dunbar, Ashtabula, O., Treasurer.

Next annual convention will be held September, 1916.

FARMERS' BULLETIN No. 694, recently issued by the department of agriculture, Washington, D. C., deals with the cultivation of peppermint and spearmint.

The French government has placed contracts for 90,000,000 pounds of dried vegetables with New York evaporators. Included in the order—first of its kind ever placed in this country—are potatoes, cabbages, turnips, carrots and parsnips.

Prices of Indoor Fruits and Vegetables.

Chicago, October 26. — Mushrooms, home grown, No. 1, 20 to 25 cents per carton; lettuce, cases, 7 to 8 cents; radishes, 75 cents to $1.00 per 100 bunches; asparagus, 50 cents per dozen bunches; celery, box, 75 cents to $1.25; tomatoes, baskets, 25 to 40 cents.

New York, October 26.—Celery, per bunch of 12 stalks; 10 to 35 cents; cucumbers, 75 cents to $1.50 per dozen; mushrooms, $1.00 to $2.25 per 4-pound basket; tomatoes, $1.50 to $2.00 per 10-pound basket; radishes, per 100 bunches, 25 cents to 50 cents; lettuce, per basket, 15 cents to 60 cents.

Milwaukee, Wis.

SUPPLY AND DEMAND BALANCE.

With the exception of white and pink carnations, the supply in nearly all lines was a little better balanced to meet the demand, this no doubt being due to the ideal growing weather,—bright warm days and cool nights. The supply in chrysanthemums in all shades is now fully equal to the demand, and even for smaller work, pompons and singles can be readily had. The outdoor stocks, such as gladioli and dahlias, have made their exit for this season. Now, hurrah for the chrysanthemum rush which will be with us ere the week is over.

NOTES.

A sign in the window of the large store at 419 Milwaukee street formerly occupied by Conroy, the confectioner, reads thus: About December 1 this store will be occupied by the Edlefsen-Leidiger Co. The location is on a good business street and close to the wholesale houses. Other firms in the near vicinity are M. A. McKenney Co., Baumgartn's, J. M. Fox & Son, Walter M. Maas and A. Currie Co.

The C. C. Pollworth Co. reports business last week way ahead of anything for many a day past, both in shipping and local trade. One car of giganteum lilies were received and distributed last week. Two cars of azaleas are reported arrived at New York. This firm also reports having made a shipment of supplies to South America last week.

Taking advantage of the ideal weather Friday, October 22, Fred Holton, of the Holton & Hunkel Co., motored to Racine and Kenosha on a business trip. The following acted as guests and advisers: Gust Pohl, Wm.

R. Schroeder, John G. Heitman and Nic Zweifel. A good all around time was reported.

Perhaps the most interesting and elaborate event of this week will be the marriage of Miss Elsbeth Pabst to Mr. Douglas Parmentier at the St. James Episcopal church, October 28. J. M. Fox & Sons have the decorations for the house, while the A. F. Kellner Co. will do the work at the church.

C. B. Whitnall will talk on the "Garden City" at the meeting of the florists' club, November 4. This ought to bring out a good attendance. The ladies are cordially invited to attend both meeting and lecture.

Miss Irma Jeness, lately with the Holton & Hunkel Co. as assistant in the office, has accepted a position with the Baumgarten Floral Co., and commenced work October 25.

W. Hood, of Spring Green, Wis., was a recent visitor. He was accompanied by his daughter, Mrs. L. C. Stair, who conducts a flower store at Mineral Point.

Archie McDonald, manager of the Gimbel Bros.' flower department, promises a flower show to be held at Gimbel Bros. the first week in November.

Herm Schwan, of St. Francis, is shipping some choice cut chrysanthemums to the G. Rusch Co. This firm reports business rushing.

Wm. Zimmermann featured some choice cut blooms in pink and yellow chrysanthemums at his Grand avenue store the past week.

Visitors: Martin Reukauf, with H. Bayersdorfer & Co., Philadelphia, Pa.; James Karins, of Henry A. Dreer, Inc., Philadelphia, Pa.; Arnold Ringier, Chicago; Tom Commandros, of the Golden Rule Floral Co., St. Paul, Minn.

Columbus, O.

TRADE GENERALLY SATISFACTORY.

Though there is a generally healthy tone to the trade, some florists claim that the unusually warm October weather prevents buying from having the snap that should exist at this stage of the season. Chrysanthemums are near their height in supply. The present week is about the first showing much excess over demand. Opinions differ as to likelihood of a glut, but for the next two weeks, at least, this flower will come into the market in great volume. At no previous season have local stocks been more varied or luxuriant. Prices range from $2 to $5 a dozen. Pompons bring $1 and $1.50. Carnations are plentiful and of increasing good appearance at 60 cents per dozen. In roses there is ample supply to meet the rather light requirements in Maryland, Ophelia and Sunburst. American Beauties are scarce and high. Violets are also light stock. Lily of the valley is in increasing demand. The bulb trade is keeping up well, and there seems to be no difficulty in securing anything that is grown.

NOTES.

Columbus seems to offer a ripe field for someone who would be able to reconcile jealousies among florists and remedy needless trade abuses which exist. One of the leaders in the trade ventures, that in no city in the country of similar size, is there less co-operation among dealers. Some half-dozen or more maintain neighborly relations with one another, but efforts to effect an organization have failed in the past because the majority stood aloof. It is pointed out that chrysanthemums are again appearing in the five-and-ten-cent stores, bought of growers, as was the case last season, when large quantities were sold at such places. With retailers acting as a body, it is recognized that it would be easy to remedy such an infringement of their interests by growers. This is only one of many remedial evils which in the aggregate cost the florists of Columbus thousands of dollars annually.

Thomas J. Ludwig, the florist, has been placed in charge of the landscaping of a large new suburban addition being laid out by the Dominion Land Company. The acreage abounds in fine forest trees and shrubbery, the latter started some years ago when it was proposed to utilize the grounds for a zoological garden. Much of this growth will be preserved. Mr. Ludwig is now trimming it up and clearing out that which is undesirable. This will require a force of 10 men for a month. Further landscaping work will be begun there next spring. C. J.

GOODRICH "GREENHOUSE" HOSE

Try Goodrich "Greenhouse" on your next order! That extra thick, extra tough wear-resisting cover—compounded to endure by the world's largest factory, the factory that builds the road-resisting treads found on Goodrich Automobile Tires—is giving months of service where other hose lasts but weeks.

Then, too, "Greenhouse" is not readily affected by kinks, twists, sharp bends—that cause other hose to leak, crack, break, split apart.

"Greenhouse" is, in addition, flexible and easy to work with. It saves time in use. Withstands high pressures, too. Any length desired in one continuous piece.

Garland Specialties

Garland Cast Iron Gutter

THERE are certain exclusive features (protected by patents) that for over 20 years have proved this to be the best gutter on the market.

Garland Gutter is not only practical in point of service rendered, but it has one feature which makes a wonderful saving of material and labor in greenhouse construction.

If Garland Gutter is still giving satisfaction on the first job in which it was used—if one of the largest growers in the world has seven miles of it in use; then it will certainly pay you to use it in your greenhouses the next time you build, or when you repair your present plant, be sure and specify GARLAND GUTTER.

Prices and full details on request.

GARLAND BOILER GRATES

We have found this to be the very best Stationary Grate for general use since it permits greater circulation of air, hence more rapid combustion of fuel. In emergencies when greater heat is required quickly, it responds more rapidly than the ordinary type.

Suggestions for Plant Growers.

Violets.

The temperatures of both night and day have now become settled enough to keep the violet houses in the best growing condition, and the plants should have made a strong healthy growth, and be producing blooms of good quality. The first sign of disease will sometimes make its appearance as early as the first of November, yet it ordinarily does not show up until later in the year during the dark, dull weather. All leaves which show disease should be picked off at once, and if there should be any great amount making its appearance, run the plant a little dry, and under no circumstances allow moisture to remain on the foliage over night. Water only on bright days and then early in the morning. Give all the air possible during the day, and if the disease continues raise the temperature a little at night and do not open the houses quite as much or as early in the morning. A little warmer temperature will induce a new root action, and if this takes place the plant will begin to make a new growth and the disease will disappear. The disease only makes any great headway while the plants are not growing, for when "the elegant spring," as one grower always used to express it, comes, the plants take on new vigor and the disease is no more. As soon as the plants begin to grow the temperature can be dropped to normal for the culture of these plants, which should be about 40° at night. Be careful in removing the leaves not to disturb the plants any more than necessary. Do not pull them off carelessly, but pinch them off with the thumb and forefinger.

Rambler Roses.

The wood of the several rambler roses that are to be forced should be well ripened up. Those that have been grown in the open ground should be lifted and potted. The pot-grown stock should be subjected to some freezing weather, but they should not be left out until the weather becomes severe enough to freeze the ground so that the pots become broken. A covering of leaves may be placed over the pots if the wood has not been thoroughly ripened, but they are better stored in deep pits or sheds, where the temperature may be kept just above the freezing point. The small twiggy wood should be cut out, leaving the strong canes and these should be tied to a stake and kept erect. This will greatly reduce the labor when moving them and allow for closer packing when they are packed away and besides prevent the branches from lying on the ground and becoming soft or perhaps causing rot, if too damp. The stock that is lifted and potted should be given a rich rose soil and potted firmly, ramming the soil down hard with a wooden stick. All roses require a firm soil to get the best results. The Baby Ramblers can be carried into the houses and brought into bloom for Christmas. A temperature of 60 degrees to 65 degrees should produce plants with bloom if started at once.

Ferns.

A good stock of small ferns is a necessity at this season of the year to the florist having a retail trade, for the fern dishes will now be coming in to be refilled and this has become quite a feature of the business. While this branch of the trade is in many cases very unsatisfactory, yet it is greatly the fault of the dealer that it is so, and with a little care and method can be made very remunerative and satisfactory to himself and his customers. In the first place a book should be kept giving the date when such customer's dish was filled, and above all things do not endeavor to buoy the customer up with any false hopes as to how long the dish will keep in good condition. In many cases the dish is placed on the center of the table 15 to 20 feet away from any light, the care left to domestics, and it may never be watered from the time it reaches the house until it is returned to be filled, and oftentimes the customers will say it was only a week or two since it was filled, when by reference to the book it will be found to have been two months. When the dish is returned make a note as to what varieties seem to have succeeded the best and use these in refilling. It is wonderful to note the effect on the different varieties in different houses. What will live and thrive in one house will often be the first to die in another. Have a few dishes put up ready for sale. It is often possible to make a sale when the customer sees them all ready, though he might not wait to have one made up or would never think of it unless his attention was drawn to it. Besides the ferns, have a good stock of Asparagus plumosus and Sprengeri in small pots; these will often grow where ferns will not live at all. And also a fine lot of small palms, cocos and kentias, and small dracenas for the centers of the fern dishes.

Outside Tulips.

The tulips should be planted in the beds as soon as possible from now on. It will do them no good to remain out of the soil, for they will lose some of their vitality. While we do not like to plant them out when the soil and weather are warm, yet October and early November is the proper time to get them in. There is danger now of the ground becoming frozen at any time and they should all be planted while the ground can be worked, for it is very difficult to set them even after a thin crust has formed on the soil. The covering can, however, be left until freezing weather sets in, and, in fact, is better, for if the ground becomes frozen the bulbs will not make any top growth, which is likely to occur if covered now and kept too warm. Do not cover too deeply. The object of the covering is not to prevent the soil from freezing, but to prevent the alternate thawing and freezing that often occurs and which will in some cases throw the bulbs out of the soil altogether. Leaves three or four inches thick make the best covering, with boughs or boards laid across to prevent the winter winds from blowing them away.

Gladiolus Colvillei.

The winter blooming gladioli make a valuable addition to the late winter and spring flowers and are very useful as a cut flower or in all kinds of floral work. The blooms are much smaller than the Gladiolus Gandavensis and kindred kinds and can be artistically employed. The varieties grown are The Bride, white; Blushing Bride, white, tinged with pink, and Peach Blossom, light pink. The culture of these is very easy and by a succession of plantings the flowers may be had all through early spring up to June. The bulbs can be procured all at once and kept dry and cool, but do not leave them standing around in the room over the boiler or they will rapidly lose their vitality. They can be planted in deep flats and placed in an out-of-the-way place until they begin to grow, when they should be given a light location in a house with a temperature similar to that in which carnations are grown. The flowers will be larger and have more substance if grown cool, but it will take considerably longer to get them into bloom. Some growers plant these bulbs between the rows of the carnations or the violets, but our experience has been that it is far better to grow them in boxes by themselves, for the carnations will need all the nourishment in the soil if growing well, and if not, they as well as the violets when through blooming had better be cleaned out and some other crop planted and not have a crop mixed in which would delay the planting or occupying of the space. These gladioli will be found very useful and well appreciated by the best trade.

Spiraea Japonica.

When the roots of spiraea arrive, do not leave them lying around in a dry state. This plant never does well if allowed to get too dry, even in a dormant stage, and every grower knows that one of the principal things in growing them is to keep them well supplied with water. Those that are to be grown for Easter are better potted at once and kept cool until the first of the year, but before potting soak the clumps well in a tub of water; then after potting water thoroughly and place in a cool, dark place. Those that are to be bloomed for Memorial day or late in spring can be left in the case, but turn the hose on them and give them a good soaking and then put them in a cool, damp cellar until late in winter, when they can be benched or potted as desired.

Handling Plants in the Store.

Plants are just as essential to the stock in trade as cut flowers; to be sure, the money is not turned over so quickly with the plants as with the flowers, but on the other hand, the growing stock is much more lasting, the palms and ferns, together with the large variety of other foliage plants, being in salable condition for a long time if given ordinary attention. Even in the blooming section, if conditions are at all favorable, a number of the popular favorites will keep in salable condition for a week or more, during which time the stock will sometimes be entirely changed by sales and renewals.

Aside from the profit, the decorative and up to date appearance given by a display of seasonable flowering and foliage plants is worth all it may cost in passe and unsalable stock. To properly care for and keep these ornamental features always to the front requires considerable handling, as all suffer from careless watering and the inattention which seems almost inevitable during the crowded and busy days which develop with more or less frequency during the season. The stock of this character should be as near its best as possible when placed for sale, its bright and attractive appearance drawing the attention of the visitor, while the intelligent salesman does the rest. Too often stock that is passe and unsalable is seen standing about, a detriment instead of an ornamental feature. Two or three dusty, scrawny looking aspidistras, if gathered together to make a larger symmetrical plant, with polished leaves, is at once salable and liable to be turned into money at any time.

The variegated Pandanus Veitchii is most decorative and will stand well in the stores if given water but sparingly; once a week is sufficient and the same treatment should follow when sold. Crotons are wonderfully fine with their brilliant foliage. These, together with Dracenas fragrans and Massangeana, should also be kept on the dry side. These in common with all broad leaved plants require frequent dusting and syringing to keep the green and lustrous color in the foliage. Should brown edges appear, they should be scientifically clipped, so as not to disturb the contour of the leaf. The good old Ficus elastica, or rubber plant, is a trifle out of the running at present, but still has its friends. The pandurata and utilis are fancy sorts that are very ornamental and lasting and they too thrive best when well pot bound, with little watering. The rather rare plant, the bird's nest fern, is most striking with its broad, vigorous, glossy green fronds. The almost countless varieties of the Boston fern are splendid stock. Hanging vases of these look well overhead, and many sales are made for similar decorations in the house.

The cibotium is, without doubt, the most decorative of all ferns and no store should be without a specimen or two of this splendid plant. While a few of the above may be displayed barefooted, yet with the majority, their sale is enhanced if placed in suitable fancy pots or basket covers. While this adds to the price and increases the profit, the added attractiveness of up-to-date pottery gives class and tone to the store and is well worth studying out to successful achievement.

Blooming plants such as well flowered cyclamens, begonias (if they would only hold their flowers), azaleas, poinsettias, heather, daisies and genistas, are all good stock to carry, being useful for basket work, even after they are not quite good enough to sell individually. A table near the front of the store, kept filled with blooming stock, each plant in jar or basket or crepe paper cover, with at times a ribbon bow to give a touch of color, and so placed that each plant will give an account of itself, will be found to pay well for the space occupied. MANKATO, MINN. — The Windmill Co. is having a flower show this week which opened November 2 and will close November 4. They are advertising in all the newspapers and have booths featuring the Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association and the National Floral Corporation. Many flowers were donated for the occasion by a few of the wholesale florists in other cities, and the show is proving to be a great success.

European Horticulture.

Among the newer plants mentioned in a recent issue of the Revue Horticole, we find the following:

Incarvillea grandiflora brevipes. — Very similar to I. grandiflora, but more hardy.

Saponaria ocyroides alba and versicolor. — The former has pure white flowers; the latter opening white and turning to pink, the two colors showing prettily together on the same plant.

Anthemis montana. — This plant forms large tufts of ashy gray foliage, and is covered in May with large numbers of marguerites, producing a highly decorative effect.

Thalictrum dipterocarpum. — This variety grows five feet high, with large light panicles of small lavender flowers. It is not difficult of culture and is remarkably beautiful.

Iris Germanica. — There have been many notable introductions of this variety in the present century, among them Magnifica, Alcazar, Isoline, Ballerine, Barbe-Bleue and Moliere, all remarkable for their size and beauty of color.

Anemone sylvestris grandiflora. — This is somewhat larger than the ordinary type. Anemone globosa is of very erect growth, with fine-cut foliage and pretty globular pink flowers.

Dielytra spectabilis erecta. — Much more compact and of better carriage than the type.

Salvia flava. — Has bright yellow flowers with brown striped throat in numerous clusters.

THE ROSE.

Christmas Crop Preparations.

It is now time to make preparations for the Christmas crop by pinching back for the extra long stems and timing the cut, etc. Usually anything that is pinched from October 20 until November 4, will come along nicely for the holidays, with suitable weather, so we usually work within these dates with good success. Of course, it is a "trust to luck" proposition, but not any more so than many other things that are done under glass, so we have to take the chances. At the same time we do not consider it good business to do a great amount of cropping for any one particular holiday, but merely aim to have considerably more at Christmas than the average daily cut, and as the demand for roses is lessened very much during the chrysanthemum season, one can allow an extra amount to bloom for the Christmas holidays; yet the grower who is in a position to have a fairly good cut from day to day throughout the winter months, or practically for that matter during the whole season, finds himself engineering things about right we are sure, especially the small grower. The big fellows can afford to crop; they make a business of bringing in good size ranges in a succession of crops, for in their case several houses off crop entirely, are only missed for the time being, for they are followed by others, but the grower with the small range we feel assured will come out better by pinching a few here and there daily, the object being to have continuous cuttings or as near to it is possible. Very often, too, the houses are small and not always adapted to the growing of high grade stock in mid-winter, especially where a heavy cut has been taken for Christmas, therefore, we would suggest as stated above to try to keep the crop broken and only at a time when the prices and the demand are extremely good, should the small grower attempt to have an extra supply and then not enough to cut back the plants too hard. To this end we must of course leave it to the judgment of the grower, for the work on each and every place varies, not so much in the varieties that are being grown, but the growing conditions call for some special treatment that the grower who is a close observer becomes accustomed to and which may seem to be handled entirely different from his next door neighbor's stock. So it really means that all we can do to help is based upon our own experience under what one could say were modern conditions, which can with good judgment, be applied to the general cultivation of the rose under glass at the present time, our object being to state certain facts that each grower can adjust to suit his own special conditions. At this time all plants in a good growing condition should be pushed right along, allowing no check for want of feeding.

It will not be any too safe to mulch heavily at this time as we consider liquid manure a better feeding medium in the winter months than the mulches. A light top dressing of well-rotted cow manure can be used almost any time, just scattering a thin layer over the surface, but a heavy soggy mulch that one can use in February or March and slop it around will not go now as the days are growing shorter and shorter, and naturally the soil evaporates slower and slower each day, so the light top dressing, with a good watering, with liquid cow manure at least every 10 days (and used on bright days), will be found a good safe way to keep the plants jumping during the dark days. Smith's Chrysanthemum Novelties.

We present herewith illustrations of two of the latest new chrysanthemums sent out by Elmer D. Smith & Co., Adrian, Mich. The descriptions are as follows:

Chrysanthemum October Queen.

A New Variety Introduced by Elmer D. Smith & Co., Adrian, Mich.

Wilson has kindly supplied the name for this new yellow, a seedling from Chrysolora, being several shades darker than its parent. It is supremely fitted for the rank and file of growers, especially those who are unable to plant early, as its characteristics stamp it as a commercial of special merit. Fine incurved form, producing flowers double to the center from September buds, sturdy semi-dwarf growth, with beautiful foliage and very ridged stem. Height about four feet from June 1 plantings. Best bud September 5.

October Queen.—This belongs to the Japanese section with an inclination to incurve at the center, especially from September buds. One of the purest whites we know of, maturing October 15, height five feet. This variety has been scored 93 points, having been given full number on color, stem and foliage. Best bud August 25.

WAUKESHA, WIS.—The Waukesha Floral Co. has opened a retail store at 409 Main street.

Stillman's Dahlias.

Under the title of "The Dahlia as the Principal Crop," the Providence (R. I.) Sunday Journal in its issue of October 24, devotes one full page with illustrations to an interesting account of the dahlia fields of George L. Stillman, dahlia specialist, Westerly, R. I.

Mr. Stillman, the scion of a family of well-known Rhode Island carriage builders, became interested in the dahlia when he was about 18 years of age, and with a few choice bulbs as his initial start, his plantings increased with each succeeding year, until during the past season he had more than 12 acres of dahlias under cultivation, representing some 700 standard varieties. To care for the plants now requires Mr. Stillman's undivided attention and gives employment to four men the year round and to a considerably greater number during the busy seasons of planting and harvesting.

New York Spring Show.

Five months might seem a long period to those who are not engaged in preparations for the big flower show to be held in New York, April 5-12, 1916, although to the men who are working like beavers to make it certain that the 1916 show shall overshadow all previous exhibitions, the time seems all too short. With monthly meetings, and a division of the general committee into sub-committees, the work of preparation is well advanced; but with the idea generally imbued among the workers that the next show must present new features, new ideas, and, above all, show progress from an expositional point of view, five months for further preparation is a period all too small.

The idea of the rose garden, so well carried out at the show last spring, bids fair to become a most important feature of the next show, for the reason that the premiums offered are on a most liberal basis, and sufficiently attractive to insure six or more exhibits in the class set apart for displays of this kind. Just think of it—six rose gardens.

The rock garden, a much cherished institution on the other side of the water, and an object of curiosity to many of our hudding horticulturists, is to be featured strongly at the April show, and those who are able to compete for the $250 and $150 prizes offered, would do well to get busy with their exhibits.

The charts showing the space available for trade exhibits are already well marked with reservations and proposed reservations of exhibitors, and any firms desirous of securing choice of locations should lose no time in communicating with the secretary.

The committee is a little embarrassed just now over the problem of housing the number of large exhibits promised, and it seems quite probable that three floors of the big Grand Central Palace may have to be utilized for the exhibition instead of two as heretofore. JOHN YOUNG, Sec'y.

SEATTLE, WASH.—L. W. McCoy has removed to a more central location at Second avenue and Marion street.

KANSAS CITY, MO.—Stevens & Larkin have dissolved partnership, Stevens running the greenhouse and Larkin the store.

THE EXHIBITIONS.

Madison, N. J., Flower Show.

The twentieth annual flower show of the Morris County, N. J., Gardeners' and Florists' Society was held in Assembly hall, Madison, October 28-29. This society is usually well represented at its shows, both by commercial growers and private estates, and this year was no exception. While a fall show is primarily expected to be a chrysanthemum show, in addition to a very fine display of chrysanthemums, many fine roses, carnations and a variety of other stock was exhibited. There was also a good display of vegetables and fruit.

In the hall, the stage was a mass of many colored chrysanthemums of the hardy and pompon varieties, set off with autumn foliage, palms and crotons, the arrangement being the deft handiwork of Charles H. Totty, the well-known specialist of Madison. As disseminator in this country of the noted Dickson roses and Wells' chrysanthemums, Mr. Totty always has a fruitful field to draw from; neither is he neglectful of the products of our own originators.

In the groups for chrysanthemum plants in flower, arranged with foliage plants for effect, in a space not to exceed 50 square feet, very fine displays were made by R. Tyson, gardener to Mrs. H. McK. Twombly, and W. H. Duckham, gardener to Mrs. D. Willis James. The Tyson exhibit was arranged in the form of a square with a tall croton in the center and crotons of medium height at the four corners. Throughout the exhibit were many of the broader leaved crotons and a multi-colored display of hardy chrysanthemums. The Duckham exhibit was also a fine arrangement, larger chrysanthemums being used. In the center was a large basket, on a standard, filled with a variety of small foliage plants. In the class for one vase of cut flowers with other foliage, both the above named exhibitors, and others, made fine displays.

The prize winning largest chrysanthemum in the show, exhibited by C. W. Harkness, Madison (E. Wild, Gr.), was a yellow named Bob Pulling, introduced last year by C. H. Totty from English stock.

In the class for 24 blooms in 24 distinct varieties, first prize was won by Wm. Duckham. The following varieties were noteworthy: Mary Mason, bronze; F. S. Valles, yellow; Beatrice May, white; Mrs. H. J. Jones, yellow; H. Converse, bronze; Mrs. D. Syme, white; H. Stevens, light bronze; Mrs. R. C. Pulling, yellow; Rosseau, pink; Francis Joliffe, yellow; Lady Hopeton, pink.

In the class for 36 blooms in six varieties, six of each, the following varieties were exceptionally fine; Pres. Viger, pink; Lady Hopeton, pink; Mrs. G. Lloyd Wigg, light yellow; Bob. Pulling, yellow; Mrs. D. Syme, white, and a yellow unnamed seedling.

C. H. Totty exhibited a yellow sport of Mrs. Drabble, Japanese incurved; a very attractive flower, which will be disseminated in 1916. He also exhibited a new pink seedling rose, which will be exhibited and named at the approaching Cleveland show. His new rose, Gorgeous, was still another of his exhibits. The color of this rose is hard to describe. As near as we can get is to call it yellowish pink, with a touch of bronze. Its color is novel.

Numerous prizes were won by Jas. Fraser, gardener to O. H. Kahn, Morristown, N. J. The awards follow:

CHRYSANTHEMUMS.

Thirty-six blooms in six varieties, six of each.—Mrs. D. Willis James, Madison (Wm. H. Duckham, Gr.), 1st.

In the Fall.

Now the corn is shocked and standlu' in its dry an' rustlin' rows,
And all round them an' between 'em the big yellow punkins glows,
And you hear the click an' clatter of the mowers to the wheat,
And the golden rod is clinglu' round your knees,
and underfeet,
Blue forget-me-nots are snillu', just as sweet and just as dear
As they did when you first saw 'em in the spring-time of the year;
And the world's all gold and glowlu' to the heart an' soul an' eyes,
An' the whole earth seems a-changlu' to cornbread an' punkin pies.
It's the time o' year for dreamin'—to stretch out beside a stream,
Where the autumn breeze can find you, and to dream and dream and dream;
To gaze off across the stubble, to gaze off across the hill,
Till the fadlu' of the daylight wakes the lonesome whippoorwill,
And to hear the breezes rustlu' to the standin'
shocks of corn,
And to gaze across the valley where the night
is bein' born,
And to hear the creek a-tinklu' of its low-toned
lullabies,
While you're dreamin' of corn fritters and of home-made punkin pies, Oh, the world don't get old, never; every spring is like each one That you knowed away off yonder, when you'd awin and laugh and run
With the very joy o' livin', and each autuma is as gold,
And as plum chockful of dreamin' as the oces
you kooed of old;
And the amber of the autumn seems to color
all the air,
And the girl you used to love so with corn tassels in her hair
Is as young as what she then was, the same look is in her eyes,
And her elbows are as dimpled when she rolls out crust fer pies.

Los Angeles Flower Show.

The Broadway Flower Show was opened to the public Saturday afternoon, October 23, and during the week of the exhibition, thousands of delighted visitors voted it the most wonderful flower show ever held in this section. It was a revelation to many as there were specimen plants on display that had never before been outside of the conservatories of the very rich or in large public collections, and the quality on the whole of the plants displayed was not surpassed by those seen at the eastern flower shows.

The exhibit staged by the H. E. Huntington estate represented $100,000 worth of plants from those unrivaled gardens, and no less interesting than the collection of plants was the lecture by the estate's gardener, Wm. Hetrick, who gathered many of the specimens, some from Africa, others from South America, Europe, Asia and the Antipodes. This exhibit occupied 2,000 square feet of space.

The Arthur Letts collection, showing 45 varieties of rare flowering shrubs arranged by A. A. Hunt, gardener, was a feature of the show. Included in these were specimens of the flowering potato from South America and the true trumpet-flowering solandra. The Bauhinia Galpini was also noted.

D. E. Sturtevant, of Hollywood, exhibited his splendid collection of water lilies, one of the most extensive in the United States, the colors ranging from that of wax to a wonderful mingling of pink and blue.

The women of Van Nuys arranged a pergola with thousands of Climbing Killarney roses, and this was only a part of the contribution from the San Fernando valley to the success of the show. Mrs. Ross Whitley presented the choicest roses in her garden, and it was a collection that staggered even the professional growers in point of magnificence of the specimens.

Howard & Smith, Los Angeles, occupied nearly a fourth of an acre of space, staging an exhibit of everything seasonable in the way of Southern California flowers, and it seemed as if the world of flowers had been levied on for perfect specimens.

The Los Angeles park department, with two exhibits, one greenhouse and the other nursery, made a showing well to the front, and calculated to encourage flower growing among the citizens of the city.

Willard Kennedy, gardener to Dr. H. Jarvis Barlow, offered a showing of plants customarily grown in well-tended gardens, and this display was one of the most attractive in the whole show.

The showings of dahlias arranged by the Angelus Dahlia Gardens Co. and the Eagle Rock Dahlia Farms were both of unusual excellence, and an exclusive chrysanthemum exhibit by Miss Sadie Thomas, an amateur, was professional in class.

After a careful and painstaking appraisal the judges awarded the following prizes:

A cup was given to the park department of Los Angeles for the best floral and plant display ever made by any municipality in the west. The H. E. Huntington estate received a cup for the most remarkable and valuable collection of tropical and semi-tropical plants ever shown in the United States. The women of Van Nuys were made the recipients of a hand-

New Trier Horticultural Society.

At a meeting held at Winnetka, Ill., October 12, it was decided to change the name of the Lake Shore Horticultural Society to New Trier Horticultural Society. The following officers were elected: Edward Boulter, president; Wm. Danby, vice-president; Carl Niemann, recording secretary; Hugh Noble, financial secretary; Arthur James, treasurer.

ROCK ISLAND, ILL.—Joseph R. Ruckis, who has been in business at Atlantic City during the past year has returned to this city and will open a flower store on Fourth avenue.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The fifteenth annual chrysanthemum show of the United States department of agriculture opened here, November 1, with more than 300 varieties on exhibition. Queen Mary and James Wilson, white, the latter named for the former secretary of agriculture, are attracting considerable attention.

Chicago Fall Flower Show.

The regular meeting of the executive committee was held at the Hotel Morrison, October 28, the members in attendance including A. Henderson, W. N. Rudd, W. J. Keimel, August Poehlmann, N. J. Wietor, Geo. Asmus, Guy W. French, E. F. Kurowski, N. P. Miller, Payne Jennings, Robert Brenton, H. B. Howard, K. Patterson, James Morton and M. Barker. Reports of the various sub-committees were presented, showing well matured plans for the big exhibition, to be held at the Coliseum, November 9-14. Widespread interest in the event is evident from the correspondence coming to the officials from all sections of the country, and the distribution of large quantities of posters and posterettes with liberal notices in the newspapers have awakened unusual enthusiasm locally. The competitive exhibits from leading growers will be well worth the attention of the trade in themselves, and it is certain there will be a good array of new plants and flowers in the various sections. Many novel features are promised by the management, including elaborate floral dances and fashions, ancient and modern, in the use of flowers for personal adornment. Some contracts for trade space are still pending, as this notice of the show goes to the press, the list of those closed being as follows, with the value of space taken:

W. W. Barnard Co., Chicago..	$111.00
Buchbinder Bros., Chicago...	60.00
O. J. Friedman, Chicago....	39.60
Haeger B'k & Tile Co., Dundee	55.80

ABERDEEN, S. D.—A conservatory, 20 by 80 feet, of most modern type, is being erected by the Siebrecht Flower Shop.

Indiana State Florists.

Eighty-six members and visitors were guests of Richmond florists at the regular monthly meeting held November 2, the hosts of the occasion including the E. G. Hill Co., Fred H. Lemon Co., Chas. Knopf Floral Co., G. R. Gause & Co., Newman & Thomas, Fuller Bros., John A. Evans Co. and the Advance Co. At the E. G. Hill Co.'s plant, exhibition and commercial chrysanthemums were the main attraction, including varieties such as Timothy Eaton, Yellow Eaton, Nagoya, Chieftain, white and pink; Nakota, Wm. Turner and the Chadwicks. Here a white pompon was christened Mary Ann after the new daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl H. Mann. This seedling was greatly admired and will undoubtedly sell when introduced to the trade. The carnations at this establishment were in fine shape.

The Fred H. Lemon Co.'s store was embellished for the occasion, local patrons evidently getting the cream of the exceptionally high class stock brought in from the east end plant, with business brisk. Stock at the Chas. Knopf Floral Co. looked unusually well under the efficient supervision of Wm. Weaver. Carnations and roses are grown here in all the leading standard varieties, Pocahontas, Enchantress Supreme, Beacon and White Wonder being exceptionally fine. The Newman & Thomas rose nurseries and new greenhouse establishment were packing a consignment of Killarney and Ophelia roses.

At the business meeting the by-laws were changed to cover regular, associate and honorary members, and it was arranged to invite the American Carnation Society to Indianapolis for its annual meeting in 1917. E. G. Hill spoke on the west and chrysanthemum culture by Japanese and Chinese growers on the Pacific coast. Indianapolis, Terre Haute, Muncie and Anderson afforded the largest delegations of visitors. The chicken dinner at Pythian hall was greatly enjoyed. The next meeting will be held at Fort Wayne, December 7.

The Advance Co. and John A. Evans Co. machine shops were visited.

OVERSUPPLY OF CHRYSANTHEMUMS.

Business has fallen off considerably during the past week, as the chrysanthemum crop is coming in very heavy; in fact, too heavy for the demand. The prices on chrysanthemums have fallen and many fine flowers have to be sold for as low as $1 per dozen. Chrysanthemum Major Bonnaffon has made its appearance and is in demand. The bulk of the supply consists of Pacific Supreme, Halliday, Chrysolora, Ivory and Chas. Razor. Roses are more plentiful and consequently cheaper. Carnations also are more abundant and prices show a decline, although the quality of flowers steadily improves. Violets are of a much better quality, but are not selling very well. A few sweet peas are seen, but not in large enough quantities to be a market factor. The trade for Hallowe'en was far from that which was expected, although the market strengthened a trifle for the day.

NOTES.

Some of the best dahlias that have come to Boston during the past season have come from the establishment of E. F. Dwyer & Son of Lynn. In their exhibit at the recent country fair, some very fine flowers were noted. Mr. Dwyer pointed out a few varieties, which he considers to be the best grown, and which may be of benefit to other growers of these flowers. For the peony type—Bertha Von Suitner, Phenomenal, Queen Wilhelmina. Decorative—Le Grand Manitoro, R. P. Struthers. Show—Estelle Christe, Gen. Miles and Gen. Miles Solid. Cactus—Mrs. C. H. Breck, Richard Box, Sovereignty, Periot and Tenor Alveres. He also has a white and red seedling which is rather a novelty, but a beautiful flower, called Union Jack.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Boston Co-operative Flower Market was held at the Boston Tavern October 30. Much interest was shown in the election of the board of directors. On the first ballot it was a tie between John Barr, Perry Green and Carl Strieferd for the eighth and ninth place, each having 39 votes. On the re-vote Perry Green and Carl Strieferd were elected. The treasurer's report showed a balance of $581.55, with assets of $2,009.38. The debt with Wm. Elliot for the Park street location has been settled and next year there promises to be a good surplus.

Alexander Potter, of Woburn, had very bad luck with his chrysanthemum crop this year. His stock, which occupied 40,000 feet of glass, was practically spoiled by the so-called "cinch bug." At the beginning of the fall his crop was one of the most promising in sight around Boston.

B. A. McGinty, at the co-operative market, has commenced selling the stock grown by Robt. McGorum, of Natick. He is now receiving good Killarney, Ophelia, Sunburst, Ward and White Killarney roses, as well as very fine flowers of Chrysanthemum Golden Glow.

John Seamans, who ran the Quality

Flower Shop in Pawtucket, R. I., left home and business October 22 and has not been heard of since. His relatives are very anxious to learn of his whereabouts and any information would be greatly appreciated by them.

R. P. Peterson, of Saxonville, is shipping in some of the finest snapdragons coming to Boston. He has a nice lot of his white seedling and Nelrose. He also has high quality carnations, and his crop of myosotis is looking extra well for this time of year.

Hannon & Son, of Dorchester, are cutting a fine lot of Liliun longiflorum as well as a heavy crop of Halliday, Bonnaffon and Early Snow chrysanthemums.

J. A. Nelson is at the Framingham hospital, suffering with a painful attack of "shingles." His son, John, is in charge of his place during his absence.

Samuel Quint has returned from a vacation trip to Michigan and Ohio, and is now with his brother Harry at the Boylston street store.

Malcomb Orr of Saugus is cutting very fine Christmas Pink and Earliest White sweet peas.

The bowling league met Thursday evening, October 28. The standing for this week is as follows:

BANQUET NEW YORK WHOLESALE FLORISTS' PROTECTIVE ASSOCIATION, HOTEL BRESLIN, OCTOBER 28.

N. Y. Wholesale Florists' Protective Ass'n.

The annual banquet of the above association was held at the Hotel Breslin, New York, Thursday, October 28, and was a great success. To the committee in charge, A. H. Langjahr, P. J. Smith and Wm. P. Ford, great credit is due for the able manner in which all details were arranged. The banquet room was very tastefully decorated with autumn leaves and yellow chrysanthemums, and on the large table was a centerpiece of Hoosier Beauty roses. Each member wore a gardenia boutonniere. A fine musical programme added to the enjoyment of the repast. Coffee and cigars being served, P. J. Smith introduced Walter F. Sheridan as master of ceremonies, who ably officiated, as might be expected of him. He first called upon Frank H. Traendly, president of the association, and to the great surprise of that gentleman, proceeded to pass sentence upon him for all the good he had done for the association during the eight years he had been at its head. After compelling his attention until everything in the way of nice things had been said of him, he presented him, on behalf of the association, with a beautiful gold clock and candelabra to match, as a token of the appreciation in which he was held by his fellow-members, and of his faithful service as their presiding officer.

Mr. Traendly, who for once in his life was taken completely unawares, upon recovering his composure, first assured himself that the clock was running on good time and was in good working order, then feelingly expressed his thanks, and those of Mrs. Traendly, for the testimonial, promising to use his best endeavors to still further advance the interests of the association, and to continue its efficiency. Each member present added a few words of appreciation to those of the toastmaster, and, it might be said, increased the discomfiture of the gentleman under sentence.

H. P. Knobler.

General Chairman Cleveland Show Committees.

After these proceedings, a special meeting of the association was held, at which business coming properly before the association was disposed of. Much enthusiasm over the work of the organization was evinced, and many suggestions were made looking to a further extension of its work. The impression prevailed that there could be no better organized body of business men today than that found in the New York Wholesale Florists' Protective Association, whose only aim is to improve, if possible, the wholesale market conditions in that city, and to advance and protect the interests of its members in every way.

The secretary-manager, Ward W. Smith, was also warmly commended for his able manner in which he had fulfilled the duties of his office. At the close, announcement was made that Mr. Traendly had that day been appointed a member of the Society of American Florists' committee on national credits and collections' bureau.

Cleveland Flower Show.

One of the latest features secured for the Cleveland flower show, which will be held at the Coliseum, November 10-14, is an exhibit from the National Botanical Garden, Washington, D. C., Superintendent Hess having promised to send several of the most interesting plants in this collection and expects to attend the show in person. When it is considered that the 65,000 square feet of space in the Coliseum will be filled with a representative display of floriculture, all that pertains to the trade, the magnitude of the exhibition is apparent, and with only two small spaces unreserved 10 days before the show, the management is much pleased with the interest shown in the event. Among the recent trade exhibitors to enter is Hubert V. Pearce, Detroit, Mich., steam heating engineer. There will be about 60 displays of appliances of interest to the trade, aside from the exhibits of commercial and private growers, nurserymen, etc.

As announced in last week's issue of THE AMERICAN FLORIST, a new chrysanthemum, grown by Elmer D. Smith & Co., Adrian, Mich., and christened by President Woodrow Wilson, will be exhibited at the show as a special feature. Specimens of this new variety, forwarded to the president, have been highly complimented by him and named Tiger.

The official opening of the show will take place Wednesday, November 10, at 1 p. m. Registration of exhibitors and out-of-town attendance will commence at the Coliseum at 8 a. m.

Registration will be necessary to receive the show badge, which will admit to the show after the formal opening.

Thursday, November 11, the Florists' Telegraph Delivery will hold its meeting at the Hollenden hotel at 9 a. m., followed by the annual meeting of the Chrysanthemum Society of America at the same location at 10:30 a. m.

The ladies' bowling tournament will be held at the Erie bowling alleys, Chestnut avenue and East Ninth street, commencing at 10 a. m., Thursday. The general tournament for five men teams will start on the same alleys one hour later, followed by the roll-off of the five high individuals, and the high man on each individual team in competition for the H. P. Knoble prize, a life membership in the S. A. F. Other prizes offered for both team and individual scores are generous in number and value and include cash and silver trophies.

Included in the programme for Friday are the meetings of the American Rose Society at 10 a. m., the adjourned meeting and election of officers of the Ohio Gladiolus Society at 11 a. m., and a meeting of the executive committee of the American Carnation Society at 2 p. m. All of the above meetings will be held in the rooms of the Cleveland Florists' Club in the Hollenden hotel. Exhibitors and visitors will be entertained at a banquet Friday evening at 8 o'clock at the Hollenden hotel and a smoker at the Statler hotel, Saturday evening, will be given, at which the florists' club will act as host.

Assisting General Chairman H. P. Knoble and Executive Secretary M. A. Vinson in the management of the show are the following committees:

Publicity—George Bate, chairman; H. B. Jones, F. Ritzenthaler, T. J. Kirchner, Chas. L. Gibson.

Trade displays—H. P. Merrick, chairman; R. F. Koch, Victor H. Morgan, E. B. George, Painesville, O.

Exhibition and hall—Frank A. Friedley, chairman; Herbert Bate, L. Utzinger, Carl Hagenburger, Mentor, O.

Entertainment—G. W. Smith, chairman; C. J. Graham, S. N. Pentecost, F. C. Witthuhn, Robert Weeks.

Decorations—F. C. W. Brown, chairman; G. B. Shearer, Walter Priest, C. A. Meyers, T. J. Kirschner.

Premiums—Herbert Bate, chairman; Frank A. Friedley, J. Curnow, Akron. Non-commercial displays—Robt. Weeks, chairman; Geo. Jacques, J. Curnow.

Retail displays—C. E. Russell, chairman; Frank Ritzenthaler, C. M. Wagner.

Admissions—Timothy Smith, chairman; A. B. Barber, Charles F. Bastian, W. A. Bramley, W. A. Calhoun, F. W. Griffin, Albert Lingruen, F. R. Williams.

Pittsburgh.

WARM WEATHER BRINGS BIG SUPPLY.

Indian summer is in full evidence and the return of warmer weather has effected a marked change in the daily receipts. The warm sunshine has brought out large cuts of roses and chrysanthemums, although carnations are still scarce. The heavy supply of chrysanthemums has affected the sales on dahlias, of which a fair amount are still left. The coming Saturday will be a hummer for chrysanthemums, mainly yellow, the event being the annual football battle between the W. & J. and Pittsburgh teams, the feature local event of the fall. Many of the retailers are beginning to prepare artificial holiday pieces, taking advantage of an early start while business is not rushing. The newer roses look well and find good sales, but they cannot possibly equal the popular demand of the old Killarney.

NOTES.

The Ludwig Floral Company reports a good business in fall decorating and artificial work, finding good sales in small baskets made up of artificial dahlias, roses, etc.

John Sisley, of the firm of Spragg & Sisley, Washington, Pa., has sold out his interest to Mr. Spragg, who will hereafter conduct the business himself.

Randolph & McClements are cutting heavily on the fancy varieties of chrysanthemums, most of which they wholesale through The McCallum Company.

Barnett's Flower Shop is the new firm doing a retail business on Second avenue, Hazelwood, formerly operating a store in Sharon, Pa.

Visitors: A. Miller, of A. Henderson & Co., Chicago; Milton Alexander, of Lion & Co., New York.

Minneapolis.

Stock of the very best quality is arriving on the market in quantities sufficient to meet all demands. Carnations are selling at from two to four cents and chrysanthemums are quoted at prices varying from $1 to $3 per dozen.

NOTES.

W. D. Desmond and his force have been very busy with decorations. The church and home for the Murphy wedding, as well as the decorations at the Minneapolis Athletic club, were handled with his usual good taste.

Geo. Valker has been very busy at his home in Minot, N. D., entertaining his trade friends who were there registering for the Berthold reservation land distribution.

The Minnesota State Horticultural Society will hold its meeting and exhibition at the West hotel, commencing December 7. An elaborate display is anticipated.

Louis Dancik, proprietor of the Northwestern Wire Works, has added an automobile to his delivery service to take care of the rapidly increasing business.

C. F. Rice and O. H. Carlson have returned from a hunting trip with a nice bag of ducks and chickens.

Max Kaiser has an addition to his family, a boy, and the trade are extending congratulations.

T. C. Rogers is no longer in the employ of O. Amundson. T. C. R.

Newport, R. I.

The Lord & Burnham Co., New York, has just completed on the Widener property what is said to be the best equipped bedding plant house in Newport, R. I. The house is a span-roof, 24x82 feet. The roof curves over the side benches, affording best light. There are four rows of ventilators, two on top and one on each side. The house is divided in the center by a glass partition. The heating system is hot water carried in 18 lines of four-inch pipe, controlled by valves that regulate the heat to a minimum. It has three walks and four benches. The benches are built of cypress with iron supports. The house was selected by the gardener, William Allan, as being best suited for its requirements, which includes the growing of over 50,000 bedding plants, 35,000 of which will be used in planting out a sunken garden of a French design. This greenhouse is augmented by rows of frames built to the sides of the house and heated by one line of two-inch pipes, which are attached to the front and back of the frame.

BUFFALO, N. Y.—Galley Bros., who conduct a range at Gardenville, N. Y., will open a retail establishment in this city at 161 East Genesee street.

Detroit.

MARKET IS OVERCROWDED.

The past two weeks of bright weather has made a wonderful reversal of recent supply and demand conditions. The great scarcity of fall flowers, so general up to the present week, has given way to a corresponding oversupply that at times threatens to be a glut. Chrysanthemums are coming into the market in great quantities and buyers are becoming more critical and only the choicest command the prices obtained for the first of the season. Roses are finer, more plentiful and much easier in price, and the carnation stock is daily becoming larger and a depressing factor in the general supply. Easter lilies too are more plentiful and only the best bring fair prices.

NOTES.

The club meeting, Tuesday evening, October 26, brought out an unusually large attendance, due chiefly to the announcement that the project of a proposed big flower show in November, 1916, would be thoroughly discussed and if possible decided upon. The sentiment of the members plainly favored the enterprise, but it was deemed better to await the result of the Cleveland show before undertaking it here. A big delegation to the "Forest City" was promised and the report of these at the club meeting, November 23, will be followed by definite action, which it is hoped will decide in favor of a big show here, carried out on similar lines to that of Cleveland. The consideration of a plan of credits for customers of retailers was given much time and a list of slow payers and undesirables will be exchanged between the florists wishing to benefit by the precautionary measure. Elmer D. Smith, Adrian, Mich., sent to the meeting splendid blooms of new seedling chrysanthemums, one, a new shade of orange, another a yellow seedling of Chrysolora, and a white, named October Queen, all for 1916 dissemination. All the growers present pronounced the varieties decided acquisitions and the club's official endorsement was given them and the grower notified accordingly. The variety October Queen is a large incurred variety, pure white without the faintest suspicion of yellow, a point in its favor, highly prized by the retailers. The foliage of this variety indicated the free growth attributed to it by the grower.

The Flower Shop, 37 East Grand River avenue, has opened a branch store at 1962 Joseph Campau avenue. Herman P. Klegge has charge of it, while his uncle and partner, Herman D. Klegge, looks after the East Grand River avenue shop. They report the new enterprise doing well.

OBITUARY.

Harry H. Allen.

Harry H. Allen, son of Charles H. and Mrs. Allen of Floral Park, N. Y., died October 30 of septic pneumonia, after a week's illness. His father is a well known florist and his uncle, W. S. Allen, has long been identified with the wholesale trade of New York. He was a grandson of the late C. F. Allen. He had been employed by the R. & G. Corset Company.

A. F. F.

Mrs. Katherine Dorval.

Mrs. Katherine Dorval, mother of Victor and Edward Dorval, who comprise the firm of Victor Dorval's Sons, Woodside, Long Island, N. Y., died at her home there, October 26, in her seventy-seventh year. She was the widow of the late Victor Dorval and they were pioneer florists of Woodside, which is now a part of the city of New York. Her husband died about eight years ago. They were married and settled in Woodside over 40 years ago, and by industry and thrift accumulated property and built up a good business. All their children were born in the present homestead. Until four days before her death, Mrs. Dorval had retained her health and faculties to a marked degree and took an active interest in the affairs of life. In addition to the two sons, Victor and Edward, one daughter, Mary, survives her. She was a member of St. Sebastian's Roman Catholic church of Woodside, where her funeral was held at 10 a. m., October 29.

A. F. F.

Frederick W. Timme.

Frederick W. Timme, the well known Chicago florist, died at the German-American hospital, that city, October 27, after a protracted illness. Mr. Timme was born in Magdeburg, Germany, January 14, 1843, and came to the United States in 1857. He enlisted in the Civil war as a sailor in the Mississippi squadron, serving on board Admiral Lee's Flagship Black Hawk, 1863-64. The vessel was destroyed during the siege of Natchez, Mr. Timme receiving injuries which confined him to the hospital for eight months, and were the indirect cause of his many years of suffering and death. After receiving his honorable discharge from the navy he spent five years in and around La Salle, landscaping, and laying out many places, among them that of Mathewson, the zinc magnate. He came to Chicago in 1870 and entered the employ of Allan Pinkerton, the detective, as private gardener, where he met and married Isabelle Johnstone, of Crystal Lake. Leaving the employ of Pinkerton he entered that of Capt. Parker, of Oconomowoc, Wis., laying out his large summer home on the shore of Oconomowoc lake. He also laid out large places in Lakeside and Oak Park. He was one of the men who helped in the making of Lincoln park from an old cemetery. He then entered the employ of Potter Palmer as private gardener, starting with the conservatories on the roof of the Palmer house, moving from there to Forty-seventh street and Grand boulevard, where he grew the first carnations ever grown in Chicago, the stock being imported from France through the late Peter Henderson. The Palmer conservatories were then moved to their present location on Lake Shore Drive. Mr. Timme remained with Potter Palmer some 16 years, enjoying his highest regard and complete confidence. He then bought the property and started in business as a florist at 4016 North Tripp avenue, Irving Park, where he resided and carried on his business for the past 30 years. After starting on his own account he raised a number of new carnations which were mostly distributed by others in the trade. In 1892 he disseminated Lucia, a very profitable scarlet, taking many prizes with it and other varieties at the flower shows. Later he made a specialty of asters and novelties for the Chicago market. During the last few years he devoted his entire time to pot plants. In 1906 he made his first visit to his old home in Germany after an absence of 49 years. He enjoyed the trip so much that he went again the following year, taking his wife and daughter with him. This time he made a more extensive tour, visiting England and other countries, also important horticultural centers in the eastern section of the United States. For many years he was a regular contributor to THE AMERICAN FLORIST, his clear and interesting writings covering a great variety of topics. In 1908 he suffered a severe stroke of paralysis, followed by a slight one eight months later. He recovered sufficiently to enable him to attend to his business and enjoy life until about the latter part of August last when complications set in, causing an entire breakdown, resulting in his death. The funeral services were held October 30 with burial at Crystal Lake. He leaves a widow, one son, Wm. F. of Chicago, a daughter, Mrs. Harry Blewitt of Des Plaines, and one grandson.

FAR AND NEAR.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Mrs. Martha Ann Perry, mother of J. J. Perry, manager of the Baltimore branch of the S. S. Pennock-Meehan Co., Philadelphia, Pa., died at the residence of her daughter in this city, October 13, at the age of 82 years.

LANSING, MICH.—Mrs. Francis King, president of the Women's National Agricultural and Horticultural Association, was a speaker at the meeting of the state federation of women's clubs, held in this city October 22.

FLORISTS with low land may find it advantageous to grow a few pussy willows.

FERTILIZERS containing high percentage of ammonia have been advanced 10 per cent.

COLD weather is coming quick and all heavy shipments of tender plants should be made without delay.

THE very free use of gladiolus flowers this season seems sure to mean more general planting next spring. A big crop of bulbs sold out will mean revenue to the grower even if sold at low prices.

Gasoline.

Chicago basis for gasoline is now 11 1/2 cents, tank wagon, with one cent discount for 100-gallon lots, or over. Kerosene basis is about 6 1/2 cents.

American Rose Society.

The exhibition of roses at the Coliseum in Cleveland, November 10-14, has apparently increased so as to make the approaching show one of very considerable size. There are two special prizes offered, one by the Cleveland Cut Flower Company for $25 in class S6, and the other by the Storrs & Harrison Co., Painesville, O., for $25 in class S7. The American Rose Society will hold a meeting, Thursday, November 11. The exhibition starts Wednesday, November 10.

BENJAMIN HAMMOND, Sec'y.

United States Export Inquiry.

The federal trade commission announces that it will soon send out 30,000 letters of inquiry, followed up by brief schedule, as a part of the investigation of conditions that affect American foreign trade. Congress has empowered the commission to make an investigation of these conditions and to report the facts with such recommendations as it deems advisable. By public hearings throughout the country and by other means the commission has been gathering facts and information as a basis for its report to congress. It now wishes to obtain information from a large number of men who were unable to appear at the hearings. For this purpose these letters and schedules will be sent out. For further details of the investigation address Chairman Joseph E. Davies, Federal Trade Commissioner, Washington, D. C.

SOCIAL SEASON OPENS; DEMAND GOOD.

The fine fall weather and the full launching of the social season has caused increased activity in floral circles and trade might be said to be on a boom in consequence. Nor has the funeral work had a let up, the funerals of several prominent citizens calling for innumerable flowers. One death which occurred in New York was that of Justin Thatcher, noted for his beautiful singing and for many years choir leader in the Tulip Street Methodist church in this city. Another was that of Mrs. T. B. Dallas, whose father-in-law was vice-president under James K. Polk, and another was that of Mrs. Wm. L. Nichol, a noted social leader. Weddings of prominence are many and the regulation bridal bouquet seems to be orchids and lilies of the valley. The orchids seem to be abundant just at present, especially Cattleya Triana, of the fine large variety, and have come in very conveniently for the numerous bridal occasions. Lily of the valley, too, is plentiful and used for many occasions.

The debutante parties are to come in abundance later, and there are many which will help the florist trade. The stock now coming in was never more beautiful. Each grower seems to be vying with the others in the abundance and excellence of the product from the greenhouses. The chrysanthemums are magnificent, of every variety and color, and with their gorgeous beauty brighten every occasion. The American Beauty roses now on sale are handsome large flowers with stems long, longer, longest, or any length desired. All other roses are finely developed, and the buyer can have any color one may desire. Carnations have flowered well and are large and fine. Violets have just made their appearance in the market and are being much sought after.

NOTES.

Geny Bros. are exhibiting flowers that are unsurpassed and are enjoying a fine trade. They have plenty of beautiful lilies, carnations, all varieties of roses and chrysanthemums of all kinds. They, too, rebuilt and added to their plant and placed several leantos which will be very serviceable. They are cutting fine violets and lily of the valley.

L. H. Haury & Sons will change their location the first of the year.

They have been occupying the store in the corner of the Tulane hotel, but will go further down town as they think it will be better for their business. They have fine flowers and a good trade which they will take with them to their new location.

The Joy Floral Company is bringing in a superb lot of flowers and are producing unusually fine orchids, American Beauties, carnations and chrysanthemums. During the past summer they rebuilt eight of their houses, thus securing more and better growing space. M. C. D.

Oklahoma City.

SOCIAL EVENTS STIMULATE DEMAND.

Business has been exceptionally good this week. Not only has there been an increased demand for flowers for social events, but the call for funeral flowers has also been very heavy. The sudden death of one of the associate judges of the supreme court brought with it a lot of work for the florists. Special Saturday sales are being featured and they are proving a good thing; this week Furrow & Co. are running on carnations at special prices while the Stiles Co. are featuring violets. Both firms are cutting chrysanthemums of excellent quality and they are selling well. The weather this season has been very favorable for this crop.

NOTES.

John Furrow returned, October 26, from a very successful duck hunt. As a sequel the entire staff of employees had a very enjoyable dinner of roast duck and the usual accompaniments, at one of the leading cafes that evening, with Furrow & Co. as hosts.

The inter-state foot-ball game between Kansas and Oklahoma which was played October 30, created quite a demand for white chrysanthemums tied with red ribbons, white and red being the university colors.

Geo. W. Stiles gave a talk on "Planting Bulbs for Spring Flowering," at the annual meeting of the State Civic Improvement Association, held in the Lee Huckins hotel, November 2.

Mrs. Eager and Lon Foster were in El Reno, October 23, arranging the flowers for the funeral of a prominent citizen, Furrow & Co. supplying many large designs and bunches.

The Stiles Co. have added a young lady to their staff of employees. Business is reported very satisfactory.

Visitors: E. H. Furrow and wife returning home from a six weeks' trip through the East, and John Furrow, Guthrie; A. N. Humason, representing the Payne Jennings Advertising Co., Chicago. S. S. B.

Cincinnati.

ALL SAINTS' DAY DEMAND LIGHT.

All Saints' day sales hardly came up to the expectations of the trade in general. There were too many outdoor flowers and they caused a decided slump in the usual prices for this day. Chrysanthemums are in a very heavy supply and are most in demand, but are so plentiful that prices for them are only fair. Pompons are in good supply. Roses, too, are plentiful and are more than able to care for immediate wants in this line. Carnations are of high quality, but do not have the good market their quality merits. Some very fine single violets may be had. Other offerings include Easter lilies, cosmos, dahlias, lily of the valley, sweet peas and orchids. The supply of greens is adequate.

NOTES.

The enterprising E. G. Hill Floral Co. gave chrysanthemum exhibitions in the foyer of the Lyric theater and at their store last week. Both were good and were well attended.

C. J. Ohmer and wife and Master Jim Ohmer, who have been visiting E. G. Gillett and wife, expect to return to their home at West Palm Beach, Fla., November 5.

The regular meeting of the florists' society will be held at the establishment of J. A. Peterson & Sons Monday, November 8, at 4 p. m.

C. E. Critchell has been having a good demand for baskets.

Visitors: Martin Reukauf, representing H. Bayersdorfer & Co., Philadelphia, Pa., and C. Kogleman, Greensburg, Ind. H.

READING, PA.—The Rosedale Floral Co. has opened an up-to-date retail store at 46 North Ninth street.

TORONTO, ONT.—Approximately 5,000 persons attended the formal opening of John H. Dunlop's new flower shop on Adelaide street, October 6-7. The establishment is up-to-date in its appointments and the opening proved to be a real society event.

STOCK OF ALL KINDS IS PLENTIFUL. Business has been rather quiet the past week, and outside of the shipping demand, there was practically very little doing with the result that stock of all kinds is plentiful and prices have dropped considerably. The demand for All Saints' day was as good as in former years, but the call this season was mostly for white chrysanthemums, white roses, white carnations and a few pink chrysanthemums, which leads one to believe that many of the southern growers were in crop with yellow chrysanthemums and that the retail florist only bought in this market what stock his dealers could not supply. American Beauty roses are in good supply and are reaching the market in splendid condition. Mrs. Chas. Russell roses are in good demand and clean up well. Roses in general are plentiful, and while white have cleaned up pretty well the past week, there has been plenty to go around. Lilies are in good supply and the same holds good for orchids. Violets are plentiful and the New York stock is especially fine this season, which also applies to the home grown singles. Chrysanthemums are reaching the market in large numbers, but fancy stock is selling quickly, and it is only the inferior grades that are being sacrificed at low prices. Pompoms are in better supply and clean up fairly well at prices ranging from 25 to 50 cents per bunch. Carnations have taken a drop in price and there is now plenty to go around, but it would not be surprising if the market cleaned up on this item before the week is over. A few indoor grown gladioli are being offered, but not in any great quantities. Sweet peas are not any too plentiful. A limited supply of pink and yellow snapdragons and daisies is being offered as is mignonette, and the first stevia of the season made its appearance this week. While stock of all kinds is plentiful at this writing a change in the market conditions may be expected for the demand is better and certain items are likely to be scarce before the week is over. The Grand Floral Festival will open at the Coliseum next week, November 9-14, and all that is needed now to make the affair the big success that it should be is favorable weather. Everyone in the trade has been boosting the show and there is no question but what the Grand Floral Festival will help the trade in general as far as increased business is concerned, coming as it does just before the holidays.

The Late George Economopolus.

NOTES.

The funeral of the late George Economopolus, one of the proprietors of the Alpha Floral Co., was held Sunday, October 31, and was largely attended. Services were held at the Hellenic Orthodox Church, 1017 North La Salle avenue, and the remains were laid to rest in Elmwood cemetery. A special train was chartered on the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad and a large number of friends and acquaintances in the trade accompanied the body on the train to the final resting place, and many others made the trip to the cemetery in automobiles, a distance of about 17 miles. Peter Duris, Louis Visas, John Propps, S. Pappas, George Cordatos and Nick Bouras acted as pallbearers. The floral offerings from the trade were many and beautiful and five large automobiles were necessary to convey them to the church and depot. Nearly every house in the wholesale market was represented at the funeral and many prominent retail florists were also present. Gus Pappas, of Des Moines, Ia., one of the members of the Alpha Floral Co., had charge of the funeral arrangements, and will appoint a manager for the store before leaving for home.

Sinner Bros. report a great increase in their business since they have been located in their present quarters on the main floor of the Atlas building.

E. F. Winterson and wife celebrated their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary Friday, October 29, when they received many beautiful presents and telegrams from their friends in the trade in honor of the occasion.

O. Johnson says that American Beauty roses are in better demand this season at the Batavia Greenhouse Co.'s establishment than they have been any previous year during the chrysanthemum season.

The baby that arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry J. Lister, October 30, died the following day. Mrs. Lister is a daughter of A. C. Kohl-brand, E. C. Amling Co.'s veteran specialist.

Miller & Musser are featuring a large supply of Bonnaffon chrysanthemums this week, which clean up quickly at good prices.

Adam Zender has been troubled considerably of late with rheumatism, but is able to be about.

E. F. Kurowski will represent the John C. Moninger Co. at the Cleveland Flower Show.

BEAUTIES-ROSES-CARNATIONS

A new firm known as the American Greenhouse Manufacturing Co., started in business this week with headquarters in the Masonic Temple building, room 1503, just around the corner from the wholesale cut flower market. Philip L. McKee, who has been identified with the John C. Moninger Co. for the past 11 years, a part of the time as general manager and second vice-president, is president and treasurer and is well and favorably known to the trade. He is the designer of the bolted through the pipe houses and new types of steel frame houses, as well as many specialties. Mr. McKee says that their new factory will be in running order in about three weeks and that the location will be announced later. The firm is ready to submit estimates and plans, give engineering advice, etc. The company has been incorporated and is well fixed financially and there is no question but what Mr. McKee and his associates will be successful in their undertaking.

The J. D. Thompson Carnation Co. will give an excursion to its greenhouses at Joliet, Thursday, November 11, when all the carnation growers attending the Grand Floral Festival are cordially invited to participate. A special train will leave this city at 11:45 a. m. via Rock Island at the La Salle street depot and return about 5:30 p. m. Free tickets will be supplied to everyone and a good Dutch luncheon will be served at the greenhouses. Superintendent Peterson is anxious to have everyone see the new carnation Aviator growing, which is one of the freest blooming carnations ever produced, and has made arrangements to accommodate a large crowd. Everyone is welcome, and should the date of the excursion be changed it will be announced in the Coliseum; otherwise the present arrangement will stand.

R. R. Brenton, of Kennicott Bros. Co., chairman of the special feature committee and publicity director for the Grand Floral Festival, has been busy as a bee the past two weeks, and now has his work well under way. He has made arrangements with Mary Wood Hinman, the Anna Morgan Studios, Mme. Josephine Hatlanek, Mme. Young of the Chicago Musical College, Mrs. Laura O. Parsons and Mrs. Jean Van Vlissingen of the Blackstone to hold novelty dances each day during the show in the order named.

Poehlmann Bros. Co. has had on display the past week the beautiful five-piece silver service set which it donated as a prize to the Grand Floral Festival to be held in the Coliseum next week for the best basket of flowers arranged for effect. This firm is showing a good supply of Mrs. Chas. Russell roses, which are attracting much attention and are some of the best that they have cut this season. The supply department is very busy and will have a big display of holiday goods during flower show week.

Zech & Mann report that the southern demand for All Saints' day this year was mostly for white chrysanthemums, white roses and white carnations. In other years yellow chrysanthemums were in brisk demand and the only reason that Allie Zech can figure out that there was not much call for them this year is that the buyers must have been able to secure all they needed from their home growers.

A. L. Vaughan & Co. are having a good call for the bronze chrysanthemums that they are receiving from the Buckbee greenhouses at Rockford and which are being used to a great extent in the window displays of the local retail florists. Mr. Vaughan says that the shipping trade was remarkably good on October 31, which helped considerably to make the month the best October ever experienced.

Weiland & Risch's new rose Champ Weiland has been featured quite extensively in the daily press the past week in connection with the publicity that the Grand Floral Festival is receiving. The rose will be on exhibit for the first time at the show next week as will Feamma, another one of their new roses.

At Wieter Bros.' store carnations are arriving in large quantities and one variety in particular that looks fine and is having a good call is Rosette, W. N. Rudd's favorite. Pompons are also plentiful at this house and one of the best paying varieties on the entire list is Golden Climax, according to N. J. Wieter.

A. T. Pyfer & Co. should have been credited with the donation of the silver cup for Class 135 in premium list of the Grand Floral Festival instead of Pyfer & Olsem, as it appears. The cup will be awarded to the one making the best display of carnations, not to exceed 200 blooms, accessories permitted.

N. P. Miller was operated upon Friday, October 29, when a large tumor was removed from the back of his head. While the operation was not a pleasant one, it did not interfere with the duties that he had to perform as secretary of the Grand Floral Festival, to be held in the Coliseum, November 9-14.

A baby boy gladdened the home of Reverend J. M. Bailey and wife of Oak Park this week, which accounts for the many fine smokes that Grandpapa E. C. Amling distributed.

J. E. Quallich, of the A. L. Randall Co., is hatching it while his wife is visiting her parents at Cleveland, O., who have just returned from Austria and Germany via Holland.

Robert Northam takes great delight in showing George Reinberg's customers his fancy long-stemmed pompons which is one of his chief offerings this week.

O. A. Tonner reports a good demand for pink snapdragons which she is handling in quantity.

C. L. Washburn says that October was the best month that Bassett & Washburn ever experienced and which he attributes to the early frosts that killed all the outdoor stock and caused a heavy demand for indoor flowers, which brought high prices. In speaking of chrysanthemums, Mr. Washburn speaks highly of the varieties Golden Queen, Marigold and Crystal Gem, and he has every reason to do so, for the stock that they are offering in these is fine and sells readily.

William Lubliner and his brother Dan left for Milwaukee, Wis., this week to take charge of the new store that they are opening there at 227 Grand avenue.

Miss M. C. Gunterberg says that New York violets are unusually fine this season and that she never handled any better ones at this time of the year than those that she is offering now.

J. A. Budlong and the Chicago Flower Growers' Association expect to move into their new quarters on the main floor of the Le Moyne building some time next week.

William Johnson and Peter Hoefelder, of A. L. Vaughan & Co., attended the White-Wells fight at Milwaukee, Wis., Friday evening, October 29.

The next meeting of the florists' club will be held at the Hotel Morrison, Room A1, November 4 at eight p. m.

Schiller has acquired the Lubliner & Trinz business on Wabash avenue, providing sales and delivery facilities in the loop which Manager Asmus says were greatly needed to properly serve the firm's constantly increasing trade. The modern flower buyer, he says, wants to see the goods and he proposes to accommodate customers to the fullest extent possible. Headquarters remain at the old stand, 2221-23 West Madison street, which grows more prosperous each year, and the new store, which is being decorated and refitted in up-to-date style, with the flourishing north side establishment on Broadway, should give the firm many advantages in serving its city and suburban patrons.

Felix Reichling visited Peter Reinberg's carnation range Sunday, October 31, and brings back the report that the stock is in splendid condition and never looked better. This firm cut their first sweet peas this week, and now have plenty to supply all their customers. All of Reinberg's field-grown carnation plants have been sold and it might not be amiss to mention many nice orders were booked from customers who read their advertisement in THE AMERICAN FLORIST.

J. A. Peterson, the veteran Ohio plantsman, made the trip from Cincinnati to this city in his auto last week via Indianapolis, showing samples of his specialties to customers enroute. Mrs. Peterson joined her husband Saturday, making the trip by rail, and the couple left on the return auto trip via Ft. Wayne, November 1.

Percy Jones is handling large quantities of chrysanthemums, which reminds one of old times, for this is always one of his leaders and this year is no exception. Boxwood is in good demand and the stock offered is the pick of Virginia hedge and tree varieties.

Kyle & Foerster will spend their first Thanksgiving in a store on the main floor this year and it is evidently to their liking, for neither one of the proprietors have looked as healthy and happy as they do now.

The John Kruchten Co. never has any trouble in disposing of all the Mrs. Chas. Russell roses that it receives, and it is remarkable how quickly this variety cleans up, even when other stock is plentiful.

PRICES WEAKEN AS SUPPLY INCREASES.

Supply is still holding the advance made last week; in fact, has gained more ground, while demand needs reinforcements or help from his distributing allies, who have not been able to lighten his load or push his cause to any extent. In other words, flowers are being brought to market faster than they can be sold and prices are receding. The stock is splendid for the season; all the new roses are making good and sell as well as the older sorts. Ophelia, particularly, is becoming a great favorite. American Beauties hold their own, being the acknowledged leader. Dahlias are done for, and yet a few growers are sending in from protected patches that still give good flowers. The chrysanthemum is now the great factor and there was a great demand for all grades of white for All Saints' day, which cleaned the market up completely. Splendid flowers are now seen of all the mid-season sorts. Maud Dean and her sister sports are expected the last of this week, as are also Bonnaffon. A few early sweet peas are offered, but have not much to recommend them. Lily of the valley is more plentiful. There are a few callas, and Easter lilies are far in excess of the demand. Snapdragons in all colors are in ever increasing supply. Pansies are in.

FLORISTS' CLUB MEETING.

The November meeting of the florists' club was a very lively affair. "The Fakir On Our Streets" was the subject for discussion. Wm. Graham and Wm. P. Craig, who were to have charge of the debate, pro and con, both evaded the issue, while the two old war horses, Robt. Craig for, and John Westcott against, fought it out. For a while Craig, Westcott, Meehan, Zieger, Coldfish, Betz, Kift and others took a hand, but finally in the vote the growers who outnumbered the retailers ten to one, gave the fakir a clean bill of health, as they did not see how they could get along without him.

NOTES.

The holding of the chrysanthemum show of the Pennsylvania Horticultural Society in the second week of November is a sensible move. This period finds all but the very late sorts in their prime and a finished exhibition of the best kind is assured. Cut roses, carnations, and in fact all indoor flowers, will be further advanced and make a better display. Would it not be a good idea for the publicity committee to try their "Prentice" hand on this show? There is not much time, but they might take a leaf out of Cleveland's book as a guide. After looking over the array of trade exhibits secured, one might easily think it a meeting of the S. A. F. What a bustling crowd they must be to get such results in so short a time? Chicago, too, is getting a move on; their poster is a beauty, and from the published prospectus, their show will be worth going a long distance to see. These successes will no doubt wake up other cities, many of which need only to be shown the way. Let the good work go on.

Genial John Walker was in town last week. He reports business good in Youngstown, O. He is one of the happiest men in the business. A custom that augurs well for the flower trade, which appears to be on the increase, is the decoration or display of plants or cut flowers in the show windows of the various retail stores in all lines in the retail district. For this feature some use a foliage or flowering plant and others a vase of flowers changed about twice a week. Here is a chance to speed the business up a little and is well worth the attention of the wide-awake decorator.

Large invoices of boxwood have been received by several growers. They never carried better or looked more robust or healthy. The use of these plants for window decorations appears to be on the increase, as every block in the better residence districts is becoming dotted with window boxes or plants in vestibules or on door steps.

The Robert Craig Co. is shipping stock in large quantities these autumn days. Preparations for the Christmas holidays are a feature; the begonias, cyclamens and poinsettias are receiving every attention, these and the large houses of fancy foliage plants appearing in the best possible condition.

Edward Reid is enthusiastic over the high class chrysanthemums from A. N. Pierson, Inc., Cromwell, Conn. They are certainly fine. His high-grade American Beauties and carnations are well worthy of mention.

New York.

AVERAGE BUSINESS; SUPPLY ADEQUATE.

The wholesale business of the past week was no more than average for this season. The weather was fine, and fine weather is supposed to bring out shoppers, and it does, but it also has another effect. Many of the people who are wealthy enough to own automobiles, horses or a pack of dogs, are likely to be elsewhere than at their city homes in fine autumn weather. Even Thanksgiving does not, in these later years, bring back the members to the home and fireside that it did in "ye olden tymes," and more's the pity, but there is no help for it. There have been weddings, and the inevitable funeral work, and with the counter trade from the fixed population, there is a steady demand for a varying amount of stock, but the demand is not heavy enough to create any flurry in the market. The chrysanthemums are the leading features and are moving fairly well. We would not say that there is a scarcity of white chrysanthemums, but there is no surplus and they bring a somewhat better price than the yellows. There is an abundance of pompons on the market and they move fairly well. While there is good stock of the yellow, commercial varieties on the market, there is a quantity that is inferior and cheap. It seems to us that if some of the growers would stick to tried and proved varieties and do less experimenting, they would be better off. There is no surplus of special American Beauty roses and they keep steady, and the same may be said of orchids. There has been an increase in the supply of tea roses and the left-overs necessarily sell cheap. The supply of carnations has greatly increased and $1.50 per 100 is now a fair price for average stock, shorter stems going at $1 per 100. The supply of violets has greatly increased and the quality is improving, but they move very slowly. There are enough lilies and lily of the valley to supply the demand and prices are normal. The dahlias and other outdoor stock have taken the count. For the week ending November 6, two flower shows will be running in this city, one at Tarrytown, one at Oyster Bay, one at New London, Conn., and another at Stamford, Conn. The following week comes the much advertised Cleveland show, which is likely to have quite a number of visitors from this city. It will thus be seen that anybody who gets tired of business can find diversion in attending shows.

November 1.—The month opens with fair and mild weather and business is moving along in fair condition, but there is room for improvement. American Beauty roses are doing somewhat better, $35 per 100 being now secured for some selected stock. Tea roses are slow and some left overs of short stock have gone as low as 50 cents per 100. Carnations are also slow and range from $1 to $2 per 100. Violets are doing a little better. In orchids there is a tendency toward stiffer prices. The business in chrysanthemums is good, considering all other features. Gardenias are scarce.

NOTES.

John Weir, the veteran florist of this city, who is now a buyer and salesman for C. C. Trepel, celebrated his seventieth birthday, October 29. We have noticed that when a man gets to be seventy, people are prone to flatter him a little; tell him he looks much younger and all that sort of stuff, whether it is true or not. In Mr. Weir's case, flattery is unnecessary, for truth is not only stronger, but often stranger than fiction. He is in the early market every morning by 6 o'clock, often earlier. From that hour on until 8 p. m., he is constantly on the go between the various wholesale stores. On his birthday he varied his usual program by working in the store until 10 p. m. Another variation was that he nearly threw "Big Bill" Bogart, another buyer, over the counter for "sassing" him. You can take our word for it, and we could produce plenty of corroborative evidence, that Johnnie Weir is a more active man than a lot of young fellows of 20. It may interest many to know that he neither drinks whiskey nor uses tobacco in any form.

William Kather, formerly with Wadley & Smythe, has opened a nice retail store at 754 Madison avenue. In addition to good ground floor space, he has a large room on the second floor which has three large show windows where foliage plants and Christmas and Easter stock can be displayed to advantage. He is a clever and capable young man and will undoubtedly be successful.

Among those from this city who attended the Madison, N. J., flower show, October 28-29, were Frank Traendly, W. E. Marshall, Harry A. Bunyard, Eugene Dailedouze, John Dailedouze, Harry A. Barnard, representing Stuart Low & Co., Sussex, England, and J. B. Deamud and Miss Belle Peck, representing Vaughan's Seed Store, Chicago and New York.

Guttman & Raynor, Inc., are receiving quantities of the new pink rose Prima Donna. They are, so far as we are aware, the only wholesale dealers who have it. The special stock is selling at the rate of $20 per 100. A. J. Guttman advises us that he will exhibit it at the next meeting of the New York Florists' Club, November 8.

Leikens, Inc., had a fine wedding decoration at the Hotel St. Regis, October 27. The bride's and bridesmaids' bouquets were made up in his best style, which is hard to excel. The bride's was a beautiful creation of bridal orchids and lily of the valley; the bridesmaids' of cattilyea labiata.

We have noticed at the store of Chas. A. Dards a vase of a new cerise pink rose named Prima Donna. This is a fine appearing rose, both in quality of bloom and stem. At this store exceptionally fine window decorations of chrysanthemums with autumn foliage are now seen.

The next meeting of the New York Florists' Club will be held in the Grand Opera House building, 8th avenue and 23d street, on the evening of November 8. We understand it is likely to be an interesting event and there should be a large attendance.

We have recently noticed at Traendly & Schenck's very fine stock of the following varieties of chrysanthemums: Chrysolora, Pink Gem, Fidelity, C. H. Totty, O. H. Broomhead, Chieftain, White Chieftain, Naomah and Matchless.

Under the name of "Florist Company" a new retail store has been started at 10 East 50th street, which is just off Fifth avenue and opposite St. Patrick's Cathedral. John Huber, formerly with the old firm of Hanft Bros., is manager.

Clarence Slinn, who has for some time occupied part of the store with D. C. Arnold & Co., 112 West 28th street, has taken the store at 123 West 28th street, to conduct a wholesale business.

As will be elsewhere noted, the wholesalers have recently heaped more honors on President Traendly. He has been a president quite a number of times, but they must have him.

Alexander M. Westwood, the Pennsylvania Terminal florist, advises us that his trade in violets is improving. He probably sells more violets than any other retailer in this city.

SUPPLY SHORT AND PRICES ADVANCE.

Business the past week was very good, and a noticeable shortening up of greenhouse stock resulted in prices being boosted. Roses were very scarce, but those on the market were of exceptionally good quality, Sawyer, Russell and Sunburst bringing eight to ten cents. Carnations were obtainable in small numbers only. Chrysanthemums are in better supply, among the recent arrivals being Mme. Touset, Halliday, Unaka and Glory of the Pacific. Violets are coming in, but as yet are very small. Severe frosts have finished up the outdoor stock. Lily of the valley and orchids are good stock.

NOTES.

Miss Helen Patten of Toledo, O., was a recent visitor and reports fall business in that city exceptionally good. She is boosting for the Toledo flower show to be held November 6-10.

The National Real Estate Men's Association held its annual convention in this city last week. A number of the local florists donated flowers and decorated the tables at the banquet.

Frank Knecht of this city and Christ Winterich of Defiance, O., are planning to attend both the Toledo and the Cleveland flower shows. Stock at the Knecht greenhouses, especially roses and chrysanthemums, are looking fine.

Visitor: M. Lion, representing Lion & Co., New York.

ALL STOCKS IN GOOD DEMAND.

Business the past week has been exceptionally good, with funeral work holding up well. The supply is moderate. Chrysanthemums are coming in slowly and command much better prices than a year ago. Carnations are improving and meet with a good demand. Halloween sales were very good and brought forth a good demand for yellow chrysanthemums as well as other flowers. Several of the florist shops had appropriate displays in the windows for the occasion, and while the sales averaged small, as hard times seem to prevail to a certain extent, the decorations had a stimulating effect.

NOTES.

Macnair has re-decorated his two stores, and they look very attractive in their hirsch bark dress.

A new chrysanthemum, grown by John W. Urquhart, gardener to Governor R. Livingston Beekman, has been named in honor of Mrs. R. Livingston Beekman. It is a large white flower, measuring nine inches in diameter. The Newport Horticultural Society at its meeting awarded a first class certificate for the flower.

It has been reported that a large number of greenhouses are to be erected in this vicinity. Among the growers who will add to their establishments are the following: James Hay, East Providence; Wm. Hoffman, Pawtucket; Joseph Kopelman & Co., Butler hospital, Chas. Hunt and Richard Higgins, Providence. This seems to indicate that business is improving.

The Lapham Floral Co. is opening a new store in the Fanning building, Broad street, Pawtucket.

The Seed Trade

American Seed Trade Association.

J. M. Lupton, Mattituck, L. I., N. Y., President; Kirby B. White, Detroit, Mich., First Vice-President; F. W. Bolgiano, Washington, D. C., Second Vice-President; C. E. Kendel, Cleveland, O., Secretary and Treasurer. Thirty-fourth annual convention, June, 1916.

THE annual meeting of Indiana canners is scheduled for November 11 at the Claypool hotel, Indianapolis.

NORTHERN grown seed of early varieties of sweet corn will probably be scarce and higher the coming season.

FRITZ VON DIPPE, oldest son of Fr. von Dippe, Quedlinburg, Germany, died of his war wounds August 10, age 29 years.

BOUQUET GREEN supply is reported from northern districts as accumulating under the auspices of very favorable weather.

CINCINNATI, O.—B. W. Dulaney, of J. Chas. McCullough who has been confined to his home with severe lumbago is slowly recovering.

VISITED CHICAGO: C. C. Massie, of Northrup, King & Co., Minneapolis, Minn.; Jessie M. Good, seedswoman, Springfield, O.; Theo. Cobb, of D. M. Ferry & Co., Detroit, Mich.

B. HAMMOND TRACY is certainly "getting the jump" on other gladiolus growers when he starts his advertising campaign in the November magazines with "Christmas Gift Box of Gladioli."

P. A. BONVALLET & Co., of Wichert, Ill., have acquired A. E. Kunderd's growing stock of Myrtle and Mrs. Frank Pendleton gladioli. A. Henderson & Co., Chicago, are this firm's selling agents.

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.—Announcements are out for the wedding of L. M. King, of Northrup, King & Co., and Miss Helen Dunwoody Abbott, daughter of Doctor and Mrs. Abbott of this city, November 27.

ALBERT DICKINSON, the veteran Chicago seedsman, reached his seventy-third birthday anniversary October 28. His old-time friend, Henry Nungesser, came on from New York to help him celebrate the occasion.

NEW YORK.—Vaughan's Seed Store is receiving this week a good big consignment of Dutch bulbs secured early in October through their traveler, C. N. Jackman, who was then in Holland. This firm reports spiraea and Colvilli gladioli also in stock.

SOME sections in the west, and most in the northwest, will have to use last year's crop of field seed corn. This will reduce the available quantity of high germination seed very materially because cribbed corn in the west usually loses a good deal of its vitality during the winter months.

CHICAGO.—Prices for grass seed on the Board of Trade, November 3, were as follows: Timothy, $5.50 to $7.75 per 100 pounds.—Vaughan's Seed Store is receiving large shipments of Chinese lily bulbs this week, some having fortunately escaped the Seattle pier fire, where they were unloaded, by 24 hours.

BUFFALO, N. Y.—Horace J. Harvey, one of the founders of the Harvey Seed Co., this city, died October 30, age 78 years. Mr. Harvey retired from the seed business many years ago to engage in other lines.

THE annual meeting of the Wholesale Seedsmen's League will be held the last week in November, probably the 25th, definite date to be fixed by President Bruggerhof as soon as a meeting place has been secured.

LOS ANGELES, CALIF.—F. J. Poor and L. D. Rising have organized the Western Seed Co., doing a general seed business at 116-118 East Seventh street. Both members of the firm have been engaged in the seed trade with other houses for a number of years and are familiar with all lines of the business.

A. D. HEFFRON, of the Albert Dickinson Seed Co., Chicago, it is reported, will be married to Miss Lina E. Brown, of Detroit, Mich., November 6. It is also stated that Mr. Heffron's daughter, Helen, is soon to announce her engagement to a young Minneapolis professor and that Arthur, Jr., will announce his engagement with Miss Helen Barker.

DUTCH BULB scarcity continues, and although consignments arrived this week in New York there are no extras known at this writing. Crocus, snowdrops and jonquils are very scarce items of the cheaper kinds of bulbs and are practically unobtainable. Named tulips in the distinct colors, scarlet, yellow and pink, are apparently wanted in much larger lots than are available.

W. Atlee Burpee.

The Philadelphia Evening Telegraph of October 27 gives W. Atlee Burpee's portrait in its Men of Affairs department with the following notice: "Mr. Burpee was born April 5, 1858, at Sheffield, New Brunswick. When a child he was brought to Philadelphia by his parents. He was educated at the Friends' School and the University of Pennsylvania. In 1876 he entered the seed industry. The firm of W. Atlee Burpee & Co. is now the largest mail order seed business in the world. He is a director of the Market Street National Bank and the Northern Trust Co. He has held high offices in the Wholesale Seedsmen's League, the American Seed Trade Association, National Sweet Pea Association of America, and National Sweet Pea Association of Great Britain. His clubs are the Union League, Art, University, City, Racquet, Bachelors' Barge and Poor Richard of Philadelphia, the Lansdowne Country, Merion Cricket, and National Arts and City Clubs of New York."

Mr. Burpee has been in poor health and does not mend as his friends would like. He is taking an entire rest from business.

Northrup, King & Co. to Build.

A deal was closed last week whereby Northrup, King & Co., Minneapolis, Minn., purchased of the Pillsbury heirs eight acres of land on Central avenue between Fourteenth and Eighteenth avenue N. E., lying between the right of way of the Great Northern and Northern Pacific roads. The consideration paid is not made public, but it is one of the choicest locations for warehouse and manufacturing purposes that can be acquired in the city. This property is to be improved next spring to care for the jobbing and general seed business of the company. The property purchased includes 1,800 feet of Great Northern trackage and 500 or 600 of Northern Pacific trackage, together with Burlington tracks. This is the largest trackage deal in the city this season.

Bean Seizures by Government Explained.

The department of agriculture has been requested by many growers and shippers to define its position with respect to the application of the federal food and drugs act to the transportation in interstate commerce of dry pea or navy, medium, and kidney beans. These requests have been prompted by the action of the department in recommending seizures of "cull" beans in sacks and of beans in cans which were found upon examination to contain considerable percentages of beans which were wholly or in part filthy, decomposed or putrid. Under the federal food and drugs act, beans, in common with other articles of food, are adulterated if they consist "in whole or in part of a filthy, decomposed, or putrid animal or vegetable substance." "Cull" beans, in the opinion of the department, usually contain considerable percentages of beans which are wholly or in part filthy or decomposed and are therefore adulterated. The shipment in interstate commerce of such beans for food purposes is prohibited by the act. No objection is entertained, however, to the interstate shipment of "cull" beans for industrial purposes or for use other than as food for man if they are first treated by grinding or otherwise so as to render them unavailable for use as food for man. The department is informed that dry pea or navy, medium, and kidney beans intended for use as food for man are sent customarily by the growers to elevators where the beans are sorted by hand-picking so as to eliminate the beans which are wholly or in part filthy, decomposed, or putrid. It has been represented that in the process of hand-picking nearly all moldy or musty beans are removed, but that it is not practicable to remove all beans which are slightly decomposed. The department has not recommended the seizure of dry and mature pea or navy, medium, or kidney beans which have been hand-picked in accordance with good commercial practice.

New York Imports.

Heavy consignments of azaleas and other plants and bulbs reached this port October 31 on the steamships Rotterdam and Westerdike. A great amount of this stock was consigned to brokers and forwarding agents. A noteworthy arrival was 1,980 bags of sugar beet seed from Germany. It was understood some time ago that the British authorities would permit the shipment of this commodity because it could not be procured in any other country. Relating to condition of plants it can not be definitely stated how they will all yet turn out. It is evident that at least some of the bay trees and some azaleas are in poor condition. Shipments received by well known horticultural dealers and growers follow:

Vaughan's Seed Store, 46 cases plants.

McHutchison & Co., 314 cases plants.
H. Frank Darrow Co., 77 cases plants.

Ralph M. Ward & Co., 54 cases plants.

Bobbink & Atkins, 79 cases plants.
Chas. F. Meyer Corp., 40 cases plants.

MacNiff Hort. Co., 96 cases plants.
Julius Roehrs Co., 30 cases plants.

Shipments were also received by Chas. Schwake & Co., Wm. Elliott & Sons and other dealers.

During the week ending October 30 imports were received from Leith, Scotland, as follows:

Wm. Elliott & Sons, 40 bags soot, 20 bags vegetable manure.

A. T. Boddington Co., 80 bags vegetable manure and soot.

Whitney, Eckstein Seed Co., 9 sacks seed.

Loewith, Larson & Co., 120 bags seed.

Stump & Walter Co., 10 bags soot.

W. E. Marshall Co., 20 bags soot.

Burnett Bros., 50 bags soot.

Weeber & Don, 40 bags soot.

To order, 1,638 barrels seed.

Additional imports at New York October 30 included:

Vaughan's Seed Store, 48 bags fertilizer from London, Eng., and six packages plants from London, for others.

Seeds (flaxseed not included) to the value of $50,065 were in bond October 1, 1915.

DANVILLE, N. Y.—It is estimated that local nurserymen, who have about finished budding, have made plantings of over 2,000,000 trees.

LOUISVILLE, KY.—If the plans of J. E. Barton, state forester, materialize, a willow plantation will be established at the state nursery in this city.

MCKINNEY, TEX.—The McKinney Nursery Co. has been granted an amendment to its charter whereby the capital stock is increased from $20,000 to $30,000.

MACON, GA.—The city park commission has planned to ask the city for 10 acres of land which will be used as a nursery for flowers and shrubbery for the park needs.

GROWERS of citrus fruit in Alabama and Florida are in accord that the United States government should appropriate $2,000,000 to eradicate citrus canker from that section.

NEW ORLEANS, LA.—As the lease on the property expires next year, the greenhouses of the Rosebank Nursery, destroyed in the recent storm, will not be rebuilt, until a new location is selected.

NORWICH, CONN.—O. E. Ryther has assumed active control of the Norwich Nurseries. S. Hartridge, who formerly managed the establishment, is now in charge of the greenhouses of Mrs. Thos. Peabody.

ONE of the well known French nursery concerns suggests that high freight rates are likely to continue long after the war and that the great shortages of European stocks on account of labor scarcity will really set in next year.

Euonymus Radicans, Var. Vegetus.

Attention is again called to this form of a well known plant from Japan, for the plants in the euonymus group on the Meadow road are now covered with their handsome fruit; this is pale yellow or nearly white, and as it ripens the bright orange color of the seeds is displayed. This northern variety is the best for general cultivation in this climate as it appears to be hardier than more southern forms; the leaves are broader and it flowers and fruits much more freely; indeed it is the only form which produces much fruit in the arboretum and the fruit adds greatly to the beauty of the plants. Like the other vigorous growing varieties it may be grown against a wall to which it clings firmly or as a broad, round-headed bush. There is a form of this euonymus with leaves hardly a quarter of an inch long and known both as var. minimus and as var. kewensis, which appears to be still little known in the United States. It is a good plant for the rock garden and for the margins of garden walks. The form from western China discovered by Wilson, var. acutus, has narrower pointed leaves distinctly veined below. Here in the arboretum the plants of this form lie flat on the ground and show no tendency to rise and form a bush. They have proved perfectly hardy, but have not flowered yet. A mat of these handsome Chinese plants can be seen among the other Chinese plants on the southern slope of Bussey Hill. If this form retains in cultivation the prostrate stems of its present state it may prove an excellent subject for covering the ground under trees and shrubs.—Arnold Arboretum Bulletin.

Monmouth County, N. J. Hort. Society.

The eighteenth annual exhibition of the above named society was held in St. James' hall, Red Bank, October 27-28. The number of exhibitors was not as large as might have been expected, nevertheless the quality of the stock was good. In the class for 24 cut blooms, distinct varieties of chrysanthemums, the first prize went to G. R. Kuhn, gardener to H. S. Borden. In this collection we noticed blooms of the following: Mrs. J. E. Dunne, bronze; Hon. Mrs. Lopes, yellow; Mrs. W. E. Tricker, very light pink; Lady Hopetown, pink; Mrs. John Purroy Mitchel, white; Chrysolora, yellow; Mrs. Elizabeth Drabble, white; Mary Mason, bronze, and Nakota and A. S. Baldwin, both large yellow blooms. The second prize in this class was awarded to Wm. Dowlen, gardener to F. Achelis. This was also a creditable exhibit.

Special prizes were offered for the best table of orchids, and the first prize went to Frank C. Honeyman, gardener to B. H. Borden; the second to G. R. Kuhn, gardener to H. S. Borden.

For best group of ornamental foliage plants, arranged effectively in 100 square feet of space, F. C. Honeyman was first and G. R. Kuhn, second.

W. A. Manda, South Orange, N. J., exhibited a collection of his dahlias. W. W. Kennedy & Sons, Red Bank, made an effective display of Jerusalem cherries, arranged in a star shaped bed. The Robert Craig Co., Philadelphia, Pa., exhibited their new fern, John Wanamaker. A. F. F.

BROOKLINE, MASS.—Olmsted Bros., landscape architects, have been employed to plan the new estate of A. T. Hert, Louisville, Ky.

ROCHESTER, N. Y.—Local exposition authorities are inviting the American Gladiolus Society and the American Dahlia Society to hold their annual meetings and exhibitions here during the week preceding Labor day next year.

CHICAGO.—The National Conference on Marketing and Farm Credits will hold its third meeting in this city November 29-December 2.

JOHNSTOWN, PA.—H. W. Mittenberger has acquired full interest in the Mishler Truck Farm and will conduct same in future under the name of the Valley Produce Co.

STREATOR, ILL.—The greenhouse establishment of the Davis-Steiner Co., near this city, was damaged by fire October 27, to the extent of $3,000. The damage to buildings was only about $100, but the crop of cucumbers suffered by smoke and water.

Prices of Indoor Fruits and Vegetables.

Chicago, November 2.—Mushrooms, home grown, No. 1, 20 to 35 cents per carton; lettuce, cases, 7 to 8 cents; radishes, 75 cents to $1.00 per 100 bunches; asparagus, 50 cents per dozen bunches; celery, box, 50 cents to $1.00; tomatoes, four baskets, $1.50 to $1.60; cucumbers, dozen, $1.00.

New York, November 2.—Celery, per bunch of 12 stalks, 10 to 35 cents; cucumbers, 75 cents to $1.50 per dozen; mushrooms, 75 cents to $1.75 per 4-pound basket; tomatoes, 75 cents to $1.25 per 10-pound basket; radishes, per 100 bunches, 25 cents to 50 cents; lettuce, per basket, 15 cents to 65 cents.

Celery Blight.

The market for good celery is stronger at present than it has been for years at this season. There is only one explanation for this, and that is much of the celery planted this summer has been lost by floods, wash-outs, and inability of growers to spray thoroughly. In our own locality there is any amount of Golden Self Blanching celery so damaged by blight as to be almost worthless. Coupled with this condition is a scarcity of labor, which makes it very doubtful if those poorer fields are worth handling. We wish to impress upon growers that there is no use to attempt to bleach and market celery too far gone by blight, as blighted foliage immediately decays when darkened. However, we have taken a long chance late in the fall with such stock, and if the weather continues mild, have seen it recover wonderfully, and almost the last minute turn out marketable. What such celery needs at this time is thorough cultivation to ventilate the soil and a slight but rather loose hilling, just enough to protect the hearts from the first freezes. If such celery responds to this treatment the hilling should be continued gradually, but under no circumstances can anything be accomplished by completely banking up such poor stock at one operation.

MARKETMAN.

Rochester, N. Y.

A week of warm, sunny weather has caused the social set to forego the usual festivities of the season for outdoor sports, and with few weddings and funerals, trade has been dull. Large shipments of dahlias of excellent quality continue to arrive and the sale of roses, carnations and chrysanthemums continues light in consequence. The rose stock is of fine quality, and while chrysanthemums are arriving in more plentiful supply the price is still high. Carnations are scarce and many of poor quality are seen, but prices hold up well. Lily of the valley and cattleyas are both good stock. The warm weather is forcing in violets. Asparagus, galax and hardy ferns are all plentiful. Pot chrysanthemums are arriving in limited numbers and are selling.

NOTES.

"National apple day" was taken advantage of by several of the local florists and a number of the window displays in which flowers were used very effectively with appropriate arrangements of apples attracted much attention. The Rochester Floral Co. designed a window with an apple tree on green turf bearing ripe fruit. In the tree was a small boy, and below, whip in hand, was the farmer and dog in miniature. H. E. Wilson, John E. Keller & Sons and Geo. T. Boucher were among others having attractive displays for the occasion.

T. C. Armbrust had a luncheon decoration at the Genesee Valley club, October 22. Dahlias in quantity were tastefully arranged with autumn foliage.

Geo. J. Keller has been cutting large quantities of dahlias of excellent quality.

CHESTER.

Cleveland.

CHRYSANTHEMUM RULES THE MARKET.

Outdoor stock is now a thing of the past, only a very little cosmos and a few dahlias arriving. "Mums" the word now. Some very excellent Wm. Turner, white, and Chrysolora are shown; also many smaller white, pink and yellow chrysanthemums for spray work and bouquets. Pompons are in good demand and the local market is pretty well cleaned up daily. Easter lilies are again more plentiful, as is lily of the valley. Violets are moving better, and stock is gradually improving. Carnations are in good demand, but the supply is rather limited. Roses are being pushed aside by chrysanthemums to a certain extent. Larkspur and snapdragons are part of daily receipts. The first boxwood of the season is now in and stock certainly looks fine. Orchids are moving only fairly well. Greens of all kinds are plentiful. The demand for stock for Hallowe'en was a great improvement over last year, sales averaging about 20 per cent more.

The J. M. Gasser Co. will donate a bronze cup, inlaid with silver, for the team scoring highest in the bowling tournament during the Cleveland fall flower show; also a silver cup for each individual player on that team. F. C. W. Brown will give a bronze and silver cup to the Rochester or Buffalo team, whichever scores highest, and also a prize for each individual bowler on the winning team.

KROESCHELL BROS. CO., 452 W. ERIE ST., CHICAGO, ILL.

Kansas City.

A plentiful supply of good quality stock was noted on the market during the past week. Roses, especially Ward, Ophelia and Sunburst were exceptionally fine and sold readily at from five to 12 cents wholesale. Killarneys, both pink and white, also showed improvement. Carnations are also to be had in fine flower and stem and sell at from two to four cents. Chrysanthemums are more plentiful, and are moderate in price.

NOTES.

Henry Kusik & Co. carried a very heavy supply of stock during the past week, roses, carnations and chrysanthemums being plentiful and of fine quality. The shipping trade both in cut flowers and supplies is increasing steadily at this establishment.

T. J. Noll & Co. have received their first shipment of California violets. The quality is very good. Excellent stocks of roses, carnations and chrysanthemums were also noted at their store.

The Wm. L. Rock Floral Co. was kept busy with Hallowe'en decorations. They are receiving some very good stock, especially roses, which are exceptionally fine.

S. Bryson Ayres is busy planting fall bulbs. His first sweet peas of the winter crop, now being cut, while not long in stem, are fair in flower.

The Costello-Moore Floral Co. has been busy with funeral work and has had quite a sale on corsages of violets, orchids and Ward roses.

R. S. Brown & Son are cutting some fine carnations and chrysanthemums at their greenhouses and report an increasing demand.

A. F. Barbee has placed a very attractive refrigerator in his store. Excellent Chrysolora chrysanthemums are a feature here.

Patrick Larkin has been busy with funeral work, with general trade very satisfactory.

Arthur Newell reports that he is well pleased with the way business is coming.

Visitors: R. L. Isherwood, Chillicothe, Mo.; G. P. Kaupp, Nevada, Mo.; L. Vandermeij, Haarlem, Holland; G. Krowivel, representing Speelman & Sons.

GOODRICH
 "GREENHOUSE" HOSE

Try Goodrich "Greenhouse" on your next order! That extra thick, extra tough wear-resisting cover—compounded to endure by the world's largest factory, the factory that builds the road-resisting treads found on Goodrich Automobile Tires—is giving months of service where other hose lasts but weeks.

Then, too, "Greenhouse" is not readily affected by kinks, twists, sharp bends—that cause other hose to leak, crack, break, split apart.

"Greenhouse" is, in addition, flexible and easy to work with. It saves time in use. Withstands high pressures, too. Any length desired in one continuous piece.

Write for sample—and test it yourself.

Duck Time.

The leaves on the trees are brown and sere;
The grass is withered and dead,
And the sky is blue of the deepest hue
In the narrow chinks o'erhead.
So you pause, perhaps, in the city's streets,
As you level your gaze on high,
For you hear a call through the dim smoke's pall,
When the ducks go drifting by,
The lure of the wild gets in your blood,
For the tang of the wind is sweet;
And your pulses burn as you long to turn
Where the land and waters meet;
Where the winds wail low through the fringing sedge,
And withering cat-tails dry;
Where the ripples break on a dead calm lake
When the ducks go drifting by.
Then it's back to the wild, when the sun comes up,
And the twilight dawn fades fast;
When you lay in your blind, for you hope to find
A shot, as the birds drift past,
When the pin-tails quack in the feeding grounds,
And the blue-bills venture nigh,
Then a roar and a flash—and the waters splash
When the ducks go drifting by.
You who are chained to your desks of wood
In the heart of the busy hum,
Turn back a space for a breathing place
When bracing October's come;
There's a hunter's camp, and a hunter's life,
And many a shot to try;
And tales to tell by the fire, as well,
When the ducks go drifting by.

The Chicago Flower Show.

Coliseum, November 9-14.

Huge Exhibition Great Success.

The exhibition in progress this week at Chicago is a great success in every respect. The show is the result of the combined efforts of the local horticultural society and the florists' club. Although the time for preparation was quite short the work of the various committees has been most thorough, bringing together one of the finest displays ever seen in the west. The retail trade has aided the growers very materially in the making of this grand show and the miscellaneous trade exhibits have proved such an attraction that this feature is likely to become an important part of all future shows here. The arrangement of the show proved very popular with the public, flowering plants and cut blooms predominating. The large groups of foliage plants so prominent in former exhibitions were considerably curtailed on this occasion, giving way to the more popular floral subjects, and the general public seems pleased with the change. Liberal notices in the local press have awakened new interest in the flower show and these with the favorable weather promise a banner attendance. Trade visitors from nearby cities are arriving in large numbers as we go to press on the second day of the event and one exhibitor stated that he booked more business during the opening day than was done during the entire week of previous exhibitions.

Mayor Thompson formally opened the exhibition at three o'clock the first day, being introduced by Chairman Henderson of the general executive committee. Even at that early hour there was a good attendance and the mayor was well received. He was presented with a handsome bouquet of chrysanthemums arranged by Geo. Wienhoeber and spoke of the prominent part taken by the city in the business affairs of the country, making special reference to its importance as a shipping center in the cut flower industry. During the evening of the same day J. C. Vaughan introduced Miss Mona Dunne, daughter of Gov. Dunne, to the audience. Miss Dunne was attended by her sister, Mrs. William Corbo, and August Lange presented both the ladies with beautiful corsage bouquets. Miss Dunne then gave the name Illinois to a yellow chrysanthemum. During the ceremony the band rendered the well-known anthem of the state in which the audience joined. The mayor's opening and Miss Dunne's part in the proceedings, with the presence of the Elmer D. Smith Co.'s new yellow chrysanthemum, named Tiger by President Wilson, have been given considerable publicity by the press and these early numbers of the programme interested the public to such an extent that everyone in the city is talking about the show, producing a popular enthusiasm, which managers found it impossible to awaken in former years. Manager French had the arrangements well in hand, his efforts being ably seconded by President Rudd, of the Horticultural Society, President Keimel, of the Florists' Club, General Secretary Miller and a large corps of assistants.

The decorations of the main hall were very simple, the ceiling being embellished with southern smilax in strings stretching from the centre of the ceiling to the east and west walks with a cluster of smilax arranged between the rows. The trade exhibits were staged along the walls on all sides of the hall, leaving all the space in the center for competitive displays with the exception of the dancing platform and a Japanese garden arranged by T. R. Otsuka, landscape architect, and featured by the D. Hill Nursery Co., Inc., of Dundee, in which Hill's hardy decorative and tubbed evergreens and boxwoods played an important part. This garden proved one of the most interesting features of the show, second only to the splendid group of orchids from the Poehlmann Bros. Co., which greeted the visitor immediately on entering the building.

The principal prize winners in the chrysanthemum plant classes were the Poehlmann Bros. Co., Vaughan's Seed Store, J. J. Mitchell (A. J. Smith, gardener), Iowa State College (John Reardon, gardener), Mrs. S. W. Allerton (Robert Blackwood, gardener), Mrs. F. F. Junkin (Axel Jonnsen, gardener), Louis F. Swift (Robert Sampson, gardener), J. H. Moore (A. Martini, gardener), Chas. L. Hutchinson (Wm. P. Long-land, gardener). J. E. Tilt and Gustav Bendel. The Poehlmann's had a nicely arranged group of well grown stock, ideal plants for fancy retail trade. The plants were not large from an exhibition standpoint, but clean, with fine foliage and bloom. There were some nice plants of the Caprice group, a good assortment of singles and pompons and a good array of the large-flowered varieties, altogether a well-balanced lot. Vaughan's Seed Store showed a fine lot of plants, but they were not so well arranged as the preceding group. Many of the individual plants were much better, especially some of the red and pink singles and pompons. This firm, however, exhibited some grand specimen plants. The chrysanthemum plants exhibited by private gardeners were one of the principal attractions of the show.

The retail florists were well represented and in addition to a large number of entries in the competitive classes, Schiller, Friedman, The Geo. Wittbold Co., Ernst Wienhoeber Floral Co., W. H. Kidwell & Co., and Simpson had very pretty booths in which they featured table decorations, vases of cut flowers, neatly arranged baskets of foliage plants and the most recent introductions in supplies. They did not attempt to sell any stock over the counter as it was arranged that all exhibitors have a general sales booth in charge of W. H. Kidwell, where cut flowers could be sold and the proceeds distributed at the close of the show. Near the sales booth the Western Union operator clicked off telegraph orders to all parts of the country.

The Geo. Wittbold Co., Poehlmann Bros. Co., Vaughan's Seed Store and A. N. Pierson, Cromwell, Conn., exhibited good groups of palms, ferns and decorative plants. H. N. Bruns and Schiller showed good cibotiums. Vaughan and Poehlmann had fine displays of crotons, Merriam Park Floral Co., Merriam, Minn.; Frank Oechslein and H. Schneider, cyclamens.

Ernest Rober exhibited a good assortment of holiday plants and J. E. Yeats, of Champaign, had some fine blooms of his new rose Mrs. Sarah Yeats on view.

The principal exhibitors in the chrysanthemum cut flower classes were the Poehlmann Bros. Co., E. G. Hill Co., Richmond, Ind.; Wieter Bros., Bassett & Washburn, Elmer D. Smith & Co., Adrian, Mich.; C. C. Pollworth Co., Milwaukee, Wis.; Mt. Greenwood Cemetery Association, A. Lange, Schiller, John Mangel, Geo. Wittbold Co., Geo. Wienhoeber and Friedman.

New Chrysanthemum Josephine Foley.

We present herewith an illustration of one of the newest chrysanthemums introduced by Elmer D. Smith & Co., Adrian, Mich. The variety is named after the youngest daughter of P. J. Foley, senior member of the Foley Greenhouse Manufacturing Co., Chicago. It is described by the originators as follows:

Josephine Foley, winner of the Foley prize for the best seedling exhibited at the exhibition of the Chrysanthemum Society of America at Indianapolis, Ind., November, 1915, has been recommended for certificate by all five examining committees of the society. A seedling from Naomah but purer white, high, rounded, incurved form; excellent stem and foliage. Matures October 1; best bud for exhibition, August 25. A fine commercial from September buds, giving double flowers. Five feet from May plantings. Good for both exhibition and commercial uses.

ranged by T. R. Otsuka, Japanese landscape architect.

O. J. Friedman, W. H. Kidwell & Son, Schiller the Florist, Ernst Wienhoeber Floral Co., George Wittbold Co. and Simpson's all had booths arranged on the east and west sides of the hall in which table decorations, neatly arranged baskets of cut flowers, foliage plants, palms, etc., were shown in addition to the latest introduction in supplies.

The Philadelphia Show.

The extraordinary size of the cut chrysanthemum blooms was the feature of the fall exhibition of the Pennsylvania Horticultural Society, which opened November 9. In all the classes the flowers were wonderfully large and perfect. There was nothing particularly new in the varieties shown, but in their great perfection, many of them appeared new and labels had to be sought to prove their identity.

The arrangement of the hall was much the same as in previous years, the commercial exhibits occupying the first floor and foyer. To the right of the entrance was H. A. Dreer, Inc., with bird boxes, garden requisites and insecticides. On the left was the H. F. Michell Co., Inc., with an exhibit of bulbs with pompom chrysanthemums in pots. A large egg, which opened and closed continuously, revealing a hyacinth pan in flower, was a feature. In the meeting room across the hall were the exhibits of the greenhouse manufacturers, Hitchings & Co., Lord & Burnham, Myers & Co., and the King Construction Co. Displays of hot-bed sash and photos of ranges were the features here.

Edward Stroud, Overbrook, Pa., S. S. Pennock-Meehan Co., Philadelphia, and Richard Vincent, Jr., Sons Company, White Marsh, Md., all staged cut pompom chrysanthemums. H. Waterer, Philadelphia, Pa., had his usual fine assortment of bulbs. On the grand staircase stood vases of choice cut chrysanthemums, while cut blooms in the various classes were also arranged on tables around the railing. In the foyer were the greenhouse foliage plants, the several groups showing splendid culture. W. K. Harris filled a table with the bird's-nest fern, which, for vigor and symmetry, were perfection.

In the main hall were staged the chrysanthemum plants, which were not very numerous, the interest in them appearing to be waning. The hall was prettily decorated with smilax and autumn leaves, and there was a pergola on either side in which were a number of chairs for visitors. This feature was much appreciated. Japanese lanterns around electric globes gave the hall a gala appearance.

POEHLMANN'S ORCHID GROUP AT THE CHICAGO SHOW.

WITTBOLD'S PLANT GROUP AT THE CHICAGO SHOW.

The stage held a beautiful display of well grown stock, mostly young, from the nurseries of H. A. Dreer, Inc. Robert Craig Co. staged a group of crotons, dracenas and well flowered cyclamens. They were brilliantly colored. In the center of the hall, under a large cibotium were staged the single stemmed chrysanthemums in six inch pots. At either side of the entrances to the hall were beautifully arranged groups of foliage and flowering plants. John Dobbs and Wm. Robertson competed. The most interesting single exhibit were the cases of orchids from the houses of Louis Burke. Many of the cuts shown were new and rare and all were splendidly in flower and arranged so that every bloom showed to the best advantage. These cases were very nicely lighted and at all times surrounded by the visitors.

The show as a whole is not quite as large as last year, owing principally to the absence of the large Hunter and Widener collections, these families being in mourning. The quality of all the exhibits is, however, quite up to the average and in the excellence of cut blooms a trifle better. Roses, carnations and other flowers were staged the latter part of the week. Massachusetts Horticultural Society.

The Massachusetts Horticultural Society held its autumn flower show at Horticultural hall, November 4-7. The exhibition was exceptionally fine and brought out some of the finest blooms of chrysanthemums seen for some time.

The main hall was a beautiful sight, the entries for flowering and foliage plants and nursery stock, being banked against the walls, and the center filled with pot chrysanthemums. The lecture hall was filled mainly with the florists' displays, carnations and orchids and the small hall with fruits and vegetables. There was a fine display of single bloom chrysanthemums from Harry F. Converse, the flowers being exceptionally large. Wm. Turner, Elberon, Nakota, Mrs. Partridge, Mrs. Drabble and Calumet were noted as being extra fine. The Waban Rose Conservatories, Natick, Mass., had vases of Hadley, Mrs. Moorfield Storey, Mrs. Chas. Russell and their new pink variety, Mrs. Bayard Thayer, for which they were awarded a silver medal.

In the class for carnations, A. A. Pembroke, Beverly, Mass., carried away most of the honors, his flowers being in a class by themselves. Alice and Matchless showed up well from every grower. Littlefield & Wyman, North Abington, Mass., showed a vase of their new carnation, Miss Theo, which was awarded a first-class certificate of merit.

The display of orchids from Frank Dolansky, of Lynn, was one of the best seen in Boston for years. He won first prize for the exhibit as well as for the best six plants and the best specimen orchid.

The display of single chrysanthemums from Frank Putnam, of Tewkesbury, attracted much attention. Among them were many fine commercial varieties, such as Chas. Kingsley, Mrs. W. Buckingham, Mrs. Tom Carr, Phyllis Bryant and Glorious. S. R. Covey of Walpole, N. H. showed a table of new French seedling single chrysanthemums among which were some fine colorings and novelties. The begonias were very good this year, fine specimens of Begonias de Lorraine and Cincinnati being shown. The Begonia Mrs. Heal also was very fine. There were 11 entries for the table decorations and many new and novel ideas were brought out. The class for the most artistic vase of chrysanthemums also had keen competition. Both first and second prize was won by W. W. Edgar Co., Waverly, Mass., with vases of Bonnaffon and Chas. Razer with oak leaves for foliage. Penn. the Florist, won the honors on the home decoration with a very pretty display of baskets and vases, pompons being used to the greatest extent.

The Appleton silver medal for the best chrysanthemum plant in the exhibition was won by Galen L. Stone, with Garza. Mrs. J. Gardner had a fine display of chrysanthemum plants, winning first prize for the class, A. M. Davenport, Watertown, Mass., being second. Wm. H. Elliot, Boston, also had a fine lot of plants. Among the good varieties were noted August Dasse, Mary Pope, Pink Caprice, Garza, Butler's Caprice, Caprice du Printemps and Margaret Sargent. A. N. Davenport's display of flowering and foliage plants was exceptionally fine and well staged. R. & J. Farquhar & Co., Boston, also had a fine showing of plants and nursery stock.

Kameyama & Seranda, of North Cambridge, Mass., had a display of pot chrysanthemums and foliage plants very artistically arranged with Japanese temples and a Buddha in stone. Wm. Sim, Cliftondale, Mass., had a nice display of pansies of his new strain.

The display of fruits and vegetables was very interesting, many fine specimens being shown. A table of domestic and foreign fruits arranged by Mrs. H. Goodnough was very artistic and excited much comment. The awards were given as follows:

Foliage and flowering plants—A. M. Davenport, first; W. W. Edgar Co., second.

Orchids—F. J. Dolansky, three first prizes; Wheeler & Co. and Miss Cornelia Warren, one second prize each.

Evergreen trees and shrubs—Breck, Robinson Co., first; Old Town Nursery, second.

Vote of Thanks—F. J. Dolansky, Cattleya labiata varieties.

Horticultural Society of New York.

The fall exhibition of the Horticultural Society of New York, opened on the evening of November 4, in the American Museum of Natural History, Central Park West and Seventy-seventh street and continued through November 7. Superintendent John Young, Secretary George V. Nash and force of assistants were active and had everything in readiness at the opening hour. The weather on the opening night was rainy and disagreeable, but there was a large attendance the following day and evening, and the crowd, Saturday, November 6, was a record breaker. The weather was clear and cool and old and young took advantage of it to the fullest extent. A meeting of the board of directors of the society was held during the afternoon.

The genius of John Canning, superintendent of the estate of Adolph Lewisohn, Ardsley, N. Y., again came to the front in an exhibit of bush chrysanthemums superior to his previous efforts, which it may be said in passing, have added greatly to the attractiveness of these shows in previous years. The doors of the American Museum conform to the size of the structure, but the doors of the receiving department had to be taken off to admit the yellow bush plant, R. F. Felton, which is 17 feet in diameter, six feet in height and bears over 1,500 blooms. This plant took the society's silver cup, which is valued at $100. Lady Lydia, white, and Greystone, bronze, each 12 feet in diameter; grown by superintendent Canning, were also first prize winners, the prizes being $50 for each. Lady Lydia makes a better flower than R. F. Felton, and their symmetry and that of the plant were as much admired as the size of the "big fellow."

An extensive and unusual exhibit was that of J. B. Duke, Somerville, N. J., arranged under the personal direction of the superintendent, A. A. Mac-Donald. This display occupied a large space arranged around a small fountain, and was supposed to represent the various products of the estate as far as it was possible to stage them, and included orchids, roses, chrysanthemums, carnations and other flowering stock, with palms, ferns and crotons used freely as a background and in relief. Grapes, apples and a variety of vegetables were also featured. This exhibit was awarded the society's gold medal.

A feature not often seen in an exhibition at this season, was the display of flowering lilac, by John Scheepers & Co., Inc., New York. Spireas and Hiy of the valley were included. The lilac plants were of the white variety, Mary LeGrave, which Mr. Scheepers thinks is the only variety that can be brought in at this season. The bloom was of fine quality. They were awarded a silver medal.

F. R. Pierson Co., Tarrytown, N. Y., made an excellent display of Nephrolepis exaltata and its varieties for which it was awarded first prize. Scott Brothers, Elmsford, N. Y., for a collection of 25 varieties of pompon chrysanthemums were awarded first prize and first honors for a collection of singles. Orchid flowering sweet peas of excellent quality were exhibited by George T. Schuenemann, Baldwin, N. Y.

For six plants of orchids, not less than three varieties, in bloom, Lager & Hurrell, Summit, N. J., were first; also, for collection of cypripediums in bloom, 12 varieties, covering 25 square feet. Their exhibit was very attractive. George Schlagel, Bay Ridge, Brooklyn, N. Y. (S. G. Milosy, Gr.), also made a very fine orchid exhibit and took first in the following classes: For three plants, three varieties, in bloom; for collection not less than 25 species and varieties, covering 50 square feet; for six plants not less than three varieties in bloom.

Clement Moore, Hackensack, N. J., took the gold medal for display of Laelio-cattleyas, Brassia-cattleyas, Brassia-laelias or hybrid cattleyas covering 25 square feet. He also received a special certificate for a vase of Eucharis Amazonia. Joseph A. Manda, West Orange, N. J., received a silver medal for a specimen plant of Cattleya labiata.

Charles H. Totty, Madison, N. J., took six first prizes for cut chrysanthe-

W. A. Manda, South Orange, N. J., exhibited foliage plants and dahlias; Chas. Weber, Lynbrook, N. Y., exhibited his new carnation, Laura Weber, which received special mention; A. L. Miller, Jamaica, N. Y., exhibited Otaheite oranges and Salvia Greggii; Wm. Tricker, Arlington, N. J., exhibited water lilies and winter flowering hybrid begonias; Robert G. Wilson, Brooklyn, N. Y., received a bronze medal for a new fern.

Roses, commercial growers—F. R. Pierson Co., two first and two second prizes; L. A. Noe, two first and one second prize; Chas. H. Totty, silver medal.

Roses, non-commercial—J. B. Duke, three first prizes; Henry C. Sturgis, two first and one second prize; Samuel Untermeyer, one first and two second prizes; Author Cooley and Mrs. Pauline Boettger, one second prize each.

Carnations, commercial—Cottage Gardens Co., two first prizes; Springfield Floral Co., two second prizes.

Carnations, non-commercial—J. A. MacDonald, four first prizes; Mrs. Payne Whitney, one first and two second prizes; H. C. Sturges, one first and one second prize; Arthur Cooley, one second prize.

Foliage and decorative plants—Mrs. F. A. Constable, five first prizes; F. R. Pierson Co., one first and one second prize; Mrs. Pauline Boettger, one first and three second prizes; A. Lewisohn, one first prize.

Orchids, commercial—Lager & Hursell, first in all classes.

Orchids, non-commercial—Geo. S. Schlegel, four first prizes; Clement Moore, one first prize.

Orchid, cut blooms—Clement Moore, first.

Special prizes—Bobbink & Atkins, collection of chrysanthemums, special mention; Mrs. F. A. Constable, for specimen of Adiantum Croweanum, cash, for two specimen palms, cash, for collection of nerines, silver medal; Mrs. H. Darlington, for display of dahlias, cash; J. B. Duke, general display of products from Duke's Farm, gold medal and cash; H. Gaut, vase of bronze seedling chrysanthemum No. 19, certificate, vase apricot seedling chrysanthemum, special mention; Adolph Lewisohn, for two-bush chrysanthemum plants, cash; Jas. A. MacDonald, for carnation seedlings, special mention; J. A. Manda, for specimen of Cattleya labiata, silver medal; W. A. Manda, for collection of ferns and foliage plants, silver medal, for collection dahlias, special mention; A. L. Miller, for Salvia Greggii, special mention, for Otaheite oranges, certificate of merit; Clement Moore, for vase of Eucharis amazonica, certificate of merit; A. N. Pierson, Inc., for display of new roses, carnations and chrysanthemums, silver medal; Mrs. W. H. Pullan, for plate of pears, special mention; Julius Roehrs Co., for collection of chrysanthemums, special mention; John Scheepers & Co., Inc., collection of lilies, spireas, etc., in flower, silver medal; Max Schling, artistic designs, mums. Other first prizes for cut chrysanthemums were taken by John Canning; Mrs. Payne Whitney, Manhasset, N. Y. (L. G. Forbes, Gr.); Edwin Jenkins, Lenox, Mass.; Mrs. F. A. Constable, Mamaroneck, N. Y. (Jas. Stuart, Gr.); second prizes were awarded to D. E. Oppenheim, Yonkers, N. Y. (Alex. MacDonald, Gr.) and Arthur Cooley, Pittsfield, Mass. (E. W. Edwards, Gr.).

In the rose section, L. A. Noe, Madison, N. J., was first in the classes for 50 American Beauties and 50 White Killarneys. F. R. Pierson Co., Tarrytown, N. Y., being second in both, but the Pierson entries in the classes for 50 Sunburst and 50 Killarney Queen carried off first honors, the Noe exhibit in the last named being second. For a new rose not in commerce, Chas. H. Totty was first with a pink seedling. In the classes for non-commercial growers of roses, first prizes were taken by J. B. Duke, H. H. Sturges and Samuel Untermeyer, Yonkers, N. Y., (Jas. Macdonald, Gr.). Arthur M. Cooley and Mr. Untermeyer also took second prizes.

In carnations, the Cottage Gardens Co., Queens, N. Y., with 50 Crystal White, took first, and with 50 Cottage Maid took first for pink of Enchantress shade. The Springfield Floral Co., Springfield, N. J., took second with White Wonder and second with Enchantress Supreme. James Macdonald, Flushing, N. Y. (R. Hughes, Gr.), captured a silver medal and other first prizes in the classes for non-commercial growers. Mrs. Payne Whitney and Henry C. Sturges, Fairfield, Conn. (Henry Kilbury, Gr.), also took first prizes.

A special prize was awarded Mrs. H. Darlington, Mamaroneck, N. Y. (P. W. Popp, Gr.), for a display of dahlias.

A. N. Pierson, Inc., Cromwell, Conn., made an extensive display of roses and hardy chrysanthemums. Bobbink & Atkins, Rutherford, N. J., made a display of pompons and the Julius Roehrs Co., Rutherford, N. J., displayed hardy chrysanthemums. Another extensive exhibit of hardy chrysanthemums was by Richard Vincent, Jr. & Sons Co., Whitmarsh, Md.

Max Schling made a display of C. H. Totty's new rose, Gorgeous, in baskets and vases; also a table decoration which was not placed in competition.

Prizes in the various divisions were awarded as follows:

Chrysanthemum plants—Samuel Untermeyer, four first prizes; A. Lewisohn, one first prize; Mrs. F. A. Constable, one first prize; Mrs. Payne Whitney, one second prize.

Chrysanthemum cut blooms, commercial—C. H. Totty, five first and three second prizes; Scott Bros., three first prizes.

The judges were: Walter Angus, Chapinville, Conn.; John B. Urquhart, Lands End, Newport, R. I.; Alex. Michie, Memorial cemetery, Cold Spring Harbor, N. Y.; Robert Walker, Bridgeport, Conn.; Jas. Ballantine, Ridgefield, Conn.; Geo. H. Thompson, Lenox, Mass.

American Institute Exhibition, New York.

The eighty-fourth annual "Fair", as the promoters are pleased to call it, of the American Institute of the City of New York, was held in the Engineering building, 25-33 West 39th street, November 3-5. There was a very excellent display of chrysanthemums of all types and good roses, carnations, violets and a variety of pot plants were also noteworthy. Private gardeners made fine displays of a great variety of the large exhibition chrysanthemums, and a number of commercial growers were well represented. Some of the older varieties that have been with us for years, were again prize winners. In whites, it would appear to be hard to beat William Turner, Wells' Late Pink was another prize winner that made a grand display. Other fine stocks that created an impression and won prizes were: Mary Donnellan, yellow; Glen View, bronze; Mrs. R. C. Pulling, yellow; Mrs. J. P. Mitchell, white; James Fraser, yellow; H. E. Converse, bronze chestnut crimson; Annie L. Angus, white; J. A. Miller, bronze; Odessa, yellow; Mme. L. Rosseau, pink; Pocket's Crimson; Gertrude Peers, crimson; Clara Banghart, chestnut red, and W. Duckham, pink.

The displays of hardy and pompon stock were fine. Groups were arranged by the following well known commercial growers: C. H. Totty, Madison, N. J.; A. N. Pierson, Inc., Cromwell, Conn.; R. Vincent, Jr. & Sons Co., White Marsh, Md., and C. L. Stanley, Plainfield, N. J. Scott Brothers, Elmsford, N. Y., exhibited various types of chrysanthemums, among them being a new white Doty, which should prove a very useful flower in design and bouquet work.

In roses, A. N. Pierson, Inc., Cromwell, Conn., exhibited fine stock of Key, a red Radiance, Hoosier Beauty and Mrs. Wm. R. Hearst. C. H. Totty, Madison, N. J., exhibited his new pink seedling and Gorgeous. A variety of well known carnations were exhibited. A. N. Pierson, Inc., exhibited Good Cheer, a promising pink. Howard Gould, Port Washington, L. I., N. Y., (William Vert, grower), exhibited a fine collection of Rex begonias and other varieties of begonia, winter flowering hybrids being noteworthy. W. B. Thompson, Yonkers, N. Y., (R. M. Johnston, gardener), exhibited Begonia de Lorraine, also a first prize winner. Lager & Hurrell, Summit, N. J., staged orchid plants in varieties and were awarded first prize. William Tricker, Arlington, N. J., displayed water lilies.

G. E. M. Stumpp, Fifth avenue and 58th street, New York, arranged table and other decorations, in which roses, hardy chrysanthemums and other stock were effectively used. Max Schling, 22 West 59th street, New York, made a good decorative display. A spray of Oncidium orchids and hardy chrysanthemums on an easel, was artistic; also, a vase of large chrysanthemums, the vase being decorated with smaller flowers.

For 24 blooms of Wells' Late Pink, Mrs. Morton F. Plant, (Ernest Robinson, Gr.), Groton, Conn., received a silver medal and medal of superiority. Other first prizes won by Mrs. Plant were for 10 blooms of any white, 10 blooms of any pink; 10 blooms of any yellow, 10 blooms of any crimson, six blooms of any white, six of any pink, six of any yellow, six of any crimson, six of Japanese incurved, any white, six of Japanese reflexed, any yellow, also, for 15 pink cut roses.

First prizes won by Percy Chubb, Glen Cove, N. Y., (Robert Jones, Gr.), were for 12 varieties of chrysanthemums, one bloom of each, on 10-inch stems; 10 blooms of chrysanthemums in variety, six blooms of Japanese incurved chrysanthemums, any crimson variety; 18 chrysanthemum blooms in six varieties and 18 blooms in three varieties.

Ralph Pulitzer, Manhasset, N. Y., (Frederick Hitchman, Gr.), first prizes were for six varieties of chrysanthemums, one bloom of each, 10-inch stems; six blooms of Japanese incurved chrysanthemums, any bronze variety; six blooms of Japanese reflexed, chrysanthemums, any pink variety; six blooms Japanese reflexed, any crimson variety; six blooms, Japanese reflexed, any bronzed variety; one specimen chrysanthemum bush plant, 12 chrysanthemum plants in variety.

Howard Gould won first prize for 10 chrysanthemum blooms in any bronze variety; one specimen chrysanthemum chrysanthemums, any pink variety; six blooms, Japanese reflexed, any white variety; six blooms, Japanese incurved, any yellow variety; the best 12 blooms of American Beauty roses, best 15 blooms of white roses, best 15 blooms of crimson roses, best collection of Rex begonias.

Mrs. John Crosby Brown, Orange, N. J., (Peter Duff, Gr.), won first prizes for one specimen of chrysanthemum bush plant, white; one specimen bush plant, yellow; one specimen hush plant, any color; one specimen standard plant, white, not less than 24 inches in stem; blooms in 24 different varieties, one of each, 10-inch stems. In this competition, Scott Brothers, Elmsford, N. Y., took second. L. M. Noe, Madison, N. J., took first for the following roses: American Beauty, Mrs. Geo. Shawyer, Lady Hillingdon and White Killarney. The varieties of exhibition chrysanthemums, already named above, entered largely into the prize winning. We may add Pres. Viger, pink; Frances Joliffe, yellow; Mrs. Gilbert Drabble, white; Mary Mason, bronze-red, and W. Woodmason, variegated.

Toledo Flower Show.

The virgin effort of the Toledo Florists' Club in the line of a public exhibition of flowers and floral work, culminated in a complete and gratifying success. The Museum of Art, in which the show was held, starting Sunday, November 7, and continuing to Tuesday evening, was crowded during the three days. This is the first time that the local club has attempted to make a public display, and in order to insure a good attendance, admission was free to the public. On the opening day over 10,000 people passed through the turnstiles, and many were the exclamations of admiration that burst from their lips as the full beauty of the scene dawned upon them. The wonderful architecture of the building lent itself admirably for such a magnificent exhibition of nature's handiwork, and full advantage was taken of this fact by the decorating committee, which was composed of Miss Helen Patten, Henry Klunder and Earl Metz. The pillars were adorned with southern smilax and various groupings of statuary throughout the museum were surrounded by artistic settings of palms, ferns, chrysanthemums and other plants, arranged by the Scottwood Greenhouse, Harry Heintz, S. N. Peck, Paul Timm, E. A. Kuhnke, J. L. Schiller, Krueger Bros., and Chris Winterich of Defiance, O. The exhibits of the growers were arranged around the walls of the museum, and immediately above them hung works of art, making a combination that was simply superb.

C. K. Billings, Oyster Bay, N. Y., (Jas. Bell, Gr.), first prize for six blooms of chrysanthemums, anemone, any white variety; six blooms, anemone, any yellow variety, six blooms, anemone, any pink variety.

Mrs. Payne Whitney won first prizes for the best six varieties of cut carnations, 12 blooms of each, and the best bunch of 100 single violets.

Thomas N. McCarter of Rumson, N. J. (Wm. Cameron, Gr.), won first prize for best 15 blooms of yellow roses, the best three varieties of carnations, 12 blooms each, and the best vase of carnations of one variety, 12 blooms.

R. E. Jones of Seabright, N. J., won first prizes for exhibits of six blooms of chrysanthemums, anemone, any crimson variety, and six blooms, anemone, any bronze variety.

Other first prizes were won by Howard F. Borden of Oceanic, N. J. (Geo. A. Kuhn, Gr.), for six blooms of carnations, any bronze variety; by C. L. Stanley of Plainfield, N. J., special prize for the best collection of 20 vases of hardy chrysanthemums; by Charles Mallory of Port Chester, N. Y. (W. Y. Sealy, Gr.), for the best collection of 10 vases of pompons; by Samuel Untermyer, Greystone, N. Y. (Wm. F. Gordon, Gr.), for six chrysanthemum plants of one variety, and by William B. Thompson of Yonkers (R. M. Johnston, Gr.) for the best six pots of Lorraine begonias.

The prizes, most of which were cash, were all given by the American Institute and will go to the gardeners employed by the exhibitors.

In commercial classes, Charles H. Totty took the following first prizes: For a vase of new single varieties of chrysanthemums; for a vase of six of a new pink; for a vase of new yellow, named William Rigby. In roses, Mr. Totty took first for 25 blooms of Hoosier Beauty and first for 25 blooms of Francis Scott Key. He also took first for 24 blooms, special prize for his new pink seedling, one variety of yellow chrysanthemums and first for 24

Special prizes were awarded in chrysanthemums as follows: Mrs. Payne Whitney for six varieties of one flower each, and to H. T. Borden and Dr. D. T. Millsbaugh, Paterson, N. J. (Robert Petrie, Gr.), for similar exhibits. Special prizes were awarded Thomas McCarter, Percy Chubb and Mrs. Payne Whitney, each for six blooms of the white Japanese incurved variety, William Turner.

The judges were: John McNicoll, Alex. McKenzie, Eugene Dailedouze, Peter Duff, George Middleton and William Turner. William C. Rickards superintended the exhibition and W. A. Eagleson acted as secretary.

The main idea of this exhibition was a publicity effort to educate the people of this city to a love of flowers, and to induce a higher standard of flower buying. This object was attained in the fullest measure, judging from the many commendatory comments that were heard. The room in which the table decorations of the leading retailers were shown was the center of interest throughout the show. No prizes were awarded on these tables, yet each was a masterpiece of art, grace and originality.

Probably the most unique table on display was that of Metz & Bateman, and designed by Earl Metz. It was styled a debutante table. The center piece consisted of a May pole from which streamers led to an exquisitely gowned miniature lady at each cover. Each one of these dolls had a dainty corsage of Sweetheart roses. The center piece was surmounted by a basket of Mrs. Russell roses, and Ophelia roses were used in the base. This table was always surrounded by an admiring throng.

The table of Henry Klunder, of the Lindley Floral Co., revealed rare art and simplicity. The color scheme of gold and yellow was perfectly carried out. The center piece was made up of a basket of Ophelia roses and bronze pompons. Gold leaves were scattered about the table. The corsages and boutonnières were admirable.

Miss Helen Patten displayed a table, that, while simple, was none the less a work of art. The golden wedding table of S. N. Peck attracted much favorable attention. It was carried out with chrysanthemums and pompons, and the plates and setting were the hand-painted product of Mrs. S. N. Peck. One could almost imagine seeing a grey haired couple seated at this table—how they would have appreciated just such a decoration. Max Spanner's table was carried out with yellow pompons.

Schramm Brothers, realizing at once the value of such a show for publicity, took an entire room and made of it a regular paradise. Starting at the right of the room as the visitor entered, one's gaze was immediately attracted to a gorgeous living picture of Major Bonaffon chrysanthemums, surrounded by a large gold frame secured from the art museum with a background of rich green velvet. In front of this picture, two artificial figures of boys stood in an admiring attitude. Next to this living picture was arranged a table of novelties, baskets, corsages and boxes of plants in variety. In the first corner was a group of palms and ferns (grouped to the ceiling), in the center of which stood large pot chrysanthemums. In the left corner of the room was the table decoration. The center piece consisted of a base on which a cornucopia was mounted. This was filled with Ophelia roses, and as the table was called the bride's table, these were arranged similar to a bridal bouquet with showers of lily of the valley. Adiantum Farleyense was used for streamers. To complete the setting, a colored waiter stood at attention next to the serving table, which was fully equipped with the regulation silver service. In the center of the room was a large exhibit of various pot plants, ferns and other novelties. During the show, Schramm Brothers, with rare enterprise, published a daily paper containing interesting notes about the exhibition, notes on how to take care of ferns and plants, etc. Their exhibit of the handsome folders in colors that are sent out periodically attracted much attention.

Although ribbons were the only prizes that were offered to the growers, every one of them went into the show with much friendly rivalry, with the result that some splendid specimens were on display. The novelties exhibited by Elmer D. Smith & Co., of Adrian, Mich., made a great hit. Splendid specimens of Begonia Gloire de Chatellaine and Cincinnati were shown by Chris Winterich, of Defiance, O. The Bonaffon chrysanthemums of George Bayer & Son, Toledo, as usual, took all the ribbons in their class. Krueger Bros. exhibited some specimens of the new improved Whitmani ferns. The William Turner chrysanthemums staged by the Scottwood Greenhouses were constantly admired. An exact reproduction of the corsage bouquet of orchids and lily of the valley that President Woodrow Wilson daily sends to his fiancee was the work of Henry Klunder of the Lindley Floral Co.

The judges were George W. Stevens, director of the Art Museum, and C. A. Schmettau. One of the features of the show that was much patronized was the moving pictures of plant life and the interesting lectures of J. L. Schiller on how to take care of plants and how to plant bulbs. Taken all in all, the first annual flower show of the Toledo Florists' Club was such a grand success that the club is already making plans for a bigger and better exhibit next year.

The awards were as follows:

Vase of Chrysanthemum Chieftain, 25 blooms—Geo. Bayer & Son, Toledo, 1st; Harry Heini, Toledo, 2nd.

Vase of Chrysanthemum Wm. Turner, 25 blooms—Geo. Bayer & Son, 1st; Geo. Ford estate, 2nd.

Vase of Chrysanthemum Major Bonaffon, 25 blooms—Geo. Bayer & Son, 1st; Scottwood Greenhouses, 2nd.

Vase of Chrysanthemum Dolly Dimple, bright yellow—Geo. Ford estate, 1st.

Pompons — Emil Kuhnke, Toledo, first prizes for Buckingham, Diana, Ive, Fairy Queen, Kroeschell Sport, Garza and Bronze Klondyke.

Carnations—Krueger Bros., Toledo, with Enchantress, 1st; with vase of O. P. Bassett, 1st and 2nd; L. C. Bauman, with Enchantress, 2nd; Henry Miller, with Matchless and Harold, 1st and 2nd.

Roses—Harry Heini, with Ophelia, Pink Killarney and White Killarney, 1st; Krueger Bros., with Richmond, 1st and 2nd; with My Maryland, 1st; with Kaiserin Augusta Victoria, 1st and 2nd. A. C. K.

Tarrytown Horticultural Society.

The seventeenth annual flower show of the Tarrytown Horticultural Society was held in Music hall, Tarrytown, N. Y., November 3-5. The exhibition brought forth splendid displays of decorative plants and cut blooms, noteworthy among them being a fine arrangement of palms, foliage and flowering plants staged by Wm. B. Wilson, and which was awarded the Untermyer silver cup for the most meritorious exhibit. A fine display of ferns and baskets of Ophelia, Francis Scott Key, Sunburst, Mrs. Aaron Ward, Mignon and Hoosier Beauty roses exhibited by the F. R. Pierson Co., Tarrytown, was another splendid showing, as was the exhibit of pompon and other chrysanthemums arranged by Scott Bros., Elmsford, N. Y. The Pierson and the Scott exhibits were not in competition, awards being limited to private estates only. The society's silver medal was awarded to Finley J. Shepard for seedling croton, Roxbury. A certificate of merit was awarded to Mrs. A. McEwen for seedling single chrysanthemums and six, standard chrysanthemums, Miss Cornelia A. Ruppert, exhibited by Jacob Ruppert, received a like honor. Cultural certificates were given to Finley J. Shepard for Phoenix Roebelenii and to J. C. Scheepers for specimen lilac in flower. Two exhibits staged by local schools attracted much attention.

The judges were: John T. Burns, New Canaan, Conn.; Ewen MacKenzie and N. Butterbach, New Rochelle, N. Y.; W. H. Waite, Rumson, N. J.; Jas. MacMahon, Tuxedo Park, N. Y.; Herbert H. Fletcher, Millbrook, N. Y.; Jos. Bradley, Dobbs Ferry, N. Y.; Jos. Mooney, Hastings, N. Y., and John Featherstone, North Tarrytown, N. Y. Prominent among the successful contestants were the following:

Chrysanthemums—Wm. B. Thompson (R. M. Johnston, Gr.), seven first and five second prizes; Joseph Eastman (Jas. Ballantyne, Gr.), five first and one second prizes; Mrs. F. E. Lewis, four first and one second prizes; A. Lewisohn (John Canning, Gr.), two first prizes; Finley J. Shepard (Chas. R. Russell, Sup't.), one first and two second prizes; Mrs. S. Neustadt, three first and two second prizes; Mrs. S. Hermann (Abel Weeks, Gr.), one first and three third prizes; E. Berolzheimer (Robt. Angus, Gr.) one first and one second prizes; Hugh Hill (Robt. Grieve, Gr.), one first and two third prizes; David Luke (John Elliott, Gr.) and D. G. Reid (A. Golding, Gr.), one first, one second and one third prizes each; Mrs. Carl Vietor (T. A. Lee, Gr.), one first and one third prizes; Charles Mallory and Paul M. Warburg, one first prize each; Dr. C. C. Brace and Mrs. I. N. Seligman, one second prize each.

Pot plants, miscellaneous—Finley J. Shepard, three first and one second prizes; Wm. B. Thompson, two first and five second prizes; A. Lewisohn, two first and one second prizes; Theo. Trevillian, one first prize.

Violets—Richard Langle, two first prizes; J. Allen Townsend, one first prize; Dr. C. C. Brace and Finley J. Shepard, one second prize each.

Floral decoration for table—Castle Gould (Wm. G. Ellis, Gr.), first; A. Lewisohn, second; Wm. B. Thompson, third.

Bridal bouquet—D. G. Reid, first; Miss Bertha Berger, second; Paul M. Warburg, third.

Roses—Mrs. F. E. Lewis, Wm. B. Thompson, Richard Delafield and Mrs. E. S. Bayer, first prizes.

Basket of cut flowers—Paul M. Warburg, first; Miss Belle Scott, second.

Centerpiece for table—Mrs. I. N. Seligman, first; Mrs. S. Herrmann, second.

Carnations—Mrs. S. Herrmann, three first and three second prizes; D. G. Reid, three first and five second prizes; Mrs. F. E. Lewis, four first prizes; J. J. Riker, three first and one second prizes; Mrs. I. N. Seligman, one first and one second prizes; Jos. Eastman, Dr. C. C. Bruce, Scott Bros. and F. R. Pierson Co., one first prize each; W. B. Thompson, Mrs. E. S. Bayes and Stuyvesant Fish, second prizes. Awards were also made in classes for fruit and vegetables and there were special classes for amateurs.

Among the special prizes awarded was a silver medal to Finley J. Shepard, and a silver cup to Wm. B. Thompson. The Elmsford Nurseries were given a certificate of merit for vase of white Lillian Doty chrysanthemums. E. W. NEUBRAND, Sec'y.

Menlo Park Fall Show.

The fall flower show of the Menlo Park Horticultural Society was held in the Public School building, Menlo Park, Calif., October 29-31, and the exhibition committee, consisting of D. Bassett, chairman; J. M. Daly, G. Nunn, Percy Ellings and D. W. Slade arranged an exhibition that was a credit in every way. The judges were W. S. Clack, Mayfield; T. Sandiford, San Rafael; H. Plath, San Francisco; E. James, Elmhurst, and C. W. Johnson, Chicago.

In the class for decorative, flowering and foliage plants, the San Mateo commission staged a fine exhibit of bougainvillea, palms, crotons, celosias and chrysanthemums. This display occupied a space of 150 square feet and was awarded first prize, the exhibit of L. Stern (D. Bassett, Gr.), being second. This competition brought forth the finest collection of crotons ever shown on the Pacific coast, if not in America. The stock shown was grand. The Stern entries took first place in all entries for stove foliage plants, all being very fine specimens. In the orchid section, L. Stern was also first with a very good display, while to G. Roos went the honors for the best specimen orchid, his entry being a wonderful specimen of Cypripedium insigne.

In the chrysanthemum classes, the stock was very even and of supreme quality, the varieties represented being Nerissa, Odessa, Mrs. G. Drabble, Wm. Turner, James Fraser, Tekonsha, Earl Kitchener, Silver King, Elberon, Mrs. Lloyd Wigg, Mrs. H. J. Jones, Flamingo, Mrs. A. S. Watt, Ongowa, Mendon, Smith's Sensation, Kewanee, Mrs. H. Stevens and Lord Hopeton. These were staged by the Lynch Nursery Co. and the exhibit was awarded the society's silver cup. L. Stern staged a splendid lot of finely finished blooms, which took second prize.

Awards in various classes were as follows:

Chrysanthemums—Lynch Nursery Co., eleven first prizes; C. Smith, four first and two second prizes; H. L. Goertzahn, two first prizes; A. McDonald, two first prizes; G. Roos, two first and three second prizes; L. Stern, one first and two second prizes; Wm. Young, two second prizes; Leroy Nickel, D. Bassett, Mrs. Oyster, T. C. Walker and S. M. Spaulding, one first prize each; Mrs. Walters, two second prizes; F. Mills, one first and one second prize; Mrs. Jennings, one second prize.

Dahlias—Bessie Boston Dahlia Farms, two first and two second prizes; L. Stern, two first and two second prizes; Mrs. E. S. Heller and Burns & Co., one first prize each; A. McDonald, one second prize.

Carnations—F. Mills, first, and Lynch Nursery Co., second, in all classes.

Tuberous begonias—J. L. Nickel, one first; Mrs. A. H. G. Hohn, one first; Burns & Co., one second.

Herbaceous flowers—J. B. Smith, first.

Annuals—J. B. Smith, first; S. M. Spaulding, second.

Ferns, arranged for effect—San Mateo Commission, first; G. Roos, second.

Specimen ferns—G. Roos, first in all classes.

The splendid displays of fruits and vegetables were also noteworthy features, and awards in these sections were given to the following exhibitors: G. Pope, L. Stern, Mrs. J. Donohoe, J. Leroy Mitchell, Mrs. Walters.

Worcester County Hort. Society.

The annual chrysanthemum show of the Worcester County Horticultural Society was held in Horticultural hall, Worcester, Mass., November 4-5, and was largely attended. The hall was tastefully decorated, being laid out as a garden with walks winding through the palms, bay trees and flowers. On the stage, an orchestra, hidden in greenery, furnished music. In the center of the hall was a six-foot column of white and yellow chrysanthemums, banked with fern, arranged by Harry Randall. Two semi-circular gardens, consisting of chrysanthemums and greens, were on each side of the hall, one furnished by Walter D. Ross and the other by the Sunnyside Greenhouses. A colonial garden by Edward W. Breed, president of the society, attracted considerable attention, as did Harry Randall's remarkable display of bouquets and baskets, among which were some fine gardenias and cactylas. H. F. A. Lange's table decoration of lily of the valley, Mrs. Taft roses and maidenhair ferns and his display of roses were very good. The chrysanthemums of Mrs. George W. Knowlton and Mrs. John C. Whitin were especially noteworthy. The awards were:

Display of plants and flowers—Worcester Conservatories, first; W. D. Ross, second; E. W. Breed, third; Sunnyside Greenhouses, fourth.

For special exhibits, first prizes were awarded to H. J. Randall, floral display; H. F. A. Lange, cut flowers and pot plants; H. F. A. Lange, bay trees and box ferns; Harry J. Randall, centerpiece of chrysanthemums; Leonard C. Midgley, display of flowers.

Display of cut flowers—Mrs. H. L. White.

Pot of begonia—Mrs. W. E. Sargent.

Plants—Mrs. H. L. White.

Display of carnations—W. A. Estbrook.

Display of carnations—Sunnyside Greenhouses.

Fern cases—Mrs. Henry S. Bancroft, first; Mrs. A. E. Ackley, second; Mrs. Joseph F. Jacques, third; Mrs. W. E. Sargent, fourth.

Chrysanthemums — Mrs. Geo. W. Knowlton, six first and one second prizes; Mrs. John C. Whitin, one first, three second and three third prizes; L. C. Midgley, one first and two second prizes; Alfred Thomas, three first and one second prizes; Sunnyside Greenhouses, one first and one second prize; Alfred H. Knight, one first prize.

Table Decorations—H. F. A. Lange, first; Mrs. L. C. Midgley, second; Mrs. Percy G. Forbes, third; Allen Jenkins, fourth.

Fort Smith Flower Show.

Over 500 residents and visitors of Fort Smith, Ark., attended the most beautiful display of cut flowers and plants ever held in that city, November 5-6, the occasion being the fall flower show under the auspices of Sparks Memorial hospital, and under the able management of George Rye, "Some Florist", it was a sweeping success. Mr. Rye secured displays for the exhibition from numerous states, well known growers sending splendid exhibits that were centers of admiration at all times. A splendid musical programme rendered by the Fort Smith cadet band was a pleasing feature of the show.

Chas. H. Totty, Madison, N. J., was represented in a display of a number of his 1915 chrysanthemum novelties, which included Mrs. J. P. Mitchel, Mrs. L. J. Reuter, Bob Pulling, Earl Kitchener, A. S. Baldwin, Mrs. G. L. Wiggs and a display of many varieties of pompons. Elmer D. Smith & Co., Adrian, Mich., also had a splendid showing of their 1915 varieties, among their creations being Calumet, Algonac, Artista, Kewanee, Silver King and Josephine Foley.

Poehlmann Bros. Co., Chicago, made a handsome display of roses, 10 different varieties of blooms of exceptional quality being noticeable in the vases of Hadley, Milady, Hoosier Beauty, Richmond, Sunburst Ophelia, Mrs. Aaron Ward, Mrs. Wm. Taft and the Killarneys, both white and pink. This firm carried off the sweepstakes prize, a silver cup. The Poehlmann exhibit also included eight vases of chrysanthemums in the commercial varieties.

From Council Bluffs, Ia., J. F. Wilcox & Sons, Inc., sent splendid vases of roses, and the seven vases of Sunburst, Killarney, pink and white, Mrs. Shawyer, Ophelia, Mrs. Aaron Ward and Mrs. Chas. Russell, were most attractively arranged by Manager Rye and his assistants. The Joy Floral Co., Nashville, Tenn., showed four vases of Ophelia and Mrs. Russell which were very fine. W. H. Gullett & Sons, Lincoln, Ill., showed two vases of Killarney, pink and white varieties, which were of high standard of excellence.

In the carnation section, A. T. Pyfer & Co., Chicago, staged several vases of fine blooms, the variety Wilmette, making an instantaneous hit in this firm's exhibit. The J. D. Thompson Carnation Co., Joliet, Ill., had seven vases of splendid carnations, and the variety Princess Dagmar in this collection became immediately popular with the show visitors.

The exhibition hall was attractively decorated, southern smilax being used in profusion, being donated for the occasion by Caldwell, the Woodsman Co., Evergreen, Ala. Wolfe, the Florist, Waco, Tex., Enomoto & Co., Redwood City, Calif., and H. S. Ely & Co., Neosho, Mo., also had excellent displays in the chrysanthemum section.

Chrysanthemum Show at Univ. of Illinois.

Over 3,500 people attended the fourth annual chrysanthemum show, which was held in the floriculture greenhouses Sunday afternoon, November 7. A large number of people who were not able to see the show on Sunday on account of the crowd, came out the following day. Two houses, each 30x110 feet, were devoted almost entirely to chrysanthemums. One of these was used to stage 2,000 seedling plants of anemones, pompons, and singles. Nearly all of these plants are products of the floricultural division. Besides the small flowered types, there were at least 800 plants of the commercial varieties. The masses of color, however, were not so great or varied as in the case of the other plants, and, therefore, more of the attention was centered in the small flowered type. This show has become a popular event with the university and town people.

The Floricultural Club of the university gave a reception, on Saturday night, to the members of the faculty. This affair was well represented and was a great success.

Professor White of Cornell visited the university Monday, November 8. After a brief visit, he left for Ames, Iowa, where he expects to visit the Iowa State College. Although the visit was only a short one, we certainly were glad to have Professor White with us.

New London Flower Show.

The annual chrysanthemum exhibition of the New London Horticultural Society which opened November 3 and continued two days was said to be unsurpassed by any previous event in the history of the society. Among the exhibits not in competition, one of the Harkness estate, was most noteworthy being that of a huge bank of pot plants of single chrysanthemums, while another attractive feature was a large group from Branford Farms, which included palms, dracaenas, crotons, lilies and begonias in artistic arrangement.

A unique and handsome arrangement of yellow chrysanthemums in the form of a chair was much admired, while a table of red took first prize for specimens. Prizes in the chrysanthemum division were awarded G. S. Palmer, Mrs. Alfred Mitchell, Branford Farms and E. S. Harkness. A fern from the Guthrie estate was awarded the second prize and was much admired and a similar fern from the Palmer estate was given first honors.

For the first time in a number of years the carnation prize did not go to Edward A. Smith, the florist, but the competition was keen and he was awarded second honors, the winner being the Harkness estate. A number of vases of excellent pansies were staged by Cahill & Beasley, pansy specialists, East Milford, Mass. E. A. Smith had space at the end of the hall and showed very good stock in ferns, Jerusalem cherries and other pot plants in variety. An unusually good showing of fruits and vegetables were a feature of the exhibition.

Hort. & Agric. Society of Mt. Kisco, N. Y.

The thirteenth annual show of the N. W. Co. Horticultural and Agricultural Society of Mt. Kisco, N. Y., was held in Civic hall, Mt. Kisco, October 29-31, and was in all respects the equal of any show held in former years both in quality and number of exhibits. The competition was very keen in the classes for roses, carnations and chrysanthemums, both single and double varieties and the society's cup as a trophy brought out many magnificent blooms. Among the principal prize winners were the following:

Chrysanthemums—Mrs. E. Meyer, Jr. (Chas. Rubborn, Gr.); E. S. Bayer (A. Rose, Gr.); Mrs. Neustadt (David Gordon, Gr.); M. J. O'Brien, and Mrs. Taylor (Alex Thompson, Gr.).

Roses—Spavins, the Florist and E. S. Bayer.

Ornamental plants—Spavins, the Florist.

Begonias—E. S. Bayer and John Magee (Jas. Aitchison, Supt.).

Orchids—Spavins, the Florist.

Dinner table decoration—E. S. Bayer, Mrs. Taylor and Spavins, the Florist.

The judges were Adam Patterson, Saugatuck, Conn., A. T. Brill, Pawling, N. Y., and Wm. Jameson, Tarrytown, N. Y. Awards were also made in classes for fruits and vegetables.

M. J. O'BRIEN, Sec'y.

PLANT NOTES.

Heaths.

All the ericas will require a cool temperature to get the best results. Erica melanthera can be had in flower for Christmas and early winter, but under no circumstances will it pay to try to force it into bloom by giving it artificial heat, for it will immediately spring into a soft growth. They will give the best results in a house where the night temperature is kept at from 40 to 45 degrees with plenty of ventilation throughout the day. When coming into bloom the plants should never suffer for want of water; in fact, these plants should be kept well watered throughout their growth. The propagation of the young stock for the succeeding year should now commence, the soft tender shoots that protrude beyond the flowering wood being the best for this purpose. A cool propagating bed is to be preferred for they do not need bottom heat, but the soft cuttings will need to be well shaded and kept well watered, and if enclosed in glass the cuttings will strike more readily. As soon as rooted they should be potted and the selection of soil is important. A light peaty soil mixed with a good proportion of sand is what they desire. Give the plants all the air possible throughout their growth, in a cool temperature and in a bright sunny location.

Genistas.

If the genistas are grown in warm greenhouses they invariably come into bloom before Easter, unless that day is at its earliest in March, so the plants that are to be at their best for that day should be retarded by being grown cool until late winter. These plants are much better under cool treatment at all times, but by bringing into gentle heat they can be had in succession from February to April. Plants that are being grown into special forms will have to be kept pinched back to conform to the shape until the flower buds set. The cuttings for next year's growing should be propagated during November and early December. The top shoots which are pinched off to keep the plants shapely make fine stock for propagation and they root readily in a bench with a little bottom heat. They should be shaded for a few days when first placed in the sand. Pot in small pots as soon as rooted and shift into larger sizes as required. When growth commences pinch back to keep the plants shapely.

Otaheite Orange.

The fruits of the Otaheite orange are now fully formed and of good size, but to be at their best stage at Christmas, when the plant is most desired, they should be well colored. They should be given a light location, having plenty of sun, but not too warm. If grown too warm, the fruit colors up slowly; a temperature of 55 to 60 degrees at night, with good ventilation during the day from this time on will bring good results. Keep the plants free from scale, which rapidly covers them if once fully established and not kept off. Where they are seen, constant washing will be required, and a weak kerosene emulsion is efficacious in keeping them down. When well fruited and the fruits nicely colored, these small orange trees make one of the finest Christmas plants.

notice, and there is soon a distinct change for the better.

One of the large ranges of glass has just had its fifth coat of paint. It was erected 23 years ago and looks so modern; but for the absence of iron fittings, it would appear to have just been erected. The only repairs made during this time were new gutters. The sash bars are perfectly sound throughout, accounted for by their being screwed from the bottom to the under side of the flare board of the gutter, which is set at the same angle as the pitch of the roof. The end of bars do not quite reach the gutter and are always dry, as no water or moisture can collect to rot them out. A wrought iron boiler had just been taken out after a service of 29 years. Mr. Eisele says no such service can be had from a boiler made of steel, which only lasts from 12 to 13 years.

Imported palm stock was the feature here a few years ago; now they take pride that nearly everything offered is home grown, from the seed up. There is no scarcity of sizes from the little fellows for the fern dish up to the largest decorative plants, and they are seen here in quantity. The difficulties in transit on account of the war or something else has made a difference in the quality of the palm seed, which is nearly all imported. Out of 125,000 areca seeds, only 2,300 plants were secured, and all the seeds had been planted three to a 2½-inch pot. Some job!

Phoenix Roebelenii is a feature here, their's being the largest stock in the Interesting Items at Dreer's.

A sure cure for the "blues" is to pay a visit to the establishment of Henry A. Dreer, Inc., at Riverton, N. J. Here one can speed up his enthusiasm to the highest notch, then pull the spring back and still find more and ever more. He finally goes away with new inspirations, new life and energy, that immediately begin to brighten up the old place at home. The gloom weeds are pulled up and destroyed, new ideas come into flower, wide open eyes see things that before were passed without world. This palm will likely be scarce for a period, as this season's seed crop has failed to arrive, the collector having sent word there will be no shipping this year. They find it necessary to dip all their palms four times a year in whale oil soap. This kills all the young scale and greatly retards the growth of these troublesome pests. Badly infected plants may be entirely cleaned by two dippings on succeeding days, after which the scale are easily sponged off.

Ferns are an important item here.

The Glory or imitation Farleyense is a favorite, and is grown in quantity. Mr. Clark, their fern specialist, thinks this is much more profitable for fronds than Farleyense. Some two years ago a green worm about one and one-half inches long appeared and created havoc with the foliage. Hand picking appeared the only remedy, and this was very tedious. Finally H. B. Weiss, assistant entomologist of the New Brunswick experiment station, after a careful study, prescribed Persian powder, which, dusted on the fronds, killed the worm almost over night. A new adiantum, called California, which originated with a Pacific coast grower, is making a great hit for fronds wherever tried. It has not as yet been catalogued, as it can only be grown by division, and the demand keeps the stock very low. Fronds bring $1.50 per hundred as against $1 for other sorts in the same market.

Cibotium Schiedeii are grown outside in frames under sash raised to give them room. Mr. Eisele says they do much better in this open air culture than in the house where the tips of the fronds grow tender and sunburn or damp off. Twelve-inch wire hanging baskets, filled with common hardy ivy, look very attractive. These were offered for the first time last year and met with instant favor, and there is a great demand for them this season. When these first go into the dwelling some of the leaves will probably turn yellow, but if these are picked off, new growth appears as the plants become acclimated; they are very satisfactory.

A splendid block of araucarias were wonderfully fine. They were growing under a lath house as they do in Belgium. Mr. Eisele thinks their summer growth is better here than there. A new two story fireproof bulb storage house, 40 x 140 feet, with basement, is in course of erection. This is badly needed for their ever increasing stock of cannas, dahlias, peonies and other like plants. K.

New Wrinkles in Propagation.

Paper by J. Jenkins, Winona, O., read at the fortieth annual convention of the American Association of Nurserymen, Detroit, Mich., June 23-25, 1915.

It is a well recognized fact that white-tops or polished cocoanuts over 70 years of age are apt to be garrulous, hard-of-hearing, tedious and a general nuisance, so that Dr. Osler was not far wrong in suggesting a remedy for killing them off, before they reached that age. The programme committee showed their discretion and their sympathy for my courteous and long suffering audience by calling for a short talk of twenty minutes; also showing their wisdom in placing the subject as early as possible on the programme so that many late arrivals will escape the torture. The aforesaid gray headed guy is like the one-legged veteran back from the wars—he can't kick and would not if he could. The arrangement is all right and only reflects credit on the committee. A suitable preface to my subject, however, is a necessity and of course, is not to be counted in the twenty minutes, so prepare yourselves for an hour or more of preface. I really forget what I was going to say just here. I am like the old gray headed darkey, whose mistress sent him to the drug store. One of the clerks noticing his puzzled and bewildered look, exclaimed, "Well, Rastus, what can we do for you?" "Why boss, the missus sent me—the missus sent me ovah heah for suthin and I dun gone disremember what it was." "Oh, said the amused clerk 'you 'dun forgot' what you came for." "Oh, yeh, boss, dat am just it—a nickel's worth of camphor is just what I came for."

It reminds me of another story of a 70-year-old, somewhat deaf, who came in to have a prescription filled. The druggist no doubt filled it carefully and conscientiously and passed it over the counter. The aforesaid customer asked "how much?" "One dollar and eighty cents," the polite druggist replied. "How much?" again asked the customer. "One eighty" emphasized the vender of pills. "Oh, eighty cents" said the customer. "One eighty" roared the druggist. "Oh, eighteen cents," says the customer, depositing let him in on the stage or rostrum at the side entrance so as to avoid the jam. "Certainly," said the considerate janitor, "but there is no crowd," and throwing open the main entrance, not a solitary soul was present. Just then a traveling man, who had been delayed in the village, and who had failed to hear of the circus, paid the admission fee, strolled in and took a seat. The lecturer after waiting some time for further arrivals, who did not arrive, arose and remarked, "My large and respected audience," (the travel-the coin and remarking, "I am a little hard of hearing," takes his prescription and starts for the door. The druggist somewhat paralyzed by the turn of events looked a moment at the coin then at the retreating figure and remarked, "Well, go it old deafy, I made 200 per cent on the prescription anyway." Very much like one of my neighbors who dealt in trees and being short in his delivery of one Concord grapevine, approached an agent who was selling in an adjoining township. "How much for a Concord grapevine?" "One dollar, my dear sir, the regular price is $1.50." "But I will only charge you one dollar." "I guess you don't know me answered my neighbor." "I am so-and-so, the tree dealer." "Oh, that being the case I suppose five cents would be the right figure," which only illustrates that prices are somewhat variable both for drugs and for nursery stock.

My audience is not a very large one, but not quite as small as a now celebrated lecturer tells of one of his first efforts. Having been called on to give a lecture in a somewhat distant town and the inviting committee failing to properly advertise the same and more than that, a circus being held in the town the same night. He reached the hall rather late and asked the janitor who stood at the door to ing man was portly and much larger than the lecturer and the latter respected him because he had paid his admission fee), "Which would you rather have, my lecture or the drinks?" He promptly responded, "The drinks." So they went out and regaled themselves with unfermented grapejuice. Traveling men always use that kind you know.

I have been thinking that you would just as soon have the preface as the twenty minutes talk, so I have been giving you the preface, but will now approach the subject of how to propagate. The best illustration of this is a sketch of a dilapidated hobo, about three seas over, bracing himself with his back against an open gate, this being a sort of mutual affair, the gate holding him up while he illustrated the subject of how to prop-a-gate.

I wish to stage a few items in regard to propagation during the great craze of planting grapevines commencing about 1860 and extending into the seventies. This society was projected at Cleveland, O., about 1863 or 1864, under the name of the Grape-Growers' Association. Dr. J. P. Dake was one of its earliest presidents. He was also president of the Dover Bay Grape & Wine Co., and the senior partner of Dake & Jenkins, nurserymen, now J. Jenkins and Son, of Winona, Ohio. In the lapse of time the changes of name and effort remind me of the man who was showing as a great relic the very musket which his great grandfather carried in the American Revolution. "Look here," said the stupid observer, "the guns they carried then had flint locks." "Yes," said the owner of the valued relic, "but my grandfather had a new and more modern lock put on." "But the barrel don't look just like those in the museums that were carried in the revolution." "No, because my grandfather had a new barrel put on, as he thought the old one did not shoot straight." "Well, the stock don't look just like those in the museums," "No, for my father had a new stock put on, because the other was bruised and worm eaten." "Well, what part of the gun did your great-grandfather carry in the American revolution?" "Well, I think the touch-hole is just the same, in fact, it is the same identical gun. Of that I am positive and sure." So in the evolutions of time there have been great changes in the names and efforts of firms and associations.

There comes before me out of the mists of the past fine and noble characters, veterans in the cause of horticulture and its kindred interests whose very lives were an inspiration—Dr. J. P. Dake, Dr. John A. Warden, Patrick Barry, Marshall P. Wilder, Thos. Meehan, elder, Geo. W. Campbell and scores of others who acted well their part, then silently left us, disappearing in the greater mists and mysteries which overhang the portals when they went out, out on the tides to an unknown shore.

There were three great crazes which were almost historical, the tulip bulb craze of Holland, the Morus multi-caulis craze, and the more recent craze of grapegrowing in this country, which seemed near its height in 1864. Concord grapevines were selling at $40 per hundred for vineyard planting and the new introductions of that day, such as Iona, Adirondack, etc., sold at $5 each. Grapewood of a number of kinds sold at 10 to 25 cents a bud. It caused a great impetus in the propagation of the grape, in which other fruits participated and some of the evolution in propagation in the then young firm of Dake and Jenkins occurred during this period. It was soon found that outdoor propagation of Concord, Hartford, Catawba and other varieties was entirely practical and much less expensive than the greenhouse bottom heat and transplanting in pots then in vogue. We put in rows of cuttings of two eyes, the rows a trifle over a foot apart, and laid between each row, a heavy board—lumber was comparatively cheap in those days. These boards kept down the weeds, and kept the ground moist. Over each row of cuttings, the space between the boards was filled in with sawdust. The top buds of the cuttings were just at the surface of the ground and shot up through the inch of sawdust with no detriment and scarcely an exception, no healthy bud failing. The cost of a year's growth was practically nothing. The weeds being kept down by the boards and the ground being mellow, the growth was continuous and the profits in accordance. My young friend T. S. Hubbard (we were both young in that day), told me he sold $18,000 worth of outdoor propagated vines in one season, most of them being Concords at this time.

A succession of dry seasons induced us to plant cuttings in a flat piece of lowland of rich sandy loam, a brook fed by never failing streams running through it. This flat or interval was thrown up into beds six feet wide or more and in times of drouth when the growth of vines seemed to be languishing the water of the brook was diverted by a small dam at the head of the interval and ran through the shallow trenches between the beds but not overflowing them: a subirrigation that was very successful and some of the largest one year old grapevines ever grown were exhibited before the Grape-Growers' Association by the Winona firm. These beds with the easily applied subirrigation were great in raising the strawberry crop; the second and third picking made almost equal to the first by the supply of water through the trenches during a dry season. Noting in the grape cuttings that we put out, that the wood above the top eye of the two bud cuttings invariably died down to the top bud, the amount of our high priced cuttings was doubled by cutting across the node above the top eye, as illustrated on page 16 of the little book, "Art of Propagation" first issued by J. Jenkins in 1876, and which I will now try to illustrate with the grapewood itself. While the grape fever or craze was at its height, some new ways of grafting and in-arching, etc., as applied to the grape were brought into play. The in-arching is illustrated on page 29 of the aforesaid little book. Wild vines were plentiful in the woods and were called into requisition as stocks on which to graft. The great trouble with these was the strong natural growth which drowned out the graft. Vines in the vineyard of a strong growth, but a poor quality of fruit, had the strongest cane laid down as if for layering. All other canes were cut off and all other growth pinched off. Every bud in this cane that was laid down was cut off except the terminal growth. All the force of the heavy roots was thrown into this cane. Grafts were inserted at the nodes where the buds had been cut out and united quickly and readily. The vine being split at the node and the grafts thus inserted, or one of the new five dollar vines was run through the split node scarified on either side and quickly united with the growth and as quick as the union of the grafts or vine is fairly complete, the terminal shoot is cut off and all the force of growth goes to the new variety, be it a graft or vine. The growth was often immense of the grafts or of the new vine, commensurate with the growth that all the buds of the supporting vine would have made providing they had not been removed. At the end of the season you have a strong growth of wood of the new variety and where a vine is used it can be cut off below and removed and will be as strong and good a vine as ever for the following year. The cane laid down is supposed to be covered with soil and will throw out an immense number of roots but there is no danger of sprouting or admixture as all the buds of the fostering cane were removed. This can be applied to multiplying the new white grape, the Princess, or any new or high priced variety and roses of slow growth or great value can be thus grafted into a cane laid down of a strong rapid growing rambler and thus absorb a great force of growth. In the two-bud cuttings, the lower bud, however, being removed as I have already illustrated, throws out two tiers of roots, one tier or circle of roots near the surface the other at the node at the base, which, however, has no bud for growth. If the upper tier of roots is cut off it carries with it a complete vine. The lower tier has part of the original cutting but no bud to continue growth and if left in the ground, a green callous will cover the entire top of the cutting in a vain attempt to supply the place of leaves and which may do so to some small extent, but if a graft of any similar kind be inserted it is seized upon by the starving stock and unites its growth with the greatest certainty. Under the subject of budding on page 23, Art of Propagation, this is slightly touched upon. A bud being inserted where a bud has been carefully removed in the stock, the uniting tissues seeming to be stronger at this point. Grafting at a bifurcation—where a forked tree or seedling can be selected or one having a strong side branch, the union of the graft with the scion, if the branch is slightly split where it joins the tree and a wedge graft inserted, the branch tied back to its place, makes a more certain graft in uniting as has been proved in grafting the larger varieties of chestnut on the American, and as applied in grafting Koster's brilliant blue spruce on Picea pungens or other spruces.

We call your attention to Jenkins' patent L-shaped boxes for transplanting from greenhouse. This and other offerings named in the aforementioned little book, the advantages of which we freely give to our patrons: and about all of the members of this association are our patrons. The boxes as you see are L-shaped. We had an intelligent Englishman working for us in former years who was fairly well informed and educated, but most inveterate in misplacing the "hayches." He told us that "when he built an 'ouse he was going to make it in the form of an hell." We asked him why it was that Englishmen never sounded an "H" where Americans did and always placed it where it did not belong, when he emphatically informed us that it was honly the hignorant Henglishmen that did that way. We think he must 'ave 'ad a sort of prophetic vision of what an L of a time his country was going to have with Germany. Anyway these boxes I show you are made in the form of an L, and when ranged along in a series, form a row of boxes, the back of one box making the side for the next. The sides are four inches or more in width and the bottom one inch, usually about the width of a plastering lathe. The length about four feet or corresponding to the width of the border in which they are placed. In these boxes filled with sand, cuttings are inserted which root and grow rapidly until June, by which time the boxes are filled with a mass and network of roots. Each box is carried out and turned out into an open furrow with no disturbing of the roots and as quickly and effectually as a single plant or vine from a pot. It is also of great advantage in ribbon or other planting where pots are usually used. The boxes can be made of wood or metal or with clay or cement, but with the latter the length would need to be shortened on account of weight and liability of breakage. The layering tube as you see, consists of a tube with an extension at the side, which is pressed into the ground in layering a vine of almost any kind, the tubes being placed directly over the buds, each eye or bud looking up and growing up through the tubes. The essentials of growth are met, light and air through the tubes, moisture from the ground below, the spaces between the tubes are filled in with soil over the cane laid down and become a mass of roots which are cut apart at the end of the season. These combined tubes and stakes are readily made from bamboo canes.

Slates are a valuable adjunct in outdoor propagation, used as we have described—board as a covering between rows of cuttings and plants; also rows of cuttings running east and west planted in a trench sloping to the north, two-thirds of the slate entering the soil over and almost in contact with the cuttings and the few inches extending above the surface shading the buds at the surface while the slanted slates, receiving the full rays of the sun, warm the soil at the bases of the cuttings and stimulates the formation of the roots. Some of the junipers and other varieties of evergreens that do not come true from seed and are usually propagated from cuttings can also be rapidly increased layering as I now show you from a section of Irish juniper. The tree, after ground has been excavated at the side is bent over a wire netting placed over it in the way I show you. The little branches drawn up between the interstices of the wire netting that holds down the tree and soil filled in all around these little branches which soon send forth roots.

I have a whole arsenal to fire at you but my twenty minutes no doubt has already expired, and if you haven't expired under the torture, I sincerely thank you for so courteously and patiently listening.

Janssen Seed and Floral Co.'s Window.

The accompanying illustration shows a "somewhat different" window display recently made at the establishment of the Janssen Seed and Floral Co., Springfield, Ill. Three snakes, native to the Malay peninsula, ranging from 19 to 25 feet in length and weighing from 63 to 100 pounds, were the center of attraction, and the firm's offer of a handsome palm to the person guessing nearest to the weight and length of any one snake in the collection brought forth nearly a thousand registrations.

PRICES AT BED ROCK.

During the past week business has been far below normal. Chrysanthemums are very plentiful; in fact, there is a glut, as the supply is far in excess of the demand. It seems as though there has never before been such large quantities of poor flowers in the market. Some stock is so poor that salesmen let it go for as low as 80 cents to $1 per 100. This sacrificing hurts the price on better quality goods and on every other line, and there seems to be no hope for a better market until such stock is cleaned up. Roses have felt the effects of the glut, the prices dropping to $1 per 100. Good Russells, Hadleys, etc., in a few instances, bring as high as $2 per dozen, but on the whole, roses are what may be called cheap. Carnations also have fallen in price. From $1 to $2 per 100 is about the best price that can be realized. Pink and white varieties, such as Ward, Alice and Matchless are the best sellers. Liliun longiflorum is arriving in quantities now and finds rather a difficult market. Lily of the valley also is hard to move. Yellow marguerites are more plentiful, but the demand keeps them well cleaned up at from 75 cents to $2 per 100. It is surprising to see how popular this bright little flower is in the Boston market. Violets are not seen in any great quantity, but the steady demand for them has not as yet commenced and consequently they move none too well. The plant trade consists mainly of pot chrysanthemums, dracenas and ferns. The market for them may be called fair.

NOTES.

The best flowers of Chrysanthemum Chieftain seen in the city are grown by the Waban Rose Conservatory at Natick. A. Montgomery is very particular that every flower shall be open before it is cut and that great care is taken in packing, only two dozen being put in a box. That this policy pays is readily seen by the condition in which they are received at their salesroom and at the stores.

Edward Winkler of Wakefield has no other carnation in his houses this year than his new seedling, Morning Glow. He finds it a good seller, owing to its color and keeping qualities. Retailers also speak highly of it, saying that customers invariably come back for more. He also is cutting some very nice yellow marguerites.

Mrs. C. R. Dane, wife of one of the pioneer florists of Boston, died at her home in Roxbury, November 1. Mr. Dane's many friends offer their sympathy in his great bereavement.

Robinson & Co. are handling the entire stock of Alex. Porter, of Woburn, the goods being sold at the Co-operative market by their competent salesman, M. Laken.

Frank Houghton and Samuel Kravatz are contemplating opening a shop in Melrose. They have severed their connections with the firm of Houghton-Gorney Co.

Great interest is being taken in the bowling league as the teams progress. Many of the "boys" at the market spend enjoyable evenings "rooting" for their teams. The race for first place between Galvins and the Co-operative Market is becoming exciting, each team rolling in their best form each time they meet. The standing is as follows:

New York Florists' Club.

The monthly meeting of the club was held in its rooms in the Grand Opera House building on the evening of November 8, President Bunyard in the chair. A. L. Miller, for the committee on the flower show for the spring of 1916, reported progress. F. R. Pierson, for the committee on the last spring flower show, reported an additional credit to the club of $297.44. The nominating committee presented names of members to be voted on at the December meeting as officers for the coming year. They were as follows: For president: Harry A. Bunyard (seedsman, present incumbent), New York; Henry Weston (grower), Hempstead, L. I.; Philip F. Kessler (wholesale florist), New York. Pres. Bunyard declined to be renominated. For vice-president: Charles Knight (superintendent of estate), Oakdale, L. I.; Alexander Hogg (grower), Prospect Park, Brooklyn; G. E. M. Stumpp (retail florist), New York. For secretary: John Young (wholesale florist, present incumbent), New York; J. Harrison Dick (journalist), New York. For treasurer: Wm. C. Rickards, Jr. (seedsman, present incumbent), New York; Roman J. Irvin (seedsman), New York. For trustees: Jos. S. Fenrich (wholesale florist), New York; Edward Sceery (retail florist), Paterson, N. J.; Wallace R. Pierson (grower), Cromwell, Conn.; Charles Schenck (wholesale florist), New York; Max Schling (retail florist), New York; Robert G. Wilson (retail florist), Brooklyn, N. Y.

The memorials on the deaths of the late Edwin Lonsdale and L. W. Kernan were presented and ordered entered on the minutes. Edward McCarty, of Jas. Weirs, Inc., Brooklyn, N. Y., was elected to membership. A. F. Allender and H. F. Winter, both of New York, were nominated for membership.

An interesting discussion on chrysanthemums took place in which there were many humorous sallies, but just the same it was the consensus of opinion that the chrysanthemum was yet a most important factor in the florist business. The discussion was featured by remarks from P. J. Smith, Horace E. Froment, G. E. M. Stumpp, W. H. Long, H. A. Barnard, of Stuart, Low & Co., Middlesex, Eng.; Arthur Herrington and James Scott.

Philip F. Kessler exhibited pink pompon chrysanthemum Western Beauty and crimson pompon Lagraver, grown by Wm. W. Matthews, Great Neck, L. I., for which he was given a vote of thanks. Mr. Kessler also exhibited single chrysanthemum Buckingham, grown by Chas. Smith, Woodside, N. Y., which also brought forth a vote of thanks. Scott Brothers, Elmsford, N. Y., exhibited Chrysanthemum White Dot, which scored 91 points. Guttman & Raynor, Inc., New York, exhibited Rose Prima Donna, which was given an award of merit; also Chrysanthemum Glenview, grown by Frank Dinda, Farmingdale, N. Y., which received an award of merit, and a white anemone seedling by the same grower was given a certificate of merit.

James Bell, Oyster Bay, N. Y., exhibited a single chrysanthemum seedling; awarded certificate of merit. Wm. Tricker, Arlington, N. J., exhibited hardy crimson chrysanthemum, Arlington; certificate of merit. Chas. Weber, Lynbrook, N. Y., exhibited carnation Laura Weber, and was given a vote of thanks.

A committee was appointed to prepare suitable resolutions on the death of Edward Walz, a late member of the club; also, a committee to prepare suitable resolutions on the death of Mrs. Kathrine Dorval, mother of Victor and Edward Dorval, who are members of the club. Chairman Kessler and Myer Othille of the house committee were active in handing out turkey. A. F. F.

WEDDINGS PROVE BIG BUSINESS AID.

November thus far has been keeping pace with October in the matter of weddings, with the result that the florist trade has been brisk. Hallowe'en brought only fair business, as the occasion was observed by different people on different days, Friday, Saturday and Monday. The stores were nicely trimmed with pumpkins and corn-stalks and did everything possible to suggest the appropriateness of flowers for the occasion, but the result was not forthcoming. Flower shows were held in several of the local stores last week, with gratifying results as far as crowds were concerned, but due to the warm weather the chrysanthemums, as well as many other flowers are not as good as last year at this time. Pompons are good, but the demand for them is only fair. Carnations of good quality are scarce, while roses of all varieties are good and in plentiful supply. Orchids and lily of the valley are in excellent demand and the quality is good. Gardenias are fine and Giant bouvardias are having a ready sale.

NOTES.

This city can boast of two new up-to-date flower shops, which will doubtless be successful in their different locations. Our best wishes are extended to both of them. Reichert Bros. have located at Main & LeRoy avenue in the Central park district, which is rapidly filling with the local "400", while Galley Bros. have opened a fine store on Genesee street, near Oak in the heart of the shopping district of the flourishing east side. The location is convenient and the equipment and service up-to-date. Leo. Neubeck, son of the only "Louie" is in charge of the Galley establishment.

The writer had the pleasure of spending a few hours in Toronto a short time ago and visited the new Dunlop store on Adelaide street. It is one of the finest and most up-to-date stores in the country with every modern con-quantities of lily of the valley, orchids, etc.

This week will prove an exciting one to the florists who are going to Cleveland to attend the flower show and incidentally to root for Buffalo in the bowling match. Local rotary florists will be represented at the rotary club banquet at Cleveland, November 11.

Joseph Streit is now a resident of Detroit, but is still a member of the florists' bowling club of this city. His entrance into the Buffalo tournament will cause him to visit here several times during the season.

S. J. Mahoney, of "governor and mayor fame", is again with S. A. Anderson, as is also J. A. Cannon of Philadelphia, after an absence of two years.

A wedding last week resulted in one of the best orders of the season being placed with the Lenox Flower shop.

Albany, N. Y.

CLUB MEETING.

At the November meeting of the Albany Florists' Club, the two nominating committees agreed upon a ticket to be voted upon at the annual election on December 2. The ticket is: For president, Thomas F. Tracey; for vice-president, Charles Sanders; for secretary-treasurer, Robert Davidson; for trustees, two years, Earl Shaw, James Snyder, and Samuel Hanson. One application for membership was received to be acted upon at the next meeting. Some life was instilled into the proceedings by the discussion of two questions: 1. "How Best Can We Stimulate Interest in the Albany Florists' Club?" 2. "What are the Best Yellow, Pink, and White Chrysanthemums for the Commercial Grower?" The discussion brought out suggestions which can be embodied in the program from time to time with profit. One of these to be adopted at the December meeting is for two or three of the members to take note of special articles in the trade papers about new varieties of roses, carnations, etc. These are to be brought in and read in whole or part. The discussion about commercial varieties of chrysanthemums was handled at considerable length by William venience for handling stock. Mr. Geraghty is to be highly complimented for the clever manner in which he has arranged this establishment.

The demand for funeral work the past two weeks has been very active, the deaths of three of the city's most prominent bankers and business men calling for an unusual amount of choice stock. W. J. Palmer & Son had charge of the three funerals and used large Newport, who spoke largely from his own experience and from what he had observed. The remarks of Mr. Newport brought forth comments on the part of Earl Shaw, gardener for George C. Hawley of this city. Mr. Shaw's favorite varieties included Daily Mail and Odessa, but the discussion brought out the fact that these were more exhibition varieties than for the commercial florist. F. A.

Danker was able to give one or two points he learned while visiting the establishment of A. N. Pierson, Inc., Cromwell, Conn. This firm has a method of selecting the best variety in each color and discarding all others in that class. The method is based upon the comparison of one typical plant of one color and variety with another typical plant of the same color and variety. The plant which shows up the larger number of blooms is the variety adopted and the other variety is discarded. A. N. Pierson, Inc., have their own thorough method of conducting the comparisons but in outline the method is substantially as given. Mr. Danker called attention to the fact that there are so many varieties that the grower must adopt some such method of selection. An invitation to visit the greenhouses of Mr. Hawley was extended by Mr. Shaw and many of the members will take advantage of it. Refreshments and a social time were enjoyed after the meeting.

NOTES.

On November 5 a special ordinance car left Dobbs Ferry over the New York Central railroad with an unusual chrysanthemum from the greenhouses of Adolph Lewisohn at Ardsley-on-the-Hudson. The plant was of the kind grown in the gardens of the Emperor of Japan and was destined for the Cleveland flower show. It was of umbrella shape with 1,200 blossoms along its crown 15 feet in diameter. The chrysanthemum was in charge of J. W. H. Campbell, superintendent of Mr. Lewisohn's greenhouses, his assistant, and a representative of the engineering department of the railroad. The car with its load barely cleared the bridges at a number of places along the line.

The Rosery, Edward P. Tracey, proprietor, reports its share of the business this fall. On the evening of November 4 the Rosery supplied the decorations for the dinner given by Miss Ruth Peabody for Frederick C. Tanner and his fiancée, Miss Jane Ogden, at the Country club. On November 6 the Rosery furnished the decorations for the Fitzgerald-Graves wedding in St. Vincent de Paul's church. The color scheme in green and white was carried out with the aid of chrysanthemums.

At an election held November 2, Arthur Cowee, of Berlin, the gladiolus specialist, was elected to the state assembly from the second district of Rensselaer county. Mr. Cowee was nominated by the Republicans and won out over his Democratic opponent by 1,000 majority. The communities in which the new assemblyman is well known rallied handsomely to his support.

The annual chrysanthemum exhibition conducted by the municipal bureau of parks in the lake house, Washington park, was opened, November 7, for two weeks. In the park greenhouses are 500 varieties from which the exhibition stock will be drawn. Among the number are 79 new ones never exhibited here. A list of these has been supplied to the newspapers.

TRADE UNUSUALLY BRISK.

The past week has been an active one along all lines in floral circles, and trade has been unusually brisk. There have been numerous weddings and more yet to come. The home weddings have been, if possible, even more elaborate than the church affairs. Chrysanthemums have figured largely in the decorations and never have there been better ones, in any color desired. In white they are continuously used to outline the group of pews set apart for the family at the church affairs tied with long streamers of white ribbon. Improvised altars in the home weddings also have an abundance of the white chrysanthemum. The Hallowe'en call was very satisfactory and added quite a little to the day's business. Yellow chrysanthemums were used and other yellow flowers. While there are plenty of yellow chrysanthemums used for the present demand the florists are holding back an abundant supply for the annual Thanksgiving demand which always brings a rich harvest, and for which great preparations are annually made with a certainty of the demand. Roses are blooming wonderfully well in all the varieties, the Killarneys in pink and white, Richmond, American Beauty, Aaron Ward, Sunburst, Prince d'Arenberg, Russell and others. Carnations are getting at their best. There are plenty of lily of the valley and Bermuda lilies.

The funeral of J. B. Carr, the head of the B. H. Stief jewelry establishment, one of the largest in the city, called for an abundance of flowers. Geny Bros. made for the management a magnificent pall and made another the same day for another funeral.

McIntyre Bros. have made of the pergola surmounting their west end store a very attractive affair covered with vines and filled with evergreen plants that will keep their beauty throughout the entire winter season.

The windows of the florists are beautifully decorated, those of the Joy Floral Company being especially artistic, with tall basket vases of chrysanthemums draped in colored satins and velvets very attractively.

L. H. Haury & Sons have decided to take the store at 625 Church street, which brings them nearer the flower market.

SMALL DEMAND FOR GOOD STOCK.

Last week business was rather disappointing. There was plenty of good stock of all kinds, but the call for the same was rather weak and brought about a drop in prices as well as a large surplus in the ice boxes. Shipping business, particularly in supplies and greens, is very heavy. Chrysanthemum receipts are very heavy, and at the prevailing prices are proving fairly popular. All the retailers use them in some arrangement or other in their window decorations and at the wholesale houses they are to be seen everywhere. Pompon and anemone varieties are in a very ample supply. Roses and carnations are arriving in very large quantities. Easter lilies, too, are plentiful. Violets, sweet peas, lily of the valley, orchids and pansies have a fair market. The best single violets clean up very readily.

CLUB MEETING.

The November meeting of the Cincinnati Florists' Society was held at J. A. Peterson & Sons' place in Westwood, November 8. The hosts first showed the guests through the greenhouses where they found the incomparable lots of Mrs. J. A. Peterson, Mellior and Glory of Cincinnati begonias. Frank Schumann was elected a member of the society by acclamation under a suspension of the rules. After the business meeting the members sat down to a luncheon. The large parlor and living room were then turned into an auditorium and Mrs. Peterson and Clarence Peterson exhibited pictures taken by Mrs. Peterson when she and Mr. Peterson attended the S. A. F. meeting last summer. Bob Newcomb, Chicago, attended the meeting.

NOTES.

A chrysanthemum exhibition was held at the city greenhouses in Eden park last Sunday by the park department. The exhibit consisted of about 350 varieties of chrysanthemums, pompon and anemones. Many thousands of people attended the show during the day. Dave Knott, as usual, arranged the exhibit.

C. E. Critchell, Fred Gear, Geo. Trome and Max Rudolph will attend the Cleveland flower show this week. C. E. Critchell has been having some very fine lots of roses.

E. G. Gillett's fine single violets from Grand Rapids, Mich., clean up regularly as fast as they come into his place.

BUSINESS GOOD ON THE WHOLE.

An unprecedented chrysanthemum demand has been the experience of most florists during the past fortnight. This has been met with an abundance of stock, as a rule. One exception is that of a large concern which grows no seconds, and has found the market for choice blooms so strong that few have been allowed to come to full maturity. The warm weather has hastened growth and brought the chrysanthemum season to its height at least two weeks ahead of time. Major Bonnaffon, for example, is about done for, when it should be just coming in. A famine is looked for at Thanksgiving time, and roses and other flowers will largely take the place of chrysanthemums. Prices range from $1 to $5 a dozen. Pompons are plentiful and more popular than ever before, the best price being 75 cents per dozen sprays. Carnations are selling at 35 cents to 50 cents a dozen ordinarily. The local bulb trade has wiped out all records in free buying by consumers this fall. In volume of sales it is weeks ahead of last season. On the whole the florists' business is good, but with prices not as strong as could be desired.

NOTES.

A notable wedding from the florist standpoint was handled by the Livingston Seed Company last week. It occurred at Barnesville, F. M. Brownwell, of the cut flower department, having charge of the decorations both at the church and the bride's residence. The groom, Charles Bratton, is cashier of the First National bank of Barnesville, and the bride, the daughter of C. J. Bradfield, president of the Second National bank. White chrysanthemums, Ophelia roses, orchids, Sweetheart buds, lilies of the valley and smilax entered into the decorations and the flowers carried by the bride and attendants. It was one of the largest wedding contracts of the season.

For the first time in a number of years the Livingston Seed Company will not hold a November chrysanthemum show at its retail store. All the novelties, they state, have been cut out of stock, owing to the great demand, and they are unable to make a display that would do them justice.

A very attractive floral show is on this week at the Munk Floral Company's retail store, in the Harrison building. While chrysanthemums are the leading feature, roses, carnations and other flowers are being exhibited in great abundance.

H. J. Woolman, florist at the suburban location, Camp Chase, is adding a new greenhouse to his plant.

SUPPLY INCREASES BUT PRICES ARE FIRM.

Two weeks of ideal weather have resulted in a great increase of stock, especially chrysanthemums, which had been rather scarce, and they are bringing better prices than at this time last year. Retailers are featuring the window displays and many attractive arrangements are to be seen. Pompons are also arriving in better quantity and bring good prices. The supply of roses is on the increase, and carnations are being received in larger number and better in quality. Sweet peas and violets are scarce. There has been a great amount of funeral work.

CLUB MEETING.

The meeting of the florists' club, October 26, was a most enthusiastic one, and final plans were discussed for the coming flower show. One of the features of the show will be lectures, illustrated by films, shown in collaboration with the directors of the Museum of Art. These are expected to be a strong drawing card. The retailers are showing spirit in the preparation of table decorations and other examples of the florists' art.

NOTES.

Geo. Bayer, president of the florists' club, has a crop of Chrysanthemum Bonnaffon in splendid condition and can scarcely supply the demand the way orders are pouring in. He will make a fine exhibit at the flower show and confidently expects to walk away with his share of the ribbons.

Elmer D. Smith, of Adrian, Mich., will have a great showing of chrysanthemums at the local flower show. He was present at the last club meeting and exhibited some fine specimens of the regal flowers for which he is famous.

Civic Beauty Expert Stevens of the Toledo Commerce Club and the Museum of Art, an honorary member of the florists' club, is working hard with the flower show committees for the success of the exhibition.

Metz & Bateman are advertising their business in homes with flower vases with their firm name upon them.

S. N. Peck reports business exceptionally good this fall. He has been very busy with funeral work.

A. C. K.

Oklahoma City.

Business has been extremely good this week. Several large weddings have taken place, two of them having very elaborate decorations. Funeral work has also been quite plentiful, all of the stores having had numerous calls for designs and bunches.

NOTES.

The Stiles Co. arranged two elaborate wedding decorations and furnished the bridal bouquets for both events. The bouquets were made wreath shape, on a single wire, a ribbon loop being attached and thereby carried suspended from the arm of the young lady. For one of the weddings, the bride's bouquet was made of Dendrobium formosum, lily of the valley, and adiantum fern; the bouquets carried by the rest of the bridal party were made of pink rose buds and adiantum.

Many of the smaller towns throughout the state are holding chrysanthemum shows this month. While these shows are mainly the work of women clubs, and only amateur growers are represented as a rule, there are lots of the flowers shown that compare very favorably with commercially grown stock, notwithstanding the fact that it is all grown out doors.

The local chrysanthemum crop is coming in very fast and the quality of the flowers is very fine, indeed. We are hoping that business will keep up to the present standard so that they may all be disposed of profitably, for the weather is moderately warm with lots of bright sunshine every day, a condition not very conducive to a long flowering season.

Furrow & Co. report that trade is excellent, and that they have been especially busy with large funeral orders. They also had a nice line of wedding flowers to furnish during the last few days.

The stores report a good demand for bulbs, a result no doubt of the efforts made by the civic association to get the public at large interested in bulb culture.

TRADE SHOWS SLIGHT IMPROVEMENT.

There has been a slight improvement in trade conditions during the past 10 days, with all stocks plentiful with the exception of carnations, which are still in limited supply. In roses, the Killarneys, pink and white, are in the lead, but good stock of Ophelia, Francis Scott Key, Sunburst and Maryland are to be seen. Hadley is somewhat off crop at present. Chrysanthemums are arriving in large quantities, among the leaders being Tousset, Chrysolora, Chadwick and Chieftain, while a fine lot of pompons are to be seen, Garza being a great favorite. Lily of the valley is exceptionally good and violets are splendid stock. Gardenias are of good quality but the demand is weak, and good cattleyas are here in abundance. A few primroses, cyclamens and Begonia Lorraine are also to be seen.

NOTES.

John B. Keller & Sons' clever window arrangements are always an attraction. A display last week of orchid plants in full bloom with vases of large yellow chrysanthemums attracted much attention.

At the chrysanthemum show at the Lamperton conservatories, a great mass of bloom was shown, many of the varieties being very choice.

George B. Hart was elected supervisor of the Third ward, November 2, and the trade is extending congratulations.

George T. Boucher has been very busy recently, the demand for funeral work being especially heavy.

Harry P. Neun is cutting very fine chrysanthemum stock, which finds a ready market.

Vick & Hill Co. have a fine line of Boston ferns, on which they are specializing.

The Maurer-Haap Co. reports fall business in bulbs very good.

CHESTER.

Kansas City.

HEAVY SUPPLY AND PRICES LOW.

Stock is still arriving in large supply, being forced in by the warm weather, the thermometer registering as high as 86 degrees, something unusual for this season of the year in this section. Chrysanthemums are in the lead, with plenty of carnations and roses, and while the quality is better, stocks are selling at low prices. Business in general has been very good, with plenty of funeral work and numerous orders for decorations. The demand for pot plants is very good.

NOTES.

The Wm. L. Rock Flower Co. is now operating their new refrigerating system, the service being supplied by a public service company, pipes being run under ground to a number of firms in the business district. The system is electrically operated and is claimed to be more economical than the old way.

Henry Kusik & Co. report business good especially in the shipping line, and supplies are selling well. Chrysanthemums, roses and carnations of very fine quality are seen here in quantity. Saturday, November 6, holds the record for the best day's business for the year.

W. J. Barnes is cutting some very good chrysanthemums and his carnation stock is especially fine. The demand for funeral work has been very brisk at this establishment.

Mrs. T. A. Mosely, of Kansas City, Kan., was severely injured in an automobile accident last week and will be confined to her home for several weeks.

Arthur Newell is back from his ranch in Texas and says under the present conditions trade is very good. He expects to attend the Cleveland show.

Adolph Mohr will give up his old range about July 1, 1916. He contemplates adding 10,000 feet of glass to his new establishment.

T. J. Noll & Co. are receiving large shipments of stock, especially chrysanthemums, roses and carnations, which find ready call.

E. W. Ellsworth of the Rosery is busy with his fall bulb planting. He handles between 50,000 and 60,000 for this purpose.

About 3,500 carnations are being cut daily at the Stevens' greenhouses. The chrysanthemums are practically all gone.

A. Elberfield, of the Alpha Floral Co., has returned from a western trip and reports business good in general.

M. H. Smith has received between 30,000 and 40,000 narcissus bulbs.

Visitors: M. Zirkman, representing M. Rice Co., Philadelphia, Pa.; Dr. Kennedy, of the State Fair Floral Co., Sedalia, Mo.; R. H. Smith, of Interstate Rustic Co.

TRADE QUIET; PRICES DECLINE.

Business has been rather quiet the past week but ended up with a very good Saturday. There is little doing generally with the result that prices have dropped somewhat, all stock being plentiful. Chrysanthemums have had a very good sale, as have carnations. The former are reaching the market in large numbers, but the fancy are sold almost at once, and it is only the cheaper grades that sell at low prices. Carnations are dropping in price now, but roses seem to be holding out, although the middle of the week they could be bought at low prices. Sweet peas are not very good as yet. There are a few pink snapdragons, but they sell up quickly. Floral work has been good.

NOTES.

Smith, the florist, had the stand in Liggett's drug store, November 6, with Henry Patrie in charge.

John Marshall, of the Fruit Hill Greenhouses, will soon be cutting good sweet peas.

Albert Holcher is cutting some excellent chrysanthemums and bouvardia stock that sell on sight.

Howard Almy, of Simmonsville, R. I., has taken over his greenhouses again, with Jesse Tataglia as his foreman. Jesse has had the houses for over two years, while Mr. Almy has been in Florida.

Olney Williams has started to cut his chrysanthemums, and is sending in White Ivory and Major Bonnaffon.

Hoffman, of Pawtucket, is cutting Chieftain chrysanthemums that are very good.

H. A. T.

Washington.KILLARNEYS AT 15 CENTS PER DOZEN.

The local market is glutted with small chrysanthemums, especially bunch stock, and although good stock has been plentiful, prices have remained firm on fair quality. Roses, such as American Beauty, brought from $8 to $25 per 100, while other varieties, including Ophelia, Killarney, Sunburst, Radiance, Mock, Shawyer, Richmond, Hadley, etc., can be had in the best grades at prices ranging from $2 to $8 per 100. Something that has never happened in this city before has happened—Killarney roses of fair quality and good color at 15 cents per dozen. How is the grower going to live if he has to produce stock to sell at such prices?

NOTES.

The meeting of the florist club, November 2, was growers' night, but the local growers forgot to send in anything that could do credit to the club. The retailers, however, made good with their displays. There should be more interest taken in these meetings to make them a success.

The chrysanthemum show, which was held by the agricultural department, was one of the best this city has ever seen. The attendance exceeded all former years.

G. Lovell is sending in some especially fine Wm. Turner chrysanthemums which meet with ready demand.

W. W. Kimmell local florist, reports that outside work has been better with him this year than ever before.

The Washington Floral Co. is cutting fine pompon stock.

J. L. Loose is laid up with la grippe.
G. C. D.

Massachusetts Agricultural College.

The department of floriculture is busily engaged making the final plans and arrangements for its autumn flower show and exhibition of floral arrangements. It has been decided to open the show, Sunday, November 7, from 2 until 10 p. m., in order that more people from the surrounding cities may have an opportunity to visit it. The exhibition will continue through Monday and Tuesday, November 8-9, being open from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m.

From the present indications it appears as if it would be necessary to use part of the second floor of the building in order to accommodate the various exhibits. Several of the florists in this section have offered to make displays, for they fully realize the opportunity for advertising which this show, with its free admission offers. Also, several other members of the trade have signified their intention to send in exhibits of new varieties and other specialties, for they realize that the florists of this section are much interested in the show. A few of the private gardeners in the state also intend sending something of interest. This is a show for everybody and space will be provided for anyone who wishes to send in anything of interest.

At the request of the Northampton and Holyoke Gardeners' and Florists' Club, special classes, open only to their members, have been arranged. Much interest is being shown by the students in floriculture who are anticipating the competitions provided for them. Mr. Butler, of Northampton, will be on hand to give suggestions to the students in floral arrangement.

The chrysanthemums in the college greenhouses are coming along nicely and include some very fine blooms, so that a wealth of this flower will be available. There will be a large exhibit of named varieties of the different types which should prove of interest to the growers. Chrysanthemums will be freely used in baskets, large vases, and as pot plants. Besides these and various floral arrangements, the department will also have groups of house plants, Christmas plants, foliage plants, etc. There will be two large plant groups composed of foliage and flowering plants. There will also be collections of books for amateur gardeners, of various types of ornamental containers for the home and other things of interest to the general public. Once again the department wishes to invite one and all, and sincerely hopes that it may have an opportunity to welcome many of the florists and gardeners.

THE dry October has been favorable for putting the gladiolus bulb crop into shape for early use in forcing.

PROTECT everything damageable by cold against that bitter freezing weather which may come any night now.

A PLANT and bulb drummer, who has lately made leading towns west of the Missouri, writes: "Trade quite good, but the lily business has been overdone and growers will reduce."

NEW editions have been issued of "Landscape Gardening," by S. T. Maynard, price $1.50, and "How to Lay Out Suburban Home Grounds," by Herbert J. Kellaway, price $2.

Dreer's Gold Medal Aquatics.

Henry A. Dreer, Inc., Philadelphia, Pa., has been officially notified that its fine exhibit of water lilies and other aquatics at the Panama-Pacific exposition has been awarded the gold medal. This fine exhibit was one of the most attractive and interesting in the great San Francisco display and certainly merited the highest honor of the exposition authorities.

Arthur Cowee State Assemblyman.

Arthur Cowee, the well-known gladiolus specialist of Berlin, N. Y., was elected to the state assembly from the second district of Rensselaer county at an election, November 2. He was the republican nominee and easily defeated the democratic opponent, his majority being over 1,000. In the communities where Mr. Cowee is known, his popularity is evidenced by the way the voters rallied handsomely to his support.

Minneapolis Flower Show.

President Desmond, of the Minnesota State Florists' Association, has been making a tour of the leading growers in nearby cities including Chicago, Milwaukee and Omaha, in the interest of the flower show to be held under the auspices of his association and the state horticultural society at the West hotel, Minneapolis, December 7. Many of the growers have promised to send exhibits of their specialties.

Houston Show Plans Complete.

Plans for the Houston flower show are now complete. The exhibition will open November 17 and continue through November 20, the commencement to be heralded by a floral automobile parade with beautiful girls. Chrysanthemums will be prominent in this pageant. Two hundred florists from points in Texas are expected to be in attendance, while 50 or more from other states will come.

The Auditorium will be packed to capacity with exhibits and there will be headliner features for drawing crowds, such as living models with handsome gowns displaying shoulder sprays of various types, corsages, and the ankle bouquet will be featured. The bridal party arrangements will also have a prominent place. It will be a 100 per cent better show than last year, with attendance increased in the same proportion.

R. C. KERR.

Postal Receipts Indicate Prosperity.

Announcing the return of postal receipts to practically a normal rate of increase, Postmaster General Burleson made the following statement, November 5:

"Postal receipts at the 50 largest post offices in October, which collect one-half of the postal revenues, contain important evidence of healthy and well distributed prosperity in the country. Postal income is acknowledged to be an accurate barometer of business conditions. The October returns show substantial increases in the largest postal centers in all sections of the United States. The revival of business is general, not local or spotty."

The receipts at the 50 offices for October, 1915, were $13,207,259.12; and for October, 1914, $12,751,040.63. October, 1914, had only four Sundays and October, 1915, had five Sundays. Hence the former had 27 working days, compared with 26 working days in October, 1915. Placing each month on a comparable basis as to working days the percentage of increase is 7.57. The actual increase of the receipts for 26 working days during October, 1915, over the receipts for 27 working days during October, 1914, was 3.58 per cent. The normal increase is from five to six per cent.

Belgian Plants.

McHutchison & Co., New York, write November 3 as follows:

"Last week we received from Belgium 458 packages of azaleas, etc., per S.S. Ryndam and Oosterdyk. This week we received 666 packages more per S.S. Martensdyk and Rotterdam. This list excludes shipments of Holland origin. When we consider the position of the Belgian growers, the difficulties of getting permits to ship, first from the British and then from the German authorities, the problem of getting transportation, etc., we consider that the Belgian growers deserve great credit for their energy and resourcefulness."

PLANT A LIVE ONE

AVIATOR

THIS WONDERFUL NEW CARNATION

was placed on the market for the first time last season, but was withdrawn later and afterwards came into our possession, when we leased the Chicago Carnation Co.'s greenhouses. Aviator is the greatest money maker for any one to grow. You can count more profits in six months from Aviator than any other scarlet, on account of its wonderful productiveness, producing twice as many blooms as any other carnation, and a heavy crop for Christmas. Will produce 30 blooms per plant per season. The color is an intense scarlet and the flower has a fine full center. The stem is thin, wiry and stiff, and the calyx non-bursting. Aviator is a cross between a Red Sport of Maceo and a Red Seedling, and has the habit of Maceo. Every break develops into a fine flower in a remarkably short time.

Belle Washburn

A Beautiful Brilliant Red

Winner of the Silver Medal at the last Exhibition of the American Carnation Society, Buffalo, N.Y., January 27th and 28th, First Prize at the Illinois State Fair at Springfield, Ill., Sept. 22nd and 23rd.

IT has never been beaten at any exhibition. The color is a most brilliant red. The size of the flower $3\frac{1}{2}$ to 4 inches. Stems 24 to 36 inches long, strong and stiff. We have never had a burst calyx, all flowers grading firsts and best of all it is a constant bloomer giving a steady run of flowers equal in number to the Enchantress family. It has a very spicy odor much greater than the average Carnation. It comes in full flower by the 1st of December and then continues steadily the balance of the season.

The present sharp competition in business requires the grower to plant a variety that always produces high-grade flowers, never bursts the calyx, has strong, long stems, is steady and continuous bloomer, no cropper. The color is the most brilliant red of any Carnation now in market. We have grown this variety for five years, it being one of our own seedlings, and we now have 30,000 plants benched in our greenhouses at Greggs of which 12,000 are for the cut flowers and 18,000 devoted to rooted cuttings.

We will have 100,000 strong, well-rooted cuttings guaranteed all first-class ready for delivery during December. The price of the rooted cuttings will be $12.00 per 100; $100.00 per 1000.

Blooming Plants for Christmas and Easter a Specialty

Take Garfield Park branch of the Metropolitan Elevated to Cicero Ave., walk four blocks north and one block west, or take Madison St. car to Cicero Ave., walk two blocks south and one block west.

FRANK OECHSLIN,
4911 West Quincy Street, CHICAGO, ILL.

Dayton, O.

The weather during the month of October was exceptionally fine, but it was the sort of weather that depreciates the value of flowers from the florists' standpoint. Outdoor chrysanthemums are still sold on the market and naturally caused a slump in the market for the All Saints' day trade. Business is increasing and a good Thanksgiving trade is anticipated. Chrysanthemums of all varieties are appearing in quantities and pompons in splendid bunches are selling for $2 per dozen sprays. Carnations are good but are short stemmed. Roses are fine, but American Beauties are not considered a good investment; that is in any quantity.

NOTES.

Manager Rodgers of the Miami Floral Co. reports sales about 30 per cent better than at this time last year. Invitations have been issued for their chrysanthemum show. There are about 20,000 chrysanthemums in bloom at the greenhouses and the roses and carnations are now in splendid condition.

The Dennison-Miami football game November 6, caused Matthews, the Florist, to put on an extra force at his new store in the Miami hotel. Yellow and white chrysanthemums were used and as some 800 rooters for the two teams made the hotel their headquarters there was "some rush."

The many friends of Mrs. Warren G. Matthews will be very glad to hear of her complete recovery after a severe illness, which necessitated several trips to the Martinsville sanitarium before a complete cure was effected.

The Advance Floral Co. reports a good trade, with three elaborate wedding orders booked for the coming week. Some fine orchids and splendid chrysanthemum stock were noted at this establishment.

Matthews, the Florist, has been unusually busy during the past week, the demand for funeral work being so heavy that the force has been working until midnight on several nights.

Jake Fromm has the sympathy of the trade in the death of his eldest son, Harry, who was instantly killed November 3, when a heavy elevator weight fell on him.

E. E. Schaeffer of the Advance Floral Co. and Mr. Rogers of the Miami Floral Co. will greet their friends at the Chicago Grand Floral Festival, November 9-14.

WEEK OF THE GRAND FLORAL FESTIVAL.

The Grand Floral Festival, which opened at the Coliseum, November 9 and continues until November 14, is helping trade considerably and is the main topic of conversation in the market. Trade last week was very quiet and sales on some days were a great deal less than they were during the summer months when asters and gladioli ruled the market. Most of the dealers attribute the lull in business to the flower show and the warm weather, which has prevailed for nearly a week and it seems as if the show had something to do with it for the moment it opened business began to improve and the outlook is more encouraging. The show ought to help the Thanksgiving trade a great deal and it would not be at all surprising if the market cleaned up completely in all lines during Thanksgiving week. At present stock of all kinds is plentiful and of good quality. Chrysanthemums especially are in large supply and fancy exhibition stock is obtainable at very reasonable figures. Pompons are also seen at all the stores in large quantities in all the seasonable varieties and are selling at prices ranging from 25 to 50 cents per bunch. American Beauty roses are cleaning up well at fair prices and there is no great surplus when the stores close at night. Mrs. Chas. Russell roses are in good supply and some of the finest stock ever offered in this variety is obtainable this week. Roses in general are plentiful; choice stock in all lines is obtained at reasonable prices. Carnations are seen in large numbers and are selling fairly well at prices that could be much higher. Sweet peas and snapdragons are more plentiful but clean up well considering the general market condition. Violets, both single and double, are reaching the market in heavy supply and are being sold at rather low prices. Orchids are in good supply and the same applies to gardenias and lily of the valley. Greens of all kinds are plentiful and red winter berries are now being offered in quantity. The supply houses are making big displays of holiday goods, which are attracting the attention of the local buyers as well as the many visitors to the show. Inquiries regarding stock for Thanksgiving are numerous but it is rather difficult to tell whether cut flowers will be plentiful then or not, but it is always advisable to place orders early so as to insure one's supply.

NOTES.

John Michelsen, of the E. C. Amling Co., and W. J. Keimel, of Wendland & Keimel, visited the growers at Richmond and New Castle, Ind., Friday, November 5.

THE SIGN OF QUALITY

J. A. Budlong and the Chicago Flower Growers' Association will move into their new quarters on the main floor of the LeMoyné building next Monday, November 15, when a cordial invitation is extended to everyone to visit them in their new home. Their new locations are much better than the old ones and the change no doubt will prove beneficial as far as sales are concerned. Budlong's new street number will be 184 North Wabash avenue and the Chicago Flower Growers' Association 182 North Wabash avenue.

The J. D. Thompson Carnation Co. will entertain quite a number of carnation growers at their greenhouses in Joliet, November 11, when the new scarlet carnation Aviator will be the principal attraction. A special train will leave the La Salle street depot at 11:45 a. m. via Rock Island and return about 5:30 p. m. in time to permit everyone to attend the banquet at the Auditorium Hotel the same evening at 8 o'clock.

Weiland & Risch extend a cordial invitation to all growers to visit their greenhouses in Evanston and inspect their new rose, Champ Weiland, which is attracting much attention and has been featured extensively in the daily papers in connection with the publicity that the Grand Floral Festival is receiving. Champ Weiland, the rose with the cherry hue, is being recognized by many as the money maker for 1916.

A. L. Vaughan & Co. report a great improvement in both their local and shipping trade this week, and Mr. Vaughan is of the opinion that the Grand Floral Festival is going to help the Thanksgiving trade a great deal. Inquiries in regard to stock for that day are numerous and while it appears that stock will be plentiful he advises placing orders early.

Chas. A. Simonson and his foreman, H. R. Coughenous, of McPherson, Kansas, are attending the Grand Floral Festival now being held in the Coliseum and will make a business trip to Hillsdale, Mich., before returning home. Mr. Simonson is a heavy buyer in this market, notwithstanding the fact that he has about 17,000 feet of glass of his own.

Louis Wittbold took quite a number of florists to Ottawa Monday, November 8, to show them the large, new house that the Garland Manufacturing Co., of Des Plaines, built recently for Davis & Steiner of that city. Mr. Wittbold is interested in the Garland company and is well pleased with the showing that the firm has made during the past year.

Bassett & Washburn's new carnation, Belle Washburn, occupied a prominent place in the Sunday edition of the Chicago Herald in connection with the Grand Floral Festival write-up. This carnation is attracting much favorable attention and will be grown extensively by many of the leading growers next season.

Gus Pappas of Des Moines, Ia., has practically decided to make his headquarters in this city and will do the buying for the Alpha Floral Co.'s store here and also the one in Des Moines, Ia., and will be ably assisted at the local establishment by John Propps, who will have charge of the firm's many customers.

Ronsley, 106 South Dearborn street, reports trade as improving, with the sales running considerably ahead of last year, his first season in business. He and his able assistant, Victor Young, are kept busy at all times and their pretty window displays always attract much attention.

W. F. Duntemann, of Bensenville, is shipping some fine Bonnaffon chrysanthemums to A. L. Vaughan & Co. and Erne & Klingel. He is figuring on adding several new houses to his already large range and will let the contract for the material very shortly.

The officers and stockholders of A. T. Pyfer & Co. held a meeting at their store Thursday, November 4, when much important business was transacted. This firm is featuring some exceptionally well grown Wm. Turner chrysanthemums.

Guy French attended the November meeting of the Milwaukee Florists' Club, at Milwaukee, Wis., Thursday, November 4, when he invited all the members to attend the Grand Floral Festival, now being held in the Coliseum.

Zeck & Mann are having a good call for chrysanthemums which they are handling in quantity and which are a leader with them this week. Chieftain especially is selling well with them and cleans up nicely each day.

Fred Longren, one of Poehlmann Bros. Co.'s well known traveling men, returned from an out-of-town trip this week and is showing his many friends the sights at the Grand Floral Festival.

Fred Wolfram, who recently opened a store in Oak Park at 111 Wisconsin street, under the name of the Warrington Flower Shop, reports business as good, with the outlook very encouraging.

W. L. Sullivan, of the Woodlawn Floral Shop, 871 East Sixty-third street, is the proud father of a nine-pound baby girl which arrived at his home this week.

Pyfer & Olsem, of Wilmette, are building a new bulb house, 28x50 feet, which is nearly completed, under the able direction of H. E. Philpott of Winnipeg.

It is rumored that Wendland & Keimel will build a large addition to their range at Elmhurst in the near future.

H. M. Berner, formerly with the John C. Moninger Co., is now with the American Greenhouse Manufacturing Co.

WHOLESALE FLORISTS

162 North Wabash Avenue,

L. D. PHONE, CENTRAL 6269

CHICAGO, ILL.

One of the local wholesale florists has the following posted up in a prominent place: "It is rumored that a certain young society lady of this city kneads bread with gloves on. This incident may be peculiar, but there are others. We need bread with our shoes on and we need bread with our shirt on. We also need bread with our pants on and unless we can get in a few of our outstanding accounts on our books we will soon need bread without a d— thing on, and this city will be a Garden of Eden if collections do not improve very shortly. You can do much to prevent this."

Poehlmann Bros. Co. have just received word from George Rye, "Some Florist," of Ft. Smith, Ark., that they won first prize in chrysanthemums and first prize in roses over 14 entries and the sweepstake prize, a handsome silver loving cup, at the Ft. Smith show held last week and of which Mr. Rye was manager. Otto W. Frese says that trade at Poehlmann Bros. Co.'s establishment has shown a great improvement this week and that the demand is steadily increasing. This firm cut its last lot of pompons November 15, which is two weeks earlier than last year.

The Atlas Floral Co. featured the silver scroll in its window display all last week that Miller & Musser donated as a prize to the Grand Floral Festival and which will be awarded to the one arranging the best vase of Major Bonnaffon chrysanthemum in class 148. The prize attracted much attention and at times the crowd in front of the window was so large that the police had to clear the way so the people could pass by.

The shield that Kennicott Bros. Co. gave as a prize for the Grand Floral Festival for the most originality shown in the use of flowers for personal adornment, novelty to predominate, is a dandy and one that many a retail florist would like to win. The contest was particularly interesting, for the flowers were worn on live models and the contest attracted much attention at the show.

Wietor Bros. are cutting a raft of chrysanthemums and pompons, which include all the best standard as well as the newer varieties that are now in season. Business has been very good at this house all this week, and arrangements are now being made to handle the Thanksgiving business which promises to be as good if not a great deal better than last year.

The John Kruchten Co. is featuring a fine grade of Mrs. Chas. Russell and Ophelia roses in addition to their regular line and expect to have a large supply for their Thanksgiving trade. The wholesale plant department is gradually progressing under the able direction of Miss Greeley and new customers are being secured each week.

Percy Jones is handling a large supply of chrysanthemums, with Major Bonnaffon the principal offering, and reports a brisk demand for same. Green goods of all kinds, including a fancy grade of boxwood, are being handled in quantity and many orders for same are now being booked for the holidays.

A. I. Simmons had a large decoration for the Deutsch wedding this week, when the home at 4936 Ellis avenue, was handsomely decorated with yellow chrysanthemums. He also had the order for the bridal bouquets and handled the order in fine shape.

Miller & Musser had a fine vase of the new pink rose, Mrs. Sarah Yeats, on display at their store last week which came from the Yeats greenhouses at Champaign and will be placed on the market for the first time next season.

John N. Bommersbach, of Decatur, and wife, who was formerly Miss Amalia M. Farney, are spending their honeymoon in this city and are one of the happiest couples that attended the Grand Floral Festival in the Coliseum this week.

Peter Reinberg is cutting a fine grade of Mrs. Chas. Russell and Ophelia roses and will be in good crop for Thanksgiving in all lines, according to Felix Reichling, who says that the outlook never was more promising.

Chas. Erne, of Erne & Klingel, is looking forward to a brisk Thanksgiving trade and will have a large supply of stock, especially chrysanthemums, to supply his customers with on this occasion.

Manusos Bros.' large candy and florist store at State and Van Buren streets is in the hands of the receiver. The proprietors are Nick Kronis, John Contos and Peter Kronis.

At Hoerber Bros.' store stock is arriving in splendid condition, especially the Killarney roses, which are perfect as far as stem, color and foliage is concerned.

C. O. Wilcox, of the W. W. Barnard Co., arrived in the city in time to take in the opening of the Grand Floral Festival at the Coliseum.

O. A. Tonner is showing a fancy grade of snapdragons and pompons in addition to a nice grade of chrysanthemums.

M. C. Gunterberg is showing a new rustic art basket, which is something entirely new and is in good demand.

The street cars are advertising the Garfield park chrysanthemum show.

THE HOUSE OF KENNICOTT

(still standing, but not standing still)

Over thirty years ago the name of Kennicott meant "Chicago" to flower buyers. Today Kennicott still stands for Chicago, in the mind of the man that insists upon Quality, not only in Cut Flowers, but Supplies, Wire Designs and Decorative Greens.

Look over the pages of this issue, you will find many price lists, but all practically the same. We alone sell Kennicott's Quality Cuts, but we too meet the market price.

CHICAGO, ILL.

A baby gladdened the home of A. A. Baldwin Tuesday, November 9.
Visitors: Mrs. Tearney, with the Bills Floral Co., Davenport, Ia.

Chicago Florists' Club.

There was a large attendance of members at the last regular meeting of the club, held at the Hotel Morrison, November 4, between 70 and 80 being present and much enthusiasm was shown in the coming flower show. President Keimel occupied the chair and Allie Zech officiated as secretary, Guy W. French, the regular incumbent being absent on flower show work. Nineteen new members were elected as follows: John Risch, 154 North Wabash avenue; Lewis J. Burt, 901 North State street; Chas. S. McCauley, Geneva; A. E. Turner, Mosinee, Wis.; J. Champ Wieland, 154 North Wabash avenue; C. H. Schleiter, 3100 South Spaulding avenue; Albert F. Amling, Maywood; John J. Ziska, 707 Independence boulevard; Joseph Ziska, Jr., 1213 South Sixty-first avenue, Cicero; Harry M. Berner, 1503 Masonic Temple building; C. Brown, Western Springs; Ralph Claussen, Western Springs; Joseph Schoos, Evanston; Clarence Ellsworth, 3550 Michigan avenue; E. R. Armstrong, 739 Buckingham place; F. J. Littleford, Downers Grove; C. B. LeMer, 3056 Ogden avenue, and Peter N. Hoefelder, 3720 Ward street.

A. Henderson, Aug. Poehlmann, P. J. Foley, Robt. Brenton and others spoke of the flower show, urging the co-operation of all members. It was suggested that everyone wear the badge of the club with some suitable flower during show week. Wm. G. Tricker, of Vaughan's Greenhouses, promised to supply pompon chrysanthemums for this purpose. Geo. Wienhoeber requested permission to present a corsage bouquet to Mrs. Thompson, wife of the mayor, at the opening of the exhibition, Tuesday afternoon, and August Lange made a similar request in favor of Miss Mona Dunne, daughter of Gov. Dunne, both requests being granted with hearty approval.

The nominations of officers for 1916 resulted as follows: For president, Wm. H. Amling and Alex. Henderson; vice-president, Wm. G. Tricker; treasurer, Paul Klingsporn; secretary, Guy W. French; trustee H. N. Bruns.

Wieland & Risch exhibited nice vases of Mrs. Morfield Storey and Chas

Wieland roses; Vaughan's Greenhouses, Western Springs, contributed a number of handsome vases of pompon chrysanthemums.

Chairman Fink, of the picnic committee, presented his final report, showing an additional profit of $5.

Milwaukee, Wis.

BUSINESS IS GENERALLY SATISFACTORY.

The ideal weather of the past week, with its bright, warm days and cool nights, has brought stock along in a hurry, but the quality is very fine. Conditions are such that the supply at times exceeded the demand, but as a whole everything is quite satisfactory all around. The warm weather, though, is hastening the chrysanthemums along a bit too fast, and at this rate the supply for Thanksgiving will not be as plentiful as desirable. The weather for the past week was by far more pleasant than some we experienced during the month of May last.

CLUB MEETING.

The club meeting held November 4 was by far the best experienced in a long while. After the routine work was dispensed with we listened to a simple, yet deep and instructive talk on the "Garden City," by our honorary member, C. B. Whitnall. The opening words consisted in explaining what a "garden city" was, and was followed by a very clear explanation of "why flowers and vegetation in general were a necessity and not a luxury." In explaining the latter, Mr. Whitnall read statistics showing how in Germany and England, after observations extending over a period of eight years, vegetation in its various forms decreased the death rate and increased the size and general intellect of children ranging in age from 10 to 14 years. Also in what way it broadened the minds of persons who, after confinement in a factory all day, spent a little time in their garden, thus training their mind in another field and incidentally being benefited by the wholesome surroundings, etc. It was quite a treat and we hope to be favored with another such talk in the near future. E. H. Knief was voted in as a new member, while Archie McDonald's name was proposed to join our ranks in December.

Guy French attended the meeting of the Milwaukee Florists' club November 4, his object being to arouse enough interest among the local boys to have them stage a group of flowers for effect and non-competition at the Chicago Grand Floral Festival to represent Wisconsin grown products. Owing to the fact that this matter came up at the eleventh hour, those present felt that the time was too short to put up a display which would really be a credit to our state.

The next two largest social events of interest to florists will be the Charity ball December 2, to be followed by the horse show on December 8. Both will be held in the Auditorium and as the patrons belong to the "400," many flowers in one form or another will be called for.

The finishing touches are being put on the new store to be occupied by Lubliner, at 225 Grand avenue. This firm was forced to vacate its Plankington Hotel stand, owing to the destruction of this old hostelry to make room for a more modern structure.

At the Baumgarten Floral Co.'s Mason street store, business must have been very fine of late for they took out the partition to the east, thus making one large store out of two and increasing their facilities for the coming rush.

Gust Rusch, of G. Rusch & Co., was confined to his bed with a severe cold November 5-6, but is trying to get into shape in a hurry so he can at least visit with the Chicago boys during the floral festival.

The Holton & Hunkel Co. has such fine cut roses and chrysanthemums that they have entered them at the Chicago and Cleveland flower shows.

A. Reinhardt, of North Milwaukee, has been cutting some especially fine yellow Bonnaffon chrysanthemums all last week.

At the C. C. Pollworth Co. they are busy as bees handling their cut greenhouse crops plus filling bulb orders.

H. L. Von Trott will vacate his store at 717 Grand avenue in the near future. E. O.

ATTICA, N. Y.—Four houses, each 28 by 100 feet, will be built by A. J. Pauly during the coming spring.

MONTREAL, QUE.—McKenna's, Ltd., will open a flower shop on St. John street, Quebec, with H. W. McKenna in charge.

HUNTSVILLE, ALA.—John Scott, prominent florist, who disappeared from this city several weeks ago, following a long illness, has returned to his home.

GOOD STOCK ARRIVES IN LARGE QUANTITIES.

Supply is rampant, while demand is as docile as a lamb. There is an unusual quantity of good stock in all lines coming in daily, while that of the day before and previous shipments stands clogging up the way. Such a condition has, of course, an unfavorable effect on prices and they are perceptibly lower all along the line. As the season advances there continues to be improvement in almost everything. Carnations are seen with longer stems, also snapdragons. Violets are fast getting into winter form, both single and double, the stock of the latter from up the Hudson is very fine and deserves a better price. Special grade roses in all varieties are without fault—to carry only a vase of all the sorts fills quite a large case. Killarney, which so short a time ago dominated the market, is now but one of a number equally good which are bidding for public favor. Cattleyas are scarcer and sell well at top prices. Cypripediums are in and welcome, Easter lilies are draggy; they do not appear to like competition. And the chrysanthemums—they are having their inning with a vengeance. Bonaffon is in to stay until Thanksgiving. Stroud's Stafford, a fiery orange yellow, is a good seller. Not a huge flower, but of splendid form, it should be in every grower's collection. During the quiet periods the wholesale houses do double duty with the phones calling up likely customers in the hope of making sales.

NOTES.

The essay committee of the club are distinctly on the job and subjects for December and January have been announced. At the November meeting they also reported essays and exhibitions for February, March and April. For February R. P. Brown, of Cottage Gardens, Queens, N. Y., will review the newer carnations. There will also be an exhibition of all the novelties the committee can get together, and they will give every prominent grower an appeal for his best. W. H. Earle, of W. Atlee Burpee & Co., Philadelphia, will at the March meeting tell us all about winter forcing Spencer sweet peas, which will be a great treat from the man next to the "sweet pea king" himself. A great display of all the new sorts is also promised. For April the committee have secured Stephen Mortenson to lead in a symposium on the new roses. S. S. Pennock will offer a prize for the best collection, 12 of a kind to a vase. With all these good things in prospect the club can surely be said to be forging ahead. The H. F. Michell Co. have offered a prize for the member who shall bring the most applications for membership during the next three months. Mr. Copperthwaite wanted to see the club's roster mount to over 500; it now contains something over 250 names. He thought the enthusiastic meetings now being held and the work for the coming great exhibition should make it easy to get this number. Secretary Rust of the Pennsylvania Horticultural Society has sent out a neat card folder with list of lectures, nearly all illustrated, to be delivered before the society in the next six months. For November 16, Dr. Robt.

SUPPLY OVERSHADOWS DEMAND.

Business is rather quiet, with an increasing supply of chrysanthemums, roses, carnations and violets, and the demand is not strong enough to clean them up. Roses, excepting American Beauties, seem to be the slowest. The supply of chrysanthemums is very heavy and they are now an overshadowing feature in the wholesale and retail stores as well as in the exhibitions. Very fine stock is now on the market, among the noteworthy yellows being Col. Appleton. A bronze or dark red named Glen View is now on the market. It is a very fine flower and the asking price by the wholesalers who have it, is $8 and $9 per dozen, but that is one of the few exceptions. Plenty of good stock, good enough for the average buyer, can be bought for from $2 to $4, wholesale. The pompons and singles are features to be reckoned with, and cut in heavily on carnations and the cheaper grades of roses. The horse show opened at Madison Square Garden on November 6. Times were when the horse show was looked upon by the florists as a big event in their favor, but at this writing it has created no noticeable demand for flowers.

November 8.—The market continues very quiet, with an increasing supply and no corresponding demand to meet it. As we have previously reminded our readers, our market quotations, in another column, are only for fresh stock. It is impossible to give prices on left-over stock because it is sold at all kinds of prices.

NOTES.

E. J. Hession, Madison avenue and 76th street, is now finely located in his conservatory store, which, during the past summer was rebuilt and greatly enlarged. The store is of the curvilinear type of construction and is very artistic. Two greenhouses, 100 feet long, are in the rear of the main store. One will be used exclusively for flowering, the other for foliage plants. In the rear of the main store, facing the entrance, there is a balcony where flowering stock can be effectively shown. The plate glass front of the store, when filled with flowers, makes a fine picture. Everything in the interior furnishings is in the most modern style. There is a roomy, concrete basement for a work room and storage. Mr. Hession has literally grown up with the florist business and is to be congratulated for his success and enterprise. However, there is no mystery about it; he knows his business and treats customers and everybody else with consideration and fair dealing. He has just purchased a fine new delivery car. It may be unnecessary to add that he handles the finest of stock and his store is noted for its excellent design and decorative work.

Relating to the flower shows: we must acknowledge to the exhibitors, that in the matter of labeling their exhibits properly, they are doing much better than formerly, and we hope they will go on with the good work. There are now so many roses and carnations of a similar color and shade that, especially under the electric light, it sometimes puzzles even an expert to distinguish between some of them. Again, these shows are held to catch the public eye, and although the entire public was not born in Missouri, it likes to be shown. A few words to the compilers of schedules. A Boston man once said that the man who would write "any other color" into a schedule should get about six months. We think that would be a little severe and would favor its reduction to thirty days. If any new color is brought out, get a name for it.

One of our esteemed contemporaries has taken seriously, and written an editorial, about a difference of opinion between the wholesalers and retailers of this city. It is ours to laugh. These outbreaks are periodical. They remind us of mumps, measles and chicken-pox with children; painful while they last, but seldom or never causing fatal results. It is a sane and reasonable proposition that neither the retailers nor wholesalers of this city can do business, one without the other, and, the sooner they quit "chewing the rag" and get together, the better it will be for the growers, the public and all concerned.

Brooklyn covers so much ground and has so many florists that it takes some time to get around to all of them. On Nostrand avenue, we have recently visited a number of good retail stores. N. Scofes, 501 Nostrand avenue, near Fulton street, has a fine store and is making attractive window displays with chrysanthemums of excellent quality, and cibotium ferns. T. Kotsias, his clever buyer, is well known and popular in the wholesale district of Manhattan.

Wadley & Smythe decorated Madison Square Garden for the horse show. As it is a large place, an immense amount of laurel and southern smilax was used. The fronts of the balconies were profusely festooned with that quality of green and artificial poinsettias were also much in evidence. On the ground floor, tubs of bay and box trees, arbor vitae and pots of flowering chrysanthemums were noticed.

In a recent trip through Pennsylvania, one of our advertisers saw at the rose range of Edward Towill, Roslyn, Pa., a number of seedling roses, which were being grown in choice sections throughout the range. There were a dozen or more of them, all very promising, some of which will soon be placed on the market.

Richard Vincent, Jr., of Whitmarsh, Md., who was in this city the past week attending the shows, lectured before the Ladies' Garden Club at Rosebank, Staten Island, November 5, on "Hardy Chrysanthemums and Dahlias." He also presided at a meeting of the American Dahlia Society, November 6.

Callas Brothers have a fine store at 656 Nostrand avenue, corner of Bergen street, Brooklyn. They handle good stock and are making noteworthy displays with chrysanthemums. They have a brother who is a florist at Kansas City, Mo.

At the retail store of David Clarke's Sons we have recently noted a very fine display of palms, ferns, crotons and other foliage plants. In their show windows are handsome decorations of orchids, chrysanthemums and roses.

A. E. Booth, formerly with B. S. Slinn, the wholesaler of the Coogan building, after being absent for two years, during which he visited Cuba and other southern points, has again taken a position with Mr. Slinn.

At Wipperman's House of Flowers, Brooklyn, we have noticed excellent features. Chrysanthemums and foliage plants such as crotons, Dracaena terminalis and Pandanus Veitchii are being used with good effect.

John J. Coan, manager of the Growers' Cut Flower Co., is receiving fine stock in chrysanthemums and carnations. John is one of the busiest men in the wholesale district.

There were many floral designs at the funeral of Herman Ridder, late editor of the Staats-Zeitung, which was held at the Church of the Blessed Sacrament, November 4.

At Malandre Brothers' main store, Broadway and 72d street, there is a very fine window decoration, a landscape scene, flanked by a great display of flowering stock.

Over 85,000 persons visited the flower show in the American Museum of Natural History Sunday, November 7. The attendance on November 6 was about 65,000.

George J. Polykranas, the wholesaler of 104 West 28th street, has just installed a fine new safe in his store, which looks like business.

W. G. Badgley of the wholesale firm of Badgley & Bishop, Inc., who has been ill, has so far recovered as to be able to resume business.

Trees and plants to the value of $12,186 were included in the imports received at this port for the week ending October 30.

The Kervan Company furnished 100 cases of southern smilax for the decoration of Madison Square Garden for the horse show.

Henry Weston of Hempstead is sending to the Growers' Cut Flower Co. very fine stock of the pink chrysanthemum Balfour.

The steamers Drunswijk, Fridland, Midland, Mijdrecht and Vitalia, all from Rotterdam, were due at this port, November 8.

Frank Traendly, who was confined to his home for a week with a severe attack of la grippe, is now recovering.

Henry Baylis of the New York Cut Flower Co., who has been ill for two weeks, is reported to be improving.

S. Stone, 359 Jay street, Brooklyn, is a wholesaler and a very active one, who is constantly on the job.

Shipping Boxes For Cut Flowers

You want a light, convenient box that won't crush.

H & D Corrugated Fibre Boxes are light, stiff and strong. Their double wall, dead-air space construction keep your flowers fresh.

H & D BOXES can be shipped completely knocked down, saving freight and storage. Only a moment's work to set them up. Metal cover-corners snap together, giving you the stoutest florist's box ever made.

The Seed Trade

American Seed Trade Association.

J. M. Lupton, Mattituck, L. I., N. Y., President; Kirby B. White, Detroit, Mich., First Vice-President; F. W. Bolgiano, Washington, D. C., Second Vice-President; C. E. Kendel, Cleveland, O., Secretary and Treasurer. Thirty-fourth annual convention, June, 1916.

FANCY HOLLY is reported scarce in Delaware and Maryland.

DUTCH RAPE seed is reported ground into oil for domestic purposes.

VISITED CHICAGO: E. J. Deal, of W. W. Johnson & Son, Boston, Eng.

DUTCH SPINACH seed, grown on contract, will come forward, it is said.

CINCINNATI, O.—J. Chas. McCullough has left for Florida on his annual tarpon fishing trip.

THE tuberose crop is reported short by some growers, caladiums and canna a full crop.

OMAHA, NEB.—The capital stock of the Nebraska Seed Co. has been increased from $50,000 to $150,000.

PHILADELPHIA, PA.—The Stokes Seed Farms Co. has purchased the assets of the Johnson Seed Co., in bankruptcy.

THE state of Washington is said to have several districts well adapted to the growing of commercial garden peas.

A. H. GOODWIN, of the W. W. Barnard Co., Chicago, who has been at the Wesley hospital for treatment, is improving.

WATKINS & SIMPSON, London, Eng., have just issued an exhaustive list of novelties in flower and vegetable seeds for 1916.

CHICAGO.—Prices for grass seed on the Board of Trade, November 10, were as follows: Timothy, $5.50 to $7.75 per 100 pounds.

THE clover seed crop is set at two-thirds of an average one by the government report, field beans about 61 per cent.

EUGENE SCHAETTEL, representing Vilmorin-Andrieux & Co., of Paris, France, now expects to reach Chicago about November 20.

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—The Harnden Seed Co. will discontinue its cut flower store, but will continue to handle plants and bulbs.

SEED contracts of 1916 in countries at war for small acreages are made with difficulty, growers preferring to take their chances with cereals for food.

LINCOLN, NEB.—The Griswold Seed Co.'s creditors' committee is advising that the creditors accept stock for their claims, or 50 per cent on the dollar in cash.

THE weather has been very favorable for warehouse onion sets. The stock in warehouses, because of absolutely dry weather, is in much better condition than before.

THE Farmers' Mutual Seed Association, of Chicago, has been incorporated, with A. A. Berry, John F. Summers, A. F. Galloway and J. F. Sinn incorporators, capital $60,000.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y.—E. W. Conklin & Son are reported to have made a good cleanup on a large part of 100 carloads of timothy seed bought on the Chicago market in the late summer at favorable prices.

BEANS SEIZED.—“Anthracnos” is charged against 250 bags of beans shipped to Chicago by Post Brothers, of Hammond, Ind., in a bill filed November 3. The shipment consisting of 41,250 pounds has been seized by the government.

A JAPANESE type of Dwarf Essex rape is being put on the United States market at a price approximating five cents per pound. This and the French form are both said to seed too quickly to be of equal value with the English and Dutch broad leaf type, the English selling at 12 cents per pound.

Asters suffered greatly from the maggots. The early varieties gave a middling crop while the late sorts are still in doubt. Stocks will be a short crop, especially the yellow kinds. Wallflowers, sweet peas, Viola cornuts and nasturtiums are poor. Pansies fair, myosotis good. Verbenas, lupines and bellis produced small crops. Begonia and cineraria are good, antirrhinum poor.

A Blow at Golden Bantam Corn.

McLean county is in the very heart of that great corn belt from which Illinois draws so much of her riches. Therefore, we are interested in McLean county corn. We read with interest the Bloomington Pantagraph's forecast of the Better Farmers' Association corn show at the Coliseum

VAUGHAN'S NEW ONION SET WAREHOUSE, MORTON GROVE, ILL., 60 x 208 FEET

German Seed Crops.

The growing of seed crops the past season has been regulated largely by import and export possibilities. For instance, peas, which are usually raised for export to France, England or the United States were grown in limited quantity. The same applies to radish and spinach as well as many flower seeds. On the other hand, lettuce and cucumber were grown in much larger quantity than heretofore. Bush and pole beans were harvested in small quantity, a large percentage of these crops being killed by the frosts of September 21 and 22. Summer savory and dill yielded middling crops, while that of chicory roots was small. Peas were poor in most cases and only middling in some, cucumber poor, chervil middling. Cabbage, kale, Brussels sprouts, kohlrabi and rutabaga averaged small crops. Short carrots produced little, while the long varieties did better. Parsnip, parsley and Hamburg parsley gave a middling yield. Spinach is almost a total failure, celery poor, onions fair, lettuce poor.

there. We learn that sample ears are desired of all varieties of that staple which city folks slightly call “horse” corn. These include such standard varieties as Reid's Yellow Dent, Funk's Yellow Dent, Funk's Ninety Day, Boone County White, Silver King, Bloody Butcher and Calico. But we are pained to see that the list of “sweet corn” includes merely Country Gentleman, Evergreen and Sweet Cory. Where, we would ask McLean county, is that most succulent and satisfying of all sweet corns, that gracious gift to mankind which is baptized “Golden Bantam corn”? Cannot the heart of the corn belt do something about this? Won't it remedy the omission? Will it acknowledge the corn?—Chicago Evening Post.

New York Seed Trade.

The S. S. New Amsterdam brought 122 cases of bulbs for Vaughan's Seed Store. J. B. Deamud, the manager, has gone to the Cleveland show. W. E. Marshall and Roman J. Irwin are also at Cleveland.

The MacNiff Horticultural Co. received large shipments from Holland during the past week, comprising a variety of stock. This firm's auction sales are well attended and good prices are being realized.

McHutchison & Co. have received, during the past week, heavy shipments of azaleas, which they report in good condition, and they are now well prepared to supply the trade.

J. M. Thorburn & Co., during the past week, received a consignment of spireas and other roots from Holland.

The Harry A. Bunyard Co., Inc., has been very busy during the past week shipping bulbs to its customers.

Weeber & Don have received another shipment of bulbs. They report good business.

American Sugar Beet Seed.

The United States Beet Seed Co., an organization composed of practically all of the large manufacturers of beet sugar in the United States, will incorporate in Utah with an initial capitalization of $100,000, the object of the organization being to grow at home sufficient sugar beet seed to care for the sugar beet crop in America. As a result of the European war, considerable difficulty has been experienced in securing enough seed to meet this demand. During the past season it is estimated that approximately 14,000 bags of beet seed were grown in Utah and Idaho—ample seed to care for the 1916 crop in those states. W. H. Winterhalter, a German expert, who has been superintending the work of the Utah-Idaho Sugar Co. during the past three years, has been engaged to supervise the work of the new company.

Routzahn, Floricultural Commissioner.

The Woman's National Weekly, published at University City, Mo., in its issue of September 18, devotes one entire page to illustrations of the flower seed farms of the Routzahn Seed Co. Arroyo Grande, Calif. L. C. Routzahn, head of the firm, has recently been appointed commissioner of floriculture for the Atascadero Colony flower seed farms, 61 in number, at Atascadero, Calif., and will have full charge of this industry in the colony.

Ligustrum Vulgare.

This is the European privet, and one of the plants which retains its dark green leaves well into the winter. During the last 20 or 30 years much attention has been paid by botanists and gardeners to the privets of eastern Asia, where many species have been discovered. None of these, however, are as valuable in this climate as the European species, which is perhaps the handsomest here of all black-fruited shrubs. The bright shining fruit is borne in compact clusters which are on the ends of the branches and stand up well above the dark green lustrous leaves; they remain on the plants during the early winter months and after the leaves have fallen. During the first half of the nineteenth century this privet was a common garden plant in the northern United States, where it was much used in hedges; and it is now sparingly naturalized in the northern and middle states. There are several forms of this privet in cultivation, including one with yellow fruit (var. chlorocarpum) which can now be seen covered with fruit in the shrub collection. The variety foliolosum is also growing here; this has rather narrower leaves and larger fruits than the common form and at this season of the year is one of the handsomest plants in the arboretum.—Arnold Arboretum Bulletin.

Minneapolis.

SALES SLOW AND PRICES LOW.

The market is very much overstocked, there being a surfeit of nearly every variety. Carnations are coming in very fine with stems 12 to 18 inches long, but the sale is slow at prices varying from $1.50 to $3 per 100. Roses are also of fine quality but drag at prices from two cents to 10 cents. Chrysanthemums are seen in quantities, there being plenty to meet all requirements and the same can be said of pompons. Callas are very fine and bring $1.50 per dozen. Lily of the valley is arriving in larger quantities and sells at three cents to five cents with no scarcity. Home grown violets are quoted at $1 per 100.

NOTES.

The meeting of the Minneapolis Florists' Club was held at the Park greenhouses November 2, through the courtesy of Theo. Wirth, and a committee was appointed to take up with the horticultural society the work pertaining to the flower show to be held at the West hotel, December 7. A club of young members was formed which will be affiliated with the club and will hold weekly meetings at the South High school.

Oscar Amundson has the silver trophy, which the club won at the state fair filled with some fancy Pauline Anderson chrysanthemums, which were grown by Miss Anderson's father, C. G. Anderson of the Minneapolis Floral Co.

The next meeting of the florists' club will be held November 16, at Rice Bros. store, 218 North Fifth street. Plans will be discussed to boost the show to be held at the West hotel in December.

Max Kaiser has three houses of very fine cyclamens. He is sending some of them to be exhibited at the Chicago Grand Floral Festival, which is being held in that city this week.

Mrs. Hugh Will met with a serious accident recently and is at Eitel hospital, with four broken bones in her wrist, the result of a fall on the marble floor at the Y. W. C. A.

A. S. Rice has sold his bull dog as he had to walk home with him at night and down in the morning. Three miles—some "hike."

Cal Rice and a party of friends, including Mr. Van Bochove of Kalamazoo, Mich., and his party will leave shortly on a three weeks' hunting trip to Grand Marais.

Rudy Rudlinger, son of C. N. Rudlinger, was operated upon at the Northwestern hospital. His friends will be glad to hear that he is getting along nicely.

R. W. Latham has been taking his friends out to his home at the lake in his new Pierce-Arrow touring car.

The Eldridge Floral Co. has a fine display of Wm. Turner chrysanthemums in its window.

R. H. Wessling and Miss Berma Mickelson are to be married in the near future. T. C. R.

Mechanical Watering.

Growers of vegetables under glass have come to depend almost entirely upon mechanical watering, the hose being seldom seen; when properly installed and operated, the mechanical way is superior to hand watering in many ways. However, when we inspect many places, we find a perfect job of installation the exception instead of the rule. Too often the lines of pipe are drilled irregularly, are poorly lined up, and the nozzles set at various angles. Under such conditions indifferent results are sure—the abomination of all greenhouse men, namely wet and dry spots alternately. Thus uneven crops are the result and often diseases and insect pests invited. The saving of labor is so great and the results so dependent upon perfect watering that it is time well spent to put up a perfect job. And to complete the job each line must have an absolutely tight valve—preferably a removable disc globe valve, one that can be repaired should wear occur. Another feature that needs attention is the proper water-pressure. We have just come across an installation where the water would not reach as far as required, simply because the pressure carried was excessive. Too much force vaporizes the water and reduces the throw. All these details need attention for best results. MARKETMAN.

Lancaster County Florists' Club.

A number of the fraternity were dotted at various points of Center square at one o'clock, Thursday afternoon, October 21, anxiously looking for a leader. Rudolph Nagel, who according to his official title should have lead the party, was busy getting his houses in readiness for a cold snap and President B. F. Barr, who was to have taken his place, had been corralled by a salesman from some distant place in the United States and was so intent on buying a bill of goods that he could not get away. In consequence there was an indignation meeting on the Square, and the trip was arranged to suit the members present. The writer appointed himself a committee of one to meet the 1:33 train, which brought our guest of honor, Robert Pyle, of the Conard & Jones Co., West Grove, Pa. Chas. M. Weaver kindly volunteered the use of his auto and we soon caught up with the visiting party, the first stop being at the Wheatland Greenhouses where the carnations were looking good and the best Chrysolora chrysanthemums being shipped from this section are now being cut. The next stop was at Thomas R. Fries' place, where there is a continual change of stock and a use of every bit of available space that is a revelation to the stranger, we having rather become accustomed to seeing three times the amount of stock turned out here that is generally produced from the same amount of glass. President B. F. Barr met us at his range, and did the honors for the balance of the afternoon. His place shows the usual variety grown by the retailer for his store trade, most of it being very good and the carnations exceptionally fine in quality. He takes great pride in his nursery stock and certainly has some very fine specimens of trees and shrubs in good salable sizes.

At the writer's range the strangers were somewhat surprised at the number of geraniums under way and even more surprised at the beauty of the Buddleia variabilis, flocking around them looking much like clusters of butterflies, but there the smile ends for the average florist is more like the busy bee, working night and day to produce the money that the other fellow takes away from him, in the shape of new houses as was witnessed at Rudolph Nagel's where two fine houses are in course of erection, and he demonstrated the absolute impossibility of his being with us for he was acting as general supervisor of both the builders and the steamfitters. Here we noted very good stock of Pelargonium White Cheer, a house of pompons just coming into good shape, and several houses of early chrysanthemums that are being cut and a few of the mid-season varieties coming on. The next stop was at the establishment of Henry D. Rohrer, under the guidance of his two sons, Harry K. and Abram. Here we found the usual good stock of carnations coming into shape, several houses of Chrysanthemum Bonaffon, a big lot of primulas, a house of forget-me-nots, several of sweet peas, a number of the newer chrysanthemums on trial and a house of Chrysolora from which very good stock was being cut.

Mrs. George G. Goldbach's was next visited and here we found the place planted for a continuous supply for the retail store and most of it looking fine. Mrs. Goldbach devotes her time to the city store, and I believe would sell the growing end of the business if she could get a buyer. In a little potting bench discussion it was ascertained that everyone in the party would sell if they could get a buyer; that is, everyone excepting the baby of the crowd, Edward Beck, who is too new to the business to realize what he is up against but with a little more experience he will be with the majority. Julius P. Siebold's was the next objective point and here we found some 30 varieties of geraniums being grown for the wholesale trade, also a bench of handsome begonias and a few novelties that are being kept sub rosa until further developed. The harvesting of an immense crop of Salvia Zurich has just been finished and the seed will be put on the market with a germination test of 95 per cent good. The next was a round table at the Brunswick hotel with President B. F. Barr, Treasurer Harry K. Rohrer, Ex-Officio Albert M. Herr, Guest of Honor Robert Pyle, T. J. Nolan and D. T. Connor. The latter two act as sort of connecting links with the outside world for the club and are too well known to need a title. This group was joined a bit later by R. L. Mowbray, assistant treasurer of the Dingee-Conard Co. The rest of the 23 who were on the visiting trip scattered to various points of interest until time for the regular club meeting.

At 7:30 p. m. sharp the club started its meeting with an attendance of some 40 members, which number was augmented during the next hour until seating capacity was exhausted. The dahlia show committee reported what they had accomplished at the fair. The visiting committee reported that they had under consideration a trip to Reading, providing that city had a flower show, and if not, Manheim would be the attraction for November. Fred Hardy and Adam Felsing were elected to membership in the club.

Robert Pyle was then introduced and gave us as delightful a travel talk as one could wish to listen to and without the aid of pictures we were able to see the country through which he was passing and the horticulture and floriculture attached thereto. After the lecture he showed us some photographs made during the tour and well deserved the unanimous vote of thanks given him for the lecture. We feel that a little bunch like us are some pumpkins when we can get such men as Mr. Pyle to give us a talk, and when he expresses his delight with the club and its form of management, we begin to swell up with pride, but not the pride that goeth before a fall. Ours is an ambitious pride, but if we want to be considered as having any wisdom, I guess "nuf sed" for this time.

TRADE IMPROVES WITH PRICES FIRM.

Trade during the past week has shown an improvement, good prices are being maintained and stock in quantity is moving. Some splendid roses are coming in and find a ready sale. Carnations are in full supply and sell at wholesale at prices seldom realized in former years. Of course, there are some cheap ones on the market, but the best are bringing $20 per 100. Carnations are also more plentiful and find quick sales. The florists' window displays made possible with this excellent assortment are very attractive, the large chrysanthemums especially making a fine show in themselves.

CHRYSANTHEMUM SHOW.

The Montreal Gardeners' and Florists' Club held its annual chrysanthemum show in its rooms, November 1. The number of exhibits was not large but the quality has never been surpassed here. Special mention is due the Mount Bruno Floral Co., whose entries repeatedly scored the highest possible 10 points and were awarded certificates of merit. John Walsh had an excellent exhibit of orchids, his laelias being very good. R. W. Whitney staged miscellaneous plants and scored high with geraniums and ferns. A. C. Wilshire, of Wilshire Bros, had a nice lot of single chrysanthemums and a splendid lot of outdoor grown pansies. The judges were Jos. Bennett, G. A. Robinson and G. Miles.

A subscription was taken up in aid of the Red Cross Society, amounting to $45.50. The club also carries free on its books members who have gone to the front and has their names inscribed on a "list of heroes," the following being the names entered to date: C. Denman, killed; Wm. Young, wounded; P. Ford, F. Wilshire, S. Skeates, A. Gibb, Jr., T. Pewtress, Jr., T. McHugh, Jr., A. Murray, P. Thorb, H. Henderson, P. Scott, R. Scott and R. B. Taylor.

J. L.

LOGAN, PA.—Jacob Wilhelm, who conducts a flower store at 4943 North Broad street, has opened a branch on Windrim avenue.

UTICA, N. Y.—Brant Brothers, during the past summer, erected a new rose house, 24x400 feet. It has concrete walls and a new concrete boiler house has also been erected. They think of building more houses next year.

THE BOOK OF GLADIOLUS

THE first authoritative book on this bulb ever printed in America, or possibly the world, issued April 1, 1911. This 120 page book, written by Matthew Crawford and Dr. Van Fleet, contains many chapters covering all sides of growing, propagating, storing, etc., and also some pages of valuable cultural notes gathered from reliable sources. A necessity for both amateur and grower. The book is bound in cloth and fully illustrated.

"Longer Wear— greatly increased economy" says Gasser Co., Cleveland

Gasser Co., Wholesale and Retail Florists, Cleveland, formerly used the ordinary type of hose, which lasted them, as a rule, but five or six weeks.

They decided that was poor economy. So they purchased a quantity of

GOODRICH "GREENHOUSE" HOSE

It is still good after over six months of hard wear, dragging over cinder paths, around wooden corner posts, etc. Furthermore, their pressure is high and the men kink the hose to shut off the water.

This is but one case of longer wear. There are hundreds of others. Why bother with short-lived hose when you'll have less trouble and save money besides by ordering Goodrich "Greenhouse?" Send for sample and test it yourself!

“Just Around The Corner From The Wholesale Flower Market”

OUR office in the Masonic Temple is “right in the center of everything” in the business district of Chicago. Just around the corner from the wholesale flower market. Two blocks from the wholesale vegetable market. Opposite Marshall Field’s and next door to the shopping district. Within six or eight blocks of all the depots and every car line in the city transfers right to the door. Two blocks to the famous Michigan Avenue and Lake Michigan. Two blocks to the City Hall and Court House. Four blocks to the Financial District and five blocks to the wholesale merchandise warehouses.

When you are in Chicago you are near our office. Drop in to see us. Make our office your headquarters. Have your mail sent in our care. We will do all we can to make your visit to the city a pleasant one.

Don’t forget that we sell good greenhouses and that we are “right in the center of everything.”

TRADE SHOWS GENERAL IMPROVEMENT.

With the arrival of Indian summer, business has shown marked improvement and floral work of all kinds has been in demand, and the quality of the flowers has never been better. Chrysanthemums rule the market, and while roses are plentiful the demand is curtailed. Pompons are great favorites and in pot plants the demand is excellent. The call for Hallowe'en flowers was good and funeral work helps considerably.

NOTES.

Judge W. J. Vesey and Will J. Vesey, Jr., will leave this week for Chicago, where they will attend the Grand Floral Festival at the Coliseum, October 9-14. Fine stock in chrysanthemums and roses are arriving on the market from the Vesey greenhouses.

A Chicago firm, of which Mr. Beau-bean is the manager, has opened a new store at 828 Calhoun street, known as the Fort Wayne Flower Shop. Some handsome yellow chrysanthemums and a variety of blooming plants are displayed.

The Bradley Flower Shop have had a good call for decorations. The chrysanthemum stock seen here is excellent, and pompon plants find ready sale.

G. W. Doswell & Co. are showing some exquisite chrysanthemum novelties in baskets. Pompons are also featured in great profusion.

Miss Clara B. Flick of the Flick Floral Co. is attending the flower shows being held at Toledo and Cleveland this week.

H. K.

JAMESTOWN, N. Y.—Gustav Wickstrom contemplates enlarging his range in the near future.

AN INVITATION

WHEN attending the Chicago Grand Floral Festival, do not fail to become acquainted with us.

Our representatives will be in constant attendance at the Coliseum—and a conference regarding the problems of your present greenhouse plant will prove most interesting and instructive.

You are cordially invited to visit our headquarters at Des Plaines (near Chicago), where in our most modernly equipped Foundry, Machine Shop and Wood Mill many important greenhouse jobs are now in preparation.

You owe it to yourself to take this opportunity to realize the superiority of Garland construction.

The Autocar

"Used in Every Line of Business."

A Business Builder for Florists

ABILITY to cover wide delivery territory quickly means much to the florists' business. The Autocar, running 50 to 100 miles daily, doing the work of 4 to 6 horses, at a lower operating cost than horse equipment, has proved itself the ideal florist's vehicle. Henry Penn, 37-43 Bromfield St., Boston, says, under date of November 12, 1914:

"The service rendered by our two Autocars continues in the highest degree satisfactory. In three years of service, we have had no trouble to speak of, with either of the cars. We use them on long runs, making deliveries as far as 35 and 45 miles from Boston, but most of our deliveries are within a radius of 6 or 7 miles from the store.

"The number of deliveries that can be made with the car is surprising. In fact, we cover the same ground with one Autocar as we could with three delivery wagons, even though the routes are in various directions. One of our cars recently made 27 stops in less than two hours, leaving the store at 9.80 a.m. and returning at 11.30 a.m., the furthest stop being two miles from the store.

"There is no doubt in my mind that the Autocar is the most practical car for delivery service. The upkeep is surprisingly low and the service absolutely reliable."

The Cleveland Show.

Fourteenth Annual Exhibition and Convention of the Chrysanthemum Society of America, Cleveland, O., November 10-14.

The Exhibition.

The fourteenth annual meeting and exhibition of the Chrysanthemum Society of America was held at Cleveland, O., November 10-14, under the joint direction of the Ohio Horticultural Society, the Cleveland Florists' Club and the Garden Club of Cleveland, with the fall exhibition of the American Rose Society and a special exhibition of carnations as added features that attracted a record breaking attendance to a most successful show. In fact, the attendance on the opening day was greater than the combined attendance at any like exhibition ever held in that city. Starting at Public Square, and extending out Euclid avenue to East Thirteenth street, thence down that thoroughfare, a lane of trees with arrow-shaped signs on both sides of each tree, bearing the inscription, "This way to the flower Show, Coliseum, November 10-14", attracted the eye of both pedestrians and occupants of vehicles alike, and "blazed the way" to the exhibition hall.

The weather during the show was ideal, just the opposite of what was experienced at the time of the show two years ago, when Cleveland was practically cut off from the rest of the world by the worst snow storm in years. In contrast, Euclid avenue and the short side streets from the Square to Fourteenth street had been decorated with bark and foliage, over 50 florists having been employed therein and almost before the work was completed, the thoroughfare had received the name of "Bay Tree Avenue." Publicity also played an important part in the success of the show, the exhibition being advertised and exploited in every possible way, and to M. A. Vinson, executive secretary, whose business is promoting shows of every description, much credit is due. About 10,000 tickets were sold to manufacturing plants, banks, etc., for distribution among employes, and the press devoted generous space to the show and its special features. A large number of the members of the Ohio Horticultural Society, who are prominent in business and social life, aided both financially and by giving their patronage, which made the show more or less of a society event, and Mrs. Ella Grant Wilson was very fortunate in getting a number of prominent social leaders to pose for pictures taken with chrysanthemums, these pictures being featured in the daily papers.

The judges were as follows: Chrysanthemums—J. F. Ammann, Edwardsville, Ill., Michael Bloy, Detroit, Mich.; roses—Emil Buettner, Park Ridge, Ill., John H. Dunlop, Toronto, Ont.; carnations—Eugene Dailedouze, Brooklyn, N. Y., Wm. Nicholson, Framingham, Mass.

The Coliseum was admirably adapted for the purpose, and every available inch of its floor space, 65,000 square feet, was covered, leaving only room for aisles. The Chrysanthemum Society of America staged a display estimated at upward of 100,000 blooms, and the individual exhibits, including trade displays, etc., numbered more than 2,000. In the competition between private growers of Ohio for the James W. Corrigan cup valued at $500, the largest of the cups offered for exhibitors in this class, a splendid display of chrysanthemums staged by Wm. Fisher, gardener to H. S. Firestone, Akron, O., was an easy winner. Great interest also centered around the exhibition of Adolph Lewisohn, Ardsley, N. Y., (John Canning, Supt.), which easily won the $250 special cup. This entry, a specimen plant, said to be the second largest in the world, was 15 feet in diameter, six feet high, and had more than 1,200 blooms. A special car and a circuitous route, in order to avoid low bridges, was necessary to transport the plant from the Lewisohn greenhouses to Cleveland. Lewisohn entries in several other classes were also noteworthy. Chrysanthemum Tiger, a new yellow seedling from Chrysolora, introduced by Elmer D. Smith & Co., Adrian, Mich., and named by President Woodrow Wilson, also attracted much attention.

The E. G. Hill Co., Richmond, Ind., captured its full quota of honors, being awarded the C. S. A. silver cup for a fine display of William Turner and the sweepstakes prize for the best 10 blooms of one variety, won with Odessa. This company also took first honors in the class for 50 blooms in variety and figured in several other winnings. The sweepstakes for the best 18 blooms was awarded to Frank Allan, Grosse Pointe Farms, Mich. He also won in several other classes, including the special vase of fifteen blooms, three varieties. Other excellent displays were staged by Chas. H. Totty, Madison, N. J.; Elmer D. Smith & Co., Adrian, Mich.; A. N. Pierson, Inc., Cromwell, Conn.; Julius Roehrs Co., Rutherford, N. J.; the Dale Estate, Brampton, Ont., the last named making a fine display of orchids. Hart Bros. and C. C. Knuth, of Euclid, O., made good displays of ferns, while the orchid display of C. B. Raymond of Akron, O., was also excellent.

The retail section was thronged at all times, and the table decorations, corsage bouquets, and other arrangements, showed the skill of the artists and proved very interesting to the visitors. An ankle bouquet, arranged by L. F. Charlesworth, 10,601 Euclid avenue, attracted much attention, and an elaborate decoration by the Jones-Russell Co., in which gold fish and running water were used, was much admired. All of the tables in this section were very good. The Matthews Garden Craft, making garden furniture exclusively, made a good display and Mrs. Price McKinney carried off a long list of prizes, both first and second.

A pleasing feature of the show, and one that made an instantaneous hit, was the tea garden conducted by the women's committee, and from the opening hour until the close of the exhibition, this attractive spot was crowded to its capacity. Refreshments were served at all times while music and examples of the latest steps in society dancing occupied the stage. A detail of boy scouts assisted in keeping the crowds in line and protected the flowers. Among the novelties to be seen were plants from the Fiji Islands, New Zealand, New Guinea, Java, Arabia, Japan, China, South America, a Hot-tentot tree, whose poisonous berries are sure death and a Panama hat palm, all of which proved of interest, especially to nearly 100,000 school children who attended the show during the morning hours through the courtesy of John D. Rockefeller. Excellent displays of fruit and vegetables were staged by the Anna Dean Farms, Barberton, O.; the Woodside Farms, West Park, O., and the City of Cleveland.

The Business Meeting.

The annual meeting of the society was held at the Hotel Hollenden on the evening of November 11, President Wm. Kleinheinz in the chair. The reading of the president's address was the first order of business, and this was followed by the report of the secretary, C. W. Johnson and the report of the treasurer. Both reports were referred to an auditing committee for examination and later accepted.

Elmer D. Smith, of Adrian, Mich., brought up the question of sports and novelties that were renamed, and it was agreed that the secretary should withhold the reports of examining committees on sports until the variety had been submitted to three of the five committees. M. A. J. Loveless spoke of the fine showing of pompons at the exhibition and it was agreed that the society should offer a prize for these varieties at the next exhibition.

The election of officers for the ensuing year resulted as follows: Wm. Kleinheinz, Ogontz, Pa., president; Wm. Vert, Port Washington, L. I., N. Y., vice-president; Chas. W. Johnson, 2134 West 110th street, Chicago, secretary; John N. May, Summit, N. J., treasurer. The invitation of the Pennsylvania Horticultural Society to hold the 1916 meeting and exhibition at Philadelphia was accepted.

SOME OF THE EXHIBITS AT THE CLEVELAND SHOW.

President Kleinheinz's Address.

Fellow Members of the Chrysanthemum Society of America:

It gives me great pleasure to welcome you in the city of Cleveland, at this, the twenty-fifth annual meeting of this society, which was organized in Buffalo, N. Y., in 1890, during the convention of the Society of American Florists. The officers elected were as follows: John Thorpe, president; Wm. K. Harris, vice-president; John Lane, treasurer, and Edwin Lonsdale, secretary. All these gentlemen, I regret, have passed away, but this society is indebted to them forever for organizing and promoting the good of the Chrysanthemum Society of America, which has become, during its existence, a necessity to the chrysanthemum growers; and everyone interested in chrysanthemums should do his best to increase the membership, and thus make this society one of the strongest in America. Everyone should feel it his duty to help. This would prove the most suitable memory to its founders and promoters, and would express our sentiments and appreciation to them forever.

I intended to arrange, if possible, to make this twenty-fifth convention an exceptionally fine chrysanthemum show; but as our financial standing does not justify any extra expenses, I feel that the Ohio Horticultural Society, the Cleveland Florists' Club and the Garden Club of Cleveland have relieved us of a great consideration by extending their kind invitation for our exhibition for 1915 just at the proper time. This excellent exhibition proves that the gentlemen from Cleveland have fulfilled their promise given in Indianapolis last year to the fullest extent.

Our secretary reported to me some time ago that he solicited several new members during and after the show of 1914 in Indianapolis. I hope and shall expect that through this exhibition in Cleveland our membership will be considerably enlarged.

Every year the cry is coming up, "The demand for chrysanthemums is waning." With this I cannot agree. All gardening in America, in my opinion, is still in its infancy and everyone knows that range after range of greenhouses for commercial or private purposes are erected every year. In every private place and in every little garden you will find chrysanthemums. Under glass, the large flowering varieties as well as the pompons and singles are grown; outdoors the hardy varieties are installed and used for decorative purposes very extensively and are considered the most beautiful flowers for late season. As a border plant, or mixed with herbaceous, it is the only flower that beautifies the gardens late in the year. The commercial men are able to give figures on the demands for chrysanthemums and the records show that the sale of plants is increased yearly by thousands, and as long as this keeps up there is no danger of this flower becoming unpopular. And why should they become unpopular? The progress we are making you can see yourself by looking over the exhibits. The large flowering type is increased yearly in size; the pompons and singles are superior to the varieties of the past.

In closing, I wish to express my thanks to the trade and to the press for the many courtesies extended for the welfare of the society, and to our competent secretary, Chas. W. Johnson, who places his time and efforts at our disposal whenever needed. I also wish to express my highest appreciation to all those who so liberally offered the prizes, enabling us to form such a complete schedule.

Secretary Johnson's Report.

Mr. President and members of the Chrysanthemum Society of America, your secretary submits his report for the past year as follows:

tion here in Cleveland: Hitchings & Co., New York; Lord & Burnham Co., New York; Elmer D. Smith & Co., Adrian, Mich.; The E. G. Hill Co., Richmond, Ind.; A. N. Pierson, Inc., Cromwell, Conn.; Chas. H. Totty, Madison, N. J.; Vaughan's Seed Store, Chicago, Ill.; H. F. Michell Co., Philadelphia, Pa.; H. W. Buckbee, Rockford, Ill.; Henry A. Dreer, Inc., Philadelphia, Pa.; Wm. Wells & Son, Meretham, Eng.; H. E. Converse, Marion, Mass.;

A detailed report of all money received and paid over to the treasurer accompanies this.

The Banquet.

The spacious banquet hall of the Hollenden hotel was the scene of an enjoyable evening's entertainment Friday when local members of the craft and visiting florists numbering about 500 enjoyed a repast as guests of the flower show committee. The entertainment features arranged for the occasion by Geo. W. Smith, chairman of the entertainment committee, were also excellent, thanks to his efforts. F. R. Williams, of the F. R. Williams Co., acted as toastmaster, and after cordially welcoming the visitors, thanked them for the assistance they had rendered and which aided so materially in making this show such a splendid success, one of the best ever held in this country, as he expressed it, and, as Mr. Dickinson said, in the old country also. A telegram was read from President Patrick Welch of the S. A. F., Boston, Mass., expressing regret at not being able to be present; also one from the Chicago Grand Floral Festival executives extending congratulations. The toastmaster then called upon a number of those present for short talks and Wm. Kleinheinz in responding invited everyone to attend the national flower show to be held in Philadelphia, March 25-April 2, 1916, which will include a meeting of the American Dahlia Society and the American Carnation Society's silver jubilee. Others who spoke were: Herbert Bate, Joseph Hill, S. P. Baldwin, Richard Vincent, Jr., Wm. F. Gude, A. Pochelon, J. F. Ammann, Wm. Nicholson, F. R. Pierson, E. G. Hill, Mrs. Walter Priest, president of the Cleveland Women's Florist Club, and H. P. Knoble. Mr. Knoble outlined the work done in connection with the exhibition and launched a boom for a national flower show to be held in Cleveland in 1918.

The smoker held in the Moose Club hall Saturday, to which all visiting florists and exhibitors were invited, proved an enjoyable event to the 250 or more guests in attendance.

Ladies' Reception.

The reception and musicale tendered the visiting ladies at the Hotel Statler on the evening of November 11 was

SOME OF A. LANGE'S PRIZE WINNERS AT THE CHICAGO SHOW.

He is pleased to report continued progress. The number of seedlings submitted to the examining committees, as you may see by the review of their work in the society's annual report, shows an increase over the preceding year and for many years past. Some of the varieties which received a certificate have upheld the committee's judgment and have gained the favor of the growers. The reports of the examining committees were sent to the trade papers each week as they were received and a final summary of the season's work was published. The trade press very generously printed these and other notices sent to them from time to time, for which we owe to them our vote of thanks.

While our membership has not increased as much as your officers would like, yet we have made considerable gain for the year. Some of the members delinquent with dues, after repeated requests for payment, have been dropped from the roll. Our society has gained greater publicity during the past year.

At the invitation of G. A. Dennison, chief of horticulture, Panama-Pacific exposition, San Francisco, Calif., for the society to have a part in a seasonal exhibition of chrysanthemums at the exposition in San Francisco, your secretary presented the matter to the members of the executive committee, who unanimously voted that our society take part in the event and offer a C. S. A. silver cup for the ten best blooms of chrysanthemums, one variety. Consequently your secretary wrote to the Pacific Horticultural Society asking them to join us, which they consented to do, with the result that a very fine exhibition was held, especially so in cut blooms of chrysanthemums.

Your secretary appreciates the kindness of the following firms and individuals for offering the special prizes at San Francisco and at this exhibition: President Wm. Kleinheinz, Ogontz, Pa.; The National Association of Gardeners and the Society of American Florists and Ornamental Horticulturists. Through the kindness of these our special premium list for this year is larger than it has been before.

The routine work of the secretary's office, consisting of sending out the statements to the members, recording the varieties disseminated, getting out the report of the thirteenth annual meeting and the solicitation of the special premiums, was attended to in due season.

The secretary wishes to acknowledge the kindness of Elmer D. Smith in furnishing him with a complete list of varieties disseminated in 1914, which was a great help in making up the annual report.

The Chicago Show.

A preliminary report of the exhibition, held in the Coliseum, November 9-14, appeared in our issue of last week and included all awards made Tuesday and Wednesday. The display of chrysanthemum seedlings, sports and undisseeded importations attracted considerable attention, the principal exhibitors in this class being the E. G. Hill Co., Richmond, Ind., Elmer D. Smith & Co., Adrian, Mich., and the Mt. Greenwood Cemetery Association, all of whom made a good showing, Elmer D. Smith & Co. winning the sweepstakes with Cameo for the best seedling in classes 119 to 124 inclusive and not exhibited before this season. In the rose entries open to retail florists only A. Lange, John Mangel and Geo. Wienhoeber, were the winners and in the contest for the most artistic wedding outfit, suitable for bride and bridesmaids, John Mangel carried off the honors with the Ernst Wienhoeber Floral Co., second. In the rose entries for private gardeners, J. J. Mitchell, (A. J. Smith, gardener), and Louis F. Swift, (Robert Sampson, gardener), secured the principal premiums for the best display of American Beauty, Ophelia and any yellow rose.

On Friday the leading attraction was the carnation exhibit, which was the largest ever seen at a local show. Wiator Bros., Poehlmann Bros. Co., J. D. Thompson Carnation Co., Bassett & Washburn, Wm. C. Manke Co., Milwaukee, Wis., Peter Reinberg, P. J. Olinger Co., Cincinnati, O. J. S. Wilson Floral Co., Des Moines, Ia., V. Bezdek, Wilmette, Grunwaldt Bros., Milwaukee, Wis., Mt. Greenwood Cemetery Association and Anton Then were the principal exhibitors, but this list does not include the many other contestants who made entries. The new varieties of carnations on exhibit were Belle Washburn, a beautiful brilliant red seedling, originating with Bassett & Washburn, Nebraska, a very promising scarlet introduced by C. H. Frey, Lincoln, Neb., Aviator, an intense scarlet, now being distributed by the J. D. Thompson Carnation Co., Joliet, and a new bright red seedling No. 701, raised by John A. Then and exhibited for the first time by Anton Then at this show. In the retail classes C. Cutler won first prize for the best arranged vase of the new carnation Belle Washburn and John Mangel first prize in the best display of carnations, not to exceed 200 blooms, accessories permitted, with A. Lange second. George Wienhoeber secured first prize for the best arranged basket of chrysanthemums and Oscar J. Friedman carried off the premium for the display of 200 violets arranged for effect. The George Wittbold Co. was awarded first prize for the best vase of Major Bonnaffon chrysanthemums arranged for effect. In the private gardeners' display of carnations and other cut flowers the principal exhibitors were Mrs. F. T. Junkin, (Axel Johnson, gardener), J. R. Tilt, Louis F. Swift and J. H. Moore, (A. Martini, gardener).

There were only a few awards made Saturday when O. J. Friedman received first prize for the best booth in the space section, which was generally considered the finest exhibit at the show. Schiller was first for the most artistic Dresden bouquet. A. Lange carried off the first prize for the most artistic corsage bouquet with Schiller, second. Lange also won first prize for the best arranged vase of 50 White Killarney roses. The show closed at 11 p. m., Sunday, November 14, and was a great success.

The judges were: W. A. Kennedy, Milwaukee, Wis.; J. E. Mathewson, Sheboygan, Wis.; J. S. Wilson, Des Moines, Ia.; J. J. Hess, Omaha, Neb.; Edward Boutler, Winnetka; Donald McNaughton, Lake Forest; John Reardon, Ames, Ia.; A. J. Smith, Lake Geneva, Wis.; H. N. Bruns, E. A. Kanst, August Koch, E. Wienhoeber, C. A. Samuelson and August Lange. The judges were very honest in their decisions and with one or two exceptions everyone, especially the exhibitor himself, was more than satisfied with their work.

J. D. Thompson Carnation Co., Joliet, Ill.

In response to an invitation of the J. D. Thompson Carnation Company, Joliet, Ill., a party of carnation growers and others in attendance at the Chicago Grand Floral Festival, were guests of Superintendent P. W. Peterson at the company's range, November 11, the party, 35 in number leaving Chicago in a special car via the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific railroad at 11:45 a. m. Arriving at the greenhouses an excellent luncheon was served, a bevy of "American beauties" acting as hostesses, after which Carnation Aviator was the center of attraction and its fine appearance won for it many new friends among the visitors. The accompanying illustration shows the party in a house of Carnation Aviator which was planted July 28, 1915, and in which cutting started September 5. To date over 57,300 blooms have been cut, an average of eight to a plant, and it is estimated that six more per plant will be cut before January 1.

The following were included in the party, which returned to Chicago in the evening: Arvid Anderson, Moline, Ill.; Geo. H. Blackman, Evansville, Ind.; Geo. Dysinger, Ionia, Mich.; Ernest Drake, Battle Creek, Mich.; Frank Vatter, Marinette, Wis.; M. Ullenbruch, Port Huron, Mich.; J. E. Yeats, Champaign, Ill.; C. F. Kenyon, South Bend, Ind.; Chas. Simonson, McPherson, Kan.; A. J. Lanternier, Fort Wayne, Ind.; Geo. W. Jacobs, Canton, Ill.; Rolfe F. Smith, Nashville, Tenn.; W. F. Dunteman, Robert Pilgrim and Otto Harris, Bensonville; Frank Blameuser, Peter Kellen, J. B. Molitor, Nick Thinnes and C. Kelten, Niles Center; H. E. Philpott, Winnipeg, Man.; J. Reding and Peter Olsem, Wilmette; Wm. Wichtendahl, Maywood; H. E. Amling, W. H. Amling, Allie Zech, A. F. Longren, N. P. Kruchten, J. Risto, J. A. Paulsen, Jacob Glimmer, W. H. Mann, James Morton and H. C. Tilton, Chicago.

THANKSGIVING.

Advertisers and correspondents will please note that on account of Thanksgiving THE AMERICAN FLORIST will go to press one day earlier next week, and we trust they will mail their copy as early as possible.

BOSTON, Cleveland and Rochester are candidates for the next annual meeting and exhibition of the American Gladiolus Society.

CANNA FIREBIRD has been awarded the silver medal of the Pennsylvania Horticultural Society, exhibited by the Robt. Craig Co., Philadelphia, Pa.

Personal.

Miss Lorraine Beatty, daughter of H. B. Beatty, Oil City, Pa., former treasurer of the Society of American Florists, is a war nurse in France.

Florists' Telegraph Delivery.

At a meeting of the Florists' Telegraph Delivery, held in the rooms of the Cleveland Florists' Club in the Hollenden hotel, Cleveland, November 11, the present officers were re-elected to serve during the ensuing year.

Conrad & Jones Co.'s Gold Medals.

The Conrad & Jones Co., West Grove, Pa., advises that it was awarded the gold medals of the Panama-Pacific and Panama-California expositions at San Francisco and San Diego respectively, for its exhibits of roses, plants and shrubs.

Flower Show Profit and Loss.

When the managers of a flower show close their exhibition with a financial deficit this, of course, must be considered a technical loss, but one which is generously overcome by the far more important promotion of horticulture and increased demand for flowers and plants which follow the smallest demonstration of their attractions and utility. It is only when the flower show fails to awaken in the general public a new and broader interest in matters horticultural that the cost in effort and money can be considered misspent. The properly conducted flower show improves the community, helping the people along the way to better ideals and the work involved in such undertakings is beyond price.

American Rose Society.

At the Cleveland flower show the following five roses were entered as undissemated varieties, and the score of points recorded is as follows:

Tipperary—Size, 6; color, 14; stem, 13; form, 13; substance, 8; foliage, 13; fragrance, 2; distinctiveness, 5; total, 74 points.

Red Radiance—Size, 8; color, 17; stem, 12; form, 12; substance, 7; foliage, 13; fragrance, 3; distinctiveness, 8; total, 81 points.

Gorgeous—Size, 9; color, 16; stem, 12; form, 13; substance, 8; foliage, 13; fragrance, 4; distinctiveness, 8; total, 83 points.

Mrs. W. R. Hearst—Size, 9; color, 18; stem, 13; form, 13; substance, 8; foliage, 14; fragrance, 3; distinctiveness, 8; total, 87 points.

Mrs. Bayard Thayer—Size, 9; color, 18; stem, 15; form, 14; substance, 9; foliage, 13; fragrance, 4; distinctiveness, 8; total, 90 points.

The judges were Emil Buettner and John H. Dunlop. A silver medal will be awarded the roses Mrs. Bayard Thayer and Mrs. W. R. Hearst; a certificate of merit to roses Gorgeous and Red Radiance.

BENJ. HAMMOND, Sec'y.

National Association of Gardeners.

The annual convention of the National Association of Gardeners, will take place this year in Boston, December 9-10. The first session of the convention will convene in Horticultural hall, Thursday afternoon, December 9, at two o'clock. A number of papers will be submitted by gardeners prominent in the profession, which should provoke a good discussion. Among the subjects will be: "Is Gardening a Profession?"; "The Gardener's Place in the Public Service"; "The Management of a Private Country Estate, As Viewed by a College Graduate"; "The Young Gardener's Opportunity in this Country"; "Is Cooperation Between Garden Clubs and Gardeners' Societies Desirable?" President Everitt has appointed W. N. Craig, Duncan Finlayson and W. J. Kennedy a committee on convention arrangements and they promise that the meetings will be made interesting, entertaining and instructive to all who attend. An invitation is extended to all gardeners to attend the Boston convention, so that they may familiarize themselves with the scope of the work the national association has undertaken.

Owing to the small number of articles received in the essay contest, which closed October 1, the winners of which were to be announced at the convention in December, the essay committee, consisting of William H. Waite, W. N. Craig, Edwin Jenkins, Arthur Smith and Theodore Wirth, has decided to reopen and continue the contest so that gardeners may participate in it during the winter months, when they have more time than any other season of the year to devote to the writing of essays. The contest will close February 1 and the winners will be announced at the association's meeting during the national flower show in Philadelphia, March 25-April 2, 1916. There are four classes as follows:

Class 1—Prize $35, gold. Subject, "Horticulture as a Profession, From the Standpoint of a Gardener."

Class 2—Prize $25, gold. Subject, "The Proper Grouping and Culture of Trees, Shrubs, Perennials and Annual Bedding Plants in the Ornamentation of Private Grounds."

Class 3—Prize $20, gold. Subject, "Preparation of Ground for and General Treatment of Hardy Herbaceous Perennials." Naming a list of species (limited to one hundred) providing a succession of flowers throughout the entire season.

Class 4—Prize $20, gold. Subject, "How to Secure a Year's Vegetable Supply With the Aid of Cold Frames or Hotbeds (but no Greenhouses), Including Soil Preparation."

The essay contest is open to professional gardeners who are engaged in the capacity of superintendents, head gardeners or assistant gardeners. Contestants will address William H. Waite, chairman, essay committee, National Association of Gardeners, P. O. Box 290, Madison, N. J., for further particulars.

Gladiolus Society of Ohio.

The adjourned meeting of the Gladiolus Society of Ohio was held according to appointment, in the Hollenden hotel, Cleveland, O., November 12, 1915, President Betscher in the chair. C. B. Gates, Mentor, was elected president, Joe Coleman, Lexington, vice-president, and Wilbur A. Christy, Warren, secretary and treasurer. The report of the treasurer showed a good balance in the treasury. After an extended consideration of the proposition received from President Fairbanks, of the American Gladiolus Society, relative to a joint exhibition by the two societies, it was decided it would be inexpedient at the present time to undertake such an exhibition.

The time and place of the next flower show was fixed, subject to any necessary revision by the executive committee, to be, as before, at the Hollenden, Cleveland, O., on the Friday and Saturday nearest August 15, 1916, and the secretary was instructed, in the preparation of the premium list for this exhibition, to disregard the distinction heretofore made between amateur and professional classes, thus placing all on equal terms. Adjourned until regular meeting at next annual flower show.

American Dahlia Society.

A meeting of the executive board of the American Dahlia Society was held at the office of the secretary, Joseph J. Lane, 11 West 32nd street, New York. The meeting was well attended. Those present were as follows: Richard Vincent, Jr., president, White Marsh, Md.; Frank R. Austin, treasurer, Tuckerton, N. J.; Geo. L. Stillman, Westerly, R. I.; Hugo Kind, Hammonton, N. J.; John Merritt, Farmingdale, N. Y.; L. K. Peacock, Berlin, N. J.; Geo. W. Kerr, Doylestown, Pa.; James Kirby, Huntington, N. Y.; James Duthie, Oyster Bay, N. Y.; J. Harrison Dick, New York; Joseph J. Lane, New York.

The subject of nomenclature was discussed at great length and a letter read by Prof. Hall, chairman of the nomenclature committee. Among other suggestions put forth were the registering of new varieties and the publication of 4,500 names of dahlias and types, the appointment of local committees, like the Chrysanthemum Society of America, etc. President Vincent suggested that a life membership be offered for a stipulated sum. The subject was laid on the table until next meeting. A committee was appointed to solicit terms and places to hold our show in 1916 and get the best offers to bring up at the April meeting. This committee comprised Geo. W. Kerr, F. R. Austin, Frank R. Stillman, James Duthie and Richard Vincent, Jr. L. K. Peacock suggested that a leaflet be gotten up about the American Dahlia Society and his suggestion was accepted by the society. He agreed to pay for 10,000 of these leaflets and mail them out with his catalogue. Mr. Peacock's motion was seconded by John Merritt and passed. A publication committee was appointed by the president comprising Messrs. Kerr, Dick and Peacock, it being understood that the secretary was to act as editor of the bulletin.

The secretary argued for the establishment of a sinking fund to tide the society over any expenses that might be incurred during this first year in the form of investments, such as the printing of reports of the nomenclature committee, etc. Mr. Peacock started the fund with a contribution of $5. This was followed by a like amount from Messrs. Austin, Vincent, Kirby, Duthie, Stillman, Merritt and $10 from Mr. Kind.

President Vincent has issued the following statement to the members of the society:

During the ensuing year it is our desire to see the membership grow to the fullest extent possible both in active and associate members. This cannot be accomplished by the officers alone; therefore as a lover of flowers we ask your assistance. You will find it of great advantage, if not a member, to become one and there must certainly be someone among your personal acquaintances who would be willing to join our society if the matter was put before them in an interesting way.

Much excellent work has been done by the society since its organization last May. If all dahlia lovers in this country could be reached and understood what co-operation would do in bringing the beauty of the dahlia to their knowledge our membership would be materially increased. Our first annual show in New York was the largest and best exhibit of dahlias ever given in America and we hope to do still better another year and by aid and advice also help all dahlia shows wherever held.

The privileges of membership include participation in the activities of the organization, receipt of bulletins and other literature issued by the society; advice and help on subjects appertaining to new varieties, planting, growing and handling the flowers, bulbs, etc., attendance at the exhibitions of the society and other advantages as we go along and have an increase in funds which a larger membership will bring.

JOS. J. LANE, Sec'y.

Washington.

TRADE CONDITIONS SATISFACTORY.

Market conditions during the past week have been very favorable and prices have been fairly good. Roses have been selling at satisfactory figures, such varieties as Milady, Killarney Brilliant, Killarney Queen, White Killarney and Mrs. Moorfield Storey being quoted from $8 to $12 per 100, with other kinds selling at from $2 to $5. Good chrysanthemums such as William Turner, Major Bonaffon and Eaton were disposed of at prices ranging from $1.50 to $3 per dozen. Carnations are better, both in quantity and quality.

NOTES.

Theo. Dieterich is contemplating putting on a large motor truck to handle the delivery of stock from his range to this city. His wagon service is not sufficient to take care of his growing business.

The park department have about finished planting bulbs, and from all reports from Foreman Barry, next spring will see one of the finest displays of bulbous flowers ever seen in this city.

A. Gutman is sending in some very fine Eaton chrysanthemums, which are quickly disposed of at $3 per dozen. He is also growing some excellent stock of Major Bonaffon.

Mrs. G. Supper, formerly with Gude Bros. Co., is now with George C. Shaffer's staff. Miss Belfield is also back on the job.

Thomas & Slye, one of the largest market florist firms in this city, report business exceptionally good for this time of the year.

S. S. Pennock-Meehan Co. recently had some of the finest chrysanthemums that have been shown here for some time.

Sam Simonds, gardener for Joseph Leiter, has some extra fine begonias; also some fine looking chrysanthemums.

David Bissett is now sending in liberal quantities of violets which also find ready sale.

Visitors: J. A. Peterson, Cincinnati, O.; S. Bayersdorfer, Philadelphia, Pa.
G. C. D.

Louisville, Ky.

Carnations have not done as well as usual in this vicinity this season. The demand has been very light and the retail price has been from 50 cents to 75 cents per dozen on the average, while some florists have made specials on them for Saturday sales, selling them as low as 25 cents per dozen.

Anders Rasmussen of New Albany held a floral exhibition at his establishment which was well worth going to see. An invitation was extended to all the Louisville florists to attend and all present had a most enjoyable time.

Business has been better this fall, compared with that of a year ago, as shown by the number of decorations. The F. Walker Co. have two elaborate decorations at the Women's Club during the present week.

J. D. Bettman, New Albany, has built three new houses, each 28 by 150 feet, with concrete walls and benches. Two of the houses will be planted to roses and one to carnations.

W. H. Leeming, a recent visitor, of Shively, Ky., thinks the nursery business is more profitable than growing flowers and is turning his attention more to the nursery end.

The Wm. Walker Co. has some very attractive window decorations, chrysanthemums in baskets of various sizes and designs being arranged with good taste.

An Italian garden effect is attracting much attention to the window of the J. Schultz Co., boxwoods, etc., being used to advantage.

James Guthrie, Slate Run road, has built one new house and has increased the width of another house from 21 feet to 27 feet.
W.

OSWEGO, N. Y.—E. Kendig has opened a retail store at 126 West Second street.

GALVESTON, TEX.—Mrs. W. H. Bryant has opened a flower shop at 2917 Avenue Q.

BAY CITY, MICH.—Boehring Bros. will add two houses to their range next spring.

BARNARD, N. Y.—A new propagating house is being erected at the range of Charles Lee.

WORCESTER, MASS.—The Quarry Floral Co. has opened a new store in the business district.

CLEVELAND, O.—Adam Graham and wife left last week for a winter visit to the Isle of Pines.

DIXON, ILL.—The Northern Illinois Horticultural Society will meet in this city December 8-9.

FORT SMITH, ARK.—The Arkansas Horticultural Association will meet in this city December 7-10.

RUMSON, N. J.—John Achelis is building a new greenhouse at his establishment on the Rumson road.

FLUSHING, N. Y.—John McMahan, well-known florist and gardener, died of heart disease, October 31, aged 56 years.

ERIE, PA.—The Baur Floral Co. has made improvements in the appearance of its establishment and has erected one new house.

UNIONTOWN, PA.—W. R. Barton has re-opened the flower shop at 44 Morgantown street, formerly conducted by Chas. H. Cramer.

ROXBURY, MASS.—Mrs. Louisa C. Dane, wife of Chas. R. Dane, veteran florist in this section, died November 1. She was 75 years of age.

PAWTUCKET, R. I.—The stock and fixtures of John W. Seamans, who disappeared October 22, was sold November 8, by order of the Judicial court.

SAN FRANCISCO, CALIF.—Joseph's Flower Shop on Grant avenue has undergone alterations, the workroom having been remodeled and enlarged.

MILWAUKEE, WIS.—Lublner's new flower shop, 225 Grand avenue, one of the prettiest stores of its kind in this city, opened to the public, November 13.

CORVALLIS, ORE.—The annual meeting of the Oregon State Horticultural Society was held November 16-18, with an elaborate programme, covering the fruit interests of the state.

MINOT, N. D.—The Rosery, one of the finest flower shops in the northwest, has been opened in the Flat Iron building by George E. Walker, proprietor of the Minot Greenhouses.

ADRIAN, MICH.—Wallace R. Pierson, of A. N. Pierson, Inc., Cromwell, Conn., came on here from the Cleveland show to look over Elmer D. Smith & Co.'s high grade novelties in chrysanthemums.

Are You on Our Mailing File?

IN the past few weeks we have sold and delivered hundreds of surplus cases of Azaleas, Araucarias, Japanese Lilies, Kentia Seeds, etc. If you did not get our case-lot offers, it is because you are not on our Mailing File.

In receiving thousands of cases each month from Belgium, Holland, Japan, etc., you can imagine we sometimes have surplus cases. These are offered at import prices—in case lots, but only to those firms who are on our Mailing File.

At present we can offer—Valley Pips, Kentia Seeds, Japanese Lilies, Raffia. Later on we will have Roses, Boxwood, Begonia Bulbs, etc., as they arrive.

Get on our Mailing File and get our offers as we issue them. Write us what lines you handle, but use business stationery, as our offers go only to the trade.

FIRST QUALITY STOCK IN ABUNDANCE.

The fine weather of the past few weeks has brought in an abundance of beautiful flowers, grown in the greatest perfection. The chrysanthemums are fine and large and of every variety and color; and besides making gorgeous and beautiful window displays, are made use of for every occasion. American Beauty roses were never seen in greater abundance or perfection. Other roses are blooming well, while carnations are plentiful. In fact, there is at present a bountiful supply of all kinds of stock and a sufficiency of trade to take care of it all.

NOTES.

Arnold Schmidt, the veteran vegetable grower, has added a large range of houses to his already extensive plant which he has filled entirely with vegetables, which by reason of their excellence and freshness command the highest market prices. He has a large supply of tomatoes and cucumbers, which will be ready to market for the holiday season. He has at present quantities of fine head lettuce, and plenty of leaf lettuce, which is salable all the time. He also is putting on the market a fine supply of endive, which commands a fancy price and is much sought after by epicures and rather a novelty in this section. He has recently associated with him in business his only son, Andreas, who has been in California for the past two years on account of his health.

L. H. Haury, Jr., has opened a new place on the Murfreesboro road, where he has built a very nice range of greenhouses. He has 13 acres in the tract, all of which is in cultivation. For the present he is growing vegetables and making quite a success of it. He is just beginning to put in a line of pot plants for next season's bedding purposes, and will drift more and more into the flower business.

A prominent jeweler had an opening the past week and the store was decorated in the most artistic manner. Among other floral decorations were small, white baskets, tall and slim, each holding a white lily bedded in ferns and asparagus, with a bow of white tulle on the handle of each basket. Geny Bros. furnished the decorations.

McIntyre Bros. are making a beautiful display of their pergola built up on the top of their store by lighting it up with more than a hundred lights at night. It is decorated with evergreens. The store is very attractive.

The Joy Floral Company has a three sheet poster on the bill boards of the city, saying, beneath a huge bunch of all kinds of flowers:

"We give the earth with every flower, and a scent with every rose."

HEAVY SUPPLY BUT DEMAND STRONG.

We have no complaint to make on business conditions thus far, as things are moving very nicely. There is a heavy supply of stock at all times, but no sacrifice need be made to get rid of it. The growers are cutting heavily on roses and chrysanthemums, but the supply of first-class carnations is greatly limited. There are not many violets on hand, but their absence is not felt. Smilax, boxwood and the several other varieties of southern greens are coming in heavily and in the best of quality.

NOTES.

Pittsburgh was there with a strong delegation at the Cleveland flower show. All reported it the "best ever." The list includes E. C. Ludwig, De F. Ludwig, Julius Ludwig, Gilbert Ludwig, Ray Daschbach, Miss K. Friel, G. P. Weaklen, John Frampton, John Harris, Geo. Marshall, E. J. McCallum, A. W. Smith, Jarve Smith, Joe King, Ed Weaver, Walter Breitenstein, Harvey Sheaf, Ed McGrath, Ed Blind, T. P. Langhans and Fred Burki, besides a host of others. The McCallum Co. staged an exhibit of florists' supplies; also, its new yellow chrysanthemum, Mrs. M. R. Morgan, which was taken to greatly by the followers of this flower.

Earl Tipton has returned to the city store of the A. W. Smith Co. for the winter, after a hot summer's worth on the farm. We were sorry to learn that Mrs. Tipton is confined in the West Pennsylvania hospital with a lingering case of fever.

Geo. Huscroft has the sympathy of the trade in the loss of his father, whose death occurred November 11.

Joe Feinberg is back in the retail business again, having opened at 946

Liberty avenue as the Liberty Flower Shop.

Visitors: Mrs. Baumgarten, of Milwaukee, Wis.; Joe Marks, of A. A. Arnold Paper Box Co., Chicago; M. Reukauf, Philadelphia, Pa.

COOL WEATHER CHECKS OVERSUPPLY.

The cool weather of the past week was welcomed by the florists, making it more convenient to handle stock, and helping to check the heavy supply arriving at the markets. Chrysanthemums are most plentiful, while carnations and roses are also seen in large numbers, but are shortening somewhat at present. Lilies are very good in quality and are plentiful. Pot plants are in great demand and the supply not equal to requirements. Orders for decorations, both for weddings and parties are numerous and orders for funeral designs, both local and out-of-town, has been heavy. The deaths of several prominent people in this city during the past week created a demand for a great amount of high grade stock.

NOTES.

T. J. Noll & Co. report trade good. They have handled three times as many chrysanthemums this year as last season. They are also handling good stock in roses, carnations, lilies and California violets. Trade generally has been very good at this establishment, and the demand for supplies has been especially brisk.

Wm. L. Rock Flower Co. report business very good. They are cutting fine stock at the greenhouses, especially snapdragons, chrysanthemums, carnations, roses and orchids. Mr. Rock attended the flower show at Cleveland.

AS THE AMERICAN FLORIST correspondent, and on behalf of several florists, we would like to know what is the matter with the Kansas City Florists' Club? Florists, wake up!

Henry Kusik & Co. report business good with stock plentiful. Shipping trade is good and supplies are moving well. They are handling some very fine chrysanthemums.

Arthur Newell reports trade good. He had several good wedding orders which called for a quantity of first class stock. Funeral orders have also been numerous.

Patrick Larkin says business is good with plenty of funeral work. Orders for decorations are also coming in well.

W. J. Barnes has had a good demand for funeral work, in addition to a number of wedding decorations.

The Peterson Floral Co. is handling chrysanthemums in quantity, many being used in design work.

Chas. Biedermann & Son have noticed an increase in business especially in funerals and weddings.

Mr. Read, of the Samuel Murray force, attended the Cleveland flower show.

Miss J. E. Murray reports business good with quite a demand for funeral work.

Visitors: H. A. Hall, Joplin, Mo.; H. P. Zvtsloot of Dreihuisen Bros., Lisse, Holland, and D. Van Staalduijnen, of Guldemand & Son, also of Lisse, Holland.

E. J. B.

CHAMBERSBURG, PA.—Byers Bros. formally opened their new office and greenhouse, October 30. One thousand roses and an equal number of carnations were given to visitors as souvenirs.

TRADE IS IMPROVING.

Business has shown some improvement this week, and while there is still plenty of stock of all kinds to go around it would not be at all surprising if the market cleaned up completely in all lines before the week is over. The weather has turned colder and at times the thermometer recorded nine degrees below freezing and 16 degrees below the normal mean temperature, November 14, when it registered 20 degrees above zero. It snowed on several occasions, but the downfall did not amount to much and it disappeared almost as quickly as it came. The cold weather had something to do with the shortening up of stock, but the increased demand did, too, and stock is now selling at better prices than it has for the past two weeks. Some especially fine American Beauty roses are arriving, but clean up well each day at good prices. Mrs. Chas. Russell roses are in good demand and several large orders were received from Boston and New York for this variety this week and when the day's sales are over there is no surplus to speak of. Roses in general are reaching the market in splendid condition and are none too plentiful. Chrysanthemums and pompons are in good supply, but have advanced in price the past few days. Sweet peas are arriving in larger quantities and the supply of carnations is quite large, but seems to clean up better. Lilies are in good supply, but lily of the valley is none too plentiful. Orchids and violets are plentiful and stevia is seen at several of the stores. A few gardenias are arriving, but the supply is nothing to speak of. Greens of all kinds are plentiful and so are winter berries. Mistletoe made its appearance this week and reminds one that the holidays are almost here. The supply houses are very busy and are showing a nice line of stock in ruscus, red frieze, baskets, etc. In regard to the supply of cut flowers for Thanksgiving, it looks as if stock will be scarce if business is at all good, and it is advisable for everyone to place their orders well in advance so as to insure their supply. Many orders were booked the past week according to several of the leading houses and each mail brings in new orders.

CHICAGO

Wietor Bros. won seven first prizes and one third prize in the carnation entries at the big show held in the Coliseum last week, and are well pleased with the showing that they made. In speaking of the show, N. J. Wietor says that there ought to be more entries for pompons, for they are being grown on a much larger scale than ever before and gives as an illustration that a few years ago his firm only grew one bench of these flowers, and now have several large houses devoted to them. They are cutting a good supply of stock in all lines and will be in good crop for Thanksgiving. The chrysanthemum shipments now include a good supply of the variety Indian Summer, which is selling like hot cakes and is bringing good prices.

Bassett & Washburn's new seedling carnation, Belle Washburn, attracted much attention at the show held in the Coliseum, November 9-14, and will be grown on a large scale by many of the growers throughout the country next season. In the class which called for the best arranged vase of Belle Washburn carnations there were so many entries and such close competition that Mr. Washburn distributed a box of the best Havana cigars to those who did not qualify for a prize. This firm won several nice prizes in the rose and carnation classes and are well pleased with the record that was made.

The Chicago Flower Growers' Association is now comfortably located in its new store in the Le Moyne building at 182 North Wabash avenue, and according to Paul Klingsporn, the sales on the opening day showed a marked increase, notwithstanding the fact that they were still busy moving. Everybody who visited them in their new home received a dandy smoke at the expense of the house.

The firm of J. A. Budlong is now doing business in its new quarters in the Le Moyne building, at 184 North Wabash avenue, which they moved into November 15, when Manager Philip C. Schupp treated all the visitors to a splendid cigar. This firm is cutting from a good crop of American Beauty roses and is offering very choice stock in this line.

A. L. Vaughan & Co. are prepared to handle a brisk Thanksgiving trade, for their supply of stock this season is larger than ever and the outlook so far is very encouraging, for many nice orders have been booked during the past week. Green goods of all kinds are plentiful at this house and some especially fine boxwood is being offered.

Zech & Mann report a brisk demand for Mrs. Chas. Russell and American Beauty roses, which are leaders with them this week. Allie Zech says that orders for Thanksgiving are numerous and that the outlook for good business for this occasion is very promising.

August Poehlmann's son, Earl, and Adolph Poehlmann's son, Walter, who are attending school at Urbana, took in the flower show at the Coliseum last week. H. N. Bruns' son, Herman, who is also attending school at Urbana, was here on a visit last week.

Percy Jones is showing a large supply of chrysanthemums and is booking orders for same for Thanksgiving. This firm is handling a mammoth supply of green goods with boxwood and ferns the principal offerings.

J. E. Jones, of the Advance Co., Richmond, Ind., and daughter Margaret are the guests of Philip L. McKee and wife this week.

Mrs. N. P. Miller is confined to the Wesley hospital, where she will undergo an operation this week.

THE SIGN OF QUALITY

P. W. Peterson, superintendent of the J. D. Thompson Carnation Co., at Joliet, writes that his firm had four entries of its new seedling carnation, Superb, in the flesh pink class at the Cleveland show and won two first and two second prizes. He had this variety entered in this class and another at the local show, but it was disqualified on account of its color in both instances so he is wondering just where he stands and what particular class this variety should be entered in the future. Mr. Peterson does not like to register a kick or criticize the judges, but if Superb does not belong in the two classes that he entered it, he wants to place it where it does belong so he can capture first prize which he nearly always does on this variety.

Poehlmann Bros. Co. has a nice stock of begonias, cyclamens and chrysanthemum plants for Thanksgiving, and are busy booking the same. This firm, as usual, made nice displays at the show in the Coliseum last week and their splendid group of orchid plants was greatly admired by all those who attended the exhibition. The supply of cut flowers at the store is large and from present indications it appears as if they will have large cuts of stock for Thanksgiving, especially carnations and roses. The supply department has had a very busy week and many visitors to the show managed to find time to inspect T. E. Waters' display of supplies at the store.

Peter Reinberg made a very good record at the show in the Coliseum last week, when he won 18 prizes out of 22 entries in the rose and carnation classes, many of which were firsts and which was the best showing that the firm has made in years. This firm is cutting a good supply of stock of all kinds and will be able to take care of all their customers in fine shape for Thanksgiving, according to the Reichling brothers, Emil and Felix, who do both the producing and the selling in the order named. Inquiries in regard to stock for Turkey day are numerous and while many orders have been booked the real demand has not yet set in.

John H. Miller, aged sixty-one years, a retired florist, died of Bright's disease at his home, 1414 Catalpa street, November 10. He was born and lived in this city all his life. He was a member of St. Matthew's Court, Catholic Order of Foresters. Burial was held in St. Boniface cemetery, Saturday, November 13. The widow and six children survive him.

A. T. Pyfer & Co. are booking some nice orders for Thanksgiving and are well pleased with the outlook for them. Mr. Pyfer says that H. E. Philpott, one of the members of the firm, was called home to Winnipeg, Can., this week on important business.

Kroeschell Bros. Co. was well pleased with the result of their exhibit at the show and one of the many orders booked was that of A. Reinhardt, of North Milwaukee, Wis., which calls for a No. 13 Kroeschell boiler.

M. C. Gunterberg evidently expects that violets will be plentiful for Thanksgiving or expects to handle a much larger supply this year, for she is pushing them more extensively than ever.

Vaughan's Seed Store has taken in the first carload of Liliun auratum, L. rubrum and L. album. This firm also received a good lot of named Darwin tulips this week, a class much in demand.

H. R. Coughenous, who attended the show with his employer, C. A. Simonson, of McPherson, Kans., was called home November 11 by the sudden death of his father.

Buchbinder Bros. sold the beautiful refrigerator that they exhibited at the show to Clody's Flower Shop, 3924 North Clark street, Chicago.

Boston:

TRADE FAR BELOW NORMAL.

The past week goes on record as being one of the poorest of the season for several years. Every line of stock is practically at a standstill. The shipping business also has been far below normal. Chrysanthemums are at their height and the market is overstocked with them. Prices run from $4 to $12.50 per 100 on first class stock. Pompons are plentiful, the average price on nearly every variety being 25 cents and 35 cents per bunch. The rose demand may be considered fair, the prices ranging from $2 to $16 per 100. The demand for carnations is poor and consequently the prices are low. Good carnations were sold as low as $1 and $1.50 per 100, although many brought $2. Longiflorum lilies are seen in quantities and move slowly. Lily of the valley also finds a poor market. Orders are being taken for dark red flowers for the Harvard-Yale game at good figures, and it is hoped that the many games played on Saturday will help to stimulate the business as a whole.

NOTES.

At a directors' meeting of the Boston Co-operative Flower Market, November 13, Wm. H. Elliot was re-elected president, John McFarland secretary and Donald Carmichael, treasurer. A house committee was appointed to look after any difficulties that may arise within the market, John McFarland, Chas. Leach and Donald Carmichael being elected.

At a meeting of the committee of subscriptions of the Massachusetts Horticultural Society, it was agreed that $1,200 should be raised by subscriptions for additional special prizes for use during 1916. Part of the sum has already been pledged, and not much difficulty is expected in raising the balance.

Wm. R. Nicholson returned November 14 from an enjoyable trip to the chrysanthemum show at Cleveland. He was particularly enthusiastic over a shell pink seedling chrysanthemum shown by Elmer D. Smith & Co.

Thomas Cox, of Dorchester, is cutting an extra fine lot of Cyripedium insigne, as well as some large Bonnafon chrysanthemums. He has 3,000 solanum plants of the large berry type ready for market.

R. & J. Farquhar & Co. have taken over two additional floors in the building where they are at present located. The firm has at present several large landscape contracts which are keeping them busy.

Marion Collins, of Northboro, well known for her field grown sweet peas during the summer months, has purchased a greenhouse in Worcester and will move it to her Northboro establishment.

Norris Comley, of Burlington, Mass., is cutting a fine lot of chrysanthemums, Bonnafon being his leading variety. He also has good Spencer sweet peas, violets and carnations.

The carnations from A. E. Eaton, of South Sudbury, never looked better than they do now. His Matchless are exceptionally fine and it would be difficult to find better.

Libby of Lynn, who recently sold his store in that city, has moved to Benning's, D. C., where he will join his son who has been there for some time.

J. A. Budlong, of Auburn, R. I., has commenced his crop of chrysanthemums with some fine flowers of Yellow and White Eaton, Patty and Bonnafon.

The Bowling League met at the Boston alleys, November 11. The standings are as follows:

	Won	Lost
Galvin	21	3
Flower Market	20	4
Carbone	13	11
Zinn	11	13
Flower Exchange	9	15
Pansies	9	15
Mc & Mc	7	17
Robinson	6	18

The high string for the evening was rolled by Abrams of Carbone's team with 111. Much interest is shown for the next meeting as Galvin and the Flower Market will roll for the leading place.

The team representing the trade in the North Chicago League and called the Florists, rolled the following scores last week:

MILWAUKEE, WIS.—Gust. Rusch, of Gust. Rusch & Co. has returned from Chicago where he attended the Grand Floral Festival in the Coliseum. SUPPLY FAR EXCEEDS DEMAND.

The shipments to the market are still much in excess of the demand and tax to the limit the resources of the wholesale men in disposing of them, so that the returns may be in a measure satisfactory to the growers. Chrysanthemums are now at their height; great quantities of the standard sorts in large flowered varieties are seen on every hand, while oceans of pompons from indoors and out, fill in the corners and cover the tables of the wholesale houses. Prices hold fairly well with conditions as they are. Quality and quantity are seen in the rose stock, there being an abundance of all the popular sorts. Customers in the stores now have a great time making their selections amongst the many really good things to choose from. The miniature George Elgar, yellow, is selling up well with Cecile Brunner, the pink Sweetheart, which is so deservedly popular. Snapdragons are now quite a factor, there being more variety in color and higher grade stocks than ever offered before at this season. Violets are much improved, the singles, as well as the New York doubles, which are now shipped to this market, arriving in splendid condition. They will have their inning now before the sweet peas arrive, after which time they have very rough sledding. Some very good Spencer sweet peas have already been offered; stems rather short, but flowers very fair. Carnations are rapidly getting into winter form; in spite of rumors of stem rot, there appears to be a full supply. Easter lilies move slowly and lily of the valley is again to be had in quantity. Cattleyas are scarce, in so much that one dollar each was the quotation with some of the wholesalers the past week.

NOTES.

The newspaper reports of the funeral of the late Peter A. B. Widener, the traction magnate of this city, gave the value of the flowers as from $20,000 to $25,000. Wm. Kleinheinz, the gardener of the estate, believes that this estimate was not far out of the way, as there were many large pieces, mostly wreaths, composed almost entirely of cattleyas and lily of the valley. The blanket of over 1,500 cattleyas and lily of the valley was from Thorley, a truly magnificent piece of work. There were many costly wreaths and sprays from this city. With such demand there was little effect on the market which goes to show how wonderfully the trade is growing.

The H. Bayersdorfer & Co.'s business has grown so big that it has burst its bounds and a warehouse and factory which will add about 50 per cent more room in the rear of their present building has been secured. With all their increased facilities the company can hardly keep pace with their growing business.

A new flower shop called the Ideal has been opened on 52nd street above Market. Miss A. Walker, who is making the venture, was until recently bookkeeper for John C. Gracey. This is a busy retail street in the residence section where good business may be built up.

The attendance at the recent Philadelphia flower show was very disappointing. Something very radical will have to be done to get the public interested, if the gate receipts are to break any records at the big spring show.

The display of cut roses made by the Joseph Heacock Co. at the chrysanthemum show last week was the finest exhibit of its kind ever made in this city and well deserved the medal awarded by the judges.

Berger Brothers are pleased with the increase in their business as the season advances. High class Major Bonnaffon chrysanthemums and a splendid assortment of pompons are now the leaders.

New York.

ENORMOUS OVERSUPPLY.

The wholesale district is literally swamped with stock. There seems to be an improvement in retail business throughout the city, but all that the retailers can use makes little impression on the wholesale market in the way of a clean-up. The supply of chrysanthemums is enormous. The later varieties, Col. Appleton, Maj. Bonnafon, Wm. Turner, Chadwick, Roman Gold, Elberon, Ivory and others are now in large supply and added to them is an immense stock of the pompons and hardy varieties. Fine stock of the larger blooms is selling for $2 and $2.50 per dozen, wholesale. Bonnafon, recognized as a standard flower of its class, is hard to move at $1 to $1.20 per dozen. There is no such thing as a clean up on roses, excepting American Beauties. It is true that there is a demand for a certain amount of good tea rose stock, but what does not sell the day it comes in stands a poor chance for the next. About the same may be said of carnations. The prospects for the Yale-Princeton football game at New Haven, November 13, pushed up the price of violets to 75 cents per 100 on November 12, but before noon of the following day, they were down to 40 cents, heavy shipments having arrived in the meantime. While there is no glut of orchids, there are plenty to supply the demand. The supply of lilies, lily of the valley, sweet peas and snapdragons is ample and the tendency of prices is downward. The weather is exceptionally fine for November, but it does not appear that either present weather or market conditions can long continue.

November 15.—The surplus of stock continues and prices are very low. In chrysanthemums the white stock seems to be the slowest. There is a great surplus of pompons and no prices worthy of note. Carnation prices are nearly down to zero and the same can be said of the surplus rose stock. Violets can be bought for $2.50 per thousand, and going largely to the street vendors.

NOTES.

It has recently been made public that the American Museum of Natural History, frequently mentioned in these columns in connection with the fall flower shows, received a bequest of $5,128,836 in the will of Mrs. Maria De Witt Jessup, who died in this city June 17, 1914. She was the widow of Morris K. Jessup, who died in 1908, and had been president of the museum for over 25 years. He gave the institution more than $1,000,000 in his lifetime and bequeathed it another $1,000,000 in his will. Mrs. Jessup also bequeathed $25,000 to the New York Botanical Gardens and $25,000 to the New York Zoological Society. The total estate has been appraised at $12,672,792. Her bequests to religious, educational, charitable and scientific institutions aggregate $8,599,991. She left no children, but nephews, nieces and other relatives, and servants were well remembered.

Relating to the discussion on street vendors of flowers: If there was no surplus there would be few street men. We think it all hinges on the question, Is it not better to have stock sold on the street than to have it go to the dump? In this city, fruit, candy and other stock that is non-perishable, is sold on the street, and we believe it is true of all cities. Why then, should there be discrimination against the flower vendors? The fourteenth amendment of the constitution of the United States says that no state may "deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws." In a recent opinion delivered by Justice Hughes for the United States supreme court, it was stated: "It requires no argument to show that the right to work for a living in the common occupations of the community is of the very essence of the personal freedom and opportunity that it was the purpose of the amendment to secure."

We hold no brief for the street vendors, but have one time and another, heard much talk about "suppressing" them.

Calling recently at the store of Henry L. Bantelman, 1875 Amsterdam avenue, we found business quite active, and a good stock of plants and flowers, much of which is grown at his own range, in Yonkers, N. Y. Mr. Bantelman spends much of his time at the range, while Mrs. Bantelman looks after the store, which is good team work.

E. H. Behere, one of the most successful rose growers of Madison, N. J., who ships to this city, was taken to the Morristown hospital November 6, and underwent an operation for gall stones. He is now reported to be progressing favorably. His stock is being handled by Moore, Hentz & Nash of the Coogan building.

Thos. F. Galvin, Inc., Fifth avenue and 46th street, are displaying in their show window, duplicate corsage bouquets, of orchids and violets of one they arranged for Mrs. Norman T. Galt on her recent visit to this city. They also show a letter of thanks for the bouquet, from Mrs. Galt, through her social secretary.

Calling on Frank Traendly at his home, 991 Ocean avenue, Brooklyn, November 10, we found him up and about and cheerful. He has had quite a tussle with the grippe, but seems now to be well on the road to recovery. It is needless to add that his cheerful presence has been missed in the wholesale district.

The fact that chrysanthemums are plentiful and cheap, enables the retailers to make lavish use of them in window displays. At the store of the Cathedral Florist, 2840 Broadway, we recently noticed an exceptionally fine display of chrysanthemums in a number of leading varieties.

One of the busiest retailers of upper Broadway is Costos Sakelos, the Colonial Florist, at Broadway and 157th street. Although his main store is there, he has several branches in other parts of the city, and he is one of the busiest buyers in the wholesale district.

M. M. Voit, well known in the retail trade of this city, has opened a stand for the sale of cut flowers, plants and bulbs in the McCormick department store, Fifth avenue and Ninth street.

Brooklyn. He is a clever man and we wish him success.

At the store of J. G. Papadem & Co., 2907 Broadway, we have recently noticed fine window decorations of chrysanthemums with finely fruited and colored Otaheite oranges, which indicates progressive growing.

Henry L. Baylis, who sells the Dailledouze Brothers and Edward Asmus stock in the rooms of the New York Cut Flower Co., has recovered from his recent illness and returned to business.

Leo Klein, 767 Lexington avenue, arranged a fine wedding decoration at the North Presbyterian church, November 10. White chrysanthemums, autumn foliage and foliage plants were used.

A. Ehmann, 2112 Broadway, has recently had a number of fine wedding decorations, and we have reason to know that he has been very successful in pleasing his customers.

SOME snow and colder weather prevails in Wisconsin, November 16, affecting further picking of bouquet green and possibly future prices.

FOREIGN buyers are reported not only willing to contract for American grown onion seed of 1916 crop, but are asking for prices on onion bulbs for seed.

ONION SET warehousemen are busy seeking out stray crates of stock inclined to sprout and root which menace safe keeping of the best stocks.

A. R. BEATY, federal master at Pittsburgh, took testimony in the Sherman anti-trust suit against the Western Cantaloupe Exchange last week.

VISITED CHICAGO: C. N. Keeney, LeRoy, N. Y.; A. L. Rogers, Alpena, Mich.; J. W. Edmundson, of the California Seed Growers' Association, San Jose, Calif.

IT is considered very doubtful if southern French grown flower seeds will come through. Such French growers as Lille, Davy and Cesbron share in this view.

TUBEROSE reports are mixed, the consensus pointing to a crop much below the average, yet probably sufficient for the American trade, export business not being 10 per cent of former totals.

WAKEMAN, O.—Charles S. Clark, Jr., and Miss Esther French were married here at noon, October 30. The groom's sister, Miss Hazel Clark, and Harold L. Henderson were married the evening of the same day.

WITH onion seed at boom prices, some growers, as usual, under such conditions, are reported as failing either to winnow or float away the light seed, and the average germination tests of onion for 1916 sales are likely to be lower.

CANNERS' MEETINGS.—Arnold Ringier, of the W. W. Barnard Co., Chicago, says the Indianapolis meeting of the Indiana canners, November 11, was well attended and business brisk. The annual meeting of Wisconsin canners will be held at Milwaukee, November 30. The National Canners' Association meeting will be held at Louisville, Ky., in February.

W. W. BARNARD, president of the W. W. Barnard Co., Chicago, had a serious attack of ptomaine poisoning, November 14. He has been taken to the Presbyterian hospital, but his condition is much improved as we go to press. A. H. Goodwin, of the same firm, who also has been ill, has now left the Wesley hospital and is progressing favorably.

Chick Peas in Arizona.

The chick pea, better known as "garbanzo" in Spanish speaking countries, and much used by Mediterranean peoples and by Spanish-Americans as a food stuff, is covered in "Timely Hints for Farmers, No. 112," issued by the University of Arizona agricultural experiment station, Tucson, under date of October 1, 1915. Climatic and soil requirements, planting, irrigation and cultivation of the several varieties of garbanzos, together with yields, market grades and market requirements are among the different items upon which information is offered in this bulletin. The best varieties are grown in Spain and are given as Fuentesauco, Castilla primera and Andalucia.

Seed Beans.

Bean growers who would avoid a repetition next year of the heavy losses from disease suffered this season are advised by the department of agriculture to give their personal attention to the immediate selection of a stock of seed beans free from disease infection. They should select the seed beans in the pod and not after threshing. It is further advised that beans should not be replanted on the old ground next year, clean seed and rotation being the best crop insurance.

Imports at New York.

The S. S. Noordam, which arrived from Rotterdam, Holland, November 13, brought imports as follows:

H. Frank Darrow Co., 65 cases plants.

A. Rolker & Sons, 77 cases plants, 24 cases bulbs.

Wadley & Smythe, 14 cases plants.

Announcement To The Seed Trade

Starting with the 1916 growing season Stokes Seed Farms Company, Inc., will grow the following New Jersey Seed Crops under annual contract:

Pepper	Tomato	Egg Plant	Spinach	Kale
Turnip	Radish	Sweet Corn	Field Corn	Okra

WE are growing these for our own Market Garden Trade and have every reason to feel that we can be of service to other Seed Houses whose trade demands the very best. Our qualifications for this work include: First, men who thoroughly understand seed growing; second, unrivaled climatic and soil conditions, and third, the viewpoint of retail seedsmen. The last named qualification is perhaps the most important, for we are in a position to realize the necessity of true stocks. When men save seed as a bi-product of some other industry sometimes this point is lost sight of. Inquiries will receive close attention.

PLANT A LIVE ONE

AVIATOR

Best Intense Scarlet Carnation Ever Placed on the Market.

The Carnation that Growers go many hundred miles to inspect and ten out of ten buy because there is none that will compare with it for productiveness and because its intense scarlet coloring is incomparable. Aviator will produce 30 blooms per plant per season with a heavy crop for Christmas. The flower has a fine full center, stem is thin, wiry and stiff and the calyx non-bursting. Every break develops into a fine flower in a remarkably short time. Aviator is the best buy in Carnation offerings this season so place your order for cuttings immediately.

Cuttings, $12.00 per 100; $100.00 per 1000.

The remarkable showing that we made at the Chicago Show—where we won a large number of prizes, ought to be sufficient guarantee that the best place to buy your Carnation cuttings in all the best paying varieties is from us, the old reliable Carnation headquarters.

Colorado Conifers.

The Douglas spruce, Pseudotsuga mucronata, from Colorado, is hardy in this climate and promises to be long-lived here, although this tree from the northwest coast, where it grows in its greatest perfection, is not hardy in New England. The other conifers from the interior of the continent are hardy, but are not of much promise as ornamental or timber trees for the eastern states. Picea pungens, the well known Colorado blue spruce, which is still largely propagated and sold by European and American nurserymen, will disappoint many planters of trees for its beauty is comparatively short-lived. This tree, growing naturally in small groves by some of the streams of the southern Rocky mountains, becomes at the end of a few years thin and scrawny in habit, with a few short branches on the upper part of the trunk, and is as ugly an object as a tree can well be. In cultivation the blue spruce for several years is compact in habit with wide-spreading branches in regular layers, but as the trees grow older the branches at some distance from the ground grow more rapidly than those at the base of the trunk, and overshadow and gradually kill them. The oldest of these trees in cultivation were raised from seed collected by Dr. C. C. Parry in 1862 and are thus only 53 years old. One of these original trees is growing in the arboretum on the southern slope of Bussey Hill, where, although it is a pathetic object, it is kept to show the planters of this tree what they may expect of it long before it attains half its natural size. For many years there have been growing in the arboretum what have been considered the finest specimens in cultivation of the second of the Colorado spruces, P. engelmannii; they formed narrow and compact pyramids, with slender trunks furnished to the ground with short branches, and it was believed until recently that this tree, which is so handsome on the high slopes of the Colorado mountains, would prove to be the most desirable of all spruce trees for this climate. In the last two or three years, however, the lower branches of these trees have begun to die and, although the trees appear otherwise perfectly healthy and are still growing rapidly, their beauty as specimen trees is much injured.—Arnold Arboretum Bulletin.

Heart-Rot of Oaks and Poplars.

Abstract of an article by George C. Hedcock, pathologist, and W. H. Long, forest pathologist, bureau of plant industry, United States department of agriculture.

The oaks of the United States are diseased by a number of species of fungi which attack the heartwood. Von Schrenk and Spaulding in Bulletin 149, issued by the United States department of agriculture, bureau of plant industry in 1909, entitled, "Diseases of Deciduous Forest Trees," briefly described some of these diseases and also a piped rot of the heartwood of oaks and chestnuts. The oaks of the southwestern and western United States are not used to any extent for lumber and timbers, and are as a rule valuable only for fuel, as in the case of the valley oaks, which attain a large size in valleys in central California, but are usually badly decayed or hollow, and of no value except for cheap fuel. The senior writer in 1909 ascertained that Polyporus dryophilus was the chief cause of the deterioration of oaks of the western United States, and E. P. M. Meinecke in 1914, reported a destructive heart-rot of oaks caused by this fungus in California and Oregon, as described in a United States department of agriculture bulletin issued in that year, under the title, "Forest Tree Diseases Common in California and Nevada," and published by the forest service. In Arizona and New Mexico the oaks are diseased almost as badly as in California and Oregon, and P. dryophilus is the common cause of decay. In Texas and the adjacent states of Oklahoma and Arkansas the piped rot produced by this fungus is very common, and the valuable white oak (Quercus alba) is commonly attacked. To the east and the north the fungus has been found less frequently. In 1912 aspens, attacked by this fungus were found in Colorado, but is not commonly found on this host.

The first indication of the whitish piped rot in white oak is a discoloration of the heart-wood, which assumes a water-soaked appearance. This "soak" may extend from one to ten feet beyond the actually rotting region. When dry this water-soaked heartwood becomes hazel to tawny in color. In final stages the diseased wood is firm, has a white, stringy appearance, and consists of white cellulose strands of delignified wood fibres and other wood structures bounded by areas of apparently sound, but actually slightly diseased and discolored heartwood. Cinnamon brown areas are scattered through the oldest rotted wood.

The rot produced by Polyporus dryophilus in the chestnut oak is slightly different from that in white oak. The diseased wood is hazel in color with very narrow concentric zones of ivory-yellow cellulose. The rot caused by P. dryophilus in western oaks differs but little from that found in the white oak. The mottled appearance of the rot in the earlier stages is not so pronounced. In the final stage of the rot there is but little apparently sound heartwood.

A reprint from the Journal of Agricultural Research, of the department of agriculture, under the title "Heart-Rot of Oaks and Poplars Caused by Polyporus dryophilus," treats of the subject quite fully, with illustrations, literature cited and suggestions for its control, by elimination as soon as the disease is apparent.

Cutworm Remedies.

Tomatoes, cabbages, sweet potatoes, and other vegetables and garden plants, and especially those which are started under glass and transplanted, are subject to serious injury by cutworms. These pests appear sometimes in great numbers in the spring and early summer, and frequently do severe injury before their ravages are noticed. Their method of attack is to cut off the young plants at about the surface of the ground, and as these caterpillars are of large size and voracious feeders, they are capable of destroying many plants in a single night—frequently more than they can devour. Every year these insects, working generally throughout the United States, have destroyed hundreds of thousands of dollars' worth of crops. By the timely application of remedies, however, as has been demonstrated through field agents and other entomologists of the United States department of agriculture, they readily can be controlled, and large areas have been successfully treated. The usual method of control is by the use of poisoned baits.

MIXING AND APPLYING BAITS.

Take a bushel of dry bran, add one pound of white arsenic or Paris green, and mix it thoroughly into a mash with eight gallons of water in which has been stirred half a gallon of sorghum or other cheap molasses. This amount will be sufficient for the treatment of about four or five acres of cultivated crops. After the mash has stood for several hours, scatter it, in lumps about the size of a marble, over the fields where the injury is beginning to appear and about the bases of the plants set out. Apply late in the day, so as to place the poison about the plants before night, which is the time when the cutworms are active. Apply a second time if necessary.

CUTWORM TRAVEL PREVENTATIVE.

When cutworms occur in unusual abundance, which happens locally, and sometimes generally, in some seasons, they exhaust their food supply and are driven to migrate to other fields. This they do literally in armies, assuming what is called the army-worm habit. At such times it is necessary to treat them the same as army worms. While the methods which have been advised are valuable in such cases, they may be too slow to destroy all the cutworms, and other methods must be employed. These include trenching, ditching, the plowing of deep furrows in advance of the traveling cutworms to trap them, and the dragging of logs or brush through the furrows. If the trenches can be filled with water, the addition of a small quantity of kerosene, so as to form a thin scum on the surface, will prove fatal to the cutworms. In extreme cases, barriers of fence boards are erected and the tops smeared with tar or other sticky substances to stop the cutworms as they attempt to crawl over.

SPRAYING WITH ARSENICALS.

In extremely severe attacks by cutworms to choice plants there is sometimes no opportunity to prepare the poisoned bait. In such cases an arsenate of lead or Paris green spray will answer quite as well. In one instance a parsley field was sprayed with four pounds of arsenate of lead to 50 gallons of water; this killed all the cutworms, whereas, if they had been left alone for a day or two longer the field probably would have been destroyed. The result, however, was a perfect stand—the best ever made by the grower. In this case five applications were made.

CULTURAL METHODS AND CROP ROTATION.

Clean cultural methods and crop rotation are advisable, as are also fall plowing and disking, to prevent recurrences of cutworm attacks. Many cutworms can be destroyed where it is possible to overflow the fields, particularly where irrigation is practiced.

COOL WEATHER BRINGS IMPROVED TRADE.

With chrysanthemums dominating the market, and stock in generous supply, the arrival of cold weather has stimulated business. The stock is of very fine quality and Eaton, Chieftain Ivory, Dolly Dimple, Bonnaffon and Halliday bring from $2 to $4 per dozen. Pompons and singles are also seen in quantity in every variety and have a large demand. Roses are in big supply and of fine quality and carnations are more plentiful and command good prices.

NOTES.

G. W. Doswell & Co. will hold the formal opening of their new store November 19-20. The store is handsomely decorated and presents a fine appearance with its tile floor and walls of French gray with white woodwork. Miss Maxwell is in charge here. The new branch store on South Calhoun street has also been opened and is in charge of Miss Rhoda Doswell and is also a handsome up-to-date establishment. Business is reported as being very good at both stores.

W. J. Vesey, Jr. has returned from Richmond, Ind., where he attended the November meeting of the state florists' association. He reports a record attendance and a splendid time. W. J. Vesey, Sr., recently entertained a party of friends who attended the Panama-Pacific exposition at a dinner at his home.

The Bradley Flower Shop had the decoration for the Millard reception, using huge vases of chrysanthemums and Sunburst roses in a very artistic arrangement.

NEW CARNATION Belle Washburn

A Beautiful Brilliant Red

Winner of the Silver Medal at the last Exhibition of the American Carnation Society, Buffalo, N.Y., January 27th and 28th, First Prize at the Illinois State Fair at Springfield, Ill., Sept. 22nd and 23rd.

It has never been beaten at any exhibition. The color is a most brilliant red. The size of the flower $3\frac{1}{2}$ to 4 inches. Stems 24 to 36 inches long, strong and stiff. We have never had a burst calyx, all flowers grading firsts and best of all it is a constant bloomer giving a steady run of flowers equal in number to the Enchantress family. It has a very spicy odor much greater than the average carnation. It comes in full flower by the first of December and then continues steadily the balance of the season.

The present sharp competition in business requires the grower to plant a variety that always produces high-grade flowers never bursts the calyx, has strong, long stems, is steady and continuous bloomer, no cropper. The color is the most brilliant red of any carnation now in market. We have grown this variety for five years, it being one of our own seedlings, and we now have 30,000 plants benched in our greenhouses at Grepps of which 12,000 are for the cut flowers and 18,000 devoted to rooted cuttings.

We will have 100,000 strong, well-rooted cuttings guaranteed all first-class ready for delivery during December. The price of the rooted cuttings will be $12.00 per 100; $100.00 per 1000.

TRADE SHOWS STEADY IMPROVEMENT.

Trade during the past week has been very satisfactory. The demand for cut flowers is increasing and the call for floral work is brisk and is getting better. Chrysanthemums are arriving in large quantities. The larger varieties are being slowly run out but the smaller sorts are of fine quality. The small Garza chrysanthemums are now seen and are coming in very good. Excellent carnations are being received and snapdragons, which show improvement day by day, find ready sale. White and yellow marguerites of good quality are also to be had.

NOTES.

The T. J. Johnston Co. has arranged one of the most unique and attractive window displays that have been seen in this city for some time. The arrangement consists of a rustic bridge with small vases of flowers. Six small canaries flying about, and which are fed in the window, are part of the picture which attracts large crowds of people. The window is a novelty and the idea is artistically executed.

Olney Williams, of Olney, is cutting some very fine Major Bonnaffon chrysanthemums. He is also sending in some fine stock of the small Ivory variety.

MARKED TRADE IMPROVEMENT.

Market conditions have shown marked improvement during the past week, due to cool weather and everything in the cut-flower line is in better demand. Carnations are much improved in quality and are arriving in more generous supply. Chrysanthemums are the favorites and they also arrive in large quantities. Major Bonnaffon is a great favorite and is fine in stem and flower. Pompons are abundant in all colors, but yellow leads in the sales, with bronze varieties second choice. Roses of all kinds are plentiful and are disposed of at fair prices. American Beauties are of good quality and the supply is adequate. Lily of the valley, cattleyas and violets are also good stock.

NOTES.

E. C. Armbrust had a very attractive window display at his East avenue establishment this week. Bonnaffon chrysanthemums were featured arranged with oak leaves, with excellent bronze and yellow pompons also shown to advantage in the foreground.

Colored slides of Rochester's park system and a number of interesting European views were shown at a meeting of the florist club, November 8, by Mr. Zoller, and were much admired and enjoyed.

The following from this city attended the Cleveland show: Geo. B. Hart, Fred Thomann, P. Thomann, H. L. Glenn, W. L. Glenn, Al. Salter, Geo. Kramer, Jas. Sproat and Frank McLewis.

J. B. Kellar & Sons report trade holding up well. Several wedding orders were booked during the past week.

H. E. Wilson celebrated his seventy-sixth birthday, November 9.

The Plymouth Avenue Flower Shop has discontinued business.

MARKET LACKS FIRMNESS.

Last week's business was somewhat quiet. The supply was very heavy, while the general demand was not strong enough to take up all the offerings. Perhaps the cold weather and even snow that came the early part of this week will bring about, or rather bring with it, a change for the better in market conditions, but whether or not it will, remains to be seen. The chrysanthemum cut continues heavy and includes many excellent offerings in the seasonable varieties and colors. Roses are excellent and in a good supply, but do not clean up. Carnations, too, are good, but have a weak market. Easter lilies are plentiful. Callas may now be had. The best single violets sell well, but the ordinary grades along with other stock have a weak market.

NOTES.

Among Cincinnatians not heretofore mentioned, who attended the Cleveland show last week, were Ray Murphy, M. Koots and D. Rusconi.

C. E. Critchell has been having a fine lot of callas that should prove popular when the market becomes firmer than it is at this time.

Wm. Taylor has been cutting some very fine white and yellow Chadwick chrysanthemums at his greenhouses on Price Hill.

BELLE ISLE PARK ATTRACTS CROWDS.

Beautiful Belle Isle park, with its 700 acres of pleasing landscape, arrayed in autumn dress, with its 21 miles of macadam roads and miles of drives and gravel paths, is especially attractive just now and is thronged with visitors daily. The park, which is three miles long and one-half mile wide has many features of interest, one being an aquarium, the third largest in the world. The zoological garden covers 15 acres and the $80,000 bath house accommodates 1,200 persons at one time. A casino erected at a cost of $125,000 supplies all needs in the way of meals or light refreshments, besides making a beautiful sight at night with its thousands of lights. In addition to these splendid features, the large horticultural hall, athletic fields, pavilions, etc., supply everything that could be desired to make it one of the most beautiful and complete parks in the United States, and the hundreds of fall visitors who dot the banks of the pretty canal make a grand picture.

As an added attraction, the first of the fall and winter flower shows is in progress and the horticultural building is crowded with throngs, viewing the magnificent floral display, arranged by Robert Flowerday, park superintendent, and aided by his able assistants, Alex Czarnecke, Rudolph Kochler and their fellow-workers. Superintendent Flowerday is one of the most popular florists that ever held this important position.

Suggestions for Plant Growers.

Primulas.

As fast as the primroses grow, space them out so that there is a good distance between each plant, and so that the leaves do not touch, allowing room between the plants for a free circulation of air. If the plants are placed on a bench with a front and back board, place boards across and set the plants on these or stand the pots on inverted pots so as to bring them up into the air. Take care in watering not to wet the foliage more than necessary, or the leaves will be spotted. Many good primulas are ruined by being overcrowded and the foliage allowed to remain damp. If the plants are not going to be in flower for the holidays they can be placed in a temperature of 60° at night for a short time, which will rapidly bring them along, but do not attempt a higher temperature than that, nor for any great length of time. These plants are cold-loving subjects and are more satisfactory in a house that never goes above 50° at night. Primula obconica is now blooming freely and can be kept in bloom until spring if grown cool. These plants are particularly useful in filling Christmas baskets. Care must be taken in the handling of these plants by persons who are at all subject to poisoning from coming in contact with this, rhus, or other poisonous plants, for they sometimes cause a very troublesome and irritating eruption of the skin.

Ardisias.

The berries of the ardisias should now be turning a bright red and the foliage taking on that beautiful glossy appearance which makes this plant so popular at the holidays. Where these plants are grown in great heat the berries do not color as brightly, and the leaves lack that thick, leathery texture and glossy appearance, and the plants are not so satisfactory in the houses. They also chill very easily, and if this happens the berries drop off. It is much better to finish them from this time on in a bright, sunny house, with good ventilation; this will tend to color up the fruit and give the plants a much healthier appearance, and they will prove more satisfactory. We have seen these plants, where grown cool and not forced, hold their berries until the next year's crop was borne. Keep a sharp lookout for scale on ardisias; they quickly get covered with the brown scale unless carefully watched, and when these insects appear constant washing is the great remedy. Clean off the first that appear. "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure."

Catch Crops.

With the close competition that the greenhouse man is up against at the present day it does not pay to have any of the bench room idle, or if a crop shows that it is not going to succeed and be remunerative it had better be thrown out and the room occupied by something that will pay. The several different plants and flowers have their seasons, and when they are done a succeeding crop should be all ready prepared to take the place. It therefore pays to have some catch crop ready in cases of this kind. There are many annuals that can be grown and carried along in small pots and if not used and eventually discarded the loss is small. These, if planted out in the benches, will bloom in the early spring and give a very welcome variety to the flowers of that season. There are many flowers grown today that were first grown as catch crops, such as the antirrhinum. Among others which might be grown this way are the centaureas, either bachelor's buttons or sweet sultans, nasturtiums, lupines, calendulas, eschscholtzias, salpiglossis, schizanthus, stocks and others. There are also many of the early blooming perennials which can be lifted and heeled in where they can be easily obtained during the winter and transplanted to the greenhouse. Among these are Coreopsis lanceolata, Aquilegia cœrulea, gaillardias, heucheras, sweet william, and others which the grower has in stock. A dealer will always find customers who appreciate these flowers, which are often not seen during the winter months, and by having the stock of a few of these odd things one can often plant out a section of a bench that otherwise would not be returning any revenue, and thereby prevent loss.

Begonia Rex.

With the advent of steady firing and a warm propagating bench the cuttings of Begonia rex should be started at once if good plants are desired for spring and summer growing. These plants are very ornamental when well grown and the leaves can be used in much floral work. These plants are raised from either shoot or leaf cuttings but where many are propagated the latter method is generally employed. Well matured leaves that are healthy and vigorous are selected and two methods can be adopted. The leaf can be cut several times through the midrib and its branches and then placed on the propagating bed and the cuts pegged down to the sand. A wire in the shape of a hair pin will do this. Or the leaf may be cut into triangular pieces, with the rib as the apex, and these cuttings inserted in the sand as other cuttings are with the point down. Another method sometimes adopted is to cut the leaf in two parts lengthwise and the two halves are stood erect in the sand. The cutting bench should be shaded and if covered with glass and kept close the propagation will be more rapid and successful. The small leaves will shortly protrude from the sand and when the roots have attained a length of half an inch or more they can be potted in soil consisting of two parts loam, one part leaf-mold, one part well-rotted manure, and one part sand. They will require a warm temperature, and when watering be careful not to wet the foliage, especially where the sun shines upon them, or holes in the leaves will be the result. They should be shifted into larger pots as required and as the plants grow coarser soil may be used in the potting. They make much handsomer plants when grown in shady locations rather than in the full sunlight.

Stevia.

The early stevia will now be coming into flower, but if the plants are in pots, and there are a good large number, they should not be brought into flower all at once. By keeping some of the plants in a cool location they can be retarded so that plants may be had in bloom up to February. A house or deep frame where the night temperature can be kept just above the freezing point will hold them in check and they can be brought in as desired.

The dwarf variety is very easily handled in this manner, but the tall plants are not so easily moved around. Keep the plants well tied up for the joints are very brittle and break down easily, and the long variety should be very carefully handled even after the sprays are cut, for they break down with their own weight when in flower.

OTTAWA, ONT.—Scrim's Flower Shop, on Catherine street, entertained hundreds of visitors, November 10-11, the occasion being one of the most artistic displays of chrysanthemums ever seen in this city.

THE RETAIL TRADE

Conducted by Robt. Kift, Philadelphia, Pa.

The Street Fakir.

When the wholesale flower market was first overstocked, ages ago, there appeared the industrious parasite, called in these days a fakir—like Topsy, he "jes' growed," a sort of mushroom creation that appears when conditions are just right. His mission was to sell flowers; he gathered up the refuse and disposed of it to the crowd, wherever he was most likely to find buyers. He had little or no capital and sold at a very small profit, as nothing had to be added to his price for expense. By the regular profession, who conducted their business in stores and had to provide for all the necessary incidental expenses, the fakir was considered an outlaw, and from time to time, according to his activities, was subject to arrest, fines and even imprisonment. More or less stringent laws were passed relegating him to the background or even out of existence, as far as his business activities were concerned. In spite, however, of all obstacles, legal and otherwise, he still survives; in fact, his tribe has increased, until today, he is to be found in every large community and has won many friends to help fight his battles.

At a recent meeting of the Philadelphia Florists' Club, the fakir was given a clean bill of health. Robert Craig stated that he had grown to be a very important factor in the business, as by selling to casual buyers at low prices, when flowers were plentiful, he made customers that purchased in the stores when they were too scarce for the street. He was in no sense a competitor of the retail florist, as he rarely handled anything but the surplus, and at times when there is great overproduction he is a distinct benefit in moving quantities of flowers at low prices that otherwise would be a total loss. His success even made the storekeepers spruce up and carry more stock. He cited the London market, where plants, which had to be moved, were offered at one-third less than standard wholesale prices and at the lower figures were disposed of quickly and in large quantities by the street men.

Chas. E. Meehan found the street vendors very useful factors in the times of great surplus; they would buy in large quantities at low prices, which, while they were disappointing, were the best obtainable and cleaned up the market, making room for the next day's shipments. When stock came in, it had to be sold, if not at the expected figures, then at the next best price. Special low quotations were for the man who moved the stock in quantity, be he fakir or retailer. He did not like to see high class flowers like gardenias or orchids go on the street, but there was no alternative when they were going to waste, as a low price was better than none.

From the standpoint of the retail florist, it is very galling to see men on adjacent street corners, or passing up and down in front of his store, offering good flowers at prices the same, or even less, than his stock cost. It is a kind of advertising and winning love for flowers that is not to his liking, however much the grower or commission man may approve of it.

Selling on the streets appears to be a good business school, for many of the best retailers in the large cities are graduates of this "University of hard knocks." They begin with very small capital, but can turn it over several times in a day, working a busy central retail district while the throng is there, and closing out their surplus in the residence thoroughfares at night. There is no question but that the flower fakir has come to stay, as he has demonstrated his usefulness in moving the surplus. Despite legislation, and the fact that he is under the ban in almost every city and town in the land, he still thrives. To the commission man and the grower, he is welcomed at all times and especially when it is desired to make a cleanup. Of late years the department stores have taken up the sale of cut flowers with varying success, according to the intelligence with which the business is being handled. Even the five and ten cent stores are making a try before installing a regular department. Yet with all these agencies the supply more than keeps pace with the demand and the fakir is sure of a glad hand wherever he appears. K.

Sowbug Remedies.

ED. AMERICAN FLORIST:

I wish you would kindly give me a remedy for the extermination of sowbugs. I saw an article on the subject in THE AMERICAN FLORIST some time ago but can not now locate it.

SUBSCRIBER.

In the treatment of sowbugs poisoned baits are standard remedies. The great fondness of sowbugs for potatoes long ago led to these being used, poisoned either with Paris green or London purple. The potatoes are sliced and a thin covering of powder applied. Sprinkling the soil around an injured plant with Paris green, or dusting the same under boards and other haunts of the sowbugs is also very effective.

In addition to Paris green and London purple, arsenate of lead may be used. There is no danger from the use of any of these arsenicals, if they are not sprinkled or sprayed on the plants. A still cheaper substitute for Paris green is white arsenic, which is quite inexpensive; it is, however, dangerous to apply it to delicate plants. One or two tablespoonfuls of white arsenic to a bucketful of bran, sweetened with a quart of syrup or molasses and the mixture sprinkled about the beds will prove very effective in the control of these creatures.

If the sowbugs are injurious in a cultivated patch—after treating the ordinary haunts—it is best to keep the ground well broken and raked to prevent clodding and cracking, which gives them protection. Old boards, cans and rubbish should not be allowed to accumulate. Such precautions will tend greatly to prevent any great damage or annoyance. F. H. C.

From time to time we notice inquiries about how to get rid of sowbugs and the remedy always given is some kind of poison. Now, a few years ago we were simply being eaten up with sowbugs, for every one killed with poison ten would come to the funeral, till we did not know what to do to save our plants. We just happened to try Slug-Shot, which simply exterminated them and by always keeping it on hand we have kept them down ever since. It is a cheap preparation, a five pound bag will go over a hundred-foot house. We just sift it on tables and under the tables. It will surely kill them, large and small. Be sure and go over the house carefully and sift on all available space. Be sure and use it in the evening when the foliage is dry.

SOME OF THE MEN WHO MADE THE BIG CLEVELAND SHOW.

THE EXHIBITIONS.

Impressions of the Cleveland Show.

The most striking feature of this exhibition was its completeness in every detail. In the chrysanthemum cut bloom classes calling for the exhibits of the commercial grower, the competition was strong in almost every class, and in some of the classes as many as eight entries were staged, with the quality of the exhibits being of the highest grade.

The competition in the private gardener classes was as keen as in the commercial classes.

The retailers' section was well represented with artists' work of the highest order, including table decorations, bridal bouquets, corsage bouquets and the newest fads in baskets of flowers. Every flower at the florists' command was utilized to the best advantage. The first day we noticed a fine table decoration of Scotch heather and choice dendrobiums, also one of snapdragons, which was very fine indeed. Another very pretty table was of bronze pompon chrysanthemums and on another were the little yellow baby chrysanthemums, which was the main feature; another was a table of Bonnaffon chrysanthemums; another was of violets and yellow pompons, and another of red roses. The decorations of the tables were changed each day and kept in good condition, making them a big attraction every day.

Some very creditable cut blooms of chrysanthemums were shown in the private gardeners' classes and the exhibits of palms, ferns and stove and greenhouse decorative plants were very fine indeed, both as to quality and variety, ferns, palms, crotons and dracaenas being the most prominent plants in the groups, but there were some odd and interesting plants to attract the people. One large plant of Ponderosa lemon in fruit was quite an attraction. There were also some nice exhibits of lily of the valley in pots. Begonias and cyclamens were also of the very highest grade.

The big attraction in the chrysanthemum plant section was the immense specimen from J. Canning, superintendent for Adolph Lewisohn, Ardsley, N. Y. It was all that it was claimed it would be and a little more. The variety was Wells' Late Pink. The plant was about 15 feet in diameter, well filled with fine blooms of good color, and it was a grand example of what can be accomplished by expert growing. The local gardeners and growers also showed some very creditable specimen chrysanthemum plants, but they were overshadowed by Mr. Canning's big plant.

The trade displays were a big feature of the show. Every line of the seed, florist and allied trades was represented with displays of the very best of stock, neatly arranged so as to form a part of the big show, every exhibitor taking advantage of a good opportunity to get his stock before the trade.

The first day of the show was given over to exhibits of cut chrysanthemums and never before was this section so strongly represented. The classes were all filled with magnificent blooms from all parts of the east and central west and north into Canada. The private gardeners from the large estates in the east exhibited magnificent, well finished blooms. Wm. Vert, gardener to Howard Gould, Castle Gould, Port Washington, N. Y., winner of first prize in the collection of 24 varieties, one bloom of each, had among others in his collection extra fine blooms of J. Fraser, Wells' Late Pink, Rose Pockett, D. B. Crane, Queen Mary, Wm. Turner, H. E. Converse, R. C. Pulling, A. L. Angus and F. S. Vallis. The Dale estate, Brampton, Ont., second in the class of 24 varieties, also had some of the finest blooms in the show in their exhibits, their strong blooms being General Hutton, Mrs. Gilbert Drabble, Flamingo, H. E. Converse, Glenview, F. C. Quittenton and Wm. Turner.

Wm. Duckham, gardener to Mrs. D. Willis James, Madison, N. J., had fine examples of Odessa, J. Fraser, Elberon, Wm. Turner, Mrs. Gilbert Drabble, H. E. Converse and Mendon. The E. G. Hill Co., Richmond, Ind., also had some fine blooms in this class; among the leaders were Wm. Turner, Odessa, Mendon, Glenview, F. C. Quittenton and Mrs. Gilbert Dabble.

E. G. Hill Co., Wm. Vert and Chas. H. Totty, Madison, N. J., staged some elegant blooms in the class of 50 assorted varieties in one vase, also in the classes of 12 and 18 blooms each, one vase of Mrs. Gilbert Drabble from Totty being particularly fine, and Mr. Totty was awarded first premium on Wm. Rigby as being the largest bloom in the show.

A. N. Pierson, Inc., Cromwell, Conn., was strongly represented in the classes of large blooms, their vase of Nakota and another of Elberon being very fine.

classes, their variety named Smith's Cameo scoring the highest number of points and winning the sweepstakes silver cup. Josephine Foley and Ogontz are also two very promising new varieties exhibited by this firm.

Chas. H. Totty and the E. G. Hill Co. both staged the new variety Autocrat, a very promising white for commercial or exhibition purposes.

The finest vase of blooms in the show was conceded to be a vase of Wm. Turner, exhibited by Frank Allen, Grosse Pointe Farms, Mich.

The single and pompon varieties were an exhibition in themselves, in some of the classes as many as eight entries being staged in some instances, the Dale Estate, A. N. Pierson, Inc., Mount Greenwood Cemetery Association, Chicago; Chas. H. Totty, R. Vincent, Jr., & Sons, White Marsh, Md.; Fred Pantke, Grosse Pointe Farms, Mich.; E. G. Hill Co. and the Friedley Floral Co., Cleveland, being among the exhibitors. Lillian Doty, Doris, Golden Climax, Golden West, Western Beauty, Iva, Inez, Donald, Mary and Helen Newberry were varieties very much in evidence in all the exhibits.

The rose display was a big feature the second day of the show. The vase of Russell, Ophelia and Shawyer, arranged for effect by F. R. Pierson Co., Tarrytown, N. Y., was a grand exhibit and well-worth of the first prize. A. N. Pierson, Inc., Cromwell, Conn., vase of Hadley, arranged for effect, was another striking attraction and awarded first in its class.

WEILAND & RISCH'S MRS. CHAS. RUSSELL ROSES AT THE CHICAGO SHOW.

The E. G. Hill Co. and the Dale Estate were the leaders in most of vases of 12's, one variety. The vases of F. C. Quittenton and Glenview from the Dale estate were considered among the finest blooms in the show, according to the judgment of most of the growers present.

Elmer D. Smith & Co., Adrian, Mich., were strong as usual in the seedling

Mrs. Bayard Thayer, a new pink rose, exhibited by the Waban Conservatories, Natick, Mass., attracted great attention from the growers, as did the variety Gorgeous, from Chas. H. Totty, Madison, N. J.

Holton & Hunkel, Milwaukee, Wis., had fine Mrs. Russell; the J. M. Gasser Co., Cleveland, a vase of Prima Donna; Cleveland Cut Flower Co., fine Mrs. J.

L. Mock; Lamborn Floral Co., Alliance, Ohio, fine American Beauties; E. G. Hill Co., F. R. Pierson Co. and A. N. Pierson, Inc., fine Ophelia; Chas. H. Totty, the best Francis Scott Key.

S. J. Reuter & Son, Inc., had fine Francis Scott Key and a new corsage rose named Baby Doll from E. G. Hill Co. was a big attraction, and the vase of 50 Golden Wedding arranged for effect by the E. G. Hill Co. were as fine examples of this wonderful old variety as have ever been shown.

C. W. JOHNSON.

Echoes of the Chicago Show.

This event of the floral world has passed into history. Whether it has financially come up to the expectations of those who had the direction of the affair, we do not know, but from every point of view concerning the florist trade, the gardening profession and retail florist art, we certainly can claim for it a big success. Of course, there are those who are ever ready with the advice of what ought, or ought not to have been done, but such is the case with every big undertaking.

Never before have the private gardeners come to the support of a Chicago show as they did at this time, not only with plants and flowers, but with the grand display of vegetables and fruits and just merely calling the readers' attention to the club collections of the Lake Geneva Gardeners' and Foremen's Association, and the North Shore Horticultural Society, does not nearly do them justice. One who had the privilege of watching the unpacking of these exhibits has a better idea of the work that must have been put into getting them together and preparing and packing for show. Ordinary folks do not have a chance very often to even see some of the vegetables shown in these collections. Some perfect specimens of cauliflower, English hot house cucumbers, Brussels sprouts, vegetable marrow, leeks, carrots, parsnips, string beans, tomatoes, salsify, curly kale, cabbage and onions of all sizes in variety, were a revelation to most of the flower show visitors. The same may be said of the many dishes of fine potatoes, perfect in shape and size, and great credit is due the gardeners and foremen of Lake Geneva and North Shore Horticultural Society for the work and care in getting these displays together.

Many remarks were heard of this show having gone to the extreme in catering to the retail displays. This may have been the case, but most of the arrangements were a big attraction to the flower show visitors, though to one who has to produce the flowers, it seemed that a number of the arrangements did not improve the keeping qualities of the flowers, some of them beginning to fade before they had been arranged an hour.

The exhibits of specimen chrysanthemum plants turned out to be stronger than the premium list committee thought would be the case when arranging the schedule, and some very fine plants were shown by Iowa State College, Vaughan's Seed Store and Poehlmann Bros. Co. in the open classes, and in the private gardeners' classes by Mrs. S. W. Allerton (Robert Blackwood, Gr.); J. H. Moore, (A. Martini, Gr.); Charles L. Hutchinson, (Wm. Longland, Gr.); Mrs. F. T. Junkin, (Axel Johnson, Gr.); J. J. Mitchell, (A. J. Smith, Gr.); and J. S. Tilt all had fine exhibits in this section. The private gardeners were also strong in the miscellaneous plant classes; also, in chrysanthemum cut blooms.

One of the most interesting exhibits was a display of seedling pompon, single and anemone chrysanthemums exhibited by the students of the floricult-

Harvard and Glenview were shown in fine shape in their classes.

The rose display was grand—fully up to the Chicago standard, all of the leading varieties being shown and a few new ones.

The carnation classes were well filled, between 130 and 140 entries having tural division of the horticultural department of the University of Illinois, Urbana, Ill. The young men have been working on the cross-fertilization of these subjects for three or four seasons and the display on exhibition shows that their labors have been rewarded with many improvements in these flowers, which should encourage them to continue their efforts with these and other varieties of flowers. The seedlings were all exhibited under number. One yellow pompon, somewhat on the order of Golden West, but larger in size, attracted a great deal of attention and there were two or three very promising white pompon seedlings and one a beautiful shade of pink. Some of the single varieties look to be very good and worthy of more extended trials. We are getting to the point where our list of single and pompon chrysanthemums is becoming too large and some cutting out will have to be done, but there is always room in every collection for the improvement and there appears to be quite a number in this collection from the University of Illinois.

The commercial growers' classes of cut chrysanthemums were well filled with fine stock, Wm. Turner being the leading white variety. White Chieftain was also shown, but it lacked size alongside of Wm. Turner. Chieftain, Well's Late Pink, Mount Greenwood and Dr. Enguehard were the leading pink varieties. Golden Eagle, Yellow Eaton, Marigold, Major Bonnaffon and Golden Chadwick were shown in grand shape. Intensity, Pockett's Crimson, been received and every vase of flowers shown was of the very highest grade. Anton Then staged a fine red seedling. C. H. Frey, Lincoln, Neb., showed a good vase of Nebraska. Bassett & Washburn showed Belle Washburn and Helen Washburn and the J. D. Thompson Co. staged Aviator and Superba. The Mount Greenwood Cemetery Association staged a number of seedlings under number. White Wonder, White Enchantress and Matchless were the leaders in whites. Enchantress Supreme and Pink Delight in light pink, Mrs. C. W. Ward in medium pink, Rosette in dark pink, and Champion in red.

Not many new seedling chrysanthemums were shown. Smith's Cameo won the sweepstakes in the seedling classes, repeating its success with the same award at the Cleveland show.

NOTES.

The plans and pictures exhibited by the landscape department of the Illinois State University which were given a very poor location in the hall received much attention throughout the show.

Postmaster Kasting, of Buffalo, N. Y., and Alderman Otto Koenig, of St. Louis, Mo., were among the trade visitors who registered.

One prominent retailer remarked, "The advertising value of this exhibition to the growers and retailers of the city and suburbs is far greater than all it cost."

The contests of retailers excited much interest and curiosity on the part of store owners and employes throughout the city.

The fine vegetable display of Lake Geneva gardeners was a constant source of interest to the general public.

The judges had great difficulty in deciding many of the contests, but in general their work was satisfactory.

city's exhibit which was entered in competition. The displays staged by amateurs were numerous and very creditable. To give an idea of the magnitude of the show, there were over 130 distinct varieties on exhibition in the chrysanthemum class alone.

Thursday was devoted to special features in floral arrangements, which in-

Mr. Kerr has worked hard with the florists of the state and has aroused widespread interest in this exhibition. Among those to whom awards were made on the opening day were the following:

Best and most artistically arranged collection of plants—City park department (C. L. Brock, Supt.) 1st; Oleander Florist, 2nd.

Best and most artistically arranged collection of ferns—H. H. Kuhlmann, Houston, 1st.

Best group of five hanging baskets—H. H. Kuhlmann.

Best collection of 12 specimen crotons—City Park department.

Twelve coleus—City Park department.

Fifty blooms cut chrysanthemums, two varieties—Rosemont Gardens, Montgomery, Ala. The Rosemont Gardens also won first prize for 15 blooms, white, one variety; best 15 blooms, pink, one variety; best 15 blooms, yellow, one variety, and best one bloom, white, one variety.

VIEW OF THE PASADENA SHOW.

The lecture feature was not popular, although the programme included noteworthy exponents of horticulture.

J. A. Valentine, after seeing the Cleveland and local exhibitions, left for Texas.

The flower dances and floral fashion demonstrations attracted considerable attention.

Large numbers of trade visitors came on from the Cleveland show.

Sixteen left for the Cleveland show Tuesday night and 19 Wednesday.

Houston Flower Show.

Ideal weather and enthusiastic throngs marked the opening of the second annual flower show held in the Auditorium, under the auspices of Texas State Florists' Association, November 18-20. A floral parade, with nearly 100 autos in line, filled with pretty girls bedecked with chrysanthemums, heralded the opening of the event, and when the doors of the exhibition hall were thrown open to the public, the main floor of the large building presented a wonderful display of plants and flowers. Wednesday, the opening day, was designated as "chrysanthemum day," and the "Queen of Autumn" held full sway, thousands of blooms of the finest specimens in many varieties and colors being everywhere in evidence, but while the exhibits in the chrysanthemum classes were most excellent, the divisions devoted to roses presented fine stock in long-stemmed American Beauties, Richmond, and a number of other varieties all well-grown. Plants were seen in profusion, poinsettias, cyclamens, etc., being artistically arranged with ferns. The stage was set to represent an Italian garden with cut flowers, palms and pot plants arranged most effectively, while in the background a throne was half hidden by a bower of choice chrysanthemum blooms. A collection of pot plants grown at the City park in Houston made a very pretty display, the crotons and coleus being part of the cluded splendid showings of bridal bouquets, corsages, mantel decorations and special designs. Many of the latter were of great beauty, chrysanthemums in number being featured in the arrangements. The wearing of flowers by the living models was also a pleasing part of the programme. Bird Forrest, of Waxahachie, Tex., staged one of the finest fern displays ever seen in the south, and he also made an excellent showing of chrysanthemums and carnations. Among others whose displays were noteworthy were the following: Poehlmann Bros. Co., Chicago; Joy Floral Co., Nashville, Tenn.; Alvin Cape Jasmine Floral Co., Alvin, Tex.; Green Floral Co., Dallas, Tex.; Oleander Flo-

Rhode Island Hort. Society Show.

The flower show of the Rhode Island Horticultural Society was held in the ball room of the Hotel Narragansett, Providence, November 11-12, and attracted a big crowd both days. The exhibits this year were very good, the chrysanthemums shown being of especially fine quality. As one entered the exhibition hall the first thing to command attention was the wax figure of a bride dressed for the occasion, and carrying a shower bouquet of lily of the valley and white roses, arranged with adiantum. This was staged by Johnston Bros. and made a good showing, as did a mantel decoration of Garza chrysanthemums in the same section. In the center of the room were staged the chrysanthemum exhibits, both the single vases and the displays of eight and of 25 to a vase, while to the right were the exhibits of amateurs and the display of fruit and vegetables. On the left were the carnations, all of which were excellent, the mantel decoration in this section, arranged by Gene Appleton being awarded first prize. In the rear of the hall and facing the entrance, a splendid arrangement of palms, staged by Macnair, the Florist, attracted much attention. Burke & Burns displayed a collection of roses that were prize-winners and J. A. Foster of the Warwick estate staged chrysanthemums of extra large size. Ferns were displayed by Eugene Seymour of Warren and Howard Army of Simonsville. Specimen ferns were shown by Macnair, the Florist, and Johnston Bros. Prizes were awarded in the various classes as follows:

prize; Albert Holscher, one first prize; C. O. Childs, two second prizes; E. E. Howard, one second prize; Rhode Island hospital, one second prize.

Chrysanthemums in pots—Rhode Island Hospital, one first prize.

Pasadena Flower Show.

The eighth fall flower show held under the auspices of the Pasadena Horticultural Society, October 28-30, was in every respect greater and better than ever before. The commercial exhibits were of the highest class, and private growers and amateurs never showed better specimens than those staged this year. The high school exhibit arranged by the class in horticulture, under direction of Professor Carter, was a feature in itself and the display of cut flowers in variety and begonia pot plants and coleus was highly praised, the begonias being especially good, as was a collection of Jerusalem cherries. Vegetables and fruits also made a fine display.

As the visitor entered the exhibition the masses of yellow and white pot chrysanthemums which met one's gaze formed one of the glories of the show. This was one of the most wonderful displays of its kind ever shown in this section. The plants were outdoor grown and came from the gardens of Mrs. H. C. French of Oak Knoll, Louis Fried of North Holliston, and Mrs. Bullock. In the pompon class few finer collections have been shown than those raised by Wm. Davidson, gardener to R. R. Blacker of Oak Knoll. Among the special features, the pot dahlias, grown by C. G. Forsyth, gardener to E. E. Thalman, San Rafael Heights, were wonderful, while surrounding the fountain were seven-foot specimens of Begonia Haageana and a Polypodium Mandianum, of wonderful dimensions. The finest display of rare begonias ever seen in this city was staged by Dr. A. D. Houghton of Los Angeles, while Dr. Sturdevant of Hollywood showed excellent water lilies, and the Los Angeles park department sent a fine display of Victoria Regina lilies.

In the chrysanthemum classes, the following were the outstanding varieties: Glenview, Wm. Turner, Mary Donnellon, Scalarandis, Geo. W. Hoop, Lady Hopetoun, Ongawa, F. S. Vallis, Brutus, Silver Wedding, Marq. de Pierce and Winthrop Sergeant.

A specimen pot chrysanthemum of the variety Souv. Scalarandis attracted much attention with its 1,000 blooms, while another plant of the same variety, 21 feet in diameter, carried several hundred flowers, and was at all times the center of attraction. J. M. Danziger, of Beverly Hills, also sent a splendid collection of plants, both chrysanthemums and other varieties. Other fine exhibits which commanded attention were staged by H. D. Hubbard, Mrs. A. M. McNally, H. C. Hurd, Mrs. J. S. Torrence, Mrs. H. C. Barroll, Mrs. A. W. Loring and others.

The dahlia exhibit of W. S. Laurie attracted much attention. Hundreds of varieties of this attractive flower were to be seen, arranged bank upon bank in a singularly effective color scheme, making a blaze of bloom. Rose trees and hedge myrtles exhibited by P. W. Jannock were conspicuous and Edward Rust of South Pasadena had an exhibit arranged in pergola style in which a collection of rare plants and shrubs, many from foreign lands, were noticeable. The Clemence Nursery staged a handsome group of flowering plants, included in which were yellow gazanias, begonias and streptocarpus hybrids; also an artillery plant which pops when water is poured upon it and the pollen spreads in a grey cloud resembling smoke. The Balloon Nursery also had ferns and pot plants arranged in an attractive manner, while Geo. W. Smith, formerly of Howard & Smith, had bulbs in variety as his main display. The Morris & Snow Seed Co. also showed bulbs, ferns and begonias. The Patton Seed Co. made a fine exhibit of seeds, bulbs, etc., which was enlivened by flowers in vases, many colored zinnias and fine mignonette being prominent. Campbell's Seed Store featured Sechium edule, otherwise known as the Mexican squash or chayotte. Water lilies, seeds and bulbs also helped to make this booth attractive. Miss Sadie Thomas exhibited a chrysanthemum of a new species, a beautiful strawberry pink, named Mrs. John S. Cravens. A beautiful specimen of Mendon was also part of her exhibit. The Orchid Shop had one of the most dainty displays at the show with bridal bouquets and decorations of orchids and lily of the valley. Paul J. Howard, Los Angeles landscape architect, featured dwarf trees and made a very attractive display out of the ordinary.

William T. Shield was manager of the exhibition and great credit is due him for the able manner in which he brought the show to such a successful termination. The judges were Wm. Donald, E. H. Rust, Alex. Urquhart, Wm. Hertrick, Henry W. Turner and W. Farrell. G. H. K.

Connecticut Hort. Society Exhibition.

The officers and members of the Connecticut Horticultural Society were much pleased and gratified at the success attending their efforts to hold a chrysanthemum show. This event was held in Hartford, November 12. When the chairman of the committee in charge of the exhibition requested one member of that committee to endeavor to secure the old city hall, for many years the historical state house (also known as the famous Bulfinch building), he entertained little hope of having his ambition gratified; and when he announced that he had met with success and that the chrysanthemum show was to be held in this grand old edifice, every member of the society was greatly and pleasantly surprised.

The hall and the stairway at each side, were beautifully decorated with palms and chrysanthemums of all varieties and sizes, including groups of pompons, and a very attractive exhibit of seedlings of anemone flowered chrysanthemums of special merit. The private gardeners and growers very kindly contributed to the success of the show by bringing the best they had, and the committee wishes through the columns of THE AMERICAN FLORIST to thank the exhibitors for their wholehearted response to make the show the best ever given by the society. It is conservatively estimated that some 10,000 visitors viewed the exhibition. There were no premiums offered at this show, although a number of diplomas were awarded by the judges appointed to pass on the merits of the exhibits. The society is proud that it was the first organization in this city to demonstrate for what purposes the old city hall could be used for the entire benefit of the citizens of Hartford.

John F. Huss, superintendent of the James J. Goodwin estate, was awarded a first-class certificate for specimen plants. He exhibited three large vases of white, yellow and pink chrysanthemums in the mayor's reception room, for which a certificate of merit was awarded. A first-class certificate was also awarded his collection of pot plants and pompons. Alfred Cebelius, gardener for Professor Melanthon W. Jacobus, also received a first-class certificate for specimen plant. This plant of R. F. Felton, yellow, attracted a great deal of attention, bearing about 300 blooms. Other plants exhibited by him were Dr. Enguehard, containing some 150 pink blooms, and Lady Lydia, white, this plant being trained fan shape. A striking novelty shown by Mr. Cebelius was the Reine du Japon, a peculiar white bloom with petals like pine needles. He also staged vases of Ophelia, Mrs. Aaron Ward, Mrs. Charles Russell, Hadley and Radiance roses, for which he was awarded a first-class certificate. Fred Boss, gardener at Elizabeth park, was awarded a first-class certificate for cut blooms, and also for pot plants. The south side of the lobby was beautifully decorated by the park department, for which Hartford is famous.

The palms and ferns displayed by A. N. Pierson, Inc., Cromwell, Conn., were rare specimens for size and perfection in growth, and gave the general outline of the exhibition a finishing touch that could not be surpassed by anything else. A table of cut roses came in for their share of praise, especially the new red Radiance rose, which is very similar in color to American Beauty. Both these exhibits were awarded first-class certificates by the judges.

George H. Hale, gardener for W. E. Sessions, of Bristol, was awarded a first-class certificate for seedlings of anemone flowered chrysanthemums of special merit. This exhibit created quite a discussion among some of the visitors, as they were completely at a loss to name it. He also received a certificate of merit for cut blooms. Warren S. Mason, superintendent of the A. A. Pope estate, Farmington, was awarded a certificate of merit for general display. The chrysanthemum display of Elmer D. Smith & Co., Adrian, Mich., was awarded a first-class certificate. The staging of the various exhibits was under the direction of G. H. Hollister, superintendent of Keney park. Edward A. Brassill, manager for W. W. Hunt & Company, was chairman of the committee in charge of the exhibition, and through his untiring efforts the show was a grand success.

ALFRED DIXON, Sec'y.

Essex County Florists' Club Show.

The annual flower show of the above named club was held in the auditorium of L. Bamberger & Co.'s department store, Market and Halsey streets, Newark, N. J., November 11-12. For an initial effort, it was a great success. The growers and retailers of Newark, Irvington and vicinity, are to be congratulated for their enterprise and skill; Bamberger & Co. for their courtesy and the generous donation of two silver cups, and the people of Essex County, who by their interested attendance have shown their appreciation of the painstaking efforts of their friends and neighbors, the florists. The auditorium was practically a mass of bloom, with an appropriate mingling of foliage plants and autumn foliage.

The Bamberger cups were offered, respectively for the best retail and the best exhibit by a grower. Phillips Brothers, 930 Broad street, Newark, with a table and a mantle decoration, took the first named cup. The table decoration was of Sunburst roses.

The cup for the best exhibit of a grower, went to Henry Hornecker, 75 Central avenue, East Orange, N. J., for groups of flowering and foliage plants. He also took other first prizes for chrysanthemums. J. Rassbach, 23 Broad street, Bloomfield, N. J., took second prize for table decoration, of hardy chrysanthemums, and H. C. Strobell & Co., 895 Broad street, Newark, for table decoration of Richmond roses was third. Begerow's, 946 Broad street, Newark, took first for a very meritorious wedding decoration. John Crossley, 29 Belleville avenue, Newark, took first prize for a bouquet of pompons. Other awards follow:

Twelve yellow chrysanthemums — Jacob Hauck, Bloomfield, N. J., 1st.

Collection of pompons — Irvington Greenhouses (Edwin Persson, Gr.), 1st; A. Linsermann, Newark, 2nd.

Group of pot chrysanthemums—W. G. Muller, Newark, special prize; also, first for vase of pink chrysanthemums. Water lilies—Wm. Tricker, Arlington, special award.

Six bronze chrysanthemums—Guttman & Raynor, Inc., New York, with Glenview, 1st.

Twenty-five pink roses—Guttman & Raynor, Inc., with Prima Donna, 1st. Collections of chrysanthemums—Elizabeth Nursery Co., Elizabeth, special prize.

Other awards were as follows:

Chrysanthemums—Plebany & Son, Irvington; E. Jacoby, Irvington; George Penek, Newark; Hauseman Bros., Irvington.

Pompons—C. H. Totty, Madison; Davis & Davis, Newark.

Table ferns—Frank N. Eskensen, Madison.

Carnations—Chas. Weber, Lynbrook, N. Y.; John Pfeiffer, Irvington.

Roses—J. Wagner.

The judges were Walter F. Sheridan and John J. Coan, New York, and Chas. Weber, of Lynbrook, N. Y. Jacob Hauck, of Bloomfield, was chairman of the exhibition committee.

BUSINESS SHOWS GAIN.

As Thanksgiving approached, business began to pick up, and the first of this week was better than at any time within the past fortnight. Colder weather than we have had has succeeded the moderate temperature of the past several weeks. Chrysanthemums continue to be very plentiful and will be in a very large supply for Thanksgiving. The cut of roses is not as large as it was, but still is sufficient to take care of present needs. Carnations are meeting with a good demand. The receipts in Easter lilies are sufficient for present requirements. Sweet peas sell very well. The first stevia of the season made its appearance last week. Other offerings include single and double violets, orchids, lily of the valley and callas. Greens are plentiful and include some very fine smilax.

NOTES.

Jas. Allen, at a recent competitive civil service examination to hold his position as chief nurseryman, was high man with an average of 98.1 per cent.

In spite of an inactive market, E. G. Gillett is able to report a good week's business last week.

P. J. Olinger has been cleaning up very nicely on his roses and carnations.

C. E. Critchell was the first to offer stevia in the market this fall.

Visitors: "Sprinkleproof Sam," Seligman, representing Wertheimer Bros., New York; W. J. Cox, representing Weber and Son, Brookville, Ind.; F. P. Collyer, Falmouth, Ind.; Mrs. Lampert, Xenia, Ohio; Miss Federle, Wm. Loder, Walter Gray and Karl Weiser, Hamilton, O. H.

Minneapolis.

MARKET HAS ITS UPS AND DOWNS.

The market has been very erratic during the past two weeks—one day the demand is brisk, and the next day very quiet. Stock of all kinds is abundant with the exception of American Beauties. Chrysanthemums are still arriving in both standards and pompons in large supply. Many of the growers are only half through cutting. Prices on chrysanthemums range from $1 to $3 per dozen, pompons are selling at 25 to 50 cents per bunch, while American Beauties are selling at $2 to $4 per dozen. Other rose offerings vary in price from three to 15 cents. Carnations are being received in large numbers and are priced at from two to three cents. Lily of the valley is seen in quantity and is offered at four and five cents. Green goods are in good supply at usual prices.

NOTES.

The Whitted Floral Co., as usual has very attractive window displays. At the Fifth street store an orchid arrangement is excellent while the windows of the Nicollet avenue shop are trimmed with blooming plants.

Cal Rice, of Rice Bros. and Mr. Von Bochove and party of Kalamazoo, Mich., are in camp 60 miles north of Grand Marais. The "boys" are awaiting that "big eats" on the return of the hunters.

W. D. Desmond has returned from his trip to the Chicago and Cleveland shows. He is delighted with the trip and what he saw at the exhibitions and met many old friends in both cities.

Merriam Park Greenhouses have a fine lot of blooming plants that are showing up fine for the holidays. This concern won first prize on cyclamen plants at the Chicago show.

W. D. Desmond spoke to the younger florists on "Salesmanship" at the meeting at the Central high school, November 18. A large class was in attendance.

J. E. Beck, gardener for J. F. Wilcox at Lake Minnetonka, has closed up his place for the season and is visiting his many friends here.

The force at the Donaldson greenhouses are cutting some fine Dolly Dimple chrysanthemums 11 inches in diameter.

Don't forget the flower show to be held at the West hotel, December 7-10. Come in and show the best you have.

Wm. Holmes had a very attractive window display, chrysanthemums being arranged with bouvardias.

Cal Vasatka has closed his season at the L. C. Donaldson residence and is back at the greenhouses.

S. W. Cargill has two large houses of extra quality Boston ferns which are meeting with ready sale.

A. S. Rice, of Rice Bros., is busy answering inquiries and booking orders for Christmas novelties.

The Chicago Avenue Greenhouses have added another motor truck to their delivery system.

Oscar Carlson is sending in some extra fine roses, which find ready sale.

Leo Brandt is now plant man for Northrup, King & Co.

The lady florists of this city will give a ball, January 6.

The Eldridge Floral Co. has put in a new store front.

Visitors: Geo. Dysinger, Ionia, Mich.; J. A. Peterson, Cincinnati, O.; H. E. Philpott, Winnipeg, Man.; M. Haageman, Holland. T. C. R.

RESOLUTION ON DEATH OF L. W. KERVAN.

Lawrence W. Kervan, our brother, has joined the innumerable throng. Those of us who knew him best loved him the most. His was a noble character, genuine, unselfish, generous, true as steel. He was a friend worth while. Full of hope and good cheer, he always looked on the bright side of life, and his companionship was an inspiration. Notwithstanding his 72 years of labor and vicissitude, he had the heart and enthusiasm of youth. Such men are needed here. It is not easy to become reconciled to such bereavement as his family suffered when he passed away. Patient and resigned, in much physical suffering, he taught us all the lesson of brave submission to the inevitable, and the faith in immortality. He was not afraid to die; to him there was no sting to death. The grave has lost its victory. It was but crossing, with suspended breath, a little strip of sea, to find

"His loved ones on the other shore,
More beautiful, more precious than before."

Mr. Kervan was born in New York City. He was a veteran of the Grand Army of the Republic, and in the Gallery of the National Museum at Washington his portrait will ever remain, a monument to his loyalty and love of country. He built up the most successful business in evergreens in the world—this also a monument to his unflinching business integrity. He was never heard to speak ill of any man. He was respected by every man who knew him. His name is honored and unsullied, a blessed heritage to his family.

Be It Resolved, That these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of the New York Florists' Club, and that a copy be sent to his bereaved ones.

The Late Otto Stumpff.

Otto Stumpff, who for the past 50 years has been connected with the seed trade of New York, died at his home in West Hoboken, N. J., November 16, aged 69 years. He was born in Germany and came to this city when 19 years old. He secured employment with J. M. Thorburn & Co. and was later with the firm of B. K. Bliss & Son, which has for some years been out of business. For the past 32 years he had a store at 88 Gansevoort street, as the selling agent of Peter Henderson & Co., the principal business being with the farmers and market gardeners who frequent that neighborhood. On October 1, 1915, he severed his connection with Peter Henderson & Co. and retired from the business.

Mr. Stumpff was well known and admired for his straightforward honesty and fair dealing. He is survived by a widow, one daughter, Mrs. Hoehn, and two sons, George Stumpff of the Stumpff & Walter Co., 30-32 Barclay street, and Otto J. Stumpff, who now conducts the store at 88 Gansevoort street on his own account, not being connected with Peter Henderson & Co.

BEACON, N. Y.—Benjamin Hammond, the well known insecticide manufacturer of this place, had an interesting account of the Cleveland show in a local newspaper, November 16.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The annual flower show of Gude Bros. Co. was more beautiful than usual this year, hundreds of colored electric lights and singing birds being used to add to the effect.

KOKOMO, IND.—Miss Elsie Coles' flower shop was thronged with visitors, November 8, the occasion being the formal opening of this handsomely appointed establishment. The interior was a mass of bloom and the artistic arrangement of the flowers and plants made it the prettiest store in the city.

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.—The Minneapolis Tribune in its issue of Sunday, November 21, reproduces a portrait of Theodore Rudolph Wirth, son of Park Superintendent Theodore Wirth, who has been placed in charge of the battalion at St. John's Military Academy, Delafield, Wis., in his second year as a pupil at that school.

GLADIOLUS AMERICA in winter on the Boston market, according to a prominent wholesaler, sells better than any other variety, six to one.

CLEMATIS montana lilacina, a new hybrid, according to description differs little from C. montana rubens, except in its superior vigor—a much desired improvement.

FLORISTS who have had to meet hard times in 1915 may congratulate themselves on the condition of commercial floriculture now compared with conditions in 1903. Then the product of the florist was a luxury, now most of the products of our trade have become necessities. The prices, too, are moving in line with every day needs.

Nephrolepis at Brooklyn Botanic Garden.

At the Brooklyn botanic garden there has been assembled a collection of between 60 and 70 varieties of nephrolepis, over 50 of which are named, as shown in the lists given below. The catalogues of English growers offer about 40 additional varieties which the garden expects to purchase within a few months. In addition to maintaining this collection for the purpose of scientific study, the garden desires to make it of value to American growers of nephrolepis, and makes herewith the following offer. Small plants or runners of any of the plants named will be furnished to growers interested in trying them out, as fast as a limited supply of stock plants will allow. Requests for information regarding any of the varieties listed below will be answered by the writer of this note as completely as available data will permit. Furthermore, the garden is having reprinted the writer's article on nephrolepis prepared for Bailey's Cyclopaedia of American Horticulture, and will be glad to send a copy of this reprint to any grower on request. This contains a general discussion of nephrolepis, with descriptions of all the varieties about which information was obtainable.

In return, growers are asked to send in any new forms which they may produce, and also any old forms, such for example as Barrowsi, which has not yet been obtainable in the United States, although listed in English catalogues. In connection with the cyclopaedia article, the writer will welcome and greatly appreciate notification of any mistakes or omissions, or other information pertinent to the subject.

List 1.—Varieties of N. exaltata of authenticated identification (two or three exceptions noted), the stock plants having been obtained from their original source:

N. exaltata (from Porto Rico); Bostoniensis (Becker); Piersoni (?), elegantissima, elegantissima "improved," elegantissima compacta, superbissima, muscosa, viridissima, "dwarf Boston"; Whitmani, Whitmani compacta, magnifica, gracillima (?); Amerpohli; Clarki, Smithi; Craigii, robusta, Wanamakeri; Scotti, Wagner, falcata; Anna Foster (?); Elmsfordi; Harrisi, Millsi; Roosevelti, Teddy Jr.; Scholzei (typical two-pinnate), Scholzei (3-pinnate, erect lvd.), Scholzei (3-pinnate, spreading); Giatriasi, New York; todeoides (?).

List 2.—Varieties of other species than N. exaltata; identification not yet verified:

N. cordifolia, tuberosa plumosa, pectinata, Duffii, rivularis, new species (?), biserrata (davallioides?), biserrata furcans, hirsutula, hirsutula tripinnatifida, Wittboldi, flocigerata, acuminata, philippinensis, superba (or Westoni).

Besides these, other forms to the number of 10 or 15, are being grown at the garden. Some of them are possibly of no commercial value, but others are of value and are likely to be introduced eventually. The latter have been sent to the garden with the understanding that they will not be allowed to go out.

Big Gain in Chicago Trade.

November promises to be a record-breaking month in the history of Chicago jobbing concerns. Wholesale trade is showing big increases over a year ago. In some departments the dry goods trade is now running double a year ago. Throughout the middle west retail dealers are replenishing their stocks in response to more active buying. In the farming districts, especially, the signs of prosperity, as shown in increased demand for merchandise, are manifold.

An official of the First National bank said November 19: "One of the most encouraging signs is the recent improvement in the lumber trade, which for a long time failed to respond to the better trend in other basic lines. Demand for lumber has recently increased greatly, owing to enlarged building operations and the large orders for cars placed by the railroads. In the south lumber has recently advanced $2 to $2.50 a thousand feet."

SUPPLY SHORT OF DEMAND.

Owing to the dark weather last week, stock in general shortened up so that by Saturday it was difficult to please everybody with the exception of in chrysanthemums. Monday of this week finds roses a very scarce article, with lily of the valley a close second. Carnations are about equal to the demand and will remain so if bright days are the order of the day up to Thanksgiving. The few sweet peas coming in do not cut any figure yet, while the demand for single and double violets is ahead of the supply. The only article about equal to the demand are lilies.

NOTES.

At the C. C. Pollworth Co.'s greenhouses, they claim their chrysanthemums are from one week to ten days earlier than in former seasons, consequently Thanksgiving will about clean them up for this season. They also report the arrival of their azaleas, which in a way was a surprise; they did not show up quite as well though, as in former years. They anticipate a very heavy week.

The next florists' club meeting takes place December 2, annual election of officers for the coming year plus an illustrated talk on his western trip by Thos. Kennedy ought to be enough inducement to insure an exceptionally large attendance.

November 21 or 22 the mercury showed 17 degrees above zero, the coldest so far this season, and delayed outdoor planting for the time being.

Paul Benke, section foreman in the rose houses of the Holton & Hunkel plant at Brown Deer, took unto himself a better half November 17. He expects to move into his new bungalow, which is located near the greenhouses, in a short time. The above firm reports a raft of mail orders for Thanksgiving (day received Monday, November 22).

The Edlefsen-Leidiger Co. will, according to arrangements, move into their new store on Milwaukee street December 1, they will still continue to do business at their Third street store for some time to come.

We are informed that medical herbs and plants will be grown in a botanical garden to be established by the park board next spring in connection with the Mitchell park conservatory.

Albany, N. Y.

Following the success in the Adirondacks of Fred Henkes, former president of the florists' club, about 25 of the members enjoyed a venison supper November 18 at the Albany Cut Flower Exchange. Mr. Henkes succeeded in bringing down a buck during his two weeks' trip into the wilds and the members who were at the supper can testify that it tasted good. Thomas F. Tracey, manager of the Cut Flower Exchange, arranged for the dining service, which was well carried out with the aid of a nearby Chinese restaurant proprietor, who proved equal to the occasion. Short addresses were made by Fred Henkes, Thomas F. Tracey, Edward P. Tracey, and others. A vote of thanks was extended to Messrs. Henkes and Tracey for their hospitality. Harry J. Anderson, representing A. N. Pierson, Inc., Cromwell, Conn., arrived in town the day of the Henkes' dinner and had the unexpected pleasure of being invited to attend. He reports the Pierson concern as putting in extra efforts to capture nursery orders in connection with the landscape work which is going on extensively on large new estates in Connecticut, Long Island and Massachusetts.

Local florists who are remitting funds for azaleas bought in Belgium have received instructions to make drafts payable to a London bank, which will make settlement with Belgian growers after the war. At present there is no way by which remittances may be sent direct to the growers.

Boston:

FOOTBALL SEASON BOOSTS PRICES.

Business has picked up considerably the past two weeks. The Harvard-Yale game did much to stimulate the market, especially in red flowers and violets. In a few cases Intensity chrysanthemums brought as high as $6 per dozen, but the average price was $2.50 and $3. Violets sold readily at $1 per 100. The market is well stocked with chrysanthemums for Thanksgiving trade and the outlook is none too promising. Roses advanced the latter part of the week, as did carnations. The carnation market is growing shorter each day as the dull weather continues and good prices are expected. Lily of the valley is selling better, there being a slight shortage. Snapdragons are becoming more plentiful, but the demand seems to increase with the supply. Stevia and winter flowering Spencer sweet peas have commenced their season and both sell very well. The plant trade is picking up, and promises to be very good for the holiday business.

NOTES.

H. Waldecker, of Braintree, received word that his brother, who has been serving in the German army since the beginning of the war, was killed while in action in Russia. He was fighting in Belgium and Northern France during the first part of the war, but during the summer months was transferred to the Russian front.

Robert Montgomery, of Natick, is very much pleased with the quick service he gets from his new truck in which he makes his daily shipments to Boston. As a time and money saver he says it can't be beat. Next spring he expects to put up a small house in which he will grow chrysanthemums.

P. Welch reports business as growing better each day and believes that from now on, the trade will be much better. He is receiving some fine shipments of pink Killarney roses, as well as good American Beauties. The first Paper White narcissi of the season were seen in his establishment.

The Mishawam Flower Co., of Woburn, are cutting, in addition to chrysanthemums, some very fine winter flowering Spencer sweet peas. Their new, large house will be completed within a few weeks and will be devoted entirely to cucumbers.

Some of the best sweet peas seen in the market are grown by F. Bell, of Stoughton, Mass. They are of fine color and have stems from six to eight inches in length.

D. F. Hutchinson, of Lexington, has a fine lot of Bonnaffon chrysanthemums. Being Thanksgiving week he expects to cut 8,000 blooms.

Wm. Sim, of Cliftondale, is shipping a fine lot of violets and pansies at present. On Saturday, November 20, he sold 55,000 violets.

W. T. Walk, of Salem, is showing some fine specimens of poinsettias and Begonia de Lorraine at his stall in the cooperative market.

Lancaster County Florists' Club.

One o'clock, Thursday, November 18, found Messrs. Nagle, Fleer, Amos Rohrer of Strasburg, and the writer ready for a visiting trip to Mannheim. Enroute we were joined by Harry Weaver and Adolph Peters, making an even half dozen—a small but select party. Arriving at Mannheim, under the guidance of Mr. Nagle, we became lost, but finally discovered the establishment of Phares Hostetter and found this place turned over to calla lilies by the ten thousand and to sweet peas, all in excellent shape. At Monroe Hostetter's we found sweet peas, mignonette, baby primrose, double allyssum, daisies and carnations, and the most remarkable thing of all was that everything was uniformly good, better, as Mr. Hostetter himself said, than the stock has been for the past five years. E. P. Hostetter's is the giant place of the county. His houses of Asparagus Sprengeri and plumosus are right on the job as a money-making proposition, and one lot of plumosus is laden down with seed. A house of yellow daisies three years old was in full bloom and an evidence of what can be done by careful culture. In his carnations, of which there are tens of thousands, one house was a partial failure, but the balance were in fine form, and especially those that had been planted in all summer. A house of Matchless, 400 feet long, planted from two-inch pots in June, were magnificent, the flowers being as good as those shown by the originators in New York the year previous to its introduction.

At 7:30 p. m. President Barr rapped the meeting to order, and after hearing a report from the visiting committee on our afternoon trip, in which the chairman told the officers and the members what he thought of the small delegation, we proceeded to business. The dahlia show committee reported expenses amounting to about $25, which the fair association should have paid, but refused to do, and the club assumed the bill. The visiting committee reported arrangements for a trip to Lititz next month, and as we have never visited Lititz, it is likely that the half dozen for this trip will be six or more times six for Lititz.

Short talks on chrysanthemums were made by B. F. Barr, who switched off into a general talk on the psychology of plant growing with some very fine theoretical ideas that we would all be only too glad to work out if we could. Harry K. Rohrer gave a list of varieties for early, midseason and late that they had found valuable. He also asked the members to try and grow a few blooms for our show, which we intend holding in 1916. Rudolph Nagle gave his experience with the early varieties and Chas. Tucker gave some of his experiences as an amateur grower, all of which were very interesting to the members, of whom there was a goodly attendance, including our ever-ready out-of-town member, T. J. Nolan, of the King Construction Co. In line with the suggestions of Harry K. Rohrer as to the members growing some exhibition blooms for our show next fall, it was decided to send out a list of varieties suitable for this purpose and let every member check up which he would volunteer to grow so as to get a good variety and not too much duplication. This line of action is made necessary by the fact that there are only a few members who grow chrysanthemums, and yet all want a part in the preparation for this show. On the exhibition table F. Spihner exhibited a fine vase of Roman Gold. H. D. Rohrer showed single blooms of Wm. Turner, Dolly Dimple and Nakota that were strictly in the exhibition class. B. F. Barr staged Wm. Turner, Amorita, Harvard, Thanksgiving Queen, Patti and Rosette, all first flowers.

For the December meeting there will be an oyster supper and a general social time held in the Brennman building, with prizes for bowling, billiards and pool, and a doctor to look after the man who eats the most oysters. "Dutch treat," $1.25 per head, and we hope to have some of our out-of-town friends with us for this occasion.

ALBERT M. HERR.

Kansas City.

The market has been well supplied with stock during the past week and the quality has shown improvement. Chrysanthemums still hold the lead. They are very plentiful and with fine large blooms, find a ready sale. Roses are coming in in larger quantities, but are still high in price. Carnations are of very good quality and lilies are also plentiful. Funeral work and decorations have been plentiful.

NOTES.

It is with sincere regret that we hear of the death of Mrs. W. J. Barnes, whose death occurred November 19, and the deepest sympathy is extended to Mr. Barnes and his family by many friends in the trade. Mrs. Barnes was born in Bridgeton, Me., in 1865. She was married in St. Louis in 1883, and came to this city, and has lived at her present address for more than 25 years. She is survived by her husband, W. J. Barnes, well-known florist of this city, five sons, William John, Jr., Edwin J., Herbert H., florists; Walter R., attorney; Frank L., cashier and one daughter, Miss Ruth Sidonia Barnes, all of Kansas City. Many beautiful floral tributes bore testimony to the high esteem in which Mrs. Barnes was held by a host of friends, and for which, together with many expressions of sympathy, we have been requested to express to the florists the thanks of the bereaved family.

T. J. Noll & Co. are handling roses, chrysanthemums, carnations and lilies in abundance. The violets seen here are also very fine. Trade both in cut stock and supplies is reported very good.

Miss Hattie Jewell, formerly located at 211 East Eleventh street, has moved to her new location at Eleventh and Walnut streets. The trade wishes her success in her new store.

H. Kusik & Co. report out-of-town trade exceptionally good. They are having a big run on yellow chrysanthemums and cannot get stock enough to fill all orders.

The Wm. L. Rock Flower Co. have booked quite a number of orders for decorations during December. This firm reports very satisfactory business in both decorations and funeral work.

Arthur Newell has recovered from his recent accident, when he was run down by an automobile on his ranch in Texas, and is back on the job again.

A. Mohr is sending in some cinerarias of high quality. H. H. C.

Buffalo.

CHRYSANTHEMUMS STILL LEAD.

Trade and weather are about as in other localities. Stock is equal to all demands and of very good quality. Chrysanthemums are still the flower called for and will be until after Thanksgiving, when it should cease to be offered for sale. The reason for the chrysanthemum's popularity is the brevity of its sale, thus making the public look forward to the time when this flower is in bloom. Early forcing and late blooming have a tendency to depreciate its value. There are too many other flowers of equal beauty that should have their season. This only applies to flowers that are specified as autumn, spring or summer blooming flowers. Roses are improving in quality, and the supply is equal to all demands. The calendar last week had several receptions and a few weddings of very fair proportions. This week's indications are good, not counting Thanksgiving.

The Buffalo delegation that were fortunate in visiting the Cleveland show are loud in their praise of the exhibition. It certainly was well managed and the exhibits sent from far and wide, together with what was grown and shown by the local growers could not help but be a success. The advertisement of John D. Rockefeller for the children, and the specimen plant sent by Adolph Lewisohn, Ardsley, N. Y., were alone worth complimenting the management upon; also, the able press representative, who alone could get that amount of advertising gratis. Wm. F. Gude, in his remarks at the banquet, was right when he said it was the best advertised show ever, and other cities would have to hustle. All congratulation to Cleveland. We in Buffalo can say that F. C. W. Brown, and the "time they run on", are from Buffalo.

The funeral of Col. Francis G. Ward, who for 14 years was commissioner of public works for this city, and a man of wide acquaintance and of very high esteem was held. The display of flowers was possibly the largest and the most varied of any seen here in a long time, every conceivable design with the possible exception of a Gates Ajar was there, and the work of nearly every florist, from the most elaborate design to the simple cluster. All had orders for the Colonel's friends were legion. He was as high as the Masonic fraternity could confer and a member of almost every other society.

The Buffalo trade is now able to look at another name on a Main street store. Chas. Felton has bought out the business of Beyer, the Florist, on Main street near Utica street. This makes the fifth change in this store's proprietorship in less than five years.

BISON.

Round About Thanksgiving Time.

Oh, the time is getting nearer when I'll pack my grip and fly
To the little home off yonder where the meadows touch the sky.
Where the cribs are fairly bursting with the corn they've gathered in
And the orchards now are sleeping till the days of spring begin,
Where the dear old mother waits me and the dear old dad looks wise
As he views the shining turkey and the row of pumpkin pie.
And I almost hear him chuckle: "It's Thanksgiving day once more!
Soon a mighty hungry feller will be knockin' at the door."
I can see the dear old mother in the kitchen bakin' things
That would glad the eyes and palates of the proudest of our kings.
I can see the pumpkin glowing as she fills the snow white crust,
And my soul this very minute feels the old time wanderlust.
Oh, I'll soon be treading backward o'er the paths that once I knew
To the old home in the valley, to the old folks, good and true.
You were right, dad, when you chuckled as you paced the kitchen floor,
"Soon a mighty hungry feller will come knockin' at the door."
You can bet I'm mighty hungry—mighty hungry just to see
The old smiles beaming brightly and to feel they're all for me.
Oh, I'm hungry just to kiss you and to feel your arms again
Sort of loving-like around me as you once embraced me when I was leaving for the city, and I'm hungry just to squeeze
Dear old mother as I used to and to sit upon her knees.
Oh, there is no use denying it's Thanksgiving Day once more.
"Soon a mighty hungry feller will come knockin' at the door."

CLUB MEETING.

A meeting of the florists' club was held at the Missouri Botanical garden, November 18, when plans for the coming meeting of the American Carnation Society were discussed and sub-committees announced. A. F. Ammann, vice-president of the national carnation organization, urged that every effort be put forth to make this the banner meeting of the society. In view of the short time to complete preparations the club's spring show for 1916 was abandoned.

Resolutions on the death of the late Wm. C. Young were presented. Mr. Young, who died suddenly November 11, was formerly connected with the concern of C. Young & Sons Co., and more recently the Young Bros. Floral Co. Mr. Young was born at Toronto, Ont., about 50 years ago and was an ex-president of the club.

The next meeting of the club will be held December 9 and a meeting of the officers is scheduled for November 29 at the home of Wm. C. Smith.

NOTES.

About 100 attended the Shaw banquet at the Liederkrantz club, November 19, representing all branches of the trade. J. K. M. L. Farquhar, of Boston, Mass., was the speaker of the occasion, his subject being "European Bulbs," more particularly the production of Dutch bulbs, illustrated by stereopticon slides.

THANKSGIVING SUPPLY SHORT.

Local florists experienced last week to some extent the usual quietness that just precedes a holiday period. Thanksgiving week started off with stocks that were not expected to be adequate to demand in chrysanthemums and pompons. Some anxiety was also felt about carnations. The latter are of excellent quality, but cuttings have not been very profuse for the past ten days. They have reached the price of 75 cents a dozen, the highest this fall, and choice blooms it is thought will soon go to a dollar. There is a good supply of roses, in variety. Killarneys, Ophelias and Sunbursts are the best sellers. Cuttings of American Beauties are fine, the maximum Thanksgiving time price being $12 per dozen. Sweet peas are shown in limited qualities, and command 50 cents a bunch. Primrose and cyclamen are the early winter potted plants that have made their appearance. Bulbs are still very active. One florist reports $700 worth of fall bedding now on hand.

NOTES.

The Art Floral Company, doing business in the Keith Theatre building, is starting a new store in the Hartman building, East Main street, to be known as the Hartman Floral Shop. Although opened up for trade with a temporary outfit, it will be near Christmas time before the fixtures are ready to install. The finish will be silver gray. Mr. Graf, the head of the two stores, says that the new Hartman place will be the handsomest in Ohio.

An attractive new front is being put in by the Munk Floral Company, in the Hunting Bank building, which will give much better effect in display. Above the show windows, extending across the full frontage will be an electric sign.

Business is rapidly taking on the usual peace volume and is well up to the average in all sections of the country, notwithstanding war conditions. Stocks of plants and supplies in the hands of retailers are said to be unusually low and with the demand almost normal this seems an unusually good time to interest the buyers

Rates as usual, $1.00 per inch, single column width; $30.00 per page of thirty inches. Usual discounts on time contracts.

JOSEPH HEACOCK CO., Railway Station, Jenkintown, Wyncote, Pa.

Tri-City Florists' Club.

The November meeting of the Tri-City Florists' Club was held at the conservatories at Vander Veer park. The chrysanthemum show being at its height, was open for inspection to members of the club, and compared favorably with the show of former years. While not many new ones were shown, the older varieties were well represented; also pompons in great variety. A novelty of merit at the conservatory was a chance seedling of Primula obconica of a fine pink shade with double flowers, some half dozen or more of the plants propagated from the original seedling being on display. They showed up well and ought to make a good addition to this popular flower.

The meeting was called to order by President Harry Bills. In addition to the regular order of business the question of holding a Tri-City flower show the coming year was brought up, and the following committee appointed to consider the advisability of holding the same and report at next meeting: Moline—John Staack, Arvid Anderson, C. Sorenson, Rock Island—H. Gaethje, L. Stapp, Ed. Patten. Davenport—Wm. Goos, H. Pauli, C. J. Reardon.

Messrs. Anderson and Reardon each gave a talk on the Chicago flower show that proved both interesting and instructive. Chas. Schwake, of New York, a visitor, also gave a short and interesting address, comparing the Cleveland and the Chicago shows. John Williamson, of Boston, also a visitor, favored the club with a talk on clematis. C. O. E. Boehm, superintendent of parks, then announced supper, and the club were unanimous in the belief that it was one of the best meetings yet held by the club. After expressing a vote of thanks to Mr.

and Mrs. Boehm, the club adjourned to meet Thursday, December 8, with Ed. Patten and J. Haussen in Rock Island, Ill., at the Patten residence. Wm. Goos, Sec'y.

INDIANAPOLIS, IND. — The Indiana State Horticultural Society at its annual meeting in this city, November 12, elected the following officers: Wm. M. Walton, Jr., LaPorte, president; C. G. Woodbury, Lafayette, vice-president; M. W. Richards, Lafayette, secretary-treasurer.

DAYTON, O.—The annual fall opening and chrysanthemum show at the greenhouses of the Miami Floral Co., November 7, was a magnificent display and brought forth many compliments. More than 4,000 visitors attended during the day. Manager Rodgers was congratulated on all sides for the splendid exhibition.

EARLY THANKSGIVING DEMAND IS GOOD.

The demand for stock for Thanksgiving is good and from present indications it appears as if stock in all lines will clean up completely before the rush is over. The shipping trade is especially good and many of the local retail dealers have placed their orders already and while the heaviest city demand has not yet set in, prices are holding firm and a grand clean-up is expected. The weather at this writing is ideal, but the cold snap last week had much to do with the shortening up of stock and roses especially are in short supply. Violets are bringing as high as $1.00 per 100 for choice stock and orchids have sold for $9.00 and $12.00 per dozen, with very little stock available at these figures. American Beauty roses are none too plentiful and fancy stock easily brings $5.00 per dozen. Mrs. Chas. Russell roses did not sell any too well last week, but are in better demand now and are bringing higher prices. Sweet peas are selling nicely and the supply of lily of the valley is none too plentiful. Carnations are in good demand and the same holds good for chrysanthemums and pompons, which are plentiful at this writing, but will no doubt be pretty well cleaned up by Thursday noon. Stevia, Paper White narcissi, snapdragons, calendulas, mignonette, gardenias and gladioli are among the offerings, but are none too plentiful. Green goods of all kinds are plentiful and some especially fine boxwood, wild smilax and winter berries are to be had. It appears as if stock in other sections of the country is none too plentiful either, for several local wholesalers have been called upon to fill orders from other markets and if the weather continues to be good there is no question but what stock will clean up at an early hour, and one thing that is particularly noticeable this year is the absence of pickled stock, but at that some of the chrysanthemums have been held too long and should have been discarded instead of being shipped into the market.

NOTES.

Albert F. Amling Co. has placed the contract for its new range at Maywood, consisting of nine houses, 44x550 feet, with the American Greenhouse Manufacturing Company, with headquarters in the Masonic Temple. The new plant will cover about 220,000 square feet of ground space, which means 270,000 square feet of additional glass surface added to the total which supplies the local market. The houses will be of steel frame construction and the contract calls for completion next May. The land is graded and the work of actual building started November 22. The American Greenhouse Manufacturing Company has the entire contract, including the erecting labor, and it is understood that the cost of the finished range, with the service building, will run close to $135,000. The proprietors of the American Greenhouse Manufacturing Co. are Philip L. McKee, B. F. Dupre and James E. Jones, and the deal was closed by Mr. McKee, who feels that it is a splendid start for a firm that has been in business for only a few weeks. The new range will be one of the finest in the country and the heating will be vacuum steam, with some new inventions of Mr. McKee's. Every greenhouse manufacturer in the city was asked for bids, which were inspected by Albert F. Amling, Otto Amling and Wm. Collatz, officers of the company.

Bassett & Washburn had a large order for orchids November 22, but was unable to fill it owing to the extreme scarcity of this stock. Mr. Washburn reports business as brisk this week, with an unusually large number of shipping orders for Thanksgiving.

N. J. Wietor says that Wietor Bros. will be able to cut pompons almost up to Christmas, but that this week will mark the end of their chrysanthemums. The out-of-town demand for stock for Thanksgiving is brisk and considerably better than last year-

Felix Reichling says that the out-of-town demand for stock at Peter Reinberg's store for Thanksgiving was never better and that the sales so far this week compare most favorably with those of the corresponding week last year.

Fred Wolfram, proprietor of the Warrington Flower Shop, supplied a large department store at Oshkosh, Wis., with Mrs. Chas. Russell roses for its opening, November 20.

Joseph Michal, 6414 South Halsted street, has a splendid establishment and reports business as good. He is presenting each of his customers with a handsome 1916 calendar.

Robert Northam, manager at George Reinberg's store, predicted a shortage of roses for Thanksgiving some time ago, but did not expect to find the supply as short as it really is.

W. J. O'Carroll, florist at the Chicago University, and Miss Noonan were married Tuesday, November 16.

WIETOR BROS.

162 N. Wabash Ave., Long Distance Phone, Randolph 2081. CHICAGO

Dr. Arthur J. O'Keefe and two of his friends called on Charles Erne at Erne & Klingel's store one day last week to pay their respects and succeeded in jollyng him to such an extent that they got his number. A few days afterward he received a package through the mails which proved to be a small Angora packed in a crate and labeled, "Charlie's goat." The little nannie is on display at the store where all of his friends can see it and everyone is surprised to learn that such a good natured fellow as he is ever had such an animal in his possession.

Poehlmann Bros. Co. has just received a large importation of kentias from Belgium which came through in very nice shape and meet with the approval of H. M. Oeser, superintendent of the palm department. This firm has a nice stock of begonias and cyclamens for the holidays and reports a good clean-up of chrysanthemum pot plants.

O. Johnson says that the Batavia Greenhouse Co. has had a good demand for American Beauty roses all fall and that prices have been very satisfactory. His sales during October were unusually good, but this month's are running about the same as last year.

A. E. Hunt & Co. are cutting some very fancy Chicago White and Etoile d'Or daisies, for which the demand is heavy. They have a nice stock of these plants in both varieties for wholesale purposes and are now filling orders for same.

Percy Jones had his usual large supply of chrysanthemums to supply his customers with for Thanksgiving. Boxwood is in good demand at this house and so are green goods, which are always leaders at this store.

John Paulus, 4501 North Clark street, is enjoying a good season and his new conservatory is coming in handy.

Arthur Paulus is in charge at the store and is busy making preparations for the holiday season.

A. T. Pyfer & Co. are well pleased with the number of out-of-town orders that they received for Thanksgiving stock and expect to clean up completely in all lines before the rush is over.

A. L. Vaughan & Co. report a busy week, with a brisk local and shipping demand. This firm is showing a nice line of stock, with fancy American Beauty roses the principal offering.

R. Mohr, manager for A. Lange, has returned from St. Louis, where he attended the annual meeting and banquet of the Missouri Botanical Garden alumni.

Joe Erringer, of the Zech & Mann force, has the sympathy of the trade in the loss of his mother whose death occurred Monday evening, November 22.

Mrs. N. P. Miller, who underwent an operation at the Wesley hospital November 17, is improving and will be able to be about soon.

Heaton Nichols, of the Joliet Nurseries, will open a new store in the Adam Arcade at Joliet, on Ottawa street, next week.

Zech & Mann report the early Thanksgiving demand as good and much better than last year.

Weiss Bros. have opened a new store at 541 East Forty-seventh street.

GOOD THANKSGIVING TRADE ANTICIPATED.

Thanksgiving week opened up bright and cold and all indications point to a good business. Stocks of all kinds are fairly plentiful, and in some cases notably that of roses and carnations, there is an oversupply, and the latter are being disposed of at special sale prices by many retailers. Roses with long stems have also been selling at reasonable prices, but prices will doubtless advance with the holiday demand. Carnations are now passe; the height of their popularity has waned and the quality is not what it should be. Funeral work has helped to move much of the stock on the wholesalers' tables. Pot plants are in fairly good supply and cyclamens are enjoying a lively sale.

CLUB MEETING.

The meeting of the florists' club following the flower show was marked by a celebration over the success of the club's initial effort and the show committee presented its final report. The show has demonstrated that the club can make a success of anything it undertakes, where there is co-operation. Increased business for all will be the inevitable result, and the educational value of these shows cannot be overestimated.

NOTES.

Florists of this city evinced a great interest in the Cleveland flower show, which they are unanimous in praising as a wonderful affair in every respect. Among those who visited the neighboring sixth city were, Harry Heint and wife, Frank M. Schramm and wife, Mrs. J. B. Freeman, Earle Metz, E. J. Bayer, Thomas Magee, Wm. and Otto Krueger, E. A. Kuhnke, Max Spanner and Mrs. E. Suder.

Max Spanner got some desirable publicity one day last week when an actress playing in one of the theatres purchased an ankle bouquet of him which created a lot of attention on the crowded streets. The newspapers ran a cut of the young lady and gave Spanner honorable mention.

Late to bed and early to rise is the perverted slogan of Schramm Bros. these days. The reason: two new houses just finished that must be planted and made productive. Business with this firm has been making substantial gains right along.

Feniger, Adams Street florist, has purchased a new Overland delivery car. His splendid windows are displaying some handsome specimens of Mrs. Russell and Ophelia roses.

CHEYSANTHEMUMS IN SHORT SUPPLY.

The warm fall weather has caused a shortening of the chrysanthemum supply, with the result that choice blooms for Thanksgiving will be scarce. The annual football game between the high and the manual training schools was a banner event for the local florists, as the school colors on one side were purple and gold, while the other school used red and white, with the result that red and white flowers were in great demand, and large quantities of chrysanthemums in both yellow and white were disposed of. The two schools have combined for the Thanksgiving day game, at which time they will play a Chicago team, but the coalition of colors, blue and gray having been selected, will spoil the sale of chrysanthemums and the florists are in a quandary as to how to meet the combination, as few violets are grown here, and at that one color only would be supplied.

NOTES.

At the Barton-Morton wedding, a society event, which took place November 19, the bridal flowers and decorations, furnished by F. Walker & Co., were a feature. The decoration at the church was beautiful, the altar and steps being ornamented with pot ferns and palms and on the altar table were vases filled with white chrysanthemums. Down the aisle, marking the pews for the reception guests and two families, were 14 newel posts, white, topped with same white flower and tied with white tulle. At the Woman's Club, where a reception followed the ceremony, decorations of yellow and green were used. The walls were garlanded with Southern smilax and between the windows were rustic pockets filled with yellow chrysanthemums. In the windows were boxes filled with cut flowers. The bridal table was round and suspended from above was a hoop of smilax. From this fell a shower of white ribbons of different widths and lengths and tied to each end was a small bunch of lilies of the valley and Mrs. Aaron Ward roses. This arrangement was reflected in a round mirror in the middle of the table. This mirror was banked with maidenhair fern, and looking into this lake were a number of dainty bluebirds.

Last year the price of Paper White narcissus during a good part of the winter was $1 per 100, wholesale, for good stock and could not even be sold at that price. In consequence this year the growers are producing very small quantities. A. Rasmussen grew 60,000 last year. This year he will only have 10,000 and other growers have cut down in proportion, so it is assumed that prices will at least be about normal.

November 23 was "Flower Day" at the show given by the Ohio Falls Fanciers' Association. As the armory, the scene of the exhibition, is one of the largest in the United States, there was plenty of room and the local florists staged an excellent display.

Carl Puckett, an employe of the F. Walker & Co.'s greenhouses, has been taken to Bowling Green for treatment, having been bitten by a dog, which examination showed was suffering with rabies.

F. H. Hustedt, R. R. No. 2, Jeffersonville, Ind., has embarked in the florist business. He has built two houses, each 28 by 130 feet, which will be planted to carnations and chrysanthemums.

A. Rasmussen is cutting as fine a grade of roses and carnations as have been seen in this market. W.

Rochester, N. Y.

TRADE IS QUIET.

Business during the past week has been quiet, with very little general work. There are few weddings and they are as a rule small affairs. Counter trade is slack. Chrysanthemums are in light supply, being held back for the Thanksgiving trade. Bonnafon is the great favorite in the yellows. Pompons are arriving in large numbers, but the call for them is rather light. Carnations are very good and the price on them holds firm. Enchantress, Winsor and Beacon are the favorites. In roses, the Killarneys, Mrs. Ward, Francis Scott Key and Taft are all good. Lily of the valley is excellent in quality and orchids are also very fine. Prospects of a big Thanksgiving day business are entertained.

NOTES.

H. E. Wilson has very attractive display windows. Large vases of chrysanthemums, arranged with pretty baskets of flowers of all colors in variety, are seen at this establishment.

John B. Keller & Sons had excellent decorations for a wedding November 20, at both church and residence. Several hundred chrysanthemums, in addition to other stock, were used.

Geo. J. Keller has some good Primula obconica in bloom at present, though the plants are rather small. He is also cutting very good chrysanthemum stock.

The Rochester Floral Co. have arranged attractive baskets of pompons in white, yellow and bronze in their display window.

Harry P. Neun is still cutting chrysanthemums, which he disposes of readily in the local market.

TRADE READY FOR THANKSGIVING RUSH.

A review of the local market the past week discloses a very satisfactory condition for despite the heavy influx of stock, the spirited demand reported by nearly every dealer consumes it all with the exception of some short roses of poor quality and chrysanthemums of the same class. Many important social functions kept some of the florists exceptionally busy the past week and the same dealers report advance orders for similar work the present week, and indications point to a record breaking Thanksgiving trade for all and preparations are already being made to care for it.

NOTES.

Fred Pautke, Grosse Pointe Farms, Mich., showed some of his novelties in pompon and anemone chrysanthemums at the Cleveland show. His No. 62, Delphine Dodge, an early pink pompon, and No. 13, Francis Alger, a beautiful yellow, both were awarded the Chrysanthemum Society of America's certificate of merit. Romaine Warren, an orange bronze, is a pompon of special merit. These as well as several other varieties of Mr. Pautke's production will be disseminated in 1916, all with the exception of Francis Alger being controlled by A. N. Pierson, Inc., Cromwell, Conn.

The Broadway Flower Shop, H. W. Metz, proprietor, recently moved to 72 Broadway, where the room is much larger than their former quarters and the general appointments much improved. Mrs. Taylor, sister of Mr. Metz, will soon join the force and will have charge of the books and telephone calls.

Mrs. Van Der Ecken, 542 Mt. Elliot avenue, now has a pretty store, with greenhouses in the rear, where carnations and pot plants are grown. Funeral work and cemetery planting is given special attention.

The ladies' auxiliary of the florists' club will give a ball, Thursday evening, December 2, in the Hotel Statler for the benefit of the Child Welfare Society.

MARKET SHOWS IMPROVED TONE.

While there are still great quantities of flowers coming to the market, the tone is better, there having been a much better demand the past week on account of important weddings and a number of debutante teas. All the stocks show improvement; roses are gaining with each week, coming with longer stems and better flowers. Carnations are also several grades higher; some Gorgeous seen the past week were particularly fine. Violets have shortened up with a vengeance, due no doubt to the close proximity of Thanksgiving day. The flowers will keep on the plants for a week or so and smell considerably. They will no doubt be offered in quantity for Thanksgiving. Cattleyas have been virtually out of sight, the past week. One or two at a time was all that could be found in the commission houses some days the past week, price, 75 cents to $1. Snapdragon is to be had now with fairly long stems. Good mignonette and some very choice bouvardias are offered. There are a few pussy willows; these should be left on until after the first of the year. Callas and Easter lilies are plentiful. There are still quantities of chrysanthemums with Bonnaffon and Maud Dean in the lead, but the coming week will about wind them up.

CHARLES GRAKELOW'S OPENING.

An interesting event the past week was the opening of the new store and greenhouse of Charles Grakelow, adjoining the southwest corner of Broad and Cumberland streets. The lot is about 18 by 120 feet, the space being about equally divided by store and greenhouse. The entire woodwork is finished in silver oak. There is a large show window, and ribbon and show cases occupy the wall space on the left of the entrance on the opposite side. A well designed and commodious refrigerator flower case gives ample room for this very necessary stock, while an automatic ice machine controls the temperature. In the rear of the store are the working tables where orders are put up and the design work arranged. Opening from, and directly in the rear is the greenhouse. This is kept well stocked with plants and is a most useful adjunct to the business. The opening days of Friday and Saturday found the store thronged, particularly in the evening, when a collation was served. This establishment which is now making a bid for business on a larger scale, was started 15 years ago in a small way at 1432 Cumberland street; later on 1434 was added. Hard work and the bright cheerful personality of Mr. Grakelow are the main factors in the success of this business, which has culminated in the possession of the present beautiful store. He has the best wishes of the entire craft for his continued success.

NOTES.

The reports of the wonderful success of the Cleveland and Chicago exhibitions as depicted and described in the trade press has made a great impression on the craft here, particularly those in charge of the preparatory work of the coming fourth national show. The many points made with such telling effect in the direct and indirect advertising were wonderful.

The publicity director and his assistants appear to have been inspired with their many successes, the crowning glory of their work, being in the Cleveland show, the obtaining of the immense sum from John D. Rockefeller, which paid for the admission of the 60,000 school children and teachers. These western hustlers have blazed the way; they show what can be done and we must wake up this community in the next few months and in some Ther-kildsonian manner, get the people show crazy. What a wonderful impetus to the business these great shows must be to the whole trade in these cities which cannot help but be greatly benefited by them.

Bonnaffon chrysanthemums of the highest grade are headliners with the Berger Bros. Violets and select lily of the valley are also features.

American Beauty roses of quality and chrysanthemums are the features with the Leo Niessen Co. Cypridemiums are seen in quantity.

All the supply men of this city who attended the Cleveland show are loud in their praises of the exhibition and the business secured.

Beauties together with the best teas are leaders in Edward Reid's list of quality roses. Those Pierson chrysanthemums are still in stock.

About the only gardenias in town are the fadeless variety seen on the coats of the ladies who promenade Chestnut street.

The Philadelphia Wholesale Florists' Exchange expects a full supply of gardenias soon. Violets are a feature here.

GENERAL OVERSUPPLY CROWDS MARKET.

There has been no change for the better in the condition of the wholesale market since our last notes were written. "Too many chrysanthemums," is the general verdict heard in the cut flower district. During the latter part of the past week the supply of roses diminished, but there are yet more than enough to supply the demand. Carnations, violets and sweet peas all hang heavily on the hands of the wholesalers. In fact, there will be no clearing of the situation until the supply of chrysanthemums has greatly diminished. Orchids are not plentiful and the tendency of prices has been upward, the better stock of cattleyas wholesaling at the rate of $50 and $75 per 100. There is no material change in lilies and lily of the valley. The weather was fine until November 19, when a driving rain storm set in. The outlook for Thanksgiving week is problematical.

November 20.—After a great storm of wind and rain, particularly wind, the weather has cleared and is much colder. There was some improvement in business to-day and it is hoped that it will continue and that Thanksgiving business will be good. The tendency in prices for American Beauties and the better grades of tea roses is upward. Good Cattleya orchids have touched the dollar mark. Gardenias continue scarce and wholesale for $3 and $4 per dozen, $5 and $6 in some instances being the asking price. Special roses are worth all they are selling for, as there is excellent stock on the market of American Beauty, Killarney Queen, Alice Stanley, Ophelia, Prima Donna, Hoosier Beauty, Mrs. Aaron Ward and Sunburst. Florence Behre is another good rose. Violets have somewhat recovered, but are not moving very freely. Chrysanthemums and carnations continue slow. Stevia is now on the market.

NOTES.

Traveling men from every section of the country frequently visit this city and they, as a rule, are good judges of the condition of business. It seems to be the consensus of opinion that the west is prosperous. William F. Gude, of Washington, D. C., who, while not strictly speaking, a commercial traveler, does travel to about all the leading events, was at the Cleveland show. He says: "I saw the greatest show ever staged in the United States—the best and most practical advertising." Washington papers, received here, speak highly of a show that has been in progress at the Gude Brothers Co.'s store during the past week. One writer says that thousands of people have visited it and that they have received commendations from the justices of the supreme court down to the humble citizen. Here's chapeau bas to our old friends and neighbors.

John J. Coan, who seven years ago, opened the wholesale store, as manager, for the Growers' Cut Flower Company, and has through these years been active and successful in increasing the business, has tendered his resignation, to take effect November 27. Mr. Coan is an all-around man in the florist business. He served an apprenticeship with the late firm of Pitcher & Manda and other good growers. Later he was in the retail business with the Bloomingdales, and manager for John King Duer, while he was in the florist business. He is yet young, able and energetic, and whatever his next venture may be, he will have the good wishes of many friends who have been his growers, customers and competitors.

The Wholesale Commission House of Canada, Featuring the Products of its Best Growers

"The statement has been made, probably without justification, that no man living knows the way around Brooklyn." Whether there is justification or not, we are convinced that the celebrated labyrinth of Minos, King of Crete, had nothing on Brooklyn. However, we keep on trying to get around it, and on every trip we find some good florists, who, to the best of their ability, are willing to help us out. One of these is Isaac Abrams, 123 Seventh avenue, Isaac is a constant buyer in the wholesale district of New York and his store is now very attractive, the finest quality of chrysanthemums being noteworthy. He also keeps up a good stock in all other lines and is doing a good business.

At the store of Paul Meconi, on the ground floor of the Coogen building, Sixth avenue and 26th street, we have recently noticed very fine stock of chrysanthemums in great variety. He also handles fine orchids, roses and carnations. He is one of the younger set in the business, but is thoroughly up-to-date and is ably assisted in the management of the store by Mrs. Meconi.

Though John M. Thielman, 890 Broadway, Brooklyn, is not an old man, he has been in the florist business in the Williamsburg section of Brooklyn for 42 years. In 1873 he and his mother started a store on Graham avenue. Ten years later he removed to his present location. The original Graham avenue store is now conducted by the family of his deceased brother.

Calling recently at the store of Max Schling, 22 West 59th street, we found everybody busy; in fact, if there is a ouster retail store in this city we have not found it. It may be a figure of speech, but no exaggeration to say that Max Schling is a "live wire" and he has gathered around him a large force of clever and active assistants.

Young & Nugent, 42 West 28th street, have, during the past week, arranged a large amount of fine funeral work beside having a good counter trade in bouquets and bunches. William Hanft, of this store, has recently been on the sick list. His daughter, Miss Mabel Hanft, who has been ill is now said to be improving.

Matthew A. Battista, formerly with Young & Nugent, and later in Herman Warendorff's 59th street store, has opened a retail business in connection with the fruit store of Cuneo & Co., 17 East 59th street. He is a clever and active young man and we believe he will be successful.

Lang, the retail florist of Lexington avenue and 71st street, gives his customers a very handsome combination business card and blotter. On each card, (he has them for each month), there is an handsome engraving, also an appropriate sentiment to encourage the use of flowers.

Mrs. A. Schumann, who for over 40 years was a retail florist at 13 Avenue A, retired from business some time ago, but has again gone into harness, having taken the store formerly conducted by F. G. Kallenberg, 336 Bleeker street.

Riedel & Meyer, Inc., are now receiving fine stock of the chrysanthemum Timothy Eaton, from V. Zuber & Sons, Whitestone, N. Y. They are also receiving choice chrysanthemum stock from Jacob Hauck, Bloomfield, N. J.

M. M. Voit's new store, in part of the McCormick store, Fifth avenue and 9th street, Brooklyn, is very nicely fitted up. He has a large show window, an attractive ice box and other modern conveniences.

Joseph Trepel has several stores, but the one on Flatbush avenue, Brooklyn, is the store par excellence. It is fitted up in the most modern style and is a show place for that part of the city.

The next meeting of the New York Florists' Club will be held on the night of December 13. It is election night in the club and there will doubtless be a large attendance.

At the store of N. Christatos, Sixth avenue and 58th street, business is reported good. This store is well arranged for window display and is now very handsome.

The new firm of Hanft Brothers, 692 Madison avenue, has got the store very nicely fitted up, are carrying good stock and reports good business.

L. Gluck, who conducts the Twenty-third Street Flower Shop, Lexington avenue and 23rd street, has a neat store and reports business improving.

William J. Elliott, who was injured by being knocked down by an automobile, is much improved and hopes to be able to attend to business soon.

S. Manios, 414-416 Sumner avenue, Brooklyn, has a very commodious store and it is well stocked and as seen from the street, the effect is fine.

John J. Coan, late manager for the Growers' Cut Flower Co., will go into the wholesale business for himself.

Milt P. Whittle, designer, formerly with Malandre Brothers, is now with the Bell Rosary, 2654 Broadway.

William Hanft, of Young & Nugent's staff, is in the Presbyterian hospital, Madison avenue and 71st street.

A. Anargeros, 228 Seventh avenue, Brooklyn, has a good store and keeps it well stocked.

The Seed Trade

American Seed Trade Association.

J. M. Lupton, Mattituck, L. I., N. Y., President; Kirby B. White, Detroit, Mich., First Vice-President; F. W. Bolgiano, Washington, D. C., Second Vice-President; C. E. Kendel, Cleveland, O., Secretary and Treasurer. Thirty-fourth annual convention, June, 1916.

THE dry October weather checked the potato rot of September.

MRS. J. C. VAUGHAN, Chicago, left for San Francisco November 23.

LOS ANGELES and Fresno, Calif., had about an inch of rain November 8-9.

PHILADELPHIA, PA.—W. Atlee Burpee's condition is reported unimproved.

WORCESTER, MASS.—Lester L. Morse and wife were visitors here November 18.

VISITED Chicago: Eugene Schaettel, representing Vilmorin, Andrieux & Co., Paris, France.

TENNESSEE holly breakers complain of difficulties from high water along river bottoms.

CHICAGO.—Prices for grass seed on the Board of Trade, November 23, were as follows: Timothy, $5.50 to $7.75 per 100 pounds.

FIVE members of the firm of Vilmorin-Andrieux & Co., Paris, France, are in the army, leaving only two on business duty.

THE standard barrel of the United States should contain 7,056 cubic inches, with 28½ inch staves and 17¼ inch heads, head material not thicker than 2-5 of an inch.

JACKSON, MICH.—S. M. Isbell & Co. report that the high prices of farm products have induced some farmers to neglect seed crops, indicating higher prices will prevail in 1916.

FRENCH seedsmen are required to secure permits before they can make any shipments to neutral countries, America excepted, a permit being required for each shipment or parcel post package.

W. W. BARNARD, president of the W. W. Barnard Co., Chicago, whose illness was reported in our last issue, is still at the Presbyterian hospital, but progressing favorably. Mr. Goodwin of this firm also continues to improve.

F. H. BRUNNING, LTD., Melbourne, Australia, advise they receive a number of letters from well known American houses bearing only two cents postage while the rate on ordinary letters to Australia is five cents each. This firm, by the way, is offering beans and onion.

YPSILANTI, MICH.—The case of the Adel Seed Co., of Battle Creek, against Adelbert Wain, a farmer, for the purchase price of seed oats and which promised sensations November 8 in the justice court, as many farmers had refused to pay for oats, did not go to the jury, Justice Stadtmiller dismissing the case on the ground that the company by not filing its list of incorporators and articles of incorporation with the Calhoun county clerk until eight months after this contract was made, did not exist when the seed was bought and has no standing in court. The case involved about 50 farmers.

Wisconsin Potato Growers.

The annual convention and exhibition of the Wisconsin Potato Growers was held at Marinette, November 17-19. Oneida county and Rhinelander, county seat, captured first both on potatoes exhibited and design and arrangement of county booth. They were awarded two silver cups and an art banner. Other counties exhibiting took places in the order given: Waupaca, Wood, Lincoln, Barron, Langlade, Marinette, Ford, Sawyer, Dunn, Oconto, Taylor and Rusk.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: J. W. Hicks, Prentice, president; C. Woodward, Weyauwega, vice-president; J. G. Milward, Madison, secretary.

American Mutual Seed Company.

We have received the following with regard to the above concern from A. A. Berry, of the A. A. Berry Seed Co., Clarinda, Ia.: "The American Mutual Seed Company is a new organization, incorporated under the state laws of Illinois for $60,000, with headquarters at Forty-third and Roby streets, Chicago. John F. Summers is secretary and manager. Mr. Summers was engaged in the seed business at Malvern, Ia., several years ago, is a graduate of the Ames, Iowa Agricultural college and for the past few years has been conducting the large farm estates of Carl S. Vrooman, assistant secretary of agriculture of the United States. The firm is backed by practical seedsmen of good business ability, is ably financed, and has a bright future. They are engaged in the general seed business."

New York Seed Trade.

William Elliott, of the firm of Wm. Elliott & Sons, 42 Vesey street, while crossing Columbus avenue at Eighty-eighth street, on the evening of November 17, was struck by an automobile and hurled into the gutter, the automobile proceeding on its way. He was rendered unconscious for the time being. Though no bones are broken, he has two severe scalp wounds, is badly bruised and may be internally injured. The police have failed to arrest the chauffeur. It is stated that this is the fifth accident of the kind that has occurred at the same place within a year. The injury to Mr. Elliott did not discontinue the auction on November 19, his place being filled by Frank Stanley, his clerk. Carl Elliott is managing the store during his brother's enforced absence.

At the auction rooms of the MacNiff Horticultural Co. we have noticed exceptionally large bay trees, rhododendrons, boxwoods and a great variety of other good stock, noteworthy being finely berried imported holly, Phoenix Roebelenii and other palms.

At the store of Peter Henderson & Co., the large yellow pumpkins and squashes in their windows attract much attention.

J. B. Deamud, manager of Vaughan's Seed Store, has returned from the Cleveland show, with which he was well pleased. Business continues active at this store.

News of the death of Otto Stumpp, father of George Stumpp, of the Stumpp & Walter Co., will be found in our obituary column. A. F. F.

European Parcel Post Changes.

Close upon its action in declining to receive parcel-post mail for Germany, the Holland-American steamship line has notified the Post Office department that only such parcel mail for Holland as is addressed in care of the Netherlands Overseas Trust will be accepted. The consignee, it is stated, can arrange with the Overseas Trust for delivery on arrival. The Post Office department has cabled the postal administration in Holland asking whether the requirements of the steamship company have official sanction.

Suspension of the parcel service to Germany became necessary because the Holland-American line, the only carrier by which parcel mail for Germany was being taken, refused to continue the service. Exchange of parcels in international mail is not provided for in the agreement known as the universal postal convention, which obligates all the signatory nations, whenever possible, to facilitate the exchange of all postal union mail. International parcel post is provided under special agreements between nations. Under such an agreement, prior to the outbreak of the European war, parcels were exchanged direct between the United States and Germany. After the war began, when direct steamship service ceased between the United States and Germany, an agreement was entered into with Holland for continuation of the parcel service to Germany by the Holland-American line, through Rotterdam.

When the Holland-American line refused to accept parcels for Germany, no other route remained by which they could be sent. Efforts are now being made to renew the service via Rotterdam or via some other route. Misunderstanding of the action of the Post Office department in suspending Germany parcel service has resulted from failure to take into account all the facts. It was far better for the convenience and economy of American users of the service to announce this suspension than to allow parcels to accumulate at New York at a time when the means of dispatching them was not available. Under the steps now taken such parcels will be returned to their senders and the postage refunded. This avoids loss and confusion.

Chrysanthemums

Novelties for 1916.

EARLY ROSE.

A bright rose pink. C. S. A. Certificate, October 16th. Best early pink for October 10-20th. 50c each; $4.00 per 10; $30.00 per 100.

OCTOBER QUEEN.

Purest glistening white, maturing October 20th, 4 feet. Excellent upright growth with beautiful foliage. C. S. A. Certificate. 50c each; $4.00 per 10; $30.00 per 100.

TIGER.

(Exhibited as 111-1-13 and named by Pres. Wilson). A seedling from Chrysolora. Bright yellow, fine incurved form, good from any bud after Sept. 1st, semi-dwarf, fine stem and foliage. C. S. A. Certificate. 50c each; $4.00 per 10; $30.00 per 100.

JOSEPHINE FOLEY.

A seedling from Naomah but purer white, high rounded form, excellent stem and foliage. Matures last of October. A fine commercial from September buds, giving double flowers, 5 feet C. S. A. Certificate. 50c each; $4.00 per 10; $30.00 per 100.

NORDI.

A pure white Pompon maturing November 10th to Thanksgiving. 30c each; $2.25 per 10; $20.00 per 100.

ZORA.

This variety we were unable to disseminate last year. An early bright yellow, coming in a few days before Zenobia. The earliest good yellow Pompon. 30c. each; $2.25 per 10; $20.00 per 100.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

The new Chrysanthemum shown as Smith's Cameo was awarded the sweepstakes prize in the seedling classes at both Cleveland and Chicago and has been greatly admired by the thousands of persons attending these shows. We consider it one of our greatest achievements and those in the trade referred to it as the best seedling of the year.

Upon investigation recent tests have given positive proof that it is inclined to shatter or drop its petals.

This serious defect disqualifies it as a shipper and for this reason alone we have decided much to our regret that it is unworthy of our indorsement and dissemination.

Justice to our patrons is justice to ourselves and we feel assured the course taken will be appreciated.

LITTLE GEM—Certificated at Cleveland, will not be disseminated until 1917 owing to limited stock. Will however be pleased to book your order one year in advance at same price quoted on Nordi and Zora.

Delivery on or before March 1st.

All other varieties both new and old furnished at popular prices. SEND FOR LIST.

Arsenate of Calcium Promising Insecticide.

As a result of extensive tests during 1912, 1913 and 1914 with different insecticides, the entomologists of the United States department of agriculture have found that calcium arsenate, a new insecticide, gives very promising results in the control of certain insects that do damage by chewing on fruit trees. Among the chewing insects against which the arsenate of calcium proved effective, in laboratory and field tests conducted at Benton Harbor, Mich., are the codling moth, the fall webworm, the tent caterpillar and the tussock moth. The details of the various experiments are published in Department Bulletin No. 278, "Miscellaneous Insecticide Investigations."

In these tests the effects of arsenate of calcium, both alone and combined with lime-sulphur solution, were tested in comparison with arsenate of lead alone and in combination with lime-sulphur. The arsenate of calcium, as was the arsenate of lead, was used at the rate of two pounds to each 50 gallons of water. In all the experiments the arsenate of calcium gave very satisfactory results in killing the larvae without burning the foliage. In a number of cases its killing action was somewhat slower than, but compared favorably with, the arsenate of lead. Since it can be produced more cheaply than the lead arsenate it would appear to have distinct value, although it has not been sufficiently tested to permit recommending it unreservedly for general use. Where arsenate of calcium was combined with lime-sulphur it was, as a rule, even more effective as a poisoning agent than when used alone and did not lessen the value of the latter as a fungicide. When these compounds are combined, the amount of foliage consumed by the larvae is less than where the arsenate of calcium is used alone. In tests in 1914 a commercial arsenate of calcium (paste), arsenic oxid 18.82 per cent, with lime-sulphur solution, gave very excellent control of the codling moth in comparison with arsenate of lead and with unsprayed plats. Where arsenate of calcium was used, 98.79 per cent of the apples were sound; arsenate of lead showed 99.44 per cent of sound apples; while in the unsprayed test plats only 58.71 per cent of the apples were free from damage.

The following will be found to be a convenient way of making home-made arsenate of calcium:

Stone lime (90% CaO).....55 pounds
Sodium arsenate, fused (dry powdered) 65% As₂O₅...100 pounds
Water 26 gallons

Place the stone lime in a wooden container and add a small amount of water, just enough to start slaking. When slaking is well under way pour in the sodium arsenate, which should first have been dissolved in hot water. Keep stirring until the lime has thoroughly slaked. Sufficient water should be added from time to time to prevent burning.

The resulting arsenate of calcium should contain about 18 per cent of arsenic oxid. In making this compound it will of course be necessary to know approximately the calcium oxid and arsenic oxid content of the materials employed and to vary the formula accordingly. The by-product is largely sodium hydroxid, which should be decanted if the insecticide is to be used on tender foliage.

Celery Wiltling.

ED. AMERICAN FLORIST:

What can be done to prevent celery from wiltling after it is dug? I am growing White Plume, bleaching with boards, and it is very nice, but wilts badly when exposed at stores for sale. Would bone meal or any other commercial fertilizers be of any help? Am using stable manure at present.

Illinois.

T. N.

To cover this question thoroughly would mean to go over the whole ground of good celery culture. In the first place, White Plume is a poor variety for store sales, as it lacks substance. We believe that it wilts quicker than any other kind. As to culture, the season, the soil, the fertilizer used, and finally, the method of handling, have a great deal to do with keeping qualities. Loose, black soils, warm, cloudy weather, attacks by fungus disease, excessive use of manure, all tend to produce soft growth. On the other hand, clayey soils, dry weather, thorough spraying, phosphatic fertilizers, deep and constant cultivation, will improve the texture of any variety. Finally, when it comes to marketing, celery should be conditioned before shipped. By this we mean some such method as is used by cut-flower men to harden their flowers. By standing celery in tubs with just enough fresh cold water to cover the roots, in a cool room, the plants will absorb all the water they can hold in a few hours. This will help them materially.

This hardening process can be carried out before they are trimmed for market or after they are bunched. However, they should not stand in deep water long, as the water will damage the flavor of the stalks. Finally, immediately after removing from the tubs, the celery should be wrapped in paper and kept in paper as long as possible in the store where sold. If celery could be wrapped in waxed paper in original packages, say 10c packages, and sold in that condition, a great step forward would be taken in celery consumption. Every moment from the time of digging to the table, means loss of quality unless protected. This protection should continue into the customer's kitchen or refrigerator, as celery exposed to air in an ice box wilts badly. To this end the producer must instruct the consumer. We have often wondered how ignorant the average consumer is—he will lay the finest vegetables around in the kitchen or refrigerator until almost worthless and then blame the grocer. MARKETMAN.

Cabbage Production and Acreage.

The production of cabbages this year in the eight important cabbage-growing states is estimated at 958,301 tons, as compared with 765,663 tons, the revised estimate for last year, an increase of about 25 per cent. These eight states, New York, Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa and Colorado, comprised 53 per cent of the total cabbage acreage of the United States in the census year 1909.

New York and Wisconsin are the principal sources of commercial production of cabbage, their total production in 1915 being estimated at 685,110 tons, or over 71 per cent of the total estimated production for the above states. The total estimated production in these two states in 1915 exceeded that of 1914 by 165,216 tons of cabbage, or nearly 32 per cent. This result was obtained through an increase of nearly 11 per cent in the acreage planted in these two states, and an increase of two tons per acre in yield in New York. The increase in yield in Wisconsin was small.

There was a relatively heavy falling off in both yield and production in Ohio and Indiana, the decrease in production amounting to 34,484 tons, or about 30 per cent of the total estimated production for the two states in 1914. Ohio and Indiana suffered heavily throughout the growing season from excessive rainfall and consequent floods.

From incomplete returns regarding the acreage in cabbage grown for manufacture into kraut, it is estimated that approximately the product of 16,000 acres was so consumed in 1915, or about 160,000 tons, nearly 17 per cent of the total crop produced in the above states.

ANNA, ILL.—W. W. Thomas, considered one of the largest growers of strawberry plants exclusively in the world, died at his home here, November 13.

"Market Gardening."

A new book on "Market Gardening," by F. L. Yeaw, manager of the Oasis Farm & Orchard Co., Roswell, N. M. and formerly professor of market gardening at the Massachusetts Agricultural College, Amherst, has just been issued, containing 102 pages, 5x7, with 36 illustrations. It is an elementary text book and a practical, reliable and handy guide for all growers of vegetables, its purpose being to furnish in condensed form, information as to the methods and best practices of growing the commoner varieties of vegetables, 23 in number. The contents include: "Location for the Market Garden," "Cultivation," "Fertilizers," "Hot Beds," "Seeds and Seed Sowing," "Transplanting," "Irrigation," "Vegetable Gardens," "Storing and Packing," "Crops." The book is now ready bound in cloth, and can be obtained at THE AMERICAN FLORIST office, price 75 cents.

Grow Fresh Vegetables in your own cellar this winter, or, your greenhouse.

GROWN BY MY FORCING ROOTS.

My 7 year old forcing Asparagus roots, immense Rhubarb clumps and fine Witloof Chicory roots will please you. I have fine roots of the new Orchid Chicory, which forces a beautiful pink—great for fine hotels. Also Sea Kale roots. All roots for out door planting, including Horse Radish roots.

NEW CARNATION Belle Washburn

A Beautiful Brilliant Red

Winner of the Silver Medal at the last Exhibition of the American Carnation Society, Buffalo, N.Y., January 27th and 28th, First Prize at the Illinois State Fair at Springfield, Ill., Sept. 22nd and 23rd.

It has never been beaten at any exhibition. The color is a most brilliant red. The size of the flower 3½ to 4 inches. Stems 24 to 36 inches long, strong and stiff. We have never had a burst calyx, all flowers grading firsts and best of all it is a constant bloomer giving a steady run of flowers equal in number to the Enchantress family. It has a very spicy odor much greater than the average carnation. It comes in full flower by the first of December and then continues steadily the balance of the season.

The present sharp competition in business requires the grower to plant a variety that always produces high-grade flowers, never bursts the calyx, has strong, long stems, is steady and continuous bloomer, no cropper. The color is the most brilliant red of any carnation now in market. We have grown this variety for five years, it being one of our own seedlings, and we now have 30,000 plants benched in our greenhouses at Greggs of which 12,000 are for the cut flowers and 18,000 devoted to rooted cuttings.

We will have 100,000 strong, well-rooted cuttings guaranteed all first-class ready for delivery during December. The price of the rooted cuttings will be $12.00 per 100; $100.00 per 1000.

Insist On Having GARLAND GUTTER
in your Greenhouses

NO matter what type of construction is used in your plant you are not enjoying the greatest efficiency and economy unless your gutters are Garland Gutters.

Therefore, when about to build or repair you owe it to yourself to investigate—to let us show you why Garland Gutters are superior to any in existence.

“Wears like a Pig’s Nose!”—

THE RUBBER COVER ON

GOODRICH
“GREENHOUSE”

is as different from the covers you get on other hose as day is from night.

As you know, we manufacture the famous mileage—giving Goodrich Automobile Tires. The treads we put on these tires are unusually tough and wear-resisting. We know how to compound rubber so as to make it wear.

This tire-building experience has enabled us to produce a rubber cover for Goodrich “Greenhouse” Hose that outwears all other covers.

Your men can drag “Greenhouse” about over cement, sharp gravel, sand, brick, cinders, etc., around corner-posts and doorways, over sharp projections, and the rubber cover will “stand the gaff” in wonderful shape. “Wears like pig’s nose” is really no exaggeration.

Don’t waste time with cheap hose—or even ordinary hose! Save money in the end by using “Greenhouse.” Pays to buy it.

Send for sample—test its toughness yourself!

Suggestions for Plant Growers.

Azaleas.

Keep the azaleas well spaced out as they begin to come into flower. The buds should be swelling rapidly and beginning to show color by early December. Never allow the plants to suffer for water and where any are shipped out or carried into the residences they should be well watered before being taken out of the greenhouse. All plants that are sent away should be safely covered, and with azaleas it must be taken into consideration that they have been grown in a very warm temperature, and they chill easily. Plants that are forced as hard as these are to have them for the holidays, are damaged very quickly if they get chilled, even if they do not get frost-bitten. We have known azalea plants to look all right when undone, but the blooms wilted and never came out. Six to eight thicknesses of newspaper with a heavy outside paper should always be used in doing up these plants and more if the weather is severe. If the plants are not far advanced enough to have them in for Christmas a little higher temperature will be required, for to have them in at that date is a necessity in order to get the best price. Watering or syringing with warm water will assist some, but we do not like to do this unless absolutely necessary to get them in on time. Plants that are too far advanced can be moved into a cooler house, which will greatly benefit them for house culture.

Cinerarias.

As fast as these plants require it they should be repotted and shifted to larger-sized pots. They are growing rapidly and should receive no check or they will become stunted. Keep them in a cool temperature, that they may be strong and sturdy, and above all things now do not crowd them, but space them out often; when the leaves begin to touch go over the bench and space them out. These plants are beautiful in early spring if well grown, but if they become crowded and get drawn they are but poor specimens.

When the larger plants begin to show their buds, if they are in as large pots as can be easily handled a watering of liquid manure will help them finish their flowers. They are strong growers and great feeders and where the pots are full of roots will need a little stimulant. Constant watchfulness for aphid is required in growing these plants. Frequent fumigations will be necessary or standing on tobacco stems will keep the insects in check.

Poinsettias.

The plants are now forming their showy bracts and the worries of the grower are nearly at an end, for if they have come through to this time in good condition the disposal of the plants and flowers is all that remain. Until the highly colored leaves have attained their full size, however, the same equal temperature should be maintained and then if found advisable a little drop in the temperature can be allowed, but it is far better to do this gradually and not subject the plants to too sudden a variation. The plants should now be all neatly tied to a stake and, as before remarked, the neater the stake the better the appearance of the plant. It always has seemed strange to us that a grower will spend time and money in producing a crop and then spoil the appearance or the best sale of the plant by using a cheap ill-looking auxiliary in attempting to save a penny. These plants can be disposed of at a good remunerative price if properly handled, and nice-looking, painted stakes can be afforded. The plants grown for cut blooms should be kept tied erect that they may have straight stems. In the cutting and marketing of these blooms much disappointment and failure has been experienced by many growers, the bracts wilting very soon after cutting, and where this occurs they never recover. Some growers place the stems on a red hot coal immediately after they are cut and thus seal the end. Others plunge the stems in hot water, and both are said successfully to prevent wilting. Another plan is to wrap the blooms in wet newspapers, similarly to the manner of handling cut adiantums, and then placing the stems in deep jars of water. It will be found necessary to adopt one of these or some other method to prevent the blooms from wilting or many will be lost.

Lily of the Valley.

It is often remarked that it is surprising more florists do not force lily of the valley for the holidays. While the forcing of this flower throughout the season had much better be left to those who make a specialty of it, for the demand during the winter is not at all steady, and for the smaller grower to attempt to grow his supply would be hazardous and probably result in so much waste that he would lose in the end. But well grown pots of lily of the valley at Christmas will always be disposed of and there is more or less demand for the cut blooms at that time, and a small amount can be grown and a good profit obtained. Well selected cold-storage pips are necessary—it would not pay to attempt to grow the freshly imported stock—and a place in the greenhouse where the pipes can be enclosed and the pots kept dark with a temperature of 80° maintained. It is not necessary to build an enclosure of wood, for bagging or old carpeting may be hung under a bench and shelves provided that will enclose a space large enough to grow what pots may be required. Three weeks with cold storage pips in this kind of an enclosure will bring it in on time, but the inexperienced grower had better take a little longer and if the flowers come too early, as soon as the bells form the pots can be moved into a cool house and they will be much improved; in fact, they should have a few days in the light to give the foliage proper color. When the pips are received the roots should be cut so that they can be placed in the shallow bulb pans, and then planted in clean sand, the tops of the pips being just even with sand with a dozen pips in a four-inch pan or 25 in a six-inch pan. Water with warm water to settle the sand about the pips, and if they stand above the sand when it settles fill in to the top of the pips, and then place the pans in the warm enclosure. Keep the sand wet and always water at a temperature as warm as the enclosure. When the flowers begin to show, care should be taken not to wet them when watering. As soon as the first bells begin to open place them in a partly shady location in a little cooler temperature and in a day or two they can be placed in full sunlight in a house with a temperature of 60 degrees. They will then harden up nicely and keep longer.

Acalyphas.

One of the plants that is not ordinarily grown as well as it ought to be and which makes a beautiful showy plant is the acalypha, especially A. Godseffiana and A. Sanderi, which bears long spikes of red flowers, sometimes called the chenille plant, from the flowers which resemble large pieces of red chenille. The plants should be well hardened off in the fall and cuttings of the new growth can be taken during the winter, in November and December, if fine specimens are wanted. The cuttings are taken preferably with a heel and root easily in a warm propagating bench. When rooted they should be potted in a good rich soil and placed in a warm greenhouse until they have made roots and commenced to grow, when they can be removed to slightly cooler quarters. The great mistake made by many growers is to place them in a cool house immediately after they have been taken from the propagating bed and they stand half dormant, and if too cool frequently lose much of their foliage, and get stunted. To have fine plants they should be kept moving all winter and potted into large-sized pots as soon as necessary, and a few of these showy plants well grown will attract attention and redound to the credit of the grower. Aphis and mealy bug are the two insect enemies of these plants, and should be kept in check continually or the plants will be ruined. The bedding acalyphas should be handled in a similar manner but the first of the year is early enough to start the cuttings of these unless there are signs of a shortage of stock, in which case early propagation is to be recommended, and it is seldom one has too many of these plants if they are well grown.

THE RETAIL TRADE

Conducted by Robt. Kift, Philadelphia, Pa.

MISS BLANCHE FERREE in the employ of the London Flower Shop, Ltd., Philadelphia, Pa., is said to be the first commercial woman chauffeur and claims it is the finest kind of a job for a girl, beating work in a store in a dozen different ways.

LITTLE ROCK, ARK.—Paul M. Palez opened what is said to be one of the most attractive flower stores in the south at 606 Main street, November 23. The store is handsomely equipped and decorated and there was a large stock of choice plants and cut flowers on hand for the occasion.

Speeding Up the Sales.

In the past five years there has been a great increase in the quantity of flowers grown for the market. At all favorable seasons the production of almost all kinds of flowers is far ahead of the demand, or at least it would appear so from the way in which the machinery for handling the stock clogs up, and is at times brought almost to a full stop. In spite of this condition, however, the erection of new houses goes merrily on; greenhouse establishments are being enlarged, while new growers venture in and throw their products on the already heavily loaded market. There is no question but that flowers are cheaper now than five years ago. Roses, which are the principal product, have increased in variety and in number to almost double the output of 1910. Improved methods of culture in the modern, gigantic houses, which cover from one to three acres of ground, enable the growers to produce more flowers at less cost than ever before. In other lines there has been a similar saving through improved methods, such as better houses and well planned succession of crops. With this great progress made by the producers, let us see what the men whose business it is to handle and sell this great stock are doing. How are they increasing their facilities in order to keep from getting swamped by the increased production? Do they find the public in a receptive mood, and can they be prevailed on or by any means forced, to increase their purchases?

BASKET OF AMERICAN BEAUTY ROSES AND CHRYSANTHEMUMS.

By J. H. Small & Sons, Washington, D. C. and New York

STANDING WREATH BY O. J. FRIEDMAN, CHICAGO.

American Beauty Roses, Lily of the Valley, Dendrobium, Pandanus Veitchii, Croton Foliage and Nephrolepis Fronds With Gold and Purple Ribbon.

After a careful survey of this selling force, we find there are but few in the regular trade who have risen to the situation and taken advantage of the opportunity to increase their business by handling flowers in quantity at lower figures. Prices of flowers have for a long time been in a measure, staple—about the same price at the various seasons one year with another. The recent great increase in production has, however, broken down this price barrier, and people who have hardly considered flowers before, on account of their cost, are now, because of the low prices, indulging in the luxury of a few blossoms to take home.

To buy flowers in large quantities and dispose of them quickly at a slight profit, requires for its success the thronged retail districts of any of the large cities. C. C. Trepel, of New York, has blazed the way, and by his great success, shown how it can be done. Nearly all of the prominent department stores in all the large cities now handle cut flowers or rent space to men who manage the department themselves on a rental or commission basis. As a matter of good business, it would appear that the great army of retail florists all over the land should be able to better their facilities, each according to his strength, and handle a portion of this increasing production at a profit to himself, while giving encouragement at the same time to the producer.

There are many ways in which this can be brought about. To start with, very few retailers carry the quantity of stock they should. A full and fresh assortment of flowers invites sales, while the half empty ice box loses many. The stock that "will be in soon", is not there for the customer who is in a hurry and wants to take it with him. The window display of seasonable, up-to-the-minute stock is a great help and yet, not one third of the storekeepers get anything like the results possible from this, their best advertising asset.

Then there is newspaper advertising. How many resort to this great aid to publicity? Very few. Does it pay? Look at the men who believe in it; their business increases by leaps and bounds, and the more they get only urges them on to greater efforts along the same line. Let the man whose business drags along, who is year by year just making ends meet, or perhaps not that, get himself together and try and find out what is the matter. Go over the situation carefully. Is the store bright and inviting; if not, why not? Make the necessary changes at once. Is there stock enough and do customers find the quality and assortment they require? It is useless to expect your business to increase and prosper on a "skinny" and insufficient stock of flowers. How is the window; is the glass clean and bright and does it reflect your skill with some well arranged baskets or vases, or are there just a few plants to fill up the space? The effectiveness of a well arranged window to increase sales is demonstrated every day by enterprising retailers all over the country. Take a walk around among other members of the craft, your competitors. Keep your eyes open, study the live wires, then go back and spruce up and work out a system of improvement and stick to it. The trade will soon notice the difference; men with flowers to sell will hunt you up. Customers will increase; your aggressive methods will draw them in, and you will soon be a factor in helping to keep down the surplus. Increasing sales by buying in quantity lots and offering week-end bargains has been found to work effectually. When roses can be bought from $12 to $15 a thousand, they can be offered at 35 cents a dozen, three dozen for $1, no order less than $1 delivered. In one case, with just a notice on the glass of the window, with prices as above, 1,000 were sold the first week, 2,000 the second week and 3,000 the third, which continued until the heat of summer stopped the supply and demand. H. H. Battles, of Philadelphia, Pa., realized there was a demand for low priced flowers and has worked up a wonderful business in his Century Flower Shop. Outside of holiday times there are many busy days when over a thousand separate sales are made.

If each storekeeper would put his mind to it, there is no question but what he could devise some means to increase his business five to ten per cent, or even more, in a season. Some find it profitable to run a dollar box of flowers and always have a few put up for the customer who is in a hurry. A. W. Smith Co. of Pittsburgh, Pa., have sold as many as 1,500 of these boxes in one day after special advertising. A Lange, of Chicago, has also found them a profitable feature and creator of new business. In this and many other ways that will suggest themselves to the earnest man, the business can be very materially increased, while at the same time new people are interested, which in turn encourages others, all of which makes prosperous times for the retailer, which is sure to be reflected all along the line. K.

NEW ORLEANS, LA.—J. A. Newsham and H. Schuerman, who have conducted the Orchid Store, 141 Carondelet street have dissolved partnership. The Orchid Store will be continued by the former and the latter will open the Flower Store at 106 Baronne street.

CHRYSANTHEMUMS

Notes on Recent Introductions.

Now that the chrysanthemum season is drawing to a close, it is well to review the varieties and their standing, both from the commercial and the exhibition standpoint. Growers of commercial stock report a favorable season with satisfactory results obtained, and many of the growers consider it the best season for many years past. During the month of October, the demand for first-class commercial blooms was greater than the supply, and the growers realized good prices for their flowers. Over the central states, a killing frost early in October put a stop to the outdoor flowers, causing a demand for the early chrysanthemums, so that the grower who had his early varieties on time was well paid for his efforts. Owing to the very wet summer, causing the petals to damp and spot, many of the benches of Golden Glow and Smith's Advance were not a success, particularly those that were allowed to flower before Sept. 15, but there was very little trouble with stock after that date. We consider some of the introductions of 1914 and 1915 good additions to our list of early October flowering varieties and worthy of a place on any commercial grower's benches.

The variety, Oconto, incurred white, was well matured ready to cut October 8, and realized as much per bloom as any variety we grew. It is a fine, incurved white and a splendid grower.

Crystal Gem, white—the first blooms of this variety were cut October 5. It is a pure glistening white, a beautiful flower, but we do not consider it as good a commercial variety as Oconto.

Early Frost—Another good early white for the first weeks of October; a well formed flower, good grower and will repay an extended trial.

Polly Rose—The old standby in early whites, which we grow on the side benches where the head room is limited. With us it still pays as well as any chrysanthemum we grow.

New Chrysanthemum Artista.

Golden Queen—An early yellow with lots of substance in its petals so that it does not spot; a large bloom and good color. We shall increase our plantings of this next season.

Marigold—This beautiful golden yellow we banked on as being a wonder, but it did not come up to our expectation, but we do not consider that the fault of the variety because the writer has seen some grand blooms of Marigold. It has a very distinct growth, and I believe any trouble experienced with it the past season was due to us not being able to take the buds at the right time. We shall grow more of it next season and expect better results.

We do not have any pink variety to take the place of Pacific Supreme at its date—a good pink for early October is what we are looking for.

The variety, Calumet, a bright, golden bronze, at its best October 20, pleased us very much and we shall grow more of it next year for commercial purposes.

Ivory and Pink Ivory were just as good as ever this year and sold well, and considering that they can be planted closer on the benches than almost any other variety, the returns were equal to any.

Considering that the variety, Chieftain, is of recent introduction, it was planted in larger quantity than any other pink variety. The warm days during the latter part of October caused the color to bleach out a great deal, but notwithstanding this, Chieftain gave good satisfaction to the growers and will be a standard pink commercial variety for some time to come. It is an ideal grower for commercial cut flower purposes, has fine shipping qualities, and good stem and splendid foliage.

White Chieftain is a duplicate of Chieftain in every way except color, which is pure white, and will be a fine addition to the list of commercial varieties.

The noted standard varieties of the Chadwick family were grown in the usual large numbers, but we are under the impression that there was a falling off in the quantity of Timothy Eaton and Yellow Eaton grown.

Major Bonnaffon was to the front, as it always is in its season, and some very fine vases of this variety were staged at the exhibitions.

A few growers tried out Well's Late Pink for a midseason commercial pink and it seemed to give good success.

Dr. Enguehard appears to be passing away; the variety Chieftain, owing to its very much better growth, is apparently pushing it aside.

The writer had the privilege of seeing the chrysanthemum season at its height in San Francisco, and noted the difference between the variety of stock to be seen there and in the eastern cities, the most noted feature of which was the splendid display of the light bronze varieties to be seen in the leading retail stores in San Francisco, grand commercial blooms of fine color on long stems clothed with handsome foliage, and never has the writer seen the variety Ongowa in such quantity and form as seen in that city, and it certainly ought to sell well. Another old-time bronze variety, Kate Broomhead, was also in good shape. Howard Gould was another and Mrs. J. Dunne and Mrs. Kelly, of the same color, were also very fine. Another variety that is largely grown for the San Francisco market is Miss May Hunter, a combination of pink and white, a very beautiful flower that shows up extremely well for decorative purposes.

BASKET OF CHRYSANTHEMUMS.

By J. H. Small & Sons, Washington, D. C. and New York.

The bronze pompon varieties are also very popular in San Francisco; most of the chrysanthemums there are grown by the Japanese growers, and they must be given the credit of trying out the new varieties. With Messrs. Plath, James and Raymond, I visited the Japanese firm of Ishida & Shibuya, at Menlo Park, Calif., and saw 30,000 chrysanthemums growing under lath and muslin. The whole stock was an even lot of well grown blooms, clean in every way, showing that up-to-date treatment had been given them.

The exhibition varieties of this year as seen at the exhibitions were mostly the well known favorites, but better done. Wm. Turner is still the leading white. Odessa is a great favorite as an exhibition yellow; Mrs. Gilbert Drabble and its yellow sport, Wm. Rigby, was in fine shape at the C. S. A. show, Cleveland. I have never seen better blooms of H. E. Converse, Glenview, Mrs. J. C. Neill, F. T. Quitten-ton and Gen. Hutton than were shown at the same show. Queen Mary, Flamingo, James Fraser, Bob Pulling, Mendon and Nerissa were other striking exhibition varieties at the same show.

Never before have the pompon varieties been seen in such large quantities, both in the stores and at the shows, the golden yellows and the bronzes appearing to be in greatest demand. Owing to their fine keeping qualities, larger numbers of the pompoms are being grown every year. A few single varieties that will stand shipping should be in every collection. They are a great attraction to the customers and ready sellers, but they should be varieties that will stand up well or they will not last any time.

As soon as the season is over the stock plants should be taken care of and given a light airy bench in a cool house, kept free of insects, and held a little to the dry side, so that they may rest up a bit until the cuttings are wanted.

C. W. JOHNSON.

Smith's Exhibition Chrysanthemums.

We present herewith illustrations of two of the new exhibition chrysanthemums offered by Elmer D. Smith & Co., Adrian, Mich., which are described as follows:

Ogontz—A seedling from Nakota which it greatly resembles in foliage, and has the same whirling arrangement of petals, with size equal to its parent. The petals are decidedly grooved or channeled. Color, light primrose, height six feet. Would not advise a bud earlier than August 30, as the blooms are double from those selected in September. Practically the same as Nakota except color, maturing first week of November. May also be advantageously grown as a commercial maturing November 20 from buds taken September 20 and after.

Artista—This we believe is the largest exhibition variety we have ever raised and doubt if it will be surpassed by any now grown, not excepting Wm. Turner, Odessa, etc. Outer petals grooved or channeled reflex while the center ones incurve irregularly giving a very artistic appearance to the bloom. Dwarf habit, will not attain over five feet from February propagation. White with a slightly creamy tint in the depths. Best bud August 20, maturing the last days of October. All exhibition growers are bound to accept this as one of the best.

THE ROSE.

Plants for Christmas Bloom.

Within a few days the plants that have been pinched for the Christmas cutting will be breaking freely, and care should be taken to remove all the side shoots as soon as they can be rubbed out easily. One should take time to do this to avoid missing them. The finished blooms will be found much finer if the side shoots are not allowed to remain any length of time after breaking. It is also very essential to remove the lateral buds carefully, not waiting too long, as after the lateral buds begin to draw up, from then on they are materially reducing the size of the main blooms. Very often there may be found a bud with a crooked neck, or malformed in some way that can be removed, letting one of the side buds or laterals take its place, usually producing just as fine a flower a week or two later; so by constantly going over the plants carefully, one learns to take care of these little details almost mechanically.

Watch every plant closely; make it a regular practice of going through the houses daily. It does not make any difference how trustworthy your employes are, or how busy you may be elsewhere, you owe it to your employes. Your being familiar with the condition of your stock and general equipment, puts you in a position to direct the work intelligently and to have the work done when and how it should be done.

Now that the plants have attained their size (and at this time they should be in vigorous growth) they will require a little extra feeding. As we stated in a recent article, we think the safest and most satisfactory method of feeding is in using liquid manures, preferably good, fresh cow manure. Sheep manure is excellent, but is a very concentrated plant food and should only be used in one-third the quantity to the same amount of water as cow manure, and for the first watering the liquids should not be full strength. One should have a manure water tank large enough to furnish water for the whole range, and situated so that it will not freeze. A centrifugal or rotary pump, run by an electric motor, or if one has not the current, a gasoline or kerosene engine can be installed at a reasonable price. In this way, what used to be a very disagreeable feature, is easily and economically taken care of. Mulching is all right where one thoroughly understands the handling of it at the same time. At least one-third of the manure becomes dried up on the beds, whereas when used as a liquid there is practically no waste, and we all know what a job it is to put on a mulch, very often having to open outside doors in cold weather, and a more disagreeable job is hard to find. A light top dressing of pulverized cow or sheep manure is fine now and then through the winter; also, a little dried blood. Tankage is good, but must be used very sparingly, and a sprinkling of good, ground bone occasionally will show good results. Select a bone flour which is more soluble. One not familiar with any of these fertilizers should first test them in a small way; take a few feet of bench or bed, here and there, and give them a trial. They are all good and perfectly safe when used properly; in fact, they have become indispensable to the up-to-date rose growers.

The grower may ask, when should I feed my plants? All plants that are growing, making new wood right along, require feeding constantly. A range that is being cropped should require feeding for each crop. If the cuts are split up, the liquid manure can be used every week, otherwise for the cropping houses the time to do the feeding we think is when the growth is well started, from then until the buds are formed. Do not use manure water on cloudy or rainy days, or apply it to a bed when the soil is dry; if in doubt, water with clean water and follow up with the liquid manure. The same rule should be applied in using any of the fertilizers, as they should always be well washed or watered in. Many good plant foods have been condemned because they were not handled at the proper time and under proper conditions. If one feeds when the plants can stand an extra heavy watering, which stands to reason should be on a good, bright day, the soil will have just as soon as possible, using as little artificial heat as possible, and do not be too late getting the steam around at night; let the night fireman find the houses right on the dot. If your day man cannot have the temperature at the right point, the night man will have a hard time realizing the importance of an even temperature. Keep everything neat and clean around the boilers. See to it that there is no refuse lying around, such as old papers, etc.; avoid fire traps of any kind in and around the buildings, as very often a slight fire in the boiler room may kill hundreds of plants from the wood gases. Keep a lookout constantly for the betterment and improvement of your establishment, and don't let the other fellow have "anything on you" (as the saying is) as far as you go.

Fourth National Flower Show.

PHILADELPHIA, MARCH 25-APRIL 2, 1916.

When the national flower show committee took a lease of Convention hall, the building in which the national flower show is to be held, they had some misgivings as to whether the show could occupy the tremendous amount of floor space presented. Subsequent preparations, however, have shown that instead of being too big, the hall is really too small, consequently, the floor plan as originally arranged, has had to be altered to accommodate the pressure already felt upon the space. The space set apart for the trade exhibits has been minimized, and every available inch has been relegated to the area required for the competitive exhibits. It is not too soon to state that the exhibition will fill the building completely. The national flower a fair chance to dry out considerably, especially if the watering is done early in the day.

Just a few more reminders: Syringe early, air the house gradually after the houses reach a temperature of 70 degrees. Do not syringe the plants with the temperature of the house below 70 degrees. Use a spraying nozzle, giving force to the spray, and get well under the plants. Water afterwards; do not try to water and syringe at the same time, and it will be found far more satisfactory to make two separate jobs of this important work. Bank the fires show committee advance the idea of "show first," therefore other interests must give way. Those who have already taken space in the trade section have acted wisely, for even at this early date the space available for trade displays is nearly all reserved, and it is only a matter of a few weeks before all the space will be taken up. Among those who have contracted for space are the following:

The schedule committee has just completed the second preliminary schedule, and the same will be mailed to those interested in a few days. The prizes offered approximate a grand total of $20,000, eclipsing the schedules of all preceding national flower shows. The bid for feature exhibits is well exemplified in the offer of $600 for rose gardens, with a prospect of the prizes being increased to $1,000 in this class.

New York Flower Show.

In recognition of the public interest attaching to New York's big flower show to be held April 5-12, 1916, the park department of the city of New York, through Commissioner Cabot Ward, has communicated to Secretary John Young, its intention of staging an exhibit at the forthcoming show which shall at least equal the magnificent display made at last spring's show. An exhibit of this character is greatly appreciated by the management, because it reflects in great measure the interest taken in floriculture by our civic government whose efforts to promote the love of flowers and plants among its citizens need no exploitation. It goes without saying that Park Superintendent J. H. Beatty will seek to eclipse his former staging by making the "people's exhibit" one of the most noteworthy in the exhibition. Space in the trade section is being taken up readily, and this section of the show bids fair to be larger than in former years. The following have made reservation for space:

Max Schling, New York.

Julius Roehrs Co., Rutherford, N. J.

Bon Arbor Chem. Co., Paterson, N. J.
 Woodrow & Marketos, New York.
 George L. Stillman, Westerly, R. I.
 John Scheepers, Inc., New York.
 Alphano Humus Co., New York.
 Arthur Cowee, Berlin, N. Y.
 Wm. T. Leary, New Rochelle, N. Y.
 A. T. Bunyard, New York.
 J. M. Thorburn & Co., New York.
 Aphine Mfg. Co., Paterson, N. J.
 Bobbink & Atkins, Rutherford, N. J.
 G. E. M. Stumpp, New York.
 H. A. Bunyard Co., New York.
 S. P. Townsend & Co., Orange, N. J.
 F. R. Pierson, Tarrytown, N. Y.
 C. H. Totty, Madison, N. J.

the interest taken in this class, the stagings will be much more magnificent in their appointments than at the last show.

It is to be pointed out that the class calling for "new Holland plants" is not to be interpreted literally. The meaning is that the plants to be offered in this class are to be what are known as new Holland plants, such as tree ferns and the flora of Australasia. Why this term should continue to be customary is beyond comprehension. Australia, as a name, needs little explanation nowadays.

 The committee on schedule is considering the classes as set forth in the preliminary schedule, and will shortly prepare the final schedule. The preliminary schedule should convey the idea that the management is making a feature of displays. The rose garden display will be most notable in the classes looking to the artistic end of the show. Considerable interest also attaches to the rock garden class. During the fall planting season, growers intending to compete in this class were busy over the problem of what to grow, and it is safe to say that we shall see many plants strange to American flower shows.

What was perhaps the most interesting feature of the last show—the table decoration class for hotels only—will be given similar prominence in the forthcoming show. Judging from

INCREASE IN THANKSGIVING DEMAND.

The feature of the past week was the increased demand for Thanksgiving day. As the third best holiday in the year for the florist, its reputation was sustained by the large business transacted. Every branch of the business was worked to its full capacity, and while there appeared an abundant supply of almost everything, yet at the close of the holiday there was little left to carry over. As is usual there was an increase of about 25 per cent in price in the newer roses, of which there was not enough to go around, red being particularly scarce. It is the harvest, or clean up time for the chrysanthemum, and large quantities were sold. Some growers aim to cut everything salable for Thanksgiving, counting on the large demand to give them fair returns. For some reason chrysanthemums are later this season than usual, several growers saying this is the case with them, as some of their late varieties could be easily held for Christmas. Carnations sold very well at about 25 per cent increase and the quality is steadily improving. The only thing the wholesalers missed on was the violets, $1.50 being asked early on Wednesday for New York doubles, but later in the day $1 was the quotation. Singles sold at about the same price for the best stock. Cattleyas were in demand, but nothing doing, or so little that it amounts to nothing—any kind of a decent flower brought $1 wholesale. There were very few gardenias; just a handful which were divided among the stores who buy them all the time. Lily of the valley was in good supply and sold well. There was very good mignonette; also stevia, the latter being a very popular flower with nearly all flower buyers. There was a very good shipping trade, all the dealers packing large quantities of stock for out of town orders. Blooming plants sold very well in the stores, particularly cyclamens and pot chrysanthemums. The Robert Craig Co.'s cyclamens, which supplied most of the stores, were never so fine at this season, six-inch pot plants, with 8 to 12 blooms, being the rule.

NOTES.

On Tuesday, December 7, the last meeting of the florists' club this year, there is to be a debate—"Is it wise for the producer to depend entirely on the enterprise of the retailer for marketing his products?" Here is another straw man set up to be knocked down, and a great victory acclaimed. Charles Grakelow is down for the affirmative, while W. Frank Therkildson is to say no and prove it. The novelty committee expects exhibits of a number of new roses, which will be well worth seeing.

Robert A. Craig, who made a flying visit to the Cleveland show, said he would not have missed it for 10 times the cost; it was educational to a degree. He attributed the great success of the show to the getting together of the whole trade, who pulled together as one. He thinks the trade in that city will be very materially increased by this exhibition.

The trade heard with sorrow of the death of W. Atlee Burpee. Wonderfully wide awake in business, always striving for the best in everything; kind and genial to his associates and those he came in contact with—a man whom to know was to honor.

White lilac and cypripediums are head liners with the Leo Niessen Co. American Beauty roses are also a feature. Thanksgiving business here was a record breaker.

Mrs. Sawyer is a winner with Edward Reid, who handles this rose in quantity. American Beauties and high grade lily of the valley are also features.

The Ophelia is now the best seller. A number of growers got in on this new one and are likely to show good money returns when the season is over.

At the Berger Brothers' market good Bonnaffon chrysanthemums are still the feature. Lily of the valley and orchid sweet peas are conspicuous.

The M. Rice Co. is much elated with their Cleveland business; they are now pushed to the limit for the holiday trade.

H. A. Dreer, Inc., are handling an immense quantity of table ferns. The Adiantum cuneatum is particularly fine.

One wonders at the scarcity of catleyas and gardenias. Are they being "salted down" for Christmas?

The Philadelphia Wholesale Cut Flower Co. is rich in violets, handling some very fine singles. K.

EXCEPTIONAL THANKSGIVING TRADE.

Thanksgiving day trade was highly satisfactory and for some florists it was hard to properly handle it all. Favored by bright, cool, seasonable weather, and with all the stores made particularly attractive for the event, it was no surprise that the extent of the business was so large. Very little advertising was done, and none on the co-operative style and yet all are satisfied with the result—the growers, the wholesalers, and the retailers. Chrysanthemums easily lead all other flowers in popularity, and while no fancy prices were realized, all stock that was really good brought a good figure. The greater part of the supply of these came from the greenhouses of Thomas Brown, Greenfield, though George Bayer, Toledo, was represented strongly by his famous Bonnaffons. These are usually sold to the retailers by the original case without inspection, so well are they known for their excellent quality and even grade. It appeared that the call for yellow in all grades was greater than for pink or white or even the two combined though for funeral purposes the white and pink were used up. Good roses were rather scarce on the market and many more could have been sold. Lilies too were a factor that contributed much to the complete supply of a full line of flowers that had by the consensus of opinion of the local florists an unprecedented call for Thanksgiving trade.

CLUB MEETING.

The florists' club meeting, Tuesday evening November 23, was attended by 25 members. Most of the time was given to the reports of M. Bloy and others who attended the Cleveland flower show. Unstinted praise was given to all features of the show and the energy and unusual enterprise of the Cleveland florists, who by their combined work and enthusiasm, succeeded in staging the finest array of flowers ever seen by the local trade at any fall show. Recognition was given too to the great hospitality extended by the Cleveland "boys" to the trade visitors. Inspired by the success of the "Forest City" florists, our local growers and retailers are ambitious to have a similar show next fall and the sentiment expressed by nearly everyone present favored the project, but realizing that we at present have no hall or public building suitable for the purpose the project will for the present remain in abeyance. A committee composed of Wm. Dilger and E. A. Fetters was appointed to ascertain if there are any prospects of an available hall in the near future. Philip Foley, Chicago and J. M. Brown, New York, who were present at the meeting, also praised the Cleveland show and encouraged our florists to have a similar show next fall. M. Bloy, who was one of the judges of the Cleveland show, was appointed by President Danzer as permanent judge for the club to pass upon all novelties and exhibits as they appear at our meetings. He awarded the club's certificate of merit to Fred Pautke, Grosse Point Farms, who showed a beautiful yellow pompon at the meeting. This variety, which makes its initial appearance this fall, is acquired by John Breitmeyer's Sons, who will grow it for a few years for their exclusive use before disseminating it.

M. Bloy announced his partnership with Jos. Streit, a former well known grower of Buffalo. The new firm will make a specialty of plant growing, and will soon build a new range of glass to extend their business to the supply of the local trade as well as their fast developing retail trade. Mr. Streit's application for membership in the club was received.

AUSTIN, TEX.—The Novelty Floral Co. has opened a shop at 918 Congress avenue.

DES MOINES, IA.—According to J. S. Wilson, well-known local florist, plans will be immediately put under way for a flower show to be held in this city next year.

DULUTH, MINN.—Claiming that a leaking city gas main communicated to his greenhouses and killed 5,300 rose plants, J. J. Le Boriux has filed claim for $8,240. Loss of business is also included in the complaint.

OBITUARY.

Washington Atlee Burpee.

Washington Atlee Burpee, the well-known seed merchant of Philadelphia, Pa., and founder of the firm of W. Atlee Burpee & Co., died at his home at Fordhook Farms, Doylestown, November 26, from an affection of the liver. He had been in ill health for three years but for the last two months his condition has been critical. Two weeks ago his condition was reported serious but early last week he rallied only to relapse Thanksgiving morning. Before Mr. Burpee was taken to his home in Montgomery County he was treated for several weeks at the Ritz-Carlton. Several months were spent in Wernersville recently in an effort to regain his lost health. At his bedside when he died were his wife, two of his sons, David and W. Atlee, Jr., his sister, Mrs. A. B. Scott and her husband, and Dr. Frank B. Swartzlander, his life-long friend and physician.

Mr. Burpee, son of David and Ann Catherine (Atlee) Burpee, was born at Sheffield, near St. John, N. B., April 5, 1858. His father was a physician and moved to Philadelphia when the boy was three years of age. The future seedsman was educated at the Friends' Central school and the University of Pennsylvania. In 1876, centennial year, he opened in connection with G. S. Benson, a little store at 223 Church street, dealing chiefly in fancy pigeons and poultry, Mr. Burpee having already acquired a reputation as a breeder and writer on that subject. The firm lost $3,500 the first year, and was glad to take in a third partner with whose ideas in business Mr. Burpee differed, however, and in April, 1878, he withdrew from the firm and started by himself as W. Atlee Burpee & Co., dealing in seeds as well as birds and dogs. The second year of the first partnership just paid expenses, but the third year by himself he netted a profit of $2,700. In 1882 the little shop in Church street proved too small and the firm moved to the present location at 475 North Fifth street, in addition to which model establishment the firm now operates seed growing and testing farms at Fordhook, Swedesboro, N. J., and Lompoc, Calif. In 1892 Mr. Burpee married Miss Blanche Simons, to whom three children were born, the other son Stuart Alexander also surviving.

Mr. Burpee made a leading specialty of sweet peas and there is a long list of standard varieties to his credit. In addition he introduced many high grade novelties in other garden flowers and vegetables, giving particular attention to tomatoes and melons. Aside from the mail order seed business, probably one of the largest in existence, he was interested in many other commercial enterprises, more especially financial institutions of his own city. He was a life member of the Society of American Florists and in 1893 at the Chicago convention of the American Seed Trade Association he was elected president of that organization, presiding at the Toronto meeting in 1894. He was also closely identified with the affairs of the Wholesale Seedsmen's League, a former president of the American Sweet Pea Society, vice-president of the National Sweet Pea Society of England, a member of the Royal Horticultural Society and the Societe Nationale Horticulture de France. Mr. Burpee was prominent as a clubman and ardent in his convictions as a republican in politics. Ever the friend of the afflicted, with broad sympathies he was beloved by all who knew him.

The funeral was held November 29 at Fordhook with interment in Doylestown cemetery. The services were largely attended, there being a number of representatives of the seed trade from neighboring cities, while many of the local craft in all branches of the business were present. Floral tokens, most of them of the choicest flowers, almost filled the large room in which the body lay, beautiful examples of the florists' art. Elaborate pieces were received from New York, Chicago, St. Louis, Augusta, Ga., and many other cities. Representative men from the clubs and institutions in which Mr. Burpee was interested were also present.

A writer in a recent issue of the Philadelphia Public Ledger closes his eulogy with the following appropriate lines:

How fittingly this man's life closes
That, like blown petals on the grass,
In this serene time of summer's roses
He, too, should pass.
Light be the churchyard loam above him
And sweet the spring that he shall know;
There shall God's blossoms learn to love him,
Who loved them so.

AN APPRECIATION.

The following is from an appreciative notice of the late W. Atlee Burpee in the Philadelphia North American of November 27:

"Many a man and woman in Philadelphia will choke up today when W. Atlee Burpee's death becomes known. Many of these will be folk widely known within and far beyond this city, for his circle of friends included nearly every personage of affairs. And quite as many are unknown to the great mass, for the heart behind his ever-open hand made no distinction.

"Together, the rich and the poor will be sad over the passing of this most generous man. For of him it may be said, as of few who have succeeded in like degree, that he never turned from those who needed either his counsel, his assistance or his friendly guidance.

"Though he came to be known as a leader in his line of business, his finest achievement was the cultivation of a nature so thoughtful for others, whatever their place or portion, that every one who came within its radiance was warmed by it and in some measure inspired to kinder thinking and doing.

"Of course, he was human, a man of iron will and inflexible purpose; and his keen insight into human nature and strong mentality made his opinion of value on many subjects foreign to his chosen task. But the thing one carried away from him was a remembrance of a generous thoughtfulness such as too seldom is met."

CHICAGO RESOLUTIONS.

At a meeting held at the Hotel Sherman, Chicago, November 29, resolutions on the death of the late W. Atlee Burpee were adopted as follows:

Whereas, The death of W. Atlee Burpee, of Philadelphia, Pa., has taken from us one of our most earnest co-workers in the cause of horticulture and one whose high standard of business ethics has aided materially in advancing the trade to a higher plane, we, the undersigned, representing the Chicago Seed Trade, the Horticultural Society of Chicago and the Chicago Florists' Club, desire to place on record our high appreciation of his life work and it is therefore

Resolved, That we consider the services of W. Atlee Burpee in his chosen field, particularly his work in sweet peas, and garden flowers and vegetables generally, worthy of the greatest prominence in the annals of American horticulture, and it is further

Resolved, That we extend to his family and business associates our heartfelt sympathy in the great loss they have sustained. It is further Resolved, That signed copies of these resolutions be forwarded to his family and business associates.

August Gontram.

August Gontram, an expert grower making a specialty of violets and sweet peas, with both of which he was very successful, died at his home in Philadelphia, Pa., Sunday, November 28. He was a native of Alsace-Lorraine, migrating to Canada about 30 years ago, and shortly after became a resident of Philadelphia, accepting a position at the Convent of the Sacred Heart at Torresdale. About 15 years ago he purchased greenhouses on Rowland avenue near Rhawn avenue, Holmesburg, and these he conducted with great success. The funeral services were held Wednesday, December 1, and there were quantities of the flowers he loved so well, the services being largely attended by his friends in the craft.

Frank Glatzl.

Franz Glatzl, for the past 14 years employed as a gardener and florist by G. E. M. Stumpp, Fifth avenue and 58th street, New York, died November 24. Several weeks ago he received an injury while placing a window-box, resulting in lockjaw, which caused his death. He was about 40 years old and a native of Austria. He was a capable and energetic man and esteemed by his employer. He is survived by a wife and two children.

Mrs. Emma Critchell.

Mrs. Emma Critchell was called suddenly by death, Monday morning, November 29, 1915. Her illness had been only of a few days' duration. Twelve years ago she married C. E. Critchell. Mrs. Critchell took a very keen interest in the florist business and by her kind and friendly traits formed many lasting friendships. She was a life member of the Ladies' S. A. F. and an ex-president thereof. Her husband, C. E. Critchell, and a son, C. E. Critchell, Jr., survive her. The funeral services were held at Spring Grove chapel on Wednesday afternoon and the burial in beautiful Spring Grove cemetery.

H.

WACO, TEX.—Wolfe, the Florist, arranged a very attractive floral display at the Cotton Palace, many visitors declaring it the finest display of flowers and plants ever seen in the south.

BROOKINGS, S. D.—Fully 10,000 persons attended the annual chrysanthemum show at State College. About 40,000 blooms of every color and description represented 340 distinct varieties.

COLUMBIA CITY, IND.—The North Side Greenhouses, owned by Elmer Cox, of Columbia township, were sold November 23, to Charles S. Adair, of Fort Wayne, for a consideration which was given out as $10,000.

DES MOINES, IA.—The flower shop of Lozier, the Florist, Inc., 521 East Locust street, which has been remodeled, and is now one of the most attractive in the state, was thrown open to the public, November 20.

MILWAUKEE, WIS. — The handsome new East Side store of the Edlfsen-Leidiger Co., at 419 Milwaukee street, was opened December 1. The establishment is one of the most attractive in the city and is in charge of Miss Semler.

NORTH YAKIMA, WASH.—Howard Wright, of this city, was elected president of the Washington State Horticultural Association and North Yakima selected as the next meeting place at the closing session of the annual meeting November 17.

DAYTON, O.—Members of the Florists and Gardeners' Club have decided to reserve the entire north end of the sixth floor of the new Delco building, in which the Dayton Industrial exposition will be held January 14-22, for a flower show.

TOPEKA, KAN.—James Hayes, whose flower shop at 819 Kansas avenue was damaged by fire November 24, was able to take care of all orders for Thanksgiving, his fellow florists lending him all possible assistance when they learned of his misfortune. New fixtures have been ordered.

TORONTO, ONT.—At the annual meeting of the Gardeners' and Florists' Association of Ontario, held at St. George's hall, November 16, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: L. Whytock, president; Geo. Thompson, first vice-president; T. J. Gould, second vice-president; Geo. Douglas, secretary; Geo. H. Mills, treasurer.

SAN FRANCISCO, CALIF.—Julius Epstein began suit against V. Matraia of the Art Floral Company, November 20, to compel him to turn over to him one share of the capital stock in the Art Floral Company, so that Epstein may hold the same number of shares that Matraia holds. A contract whereby each was to hold the same number of shares is cited.

THE dates of the American Carnation Society's St. Louis convention and exhibition are January 26-27.

ENGLAND is prosperous now in the cut flower trade because no blooms are being shipped from the south of France or Italy.

THE post office authorities request the public to mail Christmas packages early and call attention to the regulation by which parcel post packages may be insured.

THERE was, as usual, a good deal of pickled stock offered for the Thanksgiving trade, but the picklers as a rule were the only sufferers from this proceeding as buyers refused to take it where good material was available. In most cases this pickled stock would have brought fair prices if offered in good condition during the preceding two weeks.

AT the forthcoming international flower show, to be held at Philadelphia, March 25-April 2, the American Gladiolus Society is offering numerous prizes for forced gladioli in both commercial and amateur classes. For full particulars address Secretary H. Youell, 538 Cedar street, Syracuse, N. Y.

DEPARTMENT OF REGISTRATION.

Public notice is hereby given that the Conard & Jones Co., West Grove, Pa., offers for registration the cannas mentioned below. Any person objecting to the use of the proposed names or registration is requested to communicate with the secretary at once. Failing to receive objection to the registration, the same will be made three weeks from this date.

Canna LaFayette—In some respects it resembles the famous Meteor, but the flowers are a more intense scarlet. The heads of bloom are carried erect above the healthy, green foliage, producing a brilliant effect in mass planting.

Canna Windmar—This is rather dwarf in habit; the flowers are medium in size, fine rounded petals; color, clear distinct orange, broadly margined with canary-yellow. An early and free bloomer, self cleaning, erect trusses carried well above the foliage, which is a marine shade of green. Parentage, Buttercup x seedling.

Iowa's Floral Industry Grows.

In the 10 years between 1903 and 1913 the total valuation of greenhouse property in Iowa has grown from $320,000 to $657,000 or more than 100 per cent. Now the value approaches a million dollars. At present about 3,500,000 square feet of ground area are covered by glass, distributed among 165 different firms. Iowa has two of the largest commercial greenhouses west of Chicago and it can also claim leadership in college equipment of greenhouses for the development of the industry. Florists have for some years been asking the State College at Ames to take up the study of their problems and train young men for this line of work and they are enthusiastic because it now has been undertaken so fully.

Thanksgiving Business.

Thanksgiving business for 1915, based on reports received from all sections of the country, has been highly satisfactory, both in volume of sales and prices. While the supply of stock in nearly every instance was plentiful, the increased demand resulted in many cases of a complete cleanup to the last flower before the close of business. Yellow chrysanthemums were the leaders in popularity, while the pompons were a close second, showing they are gaining in favor each year. Roses, carnations, and in fact flowers of every variety were in demand, and quality stock moved out first. Prices, as a rule, were reasonable, and ideal weather stimulated sales, until in some cases, the increase noted over the business for the corresponding period a year ago is reported as high as 30 per cent and in one or two instances even greater. The trade generally seems well pleased with this year's Thanksgiving business and anticipates a splendid holiday season.

National Association of Gardeners.

Everything is in readiness for the annual convention of the National Association of Gardeners, which will be held in Boston, Mass., December 9-10. The committee on arrangements, W. N. Craig, Duncan Finlayson and William J. Kennedy, announces that the convention will be opened in Horticultural hall promptly at two o'clock on Thursday. That day will be devoted to the disposing of the business before the convention. Friday will be given up to visiting points of horticultural interests in and around Boston. The Copley Square hotel has been selected as the headquarters of the association. A committee, of the horticultural interests of Boston and the Gardeners' and Florists' Club of Boston, is planning to make the visit of the gardeners to their city a memorable one.

Plant Pathologist Examination.

Announcement has been made that the United States civil service examination for plant pathologist in citrus fruit diseases, for men only, will be held January 1, 1916. From the register of eligibles resulting from this examination, certification will be made to fill a vacancy in this position in the Bureau of Plant Industry, Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., at a salary ranging from $2520 to $3000 a year.

Cornell University Floricultural Course.

Four courses are being offered in the current term of the winter course at the college of agriculture, Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y., which opens November 9, namely, Commercial Floriculture and Greenhouse Practice, Commercial Greenhouse and Conservatory Construction and Heating, Gardening and Garden Flowers, and Amateur Floriculture. Through the kindness of a former student in the winter course, at the college of agriculture, $50 are available for prizes to be given in the three main lines of work, each of which will have $10 available for first prize and $5 for the second prize.

CORRECTION.—The Conard & Jones Co., West Grove, Pa., write to advise that the gold medal awards to which reference was made in our issue of November 20, were not for roses, plants and shrubs, but for cannas of their own origination and introduction.

THANKSGIVING DEMAND HEAVY.

The florists in general had every reason to be thankful last week, for business was so lively that everything in the cut-flower line cleaned up in good order for the Thanksgiving trade. Chrysanthemums, single and in bunches (pompons), made their last strike and it was a good one, for with roses rather scarce, the former with carnations, came in very handy for substitutes. The supply of violets, both the singles and doubles, and orchids, was rather short of the demand. Owing to the fact that carnations were plentiful the average prices asked were from 2 to 3 cents, while only a few reached the $4 mark. Russell roses were readily disposed of at $2 per dozen, while in American Beauties $5 was the price asked. There also was enough stevia, but this, although somewhat green, was readily disposed of.

NOTES.

Alfred Schiller, proprietor of the Schiller Flower Shop, on 27th and Center streets, has been on the sick list, although able to be around for some time past, with stomach trouble. Report has it that he is to undergo an operation in the near future.

The retailers' colony has been increased by the addition of another new flower store, located at 12th and Center streets. Louis Plate, formerly with the C. C. Pollworth Co., at the wholesale house, together with his brother, are the proprietors.

FLOWER SHOW INFLUENCE FELT.

"The proof of the pudding is in the eating." Already the fruits of the flower show are being realized, especially if the business done on Thanksgiving day is any sign of an awakened public. Thanksgiving day business was the best we have had for several years and surely the retail display at the flower show must have created a longing for flowers for tables and vases, and general use, as never before. Advance orders early indicated that there would be a good demand, especially for pompons and chrysanthemums. Both were plentiful and of good quality. Carnations, too, cleaned up entirely, long before all orders were filled; also they were not in full crop. Roses were short of the demand. Especially was this true of Pink Killarney, Hoosier Beauty, Sunburst and Wards in the larger grades, but American Beauties specials were in good demand and the supply adequate. Medium grades, too, sold well throughout. Violets, lily of the valley, Aaron Wards and Adiantum ferns for corsages were also in excellent demand, violets and lily of the valley being short before the close of the business day. The demand for stock for nearby shipping points was very good, and it was a late hour when the packers at most of the local houses left the store on Tuesday evening. Since Thursday there has not been an over-supply of stock of any kind. Chrysanthemums, as usual, are pretty well done for on Thanksgiving, as also are pompons, and only small lots arrive from now on. Boxwood is in good demand and advance orders for later delivery are frequent; also supplies for Christmas are being ordered by nearly all florists now. There has been considerable funeral work the past week.

NOTES.

The J. Eadie Co. has dissolved partnership. The greenhouses will now be known as the Friedley Co., while the store, under the management of Frank Schoen, will move in with the Crane Candy Co. and will occupy one-half of their store and go under the firm name of the Crane Co., beginning December 1. The Crane Co. are located on Euclid avenue, opposite the Statler hotel.

A. Graham & Son had a number of good sized orders for the Firestone funeral in Akron, Ohio, November 29 including a blanket of pink roses, besides baskets and bouquets of American Beauties, Sunbursts, violets and lily of the valley. C. F. B.

GOOD SALES AT MODERATE PRICES.

Last week's business was fairly good. There was an unusually large amount of stock in the market and this fact probably served to keep prices down to a moderate point. All stock of quality had a pretty ready sale, but the poorer grades had little or no market. Many of the shipments received were either badly pickled or badly bruised. Roses, while still in a good supply, are shortening. The colored ones and American Beauties are meeting with a very active demand. Carnations are selling well. Easter lilies and callas are plentiful. Chrysanthemums, too, are plentiful, but the receipts include only limited quantities of the very late varieties. Other offerings include lily of the valley, orchids, violets, double and single, sweet peas, baby primroses, forget-me-nots, snapdragons and narcissi.

NOTES.

Alex. Ostendorp, of the Cincinnati Cut Flower Exchange, who was confined to his home for a couple of days last week because of illness, is again at his office.

Harry Sunderhaus, of C. E. Critchell's force, is suffering from a wound in the thumb. He didn't know the "smoke wagon" was loaded.

George Klotter has been sending some excellent double stevia into the market.

New Orleans.

A meeting of the New Orleans Horticultural Society was held November 18, H. Scheuermann presiding and C. R. Panter, secretary, at his station. After routine business had been acted upon the special order of business (spring flower show) was taken up. After a general discussion by all the members present it was unanimously decided to give a show the first week in April, 1916; the exhibitors to comprise the arrangement committee. The committee consists of the following: P. A. Chopin, chairman; C. Ory, Abele Bros., J. A. Newsham, J. Steckler of the Steckler Seed Co., H. Mische, M. Scheinuck, H. Reyes, E. Farley, H. Doescher, A. Verlinde, C. W. Eichling, B. M. Wicher, H. Kraak, vice-chairman of the committee; H. Scheuermann, ex-officio; Chas. R. Panter, secretary-treasurer.

X. Grillot was unanimously elected to membership. P. A. Chopin, Mr. St. Mard and others discussed the great increase of the crop pest and the needs of greater assistance of the state authorities to eradicate same. The discussion met with unanimous approval and led to the appointment of a committee on pest legislation, viz.: P. A. Chopin, J. Steckler and C. R. Panter. This committee will appreciate any legislative data on that subject that the readers of THE AMERICAN FLORIST can afford them.

AMPLE SUPPLY MEETS HEAVY DEMAND.

From reports of both growers and retailers, Thanksgiving business surpassed expectations and splendid gains were registered. The weather during the week was clear and cool but there was no shortage of stock, even with the added call for a number of weddings and social events that broke all records for Thanksgiving week. Chrysanthemums were still in good shape and were sold in large quantities. Roses and carnations were of better quality than they have been for some time.

NOTES.

S. N. Peck was very pleased with Thanksgiving business. An unusually large number of orders were filled for people from the surrounding small towns. Other prominent retailers who made substantial gains were Max Spanner, Mrs. J. B. Freeman, Miss Helen Patten, Feninger's Flower Shop, Park Floral Co. and Chas. Koelker & Sons.

The Lindley Floral Co., while only having been established a month were busy all day. Their business was immensely gratifying and the force was taxed to its utmost to care for the orders that poured in.

Schramm Bros. featured pompon baskets, selling a large number of them, which, together with four elaborate decorations for weddings, helped make their Thanksgiving trade the greatest in their history.

Tom Magee, of Scottwood Greenhouses, had no difficulty in disposing of all the better grade of chrysanthemums that he had. The demand was for a better grade of stock than usual.

Metz & Bateman report the biggest rush in their history. Funeral work has also been heavy and they have had numerous decorations for social functions during November.

Among the growers, Krueger Bros., George Bayer and Harry Heintl, report a very heavy demand for stock, having difficulty in filling orders complete in some lines.

THANKSGIVING TRADE OF USUAL VOLUME.

Quite a satisfactory Thanksgiving week's business here was the rule, though it is believed not to have exceeded that of the same period a year ago. In the opinion of some florists better results might have been realized through co-operative advertising, a plan followed at a number of other special seasons. The trade appears to be widely divided on methods of pulling together for the general good. Most stores ran very low on chrysanthemums, a few being practically sold out before Thursday. Top-notch prices were freely paid by customers. Carnations and roses were stimulated by the shortage. Some new cuttings of chrysanthemums are being received this week, but the supply is light. The Eaton variety is the one principally in evidence. The season's favorite, the Chadwick, has practically disappeared. Sweet peas are fine. Violets are now a leading feature of stock. There is good range of selection in roses, with American beauties as the leader, both in popularity and price.

NOTES.

Offices of the state board of administration, located in Columbus, which has charge of all benevolent and charitable institutions run by Ohio, have been profusely decorated during the past week with chrysanthemums sent in from the Massillon Hospital for the Insane. The display consisted of a great collection of sizes and varieties. Special attention is being given to flower-growing at this institution, not for commercial reasons, but on the theory that it is an aid in the treatment of mental disorders. Dr. H. C. Eyman, the superintendent, and a leading authority on insanity, testifies, as a result of his experiments, to striking benefits that have been realized through having patients spend hours in the greenhouses. Aside from the mere matter of their minds being taken up with their surroundings, contact with flowers is claimed to have a distinct restorative tendency. For the benefit of all the insane hospitals of the state this theory is to be thoroughly tested by the board through further experiments.

A mezzanine floor is being installed in the retail store of the Livingston Seed Company, for the accommodation of the offices. The space thus gained by the removal of the latter from the main floor will be utilized in the extension of the flower and bulb departments.

There are unconfirmed rumors of two new flower stores, one to go in the new Deshler hotel and the other in the Z. L. White new department store building. Both these improvements lack some months of being ready for occupancy.

Ft. Wayne, Ind.

All of the florists in this city have cause to be thankful for 1915 Thanksgiving business. The demand was fully up to all expectations and the amount of stock used was enormous, with yellow chrysanthemums in the lead. Prices ranged from 75 cents per dozen for singles and pompons to $4 for the largest varieties, the finest of these being Major Bonaffon, Eaton, Chadwick and Dolly Dimple. Thanksgiving weddings were numerous and dinners and social events created a demand for corsages, boxes of flowers and basket arrangements. All other seasonable stocks, especially American Beauties, sold well.

TRADE BEST IN HISTORY.

Trade in this city during the Thanksgiving period has been the best ever experienced by the local trade. In many instances the increase in sales has been from 30 per cent to 60 per cent better than last year. The market conditions were ideal—ample stock to meet all requirements and prices that were not prohibitive.

NOTES.

Lycopodium is again in the market. Powers department store, the first to start Christmas decorating, have embellished the exterior of their building with Christmas trees and greens.

Cal Rice and the Van Bochove party of Kalamazoo, Mich., returned November 29 with two nice deer and two moose. The "boys" are enjoying a big feed.

THANKSGIVING DEMAND NORMAL.

Cold weather has set in for keeps, it seems, and this, with no abundance of sunshine, has had a marked affect on market conditions here. Both roses and carnations have been cut down considerably in supply, White Killarney being almost out of sight. Chrysanthemums seem to have seen the best of their season for this year and very few are seen these days. There are plenty of lilies and lily of the valley, and we may look for narcissi and daffodils in the near future. Winter sweet peas are beginning, but are not so strong as yet. The boxwood being handled by the local dealers is excellent this year, and already half the retail dealers have received their supply for Christmas. Ground pine and log moss are also of a very good quality. Thanksgiving business was really good, but did not smash any records here.

It was also noticed that Thanksgiving business did not get much discussion in advance of the holiday, as it usually does.

NOTES.

"Jack" Sisley, formerly of Spragg & Sisley, Washington, Pa., is now doing road duty for the McCallum Co., where he was located some time ago as a cut-flower salesman.

Geo. Wessenauer has moved his conservatory further downtown, on Broad street, Sewickley, besides building a new store in connection.

George Bros. & Co., operating a nursery business in Springdale, are preparing to open a retail shop in New Kensington in the near future.

A GOOD THANKSGIVING BUSINESS.

The Thanksgiving business was good, especially as far as the out-of-town demand was concerned, and compares favorably with that of last year. Stock cleaned up pretty well each day until Tuesday noon, November 23, when the market began to weaken, which was due principally to the fact that the pickled stock began to arrive and caused the local buyers to look around and pick up a bargain wherever it was offered. Roses of all kinds cleaned up quickly at good prices but there was practically no demand for carnations as far as the city buyers were concerned and it is a question whether they ever sold before at Thanksgiving at such low prices as they did this year. Chrysanthemums were in large supply and sold well at prices that could have been much higher. A large quantity of pickled stock reached the market on Tuesday and Wednesday, which would have realized better returns had they been shipped in a few days before and even on Monday when very little stock was available. Pompons were never in such large supply for Thanksgiving as they were this year and probably never sold as well at prices ranging from 25 cents to 50 cents per bunch. The large supply of pompons that was offered affected the sale of carnations according to some of the dealers, who claim that their customers who used carnations in previous years bought pompons instead this season. Violets sold well the early part of the week but dropped considerably in price around Thanksgiving time, when choice stock was available at prices ranging as low as 50 cents per 100. Sweet peas cleaned up well at good prices and the few orchids and gardenias which did arrive were quickly disposed of at good prices. A few Paper White narcissi were offered and the same holds good for gladioli. Some fine mignonette was among the offerings and sold well. Lily of the valley cleaned up nicely and a large quantity of California violets were offered but did not sell any too well. Taken all in all the Thanksgiving business was quite good, but not up to expectations, and more stock was handled than last year at much lower prices. Trade after Thanksgiving was good, which was somewhat surprising, for there is usually a lull after a holiday, but this does not seem to be the case this year. Every one is busy getting ready for Christmas and the supply houses now have a complete line of goods on display and many of the retail stores are already showing an advance line of begonias, cyclamens, azaleas, poinsettias and neatly made up baskets of flowering and foliage plants.

KROESCHELL BOOKS LARGE ORDER.

The A. F. Amling Co., of Maywood, has awarded Kroeschell Bros. Co. the contract for the boilers to heat its new range of houses which calls for four of their new fire and water tube steam boilers each unit having a heating ca-capacity of 300 h. p. This is the largest single greenhouse boiler order placed at any one time in the history of the trade.

THE RETAIL TRADE.

The Thanksgiving trade in Chicago was very good and a trifle better than last year. Prices were about the same and the demand was principally for chrysanthemums and pompons. Roses sold well but were very scarce and brought good prices. Violets did not sell any too well. Sweet peas were in good demand and cleaned up at an early hour. Orchids were scarce. Carnations had very little call, owing to the fact that pompons were plentiful and probably never sold for such low prices at Thanksgiving before as they did this year. The quality of the stock in general was very good with the exception of some pickled chrysanthemums which arrived at the last moment. Taken all in all the retail florists are well satisfied with the Thanksgiving business, for the weather was ideal, and there was plenty of stock obtainable with the exception of roses at very reasonable prices.

WIETOR BROS.

162 N. Wabash Ave., Long Distance Phone, Randolph 2081. CHICAGO

NOTES.

Poehlmann Bros. Co. has already booked several nice orders for cut flowers for Christmas, according to Otto W. Frese, who entered the first ones November 29. This firm's Thanksgiving business was the best in years and the outlook for Christmas is bright for the crops at Morton Grove never looked more promising and the supply department is booking new orders every day. In the plant department Thos. Canton has everything in splendid condition and in addition to a large supply of begonias, cyclamen and other plants he figures that they will have at least 5,000 azaleas to offer this year. Fifty cases of late flowering azaleas arrived last week as did hydrangeas, which came through in very poor condition.

Wieter Bros. have no complaint whatever to make in regard to their Thanksgiving business, which was as good as could be expected and better than last year. They are cutting a large supply of fancy Sunburst and American Beauty roses and the outlook for big crops for Christmas in all lines is very encouraging. Pompons are still seen in large numbers at this store and were quite a factor in the market for Thanksgiving.

Chris. Pederson, 58 East Randolph street, had the order for the Hillstrom funeral which consisted of a large wreath and also the order of the rider that was killed in the six-day bicycle race at the Coliseum. One order last week called for two magnolia wreaths which will adorn the graves of two soldiers on the battlefields of Germany should they ever reach their destinations.

A. T. Pyfer & Co. had a brisk shipping trade Thanksgiving week and while the local demand was not as good as in former years the total sales were larger and stock with one or two exceptions was pretty well sold out. Ernest Farley is the latest addition to the store force and is now assisting Mr. Pyfer in waiting on the customers.

In the wholesale store occupied by M. C. Gunterberg and Sinner Bros. there are several mottoes painted on the wall that are attracting considerable attention, especially the one reading, "When the whole blamed world seems gone to pot, and business on the bum, a two-cent grin and a lifted chin, helps some, my boy, helps some."

A. Lange had a splendid Thanksgiving trade and his store was filled with customers at all times. Chrysanthemums and pompons were his best sellers, but other stock sold well and several extra trips to market were necessary to replenish the stock as the orders kept coming in.

O. J. Friedman was busier last week with weddings and funerals than he has been for a long time and Victor Bergman and his able assistants found it necessary to work until midnight on several occasions so that the work could be delivered on time.

F. C. W. Brown, general manager and F. C. Bartels, superintendent of the Rocky River greenhouses, of the J. M. Gasser Co., Cleveland, O., visited Bassett & Washburn's greenhouses at Gregg's Station, this week.

Miss Marguerite McNulty, bookkeeper for Peter Reinberg, had her picture in the Tribune one day last week when she acted as end lady in a minstrel show given on the north side, the proceeds of which were donated to a worthy cause.

Civil service examination for gardeners will be held December 28, 1915, at 9 a. m. at the Garfield park pavilion. For further information and application blanks address Civil Service Board, Union Park.

Miller & Musser are disposing of large quantities of red winter berries which they are handling in large supply in case lots.

George J. Ball of Glen Ellyn is cutting a good supply of choice sweet peas which he is consigning to Kyle & Foerster, as usual.

Robert Newcomb, representing Vaughan's Seed Store, is out on the road again.

John T. Muir reports trade as good with a splendid Thanksgiving business.

Philip Schupp, manager of the firm of J. A. Budlong, is well pleased with their new quarters since the finishing touches have been made, and is now devoting his attention to the Christmas business. This firm is cutting a good supply of fancy American Beauty roses, which are fine property, owing to the general scarcity of them in this market.

Norby & Hofe, of Des Plaines, are shipping some fine Helen Frick and White Helen Frick chrysanthemums in this market. Mr. Norby is seriously thinking of retiring from active business and leaving the greenhouses in charge of his able partner, Mr. Hofe.

The Chicago Flower Growers' Association is showing a good supply of Helen Frick chrysanthemums, which they believe is the finest pink chrysanthemum obtainable in the market at present. This firm is also showing a large quantity of gladioli.

Hoerber Bros. never had such a fine supply of chrysanthemums to offer for Thanksgiving as they did this year, and succeeded in disposing of the en-

CUT FLOWERS

We are in daily touch with market conditions and when a decline takes place you can rely upon orders sent us receiving such benefits.

Felix Reichling says that Peter Reinberg's Thanksgiving business was much better than last year and satisfactory from every standpoint. The outlook for a large supply of stock for Christmas is very bright and the Richmond rose crop promises to be the best in years. Since this firm installed their overhead heating system last year in their American Beauty rose range they have had larger crops and the shipments now include a good supply of their flowers each day.

The McNeff-Swenson Co.'s new Christmas folder is ready for distribution and is the best one that the firm ever issued. It is most appropriate for the occasion and any one desiring a sample may obtain same upon request from the company at 608 South Dearborn street. L. G. Reese who was with the McNeff-Swenson Co. when it first started is back in their employ which means that their service will be better than ever for he is an expert in this line.

Bassett & Washburn are enjoying a brisk shipping trade and dispose of their stock at an early hour each day. This week will mark the end of the chrysanthemum season as far as this firm is concerned, and should result in a heavier demand for carnations. C. L. Washburn says that with the exception of roses, which were in short supply, all their Thanksgiving orders were filled in full and that so far no complaints have been received from their many customers.

James Hayes and wife, Topeka, Kansas, have been in the city several days this week buying new fixtures and supplies to replace the old ones destroyed by fire November 24. Mr. Hayes says that he was able to take care of all his Thanksgiving orders in good shape through the courtesy of his fellow florists, who assisted him in every possible way as soon as they learned of his misfortune.

Zech & Mann are handling a large quantity of Mrs. Chas. Russell roses, which are in good demand at all times and clean up quickly at good prices. Allie Zech says that their Thanksgiving business was most satisfactory and that the sales during November will run considerably ahead of those of the corresponding month last year.

John Michelsen of the E. C. Amling Co. says that business is showing a steady increase and that since May 1, 1915, the sales were far ahead of last year and considerably better than those of the same period of 1913. Their Thanksgiving business was fine and the firm has no cause whatever to complain of dull times.

The Raedlein Basket Co., 713 Milwaukee avenue, never had such a heavy demand for baskets for the holidays as this year and are fortunate in having plenty on hand to fill all the orders. Their special offers are proving to be winners and have brought splendid results.

A bowling team, consisting of John Huebner, Wm. Lorman, Fred Price, Allie Zech and Peter Olsem, will represent the trade in the city tournament now being held at Bensinger's West Randolph street alleys, and are scheduled to roll at 7:45 p. m., Thursday, December 9.

The Fleischman Floral Co. had the family order for the Weeghman funeral, which consisted of a casket cover and several other large floral pieces. Their Thanksgiving business was up to all expectations, with the demand mostly for roses and chrysanthemums.

A. E. Turner, with Rosin & Turner, Mosinee, Wis., was in the city on business this week. He will bring down a couple carloads of Christmas trees again this year and expects to make his headquarters at J. A. Budlong's old stand, 82 East Randolph street.

Percy Jones received a large shipment of magnolia leaves this week and now has plenty to supply his customers with for the holidays. This firm deals heavily in green goods of all kinds and is featuring a splendid grade of boxwood, ferns, etc.

The George Wittbold Co. is having a good call for plants for the holidays and is starting to ship out same. The weather has been ideal for shipping purposes and the firm is urging everyone to get their stock before extreme cold weather sets in.

Erne & Klingel report a satisfactory Thanksgiving business, with trade showing no signs of a let-up since then. Charlie's little goat is proving to be a first class mascot and is sure of a home from now on.

A. L. Vaughan & Co. had a very good Thanksgiving business with the sales running slightly ahead of last year. Mr. Vaughan is well pleased with business since Thanksgiving, for stock of all kinds is cleaning up nicely at satisfactory prices.

Joseph Ziska & Sons have leased space in the building at 181 North Wabash avenue, in which Miller & Musser are located, and which they will be able to use to good advantage during the holiday season.

George Perdikas reports a good Thanksgiving business at both his 407 South Wabash avenue and 37 West Jackson boulevard stores with chrysanthemums the principal seller.

Philip L. McKee, of the American Greenhouse Manufacturing Co., is in Detroit, Mich., on business. Joe Bennett is now engaged in the drafting department of this company.

The regular meeting of the Chicago Florists' Club will be held at the Hotel Morrison next Thursday, December 9 at 8 p. m., when the election of officers will take place.

The A. L. Randall Co. is mailing its Christmas catalogue which contains a complete list of its holiday offerings.

George Reinberg is cutting a good supply of roses and expects to have a good crop for Christmas.

Chas. P. Mueller, Wichita, Kansas, was in the city this week buying his stock of holiday supplies.

At Chas. W. McKellar's store orchids are still on the short side and are bringing fancy prices.

H. H. Conn is no longer identified with the Englewood Flower Shop, 703 West Sixty-third street.

Vaughan's Seed Store is handling a car of hardy lily bulbs this week.

THE LEO NIESSEN CO., 1201-5 Race St., Philadelphia, Pa.

Mangel, the Palmer House Florist, is using his new conservatory to good advantage in displaying plants of all kinds and has about as fine a collection to offer as one can find in any retail establishment in the city. He is at present stocking it up with Christmas plants and is wondering how he managed to get along without his show house in former years. Mr. Mangel will enlarge his store right after the first of next year, further particulars to be announced later.

Mrs. Joseph Labo and Peter Herbach, of Joliet, were married in this city, Saturday, November 27, at 8:30 o'clock in St. Peter's Church, Rev. Father Bernard, pastor of St. John's German Catholic church, of Joliet, officiating. The wedding came as a complete surprise to their many friends who wish them every happiness. Mrs. Herbach will continue to conduct the Labo Floral establishment. Mr. Herbach is connected with the Joliet National bank.

Weiland & Risch closed a land deal November 29 for 60 lots 50 ft. by 210 feet long, two blocks north and three blocks west of their present holdings in Evanston. While the firm has not stated that it is going to increase their already large range, it has been heard from good authority that such is the case and that several new houses will be built in the near future.

Frank Schramm is well pleased with his new range of Foley greenhouses at Crystal Lake, consisting of 20,000 square feet of glass, all planted to carnations, and claims to have one of the finest service buildings in the state and which everyone is cordially invited to inspect.

Schiller's first Thanksgiving down town was very good, according to Miss Bert Schiller, who is in charge of their new place at 36 South Wabash avenue. Chrysanthemums and pompons sold best but neatly arranged baskets of begonia plants were also in good demand.

Miss Lillian Tonner started November 29 to represent Pennock-Meehan Co., of Philadelphia, Pa., in this city and vicinity. She is well and favorably known to the local trade through her former connection with the A. L. Randall Co.

F. F. Benthey, who markets his stock at Kennicott Bros. Co.'s store, is showing fancy Hoosier Beauty and Mrs. George Shawyer roses. He likes both of these varieties first rate and continues to grow them on a large scale.

O. A. Tonner has had a new sign painted on the entrance to her wholesale store, which is a great improvement over the old one. She reports a very satisfactory Thanksgiving business with a clean-up in all lines.

Tim Matchen makes his daily trip to the market from Indiana Harbor in his Ford, a distance of about 25 miles. He is well pleased with business and enjoyed a good Thanksgiving trade.

The Alpha Floral Co., 146 South Wabash avenue, enjoyed a good Thanksgiving business and a large amount of wedding orders last week helped to increase the sales considerably.

Mrs. A. C. Rott of Joliet evidently believes in doing her Christmas shopping early, for she placed several large orders for holiday goods while she was in the city, November 26.

At Kennicott Bros. Co.'s store everything is all set for the holidays, which from present indications appears will be brisk for their Thanksgiving trade was very satisfactory.

The E. F. Winterson Co. is having a brisk call for wood fibre festooning which has only been in the market for two years and comes in strings 36 to 40 inches long.

The Bohannon Floral Co., 57 East Monroe street, featured combination baskets and boxes of candy and flowers in their Thanksgiving window display.

George Wienhoeber, 41 South Wabash avenue, reports a brisk Thanksgiving business with the demand principally for large chrysanthemums.

J. Aggen, 4134 West Twenty-sixth street, is well pleased with business and has noticed a steady increase in his roses for several months.

A GREAT THANKSGIVING.

November 25, 1915, should go down in the history of this city as a "red letter" day. Speaking strictly of the wholesale cut flower business, it was not as satisfactory to the dealers as some previous Thanksgivings, for, as compared with former years, the bulk of the stock sold cheap. With chrysanthemums in particular, nothing else could be done; though vast numbers were sold the wholesale district did not succeed in entirely cleaning them up. The leading features were: A day so beautiful that it was a joy to live; the turning out of the people, almost en masse to enjoy it, and a consequent heavy business for the retailers. Many, if not all, of the retailers, gave their customers the benefit of reduced prices. Thousands of chrysanthemums were sold at 15 cents each, or at that rate. In previous years the cheapest have seldom sold for less than 25 cents. If we reason on the theory of the greatest good to the greatest number, the day was a great success. It may be pleasing to some to see fine flowers—that belong to other people—but, it is more satisfactory to have them placed within the reach of your slender pocketbook so that you may have them for your own. Orchids, gardenias and roses as a rule sold very well. There was no surplus of either orchids or gardenias, and they cleaned up. The big retail stores bought their cattleyas for $75 per 100; there were some that went in small lots at the rate of $1 each. Gardenias wholesaled at $6 per dozen and were scarce. Special American Beauties went at about $6 per dozen, more or less. The prices on other special roses took a wide range from $6 to $12 per 100, with a few of exceptionally fine quality at the rate of $15 and $20 per 100. Violets did fairly well at 60 cents and 75 cents per 100, with a few at $1. They did not, however, entirely clean up. As chrysanthemums sold cheaper than usual, it was to a considerable extent, a chrysanthemum day, and carnations, roses and violets suffered accordingly. But, taking into consideration the surplus of the past few weeks, and the great amount of stock that came in for Thanksgiving, it was a good day.

New York, November 29.—While business is not particularly active, there is considerable buying and prices are generally firm. The good chrysanthemums are getting cut out, but there are yet enough to supply all demands. There is a surplus of inferior stock and pompons and singles. Carnations are not active. Good roses are moving fairly well at good average prices.

NOTES.

"Fifty years ago," wrote Alfred Henderson in 1895, "camellia flowers retailed freely for a dollar each, and during the holidays Philadelphia used to send thousands to New York florists getting $500 per 1,000, while roses went begging at one-tenth these figures. Now, the rose is queen, and the poor camellia finds none so poor to do her reverence." No doubt that statement was true of the time when Mr. Henderson wrote. For obvious reasons, the camellia could not compete with the rose as its sphere enlarged with improved methods of growing. Yet, there are now people in this city who do the camellia reverence. Only a few days ago we noticed a box of camellia blooms in the wholesale district, and they went to one of the leading Fifth avenue retail stores.

M. L. Vlachos, the Astoria florist, 2188 Broadway, stated that business was three times as good as last year. Herman Warendorff, Alexandre Brothers, A. Ehmann, Charles H. Brown, the Colonial Florist, and the Fort Washington Florist, leading Broadway retailers, all reported excellent business. From the Fifth avenue stores of Alex. McConnell, Chas. Thorley, G. E. M. Stumpff and Thos. F. Galvin, Inc., there were reports of good business. On Madison avenue, from C. A. Dards, Ralph Armstrong, A. T. Buryard and J. G. Leikens, Inc., there were cheerful reports.

They have some excellent retail stores up in the Bronx, the Bronx being that part of this city which is above the Harlem river. One of these is the store of James G. Carlaftes, Webster avenue and Southern boulevard. Standing at the intersection of streets, the building gave good opportunity to install fine show windows, which was taken advantage of. One window is 15x40 feet, the other 15x25. Mr. Carlaftes has a good trade and his store is always well stocked.

At Charles Thorley's, Fifth avenue and 46th street, there were many excellent Thanksgiving features. Although orchids were scarce and high, this store seemed to be well supplied. Other features were a great display of Otaheite oranges, crotons, cyclamens and chrysanthemums in pots.

The "House of Ferns" is a new wholesale store that has opened at 41 West 28th street, and will make a specialty of Asparagus plumosus nanus. We have been advised that this enterprise has substantial backing and will be conducted on business principles. Retta E. Rankin is manager.

Reports from the Brooklyn retailers indicate that they are generally well satisfied with Thanksgiving business. James Mallon's Sons, John V. Phillips, S. Masur, Joseph Levy, Isaac Abrams, James Conlon and Joseph Trepel, all report excellent business.

One of many good features at G. E. M. Stumpff's was Begonia Mrs. Peterson. These plants seem much superior to the older varieties. Azaleas and a variety of other good plants were also noticed. Business was excellent at this store.

Guttman & Raynor, Inc., think highly of the rose Prima Donna, which they are receiving from the Florex Gardens, North Wales, Pa. A. J. Guttman states that some of the special stock wholesales at the rate of $35 per 100.

D. C. Arnold & Co. are handling quite a fine stock of cut pansies. H. L. Bayliss, who sells for Dailedouze Brothers, is receiving very fine stock of the rose Ophelia.

John J. Coan has located, as a wholesale florist, at 115 West 28th street, on the ground floor of a new building recently erected by the Kervan Co.

Louis F. Smith, formerly with the Julius Roehrs Co., Rutherford, N. J., has opened a flower store in the Central Market, 996 Sixth avenue, corner of 56th street.

Thanksgiving business was heavy at the store of Charles A. Dards, Madison avenue and 44th street, and there was a fine stock of plants and cut flowers to choose from.

Max Schling and his force were very busy filling Thanksgiving orders. The quality and variety of cut flower stock was noteworthy at this store.

At the store of David Clarke's Sons, Broadway and 75th street, it was stated that business was much better than last year.

Geo. J. Polykranas is receiving fine American Beauties from Victor Groeschens, Roslyn, Pa.

William P. Ford is receiving fine stock of mignonette, sweet peas and bouvardias.

John Young & Co. are receiving a fine variety of roses.

Gardenias continue scarce and bring high prices.

Two ladies, Miss M. Vinson and Mrs. E. Tunnis, have recently opened a retail store at 147 W. 44th street, near Broadway. They have named their store the "Flower Basket Shop." The furnishings and general arrangement of the "shop" shows excellent taste. This store is near the celebrated and much advertised Hippodrome and other places of amusement, hotels and restaurants, and should be successful.

Frank H. Traendly is sufficiently recovered to visit the store although his feet are not yet free from pain. He thanks his many friends for their inquiries and if all have not received acknowledgments it was because some of his mail was accidentally lost between the store and his home.

W. D. Saunders is manager of the corporation known as Esch, the Florist, 3279 Third avenue. Mr. Saunders has other interests, but devotes considerable time to the florist business. He has a clever designer in the person of Raymond Pulver.

Louis Dupuy, of Whitestone, is sending to the wholesale market the best gardenias we have noticed. He is also cutting good chrysanthemums. His stock is sold in the rooms of the New York Cut Flower Co. by his son, Edward Dupuy.

David Dean, who is well known in the florist business, having been recently with Charles Millang, is now on the road for the A. T. Boddington Company.

George J. Bayerle, a clever young man with fourteen years' experience in the retail business, has recently opened a store at 1728 Second avenue, near BIG INCREASE IN THANKSGIVING TRADE. Thanksgiving trade was excellent, according to reports received from flower shops throughout the city; in fact, about 30 per cent better than last year's business. Ideal weather conditions created a great demand. Chrysanthemums were the big sellers, with pompons, which were to be had in endless variety and varied colorings, a good second choice. The quality was finer than ever and the demand strong. Carnations sold slowly, but roses, orchids, lilies, lily of the valley and American Beauties found a ready sale. Violets were of excellent quality but the demand for them was weak. There are few flowering plants to be seen. Lorraine begonias are just beginning to arrive and a few Roman hyacinths are to be seen. Primrose and chrysanthemum plants are not very good and the Jerusalem cherries seen on the market are small and imperfect.

NOTES.

John Dunbar has written an interesting article for the current number of The National Nurseryman, in which he relates his impressions of the rare trees and shrubs found in the Arnold arboretum, Boston, Mass., which he visited a short time ago. Rochester parks have been enriched by the rare collections, which have been set out here through the courtesy of Dr. Charles S. Sargent, director of the arboretum. His latest gift was a large number of Japanese cherry trees, which are to be planted at Durand Eastman park.

J. B. Keller & Son's Thanksgiving display consisted of a large round table, set for dinner, with all the elegant appointments. There was a round centerpiece of bronze and yellow pompons and adiantum ferns. Favors at each plate were delicate baskets of lily of the valley and maidenhair fern. Above the table hung a large yellow dome trimmed with smilax.

E. C. Armbrust, of East avenue, arranged a most artistic casket mound made on green velvet and composed of white chrysanthemums and pink roses. Garlands of the same flowers, entwined with long sprays of Asparagus Sprengeri, hung over the sides of the casket and gave a delicate finish to the mound.

At H. E. Wilson's, Thanksgiving trade was all that could be desired. The display windows were very attractive with masses of chrysanthemums in variety. Miss Rose Brown is again with this firm.

A. N. Pierson, Inc., Cromwell, Conn., are shipping very good chrysanthemums and pompons to this market. CHESTER.

BOUQUET GREEN at Chicago is scarce at $6.50 to $7 per crate, according to quantities quoted. Boxwood in demand, supply moderate. Tennessee holly shippers report flood troubles.

BUFFALO, N. Y.—An overheated bearing in a grain carrier was the cause of a fire that resulted in damage to the amount of $800 at the establishment of the Churchill Seed Co., November 13.

VISITED CHICAGO: L. W. Wheeler, Gilroy, Calif., and J. B. Agnew, Visalia, Calif., both eastbound; O. L. Coulter, of C. C. Morse & Co., San Francisco, Calif., returning to the Pacific coast; A. L. Rogers, Alpena, Mich.

THE late Elbert Hubbard in an account of the late W. Atlee Burpee and his business had the following: "If there is any one man in America, more than another, who is making the waste places green, and the desert to blossom like the rose, that man is W. Atlee Burpee, seedsman magnus, and gentleman superbus."

EUROPEAN parcel post changes as outlined in our issue of November 27, page 1016, are relieved to some extent by Postmaster Campbell of Chicago, who informs inquirers that the sample post, limit eight and one-half ounces, is still operative. This would appear to shut off all vegetable seeds but admit flower seeds in packages of that limit.

CHICAGO.—Prices for grass seed on the Board of Trade, December 1, were as follows: Timothy, $5.50 to $7.75 per 100 pounds.—Simeon F. Leonard, of the Leonard Seed Co., is on jury service this week.—W. W. Barnard and A. H. Goodwin continue to improve in health. Arnold Ringier is attending the Wisconsin Canners' convention at Milwaukee.—Vaughan's Seed Store handled two cars of fancy holly this week.

Wholesale Seedsmen's League.

New York Imports.

The steamships Noordyke and Ryndam, which arrived from Rotterdam, Holland, November 24, brought consignments of azaleas and other shrubs and bulbs. McHutchison & Co. received 224 cases of trees, shrubs, etc., 10 cases rose stocks (Liverpool, Eng.), and the MacNiff Horticultural Co. 100 cases of trees, shrubs and 25 cases bulbs. Other imports for the week ending November 27 were as follows:

Julius Roehrs Co., 34 cases trees, shrubs, etc., 12 cases plants (Havre, France).

Stumpp & Walter Co., 1 bag seed, 20 cases plants, 80 cases roots.

Peter Henderson & Co., 33 cases plants, 1 case bulbs.

Albert Dickinson Co., 150 barrels seed (Havre, France).

W. E. Marshall, 5 cases plants, 21 cases roots.

A. T. Boddington Co., 5 cases roots.

F. R. Pierson Co., 4 cases plants.

A. Rolker & Sons, 3 cases plants, etc.

Chas. Schwake & Co., 10 cases plants, etc.

To order and others, 10 packages trees, 1,452 barrels seed, 1,098 bags seed, 71 packages seed, 1,500 barrels peat moss, 379 cases bulbs and 2,138 cases and packages of trees, plants, roots, etc.

BISMARCK, N. D.—The fourth annual seed contest of the North Dakota Improved Seed Growers' Association will this year be one of the greatest seed shows that has ever occurred in the northwest. Arrangements have been made whereby there will be liberal cash awards and nice machinery prizes for all sorts of seeds which are grown in North Dakota. The contest will be held as usual, during January, in connection with the grain growers' convention.
