MAY DAY QUIET IN CITIES OF EUROPE

Few Strikes Marked the Occasion; Generally There Was No Violence

London, May 2.—May Day appears to be losing, if not its one-time importance as a Labor festival, but its reputation for disorderly demonstrations by the working classes. Reports from all the great capitals of Europe are to the effect that May Day passed quietly and almost entirely without disorders, although everywhere demonstrations of more or less importance were held, some of them of an imposing character.

What chiefly distinguished yesterday from other May Days was the almost complete absence of strikes. The twenty-four hour strike in past days used to be quite a common aspect of the May Day demonstrations which nowadays are generally confined to parades and mass meetings.

Some variation had been anticipated yesterday arising from the supposed strong feeling in Germany, caused by the election of Field Marshal von Hindenburg as President of the Republic. It had been predicted in some quarters that advantage would be taken of the holiday to give public expression to the reported attitude, but everything passed off quietly in Germany, as even in Cologne, where opposition to Van Hindenburg is known to be strong, no disorders occurred, although the huge demonstration here bore a Communist aspect.

GREAT BRITAIN

In Great Britain the demonstrations were of a festive holiday character. It was coincident with the House of Commons debating and rejecting the Laborite bill proposing ratification of the Great Britain of the Washington eight-hour-day convention.

In Copenhagen an attempt by a Communist to harangue a gathering was frustrated by Scotsmen, who pulled him down from the stand and after a sharp tussle drove him away.

EVENTS IN ITALY

Rome, May 2.—With the exception of a few factories in the Lombardy metallurgical district, where nearly fifty per cent of the workmen did not report for duty, there was almost no idleness in Italy yesterday, May Day. It is estimated that not more than fifteen per cent of the laborers throughout the realm took a holiday and the day passed off with almost complete calm.

QUIET IN PARIS

Paris, May 2.—Yesterday was the quietest May Day known in Paris since the Armistice. Lilies of the valley greatly outnumbered red insignia as buttonhole ornaments. Communists made no attempt whatever to parade in the city and no disorders were reported, although a few arrests of alleged Bolsheviks attempting to distribute revolutionary literature to soldiers were made.

EVENTS IN BERLIN

Berlin, May 2.—The Workmen's May Day celebration here passed quietly despite the expected demonstrations against Hindenburg's election. There were numerous processions and a generous display of red flags, but all were orderly with a few exceptions in Berlin's suburbs.

QUIET IN SPAIN

London, May 2.—News agency dispatches say May Day passed without trouble in Spain.

PREMIER IN PARADE

Copenhagen, May 2.—The Danish Premier, T. Staunig, headed a May Day procession through the streets to a public park, where a meeting was held and the eight-hour day demanded for Danish workers.

PARADES ORDERLY

Stockholm, May 2.—May Day parades were conducted with perfect order here. Shops were closed and 30,000 persons marched to the grave of former Premier Branting, where a memorial service was conducted. Another parade was conducted by Communists only. About two thousand participated.

IN PORT TO-DAY FROM WORLD CRUISE

C.P.R. LINER EMPRESS OF FRANCE

PALATIAL C.P.R. WORLD CRUISER EMPRESS OF FRANCE IN PORT TO-DAY AFTER WONDERFUL TOUR

Over Three Hundred Travelers Reach Victoria After Circumnavigating the Globe; Luxurious Travel Tour to the Mediterranean, Egypt, India, China, Japan and the Hawaiian Islands.

Carrying 326 passengers on a luxurious round the world cruise which is now nearing its end, the palatial liner Empress of France, the second great Canadian Pacific Railway steamer on a world tour to touch at this port, arrived in Victoria to-day with the well traveled, bronzed, healthy holiday makers as eager to see this city as they have been to see the other wonderful cities of the globe.

The tourists were unanimous in their expressions of delight at the cruise and the complete and detailed arrangements made for their comfort both when traveling on the boat or on leaving their floating home to plunge inland such as on the trip across India. Their trip has been crowded with wonderful adventures and experiences with events not on the schedule such as meeting wild pigmy elephants in central Ceylon, the death of the hospitable Sheik of a Bedouin village while entertaining some of the party, and a meeting with Chinese ruffians.

No better conditions could be asked for a world tour. There is an experienced director who knows just the places of interest to visit and he has six assistant directors and four conductors. There is a social hostess and an assistant in charge of entertainment and a newspaper is published on board to keep the tourists in touch with the events of their unusual world.

The ship is 600 feet long, seventy-two feet wide and has seven passenger decks, her passenger capacity being 1,350, but scarcely one-fifth of that number is being carried for the cruise, assuring all ample space and the ultimate of comfort and satisfaction.

The Empress of France is owned and operated by the Canadian Pacific Railway which is unique in the world as the only steamship company in the world operating its own cruise. Last year the royal apartments in Hampton Court, England, one of Victoria's own ships, blazed the trail for future Canadian Pacific circumnavigation cruises.

An OIL BURNER The Empress of France was chosen by the Prince of Wales for both Atlantic crossings when His Royal Highness visited Canada in 1923 and was declared by him to be the "best appointed ship in the ocean."

The Empress of France circumnavigated the globe two years ago, she has been converted into an oil burner, largely for world cruising purposes, the change in the vessel's fueling system being made within the past year.

The crew of 431 carried by the liner includes forty-five officers. The Empress of France is the name of the daily news sheet published aboard the Canadian Pacific world cruise liner. The Empress of France cruise is the only one of its kind in the world. It is a unique and interesting journey, and is the only one of its kind in the world.

COSMOPOLITAN TOURIST GROUP ABOARD LINER

193 Americans and 127 British Travelers on Liner Empress of France

A cosmopolitan group of tourists numbering 326, of whom 193 are Americans and 127 British, trooped ashore here when the steamer Empress of France, on the Canadian Pacific's second world cruise, reached port this afternoon from Honolulu, Hawaiian Islands. Among the prominent passengers were: Professor Frederick M. Pedersen, associate professor of mathematics, College of the City of New York; Arthur C. Hastings is a new York paper manufacturer. He is accompanied by Mrs. Hastings and Mr. Hastings, who is proprietor of a large confectionery store.

ON THE SAHARA

A dramatic incident attended the group of passengers who camped all night on the Sahara Desert, south of Cairo and the Pyramids, early in February. Thirty made up the party, who were guests of Enani Khatib, sheik of the Bedouin village at the foot of the Pyramids. After a feast in an open camp, with a Bagdad setting, Bedouins danced and played until midnight. The party was then taken to a hotel in the city of Cairo.

EVERY LUXURY

The liner includes every modern facility making for luxurious comfort, with large public rooms on the upper decks that are the equal of those of any cruising vessel. The lounge, which becomes the ballroom in the evening, is in the style designed by Sir Christopher Wren for the royal apartments in Hampton Court palace. It has an eighteen-foot ceiling, six large bow windows and a magnificent skylight extending its full length, it is hung with paintings by George Lambert, the Australian artist, under which are fine carvings by Grindling Gibbons and the work of William and Mary celebrated wood carvers in England.

The Empress of France is the only one of its kind in the world. It is a unique and interesting journey, and is the only one of its kind in the world.

AUSTRALIANS ARE PLANNING GREAT FLEET RECEPTION

"Australia is in the middle of vast preparations for the welcome of the American fleet which will visit there shortly," said Dr. A. Degenhardt, prominent physician of Melbourne, who was a passenger on board the steamship Niagara when that vessel docked here yesterday morning. "It will be a great welcome for the Australians have a great regard for the U. S. sailors."

TASMANIA SUFFERS Tasmania is a great tourist country, but its center of population are very greatly centralized. It seems a general belief, and one that cannot be shaken, that the Melbourne and Sydney are the only harbors on the continent. The great volume of business is bottlenecked into them, but there are other equally fine ports.

from Albany, New York. Mr. Smith is an optometrist. John T. Simpson, of Harrogate, England, and former Mayor of Halifax, accompanied on the cruise by Miss G. H. Simpson and Miss A. L. Simpson.

Dr. G. L. Steele, whose home is in Toronto, Canada, is a manufacturer. Harry S. Harwood, who is accompanied by his wife, is manager and director for the James Robertson Company Limited of Toronto.

Meeting of Victoria and District Lacrosse League to be Held on Wednesday Night; Garrison and Sidney Ready to Enter Teams; Victoria May Field Two Teams and Esquimalt One; To Talk Over Formation of Intermediate League

Strong efforts are to be made within the next few weeks to keep lacrosse alive in Victoria. For a time it looked as though the schools would be the only ones playing the game this season but the Victoria and District Lacrosse League has decided to try and organize two circuits this year and with this object in view a meeting of all those interested in the summer national sport will be held in the Y.M.C.A. on Wednesday evening May 6.

The senior league will more than likely have four clubs. The Garrison and Sidney are prepared to field teams and will file their entries immediately there are signs of the league getting together. Esquimalt will more than likely organize a club while Victoria will have at least one, and possibly two.

THE WRONG SYSTEM

Many local lacrosse supporters believe that the method of playing for the Mann Cup is all wrong and has led much to do with the lack of interest in amateur lacrosse here. Each season a team has been formed of the best players in town, and has competed against New Westminster and Vancouver. It is held by some that the Mann Cup should be played for by the winning clubs in the Mainland and Victoria leagues. This would ensure a fine series of games in each section, and then bring the champions together in the championship.

INTERMEDIATE LEAGUE

Each year many fine lacrosse players are developed by the public schools, but the moment these boys pass into the High School they have no chance to continue the game. It is believed that with an intermediate league these lads could be kept at the game, and be ready to play senior in Victoria's leagues. If an intermediate league is formed it is believed that Esquimalt, Oaklands and George Jay schools would organize an intermediate league which might also be induced to join.

George Jay Lacrosse Team Beat Oaklands; Now Leading League

As a result of their victory yesterday afternoon at Central Park by the score of 4-4 over the Oaklands twelve, the George Jay team jumped into the lead of the School Lacrosse League. The Jays played well and showed a marked improvement over their previous exhibitions.

In the first period Oaklands gained a lead and at the end of the 1-1 score were on the loose end of a 3-1 score. The Jays came back strong in the second period and after tying up the score, advanced into the lead. At the end of the third period the Jays were leading 4-2. In the final period the teams worked hard, each scoring two goals. Jimmy McGregor handled the whistle to the satisfaction of all.

They intend to be ready for the opening programme at the Crystal Garden and will train faithfully for the event.

England Looking Forward To Busy Sporting Season

Cricket Opens To-day and Golf is Well Underway; Polo and Tennis in Favor

The league appointed President Richardson and Frank Patrick a committee to meet the National Hockey League representatives to discuss a new inter-league agreement to meet the changes which have developed since the American clubs have joined the N.H.L.

CHANGE DEFENCE RULE

The anti-defence rule was changed so as to permit only two defence men, exclusive of the goalkeeper, to be behind the blue line. A change was also made in regard to the overtime games. When extra time is required to break a tie, hereafter, the players will remain on the ice for a full twenty minutes' play and after not more than two minutes' rest, without a change of goals, will continue for ten minutes, until one side scores.

MATTERS LEFT OVER

As the session was only a special one, the election of the president, the drafting of the schedule and the appointment of referees was left over until the annual conference to be held in August. President Richardson declares that the meeting was one of the most harmonious in the history of the organization.

Seattle Doctors Are Beaten by Victoria Team in Match

Seattle, May 2.—Seattle's going surgeons and medical fraternities scored decisive victories over teams representing the medical fraternities of Vancouver and Victoria, in an international gambol on the links of the Inglewood Country Club, but the Victorians, by dint of a larger victory a few weeks ago on their home links, won the round with Seattle and will, for the time being, hold the R. W. Perry Cup. Vancouver will have a chance later in the season to annex the trophy in a home-and-home series with Victoria.

Pictorial Golf Instruction

Many golfers fail to get a good shot because they stand too far behind the ball. This is a more serious fault than one might think, as the club-head gets precious little chance to do its work. When a golfer develops a slice and finds it difficult to correct, the chances are he is teeing the ball too far out in front, as this is exactly what the professional means when he tells you that you are standing too far in back of your ball.

Sisler Hitting Ball And Climbing To Top

St. Louis Star Climbs Rapidly in Batting Averages and Experts Believe He Will Have His Greatest Year; Veterans Forging to Front in Hitting While Rookies Are Dropping Back; Wheat Leads National League With Hornsby Third; Yesterday's Games

Chicago, May 2.—George Sisler, pilot of the St. Louis Browns, has started on a batting rampage to fulfill his prediction that 1925 will be his greatest season in the American League. Sisler, completely recovered from impaired eyesight that dimmed his batting for two years, has made one or more hits in every game since the season opened, giving him an average of .424. Sammy Hale, of the Athletics, is leading the hitters with an average of .462, but he has played in only ten games compared to 15 for Sisler, the runner-up.

The record for consecutive hitting in the American League is held by Sisler, who in 1922 hit safely in forty-one games. To date he has hit 23 safeties in the first 14 contests of the season. The figures are based on averages including games of Wednesday.

Jameson, of Cleveland, and McManus, of St. Louis, are tied as runners-up with 14 each. Glynis Myatt, Cleveland, catcher, has made four home runs for the lead, and Johnny Mostil, Chicago Sox, is making a run for the base-stealing honors with ten. Eddie Collins, last year's leading base-stealer, has only three.

Other leading batters in ten or more games: Bishop, Philadelphia, .415; Goslin, Washington, .409; Judge, Washington, .406; Poole, Philadelphia, .359; Combs, New York, .378; McManus, St. Louis, .373; Myatt, Cleveland, .370; Sheely, Chicago, .368.

Veteran sluggers of the National League have deplored the newcomers who held the spotlight during the first week of the season. Zack Wheat, star outfielder, of the Brooklyn Dodgers, by making 15 hits in six games, boosted his average to .452 and to-day is setting the pace. Bottomley, St. Louis, is second with .442. Rogers Hornsby, champion batter last year, gradually is climbing to the top. He is in third place with .432, a gain of 38 points over a week ago.

Charles Hartnett, Chicago Cubs catcher, is holding honors in three departments. He has scored 15 times, is leading in total bases, with 44 and is in a class of his own in hitting home runs, having smashed out 7.

There has not been much activity shown in base-stealing. Cliff Heathcote, of the Cubs, is leading with four. Other leading batters: Fonseca, Philadelphia, .359; Henline, Philadelphia, .378; Hartnett, Chicago, .373; Baneroff, Boston, .359; Cuyler, Pittsburg, .349; Johnston, Brooklyn, .348.

FIGHTING GALLEONS RAM WHALES WHILE CAMERAS ARE ACTIVE

Frank Lloyd had an unusual experience while filming an important battle between a Moorish galleon and an English frigate off the Santa Catalina coast for his production of "The Sea Hawk," the big First National drama, holding the attention of the Capitol Theatre this week.

There are whales in the Pacific as far from the Catalina shores, and although Mr. Lloyd was too busy filming "The Sea Hawk" to be interested in even such big fish he had his experience with them just the same.

In one of the big scenes of the picture a Moorish galley rams an English frigate. To avoid sinking both ships they had to be maneuvered with considerable care. Starting to wreck each other at an angle would permit them striking without injury to any of the several hundred people aboard.

"Of course, you know right away that I refer to Sunlight—because Sunlight is the only laundry bar soap made in Canada that is guaranteed pure. A $5,000 Guarantee of Purity goes with every bar; and according to the makers, this Guarantee has never once been challenged during the whole lifetime of Sunlight Soap.

"It's perfectly obvious, too, that when every particle of a soap is pure cleansing material—and not loaded with useless adulterants and hardening materials—then that soap has more cleansing power and does more work with less labour. A little of it goes a long way. In short, it's really economical.

"That's why I always use and recommend Sunlight for the laundry, dishes and general housework. Sunlight keeps my hands soft and comfortable, too!" Lever Brothers Limited, Toronto, make it.

Alaskan City Not Troubled With Auto Thieves

No parking laws! No traffic cops! No automobile theft!

according to H. I. Lucas, manager of the Juneau Motor Company in the far Northern city.

Lucas was in Seattle last week to get thirty-seven Ford one-ton trucks for the Alaska road commission, and while at the Seattle factory branch of the Ford Motor company, advertised some of the touring attractions of the Alaskan capital.

"We have 225 cars in Juneau," said Mr. Lucas, "and the oldest car in town is a 1914 Ford, running to-day just as good as it ever did. Service stations and traffic cops alike are unknown. There are four garages in the city, each supplying gasoline and it only costs twenty-two cents a gallon.

"We have one innovation in our city, namely, in our automobile licenses. Each car bears on front and rear a license-plate, issued by the city of Juneau, costing $20 for the pair. The car also carries one plate issued by the territory, which costs another $10. However, our driver's license, also issued by the city, is free.

"Parking in Juneau presents no problem whatever. You can leave your car in the middle of the street all night without the tail light burning; and it will be both unmolested and untaxed. Automobile thieves are unknown, since they could not get out of the city even if they stole a car, before the next steamer came in, and meanwhile the marshal would do his duty. As a result, theft insurance is not one of our expense items.

"At this time we have one long drive and two short ones out of Juneau. The longest and most scenic is one of thirty miles to Mendenhall Glacier. This route in time will connect with a road coming up from Skagway, of which sixty miles is now yet to be built. This highway follows the beach out of the city dipping in and out among the trees, and has two beautiful attractions. Four miles off the highway, by means of a good road, it brings you to the edge of the glacier. Or, by driving on a ways, you reach Ask Lake, which enables you to look down over the glacier, one of the most wonderful views that can be imagined.

"One of the two short drives is to Thane, about four miles out, at one time the site of the Alaska Gastineau Gold Mining camp. A proposition is now up to use this machinery for manufacturing fertilizer. The other short drive goes up into the mountains to the old Perseverance mine, following the famous Gold Creek. This attains an elevation of 2,000 feet and is very scenic.

ROADS BUILT

The government is doing more towards road-building each year. The thirty-seven trucks we are delivering to the road commission will be widely distributed. Two go to McKinley National Park; eighteen to Chitina; four to Anchorage; five to Valdez; five to Fairbanks; one to Nome; and so on. The Richardson highway, from Valdez to Fairbanks is rapidly becoming a most interesting motor trip and well worth making.

STROMBERG FIRM HAS DEVELOPED FINE CARBURETOR

Howard Lillie of Lillie's Garage, local distributor for Stromberg carburetors, states that the engineering staff of the Stromberg Company have developed considerable special apparatus for testing carburetors, and which eliminates all guess work in connection with mixtures which are suited best for each individual motor.

Their original plan of building special carburetor equipments for all makes of cars has reached such proportions that they have recently organized a special department to carry on that class of work.

This special corps of engineers prescribes carburetors, heaters and hot spots as they are called to a car, precisely the same as a doctor prescribes medicine to a patient to cure his ills.

When the Stromberg engineers have decided that they have a carburetor equipment for any certain car that shows a noticeable improvement over the regular equipment that is furnished on the car, they immediately dispatch several of these equipments to their various branches and distributors throughout the United States, who in turn test them out and send reports back to the factory. In this way they can get a check on the operation of the carburetors in all climates and altitudes.

New Records in France

What are declared to be new records for five miles and for five and ten kilometers (respectively 3.11 and 8.21 miles) were made on the Montlhery Speedway, near Paris, by the English automobile driver, Eldridge. Eldridge drove the five kilometers in 1 minute 26 37-100 seconds; the five miles in 2 minutes 40-100 seconds, and the ten kilometers in 2 minutes 54 45-100 seconds. All the times exceed an average of 125 miles an hour.

STANDARD PISTON RING NOW SOUGHT

Would Be of Great Benefit to Manufacturers in Replacement of Parts

Cutting down of the present great diversity in sizes and dimensions of piston rings for automobile engines as a means of eliminating avoidable waste in the production and distribution of these commodities is engaging the division of simplified practices of the United States department of commerce following the receipt of appeals made by ring manufacturers.

Anxious to co-operate in the solving of this problem with bodies representative of the several interests concerned, the division is taking it up with the following organizations: Society of Automotive Engineers, the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, the Motor and Accessory Manufacturers' Association, the Automotive Equipment Association, the newly formed Association of Cylinder Grinders and the American Automobile Association.

All are agreed that reduction in variety of cylinder, piston and ring diameters would be of great benefit to the manufacturers of replacement parts, as it would simplify their production sales, and service problems, and selling costs. The manufacturers say the jobbers and dealers would also benefit through quicker turnover and ability to do an equal or greater amount of business on present capital invested in service stocks.

GOOD ROADS IN TEXAS

Texas is spending nearly $72,000,000, of which $32,000,000 comes through federal aid, for the construction, improvement and maintenance of its roads. Upon completion of the program the state will have 5,000 miles of improved highways.

Some Beautiful Homes in Cowichan Have Been Built by English Aristocracy

Handsome Residences on Vancouver Island Are Counterpart of Some of Stately Homes of the Old Country

Settlers From the British Isle Have Planted Their Homes in the Depths of "The Little England of the West"

KNOWN throughout Canada and in many other parts of the world besides as "The Little England of the West," Cowichan District, with its beautiful homes built by descendants of the English aristocracy and the members of the aristocracy themselves has won a title of which it is justly entitled and justly proud. It has been the traditional Mecca of the Englishman coming to Canada for years. Duncan, the distributing centre of the Cowichan District, and other parts of the district, is indeed more English than parts of England. It is a characteristic of some Englishmen that when they leave the Old Land they become more English than they ever were before. In another country they cling more tightly to the English customs and English ways they prize jealous that new associations may threaten their extinction.

This spirit of England is reflected in the homes the Old Country people have erected in the Cowichan District. The majority of the most beautiful homes in the Cowichan District are more akin to the stately homes of the Old Country than are those of any other district in the Dominion.

Articles are often met with in Canadian papers describing the beautiful home of some rich man; but it will be noticed that this home is almost invariably situated on the outskirts of some city. The beautiful homes of Cowichan are all situated in the heart of the country, "far from the maddening crowd" and "under the greenwood tree."

It will be noticed that the Canadian counterpart of the Old Country country homes is not designated stately but beautiful. This bears out the axiom for good architecture, for these houses are not built to enshrine a ruler, as in the days when the old homes of England were built, but to make a comfortable home for those who wish to live in the country for the beauty and the peace of it, they are, therefore, correctly styled beautiful.

Cowichan forms a link between this new and hustling Dominion nizers, who play the game of life as they do in sport—clean, keen and fair.

The first of these beautiful homes to be described will be "Aros," the home of Mr. V. H. Stewart-McLeod. It was named Aros after the home of the chieftains of Clan McLeod in Scotland, thereby at once starting a chain of links with the past. Aros is one of the oldest of the beautiful homes of Cowichan, having been built in 1906. Early in that year Mr. Stewart-McLeod bought the 200 acres which make up the estate, situated about 2½ miles ment road for all the world to see; but he placed it right at the other end of his land. To reach this house over one mile of driveway had to be made, running right through the heart of the bush; therefore, however populous the district may become, no one will ever be able to overlook Aros. Traveling down this drive gives the visitor more and more as he proceeds a sense of remoteness from the world, surely delightful after the shrieking and dust of the highway. This driveway called to the mind of the writer visions of many of the approaches to the "Stately Homes of Britain," which he had visited. To these the usual approach is by means of a private drive of one or two miles but there is this difference: whereas the Old Country drive meanders through beautiful park land, studded here and there with giant oaks and elms, this drive runs through primeval forest. During its course the drive skirts a small lake, in this it also resembles its Old Country counterpart, but with this difference, this is a natural lake, the Old Country one is usually artificial.

Just as a visitor approaching Aros for the first time, begins to think that he must have mistaken the road, and that there really cannot be a house buried so deeply in the bush as this, suddenly a clearing opens before him, and in the background, scintillating in the sunlight, lie the blue depths of Boatswain's Bay. Straight in front of him and only a short distance from the edge of the bush, stands the residence. Surrounding the residence are the pleasure gardens, tastefully but simply laid out; away to the left is the cleared land, some five acres in all; and between this and the house, at a distance of between 300 and 400 yards from the latter, is an immense stretch of glass, houses, covering nearly one acre of ground. Directly between the house and the sea, and also to the right along the sea shore, except for a narrow strip along the edge of the water, the land is slashed, but not as yet entirely cleared. The narrow strip of bush along the water's and the old customs and traditions of the Mother Country.

The owners of the beautiful homes of Cowichan are for the most part hard-working men. They may not often be dollar-makers, but they are home-makers, and the true wealth of any country is in its homes, not in its dollars. They are the type of Englishmen who are empire builders and colo-from Cobble Hill. It was then covered entirely with thick primeval bush. When Mr. Stewart-McLeod laid out this property—and what a glorious task to confront any one of imagination and means, 200 acres of virgin forest out of which to carve a model home—he followed the traditional Old Country policy. He did not place his house near the Govern-edge has been left so that the clearing may not look bare and unsightly from far out to sea.

The sea frontage of this property is about half a mile long; it faces northeast on to the waters of Boatswain Bay, which lies just south from Cherry point at the mouth of Cowichan Bay. The residence is built on high ground, standing about 400 yards back from the sea front, and commands what is probably one of the finest views in the world. This view is to the southeast, looking in this direction, the point of the Saanich Peninsula can be seen at the far side of a three-mile stretch of deep blue water, and rising in all its snow-clad grandeur behind this dark-green point Mount Baker comes into clear view; then, to the left of the peninsula, more blue sea with Piers Island in the foreground and Moresby Island in the distance; then again, still more to the left, the bold, rugged, rocky Cape Keppel, which forms the southwest point of Salt Spring Island. A friend of Mrs. Stewart-McLeod, who had traveled all over the world, when confronted with this view at sunset, said that it was the most beautiful one she had ever seen. From the adjoining side of the house also a good view, only made ordinary from comparison with the once just described, is obtained right down the Sansum Narrows, Maple Bay Mountain rising dark and grim in the background.

Passing on to the interior of this pleasing house, the front door opens directly from a sylvan porch into a spacious and artistically appointed hall living-room. This room at once strikes the visitor with the note, which the rest of the house swells and completes. An Old Countryman can easily imagine himself in one of the smaller manor houses of England or Scotland, as he stands in the living-room and looks around him. On the ceiling oak beams are brought into sharp relief; these beams were hewn from the trees which at one time adorned the house-site; a huge stone fireplace occupies the centre of one side of the room; the walls are paneled and hung with old oil paintings, and the heads of monarchs of the chase, which Mr. Stewart-McLeod himself has shot in all parts of the world. The only thing an Old Countryman misses here, which shows him that he is not in the British Isles, is a mounted fox-head or two, "sine qua non" of such a room in an Old Country manor house. The rest of the house, although conveniently planned, gives the visitor just that touch of unexpectedness which is usually a delightful feature of such a house in the Old Country: the upstairs passage, out of which the bedrooms open, has abrupt turns with odd corners and cupboards everywhere; also the slope of the roof is apparent in the outside walls of many of the rooms; this picturesque irregularity makes it not merely a dwelling house, but, as Ruskin would express it, "a thing of joy for ever." Most of the paneling in the house was done by Mr. Stewart-McLeod himself, and he also made a considerable proportion of the furniture; this latter has just the same appearance as if it had been made by a professional cabinet maker. Mrs. Stewart-McLeod has done most of the papering and painting in the house herself, and this also has quite a professional finish about it. The house is heated by a hot-air furnace and is supplied electricity throughout by its own plant; a happy combination of modern conveniences with old-fashioned architectural features. A new hydro-electric plant is now being installed.

The house is bordered on three sides by about half an acre of pleasure gardens; these are managed entirely, with occasional help in the rough work, by Mrs. Stewart-McLeod. They, just as in the case of the house, have been designed not to clash with the rough nature which surrounds them, but to gently tame it and to act as a bridge between the bush and the house. As the land is all on a gentle slope, these gardens have to be terraced, and this terracing is carried out with cedar logs or with rocks picked off the surrounding land. Garden seats are made from the limbs of fir trees, and tables are made from slabs of wood. The flower beds are small and unpretentious, placed here and there according to no set plan, yet exactly fulfilling the purpose for which they were meant. Large stretches of green lawns are the chief feature of these gardens.

HOUSE WOMEN PRISONERS ON COTTAGE PLAN

Dr. Mary B. Harris to Head New U.S. Institution

Washington, May 2 (Associated Press)—A departure in federal government methods in handling prisoners will take place with the completion of the federal industrial institution for women at Alderson, West Virginia.

Congress has appropriated $905,100 for the prison, and government architects are now preparing preliminary plans for a cottage system under which prisoners will live in communities.

A farm of 200 acres already has been obtained, and negotiations are under way for an additional 200 acres. The capacity of the women's federal penitentiary, the first of its kind in the country, will be 600. Federal women prisoners are now being sent to state jails, and department of justice officials say the government is finding it increasingly difficult to get the states to take prisoners.

Dr. Mary B. Harris, who will head the new institution, is the daughter of Dr. John Howard Harris, president emeritus of Bucknell University. She is a graduate of the University of Chicago. After several years spent in teaching and foreign travel, she became superintendent of women at the workhouse on Blackwell's Island, New York. Later she was made superintendent of the New Jersey State Reformatory for Women in February 1918.

During the war, Dr. Harris served as assistant director in the section of reformatories and detention houses in the law enforcement division of the camp activities, continuing in this capacity until April 1919. She then assumed the superintendency of the State Home for Girls of New Jersey, which she held until January 1924, when she became field executive secretary of the International Association of Policewomen.

Toronto Girls Met Prince of Wales in West Africa

Toronto, May 2 (By Canadian Press)—Miss N. Hollenbeck of Windsor, Ont. and Miss Maggie Finlay of Edmonton, Alta. had the honor of meeting the Prince of Wales at Jebba, Nigeria, West Africa, recently according to word received by J. R. Good of this city.

These ladies are in charge of the Jebba branch of the United Missionary Society, which is the headquarters of the society's work in Nigeria, and are the only two white women in this place. Clad in a khaki suit and shirt, he walked about the station grounds unconventionally and struck up a conversation with the Misses Hollenbeck and Finlay, who were at the station. Neither of them recognized the royal visitor until they had been talking with him for five minutes.

MRS. DENNISTOUN WOULD LIKE TO APPEAR IN FILMS

Principal in Recent Case Embarrassed by Curiosity; Will Enter Business

Mrs. Dennistoun, the plaintiff in the recent cause celebre which stirred England by its startling disclosures, is contemplating a trip to the Continent to escape the embarrassing attentions attendant upon her position. Later she will take up a business career.

According to a London paper, her departure is largely the result of medical advice, for the nervous strain of the recent case has been far greater than those who observed Mrs. Dennistoun's calm bearing in the witness-box might have guessed.

Every minute of the day, even after judgment had been delivered, the telephone at her flat in Queen's Gate has been ringing, her home has been besieged by strangers, and her footsteps have been dogged by photographers.

"THE SAME OLD HAT"
But her ingenuity has been more than equal to the latter. She confessed to a friend that she was so weary of being photographed that she deliberately wore "the same old hat and the same old gown" in order to damp their enthusiasm.

Even in the midst of the trial, Mrs. Dennistoun did not wholly forget her business interests. On her return to her flat after a grilling ordeal in the witness-box, she would frequently pay a visit to the rooms where most of her antiques are stored and spend some time labelling, examining, and cataloguing them.

Among these are a collection of twenty old silvered Italian candlesticks, a quantity of fine Spanish stuffs, and a great deal of Spanish baroque furniture. Spanish baroque is her abiding interest. She has filled her flat with it, and only the other day she was rearranging the setting of her dining-room in order to show it off to better advantage.

FANCY FOR THE FILMS
This furniture is to be the nucleus of the new business which Mrs. Dennistoun will manage on her return to England.

She is not going to write her memoirs, in spite of very many tempting offers, both in England and in America. But she has expressed on more than one occasion, a keen desire to go on the films.

'BACK TO LAND' IS STARTED BY WOMEN TO COMBAT DOLE

Princess Louise President of New Movement in England

London, May 2—A back to the land movement designed to stimulate interest among girls and women in agricultural pursuits has been launched lately by the women's farm and garden association of which the king's sister, Princess Louise, Duchess of Argyll, is president.

Despite approximately a million men being listed among the unemployed in the city districts, there are times, especially in the Spring and Summer when farm work is at its height, when farmers have great difficulty in finding sufficient hands to reap their crops, and there have been recent proposals that the women's farm and garden association try to help them out during the busy season in the country.

The organization already has been furnishing some women to the farmers, particularly from their list of skilled women hand workers, but the movement now is planned to supply agriculturists with feminine workers who are willing to pick small fruit, help out in the milking, attend to the horses and pigs, and do the numerous other chores about a farm which are often the bane of the men workers.

The demand for skilled or educated women farm workers has been so great of late that the association has frequently been unable to supply the demand.

Lady Barker Owns And Manages Big Livestock Farm

Cheesington, Eng., May 2—One of the largest stock farms in England is managed by a woman, Lady Barker of Barwell Court, famous for its Percheron horses. Lady Barker is not only owner of the estate, but is the actual superintendent of the farm stock. Barwell Court includes among its fowls a large number of white fantail pigeons which came from the palace of Abdul Hamid. Several pairs of these birds were presented to Queen Alexandra and developed into one of the outdoor sights of Sandringham house.

GRANDMOTHER BUT STILL AMONG BEST WOMEN GOLFERS

Philadelphia Woman of 66 Has Been Five Times Champion

Philadelphia, May 2—A silver-haired grandmother who qualified for the first women's national golf championship held in the United States in 1895, still must be reckoned among the first thirty-two women golfers of this country.

Mrs. Caleb F. Fox, of the Huntingdon Valley Country Club, holds no national title, nor has she ever held one, but her consistently steady play over a span of thirty years is without a parallel in golf or, perhaps, in any other sport. In that time Mrs. Fox has won sectional and local championships many times, and is still capable of winning them.

It was at the Meadow Brook Club, Reading, Mass., in 1895 that Mrs. Fox first qualified for the national championship. That was a comparatively easy achievement then, for there were only 100 or 200 women golfers in the country. In subsequent years, however, when the number of players increased to thousands, Mrs. Fox continued to qualify. Since 1895 she has only failed four times, in 1911, '12 and '14, to gain admission to the select thirty-two. In 1923 she suffered an injury just before the championship.

Mrs. Fox has been national finalist once and semi-finalist twice. She penetrated to the final round at the Philadelphia Country Club in 1899, losing to Miss Ruth Underhill, 2 and 1, after a spirited struggle. She reached the penultimate round in 1908 and 1909.

Mrs. Fox has won the Philadelphia championship five times, 1902, 1908, 1910, 1911 and 1917. Two years ago in a tournament that attracted the country's leading stars to Belvoir Heights, Pa., where Mrs. Fox spends her winters, she astounded the golfing world by defeating Miss Glenna Collett, who was then the seemingly invincible national champion. Miss Collett, young and strong, was at the pinnacle of her ability and fame. Mrs. Fox was just a veteran, one who had qualified for the national cham-

DOMESTIC ARTS ESSENTIAL TO REAL EDUCATION

British Headmistress Says Knowledge of Home Science More Than Degrees

London, May 2—Girls who cannot cook, sew, iron and wash clothing are not well educated even though they hold the degrees of all the universities under the sun, in the opinion of Miss C. J. H. Cowdroy, head mistress of Crouch End High School and College.

Some educationalists want girls to be trained like boys with an eye to their future careers, but since ten out of every eleven women could marry and about that proportion of girls did marry, that fact ought surely to be considered when talking of careers, Miss Cowdroy contended is the course of a recent lecture.

"I deprecate the view some educationalists hold that a woman can possess far higher qualities than those which go to make a wise wife and mother," said the head mistress. "Some think the clever girls too good for that, the dullards being good enough to continue the race."

"I understand that in some British schools for girls the pupils are divided into two sections, the clever half studying sciences and the dead languages, while the duller girls give their time to cookery and housewifery. I also understand the second set refer to the first as the 'brains' and the first as the 'hands'."

"A girl should be proud she can cook and sew, iron and wash and that she can save some money wisely and well. I hold that a girl who cannot do all these things is not well educated, although she may have been awarded the degrees of all the universities in the world."

Although sixty-six years of age, Mrs. Fox does not look it. She is rather statuesque and robust. Her hair is gleaming white and no tournament of note is complete without her. She is extremely popular, and her counsel is eagerly sought by younger players.

DRESS

Redingotes, Favored by Paris. Find Some Advocates on This Side of the Atlantic.

The one-piece redingote or coat dress has always been dear to the heart of well-dressed French women, and interestingly enough many Canadian women in France are won over to this type of frock which is never so well liked in this country. Perhaps the climate in most sections of the country has something to do with it. One day we wear Winter coats and the next we launch forth wrappless in georgette or taffeta. We wear suits because there is always the comfort that in case of a rapid rise of the temperature we could lay off the jacket.

Still, the one-piece coat frock might be a useful thing in the wardrobes of many women. It is an excellent costume for the woman who goes out for a few hours at a time and wants something trim, smart, and "all there" for shopping, business errands, calling or church services. It is not the best sort of all-day frock for the woman who goes forth early and wants something suitable for varying temperature and varying occupations. Then it is that the ensemble costume, with thin frock and long coat, is more desirable.

Just to show the popularity of the redingote costume in France the story is told of one tailor there who within one short month made one hundred and forty copies of a single model of a redingote or coat frock. Many of these French redingotes are quite tailored and often have a smack of the Directoire about them, rather wide revers and high waistcoat. Detachable white waistcoats of pique sometimes lend distinction.

The sketch shows a frock of beige kasch with red linen collar and piping, worn with a red straw hat. This is quite closely fitted, as clothes go nowadays, and shows fitted hips with fullness springing from below the pockets.

WISE AND OTHERWISE BLUSH TULLE FOR BRIDAL VEIL

Some of the Spring brides have worn light-colored blushing tulle, even—or especially, perhaps—at the big weddings these departures from the conventional have appeared, and now some of the brides are wearing bluish-pink tulle veils over the regulation white wedding gown. The bluish-pink is likely to be much more becoming than all white for the young bride.

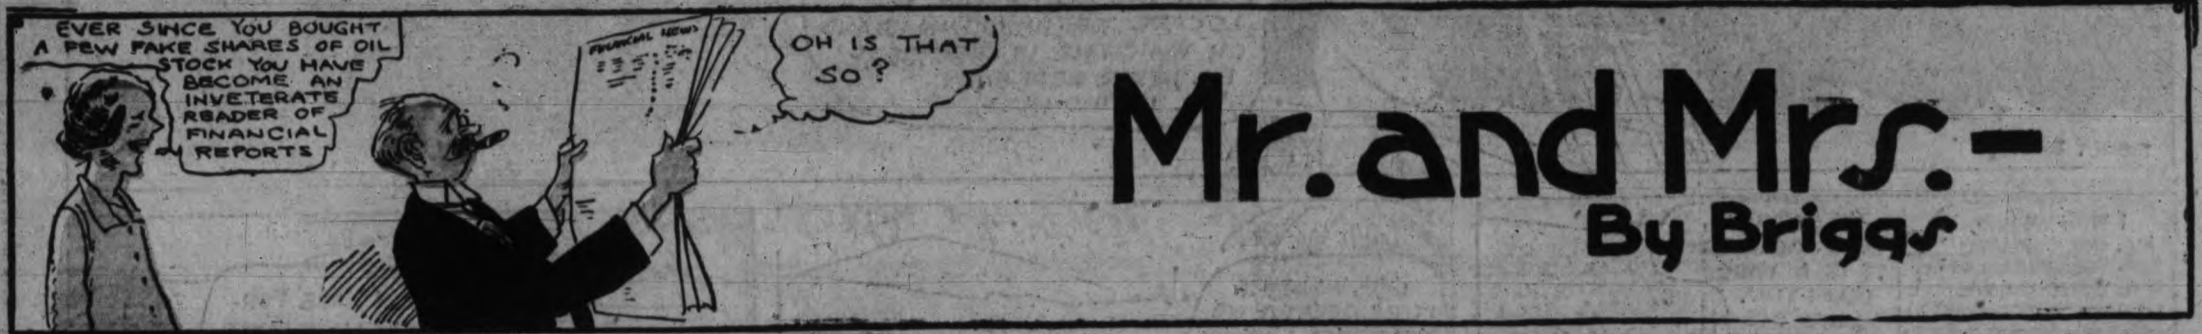

One interesting veil is made of tulle, banded about the brow with strands of pearl beads. At the height from the floor of the bands, the edges of the veil are caught together to make a little opening for the hands, so that the veil is ready at ways held in position by the hands.
