PREFACE.

The earliest issue of the Official Register (then known as the Register of Officials and Agents) was published in 1816 by the Secretary of State, under authority of a resolution of Congress approved April 27 of that year. The Secretary of State continued to issue the Register biennially until 1861, when, by act of Congress approved March 2, the supervision of its publication was transferred to the Department of the Interior. The Register of 1861 and each succeeding edition up to and including that of 1905 were issued by the Secretary of the Interior. The law governing the publication of the Official Register, which had been amended from time to time, was revised in 1895 and was further amended in 1902, 1904, and 1913.

In 1906 the duty of publishing the Register was transferred, by act of Congress approved June 7, to the Director of the Census. This issue is the fifth which has been prepared under the act of 1906.

The growth of the Register in size and number of names during each decade since its first publication and during each biennial period since 1891 is shown by the following table:

The costs stated in the foregoing table refer exclusively to the cost of printing. Prior to the transfer of the duty of publishing the Official Register from the Department of the Interior to the Bureau of the Census, the printing cost was a charge against the congressional appropriation for printing. When the transfer was made this cost became a charge against the appropriation for the Bureau of the Census, but at present it is paid out of the appropriation for the Department of Commerce. In former years a separate appropriation of $50,000 was made by Congress to the Department of the Interior to cover the cost of compiling the Register; in recent years no such appropriation has been made, and this cost has been a charge against the appropriations for the maintenance of the Bureau of the Census.

The adoption of the present form of the Register in 1907 made possible a very great reduction in its bulk, with a corresponding decrease in printing cost. As will be seen by reference to the table, the number of pages decreased from 4,219 in 1905 to 1,504 in 1907, while the cost fell from $70,800 to $25,600. From 1907 to 1913 the number of pages and the cost increased slightly, owing to the normal growth of the Government service.

Until 1913 the Register was published in two volumes. Volume I contained the names of all civilian employees of the Government except those in the Postal Service, together with the names of commissioned officers of the Army, Navy, and Marine Corps and lists of ships and vessels owned by the United States. Volume II contained the names of employees in the Postal Service, including the Railway Mail Service, mail-messenger service, and special mail service, and the names of mail contractors.

The Census Bureau encountered increasing difficulty in the preparation of Volume II of each succeeding issue of the Official Register. This volume in 1911 contained 774 pages, and the cost of printing alone was $12,600. It was necessary to obtain the names of the employees in the Postal Service by correspondence with each postmaster in the United States, and the accuracy of the returns furnished was in many cases very doubtful.

The task of preparing the volume was of such magnitude that a period of more than six months elapsed between the date to which it related and the date of its publication, and so many changes were made in the service during that time that it was of little value when finally issued.

In view of these facts, it was believed by the officials of the Census Bureau and of the Post Office Department that the practical value of Volume II was not sufficient to justify the labor and expense involved in its preparation; and in compliance with recommendations made, the following provision was incorporated in the urgent deficiency act approved October 22, 1913:

Hereafter the Official Register of the United States shall not contain the names of those persons heretofore published in Volume II relating to the Postal Service, namely, postmasters, assistant postmasters, clerks in post offices, city and rural carriers, employees of the sea-post service, employees of the Railway Mail Service, employees of the mail messenger service, and mail contractors; nor shall it contain the statement of allowances made to contractors for carrying the mails or the list of ships and vessels belonging to the United States, as heretofore published in the said Official Register; and all acts or parts of acts inconsistent with the foregoing provision are hereby repealed.

This legislation materially decreased the expense of preparing the Official Register, the clerical cost of which to the Census Bureau was thus reduced from $8,069.82 for the two volumes in 1911 to $3,911.84 for the directory volume alone in 1913, making a saving of $4,157.98; and it is believed that the elimination of Volume II resulted in an additional saving of several thousand dollars to the Post Office Department in clerical services in the preparation of the material.

The number of postal employees on June 30, 1915, is shown in the table on page 7.

The present volume contains several sections. Section 1 is devoted to the legislative branch of the Government, and gives the names of the members of the two Houses of Congress, together with the names and compensation of all officials and employees of Congress, officials and employees of joint congressional commissions and committees, and administrative officers of the Library of Congress and the National Botanic Garden. The remaining sections give the names, official designations, and compensation of persons in other branches of the Government service, as follows: (2) Executive departments and other governmental establishments—all persons occupying administrative and supervisory positions; (3) Judicial—justices, judges, and employees of all courts; (4) Territories and insular possessions—principal officials. Section 5 contains an alphabetical directory of all civilian employees of the United States Government, except those in the Postal Service, together with commissioned officers of the Army, Navy, and Marine Corps. The directory is preceded by a key to the abbreviations used. Section 6 consists of two appendixes: (I) Presenting the pay tables to be employed in computing the pay of officers in the Army, Navy, and Marine Corps, and the Coast Guard and Public Health Service; (II) containing a digest of legislation relating to the Official Register.

The information contained in sections 1, 2, 3, and 4 of the present volume is shown, so far as practicable, as of date September 15, 1915.

The names of temporary employees who on July 1, 1915, had been in the service less than six months are not included.

The number of names in this volume is approximately 165,800; the number of names in the Register for 1913 was 153,265.

There is given in this edition of the Register a table showing the total number of officers and employees in each of the executive departments and independent offices, classified by bureaus, services, or divisions, and according to whether employed in the District of Columbia or in the field. The figures shown in this table are in some cases necessarily only approximations, by reason of the fact that a number of the departments have large lump-sum appropriations and the force paid from such appropriations is continually changing. The compilation of strictly accurate statements of the number of employees in such departments on a given date would involve much more labor than their importance would justify.

The act of Congress approved March 3, 1893, provides that—Hereafter the Official Register of the United States shall contain a statement which will show, by departments or offices, the number of officers and employees in the several executive departments, the Department of Labor, the Government Printing Office, and the offices of the government of the District of Columbia appointed from each State and Territory and the District of Columbia, and the aggregate amount of their salaries or compensation.

This provision of the law calls for a complete and elaborate tabulation of all persons in the civil service of the United States, and is incompatible with the requirement of the act of January 12, 1895, that the volume shall be published on December 1. Since the passage of the former act there appears to have been no attempt to comply in full with the above quoted provision by the preparation of the statement applying to all the employees in the Government service. It has, however, been customary to furnish a statement giving the information required, but confining it to persons employed in the District of Columbia. Such a statement is included in the present volume.

The preparation of this table presents various difficulties. Certain officials, particularly those serving on special commissions—some of them without pay—are only loosely connected with any of the executive departments. They have been included with departments when practicable. The greatest difficulty occurs in the computation of the aggregate compensation, by reason of the fact that the compensation of a considerable number of employees is on a per diem or other basis than an annual salary and it is not practicable to secure from the records of the bureaus or offices the actual amount earned during the year by the employees in time for publication at the date required by law. For calculating the compensation of such persons, the following rules were adopted: (a) All per diem salaries were reduced to equivalent annual salaries by multiplying the rates specified by 313, the number of working days in the year; (b) in the case of pieceworker whom there are many in the Bureau of Engraving and Printing and in the Government Printing Office, the annual equivalent was computed from the average wage reported. No computation could be made in those cases in which officials received fees or commissions, or in other cases in which officials received a per diem allowance when actually employed. Because of these difficulties in calculating the aggregate compensation, and because there are included the salaries of not only of clerical and subclerical employees, but also of the President, the heads of departments, and other officials, the figures given in the table do not furnish a reliable basis for the computation of average salaries.

Compliance with the above-mentioned requirement of law, so far as it applies to the residence of employees of the government of the District of Columbia, is impossible, for the reason that all the employees of the District government have always been reported as appointed from the District of Columbia. These employees have, therefore, been classified by State of birth instead of by State from which appointed.

The compensation of officers of the Army, Navy, and Marine Corps on regular detail service in the District of Columbia is not included in the table giving the number and aggregate compensation of employees in the District of Columbia, for the reason that many of the officers report only "pay of rank" which can not be computed from the pay tables unless the length and details of service are known), while others report their total compensation, including allowances. In the directory portion of the volume the compensation of officers of the Army, Navy, and Marine Corps and Coast Guard and Public Health Service is given "pay of rank" unless specific information as to pay has been furnished.

The returns made to the Bureau of the Census are in some cases, particularly with reference to field employees, so indefinite as seriously to impair their value. In other cases the names of certain field employees are omitted by reason of the fact that they are engaged upon work of such minor importance, and are employed to so slight an extent, that their inclusion is not deemed desirable. For example, times of about 5,114 such persons were excluded from the returns for the Reclamation Service of the Department of the Interior; on the other hand, a large number of persons regularly employed at nominal salaries or on a casual basis have been returned by the various departments, such as weather observers, crop reporters, game wardens, collaborators in the Department of Agriculture; coast-guard statistics agents in the Bureau of the Census, and light keepers in the Light-House Service of the Department of Commerce; and commissioners and referees in bankruptcy in the Department of Justice.

The obligation resting upon the executive departments and other branches of the government service to furnish the Director of the Census the information required by law imposes in some cases a work of considerable magnitude. This statement applies particularly to those departments which have a large number of outlying services, especially in foreign countries and in the dependencies of the United States. It is almost impossible to obtain and check all the information required from each of the employees in these outlying services in time to permit the publication of the Official Register upon the date fixed by law.

In view of these and various other difficulties, and especially in view of the fact that the Register is necessarily at least five months out of date as soon as it is issued, in my annual report I have renewed my predecessor's recommendation of the following plan, which was proposed by him in his annual reports and which was embodied in the 1913 edition of the Register:

(1) The establishment of a card directory, prepared and maintained by the Civil Service Commission from information furnished by the executive departments and independent offices, showing the name and status of every person in the Government service except the officers and enlisted men of the Army, Navy, and Marine Corps, and Coast Guard. Lists of officers of the Army, Navy, and Marine Corps are already published annually in the Army Register and Navy Register, issued by the War and Navy Departments, respectively. These registers give detailed information concerning every officer on the active and retired lists, and are supplemented by monthly lists showing changes in the services.

(2) The elimination from the Official Register of detailed lists of all employees, by name.

(3) The publication annually by the Bureau of the Census of an Official Register containing—

(a) A list of all employees of the Government, except officers and enlisted men in the Army, Navy, and Marine Corps, and Coast Guard, whose duties are of an executive, supervisory, technical, or professional character, and whose compensation is $2,000 or more per annum.

(b) Statistics relating to the Government service, to be prepared from the Civil Service Commission's card directory.

This plan, if adopted, will result in very material saving to the Government, will preserve all the valuable features of the present Official Register, and will provide for a complete and up-to-date record of the entire personnel of the Government in one central office (the Civil Service Commission), in such form that the Bureau of the Census, by the use of its tabulating machinery, can quickly and accurately compile statistics relating to Federal employees when called upon to do so by the President or by Congress.

SAM. L. ROGERS,
Director of the Census.

BUREAU OF THE CENSUS,
Washington, December 1, 1915.

NUMBER OF PERSONS IN THE LEGISLATIVE, EXECUTIVE, AND JUDICIAL SERVICES OF THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT.

The following table shows the approximate total number of persons in the Legislative, Executive, and Judicial services of the Federal Government, exclusive of the Army and Navy, both in and outside of the District of Columbia, class by departments and independent offices, on July 1, 1915. Figures for the government of the District of Columbia (approximately one-half of expenses of which are paid by the Federal Government) and for the Library of Congress are also shown.

It is impracticable to present the figures for the several departments and offices in a uniform manner. They are shown, as a rule, in the form in which they were furnished to the Census Bureau.

These figures are in some cases only approximations, owing to the fact that certain of the departments and offices have lump-sum appropriations and the force paid from such appropriations is continually varying in size, so that the fitting of absolutely accurate statements as to the number of persons in the service at any particular date would involve more labor on the part of the departments than would be justified by the importance of the statistics.

The total number of employees shown in the table is 488,711, of whom 42,064 were employees of the District of Columbia and 446,647 outside of the District of Columbia. The difference between this total and the number of names listed in the Register (see Preface, p. 4) is due to the inclusion in the table of 296,119 employees in the Postal Service, although the names of employees are not shown in the Register; to the inclusion of 5,114 laborers, more or less temporarily employed, in the Reclamation Service; the Interior Department, 966 employees in temporary positions in the Department of Commerce, 1,907 temporary employees of the government of the District of Columbia, and 18,500 employees on the silver roll of the Panama Canal (the names of none of these temporary employees being included in the Register); to the inclusion of the names of commissioned officers of the Army, Navy, and Marine Corps in the Register, while the numbers of such officers are not given in the table; and to the fact that, as already stated, the figures shown in the table are in cases necessarily only approximations.

ARMY, NAVY, AND MARINE CORPS.

ORGANIZATION AND STRENGTH OF THE ARMY, NAVY, AND MARINE CORPS.

ORGANIZATION AND STRENGTH OF THE ARMY.

Under the act of Congress of February 2, 1901, entitled "An act to increase the efficiency of the permanent military establishment of the United States," provision is made that the total enlisted strength of the line of the Army shall not exceed at any one time 100,000, including the provisional force of native scouts in the Philippines with an authorized strength of 12,000 men. The act of August 24, 1912, however, modifies this law by providing that not to exceed 6,000 enlisted men of the Quartermaster Corps shall not be counted as a part of this maximum number. Furthermore, sections 1104 and 1105 of the Revised Statutes of the United States provide that the enlisted men of two regiments of cavalry and two regiments of infantry shall be colored men.

The actual strength of the entire military establishment on June 30, 1915, by branches of service, is shown in the following table:

² Includes 3,993 enlisted men of the Hospital Corps, which under the act of Congress approved March 1, 1887, are not to be counted as a part of the strength of the Army, and 4,388 enlisted men of the Quartermaster Corps.

In addition, there were on the retired list, as shown by the Official Army Register for 1915, 1,019 officers and 3,911 enlisted men.

ORGANIZATION AND STRENGTH OF THE NAVY.

The active list of the Navy, as organized under various acts of Congress, comprises 1,982 commissioned line officers, 819 commissioned staff officers (including 30 assistant surgeons in the Medical Reserve Corps on active duty, 78 assistant surgeons in the Medical Reserve Corps not on active duty, and 13 assistant dental surgeons in the Dental Reserve Corps not on active duty), 1,008 chief warrant and warrant officers, and the following officers serving under appointments: 23 acting assistant surgeons, 30 acting assistant dental surgeons, and 8 acting chaplains.

The retired list of the Navy comprises 547 commissioned line officers, 185 commissioned staff officers, and 251 chief warrant and warrant officers.

The act of Congress approved August 22, 1912, provides for 48,000 enlisted men, exclusive of those undergoing imprisonment with sentence of dishonorable discharge from the service at expiration of such confinement, and 3,500 apprentice seamen under training at training stations and on board training ships. The available force on November 2, 1915, was 51,462.

ORGANIZED STRENGTH OF THE MARINE CORPS.

The authorized strength of the Marine Corps is 346 officers and 9,921 enlisted men. The actual strength on November 2, 1915, was 343 officers and 9,918 enlisted men.

On the retired list of the Marine Corps on November 2, 1915, there were 62 officers, 1 paymaster's clerk, and 205 enlisted men.

The organization of the Marine Corps into companies, etc., is not fixed by law.

The Marine Corps in active service as organized on November 2, 1915, comprised:

Three companies of artillery, 8 technical companies, and 7 companies of infantry, forming the First Brigade, in Haiti;

Seven companies of infantry, forming the Fourth Regiment, on the west coast of the United States;

Detachments on board 43 ships of the Navy;

Garrisons at 24 navy yards and naval stations, powder magazines, and naval hospitals in the United States;

Detachments on foreign service at Peking, China; Island of Guam; Guantanamo, Cuba; Managua, Nicaragua; Pearl Harbor, Hawaii; and the Philippine Islands;

Detachments at Headquarters, Washington, D. C.; at staff offices in New York, Philadelphia, and San Francisco; at the rifle range at Winthrop, Md.; and at recruiting offices throughout the country.

NUMBER AND AGGREGATE COMPENSATION OF PERSONS APPOINTED FROM EACH STATE AND TERRITORY EMPLOYED IN THE FEDERAL EXECUTIVE AND JUDICIAL SERVICES IN THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA, CLASSIFIED BY DEPARTMENTS AND INDEPENDENT OFFICES, JULY 1, 1915.

NOTE.—The aggregate compensation shown in this table does not include the compensation of the officers of the Army, Navy, and Marine Corps, the Coast Guard, and the Public Health Service, on duty in the District of Columbia, since the returns for these officers give the compensation as "Pay of rank" (see Appendix 1), which it is not practicable to compile for this table. For this reason, and for the further one that the salaries of the President, the heads of Departments, and other officials are included, the figures here given do not furnish a reliable basis for the computation of average salaries.

³ Vice consuls receive no compensation as such, but when the principal officer is temporarily absent from duty the vice consul lawfully authorized to assume charge of the consular office is entitled to receive in addition to any salary due him as a subordinate officer an amount sufficient to make his compensation for the period equal to 50 per cent of the salary of such principal officer. A vice consul who receives no compensation as a subordinate officer is entitled to compensation equal to 50 per cent of the salary of the principal officer assigned to the post for such period.

An agent in the consular service is entitled to receive as his compensation one-half of the fees collected by him. This compensation may not exceed $1,000 in any one year. He may, however, engage in private business in the country of his official residence.

SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTION.

[The Smithsonian Institution, for the increase and diffusion of knowledge among men, was founded by James Smithson, an Englishman, who bequeathed his fortune to the United States for this purpose. It was established by act of Congress approved August 10, 1846, and its fund has been increased by other subsequent bequests and gifts. Its statutory members are the President of the United States, the Vice President, the Chief Justice of the United States, and the heads of the executive departments. The business is conducted by a board of regents, who serve without compensation. The names of employees whose salaries are paid from the Smithsonian endowment fund are not included in the Official Register.]

DIRECTORY.

NOTE.—The information shown regarding each person is presented in abbreviated form, and the sequence observed is as follows: Name—State in which employed—Bureau, office, or service of the department in which employed—Official title—Compensation—Date, territory, or country of birth—Number of Congressional district, and State and county from which appointed—Place of present employment in entries for officers of the Army, Navy, and Marine Corps, the assignment is not generally given, nor is the number of the Congressional district or county from which appointed.

For key to abbreviations, see pages 110 to 115.

Where the given name is abbreviated (Chas., Jas., Wm., etc.) the alphabetical arrangement follows the spelling of the name. All names with the prefixes De, La, Del, Du, La, Le, Ten, Van, and Von have been brought together in alphabetic sequence. All names with the prefix Mc have been brought together in a separate section.

In the entries for officers of the Army, Navy, and Marine Corps, it is not practicable to show the length of service or special assignment on which the rate of pay is based, but the information is given in detail for these services in the "Official Army Register" and in "The Navy and Marine Corps Register." These publications are issued annually and give all details concerning the service, rank, and special assignments of officers and are supplemented by monthly lists showing the frequent changes in the services.

Dashes indicate that data could not be secured for information omitted.

Where "Pay Rank" is given as compensation of Army, Navy, Marine Corps, Coast Guard, and Public Health Service officers, reference should be made to the pay tables in Appendix I.
