We may expect the example to be extensively followed by the press in the interior of Pennsylvania. The Guaette, after possing a noble eulogy upon Gen. Taylor,

Says:

These qualities have commended General Taylor to the affectionate sympathy of the people of the United States. While the deep thought, the Johy sentiment, and the marked good sense mainlest in all his communication-with others, and his known attachment to the purceights of the Wing party, have confirmed the members of that party in Phisadelphia, in their idea of uniting in the maintest desposition of their brethren in other parces, to present to the Wingsof the United States, General Zuchery Taylor, of Kentucky, as their candidate for the Trescency at the election in 1818, subject, of course, to the decision of a majority of that party, expressed in some admitted node, spontaneously through the press, or by arrangement in a National Convention. We therefore page at the head of our paper, the name of the election of the entire State ticket. A Wing has been chosen in the Eastern Congressional District, but in the Western District there is no choice. The following is a summary of the vote for Governor.
