WIKIDATA

Wikidata is a free knowledge base and a multi-lingual free licensed content project of Wikimedia Foundation (WMF), an American NGO whose aim is to promote free access to learning and knowledge preservation worldwide. (See: https://meta.m.wikimedia.org/wiki/Wikimedia_Foundation). Other WMF projects include: Wikipedia, Wiktionary, Wikiquote, Wikisource, Wikibooks, Wikiversity, Wikimedia Commons, etc. Wikidata was launched as WMF's newest project about six years after the last project, Wikiversity, was launched in August 2006, on 30 October 2012. Being a multilingual site, different languages could be translated in Wikidata, so long as they have a valid language code registered on Wikimedia. Wikidata is the largest project of WMF in terms of number of items (See: https://www.wikidata.org/wiki/Wikidata:Main_Page).

WIKIPEDIA

Wikipedia is the free online Encyclopaedia managed by Wikimedia Foundation (WMF). Wikipedia is the largest branch of WMF in terms of number of users. (See https://meta.wikimedia.org/wiki/List_of_Wikimedia_projects_by_size). Wikipedia is written in many languages worldwide like: English, Hindi, Catalan, French, Spanish, Swahili, Hausa, Igbo, Yoruba, Hebrew, Arabic, Chinese, Japanese, Guarani, etc. In May 2022, Tyap [kcg] became the sixth (or seventh) Nigerian language to get a Wikipedia sub-domain (See https://kcg.wikipedia.org/wiki/A%CC%84tsak_Wat_Wu), after Hausa [ha], Yoruba [yo], Igbo [ig], Kanuri *[kr] (now closed), Fula [ff] and Gungbe *[guw], reaching 500 articles in October 2022 (See https://meta.wikimedia.org/wiki/Wikimedia_News).

TYAP LANGUAGE: Code, Dialects, Standardization

Code: Tyap Language's ISO Language Code is "kcg". While that of closely related Jju is "Kaj".

Dialects: There are seven inter-related speech forms, or what one could call "dialects" or a dialect continuum, bearing the "kcg" language code, which are together simply regarded as "Tyap language", named after one of the dialects. Please note that the phenomenon of using one of a number of related dialects to refer to the whole group is not uncommon with other languages of the world, as such is done where no common name used previously for referring to such a group might have been found by the linguists, who then pick out one of the dialects to name the whole for grouping's sake. The seven dialects using this very language code include:

- Tyap (also rendered as Tyab, Katab, Kataf, Tyap Mabatado, Tyap proper)
- Gworog (also rendered as Gworok, Gorok, Gorog, Kagoro, Gwolog, Gwolok, Gwoot, Gwood)
- Fantswam (also rendered as Kafanchan)
- Sholyio (also rendered as Sholio, Sholyia, Morwa, Moroa, Sholyuo)
- Takad (also rendered as Takat, Attakar, Attaka)
- Tyecarak (also rendered as Tyecarag, Tyecaat, Chachaat, Cacaat, Kachechere, Ticharak, Tachira)
- Tyuku (also rendered as Tuku, Atuku)

To appreciate the beauty of these dialects and listen to how they relate to one another, you may want to play some recorded works by the Global Recording Network: https://globalrecordings.net/en/language/kcg .

The Merriam-Webster's Dictionary defines a dialect as: "a regional variety of language distinguished by features of vocabulary, grammar, and pronunciation from other regional varieties and constituting together with them a single language". In other words, a dialect is a variant form of a language.

Standardization: A standard is one of the various forms of a language, picked out to be used for general literature and media publications, which by no means makes any of the other dialects subordinate or inferior dialects Such a dialect used as a standard dialect is also known as the prestige dialect. (please see https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Standard_language#:~:text=A%20standard%20language%20(also%20standard,as%20one%20of%20its%20varieties). In the case of English, the American English is the global standard for translation of online English language contents in WMF projects like in Wikipedia. However, there are articles written in other varieties of English language within the same English Wikipedia. In the case of Tyap, the Tyap Mabatado /tʲáb mabə́də́dó/ form of the language is the standard, for translations in the Tyap Wikipedia. However, those who know other dialects other than that dialect are free to create new articles in other dialects rather than the standard dialect in the Tyap Wikipedia.

FOR NEW USERS WITH NO PRIOR EDITING EXPERIENCE

Things You Must Know

1. To contribute on Wikimedia (generally), one MUST first of all "JOIN" (i.e., register with a Username, a Password, and an Email address).
2. When you join one Wikimedia project e.g., Wikipedia, you have as well joined the others like Wikidata, Wiktionary, Wikibooks, etc., and you will use the same username in all, except in the case of Translatewiki which you will have to join separately, advisably, using same username and password (as you so wish).
3. The major Wikimedia websites we would use for this event are the Wikidata and Tyap Wikipedia.
4. The Standard Tyap dialect for the translations is the Tyap proper dialect (we sometimes use the word, "Mabatado" – often pronounced Mabərədo – an ancestral meeting point of the Atyap in Nietcen A̱fakan (H. Zangon Kataf), as a symbolism to refer to the language variety of the people in that part of the Tyap Language speaking zone), whose spelling as found in the Tyap New Testament Bible (TYAPNT) 1st edition (although some modifications had been done to a few spellings since its publication in 2015, but we'll get to know more as we proceed), we shall use.
5. The keyboard we shall be using is the African Keyboard (to give us the underscore diacritics as in "a̱" /ə/ and "i̱" /ɪ/ or /ɨ/). You can download this keyboard via Google Play Store and install on your smartphone.
6. These software and language translations were done by human being like us with one head, two eyes, one nose, one mouth, two hands, two legs, one body, not machines. They get hungry, they eat, they go to toilet, they have families, they have only 24 hours like us, they get tired, they sleep, they wake, they learn new things like us. Whatever they can do, we can do, you can do it. All that is needed is the willingness to learn.
7. The edits we make are correctable, and so, inasmuch as vigilance is required to avoid errors, don't be afraid to edit for fear of making mistakes.
8. You can always come back here to discuss a problem if you encounter one during editing on our Telegram or Facebook channels, and you'll be put through.

How to Register

1. To register, please go to the main Project Page by clicking on this link https://www.wikidata.org/wiki/Wikidata:Eleventh_Birthday/Tyap_Wikimedians_User_Group_Celebrates_Wikidata %27s_11th_Birthday#Participants , and go down to How to participate, or check page 15 of this document and follow the underlining instructions.

2. i.   When creating a new account, do remember to correctly fill in the required details: Username, Password and Email Address, and enter the reason for your joining the project, and send it.

    ii.   Open your email address and go to the message sent you by Wikimedia and "confirm" by clicking on the blue link in the message. This would take you back to the Meta-Wiki website. Congratulations! You are now a Wikimedia editor.

    iii.   If you are not returned to the first page you started from, go back to the home page of the event or to this document and click on the link in No. 1, above.

How to Create a User Page and Talk Page

    i.   Please check the Participants section to see any Username from the list signed in blue. Probably, yours is the only one in red. Don't feel bad.

    ii.   Click on it and when it opens, at the top click on the pen tool or "edit" you shall see.

    iii.   When the new page opens, copy what you see and go right back to the Project Page.

    ii.   Go to the Participants section and click on your own username in red. It would tell you that you are about to create a new page. Click "OK" to proceed and a new empty page would open.

    iii.   Paste what you earlier copied from the other person's User page and edit the information by adding information about yourself that you would want others to know instead, and Click on the blue arrow at the top-right part of the screen. When the Summary box opens, type in it something like, "I am creating my user page", and click on "Publish". Congratulations! You now have a user page.

    iv.   As for the Talk Page still in red, you may leave it like that. The first person to send you a message (which is usually indicated beside the bell-shape icon) would be the one to create it for you.

How to Add Citation

1. To add a reference/citation to a Wikipedia article, go to the website where the item you are citing is located and copy the url address. Return to your article and type at the position you would normally fix a citation in this format:
   <ref> [URL TITLE] (YEAR). SUB-TITLE</ref>. See example after TRANSLATION in the article layout for "a̠lakumi".
   <ref>[https://play.google.com/store/apps/details?id=org.wycliffe.kcg.tyap.bible A̠lyiat A̠gwaza na di̠n Tyap: A̠li̠ka̠uli A̠fai] (2015). "A̠cha̠chet Swáng A̠lyiat".</ref>

2. Then scroll up to the blue arrow at the top-right part of your screen and click on it.

3. Write in the summary box something like, "I am translating this article".

4. Then click on Publish.

5. To further develop or edit the new page you created, click on the pen tool on that very newly created article. When done, perform the same ceremony explained in nos. 10, 11 and 12.
   NB: Each time you publish, your number of edits increase. If you have below 500 edits, you are known as an "autoconfirmed" editor, and when you reach 500 edits, you become an "extended user", with increased 'editing privileges.

6. Once you are done with your first article, please return to the Project page to follow the same process and create another article.

WIKIMEDIA COMMONS

UPLOADING MULTIMEDIA CONTENTS

Wikimedia Commons is one of the projects of Wikimedia Foundation. However, because we are having this project as one of the main websites for this very competition, we are not talking much about it. The ensuing content is just a bonus.

Whatever you intend to upload, be it an audio, video or imagery content on Wikimedia Commons, you would have to abide by the guidelines outlined here:
https://commons.m.wikimedia.org/wiki/Commons:First_steps/Quality_and_description . The process of creating a User page/Talk page on Wikimedia Commons is also similar as on Wikidata and Wikipedia. You may not have to create these before uploading media contents on the website.

A. Uploading a New Media File on Wikimedia Commons
The following steps would help you upload a file (audio, image/picture) on Wikimedia Commons.
1. i. Audio and Video:
   - When uploading an audio content, first of all record it with your smartphone or whatever device you are using.
   - Ensure the last part of the file name is .mid or .ogg (for audio) and .webm or .ogg or .ogv (for video). If not, you would have to download an audio or video converter application on your mobile device or computer to convert the sound or video to either of those file extensions highlighted.
   - Once you are sure you have a content with the right file extension, please proceed to step no. 2.

   ✓ Video:
   - Upload video in any of the required formats (see i. above) automatically to Commons using the Video2commons software by clicking here.

   ii. Image:
   - You would first of all need to snap a picture with your mobile device.
   - Ensure your image carries the file extension .jpg or .jpeg or .png.
   - If not, please import/open the image on an image editor e.g., Adobe Photoshop, CorelDraw, MS Paint, etc. and save as with the .jpg image extension.
   - When your image carries the right extension code, you can then proceed to step no. 2.
2. Save yourself the stress and use the Upload Wizard to upload your file. Please click on:
   https://commons.wikimedia.org/wiki/Special:UploadWizard .
3. Click on Select media files to share if the file is in your device.
4. Find the location of the file and click on it to open. It brings you back to the Upload Wizard environment.
5. Wait for the file to upload.
6. Click on Continue by the right-hand side, to the bottom.
7. Click on This is my own work (if it is your own work indeed).
8. Click on Next.
9. On the description page just opened, change the Image title, add a Caption (a subject/topic on the image), Description, ensure the date is correct, and in the Categories part down, last, if it is a Tyap language related media, please type in the box Tyap language related media. Before you finish typing, it might even pop out, then click on it. Then click on enter key and add another, Tyap Wikimedians User Group in 2023, and if specifically it is for this event, add the category: Tyap Wikimedians User Group Celebrates Wikidata's 11th Birthday.
10. Then, click on Publish files.

11. On the Add data page just opened, you will the caption up, and below it before your uploaded picture is a file name ending with an extension .jpg (for image), .ogg (for audio) or .ogv (for video). That is the actual line you need. However, you can proceed till the end of this uploading exercise by scrolling down to Skip this step.
12. Copy the first option for wiki. Keep what you copied safe. That is it!

   B. Using a Media File on Wikipedia

If you want to use the media file you just uploaded on Wikimedia Commons, just copy the file extension of the image you just uploaded and go over to Wikipedia to paste and publish it.

If you are adding an image previously uploaded, maybe, you created an article in the Tyap Wikipedia titled A̱bwu (Dog),

1. Just go to a Wikimedia Commons environment; you can still reach there via this link: https://commons.wikimedia.org/wiki/Special:UploadWizard. Click on it, and go to Search Wikimedia Commons. Type into the box, "dog", and click enter. All images having the Image titles or captions or descriptions or categories on dog would appear.
2. Select the image you need by copying the entire line having a file extension code at its end, e.g., File:abcdef_ghij.jpg.
3. Return to the article in the Tyap Wikipedia to add the image as described above.

NB: Not all images or audios or videos would carry the word "File:" at the beginning. But when adding it to your article, if missing, type "File:" before the file title. Everything looks like this:

[[File:FILE TITLE|thumb|CAPTION]]. Replace "FILE TITLE" with the media file name you copied on Wikimedia Commons or even on Wikipedia, and replace the "CAPTION" above with a file description in Tyap. Publish you input and see the result for yourself!
