INDUSTRIAL CONFERENCE OPENS AT OTTAWA

D'ANNUNZIO, IGNORING CONFERENCE, DECLARES FIUME PART OF ITALY

Gen. Badoglio, Sent by Italian Government, Arrives in Fiume to Deal With Situation; D'Annunzio Said to Have 8,000 Troops.

Geneva, Sept. 15.—Gabriele d'Annunzio, supported by the forces of Arditelli which accompanied him into Fiume, has proclaimed a union of Fiume with Italy, according to advices received by the Serbian Press Bureau here from Belgrade.

Paris, Sept. 15.—(Havas).—General Badoglio, Deputy Chief of the Italian General Staff, who has been given broad powers to meet the situation in Fiume incident to entry into the city of Captain Gabriele d'Annunzio at the head of a large force of irregular troops, has arrived at Fiume, accompanied by General Amiassi, according to advices received here.

Rome, Sept. 15.—According to latest advices, Captain Gabriele d'Annunzio is still in Fiume.

Anarchy

Geneva, Sept. 15.—Fiume was plunged into anarchy, advices received here declare when a brigade of Italian troops which previously had evacuated the city, returned without officers, ejected the local authorities and arrested General Pitagala, an Italian officer.

The British and French troops in Fiume, the message states, barricaded themselves within their quarters, expecting to be attacked, while the crowds in the city tore down the Allied flags.

The Serbian authorities, it is added, still remain in the suburb of Susak, which is isolated.

Reinforcements

Rome, Sept. 15.—Reinforcements for d'Annunzio's forces in Fiume are said to be marching on Fiume. General Ferrari, commanding the Italian troops on the armistice line, has been ordered to prevent the forces from joining Captain d'Annunzio.

Shops Closed

Washington, Sept. 15.—An official dispatch from United States Consul Kehlberger at Fiume received by the States Department to-day agrees with the press dispatches regarding the occupation of the city by Gabriele d'Annunzio and his irregular force of Italian soldiers. The consul's dispatch says the shops have been closed as a protest against the new arrangement in the city, by which it is understood is meant the general proposal for the disposition of Fiume at the Peace Conference.

BANK BRANCHES IN SOUTH AMERICA

If Shipping Connections Established Royal Bank Ready to Act

Vancouver, Sept. 15.—"If British Columbia will persuade the Government of Canada to allocate a number of the carriers in her mercantile marine to do business between the British Columbia coast and the west coast of South America, the Royal Bank of Canada will establish branches in the different ports on the west coast of South America just as soon as it is possible to do so," said E. L. Pease, vice-president and managing director of the Royal Bank of Canada, who arrived in this city last night.

Mr. Pease stated that while the activities of the bank were being extended to foreign countries, the home branches would not be neglected, as the bank is now established in every city and town in Canada large enough to support a bank.

Three new branches recently have been opened in South America by the Royal Bank, but Mr. Pease did not consider that it would be advisable at present to open branches in the Orient, as the connections already established there are functioning to the satisfaction of those transacting business.

FISHER SAYS AIRCRAFT ARE JUNKING SURFACE WARSHIPS

London, Sept. 15.—Lord Fisher, former First Sea Lord of the Admiralty, in concluding the series of articles on the navy which he has been contributing to The Times, says a period of naval change is at hand as sweeping in its character as was either the introduction of steam or the advent of armor, for the fact is unquestioned that aircraft even now are making such rapid development that the only escape for vessels on the surface of the ocean will be to go under the water. These types of vessels instantly require great study, research and much experiment, he says.

"We had a submersible carrying a 12-inch gun before the war ended," he declares. "The very day this 12-inch gun submersible was ready for battle she heard through her own wireless installation a message from a far distant sea."

WILL ELIMINATE VISITS TO TOWNS

Revised Schedule of Prince's Tour Cuts Out Alberni and Courtenay

Great disappointment will be felt in some of the Up-Island towns which were looking forward to a visit from the Prince of Wales next week, owing to an announcement made to-day that His Royal Highness was being directed by his physician to devote two days on Vancouver Island absolutely to rest. Therefore, engagements for Saturday, September 27, and Sunday September 28, have been cancelled.

As a result of the necessary revision of the programme, the Up-Island visit will be confined to Friday, September 26, and ten minute stops will be made by the special train at Duncan, Ladysmith and Nanaimo, en route to Qualicum Hospital. There the Prince will visit the Soldiers' Convalescent Hospital, and will have tea with the patients and staff. He will be there about two hours, returning that evening.

Thus the visits to Alberni and Courtenay will be eliminated, and there will be no stay in the Cowichan area beyond the ten minute stop at Duncan.

BRITISH MINISTERS MAKE STATEMENTS ON NEEDS OF THE COUNTRY AND POLICY

London, Sept. 15.—Mr. Lloyd George issued a message to the people of Great Britain in "The Future" to-day. Distributed free throughout the country, the message says:

"Millions of gallant young men fought for the new world. Hundreds of thousands died to establish it. If we fail to honor the promise given them, we dishonor ourselves.

"What does the new world mean? What was the old world like? It was a world where the toil of myriads of honest workers, men and women, purchased nothing better than squalor, penury, anxiety, wretchedness, a world scarred by slums, disgraced by sweating, where unemployment, through the vicissitudes of industry, brought despair to multitudes of homes; a world where side by side with want there was waste of the inexhaustible riches of the earth, partly through ignorance and want of forethought, partly through entrenched selfishness.

"If we renew the lease of that world, we shall betray the heroic dead. We shall be guilty of the basest perfidy that ever blackened a people's name. Nay, we shall atone our retribution for ourselves and our children.

"The old world must and will come to an end. No effort can prop it up much longer. If there be any who feel inclined to maintain it, let them beware lest it fall upon them and overwhelm them and their households in ruin.

"It should be the sublime duty of all without thought of partisanship to help in the building of the new world, where labor shall have its just reward and indolence alone shall suffer want."

RESIGNATION OF BALKAN CABINETS

Treaty Causes Changes in Roumania and Jugo-Slavia

Paris, Sept. 15.—(Havas).—Confirmation was received here yesterday of the report that the Roumanian Cabinet headed by J. C. Bratianu had resigned. The fall of the Government was caused by diplomatic difficulties brought about by the refusal of Jugo-Slavia to sign the treaty with Austria.

Belgrade, Sept. 15.—via London, Sept. 15.—Premier Davidovich made public yesterday the letter to Prince Regent Alexander in which he offered the resignation of his Cabinet. The letter, which was dated Friday, September 12, said the latest news from the Peace Conference was unfavorable and the Cabinet had been unable to obtain the suppression or attenuation of the clauses dealing with minorities which infringed upon the national sovereignty and could not sign a document of an international character which did not prescribe reciprocity.

The Prince Regent accepted the Cabinet's resignation, but asked the Ministers to continue in office until the crisis had been settled.

CANNOT BE DRIVEN INTO FOREIGN WAR

London Times Comments on Canada and League of Nations

London, Sept. 15.—(Reuters).—The Times, commenting on the ratification of the peace treaty with Germany by the Canadian Parliament, says that Hon. C. J. Doherty, Minister of Justice, rose to the greatness and significance of the occasion in the life of the Empire, as General Smuts did at Cape Town. The Times continues:

"His reply to Mr. Fielding represents, we are confident, not only the settled view of the overwhelming majority of the Canadian people on the position of Canada, but a view which the peoples of all the Dominions hold as to the real status within the Empire of their several countries. Mr. Doherty gave a conclusive answer to the argument that by giving her approval to the League and to the covenant, Canada is abandoning control by her Parliament over her military forces. No self-governing community can be driven into war or ordered into war against its own will. In all such communities legislation is essential to make the conduct of war possible, and the mere apprehension that a legislature would refuse it or refuse supplies under the pressure of public opinion must effectively prevent any responsible Government, and still more, any democratic Government, from embarking upon a war which public conscience and public judgment would not heartily support."

WIDNES ELECTION OMEN OF CHANGE

Sir George Fordham, Visiting Here, Comments on British Conditions

"I regard the election of Mr. Henderson in Widnes as a most significant political event. Mr. Henderson is a moderate man, of proven ability, and his return to the House of Commons may hasten the apparent prospect of common action between the Asquithian Liberals and the Labor party in England as an alternative government. They are tired of the absence of responsible administration, and of the loss of control by the House over the Cabinet. This is the opinion of Sir George Fordham, late chairman of the Cambridgeshire County Council, England, who is a leading figure in the eastern counties, and on two or three occasions has been a Liberal candidate for Parliament.

Sir George Fordham arrived in this city yesterday morning. He is making a tour of Canada, and is now on his way to the Okanagan, where a son resides.

Building Homes.
Local governing bodies, said Sir George to The Times, are looking anxiously for the building programme promised by the British Government of a million houses. Houses are in great demand, both in rural and urban centres. The public of England looks with some apprehension to the prospect of apartment houses in the towns taking the place of individual homes, but the tendency is that way, says the speaker. The neglect inevitable in the building of such houses is a great danger.

DUNCAN WILL HAVE A GARDEN PARTY

King's Daughters Will Put on Event; Cattle Prizes Won at Vancouver

Duncan, Sept. 15.—The King's Daughters are to hold a garden party at the Duncan Hospital next Wednesday.

The King's Daughters will unite with the Cowichan Women's Institute and the Methodist and St. John's Ladies' Guilds in undertaking the catering for the Fall Fair here from September 25 to 28.

Sewing meetings will be held by the King's Daughters every fortnight to prepare for the annual sale. The first will be at Mrs. Elkington's on October 2.

Prizes For Cattle.

Duncan and district are justly proud of the success of their Jersey exhibitors at the Vancouver Exhibition, and G. T. Corfield is being congratulated on the results achieved by the progeny of his remarkable Jersey bull "Interested Violet's Oxford," for in each case where they competed they came at the top of the tree.

The first honor of all the Jersey females was won by W. A. Willett's three-year-old, Rosewood Model Kitty, she being the grand champion cow.

The honors of the local exhibitors were as follows:

G. T. Corfield, first in senior bull calf class; second in two-year-old bull class.

W. A. Willett, first in cows three-year-old (open); senior championship; grand championship.

W. A. Willett, first and second in the cows' junior yearling class; fourth in junior calf class.

A. E. Collyer, Chemainus, first in cow, three-year-old with yearly record. A. E. Collyer, first in senior yearling and junior championship.

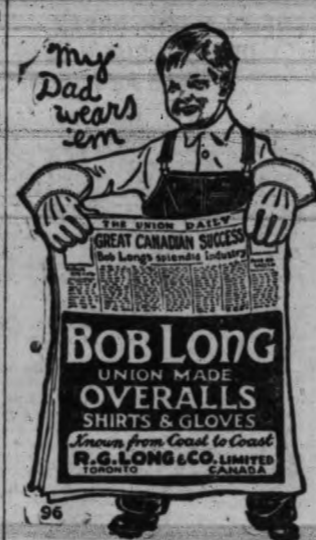

A great feature of the day was the exhibiting of Interested Violet's Oxford, with four of his progeny, being all prize winners, truly an excellent showing. This, of course, carried off the first prize in this class.

The day the cattle were judged might fittingly have been called Jersey Day. The great interest taken in the judging by the huge crowd around the ring was remarkable. This in itself showed how popular the Jersey is becoming and from the results shown, there is no reason why Vancouver Island should not be the Jersey centre of the breed, if all breeders will co-operate and breed better Jerseys.

Visitors from Duncan at the Vancouver Exhibition were Mr. and Mrs. Doering, Messrs. Jackson, Bishop, Paitson, L. Norrie, A. R. Wilson, C. J. Waidy and W. H. Cochrane and Mayor Pitt.

ITALY WANTS COAL FROM SOUTH RUSSIA

Rome, Sept. 15.—The Italian Government is trying to obtain coal from Southern Russia so as to stave off the menace of a winter without a source of heat. Two commercial commissions have been sent to the vast basin of the Donetz in Southern Russia, where Italian experts estimated there were untouched coal lands that would yield 57,000,000,000 tons. The experts also say there are 114,000,000 tons of coal in Siberia or in parts of European Russia outside of the Donetz basin.

It is calculated that if the coal supply of Southern Russia were properly exploited the territory would furnish all the coal necessary for the Mediterranean countries. Coal for Italy is now quoted at $5.50 at Norfolk, Va., but it costs $30 a ton to bring it to Genoa.

SEATTLE STIRRED BY THE VISIT OF PRESIDENT WILSON

Head of Nation Says United States Is to Stay With Allies

Seattle, Sept. 15.—President Wilson told Seattle on Saturday that public opinion in the United States will force the adoption of the treaty and the covenant and thereby keep the solemn pledges that the United States has made to the world. He also declared that the outcome of the debate now raging amongst the United States senators is in no doubt.

Seattle welcomed President and Mrs. Wilson with a tremendous pent-up enthusiasm which burst into fervid expression when the Presidential party stepped off the special train at the King Street depot. Surrounded by secret service operatives and special police, the President and Mrs. Wilson in a motor car made a triumphal tour up Second Avenue to Stewart Street and down First Avenue to Yesler Way to Pier 1, where they embarked for the inspection of the fleet in Elliott Bay.

First and Second Avenues were garbed in gorgeous decorations and along the route the huge confetti guns from the roofs of buildings shot hurricanes of color down on the party. The President stood in the motor practically the whole of the trip, bowing to the crowds that jammed the streets. For the first time during his present trip he wore his silk hat. Newspaper men who have made the full tour with the party declared that the reception accorded the President in Seattle was the most enthusiastic of his trip.

The President spoke at a dinner at the Hippodrome given by the city and later addressed 4,000 persons at the Arena. During the Arena meeting a dense throng frantically clamored outside the building for admission. "We want Wilson," they cried. The continuous clamor outside disturbed the President in his speech, and while discussing Article X, he paused and said with a smile: "This applause is acceptable but not opportune. Probably some signal should be arranged to let them know when they should cheer."

Will Not Be Quitters
"My fellow citizens, I am going to devote every influence I have and all the authority I have from this time on to see to it that no minority commands the United States," the President said amidst cheers. "We are not quitters; we will see this thing through."

He made no new point in his speech from what has been emphasized in former speeches during his tour. Some of the things he did say in Seattle are:

"If there had been a League of Nations in 1914, whether Germany belonged to it or not, Germany would never have dared to attempt the aggressions she did attempt."

"Discussion is destructive when wrong is intended, and all the nations of the world agreed to put their case before the judgment of mankind."

"If you are fighting mad and I can induce you to talk it over for half an hour, you won't be fighting mad at the end of the half hour."

Pro-Germans Pleased at Delay.
"Somebody seems to have conceived the notion that I originated the idea of a League of Nations. I wish I had. I would be a very proud man if I had. But I did not. I was expressing the avowed aspirations of the American people, avowed by nobody so loudly, so intelligently, or so constantly as the great leaders of the Republican party. When the Republicans take that road I take off my hat and follow; I don't care whether I lead or not."

"All over this country, my fellow citizens, it is becoming more and more evident that those who were the partisans of Germany are the ones who are principally pleased by some of the aspects of the debate that is now going on."
"In some of the many parts of the country men are drawing attention to little details in a way that destroys the great perspective of the plan."
"And, my fellow citizens, the world is not in a temper to discuss this treaty over again. The world demands that we shall come to some sort of settlement."

Only Protection For Small Nations.
"There is only one way to maintain the rights of little nations, and that is by the strength of great nations, and having begun this great task we are no quitters; we are going through with it."
"Every nation that joins the League and that in prospect means every fighting nation in the world—agrees to submit all controversies which are likely to lead toward war either to arbitration or to thorough discussion by an authoritative body, the Council of the League of Nations."

"All the members of this great association pledge themselves to respect and reserve, as against external aggression, the territorial integrity and existing independence of the other member states. This is the famous Article X, the heart of the pledge that we have made to the nations of the world. Only by Article X can we be said to have underwritten civilization."
"It is agreed that just as soon as any member state, or any outside state for that matter, refuses to submit its case to the public opinion of the world, its doors shall be locked, that no country shall trade with it, no telegraphic message shall leave it or enter it, no letter shall cross its borders either way; there shall be no transactions of any kind between citizens of the members of the League and the covenant-breaking state."

Boycott Stronger Than War.
"If reservations do not change the treaty, it is not necessary to make them a part of the resolution of ratification. If you want to put in reservations that give the United States a position of special privilege or responsibility among the members of the League, then it will be necessary to take the treaty back to the conference table."
"America, above all nations, should not be the nation to put obstacles in the way of the peace of nations and the peace of mind of the world."

"In a naval appropriation bill passed in 1915, the Congress of the United States deliberately accepted, not only accepted, but directed the President to promote an agreement

"PLAYING WITH NAVAL DEFENCE?"

"When Lord Jellicoe does report, as he has been requested to do by the Australian Government, it will be found that, in effect, his advice will be that the country should cease playing with naval defence and take the subject seriously."—Colonist.

This is an amazing description of Australia's naval policy. It ignores absolutely the origin of that policy, what has been accomplished by it, what it aims to accomplish and, above all, its splendid achievements in the war. If the protection of the Australasian coast cities from destruction by von Spee's squadron, safeguarding the vital arteries of trans-Pacific commerce, the capture of the German bases in the Pacific, the destruction of the Emden, whose depredations in the Indian Ocean occasioned the utmost anxiety in London, can be considered as "playing with naval defence," we would like to have our contemporary's idea of the real thing. And, heaven knows, of all places on earth Canada is the last from which the faintest whisper derogatory to Australia's policy should come, for the gallant cruiser Sydney, the victor in one of the most brilliant and decisive naval engagements of the war, helped to convoy Canadian troops and supplies across the Atlantic and protect our coast in the absence of any naval protection of our own.

The Australian naval policy was the outcome of a conference between the Australian Government and the British Admiralty in 1909, and was recommended by the technical heads of the British Navy at that time. It provided for a programme which ultimately will call for an expenditure of $200,000,000, a considerable proportion of which already is represented in the fine fleet unit which flies the Australian flag. This unit includes the battle-cruiser Australia, which took her place in the Grand Fleet in the North Sea; the light cruisers Melbourne, Sydney and Brisbane, vessels belonging to a type which in dealing with the most mortal menace of the war, the German submarine, proved many times more valuable than dreadnaughts; six destroyers, several submarines and several coast defence and training vessels of an old class.

It is true, Mr. Churchill before the war predicted that in a great conflict the Australian ships would be useless, but events confounded the Churchill view in this respect as completely as the tragedy at Gallipoli, not to speak of other costly blunders, discredited him as a naval strategist—his persistence in posing in which capacity forced the resignation of Lord Fisher as First Lord of the Admiralty. It was Churchill, we recall, who said warships could not be built in Canada because it would be impossible for us to get riveters!

Australia, our contemporary curiously observes, has no adequate base or bases for her fleet and her drydock accommodation is insufficient. This assertion reflects the same sense of proportion as is shown in the charge that Australia is "playing with naval defence." Australia has an excellent base at Cooatoo Island in Sydney Harbor which in time, on account of its peerless advantages, should develop into one of the finest bases in the world.

This reminds us that in his book covering the operations of the British Navy in the first two years of the war, Lord Jellicoe declares that the Grand Fleet labored under the same disadvantages regarding bases and drydock accommodation as those our contemporary charges to Australia. The outbreak of war, he says, found the Grand Fleet without a solitary adequate base on the whole North Sea coast, and finally it was necessary to take the fleet to Lough Swilly on the north of Ireland until an adequate base could be developed at Scapa Flow.

As to drydock accommodation Jellicoe points out that the Admiralty for years had pursued the wrong policy of building ships first and drydocks next, with the result that the drydock accommodation was entirely inadequate, and the Tiger, Warspite and many other big vessels that had been damaged in action had to be repaired in docks improvised with coffer dams. So, if Australia, with only 5,000,000 people and whose navy is less than ten years old, has not developed adequate bases or sufficient drydock accommodation, she has been in mighty imposing company and, therefore, in a naval sense, is not quite hopeless.

In these circumstances to say that Australia has been "playing with naval defence," or that "what she has done is by no means commensurate with her position in the southern Pacific or with whatever obligations she may be held to have as a component part of the British Empire" is so glaringly in conflict with the facts as to be grotesque. Coming from a Canadian newspaper—of all newspapers—it is a veritable monstrosity. If this is the sort of contention with which the project of an Imperial Navy—whatever that may mean—is going to be supported the scheme will not make much headway, certainly not in Australia, who has done magnificently in the way of naval defence.

HEAD AND HEART BREAKER.

In a striking speech before the Trades Union Congress at Glasgow on Saturday morning, J. R. Clynes told the assembled delegates that "direct action" would result in the breaking of workers' heads and women's hearts. Terrorism was not government, he declared, and labor was just beginning to learn how to govern. He begged the workers not to challenge the existence of the state and claim the right to class dictatorship.

"Others won't be driven any more than you," said Mr. Clynes. In this he hit the nail on the head. In the final analysis it will have to be remembered that the great majority of people in any country is the section which is not represented in the membership of any particular organization. Organized Labor, admittedly, has the power to dislocate the industry of the country. Very often its cause is just, even if the policy of enforcing its demands is costly to capital, labor and the country alike. But when the very existence of the state is threatened and all forms of constituted government challenged, it will be found that the vastly preponderating element will stand firm in maintaining the nation's equilibrium.

—Apropos of the extremist and his general plan of action, Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst confirmed in part the views of Mr. Clynes on her arrival in New York on Saturday. She predicted the downfall of Bolshevism because the women were ready to fight it with the same spirit which inspired thousands of their sex to turn out munitions of war and "stand behind the men behind the guns."

AN IMPORTANT CONFERENCE.

If this Dominion is to reap the benefits of peaceful and progressive industry it will be necessary for capital and labor to live in amity. Without a common understanding the joint enterprise of both is seriously handicapped and the country as a whole is the loser. The two are inseparable, and the sooner defective relationships are improved the better it will be for everybody concerned. On this account it is to be hoped that the National Conference of Employers and Employees, in session at Ottawa to-day, will result in the discovery of a solution for industrial problems which owe their origin very largely to suspicion and prejudice existing between the worker and the employer.

To-day's gathering is patterned after the Industrial Council of Great Britain. Delegates in attendance are to be permitted equal representation. Sixty members of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada will take up the case on behalf of the rank and file of labor, and an equal number of representatives will present the views of the employers. Ministers from the various Provinces will take part in such discussions as those dealing with the desirability of unifying and co-ordinating the existing labor laws of the Dominion and the Provinces.

The labor features of the Peace Treaty, recommendations of the Royal Commission on Industrial Relations—with special reference to hours of labor, minimum wage laws, the right to organize, recognition of labor unions, the right of collective bargaining, recommendations in favor of the establishment of a bureau to promote the formation and development of joint industrial councils—and many other equally vital branches of the general subject will be discussed by the conference.

Obviously, the most effective method of demolishing a grievance is to permit both parties to meet and thresh it out. While Canada has escaped anything like the universal industrial turmoil, there are those who stand ready to use the smallest flaw in the present system as an excuse to foment strife. These men have no real interest in the country and they do not represent the loyal body of Canadian workmen. The most effective weapon against this sort of propaganda—for capital and labor—is the formation of a programme which insures fair dealing all round. If the conference accomplishes this much it will have justified itself.

SIR ARTHUR AT OTTAWA.

Speaking at the luncheon of the Exhibition Directors in Ottawa on Saturday, General Sir Arthur Currie pointed to the fact that the Government had directed a good deal of attention to getting men back to the land. He declared that the soldier could be trusted—one only had to think of what they did at the front to feel perfectly at ease on that score. Sir Arthur reminded his hearers, however, that not every returned man wanted to go farming. They are liable to get the impression that the country is only willing to help the farmer, he declared. He believed, nevertheless, that a plan could be worked out to help all of them.

It has been conceded fairly generally that the community idea of settlement, no matter what form it takes, has a strong appeal to returned men. They see in the proposal the benefits of perpetuating the comradeship of the trenches, an opportunity to convert battlefield "team-work" into a cohesive effort towards developing the country. The Empress of Asia scheme had for its main object the community, but the community replete with all the essential callings for a ready-made self-supporting town.

The Dominion Government's land settlement machinery, however, has been designed for the farmer only and he must qualify for his loan under the act. It looks as if the Ottawa authorities will have to go into the community idea a little further. There ought to be a way of relieving the congestion of the cities during the reaction which will come sooner or later. The country awaits development and by allowing agriculture and industrial expansion to proceed hand in hand Canada would not go far wrong.

THE LAST OF THE BARONS.

(The Maoriland Worker, Wellington, N.Z.)
 The Duke of Northumberland before the Coal Commission said it would be a bad thing to give a million miners control of the coal of Britain, and so it would be for the duke and others similarly situated. He thought it an excellent thing that he should own 24,450 acres of mineral rights, and he is right. But what about the million miners and the forty millions in the "Old Country"? Really, we fancy that these would be much better off if the duke were to lose his "rights" in the matter of minerals. The royalties paid to such as the duke are one of the chief factors in keeping the price of coal so high in Britain, but then this only means that the poor have to go cold, and they don't matter anyhow—to the coal barons. But somehow we have an idea the cancerous luxuries are long. The people of the Old Land will endeavor to cut out such

ENEMY ALIENS BREAK OUT OF PRISON IN UTAH AND ESCAPE

Salt Lake City, Utah, Sept. 15.—Between seven and seventeen enemy alien prisoners at the war prison barracks at Fort Douglas, near here, escaped early to-day by way of a tunnel constructed underneath the wire enclosure of the prison. An early check of those missing indicates that none of the important prisoners escaped.

According to Colonel George L. Byram, commandant, there were 207 prisoners in the compound, most of them of the I. W. W. class. Police and sheriffs throughout the state have been warned to watch for the escaped men.

According to Col. Byram, one of the escaped prisoners is of the dangerous type, nearly all have been interned because they were classed as "undesirable."

Reports from Ogden said several suspects had been rounded up by the police there but none have yet been identified as escaped men from the war prison.

The tunnel through which the men made their escape extended for eighty feet beyond the wire enclosure of the compound and was dug six feet below the surface. Its construction completely escaped detection, no trace having been found of the dirt removed.

NATIONAL INDUSTRIAL GATHERING IN SESSION IN DOMINION CAPITAL

 A Board
 The success of the former United States War Labor Board in handling 1,245 controversies and bringing about many adjustments between employers and workers was cited by W. J. Jett Lauck, its secretary, as a reason for the formation of a similar body to handle post-war labor and industrial problems.

Maintenance of a national labor board and its staff by joint contributions of employers and employees when capital and labor have become more completely organized, was advocated by the speaker, who said that such a body would help to "democratize industry."

Accomplished Much
 In outlining what the United States War Labor Board had accomplished, Mr. Lauck pointed out that it had secured to the Government and public uninterrupted production of war munitions and supplies. That it had brought the wage-earner increases in pay approximating the advance in the cost of living, and lastly it had afforded the employer stability in and acceleration of production.

Mr. Lauck advocated the adoption of a programme including a national industrial conference or congress similar to the present one; the creation of a National Board of Labor as a "court of last resort" in controversies involving principles or policies; and finally a Board of Production in each industry to formulate and agree upon proper methods of increasing production and decreasing labor costs.

Programme.
 The programme for the Conference includes consideration of the following:
 Labor features of the peace treaty; unifying and co-ordinating existing labor laws of the Dominion and provinces and any new labor laws deemed necessary; recommendation of the Royal Commission on Industrial Relations respecting hours of labor; minimum wage laws; employer's right to organize; recognition of labor unions; right of employees to collective bargaining; recommendation of the Industrial Relations Commission in favor of the establishment of a bureau to promote the establishment and development of joint industrial councils.

and the establishment of joint plant and industrial, and any other features which may be introduced bearing on the relations of employer and employee.

Borden's Message.
 Ottawa, Sept. 15.—A message from Sir Robert Borden to the National Industrial Conference was presented by Hon. Gideon Robertson, Minister of Labor this forenoon.

At the outset the Prime Minister regretted that his illness prevented him from addressing the Conference and hoped that its labors would meet with such success as to justify most amply the summoning of the gathering. He pointed out that Canada, in common with other nations, had many complex problems arising out of the new conditions. Continuing, he said:

"Canada, in the extent and variety of her resources and in the energy, persistence and initiative of her people, is more thoroughly equipped for meeting these difficulties than most nations. The first essential is to keep constantly in our minds a thorough realization of the actual conditions and of the needs by which they are attended.

"The second and none the less vital essential is to bring to bear upon the problems of peace the national spirit which maintained our efforts throughout the war.

Borrowings.
 "For half a century or more Canada has been a great borrowing country. Enormous sums, chiefly borrowed in the London market, have been brought into this country, not only by the Federal, Provincial and Municipal authorities, but by industrial and commercial institutions. The interest on these borrowings constitutes a heavy charge upon our future which can only be met by constantly increasing production of all commodities for which we can find a profitable sale in the markets of the world.

Debt.
 "Five years ago the interest charges upon the Federal debt of Canada were less than $13,000,000. During the coming fiscal year the interest payable on our Federal debt will be at least $15,000,000. There will be an annual charge of from $30,000,000 to $40,000,000 to provide pensions for our gallant soldiers and for the dependents of those who have fallen. Owing to the largely increased cost of operation on this continent, our extensive system of national railways will confront us with deficits for an indefinite period, and if our railways are to be maintained and developed in any international proportion to the needs of the people, a heavy capital expenditure will be necessary in a very short time.

To Raise Sums.
 "One grave governmental problem is to find such means of raising the sums annually required for meeting these charges and for carrying on the ordinary administration of public affairs as will not drive away capital."

Now that we are established in our new premises we extend an invitation to all who suffer from defective vision to come and benefit by our splendid optical service.

war, and that the country must more largely feed herself, and export to shoulder the huge war indebtedness.  It was published in the same office as The Evening Standard and The Sketch. Its editorial office is 50 Parliament Street, where a Government propaganda department recently was installed. Its editor is Walls Meyers.

 Statement by Nitti
 Rome, Sept. 15.—Premier NITTI, in a statement in the Chamber of Deputies on Saturday regarding the Fiume raid, announced that the commander of the Sixth Army Corps had been ordered to intercept and disarm Gabriele d'Annunzio's troops, but that these troops had refused to obey the commander's order. The latest advances were to the effect that the situation arising from the coup was serious, and the Premier declared he was determined to act in a manner to avoid grave conflicts. He deplored what had happened because, for the first time, sedition, though for idealistic aims, had entered the Italian army.
 D'Annunzio, according to some reports, entered Fiume at the head of 8,000 to 10,000 men.

WIDNES ELECTION OMEN OF CHANGE

 able to the war has seriously demoralized the country villages, evidences of lack of maintenance being visible everywhere, says Sir George, and the local authorities are putting in an urgent appeal for homes.

Rural Life Change.
 The decay of the feudal influence, with taxation increasing, and the sale of estates recently is rapidly creating a changed condition in England. The mansions and farms are passing into new hands, and no one can foresee the ultimate result. In the visitor's opinion a strong Liberal or Labor party would steady the country, whose people are suffering from the lassitude and reaction following repression, and nerve-wrecking influences during the war.

Problem of Experts.
 As a member of the Agricultural Research Committee of Cambridge University he has watched with considerable interest the effort made to apply science to agricultural production. It has proved, he says, that it is not easy to sustain in Great Britain the vigorous food production of the and Reconstruction; Sir Eric Geddes Minister without portfolio; Dr. Christopher Addison, President of the Local Government Board; Viscount Minster, Secretary for the Colonies; Sir Worthington Evans, Minister of Pensions; Rt. Hon. George Nicolson, Minister without portfolio and others.

Volunteer Army.
 Rt. Hon. Winston Spencer Churchill, Minister of War, also is a contributor. His article deals with the army which, he says, in the future will not be much larger than the pre-war army.
 "We are not going to be a conscript nation," says Mr. Churchill. "We are going to make the Germans abandon conscription and are going to abandon it ourselves."

Coal Production.
 Sir Auckland Geddes regrets that "the coal production is out of gear because some miners are hunting for fairy gold—something for nothing." The result, Sir Auckland asserts, is the possibility of employment in all trades being reduced and the price of food raised. He adds that many other trades are acting in a manner similar to the miners.
 Dr. Addison foreshadows reform in connection with welfare of the home and mothers and children and a campaign against unhealthy homes and overcrowding.

Garden Cities.
 Sir Eric Geddes visualizes improved communications, enabling workers to dwell in garden cities and factories to be erected in country areas.
 Mr. Barnes declares that the great mass of labor opinion everywhere favors a League of Nations. The present form of the League does not satisfy, he says, "but it is a measure of possible common agreement at the moment, it can improve as time goes on, and meantime it is the hope of the world."

IS BREEDING NEW SUNFLOWER FOR POULTRY FOOD

Dr. Saunders Expects to Have Improved Plant Ready For Island in Short Time

A new sunflower, to provide a particularly valuable form of food for poultry, is being bred for Vancouver Island growing and will possibly be put out in this part of the country before very long by Dr. Charles E. Saunders, Dominion Cerealist, of Ottawa, who is in Victoria to-day.

Dr. Saunders is working on an early ripening sunflower as, he explains, the present varieties of sunflower are too late in ripening in this climate.

"What we are working on is a sunflower with fairly large seeds," he said to-day, "and one that will ripen early in the dry summer season you have here on the coast."

Besides being a valuable and new form of poultry food that can be grown with very little attention and cost, Dr. Saunders declared that the sunflower seed as food has great value in the fact that it will provide variety for the poultry. He said that the need for variety of food for animals is just as important as it is for human beings, although this fact has not been realized until now.

Another reason for his endeavors to develop this productive sunflower is that it will add to the gaiety of the countryside.

"Our whole work is aimed at providing something that will make the farm more attractive and profitable," he said in explanation of the activities of his department. "We realize more and more that the stability of Canada depends on the success and contentment of the farming population. The farmer on his land, which he has bought and paid for and from which he is making a profitable living, is the great factor in the community to counteract the unrest and instability that are characteristic just now."

Dr. Saunders is the inventor of the hull-less oat, which he introduced here last year and which he found to-day to be turning out to be a great success. The oat is very highly recommended for young chicks and pigs. The oat has only to be ground to have a suitable food for small animals that cannot stand the hulls. It is, however, a little too concentrated for some of the larger animals.

At present Dr. Saunders is experimenting with 1,000 varieties of grain in his laboratories at Ottawa in his efforts to find new grains that will be exactly suited to the conditions of various parts of Canada.

His investigations here, he says, have forced upon his attention the advantage of sowing in the autumn, as most spring grains here do better in this area, with its mild winter climate and summer drought, if sown before the winter sets in. This applies to all grains except beans.

During his journey through the other parts of British Columbia Dr. Saunders has been impressed with the number of returned soldiers who have taken to the land. The reasons he gives for this is the variety of crops that are possible here and the equable climate.

GATHERING DATA ON WATERWORKS SCHEME

Saanich Council Expects to Have By-law Ready by Next Election

The plan of making provision for the extension of the Saanich waterworks is gradually taking shape. Reference has already been made to the application of the Gordon Head and Cadboro Bay residents for water, and the circumstances under which the service is imperative if the district is to make progress, horticulturally, to say nothing of the domestic supply.

Everything points to an early submission of a by-law, probably at the next municipal election. Owing to the great advance in the price of pipe, materials, and labor, the sum of $100,000 is expected to be needed for adequate provision for that eastern section of the district, owing to the large area which is suggested. Opinion among engineers still inclines to the opinion that the reservoir, whenever erected, should be located at Christmas Hill rather than at Mt. Tolmie, owing to the more central situation. It was common knowledge that the original plan now partially carried out, contemplated the use of Christmas Hill for the necessary service.

The council finds itself called upon to provide other districts with water, and therefore a by-law for a substantial sum will be inevitable. The mains have been laid large enough for extensions, though the 1914-1915 councils were criticized for spending so much money ahead of revenue.

The whole waterworks question is receiving the careful attention of the Reeve and Councilors, as well as the officials at the present time.

PRACTICAL SERMON.

A minister, in the course of his sermon, illustrated his point by saying: "You know you plant roses in the sunshine, and heliotrope and geraniums, but if you want your fuchsias to grow you must keep them in a shady nook."

After the service a woman came up to him, her face beaming with pleasure.

"Oh, am so grateful for that sermon," she said, clasping his hand and shaking it warmly.

His heart glowed for a moment—only for a moment, though.

"Yes," she went on, fervently, "I never knew before what was the matter with my fuchsias."

A BEDTIME STORY

UNCLE WIGGLY AND THE TODDLE BUG.

Copyright, 1919, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate. (By Howard R. Garis.)

One day, when Uncle Wiggly was hopping along through the woods not far from his hollow stump bungalow, thinking whether it was time to twinkle his pink nose, he heard some voices in the bushes. "Go on now, jump! Jump right over his head!" cried one voice. "Yes, and if you can't jump over his head, jump on it!" spoke a second voice. "Oh, my goodness me, sakes alive and some lollypop caramels!" thought Uncle Wiggly, looking around for a place to hide. "That must be either the Skoosies or the Pipsawahs after me, and they want to jump on my head! Oh, dear!" The bunny-rabbit gentleman was just going to say into a hole which he saw in a log when, all at once, he heard a laugh and another voice said: "There now! Look at Uncle Wiggly! Show him how well you can jump, little Croko!" "Hum! That doesn't sound like the Pip or the Skoo," thought Uncle Wiggly, turning around. And as he did he saw a furry little croak, when he was eating some lily-pod soup one day, and since then we call him Croko. "But he can't jump," added Bully. "That's what we're trying to teach him now—to jump as we do. Only he's afraid." "What's he afraid of?" asked Uncle Wiggly. "Oh, I don't know—just because," answered Croko for himself. "I never jumped before." "And you never will unless you try," said Uncle Wiggly. "It's like a little bird learning to fly, or a little boy or girl learning to walk. They have to make a start some time. Come on now, I'll help you."

ENERGY EXPENDED IN HOUSEHOLD WORK

Expert Estimates That 350 Feet Covered in Making Tea For Five

The costings expert, the man who fixes the cost of every stage of work in a factory with the view of securing the utmost efficiency and cheapest output, has invaded the housewife's kitchen in Great Britain. As he says in a Ministry of Reconstruction pamphlet, "There is no other industry of the size to be considered house more odd jobs, more interruptions, and more incessant cares than any other occupation. None can be more worthy of the attention of the science of costing."

He has investigated the cost of energy expended in the kitchen in producing afternoon tea for five people. He has found that in running about the maid covers 250 feet, apart from stretching for the tea caddy, stooping for the tray, and reaching, half-bent, for the boiling kettle. Now that servants are scarce a mistress who has to perform the same operations has discovered that the energy spent produces too small a result to too great a cost of time for one who is mother and hostess as well. A little study in re-equipment reduced the running about in the same kitchen on the same operation to fifty feet.

Most housewives will scoff at the suggestion that making tea for two could occupy thirty-five minutes of a girl's time. But the costings expert has found that most women, and indeed most men, have no idea of the time taken in day-to-day operations, and for this reason he advocates that the costing system should be sternly applied to all domestic operations.

VICTORIA TEACHER GAVE FIRST AID

Miss Leila Carson, of Victoria Nursing Division, Treated Injured Man

Never was the truth of the old adage that "A stitch in time saves nine" illustrated more forcibly than in an accident which occurred in the upper country recently and in which a Victoria school teacher armed with a knowledge of first aid and home nursing was enabled to render invaluable assistance to a seriously injured man.

Runaway Team.

Miss Leila A. Carson, Lady Superintendent of the Victoria Nursing Division, and a member of the teaching staff of the Victoria West school, went up to the Cariboo to spend her vacation and in accordance with her usual custom when travelling, took her first-aid kit with her. One day while making a trip near Harper's Camp, in the Cariboo district, she happened upon the scene of a bad accident. A farmer was engaged in mowing a field when his team ran away and he was heavily thrown, suffering a dislocated elbow and broken arm in addition to severe bruises and contusions.

Complimented by Doctor.

Miss Carson went to his assistance with her first-aid kit and, thanks to the knowledge acquired in the course of nursing lectures she had under Dr. W. Hudson, of Victoria, was able to bandage the man and minister to his comfort. Word was immediately sent to Dr. Wright at Alexis Lake, 140 miles away, and after the long journey by automobile he reached the scene of the accident next day. The doctor warmly complimented Miss Carson upon her skillful treatment of the injuries and enlisted her aid in administering chloroform and bandaging the broken limb, after which he left her in charge of the case, and returned to his hospital at Alexis Lake. So impressed was the doctor with her capability and skill that he offered her a post of nurse to travel throughout the rural districts tending to just such cases of emergency. Dr. Wright has repeated his offer by letter since Miss Carson's return to the city.

Aided Victoria Man.

But for Miss Carson's presence at the time of the accident and her ready equipment of first aid and home nursing knowledge, there is every probability that the man would have lost his arm or at least would have been caused many hours of excruciating agony. Miss Carson's knowledge and handy little kit also proved of timely help in assisting a Victoria man named Sprinkling, who received injuries to his face while working at Harper's Camp.

Value of Training.

These experiences are such as might happen to anyone and prove how invaluable is a proper knowledge of first aid and home nursing such as is given under the St. John's Ambulance Society. A movement is afoot in the city to revive interest in this matter, and members of the Victoria Central Nursing Division are once more being called for in the hope that a band of ladies may begin to undergo training along lines similar to those pursued in the early days of the war.

WOMEN SCIENTISTS

English Woman Makes Over Six Thousand Experiments on Animals. Women's growing interest in scientific investigation is shown by the fact that of all experiments on animals last year in England and Scotland, of which the Home Office has issued its annual report, more than one-third (36 per cent) were carried out by women. Nearly all of these were practically painless, consisting of feeding experiments, hypodermic injections, the testing of vaccines and drugs and the like. Only 255 scientists made experiments, and of these forty-four were women. The second largest number was carried out by a woman, Miss K. Allen, who made 6,281 experiments; Miss R. F. Runge made 5,727; Mrs. E. Howarth, 2,551; and Miss Chick, of the Lister Institute, where valuable information has been obtained on the feeding of children, made 214. Coming to-night—Commissioner Sowton, on his farewell tour, will address a meeting at the Salvation Army Citadel this evening. He will leave later for Winnipeg. Retail Clerks' Union—The Retail Clerks' Union will hold a social gathering, and military band to-morrow, insuring the winter season.

EXPECT CLIMAX OF RESIGNATION TROUBLES TO-DAY

Aldermen to Consider Applications to Fill Two City Hall Offices

The climax of the City Hall negotiations that have followed the acceptance by the City Council of the Shade and McIlroy resignations will be reached to-night, it was said at the City Hall.

No notice has yet been given by Mayor Porter of his intention to have the Council reconsider their action. The Mayor and Alderman John Harvey had a long conference at the week-end in the Mayor's private office over the situation, after which the announced there was nothing to give out.

Alderman Harvey said to-day that his time for posting notice of motion for reconsideration had passed, although the Mayor still has that privilege. The hesitation in bringing up the matter is understood to be that the Mayor and Alderman Harvey are not in a solid combination in the Council, against them, from which they can hope for no wavering.

But everything was abuzz at the City Hall in anticipation of tonight's "show-down." The members of the Civic Employees' Protective Association have their sensational charges written out, substantiated and signed. They purpose to spring them on the Council at the last minute.

In the meantime some of the aldermen are busy trying to find out the details of the charges and have shown particular energy in endeavoring to pry information from City Hall newspaper reporters.

Aldermen Sargent, Patrick and Sangster had a long conference this morning in the City Clerk's office at which the question of the sensational charges came up. The aldermen said that the newspapers were to blame for getting the people of Victoria stirred up over the two officials' resignations. Alderman Johns, who has not taken an active part in the fight, said the whole thing was a fiasco.

To-day's developments lead some of the aldermen to believe that to-night will see the end of the agitation for the reconsideration of the Shade and McIlroy resignations. The general opinion seems to be that nothing will be done, as the resignations have been accepted.

To-night the aldermen will take the final steps to fill the offices of Assessor and also of Building Inspector and Plumbing Inspector. Applications for the offices closed at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Only twenty applications have been received. Most of the applicants prefer the office of Plumbing Inspector to that of Building Inspector.

The aldermen will take up these applications to-night, but it was explained to-day, it is unlikely that any of them will be appointed for at least a week. It is intended to have the applications to a small committee which will consider the testimonials and find out all they can about the persons concerned. The results they will report to the Council. As soon as this step is taken, the aldermen believe all discussion over the Shade and McIlroy resignations will be brought to an end.

PLAN BIG DANCE ON YATES STREET

Entertainment Specialist Arrives From Vancouver to Make Arrangements

King Kelly, entertainment specialist of Vancouver, arrived in Victoria to-day to make arrangements for amusements and eating stands for Victorians and visitors during the celebrations of Royal Week here.

This morning he was taken in a motor car to the scene of the proposed open-air dance on the pavement of Yates Street between Douglas and Blanshard Streets. Mr. Kelly says that if the city puts on the open-air dance with a large band providing the amusement, the street will be jammed with dancers.

Plans for the dance are now being considered, which include the decoration of both sides of the block and the illumination of the area with powerful electric lights. It is proposed to have special Kelly amusements along the sides of the street. The finance committee in charge of the celebration is meeting to-day to make final decisions as to the amount of money required from the city treasury for the celebration, as application has to be made to the Finance Committee of the City Council at once for the necessary funds. This committee consists of Herbert Kent, A. C. Flumerfelt and Alderman Harvey.

MAYOR ORDERS START ON DECORATING

Big Arch Being Resuscitated For Yates Street; Getting Banners Ready

Mayor Porter, fresh from his shooting trip to the Highlands, took up matters connected with the Royal Week celebrations as soon as he reached his office to-day.

One of the first things the Mayor started on was the re-erection of the festival arch that the city has stored away at the Garbally Road yards. He ordered work started to-day on erecting the arch on Yates Street near Blanshard, where the street is wide and traffic less heavy than down at Douglas, and where there will be less chance of vehicles bumping into it.

When the arch is in place the Mayor is to take personal supervision of the decorating in his efforts to make this part of the celebration something that will be long remembered.

The Mayor to-day also ordered the speeding up of the work on the other decorations. These include the decoration of each electric light standard down Yates and Government Streets with evergreens and colors, and the draping of red, white and blue banners on poles between each standard on both sides of the street. The Mayor has ordered the colored standards to be of extra stout cloth and fast dyes, so that they can be allowed to remain in place until the visit of the Duke and Duchess of Devonshire and the return to Victoria of General Sir Arthur Currie a short time afterwards.

The Rotary Club is busy asking merchants to decorate their premises.

MAYOR IS DISGUSTED WITH BIRD SHOOTING

Mayor Porter was back at his desk at the City Hall to-day feeling fine after his outing in the woods, but disgusted with the shooting. The Mayor went out to the Highlands on Friday to be ready for the opening of the season Saturday morning.

To-day he would not tell exactly how many birds he got or how he fared beyond saying that he had "very poor luck."

"I have never known the shooting to be so poor," he said. "It is the worst season that I can remember for years."

The Mayor ascribed the scarcity of birds to the dry season.

BODIES PROCEED ON DIFFERENT METHODS

Mr. Nelems Explains Dominion and Provincial Settlement Boards

"Considerable confusion exists throughout the Province with regard to the Provincial Land Settlement Board and the Soldiers' Settlement Board of the Dominion Government," said Mr. H. Nelems, chairman of the Land Settlement Board, to the Times representative upon his return from a trip of inspection to the new soldier settlement of the Provincial Government near Creston, in the Kootenay Valley.

The chairman explained that this confusion arose largely over the similarity in names, whereas operations of the two boards were entirely different. The Soldier Settlement Board requires all returned men desirous of taking up land to select a suitable farm. Appraisers are then sent out, and if the land is considered suitable and the price fair, the farm is purchased and sufficient money advanced for improvements. This policy had been carried out all over Canada, and in British Columbia it has resulted in the settlement of a large number of returned men.

Co-operative Settlement
Conditions, however, in British Columbia were said to be such that some of the veterans desired to take up land under a co-operative settlement plan. This was perhaps due largely to a desire to have close neighbors and to get away from settlement in isolated groups or singly.

"The operations of the Provincial Land Settlement Board have therefore been confined to the development and settlement of unimproved lands," stated the chairman. "Co-operative soldier settlement has been undertaken and the flourishing settlements at Courtenay and Creston are the result. There are over 300 returned men busy founding homes in these new settlements, while more than 200 women and children have taken up their residence."

Mr. Nelems said that the system of co-operative settlement was worked out most satisfactorily and that the men were highly pleased with the undertaking. There was no pooling of interests, it was said, and each veteran retains his individuality, all working together in the initial work of clearing. Later co-operative enterprises such as creameries, canneries and shipping warehouses will decrease the amount of work necessary to carry on agricultural enterprises and increase profits.

Another Settlement
The chairman said that still another soldier settlement is under consideration. Director Lieut. Col. R. D. Davies and Lieut. Col. Muerling are at present in the Cariboo District inspecting lands near Rose Lake, east of 150-Mile House. A decision will be reached in this regard shortly. These lands are said to be particularly suited to dairying and mixed farming.

Other smaller settlements at Kelowna and near Fernie are under way, and in all instances returned men are given first choice in the disposition of lands improved by the Land Settlement Board.

MARRIED IN SEATTLE

whose marriage to Miss Kathleen McClintock, of Victoria, has been announced. The ceremony took place in Seattle. The groom is well-known in Victoria and saw considerable service during the war. Leaving in 1914 with the 16th Battalion he served in France until June, 1915, when he was wounded at Festubert, being subsequently invalided to Canada. On complete recovery from his wounds he joined the Royal Flying Corps at Toronto in September, 1917, and served as an instructor on Curtiss machines in Toronto and Texas. In the latter part of 1915 he went to England, where he acted as instructor, making several trips to France as a ferry pilot. The bride was a popular member of the office staff of the Foundation Company and has a wide circle of friends in the city.

RECONNAISSANCE BY AIR IS SUCCESSFUL

Second Trip Taken by Government Official Near Vernon; Much New Data

Lieut. G. K. Trim and Major J. C. Macdonald carried out a second aerial reconnaissance over the waters of Harris Creek, near Vernon, on Friday last. While the results of the first flight were eminently successful from the point of view of valuable information obtained, the second trip added a very considerable amount of data to that collected a week previous.

The experiment was carried out in the first place on the authority and under the instructions of the Waters Rights Branch of the Department of Lands. Information relating to the physical peculiarities of the plateau hitherto was of so scant a nature, and means of access so thickly non-existent, that it was deemed worth while to attempt a reconnaissance from the air as a preliminary to surveys for the storage of irrigation water in connection with the plans of the Government.

Flow Lower.
Newest details procured are more directly connected with an accurate estimate of the nature of the country and flying conditions over the plateau. The flight was made in the early morning, and at a much lower elevation than on the first occasion. Owing to the downward currents of air that prevail in the valleys at that time of day some difficulty was encountered in crossing the edge of the plateau, and it was necessary to circle back and make a second attempt at a higher level. After the edge was passed the aeroplane, a Curtiss machine of the Vancouver branch of the Aerial League of Canada, climbed magnificently and a wonderful view of the lake-dotted plateau was secured for miles in every direction.

So impressed with the possibilities and value of this method of reconnaissance was Major Macdonald, who, by the way, is the Government's engineer in charge of irrigation in the Okanagan Valley, that the second flight was made by a private arrangement with Lieut. Trim. Both are confident that aerial reconnaissance will become of very great value in the discovery and development of the resources of the country.

INSPECTS DISTRICT WEATHER STATIONS

Mr. Napier-Denison, in Charge of Meteorological Observatory, Investigating Frosts

In the course of his provincial tour F. Napier Denison, director of the Dominion meteorological observatory here, was in Nelson on Thursday. Accompanied by W. Matthews, who is in charge of the Nelson station, he paid a visit to Willow Point in the afternoon, inspecting the work of the station there. Mr. Denison is in charge of all the meteorological stations in British Columbia, and he will inspect a large number of them on the present trip.

Speaking of his tour, Mr. Denison said: "In visiting the meteorological stations throughout the Province I am looking into the local situation in each case, in connection with our work of weather forecasting, which we are now doing from our observatory at the coast. My object is to improve the work we are doing, particularly in regard to forecasting the early and late frosts, a feature of practical assistance to agricultural sections."

The weather over long stretches of time runs in cycles, Mr. Denison states, and as the work elaborates, it may be possible to predict a year of light or heavy frosts.

From Nelson Mr. Denison will go to Creston, and then east. His itinerary will then proceed by way of Nakup and Arrow Lake points, Penton, Okanagan Lake points, Kamloops, Tranquille, Ashcroft, Barkerville and on to the coast by the Pacific Great Eastern.

The coal fields are omitted from the present trip and Mr. Denison intends to visit them in the near future in connection with an instrument which he has invented for detecting minute movements in the coal. The practical use of this will be to give warning of "bumps" in coal mines when old workings collapse. Mr. Denison evolved this instrument in the course of an elaborate research work, which the observatory is carrying on in its seismographical department.

NEXT MOVE IS UP TO THEM, SAYS MINISTER

Hon. T. D. Pattullo, Minister of Lands, returned to his office at the Parliament Buildings from the north this morning.

The Minister had understood that the Victoria City Council awaits his further advice before it will be in a position to discuss the housing question again.

Asked if he had anything to say this morning, Mr. Pattullo replied that as far as he knew his department had said all that was necessary. "Our legal department has pronounced the agreement O.K. and that seems to be the end of it as far as we are concerned," explained the Minister.

A Clean Tooth Is Easily KEPT Clean

Let me remove the harmful decay from your teeth and you will find it no trouble to keep them clean and wholesome with your tooth brush. The removal of decay from your teeth is absolutely essential if you would have good health—to say nothing of good looks.

My system of filling teeth is one that ensures results as permanent as any achieved elsewhere in Canada or America. Only the very finest qualities of materials are employed and exceptional care is used in every detail of placing this material in your teeth.

Come this week and let me examine your teeth. My estimate of the cost involved in making your teeth sound and attractive will come as an agreeable surprise.

BOXING FEATURES AT COMRADES' SMOKER

Al Davies showed that he has lost none of his ring cunning since he was a popular performer in Victoria when he appeared in an exhibition bout with Jack Larrigan at the Comrades' smoker Saturday night. Jack put up a good exhibition, and the pair provided as lively a three-round go as the fight fans could wish for. Although there was no decision at stake both did a lot of hard hitting. Charlie Smith and Stanton also gave an exhibition which brought forth a lot of applause, and the Best Twins mixed it merrily for a pair of youngsters.

The following artistes contributed to the evening's entertainment: Comrades Booth, tenor; Horace Potts, tenor; Day, Cockney comedian; the Comrades Pierrot Troupe in charge of Comrade Inglewood. Mr. Fletcher, M.A., gave some delightful selections on the piano. President Abraham was in charge of the proceedings. Before the smoker started the association pipe band, under the direction of Sergt. Major D. Cameron, played selections outside the building.

HELPS CUPID, BUT KNOWS LITTLE OF COWS

Cupid got the assistance he was looking for to-day from J. G. Thomson, the publicity expert of the Victoria and Island Development Association.

Mr. Thomson thought he was about to be asked whether Victoria was really an "absolutely dry" town or not, when a young man approached him in a quiet and confidential manner. But the young man, who was a visitor here, only wanted to know where he could get married. Waiting outside the door of the office Mr. Thomson saw the bride-to-be. He sent them down to Sheriff Richards' office.

He was not able to rejoice long about the way in which the Association can help mortals in distress, for five minutes later a woman telephoned him and wanted to know how much she should ask for the cow that she is selling. This proved too much for Mr. Thomson and the rest of the staff, as they not only knew nothing about the woman's particular cow, but very little about cows in general.

They admitted frankly that the information resources of the Association were for the first time unequal to the occasion.

The Travels of a "B.C." Dollar

And Why You Should
Buy FLOUR Milled
In British Columbia

Wages for Employees

Study This Story in Pictures

From the grocery store the dollar goes back to a B. C. Flour Mill, where it is paid out in wages and up-keep; employees make their homes in B. C.; shoes, dry goods, etc., are bought; taxes paid, schools maintained and improvements made. All the result of your buying such a B. C. product as—

Royal Standard Flour

And, in buying ROYAL STANDARD FLOUR you will not be using a "just as good" article. Standards set and tests made keep it just a little better than any other flour milled elsewhere. Your bread will have a bigger "oven-spring" and a finer texture as the result.

BIG OIL FIRE IS STILL BURNING

Damage in Long Island
City Amounts to Millions

New York, Sept. 15.—The spectacular oil fire which since Saturday afternoon has raged at the plant of the Stone & Fleming Company in Long Island City with injury to more than fifty persons and property damage running into the millions was gradually burning itself out to-day. Officials of the fire department, however, expect the blaze to continue for two or three days until the thousands of gallons of oil in the path of the flames have been consumed.

Twenty Acres
The twenty acres of fire-swept territory look like a scene in war-devastated France or Belgium. Tanks are crumpled up, huge steel girders lie in a twisted mass. Few walls are left standing, and burning oil continues to flow along the surface of Newton Creek.

The fire, starting early Saturday afternoon from the explosion of an oil tank in the Stone & Fleming works, a subsidiary of the Standard Oil Company on Newton Creek, spread over virtually the entire area of the plant, which covers thirty acres, and spread to the Columbia Distilling Company's buildings on the same side of the creek. The Standard Cooper Glue Works, and American Agricultural Implement plant across the water, and the Green Point bridge. At the same time flames carried across the stream by thousands of oil threatened the plant of the Standard Oil Company on the opposite bank.

Spread Rapidly
Following a series of explosions, the fire spread so rapidly that, in addition to a dozen fire-boats and three score fire companies, a signal was sounded summoning back all members of the department who had gone off duty.

Despite the constant danger from explosions which they faced, the fire fighters stuck to their posts, retreating only when the heat became intolerable.

In the front line the men worked in twenty-minute shifts, refusing to relinquish the fight in spite of severe burns.

In addition to several hundred thousand gallons of burning oil, which darkened the territory by day and illuminated it by night, hundreds of tons of coal at the plant caught fire.

Explosions
When naphtha and gasoline explosions occurred the firemen were forced to fling themselves face down in the mud and oily water. Turning their nozzles in the air, they laid down upon themselves a heavy water barrage to protect themselves from the spray.

Inhabitants of the district retreated as the flames swept on.

Two fire boats caught fire while they cruised up and down Newton Creek fighting the flames on both shores and seeking to save the Green Point bridge from destruction.

AMERICANS PAY
ANOTHER RANSOM
TO MEXICAN THUGS

El Paso, Tex., Sept. 15.—Six thousand dollars, gold, was paid Mexicans late Saturday for the release of Dr. J. W. Smith, an American, and a Mexican (thought to be Munson), believed to be a subject of Sweden, who were taken from a train near Santa Eulalia, Chihuahua, on Saturday morning, according to telegrams received here from Chihuahua City.

BOLSHEVIK FRONT
BROKEN IN THREE PLACES BY KOLCHAK

London, Sept. 15.—Admiral Kolchak, in pursuing his offensive against the Bolsheviki, has broken their front in three places, according to official information reaching here to-day. The progress of the all-Russian counter-movement, it is stated, threatens to outflank the Bolsheviki forces advancing from Tobolsk.

CHILD WAS BURNED IN TERMINAL CITY

Vancouver, Sept. 15.—Coroner Jeffs will hold a inquest this afternoon on the victim of the second fatal burning tragedy within the month, when the circumstances surrounding the death of Lillian Hayes, aged 3½ years, of 1854 Tenth Avenue West, will be inquired into.

So far as can be learned, the child was seen to run out of the door of her home on Sunday with her clothing in flames.

SEVERAL DROWNED IN TEXAS TOWN

San Antonio, Tex., Sept. 15.—Several persons are believed to have been drowned at Corpus Christi as the result of the hurricane there yesterday, it was learned at 2 p. m. when wire communication with that city was restored momentarily.

It was said that the water had reached the second story in some buildings in the business section and the down-town section was reported under martial law. The information was received over the telephone.

BOSTON AND ITS STRIKE OF POLICEMEN

Boston, Sept. 15.—A definite campaign to regain for the striking policemen here the places now officially declared to have been lost, because of desertion of duty, was inaugurated to-day. The action depended upon the result of a conference between union labor leaders and Police Commissioner Curtis.

The extent to which the American Federation of Labor would support the fight for reinstatement and recognition as a union is in doubt. Immediate danger of a general strike threatened by the Central Labor Union as its principal weapon in support of the patrolmen appears removed by the disposition of the labor leaders to move slowly.

BIG RECEPTION FOR CONQUERING LACROSSE TEAM ON RETURN

When the Victoria Foundation athletes reach Victoria their delighted comrades plan to give them a great reception. Bob McLernan has served to lead out when the boys will return from Winnipeg, so that arrangements can be proceeded with. A banquet given by the directors of the Foundation Organizations, and a dance are among the events to be arranged in their honor.

SAYS LIVING COST
CAN BE REDUCED BY MOTOR TRUCK

Automobile Cuts Expensive Marketing by Better System of Distribution

If 65 cents out of each dollar the ultimate consumer now pays for food goes to those who have handled this food stuff since the producer was paid his 35 cents for it, can this charge for handling be reduced in a great degree by requisitioning the motor truck on a larger scale in the present system of distribution?

Ship-by-truck advocates are emphatic in answering in the affirmative. The facts they muster to their support are set forth in a letter sent from the east by ship-by-truck advocates.

Greatest Problem.
"The system at present used in marketing food is glaringly expensive and therefore wrong," says Mr. Farr. "New and better conceived methods in the distribution system are necessary. The problem involved without doubt surpasses every other in the economic field at this time of general business reconstruction."

"The trend of the times is to give the producer a greater share of that which he produces. This applies to the farmer as well as to the mechanic. At the same time the chief effort is put forth to reduce the cost of living to the consumer. Between producer and consumer lies the distributor. A study of the facts and statistics show that he and those who assist him are taking an undue share of the money thrown into the market, at the expense of producer and consumer.

"John Dillan, head of the bureau of foods and markets of New York City, declares that the ultimate consumer gives two-thirds of his dollar to the system of distribution. That is, it costs not less than 65 cents to handle 35 cents worth of foodstuff.

Wide Difference in Prices.
"It has been mentioned in several reports that the California Fruit Growers' Association has received on an average during the past four years $1.60 a crate for oranges. During this same period the average paid by the consumer has been $4.80 a crate."

"In most parts of the United States at the present time we who drink milk must pay about fourteen cents a quart for it. The farmer as a rule receives from five to six cents a quart. There have been many instances of farmers selling tomatoes at sixty cents a bushel, while the storekeeper is selling them to you and me for $3. The same general in-crease of values between producer and consumer seems to apply in most items that go to make up our daily meals.

"It was not very long ago that the mayor of Indianapolis bought potatoes from a grower in a town about 100 miles from his city for fifty cents and sold them to the people of Indianapolis at seventy-five cents. At the same time potatoes were selling through regular channels for $2. The mayor handled the sale at a cost of twenty-five cents a bushel. The farmer had received forty. In other words, the jobber, the commission house and the retailer were receiving $1.60 on each bushel of potatoes for transportation and their share of the profit.

Solution of Problem.
"It looks to the Firestone ship by truck bureau as if the solution of this very vital problem lies in the motor truck and the development of good roads. If the farmer could put his bushel of tomatoes or potatoes or other products of his labor and his fields on a motor truck, which would drive up to his door every morning, and this motor truck were to deliver direct to the consumer or a group of consumers, the farmer would not be able, without serious danger to his conscience, to charge us one or two dollars for hauling that bushel of food to our doors. Doesn't this sound reasonable?"

"The railroads handle their shipments in just about the same manner, so far as results are concerned, as the present day marketing system handles our food. They have a lot of short and expensive branch lines which it costs them considerable money to operate, since there is not enough business to keep them busy continuously and since there is a necessity of transferring the shipments from one line to another and from one car to another.

"If the motor trucks operating on the route I have already mentioned were to haul shipments over good roads to the main—and paying—lines of the railroads, the branch line business could be done away with. The loss it represents would go toward decreasing freight rates on the main line. The ultimate consumer should benefit.

"Ship by truck as advocated by the Firestone ship by truck bureau would remedy a lot of things that are causing a great deal of worry and argument to-day."

First, assume that you must look out for yourself and the other fellow, too. Don't rely wholly on the other fellow doing the right thing, and you'll be on your guard if he does the wrong thing and ready for the emergency.

Before throwing tire away be certain that it is not worth a retreat.

As good as McClary's

That is the measure of a stove or furnace in Canada. That is the best that is ever said of the unknown article—It is as good as McClary's. Then, what safer course could you follow than to buy the thing you know—McClary's.

The McClary's reputation for quality was not earned in a day. The McClary's institution, the largest of its kind in the British Empire, has been over seventy years in the making.

McClary's stands high among the great names in Canadian industry because it was never attached to an inferior article.

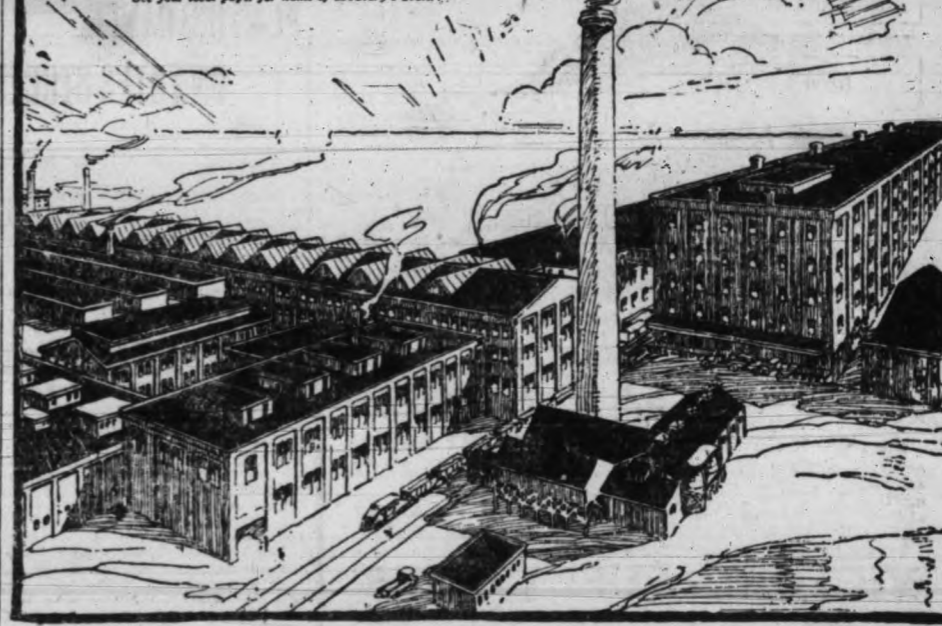

Whatever fuel you may wish to use, whatever type of stove, range or heater you may desire, you will find one bearing the McClary's name-plate. Isn't it worth your while to seek it? Isn't it worth your while to consult McClary's on the subject?

FLOUR, sugar, butter, eggs, fuel, milk, meat, etc., all have greatly increased in price during the last 24 months. Just as with the baker, wages and other "overhead" expenses have risen considerably. Yet, in face of such additional cost of production, you are still buying a loaf of bread at the same price you did 24 months ago.

Isn't this sufficient evidence to show that you can't afford to bake—that it's cheaper to buy baker's bread. Wouldn't this be a good time to try SHELLY'S 4-X BREAD!

Practice To-Morrow Night—A practice of the National stickhandlers will be held to-morrow night at Royal Athletic Park, to get into shape for Saturday's tilt with Vancouver. Bob McInnes is optimistic that his boys will even up the series on the home ground. Vancouver had twenty-one players and used the nine substitutes to keep their men fresh. Victoria has only one substitute and Vancouver will not be allowed to change their men according to the Victoria league rules.

Case Against City—The case of Nash vs. Corporation of the City of Victoria will be tried in the Supreme Court at 11 o'clock Thursday morning. The action is brought by Dr. Nash for damages for injuries to his automobile when a collision took place a few weeks ago with some of the Fire Department's apparatus at the corner of Moss Street and Fairfield Road.

Anxious to Obtain Data—The Aerial League of Canada is having another busy rush from aircraft manufacturers requiring information about flying in the West. The latest comes from the British & Colonial Aircraft Construction Company, who intend to open up aircraft stations around the world. The League forward in each case a detailed report on the climate conditions, raw material available and possibilities for air pilots, riggers and mechanics available with a list of suitable sites for aerodromes. Many very fine catalogues have been received, and all persons interested in aircraft are invited to inspect them at the reading room of the League, 294 Union Bank Building.

New Taxicab Rates—New taxicab and baggage rates, permitting the average small increase in the proposed amendments to the Hired Vehicles By-law which will come before the City Council to-night. At present baggage is delivered and charged for according to a zone system, while passenger fares are regulated roughly according to distance. The taxicab and baggage companies are limited in their charges to a maximum rate. The proposed amendments will also make changes in the arrangements of the taxicab waiting stands in the city and at the wharves. It also includes small changes to modernize provisions of the by-law which has come down from the time of horse-drawn vehicles.

Fairfield Branch, Canadian Red Cross—The members of the Fairfield Branch are invited to attend a meeting on Wednesday at 8 p.m. at the Madras residence, Royal Bank Building, corner Cook and Fort.

COULDN'T STOP THE FIGHT.
The two workmen were arguing furiously about the result of a local cricket match. Before long both became very excited, and one challenged the other to a fight with sticks. The challenge was accepted, and they agreed that the one who had had enough first should call out "Suffice it."
After half an hour's tussle one gave the other a resounding whack on the head, at which the injured one immediately gasped "Suffice it!"
"Damn it," replied the bruised and battered winner exhaustedly, "that's the word I've been trying to think of for the last twenty minutes!"

APPEAL FOR BOOKS FOR CRAIGDARROCH
Gifts of Books and Plants Welcomed at New S. C. R. Home
Craigdarroch, the new home of the Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment, is to be formally opened by the Prince of Wales during his stay in this city. The general public will have an opportunity to inspect the home. Preparations for the accommodation of patients are now practically finished, and it is expected that the patients will enter September 18. Among the many arrangements made for the entertainment and comfort of the men is a handsome library, whose shelves, however, are void of books. In an endeavor to remedy this deficiency the Red Cross is appealing for gifts of books of fiction and standard literature. As many of the men who will be accommodated at the home are disabled they are thrown largely upon their own resources for books. It is believed that one of the favorite forms of recreation. While every convenience and comfort has been furnished by the military authorities, the institution lacks those little extra touches which convert any house into a home. The presence of growing plants imparts an inviting atmosphere to a room and the patriotic work on behalf of the returned soldier is rendered more enjoyable if plants and books will be welcomed. Donations may be left at Craigdarroch at any time and will be gratefully received by the matron.

It was found that he was not seriously hurt, receiving only some slight injuries to his head and a few bruises, so he was taken to his home.

OFFICER DROWNED AT GORGE SUNDAY
Gerald Dunn Miller Succumbs as Result of Accident in Canoe
Gerald Dunn Miller, a young returned officer, after escaping all injury during a gallant record of service in France is dead as the result of the overturning of a canoe at the Gorge, Sunday. Miller who was twenty-four years of age, was the son and only child of Joseph E. Miller, Inspector of Inland Revenue and Mrs. Miller, Mount Edwards Apartments.

The victim of the accident was in a canoe in company with Mrs. S. O'Meara, another returned officer. O'Meara is a son of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. O'Meara, of Victoria, but is on a visit from Montreal while attending the University of Toronto. A Sunday Excursion.
The accident happened about 5.20 Sunday afternoon, the upset probably being caused by Miller suddenly leaning too heavily on one side of the canoe. The canoe was held in the chute opposite the B. C. Electric Park. The two occupants became widely separated when the canoe capsized and O'Meara, who was in the canoe calling to Miller to do the same thing Miller was closer to the craft than his companion who thought he would be able to reach it. O'Meara, however, was held in the chute and the canoe which was rapidly filling, and turned it over so that it would not sink. He found his companion was not swimming towards the canoe, as he expected so called to him to save his energy and attempted to push the canoe in his direction so that they could both cling to it, believing that to be the best method of helping him.

The men were fully dressed, except for their coats. Both were wearing boots. O'Meara was unaware of the fact that his friend was a very indifferent swimmer. The weight of his clothes and boots Miller was able to make no progress towards the boat. What O'Meara thought was an attempt to swim proved only to be his desperate struggle to keep his head above the water.

Calls For Help.
Cries for help soon brought about twenty boats to the spot, boats and canoes being particularly numerous on the water Sunday as a result of the day being one of the hottest of the year. One man without waiting to divest himself of clothing, dived into the water, but was unable to effect a rescue.
The excitement attracted members of the Victoria Swimming Club whose assistance in the rescue was rendered. The men who were in the boat at the time of the accident, two of the members put out in a canoe to render assistance. Alister and Angus McKinnon dived near the spot where the young officer sank, and eventually discovered the body. They swam to the surface and held the body, and first aid was immediately rendered. Colin McFadyen and Jack McNeill, two members of the club experienced in resuscitation methods, did all in their power until the arrival of the paramotor in charge of Chief Stewart. Dr. Raynor also soon arrived on the scene, but it is believed the victim of the sad accident was beyond assistance when recovered from the water.

Through All Engagements.
The greatest sympathy will go out to the parents in the loss of their only son. Since he left Victoria in October, 1915 with the Fifth Regiment Artillery he served in all the big engagements in France up to 1918. At that time he was recommended for a commission. He came back to Canada, and went back in charge of a draft of men in March, 1918, and did not leave England until after the armistice was signed. He was at the Canadian School of Gunnery with his first command, the 1st Battalion of the artillery.

Guy; banquet committee, Mrs. Croft; recreation, Miss Edna Spang; book exhibits, Miss Beale and Miss Chapman. In County Court—In the case of Rev. Lee Duck, which was appealed to the County Court after Magistrate Jay had imposed a fine on the Chinaman for having liquor in other than a dwelling house, Judge Lampson reserved judgment this morning after hearing argument by R. C. Lowe, counsel for accused, and C. L. Harrison for the prosecution. Mr. Lowe claimed that Lee Duck was merely conveying the liquor from one place to another.

TO OPEN FAIR
Premier Oliver Will Perform Ceremony at Coquitlam on Wednesday Next.
Premier Oliver will go to the Mainland on to-morrow night's boat to perform the opening ceremony at the Coquitlam Agricultural Fair, which is scheduled to take place on the following day.
Many requests have reached the Premier during the last few days to conduct similar exercises at other points in the Province. Absence from the capital of a number of his Cabinet colleagues at the moment, however, prevents him from attending those further afield, as he finds that departmental business demands his almost continuous presence at the Parliament Buildings.

Adapted From the Famous Novel "Toby" by Credo Harris

—A story of Kentucky, interwoven with all the picturesque charm, romance and red-blooded action for which that part of the country is so justly famed.

—A white man sold to the highest bidder for one dollar.
—A typical Kerrigan story which pulsates with romantic moments and climatic situations.

MARY PICKFORD AS CHILD OF SLUMS

Screen Idol at Dominion in Remarkable Picture

It takes a far more versatile person to be happy in a tenement district than it does on Riverside Drive. Amy Burke, played by Mary Pickford, discovers this in "The Hoodlum," her second picture produced in her own studios, released by First National Exhibitors' Circuit and which will be seen beginning to-day at the Dominion theatre.

As Amy Burke, Miss Pickford is the granddaughter of a financial power, a victim of all the ills of rich children and the recipient of all luxuries within the power of purchase. Where the plot begins. But all of Amy's relatives are not as successful in matters of finance as her grandfather. Her father, for instance, is a sociological writer and lecturer, of whom she has not heard for years. Her life of luxury is suddenly ended when her father returns penniless, and she decides to forsake her grandfather and lives with her father in the East Side districts where she "shoots craps" with the street ruffians, dances to the music of the hurdy-gurdies and engages in numerous pranks with the most reckless of her associates.

NOTE OF MYSTERY IN COLUMBIA FILM

"One Dollar Bid" Is Story of Derelict's Regeneration

J. Warren Kerrigan's Paralta Play, "One Dollar Bid," which comes to the Columbia for three days commencing to-day, has a dominant note of mystery throughout the entire unfolding of the story, not a morbid mystery of plot, but a continual question about the leading character which lasts unanswered until the end—who is "Toby"? From whence does he come? And why is he there?

Who is this man of the story who lives in a deserted negro cabin in the little town of Panther, Kentucky, who has no friends save the children and whose sole occupation is drinking the corn whiskey of the hills? Apparently a typical vagrant, a human derelict, yet we know him as the hero of the story, and certain of his speeches and actions establish him as a gentleman. Then who is he? How and from where did he come to the negro hovel in Panther, and why? The mystery of "Toby's" life and character is a background giving strong, dramatic suspense to the whole fabric of the story, and these three questions are even in the consciousness while the stirring external plot—moonshiners, smallpox, suspected murder, two court trials, and all manner of exciting events happen in the foreground. This mystery is behind the charming atmosphere of the life of Kentucky, in that picturesque section which marks the intermingling of the southern aristocrat with the mountaineer and the rugged feet of the Cumberlands with the valley blue grass.

MY HONOLULU GIRL AT ROYAL VICTORIA

Hawaiian Musical Extravaganza Will Be Here For Two Nights

Youth and beauty are a big feature with Norman Friedenwald's sparkling Hawaiian musical extravaganza which comes to the Royal Victoria theatre to-day and Tuesday. "My Honolulu Girl" is described as a delightful story told in melodious song, his hits and comedy situations. "My Honolulu Girl" boasts of the finest singing and dancing chorus, principals taken from the best talent in musical circles, clean-cut comedians and a troupe of genuine Hawaiian singers and dancers that appear throughout the two big acts in native songs, dances and customs of beautiful Honolulu. Melodramatic scenic magnificence showing the Volcano Kilauea in eruption and vividly showing the natives throwing themselves into the molten lava as a sacrifice to appease the Goddess of Pele. Beautiful Wakiki Beach, the famous bathing place, and an immense ocean liner "under way," loaded with merry tourists, are features that have provided a pendulum that regulated the whims and fancies of a discriminating public. "My Honolulu Girl" comes fresh from its triumphant Eastern engagements, with the same cast and gorgeous production that guaranteed its success from the very first.

The big cast is headed by Eddie-Lew Kraker, a clean-cut comedian who sings and dances himself into immediate favor, Madeline LaFere, a sprightly, bewitching comedienne, Kathryn Purten, a wonderfully voiced ingenue, Sam Burton, the little fat fellow with a big voice, Miss Billie Emerson, the stately and fascinating prima donna, and the always delightful Hawaiians.

FINE LINE OF FUN AT THE PANTAGES

Clever Japs, Five Romany Gypsy Singers, Strange Animal Tricks Offered

There's a good line of fun at the Pantages this week. It is not often that such a wide line of variety can be offered with so much punch to each number as is to be found at the Government Street house of vaudeville this week.

Aside from a very good bill of variety acts, the Pantages screen is offering the first installment of a real, dyed-in-the-wool detective serial which keeps all the audience guessing. This is the "dramatization" of the screen of Craig Kennedy in the famous "The Carter Case," with Herbert Rawlinson in the leading role. Almost everyone is familiar with the scientist-detective, Craig Kennedy, of the stories of Arthur B. Reeves, and just as many, or possibly more, know how well Herbert Rawlinson presents his parts. And that is the combination that makes the first installment of the new serial picture for the Pantages screen.

Japan has given many stellar acts to the variety but seldom has such an unusual and surprising turn been seen on this side of the Pacific than the one presented by the Ueno Japs in the headline position of the new bill. They run very nearly the entire gamut of Oriental feats and the offering carries a most extravagantly beautiful Oriental setting. The act introduces Japan's foremost exponents of equilibristic specialties.

Nothing more enjoyable in the musical line could be desired than the offering of the Six Venetian Gypsies who occupy the next to headline position on the bill. All the members of the singing troupe were originally wanderers of the Mediterranean borderland and the true type of Italian gypsy. They are highly talented in the art of music and singing. They give operatic airs and ballads that go to the heart and their setting has a novel effect, having as it does much of the atmosphere of Venice.

TWO NIGHTS OF PICTURES AT ROYAL DURING MID-WEEK

"Choosing A Wife," the First National attraction which will be shown at the Royal Victoria theatre, for two days only, Wednesday and Thursday, answers the question of whether a young and beautiful girl should attract a man of middle age more than a woman only a little younger than herself.

In this picture, which is filled with remarkably dramatic situations, a woman well past the first bloom of youth, through a strange series of circumstances is led to believe that a distinguished scientist, who has left to explore a remote part of the world has proposed to her.

In reality this man desires to marry her niece, a girl of twenty. The misunderstanding continues during the scientist's absence and when he returns he is stunned to find that for many months the woman of forty has been preparing to marry him, as he had written to her she should explore a remote part of the world has proposed to her.

Though Otis Skinner has thus far side-tracked "the movies," it was known he was tempted for a production of "Kismet," which still promises to make a gorgeous production in films and in which Mr. Skinner says he may appear as his first and last contribution to an art that prevents him from being heard. Meanwhile his celebrated starring vehicle, "The Honor of the Family," has been accepted for a screen drama and will soon be produced with Dustin Farnum in the role of the rake from Paris. Farnum's leading woman will be Winnifred Kingston, and thus Balzac reaches screen production at last. For the stage play is in turn an adaptation of a novel from the French master's "Human Comedy."

The Vitagraph Company has definitely selected the month of November to release its mammoth production, "The Vengeance of Durand," by Rex Beach. Alice Joyce is the star.

TO PRODUCE MUSICAL COMEDY "O JUPITER"

Original Production by R. A. Hincks at Princess Theatre Friday

"Oh Jupiter" is the title of the original musical comedy which is to be produced at the Princess Theatre on Friday next, September 19. The comedy has been especially written by Reginald M. Hincks, and contains a number of tuneful catchy songs, many of them "up-to-the-minute" local and topical skits, the cast includes such well-known artists as Miss Eva Hart, Mrs. F. Beilby, James Hunter, Lieut. R. E. Webb, R. N. Hincks, A. M. D. Fairbairn, Stewart G. Clark and a big chorus of pretty girls.

With the one desire to give the play-going public of Victoria, and the patrons of the Princess Theatre in particular, the class of entertainment they like so much, Mr. Hincks has hit upon a plot which provides a screamingly funny medium for satirizing the current topics of the day. Those of the audience who have witnessed other musical plays under Mr. Hincks' management have been taken to Baghdad, China, Cannibal Isles, the Willows, Fairyland and many other strange places, they will now be asked to spend an evening's fun and frolic in Olympus, the ancient Home of the Gods.

Jupiter, Juno, Venus, Vulcan, Bacchus, Mercury and other mythical deities having got tired of their old-fashioned revels are determined to try something completely new. For this purpose they dispatch Mercury to Earth to note the way that mortals live, and on his return, they model Olympus upon mortal lines.

Needless to say it is the town of Victoria that has had the honor of entertaining Mercury, and on all the Gods and Goddesses being turned into inhabitants of that delightful city, it can well be imagined what complications arise and what scope there is for local "hits." Vulcan turned into a labor leader, Venus into a dress-maker and Bacchus forced to drink "two per cent" are some of the incidents which naturally happen.

The box office at the theatre opened to-day, and early application should be made for seats.

"SINS OF AMBITION" AT VARIETY THEATRE

New Elaborate Production Teaches Lesson of Sacrifice

In "The Sins of Ambition," the featured attraction for the Variety this week, Ivan Abramson, the producer of many outstanding photographic successes, has added another great achievement to his list of moral propaganda pictures. It is a seven reel feature, and has only recently been released from the studios by the Ivan Productions Corporation.

"The Sins of Ambition" strikes a decisive blow at the methods employed by some women to achieve their ambition, sacrificing even their honor and happiness at times to attain their desire. With some women the desire for the luxury of beautiful clothes, jewels and motors supercedes the desire to be loved and to lavish love in return. Some women prefer the mute affection of lapdogs, on which they lavish every attention and care, to the happiness derived from small clinging arms and childish caresses. In "The Sins of Ambition" the chief ambition of

WILL EXTEND COAST REFINERY SHORTLY

Imperial Oil Company Officials Were in City on Saturday

Officials of the Imperial Oil Company, headed by G. W. Mayer, of Toronto, vice-president of the company, were in the city on Saturday, in the course of an inspection of the western operations of the company.

Those who came to Victoria included T. C. McCobb, secretary-treasurer, and James Mayer, son of the president, who has recently returned from service at the front.

The company proposes to extend its refinery at Ioco, near Vancouver, and if possible, to secure additional oil boats. An originally constructed it was planned that the refinery would be adequate to take care of the requirements of Alberta and British Columbia.

Speaking of the operations of his company for the development of the sources of crude oil in the Dominion, particularly in the west, Mr. Mayer said that boring for oil was always a gamble, more or less. The company had many experts out in Alberta and some of the projects recommended for development were resulting in the locating of oil, but nothing in the nature of a big strike had yet been made.

"We also have men at work in the eastern part of this province," said Mr. Mayer, "and they will continue prospecting as long as there is any reasonable prospect of obtaining oil. We are going on the assumption that there must be oil along the Pacific coast as shown by the California oil fields and sincerely hope to tap the reservoir."

MUSICAL COMEDY FOR WEEK END BILL

Orpheum Programme Includes Strong Musical Features

"Not Yet Marie" a brilliant little musical comedy, as produced by C. B. Maddock is a legitimate show reduced to forty minutes. It contains a company of fifteen people and heads the bill of Orpheum vaudeville at the Royal Victoria theatre, Friday and Saturday with a Saturday matinee.

"Not Yet Marie" is from the prolific and facile pen of Frank Stammers, who has to his credit many successes, while the lyrics and music are by Lieut. Ballard McDonald and Nat Osborne, respectively. The scenery and costumes are of the most elaborate nature and have been the cause of general praise. The fun is fast and the songs of the catchy, whistly variety and interwoven in a story with a strong human appeal.

If things go by opposites, Billy Fern's little comedy, "A Quiet Evening" is well named, in this original pantomime almost everything prevails except quiet and there is absolute quiet, the entire action being in pantomime, the only noise being the laughter it evokes from the audience.

The art of impersonating the opposite sex is a particularly difficult one, so difficult that its exponents may be numbered on the fingers of one hand. Martelle is exceedingly clever and gives a very entertaining act. He is capable and decidedly an artist in his own lines.

Many things happen in the subway and very probably not one, but many flirtations occur there, but as far as Jack Sidney and Isabel Townley are concerned, the only flirtation is the flirtation and that is the one they are offering in vaudeville. Both are excellent dancers and they offer the only real reason for a subway flirtation.

That music will be one of the appealing features of this week's bill is evidenced in a survey of the programme. Aside from the big feature act noted above there is another musical act by the Farrell Taylor company, called the "African Duke." In this act Edith Ewan a celebrated lady trombonist and Carleton Diamond, vaudeville's youngest harpist will be heard.

Jack Morrissey and company present an Australian roping and whip-cracking act. Morrissey is a wonder with rope and whip and offers some startling stunts in eleven minutes of unique entertainment.

Donald E. Roberts, "The Strolling Tenor," as he is billed is like unto the wandering minstrel. He is a fellow of infinite melody. Mr. Robert's voice is of the kind common to the grand opera or concert stage. It is of wide range and bell-like clearness.

The picture section of the Orpheum bill together with that of the musical numbers by the orchestra will be of the same high standard.

WHY YOUNG MEN DO NOT ATTEND CHURCH

Rev. J. G. Inkster Addresses Himself to Pertinent Issue

Young men would like to meet some real Christians, but they frankly think there are so many hypocrites in the church they don't go. "If Christians stop criticizing the church and begin criticizing themselves there would be more church members," drawing larger numbers of young men." These were some of the striking sentences which Mr. Inkster quoted from a magazine article in his sermon last night in the First Presbyterian Church.

His text was "Jesus, beholding the young man, loved him." Then asked the preacher, why don't young men go to the church? "Here's the answer," he said. "Three reasons were given: 1. Because young men are not interested in organized religion—deformations and defects. Of 20,000 young men who had been interviewed by military authorities, ninety-eight per cent. said they were affiliated with some church; but the connection was not a real one. They went to church occasionally for family or social reasons—they went to seek a girl, not to seek God, when they found the girl most of them left the church and took the girl with them. Remark on this, Mr. Inkster said: "Young men showed their wisdom in seeking a wife in the church. They are more likely to find a good wife there than in a dance hall, in a picture show or at a Sunday picnic; but he asked: Is it a fair and honorable thing, young man, to first rob the church of a member and then get a girl for his wife?"

2. Young men do not go to church because the Christians are all the time criticizing the church instead of themselves. "Thousands of young men," he said, "think church members as a rule are a pack of hypocrites, and they don't go to church because they don't want to meet hypocrites. Young men are not interested in their religion and would love to meet real Christians." Mr. Inkster asked the church people honestly to face their charge.

3. Young men don't go to church because the preachers are poor preachers—too abstract or abstract—the talk over people's heads. The ancient apostles and modern saints are and are plain simple people.

Remarking on this fact, Mr. Inkster said he believed—speaking for himself as well as some others, he knew there was good reason behind the statement. Instead of taking the Bible at its face value multitudes of men were, by their interpretation, making its simple words hard to understand. Instead of telling the good news fully and fearlessly they were clouding it with abstract metaphysical sophistries.

The preacher closed with an appeal to young men. Granting, he said, that all three reasons for not going to church were valid—that churches and Christians and preachers were far from being what they should be, was it fair to neglect Christ who loved them.

Home Complexion Peeler Works Wonders

To keep the face, neck, arms and hands truly beautiful and youthful in appearance, the treatment which seems most sensible is one which actually removes the skin itself. It begins to age, fade, coarsen or discolor. The only known treatment which will do this, aside from a painful, expensive surgical operation, is the application of ordinary mercurized wax, which is as harmless as it is effective.

The wax is put on at night, just as you apply cold cream, and washed off in the morning. It absorbs the dead and half-dead surface skin in almost invisible flaky particles, a little each day, no discomfort being experienced with the disappearance of the old cuticle, the newer, healthier skin underneath gradually appears, richly beautiful with the flush of youth. This mercurized wax, which you can get at any drug store in original packages, is indeed a veritable wonder-worker.

VANCOUVER ISLAND NEWS

The Flower Carnival at Nanaimo last week brought to a successful close a combined effort made by the Women's Hospital Auxiliary, the Red Cross Society, the Daughters of the Empire and other local organizations, on behalf of the new hospital scheme.

The large sum of about $1,000 was raised during the two days of the carnival, as the result of much hard work by the ladies in charge as well as the generous support of the public.

Praises Rescue Work.

Dr. Montgomery has many complimentary things to say of the work of the St. John Ambulance at Extension mines. After the fall of the roof which crushed Alex. Kuzal, Allan McDonald and Alex. Brown administered first aid, and the doctor says he never saw better work than that done by the two men named. The Extension mines were having capable men to administer first aid has equipment that is not excelled at any mine in the Province.

Athletic Association.

A well-attended meeting of the Ladysmith Amateur Athletic Association was held recently in the Athletic Hall, when the following officers were elected for the ensuing term: Honorary president, Thomas Graham; honorary vice-president, Thomas A. Spruon; president, H. Martin; vice-president, James Strang; secretary, A. Morrison; treasurer, R. T. Morgan.

Progress at Merville.

Development at Merville continues with great rapidity. The new temporary school is up and painted. The three donkey engines and their crows are now at work clearing land and good progress is being made. Fire preparations are being made for the visit of the Prince of Wales. Messrs. Ker, Hunter and Thomas are a committee that has been formed to make arrangements in the camp itself. They have sent a request to the Minister of Agriculture and Mr. Nelems, chairman of the Land Settlement Board, to be present.

To Fix Up Observatory Road.

To make it easier for persons to find their way in and out of the Dominion Meteorological Observatory at Gonzales Hill, the Streets Committee of the City Council Friday decided to spend $50 on the road. The aldermen were informed that the road needs repairing before the winter rains start as torrents of water from the hill then rush down the roadway, and prevent visitors from reaching the observatory. The roadway will be raised in parts so that the water torrents will be shed. The aldermen also discussed placing a light on Highland Road which also leads up to the observatory, on the company that visitors are unable to find their way through the thick woods there.

BOOK REVIEWS

"Bolshevism"—that much-abused and often misunderstood word—is the title of an interesting book written by H. V. Keeling, a British mechanic who has been in Russia for the past five years. The author lays no claim to literary merit for his maiden effort and in the foreword explains his motive for writing the narrative—his desire to show his gratitude to the Russian peasants and working-men who befriended him, by making an attempt to place the true facts regarding conditions in Russia before "those whom I know are being deceived by the irresponsible talk of those who have never personally experienced the actual results of Bolshevism in action."

Mr. Keeling makes no attempt to analyze the political situation, other than so much as is obvious to the man in the street, and writes solely from the point of view of the working-man attempting to make a living under the chaos of terror wrought by that Hydra-headed monster, Bolshevism. The economic failure of the movement is aptly summed up in the following words: "The core of the trouble is that there are few people who know how to run factories and these few have been well-demobilized. Brute force and incompetent management do not seem the best allies for producing good results in a factory. There may be poetic justice in placing the poster of a factory in supreme control, but somehow even poetic justice will fail to produce badly-needed goods."

The book is published by Hodder & Stoughton, Toronto.

"The Hermit of Far End," by Margaret Pedler, is a brightly-written and entertaining novel. Although there is but little originality in the plot, which deals with the somewhat hackneyed theme of a man, cashiered from the Army for an act of cowardice performed by another man whose honor he desired to shield for the sake of the inevitable woman in the case, the interest is well sustained and the denouement rather cleverly arranged. While not a war-book the reader is introduced to the horrors of air-raids, a bomb from a German raider being largely instrumental in vindicating the honor of the "hermit" in order and Stoughton, Toronto, are the publishers.

"The Valley of Headstrong Men," by J. S. Fletcher, is the story of a self-made man whose ambition to become the proprietor of an estate with a history dating from feudal times brings him into a vendetta-like war with the peasantry of the locality. The rugged character of the millionaire is convincingly drawn, while a sufficient element of local superstition is imparted into the story to give color to the plot. The book is published by Hodder and Stoughton, Toronto.

INFLUENZA MAY RETURN IN WINTER

Dr. Price Issues Warning to Victorians; Care Necessary

An outbreak of a serious influenza epidemic was predicted Saturday for the coming fall and winter by Dr. Arthur G. Price, Medical Health Officer.

The doctor says that germs of the disease which have been lying quiet since the ravaging epidemic of last winter will become active again on the approach of the darker, damper and cooler days of fall. He advises the people of Victoria to take every precaution so as to minimize the chances of getting the disease by building up their physical strength.

At the same time the doctor issued an appeal for the registration of volunteer nurses and helpers to hold themselves in readiness to fight the epidemic as soon as the first indication of the outbreak occurs. Hospital preparations are being made and the health department is straining itself in regard to health matters in its efforts to lighten the epidemic and ward it off as long as possible.

Will Come Again. "Influenza will in all probability again make its appearance in Victoria during the coming fall," said the doctor in his announcement at noon today.

"Our city being a seaport with a very considerable transmigration of persons from all parts, it is practically impossible to prevent such an insidious disease as influenza from being brought in by some infected person coming to the city, or it may not be imported but may recur in the city owing to the germs of the disease which may have been lying quiescent through the summer since the epidemic of last winter, again becoming active on the approach of the darker, damper and cooler days of fall and winter. Whatever may be the cause, we know from experience of past epidemics that influenza is apt to recur year after year.

"We must therefore expect a re-occurrence of the disease in Victoria. There will probably be at first a single case or a few distributed here and there through the city, but whether the disease is to take on the magnitude of last winter's epidemic entirely depends upon ourselves. We can keep down the number of cases and ward off an epidemic like the last with all its accompanying inconveniences and losses. If only every individual will realize that it is his duty to himself and to the whole community to do all he can to keep from getting the disease, and if perchance he gets it to do all in his power to keep from spreading infection by keeping himself from unnecessarily coming in contact with others, from the very commencement of the symptoms until such time as he has fully recovered.

Beginnings of the Disease. "It was frequently pointed out during the last epidemic that influenza is a crowd disease, a contact disease, and that where persons congregate together if there happens to be one infective person amongst them, he will spread the disease to others. This danger will be overcome only by infective persons keeping away from assemblies, and it should be noted that influenza is infectious in its very earliest stage, when there is a little headache, soreness of throat, catarrh and feeling of chilliness as well as during the height of the attack and during convalescence. At the very first appearance of the symptoms of the disease the patient should, for the sake of others, keep away from assemblies and from business, and for his own sake go to his bed. During the last epidemic there were many lives lost through putting off going to bed and the disease was spread by those in the early stages associating with others.

Methods of Propagation. "It was also pointed out that influenza may be spread by other means than by direct contact with persons suffering from the disease. It may be spread through the use of unsterilized infected drinking utensils and spoons and forks, or by dust infected by expectoration from persons who may have recently had influenza or who are getting it. During the last epidemic in order to check these sources of infection, eating and drinking utensils in restaurants were ordered to be boiled after use, and all persons were requested to wash their hands after being in the dirty and dangerous habit of spitting on the streets; also without avail, as anyone might have judged by the filthy condition of the streets from spittle.

Personal Precautions. "Since last epidemic there has been much investigation and a great deal has been written and advice given on the subject of the prevention of epidemic influenza. In addition to the avoidance of crowds and of spitting there is the preventive measure which I strongly advocated last winter, namely, the washing out of the nostrils and mouth and the gargling of the throat twice every day with a warm solution of common salt and water of strength one teaspoonful to a pint.

"This preventive treatment was used by many in Victoria last year and I have heard of no one who carried it out regularly during the epidemic who contracted the disease; a few who had carried out the treatment not with regularity did get influenza, but got it in so mild a form that it was hardly recognizable as such. It was this preventive treatment which was advocated by physicians in England and which proved so great a success in the prevention of influenza in the schools where boys who were disciplined to use it escaped influenza altogether.

Caution Necessary. "I need not go into the why and wherefore of the treatment; it is enough to say that it has proved its efficacy by results, and such faith have I in it that I believe an outbreak of influenza may be kept in abeyance by its general use. So much for preventive measures. Now as to measures to be taken if an epidemic does strike the city, and I fear it will, for although there are many who will follow advice and will do all in their power to aid in the fight against influenza, yet there are always the few who will not bother about things and who will just do as they like regardless of consequences, and who look upon such warnings and advice as it is my duty to give as beatings of an alarmist.

"We must, therefore, be prepared for an epidemic and the following are the lines which I advise should be followed as likely to prove most successful in combating it, taking into regard both the public safety and the welfare of the patients. Hospital Preparations. "I have been asked if it is the intention to open a large emergency hospital and segregate all cases there for treatment. In the interest of the patients I cannot advise this, for it was found during last epidemic, not only in Victoria but in other cities, that influenza patients taken from their beds to hospital frequently receive a severe set-back and some died only a few hours after admission and one even died in the ambulance. Once an attack of influenza is established there is a very grave risk taken in moving patients from their beds. We cannot safely move influenza cases though there is practically no danger in moving patients suffering from other fevers.

"Therefore under the circumstances do not advise the establishment of such emergency hospital; but I recommend that the treatment of influenza patients be carried out wherever possible in their own beds. The present Isolation Hospital will be ready for the treatment of all those who cannot receive proper treatment elsewhere, such as indigent persons dwelling alone or patients taken from the trains or boats who have no home in the city or for other exceptional cases, but I cannot encourage the general removal of patients from their comfortable homes for treatment in hospital as was carried on during the last epidemic.

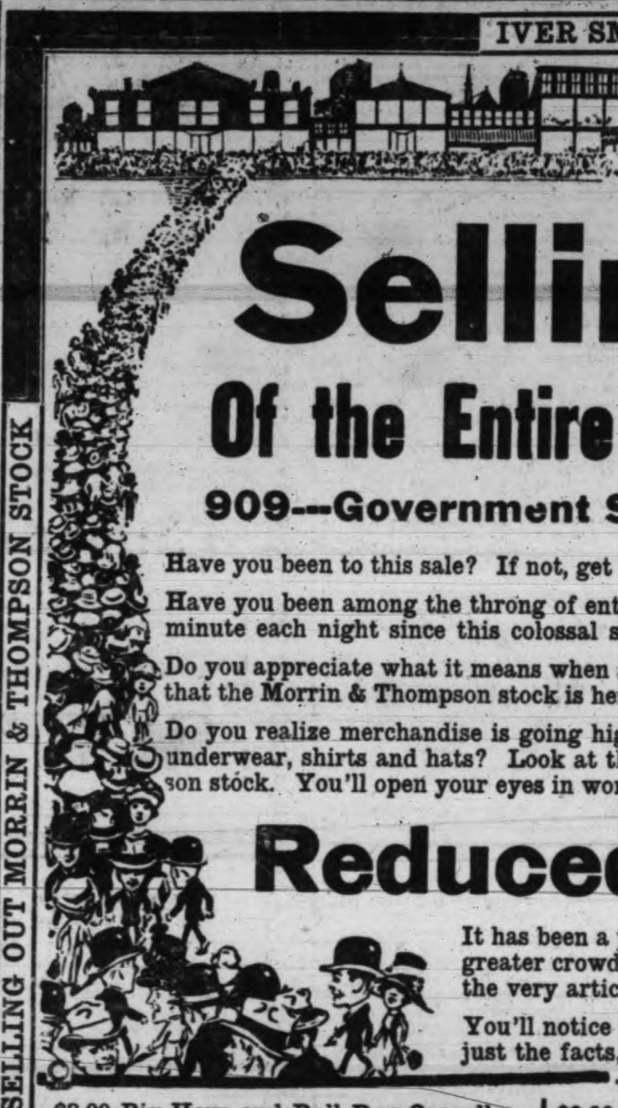

Isolation of Cases. "All cases of influenza must be promptly reported and the houses in which the cases occur will be placarded, or if in a hotel or boarding house the door of the patient's room, and the patient will be quarantined until such time as the card is removed by permission of the Health Officer. Attendants will be directed to wash carefully and gargle before leaving the house.

"The infection of influenza does not seem to carry if proper precautions are taken and it was found that it was not carried by doctors or nurses who carefully wash after being in contact, nor was it found to spread from room to room in hotels when a patient was confined to his apartment. Close contact favors infection while cleanliness, fresh air and distance frustrates it.

Shortage of Nurses. "If cases are to be treated at home, attendants and nurses will be required in number proportionate to the number of cases. Last epidemic when it was at its worst in October there were sufficient nurses and volunteer nurses to meet the requirements of both home and hospital nursing, but later in the second, and lesser recrudescence there was difficulty experienced in supplying nurses owing mainly to the fact that many of the ladies who had valiantly come forward at the first of the epidemic were exhausted or had been taken ill themselves and were unable to carry on, while but few new volunteers were forthcoming to take their places.

"Some of the ladies went through the whole epidemic from start to finish, all honor to them for their splendid work, but it seemed a shame that when helpers were needed at the latter end of the epidemic, that so many who had had personal experience of influenza and were immune against taking the disease again who had come forward and helped, did not offer their services but allowed their exhausted sisters to carry on to the end. To Register Nurses. "I propose to prevent the recurrence of the state of things or the overtaxing of the endurance of any one nurse, to open a registry now and to invite volunteer helpers to send in their names. If three hundred ladies would send in their names to be registered at the office of the City Board of Health as willing to help if called upon we would then be prepared if the epidemic started and there would be no overworking of nurses.

"It is proposed if the epidemic comes to establish a hostel for the nurses when employed and to make arrangements for their bed and board and for the preparing and distribution of food to patients where required, also to call for owners of motor cars to volunteer to use their cars for the transportation of nurses to and from their patients.

ARCHIVES RICH IN EDUCATIVE VALUE

Many Visitors But Few Residents Use Its Free Advantages

Comparatively few people in the city of Victoria visit the Provincial Library. Fewer take the trouble to climb a short flight of stone steps into what is known as "The Archives." It is not altogether surprising. Many Victorians know nothing about Westminster Abbey except its exterior. And if Sir Christopher Wren could step out of his tomb in the twentieth century atmosphere he would require to take the platform and explain some of the architectural distinctiveness of St. Paul's Cathedral.

But across James Bay there is a collection of exhibits—the word appears to be horribly material—so definitely associated with the transition of the northwest from its virgin state to its present pinnacle of progress that should appeal to every British Columbian. To Vancouver Islanders the collection should have a special significance of its own. One needs but to take a glance at the visitors' book, however, to realize how few take advantage of so remarkable source of historical education.

ed them to approach not. "Can we come in?" and "Is there anything to pay?" are questions frequently asked of the usher. Scant knowledge of the fact appears to be abroad that a competent official will take the occasional visitor or the organized party through the Library and its wonderful collection of Archives and explain everything in detail.

So impressed was Clement K. Shorter, Editor of The London Sphere, with what he saw that he left the very definite assurance behind that one of his first "stories" on return to his editorial sanctum, a little off Fleet Street, would be very closely associated with the Archives of British Columbia.

An Eminent Collector. Friday's visitors included Abraham S. Wolf Rosenbach, the celebrated bibliographer and writer, of Philadelphia. He is an authority on the most magnificent collections in America. Mr. Rosenbach, like many others who have gone out of their way to include the Provincial Library in a holiday itinerary in the Northwest, felt fully repaid for his trouble.

A visitors' book is usually a very carefully ruled-off affair. Name, date, country of origin, and so on, are to be placed in their respective oblong enclosures. Impressions do not usually form part of an entry. A gentleman from Berkeley, California, "transgressed" yesterday, however. He inscribed his name and followed it with this: "A former Canadian, with deep appreciation of the Provincial Library, there is much to be learned. It costs nothing to go in and be shown round. It all belongs to the people and the staff is always at the people's service."

VICTORIA THE NORTHWEST THE WORLD

WITH ANOTHER TITLE TO LIST VICTORIA MEN PLAY AGAIN TO-DAY

Seventeen to Seven They Beat Winnipeg in Ten Men a Side Lacrosse Final—Play All-Stars To-day

(From a Times Correspondent.)

Winnipeg, Sept. 13.—The Foundation lacrosse team, of Victoria, easily outplayed and outgassed the Winnipeg ten here to-day in the finals of the world's amateur lacrosse tournament by a score of 17 to 7, and are now the undefeated and undisputed world's champions and incidentally cleared up the Mann Cup situation, which has been hovering over the Calgary team, V. A. C. and Joe Lally, and there is absolutely no doubt now that Victoria has the best amateur lacrosse team throughout the continent.

Winnipeg Set Pace.

Winnipeg to-day set terrific pace for the first period and led the Mann cup holders all the way. The period finished four to three, Winnipeg leading, but the wise old defence of the coasters were on to the tactics of the Pegs and held them at their mercy for the remaining three periods, allowing them only three more in that time, while the snappy home players were going through and scoring nearly every five minutes.

Lonesome Trio.

Urged on by the 8,000 wild fans and their two victories over Toronto, the Pegs took the field quite confident, but the coast boys with only Charlie Burnett, Cotton and Geo. Strath rooting for them soon wore the aspirants down, and now all the fans agree that the champions have wonderful system and headwork which won for them the great honor.

Exhibition Games.

The world's champs will play an all-star Winnipeg team an exhibition game Monday, then leave for the coast playing Regina, Calgary and Armstrong on their way home.

Mr. R. Buckle.

"Fatty Arbuckle Sweeney," the champs cover point, has created a lot of interest during the series. The new name was tacked on to him soon after his arrival in Winnipeg, and the Peg fans got a surprise when they saw the brand of lacrosse the Victoria veteran was able to play in spite of the weight he carries.

SMOTHERED OTTAWA

Montreal, Sept. 14.—Nationals smothered Ottawa in the last appearance of the Senators here this season, the final score being 13 to 4. At no stage of the game could the visitors get a foothold, there were plenty of penalties handed out during the game, but none of them were for serious offences, and while the game could not be called clean, it was not excessively rough. The game was so one-sided that the crowd had little cheering to do and the players themselves grew listless as the game progressed.

SENATORS LOSE.

Caughnawaga, Que. Sept. 14.—Hardly recovered from the spring game of Saturday against the Nationals, the Ottawa Senators were again defeated this afternoon when they went against the local club, the score being 10 to 3 in the latter's favor.

BALTIMORE TAKES INTERNATIONAL RAG

Have a Seven and Half Game Lead Over Toronto, but Lost Double Header

New York, Sept. 14.—The International League baseball season closed to-day with Baltimore winning the championship, having a lead of 7½ games over Toronto, which team was first last year. The Orioles clinched the pennant last Monday and finished the season to-day by losing twice to Jersey City, the double victory enabled the Skeeters to climb out of the cellar position ahead of Reading. The Birmingham club announced last week that it would give up its franchise.

Christ Church put over a surprise bid the Virtue Cup race when they defeated the Victoria eleven and made a three cornered tie between the Albions, the Incogs and Victoria. Victoria took the field with eleven men against Christ Church and lost by 94 runs.

VINCENT RICHARDS WON

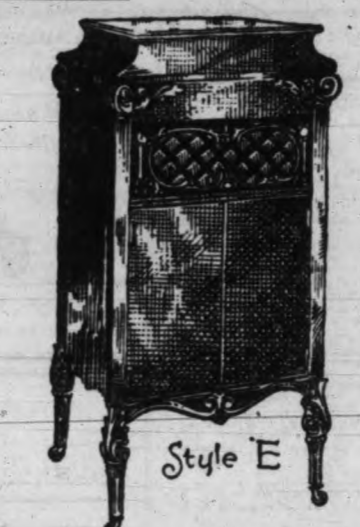

Toronto, Sept. 14.—Vincent Richards, of Brooklyn, won the Ontario tennis championship for men's open singles on the Toronto Tennis Club court, Saturday afternoon, when he defeated Kumagai, the Japanese player, three sets to one, 7-5, 6-3, 2-6, 9-7. Miss Best, of Toronto, defeated Mrs. Mary Bickle, of Toronto, for the Ontario championship for ladies' singles, 10-5, 6-2.

Phonograph Drops from 500 Feet High on Sensational Toronto-Hamilton Flight

Violently Jolted by Fall From Aeroplane, and the Case Bruised and Damaged, the Phonograph, When Tested at the Factory, Still Plays Any Make of Record Perfectly.

ON Tuesday morning, at 9 o'clock, a fast aeroplane owned by International Aerial Transport Limited, left Toronto for Hamilton. With it went a unique "cargo"—Gerhard Heintzman Phonographs, new from the factory and destined for the well-known Gerhard Heintzman store in Hamilton.

In charge of this "shipment" was Mrs. Armand Heintzman, wife of the vice-president and general manager of Gerhard Heintzman, Limited—the first lady passenger in Canada to fly in an aeroplane carrying freight. Thus was inaugurated a sensational epoch-making event.

Style E

But a few minutes out from Toronto with the aeroplane flying at an altitude of 500 feet, one of the phonographs became detached —and fell overboard. The trip was completed in 42 minutes. Immediately Mrs. Heintzman 'phoned Toronto and informed the factory of the accident.

When the phonograph was located, it was found that the packing case had been damaged considerably, the cabinet of the phonograph scratched and the lid loosened.

Brought back to the factory, the phonograph was placed in the testing room. Clear as the song of thrush—mellow, sweet and resonant as when it left the inspection room of the factory—the phonograph played without yielding trace of the terrific treatment it had undergone.

Not with one record, or with one make of record—but many records of every make!

A Ruthless Test of Piano-Craftsmanship

Through an accident, the piano-craftsmanship that goes into the Gerhard Heintzman phonograph was thus outstandingly demonstrated.

The singing throat of the instrument—fashioned from genuine piano-sounding-board spruce—withstood this violent test simply because of the material used (of a grade that goes into the making of fine violins), because of the painstaking care used in building it, and because of the scientific design on which it is built.

The Phonograph Produced by Canada's Greatest Music House

It is over half a century ago since Gerhard Heintzman produced in Toronto the first piano bearing his name. Today over 40,000 homes in Canada know the merit this name means.

All the experience, all the ability, all the resources, all the genius, that have gone into the making of "Canada's Greatest Piano," have been applied to produce this wonderful phonograph.

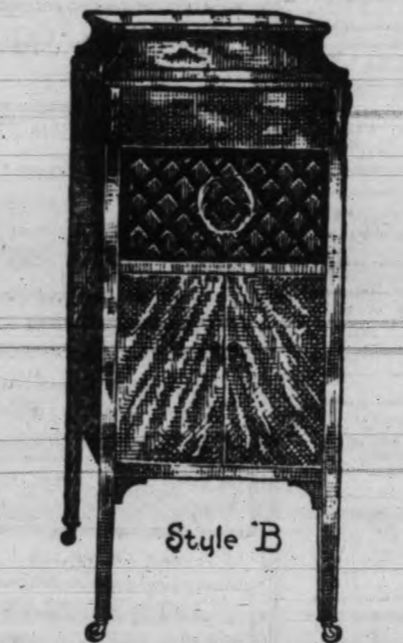

Piano-genius!—think what that means applied to a phonograph—in design and finish, in beauty and richness of tone!

And in a phonograph that was EXPRESSLY DESIGNED to play all makes of records!

IS RIGHT HAND MAN OF PADEREWSKI ZBYSZKO AND MUSICIAN HELP POLAND

STANISLAUS ZBYSZKO.

News that Paderewski, the pianist and chief administrator of the new Poland, has as one of his right-hand men Stanislaus Zbyszko, known to every reader of America's sporting pages of a few years ago as the greatest wrestler in the world, has just trickled into the United States, says The Chicago Evening Post. Zbyszko, whose real name is Cyganiewicz, reached his greatest success on the mat in America. After four years of campaigning in this country, which closed just before the beginning of the world war, he went to Russia to wrestle. That was in 1914. When hostilities broke out, Zbyszko, being a Galician by birth, was made a prisoner of war by the Russians. "Zbyszko was in Moscow when peace was declared last November. He went to Warsaw, where, in company with many leading countrymen, he began an agitation for a free Poland. He has always been an idol with the population there, and within a short time he had acquired a following for his Free Poland campaign of formidable proportions. Then came Paderewski, another favorite of the plain people, and the pianist and the wrestler combined forces. John H. Herman, of Chicago, who directed Zbyszko's affairs during the strenuous American mat campaigns of 1910, 1911, 1912 and 1913, has received several letters from the Polish giant. It seems that Zbyszko's "street following" in Poland is so strong as to make him an invaluable aid in Paderewski's appealing to the "common people." "It is a surprising combination," said Herman, "considering the fact that musicians and athletes are about the last two classes on earth that would be expected to furnish practical statesmen." "Zbyszko, I learned, was a fellow of infinite possibilities. As a wrestler, he is a wonder. But he is not of the solid ivory type of athlete. He has a brain in proportion to his giant body. "I doubt if Zbyszko would consent to leave Poland now for any purpose. Paderewski considers him invaluable. But if he does decide to come here, even if only for a visit and not for the purpose of wrestling, he will receive a warm welcome from the sporting fraternity. He was a great credit to the athletic world."

Just turn them. They'll look as good as new.

It's done in a jiffy! Double Wear Cuffs turn easily and lie flat. Just as neat and comfortable turned in as turned out.

An exclusive W. G. & R. feature. Therefore, to get these clever new cuffs you must be sure to ask for

G.W.V.A. PICNIC BIG SUCCESS

As if to make amends for causing the postponement of the picnic from the day previously arranged when it rained very heavily, the weather was at its best on Saturday afternoon for the picnic held under the auspices of the Great War Veterans' Association and its Ladies' Auxiliary. A large party went out to Deep Bay for the event, and throughout the afternoon and evening the sound of happy laughter was heard in the vicinity of The Chalet. An excellent programme of sports furnished entertainment in the afternoon while musical numbers were rendered by the recently-organized Great War Veterans' Association band. Delicious refreshments were served and later in the evening dancing took place to the strains furnished by the band. Much credit for the success of the affair is due to the ladies' committee composed of Mrs. Hatcher, convener, Mrs. Morrison, Mrs. Mars and Mrs. Smith. The results of the sports events are as follows:
75 yards single ladies' race—1, Miss Sherret; 2, Miss Murray.

business there. "The exchange difficulties in the Orient make it difficult to establish satisfactory branch relations," said Mr. Pease.

Prosperity. Discussing conditions in Canada, the visitor stated that the east is in a very prosperous condition, with a greater demand for labor than the market can supply at present. This impetus to some extent he ascribed to the working to capacity of the manufacturing plants so that they may take advantage of the exchange between Canada and the United States.

Shipbuilding. "I can hardly think," continued Mr. Pease, "that the Canadian Government has discontinued its shipbuilding policy, as it is considered in financial circles as the salvation of the country for Canada to own her own mercantile marine."

Mr. Pease failed to agree with the opinions of some of the United States financiers that the clearing house of the commerce of the world will move from London to New York, and he pointed out that all the Dominions and colonies of the British Empire would continue to draw on London, despite the fact that Great Britain had sustained a severe blow in the war she was still considered a sound financial institution.

FISHER SAYS AIRCRAFT ARE JUNKING SURFACE WARSHIPS

"Can not the British and American navies dominate the world any time and tell any other nation not to build more or we will fight it there and then?"

Mr. Lloyd George. Writing from France to Rt. Hon. Walter Hume Long, First Lord of the Admiralty, who is visiting dockyards and other establishments in connection with the new policy of economy, Mr. Lloyd George said:

"I know full well the remarkable work done by the crews of the navy and civilians in various countries. No one realizes better than I do the part their work played in the victory. It must go to their credit to see the splendid creations of their hand, and endeavors scrapped, but I know the patriotic spirit which inspired them to build up also will enable them to face the winding up of their efforts and enterprises. When the expenditure of the country as a result of the war debt and pensions is so very high, we are driven to economize ruthlessly in every direction."

WOODEN HOUSES NOT WANTED IN BRITAIN

(By Burdick Bros. & Brett, Ltd.)

New York, Sept. 15.—(Reuter's)—The Daily News says that the Standardization Committee of Inquiry into health does not agree with the recent proposal of Agent-General Wade of British Columbia, that the housing problem could be solved by the importation of wooden houses.

The newspaper says that a London firm during the past twelve months approached the housing committees and commissioners with suggestions for building houses on the American colonial system. In no case had they been able to persuade the authorities to adopt the proposal despite the advantage in time and money saving.

Wooden structures are considered unsuitable to the English climate, transportation presents many difficulties and the standardization committee is averse to buildings of a temporary character.

URGES CONSIDERATION OF COMMUNITY SHIP PLAN

Coast Head of Foundation Company Leaving for New York to Place Proposal Before Board of Directors Victoria's Chance to Retain Industry

To lay before the Board of Directors of the company his proposals for the building of additional vessels here to be community-owned and community-operated, Bayly Hipkins, vice-president and Northwest manager of the Foundation Company, left Victoria this afternoon for Seattle en route to New York. Mr. Hipkins will place the whole scheme before the New York heads and expects to return early in October with concrete proposals that may lead to the continuance of the wooden shipbuilding industry at this port.

"I have gone into this plan very thoroughly and am convinced that with the support of the community the idea is workable and if consummated will mean a big thing for British Columbia," said Mr. Hipkins prior to his departure to-day for the East.

The plan and its feasibility with particular application to Victoria occurred to me when at Tacoma recently I was informed by a prominent steamship man that cargoes of lumber were greatly in excess of the tonnage available. The contract we now have in hand in these yards is drawing to a close, and as at the present time we haven't anything in sight, it occurred to me that if the tract 55 per cent. complete, ships delivered, 55 per cent. complete, and five vessels fitting out 30 per cent. complete.

SPANISH STEAMER IS MUCH OVERDUE

Valbanera, With 300 Passengers Aboard, Riding Out Tropical Storm

Havana, Sept. 15.—Wireless signals from the Spanish steamer Valbanera, six days overdue, were received by the United States wireless station at Key West last night. The location and condition of the ship, which has been riding out the terrific tropical hurricane which has raged over the Gulf of Mexico and adjacent waters since September 9, were not given. The vessel is believed to be within fifty miles of the Florida coast. There were 300 passengers on board the vessel.

Search For Crew.
Savannah, Ga., Sept. 15.—Search was being made to-day for Captain Moon and eleven men of the crew of the steamer Bernabie, which went down in a northeast gale off the Georgian coast Saturday night four and a half hours after springing a leak. Fifteen members of the crew, after an all-night battle with rough seas, succeeded in landing in one of the ship's small boats at St. Catherine's Island.

Picked Up Men.
Tampa, Fla., Sept. 15.—The schooner Admiral Beatty, in from Grand Cayman Island, has brought the crew of the schooner Copperfield, eight men and Captain Morrison, picked up in the Gulf Saturday morning. Captain Morrison and his men had been adrift 42 hours and were nearly exhausted. They abandoned the Copperfield near Rebecca Shoal Light Thursday.

Apparently Safe.
Key West, Fla., Sept. 15.—Reports from ships which have had communication with the Spanish steamer Valbanera by wireless indicate the vessel apparently is safe and proceeding under her own steam.

BLUE FUNNEL LINER TYNDAREUS

FREIGHTERS OF NEW TYPE BEING BUILT

Skinner & Eddy Has 10,400-Ton Steamships Under Way

Seattle, Sept. 15.—Now well under construction at the No. 1 plant of the Skinner & Eddy Corporation is the first of the four new 10,400-ton dead-weight freight steamships being undertaken on its own account by the big shipbuilding concern, and the design and type of these vessels are being generally discussed among ship designers and builders.

The design of these ships is the result of three years of intensive production at the big Seattle shipyard, accompanied as it was by hard work on the part of the designing department of the construction department, went into these plans, and were adopted by the officials of the corporation.

The new ships will be 429 feet 9 1/2 inches over all, and 42 1/2 feet between perpendiculars.

Each ship will have a beam of fifty-five feet and a molded depth to shelter deck of thirty-six feet. Load-carrying capacity, and each boiler will be 27 feet 4 inches. Each ship will have a capacity for 545,000 cubic feet of grain if fully laden with that commodity.

The ships are being constructed under the supervision of Lloyd's bureau of rating and survey, as well as by the American bureau of shipping, and when completed may be operated by the building corporation, though this has not yet been positively determined.

Three Scotch marine boilers, 14 feet 9 inches in diameter, and 11 feet 3 inches long, built for 210 pounds working pressure, and each boiler containing 3,000 square feet of heating surface, are depended upon to develop steam for the driving of the General Electric Company's geared turbine engines of 3,000 shaft horsepower.

This equipment is expected to develop a load speed of at least twelve knots per hour, or approximately fifty miles per hour loaded. This means that they will be the speediest freight ships constructed on the west coast, and faster than any United States shipping board freighter yet constructed in the United States.

CREW'S DESPERATE BATTLE FOR LIFE

Vulture Hovered Over Corydon, Engulfed in Florida Hurricane

Miami, Fla., Sept. 15.—Many hours before the storm which sank the Ward liner Corydon in the Bahama Channel Tuesday morning with a loss of 27 lives, a vulture followed the ship and perched on her spars, while a panic-stricken crew, believing in the superstitions of the sea, were convinced that they were doomed.

Such is the story brought here by eight of the crew who were fifty-three hours adrift on an upturned boat, battered and bruised and without food or water.

All day Sunday as the ship pursued her way in calm seas and light winds the great bird hovered overhead. Sunday night and Monday the Corydon staggered through the smashing seas. Monday night every member of the crew was engaged in a desperate battle for life. There was no food, as the galley and provision rooms were flooded. Tuesday morning they lost control of the ship, the wireless apparatus was short-circuited and no S. O. S. calls could be sent out. When the vessel went under, the Americans in the crew kept their heads and saved the lives of some others of the thirty-six.

CONQUEROR CLEARS FOR SOUTH AFRICA

Is Laden With 1,500,000 Feet of Lumber Loaded at Genoa Bay

Carrying 1,500,000 feet of British Columbia lumber the American four-masted wooden barquentine Conqueror, Capt. James A. Hersey, put to sea from the Royal Roads yesterday afternoon bound for Capetown, South Africa.

The Conqueror's cargo was loaded at Genoa Bay and within four days of her arrival in the Roads a full crew had been secured for the vessel. For a sailing craft she was given particularly smart dispatch.

The Conqueror is a vessel of 1,221 net tons, and was built at Eureka, Cal. She is owned by Hind, Ralph & Co., of San Francisco.

On Koko Head.
Capt. J. A. Hersey was formerly master of the American vessel Koko Head, which, it will be remembered, was destroyed by fire off Java. Capt. Hersey, his wife, and the members of his crew, abandoned the flaming ship and after six days afloat managed to reach the Javan coast. This section of the coast was infested by wild beasts. As the shipwrecked crew made their way ashore to a light-house they noticed animal tracks in the sand. On reaching the lighthouse they found the structure surrounded by a high fence and were unable to make the affrighted natives understand. Disappointed they put back to the boat with the intention of still further exploring the coastline when they were overhauled by a lighthouse cutter.

It was then that Capt. Hersey and those with him learned that the district was infested with man-eating lions and tigers, and of their miraculous escape. The men of the cutter told them that they never went ashore at the point without a heavily armed guard.

The ship was ready to depart a port in the Orient from where they crossed the Pacific.

Capt. Hersey has made one round voyage in the Conqueror. He likes Victoria better than any port he has ever touched at, and says that he has been royally treated while here.

TALK OF CONVERTING FRASER RIVER YARD

Haley & Christian Said to Be Negotiating With Norwegian Interests For Steel Contract

New Westminster, Sept. 15.—There is a possibility that steel ships may be built in New Westminster in the future, replacing the wooden shipbuilding industry which it was at one time hoped would be permanent, but which has come to an end.

Messrs. Haley & Christian, the people who equipped the five French vessels built by the New Westminster Construction & Engineering Company, are negotiating with Norwegian interests for steel contracts. While prospects of securing orders for an indefinite number of vessels are good, nothing has been definitely decided.

It is the intention to build on Poplar Island, if contracts are signed. Haley & Christian are experienced in the work of fitting out steel vessels, having handled some of Coghlan's product, and they will go to Victoria shortly to outfit two vessels for the Victoria Machinery Depot.

OFFICIALS WAITED ON DOCK IN VAIN

Former Hun Liner Prinzessin Created Surprise by Heading For Vancouver

Contrary to expectations, the former Hun liner Prinzessin, which completed her voyage from Australasia to-day, did not touch at the Outer Docks here to put off passengers and mails.

Preparations had been made for her arrival, representatives of the Canadian-Australasia Line, the customs, immigration authorities and wharf officials being on hand to board the ship, and great surprise was manifested when the steamship swung broadside on off the breakwater and blew four whistles for the pilot boat.

Impatient at the delay the commander of the Prinzessin signalled repeatedly and finally the pilot boat put out with Capt. John Edwards, Vancouver pilot in the cockpit. The crowd of officials waited for the return of the pilot boat which brought back Pilot Charles Harris, Vic. Heather, Victoria detective, and the information that the ship had no community was financially interested in the plan, we would be willing to consider the proposition by providing all the necessary equipment and also take some stock in the project.

"With this in mind I am now on my way to New York and propose to lay the whole plan before the board of directors.

Will Not Withdraw.
"However, whether vessels are built or not the Foundation Company does not intend to withdraw from its affiliations with British Columbia, and in this connection I might state that an office has been opened in Vancouver with J. S. Connell, a well-known and experienced engineer, in charge.

"We are making endeavors to secure contracts work and arrange in the field for the construction of anything from bridges to piers and drydocks. The field is a very promising one to me."

The community-owned scheme as tentatively outlined by Mr. Hipkins provided for the construction of ten wooden steamships of a similar type to the French steamships now building here, at an approximate cost of $5,000,000. All that would be necessary in the first place, however, would be to raise, say, $1,000,000 to build two vessels as a preliminary center.

"Within one hundred and twenty days," said Mr. Hipkins, "the first vessel would be put in service and in a carrying capacity. The first vessel could be used as collateral for the second, and the second for the third, and so on."

To construct one vessel 1,500,000 feet of lumber would be required at a cost of $55,000. Mr. Hipkins contends that the lumber people, if sufficiently interested could carry this amount, or take stock in the venture. The engineering firms building machinery for the vessels would also be invited to take stock.

In raising capital to put the proposed undertaking on working basis, Mr. Hipkins stated that it was not proposed to confine the plan to Victoria, but it would embrace the whole of British Columbia.

Laying Off Men.
The French contract for twenty 3,000-ton wooden steamships is now rapidly approaching completion and within the next few days there will necessarily follow a wholesale laying-off of workmen.

By October 10 next the hulls will be 100 per cent. complete, the total cost

TO INTRODUCE NEW LENTIL SEED BY NEXT YEAR

Dr. Saunders Predicts Great Future For Pea and Bean Growing

The people of this country should eat more peas and beans particularly pea soup, according to Dr. Charles E. Saunders, Dominion Cerealist, with headquarters at Ottawa, who was in Victoria Saturday. In this connection, Dr. Saunders today announced that he has bred at his laboratories at Ottawa, a new type of pea which is to be introduced next year. The pea is especially valuable for farm crops—recognition food as it is wonderfully productive and late in ripening. Already the pea has been proved a success in every way and his department is now engaged solely in growing enough seed for wide distribution throughout the country.

Dr. Saunders is inspecting the Dominion Government Experimental Farm, Saanichton, making a particular examination of new varieties that are being developed there.

Good Nutritive Value.

"People out here in British Columbia should go in more for the use of peas and beans as food and also for the eggwing of them," said Dr. Saunders today.

For some strange reason the nourishing properties of these vegetables has been overlooked by the great majority of people. Now, however, I hope that the advantages of these lentils as food will be recognized more widely. The French-Canadians are the greatest consumers of pea soup in Canada, and in this I think the people of the rest of Canada can well follow their example.

"But from a purely commercial standpoint, I consider that there is a great future in pea and bean growing. In Alberta and the Northwest pea-growing is taking the place of hay-growing for food for stock. The peas are grown mixed with oats and they give a much higher production per acre than hay. The peas and oats are reaped together and used as ensilage. Besides the advantage of greater production there is that of variety in the food for stock, which is a factor the importance of which is not fully recognized.

"In parts of the Northwest farmers are producing four tons of this mixture to the acre. The value of this product at present prices is about $89 and the average price of the land which produces it is about $20. Most of the returns are profit, as very little labor is required for the crop.

"The opportunity for this part of British Columbia in this lies in the providing of pea seeds for the Prairie farmers. There is the possibility of the development of an extensive industry in this connection in certain parts of British Columbia, as it is impossible in most parts of the Northwest to grow pea seeds because of the season being too short for the late ripening pea. When Alberta and the neighboring provinces are developed as they should be they will support a large pea seed industry here."

Dr. Saunders also said that more beans should be grown by the people here, particularly by small farmers and homeholders. Beans, he declared, can be advantageously grown on this island as the climate is well suited to them, although a little dry in summer. The crops of peas and beans he has seen here are remarkably fine, clean and free from disease, which he considers is a great tribute to the suitability of conditions here for these farm products.

THOUGHT MAN WAS A DEER AND SHOT

When Emil Salub shot and wounded a deer near the Bamberton Cement Works just off the Malahat Drive on Saturday, the animal made off, and Salub started to follow. A little distance further on he saw something moving in the underbrush about forty yards ahead. He fired point blank. The shot was answered by human cries.

Salub ran up and found John Depew, fifty years old, a returned soldier, bleeding profusely and unable to walk. Salub helped him to the Malahat Drive, and from the Bamberton wharf they took a boat across the Saanich Arm, walked to Sluggert's Station, and came into the city on the interurban train.

Depew was treated at Dr. Fraser's.

GUM DECAY CAUSES TOOTH DECAY

Healthy teeth need healthy gums to hug them. Else they will loosen in Pyorrhoea. Tiny openings will come in the gums to act as the gateways of disease germs, which infect the joints or tonsils, or cause other ailments.

Forhan's prevents Pyorrhoea, if used in time and used consistently. No mere toothpaste does. Are your gums tender? Are they bleeding? If so, you are certain to have Pyorrhoea (Riggs' Disease). Four out of five people who are over forty have it.

To you we earnestly recommend Forhan's. It preserves the gums which hold the teeth secure.

Brush your teeth with it. Forhan's cleans the teeth scientifically—keeps them white and clean.

If gum-shrinkage has already set in, start using Forhan's and consult a dentist immediately for special treatment.

THE MAKING OF A FAMOUS MEDICINE

How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Is Prepared For Woman's Use.

A visit to the laboratory where this successful remedy is made impresses even the casual looker-on with the reliability, accuracy, skill and cleanliness which attend the making of this great medicine for woman's ills.

Over 250,000 pounds of various herbs are used annually and all have to be gathered at the season of the year when their natural juices and medicinal substances are at their best.

Every utensil and tank that comes in contact with the medicine is sterilized and as a final precaution in cleanliness the medicine is pasteurized and sealed in sterile bottles.

It is the wonderful combination of roots and herbs, together with the skill and care used in its preparation which has made this famous medicine so successful in the treatment of female ills.

The letters from women who have been restored to health by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound which we are continually publishing attest to its virtues.

office, where three shots were found in his left leg, one in the abdomen and one in the left wrist. The doctor considered his injuries not very serious. Depew is an employee of the British Columbia Electric Railway Company. He had shot only his first bird when he was mistaken for a deer by Salub.

IS NOW IN CHARGE OF TRAVEL BUREAU

Fred O. Finn, Former Transportation Man Here, Established at Seattle

Fred O. Finn, who prior to going overseas was passenger agent here for the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railroad, is now in charge of the Seattle office of the travel bureau of the American Express Company. Recognizing the development in travel the American Express Company has established a bureau at Seattle, where complete and accurate information may be obtained on transportation routes and services to any part of the world.

This company, which is one of the greatest forwarding concerns on the seven seas, recently extended the scope of its activities and established travel bureaus in nearly every large city in North America. England, Continental Europe, the Orient, Australia, New Zealand, and the Pacific.

It has now opened one of its travel bureaus in Seattle linking up its offices into a chain which now extends from the Atlantic to the Pacific and from the Great Lakes to the Gulf.

Mr. Finn has received the following telegram from New York office of the company's travel department: "Shall send first party to battlefields of France and Belgium, including tour of Southern France and Italy on the Cunard liner Mauretania, October 2; sixty-six days, personally conducted."

This is the first personally conducted tour of the battlefields since the cessation of hostilities, according to Mr. Finn. Special parties will leave New York probably every two months from now on, giving first opportunity to tourists to visit the war zone.

SUGAR SITUATION

Comment of Government Coast Markets Commissioner on Shortage.

J. C. Abbott, Coast Markets Commissioner, reports on the sugar situation as follows: "A great many consumers have spoken to me in regard to the sugar shortage in British Columbia, also a great number of the dealers who have become anxious about the matter, all claiming a shortage. I might say that we have been convinced from the start that the B. C. Sugar Refinery at Vancouver has been doing the very best possible, giving a proper share to their various customers. The wholesale trade has also been supplying their customers in proportionate quantities. The retail trade was somewhat handicapped because they could not tell whether a purchaser had purchased one sack or a dozen at as many other retail stores before coming to them. They had no way of checking the consumer up. As I have said before, the shortage of sugar was caused entirely by the 'red head lines' and over-anxious housewife, and husbands, too, in some cases.

"The scarcity as it has existed during the past two weeks has to some extent retarded the movement of our fruit, principally crab apples, but it has not retarded the sales of plums and peaches to the extent that some might think. The report in the Prairie Bulletin to the effect that the B. C. Sugar Refinery was ordered to ship some 300 tons from Vancouver to the Prairie Provinces caused a little dissatisfaction amongst small growers, but on looking into the matter I understand the 300 tons is for the month of September and as far as the quantity of sugar concerned is a very small lot in proportion to the amount used. The fact remains that, from my investigations, I believe those who have to do with the supply and distribution of sugar here are doing all they can and I am perfectly satisfied with the situation as it now exists. The present conditions are uncontrollable, and not likely to become anywhere nearly normal for probably three months' time."
