ADVERTISEMENT.

THE purchasers of the BOTANICAL MAGAZINE have indeed some right to complain of the length of time that has intervened between the completion of the twentieth volume and the publication of these Indexes. Many circumstances have combined to occasion this delay, but the principal cause has been an intention on the part of the Editor to have given a review of the whole work, with a critical examination of what has been said on the same plants in the foreign publications which have either appeared since or had not fallen under his or his predecessor's notice, soon enough to be considered at the time their account of the different plants was written; his avocations have not however allowed him the leisure necessary to the completion of such a design, and it has been at last reluctantly relinquished. In the Enumeration indeed will be found some additions made to several of the articles and some corrections of errors and changes of the names, which the advancement of science appeared to render necessary; the perusal of this part will shew in some measure what was wished to have been done, and as the Editor may at a future time reassume his former intentions, he will be greatly obliged to his Botanical readers for their remarks and criticisms upon any of the articles that have been already or shall hereafter be published.

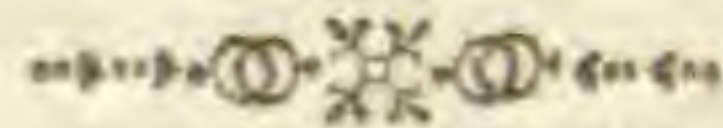

Possessors of rare or curious plants, which they may be desirous of seeing figured in the Botanical Magazine, may generally have their wishes gratified, if such plants are sent when coming into flower (or good specimens in a state fit for drawing) to Dr. SIMS, 67, Upper Guilford-Street, free of Expence. When drawn and described, the plants will be returned to the owner's order, and if necessary will be in the mean time preserved in a stove.

☞ In the Latin Index, the names printed in Italics are Synonyms.

An ENUMERATION of the Plants figured in the first Twenty Volumes of the BOTANICAL MAGAZINE*.

Volume	Fasciculus†	Number
I.	1	1	I RIS persica.....Persian Iris, or Flag.
Feb.			That the sense of smelling, with regard to agreeable and disagreeable, is very various in different persons, the experience of every day proves; but it appears more extraordinary, that there are certain odours, which whilst they seem powerful to the organs of one person are not at all perceptible by those of another, in whom the sense of smelling with respect to other substances is not less acute. We know no flower that illustrates this remark so well as the Persian Iris, which to some persons is so powerfully fragrant, that a single plant, when exposed to the rays of the sun, will sensibly perfume a whole apartment, and yet to many, perhaps to nearly an equal number, it is absolutely scentless; at the same time, odours supposed by the former to be much weaker are readily perceived by the latter, as we have repeatedly experienced.
1787.
		2	Rudbeckia purpurea.....Purple Rudbeckia.
		3	Helleborus hyemalis.....Winter Hellebore, or Aconite.
March	2	4	Cyclamen Coum.....Round-leaved Cyclamen.
		5	Erythronium Dens Canis. Dogs-tooth, or Dogs-tooth Violet.
		6	Narcissus minor.....Least Daffodil.

* Such an Enumeration as this, denoting the order and the time of publication, is not altogether useless, even to those who bind up their volumes in the same order; but to those who choose to arrange the work systematically, must be indispensable; for, when the numerical order is disturbed, without such a guide all reference to numbers becomes unintelligible. Another motive for giving it here has been, the opportunity it affords of correcting some errors, which in so extensive a work have unavoidably crept in, of adopting such changes in the nomenclature as have been made in the progress of the science, and of making some useful additions. It is proper to remark, that the names given in this Enumeration are either those which are in most use amongst Botanists of the first authority, particularly such as are adopted in the Hortus Kewensis and Willdenow's Species Plantarum, or those which have been necessarily changed as the genera have become better ascertained. Where these are different from those adopted at the time of publication the latter are repeated within brackets. With respect to the English names, those are here given which are in most general use, but without noting the changes made; the almost universal custom of using the Botanical names having rendered the English ones of less importance.

† To avoid confusion, we use the word Fasciculus, to denote the quantity published at one time: and when Number is referred to, it always means the number of the plate or the text accompanying it.

1.	3	7	Cynoglossum Omphalodes... Blue Navel-wort.
April		8	Helleborus niger Black Hellebore, or Christmas Rose.
		9	Iris pumila Dwarf Flag.
May	4	10	Anemone Hepatica Hepatica, or Noble Liver-wort
		11	Erica herbacea Herbaceous Heath.
		12	Dodecatheon Meadia Mead's Dodecatheon, or American Cowslip.
June	5	13	Coronilla glauca Sea-green or Day-smelling Coronilla.
		14	Primula villosa Mountain Primrose.
		15	Narcissus Jonquilla Common Jonquil.
		16	Iris variegata Variegated Flag.
July	6	17	Cactus flagelliformis Creeping Cereus.
		18	Erodium Chamædryoides Dwarf Crane's-bill. [Geranium Reichardi.]

It was after the publication of this number, that L'Heritier's Geraniologia first appeared, in which work that eminent Botanist divided the overgrown genus of Geranium into three, under the names of Erodium, Pelargonium, and Geranium, as had been before proposed by Prof. Burman. As this division, though not adopted by either Jussieu or Schreber, in their respective works on the Genera Plantarum, is at present, from the example and authority of the Hortus Kewensis, generally followed in this country and also on the continent, we shall here give the generic and specific characters of this plant from the latter work.

Generic Character.—Cal. 5-phyllus. Cor. 5-petala. Nect. squamulæ 5 cum filamentis alternantes; et glandulæ melliferæ basi staminum insidentes. Fructus 5-coccus, rostratus: rostra spiralia introrsum barbata.

Specific Character.—ERODIUM chamædryoides; subacaule, pedunculis unifloris; foliis cordatis obtusis crenatis. L'Herit. n. 31. t. 6. Hort. Kew. v. 2. p. 416.

August	7	19	Hemerocallis flava Yellow Day Lily.
--------	---	----	---

If the observation of Miss Ann Welch, recorded in the second volume of the Transactions of the Linnæan Society should be confirmed by future experience, there will remain no doubt but that this plant is a mere accidental variety of Hemerocallis fulva, No. 64, but we cannot believe but that there must have been some mistake.

		20	Pelargonium peltatum Ivy-leaved Crane's-bill. [Geranium peltatum.]
--	--	----	---

Another of L'Heritier's divisions of the old genus Geranium, containing most of the African species. This number should be corrected as follows:

Generic Character.—Cal. 5-partitus: lacinia suprema deficiente in tubulum-capillarem, nectariferum, secus pedunculum decurrentem. Cor. 5-petala, irregularis. Filam. 10, inæqualia: quorum 3 (raro 5) castrata. Fructus 5-coccus, rostratus: rostra spiralia, introrsum barbata.

Specific Character.—PELARGONIUM peltatum; umbellis paucifloris, quinquelobis integerrimis carnosis peltatis, ramis angulatis. L'Herit. n. 73. Hort. Kew. 2. p. 427.

		21	Iris versicolor Particoloured Flag.

		53	Cineraria lanata.....Woolly Cineraria.
		54	Anemone sylvestris.....Large white-flowered Wood Anemone.
August	19	55	Geranium striatum.....Streaked Crane's-bill, or La- dy's Needle-work.
		56	Pelargonium glaucum.....Spear-leaved Crane's-bill. [P. lanceolatum.]
Notwithstanding that Cavanille's name of lanceolatum was adopted in preference to that of glaucum, yet as this has not been followed by others, and the latter has been admitted to the Hortus Kewensis and Willdenow's Species Plantarum, we submit to such authorities. To the synonyms should be added, Geranium lanceolatum. Cavan. Diff. 4. p. 235. t. 102. f. 2. Diff. 5. p. 271.
		57	Papaver orientale.....Eastern Poppy.
Sept.	20	58	Iris spuria.....Spurious Flag.
		59	Mesembryanthemum bico- } lorum.....} Two-coloured Fig-Marigold.

		101	Alyffum maritimum Sweet Alyffum. [Alyffum halimifolium .] In this inftance Mr. Curtis has been led into an error by following an authority which will rarely indeed miflead, fuch is the extraordinary accuracy of the Hortus Kewenfis. This figure represents the Clypeola maritima of Linnæus; in Willdenow's edition of the Species Plantarum removed to the genus Alyffum , to which Linnæus obferves it might be joined, as it differs only in having toothlefs filaments. The fpecific character may remain as it is, but the fynonyms, except that of Hortus Kewenfis, fhould be cancelled and in their place added Willd. Spec. 			The quotation from Gerard, referring to the smell, belongs to Philadelphus coronarius , No. 391, which, both by him and Parkinson, is called Syringa , and this circumstance led to the mistake. Mr. Curtis's correction of this error, published soon after, being printed on a slip of paper, it is apprehended, may have been frequently neglected by the book-binders.

It is probable that the seeds of this plant, like those of Mustard, if buried to a certain depth in the ground, will remain for many years in a state fit for vegetation, when accident brings them near the surface. It is in this way that we account for what we have known repeatedly to happen, that this flower has appeared spontaneously in gardens, where no recollection of it remained, and it certainly had not been seen for many years.

210 Hemimeris linearis Linear-leaved Hemimeris.
[Celsia linearis.]

Misled by the authority of Jacquin, Curtis retained his name of Celsia to this plant, though not without remarking its disagreement with the character of that genus. Willdenow has added it to Hemimeris, with which it certainly corresponds better, yet we suspect it will be hereafter found to be distinct from both.

Generic Character.—Cal. 5-partitus. Cor. rotata, 5-lobata, inæqualis: lobis medio excavatis nectariferis, lacinia una majore obcordata. Filam. glabra. Antheræ cordatæ connatæ. Stigm. 1. Caps. 2-locularis loculo altero gibbosiore.

The whole fructification of our plant is so totally different, that we cannot conceive it to belong to the same genus, though it appears to be a congener of all the other species, figured by Prof. Thunberg, in the first volume of the Transactions of the Linnæan Society .

[Aletris capensis.]

As Linnæus framed his character of Aletris from the North-American species farinosa, of which this is not a congener, it was necessary to rename this plant, which has been done by Gleditsch in the Acta Berolinensia, 1771; and this alteration has been since adopted by Jacquin and Willdenow: but as some of the plants, referred to in this genus by these authors, differed in their seed-vessels as much from this, as this from Aletris, we were not hasty to adopt this change till we should have an opportunity of examining the seed-vessels of the different species. This has been since done by our friend and coadjutor Gawler (now J. B. Ker-Bellenden, Esq.) and the incongruous species formed into a new genus under the name of Tritoma. Vide Nos. 744, 758, & 764.

Generic Character.—Cor. tubulosa 6-dentata. Stam. tubo inserta. Caps. membranacea trialata loculis monospermis. GLED.

XV.			Soon after the publication of this number, the Editor received a letter, accompanied with living plants, from Mr. Jonathan Wilson, at Congleton, for which he is much obliged. Mr. Wilson apprehends that the figure here given does not belong to the Sedum "globulis decidentibus" of Morison, commonly known by the name of Hen and Chicken; and upon further examination we find that in this he is certainly right. We are convinced that two distinct species have been confounded in the Species Plantarum. The plant here given may however retain its present name, as it appears to be the same with Jacquin's and Haller's, but differs from that of Schmidel and Morison. Mr. Wilson remarks, that in order to make the latter flower, which it is very shy of doing, it is necessary to clear away all the surrounding plants, leaving only one or two in the centre of the pot; and, upon making the experiment, we found it readily succeed.

			Add the following Synonym.— Roella decurrens . Bot. Repof. 238, which was overlooked at the time; but the Roella decurrens of L'Heritier is quite a different plant, nor does this agree better with the genus Roella than with that of Campanula , though it has somewhat more of the habit of the former than of the latter. It is however certainly the Campanula capensis of Linnæus.
