P R E F A C E .

Upwards of seven years have elapsed since the publication of a "Detroit City Directory," which, it is believed, was the first, as well as the last, of the kind ever presented to the Public. This interval of time, though brief, has been an eventful one, not only to this community, but also to the citizens of the whole of these United States.

It will be recollected, by the most of our readers, that a short time after that scourge of Heaven, the cholera, disappeared, we were visited by another malady, viz: the mania of wild speculation, which affected alike, men of all classes, and, though not so fatal to human life, as the cholera, yet it threatened to sweep from our midst, with the resistless fury of a tornado, all that was morally good and estimable. Some of our own citizens, during this period, passed through a sea of trouble, realizing the vicissitudes of fortune, and learning by bitter experience, the truth of the holy writ, "They that will be rich, fall into temptation and a snare."

Though the growth of the City of Detroit, may have received a temporary check, from the effects of that spirit of wild speculation, already alluded to, yet we think its manifest improvement of late, and the increase of its trade and commerce, are such, as to demand for it "A correct Directory for the guidance of the resident inhabitant, the commercial visitor, or the enquiring emigrant and traveller."

Having ascertained that the above was the opinion of many of the most respectable citizens, by a liberal subscription list, in support of the work, the publisher commenced collecting and preparing his materials for the press, which, after about four months continued labor, he has, by a kind Providence, been enabled to bring to a close.

Of the manner in which he has acquitted himself in the discharge of his duty to his subscribers, they alone must be the judges. That it will be found to contain many errors and defects, he is fully sensible, and would here bespeak for himself, the patience and indulgence of his patrons, upon which he fears, he will have to make too large draughts.

The publisher would beg leave respectfully to add that in the beginning of his labors, he took for his guidance, a rule from an "Old Directory," the Bible, which commands him, "Whatsoever ye do, do it heartily, as to the Lord, and not unto men." In obedience to this beautiful and simple rule, and stimulated by a recollection of the liberal encouragement he met with from his subscribers, he believes he has endeavored to be faithful, and has spared, neither pains, nor labor, to present such a book, to his kind patrons, as will give no just cause of regret, for the trust they have reposed in him.

To those ladies and gentlemen, who so politely furnished him with such information, [as the furtherance of the work required, the publisher begs leave to return his grateful acknowledgements.

HISTORY OF DETROIT.

DETROIT CITY AND PORT OF ENTRY, Wayne county, and Capital of the State of Michigan, is situated on the west bank of the river Detroit, 18 miles above Lake Erie, 7 miles below the outlet of Lake St. Clair, 302 W. from Buffalo, and 545 from Washington, Lat. 42 degrees 19 minutes 53 seconds, North, and Lon. west, 82 deg. 58 sec. or from Washington west 5 deg. 56 min. 12 sec. Difference in time from Washington, 23 min. 44 seconds, New York city, 34 min. 48 sec.

The site of the city is an elevation of about thirty feet above the level of the river. The plan of the town, upon the river and for 1200 feet back is rectangular; in the rear of this triangular, the streets are from fifty to 200 feet wide. Four roads, constructed by the general government, terminate in the centre of the city; the Chicago, leading to Illinois; the Saginaw, to the head of Saginaw Bay; the Fort Gratiot, to the foot of Lake Huron, and the Grand River, to Lake Michigan at the mouth of Grand River. There is, also, a United States road leading from Detroit to Ohio.

Detroit River is about 25 miles long; average breadth, 1 1-10 mile; average depth, six fathoms; current, two miles an hour.

The climate of Detroit is temperate; snow falls at from six to eighteen inches deep, and never remains more than a few weeks. The transition from the cold of spring to the heat of summer is rapid; from summer to winter gradual and prolonged. As general characteristics, the spring is wet and prolonged; summer dry; autumn mild; winter cold and dry. The average temperature in the spring is 50 of Fahrenheit; summer, 80; winter, 20; autumn, 60 to 65.

The history of Detroit is connected with the principal events which have transpired in the Northwest since the settlement of the country. Founded in the strife for sovereignty between the English and French governments, it became at an early day, a point of central influence and action. "No place in the United States," it has been observed, "presents such a series of events, interesting in themselves, and permanently affecting as they occurred, its progress and prosperity. Five times its flag has been changed, three different sovereigns have claimed its allegiance, and since it has been held by the United States, its government has been thrice transferred; twice it has been besieged by the Indians, once captured in war, and once burnt to the ground."

The date, however, of the political existence of Michigan as a territory of the United States, is 1805. William Hull was appointed the first Governor, with a judiciary, and organized a government at Detroit, in July of that year. He found the town little more than a scene of ruins, having been recently destroyed by fire. Advantage was taken of this circumstance to widen the streets, and lay it out on an entirely new and enlarged plan. During the last war, Detroit fell into the hands of the enemy, in 1812. It was retaken by the American army in 1813, and the government of the territory re-organized late in the autumn of that year, by the appointment of Gen. Lewis Cass, as Governor. At this time the population was small, the resources few, and the people impoverished by the losses of the war.

With every natural facility of becoming a place of importance, the condition of Detroit, for many years, depended on the precarious support afforded by the fur trade, the disbursements of public moneys, while a military post, and the liberal appropriations by government for public objects. The impulse and effect produced by the settlement and cultivation of the surrounding country, was wanting. This, though recent in Michigan, is now commenced, and is rapidly increasing. The causes of prosperity, now in action, their results, we show here, as they have recently been manifested elsewhere.

The old town of Detroit occupied a site below or west of the centre of the present town; it was built entirely of wood, the streets were narrow, being economised to diminish the circuit of the stockade, by which it was secured. In June, 1805, the town was almost entirely consumed by fire. Shortly after this catastrophe, an act of Congress was passed directing the Governor and Judges, then exercising legislative powers, to lay out a new town, including the site of the one destroyed and ten thousand acres of adjacent land. The act directs that a lot should be granted to every owner or occupant of a house in the old town, and the proceeds of the remainder applied to the erection of a court house and jail. It is from this fund, thus accruing, that the present public buildings have been erected in this city. The trust arising under the act, it is believed, is not yet closed. The destruction of the old town was fortunate that it led to the adoption of a plan, better adapted to a city, such as Detroit is no doubt destined to become.

The City of Detroit was incorporated by an act, passed by the Governor and Judges, on the 4th day of October, 1815. By this act the municipal authority was invested in five trustees, a secretary, an assessor, a collector and a city marshal, who were to be chosen on the first day in May, annually, by the freeholders or householders of the city paying an annual rent of forty dollars, and such other persons, who should be admitted to the freedom of the corporation, by a majority of the electors at their annual meeting.

This act of incorporation was superseded in 1824, by a new charter from the legislative council; and which has since undergone so many amendments that but few, if any, of its original provisions remain. The charter election is now held on the First Monday of March. No property qualification is required to constitute a "freeman" of the city.

CHURCHES.

There are eleven Churches in Detroit : three Catholic, (besides one now building)—one Episcopalian—one Presbyterian—one Scotch Presbyterian—two Methodist—two Baptist, and one German Lutheran.

CATHEDRAL OF ST. ANNE.

This edifice stands in Larned street, between Bates and Randolph streets. It is built of hammered granite, of an excellent quality, and measures 116 feet by 60 feet in the clear. The style of the building is Roman Doric, finished in front with two steeples, ornamented with Iron crosses. On the centre of the roof is an octagonal dome, 30 feet high and 30 feet in diameter. The orchestra, situate immediately over the front door, contains one of the largest organs in the United States.

CHURCH OF THE HOLY TRINITY.

This church which is situate on Michigan Grand avenue, corner of Bates street, is a plain frame building with a steeple, measures 80 feet by 40 feet and is found to be too small for its present congregation.

ST. MARY'S CHURCH.

The Church of St. Mary stands on the corner of Croghan and St. Antoine streets. The erection of this building was commenced in 1841 and though not yet completed, it has been used for religious worship by the congregation since June, 1843. It is intended to finish the building by the addition of a belfry and steeple with the least possible delay. This edifice is a plain substantial brick building. Its extreme length is 125 feet by 60 feet wide. The Sanctuary is 30 feet wide by 25 feet long, octagon form; on each side of the sanctuary there is a vestry room, 15 feet square. The general style of the building is the Roman and Tuscan, and the whole of the interior is finished in the plainest manner.

ST. PETER'S CHURCH.

The site of the Church of St. Peter, is on the north side of Jefferson avenue, the corner of St. Antoine street. The corner stone of this capacious structure was laid on the 29th day of June, 1844. The Right Rev'd. P. P. Lefevere, Catholic Bishop of Detroit, officiating on the occasion. The building is to be of brick of a superior quality, 160 feet in length by 81 feet wide, the walls of which are already carried up several feet above the foundation. To the east of the Church and connecting therewith, is to be erected the Bishop's house with suitable offices. The entire range of buildings when completed will occupy one block from Jefferson avenue to Larned street abutting on St. Antoine street on the west.

PROTESTANT EPISCOPAL CHURCH.

SAINT PAUL'S CHURCH is situated in Woodward Avenue, between Larned and Congress streets. Its order of Architecture is Gothic. The body of the building is brick, and measures, exclusive of the vestry room, 90 feet by 50 feet. The front is flanked with a buttress at each angle, with two regular offsets, crowned and ornamented with a spiral roof, triangular caps, crockets and balls. The height of the buttress to the top of the spiral roof is 54 feet. The front entrance is a Gothic door, handsomely ornamented with two columns on each side, which group and meet in the centre of the arch above. On each side of the door is a Gothic window, ornamented with an architrave trefoil band. The tower to the top of the pinnacles is 115 feet in height, and 18 feet square at its base. It is composed of two sections—the first finished with a block cornice and battlement ballustrade; and the second section finished with a large cove cornice and castelated ballustrade. The pinnacles that finish the top of this section are two feet and a half square, and twenty-two feet high, crowned and ornamented with a spiral roof, triangular caps, crockets and balls. The flanks of the building contain five Gothic windows, each finished with a pannel ballustrade.—The inside contains three galleries—the pulpit and orchestra in the rear, and a superior organ with four stops. The galleries are supported with well finished quatrefoil columns.

The whole presents an imposing appearance, and reflects much credit on the architect.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

This Church is situated on Woodward avenue, at the corner of Larned street.

Its extreme length is one hundred feet. Length, exclusive of the portico, ninety feet. Breadth of the house, 60 feet. The general style of the house is Grecian. In front is a pediment, supported by six Doric columns, 24 feet in height. The house is built of brick, with two side galleries, a spacious orchestra, and a large Library room in the rear. The number of pews is a hundred and forty six. The pulpit, which is an open one, stands in the rear, and the orchestra in front.

The steeple is a hundred and thirty feet in height, and consists of three sections—a base, a belfrey, and a dial section, with a spire thirty feet in height. Cost of the house, exclusive of the land, $25,000. This edifice is deemed one of the best churches in the Western States; and by those who have seen the inside, the beauty and finish of the building have been often noticed. It is arched, and the arch is divided into four panels, enclosing a quadrangle, which overhangs the centre of the floor. The quadrangle is ornamented with two elegant centre pieces, from each of which is suspended a bronzed chandelier.

SCOTCH PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

This Church is situate on the corner of Bates and Farmer streets. It is a new frame building, 71 feet long by 41 wide, and was opened, for religious worship, October, 1844.

FIRST METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH.

The First Methodist Episcopal Church is situated on Woodward avenue, corner of Congress street. It is a neat, plain edifice, but, being found too small for the congregation, a second Methodist Episcopal Church, of Detroit, has been organized, who meet for worship, at the United States Court Room, or elsewhere, until a suitable building can be erected for their accommodation.

COLORED M. E. CHURCH.

This building is a small frame, formerly belonging to the city, which was liberally presented to the above congregation, and is at present located on Fort, west of Beaubien st.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH.

The First Baptist Church stands on an elevated site at the corner of Fort and Griswold streets. It is plain, substantial and well proportioned brick building, 70 feet in length and 50 feet in width, with a steeple and dome of considerable architectural beauty. The general style of the building is Ionic. The steeple is divided into three sections, a base, a belfry and a dial—the first is square, the second is part octagon, suspended on the corner by pilasters, recessed back on the sides, and supported by fluted Ionic columns; and the third is octagon supported by pilasters. Each section is encompassed by an open balustrade, supported by a pedestal on the angles, and capped with a handsome urn. The whole is crowned with a magnificent dome, the top of which is 100 feet from the ground. Three doors in front form the entrance. The interior contains a spacious gallery, a pulpit, and 68 pews on the first floor. The pulpit, which is an open one, is supported by Ionic columns, having semi circular stairs, ascending on both sides, and is thrown back into the hall by an arched niche, standing between the two doors leading from the hall into the Church. The ceiling is an elliptic arch, with a large sunk panel, in the centre of which there is a centre for suspending a chandelier.

AMERICAN BAPTIST CHURCH.

This a neat frame building, standing on Fort street, between Beaubien and St. Antoine streets, and was built by the voluntary contributions of the citizens generally. The Church and congregation assembling there, by the help of their friends, have since raised the building and fitted up the basement, where they have an excellent day school, under the supervision of the Board of Education, taught by the minister, Elder Wm. Munroe.

GERMAN LUTHERAN CHURCH.

This Church is situated on Monroe Avenue, the corner of Farrar street. It is now about seven years since it was erected. It is a plain, handsome, wood building, 50 feet long and 35 feet wide. It was erected by subscription, to which the citizens of every denomination liberally and cheerfully contributed.

PUBLIC BUILDINGS, &c.

THE STATE HOUSE,

Was originally built for the District Court of the United States, and the Legislative Council of the Territory, is of brick, and measures 90 feet by 60 feet. The general style of this building is Ionic. In front is a portico supported by six columns. The entablature on the sides is supported by pilasters. The steeple is crowned with a dome and is about 140 feet high. The basement story is divided into offices for the officers of the State government. The first floor contains the Hall of the House of Representatives, Governor's room, library, and office of the clerk of the House of Representatives. On the second floor is the Senate Chamber, office of the Clerk of the Senate and the Committee Rooms of both Houses.

 THE STATE BUILDING,

GRISWOLD STREET.

This edifice, sometime known as the Detroit Female Seminary, now belongs to the State of Michigan, and is occupied by the offices of the Auditor General, State Treasurer, Board of Internal Improvement, &c. The Court of Chancery, and the Supreme Court, also, hold their Courts in this building.

It is a plain, substantial brick building, 56 feet in front, by 40 deep, situated on a rise of ground in Griswold street, in one of the pleasantest parts of the city.

 WAYNE COUNTY BUILDING,

CORNER GRISWOLD AND CONGRESS STREETS.

This is a new, substantial, two story brick building, 32 feet in front, by 80 feet deep, erected in 1844, and expected to be finished the ensuing spring. The first story is to be occupied as offices, by the different County Officers, and the second story contains a Court Room, 50 feet long by 30 feet wide, with a Jury Room and Grand Jury Room. The contractors for this building are Messrs. Jackson & Perry, of this city.

 THE CITY HALL,

Is a two story brick building with hammered stone basement, and is 100 feet long and fifty feet in width. The height of the first story is 16 feet, and from the base to the top of the cornice, 36 feet—on the front of the roof there is a handsome cupola. The principal entrance is from the public square. The first story is occupied by the city market and clerk's office—and the second story is a spacious Hall. The building was erected in the year 1835, and cost about $20,000.

UNITED STATES BUILDING,

JEFFERSON AVENUE, CORNER GRISWOLD STREET.

This edifice was erected in 1837, by the late Bank of Michigan, and bought at auction for the United States, the 12th of December, 1842, for the sum of $32,000.

It is a handsome building, 57 feet by 40 feet square; the architecture is of the chaste Grecian style, the two fronts being composed of polished stone.

It has two full stories and a basement. The basement is occupied as the Post Office. The main, or first story, is occupied as the United States Court Room and Marshal's Office, the second story is occupied as offices for District Judge, Attorney, Clerk, and a Jury Room. The Court Room is capacious, the ceiling 17 feet high.

The building was erected under the direction of Mr. Charles Lum, of this city.

WATER.

The city is supplied with water from the Detroit river by means of a hydraulic establishment, erected on Atwater street, in the southeast part of the city. These works were so far finished as to come into operation in May, 1841.

The tank, or reservoir, which contains the water, is of cast iron, 60 feet diameter, and 20 feet deep, secured with strong iron bands, bolts and rivets, enclosed with a frame building, 65 feet diameter, 24 feet high, conical roof, and supported by a circular brick building, 62 feet diameter, at an elevation of 47 feet from its foundation. This tank is supplied daily by means of a steam engine, the pump of which is fixed 7 feet below the surface of the river and is found fully adequate to furnish an abundant supply of pure and wholesome water to the whole city.

Connected with these works, there are laid down 4 miles of iron pipe, 10 miles of tamarick logs and 50 fire plugs, or hydrants, at an expense to the city, for the whole, of about $120,000.

The plan of these works was designed by, and executed under the direction of, Mr. Noah Sutton, of this city.

MUSEUM, OR CABINET OF CURIOSITIES,

BY DR. CAVALLI,

Franklin street, east of St. Antoine street.

The above named gentleman, who is a member of the National Institute, having made the tour of Europe and Egypt, has collected, at considerable labor and expense a cabinet of ancient curiosities, rich and rare, and though intended for a private museum only, he has with unexampled liberality, made it "public and free."

In this notice we have neither space, nor ability, to do any thing like justice to this exhibition, which, with our limited knowledge of such matters, we believe we may pronounce to be unique in this western world, and if we should be so happy as to rescue our worthy friend, the Doctor, and his Museum, from their undeserved obscurity, we think we shall have "done the state some service."

Among the catalogue of contents, may be found, 600 specimens of Minerals, Rocks and Petrifications of Organic Remains, Shells and Bivalves, Birds, &c., of Michigan, Roman and Chinese Antiquities, Works of Art, Engravings, Medals, Books, &c.

MARKETS.

There are three Markets, the City Market, on the first floor of the City Hall, the Berthelet, at the corner of Randolph and Woodbridge streets, and the Washington Market, corner of Wayne and Larned streets. The two former only are occupied as Markets, at present; these are kept in good order by the Inspector of Provisions, and well supplied with every thing that can be desired, at similar places. There is a great variety of vegetables and fruit in season, and also of fish, the latter of which is found in great abundance, in the river, all of which are to be had in the Fruit Market adjacent, which is now covered in, and enclosed with a strong fence.

FIRE COMPANIES.

There are four Fire Companies in the city, provided with as many Engines, named and numbered as follows :

WOLVERINE FIRE COMP. No. 3—Engine house, Randolph st, near Berthelet Market.

LAFAYETTE FIRE COMP. No. 4—Engine house cor Wayne and Larned sts.

Of the importance and benefit of these companies to the city, the inhabitants have often had abundant evidence. The promptitude with which those companies obey the call, when an alarm of fire is given, is proverbial among us; and the zeal and devotion with which they sometimes risk their own lives, for the preservation of the lives and property of their fellow citizens, is beyond all praise.

UNIVERSITY OF MICHIGAN AND BRANCHES, PRIMARY SCHOOLS, &c.

By an Act of Congress, approved May 20, 1826, two townships of land, equal to 46,080 acres, were granted to Michigan, for the endowment of a University. The legislature caused these lands to be judiciously selected, in different parts of the state, agreeably to the terms of the grant, in quantities not less than one section in one body. These lands were first offered for sale in July, 1837, at a minimum price of $20 per acre; this minimum has been reduced to $12 per acre. The sales to the 30th November, 1844, have been 14,883 60-100 acres, amounting to $174,307 25. By a provision of the constitution of Michigan, this principal shall be and forever remain a permanent fund, the interest thereon to be applied for the support of the University and its branches.

By an organic law of the legislature, the government of the University, and Branches, is intrusted to twelve Regents, who are appointed by the Governor, with the advice and consent of the Senate, and said board of Regents are declared a body corporate. The Governor, the Lieutenant Governor, the Judges of the Supreme Court and Chancellor, are also, ex-officio, members of the board of Regents, but are not members of said corporation. Several Branches of the University have been located, from time to time, in different counties, and appropriations made in aid of their support. From the last annual report of the Regents, there appears to have been, on the 30th November, 1844, 298 pupils under instruction, 111 of whom are classical, preparing for admission to the University.

University buildings have been erected, upon the site, at Ann Arbor, designated by an act of the legislature, at a cost of about $50,000, additional buildings are contemplated, as soon as the finances of the board will warrant the expenditure.

Five professors have been appointed, three of whom, with a professor, ad interim, of Geology, Chemistry, &c., and a tutor in the department of the languages, &c., are now in attendance, engaged in their appropriate duties, and have a specific salary. There are, by the report above mentioned, 52 students in the University, arranged in four classes.

As the University was not organized until September, 1841, the first class will graduate in September, 1845, after which a class will, graduate annually.

The number of students, in the University, has uniformly increased, from year to year, and (as far as the finances, arising from the interest, will admit) further aid will be extended to other branches, which have not been organised, or to those, which, although heretofore organized, appropriations have been necessarily suspended.

The course of studies in the University is thorough, and intended to afford opportunity for a most liberal education.

No tuition money is charged, beyond an entrance fee of $10, for instruction in the University, the liberal appropriation by Congress, being deemed a fund, the interest of which, will defray all expenses, incident to this department of instruction.

The flattering condition of this institution, as well as the excellent regulations, enacted relative to our Common School system, affords cause for congratulation to the citizens of our growing commonwealth. And while we boast of the unsurpassed beauty, and fertility of our soil, and natural productions, it will, also, be perceived, that the freemen of Michigan are not insensible to the greater, and more excellent advantages, resulting from the cultivation of the mind.

DISTRICT SCHOOLS.

In the beginning of the year 1842, an Act passed the legislature of Michigan, forming the city of Detroit into one school district, and providing for the election of twelve school Inspectors, who, together with the Mayor, and Recorder, of said city, (the two latter being declared to be ex-officio school inspectors) were constituted a body corporate, by the name and style of "The Board of Education of the City of Detroit."

The act of the legislature authorizes the Common Council, once in each year, to assess and levy a tax, on all the real and personal property, within said city, not to exceed one dollar, for every child, between the ages of five and seventeen years, towards the support of said schools, to be public and free, to all children, residing within the limits of the city, between the ages of five and seventeen years, inclusive.

The Board have, at present, ten public schools, under their supervision, located in different parts of the city, which are kept open the whole year.

The greatest number of scholars registered, in the books of the several teachers, in actual attendance, during any one quarter of 1844, was 1132.

The total number of children from four to eighteen, according to the school census of 1844, is 3821.

The amount received, from the State School Fund, in 1844, was $1253 70.

The amount of said tax for 1844, was $2578.

ST. VINCENT'S SEMINARY,

Corner of Larned and Randolph Streets.

Besides the Free Schools of the city, supported by law, there are nearly two hundred children instructed, daily, in the useful branches of education at the above Catholic Seminary, taught by the Sisters of Charity, not more than 20 or 30 of whom pay for their tuition.

In addition to the Public and Free Schools, there are a number of Select Schools established in different parts of the city, kept by teachers, whose qualifications are of a high order.

The Branch of the University in the city, has been suspended, it is believed, from a diminution of the revenue, applicable to its support.

CENTRAL RAILROAD.

The above Railroad commenced operation, A. D. 1836, when called the Detroit and St. Joseph Railroad, and owned by that company, but in the year 1837, was transferred to the State of Michigan, since which time it has been known as the Central Railroad.

Its present western termination is at Marshall, distance from Detroit, 110 miles, and 36 miles more nearly ready for the iron. It is under the direction of the Board of Internal Improvement, of which O. C. Comstock, Jun., is President.

There is a line of Passenger Cars, each way, daily, Sundays excepted, from Detroit to Marshall. Fare, through, $3,50. Leaves Detroit and Marshall at half past 7 o'clock, A. M.

The office of Internal Improvement is in the State Building, Griswold street.

PONTIAC AND DETROIT RAILROAD COMPANY.

G. WILLIAMS, President.

The above Railroad was completed to Pontiac, and opened to the public, the 4th of July, 1843.

 FIRE REGULATIONS FOR THE BETTER SECURITY OF BUILDINGS.

The following is a copy of the Fire Regulations, of the city of Detroit, for the better security of buildings, taken from the laws of the City Council, and published the beginning of the present winter, by the Chief Fire Warden.

Of the necessity of some such regulations as the following, in a city like Detroit, no one, who has witnessed the disastrous effects of accidental fire, can for one moment doubt, and we would respectfully suggest to the occupant of every building in the city, the importance of a strict observance of these precautionary rules, a due regard to which, might, under Divine Providence, often prevent accidents by fire. It should also be remembered that neglect to attend to the regulations of the city authorities, in regard to accidents by fire, involves a forfeiture of the amount of the policy of insurance, in case of loss by fire of the insured.

From the laws of the Common Council.

1. No ashes can be kept in a wooden vessel, within ten feet of any building, fence, or wooden structure; nor in a metal or earthen vessel, unless it is covered.

2. Every stove pipe must be close jointed. It must enter a chimney of brick or stone, and be made close where it enters. Where it passes through a partition of wood, it must be through a crock of earthen or stone, or some non-conductor of heat.

3. The floor under every stove must be covered by a board, faced with iron, zinc or tin, with a space under the stove of eight inches ; or by a box filled with brick, sand or clay, three inches thick from the floor. The stove must be free from dangerous cracks or openings, and properly fitted with doors. Wood within twelve inches of any stove or fire must be protected by a covering of metal or plastering, and no wood, protected by metal, must be nearer than eight inches.

4. The floor under stoves standing in shops where shavings or wood chippings are made, must be protected by a box filled with brick, sand or clay, five inches high from the floor, and for six inches outside the bottom of the stove.

5. All stove pipe holes, openings and cracks in chimneys, must be closed by a sheet of metal, or brick and mortar.

6. Blacksmith's chimneys must be constructed to prevent the escape of sparks, and the side of the building contiguous to the forge, for the space of six feet long and up to the roof, and on the inside of the roof over the forge for the space of fourteen feet square, must be plastered.

7. Wooden fire boards must be covered on the bottom of the inside with a strip of sheet iron, tin or zinc, at least six inches wide.

8. Every occupant of a tenement, whose premises are found on examination by a Fire Warden, one week after receiving this Notice, not in conformity with the above requisitions, will be subjected to the fine and costs imposed by law.

The occupant is requested to preserve and refer to this notice.

M. F. DICKINSON, Chief Warden.

CASTINGS OF EVERY DESCRIPTION,

Steam Engines, saw mill irons, mill gearing of every description, water wheels, pile drivers, screws, lathes, rail road work, threshing machines, horse powers, ploughs, cast iron bathing tubs, stoves of all kinds. Also, Mott's patent agriculturists' furnace or

DAIRY STOVE,

Different sizes, from 15 to 50 gallons.

This article was constructed in consequence of a suggestion from the American Institute, that a simple, portable and low priced furnace was much wanted by farmers for boiling and steaming food, preparing maple or beet root sugar, and for many mechanical purposes.

It is a boiler or Caldron, set in an iron stove or furnace, so formed that a space of from one to two inches is left between the boiler and the iron casing, causing the heat in its passage to encircle all parts of the boiler, even to its upper edge. They are used with a short pipe, the same as an ordinary stove and should be furnished with a common wooden cover to facilitate the boiling.

The outside casing being made in sections insures durability. Of the many hundreds sold, the proprietor has not heard of one that has broken in use.
