The answer to this charge is twofold: first, it is averred that the matters complained of are not rites or ceremonies; secondly, that if they fall within either category they are not "other than or additional to" those prescribed in the Book of Common Prayer, in the sense of being at variance with or repugnant to them, forasmuch as they are in accordance with and subsidiary to them.

Under the first position they maintain that the terms "rites and ceremonies" mean an entire service, such as Masses for the Dead, or services for particular festivals; or customs, such as creeping to the Cross, and the like, which were abolished at the time of the Reformation.

That the elevation of the Blessed Sacrament, excessive kneeling, the use of incense, the mixing water with the wine, the lighting of candles, are elements or ingredients of a rite or ceremony, and not a rite or a ceremony per se.

The terms rite and ceremony, as used in the first Prayer Book, and from thence imported into our present Prayer Book, are terms, so to speak, of ecclesiastical and ritual art, and must be construed with reference to their use in contemporaneous and other works of writers upon ritual, unless they receive a different meaning from a comparison of other passages or parts in the Prayer Book or Statute in which they are found.

I must, therefore, refer at length to the preface in our Prayer Book, entitled,—

"Of rites and ceremonies.

"Of such ceremonies as be used in the Church, and have had their beginning by the institution of man, some at the first were of godly intent and purpose devised, and yet at length turned to vanity and superstition; some entered into the Church by indiscreet devotion, and such a zeal as was without knowledge; and for because they were winked at in the beginning, they grew daily to more and more abuses, which not only for their unprofitableness, but also because they have much blinded the people, and obscured the glory of God, are worthy to be cut away, and clean rejected: other there be, which although they have been devised by man, yet it is thought good to reserve them still, as well for a decent order in the Church (for the which they were first devised), as because they pertain to edification, whereunto all things done in the Church (as the Apostle teacheth) ought to be referred."

"But now as concerning those persons, which peradventure will be offended, for that some of the old ceremonies are retained still: If they consider that without some ceremonies it is not possible to keep any order, or quiet discipline in the Church, they shall easily perceive just cause to reform their judgements. And if they think much, that any of the old do remain, and would rather have all devised anew: then such men granting some ceremonies convenient to be had, surely where the old may be well used, there they cannot reasonably reprove the old only for their age, without bewraying of their own folly. For in such a case they ought rather to have reverence unto them for their antiquity, if they will declare themselves to be more studious of unity and concord, than of innovations and new fangleness, which (as much as may be with true setting forth of Christ's religion) is always to be eschewed. Furthermore, such shall have no just cause with the ceremonies reserved to be offended. For as those be taken away which were most abused, and did burden men's consciences without any cause: so the other that remain, are retained for a discipline and order, which (upon just causes) may be altered and changed, and therefore are not to be esteemed equal with God's law. And moreover, they be neither dark nor dumb ceremonies, but are so set forth, that every man may understand what they do mean, and to what use they do serve. So that it is not like that they in time to come should be abused as other have been. And in these our doings we condemn no other nations, nor prescribe anything but to our own people only: for we think it convenient that every country should use such ceremonies as they shall think best to the setting forth of God's honour and glory, and to the reducing of the people to a most perfect and godly living, without error or superstition; and that they should put away other things, which from time to time they perceive to be most abused, as in men's ordinances it often chanceth diversely in divers countries."

"Some are put away, because the great excess and multitude of them hath so increased in these latter days, that the burden of them was intolerable; whereof Saint Augustine in his time complained, that they were grown to such a number, that the estate of Christian people was in worse case concerning that matter, than were the Jews. And he counselled that such yoke and burden should be taken away, as time would serve quietly to do it. But what would Saint Augustine have said, if he had seen the ceremonies of late days used among us; whereunto the multitude used in his time was not to be compared? This our excessive multitude of ceremonies was so great, and many of them so dark, that they did more confound and darken, than declare and set forth Christ's benefits unto us. And besides this, Christ's Gospel is not a ceremonial law (as much of Moses' law was), but it is a religion to serve God, not in bondage of the figure or shadow, but in the freedom of the spirit; being content only with those ceremonies which do serve to a decent order and godly discipline, and such as be apt to stir up the dull mind of man to the remembrance of his duty to God, by some notable and special signification, whereby he might be edified. Furthermore, the most weighty cause of the abolishment of certain ceremonies was, that they were so far abused, partly by the superstitious blindness of the rude and unlearned, and partly by the unsatiable avarice of such as sought more their own lucre than the glory of God, that the abuses could not well be taken away, the thing remaining still."

"And whereas in this our time, the minds of men are so diverse, that some think it a great matter of conscience to depart from a piece of the least of their ceremonies, they be so addicted to their “ old customs; and again on the other side, some be so new-fangled, that they would innovate all things, and so despise the old, that nothing can like them, but that is new; it was thought expedient, not so much to have respect how to please and satisfy either of these parties, as how to please God, and profit them both. And yet lest any man should be offended, whom good reason might satisfy, here be certain causes rendered, why some of the accustomed ceremonies be put away, and some retained and kept still.”

“ And although the keeping or omitting of a ceremony, in itself considered, is but a small thing; yet the wilful and contemptuous transgression and breaking of a common order and discipline is no small offence before God, Let all things be done among you, saith Saint Paul, in a seemly and due order: the appointment of the which order pertaineth not to private men; therefore no man ought to take in hand, nor presume to appoint or alter any publick or common order in Christ's Church, except he be lawfully called and authorized thereunto.”

Perhaps it would be difficult to deduce from this language any certain conclusion as to the precise sense, in which the terms Rites and Ceremonies are used.

In the first Prayer Book, at the close of the dissertation, which is at the end of the services, “ Of ceremonies, why some be abolished and some retained,” are “ certain notes for the more explication and decent ministration of things contained in this book,” one “ note ” is “ as touching kneeling, crossing, holding up of hands, knocking upon the breast, and other gestures, they may be used or left as every man's devotion serveth without blame.”

This note does not appear in the subsequent Prayer Books, but, nevertheless, at the Hampton Court conference in the year 1604, the Bishop of Winchester, replying to the objections made by the Puritans to the use of the Cross in baptism and ceremonies generally, said,—

“ In prayer, the kneeling on the ground, the lifting up of our hands, the knocking of our breasts, are ceremonies significant: the first, of our humility coming before the mighty God; the second, of our confidence and hope; the other, of our sorrow and detestation of our sins; and these are and may lawfully be used.”

“ Mr. Dean of the Chapel remembered the practice of the Jews, who, unto the institution of the Passeeover, prescribed unto them by Moses, had, as the rabbins witness, added both signes and words, eating soure herbs, and drinking wine, with these words to both; ‘ Take, and eat these in remembrance,’ &c.; ‘ Drink this in remembrance,’ &c. Upon which addition and tradition of theirs, our Saviour instituted the Sacrament of his last Supper, in celebrating it with the same words and after the same manner; thereby approving that fact of theirs in particular, and generally, that a Church may institute and retain a signe significant,” which, says the reporter of the conference, satisfied His Majesty exceeding well.—(Cardwell; Conferences on the Book of Common Prayer, p. 197.)

These gestures appear to me to have been considered as ceremonies wisely left to every man's discretion.

In the first “ order of the Communion ” which preceded the first Prayer Book the Rubric says, “ The time of the Communion shall be immediately after that the Priest himself hath received the Sacrament, without the varying of any other rite or ceremony in the Mass (until other order shall be provided), but, as heretofore, usually the Priest has done with the Sacrament of the Body,” &c.

Here, again, rite and ceremony seem to be used for elements or portions of a service.

Let us consider the construction put upon the Latin terms (from which, of course, the English terms are borrowed) ritus et ceremoniæ by high Latin authorities.

Bona (Opera Omnia, p. 562), writing, De Disciplina psallendi, § III., says,

Ceremoniæ quid sint, et quæ hujus nominis origo. Earum efficacia, et utilitas ad divinum cultum. Veræ a falsis, et superstitionis discernendæ. Exteriores ceremonias sine interno spiritu parum prodesse.

“ . . . . Sunt autem ceremoniæ; si propriè loqui velimus, ritus sancti in sacrificiis, et divinis officiis ad Dei cultum adhibiti: sed migravit vocabulum in usus etiam profanos; nam cum homines instituisent sibi invicem inclinare, genua flectere, manus osculari: hæ et aliæ honoris exhibitiones, cum proprio nomine carerent, ceptæ sunt etiam ceremoniæ dici.”

Van Espen (Jus Eccles. Universum, p. 410, t. v., cap. 1, de celebratione Missarum) speaking of the celebration of the Eucharist, says: “ Certum tamen est ipsum apostolis suis, totique Ecclesiæ, in eorum personâ, potestatem auctorita temque dedisse ea omnia in augustissimi hujus mysterii ritibus seu ceremoniis addendi, demendi, immutandi quæ illius dignitati et populorum devotioni pro temporum et locorum diversitate magis congruere judicarent.”

Here, ritus and ceremoniæ are not separate services, but certain ingredients or accompaniments of one service, that of the Eucharist.

Gavanto (Vol. 1. p. 3. ed. 1823, Venice), a great Roman ritualist, says, that Bona and Suarez both define ceremonia as “ actio religiosa ad cultum et decentiam sacrificii ab ecclesiâ instituta.”

He quotes Quarti's opinion as follows:

“ Procedit Quarti ad dividendas ceremonias in eas, quæ sunt intrinsecæ ipsi missæ, et partes ejusdem, et consistunt, dicit ipse, tum in verbis, tum in gestibus celebrantis, de quibus late Suarez, disp. 83 et 84, et in eas, quæ sunt circumstantiæ extrinsecæ ejusdem sacrificii, ut locus, tempus, vasa, et vestimenta sacra, &c. Dicit præterea, quod illæ ceremoniæ, quæ consistunt in gestibus, quædam inductæ sunt propter decentiam operandi, nec habent aliam significationem, ex. gr. quod sacerdos dum signat seipsum, ponit sinistram sub pectore; et aliæ inductæ sunt propter significationem moralem, vel mysticam, verb. grat. mixtio aquæ cum vino,” (observe these words,) digitorum ablutio, crucis signa, de quibus Divus Thomas 3 part. quæst. 83, artic. 4, § 5.

“ Verum, pace tanti viri, ego distinguerem ceremoniam sacram a ritu, dicendo, ritus sacros consistere in illis precibus, epistola, evangelio, &c., quæ juxta ecclesiæ dispositionem recitari debent in missâ; ceremoniam autem consistere in solis gestibus, quibus prædictæ preces juxta ejusdem ecclesiæ præscriptum peragi debent ad majorem ornatum, et decentiam sacrificii, quod celebratur; et revera

“ Cæremonialia, seu libros cæremoniarum vocamus illos, qui non orationes et preces dicendas præscribunt, sed modum, quo illæ dicendæ sunt; e contra Rituales nuncupamus illos, qui continent preces, seu alias orationes, quas recitandas præscribunt,
 “ Ritus, quoniam in verbis regulariter consistunt, vel sunt partes missæ ordinariæ, quia scilicet semper ingrediuntur ejus compositionem; vel sunt extraordinariæ, sive mobiles, quia non semper ejus compositionem ingrediuntur, sed ad majorem quandoque adduntur solemnitatem, atque ornatum.”

(Gavanto, Thesaurus Sacrorum Rituum, Vol. I., p. 4. Pars I., in Rubricâ Generali.)

The Council of Trent, in the 22d session, the 5th chapter, “De Missæ Cæremoniis et Ritibus,” speaks as follows:

“ Quumque natura hominum ea sit, ut non facile queat sine adminiculis exterioribus ad rerum divinarum meditationem sustolli, propterea pia mater ecclesia ritus quosdam ut scilicet quædam submissa voce alia vero elatiore in missâ pronuncierentur, instituit, cæremonias item adhibuit; ut” (these are the instances of ceremonies) “mysticas benedictiones, lumina, thymiamata, vestes, aliaque id genus multa ex apostolicâ disciplinâ et traditione, quo et majestas tanti sacrificii commenderetur, et mentes fidelium per hæc visibilia religionis et pietatis signa ad rerum altissimarum, quæ in hoc sacrificio latent, contemplationem excitarèntur.”

Whatever authority this passage may have, it would appear to include under the title Cæremoniæ, among other things, the use of lights, of incense, and of vestments.

There is no doubt that the terms Rites and Ceremonies are sometimes used in the sense contended for by the Defendants; but on the whole, the result of this examination of authorities leads me to the conclusion that there is a legal distinction between a Rite and a Ceremony; the former consisting in services expressed in words, the latter in gestures or acts preceding, accompanying, or following the utterance of these words.

Applying this principle to the charges before me, I am of opinion, that the matters complained of must be considered in law as ceremonies.

Before I proceed to consider the greater question, whether they are ceremonies forbidden by the ecclesiastical law of England, and more especially by that part of it which consists of the provisions of the Prayer Book and the Statute of Uniformity, I think it right to draw attention to the judgement of the Church Universal, and especially of “that pure and apostolical branch of it established in this realm” upon the general subject of ceremonies.

And from that judgement it will, I think, appear that an essential distinction is drawn between those which are from their origin immutable, and those which it is competent to the proper authorities to mould according to the varying necessities and exigencies of each particular Church.

The only orders given in the New Testament with respect to the ritual of the Church are of the most general kind, and are to be found in the following passages: Saint Paul in his first epistle to the Corinthians directs,

πάντα πρὸς οἰκοδομὴν γενέσθω

and again,

πάντα εὐσχημόνως καὶ κατὰ τάξιν γενέσθω which we render,

“ Let all things be done to edification,” and

“ Let all things be done decently and in order.”

Saint Augustine, whose authority our Church so highly regards, observes, (Ep. 36, tom. ii. p. 101,) “In his rebus de quibus nihil certi statuit Scriptura Divina, mos populi Dei vel instituta majorum pro lege tenenda sunt.”

And St. Jerome, to whom our articles refer, says (Ep. xxviii ad Lucinium Bæticum), “Ego illud te breviter admoneri dum putot raditiones ecclesiasticas præsertim” (remark the caution) “quæ fidei non officiant ita observandas ut a majoribus traditæ sunt: nec aliorum consuetudinem aliorum contrario more subverti. Sed unaquæque provincia abundet in suo sensu, et præcepta majorum leges apostolicos arbitretur.”

When Augustine, the missionary of Gregory the Great (to whom this country is so much indebted), found the ancient British Churches in possession of a ritual in accordance with the Gallicanus and that of the Eastern Church, he became perplexed what course to pursue, and wrote for advice on the subject to the Pope. From our old historian Bede we learn how wise an answer he received:

(Beda, Hist. i. 27, II. Interrogatio Augustini) “Cum una sit fides,” wrote Augustine, “cur sunt ecclesiarum diversæ consuetudines, et altera consuetudo missarum in sanctâ Romanâ ecclesiâ, atque altera in Galliarum tenetur? Respondit Gregorius Papa. Novit fraternitas tua Romanæ ecclesiæ consuetudinem, in qua se meminit nutritam. Sed mihi placet, sive in Romanâ, sive in Galliarum; seu in qualibet ecclesiâ aliquid invenisti quod plus Omnipotenti Deo possit placere, sollicitè eligas, et in Anglorum ecclesiâ, quæ adhuc ad fidem nova est, institutione præcipua, quæ de multis ecclesiis colligere potuisti, infundas. Non enim pro locis res, sed pro bonis rebus loc amanda sunt. Ex singulis ergo quibusque ecclesiis, quæ pia, quæ religiosa, quæ recta sunt elige, et hæc, quasi in fasciculum collecta, apud Anglorum mentes in consuetudinem depone.”

According to a later historian of our Church, the learned Field, Dean of Gloucester:

“Ceremonies are outward acts of religion, having institution, either from the instinct of nature, as the lifting up of the hands and eyes to heaven, the bowing of the knee, the striking of the breast, and such like; or immediately from God, as the sacraments; or from the Church’s prescription: and either only serve to express such spiritual and heavenly affections, dispositions, motions, and

“ desires as are or should be in men; or else to signify, assure, and convey unto them such benefits of saving grace as God in Christ is pleased to bestow on them. To the former purpose and end the Church hath power to ordain ceremonies; to the later, God only.” (Field, of the Church, Vol. II., p. 527.)

And Burnet in his History of the Reformation (Ed. Pocock, Vol. II., p. 155), expressing himself with greater accuracy than usual, in speaking of the use of a ceremony in relation to the belief of the Church, says, “ This seems more necessary to be well explained, by reason of the scruples that many have since raised against significant ceremonies, as if it were too great a presumption in any Church to appoint such, since these seem to be of the nature of sacraments. Ceremonies that signify the conveyance of a Divine grace and virtue are indeed sacraments, and ought not to be used without an express institution in Scripture; but ceremonies that only signify the sense we have, which is sometimes expressed as significantly in dumb shows as in words, are of another kind; and it is as much within the power of the Church to appoint such to be used, as it is to order collects and prayers, words and signs being but different ways of expressing our thoughts.”

The language of our Church in her articles on this subject is expressed as follows: In Article XX.—

“ Of the Authority of the Church.

“ The Church hath power to decree rites and ceremonies, and authority in controversies of faith: And yet it is not lawful for the Church to ordain anything that is contrary to God’s Word written, neither may it so expound one place of Scripture, that it be repugnant to another. Wherefore, although the Church be a witness and a keeper of Holy Writ, yet, as it ought not to decree anything against the same, so besides the same ought it not to enforce anything to be believed for necessity of salvation.”

And in the XXXIVth Article,—

“ Of the Traditions of the Church.

“ It is not necessary that traditions and ceremonies be in all places one, or utterly like, for at all times they have been divers, and may be changed according to the diversities of countries, times, and men’s manners, so that nothing be ordained against God’s Word. Whosoever through his private judgment, willingly and purposely, doth openly break the traditions and ceremonies of the Church, which be not repugnant to the Word of God, and be ordained and approved by common authority, ought to be rebuked openly (that others may fear to do the like), as he that offendeth against the common order of the Church, and hurteth the authority of the magistrate, and woundeth the consciences of the weak brethren.”

“ Every particular or national Church hath authority to ordain, change, and abolish ceremonies or rites of the Church ordained only by man’s authority, so that all things be done to edifying.”

Bishop Beveridge (few higher authorities could be invoked) in his “ Ecclesia Anglicana Ecclesia Catholica, or the Doctrine of the Church of England consonant to Scripture, Reason, and Fathers, in a Discourse upon the Thirty-nine Articles,” (Oxford Edition, 1840,) Vol. II., p. 119, thus comments upon Article XX. “ Of the Authority of the Church:”—

“ First, (he says) it hath power to decree rites and ceremonies, so that it is lawful for the Church to decree and appoint what rites or ceremonies shall be used in the public worship of the great God; not as parts of that worship, for then they would not be rites and ceremonies. And therefore it is in vain objected by the adversaries to this truth, that herein we give the Church power to add anything to God’s worship which is not commanded in his Word; as if rites and ceremonies were in themselves any part of worship. Whereas what is any part of God’s worship cannot be a mere rite or ceremony, neither can that which is a mere rite or ceremony be any part of his worship. For rites and ceremonies, in that they are nothing but rites and ceremonies, be in themselves indifferent, neither good nor bad, until determined by the Church; after which determination also they still remain indifferent in themselves, and are good and bad only in reference to their decree, who had power and authority to determine them. Whereas every the least part of God’s worship can be by no means omitted without sin, and therefore when it is here said that the Church hath power to decree rites and ceremonies, we must always by the words rites and ceremonies understand nothing else but the particular circumstances and customs to be observed in the service and worship of God, not as any cause or part thereof.”

Again the Bishop says, (p. 121)—

“ We must needs grant that the Church of Corinth (and so other Churches) had power and authority to determine and order these things. Or, if they had no such power before, yet St. Paul, or rather the Most High God by St. Paul, did in these words grant them such a power and authority, in the decreeing these and the like circumstances and ceremonies for the more decent and orderly worshipping of the Glorious Jehovah, giving them this one general comprehensive rule, ‘ Let all things be done to edifying, and in order;’ out of which one general rule, that, and all Churches whatsoever, according to the variety of times and places they live in, were to frame other particular rules and canons for the edifying and orderly performance of God’s worship; who being a God, not of confusion, but of order in himself, he requires such worship as is done in order, not in confusion, from us.”

(p. 123)—

“ Neither can I see in reason how this power in ceremonies and controversies should be denied the Church. For first, as for ceremonies, they cannot but be acknowledged to be indifferent, neither in “ themselves good nor bad; and if they be in themselves either good, or bad, and, not indifferent, they are not merely ceremonies, especially if they be in their own nature bad and sinful, they are not the ceremonies intended in this place. For this same Article, in the following part of it, doth determine that the ceremonies here intended are only such as are not against the Scripture, and by consequence not unlawful. Now such rites and ceremonies as are in themselves indifferent, it can be no sin to determine them to either part; for which part soever they are determined to, they cannot be determined into sin. I mean, what is in itself indifferent, and so may be used or not used without sin whether it be decreed to be used, or not to be used, it cannot be any sinful decree, especially when, after as well as before the decree, they are still acknowledged to be in themselves indifferent, though not as to our use. Which things of indifferency also, as all ceremonies are, cannot be supposed to come within the command of God, for then they would not be indifferent; and seeing God hath not left any particular command, but only a general rule about all things of indifferency, that they be so ordered that they be done decently and to edifying, the Church cannot be thought to sin in determining them, so as she thinks the most edifying and decent, as we shall by the blessing of God see more fully in the Thirty-fourth Article. And if it be no sin thus for the Church to determine ceremonies, it must needs be granted that she hath power to decree them.”

And on Article XXXIV. “Of the Traditions of the Church,” the Bishop observes, (p. 322)—

“ But there being many circumstances required to the performance as well of religious as civil actions, and so to the worship of God as well as anything else, as, for example, the time when, the place where, the habit in which His public service shall be performed, and the like, it being impossible it should be performed without these and the like circumstances, and seeing the all-wise God hath thought good not to determine these in His Word, but to leave it to the discretion of the Church to determine them as it shall see fit, only giving them this general rule to square all these their determinations by—

“ Let all things be done decently and in order.”

“ Hence it is that every particular Church hath still thought fit to exercise this her power and authority in determining these circumstances, according to that manner as seemeth to herself orderly and devout, so that there is no necessity that one Church should determine them after the same manner that another doth; nay, it is often necessary that one Church should not follow another in this case; for it often so falls out that what is decent in one place is unseemly in another, and every Church is bound to model circumstances according to that order which is the most seemly and decent in the place where it is settled.”

(p. 335)—

“ And if we should descend down to after councils, we shall find there was scarce ever a Provincial Church met together in council since our Saviour’s time but did not ordain some ceremonies or other to be observed by her children. It would be an endless thing to reckon up all the ceremonies that were ordained or altered by Provincial Churches; or indeed, all the Provincial Churches that ordained or altered ceremonies in the primitive times. I shall, therefore, instance only in such ceremonies as our Church hath thought good still to retain, that so we may see both how Provincial Churches have still looked upon themselves in all ages to have power to ordain ceremonies, and also, that the ceremonies retained and ordered by our Church are no new-fangled ceremonies, nor Popish superstitions, but that most of them were ordained and used in the Primitive Church before the Pope had forged his superstitions.”

This very learned prelate then recites a great number of instances in which the Provincial Councils of different countries have made ordinances with respect to their own ritual observances, and adds, “ And thus we see how many, even of the very rites and ceremonies which are still in use amongst us, were long ago ordained by Provincial Churches met together in council. Many more might I heap up to the same purpose, but these may be enough to show how the Provincial or National Churches of Christ, in all ages, since His Incarnation, have still exercised this power in ordaining, altering, and abolishing ceremonies, which certainly they would never have done if they had not believed they had power to do it.”

Bishop Jeremy Taylor, (Vol. XIV., Heber’s edition,) in his “Rule of Conscience” (p. 21), lays down as Rule XII., All those Rituals which were taught to the Church by the Apostles concerning Ministries, which were of Divine institution, do oblige all Christendom to their observation.

And on this rule he observes,—

“(1.) I instance in the Holy Sacrament first of all; concerning which the Apostles delivered to the Churches the essential manner of celebration, that is, the way of doing it according to Christ’s commandment, for the words themselves, being large and indefinite, were spoken indeed only to the Apostles, but yet they were representatives of all the whole ecclesiastical order in some things, and of the whole Christian Church in other; and, therefore, what parts of duty, and power, and office did belong to each, the Apostles must teach the Church, or she could have no way of knowing without particular revelation.

“(2.) Thus the Apostles taught the Bishops and Priests to consecrate the symbols of bread and wine before they did communicate; not only because by Christ’s example we were taught to give thanks before we eat, but because the Apostles knew that the symbols were consecrated to a mystery. And that was done from the beginning, and in all Churches, and in all ages of the Church; by which we can conclude firmly in this rule, that the Apostles did give a canon or rule to the Churches to be observed always, and that the Church did never believe she had authority or reason to recede from it. For in those rights which are ministries of grace, no man must interpose

“ any thing that can alter any part of the institution; or make a change or variety in that which is of Divine appointment. For the effect in these things depends wholly upon the will of God, and we have nothing to discourse or argue; for we know nothing but the institution, nothing of the reason of the thing, and therefore we must in these cases, with simplicity and obedience, apply ourselves to practise as we have received, for we have nothing else to guide us. Memory and obedience, not discourse and argument, are here in season.”

The Bishop then proceeds to distinguish between alterable and unalterable rites, as follows (p. 23):—

“ But where the Apostles did not interpose, there the Churches have their liberty; and in those things also, which evidently were no part of the appointed liturgy or ministration, in those things, though it be certain the Apostles did give rules of order and decency, yet because order is as variable as the tactics of an army, and decency is a relative term and hath a transient and changeable sense, in all these things there is no prescription to the Church, though we did know what the Churches apostolical did practise, for they did it with liberty, and, therefore, we are not bound; the Churches are as free as ever; though the single persons in the Churches can be bound, yet the Churches always have liberty.”*

Luther in the “Formula Missæ et Communions” for the Church of Wittenberg, which appears to have been written in 1523, speaking of the ceremonies of Divine worship which he recommends, says:—

“Sexto, requitur Evangelii lectio. Ubi nec candelas neque thurificationem prohibemus, sed nec exigimus, esto hoc liberum.”†

The same spirit of true liberality is exemplified in the writings of the late most distinguished American Prelate, the Bishop of Vermont. Speaking of ornaments used in the services of the Church, he observes:—

“ The same liberty exists with regard to lights upon or behind the altar, the use of chrism and incense, the mixing of water with the wine of the Holy Eucharist, and the representation of figures and emblems in stained glass windows; for all of these were established by usage in the second year of Edward VI., and our Church has uttered no prohibition concerning any of them, but has merely omitted to notice them, directly or indirectly, in her whole legislation. It is certain that none of these things interfere with our liturgy, because they may be used without deviating in the slightest degree from our prescribed forms.

“ And the plain result would seem to be, that their introduction, whether expedient or not, can never be justly considered unlawful.”—(Law of Ritualism, by Bishop of Vermont, p. 84.)

Great variety of usage is to be found in the Greek, the Roman, the Gallican, and the English Churches upon this subject. All persons moderately acquainted with Ecclesiastical history are aware with what zeal and tenacity the Church of Milan‡ has clung to its Ambrosian rite;—of the various liturgies of the Greek Church, and the different uses in England which, though much reconciled by the famous use of Sarum, were ultimately merged in our present Prayer Book.

I will close my citations on this subject with one from the Great Roman Ritualist, Bona:

“ Quarto tanquam verissimum, et apud omnes indubitatum habendum est id quod sæpius in hoc libro repetendum fuit, quædam esse in ecclesia, quæ ad fidem ut dogmata, quædam quæ ad ritus ut mores pertinent. Quæ fidei sunt, sancta inviolabilia, immutabilia semper, et ubique manent; Deumque solum auctorem agnoscunt. Ad ea credenda cæco quodam obsequio captivum ducimus intellectum; ut si quis ea turbare, vel quovis modo immutare aut iis contradicere ausus fuerit, diro anathemate percussus extra ecclesiam fit, nec locum deinceps habet inter Orthodoxos. Ritus et ea quæ morum, ac disciplinæ sunt ab hominum arbitrio pendent, et cum tempore variantur rerumque statu immutato

* The Bishop continues (p. 109) thus:—

“ This rule is to be understood positively and affirmatively, that is, the Church in all her constitutions must take care that the Church be edified and built up in some grace or other; but not so, that whatsoever is for edification, she hath power to command. The measures and limits of her legislative power I have already described; it must be within those circles: and though other things without them may be useful and fit for instruction, or to promote the interest of a virtue, yet Christ hath left them at liberty, and His Church hath no power to bind beyond His commission. They can exhort and persuade, and, by consent, they can prescribe, but to the making of a law there is something else required besides that it be apt to edify or to instruct. For (besides that it must be of something placed in her power) it must edify, and not destroy; it must build up, and not pull down; that is, it must build with all hands, and not pull down with one.

“ I instance in the institution of significant ceremonies, that is, such which are not matters of order and decency, but merely for signification and the representation of some truth or mystery. Those which are prudently chosen are in their own nature apt to instruct. Thus, the use of pictures in the Greek and in the Lutheran Churches is so far useful, that it can convey a story, and a great and a good example to the people that come thither, and so far they may be for edification. But because these can also, and do too often degenerate into abuse, and invade religion, to make a law of these is not safe; and when that law does prevail to any evil that is not easily by any other means cured, it does not prevail upon the conscience, and, indeed, to make a law for the use of them, is not directly within the commission of the ecclesiastical power.”

† The note of the learned editor, Daniel, in his edition of the Codex Liturgicus, (Leipsic, 1848,) on this, is:

“ Sunt quibus thuris odor tam luculentum sit documentum Romanismi, ut, si navibus ducant bonos odores thymiatum, statim clamant, se odoræ ecclesiam Romano-Catholicam. Vident, thuris oblationem Lutheri esse ἀδιόφορον. Hoc tamen certum est, thurificationis vestigia in ecclesiâ Lutheri exstare vestigia fere nulla (cf. p. 24.) In hac urbe nostrâ Halensi sæpius vidi in ecclesiis tribus majoribus, si summa celebrabantur festivitates, pueros, cum acerris fumigantibus ecclesiæ navim percurrentes: sed hæc cærimonia magis ad ἐδωδιόν quendam respicere videtur, quam ad cultum divinum.”

‡ The writer speaking of the reforms of the Roman Liturgy about the time of, and after the Council of Trent, ascribes the preservation of the Use of Milan to the energy of the great Archbishop San Carlo Borromeo:

“ Or dirò di quanto ha fatto S. Carlo per la difesa e per la ristorazione dei riti e delle ceremonie Ambrosiane. Se un uomo di debole tempra avesse a quei tempi tenuta la seda Arcivescovil e di Milano, Panticchissima nostra liturgia, espressione e conservazione di più riti primitivi, era forse per subire quelle sorti, che toccarono, già son più secoli, alla gallicana poi alla mozarabica . . . . .

“ Ora non è piu a temersi alcun pericolo per la continuità del rito Ambrosiano immobilmente stabilito sul possesso e sulla pratica di presso a diciotto secoli, e tenuto in conto di caro e prezioso deposito che i presenti han ricevuto dai maggiori e devono tramandare ai posteri intatto ed illibato.”—(Esposizione delle Ceremonie della Messa Privata giusta il Rito Ambrosiano, p. 18 e 20.)

“ veteres consuetudines abrogantur, et novæ succedunt, illæsa fidei unitate.”—(Bonæ, Opera Omnia, Rerum Liturgicarum, Lib. i., cap. xxiii., p. 265.)

“ Moribus autem immutatis sacros quoque ritus variari consequens fuit.”

“ Distinguendæ igitur ætates disquirenda mutationis ratio et omnia ad sua principia revocanda sunt ut certa rerum notitia habeatur.”—(Bonæ, Rer. Lit., Lib. i., c. 18, s. 1. p. 242.)

(IX.) Ritus ac cærimoniarum non in æternum permanent tollique possunt ac mutari sine fidei ac unitatis dispendio.—(Ib. § 9, p. 247.)

I have thought it expedient to recite the foregoing authorities upon the nature of Rites and Ceremonies in order to fortify my position, that the questions now pending before me in no way affect the relations of the Church of England to the Church Catholic, but have reference solely to matters of detail and order in her ministrations, which every independent Church has at all times claimed and exercised; and having thus, I trust, divested the issue of the case before me of that importance which has been, not unnaturally perhaps, ascribed to it by the excited feelings of both parties, I return to the consideration of the charges contained in these criminal articles.

I am not called upon to pronounce in the judgment which I am about to deliver any decision upon any question of doctrine. If, indeed, the law had cast so grave a responsibility upon me, I should have much considered whether it would not have been right and proper to have invoked the aid of spiritual assessors, competent from their position and learning in the Church, to have assisted and guided me in the discharge of such a duty. I thank God, however, that no such consideration embarrasses me on the present occasion.

Criminal Articles in the Ecclesiastical Court distinguished from an Indictment.

Two conclusions result from the premises which I have stated: first, that the matters in dispute are Ceremonies; and secondly, that they belong to that category of Ceremonies which are designated “mutable.”

There is also a proposition of fact which should be mentioned in this place, that none of the ceremonies complained of are expressly directed to be used either in the Prayer Book or the Act of Uniformity.

The promoter avers, and undertakes to prove, that with respect to these matters of charge, Mr. Mackonochie has violated the Statutes of Uniformity, certain specified canons of those enacted by the Convocation and Crown in 1603, and the general ecclesiastical law.

The counsel for Mr. Mackonochie have contended, that inasmuch as a breach of the Statutes of Uniformity rendered Mr. Mackonochie liable to be proceeded against criminally in a court of common law, as well as in this court, I am bound to apply the same rules and observe the same strictness required by the common law courts in a matter of indictment. I am of a different opinion, having regard both to principle and to precedent; nor do I admit the proposition that unless Mr. Mackonochie be proved to have committed a breach of the Statutes of Uniformity, although he should be proved to have offended against the law ecclesiastical, that he is entitled to an acquittal from the charges now laid against him. I deem it to be my duty to consider whether the defendant be or be not proved to have offended against the laws ecclesiastical in the matter of one or more, or all, of these criminal charges, and to give my decision accordingly.

I have been referred to a case (R. v. Sparkes, 3 Mod. Rep., 79; Cripps, Laws of the Church, 626; 2 Burn's Eccl. Law, 429). This was an indictment in the first year of James II. against a clergyman, at the Quarter Sessions in Devonshire, for using alias preces in the Church, and alia modo than mentioned in the Book of Common Prayer; and the indictment concluded contra formam statuti, &c. He was found guilty, and fined 100 marks. Upon writ of error, it was admitted that offences against these statutes might be inquired of by the justices, but the indictment was held bad, for that it ought to have alleged that the defendant used other forms and prayers instead of those enjoined, which were neglected by him; for that otherwise any person might be indicted who used prayers before his sermon other than such as are required by the Book of Common Prayer; and Mr. Cripps observes, that although this decision established that justices had jurisdiction in such cases, and that indictments, properly framed for offences against these statutes, might be inquired of by them, yet it is probable that indictments of this nature have been very rarely, if ever, preferred; for the jurisdiction of the ecclesiastical court was in no way taken away by those statutes. And wherever it may have been necessary to institute any penal proceedings against clergymen for the omission of, or addition to, anything contained in the Book of Common Prayer, the proceeding has probably been always in the ecclesiastical court; and, indeed, prosecutions in the temporal courts upon those statutes seem to have been discouraged by the judges; for in a case at the Thetford Lent Assizes in 1795, a clerk was indicted upon these statutes, but the evidence was not that he left out or added any prayers, or altered the form of worship, but that he did not read prayers twice on a Sunday, but alternately one Sunday in the morning and the next in the evening, and omitted to read them at all on certain saints' days. Mr. Baron Perryn, who tried the indictment, observed, that it was prima impressionis, and being of opinion that the offence complained of was purely of ecclesiastical cognizance, and not the subject of prosecution in the temporal courts, directed the jury to acquit the defendant, which they accordingly did.

Looking at all the circumstances it does not appear to me that the case of Rex v. Sparkes is worthy of much attention, and it will in no way influence my judgement.

The principal heads under which the argument of the Counsel for the Promoter may be ranged appear to me to be the following:

First. That as by each and all of the practices charged in these articles, a new rite or ceremony has been added by Mr. Mackonochie to those which are prescribed by the Statutes of Uniformity, such practices are unlawful.

Secondly. That these particular additions are expressly prohibited.

Thirdly. That they are by necessary implication prohibited, inasmuch as they are connected with Roman or Popish doctrines.

Fourthly. That as such they have, as a matter of fact, been disused ever since the Reformation.

Now it appears to me necessary to examine, in the first instance, these two last grounds of objection, inasmuch as a consideration of the weight due to them must affect the general application of the law,—wherever it be obscure or ambiguous, or silent as to positive precept,—to the particular subject of these criminal charges.

Identity of the Status of the Church before and after the Reformation.

I will, therefore, consider in the first instance what weight is to be ascribed to the proposition—

“That they are by necessary implication prohibited, inasmuch as they are connected with Roman or Popish doctrines.”

The counter proposition appears to be that the similarity of these ornaments and practices with those legality in the Church of Rome does not furnish a safe criterion whereby to try the question of their in the Church of England. That the true criterion is conformity with primitive and catholic use, and not antagonism to Rome.

A great part of the arguments addressed to me by the Counsel on both sides was founded upon one or the other of these propositions.

I am very far from complaining of these arguments, or of the length to which they extended, for in my opinion a careful consideration of these propositions, however large, grave, and difficult, is a necessary preliminary to the due construction of the laws, formularies, and usages involved in the present inquiry.

They must, if this construction be doubtful, receive, so to speak, a colour and complexion from the judgement which is formed upon the spirit and principles which governed the Reformation of our Church.

It is my duty to form this judgement upon an historical examination—however unequal my powers may be to the task—into the principal acts of the State and the Church which, since the great epoch of the Reformation, have introduced, accompanied, and settled the ecclesiastical establishment of this kingdom.

It is scarcely necessary to say that where the language of a Statute is plain I must obey it, or that where the Court of Appeal has laid down a principle applicable to this case, I must follow it. But, where I have no such guide, I must seek the exposition of the law from the general language of the cardinal statutes, the public and authoritative declarations which accompanied and illustrated them, the judicial construction which they have received, the formularies which these Statutes ordered, whether with or without the concurrent sanction of the Church, though happily the latter alternative is of rare occurrence; I must also consider the canons which bind the clergy, and the opinions of the Bishops and great divines of our Church, who were not unfrequently also the councillors of the State and the authors of the formularies.

A.—Identity in Law.

I propose to pursue my investigation in the following order: first, I will consult the law; secondly, I will have recourse to historical and theological statements.

The inquiry into the law admits of the following subdivisions: the statute law; the canons enacted since the Reformation; and the general common law of the Church.

* In the history of no kingdom is the independence of the National Church written with a firmer character than in that of England, in the Statutes of the Realm, in the decisions of Judicial Tribunals, and the debates of Parliament.

The Constitutions of Clarendon, in Henry the Second's reign (A.D. 1164), though directly aimed at the repression of the inordinate claims and privileges of the National Church, were, no doubt, in directly “calculated,” as Hume observes, “to establish the independency of England on the Papacy;” and therefore, when the King sought Pope Alexander's ratification of them, that Pontiff annulled and rejected all but six out of the sixteen memorable articles.

The resistance of Beckett, and, still more, the general feeling excited by the wicked and impolitic murder of that prelate, procured the practical abrogation of the articles objected to, by the enactments of Edward I. and III., of Richard II., of Henry IV. and V., and of Edward IV.

But in the severe penalties attached to the Statutes of Provisors and Præmunire may be read the steady determination of the English people to maintain an independent National Church, and to resist the ultramontane doctrines which had taken root in some other countries.

The Statute of Provisors (25th Edw. III., St. 6., A.D. 1350) recites that “the Holy Church of England” was founded in the “estate of prelacy within the realm of England” by the King and nobles of England, and forbids the prevalent abuses of the Pope's bestowing benefices upon aliens, “benefices of England which be of the advowry of the people of Holy Church,” the reservation of first-fruits to the Pope, and the provision or reservation of benefices to Rome. By 38th Edward III., St. 2., c. 1. (A.D. 1363), persons receiving citations from Rome in courts pertaining to the King, &c., are liable to the penalty of 25th Edw. III.

The Statute (A.D. 1392) 16 Richard II. c. 5., renders the procuring of Bulls from Rome liable to præmunire, and it recites a variety of Papal aggressions upon the privileges of the Crown; among other matters, as to the translation of Bishops out of the realm, or from one bishopric to another within the realm; and the carrying of treasure out of the realm; and so the realm, destitute as well of counsel, as of substance, to the final destruction of the said realm, and so the Crown of England, which hath been so free at all times that it hath been in no earthly subjection, but immediately subject to God in all things touching the regality (la regalie) of the same Crown, and to none other, should be submitted to the Pope, and the laws and statutes of the realm by him defeated and avoided at his will, in perpetual destruction of the sovereignty of the kingdom of the King and Lord, his Crown, his royalty, and of all his realm, which God defend.

* Phillimore's International Law, Vol. 2, pp. 412, 416.

This statute before the Reformation, and the subsequent enactment of 24 Henry VIII. c. 12., and the great case of Cawdry* as reported by Lord Coke and corrected by Bishop Stillington, may be said to contain a treatise on constitutional law of England upon the subject of the usurpation of the Papal See upon the liberties of the National Church, and in regard to the authority and privilege of the English Crown. It would be difficult to conceive a clearer or more dignified exposition of the law upon this subject than is contained in the prefatory part of the statute of Henry VIII. "Where by divers sundry old authentick histories and chronicles it is manifestly declared and expressed, that this realm of England is an empire, and so hath been accepted in the world, governed by one supreme head and king, having the dignity and royal estate of the imperial Crown of the same, unto whom a body politic, compact of all sorts and degrees of people, divided in terms, and by names of spirituality and temporality, been bounden and owen to bear next to God a natural and humble obedience; he being also institute and furnished, by the goodness and sufferance of Almighty God, with plenary, whole, and entire power, pre-eminence, authority, prerogative, and jurisdiction, to render and yield justice, and final determination to all manner of folk, resiants, or subjects within this his realm, in all causes, matters, debates, and contencions, happening to occur, insurge, or begin within the limits thereof, without restraint or provocation to any Foreign Princes or Potentates of the world; the body spiritual whereof having power, when any cause of the law divine happened to come in question, or of spiritual learning, then it was declared, interpreted, and showed by that part of the said body politic called the spirituality, now being usually called the English Church, which always hath been reputed, and also found of that sort, that both for knowledge, integrity, and sufficiency of number, it hath been always thought, and is also at this hour sufficient, and meet of itself, without the intermeddling of any exterior person or persons, to declare and determine all such doubts, and to administer all such offices and duties as to their rooms spiritual doth appertain; for the due administration whereof, and to keep them from corruption and sinister affection, the King's most noble progenitors, and the antecessors of the nobles of this realm, have sufficiently endowed the said Church both with honour and possessions; and the laws temporal for trial of property of lands and goods and for the conservation of the people of this realm in unity and peace, without rapine or spoil, was and yet is administered, adjudged, and executed by sundry judges and ministers of the other part of the said body politic, called the temporality; and both their authorities and jurisdictions do conjoin together in the due administration of justice, the one to help the other."

At the period of the Reformation the National Church introduced an express denial of the authority of the Pope,—henceforth called in all public acts and documents the Bishop of Rome,—into her articles and canons, and an acknowledgment of the temporal supremacy of the Crown over the ecclesiastical as well as the civil state. Henry VIII. was excommunicated, and in the Bull his subjects were commanded to renounce their allegiance, and the nobles were ordered "sub ejusdem excommunicationis ac perditionis bonorum suorum pœnis," to unite with all Christian princes in expelling Henry from England. Elizabeth was excommunicated in pretty similar terms, but not until twelve years after her accession. In answer to a request from the Emperor and other Roman Catholic princes, that she would allow the Roman Catholic places of worship, she replied that she would not allow them to keep up a distinct communion, alleging her reasons in these remarkable words, "for there was no new faith propagated in England; no religion set up but that which was commanded by Our Saviour, practised by the primitive Church, and unanimously approved by the fathers of the best antiquity." The Roman Catholics, both in England and Ireland, appear to have outwardly conformed to the services of the Church for about ten years.

The peculiar character of the English people and the English Church, is also strongly shown in their determination not to admit the general body of the Canon Law into these realms, but only such portions of it as were consistent with the Constitution, the Common Law, and the peculiar usages of the Anglican Church. The rules of the general Canon Law were principally introduced into this country, and considerably modified in their introduction through the medium of provincial constitutions passed by the authority of the Metropolitans of England. It is true that the Pope endeavoured to maintain his authority in this matter by sending legates from time to time, and by the device of creating the Archbishop of Canterbury "legatus natus" of the Holy See.† But England possesses in her provincial constitutions, collected by Lyndewode, a body of domestic ecclesiastical law, upon which, before the Reformation, a national independent character was in many respects impressed. The common law was always disposed to recognize these constitutions, while to the general canon law it always manifested considerable averseness.

But it has always been the doctrine of the temporal and ecclesiastical courts since the Reformation that the constitutions contained in Lyndewode, and the general usages of the Church, and certain portions of the canon law admitted by those usages, are still binding upon the Church this of realm.

* 3 Coke, 1. Stillington's Eccles. Cases, "Of the Foundation of Ecclesiastical Jurisdiction," Vol. 2. p. 49.

† "Thus much is evident, as Gervasius, in the life of William, at this time (anno 1125) Archbishop of Canterbury, well observes, that the legatine power was looked upon as a breach of the law of England, and an invasion of the ancient liberties of the English Church and Nation, as well as the rights of the Sees of Canterbury and York in particular, and that the minds of men were scandalized and offended at it."—Inett's "Origines Anglicanæ," Vol. II. p. 223.

I will give some instances:

So late as the year 1848 criminal articles were preferred against a clerk in holy orders for accepting a benefice with cure of souls whilst in possession of another benefice with a cure of souls without dispensation. The articles alleged that by the 29th canon of the 24th Council of Lateran, A.D. 1215, he was ipso jure deprived of the first living. Sir H. Jenner Fust observed "The first of the articles sets forth the law, namely, that by a decree of the Council of Lateran, when any person in possession of a benefice with cure of souls shall accept another like benefice, the former becomes void, that is, he loses that benefice, and that is the law of this country at this time. The Statute of Henry VIII. does not affect this law, except that it makes the other living voidable; that is, by sentence, or void by presentation of the patron."

* * * * *

"Under these circumstances, the facts being proved, the Court is bound to sign a sentence, declaring the perpetual curacy of Forest Hill void by Mr. Mavor's acceptance of another benefice with cure of souls."

In the case of Saunders v. Head (3 Curteis's Rep. 577,) Sir Herbert Jenner Fust, said, "It has been made a subject of complaint, on behalf of Mr. Head, that the articles do not contain any specification of the law relied on to establish them; that the first article is merely general, and that, under such general pleading it is difficult for a defendant to know how to address himself to the question of law applicable to his case; that the Canon law has been referred to generally without particular specification."

(p. 579)—

"Now the objection taken in this case is not taken for the first time, it has been frequently taken in this Court, and, as often, overruled. The answer always given to the objection is, that where the general law ecclesiastical is relied on, it is not necessary to plead specifically; that where the offence is one generally cognizable in the Ecclesiastical Court it is not necessary to point out the particular Canon or Statute on which the proceedings are founded."

In the case of Kemp v. Wickes, Sir John Nicholl said,—“The law of the Church of England, and its history are to be deduced from the ancient general Canon law, from the particular constitutions made in this country to regulate the English Church, from our own Canons, from the rubric, and from any Acts of Parliament that may have passed upon the subject; and the whole may be illustrated, also, by the writings of eminent persons.”—(Kemp v. Wickes, 3 Phillimore's Rep. 276.)

In the year 1866 a Royal licence was granted to Convocation to alter certain Canons of 1603; the licence recited the 25th of Hen. VIII. c. 29. restraining the meeting of Convocation, and continued as follows:—

“And further, by the said Act it is provided that no canons, constitutions, or ordinance should be made or put in execution within this realm, by authority of the Convocation of the Clergy, which shall be contrariant or repugnant to the King's prerogative royal, or the customs, laws, or statutes of this realm, anything in the said Act to the contrary thereof notwithstanding; and, lastly, it is also provided by the said Act that such Canons, Constitutions, Ordinances, and Synodals provincial which then were already made, and which were not contrary or repugnant to the laws, statutes, and customs of this realm, nor to the damage or hurt of the King's prerogative royal, should then still be used and executed as they were upon making of the said Act, till such time as they should be viewed, searched, or otherwise ordered and determined by the persons mentioned in the said Act, or the more part of them, according to the tenor or form and effect of the said Act, as by the said Act amongst divers other things more fully and at large it doth and may appear.”

B.—Historical and Theological Statements as to Identity.

Having made these observations with regard to the connection that subsists between the law as to the Church before and after the Reformation, I will now advert to the evidence of identity furnished by our history and theology since the Reformation.

In 1549, Edward the Sixth's government in their message to the Devonshire rebels state, "It seemeth to you a new service, and indeed is none other but the old; the self-same words in English which were in Latin, saving a few things taken out."*

Constant references are made in the Homilies, which were produced under the auspices of Cranmer early in the reign of Edward VI., to the "usages of the primitive Church," and the sentence and judgements of the most ancient, learned, and godly doctors of the Church."

Collier,† speaking of the various influences at work during this reign, says, "Peter Martyr concurred with Bucer in his animadversions upon the Common Prayer Book, as appears by his letter to him upon that subject.

"However, from what has been observed, the reader may perceive Bucer was somewhat overcharged with scruples, and carried his censure too far. Neither are his remarks at all reconcilable with his concessions in the beginning of his discourse. And, amongst other things, his setting aside antiquity with so much ease is particularly remarkable. There is a great deference, without doubt, due to the authority of the first centuries. It was then the apostolical traditions were fresh, miracles were frequent, and the Church under the conduct of a distinguishing illumination. Then secular views and projects of ambition were foreign to inclination. Under such opportunities and qualifications what room is there for suspicion of ignorance or foul dealing * Foxe, Acts and Mon., v. p. 734. Note to Procter on the Book of Common Prayer, p. 25, 26.

† Ecclesiastical History of Great Britain, Vol. V., Book IV., p. 406.

“ To reject the usages of the ancient Church, because we do not meet with them in Scripture, is no good logic. It is plainly not the design of the New Testament to furnish liturgies and rituals. The converts to St. Peter’s sermon continued stedfastly in breaking of bread;* that is, administering the Holy Eucharist; and in prayers. But what the prayers were at this solemnity is nowhere delivered in Scripture. Where the extraordinary effusions of the Holy Ghost were not supplied, things of this nature were left to the discretion of the spiritual directors, who were to govern themselves by St. Paul’s general rule, ‘ Let all things be done decently and in order.’ (1 Cor. xiv.)

“ It is true, if the religious customs of antiquity were plainly inconsistent with the doctrine of the inspired writings, we ought to stand off from them; but in other cases our Saviour’s saying is applicable to the present purpose, ‘ He that is not against us, is for us.’ And when the governors of the Church are under no restraint as to ceremonies and compositions, what should hinder them from following their judgements, and directing as they think fit? ‘ For where there is no law, there can be no transgression.’ What should hinder them in this case from enlarging the circumstances of worship, from assisting the memory, raising the affections, and explaining the mysteries, with additional ceremonies and devotions? His objection against primitive usages, because they have been overvalued and misapplied by the Church of Rome, goes upon a mistaken ground; for, granting the allegations hold good, there is no consequence in the reasoning. To argue from the abuse against the use of things is the way to take our bibles from us; for what book has been more abused than the inspired text? By this topic almost everything in religion and nature must be contraband and prohibited. Bucer was formerly sensible of this fallacy; he saw the danger of disputing at this rate, and determines against it. To quit antiquity in any custom because it is continued in the Church of Rome has neither reason nor charity in it. It is a peevish principle, and helps to keep up a spirit of division. We ought rather to lament the breaches in the Church than make them wider. All reproachful language, humoursome distance, and unnecessary squabbles, serve only to exasperate one part of Christendom against another, and make our common religion the jest of infidels and atheists.”

The same author † thus introduces the subject of the Apology of Jewel, which is referred to in the 36th of the Canons of 1603.

“ The next remarkable occurrence is Bishop Jewel’s sermon at Paul’s Cross. It was preached in Lent this year upon these words of the apostle Paul, “ I have received of the Lord that which also I deliver unto you.” From this text he took occasion to make that remarkable challenge in defence of the Reformation. The Church of England was reproached with novelty by the Papists, and charged with departing from primitive doctrine and practice. To wipe off these aspersions the Bishop put the case upon a bold issue, and declared in the pulpit, ‘ That if any learned men of all our adversaries, or if all the learned men that are alive, are able to bring any one sufficient sentence out of any old Catholic doctor or father, or out of any general council, or out of the Holy Scriptures of God, or any one example of the primitive Church, whereby it may be plainly and clearly proved that for the six hundred years after Christ there was any private mass in the world; or that there was any communion administered under one kind; or that the people had their common prayer in a language which they did not understand; or that the Bishop of Rome was then called universal bishop or head of the universal church; or that the people were then taught to believe that Christ’s body is really, substantially, corporally, carnally, or naturally in the sacrament,’ &c. &c.

“ If any one of his adversaries were able to make good but a single proposition amongst all these, either by sufficient declarations in Scripture, or by the testimony of the ancient fathers and councils, he was ready to give up the contest and subscribe himself a proselyte.”

It is not unworthy of remark that in the Canon of 1571, concerning preachers, it is ordered, “ In primis videbunt concionatores, nequid unquam doceant pro concione quod à populo religiosè teneri et credi velint, nisi quod consentaneum sit doctrinæ Veteris aut Novi Testamenti, quodque ex illâ ipsâ doctrinâ Catholici patres et veteres episcopi collegerint.”

The Puritans did not dispute the lawfulness of set forms of prayer, but they were to be such as were used in Geneva and Scotland (Neale’s History, p. 236. Madox, p. 78.) But Bishop Burnet observes, speaking of the year 1548 ‡: “ It being resolved to bring the whole worship of God under set forms; they (our Reformers) set one general rule to themselves (which they afterwards declared) of changing nothing for novelty’s sake, or merely because it had been formerly used. They resolved to retain such things as the primitive Church had practised, cutting off such abuses as the latter ages had grafted on them, and to continue the use of such other things which, though they had been brought in not so early, yet were of good use to beget devotion, and were so much recommended to the people by the practice of them that the laying aside these would, perhaps, have alienated them from the other changes they made; and, therefore, they resolved to make no change without very good and weighty reason. In which they considered the practice of our Saviour, who did not only comply with the rites of Judaism himself, but even the prayer he gave to his disciples was framed according to their forms; and his two great institutions of Baptism and the Eucharist did consist of rites that had been used among the Jews; and since he who was delivering a new religion, and was authorized in the highest manner that ever any was, did yet so far comply with received practices as from them to take those which he sanctified for the use of his Church, it seemed much fitter for those who had no such extraordinary warrant to give them authority in what they did, when they were reforming abuses, to let the world see they did it

*Acts ii. 42

† Collier’s Ecclesiastical History, Vol. 6, page 303.

‡ History of Reformation, Vol. 2, page 150.

“ not from the wanton desire of change or any affectation of novelty, and with those resolutions they entered on their work.”

I now approach an authority to which almost universal homage has been accorded,—the authority of Hooker.*

“ They,” he says, “ which measure religion by dislike of the Church of Rome think every man so much the more sound by how much he can make the corruption thereof to seem more large; and, therefore, some there are, namely, the Arians in reformed churches of Poland, which imagine the canker to have eaten so far into the very bones and marrow of the Church of Rome as if it had not so much as a sound belief, no not concerning God himself, but that the very belief of the Trinity were a part of antichristian corruption; and that the wonderful providence of God did bring to pass that the bishop of the see of Rome should be famous for his triple crown,—a sensible mark whereby the world might know him to be that mystical beast spoken of in the Revelation, to be that great and notorious antichrist in no one respect so much as in this, that he maintaineth the doctrine of the Trinity. Wisdom therefore and skill is requisite to know what parts are sound in that church and what corrupted.

“ Neither is it to all men apparent which complain of unsound parts, with what kind of unsoundness every such part is possessed. They can say, that in doctrine, in discipline, in prayers, in sacraments, the Church of Rome hath (as it hath indeed) very foul and gross corruptions, the nature whereof, notwithstanding because they have not for the most part exact skill and knowledge to discern, they think that amiss many times which is not; and the salve of reformation they mightily call for, but when and what the sores are which need it, as they wot full little, so they think it not greatly material to search.

“ † That the Church of Rome doth hereby take occasion to blaspheme, and to say our religion is not able to stand of itself unless it lean upon the staff of their ceremonies, is not a matter of so great moment that it need to be objected, or doth deserve to receive an answer. The name of blasphemy in this place is like the shoe of Hercules on a child's foot. If the Church of Rome do use any such kind of silly exprobatation, it is no such ugly thing to the ear that we should think the honour and credit of our religion to receive thereby any great wound. They which hereof make so perilous a matter do seem to imagine that we have erected of late a frame of some new religion, the furniture whereof we should not have borrowed from our enemies, lest they relieving us might afterwards laugh and gibe at our poverty; whereas in truth the ceremonies which we have taken from such as were before us are not things that belong to this or that sect, but they are the ancient rites and customs of the Church of Christ, whereof ourselves being a part, we have the selfsame interest in them which our fathers before us had, from whom the same are descended unto us.

“ No man which is not exceeding partial can well deny but that there is most just cause wherefore we should be offended greatly at the Church of Rome. Notwithstanding at such times as we are to deliberate for ourselves, the freer our minds are from all distempered affections the sounder and better is our judgement. When we are in a fretting mood at the Church of Rome, and with that angry disposition enter into any cogitation of the orders and rites of our Church, taking particular survey of them, we are sure to have always one eye fixed upon the countenance of our enemies, and according to the blithe or heavy aspect thereof our other eye showeth some other suitable token either of dislike or approbation towards our own orders. For the rule of our judgement in such case being only that of Homer, ‘ This is the thing which our enemies would have,’ what they seem contented with, even for that very cause we reject; and there is nothing but it pleaseth us much the better if we espy that it galleth them.

“ Miserable were the state and condition of that Church the weighty affairs whereof should be ordered by those deliberations wherein such a humour as this were predominant. We have most heartily to thank God, therefore, that they amongst us to whom the first consultations of causes of this kind fell were men which aiming at another mark, namely, the glory of God and the good of this His church, took that which they judged thereunto necessary, not rejecting any good or convenient thing only because the Church of Rome might perhaps like it.”

The Puritans at the Hampton Court Conference in the reign of James the First vehemently objected to the sign of the Cross in the sacrament of Baptism, and the reply to their objections incorporated in the thirtieth canon (of 1603) deserves the careful study of those who would thoroughly understand the mind of the English Church upon the subject now under consideration :

“ ‡ So that for the very remembrance of the Cross, which is very precious to all of them that rightly believe in Jesus Christ, and in the other respects mentioned, the Church of England hath retained still the sign of it in Baptism, following therein the primitive and apostolical Churches. And this use of the sign of the Cross in Baptism was held in the primitive Church, as well by the Greeks as the Latins, with one consent and great applause. At what time, if any had opposed themselves against it, they would certainly have been censured as enemies of the name of the Cross, and consequently of Christ's merits, the sign whereof they could no better endure. This continual and general use of the sign of the Cross is evident by many testimonies of the ancient fathers.

“ It must be confessed that in process of time the sign of the Cross was greatly abused in the Church of Rome, especially after that corruption of popery had once possessed it. But the abuse of a thing doth not take away the lawful use of it. Nay, so far was it from the purpose of the Church of England to forsake and reject the Churches of Italy, France, Spain, Germany, or any such like Churches in all things which they held and practised, that, as the Apology of the Church of England

* Hooker, Book IV., Chap. VIII.

† Hooker, Book IV., Chap. IX.

‡ Canon 30. (The lawful use of the Cross in Baptism explained.)

“ confesseth, it doth with reverence retain those ceremonies which doth neither endamage the Church
 “ of God, nor offend the minds of sober men, and only departed from them in those particular points
 “ wherein they were fallen both from themselves in their ancient integrity, and from the apostolical
 “ Churches which were their first founders.”

Dr. Jackson who was President of Corpus Christi College and Dean of Peterborough, one of our most learned divines, writing A.D. 1629, in his treatise of the Holy Catholic Faith and Church, says,*
 “ That the title of Catholic is proper and essential unto the faith professed by the present visible “ Church of England, but cannot truly be attributed to the faith or creed of the modern visible Romish “ Church.

“ Whether the name Catholic were first bestowed upon the Church, or upon that faith which is “ the life and soul of the Holy Apostolic Church, shall be no part of our inquiry. It sufficeth that
 “ the name Catholic itself is univocal in respect both of Church and faith. True faith is therefore “ Catholic faith because it is the only door or way unto salvation, alike common unto all, without “ national or topical respect. Whosoever of any nation have been saved have been saved by this one
 “ and the same faith, and whoever will be saved (as Athanasius speaks) must hold this Catholic faith,
 “ and he must hold it pure and undefiled. The main question then is, who they be that hold this “ Catholic faith, and whether they hold it undefiled or no. Were Vincentius' rules as artificial as “ they are orthodoxal and honest, the issue betwixt us and the Romanist would be very easy and “ triable. But let us take them as they are: ‘ Id Catholicum est quod ab omnibus ubique et semper, “ etc.’ ‘That is Catholic which is held by all, in all places, and at all times.’

“ The three special notes of the Catholic faith or church by him required are universality, antiquity,
 “ and consent. Whether these three members be different or subordinate, and oftentimes coincident I “ leave it to be scanned by logicians. According to the author's limitation, all three marks agree to “ us, not to the Romanist.”

“ The fallacy by which the Romanists deceive poor simple people is in making them believe that “ our religion and their religion, our faith and their faith, are duo prima diversa, or so totally “ distinct that part of the one could not be included in the other. But for the universality of our “ faith we have every member of the Romish Church a suffragant or witness for us. First, nothing
 “ is held as a point of faith in our Church but the present Romish Church doth hold the same,
 “ and confess the same to have been held by all orthodoxal antiquity. So that for the form of faith “ established in our Church, we have the consent of the primitive Church, of the four first general “ councils, of all succeeding ages unto this present day, the consent likewise of the present Romish
 “ Church, and of ourselves. Now, as France is a great deal bigger than Normandy, if we compare “ them as distinct and opposite, and yet France and Normandy is bigger than France without “ Normandy, so likewise though the present visible Romish Church be much greater than the “ Church of England, yet seeing the Romish Church, how great soever, doth hold all the points of “ faith which our Church doth for catholic and orthodoxal, our consent and their consent, our “ confession and their confession, is more universal than their consent without ours. But if their “ consent unto the points of faith believed by us prove our faith to be universal, and our Church by “ consequence to be catholic, why should not our consent unto the points of faith believed by them “ prove their faith to be universal, or their Church to be catholic? Because it is not enough to hold “ all points of Catholic faith, unless the same points be kept holy and undefiled. The Romish Church,
 “ we grant, doth hold all points of Catholic faith, and so far as she hold these points we dissent
 “ not from her; yet dissent from her we do in that she hath defiled and polluted the Catholic faith “ with new and poisonous doctrines, for which she neither hath the consent of antiquity, nor of “ reformed churches.”

And again, answering that silly taunt of the Romanists, “ Where was your Church before the “ Reformation?” he observes: “ The question is much the same as if they should ask us, where was “ King Henry the Seventh's kingdom, where were his subjects, where was your commonweal “ whilst Richard the Third did call parliaments, and sway the sceptre of this kingdom? The “ kingdom of Henry the Seventh and of his successors, or the English common weal, was in the “ same place then as now it is. The deposition of the tyrant, the dissolution of the tyranny, and
 “ the reducing of English subjects to their true allegiance, did work no essential alteration in the “ commonweal of the kingdom, but only a reformation of the government, and reducement of it to “ the fundamental laws of the land.”

“ No more did the rejection of the Romish Church's usurped authority in matters spiritual induce “ any substantial alteration in the English Church, but a reformation or reduction of it unto the “ fundamental constitution of the primitive Church.”†

In the warrant issued by Charles II. for the conference at the Savoy, which preceded the adoption of our present Prayer Book (Cardwell's Conferences, p. 300), a commission of certain persons is appointed to advise upon and review the said Book of Common Prayer, comparing the same with the most ancient liturgies which have been used in the Church in the primitive and purest times.

So careful were the compilers of this great treasure of the Church that it should speak the Catholic language, to which Christian ears and hearts had been accustomed, while the apostolical spirits and doctrine still guided the undivided Church.

Hear on this subject the erudite and eloquent Donne: “ If they (the Roman Catholics) say, we “ are perplexed with differences of opinions amongst ourselves, let this satisfy them, that we do agree
 “ all in all fundamental things; and that in things much nearer the foundation than those in which

* Works, Vol. XII. Chap. 21, p. 161, ed. 1845.

† Vol. 12., p. 131.

“ our differences lie they differ amongst themselves, with more acrimony and bitterness than we do.
 “ If they think to perplex us with the fathers, we are ready to join that issue with them; where the “ fathers speak unanimously, dogmatically, in matters of faith, we are content to be tried by the “ fathers. If they think to perplex us with councils, we will go as far as they in the old ones;
 “ and, as far as they for meeting in new councils, if they may be fully, that is, royally, imperially, “ called, and equally proceeded in, and the resolutions grow and gathered there upon debates, upon “ upon the place, and not brought thither upon commandment from Rome.”—Donne's Works,
 vol. iii, p. 11.

Bishop Cosin, an authority of special significance and weight, because he largely assisted in the compilation of our Prayer Book,* says: “ In truth we have continued the old religion; and the ceremonies which we have taken from them that were before us are not things which belong to this or that sect, but they are the ancient rites and customs of the Church of Christ, whereof ourselves being a part, we have the selfsame interest in them which our fathers before us had, from whom the same descended to us. To abrogate those things without constraint of apparent harm thence arising had been to alter unjustly the universal practice of the people of God and those general decrees of the fathers, which (in St. Augustin's language) is madness and insolence to do, both in respect of the universal authority of the Church, which no particular Church has power to control, and also in regard of reasons before mentioned.”

Archbishop Bramhall, who wrote in 1677 his “ Just Vindication of the Church of England,” &c., says: “ But it is not enough to charge the court of Rome unless we can discharge ourselves, and acquit our own Church, of the guilt of schism which they seek to cast upon us. First, they object that we have separated ourselves schismatically from the communion of the Catholic Church. God forbid! Then we will acknowledge, without any more to do, that we have separated ourselves from Christ, and all His holy ordinances, and from the benefit of His passion, and all hope of salvation.”

“ But the truth is, we have no otherwise separated ourselves from the communion of the Catholic Church than all the primitive orthodox fathers, and doctors, and churches did long before us, that is, in the opinion of the Donatists, as we do now in the opinion of the Romanists; because the Romanists limit the Catholic Church now to Rome in Italy, and those Churches that are subordinate to it, as the Donatists did then to Cartenna in Africa, and those Churches that adhered to it. We are so far from separating ourselves from the communion of the Catholic Church that we make the communion of the Christian Church to be thrice more catholic than the Romanists themselves do make it, and maintain communion with thrice so many Christians as they do. By how much our Church should make itself, as the case stands, more Roman than it is, by so much it should thereby become less catholic than it is.”—(Works, folio, Dublin, Chap. IX.)

“ As for my religion,” said the holy Ken, with almost his latest breath, “ I die in the holy catholic and apostolic faith, professed by the whole Church before the disunion of east and west; more particularly I die in the communion of the Church of England, as it stands distinguished from all papal and puritan innovations, and as it adheres to the doctrine of the Cross.”

Bishop Beveridge compiled, with infinite labour and accuracy, a Codex Canonum Ecclesie Primitivae vindicatus ac illustratus:—in his preface to which are these words (s. 6.), “ For when this our English Church, through long communion with the Roman Church, had contracted like stains with her, from which it was necessary that it should be cleansed, they who took that excellent and very necessary work in hand, fearing that they, like others, might rush from one extreme to the other, removed indeed those things, as well doctrines as ceremonies, which the Roman Church had newly and insensibly superinduced, and, as was fit, abrogated them utterly. Yet notwithstanding whatsoever things had been at all times believed and observed by all Churches in all places, those things they most religiously took care not so to abolish with them. For they well knew that all particular Churches are to be formed on the model of the Universal Church, if indeed, according to that general and received rule in ethics ‘ every part which agreeth not with its whole is therein base.’ Hence, therefore, these first reformers of this particular Church, directed the whole line of that reformation which they undertook, according to the rule of the whole or Universal Church, casting away those things only which had been either unheard of, or rejected by the Universal Church, but most religiously retaining those which they saw, on the other side, corroborated by the consent of the Universal Church. Whence it had been brought to pass, that although we have no communion with the Roman, nor with certain other particular churches, as at this day constituted, yet have we abiding communion with the Universal and Catholic Church, of which evidently ours, as by the aid of God first constituted, and by his pity still preserved, is the perfect image and representation.”

Observe how Barrow speaks in his Treatise on the Pope's Supremacy of the Council of Trent. “ Their new creed,” he says, “ of Pius IV. containeth these novelties and heterodoxies; (1) Seven sacraments; (2) Trent doctrines of justification and original sin; (3) Propitiatory sacrifice of the mass; (4) Transubstantiation; (5) Communicating under one kind; (6) Purgatory; (7) Invocation of Saints; (8) Veneration of reliques; (9) Worship of images; (10) The Roman Church to be the mother and mistress of all Churches; (11) Swearing obedience to the Pope; (12) Receiving the decrees of all synods and of Trent.”†

Bishop Sanderson‡ believed that “ § all men would be found much mistaken who account all Popery that is taught or practised in the Church of Rome. Our godly forefathers, to whom (under God) we owe the purity of our religion, and some of whom laid down their lives for the defence of the * Preface to his Notes on the Common Prayer.

 † Died in 1663.

† Barrow's Treatise on the Pope's Supremacy ad finem.
 § Preface to fourteen sermons.

“ same, were, sure, of another mind, if we may, from what they did, judge what they thought. “ They had no purpose (nor had they any warrant) to set up a new religion, but to reform the old, “ by purging it from those innovations, which on tract of time (some sooner, some later) had mingled “ with it, and corrupted it both in the doctrine and worship. According to this purpose they “ produced, without constraint or precipitancy, freely and advisedly, as in peaceable times, and “ brought their intentions to a happy end, as by the results thereof contained in the articles and “ liturgy of our Church, and the prefaces thereunto, doth fully appear. From hence chiefly, as I “ conceive, we are to take our best scantling, whereby to judge what is, and what is not, to be “ esteemed Popery. All those doctrines then held by the modern Church of Rome, which are “ either contrary to the written Word of God, or but superadded thereunto as necessary points of “ faith to be of all Christians believed under pain of damnation; and all those superstitions used in “ the worship of God which are either unlawful as being contrary to the Word; or being not “ contrary and therefore arbitrary and indifferent, are made essentials, and imposed as necessary “ parts of worship: these are, as I take it, the things whereunto the name of Popery doth properly “ and peculiarly belong. But as for the ceremonies used in the Church of Rome which the Church “ of England at the Reformation thought fit to retain, not as essential or necessary parts of God’s “ service, but only as accidental and mutable circumstances attending the same, for order, comeliness, “ and edification’s sake; how these should deserve the name of popish, I so little understand, that “ I profess I do not yet see any reason why, if the Church had then thought fit to have retained “ some other of those which were then laid aside, she might not lawfully have so done; or why “ the things so retained should have been accounted popish. The plain truth is this: the Church of “ England meant to make use of her liberty and the lawful power she had (as all the Churches of “ Christ have, or ought to have) of ordering ecclesiastical affairs here; yet to do it with so much “ prudence and moderation that the world might see by what was laid aside, that she acknowledged “ no subjection to the See of Rome; and by what was retained, that she did not secede from the “ Church of Rome out of any spirit of contradiction, but as necessitated thereunto for the “ maintenance of her just liberty. The number of ceremonies was also then very great and thereby “ burdensome, and so the number thought fit to be lessened. But for the choice which should “ be kept and which not, that was wholly in her power and at her discretion.”

Bishop Smalridge, the accomplished friend of Addison, wrote a sermon on the authority of the governors of our Church, to prescribe rites and ceremonies (vol. 1, p. 145), in the course of which he said:—

“ But because those who allow some rites to be lawful may entertain some doubts concerning the “ use of ours, as apprehending them to have some particular faults which do not belong to all “ ceremonies in general, I shall proceed to clear those which we of this Church are required to “ observe, from such objections as are brought to prove them unlawful and unwarrantable. Those “ who scruple the use of them allege it as one main ground of their scruples, that those ceremonies “ which are used in our Church are also used in the Church of Rome, and they are therefore cautious “ of observing them, lest they should thereby countenance the errors and corruptions of that Church. “ Now this would be a good argument against the usage of such rites, if it could be proved that “ those who err in some things do certainly err in everything; or, that we ought to show our abhor- “ rence of the corruptions of a Church by condemning and abolishing even those usages which “ have nothing in them but what is innocent and incorrupt. But we have not declared war against “ those of that Church as they are Christians, but as they are perverters of the Gospel of Christ; “ we do not profess to differ from them in everything, but only in such things wherein we apprehend “ them to have degenerated from the pure and undefiled Church of Christ.

“ We think that we should not be able to vindicate ourselves from the charge of schism, which “ they bring against us, if whatever doctrine they held, whatever rite they practised, that we should, “ for no other reason but because they held and practised it, forthwith condemn and reject.

“ The ablest champions for the cause of the Reformation have always thought it the best answer “ against the charge of schism, to allege and prove that we have no further departed from them than “ they departed from the pure and primitive Church of Christ. What is contrary to the purity “ of the Gospel, that we reject; not because popish, but because repugnant to the laws and “ doctrines of Christ: what is noways contradictory to the simplicity of the Gospel, what may be “ subservient to piety, that we retain; not because practised by the Church of Rome, but because “ agreeable to the rules of the Gospel. If there be anything in our ceremonies that is sinful, they “ ought presently to be abolished, though there was nothing of the same kind practised by those of “ the Roman communion.* What is decent and laudable in them cannot lose its worth and value, “ because others have them in common with us. If it be laid down as a good rule of reformation “ that we must depart as far as possible from Rome, we must renounce the articles of our creed, “ because they of that Church profess to believe them; we must declare ourselves Socinians that we “ may be thought staunch Protestants; and we must renounce the doctrine of the Trinity, because “ it is held by those who do also hold that of transubstantiation. In the Romish religion there are “ some things evil, some things good, some things wholly indifferent. Whatever is sinful in that “ communion we are bound to reject, and have, we think, accordingly rejected; what is good we “ ought to retain, and therefore do retain; what was indifferent, it was at the discretion of our “ reformers either to keep or change, as they thought should be more expedient. Private persons “ may, according to the variety of their judgments, think some things might have been kept which “ were left off, or some things might have been dropped which are still kept; but unless they can

* About this time Archbishop Tenison wrote a remarkable “Discourse of Idolatry” (Chap. XII, p. 279), and upon this principle vindicated the use of images and pictures in the Church of England.

“ prove those that have been abolished to be necessary, or those that are reserved to be unlawful, they are bound quietly to submit to the abolition of the former, and to the usage of the latter.”

Bishop Bull writing in 1705 on “ The Corruptions of the Church of Rome, in answer to the Bishop of Meaux’ queries,” thus maintains the true position of our Church:

“ I proceed to the bishop’s questions: He asks me what I mean by the Catholic Church? I answer, What I mean by the Catholic Church, in the book, which he all along refers to, I have already shown, and the very title of the book sufficiently declares. If he asks me what I mean by the Catholic Church, speaking of it as it now is? I answer, By the Catholic Church, I mean the Church Universal, being a collection of all the Churches throughout the world, who retain the faith (ἀπαξ) once delivered to the Saints (Jude 3.); that is, who hold and possess in the substance of it, that faith and religion which was delivered by the Apostles of Christ to the first original Churches, according to Tertullian’s rule before mentioned. Which faith and religion is contained in the Holy Scriptures, especially of the New Testament, and the main fundamentals of it comprised in the canon or rule of faith, universally received throughout the primitive Churches, and the possession thereof acknowledged to be a sufficient tessera or badge of a Catholic Christian. All the Churches at this day which hold and profess this faith and religion, however distant in place, or distinguished by different rites and ceremonies, yea, or divided in some extra-fundamental points of doctrine, yet agreeing in the essentials of the Christian religion, make up together one Christian Catholic Church under the Lord Christ, the supreme head thereof. The Catholic Church under this notion is not a confused heap of societies separated one from another.”—These are important words,—“ But it seems, no other union of the Church will satisfy the bishop, but an union of all the Churches of Christ throughout the world, under one visible head, having a jurisdiction over them all, and that head the Bishop of Rome for the time being. But such an union as this was never dreamed of amongst Christians for at least the first six hundred years, as shall be shown in its due place.”

In addition to this mass of evidence derived from the writings of English Divines, I may cite the following testimonies to the same effect from the works of three distinguished foreigners, who watched with deep interest the form which the Reformation of the Church took in England, Isaac Casaubon, Hugo Grotius, and Saravia:

Casaubon [ad Salmas Epist. 837, p. 489, A.D. 1612:]: “ Quod si me conjectura non fallit, totius Reformationis pars integerrima est in Anglia, ubi cum studio veritatis viget studium antiquitatis.”

Casaubon [Epist. ad Cardinal Perron, p. 494]: “ Parata est Ecclesia Anglicana fidei suæ reddere rationem, et rebus ipsis evincere, auctoribus Reformationis hinc institutæ non fuisse propositum novam aliquam ecclesiam condere, ut imperiti et malevoli calumniantur; sed quæ erant collapsa, ad formam revocare quam fieri posset optimam; optimam autem judicarunt nascenti Ecclesiæ ab Apostolis traditam, et proximis seculis usurpatam.”

Hugo Grotius [Epist. ad Boetsaeler, Ep. 62, p. 21, ed. 1637]: “ Certum est mihi λειτουργίαν Anglicanam, item morem imponendi manus adolescentibus in memoriam Baptismi, auctoritatem Episcoporum, et Presbyteria ex solis Pastoribus composita multa que alia ejusmodi satis congruere institutis vetustioris Ecclesiæ, a quibus in Galliâ et Belgio recessum negare non possumus.”

[Epist. ad Corvinum, Epist. p. 434]: “ Qui illam optimam antiquitatem sequuntur ducem, iis non eveniet ut multum sibi ipsis sint discolors. In Angliâ vides quam bene processerit dogmatum noxiorum repurgatio; hæc maxime de causâ, quod qui id sanctissimum negotium procurandum suscepere, nihil admiserint novi, nihil sui, sed ad meliora secula intentam habuere oculorum aciem.”

Hadrian Saravia, the friend of Hooker: “ Among others that have reformed their churches, I have often admired the wisdom of those who restored the true worship of God to the Church of England,—who so tempered themselves, that they cannot be reproved for having departed from the ancient and primitive customs of the Church of God; and that moderation they have used, that by their example they have invited others to reform, and deterred none.”—(Wordsworth, Theophilus Anglicanus, p. 171.)

In 1851 the Archbishops of Canterbury and York and twenty bishops published a statement in which they set forth “ the undoubted identity of the Church before and after the Reformation;” and that at the Reformation the English Church rejected certain corruptions and established “ one uniform ritual,” but “ without in any degree severing her connexion with the ancient Catholic Church.”—(Phillimore’s International Law, vol. ii., p. 422, and the Guardian, April 2, 1851.)

In 1867, eight primates and sixty-eight bishops assembled from all parts of the globe, under the presidency of the Metropolitan of Canterbury.

The resolutions of this conference were prefaced by the following introduction:

“ We, Bishops of Christ’s Holy Catholic Church, in visible communion with the United Church of England and Ireland, professing the Faith delivered to us in Holy Scripture, maintained by the Primitive Church, and by the Fathers of the English Reformation, now assembled, by the good providence of God, at the Archiepiscopal Palace of Lambeth, under the presidency of the Primate of all England, desire, first, to give hearty thanks to Almighty God for having thus brought us together for common counsels and united worship; secondly, we desire to express the deep sorrow with which we view the divided condition of the flock of Christ throughout the world, ardently longing for the fulfilment of the prayer of our Lord, ‘ That all may be one, as Thou, Father, art in me, and I in Thee, that they also may be one in Us, that the world may believe that Thou hast sent me;’ and, lastly, we do here solemnly record our conviction that unity will be most effectually promoted by maintaining the Faith in its purity and integrity, as taught in the Holy Scriptures, held by the Primitive Church, summed up in the Creeds, and affirmed by the undisputed General Councils.”

But after all no argument for the continuity of the Church of England can be stronger than that which is derived from the structure, order, and contents of the Prayer Book. It contains the Breviarium, in which towards the end of the 11th century had been inserted all the offices of the canonical hours, called also Portiforium and in England Portuary, the Missale or the service for the Holy Communion, and the Ordinale, which is referred to under the name of the "Pie" in the preface. There were various "Uses" or Prayer Books in England, known as the Salisbury, the York, the Bangor, and the Hereford Uses, and others. The most celebrated appear to have been the Portiforium or Breviary of Sarum, which contained the Daily Services,—the Sarum Missal, which contained the Holy Communion Service,—and the Sarum Manual, a book of occasional offices. These books of devotion seem to have been compiled by Osmund, Bishop of Salisbury, about the time of the Conquest; and in 1531 a reformed edition of the Sarum Portiforium was reprinted; and shortly afterwards a reformed Missal was published. There were also Primers, which contained, in the vulgar tongue, large portions of the Service in use amongst the people. In 1536 the Roman Breviary was reformed, and published by a Spanish Bishop, Cardinal Quignonez; and in 1544 Hermann, Archbishop of Cologne, whom the Pope during the early sittings of the Council of Trent deprived,* published a reformed ritual.†

In 1542 Henry VIII. directed convocation to consider the revision of the books of devotion then in use in this country. It is probable that the fruit of their labours, as well as the other works to which reference has been made, were laid before the royal visitors appointed by Edward VI. in January 1546-7, and the Committee of Convocation, to whom the preparation of the Prayer Book of 1549 was intrusted.

The whole Prayer Book in fact, with very inconsiderable exceptions, consists of a translation of the ancient liturgies, and especially of the liturgy used by the Western Church. And we learn from the preface to the Prayer Book that the object was to restore that "godly and decent order of the "ancient fathers" which had been broken, and to introduce an order of prayer and reading of Holy Scripture "agreesable to their mind and purpose;" and that all suggested alterations which "secretly struck at some laudable practice of the whole Catholic Church of Christ" were rejected; and that the calendar contained a "table of feasts, vigils, fasts, and days of abstinence," which were in accordance with primitive and catholic use; while the ornaments of the Church and the vestments of the ministers were such as to present to the people some of the most prominent features of the ancient service, and were for this reason the ground of unceasing attack from the Puritans, and the disciples of the Genevan school. And it is the observation of Mr. Hallam, while speaking of the Roman Catholics, "that it was always held out by our Church, when the object was "conciliation, that the liturgy was essentially the same with the mass book."—(Constitutional History, vol. i., p. 86.)

These premises, which I have stated at some length, lead me to the conclusion that no sound argument against the lawfulness of the matters objected to in these articles can be deduced from the mere fact of their identity with the ceremonies in use before the Reformation.

Argument from Disuse.

I will next consider the argument founded on the alleged de facto disuse, since the Reformation, of the ceremonies or ornaments complained of in these articles.

It assumes this kind of shape:

"If these things were legal they would have been in use; their non-usage is almost fatal to their claim of legality; the presumption of law is strongly against them; and in order to refute that presumption a continuous usage must be established by those who maintain their lawfulness."

This argument seems to have been in the mind of the Judge of the Consistory of London in the Knightsbridge Church cases, though at the same time he strenuously asserted that no provision of statute or lawful canon could be abrogated by non-user. The doctrine of desuetude he repudiated; as unknown to the law of England.

This argument from the long disuse of ornaments and observances recently revived cannot be altogether passed over.

The fact of disuse raises a practical prejudice, if not a legal obstacle to all such revivals. The consideration of the causes which have induced it has a bearing upon the discussion of the questions which I am to adjudicate.

The argument appears to me to admit of two distinct answers.

In the first place it proves too much; for perhaps there is no historical fact more certain than this, namely, that the law derived from the rubrics and canons has never, at any period since the Reformation, been universally and duly obeyed. The proposition is startling, but I think unquestionably true. The instances of disobedience are striking, if not many; take, as one example, the vestments of the clergy.

The rubric of our present Book of Common Prayer provides:—

"And here is to be noted, that such ornaments of the Church, and of the ministers thereof, at all times of their ministration, shall be retained, and be in use, as were in this Church of England, by the authority of Parliament, in the second year of the reign of King Edward the Sixth."

And the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council, in Westerton v. Liddell, most deliberately and emphatically decided that—

"The rubric to the Prayer Book of January 1st, 1604, adopts the language of the rubric of Elizabeth; the rubric to the present Prayer Book adopts the language of the Statute of Elizabeth;

* Istoria del Concil. Trident.—Sarpi, lib. II. § 59.

† See Preface to Annotated Book of Common Prayer.

“ but they all obviously mean the same thing, that the same dresses and the same utensils or articles which were used under the first Prayer Book of Edward VI. may still be used.” Their lordships say, “ No difficulty will be found in discovering amongst the articles of which the use is there enjoined, ornaments of the Church, as well as ornaments of the ministers. Besides the vestments differing in the different services, the rubric provides for the use of an English Bible,” &c.—(Liddell v. Westerton, Moore's Report, p. 156-9.)

The dresses of which the use is prescribed in the first Prayer Book of Edward VI. are thus ordered:—

“ Upon the day, and at the time appointed for the ministration of the Holy Communion, the priest that shall execute the holy ministry shall put upon him the vestures appointed for that ministration; that is to say, a white albe plain, with a vestment or cope.”

“ And whensoever the bishop shall celebrate the Holy Communion in the Church, or execute any other public ministration, he shall have upon him, beside his rochette, a surplice or albe, and a cope or vestment, and also his pastoral staff in his hand, or else borne or holden by his chaplain.”

The canons of 1603 could not alter or affect the positive provisions of a Statute; but, on the supposition that they alone were to be consulted, the use of the surplice in parish churches is distinctly enjoined by them (canon 58). Nevertheless I well recollect that when Bishop Blomfield published his celebrated Charge in 1842, the expression therein of his opinion, that the preacher ought to wear the surplice rather than the gown in the morning service, raised a storm of religious controversy and excited feeling upon which a sober-minded man now looks back with surprise and regret. And I cannot but agree with his biographer, that “ it will hardly be denied, that the great principle for which Bishop Blomfield contended, that in Divine service all things should be done decently, but in order, is now acted upon in the Church of England to an extent, which, twenty years ago, would hardly have been expected by men of calm judgment, and which, thirty years ago, would by most have been pronounced impossible.”*

The same canons enjoined the use of copes in cathedrals (canon 24), a special prayer called the bidding prayer to be used by all ministers before every sermon (canon 55), a passing bell to be tolled for every dying parishioner (canon 67); that “ upon every Sunday or Holyday ” the minister shall “ under pain of suspension and excommunication, for half an hour or more, examine and instruct the youth and ignorant persons in his parish in the Ten Commandments, the Articles of the Belief, and in the Lord's Prayer; and shall diligently hear, instruct, and teach them the Catechism set forth in the Book of Common Prayer ” (canon 59); that a particular dress, minutely specified, shall be worn by ecclesiastical persons on a journey (canon 74); that the Litany shall be said or sung wherever appointed by the Prayer Book, more particularly upon Wednesdays and Fridays, though they be not holydays (canon 15).

The rubric directs that the holy elements shall be placed upon the Table of the Lord at a particular part of the service; but till lately, and before the decision of the Privy Council in favour of the use of the credence table, this rubric was generally disobeyed. The rubric is express in its directions, that “ unless the minister be otherwise reasonably hindered,” he shall perform daily service; that “ the feasts shall be observed,” in which category are included all Sundays, and certain feasts and saints' days; and there is also a careful table of the vigils, fasts, and days of abstinence to be observed throughout the year; that “ so many as intend to be partakers of the Holy Communion shall signify their names to the curate at least some time the day before.” Private baptism, which was only to be allowed for “ great cause or necessity,” had so generally superseded public baptism, that the late Bishop of London was compelled expressly to forbid his clergy to baptize privately except in cases of necessity; and, indeed, of all these precise orders, of which the catalogue is not exhausted, having for their object the spiritual edification of members of the Church, how very few, till lately, within our own memory, have been obeyed, and how much more common has been the breach than the observance of them.

It is true that Mr. Mackonochie is not charged with any disobedience to the law in these respects; his offence is that of unauthorized addition, of doing too much and not too little in his ministrations in the Church; but I refer to this notorious fact of general disobedience to the law in these respects, because a revived obedience to it, not unnaturally, excites the surprise and sometimes the anger of persons who have been habituated to a more relaxed and less careful system. A compliance with the law has the effect of novelty upon them, and they are apt to consider as illegal not the desuetude of a prescribed usage, but the restoration of it.

This argument of disuse was most strongly urged in the Knightsbridge Church cases as conclusive against the Cross and the Credence Table; and it was truly said that the instances in which any trace of them could be substantiated by evidence, since the Reformation, were very few and inconsiderable,—not half-a-dozen I believe in number, and it was contended that such disuse amounted to a practical rejection of them by the Church. And this argument prevailed with the judges of the Consistory of London and of the Arches Court, who accordingly pronounced these things to be unlawful. But it did not avail before the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council, who, looking to their innocent and primitive use, reversed the sentence of these Courts and pronounced them to be lawful.

The mere fact, therefore, that the practice complained of is novel, furnishes by no means an irrefragable argument that it is unlawful, and it can afford, in truth, but little assistance in solving the question whether the practices charged against Mr. Mackonochie are or are not contrary to the law.

In the second place the alleged disuse or desuetude must be measured by a reference to the history of the institution during the period in which it has prevailed. The questions,—has that institution been during this period in its normal condition? has it been in a state of unconstrained freedom? of undisturbed liberty of action? or has it during this period been from time to time turned aside from its natural course? has it been oscillating between peril and disquiet and the apathy which is so often their reactionary successor? has it manifested, wherever it has been in a state of freedom, peace and vigour, a desire to restore and reserve as much as it could of a lawful inheritance which had been forcibly put in abeyance, and had that desire and endeavour always accompanied a revival of life and energy? These are questions which must be answered before the argument from disuse can be properly estimated. A careful examination of the history of this country, and more especially of that part of it which relates to the Church, affords some explanation of the careless and imperfect compliance with the directions and orders of the Prayer Book to which I have adverted. To enter at length into this history would far exceed the limits of my present judgment, but I will make a very cursory reference to the principal epochs.

* Memoir of Bishop Blomfield, Vol. 2, p. 64.

From the reign of Edward VI. to the reign of Her present Majesty the intervals during which the Church has been undisturbed by troubles from within or without have been few.

During the short reign of Edward VI. she underwent various trials. Her worship and her ritual were twice dealt with by Parliament, and not only her revenues but the ornaments and treasures within her fabrics were scandalously plundered in order to fill the purses of the corrupt courtiers, of a precocious, well meaning, but prejudiced and narrow minded-boy, who, during the few years of his reign, was little more than an instrument in the unscrupulous hands of the religious and political factions which surrounded and besieged his throne.

I will borrow the language of Fuller in his Church History of Britain (Book VII, p. 401).

Speaking of the year 1549, this quaint but faithful historian says—

“Come we now to the saddest difference that ever happened in the Church of England, if we consider either the time how long it continued, the eminent persons therein engaged, or the dolefull effects thereby produced. It was about matters of conformity. Alas! that men should have lesse wisdome than locusts; which when sent on God’s errand, ‘did not thrust one another’ (Joel ii. 8), whereas here such shoving, and shouldring, and hoising, and heavings, and justleing, and thronging, betwixt Clergiemen of the highest parts and places. For now nonconformity in the daies of King Edward was conceived, which afterward in the reign of Queen Mary (but beyond sea at Frankford) was born, which in the reign of Queen Elizabeth was nursed and weaned, which under King James grew up a young youth, or tall stripling, but towards the end of King Charles his reign, shot up to the full strength and stature of a man, able, not only to coap with, but conquer the hierarchie its adversary.”

Speaking of the year 1552, the same historian says:—

“Lately information was given to the king’s councell, that much costly furniture, which was embezelled, might very seasonably (such the king’s present occasions) and profitably be recovered. For private men’s halls were hung with altar-cloathes, their tables and beds covered with copes, instead of carpets and coverlets. Many drank at their daily meals in chalices, and no wonder if it came to the share of their horses to be watered in rich coffins of marble. And, as if first laying of hands upon them were sufficient title unto them, seizing on them was generally the price they had payed for them. Now although four years were elapsed since the destruction of colledges and chanteries, and much of the best Church ornaments was transported beyond the seas, yet the Privie Council thought this very gleaning in the stubble, would richly be worth the while, and that, on strict inquisition, they should retriive much plate in specie and more money for moderate fines on offenders therein. Besides, whereas parish churches had still many rich ornaments left in the custody of their wardens, they resolved to convert what was superfluous or superstitious to the king’s use. To which purpose commissions were issued out to some select persons in every county, etc.”

It was probably a like spirit of avarice which, using the honest fanaticism of the Geneva divines as its instrument, dictated the destruction of all the ancient service books as well as images, by the Order in Council of December 24, 1549, and the 3rd and 4th of Edw. VI. c. 10.

The bindings and cases of these books of devotion were often studded with gems and of great value; and the images from their costly material, as well as their careful execution, offered a tempting prey to the spoiler.

During the succeeding reign of Mary the Church was altogether driven from her sanctuary. Elizabeth, indeed, exerted the great sagacity which she possessed in laying deep and wide the foundations of the establishment to which the Church was restored. But the foreign element, which the persecutions of Mary had much increased, began to ferment, and to wage a ceaseless war with the principles upon which the Church had been reformed, and though the masculine sense and vigorous hand of this great Queen restrained the attacks of the innovators from Geneva and Germany, she was obliged to tolerate a practical laxity in all that related to the ritual of the Church, in order to secure the maintenance of the Catholic doctrine.

It cannot be doubted from her resolute retention of the ornaments of her Chapel, including lights and a crucifix, from her avowed belief in the Real Presence, as well as from her language and conduct, that her desire and intention were to embrace the Lutheran and the Romanist within the wide and liberal pale of the National Church.*

And I may observe in passing, that it was in the same spirit of liberality and comprehensiveness that our Bishops in 1661, said, “It was the wisdom of our Reformers to draw up such a liturgie as neither Romanist nor Protestant could justly except against; and therefore, as the first never charged it with any positive errors, but only the want of something they conceived necessary, so

* The rubric, commonly called the black rubric, after the Communion, in the second Prayer Book of Edward VI., explained that no adoration was due to the real and essential presence. Elizabeth struck it out. The rubric reappears in the last Prayer Book with the very material alteration of “or unto any corporal presence of Christ’s natural flesh or blood.”

“ it was never found fault with by those to whom the name of Protestants most properly belongs, those that profess the Augustine Confession; and for those who unlawfully and sinfully brought it into dislike with some people, to urge the present state of affairs as an argument why the book should be altered to give them satisfaction, and so that they should take advantage of their own unwarrantable acts, is not reasonable.”—(Lathbury's History of the Book of Common Prayer, chap. 13, p. 324.)

Bishop Sandys writes to Archbishop Parker: “The last book of service is gone through with a proviso to retain the ornaments which were used in the 1st and 2nd year of King Edward until it please the Queen to take further order for these. Our gloss upon this text is that we shall not be forced to use them, but that others in the meantime shall not convey them away, but that they may remain for the Queen.”—Strype Ann., v. 1., P. 1., p. 122. Burnet, v. 1., P. 2., p. 465.

The Puritans rejected with scorn the toleration which the Queen and Walsingham, with a rare wisdom unknown to their age, were ready to extend to them. Bishop Madox cites a declaration of this party as follows:—

“As for you dear brethren, whom God hath called into the brunte of the battle, the Lord keep you constant, that ye yield neither to toleration, neither to any other subtil persuasions of dispensations or licences, which were to fortify their Romish practices; but, as you fight the Lord's fight, be valiant. The matter is not so small as the world doth take it; it will appear, before all be ended, what an hard thing it is to cut off the rags of the Hydra of Rome. Let us not make the heritage of God as a bird of many colours, holding of divers religions; but rather let us take away, if we can, the names, memories, and all monuments of Popery.” The Bishop goes on to say, “Who were meant by this description in the year 1570 needs no explanation. The bishops and clergy of the Church of England were then constantly represented as bearing the names and supporting the monuments of Popery. Agreeably to this exhortation of yielding to no toleration, nor accepting any indulgence, in all their petitions, admonitions, supplications, etc., we see nothing of a toleration for themselves only, but their single request or command, in whichever style they speak, is, the absolute overthrow of the established Government and worship, and the introduction of their own with penalties, even sharp punishments to be inflicted upon those who did not comply with it.”—(p. 289.)

In 1597 Hooker wrote the fifth book of his Ecclesiastical Polity in which he vindicated the rites and ceremonies of the Church of England against the attacks of the Puritans, and pointed out with a prophetic spirit, the confusion which would ensue “if it should be free for men to reprove, to disgrace, to reject, at their own liberty, what they see done and practised according to order set down.”—(E. P., Book V., c. 10.)

In the reign of Elizabeth's successor, the Hampton Court Conference, and the canons of 1603, aided by the disposition of James, and the great power of his prerogative which then rested on the Statute of Elizabeth, and the general tranquillity of the country, enabled the Church to put in force, in some degree at least, the provisions of her ritual.

The leaven of the Puritans, however, was at work, and is well illustrated by the language which they held respecting our Prayer Book at this time. I refer again to Bishop Madox (p. 73):—

“But Mr. Neale tells us, it would have obviated many objections, if the Committee had thrown aside the Mass Book, and composed an uniform service in the language of Scripture.” This was an objection frequently made by the Puritans, with great variety of very severe and very coarse expressions. Thus in their first admonition to the Parliament, “Remove (say they, in great warmth) homilies, articles, injunctions, and that prescript order of service made out of the Mass Book.” In their second admonition to the Parliament they express themselves after this manner: “We must needs say as followeth, that this book is an imperfect book, culled and picked out of that Popish dunghill, the Portuise and Mass Book, full of all abominations.” Another of them is pleased to deliver his opinion in the following words: “The whole form of the Church Service is borrow'd from the Papists, pieced and patched, without reason or order of edification.” Their famous leader, Mr. Cartwright, likewise declares his and his brethren's displeasure upon this head: “Before I come to speak of prayers (says he) I will treat of the faults that are committed almost throughout the whole liturgy and service of the Church of England, whereof one is that which is often objected by the authors of the admonition, that the form of it is taken from the Church of ‘Antichrist.’”

During the early part of the reign of Charles I. the advance in ritual restoration was rapid, and was accompanied by great imprudence and little knowledge of, or attention to, the actual circumstances of the State. The Puritan religious element allied itself with the political element; and so it came to pass that a literal and strictly legal compliance with the rubric formed no insignificant part of the impeachment which brought about the judicial murder of Archbishop Laud, one of the most distinguished writers against the pretensions of the Papacy.*

Then was the wisdom, as well as the piety, of the principles upon which our Church was reformed

* Whitelock. (Memorials of the English Affairs. Folio. Tonson, 1732.)

Anno 1643, p. 75.—The Commons “ordered copes and surplices to be taken away out of all Churches.”

Anno 1644, p. 86.—Laud on his trial; objected to him “that he caused superstitious pictures, images, and crucifixes to be set up in many churches, and in the King's chapel caused a popish crucifix to be hung up over the altar upon every Good Friday, which had not been there before since the reign of Queen Mary.” . . . . “and his consecrating of churches, tapers, and candlesticks, organs, and particular prayers for those purposes.”

The Commons “ordered the taking away of all such pictures, images, and crucifixes in the King's chapel at Whitehall.”

Page 91.—“The Earl of Newcastle desired a treaty, which was admitted, and he demanded to march away with bag and baggage, etc., and that all within the town should have liberty of conscience, the prebends to enjoy their places, to have common prayer organs, copes, surplices, hoods, crosses, etc.”

“These things were denied by the Parliament,” etc. This was at York, June 1644.

“August 1644, p. 98.—Col. Middleton sent up to the Parliament from Sarum many copes, surplices, tippets, hoods, plate, and the picture of the Virgin Mary, taken there; other relics being divided among the soldiers.”

demonstrated. In Protestant Germany and in Geneva, where the Apostolical order and primitive usages had been, from whatever causes, neglected or abandoned, and in this kingdom during the troubles of the civil wars almost every variety of sect which the vanity, presumption, and ignorance of man, under the influence of unchecked religious excitement could devise, sprang into existence.

All these,

“ Who thought religion was intended
For nothing else but to be mended,” and whom the poem of Butler has rescued from oblivion, have furnished to Rome her strongest weapon for the defence of abuses equally without warrant from Scripture and tradition, and for attack upon the purer branches of the Catholic Church.

At the restoration, the Church, with the full and hearty consent of the people, restored, with few exceptions, the primitive ritual, of which Cranmer and Ridley, the chiefs of a noble army of martyrs, had approved.

But the impoverished condition of the clergy, the dilapidated state of the desecrated Churches, the profligacy (a reaction from Puritanism) and poverty of the landowners, combined to prevent that moderate amount of ritual development which a strict obedience to the direction of the rubric required.

Lord Macaulay's picture of the miserable status of the parochial clergy during the 17th century (History of England, Vol. I., p. 327) is probably painted in too dark colours: but there is no doubt that it was one highly unfavourable to ritual ornament either in the dress of the priest or in the furniture of the church.

It was seldom that men connected with noble families entered into Holy Orders, and the adoption of that profession by Herbert was a remarkable phenomenon of the time.

Then came the struggle of James II., by God's good providence defeated, to reimpose the yoke of Rome upon the liberties of our Church.

The very learned Cave, in his Epistle Dedicatory to the History of the Fathers of the Church in 1683, observes,—

“ The Church of England, incomparably the best part of the Catholic Church at this day visible upon earth, is miserably torn in pieces, hated, and maligned; secretly undermined by enemies from abroad, and openly assaulted by pretended friends at home. Altar is erected against altar, and private congregations kept up in opposition to the publick constitution. The liturgy and forms of Divine administration derided, odiously traduced, and run down with nothing but noise and clamour. The rites and institutions, though the same that were used in the primitive ages of Christianity, derided as antichristian. The discipline and authority weakened, and, by the obstinacy and perverseness of men, made ineffectual.”

The great defection of the non-jurors, who were much attached to ritual observances, among whom were some of the most pious and learned prelates of the realm, at the beginning of William III.'s reign, must, I think, have been unfavourable to ritual observances in the Church Establishment which they had left.*

As we enter on the 18th century we trace the gradual increase of disobedience to all directions of the Church which had for their object not merely the ornament but the decency of Divine worship.

In 1710 good Bishop Fleetwood, in his charge to his clergy, observed, “ that unless the good public spirit of building, repairing, and adorning churches prevails a great deal more among us, and be more encouraged, an hundred years will bring to the ground an huge number of our churches.”

During the reigns of the two first Georges, and the beginning of the third, a decay of piety and learning, with brilliant exceptions indeed, went hand in hand with slovenliness of ritual and habitual indifference to rubrical injunctions upon this subject; and in 1751, that is 40 years afterwards, not many months before his death, that great prelate, Bishop Butler, whose “ Divine Philosophy” has charmed educated men of all creeds, referring to these words of Bishop Fleetwood, uttered this lamentation, “ This excellent prelate made this observation forty years ago; and no one, I believe, will imagine that the good spirit he has recommended prevails more at present than it did then.”

In another part of the same charge he says: “ Nor does the want of religion in the generality of the common people appear owing to a speculative disbelief or denial of it, but chiefly owing to thoughtlessness and the common temptations of life. Your chief business, therefore, is to endeavour to beget a practical sense of it upon their hearts as what they acknowledge their belief of, and profess they ought to conform themselves to. And this is to be done by keeping up, as we are able, the form and face of religion with decency and reverence, and in such a degree as to bring the thoughts of religion often to their minds; and then endeavour to make this form more and more subservient to promote the reality and power of it. The form of religion may indeed be where there is little of the thing itself but the thing itself cannot be preserved amongst mankind without the form.”

“ That which men have accounted religion in the several countries of the world, generally speaking, has had a great and conspicuous part in all public appearances, and the face of it has been kept up with great reverence throughout all ranks, from the highest to the lowest; not only upon occasional solemnities, but also in the daily course of behaviour. In the heathen world, their superstition was the chief subject of statuary, sculpture, painting, and poetry. It mixed itself with business,

* Mr. Hallam observes: “ Eight Bishops, including the Primate and several of those who had been foremost in the defence of the Church during the late reign, with about four hundred of the Clergy, some of them highly distinguished, chose the more honorable course of refusing the new oaths: and thus began the schism of the Non-jurors, more mischievous in its commencement than its continuance, and not so dangerous to the government of William III. and George I. as the false submission of less sincere men.” Having alleged reasons in favour of the imposition of the oath, he adds in a note: “ Yet the effect of this expulsion was highly unfavourable to the new government; and it required all the influence of a latitudinarian school of Divinity, led by Locke, which was very strong among the laity under William, to counteract it.”—(Constit. Hist., Vol. III., p. 108, 7th ed.)

“civil forms, diversions, domestic entertainments, and every part of common life. The Mahometans are obliged to short devotions five times between morning and evening. In Roman Catholic countries people cannot pass a day without having religion recalled to their thoughts, by some or other memorial of it, by some ceremony of public religious form occurring on their way; beside their frequent holidays, the short prayers they are daily called to, and the occasional devotions enjoined by their confessors. By these means their superstition sinks deep into the minds of the people, and their religion also into the minds of such among them as are serious and well-disposed. Our reformers, considering that some of these observances were in themselves wrong and superstitious, and others of them made subservient to the purposes of superstition, abolished them, reduced their form of religion to great simplicity, and enjoined no more particular rules, nor left anything more of what was external in religion, than what was in a manner necessary to preserve a sense of religion itself upon the minds of the people. But a great part of this is neglected by the generality amongst us; for instance, the service of the Church, not only upon common days, but also upon Saints' days, and several other things, might be mentioned. Thus they have no customary admonition, no public call to recollect the thoughts of God and religion from one Sunday to another.”

“Indeed in most ages of the Church the care of reasonable men has been, as there has been for the most part occasion, to draw the people off from laying too great weight upon external things, upon formal acts of piety. But the state of matters is quite changed now with us. These things are neglected to a degree which is and cannot but be attended with a decay of all that is good. It is highly seasonable now to instruct the people in the importance of external religion.

“And doubtless under this head must come into consideration a proper regard to the structures which are consecrated to the service of God. In the present turn of the age one may observe a wonderful frugality in everything which has respect to religion, and extravagance in everything else. But amidst the appearance of opulence and improvement in all common things, which are now seen in most places, it would be hard to find a reason why these monuments of ancient piety should not be preserved in their original beauty and magnificence. But in the least opulent places they must be preserved in becoming repair, and everything relating to the Divine service be, however, decent and clean, otherwise we shall vilify the face of religion, whilst we keep it up. All this is, indeed, principally the duty of others; yours is to press strongly upon them what is their duty in this respect, and admonish them of it often, if they are negligent.”—(Works, Vol. 2., pp. 315, 317.)

Then followed the great schism of which the pious Wesley was unwillingly and unwittingly the leader, but of which the apathy and sloth of the Church was the true cause. A resuscitation of Christian life was afterwards brought about by a school in the Church which, though with little knowledge of or care for ecclesiastical traditions or primitive usage, yet almost within the memory of the present generation represented the earnestness and energy of the establishment. Both these events were unfavourable to the maintenance of ritual observances.

The piety of this school is not incompatible with superior erudition and historical knowledge in persons more susceptible to the influences of external rites and ceremonies. A school has sprung up in our memory, which, having first restored the true ecclesiastical architecture in our churches, proceeded to inquire into the real meaning of the rubrical directions in our Prayer Book, examined them by the light of history and tradition, and arrived at the conclusion that a bare and unattractive service, sordid furniture, and the absence of all that was beautiful in art in the Temple of God, was not a necessary condition of a Church which had thrown off the corruptions and novelties of Rome. The Prayer Book referred them to the custom and usage which prevailed in the second year of Edward the Sixth. In the Lutheran and Swedish services they found crucifixes, incense, lighted candles, and gorgeous dresses. They thought it obvious, therefore, that no necessary connexion subsisted between these ornaments and usages of primitive antiquity, and the mediæval and false claims of the Papacy.

Recognizing the spirit of this movement in the Church, the late Bishop of London, in his charge in 1842, used this emphatic language:—

“Every clergyman is bound by the plainest obligations of duty to obey the directions of the rubric. For conforming to them, in every particular, he needs no other authority than that of the rubric itself. We ought not to be deterred from a scrupulous observance of the rights and customs prescribed or sanctioned by our Church by a dread of being thought too careful about the externals of religion. If we are not to go beyond her ritual, at least we ought not to fall short of it; nor to make her public services less frequent, nor more naked and inexpressive, than she intends them to be.”

Again he says,—

“An honest endeavour to carry out the Church's intentions, in every part of public worship, ought not to be stigmatized as Popish or superstitious. If it be singular, it is such a singularity as should be cured, not by one person's desisting from it, but by all taking it up. When I have been asked, whether I approved of certain changes in the mode of celebrating Divine service, which were spoken of as novelties, but which were in fact nothing more than a return to the anciently established order of the Church, my answer has been, far from questioning the right of the clergy to observe the rubric in every particular, I know it to be their duty; and the only doubt is, how far are we justified in not enforcing such observance in every instance.”—(pp. 30, 31.)

Bishop Stanley, in his charge in 1845, says, “Speaking of the decorations of churches, I am aware of the reply; they pander, it is said, to idolatry, and may again become the object of superstitious worship. In a former age, when the minds of men were under the control of a superstitious and

“designing priesthood, such reasoning might have weight, but I must confess I cannot now hear it without mingled sentiments of pain and surprise.” * * * “We need not,” he concludes, “like the Puritans of old, banish the influence of art from the sphere of religion, and return to that rude spirit which went forth as the destroyer of all that was beautiful, glorying in its barbarous mutilations.”

I will conclude my observations on this subject in the words of the oldest and certainly not the least able and learned of our prelates. In 1851 the Bishop of Exeter said, (from Appendix A. to the report of the Ritual Commission, page 122,) “Let me make one general remark. Where the congregation consists mainly of the poorest orders, there we commonly observe a great love of a majestic and even elaborate service. The ornaments of their church; the storied glass; the painted, and it may be gilded, walls; the table of the Lord elevated above the rest, and decked with sober yet costly furniture; the pealing organ; the chanted psalms; the surpliced choristers; the solemnity of the whole ritual—gladdens, while it elevates their minds; they recognize in it their own high privilege as Christians, and rejoice to find themselves equal participants with their richest neighbours in the homage thus paid to the common Lord and Father of all. In truth, when we consider the little which the poor man has to delight his heart and touch his imagination in his own squalid home, we ought to rejoice that he can find enjoyment in the house of prayer, his Father’s house. For this reason few occurrences have affected me more than the lamentations of the poor worshippers, in one of the districts of the metropolis, when they saw, or thought they saw, at the dictation of a riotous and lawless mob of strangers, the approaching surrender of the ritual which they loved, and which was their weekly, to many among them the daily, solace of that poverty to which the providence of God had consigned them.”

It was in this spirit that the Church of St. Alban’s was, we know, built. In this spirit we must all hope that its services have been conducted. But it remains to be seen whether they have or have not gone beyond those bounds of ritual observance which the law of our Church has set.

General Principles for the Construction of Rubrics.

In the foregoing observations I have dealt with two heads of the arguments urged by the Counsel for the Promoter, which for the sake of clearness I will repeat; namely,—

That these particular practices are by necessary implication prohibited, inasmuch as they are connected with Roman or Popish doctrines.

And that as such they have, as a matter of fact, been disused ever since the Reformation.

I am of opinion that neither of these arguments can avail to prove that the practices complained of are illegal. I have now to consider the two other heads of their argument; namely,

That, as by these practices a new rite or ceremony has been added to those which are prescribed by the Statutes of Uniformity, such practices are unlawful.

And that these particular additions are expressly prohibited.

The due consideration of these arguments renders it expedient that I should previously determine upon what principles the rubrical directions of the Prayer Book should be construed.

It has been argued on the one side that the legal effect of express directions in the rubric is to shut out every rite, ceremony, utensil, or ornament which is not the subject of such express provision, or by necessary implication directly subsidiary to it. It has been argued, on the other side, that every ancient Catholic rite, ceremony, utensil, or ornament which is not the subject of an express prohibition is lawful. I am not disposed to assent to either of these propositions in their full latitude.

I believe the following rules to be well founded in principle, reason, and law, and I shall endeavour to guide myself by them; namely, that what is expressly prohibited is prohibited altogether, and may not be evaded by any contrivance which, under a different name or appearance, attains the same end; that whatever is expressly ordered may not be evaded by an illusory or partial compliance; that whatever is subsidiary to what is ordered, and whatever being in itself decent and proper in accordance with primitive and catholic use, and which is not by any fair construction necessarily connected with those Roman novelties which the Church “cut away and clean rejected” (to use the language of the Prayer Book) at the Reformation, is, under restrictions to be mentioned, lawful.

There are, in other words, three categories of these things,

- (1.) Things lawful and ordered.
- (2.) Things unlawful and prohibited.
- (3.) Things neither ordered nor prohibited expressly, or by implication, but the doing or use of which must be governed by the living discretion of some person in authority.

Construction of Rubric as to the Discretion of the Ordinary.

I wish to say a word first upon this last category.

The compilers of our Prayer Book, and the Legislature which clothed it with the authority of a Statute, were well aware that such a living discretion was indispensably necessary for the government of the Church in the performance of her Divine service, as well as in the due discharge of her other functions.

In the preface concerning the service of the Church, it is stated that “nothing can be so plainly set forth but doubts may arise in the use and practice of the same;” accordingly the first and every subsequent Prayer Book, including the present one, provided what must have been intended and believed to be a sufficient remedy for the evil which was thus contemplated as of possible, perhaps probable, occurrence.

It is important to notice the nature and character of the remedy proposed. It was one in perfect accordance with the principle upon which the order and discipline of the Church had, in obedience to the will of Christ, been founded by his Apostles; a principle which recognized the apostolical order of bishops as necessary for the due constitution of the Church; and in perfect accordance with the great principle of the Reformation of the Church in England, that a duly consecrated bishop had a Divine authority, perfect and complete in itself, and wholly independent of the previous consent or subsequent ratification of that authority by the Pope.

The remedy was as follows: "to appease all such diversity (if any arise), and for the resolution of all doubts concerning the manner how to understand, do, and execute the things contained in this book, the parties that so doubt or diversely take anything shall always resort to the bishop of the diocese, who by his discretion shall take order for the quieting and appeasing of the same; so that the same order be not contrary to anything contained in this book, and if the bishop of the diocese be in doubt, then he may send for the resolution thereof to the archbishop."

The words of this order deserve the closest attention; it provides "for the resolution of all doubts concerning the manner how to understand, do, and execute the things contained in this book;" terms which certainly appear to comprehend every conceivable difficulty or doubt which could possibly arise. The authority which is to resolve these doubts and remove these difficulties, is that officer in whose hands, previously to the statutory enactment of any Prayer Book, the Church had placed a supreme command over all that relates to her ritual.—"The parties that so doubt or diversely take anything shall always resort to the bishop of the diocese." The mode of resolution is not stated, but the language is such as to render it improbable that any formal proceedings in a court were contemplated. "The bishop by his discretion shall take order for the quieting or appeasing of the same,"—large, and, I think, wise expressions, making reference to a living authority, such as the nature of the thing seems to demand, and the Church had always recognized as having the power to deal with the circumstances of each case as they arose. Was there any limitation to this authority?—One only, it appears; that his order "shall not be contrary to anything contained in this book;" leaving, therefore, in my judgment, within the domain of his authority that third category to which I have referred, namely, "things neither ordered nor prohibited expressly or by implication."

Was there any provision for controlling the exercise of this discretion?—Yes, a provision not inserted it is true in the first Prayer Book, but equally in accordance with the discipline of the Catholic Church and with the denial of papal pretension, the provision—"that if the bishop be in doubt he may send for the resolution thereof to the archbishop."

Some construction must be placed upon this order. There are but three possible constructions which occur to my mind: one, that the order merely means that the minister or "party" may quiet his own conscience by having recourse to the private advice of the Ordinary, which advice, when given, he is conscientiously bound to follow; a second construction is, that the order contemplates formal proceedings in the ecclesiastical courts of the diocese and the province; the third is, that which I have suggested.

It is certainly remarkable that as far as I am aware this order has never yet received any judicial interpretation. I remember very well arguing before a very learned ecclesiastical judge, Sir Herbert Jenner Fust, in "the Stone Altar case;" (it was brought into the Court of Arches by appeal from the sentence of the Court of Ely, which Court had affirmed the legality of the stone altar,) that the question was one to be decided according to the discretion of the Ordinary, according to this order; and, in his judgment, Sir H. J. Fust said, "After much consideration now given, I am of opinion the matter is not one of discretion but of law. Were it otherwise I should be desirous of consulting the wish of the parish."—(1 Robertson's Reports, p. 255.) It was clearly, therefore, the opinion of Sir H. J. Fust, who was perfectly conversant with ecclesiastical law and practice, that this order was not to be treated as a dead letter, although, after much reflection, he was of opinion the questions as to the material and position of the altar-table did not come within its purview. The structure of a stone altar he conceived to be "contrary" to the provisions of the Prayer Book. And in Westerton v. Liddell, the Lords of the Privy Council, after deciding that it was lawful to place upon the holy table cloths of various colours, observed, "whether the cloths so used are suitable or not is a matter to be left to the discretion of the Ordinary."—(Moore's Report, p. 188.)

There is a difficulty arising out of this construction, from the consideration of which I must not shrink. It may be said that the bishop, when he had taken order for appeasing the doubt, would have no legal means of enforcing that order, and that for the purpose of such enforcement he must have recourse to his court. But it appears to me that, on the supposition that the matter was one on which he could exercise his discretion, he could clothe his order with the character of a monition, and that a disobedience to such monition would subject the person disobeying to the penalties of contumacy.

I should observe that the canon law unquestionably placed in the hands of the bishop the authority to govern all questions of ritual.

"Et quidem" (Van Espen says) "quia dispares diversarum nationum mores et ingenia diversos ritus et cæremonias, ut in politicis ita in ecclesiasticis exigunt, hinc in ritibus magna ecclesiarum varietas; præsertim quia nullo extante de his Christi vel Apostolorum præcepto, libera potestas episcopis relicta erat, id sentiendi et decernendi quod unicuique salvâ fide magis expediens videbatur."

And citing the decree of a synod he says: "Novæ cæremonix nullæ in ecclesiis recipiantur sine episcopi judicio."—(Van Espen, vol. i., pp. 411, 412.)

Upon this construction of this rubrical order, it will be my duty to consider whether any of the charges preferred against Mr. Mackonochie ought to have been dealt with by the discretion of the Ordinary, and not to have been made the subject of a criminal proceeding against him in this or in any other Court.

Construction of Rubrics generally.

With respect to the two other categories of rubrics, namely, those which relate to things lawful and ordered, and things unlawful and prohibited, there is a question in limine which must be considered. Is there a common law of the Church unwritten, living by usage, though partly expressed, perhaps, by judicial decisions; but still more, to use a common expression, taken for granted by all authorities in Church and State—filling up the void of positive provision in statute or formulary—a necessary part of an organized religious system and establishment, rendering the practical working of it possible, and, on the whole, harmonious?

That there has been such a usage in the Church at large, from its earliest foundation, is certain. "We know no such "customs, neither we nor the churches of God," was the language which we learn from inspired authority she used as her shield against the earliest assaults upon her integrity. "Let the ancient customs prevail" was the maxim, fatal to the medieval and modern pretensions of Rome, which the Church enunciated in her earliest œcumenical council. The canon law of the Western Church fully recognizes custom and usages as a distinct source of ecclesiastical jurisprudence. Was the branch of this Church, which the constitution and the Legislature have established in this kingdom devoid of this subsidiary aid to her discipline and government?

In the case of Willson v. McMath (3 Phillimore, 78) a very curious question was raised, whether the minister, as such, has a right to preside at a vestry meeting.

Sir John Nicholl, the Official Principal of the Archbishop of Canterbury, observed: "The case is said to be a new one, so far as regards any express law, or any judicial decision on the subject.

"There is no statute, no canon, no reported judgment, either expressly affirming or expressly negating the right. It nevertheless may exist as a part of the common law of the land, as a part of the lex non scripta, which is of binding authority, as much in the ecclesiastical as in the temporal Courts. Indeed, the whole canon law rests for its authority in this country upon received usage; it is not binding here proprio vigore. Moreover, this Court upon many points is governed, in the absence of express statute or canon, by the jus tacito et illiterato hominum consensu et moribus expressum."

"It is true that generally the existence of this jus non scriptum is ascertained by reports of adjudged cases; but it may be proved by other means: it may be proved by public notoriety, or be deducible from principles, and analogy, or be shown by legislative recognitions. Published reports of the decisions of the Ecclesiastical Courts (with one very recent exception) do not exist; and if they did, yet the particular right in dispute may never have been so much as doubted or before." Upon this principle, in the time of James I., the King's Bench refused to prohibit the questioned Ordinary from compelling a woman to be churched in a veil, because it was certified by divers bishops to be the common custom of the Church of England.* There is, therefore, a common law of the Church which runs by the side of the statute law, and which must assist in the construction of it.

It is often said that a rubric should be construed on the same principles as an Act of Parliament; but admitting this to be so, it is obvious that there are peculiar difficulties incident to the construction of a rubric which seldom, or in a much less degree, beset the construction of an ordinary statute. And it will appear from what has been already said, that the right understanding of the rules supplied by the rubric for the regulation of the services may often require a reference to the sources not only of historical, but to a certain extent theological knowledge.

There is one important rule applicable to the construction of all instruments, namely, that the construer should endeavour to place himself in the position of the framer of the instrument, and to gather from all the circumstances which surrounded him at the time when he framed it, and from the context of other portions of the instrument, what the real meaning and intention was, if the language which he has used have left that meaning and intention doubtful or obscure.

In the case of Escott v. Mastin (4 Moore's Reports, P. C., p. 323), in which a question as to the lawfulness of baptism, administered by a layman with water and the invocation of the Trinity, was mooted, the Lords of the Privy Council observed as follows:—

"The 68th canon being that upon which this proceeding is grounded, it is necessary to consider what the law was at the date of the canon, the year 1603. Without distinctly ascertaining this, we cannot satisfactorily determine what change the rubric of 1661, adopted into the 13th and 14th Charles II., cap. 4., made, and in what state it left the law on this head; because it is very possible that the same enactment of a statute, or the same direction in a rubric, bearing one meaning, may receive one construction when it deals for the first time with a given subject-matter, and have another meaning and construction when it deals with a matter that has already been made the subject of enactment or direction; and this is most specially the case where the posterior enactment or direction deals with the matter without making any reference to the prior enactment or direction. Still more it is necessary to note the original state of the law, when it is the common law that comes in question, as well as the statute.

"The words are plainly directory, and do not amount to an imperative alteration of the rule then subsisting. If lay baptism was valid before the new rubric of 1661, there is nothing in that rubric to invalidate it. Generally speaking, where anything is established by statutory provisions, the enactment of a new provision must clearly indicate an intention to abrogate the old, else both will be understood to stand together if they may. But, more especially, where the common law is to be changed—and, most especially, the common law which a statutory provision had recognized and enforced—the intention of any new enactment to abrogate it must be plain to exclude a construction by which both may stand together. This principle, which is plainly founded in reason and common sense, has been largely sanctioned by authority. The distinction which Lord Coke takes in one place between affirmative and negative words, giving more effect to the latter (Coke, Littleton, 115, a), has sometimes been denied, at least doubted, (W. Jones, 270, Lovelace's case, before the Windsor Forest Court, in 1632, in which there is a dictum of Lord Chief Justice Richardson,) Mr. Hargrave thinks upon a misapprehension (Note 154). But the

* Vin. Abr. 17, p. 231, tit. "Prerogative of the King." "Ordinary and power of the Ordinary." Burns' Eccles. Law, Ed. Phil., p. 318.

“ rule which is laid down in 2nd Inst., 200, has been adopted by all the authorities, that ‘ a statute made in the affirmative, without any negative expressed or implied, doth not take away the common law.’ So Comyn's Digest, Parliament, R. 23; and he cites the case De Jure Ecclesiastico, in 5th Rep. 5, b, which lays down the rule in terms.”

Let me apply this rule to the subject before me. The first Prayer Book of Edward VI. contains only one prohibition, the Elevation of the Blessed Sacrament; but it contains various directions respecting the articles to be used in the administration of the Holy Communion. It has been pointed out that the enumeration of these articles could not be exhaustive, inasmuch as the indispensable article of “ a fair linen cloth ” is omitted from it.

The argument is, I think, valid; the officiating priest must have supplied this article, and the Legislature must have intended him to supply it.

He must have looked to an unwritten use, the foundation of a common law for the Church, not less than for the State. Just as much as it must have intended by the rubric in our present Prayer Book: “ The priest shall then place upon the table so much bread and wine as he shall think sufficient,” that there should be a table or place from which the elements should be then brought; and therefore the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council, reversing the sentence of the Consistory of London and the Court of Arches, decided that the Credence Table, which supplied this want, was a lawful ornament. Those who compiled the first Prayer Book of Edward VI. were not inventing a ritual for the first time, but were constructing one from the various service books, some English and some foreign, which they had before them. This ritual was to be placed in the hands of persons conversant with the older service books; and it seems highly unreasonable to suppose that it was not competent to the priest to supply any accidental omission in the new ritual by a reference to the previously existing usage and practice. In the same way, in the Sarum Missal no mention is to be found of the two lights to be placed upon the altar, but there is no doubt that the constitution which ordered those two lights was legally binding upon, and that they must have been a part of the furniture of, those churches which adopted the use of Sarum, at least in the province of Canterbury. Another illustration is furnished by the very remarkable fact that the second Prayer Book of Edward VI. omitted all reference to the manual acts, ordered in the first and last Prayer Book, attending the consecration of the Holy Elements; and that during the whole period which elapsed between the date of the second Prayer Book in 1552 and that of the present Prayer Book in 1661, the officiating priest was left without any direction upon this subject in the Prayer Book which he was to use. Now, one of two consequences must follow: either the cup was never taken in the hand, the bread never broken, as at present, or these manual acts were done without any specific order in the Prayer Book, as a matter of recognized usage and custom. No proof has been laid before me, and I can find none, as to the omission of these necessary acts during a period of more than a century, and I think the inference that they must have been still practised is reasonable and sound.

And in this opinion I am strengthened by observing that at the Savoy Conference the Dissenters objected, “ that the manner of the consecrating of the elements is not here ” (i.e., in the consecration prayer) “ explicite and distinct enough, and the minister's breaking of the bread is not so much as mentioned.” The bishops replied by conceding that the manner of consecrating the elements be “ made more explicit and express,” which was the origin of our present rubric.—(Cardwell, Conferences, pp. 321, 363.)

The opinion of Bishop Cosin (vol. 5, p. 65, ed. 1855), a high authority upon this subject, appears to me sound. “ The book ” (he says) “ does not everywhere enjoin and prescribe every little order that should be said or done, but takes it for granted that people are acquainted with such common [sic] and things always used already. Let the Puritans then here give over their endless cavils, and let ancient custom prevail, the thing which our Church chiefly intended in the review of this service.” This reasoning, therefore, brings me to the conclusion, that from the mere silence of the rubric a positive prohibition cannot in all cases be inferred.

Something more is required to render the article supplied illegal. For instance, the mention of the article in a former Prayer Book, and the omission of it in the present, may furnish a presumption that it was intentionally rejected, even when it be in itself innocent, or apparently expedient. Or the article must have, as has been already observed, some necessary connection with a use inconsistent with the principles upon which the formularies of the Church are founded.

I must repeat that the rubrics with respect to decorations and furniture of the church are not exhaustive. This point has been decided by the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council. They allowed on this principle the use of the cross and the credence table and the various coloured clothes for the Holy Table. They allowed also the use of a moveable ledge for the purpose of holding candlesticks upon the Holy Table. This question came before their Lordships as a corollary to their principal decision on the Knightsbridge Church cases. It was contended that the monition of the Court with respect to St. Barnabas Church had not been obeyed as to the Holy Table or as to the cross. The act on petition alleged, that the monition was still in part uncomplied with in the following particulars:—First, that the metal cross which was standing in the church or chapel, on or attached to the super-altar, on the stone altar, which formerly stood therein prior to the delivery of the judgment of the Judicial Committee on the 21st of March 1857, was then placed on the sill of the great eastern window of the church or chapel of ease of Saint Barnabas, above the table then used as a Communion Table in the church or chapel. Second, that the table which had been substituted in the church or chapel for the stone altar which formerly stood therein was not a flat table, but had an elevation or structure placed thereon; so as to resemble what is generally known and described as a super-altar in Roman Catholic churches or chapels.

The answer on behalf of the Hon. and Rev. Robert Liddell and the then Chapel wardens to this act on petition, denied that the monition was in any part uncomplied with, and pleaded; first, that the metal cross which was on the 27th of March 1857 standing in the church or chapel of Saint Barnabas (attached to the ledge of wood at the back of the stone altar, which then stood in the chancel of the church or chapel) was at the present time placed on the sill of the centre compartment of the eastern window of the chancel of the church or chapel, five feet ten inches above the surface of the Communion Table standing there, and wholly disconnected therewith; secondly, that the table which had been substituted in the church or chapel for the stone altar which formerly stood therein was a flat moveable table of wood; and that the elevation or structure alleged in the second article of the act on petition as placed thereon was simply a moveable ledge of wood placed in order that two candlesticks might stand thereon at the back of the table, and that the ledge was always raised up before the celebration of the Lord's Supper, in order that the decree of the Court might be complied with, namely, that a fine linen cloth should cover the Communion Table at the time of the ministration of the Lord's Supper, and that the cross was in the church or chapel at the time of the consecration thereof, and then formed one of the ornaments of the church or chapel. Their Lordships were of opinion, "that no disobedience, no impropriety, no irregularity, has been established; and that the present application, therefore, failed."*

In the same spirit, usages not prescribed by the Prayer Book during the service have been allowed,—such as turning to the east while the creeds are read, the "Glory be to Thee, O Lord" before the reading of the Gospel, and the expression of thanks after the reading of it, the use of hymns—a use perhaps not only not ordered, but contrary to the order of the Prayer Book; and an inscription on a tombstone of "pray for the soul" of a departed person has been, by express judicial decision, pronounced not to be "contrary to the articles, canons, constitutions, doctrine, and discipline of the Church."—(Brecks v. Woolfrey, 1 Curteis Rep., 880.)

And here I will notice what I may call the churchwarden argument. It has been said that one test of the legality of ornaments is whether the churchwardens can or cannot be compelled to provide them. I am of opinion, however, that this is not a conclusive test. The law upon this subject was well and clearly laid down by Dr. Lushington,†—namely, that there are two classes of expenses for parochial purposes; one, necessary expenses, which the churchwardens may defray of their own authority out of a rate, without the sanction of the vestry; another, expenses not absolutely necessary, a class which requires, if they are to be defrayed out of a rate, the previous sanction of the vestry. Under this latter category would fall all expenses incurred for furniture of a decorative kind, which would also require the sanction of the Ordinary.

The Special Charges considered.

Having thus considered the principles of law which ought to guide me in adjudicating the charges preferred against the Reverend Defendants in the cases before me, I will now consider and pronounce judgment upon each individual charge, which, for the sake of convenience, I will arrange, in the following manner:—

- First, the Elevation of the Blessed Sacrament, including the Kneeling;
- Secondly, the use of Incense during the administration of the Holy Communion;
- Thirdly, the Mixing the Water with the Wine during the administration of the Holy Communion;
- Fourthly, the special charges against Mr. Simpson;
- Fifthly, the use of Lights during the administration of the Holy Communion.

Elevation; as to Mr. Mackintosh.

3rd Article.—The third of the articles in this suit charges the Defendant, "That he, the Defendant had in his said Church, and within two years last past, to wit, on Sunday the 23d of December, on Christmas Day last past, and on Sunday the 30th December, all in the year 1866, during the prayer of consecration, in the order of the administration of the Holy Communion, elevated the paten in a greater degree than by merely taking the same into his hands, as prescribed by the Book of Common Prayer, and in a greater degree than is necessary to conform with the requirements of such book, and permitted and sanctioned such elevation; and taken into his hands and elevated the cup during the prayer of consecration aforesaid in a manner contrary to the said statutes, and to the said Book of Common Prayer, and permitted and sanctioned the cup to be so taken and elevated; and knelt or prostrated himself before the consecrated elements during the prayer of consecration, and permitted and sanctioned such kneeling or prostrating by other clerks in holy orders."

Answer.—To this article the Defendant has answered, That whilst he admits that he, the Defendant, did on the said two Sundays, and on Christmas Day, during the prayer of consecration, kneel, and sanction kneeling by other clerks, before the Lord's Table, he denies that his said party did on the said two Sundays, and on the said Christmas Day, kneel or prostrate himself before the consecrated elements, or permit and sanction such kneeling or prostration by other clerks in holy orders, as in the 3rd Article pleaded. And he further alleges that whilst he admits that he did on the said two Sundays and Christmas Day, in the said 3rd Article mentioned, elevate and sanction the elevation by other clerks of the paten and cup above his head, as in the said 3rd Article pleaded, yet that such elevation of the paten and cup has been wholly discontinued by the said Defendant during the administration of the Holy Communion ever since the said 30th December 1866, and long prior to the institution of this suit; that such practice was discontinued in consequence of legal advice, and in compliance with the expressed wish of the Lord Bishop of the diocese of London, and with a resolution of convocation, as was well known to the promoter of this suit before he instituted the same."

4th Article.—The fourth Article alleges "that such elevation of the cup and paten, and such kneeling and prostrating, are severally unlawful additions to and variations from the form and order prescribed * Judgment delivered by Lord Justice Knight Bruce, 14th June 1861, on appeal to the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council from the Archdeacon Court of Canterbury. The Hon. and Rev. Robert Liddell, William Parkes, and George Evans, Appellants, and James Beal, Respondent.

† 1 Burns' Eccl. L., p. 388 a.—Ed. Phillimore: "Gathercole v. Wade."

“ and appointed by the said statutes, and by the said Book of Common Prayer and administration of the sacraments and other rites and ceremonies of the Church, and are contrary to the said statutes and to the 14th, 36th, and 38th of the said constitutions and canons, and also to an Act of Parliament passed in a session of parliament holden in the 13th year of Queen Elizabeth, cap. 12., and to the 25th and 28th of the articles of religion therein referred to.”

Answer.—The Defendant to this article answers, “ That he denies that the elevation of the paten and the taking and the elevation of the cup so discontinued as aforesaid, and the kneeling and prostrating charged in the said third article, are severally unlawful additions to and variations from the form and order prescribed and appointed by the said statutes, and by the said Book of Common Prayer and administration of the sacraments and other rites and ceremonies of the Church, or that they are contrary to the said statutes, and to the 14th, 36th, and 38th of the said constitutions and canons, and also to an Act of Parliament passed in a session of parliament holden in the 13th year of Queen Elizabeth, cap. 12., and to the 25th and 28th articles of religion therein referred to, as in the 4th article alleged.”

The elevation of the Blessed Sacrament was not incorporated formally into the law of the Western Church before the beginning of the 13th century. The account given by Cardinal Bona is clear and concise (Rerum Liturgicarum, lib. II., cap. 3, § 2): “ Latini peractâ consecratione, Græci paulo ante communionem, ut ex Liturgiis Jacobi, Basilii, et Chrysostomi manifestum est, corpus Dominicum et calicem elevant, ut a populo adoretur. Idque ab antiquo tempore fieri solitum indicant scriptores Græci.” He then cites a variety of authorities in support of this position, and mentions the introduction of the custom of ringing a bell at the time of the elevation, at first as it should appear in order to excite the devotions of the faithful, and not for the purpose of the worship of the Host (p. 349).

It was not till the year 1217, during the Papacy of Honorius III., that this peculiar doctrine of elevation became part of the canon law.

In lib. III., tit. XLII., Decret. Greg., cap. X., the decree upon the subject is as follows :

“ Sane, cum olim (ut infra). Ne propter incuriam Sacerdotum divina indignatio gravior exardescat, districtè præcipiendo mandamus, quatenus a Sacerdotibus Eucharistia in loco singulari, mundo et signato semper honorifice collocata, devote ac fideliter conservetur. Sacerdos vero quilibet frequenter doceat plebem suam, ut, cum in celebratione missarum elevatur hostia salutaris, se reverenter inclinèt, idem faciens cum eam defert, Presbyter ad infirmum. Quam in decenti habitu superposito mundo velamine ferat, et referat manifestè ac honorifice ante pectus cum omni reverentia et timore, semper lumine præcedente, cum sit candor lucis æternæ, ut ex hoc apud omnes fides et devotio augeatur. Prælati autem hujusmodi mandati graviter punire non differant transgressores: si et ipsi divinam et nostram volunt effugere ultionem.”*

William, Bishop of Paris, soon after the beginning of the 13th century, made an order that, “ Sicut alias statutum fuit, in celebratione missarum, quando corpus Christi elevatur, in ipsâ elevatione vel paulo ante campana pulsetur, ut sic mentes fidelium ad orationem excitentur.”

And Archbishop Peccham, who was consecrated in the year 1278 and died in the year 1292, appears to have first introduced into England this custom by the following constitution † :

“ Altissimus, et infra. In elevatione corporis Christi ab una parte ad minus pulsentur campanæ, ut populares, qui celebrationi missarum non valent quotidie interesse, ubicunque fuerint, sive in agris sive in domibus, flectant genua, indulgentias concessas a pluribus episcopis habituri.”

Lyndwood (writing, it is to be observed, about 1430) has this gloss: “ Elevatione, quæ fit ut populus illud adoret.”

This passage appears to me to dispose of the argument addressed to me by the leading counsel for Mr. Simpson, “ that it had been the invariable practice of the Church of England not to connect adoration with elevation.”

Nor am I satisfied by the difference between the canon of the Sarum use and that of the Roman Missal upon this point, that at the time of the Reformation the adoration was separated from the elevation of the Host. The true proposition is that the original practice, in England as in other countries, had been to stir up the devotion of the people to God by the elevation of the Blessed Sacrament, until in this, as in so many other instances, the Church, or perhaps more strictly speaking the Curia, of Rome introduced an unwarrantable innovation upon an ancient and laudable usage.

The first prohibition of this custom, of elevating the Host in order that it might be adored, is to be found in the Order of the Communion of Edward VI. which was published in 1548, and preceded the first Book of Common Prayer. The last “note” to that order, after providing for the case in which it has become necessary to consecrate more wine than had been originally consecrated, contains these words, “ and without any levation or lifting up.” This prohibition would seem from the context to be limited to the case of an additional consecration of wine. In the first Prayer Book, after the prayer of consecration, follow these words: “ These words before rehearsed are to be said, turning still to the altar, without any elevation, or showing the sacrament to the people.”

The Council of Trent, by the 6th canon of the 13th session, passed the 11th of October 1561, decrees: “ Si quis dixerit, in sancto eucharistiæ sacramento Christum unigenitum Dei Filium non esse cultu patriæ, etiam externo, adorandum, atque ideo nec festiva peculiari celebritate venerandum, neque in processionibus secundum laudabilem et universalem ecclesiæ sanctæ ritum et consuetudinem solemniter circumgestandum, vel non publice, ut adoretur, populo proponendum, et ejus adoratores esse idololatrias, anathema sit.”

* The title of the chapter is:—“ Eucharistia debet munde servari et in ejus elevatione et delatione populus debet se inclinare: et cum defertur ad infirmum, debet deferri in decenti habitu, et cum lumine, transgressores vero graviter sunt puniendi.”

† The title of this constitution is:—“ In elevatione corporis Christi pulsantur campanæ, ut officio interesse nequeunt, saltem genua flectant. Nec ministretur corpus Domini, nisi eis quos constat confessos esse, et parochianos ejus, in qua recipiant, ecclesia; nisi permissionem habeant, aut peregrini sint, aut necessitas urgeat.”

The liberal mind and strong sense of Luther appear in his treatment of this question of elevation. In the "Formula Missæ et Communions" for the church at Wittenberg he gives this direction: " (IV.) Finitâ benedictione chorus cantet sanctus et sub benedictus elevetur panis et calix, ritu hætenus " servato, vel propter infirmos qui hac repentinâ (mutatione) hujus insignioris in missâ ritûs forte " offendentur, præsertim ubi per conciones vernaculas docti, fuerint quid ed petatur elevatione." (Cod. Liturg. II. 87, ed. Leipsic, 1848.) Daniel, the learned German editor of the Codex Liturgicus, observes, that the elevation was for a long time not only tolerated but approved of and defended by Luther. He thought it right that when the Sacrament was lifted up a bell should ring; for the priest and the bell spoke the same language, namely, "Hearken, ye Christians, and behold, then take and eat, " take and drink, this is the body and blood of Christ." Afterwards Luther placed the elevation " inter adiaphora quæ possunt servari vel omitti ad habitum ecclesiarum," and discontinued it in the church at Wittenberg. The rite appears to have prevailed during the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries in the churches of Sweden and Denmark.

By the 28th of the Thirty-nine Articles, which became part of the Statute Law in 1571, though passed in Convocation with the consent of the Crown in 1562, it is declared, "That the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper was not by Christ's ordinance reserved, carried about, lifted up, or worshipped."

It is true that these words contain a declaration only, and no specific order; but looking to the spirit as well as to the letter of our present Prayer Book, as well as to this Article, and to the documents which illustrate the early period of the Reformation, it appears to me clear that those who guided the Church of England through this process of restoration to primitive antiquity were of opinion that the elevation was so connected with the repudiated doctrine of Transubstantiation, as distinguished from the Real Presence, that it ought not to be suffered to remain. And I am confirmed in this opinion by the authority of some of the greatest divines in our Church, of whom I will only cite two; one, the learned Grabe; the other, who received the thanks of the Sorbonne for his defence of the Nicene Creed,—Bishop Bull.

The former says, "But if it should be asked, of what use the said form, with such annotations, can be at present, when it is out of use, I answer, that it will serve, at least to show, to the honour of our forefathers, the first reformers of this Church, how near they, concerning the celebration of that most holy Sacrament, kept to the primitive institution of it by our blessed Saviour, and to the practice of His Holy Apostles and the first Apostolical Churches, although they changed and threw out many abuses and corruptions of this sacred ordinance which were crept in afterwards, and at last established by Popish decrees and councils of later ages. Such was, in the whole, the use of an unknown tongue in this holy office. . . . And not to mention the elevation of the consecrated elements to be worshipped by priest and all people as Jesus Christ Himself, both God and man in person, whom the Church of Rome believeth to be substantially and wholly present under the outward figures of bread and wine."—(Grabe, M. S. Adversaria.)

Bishop Bull, in a portion of his answer to the Bishop of Meaux, who had expressed his surprise that he was not a Romanist as well as a Catholic, says, "Come we now to the principal part of the Christian worship, the holy sacrament of the Eucharist. How lamentably hath the Church of Rome vitiated the primitive institution of that most sacred rite. She hath taken from the laity the blessed cup, contrary to our blessed Saviour's express command as expounded by the practice of the apostles, and of the universal church of Christ for the first ten centuries, as hath been above observed.

"All the learned advocates of the Roman Church, with all their sophistry, have not been able to defend her in this matter from manifest sacrilege, and a violation of the very essentials of the sacrament, as to the laity administered, nor can they prove it so administered to be a perfect sacrament. He that would see this in a short compass fully proved, and all the weak evasions of the Romanists obviated, may consult our learned Bishop Davenant. Besides, the whole administration of it is so clogged, so metaphorized and defaced by the addition of a multitude of ceremonies, and those some of them more becoming the stage than the table of our Lord, that if the blessed apostles were alive and present at the celebration of the mass in the Roman Church they would be amazed and wonder what the meaning of it was; sure I am they would never own it to be that same ordinance which they left to the churches.

"But the worst ceremony of all is the elevation of the Host to be adored by the people as very Christ himself under the appearance of bread, whole Christ, θεωάνθρωπος, 'God and man,' while they neglect the old sursum corda, the lifting up of their hearts to heaven where whole Christ indeed is."

The kind of elevation which it is charged that at one time Mr. Mackonochie practised, and as to which witnesses were examined before me, amounts upon the evidence to the following acts, that after the consecration, both of the bread and of the wine, he elevated the paten and the cup respectively for an appreciable time, after which there was a pause before the service was continued; this evidence was taken at the beginning of the cause; but during the progress of the argument, at the desire and with the consent of both counsel, Mr. Mackonochie was examined by me upon the single point, whether when the elevation was made his face was or was not towards the people, Mr. Mackonochie said, "I do not turn round to the people, and I never have done so during any time of the consecration prayer."*

This elevation Mr. Mackonochie asserts, and it is not denied, that he discontinued after conference with his diocesan, and upon the other grounds to which I have already referred, before the institution of this suit.

* I have said "with the consent and desire of both counsel," because such was the fact; but if Mr. Mackonochie was by law an incompetent witness their consent in a criminal case would not render his evidence admissible; but I venture to think that he was a competent witness, and am emboldened to hold this opinion, though it be at variance with that of my predecessor, in consequence of the observation made by the Lords of the Privy Council in "Berney v. The Lord Bishop of Norwich," a case in which Judgement was delivered on the 28th February 1867.

I am very glad that he did so, because in my judgement that kind of elevation was unlawful, and I must and do admonish Mr. Mackonochie not to recur to it.

His present practice is not complained of, and some elevation the rubrics of the present communion service must contemplate when they order as follows, "Here the priest shall take the paten into his hands;" that is, into both his hands; subsequently to which he is ordered to break the bread. So also when he is directed to take the cup into his hand there must be some elevation from the Holy Table.

Elevation; as to Mr. Simpson.

It is alleged in the 5th article filed against Mr. Simpson in the suit of Flamank v. Simpson, that he, Mr. Simpson, has, within two years last past, in the said parish of East Teignmouth, in the public celebration of the Holy Communion, after the Prayer of Consecration, raised the paten with both hands over his head, and the cup in like manner. And that such elevations of the paten and cup are unlawful additions to and alterations of the form and order prescribed and appointed by the said Book of Common Prayer and Administration of the Sacrament, and other rites and ceremonies of the Church, and are contrary to the said statute law, constitutions, and canons.

Mr. Simpson, in the fourth answer filed by him, denies that he has, as in the said 5th article alleged, within two years last past, so raised the paten with both hands over his head, and the cup in like manner. But he says that he has, within the time aforesaid, in the reading the Prayer of Consecration so raised the paten on pronouncing the words "Do this in remembrance of me;" and he has so raised the cup on pronouncing the words "This is my blood of the New Testament which is shed for you and for many, for the remission of sins."

It clearly follows, from what I have said as to Mr. Mackonochie, that the elevation practised by Mr. Simpson is unlawful, and must be discontinued.

Kneeling.

With respect to the charge against Mr. Mackonochie of kneeling or prostration before the Eucharist, I observed during the course of the argument that no charge of adoration of the Holy Sacrament itself, or of our Lord's body being present after a corporal manner in the Holy Sacrament, was contained in these Articles; that if it was intended to charge Mr. Mackonochie with either kind of adoration, the rules of pleading in criminal cases in this Court would have required that such adoration should have been distinctly and plainly averred.

The argument before me was confined to the allegation of improper or excessive kneeling; the evidence as to the fact was very far from being clear; Mr. Mackonochie was asked no question himself upon the subject.

Mr. Beames said, that after the elevation of the cup, Mr. Mackonochie prostrated himself on his knees with his head to the ground, and then that he knelt immediately after the cup was replaced, and that there was the same kneeling after the elevation of the paten. It was clear, however, from the evidence of this witness that Mr. Mackonochie remained on his knees, and that his head did not touch the ground, and that he did not really prostrate himself, supposing that such a gesture of devotion to be, which I do not pronounce it to be, illegal.

The only other witness, the Reverend Henry Malin, deposed that the clergy, already kneeling, threw their bodies forwards, and that the consecrating clerk knelt in the middle of the prayer, and then went on with the prayer. But on further examination he said that he was behind him all the time, that he could not in fact say that he prostrated himself, but to use his own words "there was a somewhat excessive bending forwards." He said he was kneeling himself at the time, and that it was his own practice, when not assisting, to kneel during the prayer of consecration.

It is true that the Rubric does not give precise directions that the celebrant himself should kneel at the times when it appears that Mr. Mackonochie does kneel; but I am very far from saying that it is not legally competent to him, as well as to the other priests and to the congregation, to adopt this attitude of devotion. It cannot be contended that at some time or other he must not kneel during the celebration, although no direction as to his kneeling at all are given by the Rubric.

It is observable that at the Savoy Conference the Puritans asked to have it considered "Whether it will not be fit to insert a rubrick touching kneeling at the communion, that is, to comply in all humilily with the prayer which the minister makes when he delivers the elements."

No notice of this request was taken by the bishops unless it be considered to be included in their concession, "That the general confession at the communion be pronounced by one of the ministers, the people saying after him, all kneeling humbly upon their knees."—(Cardwell's Conferences, pp. 275, 363.)

Moreover, in my opinion, if Mr. Mackonochie has committed any error in this respect, it is one which should not form the subject of a criminal prosecution, but belongs to the category of those cases which should be referred to the Bishop, in order that he may exercise thereupon his discretion, according to the Rubric to which I have already referred.

Incense.

The charge against Mr. Mackonochie as to the use of incense is twofold; the first part relates to what is technically called "censing persons and things," and is as follows:

7th Article.—The 7th article alleges, "that the said Defendant has in his said Church, and within two years last past, to wit, on Sunday the 23rd December, on Christmas Day last past, and on Sunday the 30th December, all in the year 1866, used incense for censing persons and things in and during the celebration of the Holy Communion, and permitted and sanctioned such use of incense."

Answer.—And the Defendant in answer to this article says, "that he admits that he (the Defendant) on the Sunday the 23rd December, on Christmas Day last past, and on Sunday the 30th December,

“ used incense for censuring persons and things in and during celebration of the Holy Communion and permitted and sanctioned such use of incense;” but he alleges, “ that ever since the 30th December 1866 he, the said Defendant, as was well known to the promoter of this suit prior to the institution thereof, desisted from so doing, and has ever since discontinued the said ceremony on being apprized by the opinion of counsel that such usage was of a doubtful legality, and that he has never since re-introduced the said ceremony, as appears in the published address of the said Defendant, dated January 1867, and exhibited and appended to the articles brought in and admitted in the cause.”

I should here observe, that an objection was taken on behalf of Mr. Mackonochie that this charge of censuring persons and things was not specified in the decree issued under the Letters of Request, and therefore, that according to the practice of this Court, it could not be preferred in the articles. My learned predecessor overruled this objection, and I thought it right, whatever my opinion might be, to abide by his decision.

It appears that Mr. Mackonochie has discontinued, though under protest, this particular use of incense, upon the same grounds and for the same reasons that he discontinued the elevation, and also before the institution of this suit.

The other part of the charge relates to another use of incense, and is laid in the following words:

8th Article.—The 8th article alleges, “ that the said Defendant has in his said Church, and within two years last past, to wit, on Sunday the 13th day of January A.D. 1867, unlawfully used incense in and during the celebration of the Holy Communion, and permitted and sanctioned such unlawful use of incense.”

Answer.—To this the Defendant has answered, “ that he admits that he has in his said Church, to wit, on Sunday the 13th day of January A.D. 1867, caused and allowed incense to be burnt during the reading of the prayer of consecration, and afterwards until the time for the administration of the Communion to the people, and permitted and sanctioned such use of incense, but that he denies that he used the same unlawfully, or that such use is unlawful.”

9th Article.—The 9th article charges, “ that such uses of incense as in the two preceding paragraphs alleged are severally an unlawful addition to and variation from the form and order prescribed and appointed by the said Statutes, and by the said Book of Common Prayer and administration of the Sacraments and other rites and ceremonies of the Church, and are contrary to the said Statutes, and to the 14th, 36th, and 38th of the said constitutions and canons.”

Answer.—The Defendant in his plea has answered, “ that he denies that such use of incense as in the 7th and 8th articles alleged are severally an unlawful addition to and variation from the form and order prescribed and appointed by the said Statutes, and by the said Book of Common Prayer and administration of the Sacraments and other rites and ceremonies of the Church, and are contrary to the said Statutes, and to the 14th, 36th, and 38th of the said constitutions and canons, as in the 9th article alleged.”

The objection is not taken to the general use of incense for the purposes of ornament or fumigation of the Church, for which purposes it appears to have been used at various times since the Reformation, and especially by the saintly Herbert to whom Mr. Coleridge referred:

“ The country parson,” Herbert says, “ hath a special care of his church, that all things there be decent and befitting his name by which it is called. Therefore, first, he takes order that all things be in good repair, as walls plastered, windows glazed, floor paved, seats whole, firm, and uniform, especially that the pulpit and desk, and communion table and font, be, as they ought, for those great duties that are performed in them. Secondly, that the Church be swept and kept clean, without dust or cobwebs, and at great festivals strewed and stuck with boughs, and perfumed with incense. Thirdly, that there be fit and proper texts of Scripture everywhere painted, and that all the painting be grave and reverend, not with light colours or foolish antics. Fourthly, that all the books appointed by authority be there, and those not torn or fouled, but whole and clean, and well bound; and that there be a fitting and sightly communion cloth of fine linen, with a handsome and seemly carpet of good and costly stuff or cloth, and all kept sweet and clean in a strong and decent chest, with a chalice and cover, and a stoop or flagon, and a basin for alms and offerings; besides which he hath a poor man’s box conveniently seated to receive the charity of well minded people, and to lay up treasure for the sick and needy. And all this he doth, not as out of necessity, or as putting a holiness in the things, but as desiring to keep the middle way between superstition and slovenliness, and as following the Apostle’s two great and admirable rules in things of this nature; the first whereof is ‘ Let all things be done decently and in order;’ the second, ‘ Let all things be done to edification.’ ”

(Works of G. Herbert, vol. II. chap. xiii. p. 192. Title—“ A Priest to the Temple.”)

The burning of frankincense, probably on account of the grateful odour which it emits, and the graceful form which it assumes, may be traced, as an accompaniment of prayer, thanksgiving, and sacrifice, to the very earliest antiquity. All classical readers are aware of the βαμύς θυμής of Homer,* and of the “centum aræ Sabæo thure calentes.”† The use of incense in the Jewish worship was divinely ordained.‡ Nadab and Abihu were stricken with death because “they took either of them his censer and put fire therein, and put incense thereon, and offered strange fire before the Lord.”§ And Aaron, when he “made an atonement for himself and his house,” was directed to

* Iliad, VIII. 48.

† Virg. Æn. I. 420.

‡ Incense.—Dictionary of the Bible. Looking upon incense in connexion with the other ceremonial observances of the Mosaic ritual, it would rather seem to be symbolical, not of prayer itself, but of that which makes prayer acceptable, the intercession of Christ. In Rev. viii. 3, 4, the incense is spoken of as something distinct from, though offered with, the prayers of all the saints (Luke i. 10.), and in Rev. v. 8. it is the golden vials, and not the odours or incense, which are said to be the prayers of saints. Psalm cxli. 2. at first sight appears to militate against this conclusion; but if it be argued from this passage that incense is an emblem of prayer, it must also be allowed that evening sacrifice has the same symbolical meaning.

§ Lev. x. 1.

‘take a censer full of burning coals of fire from the altar of the Lord.’* Solomon provided censers of pure gold for the temple of “the Lord.”†

And it was truly urged that Zachariah was burning incense according to the custom of the priest’s office, in the Temple of the Lord,‡ when he received the message from the angel; and that in many places in Holy Writ prayer is symbolized by incense. It appears to have been very early in use, though the exact date of it is uncertain, among the Christians; it is mentioned in the apostolical canons, and there is no doubt that it is warranted by the authority of the primitive Church.

It certainly was in use in the Church of England in the time of King Edward the Sixth’s first Prayer Book. The visitation articles of Cranmer as to forbidding the censuring to certain images, &c., supplies one of the proofs of this fact. On the other hand the use of it during the celebration of the Eucharist is not directly ordered in any prayer book, canon, injunction, formulary, or visitation article of the Church of England since the Reformation. Bishop Andrewes, a very high authority, appears to have used it, though in what way is not clear, in his own private chapel; and probably traces of the use of it may be found in the private chapels of other bishops, and in the Royal Chapels.

It is not, however, necessarily subsidiary to the celebration of the Holy Communion, and it is not to be found in the rubrics of the present Prayer Book, which describe with considerable minuteness every outward act which is to be done at that time.

To bring in incense at the beginning or during the celebration, and remove it at the close of the celebration, of the Eucharist, appears to me a distinct ceremony, additional and not even indirectly incident to the ceremonies ordered by the Book of Common Prayer.

Although therefore it be an ancient, innocent, and pleasing custom, I am constrained to pronounce that the use of it by Mr. Mackonochie in the manner specified in both charges is illegal, and must be discontinued.

Mixing Water with the Wine.

Article 10.—The 10th article against Mr. Mackonochie alleges, “that he, the Defendant, has in his said church, and within two years last past, to wit, on Sunday the 23rd day of December, on Christmas Day last past, on Sunday the 30th day of December, all in the year of our Lord 1866, and on Sunday the 13th day of January A.D. 1867, during the celebration of the Holy Communion, mixed water with the wine used in the administration of the Holy Communion, and permitted and sanctioned such mixing, and the administration to the communicants of the wine and water so mixed.”

Answer.—The defendant admits this article to be true.

Article 11.—The 11th article states, “that such mixing and administration of the wine and water is an unlawful addition to and variation from the form and order prescribed and appointed by the said statutes, and by the said Book of Common Prayer and administration of the Sacraments and other rites and ceremonies of the Church, and is contrary to the said statutes, and to the 14th, 20th, 21st, 36th, and 38th of the said constitutions and canons.”

Answer.—The defendant has denied in his plea, “that such mixing and administration of the wine and water, as in the said 10th article alleged, is an unlawful addition to and variation from the form and order prescribed and appointed by the said statutes, and by the said Book of Common Prayer, and administration of the Sacraments and other rites and ceremonies of the Church, and is contrary to the said statutes, and to the 14th, 20th, 21st, 36th, and 38th of the said constitutions and canons, as in the said 11th article alleged.”

There is a similar charge against Mr. Simpson.

It appears that from a very early period—the precise date is uncertain—a custom prevailed amongst Christians of adding a very small quantity of water to the wine which forms one element of the Blessed Sacrament. This custom, whether it arose from a belief that the wine used by the Jews at the Passover, and by our Lord at the last Supper, was mingled with water, or from some reason symbolical of His passion, is wholly unconnected with any Papal superstition, or any doctrine which the Church of England has rejected. It has the warrant of primitive antiquity and of the undivided Church in its favour.

The whole subject will be found discussed with his usual perspicuity and subtilty by Thomas Aquinas in the third part of his Summa Theologica, quæstio 74, “De materiâ Eucharistiæ quantum ad speciem;” which is divided into eight articles; the sixth of which is, “Utrum sit admiscenda aqua;” the seventh, “Utrum aqua sit de necessitate hujus sacramenti;” the eighth, “De quantitate aquæ quæ apponitur.” With regard to the sixth, he decides that some water shall be mingled with the wine; with regard to the eighth, that it should be a very small quantity, “paululum aquæ,” and for this reason, “quia si tanta fieret appositio aquæ ut solverentur species vini, non posset perfici sacramentum.” And in accordance with this view, with regard to the seventh, it is important to observe that he decides, that “aquæ admixtio non est de necessitate sacramenti.” The mingling of water, therefore, with the sacramental wine is clearly within that category of ceremonies as to the adoption of which each branch of the Church has its own liberty.

In our own Church this custom prevailed before the Reformation; and in the first order of the communion, which preceded the first Prayer Book, the rubric directed that the priest should “bless and consecrate the biggest chalice or some fair and convenient cup or cups full of wine with some water put unto it;” and the rubric to the Communion Service of the first Prayer Book directs that the minister shall “take so much bread and wine as shall suffice for the persons appointed to receive the Holy Communion” . . . . . “and putting the wine into the chalice or else in some fair and convenient cup prepared for that use (if the chalice will not serve), putting thereto a little pure and clean water, and setting both the bread and wine upon the altar.” It is clear, therefore, that under the word “wine” might be comprehended the wine and water; and in a subsequent rubric at the end of the service the direction is, that the pastors and curates shall find at their costs and charges "sufficient bread and wine for the Holy Communion."

* Lev. xvi. 12.

† 1 Kings vii. 50.

‡ St. Luke c. 1.

In all subsequent Prayer Books the mention of water is omitted; perhaps from the omission in the second Prayer Book no argument unfavourable to the use of water could fairly be drawn, as no manual acts of consecration are prescribed in that book. But in the present Prayer Book the manual acts are advisedly specified with great distinctness and particularity; exact directions are given when the priest shall take into his hands the bread and the wine, when he shall place them on the table, and how he shall administer them; and I must bear in mind that the compilers of our present Prayer Book had before them the first Prayer Book of Edward VI., and carefully considered the rubrics which it contained; and in my opinion the legal consequence of this omission, both of the water and of the act of mixing it with the wine, must be considered as a prohibition of the ceremony or manual act of mixing the water with the wine during the celebration of the Eucharist.

I am by no means insensible to the very remarkable argument addressed to me by the Admiralty Advocate with respect to the analogy between the blood and water used in the prototypal service of the Passover, and the wine and water in the Eucharist; and, as I have already observed, the mingling a little pure water with the wine is an innocent and primitive custom,* and one which has been sanctioned by eminent authorities in our Church; and I do not say that it is illegal to administer to the communicants wine in which a little water has been previously mixed; my decision upon this point is, that the mixing may not take place during the service, because such mixing would be a ceremony designedly omitted in and therefore prohibited by the rubrics of the present Prayer Book.

Charge against Mr. Simpson of placing the Alms upon a Stool.

The 6th article alleges that Mr. Simpson has, within two years last past, in his said parish church on receiving the alms collected at the offertory, placed the said alms (and the basin containing them) on a stool instead of on the Holy or Communion Table, and that such placing of the alms on a stool, and not on the Communion Table itself, is an unlawful alteration in and deviation from the form and order prescribed and appointed by the said Book of Common Prayer, &c.

Mr. Simpson, in his answer, admits that he has so placed the said alms, and the basin containing them, on a stool used as a Credence Table instead of on the Holy Communion Table; but he denies that he has done so otherwise than to obtain more room upon the said Holy Communion Table. His counsel very properly stated that Mr. Simpson had done wrong, that he regretted having done so, and submitted himself to the judgement of the Court.

The 7th article filed against Mr. Simpson, namely, that he wilfully omitted the word "all" in saying the last prayer in the Order of Morning and of Evening Prayer, has been abandoned, and I need not again advert to it.

Lighted Candles on the Holy Table.

Article 5.—The 5th article against Mr. Mackonochie alleges, "that the Defendant has in his said Church, and within two years last past, to wit, on Sunday the 23d December, on Christmas Day last past, on Sunday the 30th December, all in the year of our Lord 1866, and on Sunday the 13th day of January in the year of our Lord 1867, used lighted candles on the Communion Table during the celebration of the Holy Communion at times when such lighted candles were not wanted for the purpose of giving light, and permitted and sanctioned such use of lighted candles."

The answer to this article alleges, "that such charges are, in part, untruly pleaded, for the party proponent (the Defendant) alleges that on the said three Sundays and Christmas Day, in the said 5th article mentioned, the said lighted candles were not placed on the Communion Table, but upon a narrow moveable ledge of wood, resting on the said table, and that the said candles were so placed and kept lighted, not during the celebration of the Holy Communion only, as falsely suggested in the said 5th article, but also during the whole of the reading of the Communion Service, including the Epistle and Gospel, and during the singing after the reading of the Nicene Creed, and during the delivery of the sermon."

Article 6.—The 6th article alleges, "that the use of such lighted candles is an unlawful addition to, and variation from, the form and order prescribed and appointed by the said statutes, and by the said Book of Common Prayer, and administration of the Sacraments and other rites and ceremonies of the Church, and is contrary to the said statutes, and to the 14th, 36th, and 38th of the said constitutions and canons."

And the Defendant, in answer to this, "denies that the use of such lighted candles is an unlawful addition to, and variation from, the form and order prescribed and appointed by the said statutes, and by the said Book of Common Prayer, and administration of the Sacraments and other rites and ceremonies of the Church, and is contrary to the said statutes, and to the 14th, 36th, and 38th of the said constitutions and canons, as in the said 6th article alleged."

A similar charge has been made against Mr. Simpson.

There is no express direction in the Rubrics, or in the Statutes of Uniformity, or in the Canons of 1603 for the use of lights at all on the holy table. Nor is there, in these documents, any express prohibition of this ornament of divine service; and, adhering to the principle which has guided my judgment in the matters of the elevation, the mixing of water with wine, and of the incense, it becomes

*The Poet Spenser thus describes his Fidelia:—
 "Shee was arrayed all in lilly white,
 "And in her right hand bore a cup of gold,
 "With wine and water fill'd up to the hight."

my duty to consider whether the use of lights on the holy table falls under the category of things indirectly, or by necessary implication, prohibited upon the grounds which have been stated, or whether it be lawful either as indirectly ordered or innocently subsidiary to divine worship. But there is also another consideration peculiar to this subject, and which must in some degree distinguish the treatment of this ornament from that which the others have received, namely, the important consideration whether the use of lights has not been ordered by competent authority, and whether that order must not, upon legal principles of construction, be deemed a part of the present law of the church.

The Rubric directs, "that such ornaments of the church and of the ministers thereof, at all times of their ministrations, shall be retained and be in use as were in this Church of England by the authority of Parliament in the second year of the reign of King Edward the Sixth." The Judicial Committee of the Privy Council have instructed me as to the legal meaning of the word "ornament" in this Rubric.* Their Lordships say as follows: All the several articles used in the performance of the services and rites of the Church are 'ornaments.' Vestments, books, cloths, chalices, and patens are amongst Church ornaments; a long list of them will be found extracted from Lyndwood in Dr. Phillimore's edition of Burn's Ecclesiastical Law (Vol. I. pp. 375, 6,7). In modern times organs and bells are held to fall under this denomination." Their Lordships go on to say, and I invite particular attention to their language, "When reference is had to the first Prayer Book of Edward the Sixth, with the this explanation of the term 'ornaments' no difficulty will be found in discovering, amongst articles of which the use is there enjoined, ornaments of the Church as well as ornaments of the ministers. Besides the vestments differing in the different services, the rubric provides for the use of an English Bible, the new Prayer Book, a poor man's box, a chalice, a corporas, a paten, a bell, and some other things." "That these articles were included in the term 'ornaments of the Church' at the period in question is clear from two documents nearly contemporaneous, one before and the other after the establishment of the first Prayer Book.

"In a letter of the council to Cranmer, dated the 30th April 1548, to be found in Strype's 'Memorials of Cranmer,' vol. ii. p. 90, they complain of the conduct of certain churchwardens, who sent away their chalices, crosses of silver, bells, and other ornaments of the Church; and in a commission in 1552, 1 Card. Doe. Ann., p. 112, No. xxvii. (Ed. 1844), the commissioners are enjoined to leave 'in every church or chapel of common resort one, two, or more chalices or cups, according to the multitude of people in every such church or chapel, and also such other ornaments as by their discretion shall seem requisite for the Divine Service in every such place for the time.'"—(Westerton v. Liddell, Moore 156-8.)

Edward the Sixth succeeded to the throne on January 28, 1546-7. His Privy Council showed an early intention of carrying much further the Reformation began in the preceding reign. For this object homilies were composed, mixed commissions of clergy and laity were formed, with circuits assigned to them and large visitatorial powers.

These royal visitations superseded and practically inhibited for a time diocesan visitations.

In 1547 the royal injunctions, the subject of so much discussion during the course of the argument, were issued. I refer to a very curious and rare edition with which I have been furnished, printed in London in 1547, contemporaneously therefore with the issue of the injunctions themselves. The injunctions begin as follows:

"The Kynges mooste royal majestie, by the advice of his most dere uncle the Duke of Somerset, Lorde Protector of all his realmes, dominions, and subjectes, and governor of his most roiall persone, and the residence of hys mooste honorable counsaill, inteñdyng the advancemēt of the true honor of Almighty God, the suppression of idolatrie, and superstitiō, throughout all hys realms of dominions, and to plant true religion, to the exterpaciō of all hipocrisy, enormities, and abuses, as to hys duety apperteineth; doth minister unto his loving subjectes, these godly injunctiōs, hereafter folowig: Whereof, parte were geuē unto them heretofore, by authoritie of his most derely beloved father, Kyng Henry the eighte, of most famous memorie and parte are nowe ministered and geuen by hys Majesty; all which injunctiōs, his highness willeth and cōmañdeth his saied louing subjectes, by his supreme auctoritie, obediently to receoue, and truly to observe and kepe, every mā in their offices, degrees, and states, as they will avoyde his displeasure, and the paynes in the same injunctiōs hereafter expressed."

The reference to the injunctions issued by Henry the Eighth is important, in its bearing upon an argument presently to be noticed.

I pass on to the injunctions more immediately affecting the present subject. Their general object it will be seen is to remove all ornaments that relate to superstition or idolatry.

* Their Lordships refer to Forcellini's lexicon for the meaning of Ornamentum; it is clearly explained in Lyndwood: Lyndwood, p. 52. (Walterus.) "Sint (sc. Archidiaconi) Ecclesiarum 'Rectores,' et infra. "Provideant Archidiaconi lintamina et alia (m) ornamenta altaris, sicut decet, (n) sint honesta; ut libros habeat ecclesia idoneos ad psallendum pariter et legendum: et ad minus duplicia sacerdotalia vestimenta: et ut honor debitus divinis officiis in omnibus impendatur. Precipimus etiam ut qui altari ministrat, suppellicio induatur."

(Gloss.) (m.) Ornamenta altaris. Qualia sunt frontilia, cortinae, et caetera hujusmodi.
(n.) Sicut decet. Hæc decencia respici debet secundum qualitatem ecclesie et ipsius facultates; ut scilicet secundum quod ecclesia magis abundat in facultatibus, sic meliora et preciosiora habeat ornamenta.

Pp. 49, 50. (Title.) De Officio Archidiaconi. Archidiaconi est prospicere ut Sacramenta ritè conserventur et administrantur, atque potissimum Eucharistia et sanctum oleum sub clavibus custodiantur. Ornamenta quoque Ecclesiarum ab eodem visitantur et possessiones recenseantur."

Stephanus. "Habeant etiam Archidiaconi in scriptis redacta omnia ornamenta (l), et utensilia (u), Ecclesiarum. Vestes quoque et libros, quæ singulis annis suo faciant conspectui presentari, ut videant quæ fuerint adjecta per diligentiam personarum; vel quæ tempore intermedio per ipsarum malitiam vel imperitiam deperierunt."

(Gloss.) (l.) Ornamenta. Quæ sic dicta sunt, quia eorum cultu Ecclesie ornantur et decorantur. Sunt namque ornamenta secundum Januen. decus, gloria, laus, dignitas, sive preciosa vestimenta seu jocalia, quorum cultu Ecclesie decorantur.

(u.) Utensilia, i. e. ad utendum apta sive necessaria. Hæc autem alibi vocantur Cimelia, sicut legitur extra de offi. Arch. c. ea quæ et 12 g. 2 Apostolicos. Et per hæc Utensilia intelliguntur vasa Ecclesie quæcumque, sacrata vel non sacrata.

(Constitutio Domini Othonis), p. 52. "De Archidiaconis quoque statuimus ut ecclesias utiliter et fideliter visitent, de sacris vasis, et (e) vestibus, et qualiter diurnis et nocturnis officiis ecclesie serviantur, et generaliter de temporalibus et spiritualibus inquirendo."

(Gloss.) (e.) Vestibus. Repete sacris, dictis vulgariter vestimentis. Supple, et caeteris ecclesie ornamentis.

“ Besides this, to the intent that all supersticion and hypocrisy, crept into diverse mennes hartes, may vanysch away, thei shal not set furthe or extolle any images, reliques, or miracles, for any supersticiō or lucre, nor allure the people be any inticementes, to the pylgrimage of any saint or ymage; but reprovyng y same, they shall teache, that al goodnesse, health, and grace, ought to be both asked and loked for only of God, as of the varye author and gevev of the same, and of none other.

Item.—“ That they, the persones above rehersed, shall make or cause to bee made in their churches, and every other cure thei have, one sermō, every quarter of the yere at the least, wherein they shall purely and syncerely, declare the woorde of God; and in the same, exhorte their hearers to the woorkes of faythe, mercye, and charitie, specially prescribed and commanded in scripture, and that woorkes devised by mannes phatasies, besides scripture, as wanderyng to pilgrimages, offering of money, cādelles or tapers, to reliques, or images, or kissing and lickyng of the same, praying upon beades, or such lyke supersticiō, have not only no promise of reward in scripture, for doyng of the; but cōtrariwise, great threatates and maledicciōs of God, for that they bee thynges, tending to idolatry and supersticiō, which, of al other offences, God Almighty doth most detest and abhorre for that the same diminishe moste his honor and glory.”

The next injunction is the one which affects the question as to the lawfulness of these lights.

Item.—“ That suche images as thei knowe in any of their cures, to bee, or have been so abused with pilgrimage or offrynges, of any thyng made thereunto, or shal bee hereafter censured unto, thei (and none other private persones) shall for the advoyding of that moste detestable offence of idolotrie, furthewith take downe or cause to bee taken downe, and destroye the same, and shall suffre from hensefurthe, no torches, nor candelles, tapers, or images of ware, to bee sette afore any image or picture, but onely twoo lights upon the high aulter, before the Sacrament, whiche, for the significacion, that Christe is the very true light of the worlde, thei shall suffre to remain still: admonishyng their parishioners that images serve for no other purpose, but to bee a remembrance, whereby, man maie bee admonished of the holy lifes and conversacion of them that the said images doo represent; whiche images, if they doo abuse for any other intent, they commit idolotrie in the same, to greate daunger of their soules.”

A variety of questions arise upon the subject of these injunctions; but they may be all, I think, comprehended under the following heads:—

1. Were these injunctions lawfully issued under statutable authority?
2. If so, were they subsequently abrogated by statutable authority?

It could not have been accurately said, and it has very properly not been contended by the counsel for the promoter that any judgment has been given upon this subject which is binding upon this Court.

In the Saint Barnabas case, the use of lighted candles during the Holy Communion Service, an opinion, which will presently be considered, adverse to their legality was expressed by the learned Judge of the Consistory of London, but during the progress of the suit it appeared that as a matter of fact the candles were not lighted as alleged, and no decree was made by the Court. The legality of lighted candles on the Holy Table therefore was not directly submitted to the judgment of the Court of Arches or of the Privy Council: but it will be seen that the latter tribunal expressed an opinion both in favour of the lawfulness of the Injunctions and of the Candlesticks upon the Holy Table.

First, let me consider whether these injunctions were lawfully issued? The question is one of no mean difficulty. To define with certainty the exact legal limits within which the Crown might in the time of Edward VI. exercise its prerogative in relation to the Church, is a task which no one cognizant of the difficulties which surround the subject would willingly undertake.

It is said in the books that the Crown has power to visit, reform, and correct abuses in the Church by the ancient law* of the realm. What this power was, however, is very uncertain. When Henry the Eighth procured from Parliament the title of Supreme Head of the Church (though in fact, whatever servile courtiers might say, he did but regain the position from which the Pope had expelled the Crown) he no doubt asserted that this authority required no sanction of Parliament for its exercise, but it is remarkable that he obtained that sanction as well as that of convocation for almost every important act which he did to the church.

In truth our XXXVIIth Article of the Civil Magistrates fixes the bounds of the Royal authority in matters of religion:—

“ The Queen’s Majesty hath the chief power in this realm of England, and other her dominions, unto whom the chief government of all estates of this realm, whether they be ecclesiastical or civil, in all causes doth appertain, and is not, nor ought to be, subject to any foreign jurisdiction.

“ When we attribute to the Queen’s Majesty the chief government, by which titles we understand the minds of some slanderous folks to be offended, we give not to our princes the ministering either of God’s word or of the Sacraments, the which thing the injunctions also lately set forth by Elizabeth our Queen do most plainly testify, but that only prerogative which we see to have been given always to all godly Princes in Holy Scripture by God Himself; that is, that they should rule all estates and degrees committed to their charge by God, whether they be ecclesiastical or temporal, and restrain with the civil sword the stubborn and evil doers. The Bishop of Rome hath no jurisdiction in this realm of England.”†

* 2 Roll. Abr. 230. Prerogative le Roy. (E.) Quel person visitera.

(1) Per l’ancien Ley de Realm le Roy ad power de visit, reform, et correct toutes abuses et enormities en l’Eglise (Davis 1, Proxys 4.)

(2) Per le statute temps H. 8. le corone fuit lors que remit et restore a son ancien jurisdiction que fuit usurp per l’Evesque de Rome. (Davis 1, Proxys 4.)

† The Abbé Fleury quite understood this position. (Disc. sur l’Hist. Eccles., Dissert. IX.) “Le titre de Chef de l’Eglise que les Anglicans ont donné à leur Roi, ne doit pas être pris à la rigueur. En lui donnant cette qualité, il ne prétendent point qu’il puisse exercer les fonctions ecclésiastiques, donner la mission aux Evêques et aux Prêtres, administrer les sacrements, en un mot,

When Cranmer was persecuted under the form of a trial at Oxford, Dr. Martin, who appeared as his judge, asked him (I take the account from the last volume of the Dean of Chichester's work), "Who was the supreme head of the Church of England?" The Archbishop was glad to have an opportunity of explaining his former rather strong assertions on this point. "Marry," he said, "Christ is head of this member, as He is of the whole of the body—of the universal Church." "Why," quoth Dr Martin, "you made King Henry the Eighth supreme head of the Church." "Yea," said the Archbishop, "of all the people of England, as well ecclesiastical as temporal." "And not of the Church?" asked Martin. "No," said Cranmer, "for Christ is only head of this Church, and of the faith and religion of the same. The King is head and governor of his people, which are the visible Church." "What!" quoth Martin, "You never durst to tell the King so?" "Yes, that I durst," quoth he, "and did, in the publication of his style; wherein he was named supreme head of the Church there was never other thing meant."—(Hook, Lives of the Archbishops of Canterbury, Vol. II. (n.s.) p. 373.)

It is, to say the least, extremely doubtful whether, at any period of our constitution, the Crown had power to issue, of its own authority, injunctions of this kind.

It becomes, therefore, important to consider the language of what is called the Supremacy Act.

The Statute of 26 Hen. VIII. cap. 1. was passed A.D. 1534, and enacts as follows:

"Albeit the King's Majesty justly and rightfully is and ought to be the supreme head of the Church of England, and so is recognized by the clergy of this realm in the convocations, yet nevertheless for corroboration and confirmation thereof, and for increase of virtue in Christ's religion within this realm of England, and to repress and extirp all errors, heresies, and other enormities and abuses heretofore used in the same, be it enacted by authority of this present Parliament, that the King our Sovereign Lord, his heirs and successors, kings of this realm, shall be taken, accepted, and reputed the only supreme head on earth of the Church of England, called Anglicana Ecclesia, (2) and shall have and enjoy, annexed and united to the imperial crown of this realm, as well the title and style thereof, as all honours, dignities, preheminences, jurisdictions, privileges, authorities, immunities, profits, and commodities to the said dignity of supreme head of the same Church belonging and appertaining; (3) and that our said Sovereign Lord, his heirs and successors, kings of this realm, shall have full power and authority from time to time to visit, repress, redress, reform, order, correct, restrain, and amend all such errors, heresies, abuses, offences, contempts, and enormities, whatsoever they be, which by any manner, spiritual authority, or jurisdiction, ought or may lawfully be reformed, repressed, ordered, redressed, corrected, restrained, or amended, most to the pleasure of Almighty God, the increase of virtue in Christ's religion, and for the conservation of the peace, unity, and tranquillity of this realm, any usage, custom, foreign laws, foreign authority, prescription, or any other thing or things to the contrary hereof notwithstanding."

There is no doubt that under the authority of this Statute the three royal injunctions in the years 1536 and 1538 were issued. The statute of 31 Hen. VIII. cap. 8., intituled "An Act that Proclamations made by the King shall be obeyed," commonly called the Proclamation Act, was not passed till the year 1539.—(Strype's Memorials, 1 Pt. 1. 494-7.)

Strype remarks "that these last injunctions were given out by reason of the negligent observation of the former, which the clergy took little heed to."

There is no reason for surprise, therefore, in finding some of them repeated in the next reign (see p. 496 in fine), such especially as that which orders the ministers to preach against "offering candles and tapers to relics."

It has been argued by Mr. Stephens, adopting the opinion of Sir John Dodson, that this statute, as well as every statute "relating to doctrine or other matters of religion," has been repealed by 1 Edward VI. c. 12., passed in the year 1547. The proposition appeared to me at the time, having regard to the necessary consequences flowing from it, to be of an alarming character; and, after very mature deliberation, I have arrived at the conclusion that it cannot be sustained. The section which it is alleged possesses this great power of abrogation and repeal (section 2.) is as follows:—"And also be it enacted by thauctoritie aforesaide, that all Actes of Plament and Estatutes towchinge mencynonge or in anny wise concernynge religion or opinyons, that is to saie aswell the Statute made in the first yere of the reigne of the King's noble progenitor Kinge Richarde the Second, and the Statute made in the second yere of the reigne of Kinge Henry the Fifthe, and the Statute also made in the xxvth yere of the reigne of Kinge Henry theight concerninge punishment and reformacon of Heretykes and Lolardes, and everie provision therein conteyned, and the Statute made for the abolishment of diversitie of opinions in certaine artycles concernynge Christian Religion cōmonlie called the Sixe Articles, made in the Plament begonne at Westmestre the xxvijth daie of Apryll in the xxxjth yere of the reigne of the moste noble and victorious Prynce of moste famous memorie Kinge Henry theight, father to our saide moste drad Sovereigne Lorde the Kinge that now is, and also the Acte of Plament and Statute made at the Plament begoonne at Westmestre the xvjth daye of Januarye in the xxxiiijth yere of the reigne of the saide late Kinge Henry theight, and after that proroged unto the xxijth daye of Januarye in the xxxiiijth yere of the reigne of the saide late Kinge Henry theight, touchinge, mentioninge, or in anny wise concerninge bookes of the Old and New Testament in Englishe, and the pryntinge, utteringe, selling, giving, or delivering of bookes or writings, and reteyninge of Englishe bookes or writings, and reading, preaching, teaching, or expownding of Scripture, or in anny wise touching, mentionynge, or concerninge anny of the same matters: And also one other Statute made in the Plament holden at Westmestre in the xxxvth yere of the reigne of the saide late Kinge Henry

"qu'il soit le principe de la puissance spirituelle. Il ne lui donne point d'autre autorité dans les matieres de la religion, que celle de faire des lois pour maintenir le bon ordre de l'Eglise, de soutenir et appuyer celles qui sont faites par les Evêques, d'assembler des conciles, de contenir les ecclésiastiques comme des laïques dans la soumission due au Prince, à l'exclusion de toute puissance étrangère."

See, too, the first canon of 1603.

“theight, concerninge the qualificacon of the Statute of Sixe Articles, and all and everie other Acte or Acts of Plament concerninge doctryne and matters of religion, and all and everie braunche, artycle, sentence, and matter, paynes, and forfaitures conteyned, mentioned, or in anny wise declared in anny of the same Acts of Plament or Estatutes, shall from hensfurthe be repealed and utterlie voyde, and of none effecte.”

It was truly observed by Mr. Hannen that the object of this Statute is to repeal laws which inflicted severe punishments and penalties, imprisonment, fine, and death, on account of opinions entertained “concerning doctrine or matters of religion,” such as had been enforced in the reigns of Richard II., Henry V., and Henry VIII., against heretics of various kinds.

If the wider signification which has been contended for be given to this statute, it would in truth repeal the principal statutes enacted during the reign of Henry VIII. for establishing the independence of the Church of England.

It will be difficult to maintain that the statutes against the payment of annates (23 Hen. VIII. c. 20.), the restraint of appeals (24 Hen. VIII. c. 12.), and even the Act of Submission (25 Hen. VIII. c. 19.) would not fall under the category of enactments concerning “doctrine or matters of religion:” but, in truth the number of Statutes which this construction would repeal might amount to forty-two, and certainly would include a great many of grave importance.* I remember that Sir W. Maule (one of the members of the Judicial Committee) observed, “that if there were anything in Magna Charta about religion, it would on this construction be repealed.”

I am of opinion that the operation of this statute of Edward VI. must be confined within the limits which I have stated, and that it has not repealed any power to issue Royal Injunctions which Henry VIII. derived, either from the Supremacy or the Proclamation Statute.

The legal authority of these Injunctions of Edward VI. was discussed in the “Westerton v. Liddell” cases. The judge of the Consistory of London held that the burden of proving their legal authority lay upon those who asserted it, and that the burden had not been discharged, and he treated the Injunctions as invalid; and on that ground, among others, decided that the “Cross” was not a lawful ornament of the Church.

The Court of Arches, however, held that Edward VI. had power to issue these Injunctions under the authority of the Proclamation Act, 31 Henry VIII. cap. 8., and the learned judge decided that the Cross was an illegal ornament because it was forbidden under the name of an “Image” by these very Injunctions of Edward VI.

When the case of Westerton v. Liddell was appealed to the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council they decided that the Cross was a lawful ornament, and that it was not an “Image” forbidden by these Injunctions. (Moore, 161 in fin.)

In arriving at this conclusion they certainly treated the Injunctions as valid, whether or not they agreed with Sir John Dodson’s opinion that their validity was derived from the powers conferred on the Crown by the Proclamation Act: and referring to the 28th section of these very Injunctions, they say, “The section could not mean that all candlesticks should be removed from Churches, for two were to be retained” (namely, by the third section) “on the High Altar.” (Moore, 165, 166.)

If this be so, their decision is binding upon me, and the general question as to the legal validity of these Injunctions has been decided in the affirmative. It may be as well, however, to look a little more closely into this question.

It has been argued that these Injunctions were not lawfully issued under the Proclamation Act, because it related only to temporal and not to spiritual matters, and also because the orders which it prescribed for the preparation and issue of instruments under its authority were indispensable conditions, and had not been complied with.

Mr. Stephens, in his argument upon this subject, laid down four propositions. First, if these Injunctions were issued under the Proclamation Acts, nevertheless, upon the repeal of those Acts in November 1547, they were not in force by the authority of Parliament in the second year of Edward VI. Secondly, if they were intended to be issued under the Proclamation Acts of Henry VIII., they were not issued in accordance with their provisions, (1.) because there is no time limited during which the Injunctions were to continue in force; (2.) because the copies of those Injunctions which were printed and circulated were not signed by 13 members of the King’s Council, as required by 31 Henry VIII. cap. 8., and there is no evidence of their having been proclaimed in accordance with the 3rd section of that Statute. Thirdly, that instead of the punishment by fine and imprisonment which the Council, under section 4 of 31 Henry VIII. cap. 8., were empowered to inflict, the Injunctions of 1547 only threatened ecclesiastical punishments, which the Council had no power to inflict under the Proclamation Act; and those ecclesiastical punishments are to be inflicted by the ordinary, and not by the 13 members of the King’s Council. Fourthly, it appears from the earliest historians of the Reformation, Fox, Fuller, and Heylin, that the Injunctions, were not issued under the Proclamation Act, but by virtue of the King’s supremacy.

From the first of these propositions I have already expressed my dissent. With regard to the second, I think there is every presumption of law, and that a court of justice must, after this distance of time, act upon that presumption, that these Injunctions were signed by the requisite number of members required by this Statute, and the absence of a specified time during which the Injunctions were to be in force would not, in my opinion, invalidate their validity. As to the objection that they were not duly proclaimed in the market place by the sheriff, the clause which requires this seems to me directory only, and to whatever penalty noncompliance with it might render the sheriff amenable, such noncompliance would not invalidate the Injunctions. The contrary position was, indeed, maintained by Bishop Gardner† when he was imprisoned for disobedience to these Injunctions, which he considered to have been issued under the Proclamation Act. It is remarkable, however, that he does not dispute the power of the Crown to issue the Injunctions, not that the proper number of counsellors had not signed the instrument, but maintains that he ought not to be imprisoned by virtue of the Proclamation Act; and it might be that the Injunctions were valid under the "Supremacy Act," but that the additional power of secular punishment given by the Proclamation Act could not be put in force against him, and that he was only liable to ecclesiastical punishment under the Injunctions. This was probably the opinion of Fox, Fuller, and Heylin, to whom Mr. Stephens referred in his fourth proposition.

* Perry on Lawful Church Ornaments, App. pp. XI.—XXXV.

† Collier’s Eccles. Hist., Vol. V. p. 199.

I have made these observations upon the Proclamation Act out of deference to the argument which was addressed to me; but after all, whether these observations are well founded or not is of small moment, because it seems to me impossible to doubt that these Injunctions were recognized by the Legislature, not only because they would derive validity from the Supremacy Act, but also because they are specially recognized in the first Prayer Book, which is part of the first Statute of Uniformity, in the following words: "Upon Wednesdays and Fridays the English Litany shall be said or sung in all places after such form as is appointed by the King's Majesty's Injunctions, or as is or shall be otherwise appointed by His Highness."—(Liturgical Services, p. 97, Rubric after the Communion Service.)

I should mention that in the year 1548-49 the Visitation Articles for the diocese of Canterbury in the second year of Edward VI. repeat this Injunction in the following inquiry: "Whether they have not . . . destroyed in their churches, chapels, and houses all images, all shrines, coverings of shrines, all tables, candlesticks, trindles or rolls of wax, pictures, paintings, and all other monuments of feigned miracles, pilgrimages, idolatry, and superstition, so that there remain no memory of the same in walls, glass windows, or elsewhere;" and also the inquiry: "Whether they suffer any torches, candles, tapers, or any other lights to be in your churches, but only two lights upon the high altar."—(Cardwell, Doc. Ann. p. 49.)

Before I leave this subject let me observe that I cannot find that the legal authority of these Injunctions per se was ever seriously questioned before the judgment of Dr. Lushington in the St. Barnabas case. Nor am I aware of any statute,—none has been cited to me,—by which they have been deprived of their original authority. There were many occasions on which those who were adverse to them would gladly have impugned their original validity, and there was no lack of learned advisers versed in legal and constitutional lore to have prompted or maintained such a proposition.

In the interval between 1547 and 1549 no objections whatever appear to have been taken to these Injunctions; but in that year a paper appears, the authority of which is extremely questionable; it was unsigned, and the author is unknown: it is headed "Articles to be followed and observed according to the King's Majesty's Injunctions and Proceedings;" and the second of these Articles forbade, among a variety of other things, "setting any light upon the Lord's board at any time."—(Card. Doc. Ann. v. 1, 75.)

It is clear, however, that these Articles (perhaps Visitation Articles, and only binding, like those of Ridley in 1550, if at all, in a particular diocese,) cannot affect the question of whether lights were an ornament "in use in this Church of England by authority of Parliament in the second year of the reign of King Edward the Sixth."

Here I must notice two remarkable letters which throw the light of contemporary history on this subject; the first is a letter written by Martin Bucer and Paul Fagius to the ministers at Strasburg ("Original Letters" published by the Parker Society, p. 535); it is dated April 26, 1549. "We yesterday waited upon the Archbishop of Canterbury, that most benevolent and kind father of the Churches, who receives and entertains us as brethren. The cause of religion as far as appertains to the establishment of doctrines and the definition of rites is pretty near what could be wished."

"As soon as the description of the ceremonies now in use shall have been translated into Latin we will send it to you. We hear that some concessions have been made both to a respect for antiquity and to the infirmity of the present age, such, for instance, as the vestments commonly used in the Sacrament of the Eucharist and the use of candles, so also in regard to the commemoration of the dead and the use of chrism, for we know to what extent or in what sort it prevails. They affirm there is no superstition in these things, and that they are only to be retained for a time, lest the people, not having yet learned Christ, should be deterred by too extensive innovations from embracing His religion, and that rather they may be won over."

The second letter is from John Hooper to Henry Bullinger, 7th December 1549 (Original Letters, Parker Society, page 71); it is, "The altars are here in many churches changed into tables. The public celebration of the Lord's Supper is celebrated three times a day. Where they used heretofore to celebrate in the morning the Mass of the Apostles, they have now the Communion of the Apostles; where they had the Mass of the Blessed Virgin, they have now the Communion, which they call the Communion of the Virgin; where they had the principal or High Mass, they now have, as they call it, the High Communion. They still retain their vestments and the candles before the altars."

Surely during the reign of Elizabeth the legal invalidity of these injunctions would have been urged by those who were adverse to the use of lights.

Bishop Cox, writing to Gualter on February 12, 1571, says of the Queen, that she "has always been so exceedingly scrupulous in deviating even in the slightest degree from the laws prescribed." (Zurich Letters, 1st series, No. XCIV., p. 234.) And it is an admitted fact that the two lights were used in her Chapel at the celebration of the Holy Communion. It is no less certain that many of her counsellors, temporal and spiritual, pressed her to discontinue the use of these lights, an object they were most anxious to effect, but in no one single instance did they ever allege to Her Majesty that the burning of these lights upon the Holy Table was contrary to the law. I say this with some confidence, not only because I have been unable to find any instance myself, but because the leading counsel for the promoter, whose industry and whose acquaintance with these subjects no one will gainsay, having been so good, in compliance with my request, as to make search into the authorities upon this point, was unable to find that any such argument had ever been adduced.

The lawfulness of placing these two lights upon the Holy Table appears to me established by these Injunctions, unless they are, as has been contended, by necessary implication abolished, inasmuch as they are significant of a Papal superstition, which was rejected by the Church at the time of the Reformation.

To this argument there are various answers:

First. These lights, in their original institution, were not significant of any rejected Papal superstition, but of the fundamental truth of Christianity, namely, the light of the Gospel. The origin of them in the canon law I will presently refer to.

Secondly. They were suffered to remain because of their strictly Evangelical character; they were for the honour of Christ, not of the Blessed Virgin or of Saints, as lights on bye-altars might be.

About the year 376 (A.D.) Vigilantius spoke with derision of the practice of Christians to burn candles during Divine service at mid-day. Saint Jerome wrote a defence of the Church, and of this practice:

“No diffiteor (he says) omnes nos, qui in Christo credimus, de idololatriæ errore venisse, nō enim nascimur, sed renascimur Christiani, et quia quondam colebamus idola, nunc Deum colere nō debemus, ne simili eum videamur cum idolis honore venerari? Illud fiebat idolis, et iccirco detestandum est; hoc fit martyribus, et iccirco recipiendum est nam et absq; martyrum reliquiis per totas orientis ecclesias, quando legendum est evangelium, accenduntur luminaria, jam sole rutilante, non utiq; ad fugandas tenebras, sed ad signum lætitiæ demonstrandum, unde et virgines illæ evangelicæ semper habent accensas lampades suas; et ad apostolos dicitur: Sint lumbi vestri præcincti, ut lucernæ ardentes in manibus vestris. Et de Joanne Baptista: Ille erat lucerna ardens, ut lucens: ut sub typo luminis corporalis illa lux ostendatur, de qua in psalterio legimus: Lucerna pedibus meis verbum tuum Domine, ut lumen semitis meis.” (Hieronym. Stridonensis “Opera.” Adversus Vigilantium, t. 1, p. 160, ed. Colon 1516.)

Dr. Donne, in his defence of the use of lights in the daytime during Divine service relies much upon the early Christian practice:

“I would not (he says) be understood to condemn all use of candles by day in Divine service, nor all churches that have or do use them, for so I might condemn even the primitive church in her pure and innocent estate. And therefore that which Lactantius, almost three hundred years after Christ, says of those lights, and that which Tertullian, almost a hundred years before Lactantius, says in reprehension thereof, must necessarily be understood of the abuse and imitation of the Gentiles therein; for that the thing itself was in use before either of these times I think admits little question. About Lactantius’ time fell the Eliberitan Council, and then the use and the abuse was evident; for in the 34th canon of that council it is forbidden to set up candles in the churchyard; and the reason that is added declares the abuse . . . . . that the souls of the faithful departed should not be troubled. Now the setting up of lights could not trouble them, but these lights were accompanied with superstitious invocations, with magical incantations, and with howlings and ejaculations which they had learned from the Gentiles, and with these the souls of the dead were in those times thought to be affected and disquieted. It is in this ceremony of lights as it is in other ceremonies; they may be good in their institution, and grow ill in their practice. So did many things which the Christian church received from the Gentiles in a harmless innocency degenerate afterwards into as pestilent superstition there as amongst the Gentiles themselves. For ceremonies which were received but for the instruction and edification of the weaker sort of people were made real parts of the service of God and meritorious sacrifices. To those ceremonies, which were received as helps to excite and awaken devotion, was attributed an operation and an effectual power, even to the ceremony itself, and they were not practised, as they should, significativè, but effectivè, not as things which should signify to the people higher mysteries, but as things as powerful and effectual in themselves as the greatest mysteries of all, the Sacraments themselves. So lights were received in the primitive church to signify to the people that God the Father of Lights was otherwise present in that place than in any other; and then men came to offer lights by way of sacrifice to God; and so that which was providently intended for man, who indeed needed such helps, was turned upon God, as though He were to be supplied by us. But what then? Because things good in their institution may be depraved in their practice . . . . . shall therefore the people be denied all ceremonies for the assistance of their weakness? . . . . . We must not be hasty in condemning particular ceremonies, for in so doing, in this ceremony of lights, we may condemn the primitive church that did use them, and we condemn a great and noble part of the reformed church which doth use them at this day.”—(Dr. Donne’s Sermons, p. 80, fol., 1640. Vol. I. 15 Oct.)*

* Luther allowed the use of these lights, see his Deutsche Messe, 2 Codex Liturgicus, p. 97.

Des Sontags fur die leyen, ib. p. 108.

Da lassen wyr die Messengewand, altar, liechter noch bleyben, bis sie alle werden, oeder uns gesellet zu endern, wer aber hie anders vil faren, lassen wyr geschehen.

Editor’s note.—Gerberus, l. c., p. 459. “Die lichter oder wacks-keitzen, die wir bey der handlung des heiligen nachtmals anzünden, sind auch unter die ceremonien zu rechnen.” P. 132.—Auch sollen die gewonlichen liechter, zu den bovis, messen, und andern empten, auch sonst des winters zur nothinfst gebrand werden, was aber darüber sonst sonderliche liechter des sonderschaften und gülden, oder entzeler personen verhanden, sollen abgethan, und was etwan darauff gewand sol nach befehl der visitation zu bessern brauch gefurt werden.

Wie man die krancken communiciren sol.

P. 432. Editor’s note.—“In deme also de Pfarrhere solkes, also hyr vör hir steit, mit dem volcke, unde mit dem krancken redet, let ne dorch den cöstes, de alle wäge mit gan schal, bereiden einen disch, mit brodt unde wyn, mit einem reinen doke Thirdly, as to the averment that the words "before the Sacrament" denote the reserved Sacrament. The practice of reserving the Holy Sacrament, it has been truly said, is unlawful according to the present law of the Church of England.

In the Office for the Communion of the Sick in the Prayer Book of Edward VI. it is provided by the prefatory rubric as follows: "And if the same day there be a celebration of the Holy Communion in the Church, then shall the priest reserve (at the open Communion) so much of the Sacrament of the body and blood as shall serve the sick person, and so many as shall communicate with him (if there be any); and so soon as he conveniently may, after the open Communion ended in the Church, shall go and minister the same, first, to those that are appointed to communicate with the sick (if there be any), and last of all to the sick person himself."—(Liturgical Services. Ed. Camb., 1844, p. 141.)

In the present Prayer Book it is ordered: "And if any of the bread and wine remain unconsecrated, the curate shall have it to his own use; but if any remain of that which was consecrated, it shall not be carried out of the Church, but the priest, and such other of the communicants as he shall then call unto him, shall, immediately after the Blessing, reverently eat and drink the same." The light which burnt before the reserved Sacrament was generally a lamp.

This light was continually burning, and therefore probably oil was used, whereas these two lights were only burning during the celebration.

The lights before the reserved Sacrament appear to have been always of an uneven number when the light was not, as it usually was, single.

The lights "before the Sacrament" in England were necessarily, for mystical reasons, or more properly fancies, enumerated by Lyndewode, but which it is not necessary to recapitulate here, made of wax.

The words "before the Sacrament" are omitted in Cranmer's Visitation Articles intended to execute the injunction, but that clearly means "tempore quo missarum solennia peraguntur," while the ceremony was being performed. The candles might be lighted before the elements have been consecrated and before the Sacrament is therefore complete, "accedit verbum elemento set fit sacramentum," as Saint Augustine says, but they are not the less burning before it when it is complete.

The reserved Sacrament was not in the time when Lyndewode wrote his Commentary (in 1430) placed upon the "High Altar." It was one of the usages peculiar to the Church of England to suspend the reserved Sacrament above the altar.

The account given by Lyndewode clearly shows that two wax candles (the number and the quality it is important to notice) ought properly to accompany every celebration of the Mass, because Christ is the splendour of eternal light.

In a constitution of Archbishop Walter, under the following title, "Sacerdos curat ut omnia Eucharistiæ deservientia sint integræ et munda, atque verba consecrationis debite pronunciet, nec celebret antequam matutinas primam et tertiam perlegerit, nec sine clerico superpellicio induto, nec sine tunica, nec in peccato mortali," we find this order:

Lyndwood, p. 236, Walterus.—"Nullus insuper sacerdos parochialis præsumat missam celebrare, antequam matutinale persolverit officium, et primam et tertiam de die. Item nullus clericus permittatur ministrare in officio altaris, nisi indutus sit superpellicio, et tempore quo missarum solennia peraguntur, accendantur (n) duæ candelæ, vel ad minus una."

Upon this constitution the gloss of Lyndwood is as follows:

(n) Duæ candelæ.—"Est enim a parte juris ordinatum quod sacerdos sine lumine ignis non celebret missam. (Extra eo c. ult. ubi de hoc.) Si tamen faciat, nihilominus conficit, licet graviter peccet, secundum Hostien. ibi, et concordant alii doctores. Et nota, quod candelas in celebratione missæ arsuras convenit esse de cerâ potius quam de aliâ materiâ. Candela namque sic ardens significat ipsum Christum, qui est splendor lucis æternæ. (Extra eo c. sane)."

The Devonshire rebels, when in 1549 they demanded the restoration of Roman Catholic rites, drew up a series of articles in which their grievances were stated, they said in their 4th article:

"We will have the Sacrament hang over the high altar, and there to be worshipped, as it was wont to be; and they which will not thereto consent, we will have them die like heretics against the Holy Catholic Faith."

The answer of Cranmer is very remarkable:

"Is this the Holy Catholic Faith, that the Sacrament should be hanged over the altar and worshipped? and they be heretics that will not consent thereto . . . Innocent III., about 1215 years after Christ, did ordain that the Sacrament and Chrism should be kept under lock and key. But yet no motion he made of hanging the Sacrament over the high altar, nor of the worshipping of it. After him came Honorius III., and he added further, commanding that the Sacrament should be devoutly kept in a clean place, and sealed, and that the priest should often teach the people reverently to bow down to the Host when it is lifted up in the mass time, and when the priest should carry it to the sick folks. And although this Honorius added the worshipping of the Sacrament, yet he made no mention of the hanging thereof over the high altar as your article proposeth. Nor, how long after, or by what means, that came first up into this realm, I think no man can tell. And in Italy it is not yet used until this day."—(Strype's Cranmer, App. 97.)

"bedecket, unde bereidet das up dat brodt in der patene, den wyn in dem kefke, etc." P. 3. 563.—Multi alii libri mentionem faciunt candelarum in celebratione sacramenti accendendarum. GB. p. 487. Es sind aber die ceremonien bey communion derer patienten nicht allenthalben einerley. An manchen orten werden noch 2 lichter angezündet und auf den tisch gesetzt, auch ein crucifix dazu, andere aber lassen diese dinge weg, und achten sie nicht, wie si denn auch nicht nöthig seyn.

* Unde et candela in sui compositione significat Christum propter tria: componitur namque candela ex cera, lychno, et lumine. Sic quoque Christus constat ex carne virginea sine semine generatus, sicut procedit cera ex ape sine generatione vel coitu apis. Lychnus, qui est candidus, significat in Christo animam candore innocentie adornatam. Lumen vero significat ejus divinitatem "carni unitam. De his sic dicitur Cantie. 5: "Dilectus meus candidus propter animam candidam et rubicundus propter divinitatem fulgidam. Electus ex millibus propter carnem sine peccato genitam."

The inference to be drawn from this letter is that the two lights ordered by the injunctions of 1547, and which Cranmer had enforced by his Visitation Article in 1548, could not have been placed before the reserved Sacrament, inasmuch as the complaint of the rebels in 1549 is that the Sacrament was not suspended over or placed upon the High Altar. It is remarkable that Dr. Rock, whose knowledge as an antiquarian in the matter of Church rites and ceremonies is supposed to be considerable (The Church of our Fathers, Vol. III., Part II., p. 208), says, "That the first wooden or stone tabernacle resting on the Altar seen in this land was put up in Queen Mary's reign."

It appears from Lyndewode's gloss upon the Provincial constitution of John of Peccham that according to the English custom the reserved Eucharist was placed in a Pyx, and the Pyx in a Tabernaculum, and the Tabernaculum, instead of being placed stationary as it afterwards was in conformity with later Roman usage upon the Altar, was hung up over it. And in support of Dr. Rock's assertion that in Queen Mary's reign the reserved Sacrament was placed upon the Altar is the inquiry of Cardinal Pole in 1557, "Whether they do burn a lamp or a candle before the Sacrament;" and referring to his Injunctions in 1566 this would appear to have been "a tabernacle set in the midst of the High Altar."

With respect to the custom of the Greek Church, Goar says:

"A lamp, kept perpetually burning, is suspended in such a manner as to hang between the Altar and the place for the Blessed Sacrament, and is regarded by the Greeks as a becoming token of reverence towards the Word of God inscribed within the sacred volume, and the Word made flesh, Christ Jesus dwelling us, but veiled under the appearance of the sacramental species."—(Goar, Euchal. Græc. p. 15. Hierurgia, p. 507.)

I was referred by Mr. Prideaux to a treatise in French upon the exposition of the Holy Sacrament of the Altar. It was published in 1673, and the account which the author, a Roman Catholic of course, gives of the practice as to the reserved Sacrament, the importance especially of having a lamp perpetually burning before it, is interesting, and bears upon the subject now under consideration. "Néanmoins," (says this author) "on ne se met pas en peine comment la tres-Sainte Eucharistie est logée dans les Eglises de la campagne, ny comment elle est portée aux malades, dans presque tous les villages, ni elle y est portée dans un si pauvre appareil, qu'il est plutost capable d'exciter de la douleur et de l'indignation dans le cœur des véritables fideles, que de la devotion et du respect. La plus part de ces Eglises sont ou désolées, ou decouvertes, ou sans lambris, ou sans vitres, ou sans luminaires, ou sans livres, ou enfin destituées sans ornemens nécessaires pour célébrer dignement les saints mystères, et les divins offices. Leurs vaisseaux sacrez ne sont que d'estain, ou de cuivre, ou mesme de plomb en quelques endroits; leurs tabernacles, sont ou rompus, ou difformés, ou mal-ornez; ou enfin leurs fabriques n'ont point de revenu pour entretenir une lampe toujours ardente devant le Sanctuaire où repose l'Eucharistie. Et l'on fait tous les jours de grandes dépenses dans les villes pour l'exposition fréquente de ce divin mystère." The author regrets this expense, and continues: "Ne vaudroit-il pas mieux les employer à la decoration, ou aux reparations des eglises de la campagne, et à l'achat des vaisseaux sacrez, des livres, des meubles et des ornemens dont elles ont si grand besoin? N'a-ce pas esté l'intention de Paul III. qu'elles y fussent employées, comme on le peut voir par les paroles de sa bulle que nous avons rapportées?"—(Traité de l'exposition du St. Sacrament de l'Autel, ed. 1673, p. 171.)

It is surely most improbable that Cranmer, who was advancing tentatively in the path of reform, and who was the real author of the Injunctions, should have ordered two lights to be continued perpetually burning before the Reserved Sacrament, having regard to his desire to abrogate the custom of reservation, and also on account of the expense which the ordering would have entailed upon the parishioners.

Gavanto (vol. 5, p. 65), writing in Italy his "Praxis Compendiaria Visitationis Episcopalis," and describing the duties of the bishop on his visitation, under the heading "De Sanctissimâ Eucharistiâ," says:

"Obaervet Episcopus, et Notarius describat, an sint, qualia sint, quæ sequuntur;" and among these articles is to be found "Basim Tabernaculi vacuam" and "Lampadem ardentem," which is clearly the one lamp before the Reserved Sacrament.

Symbolism and the worship of symbols are distinct things, "is confirmat usum qui tollit abusum."

I am disposed to assent to the opinion expressed by Mr. Stephens in his elaborate and useful edition of the Book of Common Prayer:

"It may, however," that learned person says, "be argued that a distinction is to be taken between (1) the lights burning before shrines and images, (2) the symbolical lights formerly placed on the altar during the communion, and (3) those which are for actual use for the decent enlightenment of the house of God. The lights mentioned in King Edward's Injunctions are not to be confounded with the lamp or cresset, a single light, burning before the suspended Pyx. King Edward's mention of the Sacrament appears to be merely circumstantial: two lights (which are known to be of wax, not one lamp,) were to be on the altar before the Sacrament or Pyx, 'for the signification that Christ is the very true light of the world.' The Pyx was then considered to contain the actual body of Christ. The removal of the Pyx, in consequence of the purified doctrine of the Church, did not weaken the force or propriety of the symbol, as Christ is spiritually present in His own house. It is to be remarked that Archbishop Cranmer omits the words 'before the Sacrament.'"—(Book of Common Prayer, vol. 2, p. 1120.)*

The usages with respect to the custody of the Reserved Sacrament appear then to have been these:

- (1) The use which Lyndewode refers to as existing in Holland, Portugal, and other places, and which apparently existed too in Italy, of keeping it in a place in the wall under lock and key:

* Dr. Hook seems to be of the same opinion on this point. See his Church Dictionary, article "Lights."

(2) The peculiar English custom of suspending it in a Pyx in a Tabernaculum over the High Altar;

(3) Cardinal Pole's order in Queen Mary's time, that it should be placed upon the Altar.

In Westerton v. Liddell, Dr. Lushington came, apparently not without reluctance, to the conclusion that candlesticks upon the Holy Table were lawful ornaments.

It seems to me difficult to suppose that the use of candlesticks does not bear witness to the partial retention,—no uncommon fact in the history of ritual observances,—of the custom of burning lights upon the altar embodied in the earliest usages of the Church in the provincial constitutions of our own country, and in the Injunction of 1547.†

I should not omit to notice the argument, much referred to by counsel, from the inventories made by order of the Government of Edward the Sixth, in order to stop the wholesale sacrilege and plunder of the furniture and goods of parish churches by those who humbly imitated the rapine which, on a large scale, had been carried on by the courtiers, out of their zeal for the Reformed Religion.

I am not inclined to rely very much, on the one hand, upon the fact that certain ornaments are proved by these inventories to be de facto in existence after the second year of Edward the Sixth, nor, on the other hand, that only certain of these ornaments were retained, by the commissioners who caused these inventories, for the use of parish churches.

However, the fact is not to be laid wholly out of consideration that two or three years after the date of the first Prayer Book there should be in 21 counties no less than 1,400 churches which possessed each two candlesticks. Such is the result I believe of an investigation of the inventories in the Record Office, which were taken in 1552, when the second Prayer Book was in course of preparation.

Inasmuch, therefore, as I think that the Injunctions which order these two lights were issued under statutable authority and have not been directly repealed by the like authority; inasmuch as they are not emblematical of any rite or ceremony rejected by our Church, at the time of the Reformation, inasmuch as they are primitive and catholic in their origin, evangelical in their proper symbolism, purged from all superstition and novelty by the very terms of the Injunction which ordered their retention in the Church, I am of opinion that it is lawful to place two lighted candles on the Holy Table during the time of the Holy Communion “for the signification that Christ is the very true light of the world.”

Conclusion.

These are the conclusions at which I have arrived, and this is the Judgment which I am about, in formal language, to pronounce, after a most anxious, painful, and I may be allowed to add, conscientious, however inadequate, examination of the law applicable to the facts of the case. I have not been able to conceal from myself that this exposition of the law may wound the feelings of some, whose love for the Church of Christ is as unquestionable as their loyalty to the Church of England,—men, who think no ornament too costly, no service too magnificent, for the house of God,—capable of any act of self-denial and self-sacrifice to promote these objects,—to whom it may at first appear harsh and illiberal to be told that the sentence of the law bids them forego any symbolical act, or incident of Divine worship, with which they have accustomed themselves to associate in any way the administration of the Blessed Sacrament of the Body and Blood of our Lord; but I have good hope that further and deeper consideration will convince them of the truth of the proposition, which I stated at the outset of my Judgment, that no matter of doctrine or faith is affected by this decision, the true result of which is simply to pronounce, that by those statutes, ordinances, and canons, which form the compact of union between the Church and the State in this country, it has been determined that certain usages, however in themselves innocent, laudable, and primitive, shall, for the sake of general peace and harmony, form no part of the rites and ceremonies of the Church of England.

In Westerton v. Liddell, the Privy Council said, “Their Lordships are not disposed in any case “to restrict within narrower limits than the law has imposed, the discretion which within those limits “is justly allowed to congregations by the rules both of the Ecclesiastical and the Common Law “Courts.”

The basis of the religious establishment in this realm was, I am satisfied, intended by the constitution and the law to be broad and not narrow. Within its walls there is room, if they would cease from litigation, for both parties; for that which is represented by the promoter and for that which is represented by the defendant; for those whose devotion is so supported by simple faith and fervent piety that they derive no aid from external ceremony or ornament, and who think that these things degrade and obscure religion; and for those who think with Burke, that religion “should be “performed, as all public solemn acts are performed, in buildings, in music, in decorations, in speech, “in the dignity of persons according to the customs of mankind taught by their nature, that is, with “modest splendour and unassuming state, with mild majesty and sober pomp;” who sympathize with Milton the poet rather than with Milton the Puritan; and who say that these accessories of religious rites,— “ . . . dissolve them into ecstasies,

“ And bring all Heaven before their eyes.”

Saint Chrysostom and Saint Augustine represented different schools of religious thought; the Primitive Church held them both. Bishop Taylor and Archbishop Leighton differed as to ceremonial observances, but they prayed for the good estate of the same Catholic Church; they held the same faith "in the unity of spirit, in the bond of peace, and in righteousness of life;" and the English Church contained them both.

* It is true that candlesticks possess, as Archdeacon Freeman observes, (Rites and Ritual, p. 76,) a symbolism of their own, and that St. John saw in his vision “golden candlesticks,” not burning candles or lamps (St. John, v. 35; Rev. v. 8; viii. 3.)

There is surely room for both the promoter and the defendant in this Church of England, and I should indeed regret if, with any justice, it could be said that this Judgment had the slightest tendency either to injure the Catholic foundations upon which our Church rests, or to abridge the liberty which the law has so wisely accorded to her ministers and her congregations.

I must say a word as to costs. This is a matter to be governed by the discretion of the Court, that is, by a discretion judicially exercised.

In the case of Martin v. Mackonochie, it appears that the promoter is not a churchwarden, nor a resident parishioner. Of the five charges brought against Mr. Mackonochie, in which I include the excessive kneeling, upon three there have been adverse decisions to Mr. Mackonochie. With respect to the elevation, Mr. Mackonochie submitted the question to his Ordinary, and discontinued, under his direction, the practice before the institution of this suit, though, it is true, he has done so under protest.

With respect to the incense, he had discontinued, though also under protest, the censuring of persons and things, before the institution of this suit.

With respect to the excessive kneeling, I have decided that it was a matter that ought to have been referred to the discretion of the Ordinary.

With respect to the mixing water with the wine, the decision is in favour of the promoter; and with respect to the lights, in favour of the defendant.

Taking all the circumstances into my consideration, I shall make no order as to costs in this case.

In the other case of Flamank v. Simpson, the circumstances are materially different. Mr. Flamank is a churchwarden, and Mr. Simpson does not appear to have submitted to the control of his Ordinary any of the practices for which he has been articulated in this Court. Upon the question of "lights" the decision is in his favour, and another of the charges was abandoned at the hearing. No expense has been incurred by the examination of any witnesses, and I think I shall, upon the whole, do justice by condemning Mr. Simpson in a sum of 80*l. nomine expensarum*.

I admonish Mr. Mackonochie to abstain for the future from the use of incense, and from the mixing water with the wine, as pleaded in these Articles. And I further admonish him not to recur to the practices which he has abandoned under protest, with respect to the elevation of the Blessed Sacrament, and the censuring of persons and things.

I admonish Mr. Simpson to abstain for the future from the elevation of the Blessed Sacrament, from mixing water with the wine, and from placing the alms upon a stool, as pleaded in these Articles.

* * The following Note, which has been added by the Editor of the published copy of the Judgment, is appended here as having also been brought under the notice of the Commissioners.

NOTE.

The Editor has been favoured with the following addition to the series of historical facts noticed by the Judge, in his discussion of the argument drawn from the disuse of ceremonies. It appears that there was a time when the observance of Good Friday had almost wholly ceased in England. The then Archbishop of Canterbury, Archbishop Cornwallis, and Porteus Bishop of London, set themselves to revive the observance, which has been maintained ever since; and it is instructive to notice the feeling with which this revival was met. We extract the following from Restituta, edited by Sir Egerton Brydges, Vol. IV., p. 416: "It is inconceivable the clamour, uproar, and rage which the order from the Archbishop to observe decently Good Friday, in 1777, gave to the faction: for many weeks together the presbyterian newspapers were full of abuse and lies relating to Archbishop Cornwallis and his family; and when one expected it should have subsided, two months after the day was observed, out comes the following long and severe paragraph in the London 'Evening Post' of May 29, 1777: 'On the late announcing a sort of outlandish name, one Porteus, to an English Bishopric, I naturally asked what was become of all our old learned and venerable English Clergy, of the best families, that they were all passed over with so much contempt and injustice? I was informed that the young Prelate was a man distinguished by His Majesty's own judgment, and exalted by his mere personal favour, as one of the most promising talents and disposition to fill the sacred office in a manner the most suitable to his own pious feelings and sentiments, and the mild and liberal plan of government adopted by him. A countenance and a character so clear of cynical and ecclesiastical pride and austerity could not escape the penetrating observation and the generous sympathy of the Royal Patron. A Charles has had his favourite Laud. Similar characters and principles will always attract each other. It has indeed been insinuated, that, over and above the great merit of Scottish extraction and interest, he has distinguished himself as a ministerial writer in the public papers almost as much as by the stretch of Church power and arrogance in shutting up the city shops on Good Friday; which, as a sanctified, hypocritical triumph over both reason and Scripture,—the civil and religious right of Englishmen,—could not but be highly acceptable to tyrants and hypocrites of every denomination, particularly at Court. By this experiment on the tame and servile temper of the times, it is thought the Host and Crucifix may be elevated to prostrate crowds in dirty streets some years sooner than could have been reasonably expected. And when a Wedderburne shall be keeper of the King's conscience and seals, and a Porteus of the spiritual keys, as the alterius orbis papa, there is no doubt but our consciences, and our property too, will be effectually taken care of.'"

APPENDIX E.

INJUNCTIONS AND VISITATION ARTICLES.

---

The following series of Injunctions and Visitation Articles, arranged in chronological order, from 1561 to 1730, has been transcribed verbatim and literatim, from the collection in the Bodleian Library, Oxford: except the Articles of Archdeacon Booth, p. 681, which are taken from the British Museum. These Documents, though not before the Commission, in their present form, during its recent deliberations, are added here, not only as affording much historical information upon the matters referred to in the Second Report, but as bearing upon the subjects to be hereafter considered by the Commission.

CONTENTS.

	Date.	Page.		Date.	Page.
Injunctions of Parkhurst, Bishop of Norwich	1561	401	Articles of Hakewell, Archdeacon of Surrey
Articles of Parker, Archbishop of Canterbury	1563	403	[Collated]	1635	474
Injunctions of Parkhurst, Bishop of Norwich	1569	404	— Rives, Archdeacon of Berks [Collated]	1635	521
— of Cox, Bishop of Ely - - - about	1570	406	— Curle, Bishop of Winchester [Collated]	1636	474
Articles of Grindal, Archbishop of York	1571	407	— Wren, Bishop of Norwich	1636	556
Injunctions " "	"	411	Injunctions of " "	1636	564
Articles of Parker, Archbishop of Canterbury	1575	415	Articles of Kingsley, Archdeacon of Canterbury	1636	566
— Aymer, Bishop of London	1577	418	— Pearson, Archdeacon of Suffolk	1636	568
— Sandys, Archbishop of York	1578	421	— Peculiars of Canterbury	1637	572
— Squier, Archdeacon of Middlesex	1582	424	— Laud, as Metropolitan, for Lincoln [Col-
Injunctions of Middleton, Bishop of St. David's	1583	426	lated]	1638	547
Articles of Overton, Bishop of Lichfield	1584	427	— Bancroft, Bishop of Oxford [Collated]	1638	528
— Aymer, Bishop of London	1586	430	— Duppa, Bishop of Chichester	1638	576
— King, Archdeacon of Nottingham	1599	434	— Mountagu, Bishop of Norwich	1638	579
— Bancroft, Bishop of London	1601	436	— Hakewell, Archdeacon of Surrey [Collated]	1638	474
— Thornborough, Bishop of Bristol	1603	440	— Thornburgh, Archdeacon of Worcester	1638	585
— Bridges, Bishop of Oxford	1604	444	— Goodman, Bishop of Gloucester [Collated]	1640	542
— Chaderton, Bishop of Lincoln	1604	446	— Juxon, Bishop of London	1640	588
— Bancroft, Archbishop of Canterbury	1605	450	— Bostock, Archdeacon of Suffolk	1640	595
— Babington, Bishop of Worcester	1607	453	— R. White, Archdeacon of Norfolk	1640	599
— [Jegon?] Archdeacon of Norfolk	1608	457	— Williams, Bishop of Lincoln [Collated]	1641	551
— [Abbot?] Archbishop of Canterbury	n. d.	458	— Cosin, Bishop of Durham	1662	601
— King, Bishop of London	1612	462	— Croft, Bishop of Hereford [Collated]	1662	615
— Sharpe, Archdeacon of Berks	1615	468	— [Earle?] Bishop of Worcester	1662	604
— Abbot, Archbishop of Canterbury	1616	470	— Griffith, Bishop of St. Asaph	1662	606
— Andrewes, Bishop of Winchester	1619	474	— Hacket, Bishop of Lichfield	1662	608
[Also issued by Hakewell, Archdeacon of			— Henchman, Bishop of Salisbury	1662	610
Surrey in the same year.]			— Ironside, Bishop of Bristol	1662	613
— Howson, Bishop of Oxford	1619	476	— King, Bishop of Chichester [Collated]	1662	615
— Overall, Bishop of Norwich	1619	480	— Laney, Bishop of Peterborough [Collated]	1662	615
— Harsnet, Bishop of Norwich	1620	484	— Lloyd, Bishop of Llandaff [Collated]	1662	615
— Hakewell, Archdeacon of Surrey	1621	474	— Lucy, Bishop of St. David's [Collated]	1662	615
[Re-issue of Andrewes.]			— Morley, Bishop of Winchester	1662	615
— Laud, Bishop of St. David's	1622	488	— Piers, Bishop of Bath & Wells [Collated]	1662	615
— Kent, Archdeacon of Sudbury	1624	491	— Reynolds, Bishop of Norwich	1662	619
— Andrewes, Bishop of Winchester	1625	493	— Sanderson, Bishop of Lincoln [Collated]	1662	615
— Laud, Bishop of St. David's [Collated]	1625	488	— Skinner, Bishop of Oxford [Collated]	1662	615
— Williams, Bishop of Lincoln	1625	497	— Ward, Bishop of Exeter [Collated]	1662	615
— Hakewell, Archdeacon of Surrey [Col-	1625	474	— Wren, Bishop of Ely [Collated]	1662	556
lated]	1627	497	— Franck, Archdeacon of St. Alban's [Col-
— Williams, Bishop of Lincoln [Collated]	1627	480	lated]	1662	615
— Harsnet, Bishop of Norwich			— Layfield, Archdeacon of Essex	1662	621
[Re-issue of Overall.]	1628	499	— Paske, Archdeacon of London [Collated]	1662	615
— Davenant, Bishop of Salisbury	1628	476	— Pory, Archdeacon of Middlesex	1662	624
— Howson, Bishop of Oxford [Collated]	1628	502	— Quarles, Archdeacon of Northampton	1662	630
— Neile, Bishop of Winchester	1629	476	— Commissary of Westminster [Collated]	1662	615
— Corbet, Bishop of Oxford [Collated]	1629	506	— Laney, Bishop of Lincoln [Collated]	1663	615
— Potter, Bishop of Carlisle	1629	480	— Henchman, Bishop of London	1664	631
— White, Bishop of Norwich [Collated]	1629	508	— Blandford, Bishop of Oxford [Collated]	1666	615
— Eland, Archdeacon of Bedford			— Honeywood, Dean of Lincoln [Collated]	1666	615
— Robinson, Archdeacon of Gloucester [Col-	1629	462	— [Willford?] Archdeacon of Bedford [Collated]	1630	512	lated]	1667	615
— Curle, Bishop of Bath and Wells	1630 &	516	— Fuller, Bishop of Lincoln	1668	633
— W. White, Archdeacon of Norfolk	1630	517	— Hammond, Archdeacon of Huntingdon	1668	636
— Williams, Bishop of Lincoln - - - after	1631	521	— Fuller, Bishop of Lincoln	1671	638
— Davenant, Archdeacon of Berks	1631	525	— Pearson, Bishop of Chester	1674	642
— Kent, Archdeacon of Sudbury, about	1632	528	— Fell, Bishop of Oxford - - - about	1676	643
— Bancroft, Bishop of Oxford	1632	530	— Barlow, Bishop of Lincoln	1679	644
— R. White, Archdeacon of Norfolk			— Gunning, Bishop of Ely	1679	646
— Brent, Commissary of Canterbury [Collated]	1632-3	525	— Sancroft, Archbishop of Canterbury [Colabout	1633	533	lated]	1682	653
— Curle, Bishop of Winchester	1633	537	— Feilding, Archdeacon of Dorset	1683	652
— Lindsell, Bishop of Peterborough	1633	508	— Sancroft, as Metropolitan, for Lincoln	1686	653
— Neile, Archbishop of York [Collated]	1634	542	— to the Bishops	1688	657
— Goodman, Bishop of Gloucester	1634	547	— Ironside, Bishop of Hereford	1692	658
— Peculiars of Canterbury [Collated]			— Strafford, Bishop of Chester	1701	659
— Laud, as Metropolitan for Norwich and	1635	547	— Peculiars of Canterbury	1703	662
Winchester	1635	528	— Fleetwood, Bishop of St. Asaph	1710	663
— Bancroft, Bishop of Oxford [Collated]	1635	551	— Trimmell, Bishop of Norwich	1716	677
— Williams, Bishop of Lincoln			— Stanley, Archdeacon of London	1728	679
			— Booth, Archdeacon of Durham - - - about	1710-30	681

APPENDIX E.

INJUNCTIONS OF PARKHURST, BISHOP OF NORWICH, 1561.

INJUNCTIONS exhibited by John by gods sufferance Bishop of Norwich in his first visitacion beginning the seconde daie of Maye in the thirde yeare of our soueraign Ladie Elizabeth by the grace of God Quene of England, Fraunce and Ireland. Defendour of faith, &c. vnto all and singuler the diocesans of the diocese of Norwich so farre as they concerne any of them.

Imprinted at London by John Day, dwelling ouer Aldersgate.

CUM GRATIA ET PRIVILEGIO REGIE MAIESTATIS.

First that euery parson, vicare and Curate, doo so order the comon service within the city or (sic) Norwich & other lyke places where be diuers parish churches in one toun, that it maye be doon on the sondaie, by nine of the clok, before the beginning of the sermon, where any is appointed, that al the people after comon prayers be doon in their parish churches may resort thether to heare the sermon.

2. Item that as many of them as be entred into orders, do saie the morning and evening praieris dailie in Englishe or Latten, either openly or priuately, that they may be the more reddie in the Scriptures.

3. Item that they see vnto their Clerks & Sextons, if they doo ring at the buriall of the deade, noone or curpueue, they ring but one peall, & that verie short, omitting all other vnecessarie ringings as it is prescribed by order taken herin.

4. Item that they neither suffer the Lordes table to be hanged and decked like an aulter, neyther vse any gestures of the popish masse in the time of ministracion of the communion, as shifting of the boke, washing, breathing, crossing or such like.

5. Item that they baptize not children on the working daies, or when the congregacion is not come together, except it be thought that eident Jeopardie require the contrarie.

6. Item that they marie no yonge folkes, except they examin them before, whether they can saie, the articles of the Christian faith, the Lordes prayer and the ten commaundements: and if they can not: then to stay them from going forwards, till they can saie them. Likewise that they examin the godfathers and godmothers, when they come to baptize children in the same points: secretly, & modestly, bearing with the age of some parsons. For howe can they be sureties for an other to be instructed in that faith, wich they can not skill of them selves. Thirddie that they suffer none to come to the holie communion, except they also knowe the same necessarie points of Religion.

7. Item that they marie none before dewe time, that is before six of the clock in the somer, and seuen in the winter, at what time the broade daie light doth appeare.

8. Item that they preache their sermons limited by the Q. Mayesties (sic) Injunctions that is euerie moneth one orles at the least wies get them to be preached, so that they them selves preache foure tymes in the yeare in their own parsones being habled thereto by theyr ordinarye if they can not preache then to reade som homely set out by the Queens Maiestie.

9. Item that they with suche diligent trauail industrie and conference do euerie weke reade & peruse two chapters of the newe testament and studie the same that they may be able to answer to all matters conteyned therein with the trewe vnderstanding therof to begynne with Sainct Mathewes gospell and after with saint Johns, and so consequentlie till they hegon ouer and so to the Epistles. This to begynne in August next, & to make accompt to suche as bi the saied reuerend father shal be appointed the first twesdaie of euery moneth following. And besides this they shal also cause euerie quarter one sermon at the least to be preached at ther benefices bi some learned preacher till they be hable to preache them their selves. To this taske as touching the chapters the curates also be enioyned though they haue no benefices.

10. Item that they teache the Catechisme euery sondaie and euery holidiaie one howre at the leaste before euening prayer and to beginne the same the first sondaie in August next & so to continue euerie sondaie and holidiaie.

11. Item that they warne the parents & maisters to cause theyr children and youthe to learne the Catechisme, either in scholes or els at home so as they may be examined by the minister euery sondaie and holidiaie that they may make answere to the ministers standing in the pulpet demanding questions of them and this shal be doon immediatly after the last peale to euening praier.

12. Item that they requyre the yonge folkes vmaried to resorte to the hearing of the children examined and rendering of the Catechisme to thintent that they by hearing may learne the same, & therby (besides discharge of their dewty towards God) auoid worldlie rebuke and shame whyche shuld happen vnto them, if they shoulde be reiected from marriage for ignoraunce of the christian faith, the Lordes Prayers, and the tenne Commaundements. Exhorting also thelder maried folkes to be present bothe for the good example of the youthe & also to learne them selves, by hearing if they by reason of cuill educacion in tyme of ignoraunce, haue not been sufficientlie instructed in tymes past.

13. Item that they see the places filled vp in walles or ells where, where imagies stode, so as if ther hadde been none there. The stones foundations or other places, frames or Tabernacles deuised to aduance Imagerie, holy water stones also to be quite and clean taken away and the places where they were set, comelie and decentlie to be made vp with conuenient expedicion, orells to declare to the ordinarie the lettes & staies therof as sone as may be.

14. Item that euerie Parson, vicarre, Curate and reader shall euerie quarter ones, reade openly on the pulpet the Queenes maiesties Injunctions, and also these present Injunctions with the confession hereunto annexed, and besides that, get him a copie of these Injunctions, and set them vp by the last of Septembre in some conuenient place of theyr quier there to remaine still to be seene of them that lyst to reade them.

15. Item that the maister, pryest, and other gouernours of all hospitals be vigilant and look diligently, as wel to the wet ordering and godly instructing of the sik & sore people within the same hospitals: as also to the vertuous and godli educacion of the children and other youth there, so as they may be taught to folow & fauour the sincere ueritie of almighty God, as it is now manifestly set forthe, by the Queenes most excellent Maiestie & that they themselves also be folowers therof.

Interrogatories.

Whether the parsons, vicare, curate, or reader doth reade the common service with a lowde, distinct, and treatable voyce.

2. Whether the lessons epistles and gospels be redde or songe so as they may be plainli harde of the people.

3. Whether the parson or vicare preach or cause to be preached in his church euery moneth one Sermon.

4. Whether euery parson or vicare preache in his owne parson one sermon euery quarter, if there be no sermon they reade the homilies plainly and distinctlie according to the Iniunction.

5. Whether to the vttermost of their wit power knowledge & learning they do with out colour or dissimulation, declare four tymes yearelye in their seuerall sermons or exhortacions that the power of the Bishop of Rome and all other forreyn power, are iustlie taken away.

6. Whether they doo exhorte the people to remember the poore after the homelye when they reade the sentences exhorting the Almoze.

7. Whether they teache the youthe of theyr parishes the Lordes prayer, the articles of the faith, the tenne commaundements and the Catechisme euerie sondaie and holidiaie.

8. Whether they and their church wardeyns haue provided in theyr parish a Byble in the largest volume, and Erasmus paraphrasis vpon the newe Testament.

9. Whether they declare to their parishes any thing to thextolling or setting fourth of vayne and superstitious religion.

10. Whether the parson or vicare being absent hath left vpon his benefice an honest learned & expert Curate.

11. Whether any minister or priest in the tyme of trouble haue deuorced him self from his wife and whether his wyfe hath been maryed to any other man sithen, or that he himself hath maried any other woman without iudgement of the Church.

12. Whether the Priestes, and deacons saie daylie the morning and euening service, openly or priuately.

13. Whether any that toke orders in king Edwards daies not contented with that, were ordered agayne in Quene Maries daies.

14. Whether the parson or vicare, or any for him hath bought his benefice or hath come by it by simonie fraude or deceipte.

15. Whether the parson or vicare haue more benefices then one.

16. Whether any of your benefices be vacant, & howe longe they haue so been & who is the patron.

17. Whether ther be any laye or temporall men not being within orders or children that hath or enioyeth any benefice or spirituall promocion.

18. Whether there be any patron that suffereth any benefice to be vacant and taketh the tythes and other dueties to him selfe.

19. Whether any parson, vicare or citrate geue any euell example of lyfe, whether they be incontinent parsones, dronkards, haunTERS of tauernes, alehouses or suspect places: dycers, tablers, carders, swearers or vehemently suspected therof.

20. Whether they haue receiued any parsones to the holie communion openlie knowne to be out of charitie or diffamed with some notorious crime before he hath made sufficient recompence for his wronge or euell doing.

21. Whether they haue a fitte and decent table to minister the communion on.

22. Whether the parson or vicare being not resident vpon his benefice geueth the fourty parte therof to the poore of the parishe.

23. Whether any parson or vicare findeth but a reader vnder hym where he shoulde fynde Minister.

24. Whether the chauncell, the bodie of the parishe churche or chapell, the parsonage and vikerage house, and other belonging to the same: be in good reparacions, and whether the better coveringes of any of them haue been pulled of and worse set in the place and by whome.

25. Whether they celebrate the communion with lesse nombre then foure or thre communicantes at the least in suche parishes wheare there be xx parsones of discretion & in greater parishes without a greater nombre.

26. Whether if there be more Priestes in any churche then one: they doo all communicate with the minister when the communion is celebrate.

27. Whether that any reader being admitted but to reade: taketh vpon him to baptize, to marie, to celebrate the Lords supper or to distribute the Lords cup.

28. Whether they baptize children in any other daies then the sundaies and holidais except it be thought need that they should be baptized at home.

29. Whether they haue married any without banes asking, or if the parties married be of diuers parishes, whether they haue married them without certificat from the parsones or parsones where they were asked: or haue married any that be out of their owne parishes not licenced therunto, or hath not openly denounced theyr certificat or licence accordingly at the tyme of mariage or hath married any parson not in due place or conuenient tyme.

30. Whether they haue exhorted yong folke to absteine from priuie contractes and not to mary without the consente of suche their parentes and freends as haue authoritie ouer them.

31. Whether haue they admitted to the holie table, any of an other parishe except they be strangers without the licence of the ministre from whence they cam.

32. Whether that there be any that preacheth out of their owne parishes not licenced therunto, or els taketh vpon them to preache being not ordeyned nor licenced therunto.

33. Whether the maister and gouernours of the hospitall within Norwich and other hospitals within the diocese of Norwich doo looke diligentlie to the well orderyng and godlie instructing of the sicke & sore people within the same hospitals.

34. Whether the youth within the same hospitalls be taught to fauour and folowe the sincere verytue of almightie God as it is now set forth by the Queenes moste excellent Maiestie.

For the duetie of churche wardeines.

Whether they haue provided a comelie and honest pulpet to be set in a comeli place of the churche.

2. Whether al altlers, images, holi-water stones, pictures, paintings, as of Thassumption of the blessed virgin, of the descending of Christ into the virgin in the fourme of a litle boy at Thanunciacion of the Aungell and al other superstitious and dangerous monuments especiallie paintings & Imagies in walle, boke, cope, Banner or els where, of the blessed trinitie or of the father (of whom ther can be no Image made) be defaced and remoued out of the churche and other places and are destroyed & the places where such impietie was: so made vp, as if there had been no suche thing there.

3. Whether that any Imagies, beades, bokes of saruice, or vestiments not alowed by lawe be reserued of any man or in any place, by whome and where they be reserued.

4. Whether they knowe any man that refuseth to contribute to the Almes of the poore as a thing not rightlie appointed and discourageth other from suche charitable Almes.

5. Whether the Churchwardeynes haue provided a strong chest, for the poore mens boxe and haue fastened it in a fyttle place.

6. Whether the churche money comyng of moueable stockes money geuen to fynde torches, tapers, lamp light not payde out of any lands, be employed to the poore mens boxe or no?

7. Whether the Churchwardeynes of euerie parishe doo dulie leyye and gather of the goods and lands of euerie suche parsones that cometh not to his owne parishe churche vpon the sondaies and hollydaies and there heare the deuin seruice and Gods worde redde and preached xii. d. for enery such offence, and whether they haue distributed the same money to the poore.

8. Whether there be a register had and kept faithfully of Christenings and Burials.

¶ For Scholemaisters and theyr office.

1. Whether any Scholemaister take vpon him to teache not alowed by the ordinary.

2. Whether they moue and teache theyr children duellie to reuerence & loue the trewe religion that is nowe set fourth.

3. Whether they teache their children suche sentences out of the scripture as may frame them to Godlynes.

4. Whether they teache any other grammer then suche as is appointed by the Queenes Maiesties Iniunctions annexed to the same.

¶ For Clarkes and theyr dutie.

Whether that the songe in the Churche be modest and distincte so deuised and vsed that the ditte may plainly be vnderstand.

2. Whether they vse to sing any number of psalmes, dirige lyke, at the buryall of the deade or do any other thing otherwise then it is appointed by the comon order of the seruice boke.

3. Whether they vse to ring off or longe peales at the buryall of the dead or vse muche iangling in festiual daies in ringing none or curphew.

For the people and theyr dutie.

Whether there be any man that mocketh or iesteth at the deuine seruice, or at the ministers therof or speaketh any thing bi iest or earnest to the dispising, derogacion or letting therof.

2. Whether any man hath burned or caused the holy Byble to be burned, torne or defaced or hath conueyed it out of the Church that it should not be redde of the people.

3. Whether any parishoner denieth to receyue the sacraments and other rites escelesiasticall according to the boke authorized by comon authority.

4. Whether any man is knowen to haue saide, or heard masse sithens it was abrogate by lawe, whether any man maketh any singing cakes to say masse with all, reserueth vestiments, superlataries, mass bookes or other instruments of this supersticion.

5. Whether any doo deferre theyr children to be baptized beyond the next sundaie or holidai after their birth and vpon what causes they do so.

6. Whether any be so hasti to baptize their children that hauing no nede they will not tary till the next holiday that the child may be partaker of the prayers of the whole churche, then present.

7. Whether any haue married with in the degrees of consanguinitie prohibited by the lawes of God, ether whether any married without those degrees, haue vnlawfully forsaken theyr wyfes or husbands or married others.

8. Whether any man kepeth in his house any abused Images namely such as be remoued out of the churche, or S. John's head. S. Catheryn. S. Nicolas or suche lyke.

9. Whether any body vseth beades laten pryemrs or any other prayer bookes then that be alowed by publike authority to be vsed.

10. Whether there be any that mainteyneth any heresie or false opinion contrary to Goddes word.

11. Whether there be any that exerciseth sorcery, sooth saying, whytcraft or suche lyke curyous artes.

12. Whether there be any incontinent parsones, druncardes, swearers, blasphemers of the name of God, raylers at religion or faultie in any other enormouse crime or vehemently suspected of the sam.

13. Whether there be any that neglecteth to resorte comonly to his parishe churche and there abydeth orderlie and soberlie during the tyme of seruices.

14. Whether there be any that vseth byeng, selling, dressinge, caryng to and fro of cloth, followyng his occupacion, geueth himselfe or causeth his to labour bodelie or to attend their occupacion on the saboth daie, hindring both them selves and theyrs, therby to learne gostly things.

15. Whether ther be any that walketh or talketh in the Church at seruice tyme or goeth out without vrgent nede.

16. Whether ther be any bodye otherwise occupied at seruice time then to here & marke the same or els suffer theyr children to disturbe the diuine seruice.

17. Whether any parson of discretion hath not communicate thrise in the year and in especially at easter last past who they be and what be theyr names.

18. Whether any hath married the banes not being lauffully asked before except he had a dispensacion of the ordenarie.

19. Whether fathers, mothers, maisters, and dames sendeth out their children and seruantes to be instructed in the Catechisme on sondaies and holidais.

20. Whether vintners or they that kepe vitayling houses doo sell meate or drynk in tyme of seruice or sermons.

PARKER, ARCHBISHOP OF CANTERBURY, 1563.

[Parker's Articles in 1569 are in Wilkins, IV., 257.]

ARTICLES to be enquired of in the VISITATION of the Moste Reuerend Father in GOD, MATTHEW, by the sufferance of GOD ARCHEBISHOP OF CANTERBURY, Primate of all Englande, and Metropolitane, in the yeare of oure Lorde GOD, MDLXIII.

Imprinted at London by Reginalde Wolfe, Anno Domini MDLXIII.

ARTICLES to be enquired of, in the VISITATION of the Moste Reuerend Father in GOD, MATTHEW, ARCHEBISHOP OF CANTERBURY, in the yeare of oure Lorde GOD, MDLXIII.

1. Inprimis, whether diuine seruice be sayd or songe by your minister or ministers in your seuerall churches duelye and reuerently, as it is set forthe by the lawes of this realme, with out any kynde of variation. And whether the holy Sacramentes be likewise ministred reuerently, in suche manner as by the lawes of this Realme is appointed.

2. Item, whether you haue in youre parrysh churches all things necessarye and requisite for Common prayer and administration of the Sacraments, specially the booke of common praier, the Bible in the largest volume, the Homilyes, with the Paraphrases of Erasmus: a conuenient Pulpit wel placed: a comly and decent table for the Holy communion, sette in place prescribed by the Queenes Maiesties Iniunctions. The Chest or Boxe for the poore men, and al other things necessary in and to the premisses. And whether your Alters be taken downe accordyng to the commaundement in that behalf geuen.

3. Item, whether your Prestes, Curates, or ministers do vse in the time of the celebracion of diuine seruice to weare a surplesse, prescribed by the Queenes maiesties Iniunctions, and the boke of Common praier. And whether they do celebrate the same deuine seruice in the chauncel or in the Church; and do vse all Rites and orders prescribed in the Boke of Common Praier, &c., and none other.

4. Item, whether they do vse to minister the communion in wafer bread, accordyng vnto the Queenes Maiesties Iniunctions, or in common bread.

5. Item, whether ymages and al other monuments of ydolatry and superstition be destroyd and abolyshed in your seuerall parishes: and whether youre Churches be well adorned and conuenientlye kepte without waste, destruction, or abuse of any thinge. Whether the rood loff be pulled downe, accordyng to the order prescribed, and of (sic) the partition betwene the Chauncell and the Church be kepte. Whether the funt be standing and kept decently in the place used. Whether your Churchyardes be well fenced and clenly kept. Whether any sale haue bene made of youre Church goods, by whome and to whom, and what hath ben don with the mony thereof comming. Whether your Chauncels and Parsonages be wel and sufficiently repaired. Whether any man haue pulled downe or discovered anye Church, Chauncell, Chappell, Almes house, or suche lyke, or haue plucked down the bels, or haue felled, or spoiled any woode or timber in any Church yarde.

6. Item, whether ther be any Parsons that intrude them

selfe, and presume to exercise any kinde of mynistry in the church of God, without imposition of handes and ordinary authoritie. Whether their church or chappell be serued with any readers. Or whether any Minister do remoue from any other diocese to serue in this, without letters testimonial of thordinary from whom he came, to testify the cause of his departing thence, and of his behaviour. Or any beinge once priest or minister, that doth not minister, or frequent and resort to the Common praier now vsed, and at tymes appoynted communicate. And whether any suche do goe and boste himselfe lyke a laye man.

7. Item, whether your Parsons and Vicars be residente continualli vpon their benefices. Whether they geue themselves to deuoute prayer, discrete reading of the Scripture and godlye contemplacion, and releaue the poore charitably to their ability, according to the Queenes Iniunctions. Whether they pray for the prosperous estate of the Queenes Maiesty, as is prescribed in her geace's (sic) Iniunctions.

8. Item, whether the communion table be decently couered and set in conuenient place, according to the Queenes Maiesties Iniunctions.

9. Item, whether any of your ministers doth or hath admitted any notorious sinner or malicious person out of Charitie, without iuste penance don and recouciacion had, to receaue the holy Communion: or ani that hath not receaued the same accordyng as to a Christian apper tayne, and by the lawes it is appointed. And whethre you do heare or knewe any that doth vse to saie or heare the priuate Masse, or doe vse any other seruice then is prescribed by the lawes of this Realme.

10. Item, whether your minystrers doe call vpon fathers, mothers, and maisters of youth, to bring them up in the feare of Almighty God, in obediee, and in conuenient occupations. Whether they be peacemakers, and exhorte the people to obediee to their Prince, and to all other that be in authoritie to charity and mutuall love amonge themselves. Whether they geue themselves to superstition, and be maintainers of the unlearned people in ignorauce.

11. Item, whether your Persons, Vicars, and Curates be common gameners, hunters, haunTERS of tauerns, or alehouses; Suspected of any notable crime: Fauters of forein poures, letters of good religion, preachers of corrupt doctrine: stubborne or disobedient to lawes and orders: Whether they be geuen to filthy lucer: Whether they be lyght either in example of life, or in vnwont and vnsemy apparell.

12. Item, whether anye of your benefices be vacant, how longe they haue been vacant: who is patrone. Whether there be anye laye or temporall men (not being within orders), or children, or any other (within age), that hath or enioieth ani benefice or spirituall promotion: ani patron that suffereth anye benefice to be vacante, and taketh the tythes and other fructes to himselfe.

13. Item, whether your ministers kepe their registers well, & do present the copi of them once eueri yeare, by Indenture, to the Ordinary or his officers. And teache the Articles of the fayth, and the Tenne commaundementes, and the Lordes prayer, as is prescribed them in the Catechisme.

14. Item, whether your Parsons and Vycars haue any other or mo benefices, where & in what countrie they be: whether they came by them by Symony, or other vnlawfull meanes. Whether they doe let their benefyce to farne, or els kepe them in their owne handes. Whether they kepe hospitality or not. Whether in their absence they leaue their cures to honest, learned, or expert curates. Whether they make their ordinary sermons, accordyng to the Queenes maiestes Iniunctions. Whether they admitte any to preach vnlicenced, or put by any that hath licence. Whether they reade the Queenes maiesties Iniunctions as they ought to do, and saye their Seruice sensibly and distinctly.

15. Item, whether the laye people be diligent in comming to the Church on the holy daies, and with all humblenes, reuerentlye and deuoutly do geue themselves to the hearing of Commune prayer in the tim thereof, and otherwise occupie themselves in priuat praiers, reading of Scriptures, or other vertuose exercise. Yf any be negligent or wilful. Whether the forfeiture be leuid on their goodes to the vse of the poore, according to the lawes of this Realme in that behalfe prouided. And what mony hath ben gathered by the churchwardens of the forfeits.

16. Item, whether there be in your quarters any that openly or priuily vse or frequent any kinde of diuine seruice or common praier, other then is set forth by the lawes of this Realme: and disturbers of common prayers, or letters of the worde of God to be reade, preached or heard: Any that by couert or crafty meanes depraue or contemme the same, or that speake to the derogation of the Queenes Maiesties authority and power, or of the lawes set out by publike authority.

17. Item, whether there be amonge you any blasphemers of the name of Almighty God, adulterers, fornicators, baudes, or receauers of suche persons. Any suspected of incest or any other notorious faulte, sin or crime. Any dronkardes, ribaldes, common slanderers of their neighbours, raylers or scolders, sowers of discorde betweene neighbours, by plaies, rimes famous libels, or otherwise.

18. Item, whether there be in your parishes any Inkeepers or Alewiues, that admit any resort to their houses in tyme of Common prayer. Anye that commonlye absente them selues from theyre owne Church or otherwise idely or lewdly prophaneth the Sabbath day. Any that keepe any secret conuenticles, preachings, lectures or readings contrary to the lawes. Any suspected of heresy, or that maintain any erroneous opinions contrary to the lawes of Almighty God and good religion, by publike authoritie in this Realme set forth.

19. Item, whether there be in these parties which minister the goodes, of those whiche be deade, without authoritie: ani executors that haue not fulfilled their testators will, specially in paying of legacies given to good and godly vses, as to the reliefe of pouerte, to poore schollars, orphanes, highe waies, marriage of poore maydens, and suche lik. Whether your Hospitals and Almes houses be iustly vsed, accordinge to the foundation and auncient ordinaunces of the same. Whether ther be any other placed in them then poore, impotent and needy persons, that hath not other wyse where with or whereby to liue.

20. Item, whether there be any which of late hath bequeathed in their testamentes, or other waies therebe (sic) appointed by ordinaries, any sumes of mony, Jewelles, Plate, Ornaments, or annuities for the erection of any obites, diriges, trentals or any suche like vse now be the lawes of this Realm not permitted: and if there be, that you present the names of such executors, the quantiti and qualitie of the guifte, that ordre may be taken therein accordingly.

21. Item, whether there be ani moni or stoke appertaining to anie parishe church, in any mannes handes, that refuse or differeth to paye the same: or that vseth fraude, deceite or delay to make any accompte in the presence of the honestye in the parish, for the same. Whether youre church wardens and others afore tyme, haue giuen the yearely accompte, according vnto the custome as it hath been aforetime vsed. Whether the store of the poore mens boxe be openli and indifferently gyuen where neede is, without parcial affection. Whether any stocke of cattel or graine appertaining to your churches, be decayed: by whose negligence, and in whose handes.

22. Item, whether your schoolmaisters be of a sincere religion, and be diligent in teachinge and bringing up of youth: Whether they teache any other Grammar, then such as is appointed by the Queenes Maiesties Iniunctions annexed to the same, or not.

23. Item, whether there be any amonge you that vse sorcery or enchauntment, magike, incantacions or nigromanci, or that be suspected of the same.

24. Item, whether there bee any in these partes that haue married within degrees of affinity or consanguinitie, by the lawes of God forbidden: so set oute in a table for an Admonition. Any man that hath two wyues, or any woman that hath two husbandes. Ani that being deuorced or separated asyde, hath married againe. Any married that haue made precontractes (sic). Any that haue made priuie or secreete contractes. Any that haue married with out banes thrise solemnely axed. Any couples married that liue not together, but slanderously liue a part. Any that haue married out of the parish church, where they ought to haue the same solomnised.

25. Generally, whether there be any euil liuers or offenders of the lawes of Almighty God: Ani suspected of ani notorious sinne, fault or crime, to the offence of Christian people committed: Any common brauler barrator or scowlder, or any other that giueth occasion of the breache of Christian loue and charity amongst you: Any that stubbornly refuse to conforme them selfe to vniuersal and good Religion: Any that bruteth abroad rumors of the alteration of the same, or otherwise that disturbeth good orders, and the quietnesse of Christes Church and Christian congregation.

Imprinted at London by Reginalde Wolfe,
Anno Domini MDLXIII.

INIUNCTIONS OF PARKHURST, BISHOP OF NORWICH, 1569.

INIUNCTIONS with certayne Articles to be enquired of in the Visitation of the Reuerend Father in Christ, John, by Gods prouidence, Byshop of Norwich, as well to the Clergie, as to the Churchwardens and questmen of euery seuerall parish within the dioces of Norwich, & to be put in execution, by al the Archdeacons Commissaries & other officers exercisinge ecclesiasticall iurisdiction, vnder the sayd Bishop in their Synodes, Visitation, and Courtes.

¶ In the yeare of our Lord God. 1569.

Imprinted at London by John Walley. Aprilis 15.

INIUNCTIONS with certayne Articles to be enquired of, in the Visitation of the Reuerend father in Christ, Iohn, by gods prouidence, Bishop of Norvvich, &c.

¶ For the Clergie.

Inprimis, you must endeouour so to order & frame your selues in the setting forth of Gods true Religion, due administration of the Sacraments, and the reuerent and distincte saying or singing of the Commonprayer set forth to be vsed through the whole Realme, as by sondry Iniunctions set fourth for that purpose. And that you take great heede, that your lyues and conuersations be such euery way, as no person haue cause to be offended thereby, so much as in you lieth.

2. Item, ye shall not take vpon you to preach, or Expounde the Scriptures by way of exhortation or otherwise, in your owne Church or else where, vnlesse you bee admitted thereto by the moste Reuerend Father, the Archbishop of Canterbury, or the Bishop of the Dioces.

3. Item, you shall not marie or suffer to be married within any of your cures, any personne or persons, that come lately out of any other Dioces, vnlesse suche persons bring with them sufficient testimoniall vnder the Seale of the Ordinarie of the Dioces from whence he or they shal come, testifying such person or persons to be free and vnmarried, and at their liberty to mary accordingly.

4. Item, at such tymes as ye shall vse the perambulation in the Rogation dayes for the boundes of your parish, you shall not vse any surples vpon you, or stay at any crosse, or suffer any banners, to be caried, or other superstition to be vsed, but onely geue GOD thanks, and vse such good order of prayers and Homelies, as be appointed by the Queenes maiesties authoritie in that behalfe.

5. Item, none of you shall ferme one cure or more within this Dioces, without special lycence in wryting vnder the Bishops Seale.

6. Finally, ye shall diligently obserue and put in vre, all such Orders & Iniunctions as haue ben appointed you before tyme, as well by the Iniunctions of the queenes maiestie, as by the Archbishop of Canterburyes grace, and the Bishop of the Dyoces.

¶ For the Churchwardens, Questmen, and others.

1. Item, that no Parson Vicar, propriatorie, or fermer of any benefice, doe admit any Minister or Curate to serue his said benefice, vnlesse such person shall first show his letters of Orders, where he was made Mynister, and haue also sufficient testimoniall vnder the Seale of the Ordinarie, from whence he commeth, with lycence from the Bishop to serue accordingly.

2. Item, that in great Churches where all the people cannot conueniently heare their minister, the Churchwardens & other, to whome that charge belongeth, shal prouide and appoint, a decent and a conuenient seate in the body of the church, where the sayd minister may sit or stand, and say the diuine seruice, that all the congregation may heare and be edified therewith. And that in smaller churches, ther be some conuenient seate without the chauncell dore for that purpose.

3. Item, that vpon all saintes daye and other like times, ther be no ringing of belles after Euening prayer, or any other superstitious ceremony vsed, to the maintenance of poperie, or praying for the dead, & that if any such shal be hence forth vsed, the same with the names of suche as shall offende therein, to bee presented to the Ordinary.

4. Item, that no person or persons calling themselues lordes of misrule in the Christmas tyme, or other vnreuerent persons at any other tyme, presume to come into the church vnreuerently playing their lewd partes, with scoffing, iesting, or rebaldry talke, & if any such haue already offended herein, to present them and their names to the Ordinary.

5. Item, for auoydinge of vnlawfull mariages, you shall prouide in euery of your Churches, a certayne table for the degrees of Marriage last set forth by the foresayde most Reuerend Father in God Mathew, Archbishop of Canterbury, to be sette vp in some conuenient place of the sayd Church.

6. Finally, you shall carefully and diligently provide, that all such good Orders & Injunctions, as haue ben prescribed & appointed beefore time, shal be duly by you put in execution, so far forth, as they concerne any of you.

¶ Articles to be inquired of.

1. Inprimis, whether your Diuine seruice be sayde or song in due tyme and reuerently, and the Sacraments duely and reuerently mynistr'd in such decent apparel, as is appoynted by the laws, the Queenes maiesties Injunctions, and other orders set forth by publike aucthoritie in that behalfe.
2. Item, whether the Queenes maiesties Injunctions, be quarterly read in your Churches, & a declaration read twyse euery yeare, which was set forth by bothe the Archbishops and the reste of the Bishops, concerning certayne principall pointes of Religion, for the vnitie of doctrine.
3. Item, whether you haue in your Church a Bible, of the largest volume, the Paraphrasis, of Erasmus in English, with the Homelies, & all other boks requisite, for the Administration of Diuine seruice. And whether the Homelies be duely and distinctly read.
4. Item, whether you haue in your Church a decent Pulpit and Communion table furnished and placed as becommeth, with a comly communion cup, with a couer, and a chest or poore mans boxe, and the collection and distribution, for the poore, made according to a statute in that behalfe provided.
5. Item, whether any person or persons haue pulled downe, any Church, Chappell, or Chauncell, almes house, or belles, or any part thereof, or haue felled or spoyled any wood or tymber in any Church yerde, or haue solde any church goodes: to whome, what it was, and for what price.
6. Item, whether your Church, Chauncel, and your Parsonage and Vicaridge house, be well & sufficiently repaired and maintained, & whether that your Church yard be well kept and fenced.
7. Item, whether your Rodeloftes, Images, Tabernacles, and all other monuments of Idolatrie be pulled downe and defaced, and youre Church and Chauncell decently reformed. And whether you know of any Popish and superstitious bookes, Images, vestments, or such lyke, remaining within your parish and in whose hands they bee.
8. Item, whether your Preachers & Ministers doe earnestly and diligently teache theyr Auditory and parishiners, to lyue in faythfull and humble obedience to almighty GOD, the Queenes maiestie, and all and singuler hir officers, as well spiritual as temporal, exhorting them from all kind of Idolatrie, superstition, and other vices.
9. Item, whether your Minister be gotten to filthy lucre, whordome, dronkenesse, or other like notorious vices, or doe haunt or frequent any suspitious house or company, or any vaine pastimes as hawking, hunting, dising, carding, and suche like vanities, and geue not him selfe to prayer, fasting, almes dedes, with such like. And whether he pray diligently for the prosperous estate of the Queenes maiestie, as to duty belongeth.
10. Item, whether your Mynister doe endeour him selfe diligently to teach & instruct the youth of the parish, the Catechisme, and do otherwise see them brought vp in the feare of God, and in due obedience and reuerence, to their parentes, maysters and elders.
11. Item, whether your curate or Minister haue admitted any to Preache within your parishe church not being lawfully lycensed therunto, or haue refused any suche as are lycensed, and whether you haue your quarter sermons.
12. Item, whether you know of any sectaries, that vse to make any priuate conuenticles in priuate mans houses, in contempt of the lawes and good orders set forth by authoritie, and doe preache, teach, or minister the Sacraments there, and by that meanes attempt to withdrawe the people from due obedience, and to raise and maintaine scismes & sectes, who they are that so doe, where they do it, and what be the articles and contents of their doctrine and opinions.
13. Item, whether there be any Minister, Priest, or other persone or persons whatsoever within your parish, that doeth willingly, stubburnely, or negligently, absent him selfe from the church and receyuinge of the Sacramentes and do refuse to contribute to the poore mens box, any that walk vp and downe iangling and talking in the tyme of Common praier, or administration of the Sacraments, any that vse any other booke of prayers then is set forth by publike authoritie, or that haue not communicated thrise euery yeare at the least, nor submit him selfe to the laws and orders set forth by common authoritie, and where suche person or persons doe remaine, and who they are that doe maintaine them.

14. Item, whether your Vicar or Parson be resident and kepeth hospitalitie in and vpon his benefice, & howe many benefices he hath, expressing their names.

15. Item, who is patrone of your benefice, whether that he witholde the glebe landes or tithes pertainyng to the same, or any parte thereof, or vseth any simoniacall pactes in the bestowinge of his sayd benefice, and whether he or any in his name, hath in the tyme of the vacation of the church, taken the fruits and profits thereof, and by what authoritie.

16. Item, whether ye know any Parson or Vicar, that sel their benefice to meare lay men, absenting them selues from the same, to the defacing of their callinge, decay of hospitalitie, contempt of the lawes, neglecting of their duties, bothe towards God, and the Queenes maiestie, and euill example of the church of God.

17. Item, whether your church be vacant, & how long it hath ben so, and what is the cause therof.

18. Item, whether you know, any maintainers of foren power, letters or hinderers of Gods holy word, any slaunders of the Preachers or of the ministry or publike prayer, or that defend or hold any opinions againste them or any of them, who they are expressing their names, and what was theyr communication.

19. Item, whether ye know any spirituall Judge or his officers, that neglect truly with sinceritie to mynister Justice, according to the lawes ecclesiasticall, indifferently to euery party.

20. Item, whether they be diligent, and vigilant to enquire of such as be noted and commonly famed & suspected of any notorious crime, as of Adultery, fornication, backbiting, dronkenesse, & such like, and whether they be careful to correcte such offenders, and circumspect with charitie to reforme smaller faultes.

21. Item, whether they vse to permitte for summes of money the penaunce of suche as are notorious offenders, not caring for the euil example, & encouragement of others, to commit the lyke offences, & therby suffer the sinners to sleepe in theyr sinnes.

22. Item, whether you know any Parentes, maysters, maystresse, or dames, who doe not see theyr children or youth taught the Catechisme, or that do not send their sayd children or youth diligently to the church to be instructed therein, & who they are.

23. Item, whether the Register booke of Christnings, mariages, and buryings, be well kept, and the names entred accordinge to the Queenes hir maiesties Injunctions.

24. Item, whether there be any Inne keepers, Tauernes, or Ale house keepers, that maintaine eating and drinkinge in them vpon any sonday or holiday in the time of preaching or common praier, or if there be any faires or common markets, falling on those days, whether they open or make any shew of their wares before Morning prayer be ended.

25. Item, whether ye knowe any Blasphemers of the name of God, abusers of his holy word or sacraments, adulterers, fornicatours, bawds, & maintayners of them, any suspect of Incest, any dronkerdes, ribaldes, or vsers of vnseemely or filthy talk, common slaundersers of their neighbours, or sowers of discorde betweene party and party.

26. Item, whether ye knowe any that minister any dead mens goods without authoritie, or any executours that haue not fulfilled the testatours wyl. And whether your Hospitalls be vsed according to the foundation thereof. And whether they receue any other then the poore.

27. Item, whether ye know any scholemaister or instructour of youth that teach, not being lawfully lycensed thereto, vnder the Bishops Seale. Or any Phisition or surgeon, that practyse their artes, being not lawfully authorised.

28. Item, whether your scholemaisters or instructors of youth, be of sounde religion, and haue taken the Othe to the Queenes maiestie, and doe bring vp his sayde youth, in the feare of GOD, with humilitie, obedience and good maners, to reuerence and geue place to their elders and betters, and doe teach them godly sentences of the Scripture.

29. Item, whether ye know any that vse any sorcerie, Inchantments, Magika (sic), Necromancie, Incantations, or Witchcraffe, or that be suspected of the same.

30. Item, whether any of your parish haue maryed within the degrees of Affinitie, or Consanguinitie, contrary to the lawes, and a certayne Table for that purpose, aste set forth by the moste Reuerend Father, Mathew, Archbishop of Canterbury, or whether there be any that hath two wiues, or woman that hath two Husbandes, any married where a precontract was to an other, any deuorsed, or otherwise separated that married againe, any that haue made priuie or secret contracts, or haue married without asking the banes not being thereunto lawfully lycensed.

¶ FINIS.

Imprinted at London by Iohn Walley. Aprilis 15.

INJUNCTIONS OF COX, BISHOP OF ELY, about 1570-1574 (*).

(Title wanting).

INIUNCTIONS geuen by the Reuerende father in God Richarde by Gods prouidence Bishop of Elye, aswell to the Clergie as to the Church wardens and Inquirers of euery seueral parishe within his Dioces, to be obserued and kept of euery of them in their offices and callinges as to them shall apperteyne, for the aduancement of Gods honour, for the increase of vertue, and for good order to be continued within his sayde dioces.

For the Clergie.

Inprimis, you must traunaile diligently and painfully to set fourth gods true religion, and to adourne the same with example of godly lyfe, being circumspect that you offende no man eyther by lyght behaiour or vncomely apparell.

Item, you shall euery seconde Sunday and euery Holyday, openly in the Churche heare and instruct all the chyldren and seruauntes of both sexes within your parishe, or at the least so many of them at once by course, as the tyme wyll serue, and as you may well heare and instructe, for halfe an houre at the least before euenyng prayer, in the ten commaundementes, the articles of the beliefe, and the Lordes prayer, and diligently examine and teache them in the Catechisme set fourth in the booke of common prayer.

Item, to thintent this thing may be more effectually executed, ye shall take the names of all the chyldren and seruauntes of both sexes in your parishe, that be of conuenient age and cannot say the Catechisme, and shall call by course certeyne of them by name, euery seconde Sunday and euery Holy day to come to the Catechisme, whereby you may easily note and perceauce what parentes or maisters and dames be negligent in sendyng their chyldren and seruauntes to be instructed, and take occasion thereof both priuily and openly to exhort them to sende their youth as they are appoynted.

Item, you shall not admit to the receauyng of the holy communion, any of your parishe which be openly knownen to lyue in any notorious sinne without repentaunce, or any malicious person that is out of charitie, vnlesse the same do first charitable and openly reconcile hym or her selfe agayne, to the satisfaction of the congregation.

Item, you shall not admit to the holy communion any of your parishe, men, or women, being aboute twentie yeres of age, that can not saye by heart the ten commaundementes, the articles of the fayth, and the Lordes prayer: nor any being aboute twelue yeres, and vnder twentie yeres of age, that can not say by heart the Catechisme that is set fourth in the booke of common prayer. And you shall vse to examine your parishioners at conuenient times, to thintent you may know whether they can say the same whiche is aboue required.

Item, you shall reade openly in your Churche in tyme of diuine seruice, twice euery yere, vpon some of the Sundayes within one moneth next after the feastes of Easter and saint Michael the archangel, a declaration of certayne principall articles of Religion, set fourth by both the Archbishops and the rest of the Bishops of this Realme for vnitie of doctrine.

Item, you shall preache or cause to be preached in the Churches where you are Parsons or Vicars, one sermon euery quarter of the yere at the least.

Item, none of you shall serue two cures at one tyme, without speciall licence vnder your Ordinaries seale.

Item, no Curate shall serue any Cure within this Dioces, without speciall licence vnder your Ordinaries seale.

Item, that euery Parson, Vicar, and Curate shall vse in the tyme of the celebration of diuine seruice, to weare a surplesse, prescribed by the Queenes maiesties Iniunctions and the booke of Common prayer, and shall kepe and obserue all other rightes and orders prescribed in the same booke of Common prayer and Iniunctions, as well about the celebration of the sacramentes, as also in their comely and priestlyke apparell, to be worne accordyng to the precept set fourth in the booke called Aduertisementes.

For the Churchwardens and Inquirers.

Inprimis, that all Churchwardens within the dioces of Elye, shal vpon their othes duely and truly certifie in the ende of euery quarter of the yere, from tyme to tyme, all such matters as hereafter ensue, to the Chauncelour or his deputie vpon some court day, and in the Consistorie the tyme of his sitting.

Item, whether the Queenes maiesties Iniunctions be quarterly read by the Parson, Vicar, or Curate.

Item, whether one sermon at the least be quarterly preached in your parishe Churche, accordyng to the saide Iniunctions, and by whom the same sermon is preached.

Item, whether your Parson, Vicar, or Curate, do reade once vpon some Sunday within one moneth next after Easter, and once vpon some Sunday within one moneth next after Michaelmas yerely, a declaration of certayne principall articles of religion, set fourth by the Archbishops and Bishops of this Realme for vnitie of doctrine.

Item, whether your Parson, Vicar, or Curate do reade vpon the Sundayes and Holydayes the Homilees set fourth by publique aucthoritie, where there is no sermon, and in suche sort as they are appoynted to reade the same in the booke of the Homilees.

Item, whether your Parson, Vicar, or Curate, do teache the youth of your parishe vpon euery holyday, and euery seconde Sunday in the yere, the Catechisme set fourth in the booke of publique prayer.

Item, to certifie and present whether all fathers, mothers, maisters and dames of your parishe, cause their chyldren and seruauntes both mankinde and womankinde, beyng of sixe yeres of age, and vnder twentie, whiche haue not lerned the Catechisme, to come to the Churche euery seconde Sunday, and euery holyday at the tyme appoynted, and obediently to heare and be ordered by your minister, vntill suche tyme as thei haue learned the said Catechisme by heart, and what be the names of those that do not cause their chyldren and seruauntes so to come to the Churche to be instructed and examined.

Item, to certifie and present, whether the lay people of your parishe, especially housholders hauing no lawfull excuse to be absent, do faythfully and diligently endeavour them selues to resort to their parishe Churche or Chappell on the holydayes, and chiefly on the Sundayes to mornyng and euenyng prayer, and vpon reasonable let therof, to some vsual place where Common prayer is vsed, and then and there abide orderly and soberly during the time of Common prayer, Homilees, preaching, and other seruice of God there vsed, and what be the names of those that negligently or wyfully absent them selues, or come very late to the Churche vpon the Sundayes and holydayes, and especially vpon the Sundayes.

Item, to certifie and present the names of such of your parishioners as walke, talke, or otherwyse vnreuerently behaue them selues in the Churche, or vse any gamyng abroad, or in any house, or sit in the streates or Churchyard, or in any tauerne, or alehouse vpon the Sunday, or any other holyday, in the time of Common prayer, sermon, or reading of any of the Homilees.

Item, to certifie and present, whether the Churchwardens and sworne men haue leuied and gathered of euery that wyfully or negligently absenteth hym or her selfe from their parishe Church or vnreuerently behaue him or her selfe in the Churche, in the tyme of diuine seruice vpon the Sundayes, or other holydayes, the forfayture of xii. d. for euerye suche offence, accordyng to a statute made in the first yere of the Queenes Maiesties raigne that now is, and haue put the same forfaytures to the vse of the poore of that parishe, and what particuler summes of money are quarterly forfayted that way, and by whom and howe muche therof is leuied and deliuered to the collectours of the poore: and if any such forfaytures be not leuied in case of such offence, by whose fault it happeneth that the same are not leuied, and what be the names of such as offende that way, and do not pay the said forfayture.

Item, to certifie and present whether there be any Inkepers, Alewyues, Victuellers, or Tiplers within your parishe, that admit or suffer any person or persons in their houses, to eate and drynke, to play at tables, cardes, or other games, in tyme of common prayer, preaching, or reading of the Homilees on the sundayes or holy dayes, or any Butchers or other, that vse to sell meate or other thynges vpon the sundayes or holydayes in lyke tyme of common prayer, preaching, or reading of the Homilees, and what be the names of the persons that so offende.

Item, to certifie and present whether you haue collectours for the poore of your parishe, whether they do their duetie in gatheryng weekly, and distributyng the almes of the poore, accordyng to a statute made in the first yere of the Queenes maiesties raigne, and make a iust accompt therof quarterly.

* Parker, who is mentioned in one of the Articles as Archbishop of Canterbury, died in 1575.

Item, to certifie and present quarterly all such persons as be of habilitie, and do obstinately or frowardly refuse to geue reasonable towardes the reliefe of the poore, or do wyfully discourage others from so charitable a deede, and what their names be.

Item, to certifie at the least quarterlye all swearers and blasphemers of Gods holy name, all drunkardes, adulterers, fornicatours, ribauldes, incestuous persons, baudes, or receaers of such incontinent persons, or of strange women with chylde, whose husbandes are vnknown, or any persons that are vehemently suspected of such faultes, or that be not of good name and fame touchyng such crymes and faultes, and all sowers of discordes betweene neyghbour and neyghbour, within your parishe.

Item, to certifie whether any Curate presume to serue in any parishe without licence from the Ordinarie in wrytyng and vnder seale, or serue two Cures without speciall licence therefore: and whether any licenced to serue any Cure, do not weare at the celebration of the diuine seruite and sacramentes a comely surplesse, and obserueth all other rightes and orders prescribed in the booke of Common prayer, and the Queenes maiesties Iniunctions, and in the booke of Aduertisementes.

Item, to certifie whether the parishe haue a Bible of their owne, the booke of Common prayer, a Psalter, the two bookes of Homylees, the booke called the Paraphrases of Erasmus, or rather the common places of Musculus, and other bookes requisite, as Iniunction, the Declaration, and Aduertisementes.

Item, to certifie lykewyse whether the quier be comely and orderly kept, whether they haue a fayre and comely table for the holy Communion, with a fayre linnen cloth to laye vpon the same, and some coueryng of silke, buckram, or suche lyke, for the cleane keepyng therof.

Item, whether the east wall of the quier be hanged with a fayre cloth, and the paper of the ten commaundementes fastened in the myddest therof.

Item, whether the table touchyng the degrees of matrimonie, last set fourth by the Reuerende father in God Matthew Archbishop of Canturburie, be fastened in some conuenient place in the Church.

Item, to certifie whether there be any within this Dioces that haue maryed within degrees of affinitie or consanguinitie, by the lawes of God forbidden, and set fourth in a table for an admonition: Any man that hath two wyues, or any woman that hath two husbandes, any that beyng diuorced or seperated asyde, hath maryed agayne, any maryed that haue made precontractes, any that haue made priuie or secrete contractes, any that haue maryed without banes thrise solemnely asked, any couples maryed that lyues not together, but slaunderslye lyue a part, any that haue maryed out of the parishe where they ought to haue the same solemnized.

Item, to certifie whether your ministers kepe their Registers of maryages, buryalles, and christenynges well and orderly, and to present the copie of them once a yere by indenture, to the Ordinarie or his officers.

Item, to certifie whether there be any in your parishe which minister the goodes of those that be dead without auctoritie, any executours that haue not fulfilled their testators wyl, specially in paying of legacies geuen to good and godly vses, as to reliefe of the pouertie, to poore schollers, orphans, hygh wayes, maryage of poore maydens, and such lyke.

Item, whether there be any persons that intrude themselves and presume to exercise any kynde of ministerie in the Church of God, without imposition of handes and ordinarie auctoritie: Or any beyng once priest or minister, that doth not minister, nor resort to the common prayer nowe vsed, and at tymes appoynted communicate: and whether any such do go and vse hym selfe lyke a laye man.

R. E.

The othe for the Churchwardens and others, beside their vsual othe.

Ye shall diligently and indifferently marke all persons of your parishe, which come into the Church after the begynnyng of the seruite, or depart out of the Church before all the seruite be fully ended, and tell them roundly of their faultes: in case any of them will not amende, ye shall sende worde from tyme to tyme to your Ordinarie.

Also ye shall demaunde and receaue of all persons being absent from all the Morning prayer, or all the Euening prayer vpon the holy dayes, xii. d. to the vses of the poore, yf any person refuse payment, then distrayne tyll it be payde.

Ye shall allowe no excuse, vnlesse it be thought lawfull by two of you at the least.

R. E.

God saue the Queene.

Imprinted at London in Powles Churchyarde by Ricarde Jugge, Printer to the Queenes Maiestie.

Cum priuilegio Regiæ Maiestatis.

GRINDAL, ARCHBISHOP OF YORK, 1571.

ARTICLES to be inquired of, within the Prouince of Yorke, in the Metropolitanall visitation of the most reuerent father in God, EDMONDE ARCHBISHOP OF YORKE, Primate and Metropolitan of Englande. In the xiii. yere of the raigne of our most gracious soueraigne Ladie ELIZABETH, by the grace of GOD, Queene of England, Fraunce and Irelande, defender of the fayth, &c.

Imprinted at London, by William Seres, Anno 1571.

ARTICLES to be enquired of, within the prouince of Yorke, in the Metropolitanall visitation of the most reuerent father in God, EDMOND ARCHEBISHOP OF YORKE, Primate and Metropolitan of England.

Whether common prayer be song or sayde, by your person, Vicar or Curate in your seuerall Churches or Chappels, distinctly and reuerently and in such order, as it is set forth by the lawes of this Realme, without any kinde of alteration, and at due and conuenient houres. And whether your Minister so turne himselfe and stande in such place of your Church or Chauncell, as the people may best here the same. And whether the holy Sacraments be likewise ministred reuerently in such maner, as by the lawes of this realme is appoynted. And whether upon Wednesdayes, and Fridayes, not beeing holydayes, the Letanie and other prayers, appoynted for the day, be sayde accordingly?

2. Whether you haue in your parish Churches and Chappels, all things necessary and requisite for common prayer, and administration of the Sacraments, specially the Booke of common prayer with the newe kalendar, a Psalter, the Englishe Bible in the largiest volume, the two Tomes of the Homelyes, the Paraphrases of Erasmus translated into Englishe, the table of the Ten Commaundements, a conuenient Palpit well placed, a comely and decent table, standing on a frame, for the holy Communion, with a fayre linnen cloth to lay vpon the same, and some coueryng of silke, Buckram, or other such like, for the cleane keeping thereof, a fayre and comely Communion cup of silver, and a couer of siluer for the same, which may serue also for the ministration of the communion bread, a decent large surplesse with sleeues, a sure Coffe with two locks & keyes for the keeping of the Register booke, and a strong chest or boxe for the almose of the poore with three locks and keyes to the same, and all other things necessary in and to the premisses?

3. Whether the forme of commination agaynst sinners, with certaine prayers following the same, set forth in the latter ende of the booke of common prayer, to be vsed at diuers tymes in the yere, be by your Minister plainly and distinctly red in your Church or Chappel vnto the people, betweene the Letany, and the commemoration or ministration of the holy communion, three times at the least in the yere, that is to say for order sake, yearely vpon one of the three Sundayes next before Easter, for the first tyme, vpon one of the two Sundayes next before the feast of Pentecost for the seconde tyme. And for the thirde tyme, vpon one of the two Sundayes next before the feast of the birth of our Lord, ouer and besides the accustomed reading thereof vpon the first day of Lent?

4. Whether in your churches and chappels, all alters be utterly taken downe and cleane remoued, euen unto the foundation, and the place where they stode, paved, and the wall, where vnto they ioyned, whited ouer, and made vniforme with the reast, so as no breach or rupture appeare. And whether your Roodlofts be taken downe, and altered so, that the vpper partes thereof with the sollar or loft be quite taken downe vnto the crosse beame, and that the sayde beame haue some conuenient creast put vpon the same?

5. Whether your Churches and Chappels with the chauncels thereof be well and sufficiently repayred; and kept without abuse of any thing. And whether your churchyardes be well fenced, and clenly kept. And if any part thereof be in decay through whose default it is so?

6. Whether all and every Antiphonars, Masse books, Grailes, Portesses, Processionals, Manualles, Legendaries, and all other bookes of late belonging to your Church or Chappell, which serued for the superstitious Latine seruice, be vtterly defaced, rent, and abholsed, and if they be not, through whose default that is, and in whose keeping they remaine. And whether all Vestments, Albes, Tunicles, Stoles, Phaions, Pixes, Paxes, Handbells, Sacringbells, Senses, Crismatories, Crosses, Candlesticks, Holy water stocks, Images, and such other reliques and monuments of superstition and Idolatrie be vtterly defaced, broken, and destroyed. And if not, where and in whose custodie they remaine?

7. Whether your person, vicar, curate, or minister, doe weare any cope in your Parish church or chappell, or minister the holy Communion in any Challice heretofore vsed at Masse, or in any prophane cuppe or glasse, or vse at the ministracion thereof anye gestures, rites, or ceremonies, not appoynted by the booke of common prayer, as crossing or breathing ouer the sacramentall bread and wine, or shewing the same to the people, to be worshipped and adored, or any such lyke, or use any Oyle and Chrisme, Tapers, spatle, or any other Popish ceremonie in the ministracion of the Sacrament of Baptisme?

8. Whether any holy dayes or fasting dayes heretofore abrogated, or not appoynted to be vsed, as holy daies, or fasting daies by the newe Kalender of the booke of common prayer, be eyther proclaymed, and hidden by your Person, Vicar or Curate, or be superstitiously observed by any of your parish, and what be their names, that so doe observe the same, and whether there be anye ringing or tolling of Belles to call the people together vsed in any of those dayes, more or otherwise, then commonly is vsed vpon other dayes, that be kept as workedayes?

9. Whether, when anye man or woman is in passing out of this lyfe, the Bell be tolled, to moue the people to pray for the sicke person, especially in all places, where the sicke person dwelleth neere vnto the church, and whether after the time of his or hir passing out of this worlde, there be any more ringing, but one short peale before the buriall, and another short peale after the buriall, without any other superfluous or superstitious ringing. And whether on any Saintes daye after Euening praier, there be any ringing at all, or any other superstitious ceremonie used, tending to the maintenance of Popish purgatorie, or of prayer for the deade, and who they be, that vse the same. And whether there be any ringing or knolling of belles on Sundayes or holy dayes betwene morning prayer, and the Letanie, or in any time of the common prayer, reading of the Homelies, or of preaching, except one Bell in conuenient time to be rong or tolled before the Sermon, or any other ringing vsed vpon Saintes eues or festiuall dayes, saying to common prayer, and that without excesse, and who do doth ring or knolle otherwise?

10. Whether your Person or Vicar, haue preached, or cause to be duely preached in your Church, his quarterly or monethly Sermons, as by the Queenes Iniunctions he is bounde, and what be the names of such, as haue preached for him, and whether he hath admitted any man to preach, not hauing sufficient licence, or hath inhibited or letted anye from preaching, hauing sufficient licence?

11. Whether any Person or Persons, not being ordred at the least for a Deacon, or licenced by the Ordinarie, to say common prayer openly in your Church or Chappell, or anye not being at the least a Deacon, doe solemnise Matrimonie, or administer the Sacrament of Baptisme, or deliuer vnto the Communicants the Lordes Cup, at the celebracion of the holye Communion, and what he, or they be, that so doe. And whether the Person, Vicar, or Fermer of your benefice, do cause or suffer, any Curate or Minister to serue your Church, before he be examined, and admitted by the ordinarie, or his deputie in writing, and doe shewe his licence to the Churchwardens, and whether any Curate doe serue two Cures at one time, without the speciall licence of the Ordinarie, or his deputy in that behalfe, in writing first had?

12. Whether your Person, Vicar, or Curate doe euerie Sunday, when there is no Sermon, reade distinctly and playnly some parte of the Homilies, prescribed and set forth by the Queenes authoritie to be read, and euerie holy day, when there is no Sermon, immediatly after the Gospell, openly, plainely, and distinctly, recyte to his Parishioners, the Lordes prayer, the Articles of the fayth, and the tenne commaundements in english, and whether anye Minister not admitted by the Ordinarie, or by other lawfull authoritie, doe expounde any scripture, or matter of doctrine, by the way of exhortation, or otherwise, and thereby omit and leaue of the reading of the Homilies?

13. Whether your Person, Vicar, or Curate doe euerie Sunday and holy day, openly in the church call for, here, and instruct all the Children, Apprentises, and seruantes of both sexes, that be of conuenient age within your Parish, or at the least so many of them by course, as the time will serue, and as he may well heare and instruct, for halfe an houre at the least, before or at the evening prayer, in the tenne Commandmentes, the Articles of the beliefe, and the Lordes Prayer, and diligentely examine and teach them the Catechisme, set forth in the booke of common prayer. And whether for that purpose, he doth take the names of them all, and by course call certaine of them by name euerie Sunday and holy day, to come to the teaching of the same Catechism?

14. Whether all fathers and mothers, maysters and dames of your Parishes cause their children, seruantes and apprentices, both mankinde and womankind, being aboute seven yeres of age, and vnder twentie, which haue not learned the Catechisme, to come to the Church on Sundayes and holydayes, at the tymes appointed, or at the least such and so manye of them, as your minister shall appoynt, and there diligentely and obediently to heare and to be ordered by the minister, vntill such tyme, as they haue learned the same Catechisme, and what be the names of those, that doe not cause their children, seruantes, and apprentices, so to come to the church, to be instructed and examined, and howe many of the sayde children, seruantes (sic), and apprentices be in your Parish, which being aboute seven yeres olde, and vnder twentie yeres of age, can not saye by heart the sayde Catechisme, and what be their names and age, and with whom they dwell?

15. Whether your Person, Vicar, Curate, or other minister in your Church or Chappell hath admitted to the receyuing of the holy Communion, any open and notorious sinner, or euill liuer, by whom the congregation is offended, without due penance first done, to the satisfaction of the congregation, or any malicious person, that is out of charitie, or that hath done any open wrong to his neighbour by worde or deede, without due reconciliation first made to the partie that is wronged?

16. Whether your person, vicar, curate, or minister, hath admitted to the holy Communion any of his Parishes, being aboute twentie yeres of age, eyther mankinde or womankind, that cannot say by heart the ten Commaundements, the Articles of the fayth, and the Lordes prayer in English, and what be the names of such, as cannot say the same, or being aboute fourteene yeres, and vnder twenty yeres of age that can not say the Catechisme, set forth in the sayde booke of common prayer. And whether he marry any persons, which were single before, that cannot say the Catechisme. And whether he vseth to examine his Parishioners at conuenient tymes before he administer vnto them, and namely before Easter yearely, to the intent he maye knowe, whether they can say by heart the same, which is required in this behalfe, or no?

17. Whether your Priestes and Ministers be peacemakers, and no brawlers, or sowers of discorde, and exhort their Parishioners to obedience towardes their Prince, and all other, that be in authoritie, and to charitie and mutuall loue among themselues, whether they be diligent in visiting the sick, and comforting them; and doe moue them earnestly, especially when theymake their Testaments; to consider the necessitie of the poore, and to give to their boxe or chest, their charitable deuotion and almose?

18. Whether they neglect the studie of the holye Scriptures and of the worde of God, and whether such of them as be vnder the degree of a mayster of Arte haue of their owne, at the least the newe Testament, both in English and Latine, and whether they doe euerie day with good aduisement conferre one Chapter of the Latine and English together at the least. And whether they haue given due acceptment thereof, and to whome?

19. Whether anye of your persons, vicars, curates, or ministers be fauourers of the Romishe or forreyne power, letters of true religion, preachers of corrupt and Popishe doctrine, or mainteyners of sectaries, or doe set forth and extoll vaine and superstitious religion, or be mainteyners of the vnlearned people in ignorance, and errour, encouraging or moouing them, rather to pray in an vnknowne tongue, than in English, or to put their trust in a certaine number of prayers, as in saying ouer a number of beades, Ladie Psalters, or other like?

20. Whether anye doe preach, declare, or speake any thing in derogation of the booke of common prayer, which is set forth by the lawes of this Realme, dispraying the same, or anything therein contained?

21. Whether your persons, vicars, and curates, haue twice in the yere upon some Sundaye within one Moneth next after Easter and Michaelmasse, read openly in the church, after the gospell be said, plainly without addition or chaunge, a declaration of certaine principall articles of religion set forth by both the Archbishops, and the rest of the Bishops of this realme for unity of doctrine?

22. Whether your person, vicare, curate, minister, or reader, doe church any vnmarrid woman, which hath bene gotten wyth childe out of lawfull marriage, and say for hir the forme of thankesgiuing of women after childbirth, except such an vnmarried woman haue either before hir childbirth, done due penance for hir fault to the satisfaction of the congregation, or at hir coming to giue thanks, doe openly acknowledge hir fault before the congregation, at the appoyntment of the Minister, by the Ordinarie or his Deputie, the same churching to be had alwayes on some Sunday or holye day, and vpon none other day?

23. Whether any of your Persons, Vicars, Curates, or Ministers, or any other Priest, or any layman or woman, doe wilfully maintayne, or defende any heresies, false opinions, or popish errours, contrarie to the lawes of almighty God, and true doctrine, by publike authoritie in this realme nowe set forth, and what be their names. And whether any keepe any secret conuenticles, preachings, lectures, or redings contrarie to the law. And what be their names?

24. Whether there be any in your Parish, that openly or priuately say Masse, or heare Masse, or any other kinde of seruice, or prayer, than is set fourth by the lawes of this Realme?

25. Whether any popish Priestes, or runnagat persons, mislikers, or deprauers of true religion, that doe not minister, or frequent common prayer now vsed, nor communicate at tymes appoynted by the law, doe resort secretly or openly into your Parish, and to whome and of whome be they receyued, harbored, and releued, and what be their names and surnames, or by what names are they called?

26. Whether your Persons, and Vicars, be resident and dwell continually vpon their Benefices, doing their dueties in preaching, reading, and ministering the Sacramentes, and whether they keepe hospitalitie, according as their lyuings will extende, and whether their houses and Chauncells bee well repayred and vpholden?

27. Whether they or any of them haue mo Benefices than one, how many, and in what countries they be, and what be the names thereof?

28. Whether they, when they be absent from their Benefices, doe leaue their cures to a rude and vlearned Person, and not to an honest, and well learned expert Curate, which can, and will teach the people wholesome doctrine, and whether in their absence they doe procure learned men to Preach in their Churches, and Cures, at least one Sermon euery quarter of a yere?

29. Whether such Persons and Vicars as be not resident, neither keepe hospitalitie, doe releuee their poore Parishioners, and what giue they yerely to them, and if they be not resident, and may dispende yerely twentie poundes or aboue, eyther in this diocesse, or elsewhere, whether doe they distribute euery yere among their poore parishioners, at the least the fortieth part of the fruites of their benefices, where they be not resident?

30. Whether your Persons, Vicars, Curates, and Ministers, keepe well their Registers of all Weddinges, Buryinges, and Christmings within your Parishes, and doe present a copie of them once euery yere, by Indenture to the ordinarie, or his officers. And whether they rede the Queenes Maiesties Iniunctions euery quarter of a yere once, or no?

31. Whether they, or any of them, keepe any suspected women in their houses, or be incontinent persons, giuen to Dronkenesse, Idleness, or be haunters of Tauernes, Alehouses, or suspected places, or be hunters, haukers, dicers, carders, Tablers, Sweyers, or otherwise suspected of any notorious crime, or giue any euill example of lyfe, and whether they (as they ought to doe) occupie themselues in the reading, or hearing of some part of the holy scripture, or other good Author, or in some other godly or laudable exerceyse, meete for their vocation?

32. Whether they, or any of them, doe keepe or suffer to be kept in their Personage or Vicarage houses, any Alehouses, Tippling houses, or Tauernes, or doe sell Ale, Bere, or Wine?

33. Whether your Persons or Vicars, haue bought their Benefices, or come to them by Simonie, fraude, or deceit, or by any colourable pact, or other vnlawfull meane whatsoever, or be vehemently suspected or diffamed thereof. And whether they keepe in their owne hapdes, or haue dimised, and let to ferme their Personages, and Vicarages, or their Glebe lande, or Tithes, or any part thereof, and whether any such lease be made for the performance of any Simoniacall pact, made directly or indirectly, betweene the Incumbent and the patron, or betweene the Incumbent and any other person, for the presenting of the same Incumbent to that Benefice?

34. Whether any patron of any Benefice, or other Person or Persons, hauing Thaduousion, or gift of any Benefice within this Diocesse, haue couenaunted and practised with any priest or Minister, presented by him to any benefice, to haue of him, or his friende, any somme of readie money, for presenting him to the same, or haue exacted by promyse or bonde any lease, eyther of the whole benefice, limiting the rent farre vnder the iust value, or of the Mansion house, Glebe landes, or any portion of the Tithes, and fruites of the same Benefice, paying lytle or nothing therefore, or hauing reserved their owne Tythes, within the Benefice, free vnto themselues, or else haue extorted some yerely pension, or other yerely commoditie to him, his childe, seruauant, or friend, for preferring any to the same Benefice, or otherwise haue made againe by any colour, deceit, or Simoniacall pact, in bestowing the saide Benefice, and whether any such patron or other Person be vehemently suspected or defamed of any such Simonie, or Simoniacall pact?

35. Whether the Church of your Parishes be now vacant, and destitute of an incumbent, or no, and if it be, how long it hath bene vacant, and who is the Patron, and whether he suffereth the benefice to lye vacant, and occupieth the glebe lande, and taketh the tythes, and other fruites to himselfe, during the time of the vacation, or who else occupieth and taketh the same?

36. Whether there bee any lay or temporall man, not being within orders, or any childe that hath, or enioyeth any benefice or spiritual promotion?

37. Whether any Priest or Minister be come into this Diocesse, out of any other Diocesse, to serue any cure here, without letters testimoniall of the Ordinarie, from whence he came to testifie the cause of his departing from thence, and of his behauiour there?

38. Whether for the reteyning of the perambulation of the circuite of your Parishes, the person, vicar or curate, churchwardens and certaine of the substanciall men of the Parish, in the dayes of the Rogations, commonly called the gang dayes, walke the accustomed bounds of your Parish, and whether in the same perambulation, and going about, the curate doe use any other rite or ceremonie, then to say or sing in English, the two Psalmes, beginning, Benedic anima mea domino, that is to say, the ciiij psalme, and the ciiij psalme, and such sentences of Scripture, as be appointed by the Queene's Maiesties Iniunctions, with the Letsay, and Suffrages following the same, and reading one Homilie already deuised and set fourth for that purpose, without wearing any Surplusses, carying of Banners, or Handbells, or staying at Crosses, or other such like Popish ceremonies?

39. Whether anye Parishes Clarke be appoynted agaynst the good will, or without the consent of the person, vicar, or curate, whether he be not obedient to the person, vicar, or curate, especially in the time of celebration of diuine seruice, or of the Sacraments, or in any preparation thereunto. And whether he be able, and readie to read the first Lesson, the Epistle, and the Psalmes, with aunswere to the suffrages as is vsed, and whether he keepe not the bookes, and ornaments of the Church, fayre and cleane, and cause the Church and Queere, the Communion Table, the Pulpit, and the Font to be made decent and cleane, agaynst seruice time, the communion, sermon, and baptisme?

40. Whether there be any man or woman in your Parish that resorteth to any Popish priest for shrift or auricular confession, or any that within three yeares now last past, hath bene reconciled vnto the Pope, or to the church of Rome, or any that is reputed or suspected so to be, and whether there be any, that refuse to come to the Church to heare diuine seruice, or to communicate according to the order now established by publicke authoritie, and what be their names?

41. Whether there be anye person or persons, ecclesiastical or temporall within your Parish, or else where, within this Diocesse, that of late haue retayned, or kept in their custodie, or that read, sell, vtter, disperse, cary, or deliuer to others any Englishe bookes, set fourth of late yeares at Louain, or in any other place beyonde the seas, by Harding, Dorman, Allen, Saunders, Stapleton, Marshall, or any of them, or by any other Englishe Papist, eyther agaynst the Queene's Maiesties Supremacie in matters ecclesiasticall, or agaynst true religion, and catholicke Doctrine now receyued, and established by common authoritie within thys Realme, and what their names and surnames are?

42. Whether there be any in your parishes, that vseth to pray in English or in Latine, vpon Beades, or other such like thing, or vpon any superstitious Popishe Primer, or other like booke, and what be their names?

43. Whether the people of your parish, especially householders, hauing no lawfull excuse to be absent, doe faythfullye and diligently endeouour themselues, to resort with their Children, and Seruauntes, to their parish Church or Chappell, on the holye dayes, and chiefly upon the Sundayes, to Morning and Euening prayer and vpon reasonable let thereof, to some vsuall place, where common prayer is vsed, and then and there abyde orderly and soberly, during the time of common prayer, Homelies, Sermons, and other seruice of God there vsed, reuerentlye, and deuoutly giving themselues to the hearing thereof, and occupying themselues at times conuenient in priuate prayer, and who they be that eyther negligently or wilfully absent themselues, or come very late to the Church, vpon the Sundayes especially, or that walke, talke, or otherwise vnreuerently behaue themselues in the Church, or vse any gaming abrode, or in any house, or sit in the Stretes, or Churchyarde, or in any Tauerne or Alehouse vpon the Sundaye, or other holy day, in the time of common prayer, Sermons, or reading of the Homelies, eyther before noone, or after noone?

44. Whether the forfeiture of twelue pence, for euery such offence, appoynted by a statute, made in the first yere of the Queenes Maiesties raigne, be leuiud and taken according to the same Statute, by the Churchwardens of euery person that so offendeth, and by them be put to the vse of the poore of the parish, and if it be not, by whose default it is not leuiud. And what perticuler sommes of money haue bene forfaited that way, and by whome since the feast of Easter in the yere of our Lorde 1570, vntill the day of giuing up the presentment concerning these Articles. And so from time to time, as the said Churchwardens and swornemen shall be appoynted to present in this behalfe; and how much of such forfeitures haue bene deliuered to the vse of the poore of the parish, and to whome the same hath bene deliuered?

45. Whether ye knowe any, that in the time of the reding of the Letanie, or of any other part of the common prayer, or in the time of the Sermon, or of reding the Homelies, or anye part of the Scriptures to the parishioners, any person haue departed out of the Church without iust and necessarie cause, or that disturbeth the Minister, or preacher any maner of wayes in the time of diuine seruice, or Sermon. And whether any in contempt of their parish Church or Minister, doe resort to any other church or no?

46. Whether there be any Inkeepers, Alewiues, Vitailers, or Tipplers, that suffer or doe admit any person or persons, in their houses to eate, drinke, or play at Cardes, Tables, or such lyke games, in the time of common prayer or Sermon, on the Sundaies or holy daies. And whether there be anye Shoppes set open on Sundayes or Holy dayes, or any Butchers or others, that commonly vse to sell meate, or other things, in the time of common prayer, preaching or reding of the Homelies. And whether in any Faieres or common Marketes, falling upon the Sunday, there be any shewing of any wares before the diuine seruice be done? And whether any Marketes or selling of any wares be vsed or suffred in any Churchyardes?

47. Whether for the putting of the Churchwardens and Swornemen the better in remembraunce of their duetie in obseruing and noting such, as offend in not comming to diuine seruice, your Minister or reader doe openly euery Sunday, after he haue red the seconde Lesson at morning and euening prayer, monish and warne the Churchwardens and swornemen to look to their charge in this behalfe, and to obserue who contrarie to the sayde Statute offende in absenting themselues negligently, or wilfully from their parish Church or Chappell, or vnreuerently (as is aforesaide) vse themselues in the time of diuine seruice?

48. Whether the Churchwardens of the last yere haue giuen to the parish a iust accompt of the church goodes and rentes that were committed to their charge, according vnto the custome that hath bene afore time vsed, and what church goodes they or any other haue sold, and to whome, and whether to the profite of your church or no? And what hath bene done with the money thereof comming?

49. Whether the churchwardens, and swornemen of the last yere, haue of any priuat corrupt affection concealed any crime, or other disorder in their time done in your parishe, and haue not presented the same to the bishop, chancelor, archedeacon, commissarie, or such other as had authoritie to reforme the same, and whether they or any of them, at any such time, as they shoulde haue bene at diuine seruice on Sundaies, or Holy dayes, and shoulde there haue obserued others, that were absent, haue bene away themselues at home, or in some Tauerne, or Alehouse, or else about some worldly businesse, or at Bowles, Cardes, Tables, or other gaming, without regarde of their office and duetie in that behalfe?

50. Whether any man hath pulled downe or discovered any church, chauncell, or chappell, or any part of anye of them, any church porche, Vestrie, or Steeple, almose house, or such like, or haue plucked downe the Belles, or haue felled or spoyld anye wood or timber in any churchyarde?

51. Whether your Hospitals, Spittles and almose houses be well and godly vsed according to the foundation and ancient ordinances of the same, whether there be any other placed in them than poore, impotent, and needie persons, that haue not wherewith, or whereby to liue?

52. Whether haue ye Collectors for the poore of your Parish, whether doe they their duetie in gathering and distributing the almose of the parishioners, according to a statute thereof made in the fift yere of the Queenes Maiesties raigne, and make a iust accompt thereof quarterly, what sommes of money the Churchwardens or swornemen of the last yere haue leuiud, and deliuered to the sayde Collectors of the forfeitures of such persons, as haue not duely resorted to their Parishe Church or Chappell, vpon Sundayes and Holydayes, during the time that they were in office, bringing a true certificate in wryting therof from the sayde Collectors, at such time as ye giue vp your presentment?

53. Whether there be any person or persons in your Parishe of habitie, that obstinately or frowardly refuse to giue reasonably towards the helpe and releife of the poore, or doe wyllfully discourage others from so charitable a deede, and what be their names, and what sommes doth anye of them withdrawe, which he or shee before was wont to giue, there being noe iust cause so to doe?

54. Whether there be any in your Parishe, that minister the goodes of those that be dead, without lawfull authoritie, or anye that suppress the last will of the dead, or any executors, that haue not fulfilled their testators will, specially in paying of Legacies giuen to the Church, or to other good and godly vses, as to the reliefe of pouertie, to Orphanes, poore Scollers, poore Maydes mariages, high waies, Scooles, and such lyke?

55. Whether there be any, which of late haue bequeathed in their testaments or otherwise anye Ordinarie hath appoynted any Jewels, Plate, Ornamentes, cattle, or graine, or other moouable stocks, Annuities, or sommes of money, for the erection or finding of any obittes, diriges, trentales, torches, lights, Tapers, Lampes, or any such like vse now by lawe forbidden, which are not payde out of any landes, and wherevnto the Queenes Maiestie is not entitled, by any Acte of Parliament, and if there be any such Legacie or appointment, what is the names of such testators, and of the executors of their Testamentes, what is the quantitie and qualitie of the gift, and to what godlye and lawfull vse is the same conuerted and employed?

56. Whether there be any money or stocke appertayning to your Parishe Church or Chappell, or to the poore of your Parishe, in any mans handes, that refuseth or deferreth to pay the same, or that vseth frawde, deceit or delay to make any accompt in the presence of the honest of the Parishe for the same. And whether any such stock be decayed, by whose negligence, and in whose hands. And whether the store of the poore mens Box be openly and indifferently giuen where neede is, without partial affection.

57. Whether the Schoolemasters which teach within your Parish, eyther openly or priuately in any Noble or Gentleman's house, or in any other place there, be of good and sincere religion, and conversation, and be diligent in teaching and bringing vp of youth, whether they be examined, allowed, and licenced by the Ordinarie or his officer in that behalfe, whether they teach the Grammer set forth by King Henry the eyght of Noble memory, and none other, whether they teach anything contrarie to the order of religion now established by publick authoritie, and whether they teache not their Schollers the Catechisme in Latine, lately set forth, and such Sentences of Scripture, as shall be most expedient, and meete to move them to the loue and due reuerence of Gods true religion, nowe truly set forth by the Queenes Maiesties authoritie, and to induce them to all godlinesse and honest conuersation, and what be the names and surnames of all such Schoolemasters and teachers of youth within your Parish, as well of such as teach publicly, as those that teach in the houses of Noble men, Gentlemen, or other priuate men?

58. Whether there be anye among you that vse Sorcerie, Witchcraft, or inchauntment, Magick, incantations or Nigromancie, or that be suspected of the same, and whether anye vse any charmes or vnlawfull prayers, or inuocations in Latine, or otherwise, and namely Midwiues in the tyme of womens trauaile of childe, and what be their names?

59. Whether there be among you anye blasphemers of the name of God, great or often swearers, adulterers, fornicators, incestuous persons, Bawdes, or receyvers of noughtie and incontinent persons, or harborers of women with childe which be vnmarried, conueying or suffering them to go away before they doe any penance, or make satisfaction to the congregation, or any that be vehemently suspected of such faultes, or that be not of good name or fame touching such crimes and faults, any dronkards, or ribalds, or any that be malicious, contentious, or uncharitable persons, common slaunders of their neighbors, raylers, soulders, or sowers of discorde betweene neighbors?

60. Whether there be any in these partes, that haue married within the degrees of affinitie or consanguinitie, by the lawes of God forbidden, so set out for an admonition, in a table nowe appointed to be affixed in euerie Parishe church within this Dioces, or any that being diuorced or seperated for the same, doe yet notwithstanding cohobite and keepe companie still together, or any that being married without those degrees, haue vnlawfully forsaken their wiues or husbands, and married others. Any man that hath two wiues, or any woman that hath two husbandes, any that being diuorced or seperated a sunder, haue married againe. Anye married, that haue made precontracts. Anye that haue made priuie or secret contracts. Anye that haue married without haimes thise solemnly asked. Anye cupples married, that lyue not together, but slaunderously liue apart. Any that haue married out of the Parishe church, where they ought to haue solemnised their marriage?

61. Whether the Minister and Churchwardens haue suffered any Lordes of Misrule or Sommer Lordes or Ladies, or any disguised persons, or others in Christmasse, or at May games, or any Morice dauncers, or others at rishe bearings, or at anye other times, to come vnreuerently into the church, or churchyard, and there to daunce, or play any vnseemely partes with scoffes, iestes, wanton gestures, or ribalde talke, namely in the time of common praier. And what they be that commit such disorder, or accompanie or maintaine them?

62. Whether the Archedeacon, Chauncellor, Commissarie, officiall or anie other vsing Ecclesiasticall iurisdiction in this Dioces, their Registrars or Actuaries, Apparitors or Summoners, haue at any time winked at and suffered anye adulteries, fornications, incestes, or other faultes and offences, to passe and remain vnpunished, and vncorrected, for money, rewardes, bribes, pleasure, friendship, or any other parciall or affectionate respect, or anie of them haue bene burdenson to anie in this Dioces, by exacting or taking excessiue fees, excessiue procurations, anie rewardes, or commodities, by the way of promotion, gift, contribution, helpe, redemption of penance, omission of quarter Sermons, obtaining of any benefices, or office, or any other like wayes or meanes?

63. How many Adulteries, Incestes, and Fornications, are notoriously knowne to haue bene committed in your parishe, since Easter, 1570. How many offenders in any such faultes haue bene put to open penance, and openly corrected, and how many haue bene winked at, and borne withall, or haue fined and payed money to the Archedeacon, Chauncellor, Commissarie, Officiall, or their deputies, or to the Deanes, Registrars, or Somners, or any of them, for to escape open punishment, and correction: And what their names and surnames be?

64. Whether the Deanes rurals, and Somners, or anye of them doe pay any annuall rent, fee, or pention for their offices, and what they pay, and to whom?

65. Generally whether there be among you, any notorious euill liuers, or any suspected of any notorious sinne, fault or crime, to the offence of Christian people committed, any that stubbornly refuse to conforme themselues to vnitie and godly religion, now established by publike authoritie, or any that bruteth abroad rumors of the alteration of the same, or otherwise that disturbeth good orders, and the quietnesse of Christs Church, and the Christian congregation.

The tenor of the othe, ministred to the Churchwardens and sworne men.

Ye shall sweare by Almighty God, that ye shall diligently consider all and euery the Articles gyuen to you in charge and make a true aunswere vnto the same in writing presenting all & euery such person and persons, dwelling within your parish, as haue committed any offence or fault, or made any default, mentioned in any of the same articles, or which are vehemently suspected or diffamed of anye such offence, fault or default, wherein ye shall not present any person or persons, of any euill will, malice or hatred, contrarie to the truth, nor shall for loue, fauour, mede, dreade or anye corrupt affection, spare to present any, that be offendours, suspected or diffamed in any of these cases, but shal doe vprightly, as men hauing the feare of God before your eyes and desirous to maintaine vertue, and suppress vice. So God helpe you.

INJUNCTIONS OF GRINDAL, ARCHBISHOP OF YORK, 1571.

[Extracts from these Injunctions are printed in Wilkins, IV. 269.]

INJUNCTIONS given by the most reuerende father in Christ, Edmonde, by the prouidence of God, Archbishop of Yorke, primate of England and Metropolitan, in his Metropolitall visitation of the Prouince of Yorke, as well to the Clergie as to the Laytie of the same Prouince. Anno do. 1571.

Imprinted at London by William Seres.

Cum privilegio.

INJUNCTIONS giuen by the most Reuerende Father in Christ, Edmonde by the prouidence of God, Archbishop of Yorke, &c.

For the Clergie.

INPRIMIS, you must trauel diligently and painfully to set forth Gods true religion, and adorne the same with example of godly life, being circumspect, that you offende no man eyther by light behauiour or by light apparell.

2. Item, vpon euery Sunday and Holyday, yee shall in your Churche or Chappell, at conuenient howers, reuerently and distinctly say, or sing the Common prayer, appointed by the lawes of this Realme, both in the forenoone and afternoone, standing in a pulpit, or seate appointed for that purpose, and so turning your face towards the people, as they may best heare the same, and vpon euery Wednesday and Friday in the forenoone (not beyng holyday) ye shall in like manner saie the Letanie, and other Praiers appointed for the daie, and likewise the euenyng Praier euery Saturday & holy Euen, and shall also at all times requisite and conuenient duely and reuerently minister the two holy Sacraments, that is to say, Baptisme and the Lordes Supper, commonly called the holy Communion, accordyng to such order, as is set forth in the booke of Common prayer, and administration of the Sacramentes.

3. Item, ye shall minister the holy Communion euery moneth ones at the least in euery of your Churches, & Chappells, where ministration of the Sacramentes is permitted: And to the intent that the people may better vnderstande theyr duties, and come the better prepared to the holy Communion, ye shall monethly exhort your Parishioners to come to the same, and alwaies giue them warnyng therof the next Sunday before yee ministrate the same, declaring vnto them, that by the lawes of this Realme, euery person of conuenient age is bound to receiue the holy Communion, at the least three times in the yeere, and namely at Easter for ones.

4. Item, that at all times when yee minister the holy Sacramentes, and vpon Sundaies and other holy daies, when ye say the Common prayer and other diuine seruice in your Parishe Churches and Chappelles (and likewise at all Mariages & Burials, ye shal (when ye minister) weare a cleane and decent surples with large sleeves and shall minister the Holy communion in no chalice, nor any prophane cup or glasse, but in a Communion cup of Siluer, and with a couer of Siluer, appointed also for the ministration of the Communion bread: ye shall not deliuer the Communion bread vnto the people into their mouths, but into their handes, nor shall vse at the Ministration of the Communion any gestures, rites or Ceremonies, not appointed by the booke of Common prayer, as crossinge or breathing ouer the Sacramental bread and Wine, nor any shewing or liftinge vp of the same to the people, to be by them worshipped and adored nor any such like, nor shall vse any Oile or Chrisme, Tapers, Spattle, or any other Popishe ceremony in the ministration of the Sacrament of Baptisme.

5. Item, ye shall euery Sunday and Holy day openly in your Church or chappell, call for, heare, and instructe the children and seruantes, both menkinde and womenkinde, that be of conuenient age within your Parishe (at the least so many of them at once by course, as the time will serue, and as you may well heare and instruct for an hower at the least) before Euenyng praier in the ten Commaundementes, the articles of the Beliefe, and the Lordes prayer in Englishe, and diligently examine and teache them the Catechisme set forth in the booke of Common prayer. And to thintent this thinge may be more effectually executed, ye shall take the names of all th; children, young men, maydens and seruantes in your parish that be aboue six yeres of age and vnder twentie, which can not say the Catechisme, & shall call by course certaine of them by name, euery Sunday and euery Holyday, to come to the Catechisme, whereby you may easily note and obserue what Parentes or Maisters be negligent in sending their children, and seruantes to be instructed and take occasion thereof, both priuately and openly to exhorte them to sende their youth, as they are appointed, and shall present the refusers to the ordinarie.

6. Item, you shall not admitte to the receiuing of the holy Communion any of your Parishes, which be openly knowne to liue in any notorious sinne, as Incest, Adulterie, Fornication, Drunkennes, much Swearing, Bawderie, Vsurie, or suche like, without dewe penance firste donne to the satisfaction of the congregation, nor any malicious person that is out of Charitie, or that hath done vpon wrong to his neighbour by woorde or dede, without dewe reconciliation firste made to the partie that is wronged or maliced.

7. Item, you shall not admitte to the holy Communion any of your Parishes, men or women beinge aboue fower and twentie yeeres of age, that can not say by heart, at the least the tenne Commaundementes, the articles of the Faith, and the Lordes praier in English, nor any beinge fouretene yeeres and aboue, and vnder fower and twentie yeeres of age that cannot say by harte the Catechisme, that is set forth in the saide booke of Common Praier.

8. Item, for that purpose ye shal before Easter and al other times of the yeare, when the holy Communion is to be by you ministred, giue warning before vnto your Parishioners to come vnto you, either in the afternoone of some Sunday or holy daie, or the daie before they purpose to receiue, or at some other times before, as necessitie shall cause you to appointe, if there be any multitude, or (if the nambre be but small) in the morning at the farthest, before they shall receiue, so that it be before the beginning of Morning prayer, so many of them, as intende to receiue, & not onely to signifie vnto you their names, to the intent ye may keepe a Register or note of all suche persons as from time to time shall communicate, but also to be by you examined, whether they can saie by heart the tenne commaundementes, the Articles of the Faith, the Lordes prayer, and the Catechisme, according as after the diuersitie of their ages is aboue required, and such of them as either can not, or will not recite the same by harte vnto you, ye shall repell and put backe from the holy Communion, vntill they shall be able & willing to learne, and can by harte recite the same vnto you: for your better assistance wherin, ye shall call vpon and require the Churchwardens and Sworne men of your Parishes to be present (one of them at the least) at euery such examination, to thintent they may helpe to put this good order in practise, and ye shall take a note of such wilfull and negligent persons, as ye shall finde faultie in this behalfe, and so presente the same, and the Churchwardens, and Sworne men also to the Ordinarie if they shall refuse so to assiste you.

9. Item, ye shall not marry any persons, or aske the Banes of Matrimonic betwene any persons which before were single, vnlesse they can saie the Catechisme by harte, and will recite the same vnto you before the asking of the Banes. And ye shall not marry any persons without the Banes be thrise on three seuerall Sundaies or Holydaies first openly asked, without any impediment or forbidding. Neither shall ye marry any persons within the degrées of affinitie or consanguinitie by the Lawes of God forbidden, so set out for an admonition in a table lately appointed to be affixed in your parishes Churches. For the better knowledge of which degrées ye shall reade vnto your Parishioners the saide Table euery yeere twice at the least.

10. Item, ye shall not admitte to answers as Godfathers or Godmothers at the Christening of any Childe, any person or persons, except he, shée, and they haue before receiued the holy Communion, and can saie by hearte the articles of the Christian Faith in English, and will recite the same before you at the time of Ministration of Baptisme, or before the Minister, if he, shée, or they be therevnto required: And beinge yong folkes, except he, shée and they can say by hart the whole Catechisme, and will recite the same before you, as is aforesaide.

11. Item, ye shall not Church any vnmarried woman which hath bene gotten with Childe out of lawfull Matrimonic, except it be vpon some Sunday or Holy daie, and except shée either before her childebirth haue done dewe penance for hir faulte, to the satisfaction of the congregation, or at hir coming to be churched, shée doe openly acknowledge hir faulte before the congregation accordingly, and shewe hirselfe to be very penitent for the same: Leauing it free for the Ordinarie to punishe hir further at his discretion.

12. Item, ye shall euery Sunday when there is no Sermon in your Church or Chappell, distinctly and plainly reade in the pulpit, some one of the Homelies set forth by the Queenes Maiesties authoritie, or one parte thereof at the least, in such sorte as the same are deuised and appointed to be read, by the two bookes of the Homelies. And euery Holy day when there is no Sermon, ye shall immediately after the Gospell, plainly and distinctly recite to your Parishioners the Lordes praier, the Articles of the faith, and the tenne Commaundementes in English, and beinge not admitted by the Ordinarie or other lawful auctoritie, ye shall not expounde any Scripture or matter of doctrine, by the waie of exhortation or otherwise, and thereby omitte and leaue of the reading of the Homelies.

13. Item, you shall plainly & distinctly reade in your Church or Chappell vnto the people betwene the Letanie and the Communion, the forme of commination againste sinners, with certaine praier following the same, set forth in the later ende of the booke of Common Praier, three times at the least in the yeere, that is to saie for orders sake, yeerely vpon one of the two Sundaies next before Easter, for the first time, vpon one of the two Sundaies next before the feaste of Pentecoste for the seconde time: and for the thirde time vpon one of the two Sundaies next before the feaste of the birthe of our Lorde, ouer and besides the accustomed reading thereof vpon the firste day of Lente.

14. Item, you shall reade openly in your Church in time of diuine service, twice euery yeere vpon some of the Sundaies within one Moneth, next after the feastes of Easter and Sainte Michael the Archangel, plainly without addition or chaunge a declaration of certaine principall Articles of Religion sette fourth by both the Archebishops, and the reste of the Bishops of this Realme for the vnitie of Doctrine.

15. Item, ye shall not proclaime, bid or obserue, nor willingly suffer your Parishioners to obserue any Holy daies or fasting daies heretofore abrogated, or not appointed by the newe Kalender of the Booke of Common Praier, to be vsed or kept as Holy daies or Fasting daies, nor giue the people any knowledge thereof by any indirect meanes.

16. Item, ye shall keepe well the Registers of al Weddings, Burials and Christenings within your Parishes, according to thorder prescribed in the Queenes Maiesties Iniunctions, and shall present a coppie of them euery yeere once, by Indenture to the Ordinarie or his Officers.

17. Item, you shall Preach or by suche as are lawfully licensed, shall cause to be Preached in the Churches where you are Persons or Vicars, one Sermon euery quarter of the yere at the least.

18. Item, no Minister or Priest shall serue two cures at one time, nor say common seruice in any priuate mans house, without special license under the Ordinaries seale. Nor any Curate shall serue any one cure within this Prouince, without letters testimonial of the Ordinarie of the place, from whence he came, testifying the cause of his departinge from thence, and of his behauiour there, nor onles he shall first obtaine and haue special license in writing vnder the seale of the Ordinarie of the place wherevnto he commeth, for his admission to such a cure, and shall shewe the same to the Churchwardens: before he enter to serue any such cure.

19. Item, ye shall reade openly in your Churches & Chappells, in time of diuine seruice the Queenes Maiesties Iniunctions euery quarter of a yeere once: And these our Iniunctions concerninge aswell the Clergie as the Laytie, euery halfe yeere once.

20. Item, for the putting of the Churchwardens and sworne men, better in remembrance of their dewtie, in obseruing and noting all such persons of your parishes, as doe offende in not coming to Diuine seruice, ye shall openly euery Sunday after ye haue read the second Lesson, at Morning and Euening praier, monishe and warne the Churchwardens and Sworne men of your Parishes, to looke to their Othes and charge in this behalf, and to obserue who contrary to the Lawe doe that day offende, either in absenting themselves negligently or wilfully from their parishes Church or Chappell, or vnreuerently vse themselves in the time of Diuine Seruice, and so note the same to the intent they may either present such offenders to the Ordinarie, when they shalbe required therevnto, or leuye and take by way of distresse to the vse of the poore, suche forfeitures as are appointed by a Statute, made in the first yeere of the Queenes Maiesties Reigne in that behalfe, and if the Churchwardens and Sworne men be negligent, or shall refuse to doe their dutie that way, ye shall present to the Ordinarie both them, and all such others of your parishes as shall offende either in absenting themselves from the Church, or by vnreuerent behauiour in the Church contrary to the same Statute.

21. Item, ye shall from time to time diligently call vpon & exhort your Parishioners to contribute and giue towardes the reliefe of the Poore, as they may well spare, and specially when ye visite them that be sicke, and make their Testaments, and for your owne partes also, ye shall charitably relieue the Poore to your habilitie.

22. Item, ye shall daily reade at the least one chapter of the Old Testament, and an other of the Newe, with good aduisement, and such of you as be vnder the degree of a maister of Arte shall prouide and haue of your owne, according to the Queenes Maiesties Iniunctions, at the least the New Testament both in Latine and English, conferring the one with the other, euery daie one Chapter therof at the least, so that vpon the examination of the Archdeacon, Commissary, or their Officers, in Synodes and Visitations, or at other appointed times it may appeare, how ye profite in the studie of holy Scripture.

23. Item, ye shall not keepe or suffer to be kept in your personage or Vicaridge houses, any Alehouses, Tipling houses, or Tauerne, nor shall sell Ale, Beere or Wine, nor any of you shall keepe any suspected woman in your house, or be an incontinent liuer, giuen to Drunkenesse or Idleness, nor any of you beyng vnmarrried, shall keepe in your house any woman vnder the age of threescore yeeres, excepte shée be your Daughter by former Mariage, or be your Mother, Aunte, Sister, or Niece, and such an one as ye shall keepe, shalbe of good name and fame, nor any of you shalbe a haunter of Tauerne, Alehouses, or suspected places, or a Hunter, Hawker, Dicer, Carder, Tabler, Swearer, or otherwise giue any euill example of life, but contrarywise at all times when ye shall haue leysure, ye shal heare or reade some parte of holy Scripture, or some other good Authours, or shall occupie your selues with some other honest studie or exercise, and oftentimes giue your selues to earnest praier, and shalbe diligent in visiting the sicke & comforting of them.

24. Item, you shall exhorte your Parishioners to obedience towards their Prince, and all other that be in authoritie, and to charitie and mutuall loue amongst themselues, helping to reconcile them which shall happen to be at variance at any time, and if ye can not preache, ye shall teache children to reade, to write, & to know their duties towards God, their Prince, Parentes, and all others: and by all meanes ye can, ye shall endeouour your selues to profite the Common Wealth, hauing alwaies in minde that ye ought to excell all other in puritie of life, and should be examples to the people to liue well and Christianly, not giuing any way iuste cause of offence.

25. Item, all Proprietaries Parsons, Vicars, and Clerkes, hauing Churches or Chappels within this prouince, shall cause the Chauncels or Quéeres of their Churches or Chappels to be from time to time, accordinge to the Queenes Maiesties Iniunctions in that behalfe, sufficiently repaired and maintained in good estate, and all Parsons, Vicars and other Clerkes, hauing Mansion houses belonging to their promocios, shall likewise repaire and keepe the same in good estate, and vpon the same Chauncels or Quéeres, and Mansion houses with buildinges therevnto belonging, being in decaye, shall yeerely bestowe according to the same Iniunctions the fift parte of that their benefice, till they be fully repayred, and being repaired shall mainteine the same in good estate and order.

¶ For the Laytie.

First wée doe enioyne and straitly commaunde, that from henceforth no parish Clerke nor any other parson, not being ordered at the least for a Deacon, shall presume to solemnize Matrimonie, or to Minister the Sacrament of Baptisme, or to deliuer to the Communicantes the Lordes Cuppe at the celebration of the holy Communion. And that no person not being a Minister, Deacon, or at the least tollerated by the Ordinarie in writing, doe attempt to supplie thoffice of the Minister in saying of Diuine seruice openly in any Church or Chappell.

2. Item, to thintent that the people may the better heare the Morninge and Eueninge Prayer, when the same by the Minister is saide, & be the more edified thereby, we doe enioyne that the Churchwardens of euery parishe, in places aswell exempt as not exempt at the charges of the Parishe, shall procure a decent low Pulpit to be erected and made in the body of the Church out of hande, wherein the minister shall stande with his face towards the people, when he readeth Morninge and Eueninge Prayer. Prouided alwaies that where the Churches are very small, it shall suffice that the Minister stande in his accustomed stall in the Quéere: So that a conuenient deske or lecterne with a rowme to turne his face towards the people be there provided by the saide Churchwardens at the charges of the parishe. The iudgement and order whereof and also the forme and order of the pulpit or seate aforesaide in greater Churches, wée doe referre vnto the Archdeacon of the place or to his Officeall. Prouided also that the prayers and other seruice appointed for the Ministracion of the holy Communion, be saide and done at the Communion table, except the Epistle and Gospell, which shal be read in the saide pulpit or stall, and also the tenne Commandementes when there is no Communion.

3. Item, that the Churchwardens according to the custome of euery parishe shalbe chosen by the consent aswell of the Parson, Vicare, or Curate, as of the Parishioners, otherwise they shall not be Churchwardens, neyther shall they continue anye lenger, than one yeare in that office, except perhappes they shal be chosen againe: They shall not sell or alienate any Belles or other church goodes, without consent of the Ordinarie, in writing first had, nor shal put the money that shal come of any such sale, to any other use than to the reparations of their Churches or Chappelles, or for prouiding of necessaries for the same Churches or Chappels. And all Churchwardens at the ende of euery yeare shall giue vp to the Parson, Vicare or Curate, and their Parishioners a iust accompte written in a booke to be prouided at the charges of the Parishe for that purpose, of al suche money ornaments, stocke, rentes, or other Churche goodes, as they haue receiued, during the time they were in office, and also shall particularly shewe, what coste they haue bestowed in reparations & other thinges for the vse of the Church. And going out of their offices they shall truly deliuer vp in the sight of the Parishioners to the next Churchwardens, and note in the saide Churche booke, whatsoever money, ornamentes, stocke, or other Church goodes shall remane and be in their handes at the time of giuing vp of their accomptes.

4. Item, that the Churchwardens in euery Parishe shall at the costes and charges of the Parishe prouide (if the same be not already prouided) all thinges necessary & requisite for common Prayer and Administration of the holy Sacramentes, on this side the xx day of Aprill* next ensuing, specially the booke of Common prayer, with the newe Kalender and a Psalter to the same, the English Bible in the largest volume, the two Tomes of the Homilies, with the Homilies lately written against Rebellion, the table of the tenne Commaundementes, a conuenient Pulpitte well placed, a comely and decent table, standing on a frame for the holy Communion, with a faire linnen clothe to lay vpon the same, and some couering of Silke, Buckram, or other such like, for the clean keeping thereof, a fayre and comely Communion cuppe of siluer, and a couer of siluer for the same, which may serue also for the ministracion of the Communion bread, a decent large Surplesse with sleeues, a sure Coffe with two lockes and keyes, for keeping of the Register booke, and a strong chest or Boxe for the almose of the poore, with three lockes and keyes to the same, and all other thinges necessarie in and to the premisses. And shall also prouide before the sayde day, the Paraphrases of Erasmus in English vpon the Gospels, and the same set vp in some conuenient place within their Church or Chappell, the charges whereof, the person or proprietarie and Parishioners shall by equall portions beare according to the Queenes Maiesties Iniunctions, all which bookes must be whole and not torne or vnperfit in any wise. And the Churchwardens also shal from time to time, at the charges of the Parish, prouide bread and wine for the Communion. And for that purpose shal take some order among the Parishioners, that euery one may pay such a reasonable summe towards the same, as may suffice for the finding of breade and wine for the Communion throughout the whole yeare, so as no Communion at any time be disappointed for want of bread and wine.

5. Item, that the Churchwardens shall see that in their Churches and Chappels, all Aultars be vtterly taken downe and cleere remouued euen vnto the foundation, and the place where they stooode paved, and the wall wherevnto they ioyned, whited ouer, and made vniforme with the rest, so as no breach or rupture appeare. And that the Aulterstones be broken, defaced, and bestowed to some common vse. And that the Roodes loftes be taken downe, and altered so, that the vpper bordes and timber thereof both behinde and aboue, where the Rood lately did hang, and also the sollar or loft be quite taken downe vnto the crosse beame, wherevnto the partition betwéene the Quéere and the bodie of the church is fastened, and that the sayde beame haue some conuenient creast put vpon the same. And that all the bordes, beames, and other stuffe of the Rood loftes, be solde by the Churchwardens to the vse of the church, so as no part thereof be kept and reserued.

6. Item, that the churchwardens shall from time to time, see that their churches and chappels, and the steeples thereof be diligently and well repayred, with leade, tyle, slate, or shingle, lyme, stone, tymber, glasse, and all other necessaries, and that their churches and chappels be kept cleane and decently, that they be not lothsome to any, eyther by dust, sande, grauell, or anye filth, and that there bee no feastes, dinners, or common drinkings kept in the church, and that the churchyardes be well fenced and clenly kept, and that no folkes be suffered to daunce in the same.

* Filled up in MS.

7. Item, that the Churchwardens and Minister shall see that Antiphoners, Masse bookes, Grayles, Portesses, Processionals, Manualles, Legendaries, and all other bookes of late belonging to their church or chappell, which serued for the superstitious latine seruice, be vitterly defaced, rent, & abolished. And that all Vestments, Albes, Tunicles, Stoles, Phanos, Pixes, Paxes, Handbells, Sacringbells, Sencers, Crismatories, Crosses, Candlestickes, Holywater stocks or Fattes, Images, and all other reliques and monuments of superstition & ydolatrie be vitterly defaced, broken & destroyed, & if they cannot come by any of the same, they shall present to the Ordinary what they cannot come by, and in whose custodie the same is, to the intent further order may bee taken for the defacing thereof.

8. Item, when anye man or woman dwelling néere to the church in any Citie, Borough, or great town, is in passing out of this life, the Parische clarke or Sextan shall knoll the bell to moue the people to pray for the sicke person. And after the time of the departing of any christian bodie out of this life, the Churchwardens shall see, that neyther there be any more ringing, but one short peale before the buriall, and another short peale after the buriall, without ringing of any handbells or other superfluous or superstitious ringing, eyther before or at the time of the buriall or at any time after the same, nor any other forme of seruice sayde or song, or other ceremonies vsed at any buriall, than are appointed by the booke of common prayer. And also that neyther on all Saints day after Euening prayer, nor the day next after, of late called all Soules day, there be any ringing at all other then to common prayer, when the same shall happen to fall vpon the Sunday. And that no Moneth myndes or yearely commemorations of the dead, nor any other superstitious ceremonies be observed or vsed which tende to the maintenaunce eyther of prayer for the deade, or of the Popishe Purgatorie.

9. Item, that the Churchwardens shall not suffer any ringing or tolling of Belles to be on Sundayes or holydayes vsed, betweene the morning prayer, Letanie, and Communion, nor in any other tyme of common prayer, reading of the Homelies, or of preaching, except it be one Bell in conuenient time to bee rong, or knolled before a Sermon, nor shall suffer any other ringing to be vsed vpon Sautes euens or festiuall dayes, sauing to common prayer, and that moderately and without excesse, nor the Minister shall pause or stay betweene the morning prayer, Letanie and Communion, but shall continue and saye the morning prayer, Letanie and Communion, or the seruice appoynted to be sayde, when there is no Communion, together without any intermission, to the intent the people may continue together in prayer, and hearing the worde of God, and not depart out of the church, during all the time of the whole diuine seruice.

10. Item, that all fathers, mothers, maysters and other gouerners of youth, shall in euery parish, cause their children and seruants both menkinde and womenkinde, being aboue seuen yeares of age, and vnder twentie yeares, which haue not learned the Catechisme, or at the least such and so many of them as the Minister shall appoynt, diligently to come to the church, euery Sunday, and euery holy day at the time appoynted, and there diligently & obediently to heare, learne, and be ordered by the Minister, vntill such time as they haue learned, all the sayde Catechisme by heart, and shall giue to the Minister the names of all their children and seruantes both menkinde and womenkinde, being aboue seuen yeares, and vnder twentie yeares of age, to the intent he may call for them to be examined and instructed in the sayde Catechisme. And if any of the sayde fathers, mothers, maysters, or other gouernours of youth shall refuse or neglect so to sende their children or seruantes vnto the Minister to be examined, and instructed at the tymes appoynted, or to give their names, as is aforesayd, or if any of the sayd yong folkes shall refuse to be examined and instructed, that then the Minister and Churchwardens shall present such negligent persons, and refusers, to the Ordinarie, to be by him punished accordingly.

11. Item, that all men and women of fourteene yeares of age, and vpwardes, shall (as by the lawes of this realme they are bounde) receyue in their owne parische Churches or Chappels, the holy communion thrise at the least euery yeare, and namely at Easter, or there aboutes for once, and yearely before Easter at conuenient times (and namely on Sundaies in Lent at afternoone, or in some of the workedayes next before Easter) as the person, vicare, or curate, shall appoynt, they shall, before they receyue, come to the Minister, and recite to him, such of them as be of fouretene yeares or aboue, and vnder xxiiij. yeares of age, the whole Catechisme by heart, and such of them as be of xxiiij. yeares of age and vpwardes, the Catechisme, or at the least, the Lordes prayer, the articles of the fayth, and the tenne commaundements, likewise by heart in Englishe, and whosoever eyther cannot, or wilfully and stubbornly shall refuse to recite and say the same by heart before their Minister, shall be repelled and put back from the Communion Table. And the churchwardens and Minister shall present all such refusers, and all others that shall not receyue thrise a year the holy Communion, vnto the Ordinarie yearely at the next visitation after Easter.

12. Item, the Churchwardens shall not suffer any Pedler or others whatsoever, to set out any wares to sale, eyther in the Porches of Churches, or in the Churchyardes, nor any where else on holy dayes or Sundayes, whiles any part of diuine seruice is in doying, or whiles any sermon is in preaching.

13. Item, that no Inkéeper, Alehousekéeper, Victualler, or Typler shall admit or suffer any person or persons in his house or backside, to eate, drinke, or play at cardes, Tables, Bowles, or other games in tyme of common prayer, preachings, or reading of Homelies on the Sundayes, or Holy dayes, and that there be no shoppes set open on Sundayes or holy dayes nor any Butchers or others suffered to sell meate or other thinges vpon the Sundayes or holy dayes in lyke time of common prayer, preaching, or reading of the Homelies. And that in any fayres or common Markets, falling vpon the Sunday, there be no shewing of any wares before all the Morning seruice and the Sermon (if there be any) be done. And if any shall offend in this behalfe, the Churchwardens and sworne men, after once warning giuen vnto them, shall present them by name vnto the Ordinarie.

14. Item, that the laye people of euery Parish (as they bee bounde by the lawes of this Realme) and especially householders hauing no lawfull excuse to be absent, shall faithfully and diligently endeouour themselves, to resort with their children and seruants to their parische Church or Chappell on the holye dayes, and chiefly vpon the Sundayes, both to Morning and Euening prayer, and other diuine seruice, and vpon reasonable let therof, to some other vsual place where common praier is vsed, and then and there abide orderly and soberly during all the time of common prayer, Homelies, Sermons, and other seruice of God there vsed, reuerently and deuoutly giuing themselves to prayer, and hearing of the worde of God. And that the churchwardens and sworne men, aboue all others, shall be diligent in frequenting and resorting to their parische churches or chappels vpon Sundayes and holy dayes, to the intent they maye note and marke all such persons as vpon any such dayes shall absent themselves from the Church, and vpon such absence shall examine them of the cause thereof.

15. Item, that the churchwardens and sworne men shall not suffer any persons to walke, talke, or otherwise vnreuerently to behaue themselves in any church or chappell, nor to vse any gaming, or to sitt abrode in the streetes or churchyardes, or in any Tauerne or Alehouse, vpon the Sundayes or other holy dayes, in the time of diuine seruice, or of any Sermon, whether it bee before noone or after noone, but after warning once giuen, shall punish both them and all others that negligently, or wilfully shall absent themselves from diuine seruice, or come very late to the church vpon Sundayes or holy dayes, hauing no lawfull let or hinderance, and those also that without any iust cause shall depart out of the Church before the diuine seruice or Sermon be done: according to a statute made in the first yeare of the Queenes Maesties reigne, printed and set forth in the beginning of the booke of common prayer: that is to saye, the Churchwardens shall lieue and take of euery one that wilfully or negligently so shall offend, the forfeiture of xij. pence for euerie such offence, and shall also present them to the Ordinarie: which forfeitures they shall lieue, according to the same statute by distrayning the goodes, landes and tenements of such offenders, and shall (as by the same statute they are appoynted) deliuer the money that commeth thereof to the collectors, for the vse of the poore people of the same parische.

16. Item, that no person or persons whatsoever, shall weare Beades, or pray eyther in Latine or in English vpon Beades or Knottes, or any other like superstitious thing, nor shall pray vpon any popish Latine or English Primer, or other like booke, nor shall burne any candels in the church superstitiously vpon the feast of the purification of the virgin Marie, commonly called Candlemasse day, nor shall resort to anye popishe priest for shift or auricular confession in Lent, or at any other time, nor shal worship any crosse or any Image or picture vpon the same, nor giue any reuerence therevnto, nor superstitiously shal make vpon themselves the signe of the crosse, when they first enter into any church to pray, nor shall say De profundis for the dead, or rest at any crosse, in carying any corps to burying, nor shall leaue any little crosses of wood there.

17. Item, that yearely at Midsommer, the person, vicar, or curate, and churchwardens, shall choose two Collectors or more for the reliefe of the poore of euery Parische, according to a statute made in that behalfe, in the fift yeare of the Queenes Maiesties reigne, intituled an act for the reliefe of the poore, and renewed in the last Parliament, which collectors shall weekly gather the charitable almose of the Parisioners, and destribute the same to the poore where most neede shall be, without fraude or partialitie, and shall quarterly make vnto the person, vicar, or curate, and churchwardens, a iust account thereof in writing. And if any person of habilitie shall obstinately or frowardly refuse to giue reasonably towardes the reliefe of the poore, or shall wilfully discourage others from so charitable a deede, or shall withdrawe his accustomed almose without iust cause, the churchwardens and sworne men shall present to the Ordinarie euery such person so refusing to giue, discouraging others, or withdrawing his accustomed almose, that reformation may be had therein.

18. Item, that for the retayning of the Perambulation of the circuite of euerie Parische yearely, the person, vicar, or curate, and churchwardens, with certaine of the substanciall men euerie Parische, such as the Minister and Churchwardens shall thinke méete to require, shall in the dayes of the Rogations commonly called the crosse weeke, or gang dayes, walke the accustomed boundes of euerie Parische, and in the same perambulation, or going aboute, the Minister shall vse none other ceremonie, than to say in Englishe the two Psalmes beginning Benedic anima mea do[m]i[n]e: that is to say the ciiij. Psalme and the ciiij. Psalme, and such sentences of scripture as be appoynted by the Queenes Maiesties Iniunctions, with the Letanie and Suffrages following the same, and reading one Homelie already deuised & set forth for that purpose, without wearing anye Surplices, carying of Banners, or Handbels, or staying at Crosses, or such like popish ceremonies.

19. Item, that the Minister and churchwardens shall not suffer any Lordes of misrule, or Sommer Lordes, or Ladies, or any disguised persons, or others in Christmasse, or at May games, or any Minstrels, Morice dauncers, or others, at Rishbearings or at any other times, to come vnuerently into any Church, or Chappell, or Churchyarde, and there daunce, or play any vnseemly partes, with scoffes, ieastes, wanton iestures, or rybaulde talke, namely, in the time of diuine seruice, or of anye sermon.

20. Item that no schoolmayster shall teach either openly or priuately in any Gentlemans house, or in any other place, vnlesse he be of good and sincerere Religion and conuersation, and be first examined, allowed and licenced by the Ordinarie in wryting vnder his seale: he shall not teach any thing contrarie to the order of Religion nowe set forth by publike authoritie, hee shall teach his schollers the Catechisme in Latine lately sette forth, and such sentences of scripture (besides prophane chaste Authours) as shall be most méete to moue them to the loue and due reuerence of Gods true Religion nowe truly set forth by the Queenes Maiestie, and to induce them to all godlinesse and honest conuersation.

21. Item, that no parishe Clarke be appoynted agaynst the good will, or without the consent of the person, vicar, or curate, in any Parische, and that he be obedient to the person, vicar, and curate, especially in the time of celebration of diuine seruice, or of the Sacraments, or in any preparation therevnto. And that he be able also to read the first Lesson, the Epistle, and the Psalmes, with answeares to the Suffrages as is vsed, and that he kéepe the bookes and ornaments of the church fayre and cleane, and cause the Church and Quiere, the Communion table, the Pulpit, and the Font, to be kept decent, and made cleane agaynst seruice time, the Communion, Sermon, and Baptisme, and also that he endeour himselfe to teach yong children to reade, if he be able so to doe.

22. Item, that the Churchwardens and sworne men of euerie Parische shall halfe yearely from time to time present to the Ordinarie the names of all such persons of their Parische, as be eyther blasphemers of the name of God, great or often swearers, adulterers, fornicators, incestuous persons, bawdes, or receyuers of naughtie and incontinent persons, or harbourers of women with childe, which be vnmaryed, conueying or suffering them to go away before they do any penance, or make satisfaction to the Congregation or that be vehemently suspected of such faultes, or that be not of good name and fame, touching such faultes and crimes, or that be drunkardes, or rybauldes, or that be malicious, contentious, or vncharitable persons, common slaundersers of their neighbours, raylers, scolders, or sowers of discorde betweene neighbours. And also all such as be Usurers, that is to say, all those, that lend money, corne, ware, or other thing, and receyue gaine therfore, ouer and aboue that which they lende.

23. Item, that the Churchwardens, and sworne men of euerie Parische, shall likewise halfe yearely present to the Ordinarie all such persons as eyther heretofore haue maryed, and bee not diuorced, or hereafter shall marie within the degrées of affinitie, or consanguinitie, by the lawes of God forbidden, so set out for an admonition in a Table lately appointed to be affixed in euerie Parische Church of this prouince, or that being diuorced or seperated for the same, do yet notwithstanding cohabite, and kéepe companie still together. And also all persons being maryed without those degrées, that haue vnlawfully forsaken their wiues, or husbands, and maryed others, and if any man haue two wiues at once, or any woman two husbands at once, or if any being diuorced or seperated asunder, haue married againe: If any be married that haue made a pre-contract. If any haue maryed without banes thrise solemnely asked in the Church. If any cooples be maryed that liue not together, but slaundersously liue apart, or if any haue maryed out of the parish church where they ought to haue solemnised mariage, the churchwardens and sworne men shall likewise present the same halfe yearely to the Ordinarie.

24. Item, the Churchwardens and sworne men of euerie parish shall likewise halfe yearely present to the Ordinarie the names of all such persons whatsoeuer, eyther of the Clergie or Laytie, that be fauourers of the Romishe and forreyne power, letters of true Religion, hearers or sayers of Masse, or of any Latine seruice, Preachers or setters forth of corrupt and popish doctrine, mainteyners of sectaryes, disturbers of diuine seruice, kéepers of any secrete conuenticles, preachings or lectures, receyuers of any vacabonde popishe priestes, or other notorious mislikers of true Religion, or mainteyners of the vnlearned people in ignorance and error, encouraging and moouing them rather to pray in an vnknowne tongue than in English, or that stubburnly refuse to conforme themselues to vnitie and godly Religion nowe established by publike authoritie.

25. And finally, the Churchwardens and sworne men of euerie Parish shall likewise halfe yearely present to the Ordinarie, whether all these Iniunctions giuen as is aboue, aswell to the Clergie, as to the laytie, be duely obserued and kept, and if they be not, then which and howe many of the sayd Iniunctions be not kept, and by whom, and in what poynt any person or persons doe violate and breake the same.

All which Iniunctions we doe charge and commaund to be inuiolably performed and obserued of all persons whome they shall concerne within our prouince of Yorke, vpon paine of contempt, and of excommunication, and other censures of the church by the ecclesiasticall lawes of this Realme in such like cases limited and appoynted.

FINIS.

God saue the Queene.

PARKER, ARCHBISHOP OF CANTERBURY, 1575.

ARTICLES to be enquired of within the Dioces of Winchester, in the Metropolitanall Visitation of the most Reverend Father in Christ, Matthew, by the prouidence of God, Archbysshop of Canterbury, Primate of all England, and Metropolitan.

*At London, printed by Iohn Daye, dwelling ouer Aldersgate.**

¶ Cum gratia & Præuilegio Regie Maiestatis.

For the Clergie.

In primis, whether any haue intruded themselues & presume to exercise any kynde of ministerie in the Church of God, without imposition of handes & lawfull calling by ordinarie authoritie, and whether any admitted but to Deaconrie vsurpe the office of the Minister.

2. Item, whether any laye persons take vpon them to read openly in the congregation diuine seruice, in any Church, Chappell or oratorie, without they be therunto vpon some vrgent cause, or great necessitie for a tyme licenced by the ordinary. Wherefore such haue bene allowed, and how long they haue serued, and whether any of them haue taken vpon them to solemnise matrimonie, or to minister any Sacrament.

3. Item, whether any homicide or felone, any notoriouslie infamous, & disabled by the ecclesiasticall lawes, any ordeined out of the Dioces where they were borne, or by long tyme made their abode without letters dimissories from their ordinarie, exercise the ministerie, or any ecclesiasticall calling in this Dioces.

* 1575 inserted in MS.

4. Item, whether any Deacon or minister be removed from any other Dioces to serie in this, without letters testimoniall of the ordinarie from whose Dioces he came to testifie the cause of his departing thence, and of his behauiour.

5. Item, whether any Deacon or minister in this Dioces go not comely and soberly in apparell accordyng as it is appointed in the Queenes maiesties Iniunctions, and in the advertisementes, or lyue disorderly in riotyng, gamyng, haukyng, huntyng or beholdyng and garyng at any Idle pastime, or exercisyng any laicall trade, or misterie for gayne and lucre sclaunderous to their calling in the Church.

6. Item, whether any being once ordeined Priest or minister, doth not still continue in their calling, or frequenteth and resorteth not to the Common prayer, or at times appointed communicateth not, or haue east of their calling, and go and boast themselves lyke laye men.

7. Item, whether any of them say or sing in private conuenticles Masse, or any seruice contrary to the laues of this Realme.

8. Item, whether any be permitted to preach in any place within thys Dioces, not being therunto lawfully lycensed either by the Queenes Maiestie, or the Archbysshop of the Province, or the Byshop of the Dioces, and whether the Parson, Vicare or Curate and Churchwardens of euery Parische do call for euery such licence, and peruse it before they suffer the party to preach.

9. Item, whether your Preachers set out in their sermons the Queenes Maiesties authoritie ouer all her subjectes, & in all causes, and exhort their hearers to due obedience vnder the same, to the folowyng of her Maiesties Iniunctions, and other lawes, statutes, orders, aduertisementes and decrees set forth by common authority for the establishing of Christian Religion and maintenaunce of the Ecclesiasticall policie in this Realme, or whether any of them haue done or sayd any thyng to the contrary.

10. Item, whether they likewise in their preachyng excite and styrre up the people to charitie one with another, to godlynesse of lyfe, often and deuout receauyng of the holy Communion, frequentlyng diuine seruice, hearing the worde of God read or taught, and such like, and also to all kynde of Ciuill duties meete for subiectes, or be curious in mouyng new needelesse doubttes wherby the people may be sooner styrred to debates and controuersies, then edified in holosome doctrine, continued in Christian loue, or prouoked to godly lyfe.

11. Item, whether in their conuersation and behauiour, they be modest, graue, and sober, accordyng to theyr calling, and for the better credite of their doctrine, or otherwise.

12. Item, whether your Parsons and Vicars be continually resident vpon their benefices, if they be absent, where they be: whether in their absence their cures be sufficiently discharged and serued.

13. Item, whether they haue any other or moe benefices, in what countrey or Dioces they lye, whether they came to any of them by fraude, guile, deceit, or symonie.

14. Item, whether they make or cause to be made their monethly and quarterly Sermons, instruct and examine the youth of theyr Parishes in the Catechisme at Euenyng Prayer on Sondayes and holydayes: whether they moue the Parishioners and the Parentes to buy the Catechisme lately set forth with additions by the Queenes Maiesties authoritie: whether they reade the Homylies on Sondayes, when there be no Sermons, and the Queenes Maiesties Iniunctions euery quarter.

15. Item, whether and howe long after his Induction, your Parson or Vicare read openly in your Church at diuine seruice, the Articles of Religion whiche concerne the confession of the true Christian fayth, and the doctrine of the Sacramentes appointed to be publicly read by an Acte of Parliament made in the xiii. yeare of her Maiesties reigne.

16. Item, whether they pronounced diuine seruice and other thynges to be read at common prayer playnely and distinctly to the hearing and intelligence of the people, & minister the Sacramentes reuerently, in such sort as is set forth by the lawes of this Realme, the Queenes Maiesties Iniunctions, and the aduertisementes without any kinde of variation.

17. Item, in the tyme of celebration of diuine seruice whether they weare surplisses, or celebrate the sayd seruice in the Chauncell or in the Church, Baptise in Basons or in the Fontes standyng in the places accustomed, minister the holy Communion in wafer bread or common bread, in prophane Cuppes, dishes, bowles, old massing Challices, or in a decent communion cuppe prouided and kept for the same onely of purpose, & whether the Communicantes receave standyng, sitting or kneeling.

18. Item, whether they haue entred into their benefices without lawfull ingresse therunto by Institution, or Collation & Induction, whether they maintaine their mansions houses, Chauncels and other edifices pertaining to their benefices and Churches in sufficient reparations, and whether they make spoyle or waste of any thing pertaining to them.

19. Item, whether such of them as may dispend an C. pound in spirituall liuynges by the yeare, alloweth to the exhibition of some Scholler in Cambridge or Oxford. iii. pounds vi. s. viii. pence yearly, and what scholler receaue it.

20. Item, whether any of them haue demysed any of their benefices, or any part of them otherwise then is appointed in an Act of Parliament, an. 13 of the Queenes maiesties reigne cap. 17. or in defraude thereof conuey the frutes of the same by some other shifte any other wayes.

21. Item, whether they recorde from time to time in a Register all mariages, Christening and Burials, and yearly deliuer the copies of them to the Byshop by Indenture.

22. Item, whether in the dayes of perambulation they vse any other rite or Ceremonie then to sing or say in English the ii. Psalmes begynnyng, Benedic anima mea, &c. with the Letanie and Suffrages thereto, and one Homely of thankes giuyng set forth and deuided into foure partes, without any other superstitious ceremonie heretofore vsed, whether women go about with them, and to what valey there was heretofore wont to be bestowed at the standyng and restyng places of the sayd Rogations to be bestowed.

23. Item, whether they vse to comfort the sicke specially at the tyme of their passyng out of this transitorie world, and what textes of Scripture they haue ready for the same purpose.

24. Item, whether any of them or their Curates not being lawfully authorised to preach take vpon them to expound any Scripture, or by the way of exhortation moue any matter of doctrine, but be content onely to read grauely & aptly the service, lessons, and Homelies set forth without any glosing or addition to the same.

25. Item, whether they admit any notorious sinner's or vcharitable persons to the holy Communion, any that can not say without booke the Lordes Prayer, the Articles of Christian Fayth, and the X. Commaundementes, or suffer any children to answer as Godfather or Godmother at Baptisme except they haue receaued the holy Communion, and can say the Catechisme.

26. Item, whether they keepe competent hospitality, accordyng to theyr lyuynges, and if they be not resident, whether they bestow the xl. part of their liuyng yearly amongst the poore, if theyr lyuyng be above xx. l. a yeare.

27. Item, whether such beneficed men, or enjoyng any spirituall lyuyng, as be not resident at their liuynges, if they pretend studye at any of the Uniuersities, be once in the yeare called home to the Ordinary to be examyned how they profite in learyng, whether any be sufficed wyth the liuyng of the Church to become seruuing or wayting men, Lawyers clarkes, or otherwyse to lyue dissolutely or in a mere lay vocation therwith.

28. Item, whether your Parson, or Vicar was inducted into possession of your parsonage or vicarege since the xiii. yeare of the Queenes Maiesties raigue, whether he was then Deacon or minister, and in what yeare of hys age: whether he was an able preacher lycensed thereunto, and by whom: whether, and how long after his induction he read openly in your church at diuine seruice, the declaration of vniformity in Religion set forth by the two Archbysshopes of Canterbury and Yorke.

29. Item, whether any parsonage or vicarege, or any other spirituall liuyng in thys Dioces be holden by the name and title of any beyond the seas, and whether the cause of hys being there be lawfully approued and allowed.

30. Item, besides benefices wyth cure of soule, what other dignities, promotions, prebendes or spirituall liuynges your Parson or Vicar hath, what be theyr names, and where they lye.

31. Item, whether the proprietaries of parsonages wyth vycariges endowed, leaue a sufficient portion of the frutes, or annuities to the Vicares to discharge the cure of soules, and to keepe hospitalite: whether they helpe and assist them in the preaching and setting forth of Gods Worde, and seyng the Queenes maiesties Iniunctions, and other statutes, orders, and aduertisementes set forth by publicke authority well obserued: Whether they wythhold from theyr Vicares theyr due portions of frutes or monye, or ouercharge them with reparations of Chauncels, duties for visitations and synods, or other paymentes, and whether for the ease of the sayd Vicars, they pay such duties as by composition or custome hath heretofore bene due.

32. Item, whether the parishes clerkes be admitted without the consent of the Parson or Vicar; whether they be not obedient to the Parsons, Vicars, or their Curates, specially in matters touchyng the celebration of diuine seruice, and the Church business: whether they keepe the bookes & ornamentes of the Church, the quyer or the place where diuine seruice is appointed to be done, the Communion table, the Pulpit, and the Font fayre and decent, for diuine seruice, administration of the Sacramentes and preachyng: whether any withhold from the sayd Clarkes their accustomed wages, reliefe and beneuolence.

33. Item, whether any Scholemaster teach openly or priuately within thys Dioces, in any noble or gentlemen house, or any where els not beyng allowed and examyned by the Ordinary for syncrete religion, honest conuersation, and sufficient learnyng: whether they teach any other Grammer, or any other Catechisme then is set forth by the Queenes maiesties authority; whether they suffer theyr schollers to read any bookes tendyng to the impugnynge and derogation of the order of religion now set forth, or propounde to them any Themes, vulgares, or subtyll questions, wherby matters of Religion concluded and establyshed myght be made doubtfull vnto them, or they induced to deride or scoffe at any godly order, Ryte or Ceremony now set fort and allowed.

For the Laytie.

34. In primis, whether any parishioner is negligent or obstinate in comyng to his owne parische Church or Chappell for diuine seruice, and their receaynyng the holy Communion at the least tharse a yeare, contempne the word of God, or in deede or worde despiseth or setteth lyght by the publike order of Religion set forth & establyshed.

35. Item, whether any contempne, hurt, stryke, or any wayes abuse any minister or Deacon, specially in the tyme of celebration of diuine seruice, administration of the Sacramentes, or preaching of Gods worde, or whether any of them neglect or refuse to bryng or send their children and seruauntes to be catechysed.

36. Item, whether Innes, Tauernes, victayling and typling houses or gamyng places be patent or entred into, in seruice or preachyng tyme, whether there be any adulterers, drunckards, baudes, scoldes and brawlers, priuy and crafty sowers of discorde, open and manifest vsurers, sorcerers, inchanters, or any hauing confidence in any such deullishe imaginations in your parishes.

37. Item, whether you Churchwardens & sworne men, and such as were before you, haue according to the Acte of Parliament therfore in the first yeare of the Queenes maiesties raighe provided, leuiud of euery one that wilfully or negligently is absent from Church, or vnreuerently behaueth hymselfe at common prayer as is in the sayd acte appointed xii. d. for euery such offence. Wherunto the said forfayture is applyed, what account therof yearly is made, & whether your poore mans box be accordingly kept, and the almes therof accompted yearly to your parische.

38. Item, whether all Images, altars, Shrynes, and other monumentes of Idolatry and superstition be vtterly defaced & put out in your parishes; whether your Churches and Churchyardes be well repayred, adorned and fenced: whether the Roode loftes be pulled downe, and a partition made and kept betwixt the Chauncell and the Church, according to the aduertisements. Whether likewise all masse bookes, Antiphoners, Grayles, & other such bookes which serued for superstitious Latin seruice, be defaced and abolished.

39. Item, whether you haue in your Churches all things requisite for common prayer & administration of the Sacramentes, and preaching: As a Bible of the largest volume, the booke of common prayer, a table of the X Commaundements before the Communion bourde, the aduertisements, the admonition for degrees of matrimony, a conuenient pulpit well placed, a Comely and decent Communion Table standing upon a frame wyth a faire covering of some carpet, silke or linnen cloth to lay vpon it, a Communion cuppe wyth a couer of siluer, and such lyke.

40. Item, whether any sale of your church goods haue bene made, by whom, and to whom: whether an Inuentory be kept of all such goods as haue from tyme to tyme bene purchased, geuen or bequeathed to the Church, whether an account be therof yearly made: whether the sayd goods be encreased or decayed, and by whose default or negligence: In whose handes the sayd Church goodes or any of them remayne.

41. Item, whether you see that on Sondayes & holydayes, Innes, tauernes & victualling houses be not frequented at seruice tyme, and shoppes also shut vp & your parishioners cease from worldly busines, whether any other holydayes be kept then such as be appointed in the booke of Common prayer, whether any heresies, false opinions, Popish and superstitious doctrine, be maintained in your Parishes and by whom.

42. Item, whether there be any in these partes, that haue married within degrees of affinitie or consanguinitie, by the lawes of God forbidden, so set out in a table for an admonition. Any man that hath two wiues, or any woman that hath two husbendes. Any that beyng diuorced or separated aside, hath married agayne. Any married that haue made precontracts. Any that haue made priuy or secret contracts. And that haue married without banes thirse solemnely asked. Any couples married that liue not together, but slaunderously liue a part: any that haue married out of the Parish Church, where they ought to haue the same solemnised.

43. Item, whether there be any secret or priuy conuenticles or exercises in disputations for matters of Religion in any of your Parishes, whether any superstitious and superfluous ringyng at burials, Saintes euens, or festiual dayes be suffered. Whether any Lordes of misrules, Sommer Lordes or Ladyes, disguised persons come vnreuerently into the Church and specially in the seruice tyme to play any games, who they be that commit such disorders or accompany and mainteyne them.

44. Item, whether any patrones haue by themselves or by other directly or vndirectly practised for the presentyng of any Clarke to any spirituall lynyng before the sayd presentation, or after to haue money or money worth or any other commoditie. Whether the Church of your Parish be voyde, how long it hath so bene, who receiue the tithes and profites thereof, and by what authoritie, whether the patron or any other haue pulled downe any Church, chauncell, or mansion house, taking away the lead, belles, ornamentes, goodes or glebe landes or conuerted the tithes, reuenues or possessions of the sayd Church to his owne priuate vse.

45. Item, whether any conceale the will and testament of any departed or fulfill not the same, chiefly in Legacies bequeathed to good and godly vses, whether any executor haue defrauded any widow, fatherles child, or any other in their minoritie of their legacies, or any administrator appointed to administer to the vse of any in their minoritie haue beguiled them and not geuen account of their sayd administration. Whether any administer without probate of the Testament, or takyng authoritie from the ordinary, and whether any legacies heretofore giuen to vses now forbidden, be not conuerted to some godly and lawful vse.

46. Item, whether midwytes be of sober life and vncorrupt religion, not suspected of Papistry, whether any of them vse in the tyme of womens trauell any witchcraft, charmes, Latine prayers or inuocations, or take vpon them to Baptise, whether when they be present at the deliuerie of any child, knowne or suspected to be begotten in vnlawfull matrimony, do not streightly charge the mother to declare who is the father and where it was begotten, and immediatly certifie the ordinare or at the least the Curate & Churchwardens of the Parish thereof.

Articles of enquire for the exercise of spirituall iurisdiction within this Dioces.

47. In primis, whether the Ecclesiastical iurisdiction in this Dioces haue bene exercised by expert and habile men such as the law requireth. Whether the Chauncellor, Archdeacons, or any vnder them haue at any tyme suffered faultes & transgressions to remaine unpunished for mony, gaine, pleasure, frendship, or any other affectionat respect, whether in matters of instance betwixt partie & partie they haue denyed audience, specially at the complaint of the poore frendles and fatherles, or by admitting friuolous and vnfit matters, or excludyng and barring reasonable and necessary defences, haue delayed or peruerted iustice or the execution therof. Whether they haue impeached or manaced parties in iudgement so that they haue bene stayed or compelled to desiste from persecuting their Appeals or complaints to the Queenes maiestie or the Archbishop for iust griefes and wronges to them procured.

48. Item, whether any of them haue bene burdensome to any in this Dioces by exactyng & takyng excessiue fees, rewardes or commodities by the way of promotion, gift, contribution, redemption of penance to their owne vse, obteyning of any benefice or office, or any other like wayes, whether in their visitations and Sinodes they spend the tyme any otherwise then in diligent Inquisition and reformation of disorders, or suffer the Clarkes or seruauntes of their retinue riotously to behaue themselves.

49. Item, whether Archdeacons in their visitations see that all necessary bookes and ornamentes for diuine seruice be had in euery parish, and whether Church goodes and stockes be augmented or empayred, whether Churches, Churchyardes, mansion houses be well repaired and fenced. Whether in their Synodes they take accompt of the Clargy how they profite in the study of holy Scripture, whether they graunt any licence to celebrate matrimony the baxes not thrise solemnely asked, either for prohibition of tyme or any other such cause.

50. Item, whether they haue vprightly & unfeynedly both obserued in their own persons, and towards all other put in due execution the Ecclesiasticall lawes of this Realme the Queenes Maiesties Iniunctions & other her Highnes commaundements, orders, decrees, and aduertisements set forth for the publike administration of Gods holy word and Sacramentes. Whether they haue commended and faoured all those that sought the same, and condignely punished all those that sought the contrarie.

51. Item, whether the Deanes of your Deanries be of the best learned sort, and best conuersation, and least suspected for superstitious or schismaticall doctrine & opinions: whether they doe marke the lyfe and study of the clargie and enforme the Ordinary or Archdeacons therof; whether they be negligent in executing mandates or precepts sent vnto them from any Ecclesiasticall court: whether they enquire of lyght women which come into their Deanries to be brought a bed, of Curates and scholemasters not licensed, of priuy contractes and marriages, of concealed Images and monuments of superstition, and of other close disorders vsed within their Deanries, certifying the Ordinary therof for due and speedy reformation.

52. Item, whether your peculiar Judges exercise their Jurisdiction by themselues or by learned deputies, and not by vnable men, as their farmers & such lyke: whether they haue skilfull registers and perfect record of their actes and proceedings: whether they winke at such as be harboured in their peculiars for auoyding of processe and correction in thys or any other Dioces, and detect them not to the Ordinary.

53. Item, whether your apparitors haue taken money or money worth, for concealing or cloking of any vice, or haue conueyed any offenders from one place to another to escape punishment, or cited any body without due processe, or delay the execution and seruyng of their processe, or geue warnyng to the party cited, to keepe him out of the way, or dispitefully serue their processe in time of diuine seruice, to the disturbance of the parishe: whether they appointe vndersomners or substitutes to doe their office, or threaten any with processe, or without, for bribes in corne, woll, chese, or any thyng els: whether any of them be ouerchargeable to the Clargie or Layty in trauallyng about the executing of their sayd processe.

54. Item, whether the Registers and Notaries within this Dioces make iust & true recordes of actes done and passed in their presentes, and deliuer at the parties request true copies of the same without excessiue taking: whether they or any of them take annuall fees of any of the elergy, or their farmers, for exhibiting proxies in visitations or synodes, or excusing their absence and sauing theyr apperance when they should iudicially come in, or any other respect, whereby parcialitie myght grow, and equity be excluded out of iudgement.

55. Item, whether the Proctors of the Ecclesiasticall court be contented with their ordinary fees: whether any of them incourage their clyentes to persist in euyl and wrongfull causes, or bargayne with them before hand for the gayne of any sute after the euiction: whether any of them deuse and obiect friuolous, impertinent and dilatory matters or allegations, to the intent to prolong sutes, and hinder the expedition of Justice, and specially in causes of Matrimony, almentation of fatherles children, and such lyke summary matters.

56. And generally you shall enquire and present all euill lyuers or offenders of Gods most holy lawes, and specially such as stubburnely refuse to conforme themselues to vnitie and good Religion, or that disturbe the same by brutyng abroade rumors of the alteration therof, or seeke new deuises and innovations.

AYLMER, BISHOP OF LONDON, 1577.

ARTICLES to be enquired of within the Dioces of London, in the visitation of the reuerend Father in God, John Bishop of London, in the XIX year of the raigne of our most gracious soueraigne Lady Elizabeth by the grace of God Queen of Englande, Fraunce, and Irelande, Defender of the fayth, &c.

Imprinted at London by Wilkam Seres. Anno 1577.

Articles to be enquired of within the Dioces of London, &c.

Whether Common prayer be song or sayde, by your Person, Vicar, or Curate in your seuerall churches or Chappelles distinctly and reuerentlye and in such order as it is sette foorth by the lawes of this realm, without any kinde of alteration and at due and conuenient houres. And whether your minister so turne him selfe and stand in such place of your churche or chauncell as the people may best heare the same? And whether the holy Sacramentes be likewise ministred reuerently in suche manner as by the lawes of this Realme is appoynted. And whether vpon Wednesdays and Frydays (not being holydayes) the Letany and other prayers appoynted for the day be sayde accordingly.

2. Whether you haue in your parish Churches and Chappells all things necessary and requisite for common prayer and administration of the Sacramentes, specially the booke of common prayer with the newe Kalender, two Psalters, the English Byble in the largest volume, the two tomes of the Homilyes, the Paraphrases of Erasmus translated into English, the table of the tenne commaundements, a conuenient Pulpitte well placed, a comly and decent table standing on a frame for the holy communion with a fayre linnen cloth to lay vpon the same, and some covering of silke, Buckram or other such like for the cleane keeping thereof, a fayre and comly Communion cup of siluer and a couer of siluer for the same, which may serue also for the ministracion of the communion bread, a decent large surplesse with sleues: a sure cofer with two locks and keyes, for the keeping of the Register booke, and a strong chest or boxe for the almose of the poore, with three lockes and keyes to the same; and all other thinges necessarye in and to the premisses.

3. Whether the forme of commination agaynst sinners with certayne prayers following the same, sette foorth in the latter ende of the booke of common prayer, to be vsed at diuers times in the yeare: be by your minister playnely and distinctly reade in your Church or Chappell vnto the people, betweene the Letanye and the commemoration or ministracion of the holy communion three times at the least in the yeere, that is to saye, for oryer (sic)* sake yearly vpon one of the three Sundayes next before Easter for the first time, vpon one of the two Sundayes next before the feast of Pentecoste for the second time. And for the third time vpon one of the two Sundayes next before the feaste of the birthe of our Lord, ouer and besides the accustomed reading therof vpon the first day of Lent.

4. Whether in your churches and chappells all Altars be vtterly taken downe and cleane remoued euen vnto the foundation, and the place where they stode paved, and the wall where unto they ioyned whitened ouer and made vniforme with the rest, so as no breach or rupture appeare? And whether your Roodlofts be taken downe and altered so that the upper partes thereof with the sollar or loft be quite taken downe vnto the crosse beame, and that the sayde beame haue some conuenient creaste put vpon the same.

5. Whether your churches and chappells with the chauncelles thereof be well and sufficiently repayred, and kept without abuse of any thing. And whether your churchyardes be well fenced and cleanly kept? And if any part thereof be in decay through whose default it is so.

6. Whether al and euery Antiphoners, Masse books, Grayles, Portesses, Processionals, Manuells, Legendaries, and all other bookes of late belonging to your Church or Chappell whiche serued for the superstitious Latine seruice, be vtterly defaced, rent, and abolished: and if they be not, through whose default that is, and in whose keeping they remaine. And whether all Vestments, Albes, Tunicles, Stoles, Phanons, Pixes, Paxes, Handbells, Sacringbells, Censers, Crizmatories, Crosses, Candlesticks, Holywater stockes, Images, and such other reliques, and monuments, of superstition and Idolatrie, be vtterly defaced, broken, and destroyed. And if not, where and in whose custodye they remaine.

7. Whether any holydays or fasting dayes heretofore abrogated or not appoynted to be vsed as holy dayes, or fasting dayes by the newe kalender of the booke of common prayer be eyther proclaymed and bidden by your Person, vicar, or curate, or be superstitiously obserued by any of your parish, and what be their names that so doe obserue the same. And whether any publike feastes other then such as be appoynted by law be by any priuate authoritie, without order from the Byshoppe, commaunded or vsed. And whether there be any ringing or tolling of Bels to call the people together, vsed in any of those dayes more, or otherwise then commonly is vsed vpon other days that be kept as workdays.

8. Whether when any man or woman is in passing out of this lyfe, the bell be tolled to moue the people to praye for the sicke person especially, in all places where the sicke person dwelleth, neere vnto the church. And whether after the time of his or her passing out of this world, there be any more ringing but one short peale before the buryall, and another short peale after the buryall, without anye other superfluous or superstitious ringing. And whether on all Saintes daye after Euening prayer, there be anye ringing at all or anye other superstitious ceremonye vsed tending to the mayntenance of popish purgatorie, or of prayer for the dead, and who they be that vse the same. And whether there be anye ringing or knolling of belles on Sundays or holy dayes, betweene morning prayer and the Letany, or in anye time of the common prayer, reading of the homilies or of preaching, except one bell in conuenient time to be rong or tolled before the sermon, or any other ringing vsed vpon saintes euens, or festiuall dayes sauing to common prayer, and that without excesse, and who doth ring or knoll otherwise?

* Lege, Order.

9. Whether your parson or Vicar haue preached or cause to be duely preached in your church his quarterly or monethly sermons as by the Queens Iniunctions he is bound, and what be the names of such as haue preached for him, and whether he hath admitted any man to preach not hauing sufficient licence, or hath inhibited, or letted any from preaching hauing sufficient licence.

10. Whether any person or persons not being ordered at the least for a Deacon, or licenced by the Ordinarie, doe say common-prayer openly in your church, or chappell or any not being at the least a Deacon doe solemnize matrimonie or administer the Sacraments of Baptisme, or deliuer vnto the communicants the Lordes cuppe, at the celebration of the holy communion, and what he or they be that doe so. And whether the person, vicar, or fermer of your benefice doe cause or suffer any curat or minister to serue your church before he be examined and admitted by the Ordinarie or his deputie in writing, and doe shew his licence to the Churchwardens: and whether any curate doe serue two cures at one time, without the speciall licence of the Ordinarie, or his deputie in that behalfe in wryting first had.

11. Whether your Parson, Vicar, or Curat, doe euery Sunday when there is no sermon, reade distinctly and playnly some parte of the Homilies prescribed and set forth by the Queenes authoritie to be read. And euery holy day when there is no sermon, immediatly after the Gospell openly, playnly and distinctly recyte to his parishioners the Lordes prayer, the articles of the fayth, and the ten commandments in english: and whether any minister not admitted by the Ordinarie or by other lawfull authoritie doe expounde any scripture or matter of doctrine, by the way of exhortation or otherwise, and thereby omitte and leaue of the reading of the Homilies.

12. Item, Whether any Lectures be read within your parishes, by any person not sufficiently lycenced therevnto by the Ordinarie, or whether any such reader doe teach any doctrine of innouations, to withdrawe the people from due obedience to the ordinances of the church, set forth by publike authoritie.

13. Whether your Person, Vicar, or curat, doe euery sunday and holy day openly in the church call for, heare, and instruct all the children, apprentices and seruautes of both sexes that be of conuenient age within your parishes, or at the leaste so many of them by course as the time wil serue, and as he may well heare or instruct for one houre at the least before or at the Euening prayer, in the tenne Commaundements, the Articles of the believe, and the Lordes prayer and diligently examine and teach them the Catechisme as it is now allowed and set forth, with the vnderstanding thereof. And whether for that purpose he doth take the names of them all and by course cal certaien (sic) of them by name euery Sunday and holy day, to come to the teaching of the same Catechisme.

14. Whether all fathers and mothers, maisters and dames of your parish cause their children, seruautes, and apprentices both mankind and womankind, beinge aboute seauen yeeres of age and vnder twentye, which haue not learned the Catechisme, to come to the church on sundayes and holydayes, at the times appoynted, or at the least such and so many of them as your minister shal appoynt, and there diligently and obediently to heare, and to be ordered by the minister vntill such time as they haue learned the same catechisme, and what be the names of those that doe not cause their children, seruautes and apprentices so to come to the church to be instructed and examined, and how many of the sayde chyldren, seruautes, and apprentices be in your parish which beinge aboute seuen yeeres old, and vnder twentye yeeres of age cannot say by heart the sayd catechisme, and what be their names and age, and with whom they dwell.

15. Whether Person, Vicar, Curat, or other Minister in your church or chappell hath admitted to the receyuing of the holye communion any open and notorious fornicator, adulterer, or euill liuer, by whom the congregation is offended, without due penance, first done to the satisfaction of the congregation, or any malicious person, that is notoriously knowne to be out of charity, or that hath done any open wrong to his neyghbour by worde, or deede, without due reconciliation first made to the party that is wronged.

16. Whether your parson, vicar, curat, or minister, hath admitted to the holy Comunion any of his parish beinge aboute twenty yeeres of age eyther mankind or womankind that cannot say by heart the ten commaundements, the Articles of the fayth and the Lordes prayer in english, and what be the names of such as cannot saye the same, or beinge aboute fourteene yeeres and vnder twenty yeeres of age, that cannot saye the Catechisme allowed and sette foorth in the sayde booke of common prayer. And whether he marry any persons which were single before that cannot say the Catechisme. And whether he vseth to examine his parishioners at conuenient times before he administer vnto them: and namely before Easter, yearly, to the intent he may knowe whether they can say by heart the same which is required in that behalfe or no.

17. Whether your priests and ministers be peacemakers, and no brawlers, or sowers of discorde, and exhort their parishioners to obedience towards their prince and al other that be in authority, and to charitie and mutuall loue among themselues? Whether they be diligent in visiting the sicke and comforting them, and doe moue them earnestly, especially when they make their Testaments, to consider the necessitie of the poore, and to giue to their boxe or chest their charitable deuotion and almose.

18. Whether they neglect the study of the holy Scriptures and of the word of God, and whether such of them as be vnder the degree of a maister of Art, haue of their owne at the least the newe Testament both in English and Latine. And whether they doe euery day with good aduisement confere one chapter of the Latine and English together at the least, and whether they haue giuen due account thereof and to whome.

19. Whether any of your Parsons, Vicars, curats, or ministers be fauorers of the Romish or forreyne power, letters of true religion preachers of corrupt and popish doctrine or maynteners of sectaries or doe sette foorth and extoll vayne and superstitious religion or be mayntainers of the vnlearned people in ignorance and error, encouraging or mouing them rather to pray in an vnknowne tongue, than in English, or to put their trust in a certayne number of prayers as in saying ouer a number of beades, Lady psalters or otherlike.

20. Whether any doe preach declare or speake any thing in derogation of the booke of common prayer which is set foorth by the lawes of this Realme, dispraying the same, or any thing therein contayned, or against the preachers and ministers of the word and sacraments.

Whether the Churchwardens in the yeeres before haue suffered any vnmarrid woman beinge begotten with childe to go out of the parrishe before they haue done penance to be vpon their detection appoynted by the Ordinarie.

21. Whether any of your Parsons, vicars, curats, or ministers or any other priests, or any lay man or woman doe wilfully maintayne or defend any heresec, false opinions or Popish errors, contrarie to the lawes of Almighty God and true doctrine by publike authoritie in this Realme now set forth, and what be their names. And whether any keepe any secrete conuenticles, preachings, lectures, or readings, or priuate Communions: contrarye to the lawe, and what be their names.

22. Whether the Parson or Vicars when they be absent from their benefices doe leaue their Cures to a rude and vnlearned person, and not to an honest and well learned experie Curate, which can and will teach the people wholesome doctrine: and whether in their absence, thee (sic) doe procure learned men to preach in their churches and Cures, at least one sermon euery quarter of a yeare.

23. Whether your Parsons, Vicars, Curates, and Ministers, keepe well their Registers of all weddings, buryings, and christninges within your parish, according to the order of the Queenes Iniunctions, and doe present a copy of them once euery yeare, by Indenture to the Ordinarie or his officers. And whether they read the Queenes Maiesties Iniunctions euery quarter of a yeare once or no.

24. Whether they or any of them keepe any suspected woman in their houses or be incontinent persons giuen to dronkennes ydlenes, or be haunters of Tauerns, Alehouses or suspected places, or be Hunters, Hawkers, Dicers, Carders, Tablers, swearers, or otherwise suspected of any notorious crime, or giue any euill example of life, and whether they (as they ought to doe) occupye themselues in the reading or hearing of some parte of the holye Scripture, or other good author, or in some other godly or laudable exercise meete for their vocation.

25. Whether they or any of them doe keepe or suffer to be kept in their Personage, or Vicarage houses, any Alehouses, Tipling houses, or Tauerns, or doe sell, Ale, Beere, Wine, or anye victuall.

26. Whether you Parsons, or Vicars, haue bought their benefices or come to them by simonye, fraude, or deceite, or by anye colourable parte (sic) or other vnlawfull meane whatsoever, or be vehemently suspected or defamed thereof. And whether they keepe in their owne handes or haue dimised and let to ferme their parsonages and vicarages and their gleebe lande or tythes or any parte thereof, and whether any such lease be made for the performauce of any Simonicall pacte made directly or indirectly betweene the Incumbent and the patron, or betweene the Incumbent and any other person, for the presenting of the same Incumbent to that benefice.

27. Whether the Church of your parish be now vacant or destitute of an Incumbent or no, and if it be, how long it hath bene so, and who is the patrone, and whether he suffereth the benefice to lye vacant, and occupieth the gleebe lande and taketh the tithes and other fruites to himselfe during the time of the vacation: or who els occupieth and taketh the same.

28. Whether any Priest or Minister be come into this Dioces, out of any other Dioces, to serue anye Cure here without letters testimonialls, of the Ordinarie from whence he came, vnder his Autenticke seale and hand to testifie the cause of his departing from thence, and all his behauiour there.

29. Whether any minister vse any lay or vnseemely apparell, or gounes garded, or made of a light vnseemely colour or fashion, great barrell breeches, flaunting Ruffes, or vse to goe lightly and vndecently in their hose and dublettes, and giue themselues to dauncing, or other vaine pastimes, and whether their wyfe and children be proudly and vaynely decked in apparell not fit for the state and calling of the husband.

30. Whether for the retayning of the perambulation of the circuite of your parish, the Parson, Vicar, or Curat, Churchwardens, and certayne of the substantiall men of the parish, in the dayes of the Rogations, commonly called the gange dayes, walke the accustomed boundes of your parish, and whether in the same perambulation and going about, the Curat doe vse any other rite or ceremonye, then to saye or sing in English the two Psalmes, beginning, Benedic anima mea domino, that is to saye, the ciii. Psalme, and the ciii. Psalme, and such sentences of Scripture as be appointed by the Queenes maiesties Iniunctions, with the Letany and suffrages following the same, and reading one Homelie already deuised and set forth for that purpose, without wearing any Surplusses, carying of Banners, or Handbells, or staying at Crosse, or any such like Popish ceremonies.

31. Whether the parish Clarke be appoynted according to the auncient custome of the parishes. And whether he be not obedient to the Person, Vicar, or Curate, especially in the time of celebration of diuine seruice, or of the sacraments, or in any preparation thereunto. And whether he be able, and ready to reade the first Lesson, the Epistle, and the Psalmes, with aunswere to the suffrages, as is vsed, and whether he keepe not the bookes and ornaments of the church faire and cleane, and cause the church and Queere, the Communion table, the Pulpitte, and the Fonte, to be made decent and cleane agaynst the seruice time, the communion, sermon, and Baptisme.

32. Whether there be any man or woman in your parish that resorteth to any popish Priest for shrift, or auricular confession, or any that within three yeares nowe last past, hath bine reconciled vnto the Pope, or to the church of Rome, or any that is reputed or suspected so to be, And whethr (sic) there be any that refuse to come to the church to heare diuine seruice, or to communicate according to the order now established by publike authoritie and what be their names.

33. Whether your Fonts or Baptisteryes, be remoued from the place where they were wont to stande, or any persons leuing the vse of them doe Christen and Baptise in basons, or other prophane vessels not customable vsed in the church before time. And whether any christen without the Godfathers and Godmothers, and the signe of the Crosse, appoynted by the booke of common prayer.

34. Whether there be any person or persons, ecclesiasticall or temporall within your parish or els where within this dioces that of late haue retayned or kept in their custodye or that reade, sell, vtter, disperse cary or deliuer to others any English bookes sette forth of late yeares at Louaine, or in any other place beyonde the seas, by Harding, Dorman, Allen, Saunders, Stapleton, Marshall, Bristow, or any of them, or by any other English papiste, eyther agaynst the Queenes maiesties supremacie in maters ecclesiasticall (sic) or agaynst true religion, and catholike doctrine now receyved and established by common authorie (sic) within this Realme and what their names and surnames are?

35. Whether there be any in your parish that vseth to pray in English or in Latine vpon heades, or other such like thing, or vpon any superstitious popish primer or other such like booke and what be their names.

36. Whether the people of your parish, especially householders (sic) hauing no lawfull excuse to be absent, doe faithfully and diligently endeouour themselues to resort with their children and seruants to their parish church or chappell, on the Holydayes, and chiefly vpon the Sundayes to Morning and Euening prayer, and vpon reasonable, let thereof to some vsuall place where common prayer is vsed, and then and there abide, orderly and soberly, during the time of common prayer. Homelies, sermons and other seruice, of God there vsed reuerently and deuoutly giuing themselues to the hearing thereof, and occupying themselues at times conuenient in priuate prayer? and who they be that eyther negligently or wilfully absent themselues, or come verry late to the church vpon the sundays, especially or that walke, talke, or otherwise vnreuerently behaue them selues in the Church, or vse any gaming or pastime abroade, or in any house, or sitte in the striete or churchyarde, or in any Tauerne, or Alehouse vpon the sunday or other holyday, in the time of common prayer, sermon, or reading of the Homelies eyther before or afternone.

37. Whether the forfeiture of twelue pence for euery such offence appoynted by a statute made in the first yeare of the Queenes maiesties reigne, be leuiued and taken according to the same statute by the Churchwardens of euery person that so offendeth and by them be put to the vse of the poore of the parishes, and if it be not, by whose default it is not leuiued. And what particular summes of money haue bene forfayted that way, and by whome, since the feast of Easter, in the yeare of our Lorde 1575. vntill the day of giuing vp the presentment, concerning these Articles. And so from time to time, as the sayde churchwardens and sworne men shalbe appoynted to present in this behalfe, and how much of such forfaytures haue bene deliuered to the vse of the poore of the parish, and to whome the same hath bene deliuered.

38. Whether ye knowe any that in the time of the reading of the Letany, or of any other parte of the common prayer, or in any time of the sermon, or of reading the Homelies, or any part of the Scriptures to the parishioners, any person haue departed out of the church, without iust and necessarie cause, or that disturbeth the Minister or Preacher any maner of wayes, in the time of diuine seruice or sermon, and whether any in contempt of their parish church or minister, doe resort to anye other church or no.

39. Whether there be any Innekeepers, Alewyues, vittaylers, or tiplers that suffer or doe admit any person, or persons in their houses to eate, drink, or play at cardes, tables, or such like games in the time of common prayer, or sermon, on the sundayes or holydayes. And whether there be any shoppes sette open, on Sundayes or holydayes, or any Butchers or others that comonly vse to sell meate or other thinges in the time of common prayer, preaching or reading of the homelies, and whether in any Faies or common markettes, falling vpon the sunday, there be anye shewing of any wares before morning prayer be done, and whether any markettes, or selling of wares be vsed or suffred in any Churchyardes, by common packmen, or Pedlers going about, or any such people either of your parish, or not of the same parish.

40. Whether for the putting of the Churchwardens and swornemen the better in remembrance of their duetye, in obseruing and noting such as offende, in not comming to diuine seruice, your minister doe openly euery sunday after he haue reade the second Lesson at morning and euening prayer, monish and warne the Churchwardens and swornemen to looke to their charge in this behalfe, and to obserue, who contrary to the sayde Statute offend in absenting themselues negligently or wilfully from their parish Church or Chappell, or vnreuerently as is afore sayde vse themselues in the time of diuine seruice.

41. Whether your parish be serued by a minister or reader, and what the stipende of any such is for his seruing there, and how long hath it bine serued by a reader, and not a full minister.

42. Whether the Churchwardens of the last yeare, haue giuen to the parish a iust account of the church goods and rents that were committed to their charge according vnto the custome that hath bine afore time vsed, and what church goods they or anye other haue solde, and to whome. And whether to the profite of your church or no. And what hath bine done with the money thereof comming.

43. Whether the Churchwardens and swornemen of the laste yeare haue of any priuate corrupt affection, concealed any crime or other disorder in their time done in your parishes, and haue not presented the same to the Byshop, Chancellour, Archdeacon, Commissary, or such other as had authoritie to reforme the same. And whether they or any of them, at any such time as they should haue bene at diuine seruice, on Sundayes or holydayes, and shoulde there haue obserued others that were absent, haue bene away them selues at home, or in some Tauerne or Alehouse, or els about some worldly busines, or at Bowles, Cardes, Tables, or other gaming, without regard of their office and duetye in that behalfe.

44. Whether any man hath pulled downe, or discovered anye Church, chauncell, or chappell, or any part of any of them, anye church porche, vestrie, or steeples, almshouse, or such like, or haue plucked downe the bells, or haue felled, or spoyled any wood or timber in any churchyard.

45. Whether your Hospitals, Spittles, and Almshouses, be well and godly vsed according to the foundation and auncient ordinaunces of the same. Whether there be any other placed in them, then poore, impotent, and needy persons, that haue not wherewith or whereby to liue.

46. Whether any of your parish being of conuenient age haue not receiued the holy Communion thrise this last yeare, at the least, and namely at Easter last or thereabouts, for once, and what their names are, or receyuing, haue not signified the same before to your person, vicar, or curate, that he might conueniently examine them, or that haue refused to come to him to be examined.

47. Whether there be any in your parish that hath or doth offende contrary to the statute made in the xxxvii yeare of the Reigne of King Henry the eyght, for reformation of vsurie and reuiued by an act made in the xiii yeare of the Raigne of the Queenes maiestie, what be the names of such offenders and what is the maner of their vsurie.

48. Whether there be any in your parish that minister the goods of those that be deade, without lawfull authoritie, or anye that suppress the last will of the dead, or any executors that haue not fulfilled their Testators will, specially in paying of legacies given to the church or to other good and godly vses, as to the reliefe of pouerty, to Orphans (sic), poore schollers, poore maydens mariages, high wayes, schooles and such like.

49. Whether the Schoolemaisters which teach within your parish, eyther openly or priuatly in any Noble or Gentlemans house or in any other place there, be of good and sincere religion and conuersation, and be diligent in teaching and bringing vp of youth, whether they be examined allowed and licenced by the Ordinarie or his officer in that behalfe.

50. Whether ther be any among you that vse Sorcery or witchcraft or that be suspected of the same, and whether any vse any charmes or vnlawfull prayers, or inuocations (sic), in Latine or otherwise, and namely midwyues in the time of womens trauayle of childe, And whether any doe resort to any such for helpe or counsaile, and what be their names.

51. Whether there be among you any blasphemers of the name of God, greate or often swearers, adulterers, fornicators, incestuous persons, bawdes, or receiuers of naughtie and incontinent persons, or harberers of women with childe, which be vnmarried, conueying or suffering them to goe away, before they do anye penaunce, or make satisfaction to the congregation, or anye that be vehemently suspected of such faultes, or that be not of good name and fame, touching such crimes and faults, anye drunkerdes, or ribaldes or any that be malicious contentious, or vncharitable persons, common sclanderers of their neighbours raylers scolders, or sowers of discorde betweene neighbours.

52. Whether there be any in these partes that haue married within the degrees of affinitie, or consanguinitie by the lawes of God forbidden, so sette out for an admonition in a table, now appoynted to be affixed in euery parish church, within this dioces, or any that being diuorsed or seperated from the same doe yet notwithstanding inhabite and keepe company still together, or any that being married without those degrees haue vnlawfully forsaken their wyues or husbands and married others. Any man that hath two wyues, or any woman that hath two husbands, any that being diuorsed and seperated asunder haue married againe, any married that haue made any contracts, any that haue made priuie or secreete contractes, any that haue married or contracted themselues without the consent of their parentes, tutors or governors, any that haue married without banes thrise solemelic asked, any couples married that liue not together but slaundersously lye aparte, any that haue married out of the parish church where they ought to haue solemnised their mariage.

53. Whether the minister and Churchwardens haue suffered any Lordes of misrule, or summer Lordes or Ladyes, or any disguised persons or others in Christmas or at May games, or any Morise dauncers, or at any other times to come vnreuerently into the Church or Churchyard, and there to daunce, or play any vnseemely partes, with scoffes, iests, wanton iestures, or ribalde talke, namelic in the time of common prayer, and what they be that committe, such disorder or accompayne or mayntayne them.

54. Whether the Archdeacon, Chancelor, Commissary, official or any other vsing ecclesiastical Iurisdiction, in this dioces, their registers or actuaries, Apparitors or Summoners, haue at any time winked at, and suffered any adultries, fornications, incests, or other faultes or offences to passe and remayne vnpunished, and vncorrected for money, rewarde, bribes, pleasure, frendship, or any other partial or affectionate respect.

55. Whether any new presbyteries or eldership be lately among you erected, and by them any ministers appointed, with (sic) orders taking of the Byshop doe baptise, minister the Communion or deale in any function ecclesiastical, or gather any priuate conuenticles whereby the people be drawn from the church.

56. Whether the Queenes Maiesties iniunctions be duely and precisely obserued both on the part of the Clergie and the laity according to the articles therein conteyned.

57. Also whether there be among you any notorious euill liuers, or any suspected of any notorious sinne, fault, or crime, to the offence of christian people committed, any that stubbornelic refuse to conforme themselues to vnitie, and godly religion nowe established by publique auctoritie, or any that bruteth abroade rumors of the alteration of the same, or otherwise that disturbeth good orders, and the quietnes of Christ his church and the Christian congregation.

58. Item ye shall make diligent enquiry within your seuerall parish, whether your Person, Vicar, or curate, haue maryed anye person not being three seuerall times lawfully asked in their parish churches; or haue married any persons at any time or times, by the ecclesiasticall lawes of this realme forbidden: not being sufficiently licenced thereunto, and by whose licence the same persons were so dispenced withall to to (sic) be maryed: and the saide dispensacions or licence (sic), you shall warne your persons, vicars, and curates to bring to vs or our officers, so many as haue bene made vnto them sence the late Byshop of London his last visitation: and the defaultes therein you shall duely present.

59. Generally you shall present all breaches, and offences committed against the Queenes maiesties iniunctions, if they be not in all poynts duely and precisely obserued on the part of the Clergie and of the laity according to the articles therein conteyned, and euery of them.

60. Lastly all matters touching these Articles and all thinges therein contayned which ye cannot now present, and in the times of the visitation bring in, you shall certyfy vnder your handes at the feast of S. Michael the archangell next coming.

FINIS.

SANDYS, ARCHBISHOP OF YORK, 1578.

ARTICLES to be enquired off, within the prouince of Yorke, in the Metropolitanall Visitation of the Most Reuerend Father in God, Edwin Archbisshoppe of Yorke, Primate of England and Metropolitan. In the XIX and XX yeare, of the raigne of our most gracious souereigne Lady Elizabeth, by the grace of God of England, Fraunce, and Irelande, Queene, defendour of the Fayth, &c., 1577 & 1578.

Imprinted at London by William Seres.

ARTICLES to be enquired off within the prouince of Yorke, in the Metropolitanall visitation of the most reuerend Father in God, Edwin, Archbisshoppe of Yorke, Primate of England and Metropolitan.

In the XIX. yeare of the raigne of our most gracious souereigne Lady Elizabeth by the grace of God of England, Fraunce, and Irelande Queene, defendour of the Faith, &c.

First, whether Common praier be sayd in your church or chappel vpon the Sundayes & holy dayes at conuenient houres, reuerently, distinctly, and in such order without any kinde of alteration, as is appoynted by the booke of Common prayer? And whether your Minister so turne himselfe, and stande in such place of your Church or Chauncell, as the people may best here the same? And whether the holy Sacraments be duely and reuerently ministered in such manner, as is set foorth by the same booke? And whether vpon wednesdayes and Fridaies, the Letany and other prayers be sayd accordingly & the commination against sinners redde thryce yearely.

2. Whether you haue in your Church or chappell, all things necessarie and requisite for common prayer & administration of the holy Sacramentes, specially the Booke of Common prayer with the newe Kalender, the Psalter, the Bible of the largest volume, the Homilies, bothe the firste and seconde Tome, a comely and decent table standing on a frame, for the Communion Table, with a fayre linnen cloth to lay vpon the same, and some coueringe of Silke, Buckram or other such like, for the cleane keeping thereof, a fayre and comely Communion Cup of Siluer, and a couer of Siluer for the same, which may serue for the administration of the LORDS BREAD, a comely large Surples with wyde sleeues, and of fine lymmen cloth for your Minister to weare, and all other things necessary for the premisses, with a comely pulpet conueniently placed, and also a Chest or Boxe for the poere?

3. Whether your Person, Vicar or Curate, at all tymes in saying the common prayer vpon sundayes and holy dayes, and in administring of the Sacraments, doth vse and weare the Surples, yea or no? or dos suffer any other to saye the common prayer, or minister either of the Sacraments in your Church, not wearing the same?

4. Whether any Person or persons not being ordered at the least for a Deacon, or lycensed by the Ordinary, do saye common prayer openly in your Church or Chappell, or any not being at the least a Deacon, do solemnize Matrimonie, or administer the Sacrament of Baptisme, or deliuer vnto the communicants the Lords Cup at the celebration of the holy communion, & what he or they be that so do? And whether the Person, Vicar, or Farmer of your benefice, doe cause any Curate to serue your Church before he be examined and admitted by the Ordinary, or his deputie in writing?

5. Whether your Person, Vicar, or Curate, hath or doth maintaine any doctrine contrary or repugnant to any of the Articles agreed vpon by ye clergie in the conuocation holden at London, Anno Domini 1562: And whether they haue publicly or secretly taught any doctrine tending to the discredit and dispraise eyther of the Booke of common prayer, or of the receiued order, for government in the Church, or make any other innouation? And whether they haue permitted any man so teaching or making such innouation, and what be their names?

6. Whether your Person or Vicar haue any mo benefices than one, how many, and in what countrie be they, and what are theyr names; and who is the Patrone of his benefice or benefices. And whether he be resident vpon his benefice, and keepe hospitalitie or no, and if he be absent, whether he doth relieue his parishioners, and what he giueth them, and if he may dispend twenty pounce or aboue by yeare, and be not resident, whether he doth distribute the xl part of the benefice where he is not resident among the poore of the Parish, or no? And whether any vittaling, typling, or ale selling be had and kept within the mansion house of any Person or Vicar?

7. Whether any person or persons be admitted to aunswere as Godfathers or Godmothers at the Christening of any childe, except he or she haue before receiued the holy communion, and can say by heart the Articles of the Christian faith, the ten commaundements of Gpd, and the Lords prayer, and will recite the same before the Minister, if he or she be therevnto required?

8. Whether for the retayning of the perambulation of the circuite of your parish, the Minister and Clarke, with the Churchwardens, and certayne of the substantiall men of the parish in the dayes of Rogations, walke about your parish according to the Queenes Maiesties Iniunctions?

9. Whether the register booke of al Christenings, Mariages, and Burialls, that happen in your parish from tyme to tyme, be duely kept, and the same Christenings, Mariages and Burialls, entred into the same Booke by your minister, according to the Queenes Maiesties Iniunctions? And whether ye haue one Coffe with two lockes, for the keeping of the same Register Booke, or no?

10. Whether your Person, Vicar, or Curate do keepe any suspected woman in his house, or be an incontinent Person, giuen to dronkenesse, or idlennesse, or be a haunter of Tauerns, Alehouses, or suspected places, a Hunter, Hawker, Dicer, Carder, Tabler, Swerer, or otherwyse giue any euill example of lyfe? And whether his apparell be comely and graue? And whether he be diligent in visiting the sicke, especially if he be therevnto required?

11. Whether when any christian body is in passing, the bell be tolled, to moue the people to pray for the sick person, especially in the greater townes, where the sicke person dwelleth neere vnto the church? & whether after the tyme of his or hir passing out of this world, ther be any more ringing but one short peale before the buriall and another short peale after the buriall? And whether on all Saints day after Euening prayer, there be any ringing at all in your Church or Chappell, or any other superstitious ceremonies vsed, tending to the maintenance of the popish purgatorie, or praying for the dead, and who they be that vse or doe the same? And whether there be any ringing on Sundayes or holy dayes in the seruite tyme, or betwene morning prayer and the Letany, or at any other times, contrary to good order or lawe?

12. Whether your Minister do at the least euery second Sunday, & euery holy day openly in the Church, (especially when it is fayre weather) here, examine, and instruct the children, apprentices, and seruaunts of both the sexes, that be of conuenient age within your parish, in the Catechisme allowed and set fourth with certayne additions, or at the least so many of them by course as cannot say the same by hart, and as he may well heare and instruct, for an houre at the least before or after the Euening prayer? And whether for that purpose he doth take the names of them all, and by course call certayne of them by name euery seconde sunday and holy daye to come to the teaching of the same Catechisme, vntyl they haue learned the same?

13. Whether all fathers, mothers, masters, and dames, of your parish, cause theyr children, seruaunts, apprentices, both mankinde and womankinde, being above sixe yeares of age and vnder twentie, which haue not learned the Catechisme, to come to the Church on the Sundayes and holy dayes, at the times to them appointed, or at the least such and so many of them as your Minister shall appoint, and there diligently and obediently to heare, and to be ordred by the minister vntill such tyme as they haue learned the same Catechisme, and what be the names of those that do not cause theyr children, seruaunts, and apprentices so to come to the Church to be instructed and examined, and how many of the sayd children, seruauntes, & apprentices, be in your parish, which being aboue seauen yeares olde, & vnder twentie yeares of age, cannot saye by heart the sayde Catechisme, and what be their names and age, and with whome they dwell?

14. Whether your Person or Vicar hath preached or caused to be preached foure sermons at the least euery yeare in your Church and what be the names of him or those that so did preach? and whether they were lawfully licenced so to preach, if any other than your Person or Vicar did preach the same? and whether if ther be no Sermon, your Minister do reade for the moste part euery Sunday distinctly and plainly, some part of the Homelies appointed to be reade? And whether any Minister not admitted by the Ordinary, do expounde any scripture or matter of doctrine, by way of exhortation or otherwyse, and thereby omit and leaue off the reading of the Homilies already set out.

15. Whether your Minister hath admitted to the receiuing of the holy Communion, any open and notorious sinner or euill liuer, by whome the congregation is offended, without due penance first done, to the satisfaction of the congregation. Or any malicious person that is notoriously known to be out of charitie, or that hath done any open wrong to his neighbour, by word or deede, without due reconciliation first made to the partie that is wronged, according as is required by the Booke of common prayer?

16. Whether your minister hath admitted to the holy Communion any of his parish being aboue twentie yeares of age, either mankinde or womankinde, that can not say by heart the ten commaundments, the articles of the fayth, & the Lordes prayer, or being aboue twelue yeares and vnder twentie yeares of age, that cannot say by heart the sayde Catechisme? And whether he marry any persons which were single before, that cannot saye the sayde Catechisme? And whether he vseth to examine his parishioners at conuenient tymes, to the intent he may know whether they can say the same which is required or no?

17. Whether your Minister doe Church any vnmarrd woman after they haue bene deliured of theyr children begotten vnlawfully, before they haue acknowledged theyr faultes openly, according to the order prescribed by the Ordinarie or his deputie?

18. Whether there be any in your parish, man or woman, being of conuenient age, that hath not receiued the holy Communion thrice at the least this last yeare, and namely at Easter last or ther about for once, and what be theyr names? And for what cause they do abstayne from the holy Communion? And whether yearly before Easter at conuenient tymes, & namely on Sundayes in Lent at afternoone, or such other dayes in the weeke next before Easter, such of your parishioners as the Person, Vicar, or Curate shall appoint, and require to come vnto him, do come and recite vnto him the Catechisme, or at the least, the Lordes prayer, the articles of the christian beliefe, and the ten commaundments by hart in English, and if any so required do wilfully and stubbornly refuse to come and recite the same? Whether the Churchwardens and sworn men or any of them do assist the Minister therein, that such stubborn persons may be rebuked and expelled from the communion at that tyme, and so presented to the Ordinarie?

19. Whether the people of your parishe, especially householders, hauing no lawfull excuse to be absent, doe faithfully and diligently endeour themselves to resorte with their children and seruants to their parish Church or Chappell on the holydayes, and chiefly vpon Sundaies, to Morning and Euenting prayer, and vpon reasonable let therof to some other Church or Chappell wher common prayer is vsed, and then and there abide orderly & soberly during the time of common prayer, Homelies, preachings, and other service of God there vsed, reuerently and devoutly giuing themselves to the hearing thereof, and occupying themselves at tymes conuenient in priuate prayer, and who they be that either negligently or wilfully absent themselves or come very late to the church vpon Sundaies especially, or that walke, talke, or otherwise vnrueerently behaue themselves in the Church, or vse any gaming abroad, or pastime in anye house, or sit in the streets or Churchyard, or in any Tauerne or Alehouse vpon the Sunday or holydaye, in the tyme of common prayer, Sermon, or reading of the Homelies, either before noone, or after noone?

20. Whether the forfeiture of twelue pence for euery absence from common prayer, appointed by a statute made in the firste yeare of the Queenes Maiesties raigne, & set forth in the beginning of the booke of common prayer, hath bene leuied and taken according to the same statute, by your Churchwardens of the last yeare, of euery person that so hath offended, and by them be put to the vse of the poore of the parish, and if it be not, by whose default it is not leuied, and what particular summes of money haue bene forfeited that way, and by whome, since Easter in the yeare of our Lord 1575, vntill the daye of giuing vp the presentment concerning these Articles, and so from time to time as the sayd Churchwardens and sworne men shall be appointed to present in this behalfe, and how much of such forfeitures haue bene leuied by the Churchwardens, and by them deliuered to the vse of the poore of the parishe, and to whome the same hath bene deliuered?

21. Whether your Church or Chappell and Chancell, be sufficiently repayred & clenly kept, & the mansion house of your Parson and Vicar, with the buildings therevnto belonging, likewise sufficiently repayred, and your Churchyard well fenced and clenly kept, and if any of the same be ruinous and in decay, through whose default it is so? whether the Churchwardens of the last yeare were enioyned to haue repaired any part of the Church, or fenced the Churchyard, & did neglect to do the same?

22. Whether there be any Inkeepers, Alewiues, Vitailers, or tiplers, that suffer or do admit any person or persons in their houses to eate, drink, or play at cards, Tables, or such lyke games, in time of common praier or Sermon on the Sundaies and holydayes? and whether there be any shoppes open on Sundayes or holydayes, or there be any Butchers or others that vse to sell meate or other things in the tyme of common prayer, preaching, or reading of the Homelies? And whether in any Faires or common Markets falling vpon the Sunday, there be any showing of any wares before the diuine service be done in the forenoone?

23. Whether for the putting of the churchwardens and sworn men the better in remembrance of theyr dutie in obseruing & noting such as offend in not comming to diuine service, your Minister or reader do openly euery Sunday after he haue read the second lesson at Morning and euening prayer, monish & warne the Churchwardens & sworne men to looke to theyr charge in this behalfe, and to obserue who contrary to the sayde statute offende in absenting themselves negligently or wilfully from their parish Church or Chappell, or vnrueerently as is aforesayd, vse themselves in time of diuine service?

24. Whether the Churchwardens of the last yeare haue giuen to the parishe a iust account of the Church goods that were committed to their charge, and what church goods they haue solde, & to whome, and whether to the profit of the Church or no? And whether any person suppress the last wil of the dead and performe not legacies bequeathed to the Church, or to Orphanes, poore Maides mariages, high wayes, schooles, or any other godly vse?

25. Whether there be in your parish any that be malicious, contencious, or vncharitable persons, seeking the vniust vexation of their neighbours, scoldes, common swearers, or blasphemers of the name of god, any fornicatours, adulterers, incestous persons, bawdes, or receyuers of such incontinent persons, or harbourers of women with childe which be vnmarried, conueying or suffering them to go away before they haue done any penance, or make satisfaction to the congregation, or any persons that are vehemently suspected of such faults, or that be not of good name & fame, touching such crimes & fautes, any common drunkards, ribawds, or other notorious euil liuers?

26. Whether there be any that be married in degrees forbidden, or that haue married two wiues, or two husbands both liuing, or that liue not together with theyr wiues, and what be theyr names? any married that haue made precontracts, any that haue maryed without banes thrise solemnly asked, or that haue married fourth of their parish church wher they ought to haue solemnised mariage?

27. Whether there be any man or woman in your parish that vseth witchcraft, Sorcery, Charmes or vnlawfull prayer, or inuocations in Latine or English, or vpon any Christian body, or beast, or any that resorteth to the same for counsell or helpe, & what be their names?

28. Whether any person or persons within your parish haue committed vsury, contrary to an Act against Vsury, made in the xxxvii yeare of the raigne of the late King Henry the eight, and lately reuiued, and what are the names of such Vsurers? And what is the maner of their Vsury?

29. Whether the Scholmasters that teach in your parish either openly, or priuateli in any Gentlemans house or others, be of a good & sincere religion & conuersation, & be diligent in teaching of youth? whether they be examined, allowed, and licenced to teach by the Ordinarie or his deputie? and whether they teach the Catechisme allowed and commaunded by the now Archbishop of Caunterbury both in English and Latin vnto their scholars, according to their capacities, and what be their names?

30. Whether there be any among you that is a hinderer of true religion, or a fauourer of the romish power, or that stubbornly refuseth to come to the church, or to communicate, or otherwise will not conforme himselfe to vnite & godly religion, set forth by common authoritie, or any that wilfully or obstinately doth defend or maintain any heresies, errors, or false doctrine, contrary to the holy scriptures, and what be their names?

31. Whether in your churches and chappels all alters be vtterly taken downe and cleane remoued euen vnto the foundation, & the place where they stode paved, and the wall whereonto they ioyned, whited ouer, and made vniforme with the rest, so as no breach or rupture appeare? And whether your roode, lofts be taken downe and altered so, that the vpper parts thereof with the sollar or loft be quite taken down vnto the crosse beame, and that the said beame haue some conuenient crest put vpon the same?

32. Whether all and euery Antiphoners, masse bookes, grailes, portesses, processions, manualles, legendaries, and all others bookes of late belonging to your church or chappell, which serued for the superstitious latine service, be vtterly defaced, rent, and abolished, and if they be not, through whose default that is, and in whose keeping they remaine? And whither all vestmentes, albes, tunicles, stoles, phanons, pixes, paxes, handbells, sacringbells, censers, chrismatories, crosses, candlestickes, holy water stickes, ymages, and such other reliques & monumentes of superstition and idolatry be vtterly defaced, broken and destroyed? And if not, where, and in whose custody they remaine?

33. Whether there be any man or woman in your parish, that resorteth to any popish priest for shrift or auricular confession, or any other within three yeares nowe last past hath bene reconciled vnto the Pope, or to the church of Rome, or any that is reputed or suspected so to be? And whether ther be any that refuse to come to the church to hear diuine service, or to communicate according to the order now established by publique authoritie, and what be their names?

34. Whether there be any person or persons ecclesiastical or temporal within your parish or elsewhere within this diocese, that of late hath retyened or kept in their custody, or that reade, sell, vtter, disperse, cary, or deliuer to others any English bookes, set forth of late yeares at Louain, or in any other place beyond the seas, by Harding, Dorman, Allen, Sanders, Stapleton, Marshal, Bristow, or any of them, or by any other English papist, either against the Queenes maiesties supremacy in matters ecclesiastical, or against true religion, and catholique doctrin now receiued & established by common authoritie within this realme, and what their names and surnames are?

35. Whether your Hospitals, spittles, and almshouses be well & godly vsed according to the fundations and auncient ordinances of the same, whether ther be any other placed in them then poore impotent and needy persons, that haue not wherewith or whereby to liue.

36. Whether the Deanes, Rurales & Sumners, or any of them do pay annual rent fee or pension for their offices, and what they pay and to whom.

37. Howmany Adulteries, Incestes, and Fornications haue bene comitted within your Parishes or Chappellrie sence the feast of Easter 1577. How many offenders in those faultes haue bene put to open penance, and openlie corrected, and how many haue ben wincked at and borne withall, or haue fined and payed money to the Archdeacon, Chauncellor, Commissarye, Officiall, or theyr deputies, or to the Deanes, Registers, or Sumners, or any of them to escape open punishment and correction. And what theyr names and surnames be.

38. Whether the Archdeacon, commissarie, officiall deane, or any other vsinge ecclesiastical iurisdiction in this dioces, theyr Registers or actuaries, apparitors or Sumners, haue at any time wincked at, and suffered any adulteries fornications, incests, or other faultes or offences to passe and remaine unpunished and vncorrected for money, rewards, bribes, pleasure, friendship, or any other partial or affectionate respect, or any of them haue bene burdensome to any in this dioces, by exacting or taking excessiue fees, excessiue procurations, any rewardes, or commodities, or any other like wayes, or meanes.

39. Item, whether the Archdeacon hath any Sumner or apparitor that doth weekly finde out offenders and conuent them before the Archdeacon, and whether the Archdeacon do heare or determine any matter other than such as are presented by the church wardens and sworn men in his visitation holden yearly next after the feast of Easter, or do challenge the iurisdiction of a Bishop in his Archdeaconrie?

40. Whether any morice dauncers, rishe bearers, or any others haue come vnreuerently into the church or churchyard, and there daunced, or played any vnseemely part* * * any cryme or other disorder done in theyr tyme and haue not presented the same, and if so then what faults haue they so concealed, and what were the names of such churchwardens and sworne men concealing the same?

[The greater part of the page destroyed.]

45. Whe * * * * *

ticles, Preachings, Lectures, or readings contrarye to the lawe. And what be theyr names,

FINIS.

SQUIER, ARCHDEACON OF MIDDLESEX, 1582.

ARTICLES to be enquired of, by the Church Wardens and Swornemen within the Archdeaconrie of Middlesex: And the truth thereof to be by them upon their oathes certainly presented to M. Doctor Squier Archdeacon there or to his officialles, with particular aunswere to euery Article.

1582.

London.—Imprinted by John Wolfe, dwelling at the Signe of the Fox in Old Fishstreete neere the Signe of the Swanne.

ARTICLES to be enquired of, By The Churchwardens and Swornemen within the Archdeaconrie of Middlesex: and the truth thereof to be by them upon their oathes, certainly presented to M. Doctor Squier Archdeacon there, or to his officials, with particular aunswere to euery Article.

Anno Domini 1582.

First, whether Common-Prayer be said in your Church or Chappell vpon the Sondayes and Holye dayes at conuenient houres reuerently and distinctly in suche order, without anye kinde of alteration, as is appoynted by the Booke of Common-Prayer, and the Lawes of this Realme? and whether your Minister so tourne himselfe, and stand in such place of your Church or Chauncell, as the people may best heare the same? Whether the Holy Sacramentes be likewise ministred reuerently, in such manner as by the Lawes of this Realme is appoynted? And, whether vpon Wednesdays and Fridayes, not being Holy dayes, the Letany and other Prayers appoynted for the daye, be sayde accordingly, and the Excommunication against sinners, read thrise yearly?

2. Whether you haue in your Church or Chappell all thinges necessary and requisite for common prayer and administration of the Sacramentes, specially the Booke of Common Prayer with the new Kalender, two Psalters, the Englishe Bible in the largest volume, the two Tomes of the Homelies, the Paraphrasis of Erasmus translated into English, the Table of the Tenne Commaundements, the Table for the degrees of Matrimonie, a conuenient Pulpit well placed: a comely and decent Table standing on a frame, for the Holy Communion, with a fayre linnen cloth to laye vpon the same, and some coveringe of Silke, Buckerame, or other such like, for the cleane keeping therof, a fayre and comely Communion Cup of siluer and a couer of siluer for the same, a sure cofer wyth two lockes for the keeping of the Register Booke, and a strong Chest or box for the Almes of the poore?

3. Whether any person or persons bee admitted to aunswere as Godfathers or Godmothers at the Christening of any Childe, except he or she haue before receiued the Holy Communion, and can geue accompte of their Faith, and will recite the same before the Minister, if he or she be thereunto required?

4. Whether any person or persons, not beinge ordered at the least for a Deacon, do either say Common Prayer openly in your church, solemnize Matrimony, or administer the Sacrament of Baptisme, or delinier to the Communicantes the Lordes Cup, at the celebration of the Holye Communion, or doe burie the deade, or geue Thankes for Women after their Childbirth, and what he or they be that so doe?

5. Whether your Parson, Vicar, or Farmer of your Benefice, do cause any Curate to serue in your Church before hee be examined and admitted by the Ordinarie, or his Deputie in writing, and your Minister haue his sufficient letter of Orders or no?

6. Whether your Minister or you haue suffred any Interludes to bee played in your Churche or Chappell, where Gods Word and Prayer are to be vsed, or there be any in your Parish that doth violate or breake the Lordes Day by any kinde of worke or pastime whatsoever, or any Minstrels that vse anye playinge vpon their Instrumentes in your Churche or Chappell, or your Churchyard, or other that hath made any fray, or vsed any brawlinge or vnseemely noyse there, or any that vse any Dauncinge or other kinde of vayne pastime in the foresaide places at any time. And whether ther be any Dauncing, Riffing, or gameplaying, or any bodily labour, as ploughing, carting, or any handie crafte vsed in your Parish vpon the solemne Feastes, or Festiuall dayes?

7. Whether the people of your Parish, especially householders hauing no lawfull excuse to bee absente, do faithfullye and diligentlye endeavour themselues to resort with their children and seruantes to their Parishes Church or Chappell on the Holy dayes, and chiefly vpon the Sondayes to Morninge and Eueninge Prayer, and vpon reasonable let thereof, to some vsual place where Common Prayer is vsed, and then and there abide orderly, and soberlye, during the time of Common Prayer, Homelies, Preachings, and other Service of Gods word there vsed, reuerently and deuoutly giuinge themselues to the hearing thereof, and who they be that either negligentlye or willfully absente themselues, or come very late to Church vpon the Sondayes especiallye, or that walke, talke, or otherwise vnreuerently behaue themselues in the Church, or vse any gaminge abroade or in anye house, or sitte in the streates or churchyarde, or in anie Tauerne, or Alehouse vpon the Sunday or other Holy day, in the time of Common Prayer, Sermons or reading of the Homilies, either before noone or after noone, or els resorte to Faires, Playes, or games, in the same time?

8. Whether the forfeiture of twelue pence for euery suche offence appoynted by a Statute made in the first yeare of the Queenes Maiesties raigne be leuied, and taken by the Church Wardens of euerye person that offendeth, and by them bee put to the vse of the poore of the Parish, and if it bee not, by whose default it is not leuied, and what particular sommes of money haue bene forfayted that way, and by whome since the Annuntiation of our Lady in the year of our Lord 1581, vntill the day of geing vp the presentment concerninge these articles, and to whome such forfeitures haue benee deliuered?

9. Whether there bee anye Innekeepers, Alewies, Vittaylers, or Tiplers that suffer or admit anye person or persons in their houses to eate or drinke, or play at Cards, Tables or such like games in time of Common Prayer or Sermon on Sondayes or Holy dayes, and whether there bee anye shoppes open on Sondayes or Holy dayes, or anye Butchers or others that commonly vse to sell meate or other thinges in the tyme of Common Prayer, Preaching, or readinge of the Homilies. And whether in any Faires or common markets falling vpon the Holy dayes, there be any shewing of any wares before the deuine service be done.

10. Whether the putting of the Churchwardens and swornemen the better in remembrance of their duetie in obseruing and noting such as offende in not comming to diuine seruice, your Minister doe openly euerie Sonday, after he haue read the second Lesson at Morning and Euening Prayer, monishe and warne the Churchwardens and Swornemen to looke to their charge in this behalfe, and to obserue who contrarie to the saide Statute, offende in absenting themselues from their Parish Church, or vnreuerently as is aforesaide vse themselues in the tyme of diuine seruice?

11. Whether your Minister do exercise himselfe in godlye studie of Holy Scriptures, and vertuous bringing up of youth, as in teaching of the Catechisme lastlye setfoorth by authoritie, and other godlye exercises from time to time?

12. Whether your Minister do at the least euerie Sonday and Holy day, openly in the Church cal for, heare and instruct, all the Children, Apprentises and seruantes of both the sexes, that be of conuenient age within your Parish, or at the least so many of them, as the time will serue, and as he may well heare and instruct, for halfe an houre at the least before, or at the Euening Prayer, in the X. Commaundementes, the Articles of the beleefe, and the Lordes Prayer, and diligently examine and teach them the said Catechisme?

13. Whether all Fathers, Mothers, Maisters and Dames of your Pariske, cause their Children, Seruauntes, and Apprentises, both mankinde and womankinde, beinge aboue sixe yeares of age, to come to the Church on the Sondays and Holye dayes, at the time to them appoynted, or at the least such and so many of them as your Minister shall appoint, and obediently to heare and be ordered by the Minister vntill suche tyme as they haue learned the same Catechisme? And what be the names of these that doe not cause their Children, Seruauntes, and Apprentises so to come to the Church to be instructed and examined? And how many of the said Children, Seruants, and Apprentises be in your Parish, which beinge aboue seauen yeares olde, doe not aunswere to the sayde Catechisme, and what be their names and age, and wyth whom they dwell? And whether do you which are the Church Wardens diligently obserue the offenders in the premisses, that you may quarterly make true presentment of them?

14. Whether your Minister, or any man or woman in your Parish doe willfully maintaine or defende any Heresie, false opinions, Popishe errors contrarie to the lawes of Almighty God, and true doctrine, by publike authoritie in thys Realme now setfoorth? And whether any keepe any Festes, or secret Conuenticles, contrarie to the Lawes, or any within your Parish be suspected to be Papistes, Anabaptistes, Libertines, or of the detestable secte of the Familie of Loue, or of any other notable heresie, and what be their names?

15. Whether doth your Parson, Vicar, Curate, or Minister keepe any suspected woman in hys house, or be an incontinent person, geuen to dronkennes, idlenes, or be a haunter of Tauerne, Alehouses, or suspected places, or be a Hunter, Hawker, Dicer, Carder, Tabler, Swearer, False dissembler, or otherwise suspected of any notorious crime, or giue any euill example of life?

16. Whether your Church be voide of an Incumbent, how long it hath bene so voide, by whome, and at whose order the fruites are gathered, and bestowed, by whome and at whose appointmente the cure is serued?

17. Whether your Minister vse to praye for the Queenes moste excellent Maiestie (Queene Elizabeth) in your Church; and whether hee exhorte the people to obedience of her Highnes, and other Magistrates beinge in authoritie vnder her, or no?

18. Whether your Parson or Vicar hath preached or caused to be preached in your Church his quarterly or monethly Sermons, as by the Queenes Iniuctions hee is bounde, and what be the names of him or them, that so did preache, and whether hee admitted any to preach, not beinge lawfully licenced, or haue letted or inhibited those that were licenced, and whether if there be no Sermon, your Minister doe reade euerie Sonday distinctly and plainly some part of the Homelies appointed by the Queenes authoritie to be read? And whether doth he Quarterly read the Iniuctions?

19. Whether your Parson, Vicar, or Curate, haue publicly, or secretly taught any doctrine tendinge to the discredit of the receiued order, for gouernemente or publike Prayer, in the Church, or make any inuocation? and whether they haue permitted any man so teaching or making any such inuocation, who they be and what be their names, that so did teach?

20. Whether your Parson, Vicar, or Curate, after the Gospell, haue read openly in your Church twice this yeare plainly without addition or change the declaration of certain principall Articles of Religion set forth by both the Archbishops and the Bishops of this Realme, for vntie of doctrine, beinge appointed to be read vpon some Sonday within one moneth next after Michaelmas and Easter yearely?

21. Whether your Minister hath admitted to the receiuing of the holy Communion any open and notorious sinner or euill lier, by whome the Congregation is offended, or anye malicious person that is out of charitie, or that hath done any open wrong to his neighbors, by woord or deede, without due penance, first done, or reconciliation had to the satisfaction of the congregation?

22. Whether your Minister hath admitted to the holy Communion any of his Parish either mankinde or womankinde, that cannot say by hart the X. Commaundementes, the Articles of the Faith, and the Lordes Prayer, and that cannot say by hart the Catechisme authorized, or are not diligente to learne, to render a reason of their Faith, and whether he marry any persons which were single before, that cannot say the sayde Catechisme, and whether he vseth to examine hys Parishners at conueniente times, to the extent he may know whether they can say the same which is required, and whether there be any that do refuse so to be examined or no?

23. Whether there bee any in your Parish man or woman beinge of conuenient age, that hath not receiued, the holy Communion thrise at the least this last yeare, and namely at Easter last or there about, and what their names are? And whether yearely before Easter or at such conueniente times as your Minister shall thinke meete, and require hys Parishioners to recite vnto hym the Catechisme by harte in Englishe, if any doe willfully and stubbornly refuse to recite the same, the Church Wardens and Swornemen or any of them doe assiste and aide the Minister therein, that such stubberne persons maye be rebuked and repelled, from the Communion at that time?

24. Whether there bee in your Parish any that are known or suspected to be malicious, contentious, or vncharitable persons, anye swearer, or blasphemers of the name of God, anye fornicators, adulterers, incestuous persons, baudes, or anye that receiue such incontinent persons, or anye that harbor women with child which be vnmarried, conueying or sufferinge them to goe awaye before they haue done anye penance, or make satisfaction to the Congregation, or any persons that are vehemently suspected of any of these or suche like faultes, or that bee not of good name and fame touching such crimes, whether there bee in your Parish any dronkardes, common slaundersers of their neighbors, raylers, skoldes, or sowers of discorde betwene neighbors, either baudes, or any other euill or suspected liuers of incontinent life, who they be?

25. Whether the Schoolemasters or Schoolemistresses that teach in your Pariske, either openly or priuately in anye gentlemans house or others bee of good and sincere Religion and conuersation, and bee diligent in the teachinge of youth in the Catechisme lastly set forth by authoritie, as also in other godlye and necessary documents of learning, whether they be examined, allowed and licenced to teach by the Ordinary or his deputie, and what be their names that be not licenced?

26. Whether there be any that be married in degrees forbidden, or that haue married two wiues or two husbands both liuing, or that liue not together with their wiues, and what be their names?

27. Whether there bee anye man or woman in your Parish that vseth witchcraft, coniuring, southsaying, charmes, or vnlawfull Prayers or inuocations in Latin or English for or vpon any Christian bodie, or beast, and what be their names, or any that do go or seeke for helpe at such sorcerers handes?

28. Whether you doe know, or haue heard say, that within your Pariske there is, or are any person or persons notoriously knowen or suspected, to offend contrary to the Statute made in the seauen and thirtie yeare of the raigne of King Henrye the eight for reformation of vsurie, and requied by an Acte made in the thirteenth yeare of the raigne of the Queenes Maiestie?

29. Whether your Minister do Church any vnmarried women, after they haue been deliuered of their children begotten vnlawfully, before they haue acknowledged their faultes openly, according to the order prescribed by the Ordinarie or his deputie?

30. Whether your Fontes or Baptisteries bee remooued from the place where they were wonte to stande, or any persons leauinge the vse of them, doe Christen or Baptize in Basons, or other prophane vessels, not accustomed vsed in the Church before time? And whether any Christen without Godfathers and Godmothers, or after any other order then is prescribed, by the booke of Common Prayer?

31. Whether your Church, Chappel, or Chauncell, and euerie parte thereof be all in good and sufficient reparations, and cleanly kepte, and the mansion house of your Parson and Vicar with the buildings thereunto belonging, likewise repaired, and your Churchyard well fenced and cleanly kepte, and if any of the same bee ruinous and in decay, thorow whose default it is so? And whether the Church Wardens of the laste yeare were enioyned to have repaired any part of the Church or fenced the Church yard and did neglect to do the same?

32. Whether the Church Wardens of the laste yeare haue geuen to the Parish a iust accompt of the Church goodes, that were committed to their charge, and what Church goods they haue sold, and whether to the profite of the Church or no, or anye that doe witholde anye stocke or money belonginge to the Church? And whether anye person suppresses the last will of the deade, and performe not Legacies bequeathed to the Church or to Orphanes, poore maides marriages, high wayes, schooles, or any other godly vse?

33. Whether when any christian body is passinge, the Bell be tolled, especially in great Townes where they be nere the Church or Chappell, so that the people maye bee moued thereby to praye for the sicke person, and whether there bee any other vaine ringing but one short peale before the buriall and an other after?

34. Whether your Minister doe keepe well and orderly your Register booke of Weddinges, Christeninges, and Burialles within your Parish, and doe present a copie of them once euerie yeare, by Indenture to the Ordinarie or his Officers?

35. Whether there bee within your Parish any euill disposed persons which haue by anye meanes vnreuerently abused your Minister, either by worde or deede?

36. Whether there bee any within your Parish, that haue been presented as offenders heretofore, which haue not done their pennance prescribed vnto them, or that stand willfullie excommunicated, and who they be?

37. Whether you know or have heard that the Church Wardens and Sworne men of your Parish the last yeare haue left any person or persons punishable for any offence by the Lawes Ecclesiastical vnresented, whereby they haue escaped vnreformed, and by whose default, and what are the parties names that haue so offended, and wherein haue they offended?

38. Finally, whether you know or understand of any other matter or cause Ecclesiastical woorthy of presentment, herein not expressed, and you shall present the same?

FINIS.

INJUNCTIONS OF MIDDLETON, BISHOP OF ST. DAVIDS, 1583.

[Title wanting.]

INJUNCTIONS to bee obserued and kept, within the Dioces of Saincte Dauides, exhibited in the Visitation, of the right Reuerend Father in God, Marmaduke Bishop of Saincte Dauides aforesaid, in the 25 yere of the reigne of our moste gracious souereigne Ladie Elizabeth by the grace of God Quene of Englande &c.

Because I vnderstande, there is vsed in moste partes of my Dioces, an infinite number of Popishe Ceremonies and other thynges, contrarie to the Lawes of God, and the Quenes maiesties moste godlie procedynges: I thought good, for the auoiding of the same to sette doune these Injunctions following: Requiryng you, and euery of you (for that it tendeth to the glorie of almightie God and the benefite of those people committed to my charge) to haue a speciall care, within the limites of your charge, for the speedie obseruation, and fulfilling of the same: In doing whereof, you shall not onely obeie Gods Commaundementes, obserue her highnesse lawes, and discharge your owne dueties. But shall also greatly benefite the common weale, increase true Religion, and maintaine the Countrie in all vertue and godlinesse; where heretofore it hath been (for the moste parte) trained vp in erroneous opinions, Idolitrous amitie, and wicked Superstition.

INJUNCTIONS to be obserued, aswell of the Cleargie, as Laitie; within the Dioces of Sainct Davies, &c.

First, whereas heretofore in sondrie places, it hath been a foolish vse emongest a sort of ignorant, blinde Priestes and Ministers, that at the sayyng of these woordes, immediatly goyng before the distribution of the Sacramental Bread and Wine: Who in the same night he was betraied, tooke bread, and when he had giuen thanks, &c. Likewise after supper he tooke the cup &c. Thei would take the bread and wine in their handes, lift it vp and shewe it vnto the people: whereupon hath ensued horrible Idolatryes, and religious adoration of the Sacramentes them selues, or rather of the bread and wine, as by kneelyng, knockyng of the breast, lifyng vp of handes, cloyng of their eyes, with the finger and the thombe. For the auoidyng whereof it is decreed, that no Person, Vicare, or Curate, whatsoeuer, hereafter shall handle, lifte vp, or shewe vnto the people, the bread and wine, but shall let it lie still vpon the Table, vntill the distribution thereof, and then to breake it, receiue it hymself, and distribute it vnto others, accordyng to the orders of the booke, without any addition or detraction.

2. Item, for the better edefiying and hearyng of the people in the ordinarie seruice, the Minister shall alwaies stande, either in the bodie of the Church, or at the least, in the lower ende of the Chauncell, (where commonly the seate of the Minister is) with his face alwaies tourned doune vnto the people, and thence reuerently, distinctly, and with a loude voice, reade the saied seruice.

3. Item, that no notorious offendour, wrong doer, malicious persone, Infant vnder fourtene yeres of age, Idiot, Frenckie, or others, ignorant of the principles of the Christian religion, and the doctrine of the Sacramentes, shalbe admitted by any Minister to communicate.

4. Item, that there bee no recourse by the Minister, to the Communion Table, to saie any parte of seruice there, sayyng onely when there is a Communion to bee ministred: for it doeth retaine a memorie, of the Idolatrous Masse: For the auoidyng whereof, all the seruice shalbe saied by the Minister, in his owne seate or Pulpit, with his face turned doune towards the people: sayyng that when there is any thyng extraordinarily to be dona: as Baptisme, Buriall, Mariage, or thanks giuyng for women deliuered: then he maie vse the accustomed place thereof.

5. Item, that there be no Linnen cloth laid vpon the Communion Table, sayyng that when there is a Communion to be ministred.

6. Item, when there is a Communion to be ministred, that the Communion Table bee placed at the lower ende of the Chauncell, as nere vnto the people as maie bee conuenient, and when the Ministration is doen, remoue it to the vpper end of the saied Chauncell.

7. Item, that when there is a Communion, that al the people whiche will not communicate beyng called thereto, be commaunded to departe for that tyme out of the Church: after the generall confession made, in the name of the communicantes, and if any be so stubborne, that thei will no departe, then the Minister to proceede no further in the Communion, but in the next consistorie courte, complaine of them, as interrupters and troublers of Gods diuine seruice.

8. Item, that no Minister, doo presume to minister any more Communion but onely one, in one Church in one daie.

9. Item, that there bee no Communion ministred in any Church, or otherwise priuate, excepte there bee at the leaste, thre for euery score communicantes that bee in the Parishe, to communicate with the Minister.

10. Item, that none be admitted to receiue the holy Communion, but suche as the Minister (by due examination) shall knowe, can perfectly saie the Articles of their faith, the ten Commaundementes, and the Lordes Praier, at the least, yea the yonger sort must saie the whole Catechisme.

11. Item, that euery man and woman doe receiue the holie Communion thre in euery yere at the least.

12. Item, that no Minister doe admitt any of an other Parishe, to communicate in his Parishe Church.

Baptisme.

First, hat no laie man or woman doe presume to minister Baptisme, but (if the child be weake) that thei sende for the Minister of the Parishe, and the Midwife not to meddle with it at all, otherwise then is in the booke of Common Praier.

2. Item, (to take awaie Superstition) the Minister shall not dippe the childe that is to bee baptised in water, but once onely, and that discreetly, or els poore water vpon hym, once onely, in the name of the Father, the Sonne, and of the holie Ghost.

3. Item, that no Minister or Priest, doe put on, or suffer others to put on the childes head that is baptised, the Chrisom (as it is superstitiously called) wherein hath beene greate superstition, and yet is in sondrie places.

4. Item, that none be admitted to be Gossippes which bee vnder 14 yeres of age, and thei to make an open confession at the Font, of the Articles of their faith, yea, the yonger sorte must saie the whole Catechisme.

5. Item, that the father of the childe that is to bee baptised, be present at the baptizing of his said childe, during the whole action of Baptisme.

6. Item, that the Minister shall not meete and receiue the childe that is to be baptised, at the Churche doore or Porche, nor shall there saie any peece of Seruice for that purpose, whiche heretofore superstitiously hath been vsed.

7. Item, the Minister shall not suffer the suerties or Gossippes, to put their handes vpon the head of the childe, immediatly after it is named, and baptised, as if there were some vertue or hidden misterie therein.

Buriall.

First, that there bee no Crosses of wood made and erected in sundrie places, where thei vse to rest with the corpses: and especially that no wooden Crosses, be set vpon the Crosse in the Church yarde, or vpon, or about his graue.

2. Item, that the Clark nor his deputie, do carie about the Towne, a little bell called the Sainctes bell before the Buriall, after the vse of Popishe superstition.

3. Item, that there be no offerynges at Burialles, whether directly or indirectly: their Monethes mindes, or twelue Monethes mindes, as sustperstitiously (sic) thei haue been termed and vsed.

4. Item, that there bee no praiers made for the dead, either in the house or vpon the waie, or els where: whiche thyng superstitiously hath been frequented and tollerated by the Ministers.

5. Item, that the Clarke and one or twoo with hym at the most, shall cast the earth vpon the corpses, and none but thei.

6. Item, that there bee no Candles vsed vpon the corpses, whilst it is in the Churche.

7. Item, that no Ministers, when thei resorte to Burialles, to any other Churches then their owne, shall weare any Surplesse, or suche like attire more then vsuall.

8. Item, that there be no ringyng of Belles at Burialles, sauing one shorte peale before the Buriall, and an other after.

¶ At the thankes giuyng for the deliuerance of Women.

First, the Minister shall not meete the Woman at the Church doore, or Porche, there takyng her by the hand, and leadyng her into the Churche, mumblyng to hym self I knowe not what, and that namely in Latine, as heretofore amongst them hath been vsed.

2. Item, that the Midwife goe not before the woman, that is to yeeld her thanks into the Church, and so vp to the Communion Table: for these two foolishhe and superstitious customes, the one by the Priest, and the other by the Midwife hath bredd and hatched, aswell superstitious tearmes, as also act of Churchyng of women: as if for that conceiuyng and bringyng a childe into the worlde (and that in lawfull Wedlock) a woman should be vnclene and prophane.

3. Item, that the woman that is to giue her thanks, either els the Midwife, shall not kisse the Communion Table, when thei offer the accustomed duties.

Item, that Images, Pictures, and al Monumentes of fained miracles, aswell in walles, as in glasse windowes, be defaced, and namely the Image of the Crucifixe, and the two Marias in the Chauncell windowes.

2. Item, that the Paraphrase maie bee provided in euery Churche, or rather Bullingers Decadies in Englishe, for it is muche more profitable.

3. Item, that the quarter Sermons maie be provided for: [and none to be preached but by those appointed by me.]*

4. Item, that the Ministers shall buy for their studie in Deuinitie, all suche Bookes as shall concerne the same, and bee nominated by me: and that within two monethes after the denomination and receipt of these Iniunctions.

5. Item, that Alters and Roodloftes, may be pulled doune and vtterly defaced, and the timber thereof, either solde, or els put to some good vses: for as yet, thei stand in most churches little or nothyng blemished.

6. Item, that the Lordes daie, and other lawfull Holidiaes be spent in the diuine seruice of almightie God, and that olde superstitious holidiaes, bee iustly abrogated and put doune: yet, bidden to be obserued by the Minister in the Churches.

7. Item, that the twelue pence forfeited for absence from the Church, be leuied and taken accordyng to the Statutes.

8. Item, that no Ministers receiue common Whores and wicked women, to giue their thankes aswell as honest Women, without first thei bee examined by the Ordinarie, and allowed therevnto vnder his seale.

9. Item, that the Minister dooe vsually teache the Catechisme, to the youthe of their Parishes, whiche now is altogether neglected.

10. Item, that the Minister shall reade the Queenes Maiesties Iniunctions, openly to their Parishioners, fower tymes in the yere at the least, and that thei (vsually in the Rogation weeke) doe by perambulation, compasse in the vttermost boundes of their Parish.

11. Item, that no Minister shall plaie at Dice, Cardes, Tables, Boules, or any other vnlawfull game.

12. Item, that no Minister shall sell any Ale, or Beere, or keepe any victuallying house, or haunte any other Alehouse or Tauerne.

13. Item, that the Minister solemnise no Matrimonie in priuate houses, Gardins, prophane Chappelles, or in any other place, otherwise then the lawe doeth permit them.

14. Item, that the Minister dooe weare suche decent and comely apparell, as dooeth belong to their vocation, and (so many as be able) to prouide clokes with sleeues.

15. Item, that euery Parson, or Vicare, be resident vpon his benefice, or otherwise (hauyng a sufficient Dispensation) doe substitute a fitt persone in the place, allowed by the Ordinarie, and the same to be alwaies there resident.

16. Item, that euery Parson, Vicar, or Curate doe from tyme to tyme, vse good persuasions, to all their Parishioners, liyng on their death beddes, to giue by their Testament, or otherwise, some thyng towards the reparyng of the decaied Chuche (sic) of Sainct Dauides.

17. Item, that no Parson, Vicar, or Curate, doe Marrie any persone within the degrees prohibited nor that haue any more wiues, or housbandes then one.

18. Item, that the Churchwardens of euery Parishes, haue an especiall care, that no Curate bee permitted, to serue in their Parishes, except he doe first shewe vnto them, his licence from the Ordinarie so to doe, and thei to keepe the same safely, for their owne discharge.

These Iniunctions aboue written, and euery part and percell of them, I straightly charge and commaunde euery man (to whom thei doe appertain) fullie to obserue, maintain, and keepe, vpon paine of the Lawes, for that cause made and prouided.

FINIS.

[The following article is added in MS. on the last leaf:—

Item that the parson, vicare, curat and the Churche wardins, and every of them, doe permitt no corpses to be buried within theire parroche Churche or Chapell (for that by their generall burienge there greate infection doeth ensue) except those of the beste sorte of the parroche, and they to paie x<sup>s</sup> towards the repayringe of the Church or Chapell to the handes of the Church wardins there, and they to be accomptable for the same.]

ARTICLES OF OVERTON, BISHOP OF LICHFIELD, 1584.

ARTICLES to be inquired of in the Ordinarie Vistation of the right reuerende Father in God, William Lorde Bishop of Couentrie and Lichfelde, diligently to be considered of as well by Ministers, as Churchwardens and Swornemen, and aduisedly to be answered particularly to euerie point, by either of them seuerally in writing, at the Visitation to bee holden by the saide reuerend Father, or his Officers.

Imprinted at London for William Brome.

ARTICLES to be inquired of in the ordinary visitation of the right reverend Father in God, William Lord Bishop of Couentrie and Lichfield, holden Anno 1584, diligently to be considered of, as well by the Ministers, as Church-wardens and sworne men, and aduisedly to be answered particularly to eue (sic) point, by eyther of them seuerally in writing, at the Visitation holden by the saide reuerende Father or his Officers.

Inprimis, whether the Church of your Parish be now vacant and destitute of an incumbent: how long it hath so remained: whether any sequestration be granted of the Fruits, to whom, and by whom? If it haue an incumbent, what his name is, of what bringing vp and degree in Schooles? What the valure (sic) of the liuyng is in the Queenes bookes? who is the patrone by right or aduouson? Whether he hath anie mo benefices, or Ecclesiastical promotions, how many, and where? If he lie not in his Benefice, to whome he letteth his Tythes, for what yeerly commoditie, the ordinarie charges deducted? Whether the Curate be orderly and lawfully admitted vpon due trial and examination of his sufficiencie and honestie vnder the Seale of Office?

* Added in MS.

2. Whether Common Praier be distinctly and audibly read within the Parishes, and the Sacramentes reuerently and orderly administered and whether for the better performance of them you haue a booke of Common praier, two Psalters, the English Bible, the Homilies, the Paraphrases of Erasmus in English, the table of the ten Commaundementes, a comely Table standing vpon a frame for the holy Communion decently couered, and a conuenient Communion cup, with a couer of siluer, and a seemlie and decent Pulpit.

3. Whether your Altars, Roodloftes, and other Monumentes of superstition bee cleane defaced and taken away, and whether Massebookes, Portases, or any superstitious Legendaries, Vestiments, Crosses, Images, or any other Reliques or Monumentes of Idolatrie, be either knowne or suspected to remaine in any mans handes, and in whose, or what you know are become of those which you had?

4. Whether your Parson, Vicar, or Curate, be a painfull, zelous, and diligent preacher: at the least whether he doth procure quarterly or monethly Sermons according to the Queenes Iniuuctions, especially vpon such daies as the holy Communion shalbe ministred for the better enstruction and preparation towards that action: And whether he doth duely and orderly according to the said Iniuuctions, Catechise euery Sunday with exposition of the same, for the better instruction of the youth of the parish, and Christian enformation of other the hearers, and whether such as are to be Catechised attend orderly at the time to be instructed, or who they be that make default or shew themselues obstinate therein. And whether your Minister doth carefully repaire to visite the sick of your Parishes for their spirituall comforte, and willingly attend hys charge in those extremities. And further where hee doth conferre with his Parishioners, especially such as he knoweth not thoroughly grounded in the way and knowledge of their saluation, for their better instruction before they repaire to the holy Communion. And if anye refuse thys necessary conference offered by the minister, not only to stay them from receiuing, but also to present what bee their names with their causes pretended?

5. Whether your Minister doth admit any to the Communion: or to be married, or to answer for Infantes in Bapisme, being not sufficiently Catechised and able to yeald an accompt of their christian faith, that whome conscience will not allure almost once to thinke sereously of the meanes of their saluation, yet other extraordinary occasions maye driue for shame to some knowledge of Christianitie.

6. Whether any Officer for fauour, feare, or corruption, hath so qualified or dispensed with any publicke or notorious sinne, that the offenders hath bene restored to the Congregation and Sacraments, without christian publicke satisfaction, howe many haue bene presented heretofore, and how their causes haue bene ended, and for what cause the Minister without christian publicke satisfaction, hath admitted any to the christian participation of praiers and sacramentes. And whether any Officer, Archdeacon or Official haue delt with anye commutation of penance, and what bee their names, whose penances by them haue bene commuted, for what sinne, and how it hath bene vsed or employed?

7. Whether your Minister or any other of your Parishes be knowne or suspected as fauourers of the Romish Church, superioritie, or religion. And whether anye runnagate Jesuites, or counterfaite Massing Priestes, going not according to the order of their professions, are knowen or suspected to frequent or haunt to any person or persons within your Parishes, sometime for a shift to lye or lurke with them: and whether they or any Scholemaister, or any other pretending the name of a seruant, are suspected to allure and perswade any within your parishes from the true sinceritie of the Gospell, now by publicke authoritie established to the vsing of Mattins, Beades, and suche other vaine Popishe frish trashe: or of any vnlawfull Popishe bookes: And whether anye be reputed or suspected to be reconciled to the Church of Rome within your Parish, and what be their names? And whether you know or haue heard of any sometime in orders, that now do liue as lay men?

8. Whether any of your Parishes doe altogether absent themselues from deuine seruice, or do seldome or negligently come to the Church, or doe not continue there without disturbance of the Minister and Congregation, not departing thence but vpon some iust and lawfull cause: And whether any of your Parishioners doe not receiue the Communion at the least thrise in the yeare, according to her Maiesties lawes. And whether any hauing diuers houses of remoue, doe shifte from place to place, in colour to defeate the performance of the Christian duties in those behalves, what they be, and the names of euery of the familie that doth the like. And whether the particuler twelue pence be leuied according to the Statute?

9. Whether anye within your parishes, haue anye of their kindred or kinsfolke beyond the Seas, what be their names, and howe long they haue continued out of the realme, and what by hearesay, or in conscience you iudge ther affection to be in religion: Or whether any are knowne or suspected to relieue any such?

10. Whether your Minister keep any suspected woman in his house or be geuen to dronkenesse, idlenesse, or be a haunter of Tauerns, Alehouses, or other suspected place, or be Hunters, Hawkers, Dicers, Carders, Tablers, Swearers, or any wayes geue any euill example of life, or vnseemly apparell, to the offence of others, and discredite of their calling. And whether they be reported or suspected to haue come by their Benefice, or other Ecclesiasticall promotions Simonically, directly or indirectly?

11. Whether there belong anye glebe landes to your Parsonage or Vicarage, and how many severall parcelles there be, and howe muche they containe by estimation, whether any be alienated, exchanged, or encroched vpon to the decay of the liuing? And whether your Chansell and Parsonage houses be in good and sufficient reparations, and whether your Church be in euery partie so maintained as were conuenient. And whether your Churchyardes be thoroughly fenced about and clenly kept, and who is the cause of anye of these defaultes. And whether any Patrones haue decayed the Parsonage houses, and keep a Stipendarie Priest in place, where an Incumbent should be possessed?

12. Whether your Minister keepe well their Registers of all Weddinges, Burialles, and Christninges within your Parishes, according to the Queenes Iniuuctions, and doe present a Copie of them once euery yeare by Indenture, to the Chauncellor, or his Deputie, to remaine of recorde in the principall Office.

13. Whether any within your Parish administer the goods of those that bee dead without lawfull authoritie: Or any are suspected to haue suppressed or altered the last wil of the dead, or any Executors that haue not fulfilled the Testators will, especially in performing of Legacies geuen to other good vses, or maintenance of the poore.

14. Whether you haue a Schoolemaister in your Parishes and whether your Schoolemaister teaching publickly or priuately bee of good and sincere religion and conuersation, and whether they be examined and allowed by the Ordenarie or his Officer in that behalfe. And whether any liuing giuen towards the erection or maintenance of any schoole, be withholden backe or otherwise any waies employed.

15. Whether any haue pulled down or discouered any church, chansell or Chappell, Porche, Vestrie, Steeple, Almehouse, Belles, or anye part of them, or felled Wood or Timber in the churchyarde. And whether your Hospitalles, Spittelles, or Almehouses be well and godly vsed and maintained according to the foundation and auncient ordinaunces of the same?

16. Whether any entertainment bee geuen, or gaming vsed in anye Innes or Alehouses, or other Victualers in time of deuine Seruice or Sermons: Or whether any Butchers, Victualers, Pedlers, or anye other Artificers, in time of common prayer or Sermon, open their shops or wares: And whether your Minister customably remembreth your Churchwardens and Swornemen, to attend their charge in suche behalfe.

17. Whether your church goods, stockes, or rentes be let to the best commodite, and for such vses as they were first ment, or now are to be employed and conuerted, no other waies. Or whether the same bee encreased or decayed, by what meanes, who being churchwardens, whether any are behinde with making their accomptes, or be thought not to haue made a true, perfect, and sufficient accompt, what landes or stocks should be or yet remaine?

18. Whether any within your Parishes be suspected to vse Sorcerie, Witchcraft, Charmes, vnlawfull Prayers, or Inuocations in Latin or English: namely, Midwiues in time of womens trauaile with childe: and who resort to such for helpe or counsaile?

19. Whether the Minister or Churchwardens haue suffered anye Lordes of Misrule, or Sommer Lordes or Ladies, or anye disguised persons, or Morisedancers, or others at Christmas, or any time in sommer to come vnreuerently pyping, dauncing, or playing in church or churchyarde, with vnseemly scoffes, iestes, ribauldrie, or at any other place and time, namely in time of deuine Seruice, or Sermons, and what they be that commit such disorders, or accompanie, or maintaine them?

20. Whether any of your parish haue bene married within the degrees of affinitie, and consanguinitie forbidden by the lawes of God, and whether for the better knowledge and direction of those degrees, you haue the Table drawne out to that ende, affixed publicly in your Parische Church: And whether any diuersed or separated for marrying within those degrees, be notwithstanding conversant and keep company together: Whether any man be suspected to haue two wiues, anye woman two husbandes, any married after a former precontract: any priuy or secret contractes without consent of Parentes, Tutors, or Gouvernors: or any married without Banes thirse solemly asked: or out of your Parish where one of them at the least doth inhabite. And whether any married liue apart, and not continue together according to the lawes of god and the realme. What licences to marry haue bene graunted since the death of the last Bishop, the Ministers shall exhibite to vs or our Officers at the Visitation.

21. Whether any of your Parish be known, defamed, or vehemently suspected of any notorious sinne, fault, or crime, as of Vserie, swearing Adulterie, Fornication, Incest, Baudrie, Drunkenesse, Ribaldrie, Slauderage, Contention, sowing of discorde betweene neighbours, priue receiuing women vnlawfully begotten with childe, or suffering them to depart before publicke satisfaction made to the Congregation (sic)? Or whether there be any fighters, Quarrellers, Brawlers, or Chiders in the Church or Church-ward, anye Scoffers, Rimers, or diriders of Ministers, or any that lay violent handes on them, or any of them, or otherwise abuse them?

All and euery of the particulers of the premises you are diligently to enquire of, and as well the ministers seuerally, as the Churchwardens and Sidemen, ioyntly to present the defaultes of euery of them in writing subscribed with their names. And generally whatsoever breaches and offences els they shall know or heare committed against anye of the Queenes Majesties Injunctions, or anye of the Ecclesiasticall Lawes of this Realme.

CERTAINE aduertisementes, for a continval order to be observed inuolably without any alteration touching the pointes following, within the Diocesse of Couentrie and Lichfield.

Inprimis, for that the want of a sufficient Ministerie is not onely the Nurse of Ignorance and Popery, but also the cause of all Atheisme, disobedience, and dissolutenesse of life: And the corruption of Patrons, aboundeth to the great decay of the sufficient maintenance of Ministers, this setted order is set down to preuent either inconuenience (sic) whereof all Patrones together with such as are to be presented to Benefices, hereby without further intimation are to take knowledge within this Diocease of Couentrie and Lichfield, vz.

That whosoever shall hereafter bee presented to any Benefice, shall attend for his publicke examination the first day of euery moneth only, openly in the consistorie at Lichfield, betweene the houres of eight and eleuen (if it be not a Sunday or Holiday) then the next daie following, where the reuerende Father in God the now Lord Bishop in person, or the Chauncellor at the least, or the Chauncelors Deputie giuing attendance, and calling for their assistance foure other Preachers at the least, shall and will cause the gifts and learning of the partie presented to bee thoroughly examined, and presently vpon conference betweene them of his sufficiencie, to set their Iudgements downe solemly in a booke made and kept for that purpose, to notifie their allowance, or disallowance. And for the better and more assured performance of this aduertisement greatly heretofore neglected and abused, as well for want of appointing certaine sufficient and sincere Examiners vsually to attend this charge as otherwise, the said reuerend Father in his now purposed Visitation will publish to the whole Countrey the names of such Preachers, by whose credite and conscience he will chiefly commit this charge and trust, besides the pretence of such as being alwaies neere at hande may be vsed and required.

And although the man for his learning shall be qualified, and bring besides Letters testimoniall for his good behauiour according to order, yet for that such Testimonials haue by often and too much experience bene proued to proceed of hearesay, and importunitie of intreatie, without any through knowledge of the partie so commended. Therefore the partie so presented and allowed as before, shall with license of the Ordinarie, repaire eftsoons to that Parish, and aswell acquaint his Parishioners with his persone as his giftes; that moneth onely, reading the first Sunday he commeth thither, this publicke aduertisement in time of deuine Seruice. And so the first day of the next moneth following, to repaire to the said reuerend Father, or by his direction to the Office for his Institution, (if none shall vndertake to proue against him some notorious default that day of his apperance) and so without further delay to bee dispatched, giuing first his oath besides other matters, that neither by himselfe, nor any for him he hath vsed Simonie, in attaining to that liuing directly or indirectly, according to the Ecclesiasticall laws in that behalfe prouided and established.

2. Item, for that the lawes of this realme do permit diuers persons sufficiently qualified and dispensed withall, to enioye two Benefices, and to demise the one to a sufficient Curate, it is likewise ordered that the first day of the next moneth after the Visitation ended, all the Curates, in and throughout the Diocese of Couentrie and Lichfield, shall attend at the Consistorie Court, where the foresaide reuerend Father in person, or his Chauncellor at the least, or the Chauncelors deputy assisted with foure preachers, named and published in euery session of this visitation, with other such neere assistants, as shalbe called and vsed as before, will be readie to sit for that purpose, and exhibiting their former licenses to the Ordinarie, if so be vpon this further trial and examination, they shall appeare meete in all respects for that congregation, euery circumstance well waied and duly considered then to be continued in the former place and seruice, otherwise to haue warning to depart, and the Incumbent likewise to haue conuenient notice to prouide him of a more sufficient Minister within a reasonable time: And no Curate to be accepted or allowed in any Parische without the license of the Ordinarie vnder his seale. Prouided further, that the licenses graunted to Curates shall not generally extend to any place vncertainely, but shall namely containe the particular Parish whereto he shall be commended, and that al licences contrarie to this order to be reformed. And further that no Curates, who are to supplie the absence of an other qualified by lawe, be vsed as instruments onely by colour to defeat the good meaning of the Statutes in that behalfe prouided, to the benefit of Laie men, but themselues to enioy the commodies allotted to their owne better maintenance, according to the true meaning of the Statute.

3. Item, for that the peruerse obstinate vntowardnesse of diuers yong Gentlemen in religion, doth argue a manifest and most intollerable corruption in their bringing vp, and in Schoolemaisters, that all Schoolemaisters, aswell in anie noble or Gentlemens houses, as otherwise publicly or priuately teaching within anie Towne of this Diocesse, shall likewise bring in their Licenses heretofore to them graunted, the third daie of the first moneth next after the Visitation before the saide reuerend Father, or his Chauncellor at the least, or the Chauncelors Deputie, with the foresaide Preachers and assistantes attending this seruice in the Consistorie at Lichfelde, to whom if they do not sufficiently allow their habilitie for learning, their soundnesse for Religion, their honestie for conuersation by learning and testimonie of such as are well knowne to the Bishop, then to bee displaced and inhibited to continue their teaching anie longer within this Diocease. Otherwise with very good fauour and allowance to remaine in their former estate, enjoined once a quarter at the least to examine his schollers in the Catechisme, and to see them frequent al exercises of Religion according to their discretion: And no Schoolemaister to haue or enioy any generall Licence, throughout the whole Diocease vncertainely, but to teach in that particular place whereto he shall bee allowed, and the Licences contrarie to this order to be reformed.

4. Item, for that to helpe the lamentable inconueniences growing to the Church of God by the insufficient Ministerie, they are not onely to be sifted which are already made Ministers, but also a diligent care and foresight is to be vsed, that only sufficient men be admitted to that function hereafter. Therefore the foresaide reuerend Father would haue al and euery within this Diocease of Couentrie and Lichfield, which intend for themselues or their frendes, to sollicite for orders of the Ministerie to take knowledge hereby that they and euery of them must attend for publicke examination and trial, the first day of euery quarter of the yeere, onely in the Consistorie of Lichfelde, where the said reuerend, or his Chauncellor with the Archdeacons and other assistantes and forenamed Preachers to be called, making due prooffe by publicke examination of all circumstances required by law, and immediately setting down their iudgements accordingly, and if he or they vpon such trial shall be found worthy, then by the said reuerend Father to receiue orders, if the said reuerend Father shall thinke it so meete and conuenient, otherwise either to be cleane reiected, or referred ouer to their further sufficiencie: and no priuate orders otherwise either to be sued, looked for, or performed within this Diocease of Couentrie and Lichfield.

5. Item, for that sundrie and manifold inconueniences haue ensued the graunt of Licenses to marrie, these circumstances shall be observed by the Officers who are to graunt the same. First, that they do not rashly without advertisement from the Minister, or some such as they know to be of good credit and honestie graunt the License. Secondly, that they include in the bands taken consent of the Parents, Tutors, or Gouvernors. Thirdly that the direction of the license be made to one of the ministers, where the parties to be married shall dwell, who cannot be ignorant of the estate of the parties, and may stay the proceeding to marriage according to the License, if he know or suspect any lawful impediment, aduertising the Chauncelor with all conuenient speed of the cause of his stay. Otherwise no License to be graunted, vnlesse the matter be notoriously knowne to the Officer authorised to dispencc in that behalfe.

6. Item, that none denounced or to be denounced and published excommunicate, shall hereafter be admitted to the Church, or receiuing of the Sacraments, without his absolution testified to the Minister and Churchwardens, vnder the Ordinaries hand or Seale: and that such as continue obstinately so denounced or excommunicate, be publicly notified to the whole Congregation from time to time to their amendment or further discredite.

7. Item that the ordinance of the Booke of Common Praier bee from henceforth obserued in this, that the Bread deliuered to the Communicants, be such as is vsual to be eaten at the Table with other meats, yet of the purest and finest Wheat: and no other bread to be vsed by the Minister, nor to be provided for by the Churchwardens and Parishners then such finest common bread.

8. Item, whereas priuate Baptisme in time of necessitie seemeth tollerated by the Booke of Common Praier, and therevpon not onely diuers old women and Midwiues haue both against Gods laws and the meaning of the said Booke, presumed to intrude themselues into that ministerie and function, but also vnder cullor of such priuate Baptismes, many times wicked Jesuits, masse Priests or Reconcilers haue been knowne to Baptise Infants: It is therefore ordered to be receiued and obserued, that if vpon any reasonable causes mouing the Parents and Minister they thinke not good to expect the next Sabaoth or Holyday, for the more commendable performance of that Sacrament in the presence of the whole Congregation at Church: That then it be performed with a conuenient multitude of such as shalbe knowne sound and well effected to Religion, and either by the Minister of the Parish himselfe, or other knowne Minister with his priuitie or consent. And that henceforth no women presume to intrude themselues into Bapting of Infants in any respect or condition.

9. Item, for the better obseruing of all and singular these aduertisements and due presentment of the seuerall breaches and defaults of the same and the foresaid Articles, it is ordered that speciall choyse and regarde be made of such Churchwardens and Sidemen in euery Parishes, Village and Humlet (sic), which are knowne to fauour and conforme them selues to the lawes and Religion nowe established, and be of honest and good account for their life and maners and not towards such as bee professed and obstinate Recusantes, and that according to the wholesome aduertisements and Canons in that behalfe provided, no elections be made of the foresaide Officers in the Ministers absence or without hys consent. And that euery Minister shall haue a speciall care and regarde of his duetie in this behalfe vpon his credite with his Ordinary, as whervpon dependeth the whole direction of reformation of things amisse.

10. Item, whereas the foresaid Officers stande charged by vertue of their corporall othes taken faithfully and carefully to discharge their dueties, and without fauoure, malice, or feare, truly to present all defaults and abuses as they fall out from time to time, aswell for the auoyding of wilfull periurie, as the preventing and cutting off of sinne and offences before they grow to full and perfect ripenesse, the Minister shall do well euery sonday and holiday after euening prayer to call the Churchwardens, and Sidemen of euery Parishes vnto him in the Church, and there to conferre and aduise together vpon perusall and consideration of these articles and aduertisements, what hath fallen out within that their Parish contrarie to any of them worthy reformation or presentment, or worthy priuate admonition for amendment: And so eyther according to their discretions to admonish the parties to prevent their own discredites, and any publike offence like to growe: or els to present or notifie all suche euill misdemeanours to the Chancellour, or such Commissaries, Deane, Rurales, or other Officers, as hee shall thinke best to appoint in euerie Deanrie from time to time.

11. Item, that euery Minister within this Diocese bring in and exhibite to the Chauncellour at the Visitation, his letters of orders, his letters dismisories if he came out of an other Diocese, his Institution, his Qualification, and dispensation to remaine in recorde in the Office.

12. Item, for that some offences and greuaunces haue already and may grow hereafter to the subiect, by taking or exacting excessive fees contrarie to law and the vsuall custome of this Diocese, to the misliking and discredite of Ecclesiasticall iurisdiction and the Officers thereof, and therefore the Ordinarie to prevent all inconueniences in that behalfe, hath geuen order, that as well his Chauncellor and Commissarie from time to time, as his Register shall haue a Table in either of their Offices openly and publicly hanged vp to be seene, read, and considered of by euery one that shall be disposed or occasioned so to doe: wherein shall be fairely written and contained the seuerall rates of all and singular fees due and appertaining to either of their Offices, and euery particularitie by them or either of them to be dispatched: whereby the sueters can not or neede not to be abused: yet for that some of simplicitie may be ouer-reached, and either for their daily labours whereby they liue are not able, or for feare of charges with delay would bee loth to prosecute reformation to their restitution. It hath further pleased the Lorde Bishop to provide further in that behalfe, that euery Minister hearing any such grieffe of any of his Parishners, may be bold by his Letters onely directed to the Chauncellour, to certifie him of any such complaynt, with all the truth and circumstance of their dealing, and that by the Chauncellour the fault be presently looked into and reformed, whether it concerneth himselfe or the Register, without anye further charges or adoe, as they will haue the good fauour and liking of the Bishoppe, and aunswerre vpon their perill to the contrary.

FINIS.

AYLMER, BISHOP OF LONDON, 1586.

ARTICLES to be inquired of within the Dioces of London, in the visitation of the Reuerend father in God, John Bishop, of London, 1586. In the xxviii yeare of the raigne of our most gracious soueraigne Lady Elizabeth by the grace of God Queene of England, Fraunce, and Ireland, defender of the faith, &c.

At London, printed by Richard Iohnes, 1586.

The tenor of the Othe ministred to the Church-Wardens and sworne-men.

Yee shall sweare, that all affection, fauour, hatred, hope of reward and gayne, or feare of displeasure, or malice set a side, you shall vpon due consideration of the Articles giuen you in charge, present all and euery such person of or within your parish as hath committed any offence or fault, or made any default mentioned in these or any of these Articles, or which are vehemently suspected, or otherwise diffamed of any such offence, fault or default, wherein you shal deale vprightly and according to equity, neither of malice presenting any contrary to truth, nor of corrupt affection sparing to present any, and so conceale the truth, hauing in this action God before your eyes: with an earnest zeale to maintaine truth, and to suppress vice. So helpe you God, and his faithfull promises contayned in these his holy bookes.

The charge of the Church-Wardens and sworne-men set downe for the better performance of their duties, and discharge of their Oathes.

They are straightly charged to heare all these articles read ouer vnto them, and diligently to consider and enquire thereof. And for that the time is so short in this the visitation, that they shall not be able to make a perfect aunswere vnto all of them, and that notwithstanding there are many notorious faultes presently worthy of presentment and reformation: they are charged to make their aunswere vnto them presently so farre forth as their memory shal now serue them: and to present now such faultes in their Parish, as at this present time are worthy of presentment and reformation. And that after their comming home betwixt this and Michaelmas next, they shall againe heare all the Articles read ouer vnto them, and diligently consider and enquire thereof with the Minister of the Parishes, who shall (if he knowe anye thing in the Parishes to be reformed) together with them make a due presentment and a true and full aunswere in writing, signed with their handes and markes, wherein they shall present as well all such faultes or offences contrary to the Articles, as they forgot or omitted to present at the time of the visitation, as also all such faults and offences contrary to the Articles, as shall happen and chance betwixt this and then.

* the Dioces of London in this visitation, holden in the yeare of our Lord God 1586.

Articles concerning the Cleargie.

Whether Common praier be song or sayde by your Parson, Vicar or Curate in your seueral Churches or chappels distinctly and reuerently, and in such order as it is set forth by the lawes of the realme, without any kind of alteration omitting or adding to anye thing; and at due and conuenient howres, and whether your Minister so turne him selfe, and stand in such place of your Church or Chauncell as the people may best heare the same, and whether the holy Sacraments be likewise ministred reuerently in such maner as by the lawes of this Realme is appointed, and whether vpon Wednesdaies and Fridaies, not being holy daies, the Letany and other Praiers appointed for the day be sayd accordingly.

2. Item, whether the forme of Comination against sinners, with certaine Praiers following the same set forth in the latter end of the booke of Common prayer to be vsed at diuers times in the yeare, be by your Minister plainly and distinctly read in your Church or Chappell vnto the people, betweene the Letany and the Commemoration or ministracion of the holy Communion threé times at the least in the yeare.

3. Whether your Parson or Vicar haue preached or caused to be duely preached in your Church, his quarterly or monethly Sermons, as by the Quéenes iniunctions he is bound, and what be the names of such as haue preached for him, and whether he hath admitted any man to preach not hauing sufficient licence.

4. Whether any Parson or Parsons not beeing ordered at the least for a Deacon do saye Common prayer openly in your Church or Chappell, or any not being at the least a Deacon do solemnize matrimony, or administer the Sacramentes of Baptisme, or deliuer to the Communicantes the Lordes cup at the celebration of the holy Communion, and what be their names that do so.

5. Whether the Parson, Vicar, or Farmer of your Benefice do cause or suffer any Curate or Minister to serue your Church before he be examined and admitted by the Ordinary, or his deputy in writing, and do shew his licence to the Church Wardens: and whether any Curate doe serue two Cures at one time, without the speciall licence of the Ordinary or his deputy in that behalfe in writing first had.

6. Whether your Parson, Vicar, or Curate do euery Sunday, when There is no Sermon read distinctly and plainly some part of the Homelies prescribed and set forth by the Quéenes authoritye to be read, and whether any Minister not admitted by the Ordinary, or by other lawfull authority do expound any scripture or matter of doctrine by the way of exhortation, or otherwise, and thereby omit and leaue off the reading of the Homelies.

7. Whether any Lectures, conuenticles or priuate meetings be read or vsed within your Parishes, either publique in the Church, or priuate in the house; by any person, sufficiently licensed therunto by the Ordinary, or whether anye such reader doe teach any doctrine of innouation to with draw the people from due obedience to the ordinances of the Church set forth by publique authority, or to cause them to forbear participating in prayer and Sacraments with our Church.

8. Whether your Parson, Vicar, or Curate, doe euery soday and holy day openly in the Church call for, heare, and instruct (all the Children apprentices, and seruants of both sexes, that be of conuenient age within your Parish, or at the least so many of them by course as the time wil serue, and as he maye well heare or instruct for one hower at the leaste, before or after euening praier, in the ten commandements, the Articles of the heliefe, and the Lordes prayer, and diligentely examine and teach them the Catechisme, as it is now allowed and set forth in the booke of common prayer: or Maister Nowels Catechisme and no other, with the vnderstanding thereof, and whether for that purpose he doth take the names of them al, and by course cal certaine of them euery Soday and holy day to come to the teaching of this Catechisme.

9. Whether your Parson, Vicar, Curate, or other Minister in your Church or Chappell, hath admitted to the holy Communion anye open and notorious fornicator, adulterer, or euill liuer, by whom publique offence is giuen without due penance, firste done to the satisfaction of the congregation enioyned him by his Ordinary or Archdeacon, or any malicious person, that is notoriously knowne and detected, to be out of charity, or that hath done any open wrong to his neighbor by word or deed, without due reconciliation first made to the party that is wronged.

10. Whether in anye of your Parishes your Minister be brought in by popular election, sent by some peculier election of ministerye, confirmed by the Parish, and so allowed priuately of before the sayd Minister be presented to his Ordinary.

11. Whether your Parson, Vicar, Curate, or Minister hath admitted to the holy Communion any of his Parish being aboute twenty yeares of age either mankind or woman kinde that cannot say by heart the ten Commaundements, the Articles of the faith, and the Lordes prayer in english, or be confirmed, and what be the names of suche as can not say the same, or being aboute fourteen yéeres and vnder twenty yeares of age, that can not saye the Catechisme, allowed and set forth in the sayde booke of common praier: and whether he marry any persons which were single before, that can not saye the Catechisme, and whether he vseth to examine his parishioners at conuenient times before he administer vnto them, and namely before Easter, yearelye to the intent he may know whether they can saye by hart the same which is required in that behalfe or no.

12. Whether your Preachers or Minister be peace makers and no brawlers, or sowers of discorde, and exhort their Parishioners to obedience towardes their Prince, all other that be in authority, and to charity and mutuall loue among them selues, whether they be diligent in visiting the sicke and comforting them, and do moouue them earnestly (especially when they make their Testaments) to consider the necessity of the poore, and to giue to their box or chest, their charitable deuotion and almes.

13. Whether any of your Parsons, Vicars, Curates or Ministers be fauorers of the Romish or forraign power, letters of true religion, preachers of corrupt and popish doctrine, or maintainers of sectaries, or doe set forth and extoll vaine and superstitious religions, or maintainers of the vnlearned people in ignoraunce and error.

14. Whether any do preach, declare, or speake any thing in derogation of the booke of common prayer, which is set forth by the lawes of this Realme, dispraising the same, or any thing therein contained, or against the Preachers or Ministers of the word and Sacraments.

15. Whether the Parson or Vicars when they be absent from their benefices do leaue their Cures to a rude and vnlearned Person, and not to an honeste and well learned expert Curate which can and doth teach the people wholesome doctrine, and whether in their absence, they do procure learned men to preach in their Churches and Cures at leaste one Sermon euery moneth in the yeare.

16. Whether your Parsons, Vicars, Curates, and Ministers keepe well their registers of all weddings, burials and Christninges within your Parishes, according to the order of the Quéenes iniunctions, and whether they reade the Quéenes Maiesties iniunctions euery quarter of a yeare once or no.

17. Whether they or anye of them keepe anye suspected Woman in their houses, or be incontinent persons, giuen to drunckennes, idlenes, or be hunters (sic) of Tauerns, Alehouses, or suspected places, or be hunters, hawkers, dicers, carders, table swearers, liers, false dissemblers, dauncers, or otherwise suspected of anye notorious crime, or giue any euill example of life, or vse disordered and vnseemely apparrell either in colours, gardes, or light fashion.

18. Whether they or any of them do keepe, or suffer to be kept in their Parsonage or Vicarege houses, any Alehouses, Tipling-houses or Tauerns, or do sell Ale, Béere, Wine, or any other victuall.

19. Whether your Parsons or Vicars haue bought the presentations of their benefices, or come to them by Simony, fraude, or deceit, or by any colourable part or vnlawfull mean whatsoever, or be vehemently suspected or defamed thereof, and whether they keepe in their owne handes, or haue demised and let to farme their Parsonages or Vicaredges, or their glebe lande or tithes, or any part thereof, and whether anye such lease be made for the performance of any simonicall compact, made directly or indirectly betweene the incumbent and the Patron, or between the incumbent and any other person for the presenting of the same Incumbent to that Benefice.

20. Whether any Priest or Minister be come into this Dioces out of any other Dioces to serue any cure here without letters testimonial of their Ordinary from whence they came, vnder his autentique seale and hand, to testifie the cause of his departing from thence, and also his behaiour there, and whether you do receiue any Curate before you see his licence to serue in your Parish vnder my L: or his Officers seale.

21. Whether for the retaining of the perambulation of the circuite of your Parish, the Parson, Vicar, or Curate,

* Line cut off.

Church wardens and certain of the substantial men of the Parish in the daies of the Rogations commonly called, the gänge dayes, walke the accustomed boundes of your Parish, and whether in the same perambulation, or going about, the Curate do vse anye other rite or ceremony then such as be appointed by the Quéenes Maiesties iniunctions.

22. Whether for the putting of the Church wardens and swornmen the better in remembrance of their duty in obseruing and noting such as offend in not coming to deuine seruice, your Minister do openly euery Sunday after he haue read the second lesson at morning and evening prayer, monish and warne the Church wardens and sworn men to looke to their charge in this behalfe, and to obserue who contrary to the sayde Statute offende in absenting them selues negligently or wilfully from their Parish Church or Chappell, or vnreuerently, as is afore sayde vse them selues in the time of diuine seruice.

23. Whether any new Presbyteries or Eldershippe be lately among you erected, and by them any Ministers appointed without orders taking of the Bishops, do Baptise, minister the Communion, or deale in any function Ecclesiasticall, or contrary to law, gather any priuate conuenticle, whereby the people be drawn from the Church.

24. Whether there be anye in your Parish that readeth any priuate lectures in the same, or vseth exposition of the Scriptures, in any priuate mans house whatsoever contrary to law. And whether any preacheth and doth not at certaine times in the yeare minister the Sacraments in their owne person, and in such Church where he readeth his Lecture.

25. Whether there be anye in your Parishes Ministers or Preachers that vse either priuate or other assemblies out of their Dioces with other Preachers, or others with them: and do in them vse to set downe any orders contrary to the orders obserued in the Queenes booke, or anye in your Parishes that doe contribute to any such Preachers, and what be the names as well of the contributors, as of them to whom they do contribute, and what seuerall summes do they contribute.

26. Whether anye Minister doe reiect those women being married, which doe come to the Church to giue thanks after childe byrth, according to the order set downe in the booke of common prayer: or do winke at such fantasticall women, as contemne to come to Church, and giue thanks according to the same order.

27. Whether your Parson, Vicar, or Curate, haue married anye person not being threë seuerall Sondaies or festiuall daies lawfully asked in their Parishes Churches, or haue married anye persons at anye time or times by the Ecclesiasticall lawes of this Realme forbidden not being sufficiently licenced therevnto, and by whose licence the same persons were so dispensed withall to be married.

28. (Sic.) Whether any contention haue growen amongst the Preachers in these parts for any matter of doctrine or ceremonies, and what and who was the cause thereof, and whether any strife hath growne about pewes or seates in the Church, and between whom was it.

29. Whether your Parsons, Vicars, or Curates do kéepe a iust and perfect note of all such as doe Communicate in their seuerall Parishes, and doe not rather regarde their priuate gaine in receiuing their offerings at Easter, and deliuering them tokens, doe enter them into their booke, and certifie as communicantes who neuer received.

30. Whether there be anye Ministers or Priestes within your Parish which liue idly without any cure, neither seruing in any place, nor hauing any place of reading or preaching

* Whether haue you in your parish Churches and Chappels all things necessary and requisite for common prayer, and administration of the Sacraments, especially the booke of common prayer with the new Kalender, two Psalters, the english Bible in the largest volume of the edition set forth by the Bishops, and lately imprinted by the Quéenes Printer, as by letters sent the last yeare from my Lords grace of Canterbury, to that effect was intoynded you, the two Tomes of the Homilies, the Paraphrasis of Erasmus translated into English, the table of the ten Commandementes, a conuenient pulpet well placed, a comely and decent table standing on a frame for the holie Communion, with a fayer linnen cloth to lay vpon the same, and some covering of silke, buckrame, or other such like, for the cleane keeping thereof, a fayer and comely Communion cup of Siluer, and a cover of Siluer for the same, which maye serue also for the ministration of the Communion bread, a decent large surplesse with sleues, a sure cofer with two lockes and keyes for keeping of the Register booke, and a strong chest or box for the almes of the poore, with threë lockes and keyes to the same, and all other things necessary in and to the premisses.

* Line cut off.

2. Whether your Churches and Chappels with the Chauncell thereof bee well and sufficiently repayred and kept without abuse of anye thing, and whether your Churchyardes be well fenced and cleanly kept, and if any part thereof be in decay through whose default it is so.

3. Whether the Church of your Parish be now vacant or destitute of an incumbent or no, and if it be, how long it hath been so, and who is the Patron, and whether he suffereth the benefice to lie vacant, and occupieth the glebe land, and taketh the tithes and other fruit to him selfe, during the time of the vacation, or who els occupieth and taketh the same and by what authority.

4. Whether your Church be a Parsonage or Vicariedge, presentatiue, a donatiue, or otherwise serued by a bare cure, whether did your (sic) euer heretofore heare or know that it was a Parsonage or (sic) Vicariedge, and how came it to be decayed from a presentatiue to be in the estate it now is: and when was it first decayed from being a benefice presentatiue, as you remember.

5. Whether your Fonts or Baptisteries be remoued from the place where they were wont to stand, or whether any persons leauing the vse of them, doe Christen or Baptise in Basons or other prophane vessels not customably vsed in the Church before time, and whether anye christen without either godfather and godmothers, and the signe of the cross appointed by the booke of Common prayer.

6. Whether any man hath pulled downe or vncouered any Church, Chauncell, or Chappell, or any part of any of them, anye Church porch, Vestrie, or steeple, almes house or such like, or haue pulled down the hals, or haue felled or spoyled any wood or tymber in any Church-yarde.

Articles concerning Ecclesiasticall Officers.

Whether the Chauncellor, Archdeacon, Commissary, Officiall, or any other vsing Ecclesiasticall iurisdiction in this Dioces, their Registers or Actuaries, Apparitors, or Sumners, haue at any time winked at, and suffered any Adulterers, Fornicators, incestes, or other faultes or offences presented vnto them to passe and remaine vnpunished and vncorrected, for money, rewardes, bribes, pleasure, friendship, or any other partiall, or affectionate respect, or haue commuted any penances, and how many penances haue been commuted since the last visitation, and what be their names that haue had their penances commuted: and for what faults: and by whom were they committed (sic).

2. Whether at the Archdeacons visitations which haue been sithence 1583: the Archdeacon of your archdeaconry, or his Officers, hath called to the Churchwardens for a certificate from the Parson, Vicar, or Curate of your Parishes, thereby to vnderstande whether the iniunctions of the sayd Bishop giuen in his visitation helde in that yeare 1583: haue been duly and precisely obserued or not, according to the tenor and effect of one of those iniunctions.

3. Whether your Archdeacons and Ecclesiasticall officers do obserue the iniunctions set out at the last Conuocation, and confirmed by her Maiesty for quarterly exercises appointed for the Ministers.

Articles concerning Schoole-Maisters.

Whether the Schoolemaisters which teach within your Parish openly or priuately in anye noble or Gentlemans house, or in any other place, be of good and sincere Religion, life and conuersation, and be diligent in teaching and bringing vp of youth, and whether they haue been examined, allowed and licensed for Schoole-maisters by the Ordinary or his Officer in that behalfe.

2. Whether your Schoolemaisters do them selues receiue the holie Communion as often as they ought to do, and whether they bring with them so many of their Schollers of age sufficient, and of capacity by instructions, to receiue the Lordes Supper, according to an iniunction giuen at the last visitation held Anno. 1583.

3. Whether your Schoolemaisters do orderly on Sondaies and holy daies with their Schollers come to the Church of their Parishes where they teach, and there see their schollers placed in some conuenient place, so as they doe not disquiet the minister or Parishes in time of diuine seruice, but may exercise them selues godly in reading and hearing the seruice and sermons, and in answering with the congregation in reading of publique Prayers.

4. Whether the Schoolemaisters either priuate or publique, do teach their schollers, Maister Novels Catechisme, authorized by publique authority, at the least once euery week, and do instruct and examine them in the same, or doe teach any other Catechisme, and what Catechisme is it that they so teach.

5. Whether any of your Schoolemaisters be knowne or suspected to reade vnto their Scollers priuately anye booke, or priuately to instruct them in their yong yeares, either in popery, supersticion, or disobedience, or contempt to her Maiesty, and her lawes, either Ecclesiasticall, by publicke authoritie allowed, or Temporall.

6. Whether any Schoolmaisters vnder pretence of catechising their schollers (which is a most godly order carefully by them to be obserued) do keepe Lectures, readings or expositions, in Diuinity in their houses, hauing continuall repaire vnto them of such people as seeke after Innouations, and refuse their owne Parish churches, and their Minister.

Articles concerning the Parishioners and others of the Laity.

Whether all Fathers and Mothers, Maisters and Dames of your Parish cause their Children, seruants and apprentices, both mankind and womankind being aboue seuen yeares of age, and vnder twenty, which haue not learned the Catechisme, to come to the Church on Sondaies and holydaies at the times appointed, and there diligently and obediently to heare, and to be ordered by the * chisme, and what be the names of those that do not cause their Children, seruants and apprentices so to come to the Church to be instructed and examined, and how many of the sayd Children, Seruants and apprentices be in your Parish, which being aboue seuen yeeres olde, and vnder twenty yeeres of age cannot say by hart the sayde Catechisme, and what be their names and age, and with whom they dwell.

2. Whether you your selues or Churchwardens in the yeares before you, haue suffered any vnmarrried women being begotten with childe to goe out of the Parish before shee hath done penance, vpon their direction appointed by the Ordinary, and fourth of whose houses haue they so gone away with childe unpunished: and how many vnmarrried women which haue bene deliuered of childe within your Parishes these three yeares last past haue gone away without doing of penance.

3. Whether anye man keepe or readeth any seditious and Schismaticall Bookes, or Pamphlets, written by Browne, Harryson, or by any other which inueigheth against the Religion now received, or the order of the Church now publickly established.

4. Whether the Parishes Clarke be appointed according to the auncient custome of the Parishes, and whether he bee not obedient to the Parson, Vicar, or Curate, especiallye in the time of celebration of diuine seruice, or of ministring the Sacramentes, or in anye preparation therevnto, and whether he bee able to reade, and whether he keepe not the Bookes and ornamentes of the Church fayer and cleane, and cause the Church and Quier, the Communion table, the Pulpit and the Font to be kept cleane and decent against the seruice time, the Communion, sermon and Baptisme.

5. Whether there be anye man or woman in your Parishes that resorteth to anye Popishe Priest for shrift, or Auricular confession, or anye that within three yeares last past hath bene reconciled to the Pope or to the Church of Rome, or any that is reputed or suspected so to be.

6. Whether there be any person or persons Ecclesiasticall or Temporall within your Parishes or ells where, within this Diocess, that haue retyened or kept in their custody, or that read, sell, vtter disperse, carry or deliuer to others any english booke set fourth of late yeares in any other place beyond the seas by Papists, Jesuits, or Seminary priests, either against the Queenes maiesties supremacie in matters Ecclesiasticall, or against true Religion, and Catholique doctrine, now received and established by common authority within this realme, and what their names and surnames are.

7. Whether there be any in your parishes that vseth to pray in English, or in Latine vpon beades, or any such like thing, or vpon anye superstitious popish Primer, or other such like booke.

8. Whether anye of your Parishioners hauing a Preacher to their Parson, Vicar, or Curate do absent them selues from his Sermons, and resort to anye other place to learne or follow after such innouations as are there taught.

9. Whether the people of your parishes, especiallye Housholders, hauing no lawfull excuse to be absent, do faithfully and diligently indeuor them selues to resort with their Children and Seruantes to their Parish church, or chappell on the Holydayes, and chiefly on the Sondaies to morning and euening praier, and vpon reasonable let thereof to some vsuall place where common prayer is vsed, and then and there abide orderlye and soberly, during the time of Common praier, Homelies, Sermons, and other seruice of God there vsed, reuerentlye and deuoutly giuing them selues to the hearing thereof, and occupying them selues at time conuenient in priuate prayer, and who they bee that either negligently or wilfully absent them selues, or come verry late to the Church vpon the Sondaies especially, or that walke, talke, or otherwise vnreuerently behaue them selues in the Church, or vse any gaming or pastime abroad, or in any house, or sit in the streete or Churchyard, or in any Tauerne or Alehouse vpon the Sondaies, or other holiday in the time of common prayer, Sermon, or reading of the Homilies either before or after noone.

10. Whether the forfeiture of twelue pence for euerye such offence appointed by a statute, made in the first yeare of the Queenes Maiesties raigne, be leuied and taken according to the same statute, by the Church Wardens of euerye person that so offendeth, and by them be put to the vse of the poore of the Parishes, and if it be not, by whose default it is not leuied, and what particuler summes of mony haue been forfeited and leuied that way, and by whome, since the feaste of Easter, in the yeare of our Lord God 1586: vntill the day of the giuing vp your presentment, concerning these Articles from time to time, and how much of such forfeitures haue bene deliuered to the vse of the poore of the Parishes, and to whom the same hath been deliuered.

11. Whether anye Children that be borne in your Parishes be carried forth of the Parishes to be Baptized by any popish ceremony, or otherwise then is appointed by the booke of common prayer.

12. Whether there be any Innekeepers, Alewines, Victualers, or Tiplers, that suffer or doe admit anye person or persons in their houses to eate or drinke, or play at Dice, Cardes * . . . . . games in the time of Common praier, or Sermon on the Sondaies or Holydaies, or any Butchers, or other that commonly vse to sell meat, or other thinges in the time of Common prayer, Preaching, or reading of Homelies, and whether in any Fayres or common markets falling vpon the Sondaies there be anye shewing of anye wares before morning prayer be done, and whether any markets or selling of wares be vsed or suffered in any Churchyardes by common packmen or pedlers, going about to any such people either of your Parish or not of the same Parish.

13. Whether the Churchwardens of the laste yeare haue giuen to the Parish a iust accompt of the Church goods and rents that were committed to their charge, according vnto the custome that hath been aforetime vsed, and what church goods they or any other haue sold, and to whome, and whether to the profit of your Church or no, and what hath been done with the mony thereof comming.

14. Whether the Churchwardens and swornmen since the visitation holden 1583: haue of any priuate corrupt affection concealed any crime or other disorder in their time done in your Parishes, and haue not presented the same to the Bishop Chauncellor, Archdeacon, Commissary, or such other as had authority to reforme the same, and whether they or any of them at any such time as they shoulde haue bene at diuine seruice on Sondaies or Holydayes, and should there haue obserued others that were absent, haue been away them selues, at home, or in some Tauerne, or Alehouse, or els about some worldly busines, or at Bowles, Cardes, Tables, dice or other gaming, without regarde of their office and duty in that behalfe.

15. Whether any of your Parishes being of conuenient age, haue not received the holy Communion threer this last yeare at the least, and namely at Easter last, or thereabouts for once, and what their names are, or at which receiuing haue not signified the same before to your Parson, Vicar, or Curate, that he might conueniently examine them and who haue refused to come to him to be examined.

16. Whether there be any in your Parish that administer the goods of those that be dead without lawfull authoritye, or anye that suppress the last will of the dead, or any executors that haue not fulfilled their Testators will, specially in paying of legacies giuen to the Church, or to other good and godly vses, as to the reliefe of poerty, to Orphanes, poore schollers, poore Maidens marriages, high wayes, Schooles, and such like, and by whom are they so detained.

17. Whether there be any in your Parishes that hath or doth offende contrary to the Statute made in the xxxvii yeare of the raigne of King Henry the eight, for the reformation of vsurye, and reuiued by an act made in the xiii yeare of the raigne of the Quéenes maiesty that now is. And what be the names of such offenders.

* Line cut off.

* Part of a line cut off.

18. Whether there be any among you that vse sorcery or witchcraft, or that be suspected of the same, and whether any vse any charmes or vnlawfull prayes (sic), or inuocations in Latine or otherwise, and especiallye midwiues in the time of womens trauaile of childe: and whether anye do resort to any such for helpe and counsell, and what be their names.

19. Whether any couples that be married in priuate houses within these threé yéeres last, haue béene knowne or suspected to haue been married after any popish order, or anye other order then is appointed by the Church of England, by reason that the one party or the other are noted to be such as refuse to come to the Church.

20. Whether there be among you any blasphemers of the name of God, great or often swearers, adulterers, fornicators, incestuous persons bawdes, or receiuers of naughty and incontinent persons, or harberers of women with childe which be vnmarried, conueighing or suffering them to go away before they do any penance, or make satisfaction to the congregation, or any that be vehemently suspected of any such faults, or that be not of good name and fame touching any such crime and fault, any drunckardes, or rybawdes, or any that be malicious, contentious, or vncharitable persons, common slaundersers of their neighbours, railers, skoulders, or sowers of discord betwéene neighbours, and specially raylers against Ministers, and against their marriages.

21. Whether there be any in these partes that haue married within the degrés of affinitie or consanguinitie by the lawes of God forbidden, set out in an admonition in a table now appointed to be fixed in euery Parish church within this Dioces, or anye that being diuorced or separated from the same, do yet notwithstanding inhabe and kéepe company still together, or any that beeing married without those degrés haue vnlawfully forsaken their wiues or husbandes, and married others, any man that hath two wiues, or any woman that hath two husbandes, any that being diuorced or separated a sunder haue married againe, any that haue married or contracted them selues without the consent of their Parentes, Tutors or gouernours, anye that haue married without Banes thrice solemnly asked, any couples married that liue not together, but slanderously liue apart, any that haue married out of the Parish church where they ought to haue solemnized their marriage.

22. Whether the Minister and Churchwardens haue suffered anye Lordes of misrule, or summer Lordes or Ladies, or any disguised persons, or others, or maigames, or any Morrice dauncers at Christmas or at any other times to come vnreuerently into the Church or Church-yard, and there to daunce or play any vnseemely partes, with scoffes, Jestes, wanton iestures, or ribould talke, especially in the time of common prayer, and what they be that committe such disorder, or accompanied or maintained them.

23. Whether the Quéenes maiesties Iniunctions and the Bishop of their Dioces his Iniunctions giuen at his last visitation be duely and precisely obserued on the part of the Cleargie or the Laity, according to the articles therein contained.

24. Whether there be among you any notorious euill liuers, or any suspected of any notorious sinne, fault or crime, to the offence of Christian people committed; any that stubbornly refuse to conforme them selues to vnyty and godly Religion, now established by publique authority, or any that beareth abroad rumors of the alteration of the same, or otherwise that disturbeth good orders, and the quietnesse of Christes Church, and the Christian congregation.

25. Whether all such admonitions and iniunctions as haue come to your Parishes from my Lord of London, in and sithence the last visitation, for the obseruing of any order for the Church, or putting downe of any disorder, haue been duely kept euer since or no, and by whose default they haue not been kept.

26. Whether any carry out the infants to be christened in other parishes, as misliking the order of Christening, in their owne Parishes: whether any preach in any Noble mans or Gentle mans house not being licensed of the Bishop.

27. Whether any within your Parishes doe resort vnto Barnes, fieldes, woods outhouses, or to any extraordinary expositions of scriptures, or conferences together, and so do (as it were) make a seuerall Church or sect vnto them selues, or bee drawers or perswaders of others to any such scismaticall and damnable sectes.

28. Item whether your Parson, Vicar or Curate, haue wittingly married together any couples, whereof the woman hath beene begot with child, or carnally known before marriage, or whether the man for money or reward hath married any woman that hath committed adultery with an other man without publique acknowledgment of their offences, and reconciliation to the Parish; and what are the names of all such that haue been so married in any such case: and when, and by whom were they so married together.

29. Whether any doo kéepe their children vnabaptised longer then the Sunday after birth, vnles it be for sicknes of the child or other vrgent occasion, and whether any doo cary their children from the Parish they are borne in, to other parishes, to be baptised?

30. Whether the order of praiers on Wednesdayes and Frydayes, set forth lately by the most reuerend father, the Archbishop of Canterbury, by him appoynted to be obserued through his whol prouince, be obserued as it is required, and who be they that vnder color of it do bring in any new deuised order, praiers or fastes, leauinge the prescribed order of that booke.

FINIS.

The second byls which are to be deliuered at Michaelmas next, are to be brought into Maister Blackwells office in Luie Lane, Register to my Lord Bishop of London, betwixt Michaelmas and the eyght day of October following, or els the Church-Wardens and Side-men making default herein, are at their perils to shew cause the x. of October next in the Consistorye in Powls why they shoulde not bee proceeded againste for their contempte, according to law.

Imprinted at London by Richard Iohnes, dwelling at the Rose and the Crowne, neere vnto Holborne Bridge. 1586.

KING, ARCHDEACON OF NOTTINGHAM, 1599.

ARTICLES ministred in the Visitation of the Right Worshipfull Maister JOHN KING, Archdeacon of Nottingham, in the yeare of our Lord God 1599.

Printed at Oxford by Joseph Barnes, printer to the Vniuersitie.

The Church or Place of Common Praier.

In primis whether your Chancel, & Church, or Chappell be sufficiently repaired, as wel in stone, tymber, lead, tile, glasse, as al other necessarie things, & if they be not, through whose default the same is omitted?

2. Whether your Church-yard be sufficiently fenced and decently kept, and the trees thereing growing, not spoiled, if not in whose default?

3. Whether the wals of your Church, be within whited, & beautified with fruitfull sentences out of the holie Scriptures, & paued comelie in the bodie of the Church and Chancell, and conuenient seates placed in the Church and Chancell, for the necessary vse of the parishioners in time of diuine seruice?

4. Whether you haue in your parish Church and Chappell, all thinges necessary for the setting forth of common praier, and the administration of sacramentes: namely the booke of common praier, two Psalters in prose and meeter, the English Bible in the largest volume, the two tomes of homilies, the paraphrases of Erasmus in English, the table of the tenne commandements: a conuenient pulpit well placed, a decent table standing on a frame, for the holie communion, with a faire linnen cloth to laie vpon the same, and some covering of silke buckerome, or other such like, for the cleane keeping thereof, a comely communion cup of silver, with a cover of silver for the same, a decent surples with large sleeues, a register booke of Christenings, weddings, and burials. A font fastned in some conuenient place of the Church sweete and decently kept. A sure coffer with two lockes and keies for the keeping of the said Register booke, and a strong chest or box, with two lockes and keis to put in the almes, and other thinges belonging to the premisses?

5. Whether your Church and Chancel be kept cleane & decentlie at all times, and especially against time of diuine seruice, by such as are especiallie appointed for that purpose: and whether is your Chancell well paved or no?

The seruice used in the Church.

6. Whether doth your Parson, Vicar, or Curate, or the Parson, Vicar, Curate, or anie other of, or in, any other Parish, neere about the same, within the Archdeaconrie of Nottingham, to your knowledge, or as you haue heard by common reporte, vpon Sundaies or holi-daies, vse to saie the Morning and Evening Prayer, and the Letanie, in such manner and forme, and vnder such wordes as are set forth and prescribed, in, and by the booke of common praier? If not, then what other forme or manner hath or doth he or they vse?

7. Whether your Parson, Vicar, Curate, or anie other within your parish, or els where, neare about the same, within the Archdeaconrie of Nottingham to your knowledge or as you haue heard by common report, hath preached, declared, vttered, or spoken anie thing against the said booke of common praier, or anie thing therein contained, or against any doctrine, office or calling ecclesiasticall within this realme, established by publike authority or against the ordination or election of Archbishops, Ministers, Deacons or anie of them, and what was the thing, or fault found vttered declared or preached and by whome?

8. Whether hath your Parson, Vicar, or Curate, or anie other within your Parish or els where neare aboute the same within the Archdeaconrie of Nottingham to your knowledge or as you haue heard by common report, preached, declared or vttered in worde or writing, anie thing in maintaining, commending or perswading of anie doctrine or discipline, or anie other forme of common prayer election or ordination of anie other offices, officers, Deacons, pastors, elders, presbyteries or ecclesiasticall censures, then are by the lawes of this realme established, or whether haue you heard of anie that vseth to dissuade anie parson from the religion now professed, or to perswade them to the Romish Religion?

9. Whether haue you aswell vpon Sundaies, and holidiaies, as vpon Wednesdaies, Fridaies, and Saterdaies, service in your Church and Chappell, according to the order, appointed by lawfull authoritie, and whether doth your Minister in time of diuine service and at the ministration of the sacramentes alwaies vse and weare the surplesse and reade the service plainely and distinctlye, that the people may bee edyfyed thereby, and bidde such Holidiaies and fastingdaies, as are appointed by the booke of common praier?

10. Whether haue you sermons, preached by able and sufficient men, lawfully licenced therevnto, at times convenient, and namelye euerie quarter once at the least, according to Her Maiesties iniunctions?

11. Whether your Parson, Vicar, or Curate, doe every Sunday when there is no sermon read plainly some part of the Homilies prescribed to be read: Or whether any of them not beng founde to haue sufficient ability to preach, or not lawfully admitted thereunto, doe take vpon them to expound anie part of the scripture, and thereby omitt the reading of Homilies?

12. Whether your children and seruantes, that be aboue seven yeares & vnder twenty, be Catechised vpon Sundaies, & Holidiaies by the space of one hower, before euening praier by order of householdes, at the appointment of the minister: and whether the saide minister doe giue notice thereof plainely the next Sundaie or holidiaie before in the Church that euerie one may knowe the time that he is to resort thether to be catechised? and if this be not done who they be that make default therein?

13. Whether any doe presume to saie service in your Church or chappell openly, who is not a lawfull Minister and sufficiently licensed by the ordinarie of this Archdeaconrie, vnder the seale of his office?

The ministring of the sacraments and other rights [sic] and Ceremonies used in the Church.

14. Whether doth your Parson, Vicar, or Curate, or any other within your parish, or els where neare aboute the same within the Archdeaconrie of Nottingham, to your knowledge, or as you haue heard by common report, vse the ministration of the Lordes suppet, and Baptisme, instruction of children, solemnization of matrimony, the Visitation of the sicke, the buriall of the dead, and the churching of women, in such manner and forme and vnder and with such manner of wordes, as are set forth and prescribed in the booke of common praier. If not then what other forme or manner doth he or they vse in the premisses, or any of them? And doe not they vse the ring in mariadge, and crossing the childes head in Baptisme?

Communion. 15. Whether the communion bee administered monthly, where the parishes be great, or else so often euerie year as that the parishioners may receiue three times at the least yearly?

Private baptisme. 16. Whether your children Baptised at home in cases of extreame weaknesse and danger, be brought to Church after their recoverie, that the minister may examine whether they bee lawfully Baptised or no?

Matrimonic.

Mariage. 17. Whether anie haue bene married within your parish that haue not had their banes asked three seuerall Sundaies or Holidiaies in time of diuine service in the presence of the people, vnlesse the same haue bene lawfully licensed by the Ordinarie, vnder the seale of his office, and with such bandes as are vsually taken in like cases?

18. Whether anie haue bene married within your parish, that haue dwelt in other parishes, without a certificat of the banes asking from the Minister, or Curate of the parishes, where the said parties or anye of them haue dwelt. And whether any mariage haue bin solemnized in any other place, then in the Church, or at any time of the day that is not lawfully vsual or in the night?

Visiting of the sicke.

19. Whether your Minister hath bene diligent in visiting the sicke persons of your parish, and comforting them with godly and wholesome sentences out of the sacred scriptures, and in perswading them to dispose of their goods, by making their testament, and to bestow some part of their goods to good and godly vses?

The office, function, and behaviour of Ministers.

20. Whether your Parson, Vicar, or Curate doe labour diligently and painefullie according to his ability, aswell by doctrine, as by good example of life to set forth true Religion, to beate downe superstition and Idolatry, and all other vice to exhort the people to vnity and brotherly loue, and to dutiful obedience to their Prince, and to such as be in authority vnder her, and to the diligent hearing, reading, and teaching, of Gods Word.

Private exercises of religion. 21. Whether there be within your parish, or else where neare about, any preaching, reading, or other such like exercise, in any privat houses wherevnto others not [sic] resorte, not being of the same family? And whether any doe preach, reade, or Catechise, in the Church, or else where, that doth not at diuerse times yearely saie service, and minister the sacraments according to order appointed by publike authoritie?

Register. 22. Whether the Register of all weddings, Buryings, and Christenings within your parish be wel kept, and a copy of the same once every yeare by Indenture presented to the Ordinarie?

23. Whether in the weeke before Whitsontide, commonly called Rogation weeke, your perambulation bee kept by your Minister with a sufficient number of the parishioners of all sortes aswell of the Elder, as younger sort, for the better knowledge of the circuits, and boundes of the parish, with praier for better increase of the frutes of the earth, according to the order in that behalfe provided?

24. Whether the Mansion houses of your Parsons and Vicars be kept in good Reparation?

25. Whether your Minister bee suspected to bee guiltie of any notorious crime, as Symonie, adultery, blasphemy, periurie, drunkennesse, idlenes, vnseemely and vaine talke, and whether hee bee scandalous, in his conuersation; through brawling, fighting, quarelling, peace-breaking, vnlawfull gaines, or haunting of places suspected, and not of good report?

26. Whether your Parson, or Vicar, hath at any time since the thirteenth yeare of the Queenes Maiesties Raigne, made any lease or grant of his personage or Vicaridge, or any part thereof hee being absent and not Resident vpon the same, to anie other then to his Curat, that did or doth serue the cure in his absence. And whether your Parson, or Vicar, if hee bee not resident with you, and may dispend twenty pounds yearly or aboue, doe not distribute euery yeare among the poore of your parish at the least the fourth part of the benefice where he is not resident?

Schooles and Schoole-masters.

27. Whether your Schoole-masters, and other teachers within your Parish, bee allowed by the Ordinarie? And whether they doe teach their Scholers the Catechisme, and doe encourage them to loue true Religion, and doe cause them daily, Morning and Euening, to ioine together in praier vnto God, for increase of Learning and of other his good graces: and whether they doe instruct them to say grace before and after meate:

Church-wardens accompt.

28. Whether the church-wardens yearely doe make their accompts to their Parish, of all their receipts and necessarie expenses of the said Parish, if not, who haue not accompted?

29. Whether they doe leuie for not comming to Church, to heare diuine service vpon Sundaies and Holydaies, xii. d. for every person that is absent without lawfull cause?

30. Whether they doe faithfully distribute the stocke of the poore mans Box, and are carefull to call for, and to gather al such money, as is due vnto the Church, or to the poore of the Parish, either by Legacie, or by such as are buried in the Church, or by other meanes?

The Parishioners.

31. Whether the people aswell men as women doe resort vnto their owne parish Church or Chappell one

Sundaies, and Holidais at time of divine service, and remaine and abide, and there behaue themselves reverently during all the whole time of service and sermons?

32. Whether any of the said parishioners doe vse any prophane worke or labour, or selling of victuals or wares vpon the Sabbath daie, or anie other daie, that is appointed to bee kept holy by publicke authority?

33. Whether all the Parishioners being of lawfull yeares, haue received the holy communion thrise for the yeare last past, & namely at Easter last.

34. Whether any person within your Parish, bee suspected or knowen to tell destinies, or to restore things lost, and to vse charms, or to exercise witchcraft, sorceries, southsayings, and such other superstitious and diuvelish illusions?

35. Whether any within your Parish, haue to your knowledge or by common fame or reporte, committed adultery, Fornication, Incest, or bee common Drunkardes, Swearers, and Blasphemers of Gods holy name, or vsurers, or bee commonly suspected thereof, and what are their names?

36. Whether any within your Parish doe keepe company together as Man and Wife, who be not lawfully married, or who haue beene lawfully and vpon iust cause divorced?

37. Whether there be within your Parish, Baudes, or that doe receiue into their houses weomen begotten with Childe vnlawfully, and doe keepe them vntill they bee delivered, and then let them depart before they haue done penance?

38. Whether you know any within your Parish, that receiveth into their house any Massing Priest, Jesuit, or other seminary man come from beyond seas?

39. Whether there be any within your parish, that presume to administer the goodes of those that be departed out of this world, without lawfull authority, or haue falsified or suppressed the will of anie Person deceased, without sufficient authority from the Ordinarie, vnder the seale of his office?

40. Whether any Lords of Misrule, or other disguised persons in maie-games, and such like disordred pastimes, haue daunced, or vnseemely entered into your Church, or Church-yarde? Or whether there hath bin any common feasting kept in your Church or Church yarde, or any plaies or enterludes there had?

41. Whether any excommunicate person be suffered to come in to the publike assembly or congregation in time of divine service?

42. Whether any of your parishioners doe detaine in their hands any of Their church Goods, and who they bee that doe detaine or withhold the same?

43. Finally, if you doe knowe any other crime or offence to bee committed within your parish, which is punishable by the ecclesiasticall lawes of this lande, and not mentioned particularly in these Articles aboue specified, you shall likewise detect it and truely present it.

The oath of the Church-wardens and side-men.

You shall faithfullie administer all such Church-goods as are, or shall come to your hands to the vse of your Church, and thereof make a true and faithfull account at the end of your office, delivering all that remaineth there-upon to your next successors. Also you shall diligently enquire of, and faithfully present all such persons as you shall either vpon your owne knowledge, or by publicke fame vnderstand to be guilty of any offence or fault mentioned in any of the Articles afore-said, or any other fault which is to be punished by the lawes ecclesiasticall of this realme, wherein you shall not present any person for malice, hatred, or evil will, nor spare any for favour, for feare, or any corrupt affection, but you shall faithfully discharge your consciences, as men having the feare of God before your eyes, and seeking the reformation of his Church, so God helpe you in Christ our Saviour.

FINIS.

BANCROFT, BISHOP OF LONDON, 1601.

ARTICLES TO BE ENQUIRED OF WITHIN THE DIOCES OF LONDON, in the Visitation of the Reuerend Father in God, Richard Bishop of London, in his Second generall Visitation.

HOLDEN

In the three and fortieth yeere of the raigne of our most gracious soueraigne Lady Elizabeth by the grace of God Queene of England, France, and Ireland, Defender of the faith, &c.

Printed at London by William Barley, 1601.

A Branch of the statute made in the first yeere of the raigne of our Souereigne Ladie Queene Elizabeth, intituled, An act for the vniformitie of common prayer and seruice in the church.

That from and after the feast of the Natiuitie of St. John Baptist next comming, all and euerie person and persons inhabiting with in this Realme, or any other the Queenes maiesties dominions, shall diligently and faithfully (hauing no lawful or reasonable excuse to be absent) indenour themselves to resort to their parish Church or chappell accustomed, or upon reasonable let thereof to some vsual place where common prayer and such like seruice of God shalbe vsed in such time of let, vpon every Sunday and other dayes, ordained and vsed to be kept as holydayes; and then and there to abide orderly and soberly during the time of common prayer, preaching or other seruice of God there to be vsed and ministred vpon paine of punishment by the Censures of the Church. And also vpon paine that euerie person so offending shall forfeit for euerie such offence twelue pence to be leuied by the Church wardens of the Parish where such offence shalbe done, to the vse of the poore of the same parish, of the goods, lands, and tenements of such offender by way of distresse. And for due execution hereof, the Queenes most excellent Maiestie, the Lords temporall, and all the commons in this present Parliament assembled, doth in Gods name earnestly require and charge all the Archbishops, Bishops, and other Ordinaries, that they shall indenour themselves to the vttermost of their knowledge, that the true and due execution hereof may be had throughout their Diocesse and charges, as they will answer before God for such euils and plagues, wherewith almighty God may iustly punish his people for neglecting this good and wholesome Lawe.

. . . . . [part of a line cut off.] the Dioces of London in this Visitation holden in the yeare of our Lord God 1601.

Articles concerning the Clergie.

1. Whether is common prayer read by your minister in your Church or Chappell distinctly and reuerently vpon all Sundayes and holy dayes, and in such order as is set forth by the lawes of this Realme in the booke of common prayer, without any kynd of alteration, omitting or adding any thing, and at due and conuenient houres.

2. Whether doth your minister vpon Wednesdayes and Fridaies, not being holy daies, read in your church or chappell, publickely the Letanie and other praies appoynted in the saide booke for those dayes, and whether doth he read the comination against sinners, in such order and forme as it is there also prescribed.

3. Whether doth your Parson, Vicar, or curate in the administration of the Lords Supper, or of baptisme, when he solemnizeth matrimonie, burieth the dead, churcheth women &c. vse the formes and prayers prescribed in the communion booke, without omitting or altering any part of them, and without any of his owne additions.

4. Whether doth your parson, vicar, or curate read publicke praier and administer the Sacraments ordinarily himself, vsing such rites and ceremonies as are prescribed in the booke of common prayer; as namely whether doth he kneele at the receiuing of the holy communion: make the signe of the Crosse vpon the childes forehead in the administration of baptisme: baptise any without Godfathers and Godmothers: vse the ring in marriage: and generally whether doth he in the discharging of all these duties and when he readeth common prayer eyther vpon Sundaies holidais wednesdaies and Fridaies weare a surplice.

5. Whether doth your minister vpon Sundayes at morning prayer declare vnto the parishioners what holydaies and fasting dayes are appoynted to be kept the weeke following: whereby they may be put in mind to prepare themselves, and to repaire to the church to publicke praier according to the lawes of the Realme.

6. Whether doth your parson, vicar, or curate, or either of them reiect at any time those women being married which doe come to church to giue God thanks after their childbirth or refuse or neglect to visit the sicke, or to burie the dead, according to their duties prescribed in the booke of common prayer.

7. Whether doth your minister in the Rogation dayes of procession vse the perambulation of the circuite of your parish, appoynted by her Maiesties Injunctions: and whether doth he in the sayd perambulation mone the people to giue thanks to God in the beholding of his benefits, for the increase and abundance of his fruits vpon the face of the earth: and sing or say the two

Psalmes beginning: Praise the Lord O my soul, &c. with the Letany and suffrages therunto belonging; and at certain convenient places reade the homily of thanksgiving to God, already devised and divided into foure parts, without addition of any superstitious ceremonie heretofore vsed.

8. Whether doth any man, being neither minister nor deacon read common prayer openly in your church or chappell, or administer the sacrament of Baptisms; or solemnize matrimonie, or take vpon him to practise any other ministeriall dutie in the church, that is prescribed to be executed particularly by such as are eyther ministers or Deacons: and what is his name that so doth.

9. Whether is your parson or vicar a preacher, licensed to preach by lawfull authoritie according to her maiesties Injunctions: if he be, how many sermons doth he preach yearely, if he be not, how many doth he procure to be preached by others: who hath preached them, and whether were they preachers licensed, as is before expressed.

10. Whether doth your parson, vicar or curate every sunday when there is no sermon, reade distinctly and plainly some part of the homilies prescribed and set forth by her maiesties authoritie.

Whether doth the parson, vicar, or farmour of the benefice in your parish cause or suffer any curate or minister, either to reade seruice, &c. or to preach, before he the said curate being no preacher, be examined and admitted by the ordinarie in writing: and before he the said curate being a preacher be thereunto admitted according to her maiesties Injunctions, and before they shew their sayd seuerall licences vnto the churchwardens.

11. Whether doth your Preacher in his prayer which he maketh at the entrance into his sermon, vse at all times the prayer for her maiestie, with her whole title prescribed in her highnesse Injunctions: as, Queene of England, France, and Ireland, defender of the fayth, &c. and of all causes and over all persons within her highnesse dominions, as well ecclesiasticall as temporall, next and immediately vnder God, supreme gouernor and whether doth he in like manner then pray for the Archbishops and Bishops, as by the sayd Injunctions it is also appoynted.

13. Whether your minister doth serue two cures in one day.

14. Whether doth your parson, vicar or curate every Sunday and holy day openly in the Church earnestly call for, heare, and instruct all the children, apprentices, and seruants of both sexes, that bee of convenient age within your parish, or at the least so many of them by course as the time will serue, and as he may well heare and instruct one houre at the least, before or after euening prayer in the tenne commandements, the articles of the beleefe, and the Lords praier, and diligently examine and teach them the Catechisme, as it is now allowed, and set forth in the booke of common prayer.

15. Whether is there any man in your parish, being neither your parson, vicar, nor curate, that taketh vpon him to preach or reade lectures eyther in priuate houses, or publikely in your church or chappell, who is not licensed so to preach or reade according to her maiesties Injunctions, or who doth not once a yeare at the least administer the sacraments in your said church or chappell, where he so preacheth or readeth.

16. Whether your minister hath or doth receive to the holy communion any persons which he not of his owne parish, without testimonie from the minister of the place where they dwell, what they be, that it may appeare that they be not persons excommunicate or otherwise infamous.

17. Whether doth your parson, vicar, or curate, administer the holy communion vnto any communicants which do not receive the same deuoutly and humbly kneeling vpon their knees, or whether doth he administer it confusedly to some kneeling, and to some, either sitting or standing, or walking.

18. Whether hath your parson, vicar, or curate, or other minister in your church or chappell, contrary to the order set downe in the communion book, and contrary to her maiesties Injunctions in that behalfe, admitted to the holy communion any open or notorious fornicator or adulterer, or other wicked liuer, by whom publike offence is giuen, without due penance inoynd by his Ordinarie first done, to the satisfaction of the congregation, and without such further submission, as in the sayd booke and Injunction is required.

19. Whether doth your parson, vicar, or curate, or any other minister or preacher, baptise in your parish church or chappell, any infants, not in the Fonte according to the ancient custome, but in a bason, and vrge the parents of the saide infant to be present, in place of Godfathers for their children.

20. Whether doth your parson vicar, or curate onco euerie quarter of the yeare reade her maiesties Injunctions openly and deliberately before his parishioners at one time or at two seuerall times in one day, according as in the saide Injunctions it is prescribed.

21. Whether hath your parson, vicar, or curate, or any other minister preached, declared, or spoken any thing in your parish in derogation of the booke of common prayer, which is set forth by the lawes of this Realme, dispraising, or deprauing the same, or any thing therein contained, or against the present estate of the ecclesiasticall gouernement, established by the same authoritie, or against any office, function, or part thereof, affirming the same to be vnlawfull.

22. Whether hath your parson, or vicar, more benefices then one, if he hath not, whether is he resident vpon that one: if he be not resident, where doth he remaine, and whether doth he leaue a sufficient minister and preacher to supply his absence, allowing something yearely towards the reliefe of the poore: and what doth he so allow.

23. Whether is your parson or vicar who hath two benefices within this Dioces: or one benefice in this Dioces, and another forth of the same, resident one halfe of the yeare on one of them, and the other half yeare or the greater part thereof vpon his other benefice, and whether doth he leaue the benefice in your parish prouided of a sufficient preacher to serue it: and hath an especiall care of some convenient hospitality to be kept in his absence according to his abilitie, and the proportion of that liuing.

24. Whether doth your parson, vicar, or curate keepe a iust and perfect note of all such as do communicate in your parish, and do not rather, regarding their priuate gaine, receive their offerings at Easter, deliuer them tokens, enter them into their booke, and so certifie as communicants those who neuer received.

25. Whether doth your parson, vicar, or curate keepe any man or woman in their houses, that are suspected to be, either of euill religion, or of badde life, or whether be they or any of them incontinent persons themselues, or giuen to drunkennesse, or be haunters of Tauernes, alehouses, or suspected places, common dicers, carders, tableplayers swearers dauncers or otherwise suspected persons of any notorious crime, or light and vnseemely behauiour, or giue euill example of life, or vse disordered or vnseemely apparrell, eyther in colours, guardes or light fashion.

26. Whether there be any ministers or priests within your parish, which liue idly without any cure, neither seruing in any place, nor hauing any place of reading or preaching, and so become offensiue to their calling.

Articles concerning the Church.

1. Whether haue you in your parish Churches and Chappells all things necessarie and requisite for common prayer and administration of the sacraments, especially the booke of common prayer with the new Kalender, two Psalters, the English Bible in the largest volume of the edition sette forth by the Bishops, and lately imprinted by the Queenes Printer, the Table of the ten commandements, a convenient pulpit well placed, a comely and decent Table standing vpon a frame, for the holy communion, with a fayre linnen cloth to lay vpon the same, and some couering of silke, buckram, or other such like for the cleane keeping therof, a faire and comely communion cup of siluer, and a couer of siluer for the same, which may serue also for the ministracion of the communion bread, a decent large surples with sleeues, and a strong chest or box for the almes of the poore, with three locks and keyes to the same, and all other things necessarie in and to the premises.

2. Whether there haue growne in your Church since the last visitation in the year 1598, any contention betwixt any of the parishioners, touching the placing or displacing of any in any seate or pew in the church, and whether there haue bene any pew buylded since the foresayd yeare 1598 in any your churches, without the expresse leaue and consent first had of the Ordinary of the Dioces, and by whom haue any such bene built.

3. Whether is your Church or Chappell, and the Chauncell well and sufficiently repaired and kept without abuse of any thing: whether doth your Parson, vicar, or curate or the proprietarie or farmour of your parsonage or vicarage in your parish keep the parsonage or vicarage house with al other the edifices thereunto appertaining in good and sufficient reparations: and whether is your churchyard well fenced and cleanly kept without any laystall or other annoyances.

4. Whether your Church be a parsonage or a vicarage presentative or donative, or otherwise served by a curate: whether did they euer heeretofore heare or know that it was a parsonage or vicarage, and how came it to bee decayed from being presentative, to be in the state it now is, and when was it first decayed, from being a benefice presentative, as you remember.

5. Whether your fonts or baptisteries be removed from the place where they were wont to stand: or whether any persons, leauing the vse of them, do christen or baptise in basons, or other vessels, not accustomed vsed in the church before time, or do vse any kind of laour with a remoueable bason, or haue taken downe the olde and vsuall font heretofore vsed in your parish.

6. Whether is there in your parish a sufficient Register booke of parchment, of marriages, christnings, and burials, provided at the charge of the parish: whether are all the names of those that haue bin, either christened, married, or buried since the beginning of her maiesties raigne newly written into the saide parchment booke: whether doth the Minister euery sunday read the names publikely of those, that were eyther christned, married, or buried the weeke before: whether haue you a publike chest with 3 locks for the minister, and the two churchwardens to keepe the said booke in: and whether haue you brought a transcript of all the names of such as haue been christned, married, and buried this last yeere into M. Blackwel my Register his office, as you are bound to do euerie yeere hereafter within a month after the feast of Easter by the constitutions last authorized by her Maiestie.

Articles concerning Ecclesiasticall Officers.

1. Whether the Chancelor, Archdeacon, Commissarie, Official, or any other vsing Ecclesiasticall Jurisdiction in this diocesse, their Registers or Actuaries, Apparators, or Summoners, haue at any time winked at and suffered any adulterers, fornicators, incests, or other faultes or offences presented vnto them, to passe and remaine vnpunished, and vncorrected for mony, rewards, bribes pleasure, frindship, or any other partial respect.

2. Whether doth the Chancellor, Commissaries, Archdeacons, or any other officialles heare any matters of office, or correction priuately in their chambers without the presence of the sworne Register or his deputy, or do discharge any mans penance for money, without the consent of the L. Bishop, according to the last constitutions by her Maiestie confirmed, or doe send any writing vnder their owne hands to your church, without the Registers presence at the dooing of it, eyther for marriage of any couples, or for ending or ordering of any matter or penance.

Articles concerning Schoolemasters.

1. Whether the Schoolemaster or Schoolemasters within your parish openly or priuately in any noble or gentlemans house, or in any other place be of good and sincere religion, life, and conuersation, and bee diligent in teaching and bringing vp of youth, and whether they haue bene examined allowed, and licensed for Schoolemasters by the Ordinarie or his officers in that behalfe.

2. Whether your Schoolemaster or Schoolemasters do themselues receiue the holy communion as often as they ought to doe, and whether they bring with them so many of their Schollers as bee of age sufficient, and of capacitie by instruction to receiue the Lords Supper, or else be able to giue testimonie, in what Church their Schollers doe receiue and heare publike prayers,

3. Whether your Schoolemaster or Schoolemasters do orderly on Sondayes with their Schollers, come to the Church of their parish where they they (sic) teach, and there see their Schollers placed in some conuenient place, so as they doe not disquiet the minister or parish in time of diuine seruice, but may exercise themselues godly in reading and hearing the serulce (sic) and sermons, and in answering with the congregation in reading of publike prayers.

4. Whether the schoolemaister or schoolemasters eyther priuate or publike do teach their schollers the Catechisme authorized by publike authoritie, at the least once euery weeke, and do instruct and examine them in the same, or do teach any other catechisme, and what catechisme is it that they so do teach.

5. Whether your schoolemaister or schoolemasters, or any of them bee knowne or suspected to reade vnto their schollers priuately any vnlawfull books, or priuately to instruct them in their yong yeares either in popery, superstition, or disobedience, or contempt to her Maiestie and her lawes ecclesiasticall by publike authoritie allowed.

6. Whether your schoolemaister or schoolemasters or any of them vnder pretence of Catechising their schollers, which is a most godly order, carefully by them to be obserued, do keepe lectures, readings, or exposition in diuinitie in their houses, hauing repaire vnto them of people not being of their owne family and household.

7. Whether the schoolemaister or schoolemasters within your parish do teach his or their scollers any other grammer then that which is commonly called the Kings grammer, sette forth by the authoritie of King Henrie the eight.

Articles concerning Parishioners and others of the Laitie.

1. Whether all householders in your parish cause their children, seruants, and apprentices, both mankind and womankind being aboue seuen yeares of age, and vnder twentie, which haue not learned the catechisme, to come to the church on sundayes and holydayes at the times appoynted for catechising, and there diligently and obediently to heare, and what bee the names of those that do not cause their children, seruants and apprentices so to come to the church to be instructed and examined.

2. Whether the churchwardens do quarterly deliuer to the Archdeacon a note of all those who do not send their children and servants to be catechised.

3. Whether any do worke or keepe any shoppe open vpon Saboth daies, or vpon any holy daies appoynted by the lawes of this realme to be kept holiday, or vse any worke or labor, or open shew of their wares in any of those dayes.

4. Whether you your selues or the Churchwardens in the yeares before you haue suffered any vnmarrried women being begotten with child, to goe out of your parish before she hath by you or them bin presented to your Ordinarie, or any man defamed of whoredome to depart vnpunished, vpon direction appoynted by the ordinarie. And forth of whose houses haue they gon away with child vnpunished, and what be the names of such vnmarrried women which haue bene deliuered within your parish this three yeares last past, haue gone away without doing of penance.

5. Whether the parish Clarke be appoynted according to the law, by the parson or vicar of the parish, with the allowance of the Ordinarie, and whether hee be not obedient to the parson, vicar, or curate, and whether hee be able to reade, and whether he keepe the bookes and ornaments of the Church faire and cleane, and cause the church, and quire, the communion table and the fonte to bee kept cleane and decent against the seruice time, the communion, sermon, and baptisme.

6. Whether there be any person or persons ecclesiasticall or temporall within your parish or elsewhere within this Diocess, that haue retained and kept in their custodie, or that reade, sel, vtter, disperse, carrie, or deliuer to others any English bookes or libels, sette forth either on this side or beyond the seas, by Papists or others, against the Queenes supremacie in causes ecclesiasticall, or against true Religion and Catholike doctrine, or the gouernment or discipline of the Church of England, now within this Realme receiued and established by common authoritie, and what theyr names and surnames are.

7. Whether there be any in your parish who are noted, knowne, or suspected to conceale or keepe hidden in their houses any masse bookes, portesses, breuiaries, or other bookes of poperie and superstition or any challices copes, vestments, albs, or other ornaments of superstition, vncancelled or vndefaced, which it is to be coniectured they do keepe for a day, as they cal it.

8. Whether there be in your parish any popish or sectary recusant or recusants, which for any cause whatsoever forbear to come to Church to common prayer or to heare Gods word preached, pretending it vnlawfull to to (sic) come to our assemblies, as the church of England now standeth, established by her maiesties authoritie, and what their seueral name or names are, and how long they haue bene recusants.

9. Whether any do refuse to receiue the holy communion at their owne ministers hands eyther because he is not a preacher, or because he duly obserueth the order of ministration appoynted by the booke, and who they be that do go from their own parish, to receiue at any other ministers hands.

10. Whether any of your parishioners hauing a preacher to their parson, vicar, or curate, do absent themselves from his sermons, and resort to any other place to heare other preachers.

11. Whether all the people of your parish aboue 16 yeares of age, and especially householders, hauing no lawfull excuse to be absent, doe resort with their seruants and children to their parish Church or Chappell on the holydaies, and on the Sundaies to morning and evening prayer, and who they be that eyther negligently or wilfully absent themselves or do vnreuerently behaue themselves in the church, or vse any gaming or pastime abroad or in any house, or sitte in the streete or churchyard, or in any tauerne, or alehouse, vpon the Sunday, or holyday, in the time of common prayer, sermon, or reading of the homilies, or any of them eyther before or after noone.

12. Whether the forfeiture of xii pence for euery time of absence from the church vpon euery sunday and holyday appoynted by a statute made in the first yeare of the Queenes maiesties raigne to be leuied and taken according to the same statute (the tenor whereof is sette downe in the beginning of this booke) by the churchwardens of euerie person that offendeth, and by them be put to the vse of the poore of the parish, if it be not so leuied, by whose fault it is?

13. Whether there be any Inkeepers, alewines, victallers, or tiplers, that suffer or do admitte any person or persons in their houses, to eate, drinke, or play at dice, cards, tables, bowles, or such like games, in the time of common prayer or sermon on the sundays or holydayes, or any Butchers or other that commonly vse to sell meate or other things in the time of common prayer, preaching, or reading of homilies: and whether in any faires or common markets falling vpon the Sundayes, there be shewing of any wares before morning prayer be done: and whether any markets and selling of wares be vsed or suffered in any churchyards on the Sabbath day by common packmen or pedlers going about, or any Butchers.

14. Whether the Churchwardens of the last yeare haue giuen to the parish a iust account of the church goods that were committed to their charge according to the custome that hath bene afore time vsed; and what church goods they or any other have sold, and to whom and whether to the profite of your church or no: and what hath bin done with the money thereof comming?

15. Whether the churchwardens and swornemen, since the fourth day of August, 1597, haue of any priuate corrupt affection concealed any crime or other disorder in their time done in your parish, and haue not presented the same to the Bishop, Chancelor, Archdeacon, Commissarie, or such other as had authoritie to reforme the same: and whether they or any of them at any such time as they should haue been at diuine seruice on sundayes and holydayes, and should there haue obserued others that were absent, haue bene away themselves at home, or in some tauerne or alehouse, or else about some worldly businesse, or at bowles, cards, tables, dice or other gaming, without regard of their office, and dutie in that behalfe.

16. Whether your minister and you the churchwardens, or any other in your parish haue in your reuerities made any orders, or do vse to call any parties before you for any cause to be ordered by the ecclesiasticall lawes, and so do vse a kind of Presbiterie or censuring ouer your neighbours, vnder pretence of your vestrie meetings.

17. Whether any of your parish being of conuenient age, haue not received the holy communion thrice this last yeere at the least, and namely at Easter last or thereabouts for once, and what their names are, or which at their receiuing haue not signified the same before to your parson, vicar, or curate, that he might conueniently examine them, and who haue refused to come to him to be examined.

18. Whether there be any in your parish that doth administer the goods of those that be dead without lawfull authoritie, or any that suppress the last will of the dead, or any Executors that haue not fulfilled their Testators last will, in paying of legacies giuen to the church, or to other good and godly vses, as to reliefe of pouertie, to orphans, (sic) poore schollers, poore maidens marriages, high wayes, and such like, and by whom are they so detained.

19. Whether there be any in your parish, that since the fourth of August 1597, hath or doth offend contrarie to the statute made in the seauen and thirtieth yeere of the raigne of King Henrie the eight, for the reformation of vsurie, and reuiued by an Act made in the thirteenth yeere of the raigne of the Queenes Majestie that now is, taking aboue the rate of ten pounds for the lending of an hundred pounds by the yeare, and what be the names of such offenders.

20. Whether hath your minister or any of the parish, without the consent or priuie of the Ordinarie, caused any to do penance, or be punished either openly or otherwise for any crime punishable by the Ecclesiasticall lawes onely, and what be the names of the parties that haue been esopunished, and in what manner.

21. Whether there be any amongst you that do vse sorcerie or witchcraft punishable by the ecclesiasticall lawes, or that be suspected of the same: and whether any vse any charmes or vnlawfull prayers: and whether any do resort to any such for help and counsell, and what be the names, both of such as vse it, and of such as resort to them for helpe.

22. Whether any couples that be married in priuate houses within these three yeares last past haue bin knowne or suspected to haue bin married by any popish priest or otherwise, after any other order then is appoynted by the Church of England.

23. Whether there be among you any blasphemers of the name of God, great or often swearers, adulterers, fornicators, harlots or whoremasters incestuous persons, bawdes, or receiuers of naughtie and incontinent persons, or harborers of women with child which be vnmarried, cenueying or suffering them to goe away before they doe any penance, or any that be vehemently suspected of any such faults, or that be not of good name and fame touching such crimes and faults of drunkards, or ribawds, or any that bee malicious, contentious, or vncharitable persons, railers, scolders, or sowers of discord between neighbours, and especially railers against ministers and against their marriage.

24. Whether there be any in these partes that haue bin married within the degrees of affinitie or consanguinitie, by the lawes of God forbidden, or any that being diuorced or seperated for the same, do yet notwithstanding cohabite and keepe company still together, or any that being married without those degrees haue vnlawfully forsaken their wiues or husbands, and married others, any man that hath two wiues, or any woman that hath 2 husbands, any that being diuorced or seperated asunder, haue married againe, any that haue married without banes three severall sundayes or holydayes solemnly asked and without lawfull license therunto, or any couples married that liue not together, but slauderously liue apart.

25. Whether there be any in your parish who will come to heare the sermon, but will not come to the publike prayer, appoynted by the booke of common prayer making a schisme or diuision, as it were, betwene the vse of publike prayer and preaching. And whether there be any, who being present at publike prayer, do not deuoutly and humbly kneele vpon their knees, at such times as by the Booke of common prayer they are appoynted: to wit, when they make a generall confession of their sinnes: when all prayers and collects are read: in the time of the Lettanie: when the tenne Commandements are read, &c. And what are their names that haue at any time shewed themselves vndutifull and vnreuerent in this behalfe.

26. Whether the minister and churchwardens haue suffered any lord of mis-rule, or summer lord or ladies, or any disguised persons, any players, or maie-games, or any moris dauncers, at any time to come vnreuerently into the church or churchyard, and there to dance or play, or shew themselves disguised in the time of common prayer, and what they be that commit such disorder, or that accompanied or maintained them, or any playes to be played in the church.

27. Whether there be any married women or others within your parish, which after childbirth refuse or contemne to come to the church to giue God thanks for their deliury, and to haue the prayers publikely appoynted in that behalfe by the booke of common prayer.

28. Whether any within your parish do resort into barns, fields, woods, priuate houses, or to any extraordinary expositions of scriptures, or conferences together, or that be drawers or perswaders of others to any such sismaticall conuenticles,

29. Whether any do keepe their children vn baptized longer then is conuenient, vnles it be for sickness of the child, or other vrgent occasion: And whether any doe carrie their children from the parish they are borne in, to other parishes to be baptized, and so refuse their owne parish, or doe bring strange ministers into their owne houses to bap tize (sic) their children priuatly according to their owne fantasies.

30. Whether any notorious recusant who obstinately refuseth to be partaker with the Church of England in publike prayer, and hearing of the word of God preached, who is for his disobedience and contempt excommunicated, and dyeth excommunicate, be buried in Christian buriall, not having before his death sought to be absolved, and testified the same his submission to some honest and discrete man who shall vpon his oath signifie to the Bishop of the Dioces, whereby his Lordship may giue order to the Ordinarie, before whom he was excommunicate for his absolution.

At the deliuerie of your Bill of presentment, at the time and place aboue set downe, you are likewise, in the sayd Bill, to set downe the names of all such as have bene buried at any time since the tenth of August 1601. being men, maides, or widdowes, and likewise the names of such as haue bene married by any licence since that time, and out of what Court they haue bene granted, since the sayd tenth of August.

THORNBOROUGH, BISHOP OF BRISTOL,
1603.

ARTICLES to be ministred and to be enquired of, and answered in the first generall visitation of the reverend father in God, John, by Gods permission, Bishop of Bristol.

Oxford, printed by Joseph Barnes, Printer to the Vniversitie, 1603.

The Tenor of the oath ministred to the Church-wardens, and sworne men.

You shall sweare by almightie God, that yee will diligently consider all and every the Articles given to you in charge, and make a true answer to every of the same in writing; Presenting all and every such person and persons, dwelling within your parish, as haue committed any offence or fault, or made any default, mentioned in any the saide Articles, or which are vehemently suspected or defamed, of such offence fault, or default. Wherein you shall not present any person or persons of any evil-will, malice, or hatred, contrary to the truth, nor shall for loue, favour, meede, dread, or corrupt affection, spare to present any that be offenders, suspected, or defamed, in any of these cases, but shall doe vprightly, as men having the feare of God before your eyes, and desirous to maintaine vertue, and suppress vice. So helpe you God.

Concerning the Clergie.

Inprimis, Whether any man hath presumed to preach in any of your parishes not being therevnto licenced by the Lord Archbishop of Caunterbury, or by the Bishop of the Dioces, vnder his authenticque seale of office, and present what his name is, where he dwelleth and when he so preached.

2. Item, Whether any preacher in any of your parishes hath preached any thing or matter tending to dissention or sedition, any false doctrine contrary to, or in derogation of the Religion and doctrin received and now established in the church of England, or tending to the derogation of the booke of common praier, or any thng (sic.) therein contained, or to the late Queenes Maiesties Iniunctions, or to the derogation of the law, statute or institution, established for the present government of the Church of England; if yea: Then present what his name is, where he dwelleth, and in what particuler he hath offended.

3. Item, Whether you do know any that presumeth to preach in any nobleman, or gentlemans house, privately or publikly, not being allowed by the Bishop of the Dioces, or some other having auctority therevnto, and licenced in writing vnder Seale, according to common forme; if you know any such, present his name, where he dwelleth, and where he vseth to preach.

4. Item, Whether your church, Parsonage or Vicaridge be voide or no, and how long it hath so bin, who gathereth the fruiets thereof in the vacancie, and by what auctority, and who is the Patron thereof for this vacancie.

5. Item, Whether your Parson, or Vicar, be resident vpon his benefice or no: If not: howe long, or howe many daies hath hee bene absent from the same together, or at severall times, in any one yeare since the Parliament last past.

6. Item, Whether your Parson or Vicar have any more benefices then one; and if hee hath, then whether hee hath a lawfull dispensation to keepe the same, how farre bee they asunder, and in what countrie doe they lie, and whether doth he not distribute the fortieth part of the benefice, wherevpon hee is not resident, to the poore of the parish, according to her late Maiesties iniunctions in that behalfe provided.

7. Item, Whether your Parson or Vicar, not being resident vpon his benefice, doth leave there an honest, learned, and sufficient Curate; who is able, and doth painfully, and diligently instruct the people, and catechise their youth, and serve the Cure in due time and order.

8. Item, Whether your Parson, Vicar, Curate, or Minister, doth plainly and distinctly reade the publike prayers, and service of the Church vpon every Sunday and holyday, and the Evenings going before, in due time, so as the parishioners and auditors may well heare the same, and in such manner and forme, as is prescribed in the booke of common praier, without any alteration and without adding there therevnto or omitting therefrom any thing whatsoever: and whether he doth at any time, celebrating the divine service, omitte, or alter any of the collects, prayers, psalms, or one or both of the Lessons, or any part of divine service whatsoever, appointed in the saide booke of common praier.

9. Item, Whether any hath presumed to execute the office of a Minister or Deacon in any of your Churches, and to say and celebrate the divine service there, or to serve the Cure of your parish, not being a Minister or Deacon: and whether any Deacon hath presumed to minister the Sacraments in any your churches, not having first received the full orders of Priesthood? If yea: Present what his name is, where hee dwelleth, and how often hath he offended heerein.

10. Item, Whether at any time and during the whole celebration of divine Service and ministration of the Sacraments, in everie your churches, your Parson, Vicar, or Curate, doth weare a Surplice, according to the lawes and statutes of this Realme of England in that behalfe provided, and howe often default hath bene made heerein, and by whom.

11. Item, Whether your Parson, Vicar, or Minister doth at any time minister the Communion or Sacraments of the Lords Supper, to any his parishioners or other, sitting or standing, but alwaies humbly kneeling; and not in their severall seates, where they vsually sitte in the church, but kneeling in the seates severally appointed in your severall churches for the Communicants, to receive the same: And how often default hath bene made heerein, and by whome.

12. Item, Whether your Parson, Vicar, or Curate in the Administration of Baptisme, doth vse to signe every child baptised with the signe of the Crosse, and whether in the whole action of Baptisme hee doth observe the orders and forme prescribed in the booke of common praier: if not, wherein hee differeth, and varieth from the same.

13. Item, Whether your Parson, Vicar, or Curate, doth duely and orderly Catechise all that bee of convenient age, of this parish, and whether the parents and maisters of the youthes of the Parish, do either refuse or neglect to send them to be so Catechised, according to the order in that behalfe prescribed in the booke of common prayer, and in her late Maiesties iniunctions: And whether they, or any of them doe refuse to visite the sicke, or burie the dead, or doe any such like office and function, as belongeth to his or their places and calling.

14. Item, Whether your Parson, Vicar, or Curate, or any Preacher, or other person whatsoever, within your parish, have by word, writing, or otherwise, depraved or spoken against the booke of common praier, or any thing therein contained, or against any forme or matter of government Ecclesiastical now established in the Church of England.

15. Item, Whether your Preacher, Parson, Vicar, or Curate be a seditious person, or a sower of discord among his neighbours, or whether hee keepeth any suspected woman in his house, or whether he vseth to frequent the company of any suspected woman else-where; is he suspected, or knowen to have committed incest, adultery, or fornication with any woman whatsoever? And present the same to the vttermost of your knowledge, and how the common fame and report of the people goeth thereof.

16. Item, Whether your Parson or Vicar hath obtained his benefice or his presentation, or admission to the same by any Simoniack fact, covenant, conclusion or agreement, directly or indirectly: if yea; then with whom hath he so committed such Simony, and for what consideration; And present how the common fame thereof goeth.

17. Item, Whether your Preacher, Parson, Vicar, or Curate be suspected, noted or knowen, to be a drunkard, or a frequenter of Taverns, Innes, or Ale-houses, is he a common gamster, at cards, dice, or tables, or other unlawfull games, doth he goe decently apperelled, or is he suspected to be otherwise vicious or lewd of life and conversation, or any waies scandalous and offensive to the godly, and well-affected of his parish.

18. Item, Whether your Parson, Vicar, or Curate, bee a preacher allowed by the Ordinarie, or no; If he be not allowed or so licensed by the Ordinarie, whether he presumeth or taketh vpon him to preach or expound the Scriptures in his owne Cure or els where, and whether he doth every Sunday and Holi-day, when there is no sermon in his church, reade one of the Homilies, or some part of one of them, according as is prescribed and appointed by the late Queenes Maiesties Iniunctions.

19. Item, Whether your Parson, Vicar, or Curate, doth plainly and distinctly once every Quarter, read publikely to their parishioners the said late Queenes Maiesties Iniunctions, vpon some Sunday or holi-day, that the people may the better know their duties to God and their Prince.

20. Item, Whether any Minister hath presumed or taken vpon him to say the divine service, or to minister the Sacraments in any of your churches, or to serve the Cure of the same not being before therevnto Licensed and authorised by the Bishop of the Dioces, or his Chancelor, in writing vnder their Seale of Office? And present what his name is, and where he dwelleth that presumeth so to doe.

21. Item, Whether any Minister, or Curate, of any your Churches, or Chappelles, presumeth to serve two Cures; Present his name, and by what authority he presumeth to do the same?

22. Item, Whether your Parson, Vicar, or Curate, doth vsually every yeere in the Rogation weeke goe with the Parishioners in the perambulations about the Parish, according to the custome and vse of ancient time, and doth say the praier and suffrages appointed for the same, according to the late Queenes Maiesties iniunctions in that behalfe provided, and according to the booke of Advertisements?

23. Item, Whether your Parson, Vicar, or Curate, doth admit to the Communion any of his parishioners or others, that be knowne not to be in love and charitie, or any that hath maliciously and openly contended, vnlesse the same first doe charitably and openly reconcile themselves againe, and bee soary for his or their transgression: or any that hath committed any notable sinne, or offence, before he hath made satisfaction to the Congregation offended; and present who hath transgressed heerein, and how often?

24. Item, Whether your Parson, Vicar, or Curate, hath admitted to her thanksgiving, or purification, any woman that hath bene delivered of a bastard in adulterie, or fornication, before the same woman hath bene adioyned (sic) by order from the Ordinarie of the place to doe penance, and to make satisfaction to the Congregation for her offence?

25. Item, Whether your Parson, Vicar, or Curate, doth every Sunday, when occasion serveth, commaund and exhort his parishioners to keepe the holi-daies and fasting-daies, happening the weeke following, according to the lawes, and statutes of this Realme in that behalfe provided: or whether for any corrupt conceipt or sinister opinion in matters of Religion, or government hee hath refused, or neglected to doe the same; and present how often he hath transgressed heerein, since the late Parliament?

26. Item, Whether your Parson, or Vicar having two benefices, with cure of soules, bee resident vpon one of the saide benefices, and keepeth hospitalitie vpon the same: And hath hee demised or lettē to farme the benefice wherevpon he is not resident, to any other man than his Curate, and to whom?

27. Item, Whether your Parson, Vicar, or Curate, hath celebrated and saide divine service, and praier in the Church, when any person that he knew to be excommunicated, or denounced for an excommunicate person, was present in the same Church, at that time among the congregation: and whether he hath suffered such an excommunicated person (being a member cut off from the church, and from Christian society) to be partaker of those praier, and hath not commanded the Churchwardens of the parish, or some other, to put him out of the church, or otherwise ceased from saying any divine praier, during the time of the presence of such excommunicated person thereat: And present who hath offended heerein, and how often.

28. Item, Whether your Parson, Vicar, or Curate (being himselfe for his contempt and disobedience to his Ordinarie, or to Ecclesiastical Jurisdiction, or for other iust cause suspended or excommunicated) hath presumed to preach, reade, say, or celebrate divine service or common praier, or publike service in the church? And present what his name is, that hath so done, and where, and how often he hath offended heerein.

29. Item, Whether your Parson, Vicar, or Curate, hath Christened any infant in his church, or chappell, being borne in another parish, or ministred the holy communion in his church to any inhabitant of another parish, or solemnized mariage betweene any parties of his owne parish in the time prohibited, or without the banes of Matrimonie vpon three severall Sundaies or holi-daies before published, not having first obtained a speciall Licence or dispensation from the Bishop of the Dioces, or his Chancelor so to do: or betweene any other parties of any other parish, or parishes without the like lawfull Licence and dispensation in that behalfe first obtained; or buried the dead of any other parish in his own church: or hath presumed to intrude himselfe into another mans Cure, charge, or church, to do and execute any of the premises, or to celebrate and read any publike praier, in any other man's church without the consent of the Incumbent and the Minister of the place so to do? And present who hath offended heerein, when, where, and how often?

30. Item, Whether your Parson, Vicar, or Curate of any your church or chappels, having received any excommunication, suspension, or aggravation from the Bishop of the Dioces, his Chancelor, or other Ordinarie, against any of their parishioners, have presumed to make stay of, and not published such excommunication, suspension or aggravation according to the Tenor thereof, the next Sunday or Holy-day after the receipt of the same, in your church or chappell at the time of divine service? If any be faulty heerein, present their names, and how often default hath bin made in that behalfe.

31. Item, Whether your church, chancel, or churchyard be in due and good reparation or no? If not; then present wherein the default is, and in whom.

32. Item, Whether the parsonage or vicaradge-house of your parish be in decay and wanteth reparations yea, or no; if yea, then who ought to reaire the same, and what the fault is.

33. Item, Whether any of the trees growing in your church-yard be cut downe by any man and imploied to any other vse then to the necessary reparation of the chancel or of the body of the church; if yea, Then present who cut downe the same, and present to what vse it is or hath bin imploied and by whom.

34. Item, Who is the Patron of the benefice, parsonage, or vicaridge of your church, and what is the value of the same in the late Queenes or now Kings bookes; And whether the Incumbent therevpon be a Doctor or a Bachelor of divinitie, or what other degree of Schoole is he?

35. Item, Whether there be any Hospitals or Almes-houses in your parish, and whether the same be vsed, kept, and ordered, according to the foundations, Lawes and Statutes (sic) thereof, and in whom the fault is, that they are not so vsed and kept.

36. Item, Whether your church and churchyard be cleanly and decently kept, and whether any noysome or offensive cattell be suffered to moyle and defile the same in any sort; And present in whose default it is so defiled.

37. Item, Whether the Patron of any benefice or Ecclesiasticall promotion, or Living, hath taken any money, monworth (sic), or reward, directly, or indirectly for presenting of any Minister or Clarke to the same? If yea; what is his name, and where such Patron dwelleth, and what mony, moniworth or reward he hath taken or received for the same, and whom hath he so simonically presented therevnto, and whether there be in any your parishes any common fame or report, that any such Simony was committed by any such person, or by any Incumbent that he hath so presented to any such benefice.

¶ Concerning the Laitie.

1. IMPRIMIS, Whether the Church-wardens of every of your parishes be chosen according to the custome of the parish, by the consent of the parishioners and the Ministers, and whether they have continued in the Office aboue one yeare, and whether such Church-wardens have given vp a iust and perfect account of all such money as they have received by vertue of their Office, to the vse of the church, and in the end of the year have restored and satisfied the same to the next Church-wardens of the yeare following without wast or diminution, except such part thereof as they have employed and bestowed in reparations, and the necessary vse of the church.

2. Item, Whether the Church-wardens of every of your parishes do carefully and diligently see, that the churches be wel repaired in all things necessary and convenient for the same, and whether in every Bishop or Archdeacons severall visitations they have omitted or neglected to present the defaults thereof, and whether they have omitted or neglected to present to the Ordinary the names and surnames of all those which have rudely behaved themselves, or brawled or chid in the church or church-yard, or which by walking, talking or making of any stirre or noise, have letted or interrupted the Minister or Preacher in the execution of his Office. And present who hath offended heerein, how, when, and how often.

3. Item, Whether your Church-wardens doe carefully and diligently see that your churches be provided of a comlie and decent Surplice for the Minister to read the publike praier, and to minister the Sacraments in, of a decent Communion Table covered with a cloath, a faire communion Cup of silver, covered, a faire and decent Pulpit for the Preacher, a Bible of the largest volume, a faire booke of common Praiers, the Paraphrase of Erasmus, or the booke of Martires, our late Queenes Maiesties Injunctions, the two bookes or Tomes of Homilies, a Psalter, a booke of Psalmes, a faire Font for the christening of Infants, and of all other things, and ornaments necessary for the celebration of the holy Sacraments. And present what default or want there hath bin, or is heerein, and in whose default.

4. Item, Whether the Church-wardens or Sidemen, or any of them have suffered any banquets, Feasts, Dinners, Suppers, or any common Drinkings in any of your churches, or whether they have suffered any Faires, Markets, or selling of wares, or any vnlawful gams to be kept and vsed in the church or churchyard; or vpon the Sunday or Sabaoth day, or any other day appointed by the Lawes of this Realme to be kept holy? And present who hath offended heerein, and when.

5. Item, Whether your Church-wardens do levy twelue pence of every of the parishioners, for every Sunday or Sabaoth day, that hee, or they, absenteth himselfe, or their selyes from the church? And whether the same so levied, they have employed to the vse of the poore, according to the statute in that behalfe provided? And present who hath offended heerein, and how often.

6. Item, Whether they or any of them, have suffered any Curate to serve the Cure of their church or chappell, or to celebrate, and reade the publike service and praiers there, or any Preacher to preach in any of your churches, or any schole-master to teach in any of your parishes, not having first shewed vnto them, a lawfull licence or toleration in writing, vnder the Bishop of the Dioces or his Chancelors seale of Office in that behalfe, first obtained so to doe? Present who hath made default heerein, when and how often.

7. Item, Whether your Church-wardens or any of them, have suffered and permitted, or winked at, any excommunicate, or suspended person or persons to be present in the church, at the celebration of divine service or publike praiers there, and to be partaker therof, knowing him to be excommunicated or suspended, or to be publicly denounced for such a one? Present who hath offended heerein, and how often.

8. Item, Whether your Church-wardens or any of them, have wasted any of the church-goods, or alienated, or done away any of the same, or any part thereof? And present what and how much they have so alienated, and wasted, and who did alienate and wast the same, and when.

9. Item, Whether your Church-wardens Register-booke of christnings and burryings. doe carefully see to, and provide that there bee in every of your churches a Register booke of Christnings, weddings and burials, orderly kept, and whether within one month after Easter in everie yeare since the Parliament holden in the nine and thirtieth yeare of our late Queene of famous memory Queene Elizabeth, they have brought vnto the Bishops Registers office a true transcript, and copy of the same there to be kept amongst the said Bishops Records, to the vse and behoofe of posterity, according to the Canons, established in the said Parliament, and confirmed by her Maiesties auctority? And whether according to the late canons in that behalfe made, it be put into parchment, containing the names and sur-names of al such as have bin christned, married, or buried, since the beginning of her Maiesties raigne? And whether doth your Minister vpon every Sabaoth day after morning and evening prayer openly reade the names of all such as have bin Registered the weeke before, and whether the Minister and church-wardens of every parish, do subscribe their names, or markes, to the end of every page of the said booke? And whether the said booke be kept vnder three locks, and three keyes, as by the said canons is required? And present what fault you know heerein, and by whom the offence is committed.

10. Item, Whether the Ministers and Church-wardens, have suffered any Lords of mis-rule, or Summer-Lords, or Ladies, or any disguised persons, with may-games morishdances, or the like, to come vnreverently into the church, or church-yard, and there to dance, or play any vnseemely parts, with scofes, iestes, wanton gestures, or ribauld talke, especially in the time of common praier? And what they be that commit such disorder, or keepe them company, or maintaine them? And whether there be any which fight, braule, or chide in church, or church-yard, or any which strive for seats or pews, and what be their names.

11. Item, Whether any church-wardens or side-men since the last visitation, or at that time, concealed any disorder, or crime done in your parish, or not presented the same to be reformed? And where they have suffered any vnmarried woman, begotten with child, to depart out of their parish before such penance done, as was enioyned.

12. Item, Whether doe you know, or have heard of any legacy, by any mans will, or any gift otherwise given to the poore, to the church, or to anie other holie vses, and not performed, or bestowed according to his will and gift, and in whose hands the same doth now remaine?

13. Item, Whether the poore mans box within your parish be duely and orderly kept, according to the lawes in that behalfe established.

14. Item, Whether there be in your parish any Recusant, Papist, Brownist or Puritan, or any other Sectary whatsoever, that vseth or frequenteth any private conventicles, meetings, or assemblies, in any houses, barnes, woods, or any such like places, vnder pretence to heare the word Preached, or the Scriptures expounded? Or doth not vsually frequent, and resort to his parish church, or some other vsual place of common praier to heare divine service, and the common praiers there vsed, according to the lawes and statutes of this Realme? What are their names, sur-names, and degrees, that have offended heerein, and how often, and how long they have bin Recusants, and who be the maintainers, abbettors, and favourers of them.

15. Item, Do you know, or have you heard in your parishes, of any housholder, or other, that keepeth or maintaineth, with meate, drinke, or other sustenance, any such Recusant, or Sectarie, except his wife, father, mother, child, ward, brother or sister, or his wives father, and mother? What is the name, sur-name, and condition of such Recusant, or Sectary: and by whom he is so maintained.

16. Whether there is in your parish any Recusant, Papist, or other, that hath resorting vnto him any Jesuites, Seminaries, or Massing-Priests, or any other reconciled to the Church of Rome. Or whether any such Recusant, or suspected person doth keepe in his or their house, any Schole-master, or any person that teacheth children, not licenced, or authorized thervnto, by the Bishop, or Chancelor of the Dioces? What be their names, sur-names, degrees, and conditions, and how long, and how often have they vsed such frequenting, and resorting either to other? Present the vttermost of your knowledge heerein.

17. Item, Whether do you know or have heard of any that have received into their hands, and kept, or keepeth any slanderous, and seditious bookes, pamphlets, libels, or scroles devised, written, or printed, against the present government Ecclesiastical of this Realme, or against any Archbishop, or Bishop, or magistrates of the same? What bookes, pamphlets, libels, or scroles were they? Against whom devised and made, who gave countenance, allowance, or credite, and entertainment therunto? And present what is the vttermost of your knowledge herein.

18. Item, Whether do you know any of your parishe, that in contempt of his own Minister, or for any other corrupt cause doth resort to any other church, to heare divine service, to baptize their children, to receive the holy communion, and what is the cause wherfore he, or they, have so done; and how they have vsed the same, and what disorder or fault, hath bin committed herein.

19. Item, Whether there be any in your parish that have not received the holy Communion, three times every yeare at the least, wherof Easter to be one; and present their names?

20. Item, Whether there be in your parish any common ianglers, walkers, talkers, or sleepers, in the church, in the time of divine service? And what be their names?

21. Item, Whether all persons within your parish, of convenient age, do reparaire to the church vpon Sundaies, and Holi-daies to heare divine service; who are faulty therein? And present their names.

22. Item, Whether there be in your parish any common swearers, or blasphemers of the name of God, or any that by common fame, or report, are suspected to be such persons, what be their names, and where they dwell?

23. Item, Whether there be in any your parishes any common drunkards, or any common scolds, disturbers of their neighbors, slaundersers, backbiters, or any such as by false rumors do endeavour to take away the good name and credite of any of their neighbours, by false reports, informations, or other sinister practises, or any that are suspected, or by common fame reported to be such persons? Present their names, and where they dwell, and how ofte they have offended herein.

24. Item, Whether there be in any your parishes, any vsurers, or any such as put their mony, marchandizes, or wares, to vsury, and take for the lone, or vse of the same, above the rate of X pound for the hundred, for a yeare; or any that are suspected, or noted by common fame or report, to be such persons? Present their names, and what mony or money, worth, they, or any of them, have taken of any person, above the said rate of X pound for the hundred, for the yeare? When and how often they have so done.

25. Item, Whether do you know in any your parishes, any witches, sooth-sayers, conjurers, charmers, or sorcerers, or any that be suspected for such persons? Present their names, and what special hurt they have committed.

26. Item, Whether doe you know, or have heard, of any person or persons, whatsoever, that have committed any incest, adultery or fornication, or have vsed suspiciously the company of any woman, to the intent to commit any such sinne? or any that is vehemently suspected or defamed to have committed any such crime, or any man that hath attempted the chastitie of any woman, or hath sollicited any woman to have the carnall knowledge of her body, or any in your parishes to bee bauds or receivers of any such persons? Present them that have so offended, and where they dwell, and what common fame or fames have you heard of any person or persons in the premises, or any of them.

27. Item, Whether there be any man in your parish that hath two wives, or any woman that hath two husbands living, or any that being lawfully divorced for Adultery hath married againe or any that being lawfully married doe offensively live asunder without lawfull divorce, or any man or woman, that live together not being lawfully married, or any that have married together, within the forbidden degrees of consanguinity or affinity, or any that have married in the time prohibited, or without the banes of Matrimony three severall Sundaies, or Holi-daies lawfully and orderly published; not being licenced thervnto by the bishop or Chancelor of the Dioces? Or any woman that hath bin begotten with childe before marriage? If any such be, present their names, and where they dwell.

28. Item, Whether there be in your parish any person or persons that have fought, brawled, or chidden in the Church, Church-portch, or church-yard, or vsed any vnlawful games or sports there, as bowling, tennis, or any such like, contrary to the lawes of this Realme? Present their names, and where they dwell.

29. Item, Whether there bee in any your parishes, any that hath vnreverently abused or given any evill and vnseemlie Termes, of any Minister of God's word and Sacraments, or of any Preacher allowed by the Bishop of the Dioces; either in the time of his celebration of divine service, or sermon, or in the time of the administration of the Sacraments in the church, or at any other time or place? Present the abuse so given, and to whome.

30. Item, Whether there be any in your parishes any executors of dead mens Willes, or Testaments, or any that doe administer in dead mens goods before the Will be proved or the Administration granted; or any deceased whose Will is not yet proved, or the Administration of his goods according to the lawes Ecclesiastical of this Realme granted; Present the names of such as are offenders herein, and whose willes are not yet proved, and whose goods are administered without the Administration thereof lawfully obtained of the Ordinary.

31. Item, Whether there be in any of your parishes any person, or persons that hath stood excommunicated, and denounced for excommunicated persons, by the space of forty daies, and yet doe continue vnreformed, without feare of God, or danger of the lawes? Present their names and how long they have so continued.

32. Item, Do you know any person or persons that have bin presented by the Wardens or Side-men in any visitation, or otherwise to any Ecclesiastical Judge within the Dioces of Bristol whatsoever, for any matter, crime, or offence, whatsoever corrigible by the Ecclesiastical lawes of this Realme, and hath not received due correction and reformation by the order of the said Courts, to the reasonable satisfaction of the congregation where such offence was committed, for the same? If any such be, present the name of such persons so presented or detected, to whom he was so presented or detected, and what fault or offence the congregation did receive thereby.

33. Item, Whether there be in any your parishes any Butchers, Victallers, Mercers, Drapers, Chandlers, Tailers, Shoemakers, or any other of any trade, faculty, or occupation whatsoever, that vse to keepe their Shop-windowes, or doores open, and so sell or exchange any of their meate, victuals, wares, or merchandizes whatsoever vpon any Sundaies, or Holi-daies; specially in the time of common-praiers, Sermon, or Service; Present their names, and how often they have offended herein.

34. Item, Whether there bee in any of your parishes, any Vintners, In-keepers, or Alehouse-keepers, or any their servants or familie, that have selde, or vttered any meate, drinke, or other victuals vpon any Sunday or (sic.) Holy-day at the time of divine service, or common praier, to any person or persons whatsoever, or suffered any vnlawfull games to bee plaied in their houses vpon any such the said daies, at the saide time of divine service or sermon; what be their names, that have so done, and how often they have offended herein.

35. Item, Whether any strange woman great with child, hath bin brought, or conveyed by any man, into any of your parishes to be delivered of a child? Whether such woman were married or vnmarried? Whether such woman hath bin delivered of such child there, yea or no? And at whose coste and charges, hath such woman bin conuaied, caried and maintained, and in whose house shee hath bin so maintained and delivered of child? And whether the partie in whose house she was so delivered of child, and maintained, did suffer such woman to depart his house or parish, before he, or some other, have made the fault known to the Ordinary of the place, or before shee hath received condigne punishment for the offence committed? And whether any woman being great, or suspected to be great with any base child, hath departed out of your parish, to any other place; If yea; out of whose house shee departed, and who hath bin noted, or suspected to have had carnal knowledge of her body, and to be the father of her child; whether such woman is gone, and by whose meanes she hath bin so caried and conveied away; and whether your Minister hath admitted any such woman to her thanks-giving, after child-birth, before she hath done open penance, and reconciled her selfe to God, and to the congregation for her offence? And what is the common fame, in any the premisses you shall present.

36. Item, Whether there have bin, or Eating flesh vpon be in your parish any person or persons forbidden daies. whatsoever, that have eaten any flesh, or have dressed any flesh to bee eaten vpon any fasting daies, or any daies prohibited by the lawes and government of the Church of England, to eate flesh vpon, or in the time of Lent, without lawfull licence in that behalfe first obtained, and vpon the conditions in the lawes mentioned and provided? Present their names that have so eaten flesh, and who dressed the same: and heerein especially require of all Vintners, In-keepers, Victualers, and Tipplers.

37. Item, Whether do you know of Keeping company with persons ex-communicated and aggravated. any person, or persons within your parish, that for his, or their contempt in not obeying the Ecclesiasticall lawes of this Realme, hath stood excommunicated forty daies, and by meanes thereof standeth aggravated? And whether any of your parish, have or doe keepe any such person agravated (sic) company, or doth, or hath bought, sold, eaten, drunke, or by any meanes conversed, or bin familiar with any such person? If any such be, present their names.

38. Item, Whether do you know any Extortion in Ecclesiasticall officers. of the officers, belonging to any Court, or Ecclesiasticall iurisdiction within this Dioces, that have extorted or exacted any more, or other fees, then are prescribed and allowed in the table of fees, made and established for that purpose? If any such be, present their names, and the Summes of money which they have so extorted exacted, or received: that restitution may be made to the partie grieved, and the partie duly punished for his offence committed herein, according to the statutes, lawes, and constitutions, in that behalfe provided.

39. Item, Whether do you know or Staying of Excommunications by the Apparitors. have you heard credibly reported, that any Apparitor belonging to the Ecclesiasticall Court of the said reverend father in God, his Chancellor, or of any the Archdeacons, within this Dioces, who having received any excommunication, suspension or aggravation against any the parishioners of your severall parishes, from any the said Courts, have either willingly, or negligently omitted to deliver the same to the Parson, Vicar, or Curate of the severall parishes where such excommunicated, suspended or aggravated persons do dwell, according to the Tenor of such excommunication, suspension, or aggravation? If yea: what bribe or other reward hath he, or they, taken for staying thereof, and how long have they made stay of the same, what is such Apparitors name, and the name or names of such persons so excommunicated, suspended, or aggravated? And present the vttermost of your knowledge herein.

40. Item, Whether all Popish reliques, and monuments of superstition and Idolatrie bee vtterly taken away out of your churches and chappells, and whether any Masse-booke, Chalices and Copes, be secretly kept in any private house, and in what place they be.

41. Generally you shall enquire by the oath that you have taken, and true presentment make in writing not onely of all the names and sur-names of all such person and persons as have offended, or are vehemently suspected to have offended according to the particular Articles before written, and the contents of the same, but also of all other, which have offended, or are vehemently suspected to have offended against any point of the late Queenes Maiesties Lawes, Statutes, Injunctions, and ordinances Ecclesiasticall of this Realme: and all other such misdemeanours and offences, by such persons committed, against such lawes and ordinances, you shall commit to writing, and deliver the same in your presentments, that due reformation may bee had, to Gods glory and the peaceable government of the Church within this Dioces of Bristol.

FINIS.

BRIDGES, BISHOP OF OXFORD, 1604.

ARTICLES to be enquired of within the Dioces of Oxford, given by the Reuerende Father in God, John, by Gods permission now Bishop of Oxford, in his Visitation begun the second day of October, 1604.

At Oxford, printed by Joseph Barnes. 1604.

The Church or place of Common praier.

Whether your Chancell, & Church or Chappel be sufficiently repaired, aswel in Stone, Tymber, Leadde, Tyle, Glasse, as all other necessary things, and if they be not, through whose default the same is omitted?

2. Whether your Church-yard bee sufficiently fenced, & decently kept, & the trees therein growing, not spoyled.

3. Whether the walles of your Church, be within whitened and beautified with fruitfull Sentences out of the holy Scriptures, and paved comely in the body of the church & chancell, and conuenient seats placed in the church & chancell, for the necessary vse of the parishioners in the time of diuine service?

4. Whether you have in your Parish Church and Chappell, all things necessary for the setting forth of common praier, and the administration of Sacraments; namely the booke of common praier, two Psalters in prose and meeter, the English Bible in the largest volume, the two tomes of Homilies, the Table of the tenne commandments: a conuenient Pulpit well placed, a decent Table standing on a frame, for the holy communion, with a faire Linnen cloth to lay vpon the same, and some covering of silke, buckesome, or other such like, for the cleane keeping thereof. A comely communion cup of siluer, with a couer of siluer for the same. A decent Surples with large sleeues, a Register booke of christnings, weddings, and burials in parchment. A Font fastned in some conuenient place of the Church sweete and decently kept. A sure coffer with two lockes and keyes, for the keeping of the said Register booke, and a strong chest or boxe, with two lockes and keyes to put in the Almes, and other things belonging vnto the premisses.

5. Whether al Monuments of Superstition be defaced & cleane removed, as Altars, Roodlofts, Vestiments, Holy-water, stocks, Images, and al Popish bookes, either in Latine or English

The Service vsed in the Church.

6. Whether doth your Parson, Vicar or Curate, or the Parson, Vicar, or Curate or any other of, or in any other parish neere about the same, within the Dioces of Oxford, to your knowledge, or as you haue heard by common report, upon Sun-daies or Holy-daies, vse to say the Morning & Euening praier, and the Letanie, in such manner and forme, and vnder such words as are set forth and prescribed, in and by the booke of common praier? If not, then what other forme or manner, hath or doth he, or they vse?

8. (Sic.) Whether your Parson, Vicar or Curate, or any other within your Parish, or elsewhere, neere about the same, within the Dioces of Oxford, to your knowledge, or as you haue hearde by common reporte, hath preached, declared, vttered, or spoken anything against the said booke of common praier, or anything therein contained, or against any doctrine, office or calling Ecclesiasticall within this Realme, established by publique authoritie, or against the Ordination or Election of Arch-Bishops, Priests, Deacons or any of them, and what was the same thing, or fault found, vttered, or preached, and by whome?

9. Whether any your Parson, Vicar or Curate or any other within your Parish or elsewhere neere about the same, within the Dioces of Oxford, to your knowledge, or as you haue heard by common report, preached, declared or vttered in worde or writing, anie thing in maintaining, commending or perswading of any other doctrine or discipline, or any other forme of common praier, Election or Ordination of any other Offices, Officers, Deacons, Pastours, Elders, Presbitaries or Ecclesiasticall Censures, then are by the lawes of this Realme established, or whether haue you heard of any that vseth to dissuade any person, from the Religion now professed, or to perswade them to the Romish Religion?

10. Whether doth your Minister, or any other, appoint any Fast or solemne or publique exercise, vpon any day, not appointed by the saide booke of common praier, and who haue resorted vnto the saide Fast or exercise?

11. Whether haue you, aswell vpon Sundadaies and Holidaies, as vpon Wednesdaies, and Fridadaies, and Satterdaies, seruice in your Church and Chappell, according to the Order, appointed by lawfull authority? And whether doth your Minister in time of diuine Service, vse and weare the Surplesse, and reade the saide service plainly and distinctly, that the people may be edified thereby, and bidde such Holy-daies and fasting-daies, as are appointed by the booke of common praier?

12. Whether haue you Sermons preached by able and sufficient men, lawfully licensed therevnto at times convenient, and namely everie quarter now past once at the least, & heereafter every moneth according to his Maiesties Canons?

13. Whether your Parson, Vicar or Curate, do every Sunday when there is no Sermon, reade plainly some part of the Homilies prescribed to be reade? Or whether any of them not beeing found to haue sufficient abilitie to Preach, or not lawfully admitted therevnto, do take vpon them to expound any part of the Scripture, and thereby omitte the reading of Homilies?

14. Whether your children and seruants that bee about seauen yeares and vnder twenty, bee Catechised vpon Sundaies and Holidiaies, by the space of one houre, before Evening praier by order of householdes, at the appointment of the Minister: And whether the saide Minister doe give notice thereof, plainly the nexte Sunday or Holiday before the Church, that every one may know the time that he is to resort thither to be Catechised? And if this be not done, who they be that make defaulte therein?

15. Whether any doe presume to say service in your Church or Chappell openly, who is not a lawfull Minister, and sufficiently lycensed by the Ordinary of the Dioces vnder the seale of his Office?

The ministring of Sacraments and other Rites and Ceremonies vsed in the Church.

16. Whether doth your Parson Vicar or Curate or any other within your parish, or else-where neare about the same within the Dioces of Oxford to your knowledge, or as you haue heard by common report, vse the ministring of the Lords supper and Baptisme instruction of children, Solemnization of matrimonie, the visitation of the sicke, the buriall of the deade, and the churching of women in such manner and forme, and vnder, or with such manner of words as are set forth and prescribed in the booke of common praier: If not, then what other forme or manner doth he or they vse in the premisses, or any of them, and doe they not vse the Ring in Mariage and crossing the childrens head in Baptisme?

17. Whether the communion bee administred monthly where the parishes be great, or else so often euery yeare as that the parishioners may receiue three times at the least yearly.

18. Whether your children bee baptised in the time of morning and euening praier in the presence of the congregation, at the vsuall font in the Church, vpon the Sundaie or holy-day nexte after the birth of any such children, and whether the same children be christned by godfathers and godmothers according to the manner heretofore vsed: so that the said godfathers and godmothers bee sufficiently catechised, and at the least able to say the Lordes praier, the articles of the christian faith and the ten commandements?

19. Whether your children baptised at home in cases of extreame weakenes and daunger, be brought to Church (sic) after their recoverie that the Minister may examine whether they bee lawfully Baptised or noe?

Matrimonie.

20. Whether any haue bin married within your parish that haue not had their Banes asked three seuerall Sundaies or Holidiaies in time of diuine service, in the presence of the people, vnlesse the same haue bin lawfully licensed by the Ordinary vnder the Seale of his office, and with such hands (sic) as are vsuall taken in like cases?

21. Whether any haue bid (sic) married within your parish that haue dwelt in other parishes without a certificate of the Banes asking from the Minister or Curate of the parish where the said parties, or any of them haue dwelt. And whether any marriage haue bin solemnized in any other place then in the Church, or at any time of the day that is not lawfull and usuall, that is to say, betweene the howers of eight and twelue in the forenoone?

22. Whether any bee suffered to marrie that are not sufficientlie catechised, or not of sufficient yeares of consent, or without the consent & liking of their parents, masters & governors, if they haue any such.

Visiting of the sicke.

23. Whether your minister hath bene diligent in visiting the sicke persons of your parish, & comforting them with godly & wholesome Sentences out of the Sacred Scriptures, and in perswading them to dispose of their goods, by making their testaments & to bestow some part of their goods to good and godly uses, namely, to the Cathedrall Church of the Dioces, if they be of sufficient abilitie?

The Office, function & behaviour of Ministers.

24. Whether your Parson, Vicar or Curat, do labour diligently & painefully according to his ability, aswell by doctrine as by good example of life, to set forth true Religion, to beate downe Superstition and Idolatry, and all other vice, to exhort the people to vnity, peace and brotherly loue and to dutifull obedience to their Prince, and to such as be in authority vnder him, & to the diligent hearing, reading, and teaching of Gods word?

25. Whether do your Ministers at Morning & Evening praier, and in their Sermons pray for the preservation of the Kings Maiestie, his Councell Archbishops, and Bishops, namely, and expresly for all the Nobility and for all the whole body of this Realme?

26. Whether there be within your parish, or elsewhere neere about, any preaching, reading, or other such like exercise, in any private houses wherevnto others doe resort, not being of the same family? And whether any doe preach, reade or Catechise in the Church or elsewhere, that doth not at diuerse times yearely saie service and minister the Sacraments according to order appointed by publike authoritie?

27. Whether the Register of all weddings, buryings, & Christnings within your parish be well kept, and a copy of the same once every yeare by Indenture presented to the Ordinary, and publike notice given weekly by your Minister of all weddings christnings and burials that happen within your parish that weeke?

28. Whether in the weeke before Whitsontide, commonly called the Rogation weeke, your perambulation be kept by your Minister with a sufficient number of the parishioners of all sortes, aswell of the elder, as younger sort, for the better knowledge of the circuits & boundes of the parish, with praier for better increase of the frutes of the earth, according to the order, in that behalfe provided?

29. Whether the Mansion houses of your Parsons and Vicars be kept in good Reparation.

30. Whether your Minister be suspected to be guilty of any notorious crime, as Symony, Adultery, Blasphemy, Periury, Dronkennes, Idlenes, vnseemely and vaine talke, and whether he be scandalous in his conversation, through brawling, fighting, quarelling, peace-breaking, vnlawfull games, or hunting of places suspected and not of good Report?

31. Whether your Minister doth vse for himselfe, or his wife, or his children at home or abroade, any other apparell then such as is fit and decent for his calling?

32. Whether your Parson, or Vicar, hath at any time since the 13. yeare of our late Queenes Maiesties Raigne, made any lease or grant of his parsonage or vicaradge or any parte thereof, hee being absent and not resident vpon the same, to any other then to his Curate, that did or doth serve the cure in his absence. And whether your Parson or Vicar, if he be no Resident with you, & may dispend twentie pounds yearly or aboue, doe dot (sic) distribute every yeare among the poore of your parishe at the least the fourth part of the benefice where he is not resident? And whether he bee not personally resident some good part of the yeare vpon any Benefice that hee posseseth within this Dioces. And whether hee doe keep Hospitality thereon?

33. Whether your Parson or Vicar having two Benefices with cure doe maintaine a Curate vpon that hee doth not reside, who is a Preacher lawfully licensed by the Ordinary, except hee preach himselfe ordinarily at both Benefices.

34. Whether your Parson or Vicar hath made or delivered vnto the Ordinary a true terrier of his globe lands and other possessions belonging to his Church. And whether hee doth not sell or exchange his land to the hurt of his Church?

35. Whether any Parson or Vicar hath married any couples wherof the woman hath bin begotten with child or carnally knowne before marriage, without satisfaction of the Law therein?

Schools and Schoole-masters.

36. Whether your Schole-masters, and other teachers within your Parish be allowed by the Ordinarie? And whether they do teach their Schollers the Catechisme, and do encourage them to loue true Religion, and doe cause them daily, Morning and Evening, to ioine together in praier vnto God, for encrease of Learning and of other his good graces: and whether they do instruct them to say grace before and after meate? And whether the Schoole-masters & Schollers doe come to Schoole, and leaue it at due times and houres?

Church-wardens.

37. Whether the Church-wardens yearely doe make their accompts to their Parish, of all their Receiptes and necessary expenses of the said Parish.

38. Whether they doe leuy for not comming to Church, to heare diuine seruice vpon Sundaies and Holy daies, xii. d. for euery person that is absent, without lawfull cause?

39. Whether they doe faithfully distribute the stock of the poore mens Boxe, and are carefull to call for, and to gather all such money as is due vnto the Church, or to the poore of the Parish, either by Legacie, or by such as are buried in the church, or by other meanes?

The Parishioners.

40. Whether the Church-wardens and sworne men since the last visitation haue of any priuat or corrupt affection concealed any crime or other disorder in their time done in your parish and haue not presented the same.

41. Whether there be any within your parish that carry their infants to other places to bee baptised or refuse to haue them baptised according to the Lawes of the Church of England.

42. Whether the people aswell men as women, doe resorte vnto their own parish Church on Sundaies and Holydaies, at time of Diuine seruice, remaine and abide and there behaue themselves reuerently, during all the whole time of seruice and Sermons?

43. Whether any of the said Parishioners doe vse any prophane worke or labour, or selling of victuals or wares vpon the Sabbath day, or any other day, that is appointed to bee kept holie by publique authoritie?

44. Whether all the Parishioners being of lawfull yeares, haue receiued the holy Communion thrise for the yeare last past, & namely at Easter last?

45. Whether any Person within your Parish, bee suspected or knowne to tell destinies, or to restore things lost, and to vse charmes, or to exercise witchcraft, sorceries, scouth-sayings, and such other superstitious and diuclish illusions?

46. Whether any within your Parish, haue to your knowledge, or by common fame or reporte, committed adulterie, Fornication, Incest, or bee common Drunkardes, Swearers, and Blasphemers of Gods holy name?

47. Whether any within your Parish doe keepe companie together as Man and Wife, who bee not lawfully married, or who haue bene lawfully and vpon iust cause diuorced?

48. Whether there bee within your Parish, Baudes, or that doe receiue into their houses women begotten with Childe vnlawfully, and doe keepe them vntill they bee deliuered, and then let them depart before they haue done penance.

49. Whether you knowe any within your Parish, that receiueth into their house any Massing Priest, Jesuit, or other Seminary man come from beyonde seas?

50. Whether there bee any within your parish that presume to administer the goods of those that bee departed out of this worlde, without lawfull authoritie, or haue falsified or suppressed the will of anie Person deceased, without sufficient authoritie from the Ordinarie, vnder the seale of his office?

51. Whether any Lordes of Misrule, or other disguised persons in may games, and such like disorderd pastimes, haue daunced, or vnseemely entered into your Church, or Church-yard? Or whether there hath bin any common feasting kept in your Church or Church-yard, or any plaies or enterludes there had?

52. Whether any excommunicate person be suffered to come in to the publike assembly or congregation in time of diuine seruice?

53. Whether there bee any Ringing at burials or at any other time more then such as is seemely and conuenient, not according to the mainenance of the popish purgatory or praier for the deade and who they be that vse the same.

54. Whether any of your parishioners doe detaine in their hands any of their Church Goods, and who they be that doo detaine or withhold the same?

55. Finally, if you doe knowe any other crime or offence to be committed within your parish, which is punishable by the Ecclesiasticall lawes of this lande, and not mentioned particularly in these Articles above specified, you shall likewise detect it and truly present it.

The Oath of the Church-wardens and Sidemen.

You shall diligently enquire of, and faithfully present all such persons, as you shall either vpon your owne knowledge, or by publike fame vnderstand to be guilty of any offence or fault mentioned in any of the articles aforesaid, or any other fault which is to be punished by the Lawes Ecclesiasticall of this Realme: wherein you shall not present any person for malice, hatred, or evil will: nor spare any for favor or fear, or any corrupt affection, but you shall faithfully discharge your consciences as men having the feare of God before your eies and seeking the reformation of the Church so God helpe you in Christ our Saviour.

CHADERTON, BISHOP OF LINCOLN, 1604.

ARTICLES to be enquired of, within the Diocesse of Lincolne. In the Visitation of the reuerend Father in God, William, L. Bishop of Lincolne.

In the yeare of the raigne of our gracious Soueraigne Lord, James, by the grace of God, King of England, France, and Ireland, the second, and of Scotland the xxxvii.

Cambridge. Printed by John Legat, 1604.

The tenour of the Oath ministred to all and euery the Churchwardens and sworne-men.

You and euery of you shall swear by Almighty God, that, all affection set aside, you shall vpon due consideration of these Articles, giuen you in charge, present all and euery such persons, of, or within your parish, as hath committed any offence, or made any default, mentioned in the same Articles, or which are vehemently suspected, or otherwise defamed of any such offence, fault, or default: wherein you, and euery of you shall deale vprightly as before God: so helpe you God, and his faithful promises contained in these his holy Bookes.

Articles.

First, whether your Church, Chappell, Church and Church-yard, or Chancell, be well and sufficiently repaired, & cleanly kept, and the mansion house of your Parson, or Vicar, with the buildings thereunto belonging, be likewise well & sufficiently repaired, and your Churchyard well fenced, and cleanly kept? And if any default be made in the premisses: or your said Church, Chappell or Churchyard, be abused or prophaned by any vnlawful, or vnseemely act, game, or exercise; as by lords of misrule, sommer lords, or ladies, pipers, rushbearers, morice-dancers, pedlers, bowlers, beare-wards, and such like. Then through whose default, and what be the names of the offenders in that behalfe.

2. Whether you haue in your Church or Chappell all things necessarie and requisite for Common praier, and administration of the holy Sacraments, specially the New booke of Common praier lately set forth by the Kings Maiesties authoritie, the Psalter, the Bible of the largest volume, the Homilies both first and second Tome, Master Iewells replie, and Apologie against Master Harding, a comely and decent table, standing on a frame for the celebration of the Lords Supper, with a faire linnen cloath to lay vpon the same, and some couering of silke, buckram, or other such like, for the cleane keeping thereof: a faire and comely communion cuppe of siluer for the same: with a faire pot or two of pewter, for the sweete keeping of the wine: and a comely large surplesse with wide sleeues: a sure coffer with two locks & keyes, for the keeping of the Register booke, and all other things necessarie for the premisses, with a decent pulpit, conueniently placed, and also a chest or boxe for the poore.

3. Whether hath your Parson or Vicar any moe benefices, or spirituall promotions then one: how many, and in what countrey be they, what are their names, and who is the Patron of euery of them; and how farre are they distant one from the other? and whether is he resident interchangeably vpon them by a good part of the yeare, keeping hospitalitie according to the cleare reuenues of his liuing by the yeare: and when he is absent from either of them, whether doth he keepe a sufficient curate there, who can and doth informe the people according to the law in that case provided?

4. Whether is your parson or vicar resident, and dwelling vpon his benefice or no? If he be resident, whether doth he keepe the parsonage or vicaridge with the glebe and other his tithes and commodities in his own hands, or doth he demise the same, or any part thereof to his Patron, or any other person or persons, what parcels are so demised, to whome, and for what intent? If he be not resident, or absent aboue fourescore daies in the year, then whether doth he demise his benefice to his Curate: and if he be able to dispend twentie pound by the yeare, doth he distribute the fortieth part thereof yearely to the poore of the parish or no? And whether doeth he keepe a licensed preacher vpon his benefice during his absence yea or no?

5. Whether is your parson or vicar a Prebendary of any Cathedrall Church, and if he be, then of what place, and whether doth he after a moneths absence, keepe a family, and hospitalitie vpon his benefice during his absence?

6. Whether doe those, who be necessarie Residentiaries in your Cathedrall Church, and receiue their seuerall portions or diuidents which fall vnto them, either by their statutes or auncient customes, so part the yeare among them, as either the great number, or one halfe of them at the least keepe residence in your said Cathedrall church, as they are bound by the statutes or auncient customes thereof.

7. Whether hath your Deane, and all and euery such your Canons and Prebendaries, who are admitted into holy orders, & are bound to make certaine sermons in your said Cathedrall church, either by lawe, or by the statutes, and ordinances, or laudable custome of your said church, in their owne proper person, and persons, made such sermons or no? And if they haue not, then what hath bene the cause? And whether haue they appointed one of their fellowe Canons or Prebendaries, or other learned & allowed preachers by sufficient authoritie, to supply their turnes: what be their names that haue done so, and how often haue they so done, and who be they that haue supplied their places, & what consideration or allowance haue they, and euery or any of them receiued for their paines?

8. Whether your parsons or vicars haue come to their benefices by any Symonie, fraud, or deceit, or by any conference or agreement of friendes, or any other bond, composition or agreement, or by any other colourable pact, or vnlawefull meane whatsoever, or be vehemently suspected (sic) or defamed thereof? And whether in performance of any such pact, couenant or promise, there hath bene any bond or lease made between the Patron & Incumbent, directly or indirectly.

9. Whether your parson, vicar, or curate, doe keepe any suspected woman in his house, or be an incontinent person giuen to drunkenesse (sic), or idlenesse, or a haunter of Tauerns, Ale-houses, or suspected places, a common hunter, hawker, dicer, carder, tabler, swearer, or otherwise giue an ill example of life? And whether his apparell be comely and graue, as becommeth his calling and function.

10. Whether your churches or chapels be, or haue bene destitute of a curate, and how long, and by whose default: & whether any curate haue served, or doe serue without license of the Ordinarie?

11. Whether any parson or parsons, not beeing a deacon at the least, or licensed by the Ordinarie, doe say common praier, openly in your Church or chappell, or any not beeing at the least a Deacon, doe solemnize matrimonie, or administer the Sacrament of Baptisme: or any other ceremonie of the church, and what he or they be that so doe: and whether the parson, vicar, Farmer of the benefice, Churchwarden, or any of them, doe cause or suffer any Minister or Curate to preach or serue your Church before he be examined and admitted by the Ordinarie, or his deputie in writing, vnder his or their hand at the least, and shewes the same to the Churchwardens.

12. Whether hath your Minister beeing iudicially excommunicated, said any seruice, preached any sermons, or otherwise administrated any Sacraments or ceremonies of the Church of England, before he was lawefully absolved from his said excommunication? or whether hath any of the inhabitants of your parish beeing excommunicate as aforesaid, bin present in your church at seruice, sermons, or administration of the said sacraments or ceremonies? and whether hath any such excommunicate person or persons, beeing admonished and willed either by your minister, or any of your churchwardens to depart out of the congregation wilfully and stubbornly refused so to doe, or giuen any vnseemely speeches to the said Minister and Churchwardens. And whether haue those who haue bene excommunicate by any competent Iudge Ecclesiasticall, vpon their absolution, brought a certificate thereof to your minister. And whether hath your minister denounced the same publicly in that parish church or chappell where the said excommunicate person or persons haue his or their habitation.

13. Whether for the putting of the Admonition to Churchwardens and sworne-men the Churchwardens, better in remembrance of their dutie in obseruing and noting such as offende in not comming to diuine seruice, your minister or reader, doe openly euery sonday, after he haue read the second lesson at morning and euening praier, monish and warne the Churchwardens and sworne-men, to looke to their charge in this behalfe, and to obserue who contrary to the said statute offend in absenting themselues negligently or wilfully from their parish Church or chappell, or vnreuerently, as is aforesaid, vse themselues in time of diuine seruice.

14. Whether common praier be said in your church or chappell vpon sondaies, holidiaies, and other weeke daies, appointed by the laws of this realme, at conuenient houres, reuerently, distinctly and in such order (without any kind of alteration) as is appointed by the booke of common praier, and the lawes of this realme? And whether your Minister so turn himselfe, and stand in such place in your church or chancell, as the people may best heare the same? And whether your parson, vicar, & preacher, doe each of them in their owne persons twice euerie yeare at the least, read diuine seruice and administer the sacraments, wearing a surplesse according to the ecclesiasticall Constitutions, agreed on in the last Conuocation, and confirmed by the Kings Maiesties roiall authoritie, and the lawes of the realme? and whether the holy sacraments with other rites and ceremonies contained in the booke of common praier, be duly and reuerently ministred, in such manner as is set forth by the same booke, without adding or diminishing from the same. And whether your minister at all times vpon sondaies and holidiaies doe weare in time of diuine seruice and administration of the Sacraments, the surplesse, yea or no, or doe suffer any other to saie the common praier, or minister either of the sacraments in your church not wearing the same.

15. Whether the people of your parish, especially housholders, hauing no lawefull excuse to be absent, doe diligently resort, with their children and seruants to their parish church or chappell, on the holidiaies, and chiefly vpon sondaies, to morning and euening praier, and then, and there abide orderly and soberly during the time of common praier, homilies, preachings, catechising, and other seruice of God there vsed, reuerently and deuoutly giuing themselves to the hearing thereof, and who they be that either negligently or wilfully absent themselues, or come very late to the Church or chappell vpon sondaies especially, and howe long together or at seuerall times hath any of your parish absented himselfe from his parish church or chappell, what be their names, surnames, and conditions, and in what towneship doe they dwell? or who be they that walke, talke, or otherwise vnreuerently behaue themselues in the church or chappell, to the disturbing of the minister in the time of reading the diuine seruice, or chatechisme, or the preacher in his sermon or other godly exercise; or vse any gaming abroad, or pastime in any house, or sit in the streetes, or churchyard, or in any tauerne or alehouse, vpon the sondaie and holidiaie in the time of common praier, sermon reading of the Homilies, or catechising, either before noone or after noone? And whether doe the inhabitants of your parish or at the least one out of euery house, duely repaire vnto their church or chappell vpon wednesdaies, fridaies, and saterdaies, there to heare such seruice and praier as shall be said or made by the Minister according to the ecclesiasticall Constitutions and lawes of this realme.

16. Whether doe you know any popish priests, Seminarie, Iesuit, or runnagate persons, that doe preach, say Masse or minister any popish sacraments or ceremonies, or else doe resort secretly or openly into your parish. And whose house doe they so resort vnto, and of whome are they harboured, and what be the names of such popish priests, Seminarie, Iesuits, or runnagates, and such as so harbour and relieue them.

17. Whether your parson or vicar be a preacher licenced, and hath preached, or caused to be preached foure sermons at the least euery yeare in your church, & what be the names of him or those that so did preach, and whether they were lawefully licensed so to preach, if any other then your parson or vicar did preach the same. And whether when there be no sermons, your minister doe read Homilies, euery sunday distinctly and plainly, some part of the Homilies appointed to be read.

18. Whether hath your parson, vicar, curat, or preacher, or any other person or persons whatsoever, appointed and kept any priuate Fasts, or other extraordinarie assemblies within your parish, whereunto the people haue resorted, without order & warrant from the L. Bishop of the Dioces? what time of the day haue the same Fasts or assemblies bin begun, and at what time ended? What be the names of him or them that appointed or warned the said Fasts or extraordinarie assemblies, and of those who preached at the same? And whether were there any praier and seruice read, or said at such fasts or assemblies, and whether the order prescribed in the booke of Common praier was there obserued, if praier or seruice was read or said there?

Preachers. Sermons.

19. Whether any stranger hath of late preached in your parish, who either hath not bene indeede, or suspected not to be a Deacon or minister? And whether any haue preached without shewing their licences before their Sermon? And whether the names of all Strangers, who haue preached, be noted in a booke, vnder a title made for that purpose?

Catechisme.

20. Whether your parson, vicar, or Curate, doe euery sunday and holiday openly in the Church call for, heare, and instruct all the children, apprentices, and seruants of both sexes, that be of conuenient age within your parish, or at least so many of them by course as the time will serue, and as he may well heare and instruct for halfe an houre at the least, before euening praier, in the tenne Commandements, the Articles of the beleefe, & the Lords praier, and diligently examine and teach them the Catechisme, as it is now allowed and set forth? And whether for that purpose he doth take the names of them all, and by course call certaine of them by name euery sunday and holiday to come to learne the same Catechisme? And whether the churchwardens and swornemen doe assist the minister, as he doth prescribe them in that godly action?

Resort to the Catechisme.

21. Whether all fathers, mothers, masters, and dames of your parish, cause their children, seruants, and apprentices, both mankind and womankind, beinge aboue sixe yeases of age, to come to the Church or chappell on the sundaies and holydaies, at the times to them appointed, or at the least such or so many of them as your minister shall appoint, and there diligently and obediently to heare, and to be ordered by the minister, that they may be instructed in the grounds and principles of true religion, and what be the names of those that doe not cause their children, seruants, and apprentices so to come to the church or chappell to be instructed and examined: or the names of the parties themselues that haue absented themselues from that godly exercise?

Superstition. Innovation.

22. Whether your parson, vicar, or curate, or any other within your parish, be a fauourer of the Romish church or religion, or of any other sect or schismaticall opinion, or hath or doth maintaine or teach any doctrine contrarie or repugnant to any of the Articles agreed vpon by the Cleargie in the Conuocation holden at London Ann. Dom. 1562. And whether they haue publicly or secretly taught any doctrine tending to the discredit or dispraise either of the Booke of common praier, or of the preachers and ministers of the word and sacraments, or of the receiued order for gouernment by Archbishops, Bishops, Deanes, Archdeacons, and other officers in the Church of England, or make any other inuouation? And whether they haue permitted any man so teaching, or making such inuouation? And whether any keepe secret or priuate conuenticles, preachings, lectures, or priuate communions in their houses or elsewhere, contrarie to the law, and what be their names: or any that doth read or preach in priuate houses, or elsewhere.

Baptisme.

23. Whether your Font be sweetly kept, and renewed from time to time with cleane and fresh water: and whether any Minister leauing the vse of the Font, doe christen or baptize in any basons, or other prophane vessells, not customably vsed in the church before time? Or whether your minister doe baptize or christen any out of the face of the church and congregation, and at any other time then vpon sundaies and holidayes without speciall cause, or without godfathers and godmothers: and whether any person or persons be admitted to answer as godfathers and godmothers at the christening of any child, except hee or shee haue before receiued the holy communion, and can say by heart the Articles of the Christian faith, the tenne Commandements of God, and the Lords praier, and will recite the same before the minister, if hee or shee be thereunto required? And whether doth your minister in the baptizing of children, obserue the orders, rites, and ceremonies appointed and prescribed in the Booke of common praier, without any addition, omission, or other inuouation?

24. Whether do you know any parents, hauing children that are yet vnchristened, or that were not christened at their owne parish church, or chappell & for what cause they remaine yet vnchristened, or haue not bin christened at their parish church, or chappel: or doe you know, haue heard, or vehemently suspect any such parents, whose children haue bin christened by any popish priest, or otherwise then by the laws of the Church of England is allowed.

Register of christenings, marriage, and burials.

25. Whether hath the Register booke of your parish church or chappell for christnings, marriages, and burials, which haue happened in your parish or chappellic from time to time bene heretofore duly kept: and the same christenings, marriages, and burials, entred into the same booke by your minister according to the late Q. Elizabeths Inuouations, and if otherwise, by whose default hath the same bene omitted. And whether is there a new Register booke of parchement prouided at the charge of your parish or chappellic, for the purpose aforesaid: and whether are the names and surnames of all such persons as haue bin christened, married, or buried, since the beginning of the late Queene Elizabeths most gracious and prosperous raigne, bin truly, faithfully, and orderly coppied forth and translated out of the old Register booke of paper into your new booke of parchement, at the charges also of your parish or chappellic: and whether is your saide booke of parchement locked vp and safely kept in a strong chest with three sufficient lockes and keies, whereof the minister is to keepe one, and two of your Churchwardens the other two? And whether hath your minister euery Sabbath day these three years last past, truly, faithfully, orderly, and weekly registered in your said new Register booke of parchement all and euery such persons as haue been christened, married, or buried in your said parish or chappellic, and vpon euery Sabbath day immediatly after the ende of morning or euening praier, publicly rehearsed the same to the bodie of the parish in such sort and manner, as they haue bin entred into the said Register? And whether your churchwardens, or some of them, haue yearly within one moneth after the feast of Easter transmitted all and euery the names of such as haue bin christened, married, or buried, within your parish or chappellic to the Bishops Register: And whether hath he receiued the same without fee, according to the Canons in that behalfe prouided?

Communion.

26. Whether your parson, vicar, or curate, doeth admit any to the receiuing of the holy Communion aboue sixteene yeres of age that cannot render a sufficient account of their faith, and for their worthie communicating this sacrament, or aboue fourteene yeases of age, and vnder sixteene, that cannot say the catechisme set forth in the booke of common praier, or hath admitted any of any other parish to receiue the holy Communion, without reasonable cause or special license from their owne minister, vnder his hand: or whether hath he admitted to receiue the holy communion any open and notorious blasphemers, fornicators, adulterers, drunkard, or euill liuer, by whom the congregation is offended, without due penance first done to the satisfaction of the congregation: or any malicious person that is notoriously knowne to be out of charitie, or that hath done any open wrong to his neighbour by word or deed, without due reconciliation first made to the partie that is wronged according to the order prescribed in the booke of common praier.

27. Whether there be any in your parish, man or woman, beinge aboue 14 yeares of age that hath not receiued the holy communion thrice at the least euery yeare, and namely, at Easter last, or thereabouts for once, and what be their names, and for what cause (in your iudgement) they do abstaine from coming to the holy communion: and whether any haue receiued the holy communion in any other parish church, chappell, or priuate place, and for what causes in your opinions.

Marriage.

28. Whether your minister hath married any persons priuately in any house or corner out of the Church or face of the congregation, or the banes not beinge thrice solemnly on three sundaies or holidayes asked in the parrish Church where such persons dwelled: or any such person or persons married at any other parish church or chapel? and whether your minister hath married any infants, or children vnder age, or any within the degrees prohibited by Gods lawes, and the lawes of this realme sette downe in a table, published for that purpose, or any that hath a husband or wife liuing, and if he haue done so, then who be the parties, and who were present at any such marriage, and in what place was the same solemnized?

Churching women.

29. Whether your minister doe church any vnmarried women after they haue bene deliuered of their children begotten vnlawefully, before they haue acknowledged their faults openly, according to the order prescribed by the Ordinarie or his deputy.

Visitation of sickes, and burials.

30. Whether your parson, vicar, or curate, be diligent in visiting the sickes and comforting them, and doe moue them earnestly (especially when they make their testaments) to consider the neede of the poore, and to giue to their boxe or chest, their charitable deuotion. And whether they burie the dead in such Christian and comely manner as is prescribed in the booke of common praier: and whether any lay-man other then a lawfull minister, hath taken vpon him to bury the dead contrarie to order?

Perambulation. 31. Whether for the retaining of the perambulation of the circuit of your parish, the minister and clark with the Church-wardens and certaine of the substantiall men of your parish in the daies of Rogations, walke about your parish according to the late Queene Elizabeths Iniunctions: and whether doe they vse in such perambulation, any banners, crosses, hand-bells, or any such like popish ceremonies, other then is prescribed and permitted by the booke of common praier, and the lawes of this realme.

Chauncelour, Com-missaries, and Sumners. 32. Whether the Chauncelour, Com-missaries, or any other vsing Ecclesiasticall iurisdiction in this diocesse, their Registers, or Actuaries, Apparators, or Sumners, haue at any time winked at, and suffered any adulteries, fornications, incests, or other faults or offences, to passe and remaine vnpunished and vncorrected for money, rewardes, bribes, pleasure, friendship, or any other partiall, or affectionate respect, or haue permitted (sic) any penance without speciall licence of the Bishoppe.

Schoolemasters. 33. What schoolemasters haue you within your parish or chappelrie, that teach either openly or priuately in any schoole, gentlemans houe, (sic) or elsewhere, and whether be they of good and sincere religion, and licenced to teach by the Bishoppe of the diocesse vnder his seale, and whether be they diligent in teaching and bringing vp youth, and to instruct them in godlinesse and vertue, and especially in Master Nowels Catechisme lately set forth. And whether teach they any thing contrarie to the religion nowe godly established, or doe not cause their children to resort vnto the church to hear diuine seruice and sermons.

Parish-clarke. 34. Whether the parish clarke be appointed by the minister: and whether he be obedient to the parson, vicar, or curate, especially in the time of celebration of diuine seruice, and of the sacraments, and in any preparation thereunto: whether he can write and read and be able to answer the minister as occasion shall require: and whether he keepe the bookes and ornaments of the church or chappell faire and cleane, and cause the Church and quier, the communion table, the pulpit, and font, to be made decent and cleane against the seruice time, the holy Communion, sermon, and baptisme?

Church-wardens. 35. Whether haue your Churchwardens and sworne-men assisted your minister in his office and function, from time to time, and whether haue they done their diligence to bring such to the Church as stand gazing and talking in the churchyard, and frequent and lurke in alehouses or tipling houses in the time of diuine seruice: and whether haue they bin carefull and diligent, to see good order and silence kept in the Church during the time of sermons and seruice: and whether haue they diligently noted the names of all such parties every sunday and holiday, as haue been absent from diuine seruice at any time?

Churchwardens account. 36. Whether your Churchwardens haue yearely at the accustomed time, giuen an account of the Church goods committed to their charge, and of other receipts and expenses: and whether they haue sold any bells, or other church goods without consent of the Ordinarie first had in writing: and whether they haue imploied all such goods, receipts, and summes of money, to the vse of the church or no? And what be the names of the offenders?

Churchwardens concealers. 37. Whether the Churchwardens and sworne-men in former yeares, haue of any priuate corrupt affection, concealed any crime or other disorder done in their times, and haue not presented the same? And if so, then what faults they haue so concealed, and what were the names of such Churchwardens and sworne-men so concealing the same?

Ringing and tolling of bells. 38. Whether when any Christian bodie is in passing, the bell be tolled to moue the people to pray for the sicke person: and whether after the time of his or her passing out of the world, there be any more ringing but one short peale before the buriall, and another short peale after the buriall? And whether All-saints day after euening praier, there be any ringing at all in your church or chappell, or any other superstitious ceremonies vsed, tending to the maintenance of the popish Purgatorie, praier for the dead, and who they be that vse or doe the same? and whether there be any ringing on saturdayes or holydaies in seruice time, or between morning praier and the Letanie, or any other times, contrarie to good order and law?

Suppressors of Testaments. 39. Whether there be any within your parish, that minister the goods of those that be dead, without lawfull authoritie:

or any that supresse the Testaments or last will of the dead, or any executor that hath not fulfilled the Testators will, especially any such as haue not discharged such Legacies as were bequeathed to the Church, or to orphans, poore maides marriages, high waies, schooles, or other godly (sic) vses, and what be their names.

Testaments not prooued. 40. Whether doe you knowe any housholder, or other person whatsoever within your parish or chappelrie, that is diseased, that haue made their last wills and Testaments, and the same not hitherto been prooued, nor administration taken from the Ordinarie or other Iudge competent, of the goods, debts, & cattailes, of the said deceased. If any such be, make knowne their names, & of them who vnlawfully doe detain any the said goods, debts, or cattailes in their hands.

Hospitals and Spittle houses. 41. Whether your hospitals, Spittles, and Almes-houses be well and godly vsed according to the foundation and auncient ordinances of the same? whether there be any placed in them other then poore, impotent, and needie persons, and haue not wherewith to liue.

Alehouses, Markets, and Faires. 42. Whether there be any In-keepers Ale-wiues, victuallers, or tiplers, that suffer or doe admitte any person or persons in their houses, to eate, drinke, or play at cardes, tables, or such like games, in the time of common praier or sermons, on the sondaies, holidiaies, and other times when there is seruice and sermon: and whether there be any shops open on sondaies or holidiaies, or be there any butchers, pedlars, or others that vse to sell meate and other things in the time of common praier, preaching, catechizing, or reading of the homilies: and whether in any faires, or common markets falling on Sondaie, there be any shewing of wares before the diuine seruice be done in the forenoone.

Incest, &c. 43. Whether there be any married in the degrees forbidden, as afore, or that haue married two wiues, or two husbands both liuing, or that liue not together with their wiues, and what be their names? Whether there be any married that haue made precontracts, or any married without banes thrice solemnely asked, or whether there be any that haue bin married forth of their parish church, where they ought to haue solemnized marriage?

Adulterie. 44. Howe many adulteries, incests, and fornications haue bene committed within your parish or chappelrie, since the last visitation, and how many offenders in those faults haue bene put to penance, and openly corrected: and who be spared, dispenced withall, or not done penance for their offences.

Penance. 45. Whether hath there bene any permutacion of penance allowed of by the ordinarie in your parish? and whether hath your minister publikely signified to his congregation, what summes of money hath therefore bene paid: and whether haue the said summes of money bin distributed by your minister or church-wardens to the poore, or otherwise employed to some such godly and charitable use, as was prescribed by the Ordinarie.

Vsurers. Whether any person or persons within your parish haue committed vsurie, contrarie to the act against vsurie, made in the xxxvii yeare of the raigne of the late king Henrie the eight, and lately reuiued, and what are the names of such vsurers, and what is the manner of their vsurie.

Sorcerie. 47. Whether there be any man or woman in your parish, that vseth witchcraft, sorcerie, charmes, or vnlawfull praier, or inuocations in latine or english, or otherwise vpon any Christian bodie or beast, or any that resorteth to the same for counsell, or help, and what be their names?

Contention, drunkenes, &c. 48. Whether there be any in your parish that be malicious, contentious, or vncharitable persons, seeking the vniust vexation of ther neighbours: scoldes, common swearers, or blasphemers of the name of God, any fornicators, adulterers, incestuous persons, bawds, or receiuers of such incontinent persons, or harbourers of women beeing with child, which be vnmarried, conueying or suffering them to goe away before they haue done any penance, or made satisfaction to the congregation: or any persons that are vehemently suspected of such faults, or that be not of good name and fame touching such crimes and faults: any common drunkards, ribaulds, or other notorious euill liuers?

Rebellious bookes. 49. Whether there be any person or persons, ecclesiasticall or temporall within your parish, or elsewhere within this Diocesse, that of late hath receiued or kept in their custodie, or that read, sell, vtter, disperse, carrie, or deliuer to others, any english books, set forth of late yeares at Louain, or in any other place beyond the seas, or within this land by any Papists, either against the Kings Maiesties supremacie in matters Ecclesiasticall, or against true religion, and catholike doctrine nowe receiued and established by common authoritie within this realme, and what their names and surnames are?

Seditious bookes and libels. 50. Whether there be any person or persons knowne or vehemently suspected to haue written, printed, or by any meanes published and dispersed, or otherwise to haue, or to haue had in his or their vse, or keeping any of those slanderous or scismaticall, and seditious Libels, or other bookes, that impeach the booke of common praier, or the religion, and Ecclesiasticall gouernement, or any part thereof established by lawe in this realme, or doth impeach the credit, or estate of any Ecclesiasticall person, or gouernour, within the same.

Phisitions. Chirur-gions. 51. Whether there be any that pretending themselues to be Phisitions or Chirurgions, doe take vpon them to practise, phisicke, or chirurgerie, not beeing lawfully licensed thereunto, or which refuse to shewe their said license to the Minister or Curate and Church-wardens of your Church or chappell, when they shall be thereunto required.

William Lincolne.

FINIS.

BANCROFT, ARCHBISHOP OF CANTERBURY,
1605.

ARTICLES to be inquired of in the first Metropolitall Visitation of the most Reuerend Father Richarde by Gods Providence, Archbishop of Canterbury, and Primat of all Englande; in, & for, all these Diocesses following, (Viz.) Exeter, Norwich, Chichester, St. Davids, Landaffe, Heriford, Worcester, Bristol, Bath & Welles and Coventrie & Litchfielde, in the yeare of our Lorde God 1605, and in the first yeare of his Graces Translation.

At London Printed by Ralph Blower, for Thomas Pawier, and are to be solde at his Shop neare the Royall Exchange. An. Dom. 1605.

The Tenor of the Oath, to be ministred to the Church-wardens and Swornemen.

You shall sweare, that all Affection, Fauour, Hatred, hope of Rewarde and Gaine, or feare of displeasure or malice set aside; You shall vpon due Consideration of the Articles giuen you in chardge: present all and euery such person, of, or within your parish; as hath comitted any offence or fault: or made any default mentioned in these, or any of these Articles: or which are vehemently suspected and defamed of any such Offence: fault or default: wherein You shal deliuer vprightly, and according to truth: neyther of malice, presenting any contrary to truth: nor of corrupt affection sparing to present any, and so conceale the truth: Hauing in this action God before your Eyes: with an earnest Zeale to maintaine truth and to suppress vice: so help you God, and the contents of this booke.

God saue the King.

ARTICLES to be inquired of, by the Churchwardens and sworne-men: in the Visitation of the Lordes Archbishop of Canterbury: with the X. Diocesses mentioned in the first Title of this Booke. Anno Dom. 1605.

INPRIMS, Whether haue you in your seuerall Churches and Chappels, the booke of Constitutions, or Cannons ecclesiasticall ready to be Read by your Minister, according to his Maiesties pleasure, Published by his Highnes authoritie, vnder the great Seale of ENGLANDE: And whether hath your Minister read the same, or any part thereof, vpon Sundayes and Holydayes in the afternoone, before diuine Seruice accordingly; yea or no?

2. Item, Whether is there any within your Parish, that hath or doth impugne the Kings Maiesties Supremacy and Authority in causes Ecclesiasticall: or do any way, or in any part impeach the same, being Restored to the Crowne by the Lawes of this Realme established in that behalfe?

3. Item, Whether is there any in your Parish, that denyeth the Church of Englande, by Law established vnder the Kings most Excellent Maiestie, to be a true and an Apostolicall church, Teaching and mainteyning the doctrine of the Apostles?

4. Item, Whether is there any in your Parish, that doth impugne any of the Articles of Religion, agreed vpon in Anno 1562, and established in the Church of England?

5. Item, Whether doth your Minister vse to pray for the Kings Maiestie, King JAMES, and for the Queenes Maiestie, the Prince, and all their royall progeny, with addition of such Stile and tytles, as are due and apperteyning to his Maiestie, and exhort the People to obedience to his Highnes, and other Maiestrats being in authority vnder him?

6. Item, Whether is there any in your parish, that doe impugne or speak against the Rites and Cerimonies, established in the Church of Englande, or the lawfull vse of them? You shall present their names.

7. Item, Are there any in your Parish, that doe impugne the gouernment of the Church of Englande, vnder the Kings most Excellent Maiestie, by Arch-bushops, Bushops, Deanes, Archdeacons, and the Rest that beare Office in the same: Affirming that the same is Antechristian, or Repugnant to the worde of God?

8. Item, Is there any in your Parish, that doth impugne the Forme of Consecrating and Ordeyning of Arch-bushoppes, Bushoppes, Priests, or Deacons: Affirming that the same is Repugnant to the word of God? or that they who are soe ordeined in that forme, are not lawfully made.

9. Item, Is there any in your Parish that doth holde or frequent any Conuenticles, or priuat congregations: Or any that do eyther make or maintaine any Constitutions agreed vpon, in any such priuat conuenticles or assemblies?

10. Item, Whether any persons haue lurked and Tyled in Taverns or Ale-houses, vpon Sundayes or other Hollydayes, or vsed his or their manuel Craft or Trade, vpon the saide Dayes or any of them, and especially in the time of diuine Seruice.

11. Item, Are there any in your Parish, that doe or haue Prophaned (since his Maiesties last Generall Pardon) the Lordes Day called Sunday, or other Holydaies, contrary to the Orders of the Church of Englande, prescrybed in that behalfe?

12. Item, Whether is the prescript forme of diuine Seruice vsed by your Minister, vpon Sundayes and hollydayes, according to the Booke of Common prayer? And whether doth your Minister duely obserue all the Orders, Rites and Ceremonies, prescrib'd in the said Booke of Common Prayer: as well in Reading publicque Prayers, the Letany: as also in Administring the Sacraments, in such manner and forme as in the Booke of Common Prayer is inioyned?

13. Item, Whether hath any Person in your Parish quarelled or stricken, or vsed any Violence, vnto, or with your Minister, or any other in the Church or Church-yarde, or vsed himselfe disorderly in the church, by filthy and prophane talke, or any other rude and immodest behauiour?

14. Item, Whether is that due Reuerence, and humble submission vsed within your Church or Chappel, in the time of diuine Seruice, as by the Eighteenth Constitution is prescrib'd? Whether each one in the Church or Chappell, do apply, and order himselfe there, in time of diuine Seruice, as by the latter parte of the same Constitution is most commendably enioyned?

15. Item, Whether the church-wardens and Questmen, from time to time, doe their diligence, in not suffering any idle persons or Loyterers, to abide eyther in the Church-yarde or Church-porch, in Seruice or Sermon time: But causing them eyther to come into the Church, to heare Diuine Seruice, or to depart, and not to Disturbe such as are Hearers there.

16. Item, Whether the Church-wardens doe prouide against euery Communion with the aduice of the Minister, a sufficient quantity of fine whit Bread, and of good and wholesome Wine for the Number of the Communicants that shal receiue, and that to be brought in a cleane and sweet standing Pot of Pewter, or of other pure Mettle?

17. Item, Whether doth your Minister admimister the holy Communion so often, and at such times as that euery parishioner may Receiue the same, at the least thrice in euery yeare, whereof, once at Easter, as by the Booke of common Prayer is appointed? And whether doth your Minister Receiue the same himselfe, on euery Day that he administred it to others, and vse the wordes of the Institution, according to the Booke, at euery time that the Bread or Wine is renued, in such manner and forme, as by the Proviso of the one and twentieth Cannon is directed, or wherein is he faultie? And whether is warning giuen by him before hand for the Communion, as the 22 Cannon requireth?

18. Item, Whether hath your Minister admitted any notorious Offenders, or Skismatickes, to the Communion: contrary to the Six and Twentieth, and Seauen and Twentieth Constitutions.

19. Item, Whether the Minister together with the Churchwardens and Questmen, doe take diligent heede and care: not only that all and euery of your owne Parishioners, doe receiue thrice in euery yeere, as aforesaid: but also, that no strangers of any other Parish doe come often, and commonly to your Church from their owne Parish Church: and you are nowe to present the names of all those, who being XVI. yeares of age or vpwardes, and haue not in their own Parish received the Comunion, at or since Easter last.

20. Item, Haue any in your Parish bin Godfathers or Godmothers to their owne children: or whether your Minister, or any Godfathers or Godmothers haue vsed, or doe vse any other forme, answeere or speach in Baptisme: then is in the Booke of common praier appointed? Or whether any which haue not communicated, be admitted to be Godfathers or Godmothers?

21. Item, Whether doth your Minister vse to signe the Children with the signe of the crosse, when they are baptized: according to the booke of common praier? and whether he hath referred, (sic) or wilfully refused, to baptise any Infant in his Parish being in danger, hauing bin duely informed of the weakenes thereof: and whether the childe hath dyed in his defaulte without baptisme?

22. Item, Whether is your Minister continually resident with you vpon his benefice: or for how long time hath he bene absent? And where is he Resiant for the most part, and what other benefice hath he?

23. Item, Whether doth your minister preach vsually according to the constitutions: either in his owne cure with you, or else in some other church or chappell neere adioyning, where no preacher is? or how often hath he bin negligent in this behalfe?

24. Item, Whether is your Minister a Preacher allowed, if yea: then by whom? if not, Whether doth he procure sermons to be preached among you once in euery month at the least, by such as are lawfully licensed.

25. Item, Whether hath your Minister another benefice and whether doth he supply his absence by a Curat that is sufficiently licensed to preach in that cure of his, whereon he himselfe is not resident? or otherwise in case he doth not find a preaching Minister there, by reason of the smallnesse thereof? Whether doth he preach at both of his benefices vsually himselfe?

26. Item, Whether is your curate licensed to serue by the Bishop of this Dioces, or any other, and by whom?

27. Item, Whether doth your minister or curat serue any more cures then one? if yea, then what other cure doth he also serue?

28. Item, If your Minister be not licensed to preach as aforesaid, whether doth he take vpon him to expound the Scriptures, either in his owne cure or else where? if yea, then you are to present him, and specifie the place where he so hath preached.

29. Item, Whether hath any person bin admitted to preach within your Church or chappell, but such as you haue well knowne to bee sufficiently licensed? whome haue you so admitted, you shall present their names, and how often haue any such bin so admitted to preach, and by whose procurement? And Whether haue you caused euery strange preacher, licensed or not licensed, to subscribe his name together with the daye when he preached: and if he were licensed, then by whom was he licensed? And whether haue they or any other preached in your Church not being soberly or decentlie appaialed?

30. Item, Whether doth your Lectorer and Preacher reade Diuine seruice, and administer the Sacraments in his owne person twice euery yeare, obseruing all the Ceremonies in the Booke of Common prayer established?

31. Item, Is there any in your parish, that doe refuse to haue their children baptized: or themselues to receiue the Communion at the hands of your Minister because he is no preacher. You shall present their names. And if your minister sithence the publishing of the said booke of Canons, hath receiued any such Persons (being not of his owne cure) to the communion, or baptized any of their children: you shall likewise present him.

32. Item, Whether doth your Minister wear the Surplice whilst he is saying the publike prayers, and ministring the sacraments? And if he be any Graduat, Whether then doth he also weare vpon his Surplyce, during the times aforesaide, such a whood as by the orders of his Uniuersity is agreeable to his degree?

33. Item, Whether doth your Minister euery Sunday and holliday before Euening praier, for halfe an houre, or more, examine and instruct the youthe and ignorant persons of his parish, in the ten commaundements, Articles of beliefe, and in the Lords prayer as also in the Catechisme, set forth in the booke of common prayer? And whether doe all Fathers, Mothers, Maisters and Mistresses, cause their children, seruantes and apprentices, to come thither to heare and to be instructed and taught therein, and those that doe not their duties heerein you shall present their names.

34. Item, Whether hath your Ministers without license from the Archbushop, Bushop of the Diocesse or his Chancellor, solemnized mariage betwixt any parties, the banes not being three seueral sundaies or hollidaies first publist in time of diuine seruice, in the seuerall Churches or Chappels, of their seueral abode according to the booke of Common prayer, and that also betwixt the houres of eight & twelue in the fore-noone. And furthermore, whether hath your minister since the last Cannons published, solemnized any marriage betwixt any persons being vnder the age of one and twenty yeares, although the banes be thrice asked, before such time as the parents haue made knowne vnto him their consent thereunto, and whether hath hee married any of an other Diocesse, who are they? And by what authority, and when?

35. Item, Whether doth your Minister euery sunday, bidde hollidaies and fasting daies, as by the booke of common praier is appointed?

36. Item, Whether doth your minister euerie sixe monethes, denounce in his parish, all such of his Parish as do perseuer in the sentence of excommunication, not seeking to be absolved, and whether hath he admitted into the Church any person excommunicate, with-out a certificat of his absolution from the ordinarye or other competent iudge?

37. Item, Whether doth your Minister being a preacher, endeour and labour dilligently, to reclaim the popish recusants, in his parish from their errors: if there be any such abiding? and whether is he painefull in visitting (sic) the sick according to the booke of Common prayer?

38. Item, Whether is your Parson vicar or Curat, to frequent or to be ouer-conuersant with, or a fauoror of recusants, whereby he is suspected not to be sincere in religion.

39. Item, Whether doe you know or haue heard of any payment, Composition or agreement, to, or with the Bushop, Chancellor, or any inferior Officer Ecclesiasticall, for suppressing or concealinge of excommunication, or other Ecclesiasticall censure, of, or againste anye Recusant? What summe of Money, or other Consideration hath binne receiued or promised? by, or to any of them in that respect by whom? and with whom? and for what sum or other consideration?

40. Item, Whether is there in your church or chappell one parchment Register Booke, provided for christings, Mariages, and Burials, and whether is the same duely and exactly kept according to the constitutions in that behalfe provided?

41. Item, Whether hath your minister or any other preacher, baltised children, solemnized Marriage, churched any woman or ministred the holy communion in any priuate house or houses, otherwise then as by law is allowed yea or no? if yea, then where? whom? when and how often hath he offended in anye of the Premisses.

42. Item, Whether hath your minister taken vpon him to appoint any publike or priuate Fastes, prophecies, or exercises not approued and established by Law or publike authoritie, or hath hee attempted vpon anye pretence eyther of possession or obsession, by fastinge and prayer to cast out deuils yea or no?

43. Item, Whether hath your minister or any other person or persons: within your parish vsed to meet in any priuat house or other place, there to consult together, how to impeach or depraue the booke of Common prayer, or the Doctrine or Discipline of the Church of Englande, if yea, then you shall present them all?

44. Item, Whether doth your minister vse such decencye and Comlinesse in his apparell, as by the 74 constitution is inioyned?

45. Item, Whether doe you knowe anye in your parish that hauing heeretofore taken vpon him or them, the order of Priest-hoode or of a Deacon, hath since relinquished the same, and betaken himselfe in the course of his life as a layman neglecting his vocation if yea, then you shall present his name, and the place of his abode?

46. Item, Doth any take vpon him to teache Schoole in your parish without speciall licence of his ordinary? and whether doth your School-maister bring his schollers to the church to heare Diuine seruice and Sermons?

47. Item, Whether is your minister noted or defamed to haue obtained his benefice by Symony, or reputed to be an incontinent person, a common drunkard, a common gamster, or player at dice, or faulty in any other crime punishable by the Ecclesiastical censures, whereby he is offensive and scandalous to his function or Ministry.

48. Item, Whether have you provided the booke of common prayer lately set forth by his Maiesties authoritie, and the booke of Homilies, and whether have in your church or chappell a Fonte of stone set vp in the ancient vsuall place, a conuenient communion Table with a carpet of silke, or some other decent stuffe, and a faire linnen cloth to laye thereon at the communion time, and whether is the same table then placed in such conuenient sort within the chauncell or church, as that the minister may be best hearde in his prayer and administration, & that the greater number may communicate: And whether are the Ten Commaundements set vpon the east ende of your church or chappell, where the people may best see and reade them and other sentences of Holy Scriptures written on walles likewise for that purpose?

49. Item, Whether haue you a conuenient seate for your minister to read seruice in, together with a comely pulpit sett vp in a conuenient place with a decent cloth or cushion for the same; a comely large surplice, a faire communion cup of gold, siluer, or other pure mettle, and a couer agreeable for the same, with all other things and ornaments necessarie for the celebration of diuine seruice and administration of the sacraments?

50. Item, Whether are your churches or chappells with the chancels thereof, and your personage or vickeredged house and all other housing thereto belonging in good reparations, and decent and comely kept as well within as without, the seates well maintained, a sure coffer with three lockes and keyes for the safe keeping of your register book, your churchyardes well fenced and kept without abuse, if not, then through whose default and what defects are?

51. Item, Whether haue you or your predecessors churchwardens there suffered since the last pardon, any plaies, feasts, banquets, churche ales, drinkings, or any other prophane vsages to be kept in your church, chappell or church-yarde, or belles to be rung superstitiously vpon hollidayes or daies abrogated by Law.

52. Item, How many inhabitantes within your parish, men or women aboue the age of sixteene yeeres, do refuse to frequent diuine seruice established by publike authoritie of this Realme, or to receive the holy communion, what be their names, and of what degree state or trade of life are they, you are to present them all of both sorts?

53. Item, Whether doe any of the inhabitants of your saide parish entertaine within their house any sojourners, lodgers, or any common resorters and guesstes, who refuse to frequent diuine seruice, or receiue the holly communion as aforesayde, what be their names? of what quality or condition they are?

54. Item, Whether are any of the said popish Recusants of insolent behauiour, not without publique offence, or doe boldly busy themselves in seducing and with-drawing others, eyther abroade, or in their own families, by instructing their Children in popish Religion; or by refusing to enterteyne any, especially in place of greatest seruice or trust, but such as concurs with them in Opinion of Religion?

55. Item, How long the said Popish Recusants haue obstinately abstayned, eyther from diuine seruice, or from the Communion, as is aforesaid? whether of any long time, or onely since his Maiesties Reigne?

56. Item, Whether is your Minister a preacher sufficiently qualified? And if he be, whether doth he from time to time, offer quiet and temperat conference, to reclaime the said Popish Recusants from their Errors: And whether they or any of them do refuse such conference with your Minister, or any other Preacher, who shal present vnto them his diligence in that behalfe?

57. Item, What Persons aforesaid, within your Parish, eyther for the Offence aforesaid, or for any other Contumacy or crime, do remaine excommunicat? what be their names? and for what cause? and how long they haue so stood excommunicat?

58. Item, Whether were you the Churchwardens and Quest-men chosen by the consent of the Minister and Parishioners? and whether haue the Churchwardens before you giuen vp a iust accompt for their time, and deliuered to you their Successors, whatsoever money, or other things of right belonging to the Church, which was in their handes? And whether doe you, and euery of you diligently see that all the parishioners do duely resort to their Church euery Sunday, and Holyday, and there continue the whole time of Diuine seruice, and none to walke or stand idle, or talking in Church or Church-portch or Church-yarde, during that time: And whether do all the Parishioners and their families accordingly, frequent their parish Church, and there behaue themselves soberly, attentively and decently, all the time of diuine Seruice, yea or no? If no, then you shall present their names.

59. Item, Whether do all persons aboue the age of Sixteene yeeres, vsuall resort to heare diuine seruice vpon Sundayes and Holydayes approued, and whether hath each one of your parishioners (being aboue the age of 16 years aforesaid) Received the Holy Communion, thrice this last yeare, chiefly once at Easter in your Parish Church kneeling: if no, then you shall present their names which haue not so done?

60. Item, Whether haue you a fittie Parish Clarke, aged twenty yeeres at least, of honest conuersation, and sufficient for Reading and Writing: and whether he be payd his wages without fraude, according to the most auncient custome of your Parish: if not, then by whom is he so defrauded and denyed? and whether he be chosen by Parson or Vicar or by whom?

61. Item, Whether haue any in your parish bin maryed within the prohibited degrees, forbidden by the Law of God, and expressed in a certaine Table published by authority, in An. 1563. if yea, then you shal present their Names? and whether Haue you the said Table publicly set up in your church and fastned to some conuenient place there?

62. Item, Whether doth any hearetofore diuorced, keepe company with any other at Bed and at Boorde? what be their names? when and where were they married?

63. Item, Doth your Minister vse the forme of thanksgiving, to Women after Childe-byrth? and whether hath he admitted any thereunto, that was begotten with Childe in adultrie or fornication without licence of his Ordinary and whether haue any married wiues refused to come to church according to the booke of Common Prayer, to giue God thanks after Child-byrth, if any be faulty heerein, you shall present their names?

64. Item, Whether haue you any in your parish, which heretofore being Popish Recusants, or Sectuaries, haue since conformed themselves, and come to Church to heare Diuine Seruice, and receiue the Sacraments, if yea, then who they are, and how long si'thence haue they so conformed themselus and whether do they still Remaine and abide in that conformitie?

65. Item, What Recusant Papists are there in your Parish, and whether do they or any of them keep any Schoolemaister in their house which commeth not to Church to heare diuine Seruice, & receiue the holy Communion? What is his name, & how long hath he taught?

66. Item, Whether haue you any in your Parish to your knowledg, or by common fame & report, which haue committed adultrie, fornication or Incest, which haue not bin publicly punished to your knowledg? if yea, then with whom? Are there any which are or by common fame & report, are reputed & taken to be common Drunkards, blasphemers of God's holy name, common and vsuall swearers, filthy speakers, vsurers, Simonical persons, fighters, brawlers or Quarrellers in church or churchyard you shall not fail to present their namas.

67. Item, Whether haue any in your parish received or harbored any Woman gotten with Childe out of wedlocke, and suffred them to depart againe without punishment firste inflicted on them, by their Ordinary, you shall truly present as wel the party harboring as harbored, & who is suspected to be father of her childe?

68. Item, Whether hath any person within your parish promised or payed any summe of money, or other reward, directly or indirectly, by himselfe or any other, or commuted his or her penance for any Incest, adultery, fornication or any other Ecclesiastical crime, if so then with whom? when? and for what? and how hath the same bin employed?

69. Item, Whether is your Chauncelor, and euery other inferior Ecclesiasticall Judge, a Maister of Artes, or Bachilor of Lawes at the least, and learned & practised in the ciuill and Ecclesiasticall lawes, a man of good life & conuersation & zealously affected in Religion.

70. Item, Whether any person or persons suspected or detected heretofore of incontinency, and therefore departing out of your parish for a season, is now returned againe, or in what place else is he or she now abiding to your knowledg, or as you haue heard? you shall not faile to present the whole truth in that behalfe?

71. Item, Whether are ther in your Parish any Wils, not yeat proued, or the goodes of the dead dying intestat, left vn-administred by authoritie of the ordinary in that behalfe you shall not faile to present the Executors and all others faulty and culpable therein?

72. Item, Hath any Chauncellor, Commissarie, Arch-deacon, Official, or any other exercising Ecclesiasticall Jurisdiction within this your Diocesse, or any Register, Apparator, or Minister belonging to the same Ecclesiasticall Courts exacted extraordinary, or greater fees than heretofore of late haue bin accustomed? and whether is there a Table of the Rates of all fees, set vp in their seuerall Courts and Offices: and whether they or any of them, haue taken vpon them the Office of Informers or Promoters to the Courts, or any other way abused themselues in their Offices, contrary to the Law, and Cannons in that case prouided.

73. Item, Do any, of, or within your parish, affirme, or haue they affirmed that the sacred Sinode of this Nation assembled by the Kings aucthority, is not the true Church of Englande by representation: or hath, or doth any of your parish affirme, that noe persons eyther of the Clergie or Layty that were not pertinently present in the said late Sinod, are subject to the Decrees thereof in causes Ecclesiastical, made and ratified by the Kings supream aucthoritie: because they gaue not vp their Voyces vnto them, yee shall present their names.

74. Item, Is there any among you, that haue or do depraue the forsaid late Sinod, saying or affirming that the same was a Company of such persons as did conspire together against godly and religious professors of the Gospel, and that therefore, both they and their proceedings in that behalfe, are and ought to be dispised and contemned, or wordes to the like effect, you shall not fayle to present their names?

75. Item, What number of Apparators hath every seuerall Judge Ecclesiasticall, and wherein, and in what manner is the Countrey ouer-burthened and grieved by the saide Apparators?

76. Item, Whether do you know of any other matter of Ecclesiastical cognisance, worthy the presentment in your iudgment, aboue not expressed, which you holde fit to be reformed: and if you doe, you shall likewise present the same by vertue of your Oathes.

FINIS.

BABINGTON, BISHOP OF WORCESTER, 1607.

ARTICLES, to be enquired of within the Dioces of Worcester, in the generall Visitation of the Reuerend Father in God, Gervase Lord Bishop of Worcester: Holden in the yeare of our Lord God, 1607.

At London, printed by Humfrey Lownes.
1607.

The Tenovr of the Oath to be ministred to the Churchwardens and Sworne-men.

You shall sweare that all affection, fauour, hatred, hope of reward and gaine, or feare of displeasure, or malice set aside: you shall vpon due consideration of the Articles given you in charge, present all and every such person within your parish as hath committed any offence or fault, or made any default mentioned in these or any of these Articles, or which are vehemently suspected and defamed of any such offence fault or default: wherein you shall deale vprightly and according to truth, neither of malice presenting any contrary to truth, nor of corrupt affection sparing to present any and so conceale the truth: having in this Action God before your eyes, with an earnest zeale to maintaine truth and to suppress vice. So help you God and the contents of this booke.

Articles concerning the Clergie.

1. Whether hath your Minister read the constitutions set forth by his Maiesty, once every yeare vpon some Sondayes or holidiaies in the afternoone before diuine service, according as by the Canons he is bound?

2. Whether doth your Minister vse to pray for the Kings Maiesty K. JAMES, and for the Queenes Maiestie, the Prince and all their Royal progeny, giuing vnto him such stile and title of supream Gouvernour in all causes and ouer all persons, aswell Ecclesiasticall as Temporall, as by law are due vnto him, exhorting their parishioners to yeald him obedience according to the same, and also in their sermons do pray for all Archbishops, Bishops, and other Ecclesiasticall persons, according to the 55. Canon?

3. Whether is the prescript forme of Divine seruice vsed by your Minister vpon Sondayes, holidiaies, wensdayes and fridaies according to the booke of common prayer: and whether doth your Minister duly obserue all the orders, rites and ceremonies prescribed in the said booke of common prayer, aswell in reading publique praiers, the Letany, as also in administering the Sacraments in such manner and forme, wearing the Surplesse as by the booke of common prayer by law now established is inioyned?

4. Whether dooth your Minister administer the holy Communion so often, and at such times as that every Parishioner, may receiue the same at least thrice in every yeare, whereof one at Easter, as by the booke of common prayer is appointed? And whether doth your Minister receiue the same himselfe on every day that he administreth it to others kneeling at the same, and administreth it to none but such as doe kneele at the receiuing thereof, and vse the words of the institution according to the booke at euerie time that the bread or wine is receiued, in such manner and forme as by the Prouiso of the 21 Canon is directed, or wherein is hee faultie, and whether is warning giuen by him before hand for the Communion, as the 22 Canon requireth.

5. Whether hath your Minister admitted anie notorious offenders, or Schismatiques to the Communion, contrary to the 26. and 27 constitutions, without satisfaction by due course of law before enioined them, or reiected any from the Communion who were not by publick presentment or other open scandall infamous and detected of some notorious crime by common fame published in the parish?

6. Whether the Minister together with the Churchwardens and Questmen, doe take diligent heede and care, not onely that all and every of your owne Parishioners, do receiue thrice in every yeare, as aforesaid; but also that no strangers of any other parish do forsake their own minister and parish to receiue with you, contrarie to the 28. Canon?

7. Whether hath your Minister, Churchwardens, and Side-men presented vnto my Lerd Bishop or his Chancellor within fortie dayes after Easter the names of all the Parishioners aswel men as women, which being aboue 16. yeares of age, receiued not the Communion, at, or about Easter before, according to the 112. Canon?

8. Whether doth your Minister vse to signe the children with the signe of the crosse, when they are baptized, according to the booke of common prayer, and the thirtieth Canon? and whether he hath deferred, or wilfully refused to baptize any infant in his parish being in danger, hauing beene duly informed of the weaknesse thereof? and whether the childe hath dyed in his default without baptisme, contrarie to the 68. and 69. Canons?

9. Whether is your Minister continually resident with you vpon his benefice? or for how long time hath hee beene absent? and where is hee resiant for the most part? and what other benefice hath hee?

10. Whether doth your Minister beeing a Preacher preach vsually according to the constitutions, either in his owne Cure with you once every Sunday, or else in some other Church or Chappell neere adioyning, where no Preacher is, according to the 45 Canon? or how hath hee beene negligent in that behalfe?

11. Whether is your Minister a Preacher allowed? If yea, then by whom? If no, whether doth he procure sermons to be preached among you once in euerie moneth at the least, by such as are lawfully licenced, according to the 46. Canon? or dooth contribute towards a licenced Preacher, if his liuing will beare it?

12. Whether hath your Minister another benefice? and whether doth he supply his absence by a Curate, that is sufficiently licenced to preach in that Cure of his whereon hee himselfe is not resident? or otherwise in case he doth not find a preaching Minister there, by reason of the smalnes thereof, whether doth he preach at both his benefices vsually himselfe, according to the 47 Canon.

13. Whether is your Curate licenced to serue by the L. Bishop of this Dioces, or by any other, and by whom? Whether doth your Minister or Curate serue any more Cures then one, contrarie to the 48. Canon. If yea, then what other Cure doth he also serue?

14. If your Minister be not licenced to preach as aforesaid, whether doth he read Homilies, or rather take vpon him to expound the scriptures, either in his own Cure or elsewhere, contrary to the 49 Canon? If yea, then you are to present him, and specifie the place where he so hath preached?

15. Whether hath any person beene admitted to preach within your Church or Chappell, but such as you haue wel known to be sufficiently licenced? whom haue you so admitted? you shall present their names: and how often haue any such beene admitted to preach, and by whose procurement? And whether haue you caused every strange Preacher, licenced or not licenced, to subscribe his name together with the day when he preached according to the 50. and 51. Canons? And if he were licenced, then by whom was he licenced? And whether haue they, or any other, preached in your Church not being soberly and decently apparelled, according to the 74. Canon?

16. Whether doth your Lecturer and Preacher read Diuine seruice, and administer the Sacraments in his own person twice euery yeare, obseruing al the ceremonies in the booke of common-prayer established, according to the 56. Canon?

17. Whether doth your Minister weare the Surplesse, whilst he is saying publique prayers, and administering the Sacraments? And if hee be any Graduate, whether then doth he weare also vpon his Surplesse, during the time aforesaid, such a hood as by the orders of his Uniuersity is agréable to his degree, according to the 58. Canon?

18. Whether doth your Minister, euery Sunday, and Holiday, before euening prayer, for half an hower or more, examine and instruct the youth, and ignorant persons of his parish, in the ten Commandements, the Articles of Beliefe and in the Lords prayer, as also in the Catechisme last set forth in the booke common prayer, whereby the children of the parish may be prepared for confirmation, according to the 60. Canon.

19. Whether hath your Minister without licence from the Archbishop, the Bishop of the Dioces, or his Chancelor, solemnized marriage betwixt any parties, the Banes not being thrée seuerall Sondaies or Holidais first published, in time of Diuine Seruice, in the severall Churches or Chappels of seuerall-abode according to the booke of common prayer and the 62. Canon? and that also betwixt the howers of eight and twelue in the fore-noone, contrarie to the 102. Canon.

20. Whether hath your Minister sience the last Canons published, solemnized any marriage betwixt any persons, being under the age of 21 years, although the Banes be thrice asked, before such time as the Parents haue made knowne vnto him their consents therunto, contrary to the 99 and 100. Canons? and whether hath he married any of another Dioces? who are they? and by what authoritie, and when?

21. Whether doth your Minister vpon Sundaies at morning praier declare vnto the Parishioners what holidais and fasting daies are appointed to be kept, the weeke following, according to the 64 Canon, wherby they may be put in minde to prepare themselves accordingly, and to repaire to Church to publicke prayer as by lawe they are bound?

22. Whether dooth any Minister in the Rogation daies vse the Perambulation, mooue the people to give thanks to God for his benefits, vsing such Psalmes, Praires, Homilies as are to that end set forth?

23. Whether doth any man (being neither Minister nor Deacon) read common Prayer openly in your Church or Chappel, or administer the Sacrament of Baptisme, or solemnize matrimonie, or take upon him to practise any other ministeriall dutie in the Church, that is prescribed to be executed by such as are either Ministers or Deacons? And what is his name that so doth?

24. Whether dooth your Minister euery sixe Moneths denounce in his parish all such of his parish as doe perseuere in the sentence of excommunication, not seeking to be absolved? And whether hath he admitted any person excommunicat into the Church without a certificat of his Absolution, from the Ordinary or other competent Judge?

25. Whether dooth your Minister being a Preacher, endeauour and labour diligently with mildnesse and temperance to conferre with, and thereby to reclaim the Popish Recusants in his parish from their errors, if there be any such there being? And whether is he painefull in visiting the sicke according to the booke of common-praier and the Canons in that case provided?

26. Whether is your Parson, Vicar, Lecturer, or Curat too much frequent or ouer conversant with or a fauourer of Recusants, whereby he may be may be suspected not to be sincere in Religion?

27. Whether hath your Minister or any other taking vpon him the place of a Minister, preached, baptized children (vnlesse in case of necessitie) solemnized marriage, churched any woman, or ministred the holy Communion in any priuate house or houses? If yea, then where? whom? when? And how often hath he so offended in any of the premisses?

28. Whether hath your Minister taken vpon him to appoint any publique or priuate fasts or prophecies not approued and established by law or publique authority? Or hath he attempted, vpon any pretence either of possession or obsession, by fasting and prayer to cast out diuels contrary vnto the 72. Canon?

29. Whether hath your Minister or any person or persons within your parish ysed to méete in any priuate house or other place, and to hold priuate conuenticles contrary to the 73. Canon? If yea, then you shall present them all and euery one of them?

30. Whether doth your Minister vse such decency and comelinesse in his apparell as by the constitution is enioyned aswell at home as when he goeth abroad?

31. Whether doe you know in your parish any that hauing heretofore taken upon him or them the order of Priesthood or of a Deacon, hath since relinquished the same, and betaken himself in the course of his life as a Layman, neglecting his vocation? If yea, then you shall present his name and the place of his aboad.

32. Whether is your Minister noted or defamed to haue obtained his Benefice by Simonie, or reputed to bee an incontinent person, or doth keepe anie man or woman in his house that are suspected either to be of euil Religion or of bad life, or himself to be a common drunkard, or to be a common hunter of Tauerns, Ale-houses, or other suspected places, A common Gamester or plaier at dice or other vnlawful games, a common swearer, or notorious person, or faultie in any other crime punishable by ecclesiasticall censures, wherby he is offensiuie and scandalous to his function or ministerie.

33. Whether doth your Minister vse the forme of thanksgiuing to women after their childbirth, and whether hath he admitted any thereunto that was begotten with childe in adulterie or fornication without license of his ordinarie? And whether haue any married wiues refused to come to Church according to the booke of Common-prayer to giue God thankes after child-birth? If any be faultie herin you shall present their names.

34. Whether doth your Minister baptize any children in any Bason or other vessell then in the ordinary Font being placed in the Church according to the 81 Canon, or doth vse to put any bason into it.

Articles concerning the Church.

1. Whether haue you in your seuerall Churches and Chappels the booke of constitutions or Canons ecclesiasticall ready to be read by your Minister according to his Maiesties pleasure, published by his highnesse authoritie vnder the great seale of England?

2. Whether is there in your Church or Chappell one parchment Register booke provided for christenings, marriages, and burials? And whether is the same duely and exactly kept according to the constitutions in that behalfe provided, and a transcript thereof brought in yearely within one moneth after Easter into my Lord Bishops Registers office? And whether dooth your Minister vpon euery Sunday read the names of all such as haue been married, christned, or buried the weeke before?

3. Whether haue you provided the booke of common-prayer lately commanded by his majesties authoritie only to be used, and the booke of Homilies, and two Psalmes: and whether haue you in your Church or Chappel a Font of stone set up in the auncient vsuall place, a convenient and decent Communion Table standing vpon a frame with a carpet of silke or some other decent stuffe, and a faire linnen cloath to lay thereon at the Communion time? And whether is the same table then placed in such convenient sort within the Chancel or Church as that the Minister may be best heard in his prayer and administration, and that the greater number may communicate? And whether are the ten Commandments set upon the East end of your Church or Chappell where the people may best see and read them, and other sentences of holy Scripture written on the walles likewise for the same purpose?

4. Whether haue you a conuenient seate for you Minister to reade Service in, together with a comely pulpit set up in a conuenient place with a decent cloth or cushion for the same, a comely large Surplesse, a faire Communion cup of siluer, and a couer agréable for the same, with all other things and ornaments necessarie for the celebration of Diuine Seruice and administration of the Sacraments, and a strong chest for the almes for the poore with 3. lockes and keyes, and another chest for the keeping of the Ornaments of the Church and Register booke?

5. Whether are your Church or Chappels with the Chandells thereof, and your Parsonage or Vicaridge house, and all other howsing therto belonging, in good reparations, and decently and comely kept aswell within as without, the seates well maintained, your Church-yardes well fenced and kept without abuse according to the 85. Canon? If not, then through whose default and what defects are? All these things in these articles, to be prepared, according to the Canons vnder the title appertaining to Churches.

Articles concerning Ecclesiastical Officers.

1. Whether do you know or have heard of any payment, composition, or agreement, to, or with any exercising ecclesiastical jurisdiction within this Dioces, or any their Registers or officer ecclesiasticall, for suppressing or concealing of excommunication, or other ecclesiasticall censure, of, or against any Recusant? what summe of money or other consideration hath bene receiued, or promised by, or to any of them for concealing of them? by whom, and with whom?
2. Whether any vsing ecclesiasticall jurisdiction in this Dioces, their Registers, Actuaries, Apparitors, or Summoners, have at any time winked at, and suffered any adulterers, fornicators, incestes, or other faults or offences presented vnto them, to passe and remaine unpunished and vncorrected, for money, rewards, bribes, pleasure, friendship, or any other partiall respect?
3. Whether hath any exercising ecclesiasticall jurisdiction within this Dioces, or any Register, Apparitor, or Minister belonging to the ecclesiasticall Courts, exacted extraordinarie or greater fees then heretofore of late have been accustomed? and whether is there a Table of the rates of all fees set vp in seuerall courts and offices, or whether they or any of them haue taken vpon them the office of Informers or Promoters to the courts, or any other way abused themselves in their offices contrarie to the law and Canons in that case prouided?

Articles concerning Schoolemasters.

1. Whether the Schoolemaster or Schoolemasters within your parish openly or priuately in any Noble or Gentlemans house, or in any other place, be of good and sincere religion, life, and conuersation, and be diligent in teaching and bringing vp of youth, and whether they haue been examined, allowed, and licenced for Schoolemasters by the Ordinary in that behalfe? And how many seuerall Schoolemasters haue you? And what be their names?
2. Whether your Schoolemaster or Schoolemasters do themselves receiue the holy Communion as often as they ought to do, and whether do all their Schollers, which be of age sufficient, and of capacitie by instruction to receiue the Lord's Supper, come to the Communion either in your Church, or where their Parents dwell, once euery yeare, and be diligent to heare common prayer?
3. Whether the Schoolemaster or Schoolemasters either priuate or publicke do teach their schollers the Catechisme authorised by publicke authority, at the least once euery weeke, and doe instruct and examine them in the same, or do teach any other Catechisme, and what Catechisme it is that they do so teach?
4. Whether your Schoolemaster, or Schoolemasters, or any of them bee knowne or suspected to reade vnto their schollers priuately any unlawful books, or priuately to instruct them in their young yeares either in Popery, superstition, or disobedience, or contempt to his Maiestie, and his lawes Ecclesiasticall by publicke authority allowed?
5. Whether your Schoolemaster, or Schoolemasters, or any of them vnder pretence of Catechising their schollers, which is a most godly order carefully by them to be obserued, do keepe Lectures, readings, or exposition in Diuinitie in their houses, hauing repaire vnto them of people not being of their owne family and household?
6. What Recusant Papists are there in your parish? and whether do they, or any of them keepe any Schoolemaster in their house, which commeth not to Church to heare Diuine Service, and receiue the Communion? What is his name? and how long hath he taught?
7. Whether the Schoolemasters within your parish doe teach his or their schollers any other Grammar, then that which is commonly called the King's Grammar, set forth by the authority of K. Henry the eighth, teaching the prescript forme thereof, whereby their schollers may perfectly vnderstand their Grammar rules and constructions.

Articles concerning the Parishioners, and other of the Laity.

1. Whether is there any in your parish, that hath or dooth impugn the kings Maiesties supremacy, and authority in causes Ecclesiasticall, or doe any way or in any part impeache the same, being restored to the Crowne by the lawes of this Realme established in that behalfe?
2. Whether is there any in your parish, that denieth the Church of England by lawe established vnder the kings most excellent Maiesty, to be a true and Apostolical Church, teaching and maintaining, the doctrine of the Apostles?

3. Whether is there any in your parish, that dooth impugn any of the Articles of Religion agreed vpon in Anno 1562, and established in the Church of England?

4. Whether is there any in your parish, that do impugn or speake against the rites and Ceremonies established in the Church of England, or the lawfull vse of them? you shall present their names.

5. Whether are there any in your parish, that do impugn the gouernment of the Church of England vnder the Kings most excellent Maiestie by Archbishops, Bishops, Deanes, Archdeacons, and the rest that heare office in the same, affirming that the same is Antichristian or repugnant to the word of God?

6. Whether is there any in your parish, that doe impugn the forme of consecrating and ordaining of Archbishops, Bishops, Priests, or Deacons, affirming that the same is repugnant to the word of God or that they, who are so ordered in that forme, are not lawfully made?

7. Whether is there any in your parish, that doth hold or frequent any conuenticles or priuate meetings, and there do conferre or agree vpon any priuate orders, other then such as are by the Canons set forth by publique authority, to be by them or any others in Church gouernment obserued?

8. Whether any persons haue lurked and tippled in Tauerns, or Alehouses, on Sundayes or other holidiaies, or vsed his or their manuell craft or trade, or keepe their shops open vpon the said dayes or any of them, and especially in the time of Diuine service?

9. Whether are there any in your parish, that doe or haue profaned since the 25th of September, 1605, the Lords day called Sunday, or other holidiaies, contrarie to the orders of the Church of England, prescribed in that behalfe?

10. Whether hath any person in your parish quarrelled, or stricken, or vsed any violence vnto, or with your Minister, or any other in the Church or Churchyard, or vsed himselfe disorderly in the Church, by filthy and profane talk, or any other rude and immodest behaviour?

11. Whether is that due reuerence, and humble submission vsed within your Church or Chappel in the time of Diuine seruice, as by the 18. constitution is prescribed? And whether each one in the Church or Chappel do apply and order himselfe there in time of Diuine seruice, as by the latter part of the same constitution is most commendably enioyned?

12. Whether the Church-wardens and Questmen from time to time do their diligence in not suffering any idle persons or loiterers, to abide either in the Churchyard or Church porch in seruice or Sermon time, but causing them either to come into the Church to hear diuine seruice, or to depart, and not to disturbe such as are hearers there?

13. Whether the Church-wardens to prouide against euery Communion with the aduise of the Minister, a sufficient quantitie of fine white bread, and of good and wholesome wine, for the number of the Communicants, that shall receiue, and that to be brought in a cleane and sweete standing pot of pewter or other pure metall?

14. Whether haue any in your parish bene Godfathers or Godmothers to their owne children? or whether your Minister, or any Godfathers or Godmothers haue vsed or do vse any other forme, answere, or speach in Baptisme, then is in the booke of common-prayer appointed? or whether any which haue not communicated, be admitted to be Godfathers or Godmothers, contrarie to the 29. Canon?

15. Whether is there any in your parish that doe refuse to haue their children baptized, or themselves to receiue the Communion at the hands of your Minister, because he is no Preacher? You shall present their names. And if your Minister since the publishing of the said booke of Canons, haue receiued any such persons (being not of his owne cure) to the Communion, or baptized any of their children, you shall likewise present him.

16. Whether do all Fathers, Mothers, Masters, and Mistresses cause their children, seruants and apprentices to come to the Catechisme upon the Sundaies and holidiaies before euening prayer to heare and to be instructed and taught therein? and those that doe not their duties herein, you shall present their names.

17. Whether haue you or your Predecessors, Church-wardens there suffered since the 25 day of September, 1605, any playes, feasts, banquets, Church-ales, drinkings or any other profane vsages, to be kept in your Church, Chappels, or Churchyard, or bells to be rung superstitiously vpon holidiaes or Eues abrogated by the book of common-praier, contrary to the 88. Canon?

18. How many Inhabitants within your parish, men or women above the age of sixtéene yeares, do refuse to frequent Diuine seruice established by publique authority of this Realme, or to receive the holy Communion, or are negligent therein: what be their names? and of what degree, state, or trade of life are they? you are to present them all of both sorts.

19. Whether have you or your predecessors brought vnto my Lord Bishop or his Chauncellour, within fortie dayes next after Easter, the names of all such as have not communicated that Easter before, contrary vnto the 112 Canon?

20. Whether do any of the Inhabitants of your said parish entertaine within their house any sojourners, lodgers, or any common resorters and guests, who refuse to frequent Diuine seruice, or receive the holy Communion as aforesaid? what be their names? of what quality or condition are they?

21. Whether are any of the sayde Popish Recusants of insolent behauiour not without publicke offence, or doe boldly busie themselues in seducing and withdrawing others either abroade or in their owne families by instructing their children in Popish Religion, or by refusing to entertaine any, especially in place of greatest seruice or trust, but such as concurre with them in opinion of religion? and what be their names, that so do?

22. How long the sayd Popish Recusants have obstinately abstained either from Diuine seruice, or from the Communion as is aforesaid? whether of any long time, or onely since his Majesties raigne, and how long?

23. What persons aforesaid within your parish, either for the offence aforesaid, or for any other contumacy or cryme, do remaine excommunicated? what be their names? and for what cause? and how long have they so stood excommunicate?

24. Whether were you the Churchwardens and Questmen chosen by the consent of the Minister and parishioners in Easter weeke, according vnto the 89. and 90. canons? and whether have the churchwardens before you given vp a inst accompt for their time, and deliuered to you their Successors, whatsoever money or other things of right belonging to the Church, which was in their hands, according to the 89 Canon?

25. Whether doe all persons above the age of sixtéene yeares usually resort to heare Diuine seruice vpon Sondaies and holidiaes approued, and whether hath each one of your Parishioners (being above the age of sixtéene yeares as aforesaid) received the holy Communion thrice this last yeare, chiefly once at Easter in your parish Church kneeling? If no, then you shall present their names, which haue not so done.

26. Whether haue you a fit Parish Clerke aged 20 yeares at least, of honest conuersation and sufficient for reading and writing? and whether hee be payed his wages without fraude according to the most auncient custome of your parish? If not? then by whom is he so defrauded and denied? and whether he be chosen by the Parson or Vicar, or by whom? according to the 91 Canon?

27. Whether haue any in your Parish been maryed within the prohibited dégréés, forbidden by the Lawe, and expressed in a certaine Table published by authority in Anno 1563? If yea, then you shall present their names, and whether haue you the said Table publicly set vp in your Church, and fastened to some conuenient place?

28. Whether doth any heretofore divorced keepe company with any other at bed and at boord as man and wife? What be their names? when and where they mariéd? and how long have they so continued?

29. Whether haue you any in your Parish, which heertofore béeing popish Recusants or Sectaries, haue since conformed themselues and come to Church to heare Diuine seruice, and receive the Sacraments? If yea, then who they are? And how long since haue they so conformed themselues? and whether do they still remaine and abide in that conformity?

30. Whether haue you any in your parish to your knowledge or by common fame and report, which haue committed adulterie, fornication, or incest, or any bawdes harborers or receiuers of such persons, or publicly suspected thereof, which haue not been publicly punished to your knowledge? If yea, then with whome, and whether are there any which are by common fame and report reputed and taken to be common drunkards, blasphemers of Gods holy name, common and vsual swearers, filthy speakers, raylers, sowers of discord amongst their neighbours, or speakers against Ministers marriages, Usurers contrarie to the statute made in the 37 yeare of K. Henry the eight, Symoniacall persons, fighters, brawlers or quarrellers in Church or Churchyard? you shall not faile to present their names.

31. Whether haue any in your parish received or harboured any woman gotten with childe out of wedlock, and suffered them againe to depart without penance first inflicted vpon them by their Ordinary? You shall truly present aswel the party harbouring as harboured, and who is suspected to haue committed incontinencie with her.

32. Whether any person or persons suspected or detected heretofore of Incontinency, and therefore departing out of your parish for a season, is now returned againe? or in what place else is he or she now abiding to your knowledge, or as you haue heard? you shall not faile to present the whole truth in that behalfe.

33. Whether are there in your parish any wills not yet prooued, or goods of the dead dying intestate, left vnto the authority of the Ordinary in that behalfe? you shall not faile to present the Executors and all others faulty and culpable therein.

34. Whether do any of or within your parish affirm, or haue affirmed that the sacred Synode of this nation assembled by the Kings authority is not the true Church of England by representation? or hath or dooth any of your parish affirm, that no persons either of the Clergie or Laitie, that were not personally present in the said late Synode, are subiect to the decrees thereof in causes Ecclesiasticall made and ratified by the Kings supream authority, because they gaue not vp their voices vnto them? you shall present their names.

35. Whether is there any among you, that haue or do depraue the foresaid late Synod, saying or affirming, that the same was a company of such persons as did conspire together against godly and religious Professors of the Gospell, and that therefore both they and their proceedings in that behalfe are and ought to be despised and contemned, or words to the like effect? you shall not faile to present their names.

36. Whether there be any person or persons Ecclesiasticall or temporall within your Parish or elsewhere within this Diocés, that haue retained and kept in their custodie, or that read, sell, vtter, disperse, cary, or deliuer to others any English books or Libels set forth either on this side or beyond the seas, by Papists or Sectaries, against the Kings supremacie in causes Ecclesiasticall, or against true Religion and Catholick doctrine now publicly professed in this Church, or the gouernment or Discipline of the Church of England, now within this Realm received and established by common authority, and what their names and surnames are?

37. Whether there be any in your parish who are noted, knowne or suspected to conceale or kéep hidden in their houses any Masse books, portesses, breuaries, or other books of popery and superstition, or any Chalice, Copes, Vestments, Albes, or other ornaments of superstition, vncancelled or vndefaced, which it is to be conjectured, they do keepe for a day, as they call it?

38. Whether any of your Parishioners haue a Preacher to their Parson, Vicar, or Curate, doe absent themselues from his Sermons, and resort to any other place to heare other Preachers?

39. Whether ther be any Inkeépers, Alewines, Victualers, or tiplers, that suffer or do admit any person or persons in their houses to eat, drink, or play at dice, cardes, tables, bowles, or such like games, in the time of common-prayer or sermon on the Sondaies, or Holidiaes: or any Butchers, or other that commonly vse to sel meat or other things in the time of common-prayer, preaching or reading of Homilies? and whether in Faires or common Markets falling vpon Sondaies, there be shewing of any wares before morning prayer be done? and whether any Markets and selling of wares be vsed or suffered in any Churchyards on the Sabbaoth day by common packmen and pedlers going about, or any Butchers?

40. Whether hath your Minister or any of the parish, without the consent or priuie of the Ordinarie, caused any to doe penance or bee punished either openly or otherwise, for any crime punishable by the Ecclesiasticall lawes onely, and what be the names of the parties that haue béene so punished, and in what manner?

41. Whether there be any in your Parish, who will come to heare the sermon, but will not come to the publique praier appointed by the book of common praier, making a schisme or diuision (as it were) betwéene the vse of publicke prayer, and preaching? and whether there be any, who being present at publick praier, do not devoutly and humbly knéele upon their knées, at such times as by the book of common-praier they are appointed, to wit, when they make a generall confession of their sinnes: when all prayers and collects are read: in the time of the Letanie: when the ten Commandments are read: and at the receiuing of the holy Communion? and what are their names, that haue at any time shewed themselves vndutifull and vnreuerent in that behalfe?

42. Whether there be any married women or others within your parish, which after childbirth, refuse or contemne to come to the Church to give God thanks for their deliuerie, and to haue the prayers publickly appointed on that behalfe by the booke of common-prayer?

43. Whether anie within your parish doe resort vnto Barnes, fieldes, woods, priuate houses, or to anie extraordinary exposition of scriptures or conferences together? or that be drawers, or perswaders of others to anie such schismaticall conuenticles?

44. Whether any doe keepe their Children vn baptized longer than is conuenient, vnlesse that it bee for sicknesse of the childe, or other vrgent occasion? And whether anie doe carie their children from the parish they are borne in, to other Parishes to be baptized, and so refuse their own Parish: or do bring strange Ministers into their owne houses to baptize their Children priuately according to their owne fantasies?

45. Whether do you knowe of any other matter of Ecclesiasticall cognizance, worthy the presentment in your iudgement, aboue not expressed, which you hold fit to be reformed? and if you doe, you shall likewise present the same by vertue of your oathes.

At the deliuey of your Bill of presentment at the time and place aboue set downe, you are likewise in the sayd Bill to set downe the names of all such as haue bene buried at any time since the seauenth of August 1605, being men, maydes, or widowes, and likewise the Minister, Churchwardens, and Sydemen of euery parish must in the end of their saide Bill of presentment set downe, besides their presenting which they make of all Recusants and none Communicants, this note following

{ Recusants men,
Recusants women,
None Communicants of both sexe,
Communicants of both sexe in the whole Parish.

So setting downe the number of euery one, the Minister, Churchwardens, and Sidemen must put their hands to this note.

ARCHDEACON OF NORFOLK, [THOMAS JEGON?] 1608.

ARTICLES vpon which the Church-wardens and Questmen are to make their inquirie, and ground their presentments: to be exhibited vnder their Oathes and Handes, to the Arch-deacon of NORFOLKE, or this Officiall. ANN. DOM. 1608.

At London printed by Ralph Blower,
ANNO DOMINI, 1608.

The Oath, of the Church-wardens and Sworne-men in euery Parish, &c.

You shall make dilligent Inquirie, and true presentment, in writing vnder your Handes: of all such as within your parish offend in any of these Articles; or that are suspected or defamed, to haue offended in any of them, So helpe you God.

ARTICLES to be enquired of, by the Church-wardens and Sworne-men, &c.

INPRIMS, You shall present if any within your Parish, hath affirmed that the Church of England, is not a true church, or that the forme of Gods worship contained in the booke of Common prayer, or the administration of the Sacraments, is corrupt, or conteyneth anything contrary to the Scriptures, or that any of the 39 Articles established for consent in true Religion is erroneous or that the ceremonies of the Church of England are not to be vsed: or that the government of the Church of England vnder his Maiestie, by Arch-bushops, Bushops, Arch-deacons, and the rest that beare Office in the same: is Ante-christian, or repugnant to the Scriptures.

2. Item, If there be not in your church, the Bible of the largest volume, the booke of Common prayer, a comely Font of stone: a Communion Table, a pulpit: a Surplice: the Booke of Homilies: a Carpet, and a faire linnen cloath for the Communion Table: a sufficient seate for the Minister to say seruice in, the ten Commandments set vp in the East ende of the Church: with other sentences of scripture in conuenient places: a chest for the almes: The degrees of Matrimonie, a Parchment booke wherein all the Christnings, Mariages, and Burials, are Registred euery Sunday, that happened the weeke before, and a Coffer with 3 lockes and keyes to keepe the same in.

21795.

3. Item, If any in your parish (aged 16 years or aboue) doth not resort to his parish church on sundaies and hollidaies, and there continue the whole time of Diuine Service: or if any keepe the Lords day or other hollidaies: otherwise then according to Gods holy will and orders of the church of England, that is in hearing of the word of God, in prayer, in receiuing the holy Communion, in visiting the sicke, or other sober and godly conuersation, or if any prophane these dayes, by tipping in Tauerne or Alehouse, or in vsing his manuell craft, or trade, or by other disorder.

4. Item, if vpon those daies common prayer be not said or sung distinctly and reuerently, and that in conuenient time, and according to the orders prescribed in the booke of common prayer without diminishing or adding any thing in the matter or forme thereof: or if vpon Wednesdaies and Fridaies weekly warning be not given by the toling of a bell, and Letanie be not said according to the booke of common prayer.

5. Item, If any haue not reuerently kneeled whiles prayers are reade, or not stand vp at the saying of the beleefe or not made due and lowly reuerence, when in the time of diuine seruice the Lord Jesus is mentioned: or hath benee busied at such times in the church, otherwise then in attending that is preached read or ministred, or hath disturbed the minister or the seruice or sermon by ringing, walking, talking, or otherwise, or hath departed out of the church, before seruice or sermon ended without vrgent cause, or abide in the churchyard or churchporch, in time of diuine seruice or preaching or any that hath fought brauled or quareled in the church or churchyard.

6. Item, If any parent answere at baptisme as God-father for his owne child, or if any Godfather or God-mother answere otherwise then by the booke of common prayer is prescribed, or before the same person hath receiued the holy communion, or if the Minister doe not take the child into his hands, and heuing baptised it, doe not make a crosse vpon the childe forehead, or doe not commaund that after it is instructed in the Catechisme, it be brought to the Bishop to be confirmed, or doe Baptise publicly otherwise then in the Font of stone.

7. Item, If your Minister giue not warning publicly in your church the sunday before he administer the Lords supper (to th' end the parishioners may the better prepare themselues) & that so often as the parishioners may receiue thrice euery yeare: Easter being once, or if the churchwardens prouide not sufficient bread & wine for the communion: or if the wine be not brought to the communion table in a cleane pot or scoope, of pewter or purer mettall, or if the Minister rehearse not the words of instatution, so oft as bread and Wine is newly brought to be vsed at the Communion Table, or doe not first receiue himselfe: and then deliuer the same to euery communicant seuerally, or deliuer the same to any but to such as kneele.

8. Item, If any be admitted in your parish to the holy Communion that liueth in sinne notorious, or that hath maliciously or openly contended with his neighbours, before they be reconciled, or any that is a seismaticke, or that hath willingly incurred periuurie, in not presenting such offences as they know to be committed within your parish, or any that is not of the same parish.

9. Item, If any woman after Childe-birth hath not come to church to giue God thanks, or your Minister hath not vsed the forme of thankesgiuing prescribed in the booke of common prayer to any of his parishioners after childe-birth.

10. Item, If your Minister hauing two benefices, doth not make his personal residence vpon each of them, for some reasonable time euery yeare, or hath not vnder him, in the benefice where he doth not reside a preacher lawfully allowed that is able to instruct the people, except he preach himselfe vsually at both his churches.

11. Item, If your parson or vicar being allowed a preacher & resyding vpon his benefice, preach not euery sunday in his owne or other church hauing no lawfull impediment or being not a preacher allowed, doth take vpon him to expound any scripture or procure not a sermon to be preached once euery moneth, in his cure or doth not reade an Homilie euery Sunday when there is no Sermon preached in his cure.

12. Item, If any Minister serue in your parish before he be admitted therto, by the Bishop or ordinary of the place vnder his hand & seale, or any that serueth more churches then one in one day, except the one be not able in the iudgement of the Bishop or ordinarie, to maintaine a Curate, or if your preacher doth not in his owne person read diuine seruice and minister the Sacraments, at the least twice euery yeere, obseruing the Cerimonies established, or any that hath said publicque prayers, not being in holy orders.

13. Item, If any stranger hath bin suffred to preach in your church not shewing his license to preach, or that hath not subscribed his name, & the day he preached, and by whom he was licensed to preach: or if any do preach that refuseth to conforme himselfe to the ordinances and rites Ecclesiasticall established.

14. Item, If any minister before the sermon, lecture, or Homilie, doth not pray for the church of Christ, the King & Queenes Maiestie, the Prince and rest of their royall progeny, the Ministers, Maiestrates, and commons of the land.

15. Item, If your minister saying publicque prayers or ministring the Sacraments weare not a comly surplice and therewithall his hood if he be a Graduate or doth not euery Sunday for halfe an hower instruct the youth and ignorant of his Parish, in the Catechisme set forth in the booke of common prayer, or if any parents, Maisters or Mistresses, cause not their children and seruants to come to the church to be instructed therein.

16. Item, If any minister hath celebrated Matrimony, between any persons without a lawfull licence, first obtained, except the banes of Matrimony haue been published three seuerall sundaies or hollidaies, in the time of diuine seruice in the church where the parties dwell, or hath at any time married any (though, hauing a licence) at any other time then in the time of diuine seruice, betweene the houres of 8 & 12 in the forenoon, or in any other place, then in the church, where one of the parties to be married did dwell, or in any church that is named a peculiar libertie, or priuiledged place or lawlesse church neyther of the parties being of the same parish.

17. Item, If your Minister declare not to the people on the sunday, what hollidaies and fasting daies are the weeke following, or doe not euery sixe moneths openly in time of diuine seruice, on the sunday declare in his Church what persons for obstinate refusing to frequent seruice or for notorious contumacie, or other notable crimes stand excommunicate.

18. Item, If your minister resort not to the sick (hauing knowledge thereof) to comfort them, or refuseth or delayeth to christen any child brought to the church to be christned, or to bury any corpes that is brought to the church to be buried, the party being not excommunicate, or to christen any child that is weake & in danger of death.

19. Item, If any Minister being a prebendary, a Doctor, a batchelor of Diuinitie, a maister of artes or a batchelor of Lawes, & hauing Ecclesiasticall lining, doe not vsually weare a gowne with a standing collar, with a hood or a tippit and square cap, and if any other minister doth not wear the like apparel except a tippit only, or if any minister weare not vsually in his iourney a Cloake with sleeues, or any that goeth in his dablet & hose without a cloke or cassocke, or that doth weare a coyfe or wrought night cap, or that doth goe in light couloured stockings, or that doth resort to Tauerns and alehouses, otherwise then for their honest necessaries, or that is giuen to seruile labour, to drinking, to ryot or playing at Cards, Dice, or tables, or any other vnlawfull game, or that doth voluntarily relinquish his calling and liueth as a lay-man.

20. Item, If any take vpon him to teach in publicque schoole, or priuate house not being licensed thereunto by the Bishop or Ordinarie or that teacheth not the Catechisme allowed, by authority, or that bringeth not his Schollers to church vpon hollidaies to heare the Sermon if any be, or doth not after their returne examine what they haue borne away of the Sermon, or that doth not teach the Grammer, set forth by King Henry the 8 and none other.

21. Item, If your church be not sufficiently repaired the church-windows wel glazed, the Church-floore wel paved, the churchyard well fenced, and persons denounced excommunicate kept out of the church, or if any plays, Church-ales, drinkings, leetes, lay iuries, or other prophane vsage be kept in your church or superstitious, or causeles ringing of bells be suffered without the allowance of the Minister and Churchwardens or Questmen.

22. Item, If any shall take vpon him to be a Churchwarden, or Questman not being chosen in Easter weeke, by the ioynt consent of the minister & parishioners, or if they agree not in their choise, then the one by the Minister, the other by the Parishioners, or that continueth longer then one yeere in that Office, not being chosen thereto againe: Or if any Churchwarden at the end of his yeare, or within a moneth after it, yeeld not a true accompt before the Minister and Parishioners and deliuer by Bill indented what money and Church goods remaineth in his hands.

23. Item, If any within your parish haue married within the degrees prohibited, expressed in the table of Mariages: or that vnder the age of 21. yeeres hath contracted, or married without the consent of their parents or Guardians their parents being dead, or any that is diuorced and hath married any other, the parties diuorced, being both aliue, or that hath been married without the Ring, or otherwise then by the booke of common prayer is prescribed & by whom.

24. Item, If any within your Parish be offensiuie to their brethren by adulterie, fornication, whoredome, incest, drunkennes, swearing, rybaldrie or that is suspected or defamed, of such wickednes or that hath receiued or harbored any such, or any that is a hinderer of gods worde, to be reade, or preached, a fawter of vsurped forraine power, or a defender of popish Doctrine, or a seducer or perswader of others to such errors.

25. Item, If your minister doth not yearely before the feast of S. John Baptist, present to his Ordinarie the names of such within his parish as being 13 yeares olde are popish recusants, or being popishly giuen, come to the Church but receiue not the communion, or that make their abode as sojourners or as common guesates within your parish: or if your Minister being a preacher is not willing to reclaime popish recusantes if any such be within your parish from their errors, and how long such popishly giuen, haue absented themselues from the church or from the communion, and what Schoolemaister any popish recusant hath in his house that commeth not to the church.

26. Item, If you haue not in your Church the booke of Ecclesiasticall constitutions or Canons, authorised (sic) by his Maiestie, and agreed vpon at the Synode at London, 1603. And whether hath your Minister read the same yeerely in the church before the feast S. John Baptist, vpon Sundaies and hollidaies in the afternoone, according to his Maiesties proclamation in that behalfe.

27. Item, If your minister and parishioners haue not walked the perambulation and precincts of your parish as by Lawe they are bound, and who haue offended therein.

28. Item, If your chauncell, or personage, or vicarage house, be not in good and sufficient reparations.

29. Item, Who they be that detaine any Legacie, giuen to the poore or to any other godly vses.

30. Item, If vpon the vacation of the clarke-ship of your parish, you haue not a fit parish clarke aged one and twenty yeres at the least of honest conuersation and sufficient for his writing and reading chosen by your Minister, and who they be that detaine from your parish clarke the accustomed wages?

31. Item, If there be any other matter of Ecclesiasticall cognisance and worthy of Reformation or presentment which is not in these articles expressed.

FINIS.

ARTICLES to be inquired of by the Churchwardens and Sidemen of euerie parish within the Diocesse of Canterburie, wherunto by vertue of their othes they are to make answeres seuerally to euerie Article.

At London Printed by Thomas Haveland.

[Without date; but probably Articles of Archbishop Abbot, Haveland being a London printer in and about 1611.]

Articles.

I.

Whether doth your Parson, Vicar, or Curate, foure times (at the least) in a yeere, teach, open, manifest and declare in his or their sermons, and other collations, and lectures, that all vsurped, and forraine power is for most iust causes taken away and abolished?

II.

Whether is there any within your parish, that hath affirmed, or doth affirme, that the forme of Gods worship in the Church of England, established by law and contained in the booke of common Praier, and Administration of Sacraments, is a corrupt, superstitious, or vnlawfull worship, or containeth any thing in it that is repugnant to the Scriptures, and what be their names, and sur-names that haue so affirmed, or do so affirme?

III.

Whether is there any within your Parish, that haue, or doe affirme, that the Rites and Ceremonies of the Church of England by law established, are wicked, Antichristian, or Superstitious, or such as being commanded by lawfull Authority, men who are zealously and godly affected, may not with any good conscience, approue them, vse them, or as occasion requireth subscribe vnto them, and who they bee?

III.

Whether is there any within your parish, minister, or other person that doth affirme that Conuenticles are lawfull, that is, that there are within this realme other meetings, assemblies, or congregations of the Kings borne Subjects, then such as by the lawes of this Land are held, or allowed, which may rightly challenge to themselves the name of true, and lawfull churches, or that doe affirme that it is lawfull for any sort of ministers, and Lay persons, or any of them to ioine together, and make rules, orders, or constitutions in causes Ecclesiasticall, without the Kings authority, and shal submit themselves to be ruled and governed by them, and who they be that so do affirm?

V.

Whether is there a common fame in your parish, that your Parson, or Vicar hath obtained his Benefice by Simony, or any other vnlawfull meanes?

VI.

Whether common praier bee said, or sung in your church or chappell vpon Sundaies, and Holidiaies at conuenient houres, in such order as is prescribed in the booke of common Praier, without either diminishing in regard of preaching, or any other respect, or adding any thing in the manner and forme thereof?

VII.

Whether doth your minister vpon Wednesdaies and Fridaies not beeing Holidiaies, reade in your Church or chappell publikely the Letany, and other praiers appointed in the saide booke for those daies, and whether doth he reade the Commination against sinners as it is there prescribed?

VIII.

Whether the holy Sacraments be duely administred as by the booke of common praier is required, and whether the holy Communion be administred by your minister to any but to such as kneele?

IX.

Whether in the administration of Baptisme, your minister signeth the children with the signe of the crosse vpon the foreheads, according to the booke of common praier?

X.

Whether haue all persons within your parish of sufficient age, viz. of sixteene yeeres of age and vward received the holy Communion thrice in the last yeere, and namely at Easter last for once?

XI.

Whether hath your minister admitted to the receiuing of the holy Communion any open, and notorious sinner, or malicious person that is notoriously knowne, to be out of charity without due reconciliation?

XII.

Whether hath your minister relected any from the Communion, who is not by publique fame or by presentment of the churchwardens detected for a notorious fornicator, adulterer, or other wicked liuer, by whom publique offence is given?

XIII.

Whether hath your minister admitted any to the receiuing of the holy Communion that are common, and notorious deprauers of the booke of common Praier, and administration of the Sacraments, and of the orders, rites, and ceremonies therein prescribed?

XIII.

Whether hath your Minister admitted any to the holy Communion that are not of his owne parish?

XV.

Whether hath your Minister admitted any person to be Godfather or Godmother to any childe, before the same person so vndertaking hath received the holy Communion?

XVI.

Whether your Minister being beneficed and allowed a Preacher and residing on his benefice doe in his own Cure or in some other Church or Chappell neere adioining (where no Preacher is) preach one Sermon euery Sunday of the yeere?

XVII.

Whether your Minister being beneficed and not allowed a Preacher, doe procure Sermons to be preached in his Cure once in euery month at the least, by lawfully licensed Preachers, and whether on such daies as there is no preaching, hee doe reade one of the Homilies prescribed or to bee prescribed by authority?

XVIII.

Whether your Minister hath two Benefices, and if hee hath whether doth hee maintaine a licensed Preacher in the benefice where hee doth not reside, or doth he himselfe preach vsually at them both?

XIX.

Whether the Curate of your Parish (if you haue any) be licensed from the Bishop, or Ordinary of the place, and whether doth he serue any more then one Church or Chappell in one day?

XX.

Whether your Minister being not a licensed Preacher doe take vpon him to expound in his own Cure or elsewhere, any Scripture or matter of Doctrine?

XXI.

Whether hath any man Preached within your Church or Chappell that hath not shewed his license to Preach, and whether haue you taken the names of all such as haue Preached in your Church or Chappell, and noted them in a booke, and whether haue the same Preachers subscribed their names to the same note so taken, together with the day when they Preached, and the name of the Bishop of whom they obtained license to Preach?

XXII.

Whether any Preacher in your Parish Church particularly, or namely of purpose, haue impugned, or confuted any former Doctrines there before deliuered, or in any other Church neere adioining, wherby vpon such publike dissenting and contradicting there hath or might grow offence, and disquietnesse vnto the people?

XXIII.

Whether your Minister before his Sermons, Lectures, or Homelies doe obserue the order of praying set forth and commanded in the five and fiftie Constitution of the Canons treated and agreed vpon in Anno Domini one thousand six hundred and three?

XXIII.

Whether there be any person within your Parish, that doeth refuse to haue his childe baptised by a Minister, that is no Preacher, and to receiue the holy Communion at his hands in that respect, or in the same foresaid respect doth leaue his owne parish Church, or cause his childe or children to be baptised in other parishes abroad, and what be their names that haue offended therein?

XXV.

Whether your Minister in reading publique prayer and administration of the Sacraments, or other rites of the Church, doe weare the Surplisse, & being a Graduate doth weare vpon his surplisse such a hooche as by order of the Universitie is agreeable to his degree.

XXVI.

Whether doth your minister vpon euery sunday and holiday before euening praier halfe an houre at the least, examine and instruct the youth and ignorant persons of his parish in the ten Commandements, the articles of the believe, and in the Lords praier, and heare and instruct them in the catechisme set forth in the booke of common praier?

XXVII.

Whether do the masters and mistresses of families within your parish, cause their children, seruants, and apprentices, which haue not learned the Catechisme to come to the Church at the time appointed, and who they bee which being sent, wilfully refuse to come obediently to heare and to be ordered by the Minister?

XXVIII.

Whether haue any beene married in your parish Church or Chappell, not hauing obtained a faculty or license thereunto, except the banes of matrimony haue beene three times senerall Sundaies or hollidaies first published, and whether haue any beene married in your Church or chappell, vnder the age of one and twenty yeares, to which said marriage the consent of parents or gouernours hath not beene first obtained and made knowne to the minister that married them?

XXIX.

Whether doth your minister visit the sicke, to instruct and comfort them being called in their distresse, and whether vpon the death of any your parishioners there be ringing any more then one short peale, and one other before the buriall, and one other after the buriall?

XXX.

Whether hath your minister refused or delaied to christen any child according to the forme of the booke of common praier, that is brought vnto him vpon sundaies or hollydaies, or to bury any corps brought to the Church or churchyard, conuenient warning being giuen him thereof before, in such manner and forme as is prescribed in the said booke of common praier, and how often he hath so offended herein.

XXXI.

Whether any doe keepe their childe or children vnbaptised longer than is conuenient, valesse it be for sicknesse of the childe or other vrgent occasion.

XXXII.

Whether your minister hauing beene duely informed of the weaknesse and danger of death of any infant vnbaptised in his parish, and thereupon desired to go or come to the place where the said infant remaineth to baptise the same, haue wilfully refused, or of grosse negligence deferred, so as any such infant by his default haue died vnbaptised?

XXXIII.

Whether haue you a parchment booke for the registering of all christnings, weddings and burials, and whether is the same booke safely kept in a cofer with three lockes and keies, one remaining with the minister, and the other two with the Churchwardens senerally, and whether vpon euery sabbath day, immediately after morning or euening praier, the minister and Churchwardens doe write and record in the said booke the names of all persons christned, married and buried in the weeke before, and the day and yeare of euery such christning, marriage, and buriall, and whether haue you transmitted vnto the Ordinary a true copie of the names of all persons christened, married, and buried in your said parish, in this last yeare ended on the five and twenty day of March last past?

XXXIII.

Whether haue you in your Church or chappell a booke of Canons of the last Parliament, in the yeere one thousand six hundred and three, and whether hath your minister read all the same Canons publicly in your Church or chappell, once this last yeere?

XXXV.

Whether hath your minister preached or administred the Sacraments of the bodie and blood of our Saviour Christ in any priuate house, except it be in times of necessitie, to such as are so impotent as they cannot goe to the Church, or dangerously sicke, and desire to be partakers of that holy Sacrament?

XXXVI.

Whether doth your minister vsually weare a gown with a standing collar, with sleeues strait at the hands, or with wide sleeues, and being a Graduate; a hoode or tippet of silke or sarsnet, and a square cap, or being no Graduate, doth weare the like apparell, the tippet onely excepted, and whether doth he vsually weare in iorneying a cloake with sleeues, commonly called a Priests cloake, without gards or welts, or long buttons, or cuts, and whether doth he weare any other then a night cap of blacke silke, satin or velvet.

XXXVII.

Whether doth your minister at any time, other then for his honest necessitie, resort to any tauerns or ale-houses, or doth he bord or lodge at any such place, or doth he giue himselfe to any base or seruile labor, or to drinking, or riot, spending his time idley by day or by night, playing at dice, cards or tables or any other vnlawfull games?

XXXVIII.

Whether haue you any Schoolemaster in your parish that teacheth either in publike schoole or priuate house, being not allowed by the Ordinary vnder his hand and seale, and whether hee is of sober and honest conuersation?

XXXIX.

Whether doth your Schoolemaster teach and instruct his schollers in the larger or shorter catechisme by publike authority set forth, and bring his schollers to praiers and sermons on holidayaies and festiuall daies, and whether doth hee teach the Grammar set forth by King Henry the eight, and continued in the time of King Edward the sixt, and Queene Elizabeth of noble memory, and none other.

XL.

Whether any in your parish doe practise Physicke or Chirurgery, and what be their names?

XLI.

Whether haue you in your Church or chappell a font of stone, and whether is the same set in the vsuall place, and whether be all your bells vnbroken, and whether any of them be lately sold or imbeseled away.

XLII.

Whether haue you in your Church or Chappell the booke of common praier lately explained by his Maiesties authority, and whether haue you a Bible of the largest volume, and bookes of homilies allowed by authoritie?

XLIII.

Whether is your Communion table kept, repaired in seemely manner, covered in time of diuine seruice, with a carpet of silke or other decent stuffe, and with a faire linnen cloth at the time of Administration?

XLIII.

Whether haue you the ten Commandements set vpon the east end of your Church or chappell where the people may best see and reade the same, and whether haue you a conuenient seate for your Minister to read seruice in?

XLV.

Whether hath there growne in your parish any contention betweene any of the parishioners touching the placing or displacing of any in any seate or pue in the Church, and whether there hath beene any pew builded of late in your Church or chappell without the expresse leaue and consent of the Ordinary of the Diocesse, and by whom hath the same beene built?

XLVI.

Whether haue you a decent Pulpit placed conueniently in your Church or chappell, and there seemely kept for the preaching of Gods word?

XLVII.

Whether haue you in your Church a strong chest with a hole in the vpper part thereof, with 3 lockes and keies provided for the almes giuen to the poore, and whether are the same keies kept, one with your Vicar, Parson or Curate, and the other two with the Churchwardens senerally?

XLVIII.

Whether is your Church or chappell and chancell well and sufficiently repaired and maintained, the windowes well glazed, the floores well paved and kept cleanly and seemely, as becommeth the house of God, and whether is your Parsonage or Vicaridge house kept well repaired?

XLIX.

Whether is your Churchyard well and sufficiently repaired, fenced and maintained with walles, rales or pales, as hath bene accustomed?

L.

Whether are there any that haue heretofore bin denounced and yet stand excommunicate, that doe resort to your Church or chappell to here diuine seruice, and who they be?

LI.

Whether haue you in your Parish any disordered persons, that haue quarelled, fought or brawled in your Church or chappell, or Churchyard, and what be their names?

LII.

Whether haue you any plaies, feasts and banquets, suppers, Churchales, drinkings, temporall Courts, leetes, lay Iuries, musters, or any other prophane vsage kept in your Church or chappell, or Churchyard, or haue any superstitious ringing of bels vpon holidiaes or Eenes (sic)?

LIII.

Whether haue your Churchwardens of the last yeere giuen vp a iust accompt before the minister and parishioners, of such money as they haue receiued, and how particularly they haue bestowed the same, and whether if any money remained in their hands vpon the same their accompts, haue they deliuered ouer the same vnto you the next Churchwardens by bill indented.

LIIII.

Whether haue you in your Church or Chappell a Table of degrees of Marriages forbidden, set forth by authoritie in the yeere of our Lord God one thousand three score and three, and whether is the same Table hanged in a conuenient place in your said Church or chappell?

LV.

Whether any persons haue bene married (within your Church or chappell, or in other places, and now dwell in your said parish) within degrees forbidden in the Table aforesaid, or that being Diuorced or Separated for the same, do yet notwithstanding cohabit and keepe company still together, and what they be?

LVI.

Whether haue you in your Parish any persons that being Married within (sic) those degrees forbidden haue vnlawfully forsaken their Wiues, or Husbands and married others, and who they be?

LVII.

Whether haue any in your said Parish offended their brethren by Adultery, Whoredome, Incest, or Drunkenness, or by Blasphemie, Swearing, Ribaldrie, Vsury, or any other vncleanness, and wickednes of life, and who they be that haue offended, and with whom? And whether hath your Minister admitted any such offenders to the holy Communion before they are reformed?

LVIII.

Whether haue you any in your Parish which be commonly noted to be Malicious, Contentious, Vncharitable persons, Raylers, Scolders or sowers of Discord betweene Neighbours, and especially Railers against Ministers, and their Marriages, and what be their names?

LIX.

Whether do you know any within your Parish or elsewhere that is a hinderer of the word of God to be read or sincerely Preached, or a fauorer of any vsurped or forraine power, or defender of Popish and erroneous Doctrine, and what be their names?

LX.

Whether are there any in your Parish which behaue themselves rudely, or disorderly in the Church, or which by vntimely ringing of Bels, by Walking, Talking, or otherwise shall hinder or disturbe the Minister or Preacher.

LXI.

Whether haue you a comely Pulpit cloth or Cushion of Silke or such like instead thereof, a Communion Cup of Siluer, and a comely large Surplisse with wide sleeves for your Minister to weare?

LXII.

Whether there be any Preaching, reading of Lectures, expounding of the Scriptures, Catechising, or other like exercises in priuate places, or families, or administering of either of the Sacraments, whereto others not of the same family doe resort, and what they be that maintaine such meetings, and who resort to their houses?

LXIII.

Whether there be any in your parish that are noted, knowne, or suspected, to conceale or keepe hidden any Massebookes, Portesses, Breniaries, or other Bookes of Popery, and superstition, or any Chalices, Copes, or other Vestments, or ornaments of Supersticion, vacancelled and vndefaced, which is to be coniectured they keepe for a day as they call it. And who they be?

LXIIII.

Whether your Parson or Vicar be resident vpon his Benefice, and keepe Hospitality, or no, and if he may dispend twenty pound or aboue by the yeere, and be not resident, whether doth hee distribute the forty part of that Benefice where hee is not resident vpon the poore of the Parish?

LXV.

Whether the people of your Parish doe diligently resort to your Parish Church and Chappell on the Holidiaes, and especially on the Sundaies to morning and Evening praier, and then there abide orderly and soberly during the time of common praier, Homilies, Preaching, and other Service of God there vsed, and who they be that offend herein?

LXVI.

Whether there be in your Parish any Popish or Sectuary recusant, which for any cause whatsoever forbear to come to Church to common Praier, or to heare Gods word preached, and what their name or names are, and how long they haue bene recusants?

LXVII.

Whether the forfeiture of twelue pence for euery absence from common Praier hath bene leuied and taken, according to a Statute made in the first yeere of the Raigne of late Queene Elizabeth, of euery person that hath offended, and namely of Minstrels, and others, that vpon the Sundaies and Holidiaes goe to other parishes to play or dance, and to other vaine pastimes: And how hath the same forfeitures been bestowed?

LXVIII.

Whether be there any in your Parish, or resorting thereunto which be suspected to be Massing Priests, Reconcilers, Jesuits, Seminaries, or any other persons which haue receiued any Orders or Authority from the Romish Church, and what be their names, and who entertaine them?

LXIX.

Whether there bee any that haue married two Wiues or two Husbands both liuing, or that liue not together with their Wiues, or that haue made secret Contracts and liue as Man and Wife which haue been secretly married out of the Parishes where they dwell, and who they be?

LXX.

Whether any persons in your parish being diuorced or seperated asunder, haue married againe, the former diuorced husband or wife being not first dead, or haue you in your Parish any married couples that liue not together, but slanderously liue apart?

LXXI.

Whether your Minister haue Churched any vnmarried woman that hath been deliuered of a Child vnlawfully begotten, before she haue acknowledged her fault openly according to the Order inioined her by the Ordinary or his Deputy?

LXXII.

Whether doe you euery yeere in Rogation weeke walke the Preambulation of the Circuite of your Parish, and especially at such places in your said Circuite as are in any controuersie: And if this be not obserued in whom the falt resteth?

LXXIII.

Whether there be any married woman or others within your parishes which after childbirth refuse or contemne to come to Church to giue God thanks for their deliuey according to the booke of common praier.

LXXIII.

Whether there be any Inkeepers, Alewines, Victuallers, or Tipplers, that suffer or doe admit any person or persons in their houses, to eate, drinke, or play at Cards, or any vnlawfull games, in the time of common praier; or Sermon on the Sundaies or Holidiaies: And who they be that suffer and admit them, and what they be that so are suffered and admitted?

LXXV.

Whether there are any shops kept open in the time of diuine Seruice or Sermons on Holidiaies, but especially whether doe any sell any wares on the Sabath daies, or Butchers, Bakers, and Brewers, sell flesh, carry out bread, or serue in beare on the Sabath daies, and what be their names that so offend and violate the same daies?

LXXVI.

Whether if any Faire fall on the Sabath day there be any shewing of Ware's at all that day, but especially before Seruice done in the forenoone of the same day?

LXXVII.

Whether there be any man or woman within your parish that vseth witchcraft, Sorcery, or vnlawfull praiers, Inuocations, Inchantments, or Charmes vpon any Christian body, or Beast, or any resorteth to any such for help, and who they be?

LXXVIII.

Whether any haue lately departed your Parish hauing left behinde them a scandall of some crime committed, or which by common fame are reputed to haue liued in Adultery, Fornication, or Incontinencie while they were of your parish, and who they bee, and where they now liue, and who harboureth them, or any other in your parish that is suspected to haue liued incontinently?

LXXIX.

Whether any of late are come into your parish from some other parish or parishes which by common fame are reputed and taken to haue liued in Adulterie, fornication, or any other vncleannesse before they came into your said parish?

LXXX.

Whether your Churchwardens of the last yeere haue sold any Church goods, and what they haue so sold, and how the same hath bene employed?

LXXXI.

Whether are there any within your Parish that haue suppressed the wills of any dying within your parish, or other places, that with-hold any Legacies giuen to the poore, or from Orphants, or giuen to any godly vses, and who they be?

LXXXII.

Whether doe the Ouerseers of your poore duely see that the Mony collected to the vse of your poore be well employed (sic) where most neede is according to the lawes: And whether doe any refuse to pay their Sesses to the vse of the poore?

LXXXIII.

Whether any notorious Recusant who obstinately refuseth to be partaker with the Chareh of England in publike praier and hearing of the word of God preached, who is for his disobedience and contempt Excommunicate and dieth Excommunicate, be buried in Christian Buriall not hauing before his death sought to be absolved?

LXXXIII.

Whether there be any Enormities against these Articles or any part thereof that haue not ben presented by you or the Churchwardens and Sidemen that haue bene before you, or which beeing heretofore presented haue not hitherto bene called vpon, and Corrected, and if there bee any such, you are now to present the same?

FINIS.

KING, BISHOP OF LONDON, 1612

ARTICLES to be enquired of within the Dioces of London, in the first Generall Visitation of the right Reuerend Father in God, John, Lord Bishop of London, Holden in the yeare of our Lord God 1612, in the tenth yeare of the reigne of our most gracious soueraigne Lord James, by the grace of God, King of great Brittain, France, and Ireland, defender of the faith, &c.

Imprinted at London for Ambrose Garbrand, 1612.

[Collated with the Articles issued by H. Robinson, Archdeacon of Gloucester, in 1629.]

*The oath to be ministred to the Churchwardens and Swornemen.**

You shall sweare, that you and euery of you, shall duly consider of the Articles giuen you in charge, and without any affection, fauour, hatred, hope of reward and gaine; or fear of displeasure or malice of any person, you shall present all and euery such persons and person, that now is, or of late was within your parish, as hath committed any incest, adultery, fornication, or symonie, and any misdemeanour, and disturbances committed, or made in any Church or Chappell, in time of common prayer, preaching, or diuine Seruice there vsed, to the disturbance thereof: and also that haue committed or done any other offence, fault or default, presentable in the Ecclesiasticall Court, according to the Articles now delivered to you. Wherein you shall deale vprightly and according to truth, neither of malice presenting any contrarie to truth, nor of corrupt affection sparing to present any, and so conceale the truth: hauing in this action God before your eyes with an earnest zeale to maintaine the truth, and to suppress vice, So help you God, and the Contents of this Booke.

The Charge of the Churchwardens & Sworne men, set downe for the better performance of their duties, and discharge of their oaths.†

They are not to bring in any Bills unto the Archdeacons courts vpon the Articles to be inquired of in their visitation, by reason of my Lord's visitation, but onely now to make their presentments vpon these Articles. They are therefore charged, that after their oath taken, and their returne home, they doe require their Minister to reade ouer both the Booke of Canons or Constitutions set forth by his Maiesty in the Conuocation holden in the yeare of our Lord God 1604, and also these articles vnto them, and to consider of euery particular Article, and of the offences by them to be presented: and also of such persons in their parish as shall be noted to offend in the same, and so the Churchwardens and Sidemen assembling themselves together within some conuenient time, are to make their bill

* The Oath in the Gloucester Articles of 1629 is as follows:—
You shall sweare that vpon due consideration of the Articles delivered you in charge to present vnto; you shall particularly present all the wants and defects; and also all offences and offenders therein enquired of; wherein you shall deale truly and faithfully: So helpe you God. Levit. 19. 12. Yee shall not sweare by my name falsely, neither shalt thou prophane the name of thy God.

† The Charge is omitted in the Gloucester Articles of 1629.

answering every Article by it selfe, before the time hereafter appointed them, which bill shall be signed with the hands of all the Churchwardens and Sidemen, with conference had with their minister upon the said bill of presentment, who according vnto the 26. Canon, is to see that the said Churchwardens do their duties in presenting, vpon the penaltie in the 26 Canon prescribed. These bills for their better ease, and sauing of trauell and charges, shall be brought by one of the Churchwardens vpon the * day of † next ‡ that hereby they may be encouraged to be more carefull in their duties.

ARTICLES to be enquired of within the Dioces of London in the Visitation to be holden in the yeare of our Lord 1612.

Articles concerning the Clergie.

Inprimis, Whether hath your Minister read the Constitutions set forth by his Maiestie once euerie yere vpon some Sundaies or Holydaies in the afternoone before diuine Service: according as by the Canons he is bound?

2. Whether doth your minister vse to pray for the Kinges maiesty King James, and the Queen's maiesty, the Prince, and all their Royall progenie, giuing vnto him such stile and title of supreme Governour in all causes, and ouer all persons, as well Ecclesiasticall as Temporall, as by Lawe are due vnto him, exhorting the parishioners to yield him obedience according to the same, and also in their said Sermons doe pray for all Archbishops, Bishops, and other Ecclesiasticall persons, according to the 55 Canon?

3. Whether is the prescript forme of diuine seruise used by your minister vpon Sundaies, Holydaies, Wednesdaies, and Fridaies, according to the booke of Common prayer? And whether doth your minister duely obserue all the orders, rites and ceremonies, prescribed in the said booke of Common prayer, as well in reading publicke prayers and the Letany, as alsoe in administering the Sacraments in such maner and forme, as by the booke of Common prayer by Law now established is enioyned?

4. Whether doth your minister administer the holy communion so often, and at such times, as that every parishioner may receiue the same at least thrice in every yeere, whereof once at Easter, as by the booke of Common prayer is appointed? And whether doth your minister receiue the same himself, on every day that he administred it to others kneeling at the same, & administred it to none but such as do kneele at the receiuing thereof, and vse the words of the institution according to the Booke at every time that the bread or wine is receiued, in such maner and forme, as by the Prouiso of the 21 Canon is directed; or wherein is he faultie touching the premisses,|| and whether is warning giuen by him before hand for the Communion as the 22 Canon requireth?

5.¶ Whether doth your minister vse the administration of the Lord's Supper, Baptisme, Instruction of children, Solemnization of matrimony, Visitation of the sicke, Buriall of the dead, the Commination, and Churching of women, vnder such words, rites and ceremonies as are set forth and prescribed by the said booke of common praier, and no other?

6. Whether hath your Minister admitted to the Communion any of his cure, which haue been openly knowne to liue in notorious sin without repentance? Or who haue maliciously and openly contended with their neighbours, before they were knowne to be reconciled? Or any notorious deprauer of any thing in the booke of common praier, or in the Articles set forth by the Conuocation 1562. Or in the booke of ordering Bishops? or any that haue spoken against his Maiesties supreme authoritie in causes Ecclesiasticall? Or admitted any not being of his parish? Or reiected any from the communion, who were not by publike presentment or other open scandall, infamous, and detected of some notorious crime by common fame published in the parish?

7. Whether the Minister together with the Churchwardens and Questmen, do take diligent heed and care, not only that all and every of your owne parishioners, do receiue thrice in every yeare as aforesaid: but also that no strangers of any other parish doe forsake their owne Minister and Parish to receiue with you contrary to the 28 Canon?

8.* Whether hath your Minister, Churchwardens and Sidemen, presented unto my Lord Bishop, or his Chauncelor, within 40 daies after Easter, the names of all the parishioners, as well men as women, which being aboue 16 yeeres of age receiued not the communion, at, or about Easter before, according to the 112 canon? If not, you shall present whether that presentment should haue bin brought in by your selues, or your predecessors, & specifie the names of every one that should haue made such presentment for Easter last past.

9. Whether doth your Minister vse to signe the children with the sign of the crosse, when they are baptized, according to the booke of common praier, and the 30 Canon? And whether he hath deferred, or wilfully refused to baptize any infant in his parish being in danger, hauing been duly informed of the weakenesse therof? And whether the child hath died by his default without Baptisme, contrary to the 68 and 69 Canons.

10. Whether is your Minister continually resident with you vpon his benefice, or for how long time hath he been absent? And where is he resiant for the most part? and what other benefice hath he?

11. Whether doth your Minister being a Preacher, preach vsually according to the Constitutions either in his own Cure with you once every Sunday, or else in some other Church or Chappell neere adioyning, where no Preacher is, according to the 45 Canon? Or how hath he been negligent in that behalfe?

12. Whether is your Minister a Preacher allowed? If yea, then by whom? If no, whether doth he procure Sermons to be preached among you once in every moneth at the least, by such as are lawfully licensed according to the 46 canon? Or doth contribute towards a licenced Preacher, if his liuing will bear it?

13. Whether hath your Minister an other benefice? and whether doth he supply his absence by a Curate that is sufficiently licenced to preach in that his Cure, whereon he himselfe is not resident? Or otherwise in case he doth not find a preaching Minister there, by reason of the smalnesse therof, whether doth he preach at both his benefices vsually himselfe, according to the 47 Canon?

14. Whether is your Curate licenced to serue by the Bishop of this Dioces or his Chancellor?† and whether doth your Minister or Curate serue any more cures then one, contrary to the 48 Canon? if yea, then what other Cure doth he also serue?

15. If your Minister be not licenced to preach, as aforesaid, whether doth he reade Homilies, or rather take vpon him to expound the Scriptures either in his own Cure, or elsewhere, contrary to the 49 Canon?‡

16. Whether hath any person bin admitted to preach within your church or chappel, but such as you haue well knowne to be sufficiently licensed? whom haue you so admitted? You shall present their names: And how often haue any such been admitted to preach, and by whose procurement? And whether haue you caused every strange preacher licensed or not licensed, to subscribe his name together with the day when he preached, according to the 50 & 52§ canons: and if he were licenced, then by whom was he licenced? And whether haue they or any other preached in your Church, not being soberly and decently apparelled, according to the 74 Canon?

17. Whether doth your Lecturer & Preacher, reade diuine Service and minister the Sacraments in his owne person twice every yeare, obseruing all the ceremonies in the booke of common praier established according to the 56 Canon.

18. Whether doth your Minister weare the Surples whilst he is saying the publik praier & administering the Sacraments? And if he be a Graduate, whether then doth he also weare vpon his Surples during the times aforesaid, such a hood as by the orders of his Uniuersitie is agreeable to his degree, according to the 58 Canon?

19. Whether doth your Minister every Sunday and holy day before euening praier, for half and (sic) howre or more, examine and instruct the youth and ignorant persons of your parish in the ten Commandements, the Articles of beleife, and in the Lords praier, as also in the Catechisme ¶set forth in the booke of common praier, whereby the children of the parish may bee prepared for Confirmation,

* Seventh, MS.

† November, MS.

‡ By ten o'clock in St. Clement danes church, MS.

§ King James—vnto him] and for the Queené, giuing vnto the King.

1629.

¶ touching the premisses] Omitted, 1629.

¶ Art. 5. omitted, 1629.

** admitted to the Communion—his parish] admitted any notorious Offenders or Schismatikes to the Communion, contrary to the 26 and 27 Constitutions, without satisfaction, by due course of Law before enioyned them, 1629.

* Art. 8. omitted, 1629.

† or his Chancellor] or by any other, and by whom?

‡ If yea, then you are to present him, and specifie the place where he hath so preached. Added, 1629.

§ 52] 51. 1629.

¶ last, Added, 1629.

and those which are confirmed for receiving of the Communion? And whether be the children and ignorant persons sent at that time to the Church there to be instructed by the Minister? And if not what be their names that make default in not sending them?*

20. Whether hath your Minister without licence from the Archbishop, the Bishop of the Dioces, or his Chauncellor, solemnized marriage betwixt any parties, the banes not being three seuerall Sundaies or holidais first published in time of diuine Service, in the seuerall Churches or Chappels of their seuerall abodes, according to the booke of common praier and the 62 Canon? or without licence in time prohibited, albeit the banes were so published? Or at any time except betwixt the howres of 8 and 12 in the forenoone? And if any haue been otherwise married, or by any authoritie other then aforesaid, you shall present the Minister so marrying, the parties so married, and the authority whereby this was done.†

21. Whether hath your Minister since the last Canons published solemnized any marriage betwixt any persons, being vnder the age of 21 yeares, although the banes be thrice asked, before such time as the parents haue made knowne vnto him their consents thereunto, contrary to the 100 Canon?‡

22. Whether doth your Minister upon Sundaies at morning prayer declare unto the parishioners what holidais and fasting daies are appointed to be kept the weeke following, according to the 64 Canon, whereby they may be put in mind to prepare themselues accordingly, & to repaire to Church to publicke praier, as by law they are bound?

23. Whether doth your Minister in the Rogation daies, vse the perambulation of the circuite of the parish appointed by law? and in the same perambulation moue the people to giue thanks to God for his benefits, vsing such Psalmes, praiers, and homilies, as are to that end set forth?

24. Whether doth any man (being neither Minister nor Deacon) reade common prayer openly in your Church or Chappel or administer the Sacrament of baptisme, or solemnize matrimonie, or take upon him to practise any other ministeriall dutie in the Church, that is prescribed to be executed particularly by such as are either Ministers, or Deacons, and what is his name that so doth?

25. Whether doth your Minister euery sixe moneths denounce in his parish all such of his parish as doe perseuer in the sentence of excommunication, not seeking to be absoued? And whether hath he admitted any person excommunicate into the Church without a certificate of his absolution from the ordinary, or other competent Juge vnder his seale according to the Canons?

26. Whether doth your Minister being a preacher endeavour and labour diligently with mildnesse and temperance to conferre with, and thersby to reclaime the Popish Recusants in his parish from their errours, if there be any such there abiding? And whether they, or any of them doe refuse such conference with your Minister, or any other Preacher, who shall present vnto them his diligence in that behalfe.§

27. Whether is your Parson, Vicar, Lecturer, or Curate too much frequent, or ouer conuersant with, or a fauourer of Recusants, whereby he may bee suspected not to bee sincere in his Religion?

28. Whether hath your Minister or any other taking upon him the place of a Minister, preached, baptized children (vnlesse in case of necessitie) solemnized marriage, churched any women, or ministred the holy Communion in any priuate house or houses? If yea, then where? whom? when? and how often hath he so offended in any of the premisses?

29.¶ Whether when any person hath bene dangerously sicke in your parish, your minister (hauing knowledge thereof) hath not resorted to euery of them (if the disease were not probably suspected to be infectious) to instruct and comfort them in their distresse, according to the maner and forme appointed in the booke of common prayer, if he were no Preacher, & if he were a Preacher, then as he thought most conuenient? And whether when any parishioner hath bene passing out of this life, your Minister hath slacked to do his last dutie in that behalfe?

* and those which are confirmed—sending them] omitted, 1629, and, according to the 99 Canon, added.

† or without licence—this was done] and that also betwixt the howres of eight & twelue in the forenoone, contrary vnto the 102 Canon? 1629.

‡ contrary vnto the 100 Canon] contrary to the 99 and 100 Canons: and whether hath he married any of another parish, and who are they, and by what authority, and when? 1629.

§ and whether they—behalfe] and whether is he painefull in visitation of the sicke, according to the booke of Common Praier, and the Canons in that case provided? 1629.

¶ Arts. 29, 30, 31, omitted in 1629.

30.* Whether your Minister hath at any time refused or delayed to bury any corps that hath bene brought to the Church or Churchyard, conuenient warning hauing bene giuen to him thereof before, in such maner and forme as is prescribed in the booke of common praier.

31.* Whether doth your Minister carefully look to the reliefe of the poore? And whether hath hee from time to time diligently called vpon his parishioners to conferre and giue somewhat, as they may spare to godly and charitable vses, especially when they make their Testaments?

32. Whether hath your Minister taken vpon him to appoint any publicke or priuate fasts, preaching or lecturing† not approued and established by law or publicke authoritie? or hath he attempted vpon any pretence, either of possession or obsession,‡ by fasting and praier to cast out Diuels, contrary vnto the 72 Canon?

33. Whether doth your Minister vse such decencie and comelinesse in his apparell, as by the 74 Constitution is enioyned him, as well at home, as when he goeth abroad?

34.§ Whether your Minister ordereth the course of his lyfe answerable to his vocation, or vseth buying & selling or trading, or to hedge, ditch, or go to plough, or hath sollicitd other mens suites for gaine, or employed himselfe about other such businesse not beseaming or fitting his calling.

35. Whether do you know in your parish any that hauing heretofore taken vpon him or them the order of Priest hood, or of a Deacon, hath since relinquished the same, and betaken himselfe in the course of his life as a Layman, neglecting his vocation? If yea, then you shall present his name, and the place of his abode.

36. Whether is your Minister || reputed to be an incontinent person, or to keepe in his house, or frequente the company,¶ of any man or woman that are suspected either to be of euill religion, or bad life? Or whether he is a common haunter of Tauerns, Alehouses, or any suspected place: or whether doth he board or lodge in any of them? Or is he a common gamester, or plaier at dice, cards, tables,‡ or other vnlawfull games? a common swearer, a drunkard, or one that applieth not himselfe in his study,‡ or faultie in any other crime, punishable by Ecclesiasticall censures, whereby he is offensive and scandalous to his function or ministerie?

37. Whether doth your Minister vse the forme of thanksgiving to women after their child-birth? and whether hath he admitted any thereunto that was begotten with child in adultery, or fornication, without licence of his Ordinarie? And whether haue any married wiues refused to come to Church, according to the booke of common prayer, to giue God thanks after child-birth? If any be faultie herein, you shall present their names.

38. Whether doth your Minister baptize any children in any Bason or other vessell, than in the Ordinarie Font, being placed in the chureh, according to the 81 Canon, or doth vse to put any bason into it.

39.§§ Whether your minister, or any other that hath taken holy orders now silenced or suspended, or other person or persons, eyther of the ministerie or laitie, within or neer your parish, of your knowledge, or as you haue heard, hath bene at, or vsed to meete in anie barnes, fields, woods, priuate house or houses, and held priuate conuenticles or meetings: whether at any such meeting doe they or any of them preach, conferre or agree vpon any priuate orders for diuine Seruice, prayers, preaching or expounding the Scriptures, or that vse any other prayers, preaching or forme of diuine Seruice, other than such as is in the booke of Common prayer, and the Lawes established appointed, or that be drawers or perswaders of others to any such schismaticall conuenticles? if yea, you shall present them all and euery one of them, specifying their names, surnames, and qualitie or addition, and places of abode.

Articles concerning the Church.

1. Whether you haue in your seuerall Churches and Chappels, the booke of Constitutions or Canons ecclesiastical, ready to be read by your minister according to his

* Arts. 30, 31, omitted in 1629.

† preaching or lecturing] or prophesies: 1629.

‡ or obsession] omitted, 1629.

¶ Art. 34, omitted, 1629.

|| noted or defamed to haue obtained his Benefice by simony, or Added, 1629.

¶ or frequente the company] omitted, 1629.

** or whether—of them] omitted, 1629.

‡‡ cards, tables] omitted, 1629.

‡‡ or one—study] omitted, 1629.

§§ This Article is as follows in 1629, where it is numbered 28:—

Whether hath your Minister, or any other person or persons within your Parish vsed to meete in any priuate house or other place, and to hold priuate conuenticles contrary to the 73 Canon? If yea, then you shall present them all and euery one of them.

Maiesties pleasure, published by his Highnesse authority vnder the great Seale of England?

2. Whether is there in your Church or Chappell one parchment register Booke, provided for Christnings, Mariages, and Burials? and whether is the same duely and exactly kept according to the Constitutions in that behalfe* provided, and a transcript thereof brought in yearly within one moneth after Easter into my Lord Bishops principall Registerie?† and whether doth your minister vpon euery Sunday reade the names of all such as haue bene married, christened or buried the weeke before?

3. Whether haue you provided the Booke of Common prayer lately commaunded by his Maiesties authority only to be vsed, and the booke of Homilies, and two Seruice Bookes,‡ and a large Bible of the last edition? And whether haue you in your church or Chappell a Font of stone set vp in the ancient vsuall place, a conuenient and decent Communion Table standing vpon a frame, with a carpet of silke, or some other decent stuffe, and a faire linnen cloath to lay thereon at the Communion time? And whether is the same then placed in such conuenient sort within the chancell or church, as that the minister may be best § heard in his prayer & administration and that the greater number may communicate? And whether are the tenne Commaundements set vpon the East end of your church or chappell, where the people may best see and reade them, and other sentences of holy scripture written vpon the walles likewise for the same purpose?

4. Whether haue you a conuenient seate for your minister to reade seruice in, together with a comely pulpet set vp in a conuenient place, with a decent cloath or cushion for the same, a comely large Surplesse, a faire communion Cuppe of silver, and a couer agreeable for the same, with all other things and ornaments necessarie for the celebration of diuine seruice, and administration of the Sacraments, & a strong chest for the almes for the poore, with three lockes and keys, whereof the minister to keep one key, and another chest|| for the keeping of the Ornaments of the church and Register Booke?

5.¶ Whether are your church or chappels with the chancels thereof, and your parsonage or vicarage house, and all other housing thereto belonging, in good reparations, and decently and comely kept, aswel within as without, and the seats wel maintained,** according to the 85 canon? If not, then through whose default, and what defects are: All these things in these Articles to be prepared according to the canons vnder the title appertaining to churches.

6.†† Whether your churchyard be well and sufficiently repaired, fenced, and maintained, with walles, railes, or pales, according to the 85 canon, and by whom? And if part be to be maintained by any particular persons, then you shall present how much, and what part euery such person hath, or is to maintaine and repaire.

7.†† Whether any person hath inroached vpon the ground of the churchyard? If any hath, then you shall present him, and specifie what quantity of ground he hath so inroached, and how the old and former fences stooode, and how they now stand and are fenced, and with what matter or stuffe.

8.†† Whether haue you in your church, or is there in the possession of your minister, or any other, person to your knowledge, or as you haue heard say, any auncient true note, or terrier of all the gleabes, lands, meadows, gardens, orchards, houses, stocks, implements, tenements, and portions of tithes, lying within or without your parish, which belongs to your parsonage or vicarage? If these be any such note or Terrier, then you shall present in whose hands it is, or hath of late remained; and if you can haue it, you shall shew the same, and exhibite a true copie thereof, together with your next presentment.

9.†† If you know not of any such Terrier made as is aforementioned in the former Article, then, whether since the year 1603, hath there in your Parish bene a true note or Terrier taken or made by the appoyntment of the Lord Bishops of London, or any of them for the time being, according to the eightie seuen canon, of all things mentioned in the same canon? And whether hath the same bene brought into my Lord Bishops registerie accordingly? If not you shall together with your parson, vicar, or in their absence or defect, with your minister, make diligent enquire of all the premisses, and exhibite together with your presentment, a true note or Terrier of them in parchment subscribed or signed with your hands, specifying in whose tenure, possession, or occupation they, and euery of them are at this present, and how they are buttalled or bounded.

Articles concerning Ecclesiasticall Officers.*

1. Whether do you know, or haue heard of any payment, composition or agreement, to or with the Chanceller, Register, or other inferior Officers Ecclesiasticall, for suppressing or concealing of any presentment, excommunication, or other Ecclesiasticall censure, of, or against Recusants to the Ordinarie, or for not seruing of processe without a summe of money, or other consideration, receued or promised to any of them in that respect, and by whom?

2. Whether the Chanceller, Archdeacon, Commissary, Official, or any other vsing Ecclesiasticall iurisdiction within this Diocese, their Registers or Actuaries, Apparitors, or Summoners, haue at any time wincked at, and suffered any adulteries, fornications, incests, or other faults or offences presented vnto them, to passe and remaine vnpunished, and vncorrected, for money, rewards, bribes, pleasure, friendship, or any other partiall respect?

3. Whether is your Chanceller, and euery other inferior Ecclesiasticall Judge a master of Arts, or Batchellor of lawes at the least, and learned and practised in the Ciuill and Ecclesiasticall Lawes? a man of good life and conuersation, and zealously affected in Religion, and qualified according to the 127 canon? And whether hath he substituted any other to keepe court for him in his absence, but such as are qualified in like manner, as in the 128 canon is appointed: if yea then you shall present them both.

4. Whether doth the Chanceller, Commissaries, Archdeacons, or any their Officials, heare any matters of Office, or correction, priuately in their chambers, without the presence of the sworne Register, or his Deputie; or hath discharged any mans penance for meny, without the consent of the Lord Bishop, according to the constitutions: or do send any writing vnder their owne hands to your church, without the Registers presence at the doing of it, either for marriage of any couples, or for ending or ordering of any matter or penance?

5. Whether the Chanceller, Official, or Commissarie haue called for, or caused the churchwardens to make, bring or to pay for any more bills of presentment than is by the 116 canon appointed?

6. Whether hath any Chanceller, Commissary, Archdeacon, Official, or any other exercising Ecclesiasticall iurisdiction within this Diocese, or any Register, Apparitor, or Minister belonging to the same Ecclesiasticall Courts, exacted extraordinary or greater fees than heretofore of late hath bene accustomed: and whether is there a table of the rates of all fees set vp in their seuerall courts and Offices: Or whether they or any of them, haue taken vpon them the Office of Informers, or Promoters to the courts, or any other way abused themselues in their Offices, contrary to the Lawe and Canons in that case provided?

7. Whether any Commissarie, Archdeacon or Official, hath, or doth commute or change anie penance or corporall punishment for anie money, and what money such Commissarie, Archdeacon or Official hath receiued, and of whom? when and what the offence was, for which any such summe of money was receiued or appoynted to be paid?

8. What number of Apparitors hath euery seuerall Judge Ecclesiasticall: And wherein, and in what manner is the country ouerburdned and grieued by the said Apparitors? And whether doth any of the saide Apparitors cause any parties to appeare in the saide courts without first a presentment or citation obtained from the Judge of the Court?

Articles concerning Schoolemasters.

1. Whether the Schoolemaister or Schoolemasters within your parish, openly or priuately in any Noble or Gentleman's house, or in any other place, be of good and sincere Religion, life, and conuersation, and be diligent in teaching, and bringing vp of youth; and and (sic) whether they haue bene examined, allowed, and licensed for Schoolemasters, by the Lord Bishop of London, or his Chanceller, Ordinarie† in that behalfe: and how many seuerall Schoolemasters haue you, and what be their names?

2. Whether your Schoolemaister or Schoolemasters doe themselues receiue the holy Communion as often as they ought to doe? and whether doe all their Scholers, which be of age sufficient, and of capacitie by instruction to receiue the Lords Supper, come to the communion either

* The whole of this section is omitted in 1629.
† Lord Bishop — ordinaries.] Ordinary. 1629.

* behalfe] case. 1629.

† Registerie] Registers Office. 1629.

‡ Seruice bookes] Psalters. 1629.

§ best] omitted. 1629.

|| for the almes—another chest] omitted. 1629.

¶ The following Article is added here in 1629:

5. How many Bells are there at this present hanging in the Belfree of your parish church? and how many haue there bene heretofore? whether any of your said bells haue bene taken down and sold, or made away, and what other church goods are now wanting in your said church?

** your churchyards well fenced and kept without abuse. Added. 1629.
†† Arts. 6-9 wanting in 1629, and the following substituted for 8 and 9.

7. Whether haue you since the last Metropolitall Visitation of the Most Reuerend Father, the now Lord Archbishop of Canterbury taken a true Terrier of all the Glebe land, houses, Tenements, Orchards, Gardens, and portions of Tithes (whether within your Parish or without) belonging to your Parsonage or Vicarage, and deliuered the same into the office of the Register of this Diocese?

in your church, or where their parents dwell, once every yeare, and be diligent to heare common prayer?

3. Whether the Schoolmaister or Schoolmaisters, either priuate or publicke, doe teach their Schollers the catechisme authorized by publicke authoritie, at the least once every weeke, and doe instruct and examine them in the same, or doe teach anie other catechisme: and what catechisme is it that they doe so teach?

4. Whether your Schoolemaister or Schoolemaisters, or any of them be knowne or suspected to reade vnto their Schollers priuately any unlawfull Bookes? or priuately to instruct them in their yong yeares, either in Poperie, superstition or disobedience, or contempt of his Maiestie, and his Lawes Ecclesiasticall, by publicke authoritie allowed?

5. *Whether your Schoolemaister or Schoolemaisters, or anie of them, vnder pretence of catechising their Schollers, which is a most godly order carefully by them to be obserued, doe keepe Lectures, readings, or expositions of diuinitie in their houses, hauing repaire vnto them of people, not being of their owne familie and household?

6. What Recusant Papists there are in your Parish, & whether doe any of them, or any other keepe any Schoole maister in their house which commeth not to Church to heare diuine Service, and receiue the Communion? What is his name, and how long hath he taught?

7. Whether your Schoole-master, or Schoole-masters, within your Parish, doe teach his or their Schollers any other Grammar than that which is commonly called the King's Grammar, set forth by the authoritie of King Henrie the eighth; teaching the prescript forme thereof, whereby their Schollers may perfectly vnderstand their Grammar rules and constructions?

8. †Whether are your Schoole-masters negligent in instructing their schollers in the Catechisme, and grounds of Religion and in bringing them to the Church to heare diuine seruice and sermons? And whether are they common Officers, Farmers, Artificers, or otherwise entangled in other affaires, that they cannot benefit their schollers in learning?

Articles concerning Parishioners, and others of the Laitie.

1. ‡Whether any in your Parish, or elsewhere neare about the same, to your knowledge, or as you haue heard, hath affirmed that the King hath not the same authoritie in all causes Ecclesiasticall, which the Kings and Christian Emperors had in the primitive Church? or that haue impeached or gaine said his Royall supremacie?

2. Whether doe you know or haue credibly heard of any within your Parish, that depraue the Christian Religion, and namely as it is established by publicke authoritie, & professed within the Church of England? And whether hath any person, as you haue heard, affirmed that the Church of England is not a true Catholike and Apostolike Church, and doth not teach and maintaine the Catholike Faith and Doctrine of the Apostles?

3. Whether any hath said or affirmed that anything in the booke of Common praier, or in the booke of Articles set forth by the Conuocation, Anno Domin. 1562. Or any of the rites and ceremonies of the Church of England, in, or by the same appointed, are corrupt, wicked, Antichristian, superstitious, vnlawfull, or repugnant to the Scriptures? or that any of the said Articles may not with a good conscience be subscribed vnto, or any of the said ceremonies may not with a good conscience be approued, vsed, or subscribed vnto?

4. Whether haue any affirmed, preached, or taught, that the forme of making and consecrating Bishops, Priests, and Deacons, or any thing therein contained, is repugnant, or not agreeable to the Word of God: Or that the Bishops, Priests, and Deacons, so made, are not to be accompted for

* Art. 5 omitted, 1629.

† Art. 8 omitted, 1629.

‡ Arts. 1-4 run as follows in 1629:—

1. Whether is there any within your parish, that hath or doth impugne the Kings Maiesties supremacie and authoritie, in causes ecclesiasticall, or doe any way, or in any part impeach the same, being restored to the Crown by the Lawes of this Realme established in that behalfe?

2. Whether is there any in your parish, that denieth the Church of England, by Law established vnder the Kings most excellent maiestie to be a true and Apostolike Church, teaching and maintaining the doctrine of the Apostles?

3. Whether is there any in your parish, that doth impugne any of the Articles of Religion agreed vpon Anno 1562, & established in the Church of England?

4. Whether is there any in your parish, that impugneth or speaketh against the Rites and ceremonies established in the Church of England, or the lawfull vse of them? you shall present their names.

5. Whether are there any in your parish that doe impugne the gouernment of the Church of England vnder the Kings most excellent maiestie by Archbishops, Bishops, Archdeacons, & the rest that beare office in the same? affirming that the same is Antichristian or repugnant to the word of God?

6. Whether is there any in your parish that doth impugne the forme of consecrating and ordaining of Archbishops, Bishops, Priests and Deacons: affirming that the same is repugnant to the word of God, or that they who are so ordered in the same forme are not lawfully made?

7. Whether is there any in your parish that doth hold or frequent any conuenticles or priuate meetings, and there doe conferre, to agree vpon any priuate orders, other than such as are by the Canons set forth by the publicke authority, to be by them or any others in Church gouernment (etc) obserued.

Bishops, Priests, or Deacons, or ought to be ordained in any other forme: Or that the gouernment of the Church by Archbishops, Bishops, or others that beare any office therein, is Antichristian, or not agreeable to the word of God?

5. Whether any persons haue lurked or tipped in Tauerns, or Alehouses on Sondajes, or other Holy-daies, or vsed his, or their* manuell craft, trade, or mysterie, or any bodily labour, † or keepe their shops open vpon the said daies, or any of them, especially in the time of diuine seruice? or suffered his or their seruants to sell any wares or victuals in that time, or to offend in any of the premises? ‡

6. Whether are there any in your Parish that doe, or haue prophaned (since his Maiesties last generall pardon) the Lord's day called Sunday, or other Holy-day contrarie to the orders of the Church of England, prescribed in that behalfe?

7. Whether hath any person in your Parish quarrelled or stricken, or vsed any violence vnto, or with your Minister, or any other, in the Church or Church-yard, or vsed himselfe disorderly in the Church, by filthie and prophane talke, or any other rude and immodest behaiour?

8. §Whether is that due reuerence, and humble submission vsed within your Church or Chappell in the time of diuine Seruice, as by the eighteenth Constitution is prescribed? And whether each one in the Church or Chappell, doe apply and order himselfe there in the time of diuine seruice, as by the latter part of the same Constitution is most commendably enioyned?

9. Whether the Church-wardens and Side-men doe euery Sunday and Holy-day diligently search, who absenteth himselfe or herselfe, from Church? and whether doe they suffer any to abide in the Church-porch, or Church-yard, in the time of common Praier or Sermon?

10. Whether the Church-wardens doe prouide against euery Communion, with the aduice of the Minister, a sufficient quantity of fine white bread, and of good and wholesome wine, for the number of the Communicants that shall receiue; and that to be brought in a cleane and sweet standing pot of pewter or other pure mettle?

11. Whether haue any in your Parish beene God fathers or God-mothers to their owne children? Or whether your Minister, or any God-fathers or God-mothers haue vsed, or doe vse any other forme, answere, or speech in Baptisme, than is in the booke of common Praier appointed: Or doe giue the children baptised any name absurd, or inconuenient for so holy an Action: ¶ Or whether any which haue not communicated, be admitted to see God fathers or God-mothers, contrarie to the 29 Canon?

12. Whether is there any in your Parish that doe refuse to haue their children baptized, or themselves to receiue the Communion at the hands of your Minister, because he is no Preacher? you shall present their names. ¶

13. Whether doe all Fathers, Mothers, Masters, and Mistresses, cause their Children, Seruants, and Apprentises, to come to the Catechisme vpon the Sondajes and Holy-daies before euening praier to heare and to be instructed and taught therein? and those that do not their duties herein, you shall present their names.

14. Whether haue you or your Predecessors Church wardens there suffered, since the last pardon, any plaies, feasts, banquets, Church-ales, drinkings, or any other prophane vsages to be kept in your Church, Chappels, or Church-yard, or bells to be rung superstitiously vpon Holy-daies, or Eues, abrogated by the booke of common Praier, contrarie to the 68 Canon?

15. How many Inhabitants within your Parish, Men or Women, aboue the age of sixteene yeares, doe refuse to frequent diuine Service, established by publicke authoritie of this Realme, or to receiue the holy Communion, or are negligent therein? or comming to Church doe depart before the end of diuine Seruice or Sermon? what be their names, and of what degree, state, or trade of life are they? you are to present them all of each sort.

16. Whether doe any of the Inhabitants within your said Parish, entertaine within their house any sojourners, lodgers, or any common resorters and guests, who refuse to frequent diuine Seruice, or receiue the holy Communion,

* their] her. 1629.

† or mysterie—labour.] Omitted 1629.

‡ or suffered—premises.] Omitted, 1629.

§ Arts. 8, 9, run as follows in 1629:—

11. Whether is there any that (contrary to the 18 Constitution) sitteth covered in the Church or Chappell in time of diuine seruice, and that doth not stand vp at the saying of the Beliefe; and whether is that due and lowly reuerence yielded and done by every person to the name of Iesus as is required by the said Constitution, and those orders obserued as in the later part of the same Constitution are set down and prescribed?

12. Whether the Churchwardens and Questmen from time to time, do their diligence, in not suffering any idle persons or loyterers, to abide either in the Church-yard or Church-porch in Service or Sermon time, but causing them either to come into the Church, to heare diuine seruice, or to depart, and not disturbe such as are hearers there?

¶ or doe giue—action.] Omitted 1629.

¶ and if your Minister sithence the publishing of the said booke of Canons, haue receiued any such persons (being not of the same cure) to the communion, or baptized any of their children, you shall likewise present him? Added 1629.

as aforesaid? What be their names, and of what qualitie or condition are they?

17. Whether any of the said Popish Recusants be of insolent behaviour, not without publike offence, or doe boldly busie themselves, in seducing, or with-drawing others, either abroad or in their owne families, by instructing their children in Popish Religion, or by refusing to entertaine any, especially in place of greatest service or trust, but such as concurre with them in opinion of Religion? and what be their names that so doe?

18. How long the said Popish recusants have obstinately abstained either from diuine Seruice, or from the Communion, as is aforesaid, whether of any long time, or only since his Maiesties raigne, and how long?

19. *Whether there be any Popish Recusants married, the child of any Recusant christned, or any Recusant buried within your Parish, by any other than the Minister of the Parish, or whether the child of any Recusant remaine vn-baptized, aboue one moneth, or be not baptized in the Parish Church?

20.* You shall present, how the children of such, as refuse to come to Church, are brought up, vnder what Schoole-master, or Tutor, where, and in what Schoole or place.

21. What persons aforesaid within your Parish, either for the offence aforesaid, or for any other contumacie or crime, doe remaine excommunicated? what be their names? and for what cause? and how long haue they so stood excommunicated? And whether any do familiarly use the companie of such as doe obstinately stand excommunicated, knowing the same? and what be their names?†

22. †Whether the Church-wardens at the end of their yeare, giue vp in writing a iust account before the Minister and Parishioners, of their receipts and disbursments, and deliuer the residue by Bill indented to the next Church-wardens? And whether at any time heretofore the Church-wardens, or the Ministers, or the Parishioners, or any of them to your knowledge, or as you haue heard, haue with-held or detained in their custodie, or haue sold, wasted, spent, or otherwise alienated any of the Church goods or stock?

23. Whether doe all persons aboue the age of sixteene yeares vsually resort to heare diuine seruice vpon Sundaies and Holydaies approued? and whether hath each one of your Parishioners (being aboue the age of sixteen yeares, as aforesaid) receiued the holy communion thrice this last yeare, chiefly once at Easter, in your Parish Church kneeling? If no, then you shall present their names, which haue not so done?

24. Whether haue you a fit parish Clerke, aged twentie years at the least, of honest conuersation, and sufficient for reading and writing? and whether he be paid his wages without fraud, according to the most ancient custome of your Parish? if not, then by whom is hee so defrauded and denied? and whether hee bee chosen by the Parson or Vicar, or by whom, according to the 91 Canon?§

25. Whether haue any in your Parish bene married within the prohibited degrees, forbidden by the Law, and expressed in a certain Table published by authoritie in Anno 1563. If yea, then you shall present their names? and whether haue you the said Table publikely set vp in your Church, and fastened to some conuenient place?

26. Whether doth any heretofore diuorsed, or married, and not diuorsed,|| keepe companie at bed and board as man and wife with any other man or woman, then with the person that hee or shee was married vnto? ¶and what bee their names? If the parties, now so liuing together, say that they be married? **When, and where were they married? and how long haue they so continued together?

27. Whether haue you in your parish to your knowledge, or by common fame and report, any which haue committed Adulterie, Fornication, or Incest, or any Bawdes, harborers, or receiuers of such persons, or publikely suspected thereof, which haue not bene publikely punished to your knowledge? if yea, then with whom? and whether are there any, which are by common fame and report reputed and taken to bee common Drunkards, Blasphemers of Gods holy name, common and vsuall swearers, filthy speakers, railers, sowers of discord among their Neighbours, or speakers against Ministers Marriage, Vsurers, contrarie to the Statute made in the seuen and thirtieth yeare of King Henrie the eight, *Symoniacall persons, fighters, braulers, or quarrellers in Church or Churchyard? you shall not faile to present their names.

28. Whether haue any in your parish receiued or harboured any woman gotten with childe out of wedlock, and suffered them againe to depart without penance first inflicted vpon them by their Ordinarie? you shall truly present as well the partie harbouring as harboured, and who is suspected to haue committed incontinencie with her. And whether you or the Church wardens or side-men, haue heretofore presented them? and to whom, and whether they haue bene punished? if not, in whom the fault was that they were not presented or punished?†

29. Whether any person or persons suspected or detected heretofore of incontinencie, and therefore departing out of your Parish for a season, is now returned againe? or in what place else is hee or shee now abiding to your knowledge, or as you haue hearde? you shall not faile to present the whole truth in that behalfe.

30. Whether there be any person or persons Ecclesiasticall or Temporall within your Parish, or elsewhere, within this Diocess, that haue retained and kept in their custodie, or that reade, sel, vtter, disperse, carrie, or deliuer to others any English or Latine‡ bookes, or Libels, set forth or printed, either on this side or beyond the Seas, by Papists or Sectaries against the King's Supremacie in causes Ecclesiasticall, or tending to Poperie, Puritanisme, or any other Sect, Errour, or Heresie,§ against true Religion and Catholike doctrine, now publikely professed in this Church, or the gouernement or discipline of the Church of England, now within this Realme receiued, and established by common authoritie, that you know or haue heard of,|| what their names and surnames are?

31. Whether there bee any in your Parish who are¶ knowne or suspected to conceale, or keepe hidden in their houses any Masse-bookes, Portesses, Breviaries, or other bookes of Poperie or superstition: or any Chalices, Copes, Vestments, Albes, or other ornaments of superstition, vncancelled, or vndefaced; which is to bee coniectured, that they doe keepe for a day, as they call it.

32. **Whether haue you any in your Parish to your knowledge, or as you haue heard, which heretofore being Popish Recusants, or Sectaries, haue since conformed themselves and come to Church to heare diuine Seruice, and receiue the Sacrament? If yea, then who they are? And how long sitheence haue they so conformed themselves? and whether doe they still abide in that conformitie?

33. Whether are there in your Parish any Wills not yet proued, or goods of the dead dying intestate, left vnadministered by the authoritie of the Ordinarie in that behalfe? And whether any possesse the goods of any person deceased, without authoritie from the Ordinarie? You shall not faile to present the Executors, and all others faultie and culpable therein.

34. Is there any Legacie giuen to the Church, or to other good and godly vses, as reliefe of the poore, Orphans, poore Schollers, poore Maidens marriages, Schooles, High-waies, and such like, which is not yet performed? If there be any such, you shall present what you know or can learne thereof, and by whose default the same is not performed?

35. Whether any of your Parishioners hauing a Preacher to their Parson, Vicar, or Curate, doe absent themselves from his Sermons, and resort to any other place to heare other Preachers, or refuse to receiue the holy Communion at his hands for the same respect? And whether any other Minister hath receiued to the Communion any of your Parish? and specifye the names both of the Minister and parishioner.††

36. Whether there be any Inne-keepers, Ale-wiues, Victuillers or Tiplers, that suffer or doe admit any person, or persons in their houses, to eate, drinke, or play at Dice, Cards, Tables, Bowles, or such like games, in the time of common praier or Sermon, on Sondaies or Holy-daies: Or any Butchers, or other that commonly vse to sell meat or other things in the time of common praier, preaching, or reading of Homilies? And whether in any Faieres or common Markets, falling vpon Sondaies, there be shewing of any wares before morning praier be done? And whether any Markets or selling of wares bee vsed, or suffered in any Churchyards on the Sabath day by common pack-men and pedlers going about, or any Butchers?

37. Whether hath your Minister, or any of the parish without the consent or priuie of the Ordinarie, caused any to doe penance, or be punished either openly or otherwise, for any crime punishable by the Ecclesiasticall lawes only,

* Arts. 19, 20, omitted. 1629.

† And whether — names.] Omitted, 1629.

‡ The following Art. is substituted in 1629:—

23. Whether were you the Churchwardens and Questmen chosen by the consent of the Minister and Parishioners in Easter weeke, according vnto the 89 and 90 Canons, and whether haue the Churchwardens before you, giuen up a iust account for their time, and deliuered to you their successors, whatsoever money or other things of right belonging to the Church, which was in their hands, according to the 89 Canon?

§ Is the Parish Clarke approved by the Ordinarie, and doth he keepe the Church cleane and the doores lockt, is he diligent and seruicable to the Minister? Added, 1629.

|| or married — diuorsed.] Omitted, 1629.

¶ man or — married vnto.] Omitted, 1629.

** If the parties — married.] Omitted, 1629.

* seuen — eight.] 22 yeare of our late soeraigne K. James. 1629.

† And whether — punished.] Omitted, 1629.

‡ or Latine.] Omitted, 1629.

§ tending — Heresie.] Omitted, 1629.

|| that you — heard of.] Omitted, 1629.

¶ noted.] Added, 1629.

** Arts. 32, 33, 34, omitted, 1629.

†† or refuse — parishioner.] Omitted, 1629.

and what be the names of the parties that haue bene so punished, and in what manner?

38. Whether there be any in your parish, who will come to heare the Sermon, but will not come to the publike praier, appointed by the booke of common praier, making a schisme or diuision (as it were) between the vse of publike praier and preaching? and whether there be any who being present at publike praier, doe not deuoutly and humbly kneele vpon their knees, at such times as by the booke of common praier they are appointed: to wit, when they make a generall confession of their sinnes: when all praier and collects are read: in the time of the Letanie: when the ten Commandements are read: and at the receiuing of the holy Communion, &c. And what be their names that haue at any time shewed themselues vndutifull and vnreuerent in that behalfe?

39. Whether there bee any married women, or others within your parish, which after child-birth refuse, contemne, or neglect to come to the Church to giue God thanks for their safe deliuerie, and to haue the praier publicly appointed on that behalfe by the booke of common praier?

*40. Whether any doe keepe their children unbaptized longer than is conuenient, vnlesse that it be for the sicknesse of the child or other vrgent occasion? And whether any doe carrie their childe or children from the parish they are borne in, to other parishes, to be baptised, and so refuse their owne parish? and to what other parish, and who baptized any childe or children so carried from your parish, and whose childe was it?†

41. Whether any doe bring strange Ministers into their owne houses to baptize their child priuately, according to their owne fantasies? or receiue any child or children borne elsewhere, to be baptized in your parish? If you know any such, then who receiued any such, and whose child or children were so baptized? and what was the name of the child, and who baptized it? and whether you know of your owne knowledge that the parents were married together, and where?‡

42. Whether doe you know, or haue heard of any patron or Aduowsoner in your parish, that haue made a gaine by any colour, deceit or symoniackal part in bestowing his benefit, for, or receiuing, mony or promise of the lease of the whole, or part, or by reseruing his owne tithes, or any pension to himselfe, or any other?

43. Whether the Almshouses, Hospitals, and Spittles for poore people that are in your parish, be well and godly vsed, according to the foundations and ancient ordinances of the same, and whether there bee any other placed in them, then poore impotent and needie persons, that haue not wherewith or wherby to liue?

44. How many Mid-wiues haue you in your parish which do exercise that office, how long they haue so done, and by what authoritie? And what be their names? Of what skill are they accounted to be of in their office or vocation?

45. How many haue you in your parish that doe practise as phisitions or Chirurgions, and are so reputed? How long they haue so done, by what authoritie, of what skill are they accounted to be in their profession?

46. Whether doe you know of any other matter of Ecclesiasticall cognizance worthy the presentment in your iudgement, heretofore in these Articles not expressed, and which is fit to be reformed in Ecclesiasticall censure?¶ If you doe, you shall likewise present the same by vertue of your oathes.

Admonition.

And, for that in great Parishes, where diuers doe come in great multitudes to receiue the Communion, whereof some do stand excommunicate, it were fit that a note should be kept in writing in euery such parish, of all persons excommunicated, which may be perused by the Minister when hee is to minister the Sacrament, thereby

* The following Article is added here in 1629:—
38. Whether any within your parish, doe resort into Barnes, Fields, Woods, priuate houses, or to any extraordinary exposition of Scriptures, or conferences together; or that be drawers, or perswaders of others, to any such Schismaticall conuenticle?

† and to what — was it.] Omitted, 1629.
‡ or receiue any child — and where.] Omitted, 1629.

§ Arts. 42-45 are omitted, and the following Articles added in 1629:—
40. Whether haue you knowne or heard any Fidler or Minstrels, or any other person, which goe vnder the name of Musicians, and Weites which either at Weddings, Churchings, or any other Feasts, or meetings, haue sung, or vse to sing any Songs, Ballads, or Rimes, tending to the disgrace of Religion, or the Ministers thereof; or tending to the prophanesne, or the corruption of good manners? You shall truly present the names of such, if you know them or can learne them, as also the names of housholder or householders in whose house or houses they haue sung such songs, as also the particular names of them before whom they haue sung them.

41. Whether doth every housholder dwelling within halfe a mile of his parish Church vpon Wednesdaies and Fridaies duly come or send one at the least of his household fit to ioine with the Minister in praier according to the 15 Constitution?

42. Whether doe the Surueilers of your high waies looke diligently to the mending of the Church-waies: and whether the said waies be at the time of the yeare sufficiently mended, that the Parishioners may conveniently come to church from all places of the Parish in winter time?

¶ in eccles. censure.] Omitted, 1629.

to put him in remembrance, who they bee that are excommunicate, that such be not admitted thereto.*

At the deliuerie of your Bill of presentment, at the time and place aboue set downe, you are likewise in the said Bill, to set downe the names of all such as haue bene buried at any time since the 18 of Iulie 1612,† being Men, Maides, or Widdowes: and likewise the Minister, Church-wardens, and Side-men of euery Parish, must in the end of their said Bill of presentment, set downe besides their presenting which they make of all Recusants, and non-Communicants, this note following:

Recusants Men	-	-	-	-	-
Recusants Women	-	-	-	-	-
Non-Communicants of both sexe	-	-	-	-	-
Communicants of both sexe in the whole Parish	-	-	-	-	-

So setting downe the number of euery one, the Minister, Churchwardens, and Side-men must put their handes to this note.‡

SHARPE, ARCHDEACON OF BERKS, 1615.

ARTICLES Ministred In the Visitation of the Right Worshipfull Mr. Doctor Sharpe Archdeacon of Barkeshire, in the yeare of our Lord God 1615.

Printed at Oxford by Joseph Barnes Printer to the Vniuersity. 1615.

The Church or Place of common prayer.

Imprimis, whether your Chancell, and Church or Chappell be sufficiently repaired, aswell in stone, timber, lead, tyle, glasse, as all other necessary things, and if they bee not, through whose default the same is omitted?

2. Whether your Churchyard be sufficiently fenced and decently kept, and the trees therein growing not spoiled, if not in whose default?

3. Whether the wals of your Church, bee within whited, and beautified with fruitfull sentences out of the holy Scriptures, and paued comely in the body of the Church and Chauncell, and convenient seates placed in the Church and Chancell, for the necessary vse of the parishioners in time of diuine service?

4. Whether you haue in your parish Church and Chappell, all things necessary for the setting forth of common prayer, and the administration of the Sacraments: namely the booke of common prayer lately set forth by his Maiesties authority, the English Bible in the largest volume, the two Tomes of Homilies; and whether are the ten Commandements set vpon the East ende of your Church or Chappell where the people may best see and reade them: a convenient Pulpit well placed, a decent table standing on a frame, for the holy communion, with a faire linnen cloath to lay vpon the same, and some covering of silke buckerome, or other such like, for the cleane keeping thereof, a comely communion cup of silver, with a cover of silver for the same, a decent surples with large sleeves, a register booke of parchment of christnings, weddings and burials according to the 70. Constitution, a Font fastned in some convenient place of the church sweet and decently kept, a sure coffer with three locks and keys for the keeping of the said Register booke, and a strong chest or box with three locks and keys to put in the almes, and other things belonging to the premisses?

5. Whether your church and chancel be kept cleane and decently, at all times, and especially against time of diuine service, by such as are especially appointed for the purpose? and whether is your Chancell well paued or no?

The service and sacraments used in the Church.

6. Whether doth your Parson, Vicar, or Curate, or any other within your parish, or elsewhere neere about the same within the Archdeaconrie of Barkshire, to your knowledge, or as you haue heard by common report, vse the ministracion of the Lords supper, and Baptisme, instruction of children, solemnization of matrimony, the visitation of the sicke, the buriall of the dead, and the churching of women, in such manner and forme and order and with such manner of words, as are set forth and prescribed in the booke of common prayer. If not, then what other forme or manner doth he or they vse in the premisses, or any of them? And doe not they vse the ring in marriage, and crossing the childes head in Baptisme?

7. Whether your Parson, Vicar, or Curate, or any other within your Parish or else where, neere about the same, within the Archdeaconry of Barkshire, to your knowledge, or as you haue heard by common report, haue preached, declared, vttered, or spoken any thing against the said booke of common prayer, or any thing therein contained, or against any doctrine, office or calling ecclesiasticall within this Realme, established by publike authoritie, or against the ordination or election of Archbishops, Ministers, Deacons, or any of them, and what was the thing, or fault found, vttered, declared, or preached, and by whom?

* and for that — thereto.] Omitted, 1629.

† 18 Iul. 1612.] the last Visitation, 1629.

‡ and the old Churchwardens are to be chosen Sidemen.] Added 1629.

8. Whether haue you aswell vpon Sundayes, and Holydaies as vpon Wednesdayes, Fridayes, and Saterdaies, service in your Church or Chappell, according to the order, appointed by lawfull authoritie, and whether doth your Minister in time of diuine service and at the ministration of the sacraments alwaies vse and weare the surplesse?

9. Whether your Parson, Vicar, or Curate, doe every Sunday when there is no sermon, reade plainly some part of the Homilies prescribed to be read. Or whether any of them not being found to haue sufficient ability to preach or not lawfully admitted therevnto do take vpon them to expound any part of the scripture, and thereby omit the reading of Homilies?

10. Whether any doe presume to say service in your Church or Chappell openly, who is not a lawfull Minister and sufficiently licensed by the Ordinary of this Archdeaconry, vnder the seale of his office?

11. Whether doth your Minister preach vsually according to the constitutions: either in his owne cure with you, or else in some other Church, or Chappell nere adjoining where no preacher is? or how often hath he bin negligent in this behalfe?

12. Whether is your Minister, a preacher allowed, if yea; then by whom? if not, whether doth he procure sermons to be preached among you, once in euery month at the least, by such as are lawfullie licenced?

13. Whether hath your Minister an other benefice, and whether doth he supply his absence by a Curate that is sufficiently licenced to preach in that cure of his, whereon he himselfe is not resident? Or otherwise in case he doth not finde a preaching Minister there, by reason of the smallness thereof? whether doth hee preach at both his benefices vsually himselfe?

14. Whether doth your Minister euery sixth moneths denounce in his parish all such of his parish as doe perseuere in the sentence of excommunication, not seeking to be absolved, and whether hath hee receiued any excommunicate person into Church without a certificate from the Ordinary?

15. Whether hath your Minister, or any other vnder pretence of liberty or priuilege, or whatsoever else excuse, preached, baptized children (except in time of great necessitie as in the 69. Canon), solemnized mariage, church any woman, or ministred the holy communion in any priuate house or houses, except vpon speciall cause allowed, yea or no? if yea, then where, whom, when, and how often hath he offended in any of the premises?

16. Whether the communion be administred monthly, where the parishes be great, or else so often euery yeare as that the parishioners may receaue three times at the least yearely?

17. Whether your Minister hath vsed the forme of thankesgiving for any woman after child-birth being vnlawfully begotten with child otherwise then in a forme of a penitent person, viz. in a white sheet or other habit, prescribed by the Ordinarie, or vpon any other day then a sunday or holy day: or before sufficient caution taken that she should not depart the Parish till shee should performe such penance as should be enjoined by the Ordinary.

18. Whether any receiued the holy Communion in any other place or Parish, forsaking their owne Parish? And whether any children haue been baptized in any other parish or place, then there where they were borne?

19. Whether any hath been admitted as Godfather, or Godmother, that had not before that time receiued the Communion?

The office and function of Ministers and Schoolmasters.

20. Whether doth your Minister, or Curate, serue more then one Church or Chappell in one day, except that Chappell be a member of the Parish Church.

21. Whether doth your Minister once euery yeare reade the booke of Canons or Constitutions openly in your Church vpon some sonday or holy day?

22. Whether doth your Minister euery Sunday and Holy day before evening prayer, for halfe an houre and more examine and instruct the youth and ignorant persons in his parish of the ten Commaundements, Articles of beleefe, and in the Lords prayer, as also in the Catechisme set forth in the book of common praier? And whether doe all fathers, mothers, masters and mistresses, cause their children, servants, and apprentices to come thither to heare and to be instructed and taught therein accordingly as it is prescribed in the 59 Constitution. And if either Minister, or any of the rest of your parish be faultie or negligent therein, you shall not spare to present them howsoever, viz. the Minister for his negligence in not taking paines and the housholders with their servants for their carelesnesse in not sending, or comming, or refusing to learne?

23. Whether there be within your Parish, or elsewhere Private exercise of neere about, any preaching, reading, or religion. other such like exercise, in any private houses, whervnto others do resort, not being of the same family. And whether any do preach, read, or catechise in the church, or elsewhere, that doth not at diuers times yearely say service, and minister the sacraments according to order appointed by publique authority?

24. Whether the Register of all weddings, buryings, and christenings within your Parish be well Register. kept, and a copy of the same once euery yeare by Indenture presented to the Ordinarie?

25. Whether in the weeke before Whitsontide, commonly called Rogation weeke, your perambulation be kept by your Minister with a sufficient number of the parishioners of all sorts, aswel of the Elder as younger sort, for the better knowledge of the circuits, and bounds of the parish, with praiers for the better increase of the fruits of the earth, according to the order in that behalfe provided?

26. Whether the Mansion houses of your Parsons and Vicars be kept in good reparation, and whether hath your Parson or Vicar bin absent from among you aboue eighty daies in any one yeare at al, not being lawfully qualified and dispensed withall?

27. Whether your Minister be suspected to be guilty of any notorious crime, as Symony, adultery, blasphemy perjury, drunkennes, idlenes, vnseemly and vaine talke, and whether he be scandalous in his conversation, through brawling, fighting, quarelling, peace breaking, valawful games, or haunting of places suspected, and not of good report and whether your Parson or Vicar be known, suspected, or reported to haue bought his benefice or come to it by any simoniacal compact made either by himselfe or others, directly or indirectly, or do let out his living or any part thereof to any, in consideration that hee hath obtained the same? Haue an especial care of this article.

28. Whether your Parson, or Vicar not resident vpon his benefice, being able yearely to dispend aboue twentie pounds by the said benefice, hath yearely given, distributed to the reliefe of the poore and impotent of your Parish the fortieth part of his said benefice?

The office of Churchwardens, and duties of the Parishioners [sic.]

29. Whether your Schoolemasters, and other teachers within your parish, be allowed by the Ordinary? And whether they do teach their schollers the catechisme, and do encourage them to loue true religion, and do cause them daily, morning and euening, to ioine together in prayer vnto God, for increase of learning and of other his good graces? and whether they do instruct them to say grace before and after meate?

Of Matrimonic.

30. Whether any haue bin married within your parish that haue not had their banes asked three seuerall Sundaies or Holydaies in time of diuine service in the presence of the people, vnlesse the same haue beene lawfully licenced by the Ordinary, vnder the seale of his office, and with such bands, as are vsually taken in like cases?

31. Whether any haue beene married within your parish, that haue dwelt in other parishes, without a certificate of the banes asking from the Minister, or Curat of the parishes, where the said parties or any of them haue dwelt. And whether any mariage haue been solemnized in any other place, then in the Church, or at any time of the day that is not lawfully vsual, or in the night.

32. Whether your Churchwardens are chosen yearely in the Easter week, and whether haue the Churchwardens your predecessors euery yeare in the Easter weeke, or within a moneth after at the most, before the Minister and the parishioners giuen vp a iust accompt in writing of all such money as they haue receiued and laid out to the vse of the poore, or of the Church: and then haue brought in and laid downe, and deliuered to the said parishioners whatsoever mony, or other things remained in their handes, that by the said parishioners it may be deliuered to the next Churchwardens by bil indented?

33. Whether they doe leue for not comming to Church, to heare diuine service vpon Sundaies and Holydaies, xii d. for euerie person that is absent without lawfull cause, and whether hath the same bin bestowed vpon the poore as it ought or not, and whether the Churchwardens themselues haue absented themselues, or bin negligent in their duty, or in frequenting diuine seruce, and whether do your Minister admonish the Churchwardens openly in the Church at morning and euening praier to looke to their charge in this behalfe?

34. Whether they doe faithfully distribute the stocke of the poore maas boxe, and are carefull to call for, and to gather all such money, as is due vnto the Church, or to the poore of the Parish, either by Legacie, or by such as are buried in the Church, or by other meanes, and whether haue any of your churchwardens within these three yeares last past concealed any crime or other disorder in their time done in your parish and haue not presented the same?

35. Whether your parish Church, or chappell haue thereunto belonging, any lands, rents or stocks of money, cattle or other goods and whether they be well preserved and kept without any diminution, or losse thereof; how are they employed? where and in whose hands they are, whether there be a note kept of them, and set downe in the Church booke; and whether they be denied, or detained by any of the parish, or any other; and shew what these things be, and by whom they are detained?

36. Whether all the mony, rents, stocks, or profits of cattle or other goods giuen to the poore, or to other charitable vses; haue bin accordingly employed, and whether the said mony, rents and profits or any part thereof haue bene employed and converted to the reparations of the parish church or chappell?

37. Whether the people as well men as women do resort vnto their owne parish Church or Chappell on Sundaies, and Holydaies at time of diuine seruice, and remaine and abide, and there behaue themselues reverently during all the whole time of Service and Sermons?

38. Whether any of the said parishioners doe vse any prophane worke or labour, or selling of victuals or wares vpon the Sabbath day, or any other day, that is appointed to be kept holy by publique authoritie?

39. Whether all the Parishioners being aboue xvi. yeares olde haue receiued the holy Communion thrise for the yeare last past, and namely at Easter last, or receiving haue not signified the same to the Minister in time convenient that he might examine them how they were instructed for partaking of so high misteries?

40. Whether any person within your Parish, be suspected or knowne to tell destinies, or to restore things lost, and to vse charmes or to exercise witchcraft, sorceries, southsayings, and such other superstitious and diuelish illusions, or any that resorteth to such for helpe or counsaile?

41. Whether any within your Parish, haue to your knowledge or by common fame or report, committed adultery, fornication, Incest, or be common Drunkards, Swearers, and Blasphemers of Gods holy name, or vsurers, or be commonly suspected thereof, and what are their names?

42. Whether any within your Parish haue kept company together as man and wife, before they were lawfully married, or doe keepe company together not being lawfully married, or who haue bin lawfully and vpon iust cause diuorced; any married within degrees of affinity or consanguinitie by the lawes of God forbidden so set out for an admonition in a table appointed to be affixed in euery Parish Church within this Archdeaconrie? Any married that haue made priuy contracts or married without consent of their parents or governours?

43. Whether there be within your Parish, Bawdes, or that do receiue into their houses women begotten with childe vnlawfully, and doe keepe them vntil they be deliuered, and then let them depart before they haue done pennance?

44. Whether any person or persons suspected or detected heretofore, of, or for incontinencie, and therefore departing out of your parish for a season, is now returned againe, or in what place else, is he or shee now abiding to your knowledge, or as you haue heard, you shall not faile to present the whole truth in that behalfe?

45. Whether you know any within your parish, that receiueth into their house any Massing Priest, Jesuit, or other Seminary man come from beyond seas?

46. Whether there be any within your Parish, that presume to administer the goods of those that be departed out of this worlde, without lawfull authority, or haue falsified or suppressed the will of any person deceased, or any executors which haue not fulfilled their testators will in paying legacies giuen to good vses?

47. Whether any excommunicate person be suffered to come into the publique assembly or congregation in time of diuine seruice? and who are encouragers and keepers of company with such as remaine excommunicate? and whether any dying excommunicate be buried in christian buriall?

48. Item what Recusant Papists are there in your parish, and whether doe they or any of them keepe any Schoole-master in their house which commeth not to church to heare diuine seruice, and receiue the holy communion? what is his name and how long hath hee taught?

49. Whether any be in your parish, which at the time of diuine praier do vse any ringing of bells, tangling, talking, walking, or other vnseemely behauiour in church or churchyard, or doe any way disturbe common praier, or any part of the diuine seruice, or do vse any game or pastime abroad at those times, or sit in the Tauerne or Alehouse, or streets at such times, or which doe worke on sundaies any handycrafts worke, or keepe open any shops for sale of wares, or which depart before praiers bee finished, or commeth late, or which be fighters brawlers, quarrellers or chiders, in church or churchyard?

50. Whether you know, or haue you hard (sic) of any that practiseth physicke or surgery within this Archdeaconry, not being licensed so to doe by the Ordinary of the same vnder his hand and seale, and what is his, or her name, which doeth or hath so done?

51. Finally, if you doe knowe any other crime or offence to bee committed within your parish, which is punishable by the Ecclesiasticall lawes of this lande, and not mentioned particularly in these Articles- aboue specified, you shall likewise detect it and truely present it?

The oath of the Church-wardens.

You shall faithfully administer all such Church goods as are or shall come to your hands to the vse of your Church and thereof make a true and faithfull account at the end of your office, deliuering all that remaineth therevpon to your next successours. Also you shall diligently enquire of, and faithfully present all such persons as you shall either vpon your own knowledge, or by publique fame vnderstand to be guiltie of any offence or fault mentioned in any of the Articles aforesaid, or any other fault which is to bee punished by the lawes Ecclesiasticall of this Realme, wherein you shall not present any person for malice, hatred, or evil will, nor spare any for fauour, for feare, or any corrupt affection, but you shall faithfully discharge your consciences, as men hauing the feare of God before your eyes, and seeking the reformation of his Church, so God helpe you in Christ our Saviour.

ABBOT, ARCHBISHOP OF CANTERBURY, 1616, ARTICLES to be inquired of, in the first Metropolitanical visitation, of the most Reverend Father, GEORGE, by Gods providence, Arch-Bishop of Canterbury, and Primate of all England; in, and for the Diocess of [blank] in the yeare of our Lord God, 1616, and in the sixth yeare of his Graces Translation.

London, Printed by William Jaggard.

[Oath of the Churchwardens. Almost verbally the same as in Bishop Babington's Articles in 1607.]

¶ Concerning the Church, the Ornaments thereof, and the Churches possessions.

Imprimis, whether have you in your severall Churches and Chappels, the whole Bible of the largest volume, and the Booke of Common Praier, lately set fourth by his Maiesties Authority, both fairely and substantially bound: a Font of Stone, set up in the auncient vsuall place: a conuenient and decent Communion Table, with a Carpet of Silke, or some other decent stuffe, continually laide upon the Table at time of Diuine seruice, and a faire linnen cloath vpon the same, at the time of the receiuing of the holy Communion. And whether is the same Table placed in such conuenient sort within the Chancell or Church, as that the Minister may be best heard in his Prayer and administration, and that the greatest number may Communicate: And whether is it so vsed out of time of Diuine seruice, as is not agreeable to the holy vse of it: and by sitting on it, and by throwing Hats on it, writing on it, or is it abused to other prophaner vses: and are the tenne Commandements set vpon the East end of your Church or Chappell, where the people may best seee and read them, and other Sentences of holy Scripture, written on the walles likewise for that purpose?

2. Item, whether haue you in your said Church or Chappell, a conuenient seat for your Minister to read seruice in, together with a comely Pulpit set vp in a conuenient place, with a decent cloath or cushion for the same, a comely large Surplice, a faire Communion Cup, with a couer of siluer, a flagon of siluer, Tin, or pewter, to put the wine in, wherby it may be set vpon the Communion Table, at the time of the blessing thereof, with all other things and Ornaments necessary for the celebration of Diuine Seruice, and administration of the Sacraments? and whether haue you a strong Chest for Almes for the poore, with three Locks and Keyes, and another chest for keeping the Bookes, and Ornaments of the Church, and the Register Book. And whether haue you a Register booke in Parchment, for Christnings, Weddings, and burials, and whether the same be kept in all points, according to the Cannons in that behalfe provided? And whether haue you in your saide Church or Chancell, a Table set, of the degreés wherein by Law Men are prohibited to marry?

3. Whether are your Church and Chappels, with the Chancels thereof, and your parsonage or vicarage house, your Parish Almes-house and Church-house, in good reparations: and are they employed to godly, and their right holy vses? Is your Church, Chancell, and Chappell, decently and comely kept, as well within as without, and the seates well maintained, according to the 85. Cannon, in that behalfe prouided? Whether your Churchyarde be well fenced, and kept without abuse: and if not, in whose default the same is, and what the defect or fault is? And whether any person haue incroached vpon the ground of the Churchyard, or whether any person or persons haue vsed any thing or place consecrated to holy vse, prophanely or wickedly?

4. Whether haue you the Terrier of all the Gleabe Lands, Medowes, Gardens, Orchards, Houses, Stockes, Implements, Tenements, and portions of Tithes (whether within your Parish or without) belonging vnto your parsonage or vicarage, taken by the view of honest men in your said Parish? And whether the said Terrier be laid vp in the Bishoppes Registry, and in whose handes any of them are now. And if you haue no Terrier already made in Parchment, you the Churchwardens and Side-men, together with your Parson or Vicar, or in his absence, with your Minister, are to make diligent inquiry and presentment of the premises, and make, subscribe, and signe the said Terrier, as aforesaide?

Concerning the Ministers.

Whether doth your Minister distinctly and reuerently say Diuine seruice vpon Sundaies and Holidais, and other daies appointed to bee obserued by the booke of Common Praier: as Wednesdaies and Fridaies, and the Eues of euery Sunday and Holiday, at fit and vsuall times? And doth your Minister duely obserue the Orders, Rites, and Ceremonies, prescribed in the said Booke of Common Praier, as well in readinge publike praier and the Letanie, as also in administering the Sacraments, solemnization of Matrimonie, Visiting the sicke, burying the dead, Churching of Women, and all other like Rites and Offices of the Church, in such manner and forme as in the said booke of Common praier he is inioyned, without any omission or addition. And doeth he reade the Booke of the last Cannons once yearely, and weare a Surplice according to the said Cannons?

2. Doth your Minister bid Holidais and Fasting-daies, as by the Booke of Common Praier is appointed? And doth he giue warning before hand to the Parishioners, for the receiuing of the holy Communion, as the 22. Cannon requireth: and whether hee doth administer the holy Communion so often, and at such times, as that every Parishioner may receive the same at the least thrice in euery yeere: wherof once at Easter, as by the booke of Common Praier is appointed? And doeth your Minister receive the same himselfe on euery day that hee administred it to others, and vse the words of Institution according to the Booke, at euerie time that the Bread and Wine is renued, accordingly as by the prouiso of the 21. Cannon is directed: And doth he deliuer the Bread and Wine to euerie Communicant seuerally: Whether hee hath admitted to the holy Communion, any Offender or Schismaticke, contrary to the 26. and 27. constitutions, or received any to the communion being not of his owne Cure, or put any from the communion, who are not publicly infamous for any notorious crime? doth he vse the signe of the Crosse in Baptisme, or baptize in any Bazon or other vessell, and not in the vsuall Font: Or admit any Father to be Godfather to his owne childe, or such which haue not received the holy Communion, or baptize any children that were not borne in the Parish, or wilfully refuse to baptize any Infant in his parish being in danger, hauing bene enformed of the weaknes of the said child: and whether the childe died through his default without Baptisme?

3. Whether hath your Minister married any without a Ring, or without Banes published thre seuerall Sundaies or Holidais in time of diuine seruice, in the seuerall Churches or Chappels of their seuerall abode, according to the Booke of common Praier, or in times prohibited, albeit the Banes were thrice published, without a License or dispensation from the Archbishop, the Bishop of the Diocesse, or his Chancellour, first obtained in that behalfe? Or not betwixt the houres of eight and twelue in the forenoone, or haue married any in any private house, or if the parties be vnder the age of 21. yeeres, before their parents or gouernours haue signified their consent vnto him?

4. Doth he refuse to bury any, which ought to be interred in Christian buriall, or defer the same longer then he should; or bury any in Christian buriall, which by the constitutions of the Church of England, ought not to be so interred?

5. Is your Minister a Preacher allowed? If yea, then by whome. If not; whether doth he procure some who are lawfully licensed, to Preach monthly amongst you at the least?

6. Doth your Minister (being licensed) preach vsually according to the Cannons, either in his owne Cure, or in some other Church or chappell neare adioyning; where no Preacher is, and how often he hath been negligent in that behalfe, and doth he Preach standing, and with his Hat off? Or whether doth he or his Curate vpon euery Sunday, when there is no Sermon, reade an homilie, or some part thereof, according as he ought to doe: or in case he be not licensed to Preach, doeth he take vpon him to Preach or expound the Scriptures in his owne Cure, or elsewhere: If so, then you are to present the same, the time and place, when, and where he did it.

7. Doth your Minister vse to pray for the Kings Maiesty, King James and for the Queenes Maiestie, the Prince, and all their Royall Progeny, with addition of such stile and Titles as are due to his Highnesse, and exhort the people to obedience to his Maiestie, and all Magistrates in authoritie vnder him?

8. Is your Minister continually resident vpon his Benefice, and how long time hath he been absent, and in case he be licensed to be absent: whether doth he cause his cure to be sufficiently supplied, according to the Canons: or in case he hath another Benefice, whether doeth he supply his absence (sic) by a Curate sufficiently icenced (sic) to preach in the Cure where he himselfe is not resident. Or otherwise, in case the smalnes of the liuing cannot finde a Preaching Minister, doth he Preach at both his Benefices vsually?

9. Doeth your Minister or Curate, serue any more Cures than one: If yea, then what other Cure doeth he serue, and how farre are they distant?

10. Doeth your Minister euery Sunday and Holiday, before Euening Prayer, for halfe an houre or more, examine and instruct the youth and ignorant persons of his Parish, in the Tenne Commaundements, Articles of the Beliefe, and in the Lords Prayer, and the Sacrament, according as it is prescribed in the Catechisme, set forth in the Booke of Common Prayer?

11. Doth your Minister in the Rogation dayes, goe in preambulation of the circuit of the Parish, saying and vsing the Prayers, Suffrages, and Thankesgiuing to God, appointed by (sic) Law, according to his duty, thanking God for his blessings, if there be plenty on the earth: Or otherwise, to pray for his grace, and fauour if there be a feare of scarcitie?

12. Hath your Minister admitted any Woman begotten with childe in adultery or Fornication, to be Churched without license of the ordinary?

13. Hath your Minister or any other Preacher, baptized children, churched any woman, or ministered the holy Communion in any priuate house, otherwise then by Law is allowed?

14. Doeth your Minister, being a Preacher endeuour and labour diligently to reclaim the Popish Recusants in his Parish from their errors (if there be any such abiding in your parish). Or whether is your Parson, Vicar, or Curate, ouer conversant with, or a fauourer of Recusants, whereby he is suspected not to be sincere in Religion?

15. Hath your Minister taken vpon him, to appoint any publique or priuate Feasts, Prophecies, or exercises, not approued by Law, or publike authoritie, or hath vsed to meete in any priuate house or place, with any person or persons, there to consult how to impeach or depraue the Booke of Common Prayer, or the Doctrine or Discipline of the Church of England: If yea, then you shall present them all?

16. Hath your Minister stayed the publication of any excommunications or suspitious (sic), or doeth hee euery halfe yeere denounce in his Parish church all such of his parish as are excommunicated, and perseuer therein without seeking to be absolved, or doeth he wittingly and willingly keepe compaanie with such as are excommunicate: And hath hee admitted into your church any person excommunicate, without a certificate of his absolution from the Ordinarie, or other competent Judge?

17. Doth your Minister carefully looke to the reliefe of the poore, and from time to time call vpon his Parishioners to giue somewhat, as they can spare, to godly and charitable vses, especially when they make their Testaments.

18. Whether your Minister or any hauing taken holy Orders, being now silenced or suspended, or any other person of your knowledge, or as you haue heard, hold any Conuenticles, or doth preach in any place, or vse any other forme of Diuine Service then is appointed in the Booke of Common Prayer: If yea, then you are to present their names, and with whome?

19. Whether is your Curate licensed to serue, by the Bishop of this Diocesse, or by any other, and by whome.

20. Doth your Minister vse such decencie and comelinesse in his apparell, as by the 47. Cannon is enjoyned: and is he of sober behauiour, and one that doth not vse such bodily labour, as is not seemely for his function and calling.

21. Is your Minister noted or defamed, to haue obtained his Benefice or his Orders, by Symony, or any other way defamed, to bee Symoniacall person, or any way noted to bee a Schismaticke, or Ssismatically (sic) affected, or reputed to be an incontinent person, or doth table or lodge any such in his house: or is he a frequenter of Tauerne, Innes, or Ale-houses, or any place suspected for ill rule: Or is he a common Drunkard, a common Gamster, or player at Dice, a Swearer, or one that applieth himselfe not at his study, or is otherwise offensiue and scandalous to his function or Ministry.

22. Doth your Preacher or Lecturer read Diuine seruice, and minister the Sacraments twice a yeare at least in his owne person, according to the Cannons?

Schoole-Maisters.

23. Doth any in your Parish take vpon him to teach Schoole, without License of the Ordinary, and is hee conformable to the Religion now established? And doth he bring his Schollers to the Church to heare Diuine Service and Sermons: And doeth hee instruct his Schollers in the grounds of the Religion now established in this Church of England, and is he carefull and diligent to benefit his Schollers in learning?

Parish Clarke and Sextons.

24. Haue you a fit Parish Clarke, aged twenty yeeres at least, of honest conuersation, able to read and write: Whether are his and the Sextons wages paid without fraud, according to the ancient custome of your parish; if not, then by whome are they so defrauded or denied: By whome are they chosen: and whether the said Clarke be approved by the Ordinary: and hath he taken an Oath, as in such cases is fit and required: and is he diligent in his Office, and seruicable to the Minister, and doth hee take vpon him to meddle with any thing about his Office: as Churching of women, burying the dead, or such like?

25. Doth your Clarke or Sexton keepe the Church cleane, the doores locked: Is any thing lost or spoyled in the church through his default: doth he suffer any vnreasonable ringing, or any prophane exercise in your church: Or doth hee (when any is passing out of this life) neglect to tole a Bell, hauing notice thereof.

Concerning the Parishioners.

Whether any of your Parishioners, being sixteene yeeres of age or vpwards, or others lodging or commonly resorting to any House within your Parish, doe wilfully absent themselves from your Parish-church vpon Sundaies or Holidiaes, at Morning and Euening prayers: Or who come late to church, and depart from church, before Seruice be done vpon the said daies? Or who do not reuerently behaue themselves during the time of Diuine Service, deuoutly knéeing, when the generall confession of sins, the Letany, the ten Commandements, and all prayers and Collects are read, and vsing all due and lowly reuerence, when the blessed Name of the Lord Jesus Christ is mentioned, and standing vp when the Articles of the Beliefe are read, or who doe couer their heads in the Church during the time of Diuine seruice vnlesse it be in case of necessitie, in which case they may weare a Night cap, or coiffe? Or who doe giue themselves to babling, talking, or walking, and are not attentiu to heare the word preached, or read: or reading, or praying, during the time aforesaid? Whether any of your parish being of sixteene yeeres of age or vpwards, do not receiue the holy Communion in your Church thrice euery yeare: wherof once at Easter, and whether they do not deuoutly knéele at the receiuing thereof?

2. Whether any of your Parishioners, being admonished thereof doe not send their Children, Seruants, and Apprentizes, to the Minister, to be Catechized vpon such Sundaies and Holidiaes as are appointed? Or whether any of them doe refuse to come, or if they come, refuse to learne those instructions set forth in the Booke of common prayer.

3. Whether any of your parish doe entertaine within their house, any sojourner, common guests, or other persons, who refuse to frequent Diuine seruice, or receiue the holy communion, as aforesaid? Present their names their qualities or conditions.

4. What recusant Papists are there in your parish? present their names, qualities, or conditions? whether keepe they any Schoole-maister in their house, which commeth not to church to heare Diuine seruice and receive the Communion? What is his Name, and how long hath hee taught there, or else where?

5. Whether any of the sayd Popish Recusants, doe labour to seduce and with-draw others from the Religion now established? Or instruct their Families or children in popish religion: or refuse to entertaine any especially in place of greatest seruice, or trust, but such as concurre with them in their papistry?

6. How long haue the sayd Popish Recusants abstained from diuine seruice, or from the communion, as aforesaid?

7. Is there any in your Parish that retaine vndefaced, or sell, vtter, or disperse any popish Bookes or Writings, or other Bookes, Libels, or writings of any Sectuaries, touching the Religion, State, or Gouernment Ecclesiasticall of this Kingdome of England, or keepe any Ornaments of superstition vncancelled or defaced?

8. Whether haue you any in your Parish, which heretofore being popish Recusants or Sectuaries, haue since reformed themselves, and come to Church to heare Diuine Service, and receiue the Sacraments: If yea, then who are they: And how long since haue they so reformed themselves: And whether they still remaine and abide in that conformite?

9. Is there any in your Parrish that refuse to haue their Children Baptized, or themselves to receiue the Communion at the handes of your Minister, taking exception against him, and what causes or exceptions doe they alledge, or haue any married Wines refused to come to Church according to the Booke of common Prayer, to giue God thanks after their Child-birth, for their safe deliuerance: And whether doe any of, or in your Parish: refuse to haue their children Baptized in your parish church, according to the forme prescribed in the Booke of common Prayer:

10. Whether any of your Parish hauing a Preacher to their parson, Vicar, or Curate, doe absent themselves from his Sermons, and resort to other places to heare other Preachers; Or whether any of your parish do communicate or baptize their Children in any other parish.

11. What persons within your parish, for any offence, contumacy, or crime, of Ecclesiasticall conusance doe stand excommunicate? present their names, and for what cause they are excommunicated, and how long they haue so stood, and what parson or persons doe wittingly and vsually keepe them company?

12. Whether any, not being in orders, doe execute any priestly or ministeriall office, in your Church, Chappel, or Church-yard, or what be their names?

13. Whether any in your parish, that hauing heretofore taken upon him the order of Priest-hood or Deacon, hath since relinquished the same, and liues a Lay-man, neglecting his vocation?

14. Haue any person in your Parish, quarrelled, or stricken, or vsed any violence to your Minister, or haue stricken or quarrelled with any other person within your Church or Churchyard, or demeaned himselfe disorderly in the Church, by filthy or prophane talk, or any other leud or immodest behauiour? Or haue disturbed the Minister in time of Diuine seruice or Sermon, or haue libelled or spoken slanderous words against your Minister, to the scandall of his vocation, or diffamed any of his Neighbors, touching any crime of Ecclesiasticall conusance?

15. Whether any of or in your Parish, without consent of the Ordinary, or other lawfull authority, haue caused any to doe penance, or to be censured or punished for any matter of Ecclesiasticall conusance, by any Vestry meetings, or otherwise by their owne authority? Or haue taken any money or commutation for the same? Present their names that haue done it, and who haue beene so punished? In what maner, and vpon what cause

16. Whether any person in your Parish doe exercise any Trade or labour, buy or sell, or keepe open Shoppes or Ware-houses vpon any Sunday or Holiday by themselves, their Seruants, or Apprentices, or haue otherwise prophaned the sayde dayes, contrary to the orders of the Church of England? And whether there bee any Inne-keepers, Ale-housekeepers, Victualers, or other persons, that permitte any persons in their Houses, to eate, drinke, or play, during the time of Diuine Service, or Sermon, or reading the Homilies in the forenoone or afternoone, vpon those daies?

17. Whether the fift day of August, and the fift day of Nouember, bee kept Holy, and Thankgiuing made to God, for his Maesties and this States happy deliuerance, according to the Ordinance in that behalfe?

18. Whether any of your Parish hold or frequent any conuenticles or priuate congregations, or make or maintaine any constitutions, agreed vpon in any such assemblies? Or any that doe write, or publicly or priuately speake against the Booke of Common Prayer, or any thing therein contained, or against any of the Articles of Religion agreed vpon, in Anno 1562. or against the Kings Supremacie in causes Ecclesiasticall, or against the Oath of Supremacie, or of Allegiance, as pretending the same to be unlawfull, and not warrantable by the worde of God? Or against any of the Rites or Ceremonies of the Church of England now established? Or against the Gouvernement of the Church of England, vnder the Kings most excellent Maesty, by Arch-Bishops, Bishops, Deanes, Arch-Deanes, and other Officers of the same: affirming, that the same is repugnant to the Word of God, and that the said Ecclesiasticall Officers, are not lawfully ordained? Or whether there be any Authours, Maintainers, or Favourers of Heresie or Schisme, or that be suspected to be Annabaptists, Libertines, Brownists, of the Family of Loue, or of any other Heresie or Schisme, present their names?

19. Whether any in your parish haue married within the degrees by Law prohibited, or any couple in your parish being lawfully married, line apart one from the other, without due separation of the Law, or any that haue bene diorced, which keepe company with any other at Bedde or at Boord, and when and where were they married.

Physitions, Surgeons, and Mid-wiues.

20. How many Physitions, Chirurgions, or Mid-wiues haue you in your Parish? How long haue they vsed their seuerall Sciences or Offices, and by what authoritie? And how haue they demeaned themselves therein, and of what skill are they accounted to be in their profession?

21. Whether doe any persons administer the goods of the dead without lawfull authority, or suppress the last will of the dead? Or are there in your parish, any wils not yet proued, or goods of the dead dying intestate) left vnadministrated? By authoritie in that behalfe, you shall not faile to present the executors, and all others faulty therein: and also how many persons being possessed of any Goods and Chattels, haue died within your parish, since the xvii. day of April. 1613.

22. Whether any with-hold the stocke of the church, or any goods, or other things, giuen to good and charitable vses.

23. Whether your Hospitals and Almes-houses, and other such houses and corporations, founded to good and charitable vses: and the landes, possessions, and goods of the same, be ordered and disposed of as they should be. And doe the Maisters, Gouvernours, Fellowes, and others of the sayde Houses and corporations, behaue and demean themselves, according to the godly Ordinances and Statutes of their seuerall Foundations.

24. Whether haue you any in your parish to your knowledge, or by common fame or report, which haue committed Adultery, Fornification, or incest, or any which haue impudently bragged or boasted, that hee or she haue liued incontinently with any person or persons whatsoever: or any that hath attempted the chastitie of any woman, or solicited, any woman to haue the carnall knowledge of her body, or which are commonly reputed to be common Drunkards, Blasphemers of Gods holy Name, common Swearers, common Slanderers of their Neighbours, and sowers of discord, filthy and lasciuious Talkers, Vsurers, frimonical (sic) persons, Bawdes, or Harbors of women with childe, which beynmarried or conueying or suffering them to goe away before they haue made satisfaction to the congregation, or any that hauing héeretofore bene presented, or suspected of any the aforesaid crimes, haue for that cause departed your parish, and are now returned againe. Or any which haue vsed any enchantments, sorceries, incantations or witchcrafts, which are not made felony by the statutes of this Realme, or any which haue committed any periury in any Ecclesiasticall Court, in an Ecclesiasticall cause, or which haue committed any forgery, punishable by the Ecclesiasticall Lawes, and the procurors and abettors of the said offences: You shall truly present the names of all and singular the said offenders, and with whom they haue committed the sayd offences, in case they haue not been publicly punished to your knowledge for the same crimes.

Touching the Churchwardens and Side-men.

1. Whether you and the Church-wardens, Questmen, or Side-men from time to time, doe, and haue done their diligences, in not suffering any idle person to abide either in the Church-yard, or Church-porch, in Seruice or Sermon time, but causing them either to come into the Church to heare diuine seruice, or to depart, and not disturbe such as bee hearers there? And whether haue they, and doe you diligently see the parishioners duely resort to the church euery Sunday and Holiday and there to remaine during Diuine Seruice and Sermon? And whether you or your predecessors, Church-wardens there, suffer any Plates, Feasts, Drinkings, or any other prophane vsages, to be kept in your church, chappell, or Church-yards, or haue suffered to your and their vttermost power and endeuour, any person or persons to be tipling or drinking in any Inné or Victuling House in your parish, during the time of Diuine Seruice or Sermon, on Sundaies and Holidiaies?

21795.

2. Whether, and how often haue you admitted any to preach within your church or chappell, which was not sufficiently licensed? And whether you, together with your Minister, haue not taken diligent heed and care, that euery of your parishioners being of sixteene yeeres of age or vpwads, haue receiued thrice euery yeere, as aforesaid; and also that no stranger haue usually come to your Church, from their owne parish church?

3. Whether haue there béene prouided against euery communion, a sufficient quantitie of fine white bread, and of good and wholsom wine for the communicants that shall receiue? And whether that wine be brought in a cleane and sweete standing pot of pewter, or of other purer Mettall?

4. Whether were you chosen by the consent of the Minister and the parishioners? And haue the late Churchwardens given vp a iust account for their time, and deliuered to their Successors the Money, and other things belonging to the Church, which was in their hands? And are the Almes of the Church faithfully distributed to the vse of the poore?

Concerning Ecclesiasticall Magistrates and Officers.

1. Whether doe you know or haue heard of any payment, composition, or agrément, to, or with any Ecclesiasticall Magistrate, Judge, or Officer, for winking at, or sparing to punish any person for any offence of Ecclesiasticall Conuance, or for suppressing or concealing of any Recusant, or any other offender in the cases aforesaid? what sum of money, or other consideration hath been receiued or promised, by or to any of them, in that respect, by whom, and with whom?

2. Hath any person within your parish, paide or promised, any summe of money or other reward, for commutation of penance for any crime of Ecclesiasticall Conuance: If so, then with whom: when, and for what, and how hath the same bene employed?

3. Are your Ecclesiasticall Judges and their substitutes Maisters of Artes, or Batchelours of the Lawes at the least, learned and practised in the Ciuill and Ecclesiasticall Lawes: Men of good Life and Fame, zealously affected in Religion, and iust and vpright in executing their offices: Haue they heard any matter of office priuately in their chambers, without their sworne Registers, or their Deputies presence?

4. Doe you know, or haue you heard, that any Ecclesiasticall Judge, Officer, or Minister, haue receiued or taken any extraordinary Fées, or other rewards or promises, by any wayes or meanes, directly or indirectly, of any person or persons whatsoever, either for the granting of the administration of the Goods and Chattels of those that haue died intestate, to one before another, or for allotting of larger portions of the goods and Chattels of those that haue died intestate, to one more then to another: or for allowing large and vnreasonable accounts, made by Executors or Administrators: or for giuing them Quietus est, or discharges without Inuentory or account, to defraud Creditours, Legataries, or those who are to haue portions. And what summes of money doe you know, or haue you heard, that any Ecclesiasticall Judge or Officer hath taken out of the state of any dying intestate, vpon pretence to bestow the same in pious vsus: and how haue the same béene bestowed?

5. Hath any Ecclesiasticall Magistrate, Judge, Officer, or any other, exercising Ecclesiasticall iurisdiction within this your Diocesse: or any Aduocate, Register, Procter, Clearkes, Apparators, or other Minister belonging to the same Ecclesiasticall Courts, exacting (sic) or taken by any waies or meanes, directly or indirectly, extraordinary or greater Fées then are due and accustomed: And whether is there a Table for the rates of all Fées set vp in their seuerall Courts and Offices? And whether haue they sent or suffered any Processe to go out of the Ecclesiasticall Courts otherwise then by Law they ought: Or haue they taken vpon them the Office of Informers or Promoters to the saide Courts, or any other way abused themselues in their Offices, contrary to the Law and Cannons in that behalf provided?

6. What number of Apparators haue euery seuerall Judge Ecclesiasticall: and wherein, and in what manner is the Countrey ouerburthened by them: and wherein haue they caused or summoned any to appeare in the said Courts, without a presentment or Citation first had: or whether haue they threatned any to prosecute them in the said Courts, if they would not giue them some rewardes, and what bribes in that behalfe haue they taken?

If you know of any other default or crime of Ecclesiasticall Conuance, you are to present the same by vertue of your Oathes?

The Minister of euery Parish, may, and ought to ioyne in presentment with the Churchwardens and Sidemen, and if they will not present, the Minister may and ought himselfe, present the defaults and crimes, aforesaid: and there must be seuerall presentments made to euery seuerall article: and the Minister, Churchwardens, and Sworne-men, are to meete and confer about the said presentments, and answering of euery of the aforesaid Articles.

FINIS.

ANDREWES, BISHOP OF WINCHESTER, 1619.

ARTICLES to be inquired of by the Church-wardens and Swornemen, in the Primary Visitation of the Right reuerend Father in God, Lancelot, Lord Bishop of Winton, within the Diocesse of Winchester, Anno 1619.

Imprinted at London. Anno 1619.

[Collated with the Articles of Bishop Curle, of Winchester, in 1636. Re-issued by Dr. Hakewell, Archdeacon of Surrey, in 1619, 1621, 1625, 1635 and 1638.]

The tenor of the Oath of the Churchwardens and Swornemen.

You shall sweere, that vpon due consideration of these articles giuen you in charge, you shall present euery such person of or within your Parish, as you shall know to haue committed any offence, or omitted any dutie mentioned in any of these Articles, or which are publickly defamed, or vehemently suspected of any such offence or negligence. So helpe you God by the contents of his holy Gospel.

ARTICLES.

Touching the Church.

Whether is your Church or Chappell, with the Chauncell thereof, and euery part of either of them, well and sufficiently repaired, the windowes well glazed, the floares paued plaine and euen, without dust, or any thing noisome or vnseemely?

2. Whether is your Churehyard well fenced with walles, railles, pales, as hath bene accustomed? if not, whose default is it?

3. Whether hath there bene any fighting, chiding, brawling, or quarrelling, any playes, feasts, Temporall Courts or Leets, Lay Iuries, musters, or other prophane vsage in your Church or Churchyard: or haue any trees bene felled in your Churchyard, and by whom?*

4. Whether is the mansion house of your Parson, Vicar, or Curate, with all the building thereunto belonging,† your Parish Almes-house and Church house sufficiently repaired, maintained, and to their right vses, that is to godly vses employed?

5. Whether haue you in your Church the Bible in the largest Volume, the Booke of Common prayer lately authorized by his Maiestie, the Bookes of Homilies allowed, the two Psalters, a conuenient Pulpit for the preaching, a decent seat for the Minister to say Service in conueniently placed, a strong chest with an hole in the lidde, and three lockes and keyes, one for the Minister, the other for the Churchwardens, for the Almes of the poore, and the keeping of the Register Booke of the Christenings, marriages and burials?

6. Whether haue you in your Church a Font of stone for Baptisme, set in the ancient vsuall place, a decent Table for the Communion conueniently placed, covered with silke or other decent stuffe in time of diuine

Service, and with a faire Linen cloath ouer that at the Administration of the Communion?

7. Whether haue you all such Bells, ornaments, and other vtensils as haue aunciently belonged to your Church, a Communion cup of siluer with a couer; a faire standing pot or stoope of siluer or pewter for the Wine vpon the Communion table,* a comely surplesse with large sleeues, a Register booke of parchment for Christenings, Mariages and Burials; a booke for the names of all strange Preachers, subscribed with their names, and the name of the Bishop or others by whom they had Licence?

8. Whether is your Almes for your poore (quarterly at the least) distributed by you the Churchwardens and the Minister in the presence of the chiefe Parishioners to your poore? And are weekely the names and surnames of all persons Married, Christened, and buried, and of their Parents, with the day and yere, entred in your said parchment booke, and euery leafe being full, subscribed by you the Minister and Churchwardens?

9. Whether are all your seats in your Church in good repaire, cleanly kept, conueniently placed, and the Parishioners in them, or elsewhere orderly set; and whether is there any contention or struing for any Seate or place among them?

10.† Whether in any of your Churches the partition betweene the Chancell and the body of the Church be taken away: And how long since, and by whom the same hath bene so taken away? And if it hath bene taken away, to what other vse or benefite of the Church hath the same bene conuerted?

Touching the Ministerie Service and Sacraments.

Whether is the Common Prayer said or sung by your Minister both Morning and euening distinctly and reuerently, euery Sunday and holy-day and on their Eues, and at conuenient and vsuall times of those dayes, and in most conuenient place of the Church for the edifying of the people?

2. Whether doeth your Minister obserue the Orders, rites and ceremonies prescribed in the Booke of Common Prayer, in reading the holy Scriptures, Prayers, and administration of the Sacraments, without diminishing (in regard of Preaching or any other respect) or adding any thing in the matter or forme thereof?

3. Whether doeth your Minister on Wednesdayes and Fridayes, (not being holy dayes,) at the accustomed houres of Service resort to the Church, and say the Letanie prescribed, and doeth your Clarke or Sexton giue warning before by tolling of a Bell on those dayes?

4. Whether doeth your Minister as oft as he administreth the Communion, first receiue it himselfe? Whether doeth he vse any Bread or Wine newly brought, before the words of Institution be rehearsed, and the Bread and Wine present on the Table, whether doeth hee deliuer the Bread and Wine to euery Communicant seuerally?

5. Whether doth your Minister giue warning publickly in the Church at Morning Prayer the Sunday before he administreth the Communion, for the better preparation of the Parishioners?

6. Whether hath your Minister admitted to the Communion any notorious sinner openly knowen or defamed, or any who hath openly and maliciously contended with his Neighbour, before repentance and reconciliation made and done by appointment of the Ordinary?

7. Whether hath your Minister admitted to the Communion any Church-warden or Sideman who hath wittingly and wittingly neglected, contrary to his oath, to present any publicke offence or scandall, being mooued to present either by some of his neighbours, the Minister, or his Ordinarie?

8. Whether hath your Minister administred the Communion to any but such as kneele, or doe any refuse to kneele? hath he administred to any who refuseth to be present at Publicke prayer? or is there any who hath deprauid the Booke of Common Praier, administration of the Sacraments, or the Rites and Ceremonies prescribed, or the Articles of Religion agreed upon, or the Booke of ordering Priests and Bishops, or spoken against his Maiesties Supremacie, or haue any bene for these causes repelled, and what be their names?

9. Whether hath your Minister more Benefices then one? if hee haue, how farre distant are they, how often

* a pulpit cloth, cushion. Added, 1636.

† Article 10 omitted in 1636, and the two following added:

10. Whether is your Church and Chancell paued, or decently floored as becometh God's house?

* or whether any person haue encroached vpon the ground of the Churchyard? Added, 1636.

† in due repaire, if there bee any decay of them, to what value as you are perswaded in your consciences? Added, 1636.

11. Whether are there any Seates in the Church newly erected, or Tombes in Church or Churchyard, or any alterations of Seates, Windowes, Pillars, Lofts, or other things in the Church, without especiall order from the Bishop?

is he absent, in the yeere, when hee is absent, hath he an allowed Preacher for his Curate ?

10.* Whether is your Minister an allowed Preacher ? if he be, doeth he euery Sunday in your Church, or some other neere adioyning (where no Preacher is) preach one Sermon euery Sunday ?

11. Whether doth your Minister being no Preacher allowed, presume to expound the Scripture in his owne Cure, or elsewhere ? doeth hee procure euery moneth a Sermon to be preached in his cure by Preachers lawfully licensed, and on euery Sunday when there is no Sermon, doeth he or his Curate read some one of the Homilies prescribed ?

12. Whether is your Curate allowed by the Ordinary, † vnder his hand Seale, to serue for your cure, and whether doeth he serue two Churches or Chappels in one day ?

13. Whether doeth your Minister in saying the publike Prayers, and administring the Sacraments, weare a decent surplesse with sleeues, and being a graduate, doeth he weare therewith a Hood, by the order of the Vniuersities, agreeable to his degree ?

14. Whether hath your Minister or any other Preacher in your Church, preached any thing to confute and impugne any Doctrine deliuered by any other Preacher, and hath he and they vsed the Prayer for Christs Catholike Church, &c., as is prescribed by the Canon ?

15. Whether hath or doeth any preach in your Church, which refuseth to conforme himselfe to the Lawes, Rites, and ordinances established, or which hath not first shewed a sufficient Licence ?

16. Whether doeth your Minister in his Sermons, foure times in the yeere at the least, teach and declare the Kings Maiesties power within his Realmes to be the highest power vnder God, to whom, all within the same owe most loyaltie and obedience, and that all forraigne power is iustly taken away ?

17. Whether doeth your Minister euery Sunday and Holy-day, halfe an houre before Euening prayer or more, examine and instruct the youth in the ten Commandements, the Beliefe, the Lords Prayer, and the Catechisme set forth in the Booke of Common Prayer ?

18. Whether hath your Minister married any which haue not been three seuerall Sundayes or Holidayes asked in your Church in the time of Diuine Seruice (without Licence) and hath he, either with Licence or without married any, whereof neither dwelt in your Parish, or with any licence but onely from the Lord Archbishop of Canterbury, the Bishop of the Diocesse, or his Chancellour ?

19. Whether hath your Minister either with Licence or without, married any at any other times then between the houres of Eight and Twelue in the forenoone, or in any priuate house, or before their Parents and Gouernours (the parties beeing vnder the age of xxi. yeeres) haue testified their consents ?

20. Whether doeth your Minister declare to the people euery Sunday at the time appointed, what Holidayes and fasting-dayes be the weeke following ? doeth hee being a Preacher, conferre with all Recusants and persons Excommunicate or suspended ? being no Preacher, doeth hee procure a sufficient Preacher to reclaime them thereby ?

21. Whether doth your Minister keepe a Note of all persons Excommunicate, and once euery sixe moneths doeth he denounce them which haue not obtained their absolution, on some Sunday in seruice time, that others may be admonished to refraine their company ?

22. Whether doeth your Minister hauing notice giuen him, diligently visit the sicke (the disease not being infectious,) doeth he instruct and comfort them, doeth hee then mooue them to make their Testaments, and remember the poore, and other workes of charitie ?

23. Whether hath your Minister refused to baptize any childe brought to the Church vpon any Sunday or Holiday, or to bury any corps brought into the Church or Churchyard, or to Church any women hauing had conuenient warning thereof ?

24. Whether hath your Minister, being truly enformed of the danger of death of any Infant vnbaptized, and being desired to goe to the place where the childe is, to baptize it, neglected to goe, by meanes whereof the childe died vnbaptized ?

25. Whether doeth your Minister at any time preach or administer the Communion in any priuate house, except when any are so impotent that they cannot goe to Church, or very dangerously sicke ?

26. Whether hath your Minister helde or appointed any publike fast, or bene present at any ? doeth hee or any other in your Parish holde any Lecture or exercise,

* Whether is your Minister an allowed Preacher by the Lord Archbishop or the Bishop of the Diocesse ? if he be, doth he preach (as he ought) usually in his owne parish, or in some other, where no preacher is ? 1636.

† Ordinary] Bishop. 1636.

without the licence of the Bishop vnder his hand and seale, or attempt by fasting or otherwise to cast out any deuils ?*

27. Whether hath there bene any secret conuenticles or meetings in your Parish by any Priest, Ministers, or others, tending to the deprauing of the forme of Prayer, doctrine, or gouernment of the Church ?

28. Whether doeth your Minister in his iourney, weare a cloake with sleeues called a Priests cloake ?

29. Whether doeth your Minister resort to any Tauernes or Ale-houses, or doeth hee boord or lodge in any such place ? doeth hee vse any base or seruile labour, drinking, riot, dice, cards, tables, or any other vnlawfull games ? Is hee contentious, a hunter, hawker, swearer, dauncer, suspected of incontinencie, or hath giuen any euill example of life ?

30. Whether is there in your Parish any Minister, or Deacon, who hath forsaken his calling, vsing himselfe in his course of life as a Gentleman or other Lay man ? †

Touching Schoole-masters.

Whether haue you in your Parish any Schoole-master, who teacheth either in publike Schoole, or priuate house ? is hee of sound Religion, or doeth hee giue any euill example of life ? is he allowed by the Ordinary ? ‡ or doeth your Minister or Curate teach ? and is hee allowed in like manner ?

2. Whether doeth your Minister or Schoole-master, who teacheth, teach the Catechisme by authoritie set fourth ?

Touching the Parish Clerke and Sexton.

Whether haue you a Parish Clerke sufficient for his place, of the age of xx. yeeres at the least ? is he of honest conuersation, can hee reade, write, and sing, is hee diligent in his office, and seruiceable to his Minister, and not giuen to ouermuch drinke, or any other vice ?

2. Whether doeth your Clerke meddle with any thing about his office, as churching of women, burying of the dead, reading of Prayers, or such like ?

3. Whether doth your Clerke or Sexton, keepe your Church cleane, the doores safe locked, § is any thing by his default lost or spoiled in the Church, doeth he suffer unseasonable ringing, or any prophane exercise in your Church ?

4. Whether doeth your Clerke or Sexton, when one is passing out of this life, neglect to toll a Bell hauing notice thereof : or the partie being dead, doeth he suffer any more then one short peale, and before his buriall one, and after the same another || ?

5. Whether doeth any of your Parish refuse to pay vnto the Parish Clearke or Sexton such wages as are vnto them due, and haue bene accustomedly payed ?

Touching Parishioners.

Whether hath any in your Parish spoken against, or any way impugned the Kings Maiesties Supremacie in causes Ecclesiasticall, the Trueth and Doctrine of the Church of England, the forme of Gods worship contained in the Booke of Common Prayer, and Administration of the Sacraments ?

2. Whether hath any in your Parish spoken against or impugned the Articles of Religion agreed vpon in Anno 1602. ¶ the Rites, and Ceremonies established in the Church, the gouernment by Archbishops, Bishops, Deanes, Archdeacons, and others that beare office in the same ?

3. Whether any haue in your Parish spoken against or impugned the forme of making and consecrating Bishops, Priests, or Deacons, or haue any separated themselves from the societie of the Congregation, and combined in a new Brotherhood, or depraued the Synod lately held by the Kings authoritie ?

4. Whether doth any in your Parish profane, violate or mis-spene the Sabbath,** or holy day, or any part of them, vsing any offensive conuersation, or worldly labour in those dayes, or any of them ?

5. Whether hath any in your Parish in the time of Diuine Seruice couered his head (albeit he hath no infirmitie, in which case a cap or night-coife is allowed) or

* or attempt—deuils] Omitted, 1636.

† The following articles are added in 1636 :—

31. Whether is there any that vseth not due and lowly obeysance at the blessed name of Iesus when it is read in the Gospel ?

32. Whether is your Minister continually resident vpon his Benefice, and how long time hath he been absent ? Whether hath hee licence or dispensation from the Arch-Bishop, or otherwise according to the Lawes of this Realme, or in case he hath, whether he doeth supply his absence by a sufficient licenced Curate ?

33. Whether his Maiesties instructions be punctually obserued ? express in particular.

‡ Ordinary] Bishop. 1636.

§ and the Churchyard free from hogs, or other vnclean beasts, or pollution. Added, 1636.

¶ or the partie—another] Omitted, 1636.

¶ in Anno 1602] Omitted, 1636.

** Sabbath] Lords day. 1636.

is there any who hath not reuerently kneeled when the generall confession, Letanie, and other prayers are read, and which haue not stood vp at the saying of the Beliefs?

6. Whether hath any in your Parish disturbed the Seruice or Sermon by walking, talking, or any other way, or departed out of the Church during the Seruice or Sermon without some vrgent cause, or loytered about the Church or Church-porch?

7. Whether doe all Parishioners receiue the holy Communion thrice euery yeere at the least, whereof the feast of Easter to be one, and haue all being of the age of xviii. yeeres duely receited, or not?

8. Whether hath any parent been vrged to be present, or admitted to answere as Godfather for his owne childe, or hath any Godfather or Godmother made any other answere or speech then is prescribed by the Booke, or haue any been admitted for such a Baptisme, who haue not first receiued the Communion?

9. Whether doe all Fathers, Mothers, Masters, Mistresses come, and cause their children, seruants and Apprentices to come duely to the Church, and according to the Ministers direction to be instructed and catechized, or who be they that haue not obeyed the Minister herein?

10. Whether haue any persons married together within the degrees of Consanguinitie or Affinitie prohibited, set fourth in a Table, appointed to be placed in euery Church?

11. Whether haue any persons, once lawfully married, forsaken each other, or do liue asunder without the authoritie of the Ordinary, or doe any being diuorced or separated, marrie againe, the former wife or husband yet liuing?

12. Whether haue any been married in the times wherin marriage is by law restrained, without lawfull licence, viz., from the Saturday next before Aduent Sunday, vntill the fourteenth of January: and from the Saturday next before Septuagesima Sunday, vntill the Munday next after Low Sunday; and from the Sunday next before the Rogation weeke, vntill Trinitie Sunday?

13. Whether hath any of your Parish vnreuerently vsed your Minister, or haue any laid violent hands vpon him, or disgraced his office and calling, by word or deede?

14. Whether you haue in your Parish, any dweller or sojourner, a maintainer of Popish Doctrine, or suspected to keepe Schismaticall bookes, or to fauour* any heresie or errour?

15. Whether haue you any common resorters to your Church, which are not of your Parish, or doe any such receiue the Communion amongst you: what be their names, and of what Parishes are they?†

16. Whether haue any in the time of Seruice opened their shops, exercised their trade, vsed any gaming, been in any Tauerne, or Alehouse, or otherwise ill employed?

17. Whether are there in your Parish any Adulterers, Fornicators, incestuous persons,‡ Bawdes, receiuers, close fauourers, conueyers away, or which suffer to depart any incontinent person vnpunished, any blasphemers, common swearers, drunkards, ribaudes, vsurers, malicious slanderers, scolds, or sowers of discord, or any defamed of the said crimes?

18. Whether doe any in your Parish administer the goods of the dead without authority, or suppress their Wil or testament? haue any executors neglected to performe their Wills, especially in paying of Legacies giuen to the Church, to the poore, or to any other charitable, or godly vses?

19. Whether doe any refuse to pay to the reparations, ornaments, and other things required in your Church, as they are sessed by a lawful Vestry, or any other dwelling out of your Parish, which hold land in your Parish?

20. Whether hath any person suspended or excommunicated, been suffered to heare Diuine Seruice, or the Sermon, to receiue the Sacraments, to be married or churched, or haue any excommunicate been buried in Christian buriall?

21. Whether haue any in your Parish been christened, churched, buried, or receiued the Communion, or been married out of your Church, (both parties dwelling in your Parish?)

22. Whether haue all women in your Parish deliuered of childe, come at conuenient time after to Church to giue thanks, and haue they been churched according to the forme of the Booke of Common Prayer?

23. Whether hath the perambulation of the circuit of * frequent or. Added, 1636.

† Or whether do any of your parish resort vnto other parishes to heare Seruice or Sermons, especially in contempt of their owne Minister? Added, 1636.

‡ Any that haue attempted and sollicited the chastity of any woman. Added, 1636.

your Parish been obserued once euery yeere, if not, whose default is it?*

24. Whether haue any in your Parish giuen the Churchwardens, or Sidemen, or any of them euill words for doing their duety, according to their oath and conscience in making presentment for any fault?

Touching Churchwardens and Swornemen.

Whether doe any in your Parish take vpon them to be Churchwarden or Side-man, which are not lawfully chosen by the Minister and Parishioners according to the Canon, or doe any continue that office longer then one yeere, except they be chosen againe, and are all such Officers chosen ycerely in Easter weeke?

2. Whether doe your Churchwardens within one moneth at the most after their yeere ended, before the Minister and Parishioners giue vp a iust account of all such money, and other things, as they haue receiued and bestowed, haue they deliuered all remaining in their hands belonging to their Church or Parish, by bill intended, (sic) to the next Churchwardens?

3. Whether haue the Churchwardens with the aduice of the Minister, from time to time provided a sufficient quantity of fine white bread and wholesome wine for the number of Communicants?

4. Whether doe the Churchwardens and Swornemen, before euery Visitation, and at other times when there is iust occasion, meete and conferre about their presentments, and the answering of these Articles, and who hath (after notice giuen him of the time and place) carelessly absented himselfe?

5. Whether the forfeiture of twelue pence for absence from Church, appointed by Statute for the vse of the poore, be taken and leuied by the Churchwardens, and employed according to the said Statute: and whether is the same forfeiture taken of all persons which stand wilfully suspended or Excommunicated?

6. Whether haue any Churchwardens lost,† sold or detained any goods, ornaments, Bels, Rents, or implements of the Church?

7. Whether doe the Churchwardens and Sidemen about the midst of Diuine Seruice, vsually walke out of the Church, and see who are abroad in any Alehouse, or elsewhere absent, or euill employed, and whether haue they presented all such to the Ordinary?

8. Whether doe you know, or haue heard a fame of any offence committed, or duety omitted by any of your Parish before your time, and heretofore not presented to the Ordinary, or as yet not reformed, and whether haue you presented the same?‡

9. Finally, doe you know of any matter or cause which is a breach of the lawes Ecclesiasticall here not expressed?§

HOWSON, BISHOP OF OXFORD.

ARTICLES to be enquired of within the dioces of Oxford, in the first Visitation of the Right Reverend Father in God, John Bishop of Oxford. Held in the yeare of our Lord God 1619, in the seuenteenth yeare of the Raigne of our most gracious Sovereigne Lord, James, by the grace of God, King of Great Brittain, France, and Ireland, Defender of the Faith: &c. and of Scotland the three & fiftieth.

Printed at Oxford by John Lichfield and James Short, Printers to the University 1619.

[Collated with Bishop Howson's Oxford Articles in 1628, and Bishop Corbet's Oxford Articles in 1629.]

The Tenour of the Oath ministred to the Churchwardens and sworne men.||

You shall sweare that you faithfully and truly administer the goods of the Church to the best profit of the

* The following article is added here, in 1636:—

24. Whether there be anything which was formerly presented in your parish, and not yet reformed, and publicly punished?

† lost] Omitted, 1636.

‡ The following Article is added in 1636:—

9. Whether any doe molest or trouble you for doing your duties? And the two following are added in Archd. Haleswell's Articles of 1625, 1635, and 1638:—

9. Whether hath any part of your Church bene lately altered, new built, or any addition made thereunto, the walls pulled downe, new doores made into the Church, or any sollar built there by any, without allowance of the Ordinary?

10. Whether is any part of your Church employed to any prophane-nesse, is your Church-porch, Church-wals, and Church-yard, cleanly kept without any annoyance, in whose default is such annoyance?

§ You shall by vertue of your oath duely present it, and all breaches of all and singular these Articles, expressly and particularly, the full truth of your knowledge, or what by common Fame you haue heard therein, when and as often as occasion is offered, that Reformation may be made accordingly, wherein your Minister may and ought to ioyne with you for your better direction. Added in 1636.

|| Different in 1628.

same, and make a true account thereof, and deliver that which shall remaine in your hands to the Churchwardens that shall succede you, and that all affection, fauour, hatred, hope of reward, and gaine, or feare of displeasure set aside, you shall vpon due consideration of the Articles giuen you in charge, present all and every such person, of, or within your Parish, as hath committed any offence or fault, or made any default mentioned in these, or any of these Articles, or any part or branch of them: or which are vehemently suspected, or otherwise defamed of any such offence, fault, or default: Wherein you shall deale vprightly, and according to truth; neither of malice presenting any contrary to truth; nor of corrupt affection sparing to present any, and so conceale the truth, having in this action God before your eyes, with an earnest zeale to maintaine true Religion and vertue, and to suppress wickednesse and vice: So helpe you God and the Contents of this Booke.

The Charge of the Churchwardens and Swornemen, set downe for the better performance of their duties, and discharge of their Oathes. [Omitted 1628.]

They are straightly charged to heare all these Articles read over to them, and diligently to consider and enquire thereof: and for that the time is so short in this Visitation, that they shall not bee able to make a perfect answer vnto them all: and that notwithstanding, there may be many notorious faults presently worthy of presentment & reformation, they are charged that together with their Minister (if hee will ioiue with them) they doe read over all these Articles distinctly and leasurely, to the end they may consider of every particular Article, and of the offences in them contained, as also of such persons in their Parish as shall be noted to offend in any of them, and after that, to assemble themselves in some convenient time together, & to make their Bill, answering every Article by it selfe: which their presentment or answer, they shall cause to be deliuered at the Register his Office before the day of next: or else for not deliuering in thereof, the Churchwardens and swornemen are admonished to appeare that day at tenne of the clocke in the Consistory at Oxford, to alleage cause why they should not bee punished for their negligence or contempt therein.

[Directions for making Bills of Presentments are added in 1629.]

ARTICLES to be enquired of within the Dioces of Oxon, in the first Visitation of the Right Reverend Father in God, John Bishop of Oxon, Holden in the yeare of our Lord God. 1619.

Articles concerning the Clergie.

First, Whether your Church be voyd of an Incumbent, how long it hath been voide, by whom, and at whose order the Fruits are gathered and bestowed? *

2. Whether is the whole Seruice or Common prayer, read in your Church or Chappell distinctly and reuerently vpon all Sundaies and Holydaies, in such order as is set downe in the Booke of Common prayer beginning at the Confession, Absolution, the Psalmes, and Chapters appointed for the dayes, the Hymnes, of Te Deum, Benedictus, Magnificat, and Nunc dimittis, the Credo, the Versicles, the Collects, the whole Letany, the prayers for the King, the Prince, (†) the Bishoppes, the ten Commaundements, and the Epistle and Gospell, without any kind of alteration, or omission, and at due and convenient howres? And whether doth your Minister omit any part of the Seruice, and make long Sermons or Prayers of his owne?

3. Whether doth your Minister vpon Wednesdaies and Fridaies (not being Holydaies) reade in your Church or Chappell, the Letany and other prayers appointed in the said Booke for those dayes? And whether doth he sometime reade the Commination against Sinners, in such order, and forme as is there prescribed?

4. Whether doth your Parson, Vicar, or Curat, in the administration of the Lords Supper, of Baptisme, in the solemnization of Marriage, Buriall of the dead, Churching of Women, &c. vse the formes, Prayers, and ceremonies prescribed in the Communion Booke? as namely, Whether doth he administer the Communion to himselfe kneeling and to none other but to such as do kneele at the receiuing thereof: make the signe of the Crosse vpon the Childs Fore-head in the administration of Baptisme: Baptise any without Godfathers and Godmothers: doth he vse the Ring in Marriage: and generally, doth he in the discharging of all these duties, (and when he readeth Common prayer vpon Sundaies and holy dayes,) weare a Surplesse?

5. Whether doth your Minister or Curate, refuse to baptise Children privately that are in danger of death, if they be thereunto required; and haue any Children dyed without Baptisme by their default; or doe they refuse to administer the holy Communion to those that be sick and desire the same?*

6. Whether doth your Minister, or Curat, or any other of the parish, spake (sic) publicly or priuately against the necessitie or benefit of the Sacraments, if they may conueniently be had.

7. Whether doth your Minister vpon Sundayes at morning prayer, declare vnto the Parishioners what Holydayes & Fasting dayes are appoynted to be kept the weeke following, according to the lawes of this Realme?

8. Whether doth your Minister in the Rogation weeke, vse the Perambulation of the circuite of your Parish, appoynted by Law: and whether doth he in the sayd Perambulation, mooue the people to giue thanks to God in the beholding of his benefites, for the increase of the Fruits vpon the earth?†

9. Whether doth any man, being neither Minister or Deacon, read Common prayer openly in your Church or Chappell, or administer the Sacrament of Baptisme, or solemnize Matrimony, or take upon him to practise any other ministeriall duty in the Church, which is prescribed to be executed particularly by such as are either Ministers or Deacons, and what is his name that so doth?

10. Whether is your Parson or Vicar a Preacher licensed to preach by lawfull authoritie? if he be, doth he vsually preach amongst you (‡)? If he be not, how many Sermons doth he procure to be preached by others: who hath preached them: and whether were they Preachers licensed, as is before expressed?

11. Whether doth your Parson, Vicar, or Curat, every Sunday and Holyday (when there is no Sermon) read distinctly and plainly some part of the Homilies prescribed and set foorth by authority?

12. Whether doth the Parson, Vicar, or Farmour of the benefice in your Parish, cause or suffer any Curate or Minister, either to read Seruice, &c. or to preach, before hee the sayd Curate (being no Preacher) be examined and admitted by the Ordinarie in writing, and before hee the said Curate being a Preacher, be therevnto admitted according to Law, and before they shew their sayd severall Licenses vnto the Churchwardens? (¶)

13. Whether doth your Preacher in his prayer which he maketh at his Sermon vse to pray for his Maiestie, the Prince, and all the rest of the royall progeny, (¶) with his whole title; as King of great Brittaine, France, and Ireland, defender of the fayth, &c. and in all causes, and ouer all persons within his Highnesse dominions, as well Ecclesiasticall as temporall, next & immediately vnder God, supreame gouernor: And whether doth hee in like manner then pray for the Archbishops and Bishops, as by Law is also appoynted.

14. Whether doth you Minister serue two Cures in one day? except it be a Chappell belonging to his charge.

15. Whether doth your Parson, Vicar, or Curat, euery Sunday & Holyday openly in the Church earnestly call for, heare, and instruct all the Children, Apprentices, and Seruants of both Sexes, that be of conuenient age within your Parish, or at the least so many of them by course as the time will serue, and as he may well heare and instruct one hower, or halfe an hower at the least, before or after Euening prayer, in the tenne Commandements, the Articles of the Beliefe and the Lords prayer; and diligently examine and teach them the Catechisme, as it is now allowed and set forth in the Booke of Common prayer, whereby the children of the Parish may be prepared for confirmation, and those which are confirmed for receiuing of the Communion? And whether be the Children and ignorant persons sent at the time to the Church there to be instructed by the Minister; and if not, what be there names that make default in not sending of them? And this we require you to haue an especiall care of; as also to bring your Children to be

* and desire the same] or to visite them in their sicknesse if they desire the same. 1628.

† 8. Whether are the vsuall customes of drinkings at certaine places and houses of the parishioners at the time of such perambulations, observed and kept and allowed, vnto such as walke the bounds of your Parish, and the number of such as walke, so restrained and limited by the Minister and Churchwardens and some other substantiall men of your parish that they be not over burthensome to such as performe those customes of drinking at the perambulation, and specially with out-comers from other Parishes. Added. 1628.

‡ being—Deacon] Omitted. 1628.

¶ a Preacher—amongst you] or Curat, vse to preach amongst you. 1628.

¶ Article 12 omitted. 1628.

¶ his Maiestie—progeny] the Kings Maiestie the Queene and all the Royall Progeny. 1628.

* Article 1 omitted. 1628.

† The King, the Prince] the King and Queene. 1628.

confirmed when the Bishop shall come about that holy seruice.

16. Whether is there any man in your Parish, being neyther your Parson, Vicar, nor Curate, that taketh vpon him to Preach or read Lectures, * eyther in private houses or publicly in your Church or Chappell, who is not Licenced to Preach or read there or who doth not once a yeare (at the least) read the whole Seruice as it is prescribed in the Booke of Common prayer, and administer both the Sacraments in your sayd Church or Chappell where he so preacheth or readeth, according to the Booke of Common prayer?

17. Whether your Minister hath or doth receiue to the holy Communion any Persons which be not of his owne parish, without testimony from the Ministers of the place where they dwell, and what they be, † that it may appeare that they be not persons excommunicate, Secretaries, or otherwise infamous?

18. Whether doth your Parson, Vicar, or Curate, question or reiect any from the holy Communion, who is not by publick fame, or by presentment of the Churchwardens detected ‡ for a notorious Fornicator, Adulterer, or other wicked liuer, or a common disturber of his Neighbours by whom publick offence is giuen; and whether he receiue any such person so infamed or presented, to the holy communion, before publick penance inioyned by his ordinary, be by him first performed, to the satisfaction of the congregation, according to the Law in that case provided?

19. Whether hath your Parson, Vicar, or Curate, or any other Minister, or party whatsoever, publicly or priuately preached, or spoken anything in derogation of the booke of common prayer, by dispraying or deprauiing the same, or anything therein conteyned, or against the present estate § of the Ecclesiasticall government established by authority, or against any office, function, or part thereof, affirming the same to be unlawfull Popish, Antichristian? &c.

20. Whether hath your Parson, or Vicar more Benefices then one? If he hath not, whether is he resident vpon that one? If he be not resident, where doth he remaine? And whether doth he leaue a sufficient Minister and Preacher to supply his absence, allowing something yeerely towards the reliefe of the Poore? And what doth he so allow? Whether doth he let his Benefice to farme to his Curate or to any lay Parson?

21. Whether is your Parson, or Vicar, who hath two Benefices within this Diocess, or one Benefice in this diocess, and an other fourth of the same resident one halfe of the yeere on one of them, and the other halfe yeere, or the greater part thereof vpon his other Benefice? And whether doth he leaue the Benefice in your Parish provided of a sufficient Preacher to serue it, and hath an especiall care of some conuenient hospitality to be kept in his absence according to his ability, and the proportion of his liuing?

22. Whether doth your Parson, Vicar, or Curate, vse such decent and comely apparel, as is prescribed by the late Cannons, without colours, cuts, gards, or vnseemely fashions?

23. Whether doth your Parson, Vicar, or Curate, keepe any Man or Woman in these houses, that are suspected to be eyther of euill Religion, or of bad life: or whether he they or any of them negligent persons themselues, or giuen to drunkennes, or to be hunters of Tauerns, Alehouses, or suspected places, common diceers, Carders, Tableplayers, Swearers, or otherwise suspected parsons, of any notorious crime, or light and vnseemely behauiour, or giue euill example of life?

24. Whether be there any Minister or Priests within your Parish, which liue idley without any cure, and so become offensive to their calling, and what be their names who so liue, and how long haue they bin with you?

25. Whether doth your Minister euery six moneths denounce in his Church at the time of prayers all such of his parish as do persevere in the sentence of excommunication not seeking to be absolved ¶?

* or expound the Scripture. Added. 1628.

† Without testimony—they be] without leaue or licence of the Lord Bishop, or other ordinary of the place. 1628.

‡ publick fame—detected] public authority adiudged. 1628.

§ present estate] particular estate. 1628.

¶ Articles 20-26 omitted. 1628.

¶ The following articles are added by Bp. Corbet in 1629:—

26. Whether doth your minister publicly read in the parish church once every year vpon some sunday or holyday the cannons and constitutions Ecclesiasticall made in the first yeare of our late Sovereigne Lord King James deceased, according to his said maiesties order and commandement set doune in the end of the said cannons?

27. Whether doth your minister solemnly denounce Recusants (sic), and other excommunicate persons vpon some sunday in time of diuine seruice every six moneths according to the 65 canon of the said cannons, in case they stand excommunicated about 3 months.

28. Whether doth your minister conferre with Recusants according to the 66. of the said Canons.

29. Whether doth your minister visit the sicke persons of his parish, according to the 67 of the said Cannons.

Articles concerning the Church.

Whether haue you in your parish * churches and chappels all things necessary and requisite for common prayer, and administration of the Sacraments, especially † the Booke of common prayer, with the new Kalender, the Psalter sette foorth by the Bishops, the Homilies both first and second Tome, ‡ a decent Surplis; a Table shewing what degrees of consanguinitie and Affinitie are forbidden in Mariage, set foorth by Authority, in the yeare of our Lord God 1563. the Table of the ten commandements; a conuenient Pulpit well placed; a comely and decent Table standing vpon a frame for the holy communion, with a faire Linnen cloth to lay vpon the same, & some covering of silke, or comely carpet, for the cleane keeping thereof; a faire and comely communion-cuppe of Silver, & a cover of Siluer for the same, which may serue also for the ministration of the communion-bread: a comly Pot to fetch Wine to serue the Lord's table, reserued and kept cleane to that vse only; and a strong chest or Boxe for the almes of the Poore, with three lockes and Keyes to the same, and all other thinges necessarie in and to the premises?

2. § Whether within these last 20 yeares, your church or chappell beinge covered with lead the same lead hath been in any part taken away, and tyles or other stuffe layed on in steede thereof, & to what vse hath such lead so taken away bene employed, or converted vnto, & by whom: of what kinde the stuffe is, or was layed on in steede of the sayde lead so taken away (as afore-sayd)

3. Whether any hath pulled downe or vncovered your church, chancell, or chappell, or any part of them: or hath pulled downe the Bells? Whether is your church or chappell and the chancell, well and sufficiently repayed? Whether doth your Parson, Vicar, or curate, or the Proprietarie or Farmer of your Parsonage or Vicarage in your Parish, keepe the Parsonage or Vicarage house (with all other the Edifices thereunto appertaining,) in good and sufficient reparations: And whether is your churchyarde well fenced and cleanly kept, without any Laystall or other annoyances? and your trees in the churchyard cut downe or spoyled, & by whom?

4. Whether your Fonts or Baptisteries be remooued from the place where they were wont to stand? or whether any Parsons (leauiing the vse of them) do christen in Basons, or other Vessels, or haue taken downe the old vsuall Font, heretofore vsed in your Parish:

5. Whether is there in your Parish a sufficient Register booke of Parchment of mariages, christnings, and Burials, provided at the charge of the Parish? Whether are all the names of those that haue been eyther christened, Married, or Buried since the beginning of his late Maiesties reigne, newly written into the sayd Parchment booke? Whether haue you a publick chest with three Lockes, for the Minister and the two churchwardens to keepe the said Booke in: and whether haue you brought a transcript of all the names of such as haue bene christned, married, and buried this last yeare, into the Register his Office, as you are bound to doe euerie yeare hereafter, within a month after the Feast of Easter, by the Constitutions? ¶

Articles concerning the Ecclesiasticall Court.

Whether hath any person within your parish promised or paid any summe of Monie, or other reward, directly or indirectly, by himselfe or any other, to any iudge or Officer of the Ecclesiasticall Court, for avoiding punishment, for any Incest, Adulterie, Fornication, or any other Ecclesiasticall crime, if so, then with whom, when, or for what summe?

2. Item, hath any Chancellour, Archdeacon, Officiall, or any other, ¶ exercising Ecclesiasticall iurisdiction within † the Diocess, ** or any Register, Apparitor, or Minister belonging to the same Ecclesiasticall court, exacted extraordinarie, (sic) or taken greater Fees then heretofore of late hath bene accustomed: And whether is there a Table of the Rates of all Fees set vp in their severall Courts or Offices: And whether they, or any of * parish] omitted. 1628.

† A Bible of the largest volume and last edition. Added. 1628.

‡ The Canon set out in the yeare 1603. Added. 1628.

§ Article 2 omitted. 1628.

¶ and whether haue you brought—Constitutions] omitted. 1628.

¶ The following Article is added by Bishop Corbet in 1629.

6. Item. Whether doth your Minister or Churchwardens or any of your parish suffer any man or woman to dwell or haue his or her habitation, or dwelling, or keepe any shop or warehouse, in your Church or Chancell or Belfrey, or in any roome belonging to the Church or Chancell situated and being within the circuit of the Church or Church-yard.

¶ Chancellour—other] omitted. 1628.

** within the Diocess] belonging to the L. Bishop or Archdeacons of Oxon. 1628.

them, haue taken vpon them the Office of Informers, or Promoters to the Courts, or any other way abused themselves in their Office, contrarie vnto the Law & Canons in that case provided?

3. * Whether is the vsuall number of Apparitors increased, and wherein, and in what manner is the countrie overburdened and grieued by the said Apparitors?

Articles concerning Schoolemasters.

Whether every Schoolemaster within your parish, in any Noble, or Gentlemans house, or in any other place, bee of good and sincere Religion, life, and conversation, and bee diligent in teaching and bringing vp of Youth: and whether they haue bene examined, allowed, and licensed for Schoolemasters, by the Ordinary in that behalfe?

2. † Whether your Schoolemaster, or schoolemasters, doe themselves receaue the holy communion as often as they ought to doe: and whether doe all their schollers, which be of age sufficient and of capacitie by instruction, come to the communion, either in your owne church, or else where their Parents dwell, once euery yeare, and be diligent to heare Common prayer;

3. Whether your Schoolmaster; or schoolemasters, do orderly † on Sundaies with their schollers come to the Church of their Parish where they teach, and there see their Schollers placed in some convenient place, so as they doe not disquiet the Minister, or parish in time of Divine Service, but may exercise themselves in reading and hearing the Service & Sermons, and in answering with the Congregation, in reading of publike prayer §?

4. Whether the Schoolemaster, or schoolemasters, either private, or publike, do teach their schollers the Catechisme, authorized by publike authority, at the least once euery weeke, and doe instruct and examine them in the same: or doe teach any other Catechisme? and what Catechisme it is that they so do teach?

5. Whether your Schoolemaister or Schoolmaisters, or any of them, be knowne or suspected to reade vnto their Schollers priuately any vnlawfull Bookes, or priuately to instruct them in their young yeares, eyther in Poperie, superstition, or disobedience, or contempt to his Maiesty and his Lawes Ecclesiasticall by publike authority allowed?

6. ¶ Whether the Schoolemaister or Schoolemaisters within your parish, do teach his or their Schollers any other Grammer then that which is commonly called the Kings Grammer, set fourth by the authority of King Henrie the Eight? ¶

Articles concerning the Parishioners, and others of the Laitie.

Whether all Housholders in your Parish, cause their children, servants, and Apprentises, both Mankind, and Womankind, being aboue seven ** yeares of age, and vnder twentie, which haue not learned the catechisme, to come to the church on Sundaies & Holidiaies at the time appointed for catechising, and there diligently and obediently to heare? And what be the names of those that doe not cause their children, servants, and Apprentises so to come to the Church to be instructed and examined?

2. Whether the Churchwardens doe present all those who do not send their children and servants to be Catechised?

3. Whether any doe worke, or keepe shops open vpon Saboth daies, that is vpon sundaies, or vpon any Holidiaies appointed by the Lawes of the Realme to be kept Holyday, or vse any worke, †† or open shewe of their wares in any of those dayes?

4. Whether you your selues, or the Churchwardens in the yeare before you haue suffered any vnmarried women being gotten with child, to go out of your Parish before she hath by you, or them, bene presented to your Ordinarie, or any Man defamed of Whoredome, to depart vnpunished, vpon direction appointed by the Ordinarie? and fourth of whose houses haue they gon away with child vnpunished? and what be the names of such vnmarried Women which haue been deliuered within your parish, and haue gon away without dooing of penance?

5. * Whether the Parish Clarke be appointed according to the Law by the Parson or Vicar of the Parish, with the allowance of the Ordinarie? And whether he be obedient to the Parson, Vicar, or Curate? And whether he be able to read, and whether he keepe the Bookes and Ornaments of the Church faire and cleane, and cause the Church, and Quire, the communion Table, and the Font, to be kept cleane and decent against the seruice time, the Communion, sermon, and Baptisme?

6. Whether there be any person or persons Ecclesiasticall or Temporall within your Parish, or else where within this Diocesse, that haue retained and kept in their custody, or that read, sell, vtter, dispearse, carry, or deliuer to others any English Bookes or Libels, set fourth, eyther on this side, or beyond the seas, by Papists or sectaries against the Kings supremacie, in causes Ecclesiasticall, or against true Religion and catholique Doctrine now publicly professed in this Church, or the gouernment or discipline of the Church of England now within this Realme receiued and established by common Authorite, and what their names and surnames are:

7. Whether there be any in your Parish who are noted, knowne, or suspected to conceale or keepe hidden in their houses any Masse-bookes, Portesses, Breuiaries; or other Bookes of Poperie: or any challices; copes, Vestments, Albs, † or other ornaments of superstition, vncancelled or vndefaced?

8. Whether there be in your parish any popish or sectary Recusant or Recusants, which for any cause whatsoever forbear to come to Church or Common prayer, and what their seuerall name or names are, and how long they haue been Recusants? †

9. † Whether any doe refuse to receive the holy Communion at their owne Ministers hands, either because he is not a Preacher, or because he duly observeth the order of administration appoynted by the Booke of Common prayer: and who they be that do goe from their owne Parish, to receiue at any other Ministers hands?

10. § Whether any of your Parishioners having a Preacher to their Parson, Vicar or Curate, doe absent themselves from his Sermons, and resort to any other place to heare other Preachers?

11. Whether all the people of your Parish aboue 16. yeares of age, and especially Housholders, having no lawfull excuse to be absent, doe resort with their seruants and children to their parish Church or Chappell on the Holidayes and on the Sundayes, to morning and euening Prayer, and who they be that either negligently or wilfully absent themselves; or doe vnrueently behaue themselves in the Church, or vse any gaming or pastime abroad or in any house, or sit in the streete or Churchyard, or in any Tauern or Alehouse, vpon the sunday or Holiday, in the time of common prayer, sermon, or reading of the Homilies, or any of them, either before or after noone?

12. ¶ Whether there be any Inkeepers, Alewiues, Victualers, or Tiplers that suffer or doe admit any person or persons in their houses, to eate, drinke, or play at dice, cards, Tables, bowles, or such like games, in the time of Common prayer or sermon, one the sundayes or Holidayes; or any Butchers, or other that commonly vse to sell Meate, or other things, in the time of Common prayer, preaching, or reading of Homilies: and whether in any Fayres, or common Markets falling vpon the sundayes there be shewing of any Wares; and whether any Markets and selling of Wares be vsed, or suffered in any Churchyards on the sundayes or Holidayes or at any other time, by common Packmen or Pedlers going about, or any Butchers?

13. Whether the churchwardens of the last yeare, haue given to the Parsons ¶ or Vicar, and the Parish, a iust account of the church goods that were committed to their charge, and what churchgoods, they or any other haue sold, and to whom; and whether to the profit of your church or no: and what hath been done with the Money thereof coming?

14. ** Whether all the mony, rents, stocks or profit of cattell, or other goods giuen to the poore, or to other

* Article 3 omitted. 1628.

† Article 2 omitted. 1628.

‡ orderly] ordinarily. 1628.

§ publike prayer] publikes. 1628.

¶ Article 6 omitted 1628.

¶ The following Article is added by Bp. Corbet in 1629.

7. Whether is there any free Schoole within your parish, who was or is the Founder thereof, or hath the gift or nomination of the Schoolemaster, what is his pension, who paieeth it, and whether the new Schoolemaster be licensed by the Ordinarie.

** seauen] seaventeene. 1628.

†† or labour. Added 1628. and 1629.

* Article 5 omitted. 1628.

† albs] robes. 1628.

‡ and what—Recusants] present their names qualities and conditions, and how long they haue abstained from divine service and from the Communion? 1628.

§ Articles 9, 10 omitted 1628.

¶ Article 12 omitted. 1628.

¶ Parsons] Parson. 1628.

** Article 14 omitted. 1628.

charitable vses, haue bene accordingly employed according to the gift:

15. Whether the churchwardens and swornemen, haue of any priuate corrupt affection, concealed any crime or other disorder in their time done in your Parish, and haue not presented the same to the Bishop, Chancellor, * Archdeacon, Commissarie, or such other as had authorithy (sic) to reforme the same: and whether they or any of them at any such time as they should haue bene at diuine service on sundayes and Holydaies, and should there haue obserued others that were absent, haue bene away themselues, at home, or in some Tauerne or Alehouse, or else about some worldly businesse, or at Bowles, Cardes, Tables, Dice, or other gaming, without regard of their Office and duty in that behalfe?

16. Whether any of your Parish being of conuenient age, haue not received the holy Communion this last yeare, and namely, at Easter last, or thereabouts for once, and what their names are which haue not received?

17. Whether there be any in your Parish, that doth administer the goods of those that be dead, without lawfull authority, or any that suppress the last Will of the dead; or any Executors that haue not fulfilled their testators last Will in paying of Legacies giuen to the Church, or to other good and godly vses; as to the reliefe of pouerty or Orphants, † poore Schollers, poore Maydens marriage, Highwayes, and suchlike, and by whom they are so denied?

18. † Whether there be any amongst you that doe vse Sorcerie or Witcheraf (sic) punishable by their Ecclesiasticall lawes, or that be suspected of the same: and whether any vse any Charmes or unlawfull Prayers: and whether any doe resort to any such for helpe and counsaile, and what be the names both of such as vse it, and of such as resort to them for helpe?

19. Whether there be among you any Blasphemers of the name of God great or often Swearers, Adulterers, Fornicators, Harlots or Whore maisters, Incestuous persons, Bawdes, or receiters of naughty and incontinent persons, or harborers of women with child which be vnmarrried, conueying or suffering them to goe away before they doe § any penance: or any tha be vehemently suspected of any such faults, ¶ or drunkards, or ribawds, or any that be malicious, contentious, or vncharitable persons, fighters, or chiders in Church, or Church-yard, raylers, scoulders, or sowers of discord betwene neighbours? and especially raylers against Ministers, and against their Marriage, or haue committed fornication with there wyues before Marriage, and what be all their severall names?

20. Whether there be any in these partes, ¶ that haue been married within the degrees, of affinity or consanguinity, by the lawes of God forbidden: or any that being diuorced or separated for the same, doe yet notwithstanding cohabit and keepe company still ** together? Or any that being married without those degrees, haue vnlawfully forsaken their Wiues or Husbands, and married others: any that being diuorced or separated a sunder, haue married againe: any that haue married without Banes three seuerall Sundayes or Holydayes solemnly asked, and without Licenche thereunto: †† or any couples married, that liue not together, but slaundersously liue apart?

21. †† Whether the Minister & Churchwardens haue suffered any Feastes, Banquets, Churchales, or Drinkings in the Church, or any Lords of Misrule, or Sommer Lord or Lady, or any disguised persons: and players of May games, or any Morris-dancers, at any time to come vnreuerently into the Church or Church-yard, and there to dance or play, or shew themselues disguised, and what be they that commit such disorder, or that accompanied or maintained them: or any Plates to be placed in the Church?

21. Whether there be any married women, or others within your Parish, which after child-birth, refuse or contemne to come to the Church in decent sort to giue God thanks for their deliury, and to heare the prayers publikely appointed in that behalfe by the Booke of Common-prayer?

* Chancellor] omitted. 1628.

† orphants] orphanes. 1628.

‡ Article 18 omitted. 1628.

§ doe] take. 1628.

¶ or knowne, or publikly, or credibly famed to be the attemptors of the chastity of any woman. Added. 1628.

¶ Whether—partes] Whether if you knowe of any in any private house, or not betwene the houres of eight and twelve in the forenoone, or. 1628.

** still] omitted 1628.

†† and without licenche thereunto] and being not licensed by the authority of the Bishop, or Archdeacon of Oxon; or without other lawfull licenche thereunto. 1628.

†† Article 21 omitted. 1628.

22. Whether any within your Parish doe resort vnto Barnes, Fieldes, Woods, private Houses, to any extraordinary exposition of Scriptures or conferences together: or that be drawers or perswaders of others to any such schismaticall Conuenticles?

23. Whether any doe keepe their children vn baptised longer then is conuenient: and whether any doe carry their Children from the Parish they are borne in, to other Parishes to be Baptised, and so refuse their owne Parish: or doe bring strange Ministers into their owne Houses to Baptise their Children privately, according to their owne fantasies:

24. * Whether are the fift day of August, and † the fift of November, kept holy according to statute, and thanksgiuing made to God for his Maiestie, & the States happy deliverance?

25. Whether any haue bene admitted to be Godfather, or Godmother that ‡ haue not before that time receaued the Communion?

26. § Whether are your Midwines sufficient for their place, and of good name and credit: are they licensed thereunto by the Ordinary, present the names of such as are not licensed? ¶

27. Finally, you shall present by vertue of you Ooaths, (sic) all and euery person knowne or vehemently suspected to be guilty of any manner of sinne or crime punishable by Ecclesiasticall discipline, all deprauers of the Religion and Church government established in this Realme, and especially all the deprauers of the royall supremacie of our Soueraigne Lord the King in all causes Ecclesiasticall, and all that doe any way disquiet the peace of the Church of England: And whatsoever fault else worthy the presentment in your iudgement, and fit to bee reformed by Ecclesiasticall censure, although it be not expressed in these Articles. At the delivery of your Bill of presentment, at the time and place aboue set downe, the Minister, Churchwardens, and Sidemen of every Parish, must in the end of the said Bill of presentment, set downe besides their presenting which they make of all Rucusants, (sic) and non-Communicants, this note following.

Recusants men.—

Recusants women.—

Non Communicants of both sex.

Communicants of both sex in the whole Parish.—

So setting downe the number of euery one: the Minister, Churchwardens, and Sidemen must put their hands to this Note. ¶

FINIS.

OVERALL, BISHOP OF NORWICH, 1619.

ARTICLES to be enquired of in the Diocesse of Norwich, in the Ordinarie Visitation of the Reuerend Father in God, John Lord Bishop of Norwich.

Anno Dom. 1619, & Translationis sue primo.

Printed by Cantrell Legge, Printer to the Vniuersitie of Cambridge, 1619.

[These Articles were re-issued, in the same words, by Sam. Harsnet, Bishop of Norwich, at his Visitation in 1627.]

[Collated with an edition re-issued by Francis White, Bishop of Norwich, in 1629.]

The Forme of the Oath to be ministred vnto the Churchwardens and Sidemen.

You shall swear, that you, and euerie of you, shall duely consider, and diligently inquire, of all and euerie of these Articles giuen you in charge; and that all affection, fauour, hope of reward and gaine, or feare of displeasure, or malice set aside; you shall present all and euery such person of or within your Parish, as hath committed any offence, or made any default mentioned in these, or any of these Articles; or which are vehemently suspected or defamed of any such offence or default: Wherein you shall deale vprightly and fully: neither presenting, nor sparing to present any, contrarie to truth: hauing in this action God before your eyes, with an

* Article 24 omitted. 1628.

† are—and] is. 1628.

‡ Godfather—that] Godfathers or Godmothers and. 1628.

§ Article 26 omitted. 1628.

¶ The following Article is added by Bp. Corbet in 1629.

27 Whether doth any man or boy in time of diuine Service cover his head or sit with his hat vpon his head, in your Church or Chappell, contrary to the 18 of the said Cannons, or doth not vse all other gestures and behauiours in time of diuine service required in that 18 Canon.

¶ Omitted 1628 And the old Churchwardens are to be chosen Sidemen. Added 1629.

earnest zeale to maintaine truth and vertue, and to suppress vice. So helpe you God, and the holy contents of this Booke.

ARTICLES to be enquired of in the Diocesse of Norwich.
Anno Dom. 1619.

Titul. 1. Articles concerning Religion and Doctrine.

Hereticall opinions. 1. Whether be there any abiding, or resorting to your Parish, that haue wilfully maintained and defended any heresies, errors, or false opinions, contrarie to the faith of Christ, and holy Scripture.

Absence from Church. 2. Item, Whether doth any in your Parish, being 16 years of age or vpwards, or others lodging, or commonly resorting to any house in your parish, wilfully absent themselves from your parish Church, Chappell, or Oratorie, vpon Sundaies and holidais, and other daies appointed, at Morning and Euening prayers. Or who come late to Church, and depart from Church before diuine Seruice and Sermon bee ended. Or whether be there any, that perswade others to forbear and abstaine comming to Church to heare diuine Seruice, and receiue the holy Communion according to his Maiesties lawes in that behalfe enacted.

Vnlawfull Conuenticles. 3. Item, Whether be there any in your parish, that hath bin, or is vehemently suspected to haue beene present at any vnlawfull assemblies, conuenticles, or meetings, vnder colour or pretence of any exercise of Religion; or doth any affirme and maintaine such meeting to be lawfull, contrary to his Maiesties statutes in that behalfe.

Impugners of the Kings supremacie. 4. Item, Whether be there any within your parish that deny, or perswade any to deny, withstand, and impugne the Kings Maiesties authoritie and Supremacie in causes Ecclesiasticall within his Realme.

Popish Recusants. 5. Item, Whether be there any abiding, or resorting to your Parish that be, or are commonly reputed to be ill affected in matters of Religion professed in our Church, or taken to be Recusant Papists, refusing to repaire vnto the Church to heare diuine Seruice, and receiue the holy Communion, and being disobedient to his Highnesse Lawes in that behalfe provided. Or doe any publish, sell, or disperse any superstitious books or writings; or other books, libells, or writings of any lecturaries (sic) touching the Religion, State, or Ecclesiasticall gouernement of this Kingdom of England. Present their names, qualities, and conditions. Doe any Papist keepe a schoolmaster in his house, which commeth not to Church as is required. What is his name, and how long hath he taught there or elsewhere.

Titul. 2. Articles concerning Publique Prayer and Administration of the Sacraments.

Deprauning the Booke of common Prayer, and Ceremonies. First, Whether hath any of your parish spoken, or declared any thing in the derogation, or deprauning of the forme of Gods worship in the Church of England, and Administration of the Sacraments, Rites, and Ceremonies set forth and prescribed in the Booke of Common Prayer by the Kings Maiestie authorised and confirmed. Doe any preach, speak, or declare, that it containeth any thing which is not agreeable to the holy Scriptures.

Perswading any Minister to alter the forme of common Prayer. 2. Item, Whether hath any in your parish caused, procured, or maintained any Minister to say any common or publike prayer, or to administer either of the Sacraments of Baptisme and the Lords Supper otherwise, or in any other manner and forme, then is mentioned in the said booke of Common Prayer: Or whether hath any interrupted, hindered, let, or disturbed the Minister to read diuine seruice, and administer the Sacraments in such manner and forme, as is mentioned in the said booke, or interrupted him in his preachings and Sermons.

Observation of the forme of Baptisme and Crosse. 3. Item, Whether is the Sacrament of Baptisme rightly and duly administred according to the prescript Forme expressed in the booke of Common Prayer, with due obseruation of all Rites and Ceremonies prescribed in the administration of the same, without adding, or altering any part or parcell of any prayers, interrogatories, or not vsing the signe of the Crosse in the administration of the same.

Deferring of Baptisme. 4. Item, Whether is the administration of the Sacrament of Baptisme deferred longer then the next Sunday or Holiday immediately following the birth of the Child.

21795.

Children refused to be baptized, or dying without baptisme. 5. Item, Whether is the Sacrament of Baptisme refused to be administred to any children borne in or out of wedlock, their birth being made knowne to the Minister of the parish, and offered vnto him to be baptized, or haue any such children died vn baptized.

Parents of children admitted God-fathers. 6. Item, Whether be the Parents of any child to be baptized, admitted to be godfathers, and godmothers to the same.

Pruate Baptisme. 7. Item, Whether haue there any children bin baptized in pruate houses by any Lay person or midwife, or Popish Priest, or by any other Minister, but vpon vrgent occasion when the child was in danger of death.

Baptising of Papists children. 8. Item, Whether haue the children which haue been borne to any Popish Recusants, or begotten by them in your parish, beene publicly baptized in your parish Church by your Parson, Vicar, or Curate; or by whom were they baptized, or where to your knowledge.

Receiuing of the Lords Supper thrice a yeare. 9. Item, Whether hath the blessed Sacrament of the Lords Supper bin duly and reuerently administred euery moneth, or thrice euery yeare at least, whereof once at Easter, within your Parish Church to euery parishioner being of sixteene yeares of age, or vpwards.

Kneeling at the Communion. 10. Item, Whether is the said Holy Sacrament deliuered vnto, or receiued by any of the Communicants within your Parish, that vnreuerently sit or stand, or doe not deuotly and humbly kneele vpon their knees.

Notorious offenders admitted to the communion. 11. Item, Whether hath any of your Parish which be openly knowne to liue in notorious sinne without repentance, or excommunicate persons, or Schismatikes, common and notorious deprauers of the Religion and gouernement of this Realme, without vnfaigned sorrow showne for their impietie and wickednesse, beene admitted to be partaker of the said holy Communion.

Debarring others without cause. 12. Item, Whether hath any of your Parish bin debarred from the said holy Communion without iust cause, and without intimation first giuen to the ordinary or Bishop of the Dioces: and by whose default.

Titul. 3. Articles concerning the Church, the Ornaments thereof, and the Churches Possessions.

Books and ornaments in the Church. First, Whether haue you in your Church or Chappell, the whole Bible of the largest Volume, and of the last translation, the Booke of common Prayer, lately set forth by his Maiesties authority, the two bookes of Homilies, and Bishop Iewell's Apologie, all well and fairly bound: A Font of stone set vp in the ancient vsuall place: A conuenient and decent Communion Table, with a carpet of silke, or some other decent stuffe, continually laid vpon the table at time of diuine Seruice, and a faire linnen cloath at the time of administering the Communion. And whether is the same Table placed conueniently as it ought. And whether is it so vsed in or out of time of Diuine Service or Sermon, as is not agreeable to the holy vse of it; as by sitting on it, and by throwing hats on it, or writing on it; or is it abused to other prophaner vses. Are the tenne Commandements set vpon the East end of your Church, with other sentences of Scripture about.

Abusing of the Communion Table. 2. Item, Whether haue you in your said Church or Chappell, a conuenient seat for your Minister to read diuine seruice in, together with a comly Pulpit set vp in a conuenient place, with a decent cloth or cushion for the same; a comely, large, and fine Surplice, a faire Communion Cup, a flagon of Siluer, or Peuter, with all other things and ornaments necessarie for the celebration of diuine Seruice, and administration of the Sacraments: and whether haue you a Chest for Almes with three locks and keies, and another chest for keeping the books and Ornaments of the Church, and the Register booke. Haue you a Register booke in parchment for Christnings, Weddings, and Burialls, and is the same kept in all points according to the Canons. And haue you a Table set in your Church of the degrees where in by law men are prohibited to marrie?

Things apperteyning to Churches. 3. Item, Whether is your Church or Chappell with the Chauncel therof, and your Parsonage or Vicarage house, your Parish Almes-house and Church-house in good reparations; and are they employed to godly, and their right holy vses;

Reparations of Churches and parsonage houses. 3. Item, Whether is your Church or Chappell with the Chauncel therof, and your Parsonage or Vicarage house, your Parish Almes-house and Church-house in good reparations; and are they employed to godly, and their right holy vses;

if any be ruinated and wasted, in whom is the default. Is your Church, Chancell, and Chappel decently and comely kept, aswell within as without, and be the seats well maintained, the steeple and bells preserued, the windows well glazed,* the floore kept paued, plaine and euen, and all things in orderly and decent sort, without dust, or any thing that may be either noysome or vnseemely for the house of God, as is prescribed in an Homily to that effect, and the 85 Canon.

Keeping cleane of Churches. 4. Item, Whether be your Churchyards well fenced, and kept without abuse: if not, whose default is it: hath any person encroached vpon the ground of the Churchyard. Haue any vsed a place consecrated to holy vse prophanely or wickedly: haue any quarrelled or stricken another in Church or Churchyard: haue any annoyed your Churchyard or the fence thereof, by putting in of cattell, by hanging of cloathes, or by laying there any dust, dung or other filthines.

Fencing and keeping the Churchyard. 5. Item, Whether is your Church full, or vacant of an Incumbent; if vacant, who receiueth the fruits thereof, and who serueth the Cure, and by what authoritie: And whether is it a Parsonage Vicaridge, or Donatiue, or Appropriation.

Profaning and annoying the Churchyard. 6. Item, What legacies haue been giuen to the vse and benefit of your Church, how haue they been bestowed: who receiued them, and detaineth them without due imployment. Doth any detaine or embezell any of the Church goods, or any other gifts giuen to charitable vses.

Concealing of Church goods. 7. Item, Whether is there any erecting of vp seats and puees, or innovating of seats in your Church by any priuate man of his own authority: and what seats haue bin so built, and by whose procurement, and by what authoritie.

Erecting vp seats and puees. 8. Item, Whether hath any in your parish defaced, or caused to be defaced any monuments or ornaments in your Church.

Defacing of seemely Ornaments. 9. Item, Whether hath any Popish Recusant being lawfully excommunicated, been entered or buried in your Church or Churchyard, before absolution of that censure and excommunication: if yea, then by whom, and when.

Burying of Popish Recusants. 10. Item, Whether be not the profits, tithes, and other commodities Ecclesiasticall, impiously and wickedly to the dishonour of Almighty God, and preiudice of the sacred ministerie, conuerted to the vse and benefit of couetous Patrons, and by them receiued and detained, and how long haue they been so vsed to your knowledge.

Alienation of tithes and profits of the Church. 11. Item, Whether haue you the Terrier of all the gleab-lands, meadowes, gardens, orchyards, houses, stocks, implements, tenements, and portions of Tythes (whether within your parish or without) belonging vnto your parsonage or vicaridge, taken by the view of honest men, in your said parish. And whether the said Terrier be laid vp in the Bishops Registrie, and in whose hands are any of them now. And if you haue no Terrier alreadie made in parchment, you the Churchwardens and Side-men, together with your Parson or Vicar, or in his absence your Curate, are to make diligent inquiry, and presentment of the premises, and make, subscribe, and signe the said Terrier, as aforesaid.

Titul. 4. Articles concerning Ministers, and Preachers of God's holy word.

Degrees of Ministers. First, Whether is your Minister, Parson, Vicar, or Curate, a graduate in either of the Vniuersities, or no: if yea, then of what degree. Is he a publike Preacher of God's word, and by whom is he so licensed.

Observation of the forme, and time of common Praier and Sacraments. 2. Item, Whether doth your Minister distinctly, and reuerently say Diuine Seruice vpon Sundaies and Holidayes, and other daies appointed to be obserued by the booke of Common Prayer, as Wednesdayes, and Fridayes, and the Eues of euery Sunday and Holiday, at fit and vsuall times. And doth your Minister duely obserue the orders, Rites, and Ceremonies prescribed in the said Booke of Common prayer, as well in reading all publike praiers, and the Letanie, as also in administering the Sacraments, solemnization of matrimonie, visitation of the sicke, burying the dead, churching of women, and all other like Rites, and offices of the Church, in such manner & forme, as in the said book of common prayer is enioyned, without any omission or addition of any thing. And doth he read the booke of the last Canons yearly.

Continuall wearing of the Surplice. 3. Item, Whether doth your Minister alwaies, and at euerie time both morning and euening, reading Diuine Seruice, and administering the Sacraments, & other Rites of the Church, weare the Surplice according to the Canons, and doth he neuer omit wearing of the same at such times.

Observation of Rites. 4. Item, Whether doth your Minister bid holidiaies and fasting daies, as is appointed. Doth he administer the holy Communion euery moneth, or thrice in the year at least, wherof once at Easter to euery parishioner: doth he receiue the same himselfe on euery day that he administreth it to others, and vseth he the words of Institution according to the booke, without alteration, at euery time that the bread and wine is renewed. Doth he vse and neuer omit the signe of the Crosse in Baptisme, or doth he euer baptize in any Bason or other thing but the vsuall Font. Doth he marrie without a Ring, or in times prohibited, or without the Banes thrice published, without a special Licence from the Archbishop, or Bishop of the Diocesse, or his Chauncellour first had and obteyned.

Preachers without licence. 5. Item, Whether is your Minister a Preacher licenced or no: If no, whether doth he take vpon him in his own Cure or elsewhere to expound any Scripture or matter of doctrine, and doth not keep himselfe only to the reading of Homilies published by Authority: if so, then you are to present the same, the time and place where he did it. And if he be licensed, doth he preach vsuall according to the 45 Canon, in his owne cure, or some other neighbour Church, where no preacher is: doth he preach standing, and with his hat off. Or whether doth he or his Curate vpon euery Sunday when there is no Sermon, read an Homily, or some part thereof, according as he ought to doe.

Reading Homilies when there is no Sermon. 6. Item, Whether doth your Minister preach in his Sermons, any doctrine which is new and strange, & disagreeing from the word of God, & from the Articles of Christian faith and religion agreed on and published Ann. Dom. 1562. or whether doth they teach any thing, which they would haue the people religiously to obserue, and beleuee, but that which is agreeable to the Scriptures, and that which the Catholike Fathers and auncient Bishops haue gathered out of that doctrine, according to the Canon.

Names of strange Preachers to be taken. 7. Item, Whether are any Ministers admitted to preach in your Church, who doth not before the Churchwardens subscribe their names in your booke for that purpose, the day when he preached, and the name of the Bishop of whom he had licence to preach. And is any one admitted to preach before he sheweth* his licence.

Opposition of Preachers in their Sermons. 8. Item, Doth any Preacher in your pulpit particularly impugne and confute any doctrine deliuered by others his fellow preachers, before he hath acquainted the Bishop of the Dioces therewith, and receiued order from him what to doe in that case.

Praying for his Maiestie, &c. 9. Item, Doth your Minister vse alwaies to pray for the King's Maiestie, the Queene, Prince, Clergie, Councill, &c. giuing them their full titles as in the Canon is required.

Non-residence of the Minister. 10. Item, Whether is your Minister resident vpon his Benefice, or absent; if absent, by whom is the cure serued, the fruits receiued. Doth your Minister or Curate serue any more cures then one: if yea, then what other Cure doth he serue, and how farre are they distant.

Catechizing. 11. Item, Whether doth he catechize the youth of his Parish vpon Sundaies and holidiaies before Euening praier for halfe an houre, or more, in the Catechisme set forth in the booke of common praier: and whether doe all the Parishioners diligently attend his catechising, and who refuse to send their children and seruants to be catechized by him.

Ministers to cal for reliefe of the poore, and almes deeds. 12. Item, Doth your Minister care-fully looke to the reliefe of the poore, and from time to time call vpon his parishioners to give somewhat according to their abilitie, to godly and charitable vses, especially when they make their wills.

Symonie. 13. Item, Whether is your Minister suspected, or knowne to haue obtained his Benefice, or spirituall promotion by any symoniacall compact, directly or indirectly.

* Or any part of the Church or Chancel windows daubed or closed vp with Board, Lyme, or Stone. Added in 1629.

* Sheweth] hath shewed. 1629.

Demising of benefices. 14. Item, Whether doth your Minister demise the profits of his Benefice to any lay-man, above one yeare, and is not resident there, and keepeth no hospitalitie vpon his Benefice beeing of sufficient value.

Conferring with Recusants. 15. Item, Whether hath he beeing learned and sufficient, conferred with the Popish Recusants of his parish, endeavouring to reclaime them from their errours, and presenting them beeing obstinate for their Recusancie.

Observing of Rogation week. 16. Item, Doth your Minister in the Rogation daies goe in perambulation of the circuit of the parish, saying and vsing the praier, suffrages, and thanksgiuing to God, appointed by lawe, according to his duty, thanking God for his blessings, and praying for his grace and fauour.

Preaching, &c., in priuate houses. 17. Item, Hath your Minister or any other preacher made any Sermons, administered the Sacraments, or Churched women in any priuate houses, otherwise then is by law allowed.

Curates not licensed, and laymen doing offices of a minister. 18. Item, What Curats, or Preachers doe read praier, or administer the Sacraments in your Parish, without lawfull licence from the Bishop of the Diocesse vnder his hand and seale, according to the Canon: or doth any Layman, not hauing holy orders, presume to read publike praier in the church.

Lecturers and Preachers to read seruice. 19. Item, Whether haue you any Preacher or Lecturer in your parish, and whether (if any such be) he doth twice at the least euery yeare read himselfe Diuine Seruice both morning and euening two seuerall Sundaies publiquely in his Surplice; and also twice in the yeare administer both Sacraments, with such rites and ceremonies as are prescribed in the booke of Common Prayer, according to the 56 Canon.

Conuersation of the Minister. 20. Item, Whether is your Minister studious in the holy Scriptures, and abstaineth from mechanicall trades, or labour not befitting his function, and from apparell vnseemely for his calling, and from gaming, swearing, and drunkennesse, or such notorious crimes; or is there any in your parish, who hauing been admitted into holy orders, either Deacon or Minister, doth relinquish and forsake his calling, and liueth in the course of his life as a Lay-man.

Ministers reuealing priuate confessions. 21. Item, Whether doth your minister before the seuerall times of the administration of the Lords Supper, admonish and exhort his parishioners, if they haue their consciences troubled and disquieted, to resort vnto him, or some other learned Minister, and open his greife, that he may receiue such ghostly counsell and comfort, as his conscience may be releued, and by the Minister he may receiue the benefit of absolution, to the quiet of his conscience, and auoiding of the scruple; And if any man confesse his secret and hidden sinnes beeing sicke or whole to the Minister, for the vnburthening of his conscience, and receiuing such spirituall consolation, doth or hath the said minister at any time reuealed and made knowne to any person whatsoever, any crime or offence so committed to his trust and secrecie, contrarie to the 113 Canon.

Titul. 5. Articles concerning Matrimonie.

Marriage within Leuiticall degrees. First, Whether be there any in your Parish that haue married within the degrees of affinity, or consanguinitie by the law of God forbidden; if any, what be they.

Priuate marriage, and without consent of Parents. 2. Item, Whether haue any beene married secretly in priuate houses, or without their parents or gouernours consent signified, being vnder the age of 21 yeares.

Married persons liuing apart. 3. Item, Whether doe any persons lawfully married liue asunder vnlawfully, and in whom is the default.

Marriage without banes, and licence. 4. Item, Whether any persons, (the banes beeing not thrice published in the Church,) haue beene married without licence,* who were present at such marriages, and what Minister married them.

Persons married out of their parishes. 5. Item, Whether any persons by licence or without haue beene married in your Parish Church, neither of them at that time dwelling in your Towne.

Recusants marriage. 6. Item, What Popish Recusants or their children haue beene married in your parish, in what sort was that matrimonie solemnized, when and by whom.

Bigamy. 7. Item, Is there any in your parish that is voyced, noted, and credibly reported and accused to haue too (sic) wiues liuing, or two husbands.

Titul. 6. Articles concerning the Churchwardens.

Election of Churchwardens. First, Whether be the Churchwardens chosen by the Minister and parishioners, according to the 89 Canon, and whether hath any taken vpon him to be Churchwarden beeing not so chosen? Or hath any continued above one yeare in his office without a new choise.

Churchwardens due accompt. 2. Item, Whether haue any Churchwardens retained any of the Church goods, and not made a iust accompt of what they haue receiued and expended.

Churchwardens diligent in the Church. 3. Item, Haue they been and are they diligent in their office, to see decencie kept in the Church, and order in the time of Common praier, and administration of the Sacraments, and that there be no disturbance, but sobernesse and quietnesse in the Church. And doe the Churchwardens keepe a booke in your Parish, wherein the name of euery strange Preacher in your Parish is set downe; and haue the Churchwardens suffered any to preach not shewing or hauing no licence.

Titul. 7. Articles concerning the Parishioners.

Profaning the Lord's day. First, Whether do any in your parish prophane the Sunday by vnlawfull games, drinking or tipping in the time of Common prayer, or Sermon; and by working, and doing the ordinarie workes of their vocation and trades.

Impugning the Rites and gouernement of the Church. 2. Item, Is there any in your Parish that doe impugn or speak against the Rites and Ceremonies of the Church of England, or the lawfull vse of them; and the gouernement of this Church vnder his Maiestie by Archbishops, Bishops, and other ecclesiasticall officers.

Reuerent behauiour at diuine seruice. 3. Item, Who in your Parish doe come to the Sermon onely, and not to diuine seruice, and who doe not reuerently behaue themselves during the time of diuine seruice, devoutly kneeling when the generall Confession of sinnes, the Letany, the tenne Commandements, and all Prayers, and Collects are read: and vsing all duly and lowly reuerence when the blessed name of the Lord Iesus is mentioned, and standing vp when the Articles of the Beleife, the Magnificat, Nunc dimittis, the Te Deum, Benedictus, and Gloria Patri, &c. are read, or who doe couer their heads in the Church, during the whole time of diuine seruice, vnlesse it be in case of necessitie, in which case they may weare a nightcap. Or who doe giue themselves to babbling, talking, or walking, and are not attentiuely to heare the Word read and preached.

Leauing their owne Churches to go to others. 4. Item, Is there any of your parish hauing a preacher to their Minister, that doe absent themselves from his Sermons, and resort to other places to heare other preachers: or doe any in your parish communicate, or baptize their children in any other parish.

Exception against the Minister. 5. Item, Is there any in your parish that refuse to haue their children baptised, or themselves to receiue the Communion of your Minister, taking exception against him: or haue any wiues that refuse to come to Church according to the booke of Common prayer, to giue thanks to God for their safe deliuerance, in a decent habit, as hath beene aunciently accustomed.

Disgracing of Ministers. 6. Item, Hath any in your parish spoken slaunders and reproachfull words against your Minister, to the scandall of his vocation, or against their marriage or wiues, or against his neighbour, defaming them touching any crime of Ecclesiasticall cognizance.

Opening of shops vpon holidayes. 7. Item, Whether do any in your Parish exercise any trade, or labour, buy or sell, or keep open shops, or set out any wares to be sold vpon Sundayes and Holidayes by themselves, their seruants, or apprentices, or haue otherwise prophaned the said daies.

Keeping holy of 24 March, 5 August, 5 Nouember. 8. Item, Whether is the 24 of March, the 5 of August,* and the 5 of Nouember kept holy, and thanksgiuing made to God, according to the order set forth in that behalfe.

Adulterie, fornication, incest, &c. 9. Item, Is there any in your parish that be, or are commonly knowne or reputed, to be blasphemers of Gods holy name, drunkards, adulterers, fornicators, incestuous persons, concealors or harbourers of fornicators or adulterers: haue any beene detected of such notorious crimes, and what penance haue they done for the same.

* Lawfully obtained. Added in 1629.

* the 5 of Aug.] Omitted in 1629.

10. Item, What corporall punishmen for any such offences, haue beene commuted and changed into a pecuniary mulct or summe of money by any Ecclesiasticall Iudge, exercising iurisdiction within this Diocesse by vertue of any grant or comission; or what was the summe of money by them or any of them so receiued and taken, and to what vses was the same bestowed: or whether vpon such commutations, was the vnfeined repentance of the delinquents published in the Church.

11. Item, What person or persons haue died and departed this mortal life, since the 2 day of February last past, and whether did they make any last wills or Testaments, and who were their executors, or whether died they intestate, and who hath the administration of their goods; and what be the names of such deceased, and executors, and administrators.

12. Item, Whether haue any in your parish administrated the goods of any person deceased without lawfull authoritie, and before hee or they haue prooued the will and Testament of the partie deceased, or haue obtained Comission from the Ordinarie to dispose the said mooueable goods; or are there any wills vnprooued, or goods not administrated.

13. Item, What persons be excommunicate within your Parish, and for what cause to your knowledge: and whether do any of them repaire to the Church, in time of Prayer vnabsolued.

Titul. 8. Articles concerning Scholemasters, Physitians, and Chyrurgions, and Parish Clerks.

First, is there any Schoolemaster in your Parish that teacheth publikely or priuately, not licensed by the Ordinarie the Bishop of the Diocesse. Doth he teach any Papists or Sectaries children, that come not to Church. And doth he instruct all his schollers to learne the shorter Catechisme by law established, contained in the booke of common Praier. Is he a graduate, and sufficient to teach.

2. Item, What Physitian or Chyrurgion is in your parish vnlicensed, and beeing not a Doctor of physicke in either of the Vniuersities, doth practise physicke. And what ignorant persons haue left their trade, and taken vpon them to professe Physicke or Chyrurgerie; and who be they that so abuse the people.

3. Item, Haue you a fit parish-Clarke, aged 20 yeares at least, of honest life, able to read and write. Are his and the Sextons wages paid without fraud; if not, then whose default is it. By whom is he chosen: is he diligent in his office, and seruicable to the Minister; doth he meddle with any thing about his office; doth he keepe the Church cleane, the doores locked. Is any thing lost and spoiled by his default, and doth he execute his office duly.

Titul. 9. Articles concerning Ecclesiasticall Offices.

First, Whether be there any ecclesiasticall officers that exercise ecclesiasticall iurisdiction within this Diocesse, that take and receiue, or exact any extraordinary and excessive fees for any cause. Whether haue your Churchwardens and Questmen, concealed any abuses or offences punishable in the Ecclesiasticall Court; and whether such offences beeing presented are suppressed and vnpunished.

2. Item, Whether is there not a Table of Fees in euery Court, of the Consistorie, Archdeacons, and Commissaries, allowed & subscribed by the Iudge and Register of the Court of Consistory Ann. Dom. 1597, and the same euery Court day hung vp in some publique place of the Court and Registry.

3. Item, Doth any Ecclesiasticall Iudge speed any act in any cause priuately of himselfe, and not in presence of some publike Notarie or Actuarie.

4. Item, Whether is there any excessive number of Apparitors and Sumners in this Diocesse; or hate any of them vnder pretence of authoritie cited or summoned any person vnlawfully, or hath taken any reward for the concealing of any offence or sinne, or the auoiding of punishment of the offenders, and who be they that haue done so; or doe they take any fees not accustomed. Haue they threatned any to prosecute them if they had no reward, and doe they summon any without a Citation first had.

5. Item, Hath any Ecclesiasticall Iudge, or officer, Aduocate, Register, Procter, Clerks, or other such ministers any way abused themselues in their offices, contrarie to the law and Canons in that behalfe provided.

6. Item, Lastly, Whether haue you and euery of you, sincerely, vprightly, and without any partiall affection, and concealing, presented and made known all and euery the offenders in any of the matters mentioned in the precedent Articles exhibited vnto you, either as they are taken in truth to be, or by common fame reported.

If you know of any other default or crime of Ecclesiasticall cognizance, you are to present the same.

The Ministers of euery Parish may ioyne in presentment with the Churchwardens and Side-men, and if they will not present, then the Ministers themselues (beeing the persons that should haue the cheife care for the suppressing of sinne and impietie in their parishes) may present the Crimes aforesaid, and such things as shall be thought to require due reformation, Can. 113.

There must be seuerall presentments made to euery seuerall Article.

FINIS.

Hos Articulos sub hisce Titulis in hac visitatione, 1619.

proponit inquirendos,

JO. NORVICENSIS.

HARSNET, BISHOP OF NORWICH, 1620.

ARTICLES to be inquired of within the Dioces of Norwich, in the Ordinary Visitation of the Reverend Father in God, Samvel, Lord Bishop of Norwich.

Anno Domini 1620, et Translationis suae primo.

Imprinted at London 1620.

The Forme of the Oath to be ministred unto the Churchwardens and Sidemen.

You shall sweare to make diligent inquirie and true presentment of all and euery the offences mentioned in the subsequent Articles in this booke, which be known to you either by notoriety of the fact, confession of any party, or by any publike speech and common fame, or by other prooffe had and made, without affection of loue or hatred to any person; So helpe you God, and the Contents of this Booke,

ARTICLES to be inquired of in the Dioces of Norwich, Anno Domini 1620.

TIT. 1. Articles concerning religion, prayer, and Sacraments.

1. First, whether be there any person or persons abiding in your parish or resorting thereunto, aboue the age of sixteen yeares, that wilfully, and obstinately, refuse to repaire to their parish Church, Chappell, or oratorie, vpon sabbboth daies and Holidiaes, and be thereby taken to be Popish or sectary recusants.

2. Item, whether be there any that be knowne to haue defended or maintayned any hereticall opinions, contrary to the holy scriptures of God, and first foure generall counsells or any of them, and what be those opinions, and who be the authors thereof.

3. Item, whether be there any in your parish, that hath bene or is vehemently suspected, to haue bene present at any vnlawful assemblies, or priuate conuenticles, vnder colour or pretence of any exercise of religion: or doth affirme and maintaine such meetings to be lawfull.

4. Item, whether doth any person within your Parish, depraue the forme of common praier, and administration of the Sacraments, rites, and ceremonies, set forth and prescribed in the booke of common praier of this realme.

5. Item, whether is there any doctrine taught, published, or preached, by any person or persons directly or indirectly against the state ecclesiasticall, and lawfull gouernment of the Church of England, and the consecrating of Archbishops and Bishops, and the ordering of Deacons and Ministers, after such manner and forme as is now vsed and prescribed by his Maiesties lawes within this Realme of England.

6. Item, whether be there any within your parish, that deny or perswade any to deny, withstand, and impugne the kings Maiesties authority and supremacie, in causes ecclesiasticall within this realme.

* the 2 of Feb. 1618] 1 of March, 1628. In 1629.

7. Item, whether doth any person within your parish, above the age of 16 yeeres, refuse or forbear thrice in euery year, and at Easter especially, to communicate and receiue the blessed Sacrament of the Lords supper: And what reverence doe the people within your Parish vse by outward gestures of their bodies, when they be partakers of that blessed Sacrament; and whether doe they reuerently kneele vpon their knees when the minister deliuereth the same to them.

8. Item, whether doth any person within your Parish deferre the baptisme of his child, longer then vntill the nex Sabbath day or holiday, after the birth thereof.

9. Item, whether hath any child died unbaptised within your Parish, and by whose default.

10. Item, whether be the parents of any childe to be Baptised admitted to be godfathers or godmothers to the same.

11. Item, whether haue the children of popish recusants or wilfull sectaries borne within your Parish, bene priuately baptised by any lay man not in holy orders.

12. Item, whether hath any person not lawfully confirmed according to the forme of confirmation, prescribed in the booke of common Prayer of this realme, bene admitted to receiue the holy communion.

13. Item, whether hath any Popish recusant, after he or she hath bene conformed, repaired to Church and receiued the blessed Sacrament of the Lords supper, once a yeare at the least, in that parish Church where he or she doe most vsually abide.

14. Item, whether doe any within your parish vpon Sabbath daies and holy daies, negligently and carelesly repaire to your parish Church, so that halfe or the most part of diuine service is ended before they come, and vpon light occasion depart out of the Church before prayers be done.

Tit. 2. Articles Concerning the Ministers and Preachers of Gods holy word.

1. First, whether doth the minister of your parish Church read the forme of common praier, in such sort as is set forth in the booke of common praier, confirmed by his Maiesties authority, and administer the Sacraments with due obseruation [sic] of all rites and ceremonies prescribed to be vsed in the administration thereof, without adding, altering, or omitting any part or parcell of the said praiers, or inuouating any other matter in the administration of either of the Sacraments.

2. Item, whether is the said forme of common praier duly and orderly red in your Church, Chappell, or oratorie, vpon sabbath daies, holy daies, wednsdaies and fridaies, and vpon holy eues and Sabbath eues.

3. Item, whether be the words of institution of the Sacrament of the Lords supper, vsed by the minister in deliuey of the bread and wine to euery communicant?

4. Item, whether be the words in the administration of the sacrament of baptisme, I signe thee with the signe of the Crosse, onely vsed, and noe visible or formall crosse made in the forehead of the child so baptised.

5. Item, whether is the sacrament of baptisme denied to any children borne out of wedlock, and by whom.

6. Item, whether is the forme of common prayer red vpon the 24 of March, the fifth of Nouember, and the fifth of August, yearely in your parish Church: and publique thanksgiuing vsed vpon those daies to almighty God, for his Maiesties gracious succession to the royall crowne of this realme, the deliuerance of his Highnesse, and the whole state from the damnable gunpowder treason, and for his Maiesties preservation from the conspiracy of Gowry.

7. Item, whether is the statute intituled An act for a publique thanksgiuing to almightie God, &c. euery yeare distinctly red in your parish church at morning praier, vpon the fifth day of Nouember.

8. Item, whether doth your Minister alwaies and at euery time, both morning and euening, reading diuine service, and administering the sacraments, weare the surplice, and doth he neuer omit the wearing of the same, at such times or at any of them.

9. Item, whether doth he catechise the youth of his parish vpon sundaies and holidays before euening prayer, for halfe an houre or more, in the catechisme set forth in the booke of common Prayer, and in none other: And whether doe all the parishioners attend his catechising: And whether doe any of them neglect or refuse to send their children to be catechized by him.

10. Item, whether doth your minister once euery yeare in your parish church reade the booke of canons published Anno Domini 1603, and whether doth he visit the sicke as by law is required.

11. Item, whether doth he giue thanks for women after their child-birth in such manner as is prescribed in the booke of common praier of this realme: And doth he admit any to the performance of that holy action, that doe not come hauing a decent vaile vpon their heads Matron-like as hath bene accustomed heeretofore; And whether doth any woman refuse to giue thanks in that manner after her childbirth.

12. Item, whether is your minister resiant at and vpon his benefice or spirituall promotion, and doth he preach euery sabbath day or monthly in his said cure, or read an homily when there is no sermon there preached.

13. Item, whether is your Minister a graduate and hath taken any scholasticall degree of bachelor or Master of arts, or bachelor or doctor in diuinity, either in Cambridge or Oxeford, and is he a preacher lawfully licensed, and by whom?

14. Item, whether doth your Minister preach or teach any matter publicely in his pulpit within his parish Church, which is not agreeable to the doctrine of the old and new testament, and which the learned Fathers, and aunceient (sic) Bishops haue not taken and gathered out of the holy scriptures, for an undoubted truth?

15. Item, whether doth your minister side it in his preaching, by taking part with one of them that be at variance, and therevpon preach doctrine tending to the breach of christian loue and vnity, and stirring up of schisme and faction amongst his auditors, offensiuely and scandalously, and colour his schismaticall designements by a secret perswasie of his desire of peace and vnitie in the Church?

16. Item, whether doth your minister vse alwaies to pray for the Kings Maiesty, the Prince, Clergie, and Counsell, in the forme of Prayer prescribed in the constitutions published in that behalfe, in the yeare of our Lord 1603.

17. Item, whether doth your Minister hold any more Benefices with cure of soules then one, and by what dispensation doth he so retaine them?

18. Item, Whether is your Minister vehemently suspected by common voyce, publike fame, or credible report, to haue obtained his spirituall promotion or benefice with cure of soules by any symoniacal compact, directly or indirectly, or for any lucre or gaine to haue resigned his said Benefice or spirituall promotion?

19. Item, Whether doth your Minister vpon light cause not warrantable by law, and vpon priuate displeasure by him conceiued against any of his Parishioners, repell and debarre any of them from the receiving of the holy communion?

20. Item, whether hath any notorious or knowne fornicator, adulterer, scandalous person or blasphemor of Gods holy name, bene admitted to receiue the holy Communion without publike repentance?

21. Item, Whether doth your Minister reade publike prayers at meete and conuenient houres, and bid holidays and fasting dayes?

22. Item, Whether doth your Minister euery sixe moneths denounce in his Parish Church all such as doe perseuere and continue in the sentence of excommunication, not seeking to be absolved: and whether hath hee admitted into the Church any excommunicate person without certificate of his absolution from the Ordinary, or other competent Judge, vnder their authentical seale?

23. Item, Whether doth your Minister diligently labour and endeauour to reclaime the Popish Recusants in his Parish from their errors, if there be any such there abiding?

24. Item, Whether is your Minister familiar and conuersant with Popish Recusants, or a fauourer of them, and thereby taken not to be sound and sincere in Religion?

25. Item, Whether doth your Minister publicely in the Church vpon the Sabbath day next before his administration of the Sacrament of the Lords Supper, giue knowledge of it to all his Parishioners, that such as intend to communicate may prepare themselves for the receiuing of that blessed Sacrament?

26. Item, Whether is your Minister studious in the holy Scriptures, and abstaineth from mechanical trades, or labour, not befitting his function, and from gaming, swearing, and drunkennesse, or such notorious crimes?

27. Item, Is there any in your Parish who (hauing been admitted unto holy Orders, either Deacon or Priest) doth relinquish and forsake his calling, and liueth in the course of his life as a Laye man?

28. Item, whether hath any Laye man (not in holy Orders) read publique prayers in your Church, or churched any women, or buried any dead person within your parish?

29. Item, whether hath your Minister buried any excommunicate person, not absolved from that censure?

30. Item, Whether hath your Minister with any other persons within your Parish, vsed to meete in any priuate house, or other place, there to confer and consult together, how to impeach or depraue the booke of Common Prayer, or the doctrine or discipline of the Church of England?

31. Item, Whether hath any person being meerely ignorant in the holy Scriptures, not able to render a reason of his faith in Latine, nor hauing a speciall giift of preaching, bene from a manuall trade or artificer, admitted to holy orders, and to administer the Sacraments, and preach the word of God?

32. Item, Whether is there any opposition amongst the preachers vsed publicly in matters of faith and doctrine in their sermons preached: And what Ministers admitted to holy orders be within your Parish, and allowed Preachers, not hauing any pastorall charge or cure committed to them?

33. Item, Whether doth your Minister or Curate in Rogation Weeke, goe in perambulation of the circuite of the Parish, vsing thanksgiuing to God for his blessings according to law?

Tit. 3. Articles concerning Lecturers.

First, Whether doth any person reade any publike Lecture, or expound the holy Scriptures in your Church, Chappell, or Oratorie, he being not in holy orders, and lawfully licensed for a publique Preacher according to the lawes of this Realme?

2. Item, Whether doth euery such Lecturer before his Sermon, or exposition of the Scriptures, reade publique Prayers in his surplice, according to the forme prescribed in the booke of common prayer of this realme, without omission of any part thereof.

3. Item, whether doth your said lecturer before his sermons, vse any other forme of prayer for the whole state of this realme, then that which is prescribed in the constitutions ecclesiasticall, published and confirmed by his Maiesties authority, Anno Domini, 1603.

4. Item, whether doth your said lecturer maintaine any doctrine directly contrary or repugnant to the Articles of Christian faith and religion, published and ratified, Anno Domini 1562.

5. Item, whether is any lecturer admitted to preach in your Church, that is not conformable to the discipline and government ecclesiasticall within the church of England, but schismatically and phantastically affected to nouelties and innouations.

6. Item, whether doth your lecturer or sole preacher, twice at the least, euery yeare in his owne person, read both morning and euening prayer, two severall sundiaes in the parish church where he preacheth, and at those times weare the surplice; and twice euery yeare administer the Sacraments, without omission of any rites or ceremonies, that are prescribed in the booke of common prayer of this realme to be vsed at the administration thereof?

Tit. 4. Articles concerning Matrimony.

First, whether hath any matrimonie beene contracted and solemnized within your parish, betwixt any persons being in consanguinity or affinity within the leuiticall degrees, and by the word of God prohibited.

2. Item, whether hath any matrimony beene solemnized, or rather prophaned, secretly in any priuate house within your parish?

3. Item, whether hath the vncke married his niece, by consanguinity, or affinitie; or hath any person successiuey married two sisters: and who be they that haue contracted such incestuous mariages.

4. Item, whether hath any person two wiues now liuing, or any woman two husbands: and who are so voiced, noted, and reported to be offenders in this behalfe.

5. Item, whether be there any persons coupled together, in matrimony, that liue a part without lawfull diuorce.

6. Item, whether hath any person lawfully diuorced, bene coupled in matrimony, with any other man or woman, during the life of the other person so diuorced?

7. Item, whether haue any matrimonies beene solemnized betwixt any persons being vnder the age of xxi. yeares without their parents or gouernors consent first had and obtained?

8. Item, whether hath any person by license or without, bene married in your church, neither of them at that time dwelling in your parish?

9. Item, whether haue any Popish recusants or their children bene married within your parish; and in what sort were those matrimonies solemnized, when, and by whom?

Tit. 5. Articles concerning the parishioners and others of the Laity.

First, Whether be there any person or persons within your parish, who in your hearing or to your knowledge, haue at any time depraued by word or deede, the forme of common prayer, and administration of the Sacraments of Baptisme and the Lords Supper?

2. Item, whether haue any dwelling within your parish reuiled and abused the Ministers of God's holy Word by contumelious words, and disgraced their lawfull mariages?

3. Item, whether haue any person or persons disorderly behaued themselues, in the Church or Church-yard, by brawling, quarrelling, or fighting?

4. Item, whether be there any abiding within your parish or resorting thereunto as an vsuall parishioner thereof, that refuse to receiue the Sacrament of the Lords supper administered by an vnpreaching minister, and who be they that so doe?

5. Item, whether doe any in your parish prophane the sabboth day by vnlawfull games, drinking, or tipping in the time of common prayer or sermon, or by doing the ordinary workes of their vocations and trades?

6. Item, whether is there any within your parish, that denieth the church of England by law established vnder the king's most excellent Maiesty to be a true and apostolicall church?

7. Item, whether doe any of the inhabitants within your parish, entertain in their howses any sojourners or common guests (other then his or her father or mother wanting other habitation or sufficient maintenance, or the ward of any such person, or any person that shall be committed by authority to the custody of any of them) that be Popish recusants, and refuse to frequent diuine seruice, or receiue the communion, and what be their names?

8. Item, how long haue the said Popish recusants obstinately abstained, either from hearing diuine seruice red, or receiuing the blessed sacrament of the Lords supper, administered in the parish Church?

9. Item, whether is there due reuerence and humble submission vsed within your church or chappell, in the time of diuine seruice as by the xviii. constitution ecclesiasticall of the realme Anno Domini 1603, is prescribed; whether each one in the church or chappell doe apply and order himselfe there in time of diuine seruice, as by the latter part of the same constitution is most commendably enioyned; namely, that no man doe couer his head in the time of diuine seruice, except he haue some infirmity; that all doe kneele vpon their knees, when the confession and other prayers are read; stand vp at the reading of the beleife, and bow their bodies reuerently when Jesus shall be named?

10. Item, whether be there any within your parish that come vpon sabboth daies and holy dayes, and at other times of prayer, to the sermon only, and not to heare diuine seruice; And be there any that do not reuerently stand vp, when Gloria Patri, &c., is read, and at the reading of the Gospell?

11. Item, whether be there any within your parish, that by walking or talking, disquiet your minister in reading of praiers, or in his sermon?

12. Item, Whether be there any in your parish, that doe onely come once a month to their parish Church, to heare diuine prayers red, and never receiue the sacrament of the Lords supper?

13. Item, Whether doth any within your parish, in contempt of his owne minister, repaire to any other Church in time of common prayer to heare the same red, and to receiue the sacrament; and what be there names that be so affected; and the names of the ministers of other churches, that admit those that be not their own parishioners to prayers and sacraments by him or them read and administered?

14. Item, is there any in your parish that be commonly knowne or reputed to be blasphemers of Gods holy name, drunkards, adulterers, fornicators, incestuous persons, or concealers or harbourers of fornicators or adulterers: Haue any been detected for any such notorious crimes, or of the common and publique fame of them, and neuer performed any penance, nor giuen satisfaction to the congregation for the said offences?

15. Item, what persons testate haue died within your Parish since the first of February 1619, and whether be their last wills and Testaments proued, and who be executors of the same?

16. Item, what persons haue died intestate since the time before expressed and who doe administer the goods of the persons so deceased?

17. Item, whether haue any person or persons being duly rated in equall proportion, for the repairing of your Parish Church, or for prouision of bread and wine, for the administration of the blessed Sacrament of the Lords

Supper, or for any other necessary ornaments and vtensils belonging to your Church, that haue or doe refuse to pay that rate, or to giue satisfaction to the Churchwardens in that behalfe, and who bee they that haue offended herein?

Tit. 6. Articles concerning the Church and Church-yard.

First, Whether haue you in your Church, Chappell, or Oratorie, the Booke of Common Prayer by the King's Maiestie confirmed, a Bible of the largest volume, and the last translation, Iewels Apologie of the last edition, with the rest of his Works adioyned, the Bookes of Homilies, Erasmus paraphrase, and the Booke for speciall thanksgiuing with the Statute in that behalfe, for the gracious delinuerance of the whole state of this Realme, from the Gunpowder treason, and haue you the Booke of Canons ecclesiasticall, published Anno Dom. 1603, and all other bookes by Law or Custome vsually to bee had within your said Churches?

2. Item, whether are the Ten Commandments religiously hung vp in a faire Table within your Parish Church, and the Table of the degrees of Matrimony prohibited?

3. Item, whether haue you in your Parish Church one or two Surplisses, and a Hooded faced with Taffaty or Sattin, if your Minister be a Graduate, a Master of Arts, a Batchelor, or Doctor in Diuinity?

4. Item, whether haue you a decent seat for your Minister to reade publike prayers in, a seate nigh vnto him for his Clarke, and a seat for the women that come to giue thanks after their Childebirth, a comely Pulpit, with a Cushion and a Cloth for it, a decent Communion Table, with a Carpet of broad cloth, and a faire linnen cloth, a Communion cup of Silver, and a flagon of silver or Pewter, to be vsed at the Communion?

5. Item, whether haue you a Beare for the carriage of dead bodies to their buriall, a conuenient and decent Font with a couer standing in the accustomed place, and a Register booke in parchment, wherein be duly entred the names of all such as bee baptised, married, and buried?

6. Item, whether haue you one Chest, with three lockes and keys, wherein the Register booke, and other vtensils belonging to your Church be duely kept; And whether haue you one booke in Parchment or Paper, wherein be entred the names of all strangers that come to preach within your Parish, and their licenses therein recorded?

7. Item, whether is your Parish Church, Chappell, or Oratory, in good and sufficient reparations, not prophaned, comely and decently kept, and the seates therein well maintained?

8. Item, whether be there any Pues lately built within your Parish Church, without the authority, consent and approbation of the Ordinary, and who haue so built them?

9. Item, whether haue any Pues bene taken vp which were formerly set in any other Church, and bee transferred to your Church, and there set vp, and by whom, and by what authority?

10. Item, whether is there any Church or Chappell (wherein there be a competent number of people, to the number of ten or aboue dwelling and abiding) prophaned and conuerted to any irreligious vse, by making of it a Barne, Stable, or Granary, and the Parishioners thereof not knownen to resort to any other Church, Chappell, or Oratorie, by lawfull assignation of the Ordinarie?

11. Item, whether be there in your Steeple the vsuall and ancient number of Bells still remaining and hanging; and by whom haue any Bells bene taken out of your Steeple, and to what vse haue they bene conuerted?

12. Item, whether haue there bene kept in your Church any Playes, Feasts, Banquets, Church-ales, drinkings, or any other prophane vsages by laying of Drums or Guns in your Church or Steeple, and discharging them there, and by whose commandement and appointment?

13. Item, whether is your Church-yard well and sufficiently repaired by a comely wall of Stone or Pale; and whether haue you a grate at the entrance into the said Church-yarde, to keepe out Swine, and other noisome beasts?

14. Item, whether be not the Graues and Monuments of the dead broken, and rooted vp by Swine in your said Church-yarde: and whether be not noisome drains and priues made and suffered within the said Church-yard, and vnvsuall dores and passages made into the same?

Tit. 7. Articles concerning Parsonage and Vicarage-houses.

First, Whether be the Houses, Edifices, and Buildings belonging to your Parsonage or Vicaridge well and sufficiently repaired; and whether be any of them ruined, wasted, and dilapidated, and by whose default?

2. Item, whether is the Chancell of your Parish Church ruined, and by whose default is it so decayed?

Tit. 8. Articles concerning Legacies and Bequests giuen to godly vses.

First, Whether be there any Legacies giuen in the last Will and Testament of any person deceased, out of his moueable goods, for the reliefe of the poore, or to the reparations of the Church, or to either of the Uniuersities, Cambridge, or Oxford, or to any Schoole of Learning or Colledge, for the increase of vertue and knowledge, or to any other charitable vse; what be those bequests, and by whom were they giuen?

2. Item, what Legacies giuen to the vses aforesaid, haue bin detained by the executor of any person deceased; and who be they that doe so detaine them?

Tit. 9. Articles concerning Churchwardens.

First, whether be the Church-wardens of your Parish chosen by the Minister and Parishioners, according to the 89 Canon; and whether hath any taken vpon him to bee Churchwarden being not so chosen?

2. Item, Whether haue the Church-wardens bene diligent in the execution of their office, to see decency and comelinesse kept in the Church, in the time of diuine seruice, and at the administration of the Sacraments?

3. Item, whether haue any Church-wardens, detained any of the Church goods in their hands, and not made a iust account of what they haue receiued and expended?

4. Item, whether haue the Church-wardens at euery Communion provided sufficient Bread and Wine for the Communicants, and set the same vpon the Communion Table, in the presence of the minister, before he beginne the administration of the said Sacrament?

Tit. 10. Articles concerning Schoole-masters, Physitions and Chyrurgions

First, Is there any Schoolemaster within your Parish that teacheth publicly or priuately, not licensed by the Bishop of the Diocesse, or his Chancellour, and that so teacheth and commeth not to Church to heare diuine seruice, vpon daies appointed for reading of the same, and receiue the Communion thrice in the yeare at the least: Or doth hee teach any Papists' or Sectaries' children, that come not to Church in time of publicke prayer read?

2. Item, whether doth he instruct his Schollers in the Catechisme set forth in the Booke of Common Prayer of this Realme, and in no other?

3. Item, whether doth any practise Physicke or Chyrurgerie, being not lawfully licensed thereunto; or created Doctor of Physicke, in either of the Uniuersities of this Realme.

4. Item, what ignorant persons haue left their manuell trades, and taken vpon them to professe Physicke or Chyrurgerie, and who be they that so abuse the people?

Tit. 11. Articles concerning Ecclesiasticall Officers.

First, What corporall punishment inioyned for any offence of ecclesiasticall cognizance hath bene commuted by any ecclesiasticall Iudge within this diocess into a pecuniary mulct, or sum of money, and how was the same money employed?

2. Item, Whether is there not a table of fees in euery of the Courts ecclesiasticall within this diocess hung vp in some publique place in the court and Registry, and no other fees taken and receiued by any ecclesiasticall Iudge more or greater then in the said table are expressed.

3. Item, Whether doth any ecclesiasticall Iudge speed any iudiciall acts priuately himselfe, and not in the presence of some publique notary or actuary?

4. Item, what presentments haue bene made for any offence cognizable and punishable in the ecclesiasticall courts within this diocess, and haue bene suppressed by any iudge or register, and by them withdrawne and not effectually proceeded in, according to the lawes ecclesiasticall of this realme?

5. Item, whether doe you know any person inioyned by iudiciall decree or sentence in court to doe publique penance for his sinne, or excommunicate for not doing the same, that doth still by conniuenie or fauour of the Iudge, or Register of that court, where the said penance was inioyned, still continue winked at and vnreformed?

6. Item, What numbers of apparitors be there to your knowledge within the Arch-deaconry wherein you liue; and whether haue any of them vnder colour and pretence of their office and authority committed vnto them, cited or summoned any person vnlawfully; and wrongfully troubled him, or for the concealing of any offence or sinne, and for the auoiding of punishment in the offenders, haue taken any rewarde or guift, or otherwise delt corruptly, and who be they that haue so offended?

7. Lastly, whether haue you without affection of loue or hatred to any person, presented and detected all offenders mentioned in the precedent articles, knowne to be delinquents either in truth, or by their owne confession, or by lawfull prooffe, or by common fame, and report: And whether doe you know any other matter of ecclesiasticall cognizance, worthy the presenting in your iudgement, which is not heeretofore by you presented?

FINIS.

LAUD, BISHOP OF ST. DAVID'S, 1622.

ARTICLES to be inquired of, in the First Visitation of the Right Reuerend Father in God, William L. Bishop of Saint Dauids, in the yeare of our Lord 1622.*

London: printed by John Heuilland, 1622.

The Tenor of the Oath to be ministred to the Church-wardens and Side-men.

You shall sweare, that you, and euery of you, shall duly consider, and diligently enquire, of all and euery of these Articles giuen you in charge; and that all affection, fauour, hatred, hope of reward and gaine, or feare of displeasure, or malice set aside; you shall present all and euery such person, of, or within your Parish, as hath committed any offence, or made any default mentioned in these, or any of these Articles; or which are vehemently suspected or defamed of any such offence or default: Wherein you shall deale vprightly & truly; neither presenting, nor sparing to present any, contrary to truth: hauing in this action God before your eyes, with an earnest zeale to maintaine truth, and to suppress vice. So helpe you God, and the holy Contents of this Booke.

Concerning the Church, the Ornaments thereof, and the Churches possessions.

1. Imprimis, haue you in your seuerall Churches and Chappels, the whole Bible of the largest volume, and latest edition, the Booke of Common Prayer, lately set fourth by his Maiesties authority, both fairely and substantially bound: a Font of Stone, set vp in the auncient vsuall place; a conuenient and decent Communion Table, with a Carpet of Silke or some other decent stuffe, continually laid vpon the Table at the time of Diuine Seruice, and a faire Linnen cloth vpon the same, at the time of the receiuing of the holy Communion? And whether is the same table placed in conuenient sort within the Chancell? and whether is it so vsed out of time of Diuine Seruice,† as is not agreeable to the holy vse of it, and by sitting on it, throwing hats on it, writing on it, or is it abused to other prophaner vses? and are the Ten Commandements‡ set vpon the east end of your Church or Chappell where the people may best see and read them, and other sentences of holy Scripture, written on the walles likewise for that purpose.§

2. Haue you in your said Church or Chappell, a conuenient seat for your Minister to read seruice in; together with a comely pulpit set vp in a conuenient place, with a decent cloth or cushion for the same, a comely large surplice|| a faire Communion cup, with a couer of Siluer, a Flaggon of Siluer, Tinne, or Fewter, to put the Wine in, whereby it may be set vpon the Communion Table, at the time of the blessing and consecrating thereof, reserued and kept decently for that vse only: with all other things & ornaments necessary¶ for the celebration of Diuine Seruice, and administration of the Sacraments?*** and whether haue you a strong Chest for Almes for the poore, with three Lockes and Keies†† and another Chest for keeping the Bookes and Ornaments of the Church: and the Register Booke.‡‡ And whether haue you a Register Booke in Parchment, for Christnings, weddings and Burials, and whether the same be kept in all points, according to the Cannons in that behalfe provided? And whether haue you in your said Church or Chancell, a Table set, of the degrees wherein by Law men are prohibited to marry, set forth by authority in the yeare 1563.

* Altered in MS. to 1625. There are various MSS. corrections throughout by an unknown hand, adapting the articles to a subsequent visitation in that year. All such as are not mere verbal alterations of the simplest kind are subjoined in notes.

† Or in it, MS. ‡ Of Almighty God, MS.

§ And other — purpose.] Erased in MS.

|| clean kept, MS.

¶ & required, MS.

** Haue you a faire paper booke whearin euery preacher (which is a stranger) shall wright his name, the daye he preacheth, & bye whose authority he is licensed? MS.

†† For ye Minister & ye two Churchwardens, MS.

‡‡ Erased in MS.

3. Whether are your Church and chapels, with the Chancels therof, and your Parsonage or Vicarage house, with all other edifices belonging to them, your Parish Almes-house and Church-house, in good reparations. And are they employed to godly, and their right holy vses. Is your Church, chancell, and chappell decently and comely couered and kept, as well within as without, and the seats well maintained, according to the 85 Cannon, in that behalfe provided; Is your Church-yard well fenced, and kept without abuse, and if not, in whose default the same is, and what the defect or fault is: hath any person in-croached vpon the ground of the Church-yard, vsed any thing or place consecrated to holy vse, prophanely or wickedly? or pulled downe or disordred any bells?

4. Whether haue you the Terrier* of a. the Glebe-Lands, Medowes, Gardens, Orchards, Houses, Stockes, Implements, Tenements, and portions of Tithes (whether within your Parish or without) belonging vnto your parsonage or vicarage, taken by the view of honest men in your said parish? And whether the same Terrier be laid vp in the Bishops Registry?† And in whose hands any of them are now, and if you haue no Terrier already made in Parchment, you the Church-wardens and Sidemen, together with your Parson or Vicar, or in his absence, with your Minister, are to make diligent inquiry and presentment of the premises, and make, subscribe, and signe the said Terrier, as aforesaid.‡

Concerning the Ministers. .

1. Is your Church void of an Incumbent, how long hath it bene void, by whose order, and by whome are the fruits gathered.

2. Is Seruice read in your Church or chappell, distinctly, and reuerently, vpon all Sundayes and holy dayes, in such order as is set downe in the Booke of Common Prayer, without alteration or omission, and at due and conuenient houres?

3. Whether doth your Minister distinctly and reuerently say Diuine seruice vpon Sundaies and Holy daies, and other daies, appointed to be obserued by the Booke of Common prayer; as Wednesdayes, and Fridayes, and the eues of euery Sunday and holy day, at fit and vsuall times? and doth your Minister duly obserue the orders, Rites, and Ceremonies, prescribed in the said Booke of Common Prayer, as well in reading publike prayers and the Letany, as also in administering the Sacraments, solemnization of Matrimony, visiting the sicke, burying the dead, Churching of women, and all other like Rites and offices of the Church, in such manner and forme, as in the said booke of Common prayer he is inioyned, without any omission or addition. And doth he reade the Booke of the last cannons once yearely, and§ wear a Surplice according to the said Cannons?

4. Doth your Minister bid Holidiaies and Fasting daies, as by the Booke of common prayer is appointed? And doth hee giue warning beforehand to the Parishioners for the receiuing of the holy Communion, as the two and twentieth Cannon requireth? And whether hee doth administer the holy Communion so often, and at such times, as that euery Parishioner may receiue the same at the least thrice in euery yeare: wherof once at Easter, as by the booke of common prayer is appointed? And doth your Minister receiue the same himselfe, on euery day that he administreth it to others, and vse the words of Institution according to the Booke, at euery time that the Bread and Wine is renewed, accordingly as by the prouiso of the 21 Canon is directed. And doth he deliuer the bread and wine to euery Communicant seuerally? Whether he hath admitted to the holy Communion any Offender or Schismaticke contrary to the 26 and 27 constitutions, or receiued any to the communion, being not of his owne Cure, especially if any so admitted bee excommunicate persons: or put any from the communion, who are not publicly infamous|| for any notorious crime? Doth he vse the signe of the crosse in Baptisme, or baptize in any Bason, or other vessell, and not in the vsuall font, or admit any Father to be God-father to his owne childe, or such which haue not receiued the holy Communion, or baptize any children that were not borne in the parish, or wilfully refuse to baptize any Infant in his parish, being in danger, hauing bene informed of the weaknesse of the said childe: and whether the childe died through his default without baptisme?

5. Whether hath your Minister married any without a Ring, or without Banes published three seuerall Sundaies

* In parchment, MS.

† To be kept, MS.

‡ And in whose — aforesaid.] Erased in MS.

§ And in whose hands — aforesaid. Erased in MS.

|| doth he in the discharge of all these duties, MS.

¶ Or bye presentment of the churchwardens detected, MS.

or Holy dayes in time of diuine seruice, in the seuerall Churches or chappels of their seuerall abode, according to the booke of common Prayer, or in times prohibited, albeit the banes were thrice published, without a Licence or dispensation from the Archbishop, the bishop of the Diocesse, or his Chancellor, first obtained in that behalfe? Or not betwixt the houres of eight and twelue in the forenoone, or haue married any in any priuate house, or if the parties be vnder the age of 21 yeares, before their parents or gouerners haue signified their consent vnto him.

6. Doth he refuse to bury any which ought to be interred in Christian buriall, or defer the same longer then he should, or bury any in Christian buriall, which by the constitutions of the Church of England ought not to be so interred?

7. Is your Minister a Preacher allowed? If yea, then by whom? If not, whether doth hee procure some who are lawfully licensed, to preach monthly amongst you to the least?

8. Doth your Minister, (being licensed) preach vsually according to the Canons, either in his owne Cure, or in some other Church or Chappell neare adioyning, where no Preacher is, and how often hee hath bene negligent in that behalfe, and doth he preach standing, and with his Hat off? Or whether doth hee or his Curate vpon every Sunday, when there is no Sermon, reade an Homily, or some part thereof, according as he ought to doe: or in case he be not licensed to preach, doth he take vpon him to preach or expound the Scriptures in his owne Cure or elsewhere: If so, then you are to present the same, the time and place, when and where he did it.

9. Doth your Minister vse to pray for the Kings* Maiesty, King James and† the Prince, and all their Royall Progeny, with addition of such stile and Titles as are due to his Highnesse,‡ and exhort the people to obedience to his Maiesty, and all Magistrates in authority vnder him?

10. Is your Minister continually resident vpon his Benefice, and how long time hath he bene absent, and in case he be licensed to bee absent, whether doth he cause his Cure to be sufficiently supplied, according to the Canons,§ or in case he hath another Benefice, whether doth he supply his absence by a Curate sufficiently licensed to preach in that Cure where he himselfe is not resident. Or otherwise, in case the smallnesse of the Liuing cannot find a preaching Minister, doth he preach at both his Benefices vsually?

11. Doth your Minister or Curate serue any more Cures then one? If¶ then what other Cure doth he serue, and how far are they distant?

12. Doth your Minister every Sunday and Holiday, before Euening Prayer, for an houre, or halfe an houre at the least, examine and instruct the youth and ignorant persons of his parish in the ten Commandments, Articles of the beleefe, and in the Lords prayer, and the Sacrament, and diligently informe them in the Catechisme set forth in the Booke of Common Prayer?

13. Doth your Minister in the Rogation daies, goe in perambulation of the circuit of the Parish, saying and vsing the Prayers, Suffrages, and thanksgiuing to God appointed by Law, according to his duty, thanking God for his blessings, if there be plenty on the earth; Or otherwise to pray for his grace and fauor, if there be a feare of scarcity?

14. Hath your Minister admitted any woman begotten with child in adultery or fornication, to be churched without license of y<sup>e</sup> ordinary.

15. Hath your Minister or any Preacher, baptized children, churched any woman, or ministred the Holy Communion in any priuate house, otherwise then by Law is allowed?

16. Doth your Minister, being a Preacher, endeavour and labour diligently to reclaime the Popish Recusants in his parish from their errors (if there be any such abiding in your parish). Or whether is your Parson, Vicar, or Curate, ouer-conuersant with or a fauourer of Recusants, whereby he is suspected not to be sincere in Religion?

17. Hath your Minister taken vpon him to appoint any publike or priuate Feasts, Propheties, or exercises, not approved by Law, or publike authority, or hath vsed to meete in any priuate house or place, with any person or persons, there to consult how to impeach or deprave the Booke of Common prayer, or the Doctrine or Discipline of the Church of England, if yea, then you shall present them all.

18. Hath your Minister stayed the publication of any excommunications or suspensions, or doth he every halfe yeare deuounce in his Parish church all such of his parish as are excommunicated, and perseuer therein without seeking to be absolved, or doth he wittingly and willingly keepe company with such as are excommunicated: and hath he admitted into your Church any person excommunicate, without a certificate of his absolution from the Ordinary, or other competent Judge?

19. Doth your Minister carefully looke to the releefe of the poore, and from time to time call vpon his Parishioners to giue somewhat as they can spare, to godly and charitable vses, especially when they make their Testaments?

20. Whether your Ministers or any, hauing taken holy Orders being now silenced or suspended,* or any other person of your knowledge, or as you haue heard, hold any conuenticles, or doth preach in any place, or vse any other forme of Diuine Service then is appointed in the Booke of common Prayer:† If yea then you are to present their names, and with whom.‡

21. Whether is your Curate licensed to serue, by the Bishop of this Diocesse, or by any other, and by whom?

22. Doth your Minister vse such decencie and comeliness in his apparell, as by the 47 Canon is inioyned: and is hee of sober behaiour, and one that doth not vse such bodily labour, as is not seemely for his function and calling?

23. Is your Minister noted or defamed, to haue obtained his benefice or his orders, by Symony, or any other way defamed to bee a Symoniackall person, or any way noted to be a Schismaticke, or schismatically affected, or reputed to be an incontinent person, or doth table or lodge any such in his house: or is he a frequenter of Taverns, Inns, or Ale-houses, or any place suspected for ill rule; or is hee a common Drunkard, a common Gamester, or player at Dice§, a Swearer, or one that applieth himselfe not at his studie, or is otherwise offensive and scandalous to his function or ministry?

24. Doth your Preacher or lecturer read Diuine service, and minister the Sacraments twice a yeare at least in his owne person, according to the Canons? Doth any man read a Lecture in your church that is beneficed out of the Diocesse: Or if he be beneficed in the diocesse, is he by that Lecture kept from his cure?

Schoole-Masters.

25. Doth any in your Parish take vpon him to teach Schooles, publike, or in any house without Licence of the Ordinary, and is he conformable to the Religion now established? And doth he bring his Schollers to the Church, to heare diuine seruice and Sermons, and se that they be orderly there? And doth he instruct his schollers in the grounds of the religion now established in this Church of England, according to the catechisme in the booke of common prayer, and not otherwise. Doe not your Schoolemasters teach by Grammar, or if they do, is it by any other Grammar then that which is set forth by Authority. And is he carefull and diligent to benefit his Schollers in learning? Is himselfe of honest life and conuersation?

Parish Clerkes and Sextons.

Haue you a fit Parish clerke, aged twenty yeares at least, of honest conuersation, able to reade and write? Whether are his and the Sexton's wages paid without fraud, according to the ancient custome of your Parish: if not, then by whom are they so defrauded or denied: By whom are they chosen? and¶ whether the said Clerke be approved by the Ordinary? and hath hee taken an oath as in such cases is fit and required;** and is hee diligent in his Office and seruiceable to the Minister: and doth he take vpon him to meddle with any thing aboue his Office as Churching of women, burying the dead, or such like?

Doth your Clerke or Sexton keepe the Church cleane, the doores locked? Is any thing lost or spoyled in the Church, through his default? Doth he suffer any vnseasonable ringing, or any prophane exercise in your Church? Or doth he (when any is passing out of this life) neglect to tole a Bell hauing notice thereof? Doth he keepe the Communion Table, Font, Bookes, and Ornaments of the Church faire and cleape?

Concerning the Parishioners.

1. Whether any of the Parishioners, being sixteene yeares of age or vpwards, or others lodging or commonly resorting to any house within your Parish, doe wilfully absent themselues from your Parish Church, vpon Sundais or Holidais, at Morning and Euening prayers? Or who come late to Church, and depart from Church, before seruice be done vpon the said daies? Or who doe not reuerently behaue themselues during the time of diuine Service, deuoutly kneeling, when the generall confession of sins,

* Most excellent, MS.

† Erased in MS.

‡ And for Arch Bishops & Bp<sup>s</sup> as bye lawe is appointed, MS.

§ And in the time of his absence make Allowance for the poore, & what that allowance is, MS.

¶ Hee doe, MS.

* Hauing — being.] Erased in MS.

† Or use — prayer.] Erased in MS.

‡ They haue those meetings, MS.

§ Cards or Tables, MS.

¶ This whole article is struck out in MS. and the words "The other booke" are added in the margin.

** And after their choice, MS.

** And hath hee — required.] Erased in MS.

the Letany, the Ten Commandements, and all Prayers and Collects are read, and vsing all due and lowly reuerence when the blessed Name of the Lord IESUS CHRIST is mentioned, and standing vp when the Articles of the Beleefe are read; or who do couer their heads in the Church during the time of diuine service, vnlesse it be in case of necessity, in which case they may weare a night-cap or coyfe*. Or who do giue themselves to babling, talking, or walking, and are not attentiuē to heare the word preached, or read: or reading, or praying during the time aforesaid? Whether any of your Parish being of sixteene yeares of age or upwards, doe not receiue the Holy Communion thrice euery yeare, whereof once at Easter, and whether they doe not deuoutly kneele at the receiuing thereof?

2. Whether any of your Parish doe not send their Children, Seruants, and Apprentizes of either sex, beeing aboute seuen yeares of age, and vnder twenty, to the Minister, to be Catechized vpon such Sundaies and Holidais as are appointed? Or whether any of them doe refuse to come, or if they come, refuse to learne those instructions set forth in the booke of Common Prayer?

3. Whether any of your Parish doe entertaine within their house,† any sojourners, common guests, or other persons, who refuse to frequent Diuine Service, or receiue the holy Communion, as aforesaid. Present their names, their qualities, or conditions.

4. What Recusant Papists or Sectaries are there in your Parish: present their names, qualities or conditions; whether keepe they any Schoolemaster in their house, which commeth not to Church to heare Diuine Service and receiue the Communion? What is his name, and how long hath he taught there, or else-where.

5. Whether any of the said Popish or other sectarie Recusants do labour to seduce and withdraw others from the Religion now established: Or instruct their Families or children in any other Religion: or refuse to entertain any especially in place of greatest seruire, or trust but such as concur with them in their papistry or other|| errors?

6. How long haue the said Recusants, Popish or other, abstained from Diuine Service, or from the Communion as aforesaid?

7. Is there any in your Parish that retaine vndefaced or¶ sell, vtter or disperse any Popish Bookes or writings, or other Bookes, Libels, or writings, of any Sectuaries, touching the Religion, State, or government Ecclesiasticall of this Kingdome of England, or keepe any Ornamentes of superstition vncancelled or defaced.**

8. Whether haue you any in your Parish, which heretofore being Popish Recusants or Sectuaries, haue since reformed themselves, and come to Church to heare diuine seruire, and receiue the Sacraments: If yea, then who they are, And how long since haue they so reformed themselves? and whether they still remaine and abide in that conformity?

9. Is there any in your Parish that refuse to haue their Children Baptized, or themselves to receiue the Communion at the hands of your Minister, taking exception against him, and what causes or exceptions doe they alleadge? or haue any married wiues refused to come to Church, according to the Booke of common Prayer, to giue God thanks after their Child-birth, for their safe deliuerance? And whether doe any of, or in your Parish, refuse to haue their Children baptized in your Parish-Church, according to the forme prescribed in the Booke of Common Prayer?

10. Whether any of your Parish hauing a Preacher to their Parson, Vicar, or Curate, doe absent themselves from his Sermons, and resort to other places to heare other Preachers? Or whether any of your Parish doe communicate, or baptize their Children in any other parish? Or keepe their children longer vn baptized then is conuenient? Or bring strangers into their houses, priuately to baptize them according to their owne fancies?

11. What persons within your Parish, for any offence, contumacy or crime of Ecclesiasticall Conusance doe stand excommunicate? Present their names, and for what cause they are excommunicated, and how long they haue so stood, and what person or persons doe wittingly and vsually keepe them company.

12. Whether any, not being in Orders, doe execute any priestly or ministeriall office, in your Church, Chappell, or Church-yard, and what be their names?

13. Whether any in your Parish, that hauing heretofore taken vpon him the order of Priest-hood or Deacon, hath since relinquished the same, and liues a Lay-man, neglecting his vocation?

14. Hath any person in your Parish, quarrelled, or stricken, or vsed any violence to your Minister, or haue stricken or quarrelled with any other person within your Church, or Church-yard, or demeaned himselfe disorderedly in the Church, by filthy or prophane talke, or any other lewd or immodest behauiour? Or haue disturbed the Minister in time of Diuine Seruire or Sermon, or haue libelled or spoken slanderous words against your Minister, to the scandall of his vocation, or defamed any of his Neighbours, touching any Crime of Ecclesiasticall conusance?

15. Whether any of or in your Parish, without consent of the Ordinary, or other lawfull authority, haue caused any to doe penance, or to be censured or punished for any matter of Ecclesiasticall conusance, by any Vestry meetings, or otherwise by their owne authority? Or haue taken any money or commutation for the same? Present their names that haue done it: And who haue bene so punished? In what manner, and vpon what cause?*

16. Whether any person in your Parish, doe exercise any trade or labour, buy or sell, or keepe open Shops or Warehouses vpon any Sunday or Holiday by themselves, their seruants, or Apprentizes, or haue otherwise prophaned the said daies, contrary to the orders of the Church of England? And whether there be any Inne-keepers, Ale-house-keepers, Victuallers, or other persons that permit any persons in their Houses, to eate, drinke, or play, during the time of Diuine Seruire or Sermon, or reading the Homilies in the forenoone or afternoone, vpon those daies?

17. Whether the fift day of August, and† the fift day of Nouember, be kept holy, and thanksgiuing made to God, for his Maiesties, and this States happy deliuerance according to the ordinance in that behalfe?

18. Whether any of your parish hold or frequent any conuenticles or priuate Congregations‡ or make or maintaine any constitutions, agreed vpon in any such assemblies: Or any that doe write, or publicly or priuately speake against the Booke of Common prayer, or any thing therein contained, or against any of the Articles of Religion agreed vpon in Anno 1562, or against the Kings Supremacie in causes Ecclesiasticall, or against the Oath of Supremacie, or of Alleageance, as pretending the same to be vnlawful, and not warrantable by the Word of God? Or against any of the Rites or Ceremonies of the Church of England now established? Or against the government of the church of England, vnder the Kings most excellent Maestie, by Arch-bishops, Bishops, Deanes, Arch Deanes, and other officers of the same: affirming, that the same is repugnant to the word of God, and that the said Ecclesiasticall Officers are not lawfully ordained? Or whether there be any authors, maintainers, or fauourers of Heresie or Schisme, or that bee suspected to be Anabaptists, Libertines, Brownists, of the family of Loue, or of any other Heresie or Schisme? present their names.§

19. Whether any in your parish haue married within the degrees by Law prohibited? or any couple in your parish being lawfully married, liue apart one from the other, without due separation of the Law, or any that haue bene diuorced, doe marrie againe, or keepe company with any other at Bed or at Boord,|| and when and where were they married?

20. How many Physitians, Chirurgions, or Midwiues haue you in your Parish: How long haue they vsed their seuerall Sciences or Offices, and by what authority? And how haue they demeaned themselves therein, and of what skill are they accounted to be in their profession. And present such Midwiues as are not licensed.

21. Whether do any persons administer the goods of the dead without lawfull authority, or suppress the last will of the dead? Or are there in your Parish any Wils not yet proued, or goods of the dead dying intestate, left vnadministered? By authority in that behalfe, you shall not faile to present the Executors, and all others faultie therein; and also how many persons being possessed of any goods and cattles, haue died within your parish since the first of June, 1620.¶

22. Whether any with-hold the stocke of the Church, or any goods, or other things, giuen to good and charitable vses.

23. Whether your Hospitalls and Almes-houses, and other such houses and corporations, founded to good and charitable vses, and the lands, possessions, and goods of the same, be ordered and disposed of as they should be? And do the Masters, Gouvernours, Fellowes, and others of the said Houses and corporations, behaue and demean

* Present their names—cause.] Erased in MS.

† The Fifth day of Aug. and.] Erased in MS.

‡ Congregations] Meetings, MS.

§ Present their names.] Erased in MS.

|| Or keepe—boord.] Erased in MS.

¶ By authority—1620.] Erased in MS, and the following paragraph added: or any Executors that haue not performed thir Testators will as not payinge the Legacies giuen to the Church, or good vses, as to the relief of pouertye, orphans, poore schollers, poore maydens Marriages, Highwayes, and the like.

* Or coyfe.] Erased in MS. † are not. MS.

‡ Within their house.] Erased in MS.

§ Present — conditions.] Erased in MS.

|| Papistry or other.] Erased in MS.

¶ Undefaced or.] Erased in MS.

** Or keepe — defaced.] Erased in MS.

themselves, according to the godly Ordinances and Statutes of their severall Foundations?

24. Whether have you any in your parish to your knowledge, or by common fame or report, which have committed Adultery, Fornication, or Incest; or any which have impudently bragged or boasted, that he or she have liued incontinently with any person or persons whatsoever; or any that hath attempted the chastitie of any woman, or solicited any woman to have the carnall knowledge of her body, or which are commonly reputed to be common Drunkards, Blasphemers of Gods holy name, common swearers, common Slanderers of their Neighbours, and sowers of discord, filthy and lasciuious Talkers, Usurers, Simoniacall persons, bawds, or Harborers of women with childe which be vnmarrid, or conueying or suffering them to go away before they have made satisfaction to the congregation, or any that hauing heretofore bene presented, or suspected of any the foresaid crimes, have for that cause departed your Parish, and are now returned againe? Or any which have vsed any enchantments, sorceries, incantations or witchcrafts, which are not made felony by the statutes of this Realme,* or any which have committed any perjury in any Ecclesiasticall court, in an Ecclesiasticall cause, or which have committed any forgery punishable by the Ecclesiasticall Lawes, and the procurer and abettors of the said offences: You shall truly present the names of all and singular the said Offenders, and with whom they have committed the said Offences, in case they have not bene publicly punished to your knowledge for the same crimes.

Touching the Church-wardens and Side-men.

1. Whether you and the Church-wardens, Quest-men, or Side-men, from time to time, do and haue done their diligences, in not suffering any idle person to abide either in the Church-yard, or Church-porch, in seruice or sermon time, but causing them either to come into the church to heare diuine seruice, or to depart and not disturb such as be hearers there? And whether haue they, and do you diligently see the Parishioners duly resort to the church euery Sunday and Holyday, and there to remain during diuine seruice and Sermon? And whether you or your predecessors, church-wardens there, suffer any plaies, Feasts, Drinkings, or any other prophane vsages, to be kept in your church, chappell, or church-yards, or haue suffered to your and their vttermost power and endeour, any person or persons to be tipling or drinking in any Inne or victualling House in your parish, during the time of diuine Seruice or Sermon, on Sundaies and Holidiaies.

2. Whether, and how often haue you admitted any to preach within your church or chappell, which was not sufficiently licenced? † And whether you, together with your Minister, haue not taken diligent heed and care, that euery of your parishioners being of sixteen yeares of age or vpwards, haue received thrice euery yeare, as aforesaid: and also that no strangers haue vsually come to your Church, from their owne parish church?

3. Whether haue there bene prouided against euery communion, a sufficient quantity of fine white bread, and of good and wholesome wine for the communicants that shall receiue? And whether that wine be brought in a cleane and sweet standing pot of pewter, or of other purer metall?

4. Whether were you chosen by the consent of the Minister and the parishioners? And haue the late church-wardens given vp a iust account for their time, and deliuered to their Successors the money, and other things belonging to the church, which was in their hands? And are the Almes of the church faithfully distributed to the vse of the poore?

Concerning Ecclesiasticall Magistrates, and Officers.

1. Whether do you know or haue heard of any payment, composition, or agreement, to, or with any Ecclesiasticall Magistrate, Judge, or Officer, for winking at, or sparing to punish any person for any ‡ offence of Ecclesiasticall Conuance, or for suppressing or concealing of any excommunication, or any other Ecclesiasticall censure, of, or against any Recusant or other sectarie, or any other offender in the cases aforesaid? What summe of money or other consideration hath bene received or promised, by, or to any of them, in that respect, by whom, and with whom?

2. Hath any person within your parish, paid or promised any summe of money or other reward, for commutation of penance for any crime of Ecclesiasticall Conuance? If so, then with whom, when and for what, and how hath the same bene employed?

3. Are your Ecclesiasticall Judges and their substitutes, Masters of Arts, or Bachelors of the Lawes at the least §

* Or any charmes? Or which doe resort to anye such for helpe or counsell, MS.

† And how often, MS.

‡ Incest, Adulterye, Fornication, MS.

§ At the least, Erased in MS.

learned and practised in the Civill and Ecclesiasticall Lawes, Men of good life and fame, zealously* affected in Religion, and iust and vpriight in executing their offices? Haue they heard any matter of office priuately in their Chambers, without their sworne Registers, or their Deputies presence?

4. Do you know, or haue you heard, that any ecclesiasticall Judge, Officer, or Minister, hath received or taken any extraordinary Fees, or other rewards or promises, by any wayes or means, directly or indirectly, of any person or persons whatsoever, either for the granting of the administration of the Goods and Chattels of those that haue died intestate to one before another, or for allotting of larger portions of the goods and chattels of those that haue died intestate, to one more then to another: or for allowing large and vnreasonable accounts, made by Executors or Administrators: or for giuing them Quietus est, or discharges, without Inuentory or account, to defraud creditors, Legataries, or those who are to haue portions. And what summes of money do you know, or haue you heard, that any Ecclesiasticall Judge or Officer hath taken out of the state of any dying intestate, vpon pretence to bestow the same in pios vsus: and how haue the same bene bestowed?

5. Hath any Ecclesiasticall Magistrate, Judge, Officer, or any other, exercising Ecclesiasticall iurisdiction within this your Diocesse; or any Aduocate, Register, Procter, Clarke, Apparator, or other Minister belonging to the same Ecclesiasticall courts, exacted or taken by any wayes or meanes, directly or indirectly, extraordinary or greater Fees than are due and accustomed? And whether is there a Table for the rates of all fees, set vp in their severall courts and Offices? And whether haue they sent or suffered any Processe to go out of the Ecclesiasticall courts otherwise then by Law they ought? Or haue they taken vpon them the Office of Informers (sic) Promoters to the said Courts, or any other way abused themselves in their Offices contrary to the Law and canon in that behalfe prouided?

6. What number of Apparators haue euery seuerall Judge Ecclesiasticall? And wherein and in what manner is the Countrey ouerburthened by them? And wherein haue they caused or summoned any to appeare in the said courts, without a presentment or citation first had? Or whether haue they threatened any to prosecute them in the said courts, if they would not giue them some rewards, and what bribes in that behalfe haue they taken.

If you know of any other default or crime of Ecclesiasticall conuance, you are to present the same by vertue of your Oathes.

The Minister of euery Parish, may and ought to ioyne in presentment with the Churchwardens, and side-men, and if they will not present, the minister may and ought himselfe present the defaults and crimes aforesaid: and there must be severall presentments made to euery seuerall article: and the Minister, Church-wardens, and sworne men, are to meeete and confere about the said presentments, and answering of euery of the aforesaid Articles. †

FINIS.

1624.

KENT, ARCHDEACON OF SUDBURY.

ARTICLES for the Church-wardens and Inquirers to ground their presentments vpon, to be exhibited vnder their oathes and hands to Mr. Archdeacon of Sudbury, or his Official, in the Visitation, Ann. Dom. 1624. ‡

The tenor of the Oath to be ministred to the Church-wardens and Questmen.

You shall make diligent inquirie and true presentment of all and euery person of or within your Parish, who hath committed any offence, or made any default in any of these Articles mentioned, or who is vehemently suspected, or publicly defamed of any such offence or default, and this without all partialitie or corrupt affection: So helpe you God by the contents of his holy Gospel.

The answer to euery Article to bee made distinctly and seuerally.

Certaine ARTICLES to which the Churchwardens are charged to make especiall enquire, of which there shall bee speciall account taken.

1. Doth your Minister say or sing Diuine Seruice (according to the prescript forme established by his Maiesties authoritie) distinctly and reuerently, (and that in due time) vpon Sundaies and holidiaies, and in such place of the Church as is fitted for the people to heare? doth he obserue all the Orders, Rites, and Ceremonies prescribed in the Booke of Common Praier, as well in reading of holy Scriptures, as in administration of the Sacraments, without adding or diminishing?

* Well substituted for zealously, in MS.

† This last paragraph is erased in MS.

‡ The figure "4" is inserted in MS.

2. Doth your Minister every Sunday and holiday, for halfe an houre before Evening Praier, catechise the youth and ignorant persons of your parish, in the tenne Commandements, the Articles of the Beliefe, and in the Lords Praier? Doe the Fathers and Mothers, Masters and Mistresses within your parish, cause their children and servants to come to Church at the time aforesaid to be catechised? Set downe in your answer to this Article, such particular Sundaies, in which your Minister hath omitted to catechize, euer since you were Churchwardens and Questmen.

3. Be there in your parish that doe vsually resort to Church to heare the Sermon, but will not, or are not vsually present at the reading of publique Praier, as it is appointed by the booke of Common Praier? Or be there any that doe absent themselues from diuine Seruice or Sermons said or made by the Minister of the Parish, and resort to other Churches to heare other Preachers Sermons?

4. Haue you any common resorters to your Church being not of your parish: or do any such receiue the Communion with you?

5. What strangers haue preached in your Church this last halfe yeare; by whom were they authorized as Preachers? And whether haue they written their names, and the seuerall daies when they preached, and the seuerall names of them, of whom they had their seuerall licenses to preach?

6. Doth your Lecturer or Preacher, (not beeing your Parson or Vicar) reade the diuine seruice himselfe twice every yeare, vpon two seuerall Sundaies, publikely at the vsual times, both forenoone and afternoone in your Church; and doth he twice in euery yeare also administer the Sacraments of Baptisme, and of the Lords Supper, in such forme, and with such rites and ceremonies as is prescribed in the Booke of Common praier: when did you last heare him so reade the diuine seruice?

7. Hath your Minister (be he Parson, Vicar, Lecturer, Preacher, or Curate) or any other Minister, or other, preached or read any Lecture vpon any text of Scripture, in any priuate house within your parish, or doth your Minister or any other vse so to do, or to administer the Communion in any such house?

8. Hath any of your Parishioners received the holy Communion, not kneeling reuerently vpon their knees, but sitting standing, or walking: doth your Parson, Vicar, Preacher, or Curate administer the holy Communion to any person, who doth refuse to receiue it kneeling, or doth not vsually receiue it kneeling?

9. Hath your Minister, or any other in your Church, baptized any child, without signing it with the signe of the Crosse. Hath any child died vnbaptized within your Parish: if so, by whose default?

Articles concerning Religion.

1. Be there any abiding, or resorting to your Parish, that be knowne to defend or maintaine any hereticall or schismaticall opinions, contrary to the holy Scriptures of God: or doe openly or secretly impugne or dislike the publike worship of God, or the rites and ceremonies now established in the Church of England: or doe affirme them to be such as godly men may not (with good conscience) approoue?

2. Be there any in your parish, which doe say or affirme, that in the booke of Common praier, or in the booke of Articles set forth by the Conuocation, Ann. Dom. 1562. or in the booke of the forme of making and consecrating Bishops, Priests, and Deacons, any thing is contained that is corrupt, superstitious, or vnlawfull, or any thing that is repugnant to the holy Scriptures?

3. Be there any Popish Recusants married, the child of any Recusant buried within your Parish, by any other then the Minister of the parish: or doth the child of any Recusant remaine vnbaptized aboue one moneth; or is it not baptized at your Church, being borne in your parish?

Concerning the Church.

1. Is your Church well and sufficiently repaired, are the windowes well glazed, the floares decently paved, seats fit and conuenient, the steeple and bells kept in repaire, are all things in your Church and Chappel in comely sort, without dust or anything that is noysome or vnseemely?

2. Haue you in your Church or Chappell, the booke of Common praier by the Kings Maiestie confirmed, a Bible of the largest volume, and latest translation, the booke of Homilies allowed by authority; the booke of Constitutions or Canons Ecclesiasticall, published by his Hignesse authoritie: a fine large surplesse with sleeues, a coffer with three lockes and three keyes, for the safe keeping of the Register booke, and the like chest (with an hole in the vpper part thereof) for the almes of the poore?

3. Haue you a Register booke in parchement, of them that be christened, married, and buried within your parish? doth your Minister every Sabbath day next after such christening, marriage, or buriall, (in presence of the Churchwardens) therein write the names of the parties, and also the day and yeare of such christening, marriage, and buriall had the weeke before? And doe the Minister and Churchwardens subscribe their names to the end of euery page being full?

4. Is the said Register book laid vp againe after such writing, and kept in a sure chest, vnder three lockes and three keyes? and who doe keep the said keyes?

5. Is your Churchyard well and sufficiently repaired, fenced, and maintained, with walls railles, or pales, as hath been of late yeares accustomed? Or is the fence thereof, or any part of it onely by hedge, and how long hath it been so? haue any built or encroached vpon any part of your Churchyard?

6. Haue any brawled, quarrelled, stricken, or laid violent hand (one vpon an other) in your Church or Churchyard?

7. Haue any annoied your Churchyard, or the fence thereof, by putting in of cattell, by hanging of clothes, or by laying there any straw, dust, dung, rubbish, filth, or otherwise?

8. Is your Chancell (as well for glasing, pauing, and seats, as also for other reparations) and likewise the buildings belonging to your Parsonage, Vicarage, Almes-house, Church-house, or Vestrie, in good and sufficient repaire? Or be they ruined, wasted, gone, or decayed? if so, specifie the decayes?

9. Are the same houses, and likewise your parsonage and vicaradge houses imploied to such vse and vses as they ought to be: or otherwise vsurped and abused?

10. Doe any refuse or delay to pay their church-duties, or leuies rated towards the repaire, or ornaments, or other charges of your church or churchyard?

11. Haue you at any time in your Church, Chappel, or churchyard, any plaies, gaming at bowles, handball, or foot-ball, or any other playing: or any feasts, church-ales, temporall courts, Leets, musters, or any other prophane vsage there, and by whom?

Concerning Ministers and Preachers of Gods holy word, and Schoolmasters.

1. Is your Parson, Vicar, Curate, or Preacher, an incontinent person, or doth he keep any suspected woman in his house, or is he given to drunkennesse, or idleness: A haunter of tauernes, alehouses, or suspected places; or one that doth board or lodge in any such place? A dicer, carder, tabler, swearer, giuen to base or seruile labour; or otherwise giueth he any euill example of life? Is his apparell graue and comely, beeseeming his function and calling?

2. Doth your Minister say or sing the Letanie, in your parish Church, vpon Wednesdaies and Fridaies, causing a bell to be tolled thereunto? Doth hee declare to the people openly in the Church, on the Sabbath day, what holidiaies and fasting daies be in the weeke following? Hath he openly in the church vpon some Sundaies or holidiaies before diuine seruice, read the whole book of Canons, published by his Hignesse authoritie, within this yeare last past?

3. Is your Parson or Vicar resident vpon his benefice? if not, then haue you a sufficient Curate? and is he lawfully admitted to holy orders, and licensed by the Ordinary vnder his hand and seal, to serue the cure in that place? and haue yee seene such license?

4. Is your Minister diligent to execute his office, by reading of the holy Scriptures: is he a licensed Preacher, and therefore doth preach once euery Sunday: or is he no licensed Preacher, and therefore doth procure sermons in his cure euery moneth? and when there is no sermon, doth he read one of the Homilies appointed by authority?

5. Hath your Minister (be he Parson, Vicar, Lecturer, Preacher, or Curate) or any other persons met together in any priuate house or elsewhere, to consult vpon any course to be taken by them or any other, which may tend to the impeaching or deprauing of the doctrine of the Church of England, or of the booke of common praier, or of any part of the gouernement or discipline Ecclesiasticall now established in the said Church?

6. Doth your Minister, before his sermon, lecture, or homilie, pray for his Maiesty, giving him his lawfull title and iust style, and commend his Hignesse, the Prince, and the Kings royall issue, in his praier to Almighty God?

7. Doth your Minister in time of diuine seruice, or ministring the Sacraments, weare a decent and a comely surplice with sleeues, and vpon it (and if he be a graduate) an hood sutable to his degree in the Vniuersity?

8. Doth he performe his duty, in visiting the sicke, and burying of the dead, doth he not delay to christen any child according to the forme appointed by the booke of Common praier?

9. Doth he keepe a note of euery excommunication, and doth he euery sixe moneths openly denounce in his parish-church, euery such person of his parish as doth perseuer in that Censure, not seeking to be absolved? and is any such person admitted into the Church, without a sufficient certificate of his absolution?

10. Was your accustomed perambulation made and obserued by your Minister, with the better sort of your parishioners in rogation weeke last past: if not, by whose fault was it neglected? and when was it last obserued and gone?

11. Haue you in your parish any that teach schollers publicly or priuately? is he licenced by the Ordinary vnder his hand and seale? doth he frequent his parish church with his schollers in time of common praier and sermon, and instruct them in the Principles of Religion; doth he teach, or is he suspected to teach any of his schollers Popery, superstition, disobedience, or contempt of the truth and Christian religion now established within this Realme, or to contemne Orders Ecclesiasticall?

Concerning the Sabbath, diuine seruice, prayer, and Sacraments.

1. Haue your people obserued the Sabbath day in all sobernes and godly conuersation? or be there any which haue prophaned the same, by playing at cards, tables, football, dancing, bowling, excessive ringing, immoderate drinking, or other foolish delight or vaine pleasure?

2. Do all and singular dwellers and sojourners, within your parish, diligently resort to your parish church (with their seruants and children) to morning and euening praier, vpon the Sunday and holy-day, and there (with due attention) orderly abide during the whole time of common praier, seruice, and sermon, reuerently behauing themselves as well inwardly as also by outward gesture of their bodies, in keeping their heads vncovered, in kneeling, standing, and other decent behauiour?

3. Hath euery one in your parish (beeing aboue sixteene yeares of age, and of discretion) receiued the holy communion at your parish church, thrice at least this last yeare, and especially at or about Easter for once, kneeling and with such due and humble reuerence, as become true Christians? and doth your Minister so often celebrate the communion, that euery one may so receiue thrice in the yeare? hath any refused to receiue the holy communion kneeling?

4. Doe the Church-wardens (with the aduice of the Minister) provide bread and wine for the communicants, and is the wine brought in a faire pot or stoupe of pewter or purer mettall?

5. Hath your Minister admitted to the holy communion any notorious euill liuer, adulterer, fornicatour, common drunkard, periured or malicious person, before they be reconciled by the Ordinary, or any church-wardens which (without regard of their oath) haue wilfully omitted to present notorious defects or offences: or hath he put back any parishioners from the communion of malice, or for any light or friuolous occasion?

Concerning Churchwardens, Questmen, and Parish Clarke.

1. Be your Churchwardens and Questmen chosen yearely in Easter weeke according to the Canon: and did the last Churchwardens (at the end of their yeare, or within a moneth after) giue a true account before the Minister and parishioners, of such money and things as they receiued and expended, and did they deliuer the residue to those that now are churchwardens?

2. Haue any churchwardens lost, sold, or detained any ornaments, bells, or implements of the Church, or any legacies bequeathed thereunto?

3. Doe you that now are churchwardens and questmen, see that all persons excommunicate be kept out of the Church: and did your predecessors so for their time?

4. Haue you a parish Clarke sufficient for his place, aged 20 yeares, and of honest conuersation: can he write and read: is he chosen by your minister, and dutifull to him in his office: doe any refuse to pay and allow to the Clarke and Sexten, accustomed wages and duties?

Concerning Matrimonie.

1. Haue you the tables of degrees of kined and alliance within which matrimonie is prohibited, set vp in some open place in your Church, and hath any married contrary to the same?

2. Haue any persons bene married either secretly in any priuate house, or openly in the Church, within the times prohibited: or without sufficient licence, or banes thrice published in time of diuine seruice, three seuerall Sundaies or holydaies before the congregation: who were present at such marriage, and what Minister did marrie them?

3. Be there any couples in your parish, which beeing lawfully married, doe liue a sunder without lawfull separation: or any separated, which (both beeing alie) doe marrie againe?

Concerning the Parishioners and Laitie.

1. Haue you any, which (to your knowledge, or by common fame) haue committed incest, adulterie, or fornication: either any malicious and vncharitable persons, bawdes, common drunkards, vsurers, brawlers, slanderers, swearers, cursers, blasphemers, common scolds, ribawds, periured persons or such like?

2. Haue any conueied, receiued, or harboured any light or leud women, or any vnlawfully begotten with child, or vehemently suspected thereof, and haue suffered them to depart before they haue performed penance enioyned by the Ordinary?

3. Be there any in your parish which liued incontinently, or any woman vnlawfully begotten with child before their marriage: or which be thereof vehemently suspected?

4. Haue any vnreuerently abused your Minister, or laid violent hands vpon him, or otherwise disgraced his office and calling by word or deede?

5. Haue any miscalled or railed vpon any of the church-wardens or questmen, for doing of their duties according to their oathes?

6. Doe ye know or heare of any, which (without authoritie) doe administer the goods of the dead, or conceale any testament, or neglect to pay legacies bequeathed to the Church, or poore, or to the repaire of high waies, or to other charitable vses?

7. Haue any Innekeepers, alewives, victualers, or tiplers receiued, harboured, or suffered any persons to eate, drinke, stay or play in their houses, in time of common praier, sermon or homily, on Sundaies or holy daies: and what persons were so receiued, harboured, or suffered?

8. Haue any laboured, wrought, or gone to cart on the Sunday or holy-day? and haue any artificers or other set open their shop windowes, or vsed their trade or any manuell occupation vpon any of those daies: and hath any mill bene set to grinde vpon the Sabbath day, or any other holy-dae?

9. Doe you know or heare by common fame, of any other matter (to be presented) belonging vnto the Ecclesiasticall Iurisdiction, although not in these Articles contained?

The Minister (bee he Parson, Vicar, Lecturer, Preacher, or Curate) may ioyn with the sworn-men in their presentments, and he is to informe the Ordinarie vnder his hand, of such faults as the Sworne men shall leaue vnpresented. It is lafull for the Minister alone, or for the sworne Officers, to present as often as occasion requireth; and it is meete that notorious offences, should in due time be presented and punished.

ANDREWES, BISHOP OF WINCHESTER. 1625.

ARTICLES to be enquired of by the Church-wardens and Sworne-men, in the Trienniall Visitation of the Right Reuerend Father in God, LANGLIOT, Lord Bishop of Winton, within the Diocese of Winchester, Anno 1625.

London: Imprinted Anno supradicto.

The Tenor of the Oath of the Church-wardens and Sworne-men.

You shall sweare, that vpon due consideration of these Articles giuen you in charge, you shall present euery such person of or within your Parish, as you shall knowe to haue committed any offence, or omitted any duty mentioned in any of these Articles, or which are publicly defamed, or vehemently suspected of any such offence or negligence. So help you God by the contents of his holy Gospell.

ARTICLES

Touching the Church.

Whether is the body of the Church, and the Chancell thereof in good reparations, decently kept, as well within as without, the roofes so that it raine not in, the windowes well glazed, the floores plaine and euē paved, the pewes and seates orderly set, well maintained, cleane and sweet kept, without dust or any thing noysome or vnseemly? And whether is there any striving or contention for sitting in pewes? And by whom? Whether is there any new pewes erected in places where none were before, or old altered? By whom and by what authority? Is there a partition between the body of the Church and the Chancell, and, if not, when and by whom, and by what authority was it taken downe? Is the steeple in good repaire, and the ancient number of Bells still kept without diminishing? If not, what is the defect, and by whose default is it?

2. Whether haue you in your Church the whole Bible of the largest volume, the booke of common-Prayer, two Psalters, the book of Constitutions and Canons, all fairely and substantially bound?

3. Whether haue you a comely large Surplice with wide and long sleeues, and what it costs by the yard? a higher Pulpit for preaching, a lower to say Seruice in, a Font of stone with a couer, set in the ancient vsual place, a decent Table for the Communion, and what is it worth to be prized? Whether is the Communion-Table abused by sitting on it, throwing hats on it, writing on it, or otherwise, as is not agreeable to the holy vse of it? Haue you a Carpet of silke or other decent stuffe continually lying on it in the time of diuine Seruice, with a faire linnen cloth at the time of Communion, and what might either of them be worth? Haue you a faire Communion-Cup of Siluer, with a large cover of siluer to deliaer the bread? and a Flagon of siluer or tin for the wine to be set on the Communion-Table?

4. And whether haue you a registrar book of parchment for Christings, Mariages and Burialls? And whether is the same kept in all points according to the Canons in that behalfe prouided? Another book wherein strange Preachers are to subscribe their names, and the name of the Bishop by whom they were licensed? A Chest as well for keeping the bookes and ornaments of the Church, as the said registrar? Another strong Chest with a hole in the lid for the Almes, with three locks and keyes, one for the Minister, the other two for the Church-wardens? A Table set of the degrees wherein, by law, men and weomen are prohibited to marry?

5. Whether haue any Bells, Ornaments or other Vtensills, anciently belonging to your Church, been aliened, and by whom?

6. Whether is your Churchyard well fenced with walls, pales, and railes, as hath been accustomed, and kept without abuse? And, if not, by whose default?

7. Whether hath any person encroched upon the ground of the Churchyard? And if any, who it is? Or haue your Ministers, Church-wardens and Parishioners jointly, or seuerally, made any lease or leases for tearm of yeares, or otherwise, of your Church-yard, or any part thereof? And whether haue any trees therein growing been felled, and, by whom?

8. Whether hath there been any quarrelling, or striking, brawling, or reuiling; and Playes, temporall Courts, Leets, Lay-Juries, Musters, or other prophane vsages in your Church or Churchyard?

9. Whether is the mansion-house of your Parson, Vicar, or Minister, with all the housing thereunto belonging, well and sufficiently repayed? And whether haue you any Almes-house, or Church-house in your parish, and they well maintained, and employed to those godly vses whereto they were intended?

10. Whether is your Church full, or vacant of an Incumbent? If vacant, who receiueth the fruits thereof, and who serueth the Cure, and by what authority? And whether is it a Parsonage, Vicarage, or Donatiue, or Appropriation?

11. Whether haue you a Terrier, or any ancient true note of all the Glebes, Grounds, and Portions of Tithes, to your Parsonage or Vicarage belonging, taken by the view of honest men of your parish? And in whose hands is it? And whether is there a copy thereof laid vp in the Bishops registry? If none such be made, you the Church-wardens and Sidemen together with your Parson, Vicar, or Minister, are to make diligent enquiry of the premisses, as they are knowne by metes, bounds and inclosures; And to make signe, and bring in the said Terrier at the time of this your presentment, or within a time after to be prefixed?

12. Whether hath there not any of the said Glebe, or other Grounds thereto belonging, been concealed, aliened, exchanged, or by collusion recouered or gotten from the Incumbent?

13. Whether be any of the profits, tithes or other commodities Ecclesiasticall taken and conuerted to the vse and benefite of Patrons, or such as pretend themselues so to be, and by them receiued and deteyned? And how long haue they been so deteyned to your knowledge?

Touching Ministers, Seruice, and Sacraments.

Whether is your Parson, Vicar or Minister, a Graduate of one of the Vniuersities, or not? And if yea, of what degree? was he admitted into holy Orders by any corrupt means of gift or promise? Or came hee to his Benefice by any compact for money, or for releasing the Patrons, or any others tithes, directly, or indirectly, as you haue credibly heard? Is he a Preacher licensed? And if so, by whom?

2. Whether hath he more benefices than one? If he haue, what is his other benefice, and how far distant? How often and how long is he absent in the yeare? When he is absent, hath he an allowed Preacher for his Curate?

3. Whether is his Curate allowed by the Ordinary vnder his hand and seale? Whether doth he serue two Cures in one day? What is his Curates name, and how long hath he been Curate? And who was your Curate before, and what is become of him?

4. Whether doth your Minister, being no Preacher allowed, presume to expound the Scripture, in his owne Cure, or elsewhere? And being no Preacher, whether doth he procure a Sermon euery moneth in his Cure, by Preachers licensed? Or in default thereof, reads some of the Homilies prescribed?

5. Whether doth your Minister, euery Sunday and Holiday, halfe an houre before euening prayer, examine and instruct the youth of the Parish in the ten Commandements, the Beliefe, the Lords Prayer, and the Catechisme set forth in the booke of Common-Prayer?

6. Whether doth he distinctly and reuerently euery Sunday and Holiday, and on their Eues, and other daies appointed by the booke of Common-Prayer (as on Wednesdayes and Frydaies), say and celebrate diuine Seruice both morning and euening, at fit and vsual times on those dayes?

7. Whether doth he obserue the Orders, Rites, and Ceremonies prescribed in the booke of Common-Prayer, in reading publick Praiers and the Letanie, in administering the Sacraments of Baptisme, and the Lords Supper, in solemnizing matrimony, in visiting the sick, burying the dead, churching of weomen, in such manner and forme as in the said booke is enjoyned, without omission or admission?

8. Whether doth he in the time of diuine Seruice, wear a Surplice both morning and euening; and neuer omit the same in ministering the Sacraments and other Rites of the Church?

9. Whether doth he, in regard of Preaching, diminish diuine Seruice or Praier, that the Creed bee not said, and the Commandements read euery Sunday, whereby the Parishioners may lose the knowledge of them both, which it most of all concernes them to know?

10. Whether doth he bid Holidayes and Fasting dayes, as by the booke of common Prayers is prescribed?

11. Whether doth he baptize any in a priuate house, but in case of necessitie?

12. Whether doth he refuse to baptize any Infant in his Parish, hauing bene informed of the weakenesse of the said child? And whether the child through his default dyed without baptisme?

13. Whether doth he vse the signe of the Crosse in Baptisme, or baptize any child in a bason or other vessell, and not in the vsual Font?

14. Whether doth he baptize any that were not borne in the Parish?

15. Whether doth he admit any father to be Godfather to his owne child? Or any that haue not receiued the holy Communion?

16. Whether doth your Minister, before the seuerall times of the administration of the Lords Supper, admonish and exhort his parishioners, if they haue their consciences troubled and disquieted, to resort vnto him, or some other learned Minister, and open his grieffe, that he may receiue such ghostly counsaile and comfort, as his conscience may be relieued, and by the Minister he may receiue the benefite of absolution, to the quiet of his conscience, and auoyding of scruple? And if any man confesse his secret and hidden sinnes, being sicke or whole to the Minister, for the vnburthening of his conscience, and receiuing such spirituall consolation: doth or hath the said Minister at any time reuealed and made knowne to any person whatsoever, any crime or offence so committed to his trust and secrecy, contrary to the 113. Canon?

17. Whether doth hee giue warning, the Sunday before, to his Parishioners, that they may prepare themselves for the Communion the Sunday following?

18. Whether doth he administer so oft, as that euery Parishioner may receiue the Communion, thrice, at least, euery yeer, whereof Easter to be one?

19. Whether hath hee debarred any of his Parish from the holy Communion, who are not publicly infamous for some notorious crime?

20. Whether doth hee receiue to the holy Communion any beeing not of his owne Cure, but comming from other Parishes?

21. Whether doth he receiue the holy Communion himselfe first, kneeling? or deliuer it to any other, but such as kneele? or to any that refuse to be present at publick prayers?

22. Whether doth he vse the words of Institution euery time that the bread and wine is receiued?

23. Whether doth he deliuer the bread and wine to euery Communicant seuerally?

24. Whether hath hee married any without a Ring? or without Banes published three seuerall Sundaies or Holi-daies in time of diuine Seruice, in the seuerall Churches or Chappels of their seuerall abodes? or, in times prohibited, without a License first obtained from the Bishop or his Chancellor? or before the houre of eight, or after the houre of twelue in the forenoocn? or in any priuate house? or married any vnder the age of xxi. yeeres, before the consent of their Parents or Governours first to him signified?

25. Whether doth your Minister (hauing notice giuen him) visit the sick diligently (the disease not being infectious)? Doth he instruct and comfort them? Doth he moue them to make their Testaments, and to remember the poor, and other works of charity.

26. Doth he refuse to bury any, who ought to be interred in Christian buriall? or deferre the same longer than he should? or bury any in Christian buriall that, by the Canons of the Church, ought not so to be buried?

27. Doth your Minister, carefully look to the reliefe of the poore, and from time to time call vpon his Parishioners to giue somewhat according to their ability?

28. Whether doth your Minister, being a Preacher, conferre with all Recusants, or persons excommunicate or suspended; and, beeing no Preacher, procure a sufficient Preacher to reclaime them?

29. Whether doth he keep a note of persons excommunicate, and denounce them once a month on some Sunday in Seruice time?

30. Whether doth he hold or appoint any Fasts, Prophesies, or Exercises, or hath been present at any?

31. Whether hath there been any Conuenticles or Meetings by any Ministers now silenced or suspended, or others in any priuate house, to depraue the Book of Common Prayer, or the doctrine and discipline of the Church of England, or to vse any other forme than is therein appointed?

32. Whether doth your Minister vse decency or comelinesse in apparell, and weare a cloke with sleeues (called a Priests cloke) in his going abroad?

33. Whether doth he boord or lodge in any Tauerne or Ale-house, or resort thither commonly? or vse any base or seruile labour, not seemly for his calling? or any dice, cards, tables, or other vnlawfull games? Is he one that plies not his study, a hunter, hawker, dancer, swearer, vsurer, or suspected of incontinency, or any waies offensive or scandalous to his function or Ministry?

34. Whether doth he admit any woman gotten with childe out of matrimony, to be churched without licence?

35. Whether doth he baptize any in priuate houses (but in case of necessity) or church any woman, or minister the Communion to any persons?

36. Whether doth he goe in perambulation in the Rogation week, vsing the prayers and thanksgiuing to God for his blessings, or otherwise entreat his grace and fauour, if there be feare of scarsity?

37. Whether is there in your parish any Minister or Deacon that hath forsaken his calling, or that vseth himselfe in his course of life as a Gentleman or a Lay-man?

Touching Schoolemasters.

Is there in your Parish any Schoolemaster who teacheth in a publick Schoole, or any other which teacheth in priuate houses? Haue they the licence of the Bishop?

2. Are they conformable to the sound Religion now established, and receiue the holy Communion? Doe they bring their Scholars to Church to heare Diuine Seruice and Sermon? Are they diligent to benefit their Scholars in learning? Doe they instruct their Scholars in the grounds of Religion, in the Catechisme contayned in the Booke of Common prayer, once euery week, or teach any other Catechismes besides, or reade vnto them priuately any vnlawfull bookes?

3. Doe they teach children in any Papists or Sectaries house that come not to Church? what are their names, and how long haue they so taught?

Touching Physicians and Surgeons.

Haue you any in your Parish that practice Physicke or Surgery not being a Doctor in either of the Vniuersities, or otherwise licensed? Or that haue left their trade, and taking vpon them to professe Physick or Surgery, abuse the people?

Touching the Clerke and Sexton.

Haue you a fit Parish-Clerke aged twenty yeeres at least, able to read, write and sing? Is he seruiceable to the Minister, not giuen to drinke or any other vice? Doth he meddle with any thing about his office, as to church weomen, read Prayers, bury the dead, or such like?

2. Doth he or the Sexton, keep the Church cleane, and the doores lockt? Is any thing of the Church spoiled or lost by his default, or any prophane exercises in your Church?

3. Doth he neglect to toll a Bell, when any person is passing out of this life?

4. Are the Clerke and Sextons wages duly paid vnto them without fraud, as hath been accustomed?

Touching the Parishioners.

Are there abiding or resorting to your Parish, any that defend any Heresies, contrary to the faith of Christ and true Religion?

2. Do any of your Parish, or that sojournes therein by the space of a month, being sixteen yeeres of age or vppward, neglect to resort to your Church on Sundaies and Holi-daies, at morning and eueing Prayer?

3. Are there any noted to come late, or to depart before Seruice be done?

4. Are there any that perswade others to forbear comming to Church, or to receiue the Communion in such wise as is appointed by the booke of common-Prayer?

5. Are there any that depraue or speake against the government of now (sic) established in the Church? Or separate themselves from the societie of the Congregation, and combine themselves with a new Brotherhood?

6. Are there any that sell or disperse any forbidden bookes or libells of any Sectaries, touching the religion or government of the Church?

7. Doe any of the Parish mis-spend or prophane the Lords day, Sunday, or any Holy-day, vsing any worldly labour, or exercising their trades, or any offensive games vpon any of those dayes?

8. Are there any that do not reuerently behaue themselves during the time of diuine Seruice, deuoutly kneeling when the confession of sinnes, the Letanie, the ten Commandments, and other Prayers and Collects are read? and vsing all due and lowly reuerence, when the blessed Name of our Lord Jesus Christ is mentioned? and standing vp when the Articles of the Beleeef and the Gospell are read? or that couer their heads in the time of diuine Seruice; vnlesse it be in case of necessity, wherein a night-cap or coif is allowed? or that giue themselves to walk or babble, and be not attentiu during the time of praiers, or the Word read or preached? or that kneele not deuoutly at their receiuing of the Communion? or that receiue it not thrice euery yeere, whereof once at Easter?

9. Whether any of your Parishioners send not their children and seruants to be catechized on Sundaies and Holy-daies? or whether such children and seruants, being sent, refuse to come? or being come, refuse to learne and be instructed in the same?

10. Whether haue there been any persons married together within the degrees of consanguinity or affinity prohibited, set forth in a Table, appointed to be placed in euery Church?

11. Whether haue any being married, in the times wherein marriage is by Law restrained, without lawfull license?

12. Whether haue any been married in priuate houses; or any knowne or suspected to haue been married by any Popish Priest: Or in any other order then is appointed by the Church of England?

13. Whether haue any persons, once lawfully married, forsaken each other, or doe liue asunder, without a sentence giuen by the Ordinarie? Or doe any being diuorced or separated, marry againe, the former wife or husband yet liuing?

14. Whether haue all weomen in your Parish deliuered of child, come, at conuenient time after, to giue thanks? And haue they bene churched according to the forme of the booke of common-Praier?

15. Whether doe any in your Parish refuse to haue their children baptized; or to receiue the Communion of your Minister because hee is no Preacher?

16. Whether doe any bring strange Ministers into their owne houses, to baptize their children priuately, according to their own phansies? Or receiue any child or children borne elsewhere, to be baptized in your Parish? If so, who were they that receiued any such, and whose child or children were so baptized, and what was the name of the child, and who baptized it? And whether doe you know of your owne knowledge, that the Parents of such child or children were married together? And where, when, and by whom?

17. Whether haue any in your parish bin christned, churched, buried, or receiued the Communion, out of your parish-Church, or bin married out of your Church (one or both parties not dwelling in your parish)?

18. Whether haue you any common resorters to your Church which are not of your Parish? Or doe any such receiue the Communion amongst you? what be their names, and of what Parishes are they?

19. Whether haue you in your Parish any Popish Recusants, of insolent behaiour, or that doe boldly busie themselues in seducing others, either abroad, or in their owne families, by instructing their children in Popish religion; or refusing to entertaine any (especially into place of trust) but such as concurre with them in opinion: And what be their names that so doe?

20. How long haue the said Recusants abstained from diuine Seruice, or the holy Communion?

21. Whether bee any such Recusants married, or their children christened, or any of them buried, by any other then your Minister? Where, when, and by whom? And what certificate haue you receiued thereof? And whether hath any of their children remained vn baptized, about one month, or hath not been baptized in your Parish Church? You shall present how the children of such as refuse to come to Church, are brought vp? how many children they haue? vnder what Schoolmaister or Tutor? Where and in what schoole? And what those childrens names are?

22. Whether hath any person suspended or excommunicated, been suffered to heare diuine Seruice, or the Sermon, to receiue the Sacraments, to be married or churched? Or haue any, dying excommunicate, been buried in Christian buriall?

23. Whether hath any of your Parish vnreuerently vsed your Minister, or laid violent hands vpon him? Or disgraced his office and calling, by word or deed?

24. Whether are there in your Parish any Adulterers, Fornicators, Incestuous persons, Bawdes, Receiuers, close Fauourers, Conueyers away or which suffer to depart any incontinent person unpunished: Any Blasphemers, common Swearers, Ribawdes, Drunkards, Vsurers, malicious Slanderers, Scolds, or Sowers of discord, or any defamed of the said crimes?

25. Whether haue the said Parties offending in, or suspected of Fornication, Adulterie, Incest, or keeping of a Bawdy-house, or any other Ecclesiasticall crime, been presented since the last Visitation? And haue they, being presented, done publicke penance for the offence? If not, what are their names, and what was the offence? What Parish were they then, or are they now of?

26. Whether haue any person or persons suspected or detected of incontinency, and therefore departing, returned againe to your Parish? In what place are they now abiding, as you know, or haue heard? Or haue they done any penance? And what penance?

27. Whether is there any in your Parish that hath vsed Sorcerie or Witchcraft, or been suspected of the same? Or that hath vsed any Charmes or vnlawfull Prayers? Or is there any that haue resorted to any Sorcerers, or Witches for helpe and counsell? And what are the names both of such as vse it, and of such as resort to them?

28. Whether are there in your parish any Wills not yet proued or goods of the dead dying intestate left vnadministred, neyther of both being proued or administred by the authority of the Ordinarie? and whether do any administer the goods of any person deceased without authority, or suppress their Will or Testament? or hath any Executor neglected to performe their Wills, especially in paying of Legacies giuen to the Church, to the poore, or to any other charitable or godly vses?

29. Whether doe any refuse to pay to the reparations, ornaments, and other things required in your Church, as they are sessed by a lawfull Vestry? or any other dwelling out of your parish, which hold land in your parish?

30. Whether haue any in your Parish giuen the Church-wardens or Sidemen, or any of them euill words for doing their duty, according to their oath and conscience, in making presentment for any fault?

Touching the Church-wardens.

Whether do any in your Parish take vpon them to be Church-warden or Sideman, which are not lawfully chosen by the Minister and Parishioners, according to the Canon; or do any continue that office longer than one yeer, except they be chosen againe; and are all such officers chosen yeerly in Easter week?

2. Whether do your Church-wardens, within one month at the most after their yeer ended, before the Minister and Parishioners, giue vp a iust account of all such money and other things as they haue receiued and bestowed? haue they deliuered all remaining in their hands belonging to their Church or Parish, by Bill indented, to the next Church-wardens?

3. Whether haue the Church-wardens, with the aduice of the Minister, from time to time provided a sufficient quantity of fine white bread, and wholesome wine, for the number of Communicants?

4. Whether do the Church-wardens and Sworn-men, before euery Visitation, and at other times when there is iust occasion, meet and conferre about their Presentments, and the answering of these Articles; and who hath (after notice giuen him of the time and place) carelesly absented himself?

5. Whether is the forfeiture of twelve pence for absence from Church, appointed by Statute for the vse of the poore, taken and leuiued by the Church-wardens, and employed according to the said Statute: and whether is the same forfeiture taken of all persons which stand wilfully suspended or excommunicated?

6. Whether haue any Church-wardens lost, sold, or detayned any goods, ornaments, Bels, Belfry, rents, or implements of the Church?

7. Whether do the Church-wardens and Sidemen, about the middest of diuine Seruice, vsually walk out of the Church, and see who are abroad in any Ale-house, or elsewhere absent, or euill employed: and whether haue they presented all such to the Ordinarie?

8. Whether do you know or haue heard a fame of any offense committed, or duty omitted by any of your Parish, before your time, and heertofore not presented to the Ordinarie, or as yet not reformed; and whether haue you presented the same?

Touching Ecclesiasticall Officers.

Whether doe you know or haue heard of any payment, composition, or agreement, to or with the Chancellor, Register, or other inferior Officers Ecclesiasticall, for suppressing or concealing of any excommunication, or other Ecclesiasticall censure, of or against Recusants, or any other Offenders? Or for not certifying of Recusants to the Ordinarie, or for not seruing of Processe without a summe of mony or other consideration receiued, or promised to any of them in that respect: And by whom?

2. Haue they heard any matter of office priuately in their chambers without their sworne Registers or their Deputies presence?

3. Whether hath any mis-liuer or mis-doeer lawfully presented, and confessing the fault for which hee or shee was so presented; or being thereof otherwise conuicted, had his or their penance, or anie part thereof omitted; If so, you shall present the name of the Partie or Parties who haue so omitted their penance or any part thereof.

4. Hath any person within your Parish paid or promised any summe of money, or other reward, for commutation of penance for any crime of Ecclesiasticall conuance? If so, then with whom; when, and for what? And how hath the same been employed?

5. Finally, doe you know of any matter or cause, which is a breach of the Lawes Ecclesiasticall heer not expressed?

FINIS.

WILLIAMS, BISHOP OF LINCOLN, 1625.

ARTICLES to be enquired of within the Diocesse of Lincolne in the generall and trienniall Visitation of the right reuerend Father in God Iohn by Gods providence, Bishop of Lincolne, Lord Keeper of the great Seale of England.

Imprinted at London, 1625.

[Collated with Williams' Articles of 1627.]

The Aduertisement.

The Minister and Churchwardens are to call unto them the Neighbours of the Parish, and out of them to make choice of two of the discreetest parishioners to be Sidemen, and they all together are to read ouer these Articles diuers times.

Then, after they haue duely considered of them, they are to write an answer or presentment vnto euery Article particularly, and truly, according to their Consciences.

Lastly, they are all of them to bring their presentments to the Visitation and there the Churchwardens and Side men vpon their Oathes are to deliuer them vp vnder their hands to the Lord Bishops Visitors. The Minister is to put them in minde of such things as he knoweth needfull to be presented, and in case they neglect, to giue notice to the Visitors.

The Oath to be ministred to the Churchwardens and Sworne-men.

You shall duely enquire and true presentment make of all offences or defaults mentioned in the Articles giuen you in charge, or otherwise against the Ecclesiasticall Lawes, together with the names of the seuerall Offenders therein. So helpe you God.

Articles to be enquired of in the Diocese of LINCOLNE.

Church. Chancell. First, whether is your Church, or Churchyard. Chappell, and the Chancell sufficiently in repaire of the wals, rooffe, seats, pauement, and windowes; also the Parsonage or Vicarage house? And whether is the Church-yard decently fenced with Railes, Pales, or Wals, and by whose default are any of these in decay, either Minister, lay-person, Appropriator, Farmer or Parishioner? Set downe the names of those in whose time or by whose meanes the said decays were made, or suffered to be made.

Patron. Terrier. 2. Who is the Patron of your Parsonage or Vicarage as you know or haue credibly heard? what glebe Land is there belonging to the Parsonage or Vicarage? Enquire of your Minister, and giue up a Terrier of the same to the Lord Bishops visitors, or some by them appointed, before the Wednesday after Easter next.*

Also you shall present the names of all such men, either Ministers or lay persons, who haue changed vsurped, or inclosed any of the said glebe, or taken away any part of the building belonging to the Church, Parsonage, or Vicarage, or doe detaine from the Parson or Vicar, any tithes, glebe land, duties, or profits, which you know or haue heard haue belonged within the memorie of man vnto the Parsonage or Vicarage.

Free Schoole. Hospital. Church repaires, &c. 3. Whether is there in your Parish any free Schoole, or any monies, rents, stocks, lands, or houses giuen to the maintenance of a Schoole, or of an Hospitall, or of the Poore, or of the Church, or the repaires thereof, or of a Preacher, or an Organist, or of any other thing for the maintenance or ornament of the seruice of God: whether are the said monies or lands, &c., so implead as they were bequeathed, or whether are they detained or vsurped to any other vse, and by whom? you shall giue certificate hereof, if there be cause, vpon the day aboue said.

Prophaners. 4. Whether haue your Church or church-yard beene prophaned or abused with plaies, quarrels, fighting, scoulding, or ill words, or with feasts, pedlars buying and selling, Courts, or any such like, and by whom; And whether haue any Trees beene cut downe in the Church-yard and by whom?†

Bookes. Church parts. 5. Whether haue you in your Church Common Prayer; sufficient bookes of Homilies, Erasmus his Paraphrasis, Bishop Jewels workes, the booke of God and the King*, a conuenient Pulpit, and a Pulpit-cloth, a decent seat for the Minister and Clarke, a chest for the Registry to be kept in with three Keyes, whereof the Minister to haue one. Also a poore mans Box after the same manner, and whether is the Register-booke so written, kept, perused, and certified as it ought?†

6. Whether haue you a decent Font with a couer for Baptisme; and a decent Communion Table with two Couers, one of Silke, or some fine stuffe, another of Linnen; a faire Surplice, a communion Siluer Cup, and a stoop for the wine; sufficient Bels and Bel-ropes fit for ringing? And whether haue you had any necessaries or ornaments of your church now fallen into decay, as Bels, Organes, or Chime, or a Clocke, or Lofts to sit in, maintenance for singing, or any such like? and by whom are any of these with-held, or taken away, or who haue defaced, broken downe, or taken away any decent ornaments in your Church?‡

Preachers and minsters. 7. Whether are the names of foraine Preachers and their licences registred? Haue you the Book of Canons of 1603. And doth your Minister reade them publickely once euery yeere.

8. Whether doth your Minister euery Sunday and holiday, and on their Eues, sing or say distinctly in due time and place the Prayers and Seruice according to the booke of Common Prayer? Also on Wednesdaies and Fridaies, without addition, or omitting any thing. And whether doth he appoint holy-daies, fasting-dayes, and the Ember-weekes? And whether doth hee warne and keepe the perambulations?§

9. Whether doth the Minister euery Sunday and holy-day catechize the youth, and vnmarried persons in the parish?¶ Whether doth he vse any Catechisme other than that in the booke of Common prayer? if he doe, you shall before Wednesday in Easter weeke next, warne your Minister to bring his said Catechisme to the Lord Bishops visitors, or some appointed by them, that it may be perused: § Also whether doth he admit any persons to the Communion, or to be Godfathers or Godmothers, or to be married, || that cannot say the catechisme, and who they were?¶¶

Lecturers. 10. Whether haue you any Lecture or extraordinary Preaching by one or more Preachers? Whether haue those Preachers or Preacher lawfull authority thereto from the Lord Bishop? what stipend they haue, and from whom? Whether doth the said Lecturer reade Prayers twice a yeere at the least, and conforme himself to the Orders of the Church of England, according to the Canon?§§

11. Whether doe any Preachers that you know, or haue heard of, Preach one against another, and whether doth your Minister obserue the late Orders or Articles appointed by his Maiestie for the edifying of the people, and auoiding of dangerous questions?||

12. Whether doth your Minister or any other person in your Parish keepe any priuate meetings for prayers or teaching (other then with their owne Families) or any priuate Fasts or Exercises, or exercising (sic) to cast out Biuels without lawfull authority.¶¶

13. Whether doth your Minister vse the rites and ceremonies, and other orders appointed by the Lawes and Canons of the Church and Reulme in the administering of the Sacraments and Seruice, as the Surplice the Crosse in Baptisme, the Ring in marriage, and the rest?¶¶¶

14. Whether hath your Minister or any other in your Parish in their Sermons** oppugned or spoken against the Doctrine, Orders, or ceremonies of the Church of England, as against the Kings supremacy, the government of the church, the booke of Canons, the Communion booke, kneeling at Communion, Crosse in Baptisme, Surplice, Ring in marriage, the bowing at the name of Jesus, or any other of the Rites authorised? And whether are there any such that refuse or speake against the said Rites, received by the Minister to the Communion?¶¶¶¶

15. Whether doth the Minister warne and celebrate so many Communions that euery Parishioner may receive thrice at least in the yeere?¶¶¶¶¶

16. Whether doe you know or haue heard of any

* The booke of God and the King. Omitted. 1627. [This was the Dialogue on the Oath of Allegiance put out by James I. in 1615-6, and ordered to be taught to all Children and provided in every household.]

† And you shall bring in your Register booke at the visitation to be reuiwed there by the Lord Bishops visitors. Added. 1627.

‡ Catechise the younger sort in the parish. 1627.

§ If he doe—perused. Omitted. 1627.

|| Or to be Godfathers—married. Omitted. 1627.

¶ And who they were. Omitted. 1627.

** Preached any seditious doctrine, or. Added. 1627.

¶¶ and especially once at Easter. Added. 1627.

* Who is the patron—Easter next. Omitted. 1627.

† And how imployed. Added. 1627.

Popish Priests, Seminaries, or Jesuites intertained in your Parish, or any that suffer Masse, or any popish service in their houses, or that doe seduce the people from the Religion established, or doe speak euill of the same?

17. How many Benefices hath your Minister, and how farre distant? doth he serue your cure himselfe, and there diligently preach, or hath a sufficient Preacher for his Curate? Let the Minister himselfe also come with his Curate and signifie to the Lord Bishops Visitors what stipend he doth allow him.*

18. Whether doe you know or haue heard of any Simony, which your Minister hath vsed, directly or indirectly, or any money† which he gaue to his patron or any other for his lining?

19. If your Minister be not a Preacher, whether doth he procure monthly Sermons to be made by some able licensed Preacher: and whether doth he, when there is no Sermon, reade the Homilies?

20. Whether doe you know, or haue heard of any married in your Church at the times prohibited, or not being thrice asked in the Church, or without a lawfull Licence, or in an vnlawfull place, or houre, that is, not betweene eight and twelue of the clocke in the forenoon, or where the parties being vnder one and twenty yeeres of age, had not the consent of their parents?

21. Whether haue any beene married within the degrees forbidden, or in any church which was not the Parish Church of one of the parties who were married?

22. What persons doe you know that come not diligently to Church on Sundaes and holy-daies, or refuse or neglect to send their children to be catechised?

23. Whether doth your Minister visit the sicke, or refuse to goe and comfort them, or to minister the Communion to them, or to baptise a child that is in danger?‡

24. If you haue any Chappels of ease in your Parish, whether doe the inhabitants resort once a yeere at the least to the Parish church to receiue the communion?

25. Whether doth your Minister weare decent and graues apparel? whether doth he resort to Tauernes, or Alehouses, or any vnlawfull games? or doth he vse any seruile labour, as carting, plowing, &c.

26. Whether is your Minister peaceable and a peacemaker, || and whether doth he abet any suits or contentions amongst his neighbours, or trouble, sue, or present them for vaine and triuiall causes?

27. Whether doth the Minister warne and celebrate the daies of the Kings beginning of his reigne, and the fift of August,¶ and the fift of Nouember, for his Maiesties happy deliuerance? And whom do you know in your Parish that refuse to celebrate them: and whether is your Minister absent about fourescore dayes in the yeere from his charge?***

28. Whether doe you know that any ecclesiasticall Judge, or any of the Registers, or Apparators, or any other Officer belonging to the Ecclesiasticall Courts, haue taken rewards or gifts, for peruerting iustice, or denied Justice to any man who lawfully required the same?

29. Whether doe you know or haue heard that any of the said Judges, or Registers, or any belonging to the said Courts doe fauour any Papists or popish Reousants, or non-conformitants, or Brownists, Anabaptists, or any other Sectaries, or doe forbear to enquire, cite, denounce, and censure them?

30. Whether haue the said Ecclesiasticall Judges appointed and constituted certaine and determined Surrogates and substitutes, being Batchelors of Divinitie, Batchelors of the Law, or at the least Masters of Arts, and graue licensed Preachers; or doe they appoint weake and†† insufficient men in their owne absences?

31. Whether hath your Archdeacon, or any for him, viewed your Church, Chappell, and other buildings mentioned in the sixe first Articles?

32. Whether hath the Chancellour, Commissaries, or any using Ecclesiasticall Jurisdiction vpon the presentment or information giuen vnto him of any foule offences or scandals in your Parish, not punished the persons detected, so that the Congregation hath not beene satisfied both of Justice, and the amendment of the partie, and who were the parties committing the said offences, as Incest, Adulterie, Fornication, Drunkennesse, Blasphemy, Heresie, clandestine mariage, prophaning of the church, or such like?

33. Whether hath the said Chancellour, Commissaries, or any other Ecclesiasticall Judge* committed (sic) the penance of any such delinquents to pay a summe of money, and how much of the said money haue you knowne to be sent, distributed, or employed to the poore, or to any other charitable vses in your Parish?†

34. Whether are your Ecclesiasticall courts kept at conuenient times and places, and whether is any man cited out of his owne Jurisdiction?‡

35. Whether doe the Ecclesiasticall Judges suffer any persons detected for crimes to sue and molest the Churchwardens (who detected them) for the same.

36. Whether doe you know or haue heard that any of the said Judges, in case, when the deceased dies without a will, haue assigned or taken part of the goods to charitable vses, and how haue you knowne them so employed?

37. Whether in such case of any dying without a Will, doth the Ecclesiasticall Judge send out intimation to summon the creditors, kindred, wife and children to come take administration, and committed the same, not to needy persons, but to able men, and such as entered sufficient bond to preserue the estate, and answer all that is due, and saue the Lord Bishop harmelesse?

38. Whether doth the said Judge Ecclesiasticall, when a Benefice is vacant, commit sequestration to able men that doe answer and account truely for the maine profits? And whether are the Parishes, during the vacancy well serued with able Ministers?

39. Whether doe you know, or haue credibly heard, that the said Judges Ecclesiasticall, Registers, or Apparators doe take any extraordinary or more fees for probate of wils, Administrations, accounts, assignations of portions, or citations, then are allowed by the statutes of the Land, or any fees greater then heretofore haue beene accustomed in other businesses belonging to their courts?

40. Whether doe you know, or haue heard, that any Register of the said Courts haue sped any act or dismissed any person detected without the knowledge and actual consent of the Judge?

41. Whether doe the Registers in the said Courts professe the Religion of the Church of England? Whether doe they orderly receiue the holy communion; and whether are they of honest, sober, and godly conuersation?

42. Whether doe the said Registers keepe sufficient Scribes and seruants, who are publike notaries, to make Acts, and keepe the Courts? whether doe they allow them sufficient meanes to liue, or suffer them to take, or exact monies of suitors for expedition?§

43. Whether is there in euery place where Ecclesiasticall Courts are kept, and also in the Registry of euery such Office or Court, a Table of Fees set up, that euery one may reade the same containing all the Fees that euery Officer of the Court ought to take according to the Canon made at the Conuocation vnder Archbishop Whitgift, Anno Dom. 1599.

44. Whether are there more Apparators belonging to the Courts then|| heretofore were accustomed? whether doe any of the Apparators buy or take to farme their offices or the execution of the same?

45. Whether doth any person in your knowledge, or as you haue heard, take upon him to execute both the places of Judge and Registry, directly or indirectly?

46. Whether are there any in your Parish who occupie or enioy any goods of any man deceased, not hauing proued his Will, or taken Administration of his goods where there was no Will made?

47. Whether haue you any Schoolemaster, or Usher in your parish who is not licensed by the Ordinary and is not of sound Religion and honest conuersation?

48. Whether doth the Schoolemaster catechise his Schollers in the grounds of Religion; cause them discreetly to behaue themselues in the church on Sundaes and Holidadies, and take an account of their learning both in godlinesse and in other studies?¶

49. Whether is your Parish Clarke Parish clearke. aboute twenty yeeres of age, and sufficient for his place, able distinctly to reade the first Lesson and to sing, and diligent in his office?

* Let the Minister—allow him] What wages doth he allow to his Curate. 1627.

† Or other reward. Added. 1627.

‡ Having no lawfull impediment. Added. 1627.

§ Grave.] Canonically. 1627.

¶ And a peacemaker.] Omitted. 1627.

|| And the fift of Aug.] Omitted. 1627.

** And whether—charge.] Omitted. 1627.

†† And] or. 1627.

* the said—Judge] any Ordinary in the Diocese. 1627.

† any such—your parish] any delinquent convicted, contrary to the Canon? 1627.

‡ and whether—jurisdiction]. Omitted. 1627.

§ Whether doe they allow—expedition]. Omitted. 1627.

|| by law are allowed, or. Added. 1627.

¶ and take—studies]. Omitted. 1627.

50. Whether the Clarke or any person not authorised meddle about his place, as to reade Prayers, bury the dead, Church women, and such like?

51. Whether doth the Clarke or Sexton keepe cleane the Church, ring the Bells, attend the buriall of the dead, and other things belonging to their places?

52. Whether doe all the Parishioners pay their accustomed wages and duties to the Clark and Sexton, and what be their names that refuse?

53. Whether are there any in your Parish who impugne, speake, print, publish or keepe, any books against the Kings supremacy, the Articles of Religion of 1562. or against the present government of the Church?

54. Whether doe any on Sundaies or seruice. Holidais, especially in the time of diuine Seruice or Sermon, mispend the time in Alehouses, vnlawfull games, idlennesse or labour; or who doe not reuerently behaue themselves in the church: or vse talking, walking, or any other vncomely behauiour then or there?

55. Whether haue any aboute seuentene yeeres of age not receiued thrice in the yeere the Communion, or doe refuse (being vnmarried people) to be catechised.*

56. Whether haue any bene married Marriage. their former husbands or wiues being aliue, although they were diuorced from them? or doe any man or woman liue from their husbands or wiues?

57. Whether hath any man abused your Minister by blowes or vnreuerent speeches, or beaten, or railed on any man in the Church or Churchyard?

58. Whether are there in your Parish any Popish, Anabaptisticall, Brownist, or other Recusant, or noncommunicant, or who labour to peruert others to their opinions?

59. Whether doe any forreiner of other Parishes resort to your Church to Seruice or Communion, or doe any of your Parish acoustome to go to other Churches, and neglect their owne?

60. Whether are there in your Parish Enormities. any incestuous Adulterers, Fornicators, Bawds, conueiours or intertainers of incontinent persons, or who are famed or suspected for the same?

61. Whether are there in your Parish any blasphemers, common swearers, or such as vse to speake bawdry, immodest and filthy speeches, malicious slanderers, scolds, drunkards, or any defamed for the same, or any that make, sing, or publish libels, or defamations against any?

62. Whether doe any refuse their sessements† to the repairs and ordinary charges of the Church, although they dwell without the Parish, hauing goods or lands within it?

63. Whether haue any in your Parish abused the Churchwardens or Sidemen for doing their duties?‡

64. § Whether doe you know any Witches. men or women suspected for coniuers, Witches, Sorcerers, or that use any unlawfull or enchanting prayers, or charmes in writing or otherwise, to hurt or heale man or beast; and what are their names, and who resort vnto them for helpe or counsell?

65. Whether are there in your Parish Phisitians. Surgeons. any that practise Phisicke or Chirurgerie without license, and who are they? You shall also warne all that haue licenses from the Lord Bishop, or his predecessors, or any of his officers to come shew them to his visitors to haue their Licenses seene and allowed.

66. Whether doe any in your Parish|| Excommunicates. conuerse with wilfull excommunicate persons: what excommunicate persons haue been buried in the Church or Churchyard?

67. Whether are there in your Parish Usurers. any notorious Usurers?

68. Whether doe you know or haue Fasting-daies. heard of any that obserue not the abstinence or fasts (by the lawes and canons commanded, and warned in the Church) of the time of Lent, Ember weekes, Fridaies and Saturdaies and holy day eues.

69. Whether are your Churchwardens Churchwardens. chosen? whether haue the old Churchwardens accounted for what they receiued, to the Minister and Parish: And whether doe they and the Sidemen meete to conferre of these present or any former Articles giuen them in charge, to make true presentments, or haue wilfully omitted to present knowne or famed offenders?

70. *Whether doe the Churchwardens take and gather twelue pence for euery Sunday of Recusants, excommunicate persons, and others who come not to Church, and distribute it to the poore?

71. You shall also enquire whether heretofore you haue had a Parson or Vicar iadowed, and whether there haue bene any such in your memory, or as you haue heard from your neighbours or ancestors. And that now† your Church is serued by a Curate, sequestration, or stipendary, and who‡ doth receiue the fruits, and pay the Curate his wages?

72. You shall also enquire of all other faults, not in these Articles expressed, punishable by the Ecclesiasticall lawes, and present them.

These things are to be exhibited by the Churchwardens and Sidemen at or before the Wednesday in Easter weeke.

A Terrior of glebe Land belonging to the Parsonage or Vicarage. And who is Patron of the Living?

Also what Lands, Rents, stockes, or monies haue bene giuen for the maintenance of the Church, or Poore, or Schoole, or other pious vse.

The Catechisme, if any be taught by the Minister, besides that in the Booke of Common Prayer. §

FINIS.

DAVENANT, BISHOP OF SALISBURY. 1628.

ARTICLES to be enquired of in the Diocesse of Salisbury in the Visitation of the Reuerend Father in God John Lord Bishop of Sarum.

London, Printed by R. Y. for H. F. 1628.

[The Oath of the Churchwardens is almost verbally the same as in the Articles of Bishop Neile of Winchester in 1628.]

ARTICLES to be enquired of in the Diocesse of SALISBURY.

Articles concerning publike Prayer, and administration of the Sacraments.

1. Titul. 1. First, Whether hath any of your Parish depraung of the Booke of Common Prayer and Ceremonies. spoken or declared anything in the Prayer and Ceremonies. derogation or depraung of the forme of Gods Worship in the Church of England, and Administration of the Sacraments, Rites, and Ceremonies set forth and prescribed in the Booke of Common Prayer, by the Kings Maiesty authorized and confirmed? Doe any preach, speake, or declare, that it containeth anything which is not agreeable to the holy Scriptures.

2. Item, Whether hath any in your Parish caused, procured, or maintained the forme of Common Prayer. any Minister to say any common or publike Prayer, or to administer eyther of the Sacraments of Baptisme and the Lords Supper, otherwise or in any other manner or forme than is mentioned in the said Booke of Common Prayer? Or whether hath any interrupted, hindered, let, or disturbed, the Minister to reade diuine Seruice, and administer the Sacraments in such manner and forme as is mentioned in the said Booke: or interrupted him in his preachings and Sermons?

3. Item, Whether is the Sacrament of Baptisme rightly and duly administered according to the prescript forme expressed in the Booke of Common Prayer, with due obseruation of all Rites and Ceremonies prescribed in the administration of the same.

4. Item, whether is the administration of the Sacrament of Baptisme deferred longer than the next Sunday or Holyday immediately following the birth of the Childe?

5. Item, Whether is the Sacrament of Baptisme refused to be administered to any children borne in and out of Wedlocke, their birth being made knowne to the Minister of the Parish, and offered vnto him to be baptized, or haue any such children dyed vn baptized?

6. Item, Whether be the Parents of any childe to be baptized, admitted to bee Godfathers and Godmothers to the same?

7. Item, Whether haue there bene any children baptized in priuate houses by any Lay-person, or Midwife, or Popish Priest, or by any other Minister, but vpon vrgent occasion when the childe was in danger of death?

8. Item, Whether haue the children which haue bene borne to any Popish recusants, or begotten by them in your

* or doe refuse—catechised† or any under that age refuse to be catechised by their Minister. 1627.

† lawfully made. Added. 1627

‡ for doing their duties‡ in the execution of their office, or for the doing thereof. 1627.

§ Article 64 omitted. 1627.

|| Wittingly. Added. 1627.

* Article 70 omitted, 1627.

† that now‡ now that. 1627.

‡ and who‡ who. 1627.

§ These things are to be exhibited—Common Prayer‡ Omitted, 1627.

Parish, been publicly baptized in your Parish Church by your Parson, Vicar, or Curate or by whom were they baptized or where to your knowledge?

9. Item, Whether hath the blessed Sacrament of the Lords Supper been duly and reuerently administered euery moneth, or thrice euery yeere at least, whereof once at Easter, within your Parish Church, to euery parishioner being of sixteene yeeres of age, or vpwards?

10. Item, Whether is the said holy Sacrament deliuered vnto or received by any of the Communicants within your Parish, that doe their knees?

11. Item, Whether hath any of your Parish, which bee openly knowne to lye in notorious siane without repentance, or excommunicate persons, or schismatikes, common and notorious depravers of the Religion and Government of this Realme, without vnfayned sorrow shoune for their impiety and wickednesse, beane admitted to be partaker of the said holy Communion?

12. Item, Whether hath any of your Parish beene debarred from the said holy Communion without iust cause, and without intimation first giuen to the Ordinary or Bishop of the Diocesse: and by whose fault?

Titul. 2.

Articles concerning the Church, the Ornaments thereof, and the Churches possessions.

First, Whether haue you in your Church or Chappell, the whole Bible of the largest volume, and of the last translation, the Booke of Common Prayer, the two Bookes of Homilies, and Bishop Jewels Apology, all well and fairely bound: a Font of stone, set vp in the vsual ancient place: a conuenient and decent Communion Table, with a Carpet of silke, or some other decent stuffe, continually laid vpon the Table at time of Diuine Seruice, and a faire linnen cloth at the time of administering the Communion: and whether is the same Table placed conueniently as it ought: and whether is it so vsed in or out of time of diuine Seruice or Sermon, as is not agreeable to the holy vse of it: Are the tenne Commandements set vpon the East end of your Church, with other sentences of Scripture about?

2. Item, Whether haue you in your said Church or Chappell, a conuenient Seate for your Minister to reade diuine Seruice in, together with a comely Pulpit, set vp in a conuenient place with a decent cloth or cushion for the same, a comely, large, and fine Surplice: a faire Communion cup a Flaggon of siluer, or pewter, with all other things and ornaments necessary for the celebration of diuine Seruice and administration of the Sacraments: and whether haue you a Chest for Almes, with three lockes and keys, and another Chest for keeping the Bookes and Ornaments of the Church, and the Register Booke? Whether haue you a Register Booke in Parchment for Christnings, Weddings, and Burials: and is the same kept in all points according to the Canons? And haue you a Table set in your Church, of the degrees wherein by Law men are prohibited to marry?

3. Item, Whether is your Church or Chappell, with the Chancell thereof, and your Parsonage or Vicarage houses, your Parish Almes-house and Church, in good reparations, and are they employed to godly and their right holy vses: if any be ruinated and wasted, in whom is the default? Is your Church, Chancell, and Chappell decently and comely kept, as well within as without: and be the seates well maintained, the Steeple and Bells preserued, the windowes well glazed, the floore kept paved, plaine, and eauen, and all things in orderly and decent sort?

4. Item, Whether be your Church-yards well fenced, and kept without any person encroached vpon the ground of the Church-yard: haue any vsed a place consecrated to holy vse, prophanely or wickedly: haue any quarrelled, or stricken another in Church or Church-yard?

5. Item, Whether is your Church full or vacant of an Incumbent: if vacant, who receiue the fruits thereof, and who serueth the Cure, and by what authority: and whether is it a Parsonage, Vicarage, or Donatiue, or Appropriation?

6. Item, What Legacies haue beene giuen to the vse and benefit of your Church: how haue they beene bestowed:

who receiued them, and detaineth them without due employment? Doth any detaine or imbezell any of the Church goods, or any other gifts giuen to charitable vses?

7. Item, Whether is there any erecting of Pewes, or innouating of seats in your Church by any priuate man of his owne authority: and what seats haue beene so built, and by whose procurement, and by what authority?

8. Item, Whether hath any in your Parish defaced, or caused to be defaced, any monuments, or ornaments in your Church?

9. Item, Whether hath any Popish Recusant, being lawfully excommunicated, beene interred or buried in your Church or Church-yard, before absolution of that censure and Excommunication: if yea, then by whom, and when?

10. Item, Whether be not the profits, tythes, and other commodities Ecclesiasticall, impiously and wickedly, to the dishonor of Almighty God, and preiudice of the sacred Ministry, conuerted to the vse and benefit of couetous Patrons, and by them receiued and detained, and how long haue they beene so vsed to your knowledge?

11. Item, Whether haue there beene made any bargaine and sale, exchange, or other alienation of the Glebe lands, or tythes of your Parsonage or Vicarage, being presentatiue, without the consent of the Ordinary and Patron: and if yea, specifie the said lands and tythes so sold, exchanged, or alienated, where it lay and lyeth, and how it was and is abutted, together with the value of the same, and who made the same sale, exchange, or alienation, and to whom was it made?

12. Item, Whether haue you the Terrier of all the Glebe Lands, Meadows, Gardens, Orchards, Houses, Stockes, Implements, Tenements, and portions of Tythes, (whether within your Parish or without) belonging vnto your Parsonage or Vicarage, taken by the view of honest men in your said Parish? And whether the said Terrier be laid vp in the Bishops Registry, and in whose hands are any of them now? And if you haue no Terrier already made in Parchment, you the Churchwardens and Sidemen, together with your Parson or Vicar, or in his absence, you are to make diligent inquiry and presentment of the premises, and make, subscribe, and signe, the said Terrier, as aforesaid?

Titul. 3.

Articles concerning Ministers and Preachers of Gods Holy Word.

First, Whether doth your Minister distinctly, reuerently say diuine Seruice vpon Sundayes and Holidayes, and other dayes appointed to be obserued by the Booke of Common Prayer, at fit and vsual times? And doth your Minister duly obserue the Orders, Rites, and Ceremonies prescribed in the said booke of Common Prayer, as well in reading all publike prayers, and the Letany, as also in administering the Sacraments, Solemnization of Matrimony, visitation of the sicke, burying the dead, churching of women, and all other like Rites and Offices of the Church, in such manner and forme as the said Booke of Common Prayer is enioyned: and doth he reade the Booke of the last Canons yearly?

2. Item, Whether doth your Minister reading diuine Seruice, and administering the Sacraments and other Rites of the Church, weare the Surplice according to the Canons?

3. Item, Whether doth your Minister bid Holydayes and Fasting-dayes, as is appointed? Doth hee administer the holy Communion euery moneth, or thrice in the yeare at least: whereof once at Easter to euery Parishioner? Doth he receiue the same himselfe on euery day that he'e administreth it to others, and vseth he the words of Institution according to the Booke without alteration, at euery time that the Bread and Wine is renewed? Doth he vse, and neuer omit the signe of the Crosse in Baptisme: or doth he euer baptize in any Bason or other thing but the vsual Font? Doth hee marry without a Ring, or in times prohibited, or without the Banes thrice published, without a special licence from the Archbishop or Bishop of the Diocesse, or his Chancellor first had and obtained?

4. Item, Whether is your Minister a Preacher licenced or no: if no, Whether doth hee take vpon him in his owne Cure or else-where, to expound any Scripture or matter of doctrine, and doth not keepe himselfe onely to the reading of Homilies published by authority: if so, then you are to present the same, the time and place where he did it. And if he be licensed. Doth hee preach vsually in his owne Cure.

according to the 45. Canon, or in some other neighbour Church, where no Preacher is: or whether doth he or his Curate vpon every Sunday when there is no sermon, reade a Homily, or some part thereof, according as he ought to doe?

5. Item, Whether doth your Minister publish in his Sermons any doctrine which is new and strange, and disagreeing from the Word of GOD, and from the Articles of Christian Faith and Religion, agreed on and published Anno Dom. 1562.

6. Item, Whether are any strange Ministers admitted to preach in your Church, who do not before the Churchwardens subscribe their names in your Booke for that purpose, the day when he preached, and the name of the Bishop of whom hee had licence to preach: and is any one admitted to preach, before he sheweth his Licence?

7. Item, Doth any Preacher in your Pulpit particularly impugne and confute any doctrine deliuered by others his fellow Preachers, before he hath acquainted the Bishop of the Diocese therewith, and received order from him what to doe in that case?

8. Item, Doth your minister vse to pray for the Kings Maiesty, Clergy, Councell, &c giuing them their full titles, as in the Canon is required?

9. Item, Whether is your Minister resident vpon his Benefice, or absent: if absent; by whom is the Cure serued, the fruits received? Doth your Minister or Curate serue any mores cures than one: if yea, then what other Cure doth he serue, and how farre are they distant?

10. Item, Whether doth hee Catechize the youth of his Parish vpon Sundayes and Holy-dayes, before euening Prayer for halfe an houre or more, in the Catechisme set forth in the Booke of Common Prayer; and whether doe all the Parishioners diligently attend his catechizing: and who refuse to send their children and seruants to bee catechized by him?

11. Item, Doth your Minister care-fully looke to the reliefe of the poore, and from time to time call vpon his parishioners to giue somewhat according to their ability, to godly and charitable vses, especially when they make their Wills?

12. Item, Whether is your Minister suspected or knowne to haue obtained his Benefice or spiritual promotion by any Symoniacall compact, directly or indirectly?

13. Item, Whether doth your Minister demise the profits of his Benefice to any Lay-man aboue three yeare, and is not resident there, and keepeth no hospitality vpon his Benefice, being of sufficient value?

14. Item, Whether hath hee, being learned and sufficient conferred with the popish Recusants of his parish, endeauouring to reclaim them from their errors, and presenting them being obstinate for their recusancy?

15. Item, Doth your Minister in the Rogation dayes goe in perambulation of the circuit of the Parish, saying, and vsing the Prayers, Suffrages, and Thanksgiuing to God, appointed by Law, according to his duty, thanking God for his blessings, and praying for his grace and fauour?

16. Item, Hath your Minister or any other Preacher, made any Sermon, administered the Sacraments or Churched women in any priuate houses, otherwise than is by Law allowed?

17. Item, What Curates or Preachers doe reade Prayers or administer the Sacraments in your Parish, without full licence from the Bishop of the Diocese, vnder his hand and Seale, according to the Canon: or doth any Layman, not hauing holy Orders, presume to reade publike Prayers in the Church?

18. Item, Whether haue you any Preacher or Lecturer in your Parish; and whether (if any such be) doth hee twice at east, every yeare reade himselfe diuine Service both morning and euening two seuerall Sundayes publicly in his Surplice, and also twice in the yeare administer both Sacraments, with such Rites and Ceremonies as are prescribed in the Booke of Common Prayer, according to the 56 Canon?

19. Item, Whether is your Minister studious in the holy Scripture, and abstaineth from mechanicall trades, or labour not befitting his function, and from apparell vn-seemely for his calling; and from gaming, swearing, and drunkennesse, or such notorious crimes: Or is there any in your parish, who hauing been admitted into holy Orders; either Deacon or Minister, doth relinquish or forsake his calling, and liueth in the course of his life as a Lay-man?

20. Item, Whether doth your Minister in his Sermons deliuer and debate those high points of Predestination, Reprobation, Uniuersality of Grace, and other of like nature, forbidden to be handled in popular Sermons?

21. Item, Whether hath your Minister vsed any bitter inuectiues, or railing speeches in his Sermons against the persons either of Papists or Puritanes?

22. Item, Whether doth your Minister every sixe moneths denounce in his parish all such of his parish as do perseuere in the sentence of excommunication, not seeking to bee absolved: and whether hath he received any excommunicate person into the church without certificate from the Ordinarie: who are encouragers and keepers of company with such as remaine excommunicate: and whether any dying excommunicate bee buried in Christian buriall?

Titul 4. Articles concerning Marriage.

First Whether be there any in your parish that haue married within the degrees of Affinity or consanguinity, by the Law of God forbidden: if any, what be they?

2. Item, Whether haue any beene married secretly in priuate houses, or without their parents or Governours consent signified, being vnder the age of 21 yeares?

3. Item, Whether doe any persons lawfully married, liue asunder vnlawfully: and in whom is the default?

4. Item, Whether any persons (the Banes being not thrice published in the Church) haue beene married without licence; who were present at such mariages, and what minister married them?

5. Item, Whether any persons by licence or without, haue beene married in your parish Church, neither of them at that time dwelling in your towne?

6. Item, What Popish Recusants or their children haue beene married in your parish, in what sort was that matrimony solemnized, when and by whom?

7. Item, Is there any in your parish that is voyced, noted, or credibly reported and accused to haue two wiues liuing, or two husbands?

Titul 5. Articles concerning Churchwardens.

First, Whether bee the Churchwardens chosen by the Minister and Parishioners according to the 89 Canon; and whether hath any taken him to be Churchwarden, being not so chosen: or hath any continued aboue one yeare in his office, without a new choice?

2. Item, whether haue any Churchwarden retained any of the Church goods, and not made a iust account of what they haue received and expended?

3. Item, Haue they beene, and are they diligent in their office, to see decencie, kept in the church, and order in the time of common Prayer, and administration of the Sacraments; and that there bee no disturbance, but sobernesse, and quietnesse in the Church? And doe the Churchwardens keepe a Booke in your parish, wherein the name of euery strange Preacher in your parish is set downe: and haue the Churchwardens suffered any to preach, not shewing, or hauing no Licence?

4. Item, Whether haue any Churchwardens suffered any to preach, not shewing, or hauing no Licence?

Titul 6. Articles concerning the Parishioners.

First, Whether doe any in your parish prophane the Sunday, by vnlawfull games, drinking, or tipling in the time of Common prayer or Sermon, and by working and doing the ordinary workes of their vocation and trades?

2. Item, Is there any in your parish that doe impugne or speake against the Rites and Ceremonies of the Church of England, or the lawfull vse of them, and government of this Church onder his Maiestie, by Archbishops and other Ecclesiasticall Officers?

3. Item, Who in your parish, doe Reuerent behauiour at diuine Service. come to the Sermon onely, and not to diuine Service; and who doe not reuerently beaue themselues during the time of diuine Service, deuoutly kneeling when the generall confession of sinnes, the Letany, the ten Commandements, and all Prayers and Collects are read, or who doe cover their heads in the Church, during the whole time of diuine seruice, vnlesse it be in case of necessitie, or who doe giue themselues to babling, talking, or walking, and are not attentive to heare the Word read and preached?

4. Item, Are there any of your parish, Leaning their own Churches to go to others. hauing a Preacher to their Minister, that doe absent themselues from his Sermons, and resort to other places to heare other Preachers: or doe any in your Parish communicate, or baptize their children in any other parish?

5. Item, Is there any in your parish Exception against the Minister. that refuse to haue their children baptized, or themselues to receiue the Communion of your Minister; taking exception against him: or haue any wiuies that refuse to come to Church, according to the Booke of Common Prayer, to giue thanks to God for their safe deliuerance, in a decent habit, as hath bene anciently accustomed?

6. Item, hath any in your parish Disgracing of Ministers. spoken slanderous and reproachfull words against your Minister, to the scandall of his vocation, or against their marriage or wiuies or against his Neighbour, defaming them touching any crime of Ecclesiasticall cognizance?

7. Item, Whether doe any in your parish Opening of shops vpon holydayes. parish exercise any trade or labour, buy or sell, or keepe open shops, or set out any wares to be sold vpon Sundayes and Holidayes, by themselues, their seruants, or apprentices, or haue otherwise prophaned the said dayes?

8. Item, Whether is the fift of Nouember, Keeping holy the 5 of Nouember. ber, kept holy, and thanksgiuing made to God, according to the order set forth in that behalfe.

9. Item, Are there any in your parish Adultery, fornication, incest, &c. that be, or are commonly knowne or reputed to be blasphemers of Gods holy name, drunkards, adulterers, fornicators, incestuous persons, concealers, or harborers of fornicators or adulterers: haue any bene detected of such notorious crimes: and what penance haue they done for the same?

10. Item, What corporall punishment Commutation of penance. for any such offences, haue been commuted and exchanged into a pecuniarie mulct or summe of money by any Ecclesiasticall Judge, exercising iurisdiction within this Diocesse, by vertue of any grant or Commission; or what was the summe of money by them or any of them so receiued and taken, and to what vses was the same bestowed: or whether vpon such commutations was the unfained repentance of the delinquents published in the Church?

11. Item, Whether there haue bene within your seuerall parishes since the nineteenth* of February last, any Wils proued, or administrations granted by the Archdeacon or his Official, or any knowne incontinent persons, or any suspected of that vice, or any other offenders whatsoever (hauing not before the said last† day of February been duly presented by their Churchwardens) for the same being called or cited by the Archdeacon or his Official? If yea, then you must present their names and their offences now at this Visitation, for that since the said last‡ of February, the Archdeacons authority was restrained and suspended by inhibition, and all iurisdiction Ecclesiasticall euer since hath bene in the Lord Bishop.

12. Item, Whether haue any in your Parish administred the goods of any person deceased, without lawfull authority, and before he or they haue proued the Will and Testament of the party deceased, or haue obtained commission from the Ordinary, to dispose the said moueable goods? Or are there any Wills vnproued, or goods not ministred?

13. Item, What persons be excommunicate within your Parish, and for what cause to your knowledge: and whether Excommunicate persons. doe any of them repaire to the Church in time of prayer, vnabsolued?

14. Item, What Recusant Papists are there in your Parish, and whether doe they or any of them keepe any Schoolemaster in their house, which commeth not to Church to heare diuine Seruice, and receive the holy Communion: what is his name and how long hath he taught?

Titul 7. Articles concerning Schoole-masters, Physitians, and Chirurgions, and Parish Clarkes.

First, Is there any Schoole-master in your Parish that teacheth publikely or priuately, not licenced by the Ordinary, or Bishop of the Diocesse? Doth hee teach any Papiat or * nineteenth] Erased, and "25" substituted in MS.

† last] Erased.

‡ last] Erased, and "23" substituted.

Sectarie's Children that come not to Church? And doth hee instruct all his Schollers to learn, the shorter Catechisme by Law established, contained in the Booke of Common Prayer? Is he a Graduate and sufficient to teach?

2. Item, What Physitian or Chirurgeon Physitians not licenced. is in your parish vnlicenced, and being not a Doctor of Physicke in eyther of the Vniuersities, doth practise physicke? And what ignorant persons haue left their trade and taken vpon them to professe Physicke or Chirurgery: and who be they that so abuse the people?

3. Item, Haue you a fit parish-clerke, Parish-Clarkes. aged twenty yeares at least, of honest life, able to reade and write? Are his and the Sextons wages paid without fraud: if not, then whose default is it? By whom is he chosen? Is hee diligent in his office, and seruiceable to the Minister: doth he meddle with anything about his office: doth he keepe the Church cleane, the doores locked: Is anything lost or spoiled by his default: and doth he execute his office duly?

Titul 8. Articles concerning Ecclesiasticall Offices.

Excessiue Fees. First, whether bee there an Ecclesiasticall Officer that exercise Ecclesiasticall iurisdiction within this Diocesse, that take and receiue, or exact any extraordinary fees for any cause? Whether haue your Church-wardens and Questmen concealed any abuses or offences punishable in the Ecclesiasticall Court: and whether such offences being presented, are suppressed and vnpunished?

2. Item, whether is there not a table Table of Fees in Courts. of fees in euery court of the Consistory, Archdeacons, and Commissaries, allowed and subscribed by the Judge and Register of the court of Consistory, Anno Dom. 1597, and the same euery Court day hung vp in some publike place of the Court and registry?

3. Item, Doth any Ecclesiasticall Judge Speeding of Acts without a Notary. speed any act in any cause priuately of himselfe, and not in presence of some publike Notary or Actuary.

4. Item Whether is there any excessiue Abuses in Apparitors and Sumners. number of Apparitors and Sumners in this Diocesse; or haue any of them vnder pretence of authority, cited or summoned any person vnlawfully, or hath taken any reward for the concealing of any offence of sinne, or the auoyding of punishment of the offenders: and who be they that haue done so? or doe they take any fees not accustomed? Haue they threatned any to prosecute them if they had no reward? and doe they summon any without a citation first had?

5. Item, Hath any Ecclesiasticall Abuses in Ecclesiasticall offices. Judge, or Officer, Aduocate, Register, Proctor, Clarkes, or other such Ministers, any way abused themselues in their offices, contrary to the Law and Canons in that behalfe provided.

6. Item, Lastly, whether you, and Sincerity and impartiality in the inquisitors. euery of you haue sincerely, uprightly, and without any partial affection, and concealing, presented and made knowne, all and euery the offenders in any of the matters mentioned in the precedent Articles exhibited vnto you, either as they are taken in truth to be, or by common fame reported?

If you know of any other default or crime of Ecclesiasticall cognizance, you are to present the same.

The Minister of euery Parish may ioyne in presentment with the Church-wardens and Side-men; and if they will not present, then the Ministers themselues (being the persons that should haue the chiefe care for the suppressing of sin and impiety in their Parishes) may present the crimes aforesaid, and such things as shall be thought to require due reformation, Can. 113.

There must be seuerall presentments made to euery seuerall Article.

FINIS.

NEILE, BISHOP OF WINCHESTER, 1628.

ARTICLES to be enquired of within the Diocesse of Winchester, in the Primarie Visitation of the Reuerend Father in God, Richard, by the Prouidence of God, Lord Bishop of Winton, in the yeare of our Lord God, 1628.

London, Printed by R. Young, M.DC.XXVIII.

The Aduertisement.

The Minister and Church-wardens are to call vnto them the Neighbours of the Parish, and out of them to make choise (according to the custome of the place) of two of the discreetest Parishioners to be Side-men, and they altogether are to reade ouer these Articles diuers times.

Then, after they haue duely considered of them, they are to write their answer or presentment vnto euery Article particularly, and truly according to their consciences.

Lastly, they are all of them to bring their presentments to the Visitation, and there the Church-wardens and Side-men vpon their oathes (but the Minister according to the Cannon in that behalfe) are to deliuer them vp vnder their hands.

The Oath ministered to the Church-wardens and Sworne-men.

You shall sweare, that all Affection, Faour, Hatred, Hope of Reward and Gaine, or feare of displeasure or malice set aside: You shall vpon due consideration of the Articles giuen you in charge, present all and euery such person of, or within your Parish, as hath committed any offence or fault; or made any default mentioned in these, or any of these Articles, or which are vehemently suspected and defamed of any such offence, fault or default: wherein you shall deliuer vprightly, and according to truth; neither of malice presenting any contrary to truth, nor of corrupt affection sparing to present any, and so concele the truth: Hauing in this action God before your eyes, with an earnest zeale to maintaine truth, and to suppress vice: So helpe you God, and the contents of this Booke.

Touching the Church, Church-yard, Parsonage, and Vicarage-house.

First, whether your Church, Chappell, and Chancell be well and sufficiently repaired in the walls and rooffe, the Seats conuenient, the floore paved, the windowes glazed, your bells in tune, and all these cleanly kept, and the mansion-house of your Parson or Vicar, with the building thereunto belonging, be likewise well and sufficiently repaired, and your Church-yard well fenced with walls, railles, or pales, and cleanly kept.

2. Whether hath your church or church-yard bene abused and prophaned by any fighting, chiding, brawling or quarrelling, any playes, lords of mis-rule, summer lords, morris-dancers, pedlers, bowlers, bearewards, butchers, feasts, schooles, temporall courts, or Leetes, Lay Iuries, musters, or other prophane vsage in your church or church-yard, any bells superstitiously rung on holidayes, or their eeues, or at any other time without good cause allowed by the Minister and Church-wardens: haue any trees bene felled in your church-yard, and by whom.

3. Whether are your almes-houses and church-house sufficiently repaired, maintained, and to godly and their right vse employ'd.

4. Whether haue you in your church, all things necessary for common prayer, as the Bible in the largest volume, the booke of common prayer lately authorized by his Majesty, the booke of Homilies allowed, two books of common prayer, a conuenient pulpet for the preaching, a decent seate for the Minister to reade Seruice in, conueniently placed, a strong chest, three lockes and keyes, one for the Minister, the other for the Church-wardens for the keeping of the Register booke of the christnings, marriages, and burials, and a poore mans boxe, with three lockes, conueniently seated near the church doore.

5. Whether haue you in your Church, a font of stone for baptisme set in the ancient vsuall place: a decent table for the communion conueniently placed, covered with silke, or other decent stoffe in time of diuine Seruice, and with a faire linnen cloath ouer that, at the administration of the communion.

6. Whether haue you all such bells, ornaments, and other vtensels as haue anciently belonged to your church, a communion cup of siluer with a couer, a faire standing pot or two of pewter, or purer metall for the wine, vpon the communion table, a comely Surplesse with sleeues, a Register booke of parchment, for christnings, marriages, and burials, a book for the names of all strange preachers, subscribed with their names and the name of the Bishop, or other where they had licence.

7. Whether is the Almes for the poore duely distributed, and are the names and surnames of all persons married, christned and buried, and of their parents, with the day and yeere entred in your parchment Register booke.

8. Whether are the ten Commandements set vp in your Church or Chappell, and other chosen sentences of holy Scripture vpon the wals in conuenient places, and the table of the degrees prohibited in marriage, set forth 1563.

9. Whether haue you in your Church or Chappell the book of the Canons agreed vpon in the Conuocation holden at London Anno Dom. 1603. and confirmed by his Maiesties royall authority, and whether your Minister haue read the same in your church or chappell once euery yeare, according to his Maiesties Injunctions in that behalfe.

Touching the Ministry, Service and Sacraments.

Whether is the common prayer said or sung by your Minister both morning and euening, distinctly and reuerently euery Sunday and Holiday, and on their eeues, and at conuenient and vsuall times of those dayes, and in most conuenient place of the Church for the edifying of the people.

2. Whether doth your Minister obserue the orders, rites, and ceremonies prescribed in the book of Common Prayer in reading the holy Scriptures, prayers and administration of the Sacraments, without diminishing (in regard of preaching or any other respect) or adding any thing in the manner or forme thereof.

3. Whether doth your Minister on wednesdayes and fridayes not being holidayes, at the accustomed houres of Seruice, resort to the Church, and say the ordinary prayers and Letany prescribed. And doth your Clarke or Sexton giue warning before by tolling of a Bell on those dayes.

4. Whether any Minister leauing the vse of the Font, doe in your Church or Chappell christen or baptize in any Basons, or other prophane vessells: or whether your Minister doe baptize or christen any out of the face of the Church and Congregation, and at any other time than vpon Sundayes and Holidayes, without speciall cause, or without Godfathers or Godmothers: And whether any person or persons be admitted to answer as Godfathers and Godmothers at the christning of any childe, except he or she haue before received the holy communion: And whether doth your Minister in the baptizing of children, obserue the orders, rites and ceremonies, appointed and prescribed in the booke of common prayer, without addition, omission, or other inuouation.

5. Whether doe you know any Parents that keepe children unchristened, or that were not christned at their owne Parish church or chappell, and for what cause they remaine yet vnchristened, or haue not been christned at their Parish church or chappell, or doe you know, haue heard, or vehemently suspect any parents, whose children haue bene christened by any Popish Priest, or otherwise than by the lawes of the Church of England is allowed?

6. Whether doth your Minister as oft as hee administret the communion, first receiue it himselfe: whether doth hee vse any bread or wine newly brought, before the words of institution bee rehearsed, and the bread and wine present on the Table: doth hee not deliuer the bread and wine to euery communicant seuerally, in such sort as is prescribed.

7. Whether doth your Minister giue warning publicly in the church at morning prayer the Sunday before hee administret the communion for the better preparation of the parishioners? and whether doth hee administer the Sacraments so often as that euery parishioner may receiue thrice in the yeare at the least, whereof Easter to bee one.

8. Whether hath your Minister administred the Communion to any but such as kneele, or doe you know any that refuse to kneele: hath he administred to any that are vnder Ecclesiasticall censure for refusing to be present at publicke Prayer, or who hath deprauid the Booke of Common Prayer, administration of the Sacraments, or the Rites and Ceremonies prescribed, or the Articles of Religion agreed vpon, or the Book of ordering Priests and Bishops, or against his Maiesties Supremacy: and what be their names?

9. Whether hath your Minister more Benefices than one: if hee haue, how farre distant are they, how often is he absent in the yeere? when is hee absent? hath hee an allowed Preacher for his Curate?

10. Whether do you know that your Parsons or Vicars haue come to his or their Benefices by any Simony, fraud or deceit, or by any vnlawfull composition or agreement, or by any colourable pact, or vnlawfull meane whatsoever, or bee vehemently suspected or defamed thereof? And whether in performance of any such pact, couenant, or promise, there hath bene any bond or lease, made betweene the Patron, and Incumbent, directly or indirectly?

11. Whether your Churches or Chappels bee or haue bene destitute of a Curate? And how long? And by whose default? And whether any Curate haue serued, or doe serue without licence of the Ordinary?

12. Whether doe you know any Popish Priests, Seminary, Jesuite, or runnagate persons, that doe preach, say Masse, or minister any Popish Sacraments or Ceremonies, or else doe resort secretly or openly into your Parish: And whose house do they resort vnto, and of whom are they harboured, and what bee the names of such Popish Priests, Seminaries, Jesuites, or Runnagates, and such as so harbour and releuee them?

13. Whether your Parson, Vicar, or Curate, or any other person in your parish be a fauourer of the Romish Church or Religion, or any other Sect or Schismaticall opinion, or hath or doth maintaine or teach any doctrine, contrary or repugnant to any of the Articles agreed vpon by the Clergy, in the Conuocation holden at London An. Dom. 1562. And whether they haue taught publicly or secretly any doctrine, tending to the discredit and dispraise eyther of the Booke of common Prayer, or of the Preachers, and Ministers of the Word and Sacraments, or of the receiued order for gouernment by Archbishops, Bishops, Deanes, Archdeacons, and other officers in the Church of England, or make any other innouation? And whether haue they permitted any man so teaching, or making such innouation, and not made the same knowne.

14. Whether is your Minister an allowed Preacher? if he be, doth he euery Sunday in your Church or some other next adioyning, where no Preacher is, preach.

15. Whether doth your Minister being no Preacher allowed, presume to expound the Scripture in his own Cure, or elsewhere: doth hee procure euery moneth a Sermon to be preached in his Cure by Preachers lawfully licenced, and on euery Sunday when there is no Sermon, doth hee or his Curate reade some one of the Homilies prescribed.

16. Whether your Minister do openly euery Sunday after he haue read the second Lesson at Morning and Euening praier, admonish and warne the Church-wardens, and Sworn-men to look to their charge, and to obserue who offend in absenting themselves negligently or wilfully from their Parish-church or chappell, or vnreuerently vse themselves in time of diuine Service.

17. Whether is your Curate allowed by the Ordinary vnder his hand and seale to serue for your Cure, and whether doth hee serue two churches or chappels in one day? whether is he Deacon at the least, and what stipend hath he for seruing the Cure.

18. Whether doth your Minister alwaies in saying the publike prayers and administring the Sacraments, weare a decent surplesse with sleeues, and being a graduate, doth he alwayes weare therewith a Hood by the order of the Vniuersity, agreeable to his degree.

19. Whether hath your Minister or any other Preacher in your Church, preached any thing to confute or impugn any Doctrine deliuered by any other Preacher, and hath he and they prayed for Christ's Catholike Church, the Kings Maiesty, the Lord Archbishops and Bishops, &c. as is prescribed, Canon 55.

20. Whether hath or doth any Preach in your Church which refuseth to conforme himselfe to the Lawes, Rites, and Ordinances established, or which hath not first shewed a sufficient licence.

21. Whether doth your Minister in his sermons foure times in the yeare at the least, teach and declare the Kings Maiesties power within his Realmes to be the highest power vnder God, to whom all within the same owe most loyalty and obedience, and that all forraine power is iustly taken away.

22. Whether doth your Minister euery Sunday and Holiday halfe an houre before Euening prayer or more, or at some other conuenient time at Euening prayer, examine and instruct the youth in the ten Commandements, the Beleeefe, the Lords Prayer, and the Catechisme, set forth in the Booke of Common prayer, and whether doe the Church-wardens assist the Minister herein.

23. Whether hath your Minister married any which haue not been three senerall Sundayes or Holidayes, asked in your church in the time of diuine seruice, without licence or without a ring: or hath he with licence or without married any whereof neither dwelt in your Parish.

24. Whether hath your Minister with licence or without, married any, at any other times than betweene the houres of eight and twelue in the Forenoone, or in any priuate house, or when there is no licence, before the Parents and Gouvernors (the parties being vnder the age of 22 yeares) haue testified their consents.

25. Whether hath your Minister declared to the people euery Sunday at the time appointed, what Holidayes and Fasting-dayes be the weeke following, doth he being a Preacher conferre with all Recusants, and persons excommunicate or suspended? being no Preacher, doth he procure a sufficient Preacher to reclaim them thereby?

26. Whether doth your Minister keepe a Note of all persons excommunicate, and once euery sixe moneths doth he denounce them which haue not obtained their absolution, on some Sunday in seruice time, that others may bee admonished to refraine their company.

27. Whether your Parson, Vicar, or Curate, be diligent in visiting the sicke and comforting them, and whether they bury their dead in such Christian and comely manner as is prescribed in the Booke of Common Prayer, and whether any Lay man other than a lawfull Minister, hath taken vpon him to bury the dead contrary to order.

28. Whether hath your Minister refused to baptize any childe brought to the Church, or to bury any corps brought into the church or church-yard, or to church any woman having had conuenient warning thereof.

29. Whether hath your Minister being truely informed of the danger of death of any infant vnbaptized, and being desired to go to the place where the childe is, to baptize it, neglected to goe, by meanes whereof the childe hath dyed vnbaptized:

30. Whether doth your minister at any time preach or administer the communion in any priuate house, except when they are so impotent that they cannot go to church, or very dangerously sick.

31. Whether doe any Chaplens in your parish, preach or administer the Sacrament in any Chappell not consecrated, or in any house hauing no Chappell allowed by Law, and do the Lords and Masters where such chappels are, resort often to the Parish-church, and there receiue the Communion once at the least euery yeere.

32. Whether hath your Minister held or appointed any publique fast not appointed by Authority, or beene present at such: doth hee or any other in your Parish hold any lecture or exercise, or attempt by fasting or prayer, or otherwise, to cast out any Devils, without the priuity and allowance of the Bishop under his hand and seale.

33. Whether hath there been any secret Conuenticles or meetings in your Parish by any priests, ministers, or others, tending to the deprauing of the forme of prayer, doctrine, or gouernment of the Church.

34. Whether doth your Minister weare decent apparel, doth he in publique goe in his Doublet and Hose, without a Coate, or Cassocke, or Cloake, and doth he weare any vnseemly and light coloured stockings.

35. Whether doth your Minister make accustomed resort to any Tauerns, or Ale-houses, except for his honest necessities, or doth hee boord or lodge in any such place, doth hee vse any base or seruile labour, or frequent drinking, riot, dice, cards, tables, or any other vnlawful games: is hee contentious with his neighbours, or a hunter, hawker, swearer, dancer, vsurer, suspected of incontinency, or doth giue euill example of life.

35. (sic) Whether is there in your Parish any Minister or Deacon who hath forsaken his calling, vsing himselfe in his course of life as a meere Lay man.

Touching the Ecclesiasticall Courts.

First, whether the Chancellor, Commissaries, or any other vsing Ecclesiasticall Jurisdiction, in this Diocesse, their Registers, or Actuaries, Apparitors or Sumners, haue at any time beene corrupt in their places, or taken any excessive fees, or winked at and suffered any Adulteries, Fornications, Incests, or other faults, or offences to passe, and remaine vnpunished and vncorrected, or haue commuted any penance without speciall licence of the Bishop.

2. Whether doe you know that there hath been any commutation of penance, allowed of by the Ordinary in your Parish: and whether hath your Minister publicly signified it to his Congregation, what summes of money haue therefore been paid, and whether haue the said summes of money, or part thereof been distributed by your Minister and Church-wardens to the poore, or otherwise employed to some such godly and charitable vse, as was prescribed by the Ordinary.

3. Whether doe you know any housholder, or other person whatsoever, within your parish or Chappelry that is deceased, that haue made their last Wils and Testament, and the same not hitherto been proved, nor administration taken from the Ordinary or other Judge Competent.

4. Whether hath your Chancellor, Commissary, or other exercising Ecclesiasticall Jurisdiction, heard any matter of office privately in their chamber, without their sworne Registers, or their Deputies presence, or in their absence, of such other person as the Law doth allow for an actuary in such a case.

Touching Schoole-masters.

First, whether haue you in your Parish any Schoole-master, who teacheth either in publike Schoole, or priuate house, whether is he reputed to be of sound Faith and Religion, doth hee resort duely to Church, and receiue the Communion, or doth he giue any euill example of life, is he allowed by the Ordinary under his hand and seale: or doth your Minister or Curate teach, and is hee allowed in like manner.

2. Whether doth your minister or schoole-master, who teacheth, teach the Catechisme by Authority set forth, doth he when there is any Sermon or diuine Seruice, bring his schollers to church, and see them quietly and reuerently ordered, doth hee examine them after their returne, what they haue learned of the Sermon.

3. Whether doth he at other times teach them such sentences of holy Scripture, as may induce them to all godliness, doth he teach the Grammar set forth by King Henry the eight, continued by King Edward the sixt, and Queene Elizabeth.

4. Whether hath your School-master an Vsher vnder him, are they both diligent, is your Vsher allowed by the Ordinary, doth your Schoole-master direct his Vsher the forme and manner of teaching, and doth hee weekly take account of him, and the Schollers vnder his charge, how they haue profited, and what they haue learned, and out of what Authors.

5. Whether hath either of them spoken, writ, or taught against any thing whereunto he formerly subscribed, as the Kings Supremacy, the Articles of Religion, Booke of common prayer, or anything therein contained.

Touching the Parish Clarke and Sexton.

First, whether haue you a parish Clarke appointed by the Minister, sufficient for his place, of the age of twenty yeares at the least, is he of honest conuersation, can he reade, write, and sing, is he diligent in his office, and seruiceable to his Minister in the time of diuine seruice and otherwise.

2. Whether doth your Clarke meddle with any thing about his office, as churching of women, burying the dead, reading of prayers, or such like.

3. Whether doth your Clarke or Sexton keepe your Church cleane, the doores safe locked, is any thing (by his default) lost or spoyled in the Church, doth hee suffer any vntimely ringing, or any prophane exercise to be committed in your Church.

4. Whether doth your Clarke or Sexton, when any is passing out of this life, neglect to toll a bell hauing notice thereof: Or the party being dead, doth he suffer any more ringing than one short peale, and before his buriall one, and after the same another.

5. Whether doth any of your Parish refuse to pay vnto the Parish Clarke or Sexton such wages as are vnto them due, and haue been accustomedly paid.

Touching Parishioners.

First, whether hath any in your Parish spoken against, or any way impugned the Kings Maesties Supremacy in causes Ecclesiasticall, the Truth and Doctrine of the Church of England, the forme of Gods worship contained in the booke of common praier and administration of the Sacraments.

2. Whether there bee any person or persons knowne or vehemently suspected to haue written, printed, or by any meanes published, and dispersed, or otherwise to haue had in his or their vse, or keeping any Popish bookes or libels, or any of those slanderous or schismaticall, and seditious libels, or other bookes, that impeach the booke of common prayer, or the Religion, and Ecclesiasticall government, or any part thereof, established by Law in this Realme, or doth impeach the credit or estate of any Ecclesiasticall person or gouernour within the same.

3. Whether hath any in your Parish spoken against or impugned the Articles of Religion, agreed upon in Anno Domini 1562. The rites and ceremonies established in the Church the government by Arch-bishops, Bishops, Deans, Arch-deacons, and others, that beare office in the same.

4. Whether hath any in your Parish spoken against or impugned the forme of making and consecrating Bishops, Priests, or Deacons, or haue any separated themselues from the society of the congregation, and combined in a new Brotherhood, or depraued the Synod lately held by the Kings Authority.

5. Whether hath any in your Parish maintained or defended any such Ministers or Schoolemasters as refuse to subscribe to the order of the Church, haue they affirmed, that such Ministers and adherents may make Rules and Orders in causes Ecclesiasticall, without the Kings Authority.

6. Whether doth any in your Parish prophane, violate or mis-spend the Lord's day, commonly called Sunday, or holidayes or any part of them, vsing any offensive conuersation, or worldly labour in those dayes, or any of them: or is there any that wilfully refuseth, or negligently hath absented himselfe from diuine prayers on Sundayes or Holidayes.

7. Whether hath any in your Parish, in the time of diuine Seruice, couered his head, albeit he hath infirmity, in which case a cap or night-coife is allowed: or is there any who hath not reuerently kneeled when the generall Confession, Letany, and other prayers are read, and which haue not stood vp at the saying of the Beleeefe?

8. Whether hath any in your Parish disturbed the Seruice or Sermon, by walking, talking, or any other way, or departed out of the Church during the Seruice or Sermon, without some vrgent cause, or loytered about the Church or Church-porch.

9. Whether there be any in your Parish, man or woman, being aboute fifteene yeares of age, that hath not receiued the holy Communion, thrice at the least euery yeere, and namely at Easter last, or thereabouts for once: and whether any haue receiued the holy Communion in any other Parish, Church, or Chappell, or priuate place.

10. Whether hath any parent been vrged to be present, or admitted to answer as Godfather for his owne childe, or hath any Godfather or Godmother made any other answer or speech, than is prescribed by the Booke, or haue been any admitted for such at Baptisme, who haue not first receiued the Communion.

11. Whether doe all Fathers, Mothers, Maisters, Mistresses, come and cause their children, seruants, and apprentices to come duly to the Church, and according to the Ministers direction to be instructed and catechised, or who bee they that haue not obeyed the Minister herein.

12. Whether haue any persons married together within the Degrees of Consanguinity or Affinity prohibited, set forth in a Table, appointed to be placed in euery Church: or haue any married or contracted themselues vnder the age of one and twenty yeares, without the consent of their Parents, or Gouernours, if their parents be dead.

13. Whether haue any persons, once lawfully married, forsaken each other, or doe liue asunder otherwise than by law is permitted: or doe any, being diuorced or separated, Marry againe, the former wife or husband yet liuing.

14. Whether haue any been married in the times wherein marriage is by law restrained, without lawfull licence, viz. from the Saturday next before Aduent Sunday, vntill the fourteenth of January: and from the Saturday next before Septuagesima Sunday, vntill the Munday next after low Sunday: and from the Sunday before the Rogation weeke, vntil Trinity Sunday.

15. Whether hath any of your Parish vnrueerently vsed your Minister, or haue any laid violent hands vpon him, or disgraced his office and calling, by word or deede.

16. Whether haue you in your Parish any popish recusant, or maintainer of popish doctrine, or suspected to keepe or disperse schismaticall bookes, or to fauour any heresie or errour.

17. Whether haue you any common resorts to your Church, which are not of your Parish, or doe any such receiue the communion amongst you: what be their names and of what Parishes are they.

18. Whether haue any in the time of Seruice vpon any Sunday or Holiday opened their shops, exercised their trade, vsed any gaming, bin in any Tauerne or Alehouse, or otherwise ill-employ'd.

19. Whether are there in your Parish any adulterers, fornicators, incestuous persons, bawds, receiuers, close fauourers, conueyers away, or which suffer to depart any incontinent person vnpunished, any blasphemers, common swearers, drunkards, ribawds, vsurers, malicious slanderers, scolds or sowers of discord, or any defamed of the same crimes.

20. Whether do any in your Parish administer the goods of the dead, without authority, or suppress their will or testament: haue any Executors neglected to performe their wils, especially in paying of Legacies giuen to the Church, to the poore, or to any other charitable or godly vses.

21. Whether doe any refuse to pay to the reparations, ornaments, and other things required in your Church, as they are seassed by a lawfull Vestry, or any dwelling out of your Parish, which hold land in your Parish.

22. Whether haue any in your Parish been christned, churched, buried, or received the Communion, or been married out of your Church, both parties dwelling in your Parish.

23. Whether haue all women in your Parish deliuered of child, come at conuenient time after to church; to giue thanks, and haue they beane churched according to the forme of the Booke of common Prayer.

24. Whether hath the Perambulation of the circuit of your Parish bin obserued once euery yeer, if not, by whose default is it.

25. Whether haue any in your Parish giuen the Church-wardens or Side-men, or any of them euill words for doing their duty according to their oath and conscience, in making presentment for any fault.

26. Whether there be any man or woman in your Parish, that vseth witch-craft, sorcery, charmes, or vnlawfull prayer, or inuocations in Latine or English, or otherwise vpon any christian body or beast, or any that resorteth to the same for counsell, or helpe, and what be their names.

27. Whether there bee any, that pretending themselves to bee Physitians or Chirurgions, doe take vpon them to practice Physicke, or Chirurgery, not being lawfully licenced thereunto, or which refuse to show their said licence to the Minister, or Curate, and Church-wardens of your Church or Chappell, when they shall be hereunto required.

Touching Church-wardens and Sworne-men.

First, whether doe any in your Parish take vpon them to be Church-warden or Side-man, which is not lawfully chosen by the Minister and Parishioners, according to the Canon, or do any continue that office longer than one yeare, except they be chosen againe, or that it be a custome of your Parish for a Church-warden to continue two yeares, and are all such officers chosen yeerly in Easter weeke.

2. Whether doe your Church-wardens within one moneth at the most after their yeere ended, before the Minister and Parishioners giue vp a iust accompt of all such money, and other things, as they haue receiued and bestowed, haue they deliuered all remaining in their hands belonging to their Church or Parish, by Bill indented, to be deliuered to the next Church-wardens.

3. Whether haue the Church-wardens, with the aduice of the Minister, from time to time provided a sufficient quantity of fine white bread and wholesome wine for the number of communicants.

4. Whether doe the Church-wardens and Sworn-men before euery visitation, and at other times when there is iust occasion, meete and conferre about their presentments, and the answering of their Articles, and who hath (after notice giuen him of the time and place) carelesly absented himselfe.

5. Whether the forfeiture of twelue pence, for absence from Church, appointed by Statute to the vse of the poore, be taken and leuied by the Church-wardens, and employed according to the said Statute: and whether is the said forfeiture taken of all persons which stand wilfully suspended or excommunicated.

6. Whether haue any Church-wardens lost, sold, or detained any Goods, Ornaments, Bels, Rents, or Implements of the Church.

7. Whether doe you the Church-wardens and Side-men about the middest of diuine Service vsually walk out of the church, and see who are abroad in any Ale-house, or elsewhere absent, or euilly employed, and haue you presented all such to the Ordinary.

8. Whether doe you know, or haue heard a fame of any offence committed, or duty omitted by any of your Parish before your time, and heretofore not presented by the former Church-wardens to the Ordinary, or as yet not reformed, and haue you presented the same.

9. Finally, doe you know of any matter or cause which is a breach of the lawes Ecclesiasticall here not expressed, and haue you presented the same.

FINIS.

POTTER, BISHOP OF CARLISLE, 1629.

ARTICLES to be enquired of in the Diocesan Visitation of the Right Reuerend Father in God, Barnabie (by the Prouidence of God) Lord Bishop of Carlisle.

In the yeere of our Lord God 1629.

Inprinted at London 1629.

The Tenour of the Oath to be Ministred to the Church-Wardens and Sworne-men.

You, and euery of you, shall sweare by Almighty God, that (all affection and respect set aside) vpon due and deliberate consideration of these Articles giuen in charge; you shall make a true, full, and particular answere in writing to the same Articles, and euery of them, presenting all, and singular offences, and offenders therein mentioned: wherein you shall deale faithfully, and vprightly, as befores God, So helpe you God in Jesus Christ.

ARTICLES to bee inquired of, by the Church-wardens and Sworne-men in the Visitation of the Lord Bishop of Carlisle, 1629.

For the Clergie.

In primis, Whether your Parson, Vicar, Curate, or Minister be a Preacher of Gods Word, and a maintainer and furtherer of Religion now established by publike Authority within this Realme of England, or no.

2. Item, Whether he doe in his Sermons, Lectures, and other exercises, mooue the people to ioyne with him in prayer for the Kings Maiestie, our gracious Queene Mary, &c., with addition of such stile and title as of right appertaines to his Maiestie? And whether any since the 25 of September 1605 haue refused, or willingly omitted, or neglected so to doe?

3. Item, Whether he be a Preacher lawfully admitted, and by what authority. And whether your Minister or Churchwardens haue since the time aforesaid, suffered any man to preach in your Church, but such as haue first shewed their Licenees to preach, either from the Lord Archbishop of Yorke, or Bishop of the Diocesse where he dwelleth, or one of the Vniuersities, vnder their Seale.

4. Item, Whether he be painefull and diligent in Preaching as also in Catechizing the Youth of your Parish, on Sundaies and Holy-daies: and how many Sermons hath your Parson, Vicar, or Minister, preached in his owne Church, within this yeare last past: and if he be not a preacher, how many Sermons by his procurement, or otherwise, hath there beene preached this last yeere, and by whom?

5. Item, Whether any Lettures be read, or Exercises vsed, within your Parish, either publikly in the Church, or priuately in any house, by any not licensed thereunto by the Archbishop or Bishop, or the one of the Vniuersities, or being licensed, do refuse to conform themselves to the Lawes, Ordinances, and Rites Ecclesiasticall, established in the Church of England: and whether any such, so reading, or exercising, do teach or professe any doctrine of Infuauation, not agreeing to the Ordinances of the Church of England, as Papistry, Brownisme, Puritanisme, or any other Heresie or Schismaticall Error, whereby themselves or others may be drawne from their due obedience in causes Ecclesiasticall.

6. Item, Whether your Minister not being a Preacher doe euery Sunday, when there is no Sermon, reade some part of the Homilies set forth and appointed by publike authority.

7. Item, Whether your Common prayer be read by your Minister in your church or chappell, distinctly and reuerently (sic) vpon all sundaies, holy-dayes, and other daies, as is prescribed in or by the booke of Common prayer, without any innouation or omission, and at due and conuenient houres: and whether in like sort the Sacrament be reuerently ministred, as in and by the same Booke is appointed.

8. Item, Whether doth your Minister vsually weare the Surplesse whilest he is saying the publike Prayers, and ministring the Sacraments: And if he be a Graduat, whether doth he also vpon his Surplesse weare such a hood, as is agreeable to his degree, and such decent apparell as by the late Constitutions are appointed.

9. Item, Whether doth your Minister in the administration of the Sacrament of Baptisme, vse the signe of the Crosse, according to the Booke of Common Prayer: And whether he hath deferred or refused to Baptize any Infant, being in danger of death, hauing notice of the weakenesse thereof: and whether by his default hath any dyed without Baptisme.

10. Item, Whether hath your parson, vicar, or curate, admitted any to the holy Communion, or to be Godfather or godmother at baptisme, being a person excommunicate, any known or notorious offenders, any not instructed in the principles of religion, or any to the communion which then were not of your parish. And whether hath he so often and at such times administred the same as euery parishioner may receiue the same at the least euery yeere thrice, whereof once at Easter, as by the common prayer booke is appointed.

11. Whether hath he churched any woman after the birth of her childe begotten in Incest, adultery, fornication, or married any woman so begotten with child without publik confession of their faults at their churching or mariages in the presence of the congregation, vpon some sabbath or festiual day at morning prayer time, leauing their further punishment to the ordinary, or other competent Judge.

12. Item, Whether hath your parson, Vicar, curate, or minister since the 25 of September 1605. celebrated matrimony without licence granted by such as haue Episcopal Authority, except the banes of matrimony were formerly published three seueral Sundaies or holy-daies in the time of diuine Service in the parish Church or Chappel where the said parties then dwelt, and at any other time then betwene the houres of 8 and 12 of the clocke in the fore-noone, or in any other place, then in the Church or Chappell, where one of the parties dwelt. And whether without consent of Parents, or other Gouernours.

13. Item, Whether hath your Parson, vicar, or curat more benefices or Ecclesiasticall promotions then one, and what be their names, and where is he most resiant. And if he haue more then one, how is he qualified and dispensed withall to hold and enioy the same. And how doth he supply his absence, whether by a Curate or Minister licenced to Preach, or not. And if he be, then by whom is he licenced. And what distribution doth he make thereby to the poore, where he is not resident.

14. Item, Whether doth your minister or curat serue any more Cures then one; and if so then what other Cure doth he serue.

15. Item, Whether doth your parson, vicar, or curate, according to an act of Parliament in that behalfe made, call vpon and require the people of his parish to solemnize & keep holy the 5 day of Nouemb: & that day do come to the Church & ioyne in prayers and thanksgiving for the happy deliuerance of His Maiest, [sic] Prince, & States of Parliament from the most traiterous and bloody-intended massacre by Gunpowder, and whether doe the people of your Parish accordingly repaire to the Church, or doe any refuse or neglect so to doe, present their names and surnames.

16. Item, Whether doth he carefully visite the sicke of his parish by exhorting and ministring vnto them, as by the Booke of Common prayer is appointed. And whether doth he attend the buriall of the dead by meeting the Corpes at the Churchstie and so accompany the same to the Church or Graue, saying or singing such places of Scriptures as are appointed by the said Booke.

17. Item, Whether is your Minister suspected or defamed to haue obtained his Benefice by Symonie, or reputed to be an incontinent person, or keepeth any Woman in his house suspected of incontinency, or to be a common Drunkard, or a common gamester, or player at Dice, or common Vsurer, or doth keep any Alehouse in his Parsonage, or Vicarage house, or faulty in any other crime punishable by Ecclesiasticall censures, whereby he is offensiuie to his Ministry and calling?

18. Item, Whether your Minister, Church-wardens and others, for the retaining of the circuit of your Parish by perambulation, as hath been prescribed, doe use the same without superstition, or Popish Ceremonie.

19. Item, Whether doth your Parson or Vicar maintayne and keep in due reparations the Mansion-houses and other Edifices belonging to their Ecclesiasticall Liuing without suffering them to fall into ruine and decay?

20. Item, Whether doth your Minister euery Sunday, according to the Booke of Common Prayer, make knowne to the people what Holy-dayes and Fasting-dayes are in the weeke following.

21. Item, Whether your Minister, being a Preacher, offer quiet and temperate conference to Popish Recusants: and endeouour diligently to reclaim them from their errors: and whether they or any of them refuse such conference offered vnto them by your said Minister, or other Preacher, and what bee their names and surnames?

22. Item, Whether the Chancellor, for any composition, agreement, or payment of any summe of money, haue suppressed and concealed the Excommunication, or other Ecclesiasticall censure, of or against any Popish Recusant or offender: and what summe of money, or other consideration hath bene promised or receiued in that behalfe (to your knowledge) or as you haue heard reported.

23. Item, Whether doth your Minister euery halfe yeare once, denounce in your Parish, all such Parishioners as doe remaine excommunicate and seek not to be absouled: and how long haue any excommunicate person continued vnder the censure thereof, and admitted into the Church without a certificate of his absolution from the Ordinary, or his Chancellour.

24. Item, Whether hath your Minister publikely in your Parish Church or Chappel, once euery yeare, reade ouer the Constitutions and Canons Ecclesiasticall agreed vpon by the Cleargie of both Prouinces, Anno 1603, according to his Maiesties commandement.

For the Laitie.

25. Item, Whether you haue in your parish Church, or Chappel all things necessary and requisite for common Prayer and administration of the Sacraments, as the Booke of common Prayer with the new Kalender, The English Bible of the new Translation in the largest Volume, two Psalters, two Bookes of Homilies, a decent Baptistry or Font, a Table of the Ten Commandements, a conuenient seate for the Minister to sit in, a comely and decent Pulpit with cloth and cushion for the same, a comely Communion Table, with a faire linnen Cloth to lay vpon the same, and some Couering of Silke, Buckeram, or other such like, for the cleane keeping thereof, a faire and comely Communion Cup of Siluer, with a Siluer couer, such as may serue for Ministration of the Holy Communion, a decent large Surplesse with sleeues, a chest or boxe for the poore: and the said Booke of Constitutions and Canons Ecclesiasticall.

26. Item, Whether the body of your Church or Chappell, with the Chancell, be well and sufficiently repayed, and kept without profanation or abuse any way: and if decayed or profaned, through whose default: and whether your Bells and Stals in the same be well maintained, your Church-yard well walled or fenced, and decently kept, and if the same in any part be decayed, through whose default.

28. (sic.) Item, Whether the Baptistry or Font be removed from the vsual place: or whether any persons leauing the vse thereof doe baptize Children in basons or other vessells not vsed within the Church: or whether any Children be baptized or christned in priuate houses, otherwise then in cases of necessitie, and by a lawfull Minister and if yea, then whose Children were they, and by whom were they baptized. And whether such so baptised, were afterwards brought to the Church for further manifestation and approbation hereof, according to the Booke of Common Prayer.

29. Item, Whether are there any person or persons inhabiting or sojourning within your parish or Chappellic that be notorious Recusants, or which negligently or seldome come to your Church or Chappell, vpon Sabbaths or Festiual daies both at morning and euening prayer and who be they, and what be their names and surnames, and how long they haue so continued, and of what estate, age, condition or degree they are of, and whether there be any within your said parish or Chappellic aboue the age of sixteene yeares, which doe not yearly communicate thrise at the least, whereof once at Easter, and who be they.

30. Item, Whether are there any resiant within your parish, who haue been conuicted of Recusancie, which haue conformed themselues, and not receiued the Sacrament of the Lords Supper within one whole yeare after the conformitie, and for how many yeares haue they not receiued the same, and what be their names and surnames.

31. Item, Whether are there within your parish any Popish Recusants, of bold, insolent, and offensiuie behaviour, which presume to seduce and withdrawe others, either in their owne families or else where, from the true Religion now established, or from due obedience from his Maiestie, or which make speciall choise of Recusants to be their seruants.

32. Item, Whether doe your Minister, Church-wardens, Questmen and Assistants yearely within fortie daies after Easter, exhibite to the Bishop or his Chauncellor according to the 112 Canon, the names and surnames of all the Parishioners, as well men as women, which being of the age of sixteen yeares receiued not the Communion at Easter before.

33. Item, Whether the Youth of your parish doe diligently repaire to your Church or Chappell vpon Sabbaths, and Holy-daies to be Catechised. And if not, in whose default, Canon 59.

34. Item, Whether any doe goe out of the Church or Chappell, or doe vse talking, walking, or sleeping, or any other unseemely offences, or other unrepentent behaviour in the time of publike prayer, preaching, celebration of the Sacraments, or catechising, and who are they.

35. Item, Whether there be any which priuately or publikely, by speech or otherwise depraue any part of the true Religion established within this Realme, or the Ministers or professors thereof: or whether any Lectures, Conuenticles or priuate exercises be read or vsed within your parish, either in the Church, or in any house. And whether any such Reader doe teach any doctrine of Innoation, to withdraw the people from their due obedience to the ordinances of the Church, set foorth by publike authoritie, or cause them to forbear to participate in prayer, or Sacrament with our Church.

36. Item, Whether haue you any Schoolemaster, who teacheth either publikely or priuately, within your saide parish or Chappelrie, not being lawfully licenced thereunto by the Bishop by writing vnder seale, and how long hath he there taught.

37. Item, Whether any within your parish or Chappelrie doe suffer any to eate, drinke, play, iangle or talke in their house or yeard: or any Butcher or Trades-man their shop windowes to be kept open to sell meate, drinke or ware on Sundaies in time of morning and euening prayers, Sermons, Lectures, or catechising: or any that labour or worke on the Sabbath, or other commanded Festiuall daies to the hinderance of prayers, Sermons, or other godly exercises.

38. Item, Whether any within your Parish, doe chide, brawle, quarrell or fight within your Church or Church-yard, what are their names and surnames, and who be the same. And whether any of them hath drawne any weapon there, with purpose to strike with the same.

39. Item, Whether are there within your saide Parish or Chappelrie, any rush-bearing, bull-baitings, beare-baitings, may-games, morice-dances, marriage offerings, ales, or any such like prophane pastimes or assemblies on the Sabbath.

40. Item, Whether bee there any within your Parish or Chappelrie, that vse to ring the Bells superstitiously vpon any abrogated Holy-dayes or the Euenes thereof: And whether is the Passing Bell tolled when any Christian body is sicke and like to dye, as it ought be: And after the death of any, whether there be any superstitious ringing, superstitious burning of candles ouer the Corse in the day-time, after it bee light: Or praying for the dead at Crosses or places where Crosses haue bene in the way to the Church, or any other superstitious vse of Crosses, with Towels, Palmes, Metwindes, or other memories of Idolatry at Burialls, or superstitiously do goe on Pilgrimages, or any place dedicated to our Lady, or any Saints or otherwise.

41. Item, Whether are you prouided of a Parchment booke, in which haue bene and are written the names of all children, men, and women Baptized, Married, or Buried within your Parish, contained in your former Register Booke, and since the beginning of the late Queene Elizabeth, And whether the day and yeare of euery christning, wedding, and buriall which haue bene in your Parish hath bene duely written in that booke: and whether you haue a sure Coffer with three locks and keyes for the safe custody thereof.

42. Item, Whether is there placed by your Register, two Tables containing the seuerall rates and summes of all fees due to the Judge and other Officers of your Court, one in the vsuall place or Consistory where the Court is kept; and the other in his Registry, in such sort as euery man may come to view the same without difficultie: and whether your Chancellor, or Register, doe exact or extort any greater Fees or summes of money, then in the said Tables are contained, and if so, let the same be expressed.

43. Item, Whether are there, or haue bene, since his Maiesties most happy reigne ouer this Kingdome, within your Parish or Chappelry, any incestuous persons, adulterers, or fornicators: or since the 25 of September 1605, any vsurers, drunkards, swearers, or any other, who are vehemently suspected or defamed of any such crime, and who be they?

44. Item, Whether within your Parish or Chappelrie are there, or haue bene since his Maiesties so happy Reigne, any person hauing two Wiues, or any woman two Husbands, or any married within the Degrees forbidden, or without Banes three seuerall Sundayes or Holy-dayes first published, or in the time by Law prohibited, without lawfull Licence thereunto by such as haue Episcopal Authorite, or any who had carnall knowledge together before their Marriage, or that are vehemently (sic) suspected thereof, and who they be?

45. Item, Whether haue any bene priuately married together within your parish, by any vnknowne Priest or Minister, or any who haue not procured their Children to be publicly baptized in your said Church or Chappell, according to the Booke of Common Prayer, and who they be?

46. Item, Whether any within your Parish or Chappelry haue harbored any women begotten with childe forth of lawfull Matrimony, and haue suffered them to depart away vnpunished: Or any who doe harbour or releue any obstinate Recusants or excommunicated persons, and what and how many Recusants or persons excommunicated be there within your said Parish or chappelrie, and how long haue they so remained, and for what causes they were so excommunicated?

47. Item, Whether any of you (sic) Parish doe refuse to contribute towards the reparations of your Church or Chappel or towards the prouision of any necessary ornaments therein, or that refuse to pay your Curate or Parish Clearke his wages, or other vsuall duties, and who they be?

48. Item, Whether the Church-wardens and Sidemen bee chosen according to the 80 and 90 Canon: and during their time haue faithfully and dutifully discharged their office, and at or before their going out of the same, made a just account of their receipts and proceedings to the vse of the Church: and whether any part of your Church Stocke, or any other thing giuen to any godly publicke vse, be deliuered to any or otherwise employed then appertaineth?

49. Item, Whether your Parish-clearke be dutifull and diligent in attending the Minister, and of sufficiency to discharge his place, or not?

50. Item, Whether any within your Parish or Chappelrie doe occupie or intermeddle with the goods or cattels of any deceased person whatsoever, whose Will, if any such be, is not lawfully approoued, or dying Intestate, the administration thereof not lawfully granted, and who they be.

51. Item, Whether the Chancellor aforesaid hath granted any admission for Curates, licences for Schoolemasters, or parish Clearks, Sequestrations of vacant Benefices by his supposed authoritie, and how many, and to whom, and what be their names.

52. Item, Whether hath the said Chancellor commuted any corporall punishment for any summe of money, and what be their names whose punishment haue bene commuted, for what offence by whom, and for what summe of money, and how hath the said money bene employed?

53. Item, Whether the Register, or his Deputie or Deputies, or any of them hath taken any reward for the concealing of any offence or sin, or for the auoiding of punishment of the Offendors: And what offendors within your Parish haue escaped vnpunished (sic), that were lawfully presented to the Ecclesiastical Court, and by whose meanes: And what summes of money haue they or any of them taken or receiued, for sparing such Offendors: Or doth he or any of them take any fees not accustomed.

54. Item, Whether hath there been any licences for Marriage granted to any within your Parish, without the priuity of the Ordinary, his Chancellor or the Chancellors Deputy, or otherwise contrary to the Canons and Constitutions in that behalfe prouided, and what Licences haue been so made, and by whom. And whether is the Register and his Deputy carefull in keeping and preseruing the Records committed to his charge?

55. And lastly Whether is there within your said Parish or Chappelry, any offender or offendors in any other crime against the said Canons, and Constitutions, and other Lawes Ecclesiasticall not expressly contained in any of these Articles, whose reformation may bee had by Ecclesiasticall authoritie, and who, and what the same are?

FINIS.

These Articles shall be sent to euery Church and Chappelry, thirteene dayes at the least before the Bishops Visitation, to the ende the same bee publicly reade by the Minister, or Curate, to the whole Parish or Chappelrie, and that the Church-Wardens may haue sufficient time to make their answers to euery Article, and the same in Writing, at time of the Visitation.

ELAND, ARCHDEACON OF BEDFORD, 1629.

ARTICLES to be enquired of in the Visitation of the Archdeacon of Bedford. 1629.

Imprinted at, London, Anno 1629.*

[The Churchwardens' Oath is the same as in Bishop Goodman's Articles in 1634.]

Touching the Church, Churchyard, Parsonage, and Vicarage house.

First, whether your Church, Chappell, and Chancell well and sufficiently repaired in the Wals, and Roofe, the seats conuenient, the floore paved, the windowes glazed,† and all these cleanly kept, and the Mansion house of your Parson or Vicar, with the buildings thereunto belonging, be likewise well and sufficiently repayed, and your Church-yard-wals, Rayles, or pales‡ cleanly kept?

2. Whether hath your Church or Churchyard bene abused and prophaned by any fighting, chiding, brawling or quarrelling, anie plaies, Lords of misrule, Summer Lords, Morris dancers, Pedlers, Bowlers, Bearewardes, Butchers, Feasts, Schooles, temporal Courts or Leets, Lay Iuries, Musters, or other prophane vsage in your Church, or Church-yard, any Bels superstitiously rung on Holy-daies or their Eeues, or at any other times, without good cause allowed by the Minister and Churchwardens, and * Altered in MS. to 1639. These Articles were also issued by Neile, Archbishop of York, in 1633, with whose edition they are here collated. Compare also Bishop Andrewes' Articles in 1619.

† your Bells in tune. Added in York, 1633.

‡ Churchyard—pales] Church-yard well fenced with wals, rayles, or payles, and] 1633

haue anie trees beene felled in the Churchyard, and by whom?

3. Whether are your Almshouses, and Church house, and Schoole-houses or other houses or buildings set vpon the soile of the Church or Church-yard,* sufficiently repaired, maintained, and to godly and right vse employed?

Whether haue you in your Church, all things necessary for common Praier, and other Rites of the Church,† as the Bible in the largest volume, the Booke of Common Praier lately authorized by his Maiestie, the Bookes‡ of Homilies allowed,§ a conuenient Pulpit for preaching, a decent seat for the Minister to reade seruide in, conueniently placed, a strong Chest with three ockes, and three Keyes, one for the Minister, the other for the Churchwardens for the keeping of the Register Booke of the Christnings, Marriages, and burials, and a poore mans boxe¶ conueniently seated in¶ the Church doore. And whether doth your Minister at the making of his Parishioners Wils, exhort them to giue to the poore mans boxe, according to their abilities.**

5. Whether haue you in your Church a font of stone for Baptisme set in the ancient vsuall place, a decent table for the Communion conueniently placed, covered with silke, or other decent stufte, in time of diuine seruice, and with a faire linnen cloath ouer that, at the administration of the Communion?

6. Whether haue you all such Bells, Ornaments, and other Utensils as haue anciently belonged to your Church, a Communion cup of siluer, with a couer, a faire standing pot†† of Pewter or purer mettall for the wine vpon the Communion Table, a comely surplesse with sleeues,‡‡ and a booke of the names of all strange Preachers, subscribed with their names, and the name of the Bishop or others where they had licence?§§

Touching the Ministrie, Seruice, and Sacraments.

1. Whether is the Morning||| praier said or sung by your Minister, both Morning and Euening, distinctly and reuerently euery Sunday and Holiday, and on their Eeues, and at conuenient and vsuall times of those daies, and in most conuenient place,¶¶ for the edifying of the people?

2. Whether doth your Minister obserue the orders, Rites and ceremonies prescribed in the booke of Common prayer, in reading the holy Scriptures, Prayers and administration of the Sacraments, without diminishing (in regard of preaching or any other respect) or adding any thing in the matter*** or forme thereof?

3. Whether doth your Minister on Wednesdaies and Fridayes not being Holydaies, at the accustomed houres of seruice resort to the Church, and say the Letany and other††† prayers prescribed. And doth your Clerke or Sexton giue warning before by towling of a Bell on those dayes, and doth one person of euery house repaire to the Church at those times vsually, and there stay according to the Canon.††††

4. Whether your§§§ Minister leauing the vse of the Font, doe||| christen or baptize in any Basons, or other prophane vessels, or whether your Minister doe baptize or christen any out of the face of the Church and congregation, and at any other time then vpon Sundaies and Holydayes¶¶¶ without special cause or without Godfathers or Godmothers. And whether any person or persons be admitted to answer as Godfathers and Godmothers, at the christning of any child, except he or she haue before receiued the holy Communion. And whether doth your Minister in the baptizing of children, obserue the Orders, Rites and ceremonies appointed**** in the booke of Common Prayer, without addition, omission, or innouation?

* and Schoole—Church-yard] omitted, 1633.

† and other—Church] omitted, 1633.

‡ Bookes] booke, 1633.

§ two books of common prayer. Added, 1633.

¶ with three locks. Added, 1633.

¶¶ in] neere, 1633.

** And whether—abilities] omitted, 1633.

†† or two. Added, 1633.

††† A Register booke of parchment, for Christnings, marriages and burials. Added, 1633.

§§ The following Articles are added by Archbp. Neile in 1633.

7. Whether is the Almes for the poore duely distributed, and are the names and surnames of all persons married, christned and buried, and of their parents, with the day and yeere entred in your parchment Register booke?

8. Whether are the ten Commandments set vp in your Church or Chappell, and other chosen sentences of holy Scripture vpon the walls in conuenient places, and the table of the degrees prohibited in marriage, set forth 1563?

9. Whether haue you in your Church or Chappell the booke of the Canons agreed vpon in the Conuocation holden at London, Anno Dom. 1603, and confirmed by his Maiesties royall authority, and whether your Minister haue read the same in your Church or Chappell once euery yeere, according to his Maiesties Injunctions in that behalfe.

||| Morning] common, 1633.

¶¶ of the Church. Added, 1633.

*** matter] manner. 1633.

††† other] ordinary. 1633.

†††† and doth one—Canon] omitted, 1633.

§§§ your] any. 1633.

||| in your Church or Chappell. Added, 1633.

¶¶¶ and at any—Holydayes] omitted, 1633.

**** and prescribed. Added, 1633.

5. Whether doe you know any Parents, hauing children that are yet vnchristened,* or that were not christened, at their owne Parish Church or Chappell or for what cause they remaine yet vnchristened, or haue not been christened at their Parish Church or Chappell, or doe you know, haue heard, or vehemently suspect any such Parents whose children haue beene christned by any Popish Priest, or otherwise, then by the Lawes of the Church of England is allowed?

6. Whether doth your Minister, as oft as he administred the Communion, first receiue it himselfe, whether doth he vse any bread or wine newly brought, before the words† of institution be rehearsed, and the bread and wine present on the table, doth he not deliver the bread and wine to euery communicant seuerally?‡

7. Whether doth your Minister giue warning publickely in the Church at Morning Prayer, the Sunday before he administred the Communion, for the better preparation of the Parishioners.§

8. ||Whether hath your Minister admitted to the Communion any that be openly knowne to liue in some notorious offence or crime without repentance, or satisfaction of the congregation, or who hath openly and maliciously contended with his or her Neighbors, before he or she haue openly & charitably reconciled themselues againe, and remitted all rancor & malice, whatsoever controuersie hath bin betweene them?

9. Whether hath your Minister administred the Communion to any but such as kneele, or doe any¶ refuse to kneele, hath he administred to any who refuseth** to be present at publicke prayer, or who hath deprauid the booke of common prayer, administration of the Sacraments, or the Rites and ceremonies prescribed, or the Articles of Religion agreed vpon, or the booke of ordering††† Priests and Bishops, or against his Maiesties supremacy, or haue any been for those causes repelled, & haue they repented in writing or otherwise,‡‡ and what be their names?

10. Whether hath your Minister more benefices then one, if he haue, how far distant are they, and whether serues he two cures or not, when he is absent, hath he an allowed preacher for his Curate?§§

11. Whether your Church or Chappell be or haue been destitute of a Curate, and how long, and by whose default, and whether any Curate haue serued, or do serue without licence of the Ordinary?

12. Whether doe you know any Popish Priests, Seminaries, Jesuits, or runagate persons that do preach, say Masse, or Minister any Popish Sacraments or ceremonies, or else do resort secretly or openly vnto your parish, and what be their names,||| and vnto whose houses doe they resort, and of whom are they harboured and relieued, set down their names and surnames.¶¶¶

13. Whether your Parson, Vicar, or Curate, or any other person in your Parish, be a fauorer of the Romish Church or Religion, or of any other sect or schismaticall opinion, or hath, or doth maintaine, or teach any doctrine, contrary or repugnant to*** any of the Articles agreed vpon by the Clergie in the Conuocation holden at London, An. Dom. 1562. And whether they haue taught publickely or secretly any doctrine, tending to the discredit and dispraise either of the booke of common praier, or of the Preachers and Ministers of the word & sacraments, or of the receiued order for government by Archbishops, Bishops, Deanes, Archdeacons, & other officers in the Church of England, or make any other innouation. And whether haue they permitted any man so teaching, or making innouation in such manner?†††

14. Whether is your Minister an allowed Preacher, if hee be not, whether doth he procure euery month a Sermon, to be preached in his Cure by Preachers lawfully licenced, * hauing—vnchristened] that keepe children vnchristened. 1633.

† words] word. 1633.

‡ in such sort as is prescribed. Added, 1633.

§ and whether doth hee administer the Sacraments so often as that euery parishioner may receiue thrice in the yeere at the least, whereof Easter to be one? Added, 1633.

|| Article 8 omitted, 1633.

¶ any] you knowe any that. 1633.

** any who refuseth] any that are vnder Ecclesiasticall censure, as for refusing. 1633.

†† Deacons. Added, 1633.

‡‡ or haue any—otherwise] or hath committed other the like enormities. 1633.

§§ and whether serues he—Curate] how often is he absent in the yeere? when free is absent from your parsonage or vicaridge, hath he a licenced preacher for his Curate? 1633.

||| and what—names] omitted, 1633.

¶¶ set down—surnames] and what be the names of such Popish Priests, Seminaries, Jesuites, or Runnagates, and such as so harbour and relieue them? 1633.

*** Gods Word or to. Added, 1633.

††† in such manner] and not made the same knowne. 1633.

and on every Sunday when there is no Sermon, doth he, or his Curate reade some one of the Homilies prescribed?*

15. Whether doth your Minister alwaies in saying the publike prayers, and administering the Sacraments, weare a decent Surplesse with sleeues, & being a Graduate, doth he alwaies weare therewith a Hood, by order of the Universities, agreeable to his degree.

16. Whether hath your Minister, or any other Preacher in your Church, preached anything to confute or impugn any doctrine deliuered by any other preacher, and hath he and they prayed for Christs Catholike Church, the Kings Maiestie, the Lords, Archbishops, and Bishops, &c., as is prescribed Canon 55.

17. Whether hath or doth any preach in your Church which refuseth to conforme himselfe to the lawes, rites, and ordinances established, or which hath not first shewed a sufficient licence.

18. Whether doth your Minister in his Sermon foure times in the yeare at the least, teach and declare the Kings Maiesties power within his Realmes, to be the highest power vnder God, to whom all within the same owe most loyaltie and obedience, and that all forraigne power is justly taken away.

19. Whether doth your Minister every Sunday halfe an houre before Euening prayer, or more, † examine and instruct the youth in ‡ the Catechisme set forth in the booke of Common Prayer, and whether doe the Churchwardens assist the Minister herein. §

20. Whether hath your Minister with licence, or without, married any at any other times then betwene the houres of 8 and 12. in the forenoone, or in any priuate house, or when theré is no licence, before the Parents and Gouvernors (the parties being vnder the age of 21. || yeares) haue testified their consents?

21. Whether hath your Minister declared to the people every Sunday, at the time appointed, what Holidayes and Fasting dayes be the weeke following? Doth he being a Preacher, conferre with all Recusants, and persons Excommunicate or suspended? ¶

22. Whether doth your Minister keepe a note of all persons Excommunicate and once every sixe Moneths doth he denounce them, which have not obtained their absolution on some Sunday in Seruice time, that others may be admonished to refrainne their company.

23. Whether your Parson, Vicar, or Curate be diligent in visiting the sicke, & comforting them, and whether they bury their dead in such Christian & comely manner, as is prescribed in the booke of Common prayer: and whether any Lay-man, other than a lawfull Minister, hath taken vpon him to bury the dead, contrary to order.

24. Whether hath your Minister refused to Baptize any Childe brought to the Church, or to bury any corps brought into the Church or Churchyard, or to Church any woman, hauing had conuenient warning thereof.

25. Whether hath your Minister being truly informed of the danger of death of any Infant vn baptized, and being desired to goe to the place where the Childe is, to Baptize it, neglected to goe, by means whereof the childe dyed vn baptized.

26. Whether doth your Minister at any time preach or administer the Communion in any priuate house, except when any are so impotent that they cannot goe to Church, or very dangerously sicke.

27. Whether do any Chaplens in your Parish preach, or administer the Sacrament in any Chappell not consecrated, or in any house hauing no Chappell allowed by law, and do the Lords & Masters where such Chappels be, resort often to the Parish Church, and there receiue the Communion once at the least every yeare.

* Article 14 is as follows in 1633. 13. Whether is your Minister an allowed Preacher; if he be, doth he every Sunday in your Church, or some other next adioyning, where no preacher is, preach?

† 14. Whether doth your Minister being no Preacher allowed, presume to expound the Scripture in his own Cure, or elsewhere: doth he procure every month a Sermon (&c. as in the text.)

‡ The two following Articles are then added:—
15. Whether your Minister doe openly every Sunday after he haue read the second Lesson at Morning & Euening Praier, admonish and warne the Church-wardens, & Sworne-men to look to their charge, & to obserue who offend in absenting themselves negligently or wilfully from their Parish-Church or Chappell, or vnreuerently vse themselves in time of diuine Service?

§ 16. Whether is your Curate allowed by the Ordinary vnder his hand and seale to serue for your Cure, and whether doth hee serue two Churches or chappels in one day? Whether is he Deacon at the least, and what stipend hath he for seruing the Cure?

¶ or at some other conuenient time at Euening prayer. Added, 1633.
|| the ten Commandements, the Beleefts, the Lords Prayer and. Added 1633.

§ The following Article is here added in 1633:—
22. Whether hath your Minister married any which haue not bene three severall Sundayes or Holydaies asked in your Church in the time of diuine Seruice without licence or without a ring: or hath hee, with licence or without, married any, whereof neither dwelt in your Parish?

¶ 21 | 22. 1633.
¶ being no Preacher doth he procure a sufficient Preacher to reclaime them thereby? Added, 1633.

23.* Whether doth your Minister reside vpon his Parsonage, or Vicarage house.

29.* Whether is there any building of any Chancell, Parsonage, or Vicaragehouse in the memorie of man decayed, or taken away, or changed in the couering of any of them, within that time.

30. Whether hath your Minister held or appointed any publike fast, or beene present, at such. Doth he, or any other in your Parish hold any Lecture or exercise, or attempt by fasting or prayer, or otherwise, to cast out deuils, without the license † of the Bishop, vnder his hand and seale.

31. Whether hath there bin any secret conuenticles or meetings in your parish by any Priests, ministers, or others, tending to the deprauing of the form of praier, doctrine, or government of the Church? ‡

Touching Ecclesiasticall Courts. §

First, whether the official or any other vsing Ecclesiasticall Jurisdiction in this Dioces, their Registers or Actuaries, Apparitors, or Sumners, haue at any time winked at and suffered any Adulteries, Fornications, Incests, or other faults or offences to passe, and remaine vnpunished and vncorrected, or haue commuted any penance of such offenders?

2. Whether doe you know any housholder or other person whatsoever within your parish or chappelry that is deceased, that haue made their last Wills & Testament, the same not hitherto beene proued, nor Administration taken from the Ordinary, or other Judge competent.

Touching Schoole-masters.

First, whether haue you in your Parish any Schoole-master who teacheth either in publike Schoole, or in priuate house, whether is he reputed to be of sound faith and Religion, || doth he giue any euill example of life, is he allowed by the Ordinary, vnder his hand and seale: or doth your Minister or Curate teach, and is he allowed in like manner, or where and by whom are your Children taught? ¶

2. Whether doth your Minister or Schoolemaster who teacheth, teach the Catechisme by Authority set forth. Doth hee when there is any Sermon or diuine Seruice, bring his Schollers to Church, and see them quietly and soberly ordered; doth he examine them after their returne what they haue learned of the Sermon.**

* Articles 28, 29, omitted 1633.

† Heense | priuily and allowance. 1633.

‡ The following Articles are added in 1633.

34. Whether doth your Minister weare decent Apparell, doth he in publike goe in his Doublet and Hose, without a Coate, or Cassocke, or Cioake, and doth he weare any vnseemely & light-coloured apparell or stockings?

34. Whether doth your Minister make accustomed resort to any Taverns or Ale-houses, except for his honest necessities: or doth hee board or lodge in any such place, doth he vse any base or seruile labour, or frequent drinking, riot, dice, cards, tables, or any other vnlawfull games: is he contentious with his neighbours, or a hunter, hawkler, swearer, dancer, vsurer, suspected of incontinency, or doth giue euill example of life?

35. Whether is there in your Parish any Minister or Deacon who hath forsaken his calling, vsing himselfe in his course of life as a meere Lay-man?

36. Whether is his Maiesties declaration lately published for quieting and silencing the controuersies lately stirred vp to the disturbance of our Church with new questions, strictly obserued by your Parson, Vicar, or Curate, or whomsouer else preacheth in your Church?

37. Whether doth your Parson, Vicar, Curate, or Lecturer, catechize the youth of the Parish in your Church, every Sunday after dinner by question and answer; and apply his afternoon preaching and exhortation, to the instructing and edifying of the congregation in that kind of catechizing?

38. Whether haue you in your parish any weekday Lecture, or not? And if you haue, by whom is the same performed; whether by one particular man thereto licensed, or by sundry neighbour Ministers, and whether are the publike prayers alwaies read, before such lectures and sermons, in his surplesse and hood, according to his Maiesties instructions lately set forth?

39. Whether are there any within your parish (vnder the degree of Noblemen and men qualified by law) who doe keepe any priuate Chaplaines in their houses?

§ The Articles under this title in 1633 are as follows:—

First, whether the Chancellor, Commissaries, or any other vsing Ecclesiasticall Jurisdiction in this Diocesse, their Registers or Actuaries, Apparitors or Sumners, haue at any time been corrupt in their places, or taken any excessive fees, or winked at & suffered any Adulteries, Fornications, Incests, or other faults or offences to passe, & remaine vnpunished & vncorrected, or haue commuted any penance without special licence of the Bishop?

2. Whether do you know that there hath bene any commutation of penance, allowed of by the Ordinary in your parish: and whether hath your Minister publicly signified it to his Congregation, what summes of money haue therefore bene payd, and whether haue the sayd summes of money, or part thereof bene distributed by your Minister and Church-wardens to the poore, or otherwise employed to some such godly & charitable vse, as was prescribed by the Ordinary?

3. Whether do you know any housholder (&c. as in Art. 2. of the text).

4. Whether hath your Chancellor, Commissary (* * * torn) exercising Ecclesiasticall Jurisdiction, heard any matter (* * * torn) office priuately in their chamber, without their sworne (torn) sters, or their Deputies presence, or in their absence, of * * * other person as the Law doth allow for an actuary in such a case?

¶ Doth he resort duely to Church and receiue the Communion, or. Added, 1633.

¶ or where—taught. Omitted, 1633.

** The following Articles are added in 1633.

3. Whether doth he at other times teach them such sentences of holy Scripture, as may induce them to all Godlinesse, doth he teach the Grammar set forth by King Henry the eight, continued by King Edward the Sixt, and Queene Elizabeth?

Touching the Parish Clerke and Sexton.

First, whether haue you a parish Clerke appointed by the Minister sufficient for his place, of the age of twenty yeares at the least, is he of honest conuersation, can he reade, write, and sing, is he diligent in his office, and seruiceable to his Minister, in the time of diuine Seruice, and otherwise.

2. Whether doth your Clerke meddle with any thing about his office; as Churching of women, burying the dead, reading of prayers or such like.

3. Whether doth your Clerke or Sexton keepe your Church cleane, the doores safe locked, is any thing (by his default) lost or spoyled in the Church, doth he suffer any vnreasonable* ringing, or any prophane exercise in your Church.†

4. Whether doth any of your Parish refuse to pay vnto the Parish Clerke or Sexton such wages as are vnto them due, and haue bene accustomedly paid.

Touching Parishioners.

First, whether hath any in your Parish spoken against, or any way impugned the Kings Maiesties Supremacie in causes Ecclesiasticall, the Truth and Doctrine of the Church of England, the forme of Gods worship contained in the booke of Common Prayer, and Administration of the Sacraments.‡

2. Whether hath any in your Parish spoken against or impugned the Articles of Religion agreed vpon in An. Dom. 1562. the rites and ceremonies established in the Church, the gouernment by Archbishops, Bishops, Deanes, Archdeacons, and others that beare office in the same.

3. Whether hath any in your Parish spoken against, or impugned the forme of making and consecrating Bishops, Priests, or Deacons, or haue any separated themselues from the societie of the congregation, and combined in a new Brother-hood, or depraued the Sinodes lately held by the Kings Authoritie.

4. Whether hath any in your Parish maintained or defended any such Ministers or Schoolemaisters as refuse to subscribe to the order of the Church.||

5. Whether doth any in your Parish prophane, violate, or mispend the Sabbath, or Holidayes, or any part of them,¶ vsing any offensive conuersation, or worldly labour in those dayes, or any of them.**

6. Whether hath any in your Parish in the time of Diuine Seruice, couered his head, albeit he hath infirmities, in which case, a Cap is allowed,†† or is there any who hath not reuerently kneeled when the generall Confession, Letany, and other Prayers are read, and which haue not stood vp at the saying of the Beliefe.

7. Whether hath any in your Parish disturbed the Seruice or Sermon by walking, talking, or any other way, or departed out of the Church during the Seruice or Sermon, without some vrgent cause, or loytered about the Church, or Church porch.

8. Whether there be any in your Parish, Man, or Woman, being about sixteene‡‡ yeares of age, that hath not receiued the holie Communion thrice at least euery yeare, and namely at Easter last, or thereabouts for once. And whether any haue receiued the Communion in any other Parish Church, or Chappell, or priuate place.

9. Whether hath any Parent bene vrged to be present, or admitted to answer as Godfather for his owne Child, or

4. Whether hath your Schoole-master an Vsher vnder him, are they both diligent, is your Vsher allowed by the Ordinary, doth your Schoole-master direct his Vsher the forme & manner of teaching, and doth hee weekly take account of him, and the Schollers vnder his charge, how they haue profited, and what they haue learned, and out of what Authors?

5. Whether hath eyther of them spoken, writ, or taught against any thing whereunto hee formerly subscribed, as the Kings Supremacie, the Articles of Religion, Booke of Common prayer, or anything therein contained?

* vnreasonable¶ vntimely. 1633.

† The following Article is added in 1633:—

4. Whether doth your Clarke or Sexton, when any is passing out of this life, neglect to toll a bell, hauing notice thereof: or the party being dead, doth he suffer any more ringing than one short peal, & before his buriall one, and after the same, another.

‡ The following Article is added in 1633.

2. Whether there be any person or persons knowne or vehemently suspected to haue written, printed, or by any meanes published, & dispersed, or otherwise to haue, or to haue had in his or their vse or keeping, any Popish bookes or libels, or any of those slanderous or schismaticall & seditious libels, or other books, that impeach the booke of common prayer, or the Religion & Ecclesiasticall gouernment, or any other part thereof, established by Law in this Realme, or doth impeach the credit or estate of any Ecclesiasticall person or gouernor within the same?

§ Sinode¶ Sinods of the Church of England. 1633.

|| haue they affirmed that such Ministers and adherents may make Rules & Orders in causes Ecclesiasticall, without the Kings Authority? Added, 1633.

¶ or any part of them¶ appoynted in the Church of England. Added, 1633.

** or is there any that wilfully refuse, or negligently hath absented himselfe from diuine prayers on Sundayes or Holidayes? Added, 1633.

†† couered—allowed¶ vse to sit with his hat on his head. 1633.

‡‡ about sixteene¶ about fiftene. 1633.

hath any Godfather or Godmother made any other answere or speech, then is prescribed by the Booke.*

10. Whether doe all Fathers, Mothers, Maisters, Mistresses, come and cause their Children, Seruants, and Apprentices to come duely to the Church, and according to the Ministers direction to be instructed and Catechized, or who be they that haue not obeyed the Minister herein.

11. Whether haue any persons Married together within the degrees Consanguinity (sic) or affinitie prohibited, set forth in a Table appointed to be placed in euery Church.†

12. Whether haue any persons once lawfully Married together, forsaken each other, or do liue asunder, without the authoritie of the Ordinarie,‡ or do any being diuorced or separated, Marrie againe, the former Wife or Husband yet liuing.

13. Whether hath any of your Parish vnreuerently vsed your Minister, or haue any laid violent hands vpon him, or disgraced his office and calling by word or deede.

14. Whether haue you in your Parish any dweller or sojourner, as maintainer of popish doctrine, or suspected to keepe or disperse schismaticall¶ booke, or to fauour any heresie or error.

||15. Whether haue any in the time of seruice¶ opened their Shops, exercised their Trade; vsed any gaming, bene in any Tauerne or Alehouse, or otherwise ill employed.

16. Whether are there in your Parish any adulterers, fornicators, incestuous persons, bawdes, receiuers, close fauourers, conueyours away, or which suffer to depart any incontinent person vnpunished, or any which haue their often meetings in priuate places, and in the night time, or other vndecent times, and by reason thereof are commonly defamed or vehemently suspected of any of the said crimes.**

17.** Whether the fifth of November be kept holie, and thanksgiuing made to God for his Maiesties and the States happie deliuerance, according to the Ordinance in that behalfe.

18.** Whether are there in your Parish any blasphemers, common swearers, ribaudes, and such as commonly vse Baudrie, vnciuill, immodest, and filthie speeches, malicious slaundersers, scolds, common drunkards, or any defamed of any of the said crimes.

19. Whether do any in your Parish administer the goods of the dead without authoritie, or suppress their Will or Testament. Haue any Executors neglected to performe their Wills, especially in paying of Legacies giuen to the Church, to the poore, or to any other charitable or godly vses.

20. Whether do any refuse to pay to the reparations, ornaments, and other things required†† in your Church, as they are cessed by a lawfull Vestrie,‡‡ or any dwelling out of your Parish which hold Land in your Parish.§§

21. Whether haue any in|| your parish bene Christened, Churched, Buried, or receiued the Communion, or been Married out of your Parish¶¶ both parties dwelling in your Parish.

22. Whether haue all Women in your Parish deliuered of Childe come at conuenient time after to Church, to giue thanks, and haue they bene Churched, according to the forme of the booke of Common prayer.

23. Whether hath the perambulation of the circuit of your Parish bene obserued once euery yeare, if not, in whose default.

24. Whether haue any in your Parish giuen to the Church-wardens or Sidemen, or any of them, euill words, for doing their dutie, according to their oath, and conscience, in making presentment for any fault.

25. Whether there be any man or woman in your Parish that vseth Witch-craft, Sorcerie, Charmes, or vnlawfull prayer, Inuoc[ati]ons, in Latine, or English, or otherwise, vpon any Christian body, or Beast, or any that resorteth to * or haue any bin admitted for Godfathers and Godmothers at Baptisme, who haue not first receiued the Communion. Added, 1633.

† or haue any married or contracted themselues vnder the age of one & twenty yeeres without the consent of their Parents, or Gouernours, if their parents be dead? Added in 1633.

‡ without—Ordinarie¶ otherwise than by Law is permitted. 1633.

§ any—a¶ any popish recusant, or. 1633.

|| The following Article is added in 1633.

Whether haue you any common resorters to your Church which are not of your parish, abandoning their owne parish Church, or do any such receive the communion amongst you: what be their names, and of what parishes are they?

¶ seruice¶ diuine seruice vpon any Sunday or Holiday. 1633.

** or any which haue—said crimes¶ or are there in your parish any blasphemers, common swearers, drunkards, ribawds, vsurers, malicious slaundersers, scolds or sowers of discord, or any defamed of the same crime. 1633, where Articles 17, 18, are omitted.

†† required¶ by Law required to bee. 1633.

‡‡ by a lawfull Vestrie¶ by Law. 1633.

§§ that refuse the like payment or seassment. Added 1633.

|| in¶ not being of. 1633.

¶¶ Parish¶ Church. 1633.

the same person for counsell, or helpe, and what be their names.*

Touching Church-wardens and Swornemen.

First, whether doe any in your Parish take vpon them to be Church-warden or Sidesman, which is not lawfully chosen by the Minister and Parishioners, according to the Canon, or doe any continue that office longer than one yeare, except they be chosen againe,† and are all such officers chosen yearly in Easter weeke.

2. Whether doe your Church-wardens within one moneth at the most after their yeare ended, before the Minister and Parishioners, giue vp a iust account of all such money and other things as they haue receiued and bestowed. Haue they deliuered all remaining in their hands, belonging to their Church or parish,‡ to the next Church-wardens.

3. Whether haue the Church-wardens with the aduise of the Minister from time to time provided a sufficient quantity of fine white bred, and wholesome wine for the number of Communicants. And haue they and you, at every Communion collected the deuotion of the Communicants, and put it into the poore mans boxe.§

4. Whether doe the Church-wardens and Sworne-men before euery visitation, and at other times, when there is iust occasion, meete and conferre about their presentments, and the answering of their Articles. And who hath (after notice given him of the time and place) carelesly absented himselfe.

5. Whether the forfeiture of twelue pence for absence from Church appointed by Statute for the vse of the poore, bee taken and leuiued by the Church-wardens and employed according to the said statute. And whether is the same forfeiture taken of all persons which stand wilfully suspended, or Excommunicate.

6. Whether haue any Church-wardens lost, sold, changed, or retained¶ any goods, ornaments, bells, rents, or implements of the Church, without speciall licence of the Ordinary.¶

7. Whether doe you the Churchwardens and Sidesmen about the middest of Diuine Service vsually walke out of the Church, and see who are abroad in any Ale-house, or else where absent, or euil** employed, and haue you presented all such†† to the Ordinary.

8. Whether doe you know or haue heard of any fame or offence‡‡ committed, or duty omitted by any of your Parish, before your time, and heretofore not presented by the former Church-wardens to the Ordinary, or as yet not reformed, and haue you presented the same.

9. Whether any person doe often resort to your Parish, and staying there vpon the Sabbath dayes or Holy dayes during the time of Diuine Service, doth not come to the Church to heare Service and Sermons, according to Law.¶¶

FINIS.

CURLE, BISHOP OF BATH AND WELLS, 1630.

ARTICLES to be enquired of, in the first Trienniall Visitation of the Right Reuerend Father in GOD, Walter, Lord Bishop of Bath and Wells, holden in the yeare of our Lord God, 1630.

London, Printed by William Stansby, 1630.

The Oath to bee Ministered to the Churchwardens and Swornemen.

You shall sweare, that you and euery of you, without all affection, fauour, hatred, hope of reward and gaine, or feare of displeasure or malice of any person, shall present all and euery such person or persons, of or within your Parish who hath committed any offence, fault or crime, mentioned in any of these Articles, or which are vehemently suspected, or otherwise defamed of any such offence, fault, or crime: wherein you shall deal vprightlie and according to truth, neither of malice presenting any contrarie to truth, nor of

* The following article is added in 1633:

Whether there be any that pretending themselves to bee Physicians or Chirurgeons, do take vpon them to practise Physicke or chirurgery not being lawfully licenced thereunto, or which refuse to stuew their said licence to the Minister, or Curate, and Churchwardens of your Church or Chappell, when they shall be hereunto required.

† or that it be a custome of your Parish for a Church-warden to continue two yeares. Added, 1633.

‡ by bill indented, to be deliuered. Added, 1633.

§ And haue—boxe.] Omitted, 1633.

¶ changed or retained] or detained. 1633.

** without—Ordinary] omitted, 1633.

†† euilly 1633.

‡‡ offenders. Added, 1633.

¶¶ any fame or offence] a fame of any offence. 1633.

¶¶ The following is substituted for art. 9. in 1633:

9. Finally doe you know of any matter or cause which is a breach of the lawes Ecclesiasticall here not expressed, or haue you presented the same.

corrupt affection sparing to present any, and so concale the Truth: hauing in this action God before your eies, with an earnest zeale to maintaine truth, and suppress vice. So helpe you God and the Contents of this Booke.

Articles to be enquired of within the Diocesse of Bath and Wells, in the Visitation to be holden in the Yeare of our Lord, 1630.

Articles concerning the Clergie.

Inprimis, whether hath your Minister read the Constitutions, set forth by his Maiestie, once euery yeare, vpon some Sundayes or Holydayes, in the afternoone, before Diuine Service, as he is bound.

2. Whether doth your Minister or Preacher in Prayer before his Sermon, vse to pray for the Kings Maiestie, King Charles, Queene Marie and all the Royall Progenie with his whole Title, as King of great Brittain, France and Ireland, Defender of the Faith, &c. and in all causes, andouer all Persons as well Ecclesiasticall as Temporall within his Highnesse Dominions, next and immediately vnder God supreme Governour? And doth hee in like manner then pray for the Archbishops and Bishops, as by Law is also appointed, and doth he exhort the people to obedience to his Maiestie, and all Magistrates in Authoritie vnder him?

3. Whether doth your Minister vse the prescript forme of Diuine Service vpon Sundayes, Holldayes, Wednesdayes and Fridayes, according to the Booke of Common prayer, without any omission or addition, and doth he say Diuine Service vpon the Eues of euery Sunday and Holiday, at fit and vsuall times? And whether doth your Minister duely obserue all the Orders, Rites and Ceremonies, prescribed in the Booke of Common Prayer, as well in reading publike Prayers and the Letanie, as also in administring the Sacraments in such manner and forme, as by the Booke of Common Prayer by Law now established, is enioyned?

4. Whether doth your Minister adminster (sic) the holy Communion so often, and at such times, as that euery Parishioner may receiue the same at least thrice in euery yeere wherof once at Easter, as by the Booke of Common Prayer is appointed?

5. Whether doth your Minister receiue the same himselfe, one euery day that he Administreth it to others, Kneeling at the same, and Administreth to none but such as doe Kneele at the receiuing thereof, and vse the words of the Institution according to the Book, at euery time that the Bread & wine is receiued, in such manner and forme, as by the Prouiso of the twelfth Canon is directed? or wherein is he faultie touching the premises? and whether is warning giuen by him before hand for the Communion, as the two and twentieth canon requireth.

6. Whether doth your Minister vse the administration of the Lords Supper, Baptisme, Instruction of Children, Solemnization of Matrimoni, Visitation of the Sicke, Buriall of the Dead, the Commination and Churcing of Women, vnder such words, Rites and Ceremonies as are set forth and prescribed in the said Booke of Common Prayer, and no other?

7. Whether hath your Minister admitted to the Communion, any notorious Offenders or Schismatikes, contrarie to the 26 and 27 Constitutions?

8. Whether your Minister together with the Churchwardens and Questmen, doe take diligent heede and care, not onely that all and euery one of your owne parishioners doe Receiue thrice in euery yeere, as aforesaid, but also that no strangers of any other Parish doe come often and commonly to your Church from their owne Parish Church, contrarie to the twenty-eight Canon? And you are now to present the Names of all those, who being of the age of sixteene yeere or vpwards, haue not in their owne Parish at or since Easter last, receiued the Communion, according to the hundred and twelue Canon?

9. Whether doth your Minister vse to signe the children with the signe of the Crosse, when they are Baptized, according to the Booke of common Prayer, or Baptize in any Bason or vessell, and not in the vsuall Font, or hath he Baptized any children that were not borne in the Parish; and whether hath he deferred, or wilfully refuse to Baptize any Infant in his Parish being in danger, hauing bene duely informed of the weaknesse thereof, and whether the childe hath dyed in his default without Baptisme, or whether hath he at any time refused or neglected to Bury the Dead, or to minister the Sacrament of the Lords Supper to any, being in extremity of Sicknesse, hauing bene required thereunto, or hath hee buried any in Christian Buriall, which by the Constitutions of the Church of England, ought not to be so Interred?

10. Whether is your Minister continually Resident with you vpon his Benefice, or for how long time hath hee bene absent and where is he Resident for the most part, and what other Benefice hath he, and doth he in his absence make allowance for the Poore, and what allowance doth he make?

11. Whether doth your Minister preach vsually according to the Constitutions, eyther in his own cure with you once euery Sunday, or else in some other Church or Chappell neere adioyning, where no Preacher is, or how often hath he bene negligent in that behalfe?

12. Whether is your Minister a Preacher allowed, if yea, then by whom? if no, then doth hee procure Sermons to bee Preached among you once in euery moneth at least, by such as are lawfully licensed?

13. Whether hath your Minister any other Benefice and whether doth hee supply his absence by a Curate that is Licensed to Preach in that his Cure, wheron hee himselfe is not Resident, or otherwise, in case hee doth not find a Preaching Minister there, by reason of the smalnes thereof, whether doth hee Preach at both his Benefices vsually himselfe, according to the fortie seuen Canon? And doth he or his Curate vpon euery Sunday when there is no Sermon reade an Homily or some part therof according as he ought to doe?

14. Whether is your Curate Licensed to serue by the L. Bishop of the Diocesse or his Chancellor? and whether doth he serue any more Cures then one? if yea, what other Cure doth he serue? and how farre are they distant one from the other? and whether hath your Curate any Benefice or Cure of Soules besides your Cure?

15. If your Minister bee not licensed to preach, whether doth he take vpon him to expound the Scriptures, either in his owne Cure or else-where, contrary to the 49 Canon.

16. Whether hath any person bene admitted to preach within your Church or Chappell, but such as you haue well knowne to bee sufficiently licensed? you shall present their names whom you haue so admitted, and how often they haue preached, and by whose procurement.

17. Whether haue you caused euery strange Preacher, licensed or not licensed, to subscribe his Name, according to the 50 and 52 Canons? and whether haue they, or any other, preached in your church, not being soberly and decently apparelled, according to the 74 Canon.

18. Whether doth your Parson or Vicar, or Lecturer, reade diuine Seruice, and administer the Sacraments, in his owne person twice euery yeare, obseruing all the Ceremonies in the Booke of Common Prayer established, according to the 56 Canon.

19. Whether doth your Minister weare the Surplice, while hee is saying the publike Prayers, and administering the Sacraments? and if he be a Graduate, whether doth he also weare vpon his Surplice during the times aforesaid, such a Hood as by the Orders of the Vniuersitie is agreeable to his Degree?

20. Whether doth your Minister euery Sunday and Holiday before Euening Prayer, for halfe an houre or more, Catechise and instruct the youth and ignorant persons of your Parish, in the ten Commandements, the Articles of Beliefe, and the Lord's prayer? and whether doth hee vse the Catechisme set forth in the Booke of Common Prayer, and instruct and teach them in the said Catechisme, or what Catechisme else doth he vse, and whether bee the children and ignorant persons sent at that time to the Church, to bee catechised and instructed by the Minister? and if not, you are to present the names of those that make default in not sending them?

21. Whether hath your Minister without licence from the Court of Faculties or from the Archbishop, or the Bishop of this Diocesse, or his Chancellor, solemnized Mariage betwixt any parties, the Banes not being three seuerall Sundayes and Holidayes first published in time of Diuine Seruice in the seuerall Churches and Chappells of their seuerall abodes, according to the booke of Common prayer? or without licence in time prohibited, albeit the Banes were so published, or at any time, except betwixt the houres of eight and twelue in the forenoon? or hath your Minister married any of another Diocesse? or hath any of your Parish bin married in another Diocesse, if any hath bene so married, or licensed to marry by any authority other then aforesaid, you shall present the Minister of marrying, the parties so married and the Authority whereby this was done?

22. Whether hath your Minister since the last Canons published solemnized any Mariage betwixt any persons, being vnder the age of twentie and one yeeres, although the Banes haue bene thrice asked, before such time as the Parents haue made knowne to him their consents thereunto, contrary to the 100 Canon?

23. Whether doth your Minister vpon Sundayes at Morning Prayer, declare vnto the Parishioners, what Holydayes and fasting dayes are appointed to be kept the week following, according to the Booke of Common Prayer?

24. Whether doth your Minister in the Rogation dayes, vse the Perambulation of the circuit of the Parish appointed by Law? And in the same perambulation moue the people to giue thanks to God for his benefits, vsing such Psalmes and Prayers as are to that end set forth?

25. Whether hath any (being no Minister or Deacon) presumed to reade common Prayer openly in the Church or Chappell, or to serue the Cure of the Parish? And whether hath any Deacon, not hauing receiued the full Orders of Priesthood, administered the Sacraments in your Church or Chappell? and you are to present the name of any that hath offended herein?

26. Whether doth your Minister euery sixe month denounce in his Parish all such as doe perseuere in the sentence of Excommunication, not seeking to bee absolved? and whether hath he said diuine Seruice, while any Excommunicate persons hath bene present in the Church, or hath admitted any person Excommunicate into the Church without a certificate of his absolution from the Ordinarie or other competent Judge?

27. Whether doth your Minister, being a Preacher, endeavour and labour diligently with mildnes and temperance to reclaime Popish Recusants in his Parish from their errors, if there be any such abiding there? and whether any of them being so offered conference by your Minister, doe refuse it?

28. Whether is your Person, Vicar, or Curate to much frequent, or ouer conuersant with, or a fauorer of Recusants, whereby he may be suspected not to be sincere in Religion?

29. Whether hath your Minister, or any other, taking vpon him the calling of a Minister, preached, baptised children (except in case of necessity) solemnized Mariage, Churched any Women, or ministred the holy Communion in any priuate house or houses, otherwise then by Law is allowed? if yea, then where? whom? when? and how often hath he offended in any of the premises?

30. Whether doth your Minister resort to such as be sicke, to instruct and comfort them in their distresse, according to the Booke of common Prayer?

31. Whether doth your Minister carefully looke to the reliefe of the Poore? and whether doth hee from time to time call vpon his Parishioners to conferre and giue somewhat as they may spare, to godly and charitable vses, especially when they make their Testaments?

32. Whether doth your Minister vse such decencie and comelnesse in his apparell, as by the 74 Constitution is enioyned him? and is he of sober behavior, and one that doth not vse such bodily labour as is vnseemely for his calling?

33. Whether doe you know any in your Parish, that hauing heretofore taken vpon him the order of a Priesthood or Deacon, hath since relinquished the same, and betaken himselfe in the course of his life as a Laymen, (sic) or neglecting his vocation liueth idly, serueth no cure, or preacheth no wher?

34. Whether is your Minister noted or reputed to be an incontinent person, a frequenter of Tauernes or Alehouses, a common Gamester or player at Dice, a common Swearer or Drunkard, or faultie in any other crime published (sic) by Ecclesiasticall censures, whereby hee is offended or scandalous to his function or Ministerie?

35. Whether doth your Minister vse the forme of thanksgiving to Women after their child-birth? and whether hath he admitted any thereunto, that was begotten with child in adulterie or fornication, without license of his Ordinarie?

36. Whether hath your Minister receiued any excommunication, suspension, or aggrauation, from the Bishop of this Diocesse, or his Chancellor or other Ordinarie against any of his Parishioners, which he hath presumed to make stay of, and not published such Excommunication, suspension, or aggrauation, the next Sunday or Holiday after the Receipt of the same, in time of Diuine Seruice in your Church or Chappell?

Articles concerning the Church.

Whether haue you in your seuerall Churches or Chappells, the Booke of Constitutions or Canons Ecclesiasticall, reade to be read by the Minister according to his Maiesties pleasure, published by his Highnesse authority vnder the Great Seale of England?

2. Whether is there in your Church or Chappell, one parchment Register Booke provided for Christenings, Mariages, and Burials? and whether is the same duly and exactly kept according (sic) to the Constitutions in that behalfe provided? and haue the Churchwardens exhibited a transcript thereof vnto the Lord Bishops Registrie euery yeere, since the last Triennial Visitation, as by the 70 Canon is required?

3. Whether haue you provided the Booke of Common Prayer lately set forthe by his Maiesties authority, and the Booke of Homilies, and a large Bible of the last Edition? And whether haue you in your Church or Chappell a Font of stone, set vp in the ancient vsuall place, a conuenient and decent communion Table, with a Carpet of Silke or some other decent Stoffe, and a faire linnen cloth to lay thereon at the Communion time? And whether is the same Table placed in such conuenient sort within the said Chancell or Church, as that the Minister may be best heard in his prayer and administration, and that the greater number may communicate? And whether are the ten Commandementes set vpon the East end of your Church or Chappell, where the people may see and reade them, and other sentences of holy Scriptures written on the walles likewise for the same purpose?

4. Whether haue you a conuenient Seat for your Minister to reade Seruice in, together with a comely Pulpit set vp in a conuenient place, with a decent cloth or cushion for the same, a comely large Surplice, a faire Communion cup of Siluer, and a couer agreeable for the same, with all other things and Ornaments necessary for the celebration of diuine Seruice, and administration of the Sacraments, and a strong Chest for the Almes of the poore, with three lockes and keyes, whereof the Minister is to keepe one key: and another Chest for the keeping of the Ornaments of the Church and Register Booke?

5. Haue you a faire Paper Booke, wherein euery Preacher which is a Stranger shall write his name, the day hee dreacheth, and by whose authority he is licensed.

6. Whether are your Church or Chappels, with the Chancels thereof, and your Parsonage or Vicarage house, and all other housing thereto belonging in good Reparations, & decently and comely kept, as well withing (sic) as without, and are the Seates of your Church well maintained? If not, then through whose default, and what the defects are?

7. Whether is your Churchyard well and sufficiently repaired, fenced and maintained with wals, railes, or pales, according to the 85 Canon; if not, then through whose default any part is left vn-repaired, and at whose charge the same is to be repaired?

8. Whether hath any person encroched on the ground of the Churchyard, and if any hath, what quantity of ground hath he encroched? and whether is any part of your Churchyard encroched on, or encroched by Tombes, or Monuments erected without the allowance of the Lord Bishop of this Diocesse, or his Chancellor, or other lawfull authority; when, and for whom, and by whom such Tombes & Monuments haue been so erected?

9. Whether haue your (sic) in your Church any ancient or true Note, or Terrier of all the Glebes, Lands, Meadows, Gardens, Orchards, Houses, Stocks, Implements, Tenements and portions of Tithes, lying within or without the Parish, which belongs to your Parsonage or Vicarage; if there bee any, whether is it well kept and preserued for the good of the succeeding Incumbents, & in what particular place is it kept?

Articles concerning Ecclesiasticall Officers.

Whether doe you know or haue heard of any payment, composition or agreement, to or with the Chancellour, Register, or other inferiour Officers Ecclesiasticall (sic) for suppressing or concealing of any presentment, Excommunication, or other Ecclesiasticall (sic) censure of or against Recusants, or any other offenders, or for not certifying of Recusants to the Ordinary, or for not seruing of Prozesse without a summe of mony, or other consideration, receiued or promised to any of them in that respect, and by whom?

2. Whether the Chancellor, Archdeacon, Official, or any other, vsing Ecclesiasticall Jurisdiction within this Diocesse, their Registers or Apparitors, haue at any time winked at and suffered any Adulteries, Fornications, Incests, or any other faults or offences presented vnto them to passe, and remaine unpunished, and vncorrected for Money, Rewards, Bribes, Pleasure, Friendship or any other partiall respect?

3. Whether the Chancellor, Archdeacon, or Official haue called for, or caused the Churchwardens to make, bring, or to pay for any more Bills of presentment, then is to the 116 Canon appointed?

4. Whether hath any Chancellor, or Archdeacon, or Official, or any other, exercising Ecclesiasticall Jurisdiction within this Diocesse, or any Register, Apparitor, or Minister, belonging to the same Ecclesiasticall Courts exacted extraordinary or greater Fees then heretofore of late haue been accustomed: and whether is there a Table of the rates of all Fees set vp in their seuerall Courts and Offices: and whether doe they or any of them exact or receiue greater or more Fees then are therein expressed: or whether they or any of them haue taken vpon them the Office of Informers or Promoters to the Court, or any other way abused themselues in their Offices, contrarie to the Law and Canon in that case provided?

5. Whether hath the Chancellor, Archdeacon or Official increased the number of his Apparitors, or appointed any Apparitor about the vsuall number, and wherein & in what manner is the Countrie ouer-burdened and grieved by the said Apparitors. And whether doth any of the said Apparitors cause any parties to appeare in the said Courts, without first a presentment or citation obtained from the Judge of the Court?

Articles concerning Schoolemasters.

What Recusants Papists are there in your Parish, and whether doe any of them or any other, keepe any Schoolemaster in their House, who commeth not to Church to heare Diuine Seruice, and receiue the Communion? what is his Name, and how long hath he taught?

2. Whether the Schoolemaster or Schoolemasters within your Parish openly or priuately in any house, or in any other place, bee of good and sincere Religion (that is, of the Religion established in this Realme) life and conuersation, and bee diligent in teaching and bringing vp of youth, and whether they haue bene examined, allowed and licenced for Schoolemasters by the Lord Bishop of this Diocesse, or his Chancellor?

3. Whether your Schoolemaster or Schoolemasters doe themselues receiue the holy Communion as often as they ought to doe? And whether doe all their Schollers which be of age sufficient, and of capacitie by instruction to receiue the Lords Supper, come to the Communion, either in your Church, or where their Parents dwell, once euery yeere, be diligent to heare common Prayer?

4. Whether your Schoolmaister or Schoolmasters either priuate or publike, do teach their Schollers the Catechisme authorized by publike authoritie, at least once euery weeke, and doe instruct & examine them in the same? And whether do they reade vnto their Schollers priuately any vnlawfull Bookes, or priuately instruct them in their young yeeres in Popery, Superstition, Schisme, or disobedience, or contempt of his Maiestie, and his Lawes Ecclesiasticall, by publike authoritie allowed?

5. Whether your Schoolemaster or Schoolemasters within your Parish doe teach his or their Schollers any other Grammer, then that which is commonly called the Kings Grammer, set forth by the authoritie of King Henrie the eight? And whether they be negligent in instructing their Schollers in the Catechisme & grounds of Religion, and in bringing them to Church to heare diuine Seruice, and Sermons? whether doe they instruct their Schollers in any other Catechisme then is allowed by publike authority? and whether are they common Officers, Farmers, Artifices, (sic) or otherwise entangled in other affaires, that they cannot benefit their Schollers in learning?

Articles concerning Parishioners and others of the Laitie.

Whether any in your Parish, or elsewhere neere about the same, to your knowledge, or as you haue heard, hath affirmed that the King hath not the same power in all causes Ecclesiasticall, (sic) which the Kings of Israel had, and which the Christian Kings and Emperours had in the Primitive Church? or that hath impeached or gainsaid his Royall Supremacie?

2. Whether doe you know, or haue credibly heard of any within your Parish, that depraue the Christian Religion, and namely, as it is established by publike authority, and professed within the Church of England? And whether hath any person, as you haue heard affirmed, that the Church of England is not a true Catholike and Apostolike Church, and doth not teach and maintaine the Catholike faith and doctrine of the Apostles?

3. Whether hath any said and affirmed, that any thing in the Booke of Common Prayer, or in the Booke of Articles of Religion, set forth by the Conuocation, Anno 1562, or any of the Rites and Ceremonies established in the Church of England, are corrupt, wicked, Antichristian, superstitious, vnlawfull, or repugnant to the Scriptures?

4. Whether hath any affirmed, preached, or taught, the forme of making and consecrating Bishops, Priests & Deacons, or any thing therein contained, is not agreeable to the Word of God? or that the gouernment of the Church vnder the Kings most excellent Maiestie by Archbishops, Bishops, or others that beare any office therein, is Antichristian, or not agreeable to the Word of God, or that hath spoken any reproachfull or disgracefull speeches of the Kings Maiesties Courts Ecclesiasticall, or the proceedings thereof?

5. Whether any in your Parish hath or doth prophane the Lords day, called Sunday, or other Holiday contrary to the Orders of the Church of England prescribed in that behalf? or whether any persons haue lurked or tippled in Tauerne or Ale houses on Sundayes or other Holidayes, or vsed his or their manuell craft or trade, or any bodily labour, or kept their shops open vpon the same dayes, or any of them, especially in the time of Diuine Seruice?

6. Whether hath any in your Parish brawled, quarrelled or stricken, or vsed any violence vnto or with your Minister, or any other person in the Church or Churchyard, or vsed himselfe disorderly in the Church or Churchyard by filthy & prophane talke, or any other rude and immodest behauiour?

7. Whether is that due reuerence and humble submission vsed within your Church or Chappell in the time of Diuine Seruice, as by the 18. Canon is prescribed, and whether each one in the Church or Chappell doe apply and order himselfe there in time of Diuine Seruice as by the latter part of the same Canon is most commendably enioyned?

8. Whether doe the Churchwardens & Questmen euery Sunday and Holiday diligently search who absenteth himselfe or her selfe from the Church? or whether doe they suffer any to abide in the Churchporch or Churchyard in the time of common Prayer or Sermon?

9. Whether the Churchwardens and Questmen or any of them, haue forborne (for money, reward, fauour, or affection) to present any that were or be negligent in comming to Church, or whom they haue found as idle persons abroad, either in the Churchyard or streets in the time of Common Prayer, or Sermons on the Sunday or Holidayes? or any that haue not receiued the Communion yeerly at the Feast of Easter, or within a moneth after, according to the Canons?

10. Whether the Churchwardens doe prouide against euery Communion, with the aduice of the Minister, a sufficient quantitie of fine white Bread, and of good and wholesome Wine, for the number of Communicants that shall receiue, and that to be brought in a cleane and sweet standing Pot or (sic) Pewter or of other pure Metall?

11. Whether haue any in your Parish bene Godfathers or Godmothers to their owne children? or whether your Minister or any Godfathers or Godmothers haue vsed or doe vse any other forme, answere or speech in Baptisme, then is by the Booke of Common Prayer appointed? or doe giue the children baptized any name absurd or inconuenient for so holy an action? Or whether any which haue not communicated, haue bin admitted to be Godfathers or Godmothers contrarie to the 29 Canon?

12. Whether doe all Fathers, Mothers, Masters, and Mistresses, cause their Children, Seruants and Apprentices, to come to the Catechisme on the Sundayes and Holidayes before Euening Prayer, to heare, and to be instructed and taught therein? and those that doe not their duties herein, you shall present their names?

13. Whether haue you or your Predecessors Churchwardens there, suffered any Playes, Feasts, Banquets, Church-Ales, Drinkings, or any other prophane Playes to bee kept in your Church, Chappell, or Churchyard, or Bels to bee rung superstitiously on holidayes or Eues, abrogated by the Booke of Common Prayer.

14. How many Inhabitants within your Parish, men or women about the age of sixteene yeeres, do refuse to frequent Diuine Service, established by the publike authority of this Realme, or to receiue the holy Communion, or are negligent therein? or comming to Church doe depart before the end of diuine Seruice or Sermon? what bee their names, and of what degree, state, or trade of life are they? you are to persent (sic) them all of each sort.

15. Whether doe any of the said Inhabitants within the said Parish entertaine within their Houses, any Sojourners, Lodgers, or any common resorts and guests, who refuse to frequent diuine Seruice, or receiue the holy Communion, as aforesaid? what be their names, and of what qualitie or condition are they?

16. Whether any of the said Popish Recusants be of insolent behauiour, not without publike offence, or doe boldly busie themselves in seducing or withdrawing others, eyther abroad or in their owne Families by, instructing their children in Popish Religion, or by refusing to entertaine any especially in place of greatest seruice or trust, but such as concurre with them in opinion of Religion? and what be their name that so doe?

17. How long the said Popish Recusants haue obstinately abstained either from Diuine Seruice, or from the Communion as is aforesaid, whether of any long time, or only since his Maiesties Raigne, and how many moneths?

18. Whether there bee any Popish Recusants married, or the childe of any Recusant Christned, or any Recusant buried within your Parish, by any other than the Minister of the Parish, or whether the childe of any Recusant remaine vnbaptized about one moneth or be not baptized in the Parish Church?

19. You shall present how the children of such as refuse to come to Church, are brought vp vnder what Schoole-master or Tutor when and in what Schoole or place?

20. What persons aforesaid within your Parish, either for the offence aforesaid, or for any other contunacie or crime doe remayne Excommunicated? what be their names? and for what cause, and how long haue they so stood Excommunicated? and whether doe any familiarly vse the company of such as doe obstinately stand Excommunicate knowing the same, and what be their names?

21. Whether were your Churchwardens and Questmen chosen by the consent of the Minister and Parishioners and whether haue the Churchwardens before you giuen vp a iust account for their time, of their Receipts and Disbursements, and deliuered you whatsoever mony or other things, or goods, or stocks of the Church, which was in their hands? and whether doe you diligently see that al the Parishioners doe duely resort to their Church euery Sunday and Holiday, and there continue the whole time of Diuine Seruice, and suffer none to stand idle, or walke or talke in the Church, Churchporch, or Churchyard, during that time?

22. Whether doe all persons about the age of sixteene yeeres, vsually resort to heare Diuine Seruice vpon Sundayes and Holidayes approued? and whether hath each one of your Parishioners (being about the Age of sixteene yeeres, as aforesaid) receiued the holy Communion thrice this last yeere, and chiefly once at Easter last in your Parish Church kneeling? If no, then you shall present their names, which haue not so done.

23. Whether haue you a fit Parish Clarke aged twentie yeeres at least, of honest conuersation, and sufficient for reading and writing, and whether he be paid his wages without fraud, according to the ancient custome of your Parish? if not, then by whom is hee so defrauded and denied? and whether is he chosen by the Parson or Vicar, or by whom? And whether is your said Clarke approued and admitted by the Lord Bishop of this Diocesse or his Chancellor.

24. Whether haue any in your Parish bin married within the prohibited degrees forbidden by the Law, and expressed in a certaine Table published by Authority in Anno 1563, if yea, then you shall present their names; and whether is the said Table publicly set vp in your Church, and fastned to some conuenient place there?

25. Whether doe any heretofore diuorced, or married and not diuorced, keepe company at bed & boord as man and wife with any other man or woman, then with the person that he or shee was married vnto? what be their names? when and where they were married? and how long haue they so continued together? and whether any Husband and Wife in your Parish are apart each from other?

26. Whether haue you in your Parish to your knowledge, or you haue heard by common fame and report, any which haue committed Adulterie, Fornication or Incest, which haue not bene publicly punished to your knowledge? if yea, then with whom? Or any man that hath attempted the chastitie of any Woman, or any, who haue committed Incontinencie together before they were married? Or any in your Parish suspected to be Bawdes, harbourers or receiuers of such persons, or suspected of any of the crime aforesaid? if yea, then with whom?

27. Whether haue you any in your Parish, which are by common fame and report, or vehement suspition reputed & taken to be common Drunkards, Blasphemers of Gods holy Name, common and vsual swearers, filthy speakers, railers, sowers of discord amongst their neighbors, or speakers against Ministers Mariages, Vsurers contrarie to the Statute made in the 37. of King Henrie the Eight Simoniacall persons, Fighters, Brawlers, or Quarrellers in Church or Churchyard? you shall not faile to present their names.

28. Whether haue any in your Parish receiued or harboured any Woman with Childe, that was not before a Housholder in your Parish, or gotten with Childe out of Wedlocke, and suffered her to depart againe without punishment first inflicted by the Ordinary? You shall present aswell the party harbouring as harboured, and who is suspected to be the Father of the Childe? and who hath helped to conuey her away?

29. Whether any person or persons suspected or detected heretofore of Incontinencie, and therefore departing out of your Parish for a season, is now returned againe, or in what place else is he or shee now abiding to your knowledge, or as you haue heard? And whether he or shee hath done any Panance (sic); or else escaped without penance, and by what and whose meanes? You shall not faile to present the whole truth in that behalfe.

30. Whether haue you any in your Parish which liue together as Man and Wife and yet are not knowne by whom, where, or when they were married? And herein you are especially to enquire of those who are Recusants, or whereof the one of them is a Recusant or Sectary, present your knowledge herein, and what the common fame or report is among your Neighbours?

31. Whether any within your Parish, or else-where within this Diocese, haue retained or kept in their custodie, or reade, sell, vtter, disperse or to (sic) deliuer to any others any English or Latine Bookes or Libels, set forth or Printed either on this side or beyond the seas, by Papists or Sectaries against the Kings Supremacy in causes Ecclesiastical, or tending to Popery, Puritanisme, or any other Sect, error or heresie, against the true and Catholike Religion and Doctrinē now publicly professed in this Church, or the Government or Discipline of the Church of England established by Authority, that you know or haue heard of, what their names and surnames are?

32. Whether haue you in your Parish any which heretofore being Popish Recusants or Sectaries, haue since conformed themselues and come to Church to heare Diuine Seruice, and receiue the Sacrament? if yea, then who they are? and how long since haue they so conformed themselues? and whether doe they still abide in that conformity?

33. Whether are their (sic) in your Parish any Wills not yet proued or goods of the dead dying Intestate, left vndministrated by Authoritie of the Ordinary in that behalfe? And whether any possesse the goods of any person deceased without authority from the Ordinary? you shall not faile to present the Executors and all other culpable therein, and how many persons possessed of any Goods or Cattels haue died within your Parish since the second of Aprill now last past? And present their names.

34. Is there any Legacie giuen to the Church or to other good and godly vses, as reliefe of the Poore, Orphants, poore Schollers, poore Maidens Mariages, Schooles, High-ways, and such like which is not yet performed? if their (sic) be any such you shall present what you know or can learne thereof, and by whose default the same is not performed?

35. Whether any of your Parishioners hauing a Preacher to their Parson, Vicar or Curate, do absent themselues from his Sermons and resort to any other place to heare other Preachers, or refuse to receiue the holy Communion (sic) at their Ministers hands? and whether any other Minister hath receiued to the Communion any of your Parish? & specifie the names both of the Minister and of the Parishioners?

36. Whether there be in your Parish any Inholders, Alehouse-keepers, Victuallers or Tiplers that suffer or doe admit any person or persons into their houses to eate, drinke, play at dice, cards, Tables, bowles, or such like games in the time of common Prayer or Sermon on Sundayes or Holidayes? or any Butchers, Victuallers, Mercers, or any of any other Trade or Occupation, vse to keepe their Shop windowes open, or sell their meates, victuales, ware or marchandises, or otherwise vse their Trade or Occupation on Sundayes or Holidayes, especially in the time of Common prayer or Sermon? & whether any Markets or selling of wares be vsed or suffered in any Churchyard on the Sunday, by common packmen or Pedlers going about, or any Butcher?

37. Whether any married woman within your Parish, after Childbirth, refuse or neglect to come to Church to giue God thanks for her safe deliuerie, & to haue the Prayers publicly appointed on that behalfe by the Booke of Common Prayer?

38. Is there any in your Parish who refuse to haue their children baptised, or themselues to receiue the Communion, at the hand of your Minister, because he is no Preacher? or whether any keepe their children longer vn timer baptised then is conuenient, vnlesse it be for the sickness of the childe, or other vrgent occasion? or whether any doe carrie their childe or children from their owne Parish to any other Parish to be baptised, and to what other Parish? who baptised such a childe, and whose childe it was? and whether haue you in your Parish any child or children which are not yet knowne to you or to your Minister to be baptised, and herein you are especially to enquire of the children, whose Parents or one of them are Recusants?

39. Whether doe you know or haue heard of any Patron in your Parish, that hath made gaine by any colour, deceit, or Simoniacall compact in bestowing his Benefice for gaine or receiuing money, or promise of the Lease of the whole or part, or by reseruing his own Tithes, or any pension to himselfe or any other?

40. Whether the Almes houses or Hospitals in your Parish, are well and godly vsed and ordered according to the foundations and Ordinances of the same, and whether there be any other placed in them, then poore, impotent, and needie persons that haue not wherewith or whereby to liue? and by whose default are they not so ordered and kept?

41. What Midwiues haue you in your Parish, of what skill are they accounted of for that Office, and whether are they licensed by their Ordinarie to execute the same?

42. Whether haue you any in your Parish that practise Physicke or Surgerie, of what skill are they accounted for their profession, and whether doe they practise without a particular license from the Lord Bishop of this Diocese or his Chancellor?

43. Whether haue any of your Parish dying Excommunicate, or wilfully destroying himselfe, bene Buried in the Church or Churchyard, by whom and by whose procurement?

44. Whether any in your Parish hath or doe refuse to contribute towards the reparation of the Church, and to the prouision of such things as belong thereunto?

45. Whether the fift of Nouember be kept in your Parish with Prayer and Thanksgiuing to Almighty God, in such forme as is by publike Authoritie appointed for these dayes?

46. Lastly if you know any other matter of Ecclesiastical cognizance, worthy the presentment in your iudgement, heretofore in these Articles not expressed, and which is fit to be reformed by Ecclesiastical Censure, you shall likewise Present the same by vertue of your Oathes.

FINIS.

[WRITHINGTON WHITE,] ARCHDEACON OF NORFOLK, 1630 [and 1632.]

ARTICLES to be enquired of by the Church-wardens and Sworn-men within the Archdeaconry of NORFOLK.

Anno Dom. 1630. *

W. L. Officiall.

The form of the oath.

You shall sweare that you will truly and faithfully execute the offices of church-wardens and quest-men within your parish. That you will make diligent enquiry and true presentment from time to time of all offenders and offences punishable by the laws and censures of the church, so farre as you shall know or heare by any common fame according to your articles here given you in charge. So help you God.

Touching the church.

Whether is your church or chappel with the chancel thereof, and vestry, and every part of either of them, well and sufficiently repaired, the windows well glazed, the floores paved plain and even, and without anything noisome or unseemly?

2. Whether is your churchyard well fenced with walls, rails, pales, as hath been accustomed? if not, whose default is it?

3. Whether hath there been any fighting, chiding, brawling, quarrelling; any unseemly meetings, or other prophane usage in your church, or churchyard?

4. Whether is the mansion-house of your parson, vicar, or curate, with all the buildings thereunto belonging, your parish almes-house and church-house sufficiently repaired, maintained, and to godly and their right uses employed.

5. Whether haue you in your church the bible in the largest volume, the book of common-prayer lately authorized by his Majesty, the books of homilies allowed, the psalters, a convenient pulpit for the preaching, a decent seat for the minister to say service, conveniently placed, a strong chest with an hole in the lid, and three locks and keys; one for the minister, the other for the church-wardens, for the almes of the poore, and the keeping of the register book of the christenings, marriages, and burials?

6. Whether haue you in your church a font of stone for baptisme, set in the ancient usuall place: a decent table for the communion conveniently placed, covered with silk or other decent stuff in time of diuine service, and with a faire linen cloth over that at the administration of the communion?

7. Whether haue you all such bells, ornaments, and other utensils as haue anciently belonged to your church, a communion cup of silver, with a cover: a faire standing pot or stoop of pewter or purer metall, for the wine upon the communion table: a comely surplice with sleeves: a register book of parchment for christenings, marriages, and burials?

8. Whether are weekly the names and surnames of all persons married, christened, and buried, and of their parents with the day and yeare, entred in your said parchment-book for christenings, marriages, and burials? and is every leaf being full, subscribed by you the minister and church-wardens?

* No title-page. These Articles were re-issued verbatim in 1632, in both cases without any name.

9. Whether are the ten commandments set up in the East end of the church, and other chosen sentences of holy scripture upon the walls in convenient places? is there a table set up of the degrees of marriage allowed? are all your seats in your church in good repaire, cleanly kept, conveniently placed, and the parishioners in them, or elsewhere orderly set? and is there no contention or striving for any seat or place among them?

Touching the ministrie, service, and sacraments.

1. Whether is the common prayer said or sung by your minister both morning and evening distinctly and reverently, every sunday and holyday, and at convenient and usuall times of those dayes, and in most convenient place of the church for the edifying of the people?

2. Whether doth your minister observe the orders, rites, and ceremonies prescribed in the book of common prayer, in reading the holy scriptures, prayers, and administration of the sacraments, without diminishing, in regard of preaching or any other respect, or adding anything in the matter or form thereof?

3. Whether doth your minister on wednesdayes and fridayes, not being holydayes, at the accustomed houres of service resort to the church, and say the Letany prescribed? And doth your clerk or sexton give warning before by tolling of a bell on those dayes?

4. Whether is your curate allowed by the Ordinary under his hand and seal, to serve for your cure? and whether doth he serve two churches or chappels in one day?

5. Whether doth your minister in saying the publike prayers, and administering the sacraments, weare a decent surplice with sleeves? being a graduate, doth he weare therewith a hood, by the order of the Universities agreeable to his degree?

6. Whether doth your minister, having notice given him, diligently visit the sick, the disease not being infectious? doth he instruct and comfort them? doth he then move them to make their testament, remember the poore, and other works of charity? and the passing bell tolling, doth he then neglect his last duty?

7. Whether hath your minister refused to baptize any childe brought to the church upon any sunday or holyday, or to bury any corps brought into the church or churchyard, or to church any women, having had convenient warning thereof?

8. Whether hath your minister, being truly enformed of the danger of death of any infant unbaptized, and being desired to go to the place where the childe is, to baptize it, neglected to go; by means whereof the childe died unbaptized?

Touching parishioners.

1. Whether be there any abiding or resorting to your parish, that be known to defend or maintain any hereticall or schismaticall opinions, contrary to the holy scriptures of God: or do openly or secretly impugne or dislike the publike worship of God, or the rites and ceremonies now established in the church of England: or do affirm the same to be such as godly men may not with good conscience approve?

2. Whether doth any in your parish prophane, violate, or mispend the sabbath, or holyday, or any part of them, using any offensive conversation, or worldly labour in those dayes, or any of them?

3. Whether hath any in your parish disturbed the service or sermon any way, or departed out of the church during the service or sermon? or have any slept, or sat with their hats on in time of divine service?

4. Whether do all parishioners receive the holy communion thrice every yeare at the least, whereof the feast of Easter to be one? and have all being of the age of 16 yeares duly received, or not?

5. Whether have any persons, once lawfully married, forsaken each other, or do live asunder without the authority of the Ordinary? or do any being divorced or separated marry again, the former wife or husband yet living?

6. Whether have any been married in the times wherein marriage is by law restrained, without lawfull license, viz from the saturday next before Advent unday, untill the fourteenth of January; and from the saturday next before Septuagesima-sunday, untill the munday next after Low-sunday; and from the sunday before the Rogation-week, untill Trinity-sunday?

7. Whether hath any of your parish unreverently used your minister? or have any laid violent hands upon him, or disgraced his office and calling, by word or deed?

8. Whether have you any common resorters to your church, which are not of your parish? or do any such receive the communion amongst you? what be their names, and of what parishes are they?

21795.

9. Whether have any in the time of divine service opened their shops, exercised their trade, used any gaming, been in any tavern or alehouse, or otherwise ill employed?

10. Whether are there in your parish any adulterers, fornicators, incestuous persons, bawds, receivers, close favourers, conveyers away, or which suffer to depart any incontinent persons unpunished, any blasphemers, common swearers, drunkards, ribaids, usurers, malicious slanderers, scolds, or sowers of discord, or any defamed of the said crimes?

11. Whether do any refuse to pay to the reparations, ornaments, and other things required in your church, as they are cessed by a lawfull vestry; or any dwelling out of your parish, which hold land in your parish?

12. Whether have all women in your parish delivered of childe, come at convenient time after to church to give thanks? and have they been churched according to the form of the book of common-prayer?

13. Whether hath the perambulation of the circuit of your parish been observed once every yeare? If, not whose default is it.

14. Whether have there been any secret conventicles or meetings in your parish by any priests, ministers, or others, tending to the depraving of the form of prayer, doctrine, or government of the church?

15. Whether have any in your parish given the church-wardens, or side-men, or any of them evil words, for doing their duty according to their oath and conscience, in making presentment for any fault?

Touching church-wardens and sworn-men.

1. Whether do any in your parish take upon them to be church-warden or side-man, which is not lawfully chosen by the minister and parishioners, according to the canon? or do any continue in that office longer then one yeare, except they be chosen again? and are all such officers chosen yearly in Easter week?

2. Whether do your church-wardens within one moneth at the most after their yeare ended, before the ministers and parishioners give up a just account of all such money, and other things, as they have received and bestowed? Have they delivered all remaining in their hands belonging to their church or parish, by bill indented, to be delivered to the next church-wardens?

3. Whether have the church-wardens with the advice of the minister, from time to time provided a sufficient quantity of fine white bread, and wholesome wine, for the number of communicants?

4. Whether have any church-wardens, lost, sold, or detained any goods, ornaments, bells, rents, or implements of the church, or made any alteration without leave from the Ordinary.

5. Whether do you the church-wardens and side-men, about the midst of divine service, usually walk of the church, and see who are abroad in any alehouse, or elsewhere absent, or evil employed? and have you presented all such to the Ordinary.

6. Whether do you know, or have heard a fame of any offence committed by any of your parish before your time, and heretofore not presented? and have you presented the same.

You must also present any matter or cause which is a breach of the Ecclesiasticall law, although it be not here expressed: for better knowledge whereof you are diligently to peruse the book of Canons, and Statutes, enabling Ordinaries or their Officials to punish offences there specified.

FINIS.

ARTICLES, Temp. CAR. I., OF BISHOP WILLIAMS, OF LINCOLN, after 1630. [Title wanting.]

ARTICLES TO BE ENQUIRED OF WITHIN THE DIOCESE OF LINCOLN.

1. Concerning Churches repaires, utensills, emoluments, and abuse of Church and Churchyard.

Whether is your Church or Chappell, Church, Chancell, and the Chancell sufficiently repaired in the walls, roof, seats, pavement and Churchyard. and also the parsonage or vicaridge houses? And whether is the churchyard decently fenced with pales, or walls, and by whose default are any of these in decay; either of the Minister, lay-person, appropriator, farmer, or parishioner? Set down the names of those in whose time, or by whose means the said decayes were made, or suffered to be made.

2. Whether have you in your Church or Chappell, a large Bible, a book of Common prayer by his Majestie confirmed, two Psalters, the book of Homilies allowed by authority, Erasmus his

4 C

- paraphrases, Bishop Jewels works, a convenient pulpit and a pulpit cloth, a decent seat for the Minister & Clerk, a chest for the Register book to be kept in with three locks and keys, whereof the Minister is to have one, and also a poore mans box after the same manner?
- Pulpit. Ministers seat. Chest with three locks. Poore mans box.
3. Whether have you a decent Font with a cover for Baptisme, and a decent Communion table with two covers, one of silke, or some fine stuffe, another of linen, a faire surplesse with sleeves, a Communion silver cup, and a stoop for the wine, sufficient bells and bell ropes for ringing? And whether have you had any necessaries or ornaments of your Church now fallen into decay as bells, organes, or chimes, or a clock, or tofts to sit in, maintenance for singing, or any such like? and by whom are any of these withheld or taken away, or who have defaced, broken down, or taken away, any decent ornaments in your Church?
- A Font. Communion table. Surplesse. Communion cup. Bells and bell ropes.
4. Whether have you the ten commandments faire written, and set up in the East end of your Church, and the table of the degrees of matrimonie set up also in your Church?
- The ten Commandments & table of degrees of matrimonie set up.
5. Whether be the walls of your Church whited, and faire and discreetly written with chosen sentences of holy Scripture?
- Church walls whited. Scripture sentences written.
6. Whether have you a book of Canons of 1603? and doth your Minister read them publickly once every yeare?
- The book of canons to be read.
7. Whether have you a Register book in parchment of them that be christened, married, and buried, from the first yeare of the late Queen Elizabeth, untill this time? And whether every Sabbath day next after such christning, marriage, or buriall, doth the Minister in the presence of the Churchwardens therein write the names of the parties, and also the day and yeare of such christening, marriage, and buriall, had the week before? And whether have the Minister and Churchwardens subscribed their names to the end of every page being full?
- Register book.
8. Whether is the said Register book laid up again, and kept in a sure chest under three locks and three keys? and who do keep the said keyes? and who hath kept the said Register book this last yeare? And you are to bring or send your certificates of christnings, marriages, and burials to the visitation, and to deliver them to him who shall execute the office of Register to the lord Bishops visitors there, and to subscribe them as the Canon requireth.
- Register book how it is kept.
9. Whether have any ministers, or lay-persons, changed, usurped, or inclosed any of the glebe, or taken away any part of the building belonging to the Church, parsonage, or vicarage, or do detain from the Parson or Vicar any tithes, glebe-land, duties, or profits, which you know, or have heard have belonged, within the memorie of man, unto the parsonage or vicarage? And whether is there any land or meadow anciently employed or set apart for the Churches use converted now, or taken away to temporall use?
- Glebeland changed. Tithes or profits detained.
10. Whether have any built or encroached upon any part of the Churchyard, without sufficient authority from the Ordinarie?
- The Churchyard encroached, or built upon.
11. Whether have there been in your Church, Chappell or Churchyard, any plaies, gaming at bowls, tennis, football, or any other playing. Either any feasts, Church-ales, temporall courts, leets, or any other profane usage there, and by whom?
- Gaming and playing, and feasts in Churchyards.
12. Whether hath any person or persons made or set any tumbrells, or other things in your churchyard to fodder cattell in?
- Tumbrells made in the Churchyards to fodder cattell in.
13. Whether is the grasse in your churchyard, or any part thereof eaten by swine, or other noysome cattell? and to what use doth your Minister, or other person to whom the Churchyard belongeth, employ the same? And whether have you seen any swine or other cattell in your Churchyard since you were Churchwardens? and whose swine or cattell, and what kinde of cattell were they?
- Swine and other noysome cattell in Churchyards.
14. Whether is your Churchyard annoyed or profaned by hanging of clothes, or bleaching of cloth, or laying of rubbish, dung, or durt therein, or the like? And whether is there any other use or uses made thereof then the buriall of the dead? and what use and uses?
- Churchyards annoyed and profaned.
15. Whether have any trees been cut down in the Churchyard, and by whom, and how employed?
- Trees cut down in Churchyards.
2. Concerning the office and duty of the Minister alone.
1. Whether is your Parson or Vicar resident upon his benefice, and whether doth he use a Curate, and whether is the Curate lawfully admitted to holy orders, and licensed by the Ordinarie under his hand and seal, to serve the cure in that place, and have you seen such license? And hath the Curate a competent stipend for his maintenance?
- The Ministers residence. The Curates admission.
2. Whether hath your Minister more benefices then one, and how farre distant? doth he serve one cure himself; and there diligently preach? and hath he a sufficient preacher for his Curate in his absence at the other, and doth allow him competent wages?
- The cure served by the Minister or by a Curate.
3. If your Minister be not a Monethly sermons. Homilies. preacher, whether doth he procure monethly sermons to be made by some able licensed preacher? And whether doth he when there is no sermon read an homilie?
4. Whether is there any publick fame in your parish of any simonie which your Minister hath used directly or indirectly, or any money or other reward which he gave to his patron, or any other for his living?
- Monethly sermons. Homilies. Simonie.
5. Whether doth your Minister every Sunday and Holy day, and on their eves, sing or say distinctly in due time and place, the prayers and service, according to the book of Common prayer, without addition or omitting anything, or altering any thing?
- Prayers duly to be said.
6. Whether doth your Minister say or sing the Letanie in your parish Church upon wednesdaies and fridaies, causing a bell to be tolled thereunto: and whether doth he give warning of the Holy dayes, fasting dayes, and the Ember weeks? And whether doth he warn the perambulations? And whether hath he and the parishioners kept the same perambulations, and who hath neglected the same?
- Letanie to be read upon wednesdaies and fridaies, and a bell to be tolled. Holydayes and fasting dayes to be warned. Perambulations to be warned and kept.
7. Whether doth your Parson, Vicar, or Curate expound any Scripture, or preach, not being thereunto licensed? And whether is your Minister licensed to preach or no, and by whom?
- The Ministers license to preach.
8. Whether doth your Minister before his sermon, pray for the King's Majestie, giving him his lawfull title, and just stile; and commend our gracious Queen Marie, and Royall Prince Charles in his prayers to Almighty God, following that form of prayer prescribed in the 55. Canon? And whether doth he alwaies end his prayer with the Lords prayer saying, Our Father which art, &c.
- The Ministers prayer before his sermon.
9. Whether doth your Minister misbehave himself in preaching or praying, so that the congregation are offended thereat: and whether doth he teach publickly opposite doctrine against any other Minister, or any other Minister against him? Declare the points as neare as you can, And whether doth the Minister observe the late orders and articles appointed by the King's Majestie?
- Ill demeanour or opposition in preaching.
10. Whether have you any single Preachers or Preacher lawfull authoritie from the Lord Bishop? what stipend have they, and from whom? Whether doth the said Lecturer read prayers according to his Majesties late instructions, and conform himself to the orders of the Church of England according to the Canons? And whether doth he preach in his surplesse and hood, according to his degree?
- Preaching by Lecturers.
11. Whether doth the Minister every Sunday and holy day, catechize the younger sort in the parish? what other catechisme doth he use then that in the book of Common prayer? And whether doth he admit any to the Communion that cannot say the catechisme appointed by the book of Common prayer?
- Catechizing.

12. Whether doth your Minister keep any private meetings for prayers, or teaching (other then with his own families) or any private fasts or exercises, or exorcising to cast out devils without lawfull authoritie.

13. Whether hath your Minister or any other in your parish in their sermons preached any seditious doctrine, or oppugned, or spoken against the doctrine, orders, or ceremonies of the Church of England, as against the Kings supremacy, the government of the Church the book of Canons, the communion book, kneeling at the communion, crosse in baptisme, surplesse, ring in marriage, the bowing at the name of Jesus, or any other of the rites authorized?

14. Whether doth your Minister use the rites and ceremonies, and other orders appointed by the laws and canons of the Church & realm, in the administring of the sacraments and service; as a comely surplesse with sleeves, and upon it an hood (if he be a graduate) sutable to his degree, the crosse in baptisme, and the ring in marriage, and the rest?

15. Whether doth the Minister warn, and celebrate so many communions, that every parishioner may receive thrice at the least in the yeare, and especially once at Easter?

16. Whether doth your Minister administer the Communion, viz. either the bread or wine, to any but those that do receive it kneeling, and to whom, and after what manner.

17. Whether hath your Minister, admitted any excommunicated or suspended person to the communion? and whether hath he rejected any from the communion that were not notorious offenders, or excommunicated? and for what cause did he reject them?

18. Whether do you know or have heard of any married in your Church at the times prohibited, or not being thrice asked in the Church, or without a lawfull license, or in an unlawfull place, or house, that is, not between eight and twelve of the clock in the forenoon; or where the parties or one of them under one and twenty yeares of age, had not the consent of their parents? And who were those parties? The time prohibited is from the saturday next before Advent sunday, untill the 14. of January, and from the saturday (sic) next before Septuagesima sunday, untill the munday next after Low sunday, and from the Sunday before Rogation week, untill Trinitie Sunday.

19. Whether have any been married within the degrees forbidden? and whether have any been married in your Church, neither partie dwelling in your parish? and what is the name and names of the same parties? and what Minister married them? and who were present at the same marriage? Declare the truth upon your oaths.

20. Whether hath your Minister wittingly married any couple, the woman being then publickly noted, suspected, or famed to be with child unlawfully? and when, and whom, the same parties not having first done penance, nor procured license from the Ordinary?

21. Whether doth your Minister visit the sick, or neglect to go and comfort them, or to minister the Communion to them; or to baptize a childe that is in danger, having no lawfull impediment?

22. Whether doth your Minister too frequently resort to taverns, or ale-houses, or use any unlawfull games? or doth he use any servile labour, as carting, plowing, &c., or the like?

23. Whether doth your Minister use canonical, modest, and decent apparell, according to his ability, and that without curiositie, or new-fanglednesse? and doth he weare in his journeys a cloak with sleeves, commonly called a Priests cloak, without gards, long buttons, or cuts, according to the Canon?

24. Whether doth your Minister use any quoif or wrought night-cap contrary to the Canon?

25. Whether doth your Minister keep a book, wherein he noteth and writeth down the names of all persons excommunicated, and suspended in your Church? And whether doth he every sixe moneths openly denounce in his parish-church, every such person of his parish, as doth persevere in that censure of excommunication, not seeking to be absolved? And what are the names of all those that stand either excommunicated or suspended in your parish? And whether is any such person admitted into the Church, without a sufficient certificate of his absolution?

26. Whether hath the form of commination against impenitent sinners, been read in your Church to the people, according to the book of Common Prayer?

27. Whether doth the Minister warn, & celebrate the fifth day of November? and whom do you know in your parish that refuseth to celebrate the same.

28. Whether hath your Minister admitted any to be Godfather or Godmother to any childe at christening, before such person so undertaking have received the holy Communion?

3. Duties concerning the Minister and parishioners.

1. Whether do the Minister and parishioners stand up at the reading or saying of Glory be to the Father, &c. at the saying of the Belief and reading of the Gospel? and whether do they bow and make low reverence at the name of Jesus, as is enjoyned by the Ecclesiasticall laws of this Realm? And you are to present the names of those that have neglected to do so.

2. Whether do the Churchwardens, with the advice of the Minister, provide a sufficient quantitie of fine white bread, and also of wholesome wine for the number of Communicants? and whether is the same wine brought in a fair pot or stoop of pewter, or purer metall?

3. Whether have any deferred the baptizing of their childe any longer then till the next Sabbath or Holiday after the birth thereof?

4. Whether hath any childe died unbaptized in your parish, and how long did it live after it was born? and by whose default was that sacrament not administrated.

5. Whether have you heard of any in your parish that keep Popish or other schismaticall conventicles, private fasts or exercises? And you are to present the names both of the speakers and hearers.

6. Whether are there in your parish any Popish, Anabaptist, Brownist, or other Recusant, or Non-communicant; or who labour to pervert others to their opinions?

7. Whether have any persons been married either secretly in any private house, or openly in the Church, without sufficient license or banns thrice published in the time of divine Service, three severall Sundayes or Holidayes before the congregation? who were present at such marriage? and what Minister did marry them?

8. Whether doth any man or woman married together, live from their husbands or wives? and which of them is in default as you have heard?

9. Whether do you know or have heard of any that observe not the abstinence or fasts (by the Laws and Canons commanded and warned in the Church) of the time of Lent, Ember-weeks, Fridayes and Saturdayes, and holy Eves?

4. Concerning parishioners alone.

1. Whether do all and singular dwellers and sojourners within your parish diligently resort to your parish Church (with their servants and children) to morning and evening Prayer upon every Sunday and Holiday? and whether do they with due attention orderly there abide during the whole time of Common prayer, Service, and Sermon, reverently behaving themselves, as well inwardly, as also by outward gesture of their bodies, in keeping their heads uncovered, in kneeling, standing, and other decent behaviour as is appointed?

2. Whether have your people observed the Sabbath day duly in all sobernes and godly conversation? or be there any which have profaned the same, by playing at cards, tables, foot-ball, dauncing, bowling, excessive ringing, immoderate drinking, or other foolish delight, or vain pleasure.

3. Whether have any rudely behaved themselves in the Church, by walking, talking, laughing, sleeping, or keeping their hats on their heads in time of divine Service?

4. Whether have any (without just cause) departed out of the Church in time of divine Service, Sermon, or celebration of Baptisme?

5. Whether have any parishioners neglected to kneel at the receiving of the Communion? and whether have they received it any other way then kneeling? and how?

6. Whether have you any women which have not decently and orderly come to the Church with a veil or other grave attire, thereby discerned from the rest of the company, (to give God thanks after child-birth) giving the Minister notice thereof before?

7. Whether have you any common resorters to your Church being not of your parish? or do any such receive the Communion with you?

8. Whether do any in your parish wittingly converse with excommunicate persons? what excommunicate persons have been buried in your Church or churchyard?

9. Whether do any of your parishioners accustome to go to other Churches, and to leave their own?

10. Whether have any above seven-teen yeares of age not received thrice in the yeare the Communion; or any under that age refused to be catechized by their Minister?

11. Whether have any abused your Minister by blows or irreverent speeches? or beaten, quarrelled, or chided with any man in the Church or churchyard?

12. Whether be your parishioners conveniently placed and seated in your Church? and whether do any contend touching their places? and do any servants or youth prevent the housholders of their seats?

13. What persons do you know, that come not diligently to Church on Sundayes and Holidayes to heare prayers; or which usually come late after prayers be begun? or which refuse or neglect to send their children and servants to be catechized?

14. If you have any Chappels of ease in your parish, whether do the inhabitants resort once a yeare at the least to the parish church, to receive the Communion?

15. Whether have any contracted matrimonie (upon your knowledge, or by fame) and do not proceed to the solemnization thereof?

16. Whether are there any in your parish who occupie or enjoy any goods of any man deceased, not having proved his Will, nor taken administration of his goods where there was no Will made?

5. Concerning Free schools, Hospitals, Parish-clerks, Physicians, Chirurgions, and Midwives.

1. Whether is there in your parish any free-school, or any moneys, rents, stocks, lands, or houses, given or anciently employed, or set apart for the maintenance of a school, or of an hospitall, or the repairs thereof? Whether are the said moneys, or lands, &c. so employed as they were bequeathed? or whether are they detained or usurped to any other use? and by whom?

2. Whether have you any Schoolmaster, or Usher in your parish? What is his name? and whether is he licensed by the Ordinarie? and whether is he of sound religion, and honest conversation?

3. Whether doth your Schoolmaster catechize his scholars in the grounds of religion according to the catechisme in the book of Common prayer, and cause them discreetly to behave themselves in the church on Sundayes and Holidayes in time of divine Service, and catechizing?

4. Whether is your Church or anything thereto belonging annoyed, by teaching scholars there? and doth your School-master teach there without the consent of the Minister and Parishioners?

5. Whether is your Parish-clerk above twentie yeares of age, and sufficient for his place? and whether is he able to read distinctly, and to sing and write? and whether is he diligent in his office? and whether is he admitted, approved of, or licensed by the Ordinary to execute the same office, or no? and what are the profits of his clerkship yearely worth?

6. Whether doth the Clerk or any person not authorized meddle above his place, as to read prayers, bury the dead, church women, and such like?

7. Whether doth the Clerk or Sexton keep clean the Church, ring the bells, attend the buriall of the dead, and all other things belonging to his place?

8. Whether hath your Parish-Clerk, or any other in Prayers time, or before Prayers or Sermon ended, before the people departed, made proclamation in your Church touching any goods strayed away or wanting; or of any Leet-court to be held, or of common-dayes-works to be made, or touching any other thing, which is not merely ecclesiasticall, or a Church-businesse?

9. Whether do all the parishioners pay their accustomed wages and duties to the Clerk and Sexton? And what be their names that refuse?

10. Whether are there in your parish any not known Doctors of that profession, that practise physick? or Chyrurgions, and who are they? and whether are they authorized or licensed or no? and how, and by whom?

11. Seeing it is much imputed to Ecclesiasticall officers, that the ancient cognizance of the Church in examining the sufficiencie and honest demeanour of Midwives, and approbation of them in their office is almost altogether neglected, no other Court taking notice thereof, and so no difference being made betwixt them that are able and sufficient, and others who by inexperience and want of skill, are causes, that either woman or childe, or both do perish; and besides this inconvenience, many of the unworthier sort of that profession [are] instruments to cover adulteries and incontinencies, and other misdemeanours, either in doing their offices too secretly, or not using due examination appertaining to them, at time of deliverie of women justly suspected of the crimes abovesaid. You shall therefore enquire and present what women in your parish do practise the art or skill of midwifery, not being approved and licensed thereunto: and set down their names and descriptions. And if there be diverse in your parish, signifie them that are most worthy in your opinion to be approved and allowed.

6. Notorious crimes committed by any within the Ecclesiasticall cognizance.

1. Whether have you any which to your knowledge, or by common fame, have committed incest, adultery, or fornication, either any malicious or uncharitable persons, bauds, common drunkards, usurers, brawlers, slanderers, swearers, cursers, blasphemers, common scolds, ribaulds, perjured persons, or such like?

2. Whether have any received, conveyed, or harboured any light or lewd women, or any unlawfully begotten with childe, or vehemently suspected thereof, and have suffered them to depart before they have performed penance enjoyned by the Ordinarie.

Schoolmaster licensed or not.

Schoolmasters office to their scholars.

The parish clerks sufficiency.

Meddling above his office.

His dutie.

Proclamations of lay-busineses made in the Church.

The Clerks wages unpaid.

Physicians and chirurgions not licensed.

Midwives not licensed.

Adulterous fornicators, &c.

Harbourers of fornicators.

3. Whether is there in your parish any woman unlawfully gotten with childe before her marriage, or which is thereof vehemently suspected? And whether is there not a publick fame that some mean person hath been procured to marry such woman, and cover the fault of the true offender? And declare by whom, as the fame goeth.

4. Whether have any of your parish which have heretofore committed fornication, gone or departed out of your parish before they performed and did penance for the same? and with whom did they last dwell before such their going and departing out of your parish? and where are they now?

5. Whether have any childe or children been born in your parish, which have not been christened in your parish church? and where were the same childe or children christened and by whom? And whether have any children been christened in your Church upon any other day then Sunday, or an Holy day, or at other time of the day then in prayer time on those dayes, unless it were upon necessary occasion?

6. Whether have you any which by common fame use witchcraft, sorcerie, charms, unlawfull prayer or invocation in Latine or English, or any that resort to such for counsel or help?

7. Whether have any Inkeepers, Alewives, Victuallers, or Tiplers, received harboured, or suffered any person to eat, drink, stay, or play in their houses in time of Common prayer, Sermon, or Homily, on Sundayes or Holidayes? And what persons were so received, harboured, or suffered? and have they sold forth any drink or victualls at the like time? And have any of your parish loytered, or been gaming abroad at the same time?

8. Whether have any laboured, wrought or gone to cart on the Sunday or Holiday? and have any artificers, Shoemakers, Chandlers, Mercers, Butchers and the like, set open their shop windows, or doores, or used their trade, or any manuell occupation upon any of those dayes, or have sold any wares or goods belonging to their trade, in the time of Prayer, Sermon, or Homilie upon any Sunday or Holiday? and who were the same that did so?

9. Whether have you in your parish any water mills, winde-mills, fulling-mills, or other mills which have been suffered to grinde or go upon the Sabbath day, in prayer time, or any other time or part of the day? and by whose sufferance do they so grinde or go? and whether have you any cloth hung upon tenters, or laid out to be bleached upon the Sabbath day unnecessarily, or to the offence of the congregation?

10. Whether do any refuse to pay their sesments lawfully made to the repairs and ordinary charges of the Church, whether they dwell within your parish, or without, having or occupying goods or lands within it?

11. Whether have any miscalled, or railed upon any of the Churchwardens or Questmen, for doing of their duties according to their oaths?

7. The Churchwardens duties.

1. Whether are your Churchwardens according to order and lawfully chosen? whether have the old Churchwardens accopted for what they received to the Minister and parish? And whether do they and the Sidemen meet to confer of these present or any former articles given them in charge, to make true presentments? or have they wilfully omitted to present known or famed offenders?

2. Whether did the Churchwardens your predecessors faithfully present to their Ordinary from time to time all defaults and offences mentioned in these articles, which chanced in the time of their office? And what offences did they omit to present.

3. Whether hath any Churchwarden or any other lost, sold, or detained any ornaments, bels, or implements of the Church, or any legacies bequeathed thereunto? or have they not given to the parishioners a true and perfect accopt of all things in their office?

4. What strangers have preached in your Church this last yeare, and by whom were they authorized as Preachers? And whether have you a book on purpose to write their names in? And whether have they written their names in that book, and also therein expressed who gave them authority so to preach, that thereby it may be known who presumeth to preach that is not licensed? And whether did you see such Preachers license or no?

5. Whether do the Churchwardens about the midst of diyne Service, usually walk forth, and make search for such as are then abroad in the streets, or in taverns, or alehouses, suspected to harbour idle company?

Finis.

DAVENANT, ARCHDEACON OF BERKSHIRE, 1631.

ARTICLES ministred in the first Visitation of the Right Worshipfull Mr. Doctor Davenant, Archdeacon of Barkeshire in the yeare of our Lord God 1631.

Oxford, printed by John Lichfield, Anno D. 1631.

[Collated with the Articles as re-issued by Archdeacon Rives in 1635.]

The Oath of the Church-wardens.

You shall faithfully administer all such Church goods, as are or shall come to your hands, to the vse of your Church; and thereof make true and faithfull accopt at the end of your office, deliuering all that remaineth therevpon to your next successors. Also you shall diligently enquire of, and faithfully present, all such persons as you shall either vpon your owne knowledge, or by publick fame vnderstand, to be guilty of any offence, or fault mentioned in any of the Articles aforesaid; or any other fault which is to be punished by the lawes Ecclesiasticall of the Realm. Wherein you shall not present any person for malice, hatred, or euill will, nor spare any for fauour, feare, or any corrupt affection: but you shall faithfully discharge your conscience, as men hauing the feare of God before your eyes and seeking the reformation of his Church, so God helpe you in Christ our Sauour.

The Charge of the Church-wardens, for the performance of their duties, with directions for making their Bills of presentments, which if they obserue not, the bill is to be reiected.

Can. 129.

For the avoiding of such inconueniences as heretofore haue hapned by the hasty making of bills of presentments vpon the daies of the Visitation. The Church-Wardens are straightly charged that together with their Minister (if he will ioyne with them) they doe read ouer all these Articles distinctly and leasurly to the end they may before-hand consider of euery particular Article and of the offences therein contained, as also of such persons as are or have bene noted to offend in any of them and to frame their Bills of presentment accordingly before the Visitation, for the making whereof wee giue these further directions.

1. That euerie bill be made in a faire large peece of paper of that quantity that there may be and so shall be made a particular answer to every Article.

2. That in the Front or beginning of every bill the name of the parish, the names of the Churchwardens and Sidemen, and the day of the moneth, and yeate of the Lord when the bill is exhibited, be inserted and writt downe.

3. That to euery such bil, euery person that is to subscribe therevnto, subscribe his owne name or marke and not by a deputie.

4. *That whereas the most necessary Statutes Canons and Injunctions are set downe in the margent for their perfecter and fuller instructions. They shall diligently compare those Statutes and Canons with the seuerall Articles. A straight accopt thereof wil be required at the Visitation.

Articles concerning the Church.

Inprimis whether your Church or Chaphells, (sic) with the Chancells thereof, bee sufficiently repaired, as well in Stone, Timber, Lead, Tyle, Glasse, as all other necessary things, and if they be not, through whose default is the same omitted?

Can. 82.

2. Whether the walls of the Church and Chancell, bee within whitened and beautified with fruitfull sentences of the holy Scripture, are they kept cleane and decently at all times, and especially against the time of diyne Service, and pauerd plaine and even in the body of the Church and Chancell, with convenient seats placed for the necessary vse of the Parishioners in time of diyne service.†

* Art. 4 omitted, 1635. The marginal references are omitted throughout.

† and are your towers, steeples, belfries, and bell frames, sufficiently repaired. Added, 1635.

3. Whether you haue in your Parish Church, or Chappell, all things necessary for the setting forth of Common prayer, and the administration of the Blessed Sacrament? * Namely the booke of Common Prayer, lately set forth by his Maiesties authority, the English Bible in the largest volume, and of the ast translation, the two Tomes of Homylies? Haue you a table shewing what degrees of consanguinity and affinity (sic) are forbidden in Marriage, set forth by authority in the yeare of our Lord God 1563. Are the tenne Commaundements set vpon the east end of your Church or Chappell, where the people may best see, and read them? A convenient seat and Pulpit for the Minister well placed; a decent Table standing on a frame for the holy Communion, is it so vsed in or out of the time of Divine Service, or Sermon, † as is agreeable to the holy vse of it? Haue you a faire linen Cloath, to lay vpon the same, and some couering of silke Buckerome, or other such like, for the cleane keeping thereof? A comely communion Cup of Siluer, with a couer of siluer, for the same, a flagon of siluer or pewter; a decent Surplesse ‡ with large sleeves? A Register booke of Parchment of Christenings, § Weddings, and Burialls? A Font of Stone in some convenient place of the Church sweet and decently kept? ¶ A sure coffer with three locks and keyes for the keeping of the said Register booke, and a strong chest or Box with three locks and keyes, to put in the Almes? And other things belonging to the premises? †

4. ¶ What legacies and other gifts haue benee giuen to the vse and benefit of your Church, who receiued them and in whose hands are they, are they employed according to their right vses as the donors intended, doth any detaine, or imbezill any of the Church goods, or any other gifts giuen to charitable vses, is there a note kept of them, and set downe in the Church booke.

5. Is there any among you that impugneth the Publique worship of God, the rites, and ceremonies, or the Government Ecclesiasticall established in the Church of England? Hath any in your Parish defaced, or caused to be defaced, any ornaments or monuments of the Church?

6. Whether is due reverence, attention, & humble submission vsed within your Church or Chappell, in time of diuine service doth each one in your Church or Chappell so apply, and order himselfe there in time of diuine service, and administration of the blessed Sacraments, as the **constitution of our Church and the booke of Common prayers, doth wholsomely enioyne, examine the Cannon throughout, and consider duely how it hath benee obserued and putt† the defaults.

7. Whether hath your Church, Church porch, or Church-yard benee prophaned by any plaies, feasts, banquets, Church-ales, Maygames, Morricedancings, drinkings, temporall Courts, or Leets, Layiuries, Musters, Fayres, Markets, selling of wares, or any vnlawful Games, as Bowling, Tennis, or the like? Are there any in your parish that haue fought, brawled, quarrelled, chiding, or vsed any violence in the Church, Church Porch, or church-yard, what are their names? ††

8. Are your Church yeards well and sufficiently repaired, fenced and maintained with Walls, Railes and Pales, if not through whose fault is it omitted? Hath any person inchoached vpon the ground of the church yeard, hath your church yeard benee decently kept, and vsed as a place consecrated to a holy vse, haue any cattell benee suffered to offend or annoy the same by foddering or soyling there or otherwise, are any hills of soile or compost cast vp there, if so, by whose fault is it so defiled, haue any trees growing in the Church yeard benee cut downe, if so, by whom and to what vse?

9. Whether there be any hospitalls or Almes howses in your parish and, whether the same be §§ vsed, kept, and ordered according to the Foundations, Lawes, and Statutes thereof, and in whom the fault is that they are not so vsed and kept. |||

* and such other things are there requisite. Added, 1635.

† or sermon] Omitted, 1635.

‡ a—Surplesse] two decent Surplesses. 1635.

§ is the Mothers Christian name therein Registered as well as the Fathers? Added, 1635.

¶ and couered. Added, 1635.

¶ The following Article is added here in 1635:

4. Whether haue you your accustomed number of Bells fit and serueable for ringing, and how many are the Bells which now you haue? If the number of your bells are diminished, by whom and for what cause are they so?

** 18. Added, 1635.

†† put] present. 1635.

‡‡ The following Article is added here, in 1635:—

9. Whether is there any erecting of Pews, or innouating of seates in your Church by any private man of his owne authority; and what seates haue benee so built, by whose procurement and by what authority?

§§ duly repaired and. Added, 1635.

||| who was founder, and who is visitor thereof? Added, 1635.

*Concerning the Clergie.
Can. 41.*

10. Whether your Parson or Vicar be now resident vpon his Benefice, if not how long hath he benee absent from you and where is he to your knowledge or as you heare,* to whom hath he let his benefice, whether to a sufficient curate or to a lay Farmer, and whether he not being resident vpon his benefice and being able yearely to dispense aboute twenty pounds by the said benefice hath yearely giuen and distributed to the reliefe of the poore and impotent of the Parish the fortieth part of the said benefice?

Stat. 18 Eliz. 20.

11. Whether doth your Minister preach vsually according to the constitutions either in his owne cure with you, or else in some other Church or Chappell neere adioyning, where no Preacher is, or how often hath hee benee negligent in that behalfe?

Can. 46.

12. Whether is your Minister a Preacher allowed, if yea, then by whom, if not, then whether doth he procure Sermons to be preached among you, once in every month at least, by such as are lawfully licenced, or whether is his liuing able to beare the charges thereof, also whether doth he read some one of the Homilies prescribed vpon euery Sunday when there is no Sermon Preached.

Can. 47.

13. If your Minister hath another Benefice, whether doth he supply his absence by a Curate that is sufficiently licenced to Preach in that Cure of his, whereon hee himselfe is not resident, or whether doe you thinke that the worth of that Benefice will beare the charge of it, yea or no, or otherwise in case he doth not finde a preaching Minister, there whereon he is not resident by reason of the smalnesse thereof, whether doth he preach at both his Benefices vsually himselfe?

Can. 48.

14. Whether is your Curate licenced to serue either by vs the immediat Ordinary of this Archdeaconrie, or the Bishop of this diocesse in his ordinary visitation? And whether doth your Minister or Curate serue any more Churches then one, if yea, then what other Cure doth he also serue.

Can. 49.

15. If your Minister be not licenced to Preach, as aforesaid whether doth he (sic) take vpon him to expound the Scriptures either in his owne cure or else where, if yea, then you are to present him.

Can. 50.

16. Whether hath any Parson benee admitted to Preach within your Church or Chappell but such as you haue well knowne to be sufficiently licenced, whom haue you so admitted and by whom were they licenced, you shall present their names and how often any such haue benee so admitted to preach, and by whose procurement? And whether haue you caused euery such Preacher to subscribe his name, together with the day when he preached, and by whom he was licenced?

Can. 53.

17. Hath there benee any publike opposition betweene Preacher and Preacher, in your Church or Chappell, touching any Sermons of doctrine or otherwise, formerly preached by any other either in your Church, or in any other Church neere adioyning, for the avoiding of offence, and disquietnesse that may grow thereby, you are diligently to obserue the directions of the constitution in that behalfe providing?

Can. 54.

18. Is there any man heretofore licenced to preach that refuseth to conforme himselfe to the Lawes, Ordinances, and Rites Ecclesiasticall, established in the Church of England?

Can. 55.

19. Whether doth your Minister & such others as preach in your Church or Chappell or read any Lecture or Homily before and at the beginning of every such Sermon, Lecture or Homily, moue the People to ioyne with him in prayer in such manner and forme or to such effect as in the constitution is prescribed, and if any haue omitted the same or any part thereof you shall present his name?

Can. 56.

20. Whether haue you any Preacher or Lecturer in your Parish; and whether if any such be doth he read himselfe diuine service publicly in his surplesse, administer both sacraments with such Rites and ceremonies as are prescribed in the booke of common prayer according to the canon and his Maiesties Iniuinctions. §

Can. 57.

21. Is there any among you that doe refuse to haue their children baptized or themselves to receiue the communion at the hands of your Minister because he is no Preacher.

* heare] haue heard. 1635.

† Lord. Added, 1635.

‡ 55. Added, 1635.

§ and are his Maiesties late instructions in all things duly obserued. Added, 1635.

Can. 58. 22. Whether doth your Minister weare the Surplice whilst he is saying the publique Prayers and Ministring the Sacraments? And if he be any Graduat, whether doth he then also weare vpon his Surplesse during the times afore said such a hood as by the Orders of the Vniuersity is agreeable to his degree?

Can. 59. 23. Whether* doth your Minister euerie Sunday and Holiday before evening Prayer for halfe an houre or more examine and instruct the youth and ignorant Persons of his Parish in the tenne commandements, Articles of the beliefe, and in the Lords Prayer, as also in the Catechisme set forth in the Booke of common prayer? And whether doe all Fathers, Mothers, Masters and Mistresses cause their children, seruants and apprentices to come thither to heare and to be instructed and taught (sic) therein accordingly, and if either Minister or any of the rest of your Parish be faulty or negligent therein you shall not spare to Present them howsoeuer, viz. the Minister for his negligence in not taking paines, and the housholders with their seruants for their carelesnesse in not sending or coming or refusing to learne.

Can. 62. 24. Whether hath your Minister without license first obtained, solemnized marriage betwixt any parties, the Banes not being three seuerall Sundaies or Holidiaies first published in time of diuine Seruice in the seuerall parish Churches or Chappells of their seuerall aboade, according to the Booke of Common-prayer, and that also betwixt the houres of eight and twelue in the forenoone? And whether hath your Minister solemnized any marriage, betwixt any persons being vnder the age of one and twenty yeares, although the Banes be thrice asked before such time as the Parents haue made knowne vnto him their consent therevnto? And whether hath he married any of another Diocese, who are they by what authority and when?

Can. 64. 25. Whether doth your Minister, vpon Sundaies at Morning Prayer, declare vnto the Parishioners what Holidiaies, and fasting-daies, are appointed to be kept, the week following?

Can. 65. 26. Whether doth your Minister euerie sixe Months denounce in his Parish, all Recusants, and such of his Parish, as doe persevere in the sentence of Excommunication, not seeking to be absolved? Whether hath he receiued any Excommunicate person into Church without a certificate vnder seale from the Ordinary? And whether doth your Minister labour diligently to reclaim the Popish Recusants in his parish from their Errors?

Can. 67, 68. 27. Whether doth your Minister, or Curate resort vnto such as are dangerously sicke, to instruct and comfort them, doth he refuse or delay to Christen any childe, or to bury any corps that is brought to Church, according to the Booke of Common-prayer, hath hee deferred the Christening of any child being in danger of death, and being therevnto required?

Can. 71. 28. Whether hath your Minister, or any other vnder pretence of liberty, or priuiledge, or whatsoever else excuse, preached, baptized children except in time of great necessity, solemnized marriage, Churched any women, or ministred the holy Communion, in any priuate house or

Can. 67. houses, yea, or no, if yea, then where, whom, when, and how often hath he offended in any of the premisses?

29. Whether hath your Minister taken vpon him, to appoint any Publike, or priuate Fasts, any prophecies or exercises, or hath he, or any other person or persons within your parish, vsed to meete together in any private house or place, there to consult together how to impeach or depraue the booke of Common-prayer, or the doctrine of the Church of England, or any way to depraue or impeach the discipline of the Church of England.

Can. 21, 22. 30. Whether doth your Minister administer the holy Communion, so often, and at such times as that euerie parishioner may receiue the same at least thrice in euerie yeare, whereof once at Easter, as by the booke of Common prayer is appointed? & whether doth your Minister celebrate the same in such manner and forme as by the proviso of the Cannon is directed, or wherein is he faulty? And whether is warning giuen by him before hand for the Communion. †

Can. 28. 31. Whether your Minister hath or doth receiue to the Holy Communion, any persons which be not of his owne parish without testimony from the Ministers of the place where they dwell; and what they be? that it may appeare that they be not persons Excommunicate, Sectaries, or otherwise infamous.

* are your afternoone Sermons turned into Catechising by question and answers? Added, 1635.

† the. Added, 1635.

‡ at Morning prayer on the next Sunday before. Added, 1635.

32. Whether doth your Parson, Vicar, or Curate question, or *reiect any from the holy Communion, who is not by publike fame, or by presentment, of the Church-wardens detected for a notorious Fornicator, Adulterer, or other wicked liuer or a disturber of his neighbours by whom publike offence is giuen, and by such an offence iudged by his Ordinary, and whether he receiue any such person so infamed or presented to the holy Communion before publike penance inioyned by his Ordinary be by him first performed to the satisfaction of the congregation according to the Law in that case providing.

Can. 26. 33. Whether doth your Minister, or Curate at any time administer the Communion, or Sacrament of the Lords Supper to any of his Parishioners, or other, sitting, or standing, but alwaies humbly kneeling, in the seuerall seats appointed in your Churches for the Communicants to receiue the same?

34. † Whether doth your Minister or Curate, administer the Sacrament of Baptisme rightly and duely, according to the forme expressed in the booke (sic) of Common-prayer, with due obseruation of all rites and ceremonies prescribed in the administration of the same?

Can. 14. 35. Whether is the whole Seruice or Common-prayer read in your Church or chappell distinctly and reverently vpon all Sundaies and Holidiaies, in such order as is set downe in the booke of common-prayer, without any alteration or omission, and at due and convenient howres: doth hee diminish diuine Seruice, in regard of long Sermons, Prayers of his owne, or any other respect, or adde any thing in the matter or forme thereof of his owne conceit and fancie?

36. Whether doth your Minister or Curate in the administration of the Blessed Sacraments, in the solemnization of Marriage, Buriall of the dead, Churching of women, &c., vse the formes, prayers, and ceremonies prescribed in the Communion booke: as namely whether doth he administer the Communion first to himselfe kneeling, and vse the words of institution, according to the Booke without alteration, at every time when the bread and wine is renewed? Doth he make the signe of the crosse vpon the childs fore-head, in the administration of baptisme: baptize any without God fathers & Godmothers or admit any Fathers to be Godfathers in Baptisme, or children not Communicants? ‡ Doth he vse the Ring in Marriage? If he haue omitted any of these through neglect, or otherwise, you are to present how often and in what nature he hath offended.

Stat. 1. Eliz. c. 2. 37. Whether your Parson, Vicar, or Curat, or any other within your Parish, or else where neere about the same, within the Arch-deaconrie of Barke-shire, to your knowledge, or as you haue heard by common report, haue preached, declared, vttered, or spoken any thing in derogation or deprauing of the said booke of common prayer, or any thing therein contained, or against any doctrine, office, or calling Ecclesiasticall, within the Realme established by publike authority, or against the ordination or election of Arch-bishops, Ministers, deacons, or any of them, and what was the thing or fault found, vttered, declared, or preached, and by whom? §

38. Whether doth your Minister publiquely read in your Parish Church, once euerie yeare, vpon some Sunday or Holy day, the Canons and Constitutions Ecclesiasticall, made in the first yeare of our late Soueraigne Lord king James deceased, according to his said Maiesties order and commandement set downe in the end of the said Canons.

Can. 74, 75. 39. Is your Minister or Curate so decent in apparell and sober in conuersation, as the constitutions enioyne, || is he not ¶ suspected to be guilty of any notorious crime, as Simonie, adultery, blasphemie, periury, drunkenesse, idlenesse, vnseemely and vaine talke, and whether he be scandalous in his conuersation, through brawling, fighting, quarrelling, peace-breaking, vnlawfull games, or haunting

Stat. 31. Eliz. c. 6. of places suspected, and not of good report? And whether your Parson or Vicar be knowne, suspected, or reported to haue bought his benefice, or come to it by any simoniacall compact, made either by himselfe or others directly or indirectly: or doe let out his living, * question or] omitted, 1635.

† Art. 34 omitted, 1635.

‡ Doth he baptize in any Bason or other vessell and not in the vsual font? Added, 1635.

§ Or hath any man in your Parish, perswaded any Minister to alter the forme of common prayer, or the administration of the blessed Sacraments? Added, 1635.

|| hath he commonly given himselfe to any base or servile labour. Added, 1635.

¶ not] Omitted, 1635.

or any part thereof to any in consideration that he hath obtained the same?

41. (Sic) Hath any in your Parish spoken scandalous, and reproachfull words against your Minister, to the scandall of his person, or Vocation, or against their Marriage or Wiues,* and what hath he spoken in derogation thereof.

Can. 76. 41. Is there any in your Parish, who hauing beene admitted into holy orders of Deacon, or Priesthood, doth relinquish, or forsake his calling and liueth in the course of his life as a Layman? Or any man being neither Minister or Deaton (sic) doth read common-prayer openly in the Church or Chappell, or practise any other Ministeriall duty in the Church, & what is his name that so doth.

42. Whether your Minister hath vsed the forme of thankesgiuing for any woman after child-birth, being vnlawfully begotten with child otherwise then in forme of a penitent person, viz., in a white sheete, or other habite, prescribed by the Ordinary, or vpon any other day then a Sunday, or Holiday, or before sufficient caution taken, that she should not depart the Parish till she should performe such pennance as should be enioyned by the Ordinary.

Iniunct. 18, 19. 43. Whether your Parson, Vicar, or Curate doth vsually every yeare in the Rogation weeke, goe with the Parishioners in the perambulations about the Parish, according to the custome and vse of auncient time, and doth say the prayers and suffrages appointed for the same, according to the late Queenes Maiesties iniunctions in that behalfe provided.

[18 Eliz. c. 10.] 44. Whether doth your Parson or Vicar well and sufficiently repaire and keepe their Parsonage or Vicarage houses in† reparations?

K Iniunct. 7. 45. Whether your Church, Parsonage Stat. 21 I. (sic) or Vicarage bee void or no, and how long 8. c. 13. it hath so beene, who gathereth the fruits thereof in the Vacancy and by what authority? Is there any Noble man or any other of inferior order and degree that keepeth any Chaplaine in his house? if so, of what ranke and quality is he that so keepeth him? †

Concerning schoole- 46. Whether is there any free Schoole masters. within your Parish, who was, or is the founder thereof, or hath the gift or nomination of the Schoole Master, what is his pension, who payeth it, and whether any goods or Reuenues belonging to the Schoole, be detained from it, and by whom?

47. Whether euery Schoole (sic) Master within your Parish in any Noble or Gentle mans house, or in any other place, be of good and sincere Religion, life, and conversation, and be diligent in teaching and bringing vp of youth, and whether they haue beene examined, allowed, and licensed for Schoole Masters, by the Ordinary in that behalfe, and what are their names, and of what degree in Schooles.

48. Whether doth your Schoole Master vpon Sundaies, and holy and Festiual daies, bring their Schollers orderly to the Church, and there see them quietly and soberly to behaue themselves without disturbance of the Minister or Parishioners, and doe they afterwards take an accompt of them, what they haue profited thereby? Doe they on other daies instruct their Schollers in the Catechisme, by law established, contained in the booke of Common prair. §

Can. 79. 49. Whether the Schoole-master or Schoole-masters within your Parish, doe teach his or their Schollers, any other Grammar, then that which is commonly called the Kings Grammar, set forth by the authority of King Henry the eight? †

Stat. 23 Eliz. c. 1. 50. Whether is there any person or persons in your Parish that doth keepe or maintaine any Schoole-master, which doth not repaire to Church; or are there any knowne, or suspected to read to their Schollers privatly, any vnlawfull bookes, or to instruct them in their young yeares, either in Popery, superstition, or disobedience or contempt to his Maiestie, and his Lawes Ecclesiasticall, by publike authority allowed?

51. What Phisitian or Chirurgion is in your parish vnlicensed, and being not a Doctor of Physicke in either of the Vniuersities, doth practise Physicke: And what ignorant persons haue left their trade and taken vpon them to profess Physick or Chirurgery, and who be they that so abuse the People?

Can. 19. 52. Haue you a fit Parish Clarke, of twenty years of age at the least, that can write, read, and hath competent skill in Singing: is he diligent in his office,* doth he keepe the Church decently and the dores safely locked, so that nothing is lost, or spoiled by his default, doth he obserue due howers in the execution of his place, doth he at any time read diuine Service or any part of it except the first Lesson; is his wages and the Sextons duely paid, as hath beene accustomed in your Parish?

Concerning Church- 53. Whether are the Church wardens wardens. chosen, by the Minister and Parishioners, Can. 29. according to the Cannon: And whether any of the Church wardens so chosen be dwelling out of the Parish, or particular Hamlet or Village for which he or they were chosen, & in what other place are they or he residing? And whether hath any taken vpon him to be Church-warden not being chosen, but hired to execute the place, or otherwise hath any continued about one yeare in his office, without a new election?

54. Whether hath any Church-warden or Church-wardens † giuen vp a iust and perfect accompt of all such mony, as they haue received by vertue of their office, to the vse of the Church, and in the end of the yeare haue restored and satisfied the same to the next Church-wardens of the yeare following, without wast or diminution, except such part thereof, as they haue imploied and bestowed in Reparations, and the necessary vse of the Church?

Can. 90. 55. Whether haue the Church-wardens beene and are they diligent, to obserue and see that the Parishioners duely resort to the Church vpon Sundaies and holidais, and there continue the whole time of Diuine Seruice, and to see & keepe order and decency in the Church in time of Common-prayer and administration of the Sacraments, that there be no disturbance, but sobernesse and quietnesse in the Church yeard and Church-porch?

56. Whether the Church-wardens, and sworne men your predecessors, haue of any priuate corrupt affection, concealed any crime, or other disorder, in their time done in your parish, and haue not presented the same to such Ordinary as had authority to reforme the same? And whether they or any of them at any such time as they should haue beene at diuine Service, on Sundaies and Holidais, and should there haue obserued others that were absent, haue beene away themselves, at home, or in some Taverne or Alehouse, or else about some worldly businesse, or at Bowles, Cards, Tables, Dice, or other gaming without regard of their office, and duty in that behalfe?

57. Whether you your selues or the Church-wardens in the yeare before you, haue suffered any vnmarried woman, being gotten with Child to goe out of your Parish, before she hath by you or them beene presented to your Ordinary; or any man defamed of whordome to depart vnpunished, and forth of whose houses haue they gone away with child vnpunished, and what be the names of such vnmarried women which haue beene deliuered within your Parish, and haue gone away without doing of Penance?

Stat. 3 Jac. c. 4. 58. Whether your Church-wardens doe leuy twelue pence of euery of the Parishioners, for every Sunday or Sabbath day that he or they absenteth himselfe, or their selues from the Church: And whether the same so leuied haue beene employed to the vse of the Poore, according to the Statute in that behalfe provided? Present who hath offended herein and how often.

Can. 18. 59. Whether doe you know any of your Parish, that in contempt of his owne Minister, or for any other corrupt cause, doth resort to any other Church, to heare diuine service, to baptize children, or to receiue the holy Communion, or any of convenient age, that doe not repaire to their owne Parish Church at the beginning of diuine Service, and there reverently demeane themselves, devoutly kneeling when the generall confession of sinnes, the Lettany, the tenne Commandements and all prayers and Collects are read: and performe such duties as are in the Constitution required, who doe couer their heads in the Church during the whole time of diuine Seruice, or doe talke, walke, or goe out of the church before Diuine Service is ended? †

60. Whether doe any in your Parish vse any gaming or pastime abroad, or in any house, or sit in the street, or Church-yeard, or in any Taverne, or Ale house vpon any

* their—Wiues] the marriage of the Clergy. 1635.

† sufficient. Added, 1635.

‡ Is there—keepeth him] Omitted, 1635.

§ and traine them vp with sentences of holy Scripture? Added, 1635.

|| The following Articles are added here, in 1635:—

51. Is any living or meanes given toward the erection or maintenance of any Schoole, withholden or otherwise employed and by whom?

52. Whether any keepe Schoole in the Chancell or Church, by which means, that holy place and the Communion Table are prophaned, and the Windowes broken?

* and obseruant to your Minister. Added, 1635.

† 29. Added, 1635.

‡ not. Added, 1635.

§ The following Article is added here in 1635:—

63. Whether there be any in your Parish who will come to heare the Sermon, but will not come to publike prayers, making a schisme or division (as it were) between the vse of publike prayers and preaching?

Sunday or holy-day, in the time of Common prayer, Sermon or reading of the Homilies, or any of them either before or after Noone?

61. Whether there be any Inkeepers, Alewives, Victualers, or Tiplers, that suffer or admit any person or persons in their houses, to eat, drinke, or play at Dice, Cards, Tables, Bowles, or such like Games, in time of Common prayer, or Sermon on the Sundaies or Holydaies, or any Butchers or other Tradesmen, that vse to sell meat or other wares on any Sunday or Holyday especially in time of Common prayer, preaching or reading of Homilies? And whether any Faires or common Markets falling vpon the Sundaies, there be shewing of any wares: and whether any Markets and selling of Wares be vsed or suffered, in any Church-yards on the Sundaies or Holydaies, or at any other time by common Packmen, or Pedlers going about or any Butchers or others?*

Can. 50.

62. Whether all housholders in your parish cause their children, servants & apprentices both maankind & womankind, being aboue seauen yeares of age & vnder twenty which haue not learned the Catechisme, to come to the Church on Sundaies and Holidais at the time appointed for Catechizing, and there diligently and obediently to heare or answer, and what be the names of those that doe not cause their children, seruants and apprentices, so to come to the Church to be instructed and examined?

Can. 112.

63. Whether all the Parishioners, being aboue sixteene years old haue received the Holy Communion thrise for the yeare last past, and namely at Easter last, or receiuing haue not signified the same to the Minister in time conuenient, that hee might examine them how they were instructed for partaking of so high Misteries?†

Stat. 3. Jac. c. 4 & 5.

64. Whether there be in your Parish any Recusant Papist, Brownist, or other Sectary whatsoever, that vseth or frequenteth any private conuenticles, meetings or assemblies in any houses, barnes, woods, or any such like place vnder pretence to heare the Word preached, or the Scriptures expounded: or whether is there any one in your Parish, that hath resorting vnto him any Jesuits, Seminaries, or Massing priests, or any other reconciled to the Church of Rome, or that are knowne or suspected to concele, or keepe hidden in their houses, any Masse Books, Chalices, Copes, or other ornaments of superstition vncancelled or vndefaced?

65. Whether there be any women within your Parish, which after childbirth refuse or contempe to come to the Church, in such decent sort and habit as hath bene aunciently accustomed to giue God thanks for their deli-uery, and to heare the praiers publicly appointed in that behalfe by the Booke of Common-prayer.

Stat. 3. Jac. c. 5.

66. Whether there be in your Parish any Popish Recusant, which hauing any child borne, did not within one month next after the birth thereof cause the same child to be baptized by a lawfull Minister, according to the Lawes of this Realme either in the open parish Church where the child was borne, or in some other Church neare adioyning, or Chappell, where baptisme is vsually administred?

67. Whether there be in any of your Parishes, any person or persons that hath stood excommunicated, and denounced for excommunicate persons, by the space of forty daies, and yet doe continue vnreformed, without feare of God, or danger of the Lawes; be diligent to present their names, and how long they haue so continued, & who keepeth company with such persons.

68. Whether there be any in your Parish, that doth administer the goods of those that be dead without lawfull authority, or any that suppress the last will of the dead, or any executors that haue not fulfilled their testators last will in paying of Legacies giuen to the Church, or to other good and Godly vses, as to the reliefe of Pouerty, or Orphans, poore Schollers, poore Maidens Marriage, high-waies, and such like, and by whom they are so denied.‡

69. Whether there be any in these parts|| that haue bene married within the degrees of affinity or consanguinity by the Lawes of God forbidden, or any that being divorced or separated for the same, doe yet notwithstanding cohabite, and keepe company together, or any that being married without those degrees haue vnlawfully forsaken their wiues or husbands, and married others, any that being divorced or separated asunder, haue married againe, or any couples married that liue not together, but scandalously liue apart?

70. Whether there be among you any Blasphemer of the name of God, great or often, swearers, adulterers, fornicators, harlots, or Whore-masters, incestious persons, Bawds, or receiuers of naughty and incontinent persons or harbourers of women with child, which be vnmarried, conveying or suffering them to goe away before they doe any penance, or any Vsurers, drunkards, ribaudes, or such that exercise Witchcraft, Sorceries, soothsaying and those that resort to them.

Finally by vertue of your Oath taken; you are to make true presentment of the names and surnames of all such person and persons as haue offended, or are commonly reported, or vehemently suspected to haue offended, according to the particular Articles aboue specified: you shall likewise detect and truly present any other crime or offence, which you know to be committed against any point of his Maiestes Lawes, statutes, Iniunctions and Ordinance Ecclesiasticall of this Realme which are not aboue mentioned: all which you shall present to vs and to no other Ecclesiasticall Judge, or Ordinary, vntill they happen according to custome, to hold their vsual Visitation for this Archdeaconry.*

FINIS.

KENT, ARCHDEACON OF SUDBURY, about 1631.

ARTICLES to be ministred, and to be enquired of and answered in the visitation of the right Worshipfull Mr. Archdeacon of Sudbury, Anno Dom. 163. †

Printed by Th. Buck, and R. Daniel, printers to the Universitie of Cambridge. 163. †

[Collated with "Articles to be ministred in the Visitation of Sir Nathaniel Brent, Knight, Doctor of the Civill Law, Commissary Generall to the Lord Archbishop of Canterbury, within the City and Diocese of Canterbury. London. Printed for Richard Thrale, at the Crosse Keyes, by Paules Gate." N.D. but about 1632 or 1633.]

[The Churchwardens' Oath is the same as in previous Articles. The following paragraph is subjoined:—

You are also required to have speciall care to present all such as have or shall within your Church or Parish, offend against any of the Articles given in a book to the Churchwardens and Sidemn in every parish, at the late episcopall visitation for this Archdeaconry, anno 1630 (altered in MS. to 1638), especially those articles which are in the fourth chapter of the said book, concerning the saying and singing of diuine service in your Church.]

1. Imprimis, Whether have you in your Church the book of Constitutions, or Canons Ecclesiasticall, ready to be read by your Minister, according to his Majesties pleasure, published by his Highnesse authoritie, under the great seal of England: and whether hath your Minister read the same, or any part thereof upon sundayes and holydaies in the afternoone before diuine service, accordingly, yea or no.‡

2. Item, Whether is there any in your parish that doth impugne any of the articles of religion, agreed upon in Anno 1562; and established in the Church of England.

3. Item, whether doth your Minister Pray for the King, use to pray for the Kings Majestie, King Queen, Prince, &c. Charles, and for the Queens Majestie, the Prince, and all their royall progenie, with addition of such style and titles as are due and appertaining to his Majestie; and exhort the people to obedience to his Highnesse, and other Magistrates being in authority under him.

4. Item, whether is there any in your parish that impugne or speaketh against the rites and ceremonies established in the Church of England, or the lawfull use of them: you shall present their names.

* The following paragraph is subjoined in 1635:—

A true note in writing of these things following must be exhibited by the Churchwardens in the Visitation together with their Presentments.

A note of all summes of money giuen by any Testament or otherwise to the use of the poore of your Parish.

A copy of the Inventory of the goods and ornaments, and of the Bookes and Acts of Parliament, and of the Stocke of mony belonging to your Church.

† Filled up in MS. with the figure 9. The Articles appear to have been first issued in 1631.

‡ Church] severall Churches and Chappels. Brent.

§ no] not. Brent.

|| and for—Prince] our Queene Mary, Prince Charles, the Lady Mary, with the Princesse Palatine of Rhine. Brent.

* The following Article is added here in 1635:—
66. Doth your Minister duly read diuine Service on Wednesdayes, Fridayes and Saturdayes & Holy-day eues, according to the law in that behalfe provided, and do the Parishioners duly resort thereto?

† The following Article is added here in 1635:—
69. Whether the fift day of Nouember-bee kept holy and thanksgiuing made to God for his Majesties and this States happy deliverance, according to the ordinance in that behalfe.

‡ and say. Added, 1635.

§ and detained. Added, 1635.

|| these parts] Your Parish. 1635.

5. Item, are there any in your parish that do impugn the government of the Church of England, under the Kings most excellent Majestie, by Arch-bishops, Bishops, Deans, Arch-deacons, and the rest that bear office in the same: affirming that the same is Antichristian, or repugnant to the word of God.

6. Item, whether any persons have lurked and tipled in taverns or alehouses on sundayes or other holydayes, or vsed his or their manuall craft or trade upon the said dayes or any of them,* and especially in the time of divine service.

7. † Item, are there any in your parish that do, or have profaned (since his Majesties last generall pardon) the Lords day called sunday, or other holydaies contrary to the orders of the Church of England prescribed in that behalf.

8. Item, whether is the prescript form of divine service, used by your Minister upon sundaies and holydaies, according to the book of common Prayer: and whether doth your Minister duly observe all the orders, rites and ceremonies prescribed in the said book of common Prayer, as well in reading publick Prayers, the Letany, as also in administring the Sacraments in such manner and form as in the book of common Prayer is enjoyned.

9. Item, whether hath any person in your parish quarrelled or stricken, or used any violence unto or with your Minister, or any other in the Church or Church-yard, or used himself disorderly in the Church by filthy and profane talk, or any other rude and immodest behaviour.

10. Item, whether is that due reverence and humble submission used within your Church or Chapel in the time of divine service, as by the eighteenth Canon particularly ‡ is prescribed: whether each one in the Church or Chapel doth apply and order himself there, in time of divine service, and sermon; neither departing out of the Church during the time of service and sermon.§

11. ¶ Whether doth your Minister before the severall times of the administration of the Lords supper, admonish and exhort his parishioners, if they have their consciences troubled and disquieted, to resort unto him, or some other learned Minister, and open their griefs, that they may receive such ghostly counsel and comfort as their consciences may be relieved, and by the Minister they may receive the benefit of absolution, to the quiet of their consciences, and avoiding of scruple. And if any man confesse his secret and hidden sinnes, being sicke, or whole, to the Minister, for the unburthening of his conscience, and receiving such spirituall consolation, doth or hath the said Minister at any time revealed and made known to any person whomsoever, any crime or offence so committed to his frust, contrary to the 113 Canon? that he might be punished accordingly.

12. Item, whether the Churchwardens do provide against every Communion with the advice of the Minister, a sufficient quantitie of fine white bread, and of good and wholesome wine for the number of the Communicants that shall receive; and that to be brought in a clean and sweet standing pot of pewter, or of other pure metall.

13. Item, whether doth your Minister administer the holy Communion, so often, and at such time, as that every parishioner may receive the same at least thrice in every yeare, whereof once at Easter, as by the book of common Prayer is appointed: and whether doth your Minister receive the same himself on every day, before that he administred it to others: and use the words of the institution, according to the book, at every time that the bread or wine is renewed, in such manner and form, as by the proviso of the 21 Canon is directed: or, wherein is he faultie: and whether is warning given by him beforehand for the Communion, as the 22 Canon requireth.

14. ¶ Item, whether hath your Minister admitted any notorious offenders or schismatics to the Communion, contrary to the 26, and 27 Constitutions.

15. Item, whether the Minister together with the Church-wardens and Questmen, do take diligent heed and care, not onely that all and every of your own parishioners do receive thrice in every yeare as aforesaid; but also that no strangers of any other parish do come often and commonly to your Church from their own parish Church: and you are now to present the names of all those, who being sixteen yeares of age or upwards, have not in their own parish received the Communion at or since Easter last.

16. Item, whether doth your Minister use to signe the children with the signe of the crosse when they are baptized, according to the book of common Prayer: and whether hath he deferred, or wilfully refused to baptize any infant in his parish being in danger, having been duly informed of the weaknesse thereof: and whether the childe hath died in his default without baptisme: or whether hath he at any time refused or neglected to bury the dead, or to minister the Sacrament of the Lords Supper to any being in extremity of sicknesse having been required thereunto.

17. Item, whether is your Minister continually resident with you upon his benefice, or for how long time hath he been absent: and where is he resident for the most part, and what other benefice hath he.

18. Item, whether doth your Minister preach usually, according to the Constitutions, either in his own Cure with you, or else in some other Church or Chapell neare adjoining, where no Preacher is: or how oft hath he been negligent in that behalf.

19. Item, whether doth your Minister or Curate serve any more Cures then one: if yea, then what other Cure doth he serve.

20. Item, if your Minister be not licensed to preach, whether doth he take upon him to expound the Scriptures, either in his own Cure, or elsewhere.

21. Item, whether hath any person been admitted to preach within your Church or Chapell, but such as you have well known to be sufficiently licensed.

22. Item, whether doth your Lecturer and Preacher, your Parson or Vicar read divine service, and administer the Sacraments in his own person, twice every yeare, observing all the ceremonies in the book of Common Prayer established.

23. Item, is there any in your Parish that refuse to have their children baptized, or themselves to receive the Communion at the hands of your Minister, because he is no Preacher: you shall present their names. And if your Minister, since the publishing of the said book of Canons, hath received any such persons (being not of his own Cure) to the Communion, or baptized any of their children, you shall likewise present him.

* 24. Item, whether doth your Minister wear the surplesse, hood, &c. whilst he is saying the publick prayers, and ministring the Sacraments; and if he be any graduate, whether then doth he also wear upon his surplesse, during the times aforesaid, such a hood as by the order of his Universitie is agreeable to his degree.

25. Item, whether doth your Minister every sunday and holiday before evening prayer, for half an houre or more, examine and instruct the youth and ignorant persons of his parish, in the ten commandments, articles of belief, and in the Lords prayer, as also in the catechisme set forth in the book of common Prayer: and whether do all fathers, mothers, masters, and mistresses, cause their children, servants, and apprentices to come thither to heare and to be instructed and taught therein: and those that do not their duties herein, you shall present their names.

26. Item, whether hath your Minister, without license from the Arch-bishop, the Bishop of the diocese, or his Chancellour, or Commissary, solemnized marriage betwixt any parties, the banes not being three severall sundayes or holydayes first published in time of divine service in the severall Churches or Chapels of their severall abode, according to the book of common Prayer: and that also betwixt the houres of eight and twelve in the forenoon.†

27. Item, whether your Minister do every sunday bid holydayes and fasting-dayes, as by the book of common Prayer is appointed.

* dayes or any of them] dayes, or otherwise prophaned them, or any of them, in any sort. Brent.

† Art. 7. Not in Brent.

‡ canon particularly] Constitution. Brent.

§ during—sermon] in time of divine Service, as by the latter part of the same constitution is most commendably enjoyned. Brent.

¶ Art. 11. not in Brent.

¶ Item, whether doth your Minister administer the sayd Communion to any that doeth not humbly kneele at the receiuing of the same? What are the names of them that refuse to kneele at the receiuing thereof? Added in Brent.

* Item, whether are there any priuate meetings, assemblies, or conuenticles, either by day or by night, vsed or had within the Parish by any Minister or Ministers, or any Lay-persons tending to faction and Schisme? Declare the parties names, the places where, the times when, and how often have you knowne any such meetings, assemblies, or conuenticles? Added in Brent.

† and furthermore, whether hath your Minister since the last Canons published solemnized any marriage betwixt any persons, being vnder the age of one and twentie yeeres, although the banes be thrice asked, before such time as the parents haue made knowne vnto him their consent therevnto; and whether hath hee married any of another Diocese, who are they, and by what authoritie, and when? Brent.

28. Item, whether doth your Minister every six moneths denounce in his parish, all such of his parish as do persevere in the sentence of excommunication, not seeking to be absolved: and whether hath he admitted into the Church any person excommunicate, without a certificate of his absolution from the Ordinary, or his Substitute.

29. Item, whether your Parson, Vicar, or Curate hath celebrated and said divine service and prayers in the Church when any person that he knew to be excommunicated, or denounced for an excommunicate person, was present in the same Church at that time among the congregation: and whether he hath suffered any excommunicated person (being a member cut off from the Church, and from Christian societie) to be partaker of those prayers; and hath not commanded the Churchwardens of the parish, or some other to put him out of the Church; or otherwise ceased from saying any divine prayers during the time of the presence of such excommunicated person thereat, and present: who hath offended herein, and how often.

30. Item, whether your Parson, Vicar, or Curate of any your Church or Chapel, (*) having received any excommunication, suspension, or aggravation from his Ordinary, or his Substitute, against of their parishioners, have presumed to make stay of, and not published such excommunication, suspension, or aggravation according to the tenour thereof the next Sunday or holyday after the receipt of the same in your Church or Chapel at the time of divine service: if any be faulty herein, present their names, and how oft default hath been made in that behalf.

31. † Item, whether doth your Minister, being a Preacher, endeavour and labour diligently to reclaim the Popish Recusants in his parish from their errors, if there be any such abiding there: and whether is he painfull in visiting the sick, according to the book of common Prayer.

32. Item, whether is your Parson, Vicar, or Curate suspected to frequent, or to be over-conversant with, or a favourer of Recusants, whereby he is suspected not to be sincere in religion.

33. Item, hath any presumed to execute the office of a Minister, or Deacon, in your Church,‡ and to say and celebrate the divine service there, or to serve the Cure of your Parish, not being a Minister or Deacon. And whether any Deacon hath presumed to minister the Sacraments in your Church,‡ not having first received the full orders of Priesthood: if yea, present what his name is, where he dwelleth, and how often he hath offended herein.

34. Item, whether is there in your Church or Chapel, one parchment register-book provided for Christenings, marriages, and burials: and whether is the same duely and exactly kept according to the Constitutions in that behalf provided.

35. Item, whether doth your Minister use such decencie and comelinesse in his apparell, as by the 74 Constitution is enjoyned.

36. Item, doth any take upon him to teach school in your parish without special licence of his Ordinary: and whether doth your schoolmaster bring his scholars to the Church to heare divine service and sermons: and whether doth he instruct them in the Catechisme.

37. Item, whether have you provided the book of common Prayer § lately set forth by his Maiesties authoritie, and the book of Homilies: and whether have you in your Church or Chapel a font of stone set up in the ancient usuall place, a convenient and decent Communion table, with a carpet of silk, or some other decent stuffe, and a fair linnen cloth to lay thereon at the Communion time: and whether is the same table then placed in such convenient sort, as that the Minister may be best heard in his prayer and administration, and that the greater number may communicate. To that end, doth it ordinarily stand up at the east end of the Chancel, where the altar in former times stood; the ends thereof being placed north and south? Is it at any time used unreverently, by leaning or sitting on it, laying hats upon it, or writing on it; or is it abused by any other profane or common use.* And whether are the ten commandments set upon the east end of your Church or Chappel, where the people may best see and reade them; and other sentences of holy Scriptures written on the walls also for that purpose.

38. Item, whether have you a convenient seat for your Minister to reade service in, together with a comely pulpit set up in a convenient place, with a decent cloth or cushion for the same: a comely large surplesse, a fair Communion cup of gold, silver, or other pure metall, and a cover agreeable for the same, with all other things and ornaments necessary for the celebration of divine service, and administration of the Sacraments, and also a convenient bier to carry the dead on.†

39. Item, whether are your Church, or Chapel, and the iles, with the Chancel thereof, and your parsonage, or vicarage-house, and all other housing thereto belonging in good reparations, and decently and comely kept, as well within as without; the seats well maintained, a sure coffer with three locks and keys for the safe keeping of your Register-book: your Churchyards well fenced and kept without abuse: if not, through whose default, and what defects are therein.

40. Item, whether do you know, or have heard of any legacie by any mans will, or any gift otherwise given to the poore, to the Church, or to any other holy uses, and not performed, or bestowed according to his will and gift; and in whose hands the same doth now remain.

41. Item, how many inhabitants without in your parish, men or women above sixteen yeares of age, be Popish Recusants, or do refuse to frequent divine service established by publick authoritie of this Realme, or to receive the holy Communion: what be their names, and of what degree, state, or trade of life are they: you are to present them all of both sorts.

42. Item, how long the said Popish Recusants have obstinately abstained either from divine service, or from the Communion, as is aforesaid: whether any of long time, or onely since his Majesties reigne.

43. Item, whether is your Minister a Preacher, sufficiently qualified; and if he be, whether doth he from time to time offer quiet and temperate conference to reclaim the Popish Recusants from their errors; and whether they, or any of them do refuse such conference with your Minister, or any other Preacher, who shall present unto them his diligence in that behalf.

44. Item, what persons aforesaid within your parish, either for the offence aforesaid, or for any other contumacie or crime, do remain excommunicate, what be their names, and for what cause, and how long have they stood so excommunicate.

45. Item, whether were you the Churchwardens and Questmen chosen by the consent of the Minister and parishioners: and whether have the Churchwardens before you, given a just account for their time, and deliuered to you their successours whatsoever money or other things of right belonging to the Church that was in their hands: and whether do you, and every of you, diligently see that all the parishioners do duely resort to their Church every sunday and holyday, and there continue the whole time of divine service, and none to walk or stand idle, or talking in the Church or Churchporch, or Churchyard, during that time: and whether do all the parishioners and their families accordingly frequent their parish Church, and there behave themselves soberly, attentively, and decently all the time of divine service, yea or no: if no, then you shall present their names.

46. Item, whether do all persons above the age of sixteen yeares usually resort to heare divine service upon sundayes and holydayes appointed: and whether hath each one of your parishioners (being above the age of sixteene yeares aforesaid) received the holy Communion thrice this last yeare, and chiefly once at Easter last in your parish Church kneeling: if no, then you shall present their names which have not so done.

47. Item, whether you have a fit parish clerk, aged twentie yeares at least, of honest conversation, and sufficient for reading and writing; and whether he be paid his wages without fraud, according to the most ancient custome of your parish: if not, then

* Church or Chapel] Churches or Chappels. Brent.

† Art. 31. not in Brent, who inserts the following in its place:

Item, whether is your Minister painfull in visiting the sicke, according to the booke of Common Prayer?

‡ your Church] any your Churches. Brent.

§ and the Bible of the new Translation. Brent.

* To that end—common use] not in Brent.

† and also—dead on] not in Brent.

by whom he is so defrauded and denied: and whether he be chosen by the Parson, or Vicar, or by whom.

48. Item, whether have any in your parish been married within the prohibited degrees forbidden by the law of God, and expressed in a certain table, published by authoritie in the yeare 1563: if yea, then you shall present their names. And whether have you the said table publickly set up in your Church, and fastened to some convenient place there.

49.* Item, whether all married persons in your parish do live together as man and wife ought to do.

50. Item, Whether do any heretofore divorced, keep companie with any other at bed and at board: what be their names: when and where were they married.

To give thanks after childe-birth. 51. Item, doth your minister use the form of thanksgiving to women after childebirth: and whether hath he admitted any thereunto that was begotten with childe in adultery, or fornication, without license of his Ordinarie. And whether have any married wives refused to come to Church vailed in a decent manner, as hath been anciently accustomed, to give God thanks after childebirth: † if any be faulty herein, you shall present their names.

Incontinent persons, drunkards, swearers, &c. 52. Item, whether have you any in your parish, to your knowledge, or by common fame and report, which have committed adultery, fornication, or incest, which have not been publickly punished to your knowledge: if yea, then with whom: or any man that hath attempted the chastitie of any woman, or hath solicited any woman to the intent to have the carnall knowledge of her body; or any in your parish to be bawds or receivers of any such persons, or suspected of any of the crimes aforesaid: Are there any that are, or by common fame and report are reputed and taken to be such persons, or to be common drunkards, blasphemers of Gods holy name, common and usuall swearers, filthy speakers, usurers, simoniacall persons, fighters, brawlers, or quarrellers in Church, or Churchyard: you shall not fail to present their names.

Harbouring incontinent persons. 53. Item, whether have any in your parish received or harboured any woman begotten with childe out of wedlock, and suffered her to depart again without punishment first inflicted on her by the Ordinarie: you shall truly present, as well the partie harbouring, as harboured, and who is suspected to be the father of her childe.

Wills. 54. Item, whether are there in your parish any wills not yet proved: you shall not fail to present the executors, and all others faulty and culpable therein.

Closets and close pews in the Church or Chancell. 55. § Item, Are there any privie closets or close pews in your Church or Chancell? are any pews so loftily made that they do any way hinder the prospect of the Church or Chancell, or that they which are in them be hidden from the face of the congregation: present the names of those that use such pews.

Hospitals and almshouses. 56. Item, whether there be any hospitals, or almshouses in any your parishes; † and whether the same be used, kept, and ordered according to the foundations, laws, and statutes thereof, and in whom the fault is that they are not so used and kept.

Perambulation. 57. Item, whether your Parson, Vicar, or Curate doth usually every yeare in the Rogation week, go with the parishioners in the perambulations about the parish, according to the custome and use of ancient time; and doth say the prayers and suffrages appointed for the same.

Gunpowder-treason. 58. Item, whether have you in your parish, the book published by authoritie, which containeth the form of prayer, with thanksgiving appointed for the fifth of November: and whether that day be observed and kept festivall, † as by a special act of Parliament, in that case provided, is appointed.

59. Do you know of any other matter of Ecclesiasticall cognisance worthy the presentment in your judgement, which you hold fit to be reformed: if you do, you shall likewise present the same by vertue of your oaths aforesaid.

FINIS.

* Art. 49 not in Brent.
† vailed—childebirth] according to the Booke of Common Prayer, to give God thanks after childebirth, in such usuall and decent manner, as anciently hath bin accustomed? Brent.
‡ her] them. Brent.

§ Art. 55 not in Brent, who inserts the following in its place:—
Item, whether you know in any your Parishes, any Witches, Southsayers, Coniurers, Charmers, Sorcerers, or any that be suspected for such persons: present their names, and what speciall hurt they have committed?

|| any your parishes] your Parish. Brent.
¶ Item, whether—festivall] Item, whether is the fifth day of November observed and kept festivall. Brent

BANCROFT, BISHOP OF OXFORD, 1632.

ARTICLES to be enquired of within the dioces of Oxford, in the first Visitation of the Right Reverend Father in God, John Lord Bishop of Oxford. Held in the yeare of our Lord God 1632. in the eighth yeare of the Raigne of our most gracious Sovereigne Lord, Charles by the grace of God King of Great Brittain, France, and Ireland Defender of the Faith &c.

Oxford, Printed by J. L. Ann. Dom. 1632.

[Collated with Bancroft's Articles in 1635 and 1638.]

[The Oath, and Charge of the Church-wardens and Side-men, are omitted, as being almost verbally the same as in previous Articles.]

Directions for making bills of Presentments for the Dioces of Oxford in the first visitation of the Right Reverend Father in God John Lord Bishop, &c., which if they bee not answered, the bill is to be rejected.

1. That every bill be made in a faire large peece of paper of that quantity, that there may be and so shall be made a particular answer to every Article.

2. That in the front or the beginning of every bill the name of the Parish, the names of the Church-wardens and Sidemen, and the day of the month and yeare of the Lord when the bill is exhibited be inserted and written downe.

3. That to every such bill every person that is to subscribe, therevnto subscribe his owne name or marke, and not by a deputy.

4. That they doe not joyne the bill of burials, Christenings, and Marriages vnto the other bills which they make at every Visitation, but deliver in those bills of their Burials Christnings, and Marriages at their proper time, that is, within a moneth every yeare, after the 25 of March, according to the 7th Cannon.

5. That in their bills of Christnings, Burials, and Marriages, they obserue this forme, or else the bill to be refused as insufficient.

1. That in their Burials they distinguish Men and Women from Children, Married women from Widdows, and Householders, or Masters from Servants and Sojourners and whether the parties so dying had any goods or chattells of his owne, and where is his or her executor or administrator, or takes vpon him or her, to possesse the goods of him or her so dying.

2. That in the marriages they certify whether the parties were married by banes asked or Licence, and whether the Licence was obtained at Oxford or out of what Court.

ARTICLES to be enquired of, &c.

Concerning Churches and Chappells.

First, Whether are your Churches and Chappells both in the body and the chancells of the same well and sufficiently repaired and maintained both within and without, and is your Church-yard well and sufficiently fenced and kept cleane from annoyance and filth.

2. Whether have you in your Church a decent Communion-table with a covering of silke or a comely carpet, and a faire linnen cloath to lay thereon, whether have you a siluer Communion cuppe, and a cover of the same, with a seemely pot to bring wine for the Communion.

3. Whether have you in your Church a decent font, a convenient pulpit, the bible appointed, the booke of common prayers, the two bookes of homilies, a table of degrees prohibited to marry set forth by authority in the yeare 1563 a parchment Register booke, for marriages christnings and burials a decent surplesse, a chest with three locks and keys to be kept by the Minister and two Church-wardens.*

Concerning the Clergy.

First, whether is your Parson or Vicar resident vpon his Benefice, or how long hath he bene absent or non resident?

2. Whether in the absence of your Parson or Vicar have they procured a Curate licensed by the Ordinary to discharge their place.

3. Whether doth your Parson in time of his absence take any care for convenient hospitality and reliefe of the poore.

* The following question is added in the Articles issued by Bishop Bancroft in 1638.

4. What tombes or Monuments other then plaine Grave-stones laid even with the pavement, have been of late yeares erected in the body, or wall, or any other part of your Church or Chancell, whether have they been erected with the advice and allowance of the ordinary, and what prejudice by them is done to the building, lights or free use of your Church?

4. Whether doth your Parson Vicar or Curat read the whole service or common prayers in your Churches or Chappells, duly vpon Sundaies, Holidais and their Eues, and vpon Wednesday and Friday mornings, according to such order as is set downe in the booke of Common prayer, without any kinde of alteration addition or omission, and that at the vsuall howres, and doth he at those times weare a Surplesse.

5. Whether is your Minister licensed to Preach, and hath he Preached or procured to be Preached a Sermon ouce a month and on other daies read an Homily, and hath any other Preached in your Parish who hath not had and shewed a licence.

6. Whether hath your Minister or any other in his place in their prayers before their Sermons vsed to pray for the Kings Maiesty as King of great Brittain and defender of the faith, and in all causes and over all persons within his Highnesse dominions as well Ecclesiasticall as Temporall next and immediately vnder God supreme Governour, as also for the Prince and the rest of the Royall progeny, and for the Arch-Bishops and Bishops of this Land.

7. Whether doth your Minister every Sunday and Holyday before Evening prayer, Catechise the children, servants and young people of the Parish expounding to them the Lords prayer, the articles of the Christian faith and the tenne Commandements.

8. Whether doth your Minister in due and convenient times baptise the children borne in his parish, or hath he at any time omitted in Baptising to signe the forehead of the child with the signe of the crosse, or hath he baptized any without Godfathers and Godmothers.

9. Whether hath your Minister at Easter and other times appointed, duly administred the Sacrament of the Lords Supper, and hath he himself received it kneeling, or Administred the same to any else but such as kneele, or to any forrainers who are not of his owne Parish, or doth he in the delivery thereof vse any other words then those which are set downe in the booke of Common-prayer.

10. Whether hath your Minister admitted any to receive the Holy Communion who stand Excommunicated or suspended from the Communion, or hath hee repelled any who were not excommunicated or suspended.

11. Whether hath your Minister in the solemnization of marriage at any time forborne to vse the ring, or observed any other forme then is prescribed in the booke of Common-prayer.

12. Whether hath your Minister married any in your parish whose banes haue not bene solemnely published vpon three seuerall Sundayes or Holydayes, or within any of the times prohibited for marryage without a licence first obtained and shewed from the Ordinary.

13. Whether hath your minister at any time omitted to visite the sicke, or to bury the dead in convenient time, or hath he buried any in the Church or Church-yard who haue died excommunicate and not absolved.

14. Whether hath your minister in the Rogation weeke vsed the perambulation of the bounds of the Parish, and hath he worne his surplesse, and read the prayers and Gospell as is required.

15. Whether hath your Minister read openly before the Parish once in a yeare the Cannons Ecclesiasticall published the first yeare of our late Sovereigne King James.

16. Whether hath your Minister once euery sixe months in time of diuine seruice denounced and signified the names of all such as haue persevered excommunicate.

17. Whether hath your Parson or Vicar neglected to keepe in good repaire his Parsonage or Vicarage house or other edifices belonging to the same.

18. Whether doth your Minister weare any vndecent apparell of any light colours or with cutts or gards or of any vnseemely fashion, or doth he weare haire longer then is fitte.

19. Whether hath your Minister frequented Alehouses, Innes or Tauernes, or vsed any vnlawfull sports or games as dicing carding, tableplaying, or is he a common drunkard, swearer, fighter, or by any other lewd demeanour offensive to his Parish.*

* The following questions are added in Baneroff's Articles in 1635, and, with the exception of the first, in 1638.

20. Whether hath your Minister read the Kings Maiesties declaration concerning lawfull sports to be read publicly in your parish Church?

21. Whether is there any in your parish vnder the degree of a nobleman or a person qualified by Law, that keeps any private Chaplayne or Minister in his house?

22. Whether haue you any Lecturer maintained in your towne or parish, and whether are the preacher or preachers which maintaine it, authoriz'd or licensed by the Bishop of the Dioces?

23. Whether doth your Lecturer read diuine Service according to the

Concerning the Laity and parishioners.

First, Whether doe any teach Schoole publicly or privately in your parish, which are not licensed therevnto by the Ordinary, whether doe they frequent the Church with their Schollers, are diligent in their calling, and of good life and conversation?

2. Whether doe any within your Parish practice Physicke or surgery, or any woman take vpon her the office of a midwife who are not licensed by the Ordinary?

3. Whether haue the former Church-wardens suffered the Church or Church-yard to be abused or annoyed, and whether haue they given vp to the Parson or Vicar and the Parish an account of such monies as they haue received to the vse of the Church, and of the Church goods committed to their charge?

4. Whether is your parish Clarke a man fit to discharge his place, and whether hath he kept the bookes and ornaments of the Church faire and cleane, and caused the body of the Church and Chancel with the Communion table, and Fant (sic) to be cleanly and decently kept?

5. Whether are there in your Parish any Papists, Brownists, Anabaptists, or Sectaries ill affected to the doctrine & discipline of the Church of England, or any that are known Recusants and forbears to come duly to the Church to Diuine Service and to receaue the Communion amongst you.

6. Whether are there any in your Parish who are knowne or suspected to keepe in their houses masse bookes vestments or Challices to be employed and vsed at the Masse or popish seruice.

7. Whether haue any in your Parish entertained any Minister or Preacher to Preach or Expound the Scripture privately in their howses to their family or others.

8. Whether haue any in your parish resorted to other mens howses and there assembled themselues to heare private Sermons or Scripture expounded or to conferre about matters of Religion or Church government.

9. Whether haue any in your Parish received or vttered any bookes not publicly allowed concerning the doctrine and discipline of the Church of England.

10. Whether hath any in your parish publicly or privately delivered any opinion contrary to the doctrine professed in the Church of England, and set forth in the booke of Articles or against the booke of Common-prayers or against the Ecclesiasticall government established by authority or any office function or part thereof.

11. Whether haue any in your parish kept their children vnbaptized longer then is convenient, or whether haue they caused them to be baptized elsewhere, or brought strange Ministers to baptize them privately in their owne howses.

12. Whether hath any woman in your Parish after her delivery neglected or refused in due time to come vnto the Church in such decent manner as is accustomed,* to be churched or giue God thanks publicly with the Minister† for her delivery.

13. Whether haue any howseholders in your Parish omitted or refused to cause their children, or seruants, aboue the age of 7 yeares which haue not learned the Catechisme to come to the Church at the times appointed to be chatechized (sic).

14. Whether haue any of your Parish wilfully or negligently absented themselues from your Parish Church in time of Diuine seruice, or vsed to repaire vnto other Churches then their owne, or doe any of other Parishes neglecting their own Church repaire to yours.

15. Whether hath any in your Parish in time of prayers and diuine seruice, sate with his hat on his head, or vsed any gesture or behaviour otherwise then is appointed by the booke of common prayer and the 18 Canon.

16. Whether haue any of your Parish being of convenient age neglected to receaue the communion this last yeare, and namely about Easter last; or hath any received it otherwise then kneeling, haue any of other parishes repaired to your Church, or haue any of your parish repaired to other Churches to receaue the same.

17. Whether haue any of your Parish bene excommunicated and dying without absolution bene buried in your Church or Churchyard, or haue any bene buried Liturgie printed by authority in his surplice and hood before the Lecturo?

24. Whether hath your Lecturer professed himselfe ready and willing to accept of a Benefice with cure of soules, or hath he refused to accept of any such Benefice when it hath bene offered unto him?

* that is in a white vaine or long white kercher. Added in the Articles of 1635 and 1638.

† with the Minister. Omitted in the Articles of 1635.

privately by any strange Priest or Minister, or in other manner then is allowed in the Church of England.

18. Whether haue any in your parish vpon Sundaies or Holydayes vsed any ordinary worke or labour or keepe open shoppe or sold wares vpon Sundaies or Holydayes.

19. Whether haue any in your parish on Sundayes or Holydayes in time of diuine service vsed any gaming or pastime in the street or Church-yard, or haue spent their time in Alehouses, Innes or Tavernes, and who haue at such times given them entertainment.

20. Whether haue any brawled quarrelled or fought in your Church or Churchyard.

21. Whether there be any in your parish who haue bene married together within the degrees of affinity or consanguinity (sic) forbidden by the Lawes of God, and doe cohabit and keepe company together, or any that hauing bene separated or parted only for adultery or cruelty haue married againe with any other, or any who being lawfully married liue apart each from other.

22. Whether there haue bene any married in your Parish otherwise then in the Church, in the times and howers allowed, their banes hauing bene thrice published vpon severall Sundaies and Holydayes denounced and who haue bene at such marriages.

23. Whether hath any woman vnmarrried being with child bene deliuered in your Parish and departed from thence before she hath done pennance or bene censured by the Ordinary, and in whose house hath she bene harboured and deliuered, or hath any woman vnlawfully begotten with child in your Parish remoued or bene conveyed from thence, and by whom hath she bene remoued or conveyed.

24. Whether any in your Parish or of your Parish hath committed adultery, fornication, or incontineny, and with whom, and who hath bene accessory to the same, in receiuing harbouring or concealing the parties so offending.

25. Whether any in your Parish, be notorious Usurers common drunkards swearers, brawlers or scolds, contentious persons, or sowers of contention betwixt neighbours, or husbands and their wiues, railers against Ministers, or the marriage of ministers.

26. Whether there be any in your Parish who detain any goods or Monies belonging or giuen to the Church, or poore or other good or Godly vse?

27. Whether there be any in your parish that doth intermeddle with the goods of any body deceased without lawfull authority, or any that suppress the last will of the dead?

28. Whether hath any Apparatur or other officer of the Ecclesiasticall Court taken from any of your parish any money fee or reward to excuse or keepe from questioning and punishment any (sic) person delinquent in any of these premises, or haue they exacted or taken vpon any occasion, any other or greater fees then are allowed and expressed in the table set vp in the Court?

Vpon pervsall of these Articles severally you are by vertue of your Oath to present particularly the name of all such persons as are knowne, or credibly suspected, or by common fame voyced to be faulty in respect of any of them, and to expresse in your presentment, whether they be knowne suspected, or defamed for the same, as also to present any mater or other crime which in your iudgement and conscience is fit to be reformed in the Ecclesiasticall Court that hath not been formerly presented vnto the Ordinary and it is required that the Minister together with the Churchwardens of every parish before every Visitation doe read deliberately & consider of these Articles and doe certify so much in their presentations that they haue read the same.

At the delivery of your bill of presentment, you are likewise in the said bill to set downe the names of all such as haue bin buried at any time, since the last Visitation, being Men Maids or Widdowes. And likewise the Minister, Church-wardens, and Sidemen of every Parish, must in the said bill of Presentment, sed (sic) downe besides their presenting, which they make of all Recusants, and non-Communicants, this note following.

Recusants men,
Recusants Women,
Non Communicants of both Sexe,
Communicants of both Sexe in the whole Parish.

So set downe the number of every one, the Minister, Church-wardens and Sidemen, must put their hands to this note. And the old Churchwardens are to be chosen Sidemen.*

FINIS.

R. WHITE, ARCHDEACON OF NORFOLK, 1632.

ARTICLES to be enquired of in the generall visitation of the Right Worshipfull, Mr. Robert White, Batchelour of Diuinity, Arch-deacon of Norfolk.

Anno Domini, 1632.*

Printed at London, by Richard Badger.

The Forme of the Oath to be administred to the Churchwardens and Sworn-men.

You shall sweare, that all hope of gaine, feare, and affection set aside, you make true presentment of all such parties as haue offended against these Articles, or are vehemently suspected, famed or reported so to haue offended: So helpe you God, and the Contents of the Holy Gospels.

God save the KING.

Concerning the Church of England.

Are there any in your Parish that being Popishly affected, doe derogate from his Maiesties supremacie in causes Ecclesiasticall? and who be they?

2. Are there any in your Parish that out of factious and schismaticall spirits doe affirme that this Church of England by law established vnder the Kings Maiestie, is not a true and Apostolicall Church, teaching and maintaining the doctrine of the Apostles?

3. Are there any in your Parish that affirme that the forme of Gods worship in the Church of England, established by the law, and contained in the booke of Common prayer, & administration of Sacraments, is a corrupt, superstitious, or vnlawfull worship of God, or containeth any thing in it that is repugnant to the Scriptures?

4. Are there any in your Parish that affirme that any of the 39 Articles agreed vpon by the Arch-Bishops, and Bishops of both prouinces, and the whole Clergie in the Conuocation holden at London, Anno Dom. 1562. are in any part superstitious or erroneous or such as with good conscience they may not subscribe vnto?

5. Are there any in your Parish that affirme that the Rites and Ceremonies of the Church of England, by Law established are wicked, Antichristian or superstitious, or such as being commanded by lawfull authority, men that are zealously and godlily affected, may not with good conscience approue them, vse them, or subscribe vnto them?

6. Are there any in your parish that affirme, that the government of the Church of England vnder his Maiestie by Arch-Bishops, Bishops, Deanes, Arch-deacons and the rest that beare office in the same is Antichristian or repugnant to the word of God?

7. Are there any in your parish that impugne the forme or manner of making and consecrating Bishops Priests or deacons, vsed in the Church of England?

8. Are there in your Parish, any Schismaticall Separatists, new combined brotherhoods, deprauers of such as conforme themselues to the doctrine, gouernment (sic), rites and Ceremonies of the Church of England, or any secret maintainers and faouers of such separatists and new brotherhoods? Are there any Corner Conuenticles, or any that maintaine or faouour or defend them? Are there any such factious people in your parish, that disliking the gouernment of the Church of England, take vpon themselues the name of Church, and make orders rules or other constitutions to be obserued and kept by themselues?

Concerning the Ministrie, Service, and Sacraments.

1. Whether are the common Prayers said or sung by your Minister, both Morning and Euening distinctly, and reuerently euery sunday and holy-day, and on their Eues, and at conuenient and vsual times of those dayes, and in most conuenient place for the edifying of the people?

2. Whether doth your Minister obserue the orders Rites and Ceremonies prescribed in the Booke of common Prayer, in reading the Holy Scriptures prayers and administration of Sacraments, without diminishing, or adding any thing in the matter or forme thereof?

3. Whether doth your Minister on wednesdayes and frydayes not being holy-dayes, at the accustomed houres of seruice resorte to the Church and say the Letany: and other prayers prescribed? And doth your Clerke or Sexton giue warning before by tolling of a Bell on those dayes, and doth one person of euery house repaire to the Church at those times usually, and there stay according to the Cannon?

4. Whether doth your Minister leauing the use of the Font Christen or baptize in any Bason or other prophane vessels? doth your Minister baptize or Christen any out of the face of the Church and Congregation, or at any other time then upon sundayes or holy-dayes without speciall cause, or without Godfathers and God-mothers? Are any persons admitted to answer as God-fathers or God-mothers at the Christning of any Child, except he or she haue before received the Holy Communion? doth your Minister in Baptizing of Children obserue the orders, Rites and Ceremonies, appointed in the Booke of Common prayer without addition omission or innovation? -

* And the old—Sidemen.] Omitted in the Articles of 1632.

Altered in MS. to 1634.

5. Doe you know any Parents that deferre the Christning of their Children, or any that haue not had their Children Christned at their owne Parish Church or Chappell? What is the cause that they keepe them so long vnchristned? doe you know of any parents that haue had their children priuately Baptized, either by a Popish priest contrary to the Lawes of the Church of England, or by an unconformable Minister omitting any part of the forme of Baptizing Children contained in the Booke of common prayer?

6. Doth your Minister giue warning publikly in the Church at Morning prayer, the sunday before he administred the Communion for the better preparation of the parishioners?

7. Doth your Minister as oft as he administred the Communion, first receiue it himselfe? doth he use any bread or wine newly brought, before the words of institution be rehearsed and the bread and wine present on the Communion table? doth he not deliuer the bread and wine to euery Communicant seuerally?

8. Hath your Minister admitted to the Communion any that be openly knowne to liue in some notorious offence or Crime without repentance or satisfaction of the Congregation, or who hath openly and maliciously contended with his or her Neighbours, before hee or shee haue openly and charitably reconciled themselues againe and remitted all rancour and malice, whatsoever Controuersie hath bene betweene them?

9. Doth your Minister administer the Communion to any but such as kneele, or doe any refuse to kneele? hath he administred to any who refuse to be present at publick prayer, or who hath deprauid the Booke of Common Prayer, administration of the Sacraments or the Rites and Ceremonies prescribed, or the Articles of Religion agreed upon, or the Booke of Ordering Priests and Bishops, or against his Maiesties supremacy? haue any bene for these causes repelled, and haue they repented in writing or otherwise and what be their names?

10. Hath your Minister more benefices then one? if he hath how farre distant are they? and whether serues he two Cures or not? when he is absent, hath he an allowed Preacher for his Curate?

11. Hath your Church or Chappell bene destitute of a Curate, and how long, and by whose default? hath any Curate serued or doth any Curate serue without lycence of the Ordinary?

12. Doe you know any Popish Priests, Seminaries, Jesuits, or Kunnagate persons that doe preach, say Masse or minister any Popish Sacraments or Ceremonies, or else doe resort secretly or openly unto your parish, and what be their names, and unto whose houses doe they resort, and of whome are they harboured and releued? set downe their Names and Sir-names?

13. Is your Parson Vicar or Curate or any other parson in your parish a fauourer of the Romish Church or Religion, or of any other sect or Schismaticall opinion, or hath he or doth he maintaine or teach any doctrine contrary or repugnant to any of the Articles agreed vpon by the Clergie in the Conuocation holden at London Anno Dom. 1562? Haue they taught publikly or secretly any doctrine tending to the discredit and dispraise either of the Booke of Common prayer, or of the Preachers and Ministers of the word and Sacraments, or of the receiued order for gouernment by Arch-Bishops, Bishops Deanes, Arch-deacons and other Officers in the Church of England, or make any other innovation? Or haue they permitted any man so teaching, or making innovation in such manner?

14. Is your minister an allowed Preacher, if he be not, doth he procure euery moneth a Sermon to be Preached in his Cure by Preachers lawfully licenced? And on euery Sunday when there is no Sermon, doth he or his Curate read some one of the homilies prescribed?

15. Doth your Minister alwaies in saying the publike prayers and administring the Sacraments weare a decent Surplice with sleeues, and being a Graduate, doth he weare alwaies there-with an Hoode by the order of the Uniuersities agreeable to his degree?

16. Hath your Minister, or any other Preacher in your Church, Preached any thing to confute or impugne any doctrine deliuered by any other Preacher? and doth he alwaies before the Sermon, Lecture, and homilie pray for Christs Catholike Church, The Kings Majesty, and our Gracious Queene Mary, the Noble Prince Charles, the Lady Mary, the Lady Elizabeth, and Her Princely Issue, The Ministers of Gods Holy word, as well Arch-Bishops and Bishops, as other Pastours and Curates, for the Kings most Honourable Councell, the Nobility and Magistrates of this Realme and the Commons? And doth he alwaies conclude his prayer with the Lords prayer, According to the Cannon 55?

17. Hath or doth any strange Preacher preach in your Church which refuseth to conforme himselfe to the Lawes, rites and Ordinances established, or which hath not first shewed a sufficient licence?

18. Doth your Minister in his Sermons 4 times in the yeare at least, teach and declare the Kings Maiesties power within his Realmes to be the highest power vnder God, to whom all within the same owe iust loyalty & obedience, and that all forraigne power is iustly taken away?

19. Doth your Minister euery Sunday halfe an hower before euening prayer or more, examine and instruct the youth of the parish in the Catechisme set forth in the Booke of Common prayer? And doe the Church-wardens assist the Minister herein? and who be they that refuse to be Catechized? and what Parents haue not diligently sent their Children and seruants to be Catechized?

20. Hath your Minister Married any without licence in the times prohibited, and hath he married any without licence whose names haue not bene openly published in the Church 3 seuerall sundayes or holy dayes? if any of the parties dwell out of the parish, hath he married them without Certificate vnder the Ministers hand of the other parish, that the banes of matrimony haue bene lawfully asked and published without contradiction? hath he married any at any other times of the day, then betweene the howers of 8 and 12 in the forenoone, or in any priuate house, or when there is no licence before the Parents and Gouerners (the parties being vnder the age of 21 yeares) haue testified their consent?

21. Hath your Minister declared euery sunday to the people at the time appointed what holy-dayes and fasting dayes be the weeke following? doth he, being a Preacher, conferre with all Recusants and persons Excommunicated and suspected, to reduce them to the vnity of the Church?

22. Doth your Minister keepe a note of all Excommunicated persons within your Parish, and once euery six months doth he denounce them which haue not obtained their absolution on some sunday in seruice time, that others may be admonished to refraine their company?

23. Is your Parson, Vicar, or Curate diligent in visiting the sicke and comforting them? doe they bury your dead in such Christian and comely manner, as is prescribed in the booke of Common prayer? hath any layman, other then a lawfull Minister taken vpon him to bury the dead contrary to order?

24. Hath your Minister refused to baptize any child brought to the Church, or to bury any Corps brought to the Church, or to Church any woman hauing had conuenient warning thereof?

25. Hath your Minister, being truly informed of the danger of death of any child vn baptized, and being desired to goe to the place where the Child is, to Baptize it, neglected to goe, by meanes whereof the Child dyed vn baptized?

26. Haue you any Lecture in your Parish continued without lawfull licence of the Bishop? doth your Lecturer obserue all the rites specified in the 56 Canon?

27. Doth your Minister at any time preach or administer the Communion in any priuate house, except when any are so impotent that they cannot go to Church, or are very dangerously sicke?

28. Doe any Chaplaines in your Parish preach or administer the Communion in any Chappell not consecrated, or in any house hauing no Chappell allowed by law? doe the Lords and Masters that haue priuate Chappells of their owne, resort often to the parish Church and there receiue the Communion, at the least once euery yeare?

29. Doth your Minister reside upon his Parsonage or Vicarage house?

30. Hath there bene any secret Conuenticles or meetings in your parish by any Priests, Ministers, or others, tending to the deprauid of the forme of prayer, doctrine, or gouernment of this Church of England?

Concerning the Church, Church-yard, Parsonage, and Vicarage house.

1. Whether is your Church, Chappell, and Chancell, well and sufficiently repaired in the walls and rooffe, the seates conuenient, the floore paved, the windowes glazed, and all these cleanly kept? Is the Mansion house of your Parson or Vicar with the buildings thereunto belonging, well and sufficiently repaired, and your Church-yard walls, Railes, or pales kept in good repaire?

2. Hath your Church or Church-yard bene abused & prophaned by any fighting, chiding, brawling, or quareling, any playes, lords of misrule, Summer lords, Morris-dancers, Pedlers, Bowlers, Bearwards, Butchers, Feasts, Schooles, Temporall Courts or Leets, Lay Iuries, Musters, or other prophane vsage? Haue any Bells bene superstitiously rung on holy-dayes, or their Eues, or at any other times, without good cause allowed by the Minister and Church-wardens? haue any trees beene fell'd in the Church-yard and by whom?

3. Are your Almes-houses, Church-houses & schoole-houses or other houses and buildings set vpon the soile of the Church or Church-yard sufficiently repaired, maintained and to godly and right vse imployed?

4. Haue you in your Church or Chappell all things necessary for Common prayer and other Rites of the Church, as the Bible in the largest volume, the Booke of Common Prayer lately authorized by his Maiesty, the Bookes of homilies allowed, a conuenient Pulpit for preaching, a decent seate for the Minister to reade seruice in, conueniently placed, a strong Chest with three lockes and three keyes, one for the Minister, the other for the Church-wardens for the keeping of the Register Booke of the Christnings, marriages and Burials, and a poore mans box conueniently set nere the Church doore?

5. Haue you in your Church a Font of stone, for Baptisme set in the ancient vsuall place, a decent Table for the Communion, conueniently placed, couered with silke or other decent stufte in time of diuine seruice, and with a faire linnen cloth ouer that, at the administration of the Communion?

6. Haue you all such Bells, Ornaments and other Utensils as haue anciently belonged to your Church, a Communion Cup of Siluer with a Couer, a faire standing Pot of Pewter or purer mettall for the wine vpon the Communion table a comely Surplesse with sleeues, and a Booke of the names of all strange Preachers subscribed with their names, and the name of the Bishop or others where they had licence?

7. Haue you a booke of parchment for a Register booke, of Mariages, Christnings and Burials? Are weekely the names and Sur-names of all persons married, christned, and buried, and of their parents with the day and yeare written fairely in the sayd parchment booke? Is euery leafe (being full) subscribed by you the Minister and Church-wardens?

8. Haue you in the East-end of the Church the teame Commandements fairly written and set up, and other chosen sentences of the holy Scripture written vpon conuenient places of the wals? Is there a table of the degrees of marriage sett up? Haue you seates enough in the Church for the parishioners to sit on, and are they in good repaire?

Concerning Ecclesiasticall Courts.

1. Hath the Officiall, or his surrogate, or any other exercising Ecclesiasticall iurisdiction in this Archdeaconrie, their Registers, or Actuaries, Apparitors, or Sumners, at any time wincked at, and suffered any Adulteries, Fornications, Incests, or other faults or offences to passe and remaine vnpunished, and vncorrected, or haue they comuted any penance of such offenders?

2. Hath your Register, his deputy, or substitute, set vp two Tables of the rates of Fees; one in the vsuall place or Consistory where the Court is kept, and the other in his Registry; and both of them in such sort, as euery man whom it concerneth may come to the view and perusall thereof? Or if such Tables haue heretofore beene set up, hath your Register remoued the same, or suffered them to be removed, hidden, or any wayes hindred from sight?

3. Doe you know any housholder or other person whatsoever, within your Parish or Chappelrie, that is deceased, that haue made their last wills and testaments, the same not being yet proued; or if without will, who haue entred vpon their goods without lawfull administration taken from the Ordinary or other Judge competent?

Concerning Schoole-masters.

1. Haue you in your Parish any Schoole-masters, who teach either in publike schoole or in priuate house? Is he reputed to be of sound faith and religion? Doth he giue any euill example of life? Is he allowed by the Ordinary vnder his hand and seale? Or doth your Minister or Curate teach, and is he allowed in like manner?

2. Doth your Minister or Schoole-master who teacheth, teach the Catechisme by authority set forth? Doth hee when there is any Sermon, or diuine Seruice bring his Schollers to Church, and see them quietly and soberly ordered? Doth hee examine them after their returne what they haue learned of the Sermon?

Concerning the Parish clerke and Sexton.

1. Haue you a parish-clerke appointed by the Minister sufficient for his place, of the age of twenty yeares at least. Is he of honest conuersation? Can he read, write, and sing? Is he diligent in his office, and seruiceable to the Minister in time of diuine seruice, and otherwise?

2. Doth your Clerke meddle with any thing about his office, as churching of women, burying the dead, reading of prayers, or such like?

3. Doth your Clerk or Sexton keep your Church cleane, the doores safe locked? Is any thing by his default lost or spoiled in the Church, doth he suffer any vnreasonable ringing, or any prophane exercise in the Church?

4. Doth any of your Parish refuse to pay vnto the Parish-clerke or Sexton, such wages are vnto them due, and haue beene accustomedly payd?

Concerning Parishioners.

1. Doth any in your Parish prophane, violate, or mispend the Sabbath or Holidayes or any part of them, vsing any offensiue conuersation, or worldly labour in those dayes or any of them?

2. Hath any in your Parish, in time of diuine Seruice couered his head, albeit he hath infirmity, in which case a Cap is allowed? Is there any who hath not reuerently kneeled when the generall Confession, Letany, and other prayers are read, and which haue not stood up at the saying of the Beleeve?

3. Hath any in your Parish disturbed diuine Seruice, by walking, talking, or any other way; or departed out of the Church during the Seruice, or Sermon, without some vrgent cause or loitered about the Church or Church-porch?

4. Are there any in your Parish, either man or woman, being aboue sixteene yeares of age, that hath not receiued the holy Communion thrice at least euery yeare, whereof once at Easter? Or haue any received the Communion in any other Parish Church or Chappell than their owne?

5. Doth any parent answer as God-father for his owne childe? Hath any God-father or God-mother made any other answer or speech than is prescribed in the booke?

6. Doe all fathers, mothers, masters, mistresses, come, and cause their children, seruants, and Apprentices, to come duly to the Church, and according to the Ministers direction to be instructed and catechised; or who be they that haue not obeyed the Minister herein?

7. Haue any persons married together within the degrees prohibited, set forth in a table appointed to be in euery Church?

8. Haue any persons once lawfully married together forsaken each other, or doe liue asunder without the authority of the Ordinary? Or doe any being diuorced or separated marry againe, the former husband or wife yet liuing?

9. Hath any in your Parish vnreuerently vsed your Minister, or haue any laid violent hands vpon him, or disgraced his office and calling by word or deed?

10. Haue you in your Parish any dweller or sojourner, a maintainer of Popish doctrine, or suspected to keepe or disperse schismaticke bookes, or to fauour any heresie or error?

11. Haue any in time of diuine Seruice opened their shops, exercised their trades, vsed any gaming, beene in any Tauerne or Ale-house or otherwise ill imployed?

12. Are there in your Parish any adulterers, fornicators, incestuous persons, bawdes, receiuers, or close fauourers, conueiers away or sufferers of any incontinent persons to depart vnpunished; or any which haue their meetings in priuate places in the night time or other vndecent times, and by reason thereof are commonly defamed or vehemently suspected of any of the said crimes?

13. Is the fifth of Nouember kept holy, and thanksgiuing made to God for his Maiesties and the States happy deliuerance, according to the Ordinance in that behalfe?

14. Are there in your Parish any blasphemers, common swearers, ribaudes, and such as commonly vse bawdy, immodest, vnciuill, and filthy speeches, malicious slanderers, scolds, common drunkards, or any defamed of any of the said crimes?

15. Doe any in your Parish administer the goods of the dead without authority, or suppress their Will and Testament? Haue any Executors neglected to performe the Wils of the dead, especially in paying of Legacies giuen to the Church, to the poore, or to any other charitable or godly vses?

16. Doe any refuse to pay to the reparations, ornaments, and other things required in your Church, as they are cessed or taxed?

17. Haue any in your Parish beene christned, churched, buried, or receiued the Communion; or beene married out of your Parish, both parties dwelling in your Parish?

18. Haue all women in your Parish deliuered of child, come at conuenient time after to Church to giue thanks? And haue they beene Churched according to the forme of the booke of Common Prayer?

19. Hath the perambulation of the circuit of your Parish beene observed once euery yeare at the vsuall time? If not, by whose default?

20. Haue any in your Parish giuen to the Churchwardens or Side-men or any of them euill words, for doing their Office according to their Oath, and conscience in making presentment for any default?

21. Is there any man or woman in your Parish that vseth witchcraft, sorcery charmes; or vnlawfull prayer, or incantations in Latine, or English, or otherwise, vpon any Christen body or beast, or any that resorteth to such persons for counsell or helpe?

Concerning Church-wardens and Sworne-men.

1. Doe any in your Parish take vpon them to bee Churchwarden or Sidesman, which is not lawfully chosen by the Minister and Parishioners according to the Canon? Doe any continue that office longer than one yeare, except they be chosen againe; and are al such officers chosen yearely in Easter-weeke?

2. Do your Church-wardens within one moneth at the most after their yeare ended, before the Minister and Parishioners, giue vp a iust account of all such money, and other things as they haue receiued and bestowed? Haue they deliuered all remaining in their hands, belonging to the Church or Parish, to the next Church-wardens?

3. Haue the Church-wardens with the aduice of the Minister from time to time, provided a sufficient quantity of fine white bread and wholesome wine for the number of communicants? Haue you at euery Communion collected the deuotion of the Communicants, and put it into the poore-mans-box?

4. Doe the Church-wardens and sworne-men before euery visitation, and at other times when there is iust occasion, meete and conferre about their presentments, and who hath (after notice giuen him of the time and place) carelesly absented himselfe?

5. Is the forfeiture of twelue pence for absence from the Church appointed by state (sic) for the vse of the poore, taken and leuied by the Church-wardens, and employed according to the said statute? Is the same forfeiture taken of all persons which stand wilfully suspended or excommunicated?

6. Haue any Church-wardens lost, sold, changed, or retained, any goods, ornaments or bels, rents, or implements of the Church, without speciall licence of the Ordinary?

7. Doe you the Church-wardens and Swornemen about the midst of Diuine Seruice vsually walke out of the Church, and see who are abroad in any Ale-house or else where absent, and euill employed: and haue you presented all such to the Ordinary?

8. Doe you know or haue you heard of any fame, or offence committed, or duty omitted, by any of your Parish before your time, and heretofore not presented by the former Church-wardens to the Ordinary, and as yet not reformed, and haue you presented the same?

FINIS.

CURLE, BISHOP OF WINCHESTER, 1633.

ARTICLES to be enquired of, by the Churchwardens and Swornemen within the Diocese of Winchester in the Primary Visitation, of the Right Reuerend Father in God, Walter, Lord Bishop of Winchester.

Holden in the yeere of our Lord God, 1633.

Imprinted at London, 1633.

[ 'The Oath to bee ministred' omitted, as being nearly the same as in previous Articles.]

ARTICLES to be Enquired of within the Diocese of Winchester, in the Visitation to bee holden in the Yeere of our Lord, 1633.

Articles concerning the Church.

Inprimis, Whether haue you in your seuerall Churches or Chappels, the Booke of Constitutions or Canons Ecclesiasticall, ready to be read by the Minister according to his Maiesties pleasure, published by his Highnesse authority vnder the Greate Seale of England?

2. Whether is there in your Church or Chappell, one parchment Register Booke provided for Christenings, Marriages, and Burials? and whether is the same duely and exactly kept according to the Constitutions in that 21795.

behalfe protided? and haue the Churchwardens exhibited a transcript thereof vnto the Lord Bishops Registrie euery yeere, since the last Trienniall Visitation, as by the 70. Canon is required?

3. Whether haue you provided the Booke of Common Prayer lately set foorth by his Maiesties authority, and the Booke of Homilies, and a large Bible of the last Edition? And whether haue you in your Church or Chappell a Font of stone, set vp in the ancient vsuall place, a conuenient and decent Communion Table, with a Carpet of Silke, or some other decent Stuffe, and a faire linnen cloth to lay thereon at the Communion time? And whether is the same Table placed in such conuenient sort within the said Chancell or Church, as that the Minister may be best heard in his prayer and administration, and that the greater number may communicate? And whether are the tenne Commandements set vpon the East end of your Church or Chappell, where the people may see and reade them, and other sentences of holy Scriptures written on the walles likewise for the same purpose?

4. Whether haue you a conuenient Seat for your Minister to reade Seruice in, together with a comely Pulpit set vp in a conuenient place, with a decent cloth or cushion for the same, a comely large Surplice, a faire Communion Cup of siluer, and a couer agreeable for the same, with all other things and Ornaments necessary for the celebration of diuine Seruice, and administration of the Sacraments, and a strong Chest for the Almes of the poore, with three lockes and keys, whereof the Minister is to keepe one key: and another Chest for the keeping of the Ornaments of the Church and Register Booke?

5. Whether haue you a faire paper Booke, wherein euery Preacher which is a Stranger shall write his name, the day hee preacheth, and by whose authority he is licenced?

6. Whether are your Church or Chappels, withe Chancels thereof, and your Parsonage or Vicarage house, and all other housing thereto belonging in good reparations, and decently and comely kept, as well within as without, and are the Seates of your Church well maintained? If not, then through whose default, and what the defects are?

7. Whether is your Churchyard well and sufficiently repaired, fenced and maintained with walls, railles, or pales, according to the 85. Canon; if not, then through whose default any part is left vn-repaired, and at whose charge the same is to be repaired?

8. Whether hath there beene any alteration of the seats within your Church or Chancell, or any new seates erected, or the Pulpit, or Seate where your minister anciently read Prayers remooued, without order and especial allowance from your Ordinary? if so, by whose appointment, and when?

9. Whether hath any person encroched on the ground of the Churchyard, and if any hath, what quantity of ground hath he encroched? and whether is any part of your Churchyard encroched on, or encumbered by Tombes, or Monuments erected without the allowance of the Lord Bishop of this Diocese, or his Chancellor, or other lawfull authority; when, and for whom, and by whom such Tombes and Monuments haue beene so erected?

10. Whether haue you in your Church any ancient or true Note, or Terrier of all the Glebes, Lands, Meadows, Gardens, Orchards, Howses, Stocks, Implements, Tenelements and portions of Tithes, lying within or without the Parish; which belong to your Parsonage or Vicarage; if there beee any, whether is it well kept and preserved for the good of the succeeding Incumbents, and in what particular place is it kept?

Articles concerning the Clergie.

Whether hath your Minister read the Constitutions, set foorth by his Maiestie, once euery yeere, vpon some Sundayes or Holydayes in the afternoone, before diuine Seruice, as he is bound?

2. Whether doeth your Minister or Preacher in Prayer before his Sermon, vse to pray for the Kings Maiestie, King Charles, Queene Marie and all the Royall Progenie, with his whole Title, as King of great Britaine, France, and Ireland, Defender of the Faith, &c. and in all causes, and ouer all Persons as well Ecclesiasticall as Temporall within his Highnesse Dominions, next and immediatly vnder God supreme Gouvernour? And doeth he in like maner then pray for the Archbishops and Bishops, as by Law is also appointed, and doth hee exhort the people to obedience to his Maiestie, and all Magistrates in Authority vnder him?

3. Whether doth your Minister vse the prescript forme of diuine Seruice vpon Sundayes, Holy-dayes, Wednesdayes and Fridayes, according to the Booke of Common Prayer, without any omission or addition, and doeth hee say Diuine Seruice vpon the Eues of euery Sunday and Holyday, at fit and vsuall times? And whether doth your Minister duely obserue all the Orders, Rites, and Ceremonies prescribed in the Booke of Common Prayer, as well in reading Publike Prayers and the Letany, as also in administering the Sacraments in such maner and forme, as by the Booke of Common Prayer by Law now established, is enioyned?

4. Whether doeth your Minister administer the holy Communion so often, and at such times, as that euery Parishioner may receiue the same at least thrice in euery yeere whersof once at Easter, as by the Booke of Common Praier is appointed?

5. Whether doeth your Minister receiue the same himselfe, on euery day that he administreth it to others, kneeling at the same, and administreth to none but such as doe kneele at the receiuing thereof, and vse the words of the Institution according to the Booke, at euery time that the Bread and Wine is receiued, in such maner and forme, as by the Prouiso of the twelfth Canon is directed? or where-in is he faulty touching the premisses? and whether is warning giuen by him before hand for the Communion, as the two and twentieth Canon requireth?

6. Whether doth your Minister vse the administration of the Lords Supper, Baptisme, Instruction of Children, Solemnization of Matrimony, Visitation of the Sicke, Buriall of the Dead, the Commination, and Churching of Women, vnder such words, Rites, and Ceremonies as are set fourth and prescribed in the said Booke of Common Prayer, and no other?

7. Whether hath your Minister admitted to the Communion, any notorious Offenders, or Schismatikes, contrary to the 26. and 27. Constitutions?

8. Whether your Minister together with the Churchwardens and Questmen, doe take diligent heede and care, not onely that all and euery one of your owne Parishioners doe Receiue thrice in euery yeere, as aforesaid, but also that no strangers of any other Parish doe come often and commonly to your Church from their owne Parish Church, contrary to the twenty eight Canon? And you are now to present the Names of all those, who being of the age of sixteene yeeres or vpwards, haue not in their owne Parish at or since Easter last, receiued the Communion, according to the hundred and twelue Canon?

9. Whether doth your Minister vse to signe the children with the signe of the Crosse, when they are Baptized, according to the Booke of Common prayer, or Baptize in any Bason or vessell, and not in the vsuall Font, or hath hee Baptized any children that were not borne in the Parish; and whether hath hee deferred, or wilfully refused to Baptize any Infant in his Parish beeing in danger, hauing bene duely informed of the weaknesse thereof, and whether the childe hath died by his default without Baptisme, or whether hath hee at any time refused or neglected to Bury the Dead, or to minister the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper to any, being in extremity of Sicknesse, hauing bene required thereunto, or hath hee buried any in Christian Buriall, which by the Constitutions of the Church of England, ought not to be so Interred?

10. Whether is your Minister continually Resident with you vpon his Benefice, or for how long time hath hee bene absent, and where is he Resident for the most part, and what other Benefice hath he, and doeth hee in his absence make allowance for the Poore, and what allowance doth he make?

11. Whether doth your Minister preach vsuall according to the Constitutions, either in his owne Cure with you once euery Sunday, or else in some other Church or Chappell neere adioyning, where no Preacher is, or how often hath he bene negligent in that behalfe?

12. Whether is your Minister a licenced Preacher; if yea, then by whom? if no, then doth hee procure Sermons to be Preached among you once in euery moneth at least, by such as are lawfully licenced?

13. Whether hath your Minister any other Benefice, and whether doth hee supply his absence by a Curate that is Licenced to Preach in that his Cure, wherof hee himselfe is not Resident, or otherwise, in case hee doth not finde a Preaching Minister there, by reason of the smalnes thereof, whether doth hee Preach at both his Benefices vsuall himselfe, according to the forty seuen Canon? And doth hee or his Curate vpon euery Sunday when there is no Sermon, reade an Homily or some part thereof according as he ought to doe?

14. Whether is your Curate Licenced to serue by the L. Bishop of the Diocesse, and whether doth hee serue any more Cures then one? if yea, what other Cure doth he serue? and how farre are they distant one from the other? and whether hath your Curate any Benefice or Cure of Soules besides your Cure?

15. If your Minister bee not licenced to preach, whether doth he take vpon him to expound the Scriptures, either in his owne Cure or else-where, contrary to the 49. Canon?

16. Whether hath any person bene admitted to preach within your Church or Chappell, but such as you haue well knowen to be sufficiently licenced? you shall present their names whom you haue so admitted, and how often they haue preached, and by whose procurement?

17. Whether haue you caused euery strange Preacher, licenced or not licenced, to subscribe his name, according to the 50. and 52. Canons? and whether haue they, or any other, preached in your Church, not being soberly and decently apparelled, according to the 74. Canon?

18. Whether doth your Parson, or Vicar, or Lecturer, reade Diuine Seruice, and administer the Sacraments, in his owne person twice euery yeere, obseruing all the Ceremonies in the Booke of Common Prayer established, according to the 56. Canon?

19. Whether doth your Minister weare the Surplice, while hee is saying the publike Prayers, and administering the Sacraments? and if he be a Graduate, whether doth hee also weare vpon his Surplice during the times aforesaid, such a Hood as by the Orders of the Universitie is agreeable to his Degree?

20. Whether doth your Minister euery Sunday and Holiday before Euening Prayer, for halfe an houre or more, Catechise and instruct the youth and ignorant persons of your Parish, in the Ten Commandements, the Articles of Beliefe, and the Lords Prayer? and whether doth hee vse the Catechisme set fourth in the Booke of Common Prayer, and instruct and teach them in the said Catechisme, or what Catechisme else doth he vse, and whether be the children and ignorant persons sent at that time to the Church, to be Catechised and instructed by the Minister? and if not, you are to present the names of those that make default in not sending them.

21. Whether hath your Minister without licence from the Court of Faculties, or from the Archbishop, or the Bishop of this Diocesse, or his Chancellor, solemnized Mariage betwixt any parties, the Banes not being three seuerall Sundayes and Holydayes first published in time of Diuine Seruice in the seuerall Churches and Chappels of their seuerall abodes, according to the Booke of Common Prayer? or without licence in time prohibited, albeit the Banes were so published, or at any time, except betwixt the houres of eight and twelue in the forenoone? or hath your Minister married any of another Diocesse? or hath any of your Parish bene married in another Diocesse? if any hath bene so married, or licenced to marry by any authority other then aforesaid, you shall present the Minister of marrying, the parties so married, and the Authority whereby this was done?

22. Whether hath your Minister since the last Canons published, solemnized any Mariage betwixt any persons, being vnder the age of twenty and one yeeres, although the Banes haue been thrice asked, before such time as the Parents haue made knowen to him their consents thereunto, contrary to the 100. Canon?

23. Whether doth your Minister vpon Sundayes at Morning Prayer, declare vnto the Parishioners what Holidayes and fasting dayes are appointed to be kept the weeke following, according to the Booke of Common Prayer?

24. Whether doth your Minister in the Rogation dayes, vse the Perambulation of the circuit of the Parish appointed by Law? And in the same Perambulation moue the people to giue thanks to God for his benefits, vsing such Psalmes and Prayers as are to that end set fourth?

25. Whether hath any (being no Minister or Deacon) presumed to reade Common Prayer openly in the Church or Chappell, or to serue the Cure of the Parish? And whether hath any Deacon, not hauing receiued the full Orders of Priesthood, administered the Sacraments in your Church or Chappell? and you are to present the name of any that hath offended herein?

26. Whether doth your Minister euery sixt moneth denounce in his Parish all such as doe perseuere in the sentence of Excommunication, not seeking to be absolved? and whether hath he said Diuine Seruice, while any Excommunicate persons haue bene present in the Church, or hath admitted any person Excommunicate into the Church without a certificate of his absolution from the Ordinarie or other competent Judge.

27. Whether doth your Minister, being a Preacher, endeavour and labour diligently with mildnesse and temperance to reclaim Popish Recusants in his Parish from their errors, if there be any such abiding there? and whether any of them beeing so offered conference by your Minister, doe refuse it?

28. Whether is your Parson, Vicar, or Curate too much frequent, or ouer conuersant with, or a fauourer of Recusants, whereby hee may be suspected not to be sincere in Religion?

29. Whether hath your Minister, or any other, taking vpon him the calling of a Minister, preached, baptized children (except in case of necessity) solemnized Marriage, Churched any Women, or ministred the holy Communion in any priuate house or houses, otherwise than by Law is allowed? if yea, then where? whom? when? and how often hath he offended in any of the premisses?

30. Whether doth your Minister resort to such as be sicke, to instruct and comfort them in their distresse according to the Booke of Common Prayer?

31. Whether doth your Minister carefully looke to the reliefe of the Poore? and whether doth he from time to time call vpon his Parishioners to conferre and giue somewhat as they may spare, to godly and charitable vses, especially when they make their Testaments?

32. Whether doth your Minister vse such decencie and comelinesse in his apparell, as by the 74. Constitution is enioyned him? and is he of sober behaiour, and one that doth not vse such bodily labour as is vnseemely for his calling?

33. Whether doe you know any in your Parish, that hauing heretofore taken vpon him the order of Priesthood, or Deacon, hath since relinquished the same, and betaken himselfe in the course of his life, as a Lay-man, or neglecting his vocation liueth idly, serueth no cure, or preacheth no where?

34. Whether is your Minister noted or reputed to bee an incontinent person, a frequenter of Tauernes or Alehouses, a common Gamester or player at Dice, a common Swearer or Drunkard, or faulty in any other crime published by Ecclesiasticall censures, whereby hee is offensive or scandalous to his function or Ministry?

35. Whether doth your Minister vse the forme of thanksgiuing to Women after their child-birth? and whether hath hee admitted any thereunto, that was begotten with childe in adultery or fornication, without licence of his Ordinary?

36. Whether hath your Minister receiued any excommunication, suspension, or aggrauation from the Bishop of this Diocese, or his Chancellor, or other Ordinary against any of his Parishioners, which he hath presumed to make stay of, and not published such Excommunication, suspension, or aggrauation, the next Sunday or Holy-day after the Receipt of the same, in time of Diuine Seruice in your Church or Chappell?

Articles concerning Schoolemasters.

What Recusants Papists are there in your Parish? and whether do any of them or any other, keepe any Schoolemaster in their House, who commeth not to Church to heare Diuine Seruice, and receiue the Communion? what is his name, and how long hath he taught?

2. Whether the Schoolemaster or Schoolemasters within your Parish openly, or priuately in any house, or in any house, or in any other place, be of good and sincere Religion (that is, of the Religion established in this Realme) life and conuersation, and be diligent in teaching and bringing vp of youth, and whether they haue been examined, allowed, and licenced for Schoolemasters, by the Lord Bishop of this Diocese, or his Chancellor?

3. Whether your Schoolemaster or Schoolemasters doe themselues receiue the holy Communion as often as they ought to doe? And whether doe all their Schollers which be of age sufficient, and of capacity by instruction to receiue the Lords Supper, come to the Communion, either in your Church, or where their parents dwell, once euery yeere, be diligent to heare Common Prayer?

4. Whether your Schoolemaster or Schoolemasters either priuate or publike, doe teach their Schollers the Catechisme authorized by publike authority, at least once euery weeke, and doe instruct and examine them in the same? And whether doe they reade vnto their Schollers priuately any vnlawfull Bookes, or priuately instruct them in their young yeeres in Popery, Superstition, Schisme, or disobedience, or contempt of his Maiestie, and his Lawes Ecclesiasticall, by publike authority allowed?

5. Whether your Schoolemaster or Schoolemasters within your Parish doe teach his or their Schollers any other Grammer, then that which is commonly called the Kings Grammer, set foorth by the authority of King Henrie the eight? and whether they bee negligent in instructing their Schollers in the Catechisme and grounds of Religion, and in bringing them to Church to heare Diuine Seruice, and Sermons? whether doe they instruct their Schollers in any other Catechisme then is allowed by publike authority? and whether are they common Officers, Farmers, Artificers, or otherwise entangled in other affaires, that they cannot benefit their Schollers in learning?

Articles concerning Ecclesiasticall Officers.

Whether do you know or haue heard of any payment, composition, or agreement, to or with the Chancellour, Register, or other inferiour Officers Ecclesiasticall, for suppressing or concealing of any Presentment, Excommunication, or other Ecclesiasticall censure of or against Recusants, or any other offenders, or for not certifying of Recusants to the Ordinary, or for not seruing of Processe without a summe of money, or other consideration, receiued or promised to any of them in them in that respect, and by whom?

2. Whether the Chancellor, Archdeacon, Official, or any other, vsing Ecclesiasticall Jurisdiction within this Diocese, their Registers or Apparitors, haue at any time winked at and suffered any Adulteries, Fornications, Incests, or any other faults, or offences presented vnto them to passe, and remaine vnpunished and vncorrected for Money; Rewards, Bribes, Pleasure, Friendship or any other partial respect?

3. Whether the Chancellor, Archdeacon, or Official haue called for, or caused the Churchwardens to make, bring, or to pay for any more Bills of presentment, then is to the 116. Canon appointed?

4. Whether hath any Chancellor, or Archdeacon, or Official, or any other, exercising Ecclesiasticall Jurisdiction within this Diocese, or any Register, Apparitor, or Minister belonging to the same Ecclesiasticall Courts, exacted, extraordinary or greater Fees then heretofore of late haue bene accustomed? and whether is there a Table of the rates of all Fees set vp in their seuerall Courts and Offices: and whether doe they or any of them, exact or receiue greater or more Fees then are herein expressed: or whether they or any of them haue taken vpon them the Office of Informers or promoters to the Court, or any other way abused themselues in their Offices, contrary to the Law and Canon in that case provided?

5. Whether hath the Chancellor, Archdeacon, or Official increased the number of his Apparitors, or appointed any Apparitor aboue the vsuall number, and wherein, and in what manner is the countrey ouer-burdened and grieved by the said Apparitors? And whether doth any of the said Apparitors cause any parties to appeare in the said Courts, without first a presentment, or citation obtained from the Judge of the Court?

Articles concerning Parishioners and others of the Laitie.

Whether any in your Parish, or elsewhere neere about the same, to your knowledge, or as you haue heard, hath affirmed that the King hath not the same power in all causes Ecclesiasticall, which the Kings of Israel had, and which the Christian Kings and Emperours had in the Primitive Church? or that hath impeached or gainsaid his Royall Supremacie?

2. Whether doe you know, or haue credibly heard of any within your Parish, that depraue the Christian Religion, and namely, as it is established by publike Authority, and professed within the Church of England? And whether hath any person as you haue heard affirmed, that the Church of England is not a true Catholike and Apostolike Church, and doeth not teach and maintaine the Catholike faith and doctrine of the Apostles?

3. Whether hath any said and affirmed, that any thing in the Booke of Common Prayer, or in the Booke of Articles of Religion, set foorth by the Conuocation, Anno 1562. or any of the Rites and Ceremonies established in the Church of England, are corrupt, wicked, Antichristian, superstitious, vnlawfull, or repugnant to the Scriptures?

4. Whether hath any affirmed, preached, or taught, the forme, of making and consecrating Bishops, Priests, and Deacons, or any thing therein contained, is not agreeable to the Word of God? or that the gouernment of the Church vnder the Kings most excellent Maiestie by Archbishops, Bishops, or others that beare any office therein, is Antichristian, or not agreeable to the Word of God, or that hath spoken any reproachfull or disgracefull speeches of the Kings Maiesties Courts Ecclesiasticall, or the proceedings thereof?

5. Whether any in your Parish hath or doth profane the Lords day, called Sunday, or other Holiday, contrary to the Orders of the Church of England, prescribed in that behalfe? or whether any persons haue lurked or tippled in Tauerne or Alehouses on Sundayes or other Holidayes, or vsed his or their manuell craft or trade, or any bodily labour, or kept their shops open vpon the same dayes, or any of them, especially in the time of Diuine Service?

6. Whether hath any in your Parish drawied, quarrelled, or stricken, or vsed any violence vnto, or with your Minister, or any other person in the Church or Church-yard, or vsed himself disorderly in the Church or Church-yard by filthy and profane talke, or any other rude or immodest behauiour?

7. Whether is that due reuerence and humble submission vsed within your Church or Chappell in the time of Diuine Service, as by the 18. Canon is prescribed, and whether each one in the Church or Chappell doe apply and order himselfe there in time of Diuine Service as by the latter part of the same Canon is most commendably enioyned?

8. Whether doe the Churchwardens and Questmen euery Sunday and Holiday, diligently search who absenteth himselfe, or her selfe from the Church? or whether doe they suffer any to abide in the Church-porch or Church-yard in the time of Common Prayer or Sermon?

9. Whether the Churchwardens and Questmen or any of them, haue forborne (for money, reward, fauour, or affection) to present any that were or bee negligent in comming to Church, or whom they haue found as idle persons abroad, either in the Church-yard or streets in the time of Common Prayer, or Sermons on the Sunday or Holidayes? or any that haue not received the Communion yerely at the Feast of Easter, or within a moneth after according to the Canons?

10. Whether the Churchwardens doe provide against euery Communion, with the aduice of the Minister, a sufficient quantity of fine white Bread, and of good and wholesome Wine, for the number of Communicants that shall receiue, and that to bee brought in a cleane and sweet standing Pot of pewter, or of other purer metall?

11. Whether haue any in your Parish bene Godfathers or Godmothers to their own children? or whether your Minister or any Godfathers or Godmothers haue vsed or doe vse any other forme, answere or speech in Baptisme, then is by the Booke of Common Prayer appointed? or doe giue the children baptized any name absurd or inconuenient for so holy an action? or whether any which haue not Communicated, haue been admitted to bee Godfathers or Godmothers contrary to the 29. Canon?

12. Whether doe all Fathers, Mothers, Masters, and Mistresses, cause their children, seruants, and apprentices, to come to the Catechisme on the Sundayes and Holidayes before Euening Prayer, to heare and to bee instructed and taught therein? and those that doe not their duties herein, you shall present their names.

13. Whether haue you or your predecessors Churchwardens there, suffered any Playes, Feasts, Banquets, Church-Ales, Drinkings, or any other profane Playes to bee kept in your Church, Chappell, or Churchyard, or Beis to bee rung superstitiously on Holidayes or Eues, abrogated by the Booke of Common Prayer?

14. How many Inhabitants within your Parish, men or women above the age of sixteene yeres, doe refuse to frequent Diuine Service, established by the publike authority of this Realme, or to receiue the holy Communion or are negligent therein? or comming to Church doe depart before the end of Diuine Service or Sermon? what be their names, and of what degree, state, or trade of life are they? you are to present them all of each sort.

15. Whether doe any of the said Inhabitants within the said Parish, entertaine within their Houses, any Sojourners, Lodgers, or any common resorts and guests, who refuse to frequent diuine Service, or receive the holy Communion, as aforesaid? what be their names, and of what qualitie or condition are they?

16. Whether any of the said Popish Recusants be of insolent behauiour, not without publike offence, or doe boldly busie themselues in seducing or withdrawing others, either abroad or in their owne Families, by instructing their children in Popish Religion, or by refusing to entertaine any especially in place of greatest seruice or trust, but such as concur with them in opinion of Religion? and what be their names that so doe?

17. How long the said Popish Recusants haue obstinately abstained either from Diuine Service, or from the Communion as is aforesaid, whether of any long time, or onely since his Maiesties Raigne, and how many moneths?

18. Whether there be any Popish Recusants married, or the childe of any Recusant Christned, or any Recusant buried within your Parish, by any other then the Minister of the Parish, or whether the childe of any Recusant remaiue vnbaptized aboue one moneth, or bee not baptized in the Parish Church?

19. You shall present how the children of such as refuse to come to Church, are brought vp, vnder what Schoole-master or Tutor, when, and in what Schoole or place?

20. What persons aforesaid within your Parish, either for the offence aforesaid, or for any other contumacie or crime doe remaine Excommunicated? what be their names? and for what cause, and how long haue they so stood Excommunicated? and whether doe any familiarly vse the company of such as doe obstinately stand Excommunicate knowing the same, and what be their names?

21. Whether were your Churchwardens and Questmen chosen by the consent of the Minister and Parishioners? and whether haue the Churchwardens before you giuen up a just account for their time, of their Receipts and Disbursements, and deliuered you whatsoever money or other things, or goods, or stocks of the Church which was in their hands? and whether doe you diligently see that all the Parishioners doe duely resort to their Church euery Sunday and Holyday, and there continue the whole time of Diuine Service, and suffer none to stand idle, or walke, or talke in the Church, Churchporch, or Churchyard, during that time?

22. Whether doe all persons about the age of sixteene yeeres vsually resort to heare Diuine Service vpon Sundayes and Holidayes approoued? and whether hath each one of your Parishioners (being aboue the age of sixteene yeeres, as aforesaid) receiued the holy Communion thrice this last yeere, and chiefly once at Easter last in your Parish Church kneeling? If no, then you shall present their names which haue not so done.

23. Whether haue you a fit Parish Clarke aged twenty yeeres at least, of honest conuersation, and sufficient for reading and writing, and whether hee be paid his wages without fraud, according to the ancient custome of your Parish? if not, then by whom is hee so defrauded and denied? and whether is he chosen by the Parson or Vicar, or by whom? And whether is your said Clarke approoued and admitted by the Lord Bishop of this Diocesse or his Chancellor?

24. Whether haue any in your Parish been married within the prohibited degrees forbidden by the Law, and expressed in a certaine Table published by Authority in Anno 1563. if yea, then you shall present their names; and whether is the said Table publikely set vp in your Church, and fastened to some conuenient place there?

25. Whether doe any heretofore diuorced, or married and not diuorced, keepe company at bed and board as man and wife with any other man or woman, then with the person that hee or shee was married vnto? what be their names? when and where were they married? and how long haue they so continued together? and whether any Husband and Wife in your Parish are apart each from other?

26. Whether haue you in your Parish to your knowledge or you haue heard by common fame and report, any which haue committed Adulterie, Fornication or Incest, which haue not been publikely punished to your knowledge? if yea, then with whom? Or any man that hath attempted the chastitie of any Woman, or any who haue committed Incontinencie together before they were married? Or any in your Parish suspected to bee Bawdes, harbourours or receiuers of such persons, or suspected of any of the crime (sic) aforesaid? if yea, then with whom?

27. Whether haue you any in your Parish, which are by common fame and report, or vehement suspition reputed and taken to bee common Drunkards, Blasphemers of Gods holy Name, common and vsuall swearers, filthy speakers, railers, sowers of discord amongst their neighbours, or speakers against Ministers Mariages, Vsurers contrary to the Statute made in the 37. of King Henrie the Eight, Simoniacall persons, Fighters, Brawlers, or Quarrellers in Church or Churchyard? you shall not faile to present their names.

28. Whether haue any in your Parish received, or harboured any Woman with Childe, that was not before a Housholder in your Parish, or gotten with Childe out of Wedlocke, and suffered her to depart againe without punishment first inflicted by the Ordinary? You shall present aswell the party harbouring as harboured, and who is suspected to be the Father of the Childe? and who hath helped to conuey her away?

29. Whether any person or persons suspected or detected heretofore of Incontinence, and therefore departing out of your Parish for a season, is now returned againe, or in what place else is hee or she now abiding to your knowledge, or as you haue heard? And whether he or she hath done any Penance, or else escaped without penance, and by what and whose means? You shall not faile to present the whole truth in that behalfe.

30. Whether haue you any in your Parish which liue together as Man and Wife, and yet are not knowen by whom, where, or when they were married? And herein you are especially to enquire of those who are Recusants, or whereof the one of them is a Recusant or sectary, present your knowledge herein, and what the common fame or report is among your Neighbours?

31. Whether any within your Parish, or elsewhere within this Diocesse, haue retained or kept in their custodie, or read, sell, vtter, disperse or to deliuer (sic) to any others any English or Latine Bookes or Libels, set fourth or Printed, either on this side or beyond the Seas, by Papists or Sectaries against the Kings Supremacie in causes Ecclesiasticall, or tending to Popery, Punitanisme, or any other Sect, error or Heresie, against the true and Catholike Religion and Doctrine now publicly professed in this Church, or the Government or Discipline of the Church of England established by Authority, that you know or haue heard of, what their names and surnames are?

32. Whether haue you in your Parish any which heretofore being Popish Recusants or Sectaries, haue since conformed themselues and come to Church to heare Diuine Seruice, and receive the Sacrament? if yea, then who they are? and how long since haue they so conformed themselues? and whether doe they still abide in that conformity?

33. Whether are there in your Parish any Wills not yet proued, or goods of the dead dying Intestate, left vndministrated by Authority of the Ordinary in that behalfe. And whether any possesse the goods of any person deceased without authority from the Ordinary? You shall not faile to present the Executors and all other culpable therein, and how many persons possessed of any goods or Chattels haue died within your Parish of late, and present their names.

34. Is there any Legacie giuen to the Church, or to other good and godly vses, as reliefe of the Poore, Orphants, poore Schollers, poore Maidens Mariages, Schooles, Highwayes, and such like which is not yet performed? if there be any such, you shall present what you know or can learne thereof, and by whose default the same is not performed?

35. Whether any of your Parishioners, hauing a Preacher to their Parson, Vicar, or Curate, doe absent themselues from his Sermons, and resort to any other place to heare other Preachers, or refuse to receiue the holy Communion at their Ministers hands? and whether any other Minister hath receiued to the Communion any of your Parish? and specifye the names both of the Minister and of the Parishioners?

36. Whether there bee in your Parish any Inholders, Alehousekeepers, Victuallers, or Tiplers, that suffer or doe admit any person or persons into their houses to eate, drinke, play at Dice, Cards, Tables, Bowles, or such like Games, in the time of Common Prayer or Sermon, on Sundayes or Holidayes? or any Butchers, Victuallers, Mercers, or any of any other Trade or Occupation, vse to keep their Shop-windowes open, or sell their meates, victuals, ware or Marchandizes, or otherwise vse their Trade or Occupation on Sundayes or Holidayes, especially in the time of Common Prayer or Sermon? and whether any Markets or selling of Wares bee vsed or suffered in any Churchyard on the Sunday, by common Packmen or Pedlers going about, or any Butcher?

37. Whether any married woman within your Parish, after Childbirth, refuse or neglect to come to Church to giue God thanks for her safe deliury, and to haue the Prayers publicly appointed on that behalfe by the Booke of Common Prayer?

38. Is there any in your Parish who refuse to haue their children Baptized, or themselues to receiue the Communion, at the hand of your Minister, because he is no Preacher? or whether any keepe their children longer vnbaptized then is conuenient, vntil they be for the sicknesse of the childe, or other vrgent occasion? or whether any doe cary their childe or children from their owne Parish to any other Parish to bee baptized, and to what other Parish? who baptized such a child, and whose child it was? and whether haue you in your Parish any childe or children which are not yet knowen to you or to your Minister to be baptized, and herein you are especially to enquire of the children, whose Parents or one of them are Recusants?

39. Whether doe you know or haue heard of any Patron in your Parish, that hath made gaine by any colour, deceit, or Simoniacall compact in bestowing his Benefice for gaine or receiuing money, or promise of the Lease of the whole or part, or by reseruing his owne Tithes, or any pension to himselfe or any other?

40. Whether the Almes-houses or Hospitals in your Parish, are well and godly vsed and ordered according to the foundations and Ordinances of the same, and whether there be any other placed in them, then poore, impotent, and needy persons that haue not wherewith, or wherely to liue? and by whose default are they not so ordered and kept?

41. What Midwiues haue you in your Parish, of what skill are they accounted of for that Office, and whether are they Licenced by their Ordinary to execute the same?

42. Whether haue you any in your Parish that practise Physicke, or Surgerie, of what skill are they accounted for their Profession? and whether doe they practise without a particular Licence from the Lord Bishop of this Diocesse?

43. Whether haue any of your Parish dying Excommunicate, or wilfully destroying himselfe, bene Buried in the Church or Charchyard, by whom and by whose procurement?

44. Whether any in your Parish hath or doe refuse to contribute towards the reparation of the Church, and to the prouision of such things as belong thereunto?

45. Whether the fift of Nouember be kept in your Parish with Prayer and Thankesgiuing to Almighty God, in such forme as is by publicke Authority appointed for those dayes?

46. Lastly, if you know any other matter of Ecclesiasticall cognizance, worthy the presentment in your iudgement, heretofore in these Articles not expressed, and which is fit to bee reformed by Ecclesiasticall Censure, you shall likewise Present the same by vertue of your Oathes.

FINIS.

LINSELL, BISHOP OF PETERBOROUGH, 1633.

ARTICLES to be enquired of within the Diocesse of Peterborough, in the first Visitation of the Reverend Father in God Augustine Lord Bishop of Peterborough.

Printed by the Printers to the Universitie of CAMBRIDGE, 1633.

[The Churchwardens' Oath is the same as in previous Articles.]

ARTICLES to be enquired of in the Diocesse of Peterborough, in the Visitation holden in the yeare of our Lord 1633.

I.—Articles concerning Religion and Doctrine.

1. Whether be there any abiding or resorting to your parish, who haue wilfully maintained and defended, or do maintain or defend any Heresies, errors, or false opinions, contrary to the faith of Christ, and holy Scripture?

2. Whether be there any in your parish, that do impugne any of the 39 Articles of Religion, agreed upon in anno 1562, and established in the Church of England?

3. Whether is his Majesties declaration prefixed before those 39 Articles, concerning the settling of the Questions in difference, duely observed by all within your parish, according to his Majesties commandment?

4. Whether be there any within your parish, that deny, or perswade any other to deny, withstand, or impugne the kings Majesties authoritie and supremacie, in causes Ecclesiasticall within this Realm?

5. Whether be there any in your parish, that hath been, or is vehemently suspected to have been present at any unlawfull assemblies, conventicles, or meetings, under colour or pretence of any exercise of Religion? or do any affirm and maintain such meetings to be lawfull, contrarie to his Majesties laws in that behalf?

6. Whether be there any abiding, or resorting to your parish, that are commonly reputed to be ill-affected in matter of Religion, professed in our Church, or taken to be recusant Papists, refusing to repair unto the Church, to heare diuine service, and to receive the holy communion, being disobedient to his Majesties laws in that behalf? Or be there any in your parish, that haue or do publish, sell, or disperse any superstitious books, or writings, or any other seditious or schismaticall books, libels, or writings touching the Religion, State, or Ecclesiasticall government of this kingdome of England? Present their names, qualities, and conditions.

II.—Articles concerning publick prayer and administration of the Sacraments.

1. Whether haue any in your parish spoken, or declared any thing in derogation, or depraving of the form of Gods worship, established in the Church of England, and administration of the Sacraments, rites and ceremonies, set forth and prescribed in the book of common prayer? Or do any preach, speak, or declare, that it containeth any thing, that is repugnant to the holy Scripture?

2. Whether hath any in your parish caused, procured, or maintained any Minister, to say any common or publick prayer, or to administer either of the Sacraments, Baptisme, or the Lords Supper, otherwise, or in any other manner and form, then is mentioned in the said book of common prayer? or whether hath any interrupted, hindered, let, or disturbed the Minister in reading of divine service, or administration of the Sacraments, in such manner and form, as is mentioned in the said book? or hath any interrupted him in his preachings, and sermons?

3. Whether is the Sacrament of Baptisme rightly and duely administred, according to the form prescribed in the book of common prayer; with due observation of all rites and ceremonies prescribed to be used in the administration of the same; without adding or altering of any part or parcell of any prayers, or interrogatories? and whether is the signe of the crosse used in the administration of it?

4. Whether is the administration of the Sacrament of Baptisme, deferred longer then till the next Sunday or holiday, immediately following the birth of the childe?

5. Whether is the Sacrament of Baptisme refused to be administred to any children, born in, or out of wedlock: their birth being made known to the minister of the parish, and they offered unto him to be baptized? or have any such children died unbaptized?

6. Whether have the parents of the childe baptized, been admitted to be godfathers and godmothers to the same? or have any been admitted to be godfathers or godmothers to any childe, before they have received the holy communion; contrary to Can. 29? or have any godfathers or godmothers used any other answers or speech in Baptisme, then is by the book of common prayer appointed? or have they given unto the children baptized any name that is absurd, or inconvenient for so holy an action?

7. Whether have there any children been baptized in private houses, by any lay person, or midwife, or Popish priest; or by any other Minister, but upon urgent occasion, when the child was in danger of death? and have such children thus privately baptized, and surviving, been afterwards brought unto your Church, to the intent the congregation and the Minister of the parish (in case they were not baptized by him) may be certified, whether they or any of them were lawfully baptized, or no?

8. Whether have the children, that have been born to any Popish recusant, or recusants in your parish, been publicly baptized in your parish-church, by your Parson, Vicar, or Curate? or by whom els were they baptized, or where, to your knowledge?

9. Whether hath the blessed sacrament of the Lords supper been duely and reverently administred in your Church or Chappell every month, or at least thrice every yeare, (whereof once at Easter) to every parishioner within your parish, being of the age of sixteen yeares, or upwards?

10. Whether is the said blessed sacrament delivered unto any, or received by any of the communicants within your parish, that do unreverently either sit, or stand, or that do not devoutly and humbly kneel upon their knees?

11. Whether have any of your parish, which are openly known to live in notorious siane without repentance, or any excommunicate persons, or schismatics, common and notorious depravers of the Religion and government of this Realm, without unfeigned sorrow shewed by them for their impietie and wickednesse, been admitted to be partakers of the holy communion.

12. Whether hath any of your parish been debarred from the said holy communion without just cause, and without intimation first given to the Ordinary, or Bishop, of the Diocese; and by whose default?

Articles concerning the Church, the furniture and ornaments thereof, and the Churches possessions.

Whether have you in your Church or Chappell the whole Bible, of the largest volume, and of the last translation; the book of common prayer, set forth by authoritie; the two books of Homilies, and Bishop Jewels Apologie; all well and fairly bound? And whether have you also in your Church, the book of Constitutions, or Canons Ecclesiasticall, as is commanded?

2. Whether have you in your Church or Chappell, a

Font of stone, set in the ancient usuall place; a convenient and decent Communion table, with a carpet of silk or some other decent stuffe, continually laid upon the table at the time of divine service; and a fair linen cloth laid thereon, at the time of administering the communion? And whether is the same table placed conveniently, as it ought to be? And whether is it so used, in, or out of the time of divine service, or sermon, as is not agreeable to the holy use of it; as namely, by sitting on it, or by throwing hats on it, or writing on it; or is it abused to any other profane use? And whether are the ten commandments set up on the East end of your Church, or Chappell, where the people may see and reade them; and other chosen sentences also written upon the walls of your said Church or Chappell, in places convenient for the same purpose?

3. Whether have you in your said Church or Chappell, a convenient seat for your Minister, to reade divine service in, together with a comely pulpit, set up in a convenient place, with a decent cloth or cushion for the same; a comely large surplice; a fair communion cup of silver, and a cover agreeable to the same; a flagon of silver, or pewter, with all other things and ornaments, necessary for the celebration of divine service, and administration of the sacraments? And whether have you a chest, wherein to put the almes of the poore, with three locks and keys unto it, and another chest for the keeping of the books and ornaments of the Church, and the Register-book?

4. Have you a Register-book in parchment, wherein to register Christnings, weddings and Burialls? and is the same kept in all points according to the Canon? and is there a transcript thereof transmitted every yeare into the Bishops principall Registry, there to be faithfully preserved? Have you also a fair paper-book, wherein every preacher, which is a stranger, is to subscribe his name, the day he preached, and by whose authoritie he is licensed? And have you also a table set up in your Church, of the degrees, wherein by law men are prohibited to marry?

5. Whether is your Church or Chappell, with the chancell thereof, and your Parsonage-house, or Vicarage-house, and all other houses thereto belonging, your parish almes-house, and Church-house, in good reparations? and are they employed to godly and their right holy uses? and if any of them be ruined and wasted, in whom is the default? And is your Church, chancell, and Chappell, decently and comely kept, as well within as without? and are the seats in them well maintained; the steeple and bells preserved, the windows well glazed, the floore kept paved, plain, and even; and all things there in orderly and decent sort without dust, or any thing that may be either noisome, or unseemly for the house of God as is prescribed in an Homilie to that effect, and in the 85 Canon?

6. Is there any in your parish, that hath, or doth refuse to contribute towards the reparation of your Church, and towards the provision of such things as belong thereunto?

7. Whether is your Church or Chappell-yard well fenced, and kept without abuse: and if not, whose is the default? Hath any person incroached upon the ground of the Church-yard? hath any used that place, consecrated to an holy use, profanely or wickedly? Hath any quarrelled or stricken one another, either in the Church or Church-yard? Hath any person behaved himself rudely, and disorderly in either; used any filthy or profane talk, or any other rude or immodest behaviour in them? Have any playes, feasts, banquets, suppers, Church-ales, drinkings, temporall courts or leets, lay-juries, musters, or any other profane usage, been suffered to be kept in your Church, Chappell, or Church-yard? Have any annoied your Church-yard, or the fence thereof, by putting in of cattell, by hanging of clothes, or by laying any dust, dung or other filthinesse there?

8. What Legacies have been given to the use and benefit of your Church, and how have they been bestowed? who hath received and detaineth them without due employment? Whether doth any detain, or embezell, or hath sold and made away any of the Church-goods, or used and employed them otherwise, then by law they ought to be?

9. Whether is your Church full, or vacant of an incumbent? and if vacant, who receiveth the fruits thereof, and who serveth the Cure, and by what authoritie? and whether is it a Parsonage, Vicarage, or Donotive?

10. Whether doth any private man or men, of his or their own authoritie, erect any pews, or build any new seats in your Church? and what pews or seats have been so built, by whose procurement, and by whose authority?

11. Whether hath any in your parish defaced, or caused to be defaced, any monuments or ornaments in your Church?

12. Whether hath any popish Recusant being lawfully excommunicate, or any other excommunicated person, been interred, or buried in your Church or Church-yard, before absolution from that censure and excommunication obtained? and if yea, then by whom, and when?

13. Whether be not the profits, tithes, and other commodities Ecclesiasticall, belonging to the Parsonage or Vicarage of your parish, impiously and wickedly, to the dishonour of Almighty God, and prejudice of the sacred Ministry, converted to the use and benefit of covetous Patrons, and by them received and detained; and how long have they been so used to your knowledge?

14. Whether have you a true Terrier, of all the Glebelands, medows, gardens orch-yards, houses, stocks, implements, tenements, and portions of tithes, whether within your parish or without, belonging to your Parsonage, or Vicarage, taken by the view of honest men in your said Parish? and whether is it safely kept and preserved, and in whose hands? and whether hath there a true copie thereof, under the hands of the Minister and Churchwardens, been transmitted, and laid up in the Bishops Registry, there to continue for a perpetuall memory thereof. And if you have no such Terrier yet made, you the Churchwardens and sidemen, together with your Parson or Vicar, or in his absence, your Curate, are to make diligent enquiry of the Premises; and to make, subscribe, and signe the said Terrier, and to bring in a true copie of it into the Bishops Registry, as aforesaid.

Articles concerning the Ministers of Gods holy word, Lectures and Preachers.

1. Whether is your Minister, Parson, Vicar or Curate, a graduate in either of the Universities, yea or no? And if he be a graduate, then of what degree is he?

2. Whether is your Minister a licensed Preacher, yea or no? and if he be licensed, then by whom? And whether doth he preach usually in his owne Cure, or in some other Church or Chappell neare adjoining, where there is no Preacher, once every sunday, according to the 45 Canon? And if he be not a licensed Preacher, whether doth he take upon him in his own Cure, or elsewhere, to expound any Scripture or matter of doctrine, contrary to the 49 Canon? And whether, being no licensed Preacher, doth he keep himself onely to the reading of the Homilies, published by authority; and besides, procure sermons to be preached amongst you, once every moneth at least, by such as are lawfully licensed? and doth he, or his Curate, upon every sunday when there is no sermon, reade some one of the Homilies, prescribed by authority, as he ought to do?

3. Whether is your Minister resident with you upon his benefice? or if absent, how long time hath he been so: and where is he resident for the most part? and doth he in his absence make allowance to the poore? and what allowance doth he make? hath he any other benefice? and doth he supply his absence by a Curate, that is licensed to preach?

4. Whether is your Curate licensed by the Bishop of the diocese, or his Chancellor? and whether doth your Minister or Curate serve any more Cures then one? if yea then what other Cure doth he serve, and how farre are his Cures distant, one from the other?

5. Whether hath any, being no Minister or Deacon, presumed to reade common prayers openly in your Church or Chappell, or to serve the Cure of your parish? or whether hath any Deacon, not having received the full order of Priesthood, taken upon him alone to administer the communion alone in your Church or Chappell? You are to present the names of any, that have herein offended.

6. Whether doth your Minister, Preacher, or Lecturer observe the form of prayer before his or their sermon, that is prescribed by the 55 Canon; therein moving the people, as they are there directed, to joyn with him in prayer, for Christs holy Catholick Church, and for the King's most excellent Majestie, the Queen, Prince, Clergie, Councell, and giving every of them their full titles, as in the Canon is required; alwaies concluding with the Lords prayer?

7. Whether doth your Minister distinctly and reverently say divine service, upon sundayes and holydayes, and other dayes appointed to be observed; as wednesdayes and fridayes, and the eves of every sunday and holyday, at fit and usuall times, according to the form prescribed in the book of common prayer? And doth he duely observe the orders, rites and ceremonies prescribed in the said book; as well in reading all publick prayers, and the Letany; as also in administering the sacraments, solemniation (sic) of marriage, visitation of the sick, burying of the dead, churching of women, and all other like rites and offices of the Church, in such manner and form as in the said book of common prayer by law established, is enjoyned; without omission or addition of any thing?

8. Whether doth the Minister, reading divine service, and administering the sacraments, and other rites of the Church, alwayes wear the surplice; and doth he never at such times omit the wearing of the same? And if he be a graduate, whether doth he wear also upon his surplice, at such times, such a hood, as by the order of the Universities is sutable to his degree?

9. Whether doth your Parson or Vicar, having a Curate under him notwithstanding reade divine service himself, upon two severall sundayes in the yeare, publickly at the usuall times, both in the fore and afternoon, in the Church which he possesseth? And whether doth he also administer both sacraments, as often in every yeare, in such manner and form, and with the observation of all such rites and ceremonies, as are prescribed in the book of common prayer, in that behalf?

10. Whether doth your minister publish in his sermons any doctrine which is new and strange, and disagreeing from the word of God, and from the Articles of Christian faith and Religion, agreed on, and published anno Dom. 1562. And whether doth he teach any thing, which he would have the people religiously to observe and beleave, but that which is agreeable to the Scriptures, and that which the Catholick Fathers, and ancient Bishops have gathered out of that doctrine according to the Canon?

11. Whether doth your Minister alwayes use, and never omit the signe of the crosse in Baptisme? And whether doth he ever baptize in any bason, or other vessel, and not in the usuall Font? and whether hath he deferred, or wilfully refused to baptize any infant in your parish, being in danger of death, and having been duely enformed of the weaknesse thereof? and whether hath the childe died by his default without Baptisme?

12. Whether doeth your Minister or Curate often admonish the people, that they deferre not the Baptisme of their infants any longer then the Sunday or holiday next after they be born; unlesse upon a great and reasonable cause, declared to the Minister or Curate, and approved by him?

13. Whether hath your Minister admitted any person to answer as godfather or godmother at the Christening of a childe, that hath not before received the holy communion, and is not able to cite the Lord's prayer, the ten commandments, the Articles of belief; and to answer to the same, being required.

14. Whether doth your Minister every Sunday and holy day before evening prayer, for half an houre or more, catechise and instruct the youth and ignorant persons of your parish, in the ten commandments, the Articles of belief, and the Lord's prayer? and whether doth he use, for that purpose, the catechisme set forth in the book of common prayer, and diligently heare, instruct, and teach them in the said catechisme? or what other catechisme doth he use? And whether be the youth and ignorant persons of your parish sent in due time unto the Church by them that ought to send them, to be catechised and instructed by the Minister? and if not, you are to present the names of those that make default in sending them.

15. Whether are your afternoon sermons turned into catechising by question and answer, where and whenever there is no great cause apparent to the contrary, according to his Majesties last direction?

16. Whether doth your Minister administer the holy communion every moneth, or at least thrice in the yeare (whereof once at Easter) to every parishioner in your parish, that is 16 yeares of age, and upwards? And whether doth he first receive the same himself kneeling, on every day that he administreth it to others; and administreth it to none but to such as do kneel at the receiving thereof? And whether doth he use the words of institution, according to the book of common prayer, without alteration, at every time that the bread and wine is renewed, according to the 21 Canon? And whether is there warning given by him to the parishioners publickly in the Church, at morning prayer, the Sunday before every time of his administering of the holy communion, for their better preparation thereunto, according to the 22 canon?

17. Whether hath your Minister admitted unto the holy communion any of his cure or flock which be openly known to live in sinne notorious without repentance, or any that have maliciously and openly contended with their neighbours, before they be reconciled; or any Churchwardens or sidemen, who having taken their oathes to present to their Ordinary all such publick offences, as they are particularly charged to enquire of, in the parish; have and do notwithstanding, wittingly and willingly, desperately and irreligiously incurre the horrible crime of perjurie, either in neglecting, or in refusing to present such enormities, and publick offences, as they know themselves to be committed within your parish; contrary to the 26 Canon?

18. Whether doth your Minister admit unto the Communion any that refuse to be present at your publick prayers; or who are notorious depravers of the book of common prayer, and administration of sacraments, or of the orders, rites and ceremonies therein prescribed, or of any thing contained in the 39 Articles, or in the book of ordering Priests and Bishops; or who have spoken against, and depraved his Maesties soveraigne authoritie, in causes ecclesiasticall; unlesse they and every of them do first acknowledge their repentance for their sinne, and promise to do so no more?

19. Whether doth your Minister or Curate admit any to the communion, before they can say their catechisme, and be confirmed?

20. Whether doth your Minister, together with the Churchwardens and questmen, take diligent heed and care, not onely that all and every of your own parishioners do receive thrice every yeare; but also that no strangers of any other parish, do come often and commonly to your Church, from their own parish Church, to receive the communion there?

21. Whether doth your Minister, before the severall times of the administration of the Lords supper, admonish and exhort his parishioners, if any of them have their consciences troubled and disquieted, to resort unto him, or to some other learned Minister, and open their grief; that they might receive such ghostly counsel and comfort, as their conscience may be relieved? and by the Minister they may receive the benefit of absolution, to the quiet of their conscience, and avoiding of all scruple. And if any man confesse his secret and hidden sinnes, being sick, or whole, to the Minister, for the unburdening of his conscience, and receiving of spirituall consolation or ease of minde from him; doth he the said Minister, or hath he at any time revealed and made known to any person whatsoever, any crime or offence, so committed to his trust and secrecie; contrarie to the 113 canon.

22. Whether hath your Minister solemnized marriage between any persons under the age of one and twentie yeares, without the consent of their parents or governours; or hath he married any without a ring, or in times prohibited, or without the banes first published, three severall sundayes or holydayes, in time of divine service, in the severall Churches or Chappels of their severall abodes, without a speciall licence from the Arch-bishop or Bishop of the diocese, or his Chancellour, first had and obtained?

23. Whether doth your Minister use the form of thanksgiving to women after childe-birth? or hath he admitted thereunto any woman begotten with childe in adulterie, or fornication, without licence of his Ordinarie?

24. Doth your Minister carefully look to the relief of the poore; and from time to time call upon his parishioners, to give somewhat, according to their abilities, to godly and charitable uses; especially when they make their wills?

25. Whether doth your Minister or Curate resort unto such as be dangerously sick in your parish, to instruct and comfort them in their distresses, according to the order of the booke of common prayer; not omitting, then especially, to move them earnestly to liberalitie towards the poore?

26. Whether doth your Minister, being a preacher, and having any Popish recusant or recusants in your parish, labour diligently with them from time to time, to reclaim them from their errorrs?

27. Whether hath your Minister, or any other, taking upon him the calling of a Minister, preached, baptized children (except in case of necessitie,) solemnized marriage, churched any women; or ministered the holy communion, in any private house or houses, otherwise then by law is allowed? if yea; then where, when, and how often hath he offended in any of the premisses?

28. Whether doth your Minister, every six moneths, in your parish Church, openly in time of divine service, upon some sunday, denounce, and declare excommunicate, such as do persevere in the sentence of excommunication, not seeking to be absolved? and whether hath he said divine service, whilst any excommunicate person hath been present in the Church? or hath he admitted any person, that hath been excommunicate, into the Church, without a certificate of his absolution from the Ordinarie? or hath he stayed, or forborn to denounce any excommunication or suspension, that hath been sent him from his Ordinarie?

29. Whether hath your Minister been at any private conventicles, to consult there of any course to be taken by them, or by any other upon their motion, which may any way tend to the impeachment or depraving of the doctrine of the Church of England, or of the book of common prayer, or of any part of the government and discipline now established in the Church of England?

30. Whether doth your Minister, upon sundayes, at morning prayer, declare unto the parishioners, what fasting-dayes and holydayes are appointed to be kept the week following, according to the book of common prayer?

31. Whether doth your Minister, in the Rogation-dayes, go the perambulation of the circuit of your parish, saying and using the prayers, suffrages, and thanksgiving to God; appointed by law, according to his dutie; thanking God for his blessings, and praying for his grace and favour?

32. Whether doth your Parson or Vicar, maintain and keep in due reparation, the mansion-house, and other edifices belonging to his parsonage, or vicarage, without suffering them to grow into ruine or decay?

33. Whether hath your Minister taken upon him, to appoint any private or publick fasts, preaching, or lecturing, prophesies or exercises, not approved and established by law, or publick authoritie?

34. Whether is your Minister studious in holy Scripture, and abstaineth from mechanicall trades or labour, not befitting his function; and from apparell unseemly for his calling; using that decencie and gravitie therein, that is prescribed by the 74 Canon?

35. Whether is your Minister suspected or known to have obtained his benefice, by any simoniacall compact, directly or indirectly? or whether is he reputed to be an incontinent person, a haunter of taverns or alehouses, a common gamester, or player at dice, a common swearer or drunkard, or otherwise faulty in any other kinde that is punishable by ecclesiasticall censure, and scandalous to his function?

36. Whether hath your Minister publickly, in your parish Church or Chappell, once every yeare, read over the Constitutions and Canons ecclesiasticall, agreed upon by the clergie of both Provinces, Anno.Dom. 1603. in such manner as the same is commanded to be done?

37. Whether is there any in your parish, who having been admitted into holy orders, either Deacon or Minister, doth voluntarily relinquish and forsake his calling; and liveth in the course of his life, as a meer lay-man?

38. Whether are any Ministers admitted to preach in your Church, who do not, before the Churchwardens, subscribe their names in your booke provided for that purpose; the day when they preached, and the name of the Bishop or Bishops, of whom they had licence to preach?

39. Whether doth any preacher, in your pulpit, particularly impugne and confute any doctrine, delivered by any other preacher in the same Church, or in any Church neare adjoining; before he hath acquainted the Bishop of the diocese therewith, and received order from him, what to do in that case?

40. Whether have you any Lecturer in your parish; and whether, if any such be, doth he twice at the least, every yeare, reade himself divine service, both morning and evening, two severall sundayes, publickly, in his surplice; and also twice in the yeare administer both Sacraments, with such rites and ceremonies, as are prescribed by the booke of common prayer?

41. Whether doth your Lecturer reade divine service, according to the Liturgie printed by authoritie, in his surplice and hood, before his lecture, according to his Majesties late direction?

42. Whether doth your Preacher or Lecturer behave himself in his lectures and sermons, as he ought to do, teaching obedience and edifying his auditors in matters of faith and good life; without intermeddling with matters of state, or other discourse not fit for the pulpit?

43. Whether have you any Lecture of combination, set up in your parish; and if so, whether is it read by a companie of grave and orthodox Divines, neare adjoining, and in the same diocese? and whether do they preach in gowns, and not in cloaks, according to his Majesties late order ?

44. Whether is any single Lecturer, maintained by a Corporation, suffered to preach there, he not first professing his willingness to take upon him a living, with cure of souls, within that Corporation; nor actually taking such benefice or cure, so soon as it shall be fairly procured for him; contrarie to his Majesties late direction ?

V. Articles Concerning Matrimonie.

1. Whether be there any in your parish, that have married within the degrees of affinitie or consanguinitie, by the law of God forbidden, and expressed in a certain table, published by authoritie, in Anno 1563? and if any have so married, what be their names ?

2. Whether hath any been married secretly, in private houses; or without their parents or governours consent signified; being under the age of 21 yeares ?

3. Whether do any persons lawfully married, live asunder unlawfully; and in whom is the default ?

4. Whether have any persons been married, the banns having not been thrice published, three severall Sundayes or holydayes, in time of divine service, without licence from the Arch-Bishop or Bishop of the diocese, or his Chancellour? who were present at such marriages? and what Minister married them ?

5. Whether have any persons, by licence, or without, been married in your parish Church; neither of them, at that time, dwelling in your town ?

6. What Popish recusants, or their children, have been married in your parish? in what sort was that matrimonie solemnized? when, and by whom ?

7. Whether do any, heretofore divorced, or married and not divorced, keep companie at bed and board, as man and wife, with any other man, or woman, then with the person, that he and she were married unto? what be their names, when and where were they married, and how long have they so continued together ?

8. Whether have you any in your parish, which live together as man and wife, and yet not known, by whom, where, or when they were married ?

VI. Articles concerning the Churchwardens.

1. Whether be the Churchwardens chosen by the Minister, and parishioners; according to the 89 Canon? And whether hath any taken upon him to be Churchwarden, not being so chosen? or hath any continued above one yeare in his office, without a new choice ?

2. Whether have the Churchwardens retained any of the Church goods in their hands, and not made a just account, at their going out of their office, of what they have received, and expended; or not delivered to you their successours, whatsoever money, or other things, belonging to the Church, that remained in their hands ?

3. Do the Churchwardens and sidemen, or assistants, diligently see, that all the parishioners do duely resort to the Church, upon all Sundayes and holydayes; and there continue the whole time of divine service and sermon; suffering no idle persons to walk, or talk, or stand idle, either in the Church, Church-yard, or Church-porch, during the time of divine service or sermon, but causing them either to come into the Church, or else to depart? and have they the said Churchwardens forbore either for reward, favour, or affection, to present them that have been, or are negligent in coming to Church; or that have been found by them standing idle, or talking abroad, either in the Church-yard, or streets, in the time of divine service, or sermon, on Sundayes or holydayes; or that have not received the communion yearely, at the feast of Easter, or within one moneth after, according to the Canon ?

4. Whether do the Churchwardens, yearely within fourtie dayes after Easter exhibite to the Bishop, or his Chancellour, the names and surnames of all the parishioners, as well men as women, which being of the age of sixteen yeares and upward, received not the communion at the Easter before ?

5. Whether do the Churchwardens provide, against every communion, with the advice of the Minister, a sufficient quantitie of fine white bread, and of good and wholesome wine, for the number of communicants that are to receive? and is that wine brought in a clean and sweet standing pot, of pewter, or of other finer metall ?

6. Whether have the Churchwardens suffered the Church, Church-yard, or Chappell, to be profaned, by playes, feasts, banquets, suppers, Church-fes, drinkings, temporall courts or leets, lay-jures, musters, &c. acted, kept, or held in them ?

21795.

VII. Articles concerning the Parishioners.

1. Whether do any in your parish profane the Lords day, by unlawfull gaming, drinking, or tipling, in taverns, innes, or alehouses, in the time of common prayer, or sermon; or by working and doing the works of their trades and occupations? whether do any in your parish, buy or sell, or keep open their shops, or set out any wares to be sold, upon Sundayes or holydayes, by themselves; their servants, or apprentices; or have they any other wise profaned the said dayes ?

2. Is there any in your parish, that doth impugn, or speak against the rites and ceremonies of the Church of England, or the lawfull use of them; or that affirms, that the form of making and consecrating Bishops, Priest, and Deacons, or any thing therein contained, is repugnant to the word of God; or that the government of this Church, under his Majestie, by Arch-Bishops, Bishops, and other ecclesiasticall officers, is Antichristian? or hath any spoken reproachfully, or disgracefully, of the Kings Majesties courts ecclesiasticall, or the proceedings thereof ?

3. Have you any in your parish, that do come to the sermon onely, and not to divine service; or that do not reverently behave themselves, during the time of divine service; devoutly kneeling, when the generall confession of sinnes, the letanie, the ten commandments, and all prayers and collects are read; and using all due and lowly reverence, when the blessed name of the Lord Jesus is mentioned; and standing up, when the articles of the Belief are read; or which do cover their heads in the Church, during the time of divine service (unlesse it be in case of necessitie, in which case they may wear a night-cap) or which do then and there give themselves to babbling, talking, or walking; and are not attentive to heare Gods word read or preached ?

4. Whether do any within your parish, men, or women, being 16 yeares of age and upwards, or any other, lodging, or commonly resorting to any house in your parish, wilfully absent themselves from your parish Church, or Chappell, upon Sundayes and holydayes, and other dayes appointed, at morning and evening prayers; or refuse to receive the communion; and who do come late to Church, and depart from thence before divine service and sermon ended? and whether be there any in your parish, that do perswade others from coming to Church, or from receiving the holy communion, according to his Majesties laws, in that behalf enacted.

5. Whether have you any Popish recusant, or recusants, in your parish, that be of insolent behaviour, not without publick offence; or that do boldly busie themselves in seducing or withdrawing others, either abroad, or in their own families, from the religion established in the Church of England ?

6. How long have the said Popish recusants obstinately abstained, either from divine service, or from the communion? whether of any long time, or of late onely ?

7. Are there any in your parish, who, notwithstanding you have a preaching Minister, do absent themselves from his sermons, and resort to other places, to heare other preachers? or are there any in your parish, that do communicate, or baptize their children in any other parish ?

8. Whether hath any person within your parish (under Noble-men, and men qualified by law) any Chaplain in his house? and if so, you shall present their names.

9. Is there any in your parish, who do refuse to have their children baptized, or themselves to receive the communion, at the hand of your Minister, because he is no preacher ?

10. Whether doth any married woman, within your parish, refuse after childebirth, or neglect, to come to Church according to the book of common prayer, to give thanks to God for her safe deliverance, in a decent habit, as hath been anciently accustomed ?

11. Have any in your parish spoken slanderous and reproachfull words, either against your Minister, to the scandall of his calling; or against the marriage of Ministers, or their wives; or against their neighbours, defaming them touching any crime of ecclesiasticall cognisance ?

12. Whether is the fifth day of November observed and kept in your parish, with prayer and thanksgiving to God, in such form, as is by publick authoritie appointed for that day ?

13. Whether have you any in your parish, that are commonly known, or reputed to be blasphemers of Gods holy name, common and usuall swearers, drunkards, filthy speakers, adulterers, fornicatours, incestuous persons, concealers or harbourers of fornicatours, or adulterers? have any in your parish been detected of such notorious crimes, and what penance have they done for the same?

4 F

14. What corporall punishment, for any such offences, hath been commuted and changed into a pecuniary mulct, or summe of money, by any ecclesiasticall Judge, exercising jurisdiction within this diocesse, by vertue of any grant or commission? what was the summe of money, by any of them so received and taken; and to what uses was the same employed? and whether, upon such commutations, was the unfeigned repentance of the delinquent published in the Church?

15. Whether do all fathers, mothers, masters, and mistresses, cause their children, servants, and apprentices, to come to the catechisme on sundayes and holydayes, before evening prayer, to be instructed and taught therein? and those that do not their duties herein, you shall present their names.

16. Whether have any in your parish received or harboured any woman gotten with childe out of wedlock, and suffered her to depart, without punishment first inflicted on her by the Ordinarie? you shall truly present as well the partie harbouring, as harboured, and who is suspected to be the father of the childe.

17. Whether is any person or persons suspected, or detected heretofore of incontinencie, and therefore departing out of your parish for a season, is now returned again; or in what place else is he, or she, now abiding, to your knowledge, or as you have heard? You shall not fail to present the whole truth in that behalf.

18. Whether are there any lately deceased in your parish, whose last wills and testaments have not yet been proved; or did they die intestate? and if so, who hath taken upon him the administration of their goods? and whether by lawfull authoritie from the Ordinarie, or without? what be the names of such deceased, and of their executours, or administratours?

19. What persons be excommunicated in your parish, and for what cause, to your knowledge, and how long have they stood excommunicate? and whether do any of them, not being absolved, presume to be present in the Church, at divine service? and whether do any familiarly use the companie of such, as do obstinately stand excommunicate, knowing the same; and what be their names?

20. Whether do you know of any, that have abused the Churchwardens, or side-men of your parish; or given them evil words, for executing of their office, according as by oath and dutie they are bound?

VIII. Articles concerning Schoolmasters, Physicians, Chirurgicalians, and Parish-clerks.

1. Whether have you any schoolmaster in your parish, that teacheth publickly, or privately there, not having been examined, allowed, and licenced by the Ordinarie, the Bishop of the diocesse, or his Chancellour? doth any Papist keep a schoolmaster in his house, who cometh not to Church, to heare divine service, and to receive the holy communion? what is his name, and how long hath he taught there, or elsewhere? doth your schoolmaster teach any Papists, or sectaries children, that come not to Church? doth he instruct all his scholars, to learne the short catechisme, by law established, and contained in the book of common prayer, at the least once every week? is he of honest and sincere life, religion, and conversation? is he a graduate, and sufficient to teach, and diligent in teaching, and bringing up of youth?

2. What physician or chirurgicalian have you in your parish, who not being a Doctour of physick in either of the Universities, doth notwithstanding practise physick, without the licence of the Bishop, or his Chancellour? and what ignorant persons have you amongst you, who have left their trades, and have taken upon them to professe physick, and chirurgerie? and who be they, that so abuse the people?

3. Have you a fit parish-clerk, aged twentie yeares at least, of honest life, able to reade and write? are his, and the sextons wages duly payd without fraud or diminution, according to the ancient custome of your parish? by whom is he chosen? is he diligent in his office, and serviceable to the Minister? doth he keep the Church clean, and doores locked? is there any thing lost or spoiled by his default? and doth he execute his office duly?

IX. Articles concerning Ecclesiasticall Officers.

1. Whether are there any ecclesiasticall officers, exercising ecclesiasticall jurisdiction within this diocesse, who do take, receive, or exact any extraordinarie fees, for any cause?

2. Whether have the Churchwardens and questmen concealed, and not presented any abuses or offences, punishable in the ecclesiasticall court? or whether have any such offences, being by them presented to the Chancellour, Arch-deacon, officiall, or any other, using ecclesiasticall jurisdiction within this diocesse, been suppressed by them, or left unpunished, for bribe, reward, pleasure, friendship, or any other partiall respect?

3. Whether are there placed by the register, two tables, containing the severall rates and summes of all fees due to the Judge, and other officers of your courts; one in the usuall place or consistorie where the court is kept, the other in his registrie, in such sort, as every man may come to view the same without difficultie? and whether doth the Chancellour, Arch-deacon, or any other officer or minister, exact, or extort any greater fees, or summes of money, then in the said tables are contained?

4. Whether doth the Chancellour, Arch-deacon, or officiall, commute or change any penance, or corporall punishment, for any money, without the consent of the Bishop? and what money have they, or any of them received for such commutation, and of whom; when, and what was the offence, for which any such summe of money was received, or appointed to be payd?

5. Whether doth the Chancellour, Arch-deacon, or officiall, or any other person, using ecclesiasticall jurisdiction, speed any act, in any cause, privately of themselves, and not in the presence of some publick notarie, or actuarie?

6. Whether is the number of apparitours increased in this diocesse; and wherein, and in what manner is the countrey over-burdened or grieved by them? hath any of them, under pretence of authoritie, cited or summoned any person unlawfully; or hath any of them taken any reward for the concealing of any offence or sinne; or that the offenders might escape punishment? who be they that have so done? or do any of them take any fees that are not usuall? have they threatned any to prosecute them, if they had no reward given them? or do any of them cause any partie to appear in any ecclesiasticall court, within this diocesse, without first a citation obtained from the Judge of the court?

7. Whether hath any ecclesiasticall Judge or officer whatsoever, advocate, register, proctour, clerks, or other such ministers, any way abused themselves in their offices, contrarie to the laws and Canons in that behalf provided?

Lastly, Whether have you and every of you, sincerely, uprightly, and without any partiall affection, and concealment, presented and made known all and every the offenders, in any of the particulars mentioned in the precedent Articles, exhibited unto you; either as they are taken in truth to be, or by common fame reported?

If you know any other matter of ecclesiasticall cognisance, worthy the presentment, in your judgement, and fit to be reformed by ecclesiasticall censure, though it be not expressed in these Articles, yet you shall likewise present the same, by vertue of your oathes.

FINIS.

GOODMAN, BISHOP OF GLOUCESTER, 1634.

ARTICLES to be enquired of in the Fourth Visitation of the right Reuerend Father in God, Godfrey, L. Bishop of Gloucester, holden Anno 1634.

London, Printed by Thomas Harper, for Nathaniel Bytter, 1634.

[Collated with the Articles as re-issued by Bishop Goodman for his Sixth Visitation in 1640.]

The Minister and Church-wardens are to call vnto them the neighbours of the Parish, and out of them to make choyce (according to the custome of the place) of two of the discreetest Parishioners, to be Sidemen; and they altogether are to read ouer these Articles diuers times.

Then, after they haue duely considered of them, they are to write their Answer or Presentment unto euery Article particularly and truly, according to their consciences.

Lastly, they are all of them to bring their Presentments to the Visitation, and there the Church-wardens and Sidemen vpon their oathes, but the Minister according to the Canon in that behalfe, are to deliuer them up under their hands.

The Oath ministred to the Church-wardens and Sworn-men.

You shall sweare, that all Affection, Fauour, Hatred, Hope of Reward and Gaine, or feare of Displeasure, or malice, set aside: You shall upon due consideration of the Articles given you in charge, present all and every such person, of, or within your Parish, as hath committed any offence or fault, or made any default mentioned in these, or any of these Articles, Or which are vehemently suspected and defamed of any such offence or default: wherein you shall deliver vprightly, and according to truth; neither of malice presenting any contrary to truth, nor of corrupt affection, sparing to present any, and so conceale the truth: Hauing in this action, God before your eyes, with an earnest zeale to maintain truth, and to suppesse (sic) vice: So help you God, and the Contents of this Book.*

Advertisements.

That every Incumbent or Curate, indeavour (as far forth as hee can) especially in Market townes, to read short Morning prayers at six a clock, before men go to their labors. Secondly, that Preachers doe not intend so much, either long preaching, or often preaching, as painfull and profitable preaching. Thirdly, considering the miserable distractions of the Church, that they do not labor to nourish & increase controversies in Religion, but rather to reconcile them; and to this end, that they interpret all things to the best on every side, that in their prayers they vse these, or words to the like effect; Grant O Lord, that all they that do professe thy holy name, may agree in the truth of thy holy Word, and lue in vnity and godly loue: and that they instruct their auditors in points of deuotion, piety, charity, mortification, and such like necessary Principles and Articles of our Faith, wherein all Christians agree, rather than in the niceties, curiosities, and subtilties of Schoole-learning, wherein the differences do most consist, and whereof the people are not so capable.†

2. That the Incumbent and Church-wardens do instantly present, what land belongs to their Church and what Vtensils, and in whose hands and custody they are: and when any man is presented for a crime, if within five or six Court-dayes after his presentment, the party bee not put to some open punishment in the same Parish where the offence was committed, then it may be supposed, that hee hath made a commutation; which, as it is wholly to be employed in charitable workes, so my Lord Bishop is resolved, that hereafter it shall be bestowed in setting poore people on worke, wherein my Lord will vse the helpe of the Incumbent, the Church-wardens, and some other of the Parish, who sometimes taking the aduice and direction of the next Justice of peace, may see it imployed to that purpose; and therefore my Lord desires them to be carefull, as in presenting the crime, so in calling for the commutation.‡

3. That euery Incumbent haue a speciall care to bee well provided with such armour, as his predecessors haue formerly found, and that hee bee ready to shew it vpon any short warning; that hee pay such accustomed fees to the Muster-master, as heretofore hee hath done; and if there should bee any difference, in paying procurations, that then hee bring forth his former acquittances, that so his payment may be accordingly.

4. If any officers of the spirituall Court, whether Chancellor, Arch-deacon, Register, proctors, Apparitors, haue increased their fees, or otherwise abused either Clergy or Layty, in the execution of their office, vpon complaint made, the offence shall be punished, and a course taken hereafter for their amendment.§

5. When any Parish shall receiue either Briefes or Bookes by command of superiours, the monies for the price of them are to bee payed into the Registers office, and the messengers according to their paines shall bee rewarded, vnlesse the Deanes in their Deanries bee imployed, and then all to be left to their discretions.

7. (sic)|| My Lords late Subcollector of Tenths and

*[In the edition of 1640, the following Injunction occurs after the Oaths]: My Lord doth hereby straitly charge and require all the Clergie, that every man in person doe address himselfe to the Chancellour, and informe him what he hath already paid towards the repairing of Saint Pauls Church, to whom he hath paid it, and what he intends to pay hereafter; and therein my Lord doth earnestly intreat them to shew their bounty, as being a worke of great piety, tending much to the glory of God, the good of this Church, and the honour of this Kingdom.

† The following Advertisement is substituted in the edition of 1640 in place of the above:—

1. That short morning Prayer be every day read in Market townes, and in all other places where conveniently it may bee. That Preachers doe not so much intend often and long Preaching, as painfull and profitable Preaching; and that they do not touch vpon controversies in Religion, according to his Majesties Instructions.

‡ and to do both as speedily as they may. Added in 1640.

§ and satisfaction shall be made unto them who haue been so abused. Added in 1640.

|| The following is substituted here in 1640:

6. In all payments due to His Majesty, my Lords subcollector shall attend the first and the last day wherein such payments are due; and my Lord doeth further adde out of his respects to the Clergy, the thir-

Subsidies is dead, hee desires the Clergy that they would euer enquire at the Registers office who is the Subcollector, and to pay it to him who shall bee thereunto Authorized vnder my Lords Episcopall Seale, and in regard of my Lords liuing out of the City, the Subcollector shall not fayle to attend at the Pallace in Gloucester. And whereas the Subcollectors heretofore haue complayned, and haue made it appeare to my Lord, that in regard of the negligence of some Clergy-men, they haue bin put to the charge of twenty Markes per annum, my Lord doth earnestly request all the Clergy that hereafter they would bee more carefull to pay in their Tenths and Subsidies in due time, which if they shall neglect, that then they would not bee offended if my Lord suffer his Subcollector to take the benefit of sequestration, thereby to make himselfe some recompence for that charge, which befalls him through their default. The first day and the twentieth day, on which they are due to be payd, and so much hee is bound by statute; but my Lord out of his respect to the Clergy hath added thirty dayes after, so the dayes for payment of Tenths and Subsidies, are the first day, the twentieth day, and the fiftieth day, or if any one of these dayes fall out on a Sunday, then the day following.

Articles concerning Ministers, Diuine Seruice, and administration of the Sacraments.

Imprimis. Whether hath your Minister read the Constitutions set forth by his Maiestie once euery yeare vpon some Sunday, or Holiday, in the afternoone, before diuine Seruice, as he is bound?

2. Item. Whether is the prescript forme of Diuine Seruice vsed by your Minister or Curate vpon Sundayes, Holidayes, Wednesdayes, Fridayes, and Saturdayes, according to the Booke of Common Prayer? And whether doth your Minister or Curate duely obserue all the orders, rites, and ceremonies prescribed and set downe in the said Booke of Common Prayer, both in reading publicke prayers, and therein the Letany, and also in administering the Sacraments in such manner and forme as by the Booke of Common Prayer by Law now established is inioyned?

3. Item. Whether doth your Parson, Vicar, or Curate weare the Surplice when, and at what time,* he doth say the publicke prayers, and administer the Sacraments in your Church or Chappell? And if he be any Graduate, whether then doth he also weare vpon his surplice, at, and during the times aforesaid, such a hood as by the orders of his Uniuersity is agreeable to his degree according to the 58. Canon?

4. Item. Whether doth your Parson, Uicar, or Lecturer, reade Diuine Seruice, and administer the Sacraments in his owne person twice euery yeare, obseruing all the ceremonies in the Booke of Common Prayer, established according to the 56. Canon?

5. Item. Whether doth your Minister, or Curate, preach vsually, according to the Constitutions? or how often hath he bene negligent in that behalfe?

6. Item. Whether doth your Parson, Uicar, Curate, or Lecturer in the prayer vsed immediately before his Sermon vse to pray for the Kings maiestie, King Charles, Queen Mary, Prince Charles, and the Royall Progeny, giuing vnto him such stile and title of supream Governour in all causes, and ouer all persons, as well Ecclesiasticall as Temporall, as by Law are due vnto him? And doth he also in the said Prayer vse to pray for all Archbishops, Bishops, and other Ecclesiasticall persons, and obserue all other things prescribed in the 55. Canon?

7. Item. Whether is your Minister, or Curate, a Preacher allowed? If yea, then by whom? If no, whether doth he procure Sermons to be preached amongst you once in euery month at the least, by such as are lawfully licensed according to the 46. Canon? And on euery Sunday when there is no Sermon preached in that Church, or Chappell, doth your Minister, or Curate, reade some one of the Homilies prescribed by authoritie?

8. Item. Whether doth your Minister, being a beneficed man, and not resident vpon his Benefice, cause his Cure to be supplied vpon his owne charge by a Curate, that is a sufficient and a licensed Preacher?†

9. Item. Whether hath any person been admitted to preach within your Church, or Chappell, but such as you haue well knowne to be sufficiently licensed? And whether haue you caused euery strange Preacher licensed, or not licensed, to subscribe his name,§ together with the day, tieth day after, and on these three dayes my Lords subcollector shall daily attend at the Palace in Gloucester, and the monyes shall be received on no other dayes: for it is unreasonable that the Subcollector should in effect howly attend for two monthes together. And if any of these dayes fall vpon a Sunday then the day following is appointed.

* time] times soever. 1640.

† as the same Canon prescribeth. Added in 1640.

‡ according to the 47 Canon. Added in 1640.

§ in a book provided for that purpose. Added in 1640.

when he preached*? Present their names, and those that have bene faulty herein.†

10. Item, Whether hath your Minister, or Curate, deferred or wilfully refused to baptize any Infant in his Parish being in danger, hauing bene duely informed of the weaknesse thereof? And whether the childe hath dyed in his default without Baptisme? ‡

11. Item, Whether doth your Minister, or Curate, vse to signe the children with the signe of the crosse, when, and at what time he doth baptize them, according to the Booke of common Prayer, and the 30. Canon?

12. Item, Whether doth your Minister, or Curate, every Sunday, and Holiday, before Euening prayer for halfe an houre or more, examine and instruct the youth and ignorant persons of his Parish in the tea Commandements, the Articles of Beliefe, and the Lords Prayer, as also in the Catechisme last set forth in the Booke of common Prayer, according to the 59. Canon?

13. Item, Whether doth your Minister, or Curate, administer the holy Communion so often, and at such times, as that euery Parishioner may receive the same at least thrice in euery yeare, whereof once at Easter, as by the Booke of common Prayer is appointed?

14. Item, Whether doth your Minister, or Curate, receive the holy Communion himselfe on euery day, that he administreteth it to others, kneeling at the same, and administreteth it to none but such as do kneele at the receiuing thereof, and doth he vse the words of Institution according to the Booke of common Prayers at euery time that the Bread and Wine is receiued, in such manner and forme as by the said Booke and the 21. Canon is directed? And whether is warning giuen by him before-hand for the Communion as the 22. Canon requireth?

15. Item, Whether hath your Minister, or Curate, admitted to the Communion any notorious offenders, or Schismaticks, contrary to the 26. and 27. Constitutions?

16. Item, Whether hath your Minister, or Curate, administered the holy communion to any of his Parish out of the Church, and in some priuate house, the party receiuing being not hindered by sicknesse or infirmity of body from coming to Church to receiue there? §

17. Item, Whether doth your Minister, or Curate, vse or hath he refused to visit the sicke in your Parish, to pray with them, or to administer the Lords Supper vnto them? And hath he at any time refused or neglected to bury the dead hauing bene required thereunto? ¶

18. Item, Whether haue you knowne, or haue heard, of any that haue been married in a priuate house, or that haue bene married in the Church, the Banes hauing not bene for three seuerall Sundayes or Holidayes first published in the time of diuine Seruice in the seuerall Churches or Chappels of their seuerall abodes according to the Booke of common Prayer, or in case the Banes haue bene omitted, that haue bene married without a sufficient Licence, or that haue bene married without Licence in time prohibited, albeit the Banes were first so published? or that haue at any time of the day bene married, except betweene the houres of eight and twelue in the forenoone? ** Set downe and declare the names of all such as haue bene by reason of any the premises vnlawfully married, and the partie that married them, and all such as were present at any such marriage, or marriages.

19. Item, Whether hath your Minister, or Curate, married any couple both parties being of another Diocesse, or hath any couple of your parish bene married in another Diocesse, if any haue bene so married, or licensed to marrie, then by whose authoritie haue they bene so licensed? You shall present the Minister so marrying, the parties so married, and the authoritie whereby this was done, as farre as you know or haue heard.

20. Item, Whether doth your Minister, or Curate, vse the forme of Thanksgiving to women after their child-birth? And whether hath he admitted any thereto that was begotten with childe in adultery or fornication without license of his Ordinarie?

21. Item, Whether doth your Minister, or Curate, vse in the Rogation weeke to perambulate about your Parish, and to admonish his Parishioners to accompany him therein?

22. Item, Whether doth your Minister, or Curate, vse the Administration of the holy Communion, Baptisme Instruction of children, Solemnization of marriage, Visitation of the sicke, Buriall of the dead, the commination, and churching of women vnder such words, rites, and ceremonies as are set forth and prescribed by the Booke of common Prayer, and none other?

23. Item, Whether is your Minister continually resident with you vpon his Benefice, or for how long time hath he bene absent, and where is he resident for the most part, and what other Benefice hath he?

24. Item, Whether hath your Minister any other Benefices, and whether doth he supply his absence by a Curate: whether is your Curate licensed to serue by the L. Bishop of the Diocesse, or his Chancellour, & whether doth he serue any more Cures then one, and what other Cure doth he serue, and how farre are they distant one from the other? And whether hath your Curate any Benefice, or cure of soules besides your Cure?

25. Item, Whether doth your Minister, or Curate, every sixe moneths denounce in his Parish all such as stand contumacious, vnder the sentence of excommunication, not seeking to be absolved? * And whether hath he said diuine Seruice while any excommunicate person hath bene present in the Church; or hath admitted any person excommunicate into the Church without a certificate of his absolution from the Ordinarie or other competent Judge?

26. Item, Whether doth your Minister, or Curate, vse such decency and comelinesse in his apparell as by the 74. Constitution is inioyned him, and is he of sober behauiour, and one that doth not vse such bodily labour as is vnseemly for his calling?

27. Item, Whether is your Minister, or Curate, noted or reputed to be an incontinent person, a frequenter of Tauernes, or Alehouses, a common gamester or player at dice, a common swearer, or a drunkard, or faulty in any other crime punishable by Ecclesiasticall censures, whereby he is offensiu or scandalous to his function or Ministry?

28. Item, Whether hath your Minister, or Curate, received any Excommunication, Suspension, or Aggrauation from the Bishop of this Diocesse, or his Chancellour, or other their Deputies against any of his Parishioners which he hath presumed to make stay of, and not published such Excommunication, Suspension, or Aggrauation the next Sunday or Holiday after the receipt of the same in the time of diuine Seruice in your Church or Chappell?

29. Item, Whether doth your Minister, Curate, or Lecturer publicly in his Sermon, or at priuate meetings, maintaine or affirme any doctrine contrary or repugnant to any of the Articles of Religion set forth and established in the Church of England by authority? Present the name of the party offending against this or any the former Articles, and the time and place when and where the party did so offend.

30. Item, Whether hath your Minister, Curate, or Lecturer, duely obserued the Kings instructions since the time that they haue been published, and who hath bene faulty therein? You shal not faile to present his or their name or names?

31. † Item, Whether hath the Parson, Uicar, or Curate of your parish openly and distinctly read in your parish Church or Chappell in the time of diuine Seruice, the Kings Maiesties late Declaration concerning sports to be vsed, as hath been inioyned and commanded by the Lord Bishop of this Diocesse?

Articles concerning the Church and the Ornaments thereof.

First, whether is your Church or Chappels, with the Chancell thereof, with your Parsonage or Uicarage house, and all other buildings thereunto belonging in good reparation, and decently and comely kept, both within and without? Are your bells and all things thereunto appertayning, in good reparation? And are the seats of your Church well maintayned, if not, then through whose default, and what are the defects?

2. Item, whether is your Churchyard well and sufficiently repayred, fenced, and maintained with wooden rayles or pales, according to the 85. Canon? if not, then through whose default is any part left vnrepayred, and at whose charge is the same to bee repayred?

3. Item, whether haue you in the in the seuerall Churches or Chappels, the Booke of Constitutions or Canons ecclesiasticall, ready to be read by the Minister, according to his Maiesties pleasure, published by his Highnesse authority, vnder the great Seale of England.

* according to the 65 Canon. Added in 1640.

† In the place of this Article, the three following are substituted in 1640.—

31. Item, Ye shall inquire and present, whether the Act of Parliament made the 21 of King James concerning profane swearing and cursing, hath been read in the Parish Church by the Minister thereof, upon the Sunday after Evening Prayer twice in the yeer according to the said Act.

32. Item, Whether doeth your Minister at the end of every Psalm, read in your Church throwout the year, in the time of Common Prayers, & likewise at the end of Benedictus, Benedicte, Magnificat, & Nunc Dimittis, repeat & say Glory be to the Father, &c. according to the Rubrick of the Book of Common Prayers?

33. Item, Whether at the time of the saying of that part of Common Prayers, which is intituled or called the Communion, the Priest or Minister of your parish doth stand at the North side of the Table, & there say the Lord's Praier, with the Collect following, according to the Rubrick of the Book of Common Prayers?

* according to the 50 and 52 Canons. Added in 1640.

† Present—herein] Omitted in 1640.

‡ contrary to the 68 and 69 Canons. Added in 1640.

§ and 21 Canon. Added in 1640.

¶ contrary to the 71 Canon. Added in 1640.

** contrary to the 68 Canon. Added in 1640.

*** contrary to the 62 Canon. Added in 1640.

4. Item, whether have you in your Church or Chappell, the Booke of Common Prayer, the Booke of Homilies, and a large Bible of the last edition, a Fontstone, a decent Communion Table, with a seemly carpet, and a cloth of fine linnen to couer the same at the Communion time; and is the Table of consanguinity set vp in your Church?

5. Item, whether have you in your Church or Chappell one Parchment Register Booke, provided for Christnings, Marriages, and Burials? and is the same duly and exactly kept according to the Constitutions in that behalfe provided: and haue the Churchwardens euery yeere since the last Trienniall Visitation, transmitted or brought in vnto the Lord Bishop of this Diocesse, or his Chancellour, a true Transcript or copy thereof, to bee preserved in the Registry of the sayd Bishop, as by the 70 Canon is required?

6. Item, whether haue you a conuenient seat for your Minister to read Seruice in, a comely Pulpit, with a decent cloth or cushion, and a couer for the same; a comely large Surplice, a fayre Communion cup of siluer, with a couer agreeable for the same, and all other ornaments necessary for the celebration of diuine Seruice, and administration of the Sacraments?

7. Item, whether haue you a strong Chest for the almes of the poore, with three locks and keyes, whereof the Minister is to keep one key, and the Churchwardens the other; and another Chest for the keeping of the ornaments of the Church, and Register Booke?

8. Item, whether haue you a Terrier of all the glebe lands, and portions of Tithes belonging to your Parsonage and Uicarage? where and in whose custody is it?

Articles concerning Parishioners.

First, whether hath any parishioner been admitted to receiue the holy Communion, or to be a Godfather or Godmother, or whether haue any beene married who haue not beene first confirmed by the Bishop?

2. Item, Whether the Schoolemaster or Schoolemasters within your parish be of good and sincere religion, (that is, of the Religion established in this Realme) life and conuersation, and be diligent in teaching and bringing vp of youth: and whether haue they beene examined and licensed for Schoolmasters by the L. Bishop of this Diocesse, or his Chancellour?

3. Item, Whether the Schoole-master or Schoole-masters within your parish do teach his or their schollers any other Grammar than that which is called the Kings Grammar, set forth by the authority of King Henry the eighth, teaching the prescript forme thereof, whereby the schollers thereof may perfectly vnderstand their Grammar rules and Constructions?

4. Item, Haue you any in your parish who do refuse to come to heare diuine Seruice, or to receiue the holy Communion in your parish Church? Or haue you any that do sojourne or lodge any such? You are to present the names both of the one and the other, and of what degree, trade, or state of life they are?

5. Item, Whether are there any in your parish that do not frequent diuine Seruice in their parish Church, or that do wilfully absent themselves from their owne parish Church, without any lawfull excuse, especially on Sundayes and Holydayes: or are there any that being about the age of sixteen yeeres, haue not receiued the holy Communion at Easter last? you shall not fayle to present their names.

6. Item, Whether doth the Schoole-master of your parish teach the children of his Schoole the Catechisme by publicke authority set forth, as the 79 Canon requireth?

7. Item, Doth any parishioner of your parish, not hauing an infirmity of bodie, couer his head in the Church, or Chappell in the time of diuine Seruice, or if he haue an infirmity or extremitie of cold, doth he couer his head any otherwise then by wearing a night-cap or coife?

8. Item, Doth any parishioner of your parish refuse or omit reuerently to kneele vpon his knees, when the generall confession, Letany, and other prayers are read, and to stand vp at the saying of the Beleeve, according as is prescribed in that behalfe in the Booke of Common Prayer?

9. Item, Doth any parishioner of your parish being present at diuine Seruice in your Church or Chappell wilfully refuse or omit to expresse and do some humble and lowly reuerence of body when in the said time of diuine Seruice the Lord Jesus is mentioned or named? You shall not faile to present the names of such as refuse or omit to do the same.

10. Item, Whether doth any parishioner of your parish abuse the liberty giuen in the Kings Maiesties late Declaration, by vsing or exercising the recreations therein allowed on Sundayes and Holydayes, vnduly, or vnseasonably, to the hinderance or neglect of diuine Seruice, viz. before the end of all diuine Seruices for that day?

11. Item, Whether doth any parishioner of your parish vpon any Sunday vse Beerebayting, Bullbayting, Interludes, or Bowling, contrary to the sayd Declaration?

12. Item, Whether haue you in your parish, men or women, who do abstaine from coming to Church, or diuine Seruice, and yet assume a liberty to vse the recreations allowed in the sayd Declaration?

13. Item, Whether is there any parishioner of your parish conforming in religion, who hauing been absent from your parish Church at the Seruice of God for that day, doth notwithstanding go to the sayd recreations? you shall carefully present the names of such as offend in any of these last foure Articles, and the time and place of the offence so committed?

14. Item, Whether haue you any Feast of the Dedication of your parish Church, commonly called a Wake? on what day of the yeere is it vsually obserued and kept? how long do you remember that the sayd Wake hath been vsed or kept? and when was it last kept and obserued?

15. Item, Whether any such in your parish as haue not communicated, haue been admitted to be Godfathers or Godmothers, contrary to the 29 Canon?

16. Item, Whether doe all Fathers, Mothers, Masters, and Mistresses, cause their children, seruants, and apprentices, to come to be catechized on the Sundayes and Holidayes before Euening Prayer, to heare the word, and to be instructed and taught in the Principles of religion? and those that do not their duty herein, you shall present their names.

17. Item, whether do the parishioners frequent * their Churches vpon Wednesdayes, Frydayes, and Holiday Eues,† and whether do they keep such fasting dayes as are appointed by the Church?

18. Item, Whether any of your parishioners, hauing a Preacher to their Parson, Uicar, or Curate, do without iust cause absent themselues from his Sermons, and wilfully ‡ resort to any other place to heare other Preachers, or refuse to receiue the holy Communion at his hands? and whether any other Minister hath receiued to the Communion any of your parish? and specifie the names both of the Minister and parishioner.§

19. Item, Whether there be any of your parishioners that sit and remaine in Tavernes, or Alehouses, or in the streets, or stand gazing in the Churchyard vpon Sundayes and Holidayes, in the time of diuine Seruice or Sermon? or whether there be any Innekeeper or Alehousekeeper, that suffer or admit any to eat, drink, play at dice, cards, or such like game in their houses vpon Sundayes or Holidayes, in the time of diuine Seruice or Sermon?

20. Item, Whether there be any that brawle, rayle, or fight in the Church or Churchyard, or by their laughing, talking, walking, jesting, or any other meanes, hinder the Minister, or disquiet any present at diuine Seruice or Sermon?

21. Item, Whether there be any who in their speech and outward carriage do not esteeme and vse your Minister with all reuerence and respect due to the honour and dignity of his place and calling?

22. Item, Whether there be any that do worke, or keepe open shop for sale of wares, or do labour about corne, hay, or any such businesse on any Sunday or Holiday?

23. Item, whether haue you any in your parish to your knowledge, or by common fame and report, which haue committed adultery, fornication, or incest, which haue not beene publickly punished? any bawds, or receiuers of incontinent persons into their houses, or any which do conuay or suffer them to go away before they giue satisfaction to the congregation in that behalfe?

24. Item, whether haue you any in your parish which are by common fame and report, or vehement suspicion, reputed and taken to be drunkards, blasphemers of Gods holy name, common and vsuall swearers, filthy speakers, raylers, sowers of discord amongst their neighbours, vsurers, fighters, brawlers, or quarrellers, in Church or Churchyard? you shall not fayle to present their names?

25. Item, whether haue any in your parish receiued or harboured any woman with child, that was not before an householder in your parish, or gotten with child out of wedlock, and suffered her to depart againe without punishment first inflicted by the Ordinary? you shall present as well the party harbouring as harboured, and who is suspected to be the father of the child, and who hath helped to conuay her away?

26. Item, whether there be any married women or others.

* frequent] usually resort unto. 1640.

† to heare diuine seruice. Added in 1640.

‡ wilfully] willingly. 1640.

§ so offending. Added in 1640.

Within your parish which after childbirth refuse or omit to come to the Church to giue God thanks for their safe deliury, and to haue the prayers publickly appointed in that behalfe, in the Booke of Common Prayer? *

27. Item, whether haue you any in your parish, who haue been married without banes or licence, or who haue been married in any priuate house, or out of the Church, or who haue been married in the Church vnseasonably, and contrary to the Canon, viz., before eight of the clock in the morning, or after twelue in the afternoone? † you shall not fayle to present all those who haue been faulty in any of the premisses.

28. Item, What Midwifes haue you within your parish? of what skill are they accounted of for that office? and whether are they licensed by their Ordinary to execute the same?

29. Item, Whether haue you in your Parish any that practise Phisicke or Surgerie, or what skill are they reputed to haue for their profession? Or whether do they practise without a particular License from the Bishop of this Diocesse, or from his Chancellor in the Bishops absence?

30. Item, Whether do you know of any that do teach or keepe Schoole, not hauing a Licence from the Ordinary, or whether any do associate or serue a Cure without Licence, contrary to the 48 Canon?

31. Item, Whether haue you a fit parish Clerke, aged 20. yeeres at least, of honest conuersation, and sufficient for reading and writing, and whether he be payed his wages without fraud, according to the ancient custome of your Parish: and whether is the said Clerke approued by the Ordinary?

32. Item, Whether are there in your Parish any Wills not yet proued, or goods of the dead dying intestate left vnadministred by authoritie of the Ordinarie in that behalfe? And whether any possesse the goods of any person deceased without authoritie from the Ordinarie? You shall not faile to present the Executour, and all other culpable therein.

33. Item, Whether is there any Legacy giuen to the Church, or to other good and godly vses, as reliefe of the poore, Orphans, poore Schollers, poore maidens marriages, Schooles, high-ways, and such like, which is not yet performed? If there be any such you shall present what you know or can learne thereof, and by whose default the same is not performed.

34. Item, Whether haue the former Churchwardens bene carefull and faithfull in the execution of their office, and haue they made a iust account at the end of their yeare, according to the 89. Canon?

35. Item, Whether haue any in your parish dying excommunicate or wilfully destroying himselfe bene buried in Christian buriall in your Church or Churchyard, and what were their names so buried, and who were present at such burials?

36. Item, Whether any in your Parish hath or doth refuse to contribute towards the reparations of the Church, and to the prouision of such things as belong thereunto?

37. Item, Whether any within your parish do resort into Barnes, fields, woods, or priuate houses, to any extraordinary exposition of Scriptures, or conferences together, or that be drawers or perswaders of others to any such schismaticall conuenticle?

38. Item, Whether is there any in your parish that do refuse to haue their children baptized, or themselues to receiue the Communion at the hands of your Minister, because he is no Preacher? You shall present their names.

39. Item, Whether any person in your parish be an impugner or deprauer either in word or writing of the forme of Ecclesiasticall gouernment in this Church of England, or that hath spoken in derogation of the Booke of common Prayer, or the rites and ceremonies prescribed to be vsed either in the seruice of God, or Administration of the Sacraments, or against any of the Articles agreed vpon, Anno 1562. or against the Kings Supremacie in causes Ecclesiasticall, or against the oath of Supremacie, or Allegiance, as pretending the same to be not lawfull or warrantable by the word of God?

40. Item, Lastly, do you know of any other matter of Ecclesiasticall cognizance worthy the presentment in your iudgement, which you hold fit to be reformed by Ecclesiasticall censure? You shall likewise present the same by vertue of your oaths aforesaid?

Articles concerning Ecclesiasticall Officers.

1. Whether do you know or haue heard, that the Chancellor, Archdeacon, Official, or other inferiour Officers Ecclesiasticall haue at any time winked at, and suffered any faults punishable by Ecclesiasticall censure, and presented vnto them to passe and remaine vnpunished, for money, bribes, friendship, or other partiall respect?

2. Whether do you know or haue heard that the Chancellour, Archdeacon, Official, or other vnder officers belonging to them, haue receiued any payment or composition for suppressing any presentment, excommunication, or other Ecclesiasticall censure against any offenders, or for not seruing a Processe without a summe of money promised or receiued?

3. Whether hath the Chancellour, Archdeacon, or their Deputies, or any Register, Apparitor, or vnder-officer exacted extraordinarie or greater fees then heretofore of late haue bene accustomed, or are warrantable according to the table of the rate of Fees belonging to the Court?

4. Whether doth the Archdeacon, or his official, or substitute, call for presentments, and exact them at any other time, or times, then in the time of his visitation, or doth the Archdeacon, or his Substitute vnder pretence to haue the presentments giuen in at his visitation corrected and amended, draw in other matters which happen afterwards into his cognizance, to the preiudice of the L. Bishop, and his Chancellour?

5. What number of Apparitors hath euery seuerall Ecclesiasticall Judge, and in what manner is the countrey griued and ouerburthened by the said Apparitors?

FINIS.

[The following articles are added in 1640.

5. The Church-wardens presenting at the time of the Lord Bishops visitation, shall bring in and deliver into the hands of the Lord Bishop his Chancellor or of his Chancellors surrogate only, all and every of their bills of Presentment, and the second bills of presentment made every yeare at the feast of Saint Michael the Arch-Angell, as well in the Lord Bishops trienniall as in the yeeres of the Archdeacons visitation shall be brought in and delivered by the Church-wardens, without fee in the same manner, and with the same caution within the space of thirty days after the said feast under the paine of a contempt? And in the yeere of the Archdeacons visitation, the second bills of Presentment aforesaid, as well as the first are to be made according to the booke of Articles given in charge in the visitation of the Archdeacon.

6. The Church-wardens and others in making rates towards the reparations of Churches and Chappells, are to charge every Contributor equally with just regard to every mans ability, according to law and the ancient usage of the severall parishes or hamlets: and if any refuse to pay being so rated, they are to present not only the parties so refusing, but also the severall sums wherewith they are charged.

7. The Church-wardens are once every yeere within one moneth after the twenty fifth day of March, to transmit or bring into the Lord Bishop his Chancellor only a true copie of the Register Books of their severall Parishes or hamlets, observing such further direction therein as is set downe in the 70 Canon, and that they must not be charged with fees of appeareance for doing their duty herein within the time prefixed.

8. That the Church and the poore may not be defrauded of their legacies, or Orphans and yong children deprived of such Portions as belong unto them, the Church-wardens ought to be very careful to present such of their Parish or hamlets, who are thought to be the executors or next of kinne to such parties who died in their Parishes or hamlets, with or without a will: and if it be not knowne to the Church-wardens that any such will is proved or letter of Administration taken forth, the Church-wardens are to present such as are faulty for the halfe yeare before the time of his Presentment, or longer if need be, for the more sure doing whereof, and for the helpe of their memory, it is convenient that they haue recourse to the Church booke of Christnings, Mariages, and Burialls.]

* and doe they there in the doing thereof kneele downe in some convenient place, nigh unto the place where the table standeth, as is prescribed and appointed in the Book of Common Prayers? Added in 1640.

† And doe any persons of your parish otherwise lawfully married, neglect or omit to receive the Holy Communion on the day of their said marriage, according to the Rubrick of the Booke of Common Prayers? Added in 1640.

ARCHBISHOP LAUD, FOR NORWICH, 1635.

ARTICLES to be inquired of, in the Metropolitall Visitation of the most reverend Father, William, by Gods Providence, Lord Arch-bishop of Canterbury, Primate of all England; and Metropolitan: in and for the Dioces of Norwich, in the yeere of our Lord God 1635, and in the second yeere of his Graces Translation.

Printed at London by Richard Badger, 1635.

[These Articles were also issued for use in Peculiaris, with the place and date left blank; for Winchester in 1635; and again in 1638 for the Diocese of Lincoln, "during the suspension of the L. Bishop there. Copies of these other editions have been collated for the present reprint; in the case of the first, a copy being used in which the blanks in the title are filled up with the name of the Deanry of Shoreham in Kent, and with the date of 1634.]

The Tenour of the Oath, to be Ministred to the Church-wardens and Side-Men.

You shall sweare, that you and every of you, shall duly consider and diligently enquire, of all and every of these Articles given you in charge; and that all affection, favour, hatred, hope of reward and gaine, or feare of displeasure, or malice set aside; you shall present all and every such person, that now is, or of late was within your parish, as hath committed any offence, or made any default mentioned in these, or any of these Articles; or which are vehemently suspected or defamed of any such offence or default: Wherein you shall deale uprightly and fully; neither presenting, nor sparing to present any, contrary to truth: having in this action God before your eyes, with an earnest zeale to maintaine truth, and to suppress vice. So helpe you God, and the holy contents of this Booke.

Concerning the Church, the Ornaments thereof, and the Churches possessions.

Imprimis, Whether haue you in your seuerall Churches, and Chappels, the whole Bible of the largest volume, and the Booke of Common Prayer, both fairely and substantially bound. A Font of stone, set vp in the ancient vsuall place: A conuenient and decent Communion Table, with a Carpet of silke, or some other decent stufte, continually laid vpon the same at time of diuine Seruice, and a faire linnen cloth thereon, at the time of the receiuing of the holy Communion. And whether is the same table placed (sic) in such conuenient sort within the Chancell or Church,* as that the Minister may bee best heard in his Prayer and Administration: and that the greatest number may communicate. And whether is it so used out of time of diuine Seruice, as is not agreeable to the holy use of it; as by sitting on it, throwing hats on it, writing on it, or is it abused to other prophaner vses: and are the ten Commandements set vpon the East end of your Church or Chappell where the people may best see and reade them, and other sentences of holy Scripture, written on the walles likewise for that purpose?

2. Whether are the afternoones Sermons, in your severall Parishes, turned into Catechizing by question and answer; according to the forme prescribed in the Booke of Common Praier? and whether doth euery Lecturer reade diuine Seruice, according to the Liturgy printed by authority, in his Surplice and Hood before the Lecture? And whether are his Maiesties Instructions in all things duly obserued?

3. Whether haue you in your said Church or Chappell, a conuenient seat for your Minister to read Seruice in, together with a comely pulet (sic) set vp in a conuenient place, with a decent cloath or cushion for the same, a comely large Surplice, a faire Communion Cup, with a couer of siluer, a Flagon of siluer, tinne or pewtlet, to put the Wine in, whereby it may be set vpon the Communion Table, at the time of the blessing thereof, with all other things and ornaments necessary for the celebration of Diuine Seruice, and administration of the Sacraments? And whether haue you a strong Chest for Almes for the poore, with three Lockes and Keies, and another Chest for keeping the Bookes, and Ornaments of the Church, and the Register Book? And whether haue you a Register Booke in Parchment, for Christnings, Weddings, and Burials, and whether the same be kept in all points, according to the Canons in that behalfe provided? And is the Mothers Christian name therein Registred as well as the Fathers, and a transcript thereof brought in yearly within one moneth after the 25 of March into the Lord Arch-bishop or Bishop of the Diocesse his principall Register? And whether haue you in your said Church, or Chancell,* a Table set, of the degrees wherein by Law men are prohibited to marry?

4. Whether are your Church and Chappels, with the Chancels thereof, and your parsonage or vicarage house, your parish Almes-house and Church-house, in good reparations: and are they employed to godly, and their right holy vses? Is your Church, Chancell, and Chappell decently and comly kept, as well within as without, and the seats well maintained, according to the 85 Canon, in that behalfe provided? Or haue any patrons or others decayed the Parsonage-houses, and keepe a stipendary Priest or Curate, in place where an incumbent should be possessed? Whether is your Church-yard well fenced with walles, railes, or pales, and by whom: and if not, in whose default the same is and what the defect or fault is? And whether any person haue incroached vpon the ground of the Church-yard, or whether any person or persons haue vsed any thing or place consecrated to holy vse, prophanely or wickedly?

5. Is your Church or Chappell decently paved, and is your Church-yard well and orderly kept without abuse? Are the bones of the dead decently interred, or laid vp in some fit place as becometh Christians? And is the whole consecrated ground kept free from Swine and all other nastinesse, as becometh the place so dedicated?

6. Whether haue any ancient Monuments or Glasse-windowes been defaced, or any brasse Inscriptions, Lead, Stones, or any thing else belonging to your Church or Chappell, benee at any time purloyned, and by whom?

7. Whether haue you the Terrier of all the Gleabe Lands, Meadowes, Gardens, Orchards, Houses, Stockes, Implements, Tenements, and portions of Tithes (whether within your Parish or without) belonging vnto your parsonage or vicarage, taken by the view of honest men in your said Parish? And whether the same Terrier be laid vp in the Bishops Registry, and in whose hands any of them are now? And if you haue no Terrier already made in Parchment, you the Church-wardens and Sidemen, together with your Parson or Vicar, or in his absence with your Minister, are to make diligent inquiry and presentment of the seuerall particulars following† and make, subscribe, and signe the said Terrier, as aforesaid.‡

1. How many seuerall parcels of Glebe-land, doe you know, or haue you credibly heard to belong vnto your Rectory, Church, Parsonage, Vicaridge &c. and by what Names are they (or any of them) commonly called and knowne; And what yearly Rent haue you knowne or heard to haue benee paid, vnto the Parson, Vicar, or to his or their Assignes, for euery, or any of the said parcels?

2. In whose occupation, are the said parcels at this present? How much doth each parcell conteyne by measure of the 16 foote Poale? How is each parcell Butted, on euery parte? And who is to repair the Fences on each side thereof?

3. What hedge, ditch, meere, tree, thorne, doole or distinction, is there now, at this present, whereby the said parcels of Church-lands may bee apparentlie knowne and distinguished, from the lands of other men, vpon whom they doe abutt?

4. What Cart-way, Horse way, foote way, Gates or Styles doe leade from your Parsonage or Vicaridge-House, vnto euery of the said parcels of Gleab-land? Declare your knowledge therein.

5. Whether doe you know, or haue you credible heard, that some Styles, Gates, hedges, ditch, meere, Tree, Thorne, or other Doole (formerlie growing or being betweene the said parcels of Gleabe (or some of them) and the Landes of other men) haue been digged vp, felled downe, destroyed, put by or defaced. And who had the said parcell (so wronged) in occupation when the said Style, Gate, hedge, ditch, meere, Tree, Thorne, or other artient Doole, was so digged vp, felled downe, destroyed, put by or defaced?

Concerning the Clergy.

1. Whether doth your Parson, Vicar, or Curate, distinctly and reuerently say Diuine Seruice vpon Sundayes and Holidayes, and other dayes appointed to bee obserued by the book of Common Prayer; as Wednesdayes, and Fridayes, and the Eues of euery Sunday and Holiday, at fit and vsuall times? And doth he duly obserue the Orders, Rites and Ceremonies, prescribed in the said Booke of Common Prayer, as well in reading publike prayers and the Letanie, as also in administering the Sacraments, solemnization of Matrimony, visiting the sicke, burying the dead, Churching of Women, and all other like Rites and Offices of the Church, in such manner and forme as in the said Booke of Common prayer he is inioyned, without

* as hath benee appointed by the Ordinary. Added in 1638.

† Arch-bishop or] omitted in 1638.

‡ principall] omitted in 1638.

* Chancell] Chappell. 1638.

† seuerall particulars following] premises. 1634.

‡ The five following articles respecting the Terrier are not found in 1634.

any omission or addition. And doth he reade the Book of the last Canons yearely, and weare a Surplice according to the said Canons?

2. Whether haue you any Lecturer in your Parish, who hath preached in his Cloake and not in his Gowne, and whether haue you any Lecturer who will not professe his willingnesse and readinesse to take vpon him a Liuing or Benefice, with cure of soules, or who hath refused a Benefice when it hath bene offered vnto him?

3. Doth your Minister bid Holidayes and Fasting-dayes, as by the Booke of Common prayer is appointed? And doth he giue warning beforehand to the Parishioners, for the receiuing of the holy Communion, as the two and twentieth Canon requireth: and whether hee doth administer the holy Communion so often, and at such times, as that euery Parishioner may receiue the same, at the least thrice in euery yeere; whereof once at Easter, as by the Booke of Common prayer is appointed? And doth your Minister receiue the same himselfe, on euery day that he administreteth it to others, and vse the words of institution according to the Booke, at euery time that the Bread and Wine is renewed, accordingly as by the prouiso of the 21 Canon is directed: And doth he deliuer the Bread and Wine to euery Communicant seuerally, and kneeling? Whether he hath admitted to the holy Communion, any notorious Offender or Schismaticke, contrary to the 26 and 27 constitutions, or received any to the Communion, being not of his owne Cure, or put any from the Communion, who are not publickly infamous for any notorious crime? Doth he use the signe of the Crosse in Baptisme, or baptise in any bason, or other vessell, and not in the vsuall Font, Or admit any Father to be God-father to his owne Child, or such who haue not receiued the holy Communion, or baptize any Children that were not borne in the parish, or wilfully refuse to Baptise any infant in his Parish, being in danger, hauing been enformed of the weaknesse of the said child: and whether the child dieth through his default without Baptisme?

4. Whether hath your Minister married any without a Ring, or without Banes published three seuerall Sundayes or Holidayes in time of Diuine seruice, in the seuerall Churches or Chappels of their seuerall abode, according to the booke of Common prayer, or in times prohibited, albeit the Banes were thrice published, without a License or dispensation from the Archbishop, the Bysshop of the Diocesse, or his Chancellor first obtained in that behalfe? Or not betwixt the houres of eight and twelve in the forenoone, or haue married any in any priuate house, or if the parties be under the age of 21 yeeres, before their Parents or gouernours haue signified their consent vnto him?

5. Doth he refuse to bury any, which ought to be interred in Christian buriall, or defer the same longer than he should, or bury any in Christian buriall, which by the constitutions of the Church of England, or lawes of the Land, ought not to be so interred?

6. Is your Minister a Preacher allowed? If yee, then by whom? If not, whether doth he procure some who are lawfully licensed, to preach monethly amongst you at the least?

7. Doth your Minister (being licensed) preach vsuall according to the Canons, either in his owne Cure, or in some other Church or Chappell neare adioyning, where no other Preacher is, and how often he hath been negligent in that behalfe, and doth he preach standing, and with his Hat off? Or whether doth he or his Curate vpon euery Sunday, when there is no Sermon, reade an homilie, or some part thereof, according as hee ought to doe: or in case he bee not licensed to preach, doth he take vpon him to Preach or expound the Scriptures in his owne Cure, or elsewhere? If so, then you are to present the same, the time, and place, when and where he did it?

8. Doth your Minister use to pray for the Kings Majesty, King Charles, and for the Queenes Majesty, Prince Charles, and all the royall Progeny, with addition of such Stile and Titles as are due to his Highnesse, and exhort the people to obedience to his Majesty, and all Magistrates in authority vnder him: And doth he also pray for all Arch-bishops, Bishops, and other Ecclesiasticall persons?

9. Is your Minister continually resident vpon his benefice, and how long time hath he bin absent, and in case he be licensed to be absent, whether doth he cause his Cure to be sufficiently supplied, according to the Canons? Or in case he hath another Benefice, whether doth he supply his absence by a Curate sufficiently licensed to preach in that Cure where he himselfe is not resident? Or otherwise, in case the smallnesse of the liuing cannot find a preaching Minister, doth he preach at both his benefices vsuall?

10. Doth your Minister or Curate, serue any more cures than one: If yea, then what osher Cure doth he serue, and how farre are they distant?

11. Doth your Minister or Curate euery Sunday and Holiday, before Euening Prayer, for halfe an houre or more, examine and instruct the youth and ignorant persons of his Parish, in the Tenne Commandements, Articles of the Beliefe, and in the Lords Prayer, and the Sacraments, according as it is prescribed in the Catechisme, set forth in the booke of Common prayer only? And if he doe not, where is the fault, either in the Parents and Masters of the children, or in the Curate neglecting his duty? And is he careful to tender all such youth of his Parish as haue bene well instructed in their Catechisme, to be confirmed by the Bishop in his Visitation, or any other conuenient time, as is appointed by the booke aforesaid?

12. Doth your Minister in the Rogation dayes, go in perambulation of the circuit of the Parish, saying, and vsing the Prayers, Suffrages, and Thanksgiuing to God, appointed by Law, according to his duty, thanking GOD for his blessings, if there be plenty on the earth: Or otherwise, to pray for his grace and fauour, if there be a feare of scarcity?

13. Hath your Minister admitted any woman begotten with child in adultery or fornication, to be Churched without licence of the Ordinary?

14. Hath your Minister, or any other Preacher, baptized children, churched any woman, or ministered the holy Communion in any priuate house, otherwise than by Law is allowed?

15. Doth your Minister endeouour and labour diligently to reclaim the popish Recusants in his Parish from their errors (if there be any such abiding in your parish). Or whether is your Parson, Vicar, or curate, ouer conuersant with, or a fauourer of Recusants, whereby he is suspected not to be sincere in Religion?

16. Hath your Minister taken vpon him, to appoint any publike or priuate Fasts, Prophetes or exercises, not approved by Law, or publike authority, or hath vsed to meet in any priuate house or place, with any person or persons, there to consult how to impeach or depraue the Booke of Common Prayer, or the doctrine or discipline of the Church of England? If yea, then you shall present them all?

17. Hath your Minister stayed the publication of any excommunications or suspensions, or doth he euery halfe yeere denounce in his Parish Church, all such of his Parish as are excommunicated, and perseuere therein without seeking to be absouled, or doth he wittingly and willingly keep company with such as are excommunicate: And hath he admitted into your Church any person excommunicate, without a certificate of his absolution from the Ordinary, or other competent Judge?

18. Doth your Minister carefully looke to the releefe or the poore, and from time to time call vpon his Parishioners to giue somewhat, as they can spare, to godly and charitable vses, especially when they make their Testaments?

19. Whether your Minister, or any, hauing taken holy Orders, being now silenced or suspended, or any other person of your knowledge, or as you haue heard, hold any conuenticles, or doth preach in any place, or vse any other forme of Diuine Service than is appointed in the Book of Common prayer: If yea, then you are to present their names, and with whom?

20. Whether is your Curate licensed to serue, by the Bishop of this Diocesse, or by any other, and by whom?

21. Doth your Minister vse such decencie and comelinesse in his apparell, as by the 47 Cannon is enioyned: is he of sober behauiour, and one that doth not vse such bodilie labour, as is not seemelie for his function and calling?

22. Is your Minister noted or defamed, to haue obtained his Benefice or his orders by Symonie, or any other way defamed, to be a Symoniacall person, or any way noted to be a Schismaticke or schismatically affected, or reputed to be an incontinent person, or doth table or lodge any such in his house: or is he a frequenter of Tauernes, Innes, or Ale-houses, or any place suspected of ill rule: Or is he a common Drunkard, a common Gamester, or player at Dice, a Swearer, or one that applieth himselfe not at his studie, or is otherwise offensive and scandalous to his function or Ministerie?

23. Doth your Preacher or Lecturer reade Diuine Seruice, before his Sermon or Lecture, and Minister the Sacraments twice a yeere at least in his owne person, according to the Canons?

24. When any person hath bene dangerously sick in your Parish, hath he neglected to visit him, and when any haue bene parting out of this life, hath he omitted to doe his last duty in that behalfe?

25. Doth your Minister, Curate, or Lecturer, in his or their Sermons, deliuer such doctrine as tends to obedience, and the edifying of their Auditorie in faith and Religion without intermedling with matters of State, not fit to be handled in the pulpit, but to be discussed by the wisdom of his Maiesty and his Councill? And if you find any faultie herein, you shall present them.

Schoole-Masters.

1. Doth any in your Parish openlie or priuatelie take vpon him to teache Schoole, without license of the Ordinarie, and is he conformable to the Religion now established? and doth he bring his Schollers to the Church, to heare diuine Service and Sermons? And doth he instruct his Schollers in the grounds of the Religion now established in this Church of England, and is he carefull and diligent to benefitt his Schollers in learning?

2. Doth your Schoole-master teach and instruct his youth in any other Catechisme than is allowed by publike authority? And what Catechisme it is that he so teacheth?

3. Is any liuing or meanes giuen towards the erection or maintenance of any Schoole withholden back, or otherwise imployed, and by whom?

4. Doth any keepe Schoole in the Chancell or Church, by which meanes, that holy place and the Communion Table are many waies profaned, and the windowes broken?

Parish Clarke and Sextons.

1. Haue you a fit Parish Clarke, aged twenty yeeres at least, of honest conuersation, able to read and write? Whether are his and the Sextons wages paid without fraud, according to the ancient custome of your Parish: if not, then by whom are they so defrauded or denied? by whom are they chosen? and whether the said Clarke be approued by the Ordinarie? and hath hee taken an Oath, as in such cases is fit and required: and is he diligent in his Office, and seruiceable to the Minister, and doth he take vpon him to meddle with any thing about his Office, as Churching of women, burying the dead, or such like?

2. Doth your Clark or Sexton keepe the Church cleane, the doores locked at fit times? is any thing lost or spoyled in the Church, through his default? Are the Communion Table, Font, Books, and other Ornaments of the Church kept faire and cleane? doth he suffer any vnseasonable ringing, or any prophane exercise in your Church? Or doth he (when any is passing out of this life) neglect to toll a bell, hauing notice thereof?

Concerning the Parishioners.

1. Whether any of your Parishioners, being sixteene yeeres of age or vpwards, or others lodging or commonly resorting to any House within your Parish, doe wilfully absent themselues from your parish Church vpon Sundayes or Holydayes at Morning and Euening prayers? Or who come late to Church, and depart from Church before seruice be done vpon the said dayes? Or who do not vpon the said dayes? Or who do not reuerently behaue themselues during the time of Diuine seruice, deuoutly kneeling, when the generall confession of sins, the Letany, the tenne Commandements, and all Prayers and Collects are read, and using all due and lowly reuerence, when the blessed name of the Lord Jesus Christ is mentioned, and standing vp when the Articles of the Beliefe* are read; or who doe couer their heads in the Church during the time of Diuine Service, vnlesse it be in case of necessity, in which case they may weare a Night-cap or coffe? Or who doe giue themselues to babbling, talking, or walking, and are not attentive to heare the Word preached, or read? Whether any of your Parish, being of sixteene yeeres of age or upwards, do not receiue the holy Communion in your Church thrice euery yeere, whereof once at Easter, and whether they doe not deuoutly kneele at the receiuing thereof? And whether any hauing diuerse houses of remoue, doe shift from place to place of purpose to defeat the performance of their Christian duties in that behalfe?

2. Whether any of your parishioners, being admonished therof, do not send their Children, Seruants, and Apprentices, to the Minister, to be catechized vpon such Sundayes and Holydayes as are appointed? Or whether any of them do refuse to come; or if they come, refuse to learne those instructions set forth in the Booke of Common prayer?

3. Whether any of your Parish doe entertaine within their house, any sojourner, common guests, or other persons, who refuse to frequent Diuine Service, or receiue the holy Communion, as aforesaid; present their names, their qualities or conditions?

4. What Recusant Papists are there in your Parish, or other Sectaries? present their names, qualities, or conditions? whether they keepe any Schoole-master in their house, which commeth not to Church to heare Diuine Service, and receiue the Communion? What is his Name, and how long hath he taught there, or elsewhere?

5. Whether any of the said Popish Recusants, or other Schismaticks, doe labour to seduce and withdraw others from the Religion now Established? Or instruct their families or children in Popish religion: or refuse to entertaine any, especially in place of greatest seruice, or trust, but such as concurre with them in their opinions?

6. How long haue the said Popish Recusants abstained from Diuine Service, or from the Communion, as aforesaid?

7. Is there any in your Parish that retaine, sell, viter or disperse, any Popish book, or Writings, or other Bookes, Libraries, or writings of any Sectaries, touching the Religion, State, or Gouvernement Ecclesiastical of this Kingdome of England, or keepe any Monuments of Superstition vncancelled or vndefaced?

8. Whether haue you any in your Parish, which heretofore being popish Recusants or Sectaries, haue since reformed themselues, and come to Church to heare Diuine Service, and receiue the Sacraments; if yea, then who are they? And how long since haue they so reformed themselues? And whether they still remaine and abide in that conformitie?

9. Is there any in your Parish that refuse to haue their children Baptized, or themselues to receiue the Communion at the hands of your Minister, taking exception against him, and what causes or exceptions do they alleage; or haue any married Wiues refused to come to Church, according to the Booke of Common Prayer, to giue God thanks after their child-birth, for their safe deliuerance? And whether doe any of, or in your Parish, refuse to haue their children Baptized in your Parish Church, according to the forme prescribed in the booke of common Prayer?

10. Doe any of your Parish usually goe to other Parish Churches to heare Diuine Service or Sermons? Or doe they communicate, or Baptize their children in any other Parish?

11. Whether there be any in your Parish who will come to heare the Sermon, but will not come to publike prayers appointed by the Booke of Common Prayer, making a Schisme or diuision (as it were) between the use of publike prayer and preaching?

12. What persons within your Parish, for any offence, contumacy, or crime, of Ecclesiastical Conusance doe stand excommunicate? present their names, and for what cause they are excommunicated; and how long haue they so stood, and what person or persons doe wittingly and usually keep them company?

13. Whether any, not being in Orders, doe execute any Priestly or Ministeriall Office, in your Church, Chappell, or Church-yard, and what be their names?

14. Whether any in your Parish, that hauing heretofore taken vpon him the order of Priesthood or Deacon, hath since relinquished the same, and liues as a Lay-man neglecting his vocation?

15. Hath any person in your Parish quarrelled, or stricken, or vsed any violence to your Minister, or haue stricken or quarrelled with any other person within your Church or Church-yard, or demeaned himselfe disorderly in the Church, by filthy or prophane talke, or any other base or immodest behaiour? Or hath disturbed the Minister in time of Diuine Service, or Sermon, or hath libelled or spoken slanderous words against your Minister, to the scandall of his vocation, or defamed any of his Neighbours, touching any crime of Ecclesiastical Conusance?

16. Whether any of, or in your Parish, without consent of the Ordinarie, or other lawfull authoritie, haue caused any to do penance, or to be censured or punished for any matter of Ecclesiastical Conusance, by any Vestrie Meetings, or otherwise by their own authoritie? Or haue taken any money or commutation for the same? Present their names that haue done it: And who haue been so punished? In what manner, and vpon what cause?

17. Whether any person in your Parish, doe exercise any Trade or labour, buy or sell, or keep open Shops, or Warehouses vpon any Sunday or Holiday by themselues, their Seruants, or Apprentices, or haue otherwise profaned the said dayes, contrarie to the orders of the Church of England? And whether there be any Inne-keepers, Alehouse-keepers, Victuallers or other persons, that permit any persons in their houses, to eate, drink, or play, during the time of Diuine Service or Sermon, or reading the Homilies, in the forenoone or afternoone, vpon those dayes?

18. Whether the fifth day of November be kept holie and thanksgiuing made to God, for his Maiesties and this States happy deliuerance, according to the Ordinance in that behalfe?

19. Whether any of your Parish hold or frequent any Conuenticles or priuate Congregations, or make or maintaine any constitutions, agreed vpon in any such assemblies? Or any that do write, or publikely or priuately speake against the Booke of Common prayer, or any thing therein contained, or against any of the Articles of Religion agreed vpon in Anno 1562 or against the Kings Supremacie, in causes Ecclesiasticall, or against the Oath of Supremacie, or of allegiance, as pretending the same to be vnlawfull, and not warrantable by the Word of GOD? Or against any of the Rites or Ceremonies of the Church of England, now established? Or against the Government of the Church of England vnder the Kings most excellent Majesty, by Arch-bishops, Deanes, Arch-Deacons, and other Officers of the same: affirming that the same is repugnant to the Word of God, and that the said Ecclesiasticall Officers, are not lawfully ordained? Or whether there be any Authors, Maintainers or Favourers of Heresie or Schisme, or that be suspected to be Anabaptists, Libertines, Brownists, of the Family of Loue, or of any other Heresie, or Schisme? present their names.

* and the holy Gospell. Added in 1638.

20. Whether any in your Parish haue married within the degrees by Law prohibited, and where, and by whom? And whether any couple in your Parish being lawfullie married, liue apart one from the other, without due separation by the Law, or any that haue bene diuorced, which keepe company with any other at Bedde or at Boord?

21. Whether doe any persons administer the goods of the dead without lawfull authority, or suppress the last will of the dead? Or are there in your Parish any Wills not yet proued, or goods of the dead (dying intestate) left vndadministrated? By authority in that behalfe, you shall not faile to present the Executors and all others faultie therein: and also how many persons being possessed of any goods and chattels, haue died within your Parish since the x. day of Februarie? 1634.*

22. Whether any with-hold the Stocke of the Church, or any goods, or other things, giuen to good and charitable uses?

23. Whether your Hospitals and Almshouses, and other such houses and corporations, founded to good and charitable vses, and the lands, possessions, and goods of the same, be ordered and disposed of as they should be? And do the Masters, Governours, Fellowes, and others of the said Houses and Corporations, behaue and demean themselves according to the Godly Ordinances and Statutes of their seuerall Foundations?

24. Whether haue you any in your parish to your knowledge, or by common fame or report, which haue committed Adultery, Fornication, or Incest: or any which haue impudently bragged or boasted, that he or they haue liued incontinently with any person or persons whatsoever: or any that haue attempted the chastity of any Woman, or solicited any Woman to haue the carnall knowledge of her bodie, or which are commonly reputed to bee common Drunkards, Blasphemers of Gods holy name; common Swearers, common Slanderers of their Neighbours, and sowers of discord, filthy and lasciuious Talkers, Usurers, Symoniacall persons, Bawdes, or Harborers of Women with childe, which be vnmarrid, or Conueying or suffering them to goe away before they haue made satisfaction to the Church, or any that hauing heretofore bene presented, or suspected of any the aforesaid crimes, haue for that cause departed your Parish, and are now returned againe? Or any which haue vsed any enchantments, soceries, incantations, or witchcrafts, which are not made felony by the Statutes of this Realme, or any which haue committed any periurie in any Ecclesiasticall Court, in an Ecclesiasticall cause, or which haue committed any forgerie, punishable by the Ecclesiasticall Lawes, and the procurers and abettors of the said offences; you shall truly present the names of all, and singular the said offenders, and with whom they haue committed the said offences, in case they haue not been publikely punished to your knowledge for the same crimes?†

Physitions, Chirugons, and Mid-wiues.

25. How many Physitions, Chirugions, or Mid-wiues, haue you in your Parish? How long haue they vsed their seuerall Sciences or Offices, and by what authoritie? And how haue they demeaned themselves therein, and of what skill are they accounted to be in their profession?

Touching the Church-wardens and Sidemen.

1. Whether you and the Church-wardens, Quest-men, or Side-men from time to time, doe, and haue done their diligence, in not suffering any idle person to abide either in the Church-yard or Church-porch, in Seruice or Sermon time, but causing them either to come into the Church to heare Diuine Seruice, or to depart, and not disturbe such as be hearers there? And whether they haue, and you doe diligently see the Parishioners duely resort to the Church euery Sunday and Holiday, and there to remaine during diuine Seruice and Sermon? And whether you or your predecessors, Church-Wardens there, suffer any playes, feasts, drinkings, or any other prophane vsages, to be kept in your Church, Chappell, or Church-yards, or haue suffered to your and their uttermost power and endeavour, any person or persons to be tipling or drinking in any Inne or Victualling house in your Parish, during the time of Diuine Seruice or Sermon, on Sundayes and Holidayes?

2. Whether, and how often haue you admitted any to preach within your Church or Chappell, which was not sufficientlie licensed? And whether you together with your Minister, haue not taken diligent heed and care, that euery parishioner being of sixteene yeares of age or vpwards, haue receiued thrice euery yeere, as aforesaid: and also that no stranger haue vsualle come to your Church, from their owne Parish Church?

3. Whether haue there bene provided against euery Communion, a sufficient quantitie of fine white bread, and good and wholesome wine for the communicants that shall receiue? And whether that wine be brought in a cleane and sweet standing pot of pewter, or of other purer mettall?

4. Whether were you chosen by the consent of the Minister and the Parishioners? And haue the late Church-wardens given vp a just account for their time, and deliuered to their successors by Bill indented the money, and other things belonging to the Church which was in their hands? And are the Almshouses of the Church faithfullie distributed to the vse of the poore.

5. Whether doe you see the names of all Preachers which are strangers and preach in your Parish Churches, to be noted in a Booke for that purpose, and whether euery Preacher do subscribe his name, and of whom he had his License.

6. Whether any do trouble or molest you for doing your duties?

7. Whether there be any Legacies withholden giuen to the Church or poore people, or to the mending of Highways, or otherwise by the Testators? In whose hands it is, by whom it was giuen, and by whom it is with-holden?

8. Do you know of any thing that hath bene complained of, that is not yet redressed?

Concerning Ecclesiasticall Magistrates and Officers.

1. Whether doe you know or haue heard of any payment, Imposition or agreement, to, or with any Ecclesiasticall Magistrate, Judge, or Officer, for winking at or sparing to punish any person for any offence of Ecclesiasticall Conuance, or for suppressing or concealing of any excommunication, or any other Ecclesiasticall Censure, of, or against any Recusant, or any other offender in the cases aforesaid? What summe of money, or other consideration hath bene receiued or promised, by, or to any of them in that respect, by whom, and with whom?

2. Hath any person within your Parish, paid, or promised any summe of money, or other reward, for commutation of pennance, for any crime of Ecclesiasticall Conuance? If so, then with whom? When, and for what, and how hath the same bene employed?

3. Are your Ecclesiasticall Judges and their Substitutes Masters of Arts, or Batchelors of the Lawes, at the least learned and practised in the Ciuill and Ecclesiasticall Lawes: Men of good life and fame, zealously affected in Religion, and just and vpriight in executing their offices? Haue they heard any matter of Office priuately in their Chambers, without their sworne Registers, or their Deputies presence?

4. Doe you know, or haue you heard, that any Ecclesiasticall Judge, Officer, or Minister, hath receiued or taken any extraordinarie fees, or other rewards or promises, by any wayes or meanes, directly or indiretly, of any person or persons whatsoever, either for the granting of the administration of the Goods and Chattels of those that haue died in testate, to one before another, or for allotting of larger portions of the Goods and Chattels of those that haue died intestate, to one more than to another: or for allowing larger and vnreasonable accounts, made by Executors or administrators: or for giving them Quietus est, or discharges, without Inventory or account, to defraude Creditors, Legataries, or those who are to haue portions. And what summes of money doe you know, or haue you heard, that any Ecclesiasticall Judge or Officer hath taken out of the state of any dying intestate, upon pretence to bestow the same, in Pios vsus: and how haue the same been bestowed?

* known to you to be. Added in 1633.

* Februarie, 1634. † February, 1632. In 1634.
† they she. 1634. † March, 1637. In 1638.

† The following article is added in 1633:—
25. Whether haue any in your Parish erected any Seats in the open or common Allies of the Church; in or without the authority of your Ordinary, or in any undecent place of the Church or Chancell, and what Seats be there in your Church or Chancell, of unusual height, viz. above four foot: and who sit in the same?

5. Hath any Ecclesiastical Magistrate, Judge, Officer, or any other exercising Ecclesiastical Jurisdiction within this your Diocese: Or any Advocate, Register, Procter, Clarkes, Apparators, or other Minister belonging to the same Ecclesiastical Courts, exacted or taken by any wayes or means, directly or indirectly, Extraordinaire or greater fees than are due and accustomed? And whether is there a Table for the rates of all Fees, set vp in their seuerall Courts, and Offices? And whether they haue sent or suffered any Prozesse to go out of the Ecclesiastical Courts otherwise than by law they ought? Or haue they taken vpon them the Offices of Informers or Promoters to the said Courts, or in any other way abused themselves in their Offices, contrarie to the Law and Canons in that behalfe prouided?

6. What number of Apparators haue euery seuerall Judge Ecclesiastical? And wherein, and in what manner is the Countrey overburthened by them? And wherein haue they caused or summoned any to appeare in the said Courts, without a presentment or Citation first had? Or whether haue they threatned any to prosecute them in the said Courts if they would not giue them some rewards, and what bribes in that behalfe haue they taken?

7. What reward or fees hath any of the Apparators taken, to saue the iournies to the Ecclesiastical Court,* of any persons, and what (after composition so made) haue they or any of them taken and receiued, and what acquittance or discharge haue they giuen or promised them, and whether haue they not cited some to appeare before the Arch-Deacon, or his Officiall, after they haue bene ordered by the Commissary, and done their pennace accordingly, and whom haue they so cited and troubled, and what hath it cost them, as you know or haue heard, or by inquiry can finde?†

8. If you know of any other default or crime of Ecclesiastical Conusance, you are to present the same by vertue of your Oathes.

The Minister of euery Parish, may and ought to ioyne in presentment with the Church-wardens and Sidemen, and if they will not present, the Minister may and ought himselfe to present the defaults and crimes aforesaid: and there must be seuerall presentments made to euery seuerall Article: and the Minister, Church-wardens, and Swornemen, are to meet and conferre about the said presentments, and answering of euery of the aforesaid Articles?

FINIS.

WILLIAMS, BISHOP OF LINCOLN, 1635.

ARTICLES to be enquired of within the Diocese of Lincoln, in the general, and triennial Visitation of the right Reverend Father in God, John, by God's providence Lord Bishop of Lincoln, to be held in the yeare of our Lord God 1635.

Printed by the Printers to the Vniuersitie of Cambridge, 1635.

[Collated with Williams' Articles of 1641.]

Concerning the Church, the ornaments thereof, and the Churches possessions.

Inprimis, whether haue you in your seuerall Churches, and Chappels, the whole Bible of the largest volume, and the book of common Prayer, both fairly and substantially bound, the book of Homilies, Brasmas paraphrase, and Bishop Jewels works,‡ a Font of stone, set up in the ancient usuall place, a convenient and decent Communion table, with a carpet of silk, or some other decent stufte, continually laid upon the same at time of diuine service, and a fair linen cloth thereon at the time of the receiving of the holy Communion? And whether is the same Table placed in such convenient sort within the Chancell or Church, as that the Minister may be best heard in his prayer and administration, and that the greatest number may communicate? And whether is it so used out of time of diuine service, as is not agreeable to the holy use of it; as by sitting on it, throwing hats on it, writing on it, or is it abused to other profaner uses?|| and are the ten Commandments set upon the east end of your Church or Chappel where the people may best see and reade them, and other sentences of holy Scripture written on the walls likewise for that purpose?

2. Item, whether are the afternoon sermons in your seuerall parishes turned into catechizing, by question and answer, and exposition of the same Catechisme, and the heads thereof, and according to the form prescribed in the book of common Prayer, and otherwise, and whether doth every Lecturer reade diuine service according to the Liturgie printed by authoritie, in his surplice and hood before the lecture? And whether are his Majesties instructions in all things duly observed?*

3. Item, whether haue you in your said Church or Chappell, a convenient seat for your Minister to reade service in, together with a comely pulpet set up in a convenient place, with a decent cloth or cushion for the same, a comely large surplice, a fair communion cup, with a cover of silver, a flagon of silver, tinne, or pewter, to put the wine in, whereby it may be set upon the Communion table, at the time of the blessing thereof, with all other things and ornaments necessary for the celebration of diuine service, and administration of the sacraments? And whether haue you a strong chest for almes for the poore, with three locks and keyes, and another chest for keeping the books and ornaments of the church, and the Register book? And whether haue you a Register book in parchment for christnings, weddings, and burials, and whether the same be kept in all points, according to the Canons in that behalfe prouided? And is the mother's christian name therein registered as well as the fathers, and a transcript thereof brought in yearly within one moneth after the 25 of March into the Lord bishop of the diocese his principall Registry? And whether haue you in your said church or chancell, a table of the degrees wherein by law men are prohibited to marry?†

4.‡ Whether are your church and chappels, with the chancels thereof, and your parsonage or vicarage house, your parish almshouse and church-house, in good reparations: and are they employed to godly, and their right holy uses? Is your church, chancell, and chappel decently and comely kept, aswell within as without, and the seats well maintained, according to the 85. Canon, in that behalfe prouided? Or haue any patrons or others decayed the parsonage-houses, and keep a stipendiarie priest, or curate, in place where an incumbent should be possessed? Whether is your churchyard well fenced with walls, rails, or pales, and by whom? and if not, in whose default the same is, and what the defect or fault is? and whether any person haue encroached upon the ground of the church-yard, or whether any person or persons haue used any thing or place consecrated to holy use, profanely or wickedly? And of what value is the vicarage yearly of, is it of 100 marks yearly, and if not, what value is the impropriation of, and who is the owner and farmer of the same?

5. Is your church or chappel decently paved, and is your church-yard well and orderly kept without abuse? Are the bones of the dead decently interred, or laid up in some fit place as becometh Christians? And is the whole consecrated ground kept free from swine and all other nastinesse, as becometh the place so dedicated?§

6.|| Whether haue any ancient monuments or glasse-windows been defaced, or any brasse inscriptions, lead, stones, or any thing else belonging to your church or chappel been at any time purloyned, and by whom?

7.|| Whether haue you the terrier of all the gleab lands, meadows, gardens, orchyards, houses, stocks, implements, tenements, and portions of tithes (whether within your parish or without) belonging unto your parsonage or vicarage, taken by the view of honest men in your said parish? And whether the same terrier be laid up in the Bishops registrie, & in whose hands any of them are now? And if you haue no terrier already made in parchment, you the churchwardens and sidemen, together with your parson, or vicar, or in his absence with your minister, are to make diligent inquirie and presentment of the premises, and make, subscribe, and signe the said terrier, as aforesaid.

8.|| Whether haue you a book of Canons of 1603, and doth your minister reade them publickly once every yeare?

9.|| Whether haue any built or encroached vpon any part of the church-yard, without sufficient authoritie from the Ordinarie?

10.|| Whether hath any person or persons made or set any tumbrils, or other things in your church-yard, to fodder cattell in?

11.|| Whether is the grasse in your church-yard, or any part thereof eaten by swine, or other noisome cattell? and to what use doth your minister, or other person to whom the churchyard belongeth, employ the same? And whether haue you seen any swine or other cattells in your church-yard since you were churchwardens? and whose swine or cattell, and what kinde of cattell were they?

12.|| Whether is your churchyard annoyed or profaned by

* the Ecclesiastical Court] Canterbury. 1634.

† and whether haue they—can finde]. Omitted in 1638.

‡ and ought to]. Omitted in 1638.

§ Erasmus—works]. Omitted, 1641.

|| And whether is it so used—profaner uses]. Omitted, 1641, and the following sentence substituted:—Doth your said Communion table stand in the ancient place where it ought to doe, or where it hath done for the greatest part of these sixty years last past, or hath it been removed to the East end, and placed Altar-wise, and by whom, and whose authority hath it been so placed

* And whether doth every lecturer—duly observed] Omitted, 1641, and the following passage substituted:—And whether doth every Vicar, Parson, and Curate read Diuine service according to the Liturgie printed by authoritie?

† and whether the same be kept—prohibited to marry] Omitted, 1641, and these words only inserted after "burials":—according to the former custome and practise?

‡ Article 4 omitted, 1641.

§ for praying, preaching, and the service of God. Added in 1641.

|| Articles 6—12 omitted in 1641.

hanging of clothes, or bleaching of cloth, or laying of rubbish, dung, or dirt therein, or the like? And whether is there any other use or uses made thereof, then the buriall of the dead? and what use and uses?

Concerning the Clergie.

Whether doth your parson, vicar, or curate distinctly and reverently say divine service upon sundayes and holidayes, and other dayes appointed to be observed by the book of common prayer; as wednesdayes, and fridayes, and the eves of every sunday and holiday at fit and usuall times? And doth he duely observe the orders, rites, and ceremonies prescribed in the said book of common prayer, as well in reading publick prayers and the Letanie, as also in administering the Sacraments, solemnization of matrimonie, visiting the sick, burying the dead, churching of women, and all other rites and offices of the Church, in such manner and form, as in the said book of common prayer he is enjoyned, without any omission or addition? And doth he reade the booke of the last Canons yearely, and wear a surplesse according to the said Canons?*

2. † Whether have you any lecturer in your parish, who hath preached in his cloak, and not in his gown; and whether have you any lecturer who will not professe his willingness and readinesse to take upon him a living or benefice, with cure of souls, or who hath refused a benefice when it hath been offered unto him?

3. Doth your minister bid holidayes and fastingdayes, as by the book of common prayer is appointed? And doth he give warning before-hand to the parishioners for the receiving of the holy Communion, as the 22 Canon requireth? and whether doth he administer the holy Communion reverently as becometh so high a mysterie, and so often, and at such times, as that every parishioner may receive the same at the least thrice in every yeare, whereof once at Easter, as by the book of common prayer is appointed? And doth your minister use the words of institution according to the book, at every time that the bread and wine is renewed, according as by the proviso of the 21 Canon is directed?‡ And doth he deliver the bread and wine to every communicant severally, and kneeling? Whether hath he admitted to the holy Communion any declared notorious offender or schismatick, contrary to the 26 & 27 constitutions; or received any to the Communion, being not of his own cure; or put any from the Communion, who are not declared publickly infamous for any notorious crime in some court Ecclesiasticall?§ Doth he use the signe of the Crosse in Baptisme, or baptize in any bason or other vessell, and not in the usuall font; or admit any father to be godfather to his own childe, or such who have not received the holy communion; or baptize any children that were not born in the parish; or wilfully refuse to baptize any infant in his parish, being in danger, having been enformed of the weaknesse of the said childe; and whether the childe dieth through his default without baptisme?||

4. Whether hath your Minister married any without a Ring, or without Banes published three severall Sundayes or Holydayes, in time of divine service in the severall Churches or Chappels of their severall abode, according to the Book of Common-prayer, or in times prohibited, albeit the Banes were thrice published, without a license or dispensation from the Bishop of the diocesse or his Chancelour, or Commissary first obtained in that behalf? or not betwixt the houres of eight and twelve in the forenoon, or have married any in any private house, or if the parties be under the age of 21 yeares, before their parents or governours have signified their consent unto him?¶

5. Doth he refuse to bury any, which ought to be interred in Christian buriall, or deferre the same longer then he should; or bury any in Christian buriall, which by the constitutions of the Church of England, or Laws of the land, ought not to be so interred?

6.** Is your Minister a Preacher allowed? If yea, then

* And doth he reade—said Canons] Omitted, 1641.

† Article 2 omitted, 1641.

‡ at every time—is directed] Omitted, 1641.

§ offender or schismatick—court Ecclesiasticall] The following passage is substituted in 1641:—offender, or put any from the Communion, who are not publickly known to be infamous for some notorious crime.

|| or baptize in any bason—without Baptisme] Omitted, 1641.

¶ or in times prohibited—consent unto him] Omitted, 1641.

** The following additional Article is inserted in 1641, before Art. 6:—Do you know of any Parson, Vicar, or Curate, that hath introduced any offensive Rites or Ceremonies into the Church, not established by the Laws of the Land; as namely, that make three courtesies towards the Communion-Table, that call the said Table an Altar, that enjoy the people at their coming into the Church to bow towards the East, or towards the Communion-Table, that call upon them to stand up at the Te Deum, Benedictus, Magnificat, the Gloria Patri, or at other times then at the Creed and the Gospel, that refuse to give the Communion to any that will not come up and receive it at the Rails, that never pray before their Sermons, but bid the people pray, or use any other new and voluntary Rite or Ceremonie not warranted by Law? You are to present them by vertue of your offices and places.

by whom? If not, whether doth he procure some, who are lawfully licensed, to preach monethly among you at least, and what doth he allow unto him?

7. Doth your Minister (being licensed) preach usually according to the Canons,* either in his own cure, or in some other church or chappel neare adjoyning where no Preacher is, and how often hath he been negligent in that behalf? Or whether doth he or his curate, upon every Sunday, when there is no Sermon, reade an homily, or some part thereof, according as he ought to do? or in case he be not licensed to preach, doth he take upon him to preach, or expound the Scriptures in his own cure or elsewhere? If so, then you are to present the same, the time and place, when and where he did it?†

8.‡ Doth your Minister use to pray for the Kings Majesty, King Charles, and for the Queens Majesty, Prince Charles, and all the royall Progeny, with addition of such style and titles as are due to his Highnesse; and exhort the people to obedience to his Majesty, and all Magistrates in authoritie under him? And doth he also pray for all Arch-Bishops, Bishops, and other ecclesiasticall persons?

9. Is your Minister continually resident upon his benefice, and how long time hath he been absent? and in case he be licensed to be absent, whether doth he cause his cure to be sufficiently supplied, according to the Canons?§ or in case he hath another benefice, whether doth he supply his absence by a curate sufficiently licensed to preach in that cure where he himself is not resident? Or otherwise in case the smalnesse of the living cannot finde a preaching Minister, doth he preach at both his benefices usually? And if he be most while absent, what order doth he take for hospitalitie, or relief of the poore? declare it particularly. And whether doth he give the fourtieth part of the profits of his benefice to the poore, during his absence, or how long hath he forborn to do so?¶

10. Doth your Minister or curate serve any more cures then one? If yea, what other cure doth he serve, and how farre are they distant?

11. Doth your Minister or curate every Sunday and holiday, before evening-prayer, for half an houre or more, examine and instruct the youth, and ignorant persons of his parish, in the ten Commandments, Articles of the belief, and in the Lords Prayer, and the Sacraments, according as it is prescribed in the catechisme set forth in the book of common-prayer onely?|| and doth he expound and shew forth the meaning and sense of the said catechisme? and if he do not, where is the fault, either in the parents and masters of the children, or in the curate neglecting his dutie? And is he carefull to tender all such youth of his parish, as have been well instructed in their catechisme, to be confirmed by the Bishop in his visitation, or at any other convenient time, as is appointed by the book aforesaid? And you are to warn the Ministers to prepare them against this present visitation.

12. ** Doth your Minister in the rogation-dayes, go in perambulation of the circuit of the parish, saying and using the prayers, suffrages, and thanksgiving to God, appointed by law, according to his dutie, thanking God for his blessings, if there be plenty on the earth; or otherwise, to pray for his grace and favour, if there be a fear of scarcitie?

13. ** Hath your Minister admitted any woman, begotten with childe in adulterie or fornication, to be churched without license of the Ordinary?

14. ** Hath your Minister, or any other preacher, baptized children, churched any woman, or ministred the holy communion in any private house, otherwise then by law is allowed?

15. Doth your Minister endeavour and labour diligently to reclaim the Popish recusants in his parish from their errors (if there be any such abiding in your parish?) Or whether is your parson, vicar, or curate, over-conversant with, or a favourer of recusants, whereby he is suspected not to be sincere in Religion?

16. Hath your Minister taken upon him to appoint any publick or private fasts, prophesies, or exercises, not approved by law, or publick authoritie? or hath he used to meet in any private house or place, with any person or persons, there to consult how to impeach or deprave the book of common prayer, or the doctrine or discipline of the church of England? If yea, then you shall present them all.

17. †† Hath your Minister staid the publication of any

* according to the Canons] Omitted, 1641.

† Or whether doth he—he did it] Omitted, 1641.

‡ Article 8 omitted, 1641.

§ according to the Canons] with a preaching Minister. Substituted,

1641.

|| or how long hath he forborn to do so] or what provision doth he make otherwise for them? 1641.

¶ onely] Omitted, 1641.

** Articles 12—14 omitted, 1641.

†† Articles 17—21 omitted, 1641.

excommunications, or suspensions, or doth he every half yeare denounce in his parish-church, all such of his parish, as are excommunicated and persevere therein, without seeking to be absolved? or doth he wittingly and willingly keep company with such as are excommunicate? And hath he admitted into your church any person excommunicate, without a certificate of his absolution from the Ordinarie, or other competent judge?

18. Doth your Minister carefully look to the relief of the poore, and from time to time call upon his parishioners, to give somewhat as they can spare to godly and charitable uses, and particularly to the mother and cathedrall church of Lincoln, especially when they make their Testaments?

19. Whether your Minister, or any having taken holy orders, being now silenced or suspended, or any other person of your knowledge, or as you have heard, hold any conventicles, or doth preach in any place, or use any other form of divine service, then is appointed in the book of Common-prayer. If yea, then you are to present their names, and with whom.

20. Whether is your curate licensed to serve, by the Bishop of the diocese, or by any other, and by whom?

21. Doth your Minister use such decencie and comelienesse in his apparell, as by the 47 Canon is enjoyned? is he of sober behaviour, and one that doth not use such mechanicall or servile labour, as is not seemly for his function and calling?

22. Is your Minister noted or defamed to have obtained his benefice or his orders by simony, or any other way defamed to be a simoniack person, or any way noted to be a schismatick, or schismatically affected, or reputed to be an incontinent person, or doth he table or lodge any such in his house? or is he a frequenter of taverns, innes, or ale-houses, or any place suspected for ill rule? or is he a common drunkard, a common gamester, or player at dice, a swearer, or one that applies himself not to his study, or is otherwise offensive and scandalous to his function and ministry? especially is he one that useth uncharitably to curse, scandall and revile his own parishioners, in his heats and choler?*

23. † Doth your preacher or lecturer reade divine service, before his sermon or lecture, and minister the Sacraments twice a yeare at least in his own person, according to the Canons?

24. When any person hath been dangerously sick in your parish, hath he ‡ neglected to visit him? and when any have been parting out of this life, hath he omitted to do his last dutie in that behalf, being sent for and desired?

25. Doth your minister, curate, or lecturer in his or their sermons deliver such doctrine as tends to obedience, and the edifying of their auditorie in faith, religion, and good life, without intermeddling with particular matters of State, not fit to be handled in the pulpit, but to be discussed by the wisdom of his Majestie, and his Council? And if you finde any faultie herein, you shall present them. Or doth he spend most of the houre in points of controversie, and new start-up questions § debarred by ¶ authoritie from the pulpit?

26. Whether doth your Minister misbehave himself in preaching or praying, so that the congregation are offended thereat? and whether doth he teach publickly opposite doctrine against any other minister, or any other minister against him? ¶ or doth he make any personall invectives in the pulpit, to the offence of particular men, and the scandall of the parish? Declare the points as neare as you can. And whether doth your minister observe the late orders and articles appointed by the Kings Majesty? **

27. †† Whether do you know, or have heard of any married in your Church at the times prohibited, or not being thrice asked in the church, or without a lawfull license, or in an unlawfull place, or houre, that is, not between eight and twelve of the clock in the forenoon; or where the parties or one of them under one and twentie yeares of age, had not the consent of their parents? And who were those parties?

* If yea, then present it. Added, 1641.

† Article 23 omitted, 1641, and the two following additional Articles inserted:—

14. Do you know any Minister that doth perform, or any other person that doth hear Divine service otherwise performed then as it is now appointed by the Acts of Parliament of this Realm. And do you know of any that hath or doth disturb that wholsom Order so appointed by the Law to be observed in Divine service? If you do, you must present their names.

15. Do you know of any persons that deny Archbishops, Bishops, Priests, and Deacons, consecrated according to the Order prescribed by the Statute, to be rightly, orderly and lawfully consecrated and ordered? If you do, you are to present their names.

‡ he] your Minister. 1641.

§ questions] of Arminianisme. Added, 1641.

¶ by] the Kings. Added, 1641.

¶ against any other—against him] against the Articles and Homilies prescribed by Law in the Church of England? Doth he preach and maintain, or palliate with distinctions and limitations, any points of Poperie? Declare the points as neare as you can. Substituted, 1641.

** Declare—Majesty] Omitted, 1641.

†† Articles 27, 28, omitted, 1641.

The time prohibited is from the saturday next before Advent-sunday, untill the 14 of Januarie; and from the saturday next before Septuagesima sunday, untill the Munday next after Lowsunday; and from the sunday before Rogation week, untill Trinitie sunday.

28. Whether doth your minister use canonically, modest, and decent apparell according to his abilitie, and that without curiositie or newfanglednesse? and doth he wear in his journeyes a cloak with sleeves, commonly called a priests cloak, without gards, long buttons, or cuts, according to the Canon?

29. Whether hath the form of commination against impenitent sinners, been read in your church to the people, according to the book of common prayer?

Concerning Schoolmasters.

Doth any in your parish openly or privately take upon him to teach school without license of the Ordinarie; and is he conformable to the religion now established? And doth he bring his scholars to the church to hear divine service and sermons? And doth he instruct his scholars in the grounds of the religion now established in this Church of England? and is he carefull and diligent to benefit his scholars in learning?

2. Doth your schoolmaster teach and instruct his youth* in any other Grammar, Accidence, or any other Catechisme then is allowed by publick authoritie? and what Grammar, Accidence, or Catechisme is it that he so teacheth?

3†. Is any living or means given towards the erection or maintenance of any school, withholden back, or otherwise employed, and by whom?

4‡. Doth any keep school in the chancell or church, by which means that holy place and the communion table are many wayes profaned, and the windows broken?

5‡. Doth your schoolmaster teach his scholars to carrie themselves awfully and reverently in the church, not passing at any time through, or continuing in the same, with their hats on, nor playing at any time in that holy place? And doth he teach them all reverence towards their betters, their parents, their elders, and especially towards all in holy Orders? And if he do not, present the same without fail.

Parish Clerks and Sextons.

1. Have you a fit parish-clerk, aged twentie yeares at the least, of honest conversation, able to reade and write? Whether are his and the sextons wages paid without fraud, according to the ancient custome of your parish? if not, then by whom are they so defrauded or denied? by whom are they chosen? and whether is the said clerk approved by the Ordinarie? and hath he taken an oath, as in such cases is fit and required? Is he diligent in his office, and serviceable to the minister, and doth he take upon him to meddle with any thing above his office, as churching of women, burying the dead, or such like? †

2. Doth your clerk or sexton keep the church clean, the doores locked at fit times? Is any thing lost or spoiled in the church through his default? Are the communion table, font, books, and other ornaments of the church kept fair and clean? doth he suffer any unseasonable ringing, or any profane exercise in your church? or doth he (when any is passing out of this life) neglect to toll a bell, having notice thereof? ††

Concerning the Parishioners.

1. Whether do any of your parishioners being sixteen yeares of age or upwards, or others lodging or commonly resorting to any house within your parish; wilfully absent themselves from your parish church, upon sundayes and holydayes, at morning and evening prayers; or who come late to church, and depart from church before service be done upon the said dayes; or who do not reverently behave themselves both in their entrance into the church and ¶ during the time of divine service, devoutly kneeling when the generall confession of sinnes, the letanie, the ten commandments, and all prayers and collects are read, and using all due and lowly reverence (if they be not upon their knees at that time) when the blessed name of the Lord Jesus Christ is mentioned, and standing up when the articles of the belief are read; or who do cover their heads in the church during the time of divine service, unlesse it be in case of necessitie, in which case they may wear a night-cap or coif; or who do give themselves to babbling, talking, or walking, and are not attentive to heare the word

* in the Catechisme or grounds of Religion? And doth he instruct them. Added, 1641.

† Articles 3-5, omitted, 1641.

‡ by whom are they chosen—such like] Omitted, 1641.

§ weak and assured him to be. Added, 1641.

¶ having notice thereof] to give notice thereof to all devout Christians. Substituted, 1641.

‡ both in—and] Omitted, 1641.

preached or read? *whether any of your parish, being of sixteen yeares of age or upwards, do not receive the holy communion in your church thrice every yeare, whereof once at Easter: and whether do not they devoutly kneel at the receiving thereof?† And whether any having divers houses of remove, do shift from place to place on purpose to defeat the performance of their Christian duties in that behalf.‡

2. Whether any of your parishioners, being admonished thereof, do not send their children, servants and apprentices, to the minister, to be catechised upon such sundayes and holidayes as are appointed; or whether any of them do refuse to come; or if they come, refuse to learn those instructions set forth in the book of common prayer, together with the sense and meaning of the same, as they are expounded by the minister?

3. Whether any of your parish do entertain within their house any sojourner, common guests, or other persons, who refuse to frequent divine service, or receive the holy communion, as aforesaid: present their names, their qualities, and conditions.

4. What recusant Papists are there in your parish, or other sectaries?§ present their names, qualities, or conditions. Whether keep they any schoolmaster in their house which cometh not to church to heare divine service and receive the communion? what is his name, and how long hath he taught there, or elsewhere?¶

5. Whether do any of the said popish recusants, or other schismatics labour to seduce and withdraw others from the religion now established; or instruct their families or children in popish religion; or refuse to entertain any, especially in place of greatest service, or trust, but such as concur with them in their opinions?

6. How long have the said popish recusants abstained from divine service, or from the communion as aforesaid?

7. Is there any in your parish that retain, sell, utter, or disperse any popish books, or writings, or other books, libraries, or writings of any sectaries, touching the religion, state, or government Ecclesiasticall of this kingdome of England, or keep any monuments of superstition uncanceled or undefaced?

8. Whether have you any in your parish, which heretofore being popish recusants or sectaries, have since reformed themselves, and come to church to heare divine service, and receive the sacraments? If yea, then who are they? and how long since have they so reformed themselves? and whether remain they still and abide in that conformitie?

9. Is there any in your parish that refuse to have their children baptized, or themselves to receive the communion at the hands of your minister, taking exception against him, and what causes or exceptions do they alledge? or have any married wives refused to come to church according to the book of common prayer, to give God thanks after their childe-birth, for their safe deliverance? and whether do they come to this thanksgiving with a veil, or in the grave and ancient habit heretofore used?¶ And whether do any of, or in your parish, refuse to have their children baptized in your parish church, according to the form prescribed in the book of common prayer?

10.¶ Do any of your parish usually go to other parish churches to heare divine service or sermons? or do they communicate, or baptize their children in any other parish?

11. Whether be there any in your parish who will come to heare the sermon, but will not come to publike prayers appointed by the book of common prayer, making a schisme or division (as it were) between the use of publike prayer and preaching?

12. What persons within your parish, for any offence, contumacie, or crime of Ecclesiasticall cognisance, do stand excommunicate? present their names, and for what cause they are excommunicated, and how long they have so stood, and what person or persons do wittingly and usually keep them companie?

13. Whether any not being in orders do execute any priestly or ministeriall office, in your church, chappell, or church-yard, and what be their names? and what licenses have they so to do, and from whom?

14. ** Whether any in your parish, that have heretofore taken upon him the order of priesthood or deacon, hath since relinquished the same, and lives as a lay-man neglecting his vocation?

15. Hath any person in your parish quarrelled, or stricken, or used any violence to your Minister, or stricken or quarrelled with any other person within your church or church-yard, or demeaned himself disorderly in the church, by filthy or profane talk, or any other base or immodest behaviour, or disturbed the Minister in time of divine Service or Sermon, or libelled, or spoken slanderous words against your Minister, to the scandall of his vocation, or defamed any of his neighbours, touching any crime of Ecclesiasticall cognisance?

16. * Whether any of, or in your parish, without consent of the Ordinarie, or other lawfull authoritie, have caused any to do penance, or to be censured or punished for any matter of Ecclesiasticall cognisance, by any Vestry-meetings, or otherwise by their own authoritie; or have taken any money, or commutation for the same. Present their names that have done it. And who have been so punished? In what manner, and upon what cause?

17. Whether any person in your parish do exercise any trade or labour, buy or sell, or keep open shops or ware-houses upon any Sunday or Holiday, by themselves, their servants, or apprentices, or have otherwise profaned the said dayes, contrary to the orders of the Church of England. And whether there be any Inne-keepers, Alehouse-keepers, Victuallers or other persons, that permit any persons in their houses to eat, drink, or play, during the time of divine Service or Sermon, or reading the homilies in the forenoon or afternoon upon those dayes.

18. Whether the fifth day of November be kept holy, and thanksgiving made to God, for his Majesties and this states happy deliverance, according to the ordinance in that behalf.

19. Whether any of your parish † hold or frequent any conventicles, or private congregations, or make or maintain any constitutions, agreed upon in any such assemblies; or any that do write, or publikely, or privately speak against the book of Common-prayer, or any thing therein contained, or against any of the Articles of Religion agreed upon, in Anno 1562. or against the Kings supremacie in causes ecclesiasticall, or against the oath of supremacie, or of allegiance, as pretending the same to be unlawfull, and not warrantable by the word of God; or against any of the rites and ceremonies of the Church of England, now established; or against the government of the Church of England, under the Kings most Excellent Majestie, by Arch-bishops, Bishops, Deans, Arch-deacons, and other officers of the same:‡ affirming, that the same is repugnant to the word of God, and that the said Ecclesiasticall officers are not lawfully ordained. Or whether there be any Authours, Maintainers, or Favourers of heresie or schisme, or that be suspected to be Anabaptists, Libertines, Brownists, or of the family of Love, or of any other heresie or schisme: present their names.

20.‡ Whether any of your parish have married within the degrees by law prohibited, and where and by whom; and whether any couple in your parish being lawfully married, live apart one from the other, without due separation by the law; or any that have been divorced, which keep company with any other at bed or at board.

21.§ Whether do any persons administer the goods of the dead without lawfull authoritie, or suppress the last will of the dead? or are there in your parish any wills not yet proved, or goods of the dead (dying intestate) left unadministred? by authority in that behalf, you shall not fail to present the executors, and all others faultie therein.

22. Whether any withhold the stock of the church, or any goods or things given to good and charitable uses.

23. Whether your hospitals, almes-houses, and other such houses and corporations, founded to good and charitable uses, and the lands, possessions, and goods of the same, be ordered and disposed of as they should be. And do the masters, governours, fellows, and others of the said houses and corporations, behave and demean themselves, according to the godly ordinances and statutes of their severall foundations?

24.¶ Whether have you any in your parish to your knowledge or by common fame or report, which have committed adultery, fornication, or incest; or any which have impudently bragged or boasted, that he or she have lived incontinently with any person or persons whatsoever; or any that have attempted the chastitie of any woman, or solicited any woman, to have the carnall knowledge of her body; or which are commonly reputed to be

* and using all due—preached or read] Omitted, 1641.

† as by Law they are bound. Added, 1641.

‡ And whether—behalf] Omitted, 1641.

§ or other sectaries] Omitted, 1641.

¶ And whether do they come—heretofore used] Omitted, 1641.

** Articles 10—12 omitted, 1641, and the following additional Article inserted:—

10. Are all the steps raised up in the Chancel towards the Altar (as they call it) within these fifteen yeeres last past levelled? or whose fault is it they are not so? Are all Crucifixes and scandalous Pictures of any the Persons of the Trinity abolished in your Churches? Are the Images of the Virgin Marie introduced within these twenty yeeres likewise abolished or not? You are herein to declare the truth.

** Article 14 omitted, 1641.

* Article 16 omitted, 1641.

† (otherwise than fathers and mothers in their own families). Added, 1641.

‡ by Arch-bishops—the same] by Bishops. Substituted, 1641.

§ Articles 20, 21, omitted, 1641.

¶ Articles 24—29 omitted, 1641.

common drunkards, blasphemers of Gods holy name, common swearers, common slanderers of their neighbours, and sowers of discord, filthy and lascivious talkers, usurers, simoniack persons, bawds, or harbourers of women with child, which be unmarried, or conveying, or suffering them to go away before they have made satisfaction to the church; or any that having heretofore been presented, or suspected of any the aforesaid crimes, have for that cause departed your parish, & are now returned again; or any which have used any enchantments, sorceries, incantations and witchcrafts, which are not made felony by the statutes of this realm; or any which have committed any perjury in any ecclesiastical court, in an ecclesiastical cause, or which have committed any forgery, punishable by the ecclesiastical laws, and the procurers and abettors of the said offences? You shall truly present the names of all and singular the said offenders, and with whom they have committed the said offences, in case they have not been publickly punished to your knowledge for the same crimes.

25. Whether have you any common resorters to your church being not of your parish? or do any such receive the communion with you?

26. Whether do any in your parish wittingly converse with excommunicate persons? what excommunicate persons have been buried in your church or churchyard?

27. Whether do any of your parishioners accustome to go to other churches, and leave their own?

28. Whether be your Parishioners conveniently placed and seated in your church? and whether do any contend touching their places? and do any servants or youth prevent the householders of their seats?

29. If you have any chappels of ease in your parish, whether do the inhabitants resort once a yeare at the least to the parish church, to receive the communion?

30. Whether have any inkeepers, alewives, victuallers, or tipplers, received, harboured, or suffered any person to eat, drink, stay, or play in their houses in time of common prayer, sermon, or homily, on sundayes or holidayes? And what persons were so received, harboured, or suffered? and have they sold forth any drink or victuals at the like time? and have any of your parish loytered, or been gaming abroad at the same time?

31. Whether have any laboured, wrought, or gone to cart on the sunday or holiday? and have any artificers, shoemakers, chandlers, mercers, butchers, and the like, set open their shop-windows or doores, or used their trade, or any manuell occupation upon any of those dayes, or sold any wares or goods belonging to their trade, in the time of prayer, sermon, or homilie, upon any sunday or holiday? and who were the same that did so?

32.* Whether have you in your parish any water-mills, winde-mills, fulling mills, or other mills which have been suffered to grinde or go upon the sabbath-day in prayer time, or any other time or part of the day? and by whose sufferance do they so grinde or go?

Physicians, Chirurgeons, and Midwives.

How many physicians, chirurgeons, and midwives have you in your parish? how long have they used their severall sciences or offices, and by what authority? and how have they demeaned themselves therein? and of what skill are they accounted to be in their profession?

Touching the Churchwardens and Sidemen.

Whether you, and the churchwardens, questmen, or sidemen, from time to time do and have done their diligence, in not suffering any idle person to abide either in the churchyard or churchporch in service or sermon time, but causing them either to come into the church to heare divine service, or to depart, and not disturb such as be hearers there. And whether they have, and you do diligently see the parishioners duely resort to the church every sunday and holiday, and there to remain during divine service and sermon. And whether you or your predecessors, churchwardens there, suffer any playes, feasts, drinkings, or any other profane usages, to be kept in your church, chappel, or churchyards; or have suffered to your and their uttermost power and endeavour, any person or persons to be tipping or drinking in any inne or victualling house in your parish, during the time of divine service or sermon on sundayes and holidayes.

2.† Whether, and how often have you admitted any to preach within your church or chappel, which was not sufficiently licensed? and whether you together with your minister, have not taken diligent heed and care, that every parishioner being of sixteen yeares of age or upwards, have received thrice every yeare, as aforesaid; and also that no stranger have usually come to your church from their own parish church.

3. Whether hath there been provided against every communion, a sufficient quantitie of fine white bread, and of good and wholesome wine, for the communicants that shall receive? And whether that wine be brought in a clean and sweet standing pot of pewter, or of other purer metall.

4. Whether were you chosen, by the consent of the minister and the parishioners? And have the late churchwardens given up a just account for their time, and delivered to their successors by bill indented the money, and other things belonging to the church, which was in their hands? And are the almes of the church faithfully distributed to the use of the poore?

5. Whether do you see the names of all preachers which are strangers and preach in your parish churches, to be noted in a book for that purpose; and whether doth every preacher subscribe his name, and of whom he had his license?

6. Whether any man do trouble or molest you for doing your duties; or are any of the ecclesiastical judges or their surrogates over easie to receive frivolous complaints against you for doing your duties, and to hold you in long and tedious suits concerning the same? If so, you must present, and by what judge, surrogate, proctour, or apparitour you have been so* troubled.

7. Whether be there any legacies withholden given to the church or poore people, or to the mending of highwayes, or otherwise by the Testatours? In whose hands is it, by whom was it given, and by whom is it withholden?

8.† Do you know of any thing that hath been complained of that is not yet redressed?

9.† Whether do the churchwardens about the midst of divine service, usually walk forth, and make search for such as are then abroad in the streets, or in taverns, or alehouses, suspected to harbour idle companie?

Concerning Ecclesiasticall Magistrates and Officers.

Whether do you know or have heard of any payment, composition or agreement, to or with any ecclesiastical magistrate, judge or officer, for winking at or sparing to punish any person for any offence of ecclesiastical cognisance, or for suppressing or concealing of any excommunication or any other ecclesiastical censure, or against any recusant, or any other offender in the cases aforesaid? What summe of money or other consideration hath been received or promised, by, or to any of them, in that respect, by whom, and with whom?

2. Hath any person within your parish, paid or promised any summe of money or other reward either of late, or heretofore for commutation of penance, for any crime of ecclesiastical cognisance? if so, then with whom, when, and for what summe of money? and how hath the same been employed? you are to present these particularly.

3. Are your ecclesiastical judges and their substitutes Batchellours of the laws, or masters of arts at the least, learned and practised in the civile and ecclesiastical laws, men of good life and fame, zealously affected in religion, and just, upright, and diligent in executing their offices? Have they heard any matter of office privately in their chambers, without their sworn registers, or their deputies presence?

4. Do you know or have you heard, that any ecclesiastical judge, officer, or minister hath received or taken any extraordinarie fees or other rewards or promises, by any wayes or means, directly or indirectly, of any person or persons whatsoever, either for the granting of the administration of the goods and chattels of those that have died intestate, to one before another, or for allotting of larger portions of the goods and chattels of those that have died intestate, to one more then to another; or for allowing larger and unreasonable accounts, made by executors or administrators; or for giving them Quietus est, or discharges, without inventory or account, to defraud creditors, legataries, or those who are to have portions? And what summes of money do you know, or have you heard, that any ecclesiastical judge or officer hath taken out of the state of any dying intestate, upon pretence to bestow the same in pious uses either of late or heretofore, and how have the same been bestowed?

5. Hath any ecclesiastical magistrate, judge, officer, or any other exercising ecclesiastical jurisdiction within this diocese, or any advocate, register, proctour, clerks, apparitours, or other ministers belonging to the same ecclesiastical courts, exacted or taken by any wayes or means, directly or indirectly, extraordinary or greater fees then are due and accustomed? And whether is there a table for the rates of all fees set up in their severall courts and offices?

* Article 32 omitted 1641.
† their] your. 1641.
‡ Articles 2-5 omitted, 1641.

* so] Omitted, 1641.
† Articles 8, 9, omitted, 1641.

And whether have they sent, or suffered any processe to go out of the ecclesiasticall courts, otherwise then by law they ought; or have they taken upon them the offices of informers or promoters to the said courts, or any other way abused themselves in their offices, contrary to the Law and Canons in that behalf provided?*

6.† What number of apparitours hath every severall judge ecclesiasticall? and wherein, and in what manner is the cuntry overburdened by them? and wherein have they caused or summoned any to appear in the said courts, without a presentment or citation first had? or whether have they threatned any to prosecute them in the said courts, if they would not give them some rewards, and what bribes in that behalf have they taken? and whether are they drunkards and debauched people, and such as have scandalized the jurisdiction ecclesiasticall?

7.‡ If you know of any other default or crime of ecclesiasticall cognisance, you are to present the same by vertue of your oathes. The Minister of every parish may and ought to joyn in presentment with the church-wardens and side-men; and if they will not present, the Minister may and ought himself present the faults and crimes aforesaid: and there must be severall presentments, made to every severall article: and the Minister, church-wardens and side-men, are to meet and conferre about the said presentments, and answering of every of the aforesaid articles.

8. Whether hath any ecclesiasticall judge or his surrogates, without the allowance of the Bishop, lately taken upon them to set up any new consistories, or courts, and to keep courts of concurrence in peculiars, and others, and more places then heretofore hath been accustomed; and to call the people to those concurrent courts unduely without presentments, or other just cause, but onely to trouble the cuntry, and to get unjust fees to their own purses? And have they in those new concurrent courts cited the people into peculiars, and out of the jurisdiction, and for matters whereof they were dismissed by their ordinary judge before, so that they have been troubled in severall places for one and the same thing contrary to the law? And whether are the same late erected consistories to the grievance of the people, and by whom have the said new courts been lately set up, and by what authoritie, and where, and in what place? declare the same particularly.

Lastly,‡ the church-wardens are required specially and particularly to warn their parsons and vicars to set down in writing under their hands, and deliver it up to the Lord Bishops principall register upon the visitation day, what and how much the said parsons and vicars have contributed towards the repairs of the cathedrall church of S. Pauls in London, according to the directions in that behalf from his Majesty, and the Lords of the Councel; and who hath not been called upon, nor as yet contributed at all.

FINIS.

[The three following Orders of Parliament are added to the Articles of 1641.

Die Mercurii, 9 Sept. 1641.

Upon signification this day unto the House, by the Lord Bishop of Lincoln, that his Lordship was determined between this and the next meeting of Parliament to visit his Diocese in his own person,

It is ordered by the Lords in Parliament, That the said Lord Bishop of Lincoln shall in his said Visitation take order to put in practise two severall Orders of this House, the one dated the 16. of January 1640, and the other dated the first of March last past, and herunto annexed.

Die Sabbati, 16. Januarii, 1640.

It is this day ordered by the Lords Spirituall and Temporall in the high Court of Parliament assembled, That the Divine Service be performed as it is appointed by the Acts of Parliament of this Realm; And that all such as shall disturb that wholesome Order, shall be severely punished according to the Law; And the Parsons, Vicars, and Curates in the severall Parishes shall forbear to introduce any Rites or Ceremonies that may give offense, otherwise then those which are established by the Laws of the Land.

Die Lunæ, 1. Martii, 1640.

It is this day ordered by the Lords Spirituall and Temporall in the high Court of Parliament assembled, That every Lord Bishop in his severall Diocese shall give directions and take care that the Communion-table in every Church in his Diocese do stand decently in the ancient place where it ought to do by the Law, and as it hath done for the greater part of these threescore yeers last past.

FINIS.]

* offices, contrary—provided] places? You are by your office to present the same. Substituted, 1641.

† Articles 6, 7, omitted, 1641.

‡ This last Article omitted, 1641.

WREN, BISHOP OF NORWICH, 1636.

ARTICLES to be inquired of within the Dioces of Norwich: In the first Visitation of the R. Reverend Father in God, Matthew, Lord Bishop of Norwich.

Printed at London, by Richard Badger, 1636.

[From a copy among the Tanner MSS., having MS. references added in the margin to other Visitation Articles.

Collated with the Articles issued by Wren in 1662 as Bishop of Ely.]

The Tenour of the Oath to be Ministred to the Church-wardens; and any other of every Parish, that shall be sworn to make Presentments.

You shall swear, that you, and every one of you, shall and will duly consider, and diligently enquire of every one of these Articles here given you in charge, and of all the branches thereof, and make true answer to al particulars therein demanded; and that all affection, or favour, or hatred, or hope of reward and gaine, or feare of displeasure, or malice of any person, and all other pretences set aside, you shall and will present every such person of your Parish, or within it, as hath committed any offence or fault, or made any default mentioned in any of these Articles, or which is vehemently suspected, or otherwise defamed of any such offence, fault, or default; wherein you shall deale uprightly and fully according to the truth, neither presenting, nor sparing to present any contrary to the truth: Having in this action God before your eyes, with an earnest zeale to maintaine truth and vertue, and to suppress vice, and to discharge your owne consciences. So helpe you God, and the Holy Contents of this Booke.

God save the King.*

ARTICLES to be inquired of in the Dioces of Norwich, at the Visitation, holden in the yeere of our Lord, 1636.

Chap. 1.—Concerning Religion and Doctrine.

Are there any abiding in your Parish, or resorting to it, who have wilfully maintained any heresies, errorrs, or false opinions, contrary to the faith of Christ and holy Scripture? Or that do impugne† any of the 39 Articles of Religion, agreed upon in Anno 1562. and stablished in the Church of England? And is the declaration, which the Kings Maiesty‡ prefixed before those 39 Articles, concerning the settling of the questions late in difference, duly observed by all within your Parish, according to his Maiesties commandement?

2. Be there any in your Parish that have denied, or perswaded any other to deny, withstand, or impugne the Kings Maiesties authority, and supremacy, in causes Ecclesiasticall within this Realme? §

3. Is there in your Parish any that hath beene, or is vehemently suspected to have beene present at any unlawfull assemblies, conuenticles, or meetings, vnder colour or pretence of any exercise of Religion? Or doe any affirme and maintaine such meetings to be lawfull?

4. Be there any abiding, in, or resorting to your Parish, that are commonly reputed to be ill affected in matter of the religion professed in our Church, or taken to be Recusant Papists, or factious || separatists, refusing to repaire vnto the Church, to heare diuine Seruice, and to receiue the holy Communion? Or that haue or do publish, sell, or disperse, ¶ any superstitious, seditious, or schismaticall

* The following key to the M.S. marginal references is here substituted in the Tanner copy:—

Ric. London.	- R.L.	Jōes. London.	- J.L.
Ric. Cantuar.	- R.C.	Ric. Elien.	- R.E.
Lancel. Cicestr.	- L.C.	Tho. Lincoln.	- T.L.
Lanc. Eli.	- L.E.	Anton. Cicestr.	- A.C.
Georg. Cantuar.	- G.C.	Jacob. Winton.	- J.W.
Decan. Paul.	- D.P.	Tho. Winton.	- T.W.
Wm Cantuar.	- W.C.	Jōes. Norvic.	- J.N.
Robert White.	- R.W.	Matth. Cantuar.	- M.C.
Brian. Cicestr.	- B.C.	Edm. Cantuar.	- E.C.
Ric. Norvic.	- R.N.	Jōes. Cantuar.	- J.C.
Joh. Petriburg.	- J.P.

† who have wilfully—impugne] who (as far as you know, or have credibly heard from persons of deeper judgment) do at any time preach, teach, deliver, publish or maintain any heresie, or any erroneous and false opinion accounted to be contrary to the Faith of Christ, or any sentence, matter, or cause, which hath heretofore been determined, ordered or adjudged to be heresie by the authority of the Canonical Scriptures, or by the first four General Councils, or any of them, or by any other General Council, determining the same to be heresie by the express words of holy Scripture? Or are there any which do deny or impugn—1662.

‡ Kings Majesty] blessed Martyr King Charles the First. 1662.

§ The following article is added in Ely, 1662:—

3. Be there any in your Parish that have affirmed that the Form of consecrating Bishops, and making Priests and Deacons, as it is used in the Church of England, is not holy, right, true, and lawful? Or that the Government of this Church under the Kings Majesty by Archbishops, Bishops, Deans, Archdeacons, and other Ecclesiasticall Officers, is unlawful or Antichristian.

|| Papists or factions] whether Papists or other factions. 1662.

¶ or conveigh to others. Added, 1662.

J.C. 1581.
E.C. 1580.
M.C. 1587.
J.L. 1583.
R.E. 1570.
T.L. 1571.
R.L. 1605.
R.C. 1605.
L.C. 1606.
L.E. 1609.
G.C. 1616.
J.N. 1619.
D.P. 1632.
W.C. 1633.
R.W. 1635.
B.C. 1638.
R.N. 1638.
J.P. 1639.

R.L. 5. 3.
J.N. 1. 1.

R.L. 5. 1.
C. 4.
J.N. 1. 4.

A.C. 42. 44
R.L. 5. 7.
G.C. 3. 18.
J.W. 2. 29
J.N. 1. 3.

A.C. 8. 17.
R.L. 5. 36.
L.C. 11.

G.C. 3. 7.
J.N. 1. 5.
J.L. 5. 3.

Bookes, Labels, or Writings, touching the Religion, State, or Ecclesiasticall government of this Kingdome of England? Present their names, qualities and conditions, if you know or haue heard of any.

Chap. 2.—Concerning publike Prayer, and administration of the holy Sacraments, &c.

- A.C. 12. 1. Have any in your Parish spoken, or declared anything in derogation or deprauation of the forme of Gods worship, established in the Church of England, and the administration of the Sacraments, Rites * and Ceremonies set forth and prescribed in the booke of Common Prayer? Or do any preach, speak, and declare that the booke of Common Prayer containeth any thing that is repugnant to the holy Scripture, or not meet to be vsed? Or doe use any scornfull words against those godly Sermons, called, the Homilies of the Church?
- R.L. 5. 2. 4.
- J.N. 2. 1.
- A.C. 10. 2. Hath any in your Parish caused, procured or maintained any Minister, to say any common or publike prayer, or to administer the Sacrament of Baptisme, or of the Lords Supper, otherwise, or in any other manner, than is mentioned in the said booke of Common Prayer? Or hath any interrupted, hindered, let, or disturbed the Minister in reading of diuine Service, or administering the Sacraments in such manner as is mentioned in the said booke? Or hath any interrupted him in his preaching, or reading the Homilies?
- J.N. 2. 2.
- T.L. 2. 3.
- R.L. 1. 8. 3. Is the Sacrament of Baptisme rightly and duly administred according to the forme prescribed in the booke of Common Prayer; with due observation of all Rites and Ceremonies prescribed to be vsed in the same, without adding or altering of any part of any prayers, or interrogatories? Is the signe of the Crosse euery time vsed, and the Surplice neuer but worne in the administering of it.
- J.N. 2. 3.
- J.N. 4. 4.
- R.L. 1. 8. 4. Hath the administration of the Sacrament of Baptisme bene at any time deferred longer than till the next Sunday or Holiday, immediatly following the birth of the childe?†
- J.N. 2. 4.
- J.N. 2. 5. 5. Hath the Sacrament of baptisme bene refused to be administred to any children borne in, or out of wedlock, their birth being made knowne to the Minister of the Parish, and they offered vnto him to be baptized? Or haue any such children died vnbaptized?
- J.N. 2. 5.
- R.L. 5. 14. 6. Haue the parents of the childe baptized bene at any time admitted to be Godfathers or Godmothers to the same? Or haue any been admitted to be Godfathers or Godmothers to any childe, before they haue received the holy Communion?‡ Or haue any Godfathers or Godmothers vsed any other answers or speech in Baptisme, then is by the Book of Common Prayer appointed? Or haue they giuen to the children baptized any name that is absurd, or inconuenient for so holy an action?§
- R.C. 20.
- L.C. 30.
- J.N. 2. 6. 7. Haue any children bene baptized in priuate houses,|| or by any Lay-person, or Midwife, or popish Priest, or by any other than your owne Minister? And haue all children priuately baptized; if they liued, bene afterwards brought to your Church, that the Congregation and the Minister of the Parish (in case they were not baptised by him) might be certified, whether they, or any of them¶ were lawfully baptized or no?
- R.C. 21.
- J.N. 2. 7. 8. Haue the children that haue bene borne to any popish Recusant** in your Parish, bene publicly baptized in your Parish Church, by your owne Parson, Vicar, or Curate? Or by whom else were they baptized, or where, to your knowledge, or as you haue heard?††
- J.N. 2. 8.
- R.C. 1. 4. 9. Hath the blessed Sacraments of the Lords Supper been dulie and reuerently administred in your Church or Chappell, so often, and at such conuenient times, that, at least thrice euery yeere (whereof once at Easter) euerie parishioner within your Parish, being of the age of 16 yeeres or vpwards, might receive the same?
- J.N. 2. 9.
- R.L. 1. 4. 10. Hath the said blessed Sacrament been deliuered vnto any, or received by any the Communicants within your Parish, that did unreuerently either sit, stand, or leane; or that did not deuoutly and humbly kneele upon their
- J.N. 2. 10.

* worship—Rites] and the set form of Common Prayer prescribed and established in the Church of England, or in dislike of the Administration of the Sacraments, or of the rites. 1662.
 † And do they all come to Church who bring a child to be baptized, at or about the beginning of diuine Service? And is the baptizing performed immediatly after the second Lesson? Added, 1662.
 ‡ communion? Or haue there been admitted more (or less) than two Godfathers and one Godmother for a male child, and two Godmothers and one Godfather for a female? Added 1662.
 § action?—] Or hath any child been baptized since the return of our gracious Sovereign, without Godfathers, or Godmothers? Added, 1662.
 || houses] (except upon great necessity: and if so, what was the same?) Added, 1662.
 ¶ or any of them. Omitted, 1662.
 ** Popish Recusant] Popish or separatist Recusant. 1662.
 †† heard?—] You are to giue all the notice you can, both of them, and of their Parents. Added, 1662.

knees, in plaine and open view, without collusion or hypo- M.C. 5. crise?

11. Haue any of your Parish, which are openly knowne to liue in notorious sinne without repentance; or any to excommunicate persons or schismatics, common and notorious deprauers of the Religion and Gouvernement of this Realme (without vnfaigned sorrow shewed by them for their impiety and wickednesse) bene admitted to be partakers of the holy Communion? R.L. 1. 5. J.N. 2. 11. R.E. 1. 4.

12. Hath any of your Parish been debarred from the said holic Communion without iust cause, or without intimation presently giuen to the Ordinarie or Bishop of the Dioces? * R.L. 1. 5. J.N. 2. 12.

Chap. 3. Concerning the Church, the furniture, and possessions thereof.†

1. Haue you in your Church or Chappell, the whole Bible in the largest Volume, of the last translation, the Booke of Common Prayer;‡ the two Bookes of Homilies, and Bishop Iewels Apologie§ all well and fairely bound? And haue you also in your Church the forme of the Diuine Service for the 5th day of November, and for the 27th day of March,|| and the Book of Constitutions or Canons Ecclesiasticall? ¶ J.N. 2. 1, 8. J.N. 3. 1. J.N. 7. 8.

2. Haue you in your Church or Chappell, a Font of stone set in the** ancient vsuall place, whole and cleane, and fit to hold water? A conuenient and decent Communion Table, with a Carpet of silke, or some other decent stuffe, continually laid vpon the Table, at the time of diuine Service; and a faire linnen cloth thereon laid, at the time of administering the Communion?†† And is the same Table placed conueniently, so as the Minister may best be heard in his administration, and the greatest number may reuerently communicate? To that end end doth it ordinarily stand vp at the East end of the Chancell, where the Altar in former times stood, the ends thereof being placed North and South? It is at any time vsed unreuerently, by leaning or sitting on it, throwing Hats or any thing else vpon it, or writing on it; or is it abused to any other prophane or common vse?‡‡ And are the ten Commandements set vp in your Church or Chappell, where the people may see and read them, and other chosen sentences also written vpon the wals of your said Church or Chappell, in places conuenient for the same purpose?§§ J.N. 2. 1, 8. R.L. 2. 3. G.C. 1. 1. J.W. 2. 6. J.N. 3. 1. M.C. 2. ibid. J.N. 3. 1.

3. Haue you in your said Church or Chappell a conuenient seat for your Minister to reade diuine Service in? Where doth it stand? how farre from the Chancell? and which way doth the standing thereof cause the Minister to turne his face, when hee kneeleth therin at prayer? Haue you also a comely Pulpit set vp in a conuenient place, with a decent Cloth or Cushion for the same; a comelie large Surplice; ||| a faire Communion cup of siluer, and a couer agreeable to the same; a Flagon of siluer or pewter, with all other things, and Ornaments necessarie for the celebration of diuine Service, and administration of the Sacraments? And haue you a Chest wherein to put the almes for the poore, with three locks and keies vnto it; and another Chest for the keeping of the Bookes and the Communion Vessels and Ornaments of the Church? Or where are they kept? A.C. 4. R.L. 2. 4. J.N. 9. 2.

4. In the said Chest, haue you a Register-booke in Parchment, wherein to register the Christnings, Weddings, and Burials? And is the same booke written and kept in al points according to the ¶¶ Canon? And is the Christian name of the mother, as wel as of the father, therin duly registred? And is there a transcript thereof transmitted euerie yeere into the Bishops principall Registry? Haue you also a faire Paper-booke, wherein euerie Preacher which is a stranger, *** is to subscribe his name, the day he * Dioces?—] Name euery such person, and the person that debarred him, or them. Added, 1662.

† The following Article is added in 1662:—
 Haue you a Parish Church and Chancel now standing, or is the same prophaned, or demolished in part, or in whole?

‡ Prayer] of the last Allowance, and. Added, 1662.

§ and Bishop Jewels Apologie] Omitted, 1662.

|| November—March] and for the 30th day of January, and for the 29th day of May. Added, 1662.

¶ Ecclesiasticall?—] and is the Table touching the Degrees of Affinity and Consanguinity (by Authority set forth Anno 1563) fixed in the Church for the publick view of all men? Added, 1662.

** and fastned. 1662.

†† Communion? what did either of them cost? what be they now worth in value. Added, 1662.

‡‡ Are there any steps or ascents in your Chancel up to the Communion Table? Haue you also a decent rail of wood (or some other comely inclosure covered with cloth or silk) placed handsomely above those steps before the holy Table, near one yard high, and reaching cross from the North wall to the South; (except by the order of the Diocesan it be made with the ends returning unto the East wall) with two conuenient doors to open before the Table. And if it be a Rail; are the Pillars or Ballisters thereof so close, that dogs may not any where get in? Added 1662.

§§ And are the ten Commandments—for that purpose]. Omitted, 1662.

||| Surplice] what cost it by the yard? and how long haue you had the same? Haue you also. Added, 1662.

¶¶ LXX. 1662.

*** stranger] and not your Parson, Vicar or Curate. Added, 1662.

preached, and by whose authority he is licensed? And have you also a Table set vp in your Church, of the degrees, wherein by Law men are prohibited to marrie?*

A.C. 1. 3.
C.L. 2. 5.
T.W. 2. 15.
G.C. 1. 3.
J.N. 3. 3.

5. Is your Church or Chappell, with the Chancell thereof,† and your Parsonage-house or Vicarage-house, and all other houses thereto belonging, your Parish Almshouse and Church-house, in good reparations? And are they employed to godlie and their right holy vses? And if any of them be ruinated and wasted, in whom is the default? And is your Church, Chancell, and Chappell, decently and comely kept, as well within as without? And are the seats in them well maintained,‡ the Steeple and Bels preserued, the windowes in no part stopt vp, but well glazed? the rooffe and wals cleane, the whole floore kept paued, plaine and euen, and all things there in orderly and decent sort, without dust, straw or litter, or any thing that may be either noisome or vnseemely for the house of God? §.

L.E. 6. 20.
L.W. 5. 19.

6. Is there any in your Parish that hath or doth refuse to contribute towards the reparation of your Church, or towards the prouision of such things as belong thereunto?

A.C. 2.
R.I. 5. 10.
G.C. 1. 3.
J.W. 2. 10.
W.C. 1. 5.
J.N. 3. 4.
T.L. 2. 10, 11.

7. Is your Church-yard or Chappell-yard well fenced, and kept without abuse? and if not, whose is the default? Hath any person within your memorie, or that you haue credibly heard of, inroached upon the Church-yard, by setting vp any kinde of building or fence vpon it, or by opening any doore, gate or stile into it? Hath any vsed that place (consecrated to an holie vse) prophanely or wickedly? Hath any quarrelled,¶ or stricken one another, either in the Church or Church-yard? Hath any person behaued himself rudely and disorderly in either; or vsed any filthie or prophane talke, or any other rude and immodest behauiour in them? ** Haue any Playes, Feasts Banquets, Suppers, Church-ales, Drinkings, Temporall Courts, or Lects, Lay-iruries, Musters, exercise of dancing, Stoole-ball, Foote-ball, or the like,†† or any other prophane vsage beene suffered to be kept in your Church, Chappell or Church-yard? Haue any annoied your Church-yard or the fences thereof, by putting in of Cattell, by hanging vp of cloathes, or by laying any dust, dung or any other filthinesse there? ‡‡ When Graues are digged§§, are the bones of the dead piously vsed, and decently interred againe, or laid vp in some fit place, as beseemeth Christians? And is the whole consecrate ground kept free from swine and all other nastinesse? |||

8. Are your Church-wardens careful to take special order, that no Dogs be at any time suffred to come into the Church, to the disturbance of the diuine Seruice, and the polluting of that holy place of the Christian congregation? And doe any of the inhabitants (of what condition soeuer) or of their company, bring their Hawkes into the Church, or vsually suffer their Dogs of any kind to come with them thither, to the prophanation of the house of God, and his holy worship? ¶¶

G.C. 3. 22.
J.W. 2. 33.
J.N. 36.

9. What Legacies haue been giuen to the vse and benefit of your Church, and how haue they been bestowed? Who hath receiued and detained them without due employment? Doth any detain or imbezell, or hath sold and made away any of the Church goods, or vsed or employed them otherwise, than by law they ought to doe? ***

10. Is your Church full, or vacant of an Incumbent? And if vacant, who receiueth the fruits thereof, and who

* And haue you also a Table—to marrie.] Omitted 1662.
† thereof] as also the Vestry, and the Church Poroh (if you haue any).
‡ maintained] and the bottoms of them either boarded or paved?
§ God?—] The Parishioners using none but Pesses and fast Mats in their seats to kneel upon, or for warmth in winter? Added 1662, together with the following Article:—

Are there any armes and furniture for souldiers or other munition, ladders, buckets, timber, or any other implements for publick or private use, stored and kept in your Church, Vestry, Steeple, or any other part of the Church-buildings? How long hath it been so? And by whose authority or direction?

¶ Hath any quarrelled] used any chiding, brawling or quarrelling words. 1662.
** in them] Is there any ordinary passage used through the Church, or any common walking therein, or carrying of burdens, or playing of children? Added 1662.

†† the like] or any Fairs, or Markets, booties, stalls or standings. Added 1662.

‡‡ filthinesse there?] or by making water therein, especially against the Church-wals? Added 1662.

§§ digged] are they made six foot deep (at the least) and east and west, and. Added 1662.

||| The following Article is added in 1662:—
Doth your Clark or Sexton, or any Constable or Bayliff, or any other person (by occasion or pretence of any secular office or service whatsoever) at any time take upon him, within the Church or Church-yard to proclaim any Sessions, or any other appearance, or to warn any Courts or other Meetings, or business? or to cry any hawks, dogs or other cattel, or anything else: or to publish any Precepts, or other writings or Orders, for any Lay-occasion, or business whatsoever? for such things should rather be done in the Market, or without at the Church-yard stile, unless by supreme authority it be otherwise commanded.

¶¶ holy worship?—] and to the great scandal of our Christian profession. Added 1662.

*** ought to doe?—] Haue you any Stock or yearly renew belonging to the Church? what is it? how is it employed. Added 1662.

serueth the Cure, and by what authority? And is it a Parsonage, Vicarage,* or Donatiue? †

11. Is there in your Parish, or any where about you, (that you know or haue heard of) any Church, Chappell, or Oratory, now demolished, or likely to be ruined, or that is conuerted to any priuate or secular vse?

12. Hath any priuate man, or men, of his or their owne authority (for ought you know) erected any pewes, or builded any new Seats in your Church? ‡ And what pewes or seats haue beene of late yeeres new built, by whose procurement, and by whose authority? And are all the pewes and seats in the Church, § so ordered, that they which are in them may all conueniently kneele downe|| in the time of prayer, and haue their faces vp East-ward, toward the holy Table? ¶ Is the middle alley of the Church, or any of the other alleyes or Iles, or the body of the Chancell, built vpon (in any part thereof) for the setting vp of pewes or seats, or for the inlarging of any there adioyning? Are there also any kind of seats at the East end of the Chancell, aboue the Communion Table, or on either side vp euen with it? **

13. Are there any priue Closets, or close Pewes in your Church? Are any pewes so loftily made, that they do any way hinder the prospect of the Church or Chancell, or that they which are in them be hidden from the face of the congregation? What Galleries also †† haue you in your Church? How are they placed, and in what part of the Church? When were they built, and by what authority? Is not the Church large enough without them to receiue all your owne parishioners? Is any part of the Church hidden or darkned thereby, or any of the Parish annoyed or offended by them? †††

14. Hath any in your Parish defaced, or caused to be defaced, or purloined any Monuments or Ornaments in your Church, or any inscriptions of brasse, any Lead, or Stones there, or §§ the Glasse-windowes? |||| When was it done, and by whom?

15. Hath any popish Recusant, ¶¶ being lawfully excommunicate, or any other excommunicated person been buried in your Church or Church-yard, before absolution from that censure and excommunication obtained? And if yea, then by whom, and when?

16. Be the profits, tithes, or any commodities Ecclesiasticall, belonging to the Parsonage or Vicarage of your parish, conuerted to the vse and benefit of the Patrons or of any other, *** and by them receiued any detained? And how long haue they beene so? And is there but a Curate or stipendiary Priest kept in any place, where you haue heard or doe beleene an Incumbent should be possessed, and what allowance hath he?

17. Is there any other Cure annexed to your parish, or any Chappell of ease belonging to the same? How are they serued, by whom, and vpon what allowance? ††† Or haue you in your Parish any dwelling-house with a chappell therein; or in which any room ††† is ordinarily vsed for preaching, or saying the diuine Service, and administering the holy Sacraments? §§§

18. Haue you a true Terrier of all the Glebe-lands, Meadowes, Gardens, Orchards, Houses, Stacks, Implementments, Tenements, and portions of Tithes, within your Parish, or without, belonging to your Parsonage or Vicarage, taken by the view of honest men in your said parish, G.C. 1. 4.

* Vicarage? and Presentative. Added, 1662.

† Donatiue?—] Or haue you but a stipendiary Priest only? what is the common value and means of his place known or reputed to be? Added, 1662.

‡ or Chancel? Added, 1662.

§ Church] uniform therein, and. Added, 1662.

|| together. 1662.

¶ And also that men and women do not sit promiscuously together Added, 1662.

** And is the Chancel fully diuided from the body of the Church, and how, or in what manner? Added, 1662.

†† or scaffolds. Added, 1662.

††† This Article is added in 1662:—

Are any Tombs or Monuments for the dead suffered to be erected within the Church, without the good licence and approbation of the Ordinary first shewed to the Church-wardens? Are there any so made that they cumber some room which may not well be spared; or trouble any seat or passage; or hinder the prospect of the Church or Chancel, or the light of any window; or be inconvenient to the Minister in executing any part of the diuine Offices; or be so set up, as to give any scruple or offence to mens Christian deuotions in their holy prayers and adoration? Are any other mean toys and childish gew-gawes (such as the fonder sort of people prepare at some burials) suffered to be fastened up in your Church at anyones pleasure? or any Garlands and other ordinary funeral Ensigns to hang, where they hinder the prospect, or until they grow foul and dusty, withered and rotten? And is your Church yard pestered and cloyed with frames of wood, piles of brick, or stones laid ouer the graves? Do any take upon them (as they please) to set up, or lay great stones there at the head and foot of any grave, without the Incumbents leave and the licence of the Ordinary? §§ any part of. Added, 1662.

||| or the Organs? Added, 1662.

¶¶ Hath any Recusant, Popish, or other. Ely, 1662.

*** but the Incumbent. Added, 1662.

††† Is there any other kind of Chappel or Chappels within the precincts of your Parish? To whom do they belong? When were they erected? and when consecrated? Added, 1662.

§§ house—room] house or houses, whereof any room. Added, 1662.

§§§ Sacraments] Communion? How long hath it been so? and by what authority or licence? Added, 1662.

W.C. 1, 7. appointed by the Ordinary? And is it safely kept and preserved, and in whose hands? And hath there a true coppie thereof, vnder the hands of the Minister and Churchwardens, bene transmitted and laid vp in the Bishops Registry, there to continue for a perpetuall memory thereof? And if you haue no such Terrier yet made, you the Churchwardens and Side-men, together with your Parson or Vicar, or in his absence, your Curate, are now appointed to make diligent inquiry of the premises, and to make, subscribe, and assigne the said Terrier, and to bring in a true copie of it into the Bishops Registry, as is aforesaid.*

Chap. 4. Concerning the Ministers, Preachers, and Lecturers.

J.N. 4. 1. Is your Minister, Parson, Vicar, or Curate, a Graduate in either of the Vniuersities, yea, or no? And if he be a Graduate, then of what degree is he? and what kinde of Hood doth he vse to weare in the Church?†

A.C. 15. 18. 47. 48. 2. Is your Minister a licensed Preacher, yea or na? And if he be licensed, then by whom? Doth he preach vsually in his owne Cure, or in some other Church or Chappell neere adioyning, where there is no Preacher, once every Sunday? And how often hath he bene negligent in so doing? Doth he also preach standing, and in his Cassock and Gowne (not in a Cloak) with his Surplice and Hood also, if he be a Graduate, and with his head vncouered? And if he be not a licensed Preacher, doth he take vpon him in his owne Cure, or elsewhere, to expound any Scripture or matter of doctrine, or doth he keepe himselfe only to the reading of Homilies published by authority; and besides, procure Sermons to be preached amongst you, once every moneth at least, by such as are lawfully licensed? R.L. 1, 11. 14. W.C. 2, 7. And doth he or his Curate vpon every Sunday when there is no Sermon, read some one of the Homilies prescribed by authority, and before the said Homilie, vse that forme of prayer (only) which is prescribed in the fifty fifth Canon?‡

J.L. 1, 5. J.N. 4, 5. 3. Is your Minister resident with you vpon his benefice? or if absent, how long time hath he bene so? and where is he resident for the most part? And doth he in his absence make allowance to the poore, and what allowance doth he make? Hath he any other Benefice, and doth he supply his absence by a Curate || that is licensed to preach, and what allowance doth he make to his Curate?¶

R.L. 1, 13. G.C. 2, 9. R.E. 1, 9. 4. Is your Curate licensed by the Bishop of the Dioces? And doth your Minister or Curate serue any more Cures than one? If yea, then what other Cure doth he serue, and how far are his Cures distant one from the other?

R.L. 1, 23. J.N. 4, 18. T.W. 1, 33. J.L. 1, 4. M.C. 7. 5. Hath any being no Minister, or Deacon, presumed at any time** to read common prayers openly in your Church or Chappell; or to serue the Cure of your Parish?†† Or hath any Deacon not hauing receiued the full Order of Priesthood, taken vpon him alone to administer the Communion in your Church or Chappell; You are to present the names of any, that haue herein offended?‡‡

A.C. 45. R.L. 1, 2. J.W. 1, 11. 6. Doth your Minister, Preacher, or Lecturer§§ begin his Sermon at any time, or part of the diuine Seruice, but immediately after the Beliefe called the Nicene-creed? Doth he before his Sermon (or Homilie, if he reade one)¶¶ vse any forme of prayer which is of his priuate conceiuing or collecting, and of his owne inuenting or choosing, or doth hee containe himselfe within that brieue forme only, which is prescribed by the Church (in the 55. Canon) thereby to moue the people to ioyne with him in prayer for Christs holie Catholike Church, and for the Kings most excellent Maiestie (naming him and his roiall Titles) for the Queene,¶¶¶ the Prince, and the roiall Issue; for the Arch-bishops also and the Bishops; for the Councell, the Nobility, the Magistracie, and Commons of the land, and to giue thanks to God for the faithfull departed out of this life? And*** doth he alwaies conclude with the Lords Praier? Doth the Preacher or Minister also after his Sermon, wholly forbear to vse any kinde or forme of praier (not being prescribed) as also to pronounce the Blessing (out of the Pulpit) wherewith the Church vseth to dismisse the people? But doth he there conclude only with, Glorie to God the Father, the Sonne, and the holie Ghost: and then coming from the Pulpit (if the Sermon were made within the Church or Chappell) doth he, or whosoeter then officiates at the same place, where he left before the Sermon, proceed to reade the remainder of the diuine Seruice, and at the close of all, to giue the Blessing?

7. Doth euerie Priest and Deacon in your Parish daily say the Morning and Euening prayer, either priuately or openly, vnlesse he be vpon lawfull cause hindered? Doth your Curate say the same daily in your Church or Chappell, with the tolling of a Bell before he begin? Especially doth your Minister or Curate doe it on euerie Sunday and Holiday and their Eues, and on the day of the conuersion of S. Paul, S. Barnabies day, and every day of the holie Week next before Easter; as also on all Wednesdaies and Fridaies, at fit and vsuall times, according to the forme prescribed in the booke of Common Prayer, in a reuerent manner euer, and as audibly and distinctly as he vseth to preach? Doth he also reade all those Psalmes and Lessons, and no other, with the Collect, Epistle, and Gospell, which are appointed for the day? At the end of every Psalme, doe they stand and say, Glory be to the Father, &c. and doth hee leaue out* the Contents of the Chapters? After the Lessons, doth he vse any other Psalme or Hymne, but those which the booke of Common Prayer hath appointed? Doth he reade the Creede of S. Athanasius (called the Quicumque vult) on all those daies for which it is appointed, and the commination on Ash wednesday, and the Letany on every Wednesday and Friday?

8. Doth your Minister and Curate, at all times, as well in preaching or reading the Homilies, as in reading the Prayers and the Letany, in administering the holy Sacraments, solemnization of Marriage, burying of the dead, churching of women, and all other offices of the Church, duly obserue the Orders and Rites prescribed, without omission, alteration, or addition of any thing? And doth he, in performing all and every of these, weare the Surplice duly, and neuer omit the wearing of the same, nor of his Hood, if he be a Graduate.?

9. Doth your Parson or Vicar hauing a Curate vnder him, notwithstanding read diuine Seruice himselfe vpon two seuerall Sundayes in the yeere, † publicly at the vsuall times, both in the forenoone and afternoone, in the Church which he possesseth? and doth he also administer both Sacraments, as often in every yeere in such manner, and with the obseruation of all such Rites and Ceremonies, as are prescribed in the booke of Common Prayer in that behalfe?‡

10. Doth your Minister, Preacher, and Lecturer, every yeere, of purpose and expresly, (yet not by way of disputation but by plaine conclusion and determination) teach and declare the lawfull authority which the King hath ouer the State, both Ecclesiasticall and Ciuill; and the iust abolishing of all † forraigne power or iurisdiction ouer the same?¶

11. Doth your Minister** publish in his Sermons any doctrine, which is new and strange, and disagreeing from the Word of God, and from the Articles of Christian Faith and Religion, agreed on and published Anno Domini 1562. And doth he teach any thing, which he would haue the people religiously obserue and beleue, but that which is agreeable to the Scriptures, and that which the Catholike Fathers and ancient Bishops haue gathered out of that doctrine, according to the Canon?††

12. Doth your Minister goe to the administration of holy Baptisme, euer immediately after the second Lesson? Doth he alwaies (at first) aske, whether the childe be baptized or no? Afterward, doth he euer vse and neuer omit, both to take the childe in his hands, and also to make the signe of the Crosse, so as to touch the childs forehead in making the same? Doth he at any time †† baptize but in the Font, or with any Bason or Palle, or other vessel set into the Font? Hath he ever deferred or willingly neglected or refused to baptize any infant within the Parish, being in danger of death, notice thereof hauing bene giuen to him? And hath any childe died without baptisme, by his default?

13. Doth your Minister or Curate often admonish the people, that they defer not the baptisme of their infants any longer, after they are borne, than is prescribed, vnlesse vpon a great and reasonable cause, declared to the Minister

* within three moneths after the receipt of this book of Articles? Added, 1662.

† and what kinde—Church? Omitted, 1662. What is his Christian and Sire-name? Added.

‡ exhorting to. Added, 1662.

§ and no other prayer of his own, either before or after it. Added, 1662.

|| settled and dwelling in your Parish. Added, 1662.

¶ and how often in the year comes he thither himself? Added, 1662.

** (under pretence of being a Graduate, or a Scholar of the University) Added, 1662.

†† or to preach there? Added, 1662.

‡‡ as far as you know or believe? Added, 1662.

§§ duly read the Communion Service, commonly called the second Service, at the Communion Table? Doth he. Added, 1662.

¶¶ (or Homilie, if he reade one). Omitted, 1662.

¶¶¶ the Prince, and the roiall Issue]. Omitted, 1662.

*** And † then (this moving to prayer being done, as briefly as conveniently may be). Added, 1662.

* and † adding, 1662.

† vpon—yeere † frequently and. 1662.

‡ and not read. Added, 1662.

§ and how oft in the year hath he done it? Added, 1662.

|| Popery and. Added, 1662.

¶ And hath he made that Abrenuntiation of the late Scottish Covenant, as by Law is required to be made. Added, 1662.

** or any Preacher among you. Added, 1662.

†† as you conceiued, or haue been informed by others of better judgement. Added, 1662.

‡‡ publicly. Added, 1662.

or Curate, and approved by him; nor that they procure them to be baptized at home without great necessity.

14. Hath your Minister admitted any person to answer as Godfather or Godmother, at the christening of a childe, that hath not before received the holy Communion, and is not able to recite the Lords Prayer, the ten Commandements, and the Articles of Beliefe, and to answer to the same, being required? And doth he at the Font, as soone as he hath baptized any childe, admonish them to bring the childe to the Bishop to be confirmed, as soone as he hath learned the Catechisme?

15. Doth your Minister, every Sunday and Holiday before evening prayer, where no Sermon was wont to be,* halfe an houre, or more, catechise and instruct the youth and ignorant persons of your Parish, in the ten Commandements, the Articles of Beliefe, and the Lords Prayer? And doth he vse for that purpose, the Catechisme set forth in the booke of Common Prayer, and diligently heare, instruct, and teach them in the said Catechisme? Or what other Catechisme doth he vse either in publike or priuate? And be the youth and ignorant persons of your parish, sent in due time vnto your Church, by them that ought to send them, to be catechized and instructed by the Minister? And if not, you are to present the names of those that make default in sending them, and of all those that vse not to come?

16. Are your afternoone-sermons (if there were wont to be any) turned into catechizing by question and answer, where and whensoeuer there is no great cause apparent to the contrary? And is this truly and sincerely (sic) performed, without mockery, or in shew only?

17. Doth your Minister vse to administer the holy Communion, at least thrice in the yeere (whereof once at Easter) to every parishioner in your Parish, that is sixteene yeeres of age and vpwards; and first to receive the same himselfe kneeling, on every day that he administred it to others; and to administer it to none but to such as doe kneele at the receiuing thereof? And doth he alwayes vse the words of Institution, according to the booke of Common Prayer, without alteration, at every time, that the Bread and Wine is renewed? Doth he also vse to deliuer the Bread and Wine to every Communicant seuerally, and with his owne hand, repeating to every one, all the words appointed to be said at the distribution of the holy Body and bloud of our Lord JESVS, and upon no pretence|| omitting any part of the words, or saying them all but now and then to many at once? And is there warning giuen by him, to the parishioners, publicly in the Church, at morning prayer the Sunday before every time of his administering of the Holy Communion, for their better preparation thereunto?

18. Hath your Minister admitted into the holy Communion any of his cure or flocke, which be openly knowne to liue in sinne notorious, without Repentance, or any that haue maliciously and openly contended with their neighbours, before they be reconciled; or any Church-wardens, or Side-men, who hauing taken their oathes to present to their Ordinary all such publike offences, as they are particularly charged to inquire of in the Parish, haue not and doe notwithstanding, wittingly and irreligiously incur the horrible crime of perurie, either in neglecting or refusing to present such publike offences, as they themselues know, or haue heard to be committed within your Parish?

19. Hath your Minister at any time admitted vnto the Communion any that refuse to be present at publike prayers, or who are notorious depraues of the Booke of Common Prayer, and administration of the Sacraments, or of the Orders, Rites, or Ceremonies therein prescribed; or of any thing contained in the thirtynine Articles, or in the Booke of ordaining Priests and Bishops? Or who haue spoken against, or deprauid his Maesties Soueraigne Authoritie in causes Ecclesiasticall, vnlesse they and euerie of them do first acknowledge their repentance for their sin, and promise to do so no more?

20. Doth your minister or Curate admit any to the Communion, before they can say their Catechisme, and be confirmed?

21. Doth your Minister together with the Church-wardens and Quest-men, take diligent heed and care, not only that all and euery one of your owne Parishioners do receiue thrice euerie yeere; but also, that no strangers of any other Parish, do come often and commonly to your Church, from their owne Parish Church, or do there receiue the Holy Communion?

22. Doth your Minister, before the seuerall times of administration of the Lords Supper, admonish and exhort his Parishioners, if any of them haue their Conscience troubled and disquieted, to resort vnto him, or to some other learned Minister, and open their grieffe, that they may receiue such ghostly counsell and comfort, as their conscience may be relieued, and by the Minister they may receiue the benefit of Absolution, to the quiet of their Conscience, and auoiding of all scruple? And if any man confesse his secret and hidden sinnes, being sicke or whole, to the Minister, for the vnburthening of his conscience, and receiuing of spirituall consolation or ease of minde from him, Doth he the said Minister (or hath he at any time) by word, writing, or signe, openly or couertly, directly or indirectly, reueale and make knowne to anie person whatsoever, any Crime or Offence, so committed to his trust and secrecie?

23. Hath your Minister solemnized the Mariage of any person vnder the age of twenty one yeeres, without the consent of their Parents or Gouvernours; or hath he married any, which doe not audibly say and answer in all things appointed by the Liturgy; or any without a Ring, or in times prohibited; or without the Banes first published three seuerall Sundaies or Holydaies, in time of diuine Seruice, in the seuerall Churches or Chappels of their seuerall abodes, without* a special license from the Arch-bishop, or Bishop of the Diocesse, or his Chancellor, or the Commissary, first had and obtained?† And doth hee begin in the bodie of the Church, and then goe vp to the Table, as is appointed? Also doth your Minister, so oft as there is any mariage, appoint to haue a Communion? After the Gospell doth he say a Sermon (if he be licensed to preach) wherein to declare the office of man and wife, according to holy Scripture; Or else doth he read that which the Church hath appointed to be read at Matrimonie.

24. Doth your Minister vse the forme of thanksgiuing for women after childebirth immediately before the Communion Seruice? Or hath hee admitted thereunto any women begotten with-childe in Adultery or Fornication, without license of his Ordinary?

25. Doth your Minister carefully looke to the reliefe of the poore, and from time to time call vpon his Parishioners, to giue somewhat according to their abilities, to godly and charitable vses; especially doth he enforce it vpon them with earnest exhortation (as is prescribed) at the time of the oblation or offering before the Communion, and vpon their sick beds, or when they make their wils?

26. Doth your Minister or Curate resort vnto such as be dangerously sicke in your Parish (if he be sent for, or notice thereof‡ be giuen to him) to instruct or comfort them in their distresses, according to the order of the Booke of Common Prayer, not omitting then especially, to moue them earnestly to liberality towards the poore?

27. If any being sick doe desire the prayers of the Congregation, is it done according to the forme in the Liturgie, at the time of diuine Seruice, or is it done only§ by giuing their names to the Preacher, and mentioning of them in the Pulpit, before or after Sermon?

28. Hath your Minister euer refused to bury any which ought to be interred with Christian buriall? Or hath he deferred the same longer than he should? Doth he go before the Corps to the Graue, and there say the whole seruice appointed, not omitting the Lesson or any other part? Doth he deuoutly kneele, when he saith the prayers, and the Collect at buriall? or hath hee admitted any to christian buriall, which by the Lawes of the holy Church of this Realme, ought not to bee so interred?

29. Doth your Minister being a Preacher,|| and hauing any Popish Recusant or¶ Recusants in your Parish, labour diligently with them from time to time, to reclaim them from their errors? Or otherwise is he ouer-conuersant with them, or suspected to fauour them?

30. Hath your Minister, (or any other taking vpon him the calling of a Minister) preached, baptized children (except in case of necessity) solemnized marriage, churched any women, or ministred the holy Communion in any priuate house or houses? If yea, then where, when, and how often hath he done it?

31. Do you know, or haue heard of any which are reputed to be Ministers (or of any other of the Laity, either Male or Female) that presume to make matters of Diuinity their ordinary Table-talke? Or that vnder pretence of holinesse and edification, take the liberty at their Trencher-meetings, or where seuerall company (not being all of the same family) are assembled, rashly and prophanely to discourse of holy Scripture? Or amidst their cups, to dispute or determine any Articles of Faith and Rubrick.

IC
IV
IC IN

R.L. 1, 18.

R.C. 33.

J.N. 4, 11.

L

R.E. 1, 2.

A

R

G

J

W

J

T

W.C. 1, 2.

R.L. 1, 4.

T.W. 1, 5.

J.N. 4, 4.

R.L. 1, 5.

T.W. 1, 7.

A.C. 41.

T.W. 1, 8.

Rubrick.

T.L. 1, 15.

R.E. 1, 5.

R.L. 1, 6.

A.C. 40.

J.N. 4, 21.

Videcap. 5, 4.

Rubrica.

R.L. 1, 32.

R.C. 63.

L.C. 32.

A.C. 28, 31.

J.N. 4, 12.

J.L. 1, 14.

T.W. 1, 22.

J.W. 1, 26.

R.N. 6, 15.

A.C. 32.

G.C. 2, 4.

J.N. 4, 15.

R.L. 1, 25, 26.

R.L. 1, 27.

J.N. 4, 17.

R.L. 4, 5.

J.L. 1, 14.

M.C. 18.

E.C. 23.

J.C. 25.

* where no Sermon was wont to be. Omitted, 1662.

† both male and female. Added, 1662.

‡ or care not to learn. Added, 1662.

§ and so without any long or large discourse (Sermon-wise) upon the said questions and Answers? but only to explain the same in few and brief passages easie to be remembred. Added, 1662.

|| (till the Church appoint otherwise). Added, 1662.

* without] except they brought him. 1662.

† or the Commissary—obtained] so to do. 1662.

‡ thereof] of their sickness. 1662.

§ done according—only] at the time of diuine Service after the three Collects? And according to the form in the Liturgy for the Visitation of the sick? And not only. 1662.

|| well studied in diuinity. Added, 1662.

¶ Popish Recusant, or Recusants] Popish Recusant, or other Recusant.

Religion, or touching any point of doctrine or Ecclesiastical discipline, at their owne pleasure, and to their owne phansie? you shall name the persons, times, and places, as far as you know or haue heard, and can remember?

R.L. 1, 24.
R.C. 36.

32. Doth your Minister every six moneths, in your Parish Church, openly in the time of diuine Seruice (sic), vpon some Sunday, denounce and declare, excommunicate by name, such as doe perseuere in the sentence of excommunication, not seeking to be absolved? And hath he said diuine Seruice, whiles any excommunicate person hath bene present in the Church? Or hath admitted any person, that hath bene excommunicate, into the Church, without a Certificate of his absolution from his Ordinary? Or hath he staid or forborne to denounce any excommunication, or suspension or absolution that hath bene sent him from his Ordinary?†

L.W. 2, 27.

33. Hath your Minister bene at any priuate meetings or conuenticles, to consult there, about the impeachment or deprauing of the doctrine of the Church of England, or of the booke of Common Prayer, or of any part of the gouernment and discipline of the Church; or to practise any forme of their owne, either for worship or discipline?

A.C. 46.

34. Doth your Minister, vpon Sundayes at Morning Prayer, declare vnto the parishioners what Fasting-dayes and Holidayes are to be kept, the weeke following?

R.L. 1, 21.
J.N. 4, 4.
M.C. 50.
C.L. 1, 22.
G.C. 2, 11.
J.N. 4, 6.
J.L. 1, 22.

35. Doth your Minister in the Rogation dayes, go the perambulation of the circuit of your Parish, saying and vsing the Prayers, Suffrages, and Thanksgiuing vnto God, appointed by Law, according to his duty; thanking God for his blessings, and praying for his grace and fauour?

A.C. 52.

36. Doth your Parson or Vicar maintaine and keepe in due reparation the Mansion-houses, and all other edifices belonging to his Parsonage or Vicarage, without suffering them to grow into ruine or decay?

R.L. 1, 23.
T.W. 1, 26, 27.

37. Hath your Minister taken vpon him to appoint, or to hold or continue any priuate or publike fasts, or meetings, for preaching or lecturing on any working-day, in his owne parish or else-where, or prophesies or exercises, or any other such thing, not approued by his Ordinary for the time being?

A.C. 56.
R.L. 1, 30.
L.E. 2, 28, 29.
J.N. 4, 20.
J.L. 1, 21.

38. Is your Minister studious in holy Scripture, and abstaineth from mechanical trades, bodily labour, solliciting of causes in Law, common buying and selling of Horses or other Cattell, and all other employments not befitting his calling and holy Function? Doth he vsually weare a Gown with a standing collar, and sleeues strait at the hands, and a square Cap? Doth he in iourneying vse a cloake with sleeues, commonly called a Priests-cloake, without guards, buttons, or cuts? Doth he at any time in publike weare any coife or wrought night-cap, but only a plaine cap of black silke, satten, or veluet? Doth he at any time go abroad in his doublet and hose without a coat or cassock, or weare any light coloured stockings? Or is he any way excessiue in apparell, either himselfe or his wife?

A.C. 54, 55, 52.
R.L. 1, 32.
R.C. 47.
L.C. 21.
G.C. 2, 21.
W.C. 2, 22.
T.L. 1, 4.
M.C. 11.

39. Is your Minister suspected or knowne to haue obtained his Benefice || by any Simonicall compact, directly or indirectly? Or is he reputed to be an incontinent person, or frequenter of Tauernes, Innes, or Ale-houses, a common gamester, or player at dice or cards, a common swearer or drunkard, ¶ or otherwise faulty in any other kinde that is scandalous to his function?

J.N. 4, 2.
R.L. 1, 1.

40. Hath your Minister publicly in your Parish Church or Chappell, once every yeere read ouer the Constitutions and Canons Ecclesiastical agreed vpon by the Clergy of both Prouinces, An. Dom. 1603. in such manner as the same is commanded to be done?

R.L. 1, 31.
E. 45.
Vice Georg.
Cant. 36, 6.
2, 13.
L.C. 17.
W.C. 2, 19.
R.N. 4, 12.
J.N. 4, 20.
T.L. 1, 13.
M.C. 7.

41. Is there any in your parish or resorting thereunto, who hauing taken holy Orders of Priest or Deacon, doth voluntarily relinquish and forsake his calling, and liues in the course of his life as a Lay-man? Or any that hauing bene silenced or suspended by authority, so remaineth without conforming himselfe in due obedience to the Church? And how doth he employ his time; and where or whence hath he his maintenance, as you know or haue heard?

R.L. 1, 15.
L.E. 2, 15.
L.W. 2, 15.

42. Are any admitted to preach in your Church, who doe not before the Church-wardens subscribe their names in your booke provided for that purpose, and the day when he or they preached, and the name of the Bishop or Bishops of whom they had license to preach?

L.E. 2, 14.

43. Doth any Preacher particularly impugne and confute any doctrine deliuered by any other Preacher in the same

Church, or in any Church neere adioyning, before he hath acquainted the Bishop of the Dioces therewith, and receiued order from him, what to doe in that case?

J.N. 4, 8.

44. Haue you any Lecturer in your Parish, and on what day is your Lecture? If any such be, doth he, twice at the least every yeere, reade diuine Seruice both morning and euening, two seuerall Sundayes, publicly in his Surplice and Hood? And also twice in the yeere administer both Sacraments, with such Rites and Ceremonies as are prescribed by the Booke of Common-Prayer?*

W.C. 2, 25.
J.N. 4, 19.

45. Doth the Lecturer (whosoener he bee) reade the diuine Seruice according to the Litargie printed by authority, in his Surplice and Hood before every Lecture?

W.C. 1, 2.

46. Doth your Preacher or Lecturer behaue himselfe in his Lectures and Sermons, as he ought to doe, teaching obedience, and edifying his auditory in matters of faith and good life, without intermeddling with matters of State, or newes, or other discourses not fit for the Pulpit; and also without fauouring or abetting Schismatics or Separatists (that are at home, or are gone abroad) either by speciall prayer for them, or by any other approbation of them?†

A.C. 36.
W.C. 2, 25.

47. Haue you any Lecture of Combination set vp in your Parish? And if so, is it read by a company of graue and orthodox Diuines, neere adioyning, and in the same Dioces? And doth every one of them preach in a Gowne, and not in a Cloake? And when and by whom were they appointed? And what be their names?

W.C. 2, 2.

48. Is any single Lecturer (maintained by your Towne or otherwise) suffered to preach, he not first professing his willingness to take vpon him the cure of soules, nor actually taking a Benefice or Cure, so soone as it may be fairely procured for him? What is his name, and what license hath he? And hath he a settled contribution affixed to the Lecturers place; or is it arbitrary, and for this Lecturer only? What summe doth it amount to ordinarily? By whom is it vsually paid or collected, or of late yeeres hath bene?

W.C. 2, 2.

49. If any Psalmes be vsed to be sung in your Church, before or after the morning and euening prayer, or before or after the Sermons (vpon which occasions only, they are allowed to be sung in Churches) is it done according to that graue manner (which first was in vse) that such doe sing as can reade the Psalmes, or haue learned them by heart; and not after that vnough (a) and vndecient custome of late taken vp, to haue every line first read,‡ and then sung by the people?

Præf. Calen.

a [uncouth 1662].

Chap. 5. Concerning Matrimony.

1. Be there any in your Parish, that haue married within the degrees of affinity or consanguinity, by the Law of God forbidden, as is expressed in a certaine Table published by authority in Anno 1563. And if any haue so married, what be their names, and where were they married, and by whom?

R.L. 5, 27.
J.N. 5, 1.

2. Hath any bene married secretly in priuate houses, or without their Parents or Governours consent signified, being vnder the age of twenty one yeeres?

R.L. 1, 20.
J.N. 5, 2.

3. Haue any persons bin married in your Parish, the Banes hauing not been thrice published, three seuerall Sundayes or Holidayes, in time of diuine Seruice? who were the parties, and who were present at such marriages; and what Minister married them?

A.C. 22, 23.

4. Haue any persons by license or without, been married in your parish Church, neither of them at that time dwelling in your town? or hath any marriage (that you know or haue heard of) bin made at any time, by license or without, but between the houres of eight and twelue in the morning? Or was not the diuine Seruice then openly and duly said, the Assembly being called together by the tolling or ringing of the Bells, as is at other times vsed? Or hath the Minister solemnized any marriage (without Banes published) by vertue of any license granted by the Arch-deacon or his Official, or by any other license then of the Archbishop or Bishop of this Dioces, or their Chancellors, Commissaries§ or Vicars general, or the Commissary for faculties. And hath any License bene granted by any to such persons as were not of good state and quality? Name the persons and all particulars, as far as you know or can remember?

R.L. 1, 19.
R.C. 34.
T.W. 1, 20.
J.N. 5, 4, 5.
J.N. 4, 4.

5. What popish Recusants, or their Children haue bene married in your parish? In what sort was the matrimony solemnized? when? and by whom?

J.N. 5, 6.

6. Doe any persons, being lawfully married, liue asunder? and in whom is the default?||

L.E. 5, 12.
J.N. 5, 3.
T.L. 2, 17.

* under the seal of the office, and not by any note or Ticket only under the hand of the Register, or any other Clerk? Added 1662.

† further then the next Sunday or Holiday after receipt thereof under seal? Added 1662.

‡ and of a decent fashion, and proper for Diuines? Added 1662.

§ long hair, deep bands, great ruffled boots, or any other undecent thing? Added 1662.

|| bargaining by money or money-worth, or. Added 1662.

¶ a brabler or brawler, given to contention, usury, brokerage, or common merchandizing. Added 1662.

* hath he twice—Prayer] hath he the first time he Preached your Lecture since the Feast of Saint Bartholomew last (before his Sermon) openly, publicly, and solemnly read the Common Prayers and Service, in aid by the said Booke appointed to be read for that part of the day: as is commanded by the late Act for Uniformity. 1662.

† and their schismatical courses. Added 1662.

‡ by one alone. Added 1662.

§ Commissaries. Omitted 1662.

|| as far as you know or believe? Added 1662.

R.L. 5, 29.
R.C. 62.

7. Doe any (heretofore diuorced, or not) keepe company at bed and board, with any other man or woman, then with the person that he or she were married to? what be their names? when and where were they married, and how long haue they continued so together?

8. Haue you any in your Parish, which liue together as man and wife, and yet not knowne, by whom, where, or when they were married?

Rubrick.

9. Haue all new-maried persons (the same day of their mariage) duly receiued the holy Communion? If not, by whose default was it, as you conceiue?*

Chap. 5. Concerning the Church-wardens and Side-men.

A.C. 63.
R.L. 5, 24.
J.N. 6, 1.

Be the Church-wardens chosen by the Minister and Parishioners yeerely in Easter-weeke, according to the 89. Canon? And hath any taken vpon him to be Church-warden, not being so chosen? Or hath any continued aboue one yeere in his office, without a new choise?

A.C. 64, 65.
J.N. 6, 2.

2. Haue any of the Church-wardens retained any of the Church-goods in their hands, and not made a iust account at their going out of their office, of what they haue receiued and expended; or not deliuered to their successors, by Bill indented betweene them, whatsoever money or other things belonging to the Church, that remained in their hands?

Canon.

3. Are there in your parish yeerely, two, three, or more discreet persons, either chosen by the Minister and Parishioners in Easter-weeke: or if they cannot agree, appointed by the Ordinary to be Sidemen, or Assistants in ioynt office with the Church-wardens?

4. What rates or leuies (as you know or haue heard) are yeerely or commonly made in your parish for Church-uses? What is the usuall summe thereof ordinarily? and what are the particular vses? or where are they written down, to which the same are for the most part employed?

R.L. 5, 12.

5. Do the Church-wardens and Side-men or Assistants, diligently see, that all the Parishioners doe duly resort to the Church, vpon all Sundayes and Holydayes, and there continue the whole time of diuine Seruice and Sermon; suffering no idle persons to walke, or talke, or stand idle, either in the Church, Church-yard, or Church-porch, during the time of diuine Seruice or Sermon; but causing them either to come into the Church, or else to depart? And haue they the said Church-wardens and Side-men forborne either for reward, fauour, or affection, to present them, that haue beene, or are negligent in comming to Church, or that vse to walk or talk therein, or that haue bin found by them standing idle, or talking abroad, either in the Church-yard or streets in the time of diuine Seruice or Sermon, or Sundaies or Holidiaies; or that haue not receiued the Communion yeerly, at the Feast of Easter, or within one moneth after?

A.C. 63.
R.L. 1, 7/5, 19.

6. Doe you know of any Church-wardens, which within forty dayes after Easter, in their yeere, did not exhibit to the Bishop or his Chancellor, the names and surnames of all the parishioners, as well men as women, (which being of the age of 16. yeeres and vward) receiued not the Communion the Easter before? And haue you, this last yeere exhibited a bill of them? or are you ready now so to doe?

R.L. 5, 13.
R.W. 7, 3.

7. Doe the Churchwardens against every Communion, aduise with the Minister, about the prouiding of a sufficient quantity of fine white-bread, and of good and wholesome wine, for the number of Communicants that are to receiue? And is the wine brought in a cleane and sweet standing pot of pewter, or of other finer metal? Vpon the Communion daies, do your Church-wardens (immediately after the Sermon or Homilie, and the Ministers exhortation to remember the poore) gather the deuotion of the people in a faire and solemne manner, and put the same into the poore mans box?†

R.L. 5, 17.
R.C. 51.
T.W. 2, 20.

8. Haue the Church-wardens suffered the Church, Church-yard, or Chappell, to be prophaned by Playes, Games, Feasts, Banquets, Suppers, Church-ales, Drinkings, Temporall-courts, or Leets, Lay-iiuries, Musters, &c.,§ at any time acted, kept, or held in them?

9. Hath any man that you know or haue heard of, by

* This Article added in 1662.—
10. When any Marriage is solemnized in your Parish Church, is there any thing accustomed to be said or done (in the Church, or Chancel, at the Church door, or in the Church-yard; either by the parties themselves, or any other that accompany them, or that are then and there present) which is not prescribed by the Rubricks of the Book of Common Prayer, or the Canons of the Church, and which is impertinent or vncomely for that holy business, and not befitting the reverence of that sacred place, in which they are assembled? specifie what it is, and present the parties.

† before or. Added 1662.

‡ This Article added in 1662.—

§ Do the Church-wardens suffer any one to read diuine Service in your Church at any time (whatsoever he pretend himself to be) till sufficient notice be taken, by themselves or some other credible person) not only of his being in holy Orders, but also of his Licence to read there. Or do they suffer any man to preach, till he haue subscribed his name in their Paper book, and the day wherein he preached, and by whose authority he is licenced?

§ Lay-iiuries—&c.] Coroners inquests, Parish accounts, Musters, Wrestling, Waslers, Dancings. 1662.

speech or writing, or vpon the assertion of any other man affirmed; that men ought not to take the office or the Oath of a Church-warden, or of presenting at the Bishops Visitation? Or that the said oath is vnlawfully giuen them; or that being taken, it is but of course, and binds them not, nor need to be regarded; or that (the said Oath notwithstanding) it is free for them, neither to make inquiry, nor to answer; but to do what they list, and to leaue out and passe by whom they will, and what they will, in their Presentments?*

Chap. 7. Concerning the Parishioners.

Doe any in your Parish prophane any Sunday or Holiday, by any vnlawfull gaming, drinking, or tipling in Tauernes, Innes,† or Ale-houses, in the time of Common Prayer or Sermon; or by working, or doing the worke of their Trades and Occupations? Doe any in your Parish buy or sell, or keepe open their Shops, or set out any wares to be sold on Sundayes, or Holidayes, by themselues, their seruants, or apprentices, or haue they any other wayes prophaned the said dayes? And hath the Kings Declaration concerning the lawfull sports and recreations beene published among you, yea or no? If so, when was it done, in what manner, and by whom?‡

A.C. 70, 71.
R.L. 5, 8, 9.
39.
T.W. 2, 28.
J.N. 7, 1, 7.

2. Is the fifth day of Nouember obserued and kept in your Parish, with Prayer and Thanksgiuing vnto God, in such forme, as is by publike Authority appointed for the day?§

G.C. 3, 17.
W.C. 5, 18.
J.N. 7, 8.

3. Is there any in your Parish that hath been heard to impugne or speake against the Rites and Ceremonies of the Church of England, or the lawfull vse of them; or to affirme by word or writing, that the forme of Making and Consecrating Bishops, Priests, and Deacons, or any thing therein contained, is repugnant to the word of God; or that the Gouernement of this Church vnder his Maiesy by Archbishops, Bishops, and other Ecclesiasticall Officers, is Antichristian? Or hath spoken reproachfully, or disgracefully of the Kings Maiesies Courts Ecclesiasticall, or of the proceedings thereof?

R.L. 5, 5/6.
R.C. 7.
L.C. 3.
J.N. 7, 2.

4. Haue you any in your Parish, that do come to the Sermon only, and not to diuine Seruice; or which vse to come late to Church, and to depart from Church before the Blessing be giuen, wherewith they are to be dismissed at the end of Seruice? Or that doe not reuerently behaue themselues, entering into the Church, and during the time of diuine Seruice? Do all (both men and women) deuoutly kneele, when the Generall confession of sins, the Letany, the ten Commandements, and all Prayers and Collects are read, as well as at Baptismes, Mariages and Burials, as at other parts of the diuine Seruice? Do all vse due and lowly reuerence, when the blessed name of the Lord JESVS is mentioned: and stand vp when the Articles of the Creed are read? Do any men couer their heads in the Church, (vnlesse it be for infirmity, in which case they may only weare a coife or night-cap,) or then and there grieue themselves to babling, talking, or walking, and are not attentiuely to the Prayers and Hymnes, and to heare Gods word read and preached? Do all say Amen audibly, and make such other answers both in the Letany, and all other parts of diuine Seruice, as by the rule of the Common Prayer booke, are to be made by the people?

A.C. 76, 78.
R.L. 5, 11, 41.
L.C. 33.
L.E. 5, 6.
G.C. 3, 1.
J.N. 1, 2.
J.N. 7, 3.

5. Doth any within your Parish, men or women, being sixteen yeeres of age and vwards, or any other, lodging or commonly resorting to any house in your Parish, wilfully absent themselves, from your parish Church or Chappell, vpon Sundayes and Holydayes and other dayes appointed, at morning and euening prayers, or refuse to receiue the Communion, or perswade others from comming to Church, or receiuing the holy Communion?

J.L. 4, 3.

A.C. 7.
R.L. 5, 23.

6. Haue you any popish or puritanicall¶ Recusants in your parish, that be of insolent behauiour, not without publike offence; or that do boldly busie themselves in seducing or withdrawing others, either abroad, or in their owne families, from the Religion established in the Church of England? And how long haue the said popish or puritanicall Recusants** obstinately abstained, either from diuine Seruice, or from the Communion? Whether of any long time, or of late only?

R.L. 5, 21, 23.
J.N. 1, 2.

7. Are there any in your Parish, who doe absent themselves at any time from your owne Church, and do resort

* Or do you know of any that haue abused the Church-wardens or other Sworn-men in your Parish, or giuen them evil words for executing of their office, or to dishearten or deter them from executing it, as by oath and duty they are bound? Added 1662.

† Tobacco-shops. Added 1662.

‡ And hath—by whom? Omitted 1662.

§ Is the thirtieth day of January also, and the twenty ninth of May well and duly obserued? Are the Bells orderly rung for a due obseruance of them? Do any in your Parish take upon them (in such publick manner) to observe any other daies in the year but these three? Added, 1662.

¶ puritanicall Recusants] puritanical and schismaticall Recusants. 1662.

** persuading. Added, 1662.

** said popish or puritanicall Recusants] said Recusants. 1662.

R.L. 5, 38.
T.W. 2, 5.
J.N. 7, 4.
R.W. 2, 27.

to any other parish or place to heare other Preachers? Or are there any in your parish, that do communicate, or that do baptize their children in any other parish?*

8. Is their within your parish† in any house or family, any one that is called or reputed a Chaplaine, or that is knowne or supposed to haue entered into holy Orders? Or any that liue there in employment as a scholler? Present there names if there be any such, and how long they haue bene there?‡

9. Is there any in your Parish, who doe refuse to haue their children baptized, or themselves to receiue the Communion, at the hand of your Minister, because he is no Preacher, or doth not edifie in their phansie?

10. Doth any married woman within your parish, after childe-birth neglect to come to Church according to the booke of Common Prayer to giue thankes to God for her safe deliuerance, vailed in a decent manner, as hath bene anciently accustomed? And doth she then kneele§ in some conuenient place nigh to the Communion Table,|| while the Priest (standing¶ by her) giueth thanks for her? And if there be a Communion, doth she then offer her accustomed offerings, and receiue the holy Communion?

11. Are there within your Parish or thereunto resorting, any players on Stage, or with Puppets, or any Musicians, Fiddlers, Rimers, or jesters, which do vse any prophane or filthy passages, in their songs, speeches, or gestures, to the dishonour of God, abuse of Scripture, or the corrupting of good manners; or which do publish any thing scandalous to the State,** or reproachfull to the holy Clergie?

12. Haue you any in your parish that are commonly knowne, or reputed to be blasphemers of Gods holy Name, common and vsual swearers, drunkards, vsurers, filthy speakers, adulterers, fornicators, incestuous persons, bawds, concealers of fornicators or adulterers? Haue any in your parish bene detected of such notorious crimes, and what penance haue they donie for the same?

13. What corporall punishment for any such ††offence, hath bene commuted and changed into a pecuniary mulct or sum of money, by any Ecclesiasticall Judge exercising iurisdiction within this Dioces, by vertue of any Graunt or Commission?‡‡ What was the sum of money by any of them so receiued and taken, and to what vses was the same employed? And vpon such Commutations, was the vnfained repentance of the delinquent published in the Church?§§

14. Doe all Fathers, Mothers, Masters, and Mistresses, cause their children, seruants, and apprentices to come to the publike catechizing on Sundayes and Holidayes, to be instructed and taught therein? And those that doe not their duties herein, in not sending them to it, or not comming, or not learning and answering you shall present their names.

15. Haue any in your Parish receiued or harboured any women gotten with-childe out of wedlock, and suffered her to depart without punishment first inflicted on her by the Ordinary? You shall truly present as well the party harbouring, as harboured; and who is suspected to be the father of the childe?

16. Is any person or persons suspected or detected heretofore of incontinency, and therefore departing out of your parish for a season, now returned againe? Or in what place else is he or she now abiding to your knowledge, or as you haue heard? You shall not faile to present the whole truth in that bekalfe?|||

17. Doe all your parishioners, of what sort soeuer¶¶, according as the Church expresly them commandeth, draw neere, and with all Christian humility and reuerence come to the Lords Table, when they are to receiue the holy Communion?*** And not (after the most contemptuous and vnholly vsage of some, if men did rightly consider) sit still in their seats or pewes, to haue the blessed Body and Bloud of our Saniour goe vp and downe, to seeke them all the Church ouer?

18. Are there any lately deceased in your parish, whose last Wills and Testaments haue not yet bene proued? or did they dye intestate? And if so, who hath taken vpon him the administration of their goods, and whether by lawfull authority from the Ordinary, or without? What be the names of such deceased, and of their Executors or Administrators?

19. What persons be excommunicated in your parish, and for what cause to your knowledge? And how long haue they stood excommunicate? And do any of them, not being absouled, presume to be present in the Church at diuine Seruice? And doe any familiarly vse the company of such as doe obstinately stand excommunicate, knowing the same; and what be their names?

20.* Doe you know of any that haue abused the Church-wardens, or other sworne-men of your Parish, or giuen them euill words for executing their office, or to disharten and deter them from executing it, as by oath and duty they are bound?

Chap. 8. Concerning Schoole-masters, Physicians, Chirurgeons, Midwives, and Parish-clarkes.†

Haue you any Schoole-master in your Parish, that teacheth publicly, or in priuate houses?‡ Is there any teaching of Schollars to reade or write in the Chancell, or in any part of the Church? Doth any papist keepe a Schoole-master in his house, who commeth not to Church to heare diuine Seruice, and to receiue the holy Communion? What is his name, and how long hath he taught there or elsewhere? Doth your Schoole-master teach any papists or sectaries children, that come not to Church? Doth he bring his schollars to Church, and duly instruct them all to learne the Catechisme in the booke of Common Prayer, at the least once euery week; or what other Catechisme doth he teach? Is he of honest and sincere life, and religion, and conuersation? Is he a Graduate, and sufficient to teach, and diligent in teaching and bringing vp of youth?

2. Is any thing with-holden and otherwise employed, that hath bene giuen to the vse of a schoole in your parish? What is it? by whom is it imbezelled?

3. What Physician or Chirurgeon haue you in your parish, who not being a Doctor of Physick, or otherwise sufficiently licensed in either of the Vniuersities, doth notwithstanding practise physick? what other persons haue you among you, either male or female, who take vpon them to professe¶ physick or chirurgery? And who be Midwiues in your parish?

4. Haue you a fit parish-clarke (aged 20 yeeres at least)|| of honest life, able to reade and write? Are his and the Sextons wages duly paid without fraud or diminution, according to the ancient custome of your parish?¶¶ By whom is he chesen? Is hee** diligent in his office, and seruiceable to the Minister? Doth hee keepe the Church cleane and the doores locked? Is there any thing lost or spoiled, by his default?

5. Doth your Clarke or Sexton take vpon him, to haue, or suffer any superstitious or any vnseasonable ringing of the bells at any time, or any ringing without good cause, such as the Minister and Church-wardens haue not allowed? When notice is giuen of any Christian passing out of this life, within the parish, doth he neglect to toll a passing-bell, or to ring after the departure? ††

Chap. 9. Concerning Ecclesiasticall Officers.

What peculiar or exempt Jurisdictions know you of, within the compasse of this parish?

2. Are there any Ecclesiastical (sic) Officers exercising Ecclesiasticall Jurisdiction within this Dioces, or any Ministers or Clarkes vnder them, who do take or exact any extraordinary fees, for any cause that you know of?‡‡

3. Haue any Church-wardens and Quest-men concealed and not presented any abuses or offences punishable in the Ecclesiasticall Court? Or haue any such offences, being

* Or do the Parishioners of any other Parish resort unto your Church? how long haue they done so? and vpon what occasion or licence? Added 1662.

† or in any Parish near you that you know of. Added 1662.

‡ and his name in whose house they keep. Added 1662.

§ And doth she then kneele] doth she also come to Church at or near the beginning of diuine Service that day, and when the thanksgiving for her is to be said, doth she go and kneel. 1662.

|| (but without the inclosure). Added 1662.

¶ within. Added 1662.

** State] Church, 1662. The following Article is inserted before Art. 12, in 1662:—

12. Do you know of any man or woman, that hath abused their Parson, Vicar, or Curate, or any other that is in holy Orders with contumelious words, or unciuil gestures or deeds, or behaued themselves rudely towards them? Or that haue reproached either the marriage or the single life of Priests, or haue said, or done any thing else that did redound to the scorn or dishonour of their persons or of their holy function and calling?

†† or any other. 1662.

‡‡ by vertue—Commission]. Omitted, 1662.

§§ and hath Commutation been granted to one and the same party afove once, for any crime of the same kind? Added 1662.

¶¶ as far as you know. Added 1662.

¶¶ receive the blessed Sacrament, thrice every year at least, and when they do receive it, do they all. Added 1662.

*** when they—Communion]. Omitted, 1662.

* This Article omitted in 1662.

† and Sextons. Added Ely 1662.

‡ and if so, what is his name, and how long hath he been there? Added 1662.

§ or practice. Added, 1662.

|| and a Sexton? Is your Clark or Sexton. 1662.

¶¶ What are the said wages by the year? Added 1662.

** is he] are the said Clark or Sexton. Is he] are both or either of them. 1662.

†† passing-bell—departure] whereby good, people (remembering their own mortality, and all our Christian society) may recommend their estate unto Gods mercy with an holy intercession for them to the throne of grace; or to ring a knell presently after the departure, that notice may be taken by all to give God thanks for that parties deliuerance out of this vale of misery. 1662.

The following Article is also added:—

6. Doth your Parish Clark or Sexton or any other of your Parish exactor require more then the ordinary and accustomed Fee for any seruice done by him or them, in or at Marringes, Christnings, and Burials; or for anything else concerning the same? or haue they refused to do their duties therein, until they haue received what they demanded?

†† or by way of grauity for expedition? Added 1662.

A.C. 79.
R.L. 9, 1
J.N. 7, 1

A.C. 74.
R.L. 5, 2
J.N. 7, 11

L.E. 5, 2
L.W. 5, 2

A.C. 98.
J.N. 1, 5

R.L. 4, 1
W.C. 3, 4
J.N. 8, 1

W.C. 3, 3

A.C. 69.
G.C. 3, 2
J.N. 8, 2

A.C. 6.
R.L. 5, 2
L.E. 4, 3
W.C. 4, 2
J.N. 8, 3

A.C. 33, 3
L.E. 4, 4
G.C. 2, 22

J.N. 9, 1
R.L. 3, 6
R.C. 72.

J.N. 9, 1
R.L. 3, 1

M.C. 26. by them presented to the Chancellor, Arch-deacon, Commissary,* Official, or any other vsing Ecclesiasticall iurisdiction within this Dioces, been suppressed, or left vnpunished, for bribe, rewarde, pleasure, friendship, feare, or any other partiall respect?

J.W. 2, 26. 4. Are any assemblies, called Vestry-meetings, held in your parish? when and how often are they? In what place, and by whom? Hath any thing (that you haue heard of) bene proposed, treated, or concluded therein, touching the diuine Seruice, or the doctrine and discipline of the Church? Or any thing medled with for the gouernment of the Church or parish, which belongs to the Ecclesiasticall cognition and Iurisdiction?

J.N. 9, 2. W.C. 7, 5. 5. Doth the Arch-deacon once in three yeeres, visite and suruey your Church, touching the repaire of the same, and vpon any defect found, hath he made certificate of it, as far as you know or haue heard?

J.N. 9, 2. W.C. 7, 5. 6. Are there placed by the Registrar, two Tables containing the seuerall rates and summes of all fees due to the Judge, and other officers of your Courts; one in the vsuall place or Consistory, where the Court is kept; the other in the Registry; in such sort as euery man may come to view the same without difficulty? and doth the Chancellor, Arch-deacon, Commissary* or Official, or any other Minister of the Court, exact or extort any other greater fees or sums of money, than in the said tables are contained?

W.C. 7, 2. 7. Doth any Arch-deacon, Official, or Surrogate vnder him, make commutation of any penance; or doth the Chancellor, or any Commissary,* or any Surrogate vnder any, commute or change any penance or corporall punishment, for any money, without the consent of the Bishop? And what money haue they or any of them received for such commutation, and of whom? when, and what was the offence, for which any such sum of money was received, or appointed to be paid?

J.N. 9, 3. R.L. 3, 4. 8. Doth the Chancellor, Arch-deacon, Commissary,* or Official, or any other person vsing Ecclesiasticall iurisdiction, speed any act in any cause, priuately of themselves, and not in the presence of some publike Notary or Actuary?†

J.N. 9, 4. R.L. 3, 7. 9. Is the number of Aparitors increased in this Dioces? And wherein, and in what manner is the Countrey ouerburdened or grieued by them? Hath any of them vnder pretence of authority, cited or summoned any person vnlawfully; or hath any of them taken any rewarde for the concealing of any offence or sin, or that the offenders might escape punishment? Who be they that haue so done? Or doe any of them take any fees that are not vsuall? Haue they threatned any to prosecute them, if they had no rewarde giuen them? Or do any of them cause any party to appeare in any Ecclesiasticall Court within this Dioces, without a citation first obtained from the Judge of the Court?

J.N. 9, 5. 10. Hath any Ecclesiasticall Judge or Officer whatsoever, Aduocate, Register, Procter, Clerke, or other such Ministers, any way abused themselves in their Offices, contrary to the Lawes and Canons in that behalfe prouided?‡

L.C. 3, 26. J.N. 9, 6. 11. Were there any particular or speciall injunctions giuen (as you know, or haue heard) by the Vicar generall or any other Commissioner, at the last Metropolitically Visitation of the most Reuerend the Lord Arch-bishop of Canterbury his Grace? And how haue the same been performed or obserued by the Minister or any other of the Parish, whom they concerne?||

12. Lastly, haue you and euery of you, by your selues, read, or haue caused to be read to you, all these Articles? Haue you well examined and inquired into euery particular therein intended? Haue you sincerely, vprightly, and without any partiall affection or concealement, presented and made knowne al and euery of the offenders in any of the particulars, either as they are taken in truth to be, or by common fame reported?¶

R.L. 5, 45. R.C. 76. J.N. 9, 6. If you know any other matter of Ecclesiasticall cognisance, worthy the presentment in your iudgement, and fit to be reformed by Ecclesiasticall censure, though it be not expressed in these Articles, yet you shal likewise present the same by vertue of your oaths.

The Minister also of euery parish may and ought to ioyne

* Commissary]. Omitted 1662.
 † Or (for want of them) in the presence of (two or more) sufficient witnesses, and then cause the same act to be registered? Added 1662.
 ‡ That you know of. Added 1662.
 § This Article is omitted in 1662.
 || This Article is added in 1662:—
 11. Do the Register or any of the Clerks in Ecclesiasticall Office, when they obtain Absolution from the Judge, neglect to send forth the same under the seal of the office, or doth any of them presume to give signification unto the Minister of the Parish, only by a Note or Ticket under their hand, to the intent that notice thereof should be taken, or the same be published in the Parish by him?
 ¶ And haue you used the help of your Parson, Vicar, and Curate, for the reading, understanding, examining, and answering these Enquiries? Added 1662.

G.C. 5, 3. J.W. 2, 34. J.N. 3, 8. with the Church-wardens or other Sworne-men, for the presenting of offences; and if they be so irreligious as not to doe it, the Minister of himselfe may and ought to present the offences, or the Church-wardens and Quest-men, for not presenting,* and is required in his Canonically obedience so to doe.

T.W. 2, 40. G.C. 5, 8. J.N. 9, 9. There must be distinct answer made to every Article, and to every branch thereof, as far as they know, or haue heard of any offence.†

And if (their Oath and all this‡ advertisement notwithstanding) any Church-wardens or other Sworne-men, shall follow the customary manner, and be carelesse in inquiring and presenting as they ought, then shall they not be able hereafter to say, that they had not faire warning to the contrary giuen them in the spirit of meeknes; or to complaine that they are hardly dealt with, if (vpon information and prooffe otherwise had) they be called to answer their willful periury in some other course of iustice, for neglecting to inquire and present to all the particulars herein proposed.

And to the intent that all things aboue mentioned may (by the helpe of God) as wel be kept, as set in good order, the Chancellor of the Dioces and all the Commissaries|| are hereby required, that so far as to them in their seuerall places it shall appertaine, when the Synods and Generals are holden respectiue,¶ they do faithfully inquire after al these things, and in al places of their Jurisdictions exact a due obseruance of the same.

The Parson, Vicar, or Curate of this Parish is required to receiue this booke, and vpon the Sunday next after the receipt hereof, immediately after the Morning Seruice** to publish the contents of the Processe which is sent forth. That all Preachers and Lectures (if there be any in the Parish) together with the Church-wardens both of this present yeere, and of the last yeere,†† and two or three of the chiefest parishioners beside,‡‡ as also all Physicians, Schoolemasters, Chirurgions, Midwives, and Sequestrators,§§ may take notice of the day and place specified in the said Processe, for appearance at the Lord Bishops Visitation: and after publication so made, this booke of Articles is to be presently deliuered to some of the said Church-wardens, for the vse of themselves and the rest that are to make Presentment.

MA. NORWICEN.

FINIS.

Particular Orders, Directions and Remembrances given at the Dioces of Norwich vpon the primarie visitation of the reverend father in God Mathewe Lord bishop of that Sea, 1636.

[These Orders are added in MS. at the end of a copy of the Articles printed in 1636.]

1. First that the whole diuine service be read (boeth the first and second service) on Sondaies and holydayes, Lecture dayes (yf they haue any), and the Communion service (called the second service) be audibly and distinctly read [at the] Communion table vnto the end of the Nicene Creed before the Sermon or Homilie, yet soe, as in very larg Churches the Minister may come nearer to read the Epistle and Gospell; and after the Sermon or Homilie the praiser for [the] whole estate of Christs Church, and one or more of the appoynted Collects att the Communion table likewise, and there dismisse the people with the peace of God, etc.

2. That the praiser before the Sermon or Homilie be exactly according to the 55th Cannon (mutatis mutandis), only to move the people to pray in the words there prescribed, and noe otherwise, vnles he desires to enterpose the names of the two Universities and of a Patron, and no praiser to be vsed in the pullett after the sermon, but the sermon to be concluded with Glorie be to the Father, and soe come downe from the pullett.

3. That the Communion table in everie Church doe alwayes stand close vnder the east wall of the Chancell, the ends thereof north and south, vnles the Ordinarie give particular directions otherwise. And that the Raile be made before it according to the Archbishops late Injunctions, reaching crosse from the north wall to the south wall, above one yard in height, and soe thick with pillars that doggs may not gett in.

4. That the Lettany be neuer omitted on Sondaies, Weddensdaies, and Fridaies. And that at all tymes the Minister be in his Surplesse and Hoode whensoever he is

* the same. 1662.
 † otherwise the presentment will not be admitted. Added 1662.
 ‡ punctual direction and. Added 1662.
 § Court or. Added, 1662.
 || and all the Commissaries] and the Official, and all their Surrogates. 1662.
 ¶ when the Synods—respectively]. Omitted 1662.
 ** before the Congregation depart. Added 1662.
 †† both of—last yeere]. Omitted 1662.
 †‡ if they be summoned. Added 1662.
 §§ and all other whom it doth concern. Added, 1662.

in publick to performe any part of his preistly function. And that in reading the Chapters he leave out the Contents, and after the lessons doe vse noe psalmes or hymns but those that are appoynted in the Communion (sic) prayer Booke.

5. That the Gloria Patri be said after everie psalme, all standing vpp, and that all the people doe awdibly make all answers in the lettany and all other parts of the service as is appoynted in the booke of common praier, and to that end, to lead the comon people therein, that there be a Clerk in everie parrish that can reade sufficiently and have competent allowance from the parish, and where there is none, that there be one forthwith apoynted and chosen according to the Cannon.

6. That the Quicunque vult, or Creede of Athanasius be vsed on daies by the Rubrick apoynted instead of the Appostles Creed, and that the Minister forgett not to read the Collects, Epistles and Gospells apointed for the Conversion of St. Pawle, and for all the holy weeke before Easter, and for St. Barnabies day, and for Ash-Weddensday with the Communion (sic) on that day: and also to vse the praier and suffrages in going the perambulacon which is yerely to be observed in every parish vpon the Rogacon dayes, videlicet, the Monday, Tewesday and Weddensday before Ascention day, and at noe other tyme; att which itt is awntiently enioyned that the Ministers att some convenient places doe (in a word) admonish the people to give thanks to God; beholding his l [ove] in the frutes of the earth, saing the 103 psalme, and as tyme and place shall admitt, the 115 [psalme], and att especial bound markes repeating this or such holy Sentences of Scripture, Cursed [be] he which removeth away the marke of his Neighbours land, and that retourning att last to the Church there they say the divine Service.

7. That noe man presume to have his hatt on his head in the tyme of Service and Sermon in the Church, and that due and lowly reverence be visibly done by all persons present when the blessed name of the Lord Jesus is menconed, and that every one of the people doe kneele devoutly when the Confession, Absolution, Commandments, or any Collect or other praier is read boeth at the tyme of the common Service in the Church, as also at Christnings, Burialls, Marriages, etc.

8. That warning be given by the Minister for holy dayes and fasting daies of the weeke following, ymmediately after the Sermon or Homilie, and that the Communion for the Sunday following be warned the Sunday before ymmediately after the praier for the whole estate of Christs Church, and that assoone as such warning is given, the second of those ii. exhortacons (which next after that praier for the universall Church are sett downe in the service booke) be treatably pronounced; after which to followe some of the Collects apoynted; and then to dismisse the people with the peace of God, etc.

9. That (when any need is) the Sick (by name) be praied for in the reading desk, and noe where ells, att the close of the first service (except itt be in the afternoone, and then to be done ymmediately after the Creed) vsing only those twooe Collects which are sett downe in the service booke for the visitacon for the sick. That next after that, the Marriage (yf there be any) be begonne in the boddie of the Church, and finished att the table. That the Churching of women begyn assoone as the Minister comes vpp to the Communion table before the second Service, vnles there be a Marriage the same day, for then the Churching is not to begyn till those praier apoynted to be saied att the Lords table for the marriage be ended.

10. That women to be Churched come and kneele at a side neare the Communion table without the Raile, veiled according to the Custome, and not covered with a hatt, or otherwise not to be churched, but presented at the next Generall by the Minister and Churchwardens or any of them.

11. That they goe vpp to the holy table at Marriages att such tyme thereof as the Rubrick soe directeth, and that the new married persons doe kneele without the Rayle, and doe at their owne charge (if the Communion were not warned the Sunday before) receive the holy Communion that day, or ells to be presented by the Minister and Churchwardens att the next Generall for not receiving.

12. That noe Minister presume to marrie any persons whereof one of the parties is not of his parishe, vnles itt be otherwise expressly mentioned in the licence, not that he marrie any by vertue of any facultie or licence, wherein the authoritie of the Archdeacon or official is mentioned, sub pena suspensionis.

13. That the parishioners be warned by the Minister and Churchwardens to bring their Children to Church for Baptisme in due tyme, and if any Child be not brought before the second lesson, that then the parents be presented for that defawlt, and that noe Baptisme be administred (excepting in case of great necessitie) butt on the Sunday or holydaye.

14. That the font (att Baptisme) be filled with cleane water, and noe dishes pail es or basons be vsed in itt, and that the Minister admitt; but twooe Godfathers for a male child and one Godmother and twooe Godmothers and one Godfather for a female; and then at the first doe aske them whether the child be yett baptized or not, and doe take itt into his armes, and signe itt with the signe of the Crosse when he baptize itt, and after all doe admonishe them to bring itt to Confirmacon when tyme thall serve.

15. That all Communicants come vpp reverently and kneele before the Rayle to receive the holie Communion, and that the Minister repeat to every Communicant severally all the words that are appoynted to be said att the distribution of the holy Sacrament.

16. That noe wicker Bottles or Taverne potts be brought vnto the Communion table, and that the Breade be brought in a cleane Cloeth or Napkyn, and that the words of Consecracon be awdibly repeated agayne if any Bread or wyne be to be vsed which was not at the first Consecrated.

17. That the Minister and Churchwardens of greate parishes to avoid Confusion or overlong wearieing both of the Minister and of the parishioners, doe take order that there doe not come above 300 or att the most 400 Communicants to one Communion, for which occasion they are warned to have the oftnr Communion.

18. That the holy oblations (in such places where itt pleased God at any tyme to putt into the hartes of his people by that holy action to acknowledg his gift of all they have to them, and their tenure of all from hym, and their debt of all to hym) be received by the Minister standing before the table at their comyng vp to make the said Oblation, and then by hym soe reverently presented before the Lord, and sett vpon the table, till the service be ended.

19. That the Minister doe cathechize in the afternoone half an hower at least, ymmediately after the last ringing or tolling of the Belles for the evening praier, according to the questions of the Catechisme only, and standing in the reading deske.

20. That the Ministers reading deske doe not stand with the Back to the Chancell, nor to remote or far from itt.

21. That the Chancells and Allies in the Church be not encroched vpon by buylding of Seates, and if any be soe built, the same to be removed and taken away, and that noe Pewes be made over-high, so that they which be in them cannot be seene how they behave themselves, or the prospect of the Church or Chancell be hindred, and therefore that all Pewes which (within) doe much exceede a yard in height be taken downe neere to that scantlyng, vnles the Bishoppe by his owne inspection, or by the veive of some especiall Commissioners shall otherwise allowe.

22. That none of what ranck soever doe keepe any Chapleyne, Schoolemasters, Ministers, or Schollers in their howses to reade praier and expownd Scriptures, or to instruct their famylie, vnles they be therevnto enabled by lawe.

23. That whereas Sermons are required by the Church of England only vpon Sondaies and holydaies in the forenoone and att Marriages, and are permitted att Funerals, That none presume to take vpon them to vse any preaching or expownding, or to hold any such lecturing at any other tyme withoutt expresse allowance from the Bishoppe.

24. That every one allowed to be a Lecturer doe reade the divine service fully in his Surplesse and hooede before every Lecture in the same manner as is apoynted on Sondaies, and that all Lecturers behave themselves modestly in their Sermons, preaching faith, obedience, and good workes, in all things observing his Majesties declaracon prefixed before the 39 articles, and his Majesties Injunctions, withoutt intermedding with matters of State, Newes, or questions late in difference, nor favouring or abetting any Schismatickes or Seperatistes eyther by especiall praier for them, or otherwise approving of them.

25. That the Churchwardens suffer noe men (but their owne Parson, Vicker, or Curate) to preach vpon any ocacon in their Church, till he shewe his licence, and subscribe his name in their paper booke for that purpose apoynted, and the name of the Bishoppe whoe licensed hym.

26. That there be the same manner of ringing and tolling of Belles to Church on holydaies which is vsed on Sundayes, and that there be no difference of ringing to Church when there is a Sermon more then when there is none, excepting the knell for Funerals.

27. That noe Church-windowes or Chancell wyndowes be stopped vpp in any part, nor the flore in any part vn-paved or vn-cleane kept, nor the Churchyarde any wayes abused or prophaned.

28. That all defawltes contrarie to the premisses hereof be faithfully enquired into by the Officials from tyme to tyme at their Generalls, of whome the Bishoppe will require an exact accompt concerning the same.

MATT. NORWICH.

KINGSLEY, ARCHDEACON OF CANTERBURY,
1636.

ARTICLES to be enquired of by the Churchwardens and Sidemen of every Parish; within the Archdeaconry of Canterbury: Whereunto, by vertue of their Oathes, they are to make Answers severally to every Article.

Printed at London by Richard Badger, 1636.

The Tenor of the Oath of the Church-wardens and Sworn-men.

You shall sweare, that you and every of you shall duly consider and diligently enquire of all and every of these Articles, given you in charge: and that all favour, affection, hatred, feare of displeasure, or hope of reward set aside: you shall faithfully present to this Court all, and every such person, which now or lately was in your Parish, that have committed any Crime or offence, or omitted any Duty mentioned in these Articles, or which are vehemently suspected, or defamed of any such crime, offence, or negligence. So helpe you God, and the Contents of His Holy Gospell.

God save the King.

Concerning the Church and Church-yard.

Whether your Church or Chappell with the Chancel therof be sufficiently maintained in all manner of needful reparations both within and without; the wals and covering thereof strong and close; the Bels in your steeple vnbroken, and their frames strong and safe from falling, and fit for vse; the windowes well glazed; the floores paved plaine and euen; the seats decent, and all things there kept without dust or noisomenesse, in such orderly and decent manner, as becommeth the house of God?

2. Whether your Church-yard be well and sufficiently repaired, fenced, and maintained, with wals, railles, or pales, as hath bene accustomed: and if not, what the defect is, and by whose default that is not done?

3. Whether haue you a Font of stone in your Church or Chappell, and the same set in the ancient vsuall place?

4. Whether haue you a conuenient seat made for your Minister to reade Seruice in; and also a decent Pulpit set in a conuenient place, and there seemely kept for the preaching of Gods word, with a decent Cushion or cloth for the same; and a decent and comely Surplice with wide sleeues for your Ministers vse?

5. Whether haue you in your Church or Chappell the Booke of Common Prayer, and the Bible of the largest Volume, well and fairly bound; and also the Booke of Homilies allowed by authority?

6. Whether haue you a decent Communion Table placed as it ought to be, so as may be most conuenient for the due celebration of the holy Communion, and of that part of diuine Seruice there appointed to be said: and also haue you a Carpet of Silke or other decent stuffe for this Table: and is that couered therewith in time of diuine Seruice; and also a faire linnen cloth, and is the said Table couered therewith at the time of the administration; and whether haue you a Communion-cup with a couer of siluer, and a fagon of pewter, or some purer metall to be vsed at the Communion?

7. Whether are the ten Commandements set vpon the East end of your Church, or Chappell, where the people may both see and read the same, and other chosen sentences written vpon the wals of the said Churches or Chappells in places conuenient?

8. Whether haue you set vp or fixed in your Church or Chappell a Table of the degrees within which it is forbidden to marry, set forth by authority in the yeere of our Lord 1563?

9. Whether haue you in your Church or Chappell a Parchment-booke, for the registering of all the christenings and burials, within your Parish: and also a sure Coffe with three locks and keyes, for the safe keeping of the said booke, the one key remaining with the Minister, the other two keyes with the Church-wardens, seuerally; and is the same register kept duly according to the seuenthy Canon?

10. Whether haue you in your Church or Chappell a Booke of Canons or Ecclesiasticall Constitutions?

11. Whether haue you in your Church or Chappell a strong chest with a hole in the vpper part of it, hauing three keyes; the one remaining in the custody of the Parson, Vicar, or Curate; the other two with the Church-wardens: and is this chest set or fastened in the most conuenient place to receive the Almes of the Parishioners? And doe the keepers of these keyes, as often as need requireth, distribute the said almes amongst their most poore and needy neighbours?

12. Whether is your Parsonage or Vicarage-house with all edifices thereto belonging, kept in good reparation?

Concerning the Minister.

13. Whether your Minister in reading publique prayers, administration of the Sacraments, and other Rites of the Church, do weare a Surplice; and if he be a Graduate, do vpon that Surplice weare such a Hood as by the Orders of the Vniuersities is agreeable to his degree?

14. Whether doth your Minister, either Parson, Vicar, or Curate, vpon euery Sunday and Holiday, and vpon the Eues of them, and vpon euery Wednesday and Friday in the place appointed, and at conuenient and vsuall times of those dayes, in a reuerent and distinct manner say diuine Seruice, according to the booke of Common Prayers: whether doth he read the Letany as it is there appointed; and in reading the holy Scriptures, saying of Prayers, and administration of the Sacraments, doth he obserue the Forme, Orders, Rites, and Ceremonies, prescribed in the booke of Common Prayer, without adding anything in matter of forme; and without omitting or shortning any of those prayers appointed to be read, or diminishing any thing vpon any pretence whatsoever, either of preaching, or any other respect?

15. Whether your Minister doe publicly baptise in any sort of Vessell, and not in the Font only: and whether he do alwayes signe the childe baptized with the signe of the crosse in the forehead; and whether he admit any parent, Godfather to his owne childe; or any either Godfather or Godmother, to any childe, who haue not before received the holy Communion; or suffered any Godfather or Godmother to make any other answer, than by the booke of Common Prayer is prescribed; and whether he refuse or delay to christen any childe, according to the forme of the booke of common prayer, that is brought to the Church to him vpon Sundayes or Holidayes. Or whether doth your parson or Vicar where there is no Curate. And where there is a Curate, whether doth this Curate being duly informed of the weaknesse and danger of death of any infant vnbaptized in the Parish, wilfully refuse [being desired] to go to the place where the same infant remaineth, and to baptize it; or of purpose or grosse negligence hath so deferred the same, as that through his default any childe hath died vnbaptized; or whether your Minister doe at any time baptize the children of parents dwelling in any other parish, who for that their Minister is not a Preacher, refuse to haue their children baptized by him?

16. Whether your Minister doe publicly in the Church at morning prayer the Sunday before each time of the administration of the holy Sacrament of the Lord's Supper, giue warning thereof to his parishioners? And whether hee doth administer the holy Communion, so often, and at such times that euery parishioner may communicate at the least thrice in euery yeere, whereof the Feast of Easter to bee one; and whether any bread and wine brought to the Communion Table bee vsed before hee rehearse the words of insitution without alteration, the said bread and wine being present vpon the Communion Table: and whether the Minister so often as he administreth the holy Communion, doe first receiue the Sacrament himselfe: and whether he doth deliuer both the bread and the wine to euery Communicant severally; and also whether he hath administered the holy Communion to any but such as kneele, or to any offenders which be openly knowne to liue in any notorious sin; or to any malicious person, who hath openly contended with his neighbour, before reconciliation; or to any Church-wardens who wittingly & wilfully refuse to present notorious offences, though vrged to discharge their consciences; or to any that refuse to be present at publique prayers, according to the orders of the Church of England; or to any notorious depraues of the booke of Common Prayers, administration of the Sacraments, and the Orders, Rites and Ceremonies therein prescribed; or of any thing contained in the Articles agreed vpon in the Conuocation, Anno 1562. Or of any thing contained in the booke of ordination of Deacons, Priests, and Bishops. Or who hath spoken against his Maiesties soueraigne authority in causes Ecclesiasticall; or hath administered the holy Communion to any in any priuate house, except in case of necessity, or impotency, or dangerous sicknesse; or to any strangers that be not of his owne parish; and whether he hath reiected any from the Communion who is not by law forbidden to come.

17. Whether any Deacon hath consecrated and administered the holy Communion in your Church, not hauing first receiued the full order of Priesthood?

18. Whether your Parson, Vicar or Curate, hauing knowledge thereof doe resort to such as be dangerously sick in your Parish, to instruct them in their distresse; and whether do they refuse to bury any corps, that is brought to the Church or Church-yard, conuenient warning being giuen according to the forme of the booke of Common Prayer; or do they inter any excommunicated person, who died so, not hauing sought to be absolved; or any who by law ought not to haue Christian burial?

19. Whether your Minister in Churching of women, doe vse the forme prescribed in the booke of Common Prayer, and no other?

20. Whether your Minister haue Churched any woman deliuered of a childe vnlawfully begotten, before she haue acknowledged her fault openly, according to the order inioyned by the Ordinary?

21. Whether your Minister haue married any person in any priuate place whatsoever or within your Churches or Chappels without either a faculty or license first granted to marry there, or the banes of matrimony first published three seuerall Sundayes, or Holydayes, in the time of Diuine Seruice, in the Parish Church or Chappell where the said parties dwell: and in this case whers the Banes haue bene thrice published, whether he haue married any in any other Church or Chappell, but of that parish where one of them dwelleth: or hauing no license, without the consent of the parents or gouernours sufficiently testified to them, if any of the parties to be married bee under the age of one and twenty yeeres. Also whether hee hath married any within the times prohibited for marriage, without licence; or at any vnseasonable times of the day, but only betweene the houres of eight and twelue in the forenoone, in the time of diuine Seruice. Or whether your Minister haue vsed any other forme in marriage than is directed by the Booke of Common prayer, or omitted any part of that. And lastly, whether your Minister vnder colour of any peculiar liberty or priuilege claimed to appertaine to certaine Churches or Chappels; haue celebrated mariage betweene any. contrary to the constitution of the Church?

22. Whether your Minister being not a licensed Preacher, doe take vpon him to expound in his owne cure, or else where, any Scripture or matter of doctrine; and whether in this case he doth not procure Sermons to be preached in his Cure once euery moneth at the least by a licensed Preacher; and vpon those Sundayes when there is no Sermon, doth not he or his Curate reade some one of the homilies prescribed?

23. Whether your Minister being a beneficed man, and allowed Preacher, and residing on his benefice, hauing no lawfull impediment, do either in his owne Cure, or some other Church or Chappell neere adioyning, where no Preacher is, preach one Sermon euery Sunday in the yeere; and in case he be licensed not to reside vpon his Benefice, is his Cure supplied by a sufficient licensed Preacher, if the worth of the Benefice will beare it?

24. Whether your Minister hauing two Benefices doth maintaine a Preacher licensed in the Benefice where he doth not reside; except he preach himselfe at both of them vsually?

25. Whether your Minister doe not reside vpon his Benefice, being not lawfully licensed to be absent?

26. Whether the Curate of your Parish if you haue any, be legally licensed to serue in that place; and whether he serue more than one Church or Chappell in a day, the said Chappell being not a member of the parish Church, nor vnted thereunto?

27. Whether your Minister doe at any time preach in any priuate house contrary to law?

28. Whether your Ministers, and Preachers, before their Sermons, Lectures, and Homilies, obserue the order of praying set forth and commanded in the 55. Constitution?

29. Whether your Parson, Vicar, or Curate, foure times at the least in a yeere, teach, open, manifest, and declare, in his or their Sermons, Collations, and Lectures, that all vsurped and forraigne power is for most iust cause taken away and abolished?

30. Whether any Minister preaching in your Parish Church, particularly, or namely of purpose, haue impugned or confuted any former doctrine, there before deliuered, or in any other Church neere adioyning, whereby vpon such publike dissenting and contradicting, there hath or might grow offence, and disquietnesse to the people?

31. Whether such Ministers who are strangers, and haue preached in your Church or Chappell, haue not first shewed their license to preach, and then subscribed their name to a booke where their name is noted by the Church-wardens, and the day when they preached, and the name of the Bishop of whom they had license to preach?

32. Whether your Parson, Vicar, or Curate, vpon euery Sunday and Holyday, for halfe an houre before Euening prayer, do examine and instruct the youth, and ignorant persons of his Parish, in the ten Commandements, the Articles of Beliefe, and the Lords Prayer, and diligently instruct, and teach them the Chatechisme, set forth in the booke of Common Prayer?

33. Whether your Parson, Vicar, or Curate, do solemnly euery Sunday declare to the people what Holydayes or Fastingdayes there be the weeke following?

34. Whether hath your Minister read all the Booke of Canons in your Church or Chappell, once the last yeere?

35. Whether your Parson, Vicar, or Curate, haue refused or deferred to publish any excommunication, against any of your parish, sent from his Ordinary, the next Sunday after the receipt of it, in your Church or Chappell: and whether your Minister do openly in time of diuine Seruice, vpon some Sunday, in the parish Church once euery six moneths, denounce and declare excommunicate, all such who for notorious contumacy or other notable crimes, stand lawfully excommunicate?

36. Whether your Minister doe diligently call vpon, and exhort, their neighbours from time to time, especially when they make their Testament, to giue as they may well spare to the reliefe of the poore?

37. Whether your Minister hath appointed, or kept any solemn Fast either publikely, or in priuate houses, other than such which are by law, or publik authority appointed, or hath wittingly bene present at any of them; and also whether your Minister, with any other person whatsoever, haue met together in any priuate house or elsewhere to consult vpon any matter or course, tending to the deprauing of the doctrine, or discipline of the Church of England, or the booke of Common prayer?

38. Whether is there a conamon fame in your parish, that your parson or vicar, hath obtained his benefice by Simony, or any other vnlawful meanes; and also whether he doth at any time, otherwise than for his honest necessity, resort to Tauerne, or Alehouses, or doth bord and lodge in any such places; or doth he giue himselfe to any base, or seruile labour, or to drinking or riot, or to playing at dice, cards, tables, or other vnlawfull games, or doth he spend his time idely, or lue scandalously?

38. (sic.) Whether your Minister doe vsually weare a gowne with a standing collar; and in their iourneys vsually, cloaks with sleeues, without welt or guard; and both abroad and at home, habit themselves in such a decent manner, as is ordered in the 74. Canon?

Concerning the Parish-Clarke.

40. Whether you haue a Parish-clarke chosen by the Parson, Vicar, or Minister of that place for the time being: is he of twenty yeeres of age at the least, of honest conuersation, and sufficient for his reading, and otherwise to discharge that place?

42. (sic.) Whether hath the said Clarke receiued his ancient wages, without fraud or diminution, according to the most ancient custome of the parish, and whether any refuse or neglect to pay the Clarkes wages and who they be?

Concerning Schoole-masters.

42. Whether haue you any Schoolemaster in your Parish, that teacheth either in publik Schoole, or in priuate house, not allowed by the Ordinary vnder his hand and seale, and whether is he of sober and honest conuersation?

43. Whether doth your Schoole-master teach the children the Catechisme set forth by publik authority, bring his Schoollars to Church to heare Sermons vpon holy and Festiual dayes; see that they behaue themselves there quietly and soberly; and vpon other daies so traine them vp, as shall be most expedient to induce them to all godlinesse; and teach them the Grammar set forth by King Henry the eighth, and continued in the time of King Edward the sixth, Queene Elizabeth, and King James of noble memory?

Concerning Physitians Chirurrgions, and Mid-wiues.

44. Whether any in your parish do practise physicke, or chirurgery, or that there be any Mid-wife there; or by what authority any of them doe practise, or exercise that profession?

Concerning the Parishioners.

45. Whether any in your Parish refuse to pay their asseesse for the reparations of the Church or Church-yard, and of all other things within the Church, which are to be provided and kept there for vse, or for any other charges which in relation to the Church or Church-seruice, are to be borne by the parishioners?

46. Whether any in your parish doth affirme, that the Church of England, established vnder the Kings Maiesty, is not the true Apostolicall Church, or doth impeach his royall Supremacy in causes Ecclesiasticall: and whether any of your parish doth affirme, that the forme of Gods worship in the Church of England established, by Law, and contained in the booke of common prayer, and administration of the Sacraments, is a superstitious or unlawfull worship, or containeth any thing repugnant to the Scriptures, or that the gouernement of the Church of England vnder his Maiesty, by Arch-bishops, Bishops, Deanes, Archdeacons, and the rest, that beare office in the same, is repugnant to the word of God; or that the Rites and Ceremonies, are wicked and superstitious, and such as men zealously affected, may not with good conscience vse, or subscribe to? Or that the Articles of Religion agreed vpon in the Conuocation, Anno, 1562. are erroneous, and such as one may not with a good conscience subscribe to: or that the forme and manner of making and consecrating Bishops, Priests, and Deacons, is repugnant to the word of God; and whether any combine themselves in a new brother-hood, accounting those Christians who are conformable to the doctrine, gouernement, Rites, and Ceremonies of the Church of England, to be unmeet for them to ioyne with in Christian profession: or do affirme that within this Realme, there are other meetings, or congregations, of the Kings borne subiects, then such as by the lawes of this Land, are allowed, which may rightly challenge the name of true and lawfull Churches; and that it is lawfull for any sort of Ministers, or lay-persons to ioyne together to make rules, and constitutions in causes Ecclesiasticall, without the Kings authority, and to submit themselves to be gouerned thereby?

47. Whether all the people of your parish do diligently resort to your Church, vpon Sundayes and Holidayes, to Morning and Euening prayer, and there abide orderly, and soberly all the time of diuine Service, with their heads vncoauered, except for some infirmity they weare a coife or night-cap: do they kneel vpon their knees when the Confession, Letany, and Prayers are read, and stand vp at the Beliefe, according to the Rules of the Booke of common Prayer? Doe they vse due and lowly reuerence, when in the time of diuine Service the Lord Jesus is mentioned; are any at such times otherwise busied in the Church, than in quiet attendance to heare and vnderstand what is read, preached and ministred? Do they in due places, and audibly say with the minister, the Confession, Lords prayer, and Creed, and make such other answers, as are appointed in the booke of Common Prayer?

48. Whether any disturbe the diuine Service or Sermon, by walking, talking, or in any other way, or depart out of the Church, during the time of Service or Sermon, without vrgent cause?

49. (sic.) Whether all persons within your parish, of sixteene yeeres of age and vppward, haue receiued the Communion thrice this last yeere at the least, and namely at Easter once?

50. Whether any person within your parish, refuse to receiue the holy Communion, at the hands of a Minister that is no Preacher; or to haue their children baptized by them in that respect, and doth therefore leaue his owne parish Church and communicate, or cause his children to be baptized in other parishes abroad; and will not reforme their error?

51. Whether any doe keepe their childe or children vn baptized, longer than is conuenient?

52. Whether any person haue bene married within your Church or Chappell, or in other places, and now dwell within your Parish, within the degrees forbidden in the Table of marriage; or that being separated for the same, do notwithstanding cohabit together?

53. Whether there be any that haue married two wiues, or two husbands, both liuing, or that being diorced or separated asunder, haue married againe, the former diorced wife not being first dead; or any that haue made secret contracts, and liue as man and wife, which haue bene secretly married out of the parishes where they dwell: or any couples who hauing bene lawfully married, liue not together, but scandalously liue apart?

54. Whether any women within your parish after child-birth, refuse or contemne, to come to Church, to giue God thanks for their deliuey, according to the booke of common Prayer?

55. Whether the Masters and Mistresses of Families, within your parish, cause their children, seruants, and apprentices, to come to Church at the dayes and times appointed, to be catechized by their Minister, and whether any refuse to come, and obediently to heare and be instructed by their Minister?

56. Whether there bee any within your parish, which behaue themselves rudely and disorderly in your Church or Chappell, or which by vntimely ringing of the bells, by walking, talking, or otherwise, shall hinder or disturbe the Minister or Preacher?

57. Whether there be any preaching, reading of Lectures, expounding of Scriptures, Chatechising, or other like exercises in priuate places, and families, or administring of either of the Sacraments, whereto others not of the same families do resort, and what they be that maintaine such meetings, and who resort to their houses?

58. Whether any within your parish, is a hinderer of the word of God to be read, and sincerely preached, or a fauourer of any vsurped or forraine power, or a defender of popish and erroneous doctrine?

59. Whether there be within your Parish any popish, or sectarie Recusant, which for any cause whatsoever, refuse to come to Church, to Common prayers, or to heare Gods word preached?

60. Whether there be any within your Parish, or resorting therunto, that be knowne, or suspected to be Massing Priests, Iesuites, Seminaries, or other persons, who haue receiued Orders, or authority from the Romish Church, and who maintaineth them, or whether any keepe hidden or conceale any Masse bookes, or other bookes of Superstition?

61. Whether there be any in your Parish who standing excommunicated doth resort to your Church or Chappell, and who they bee?

62. Whether any person haue quarrelled, fought, or brawled in your Church, Chappell, or Church-yard, and what be their names?

63. Whether you haue any Playes, Feasts, Church-ales drinkings, or any other prophane vsage kept in your Church, Chappell, or Church-yard?

64. Whether there be any Inkeepers, Victuallers, or Tiplers, that suffer or admit any person in their houses, to eate, drinke, or play at any game, in the time of Common-prayer, or Sermon, vpon Sundayes, or holi-daies? who are they that suffer them, and they that are thus suffered, and admitted?

65. Whether any Lay person, being neither Priest nor Deacon, haue presumed to reade Diuine Service, or execute the office of a Minister or Deacon in your Church?

66. Whether any in your Parish doe sell any wares, or exercise any trade, vpon the Sundayes, or vpon holy-daies, especially, in the time of Diuine Service?

67. Whether any man or woman in your Parish, be witches, sorcerers, sooth-sayers, or coniuers; or there be any that resort to such for helpe? Also, whether there be any commonly noted, to be malicious, contentious, vncharitable persons, raylers, and sowers of discord, betwene neighbours; and especially raylers against Ministers? And also, whether there be any in your Parish that haue offended their brethren, by Adultery, Whoredome, Incest, or drunkennesse, or by blasphemy, swearing, ribaldrie, vsury, or any other vncleannesse, and wickednesse of life; or which by a vehement suspicion, and common fame, are reputed to haue committed any of these crimes, and faults, or the like; and whether any haue departed your Parish, leauing behinde them a scandall of any of these Crimes, or which by fame were reputed faulty in them while they were in your Parish, and where they now liue? And also whether any be come into your Parish, which by common fame, was reputed to haue liued in any of these faults before his coming to your Parish.

68. Whether any in your Parish haue suppressed the wils of any dying there, or elsewhere, or that withhold legacies giuen to the poore, or from Orphants, or giuen to any godly vse?

69. Whether hath growne in your Parish any contention betwene the Parishioners, touching the placing or displacing any, in any Seat or Pew in the Church? And whether there haue bene any Pew built, or Gallery set vp in your Church or Chappell, or any Monument there erected, without the expresse leaue and consent of the Ordinary? If yea; Then in what place of the Church, Chappell or Chancell, and when, and by whom?

Concerning the Church-Wardens.

70. Whether the Church-wardens of the last yeere haue giuen vp a full account before the Minister and Parishioners of such money as they haue receiued, and how particularly they haue bestowed the same? Haue they deliuered ouer the money, and all other things of right belonging to the Church, or Parish (if there were any remaining in their hands) to the Parishioners; that it might by them be deliued, by bill indented to the next Church-wardens.

71. Whether the Church-wardens doe before euerie Communion, with the aduice of the Minister, prouide a sufficient quantitie of fine white bread, and of good and wholesome wine for the number of the Communicants? And is that wine brought to the Communion Table, in a cleane standing pot of pewter, or purer mettall.

72. Whether the Church-wardens see that in euerie meeting of the Congregation, peace be well kept; and that all persons excommunicated, and so denounced, be kept out of the Church.

73. Whether doe you euerie yeare in Rogation weeke, walke the Perambulation of the Circuit of your Parish, according as it is appointed by Lawe; and if it be not obserued, in whom is the fault?

74. Whether the Church-wardens of the last yeere, haue sold any goods of the Church, and what, and how the same haue bene employed?

75. Whether you know any other matter against the orders and Constitutions of the Church, not comprised in these Articles, which is Presentable, or any matter which hath not bene yet called vpon, and corrected, though heretofore presented; you are now to present the same?

FINIS.

PEARSON, ARCHDEACON OF SUFFOLK, 1636.

ARTICLES to be enquired of in the ordinarie (sic) visitation of the Right Worshipfull Master Doctor Pearson, Archdeacon of Suffolke,

Anno Domini. 1636.

London, Imprinted by Felix Kingston. 1636.

The Tenor of the Oath of the Church-wardens and Sworne-men.

You shall swear, that after due consideration had of these Articles given you now in charge, that you will diligently enquire, and true presentment make of all and every such Person of or within your Parish, which you shall know to have committed any offence, or omitted any duty mentioned in the said Articles; or which are publicly defamed or vehemently suspected of any such offence or negligence. So helpe you God, by the Contents of the holy Gospell.

Answers distinctly and severally to every Article.

The Minister [be he Parson, Vicar, Lecturer, Preacher or Curate] may joyne with the Sworne-men in their Presentments, and hee is to informe the Ordinary under his hand, of such faults as the Sworne-men shall leave unrepresented.

It is lawfull for the Minister alone, or for the Sworne Officers, to present as often as occasion requireth: and it is meet that notorious offences should in due time be presented and punished.

ARTICLES to be enquired of by the Church-wardens and Quest-men in the ordinary Visitation of the right Worshipfull M. Robert Pearson, Doctor of Divinity, and Arch-Deacon of Suffolke, or his Official. Anno Dom. 163 .

Articles concerning the Church, the Ornaments thereof, and the Churches Possessions.

Tit. 1. First, whether have you in your Church or Chappell, the whole Bible of the largest Volume, and of the last Translation, the Booke of Common Prayer lately set forth by his Majesties authority, the two Bookes of Homilies, and Bishop Jewels Apology, all well and fairely bound: a Font of stone set up in the ancient usuall place, with a hole in the bottome of it to convey away the water: a convenient and decent Communion Table, with a Carpet of silke, or some other decent stuffe continually laid upon the Table at time of Divine Service, and a faire linnen cloth, at the time of administering the holy Communion: and whether is the same Table placed conveniently as it ought: and whether is it so used, in, or out of the time of divine Service or Sermon, as is not agreeable to the holy use of it, as by sitting on it, or throwing hats thereon: or is it abused by any other prophane uses? Are the ten Commandements set up on the East end of your Parish Church, with other sentences of Scripture about them?

2. Item, whether have you in your Church or Chappell, a convenient seat for your Minister to reade Divine Service in, together with a comely Pulpit, set up in a convenient place, with a decent Cloth or Cushion for the same, a comely, large and faire Surplesse, a faire Communion Cup, a Flagon of Silver or pewter, with all other things and Ornaments fit and necessary for the celebration of Divine Service, and administration of the Sacraments? And whether have you a Chest for Almes, with the locks and keies, and another chest for keeping the Bookes and Ornaments of the Church, and the register Booke, and have you a Register Booke in Parchment, for Christenings Weddings, and Burials, and is the same kept in all points according to the Canons; and have you a Table in your Church of the degrees wherein by Law men are prohibited to marry?

3. Item, whether is your Church or Chappell, with the Chancell thereof, and all your parsonage or Vicarage houses in good reparations, and are they employed to godly and their right holy uses? if any of them be ruined and wasted, in whom is the default? Is your Church or Chappell, or Chancell decently and comely kept, as well within as without; and are the seates well maintained, the windowes well glazed, the floore kept paved, plaine and even, and all things in decent sort, without dust, or any thing that is either noisome, or unseemely for the House of God, as is prescribed in a Homily to that effect, and the 85. Canon.

4. Item, whether bee your Church-yards well fenced and kept without abuse? If not, whose default is it? Hath any person encroched upon the ground of the Church-yard; have any used a place consecrated to holy use prophane or wickedly; have any quarrelled or stricken another in the Church, or Church-yard: have any annoyed your Church-yard, or the fence thereof, by putting in of cattell, by hanging of clothes, or by laying there any dust, dung, or other filthinesse?

5. Item, what Legacies have beene given to the use and benefit of your Church, how they have beene bestowed, who received them, and detaineth them without due employment? Doth any detaine or embezell any of the Church goods, or any other gifts given to charitable uses?

6. Item, whether is there any erecting of puses, or minuating of seates in your Church, by any private man of his owne authority, and what seates have beene so built, and by whose procurement, and by what authority?

7. Item, whether hath any popish Recusant, being lawfully excommunicated, beene interred or buried in the Church or Church-yard, before absolution of the censure and excommunication? if yea, then by whom, and when?

Articles touching the Steeple.

Tit. 2. First have you a Steeple belonging unto your Church, and is it well covered with lead, or some other good and sufficient tecture, and are the walles thereof in sufficient reparations?

2. Item, how many Bels have you in your Steeple, and of what weight are they, and are they all well hanged up in frames in the Steeple; have they good ropes belonging to them, wherewith to ring them, and are they taneable?

3. Item, are the frames and wheels of the said Bels sound and strong, and are the planchers of your steeple good, and not broken, and are there a good paire of staires or good ladders, wherewith to goe up readily into the said Steeple?

4. Item, whether have any of your Bels within this twenty yeares, or more last past, beene alienated or sold? If yea, by whom, and to whom, and of what weight were the said Bels, and of what value by common estimation?

5. Item, have your Bels or any of them beene made lesse upon the last yoating of them? If yea, by whose default, and what is become of the metall that was so saved out of them.

Articles concerning Religion and Doctrine.

Tit. 3. First, whether there be any abiding in, or resorting to your parish, that have, or doe maintaine or defend any heresies, errors, or false opinions, contrary to the faith of Christ and the holy Scripture?

2. Item, whether doth any in your parish being sixteene yeares of age and upwards, or others lodging, or commonly resorting to any house in your parish, absent themselves from the parish Church, Chappell, or Oratory upon Sundayes and Holy daies, and other dayes appointed, at Morning and Evening prayer? Or what person doth usually come late to Church, or depart from Church before Divine Service and Sermon bee ended? Or whether bee there any that perswade others to forbear and abstaine coming to their parish Church to heare Divine Service and to receive the holy Communion, according to his Majesties Law in that behalfe enacted?

3. Item, whether be there any in your parish, that hath been or is vehemently suspected to have beene present at any unlawfull assemblies, conventicles or meetings under colour or pretence of any exercise of Religion, or doth any affirme or maintaine such meetings to be lawfull?

4. Item, whether be there any within your parish that deny or perswade any to deny or impugne the Kings Majesties authority and supremacy in causes Ecclesiasticall?

5. Item, whether be there any any abiding or resorting to your parish, that be, or are commonly reputed or taken to be ill affected in matters of Religion professed in our Church or taken to be Recusant papists, refusing to reapeire to Church to heare Divine Service, and receive the holy Communion, and disobedient to his Highnesse lawes in that behalfe established? present their names, qualities and conditions. Doth any papist keepe a Schoole-master in his house which reapeireth not to your parish Church as is required, what is his name, and how long hath he so taught there, or elsewhere?

6. Item, is there any in your parish, who in the manner of preaching hath taken upon him to repeate any Sermon in any private house, in any assembling or meeting together of people?

Articles concerning publique Praier, and administration of the Sacraments.

Tit. 4. First, whether any of your parish hath spoken or declared any thing in derogation or depraving of the forme of Gods Worship in the Church of England, and administration of the Sacraments, rites and ceremonies set forth and prescribed in the Booke of Common prayer, by the Kings Maiestie authorized and confirmed? Doe any preach, speake or declare that it containeth any thing which is not agreeable to the Holy Scriptures?

2. Item, whether hath any in your parish caused, procured, or maintained any Minister to say any common or publique prayer, or to administer either of the Sacraments, of Baptisme and the Lords Supper, otherwise or in any other manner and forme than is mentioned in the said Booke of Common prayer? Or whether hath any interrupted, hindred, let, or disturbed the Minister to reade divine Service, and administer the Sacraments, in such maner and forme as is mentioned in the said Booke, or interrupted him in his Sermons?

3. Item, whether is the Sacrament of Baptisme rightly and duely administered, according to the prescript forme expressed in the Booke of Common Prayer, with due observation of all rites and Ceremonies prescribed in the administration of the same, without adding or altering any part or parcell of any praers, interrogatories, or not using the signe of the Crosse in the administration of the same?

4. Item, whether is the administration of the Sacrament of Baptisme deferred longer than the next Sunday or Holy-day immediately following the birth of the childe?

5. Item, whether is the Sacrament of Baptisme refused to be administered to any children borne in, or out of Wedlocke, their birth being made knowne to the Minister of the Parish, and offered unto him to bee baptized; or have any such children dyed unbaptized?

6. Item, whether be the parents of any childe to be baptized, admitted to be God-fathers and Godmothers to the same?

7. Item, whether have there any children beene baptized in private houses by any Lay person, or Midwife, or popish Priest, or by any other Minister, without urgent occasion, when the childe was in danger of death?

8. Item, whether have the children which have beene borne to any popish Recusants, or begotten by them, beene publicly baptized in your Parish Church, by your Parson, Vicar, or Curate, or by whom were they so baptized, or where, to your knowledge?

9. Item, whether hath the blessed Sacrament of the Lords Supper beene duely and reverently administered every moneth, or thrice every yeere at least; whereof once at Easter, within your Parish Church to every Parishioner, being of the age of 16. yeares, or upwards?

10. Item, whether is the said holy Sacrament delivered unto, or received by any of the Communicants within your Parish, that unreverently sit or stand, and doe not devoutly and humbly kneele upon their knees at the time of the administration of the same?

11. Item, whether have any excommunicate persons or Schismatikes, common and notorious depravers of the Religion and government of this Realme, without unfained sorrow shewne for their impiety and wickednesse, beene admitted to receive the holy Communion within your Parish? present their names.

12. Item, whether hath any of your Parish beene debarred from receiving the said holy Communion without just cause, and without intimation first given to the Ordinary, viz. the Bishop of the Diocesse, Chancellor, or Commissary, and by whose default?

13. Item, whether hath any affirmed, that any of the 39. Articles agreed upon by the Archbishop and Bishops in the yeere of our Lord God, 1562. for the avoiding of diversities of opinions, are in any part superstitious or erroneous, or such as hee may not with a good conscience subscribe unto?

Articles concerning Ministers and Preachers.

Tit. 5.

First, whether doth your Minister distinctly and reverently say Divine Service upon Sundaies and Holy-daies, and other dayes appointed to be observed by the Booke of Common Praiers, at fit and usuall houres of the day: and doth your Minister duely observe the Orders, Rites, and Ceremonies, prescribed in the Booke of Common Praier, as well in reading all publique prayers and the Letany, as also in administering of the Sacraments, solemnization of Matrimony, visitation of the sicke, burying the dead, churching of women, and all other like Rites and Offices of the Church, in such manner and forme, as in the said Booke of Common Prayer is injoynd, without any omission or addition of any thing?

2. Item, whether doth your Minister alwaies, viz., every Sunday and Holy-day, both Morning and Evening reading Divine Service, and administering the Sacraments, and other Rites of the Church, wear the Surplesse, according to the Canons, and doth hee never omit the wearing thereof at the times aforesaid? If at any time he have omitted, specifie the times.

3. Item, whether doth your Minister bid Holy-dayes, and fasting dayes, as is appointed? Doth he administer the holy Communion every moneth, or thrice in the yeere at least, whereof once at Easter, to every parishioner?

Doth he receive the same himselfe on every day that hee doth administer the same to others, and doth he use the words of institution, according to the Booke of Common Praier, without alteration at every time that the Bread and Wine is renewed: doth he use and never omit the Signe of the Crosse in Baptisme, or doth he ever baptize in any bason or any other thing but the usuall Font? If yea, then is the bason set within the Font, and doth he baptize out of the same bason standing in the Font? Doth he marry any couple without a Ring; or in times prohibited, or without the Banes three times published, without a special licence from the Archbishop, or the Bishop of the Diocesse, or his Chancellour or Commissary, first had and attained?

4. Item, whether doth your Minister, being learned and sufficient, confer with the popish Recusants of your parish [if any there be] and endeavour to reclaim them from their errors, and present them being obstinate, for their recusancy.

5. Item, whether doth your Minister in the Rogation weeke goe the the perambulation of the circuit and bounds of your Parish, saying and using the praers and suffrages, and thanksgiving to God, appointed by law, according to his duty? And did he give warning the Sunday before, when the Parishioners should meet to goe?

6. Item, hath your Minister, or any other Preacher within your parish made any Sermons in any private house, administered the Sacraments, or churched women in any private houses, otherwise than by Law is allowed?

7. Item, what Preachers and Curates doe reade prayers, or administer the Sacraments within your parish without lawfull licence from the Bishop of the Diocesse, his Chancellor or Commissary? Or doth any Lay man (not having holy Orders) presume to reade publique praers in the Church?

8. Item, whether have you any Preacher or Lecturer in your Parish? If yea, whether doth he twice at the least every yeare reade himselfe Divine Service both Morning and Evening two severall Sundaies publicly in his Surplesse, and also twice in every yeare administer both the Sacraments, with such Rites and Ceremonies as are prescribed in the Booke of Common Praier, according to the 46. Canon.

9. Item, whether is your Parson, Vicar, Curate, or Preacher given to drunkennesse, or idlenesse of life, a hunter of Tavernes, Alehouses, or suspected places, a Dicer, Carder, Tabler, Swearer, given to base and servile labour, or otherwise giveth any ill example of life?

10. Item, whether is the Parson, Vicar, Curate, or Preacher of any other Parish, knowne to be a frequenter of Tavernes, Innes, Alehouses which are situated within your owne, or any other Parish? Or is he publicly defamed of such resorting and frequenting; as is aforesaid?

11. Item, whether doth your Parson, Vicar, or Curate, upon every Sunday and Holy-day, before Evening praier halfe an houre or more, examine and instruct the youth, and ignorant persons of his parish, in the Commandements, the Articles of Beliefe, and in the Lords praier? And doth he usually upon the said daies diligently heare, instruct and teach them the Catechisme, set forth in the Booke of Common Praier and none other?

12. Item, whether have your preachers and Readers of Divinity Lectures, declared foure times at the least every yeare in their Sermons or other Collations and Lectures, that all usurped and forraigne power is, for most iust causes, taken away and abolished, and that therefore no manner of obedience or subiection within his Maiesties Realmes, is due unto any forraigne power?

13. Item, whether have your Ministers used continually before their Sermons and Lectures, the forme of prayer prescribed in the 55. Canon, especially in praying for the Kings Maiesty, and the Archbishops and Bishops, and in ending with the Lords prayer?

14. Item, whether hath your Minister, after that he had received any letters of Excommunication, under the seale of an Ecclesiasticall Judge, suffered the party excommunicated to abide in the Church or Chancell, in the time of Divine Service or Sermon?

15. Item, whether hath your Minister in any of his Sermons or Lectures preached against any of the Ceremonies commanded to be used by the Church of England, or hath so preached against Ceremonies in generall, that by common acceptation at the least of the weaker, his words might be taken to tend to the depraving of the Ceremonies established by the Church of England?

16. Item, whether hath any one in his Sermon or Lecture, declared, limited, or bounded out, by way of positive Doctrine, the power, prerogative, authority, and duties of Sovereigne princes, or otherwise intermeddled with matters of Stat.

17. Item, whether hath any preacher in his Sermon used any unbecoming rayling speeches, or bitter invectives against the person of either Papist or Puritanes?

18. Item, whether hath your Minister when a dead body is brought to be buried, met the Corps at the Church doore; and when the Corps was making ready to be laid into the earth, Hath he stood by the Grave, or hath he read the Praiers or Psalmes appointed to be read by the Booke of Common praier, standing or sitting in his Deske?

19. Item, whether hath your Minister churched any woman but when hee himselfe stood by the Communion Table, and she kneeled downe by the said Table or neere unto it?

Articles concerning Matrimony.

Tit. 6. First, whether bee there any in your Parish, that have married within the degrees of Consanguinity or Affinity, by the Law of God forbidden, and what be their names?

2. Item, whether have any within your Parish bene married secretly in private houses, or without their parents or governors consent signified, being under the age of one and twenty yeares?

3. Item, whether doe any married Couples live asunder unlawfully, and doe not cohabit together, as becommeth man and wife? And if yea, what be their names, and in whom is the default?

4. Item, whether any persons (the Banes not thrice published in the Church) have bene married without licence, who were present at such Marriage, and what Minister married them?

5. Item, what popish Recusants or their children have bene married within your parish, in what sort was their matrimony solemnized, when and by whom?

6. Item, whether have there bene any persons married in your Church in the times prohibited by the Lawes, viz. from Advent Sunday, untill eight dayes after the Epiphany, from Septuagesima untill eight dayes after Easter day, from three dayes before the Ascension untill Trinity Sunday, without a lawfull licence or dispensation first obtained from the Bishop of the Diocesse, his Chancellor or Commissary?

7. Item, whether hath the Minister said all the Praiers and Psalmes appointed to be said by the Booke of Common Praier at the time of the solemnization of Marriage, and hath the Minister standing by the Lords Table (and the married couple kneeling) before the same, said those Praiers which follow next after the Psalmes, Deus miserere: and hath he omitted any part of them, if yea, then specifie the parties betweene whom Marriage was solemnized, and the time when the Minister did omit any part of his said duty therein?

Articles concerning the keeping of Christenings, Weddings, and Burials.

Tit. 7. First is there in your parish Church or Chappell, a parchment Booke for the Registering of Christenings, Weddings and Burials?

2. Item, hath the said Booke bene kept in your parish Church or Chappell in a Coffe with three lockes and keies, and hath one of the said keies bene kept by the Minister, and the other two with the Church-wardens severally?

3. Item, hath the Minister without the Church-wardens, or have the Church-wardens without the Minister, at any time taken out the said Booke out of the said Coffe, or hath the Minister kept the said Booke in his private house?

4. Item, hath your Minister, in the presence of the Church-wardens upon every Sabbath day, immediately after Morning or Evening Praier, written and recorded in the said Booke the names of all persons Christened, together with the names and surnames of their parents; and also the names of all persons married and buried in that Parish in the weeke before?

Articles concerning Schoole-masters.

Tit. 8. First, doth any in your Parish openly or privately take upon him to teach schoole without licence of the Ordinary, and is hee conformable to the Religion now established? and doth hee bring his Schollers to the Church to heare Divine Service and Sermons? and doth hee instruct his Schollers in the grounds of the Religion now established in the Church of England, and is he carefull and diligent to benefit his Schollers in learning?

2. Item, doth your Schoole-master teach and instruct his youth in any Catechisme than is allowed by publique Authority, and what Catechisme it is that he so teacheth?

3. Item, doth any keepe Schoole in the Chauncell or Church, by which meanes that holy place, and the Communion Table are many waies profaned and the windowes broken?

Articles concerning the Parishioners.

Tit. 9. First, whether doe any of your Parish or any other, that hath resorted, or doth resort to your Parish, prophane the Sabbath day or Holydayes, by drinking and tipping in Innes, or Ale-houses, or by playing at unlawfull games?

2. Item, is there any in your Parish that doe impugne or speake against the Rites and Ceremonies of the Church of England, or the lawfull use of them, and the governement of this Church under his Majesty, by Arch-bishops, Bishops and other Ecclesiasticall Officers?

3. Item, who in your parish doe come to the Sermon onely, and not to Divine Service, and who doe not reverently behave themselves during the time of Divine Service, kneeling when the general Confession of sinnes, the Letany, the ten Commandements, and all Praiers and Collects are read, and using all due and lowly reverence when the blessed name of the Lord Jesus is mentioned in the time of Divine Service, and standing up when the Articles of the Beleeve and the Gospell are read? And who doe cover their heads in time of Divine Service, unlesse it be in case of necessity, in which case they may weare a night cap? And who doe give themselves to babbling, talking, or walking, and are not attentive to hear te (sic) Word read and preached?

4. Item, is there any in your Parish [Line cut off.] that refuse to have their children bapception against him, because he is no Preacher? Or have any wives refused to come to Church, to give thanks to God for their safe deliverance, in a decent habit, with a Rayle (sic), as hath bene anciently accustomed.
* * * * *

5. Item, have any of your Parish spoken slanderous and reprochfull words against your Minister, to the scandall of his Vocation, or against their marriage, or wives, or defaming him, touching any crime of Ecclesiasticall cognizance?

6. Item, whether doe any in your Parish exercise any trade or labour, buy, or sell, or keepe open their shops, or set out any wares to be sold upon Sundayes and Holydayes, by themselves, their servants or apprentices, or have otherwise profaned the Sabbath day, or Holydayes?

7. Item, is there any in your parish that be, or are commonly knowne, or reputed to be blasphemers of Gods holy Name, or accustomed swearers, or to use any ribaldry in their talke, or be drunkards, adulterers, fornicators, incestuous persons? And have any bene detected of any such notorious crimes and offences; and whether have they done penance for the same?

8. Item, is there any in your Parish who is publicly defamed, or vehemently suspected of getting his, or their wives with childe before marriage?

9. Item, whether have any persons dyed within your Parish; whose Will and Testament (if any were made) is not proved, or administration of their goods taken, according to Law; and whether is there any in your Parish, who doe administer the goods of any person deceased, without lawfull authority, and before he or they have proved the Will and Testament of the party deceased, or have obtained Commission from the Ordinary, viz. the Bishops Chancellor or Commissary, to dispose the said moveable goods?

10. Item, what excommunicate persons bee within your Parish, and for what causes are they excommunicate, to your knowledge? And whether doe any such excommunicate persons repaire to your parish Church in time of Divine Service or Sermon, not being absolved?

11. Item, if there be any persons excommunicate within your parish, which is made notorious by denouncing them excommunicate in the face of the Church: who, and what person and persons doe keepe or frequent their company, eate or drinke, or have any thing to doe with any such excommunicate person? present their names, for it is not lawfull for them so to doe, so long as they remain under the sentence of excommunication.

12. Item, whether doe all Fathers, Mothers, Masters and Mistresses, cause their Children, Servants and Apprentises, both males and females, which have not learned their Catechisme to come to the Church upon Sundayes and Holydayes, before Evening Prayer, obediently to heare, and to be ordered by the Minister, untill they have learned the same?

13. Item, is there any House-holder within your Parish, that doth not duly goe in perambulation with the Minister, and the rest of the parishioners, the circuit and bounds of your Parish? What are the names of such as made or suffered default to be made therein * * * * *

[Line cut off.] * * * any other persons, that were * * * * *

Church-wardens, retainé any goods belonging to the Church, and have not made the just account of their receipts and expences about the executing of their office?

15. Item, what person or persons is, or are chosen Church-warden, or Church-wardens of your Parish for this yeere, 163 and when were they so chosen and by whom?

16. Item, whether is there a Booke in your Parish, wherein the name of every strange Preacher that preacheth in your parish, should subscribe his name, the day when hee preached, and the name of the Bishop of whom hee had licence to preach? And whether hath every Preacher that was a stranger, so subscribed before he preached in your Church?

17. Item, whether doth not every one dwelling within your Parish, observe all those dayes for fasting dayes, which are appointed by a Statute made in the fifth and sixth yeere of Edw. 6. or shall eate flesh upon those dayes?

18. Item, whether you the Church-wardens and Assistants have according to the 28. Canon, marked whether all and every of your parishioners in your parish come so often every yeere to the Holy Communion, as the Law and his Majesties Constitutions Ecclesiasticall doe require? And whether any stranger have come often and commonly from other parishes to your Church, and whether have you shewed your Minister of them, least they should be admitted there to the Lords Table? And whether such person or persons have bene forbidden and remitted home to his or their owne parish Church, there to receive the Communion? Or hath hee or they notwithstanding received the same in your Church? Declare their names, and who admitted them thereunto.

19. Item, whether doe the people say audibly with the Minister the Confession, the Lords Praier, and the Creed, and make such other answers to the publique Praiers as are appointed in the Booke of Common Praiers? Or who faileth therein?

20. Item, whether hath any one in your Parish answered as God-father for his owne child? Or hath any bene a God-father or God-mother, before he or she have received the holy Communion? Declare their names.

21. Item, whether there be any married women in your Parish who after Child-birth have refused to come to the Church to give God thanks for their safe deliverance, and to have the praiers publicly appointed on that behalfe by the Booke of Common Praier, to be used?

22. Item, whether hath any woman been churchéd sitting in her seat, and not kneeling downe in some convenient place nigh unto the place where the Communion Table standeth?

23. Item, How many have you in your parish that doe practise as Physicians or Chirurgicalians, and by what authority? specific their severall names.

FINIS.

PECULIARS OF CANTERBURY, 1637.

ARTICLES to be enquired of by the Minister, Churchwardens, and Sidemen of every Parish and Chappelry, within the Deanry of

In the yeere of our Lord God, 16 and Presentment to bee made by them, containing a particular answer to every Article.

Printed at London by J. B. 16 †.

The forme of the Oath taken by the Church-wardens and Sidemen.

You shall swear, that you, and every of you shall diligently informe your selves of these Articles given you in charge, and that all fauor, hatred, hope, feare, or any other corrupt affection set aside, you shall Present all and every such person now, or lately of your Parish, which have committed any offence comprised in any of these Articles, or which are vehemently suspected, or defamed of any such offence, wherein you shall deale according to an upright conscience, neither presenting, or sparing to present any person contrary to truth. So helpe you God, and his faithfull promises in Iesus Christ.

Concerning the Church.

Whether have you in your Church or Chappell all things requisite for the Common Prayer, and dve administration of the Sacraments, and namely, a faire Bible, the booke of Common Prayer, lately ordained onely to be vsed, the booke of Homilies lately by authority printed, a Font of stone set vp in the ancient vsuall place, a decent Communion Table standing vpon a frame, with a Carpet of silke, or some other seemely stuffe, to be alwaies laid there in the time of Diuine Seruice, and a faire linnen cloth to lay thereon at the time of Communion, a faire Communion cup with a couer of Siluer, a Flagon or stoupe of Siluer or Pewter to containe the wine vpon the Communion Table, a decent Pulpit, with a Cloth and Cushion for the same, a conuenient seat to read Seruice in, a comely large Surplice, a strong chest for Alms for the poore, with three lockes and keies, and another chest for keeping the ornaments of the Church and Register booke.

* Filled up with Sporham, in MS.

† Filled up with the date 1637, in MS.

2. Whether is the Communion Table placed in such sort within the Chancell or Church, as that the greatest number of Parishioners may most conueniently receiue? And whether in time of diuine Seruice, or at any other time it be vnreuerently vsed, as by sitting, leaning, throwing hats, or writing thereon, and whether the Parishioners make any assembly thereat which is not agreeable to the holy end for which it was ordained, or is it abused to any other prophane vse?

3. Whether are the ten Commandements set vpon the East end of your Church or Chappell, where the people may best read them; whether are the seats of your Church or Chappell well maintained, and the walls faire beautified and adorned with sentences of the Scripture written thereon?

4. Whether haue you a Register booke in Parchment of all Christenings, Weddings, and Burials, and whether is the same kept according to the Canons, and a Transcript thereof brought yeerely into the Office of principall Registry of the Lord Archbishop of Canterbury, and whether doth your Minister vpon euery Sunday read the names of such as haue bene christned, married, or buried the weeke before, and haue you a Table of degrees wherein marriage is prohibited?

5. Whether your Church, Chappell, Chancell, or Church-yard, be kept in good reparations, as wel within as without, whether any prophanation be, or haue bene vsed in them, by fighting, brawling, gaming, (sic) and playing by men or boyes, or by any other meanes, or whether any man hath ineroached vpon them? And whether your Parsonage or Vicarage house, and all housing thereunto belonging, be likewise maintained in sufficient reparations, and employed to their right vses and ends?

6. Whether haue you a Terrier of all the Gleabelands, Meadowes, Gardens, Orchards, Houses, Stocks, Implements, Tenements, and portions of Tythes lying within or without your Parish, which belong to your Parsonage or Vicarage, and in whose hands it doth remaine: If not, you shall (together with your Minister) make diligent enquiry of all the premises, and exhibite with your next presentment a true note of them in Parchment, subscribed with your hands, specifying how they are buttalled or bounded, and in whose occupation at this present they are?

Concerning the Minister.

7. Whether diuine Seruice be said in your Church by your Minister distinctly and reuerently vpon Sundayes, and such Holidayes as are appointed to be obserued by the booke of Common Prayer, and their Eeues, and vpon Wednesdayes and Fridayes, at vsuall and conuenient times: whether doth he not often omit the Letany, and other parts of diuine Seruice; and whether doth he in ministring the Sacraments, solemnizing of Matrimony, visitation of the sicke, burying the dead, churching of Women, or any other Rites and Offices of the Church, vse the formes of prayers prescribed in the same booke, without any omission or addition: And whether doth he weare a Surplice according to the Canon?

8. Whether doth your Minister solemnly giue warning to his Parishioners for the holy Communion, and for all Holidayes, and fasting dayes: And whether doth he minister the Communion so often, and such conuenient times, that every Parishioner may receiue thrice every yeere; And doth the Minister receiue the same every time that he administred it to others, and vse the words of institution at every time the Bread and Wine is renewed; and whether doth hee admit to the holy Communion any notorious offenders, schismaticke, or strangers of other Parishes, or reiect any who are not by presentment or publike scandall infamous for some notorious crime?

9. Whether doth your Minister visit the sicke, when he is thereunto desired, to comfort and instruct them, and whether doth he offer to conferre with Recusants in your Parish, in case there be any?

10. Whether doth your Minister admit any Father to be Godfather to his owne childe, or any to bee Godfathers and Godmothers which haue not receiued the holy communion, or doth not vse the signe of the crosse in baptisme, or doth baptize in any Bason, or other vessel, and not in the vsuall Font, or doth baptize any children that were not borne in the Parish, or doth refuse to baptise, or doth deferre the same longer then he should, and whether by his default any childe hath dyed without baptisme in your Parish?

11. Whether doth your Minister marry any in any exempt place, or without Banes published three seuerall Sundayes, or Holidayes, or without a sufficient Dispensation or License, or without License in times prohibited, albeit the Banes were thrice published, or not betweene the houres of eight and twelue in the forenoone, or if the parties be vnder the age of one and twenty yeares before their parents haue signified their consent to him?

12. Whether doth your Minister refuse to bury any which ought to be interred in Christian buriall, or doth deferre the same longer then he should, or bury any in Christian buriall which by the Constitutions of the Church of England ought not so to be interred?

13. Whether doth he Preach, minister the Communion, baptise children, or church women (vnlesse in case of necessity) or in any case without a faculty solemnize Matrimony in priuate house, or doth hee keepe or suffer any Fast, or Prophesies, Exercises, Exorcismes, without lawfull authority, or doth hold or suffer any priuate Conuenticles?

14. Whether doth he frequent Tauernes, Alehouses, or any place suspected for incontinency, or doth Table or lodge in any such house, or is he an vsuall gamester at Dice, Cards, Tables, or any other vnlawfull game, a swearer or drunkard, or one that doth not apply himselfe to his study, or doth not vse decency in his Apparell, or doth vse bodily labour not fit for his calling, or is otherwise offensiue or scandalous to his function and ministry?

15. Whether is he continually resident vpon his Benefice, and how long hath he bene absent from the same (in case he be licensed to be absent) whether doth he cause his Cure to be sufficiently supplied, and whether (if he be allowed a Preacher) doth hee preach one Sermon euery Sunday in your Parish, or in some other neere adioyning? Or (if not so allowed) doth procure monthly Sermons, and read Homilies, and whether (not being so allowed) doth he expound any Scripture, or suffer any man to preach in your Church, whom ye haue not knowne to haue bene sufficiently licensed, and who hath not first subscribed his name, together with the day when he did preach, and who was not soberly and decently apparelled?

16. Whether doth your Minister read diuine Seruice and minister the Sacraments twice euery yeere at the least in his owne person, and whether doth he vse the forme of prayer before his Sermons for the Kings most excellent Maiesty, exhorting the people to obedience to his Maiesty, and other Magistrates in authority vnder him?

17. Whether doth your Minister on Sundaies and Holidayes Catechize the youth and ignorant persons in your parish? And whether doth he admit any woman to be churched who were begotten with childe in Adultery, or fornication, without license from the Ordinary, and whether doth he in the Rogation-dayes vse the perambulation of the circuit of the parish?

18. Whether doth he euery six months denounce in his parish Church all such of his parish as doe perseuere in the sentence of Excommunication, not seeking to be absolved, and whether hath he admitted any such excommunicate person to the Communion, or to the Church without Certificate of his absolution, and whether doth he, or any of your parish, familiarly frequent the company of any such excommunicate person?

19. Whether is your Curate licensed to serue, if he be so, then by whom?

Schoolmasters.

20. Doth any of your parish take vpon him to teach Schoole without license of the Ordinary, and is he conformable to the Religion now established, is he of any base trade or occupation, or otherwise reprobable in life, and doth he bring his Schollers to the Church to heare diuine Seruice, and Sermons, and doth he instruct his Schollers in the grounds of Religion now established in this Church of England, & is he careful & diligent to benefitt his schollers in learning?

Parish-Clarke and Sextons.

21. Haue you a fit parish Clarke, aged twenty yeeres at least, of honest conuersation, able to read and write, whether are his Sextons wages payd without fraud, according to the ancient custome of your parish, if not, then by whom are they so defrauded or denied, by whom are they chosen, and whether the said Clarke be approved by the Ordinary, and hath he taken an oath as in such cases is fit and required and is he diligent in his office, and seruiceable to the Minister, and doth he take vpon him to meddle with any thing about his office, as churching of women, burying the dead, and such like?

21795.

22. Doth your Clarke or Sexton keepe the Church cleane, the doores locked, is anything lost or spoyled in the Church through his default, doth he suffer any vnseasonable ringing, or any prophane exercise in your Church, or doth he (when any is passing out of this life) neglect to tole a Bell hauing notice thereof?

Midwiues, Physicians, and Chirurgions.

23. How many midwiues haue you in your parish which exercise that office, how long haue they so done, and by what authority? Also, how many in your parish doe practice as Physitians or Chyrurgions, how long haue they so done, and of what skill are they reputed in their profession?

Touching Churchwardens, and Sidemen.

24. Whether haue the Churchwardens and Sidemen from time to time done their diligences in not suffering any idle person to abide either in the Church-yard or Church-porch in Seruice or Sermon time, and whether haue and doe they diligently see the Parishioners duly resort to the Church euery Sunday and Holiday, and there to remaine during diuine Seruice and Sermon, and whether haue they suffered any Playes, Feasts, drinkings, or any prophane vsages to be kept in the Church, Chappell, or Church-yard, or haue not diligently searched euery Sunday or Holiday, whether any person or persons be tipling or drinking in any Inne or Victualling house in your parish, during the time of diuine Seruice or Sermon?

25. Whether, and how often haue they admitted any to preach within your Church or Chappell, which was not sufficiently licensed, whether they together with the Minister haue not taken diligent heed and care that euery Parishioner being of the age of sixteene yeeres and vpwards, haue receiued thrice euery yeere, and also that no stranger haue vsually come from their owne parish Church to theirs?

26. Whether haue there bene provided against euery Communion a sufficient quantity of fine white bread, and of good and wholesome wine for the Communicants that shall receiue, and whether that wine be brought in a cleane and sweet standing pot of pewter, or other finer metall?

27. Whether haue the late Churchwardens giuen up a iust account for their time before the Minister and Parishioners, and deliuered to their Successours the money, and other things belonging vnto the Church which was in their hands, and are the almes of the Church faithfully distributed to the vse of the poore?

Touching Apparators.

28. What number of Apparators resort among you, and in what manner is the Country ouerburthened by them, & wherein haue they caused or summoned any to appear in Court, and of their owne authority discharged them againe, or whether haue they threatened to persecute any of your Parish, if they would not giue them some rewards, and what bribes in that behalfe haue they taken?

Articles concerning the Parishioners and other of the Laity.

Whether is there any within your parish that hath or doth impugne the Kings Maiesties Supremacy, and Authority in causes Ecclesiasticall, or doth any way, or in any part impeach the same, being restored to the Crowne by the Lawes of the Realme established in that behalfe?

2. Whether is there any in your parish that denieth the Church of England by law established vnder the Kings most excellent Maiesty, to be a true and Apostolical Church, teaching and maintaining the doctrine of the Apostles?

3. Whether is there any in your parish, that doth impugne any of the Articles of Religion, agreed vpon in Anno 1562, and established in the Church of England?

4. Whether is there any in your parish doe impugne and speake against the Rites and Ceremonies established in the Church of England, or the lawfull vse of them? you shall present their names.

5. Whether is there any in your parish that doe impugne the government of the Church of England, vnder the Kings most excellent Maiesty, by Arch-bishops, Bishops, Deanes, Arch-deacons, and the rest that beare office in the same affirming that the same is Antichristian or repugnant to the Word of God.

6. Whether is there any in your parish that impugne the forme of consecration & ordaining of Arch-bishops, Bishops, Priests, or Deacons, affirming, that the same is repugnant to the Word of God: or that that they, who are so ordered in the same form, are not lawfully made?

7. Whether is there any in your parish that doth hold or frequent any Conuenticles, or priuate meetings, and there doe conferre or agree vpon any priuate Orders, others then such as are by the Canons set forth by publike authority, to be by them, or any others in Church-gouernment obserued?
8. Whether any persons haue lurked or tyled in Lauernes or Alehouses on Sundayes, or other Holidayes, or vsed his, or their Manuall craft, trade, or mystery, or any bodily labour, or kept their shops open vpon the said dayes, or any of them, especially in the time of Diuine Seruice?
9. Whether are there any in your parish, that doe or haue prophaned (since his Maiesties general pardon) the Lords day, called Sunday, or any other Holiday, contrary to the Orders of the Church of England, prescribed in that behalfe?
10. Whether hath any person in your parish quarrelled, stricken, or vsed any violence vnto, or with your Minister, or any other, in the Church or Church-yard, or vsed himselfe disorderly in the Church by filthy and prophane talke, or any other rude and immodest behauiour?
11. Whether is that due reuerence and humble submission vsed within your Church or Chappell in the time of Diuine Seruice, as by the 18. Constitution is prescribed? And whether each one in the Church or Chappell, doe apply and order himself there in the time of Diuine Seruice, as by the latter part of the same constitution is most commendably enioyned?
12. Whether the Churchwardens and Questmen doe euery Sunday and Holiday diligently search who absenteth himselfe, or her selfe from Church, or whether doe they suffer any to abide in the Church-porch, or Church-yard in the time of common Prayer or Sermon?
13. Whether the Churchwardens doe provide against euery Communion, with the aduice of the Minister, a sufficient quantity of fine white Bread and of good and wholesome Wine, for the number of the Communicants that shall receive, and that to bee brought in a cleane and sweete standing pot of Pewter, or other cleane mettall?
14. Whether haue any in your Parish bene Godfathers or Godmothers to their owne children; or whether your Minister, or any Godfathers or Godmothers haue vsed, or doe vse any other forme, answer, or speech in Baptisme, then is in the Booke of Common Prayer appointed; or whether any which haue not communicated, be admitted to be Godfathers or Godmothers, contrary to the 29. Canon?
15. Whether is there any in your Parish, that doe refuse to haue their children baptised, or themselves to receiue the Communion at the hands of your Minister, because he is no Preacher? You shall present their names: and if your Minister, sithence the publishing of the said Booke of Canons, haue receiued any such persons (being not of his owne Cure) to the Communion, or baptised any of their children, you shall likewise present him.
16. Whether doe all Fathers, Mothers, Masters and Mistresses cause their children, seruants, and apprentices, to come to the Catechisme vpon the Sundayes and Holidayes, before Euening Prayer, to heare, and to be instructed and taught therein? and those that doe not their duty herein, you shall present their names?
17. Whether haue you, or your predecessors Churchwardens there suffered, since the last Pardon, any Plaies, Feasts, Banquets, Church-Ales, Drinkings, or any other prophane vsages, to be kept in your Church, Chappell, or Church-yard, as Bels to be rung superstitiously vpon Holidayes at Euen, abrogated by the Booke of Common Praier contrary to the 68. Canon?
18. How many inhabitants within your Parish, men or women, aboue the age of sixteene yeeres, doe refuse to frequent diuine Seruice, established by publike authority of this Realme, or to receiue the holy Communion, or are negligent therein: what be their names, and what degree, or state or trade of life are they? you are to present them all of each sort?
19. Whether doe any of the Inhabitants within your Parish entertaine within their house any sojourners, lodgers, or any common resorters of Guests, who refuse to frequent Diuine Seruice, or refuse the holy Communion, as aforesaid, what be their names, and of what quality or condition are they?
20. Whether any of the said Popish Recusants be of insolent behauiour, not without publike offence, or doe boldly busie themselves in seducing, or withdrawing others either abroad, or in their owne families, by instructing their children in Popish Religion, or by refusing to entertaine any, especially in place of greatest seruice or trust, but such as concurre with them in opinion of Religion, and what be their names that doe so?
21. How long the Popish Recusants haue obstinately abstained either from Diuine Seruice, or from Communion as is aforesaid, whether of any long time, or onely since his Maiesties Reigne, and how long?
22. What persons aforesaid within your Parish, either for the offence aforesaid, or for any other contumacy or crime, doe remaine excommunicated: what be their names, and for what cause, and how long haue they so stood excommunicated?
23. Whether were you the Church-wardens and Questmen chosen by the consent of the Minister and Parishioners in Easter weeke according vnto the 89 and 90 Canons? And whether haue the Church-wardens before you giuen vp a just account for their time, and deliuered to you their successors, whatsoever money or other things of right belonging to the Church, which was in their hands, according to the 89 Canon?
24. Whether doe all persons aboue the age of sixteene yeeres, vsually resort to heare Diuine Seruice vpon Sundayes and Holidayes approued? And whether hath each one of your Parishioners (being aboue the age of sixteene yeeres, as aforesaid) receiued the holy Communion thrice this last yeere, chiefly once at Easter, in your parish Church kneeling? If no, then you shall present their names which haue not so done?
25. Whether haue you a fit Parish-clarke, aged 20. yeeres at the least, of honest conuersation, and sufficient for reading and writing? and whether are his and the Sextons paid without fraud, according to the most ancient custome of your parish; If not, then by whom is he so defrauded and denied? And whether be he chosen by the Parson or Vicar: or by whom, according to the 91. Canon?
26. Whether doth your Clarke or Sexton keepe the Church cleane, the doores locked? is any thing lost or spoiled through his default, or doth he (when any is passing out of this life) neglect to tole the Bel, hauing notice thereof?
27. Whether haue any in your parish bene married within the prohibited degrees forbidden by Law, and expressed in a certaine Table published by authority, in An. 1563. If yea, then you shall present their names; And whether haue you the said Table publikely set vp in your Church, and fastened to some conuenient place?
28. Whether doth any, heretofore diuorced, or married, and not diuorced, keep company at bed and boord, as man and wife, with any other man or woman, then with the person that he or she was married vnto, and what be their names? If the parties now so liuing together say, that they be married, when and where were they married: and how long haue they so continued together?
29. Whether haue you in your parish, to your knowledge, or by common fame and report, any who haue committed Adultery, Fornication, or Incest, or any Bawds, Harbourers or Receiuers of such persons, or publikely suspected thereof, which haue not beene publikely punished to your knowledge? If yea, then with whom? And whether are there any which are by common fame and report reputed, and taken to be common Drunkards, Blasphemers of Gods holy Name, common and vsual Swearers, filthy Speakers, Raylers, Sowers of discord among their Neighbours, or speakers against Ministers marriages, Usurers contrary to the Statute made in the seuen and thirtieth yeere of King Henry the eighth. Symoniacall persons, Fighters, Brawlers, or quarrellers in the Church or Church-yard: you shall not fail to present their names?
30. Whether haue any in your Parish receiued, or harboured any woman begotten with childe out of wedlocke, and suffered them againe to depart without penance first inflicted vpon them by their Ordinary? you shall truly present as well the party harbouring, as harboured, and who is suspected to haue committed Incontinency with her?
31. Whether any person or persons, suspected or detected of Incontinency, and therefore departing out of your parish for a season, is now returned againe: or in what place else is he or she now abiding to your knowledge, or as you haue heard? you shall not faile to present the truth in that behalfe?
32. Whether there be any person or persons Ecclesiasticall or Temporall within your parish, or elsewhere within the peculiars, that haue retained and kept in their custody or that read, sell, utter, disperse: carry or deliuer to others, any English or Latine Books, or Libels, set forth or printed, either on this side or beyond the Seas, by Papists or Sectaries against the Kings supremacy in causes Ecclesiasticall, or tending to Popery, Puritanisme, or any other Sect, error, or heresie against true Religion, and Catholike doctrine, now publikely professed in this Church, or the government, or discipline of the Church of England, now within this Realme receiued and established by common authority, that you know, or haue heard of, what their names and surnames are?
33. Whether there be any in your parish, who are knowne or suspected to conceale, or keepe hidden in their houses any Masse-books, Portesses, Breuiaries, or other Bookes of Popery or Superstition, or any Chalice, Copes, Vestments, Albes, or other Ornaments of Superstition, vncancelled or vndefaced, which is so conjectured that they doe keepe for a day, as they call it?

34. Whether any of your Parishioners, hauing a Preacher to their Parson, Vicar, or Curate, doe absent themselves from his Sermons, and resort to another place to heare other Preachers?

35. Whether there be any Inne-keepers, Ale-wiues, Victuallers, or Tiplers, that suffer, or doe admit any person, or persons into their houses, to eat, drinke, or play at Dice, Cards, Tables, Bowles, or such like Games, in the time of common Prayer or Sermons; on Sundayes or Holidayes: or any Butchers or other, that commonly vse to sell meat or other things in the time of common Prayer, preaching, or reading of Homilies: and whether in any Faires, or common Markets falling vpon Sundayes, there be shewing of any wares before Morning Prayer be done? And whether any Markets or selling of wares be used or suffered in any Church-yards on the Sabbath day, by common Paake-men and Pedlers going about, or any Butchers?

36. Whether your Minister or Churchwardens, or any of the Parish, without the consent or priuity of the Ordinary, haue caused any to doe penance, or to be punished either openly or otherwise, by any Vestry-meetings, or haue taken mony for any crime punishable by the Ecclesiasticall Lawes onely, and what be the names of the parties that haue bene so punished, and in what manner?

37. Whether there be any in your parish, who will come to heare the Sermon, but will not come to the publike prayer appointed by the Booke of common prayer, making a Schisme or diuision (as it were) betweene the vse of publike Prayer and preaching? And whether there be any, who being present at publike Prayer, doe not deuoutly and humbly kneele vpon their knees, at such times as by the Book of Common prayer they are appointed: to wit, when they make a generall confession of their sinnes: when all Prayers and Collects are read; in the time of the Latany: when the ten Commandments are read, and at the receiuing of the holy Communion, &c. And what be their names that haue at any time shewed themselves vndutiful and vnreuerent in that behalfe?

38. Whether there be any married women, or others within your parish, which after childbirth refuse, contemne, or neglect to come to the Church to giue God thanks for their safe deliury, & to haue the praier publicly appointed in that behalfe by the Booke of common prayer? And whether are they apparelled with a faire white vaile of linnen cloth, and accompanied with some of the honest Wiues of their parish, according to the ancient custome of our Church of England: and whether any Minister doe winke at such fantasticall women which refuse so to doe?

39. Whether any within your Parish, doe resort into Barns, Fields, Woods, priuate houses, or to any ordinary expositions of Scriptures, or conferences together, or that be drawers or perswaders of other to any such schismaticall Conuenticle?

40. Whether is there any in your parish being indifferently and iustly taxed to the repaire of your Church, or Churchyard fence, after due demand thereof, that doth neglect or refuse to pay the same: If yea, then you are to present them, setting down the just summe to which he or they were rated?

41. Whether any doe keepe their Children vnbaptized longer then is conuenient, vnless that it be for the sickness of the child, or other vrgent occasion? And whether any doe carry their child or children, from the parish they are borne in, to other parishes to be baptised, and so refuse their owne parish, and to what other parish? Or doe bring strange Ministers into their owne houses to baptise their Children priuately, according to their owne fantasies?

42. Whether doe you know, or haue heard of any within your parish, that haue presumed to entermeddle with the goods and chattels of any dead person, not hauing authority from the Ordinary, either by prouing the Will of the deceased, or by procuring of Letters of administration?

43. Item (setting downe the full summe of the Communicants within your parish) you shall present euery one who hath bene defectiue at this Feast of Easter last past, in receiuing the holy Communion, vpon neglect, contempt, or any other pretence and excuse.

44. Whether doe you know of any other matter of Ecclesiasticall cognizance worthy the presentment, in your judgment, heretofore in these Articles not expressed, and which is fit to be reformed in Ecclesiasticall censure? If you doe, you shall likewise present the same by vertue of your Oathes.

45. Whether doe your Parishioners obserue and keepe holy the Holy and Festiual dayes, which by the Lawes and Statutes of this Land are commanded to be kept holy; and namely, these Festiual daies following; viz. The Birth day of our Lord God, the Feast of the Purification, and the Annunciation of St. Mary the Virgin, the Feast of the Ascension of our Lord God, the Natiuity of St. John Baptist, and the Feast of all Saints?

46. Whether the fifth day of Nouember be kept holy, and Thanksgiuing be made to God for the States happy deliuerance, according to the Ordinance in that behalfe?

47. Whether are there any in your parish which were married by the license of any Bishop other then by the license of the Lord Archbishop of Canterbury; and who (at the time of such marriage) did liue within any of the peculiars of Canterbury: If yea, then you are to present their names, the time when, and the place where they were so married, If you know of any other default or crime of Ecclesiasticall Conuance, you are to present the same by vertue of your oathes.

48. Lastly, you the Churchwardens are at the charge of of your parish, to prouide a conuenient large Sheet and a white wand to be had, and kept within your Church or Vestry, to be vsed at such times as offenders are censured for their grieuous and notorious crimes.

Admonition.

First, for that in great Parishes, where diuers doe come in great multitudes to receiue the Communion, whereof some doe stand excommunicate: To auoid this inconuenience in euery Parish, the Minister and Churchwardens shall keepe a Booke of all excommunications brought vnto them, and from what Court, and of the day, month, and yeere it was received; and of the parties names so excommunicated; and for what cause, and of the day, month, and yeere of the Denunciation, and likewise of the Absolution, to the end that all persons may be drawne to conformity, and none admitted to be partakers of Common Prayer and the Sacraments, who doe stand Excommunicate, when they offer themselves ready to receiue the same.

That in the time of Diuine Seruice and Sermons; all persons behaue themselves reuerently and attentively, and that all men doe sit and continue vncouered, with their Hats off, the whole time of Diuine Seruice and Prayers.

That from time to time diligent enquiry be made what children are borne in euery Parish, and where, when, and by whom euery child is baptised: And if in case of necessity any child or children be found to be baptised priuately in any house, that vpon due certificate thereof, the same shall be published in their owne parish Church, whee (sic) the Childe or Children were borne, the next Sunday after notice thereof so taken, that vpon such necessity the said Child or Children were so baptised, and that rightly, that the Parish may take notice thereof.

At the deliury of your two generall Bills of Presentment, you are in each Bill, at the root thereof, to set down the names of all such as haue bene buried at any time since the bringing in of the last generall Bill of the old Churchwardens vnto the day of giuing in your first generall Bill, and so from the same time vnto the time of exhibiting your last generall Bill, being men, maids, or widowes; and likewise you are at the same times, and after the same manner to set downe the names of all such as haue bene married in or without your parish or Chappely by banes, license, or otherwise; and if by banes, then whether the same were thrice published on three seuerall Sundayes or Holidayes; or if by license, then from whom; or if without either banes or license, then by whom, when and where the same parties were married, and you are to present the persons who were present thereat.

The Minister of euery parish may and ought to ioyne in the presentment with the Churchwardens and Sidemen, and if they will not present, the Minister may and ought himselfe present the faults and crimes aforesaid, and there must be seuerall presentments made to euery seuerall Article, and the Minister, Churchwardens, and Swornemen, are to meet and conferre about the said presentments, and answering of euery of the aforesaid Articles?

You are charged to specifie the fault or crime, proper name and sirname, trade or addition, and place of dwelling of euery person presented, and the old Churchwardens are to appeare at the Visitation, both, or at least one of them, to make their Bills of presentment before the new Churchwardens are sworne.

And also the new Churchwardens are to bring in, or send by the Apparators an answer to their Booke of Articles ten dayes before Midsommer next after they are sworne. And likewise they are to bring or send in by the Apparator another Bill of presentment ten dayes before Christmas next following, or else they are to appeare personally in Newington Church in Surrey, the next Court day respectiually happening after the said appointed dayes, to shew the cause of their default therein. Intimating further, that at any other time they may present as they find occasion, and send the same in by the Officer of the Court for the time being.

Instructi-

[one leaf lost.]

DUPPA, BISHOP OF CHICHESTER, 1638.

ARTICLES to be inquired of, throughout the Diocesse of Chichester, In the first Visitation of the Rt. Reverend Father in God, Brian Duppa, Bishop of that Diocesse Anno Domini 1638 Anno Consecrationis sue primo.

LONDON

Printed by Richard Badger, 1638.

The forme of the Oath to be ministred to the Churchwardens and Side-men.

You shall swear that you, and every of you, shall duly consider and diligently inquire of all and every of these Articles given you in charge, and that without affection, malice, favour, feare of displeasure, or hope of gaine or reward, you shall present all and every such person that now is, or of late was abiding or inhabiting within your Parish, who hath committed, or is suspected to have committed any offence, or made any default mentioned in these or any of these Articles, wherein you shall deale uprightly, fully, plainly and truly, neither presenting nor sparing to present any contrary to truth, having God before your eyes, with an earnest zeal to maintaine truth, and to suppress sinne and error: So God you helpe, and the holy Contents of this Booke.

Articles concerning consecrated places, Churches, Churchyards, Chappels of ease.

1. What Church haue you for Diuine Seruice? what Chappels of ease belonging to them? is any part of such Church or Chappell demolished or put to any profane vse?
2. In what Repaire is your Church and Chappels, and every part of them? are the wals and rooffe firme? the windowes fairely glazed and unbroken? the floores decently paued?
3. What kind of couering hath the Church or Chappell, is it of lead, or tiles? or how else defended from the weather? Hath lead bene taken from any part of it, and slats, tiles, or something else vsed in the place of it? if so, by whom?
4. Is your steeple furnished with Bels, or haue any of them bene taken downe, or sold away?
5. Is your Church swept and cleansed, at least once a weeke? the wals whited, the windowes and rooffe kept cleane from cobwebs, the doores kept lock'd, the portall not made a lodging for beggers?
6. What galleries or scaffolds haue you in your Church, or to what vse? whether there be not conueniency of roome for the Parishioners to be present at Sermons, or diuine Seruice without them?
7. In what manner are your Pewes built? are they decent and vniforme? are not some so much higher than others, as may hinder their neighbours in hearing diuine Seruice?
8. Is your Chancell seuered with a Partition from the body of the Church, is it decently kept, not encombered with pewes or any other lumber?
9. What quantity of ground haue you consecrated for a place of Buriall? how is it fenced or mounded? hath there bene encroachment made upon any part of it?
10. Is the Church-yard kept cleane from feeding and dunging of cattell? especially from swine rooting vp the graues of dead bodie? or what other nusancess are there from any houses that abutt vpon it?
11. Haue there bene kept in the Church, Chappell, or Church-yard, any playes, feasts, Suppers, Church-ales, temporall Courts, or Leet Lay-Juries, Musters, meeting for rates, taxations, leuies, especially at the Communion Table by the Parishioners?

Of Church Ornaments, Vtensils, Possessions.

1. Haue you a strong Chest or Boxe for almes for the poore, with three locks and keyes, on for the Rector or Vicar, the other for the Church-wardens?
2. What Font haue you for the Sacrament of Baptisme, of what materials is it made, where placed, whether towards the entrance of the Church or no, is it fixt or moueable, is it decently couered, cleanly kept, or is there any Bason, or vessell vsed instead of it?
3. Haue you a conuenient pew for him that officiates to read diuine Seruice in, a Bible of the largest Volume, a Common Prayer Booke in folio, the Bookes of Homilies allowed by Authority, a faire Surplice or two to be vsed by the Minister and him that shall assist him in the administration of the Sacrament?

4. Haue you a Pulpit so conueniently placed, as the Auditory may best heare? is it decently made and accommodated with a faire cloth and cushion?

5. Haue you a Register Booke in parchment for Christnings, Weddings, Burials, is the same kept in all points according to the Canons, is a true transcript thereof brought in yearely into the Bishops Registry within a moneth after our Lady day in March?

6. Is your Communion Table, or Altar, strong, faire, and decent? is it set according to the practise of the ancient Church, vpon an ascent at the East end of the Chancell, with the ends of it North and South? is it compassed in with an handsome Raile to keep it from profanation, according to an Order made in the Metropolitall Visitation?

7. What couerings haue you for the holy Table? haue you one of silke or some good stuffe to couer it at all times, another of faire clean linnen for the time of celebration of the Sacrament?

8. Haue you a faire Communion Cup and Flagon, with a dish for the Bread, of what metall are they, pewter, tin, or siluer?

9. Are the ten Commandments set vpon the East end of your Church or Chappell, where the people may best see to read them, with other well chosen sentences of Scripture vpon the wals?

10. Haue any ancient monuments in your Church bene defaced, the brasse pull'd off, the stones taken away, or the Inscriptions rased, as also what Historicall representations in windowes haue bene defaced or broken?

11. Is there a dwelling house and Glebe belonging to the Parsonage or Vicarage? Is the House kept in good repaire, with all barnes, stables, out-houses belonging to it? Is there an exact Terrier made of all the Glebe lands, meadowes, gardens, orchards, houses, stocks, tenements, pensions or portions of tithes belonging to it? Is this Terrier made in parchment, and returned into the Bishop's Registry?

12. What timber trees grow in the Church-yard, or vpon the Glebe? hath any been fell'd, or by whom?

Concerning the Clergie.

1. Is your Minister a Parson, Vicar, or Curate? or haue you besides him any Preacher or Lecturer? and how authoriz'd?

2. If Parson or Vicar, doth he reside vpon his Benefice? If not, what reliefe doth he give to the poore? How long in the yeare is he absent? how dispensed withall? by whom is the place supplied?

3. If he be a Curate, is he allowed by the Bishop vnder his hand and seale? hath he an honest and sufficient salary? or doth he serue more than one Church or Chappell in one day?

4. Is your Minister of honest, sober, exemplary life? a maintainer and procurer of peace among those that are committed to his charge? or doth he giue any iust scandall or offence by haunting of Tauernes, Innes, Ale-houses, by vsing unlawfull games, frequenting of loose debauched company, or by going any other irregular way which may be a staine to his profession and is punishable by the censures of the Church.

5. Doth your Minister or Curate vse such decent and comely apparell as becommeth the grauity of his calling, and may distinguish him from the Laity? or doth he weare long haire, deepe ruffes, falling bands down to his shoulders, or any other vnseemly garments not proper to his Ministry?

6. Doth your Minister vse such seruile bodily labour as is not fit for one set apart by Imposition of Hands for diuine Employments? Is hee a defamed Vsurer or Broker, a Chopper of Church-Liuinges, a trader in Faires or Markets, doth he idly vague vp and downe, a fault so often censured in ancient Councels? or doth he any way els so entangle himselfe in secular affaires, as to neglect the duties of his calling?

7. Is your Minister so zealous of the good of his flocke, as diligently to labour the reclaiming of Recusants of all sorts within their Charge, whether they be such as with perill of their soules superstitiously adhere to the Church of Rome, or such in the other extreme, who hauing peruersely relinquish'd our Communion, finde nothing to adhere to but their owne priuate fancies?

8. Is diuine Seruice orderly perform'd in your Church by your Minister or Curate vpon appointed times as the Booke of Common Prayer prescribeth, without any kind of alteration, addition, or omission? particularly doth he read the Letany on Wednesdayes and Fridayes?

9. Is he entirely conformable to all Orders, Rites, Ceremonies of the Church, or vsing then onely for a shew, doth he priuately or publicly speak any thing in derogation of them?

10. Doth he in celebration of diuine Seruice vse such vestments as are enioyned by authority, doth he constantly in performing that Duty weare a Surplice, and an Hood (if he be a Graduate) suitable to his degree?

11. Doth he before his Sermon vse such forme of Prayers as is prescribed by the Ecclesiasticall Canon, for the prevention of the indiscreet flying out of some in their extemporary Prayers?

12. Doth he preach in such a solemne habit as becomes him, in a long Gowne and Cassock not in a riding or ambulatory Cloake?

13. Doth he in his Sermons preach Christ, and him crucified, abstaining from those high points of speculation which haue in seuerall Ages rais'd combustion in Christian Churches; and therefore to preserue peace among vs forbidden by his sacred Maiestie in his late Declaration?

14. Doth he sometimes take occasion in his Sermons to teach obedience to the King as supreme, to all magistrates substituted vnder him, to all Lawes of the State, all Canons and Constitutions of the Church, which being lawfully enioyn'd we are to obey, not onely for feare, but for conscience sake?

15. Hath your minister at any time reueal'd the Confession of any made to him in secret, contrary to the 113 Canon, and so hath brought a scandall vpon that ancient Remedy of sinne and sinners.

16. Doth he at any time from the Pulpit point out particular men, damning some and sauing others; and in his inuectiues against vice doth he fall from the generall, and particularly designe such as hee thinkes delinquents?

17. Doth your Preacher or Lecturer read diuine Seruice before his Sermon or Lecture? doth he besides twice a yeare at least administer the Sacraments in his own person?

18. Doth he in Rogation weeke yearely vse the accustomed perambulation, informing his Parishioners not onely of the ciuill vse of that custome but also of the religious, to pray to God for his blessing on the fruits of the earth, and to deprecate his anger?

19. Hath your Minister taken vpon him to appoint any publicke or priuate Fasts, Propheties, or exercises not approved by Law or publicke Authority? or hath he bene present at any Conuenticle where either the Doctrine or Discipline of the Church hath bene traduced?

20. Doth he in the time of diuine Seruice vse due and lowly reuerence at the mention of the blessed Name of JESUS, instructing others to doe the like, not as an adoration of the bare sound of the word, but as, an humble acknowledgement that there is not either in heauen or earth any name by which we shall be saved, but that alone?

21. Is your minister a Preacher licensed by lawfull Authority or not? if he be, hauing no lawfull impediment, doth he preach ordinarily in his Cure? if he be not, doth he procure Sermons once a moneth at least to be preached by such as are lawfully licensed.

22. Doth your Minister vpon euery Sunday when there is no Sermon, read an Homily out of the Book appointed?

23. Doth he once in the yeare vpon some Sundayes or Holidayes read ouer the Booke of Canons before Euening Prayer, that euery one may the better know what the Church requires of them?

Of the Sacrament of Baptisme.

1. Doth your Minister or Curate in their Sermons or otherwise, or any other, teach or maintaine that Baptisme, in Gods ordinary dispensation with man is not the doore that lets vs into the Church, nor any way necessary to saluation? doth he not admonish you that are his parishioners not to deferre it beyond the accustomed time, least some suddain sicknesse should take away the infant without that seale of the new couenant?

2. Doth your Minister baptize the child at the Font the place assign'd for it, doth hee doe it in cleane pure water? Doth he take it in his armes, signe it with the signe of the Crosse, asking such Questions, and vsing such prayers as are enioyned?

3. Doth he baptize any without any Godfathers or Godmothers to answer for them? or doth he not giue to them such directions as are prescribed in the Rituaill for the education of the child in true Religion?

4. In case of necessity where the child is in danger of death doth the Minister being sent for, refuse or delay to come to giue it priuate Baptisme? or doth he priuately baptize where there is no necessity?

5. Haue any children in your parish died vn timerly, how long remained they so before they died, and by whose default was it that they were depriv'd of that holy Sacrament?

Of Confirmation and Catechisme preparatorie to it.

Is your Minister carefull in examining and instructing the youth and ignorant Persons of the parish, by teaching them Principles and grounds of Christian Religion deliuered in that short Catechisme, approved by the Church, and inserted in the Common Prayer Booke?

2. Doth he, according to his Maiesties Instructions, conuert the popular afternoone Sermons on the Sunday into catechizing by Question and Answer?

3. When children by the benefit of thus catechizing are able to giue an account of their faith, doth he admonish their parents to bring them to the Bishop to receiue by prayer such confirmation as may strengthen them in Baptistall Grace receiued?

Of the Sacrament of the Lords Supper.

Is this blessed Sacrament administered in the Church euery moneth vpon the first Sunday or at least thrice in the yeare, whereof Easter to be one?

2. Is it administered in that reuerend and decent manner as becomes so high a mystery? are the words of Consecration solemnly pronounced? the Elements reuerently touched and handled?

3. Doth your Minister deliuer this Sacrament to any standing, or sitting, or in any other posture than vpon the knee? doth he first receiue it himselfe, and after deliuer it to the Communicants, not in grosse, but one by one, vsing all the words enioyned seuerally to each of them?

4. Doth he admit to this blessed Sacrament any person excommunicated or any publicke notorious, scandalous offender, without satisfaction made vnto the Church, or doth he admit any vnder age who are not yet able to render an account of their faith?

5. Are the names of such as intend to receiue giuen in to the Minister ouer night, that he may before hand know who, and how many they are, and that the bread and wine may be proportionably prepared?

6. Is the Bread and Wine of the best sort, is a sufficient quantity of each provided? or if either faile, are the words of Consecration renewed ouer them before they be distributed?

Of Marriage.

1. Are the Banes of marriage asked three seuerall times openly in the Church vpon three seuerall Sundaies at such time when the Church is fullest? or if not, hath there bene dispensation not onely obtained, but presented to the Minister before Marriage?

2. Is Marriage solemnized openly in the Church, not in priuate rooms, or chambers, at due times not prohibited, and due houres between eight and twelue in the forenoone?

3. Doth your minister vse in Marriage the ordinary Rites of the Church with the vsuall prayers, and blessing? and doth he performe this solemnity with a Ring and joyning of Hands?

4. Haue you a Table set vp in your Church or Chancell of the forbidden degrees, that incestuous Marriages may not haue the plea of ignorance?

5. Be there any in your Parish who are married within the degrees of affinity, or consanguinity by Law prohibited?

6. Are there any in your Parish being lawfully married who liue apart one from another without due separation by law, or who being legally diuorced keepe company with any other at bed or at board?

Of Visitation of the sick.

1. Is your minister diligent in visiting the sick especially such as being vpon their death-beds, stand most in need of the worke of his Ministry? Doth he pray with them the Prayers of the Church, adding such deuotions of his owne as the necessity of the party doth require?

2. Doth he ouer-rigorously and vnseasonably presse to them at that time the heauy iudgements of the Law, without intermingling such words of comfort as may set forth the mercy of God to a departing soule?

3. Doth he exhort them at that time not to let any hainous sinne lie heauy on their conscience, but to disburthen themselues of it? Doth he vpon confession made, and all the signes of true repentance showne, pronounce the words of absolution prescribed by the Church?

4. Doth he excite the sick party to lay vp treasure for himselfe in heauen, by doing here charitable works, and disposing some part of his goods to the honour of him who hath giuen him all?

5. Doth he last of all seasonably administer to him the holy Sacrament of the Body and Blood of Christ, while he is yet sensible of the comforts of it, and before the extremity of his disease hath rendred him lesse capable?

6. In the meane time is there a passing-bell tolled, that they who are within the hearing of it, may be moued in their priuate deuotions to recommend the state of the departing soule into the hands of their Redeemer, a duty which all Christians are bound to, out of a fellow feeling of their common mortality?

Of Burials.

1. Hath the Minister refused to burie any dying within the bosome of the Church, being required?
2. Hath he buried any in consecrated ground who haue been murderers of themselues, or cast out of the Church by excommunication?
3. Doth he meet the corps at the Church-stile, conduct it to the Church, go before it to the graue, and vsing such prayers as are prescribed, commit it to the ground as becommeth the body of a Christian?
4. Are so many buried in the Church or Chancell, as may occasion digging vp of dead bodies not yet fully consumed, or as may breed annoyance to the liuing?
5. Are the graues digged deepe enough, and is the ground broken vp couered againe with stone or brick?

Of Churching of Women after child-bed.

1. Doth your Minister obserue the order of the Church in Churching of women? doth he do it in priuate houses when there is no vrgent necessity, or publicly in the Church?
2. Doth he go up into the Chancell, the woman also repairing thither, kneeling as neare the Communion Table as may be, and if there be a Communion, doth she communicate, in acknowledgement of the great blessing received by her safe deliury?
3. Doth the woman who is to be churched vse the accustomed habit in such cases, with a white vaile or kerchiefe vpon her head?

Of Schoolmasters.

1. What Schoole haue you in your parish? is it a free Schoole endowed? what maintenance hath it? is any part of the maintenance kept back, or otherwise employed? if so, how, or by whom?
2. Doth any openly or priuately in your Parish teach without a Licence of the Ordinary? is he conformable to the Religion established in the Church of England? and doth he endeauour to render his Schollers so?
3. Doth he to this end teach and instruct his youth in no other Catechisme than such as is allowed by authority?
4. Is there any who keep Schoole in the Chancell or Church, by which meanes that holy place is many waies profaned?

Of Physitions and Chirurgions.

What Physitions or Chirurgions haue you in your Parish haue they been train'd vp in the study of Physick or Chirurgerie? at home or abroad? and by what licence do they practise?

Of Parish Clerks and Sextons.

- Haue you a fit Parish Clark aged twenty yeares at least, of honest conuersation, able to read and write, diligent in his office, seruiceable to his Minister? is he approued by the Ordinary? hath he taken his oath as is required?
2. What wages hath your Clark and Sexton according to the ancient Custome of the Parish? are the wages duly payed, or by whom kept back?
  3. Doth your Clarke and Sexton doe their duty in keeping the Church cleane, the doores locked, or is anything lost or spoyl'd in his Church through his default? doth he suffer any vnseasonable ringing, or any profane exercise in your Church?
  4. Hath your Parish Clarke or Sexton taken vpon him to meddle with any thing about his office, as Churching of women, burying of the dead, or such like?

Of Church-wardens.

Are you the Church-wardens lawfully chosen according to the Canon? haue you taken your oath for performing the duties of your place?

2. Haue any who haue borne the same office before you fail'd in exhibiting their presentments to the Ordinary at the times appointed? haue they retained any of the Church goods without making a iust account? or haue they not faithfully distributed the Almes of the Church to the vse of the poore?
3. Is there decency and order kept in your Church in time of diuine Seruice? do you take notice of such as absent themselues on Sundayes, Holidayes, times of Letany? Do you diligently enquire of such as remaine in Tauerne, Innes, Ale-houses in the time of Prayers or Sermons? as also such as forbear comming to the holy Sacrament thrice in the yeare, being above sixteene yeares of age?
4. Haue you suffered any strange Preacher to preach in your Church without seeing his licence, by which you might know how he is authorized? do you note the names of such strangers, as doe preach in a Booke for that purpose? and by whom they are licensed?

5. Is any Legacy with-holden being giuen to the Church or the poore, or the mending of high-waies, or otherwise by the Testators? In whose hands is it? by whom with-holden?
6. Doth any man trouble, threaten, or reuile you for doing your duty? Hath any gone about to tempt you to leaue vnpresented any offences committed contrary to the Articles giuen you in charge, or to perswade you that you may dispense with your oathes by vsing equiuocation, mentall reseruatiou, or double meaning in making your presentments?
7. Do you know of any thing complained of that is not yet redressed?

Concerning the Parishioners.

1. Do your Parishioners frequent the Church in all times of diuine Seruice? do they behaue themselues reuerently in that holy place, do they keepe their hats off? doe they deuoutly kneele, when the Confession, the ten Commandements, and all Prayers and Collects are read? do they stand vp at the reading of the Creeds, and the holy Gospell? and doe they vse due, and lowly reuerence, when they hear the blessed name of JESUS?
2. Do all the Parishioners aboue sixteene yeares of age receive the blessed Sacrament of the Lords Supper in your Church thrice every yeare, whereof once at Easter? and do they all (none excepted) deuoutly kneele at the receiuing thereof?
3. Do any of the Parishioners, being admonished thereof, neglect, or refuse to send their children, seruants, apprentices, to the Minister to be catechized on Sundayes and Holidayes at such times as are appointed? Do any so sent refuse to come, or being come, refuse to be catechized?
4. Do any of your Parish entertaine within their house any sojourner, common guest, or other persons who refuse to frequent diuine Seruice or receiue the holy Communion as aforesaid? present their names, their quality or condition.
5. What Popish Recusants are there in your Parish, or other Sectaries? how long haue they abstain'd from the diuine Seruice or Communion? present their names and their quality, and whether they be excommunicate or not.
6. Whether any of the said Recusants do labour to seduce, or withdraw others from the Religion professed in the Church of England? do they instruct their families or children in their own errors? or haue any of them, at any time being called to it refused to take the Oath of Allegiance?
7. Are there any in your Parish who hold or frequent priuate conuenticles? or who publicly or priuately speake against the book of Common Prayer, against the Rites and Ceremonies, against the Articles published and maintained by the Church of England? against the Church government vnder his Maiesty by the Hierarchy of Bishops? Are there any authors, maintainers, or fauourers of heresie or schisme, or that be suspected probably to be Anabaptists, Libertines, Brownists, of the Family of Loue, or of any other heresie or schisme? present their names.
8. Are there any in your Parish who retaine, sell, vtter, or disperse any Popish books or writings, or other books, writings, defamatorie libels of any Sectaries touching the Religion, State and Government either Ecclesiasticall or Ciuill of this Kingdome of England?
9. Do any of your Parishioners vsually go to any other Churches to heare diuine Seruice or Sermons or to receiue the holy Communion? do any of them procure their children to be baptized in another Parish? or do any strangers resort to your Church to diuine Seruice, to heare Sermons or to receive the holy Communion?
10. Are there any in your Parish who will come to Church to heare the Sermon, but will not heare the publike Seruice, appointed in the Booke of Common Prayer, making a schisme or diuision betweene the vse of publike prayer and preaching?
11. What persons within your Parish for any offence, contumacy, or crime of Ecclesiasticall cognisance doe stand excommunicate? how long haue they so stood? do they presume notwithstanding that censure to be present with you in time of diuine Seruice? and what persons do wittingly and vsually keepe them company?
12. Hath any in your Parish exercised any trade, or labour, bought or sold, or kept open shops vpon any Sunday or Holiday, by themselues or their seruants, or haue otherwise profaned the said daies by gaming, drinking or dancing in time of diuine Seruice? you are to present the names of such delinquents, with the names of the parties in whose house the offence hath bene committed.
13. Is the fift of November kept holy according to the ordinance in that behalfe, that the memory may neuer die of the great mercy shewed to this State and Church in that wonderfull deliverance?

14. Hath any of your Parish stricken or laid violent hands either vpon your Minister or vpon any other in your Church or Church-yard? hath any quarrelled or given opprobrious speeches within those precincts? hath any slandered your Minister to the scandall of his vocation, or defamed any of his neighbours touching any crime of Ecclesiasticall cognisance?

15. Are there any who not being in Orders, do exercise Priestly or Ministeriall Office in the Church, Chappell, or Church-yard? or on the other side are there any who hauing taken vpon them the order of Priesthood, or Deacon, haue since relinquished the same, vsing any other kind of life?

16. Haue any of your Parish suppressed the last Will of the dead, or administred the goods of the dead without lawfull authority? Are there any goods not administred, or any Wills vnproued? Faile not to present the Executors, with all others faulty therein?

17. Haue any in your Parish harboured any woman vnlawfully begotten with child, and suffered her to depart away before she hath bene punished for her offence.

18. Are there any in your Parish to your knowledge or by common fame or report, which haue committed incest, adultery, or fornication, or that haue attempted or solicited the chastity of any woman, or which are reputed to be common drunkards, swearers, blasphemers, bauds? or are there any in your Parish vehemently suspected for any of these crimes?

Of Ecclesiasticall Officers.

1. Hath any Ecclesiasticall Judge, Substitute or Surrogate, or any other exercising Ecclesiasticall Jurisdiction within this Diocese, or any Register, Apparator, or other Officer belonging to the Ecclesiasticall Court exacted or taken any extraordinary or greater fees than are due and accustomed? And is the Table for the rates of all Fees set vp in their seuerall Courts and Offices?

2. Whether do you know, or haue you heard of any payment, composition, to, or with any Ecclesiasticall Magistrate, Judge, or Officer, for conueyance, or sparing to punish any person for any offence of Ecclesiasticall cognisance or for suppressing or concealing of any excommunication of or against any Recusant, or any other offender in the cases aforesaid? What summes of money haue bene thus received or promised, oy whom and to whom, deliuer your knowledge?

3. What number of Apparators haue you belonging to your Ecclesiasticall Courts? wherein or in what manner is your Countrey ouer-burdened with them? what reward or fees haue Apparators taken of any persons to saue them their iourneyes to the Ecclesiasticall Court? Wherein haue they caused or summoned any to appeare in the said courts without a Presentment or Citation first had? or whether haue they threatned any to prosecute them in the said courts, if they would not giue them some rewards, and what bribes haue they taken in that behalfe or other?

4. Hath any Apparator or any other offered to draw vp the presentments for you, and so haue made rather a matter of forme, than any serious businesse for correcting of vice and redressing what is amisse in the Diocese? if any hath or shall make such attempt before your presentments be drawne, you are to reueale his offence and name, that he may receive condigne punishment for it?

If you know of any other default or crime of Ecclesiasticall cognisance not mentioned in these Articles, you are to present the same by vertue of your Oathes.

There must be a full and severall Answer made to every one of these Articles, els the presentment will be turn'd back againe, and the Church-wardens upon discoverie that they haue wilfully or fraudulently conceal'd anything, call'd to strick account for breaking their oath in this case.

FINIS.

MOUNTAGU BISHOP OF NORWICH, 1638.

ARTICLES of Enquiry and direction for the Diocese of Norwich, in the first Visitation of the Reverend Father in God, Richard Mountaignu, Bishop of that Diocese.

Anno Dom. 1638,

Et translationis suae primo.

¶ This Book of Articles, being extremely negligently printed at London, (which Impression I disavow) I was forced to review, and have it printed again at Cambridge.

R. Norw.

The tenour of the oath to be administred unto, and taken by the Church-Wardens and Side-men.

Swear you shall, that you shall duly consider, and diligently enquire of all and every one of these Articles given you in charge and tendred unto you; and that all affection, favour, hatred, hope of reward, gain, displeasure of great men, malice, or other sinister respect set aside, you shall faithfully discharge your dutie, and truly present all and every such person of and in your parish, as hath made any default, or committed any offence in or against these ensuing Articles, or that be vehemently suspected or defamed of any such offence, or crime; wherein you shall deal uprightly, truly and fully, presenting all the truth, and nothing but the truth, without partiality, having God before your eyes, and an earnest Christian zeal to maintain truth, order, and religion, and to suppress the contrary: So help you God, and the holy contents of this Book.

Titulus I.

¶ Concerning the Church and Chancell.

Haggai I. 4.

Is it time for you O ye, to dwell in cieled houses, and the house of the Lord to lie waste?

1. Have you any Church for Divine Service, or hath it been, or is it demofished, the parishioners forced to repair unto their neighbours for Sacraments, and Sacramentals? if so; by whose default, usurpation, or impietie is it done?

2. Is your Church, though remaining, yet ruined or decayed in any part of the frame, fabrick, structure, walls, roof, or otherwise, within or without, if so; wherein? how much? by whose fault is it?

3. Is your Church leaded, tiled, slated, not shingled, or thatched with straw or reed, all through, or in part?

4. Have you a steeple of stone, brick, or timber adjoyning to your Church, in good state and reparations? wherein haue you any Bells hanging, and how many? or do they hang in some low shed, under a roof of boards and timber? or haue they been taken down and sold away? when, and by whom?

5. Is your Church-floore decently paved with fair smooth stone brick or paving-tile, whole and not broken in pieces? or is it only floored with earth? When the ground is broken up for burials (which was not wont to be) is it again renewed, levelled, paved? if not, by whose default is it? And the money taken by the Church-wardens for such burials, how is it accounted for, and expended?

6. Is your Church sweetly and cleanly kept; dust, cobwebs, and the like nusances, being weekly carried forth? Are the walls whited and kept fair? Are the seats and Pews built of an uniformitie? or do they hinder and incumber their neighbours, in hearing Gods word and performing Divine Service?

7. Do men and women sit together in those seats, indifferently and promiscuously? or (as the fashion was of old) do men sit together upon one side of the Church, and women upon the other?

8. Is your Chancell divided from the nave or body of your Church, with a partition of stone, boards, wainscot, grates, or otherwise? wherein is there a decent strong doore to open and shut, (as occasion serveth) with lock and key, to keep out boyes, girls, or irreverent men and women? and are dogs kept from coming to besoil or profane the Lords table?

9. Is your Chancell well paved with fair stone, brick, or paving-tile? doth it altogether lie upon a flat, or hath it ascents up unto the altar?

10. Is your Church scaffolded every where or in part? do those scaffolds so made, annoy any mans seat, or hinder the lights of any windows in the Church? Is your Chancell surrounded with seats, wherein your Parishioners commonly use to sit, which take up the room too much, and incroach upon the proprietie of the Minister?

11. Are the lights and windows of your Church and Chancell clear, not dammed up, well monioned, well glazed, and kept clean?

12. Be the doores of your Church strong and decently made with good locks and keyes? and be they kept shut except at time of Divine service, or other necessary cause of ingresse, to keep out passengers, carriers of burdens, children playing, or the like?

13. Doth any man teach children to reade or write in your Church or Chancell?

14. Be furniture for souldiers, ladders buckets or any timber or implements brought into the Church, and there disposed of as in a store-house? Are any meetings for Rates, Taxations, Levies, or the like, made in the Church, especially at the Communion table by Parishioners?

Titulus 2.

¶ Concerning the Church-yard, and other consecrated appendages to that holy place.

Joshua 5. 15.

Put off thy shoe from thy feet, for the place whereon thou standest is holy ground.

1. Have you any appropriated Church-yard? or doth your Church stand in open fields, without any surrourdy or inclosure?

2. Are dead bodies buried in such open and unfenced places, if any such be?

3. If you have a severall Church-yard, is it well inclosed and fenced, not onely with mounds, ditches, or hedges; but with walls, or pales, or the like? if otherwise, by whose default is it?

4. The graves there, be they conveniently covered, made seven foot deep, kept from scraping of dogs, rooting up of hogs, fouling and polluting otherwise, as the resting-places of Christians ought to be kept?

5. Though the surface of the soile, and the grasse there growing (if any such be) are the Ministers; yet it being consecrated ground, is not to be profaned by feeding and dunging of cattel.

6. Is it therefore all or in part at any time, let or hired out to be employed for pinfolds of sheep, stalls for oxen, or horses, booths or standings for chapmen, at any time of fair or market, or to dry clothes there, tanned leather, or the like? For of the base-court of the Temple, said our Saviour, Have these things hence.

7. Much lesse is it to be unhalloved with dancings, morises, meetings at Easter, drinkings, Whitsun-ales, Midsummer-merrymakes, or the like, or by stool-ball, foot-ball, wrastlings, wasters, or boyes sports: If such abuse hath been committed, say by whom, whose procurement, countenance, or abetting.

8. Is your Church-yard, or any part thereof, made a lay-stall or dung-hill? or be any such impious nusances laid neare unto the pale or mounds thereof? let the offenders be named upon enquiry and presented.

9. Hath any neighbouring quidam, or great man, encroched upon any part of the Church-yard, inclosing it to his garden, hop-yard, stable-yard, or so? present him or them so transgressing.

10. Be there any houses fronting or abutting your Church-yard, the dwellers wherein do annoy, soil, and profane the Church-yard, by washing of bucks, emptying of sinks, chamber-pots, or the like, by easing of nature either way within that place, or under and against the Church-walls?

11. If timber-trees have beene felled which grew in the Church-yard, by the Minister, Church-wardens, Parishioners or others, and sold, let the delinquents be presented.

12. Is there a mansion-house and glebe belonging to your Parsonage or Vicarage? If none house, by whom, and how long since was it ruined? if there be an house, is it kept in good reparations, water-tight, and wind-tight, by the incumbent? (Whereof the Archdeacon properly and principally should take notice.)

13. If there be a glebe belonging to the incumbent, hath any part thereof been leased out by the Patrone incumbent, and Diocesan? of what quantity is it? hath there been upon survey a Ferrar thereof made; as also of pensions or portions of Tithes in other parishes, due to yours? and is this returned into the Bishops registry?

14. Have any Monuments or Tombes of the dead, in your Church or Church-yard, been cast down, defaced, ruined? have any Arms or Pictures in glasse windows been taken down, especially of our Saviour hanging on the crosse, in the great east window, and white glasse or other set up in place thereof? have any leaden or brazen inscriptions upon grave-stones been defaced, purloyned, sold? by whom?

Titulus 3.

¶ Of Sacred Utensils, Church-ornaments, Ministers vestments.

Micah 6. 6.

How shall I come before the Lord, or appear before my God? Answer. As becometh Saints.

1. Is there in your Church a Font for the Sacrament of Baptisme, fixed unto the Lords free-hold, and not moveable? of what materials is it made? where is it placed? whether neare unto a Church-dooere, to signifie our entrance into Gods Church by Baptisme? is it covered, well and cleanly kept? at time of Baptisme is it filled with water clean and clear, or is some bason, bowl, or bucket filled with water set therein?

2. Have you a comely and convenient Pew of wainscot, for your Minister to reade Divine service in? and another to preach in? doth it stand in the face of the congregation, as much as conveniently may be, so that they may behold, and heare, and understand the Minister, in what he readeth, preacheth or prayeth? Have you a cloth and cushion for either, to be laid upon the desk?

3. Have you a Bible of the largest volume and biggest letter? a service-book in folio, with the reading-psalmes; the order of Consecrating Bishops, of ordaining Priests and Deacons? be they well and fairly bound and embossed? and at end of Divine service, are they clasped or well tied up with fair strings, to keep out dust and soil, and to prevent tearing of the leaves?

4. Have you two fair large Surplices for your Minister to officiate Divine service in, that the one may be for change when the other is at washing; and also serve for him that at Communion assisteth the chief Minister; that no part of Divine service may be done but with and in ministeriall vestments?

5. Of what assise be the Surplices, large or scantling? of what cloth, course or fine? what are they worth, if they were to be sold? for not cheapenesse but decentnesse, is to be respected in the things of God?

6. Have you a Register-book for the Christnings, marriages, burials, of parchment, well bound and kept in a chest for Church-utensils, are the names and surnames, the day, moneth and yeare duly and truly registered, to remain upon record for clearing of many doubts and questions that may otherwise arise? and is a transcript thereof brought into the Bishops register yearly within a moneth after the Annunciation, or 25. of March?

7. Is your Communion-table, or Altar, of stone, wainscot, joyners work, strong, fair and decent? what is it worth in your opinion, were it to be sold?

8. Have you a Covering or Carpet of silk, satten, damask, or some more then ordinary stuff, to cover the Table with at all times, and a fair clean and fine linen covering, at time of administering the Sacrament?

9. Have you a Chalice or Communion-cup with a cover, of silver, and a flagon of silver or pewter (but rather of Silver) to put the Wine in? which is to be consecrated, and not to be brought into the Church and set on the Table in leather or wicker-bottles, or tavern wine-pots, which being of vulgar, common and profane imployments, ought not to be presented in the Church, or at the Lords table?

10. Have you a plate or patten, fair and deep, of the same materials, for the Bread? as also a corporas cloth or napkin of fine linen, to cover the bread consecrated (which cannot all at once be contained in the patten,) and to fold up what is not used at Communion? are all these sacred Utensils, clean kept, washed, scowred, rubbed, as often as need or conveniency requireth?

11. Is your Communion-table enclosed, and ranged about with a rail of joyners and turners work, close enough to keep out dogs from going in and profaning that holy place, from pissing against it, or worse? and is there a doore of the same work, to open and shut: doe any persons presume to enter thereinto, except such as be in holy Orders?

12. Is the Communion-table fixedly set, in such convenient sort and place within the Chancell, as hath been appointed by Authority, according to the practice of the ancient Church, that is, at the east-end of the Chancell, close unto the wall, upon an ascent or higher ground, that the officiating Priest may be best seen and heard of the Communicants, in that sacred action?

13. Whether is the Communion-table removed down at any time, either for, or without Communion, into the lower part of the Chancell, or body of the Church? by whom, at whose instance, direction or command is it done?

14. Is the Wine for the Communion white, or reddish, which should resemble bloud, and doth more effectually represent the Lords passion upon the crosse, whereof the blessed Sacrament is a commemorative representation?

15. If the consecrated wine fail, or sufficeth not, doth your Minister, before he give it to the Communicants, consecrate that also which is newly supplied, as the former? or doth he give it as it cometh from the tavern, without benediction? For there is no Sacrament, untill the words of Institution be pronounced upon it; This is my bloud, &c.

16. Doth he in stead of wine, give water unto any person that is abstemious and naturally cannot indure wine? If any such be, such persons abstaining altogether from water or any other element not ordained by Christ, ought to be taught that they are rather to communicate of the blessed Cup in their humble vote and desires, then that the Minister or they should presume against our Saviours expresse Institution. For onely Institution maketh a Sacrament. And as the popish half-communion is sacrilege, so this is presumption, to change the Element appointed and used by Christ.

Titulus 4.

¶ Concerning Priests and Ministers of the Church, their calling, persons, and deportment.

You are the salt of the earth, the lights of the world.

1. Is your Minister, a Parson, Vicar, or a Curate?
2. If a Curate, what is his stipend? if a Vicar, who is the appropriatour? and what is the vicarage and parsonage impropriate worth by the yeare?
3. If he be a Parson imparsonated, is he a graduate? of what degree in schools is he? is he a double or single-beneficed man? doth he reside and execute his place himself? what means doth he allow his Curate, if he resideth not?
4. If he be non-resident upon one or both his benefices, by what qualification is he exempted and dispensed withall? what allowance doth he make towards hospitality and relief of the poore? how often in a yeare doth he repair unto his benefice, to his cure of souls? how often doth he preach unto or instruct his flock personally?
5. Doth your Minister or Curate serve any more cures then one? if so; then how farre are they in distance asunder? can he do it conveniently?
6. For his person and deportment; is he stayed, grave, humble, modest, peaceably and religiously disposed? is he of honest life and conversation in the world? doth he endeavour and do his best to accord, and keep his Parishioners in peace, to take up and compound differences amongst his neighbours, according to solemn promise at his Ordination?
7. Or is he a brabler, brawler, contentious, seditious party; a tavern-haunter, an ale-house hunter, a drunkard, using unlawfull and forbidden games? is he riotous or unseemly in his apparel beyond his means, not fitting his calling, above his degree in schools, contrary to the statute of this land?
8. More particularly, doth he commonly go in silk, satten, velvet, or plush? are his clothes rather horsmens coats and riding-jacquets, then priests clokes? doth he wear long shaggy hair, deep ruffs, falling-bands down to his shoulders, or aseth he other indecent apparel, rather fitting a swaggerer then a priest?
9. Doth he practice any mechanical trade, sollicite causes in law, use common buying or selling of horses, sheep, or other cattel? is he a defamed usurer or broker? doth he commonly in person go to market to sell his corn or commodities, to buy his beef, mutton, &c. out of the shambles, fitting for his servants, not himself, who hath had imposition of Episcopall hands, and is to meddle with divine employments?
10. These and other mis-demeanours (if any be in the ministry) are to be taken notice of, and presented, out of a sincere honest desire of reformation, not out of spleen, malice, suggestion, or otherwise. For most commonly, Ministers, though indeed scandalous and debauched, are accounted honest, quiet, painfull, religious men, till the Parishioners fall out with them about tithes, detained or defrauded by tort, a wicked modus, or ill laudable custome, &c. Then the utmost that malice can invent, is aspersed on them.
11. Is there any Minister or Priest living in your parish, who having been admitted into holy Orders, hath relinquished and forsaken his calling, and liveth in the course of a farmer or lay-man, using some trade, taking some farm? &c.
12. Is there any in your parish, who having been silenced or suspended by Authority, continueth in that course without seeking reconciliation, or endeavouring to be satisfied for conformity? how doth he live, and imploy his time? what means and maintenance hath he, and from whom?
13. Or doth your Minister animate and encourage such men in perverse courses, by frequenting their compyny, staying the publication of any suspensions or excommunications, by not denouncing in his parish-church every half-yeare, such as being excommunicated, persevere, without seeking to be reconciled and absolved?
14. Hath he concealed, or not taken notice of any conventicles or meetings, preachings, prayers, prophesyings or exercises in private houses, to the contempt of Authority, depraving the book of Common prayer, the doctrine and discipline of the Church of England, and to the fomenting and encouraging of Separatists, and the like?

21795.

15. Doth your Minister labour by conference to reclaim any Recusants (if any such be in your parish) and to bring them from heresie or schisme, into the faith, profession, body and bosome of the Church, whether Popish or Protestant Recusants, who in that state be in hazard of salvation?

16. Hath any of your parish unreverently used your Minister? or laid violent hands upon him, or disgraced his office and calling by word or deed?

¶ Concerning Lecturers and Lectures.

Forasmuch as of late yeares the course and humour of Lecturing, and the frequenting and hearing such exercises, is of great resent in the State and Church of England, (from which course, as much good may ensue & be procured, if well and discreetly managed, so if otherwise, great hurt, danger and scandal may and often doth result; the cure and care whereof properly and immediately belongs to the Bishop of the Diocese where such exercises are) the Church-wardens and Side-men are given to understand, that there be amongst us three sorts of Lecturers.

1. The first, most hugged, followed, admired and maintained, is a super-inducted Lecturer in another mans cure and pastorall charge, who hath some resemblance to the ancient Catharist in the Primitive Church, but is up and down the same with the Doctour in the New discipline: which (I take it) is the motive of his so great approbation and good entertainment above the Incumbent of the Cure, though never so learned and painfull.

2. Concerning him, it is to be enquired of what degree in Schools he is, and of how long standing and studying in Divinitie, whether he be a graduate in Divinitie, a Doctour, or at least a Batchelour, and not a young Student or Preacher?

3. Are his Lectures popular after-noon sermons? or be they Catechisticall, and reading upon some common place of Divinitie, or the foure parts of the English authorized Catechisme, or some of the 39 Articles of our Confession?

4. Is he there admitted with the consent of the Incumbent, or against his will, with warrant and authority from the Bishop, under his Episcopall seal? Is the Minister and Incumbent of that place where he lectureth, a Preacher or not? and if a Benefice be offered the Lecturer, do you suppose he would take it?

5. Doth he often and at times appointed reade Divine service, and administer the Communion in his Surplice, and Hood of his degree?

6. Of what length are his Lectures, and how is his Prayer at beginning and end? is he therein conform unto the appointment and order of the Canon? Can. 55.

7. Doth he in his popular Lectures, ordinarily fall upon points of mysticall, dark and abstruse Divinitie, as Predestination, &c. Doth he intermeddle with matters of State, Government, forrein from his profession, above his understanding?

8. Doth he oppose or traduce openly the doctrine of his Brethren and neighbouring Ministers; or obliquely, underhand and upon the bye gird at them, the Doctrine, Discipline of the Church, any Parishioner, &c., so designing him, them or that, that a man may take notice of his meaning?

9. The second sort of Lecturers be those of Combination, when many neighbouring Ministers do voluntarily agree and consent with the Ordinaries approbation, not otherwise, to preach a sermon, every man in his course, at some adjoining market-town, upon the market-day, for instructing of such as repair together to sell and buy, in their duty to God, and commerce with man; Have you any such Lecturers?

10. Who be the Combiners? be they beneficed men of the Diocese, and not strangers or Curates? who are not to be admitted, because if they offend in their Sermons, the Diocesan cannot reach them; they are gone.

11. Doth this Lecture any way hinder, abridge or cut off Divine service, which is completely to be finished before the Lecture begin?

12. Do any resorting thereto, walk aloof, or in the Church-yard, or stay at some house purposely, and not repair to the Church till Lecture begin? If any such mis-demeanour be, present it; and without amendment, the Lecture shall cease.

13. A third sort be running Lectures; who appoint upon such a day to meet at such a Church, most an end in some Countrey-town or village; and then after Sermon, and dinner at some house of their disciples, repeat, censure, and explain the Sermon, discourse of points proposed at their last meeting, by the head of that classis or assembly, ever to the promoting of their own fancies, and derogation from the Doctrine and Discipline of the Church; after all, they do again condicere and appoint, to meet next at such a Church, in like sort, to like purpose. Such I found in

4 L

Sussex at my coming thither. If you have any such, of know any such, present them (as farre as you can learn) who they be, where they do meet, whether any of your Parish run after them.

Titulus 5.

Of Divine Service, Sacraments, and Sacramentals.

Eccles 5. 1.

When thou goest into the house of God, look unto thy feet, and be more ready to heare, then to offer the sacrifice of fools: for they consider not that they do evil.

1. Is Divine Service orderly performed in your Church upon appointed times, as the book of Common prayer prescribeth?
2. Do your Parishioners come late to Church, and not at the beginning of Divine Service, to make their humble confession unto almighty God? who by coming late, deprive themselves of the benefit of Absolution, and do become unprofitable hearers and petitioners in that holy action. Do any depart before Service is done, and the blessing pronounced by the Priest?
3. Doth any parishioner or forreiner come into the Church with an hawk on his fist, and an hawking-pole in his hand, with spaniels coupled, to the disturbance of the auditory, profanation of the Church, contempt of God and his Service? a course never practised, nor not amongst Pagans.
4. Do any of your Parish sixteen yeares old or upward, absent themselves commonly from Church? or do they use any gaming or exercise in Church-time? do they go into taverns, innes, or ale-houses, to bowse, or tittle upon Sundayes and Holy-dayes, in time of Divine Service?
5. Do any keep open shops, sell wares ordinarily on Sundayes or Holydayes?
6. Be there any Recusants in your Parish? do they keep any priest or schoolmaster in their houses, who refuse to come to Church and receive the Communion? doth he or they labour to seduce or draw others from the Church and profession established, not contenting themselves with their own opinions?
7. Have any in your Parish retained, sold, or dispersed books unlawfull and scandalous, written by Papists, or Puritane sectaries?
8. Do any of your Parish leave their own Church, Minister and Service, and repair to other Churches ordinarily, where a more sanctified (in their opinion) Minister preacheth powerfully to their edification?
9. Is there any in your Parish who refuse to come to Church, have their children baptized, receive the Communion of their Minister, because he is no Preacher?
10. Is any of your Parish a common blasphemers of Gods holy name, a common swearer, drunkard, usurer, foul-mouthed speaker? &c. Have any such not been presented? have they been admitted to the Sacraments?
11. Be there any in your Parish who deny, or persuade others to deny, the Kings authority over all persons, in all causes within his Realms?
12. Do any write or publicly speak against any thing in the Book of Common prayer, the Confession of the Church made in 1562; or against any of the Rites and Ceremonies used and authorized in the Church for Divine Service; or against the Hierarchicall government thereof, by Archbishops, Bishops, Archdeacons, &c. affirming it unlawfull, Antichristian, against Gods word, and that the government by Pastours, Doctours, Lay-elders is the sceptre of Jesus Christ?
13. Do your Parishioners at their entrance within the Church-doores, use that comely and decent deportment which is fitting for Gods house, where God, whom heaven and earth cannot contain, is said to dwell, and doth manifest his goodnesse and mercy to man out of his word? Do they uncover their heads, sit bare all service-time, kneel down in their seats, bowing towards the Chancell and Communion-table, and use those postures which fit the severall acts and parts of Divine Service?
14. That is, Do they reverently kneel at Confession, Absolution, the Lords Prayer, the Church-prayers and petitions or Collects, as becometh suiters unto God? do they stand at the Creed, as avowing their belief in the face of heaven and earth, men and angels; at the Hymnes, and Doxologie or Glory be to the Father, &c. against the oppugners of the Trinity (which in the Primitive Church was repeated at the end of every Psalme, and ought so to be in ours) do they stand also at the reading of the Gospel, and bend or bow at the glorious, sacred, and sweet name of JESUS, pronounced out of the Gospel read?
15. Do your Parishioners accompany the Minister in his perambulation in Rogation-week, not onely to set out, and continue the known bounds of the Parish, but especially upon view and sight, to consider the fruits of the earth then in prime; and upon the increase or empyring of the same to give God thanks for his goodnesse, and to procure by prayer the continuance thereof on the one, or to deprecate his anger for the other, and intreat his future blessing upon the same? For what the eye seeth, the heart rueth, and more effectually apprehendeth.

16. Doth your Minister officiate Divine Service in one place, upon set times, in the habit and apparel of his Order, with a Surplice, an Hood, a Gown, a Tippet; not in a Cloak, or sleevelesse Jacquet, or horsemans coat? for such I have known.

17. Doth he use the Absolution to be pronounced on penitents, not as it is a declaration of forgiveness, but as a prayer, altering the words of the Common prayer-book, as some have presumed to do?

18. Doth he reade the Psalmes, the clerk and people answering? doth he reade the first, and second Lesson, and the Psalmes, properly appointed for set dayes, according to the book of Common prayer, not as it happeneth upon opening of the book, or as he fancieth, or maketh choice of? Doth he plainly and diligently onely reade the Chapters, or doth he expound, or comment upon them, and draw uses from them to his Auditory?

19. Doth he in stead of Collects and Prayers of the Church, substitute prayers of his own devising, motion, or effusion; or alter any words of the Collects appointed?

20. Doth he upon Wednesdayes and Frydayes ordinarily, and at other extraordinary times appointed by the Ordinary, reade and pray the Letanie? and doth he especially on Sundayes, reade the second or latter service at the Communion-table, (as the ancient tradition of the Church was to do, after the dismissal or Missa of the Catechumeni, Energumeni, and Penitentes) and not in his Pew or reading-seat, though there be no Communion; and this as well before as after the Sermon?

21. Doth he catechize, at least half an houre before Divine Service, his Parishioners in the afternoon, as he is enjoyned? (but not enjoyned to preach a popular Sermon.)

22. Doth he commonly or of set purpose, in his popular Sermon, fall upon those much disputed and little understood Doctrines, of Gods eternall Predestination, of Election antecedaneous, of Reprobation irrespective without sinne foreseen, of Free will, of Perseverance, and not-falling from grace; points obscure, unfoldable, unfoordable, untraceable, at which that great Apostle stood at gaze, with Oh the height and depth of the riches both of the wisdom and knowledge of God! how unsearchable are his judgements, and his wayes past finding out? Rom. 11. 33.

23. Are his Sermons long, beyond the compasse of an houre? be his prayers before and after Sermon drawn out at length, to equall, if not exceed his Sermon? or doth he (as he should) conform himself unto the words which are recommended as a form, Can 55. consisting of Prayer for all estates and men, and of Praise or Thanksgiving for the living and the dead, by way of commemoration, that the righteous may be had in exelasting remembrance, God be glorified in and for them, and the living incited to follow them?

Titulus 6.

Of the Sacrament of Baptisme: and Sacramentals, remembred in the Service-book.

Accedat Verbum ad Elementum, & fiet Sacramentum. Baptisme.

1. First, for Baptisme, publick and private: Doth your Minister teach, or do any of your Parish hold, that the Sacrament of Baptisme, where it may be had, is not of absolute and indispensable necessitie unto salvation, in Gods ordinary course and dispensation with man; but that either eternall Election sufficeth, or original sin (which infants onely have) condemneth none: and therefore regard not, but onely for fashion sake, to require it?
2. Doth therefore your Minister teach the necessity of it, and admonish his Parishioners not to deferre it? which is a common fault to put it off till provision can be made for inviting and entertaining of Gossips, and of friends or neighbours, or to make other such put-offs of no necessitie.
3. Doth your Minister baptize the child at the Font, not at his Pew, nor in a bason of water, thither brought and set upon some moveable frame, nor in any bucket, or a bowl-dish? doth he use rose-water, or other liquour then pure meer water from the well? &c.
4. Doth he refuse to baptize the child, unless the father will make publick profession he taketh it to be his own, and not begotten in adultery: which of my knowledge hath been practised by some indiscreet Zelotes of the preciser sort.
5. Doth he refuse to baptize any child born in bastardy or out of wedlock, or any stranger casually born in his Parish?
6. Doth he admit or procure the father to be Godfather to his own child? or young children under age, who cannot render an account of their faith, or never were confirmed, being not capable to understand what they do, or undertake?

7. In the ancient Church, the child to be baptized, was thrice dipped in the Font; in the name of the Father, of the Sonne, and of the holy Ghost; semblably is he to be thrice aspersed with water on his face, (if for fear of danger not dipped, as the book of Common prayer appointeth) the Priest using those sacramentall words: Doth he also receive the child into his arms, unto Christs flock, and then set the badge of Christianitie upon him, signing him with the signe of the Crosse?

8. Doth he, according to his own direction to the God-fathers, and appointment of the Communion-book, when the child by him catechized can render an account of his faith, transmit him to the Bishop, to receive further Confirmation of the graces of Gods Spirit upon him?

9. That this religious and ancient course may the better be observed, and facilitated the more, doth the Minister diligently at times appointed catechize the children and youth of the Parish, in the Church-Catechisme, and none other, publickly? Do any refuse to send their children or servants to be catechized? Do any sent, refuse to come, or answer? of what condition are they? upon what cause is their refusall?

10. In administration of private Baptisme, in cases of absolute exigency, doth your Minister, being requested and sent for, refuse to go, and baptize the child in danger of death?

Of Marriage.

11. Concerning marriage: Are the Banes asked three severall times openly in the Church, upon three severall Sundayes or holy-dayes?

12. Or is a Licence of dispensation for asking the Banes, brought from the Bishops court, and presented to the Minister before Marriage?

13. Is Marriage solemnized with Licence, or after Banes asked, in the Church, (and not clandestinely in a private house) before, or after the houres of eight and twelve in the forenoon: in Lent, or other prohibited times? And are all things done and performed according to the form prescribed in the book of Common prayer?

14. Are any married without a Ring, joyning of hands, or the fees laid down upon the Book?

15. Hath your Minister married any under twenty one yeares, without the consent of Parents or Guardians first had and signified?

16. Have any persons, once lawfully married, forsaken each other, or do live asunder without the authoritie of the Ordinary? or do any being divorced or separated marry again, the former wife or husband yet living? Have any of your parish been married at any lawlesse Church or Chappell, or out of the Parish where one of the parties dwelt?

17. Have any been married in the times wherein Marriage is by law restrained, without lawfull licence, viz. from the saturday next before Advent-sunday, untill the fourteenth of January; and from the saturday next before Septuagesima-sunday, untill the munday next after Low-sunday; and from the sunday before the Rogation-week, untill Trinitie-sunday?

Visitation of the Sick.

18. About vjsitation of the sick, and Burials: Doth your Minister not use, or refuse to go and recommend unto God the sick in and by the prayers of the Church, as they are conceived in the Communion-book? For multi parvi, qui sunt unanimes, fiunt magni; & multorum preces, impossibile est contemni. Tertull. Or otherwise doth he onely use to reade their names out of a scroll, before the Sermon or his own prayer in the pulpit, and no more?

19. Doth he refuse, being requested from the sick party in extremis, out of time of publick contagion and pestilence, to visit and comfort him on his death-bed, to exhort him to dispose of his temporall state, and to remember the poore in his Will?

20. But much rather, doth he comfort him as concerning his soules health, his state to God-ward? doth he upon hearing of his confession, which he shall perswade him to make, absolve him from his sinnes, settle his faith, affiance and confidence in God? and hath he at any time discovered any part of his confession?

21. Doth he furnish him with his viaticum, (that is, in his journey to Godward, with the communion of the body and bloud of our Saviour) thereto requested, according to order set down in the Communion-book?

22. When any party is in extremity, is there a passing-bell tolled, that the neighbours thereby moved, may (remembering their own mortality) recommend his state unto God in their private prayers, or (as the ancient Church used) accompanie him in his departure with intercession unto Gods judgement-seat?

23. When he is departed, doth the bell ring out his knell, that others may take notice, and thank God for his deliverance out of this vale of misery? Both which telling and ringing out, be in many places neglected.

Buriall of the Dead.

24. When any deceased is to be interred in Christian buriall, doth your Minister upon request, or notice given, meet the corps at the Church stile, and conduct it into the Church, as is appointed?

25. From thence, after Service said, doth he go before it to the grave, saying or singing, as in the Service-book? doth he commit it unto the ground, as becometh the body of a Christian?

26. Hath he refused to bury any, not Felo de se, or excommunicated, unlesse that first fees be payd, or mortuary taken? hath he contrariwise buried any such in Christian buriall or consecrated ground?

27. Is the grave made east and west? Is the body buried with the head to the west? Is the grave digged seven foot deep? and being made up and covered, preserved from violation?

Churching of women after child-birth.

28. Doth your Minister refuse to church any woman after child-birth? doth he administer it at home, without great cause, to such as will not come to Church out of willfull scrupulosity?

29. Doth he administer it in his Pew or reading-seat, using the words of the Service in generall, as if he intended it to all in the Church? or doth he descend onely unto her seat in the Church, and there perform it? or doth he not (as he ought to do) go up into the Chancell, the woman also repairing thither, kneeling before the Communion-table at the steps or rail? and if there be a Communion, doth she receive?

30. Doth she come to Church in her ordinary habit and wearing-apparel, or with a fair vail dependent from her head, that she may be distinguished from her accompanying neighbours, and that such as take notice of it, be thereby put in mind for her, and with her, to give God thanks for her deliverance?

Titulus 7.

¶ Concerning the Sacrament of the Lords Supper.

Do this, as often as you do it, in remembrance of me.

In the Primitive Church, this Sacrament was frequented and celebrated daily, especially in times of persecution; that being suddenly seised on, they might not depart without their viaticum. Afterwards it fell down to every Sunday: in processe they became Mensurna, monethly; and in latter times, devotion slaking, men were confined to at least thrice in one yeare, especially at Easter; which is the limitation in our Church.

1. Is this blessed Sacrament therefore administered in your Church every Sunday; or every moneth, upon the first Sunday in the moneth; or at least thrice in the yeare, whereof Easter is one time?

2. Is any publick notorious scandalous offender admitted thereto without satisfaction made unto the Church, reconciliation with enemies, confession of his faults, and promise made of amendment?

3. To which end and intent, doth the Minister admonish his Parishioners, to reform themselves, that they receive not their own damnation, as not discerning the Lords body?

4. Doth he especially exhort them to make confession of their sinnes, to himself, or some other learned, grave and discreet Minister, especially in Lent, against that holy time of Easter; that they may receive comfort and absolution, so to become worthy receivers of such sacred mysteries?

5. He is not to admit boyes or girls thereto, under sixteen yeares of age, nor any young person who hath not rendred an account of his faith, and is not confirmed by the Bishop: Is this observed or not? For better performing whereof, is there yearly a particular note taken of every household in the Parish, how many persons in each household there are, which be capable of receiving the Communion?

6. Are the names of such as intend to receive, taken by the Minister over night, or the day before, they repairing unto him, that he may examine or instruct them, they pay their offerings, and not disquiet that sacred action in the Chancell or Church, by collecting of them then or there, and that he may proportion the multitude of receivers according to the capacity of his Chancell, and not be pestered or crowded with multitudes, who thereby may be occasioned and desire to sit in their pews in the Church, and not come up and draw neare unto the Altar or holy Table, as they are bound to do?

7. Before the Communicants ascend up into the Chancell out of their seats in the Church, that exhortation is to be said, which in the Communion-book beginneth, We be come together at this time, &c. And then this exhortation, Dearly beloved, we are come together, &c. When after this exhortation, the Communicants are come up into the Chancell, before they dispose themselves to kneel in their severall places, (which are orderly and decently to be appointed for them) this is to be said, You that do truly and earnestly repent you of your sinnes, &c. Is this order of the Communion-book observed? if not, let it be amended hereafter.

8. Doth he first receive himself in both kinds (for I have known where the Minister hath unorderly received last) upon his knees, at the Altar, having consecrated the bread and wine by the solemn and powerfull words of our Saviour, and none other?

9. Doth he next to himself give it to Clergy-men, if any be present, that they may assist him in giving the Cup; and afterwards to every Communicant, not standing, sitting, or going up and down, but humbly expecting till it be brought and given unto him, in the place appointed for him by the Ordinary? doth he receive it from the Minister, meekly kneeling upon his knees, which is the most fitting posture for devout and humble Communicants, and is commanded by the Church?

10. Doth he deliver bread and cup, severally to each Communicant, and not in grosse to all, or some part, using the words, The body of our Lord Jesus Christ which was given for thee: The blood of our Lord Jesus Christ which was shed for thee? At pronounciation of which words directed unto them, each severall Communicant was wont in the Primitive Church to say, Amen, as professing his consent unto, and approbation of the truth thereof: Which words cannot be used, being spoken not severally, but in grosse to many at one time.

11. Is the bread and wine of the best sort, fine, clean, sweet, not musty, or unsavoury? which beside the profanation, of my knowledge hath been occasion to some of turning Papists; who could not swallow it in disrelishment, and abhorred such negligence and contempt of Christs institution in their Minister.

12. And whereas it offendeth many, that we sometimes call the Lords Table an Altar, and dispose of it Altar-wise; that we use the phrase of Sacrament of the Altar: in upgunning whereof, it hath been charged with Popery, and constantly (but ignorantly) affirmed, that in the Primitive Church it was not named an Altar for CCC yeares after Christ: to give satisfaction herein, and hereabout, both to Priests and people, I avow, upon certain knowledge out of my poore reading, That for all the time articulate, the word Table is not above thrice used, but ever Altar; and of Ecclesiasticall writers, within that time, onely Dionysius Areopagita hath it, and that but once, and occasionally: Which assertion (I am sure) cannot be refelled: and therefore if we will (as we professe to do) follow the course and practice of the ancient, Primitive, Apostolicall Church, we ought not to traduce or be offended at the name, thing, or use of Altar, whereat a manifold Sacrifice is offered to God.

Titulus 8.

¶ Touching Parishioners.

1. Are there in your Parish any adulterers, fornicators, incestuous persons, bawds, receivers, close favourers, conveyers away, or which suffer to depart any incontinent persons unpunished, any blasphemers, common swearers, drunkards, ribauds, usurers, malicious slanderers, scolders, or sowers of discord, or any defamed of any the said crimes?

2. Do any refuse to pay to the reparations, ornaments, and other things required in your Church as they are lawfully cessed by the Church-wardens? or, any dwelling out of your Parish, which hold land in your Parish; do they refuse to pay?

3. Hath the Perambulation of the circuit of your parish been observed once every yeare? if not, whose default is it?

4. Have there been any secret Conventicles or meetings in your Parish, by any Priests, Ministers, or others, tending to the depraving of the form of Prayer, doctrine, or government of the Church?

5. Have any in your Parish given the Church-wardens, or Side-men, or any of them, evil words for doing their dutie according to their oath and conscience, in making presentment for any fault?

6. Do any in your Parish profane any Sunday or Holy-day by any unlawfull gaming, drinking or tipling in taverns, innes, or ale-houses, in the time of Common-prayer or Sermon, or by working or doing the work of their trades and occupations? Do any in your Parish buy or sell, or keep open their shops, or set out any wares to be sold on Sundayes or Holy-dayes, by themselves, their servants or apprentices? or have they any other wayes profaned the said dayes? And hath the Kings declaration concerning the lawfull sports and recreations been published among you, yea or no? if so when was it done, in what manner, and by whom?

7. Is the fifth day of November observed & kept in your Parish, with prayer and thanksgiving unto God, in such form as is by publick Authority appointed for the day? And likewise the day of the Kings inauguration?

8. Doth any married woman within your Parish after child-birth neglect to come to Church, according to the book of Common Prayer, to give thanks to God for her safe deliverance, vailed in a decent manner, as hath been anciently accustomed? And doth she then kneel in some convenient place nigh to the Communion-table, while the priest (standing by her) giveth thanks for her? And if there be a Communion, doth she then offer her accustomed offerings, and receive the holy Communion?

9. Do all fathers, mothers, masters and mistresses, cause their children, servants and apprentices to come to the publick catechizing on Sundayes and Holy-dayes, to be instructed and taught therein? And those that do not their duties herein, in not sending them to it, or not coming, or not learning and answering, you shall present their names.

10. Do all your Parishioners of what sort soever, according as the Church expressly them commandeth, draw neare, and with all Christian humility and reverence come to the Lords table, when they are to receive the holy Communion? And not (after the most contemptuous and unholy usage of some, if men did rightly consider) sit still in their seats or pews, to have the blessed body and blood of our Saviour go up and down to seek them all the Church over?

11. Do you know, or have heard a fame of any offence committed by any of your Parish before your time, and heretofore not presented? and have you presented the same?

Titulus 9.

¶ Of Clerks, Sextons, Church-wardens, and Side-men.

1. Have you a fit Parish-clerk, aged twenty yeares at the least, of honest life, able to reade and write? Is your Sexton an honest man of conversation? Doth he duly perform his office, in ringing the Bells to service, and knells, &c. doth he keep the Church clean, the doores locked?

2. Do you and other Church-wardens do your diligence in not suffering any undecent behaviour in the Church, against order, canons, law: as in not being uncovered, standing, kneeling, talking, prating, going in and out the Church in Divine Service, or the like; in not permitting any idle or refractory person to walk, play, abide in the Church-yard, or Church-porch in time of Service?

3. Do you or they visit and take notice of misdemeanours in ale-houses, tap-houses, tobacco-shops, or taverns, in time of Divine Service, and present their names and offences?

4. Do you or they permit any playes, sports, wrestlings, drinkings, or other profane usages, in the Church, Chappell, or Church-yard?

5. Do you, or have any of you, meddled with setting placing, displacing, removing the Communion-table up and down, of your own heads, without the Minister; or with him, not by order from the Bishop?

6. Do you know of any Parishioner, or forreiner, who hath committed, or attempted such an act? If you can learn them, present their names.

7. Do any threaten, trouble, molest you, for doing your duties?

Titulus 10.

¶ Concerning School-masters, Physicians, and Chirurgicalians.

1. Is there any School-master in your Parish, who teacheth publick Grammar, to write or reade; or in private houses? who are they? in whose houses do they teach? with licence from the Ordinary, or without?

2. Do any teach in your Church or Chancell, which is to the profanation of that place.

3. Doth any Recusant keep a School-master in his house, who cometh not to Church, nor receiveth the Sacrament, or is refractory to the Church-orders?

4. Doth any publick School-master teach the children of Recusants or Sectaries?

5. Doth the School-master instruct his scholars in religion, the points of Catechisme set forth in the Communion-book?

6. Doth he orderly bring his scholars to Church upon Sundayes and holy-dayes, to Prayer and Sermons?

7. Is any maintenance given to free and publick Schools, detained or inverted? by whom is it practised?

8. What Chirurgicalian and Physician have you in you Parish? Is he a graduate, licenced by either Universitie?

9. What ignorant persons have left their trade, and taken upon them to practise Physick or Chirurgery?

10. What Midwives have you, and how, or by whom licenced?

11. How long have the above specified, used such practice? what good or hurt are they reported to have done?

Titulus 11.

¶ Concerning Ecclesiasticall Offices, and Fees.

1. What peculiar or exempt Jurisdictions be claimed or executed in your Parish?

2. Be there any Ecclesiasticall Judges, or any Clerks and ministers under them, who do take or exact any extraordinary Fees, against the Canons, or Tables which set forth those Fees, which have come to your knowledge?

3. Are there to this purpose, two Registers or Tables containing the severall rates of Fees due to each Officer, the one publickly proposed in the Consistory-court, the other in the Registry, that every Subject may take view and notice thereof?

4. Do Clerks or others take any thing by way of gratuity for expedition?

5. Do you know, or have you heard of any payment, composition, or promise made to any Ecclesiasticall Officer, for conniving at any fault committed, for sparing any person, for misdemeanour of Ecclesiasticall cognizance, concealing of any excommunication? what surnames have come to your knowledge, or be of publick fame? who are the delinquents?

6. What commutation hath been given? by whom? to whom? for what offence? how hath it been employed?

7. Do any Ecclesiasticall Judges speed any act privately of themselves?

8. What number of Apparitours be there in the severall Jurisdictions? in what manner is the Countrey grieved or overburdened by them?

9. What bribes or exactions have any of them taken?

10. Distinct and punctuall answer must be made to every Article.

11. If you know of any other Ecclesiasticall crime, you are to present it upon oath, although it be not here expressed: for better knowledge whereof, you are diligently to peruse the book of Canons and Statutes, enabling Ordinaries or their Officials to punish offences there specified.

12. The Ministers of every Parish may ioyn in presentment with the Church-wardens and Side-men: for they are intentionally the persons who should have chief care of the premised particulars. To which intent, the Minister and Church-wardens should meet and conferre together often, but especially to make their presentments of these or the like courses in their Parish. For misdemeanours unknown must go uncorrected. The Bishop is no Ubiquitary, that he can discover every thing done: but what is presented, if it be not punished, it is his fault.

FINIS.

THORNBURGH, ARCHDEACON OF WORCESTER, 1638.

ARTICLES to be enquired of and answered unto by the Church-wardens and Sworne-men within the Arch-Deaconrie of Worcester in the Visitation of the Right worshipfull Edward Thornburgh Dr. of Divinity Arch-deacon of Worcester.

Anno Domini 1638.*

Oxford, printed by Leonard Lichfield.

A note of Directions.

1. The old Church-wardens and Side-men of every Parish Church and Chappel are to joyne together in appearance, and presentment upon the Articles formerly delivered in this behalfe, and the Minister also may joyne in presentment with them if he will, or otherwise the Minister may present alone. And the new elected Church-wardens and Side-men are to appeare, and to take their oaths, and to exhibite their presentments afterwards when they shall bee assigned, as by the 118 and 119 Canons is required. The presentments are to be plainly, and particularly set downe to answer every part and branch of every severall Article following, and to be subscribed and testified under the hands and markes of all and singular the Presenters.

2. The Proprietaries, Parsons, Vicars, Curats, and Sequestrators of Ecclesiasticall Benefices, and their respective Farmers, and all publique Lecturers, Schoolemasters, Vshers, and and (sic) Vnder Schoolemasters, &c. within every Parish, are also to appeare, and to exhibite their Letters of Orders, Institutions, and Inductions, and all other their Dispensations, Licenses, and faculties whatsoever, not being formerly exhibited in the Visitation of the moderne Arch-Deacon now visiting. And they are also to make reall payment of all such procurations and Synodalls, and other duties as are respectfully due and payable by every of them severally in this Visitation.

The Tenovr of the Oath to bee ministred to all and every the Church-wardens and Side-men, or assistants in the said Visitation.

You, and every of you shall sweare by almighty God, that all favour, feare, and affection, and all other sinister corruption whatsoever set aside, upon due consideration of these Articles given in charge, you will diligently enquire, and duly make a true, plaine, perfect, and particular answer and presentment in writing to the same Articles, and to every branch and part thereof, presenting all, and every offenders and offences therein mentioned, so as may stand with the glory of God, the discharge of your consciences, and the jurisdiction of the Ecclesiasticall Court: wherein you shall deale sincerely, faithfully, & uprightly as before God. So helpe you God in Christ Jesus.

Concerning Church and Church-yard.

1. Whether is your Church and Chancell in all respects well & sufficiently repayred, and kept sweet and cleane, if not, in whose default? Have you therein the ten Commandements, the Articles of the believe, and other godly sentences fairely written: the Bible of the largest volume, the Bookes of Common prayer, the two volumes of Homilies, the booke entituled God and the King and all other bookes requisite: a seemely Pulpit, a convenient seat for the Minister at Praiers, a large and comely Surplesse whole and untorne?

2. Have you in your Church a strong chest for almes, with a hole in the top, and three lockes and keyes thereto, is the money therein put, employed to the use of the poore?

3. Have you a Register of Christnings, Weddings, and Burialls in a booke of parchment duly kept in a chest with three lockes and keyes?

4. Hath any man pulled downe, or uncovered, or suffered to decay any Parsonage or Vicarage houses, or any Church, Chancell, Chappell, Vestry, or Church-houses in part, or in all, or employed them, or any of them to any prophane uses?

5. Whether is your Parsonage, Vicarage, or Ministers house, or any part thereof converted, made, used, or employed, to, or for any common passage, entry, thorow-fare, or common way for people, or Cattell usually to passe thorow, forth of the Church-yard into, or unto any Ale-house, Tippling, or Victualling house, common Inne, or wine Tauerne, and by whom, and by whose sufferance, and permission, and how long hath the same beene so made, enioyned, used imployed, or rather misused and misimployed as aforesaid?

6. Whether are the pales, fences, enclosures, and markes of ancient Bounds and Limits of your Parsonage Vicarage or Ministers houses, or of the Courts, entries, gardens, back sides or other appurtenances belonging to the same, or any part thereof, remooved, or altered, or taken away from their ancient places, bounds, and limits thereof, and layd and used to, and with any victualling house, common Inne, or wine Tauerne, and by whom, when, and by whose sufferance and how long time hath the same beene so done and suffered? And whether by the continuance of the use of the premises, as aforesaid, may not the same in short time growe out of knowledge, and by some prescription to become prejudiciall to the Church or succeeding Incumbent thereof?

7. Are your Bels, Bell-ropes, and Clocke in good repaire, and well ordered? Is your Church-yard well fenced, and decently kept? Is it not prophaned with fighting, brawling, chiding, gaming, dancing, playing, or with unlawfull Cattell, or other wise; if yea, how? and by whom, and by whose default?

Ministers and Curates.

8. Doth your Minister read, or say the whole divine Service every Sunday and Holyday, and administer the holy Sacraments according to the booke of Common Prayer, without addition or alteration? Is your Minister a licensed Preacher, doth he diligently preach sound Doctrine, and for matters of government seriously teach and maintaine the Kings supremacy under God within his maiesties deminions over all persons, and in all causes, as well Ecclesiasticall as Civill, and the abolishing of all forraigne power? doth he exhort the people to obedience, and before his Sermons use the forme of Prayer prescribed in the 55. Canon?

9. Hath your Minister more Benefices than one; if two, or more, doth he reside upon one of them himselfe, and maintaine a licensed Preacher on the other? If he have but one, is he resident and dwelling thereupon, is hee painefull in his vocation, of sober and good conversation, and given to hospitality?

10. Doth your Minister use decency of Apparrell, as well in the Church as elsewhere? and in the time of divine Prayers, and administration of the Sacraments, doth he use to weare the Surplesse? and if hee bee a Graduate, such a hood as is agreeable to his calling?

11. Is your Minister a peace-maker, and no sower of discord, or is hee suspected famed, or noted of any notorious crime, or giveth he any ill example, in his carriage, or demenour?

12. Doth any preach in your parish, that refuseth to conforme himselfe to the lawes, ordinances, and rites of the Church of England?

13. Hath your Minister a Curate, and how is hee licensed? doth he serve two cures, and doth he give notice of the fasting dayes and Holy-dayes commanded and allowed? and amongst others of the fifth of November?

* The date is inserted in MS.

14. If your Minister bee not a Preacher allowed, doth hee procure monethly Sermons? and when there is no Sermon, doth he read an Homily, doth he take upon him to expound any text of Scriptures?

15. What Preachers have come from any other place, and preached in your Parish; within these twelve moneths last past? have you their names written in a booke kept for that purpose? hath such a Preacher subscribed his name thereto, and set downe the day when he preached, & by whom licensed?

16. Hath your Minister obtained his Benefice by any Symoniacall compact, either directly, or indirectly?

17. Hath any of your Parish, or of any other Parish, unreverently used your Minister, laid violent hands on him, or disgraced his office and function by word, or deed?

Divine Service.

18. Is divine Service in due time on Sundayes, Holydayes and their Eves, and at other times appointed, reverently said, or sung in your Church or Chappell, with the Letany on Wednesdayes, and Frydaies, and all other rites and ceremonies, according to the prescript forme of common Prayer in the Communion Booke?

19. Whether doth any, not being licensed (or any not ordered, at least for a Deacon) say common Prayer openly in your Church, or Chappell?

20. Doe any men, young or old, use to weare their hats in the Church or Chappell in time of divine Service, or are there any that behave themselves disorderly in the Church, Chappell, or Church-yard, or any disturbers of divine Service or Sermons?

21. Whether doe any victuallers (or others in your Parish) suffer any drinking, or gaming in their houses on Sundayes, or Holy-dayes in time of divine Service or Sermons?

22. Whether any in your Parish upon Sundayes or Holy-dayes, doe use their trade, or doe any other worke or labour, as Brewing, Baking, Washing, Barbing, or such like, or doe any Mercers, Drapers, Shoemakers, Butchers, or others whatsoever open their shops for sale of Wares upon those dayes, or doe hedge, ditch, dig, carry, or draw burdens by themselves, their servants, horses, or other cattell whatsoever on such dayes? And is the fifth day of November observed, according as is ordained in that be-nalfe?

The holy Communion.

23. Have you a decent Communion Table on a frame with a rayle about the same, a seemely Carpet, and a cloth of Linnen, a Communion cup and cover of silver, a faire Flagon of Pewter, or purer mettall for the Wine, a plate for the Bread, and a towell to lay over it? Is the said Table put to any other use, or in any sort prophaned and how?

24. Whether is their (sic) any in your Parish which being full sixteene yeares of age and upward, hath not received the holy Communion three severall times in the yeare past, at least in his or her Parish Church, whereof Easter to be one of the three times?

25. Doth your Minister instruct, or examine his Parishioners concerning the Sacraments at convenient times before he administer the Communion? And doth hee admit any thereto that cannot say at least the Lords Prayer, the Articles of the Christian faith, and the ten Commandements?

26. Is your Communion ministred with Bread and Wine, consecrated in such order, as in the Booke of common Prayer is appointed? And doth your Minister deliver both kinds to every severall Communicant, with the blessing prescribed in the booke of common Prayer?

27. Doth any receive the holy Communion either sitting, standing, or otherwise then kneeling, as is prescribed in the booke of common Prayer? Or doe any refuse to receive the same kneeling? and doth your Minister admit any to receive the Communion otherwise then kneeling?

28. Doth your minister admit any notorious Offenders, or any Schismaticks to the holy Communion, before due penance enioyed by the Ordinary be duely performed by them, or doth he admit any notoriously known to be out of charity, or any that hath done any open wrong to his neighbour, before reconciliation made to the party wronged? and have any bene put from the Communion and wherefore?

29. Whether doth your Minister appoint and observe so many Communiones every yeare, as that the Parishioners may conveniently receive all of them three severall times in the yeare? And doth he use to give publike notice thereof in the Church, the Sabbath day next going before every such Communion, that the Parishioners may prepare themselves to bee partakers thereof? and hath any stranger or others of any other Parish resorted to your Parish Church to heare divine Service, or Sermon, or received the holy Communion there within these twelve months last past? and who?

Baptisme.

30. Have you in your Church a convenient Font of stone, well kept, and covered, standing in the ancient place? Doth your Minister baptize therein, or in a Bason, or other thing, or with any other ceremonies than such as are allowed in the Booke of common Prayer: or doth he omit, neglect, or not use all the ceremonies therein prescribed, and doth hee use the signe of the Crosse in Baptisme?

31. Doth your Minister refuse to baptize any children of Christian parents; that are brought to the Church?

32. Are parents urged to bee present at the baptizing of their children? or be any admitted to be God-fathers, or God-mothers, that have not received the holy Communion? or doe any parents refuse to have their children signed with the signe of the Crosse in Baptisme?

33. Have any children that were borne in your parish bene carried out of the parish to be baptized elsewhere? or have any not bene baptized at all, or in places by parties unknowne?

34. Whether hath your Minister refused, deferred, or delayed to come unto and to christen any child being in weaknesse, or in danger of death, being thereunto required, by reason whereof such a child hath (through his negligence, or by his default) dyed unbaptized?

Catechisme.

35. Doth your Minister, or his Curate upon every Sunday and Holyday before evening prayer for halfe an houre or more, examine and instruct the youth and ignorant persons of his parish, in the Ten commandements, the Articles of the Beliefe, and the Lords Prayer; and doth hee diligently heare, instruct, and teach them the Catechisme set forth in the booke of common Prayer?

36. Doe Parents and Housholders bring, or send their children and servants to the Church every Sunday and Holy-day duely to be catechized, according as the late Canons require, and who are negligent therein?

Matrimonie.

37. Whether is Matrimonie solemnized in your Church or Chappell according to the booke of common Prayer? and doe the new married persons the same day of their marriage receive the holy communion?

38. Have you in your Church a Table of the degrees of Marriage? are any married within the degrees of consanguinity or affinity therein forbidden? or doe any children under the age of twenty-one yeares contract themselves, or marry without consent of their parents, or Guardians?

39. Have any bene married without the Banes thrice asked in the Church three severall Sundayes, or Holy-dayes, or at any time of the day, than betwixt the houre of eight and twelve in the forenone, or at any times prohibited, that is to say, from Advent Sunday to the Octaves of Epiphany from Septuagesima Sunday to the Octaves of Easter; from Rogation Sunday to Trinity Sunday?

40. Have any that dwell in your parish, bene married in any other parish or any of another parish, bene married in your parish? or have any bene married privately out of the Church, or face of the Congregation, when, where, by whom, and who were present at such marriages?

41. Have any woemen not well knowne to be married, bene delivered of any child in your parish and in whose house? or hath any woman in your parish bene carnally knowne, or begotten with child before marriage, and by whom?

42. Have any forsaken their wives or husbands, and married others? Have any married againe after they have bene divorced? Or doe any which have bene divorced keepe company still together?

43. Doe any married couples live asunder and not together, and doe either of them keepe in their house, or secretly resort to any other, to the raising of suspection or fame of incontinency?

44. Hath any in your parish, for money or reward, married any woman that committed fornication or adultery with another man? Or hath any unmarried woman, begotten with Child, gone out of your parish before shee hath done penance enioyed by the Ordinary, where was shee, or is shee received or harboured, at whose charge, and who conveyed her away?

Visitation of the sicke.

45. Doth your Minister or Curate visit the sicke, doth he admonish them to repentance, comfort the penitent, & exhort them to charitable alms deeds?

Buriall of the Dead.

46. Are your dead buried according to the forme of Buriall set downe in the Booke of Common Prayer, or have any bene buried secretly, or in the night who, and by whom, and who were present thereat?

47. Doe the executors, or Administrators, or other friends of them that are buried in Church or Chancell, repaire againe the Paument, and give anything to the Church, or in whose default is the same so neglected and not repaired?

Churching of women.

48. Doth any woman refuse to give God thanks openly in the Church in a decent waye or (as we terme it) to be churched at convenient times after childbirth, or doth any Minister refuse to church them so, or church them any otherwise than is prescribed in the booke of common prayer?

49. Hath any woman unlawfully begotten with child benee admitted to publike thanksgiving in the Church before shee hath performed such penance as was enjoined her by the Ordinary or at least benee churched in a white sheete, and confessed her fault penitently before sufficient witnesses, and undertaken to stand to the censure of her Ordinary for her said offence? And hath any benee so churched without licencē of the Ordinary?

Parish Clarkes.

50. Have you a Parish Clarke chosen by the Minister, what age is he of, and is he of honest conversation, hath he competent skill in reading, writing, and singing: And doth any withhold or detaine his wages or duties from him? Hath he benee examined and approved by his Ordinary?

Schoolemasters.

51. Have you any Schoole-house, and how is it repayed: And have you any Schoolemaster in your Parish that teacheth publikely, or privately, is he lawfully licensed? Doth he come duely to the Church, and receive the holy Communion? Doth he instruct his Schollers in the Catechisme allowed, and in the booke entituled God and the King? Causeth hee them to divine prayers in the Church, and to heare and note Sermons? Teacheth he any other Grammar than that which is allowed?

52. Is any Schoolemaster knowne, suspected, publikely, or privately to read to his Schollers, or suffer them to read any that may confirme them in Popery, superstition, or disobedience to the King's Maiestie, or to his lawes ecclesiasticall or civill and how many either men or women, doe teach children in your Parish, and what be their names?

Schismatics and Recusants of all sorts.

53. Doe you know any that teach or maintine any doctrine contrary to the Articles agreed upon in the Convocation Anno Dom. 1652.

54. Doth any preach, minister the Communion, baptize children, or church women in private houses, or other-where than in the Church, and who be so churched, or doe so communicate?

55. Know you any that absent themselves from the Church negligently, or wilfully how long have they so done? And of them that are absent without a sufficient and lawfull cause, is the forfeiture of xii d. taken every Sunday, & converted to the use of the poore, according to the statute Eliz. 1.

56. Doe any in your Parish maintaine, hold, or resort unto any Conventicles, private prayers, or meetings? or did, keepe, or solemnize any fasts, prophesies, or exercises other then what are licensed by the Bishop of the Dioces, or commanded by the Kings maiesty? And doe any of your Parish absent themselves, or goe from their owne Parish Church on any Sundaies at morning or evening Praiers to heare any Sermon, Lecture, praiers or Exercise at any other Church, or Chappell, and who be they?

57. Know you any that forbear to participate with the Church of England in prayer, or Sacraments, either denying the Church to be Apostolicall or condemning the ceremonies thereof as superstitious?

58. Have you in your parish any Popish Recusants, any halfe Papists that come to the Church, and receive not the Communion, any Church-papists that come and receive themselves, but either perswade others, or maintaine their wives, children, family, or friends not to come?

59. Doth any Seminary priest or Jesuite resort to any place within this Diocesse or suspect you any such: Or doe you know any that resort to any popish priest or Jesuite?

60. Know you any that by writing, talke, or argument, impugne the Kings supremacy, or any that have kept in their custodie that sell disperse, carry, or deliver unto others any unlawfull Bookes against the Religion and government established, or in defence of any forraigne power, or domesticall consistorie?

Excommunicated persons.

61. Are all excommunicated persons kept out of the Church, from divine praiers, and receiving of the holy Communion, untill they be lawfully absolved: And are there any in your Parish which have stood excommunicated forty daies and upwards, are such persons as stand excommunicated, once in every sixth moneths denounced in your Church in time of divine Service upon some Sunday?

62. Hath any excommunicated person not absolved (at least in his extremity) not giving any testimony of his repentance before his departure, benee buried in christian buriall, who buried him, her, or them, where and when, and who were present at such burials?

63. Doe eny retaine or keepe in their house, or service, any person denounced excommunicate, or doe any way encourage them therein, or converse with them in buying, selling, eating, drinking, or otherwise keepe company with them in any sort?

Wills, Testaments, and Administrations.

64. Doe any in your parish administer the goods of the dead, or any way intermeddle therewith, without lawfull authority committed unto them under the Ordinaries seale? and who be they?

65. Know you any in your parish that suppress the last Will of the Dead, or any that forge or alter any Wills, or any Executors that fulfill not the Testators Will, or any that detaine Legacies given to any charitable uses? and who be they?

Severall Articles.

66. Doe any in your parish prophane the Sabbath dayes: or not duely observe the Holy-daies appointed? Are Ember fasts orderly observed at the fourte times of the yeare appointed? And was the last Lent duely observed?

67. Are the dayes and orders of Perambulation duely observed in the Rogation weeke, if not, in whose default?

68. Are the Canons, constitutions, and orders made and agreed upon in the Convocation-house Anno Dom. 1603. read over once every yeare in your Church upon Sundaies or Holy-daies according to his Maiesties Commandment in that behalfe?

69. Doth your Minister yearely present, and give up in writing to the Ordinary the names of all Recusants, and halfe Recusants men & woemen as well sojourners as Parishioners and common guests in your Parish above the age of thirteene, according to 114 Canon or not?

70. Doe any in your Parish take upon them to practise Physicke, or Chirurgery have you any Midwife not being lawfully licensed?

71. Are any in your Parish (or which were of your Parish are now departed) knowne, suspected, famed, or reported to have offended in Fornication, Adultery, Incest, Witchcraft, Sorcery, Charming, Usury, Swearing, Drunkennesse, common slandering, sowing of discord, brawling scolding, or any other uncleannesse of life or bad manners?

72. Are any householders in your Parish (in whose house there is any one that can reade) which have not the booke entituled God and the King, and who be they that want the same?

73. Have any Apparators, or others, taken any reward to compound, or conceale any offence Presentable, or punishable in the Ecclesiasticall Court, let this bee manifested, and information and presentment made for every offence accordingly?

74. You shall further present whether any in your Parish upon Sundaies or Holy-daies, doe use any dancing, plaies, or other sports or pastimes whatsoever, before all Service on those daies bee fully ended? And are the same used by any of another parish, or any which have not the same day been at divine Prayers in their owne parish Church, who be they, which have offended in any of the premises?

Church-wardens, and Sidemen.

75. Are your Church-wardens and Sidemen chosen yearely in the Easter weeke according to the Canons? And doe the Church-wardens yearely, truly make and deliver up in writing, their account of all their receipts, and disbursements whatsoever by them received and laid out for the parish, and of all the Church goods, books and other things, as the Canons require?

76. Doe your Church-wardens themselves come duely to the Church to divine Praiers and Sermons, and doe they their best endeavours, especially upon Sundaies & Holy-daies, to cause all Parishioners to doe the like?

77. Whether is there a transcript or copy of the Register booke of the Church, of Christenings, Weddings, and Burialls, yearely exhibited and delivered up into the Registry of the Ordinary or not?

78. Whether is there a sufficient teriar of the glebe land and other Rights belonging to your Parsonage or Vicarage, truly taken and exhibited into the Registers office, as by law it ought?

Have the late Church-wardens concealed any crime, offence, or disorder in their times, and not presented the same; what bee the matters so concealed? Or doth any trouble, molest, vex, or abuse me (sic) in words or otherwise, the Ministers, Church-wardens, or Sidemen, for doing their Office according to their Oath and Duty: and who be they that so doe? And have the Churchwardens continued in that office above one yeare, without a new election?

80. Whether any Church-wardens, Questmen or Sidemen of any Parish have been called and enforced to present any faults committed in their Parishes, otherwise than at the Visitations, or time, or times limited in the 116 Canon?

Articles concerning the orders and iniunctions lately iniointed by his Maiesty.

81. Have you any Lecturer or Preaching Minister in your Parish, doth he preach in the afternoone on Sundayes, and doth hee then use a catechisticall forme by Question and Answer?

82. Whether doth your Lecturer or Preaching Minister in your Parish before his Sermon, read divine prayers in a Surplice, and if he bee a Graduate in a hood answerable to his degree, and doth hee preach in a Gowne and not in a Cloke?

83. Have you any in you Parish, either Recusants or others, which refuse, or doe not come to divine prayers, Lectures, Sermons, and Catechizing in your Church, or doe negligently absent themselves, and not frequent the same, or any of them?

84. Whether is there any in your Parish which keepeth any private Schoolemaster or Chaplaine in his house, and who by name?

85. Have you advisedly and diligently perused, read, or heard others reade and peruse this booke of Articles, and every particular Article and branch thereof, and have you framed your answers or presentments to the same accordingly?

86. Generally, whether doe you know any of the Canons broken, or any other Ecclesiasticall matter worthy to be presented, or not, and if you doe, you shall truly present the same (by the Oath you have taken) as well now as hereafter, when it shall come to your knowledge?

FINIS.

JUXON, BISHOP OF LONDON, 1640.

ARTICLES to be enquired of within the Diocesse of London. In the third Triennial Visitation of the Right Honourable, and Right Reverend Father in God, William, Lord Bishop of London, Lord High Treasurer of England. Holden in the Yeare of our Lord God, 1640.

London,
Printed by Richard Badger.
M.DC. XL.

[The following MS. note is written on the title of one of the Bodleian copies:—

“This Booke of Articles was compiled by the Bps. and Clergy in Convocation, Anno. 1640, first published for the visitation of the Bp. of London, and by him fitted in some points for the use of that Diocess. Heylyn, Cypr. &c. p. 441. ‘Tis iniointed by the 5 Canon as an uniforme booke of Articles to be used in every diocess of each Province.’”]

The Oath to be administered to the Church-wardens and Sworn-men.

You shall swear that you and every of you shall diligently enquire of the Articles given you in charge; and without any affection, favour, hatred, hope of reward and gaine, or feare of displeasure, or malice of any person, you shall present all and every such person and persons that now is, or of late was within your Parish, as hath committed any incest, adultery, fornication, or simony, and any misde-meanour or disturbances committed or made in any Church or Chappell, in time of Common Prayer, Preaching, or Divine Service there used; to the disturbance thereof; and also that have committed or done any other offence, fault or fault, presentable in the Ecclesiasticall Court, according to the Articles now delivered to you. Wherein you shall deale uprightly and according to truth, neither of malice presenting any contrary to truth, nor of corrupt affection sparing to present any, and so conceale the truth: having in this action God before your eyes, with an earnest zeale to maintaine the truth, and suppress vice. So helpe you God, and the contents of this Booke.

Articles to be enquired of within the Diocesse of London, in the Visitation to be holden in the Yeare of our Lord, 1640.

Concerning Religion and the true worship of God, In this Realme established.

