COACH BABE McCARTHY

James Harrison McCarthy has made winning Southeastern Conference championships a habit at Mississippi State.

The 40-year-old McCarthy (born Oct. 1, 1923) has directed the Bulldogs to three consecutive SEC basketball titles and four championships in the last five years.

When McCarthy took over the Mississippi State coaching duties nine years ago the Bulldogs basketball fortunes were at a low ebb.

McCarthy, who wasn't even in coaching when given the opportunity to coach Mississippi State by the late C. R. (Dudy) Noble, longtime director of athletics, took the job with the understanding, "Produce, or else."

To say McCarthy has produced is a vast understatement.

The personable native of Baldwyn, Miss., has led State to 150 victories against just 52 losses in eight seasons, a .742 winning percentage.

Even more important is the four SEC championships that have come to Mississippi State in the past five years. Besides Kentucky, no other SEC team has ever won three SEC basketball titles in succession.

State's 1962-63 team completed the regular season with a 21-5 overall record, finishing sixth in the final national polls. The Bulldogs captured their fourth SEC crown with a 12-2 record.

One of the victories was a 56-52 win over Kentucky, the fourth time McCarthy's teams have whipped an Adolph Rupp coached team in eight meetings.

As a climax to their fine campaign the Bulldogs participated in their first NCAA Basketball Tournament (they had declined the bid on three previous occasions), taking part in the Mid-East Regionals in the Michigan State Field House at East Lansing, Mich.

Loyola of Chicago, who went on to capture the National Championship at the NCAA finals in Louisville, Ky., a week later, defeated the gallant Bulldogs, 61-51, in a first-round game.

McCarthy's SEC champs took the Mid-East consolation honors, defeating Bowling Green of Ohio, 65-60.

For guiding his '62-'63 team to the NCAA playoffs, McCarthy was named Coach of the Year in the Southeast by several publications, an honor that has come his way on several previous occasions. He first was named SEC Coach of the Year in 1956-57, his second season at State.

McCarthy, a former World War II transport pilot, who never played a single college basketball game, began his coaching career at his hometown, Baldwyn, Miss., in 1947, turning out a state championship team his very first season.

He coached Baldwyn three seasons before being recalled to active duty during the Korean conflict. While serving his second hitch in the service Babe coached an Air Force team at Memphis, Tenn., to a third place finish in the world-wide Air Force Tournament.

After being discharged McCarthy accepted a coaching job at Tupelo, Miss., Junior High School where he coached both football and basketball and began officiating SEC basketball games.

The affable McCarthy left this job to take a position with an oil company in Clarksdale, Miss., where he continued to serve as a basketball official until taking over at Mississippi State in July, 1955.

At State McCarthy has coached three All-Americans - Jim Ashmore (1956-57), Bailey Howell (1958-59) and W. D. (Red) Stroud (1962-63). Howell is now one of the top stars in the NBL, playing for the Detroit Pistons.

Two of McCarthy's teams have won all but one game, the '58-'59 club led by Howell had a 24-1 record, while the 1961-62 quintet also had a 24-1 mark. His only losing year was a 12-13 finish in 1959-60.

McCarthy, who is married and the father of two sons, Jim, 15, and Tim, 13, holds a Master's Degree from MSU.

JERRY SIMMONS
Assistant Coach

Born in Columbia, Simmons graduated from high school at Brookhaven, Miss. He entered Mississippi State in 1948 and won SEC hurdle championships in 1951-52. Played freshman basketball at State.

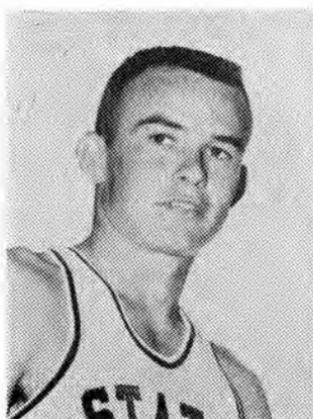

Joined Bulldog staff as track coach, Feb. 1953. Later appointed ticket manager and took over coaching of freshman basketball squad when Babe McCarthy joined Mississippi State athletic staff.

During five seasons as freshman coach the Bulldog yearlings won 84 games, lost just 14. This is his fourth season as varsity assistant and chief scout. McCarthy terms Simmons, "The best assistant coach in the country, my right hand."

Jerry's track team won the SEC title in 1962. His cross country teams have won four SEC crowns.
