MAN ELECTROCUTED WHEN TRANSMISSION LINE FOULS WIRING

George W. Walton Received 2,200 Volts Through Body When Trod on Damp Ground With Extension Cord in Basement of Home Sunday

Instantaneous death overtook George W. Walton, fifty-five, at 9 o'clock yesterday morning when an extension electric light cord he was carrying became suddenly charged with 2,200 volts from a break in the transmission line outside the residence at 1124 Fort Street.

The circumstances which led to the fatal accident comprise a chain of coincidences that rarely combine. A high-power transmission line carrying 2,200 volts, part of the distribution system which lights the city, broke outside the Walton home on the north side of Fort Street, a few doors east of Cook.

The live wire was seen by passers-by and the fact reported to the city police and in turn to the trouble department of the B.C.E.R. inside of a very short time the repair gang were at work and the danger had been removed. By 11 a.m. the work had been completed and the line again in service.

REPAIRING FURNACE

The break occurred, as far as the authorities can learn, about 9 a.m. It was at this instant that the victim of the tragedy entered his basement to repair a defective furnace. While he was traversing the damp earthen floor with the extension cord and a hand-saw, a lamp in his right hand, the wire became charged with the high tension current from a cross, it is surmised, on the street outside. The terrific shock he received brought down the ladder on which he was badly charred about the arms and wrists.

FREIGHT RATES EFFORT CONTINUES

Premier Oliver Declares Government's Intention

Vancouver, Jan. 7.—British Columbia Government representatives would be even now at Ottawa fighting the battle for equalized freight rates on the basis of provincial rights as guaranteed by the terms of Confederation had it not been for the activities of the Provincial Party, declared Premier Oliver in the course of an address to-day before the Vancouver Laurier Club.

The Premier denied emphatically the charge that the Government, satisfied with its achievements, was now "lying down on the job." The fight would be carried on, he declared, and even as eighteen months ago, so to-day it was the intention if necessary to "carry the throne itself" in order that the pre-Confederation constitutional rights of British Columbia should be recognized.

NO GOOD RESULT Premier Oliver did not expect any good result from the review of the freight rates case ordered by the Dominion Government in its latest mandate to the Railway Commission. "They may see the error of their ways because they now have an Oliver on the board," he said amid laughter, "but I do not expect it and the reason is that there is nothing in the Railway Act that I can find which gives that Board any power to determine any issue on the basis of constitutional rights antecedent to the C.P.R. contract for 1911."

PROMINENT CITIZEN DIED SUNDAY; H. F. BULLEN

HARRY F. BULLEN CALLED BY DEATH

Was One of the Founders of B.C. Marine Railway; Head of Dry Dock Scheme

Had Been Pioneer in Shipbuilding at Esquimalt

A leader in the mercantile life of the city for nearly thirty years, Harry Frederick Bullen, passed away at his residence, 906 St. Charles Street, yesterday afternoon at 3.30. Mr. Bullen had been in failing health for some time and a series of heart attacks preceded the end.

ORIGINATED DRYDOCK

Of an exceedingly genial disposition, a fine host, and a good friend, Mr. Bullen was a well-known figure in the city until ill-health necessitated his retirement from active business in 1918. He was closely associated with mercantile progress in this port and the present drydock at Esquimalt represents the fruition of a scheme sponsored by Mr. Bullen and his brother, the late W. Fitzherbert Bullen, as far back as 1910.

The B. C. Marine Railway Company and the B. C. Salvage Company, now known as the Pacific Salvage Company, were other large ventures which owed much of their success to the business acumen of the late Mr. Bullen. In the latter company Mr. Bullen retained his active interest as manager until 1918, when he retired into private life.

CLOSING OF GREAT FAIR ON SUNDAYS IS DISAPPROVED

London, Jan. 7. (Canadian Press cable)—The British Empire Exhibition authorities' decision to close the big show on Sundays because they would be unable to charge admission without a special act of Parliament has been met with strong disapproval, more particularly as the exhibition is, above all, for the promotion of education among the British people. It is not suggested, however, that the amusement section of the exhibition should be open on Sundays.

These formalities will occupy the entire week.

The actual opening of Parliament by King George, with the customary elaborate ceremonial, has been fixed for Tuesday, January 15.

POLICE OFFICIALS ARE REAPPOINTED

Harnett and Gibbens Given Another Term in Vancouver

Manson Favours Changed Commission Selection System

Vancouver, Jan. 7.—Aldermen P. C. Gibbens and F. M. Harnett, members of last year's Board of Police Commissioners, have been re-appointed to the 1924 board. Their appointment had been in doubt for several days on account of strong influences against their presence on the board and an agitation that had gained more or less headway in the city during the past few weeks to clean up the police situation in the city. All doubts were set at rest this morning, however, when Attorney-General A. M. Manson, who is in the city, made the announcement after conferring with various persons in the city and following an interview with Alderman Gibbens and Mr. Harnett.

MEMBERS ARRIVE

Members of Parliament are flocking to London to-day preparatory to the meeting of the House of Commons to-morrow. Among the arrivals are the members of Glasgow's Labor contingent, popularly regarded as the "wild men of the Labor movement." They were accorded an enthusiastic public send-off in Glasgow last evening. The "course" which many speeches were made, Bailie Dolan, chairman of the group, told the crowd that the new Labor members were not going to London with the idea of becoming Cabinet Ministers but were rather taking their seats in Parliament as missionaries of Socialism.

AN AMENDMENT

According to the Labor plan, an amendment to the Address in reply to the Speech from the Throne will be moved January 16, in some way recording "back" the present Government. This will be debated for two days and on a division being taken Thursday day, January 17, the amendment will be passed by Labor and Liberal votes and the Government will be defeated. Thereupon the Government will resign and the way will be opened for a new Government.

AMUSEMENT CENTRE RESULT JUSTIFIES THE COMMERCE CHAMBER

The eighty-five per cent vote in favor of the Amusement Centre has justified the existence of the chamber of Commerce even if the chamber had done nothing else—and it has done much else, said Vice-President R. C. Atkinson, presiding in the absence of President C. V. W. Schwengers at the directors' luncheon to-day.

MANSON'S WORDS RAISED PROTESTS

giving the sole power of importing liquor to the Provincial Government. He told how forces were working against the proposal. "And where were you?" he demanded. "Where were the preachers? Where were the backing up? No, why at Victoria they actually had a split in the Ministerial Association over the matter because I was a Liberal—playing politics with words. And you in Vancouver, where were you? I didn't hear a cheep out of you. The women came to my aid, but where were you members of the gospel?"

SECONDED RESOLUTION

"Strange as it may seem," said Rev. Principal Shaw, Edwin Telford, the resolution thanking the Attorney-General for having come here to address us. Language, after all, is a matter of taste, and of course if the taste of the Attorney-General runs to the use of such expressions—and the speaker shrugged his shoulders. "The same might be said of the sincerity of his words here and exhibiting his taste in language, especially when the noon editions carry the headline to the effect that he has renounced the use of such expressions."

MUST DO DUTY

"A public man must do his duty," said Mr. Manson. "I have been trying to do mine, and perhaps I have spoken words that hurt. I have been hurt in many ways during the past two years in trying to do my duty. I did use the word 'piker,' but that word has two meanings. One, and the one that you, or some of you have taken was a term of opprobrium. The other way it is taken—and generally so on the street—in one that does not give for some proper support. I had no intention of offence, but if any feel hurt, I will unhesitatingly and unqualifiedly withdraw the word. (Applause.)

Attention of the directors of the Chamber of Commerce to Canadian National Railway passenger transportation on the Saanich Peninsula was drawn in a letter from J. G. Elliott, read at the directors' meeting to-day.

POINTS TO MOTOR FLEET

A service to Cordova Bay in the Summer months would also be a paying project, said the writer, and claimed that 5,000 passengers were carried to this point in one month at the time a gas car was in operation about three years ago. Attention was drawn to the number of motor buses running to Sidney at present by the writer who expressed the opinion that a suitable road, leading to a popular fee would prove profitable to the C.N.R.

WELSH PRODUCT WILL HIT ISLAND MINES, SAYS TRADE BOARD

Nanaimo Board of Trade has raised its voice in protest on the importation of cargoes of Welsh coal "to what must necessarily mean," says a letter on the subject, "to the detriment of Island production and development particularly, in view of the fact that Island mines are being operated for only part time."

CONDEMN ACTION OF VANCOUVER CITY INTERESTS

The British Columbia Marine Railway Company was founded in May, 1913, by William Fitzherbert Bullen, being well known in connection with executive offices in loan, insurance and guarantee firms. In common with his late brother, W. Fitzherbert Bullen, Mr. Bullen received an early training in banking in London, Ont., but, as in the case of his brother, he later deserted this business for other commercial ventures. He came to Victoria about thirty years ago from Seattle and shortly after his arrival laid the foundation of those various enterprises with which his name has since been identified.

TO PROTECT ISLAND

The letter concludes with an appeal to the board to take such action in the premises as will serve to protect the Island coal industry in the common advantage of the whole Province. "If Wales can compete with the Island-mined coal," said Alfred Carmichael, "I do not think it is for the Chamber to take action."

But this assistance, though valuable and timely is altogether inadequate to meet the pressing need as set forth in Mr. Leese's urgent telegram. FREIGHT RATES EFFORT CONTINUES

The Premier defended the decision of the Provincial Cabinet to take no part in opposing the application of the express companies for a big increase in tariffs. This decision was reached for two reasons," he continued. "First, we felt that the request made by the companies was so utterly unreasonable that it was inconceivable that the Railway Board could see any way whatsoever of granting it. Secondly, in view of the almost certainty of failure, the Prairie Governments have the right in return for British Columbia's efforts in the freight rates case, to fight the battle of British Columbia.

MAN CONFESSES HE KILLED TWO

Farm Hand in North Dakota Tells Police About Murders

Bismarck, N.D., Jan. 7.—Unable to sleep and declaring his conscience bothered him, Joseph Berger, twenty-five, a farm hand, formerly of Rich-ardton, confessed to the authorities yesterday that he had slain two unidentified workmen near Jamestown, N.D., last fall. Berger then was charged with first degree murder. Berger applied for lodging at the police station here Friday night. He paced the floor all night and Saturday was questioned by Chief Martinson, who summoned Jamestown officers. Yesterday Berger told his story. Berger and the two men were members of a threshing crew working near Jamestown. On August 18 they quit work and decided to celebrate, obtaining home brew, according to the confession. Some time later—Berger was unable to recall the exact date—they met at a straw stack near Jamestown, and when the men "kidded" him and would not let him sleep he became angry and left them. He went to an abandoned farm shack nearby, obtained a pump handle and killed the two, according to the confession, and robbed them of $150. Since then he has wandered from place to place with the crime haunting him, he said. On September 4 the bodies were found in the straw stack. One man was about twenty-two years old and the other twenty-eight or thirty. No one could identify the bodies. Berger said he did not know their names and their identity is still a mystery. Berger was taken to Jamestown late yesterday, having expressed a desire to go over the scene of the crime with the officers.

ONTARIO HAD WINTER STORM

Toronto, Jan. 7.—Ontario was swept by a stiff southwest wind Sunday, accompanied by a heavy snow fall, which combined to produce the worst storm of the winter so far in the province. The day opened with a moderate blow of eight miles an hour and snow falling gently; but soon the wind had risen to thirty-two miles an hour, and at 8 o'clock last night to forty-four miles an hour, with snow coming down in a blinding mass. Despite the blizzard, however, the steam railways kept trains moving fairly well. Street car traffic was handicapped somewhat and country roads are said to be in bad shape as a result of the snow drifting. No damage to property has been reported. The storm seems to have hit

Southern Ontario more severely than the northern section of the province. White River was the coldest with a minimum of twenty-six below zero. Ottawa has ten below, while Western Ontario got off with one below zero.

A $26,000,000 Investment in Canadian Prosperity

With the dawn of the New Year, another momentous chapter in the annals of Canadian industry starts its unfolding as the Ford Motor Company of Canada Limited, take over possession of the new $12,000,000 plant at Ford, Ontario.

Only a few thousand people will witness the first turning of the wheels and see the awakening of this great industrial giant; but the influence of that awakening will be felt in every city, town and village in Canada and in the far corners of the earth, for the Ford industry is wide as the British Empire.

In Canada, the Ford industry is a very intimate part of the national life. It provides a livelihood for some 30,000, Ford workers and their dependents. It gives total or partial employment to an equal number of workers in Canadian factories supplying it with goods. It brought last year over $17,000,000 to Canada in export trade and it paid over $4,000,000 into the national treasury in the form of revenue.

The total Canadian Ford investment is now over $26,000,000—a huge investment based on an abiding faith in Canada's loyalty to Canadian industry—

Built to serve the transportation needs of Canada and the British possessions overseas.

MANITOBA FARMERS MEET TO-MORROW

Place of Organization in Political Field to be Discussed

Winnipeg, Jan. 7 (Canadian Press)—The United Farmers of Manitoba, organized twenty-one years ago, will open here to-morrow morning its coming-of-age convention. Despite the fact that the membership has fallen considerably, from the peak point—attributed in large degree to economic conditions—about 500 delegates are expected. The sessions will continue for three days. A considerable share of the delegates' time will be occupied with a discussion of the proposed Manitoba wheat pool and associated with it, general problems of co-operative marketing of all farm products. The second day is to be devoted to this purpose.

There will be consideration of the "Declaration of Principles" issued recently by the Canadian Council of Agriculture, which may be expected to develop discussion of the place of organization in Provincial and Federal politics. It is two years since the association took its decision to enter provincial politics, and since that time Manitoba has seen the formation and administration of a Farmers Government. It is considered doubtful if there is any considerable body of opinion in the organization in favor of rescinding the action taken at the 1922 convention. Addresses during the convention are expected from Robert Forke, Federal Progressive leader, Premier Bracken of Manitoba, Hon. T. A. Crean and A. R. McMaster, Independent member for Brome, Quebec, who is making a tour of the West.

Chocolate Making is an ART

To make a fine candy, in its shell of rich and appetizing chocolate with flavors so elusive and delightful is ART.
And the most difficult and costly part of that ART is the chocolate coating. No matter how good the filling, if the coating is indifferent, the chocolate is spoiled.

In order to secure the finest quality chocolate, Moirs import direct the choicest cocoa beans from many parts of the world, blending and roasting them in their own candy kitchens by a secret process.
The result is a chocolate coating admittedly the masterpiece of the candy maker's art.

QUEBEC CARDINAL BANS ALL DANCES

Describes Modern Dances as "Lascivious"; Condemns Fashionable Attire
Montreal, Jan. 7.—A stir was caused recently throughout the province of Quebec by a decree issued by Cardinal Begin, Archbishop of Quebec, the Roman Catholic Primate of Canada, placing dances, including the waltz, fox-trot, and the one-step under the ban of the church.

The decree threatens to ban theatres and cinemas unless they are improved morally, and it also strongly condemns the present fashionable attire for women, which it characterizes as immodest.
Describing dances, including the old-fashioned polka, which is not danced nowadays, as "lascivious," the Cardinal says: "We expressly forbid them. So if anyone—which God forbid—dare indulge in them or permit them to be danced in his house, that person would commit the grave sin of disobedience. Such dances, by the attitudes they imply, destroy virtue."

Whitinsville, Mass., Jan. 7.—Miss Agnew Geraghty, of the New York Women's Swimming Association, broke the world's record for women in the 300-yard breast stroke in a swimming meet here on Saturday night. Her official time was 4 minutes, 55.45 seconds. The former record of 5 minutes, 34.4 seconds was established by Ruth Thomas at Atlantic City.

Pantomime Jack the Giant Killer

The theatre-going public are showing a great deal of interest in the announcement that this week's production at the Playhouse is to be the Pantomime Jack the Giant Killer. Everyone loves pantomime, and Mr. Hinck's company are justly noted for their pep and fun, and this one is certainly no exception to the rule.
The visiting committee for January in Robinson Crusoe will probably remember two savage gentlemen of fierce mien, who nevertheless managed to spread a great deal of laughter and good cheer around them, these, it is rumored, have decided to raid the giant's den and the public can imagine the complications which are likely to occur.

The committee have purchased some very beautiful and useful prizes. A seven-piece orchestra under George Ozard will supply the music.

It is arranged to have two sittings at the buffet supper in the main dining-room of the hotel, so as to avoid any chance of overcrowding. The tickets are being rapidly disposed of, and it is fully expected that they will be all sold out by Tuesday afternoon, as only a limited number are to be sold.
They can be bought by any of the following: J. W. Phillips, Empress Hotel; F. G. Mulliner and D. McLeod, B.C. Coast Service; C. Griffiths, E. and N. Railway; and at the city and wharf ticket office.

AGED WOMEN'S HOME

Inmates Enjoyed Christmas Celebration at Home; Excellent Reports
The committee of management of the Agoo and Injun Women's Home held their monthly meeting at the Home on Saturday afternoon, postponed from New Year's Day.
The President, Mrs. Clay, presided, and a fair attendance of members of the committee were present. After routine business was dispatched, reports were submitted showing that sixty-two inmates were enrolled at the Home and that one room was vacant; also that one aged lady was a patient at St. Joseph's Hospital owing to a painful accident. Several others of the inmates were reported to be in poor health.

On Tuesday, January 8, the ladies of the Royal Purple, under the co-sponsorship of Mrs. W. E. Revercomb, assisted by Mrs. Collings, will hold a five hundred card party and tea at the home of Mrs. Champion, Richardson Street.
This will take place instead of the usual monthly card party and dance given by the ladies in the Elka clubroom. Play will begin at 8 o'clock sharp, and continue until 5 o'clock, after which delicious afternoon tea will be served.

Installation of Officers—At the last regular meeting, Sister Robbottom, D.D.R.P., of No. 83, Daughters of St. George, installed the following officers for coming term: President, Sister Pittney; vice-president, Sister Cozier; first conductor, Sister Smith; second conductor, Sister Harding; chaplain, Sister Miller; finance secretary, Sister Robson; recording secretary, Sister Harris; treasurer, Sister Parkinson; inside guard, Sister Muckle; outside guard, Sister Webb; pianist, Sister Gough.
To-night's meeting at 7.30 will be followed by a Victoria Graduates' Association.

A Christmas tree for the children of patients was held with great success in Harmony Hall on Saturday. A realistic Father Christmas entered through a window and then proceeded to distribute handsome presents from the tree to the one hundred children assembled.
J. W. Pitney presided over the gathering and a brief address was given by Postmaster H. F. Bishop. Solos were rendered by Miss Ripplengale, A. Gaiger, A. Binkmore and G. Gedrin, and the whole company joined in community singing. A grand march was staged and dancing also took place.

YOUR HOME AND YOU

A Rest for the Back
My little neighbor Dorothea has been untroubled from an overdose of holiday festivities, and when I ran in to see her a day or two after New Year's to take her some flowers, I found her sitting up in bed, reading. She looked so comfortable right and well-propped up that I gave her a special searching scrutiny. Whenever I try to read in my pillows slip down and have to be continually readjusted and I don't feel a bit supported somehow.

"What in the world are you leaning against?" I inquired peering at a pale blue framework fitted with a canvas back in broad stripes of lavender and French blue. It suggested the top part of a steamer's chair and pretty Dorothea, in her pale yellow silk negligee, looked like a spring daffodil in a garden seat. An elderly quilt in palest lavender lay over her knees. Dorothea laid down her book.

"Yes, isn't this luxurious?" she said lamely. "It is one of my Christmas gifts—a back rest. Dad gave it to me to take to the seashore in the summer, because I love to sit right in the sand, but my back gets so tired. This portable rack can be folded together and carried easily about. It is nothing but this light wooden frame with other couplets of prop, and a canvas back fitted into it. It is going to be wonderful in the canoe, too.

Besides being a gifted singer, Mrs. Walker is also an accomplished pianist, but it is with her voice that she will make her bid for fame. The best wishes of her many friends in the city will go with her.

Marry to Aid France, Young Couples Urged
Find Us Flats and Help Us Furnish Them, They Answer
Paris, Jan. 7.—"Marry and help increase the population of France." That is the adjuration heard on all sides, addressed particularly, of course, to young folk. Couples already engaged reply: "Find us flats and enable us to furnish them at a reasonable cost."

21 Couples Wed While Band Jazes
London, Jan. 7.—To the strains of jazz band twenty-one couples were married to-day in the registry office of St. Pancras Church. A record breaking number of marriages, has taken place this week owing to the approach of Christmas. The band, one of the best known in the West End, went to the registry because a principal member was one of the bridegrooms.

Aggressive advertisers usually encounter the commiseration of their over-conservative competitor who confides to mutual friends that the merchants in question are making a foolish splurge.
The truth is the aggressive advertiser has already learned the lesson of real prudence. In advertising it is true that the man who does "more than he can afford" comes to be able to advertise more and more aggressively. His audacity wins.

People have a way of sitting up and taking notice of the aggressive man. He compels attention; and if his aggressiveness seems to be in the interests of all concerned why his personal aggressiveness means real service to the people, as is always the case when a store takes the offensive, the attention he compels turns to profits.

In store-making, as in all lines of endeavor, the brave spirit conquers. Assuming, of course, that the merchant's "audacity" is based upon the sound principle of a wise expenditure of his money.

It's a pretty safe policy to spend more for newspaper advertising than your competitor thinks you can afford to spend.

"Human Wreckage" Occupies Screen at the Capitol

Ingenu's Work Wins Her Three Years' Contract

Lucille Rickson at fourteen has just signed a three-year contract to appear in principal roles in film productions under the supervision of Thomas H. Ince. Back of this contract lies a story that has to do with punctilious attention to detail, unswerving promptness, alertness for directorial dictates, singleness of purpose. From such small beginnings as playing "kid" parts, Miss Rickson has consistently increased her repertoire. "Look Your Best" and "The Strangers' Banquet" afforded small but well etched characterizations. "Trimmed in Scarlet" and "The Judgment of the Storm" followed with her stock constantly rising. Then, with the role of "Ginger" Smith in "Human Wreckage," showing this week at the Capitol, came Miss Rickson's real opportunity in a double sense. Any actress of talent is there who works on through the weary years, acquiring many more years than the candles to be placed on Miss Rickson's birthday cake, with none to look on who might discover the spark of genius that is only waiting to be fanned into full flame. Miss Rickson, clinging rigorously to her doctrine of detail and her tenets of thoroughness, played her role with psychological understanding that a certain bystander on the set could not fail to notice, as this casual looker-on has had long experience in casting appraising eyes on promising screen talent.

Sincerity Marks Personation of Female Blunderer

Constance Talmadge Appears as Dulcy in Royal Offering

The Royal Victoria Theatre is presenting a picture to-day, Friday and Saturday which will give the tired business man supreme satisfaction, which his wife, sons and daughters and their kiddies will find delight in. We recommend Constance Talmadge's latest picture, "Dulcy," to all of them. Here is rich humor in abundance, amusement for everybody, a sparkling film that the censor had no cause to slip the shears through—but the Constance Talmadge pictures are always bright and cheery and devoid of sex complexities.

"Dulcy" is a dumb-bell. Constance makes her the very personification of a bonehead—with enthusiasm. She plays the role of a young wife whose forte is apt to spill the beans. She is imbued with a desire to help and only succeeds in hindering. The climax of her stupidity comes when she thinks a woman's wit and intuition would be a powerful ally in her husband's affairs, and seeks to interject hers into them, almost running hubby. Just how the situation is retrieved is one of the best laughs of the picture, and we'll let you enjoy it.

Miss Talmadge has played so many roles so well that it is difficult to say which has been her best. We may venture the assertion that none have been better than her "Dulcy," which she plays with a sincerity and spontaneity which is delightful. Her supporting cast is certainly "has never been better. Jack Mulhall plays opposite the star in his usual able manner. Johnny Harrison, as her brother, gives a finished performance. Claude Gillingwater, Gilbert Douglas, Andre de Berger, May Wilson, Anne Cornwall and Milla Davenport are well cast for their roles.

Sidney A. Frank's intelligent direction from the Emerson-Loss adaptation of the play, splendidly done, makes "Dulcy" a picture more than worthwhile.

Music Lovers' Night at Royal Victoria Monday

To-night, Music Lovers' Night takes place at the Royal Victoria Theatre as usual. A. Prescott, director of the orchestra, has selected a fine programme of music to accompany the feature picture Constance Talmadge in "Dulcy." Some of the numbers to be rendered during the evening are as follows: Overture—Orpheus in der Under-world; Picture Music; Intermezzo—Lovelight; Haines Waltz—Casino Tango; Gunge Intermezzo—Spring Blossoms; Eyes; Fox Trot; Mean Blues.

Buster Keaton Comedy Proves Best of Season

Will Be Shown at Dominion in "Our Hospitality"

Buster Keaton's second feature length comedy, "Our Hospitality," a Joseph M. Schenck production, released through Metro, opens to-night at the Dominion Theatre. Beyond a doubt it is the most laugh-provoking production of the year. Buster has opened a new vein of comedy in this picture, and the spectator will give every evidence of approval. The story concerns the adventures of William McKay, the last of a distinguished Kentucky family, which has been killed off in a feud with the Canfields. Buster, of course, is William, and his serious face and naive expression makes this Southern Rollo a character long to be remembered. The story takes place in the early 1830's, which has given the producers a wonderful opportunity to use the humorous aspect of history.

They have certainly not missed a single chance. The sequence showing Buster's ride on the first steam train in America is refreshing. It's real history, but, better yet, it's real fun. It furnishes one of the rarest comedy scenes ever made. Parents who think their children might get a distorted idea of the actual happening need not fear, for "The Rocket" and its coaches are shown with true fidelity.

Natalie Talmadge, Buster's wife, who returned to the screen to appear in this film, is excellent in the role of the Canfield girl with whom the "last of the McKays" falls in love. Looking back to the silent drama a broadened acting ability, and adds greatly to the picture. The baby, Buster Keaton II, shows real cinematic worth when he doubles for his father in the early scenes—he cries beautifully.

Joseph Keaton, Buster's father, has a delightful part as the great engineer of "The Rocket" fusing with the many levers with much ado and an egotism that brings a large quota of laughs from the spectators. Others in the cast are Kitty Bracey, Joe Robert, Leonard Clapham, Craig Ward, Ralph Bushman (son of Francis X. Bushman), Edward Coxen, Monte Collins and James Duffy. The story and titles were by Jean Haves, Joe Mitchell and Clyde Bruckman, photography by Elgin Leasley and Gordon Jennings, historical sets by Fred Gabouri, and the picture was directed by Buster Keaton and Jack Blystone.

Will Rogers Plays Favorite Role in Film

Will Be Seen as Ichabod Crane in Columbia Feature

"Everything comes to him who waits," according to the old maxim, and for once this came true in the life of Will Rogers, who plays the role of Ichabod Crane in "The Headless Horseman" or "The Legend of Sleepy Hollow," the scheduled attraction playing at the Columbia Theatre for three days.

It has always been, according to Mr. Rogers, his desire to play certain roles or represent certain characters in modern dramas. One of these was "Ichabod," the other was "Rip Van Winkle," and the last was Ichabod Crane in "The Legend of Sleepy Hollow." When asked why he liked the first two mentioned, Mr. Rogers replied in his own characteristic way that he always found that a person who was not good-looking could always make a bigger success when heavily disguised. He figured that in Rip Van Winkle the flowing whiskers would help cover up what he considers his lack of facial beauty and in "Ichabod" the darkness of the skin would act as a very good disguise.

However, in the role of Ichabod Crane, Mr. Rogers must be his own self, allowing his pleasing personality to find full sway. The very fact that he takes the role makes his characterizations very near perfect. Mr. Rogers feels that it is quite a coincidence that he would be asked to play the role of the grotesque school-master of Sleepy Hollow when it was in fact one of the roles that he was most desirous of enacting.

Actress Fights Arabian Slaves Realistically

Agnes Ayres Stars at Playhouse in "The Sheik"

When screen stars are required in the performance of their roles to battle for the preservation of their lives, honor or personal rights, it is often done listlessly, but seldom so in Paramount pictures. The invariable rule of the Paramount director is to be realistic, so that when a fight is scheduled by the story, it is a real battle and no make-shift affair.

Thus it happened that when Agnes Ayres, Paramount star and featured player with Rudolph Valentino in George Melford's magnificent production of "The Sheik," which will be the feature at the Playhouse Theatre for the first three days of this week, was directed to fight four Arabian slave girls "for all she was worth," she obeyed orders literally, the result being a scene of intense realism seldom seen in any motion picture.

"It was lots of sport," said Miss Ayres the next morning. "But, oh, to-day! I feel as if I'd been through a cyclone. Those girls were all stockily built and all four clung to me at once and I had to throw them off. I assure you I haven't any idea just what I did—I was told to fight and that's all there was to it." This is only one of many realistic scenes in this superb production. There are many thrilling moments in the action, a desert sandstorm, battling Bedouins and magnificent Arabian scenes. The picture is based on E. M. Hull's novel of the same name which created a literary sensation both in this country and in England.

Whist at Gordon Head—Nine tables of whist were in play at the Gordon Head Hall on Friday evening when the Women's Institute held the third of the arranged series. Delightful arrangements and good prizes added to the pleasure of the evening. Successful winners were: Ladies, first, Miss Ruby Clark; concealed number, Miss Edith Dunnett; consolation, Miss Molly Tucker. Gentlemen, first, Mr. G. Harris; concealed number, Mr. W. Tucker; consolation, Mr. Jim McCormick. The next of the series will be progressive 500 and will take place on Friday, Jan. 18 at 8 o'clock. Mr. Quayle made a very efficient master of ceremonies.

The Sandman Story For To-night

MR. BEAR GOES INTO BUSINESS PART II.

It did not occur to Mr. Bear that Mr. Fox was advising him to take things which did not belong to him, and as for Mr. Fox, he had no conscience at all. Anything he could carry off was his if he happened to be lucky enough to get away with it.

"Then you must carry poultry," advised Mr. Fox, and now he stared hard at the fire and puffed hard at a minute. "I can put you in the way to get a nice supply. There are two or three farms around here that should keep you well stocked."

This being all the advice Mr. Fox had to offer that day, Mr. Bear thanked him and took his leave. But some time later when Mr. Bear by hard work had stocked his store, Mr. Fox called to see how he was getting on.

"Trade does not seem to be coming in very fast," complained Mr. Bear. "Nobody seems to know how to use a brush or a comb, and when I told Mr. Squirrel yesterday that I had a bag full of nuts for sale he laughed and said he guessed I meant nutshells."

"Cheer up, neighbor," said Mr. Fox, giving him a friendly rap on the shoulder. "I can help you out of your troubles. What you need to do is to advertise a little."

"Now to do that you must give samples. Every good business man has to do it, and you had better begin at once."

"Give samples?" repeated Mr. Bear. "What do you mean by that?"

"Why, you must give away some of each thing you have to sell so that folks will know you carry nice goods," explained Mr. Fox. "I am going around the woods this morning on a business matter of my own, and I shall be glad to help you by taking samples of your goods along with me."

When Mr. Fox left the store he had such a heavy bag over his shoulder that he had hard work to walk. But he no sooner came to his house than it was lightened. In fact, all that left in the bag were a few nuts. The rest of the samples Mr. Fox had safely hidden away.

The nuts he carried to Mr. Squirrel, who had a very large family, and told him he could get all he wanted by going to Mr. Bear's store. "These are just samples," he told Mr. Squirrel, "and if you will try them I am sure you will want more."

Mr. Squirrel did like the nuts so much that he and his family that night carried off all the nuts Mr. Bear had—his stock and his hidden ones—only squirrels could find them.

Poor Mr. Bear waited and waited day after day for business to pick up, and then he called again on his neighbor Mr. Fox.

"Why, you are the most ungrateful creature I ever knew," exclaimed Mr. Fox, "blaming me because the squirrel family stole your nuts! Really, Mr. Bear, I can't take care of your store for you as well as give you valuable advice."

"If you are not smart enough to run your business after I tell you how to do it, you should not blame me. I can't furnish brains with the advice I give."

Mr. Bear soon found out he could get no help from Mr. Fox, and so he trudged off home a sadder but a wiser creature. For he muttered as he went through the woods, "Too much advice from Mr. Fox nearly ruined my business. The next samples I give away I will do the giving myself."

All day Mr. Bear was busy nailing up all the prices where he thought Mr. Squirrel might get in, and the next morning he put a sign by the door which read, "Samples given away with all goods purchased here."

"There," said Mr. Bear, as he drove the last nail in the signboard, "I'll charge enough for my goods to pay for the samples I give away. Mr. Fox taught me one thing, and that was to use my own brains and not ask advice of neighbors."

THE STEP ON THE STAIR

BY ANNA KATHARINE GREEN

Author of "The Leavenworth Case," "The Filigree Ball," "The Mystery of the Hasty Arrow," Etc.

The Inspector moved, and was about to speak, but ceased as her voice rose again in that same awful monotone.

"I loved my Mr. Edgar then," she spoke as though years had intervened instead of a few flitting days. "I used to think that in return for one of his gay smiles I would put my hands under his feet. But to-day I do not seem to care enough for him to be glad that he is not guilty. If he were, and had to face what I have to face—shame, when I have always prided myself on my good name—degradation, when to help others has been my life—death, when—" She paused at that, her head falling forward, her eyes opening into a wide stare, as though she saw for the first time the abyss into which she was sinking. "I should not now be so lonely."

The Inspector drew back. Mr. Jackson turned away his head. I could not move foot or limb. I was beholding for the first time the awakening of a lost soul to the horror of its own sin.

"I don't know why it is," she went on, still in that toneless voice more moving than any wail or even shriek. "It did not seem such a dreadful thing to do that night. It was but hastening his death by a few days, possibly by only a few hours, but now—now—Suddenly to our amazement she was on her feet, her eyes roaming from one face to the other of us three, all signs of apathy gone, passion restored to her heart, feeling restored to her voice, as she cried out: "Will Miss Orpha have to know? I wish I could see her before she knows. I wish—I wish—"

It was my turn now. Leaping to her side, I held her while the sobs came in agony from her breast, shaking her and distorting her features till in mercy I pulled down her veil and seated her again in her chair.

As I withdrew my arm she managed to press my hand. And I heard very faintly from behind that veil: "I am glad something happened to give you what you wanted."

I thought I had only to go now, and leave her to the Inspector who I felt would deal with her as mercifully as he could. But Mr. Jackson shook his head as I was about to depart, and stepping up to the Inspector said a few earnest words to him after which the former sat down at his desk and wrote a few lines which he put in the official's hands. Then he drew me apart.

"Wait," he said; "we may want your signature."

It was a written confession which the Inspector took upon himself to ask her to sign.

She was sitting back in her chair, very quiet now, her veil down, her head bowed. The slow beating of her chest bespoke life and that was all. The Inspector bent down as he reached her and after a minute's scrutiny she veiled features said to her not unkindly: "It will save you much mental suffering if you will sign these words which I first ask you to listen to. Are you ready to hear them?"

She nodded, her hands which were clasped about a little bag she was carrying, twitching convulsively.

"Water, first," she begged, turning up her eyes till they rested on his face.

He made a motion, but did not stir from where he stood before her. Instead, he directed his full glance at her hands, and unclasping them gently from the bag she was clutching, opened them out and took out of the bag which he laid aside. Then he raised her veil, and handed her the glass which I had brought and watched her while she drank. A few drops seemed to suffice to reinvigorate her, and giving back the glass, she waited for him to read.

The words were mercifully few, but they told the full story. As she listened, she sank back into her old
