MANSON TO TALK TO MANUFACTURERS

The Hon. A. M. Manson, Attorney-General and Minister of Labor, will go to Vancouver to-night to address the Vancouver branch of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association there tomorrow.

Councillor W. C. Brown, K.C., who has been at the Parliament Buildings on departmental business for the Mainland, left this afternoon for Vancouver to attend to-night's meeting of the Point Grey Municipal Council.

MEET TO CONSIDER UNEMPLOYMENT HERE

The City Council will meet in special session Thursday afternoon to seek some permanent solution of the unemployment problem. Decision to call a meeting for the specific purpose of considering unemployment was reached after the Civic Finance Committee had conferred at length yesterday afternoon. The unemployed complained about the treatment which they were receiving from the Friendly Help Society, and urged the City to get together with the Provincial Government and provide jobs for them. Much distress prevailed in the City now, they declared.

When the Council meets Thursday it will consider, among other plans, Alderman Harvey's suggestion that the City start wood cutting operations to provide work.

INDUSTRY NEEDS THE GOLDEN RULE. SAYS RALPH CONNOR

All Problems Yield to Principles of Christianity, He Asserts

Famous Novelist Tells of Experience in Settling Business Troubles

There is no industrial dispute, however involved, that cannot be settled by the application of good sense, the Christian principles of sympathy and forbearance and the Golden Rule, Rev. Charles William Gordon, D. D., Moderator of the Presbyterian Church and Chairman of the Manitoba Council of Industry, but better known as "Ralph Connor," brilliant novelist, declared in an address on "Religion and the Business of Living," before the Canadian Club at its luncheon at the Empress Hotel to-day.

The Business of Living. "The whole world is interested more than ever in religion to-day, but in the business of living all are immediately, definitely and intensely interested," Dr. Gordon commenced. "I don't speak of existence or the business of making a living. I speak of that great and splendid enterprise into which all are thrust and cannot escape—the business of making the highest expectation of God who made us and of ourselves—to be the highest type of man, to reach the top of the mountain, to achieve the highest that can be achieved. That is the business of living.

"It is worth while for a man to consider himself as a physical entity. We begin the building of manhood with the body. It is not the most important consideration but it is the primary consideration.

The Human Team. "Modern education is sound in that," said Dr. Gordon. "Then, in the other hand, in the realm of the mind, none of us are satisfied with what our Canadian system of education is doing. The chief purpose of education is not to train children's heads with information. The education that enables the boy to become acquainted with his mind—to understand it as a machine—make it work smoothly and efficiently so that it can do the work required of it is the education we need. Our boys and girls can get the information quickly enough if the mind is properly trained.

"I think it is generally recognized now that man is different to all other orders of being because of his soul—the thing which links him up with God. Now a man's first duty is to uphold his own body, mind and soul, but we must realize that we have religious and moral obligations, some involuntary, some voluntary, with the rest of the human race. We must consider the other fellow. These relations in the home, in the school, in the world are the foundations of right living. It is just as on an athletic team, the individually brilliant player who won't co-operate with the rest of the players is a danger. So we have two great concerns—care of ourselves and secondly our concern with the other man and his business. These two concerns present a ceaseless conflict, the adjustment of which constitutes the great struggle of life.

Change of View. "I am not saying that society is properly organized to-day, but the idea of reformers that the present system must be cleared away before a new one can be created is impossible. You cannot do that with human relationships—you cannot create a new world on which to rear this new social structure. I used to think that the competitive system in business was wrong, but I have come to the conclusion now that competition is woven into the very fabric of our being. It is in the stream of our life, it is in the generation of British Columbia men and women to-day would not be what it is but for our fathers' ceaseless struggle with the elements of nature which sought to destroy them.

"We cannot uproot everything so as to create a new foundation for society; we have to adjust life and our human relationships so that the highest and best will develop the highest in our character without sacrificing the finest things in us. I am sure. We must come together in a large unity. Sometimes we must surrender ourselves to aid the other fellow, to help him as he helps us, to succeed as ourselves. I believe that this principle can be introduced in business.

"Now what is the heart of religion? I think it is what makes man right with his environment—and environment consists of two great things, God and man. Religion makes a man right with God and right with man. It is the thing that binds, makes the 'inverse one' in its purpose, links the earth with Heaven and man to man in one great unity. Every religion which does not bind man to the elements of true religion, every faith in religion, in so far as it tends to bind men together and make humanity one.

Religion and Usefulness. "Stripped of all fancies and freaks—which all churches have—the great tendency of religion is to bind men together. The failure is not to be attributed to churches, but to the irreducible minimum of selfishness which we have been unable to get rid of. We have been trying for hundreds of years to live together, to get rid of that selfishness and the World War was the awful confession that this quality still exists. This is true not only in world politics but in every department of life to-day.

"Do you know that the existence of divorce courts in the Provinces has tended to increase divorces? A little more religion would decrease the number of those divorces and the less we have of divorce courts the more we copy our American neighbors in that respect the better for our life and our institutions.

"Now as to religion in business," Dr. Gordon proceeded. "Industrial leaders have harnessed nature but they have not found a way to carry on the world's work in peace," he said, pointing to the present industrial troubles in the United States and unemployment in various parts of the world. "It's not because of lack of brains. It's not because men cannot see what to do but that they cannot bring themselves to do it."

Industrial Peace.

Dr. Gordon recalled the great Winnipeg strike and its result—the creation of the Manitoba Council of Industry to settle industrial disputes of this body. Dr. Gordon is chairman. "We have tried to conduct our work with an endeavor to see the other fellow's viewpoint," he said. "The issues that have come before us were not large but the elements, the feelings, of all industrial disputes were in those disputes. Our duty has been to remove the cause of friction in industrial dispute—to prevent trouble if we can rather than to play the part of the physician and ambulance. I have made this discovery in our work—that there is a lot of good in every man—in the man that stands for his union and the man that stands for his business and capital, and they both have the same kind of heart, the same red blood, the same reasonableness if you can get it operating. Our method is to let each side tell its whole story and then try to get each side to see the other's point of view. When you have done that, then for the first time each side begins to sympathize with the difficulties of the other. The golden rule is the basis of our religion and our settlements of this kind. There is nothing very wonderful about our industrial council but its members have learned to consider themselves as judges whose major function is to see that the work of the country goes on. In every case our decisions have been unanimous. It has convinced me of this: I don't believe there is an industrial problem that will not yield to the solution offered by good feeling and good sense. We have brains enough in this country to settle any problem, but we are not always in a position to let good feeling operate. With good feeling and good sense any problem can be solved—and this applies not only to industrial disputes but to the home and to life generally. We would be a great country, a country which the whole world would regard with admiration, if we were composed of men who yielded themselves to the great simplicities of mutual consideration and forbearance."

Rev. Dr. Leslie Clay, president of the Canadian Club, introduced Dr. Gordon.

ADVOCATES WAIVING WAR INDEMNITIES

Rev. Thomas Ferrier Addresses Kiwanis Club

The cancellations of war indemnities and debts was advocated by the Rev. Thomas Ferrier, Inspector of Indian Schools for the Dominion, in an impressive address to the Kiwanis Club to-day.

National debts could be classified into three sections, those contracted before the war, for value; those contracted during the war for services rendered; and finally those post war loans and indemnities, for the payment of which the world had nothing but chaos and wreckage to meet the untold millions owing by one nation to another.

Glutting the Market. "What would it profit the Allies to exact a full payment of twenty billions from Germany, when that could only be paid in goods. Billions of German goods would be handed over yearly, to glut the Allied markets to the detriment of the home manufacturer. It was impossible to raise in the sum required, and paper money was not acceptable, the speaker asked.

Sixty Million Slaves. The Allied Nations were entitled by the laws of the world to the demand that Germany should pay $60,000,000 slaves would be tortured in Europe for the next fifty years, and that Allied markets would be wrecked, was the payment worth the sacrifice? asked the speaker.

"What does it profit you, Allied Nations, if you lose the lion's share, the cub's share and the eagle's share, and throw the world back to horrors more terrible than war for the next fifty years?" "I leave with you three quotations," he resumed, "the first from Shakespeare, 'A pound of that same merchant's flesh is thine, and two quotations by a higher and better authority, Jesus, 'Whosoever ye would that men should do unto ye, and again 'If thine enemy hunger, feed him.'" stated the speaker.

In opening his address the speaker pointed to a growth of humanitarian in modern business. Reciting a case where 52 boys, about to be sentenced to the reformatory for theft in a southern state were taken by the Kiwanis Club of that city and given a fresh start. All made good, concluded the speaker, who eloquized the work of such clubs as the Kiwanis movement, in humanizing modern business.

Mr. Ferrier was tendered a hearty welcome, and cordially thanked for his address.

Other Matters. J. W. Spencer, president, reminded the members that a pre-convention meeting of the International Kiwanis Clubs is to be held at Tacoma on May 11, when all local members will be invited to attend. R. A. Brown acted as chairman of the entertainment committee, the club being in possession of new song sheets with many popular numbers. Kiwanian Knappenberger won the attendance prize. Robert Foster entertained the club with two banjo selections, and Arthur Williams was applauded for two humorous sketches. Guests from Calgary, Brandon and other Kiwanian centres were entertained by the local club to-day.

MAJOR DAVIS GOES TO KAMLOOPS OFFICE

Distinguished Soldier Receives Appointment From Sloan

Appointment of Major A. W. Davis, E. M. D. S. O., as resident mining engineer at Kamloops, B. C., was announced to-day by Hon. William Sloan, Minister of Mines.

This vacancy occurred several months ago on the death of R. W. Thomson, who took office at the time the Mineral Survey and Development Act became effective in the year 1917.

Major Davis will have charge of an important section of the Province from the standpoint of the mining industry. His district includes the Mining Division of Clinton, Lillooet, Ashcroft, Yale, Nicola, Vernon and Kamloops. It is number 3 of the six districts into which the Province was divided by the terms of the M. S. and D. Act. In it are a number of active properties and many prospects, as well as notable mineral possibilities.

Mining men here declared themselves gratified to learn that they are to have the co-operation and assistance of such an engineer as Major Davis, who is recognized not only as a man of exceptional technical qualifications but of unusual energy.

Major Davis is a graduate of McGill University in mining engineering. He came to British Columbia in 1898 and for a long period was one of the senior engineers in the employ of the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company. At the outbreak of the war he volunteered and went to the front. He was in France with the 1st Canadian Division. In 1915 he was called upon for the special service of organizing the 3rd Tunnelling Company, Canadian Engineers. This was the senior Canadian Company, Nos. 1 and 2 Companies being formed in Canada about the same time and reaching France in 1916. Major Davis was the first man to be promoted in the field to a commission in the Canadian Engineers, and during the Spring of 1915 at the request of the Imperial Army, he, with two other Canadian Engineer officers, was loaned to the Royal Engineers and attached to a mining company. It was in recognition of the valuable services rendered by the tunnelling company for which he was responsible that he was awarded the Distinguished Service Order.

IMPERIAL OIL, LIMITED

IMPERIAL OIL BUILDING TORONTO, ONT.

January 13th, 1922.

The Canadian Daily Newspapers Association, Excelsior Life Building, Toronto.

Gentlemen:—

We have been regular users of advertising space in most of the important newspapers in Canada for several years, because we recognise the fact that such advertising is a most effective and economical way to reach the millions of users of Imperial Oil products throughout Canada from Halifax to Vancouver.

We manufacture and market in Canada, a wide and diversified line of petroleum products. Imperial Polaris Motor Oils and Imperial Premier Gasoline are extensively sold to motorists, but we have, besides, lubricants for factory and farm purposes, household specialties and many other lines. There is scarcely a farm, a factory or a home in Canada in which or on which many Imperial products are not used throughout the year. Our market is as broad as Canada, and while we use other good mediums regularly, it is probably very logical for us to rely on Canadian newspapers to form the backbone of our advertising campaigns for many of our lines.

It is, of course, difficult for any firm with an organization like our own, embracing sales and distribution branches in all of the larger centres and with thousands of dealers, to trace results directly to any particular advertisement or any particular advertising campaign, but, while we believe that Imperial Oil products are used mainly because of their quality and because of the satisfactory service which goes with them, we do not hesitate to say that advertising in Canadian newspapers has played an important part in increasing and maintaining the demand for Imperial Oil products.

Yours very truly,

IMPERIAL OIL, LIMITED.
G. H. Smith
Vice President.

Tender Gums - A Warning

Beware of gum tenderness that warns of Pylorhea. Four out of five people over forty have Pylorhea—many under forty, also. Loosening teeth indicate Pylorhea. Bleeding gums, too. Remember—these inflamed, bleeding gums act as so many doorways for disease germs to enter the system—infecting the joints or tonsils—or causing other ailments.

Forhan's positively prevents Pylorhea, if used in time and used consistently. As it hardens the gums the teeth become firmer.

Brush your teeth with Forhan's. It cleans the teeth scientifically—keeps them white and clean.

TO DARKEN HAIR APPLY SAGE TEA

Look Young! Bring Back Its Natural Color, Gloss and Attractiveness.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur added, will turn gray, red and faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, streaked or gray. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound at any drug store all ready for use. This is the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and lustrous.

Commons Calls For Restrictions Affecting Asiatic Immigrants

Ottawa, May 9.—A resolution calling for "effective restriction" of Oriental immigration into Canada was passed by the House of Commons at 1:45 o'clock this morning after a lengthy debate, the vote standing 130 to 36, a majority of 94. The expression of the House came in the form of an amendment to a motion offered by W. G. McQuarrie, Conservative member for New Westminster, which called for "exclusion." The amendment was moved by Hon. Charles Stewart.

One Liberal, Alfred Stork, Skeena, voted against the Government amendment, as also did five Progressives, Messrs. Lucas, Kellner, McBride, Humphrey and Lewis, and A. W. Neill, Independent, Comox-Alberni, the balance of the Progressives supporting the Government.

As offered, Mr. McQuarrie's resolution set forth that "the immigration of Orientals and their rapid multiplication is becoming a serious menace to living conditions, particularly on the Pacific Coast, and to the future of the country in general, and the Government should take immediate action with a view to securing the exclusion of future immigration of this class."

B. C. Members Spoke. Mr. McQuarrie moved his resolution at the afternoon session yesterday. For the most part members from British Columbia, where the Oriental question is most pressing, held the floor.

Premier King expressed his strong belief in the restriction of Oriental immigration, and intimated that the Dominion Government had already opened negotiations with China with a view to the more effective restriction of Chinese immigration through a system of passports. He suggested that the resolution should call for "effective restriction" instead of "exclusion" of Oriental immigration and, in that form, was ready to accept it.

Sees No Change. To this Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, Leader of the Opposition, replied that this would mean merely a resolution, in favor of the system already existing.

Mr. Meighen asked if the Government could not use the words "prohibition for residential purposes" in place of "exclusion" as the former words were used in the immigration law.

The Government did not accept the suggestion.

Dr. Tolmie. Hon. S. F. Tolmie, Conservative, Victoria, B. C., said restriction had not given the desired results in the past and was no longer satisfactory. He supported the original resolution.

Mr. Crear. Hon. T. A. Crear, Progressive Leader, asked the Conservatives to accept the Government amendment and make the vote unanimous. He supported the amendment because in these matters Parliament must advise the necessity of giving no offence to a great friendly power.

Census Figures. Mr. McQuarrie said the census of 1911 had shown 19,586 Chinese in British Columbia and a total of 27,774 in Canada. Chinese in British Columbia now numbered 35,060, with a total of 57,133 in Canada. The Chinese population doubled in the past ten years. Of thousands of Japanese in Canada, the great majority were in British Columbia. In 1911 there were 8,587 Japanese in British Columbia and a total of 9,952 in Canada. About 7,278 had flooded Canada since that time. A Japanese publication had stated that 1,416 Japanese were engaged in the British Columbia fisheries, while as a matter of fact records of the Department of Marine and Fisheries showed that 2,746 fishing licenses were issued to them last year.

Allowing two men to each boat, this would make a total of 3,342 Japanese engaged in the British Columbia fisheries. The Japanese birthrate was extremely high.

Mr. McQuarrie urged that most of the industries in British Columbia were rapidly becoming monopolized by Orientals. Ninety per cent of the garden truck grown was raised by them. Japanese monopolized the fishing industry.

Drastic action was necessary. He said the Japanese treaty should be abrogated so far as Canada was concerned. He thought the "Gentlemen's Agreement" should be cancelled, and the Immigration Act should be amended so as to provide for exclusion.

Mr. Stork. Alfred Stork, Liberal, Skeena, said the thirteen British Columbia members were unanimous on the resolution. The Oriental had become the very incarnation of commercialized aggressiveness, and indifference on the part of Canadians generally was much to blame for the present state of affairs. The people of British Columbia demanded the exclusion of Orientals on sound economic grounds. They were opposed to being sacrificed for Orientals or for members of any other nation.

Prattis. W. T. Lucas, Progressive, Victoria, Alta., said the time was coming when the prairie provinces would be actively faced with competition from Orientals. One of the reasons why they were not now engaged in agriculture on the prairies was because they were too wise to enter an industry which was losing money. When agriculture again became prosperous the Orientals would settle on the prairies. He said it gave him great pleasure to second the motion.

Naturalization. George Black, Conservative, Yukon, declared that naturalization was a farce to the Oriental. "The naturalized Japanese remains a Japanese and the Chinese a Chinese," he said. Some sentimentalists referred to the Orientals as "our little brown brothers," but he asked how these people would consider an alliance of their sisters or daughters with Chinese or Japanese.

Brig.-Gen. J. A. Clark. Brig.-Gen. J. A. Clark, Conservative, Burrard, submitted that the question was not a British Columbia or even a Canadian question, but one that affected the white world. The white races were faced with a declining birth rate, as against an increasing birth rate in Japan. The Russo-Japanese war had taught the white races that even in war they were the equal of the white races. It was time for Canada to be firm, and who had fought against Germany, entitled to come back and find something better than their country overrun by such people?"

Firm Attitude. If the worst came to the worst, Canada could fight, and, in such a case, was it not better to settle it now? If Japan was foolish enough to go to war on the question, was it not better to settle it now than to wait ten years and find that by peaceful persuasion the enemy had placed thousands of her sons throughout Western Canada?

The white race could not compete with them industrially, owing to their low standards of living.

Mr. Dickie. C. H. Dickie, Conservative, Nanaimo, favored going to the Japanese with "cards face up on the table," telling them that this country could not afford to have any further Japanese immigration, and that we could not compete with them industrially or agriculturally in our country.

The Japanese, said Mr. Dickie, were an honorable race. He believed that if a big enough war went over to meet them, Government and discuss the matter frankly, there would be no difficulty in reaching an agreement which would be observed.

The people of Victoria realized the value of the Anglo-Japanese agreement during the recent war when the Pacific coast of Canada was guarded only by two obsolete vessels, the Rainbow and another, when it was feared that German ships would raid British Columbia ports. When the Japanese warships steamed into Victoria, the people had cheered heartily, for they felt safe from German aggression.

Birthrate. If not another Japanese came to Canada, there would still be a problem in nine years the Japanese birth rate in British Columbia would be as high as that of the white people. To-day thousands of Orientals were employed, while white men were waiting and resting looking for work, and their families reduced to penury and suffering. Mr. Dickie had a great admiration for the Japanese, but he did not want to see them dominating Southern British Columbia, as they now threaten to do.

Mr. Humphrey. L. W. Humphrey, Progressive, Kootenay West, supported the resolution. Much of the unemployment in British Columbia was due to the increase in the Oriental population.

Mr. McMurray. E. J. McMurray, Liberal, Winnipeg North, said Canada was in its infancy, and the test of time a nation must be composed of one stock. The nations which stood the test in the war were the nations which sprang from one people. The polyglot nations did not make good. The Chinese in Canada would never intermingle with the white people.

Mr. Ladner. L. J. Ladner, Conservative, Vancouver, said the debate on Oriental immigration at the evening sitting. Mr. Ladner insisted that traffic in drugs was a regular business; that opium and morphine were shipped in by Chinese merchants and sold by unscrupulous individuals, mostly Chinese, who did not take the drugs themselves but preyed on the weakness of others. Drug traffic was increasing all over Canada and it was largely due to Canada's intercourse with Oriental countries.

Mr. McBride. T. G. McBride, Progressive, Carleton Place, declared that if the present influx of Orientals were not checked, they would make a total of 3,342 over the Rockies in short time. The Canadian people could not have an A-1 country and at the same time have a C-3 class people.

Mr. MacKewie. J. A. MacKewie, Conservative, Yale, asserted that Orientals were now employed extensively in orchard work in the Okanagan. During the war 23 per cent of the population of the Okanagan had taken up arms and the places of the laborers in the district were taken up by Chinese. As a result of that war, 50 per cent of the vegetables grown in that valley were now produced by Chinese labor, and the returned soldiers, on coming back from the front, found that they had been crowded out by Orientals.

Ontario. E. A. Monro, Liberal, Fraser Valley, Westminister District, said he had prepared an amendment, which he would not now move, but which would read as a warning to Ontario of what the people of this Province might expect if the Oriental influx were free from the yellow Columbia.

This amendment was to the effect that the law be so amended that all Orientals on sound economic grounds from the port of landing in the Province of Ontario and kept with their offspring in that Province until the date of yellow people to white in Ontario shall be the same as in British Columbia.

Mr. Monro doubted if any member would vote for the admission of another Oriental. He realized that he was likely to be facing the introduction of such a resolution. However, something similar would come unless British Columbia were given relief.

Mr. Neill. A. W. Neill, Independent, Comox-Alberni, said in this matter he had provided the handwriting on the wall. "As we are now, so shall you be," was the warning of that date to British Columbia and the United States. Mr. Neill said British Columbia demanded rigid exclusion, and also registration of all Orientals in the Province. This was necessary to check the entry by "underground channels."

Mr. Neill did not believe Japan would go to war over the question. She knew that public opinion was against her and she had not kept faith in her agreement. Moreover, would the British Empire be asked if it was forced into war for a right cause? That was not Britain's nor Canada's record. Would the British Government, which had given levity in her colonies, refuse Canada the privilege of refusing to create a "yellow alien Germany" for the Japanese were heathen by choice. Could they expect Canada to prosper if they threw open the door to this kind of people? And were not returned sol-

"Fruit-a-tives" Prevents Auto-intoxication

Auto-intoxication means self-poisoning. Many people suffer from partial constipation or insufficient action of the bowels. Waste matter which should pass out of the body every day, remains and poisons the blood.

As a result, there is Headaches, Indigestion, disturbed Stomach, Pain in the Back, Rheumatism and Eczema and other skin diseases.

"Fruit-a-tives" will always relieve Auto-intoxication as these tablets, made from fruit juices, act gently on the bowels, kidneys and skin and keep the blood pure and rich.

KAMLOOPS-KELOWNA RAILWAY URGED

Delegation Will Present Views at Ottawa

Vernon, B. C., May 9.—(Canadian Press)—Completion of the Canadian National Railway branch line between Kamloops and Kelowna will be urged upon the Federal Government by a delegation from the districts affected. A meeting of farmers and members of boards of trade and kindred organizations here yesterday decided to press the matter and steps were taken to assemble a delegation to go to Ottawa for that purpose.

Thomas Bulman, of Kelowna, will represent the United Farmers' delegates. The date on which the delegation will go east has not been fixed.

EXPENDITURE IS ABOVE REVENUE

Budget Figures Given in South African House

London, May 9.—(Canadian Press Cable)—Reuter's Cape Town correspondent cables that Hon. J. W. Jagger, Minister of Railways, when introducing the railway budget in the South African House of Assembly yesterday, said he estimated the deficit for the year ended March 31 last at £1,800,000, compared with the original estimate of £293,000.

The Minister, who accounted for a revenue loss of £2,000,000 in the first quarter of 1922. The accumulated deficit totalled £4,469,000, including £20,000 from the operation of the South African system now incorporated with the South African Union Railway system.

Mr. Jagger estimated the revenue for the current year at £23,952,000, on a basis of £247,000, and expenditure at £24,663,000, a decrease of £1,569,000. He said a feature of business last year was a decline of traffic in imported goods carrying high rates and an increase of traffic in South African commodities handled at low rates.

The administration, he said, would continue a policy of stringent economy while maintaining rates at the lowest practicable level. The total mileage of railways now under Government control is about 3,500 miles. Some of this mileage was taken over by existing Government assets as far back as 1873. The agreement is under a board of three commissioners, answerable to the minister of railways.

FOURTEEN CONVICTS WOUNDED; BUILDING WAS SET AFIRE

Columbia, S. C., May 9.—Fourteen prisoners were wounded, two possibly fatally, when 150 inmates of the South Carolina penitentiary revolted yesterday. The chair factory building, where the uprising occurred, was set on fire, but the convicts were subdued and the blaze extinguished speedily.

GETTING RID OF INSECT PESTS

With Spring comes the time when every tree, every bush, every plant is a prey to insect pests of a hundred kinds. These must be fought if perfect fruit or blooms are desired. This can be done effectively if the trees or bushes are sprayed just as the larvae develop.

For general all round Kero-Spray is a safe and effective spray. It is prepared according to a formula which is approved by leading orchardists and gardeners and all who have used it praise it highly. It is not in its favor that it is inexpensive and that it comes in concentrated form, the spray being easily prepared with water. For the orchard a sprayer is needed but for the garden a whisk is just as good. The spray should be applied in the evening and the underside of both leaves and bloom should receive special attention.

Kero-Spray is a mixture in proper proportion of Buck Lead Forty Arsenate of Lead, Kerosene, Whale Oil Soap and emulsifying ingredients. It is destructive to all forms of plant pests and also prevents plant growth. It is a preventive of rust, blight, mildew and other diseases.

RELIGIOUS PROBLEM FOR THE LEAGUE

World Executive to Consider France and Near East London, May 8.—The meeting of the executive committee of the League of Nations, to open at Geneva May 11 will consider the religious problems arising out of the French title as the protector of Christianity in the Near East. The London Telegraph's Geneva correspondent learns. It is asserted that the French will press their claim for the retention of the protection of all Eastern Christians. Moreover, the French representatives may insist that a Frenchman preside over the sessions considering this claim.

NEW ORGANIZER FOR B. C. LIBERALS

Vancouver, May 9.—J. E. Myers has left the office of Provincial organizer of the Liberal Party and has gone into partnership in the saw-mill business at North Vancouver. The new Liberal organizer is C. Phillips, who is also secretary of the Vancouver City Liberal Association. He was appointed at the last meeting of the convention organization committee and it is expected this appointment will be ratified at a meeting of the Provincial Liberal executive next Friday.

TEN MILLION SETTLERS.

Some time ago Colonel J. S. Dennis declared that Canada should aim at immigrating ten million people in ten years. He expressed the view that it was not only possible, but also necessary in order that the country's development could proceed and keep pace with the demand that would be made upon its natural wealth during that period.

In spite of my long experience in connection with this important matter, my suggestions of immigrating ten million people in ten years have lately been characterized as madness by Sir Clifford Sifton.

It will be recalled that Sir Clifford Sifton pointed out that too much stress had been laid upon the suggestion that Canada must rely almost solely upon Great Britain and the United States for her new population.

Business at Genoa has now reached the stage at which practically everything depends upon the tone of the reply that Soviet Russia will make to the memorandum submitted to her by the Conference.

their acceptance, their conciliation or their obstinacy, will play a large part in determining the fate of the gathering and the political future of the Prime Minister of Great Britain and the Premier of France.

At the same time it will profit the Moscow authorities nothing to dash away the hand of success. The man who desires a loan from his banker to save his business has to take a few things to go against the grain.

On the other hand M. Tchitcherine's brand of diplomacy will probably detect the advantage that would accrue to his country by placing France and Belgium in a position that would virtually compel them to follow the more moderate lead adopted by Great Britain and other powers.

One of the Vancouver newspapers which fails to be convinced of the desirability of the Government completing the drydock at Esquimalt takes what consolation it can extract from the delegation's hopeful message by agreeing that if the Ottawa authorities have reached their decision the Vancouver people must adopt the attitude that half a loaf is better than no bread.

When the League of Nations was conceived humanity hoped and expected that its operation would put an end to wars of aggression and effectively hold in check those nations which are too prone to look for a reasonable excuse to get into their fighting clothes.

Business at Genoa has now reached the stage at which practically everything depends upon the tone of the reply that Soviet Russia will make to the memorandum submitted to her by the Conference.

NOTE AND COMMENT

If the delegates to the Genoa Conference would agree to drop their political manoeuvring and get really down to hard and fast business there would be little chance of the gathering proving a failure.

Mr. Lloyd George says many difficulties worse than that in which the Economic Conference now finds itself have been passed.

There should not be a single refusal on the part of any to whom Attorney-General Manson has directed a request for suggestions in respect of the enforcement of the Liquor Control Act.

tion of its nominees. In our Municipal elections this could be accomplished by a committee from our labor, mercantile and property interests, selected for that purpose.

As Dr. Clay says—notwithstanding the labor mouthings of the Mayor—that it is the Church that is the enemy of Spiritual welfare; then let us turn if no other means are possible, to the boycott and refuse both support and attendance at those who are again endeavoring to control the state and bring about the subject conditions that prevailed when such domination was in vogue.

TOFINO'S KICK.

To the Editor:—May we be allowed space to air our grievances against the present Government of road grants in this district.

Two years ago the people of Tofino (West Coast) got together in a meeting and decided, for perhaps the twentieth time, that their only salvation in the immediate completion of a road to connect them with the outside world; that there be between this meeting and any previous one being that the whole settlement was practically unanimous on two vital points.

ENTRANCE TESTS NOT ALWAYS BEST
Federation Official Defends Policy of Promotion
Harry Charlesworth, secretary of the B. C. Teachers' Association and a former school principal here, declared yesterday to the Local Council of Women in favor of promotion to High School on recommendation of the school principal. He spoke briefly on the curriculum. Those critics who so often said it was over-crowded did not themselves know that they would omit, he declared. His own opinion was that the main fault of present day education was not that it included too much, but it demanded too little. An achievement of fifty per cent was reckoned a "pass," or a success. Fifty per cent, in his opinion, Mr. Charlesworth stated, signifies "half done." The idea that half will do is no idea to take in the teeth of a market exam easier if necessary, but make certificates dependable on a higher achievement, he stated. Speaking of the system of promotion in vogue, he declared himself heartily and emphatically in favor of children being promoted to High School on the recommendation of the Principal, and not to be dependent on an entrance exam. Some subjects did not tend themselves well to examination, he said. History, literature and nature study could not be taught satisfactorily for examination. Passing to the subject of Home Economics and Manual Training, Mr. Charlesworth defended them warmly from the designation of frills. In both of these a child's hands and brains were developed to work together, which was an important factor. They also offered a valuable opening for "team work." He stated that he had had fourteen years experience of teaching in the Old Country, and ten years in Canada, and that any criticism of lack of discipline in this country must be referred back to the home. T. W. Corbett, of the Victoria High School, who came, he told the meeting, as an attaché to Mr. Charlesworth, dealt with intimate detail, with the various courses offered by the High School for the different requirements of students. Passing on to the question of school discipline he said that too much attention had been paid in recent years to the American idea. "Follow the bend of the child—do not bend him." "Victoria," he said, "is not ready for English methods of discipline," he said. He felt inclined to speak the back to the parents and say that speaking as a parent himself they were not strict enough with themselves and their own likes and dislikes and tendencies. Technical schools came into existence because the old apprentice system had broken down. A solution for many difficulties might be found in part-time education, half the day to be spent in theoretical teaching, and the other half in practice in the farm or workshop. Hearty votes of thanks were passed to the speakers, and Mr. Charlesworth, Mr. Corbett kindly promised to attend a further meeting of the Women's Council, on the second Monday in June for questions and discussion on the many interesting points raised. Mrs. Schofield presided.

Each Ache and Pain Sounds Note of Warning and Alarm
Under the auspices of the Universal Fellowship of Applied Psychology Dr. J. D. O. Powers lectured last evening. He pointed out that work was the basis of sound health; and for most men, generally speaking, health was the basis of happiness. The slightest disturbance of brain or nerve involves dependency. He stated, "And mental depression is the danger signal that nature sounds when the brain is overworked." When a man daily consumes ten ounces of blood and nerve and daily produces but eight ounces, nature uses dependency to inform him that he is declining every decade. This fact and insane asylums. Every ache and pain sounds some note of warning and alarm. This is God's voice speaking to the physical organism and the mind and will to him who stifles that voice and fails to heed it." The lecturer said.

BETTER FEELING
Since the American War of 1918, however, there were many illustrations of friendship and good feeling between America and Great Britain, although Sir Charles Tupper in Vancouver had three records of twenty arbitration cases, settling questions of national importance, which war had been narrowly averted. The Monroe Doctrine itself had been suggested by the British Government.
Hon. Walter Page, American Ambassador in England during the war, told in his correspondence with what extreme difficulty war between the two countries had been averted in the Fall of 1915. Page saw, however, that Britain stood for the same kind of democracy as the United States and it was through his efforts and those of Sir Edward Grey, head of the English Foreign Office at the time, that war was averted.
"It is for us to try to develop this spirit of peace and understanding. We must revise our school text books wherever misrepresentation or bias has crept in so that the children of the nation may get the truth and a right perspective, and there will be no more enmity between us."
Speaking briefly in the discussion that followed for members of the interesting address, Mrs. J. D. Gordon reminded the meeting of the many Americans who had crossed the border to join Canadian boys in life and after. Women needed reminding of these things because women were often the chief offenders, erring socially by displays of anti-American spirit.
Mrs. William Grant earnestly recommended the fine book by Owen Wister, "A Square Deal," and another member pointed out that the Americans were making a special point of celebrating Maria Theresia Day, June 15, and were anxious that Canadians should also celebrate it in their schools.

MISS EVA HOWARD BECOMES BRIDE OF H. H. FAULKNER
Details came to hand this morning from Shanghai of the wedding of Miss Eva Howard, of Victoria, to Mr. Harry Herbert Faulkner, of the Kallian Mining Company. The ceremony was performed quietly at St. Joseph's Church in the presence of a few close friends and members of the staff. The bride, who was given away by Mr. C. A. Howard, of the Kallian Mining Company, was charmingly dressed in ivory crepe de chine and georgette, and carried a bouquet of roses and sweet peas. Mrs. C. A. Howard, as matron of honor, wore a becoming gown of rust crepe de chine and a hat of sand color trimmed with roses. Mr. J. Myers acted as best man, and Father Croke performed the wedding ceremony. A reception was held later at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Howard, No. 8 route Francis Garnier, which was charmingly decorated with flowers and ferns for the occasion. Mr. and Mrs. Faulkner left later in the afternoon for Nanking to spend their honeymoon, the bride travelling in an extremely smart gown of navy blue tricot with hat on suite. The happy couple will make their home in Shanghai.

"My face and neck all broke out in a mass of nasty pimples. My face used to itch and then hard pimples would break out and fester over. They itched and burned dreadfully at times, and my face was badly disfigured for about nine months. I tried different remedies without any effect. I saw an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample. TRIENNIAL CONFERENCE OF Y. W. C. A.'S SOON
Toronto, May 9.—Branches of the Young Women's Christian Association and its operations in all parts of Canada will be represented at the tenth triennial conference on that organization to be held in this city from May 16 to May 20 next. Delegates of countless boards, general membership and secretaries of the thirty-nine associations from Halifax to the British Columbia coast will attend. Canada stands fourth among the twenty-six countries doing association work throughout the world, and this year is to have a full delegation at the world's conference in St. Wolfgang, Australia, June 10-22.
Mrs. N. Rowell, Miss E. T. Addison, and Miss Rowell, of the executive of the Dominion Council, will attend as well as Miss Greta Finlay until recently President of the Montreal Association; Miss E. Ballantyne and Miss Mary Rowell, of Toronto. Miss Una Saunders, for many years national general secretary for Canada will act as assistant chairman at the world's conference.

DOMINION

Most of the exteriors of "The Spanish Jade," John S. Robertson's latest Paramount picture which will be screened at the Dominion Theatre all this week, were "shot" at the little town of Carmona, some twenty-five miles distant from Seville, Spain.

Nothing was lacking—the town was complete in every essential of local atmosphere—the long cobble-stoned streets with their white houses and ornamental window gratings, the castellated ruins of the old walls and the cuspid gateways, still recalling after centuries have passed, the occupation of Spain by the Moors.

CAPITOL

It must be, for a sensitive and ambitious artist, rather alarming to be assigned the impersonation of a screen production, of a universally beloved character. Because while the stage artist has the opportunity of improving upon the first night performance and heeding what the critics had to advise, the screen artist has only the one chance to do the permanent record of the portrayal. And yet the public would be very impatient with any false notes in the interpretation of a popular character of fiction.

For that reason, especial credit should go to little Miss May McAvoy, who in half a year has portrayed two of literature's most beguiling and beloved heroines—Barrietta Grisel, and now William J. Locke's delightful Carrietta out of "The Morals of Marcus Ordeyne." And done both with such superlative art and understanding!

raiment in which Sir Marcus finds her in the park, and the most bewitching beauty imaginable. Her acting is as admirable as her beauty, and she brings to Carliotta the same intelligence and appeal that made her Grisel memorable. For Sir Marcus Ordeyne there are perhaps only two actors in all film-dom exactly suited to the role of the chivalrous British nobleman—Elliott Dexter and William F. Carleton. The role was given to the latter (and older) actor, and he has handled it superbly. It might be said in passing that Mr. Carleton, a Britisher in reality, actually looks like an English nobleman, not like a Hollywood actor trying to imitate one.

LOUISE LOVELY

DRAWNS CROWDS

Popular Australian Actress Enthusiastically Received at Royal

Supported by the well known young English actor, Mr. Wilton Welch, and her technical studio staff, Miss Louise Lovely, famous motion picture and stage artist, is presenting a most interesting programme at the Royal Victoria Theatre this week. First Miss Lovely presents her former Orpheum sketch, "Their Wedding Night," in which she is supported by Mr. Welch. The sketch is tastefully and contains a great amount of humorous situations, made possible through the misunderstanding of the relations between a young bride and groom.

Next Miss Lovely offers her latest vaudeville playlet, "A Day at the Studio," in which with the assistance of her company she shows the inner workings of a motion picture studio, every detail of the industry being shown and explained. At the matinee Miss Lovely invites the children of the audience to come up on the stage and appear with her in a most interesting little fairy story which Miss Lovely directs, and at the evening performance she uses young ladies selected by her from the audience. The sketch is decidedly interesting and instructive as well, and Mr. Welch, who Miss Lovely is rehearsing the young ladies for their part, carrying on a rapid fire comedy conversation that is decidedly amusing.

PICTURE GALLERY AT FALL FAIR

Loan Collection to Be Provided from Ottawa

At the forthcoming Agricultural Fall Fair it is expected to have an exhibition of pictures kindly loaned by the Director of the National Gallery of Canada. This information was revealed at a recent meeting of the Island Arts and Crafts Society, who have agreed to take charge of the hanging and interior arrangements of the picture artists will be represented at the forthcoming B. C. Art Exhibition to be held in the Cassidy Building, Vancouver, from June 15. Twenty works of art will be sent, comprising water colors, oils, pastels, miniatures and etchings.

A movement is on foot to form a "Craft Section" among the various craft workers in the Island Arts and Crafts Society, the idea being to develop local craftsmanship to a point where the articles will find a sale among tourists and the general public.

ALICE ADAMS

BY BOOTH TARKINGTON INSTALLMENT NO. 9

Alice glanced at his serious face. "You mustn't take it so hard," she said, flippantly. "It isn't about you; it's only about Romeo and Juliet." "See here!" he exclaimed. "You aren't at your mind-reading again, are you? There are times when it won't do, you know!" She leaned toward him a little. "Do you dislike my mind-reading?" she asked, and gave him her sudden look of smiling wistfulness. "Do you hate it?" "No I don't," he said gravely. "It's quite pleasant. But I think it says, 'Gentlemen, beware!'" She instantly moved away from him. "How lovely!" she cried. Then she pointed ahead. "Our walk is nearly over. We're coming to the foolish little house where I live. My father won't let us alter one single thing about his precious little, old house. Well!" She halted, and gave him her hand. Adieu! "I couldn't," he hesitated. "I couldn't come in with you for a little while?" "Not now," she said, quickly. "You can come—" She paused. "When?" "Almost any time," she turned and walked slowly up the path, but he waited. "You can come in this evening if you like," she called back to him. "Soon?" "As soon as you like!" She waved her hand; then ran indoors. He walked rapidly up the street, a fine, easy figure, swinging his stick in a way that suggested exhilaration.

Alice ran upstairs, gave her father his tobacco, filled his pipe for him, and sat down before her three-leaved mirror. She had no twinges for any undermings of her "most intimate friend." But why had it been her instinct to show him an Alice Adams who didn't exist? "What's the idea?" she wondered. "What makes me tell such lies? Why shouldn't I be just myself?" And then she thought, "But which one is myself? I certainly am a queer girl!" "What you lookin' so self-satisfied about?" inquired Walter, at the dinner table. "I saw you, all right. Cutie! Oh, you never said me! I was awful busy. I never did see anybody as busy as you get, Alice. When you're busy, I might, but you keep your hands going!"

Looked like the air was full of 'em!" Mrs. Adams laughed benevolently. "Walter, I heard you, all right. If you happen to see your sister on the street when some nice young man is being attentive to her—" "Whoa, Sal!" he said. "You got the parts mixed. It's little Alice that was being attentive." By the way I heard all about this Russell Adams fellow who's been hanging around all us cheap help standing round listening to him nine-tenths of our time. Well, this Russell's some kin or other to the Palmer family; and he's got some little money of his own, and he's puttin' it into ole Palmer's trust company and he's vice-president of the company. You better lay off 'o' there, Alice. Pick somebody that's got less to lose, and you'll make a better showin'."

He came round the table and patted her good-naturedly on the shoulder. "Good afternoon, Alice," he said. "Honest, you wouldn't run in fourth place. If I was you I'd never even start in the class. That frozen-face gang will rule you off the track soon as they see your colors." "Walter!" his mother said again. "Well, ain't I her brother?" he returned, entirely serious and direct. "But what's it all about?" Alice cried. "Well," he said, grinning. "I've seen you—start—before, you know! Good-night!" Mrs. Adams reverted to Walter while she washed the dishes and Alice wiped them. "Of course, Walter, going to make his place with the other nice boys of the town even yet," she said. "I mean, if we could afford to help him financially."

"Let's don't go into that any more, mama," the daughter begged her. "What's the use?" "It could be of use," Mrs. Adams insisted. "Oh, the glue factory again!" Alice cried. "I thought you'd got over all that nonsense, mama." Mrs. Adams smiled, pathetically. "You don't understand a thing about it," she said. "Well, I'm willing," Alice said, with fiery skepticism. "Make me understand, then." "Your father could make a fortune if he wanted to," Mrs. Adams said, quietly. "Your father knows how to make as good a glue as there is in the world. It's a secret formula, it isn't even down on paper. It's worth any amount of money."

"Any amount?" Alice said. "Why hasn't papa sold it then?" "Just because he's too stubborn to do anything with it at all!" "How did papa get it?" "He got it before you were born, just after we were married." "I don't know how it got there," Alice began to feel a little curious. "Did he invent it?" "Partly," Mrs. Adams said. "He and another fellow invented it. Then maybe the other man—" "He's dead." "Then his family—" "Then his family—" Mrs. Adams said. "Anyhow, it belongs to your father, and it would make us all comfortable if he'd do what I want him to—and he knows it would, too!"

Alice shook her head pityingly. "Poor mama! Of course he knows it wouldn't do anything of the kind, or else he'd have done it long ago." A ringing of the front door-bell forestalled Mrs. Adams' retort. "Now, who do you suppose that is?" she wondered. "Ah—did Mr. Russell ask if he could—?" "No, probably it's the great J. A. Lamb," Alice said. "I'll go." The fine old gentleman revealed when she opened the door was eighty, hale, sturdy, not aged; and his quick blue eyes saw everything. "Well, well, well!" he said heartily. "You haven't lost any of your good looks since last week, I see. Miss Alice, you're just what I needed, worrying over your daddy. He's getting along all right, is he?" "He's much better," she was sitting up. "Mr. Lamb, won't you come in?" "Well, I don't know but I might. You don't suppose your daddy's receiving callers yet, is he?" "Alice called quickly. Of course he'd love to see you and he's quite able to, if you care to come up."

When his employer appeared in the doorway Adams half rose. "Sit still!" the old gentleman shouted. "Don't you know you're weak as a cat? What you trying to do—the police—with me for?" "That's the way all my boys blarney me, Miss Alice," he said. "You just tell your daddy it's no use; he doesn't get on my soft side, pretending he likes me even when he's sick." "Oh, I'm not so sick any more," Adams said. "I expect to be back in my place ten days from now at the longest." "Well, well, well!" Mr. Lamb cried, and patted Adams' shoulder with a strong pink hand. "Listen to this young fellow, Miss Alice, will you? He thinks the whole works 'll just take and run down if he isn't there to keep 'em wound up."

Adams looked troubled. "Well, I don't like to feel that my salary's going on with me not earning it. I don't feel right about it; but I'll be back in ten days. You'll see." The old man took his hand in parting. "All right; we'll see, Virgil. Of course we do need you; but we don't need you so bad we'd let you come down there before you're fully fit and able. You hear, Miss Alice? The old place is there waiting for him, and it'd wait ten years if it took him that long to get good and well. You see that he remembers it, Miss Alice!" She went down the stairs with him, and even after he had gone out the door, the husky voice called back from the darkness, as he went to his car. "Don't forget, Miss Alice. We always want him, but we want him to get good and well first. Good-night, good-night, young lady!" (To Be Continued.)

FOR CHILDREN THE SANDMAN STORY FOR TONIGHT

MITZI AND THE FAIRY Part III

Up a long flight of stairs he led her into a hall of white marble and gold and then to a room hung with purple velvet.

There were no windows in this room but Mitzi saw at the far end of the room a light which came from beneath the velvet curtain.

Towards the light the leopard man led her. He drew aside the curtains and by the light shining through a crystal globe, Mitzi saw three closed doors.

One door was of polished gold beautifully carved, the second was of silver, carved also, and the third was of carved ivory. "You must choose which door you will open," said the leopard man. "I do not know which one will help me, and if I did I could not point out or the spell could not be broken. You must make the choice."

Mitzi knew then that some magic spell was upon this poor creature and that it was in her power to break it or help, at least, by choosing the right door to open. Trembling with fear that she might choose the wrong one she stepped towards the three big doors.

For a short time she stood very still looking at the doors. One was as beautiful as the other. It was hard to decide that way. Stepping first to the door of gold and then to the door of silver, Mitzi said, as she touched each: "I will not have you door of gold, Nor you of silver bright and cold. For behind the ivory something tells in the charm that breaks all cruel spells."

"Because at the white birch tree you asked what she wished you to do before you promised to do it as your sister did, and you did not ask for the gold," replied the King. "And now, my children, you must leave this place, for the King must be crowned." It was the Fairy who spoke and she touched Mitzi and the King with her wand.

Mitzi saw three closed doors where you found me. The only way the spell could be broken was for a beautiful maiden to choose the right door to open, behind which I should find the magic blue pool which would restore, and my Fairy Godmother choose you to make the choice. That was all she could do for me, send the maiden that she thought would make the wisest choice. "And why did she choose me?" asked Mitzi. "Because at the white birch tree you asked what she wished you to do before you promised to do it as your sister did, and you did not ask for the gold," replied the King. "And now, my children, you must leave this place, for the King must be crowned." It was the Fairy who spoke and she touched Mitzi and the King with her wand.

SHIPPING NEWS FROM DAY TO DAY

Diversions at Sea Are Multifarious

The Montreal Gazette of April 25 printed the following interesting story entitled "At Sea":

The new monoclase Canadian Pacific ships are setting a pattern and example of comfortable, luxurious ocean travel accurately described as the acme of steamship service. Passengers now making the comparatively short trip between the old and the new world need scarcely be aware that they are at sea at all.

Floating Palaces.

There are so many diverse ways of filling in one's time nowadays aboard these huge floating palaces, and day succeeds day with such startling rapidity that the general feeling is not so much one of gladness when the journey is finished as that it was scarce long enough, so multifarious are the attractions on board the latest marvels of the shipbuilders' genius. Speaking of the attractions of ocean travel, there is really little difference between the modus operandi ashore and afloat. If it is permissible to make a comparison for a moment to hotel life, at sea one has all the luxuries and all attentions accentuated which obtain in the daily routine of a life of ease and luxury on land. Different minds incline to different things at sea as elsewhere. Your bedroom steward calls you by instruction at any time of the morning you may desire, fetching you the maternal cup of tea and toast or whichever you prefer—as an "eye-opener." Most people usually allow themselves time to have a morning gallop around the deck before responding to the bugle call which announces the breakfast hour. In the saloon you have your morning paper, published on board ship, giving a brief summary of the news that matters in various parts of the world, and which is well diversified, embracing everything from politics to sport.

Games on Board Ship.

Most games are available on board ship for those whose inclinations lie in that direction. For the studious, the library, with its well-chosen equipment is convenient, and suitable delectation for all mental tastes can be sampled there. There are stewards who have done suitable beck and call everywhere, and indeed it can be truthfully said that to a great extent you feel yourself a veritable Alexander Selkirk during the time of your brief sojourn upon the great waters. A pleasant, and at times profitable, experience which is a part of the daily routine of a ship's life is the auctioning of your morning paper, a function which generally creates a species of mild excitement in its way. Breakfast and the pursuit of the morning's news are over. The passengers who have done suitable justice to the exceedingly luxurious breakfast provided on the huge Atlantic ships drop, in many cases, into a pleasant torpor, the direct result of good food coupled with a restful night. The sunny side of the ship sees a perfect avalanche of deck chairs placed in the best positions, where the young people, some for exercise and many to await their turn to take part in one or other of the various deck games which abound in plenty. A diversion to the torpor, perhaps, is necessary at this point. For be it recorded that it is perfectly amazing that some good folk who are mild appetites ashore take full menus aboard ship, very frequently beginning at the top of an enticing menu card and going straight through the bill—and then proceed to the dining room at the hours that must intervene before they will have the privilege to eat again. This procedure goes on both in the afternoon, and with the same steadfast regularity, in the afternoon.

Sweepstake Diversion.

As a diversion, someone assumes the task of undertaking the duties of providing a liner "sweepstake." The first day there may be a little difficulty. The other days there is no trouble, when there are more applicants at times than are necessary to complete the complement. "Tickets for the sweep" is the cry. "Why, yes, put me down for four," and so on. When the preliminaries have been duly carried out the drawing of the numbers takes place, and great excitement prevails when a passenger is sufficiently fortunate to obtain a presumed "lucky" one. The duly appointed "Sweep Committee" manage responsibility amongst the ship's officers usually give an indication each morning what the ship's run is likely to be "from noon to noon." Ticket-holders draw for that—the fifteen numbers above and the fifteen numbers below. The top and bottom numbers are the high and the low numbers field, respectively, and if the run—owing, perhaps, to unfavorable weather or other causes—comes to a figure above or below these numbers the owner takes a prize. There are usually three prizes. A ten per cent prize has been deducted for women's charities, half the takings go to the holder of the figure actually made by the ship that day, and a quarter each to the holders of the figures ten above and ten below the winner. But having drawn a number you do not simply await the result. Not at all.

Mecca of Sea-Dogs.

The next move is the smoke room, the mecca of sea-dogs, whose romantic capabilities lie in telling sea stories, for example, as to "how many times they have made the round trip," and how they at no period of the self-same trips had the slightest disposition to make the acquaintance of mal-de-mer. Their romances run to the number of funerals they have witnessed at sea, the stories of births, love matches and other wonderful happenings which have occurred on sea trips with which they have been associated. They assert how the present trip is about the worst they have ever had, and if their companions had just been with them in such a year, on such and such a ship, what a whale of a time they would have had, and so on and so on. The appearance of a bronzed son of the sea in the smoke room is the signal for the inauguration of the "auctioning" of the numbers which have previously been "drawn." Very frequently this good soul is either a ship's officer or some one of the passengers who undertakes the duty. At this auctioning procedure, be it remarked, if a passenger is of the chary sort and does not buy his own number somebody else can and will.

"What!" says the embryo auctioneer, "this eligible number, only three

WORKERS RESUME IN SHIPYARDS OF GREAT BRITAIN

Strike of 300,000 Shipworkers Over; Men Finally Accept Cut

London, May 9.—(Canadian Press Cable)—Workmen have resumed their employment in many shipyards in the United Kingdom, including the shipyard on the Clyde, but in a few cases, notably at the Tees, in Durham, only a few men were taken on because there was no work for them on account of death of repairs. About 300,000 shipworkers were out on strike for some time over the question of a wage cut, but the strike was settled recently by the men accepting a cut of ten shillings weekly, and a further cut of six shillings in two instalments, to take effect in May and June.

BUILDING MARINE WAYS ON OLD SITE AT POINT HOPE

Turpel Firm to Be Re-established With Plant in Upper Harbor

The Turpel marine ways and ship-repair plant is again being established at Point Hope after suspending active operations for the past four years.

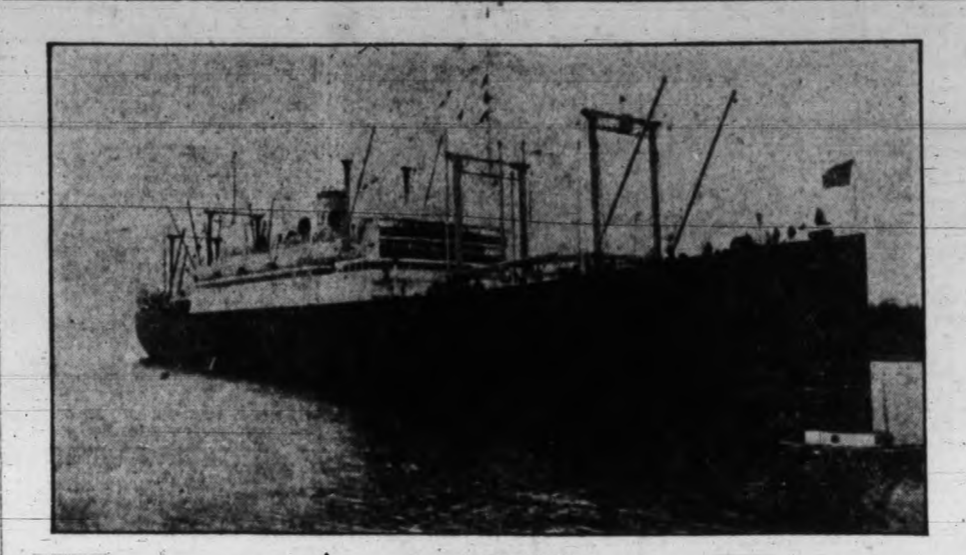

A marine railway, wharf and works is now being re-established on the former site in the Upper Harbor, and will be operated by Samuel Turpel and Emerson Turpel, sons of William Turpel, the veteran shipbuilder of this city. The Turpel boys will have W. G. Noury, with them in the new business. The old Turpel shipyard was in existence for thirty-five years, and was founded by William Turpel, who is now turning over the business to his sons.

The old Turpel yard was absorbed by the Foundation Company in 1917, when that company took over the site and built five wooden steamships for the Imperial Munitions Board, and later extended the shipyard to Point Ellice to build twenty wooden steamships to the order of the French Government.

The Turpel boys have secured a new lease of the property at Point Hope, and the foundation for the new cradle is now in. The firm will go in for the building of small vessels, and will operate a general ship-repair plant.

Active operations will be started next month.

IN PORT TO-DAY FROM ORIENTAL WATERS

S. S. BAY STATE

Pickets Active.

Mass picketing by 2,000 unemployed men in the engineering trades who have been on strike for a considerable period, occurred at Barrow-in-Furness, where they pursued shipyard workers and obtained their refusal to return to work pending the complete settlement of the engineering dispute on the matter of wages and also with regard to the managerial functions of the members of the engineering Employers' Federation.

PERUVIAN MINISTER TO JAPAN ARRIVES

M. de Freyre, Recalled to Lima, on S.S. Bay State; Other Passengers

M. de Freyre, retiring Peruvian Minister to Japan, accompanied by Mme de Freyre, was a diplomatic passenger arriving here to-day from Japan by the Admiral liner Bay State. Under instructions from his Government M. de Freyre is returning to Lima, the capital of Peru, from Tokio. A Bressani has been appointed Charge d'Affaires for Peru at the Japanese capital.

W. B. Walker, manager for the Standard Oil Company in Southern China, reached port on the Bay State en route to New York. S. Yamada, who travelled by the Admiral boat, is one of the directors of the Yokohama Shipbuilding Company.

Loring L. Bates, freight agent for the Admiral Line, who has spent the past few months on a business trip in the Orient, is returning to Seattle. Walter C. Whiffers, chief of the Peking bureau of the Associated Press, arrived on the Bay State from Yokohama and is bound for the United States.

Secret Service Chief.

Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Guertin, and their daughter, Miss G. Guertin, of Manila, were among the passengers arriving here to-day from the Philippines. Mr. Guertin is chief of the secret service of the United States Government at Manila, where he has resided for the past 23 years.

Mrs. C. E. Guest, of Manila, who is en route to Seattle on a visit, is the wife of the general manager of the Goodyear Tire Company in the Orient.

F. C. Cadwallader, a big timber man of the Philippines, is making his first trip to the United States in seventeen years. He is accompanied by his wife and family. H. A. Koster is a prominent business man of San Francisco who is returning home after a business and pleasure trip to the Far East.

QUEZON MAY NOT COME WITH MAIN PHILIPPINE PARTY

President of Senate and Osmena Reported Booked

Seattle, May 9.—Information that the Philippine parliamentary mission coming to the United States to protest the Wood-Forbes report will arrive in Seattle aboard the Admiral liner Keystone State, May 23, was received by the Chamber of Commerce from resident commissioners De Veyre and Gahaldon at Washington, D. C. The report also stated that Manuel Quezon, president of the Philippine senate, and Speaker Osmena, joint chairman of the mission, will not arrive with the main party, but will come later, arriving at San Francisco aboard the Tennyso Maru, June 4. Senator Guevara and Representative Generoso are reported to be the acting joint chairman of the commission which will pass through Seattle.

BAY STATE HAD PLACID VOYAGE ACROSS PACIFIC

Ship Did Not Cant Three Degrees Either Way During Passage, Says Skipper

"She did not roll more than three degrees either way," said Capt. Thos. P. Quinn, commander of the Admiral liner Bay State, in explaining the placid nature of the voyage. "She heeled over more when I threw the helm over on rounding the Race than at any other stage during the passage. In all my experience on the Pacific I have never experienced calmer seas."

Arriving in quarantine at two minutes to midnight the Bay State was passed at daybreak and berthed at 8 o'clock this morning at the Rithet piers.

The Bay State brought in 130 saloon passengers and 205 Asiatics in the steerage, one of the largest lists yet carried on the eastbound voyage by vessels of the Admiral fleet.

The ship sailed from Yokohama at the same hour as the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Russia, backing out from the pier at Yokohama as the Canadian Pacific Railway liner swung into the stream.

Orders Not to Race.

"There was no attempt at racing," declared Capt. Quinn. "We have had our instructions not to exceed 118 revolutions or seventeen and a half knots, and we kept within that schedule."

Capt. Quinn was interested in the time made by the Empress of Russia, and moreover stated that, given an opportunity to drive his ship, the Bay State would give the Empress of Russia a run for the money.

The steaming time of the Bay State from Yokohama breakwater to William Head was 10 days, 5 hours, 22 minutes. At the distance the liner steamed with seven boilers and on approaching the coast six boilers were used.

ATLANTIC BOOKINGS HEAVY FOR SUMMER

Says F. Lefeaux, Representative of the Cunard and Allied Lines

F. Lefeaux, representing the Cunard, Anchor and Anchor-Donaldson lines, was a visitor to the city over the week-end. He says that Atlantic bookings are very heavy for the months of June and July, and states the indications are that space on ships for Europe will be at a premium later in the season.

While in the city Mr. Lefeaux took the opportunity to call on Mr. Richard Henderson, director of the Cunard Line, who is confined to the Jubilee Hospital as the result of a serious automobile accident recently, but reports that although Mr. Henderson is making satisfactory progress, he is not well enough to receive visitors. Mr. Lefeaux was in the Canadian Pacific Railway ticket office at Vancouver prior to joining the Cunard Line.

He was formerly a regular visitor to this city as a member of the C. P. R. ticket staffs, meeting incoming trans-Pacific liners. This, however, is his first visit on behalf of the Cunard and allied lines. He is making the tour of Vancouver Island territory for Manager A. C. Whitelock, who is detained in Vancouver by press of business.

CANADIAN PACIFIC LEASES NEW DOCK SPACE AT SEATTLE

Coastwise Steamships of Canadian Fleet Will Berth at Colman Dock

Seattle, May 9.—The Canadian Pacific Railway to-day concluded a lease for berthing its British Columbia service vessels at the Colman dock here beginning May 16, it was announced. Another lease reported as probable was that of the Northern Pacific Railway Company's Pier No. 1 by the Luckenbach Steamship Company, negotiations for which are understood to have been under way for some time.

An overhead ramp is being constructed at Pier 4 for the more convenient landing of passengers from the Admiral Line's trans-Pacific liners.

The French liner St. Louis, after loading nearly 300 tons of freight at Tacoma for Bilbao, Spain, arrived in port here yesterday. She is scheduled to sail to-day.

Harry Brandt, manager of the Transportation Club here, was to-day named traveling representative of the C. P. R. for the Northwest.

R. J. Ringwood, new Admiral Line traffic manager in Chicago of the coastwise and intercoastal service is expected here from San Francisco to-day to take up his new duties.

The steamship Hakata Maru, of the Nippon Yusen Kaisha, arrived here yesterday with the Shidzuoka Maru of the same line expected in Friday.

PRICE OF BUNKER OIL GOES ALOFT

New York, May 9.—The Standard Oil Company of New Jersey and the Sinclair Oil and Refining Company, yesterday announced an increase of ten cents a barrel in the price of bunker oil. The new price is 1.26 1/2 a barrel.

On learning that his ship was to be renamed the S. S. President Madison, Capt. Quinn remarked that she had already been renamed by the citizens of Manila, where he decided to rechristen the ship "Gay State." The ship was the scene of sustained frivolity at Manila in Easter tide when the popularly hoisted the name of the ship in crowds and indulged in dancing on the spacious promenade decks to the jazz music of the ship's orchestra and a second band of Filipino musicians.

When the gay carnival ended at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, 800 visitors were counted leaving the ship by the main gangway, while no count was kept of the number going ashore by the after gangplank. It was a gay time and the distance the citizens were unanimous in giving the ship the new name of "Gay State."

One Bicycle Recovered.—One of three bicycles stolen over the weekend was recovered to-day, according to the police report. The machine had been taken by a youth, it is thought, and used for a short while.

Social Evening.—A dance and social evening will be held to-night at Harvey Hall, Fort Street, in aid of the building fund of the First Spiritual Church. The arrangements are in the hands of the Ladies' Aid. An excellent programme has been provided.

Accident Patient Better.—Norman Baker, 2525 Rose Street, who was injured in the motor cycle fatality near Royal Oak on Saturday morning and is now in St. Joseph's Hospital with both legs fractured, is reported this morning to be making rapid progress towards recovery.

Grass Fire Yesterday.—A small grass fire on the former Indian Reserve gave the department a run yesterday afternoon at 4.30. No damage was occasioned. A slight blaze in the 1500 block on Hillside called in a gaining house. The fire was out at 10.31 a. m. this morning.

A. and N. V.—The Army and Navy Veterans general monthly meeting will be held in the assembly room, Hamley Building, on Thursday, at 8 o'clock. Members are requested to make a special effort to attend, as there are several important matters under consideration.

Raid in Chinatown.—Nineteen Chinese, taken in a raid Sunday by a police posse headed by Chief Fry at Fan-Tan Alley, were fined $25 and $250 costs each for being found in a gaming house. The case was heard before Magistrate Jay in the police court to-day.

Guild of Health.—Rev. T. E. Rowe will address the Guild of Health on Wednesday evening in the Cathedral schoolroom at 8 o'clock. Those wishing to consult Mr. Rowe may do so on Wednesday morning from 10.30 to 12.30 o'clock at 1126 Richardson Street (three doors east of Cook Street).

Interesting Lecture.—Alfred Petch gave a very interesting illustrated lecture on Wales at 8.15, at Andrew's Church last evening, the proceeds of the affair going toward the organ fund. Welsh music was referred to and examples given in splendid solos sung by Mr. Petch, Mrs. Jessie Longfield, Miss Lewis, Miss Simpson and D. C. Hughes.

Young People Meet.—The Young People's Forum of the Metropolitan Church met last night in the Sunday school when they held their regular weekly meeting. The evening took the form of a devotional service, terminating with the roll-call. Two very inspiring addresses were given by members of the organization. Mr. Stewart presided in the chair.

Organ Recital.—A most attractive programme has been arranged for the organ recital to be given in aid of the Guild of Health extension fund in Christ Church Cathedral on Thursday evening at 8 o'clock. Vocal solos will be given by Mrs. Harry Briggs.

Central Parent-Teachers.—At last night's meeting of the Central Parent-Teachers' Association, Dr. Wasson gave an interesting address which was much appreciated. At the next meeting members will be given an opportunity to discuss the advisability of the charge made for pupils entering High School. The meeting also discussed the question of scholarships, and of the milk supply to children attending school.

Native Sons of Canada.—The Native Sons of Canada movement, organized in Victoria, is spreading fast. Vancouver and Winnipeg are in a neck and neck race for the largest membership and Victoria is leading along well. At Saturday's banquet in Vancouver the following officers were installed: R. H. Carson, president; James Mathers, vice-president; Dr. D. A. Dunbar, second vice president; D. H. Elliott, secretary, and J. A. Fee, treasurer. A meeting of the local lodge will be held at 8 o'clock Thursday evening.

Prospectors Have Happy Time.—Prospectors went in for a good time at their meeting in the Campbell Building last night when the Vancouver Island Prospectors' Association held their smoking concert, with R. N. Hinks providing the humor in the way of a talk on prospecting. P. Hill told of prospecting in the early days in East Kootenay. C. A. Heald and J. C. Rivers sang, Miss Iona Robertson recited one of Service's frontier poems and also the Thomas Goldby presided and P. Findlay played.

Judgment is Reserved.—At the conclusion of argument by counsel in the County Court yesterday, in the suit of the Drake Hardware Company versus Hood and Hepburn, His Honor Judge Lampman reserved judgment. The claim of the plaintiff for liens of $900 was also to determine who was liable for the excess of contract materials in the building of a residence for Mrs. Hepburn by Mr. Hood, a contractor. D. S. Tait appeared for the plaintiff company, W. Mitchell for Mr. Hood and Hepburn, His Honor Judge Lampman reserved judgment. The claim of the plaintiff for liens of $900 was also to determine who was liable for the excess of contract materials in the building of a residence for Mrs. Hepburn by Mr. Hood, a contractor. D. Women's Institute Quilting Bee.—The quilting bee which was to have been held on Thursday afternoon has now been postponed to Friday, and will take place at 2 o'clock at the Surrey Block, Yates Street. It will be under the direction of Mrs. Brethour and Mrs. McDonald. The wool used will be from Hazan's Farm, Newton Point. Refreshments will be served during the afternoon, and all are welcome.

MUNN SUIT BEGINS IN SUPREME COURT

The suit of Mrs. H. A. Munn versus the City of Victoria opened in the Supreme Court to-day, before Mr. Justice Macdonald, with H. A. Maclean, K. C., for the plaintiff and City Solicitor H. S. Pringle for the city. Plaintiff is seeking $45,000 with interest, alleged to be the amount agreed upon in connection with the Munn property, which was expropriated, it is claimed for the Johnson Street Bridge site.

The city has repudiated the expropriation and is offering $19,900 in full settlement. This offer is refused. The hearing is continuing.

CITY MAKES BIG BOND DEAL PROFIT

cure long-term securities bearing interest at 4 per cent and more the city can not only increase its capital by $200,000 but, if interest rates do drop as expected, can make big gains in its interest returns as well.

During the period from now until 1934, when the 1934 Victory bonds mature the city will enjoy lower interest returns at the rate of $4,000 a year. But if interest rates, as expected are down to 3 1/2 per cent, in 1934, this loss will be more than counterbalanced by interest gains in the period from 1934 to 1960, when the other securities mature.

Advantageous Deal.

The present transaction, therefore, is regarded as one of the most advantageous that has been put through for some years. The opportunity of purchasing the miscellaneous bonds mentioned was held open by the Royal Financial Corporation and the firm of Gillespie, Hart and Todd, only until to-day. The policy of big corporations and municipalities of re-investing in long-term securities makes it difficult to secure, at the present advantageous prices, large quantities of the gilt-edged securities in which the city invests its sinking funds, it is explained.

Re-funding of local improvement sinking shortages will be started in October or later in the Fall under present plans. About $900,000 falling due in January 1923 will be re-funded this year. Re-funding of local improvement debentures falling due in July and October 1923, amounting to $1,500,000 will be left to the 1923 Council.

ONWEGO BIBLE CLASS PAY MEMORIAL TRIBUTE

A touching tribute was paid to the late Leslie Carter, when the Onwego Bible class held a memorial service at the graveside of their departed member, on Sunday afternoon. A large attendance showed the high esteem in which the late member was held.

Leslie Carter, whose untimely end came just a year ago, was a leading member of the Onwego class, and the large number of members who attended and the floral tributes heaped upon the grave testified the esteem and regard in which he was held.

The impressive service was conducted by R. G. Howell, the class leader, who in a brief solemn address paid a tribute to Leslie Carter. He pointed out the high example of Christian living which he has left behind him. Aubone Hoyle, director of religious education at the Presbyterian Church, led in prayer.

tween Chekiang and the Province of Kiangsu, which adjoins it on the north.

Sun Yat Sen's headquarters are at Sui-chow-Fu, Province of Kwangtung, about 150 miles northwest of Canton. His main army is stationary at present, a part having been removed to Canton since the breaking away of General Cheng Ching-Min, who withdrew to his native city of Hai Chow with about 8,000 troops.

A Threat.

It is generally believed that General Chen, sympathizing with Wu Pei Fu in the latter's campaign against Chang Tso Lin near Peking, is threatening Sun and holding his army to Kwangtung.

Chen has been succeeded as Civil Governor of Kwangtung by Wu Ting Fang, former Minister of the United States, under whom the Government is operating smoothly.

A Rout.

The soldiers of the routed army were said by the American Minister to be completely "out of control." Many of them, he added, appeared "half-starved." Upon representations from the Chinese Foreign Office, the diplomatic council at Peking released $300,000 in customs revenue to feed stranded Fourth Army troops.

The Minister also reported that although there was no intimation of

Amateurs to Stage Opener on Saturday

Knights and Eagles Will Appear in First Game of Baseball Season at Stadium; Twenty-four-Game Schedule With Two Games Each Week Adopted; Each Club Will Carry Eighteen Men; Teams Finishing Off Training

Everything is set for the opening of the Victoria Amateur Baseball League on Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Stadium. The Knights of Columbus and the Eagles, who are to hook up in the initial tussle, are busy applying the finishing touches to their respective machines and hope to be able to show the fans something fast and snappy in the war of amateur ball.

The executive of the Amateur League assembled last evening to complete final arrangements for the opener. It was decided to dispense with brass bands, parade and all the other frills connected with the opening of professional leagues, the athletes being anxious to avoid tying up the traffic on the busy thoroughfares and also to prevent folks from falling out of the tall buildings in their rush to gain a place at the window sill.

To Select Opening Battery.
A couple of high dignitaries will be on hand to do some wickered battery work as a prologue to the main act. It is not known upon whom the choice will fall but it is rumored that there has been no lack of applications for the job. The officials of the league will make the decision immediately so that the successful applicants may get into shape and thereby eliminate any chance of the spectators in the stands being benumbed by a wild pitch right at the outset.

The league will comprise four teams and each team will play once a week. The games will be staged on Wednesday evenings at 8:30 o'clock, and on Saturday afternoons at 3 o'clock. There will be no double-headers during the season. Twenty-four games in the season will be scheduled, which will conclude on August 5 with a clash between the Knights of Columbus and the Eagles.

All Games at Stadium.
All games will be played at the Stadium. The groundsman has been busy at late filing in the holes in the diamond and a steam-roller will be used to put on a smooth and hard surface. Each club will be allowed to sign eight men this season. Last Summer the club strength was fifteen but it has been expanded this year to allow several youngsters to get into a game now and then.

The league adopted a new constitution last night which gives it additional power. The constitution will be in effect until the following Thursday.

The Eagles' Lineup.
Only one team so far has laid its contracts on the table and the other managers are holding back. The Eagles, who figure in Saturday's game, reveal the following state of players: Roy Roberts, umpire; Albert Bates, P.; Yummy, C.; McGreggor, S.; Pettit, H. Green, Alex Potts, John Pettit, John Cummings, Eddie Hall, Dick Rowe, Eddie Brown, George Coleman and Hap Gandy.

Alex Potts will handle the Eagles; George Allen is skipper of the Knights; Walter Lorimer will again guide the Elks and L. Francis will have control of the new-comers, the C. P. R.

Alex McGregor will referee all games. The schedule for the season will be as follows:

May 13—Eagles vs. K. of C.
May 15—C. P. R. vs. Elks.
May 20—Elks vs. K. of C.
May 25—Eagles vs. C. P. R.

VICTORIA CITIZENS BALL LEAGUE MEETS

A meeting of the Victoria Citizens' Amateur Baseball League will be held this evening at 7 o'clock at the Odd Fellows' Hall, Douglas Street. All clubs which intend to enter are requested to have their delegates in attendance so that the schedule may be drawn up and other important matters attended to.

MORVICH CRITICISED FOR LACK OF SIZE

Favorite for Kentucky Derby Is Small; Can He Stand Pace for Distance?

Louisville, Ky., May 9.—Morvich, probably the most discussed horse in the country and apparently the favorite for the Kentucky Derby, spent the most of his first day at Churchill Downs being viewed by a great throng. Comment on Benjamin Block's unbeaten Runnymede-Hymir colt ranged from extravagant praise because of his conformation to criticism for his lack of size. But seasoned turfmen explained mere size has little to do with it. Can he stay for a mile and a quarter, the derby distance, was the only question asked.

Morvich will not be seen in racing form on the course on which he is to race next Saturday until to-morrow when Fred Burlew, his trainer, intends to work him a fast six-furlong. To-day the crack was jogged around the track by an exercise boy.

In Great Condition.
The colt is regarded in prime condition and ready to go. To-day he appeared entirely unaffected by his journey from New York which was made in 24 hours in a private car attached to the fast passenger train.

One of the outstanding developments of the day in connection with Morvich was the statement by his trainer that he would start in no handicaps this year but would confine his efforts to the three-year-old fixture for which he is eligible.

Another East vs. West.
Meanwhile current opinion apparently leans to the theory that the derby will be a race of the East against the West. Morvich against such heavy hitting as included a home run, helped the Yankees down Chicago 7 to 5, but the rest of the eastern teams bowed to an invasion of Cleveland slugs. Three Athletic pitchers for a 14-1 verdict; Detroit's recruit pitcher Olsen turned back Boston, while the St. Louis wrecking crew sent a 4-0 triumph over Washington out of the fire in the ninth. The Browns used four pitchers to stop the Senators.

Baker's Hitting Too Much.
Good pitching strategy and Baker's heavy hitting which included a home run, helped the Yankees down Chicago 7 to 5, but the rest of the eastern teams bowed to an invasion of Cleveland slugs. Three Athletic pitchers for a 14-1 verdict; Detroit's recruit pitcher Olsen turned back Boston, while the St. Louis wrecking crew sent a 4-0 triumph over Washington out of the fire in the ninth. The Browns used four pitchers to stop the Senators.

League Games
American League.
New York, May 9.—The New York Americans won the first game of their series with Chicago yesterday, 7 to 5. Hoyt was replaced in the fifth by Murray, a recruit, who held Chicago in check until the ninth when Mayes relieved him and stopped a rally.

Washington in Bottom.
Washington, May 9.—St. Louis showed Washington to the bottom of the race by winning when Jacobson's triple, Severid's single and a double by Williams gave the visitors their winning margin.

Tigers Win One.
Boston, May 9.—Olson pitched effectively for Detroit yesterday, defeating Boston, 6 to 2. The work of Rigney and Clark featured.

Philadelphia, Pa., May 9.—Hammeling's three Philadelphia pitchers for seventeen runs against Cleveland won the first game of the Philadelphia series, 11 to 4. The hitting of Jamieson and Sewell featured. Uble kept the Athletics' eleven hits well scattered.

Plenty of Talent.
Local football talent is not lacking at the local distributing office, most of the players being old veterans at the game. The entire staff is looking forward to a great game. A large string of footballers has been supplied from which to select the team and an exceptionally strong squad should be in line against the visitors.

National League.
Pittsburgh, May 9.—The first game in the East and West series in the National League took place here yesterday, in the presence of President John Heydler of the National League, and United States Senator George Wharton Pepper. The Brooklyn Dodgers opposed the Pittsburgh Pirates, the game being won by Pittsburgh, 8 to 7. The Pirates entered the ninth inning three runs behind, and hit by Grimm, Maxton, Rehner (hitting for Yellowhorse) and Ena, scored four runs and won the game.

Brooklyn 7 16 0
Pittsburgh 8 13 3
Batteries—Grimes, Manauax and Miller; Morrison, Yellowhorse and Gooch, Mattox.

Coast League.
Oakland, Cal., May 9.—Los Angeles won yesterday's game from Oakland 19 to 1 and with it the series 4-0. Los Angeles was especially easy for two of Oakland's pitchers were knocked out of the box. They were Brenton and Winn. Maxton, Rehner scored nine runs off six hits and two errors before the six pitchers went down. They got four more off Mon-

DEMPESEY PULLING FOR CARP TO WIN

Victory for Frenchman Over Lewis Means Another Big Purse for Jack

Paris, May 9.—"I don't want to stay in London beyond Saturday," said Dempsey to-day. "I must get back to the United States and start training to meet Willard and all other comers."

Asked who he thought would win the coming fight in London, the champion said he was a good friend of both Carpenter and Lewis, and would like to see both make a good showing, but from a selfish standpoint he would prefer to see the Frenchman win, as a match with him would make a much better and more popular one for the title holder.

"As a matter of fact," he added, "Carpenter is much the fitter man, and ought to be able to win the fight. If he does I will stay up with him immediately after and meet him in London sometime during the winter."

Leaves Paris To-Day.
Paris, May 9.—After postponing his departure from Paris several times, Jack Dempsey, finally made up his mind to break away from the attractions of the French capital and leave for London this afternoon. He spent the morning shopping and returning the visits of friends.

LACROSSE EXECUTIVE WANTED AT PRACTICE

All members of the executive of the Victoria Lacrosse Club are requested to turn out to the practice this evening at the Royal Athletic Park at 7 o'clock. The executive will hold a meeting to decide on many matters pertaining to the club. Full practice of the team which is to represent the Capital in the B. C. Lacrosse League will be held to-night, and all players are asked to turn out.

Ah, Jack! Where's Your Heart?

Turns Down Sweet Parisienne

Paris, May 9.—(By the Associated Press)—After conversation yesterday over the long distance telephone with Jack Kearns, his manager, Jack Dempsey decided to remain another day in Paris. He had intended to leave for London yesterday morning, but Kearns informed him that the terms for a return fight with Carpenter were still undecided.

Dempsey said yesterday he was tired and homesick and that he would make every effort to conclude a fight for New York on the Aquitania May 13, proceeding from New York to Los Angeles. "Europe is all right," Dempsey declared, "but it has nothing to equal California. I am getting lonesome for my old dad and my friends, and I won't remain in London any longer than is necessary."

Photographers Make Money.
The French boxing federation today presented the champion with a gold watch charm in token of its admiration for him. Dempsey spent most of the day answering an accumulation of letters and telegrams and requests for photographs. He already has presented more than 5,000 autographed photographs to French and other admirers.

Wednesday Cricket League Will Start

Matches Last Week Were Postponed on Account of Rain, So Clubs Will Meet in Initial Matches Tomorrow; Inclusion of St. Aidan's School Makes It Possible For Three Matches Each Week; Schedule Re-arranged.

During the past week the Wednesday Cricket League has expanded and now embraces six teams, which provides for three matches every week.

The Wednesday leaguers were to have started proceedings last week, but rain caused a postponement. Since then St. Aidan's School, led by F. A. Sparks, has applied for admission to the Wednesday League. The officials looked with favor upon the application, through the fact that a sixth team would prevent one eleven from remaining idle each week, and granted it.

St. Aidan's will consist mainly of schoolboys, but they have secured the services of one or two outside bowlers who will help to make the side of equal standard to the other clubs.

Weller's To Come Out.
Weller's, who are breaking into the game for the first time, are also making their debut to-morrow afternoon and will show the folks just what kind of a fist they can make at the Old Country game. Whatever sport this club has taken up in the past it has always made a success of it, and it is possible that they will be up around the top of the heap when the season comes to a close.

Weller's will be tested by the re-doubtable Garrison, which is reported to have a very strong side. Weller's are unrepentant over the advance notices or their opponents and hope for a rattling good game.

Youngsters Meet Broad Street.
St. Aidan's are drawn against Broad Street and they will settle their little argument at Beacon Hill. Broad Street had a rather smart eleven last year and report that their side of slightly better calibre this season.

The third match to-morrow afternoon will be between Spencer's and the Five C's and is scheduled for Oak Bay. The ability of these teams is not known this season, but they had well-balanced elevens last Summer and no doubt they will be as strong if not better than last year.

Owing to the fact that St. Aidan's have been admitted to the league the schedule has been altered. It is as follows:

May 10—Five C's v. Spencer's Oak Bay.
May 16—Garrison v. Weller's, Work Point Barracks.
May 19—Broad St. v. St. Aidan's, Beacon Hill.
May 21—Broad St. v. Five C's, Beacon Hill.
May 27—Spencer's v. Weller's, Jubilee Hospital.
May 27—Garrison v. St. Aidan's, Work Point.
May 31—Broad St. v. Weller's, Beacon Hill.
May 31—Garrison v. Spencer's, Work Point Barracks.
June 3—Five C's v. St. Aidan's, Oak Bay.
June 7—Five C's v. Weller's, Oak Bay.
June 7—Broad St. v. Garrison, Beacon Hill.
June 7—Spencer's v. St. Aidan's, Jubilee.
June 14—Broad St. v. Spencer's, Beacon Hill.
June 14—Five C's v. Garrison, Work Point.
June 14—St. Aidan's v. Weller's, Oak Bay.

SOOKE SCHOOL WINS NICHOLSON SHIELD

Deated Jordan River on Saturday Night in Exciting Game by 23-17

Jordan River, May 9.—Last Saturday saw the climax of the basketball season at Jordan River when the Sooke School team came down to meet the local school five in the final game for the Nicholson Shield. The game proved the most exciting yet staged between these teams and drew a large crowd of fans. Both teams showed up wonderfully well and what the River youngsters lacked in weight and height they made up in speed.

Sooke got away with an early lead and managed to keep ahead although the River team were dangerously close several times. The half time score was 12-9 in favor of Sooke. During the second half play was very even and the outcome always in doubt, while the final whistle saw Sooke on the long end of a 23-17 score.

Great credit is due Harry Lea, of Jordan River, and Tommy Wright, of Sooke, for the Nicholson Shield. The game proved the most exciting yet staged between these teams and drew a large crowd of fans. Both teams showed up wonderfully well and what the River youngsters lacked in weight and height they made up in speed.

The teams lined up as follows: Sooke School—Forwards, T. Barbour and Jean Nicholson; centre, R. Hudson; guards, I. Helsen and L. Helsen.

Jordan River School—Albert Walker and Helen Anderson; centre, C. Himm; forwards, Robert Walker and Gilbert Hunt; spare, Ruth Sorenson; referee, J. M. Elliott.

Following the game a supper and dance was held in the Social Hall. A feature of this part of the entertainment was the realization of $32 for Athletic Club funds by auctioning a cake donated by Mrs. Austin Kirby for this purpose.

ST. LOUIS IS STILL FAVORED FOR DERBY
London, May 9.—Latest betting on the Derby, the great classic for three-year-olds, held at Epsom on May 31, shows but little change in the standing of the leaders in the betting table. St. Louis retains the place of 4 to 1 against offered and $5 to 20 taken; Pondland is quoted at 100 to 1 against offered and 9 to 1 taken; Reschp at 100 to 11 offered and 19 to 1 taken; Capt. Cuttle 100 to 6 against; Scamp 100 to 6 offered; Tamar, 20 to 1 offered and taken; Bucks, Hussar, 20 to 1 offered and taken and wanted at these odds; Diligence offered at 23 to 1 and taken at 4 to 2; Harrou Al Raschid, 40 to 1 against and 15 to 1 offered and 50 to 1 against, taken and offered.

SET A COAST RECORD
Los Angeles, May 9.—Timothy Shafer, of Los Angeles, set what was said to be a singles record for the West here yesterday when he bowled a total of 703 in the seventh annual Pacific Coast Bowling Congress. His scores were 267, 215, and 221.—In the first game he made two spares and the nine strikes in a row. Beginning to-day contestants will be present from Portland and Hood River, Ore.

KEATING AUDIENCE ENJOYED CONCERT

Varied Programme Offered by Amateurs Was Pleasing

(Times Correspondence) Keating—Amateur theatricals and a concert were put on in the Temperance Hall, Keating, by a talented company of artists from Sidney under the leadership and guidance of Mrs. Dr. Beale, who was mainly responsible for the formation and tuition of the organization, which was formed as a side issue of the Parent-Teachers' Association of Sidney. The net proceeds went to the building fund of the Temperance Hall, the trustees of which are planning on putting up a very addition to the hall, where the United Farmers and the Women's Institute hold their meetings.

At the request of the trustees, P. N. Tester of Sidney presided as chairman.

The programme was as follows: Piano and violin duet by Mrs. Beale and Miss Wilkinson, of Patricia Bay; song, "Alice Blue Gown," by Miss Rosa Mathews; character sketch of a Port Said Jewish trader by Dr. Beale; comedy, "A Doctor's Engagement," by Mrs. Beale, Miss Pattee Semster, Miss Rosa Mathews and Mrs. E. F. Lesage; song, "The Bells of St. Mary," by Wesley Cowell; reading, "Jim—Blondie," by Dr. Beale; costume song, "Every Lass Loves a Sailor," by Miss Pattee Semster; "Three Old Maids of Lee," the Misses Watts; piano and violin duet, "Romance," by Mrs. Beale and Miss Wilkinson; song, "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling," Miss Rosa Mathews; farce, "That Brute Simons," by N. Fraleigh, William T. Patchell, Alfred Crutchley.

The thanks of the trustees of the hall and of the people of Keating generally were voiced by W. D. Mitchell to the Sidney artists who so kindly given their services that evening. Mr. Tester acknowledged on behalf, and at the request of Mrs. Beale and company, the thanks extended. A vote of thanks to the chairman of the Agricultural Society was received and accepted with the exception of the recommendation for change in the date of the Fall Fair, the consideration of which was adjourned for one week.

The report of the District Exhibit Committee was received and accepted. In their report they recommend that the prize money should be increased to prizes as follows: First prize, $50; second prize, $30, and third prize, $20.

Mr. Cheeke reported that the committee appointed to inquire into the possibility of the removal of the mound on the grounds had ascertained that this could not be done without such considerable expense that it would not warrant further steps being taken.

SALE OF WORK AND DANCE HELD

(Times Correspondence) Duncan—The W. A. of St. John's, Duncan, and St. Mary's, Soanona, gave a most enjoyable and profitable sale of work, tea, etc., on Saturday afternoon at St. John's Hall.

The following stalls were arranged by St. John's W. A.: Needlework Mrs. Neel, Mrs. Kirkham, Mrs. Warwick, cooked food, Mrs. Potts, Mrs. C. Dobson and Mrs. Miller; plants, Mrs. Fischer and Mrs. Gray; bric-a-brac, Mrs. Butt and Mrs. Fletcher; Mrs. Cresswell donated a beautiful azalea, which was raffled and won by Victor Dawson. St. Mary's W. A. provided the home produce stall, in charge of Mrs. Dunkley and Mrs. Moon; needlework, Mrs. Barrie, Ainslie Johnston and Miss Wilson; and the excellent tea managed by Mrs. H. Davie, Mrs. Parker and Mrs. G. V. Hopkins. The correct weight of the delectable looking cake donated by Mrs. Parker was guessed by Mrs. Ainslie Johnston.

The entertainment in the evening under the same auspices proved a great success also. The musical programme arranged by Miss Monk included songs by Mrs. Wade and A. Johnson, musical monologues by Mr. Grainger and violin solos by Mr. Purvey.

The delicious supper was supervised by Mrs. Fletcher and Mrs. Butt, who were assisted by Miss Monk's orchestra supplied the music for the dancing, which was kept up until a late hour.

CONCERT RAISES FUNDS FOR CHILD WELFARE WORK

(Times Correspondence) Metchison—Luxton Hall was well filled for the entertainment under the auspices of the Colwood, Luxton, and Happy Valley Women's Institute in aid of the Child Welfare and School Health work in the District, under the supervision of Miss Gaisley. Over 415 was netted and the rest will be used by the Institute to supply the articles for the Baby Basket to be used by the nurse in cases of emergency and the rest will be used chiefly in mental work among the school children.

The Victoria and District Amateur Concert Party gave a splendid programme at entirely their own expense, which was much appreciated by the large audience.

The programme consisted of selections from the orchestra, songs by Miss Muir, who delighted the audience with the rendering of "Beneath Thy Window" and "I Love You," a pianoforte solo by Miss Mardell, who also played the accompaniments in a very finished manner; a violin solo by J. Brinton and a violin duet by Messrs. Griffin and Birtles—a comic song by N. E. G.; guitar solos by Mr. Mars; sleight of hand tricks by W. Machin, and a monologue by N. Buckle, who as a female impersonator succeeded in completely deceiving his audience. The artists are all young and the talent displayed was very commendable and the orchestra with its young leader gave much pleasure.

Particular mention might be made of Miss Irene Carter, who shared with the convener, Mrs. Stockand, the responsibility and arrangements of the entertainment.

Home-made candies were on sale, and what did not sell at the stalls was ably auctioned by Mr. Burgess towards the end of the evening. Members and friends of the Institute had responded generously to the appeal for cakes and a very bounteous supper was served by Mrs. Baxter, Mrs. Hall and Mr. and Mrs. Stockand. The music for dancing was donated by Mrs. E. Shields and Mr. J. Goodell, of Colwood, and a hearty vote of thanks was moved at the request of the chairman, A. Hankin, to all who had so ably assisted in making the evening a success.

DISTRICT EXHIBIT PRIZES INCREASED

(Times Correspondence) Duncan—At a meeting of the directors of the Cowichan Agricultural Society, Captain R. E. Barkley, president, in the chair, the secretary reported the work of the committee appointed to meet the school trustees with regard to the agricultural education in the schools. The decision arrived at was that the Agricultural Society would take no steps to interfere in any way with that work during the present year.

Mr. Copeman reported on the situation with regard to the District Agricultural Representative.

The report of the Cattle Committee was received and accepted with the exception of the recommendation for change in the date of the Fall Fair, the consideration of which was adjourned for one week.

The report of the District Exhibit Committee was received and accepted. In their report they recommend that the prize money should be increased to prizes as follows: First prize, $50; second prize, $30, and third prize, $20.

Mr. Cheeke reported that the committee appointed to inquire into the possibility of the removal of the mound on the grounds had ascertained that this could not be done without such considerable expense that it

FORMER VICTORIAN RETURNS TO CANADA

Major-General Garnet Hughes on British Politics

Major-General Garnet Hughes, son of the late Sir Sam Hughes, and Commander of the Fifth Canadian Division in England, and formerly a resident of Victoria, arrived in Canada last week on the Empress of Scotland. It is his first visit since the death of his father.

General Hughes remarked that conditions in England are rapidly returning to normal, bank rates are reaching a pre-war basis, the cost of living is coming down, unemployment decreasing and financiers and manufacturers looking forward to a general business revival.

"England lives by her large export trade," he said, "and during the past few months there have been rapid gains made in this respect. As a consequence, business is becoming more active and general conditions are improving. Within the next few months this turn will have taken on a more decided aspect. There are no longer Bolshevik ravages here in London and every one seems more hopeful.

"The probability of a general election is becoming evident. Many people anticipate one soon. However, as I am not a politician, I cannot say. I believe that the trend of public opinion is that Lloyd George will be returned if the Government goes to the country. The people of England regard him as the only man for the job, and are ready to support him."

With regard to the new Canadian High Commissioner, Hon. P. C. Larkin, Mr. Hughes stated that he made a great impression on his first appearance in London and was very popular.

"TIZ" FOR TENDER, SORE, TIRED FEET

Ah! what relief. No more tired feet; no more burning, swollen, pain in corns, callouses or bunions. No matter what ails your feet or what under the sun you've tried, without getting relief, just use "TIZ." "TIZ" draws out the poisonous exudations which puff up the feet. "TIZ" is a magic i-c.

"TIZ" is grand. "TIZ" will cure your foot troubles so you'll never limp or draw your foot in pain. Your shoes won't seem tight and your feet will never, never hurt or get sore, swollen or tired.

Get a box at any drug or department store, and get relief for a few cents. (Advt.)

WILL TELL OF INCA CIVILIZATION

Series of Lectures on Ancient Peru by Rev. George Smith

Rev. Geo. Smith, of South America, who has had special facilities for studying this race, is concluding a tour of Canada and will be in Victoria for the next week or ten days. He has a beautiful series of colored lantern views which illustrate the old civilization, the present degeneration and the efforts being made for the preservation of the relics of the Inca people.

On Thursday next he will give his lecture to the Girls' Corner Club, and on Monday next to the Normal School at Mt. Tolmie. On Monday evening his first public lecture will be given in the Metropolitan lecture room, and will be repeated on Wednesday, May 17, at St. Andrew's Presbyterian on Thursday, 18, at the Church of Our Lord, and on Friday, 19, at Emmanuel Baptist. Besides these lectures Mr. Smith is announced to speak on Thursday next at Centennial Methodist, and the following Tuesday at James' Bay Methodist Church.

BASEBALL TEAM OF LADYSMITH PROMISES RESULTS

(Times Correspondence) Ladysmith—A dance was held in the Recreation Hall under the auspices of the Ladysmith Baseball Club. The attendance was somewhat small, owing to it being Saturday night and the younger element being abroad, never-the-less the club realized a gratifying amount.

Carl Landerbach, manager of the local baseball team for the ensuing year, promises great things for the fans this season. He has a very strong lineup behind him and can see no reason why the boys should not win the series again this season. The first game of the season was played in Cumberland on Sunday against the Cumberland City team, when the local lads made a very good showing. The game had to be called after four innings had been played owing to rain. The following was the line-up of the Ladysmith team: P. W. Boyd, C. C. Landerbach, 1st base, J. Lapsansky; 2nd base, M. Davis, S. F. Gibbons; 3rd base, M. Fagan, L. F. H. Mikota; c.f. C. Collee; r. f. F. Wargo.

The Ladysmith senior football team held a smoker in the Odd Fellows Hall, which proved to be a great success. J. Nimmo acted as chairman. Several vocal solos were rendered, the following contributing: J. Rogers, J. Nimmo, T. Strang, W. McGuire, W. Wright.

An accident occurred during the smoker when Mr. McGowan, who was trying to adjust an electric light fell off a chair and sustained a broken wrist.

PIMPLES ON FACE DIDN'T LIKE TO GO OUT

Those nasty little pimples that break out on the face and other parts of the body are simply indications that the blood is out of order and requires purifying.

There is only one way to get rid of this obnoxious skin trouble, and that is by giving the blood a thorough cleansing which can best be done by that reliable blood medicine, BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS.

and when the blood is purified the pimples will vanish and you will have a clear, healthy complexion.

Miss Mary E. Flanagan, R. R. No. 3, Stella, Ont., writes: "I suffered for about two years with pimples and blotches breaking out on my face. The doctor said it was caused by bad blood. My face was so bad I didn't like to go out among a crowd of people. One day I was talking to a friend, and she advised me to get a bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters and try it. I just took three bottles, and there was not a blotch or pimple of any kind left. Some of my friends asked me what I had used and said, 'Burdock Blood Bitters chased them.'"

B. B. B. has been on the market for years and has not been surpassed by any other purifying and blood-cleansing remedy.

LEARNING THE DEPTH

A naval recruit was hearing the lead.

"What water have you got?" asked the officer of the watch.

"There was no reply.

"Come out of that!" yelled the officer. "I'll show you how to heave the lead."

But just as he got the lead on the swing he fell overboard. At that moment the captain appeared.

"What soundings?" he asked.

"Dunno," said the recruit. "an officer has just gone overboard to see and hasn't come up yet."

CHILDREN MUST NOW HELP OLD PARENTS

New Law Enforces Filial Piety, and Several Cases Have Already Been Dealt With in Toronto.

BUT OLD WASTERS CAN NOT PREY ON CHILDREN

The One Willing Son or Daughter Will No Longer Have to Carry Entire Burden of Destitute Parents.

THE virtues are all gradually being reinforced by law. The time is approaching when faith, hope and charity shall not merely be recommended but commanded upon the people.

Filial piety, that most delicate and intimate virtue, is now a subject of regulation in the Toronto police court.

The Parents' Maintenance Act provides that children shall contribute to the support of their destitute parents. And in the past year, in the neighborhood of a hundred cases of neglect have been dealt with under this new legislation.

But it is one of those laws which operates more out of the courts than in them. The mere fact that there is such a law has in nine cases out of ten been enough to bring neglectful children to the rescue of old and penniless parents who were headed for the poor house.

"It is one of those laws," says Inspector David McKinney, of the "domestic relations" branch of the Toronto headquarters, "which is capable of being twisted out of all meaning if not enforced with the completest information."

Already several old men who have spent worthless lives of drunkenness and neglect, and whose children have succeeded in spite of such parents, are suing their children under this law. In most of these cases the children have cut adrift from the fathers years ago, and have quite reasonably had nothing to do with them. Now these old men, vagrants, are trying to invoke the law to force the children to provide enough cash per week to enable the old fellows to live in comfort in the declining years for which they made no provision.

"In these cases," says Inspector McKinney, "it is my opinion that the law should not act. Let these old wasters be cared for by the state. The state got its share of the money these old drunks spent on liquor, and in return for that money let the state take care of them in the destitution which is largely the result of liquor. Certainly, there are a number of people in this city, as the police records will show, who owe nothing to their parents. . . ."

Forces Family to Act

ON the other hand, there are a greater number of neglected old folks to whom the law is a great blessing.

There are, for instance, those who are neglected as the result of quarrels amongst the children as to who should look after the parents.

One family consisted of two sons and one daughter. Only the father, a helpless old man, was left. But a violent quarrel had been going on for years over the care of the old man. The daughter was childless, and the brothers argued that she should keep the old father. The daughter's husband rebelled. And as a result the father was homeless much of the time. In their mutual hate all affection for the old man vanished.

Finally the police, finding the homeless man, took a hand, ordered a family council to gather at the city hall, and rather than go into court on a charge of neglecting their aged father all three children agreed to contribute equally so much per week, a sum that allowed him to live in a comfortable home away from all his warring children.

The law is very useful in forcing responsibility in cases where one child undertakes all the burden, and can secure no assistance from

The Old Manse

by R. E. Knowles

THE old manse has now entirely disappeared, and already they are excavating preparatory to the use of the factory which is to take its place.

I spent last evening at the graveside of the only real home known to manhood's years. It was dark—and one sees best in the dark. Thus saw I, as I followed back along the trail of the friendly years; or, perhaps better, as I stood beneath one of the still surviving pines and reviewed the days that came, like an army about to be dissolved, and passed before memory's eye.

Again I saw that day of early spring, my thirtieth birthday, when I first entered the old house as my own. It was just after my induction. Some scores of such have I attended; and how often have remarked the difference between men and women when kirk and manse are taken over. Minister usually engrossed with induction services, forming acquaintance with elders and parishioners, laying plans for impending duty, testing acoustics of new place of worship, etc., while the homemaker seeks out one official only, known as the "chairman of property," demanding key and escort at his hands, with which, beautifully careless of protracted solemnities, she repairs with fast-beating heart to the scene of toil and duty not less important than the other. No man, I suppose, can worthily tell the emotion, at such an hour, of the feminine heart; the grinding of the lock, the first opening of the door, the very first entrance—last time there will also inevitably be—the emptiness and silence others. One very well-fixed family left the old mother to the care of a maiden sister. There were two brothers and one other sister, all married. But for years the unmarried sister had taken sole care of the mother, and as she grew older she found the burden increasingly heavy. All her efforts to secure from the others a small cash contribution to the mother's support were in vain.

Hearing of this new law, the sister invoked it, and frightened the wits out of the other children, who thought they would be up in court and their names in the papers. They quickly agreed to contribute a weekly amount to the old lady's support.

Out in the country districts this new law is also working well. For there are men who believe that since they have contributed taxes for the upkeep of the county poorhouse—all their lives it is only natural that the old folks should be sent there when they become old and useless. This may sound fanciful, but there was a case in point in western Ontario not long ago, where four men, all well-to-do farmers, placed their father and mother in the county poorhouse on precisely those grounds.

that almost smite one in the face, the echoing floors, the resounding stairs, the idiot windows dust-becovered, the swift and godlike flash of imagination that clothes these dead compartments, even while one gazes on them, with curtains and carpets and chairs and couches and fires and lights—and, above all, with the mystic equipment of lovelit faces, the matchless music of happy voices, children's the golden strain among them all, and all the finished glow and beauty of a house glorified into a home by the magic masonry of a woman's heart, the divine architecture of a woman's hand.

The first meal taken there vividly survives; not otherwise than holy, either, let the transcendentalists smile as they will. Veal cutlets, I recall—and a vast centrepiece of hlics, plucked with reckless hand from a profession that seemed, after long dwelling in a crowded city, utterly Elysian. Room scantily furnished, and floors echoing still, naked walls swelling the refrain—but there was a fire on the hearth, and this meal was to be the first of some tens of thousands, and the aureole of home was there. The name of the place, for one thing, was beautiful. "Manse," so superior to "Parsonage" or "Rectory" or "Vicarage," as our Presbyterian hearts declared—and "Knox," too, a great name, a kind of fortress name, as befitted this castle retreat.

Then came the blossoming days, the old frowning habitation coaxed and patted into smiles and beauty, at last resigning itself to the transformation and co-operating in its beedecked like a trembling bride. And at length, the first year gone, amid the glories of radiant June, came crown and halo to it all. No door opened, no window thrown up, no shadow cast, no threshold crossed—but a presence came, a new life seeking fellowship and love, faintly pleading with a little cry that it, too, might have a place.

As it did—coming through the years by way of door and window and threshold a thousand a father's heart. With golden curls it came, the sunlight following them within; sunbonnet, in later years, crowning all or hanging artfully in the rear—shrill staccato of joy, or, not less sweet, faltering plaint of hurt or disappointment or injustice; at playmates' hands; sometimes, too, with the first violets in the cup of a dimpled hand, and once a peeping birding that had fallen from its nest among the trees. Then, later, a birthday party swims before me. Fourth or fifth year, I think—and I see again the bespangled lawn, radiant with lights, though it was mid-afternoon, each child a star, little feet twinkling upon the grass, pretty dresses vying with leaf and flower, happy faces telling their joy without a word, swing rising and falling little feet are far on their rough journey now, and those sparkling eyes have learned the touch of tears that come to stay, and those happy hearts, most of them mother hearts, are beating their way as best they can through storms and amid terror-shrieks and rapture-cries, birds' and children's voices mingling beneath the trees, guests now and then enquiring of little hostesses as to propinquity of refreshments, little hostesses quite as frankly interested in this and all other perquisites of her hospitality as any of her guests. And now sundry rasping and sweating looms are to ply their hefarious industry where these happy hearts held carnival—and these times, the great procession never to grow dim in billows, which they never dreamed, that day in June, could make life's placid sea so rough. Strange, is it not, the exclusive path that memory elects to tread, refusing to forsake it, when one stands amid the holy night beside a long occupied but now disappearing home!

I tried to think, even did think in an ejaculatory way, of other and presumably greater things linked with the collection of rooms that we call a home. Of sundry and important conferences—such as when once or twice I was called to other fields of labor; of various disheveled pilgrims who had brought their tragedies and turned my only into a confessional; of teaching hours of work, and of the night that saw the first venture on literature's bright and vast and mocking sea; of divers great men entertained within those now devastated walls, names like those of MacLaren and Booth and Moody and McNeill and Bryan fitting for a moment before me, only to be crowded from the narrow hours of light, by the same faces, and by kindred faces, as that winsome one to which I have referred. I truly believe, if king or president were to write his memoirs—and if they would give the heart its way and really put first things first—that their experience would be the same, and the faces that would rise and smile above the weltering hosts of memory would be those of little children.

Such memories have the eternal right of way. Simple and commonplace let them be, they are yet the sweetest and sublimest—and, thank God, they are for all. A drive in the country, trilliums and ferns the trophies; a Sunday school fest where one little form, one pair of childish lips, thrilled you beyond the wont of orators; a throbbing family-worship before your first-born went away to school; a fevered face and a tiny tossing frame while you bended over and passed through your Gethsemane; a riot of joy on Christmas morning; a first letter, gloriously blotted and mis-spelled by a childish hand; a breathless watching for someone to dismount from a panting train and rush toward you with eager cry and arms outstretched; a deep and passionate joy through all the years that it was yours to guide and mould an immortal spirit that was part and portion of your own—all these, and not the hours of honor or success or gain, are the memories that claim and that receive the almost exclusive thought of a reminiscent heart.

An Honest Living

SOME people seem to feel keenly the disgrace of driving a popular priced car. Even taxi drivers are sensitive about it. One of them happened to meet an old friend from his home town, and after getting all the news he asked after his father.

"He's been feeling right puny the last few months," the friend said, "and his only comfort is the thought of how well you are doing in the city."

A shade of anxiety passed over the taxi driver's face.

"Don't tell the old man I'm driving this make of car," he said. "He thinks I'm earning my living as a piano player in a dive."—Cosmo-politan.

French Healer and a Blind English Soldier

Day by day,
In every way,
I am getting better and better.

THIS is the formula which M. Coue, the Frenchman, has been making his patients in England repeat.

"Auto-suggestion" is what Coue calls his method. He created a big stir while in England, but he ran into difficulties, especially at military hospitals.

He tried to cure some shell-shock cases, and in at least one instance a violent hysteria resulted.

On another evening he was treating some disabled ex-officers at Kitchener House, when one man cried out, "I am blind. Make me able to see. I have tried to make myself believe that I can see, but I can't. Now you try."

Coue endeavored to explain that there were limits to auto-suggestion, but the blind man would have none of them. He demanded a miracle, and the miracle did not happen.

Coue contends that every illness, whatever it may be, "can yield to auto-suggestion, daring and unlikely as my statement may seem; I do not say always does yield, but can yield, which is a different thing."

He says that in a conflict between the will and the imagination the latter always wins. He gives as an example "an attack of uncontrollable laughter which bursts out more violently the more one tries to control it."

Coue says he has had a number of astonishing cures in England. He says that a woman of forty-three came to him, suffering from violent pains in the head. He taught her to repeat "his formula about getting better, every morning and evening. She was cured not only of her headaches but of a more serious condition which she had not even mentioned to him.

U.S. Woman Member Says Women Too Incompetent

DO you think an additional number of women members of Congress would be helpful?"

This is a question asked of Miss Alice Robertson, only woman member of the U.S. Congress, by William Du Puy, of the Philadelphia Public Ledger.

"The prospects for more women members do not seem very good," she answered.

"You must remember that fifteen women ran for the House and Senate at the time I ran. I was an anti-suffragist and all the rest of them were suffragists. I was the only one elected. I have been told that my election was an accident. Maybe it was. Maybe I will not be re-elected. If there are other women in Congress possibly they, too, will be accidents."

"I don't believe you favor women members of Congress," the interviewer suggested.

"Frankly," she said, "where would you find women who are competent as legislators? I would not know where to turn for such women were I given the choice of nominating them. Women have not had the experience in these matters that would make them competent. I do not know whether or not they would be competent if they did have the experience."

"You were against woman suffrage," Du Puy suggested. "Are you still against it?"

"No," she said very emphatically. "The will of the people has been heard and that will is that women should have the vote. I am for their casting their votes to the best ends possible."

"But do you believe," he insisted, "that the time will come when women will be largely represented in Congress? Do you expect that, a hundred years from now, one-fourth of the membership of Congress will be made up of women?"

"I hope not," said Representative Alice Robertson. "Women in politics are so likely to be radical. Such unthinkable theories as those of birth control are so likely to be found running rampant among those women who are active in politics."

"There is just now a deplorable tendency among these aggressive women to refuse, in marriage, to assume the names of their husbands. These women are tending toward the destruction of the thing that is most sacred to their sex, their God-given opportunity for greatest usefulness."

"As they tend to take turns with their husbands in Congress they will probably insist that their husbands take turns with them in the bearing of children. Both are quite unnatural eventualities. I deplore woman's tendency to drift away from the home."

"One thing I will say about women," she asserted with assurance and one of her crinkliest twinkles, "they make the best of mothers."

"And these women who come to Congress in the future," the interviewer suggested, "is there any special recipe that you can give them by way of guidance in meeting their new tasks?"

"One thing I have always done," she said simply. "Whenever a situation has arisen that has baffled me I have always prayed over it. No woman, I think, could follow a better rule than to pray over her problems."

TO A CRUCIFIX

"O COURTEOUS Christ—Kind guest, most gracious host,
Which of these ugly things had pained you most
That silly priests repeat your words for gain
Or in your house hang symbols of your pain?"

"How had you withered at the servile breath
Spent in the praises of your common death,
Scorning these claims to honor and to pride
For such a death as multitudes have died."

"Not in the cross was such indignity
As these acclaiming Christian ages see,
When you who lived for cure and for relief,
Are most remembered for your wounds and grief."

BONES

by Don Marquis

THE pretty model tripped up the stairway

In the studio building
With a swish of silken skirts
And a glimmer of sheer silk hose . . .

She was followed by two long glances;
Mine was appreciative,
But, I trust, not too conspicuously appreciative.

The other lingering look
Was full of malevolence
And it proceeded from the eyes and soul
Of Mrs. Suds, who describes herself as a scrub-lady.

"Darn her," said Mrs. Suds, "her and them pretty legs of hers!"

"Mrs. Suds! Mrs. Suds! I protested. "Such language and such temper!"

"Pretty is as pretty does,"
Said Mrs. Suds, shaking her wet mop
At the empty stairway.

"She always goes by me like as if I was A garbage can, or something!"
An' some o' these fine days I'm a gonna plaster her on the mouth

With this here wet mop, I am!"
"That wouldn't be pretty," I suggested,
"Beauty ain't no more'n skin deep."

Continued Mrs. Suds,
"An' 'sometimes it ain't that deep even—
If I was to fetch her one right across the face
With this here wet mop

It wd smear a lot of her good looks off;
She paints herself morn'n these artists paint her."
"Come, come," I said, "has the lady ever really treated you badly?"

"Of course she has—
She walks by like I was a piece of rotten orange peel,

And I got to hear them silk clothes rustling—
She never said nothin' to me in words,
She's too mean and uppity for that.

But them duds of hers whisper to me what she's thinkin' when she goes switchin' by.
It's enough to make an honest woman
Throw down her mop an' take to a life of viciousness."

I had my doubts as to the success
Of Mrs. Suds in such a life,
But I said nothing calculated to wound her vanity.

"Beauty ain't no more'n skin deep!
Her bones ain't no prettier'n mine, they ain't!
I used to clean up in a medical college,
And I know what bones looks like!

If her skeleton was layin side by side with mine
On one of them stone tables,
An' the doctors an' the students was finishin' cleanin' the strings off'n 'em,

Her bones wouldn't be no more beautiful nor mine, they wouldn't!

An' I'd like to see her layin that way, I would!
If I was layin' that way beside of her,
I'd jiggle my bones an' dance 'em,
An' I'd say to her 'Whose bones is the beauti-fullest!"

We all comes down to bones in the end.
Her bones ain't prettier'n mine,
An' her soul ain't."

I considered Mrs. Suds in silence.
"Mrs. Suds," I said, finally,
"I shall not discuss your soul.

But with regard to your bones, you are mistaken.

Her bones are more beautiful than yours.
One of your shoulders is higher than the other,
And your left tibia seems to be deformed;
Your skeleton, Mrs. Suds, is wried and twisted by hard work.

I should judge you had rickets in your youth,
Possibly from under-nourishment.
You have pains in your knees from continual kneeling at your tasks,

And they are thickened and misshapen.
Not to go further into osseous details.
You must have a very ugly skeleton, as skeletons go, Mrs. Suds.

It is likely that your parents before you had ugly skeletons, Mrs. Suds,
And your descendants have ugly skeletons."

Mrs. Suds gazed long and bitterly
Up the dim stairway.
After a while she said:
"Then there ain't no God!"

"There is," said I, piously, "but humanity moves
In a mysterious way its wonders to perform."

Guess and Certainty

A CLERGYMAN who had been staying some time at the home of a friend, on going away called to him little Tommy and asked him what he should give him for a present.

Tommy, who had great respect for the "cloth," thought it was his duty to suggest something of a religious nature, so he answered hesitatingly, "I—I—think I should like a Testament, but I know I should like a pop-gun." —

THE RUNAWAY GOLDFISH

By BEATRICE PHIPPS

WITHIN the past year—and, mark you, it is true to this day—fishermen at the head of Lake Erie tell of finding in their nets, usually accompanying schools of carp, large and brilliantly hued goldfish.

While goldfish are not natives of this continent, records say that the Japanese government sent to the World's Fair, Chicago, a collection of its best goldfishes, few of which were lived. Most of them became diseased and were given to a clever fancier, who cured them and later sold one now known to the public as "The World's Fair Fish."

Perhaps these Lake Erie goldfish were descendants of this gold celebrity that with others was placed in captivity in the Ohio state hatchery on the Maumee river, for the saying is "Blood will tell," and certainly it must have been resentment at the indignity of being prisoners that caused a school of fantails in 1918 to copy the example of many of our criminals and break jail, so to speak—we imagine it was this way.

"My dears," said Ma Goldfish one day, "cluster 'bout me. Your cousins the carp in Lake Erie have sent us an invitation to visit them. 'Twas not of free will that our ancestors came from far off Korea to American captivity—to stay in one pond day by day for the vulgar gaze of the multitude. We shall accept the invitation. Now when your father and I give the signal—that is when you see us lower our dorsal fins—be ready to start. The attendants will think we're sick by this sign, but you will know better and must follow us at once."

And the little goldfish, at prospect of such an adventure, all backed up on their tails in a paroxysm of delight, waved their anal fins, bulged out their beady eyes, and signified their unusual willingness to obey.

'Twas by moonlight they made their escape. Pa Goldfish had discovered a mysterious exit, deep down in the hatchery, and with Ma Goldfish beside him trembling herself with excitement, the wee fishes followed their parents in a long gleaming line to the uttermost depths, then shot upward—out into the clear, broad river, and swimming close up beside their parents asked in goldfish language—"Where now Ma? Where now Pa?"

"Keep in between us, mind," they were warned, "for we have many enemies to avoid and must travel by night. In the day our beautiful red gold color would attract attention." Here Ma Goldfish flicked her tail rather proudly.

And so by night they traveled, and in the day time hid in the water weeds or swam over the Hyacinth plant of wondrous purple hue, and here it was that the mother goldfish left a myriad of lovely little amber-colored eggs. "When we return you will find thousands and thousands of brothers and sisters waiting to greet you," said she grandly.

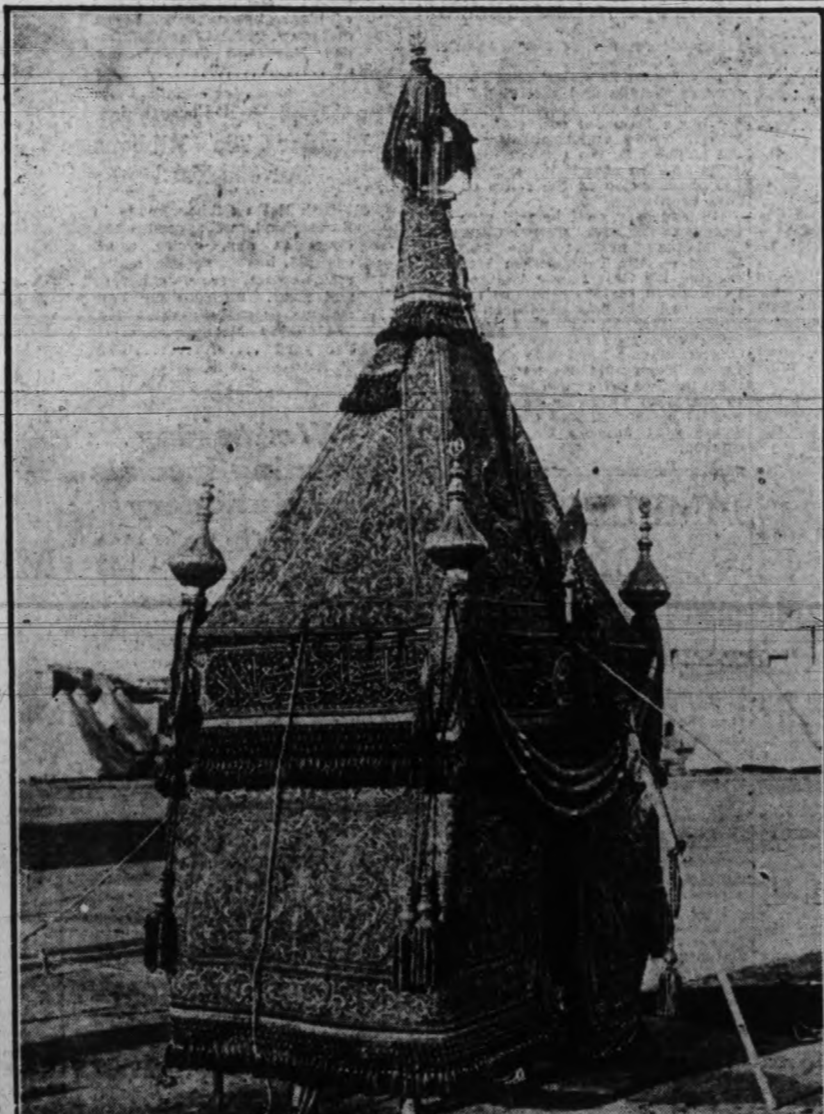

Finally, one day, they reached the khaki-colored water of Lake Erie where a multitude of their cousins—the carp—were waiting for them and with a hearty welcome begged these golden relatives to remain all winter.

And, so in this self-same Lake Erie, the fantails dwelt harmoniously with the carp for many a day and proceeded—so a Man Who Knows, said—to multiply, divide, add, subtract, solve problems in geometry and do all the other mathematical things in which goldfish indulge.

This year the runaways have wandered as far east as Long Point, and occasional members of the outlaw school, now grown up, have been netted by Long Point Bay fishermen who say that at first they thought they'd found a floating gold mine.

The fantails, who've survived, have thrived and flourished wonderfully in their new found freedom and increased in size and weight (compared with those left in the Maumee River), to the general contour and proportion of large rock bass, weighing a pound or more.

These goldfish are there now the fishermen say and odd ones caught frequently—and perhaps if they ever make up their minds to return to the Ohio hatchery, the thousands and thousands of little brothers and sisters awaiting them besides the purple hyacinth plant will be grown up and outlaws too.

Holy Carpet of the Prophet, Chief Sanctuary of Egyptian Fete.

THE religious fanaticism of the Mohammedans is given as one of the reasons of the present troubles of British India and Egypt. Next month is the Bairim, the big national fete, which began a short time before Ramadan and again continued 7 days thereafter. Big preparations are now going on in Egypt for the coming Bairim. The chief sanctuary is the holy carpet of the prophet, similar to the one in use at the Mecca, only much smaller, to which thousands of the faithful followers of Islam come and pray in front of. Photo shows the bold carpet in the big open space just outside Cairo. In the background can be seen the temporary erected tents to house the thousands of pilgrims.

IMPROVEMENT AND LAND LEVY HERE SET AT 32 MILLS

Council Votes Down Last-minute Attempt to Block Improvement Tax

Old Line-up Stands Solidly for New Levy Over Woodward's Protest

All land and one-third of all improvements in Victoria will be taxed this year at the rate of 32.06 mills, as a result of a decision reached by the City Council last night. The rate will be divided thus: For general purposes 11.95 mills. For debt 17.40 mills. For schools 9.40 mills. This heavy increase over last year's rate of 29 mills on land alone came as no surprise. It had been known for some time that the rate would exceed 32 mills on land and improvements and last night the Council added weight to its estimates. The total estimated expenditure for the year is $2,519,944.15 as against $2,290,888.92 in 1921.

Quash Woodward's Attempt. While Alderman Patrick, father of the improvement tax, was out of the room, Alderman F. S. Woodward, who has been fighting the levy foot by foot for months, launched a last-minute attempt to block it. He succeeded in moving that taxes should be levied only on land and reiterated his old arguments against the improvement tax. He pointed out that the tax question had not been an issue at the last civic election, and that a huge petition for a plebiscite on the question had been received. It was only right to refer the issue to the voters. The Mayor and he himself as chairman of the Finance Committee had advised against the tax, he observed.

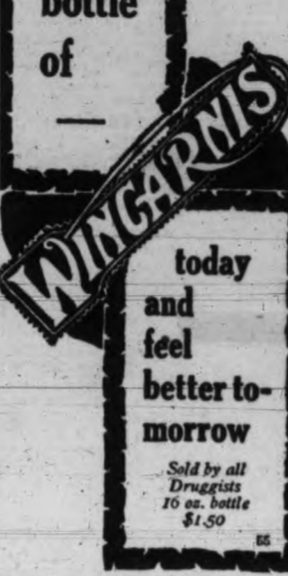

Just as the vote on this question was about to be taken, Alderman Patrick walked into the room, and voiced a vigorous defence of the improvement levy. "This is no hobby of mine," he said. "The fact is that we have got to have more money and we can't get it on vacant land—we can't take blood out of a stone or pants off a Highlander. I didn't try to influence any alderman to vote for this. Can the other side say the same?"

Alderman Patrick argued that the Council was quite consistent in voting for a Sunday closing plebiscite and in voting against the improvement tax. The Police Commission had advised against the tax, he observed. "It's a great joke—this question of the City's finances isn't it," remarked Alderman Patrick. "Well, yes, this is funny," the Mayor agreed.

Solomon Eclipsed. "Yes, if Solomon were here he would have to take a back seat and play second fiddle to some of the men here," Alderman Patrick retorted. "You have a wonderful appreciation of humor all right." The Woodward attempt to quash the improvement tax was rejected on the old vote.

For the improvement tax: Alderman Patrick, Leeming, Hayward, Todd, Gillespie and Perry. Against the tax: The Mayor and Aldermen Woodward, Dewar, Harvey and Andros.

SCHOOL CHILDREN GIVEN DIRTY MILK, COUNCIL WARNED

Aldermen to Press Fight for Better Milk Supply Here

Dirty milk is being supplied to the school children of Victoria by a local dairy, Alderman E. S. Woodward told the City Council last night after reports on the city's milk supply had been received from City Health Officer Dr. A. G. Price.

The Dr. O. M. Jones Chapter, L. O. E. of which supplies milk to the children has already been warned about the dirty milk which has been supplied by this dairy. "It's absolutely disgraceful that a dairy of standing in this city should supply three samples of dirty milk in one month," Alderman Woodward asserted.

The Council decided to take up with the School Board the matter of the milk supplied to children. It was decided to name a committee to continue the fight for the appointment of a Dominion analyst here so that it may be possible to prosecute vendors of dirty milk successfully. "I don't know what the result will be," Dr. Price said, "but I have been refused by the Federal Health Department which suggests that the services of the Vancouver analyst be engaged."

"Such a course is absolutely impracticable and would be so expensive as to be unwarranted when the old vote is the benefit derived," Dr. Price reported.

"I would recommend that your solicitor together with your health officer and committee look into the whole matter and make recommendations as to amending the city's milk by-law with a view to efficiently preventing the sale in the city of inferior milk," Dr. Price added.

"There is plenty of the best milk being supplied in the city but it is well known that some of the milk supplied to the consumer is milk which has been decreased in butterfat percentage by the addition of skim milk."

Alderman Todd, however, thought that the question should be properly thrashed out by the Council should know where it stood and whether the Mayor would allow the situation here to arise as a result of the administration of the Lord's Day Act, and I would like to see that the whole deal of sympathy with the majority members of the Police Commission. However, only a week ago and again to-night the aldermen have modified their desire to submit a plebiscite to the Mayor.

MAJOR REJECTS COUNCIL DEMAND FOR PLEBISCITE

Marchant Defies Nine Out of Ten Aldermen on Sunday Question

Aldermen Regarded as "Rubber Stamps," Patrick Protests

Majority Pleads in Vain for Referendum; Offer to Pay Costs

While three hundred eager spectators jammed into the Council Chamber and packing the corridors outside waited breathlessly for his answer, Mayor Marchant last night flatly rejected the City Council's request that he allow a Sunday closing plebiscite to be held here. Nothing shook the Mayor from his determination and the Council had to satisfy itself with his agreement to allow the Public Market Building to be used for holding a private, unofficial plebiscite.

It was a complete triumph for the Mayor but the Council, in revolt over his cancellation of the plebiscite set for May 12, had hoped for nothing better. As stated in yesterday's issue of The Times, the Council majority, after appealing to Attorney-General Manson for aid and having failed to secure that aid, had proceeded with this plan after it had been discovered that the Mayor's position could not be shaken.

Speaking for nine of his colleagues Alderman A. E. Todd officially asked the Mayor to allow the plebiscite to proceed, after the Mayor's request that the whole question be reconsidered had been turned down. Alderman Todd voiced no criticism of the Mayor's action in cancelling the plebiscite but other members were not so kind. "The aldermen are simply rubber stamps," Alderman Patrick protested in the course of a vigorous assault on the Mayor's action in turn cancelling the plebiscite without consulting the Council members.

"I don't know what plebiscite the Alderman has in mind," Alderman Woodward protested. "I don't know what is going to be one on Sunday closing."

"Why, you just voted for it!" Alderman Patrick replied.

the solicitor's advice, I can't see how you could have done otherwise."

"I don't criticize your action at all," Alderman Todd observed. "My idea of our vote to-night meant that the matter stood as it did at the last meeting," said Alderman Gillespie. "As far as criticism goes, I will criticize you before your face and not behind your back," he added pointedly. "As for the expense involved, the aldermen need not worry, as I am authorized by friends to say that they will take care of the expense."

Mayor's Reply. The Mayor usually talks from his chair, but this time he rose to answer his critics. "I voted for the plebiscite and there is no one more ready than I to submit all proper questions to the arbitration of public opinion," the Mayor commenced. "I believe that, speaking generally, we may be fairly guided on public questions by large expressions of public sentiment, but there are some questions that must be settled by a man's own judgment. For that reason a vote on this question might not necessarily alter my opinion or action, but a large preponderance of public opinion should be considered by anyone holding public office."

"However," the Mayor went on, "the concrete situation is this: The Council decided to submit a question that had been brought into prominence. I occurred in that, and then I was visited by an agent of the Lord's Day Alliance, who asserted that we could not legally submit this plebiscite. I used the strongest language in declaring that he was in error as I knew that a similar plebiscite had been held in 1909. But then the City Solicitor and other eminent counsel supported the view that the plebiscite would be illegal."

"If it had simply been a question of the money involved—$378 to be exact—I probably would have phoned to each alderman to ask him if he would run the risk of paying out this money, or his share of it, himself. But I knew that the question was broader—that its significance applied to all Canada, that the Lord's Day Alliance was watching the operation of the law everywhere and would act to prevent this fact and of the legal opinion I had carefully sought, I took the action of withdrawing the Council from any liability."

"I am asked if I will use any authority to submit the plebiscite to the voters. I will say simply that I will not. But I do say, and have said all along, that it is quite optional for any body of citizens to themselves submit such a vote to the voters. If this were done I would be glad to offer all facilities possible. But to use City machinery or City officials for this purpose would be to place the City in an invidious position which would certainly be attacked in the courts."

Received With Applause. Thundering applause from the crowd greeted Alderman Todd's remarks. The Mayor lifted his hand in protest, but he was powerless to stop the noise. "Before you answer that question, Mr. Mayor, you'd like to say that Alderman Todd has misinterpreted our vote to-night," Alderman Woodward interjected. "I looked upon the vote as meaning that the Council washed its hands of the whole matter. We decided to submit the plebiscite, but you, on the advice of the City Solicitor, have been compelled to cancel the arrangements. It is not for any alderman to criticize you for carrying out the Mayor's advice. I would have acted in the same way myself, although I regret that no plebiscite can be held. I voted just now to support your action. I am in favor of plebiscites any time and anywhere, but, in view of

REGISTER DISSENT WITH RUMORED PLANS

Saanich Trustees Want No More Promotions Without Examinations

Disturbed at reports that children may again be promoted to High School on the recommendation of the teachers without examinations, the Saanich School Board last night decided to write Superintendent S. J. Willis, of the Department of Education, and ask whether his letter advising that examinations would this year be compulsory is still effective.

The Board was unanimously opposed to recommendations, believing that all pupils should sit for examination.

Discussing the progress of Saanich pupils attending the Victoria High School, the Trustees remarked upon the reported plan of only allowing selected pupils to sit for examinations this Summer. It was noted that such a procedure would raise the percentage of passes, but was not approved of, as being unfair to the body of students as a whole.

Want Playground. The Trustees will urge upon the Saanich Council the advisability of securing a centrally located tract of at least five acres, for use as a public playground, where school athletic contests could be held. It was suggested that a small by-law, providing about $5,000 repayable in a short period of years, would receive general support by ratepayers, in view of the lack of such a sports centre in Saanich.

The Board granted permission to the Keating Women's Institute to improve a portion of the Keating school grounds, as a tennis court, for the use of the institute members. Trustee Hobbs met with agreement when he recommended "anything we can do to foster the get-together spirit should be done."

Trustee Hobbs was given authority to secure necessary arrangements upon the Cedar Hill school grounds, the Board being anxious to lessen the fire hazard to the school.

NOT GOLD MINE, PROTESTS COUNCIL

Esquimalt Body Asked for Donations from Six Quarters

No less than six requests for monetary assistance were received by the Esquimalt Council in session last evening. Of these two were selected for further deliberation, being a request from the Board of Trade for aid, and one from Dr. McCallum, medical health officer, in connection with school children.

The Victoria branch of the Y. W. C. A., the Victoria Day celebration committee, the local branch of the Navy League of Canada, and the Victoria and District School Sports Committee also tendered requests for funds, but no action was taken.

"Good heavens, do they think we are a gold mine?" observed Councilor Young as the sixth application was being read. After some discussion it was decided to deal with the two mentioned and to inform the others that the Council had only appropriated $1,000 for charities this year and that that sum was on only a pro-rated basis.

The Council learned that it would take $400 to move five telephone and light poles a few feet, from the centre of the municipal roadway, which they now occupy, back to the sidewalk. This worked out at $80 a pole, considered the Council, voting to go ahead with the work.

ESQUIMALT SEEKS PLACE IN VIEW OF INCOMING TOURIST

Board of Trade Wants Sign Erected at Macaulay Point

Explaining that the Esquimalt Board of Trade desired to bring industries to Esquimalt by every means possible, R. H. Pooley, M.P.P., President, and the Rev. Father Silver, a delegation from that body, waited on the municipal council of Esquimalt last evening with a request for information and aid, moral and monetary.

In a brief address to the Council the delegation asked permission to erect a sign board at Macaulay Point, which would strike the eye of the traveler on all incoming boats and point out the fact that "Esquimalt existed."

This request was further augmented that the Council supply the funds to put it into effect, thus combining moral and financial support in the worthy cause.

The final point was a request for information, wherein the Esquimalt Board of Trade wished to know how far the Council could and would go in the matter of granting concessions. In reply to this phase of the interview, Reeve Lockley pointed out that the Council had very wide powers, ranging from the granting of leases on tax free sites, to the free water and sewer privileges in some circumstances.

Assuring the delegation that its representations would receive the careful attention of the finance committee of the Council, that body tabled its request for further consideration by committee.

A counter-delegation was present from the Esquimalt Protective Property Owners' Association, which, headed by its president, Mrs. James Palmer, urged that no money be given to the Esquimalt Board of Trade. E. H. Anderson, M.P., E. Comerford and Mrs. Palmer spoke on this point, expressing the view that the Board of Trade should be "self-supporting" and holding that the Protective Property Owners' Association had not sought or needed outside funds.

Mr. Pooley at this stage suggested that the two bodies should come together in some workable agreement of harmony, and it was finally decided that notes would be exchanged.

CITY ASKS THAT TAX PENALTY BE KILLED

Want 8 Per Cent. Delinquency Charge Abolished

Efforts will be made by the City at its Fall session of the Legislature to have the present eight per cent. penalty for late tax payments abolished.

"It's a most iniquitous thing," Alderman Hayward told the City Council last night and the other aldermen agreed. "It's all wrong that a man's taxes should be increased eight per cent. because he is a day late in paying them," Alderman Hayward asserted.

"It gets the taxes in, though," said City Comptroller V. L. Raymur. Alderman Leeming suggested that the penalty could be abolished here this year if the City were sure it would be formally quashed by the Legislature in the Fall. He was advised, however, that this could not be done.

WHAT ADAM ESCAPED. Little Charles had just been chastised by his father for some misdemeanor. "Mother," he asked, after his walls had died down, "was Adam the first man?"

"Yes, dear." "Didn't he have any father?" "Of course not!" said Charles's mother, wondering what was coming next. "Well," said the little fellow, "he was lucky!"

CITY SEEKS LOWER INTEREST RATES

Thinks 6 Per Cent. For Bank Advances Is Too High

Six per cent is too high a rate for the money for money advances from its bank, the Bank of Montreal, the City Council agreed last night as it decided to try to get a lower interest rate.

"It's a scandal that we have to pay so much interest out here in the West," Alderman Gillespie protested when the annual Loan By-Law providing for a six per cent. interest rate, was read. "I know of a private firm that pays 6 per cent. for money—surely a city could do better than that."

"We have tried again and again and can't do it," said City Comptroller J. L. Raymur. "The question is, should we strike out independently—there are other banks that I know of Montreal?"

"Six per cent. appears pretty big. They give us only 4 per cent. for our money. The Bank of British North America gave us money at that rate."

In order that efforts may be made to cut the 6 per cent. interest rate, the Annual Loan By-Law was changed so that it now reads, "that the maximum interest rate shall be 6 per cent."

Daughter—"Oh, but men are so hideously lacking in self-control." Mother—"Don't get annoyed about it, dear. If they weren't, most girls would die old maids."
