RICHARDSONS HOME

PROMINENT TROPICO PEOPLE RETURN—OTHER NEIGHBORHOOD ITEMS

Sunday morning Mrs. Ella Richardson and sons, Paul and John Richardson, arrived from Boston, Mass. Mrs. Richardson and her four sons, Will, Bert, Paul and John, left Tropic over a year ago and after spending several months visiting in Panama, Cuba and throughout the eastern portion of the United States, went to Boston, where they resided until Mrs. Richardson and her two youngest sons, Paul and John, returned to their former home in Tropic. Will and Bert Richardson will continue their studies in Boston. Miss Eulalia Richardson, who has been traveling abroad the past 18 months, will remain in Boston until Christmas, when she will return to her home in Tropic. The many friends of Mrs. Richardson and her interesting family are pleased to welcome them upon their return to this city.

School has opened! Vacation closed and the boys and girls of Tropic assembled Monday morning at the various school buildings in the Tropic district and bidding farewell to a happy and restful vacation, began their school duties for another year. At the old school building or rather the school building on Cerritos avenue, between Brand boulevard and Glendale avenue, two hundred and seventy-three children were enrolled. Miss May Cornwell, supervisor of the recently erected Mari-posa school, reports thirty-one pupils enrolled. This is merely first and second grades, however. Mrs. Martha McClure of the Cerritos school and her efficient corps of fellow instructors will complete a thorough and systematic organization of the pupils and classes today, and the school will move along as though there had never been a vacation.

On Friday evening, Sept. 25, there will be given at the Tropic Presbyterian church in the social hall a musical program of unusual merit. The concert is under the auspices of Mrs. Klei's Sunday school class of young ladies to secure funds for the furnishing of their new Sunday school room. Following is the program: Violin solo, "Cavatina," G. S. Barnes; cornet solo, "The Rosary," Francis Moreno; vocal solo, selected, Ethel Lytle Boothe; clarinet solo, selected, Mrs. F. Moreno; Edison overture, "Rienze," ensemble; trio—violin, cornet and piano—G. S. Barnes, F. Moreno and Miss Boothe; Edison solo, "Good-Bye Sweet Day," Kate Vannah. Doors open at 7:30. Concert begins at 8 o'clock sharp. Admission for adults, 25 cents; for children under 12 years, 15 cents.

Mrs. M. Scott and daughter, Miss Nellie Scott of South Glendale avenue, left for San Diego Sunday morning, going by boat, where Mrs. Scott will spend the week as the guest of Mrs. William Smith, a former resident of Tropic. Miss Nellie Scott returned from San Diego Monday evening.

Samuel Berry of Los Angeles, a former resident of Tropic, was a visitor here Monday, visiting numerous friends.

ARREST GAMBLERS

There has been considerable activity in police circles in Glendale the past few days and the end is not yet. A raid was made on the rooming-house known as the Glendale hotel, corner of Third street and Glendale avenue, Saturday night, where some of the young sports were engaged in playing cards for money, with the result that eight arrests have been made and there is evidence against several others. The arrest of these young fellows led to the discovery of the ringleaders of the place and the affair promises to become sensational.

Of the eight arrests made, seven are out on $50 bail each, while the leader was compelled to give $150 bail. The officers are still making arrests. Games were also being conducted in a private house.

MASS MEETING

The first of a series of "dry" mass meetings will be held in Glendale Union high school Thursday evening, September 24, at 8 o'clock. The speaker will be S. W. Odell, president of the State Federation, and Attorney Frederick Baker of Glendale, a candidate for judge of the superior court.

The Federation chorus, a children's chorus and a male chorus will furnish music.

WHAT ABOUT BRIDGES?

UNITED ACTION OF PROPERTY OWNERS ALONG WASH NOW NEEDED

At the meeting of the board of trustees Monday evening there was mention made about needed repairs on the Verdugo wash, but not one word was said about the probable trouble that will be caused by the bridge posts and timbers at the P. E. tracks and Central avenue. A lack of big rains is the only chance property owners have of escaping great damage.

That the condition of these bridges will cause trouble is just as clear as can be to anyone who has observed just how they are constructed.

To talk about the bridges obstructing the channel of the wash will never remedy conditions. What is needed is united action by the property owners in the vicinity of the wash. It is the opinion of the editor of the Evening News that there is no railroad company, county officials or anyone living that has a legal right to block up a waterway, and by so doing change the course of the water and cause it to destroy property.

ANNIVERSARY NUMBER

As previously stated, the anniversary number of the Glendale Evening News will be circulated among our paid-in-advance subscribers on Thursday, Oct. 1. If your neighbor receives a copy of the special number on that date and you do not, it means either that you are not a subscriber for the Evening News, or that your subscription is in arrears.

It is the intention of the publisher that these special numbers go only into homes where they are wanted, and thus the ruling that only paid-in-advance subscribers are to receive the special number free of charge.

The price of the special number is 25c. A lady came into the office on Monday, threw down five dollars and said I want five dollars' worth of the anniversary number. Many others have ordered specials.

EXCITEMENT ON OAK STREET

Last Friday about noon Mrs. Percy Curtis of 1415 Oak street, while engaged at her house work, detected an unusual odor and upon glancing out of her back door discovered the weeds on fire in one of several lots which were surrounded on three sides by small and larger houses, garages, etc.

It being an unusually hot day, there being but little pressure of water under such circumstances and most of the men folks at work, Mrs. Curtis quickly concluded that trouble was impending, and noticing that the water was simply trickling from the hose which several neighbors had brought into service in a vain endeavor to extinguish the flames, sprang to the phone and called "fire."

It seemed but a few seconds when our next justice of the peace, Harry Miller, came tearing down Oak street on his "1915" motorcycle. "Is this the fire?" exclaimed Harry. (Evidently he expected to find a home in flames.) "No!" shouted the irrefragable kid; don't you know an inventor lives in that shack? We've heard something buzzing in there nights for years. He's just got her going out here; it's a new scheme for making ice with hot air, see?" In the meantime our magnificent chemical arrived, the fire was kept under control until all further danger of a similar experience in that location this year was out of the question. Prior to the arrival of the fire fighters, Mrs. Curtis, not being able to make any headway at extinguishing the flames with a pokers and broom which happened to be the nearest weapons available, rushed into the house, exhausted herself in an endeavor to remove a piano weighing about one ton, then threw all of her cut glass ware out of the window and was just emerging from the house with a small gas stove under one arm and one of Mr. Curtis' old straw hats under the other as the firemen arrived.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS

CALIFORNIA OPINIONS

WAR MEASURE.

Seizing two Turkish battleships in process of construction at English shipyards by the British government may be justified as a war measure, but what kind of a measure is the refusal to pay for them?—San Luis Obispo Telegram.

BLOW AT PERSONAL LIBERTY.

President Wilson might win everlasting fame by putting a war tax on old bachelors along with other luxuries.—Alhambra Advocate.

CHANCE FOR REFORM.

If the Democrats would devote as much time and study to the consideration of economy in government affairs as they do to methods of raising more money by taxation they would truly serve their country.—Santa Barbara.

REMOVE THE STRIPES.

California's prison directors have decreed that prison stripes shall no longer garb convicts in Folsom prison. We should suppose by that action they have marvelously ministered to the self respect of every inmate of that prison.—San Bernardino Sun.

TAX PROPERTY.

Any movement that shifts taxation from the earnings of the laborer and the poor to property is in the line of progressive progress. Another step will be to saddle taxation entirely upon the land, and exempt all personal property for not only schools, but all purposes. Even the poor will pay their share in rents.—San Pedro Pilot.

SPEND MONEY AT HOME.

To keep the home money at home, to encourage its expenditure at home and in various ways to encourage patronage of home institutions should be the aim of all public-spirited citizens and municipal officers.—Santa Monica Outlook.

LET US HOPE.

Again, we predict that the result of the present war in Europe must and will be disarmament of the nations, saving, perhaps, for small land and naval forces for police duty alone.—San Bernardino Index.

FACTORIES NEEDED.

Today the great need of California is factories. Our state is rich in raw materials necessary to promote great factory industries and we must employ our utmost efforts to induce their construction and operation. So let us build the factory first and all other things which are conducive to the prosperity of California will be added unto us.—Humboldt Standard.

END OF "DIVINE RIGHT."

The fall of Germany would mean the end of the "divine right of kings"—and there is a growing belief that the quicker that is ended the better for all the world.—San Diego Union.

IMPORTANT DISCOVERY.

But it is perfectly possible to earn a good living, and be useful, popular, or successful, and yet to know practically nothing about geography.—Santa Ana Register.

SHOULD KNOW BETTER.

To pay a fine in a Pasadena court for leaving a camp fire burning in the Arroyo Seco, a Los Angeles man named Brown had to pawn his wife's wedding ring during their honeymoon. Such unhappy consequences could be avoided if people would merely use a few grains of ordinary horse sense. In this day even a school boy ought to know enough to put out a camp fire.—Riverside Press.

MR. WILHITE RECOVERING

Mr. L. G. Wilhite, who conducts the Fairbanks apartments, Fourth and Beaudry, Los Angeles, who for a number of years resided in Glendale and who about a year ago had his back broken by being struck by an automobile, has so far recovered that he is now able to hold down the position of gate keeper for the Pacific Electric at Sixth and Los Angeles streets.

Mrs. Wilhite was in the employ of the Pacific Electric as conductor when the accident occurred and was confined in the hospital and home many months as a result. He hopes for ultimate recovery, but his progress is infinitely slow.

He is loud in his praise of the treatment accorded him by the corporation, they having shown him every possible consideration during his illness and at his present occupation.

Mr. Wilhite's smile, which never wavers off, can be seen any day by those who could not spare the time while he was in the hospital.

OPINIONS IN GENERAL

THERE ARE OTHERS.

The kaiser offers a fervent prayer to divine providence for the protection of his boys at the front. From the standpoint of his dynasty it is important that heirs to the throne be preserved; but it will be hard to convince those peasant fathers and mothers who, too, are tearfully praying, that royalty has any more right to divine protection than their own boys on the battle line.—Baltimore American.

WISE CHINAMEN.

Of course the Japanese violated the neutrality of China. But the Chinese, being no kin to the Belgians, haven't made any to-do over it.—Galveston News.

ONE-MAN POWER

We do not believe that kings should have so much to say about making war. And for a system of government which vests that degree of control over the destinies of a nation and the happiness of a people in the hands of one man we have an inborn distrust and dislike.—New York Times.

SOME SLUMP.

If it is true as the railroad men have assured the president that American railroad securities held abroad will reach the very large total of $4,000,000,000, it is not at all difficult to understand the slump that will come when these securities are thrown on the American market, as they will be if this war lasts beyond the present campaign.—Des Moines Register and Leader.

WHERE ARE THEY?

For several years it has been complained that there were from year to year fewer boys studying for the ministry, and to this disquieting fact now is added the statement that a decrease in the number of medical students is noted. Where are all the boys? Are they turning to motion picture actors, scenario writers and managers at nickel theaters?—Waterloo (Ia.) Courier.

NORTH GLENDALE

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Parsonage of 829 Lincoln place returned last week from San Diego, where they enjoyed several days' vacation and were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. A delightful afternoon was enjoyed by the following guests: Mrs. Hugh Blue, Mrs. Frank Thomas, Mrs. Cooper, Mrs. Laurence Williams and Mrs. Gerold Blue, all of North Glendale.

WILL PAVE THE ALLEY

RESIDENTS OF BLOCK TWO WILL FURTHER IMPROVE BEAUTIFUL SECTION

A unique organization was effected Monday evening at the home of J. F. Lilly on Louise street by the residents of block two of the Livingston tract. This particular block is bounded by First and Second streets and by Louise and Kenwood streets. Many improvement associations have been formed from time to time to look after comparatively large sections of a city, but this is the first one locally that has been started to cover only a city block.

A permanent organization was completed with the following officers: Mrs. Rebecca L. Lacy, president; Mrs. Salo Desky, vice-president; Thomas Ogg, treasurer, and J. F. Lilly, secretary.

One of the first undertakings of the new organization will be to pave the alley that runs through the block. A preliminary canvass resulted in securing the consent of every property owner in the block. The work will be started at once under the supervision of the city engineering department.

Further efforts looking to the beautifying of this already handsome section of the city will be continued by the association. It is believed that the example of this block will be followed by other sections of the city, and that other civic societies will take up the work, as some have already done. The new organization is known as the Pioneer Improvement association.

ANNUAL FIELD DAY

The Presbyterian church and Sabbath school held their field day at Griffith park Saturday, September 19. The day was perfect, over two hundred enjoyed the occasion at this beautiful place, surrounded by trees and hills, and many entered into the various sports, ball games, tugs-of-war, running, etc., while the wild animals in captivity were as usual a source of amusement to the children and grown ups. Eight long tables were set with all kinds of good things, which proved a great attraction during the noon hour.

In the afternoon some men from the First Methodist church came over and managed to carry off the victor's palm in a game of volley ball played with a team of men from the Presbyterian church, and it was near sun set when the large gathering left the grounds in private autos and auto trucks, declaring they had enjoyed the day. All ages were represented, from one to eighty.

The following day was Rally day at the appearance of the Sabbath school with its attendance of 303 that organization is in a pretty healthy condition. The Sabbath school orchestra furnished some fine selections, both in the main room and in the primary department.

MEET TO PERFECT PLANS

The civic and philanthropic committees of the Tuesday Afternoon Club were guests Saturday afternoon in the home of Mrs. John G. Hunchberger, 344 South Central avenue, to which place they were bidden to perfect plans for the fiesta to be given next month by the club. Red and green flowers and fern predominated and at the close of a very successful meeting of arrangements, iced punch and Scotch wafers were served by Mrs. Hunchberger and two daughters, Miss Evangeline and little Virginia Hunchberger.

Members of the two committees present were Mrs. Frank Grosvenor, chairman of civics, and her committee: Mrs. M. P. Harrison, Mrs. Glenwood Jones, Mrs. Frank Muhleman, Mrs. W. E. Edmonds, Mrs. Scott W. Johnson, Mrs. Arthur Brown, Mrs. P. A. Kranz, Mrs. Sara Pitcher, Miss Ruth Byram, Mrs. L. W. Sinclair, chairman of the philanthropic committee, and her co-workers, who are Mrs. P. S. McNutt, Mrs. Robert Morris, Mrs. A. D. McCoy, Mrs. Henry Ward and Mrs. D. W. Hunt.

A PRIZE COYOTE

While hunting up near Monte Vista on Sunday, Robert Goudie, Jr., shot a seventy-pound coyote. The young hunter is going to have the skin made into a rug.

PLAN FOR THE FIESTA

CHAIRMEN OF COMMITTEES ARE GUESTS OF CLUB PRESIDENT, MRS. MATTISON B. JONES

The chairmen of the various committees of the Tuesday Afternoon club were delightfully entertained at luncheon Monday of this week by the club president, Mrs. Mattison B. Jones, 106 Orange street, and during the courses, plans were completed for the fiesta which is to be given by the club next month at La Ramada.

The true Spanish colors were prettily carried out in cascade effects by the use of red and yellow cannas, these, together with tiny sprays of orange blossoms at the individual plates, having centered the table about which the guests were seated.

It was decided at Monday's gathering that Mrs. Frank Grosvenor and Mrs. L. W. Sinclair should take charge of the ice cream and homemade cake.

Mrs. H. H. Martin will serve the sandwiches, coffee and tamales; Mrs. H. L. Clotworthy and Mrs. E. D. Yard will have the cornucopias; Mrs. Helen I. Campbell, the candy booth; Mesdames Freeman Kelley, P. S. McNutt, R. E. Chase and Charles E. Hutchinson in charge of the punch-bowls; Mrs. R. W. Meeker, with her usual force of clever soothsayers, will again have the fortune telling booths, and Mrs. Charles Homer Temple will have the fishpond, which will be in the nature of a butterfly catch. All these ladies will be ably assisted by members of their committees, the names of which will be divulged later.

Those invited to Monday's function were: Mesdames E. H. Willisford, Freeman Kelley, A. W. Tower, Frank Grosvenor, R. E. Chase, Chas. E. Hutchinson, P. S. McNutt, Charles H. Temple, Helen Campbell, H. H. Martin, L. W. Sinclair, E. D. Yard, H. L. Clotworthy, Daniel Campbell, and Miss Alice Frank, all of whom, when the luncheon hour was over, journeyed forth to La Ramada with their president and picked their chosen spot for their various booths, etc.

MUSIC A TREAT

All accompaniments at the entertainment given under the auspices of the Baraca-Philthea classes of the Central Christian church at the Masonic temple Saturday night was furnished by Mrs. John R. Barrows, of local fame and generosity. Mrs. Barrows, who in reality is a regular "old reliable," as it were, has been both piano accompanist and soloist at countless affairs here in the valley and has always merited great praise, not only in her accomplishments and goodness in answer to the call for aid, but also in her willingness to please, in which she never fails.

MEN'S CLUB, ATTENTION

There will be a regular business meeting of the Men's Club of St. Mark's church tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock sharp. The president desires all members of the club to be present, so that plans may be made for the coming fall and winter months. A chess club will be formed and work done. All committees should have their reports ready.

DR. YOUNG RETURNS

Dr. and Mrs. T. C. Young of 112 North Kenwood street returned on Monday morning from a delightful 18-day automobile camping trip that included Mono lake, Lake Tahoe, Sacramento, San Francisco and various other points both going and coming, the latter trip having been made by way of the valley route. Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Hall of 1221 West Fifth street accompanied Dr. and Mrs. Young on this wonderful trip, which had a full share of hunting, fishing and a jolly good time.

FAMILY REUNION

Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Bayley of 1450 West Seventh street entertained Saturday last with a family reunion and dinner in honor of the birthdays of their two sons, Dr. A. J. Bayley of Los Angeles and Mr. Edgar A. Bayley of this city. The following guests were present: Dr. and Mrs. Walter A. Bayley and family, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar A. Bayley and daughter, Dr. A. J. Bayley, Hon. E. C. Cooper, Mr. F. P. Cooper, Miss Mabel Bayley, Miss Jeanne Knapp and the host and hostess.

PRACTICE CAMPAIGN SONGS

Members of the Dry Federation chorus met at the high school Monday night for practice. There was a goodly number in attendance and much good work was accomplished. This chorus promises to be an important factor in the coming campaign. Mrs. Franklin is in charge.

COLORADO DOCTORS MAY ADVERTISE

The Colorado State Board of Medical Examiners recently revoked a Denver physician's license to practice because he advertised in the daily papers. The supreme court of that state has now revoked the decision of the examiners by asserting that a doctor may properly advertise provided there is nothing obscene or objectionable in his advertising.

A paper must circulate in the family if it is going to be a paying proposition to the advertiser. The home is where the advertisement is laid upon the table for discussion; in the home the family council is always in session; bargains and advertised articles are discussed and arrangements made with the family exchequer.

A new advertising slogan is "Learn how much America can do for you." Like most other lessons, it bids fair to be learned under compulsion.

DRY FEDERATION CHORUS

The Dry Federation chorus, which met for the first time at the high school Monday evening, was represented by between fifty and sixty men and women who will be directed by Mrs. Coral Harrison Sloan and accompanied by Mrs. Paul Butterfield for concert work during the Dry Federation meetings and lectures to be held and given at the high school on the evenings of September 24th, October 1st, October 22nd and November 2nd. Among other strangers present will be Dr. James McLaren, the dramatic orator of California.

The committee in charge of the banquet is H. C. Seaman, Jr., J. H. Smith, F. H. Davis, J. W. Ingledue, O. C. Logan and L. W. Bosserman.

WOMAN'S FRANCHISE AND MILITARISM

Miss Woolley, president of Mt. Holyoke college, in an article dealing with the present European conflict, says that "the old argument that women should have no voice in government, because they could not bear arms to defend it, will give place to the new argument that they should have a voice, because their united voices will be for peace." The recent parade in New York city, in which women of all nationalities took part, she cites as indicating the solidarity of womanhood in its repudiation of war as a mode of settling national disputes. There is nothing in the past or present record of woman indicating that she is lacking in a legitimate national patriotism or a willingness to endure loss for country. Equally clear is the fact, to which Miss Woolley calls attention, that woman, if permitted, will use her civic influence in favor of peace. The same aspects of her nature that have led her to use the vote in hostility to community factors working against the common weal will prompt her to be the foe of militarism. She will vote for senators who are friendly to national policies based on international good will. She will help elect or re-elect presidents who are conservative and constructive in their enforced or voluntary efforts to compose differences with neighboring states. If she is the subject of a monarchy she will be likely to use both personal influence and vote in support of legislators whose attitude toward the throne will be one of special commendation for pacific acts and for obstacles placed in the way of national strife.

Contemplating this phase of the suffrage question advocates or critics of war may be somewhat influenced accordingly. Interests that profit pecuniarily by militarism have selfish reasons for opposing woman's acquisition of franchise rights. She cannot be counted on to favor campaigns for "glory's" sake. She has not the man's appetite or "earth hunger." Her preferences are for the amities and not the repulsions of human intercourse. She would rather pay taxes for schools and recreation centers than for forts and armament. If duty calls her to side with right against might in strife of arms she obeys superbly and proudly gives her kinsmen to become warriors; but she comes forth from all such strife with conscience and reason more than ever aligned on the side of the peace and good will that rest on justice. Consequently her increasing civic power makes for just conditions since she sees that they make for peace.

AMERICAN FEDERATION OF LABOR

The American Federation of Labor is in favor of fixing the maximum number of hours of work for children, minors and women. It does not favor a legal limitation of the work-day for adult men workers. The unions have very largely established the shorter work day by their own initiative, power and influence; they have done it for themselves. The American Federation of Labor is opposed to limiting, by legal statutory authority the hours of work for men in private industries. The American Federation of Labor has apprehensions as to the wisdom of placing in the hands of the government additional powers which may be used to the detriment of the working people. It particularly opposes this policy when the things can be done by the workmen themselves. It is in favor of a uniform shorter work day and would encourage and help affiliated organizations to secure it by collective bargaining and other methods employed by labor unions.

SAMUEL GOMPERS.

BIG RETURNS FROM NEWSPAPER COPY
It is reported that a western dealer of the Saxon Motor company placed an announcement costing $70 in his local paper, telling of the arrival of the Saxon car in his city. A flood of inquiries followed, by telephone, letter and in person, and total sales in four days amounted to $69,145, a return of $1,326.50 for every dollar invested in advertising.

THE EIGHT-HOUR DAY

The question of the eight-hour day is only another phase of the same old struggle of the ones that work that they may live.

Everyone knows who is at all conversant with conditions around that there are far more who are dependent upon labor for a means of livelihood than there is work to do. Every source of reaction and oppression is arrayed against the eight-hour and Sunday rest days, the same as it has been against the struggle for liberty and human rights in the centuries gone by.

The eight-hour day would give many more an opportunity to work who are now suffering for food and shelter, and it would seem that every one who has any conception of humanity would get in line on this issue.

The conditions of the workers today are in some respects more acute than at any time in years gone by, for there are no new and distant lands to go to, so the man or woman who labors must accept what is given him, which is just enough to provide for their own existence while actively employed. The time was when the man who labors could support a wife and family. That day is fast passing and when it comes to saving for a rainy day, no man who labors hopes to save unless his wife and children go out to work.

There is much said today of the Golden Rule. Here is a chance to apply it in a practical way. The church has taken up the subject of a "dry" state, but I have seen men walk the streets with their feet on the snow when half sick or going without food of any kind for days, who never spent one cent for liquor, tobacco or vice in any form, all because there was no work to do. Is it not time when everyone who dares to call himself Christian shall get in line and support any measure, small as it may be, that will extend the possibility of living to our more unfortunate brothers and sisters, who are constantly crowding us down to their own condition.

GREATER APPRECIATION OF REAL STATECRAFT

It is pleasant to find that the United States is awakening to the realization of its recent narrow escape from complications that had almost drawn it into armed conflict with a neighboring nation; it is pleasanter still that accompanying this awakening is a sincere appreciation of the statesmanship displayed in Washington during the Mexican crisis. "Think what America missed," remarks the Omaha World-Herald, evidently after giving the matter serious consideration, and then it recalls the loud clamoring of a war party for immediate invasion of Mexico, the invectives hurled against the administration because of its refusal to be influenced by the excitement of the hour. "Had the administration given the order 'On to Mexico!'" that publication says, "this country's people would be reaching deep in their pockets to pay the cost of military waste; this country's international relations would be a tangled skein."

It would be a hard matter, perhaps, to state the case more effectively and at the same time more conservatively. If the war party had had its way, at the very least the United States today apparently would be removed from the sphere of international influence; at most it probably would be an impotent observer of conditions which, at the first opportunity, it is now in a position to improve.

This is leaving unsaid all that would have to be written along sadder lines. Had the war sentiment prevailed against genuine patriotism and true statesmanship the United States would in all probability be involved today in a conflict relatively as costly as that across the Atlantic ocean. "But," to quote the World-Herald, which may in this case be regarded as reflecting the sentiment of the great mass of the American people of all sections, "praise God, this misfortune has not come. The United States is at peace with all the world; the administration policy is upheld."

A simple statement, yet eloquent and impressive in its acknowledgment of a great fact.

FASHION DESIGNING IN THE UNITED STATES

To what extent will fashion designers in the United States supersede those of the nations temporarily driven partly or wholly from this field of effort? There appears to be no doubt entertained in any quarter as to the presence in America of the inventive genius, the taste and the skill necessary to the development of high skill in fashion making. It is already proved, we believe, that the designers of the United States are as competent as any in the world in the production of work along original lines. But a serious weakness, nevertheless, is attributed to them—a national weakness, it is claimed. That is, they are charged with permitting commercialism to influence if not to dominate their accomplishments. Instead of aiming wholly and constantly toward excellence, they are led, it is broadly hinted, to seek an output of quantity rather than of quality.

It is not contended, of course, that the model designers of Paris, London, Berlin or Vienna are so closely wedded to art as to be oblivious of the commercial side of their occupation. What is meant, rather, is that while the designers of Europe approach their task largely from the artistic point of view the American designer is prone to approach it from the commercial. The change that is deemed to be requisite, if American designers would win and hold a high or a leading place in the field of original fashion-making, seems obvious. It is believed to be simply that they must reverse their method, striving first to produce that which is excellent and trusting to achieve commercial success on the basis of excellence.

It is understood by the mercantile interests concerned that the designing of next year's models will be left to the United States. With this responsibility and opportunity will come a test of much moment. American designers, and more important still, those who employ them, apparently will have it in their hands to place the western nation, probably for all time, at least on a plane with England, France, Germany, Austria and other European countries in this respect. American inventive genius has asserted itself and won a place for itself in other fields; why cannot it achieve world recognition in this line? In the opinion of many thoughtful observers it can do so, providing it shall aim toward artistic completeness in all its work, leaving to the work itself the task of finding its way into commercial recognition and success.

DICTIONARY DEFECT

A business concern, after running its own trade organ for some time, decided that it must have a printing department under its own supervision, because it found that "the ordinary printing office is not properly equipped to get out large quantities of special matter on short notice in an up-to-date manner and at an 'equonomical' cost." Soon after one partner turned to the other and inquired "Do you speak 'e-q-u-e' or 'e-q-u-i' in 'equinomial'?" "I am not sure," said the other. "Look in the dictionary." After some search the first said, with pained surprise, "Taint here." The second came to help him, but had no better success. Then they stared at each other in astonishment, till one exclaimed: "Well, what do you think of a man that would get up a big dictionary like that and not put in such a common word as 'equinomial'?"—Exchange.

"Do you like Beethoven's works?" she asked.

"I never visited them," he replied, with a show of interest. "What does he manufacture?"—Sacred Heart Review.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

A new way to clean porcelain bathtubs is by putting a little coarse salt into the dampened tub and then rubbing it briskly with a rag wet with turpentine.

Rice as a remover of iron rust is not to be excelled. It not only bleaches the recent stain, but even that of long standing. Boil a cupful of rice in two quarts of water for over 30 minutes. Let it stand over night and strain through a cheesecloth. Soak the iron rust spots in the rice water for four or five hours and then rinse in clear water. This will effectually remove rust stains, no matter how old.

If when baking layer cakes, etc., you have a place too small for another pan, place a can with ends melted off in the space and set the extra pan on it. The heat will reach the baking article just the same.

To prevent the skin from discoloring after a fall or blow, take a little dry starch, moisten it with cold water and lay it on the injured part.

To clean glass bottles, put a little vinegar and salt into the bottle, allow to stand for two hours, and then rinse out in clear warm water.

If a tablespoonful of vinegar is placed in the saucepan just before straining the potatoes this will take all blackness out and make them white and floury.

Some people place a small bag of unslaked lime inside the piano to keep the damp away. This prevents the wires from rusting and keeps the piano in good condition.

To remove paint from a dress take a camel-hair brush, dip the point of it in turpentine, and just damp the parts that are stained. Let garment dry and then rub briskly, when the paint will fall off in the dust. If it does not all come off repeat the operation.

When damp days come and the salt does not pour readily from the cellar, try putting a few lumps of starch into it, keeping them as large as you can. The starch gathers the moisture to itself, and if the piece is always kept in the cellar the salt will flow freely the year round.

In washing anything blue put a handful of salt into the water; green, a lump of alum; gray or brown, a little ox gall; tan or linen goods, a little hay water; reds and pinks, use a little vinegar.

If your blue serge suit wears shiny renovate it in the following way: Make a very strong blue water, sponge the material with it, allow to dry slightly, spread on an ironing board, cover with a piece of muslin and press with hot iron.

Best way to open fruit jar is to invert the top of jar into hot water, taking care that the water is not deep enough to touch the glass. The principle is to expand the metal top, then open as usual. A minute or two is sufficient.

Diamonds can be cleaned with pure aqua ammonia. Dip absorbent cotton or a tiny piece of gauze in the ammonia and rub the diamond with it.

Plaster statues can be cleaned by making an ordinary cooked starch, as if for the laundry, only not quite so stiff. While it is still hot, cover the whole of the cast with it; set aside for a day or so and then peel off the starch. If the statue is badly soiled, it may need a second application.

When drawing threads for hemstitching, wet a small brush, rub it over the bar of ivory soap until a lather is produced, then scrub the threads that you wish to draw. You will be pleased to see how easily they can be pulled out without breaking.

To clean silver put the silver in a pan and pour sour milk over it, leaving it about an hour. Take it out, rinse in boiling water and wipe. The sour milk will get into every crack and crevice. Silver cleaned this way does not tarnish too soon. Even if one has to buy sour milk, the cost is no more than that of buying silver polish.

When ironing a blouse with buttons on it, it is often found difficult to iron the material round the buttons. Try this hint and save time: Take a rough towel folded several times, lay the buttons face downward on it and iron over the backs. The buttons sink into the soft towel and the material is quickly made perfectly smooth.

Linings for clothes baskets insure the clothes being kept clean. These linings are of unbleached muslin, just the shape of the basket, and tied into place with tapes.

SAYS FEVER GERMS LIVE FORTY YEARS

Ralph Ogburn, youngest son of J. D. Ogburn of Inwood, was stricken a few days ago with scarlet fever which he contracted while helping tear down the old farm house the Ogburn family occupied in earlier days, J. D. Ogburn being then a boy.

Nearly forty years ago every child in the Ogburn family came down with scarlet fever, which swept through this section and with few exceptions robbed every home of one or more of its children. A little daughter in the Ogburn house died of the malady. A few years afterward the old house was deserted, the family moving into a new residence on another part of the farm.

Recently it was decided to tear down the old house. Ralph Ogburn helped with the work until he became ill. When a physician was summoned he pronounced the sickness scarlet fever.

It is believed that the disease developed from germs still existing in the long-infected house, for there had been no other opportunity for the boy to have been exposed to scarlet fever.

HOT SLAW

Shred a small head of cabbage very fine. Put a tablespoonful of butter in the bottom of the kettle and add the cabbage with a very little water. Cook about 30 minutes, then put in one pint of thick sour cream and boil about five minutes. Add a teaspoon of sour vinegar into which have been put pepper, sugar, salt and a pinch of mustard. Let come to a boil, then take up immediately.

Patronize the home merchant. Let him have the volume of business and he will be able to compete with anybody, anywhere.

MEET FOREIGN COMPETITION NOW

When Frederick the Great, in 1756, declared war against Austria, the effects were felt by peoples who had never heard the name of Prussia. There is a famous quotation from Macaulay which tells of the uprising of the Tartar Tribes, and the Redskins scalping one another by the shores of the Great Lakes, all in consequence of the upheaval in far-off Europe. In those days civilization was much less closely knit than is the case today, yet the effects of the local struggle over the province of Silesia were felt around the world.

It is not strange, then, that the present European conflict, of vastly greater proportions and with greater empires at stake, should necessitate some quick changes of policy on the part of American business men. Fortunately the inhabitants of this continent are no longer bent on scalping one another, and their energies will rather be directed along the lines of invention and adaptation. With our European commerce crippled we have the best chance in our history to discover the real extent of our resources.

We have been depending upon Europe for many things; just how many we did not fully realize until the supply was threatened. Some of those things we never produce ourselves, while others we never have produced simply because it was easier to import them from Europe. Whether in the long run it was also cheaper we do not know, because we have never had the opportunity to give their production a fair trial.

Take the manufacture of dyestuffs as a single example. Coal tar, the residue by-product of gas and coke plants, is the basis of most of the dyes we have been importing from Germany. There is plenty of the by-product turned out in this country. In fact Germany has been getting some of it here, and the rest has pretty largely gone to waste. There is no special blame attaching to that fact. If Germany can make aniline dyes cheaper than we can, we ought to devote our energies to something more profitable.

But now the time arrives when we face a shortage of dye stuffs, with German competition temporarily removed. Leading chemists assert that we can secure all the necessary materials in this country, and that our scientific equipment is quite equal to the task of making dyes as good as Germany's. The war has given us a chance to find out whether it is really economy to buy our dyes abroad and let our coal tar go to waste. And so with many other products. If it be true that the supply has stopped it is also true that competition has stopped with it. If we are ever going to find out whether or not we can afford to compete with foreign makers, now is the time, while the foreign makers are otherwise engaged. That there are risks cannot be gainsaid, but probably there will never be a time when the experiment can be made more safely.—Printer's Ink.

MEAT SUBSTITUTE

One cup rice, six bananas, one-half cup sugar, one-half teaspoon salt, one tablespoon butter, one tablespoon currant jelly, one teaspoon cornstarch.

Wash, boil and blanch the rice as usual, place on warm platter and dust with one teaspoon salt. Scrape and split the bananas, brush shallow pan with butter, put the bananas cut side down, sprinkle with one tablespoon sugar and one teaspoon salt, place in hot oven twenty minutes or bake until light brown; remove with cake turner and place evenly on the boiled rice, pour over the currant sauce. Put one cup water on to boil, mix one teaspoon cornstarch with cold water, add the boiling water, add three tablespoons sugar and the currant jelly or any other jelly, boil three minutes and pour over the dish. This makes a good meat substitute.

SALADS

Probably no detail of the French menu is so important to us as the salad. Very few American families know what an invaluable delicacy a genuine French salad, with a dressing of good olive oil and pure, fragrant vinegar, is—invaluable because of its effect on digestion and health.

There is very little nourishment in salad leaves until the oil has been added, and the oil is what many of us need, according to doctors who deplore the insufficiency of fat in the average American's diet.

It is excluded therefrom for the very good reason that the average American finds it difficult to digest.

But it is right there that the salad comes to the rescue.

The vinegar in it, if genuine, excites by its fragrance and acidity the digestive glands not only in the mouth and stomach, but in the pancreas, which acts on all constituents of food, particularly the fats.

There would be vastly less intestinal indigestion in this country if every family followed the French custom of eating salad at least once a day.

QUEEN OF PUDDINGS

One pint of bread crumbs, one quart of milk, yolks of four eggs, sugar and salt to taste. Flavor with lemon. Bake 20 minutes. When cold add thin layer of jelly and frost the top with the four whites and one cupful of sugar. Brown in oven.

PATRIOTISM

Sir Robert Walpole, making a famous speech in the House of Commons, declared contemptuously that he could grow patriots like mushrooms in a night. He was of course alluding to the political patriot, even to a specific political group. Nevertheless the robust common sense of the man brushed aside the reverence which hedges about the word, and challenged the windy sentiment with which it is so commonly inflated. The rude materialism of the Norfolk squire reeked nothing of the metaphysical analysis of which his words were capable. But he did see the logical material outcome of them. "They are ringing their bells," he said shortly, when the city steeples from Bow to St. Clements were clashing out their patriotic joy for war declared, "they will be wringing their hands soon." How often had the Walpole of the hour been justified? Was not the joyous shout "A Berlin!" followed by the scream "Nous sommes trahis!"

True patriotism is obviously incapable of betraying any one. It is fearless, but it is none the less wise, and it is certainly instinct with love. It must do the will of "my Father which is in heaven"; in other words it must be in strict conformity to divine Principle. When, in the crowd, the news was brought to Jesus that his mother and his brethren stood without, he demanded who these were. And he answered his own question with that tremendous pronouncement, which certainly brought not peace but a sword to the petty, human conception of Love, "Whoever shall do the will of my Father which is in heaven, the same is my brother, and sister, and mother." That saying was the scientific statement of the brotherhood of man, the divine charter of the federation of the world. Acted on it had meant the immediate overthrow of the riders on the black and red and pale horses by the rider on the white. But, as Mrs. Eddy writes on page 410 of Science and Health, "Mankind objects to making this teaching practical."

What is the most practical thing known to man? Manifestly the most metaphysical because it is the nearest to Truth. That is the secret of the multiplication table. Humanity rebels against the fierce mental discipline of metaphysics, and recoils on the relative ignorance summed up in physics, and so struggles to perpetuate its own sorrows. The true patriot, then, is the man who would rescue his country from this ignorance, who would teach it to attain that vision of the Christ which will surround it with those bulwarks not made with hands, which served Dothan when its walls were of no account, and enabled Elisha to say "Fear not; for they that be with us are more than they that be with them."

Fear ultimately, and so metaphysically, is the belief that there is life in matter, and that this life can be taken. That is the fear which mastered Elisha's servant in Dothan. It was Jesus' love, his metaphysical understanding that Life was spiritual and indestructible that enabled him to cast out fear at Nain in Bethany and on Calvary, by his perfect love, his knowledge of the fact that life is spiritual and never material. That is surely why he declared "Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends." Now the word here translated life is the Greek word elsewhere translated soul. And in the Bible, soul, every reader of the Old and New Testament should know, and every reader of Science and Health must know, means the mere animal instinct of life in matter, common to the worm as the man. What then Jesus meant by the greater love was the effort of the individual to divorce himself from his own sensuality by striving to think spiritually or metaphysically instead of materially or physically.

The nation, it is a truism to observe, is a conglomeration of individuals. The true thinking which benefits the individual must logically benefit the nation. The patriot consequently, regarded metaphysically, that is practically, is not the man immersed in ringing the city bells, that is to say, in duties which are making matter real to him. It is the man who has come out and is separate, who realizes in the hour of doubt, of danger and of desolation, what Jesus meant when he said "Be of good cheer, I have overcome the world."

MRS. BUSCH REMAINS ABROAD

Declaring that her place is by the side of her daughter, Mrs. Edward Scharrer, whose husband is a lieutenant in the German army, Mrs. Lily Busch, wife of the late Pasadena millionaire, Adolphus Busch, refuses to return to America.

She telegraphed her granddaughter here, Mrs. F. L. Berg, saying that she would not leave Germany and wanted to remain in the war zone by the side of her daughter, formerly Wilhelmina Busch, a Pasadena woman whose husband is fighting for his native country.

Mrs. Busch is at her German estate, Lily Villa, and it was from there that the message was sent. When the war first broke out funds were telegraphed her from St. Louis to insure her safe return.

However, her decision to remain abroad was unable to be broken by any member of her party, and the others who went to Europe with her will return to the United States.

NOT PAID FOR RESTING

A well-known theatrical manager, more famous, if possible, for the "breaks" he has made than for his many successes, attending the rehearsals of one of his plays, noticed that a man in the orchestra who had to play the trombone was holding the instrument in front of him and doing nothing.

Mr. Stetson at once called him to account. "Say," said he, "what do you mean by not working along with the other fellows?"

"Why Mr. Stetson," said the musician, "I can't play; I have nineteen bars rest!"

"Not on your life!" replied the angry manager. "I don't pay anyone for resting. Either you play when the other fellows do or you clear out. See?"

BOILED FRUIT CAKE

Two cupfuls of flour, one cupful of raisins, one cupful of currants, one cupful of water, half cupful of lard, one cupful of sugar, one teaspoonful of cinnamon, one teaspoonful of soda, one-fourth teaspoonful of salt. Flavor with lemon extract. This cake is called boiled fruit cake, because you boil together all the ingredients except the flour, soda and extract. Put everything together in an agateware saucepan and bring to a boil. Let it boil a few minutes, take off, and when lukewarm sift in flour and soda, mix well and add flavoring. Bake about one hour in a moderate oven. This makes a two and one-half pound loaf and is really very good. The recipe calls for no egg and no butter and the cake is therefore quite inexpensive.

A clever sign for the doorway would be a neat letter strip across the full width of the glass. The incoming customer would read: "Step in—Glad to see you!"

And when going out he should read the other side: "Thank you—Come again."—Exchange.

NEW COMMANDMENTS

1. Thou shalt not wait for something to turn up, but thou shalt pull off thy coat and go to work that thou mayest prosper in thy affairs and make the word "failure" spell "success."

2. Thou shalt not be content to go about thy business looking like a loafer for thou shouldstest know thy personal appearance is better than a letter of recommendation.

3. Thou shalt not try to make excuses, nor shalt thou say to those who chide thee, "I didn't think."

4. Thou shalt not wait to be told what thou shalt do, nor in what manner thou shalt do it, for thus may thy days be long in the job which fortune hath given thee.

5. Thou shalt not fail to maintain thine own integrity, nor shalt thou be guilty of anything that will lessen thy good respect for thyself.

6. Thou shalt not covet the other fellow's job, nor his salary, nor the position that he hath gained by his own hard labor.

7. Thou shalt not fail to live within thy income, nor shalt thou contract any debts when thou canst not see thy way clear to pay them.

8. Thou shalt not be afraid to blow thine own horn, for he who faileth to blow his own horn at the proper occasion findeth nobody standing ready to blow it for him.

9. Thou shalt not hesitate to say "no" when thou meanest "no" nor shalt thou fail to remember that there are times when it is unsafe to bind thyself by a nasty judgment.

10. Thou shalt give every man a square deal. This is the last and great commandment, and there is no other like unto it. Upon this commandment hang all the laws and profits of the business world.
