DEDICATION

To those who realized that Truth is the only medium thru which man may grasp that finer significance of life, and that genuine progress is made, not thru the instruction of the few, but thru the enlightenment of the many; who saw that man's life could only reach its ultimate by satisfying that deep craving and thirst for knowledge; and thereby incorporated into a Great Institution the principles of Equality, Industry, and Truth, the influence of which is pulsating thruout the veins of a State and Nation, we reverently dedicate this volume of the Yackety Yack, as a token of our appreciation to the people of the State.

Foreword

IN the construction of this Seventeenth Volume of the Yackety Yack, we have striven to give it that twofold purpose for which we think such a publication should exist. We have endeavored to unfold before the student-body a clear and comprehensive record of the collegiate year, and at the same time represent, to those who are interested, a compendium of our college life.

It is our sincere hope that this book will be truly representative of Carolina life, and will stimulate a deeper interest among the people of the State in the spirit of their University, that they may better realize the great mission of service which the institution is rendering both to State and Nation, and come into closer contact with the molding influence of the future destiny of our State.

To the student-body, may the book furnish in after life a memoir of their alma mater, and bring back reminiscences of the many pleasant days spent in dear old Chapel Hill.

THE UNIVERSITY AND THE STATE

IN THE name of the creative genius of this institution, the Father of the University, the youth of this academy of learning, facing with clear-eyed consciousness the great task and privilege of responsible citizenship to which they are so soon to be called, dedicate this true record of their student-life to the State of North Carolina.

The fathers of the commonwealth, in the very founding of the University, categorically declared its object to be: "The Great Cause of Humanity." William Richardson Davie, fine flower of our soil and life, avowed that the object of the University was "to form citizens capable of comprehending, improving, and defending the principles of government; citizens who from the highest possible impulse, a just sense of their own and the general happiness, would be induced to practice the duties of social morality." In this high sense is this volume, the record of the life of the youth of the commonwealth, dedicated to the State which gave them this rich and ample opportunity of realizing here the meaning of education in a democracy—the preparation of citizens for the practice of the duties of social morality.

Today the University of North Carolina, refusing longer to remain cloistral in its remoteness from the radiant central activities of civic responsibility and public service, gladly goes forth into the familiar avenues of the people, responsive to the vital needs of a new age, and vibrant in sympathy with its just tasks. One common purpose animates its spirit, from president to aspiring pupil—to make live and live more abundantly in the daily walks of common life, the essence, the soul of the larger culture and humane instincts of the race. This university soul finds its true expression in ministry to the intellectual wants and the spiritual needs of the great masses of a democratic people. Viewed in the grand perspective of enduring culture, the university of the new era can no longer rest content to educate the individual mind alone. Its clear destiny is to educate, to illumine the popular mind—to raise the standards of living itself to the highest level of enlightened social consciousness.

The heart of the youth of this University burns with the conviction that the light which illumines today his alma mater has been kept aflame thru the years by the fuel of service, of patience, of struggle, of grim hardship, and unhesitating self-sacrifice. Today the greater University rallies on all fronts and along all battle lines in the mighty conflict with the grim, sluggish forces of crass ignorance, of benighted isolation, and of blind provinciality.

MAGNETS MAGNET

This volume is dedicated to North Carolina—in love and devotion and the will to serve. For to the student here North Carolina stands as the evolving symbol of American democracy, giving to each individual the opportunity of fair, free development, reposing just faith in mankind, and daring to believe in the final justice of the race. Bred in him this youth shares the consciousness of resourceful strength and stern self-reliance inherited from a breed of men who came hither to tame nature and to master the recalcitrant wilderness. In his veins he feels the legacy from a century of pioneers—the indomitable passion for successful self-expression, for efficiency, and for creative achievement. Shorn indeed of a great measure of distinction and greatness would be this nation if bereft of the pioneering genius of a Boone, the love of liberty of a Hooper, the prophetic insight of a Davie, the legal acumen of an Iredell, the granite conservatism of a Macon, the flaming patriotism of a Jackson, the clamant Americanism of a Benton. From this early time until now have welled up out of North Carolina streams of creative contribution which have helped to make the nation, the Republic, what it is—the inflexible spirit which knows no compromise, the passionate belief in liberty and democracy, and the unchanging faith in the worth and dignity of average humanity.

Today, in this era of supreme responsibility, when the State shares so preponderantly in the control of our national and international destiny, this volume is dedicated to North Carolina—by the students of the true State University to the true American democratic commonwealth, whose greatness is unthinkable without her University, and whose ideal is unattainable save thru prevision and wisdom in the building of a richer and humaner civilization.

OUR PRESIDENTS

BY KEMP PLUMMER BATTLE, Ex-President University of North Carolina

FROM the opening of the University in 1795, to 1804, the chief officer was called the Presiding Professor. I sketch them in the order of their incumbency. First, Rev. David Ker, D. D., once a Presbyterian minister located at Fayetteville. His style was "Professor of Humanity." He served until July, 1796. His resignation was demanded by the Trustees because he embraced the infidel opinion, then fashionable. After leaving Chapel Hill, he studied law, and thru the influence of Governor Stone was appointed by President Jefferson District Judge of the Territory of Mississippi. Dr. Ker was born in North Ireland, 1758, and educated at Trinity College, Dublin. He died in 1805. His descendants stand high in Mississippi.

The next Presiding Professor was Charles Wilson Harris, a native of Cabarrus County, elected Professor of Mathematics in the summer of 1796. He was an excellent man. He resigned at the close of the year, and practised law in Halifax with marked success. He was a victim of tuberculosis, and after a voyage to the West Indies, seeking health, died in Sneedsboro, January 15, 1804. He was educated at Princeton University, then College. He was elected a Trustee of the University in 1800, and was a member of the Visiting Committee. He never married, but his brother Robert left worthy descendants. His uncle, Charles Harris, M. D., had a flourishing medical school, and the doctor's son, William Shakespeare Harris, was very highly esteemed.

Joseph Caldwell was the next Presiding Professor. He will be described hereafter.

Then came James Smiley Gillaspie, often spelled Gillespie, in the place of Caldwell, who resigned. He was from the village of Martinsville, which took the place of the old Guildford Courthouse. His first year was fairly successful, but in 1799 many students rebelled against his authority, even laid violent hands on him. On his resignation, Caldwell was induced to accept the office a second time.

Mr. Gillaspie became a Presbyterian minister, and settled on land of the Transylvania Colony, of Kentucky. He married Fanny, daughter of

DR. KEMP P. BATTLE

Samuel Henderson, a brother of Judge Richard Henderson. Her mother was Elizabeth Calloway, who with her sister and Daniel Boone's daughter were the three girls captured by the Indians, and rescued by Boone and others.

Presiding Professor Joseph Caldwell continued to hold his office until 1804, when on motion of William Gaston, afterwards Judge of the Supreme Court of this State, the office of President was created, and he was unanimously chosen. He was born 1773, in Lamington, N. J.; son of Joseph Caldwell, M. D. His mother was left a widow two days after the birth of her son, but being able and energetic she gave him a superior education. He graduated at Princeton at the age of nineteen. He was a tutor in his alma mater in 1795, pursuing theological studies in his leisure hours. The next year he was, on the recommendation of Professor Harris, elected Professor of Mathematics in the University of North Carolina. He gained high reputation as a scholar and administrator. In 1799, he delivered an able address on George Washington, which was published in pamphlet form, as was his sermon at the funeral of Prof. Samuel A. Holmes. He published a series of letters, under the nom de plume of Carlton, advocating public education. He was employed in 1813 as an expert in locating the boundary line between North and South Carolina. In 1812, he resigned the Presidency, in order to devote himself to mathematics. He published a book on Geometry.

In December, 1812, the Trustees elected as President, Rev. Robert Hett Chapman, a Presbyterian preacher of New York. He was a good man, and his sermons were highly approved, but the war fever was among the students, and he was a Federalist. He had a troublesome Presidency. There was in the Chapel open rebellion against his authority. In 1816, he resigned his office. He returned to the work of the ministry, having charges in Virginia and Kentucky. In 1816, on Dr. Chapman's resignation, Dr. Caldwell was recalled to the Presidency by a unanimous vote of the Trustees. In 1824, he went on a tour to Europe, the Trustees allowing him to spend six thousand dollars for an astronomical clock and telescope, a transit, and books. In 1831, he erected the first astronomical observatory connected with a university or college in the United States. After his death, the building, being abandoned, was soon burned.

Dr. Caldwell became a Presbyterian minister before coming to North Carolina. His sermons were strong, but unadorned. He died January 27, 1835. His body rests at the back of his monument, by the side of his wife, Helon Hogg, widow of William Hooper, son of the Signer of the Declaration of Independence, and of her son, Rev. Dr. Wm. Hooper, once a Professor in this University.

In 1841, the County of Caldwell was named in his honor.

Dr. Elisha Mitchell was Chairman of the Faculty from 1835 to 1836. He was Professor of Mathematics in the University from 1817 to 1826, and then Professor of Chemistry, Mineralogy, and Geology, until his death on Mount Mitchell, in 1857. He was born in Washington, Conn., in 1793, and graduated at Yale. He wrote many papers on scientific subjects, and a book on the geology of North Carolina.

David Lowry Swain was born January 4, 1801, and was elected President in 1835. He was a native of Buncombe County, and hence was called by the students "Old Bunk." He was educated at the classical school of Rev. George Newton, of Asheville; entered the Sophomore Class of the University of North Carolina, but remained only four months on account of the sickness of his father. He was Representative in the Legislature five times, beginning in 1824. In 1829, he was chosen Solicitor of the Edenton Circuit, but was transferred to the Superior Court, as Judge. He was elected Governor three consecutive years, beginning 1833. He was Delegate to the Constitutional Convention of 1835. He was President of the University from January 1, 1836, to July, 1868. The University was prosperous under his administration until its ruin by the disastrous War between the States. The sale of the Revolutionary land warrants, donated by the State, gave it an endowment of one hundred and fifty thousand dollars, and the railroad system enabled students to journey to Chapel Hill from distant points.

President Swain showed wonderful pluck in keeping the University open during the war. But the reconstructed State Government, in 1868, ejected the Trustees and Faculty. President Swain did not live to see the failure of the new management. He died August 29, 1868. He was a man of uncommon kindness of disposition, popular manners, and strong intellect. He had a wide knowledge of our State history, and of the biographies of public men.

The new Trustees elected as President, Solomon Pool, of Elizabeth City. He was a second-honor graduate of this University in 1853, was Tutor of Mathematics until 1861, then made Assistant Professor. In 1866, he was Deputy Appraiser under the United States Revenue Service. He was a man of ability, but, as the University had no income, and the Alumni generally were hostile to the new organization, success was impossible. After a year's trial, the doors were closed. He became a Methodist minister after his election as President, and stood high in his church, receiving the degree of D. D.

DR. FRANCIS P. VENABLE

In 1874, in pursuance of a Constitutional amendment, the General Assembly elected a new Board of Trustees, and the University was reopened September 5, 1875. Rev. Dr. Chas. Phillips was elected Professor of Mathematics and Chairman of the Faculty, holding the latter office for one year.

Dr. Phillips was born in Harlem, N. Y., July 30, 1822; graduated at this University in 1841, with first honor. He was then a student and graduate of the Princeton Theological Seminary, and ordained a minister in the Presbyterian church. He was a Tutor of Mathematics in the University of North Carolina from 1844 to 1854, then Professor of Engineering to 1860, then Professor of Mathematics to 1868. He was then Professor of Mathematics and Political Economy at Davidson College until his transfer to this University. He resigned his chair in 1879, from failing health, and died in 1889—May 10. He was honored by this University with the Degrees of Doctor of Divinity (D. D.), and of Laws (LL. D.). He was author of a book on trigonometry, and was a man of powerful intellect.

Kemp Plummer Battle was elected President in June, 1876. He had been active in work for the University, and as Chairman of a Committee secured a subscription of twenty thousand dollars for repairs of buildings. He graduated in 1849, was then Tutor of Mathematics for four years; a Trustee from 1862 to the closing in 1868. He was State Treasurer under Governor Worth's administration, and was a Trustee, member of the Executive Committee, and Secretary and Treasurer from 1874.

He practised law for twenty-two years in Raleigh. He was the first President of the revived North Carolina Agricultural Society. From 1877 to 1884, he presided over the Summer Normal School of the University, the first kind in the Union. In 1881, he aided in procuring the first State appropriation for the support of the University—five thousand dollars. In 1885, the Legislature increased the appropriation to twenty thousand dollars, taking away the annual Land Grant money—seven thousand, five hundred dollars—two years afterwards. In 1891, he resigned the Presidency, and was elected Professor of History. In 1907, he retired on the Carnegie Foundation, and was made Professor Emeritus of History. He was honored by Davidson College, 1879, with the Degree of Doctor of Laws (LL. D.), and by the University with the same in 1910. He is author of the History of the University, in two octavo volumes, and of numerous historical sketches. He was born December 19, 1831, near Louisburg, in Franklin County. In 1886, he was a member of the Board of Visitors of the Military Academy at West Point.

ENCYCLOPEDIA OF THE UNIVERSITY OF TEXAS AT AUSTIN

George Tayloe Winston was unanimously elected President in 1891, and served until 1896. He was born in Windsor, October 12, 1852; was a student of the University 1866 to 1868, then of the Naval Academy, then a graduate and Instructor of Cornell University. In 1875, he was chosen Professor of Latin and German; and, in 1885, of the Latin Language and Literature in this University. While Professor, he published able pamphlets, critical and historical. He was honored with the Degree of LL. D. from this University, and from Trinity College, N. C. He revived the Summer Normal School. In 1896, he accepted the Presidency of the University of Texas, and after some years resigned it in order to return to his native State as President of the Agricultural and Mechanical College. After some years of faithful service, he resigned under the Carnegie Foundation. He is now engaged in historical writing.

Edwin Anderson Alderman was unanimously advanced to the Presidency in 1896, from the Professorship of History and Education in this University. He graduated in 1882, gaining the Mangum Medal for oratory. He then rapidly passed thru the Superintendentcy of Graded Schools, of a Summer School, the Presidency of the State Teachers' Association, to the Professorship of History and Literature in the State Normal and Industrial School. He is one of the most brilliant educational orators in the land. He was a member and Secretary of the Board of Visitors to the Military Academy at West Point. He has written valuable historical pamphlets. In 1900, he accepted the Presidency of Tulane University, and since has become President of the University of Virginia, with continually increasing reputation. He was born in Wilmington, N. C., May 15, 1861, and was prepared for the University at Bethel Military Academy, in Virginia. He has been honored by Degrees of Doctor of Civil Law (D. C. L.), from University of the South, and LL. D. from University of North Carolina, Tulane, Johns Hopkins, Columbia, Yale, Williams, Dartmouth, and Harvard.

Francis Preston Venable was elected President in 1900, by unanimous vote. He was a student of the University of Virginia in 1874-1879, then of the University of Bonn, and obtained his Dortorate of Philosophy at the University of Goettingen, in 1881. He was a student of the University of Berlin. He was Professor of Chemistry in this University from 1880, won distinction by contributions to chemical journals, and by educational treatises on scientific subjects. He was honored with the Degree of LL. D. by the University of Pennsylvania, of South Carolina, Alabama, by the Jefferson Medical College; and by Lafayette. He was President of the Southern Educational Association. He resigned the Presidency of the University in 1914, and by unanimous vote of the Trustees resumed his chair. Dr. Venable was prime factor in the organization of the Elisha Mitchell Society, and frequent contributor to its journal. He is now engaged in publishing a book on some of the latest chemical discoveries. He was born November 17, 1856, in Prince Edward County, Virginia, his father being a Professor and Chairman of the Faculty.

Edward Kidder Graham was unanimously elected President in 1914, to succeed Dr. Venable. He graduated at this University in 1898, was successively Librarian, Instructor, Associate Professor, and in 1904 Professor of English in this University, Dean of the College of Liberal Arts, and Acting President in 1913. He is honored with the Degree of LL. D. from Erskine, Wake Forest, and Lafayette Colleges, and that of Doctor of Civil Law (D. C. L.), from the University of the South. The President possesses in a marked degree a big brain, wide scholarship, dignity, and suavity of manners. He was born in Charlotte, October 11, 1876.

CLASS POEM

*O Mother of our myriad hopes
And of dreams of the future youth's vision can see,
While our fancy in half fear toward fuller life gropes,
Our heart goes reluctant, it lingers with thee.*

*E'en as we plunge into the fray
We are starred by the magic—a thrice-aided band—
For while time hath exacted but four seasons' pay,
We have grown a decennium—white art of thy hand.*

*Tell to the world, thou soft-tongued pine,
In whose murmur we grew to our Now from our Then,
When Ambition hath flown, still will memory twine
'Round the freedom-fraught campus that dared us to be men.*

*So, smiling at the word, we part,
Tho we never can part, O most radiant star,
For till pines cease to sigh 'neath the soft breeze's art,
What Thou and Thy Spirit art, Mother we are.*

A good-looking man instinctively seeks popularity, and therefore "BILL" does, because he's good looking. His face is an open book, in which is reflected the whole man. With his talent both in debate and business, "BILL" meets the world in a four-cornered position, and we can predict the results.

The moment this good friend set foot on the campus, she Elonged. Speaking of versatility—frogs and logic, congeniality, and University sermons—they're all the same to her. We are told that she used to run the Normal Seminary, and we believe it—she's competent to run anything, from a nation to a mere man's heart. When it comes to Tennis—well, here is the whole works—player, captain, and manager. His ability, however, is not confined to the tennis courts alone. By being a friend, he has gained the friendship of all. When in after life we review the individual members of the Class, we can truly say "ALVAH" was a man who stood for principle.

He is short, fat, a Georgian, a Cole Bleasite, and a North Carolinian. He goes forth over the campus singing, "I haven't missed a cuspidore in over five years"; and his classmates recognize that truth, poetry, and "RED J." are strangely blended there. One of the best of our best.

This son of Duplin has chosen for his life work the greatest of all professions—namely, farming. He is bound to succeed in this, if his determination shown in college can be taken as a criterion. Goes about his tasks in an easy and smooth fashion; and results always come from his labors.

"BOB" is as grouchy as an old maid, when things don't suit him—a thing which doesn't happen often. He is the best gymnast on the "Hill," but does not let this interfere with his studies or love affairs. One of the best eggs here, and is universally popular; has enough pep and brains to insure his success.

"DOBS" came to the "Hill" possessed with a great yearning for knowledge; but the lure of "la femme" turned his attention elsewhere, and before he had regained his equilibrium the immortal Wagstaff had made a pass at him, and lo and behold! he lost his scalp in the first engagement. He got his revenge, tho; and has since been browsing rather freely in Charlie Lee's lots.

Here is hard work's twin brother; and hard work must be a chicken, 'cause he certainly is a good egg. He made high marks, without booting his professor (how few are his imitators!); and drinks Charlie Lee's dope thirstily. If Sunday afternoons are any criterion, he holds no grudge against the female of the species. Later life won't see him far from the top of the ladder.

"AUBREY" is one of those quiet fellows who become more and more a live wire the better you know them. He can get more pleasure out of Burns or Milton than he can out of a musical comedy, and is more at home in the throes of Shakespeare than a Jew is behind a bargain counter.

"Stamps, please; some of the pretty red ones." You just ought to see this hot sport blush when the fair summer school dames stroll up to the postoffice window, and speak thus in romantic tones. His ambition is to be an M. D.; and he will succeed, being possessed of those indispensable qualities of determination and patience.

"BLACK" is one of the hardest workers and most energetic men in the Class. Medicine is his hobby, with Zoology as a side issue, and at both he is destined to make good. Quiet, retiring, and unassuming is his nature, but underneath this mask is the "MARKHAM" of fellowship, devotion, and perseverance. We predict for "BLACK" a success of no small luster, and greatness.

Having buried himself in the throes of chemical unknowns, we have not been fortunate enough to see much of "OSCAR." That he is a brilliant student, is evidenced by the way he takes unto himself chemistry; and that he is a good fellow, is shown by the way all who know him like him.

"C. C."—President of Phi Beta Kappa, and scholarship peer of the Class. "Ones" are his hobby, but he finds time to take an active part in every good movement of the student-body. Lucky the institution that gets the services of such a fellow.

"MOCK" is made up principally of a great deal of tall thim, and a deep voice which he uses sparingly. A complete category, however, would have to include a pair of feet, and a dome with something in it and wonderfully thatched. An earnest, congenial nature, and a steady character, have won for him many lasting friendships, and will see him successfully thru life.

If laziness be an asset, then we have here a giant. With a jolly, easy-going mannerism, "NIMS" has, without exerting himself, gained many friends; and, like the race of the rabbit and the tortoise, "to the swift is not always the race."

"KATO," a product of the Norwood Banking Company, Inc., has upheld traditions, despite the fact of a year's sojourn at Wake Forest. A fellow of keen, astute business ability, and a man of strong will, he stands by his convictions, and his clear-cut candor and frankness have made him a friend to be desired.

"JOHN" loves the ladies and dancing, but also finds time to do the text-book stunt. A great deal of "JOHN'S" time this year has been taken up with love affairs. We prescribe matrimonial treatment, and hope for a speedy recovery. His habits are strictly moral; with this, and his admirable disposition, he fills the requirements of the gentleman to the letter. "SCHLITZ" has written more "romantic literature" than any man in college, and these tri-weekly, twenty-page contributions all crystallize in the Queen City. If "C. "GEORGE" is of the quiet, reserved type, that do things worth doing, and never crow over the doing. By his assiduous studying, coupled with an occasional recreative trip to Durham, he has stood high in his work; and such we predict will be his standing in the world.

His effeminate ways do not characterize the type of man "LEROY" is, for in the eyes of the Profs. he is a "bull." Reads Latin and Greek as if it were English, and speaks French like it was his native language. In the academic life of the university, he is ace-high.

DRURY SPRULL SPAIN

"SHERMAN" is short in stature; but he is tall when it comes to blinding Archibald. He spends half his time studying calculus, differentials, etc.; and during the other half he takes his recreation coaching freshmen on Math. I. Despite all this mathematical activity, he finds time to help conduct a Sunday School. "SMITHEY" is scheduled to teach Math. next year, and if he keeps up his interest in the subject he'll make good.

As a man is known by the company he keeps, just so is his record marked by the number of his achievements; and "DRURY" has these to his credit. A hard worker, he has taken both law and academic work, and has succeeded in passing both; and in addition he has won many friends for himself by his genial disposition.

The tallest man in the class is "SHORTY," and his height and ambition run together. Qualified in capacity, he is an excellent student, a religious worker, and good fellow. His ever-ready reply—"that suits me"—bespeaks his good nature, a virtue which is always necessary to a good doctor.

Another of the Cullowhee triplets, who joined the race at the beginning of the third lap. His idea of a college is a place where a man ought to work; but just the same he slips off to the Gym. every afternoon, and takes a turn on the wrestling mat. He is an agreeable, optimistic, steadfast friend, and when he decides where he wants to go in life, he will go there.

Reserved, dignified, and retiring, "FLOYD" has won for himself an affectionate place in the hearts of all of us. Takes medicine, and passes it—this in itself characterizes the man as a student. The Mayo Brothers will have to step aside for "DR. WOOTEN," if his success in life can be judged by his college career.

"RED," "FEASIBLE," "ALPHABET," has it on most of his classmates. He was not only born lucky, but also redheaded. "RED" likes pinocle and spank hearts, but does not allow this to interfere with his pursuits of his diploma. He is an ardent supporter of class baseball, and is building up a rare physique. He is already pulling out his togs for an early start.

"THEODORE" came down from Pleasant Garden a quiet, dignified fellow, and this asset he has retained. He takes life seriously, works hard, and talks very little. He may not be an extra good loafer, but his friends swear that he is a good egg, and stick by him. His natural talent, coupled with his remarkable energy, lead us to expect him to make a success in life.

A good loser, a graceful winner, a good fellow, and a generous heart. When he likes you, you know it; and when he doesn't you aren't long finding it out. With his liberality and friendliness, he has won the fellowship of us all; and with his qualities as a student he has made good in scholarship.

SENIOR CLASS HISTORY

THE late Senator Bob Taylor, of Tennessee, once said that history records the deeds of the great. If his statement be true, this brief sketch can not properly be called a history. Perhaps a half-century from now someone will be able to write a history of the Class of Nineteen Hundred and Seventeen.

College life is real life in miniature. Of the infinite throng who begin the battle of life, only a small minority achieve what the world calls success. Of those who enter college as freshmen, a comparatively small number remain for graduation. Four years ago, the University of North Carolina welcomed to Chapel Hill a class of two hundred and seventy-five members. In numbers, this was the strongest Class that had ever sought admittance. Today the class membership barely exceeds a hundred. As in life, these facts do not signify that talent wins the race, for some of the most capable members have forsaken the Class. Still, as in life, these facts do illustrate the truth that perseverance is the quality which outshines all others in the end.

Custom demands that each successive Senior Class shall boast itself as superior to all its predecessors. This, the Class of Nineteen-Seventeen refuses to do. While we may have surpassed preceding Classes in some respects, we probably have lagged behind them in others.

Few groups have been more closely bound together by common ties than the present Seniors. The absence of factional issues has produced a sense of unity and good fellowship seldom equaled, and never excelled, in the annals of University Classes. We have been peculiarly fortunate in our selection of presidents. Rand, Mackie, and Capps, presidents in our Freshman, Sophomore, and Junior years respectively, discharged the duties of the office in a manner which reflected credit upon themselves and upon the Class. In recognition of Rand's versatility, the Class elected him president for its Senior year—thereby bestowing upon him the highest honor of which an undergraduate can be the recipient.

Learning is the primary purpose for which a university exists. Nineteen-Seventeen is an average Class in scholarship. Nine of its members—Baity, Elliot, C. S. Harris, J. E. Harris, Lindau, Mackie, Miller, Polk, and Rand—were elected to membership in Phi Beta Kappa.

The Class has been well represented in the literary life of the campus. Polk, editor-in-chief of the Tarheel, is the most brilliant writer at the University during the present student generation. Capps, editor-in-chief of the Magazine; Telfair, Lindau, Reasoner, Rountree, and others, have also won distinction by their literary work.

Debating and oratory have not been neglected by such men as Ross, Sharpe, V. F. Williams, Rand, Hyatt, Stell, and Duncan.

Under the leadership of Mackie, Eagle, and Fowler, the Class has done much social service work.

Nineteen-Seventeen men have also occupied leading places in social activities.

It is in athletic prowess that the Class surpasses all its predecessors. In inter-class events, we have won several championships. In Varsity contests, members of the Class have played a most brilliant role. Watkins and Shields played Varsity baseball. Tandy, Tennant, and Davis represented us on the basket-ball team. Johnson, Ramsay, Ransom, and Rand have won many honors for the University track squad. Combs is a Varsity tennis player; and Davis, Johnson, Jones, and Ginn made the gym squad. To the University football team, we have given eleven letter men—Tandy, Ramsay, Cowell, Burnett, Tennant, M. M. Williams, Coleman, Boshamer, Proctor, Harrell, and Crawford. On last Thanksgiving Day, Carolina defeated Virginia for the first time in football since 1905, and to the victorious team Nineteen-Seventeen furnished Captain Tandy, Ramsay, Williams, Tennant, Harrell, and Coleman.

The briefness of this sketch prevents personal mention of all those who should be mentioned. Each member of the Class fills a place which no other can fill.

During the four years which we have spent at Chapel Hill, the progress of the University has been marvelous. As Nineteen-Seventeen does not claim any definite work as its distinct contribution to the University, it is unnecessary to discuss these changes. It might be well to state that hazing vanished completely the year before our arrival, and that we have done much to keep this relic of barbarism in its grave. The material growth of the University since September, 1913, is exemplified by an increased annual enrollment of more than three hundred students.

As June draws near, our ambition to present for graduation honors the largest Class in the history of the University seems almost realized. This is a record in which the Class takes a pardonable pride.

As the time of graduation and separation approaches, our feelings are feelings of joy mingled with regret. We are glad that the course is almost run, but we regret that the bonds which have bound us together as classmates for four years are to be burst asunder. We know, however, as we go out to take our places in life, that bonds of friendship stronger than hoops of steel bind us one to the other, and that each member shall forever cherish the memories which he stored up at Chapel Hill.

The race has but begun. Only the starting point has been reached. Inspired by the visions of youth, we believe that some day it can truly be said that worthy parts have been played in the great drama of life by the members of the Class of Nineteen Hundred and Seventeen.

JUNIOR CLASS HISTORY

IT WAS in the early days of September, 1914, that the present Junior Class, numbering 278 souls, filed through the Alumni Building, and pledged their allegiance to a common cause—that of the Class of Eighteen. In 171 of these souls, this allegiance held its own against adverse circumstances, and brought them back as Sophomores. When the roll was called last fall, it was found that 120 of the fellows—I mean the students—had kept the faith. And if conditions remain favorable, every indication is that the Class should graduate a hundred men next year.

Like all other Classes, the Class of Eighteen has made a record. In many respects it has not done the unusual; and still in some there are marks which distinguish it from the other Classes that are born each year at the University, only to live a paltry life of four years, and then die like all those which have gone before it.

First came the period of readjustment, after which work was begun in earnest. The first Class-meeting, held late in the Fall of 1914, was rather religious, if the use of hymn-book is a criterion of good faith. "Buzz" Tennant was elected president, and R. E. Price, secretary. For Sophomore president, Victor S. Bryant, Jr., was the logical man; while Albert Coats, the debater, was chosen to play the leading role in the third chapter of our history. Under such leadership, the Class has taken an active part in all phases of University life. In scholarship, sixteen men made Phi Beta Kappa the first term, and ten or twelve men should be awarded keys this spring if the season remains good. One of our number, Joseph B. Linker, led the whole school in scholarship in the Fall, and in addition defrayed his own expenses by working in the printshop. In athletics, Eighteen has inscribed on the roll of fame such names as John C. Tayloe, L. M. Upchurch, Hugh Black, Fred Farthing, Bruce Webb, C. W. Davis, Wilbur Curry, Roy Bridges, Phil Hines, and Preston Andrews. In dramatics, glee club, and literary society work, the Class has taken an equally active part. Also in the Y. M. C. A., with its varied fields of activity, members of Eighteen have found opportunity for service.

The third chapter will soon be closed now, and already the members of the Class begin to turn their eyes towards the last lap of the race, with the silent prayer that it may be a winner.

SOPHOMORE CLASS HISTORY

AMID dust and smoke, the call of dusky drivers of vehicles, and the stares of supercilious upper-classmen, we of Nineteen-Nineteen disembarked at the historic town of Carrboro, and wended our way to the campus. Some of us were wise, and some were foolish; but we immediately felt our importance, and lo, out of the riot of verdant green rose a Class—Fresh, to be sure—and elected Chatham to lead us in our classic wanderings. Aycock was chosen to gather the shekels. The Sophomores heroically refrained from carrying out the rites due at such an election, and even helped us to count the votes. The new-born class duly subscribed to all the conventions. We trembled in our beds, and sought the friendly darkness thereunder when Eighteen began to rend the skies with fiendish yells.

The basket-ball team, which ran riot in the Class League, was our only team worthy of mention; but we contributed generously to every branch of Varsity athletics. Almost every member of the Class did something to his own credit and the glory of Nineteen. Last, but not the least of our accomplishments, we showed that we could flunk First Math. like men. Verily, we were a versatile bunch.

This year, most of us have returned, and are very much in evidence in everything. We are even doing better than we did last year. We are well represented on the football field; and the basket-ball team could not exist without us. In the Glee Club, Literary Societies, and the classroom, the maroon and white of Nineteen-Nineteen acknowledged no superior. Modesty, being at all times the chief quality in our makeups, forbids us to dilate upon our many accomplishments.

As a Sophomore Class, we have refrained from breaking the golden rule, and always do the other fellow first. With E. O. Fitzsimmons at the helm, Durham to remove the precious metal from circulation, and Williams representing us with the powers that be, we intend to fulfill all the prophecies that have and have not been made.

DANIEL LONG BELL
Graham, N. C.

Age, 23; Weight, 160; Height, 5 ft. 10½ ins.

A. B. 1915; Y. M. C. A.; Phi Society;
Alamance County Club; Pan-Hellenic Council
(15-'16); Secretary International Polity Club;
President Athletic Association; Athletic Council;
German Club; M Δ Φ; Σ X.

When it comes to law, "DAN" is "Daddy Papa." After everyone else in the Class has been blinded, then Prof. McGehee calls on his authority. A man of broad capabilities, possessing eminent qualifications both in social and mental activities, is that very rare and unusual combination we find in "DAN."

FRANCIS OSBORNE CLARKSON
Charlotte, N. C.

Age, 21; Weight, 148; Height, 5 ft. 5 ins.

Di Society; Golden Fleece; Ω Δ; M Δ Φ;
Δ K E.

"HECK" is quiet, which is a point in his favor; for we do not judge a man by the noise he makes, at Carolina. The best test of a man is his ability to do things, and this can best be determined by what he has done. It is only necessary to look at "HECK'S" record to know that he is a representative Carolina man. He will make himself count wherever he goes, as he has here; and we, his friends, wish him the best of success.

HENRY WELLINGTON COBB, JR.
Richmond, Va.

Age, 26; Weight, 140; Height, 5 ft. 11 ins.

A. B. Princeton University, 1912.

"THE DUKE OF WELLINGTON" is one of the best we have to offer in the law school. He is always up on his work, and has only two loafing places, the law library and his boarding-house. One of the soberest, steadiest men in the University, but nevertheless possesses a rare vein of dry humor, which, coupled with his personality, has won for himself many friends. Here's to "HARRY"; we know that he will do well.

HILARY HERBERT CRAWFORD
Waynesville, N. C.

Age, 22; Weight, 160; Height, 5 ft. 11½ ins.

Whose worst enemy is himself, whose chief fault is his unassuming modesty. "CRAWFORD," with his quiet dignity, and retirement, has kept largely to himself; but nevertheless the man, with his strength of character, his firmness of purpose, and strength of determination has been revealed to us. A splendid student, a creative mind, and an unrivaled mental acumen "CRAWFORD" has, and is destined to prove eminently capable, no matter what the task or how great the responsibility.

AUGUSTINE WILLIAM FOLGER
Colorado Springs, Colo.

Age, 23; Weight, 193; Height, 6 ft. 2½ ins.

B. S. The Citadel; Varsity Track ('16); Varsity Football ('17), All South-Atlantic, All-Southern, Captain-Elect ('18); Wearer of "N. C."; $\Sigma \Delta \Phi$; $\Sigma \chi$.

Having achieved every possible distinction at The Citadel, "BILL" came to us in 1916. We do not mean that he came expressly in search of new worlds to conquer, but, however that may be, upon him devolved a task which others had failed in for the last eleven years. And he made the winning score against Virginia, just as he does everything else which he sets out to do; for "BILL" is a man all thru, a good student, an unsurpassed athlete, and one of the finest fellows we have ever known.

FRANK HACKLER
Sparta, N. C.

Age, 22; Weight, 153; Height, 5 ft. 8 ins.

Di Society; Y. M. C. A.; North Carolina Club; Philosophy Club (3); Winner Freshman Debate; Fresh-Soph Debate (2); Soph-Junior Debate (3); "Tarheel" Board (3); Assistant Editor "Yackety Yack" (3); Secretary Debating Council (3), President (4); Assistant Manager Varsity Track (3), Manager (4); Athletic Council (4); Student Council (5); Greater Council (5); German Club; Amphoterothern.

What "HACK" doesn't know about politics, isn't needed in pulling big deals. "FRANK" is sure to be in command when the guns are larger, and the game is not a student-body, but a State. A well-rounded, deep-thinking, and broad-minded man, it's large propositions that he will tackle and solve.

CLINTON KELLY HUGHES
Asheville, N. C.

Age, 22; Weight, 160; Height, 5 ft. 7 ins.

Di Society; Y. M. C. A.; President Senior Law Class; Vice-President Buncombe County Club; Secretary Athletic Association; Secretary Wilson-Bickett Club; Manager Class Football (4); Class Baseball; Dynamo; German Club; M Δ Φ.

"KELLY" makes you think of something green—but, like "KELLY" is. That he is one of our best is illustrated by the fact that we bestowed on him the honor of representing the Class as president. But "KELLY'S" virtues are not all of a legal nature. He is the kind of a fellow who has a smile for everyone. A close student, a political boss, a splendid fellow, the best-met man in the Class; and odds are on "KELLY'S" winding up in Congress.

OWEN MEREDITH MARSHBURN
Zebulon, N. C.

Age, 24; Weight, 168; Height, 6 ft.

Wake County Club; Y. M. C. A.; Buies Creek Club; Class Baseball (3); Class Football (3); Phi Society; Clerk Moot Court; Soph Banquet Speaker.

"MARSHBURN" is a fellow who is at home anywhere, in any phase of activity. He has an easy-going, carefree mannerism, which combine to give him a magnetic personality. In whatever he undertakes, he goes at it with a vim and an ease which makes the undertaking appear light. Some day the newspapers will carry big headlines on Who's Who, and we won't be surprised to find "MARSHBURN."

BEVERLY SAMPSON ROYSTER
Oxford, N. C.

Age, 21; Weight, 174; Height, 5 ft. 11 ins.

Assistant Editor "Yackety Yack" (4); Captain Freshman Baseball Team; Scrub Baseball Team; President Granville County Club; Phi Society; K A.

"BEV." gained some reputation as a baseball player among the Scrubs, and before his term expires he is slated to take a berth on the Varsity. An exceptionally bright student, and a quick, comprehensive mind, he has assimilated legal lore with a ravenous demeanor. Despite his quiet mannerism, he is a great ladies' man, and is also an adept at that art.

THOMAS WHITE RUFFIN
Louisburg, N. C.

Age, 21; Weight, 160; Height, 5 ft. 11 ins.

Y. M. C. A.; Phi Society; Franklin County Club; Commencement Debater; Junior Law Banquet Speaker (5); Carolina-Virginia Debate; Greater Council; Vice-President Senior Law; Wearer of "N. C."; German Club; T, K A; $\Phi \Delta \Theta$.

"TOM" displayed his Socratic instincts beginning with his Freshman year, and culminated them with an "N. C.", and a Tau Kappa Alpha key in a vocal fray with Virginia. In addition, he has won for himself a host of friends by his generous and cordial good nature, and already the rung of the ladder labeled Success is beginning to feel a premonition of his approach.

MOSES SHAPIRO
Winston-Salem, N. C.

Age, 21; Weight, 153; Height, 5 ft. 5½ ins.

Menorah Society; Secretary Forsyth County Club (3); Secretary Menorah Society (1, 2); Member Executive Committee Menorah Society (3).

If there is any show you desire to be informed upon the merits of, come to this theatrical sage and quench your thirst. When he is not to be found in Patterson's, you may find him enthroned in all his glory before the tirades of Prof. McGehee. A good student, a good fellow, and a good egg, we must necessarily have good results; and his achievements will come with time.

ROBERT CANDLER VAUGHAN
Winston-Salem, N. C.

Age, 22; Weight, 155; Height, 6 ft. 2 ins.

Y. M. C. A. Cabinet (4); Vice-President Forsyth County Club (3); Chairman Publicity Committee North Carolina Club (4); Manager University News Bureau (4); Winner Ben Smith Preston Cup (3); Commencement Marshal (3); "Yackety Yack" Board (5); German Club; Pan-Hellenic Council; Coop: Σ Τ; Φ Β Κ; Μ Δ Φ; Β Θ Π.

"SLIM," "SNORKY," or "NIGHT HAWK," is the most peculiar combination we have. Can sleep as good on a typewriter as a feather bed, having acquired this during his pursuit of the Preston Cup in Journalism. Made Phi Beta Kappa as a side line, and won the admiration of the Class by getting both A. B. and LL. B. degrees in five years.

HILARY GOODE WINSLOW
Hertford, N. C.

Phi Society; Albemarle Club; German Club;
Shack; M Δ Φ; A T Ω.

Dignified as a lady, serious as a judge, and as conscientious with everyone as he is square, is what we find here. A hard worker, a deep thinker, and a bundle of energy, we find in "HICK" a fellow who not only commands our admiration, but wins our friendship. Let us introduce a friend, a jurist, and a scholar.

FIRST-YEAR MEDICAL CLASS

PHARMACY SCHOOL

PHARMACY

RUDOLPH BARNES
Clayton, N. C.

Age, 23; Weight, 155; Height, 5 ft. 8 ins.

Pharmaceutical Society; Johnson County Club;
Varsity Baseball ('16); Captain of Varsity Baseball ('17); K Ψ.

"ROWDY" is conceded to be the best-looking man in the Class, and a regular heart-smasher among the fair sex. In baseball he has won his fame, and his drive under the fence won for him the title of "HOME-RUN BARNES." If he hits the world as he has hit the "Pill" for the past two years, he will earn a reputation which will land him in the "Majors."

LOUIS M. BOBBITT
Macon, N. C.

Age, 23; Weight, 147; Height, 5 ft. 8 ins.

President of Class; Student Council; Greater Council; President of Pharmaceutical Society; Assistant in Laboratory.

"LOUIS" is one of the most popular men in the Class, has a genial and pleasant disposition, winning for him the best of friends. He is president of the Class, and has proved himself worthy of the honor. Decidedly one of the hardest workers in college, and is assured of success.

AROS COAK CECIL
High Point, N. C.

Age, 20; Weight, 138; Height, 5 ft. 8 ins.

Pharmaceutical Society; Guilford County Club.

"ILLIO" breezed in from High Point, and since his entrance to college has been one of the constant users of the product that made the "Chair Town" famous. He is beyond a doubt the biggest man in the Class. To hear him tell it, one would think he was the biggest chemist in the University. He is very popular, and is sure of success.

EDWARD HARRIS LAYDEN
Lexington, N. C.

Age, 23; Weight, 120; Height, 5 ft. 7½ ins.

Pharmaceutical Society; Davidson County Club; B Φ.

"ED" swears he does not resemble "Seat Barbee"; but we see it differently. He is an Anti-Prohibitionist, and proud of it. His good nature is the best thing about him; and no one believes he is the hardest worker in the Class. If good wishes help a man to attain greatness, then "ED" will surely be a star in after life.

EDMOND DEBERRY LEDBETTER
Chapel Hill, N. C.

Age 21; Weight, 155; Height, 5 ft. 8 ins.

Pharmaceutical Society; Assistant in Pharmacy
Laboratory; K Ψ.

"LED" is one of the most popular men in the Class, and his pleasing disposition is noticed by every passer-by. He is one of the star members of Doc. Howell's eleven, and is always up on everything that Doc. can ask. He can always be found in the "Lab.," preparing for the next quiz. He can't help but succeed; and he has the very best wish of every member of the Class.

MORTON CLIFTON MILES
Warrenton, N. C.

Age, 23; Weight, 145; Height, 5 ft. 8 ins.

Pharmaceutical Society; Y. M. C. A.; Warrenton High School Club; Warren-Halifax County Club.

Speaking of ye old-time heart-breakers, well here is one. He is fond of the ladies, and like a conductor has a girl in every town. He is one of our hard workers, is always on the job, and has never missed a lecture. He is a good fellow, and the whole Class wishes for him the greatest success when he gets behind the pill-counter.

JAMES MANNING PRITCHARD
Chapel Hill, N. C.

Age, 22; Weight, 140; Height, 5 ft. 11 ins.

Pharmaceutical Society; Secretary of Class.

"PRITCH" is not the most studious man in the Class, but he is always there when he goes on a quiz. He is a resident of Chapel Hill; but he can't help that, and takes it good-naturedly. He is generally found in "Pat's", nursing a "Dope." His popularity is universal; and a man of his caliber is bound to make good.

JACOB FLETCHER ROSEMOND
Kinston, N. C.

Age, 22; Weight, 150; Height, 5 ft. 9 ins.

Vice-President Pharmaceutical Society; Lenoir
County Club; Glee Club ('15); K Ψ.

"FLETCHER" says he is the best man in Chemistry 31; and he surely ought to know what he is talking about. He takes great delight in proclaiming the fact that he is from Kinston, and swears that it is the best town in the world. He is a favorite with the Class, and his success is a certainty.

BENJAMIN WYCHE WALKER

Rocky Mount, N. C.

Age, 21; Weight, 145; Height, 5 ft. 10 ins.

Secretary and Treasurer Pharmaceutical Society; Nash-Edgecombe County Club; Permanent Secretary Class of Seventeen; K Ψ.

"WASH"—That does not indicate that he lives up to his name. He is a good fellow, and he asks that eternal question, "Have you got a Tack?" Makes constant trips to Durham, but always returns for the daily classes, and is always there with the "blinding" stunt. A hard worker, and one of the most popular men in the Class.

THE Y. M. C. A.

THE function of the Y. M. C. A. at Carolina is to furnish a nucleus for all that is highest and best on the campus. What home influence was to the men before they came—and this applies especially to the new men—this organization attempts to be, just as far as possible.

Its active work may be for the most part classed under the headings social and religious. Under the first head come all the attentions shown to the new men at the beginning of the year, in the way of meeting trains, furnishing the information bureau, sending them the "Freshman Bible," and giving the reception on College Night. The building is open all during the year for various meetings, and the reading-room has been made much more attractive and efficient in its service than heretofore.

One of the most effective things religiously—though probably least noticed—that has taken place this year, is the organization of morning watch groups, that meet from 7.50 until 8.00 each morning. Tho the number who have practised this has not been large, we feel that something really worth while has been accomplished. Courses in Bible study have been led by student leaders in the different dormitories, at 12.30 on Sunday; and the weekly Tuesday night meetings, either addressed by a member of the faculty or led by a student in an informal discussion, have been better attended than usual. The Bible study rally conducted by Dr. Spillman, and the lecture by Dr. F. N. Seerly, were also unusually well attended.

Then the country Sunday School, Rural Lyceum, and negro night schools are other means by which the organization has let itself be felt, as well as by the series of spring lectures by leading speakers of the South. We have also initiated the plan this year, for mutual benefit, of exchanging circular letters with the other colleges in the State. We may well say that the watchword of the Y. M. C. A. is "Service," and for this reason it has come to be an organic part of University life.

DRAMATICS

FROM an imperfect, poorly equipped organization, the Dramatic Club has developed into an institution well worthy to represent a phase in University life. During the present season, the cast presenting three one-act plays—"Old Cronies," "The Glittering Gate," and "Food"—has met with unusual success, during its tour of the State playing before large and appreciative audiences, and exacting no little newspaper comment. Representing a combination of skill, natural ability, and hard work, the Dramatic Club represents to the people of the State an organization of which they, as vital, interested adherents, may well feel proud.

STOPPING at the more important towns from Winston-Salem to Washington, the Glee Club was everywhere met with an enthusiastic reception. Displaying a versatility of program and a uniqueness of presentation hithertofore unknown, the papers with one accord concede it to be one of the best Clubs ever turned out. With a large, well organized, and tuneful chorus, and a splendidly developed orchestra, the Club everywhere delighted an attractive audience. Despite the handicaps suffered from the loss of Epps and other last-year stars, Leader Harris has, thru persistent effort, turned out an organization of precision and harmony, which should command the admiration and plaudits of a North Carolina audience.

CAPT. GEORGE TANDY

THE FOOTBALL SEASON OF 1916

UNDER a new coaching system, with a squad of but few experienced men, and playing one of the most pretentious schedules a Southern team has ever listed, the Carolina football team for nineteen-sixteen had a highly satisfactory year. To the new Head Coach, Thomas Campbell, and his assistants, Rawson Cowen, of Harvard, and

Roy Homewood, of Carolina, great credit is due. They developed, under all the handicaps incident to the one-year eligibility rule, a representative University team, a team that made an excellent showing; and, most noteworthy of all, a team that beat Virginia. Nineteen-Sixteen has earned its niche in Carolina's Hall of Fame.

MANAGER COLEMAN AND
CAPTAIN TANDY

Wake Forest furnished the opening game on the new gridiron, succumbing by the score of 20 to 0. Princeton and Harvard, played on successive Saturdays, on their own fields, and after hard, tiresome trips, were held to 29 to 0 and 21 to 0 respectively. Georgia Tech, later conceded to be the Southern champions, were truly thankful for a 10 to 6 victory over us in Atlanta. This was one of the hardest fought games of the year, with honors about even. Folger and Tennant were therein proven stars, and added to the galaxy of Captain Tandy, Ramsay, and Tayloe.

The next game returned to home soil, and resulted in a 38 to 13 gallop over Virginia Military Institute. The enthusiasm created by this victory was slightly dampened by the next game, the only real disappointment of the year. Virginia Polytechnic Institute, with the strongest team she has ever had, won out, 14 to 7, in Roanoke. In the State championship struggle with the formidable Davidson aggregation, Folger got loose for a touchdown, and Tandy registered a drop kick, for a 10 to 6 score. In the final contest before Thanksgiving, Furman College was overwhelmed on the Hill by a 48 to 0 score.

But the climax of the season, that history-making event in Richmond, on Thanksgiving Day, deserves separate mention.

A CAROLINA HOMECOMING

IT IS said that the old giant, Antaeus, secured his great strength as a wrestler by often coming in contact with his mother, Earth; and that he rapidly lost it when once separated from her. Hercules finally overcame him because of this fact. College men go out from college walls with the strength and inspiration of alma mater in their breasts; but once in contact with the petty and trying problems of livelihood and success, they lose the uplifting and ennobling influence of college days, and its traditions become mere memories. They, too, need to renew their strength by occasional contact with the nurturing mother. They need to inhale anew the college atmosphere, to walk again its paths, to join in its frivolities, to renew its comradeships, and to again pledge their loyalty to its ideals and aims.

In later life, it is often said of college days and college friendships: "Ah, but they were the happy days, the days of true comradeship!" There is no reason, however, why a man should ever cease to be a college man in the best sense, should lose this spirit, or should discard college memories and his interest in college activities. He should at least renew his old acquaintances at stated seasons, visit his old haunts, and give himself up to the early abandon and joy of college life.

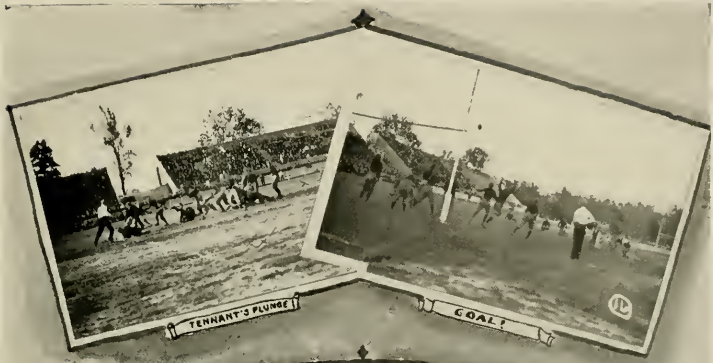

This much has been said to emphasize the importance of a homecoming, a "get-together," a reunion, or what you like, some time during each college year, when college days may again assume a reality and charm. Many universities thruout the country have long had such occasions, and have made the most of them. These occasions have been looked forward to and talked about thruout the year—in fact, have been made the climax of the year's activities. Alumni have returned in large numbers, and a royal celebration and reunion have been staged.

Why can not the University of North Carolina have such a homecoming? Why can not Chapel Hill become, too, a focal point, a place of rendezvous, a center for reunion? Our neighboring State universities have long had such alumni homecomings, and the alumni have themselves highly approved of the idea, so much so as to lend their interest and presence to the occasion.

Chapel Hill will now more and more become the center for our alumni. With the completion of the new Emerson Athletic Field and stadium, many athletic contests of a high order will now be staged here. The big Thanksgiving game with Virginia comes to Chapel Hill this fall; and what better incentive for the inauguration of a homecoming could be found? The present arrangement with the University of Georgia brings that team here in the fall of 1918, thus alternating with Virginia. In this way, Chapel Hill is assured at least one big game each fall; and this game can be made a homecoming occasion. Nor would such a plan in any way interfere with the Class reunions at Commencement time, as they are not, as a rule, annual occurrences, nor do they serve to get as many as possible here at the same time.

The University of North Carolina is eager that her sons—and daughters, too—should return to her campus at least once a year, to live again her life, and perchance to see what changes come with time and growth, what improvements, what modifications. Indeed, there have been so many changes and such a growth in recent years that many alumni would experience a sensation of surprise. Besides, such an occasion enables the loyal alumnus to see Carolina's needs, and to become acquainted with her enlarged ideals and aspirations. He comes to make her vision of usefulness his vision, her place among Southern and national universities his chief concern.

He can then say, as Cardinal Newman was moved to say of Oxford University: "He who can be proof against the strong emotions which the whole aspect and genius of the place tend to inspire, must be dull, thoughtless, uneducated, or of very perverted views."

THE VIRGINIA GAME

FOLGER
Captain-Elect

NINETEEN-SIXTEEN may henceforth be mentioned with that peculiar kind of reverence that always accompanies a thought of 1905, 1902, and a few other eventful dates. After a seemingly interminable delay, Carolina defeated Virginia in football, last Thanksgiving—not by a fluke, but in a clear-cut, decisive manner. The score was 7 to 0. Folger made the winning goal on a 52-yard dash. Tandy kicked goal. The game marked the last of a series that have been played in Richmond for years. So much for the bare facts.

Unless a person has followed the trend of football at Carolina from year to year, he can not sufficiently appreciate just what this victory means. Alumni who have waited patiently for a Carolina victory since 1905, realize just how much this means to the University. Since 1913, there has been a gradual evolution towards this climax. Since the goal has been reached, there is no reason why it should not be retained for a sufficient number of years to eradicate some of the bitterness of past defeats. The taste of victory was sweet, and it is to be hoped that the stimulus will not be shortlived.

In the height of our enthusiasm, we must not for a moment forget the men who made our success possible. In so far as this page is able to be of any panegyric value, it is heartily dedicated to those men who beat Virginia. The coaches—Campbell, Homewood, and Cowen; Captain Tandy, Captain-elect Folger, Ramsay, Tayloe, Love, Grimes, Tennant, Harrell, Williams, Curries, Bellamy, Coleman, and Johnson. These are the men who actively participated in the Thanksgiving game. Every substitute—and there were only too few—deserves an almost equal amount of credit. May these men always be remembered on Carolina's Athletic Roll of Honor.

We sincerely trust that results in later years will make such unlimited praise inappropriate; but as things stand now, too much can not be said in honor of the team of Nineteen-Sixteen.

THE 1916 baseball season was, in many respects, a disappointment to Carolina supporters. At times the Varsity nine showed a brilliant form and a wonderful slugging ability, by defeating such teams as Washington and Lee and Delaware State. Other games were lost thru pure luck—as in the Virginia game, at Greensboro, when Thurman knocked the lid off Pandora's box with a home run after Carolina had held the Orange and Blue scoreless for eight innings. Still other games were lost by costly errors and poor playing on the part of the White and Blue.

The season opened with sixteen members of the 1915 Varsity squad in uniform, including eight letter men—Captain Patterson, Bailey, Williams, Hart, Hardison, Lewis, Zollicoffer, and Currie. In addition to these men, there seemed to be a wealth of new material.

After several weeks of indecision, Hart was selected to officiate behind the bat. The pitching staff was composed of the veterans, Williams and Currie, and two new twirlers of repute—Cuthrell, who had done some spectacular twirling for Wake Forest in 1914; and Powell, a Freshman from Randolph-Macon Academy.

Captain Patterson remained at second, and Lewis at third—positions they had played the year before. Zollicoffer was stationed at first. At the outset, it was evident that shortstop was the weak link in the infield chain. Coach Doak tried out man after man, but thruout the season remained undecided whether to let the mantle fall on Massey, Powell, or Herty—Powell playing the position in most of the games on the Northern trip.

Barnes was installed at left in the Oak Ridge game, and remained at that position thruout the season. Bailey held down the center garden during the early part of the season, giving way on the Northern trip to Massey. Bennett replaced Pippin at right, the latter having been hurt in the Guilford game.

From the first, Carolina showed slugging ability—five men: Bennett, Hardison, Powell, Zollicoffer, and Hart, averaging above the coveted three hundred mark. Altho long hits were numerous, they were so scattered out in most of the games that the Carolina runners could gain no advantage by them. Fielding records were, on the whole, only fair—costly errors being responsible for the loss of several games.

Carolina lost three games to Wake Forest, and two to Virginia. Rain knocked out the game with Davidson and one of the games with Virginia. Of the remaining eighteen games, Carolina won seven and lost eleven, as follows:

By a score of 3 to 2, Carolina unexpectedly lost the opening game of the season to Oak Ridge. The new Emerson Stadium was used for the first time. Barnes' home run, and the work of two men, Pippin and Massey, featured the game.

In a swatfest, Carolina overwhelmed Elon College 18 to 4. Powell, the Freshman pitcher, replaced Currie early in the game, and his pitching and hitting, together with the work of Bailey at center, featured the game.

Bennett contributed to the scoring by slamming out a three-bagger with the bases loaded.

Zollicoffer's four runs in four times up, the pitching of Powell, and costly wild throws by the visitors contributed to Carolina's 11 to 3 victory over West Virginia Wesleyan.

Carolina lost to Guilford 2 to 1, at Greensboro, in a pitchers' battle, Cuthrell doing mound duty for Carolina.

In an eleven-inning battle, Carolina's errors contributed to a Wake Forest victory, 4 to 3, altho Carolina made ten hits to the Baptists' six.

With a two-run lead up to the eighth inning, Carolina supporters began to hope that the Greensboro jinx was broken again. Then came Thurman's home run, and the bubble broke. Four runs were registered in that fatal eighth—spelling a 4 to 3 victory for the Orange and Blue.

Carolina defeated William and Mary 3 to 2. The pitching of Currie—who allowed but one single in nine innings—and Barnes' timely three-bagger featured the game.

Hard slugging aided Carolina in defeating Richmond College 11 to 4. Patterson slammed out a home run, and Barnes a triple. Patterson, Hart, Zollicoffer, Massey, and Barnes secured doubles.

Carolina lost again to Wake Forest, 3 to 0, at Rocky Mount. The Baptists won in the first two innings—neither side scoring after that.

Fully fifteen hundred students, high school debaters, and other visitors saw Carolina outhit Wofford, winning by a 6 to 1 score. Powell's home run, the hitting of Barnes and Bennett, the pitching of Aycock, and the beautiful fielding of the Wofford outfielders added zest to the game.

Carolina lost to Pennsylvania State, 15 to 9, in an old-time ten-inning slugging match. Four home runs, two triples, two doubles, and twenty-one singles were registered up during the game. Two twirlers went in for Carolina, and three for Pennsylvania State.

Wake Forest won its third victory of the season over Carolina at Wake Forest, by a 4 to 3 score. Errors in tight places cost Carolina the game—the stickwork of Zollicoffer being the only redeeming feature.

Virginia easily won the annual series by defeating Carolina 8 to 3 at Charlottesville. The jig was up in the first inning, when White, of Virginia, drove a homer over the fence with two men on base.

In a fourteen-inning contest, Carolina defeated Washington and Lee 7 to 4. Currie, pitching for Carolina, lost his poise in the fifth, and allowed four men to score. Powell held the Generals scoreless for the rest of the game. Four runs in the eighth and three in the fourteenth gave Carolina the victory.

Carolina lost an eleven-inning contest to Catholic University, by a 4 to 3 score. Catholic made her winning run on a pass, a steal, an error, and an infield tap. Despite the dampness and drizzling rain, Carolina made double plays twice with the bases full.

Tho making eleven scattered hits, Carolina was defeated 8 to 3 by the Georgetown sluggers. Georgetown scored four times in the third, and thrice in the seventh inning.

Aycock's one-hit game gave Carolina a 7 to 0 victory over Delaware College. Powell and Patterson starred for Carolina.

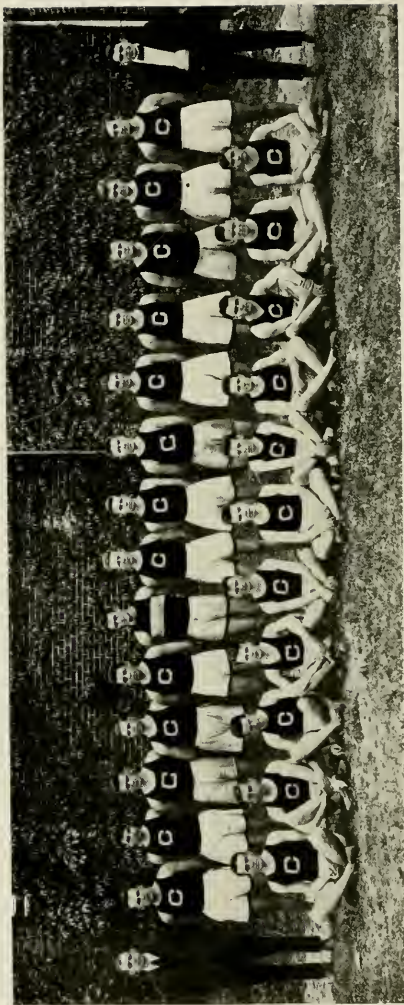

Carolina closed its Northern trip with a 13 to 2 defeat by the Navy. The Navy made ten of its thirteen runs in the third inning. In the last three innings, not a single Carolina man reached first base.

THE SEASON OF 1916

WHEN the spring came, with its buds and warm days, there gathered with the old men some green material on the cinder paths, and Dr. Brown began to mold his track team. There followed a very successful season. The Carolina track team defeated Washington and Lee, 73 to 52, in the opening meet of the Carolina season. Carolina showed exceptional strength in the distances, and in such field events as the discus and shot put—winning all but two points in these events.

The second meet of the season was a triangular meet between Virginia Polytechnic Institute, Virginia Military Institute, and Carolina, at Virginia Polytechnic Institute. The track was bad, the weather very cold, and the records for all were low. Carolina evidenced a slump in form, due to the exceptional weather, and came out second.

The State meet completed the season, and Carolina showed the old-time form, winning first by a margin of forty points. Chapel Hill was a rainy and damp place, and the track was far from fast. The whole team showed up well, and the season was crowned with success, due largely to the efficient coaching of Dr. Brown, and the persistent work of the team.

ALULL has been conspicuous in the activities of the Classes in Athletics; but it has been an intentional one on the part of both coaches and students. With the exception of the first-year men, the upper-classmen are being urged not to engage in Class Athletics, but to come out for the Varsity team, and thereby get more attention, opportunity, and equipment. The coaches feel that there is a lack of keen competitive work in Varsity Athletics, and are striving in this manner to stimulate a deeper interest. The Class Tennis teams and Basket-Ball teams, however, are being developed into vigorous machines, while the Freshmen Reserves, who are debarred on account of the one-year ruling, are rapidly being rounded into prospective material of some import.

College Life

IN 1960

*If by chance you go to heaven, you will be surprised to find,
That our friend Bernard will greet you with a smile both sweet and kind;
And of course you can't but wonder how he climbed to such a height—
But you soon will know the answer, if you'll read what I now write.*

*Now it seems that Mr. Eubanks, and our old friend Brockwell, too,
With Bernard had gone to heaven, when they bade this earth "adieu";
And as Paradise drew nearer, they decided 'twould be best
If they let their dear friend Brockwell enter first "the place of rest."*

*So upon the gates of heaven, Mr. Brockwell knocked with pride,
And the golden gates were opened by St. Peter very wide.
Then Sam Brockwell started inward, but St. Peter said, "Refrain,
For your journey up to heaven probably has been in vain.
And before you enter HERE, friend, just one question I require:
Was your car a Pierce or Packard, or some other speedy flyer?"*

*Now to such a simple question Mr. Brockwell soon replied,
"Why, the Cadillac was my car"; then he started right inside;
But St. Peter blocked his progress, while he said with quite a frown,
You belong not quite so high, Friend—I will have to send you down.*

*Altho Eubanks had his courage shaken by Sam Brockwell's fate,
In his heart he still was hoping that he'd pass the golden gate.
So, when old St. Peter asked him for the name of his auto,
He replied, "It was a Hudson; into heaven I would go."
But St. Peter smiled serenely; then he said, with quite a grin,
I am sure that you must follow in the footsteps of your friend.*

*Now Bernard's turn came to enter; in his heart was deep despair.
He had died with thoughts of heaven, but his hopes were shattered there.
Now he thought of his small Sharon—for this car was all he HAD;
And as he recalled its actions it would nearly drive him mad.*

*But he walked up to St. Peter, and he whispered in his ear.
 "My poor car was named the SHARON, Friend; I don't belong up here."
 Then he turned his back on heaven, and he started to depart.
 But St. Peter called him back with words that eased his aching heart.*

*"There are men on earth, friend Bully," said St. Peter with a smile,
 "Who collect their store of riches by the practise of their guile.
 There are men like Mr. Wilson, who are placed above the best;
 And altho they ride in Packards, they're no better than the rest.
 But the highest place in heaven cannot rest upon your birth;
 You have earned the right to enter; you have had your HELL on earth."*

VERS UNDECIM

*My friend, a word before you pass.
This page of glowing verse
Sings victory and defeat—alas,
The latter should be worse!*

*For back in warm September days
When summer's ray was bright
The sullen, smoldering, trodden blaze
Of our spirit got alight.*

*And Tommy Campbell's voice was heard
On yon athletic field.
He told the men, with nod and word,
To no blamed team to yield.*

*In cleated shoe and jersey blue
Those chaps rushed 'round the place;
Determined they, all thru and thru,
To punch Virginia's face.*

*Before the summer sun had lost
The sweetness from its ray,
Scorning we to count the cost
Were toiling day by day.*

*Doc Klutz and Cowan both were here
To coach that warrior band.
They taught the ends the pill to spear,
The line to use its sand.*

The school was glad, the school was mad
About that team of ours.
Virginia men were getting sad—
They saved their kale for flowers.

With victory here, disaster there,
The season went its way.
Upon Virginia's head the hair
Was getting pretty gray.

For soon t.e fa'al day arrived,
And Richmond town was gay.
Peanut and candy sellers thrived
On tickets for the fray.

Earl Harris got his baton out.
With horn and drum and fife;
That band and he the crowd about
Did lead like man his wife.

The Jefferson Hotel was filled
With chunks of shouts and noise;
"The Good Old Song" was often killed
When raised by hostile boys.

Before the game the sun peeped out
Between the leaden clouds,
And joyful students danced about
In tens and scores and crowds.

The stands were filled, and time was killed
By hurling peanu's 'round,
Un'til by Si the crowd was stilled.
The band played "Hark, the Sound!"

The White and Blue ran thru the gate
And out upon the grass;
The Blue and Orange—a little late.
The bleachers rise EN MASSE.

Then Cap'ain Tandy won the toss,
And chose the western goal.
He urged his men in gain and loss
To fight with heart and soul.

The whistle blows; the fray is on,
The Tarheels have the ball.
They have it now, and then it's gone.
The teams gain not at all.

All thru the half they battle hard,
But neither side can score.
They seesaw up and down the sward,
Tired and mad and sore.

But period third begins at last;
They fight as best they can.
But scarcely had ten minutes passed
Before the fun began.

For Quarter Williams took the pill
From Tandy's squatting form,
And Tarheels then opponents spill
Like sparrows in a storm.

Bill Folger grabs the Quarter's throw,
And stiff-arms Charlie Ward;
Some frenzied Tarheel yells out, "Go!"
And dumps young Coleman hard.

Then weighty Thurman falls to earth
As "Hoggie" hits him low.
The stands are filled with yells of mirth,
To see those rascals go.

They can not reach him with a pole;
They can't touch Bill at all.
He's tackled just beyond the goal,
And si's upon the ball.

But Cap'ain Tandy's trusty toe—
A perfect goal it kicks
And then a one, as you may know,
Was added to the six.

The game goes on. And pretty fierce
The fight, for countless times,
When V-A tries our line to pierce,
They're stopped by "Grizz" and Grimes.

The last man finally is aowned,
The whistle blows; and then
The bunch climbs down upon the ground,
And hugs those weary men.

We weep and euss and shout aloud,
And walk upon our hands.
The horns blare forth before the crowd
As loud as fifty bands.

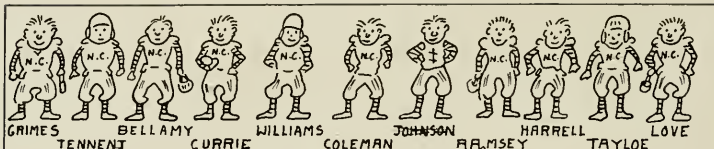

That night the cops were sixteen deep,
But fun was had by all
Before we crawled away to sleep
In car or room or hall.

But this my lay, oh worthy sir,
Would fain be ended here;
For weary is your chronicler,
And wearier still your ear.

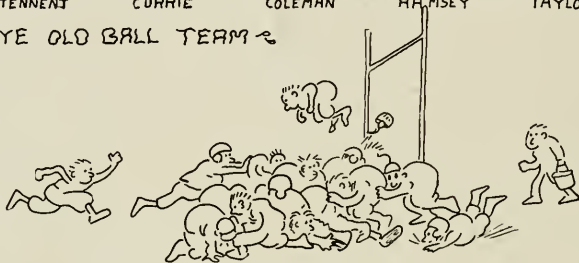

But, honored reader, pray you, hear:
One word must whispered be—
When U. N. C. meets V-A next year
May you be there to see.

MIXING IT UP

WHICH?

"BILLIE" STEEL saw the cat's tail sticking thru a hole in the fence, and, thinking to have a little innocent pleasure, began to beat Dixie on the cat's tail.

JOHN AYCOCK, noticing him, said, "I didn't know Billy Steel would do a thing like that. I thought he was a humanitarian."

DORTCH: I thought he was a Deke.

* * *

"BULLY" BERNARD: Mr. Calvert, give me an example of Grecian contribution to modern civilization in America.

CALVERT (confidently): Nick.

* * *

"WHAT'S the difference between a tired bulldog and a dressed-up man?"

"The dressed-up man wears a whole suit, but a tired dog just pants."

A BEAUTIFUL example of contemplation gone to seed—HORACE WILLIAMS.

BRUCE WEBB (rhapsodizing over the girl): . . . and the prettiest hand I've ever held.

D. BOYD KIMBALL (waking up about that time): I had a royal straight flush myself, yesterday.

LUCKY TOMMY

DAVE: What are you doing, Tommy?

T. BORDEN: Collecting.

DAVE: Collecting what?

T. B.: Collecting my thoughts.

DAVE: I thought it was something like that. You always were lucky, having only light work to do.

* * *

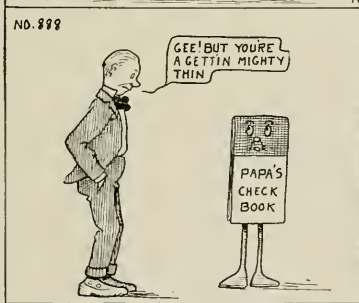

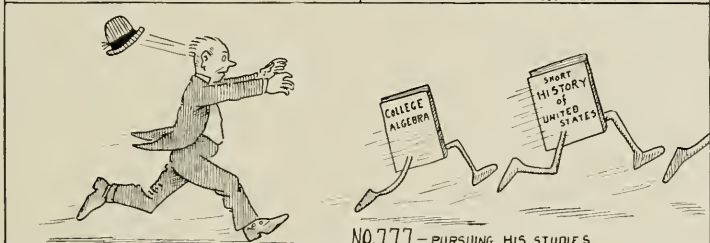

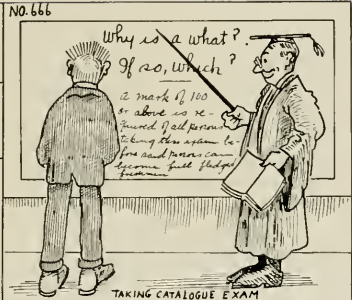

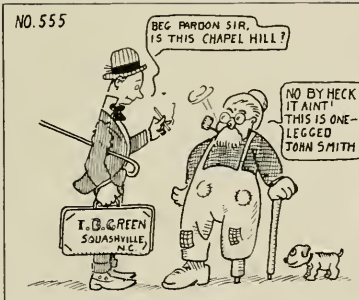

OUCH!

"GUSHING WILLIE" NORWOOD (wishing to impress her): What would you do if you were a man?

SHE: What would you do?

BETA THETA PI

Founded originally as a woman's organization; founded by Miss-Take and Miss-Calculation as a Sorosis Society.

Dearest Possession: The thoughts of bygone days.

Situation: Blighted.

Favorite Maxim: Woolgin, where art thou in our sorest need?

DELTA KAPPA EPSILON

Founded by someone who was in a hurry, but may have meant no harm.

Dearest Possession: Our hymn book.

Situation: Mournful; colors at half mast.

Favorite Maxim: The Phi Society we do not hate,
We only seek to emulate,
And our only tearful hope
Is that every knocks a boost at most.

SIGMA ALPHA EPSILON

Founded by a germ specialist.

Dearest Possession: We at least have a wonderful house.

Situation: Go, going, fading.

Favorite Maxim: A few mistakes now and then
Will harmonize with some within.

SIGMA NU

Founded by a man just on the verge of suicide, who like
Adam when he saw his mistake,
Went and blamed it on the snake.

Dearest Possession: A hole to crawl in.

Situation: Morose.

Favorite Maxim: Many we had, but few remained
To bear the burdens of snakish aims.

SIGMA CHI

Founded in a pawnshop dealing in leftovers.

Dearest Possession: Herschall Johnson's memory.

Situation: Discouraging.

Favorite Maxim: "In God we trust"—that someone will occasionally join us.

ALPHA TAU OMEGA

Founded in a Chinese sweat shop.

Dearest Possession: Distance. Distance lends enchantment. (May they always remain distant!)

Situation: Same as the Titanic.

Favorite Maxim: Fools may come, and fools may go,
But it's a rare old fool that joins the A. T. O.

PI KAPPI PHI

Founded by accident, we hope—we would hate to think of such a thing as malice aforethought.

Dearest Possession: That we are distinctly individual.

Situation: Even Beelzebub would have had his preferences.

Favorite Maxim: There has been murder, pillage, and crime,
All due to the god named Rye;
But the greatest crime of all was
The founding of Pi Kappa Phi.

PI KAPPA ALPHA

Founded as a last resort to nausea (it failed), in the dark ages, or by a twentieth-century fanatic.

Dearest Possession: The fact that they are not ashamed to be seen on their porch, even if everybody else is.

Situation: If there was something rotten in Denmark—what about her here?

Favorite Maxim: Fools rush in where angels fear to tread.
Now just look at this bunch and see if all the fools are dead.

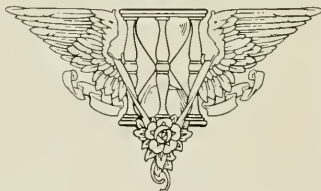

BETA PHI

Founded: Sh! Sh! Sh! Don't tell anybody! (It's a family secret.)

Dearest Possession: That as the world had but one Napoleon, so did they have but one Goforth.

Situation: Sad, sorrowful, and sickly.

Favorite Maxim: Goforth had his aspirations,
It is no shame we say,
The only thing we blame him for
Is what he did that day.

FRAME-UPS

WHY does Bill Allen look around to see if anyone is coming in when he goes to the soda fountain?

How far can Dave Cooper scent a Freshman?

FRANK UPCHURCH: Spent two days and ten cents in Raleigh.

RALPH STOCKTON: Too modest to do improper fractions.

BO BALLEU: Born April 1.

HUGH HESTER: What's the least you would take for a two-cent stamp?

THE big home run of the season—Christmas holidays.

A PENNY with the brass of a nickel—MARSHALL BARBER.

NEEDED: Benzine, to take the spots out of first Geology.

FRESHMAN (watching the sewer pipe being repaired): Whew! We won't have any warm water tomorrow.

NEVER run after the girls. They are just like "Little Bo-Peep's" sheep—
"Leave them alone, and they will come home"

A GOOD poker player is a good hand with the ladies; he knows how to call a bluff.

STILL IN DOUBT

THE two "Beau Brummels," Leicester Chapman and Bingham McKee, wished to delight a certain young lady with their company one evening, so "Chappie" telephoned her. "I wonder if Bingham and myself could call around this evening?" he said.

"You can keep on wondering," she answered.

WHY was Eve created?
For Adam's Express Company.

BIG PRICE (to farmer): What do you charge to weigh hogs?

FARMER: O, just get on; I'll weigh you for nothing.

If you get the best of whiskey,
Whiskey will get the best of you.
A Wright maxim.

TOM STRANGE: I can't seem to get electricity into my head.

DR. DAGGET: No wonder! Bone is a non-conductor.

UP TO HIS OLD TRICKS

CHARLIE DANIELS: I have your permission to call on you this evening?

SHE: I shall be very pleased; but don't forget that father switches off the lights at ten o'clock.

CHARLIE: That's very kind of him. I'll be there promptly at ten.

THE SONG OF THE PUD-SEEKER

When the last, last exam. is over,
And the University gives me pay,
I hope that it won't be Phi Beta Kappa honors
(As none of my professors say);
And I hope that it won't be a job
With some of the 'fessors I've met.
All I want is just a sheepskin,
And to go off and forget.

GOATIE WRIGHT has a bad cold, caught from drinking out of a damp bottle.

IN MOOT COURT

MR. RUFFIN, do you know anything about this woman's whereabouts?

MR. RUFFIN: The last time I saw them, they were in the washtub.

HUBERT SMITH: A necessary evil is an overcrowded community.

GRATEFUL STUDENT: I am indebted to you for all I know.

UNGRATEFUL TEACHER: Don't speak of such trifles.

FIRST FLEA: Been on a vacation?

SECOND FLEA: Nope, been on a tramp.

PROPH: If I should let you thru, what would happen to my reputation?

STUDENT: But what would happen to mine, if you didn't?

LINDAU: All that is, I am. What I'm not, ain't.

MARQUIS JORDAN (coyly): I love you.

LADY MEREDITH: The hell you do.

EDITORIAL

IN ITS growing life of expansion and development, the University has reached a stage when it is placed in juxtaposition with the progress of the State. At this period we deem it especially appropriate to dedicate this Volume to the State, representing as it does the life of the State's younger citizenship, and displaying to an extent the molding influence which the State's Educational Center is wielding over the future destiny of the commonwealth. To our Great Mother then, who shows us the life of justice and liberty, and aids us into education and power, we present this book as a small token of the gratitude and reverence in which we hold her.

To the advertisers whose interest in us has been manifested, we wish to extend our thanks; and we trust that you who peruse the book will display the same interest as they have shown in us, by reading the advertisements, and extending wherever possible your patronage.

To the Staff, for their willingness and helpfulness; to D. Archibald Henderson, Richard Thornton, and Dr. Battle, for their literary contributions, we wish to express our appreciation. To Holding, Whitson, Henderson, and Burnett, we attribute whatever artistic merit the book may show; and to the Bureau of Engraving and the Observer Printing House, we extend our heartiest thanks for their untiring efforts, interest, and co-operation in making the issue of this publication possible.

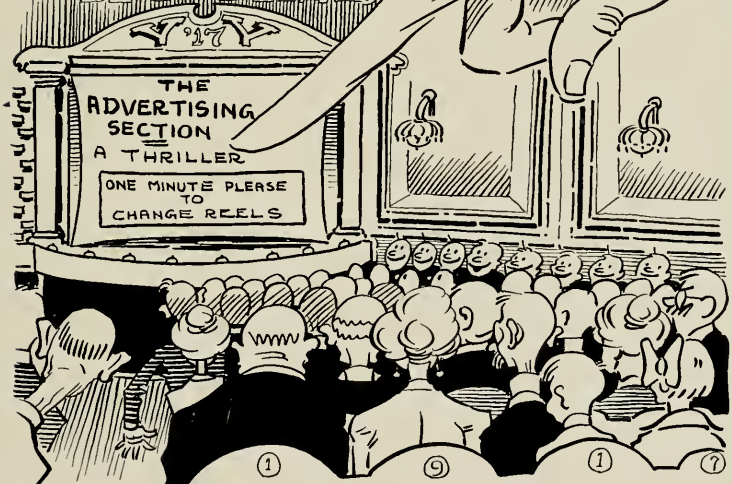

GENTLE readers, this marks the end of our feeble efforts. We acknowledge your applause with due modesty.

For us, there is nothing left but the shouting.

For the managers, there is nothing left but the collecting and cussing.

For you, there is nothing left but the advertisements. We trust that you will peruse these with diligence, since they represent the largest and most reliable firms thruout the State.

CY THOMPSON

Every man in college needs Life Insurance protection. You need it today for tomorrow. It protects creditors now, and provides for future dependents in case you die. It makes provision for your own old age if you do not. It gives stability to credit, strengthens business, and brings peace of mind all along the way.

FOR THE STUDENT

We offer an ideal low-cost contract, for the student who wants maximum protection for a minimum outlay. This policy provides for all changes which future needs might demand. But a sick man can not buy it.

WHEN YOU MARRY

Our life income contract offers the simplest and most certain method of providing a definite, guaranteed monthly income for a woman — as long as she may live. No investments to make and to watch and to worry over. No taxes to pay. No depreciation. No uncertainty and no anxiety in dependent old age. If you really love her — THINK.

“If you love a woman,
That's your business —
If a woman loves you,
That's her business —
But if you marry her,
You need Life Insurance —
And that's OUR business” — E.T.

Wanted-A $50,000 Man

THE response to this advertisement, run by a big Boston corporation, was enormous. Hundreds of applicants presented themselves; but one by one they were turned down. Their training and knowledge of business principles were not broad enough to fit them for the position. What was wanted was a man with a trained mind—a man who knew the great fundamental principles upon which all business is built.

There are many big positions waiting, right now, for men who are prepared to fill them. Yet qualified men are seldom found. There is a dearth of good material, a famine in the market. In almost every big business there are $10,000—and even $15,000—positions open, waiting for the right men to step in.

The big fundamental principles behind your work

You feel and know that you have the capacity for greater success. But conscientious work alone will not fit you to get ahead. You must be prepared before you can hope to rise much above your present position. You must master the big fundamental principles behind the work you are now doing and which underlie the job ahead of you.

It is this broad grasp of the fundamentals of business that the Alexander Hamilton Institute is teaching to more than fifty thousand men in America today.

Based upon the actual experience of thousands of successful business men

The Institute collects, classifies, and transmits to you, thru the Modern Business Course and Service, the best thought and practice in modern business. It will give you a thoro and sound training in the fundamental principles underlying all departments of business—it will give you a knowledge that could otherwise be obtained only by years of bitter experience—if at all.

Advisory Council

Business and educational authority of the highest standing is represented in the Advisory Council of the Institute. This Advisory Council includes Frank A. Vanderlip, President of the National City Bank of New York; Judge E. H. Gary, head of the United States Steel Corporation; John Hays Hammond, the eminent engineer; Joseph French Johnson, Dean of the New York University School of Commerce; and Jeremiah W. Jenks, the statistician and economist.

The kind of men enrolled

Presidents of big corporations are often enrolled for this Course and Service along with ambitious young men in their employ. Among the fifty thousand subscribers are such men as: H. C. Osborn, President American Multigraph Sales Company; Melville W. Mix, President of the Dodge Manufacturing Company; George M. Verity, President of the American Rolling Mills; William H. Ingersoll, Marketing Manager of the biggest watch company in the world; N. A. Hawkins, General Sales Manager of the Ford Motor Company—and scores of others equally prominent.

In the Standard Oil Company 270 men are enrolled with the Alexander Hamilton Institute; in the United States Steel Corporation, 350; in the National Cash Register Company, 194; in the General Electric Company, 293, in the Pennsylvania Railroad, 92—and so on down the list of the biggest concerns in America.

You have, no doubt, made the exposures correctly, but the success of the finished picture depends on the experience and care of the person doing the finishing, as well as the equipment and quality of materials used for developing films. We use large stone tanks, exactly like those used by the Eastman Kodak Company in their finishing department. This insures the very best results, and entirely eliminates under- and over-development.

REASON 1—LOCK SPEED

Birds flying a mile a minute travel over 17 feet in one-fifth of a second. A lightning lock and a quick load are important. Ithaca lightning locks operate in $\frac{1}{40.25}$ of a second. A bird flying a mile a minute travels but a fraction over an inch in this time. We figure this lock speed will increase your score at least five per cent. Large catalog free.
