The Missouri Republican says: "It is generally conceded that, under the provisions of the federal constican be voted for, at the next August election in this state." last session, omitted to provide for the election of two representatives, to which it was evident from the increase of population, that it would be entitled.

Louisiana will be in a similar predicament, should Mr. Webster's plan be carried through the house. With a right to four, we can elect but three, under the existing laws; and the propriety has already been suggested of his excelcase, be given to this city.

A very animated and somewhat aerimonious canvass appears to be going on in the third congressional district of this state, between the honorable H. A. Bullard, the present incumbent, and the Lonorable Alexander Mouten, the speaker of the house of representatives of this state, who the confirmation of private land claims, upon forged titles; Anno. and colonel Preston's report to the government, on that subject, is quoted very freely and somewhat harshly against

Of Mr. Mouton, his opponents find it rather difficult to say anything disadvantageous. Possessed of handsome talcats of a mind well stered with information, matured by much experience-with undoubted integrity of purpose, and amiable manners, he commands the respect of all who knew him. He would do honor to the state as well as to himself, in the national councils.

In the second district, the contest is between general Thomas and general Ripley. Gen. Thomas has agreeably lisappointed both his friends and enemies, by the station he has assumed in congress. He is likely to give his competi-tor rather a hard race. We have a sum of the citizens of Lerma have followed tor rather a hard race. We are not aware how far party politics are influencing the elections in the second district; but should party tactics be brought to bear against general Thomas, should there be no other candidates, general Ripley has a reasonable prospect of success.

In the first district, it is to be presumed that no one will be found rash enough to enter the field against our present worthy representative, judge White.

We have read with attention, the exposition of the editors of the New York Courier and Enquirer, of their transactions with the United States Bank, and also the report of the majority of the committee appointed to investigate the affairs of that institution—the report of the minority, by ex-president Adams, has not yet come to hand. We coincide in the opinion expressed by the intelligent editor of the National Gazette, that the statement of the may add instructive, in the view which it affords of New Cambreling as champion. Colonel Johnson was not far ate on the gallows the horrible crimes which have cov wrong when he said-"I consider this pretty much a New ered the whole republic with mourning." York fight." The editors of the Courier and Enquirer are nolated, if possible, at the shrine of the reacy, and in order to remove an impediment to the design of rendering New York the pecuniary metropolis of the

The apportionment bill, as amended by the senate, whose acts, while in the command of the state of Guapromises to become a principal topic of debate in the house dalaxir, excited so much discontent, and, perhaps, The apportionment bill, as amended by the senate, of representatives. When we first received information that Mr. Webster had proposed a new plan of apportion ment to the consideration of the senate, we greatly regretted it. We had long been aware that the old plan was liable to some serious objections, and that those objections would become more formidable as our population increased but we, at the same time, deemed them to be insurmount able—that among twenty-four states, whose populations varied from seventy-five thousand to almost two millions, no plan or ratio could be devised, that would not operate hardly upon some of the states. The bill, as it passed through the house of representatives, operated very hardly upon several of the New England states in particular; and we supposed that Mr. Webster had devoted all the energies of his powerful mind, to devise a plan by which a portion of the hardship should be cast from the New England upon some of the other states; and we therefore regreited that he should have undertaken a task so entirely unworthy of his gigantic intellect and professions of en-

But we have since read his report with diligent attention; and it has produced in our mind the most horough conviction that he has discovered the only true, correct and equitable mode of apportionment,—the only one that will ultimately be adopted by congress, be its present fate what it may in the house of representatives. Entertaining this Huimanguillo to Tobusco, for the purpose of protecting opinion of the justice and expediency of this plan, we the patriots of that state, and another, of one thou would most cheerfully lay it before our readers entire; but its great length, and the great variety of interesting occurrences that are continually transpiring, forbid our doing so, for the present. We cannot, however, forbear offering some remarks upon what we deem the defects of the old plan, and the merits of the one proposed by Mr. Webster and adopted by the senate.

The old pish was to fix upon some ratio-that is, some number of persons which would be entitled to a representative, and then, by dividing the federal population of each state by that ratio, the quotient would show the number of representatives it was entitled to. The first objection to this mode, that has always presented itself to our mind is, protection to the French citizens who reside in that that it leaves to some states very large fractions, and to city. The United States ship Grampus, which went above suit. others very small ones; thus, in some cases, doing manifest thither for a similar purpose towards the American resinjustice. Mr. Webster, in his report, has pointed out some idents, was lying at anchor outside of the bar, when of the cases; but much stronger ones might be found. For the Eliza Thomas left. instance, under the bill as it passed in the house, with a ratio of 47,700, New York, containing a federal population of 1,918,552, would be entitled to forty representatives; while the six following states, viz: New Hampshire, Vermont. Massachusetts, Connecticut, New Jersey, and we sincerely wish him success, from a firm conviction Louislans, with a population exceeding that of New York that it is a station he will fill with credit to himself, by more than 30,000, would be entitled to only thirty-seven and usefulness and fidelity to his country. The colomesphera. There is gross injustice in this; and if the old nel is peculiarly qualified to represent the interests of plan be persisted in, it will become still more intolerable as the population advances and the ratio is enlarged.

There is another objection: the relative influence of the states, in the house of representatives, depends, almost stirely, upon mere accident. For instance, at the ratio ed by the bill that persed the house, Rhode Island. with a population of 97,194, has as many members as Missouri, with a population of 180,419; and if the ratio had only been incressed 800, as as to have made it 48,000, So that a variation of 5 200 months and 1 100 months and Island but one' So that a variation of 5,200 would alter sued by the southern states, in the event that congress

As 11,928: 1,418,663:: 240:228,50. Here 28,50 being nearer to 20 than 28, New York is ustly entitled to only 30 of the 240 represent tives, where se the bill from the house gives that state 40. This calculation must suffice to show the equity of Mr. Webster's plen; and having done so, we conclude with a remark that Louisiana has every reseas to be grateful to him for originating it, as thereby we obtain another representative in the lower breach of the national legislature.

The Washington correspondent of the N. Y. Cour-er.speaking of Mr. McLane's bill, says;

But gen. The Arabe took them from Indians in 900, The other castern nations received them through the means of the Spaniards, in a sho t time after their in. vasions. The first Greek who made use of them was Plenudes, in a work dedicated to Michael Palclogus, in 1289; so that the Greeks had them not from the Arabbut the Latins. These cyphers were first used in Paria, in 1259; and became generally used in England, as Dr. Wallis thinks, about the year 1130.— Cartosities of Literature.
