Streight, that even considering the difference in the size, the cost of gasoline was over nine cents more in this Province than in the United States, and that there was no reason for it. The only explanation given by dealers south of the boundary line was that British Columbia dealers were "putting one over on the public," it was stated. Even in the mountains to the south the cost of gasoline was not over twenty-one cents a gallon. In Portland the cost was nineteen cents and in other places sixteen cents. The claim of British Columbia dealers that the verude oil had to be brought from Peru was considered ridiculous, as if would not be bought there unless there was some strong financial rea-son for so doing. THE STORM ABATING

Yesterday's weekly deliverance from Premier Poincare should still further calm the calmer attitude which the French press has been adopting during the last two or three days. For in spite of the fact that Britain doubts the legality of the Franco-Belgian occupation of the Ruhr and France refuses even to discuss it ; of Britain's desire for evacuation of the occupied territory prior to the entire payment of reparations and France's refusal; of Britain's desire for a fresh adjudication of Germany's capacity to pay and France's refusal to ravise the arrangement, of May, 1921, there seems to be a well defined determination on both sides of the Channel to preserve the spirit of the Entente in some form.

Nor is there reason to doubt it. No member of the British public would permit any British Government to comfort Germany at the expense of France because the official view in Downing Street does not agree with that at the Quai d'Orsay. And because international finance is inconvenienced by the economic deadlock that the low that the spirit of unity and common sacrific which blocked the initial scheme of the dodging debtor must crumble into a meaningless thing be fore the vulgar weight of materialism.

The average individual recalls the fact that there are ten million pensioners whose condition represents an equal number of reasons why Germany should not escape the consequences of her foul deeds. He also refuses to believe that 62,000,000 people, with their wealth-producing machinery intact and no foreign debt, cannot pay in thirty-six years what France, in proportion paid between 1871 and 1873. France had been devastated then as she has been again. And the last German battalion left French soil only when the last payment had been made.

If it prefers to stand aloof from the Union that is its own affair. But we are of the opinion that the published reason for non-attendance at Prince Rupert is an exceedingly frail one and completely at variance with a commercial outlook upon which the businessmen of Vancouver pride them--more especially since the return of the elves Board of Trade delegation from Great Britain. They recognize the benefit that must flow from wider knowledge of the affairs of other people And if that principle is sufficiently appealing to take a couple of dozen progressive citizens on a

The use of the Panama Canal has com-pietely changed the transportation problems of the West. Welsh coal is now being brought direct to San Francisco; Brilish Columbia lum-ber is being shipped via the Panama Canal to-the Atlantic coast and points 300 to 500 miles in-land; San Francisco is further and the the eastern coast of the United States 900,000 tons of merchandise annually, and Atlantic coast manufacturers of certain commodities are under-selling Ontario manufacturers in British Co-lumbia. These developments mast be recog-nized and taken into account by the people of Eastern Canada.

It is no secret, of course, that any substantial evelopment at Pacific Coast ports that is likely to permit the West to share the business of the East is regarded as nothing short of a national calamity by many Eastern interests. But they may as well make up their minds, as The Quebec Telegraph points out, that the West is riding on a wave of progress and does not propose to negleet a single opportunity that it may turn to its material benefit. Docking at William Head 1 o'clock standard time this after-noon the Admiral Oriental liner President McKinley, Captain Alvin O. Lustie, beat her own schedule by one day. Favored by good weather until she reached the Straits, the vessel was able to bring one of the most valuable silk cargos here in years from the Orient a day thead of her exponented time.

Orient a day shead of her expected time. Stewed before her justices and one showent of raw sill After discharging cargo here she will proceed to Seattle, when the silk will be transhipped with all speed and rushed across the continent on the special silk train for New York and other Eastern cities.

NEAR SAN LAZARU Los Angeles, Aug. 20. — The freight steamship Dakotan went ashore near San Lazaro on the west coast of Mexico, according to a wirreless message from her picked up early to-day by the Fed-eral Telegraph Company. No one was injured, the mea-sage stated, and the tanker Charles Pratt was expected to reach the stranded vessel at 7 a.m. and pull her off. The tanker Charles Pratt anchored near the American-Hawaiian Treighter Dakotan, ashore near San Lazaro, west coast of Mexico, at 8.30 a.m. to-day, according to a message re-ceived from the Dakotan by the Federal Telegraph Company. Preparations were under way to to w off the freighter which was undamsed, according to the message.

They plan to give a weekly service to North Pacific ports in conjunction with four other corporations, and will operate a total of from tweive to fourteen modern steamships averag-ing more than 10,000 tons each. The final destination on this end of the new run will be Seattle and Tacoma, while the point of departure from the Atlantic seaboard will be Baltimore. The corporations operating jointly in this new service are the United American Lines, Houlder. Weir and Boyd Inc., of New York, Sudden and Christensen, of San Francisco and Seattle, the Columbia Pacific Ship-ping Company, of Portland, and the Weyerhaeuser Timber Company, of Everet. The Fleet vessel docked here at 4.30 o clock standard time that afternoon. She was acheduled to leave at 5.30 but trouble developed in the con-denser which had to be remedied be-fore leaving and as a result the ship was delayed tweive hours. It is reported that she had leaky condenser tubes but her staff of en-gineers were able to make the re-pairs themselves. The vessel carried a fairly large passenger list on her outbound pas-sage, while stowed away in her holds was a record cargo for outbound ships for the Orient. There were 150 cabin passengers aboard the vessel when she sailed. Traveling steerage were 225 passengers. Aboard the vessel was A. G. Hen-

Has Risen Quickly The new champion, who takes rank with Mrs. May Sutton Bundy as the youngest player to win the fiational women's title, has risen to highest American honors in three years of national title competition. She first attracted attention in 1921, when she enpured the national girls' cham-pionship, repeating her victory last year when she also entered the women's title events for the first time, winning the national doubles with Mrs. Marion Zinderstein Jessup as her partner and reaching the final round against Mrs. Mallory, who won by 6-2, 6-1.

Tailente's opinions and mine are so far apart that even argument would be impossible." "Besides which, I never argue, out-side the House," he added. "You should stand for Parliament, Colonel Foshcock, and let us hear once more the Athanasian Creed of politics. All opposition is wholesome." Colonel Fosbtook glared. The fact that he had three times stood for Parliament and three times been de-feated was one of the mortifications of his life. He made his adieux to Jame and departed, and to Tailente's joy a break-up of the party seemed imminent. Mrs. Ward Lewitte drifted out and Lady English followed suit. Lady Somerham also rose to her feet, but after a glance at Tailente sat down again. "My dear Jane," she Insisted, "you must dine with us to-night. You haven't been here long enough to have any engagements, and it al-ways puts your uncle in such a good temper to hear that you are coming." Jane shook her head. "Thorday, then."
