FOREWORD

We take pleasure to introduce to the public interested in promoting China's foreign trade the 1948 Edition of the Directory of Importers and Exporters in China, which has been compiled and published by the Foreign Trade Association of China.

In comparison with the 1947 Edition, the present volume contains many improvements and interesting features. Apart from the increased quantities of information, the materials have been more practically arranged. An index in Chinese is provided in a new section under the title "Chinese-English Hong Names", which will no doubt offer better facilities to the Chinese users of the Directory.

In addition to the firms in Shanghai and other principal commercial ports of China, the leading import and export houses in Hongkong are also included in the present edition.

The Foreign Trade Association of China, since its inauguration in 1944, has helped a great deal in promoting China's foreign trade. Its activities in this respect are well known to all the businessmen in China and abroad. In consideration of the above, the Ministry of Industry and Commerce has authorized the Foreign Trade Association of China to compile and publish this Directory, the successful fulfilment of which has provided another concrete evidence of the useful services rendered by the Association.

It is earnestly hoped that the 1948 Edition of the Directory will serve as a useful reference book for fostering China's international trade, which is of vital importance to the rehabilitation of her post-war economy.

Chen Chi-tien

Minister of Industry & Commerce

Nanking, August 1, 1948.

PREFACE

The 1948 Edition of the Directory of Importers and Exporters in China is the first volume of this useful commercial guidebook to be compiled and published solely by the Foreign Trade Association of China under appointment by the Ministry of Industry and Commerce. The preceding edition published in 1947 represented the joint effort of the Association, the Ministry of Economic Affairs and the International Economic Association of China.

The material used in the present volume includes information collected on the spot by the branch offices of the Association in various localities, and has been constantly revised to conform as far as possible with conditions up to August 1, 1948.

In the compilation of this edition, the publishers have exerted the utmost care and effort in the collection of useful and accurate information. The names listed in the book represent as exhaustively as possible the recognized importers and exporters in all the important cities in China, including those in Taiwan. In view of the strategic position Hongkong occupies in the economy of South China, the scope of this volume has also been extended to include this British colony.

It should be noted that the capital of firms listed in this edition is expressed in Chinese National Dollars, as registered with the National Government. Owing to the depreciation of the old fapi, it will not be possible to judge the financial and credit standing of a firm merely by looking at its listed capital. With the change of the national currency to the Gold Yuan on August 19 this year, all commercial and industrial establishments have been instructed to convert their capital into the new currency. Capital expressed in Gold Yuan will undoubtedly show more accurately the financial standing of a firm, but we decided not to wait for this change to be effected as it would greatly delay the publication of this year's edition.

At the back of this book there are appended three special index sections, namely (1) Classified Import and Export Commodities, (2) Agencies, and (3) Chinese-English Hong Names. These new sections provide the users of this Directory with easy and rapid reference to more than 2,500 import and export firms in China and their lines of business. From the first section foreign buyers and sellers will be able to look for firms dealing in goods in which they are interested. The second section offers a list of well-known foreign manufacturers and their products as well as their agents in China, while the third section gives the English equivalents of all the listed Chinese hong names.

Another feature of the present edition is the inclusion of a large amount of useful reference material, such as information and regulations having relation to the foreign trade of China. Included are also many enquiries from traders for business recommendation which will be found valuable by the users of this directory.

In publishing the present volume of the Directory, the publishers take pride in acknowledging the trust placed in them by the Government Authorities. They are also grateful to the public for their financial cooperation, and to the directors and supervisors as well as the staff members of the Association who have contributed their valuable share to the publication of this directory. If this volume will give even a particle of help to trade circles and bring Sino-foreign trade relations just a little closer, the publishers will consider that the objects of their compiling this reference book have been attained and their labor has been fully rewarded.

A WORD TO OUR ADVERTISERS

The publishers of this Directory take this opportunity to express their sincere gratitude for the support and cooperation they have received from the advertisers. Meanwhile, they wish to point out that owing to the excessive numbers of advertisements, the publishers have failed, in some cases, to comply with the instructions of the advertisers in arranging the spaces of the ads., for which they feel very regretful.

BANKING SERVICES AND FOREIGN TRADE

The FINANCE of FOREIGN TRADE is a specialised department of banking, which requires a broad experience and worldwide connections. No foreign trade can be developed without modern and efficient banking services. Therefore, these two are closely related with each other.

In compiling the Directory of Importers and Exporters in China, 1948, the publishers have taken pain to include in the listings names of the bankers of the firms, so that the credit standing of the latter may be checked up from the former.

Hereunder is a list of the Chinese and foreign banks in Shanghai, which are more or less contributable for the promotion and development of China's foreign commerce. Regarding detailed information about these banks, we wish to refer the users of this Directory to the advertisements of the banks in the book.

Founded in the 17th year of the Chinese Republic (1948), the Dong Hsin Industrial Company operates a modern factory at No. 3, 144 Lane, Kian Road, Shanghai for mass production of Men's, Women's and Children's Hosiery in Cotton, Rayon, Silk and Woollen. ORIENT AND
SERVICES

Bound for a Bigger World . . .

American President's faith in the expanding world market of tomorrow is reflected in its newly-acquired fleet of fast C-3 freighters.

On the new President ships your cargo will be safeguarded by the most modern engineering advances and by a record and inheritance of 75 years of service to American shippers and our friends abroad. President ships carrying American enterprise to the far-off places of the world—bringing back the fabled old-world cargoes that provide both necessities and luxuries for American living.

American President upholds the great traditions of the American Merchant Marine by matching luxury of its passenger accommodations with the speed and efficiency of its freight service—both inter-coastal and foreign.
