TEAS' WEEPING RUSSIAN MULBERRY.

This most remarkable tree will undoubtedly, when known, take a foremost place among weeping trees. It is a most graceful weeping tree, forming a perfect umbrella-shaped head, with long, slender, willowy branches drooping to the ground. It has beautiful foliage, rather small, handsomely cut or divided into lobes, and of a delightfully fresh-looking glossy green. It is perfectly hardy, enduring unharmed not only the severe cold of the North, but the far more destructive heat of the South and Southwest, which is so disastrous to many other weeping trees.

Price of trees, see page 10.

NEW APPLES.

INDIAN APPLE. This valuable new apple originated in Orange county, southern Indiana, on an old Indian camping ground. Trees grafted thirty to forty ~~years ago from original tree are healthy and bear large crops almost every year.~~ Tree a strong, upright grower, as hardy as Ben Davis and much longer lived. Fruit as large as the largest Ben Davis, resembles it in shape, a little duller color, and has a richer yellow meat, making it a very pleasant eating or dessert apple; keeps well. We think this one of the best and most profitable apples in cultivation here, and where known is preferred to Ben Davis. An extra early bearer. This apple is bearing many places in Indiana and elsewhere and highly prized by all who know it.

LONGFIELD (Russian). Early, and good bearer of good fruit, early winter, one of the best.

Yellow Transparent (Russian). Tree a fair grower, hardy and an early and annual bearer, ripens very early, fruit good size to large, beautiful, almost transparent yellow and of good quality. We consider this one of, if not the most valuable early apple ever introduced. three year trees often fruiting in nursery. Is bearing many places in the United States and becoming more popular every year.

WADE RASPBERRY.

This new Black Cap originated on the farm of John Wade, in Fountain county, Ind., about ten years ago. Being attracted by the extraordinary vigor of the plant, its development was carefully watched; and noticing that it stood the winters perfectly, coming out in the spring in excellent condition and without sign of injury, while Gregg, Mammoth Cluster, etc., have been injured and crop shortened, gave its development additional interest. When fruit matured the yield was simply enormous, showing fully one-third more than any other sort under exactly the same cultivation and surroundings. Our attention being called to the merits of this new seedling, and after watching it carefully, finding that it retained all its valuable features year after year, we purchased the entire stock, and now offer it to the trade for the first time.

Fruit nearly as large as Gregg; showy black; firm and superior in quality, making it an ideal market berry as well as one of the best for home use. An iron-clad, wonderfully productive, excellent in quality. Ripens about with Souhegan.

Prices, see page 7.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

JOHN WADE, the originator, says: "Perfectly hardy, standing the excessive cold winter of 1885 without the least injury, when the thermometer marked 32° below zero. Yielded on test packing one-third more quarts to the hill than Gregg or M. Cluster on same grounds. Very fine flavor. In the season of 1888 from one-sixth of an acre was picked 242 gallons, or at the rate of 180 bushels to the acre."

J. C. PHELPS, of Hamilton county, Ind., says, July 4, 1891: "Wade raspberries at their best last Monday. Yield about double that of other varieties under same care, and simply enormous. Have never seen anything bear as much with the same care."

SAMUEL J. LUDLOW, of Fountain county, Ind., says: "Wade seedling yielded one-half more than any other variety I have grown under same care."

GEORGE MINICH, of Fountain county, Ind., says: "Wade seedling yielded at least one-third more than any other variety under same care, and flavor was very fine."

J. ROSENBERGER, of Fountain county, Ind., says: "Wade seedling is the most thrifty, hardy and productive berry I ever cultivated."

IDAHO PEAR.

U. S. Pomologist in Agricultural Report, 1888:

This pear has been attracting so much attention and is of such real value that I take pleasure in giving it a place in this report. It is a variety raised from seed saved from an unknown variety and planted about the year 1867, by Mrs. Mullkey, of Lewiston, Idaho, and first brought to public notice in the fall of 1886, by Mr. John H. Evans, of that place. It has been stated by some of the papers that it is of Chinese parentage, "similar to Kieffer," but my opinion is that this is a mistake, for the fruit bears no resemblance to that class, either in flavor or texture. It is much like Angouleme in both these characters.

Specimens received at this office, October 4, 1888, from Mr. Evans, were in fine condition, and the illustration on plate No. 2 of this report is as near exact in color, size and shape, as could be made, and is not exaggerated in any respect. The original tree commenced to bear fruit at 4 years from seed. I would recommend it for extensive trial, as the tree has already proven itself to be hardy in several northern states.

Size of fruit from 4 to 4½ inches diameter; shape a little flattened, tapering both ways from the center, quite irregular, depressed at the stem; surface rough and uneven, yellow or straw color, with a faint blush or brownish-red on the sunny-side, and a few bronzed blotches; dots minute, dark and very numerous; basin deep, flaring; very irregular or ribbed, and thickly covered with fine, brown dots; cavity medium, abrupt, irregular; stem stout and rather long; core very small; seeds few; flesh almost white, fine grained, buttery, melting, lacks the grit so often found in pears; flavor sweet to mild sub-acid, rich and aromatic, juicy; quality very good; season, September in Idaho.
