AWFUL CALCULATION.—An ingenious, authentic and valuable ble statistical work published a few years since, calculates to the number of inhabitants who have lived on earth amount to about 36,627,613,275,075,546. This sum, the writer says, when divided by by 3,096,000, the number of square legues of land on the surface of tie globe, leaves 11,320,115, 272 persons to each square league. There are 27,864,000 square miles of land, which being divided as above, gives about 1,314,522,076 persons to each square mile. Let the miles be reduced to aquare rods, and the number he says will be 1,653,173,500,000, which being divided as above, gives 1283 inhabitants to each square rod, which rod being reduced to leet, and ditiving as above, it will give about 5 persons to each square foot of terra firms on the globe. Let the earth be supposed to be one vast burying-ground, and according be supposed to be one vest burying-ground, and according to the above statement there will be 1232 persons to be buried on each square rod; and a rod being capable of being divided into 12 graves, it apears that each grave must have contained 100 persons, as the whole earth have been one hundred times day over to bury its inhabbitants supposing they had been equally distributed.
