Local and Personal

N. L. Farley of Santa Clara spent Sunday with his brother A. J. Farley.

Claude Buttrick was in town over Sunday.

G. E. Farley was home from San Francisco from Saturday until Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Vaughn Lloyd and family of Sunnyvale spent Saturday and Sunday in Campbell.

Carpenter work by day or hour, odd jobs. Shop at Miracle's lumber yard. A. W. Adams.

Master Clarke Lawrence who spent last week with Mrs. A. J. Farley has returned to his home in Santa Clara.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Alison are staying temporarily with "Grandpa" Brown, while Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Brown are away on a short visit to Salinas.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Orr and son of Chicago returned home on Monday after a visit of two weeks at the home of Mr. Charles Townsend, a brother of Mrs. Orr.

C. H. Whitman has caught the modern idea in fitting up a series of bargain tables. They are attractive, made up of indispensable hardware articles, and above all cheap. See them.

Harry Weeks, who recently purchased the Neff interest in the blacksmith firm of Neff & Crisp, is now an active member of the firm and will be glad to be remembered by his old friends in the firm's line of work.

A recent question put to Normal students in San Jose was: Who are the five foremost educators of America of the male sex? Leave your answer at the Press Office. Its staff would like to be informed in this matter.

John P. Finley, for years the expert bookkeeper of the Pacific Manufacturing Company of Santa Clara and late of the Willows, having sold out his interests there, is now making his home with his aunt, Mrs. Benjamin Campbell.

Hear the Republican Candidates next Monday night.

The high school faculty or, at least Miss Catton and Mr. Snow, were busy Saturday forenoon last in renovating the tennis court on the "Womans" Club ground. They made it most inviting and as a result it is in excellent condition for use.

The ladies of the Congregational Church and their friends were most cordially entertained last Thursday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dunphy on the Los Gatos road. Mrs. Alexander, Mrs. Dunphy and Mrs. Merrill receiving. About fifty were present. This was the beginning of a series of socials to be held monthly.

Perry Vivian, a San Jose youth, was arrested in that town for bicycle riding on the side walk, by Constable Sharp and brought before Judge Farley. On his pleading ignorance and promising to observe Campbell rules, he was let off with a suspended sentence. Possibly it would not be amiss for Campbell riders to take notice.

Robert Nobles, delivery man for Sharp & Merrill, met with an accident last week on the Meridian road. He was coupling two wagon loads of hay when the horses backed and threw his head between the two leads, so that it was severely jammed. Fortunately for him the skull was not fractured, and under Dr. Blanchard's care he is able to be on duty again this week.

C. C. Rogsdale is now visiting his son-in-law A. J. Vogt. He comes from near Lincoln in Placer Co., of which he is an old time resident. Straight and hearty at an advanced age life is still young with him, for he is one of those pioneers who brought brawn and courage to this State and who thereby have helped to make it what it is. He is in love with Campbell and may yet be one of us.

Monday, the 26th, was the golden anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Irwin. Friends and relatives came from far and near to congratulate them. Their daughter Mrs. Alice Brown and their great grandson Tommy Johnston, came down from Pleasanton. Mr. and Albert Lurgen of San Jose called. A large number of congratulations arrived through the mail and many gifts were received.

Campbell avenue may not justly think it holds a monopoly of Campbell improvements. Central avenue has also put in a bid for favor. We note that C. B. Miracle has recently made the Thompson cottage which has bought and moved from Foote avenue, a building which one could scarcely recognize, so much is it improved with its added ample porch and its shining coat of fresh paint. C. E. Greene has also added a rear part to the old Butt's property and made it presentable with a fresh dressing of paint. Along with these is the old Schuyler house which W. W. Dunham moved to the east side of the street and which he also has materially improved.

Republican Candidates Will Speak in Campbell

On Monday evening, October 3d, the candidates of the Republican party will speak to the people of Campbell at the Odd Fellow hall. Everybody invited, ladies included.

A Good Position

Can be had by ambitious young men and ladies in the field "Wireless" or Railway telegraphy. Since the 8-hour law became effective, and since the Wireless companies are establishing stations throughout the country there is a great shortage of telegraphers. Positions pay beginners from $70 to $90 per month, with good chance of advancement. The National Telegraph Institute of Portland, Ore., operates six official institutes in America, under supervision of R. K. and Wireless Officials and places all graduates into positions. It will pay you to write them for full details.

366 DAYS IN PRISON

A Series of Articles on Experiences in Andersonville Prison by I. Preston, Who Was a Prisoner of War for Over a Year

Chapter VI

In writing this story there are many things that would not do to tell so I have passed many of them by and have tried to give facts as I saw them from time to time. One Sunday night two of the rebel sergeants were going over to the station to church so I asked them if they would let me go with them. They said, "Yes, but we must not let Captain Wirz know it, because it would make trouble." I was very glad to go for I had never heard a Confederate minister preach. I enjoyed the going out very much after being sick and confined in my narrow pen so long, but to say I enjoyed the prayer and sermon is another thing, for the prayer was delivered in a spirit of hatred and calling on God to destroy this great nation that had been founded and handed down to them, as well as us, by our forefathers. Take it all the way through it seemed to me a very strong tirade against what has proven to be right and just and the world has indorsed this idea, that all men shall, under the Constitution, be free. I remember Col. Noble who was in a small stockade out near the station wrote a letter home to his wife and headed it, "The Valley of Death. All letters had to be left unsealed so the old evil spirit could read them before sending them home, so the heading of this letter did not please this old tyrant and he burnt it and cursed the writer. He bound and gagged him four hours each day for four days besides taking what little he was furnished to eat away from him. He told me afterwards on our way home he bore it with patience as a brave and true soldier always does. Such treatment to our dear noble boys as that and so many other hateful things put upon brave and true men have left in me thoughts and remembrances that will ever remain. Not of hatred, for I do not hold that spirit against any of my fellow men, but always extend a spirit of forgiveness and forget, as far as possible.

A Message from our Country's dead

This willing tribute let me gladly lay,
In memory of our heroes slain
On battlefields, where blue and gray
Met in war's relentless train.
Beneath Virginia's soil they rest,
In phalanx orderly arrayed,
Like soldiers still, they breast to breast
Lie in each scarred historic plain.
The flowers—"God's Smiles"—have come to bloom
Once more, nor do they come in vain.
But help to lift the old gloom
That once hung o'er the hearts of those
Who look upon these mounds so still,
And shades of our honored dead,
As is surged at the monster's will,
Have these martyred forms no voice to speak?
Yes—I will try to hear,
Then take their whispers to some lofty peak
And herald them both far and near.
There is peace, yes peace, with the dead they say,
Shall the living mourn the strife,
And the heroes who wore neither blue nor gray
Impair the nation's life?
Was there battle not bravely fought and won,
And our blood was it shed in vain,
That the heroes born since the war was done
Should fear it all over again?
I have to cry must for the nation's good,
There are causes many and just,
Which call not for the patriot's blood
Nor the soldier's death thro' trust;
But which loudly call for courage stern,
To war against wrong in any form.
Where a noble zeal may brightly burn
In conflict with its sullen swarms;
For higher than all war's proudest gates
The peerless heights of victory rise,
Of patriot, and change the walls
Of your Country's woes to joyful cries.
So secure they speak to my spirit today,
These shades of our honored dead,
Oh, may their sons this message obey,
And pathways of true glory tread.

Our stay in that awful den is nearly ended and we are ordered to prepare for home: If you will come with me, I will try to tell of the home trip.

On the 22nd of March, 1865, five hundred of New York State and Pa. prisoners of war were taken out and taken to the depot and were put on parole. We were loaded like so much cattle in old filthy freight and flat cars with no seats or places to lie down. We first said goodby to that old evil spirit. He said good by with an oath, and to me, "Don't come back here any more." This was the last time I saw him, and afterwards he was hung at Washington, D. C., for the murder of four of our boys there in the prison. At 4 o'clock our train moved out, for just where, we did not know but the next morning we came to a large river. Here we stopped a long time and I took a good wash in the pure water which was refreshing. We moved on and the next morning we were in the city of Montgomery, the first capitol of the Confederacy. From there we went across country to the Tombigbee River; on a boat four miles down to the end of the Jackson and Meridian Railroad; from there to Jackson, the capitol of Miss. Reaching there the next night we lay on the ground all night. One pint of shorts was issued to each man to last two days. At this time we would and did go into our lines at the big Black River, 12 miles out from Vixburg, Miss. There we were given good coffee and hard tack, the first we had received for a year. Oh, how good it did taste to us poor starved boys. We soon were on the clean, nice cars and ran down eight miles to the parole camp where tents were up ready for us and plenty to eat and new clothes to take the place of the old rags we had on. We reached camp on the 1st day of April, '65, glad to be once more among our own people and friends and so near home. We remained here until the 21st, then went up the river on the "Bald Eagle" to St. Louis, Mo.; were there eight days when we went over to Cincinnati, Ohio, and from there to Annapolis. We stayed four days there then went to Baltimore and Philadelphia and New York City. As we came in sight of our home city and coming into the bay, all stood on the deck of that beautiful boat and sang the well known song, "Home again from a Foreign Shore."

HOME AGAIN

Home again, home again, from a foreign shore,
And oh, it fills my heart with joy;
To meet my friends once more,
Here I dropped the parting tear, to cross the ocean's foam.
But now I'm once again with those
Who kindly greet me home.

Happy hearts, happy hearts, with meae have
But oh, the friends I loved in youth,
Seemed happier to me
And if my guide should be the fate, which bids me
longer roam,
But death alone can break the tie
That binds my heart to home.

Musie sweet, music soft, lingers round the place,
That time cannot efface
Then give me but my homestead roof, I'll ask no more.

For I can live a happy life
With those I love at home
Home again, home again, from a foreign shore,
And oh, it fills my heart with joy,
To meet my friends once more.

As I looked about at the boys there was not a dry eye to be seen. We were happy to be home once more with peace declared, with no more hard marches to make, and no more battles to fight. But our hearts were saddened by the death of our noble president, Lincoln. Here my story will end and what took place later on will always be remembered by, Yours very truly,

I. PRESTON.

COAST HAPS AND MISHAPS OF THE WEEK

Recent Occurrences Along the Pacific Slope Related in Brief Items.

Paragraphs Selected With a View to Giving Busy Readers the News in a Nutshell.

Colusa.—Company B, Second Infantry, National Guard, stationed here, has been ordered mustered out.

Sacramento.—The Board of City Trustees instructed Mayor Beard and Chief of Police Ahern to see that gambling is stopped in Sacramento.

Stockton.—A man caught in the act of robbing the Southern Pacific railroad station at Firebaugh was shot dead by the agent, M. L. Reynolds.

Bellingham.—The steamer City of Pueblo, which ran aground near Dead Man's Point, was floated off at high tide without damage.

Sacramento.—Elmer L. Epperson fired two shots at Minnie Ray while she was walking on a crowded street. One bullet pierced her hand. Jealousy prompted the shooting.

San Jose.—The new San Jose State Normal School opened last week for the first time. It was pronounced by the faculty and experts to be the best normal school in the United States.

Reno.—Mrs. Grace Siegfried, daughter of the millionaire coal operator of Youngstown, Ohio, has been granted a divorce. Her husband, with whom she eloped, is said to be in an insane asylum.

Oakland.—Giovanni Bianchi, an Italian farmer of Santa Rosa, recently visited Oakland. He alleges that three gamblers, who were countrymen of his, swindled him out of his life's savings of $1100 in a game of barchi.

San Francisco.—Morris Meyerfeld Jr., president of the Orpheum circuit, has returned from Europe, bringing reports of an overwhelming sentiment in favor of San Francisco as the Panama exposition city in all the countries visited.

Sacramento.—After a struggle for existence covering a period of two years, Mrs. Mabel Hanson, a seamstress, was advised that her husband, Carl Hanson, who met with a tragic death in a mine accident near Nome, Alaska, had left her a fortune estimated at $25,000 to $30,000.

Reno.—It was expected that gambling would grow more active as the time neared when the anti-gambling law goes into effect, October 1st, but this activity does not seem to have developed. Scores of gamblers, boosters and hangers-on are leaving town, and there will be few of them left on October 1st.

Santa Rosa.—H. E. Brown, who 29 years ago was sentenced to be hanged and who was later reprieved and sentenced to San Quentin for life, was last week released from prison and immediately took his departure for Texas, here he has relatives. He is 71 years of age, and had been in the prison longer than any of the other inmates.

Oakland.—Though George Waters was 63 years of age when he died, his relatives estimate his loss at $50,000, and they are suing the Oakland Traction Company for this sum in damages, together with $1552 alleged to have been spent in treating injuries Waters received when he was thrown from a street car at Thirty-second and Magnolia streets September 31, 1909.

San Francisco.—The Globe Express Company has entered California, Nevada and Utah as a competitor of Wells, Fargo & Co., and for the first time in their existence San Francisco, Oakland, Stockton, Sacramento, Marysville and Oroville find themselves on the line of two express companies. The monopoly of 50 years of the Wells-Fargo Express Company has been broken.

San Francisco.—In a decision handed down, the Supreme Court decided that $14,000 was not too much compensation for the loss of a mother's care and a wife's devotion. That amount was given to Frank Valente and his children by a jury in Calaveras county as damages for the death of Mrs. Marie Valente, who was killed June 25, 1904, in an accident on the Sierra railway near Angels Camp. The railway company kept the damage suit vacillating between the Supreme and the Superior courts for six years.

FACT STRANGER THAN FICTION

Looking for Sock-Darning Jobs.

New York.—A woman signing herself Ida Hahn, 31, a widow, has written Deputy County Clerk Scully, at the Brooklyn marriage bureau, offering him $150 to find her a good, honest husband who does not drink, even a widower with a little girl or two. She says she is a good housekeeper and can cook and sew.

A woman has applied to Mayor Fitzgerald of Boston for the position of life-mate to a Colorado miner who had appealed to the mayor. She says her name is May Carleton, a blonde, good looking, 31, stylish, knows how to keep house and is always up-to-date—a perfect gem of a wife.

Stole 1200-Pound Tombstone.

Thompson, Iowa.—A muscular as well as unique thief has appeared in this town, and he evidently is not afraid of ghosts, as he does his work in graveyards at night. His latest feat was stealing a gravestone weighing 1200 pounds and its base from the public cemetery, where it adorned the grave of Ole Peterson. It was a handsome piece of marble and what the vandal wanted with it is a mystery.

Fourteenth Attempt At Suicide Fails.

New Orleans.—Mrs. Caroline Simms, a pretty young widow of this city, who was alleged to have made 13 suicide attempts in two years, has just made the 14th—unsuccessful like the others. She has never tried the same method twice. The last attempt was with poison. Disappointment in love is the reason she gave.

Never Rode in a Car or Saw Circus.

Boston.—Although she had lived for half a century within sight of a railroad, Mrs. Mary Savage, dead at Montague City, Mass., at 88, has never been in a railroad car. She had never ridden in an electric car, either, had never attended a circus or a theater, and never been out of the State of Massachusetts.

Charters Airship for His Guests.

Paris.—Baron Rudolph Goldschmidt-Rothschild is the first person on record to charter an airship for his personal use. He has chartered the Zeppelin dirigible at $250 an hour. He wants it for the use of his picnic guests at Frankfort-on-the-Main and no limit has been placed on the time he may use it.

STATE FAIR FOR FIRST TIME PROVES A BIG MONEY-MAKER

Profits Will Pay Expenses of Agricultural Society for Coming Year.

Sacramento.—The State Fair this year netted the State Agricultural Society more than $6000 clear profit, which is an unequalled event in the history of State fairs in California, and enough to meet the expenses of the society for the ensuing year. The total expenses will aggregate about $40,000, while the receipts came to $46,055.30, being made up of $15,000 from the admission gate, one-half from grandstands, $6888.37, one-half from box seats, $775, concessions, $3391.93, State appropriation, $20,000. A little over $37,000 of the money taken in at the gate went to the Fiesta committee of the Dawn of Gold celebration, which brought the Cheyenne Wild West Show and Aviator Hamilton here. The directors decided to hold next year's fair from September 2d to 9th, taking in Labor Day and Admission Day. This date will not conflict with other State fairs of the West and makes it possible for a better harness meet.

Moving Pictures for Schools.

Oakland.—Under the supervision of Professor C. W. Childs, formerly president of the State Normal School at San Jose, a movement has been started for an exchange library of moving picture films for the use of the school departments of San Francisco, Oakland, Berkeley and Alameda.

Modern Fire Engines Needed.

Stockton.—The Coast Association of Underwriters having declared that the fire engines in Stockton are useless, the local Board of Police and Fire Commissioners have requested the San Francisco department to loan an engine for 90 days until new apparatus can be secured.

Counterfeit Notes in Circulation.

San Francisco.—Counterfeit $10 national bank notes are being circulated in this city. The spurious paper is a very clever imitation of the notes issued by the Bank of Pasadena.

Rains End Forest Fire.

Weaverville.—Rains in the higher altitudes have extinguished all fires in the Trinity national forest.

Noose Dangles Before Doctor Who Caused Girl's Death

San Francisco.—The body of Eva Swan, a school teacher of Paso Robles, burned with two gallons of nitric acid and decomposed from six months' interment, was dug from under the cement floor of an alleyway of the house at 327 Eureka street by detectives, and Dr. James Grant, who is also known as Dr. Thompson, an alleged illegal practitioner with offices at 1293 Golden Gate avenue, was lodged in the city prison and charged with having caused the young woman's death and of having, with the assistance of Willie Saacke, his office boy, removed the corpse in a trunk to Eureka street and buried it.

With Dr. Grant in prison is his nurse, Marie Messerschmidt, who told all the details of the hideous crime. Saacke is being sought for by the police.

Miss Swan was a graduate of the Paso Robles high school and later a school teacher, having served in that capacity in several parts of the State. During her school days she met and fell in love with Homer Hatch, a well-to-do young rancher of the vicinity, who is said to have returned her affections. In any event he is known to have visited her in the different towns in which she was engaged in teaching and later in this city.

Another friend was Paul P. Parker, a young man who had known the dead girl for years and who lived in the Ware household where she roomed. Parker, according to letters written by relatives of the girl, was her most intimate friend in San Francisco.

Miss Messerschmidt expressed her belief that Paul P. Parker, the Stanford athlete and magazine writer, was responsible for the young woman's condition. Parker was an associate editor of the Pacific Rural Press, and made a specialty of agricultural subjects.

No sooner had the nurse's statement been made than Detective Burke hastened to Parker's room at 2040 Scott street and placed him under arrest. The young Stanford athlete occupies a particularly vile position in connection with the death of Eva Swan, but not so vile as the part he played in her life. He and his attorneys, who have long suspected that a foul murder had been committed, are bitterly condemned by the police for their silence, their denials and their obstructions to the solution and exposure of a horrid crime.

Parker admitted, after his arrest, that he knew of the condition of Eva Swan, knew she had visited Dr. Thompson, alias Grant, visited her himself at Dr. Thompson's office and long suspected that the physician had made away with the body. He expressed ignorance as to who was responsible for her condition.

"Parker's case is different from that of Dr. Thompson," said one of the detectives. "Thompson is likely to be charged with a grave felony, and he nor his attorneys can be censured for trying to obstruct the investigation of this crime. But the worst that Parker could ever have been charged with was vagrancy for his mode of life with the woman. This despicable man, who has the education and refinement of a gentleman, had rather see the death of the fair girl that loved him go unpunished than that his name should be associated with the investigation."

Early this year Miss Swan came to San Francisco, where she took up the study of stenography, as she remarked she could not bear the strain of being on her feet, as her teaching duties required. She finally secured a position with a firm in the Monadnock building. At that time she was rooming with Mrs. Carrie A. Ware, at 2040 Scott street.

The last day that Miss Swan appeared at her office for work was on April 20th, when she seemed pale and distressed. In the midst of her labors she snapped her desk shut, threw her keys on her employer's table and said: "I can't stand this any longer!" She then passed into the corridor with her hat and coat in her hand.

Stripped of a mass of details and gruesome circumstances, the main facts of the tragedy are:

Eva Swan sought Dr. Grant to have an operation performed that would save her from the consequences of indiscretion. Dr. Grant, the police have information, attempted to perform an illegal operation. The girl died on his operating table. To shield himself from the effects of this calamity, Dr. Grant packed the body of the girl in a trunk. Grant and Saacke rented the house at 327 Eureka street and carried the trunk there under cover of night. The two men lived in the cottage for a month and a day. During that time they tore up a section of the wood flooring of the basement. Where it had been they dug a shallow hole, throwing the earth they removed into a pile outside. When the hole was dug they saturated the earth with nitric acid. Then they took the body of the girl from the trunk, wrapped it in a blanket and flung it into the hole. They covered it with loose earth and poured in more nitric acid. Then over the grave they had dug they built a cement floor four inches thick.

In the cellar, in the dead of night, they made their own cement. When all was done they remained in the cottage, giving the cement time to settle. Then they packed their belongings and left. The doctor went calmly back to his work and his patients. Willie Saacke, the boy who had aided him, did not go back with the doctor. He had had enough of the gruesome work.

Shortly after this Saacke left the doctor's employ. He was succeeded by a friend named Ben Gordon, to whom he confided the details of the death and burial of the girl. Gordon worked for the doctor a few weeks and when he left was unable to collect all the wages due him. Smarting under the doctor's refusal to pay him, Gordon told the police department all he knew, and the finding of the body and the arrest of the doctor and nurse followed.

Convict Offers Himself as Test For Bovine Tuberculosis

Muncie, Ind.—Great interest is taken in this State in the announced plan of pardoning a convict under sentence for life who is willing to take the chance of inoculation for bovine tuberculosis. The experiment would be made in the interest of science.

Physicians say as they would be on the watch for the disease they could detect it at its first inception and probably cure it. Governor Marshall likes the suggestion, but doubts the legality of offering pardon on that condition and is averse to taking the responsibility on his own initiative.

The doctors will try to remove his scruples by getting a judicial opinion and reinforcing it by public petitions. It is a mooted question whether human beings can contract the disease from the milk or meat of cows afflicted with it.

Glove Factory is Forced Out of Alaska by Game Law

Tacoma, Wash.—A cable from Juneau says a glove factory established there more than a year ago has gone out of business. When the company first began operations it purchased great quantities of deer skins from the natives and made them into gloves. The Government then refused to allow the gloves to be shipped out of Alaska on the ground that it would be in violation of the game laws, and for more than six months the matter has been before the Washington officials for a modification which would permit the factory to sell its product. Recently all hope of having the department remove the ban was abandoned, and last week the machinery was shipped to Vancouver, where the owners say they will establish themselves.

Cherry Tree in Colusa Upsets Nature's Ancient Rule

Colusa.—A cherry tree that blossoms in September and yields fruit in December is growing in this city in the yard of John Osterle's home. It is now in full bloom and about Christmas time Osterle expects to harvest a crop of cherries of good quality. This tree looks like any other cherry tree, but has reversed the seasons. Ordinarily it should bloom in February or March and yield ripe fruit in April or May.

It is several years old and has borne fruit three winters. Its cherries are of good size and flavor, but the yield is not as heavy as on ordinary cherry trees.

WATSONVILLE MAKING READY FOR ELABORATE APPLE SHOW

Program Arranged for Big Carnival to Accompany Display of Fruit.

Watsonville.—The annual Watsonville Apple Show, one of the most important events of the season in the central California fruit belt, will open on Sunday, October 9th, and preparations for the affair are rapidly nearing completion. An elaborate programme, to extend over seven days, has been arranged, and the activity of those in charge of the affair indicates that the show this year will far surpass previous events.

The opening day will be devoted to a religious harvest festival. Services will be held in all the churches during the morning, and a union service will be given by all of the churches on the plaza in the afternoon.

Monday, October 10th, will be the Governor's day, the feature of which will be a grand parade. The formal opening of the apple show takes place in the evening, at which time Governor Gillett and Mayor Walters will speak. Tuesday will be schools' day, Wednesday Panama-Pacific day, Thursday will be homecoming and sight-seeing day, Friday will be devoted to a grand pageant and Saturday will be automobile day.

PORTER CHARLTON INSANE VERDICT OF MEDICAL MEN

If Decision is Accepted Murderer May Escape Italian Justice.

Jersey City, N. J.—Porter Charlton, who, by his own confession, is guilty of the murder of his wife, Mary Scott Charlton, at Lake Como, Italy, last June, has been declared by a board of alienists to be "of depraved mental organization and a victim of constitutional inferiority." They recommend that he be indefinitely confined in a hospital for the insane, as he is likely to become a further menace to society. If this is done Italy will probably relinquish all claim to Charlton. The alienists venture the opinion that the murder was committed while Charlton was suffering from an epileptic seizure.

Killed While Cranking Auto.

Prosser, Wash.—C. Wilder, a photographer, was killed in the street by his own automobile while he was cranking the machine. The car seems to have jumped upon its victim, entangled him in the machinery, rolled him and mangled him and then stopped. Many people were passing along the street and noticed nothing peculiar. Even those who saw the man's feet protruding from beneath the car thought he was at work making repairs.

Maybe He's Right, Too.

Washington.—"Who is President of the United States?" asked Judge Mul-lowney of William Thomas, a jail prisoner who was being examined by a lunacy jury.

"Deed, Jedge, Ah doan rightly know. They say they's two of 'em—one's Mr. Taft and the other's Teddy," was the prisoner's reply.

"Not guilty," was the verdict.

May Insure in Mutual Companies.

Fresno.—The School Trustees of Fresno county may insure their school buildings in mutual insurance companies and the County Superintendent of Schools must honor all warrants for money to pay premiums on policies in mutual companies, according to an opinion handed down by Attorney-General U. S. Webb.

Green Alfalfa Fatal to Sheep.

Alturas.—Two hundred and fifty sheep belonging to the Nevada Packing Company are dead as a result of eating green alfalfa. The sheep were in charge of a youth who had been warned against letting them into the alfalfa, but the sheep got away from him and ate their fill.

New Road Hustling for Business.

Sacramento.—The Western Pacific has announced a seven-day service between here and Chicago for canned and dried fruits, which lowers the new schedule of the Southern Pacific by one day, showing how close the competition is developing between the new and old railroads.

Spider in Her Ear.

San Francisco.—Mrs. Catherine Kashevaroff, 2201 Van Ness avenue, went to the Central Emergency Hospital with a big, black spider in her ear, which had caused her great pain. It had crawled into her ear while she was asleep. She was quickly relieved.

Labor Opposed to Prohibition.

Jefferson City, Mo.—The State Federation of Labor went on record here as being opposed to State-wide prohibition.

WORLD'S NEWS OF THE WEEK SUMMARIZED

Adventures of the Children of Mother Earth Related in Condensed Form.

Comprehensive Review of Passing Events in Every Quarter of the Terrestrial Globe.

Rome.—The cholera continues to spread in the southeastern part of Italy.

Berlin.—The German Government has decided definitely to abandon the Zeppelin airships and confine its whole attention to aeroplanes.

Washington.—The Interstate Commerce Commission has suspended the proposed freight rate increase of middle western roads to January 5, 1911.

Webb City, Mo.—Mevil Tudor, aged six, was shot and instantly killed by Carson McMichen, aged five. Carson said they were playing they were hunting in Africa and he was Roosevelt.

Naples.—The police are searching for Timothy Sheckly, who is said to have escaped to Italy from the United States, where he had been sentenced to 30 years imprisonment at hard labor.

Vienna.—Josef Kainz, the German dramatic actor, is dead. He was born in 1858 and made his first appearance on the stage when he was 16 years of age. He had toured the larger cities of America.

Chicago.—The Great Lakes ought to be good places to fish next year. Over 4,000,000,000 white fish, perch and trout will be released into the waters of the lakes from the Government hatcheries at that time.

Madrid.—Violent storms, accompanied by deluges of rain, have done inestimable damage to the vineyards and olive orchards in southern Spain. Eight villages, including Lorca and Ciza, are under water from three to six feet deep.

Washington.—Last season's catch of 12,920 seals off the Pribiloff islands, according to an estimate made by Commissioner Bowers, will net the United States $500,000. Last season's catch was made under the supervision of the Department of Commerce and Labor.

Havana.—Forty-five divers under Chief Herdone McDurham are working on the Maine. Several bodies have been found in the cabin. The hull lies in mud six feet deep. The Government Commissioners maintain a strict secrecy about all matters relating to the Maine.

Des Moines, Ioa.—A handsome chanciere hat was almost destroyed and its wearer, Miss Lucy Livingstone, was severely injured about the face when a big cat, which had been hiding in a tree overhead, leaped upon her with the evident intention of eating the rooster on the hat.

New York.—Almost $50,000 worth of life, casualty and automobile insurance carried by Allen A. Ryan, son of the financier, has been cancelled by various large insurance companies because young Ryan is the active head of the organization which is to hold the aviation meet at Belmont Park.

New York.—A curious and interesting specimen of the fine work of a famous old American engraver, A. W. Overbaugh, has just come to light in a little Staten Island town. The relic is an ancient gold dollar, in the center of which, in a circle one-sixth of an inch in diameter, Overbaugh engraved the Lord's Prayer.

Atlanta, Ga.—The Grand Sovereign Lodge of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows elected the following officers: Grand Sir, John B. Cockrum, Indianapolis; Deputy Grand Sir, C. A. Kelly, San Antonio, Texas; Grand Secretary, John B. Goodwin, Baltimore, re-elected; Grand Treasurer, M. Richards Muckle, Philadelphia, re-elected.

Fort Leavenworth, Kas.—Every cat on the Fort Leavenworth reservation must leave or suffer the death penalty, by order of General Funston. The order also curtails the liberties of any dogs that may conclude to remain at the Fort. The order was prompted by the fact that a dog, with rabies recently bit an officer and then a cat developed the same disease.

New York.—British sportsmen have decided to come to America again next year to have another try for the British international trophy for motor boats. The contest will be under slightly changed conditions, one of the changes being that the match shall be decided by the winning of two out of three races instead of just one. On both sides new and faster boats will be built for the contest.

Bull Baiting.

Although bull baiting was a cruel pastime, it was also a fulfilling of the law, for formerly no butcher was allowed to offer for sale the flesh of any bull that had not been baited. The goading of the animal in a fury was supposed to have some influence on the flesh. In a similar belief the flesh of a hunted hare was thought to be superior in flavor to that of one that had been shot, and a present of "a hunted hare" was considered to be a special compliment. In the records of the corporation of Leicester, England, the following order appears: "At a common hall, held on Thursday before St. Simon and St. Jude, 1467, 'no butcher to kill a bull till baited.'" At Winchester it was ordered (reign of Henry VIII.) "that from henceforth there shall be no bul-stake set before any mayor's door to bayte any bull, but onlie at the bull-ringe within the saide cytie."

Gender of the Sword.

Among the many curious notions obtaining among the different races using the sword may be noted the gender of the weapon. In the north of Europe it was either masculine, as in Britain, or neuter, as in Germany, while in the south it was uniformly feminine. Its force and cruelty appealed to the northern mind. Its grace and elegance attracted the warriors of the sunny south. It typified to the one strength, to the other dignity.

WONDERFUL THE ANT.

Insects Capable of Keeping Cattle and Entertaining Guests.

Slave kidnaping raids are made by the Amazon ant upon the workers of other nests to compel them to work for their own community, says the Chicago Tribune. An advance of scouts always precedes the storming of a castle. A small vanguard of a few individuals makes the preliminary assault to draw brown garden ants forth from their nests. Then the main body of invaders rushes into the inner recesses, to emerge again each one with a worker pupa in its jaws. An orderly retreat is made to their own quarters, where the kidnaped workers finally emerge into a state of utter slavery, for they have to perform the whole work of the red ants' nest.

They build the passages, make the repairs and care for the pupae. All ants keep cattle in the shape of the aphides, which they carefully tend and draw a supply of milky fluid from. The working ants, whether of their own or of another species, always are in slavery. Guests frequently are entertained, certain beetles being always found in their nests, where they apparently serve no useful purpose, but are fed by their hosts with liberal hospitality.

The large horse ant allows a smaller species to occupy its home. And a species known as the lasius maintains in its nest a curious lobster-like creature which frequently seems to reward its hosts by stealing food from out of their mouths and then beating a hasty retreat. The lasius appears to be remarkable for its kindness to uninvited guests, for it treats with wonderful toleration certain mites which it carries about in its body, feeding and tending them most carefully and for no known purpose.

How to Carry Books.

Almost all school children carry their books with a strap put around and buckled very tight. This will make dents in the cover where the board overlaps the body of the book. If the strap is left loose the books are liable to slip out. Place the cover of one book between the cover and flyleaf of its neighbor and the difficulty will be remedied. This will place the books in alternate directions. Books stacked in this manner do not require the strap buckled tight, or they can be carried without any strap just as well.—Popular Mechanics.

The Coming Aerial Engine.

The aerial gasoline engine of the future, it is predicted, will be built on standard lines, lightened where metal can be saved without loss of strength, instead of the present featherweight motor.

"Grandpa" Brown Celebrates 85th Birthday

Sept. 28.—Last Thursday, September 22, was a happy day at the home of J. W. Brown, or "Grandpa" Brown, as he is called. At noon four generations sat down to dinner, his children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren, 16 in all. After dinner all had gathered in his room to read congratulations which had come to him by mail for this, his 85th birthday, when company was announced. The afternoon proved to be a pleasant one. Friends came from Campbell and San Jose, old, middle-aged and young, and all had a store of congratulations and good wishes for "Grandpa." He says this 85th birthday was one of the happiest of his life. Letters and cards came from 11 different States, one from a former pastor now in South Carolina, and another from a former pastor now in New York. All of these cards and letters were reminders of by-gone days of friendship; some were very tender and spoke of sorrows and bereavements that come to all sooner or later; some were reminders of favors that had done young hearts good. "Grandpa" wants to thank all his friends for such a happy day.

It Never Rains But It Pours

We gave a list the other day, of books recently purchased for the Campbell Free Library. It is now a pleasure to record the fact that the library has received ninety volumes of valuable books from the library of the late Judge Myrick. The most important of these are listed below: Johnson's cyclopedia, in 4 huge volumes. Fronde's History of England, 4 volumes. Macaulay's History of England and Miscellanies, 10 volumes. Motley's Works, 9 volumes. Prescott's Works, 7 volumes, which completes our set. Green's History of the English People, 4 volumes. Mommsen's History of Rome, 4 volumes. McCarty's Our Own Times, 3 volumes. Fiske's Colonial Histories, 4 volumes. Perkins' Louis XV, etc., 3 volumes. Epochs of History, 4 volumes. These are all the more welcome because we have never had money enough to purchase any large or expensive sets of books. E. Janes, Librarian.

Freshmen Reception

The first event of the High School social life for the year was certainly a jolly one. The programme in the hands of Ada Collins, Mary Clark, and Russell Downing was very original.

It was as follows:
Selection.....Orchestra
Initiation of the Freshmen by the Witches
.....Mary Clark and Ada Collins
Selection.....Orchestra
Dialogue, Ada Collins and Lloyd Gardner
Character Song.....Vaudine Putman
The Ideal Freshmen and Senior Classes.
Piano Duet.....Anna Hagelin and Esther Smith.
Insomnia.....Roy Thompson, Esther Smith, Dorothea Smith.
Sola, The Lullaby.....Muriel Palmer
Selection.....Orchestra
The Initiation of the Freshmen by the Witches Mary Clark and Ada Collins, was a very weird and laughable sketch. The witches dressed in flowing black robes took from a large black caldron the fates of the class of 1914.
The refreshment committee, Lloyd Macy, Beth Kennedy and Muriel Palmer must have worked hard for the banquet which was served in the latter part of the evening was a most enjoyable one. The tables were the whole length of the hall which was appropriately decorated in green crepe paper and ferns. Mr. Snow as toast master, called forth many original and humorous toasts to the Freshmen.

Moved to Santa Clara

The Raising of Rice.

The cultivation of rice extends back into the dim past, and there are no authentic records as to when it first began. Evidence points, however, to the Chinese having been among the earliest people to cultivate it, and such great value was attached to it that in the annual ceremonial sowing of important plants inaugurated by the Emperor Chinnong so far back in the past as 2800 B. C. the rice had to be sown only by the emperor himself, while the four other plants of the ceremony might be sown by the princes of his family. In India rice has been cultivated from time immemorial. It was introduced at an early period into Syria, Egypt and other parts of northern Africa. In more modern times rice has been sown in Spain, France and Italy, the first cultivation in the last named country being stated to have been near Pisa in 1468. The plant is believed to have been introduced into America in 1647, when Sir William Berkeley raised a crop of sixteen bushels from half a bushel of seed.

RICHMOND

WHY?

The Standard Oil Co., The Pullman Car Company., The Southern Pacific R. R. Co., and Santa Fe R. R. Co., have invested over Thirty Million of Dollars ($30,000,000.00) since 1900. SOME OF THE OTHERS: Associated Oil Co., Berkeley Steel Works, California Wine Association (largest Winery in the world), Great Western Brick Co., California Cap Co., Central Brick Co., East Shore Railway (35 miles of street railway), Healy & Tibbitts Quarry Co., Standard Can Factory, San Pablo Quarry Co., Los Angeles Brick Co., The Western Pipe & Steel Co., Stove Foundry, Richmond Furniture Factory, Metropolitan Cap Factory, United States Briquetts Co., Richmond Lumber Co., Compressed Asphalt Brick Co., Tilden & Eakle Lumber Co., Shaw-Harrington Gas Engine Co., Richmond Cut Stone Factory, Pacific Porcelain Ware Co., The Western Pole & Piling Co., California Chair Co., Arctic Oil Co., and more than twenty other industries too numerous to enumerate. NEW FACTORIES COMING IN ALL THE TIME!

WHY? Because Richmond has advantages not equalled in California—14 miles on deep water front—RICHMOND is the outlet of the great California Oil Fields, making fuel at the very lowest cost for factory, railroad and steamship purposes. Being the terminus of the pipe lines from California's oil fields Richmond becomes the basing point from which prices are regulated. In proportion as the distance increases or diminishes from Richmond, the price of fuel oil must fluctuate. Our entire navy is now being supplied from this source. TWENTY-FIVE MILLION DOLLARS of improvements projected for the next eighteen months.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA ENDORSES BOND ISSUE

Editors a Unit in Declaring 1915 Fair Will Benefit Whole State.

All doubts as to the attitude of southern California toward the success of the Panama-Pacific Exposition have been removed. The newspaper editors of the southland recently assembled at Santa Barbara and unanimously adopted resolutions calling upon the press of the entire State and the Pacific Coast to co-operate in bringing the great exposition to San Francisco. The benefit the whole State would derive from the exposition was the keynote of the speakers' remarks and the proposal to impose a tax of $5,000,000 was heartily endorsed.

From Hollister to San Diego the delegates came in response to the hurried call issued by President C. E. Jones of Lancaster, president of the Southern California Editorial Association, who abandoned his editorial desk to make all necessary arrangements for the meeting. Representatives of sixty papers were in attendance, and the gathering was declared more truly representative than any the association has ever held.

The San Francisco delegation, which included James McNab, Frank L. Brown, S. Fred Hogue, and Albert Lindley, was assisted in entertainment of the delegates by D. C. Collier, director general of the San Diego exposition, and J. W. Sefton Jr., also of San Diego.

James McNab of San Francisco and D. C. Collier of San Diego were called upon to explain the necessity for the State tax, and both took occasion to point out the splendid opportunity of uniting all California interests and all sections in the work of State exploitation.

Frank L. Brown, in a lengthy address, called attention to the character of the men who were handling the exposition; to the safeguards which surrounded the funds and to the sacrifices already made by the directors. "We are trustees of this exposition for the State of California, as California is the trustee for the United States, and as the United States is the trustee for the world at large," he said. "We know that the State will be judged abroad by the character of this exposition, and as Californians we have accepted the responsibility involved. We mean that every tax payer from San Diego to Siskiyou shall consider himself a stockholder in this enterprise."

Some of the speakers were G. A. Barry of the Monrovia News, C. J. McDevitt of the Randsburg Miner, John S. McGroarty of the Los Angeles Times, Andrew Park of the California Independent, J. W. Sefton Jr. of San Diego, Henley C. Booth and Senator L. H. Roseberry of Santa Barbara, Albert Lindley of San Francisco.

San Francisco.—W. B. Knickerbocker, a manufacturer of tiles and concrete at Jackson and Detroit, Mich., is inspired with the sight of the rebuilt San Francisco and intensely interested in the whole West. He has been up and down the Coast from Vancouver, B. C., to Los Angeles, with a view to establishing large distributing agencies for his product and later to establish a factory here. He sees great opportunities in California for manufacturers and says that if the people of the East could only be induced to come out here and see for themselves the vast country awaiting development that millions would be spent. He believes that if the Congressmen are given the proper glimpse of things as they exist here, if they could be brought here to see the country they would vote solid for San Francisco when the exposition matter comes before them next December.

"It is a human instinct to move westward," said Knickerbocker, "and the great movement toward Western America is just now beginning. This is a great, marvelous, new country of which we in the East know next to nothing.

"The great travel is out here now, and soon the news of what this country really is will be carried back and understood. We have just begun to hear about the exposition in the East and not enough interest is taken in the subject. The people should be stirred up to take action and this can best be done by telling them what is here and the opportunities that are lying in wait for them.

"There is no travel South. The exposition belongs here where the people are coming. They will come to the exposition through the canal and then go back through this marvelous Western country. Many, however, impressed by the marvelous resources of California, will remain here for good. This scenery, the mountains, the forests and all the rest of it is not approached by anything in Europe. Thousands of people who now go to Europe would rather come here if they knew what is here. They are beginning to learn. The exposition will do wonders for the West. The interest of the country at large demands that the exposition be held here."

Resourceful.
"So you run your own motor car?"
"Certainly," answered Mr. Chuggins. "Would not think of trusting its delicate mechanism to a chauffeur."

"Yes. Push her up to the side of the road and telephone to the repair shop."—Washington Star.

The petroleum industry of the United States has increased eightfold in the last thirty years, quadrupled in the last twenty years, and more than trebled in the last decade.

Fifteen million gallons of water a day are pumped from the mines of Leadville, Col., and it is estimated that 28.5 tons of water are raised for every ton of ore mined.

Tantalum, the mineral which would play an important part in incandescent lighting if it were more plentiful, has a greater specific gravity than gold or platinum.

History Rewritten.
With much reluctance King George III. had decided to let his American colonies go.
"Mark my words, though," he said, "they'll be governed some day by a monarch ten times as absolute and despotic as I am!"

Serving His Sentence.
"I ain't seen de boss man fer de longest. Whar you reckon he gone ter?" "I thought you knowed whar he gone. He went round de country talkin' ever' day an' Sunday, an' de fust thing he knowed dey give him fifty days in de legislatur' an' he won't be back 'twel he serves his time out."—Atlanta Constitution.

AUTO GOSSIP

San Francisco.—"That the use of automobiles in the country relative to their use in the city is decidedly on the increase is shown," says H. D. McCoy, secretary of the Chanslor & Lyon Motor Supply Company, "by the increasing country demand for auto supplies over that shown in the city. This is particularly noticeable throughout the extensive agricultural sections of the State. Here every little town that acts as a distributing center for the outlying country is supporting substantial motor car accessory and supply stores, many of which are entirely independent of connection with concerns of general mercantile character.

"All these stores are flourishing, and many have developed from modest beginnings into establishments of no inconsiderable volume. The most natural supposition is that where the automobile supplies are selling the automobile must be used.

"Another indication of the big country business is the sales force that every wholesale automobile supply house is finding it necessary to keep in service caring for the out-of-town trade. A few years ago these same houses kept their salesmen employed exclusively in the city with the exception of occasional trips to which little importance was attached, made now and then into the outlying districts. To-day, however, the real hustling on the part of the salesmen is being evidenced to best advantage in the country sections."

San Francisco.—Victories are coming in a steady stream during the past few months to the Bosch magneto, and hardly a week goes by that Manager Henry Brinkmann of the local branch is not receiving congratulations. Beginning with the Cobe race, in which the Bosch system equipped the winning Marmon car, it has been a serial story of successes. The Atlanta Speedway trophy, the Wheeler & Schebler trophy, the Wheatley Hills-Vanderbilt trophy and many other cups have been gathered in with the assistance of the Bosch magneto. The Chalmers car, which was awarded the Glidden trophy, was also aided by its Bosch equipment, as was the Premier car, which won fourth place.

The latest success of the Bosch system was the victory of the Stearns car in the twenty-four-hour race at Brighton Beach, where a new record was established for the twice-around-the-clock grind. The time made established a world's record, proving the efficiency, power and endurance of the Bosch system.

San Francisco.—Speaking of business in the automobile line, H. L. Owsney, manager of the Winton Motor Car Company's branch here, said that never before has there been such a demand for the Winton product as at this time. The factory has notified him that their orders for toy tonneau cars alone at this time exceeded their previously contemplated output of this type for the entire year and that for a short time the entire body working force of the Winton factory would devote its time to the getting out of toy tonneau bodies exclusively. All Winton top tonneau cars this year are standard four-door equipment of the straight-line design, with a slight increase in the tonneau space.

San Francisco.—Hugo Muller, president of the Hugo Muller Auto Company, declares that present indications point toward an active fall trade in the local motor car business. "Never," said he, "have I seen such encouraging indications as are now showing themselves in connection with the local automobile trade. People who have secluded themselves in country resorts during the summer are returning to town, and with their return there has come a renewed interest in motor cars, and everybody seems to be out automobile shopping.

"The activity, however, is not limited to the city, but increasing numbers of inquiries are coming in from all sections of the State. This, I think, is generally the condition found all along automobile row. We, in common with other dealers, are making preparations for a big business this coming year."

San Francisco.—A. J. Smith, the agent for the Elmore cars, at the present time is one of the busiest men on the row. In speaking of the business that he has done since the arrival of the 1911 model he said: "In all of my eight years of experience in selling automobiles I have never before seen such interest displayed in a new model as has been displayed in the new high duty Elmore. I feel safe in saying it is not going to be a case of getting enough customers to take my allotment, but to get enough cars to fill the demand. This is going to be one of the greatest selling years ever known in the automobile trade."

San Francisco.—The Pioneer Automobile Company, agents for the Hudson automobile, are in receipt of advice to the effect that Richard Bacon Jr. and P. B. Stubbs, known to many of the automobile trade in the services of other companies, are members of the Hudson sales staff.

Sugar Instead of Alcohol.

Indeed, the role and importance of sugar as a rapid reliever of fatigue is one which we are only just beginning to appreciate, and which goes surprisingly far already. It has been incorporated into the most hard-headed, cold-blooded, matter-of-fact diet on earth, the German army rations, especially the "forced-march" emergency ration. No other food of its bulk can take its place. It is the belief of careful observers of men, particularly in the tropics, that the larger the amount of sugar and sugar-containing foods they are supplied with the less alcohol and other stimulants they will crave. For instance, the United States Government now buys the best and purest of candy by the ton, and ships it to the Philippines, to be supplied to the canteens and messes, finding that its use diminishes the craving for native brandy; and it has long been a matter of comment from thoughtful observers that the amount of drunkenness of a race or class is in inverse ratio to the amount of sugar it consumes.—From Success Magazine.

Mothers will find Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup the best remedy to use for their children during the teething period.

A Curious Trail.

All sorts of devices have been used to mark a line of march. A unique method of "blazing the trail" is still to be seen in Africa, and a recent publication prints a picture of one of these memorials of the dervish raid. Arthur J. Hayes mentions the subject in his "Source of the Blue Nile." In 1889, after a fierce battle with the Abyssinians, the dervishes pursued their foes as far as the lake district. The Mahdi's men had small knowledge of geography and little of topographical intelligence. So the advance party, in order to mark the route for those who came after, and also to guide the force on their return journey, twisted the saplings along the way into living knots.

The war ended, but the tied-up trees grew and flourished, but uncouthly twisted and distorted, and are now the only reminders of that uprising of the dervishes.

A PRACTICAL EDUCATION

By PROFESSOR J. FRED SMITH

The keen public interest in educational matters is one of the most hopeful signs of our day and generation. The great army of young men and women in the universities and the millions in our high schools show the attitude of the young people toward education and their deep sense of the greatness of their opportunity.

Great as the opportunities are, there is still a demand for more, and through this intense educational activity there is constantly sounding a cry for more practical subjects. The Universities have heard the cry and they offer entrance credits for almost every conceivable subject that can be taught in the high schools, from domestic science and agriculture to vocal music. High schools are hearing the cry and are offering courses in many forms of the industrial arts and are constantly increasing their electives. The modern high school course, even in a small city, offers a generous education when measured by the college standards of one hundred years ago.

The great danger is, always, that the emphasis on a new subject will work an injustice to the student by seeming to lessen the fundamental value of the old subjects. The purpose of this article is to point out a few matters of great importance in this direction.

First.—The student must take other subjects with his specialties. In addition to a grammar school education, in this day and generation he should acquire a knowledge of his mother tongue and its literature, an acquaintance with the outlines at least, of the history of his country and of the race, an elementary knowledge of one or more sciences, and a working grasp of geometry. The man or woman who enters life without these is badly handicapped and is constantly brought to the humiliating confession, "I didn't have much schooling when I was young."

Second.—The young man or woman who cannot master these subjects and enter heartily and joyously into the task in his home high school, must not expect to make a success of student life any where. The chemistry, the physics, the physical geography, the algebra, the geometry, the English, the history, the commercial branches, are practically the same in the high school as in the technical schools. He may succeed in a shop or factory or some great industry but he will not succeed in any school or university; and some day he will severely blame somebody for allowing him to lose to his early opportunities at home.

Third.—The high schools will provide technical courses just as fast as their local communities demand them. Within ten years the entire system of commercial departments has been developed in the high schools of this state; within still less time the industrial arts, sewing, cooking, shop work, etc. It costs no more to furnish a laboratory for agriculture than it does for physical geography or physics, and a manual training outfit would represent far less outlay than a good library. The old-time expenses are expected, and cause little comment, and the expenses of the new subjects will be met cheerfully just as soon as the community is convinced of their desirability. The adoption by the Stockton school board of an elaborate series of courses in agriculture in the high school is one of the greatest steps in this direction. We are glad to note, also, that several of the smaller high schools of the state are doing some definite work in this subject.

Fourth.—There is a very grave mistake made by many today in saying that our present subjects in the grades and high school are not practical. Is there anything more practical in our busy everyday life than the ability to read correctly and distinctly, either silently or "out loud"? Think of the blessedness of being able to handle the little commercial problems of the butcher and baker and dry goods and green goods! What joy to know automatically the multiplication table, and what a satisfaction there is in the ability to write quickly and legibly. California schools as a whole, excel in the teaching of penmanship; pupils as a rule, come to the high school well prepared in this subject. In reading and arithmetic there is often a sad deficiency. I recall a test of a freshman class on a simple example in multiplication; not one sent in the correct answer. We admit readily the utility of "the three Rs" because we use them so constantly, but in other things too many people are still looking for results of the same kind as the subjects taught; a crop of algebra from algebra seed, a crop of chemistry from a course in chemistry, etc. When they feed a sheep do they expect a crop of hay on its back, or a crop of oats from a good horse? They will tell you that they expect wool, and speed and work, etc. Very well, so also do the algebra and geometry and Latin and physics bring forth a crop of far better things than themselves; namely, human efficiency; intellectual truly, but very practical.

Dr. Elmer E. Brown U. S. Commissioner of Education, in a letter to our State Superintendent Hyatt concerning industrial and agricultural education says, "The leaders of American Education are, I think, standing as staunchly as ever for the cultivation in the schools of general intelligence, of spiritual insight, and of the virtues of patriotic citizenship. They still see what is everlastingly true, that any special skill must fail to have lasting value unless it is related to the things that make life worth living. But, on the other hand, our educational leaders are becoming tired of an education that does not eventually come down to the ground and prepare for some definite and solid work in the world that we live in."

The recent bulletin issue from the College of Agriculture of the University of California is most timely and interesting. The Press here adds in parenthesis, that through the courtesy of Mr. Snow, it has been supplied with a limited number of copies of this bulletin which it will be glad to hand out to its readers. In reviewing the bulletin the Press notes with pleasure the public interest which seems to be rapidly growing throughout the State in favor of agricultural course in our high schools of this science. Following is a list of schools which have already made it a part of their curricula: The Oxnard Union, the Imperial Union, and the Hanford high schools, which are giving practical courses under graduate professors of agriculture.

The Gardena, the Siskiyou County, the Vacaville Union, the Hollywood, the Ventura, and the Santa Cruz high schools are giving in correlation with its kindred sciences of botany, chemistry, and zoology. Directing and dominating the courses of all these schools are the Polytechnical School of San Luis Obispo, and the College of Agriculture of our State University. High schools adopting the courses prepared by these colleges make it possible for a student completing the same to have six units added to his credit on his collegiate course.

The recent Press editorial of Mr. Snow along this line was most timely and should appeal to Press readers as suggesting the crying need of such a course in the Campbell Union High School. Surely, a school which is belted with orchards should have a definite course of study along that line.

THE OCCIDENT AND ORIENT UNITE

In Buffalo Bill's Wild West and Pawnee Bill's Far East which Comes to San Jose, Oct. 10th

The interesting announcement is made that Buffalo Bill's Wild West and Pawnee Bill's Far East will exhibit as indicated above. A remarkable event is announced in the leave-taking from public life of the old scout, "Buffalo Bill," who is making a last bow to each city he now visits—a valedictory. Two vast enterprises are now allied under one management. The union of Buffalo Bill's Wild West with Pawnee Bill's Far East brings together two great factors in out-of-door entertainment. While, of course, the general style of the combined entertainment remains the same as when they were separate units in public amusement, there will be many features entirely new to this style of exhibition. The Far East contingent will be represented in an Oriental spectacle of great beauty and splendor; introducing many picturesque types which inhabit the romantic East. In this scene and as a particular feature, Rossi's Musical Elephants, imported at an expense of $1,000 per week, will introduce their remarkable exhibition; playing various musical instruments, dancing, and in other manners evidencing their remarkable sagacity and wonderful training. The chief scenic feature will be the Battle of Summit Springs, a reproduction of one of the deciding conflicts in Indian warfare; a battle in which Col. Cody participated and in which he shot and killed Chief Tall Bull. In "A Holiday at 'T-E' Ranch" will be pictured the pleasures and pastimes of the plainsman, cowboy sports and a dance upon the green.

The Grocer's Boy

It was Saturday and everybody was ordering all sorts of groceries, and all the grocers said "as quick as possible." The grocer's boy, John, began early and was told to hurry. The horse, not very young and always overworked, was hurried out of the stable before he had quite finished his breakfast, and John soon had the wagon loaded.

"Be lively," the grocer said, "get back as quick as you can," and John gave the horse a sharp cut with the whip just to begin the day with. John kept the whip in hand and used it frequently to keep the horse on the run; he felt very proud of himself as he flourished the whip, and he looked on both sides of the street to see if any of the boys could see him.

Rush orders. "I went to Mrs. Bell's twice this morning," said John to the grocer in the afternoon, "I should think she might give her order at one time, not piece-meal, keeping us running there all day." "Can't help it. Hurry up," said the grocer.

Once during the afternoon the thirsty horse, which had been given no water at noon because he was "so hot," tried to turn toward a watering trough, but John gave him another blow. Toward the close of the afternoon the horse began to hang his head, and when John tried the whip again he did not go any faster. When he stopped for the third time at Mrs. Bell's house, the horse's legs were trembling and he closed his eyes as if going to sleep.

Mrs. Bell looked out of the window and said, "I think it's a shame for Mr. Rush to let that boy race his horse so all day. Every time he came here the horse was in a sweat and now he looks as if he would drop. It's wicked to work a horse so." Her visitor replied, "Yes, the horses have to suffer for man's thoughtlessness, and woman's, too. He's been here three times today, hasn't he?" But Mrs. Bell didn't see the point of the reply.

It was seven o'clock before John put the horse in the stable; he gave him a big drink of cold water, which the horse drank greedily; then he gave him his supper. He did not rub the horse down, but hurried away for the night.

The horse died the next morning. John was discharged. Mrs. Bell stopped dealing with the grocer. All three together had killed the horse—the grocer—the woman—and the boy driver. Each could see that the others were to blame. Each failed to see his own cruelty.—California Humane Press Bureau.
